While in Longview and Kelso, Brother and Sister Velt proved to the Saints that they are real missionaries. They are filled with love for the people, and proved this by their untiring efforts in carrying to them the gospel plan. While here they almost doubled the membership of the group and left new hope and determination in the hearts of the members. They brought to nonmember families the desire to continue to investigate the latter-day work.

Pueblo, Colorado

Elder in Group Brings New Interest and Growth

The group of Saints at Pueblo has been rejoicing since Brother E. R. Darnell moved here. It has been almost four years since they had an elder with them, and Brother Darnell held a group of pre-Easter services, starting on Wednesday evening with prayer meeting and sermon. On Thursday evening they held a candlelight sacrament service. The Spirit was there in power. Brother Darnell continued the services until the evening of Easter Sunday.

Elder Glaude A. Smith, district president, was at Pueblo on Tuesday evening, delivering a wonderful message. He seemed to sum up all the good things that Brother Darnell had been teaching, and the members were greatly helped. Brother Smith appointed Brother Darnell as the group leader.

The former leader, Brother R. E. Ard with his family is moving to Mountain View, Missouri. They will be greatly missed, but the Saints pray that God will continue to bless them in their service to him.

Colorado Springs young people mo-

www.LatterDayTruth.org

tored to Pueblo for a social evening with the young people there the evening of April 29. Games and refreshments assured all of a good time.

These Saints have organized a class to study, "How to Teach Religion," Brother Darnell the teacher.

The church school is growing and much good is being gained by the devotional services. Brother S. R. Mapes is in charge of this department.

The Zion Boosters Class of women, under the leadership of Sister Daws is moving forward. They meet each Thursday afternoon for study, and the last Thursday evening of each month is given to recreation, a supper, a play, or just a get-together for young and old.

Sunday morning, May 7, Brother Darnell baptized three more candidates into the kingdom.

The Saints are looking for opportunities to help in establishing Zion in their hearts and homes and to make this city a better place in which to live.

London, Ontario

Good Leadership Insures Active Participation of All Church Groups

Church work and activities have been progressing in London Branch during the past weeks. Under the splendid leadership and counsel of Pastor John E. MacGregor and his counselors, Elders W. A. Hardey and J. Winegarden, a greater interest has been shown in all departments. Elder F. Gray, church school director, has increased the attendance at the Friday night and Sunday morning church school hours. The average attendance at these services is about one hundred and seventy-five on Sunday morning and sixty-five on Friday evening.

The regular services are well attended, more especially sacrament meetings, when practically all seats are occupied.

Bruce Edmund MacGregor was baptized by his father, April 16, and on May 7, Ronald James Armstrong was baptized by Elder F. Gray.

A large crowd heard Apostle D. T. Williams the evening of April 23, many nonmembers being present. All enjoyed the discussion. They were also glad to have Elder Percy Farrow here the following evening, and on the succeeding Sunday, May 7, he spoke to a large congregation on "Faith." Members of the young men's class had charge of this service, William A. Alford, Lincoln Rankin, and Orlo Dent assisting on the stand. The young men also occupied the choir loft and there was special music by the orchestra under the direction of Raymond Neal.

This class put on a very successful minstrel program two evenings. The church school room was filled both evenings and the various numbers were well received. The success of the affair is largely due to R. Bicknell, F. Heddington, W. Risler, A. Moore and Alfred Henry. The church school orchestra played several good selections and there were solos by a number of the class members.

London Saints had the privilege of enjoying a wonderful Easter service April 16. This was directed by Brother Fred Heddington. The choir presented the cantata, "Olivet to Calvary," by S. H. Maunder, which was preceded by a fitting sermonet on "The Resurrection," by Bishop John C. Dent. The rendition of the cantata was excellent, and solo work was ably taken by Madeline Timbrell and Florence Ebsworthy, sopranos; Mr. May, tenor, and Mr. Carter, baritone. Miss E. Mathews was at the organ console and Ray Neal was pianist.

A highly successful mothers and daughters banquet was recently given by the We-Ne-Ju Club and Oriole Girls' Club. More than sixty guests were present. A program of appropriate toasts and songs added to the attractiveness of the event. Mrs. J. Winegarden is supervisor of the girls; Mrs. Annie Sheridan is monitor of the We-Ne-Ju Club, and Miss Madeline Timbrell is monitor of the Orioles.

The junior boys presented a novel program under the supervision of Verda Evans and Grace Vasbinder. The numbers were made up of readings, musical selections and short sketches.

Brother John Newton, one of the oldest members, has been confined to his home by illness. He is one of the most faithful and respected Saints in this branch.

Lancaster, Ohio

Priesthood Plan Missionary Campaign of County

This branch has been blessed in many ways. On April 1, three ordinations were voted: W. Mikesell to the office of elder; Earl Caldwell, priest, and Charles Gardner, deacon, this action being taken at the district conference at Columbus. W. Mikesell was ordained Sunday afternoon, April 2, at the conference and Earl Caldwell and Charles Gardner that evening at Lancaster.

According to the admonition given to the men of the ministry to devote their activities to the work of the Lord in this part of the vineyard, a priesthood meeting was called. There are eight members of the priesthood at Lancaster, and seven responded to the call. Plans were formulated to carry the gospel message into homes in Fairfield County by holding prayer meetings in the homes of friends who are to invite as many neighbors as possible. This will give all members of the priesthood active work.

On Friday, May 5, the organization of two active departments took place, the young people with Earl Caldwell, president, and Ruth Stump, vice president, and the women with Sister S. E. Dickson, president; Sister Charles Gardner, vice president; Sister Dorothy Caldwell, secretary, and Sister Bessie Mikesell, treasurer. May 21 was an all-day meeting for the branch, and the women served a "conscience" dinner ("Let your conscience be your guide" as to the price).

The Saints of Lancaster feel that they must be about their Father's business, and it takes everyone to help.

In the last six weeks they have baptized seven young people into the kingdom of God, and five adults are praying for guidance in the matter of decision. Workers ask Herald readers to pray for them that their efforts for the Master may bear fruit. Lancaster Branch wants to make a good report to the conference in progress and growth of numbers.

Apostle Clyde F. Ellis was a welcome speaker April 4 and 5. The Saints appreciate his help and look forward to his coming again in the fall.

Colorado Springs, Colorado

Attendance and Interest Grow

Interest and attendance seem to be increasing in Colorado Springs Branch. Most of the increase has been in the children's department and the adult department. Only a year ago these two departments were very small but they have almost doubled their numbers. Many of the children have won awards for attending Sunday school for twelve consecutive Sundays.

Intensive effort and study are being made to acquaint and stimulate the minds of the people here concerning the Book of Mormon. Each Sunday evening a Book of Mormon class is held, and following the study, a lecture is given by J. E. Ebling, branch president.

Recently Elder Glaude A. Smith, of Denver, was at Colorado Springs. His visits and sermons are always appreciated by the Saints.

Sister Buzzard, a pioneer member of this branch, departed this life the first of April. Many of the missionaries will remember her. She was the mother of Sister J. D. Curtis. At her death she bore a wonderful testimony to the truthfulness of the gospel.

Easter was observed with the children's program in the morning, and a play entitled "He Lives" given by the young people in the evening.

Several weeks ago the young people of Coloralo Springs drove to Pueblo, where they met the young people, and enjoyed the evening playing games and getting acquainted. They hope to have more of these meetings not only with Pueblo young people but with other branches in the district, hoping thereby to become better acquainted and help to solve their mutual problems.

www.LatterDayTruth.org

Holden Stake

Lees Summit Church

Through fair attendance at services and a decided willingness to assist spiritually and materially in promoting the local and general church program, the Saints of this congregation manifest their determination to carry on.

The young people sponsored the Easter program, "The Immortal King," a cantata. And young and old are planning a number of entertainments this summer. All departments are pushing steadily forward. They are busy and happy working together. They are studying the church school quarterly, Doctrine and Covenants, and other church books, in order to be better equipped to carry forward the gospel of Jesus Christ. The choir has its rehearsal on Friday night each week.

Five young men, Merton Loveland, Charles Banker, Alvin Mengel, and Willard and Leonard Smith, of this congregation, graduated from high school this year. Several young people here are planning to attend Graceland College this fall.

A large number was present the night of April 27, to hear the concert given by the A Cappella Chorus of Graceland College. Some of Lees Summit's best musicians attended, and many favorite comments were heard. Local Saints can not express their appreciation of the concert and of the thoughtfulness of Brother John F. Sheehy in sending the chorus here.

A business meeting convened May 3, when reports from different departments were given. It was decided to conduct a series of missionary services in the late summer. Also a movement was favored for the young people to visit outlying groups, providing the program and speaker on each visit.

The women meet all day every Thursday at the church or in some home, enjoying a covered-dish luncheon and spending considerable time quilting or doing other work. They have a Doctrine and Covenants study hour in the afternoon, and are trying to do their part in collecting money for church expenses, also in beautifying the church lawn with shrubs and flowers.

Mother's Day was in charge of the mothers, and there was a short program. A good talk was given by Pastor J. T. Smith. The attendance of seventy was better, in proportion to our membership, than that had at other churches in town, as the local paper gave the attendance at all churches on that day.

Among the speakers visiting Lees Summit since last report have been Patriarch W. A. McDowell, Elders Leonard Lea, H. V. Minton, Edward Larson, E. Y. Hunker, S. S. Smith, W. B. Paul, Stake Bishop J. A. Koehler, Stake President W. S. Macrae, and Apostle J. F. Curtis. The Saints appreciate the visit of men of the ministry.

They are planning a Children's Day program in June with a basket dinner at noon. The children's department is growing and doing its part.

Denver, Colorado

Spear Boulevard and Locust Street

At the morning service Sunday, March 26, Maynard Orville, son of Brother and Sister Albert Walsh, was blessed by Elders Glaude Smith and E. J. Williams; and Mona Lee, daughter of John and Fern Compton, was blessed by E. J. Williams and Glaude Smith. These little ones are the grandson and the great-granddaughter of Brother and Sister David Williams. Following this beautiful ordinance, Brother Smith preached earnestly and eloquently on the subject, "Needed—Godly Men." The young people of the branch held a get-together luncheon in the lower auditorium after the service.

Thursday evening, April 6, the members of the Columbine group served a bountiful dinner to a large crowd of Saints and friends. An interesting program was given commemorating the organization of the church. Slides, "From Cumorah to the Auditorium," were shown, Ed Fishburn operating the lantern and G. A. Smith explaining the pictures. Part of the proceeds were sent to the general church and part turned over to Denver Branch.

Denver members were very happy to have there on April 9, President Frederick M. Smith, who spoke morning and evening on "Church Objectives." His message was full of inspiration and encouragement, with an earnest appeal to Saints to awake to a realization of the tremendous task before them and the responsibility each member bears for the successful accomplishment of the objectives of the church. Many came from other branches of the district to greet Brother Smith, and the church building was filled to overflowing.

The young people's department arranged a good program for a sunrise service Easter morning, and the large crowd attending felt well repaid for coming. At eleven o'clock the choir, directed by Mrs. Alice Milligan, rendered the cantata, "Darkness and Dawn," by Pease. Inez Schrunk was at the organ. Soloists were Wilma Graybill and Elsie Harper, sopranos; Ethel Radcliffe, alto; Glaude Smith, tenor; Glenn Holmes, baritone. Ivan Duff sang a solo, "Open the Gates of the Temple."

The infant daughter of Glenn and Hazel Holmes was blessed at the morning service, April 23, by Elders C. L. Bruno and G. A. Smith and given the name of Frances Elaine.

A branch partly in honor of Brother and Sister Glenn Holmes was held in the lower auditorium of the church Tuesday evening, April 25. Brother Glenn, who is employed by Swift and Company, has been transferred to Los Angeles. Denver Branch is sorry to lose these young people, for they have endeared themselves to the Saints during the years they have lived here. Many good wishes go with them to their new home.

Glennyth Izetta, the infant daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Ted Williamson, was blessed April 30, by Elders Glaude Smith and E. J. Williams.

Sunday evening, April 23, the pastor began a series of talks on human fellowship, the first being, "Is Perfect Human Fellowship Possible Without God?" The second, April 30, was "How Does Religion Affect Fellowship?"

The young people are working hard to raise money to help defray the expenses of those who intend to go to Lamoni in June for the youth conference. May 9, they served a dinner at 6 p. m. in the lower auditorium, the proceeds of which are to be used for this purpose.

Mother's Day was fittingly observed by an interesting program at the eleven o'clock service, which included a sermon by the pastor on "Motherhood, a Gift of God." In the evening the play, "Peace I Give Unto You," was presented, with the following in the cast: Mrs. G. A. Smith, Edward Nolan, G. A. Smith, Vernon Young and Burrell Shupe. This play, directed by Mrs. Bertha Black, was given in the State tournament of Religious Drama a short time ago.

Jay, Florida

Scattered Members Carry On

This group, under the leadership of J. S. McCall, is trying to carry on. District authorities deemed it wise because of the scattered condition of Santa Rosa Branch, to divide it into two groups. Group one has builded a small church which is finished except for painting, and they have enough paint on hand to apply the first coat as soon as weather conditions permit.

These Saints have preaching once or twice a month, speakers being Elders A. D. McCall, Earl Higdon and C. T. West. Their encouraging talks are gratefully received by the Saints.

Prayer service is given good attendance and interest on Wednesday night.

Brother J. E. Johnston is in charge of church school, and there is almost one hundred per cent attendance. George McArthur teaches the adult class; J. S. McCall, the young people's class; Ruby Brown, intermediates; Emma McArthur, primaries, and Alma McArthur, beginners. Once a month the young people have charge of the church school and give a program.

Recently the women's department organized with Bessie McCall as president, Orrie Brown, vice president, Alma McArthur, secretary and treasurer, Ruby Brown and Emma McArthur, program committee. Bessie McCall is solicitor for both groups of Santa Rosa Branch, and although the depression has been felt in this part of the country, the Saints are trying to do their part in a financial way.

www.LatterDayTruth.org

On Mother's Day the children, directed by Loyce McCurdy, presented a fine program. Brother C. T. West made an inspiring talk.

The Saints hope that Elders T. C. Kelley and J. W. A. Bailey, who labored in this community long and faithfully, will be encouraged to read that they are carrying on the work.

Brooklyn, New York

Program Is Adapted to Present Needs of Saints

New projects and methods are supplanting the threadbare customs and rituals which belonged to a people of another day, and Brooklyn members feel that the light of the life of Christ is made more vivid and impressive as they enter this new era.

Mention should be given to the presentation of two one-act plays, March 31, by the Dramatic Club in charge of Sister Martha Mousley. "Sweethearts in Song," was directed by Sister Kathryn Nichols, and "The Bishop's Candlesticks," by McKemill, was directed by Charles R. Hield. Music of the evening was in charge of Sister Gladys Harris. Sister Alice Roe gave a reading during the intermission. Such dramas help to find and place talent where it belongs in the different church activities.

The regular order of the Sunday evening preaching service has been dispensed with and the church forum of class work introduced. A study of church doctrines and principles is taught by Pastor Ephraim Squire. A Book of Mormon class is taught by Paul N. Belleisle; a teacher training class by Sister Kathryn Nichols, and a class in church history in charge of Sister Emeline Belleisle. Special programs are presented every Sunday, consisting of Bible stories, music, dramas, and other features. This course of procedure offers splendid study opportunities.

The April sacrament service was of high spiritual order. The many who brought to God their gift of a meek heart, a contrite spirit, and a desire to serve, expressed their hopes in earnest prayer and testimony. The Wednesday evening fellowship services are increasing in number, interest, and spirituality.

April 13, a large crowd gathered at the home of Brother and Sister Howard Mousley to participate in giving a prenuptial shower to Miss Dorothy E. Potts. The bride-to-be received many beautiful gifts from the remaining Laf-a-lots. She will be married to Robert Lincoln from the Towers Hotel in Brooklyn, June 3.

An April shower party, a unique event, entertained class eight of the church school in the lower auditorium of the church, April 7. Harry Feeney, only boy in the class, was master of ceremonies, ably assisted by Sister Emeline Belleisle and Sister Gene Deane, teachers.

On Easter Sunday, a pageant, "Welcome to Easter," was presented by the junior school under the direction of Sister Ethel Squire and her staff of teachers. The message of the pageant was to "rejoice that Jesus is risen and that He lives again."

At a recent meeting of the officers and teachers of the church school, it was voted upon and carried that by October, 1934, each officer and teacher is to have a teacher's certificate. Study toward this goal will begin early this fall.

A son, Charles Robert, was born, April 1, to Charles and Nita Hield.

Brother Charles W. Harris has returned from Hot Springs, Arkansas, where he took a three weeks' course of treatments in the Ozark Sanatorium.

Sister Martha Mousley has returned from Philadelphia, where she underwent an operation at the Hahneman Hospital. Sister Edna Stone is home after spending three weeks in the Saint John Hospital, in Long Island City, New York.

A number from Brooklyn Branch attended the young people's convention at Philadelphia, April 22 and 23.

The women of the adult division are working out many plans. These included a radio party, May 12, by the Luncheon Club. They will sponsor a mother and daughter banquet, May 30, and other activities are to be announced in the future.

San Diego, California

4328 Alabama Street

Members here are striving to help the cause of the Master go forward in spite of the depression experienced all over the country.

Two of the older members have been claimed by death, H. T. Watson, who for many years was in the ministry, and until the end worked to build up the work in the branch. Sister Elizabeth Pickles is also greatly missed. She was eighty-three years old and had been a member and worker in San Diego Branch for some time.

Sister Grace Wallace lately celebrated her eighty-third birthday. She, too, has been a faithful member for many years.

Members are thankful to see the branch grow. They happily welcome new Saints.

While in California, Apostle E. J. Gleazer visited this branch, giving counsel to the Saints. Elder W. A. Teagarden, of Santa Barbara, drops in occasionally.

Pastor John Monroe, who has been confined to his home for several weeks, has recovered sufficiently to occupy his chair on the rostrum. Brother Kellerby has watched over the flock during Brother Munroe's absence.

The marriage ceremony of Sister Mary E. d' Valente and Mr. Leopoldo L. Contieras was solemnized February 22, in the Saints' church, Brother Munroe officiating. Sister Long played the wedding march. The young couple are making their home at Agua Caliente, Mexico.

Church School Director Elmer Long is doing a wonderful work building up this department.

Mother's Day was observed with a program preceded by a sermon by Brother Lumm, of Fallbrook.

Many were glad to see Brother Wiles here on a recent Sunday. He has been traveling through the country for several months, visiting and preaching in many branches. He spoke on Sunday evening.

Brothers Albert and Clarence Wilson are improving in health, and it is hoped will soon return to church services.

The women's department holds a monthly social affair and penny dinner in the basement of the church every third Friday of the month.

Traverse City, Michigan

Workers Assist in Neighboring Groups

Though the Saints have not of late been prosperous in temporal things, many have enjoyed the rich, spiritual blessings which accompany the latter-day work.

Traverse City branch officers are assisting some of the surrounding groups. One group has Sunday school and prayer meeting or preaching every Sunday. They meet with Brother Gene Barnard about three miles east of Kingsley. Elder Glen Wiley, of Summit City, is teacher of the class. He is a real father to the Saints and is doing much good.

Often Bendon Branch is visited and such help given as is required. The Saints are catching a glimpse of what is required of them, and have set their faces toward the sunrise. Traverse City members are glad to lend a helping hand.

Joyfield received the latest visit when Brothers Ray Dick and H. A. Doty, jr., journeyed there May 7, to administer the sacrament. It had been six years since any service was held there. Appointments were made for some regular meetings, and workers hope to fan into flame the gospel fire that was started there many years ago by F. C. Smith.

District Missionary C. E. Harpe spent several days at Traverse City recently, and preached some good sermons. The Saints are always glad to hear him, but were sorry to learn that he planned to go from there to the Sanitarium at Independence for treatment. The members pray that he may soon enjoy renewed health and strength, and return to Michigan.

Sister Ella Doty celebrated her seventy-eighth birthday May 5.

Brother J. Rusnell and family, of Williamsburg, Michigan, attended church at Traverse City, May 14, and Brother Rusnell preached an excellent sermon at the evening hour.

www.LatterDayTruth.org

Brother B. H. Doty and daughter, Ella M., Ray Dick and wife, and Roland Kapnick motored to Joyfield, May 14, where preaching services were conducted by Brother B. H. Doty, assisted by Brother Kapnick. This was the second meeting held there and attendance jumped from thirteen to twenty-two. Several nonmembers who were present stated their pleasure, and Roland Kapnick will be their speaker June 28.

At the close of Mother's Day services at Traverse City Grandma Reynolds was presented a bouquet of flowers by Sister Mary Cook. She was the oldest mother present. Sister Wayne Evans, the youngest mother present, was also presented flowers.

The Western Michigan district conference will be held at Traverse City, June 3 and 4, and they hope to see many members from all over the district there.

Maryland Heights, Missouri

(Saint Louis District)

Elder Roy Remington, president of Saint Louis District, who served as pastor of the Heights Branch for more than four years, has given up the pastorate here because of increasing district activities. Brother Roy and his wife and family motored fourteen miles and back, rain or shine, two or more times a week during those many months, to carry on in this part of the Lord's vineyard.

Elder James L. Gray has been selected as the new pastor. Brother and Sister Gray are from Independence and have been given a ready welcome by the Saints. Brother Elmer Kaler and family, also formerly of Independence, have been here for some months.

Many of the original branch members, those who were here in October, 1913, shortly after which time the branch was organized, have moved away, and some have passed to the beyond. Many new members have moved in as is usual in the course of years. Several were baptized last year due to the efforts of Elder Arthur Oakman in a series of missionary sermons. The Saints are looking forward to a series of meetings soon when they hope to have with them Elder and Sister Richard Baldwin.

The branch voted to adopt the church school plan and under the leadership of the newly-elected church school supervisor, Brother Albert Miller, expect to make real progress Zionward in the coming months.

The Herald bundle solicitor, Brother Kaler, has increased his bundle since starting and hopes soon to reach the goal, "Every family a subscriber."

Maryland Heights Branch is enjoying some stereopticon pictures from the Graphic Arts Bureau as suggested for Sunday evening increase of attendance in the April 19, Herald.

Home-coming and rally day will be held here in the near future, and all old members and friends will be given a special welcome back home.

Centralia, Illinois

Are Helping General Church

Church school attendance is most encouraging, a number of nonmembers regularly attending. This is especially true in the senior class under the leadership of the superintendent, Sister Cora Brown.

The women's department meets all day on Friday, quilting and serving lunch to the factory employees and public. This venture is proving successful in a financial way and is acquainting the women with the public. Owing to the financial condition of the general church treasury, the women have made arrangements to send in their tithing each month, and the branch publicity agent has volunteered not to deduct commission on sales of branch bundles of Heralds or on any order for books and other literature, allowing the publishing house the extra funds to assist the business during these trying times.

The L. D. S. Boys' Club (Loyal, Dependable Sons) of twenty-five members meet the first and third Friday of each month for thirty minutes of church history study, and the remainder of the evening is spent with music or listening to the address of some speaker. Last month they were able to have Professor Frout of the high school faculty, who talked on citizenship. That evening was a special occasion, the boys inviting their fathers to attend with them, and at the close all assembled in the basement and enjoyed a lunch which was served by Sisters Wesner and Allen.

Mount Vernon, Illinois

F. L. Sawley Speaker on Mother's Day

Mother's Day was observed with appropriate songs and tributes throughout the morning services. Elder F. L. Sawley, from Holden, Missouri, was here and gave a beautiful address. Seats were reserved for the mothers who were presented carnations by the children of the Sunday school.

The primary class sang, "Good Morning, Dear Mother," and the juniors and intermediates sang, "Faith of Our Mothers." Several readings were also given by the children from all classes. A playlet, "Golden-hearted Mother," was given, Mrs. John Rockett acting as mother of honor. Another playlet, "The Whole World Pays Homage to Mother," presented the older mothers of the church in its scenes.

Mrs. Claude Davis sang, "Tell Me the Story of Jesus," and Miss Nellie Rockett and Miss Ruth Ella Williams sang, "Shake Hands With Your Mother Again." Trio numbers, "Mother," "My Mother's Bible," and "Tell Mother I'll Be There," were given by Mr. and Mrs. Bert Wolfe and Louis Deselms. Mrs. Earl Burkitt gave an appealing Mother's Day reading, and there was a musical reading by Mrs. Bert Wolfe, then "Where Is My Wandering Boy Tonight?" was sung by Miss Inez Henson, soloist, and Louis Deselms, Bert Wolfe, and Miss Inez Henson, trio.

Brother F. L. Sawley was speaker again in the evening.

Saskatoon, Saskatchewan

Banquet Honors Birthdays of Elder and Sister Ward L. Christy

The married members of the branch were invited to attend a banquet given in honor of Brother and Sister Ward L. Christy, April 7, whose birthdays occurred the week before. Priesthood members and their wives were seated at the head of the table, and Brother C. E. Diggle acted as toastmaster. Sister Steves played the organ, and Sister J. A. Beckman prepared the supper. Sisters Nelson and Diggle arranged the program.

Before the guests were seated, they sang a grace. After all had enjoyed a delicious meal, the lights were turned out and candles were lit. Sister Christy deftly cut the birthday cake, then the guests sang, "There Are Crowds That Have a Friendly Spirit," after which Mr. Burton Asay favored the gathering with a banjo solo followed by a vocal number. Henry Piedt, in a humorous speech, proposed the toast to "Our Birthdays," which was replied to by Brother and Sister Christy who kept the audience in gales of laughter with their witticisms. Both voiced sincere appreciation of the tribute paid them.

Then Sister Bolald sang "I Love a Little Cottage," and Brother Nisbett proposed the toast to "Our Women Zion Builders," and Sister Osler replied, recalling incidents of the sacrifices of women in the early days of the Reorganization, and concluding with an original poem, "Women of Zion."

After another community song, "Sure, We'll Love One Another," Sister Nelson proposed the toast to "Men Zion Builders," paying special tribute to those who cheerfully performed the humble tasks. To this Brother Arthur Gendron replied. Then Mr. Alex Mackie sang "The Voice in the Old Village Choir." The guests arose, joined hands and sang "'Tis the Hour of Parting," and Brother Gendron pronounced the benediction.

This event was voted a delightful get-together, and the hope was expressed that other such socials might be enjoyed.

Frank Ward, eldest son of Brother Eddie Ward, is ill with Saint Vitus Dance, and will be confined to his bed for some weeks. He is greatly missed in the orchestra and Sunday school, and all join in wishing him a speedy recovery.

www.LatterDayTruth.org

Brother and Sister Ray Peterson and family have left this drouth-stricken area for the north, and were accompanied by Brother Nels Peterson who is over eighty years of age. Brother Peterson emigrated from Norway when a boy and pioneered in the States; he pioneered in Saskatchewan in middle life, and in his old age, the pioneer spirit is still unquenched. The Saints surprised Brother and Sister Ray one evening early in April, presenting them a copy of the Book of Mormon and a group of framed pictures.

Missionary Activities in Kansas City, Far West and Lamoni Stakes

Intensive Work in Cottage and Church Meetings

For the past several months I have been engaged in missionary work in Kansas City and Lamoni stakes, and at the present time am holding services at Guilford, Missouri, in Far West Stake. I am to remain here until June 2. A young people's institute is to convene at Guilford, June 3 and 4.

During the past six months I have been holding both church and cottage services. I have preached one hundred and fifty-two times. The cottage preaching services have averaged about thirty in attendance. Interest has been good.

Over five hundred visits have been made. The contacts made in the homes through the cottage preaching services and visiting have increased attendance at regular services.

Twenty have been baptized by the pastors and the missionary, and we are assured that others now deeply interested will soon unite with the church through follow-up work.

Missionary efforts at Northeast Church and Mount Washington, also work done in other parts of Kansas City Stake have been well supported by pastors and their congregations.

There is enough work in Gladstone, Bennington, Northeast, and Mount Washington vicinities of eastern Kansas City alone, to keep a missionary busy the full year, but calls and demands from other quarters are so urgent that other fields of labor must be given consideration by those in charge.

Upon leaving here, I am to return to Allendale and Blythedale, Missouri, where splendid interest was had during January and February. We are looking for immediate results from these two eight-day services in Lamoni Stake. It is also planned that I shall spend a few days with Lacona Saints and friends near Chariton, Iowa.

May we all be faithful in the discharge of our duties. There should be no question as to what the church means to us, but what do we mean to the church?

J. CHARLES MAY.

Bisbee, Arizona

Enjoy Spiritually Outstanding Services

This branch was very fortunate in having Apostle E. J. Gleazer stop here two days in April as he was on his way to Independence from California; he was going to attend the meetings of the Joint Council. His talks were timely and inspiring. His sermon on Zion and the gathering was very encouraging.

The sacrament meeting for April was a Pentecostal blessing, and the gifts of the gospel were enjoyed. Elder Bootman, from Tucson, and Brother Wilkins were visitors. This was the occasion for one of the greatest outpourings of God's Spirit that has ever been known in Bisbee Branch.

On May 7, a debate was held between Douglas and Bisbee members on the question, "Resolved That We Are Resurrected in This Body and Not Another." Brothers Taylor and Corley, of Douglas, affirmed, and Brothers Davis and Ratterre, of Bisbee, denied. The place was filled with members and visitors who heard the many good points brought out on both sides. The judges' decision gave the verdict to Bisbee. More such debates are looked for in the future.

Brother Bootman visited Bisbee on Mother's Day and spoke in the evening, delivering a chart lecture on the Restoration.

Brother Cunningham, jr., was elected to fill the unexpired term of Sister Short, secretary of the branch.

Thayer, Missouri

Keeping the Faith and Working Together

The Saints here are keeping their faith and working together. They rejoice when new members move into their community, and endeavor to make them welcome and to help them in the work they undertake. Recently they have been joined by M. Harder and his family from San Diego, California, also by Brother and Sister Micoll, of Dallas, Texas.

The district president, Elder W. E. Haden, closed a very successful series of meetings at Sedwick a few days ago bringing in and baptizing five candidates. Following this, Thayer Saints were privileged to enjoy a visit from him with Elder E. C. Shelley. They opened a series of meetings on April 30, and brought to members and friends new spiritual experience and uplift. The series closed on sacrament Sunday at which time Brother Elton McGuire was ordained to the office of deacon. All rejoiced at this addition to the priesthood, and feel that Brother McGuire is a loyal worker. At the sacrament service on this day the Saints felt a greater desire to carry the marvelous work on to perfection.

That afternoon at two thirty Rosella Pruitt was baptized. She is the granddaughter of Sister Olive Davis, of Cabool, Missouri. Confirmation was cared for at the evening hour by Brothers Hancock and Shelley.

Thayer members were happy to have the services of Brothers Haden and Shelley. Their meetings came to a close with a good spirit.

Tigris Branch

Near Ava, Missouri

On March 30, the men of the branch and their friends met at the church to place new supports under the building where some had rotted away. Every family was represented, and the women served a fine dinner at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Asa McCullough, nonmembers.

Miss Emma Freeman played and sang for Ava High School in the Altitude League Music Festival, March 25, and won first place in violin, and third in vocal solos. She graduates from high school this spring.

The Leader Class met at the church at 9 a. m., April 2, for a prayer service. This is a young people's class and some of the members are leaders in branch activities. The Lord seemed pleased with the effort and met with them, speaking through his Spirit. The membership of the class has grown past the twenty mark now and though many are yet nonmembers, they are ready to help in all branch activities. This class has held the banner in attendance, but the primary class, Sister Lillian Freeman, teacher, has held a close second place. It now has fourteen members and is called the Sunbeam Class.

Evening services are well attended. The religio, with Sister Vera Norman as president, has class study in Book of Mormon and Bible. The True Bible Class, taught by Sister Merle Zuber, usually numbers between thirty and forty. Religio is followed by preaching.

Easter was observed both morning and evening. The morning service was largely given by the children, followed by a sermonet by the pastor. In the evening a play, "He Is Risen," was sponsored by Sister Edna Norman, and followed by another play, "Nicodemus, a Servant of the Master," sponsored by Lillian Freeman and Roxa McGinness. Though the night was stormy, people filled the church.

A new class known as the Blue Birds was organized in the Sunday school the morning of April 23. Attendance at services was good on that day, and Brother and Sister Watson, of Drumwright, Oklahoma, were there in the morning. At noon all met at the home of Asa McCullough for a surprise birthday dinner.

www.LatterDayTruth.org

Four days later the women's department met with Sister Edna Norman, and chose as their club name "Earnest Workers." Sister Chrestensen is president.

May 5, a group of young people attended the pie supper given by Ava Branch at Basher, and May 7, they reciprocated by attending the services at Tigris in a group.

Pasadena, California

Hearing Much About Zion

The Pasadena group is always well represented at Central Church, Los Angeles, on Sunday mornings, and a good number attended the district conference held there in April.

The hour of Sunday evening services at Pasadena has been changed to seven o'clock, and a song service precedes the regular meeting. On one Sunday evening in the month a prayer and testimony service takes the place of the regular preaching hour.

The Saints are hearing much about Zion these days, a topic in which there is an ever increasing interest owing in great part to the distressing times through which they are passing.

The La-Da-Sas are active and are much blessed in their work.

A surprise party on Brother and Sister Ruchaber and family and a potluck dinner at the home of the Strongs were much enjoyed.

Once a month they are holding "mile of penny" parties. Hostesses for the March and April parties were nonmembers as will also be the June hostess.

The second birthday party of the club was held on May 4, in the home of Sister Lawrence Brockway, whose mother, Sister Klein, is with her now and is a welcome addition to the group.

Brother and Sister Brockway expect to motor to Lamoni, for the young people's convention in June and will visit relatives before returning home. They will be gone about a month.

Gainsborough, Saskatchewan

Elder O. W. Okerlind There

Springtime was welcomed by this branch after a long cold winter with plenty of snow.

Evidence that God has not forgotten his people here has been given in the last two weeks or more when Elder O. W. Okerlind delivered some inspiring sermons. Two babies were blessed, this being one of the most beautiful ordinances of the church. Sacrament service was held. Nonmembers attending the meetings were much interested.

Gainsborough members wish to do all they can for the building of Zion, and their prayers go out for the missionaries in their field and for the entire church.

Philadelphia, Pennsylvania

Institute Week—Young People's Convention—Business Meeting

April 17 to 23 was institute week in Philadelphia Branch, and the young people invited President F. M. McDowell and Apostle Paul M. Hanson to take charge.

On Saturday evening, April 15, the young people presented a play, "Pontius Pilate," which was greatly enjoyed. The next morning they assembled for eight o'clock prayer meeting in charge of Brother McDowell. At the church school hour, 9.30 a. m. Brother McDowell was the speaker, and at eleven o'clock Apostle Hanson. Both services were inspiring.

The choir rendered its Easter cantata, "Olivet to Calvary," that evening under the leadership of Sister Clara Thumn.

The institute officially opened Monday evening at seven thirty with Brothers McDowell and Hanson in charge. The young people's choir, led by William Leonard, was in the choir loft. Services were held each evening and on the following Sunday morning at nine thirty and at eleven o'clock. Average attendance during the evening services was approximately one hundred and thirty, and it was most encouraging to see many young people and older ones, too, taking new interest in the work of the church.

The district young people's convention opened April 22. On Sunday morning, the twenty-third, the young people again assembled for prayer service, Brother McDowell in charge. A fine, spiritual hour was enjoyed, and many expressed their desire to go forward in this spirit. Following this a light breakfast was served.

The young people's afternoon meeting was followed by a sight-seeing tour of historical points in old Philadelphia.

A baptism and confirmation service was held on Sunday evening at seven thirty, six young people making their covenant with Christ. This was most impressive.

The regular quarterly business meeting was held at the church on Monday evening, and Pastor H. L. Livingston presented to the branch the names of four brothers to be ordained to the priesthood. After a motion was made to approve the names, President McDowell and Apostle Hanson ordained Samuel Worrell and Carl Heinrichs to the office of elder; Brother Henry L. Livingston and Ed. Lewis ordained David Wiesen an elder and Max Ocknigh, a deacon.

"The person without enthusiasm is like a motor without gasoline. It may be a fine machine, but it won't go."—Lloyd.

TWINS??

NO!!!

JUST ANOTHER ONE THAT LOOKS LIKE THE FIRST - - - -

Introducing - -

"What Latter Day Saints Believe About Immortality"

By Elbert A. Smith

The Newest Pamphlet Published—The Second in the New Series. Selling rapidly at

HERALD PUBLISHING HOUSE 25c Each

Ward A. Hougas, Mgr. Independence, Mo. Postpaid in U.S.A.

www.LatterDayTruth.org

North Platte, Nebraska

Missionary Services by Elder W. A. Smith

Services are held at Tenth and Willow Streets each Sunday from ten to eleven o'clock. The members have heard a few sermons from local elders at the eleven o'clock hour.

Elder W. A. Smith, of Independence, Missouri, preached fourteen sermons here which were appreciated by the Saints, and some nonmembers were much interested. Brother Smith held the attention of the children with his clear, simple language. Three little girls, Ruth Tibbles and Alice and Opal Page were baptized by Elder J. F. Payne and confirmed by Elders E. R. Sivits and J. F. Payne on the Sunday following Brother Smith's services here.

Brother Smith plans to return to North Platte and probably will hold meetings in the new gospel tent.

The infant daughter of Sister Janet Stoddard was blessed by local elders, February 5, and named Lillian Darline.

The infant son of Brother and Sister Frank Thomas was blessed, February 12, and named Joseph Frank.

And the infant daughter of Mr. Nelson and Sister June Nelson was blessed, March 26, by Elder W. A. Smith and a local elder and named Patricia Marietta.

Saints from Thune, Nebraska, met here the first Sunday in May and enjoyed the Sunday school, the sacrament and the prayer and testimony meeting. That afternoon Brother Kenudson, of Thune, talked half an hour followed by Brother George Sutterfield, also of Thune. This was the first two-thirty afternoon service had in North Platte this year.

A class meeting is held at 1123 West Sixth Street each Sunday evening and there is recreation at the park on Friday evening.

Several have been remembered on their birthdays with a social get-together at which refreshments were served.

The small son of Mr. and Sister Grant Keith is very low in a local hospital. He suffered a broken appendix before the operation could be performed. Sister Keith recently lost a married daughter by death.

Sister Lillie M. Reneau recently returned from Fort Collins, Colorado, where she was called by the death of her grandson, Paul Reneau Lanphere, April 5, who was taken away by meningitis and scarlet fever. He was a child, loved by many friends and Sunday school associates, and he leaves behind a lonely family.

"Has it ever occurred to us to think, in all seriousness, that the only time to be happy is—right now? And that the only place in which to be happy is—right here? Now and here mean always and everywhere."

The Bulletin Board

Conference Notices

The semiannual conference of Southern Wisconsin District will be held at Soldiers Grove, June 10 and 11. Elder L. G. Holloway and President Floyd M. McDowell are expected to be there. The order of services will be as follows: Friday night, sermon by L. G. Holloway; Saturday: prayer service, 9 a. m.; classes at 10 and 11 a. m. and 2 and 3.15 p. m. by L. G. Holloway and F. M. McDowell. Brother Holloway will teach "The Major Objectives of the Church." Business session, 7 p. m.; sermon by President McDowell, 8 p. m. Sunday: Morning prayer meeting for young people, 8.45; general prayer meeting, ten o'clock, conducted by young people; sermon by President McDowell, 11 a. m.; priesthood meeting, 1.30 p. m.; sermon, 2.30; vesper service, 5. One of the best conferences ever held in the district is expected if all will come prepared to make it that.—Leda Colbert, district clerk.

Change of Conference Date

The date the New York district conference, scheduled for Niagara Falls, New York, June 24 and 25, has been changed to June 10 and 11.—Anna M. Lloyd.

New Address

Those who wish to communicate with Apostle D. T. Williams should address letters to him at the Auditorium, Independence, Missouri, until further notice.

Request Prayers

Prayers are requested for Sister Donna Crown, of Centralia, Washington. She is of great help to the church in her work among the young people, and her help is also greatly needed in the family. The Saints are requested to remember this deserving young sister in their prayers, that her health may be restored.

Our Departed Ones

FOSTER.—Ella M. Foster was born September 6, 1877, at Latham, Ohio. She united with the church in 1909, at Duke, Ohio, being baptized by Elder Elmer E. Long. Remained a faithful and devoted member to the cause of Christ. She died Saturday, April 8, 1933, at her home in Cleveland Heights. Her husband preceded her in death nine years. Leaves to mourn, two sons, Al C., and James W., and one daughter, Hazel Hanna, all of the home address; four brothers, Leslie Blosser, of Camp Chase, Ohio; Earl Blosser, of Urbana, Ohio; Ray Blosser, of Mansfield, Ohio; Lester Blosser, of Springfield, Ohio, and one sister, Effie Crabtree, of Springfield. Mrs. Foster was loved by all her knew her as a devoted mother, a sympathetic friend, and a woman of sterling character. The funeral sermon was preached by Brother McNeil, of East Side Branch, and interment was at Kirtland.

BLUE.—Martha Newman, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John Newman, was born at Lowes, Wales, October 19, 1860, and departed this life at her home near Derby, April 22, 1933, after an illness of several months. She was united in marriage to John Pasco in 1876, at Albia, Iowa. To them were born nine children, six of whom preceded her to that great beyond with their father, who passed away in 1920. On April 8, 1928, she was united in marriage to E. D. Blue, of Derby, Iowa, where she has made her home with him and his daughter, Margaret. She leaves to mourn, three daughters by her first marriage: Mrs. Anna Hahs, of Lucas; Mrs. Alice Gill, and Mrs. Avrina Griffiths, of Melcher, and twelve grandchildren, besides her husband, Mr. Blue, and his seven children; also her sister, Mrs. Sarah Forsythe, of Albia. Other relatives and a host of friends will remember her for the beautiful life that endeared her to all who came in contact with her. She was a member of the Latter Day Saint Church. She was a very kind and loving mother, always ready and willing to help anyone, and will be greatly missed. Funeral services were conducted by Brother J. C. Cackler, of Chariton, and assisted by Brother J. W. Blackstock, of Chariton. Services were held in the Saints' church at Lucas, Iowa.

HARTSHORN.—Helen Schwarz was born December 4, 1891, at Coldwater, Kansas, and passed away, March 24, 1933, in the hospital at Iowa City, Iowa. She was baptized by Fred A. Smith, August 4, 1900, in Omaha, Nebraska, and was active among the young people of the church in Denver, until 1915, when she moved to Lamoni, Iowa, where she was united in marriage to LeRoy F. Hartshorn, November 25, 1915. To this union were born one son and one daughter. Surviving are the husband, LeRoy Hartshorn, and son, Elbert L., and daughter, Leona Helene, of Marathon, Iowa; her mother, Mrs. Anna Schwarz, of Ann Arbor, Michigan; one brother, Ludwig Schwarz, of Muhlhausen, Germany; three sisters, Mrs. Julia Rohde, Ann Arbor, Michigan; Mrs. Mary Barrett, Independence, Missouri, and Mrs. Sophie Bruno, Denver, Colorado; also many neighbors and friends. Funeral services were conducted at Marathon, Iowa, by Elder Eldon Edwards. Interment was at Marathon.

HOLMES-RALLINGS.—Emma Holmes-Rallings passed to her reward on April 11, 1933, after an illness of one year, during which time she passed through several operations for polypi which later developed into cancer. She suffered great pain, but was much relieved by administration. Pastor Charles Cousins, at her request, administered the ordinance to her daily for some months. Sister Emma had great faith in divine blessing, and never failed to find relief. Sister Emma, was born at Clay Cross, Derbyshire, England, February 9, 1861. She was married to William S. Holmes, February 1, 1881. To this union five children were born, Mary Ellen, William, Elizabeth, Carrie, and Ada, all of whom survive to mour their loss (except Ada, who died one year ago). Sister Emma was baptized October 27, 1890, by Elder H. Beaumont at Clay Cross. She lived a faithful life as a Latter Day Saint for forty-three years. She gave much attention to those who were sick, for she had a kind and tender heart. Patriarchs Gomer T. Griffiths and U. W. Greene will remember her great personal kindness and devotion to them and the church. Her husband preceded her in death ten years. On January 4, 1928, she was married to Elder Robert Ralling of Sutton-in-Ashfield, Notts. He also preceded her in death some three years ago. Of the second marriage (Brother Ralling's family) Emily, William, and Walter, survive her. The funeral service was conducted from the Saints' chapel at Clay Cross, April 15, in charge of Apostle J. W. Rushton, and Patriarch W. H. Greenwood. Interment took place in Clay Cross Cemetery. Sunday, April 23, a striking tribute was paid to the memory of this sister by the relatives, Saints, and friends, who filled the chapel to hear the memorial service. Patriarch W. H. Greenwood, was in charge of the service, assisted by Pastor Charles Cousins, and Elder W. E. Timms. Apostle J. W. Rushton preached the memorial sermon.

HERNDON.—Max Edward, son of Mr. and Mrs. J. A. Herndon, was born July 17, 1918, at Webb City, Missouri. Baptized June 23, 1929, by J. Charles May. Passed to the other side Sunday, May 14, 1933, as a result of an automobile accident at Webb City where he had gone with his parents to spend Mother's Day with his grandmothers. He leaves to mourn his departure besides his parents, two sisters: Mrs. J. Earl Sandmire and Joe Nell Herndon, and one brother, James Herndon, all of Miami, Oklahoma; two grandmothers: Mrs. M. E. Herndon and Mrs. H. E. Jones, both of Webb City, Missouri, besides a host of other relatives and friends. The funeral services were held in the First Baptist Church at Miami, Amos T. Higdon officiating, and Alvin Smith assisting. Interment was in the G. A. R. Cemetery.

www.LatterDayTruth.org

RATCLIFFE.—Emma L. Hunt, daughter of Nathan and Betty Hunt, was born December 22, 1870, in Ohio. Departed this life at her home near Gaylord, Kansas, April 10, 1933. She moved to Gaylord when a young girl. Was united in marriage to George W. Ratcliffe, January 30, 1889, and to this union five children were born: Walter Elwood, of Smith Center, Kansas; Harry Elijah, of Fargo, North Dakota; Harold Elisha, of Gaylord, Kansas, Marcella Jane, who died April 3, 1923, and a son who died in infancy. She became a member of the church September 7, 1902, living a faithful and consecrated life. She was a loving mother and faithful wife, always cheerful and helpful to her neighbors, none of whom ever vainly sought assistance in time of need. She was good to others. Leaves to mourn, her husband, three sons, five grandchildren, and a host of other relatives and friends. The funeral services were conducted April 12, 1933, from the community church, the Reverend Raybourn officiating. Interment was in Gaylord Cemetery.

INMAN.—Alma Allan Inman, son of Mr. and Mrs. George Inman, was born January 9, 1902, in Jackson County, Missouri. He was baptized into the church August 7, 1910, at Independence. June 12, 1920, he was united in marriage to Miss Loula Lovell Pinson, and to them one daughter was born, Marcheta L. Having accepted a call to the office of deacon, he was ordained November 15, 1931, and faithfully performed his duties as long as health permitted. He was well liked by all who knew him, and was accepted by his community as a peaceful, law-abiding citizen. He was a faithful member of the church. Departed this life April 30, 1933, at his home in Independence, leaving to mourn besides his wife and daughter, his father and mother, three brothers: John, Samuel, and Ralph, and three sisters, Mrs. Ethel Adcock, Mrs. Cecile Snow, and Mary Inman, other relatives and many friends. This was the first death in the immediate family. Brother and Sister George Inman, his parents, will have been married fifty years June 26.

Reunion Schedule

Please send in changes for this schedule immediately.

DISTRICT	PLACE	TIME
North Dakota	Logan or Burlingtown	June 24 to July 2
Minnesota and Northern Wisconsin	Chetek	July 1 to 4
Owen Sound	Port Elgin, Ontario	July 2 to 9
Eastern Montana	Fairview, Montana	July 7 to 9
Central Texas	Hearne	July 14 to 23
Southern Saskatchewan	Weyburn Plains,	July 19 to 23
Kentucky-Tennessee	Puryear, Tennessee	July 22 to 30
Southern New England	Onset	July 22 to August 6
Nauvoo	Nauvoo	July 23 to 30
Northern Saskatchewan	Saskatoon,	July 27 to 30
Lamoni	Lamoni	July 28 to August 6
Toronto	Lowbanks	July 29 to August 12
Alberta	Edmonton	Aug. 4 to 6
Northwestern	Silver Lake	Aug. 4 to 13
Northern and Western Michigan	Park of the Pines	Aug. 4 to 13
Spring River	Columbus, Kansas	Aug. 4 to 13
Eastern and Western Maine	Brooksville	Aug. 12 to 19
Kirtland Combined Reunion	Kirtland	Aug. 10 to 20
Far West Stake	Stewartsville	Aug. 17 to 27
Western Montana	Race Track	Aug. 18 to 27*
Southeast Illinois	Brush Creek	Aug. 25 to Sept. 3
Idaho		Aug. 16 to 20
West. Oklahoma	Eagle City, Oklahoma	Aug. 5 to 13

(*Tentative date. To be confirmed later.)

THE FIRST PRESIDENCY,
By F. M. McDOWELL.

CLASSIFIED ADS

Rates 3 cents per word first insertion; 20 per cent discount on subsequent insertions Minimum 75 cents per insertion.

REGARDING ADVERTISING

While we exercise care in the acceptance of advertisements appearing in these columns we can not guarantee full satisfaction between buyer and seller and we therefore advise that in every instance a proper investigation be made by all parties concerned.

IMPROVED FARMS for sale. Any size. Same county as Thayer Branch. For description, write H. H. Cunningham, Alton, Missouri.

FOR A REAL heart to heart talk of early church history order a copy of "With the Church in an Early Day," only 85 cents (postpaid in U. S.) Herald Publishing House, Independence, Missouri.

NINETY CENTS never did as much missionary work in its life as it will now invested in a copy of "The Call At Evening." Do you have a copy for your neighbor? Order today (90 cents, postpaid in U. S.) from Herald Publishing House, Independence, Missouri.

WHEN YOU THINK of Church History don't forget the combined Young People's Histories: Two volumes bound in one for only $1.00, postpaid in U. S. A. Address Herald Publishing House, Independence, Missouri.

RICHES UNTOLD for $1.25. Think of it! The newest church novel in print. A brand new copyrighted book at half the usual cost. Order from Herald Publishing House, Independence, Missouri. 18-tf

LAMONI, IOWA, wants a store selling Men's Wear, Shoes, and Ready to Wear. The location in which a successful store of this type has operated for 40 years is now available. Write to A. W. Fleet. Lamoni, Iowa. 19-2t*

950 Kilo. KMBC 315.6 Meters

Church Programs Over KMBC

Devotional service at 6.30 each weekday morning. Drexel Mollison, organist; John F. Sheehy, speaker.

Sunday, 8.00 a. m., Bible Study, by U. W. Greene.

Sunday, 11.00 a. m., music by Stone Church Choir.

Sunday, 5.00 p. m., Vesper Service, U. W. Greene, speaker.

Sunday, 10.00 p. m., Doctrine Hour, A. B. Phillips, speaker.

Graceland Broadcast Program

950 Kilocycles—315.6 Meters

KMBC.....Kansas City, Missouri
Time.....5.00 p. m., C. S. T.

June 4—Dr. F. M. Smith

"The Philosophy of Poe's 'Raven'."
(Music by Independence Artists.)

For Rent Reasonable

Room in modern Latter Day Saint home, near Century of Progress. Small deposit required with reservation. References exchanged.

MRS. S. H. BATTON,
7349 South Michigan Avenue,
Chicago, Illinois.

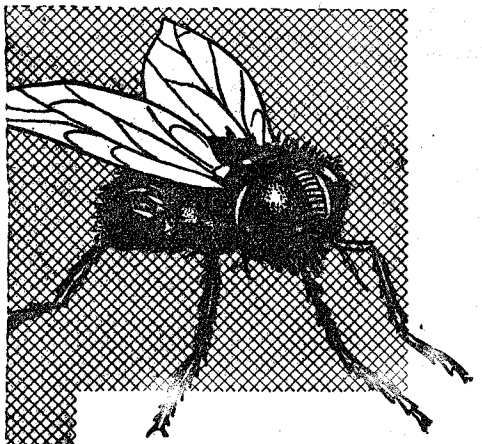
It Doesn't Take Much—to buy a moderate sized home from us. Just look these bargains over and make your choice.

5 rooms—modern—5 blocks north of square.....$2,500
3 Rooms—modern except heat—west end of town 1,500
5 Rooms—modern—southeast of square..... 2,000
5 Rooms—modern except heat—northwest section 1,750

And don't forget that church bonds and notes are as good as gold with us.

THE PRESIDING BISHOPRIC
The Auditorium
Independence, Missouri

www.LatterDayTruth.org



ATTENTION PLEASE!

WE KNOW IT'S FLY TIME BUT

The Herald Publishing House Needs 500 New Customers Who Appreciate Good Printing Service. We Want You to Try Our Printing. We Know That You'll Enjoy The Satisfaction Of Using Stationery That Is CORRECT. Here's Our Special Introductory Offer:

DURING JUNE ONLY

We will complete for you and deliver at your door the following:

250 LETTERHEADS (8½x11 or smaller) (16 or 20-lb. Bond)

250 ENVELOPES (Regular Stock Size 6¾—24-lb.)

$2.98

(Postpaid In U. S. A.)

COPY MUST NOT BE HEAVIER THAN THIS—PLEASE TYPE OR PRINT YOUR COPY

John Doe, President — Richard Roe, Manager

John Doe Manufacturing Co.

Electrical Supplies, Etc.

INDEPENDENCE, MO.

(Letterhead Style Suggestion)

JOHN DOE MFG. CO.
Fifth Avenue,
INDEPENDENCE, MO.

(Envelope Style Suggestion)

This is less than the usual cost of production. These prices good during the month of June Only. Don't ask for an extension of time. We want the people of the church to become acquainted with the work of their own institution.

HERALD PUBLISHING HOUSE

"Where We Unite in Service"

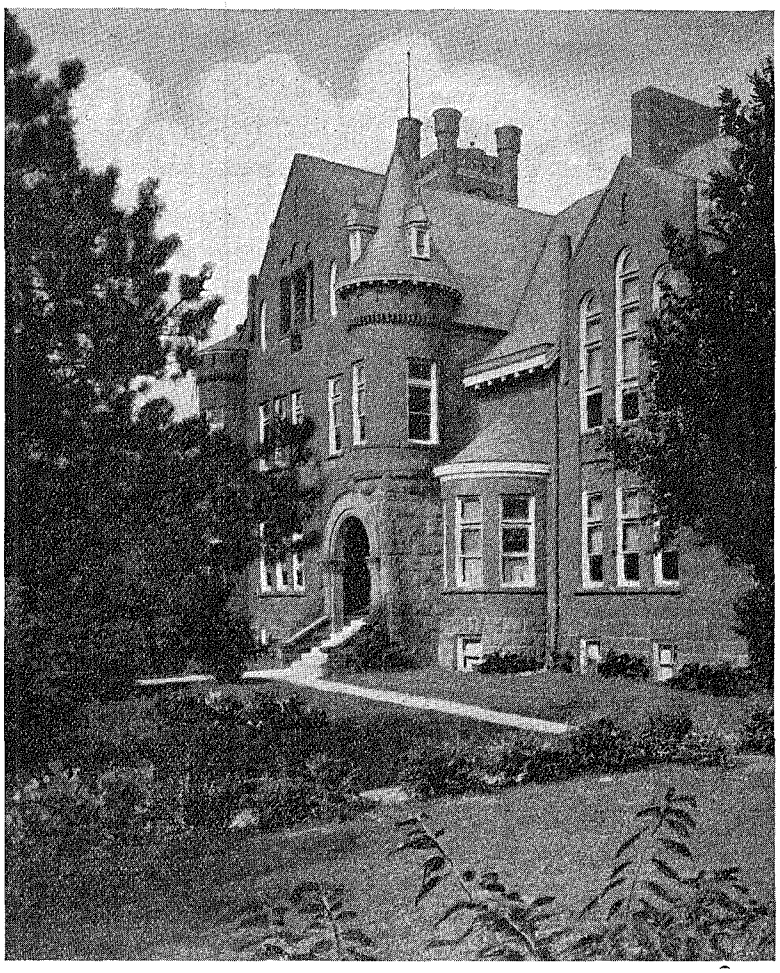
Ward A. Hougas, Manager — Independence, Mo.

www.LatterDayTruth.org

The SAINTS' HERALD

special Youth Conference edition

Graceland College Campus—Lamoni, Iowa—June 17-25



The Administration Building

This structure, patriarch of the fine group of modern buildings on the Graceland Campus, will play its part in providing a welcome to the visitors at the Youth Conference.

"Graceland -- Home of the Youth Conference"

Volume 80 - - - June 6, 1933 - - - Number 23

www.LatterDayTruth.org

THE SAINTS' HERALD

June 6, 1933

Volume 80 - - - Number 23

FREDERICK M. SMITH, Editor in Chief.
ELBERT A. SMITH, Associate Editor.
FLOYD M. McDOWELL, Associate Editor
LEONARD J. LEA, Managing Editor.
LETA B. MORIARTY, Assistant Editor.
WARD A. HOUGAS, Business Manager.

Entered as second-class matter at the post office at Independence, Missouri, under Act of March 3, 1879. Issued weekly at Independence, Missouri. Price $2 a year in advance for the U. S. A., its territories and possessions, and Canada; foreign, $3 a year. Accepted for mailing at the special rate of postage provided for in section 1103, Act of October 3, 1917; authorized July 21, 1921.

Published for the Reorganized Church of Jesus Christ of Latter Day Saints.

HERALD PUBLISHING HOUSE
INDEPENDENCE, MISSOURI

CONTENTS

EDITORIAL:
- Youth at the Round Table 707
- Children's Day 708
- No Baptisms Before the Eighth Birthday 708
- Sacrifice Period 708
- Interested in Nursing? Please Notice 708
- Teaching Positions Wanted 711

OFFICIAL:
- Sacrifice Week 710
- Comparative Report of Income for Months of February and March 710

NEWS BRIEFS 712

ARTICLES:
- The Conference Program 709
- A Mystery 711
- Youth and the Work of the Church, by F. M. McDowell 713
- Worship in the Young People's Program, by Roy A. Cheville 714
- Enduring Convictions, by F. Henry Edwards 715
- The Prophetic Message of the Restoration, by John F. Sheehy 716
- Prophetic Messages of the Bible, by J. A. Koehler 717
- Music in the Services of the Church, by Mabel Carlile 718
- Drama, by June Whiting Lea and Florence Thompson 718
- Youth's Part in the Latter Day Restoration, by Alice M. Burgess 719
- Young People in Other Churches, by Edna Stobaugh 720
- Young People in Action, by C. B. Woodstock 722
- Prayer and Testimony 724
- Question Time, by A. B. Phillips 726

NEWS OF CHURCH AND HOME 727

THE BULLETIN BOARD 735

The Pigeonhole

Read This

It makes dull reading, of course, but we think you ought to know what is printed in this column. Ignorance of the facts protects nobody.

Keep It

For a little while anyway. This Special Youth Conference Edition of the Herald is your handbook of information. Don't wrap your rubbers in it until the conference is over. Try to read it whether you like it or not. We sidetracked a lot of good stuff for our general readers to print these outlines for you, and you ought to be thankful. If you want to know what all the excitement is about when the big pow-wow starts, here's your chance.

Everybody Register

If you don't you'll wish you had before this fracas is over. It costs $1.00 for the whole week, which is a lot of money these days we know; but it costs money to run this kind of a show and we don't know any better way than this to get it out of you. Oh, yes, there are a few trinkets for bait—a pretty conference badge; a notebook with full directions for taking the courses, and a lot of pages for drawing pictures or writing billets doux; and a pass to all the plays and meetings. If you don't register they'll charge you a dime to see each play. If you sneak in at the end of the conference you can get your souvenirs and see some plays for 25 cents. Be a good sport and help out.

Those Who Stay at Home

Have asked us for helps and outlines in order that the materials of the Youth Conference may be available for them, too, in order that local conferences may derive some of the benefits enjoyed by the big gathering in Lamoni. That is one of the reasons why we are printing this special edition. Save this copy. It is your notebook on what is expected to happen in the discussions in Lamoni. Use it for your own local and district gatherings. Of course, we expect to give reports afterward, and you may watch for them too.

Evening Performances

The show will be practically continuous, with a little time out for eating and sleeping. We haven't said much to advertise the evening addresses because we thought the speakers should be able to draw their own crowds without the help of advertising. They will dish out the stuff that you will argue about the next day, if that tip means anything to you. Better be on hand.

A Busy Time

The schedule will be crowded with activities, all of them important. Most of the young people in attendance will mean business and attend all meetings. Those whose ears tingle for the song of the nightingale and the voice of romance will have to cut a few classes to indulge their particular fancy. But remember this—you can promote a romance any time; this will be your one and only chance to learn something from a Youth Conference in 1933.

See you Saturday at the reception!

THE PIGEON.

www.LatterDayTruth.org

Youth at the Round Table

The Purpose of the Convention

"What the church shall do for and with its youth is closely allied to the question of what the youth shall do for and with the church. . . . The purpose of the convention at Lamoni in June will be to enter frankly with the youth into a discussion of our problems and discover the common grounds on which we must approach them."—From an editorial by President Frederick M. Smith, in the "Herald" for January 11, 1933.

"With peculiar pleasure" we bring to our readers this week the special "Youth Conference Number of the Herald." If the enthusiasm, intelligent effort and unadulterated joy which have accompanied its preparation may be considered a good omen, this issue should find a prominent, if not permanent place in our church literature.

A glance at the Table of Contents will reveal something of the variety of purpose had in mind by those who prepared these pages. Conference visitors will find here a detailed, daily program of conference outlines and syllabi for the various lectures, classes and forum discussions; a summary of the activities of our young people in various church centers during the past year with a brief analysis of organizations and methods and a hint as to certain changes which seem to be justified as the result of experience. To give all this the proper perspective, an account is given of the contribution of the youth of yesterday to the church and also of the activities and programs of the young people of other churches of our own day.

We have, in a word, in this issue of the Herald an indispensable daily guide for the conference visitors prepared in a form most practical for such use and yet adequate to the task of carrying to our young people and their leaders throughout the world not only something of the spirit of the conference, but also a program of work and study for months to come.

The June "Youth Conference" is timely. Never has humanity faced a greater number or variety of intricate problems. Never has our church faced a greater challenge. No individual, age, group or class of persons, is alone adequate to the task confronting us. The wisdom of age and the courageous enthusiasm of youth must be made to supplement each other. The church may save its youth only as its youth share in the task of saving the church.

The church saves itself by saving youth. Youth in turn finds salvation by losing itself in the tasks of the church.

The purposes of this convention have been clearly set out elsewhere. The procedure to be followed will vary from day to day in harmony with these purposes. As we sit down together to discuss our mutual problems and to further qualify ourselves for an intelligent, unified advance out on the frontiers of church endeavor, let us keep ever uppermost in our thinking the major interests involved in our deliberations.

The cause which we represent is God's cause. This is his church. It has certain divine appointments which must be recognized and preserved. Its organization, doctrine, ordinances, priesthood and goals are God-given. It is in, for, and with such a church that our young people are to serve.

On the other hand we dare not overlook or disregard the nature and needs of youth. The church must in a very vital sense become their church, its task their task, its goals their goals. Young people have alert minds, unlimited energy, boundless enthusiasm, unquestioned courage. To furnish a leadership both intelligent and scientific enough to capture, mould and utilize these great forces, becomes at once a most difficult and most rewarding task. To outline a program of procedure which will be true to both the church and youth, conserving the divinely appointed interests of the one and the divinely appointed nature of the other, becomes the most immediate and pressing problem of the conference. To disregard either of these two great considerations will but spell defeat for our entire effort.

As we enter upon this adventure into ways of fellowship and mutual endeavor, may we not express our faith in God and his church, in the loyalty, devotion and integrity of its young people, and in the final triumph of truth and righteousness. That this faith and the vision which it involves shall become an actual on-going program, is the mission and purpose of the "Youth Conference and Leadership Convention" of 1933.

F. M. McD.

Membership in the church will mean more and rise to higher standards when as much care is exercised in the indoctrinating of young candidates for baptism as is exercised in the proselyting efforts that are used for older people. L. L.

www.LatterDayTruth.org

Children's Day

It is well to have Children's Day on which special programs should be arranged to interest children as well as their parents in following the divine admonition to have the children baptized at the age of eight. Seeking the Lord in the days of our youth is sure to be followed by good results. Baptism should, of course, be preceded by instructions which will guarantee that sufficient knowledge is possessed by the child on the purposes and benefits of the rite of baptism. To bring the child up in the nurture of the Lord requires this preliminary teaching as well as setting before him the example of godliness and right living.

Decision must be made, and the fixing of Children's Day helps in making that decision to obey. In fact an invitation should be extended, and parents and children will do well to cooperate to make this decision firmly and thoughtfully. There are many reasons why parents should be earnest and persistent in their efforts to have this decision made early, so that the admonition of the Lord may be heeded. Children's Day helps, for it thus becomes a goal or limit which expedites the decision.

Baptism or the covenant of obedience to divine command is helpful in times of temptation. And every baptismal service, more emphatically where administered to children, should impress this covenant upon the candidate.

It is well to have Children's Day. But the unity of the faith should not be disturbed by drawing too hard and fast lines between the child and adult or youth and age in churchly duties, rites, and ceremonies. Where special ceremonies are held, the appropriateness of the occasion should be observed. The older ones should make Children's Day for the children, and make it impressively so. Let us make the day impressive and helpful to our children.

F. M. S.

No Baptisms Before the Eighth Birthday

June 11 has been set for Children's Day and the Presidency desires to issue a little word of warning to the men of the ministry relative to the baptizing of children. It is of course well to urge that children and their parents shall reach a decision so that, according to the instructions given in the Doctrine and Covenants, children at the age of eight years may be prepared to ask for baptism understandingly. In the past, however, due to zeal and a desire to increase our numbers and to have baptisms on Children's Day, there have been baptisms which have preceded by days, weeks, and even months the eighth anniversary of the birth of the child. This has caused trouble in a number of cases. The Joint Council of Presidency, Twelve, and Presiding Bishopric, as well as the General Conference, has rather emphatically decided against the baptism of children under eight years of age. Let the ministry take due notice and govern themselves accordingly. Children under eight should not be baptized. The resolution specifically referred to is General Conference Resolution No. 552, adopted April 15, 1904. A hint to the wise is sufficient, etc.

F. M. S.

Sacrifice Period

June 25-July 2

As expressed by the Bishopric in another column, it was the hope of many if not all of the general officers of the church that such progress would have now been made towards the goal of having all members regular contributors to the financial support of the church along the lines laid down in the law that further sacrifice drives would be unnecessary. But in this there is disappointment experienced, for not enough of the districts have increased the number of contributors by the personal contact method. So another sacrifice period has been thought by the Bishopric to be necessary. So the period of June 25 to July 2, is designated, and we feel sure there will be hearty response to the appeal by the Bishops.

It is gratifying to note the progress made in reducing the interest-bearing debt of the church. To have reduced that debt by about one hundred twenty thousand dollars in 1932, is a result for which I extend to the Bishopric hearty congratulations, and suggest that a fine way we can show our appreciation is to make such hearty response to their appeal for sacrifice that we not only make up the deficit probable for the year, but go a bit over to permit further reduction of the debt. Allons!

F. M. S.

Interested in Nursing? Please Notice

One year ago an announcement was made of a "New Combination Course in Nursing and Liberal Arts" to be offered jointly by Graceland College and the Independence Sanitarium. According to this plan a student is required to spend four years in training, one year (the first) at Graceland College and three years at the Independence Sanitarium. Upon completion of this combination course the student is to receive the title of Associate in Arts (A. A.) and Graduate Nurse (G. N.).

The first class to be received on this new basis enrolled at Graceland in September, 1932, and now having completed the first year of training will be received at the Independence Sanitarium the first of next July. (Continued on page 711)

www.LatterDayTruth.org

The Conference Program

Saturday, June 17:

10.00 a. m. and 2.00 p. m.	Administration Building—Registration and Enrollment
7.30 p. m.	College Chapel—Program and Reception by Lamoni Young People

Sunday, June 18:

9.00 a. m.	College Chapel—Conference Sacrament Service
10.45 a. m.	Opening Address—"Christ and Society," by President Frederick M. Smith
3.00 p. m.	Sacred Concert—Arranged by Mabel Carlile and Joseph Anthony
7.30 p. m.	Lamoni Coliseum—Prelude, "Fiat Lux," by Council Bluffs Young People
8.00 p. m.	Address—"Youth and Our Financial and Industrial Program," by Bishop G. L. DeLapp

Daily Schedule—Monday, 7:30 a. m., to Saturday, 5:30 p. m.

7.30 to 8.20 a. m.	Class Work in Materials and Methods "Music in the Services of the Church," (See page 718.) by Mabel Carlile "Drama," (See page 718.) by Florence Thompson and June Whiting Lea "Worship in the Young People's Program," (See page 714.) by Roy Cheville "Recreational Leadership," by E. E. Closson "Pastoral Administration," by Blair Jensen
8.30 to 9.30 a. m.	Morning Worship—Roy Cheville in charge
9.45 to 10.30 a. m.	Class Work in Appreciations "Prophetic Messages of the Bible," (See page 717.) by J. A. Koehler "Prophetic Message of the Restoration," (See page 716.) by J. F. Sheehy
10.45 to 12.00	Forum, Address and Discussion (See page 715.) "Enduring Convictions," by F. H. Edwards
1.00 to 2.00 p. m.	Rest Hour
2.00 to 4.00 p. m.	Forum—Address and Discussion (See page 713.) "Youth and the Work of the Church," by F. M. McDowell
4.00 to 5.30 p. m.	Recreation Hour
7.30 to 8.00 p. m.	Evening Prelude—One-act Plays, Reading, Special Music
8.00 p. m.	Evening Addresses Monday—"Progress and World Peace," by F. H. Edwards Tuesday—"Youth's Place in the Modern World," by Leonard Lea Wednesday—"Facing the Problem of Leisure," by F. M. McDowell Thursday—"Physical Health and Efficiency," by Dr. C. F. Grabske Friday—"Training for Life," by President G. N. Briggs
9.30 p. m.	Social Hour and Evening Worship—Walker Hall Directed by John F. Sheehy

Saturday, June 24:

7.30 p. m.	College Chapel—Three One-act Plays "At the Gate Beautiful," by Des Moines Young People "Violin Maker of Cremona," by Independence Young People "Overtones," by Kansas City Young People

Sunday, June 25:

8.00 to 10.00 a. m.	College Campus—Young people's prayer service
10.45 a. m.	Closing address, "What the Church Has to Offer Youth," by President Elbert A. Smith
2.30 p. m.	College Chapel—Final Dedication Service

www.LatterDayTruth.org

OFFICIAL

Sacrifice Week

June 25-July 2

For the past two years consistent effort has been made by both general church and district officers to encourage the membership in the systematic and regular payment of tithes and the giving of offerings in the hope that the need for sacrifice periods would be eliminated. A certain degree of success has been achieved in a number of districts where full cooperation has been given. However, a careful check has revealed that a great many districts have not responded to the fullest extent.

In spite of adverse conditions through which we are passing there are some signs of progress which should prove encouraging to the Saints. During the last year our interest-bearing indebtedness has been reduced approximately $120,000. This, of course, was not achieved as a result of excess of income over expenses, but was largely due to liquidation of certain assets, some of which carried interest bearing encumbrances. This liquidation has been effected in harmony with the program inaugurated in 1931 and adopted by the General Conference of 1932.

Another sign of progress is that of balancing the budget for the year 1932, our income having amounted to approximately $1,500 more than our expenditures. This was made possible through the cooperation and loyalty of the Saints throughout the church, a careful administration of budget expenditures, and the splendid cooperation of many of our creditors in reducing the interest rate. Continued effort is being made for further reductions of interest to enable the church to "carry on."

Recent reports show a substantial decline in income which makes necessary our appealing to the members for continued whole-hearted support. It is imperative that we increase our income during the next few weeks to meet our current needs. The above period is, therefore, being set aside as a time of sacrifice.

While it is not the intention of the General Church to inaugurate a sacrifice period as heretofore, it is deemed necessary to present the matter to the Saints for consideration and action.

Figures are being prepared in our office covering the per capita contributions in each district, these will be sent to the district officers for study and consideration. These officers are expected to inform the members of the district and to make such contacts as may be advisable and necessary. A special effort in many districts appears justified.

The cooperation of all in the observance of the sacrifice period is most earnestly solicited.

THE PRESIDING BISHOPRIC,
By G. L. DELAPP.

Comparative Report of Income for Months of February and March 1933—1932

May 31, 1933.

The following statement of income for the months of February and March shows a continued decline in the amount received in a number of districts, resulting in a rather substantial decrease in the total.

Attention is called to the fact in districts where special efforts are being made to increase the number of solicitors, as well as contributors, that the 1933 income compares favorably with that for 1932. We again wish to call attention to the need for continued and persistent effort on the part of the financial officers in making personal contact with the membership.

Delay has occurred in submitting this report due to the amount of work involved in closing the books for 1932. The report for April will appear in the near future.

THE PRESIDING BISHOPRIC,
By G. L. DELAPP.

District	Feb., 1933	Feb., 1932	Mar., 1933	Mar., 1932
Independence Stake	$ 2,807.68	$ 1,821.53	$ 1,704.27	$ 1,798.37
Far West Stake	265.21	458.75	239.43	364.30
Holden Stake	376.84	465.26	179.00	262.21
Kansas City Stake	707.06	957.43	923.30	638.79
Lamoni Stake	437.37	182.81	146.84	1,406.49
Alabama	102.42	260.31	42.26	91.68
Alberta	47.32	88.07	48.30	33.40
Arizona	19.15	77.88	4.65	21.57
Arkansas	6.90	.25	7.70	9.34
California, N.	717.43	324.15	366.23	385.80
California, S.	356.86	424.93	497.99	528.17
Chatham	233.74	260.94	279.27
Clinton	89.31	334.77	55.14	89.28
Colorado, E.	415.64	275.19	238.75	256.33
Colorado, W.	67.89	20.47	15.43	18.87
Des Moines	315.60	420.98	76.07	347.27
Detroit	494.55	881.10	476.87	787.46
Florida	88.88	76.62	35.65	58.16
Idaho	47.96	60.03	40.76	43.26
Illinois, C.	56.33	58.49	40.84	47.75
Illinois, N. E.	315.16	601.23	204.26	399.23
Illinois, S. E.	147.13	114.26	72.98	38.76
Indiana, S.	45.24	224.89	25.84	83.59
Iowa, N. W.	292.10	284.10	298.15	1,027.90
Iowa, S. W.	141.66	152.09	112.88	183.01
Kansas, N. E.	114.53	182.23	57.19	60.02
Kansas, N. W.	17.65	76.33		25.00
Kansas, S. W.	59.51	167.46	93.04	340.39
Kentucky and Tennessee	7.35	45.27	6.14	37.15
Kirtland	271.83	607.96	270.97	472.07
London	208.29	471.91	237.94	237.29
Maine, E.	97.10	234.91	59.19	44.72
Maine, W.	38.88	96.46	116.53	230.52
Michigan, C.	254.98	507.06	159.81	220.24
Michigan, E.	260.11	293.43	281.52	295.07
Michigan, N.	57.87	89.26	35.42	38.08
Michigan, S., and Ind., N.	505.29	385.41	352.21	339.08
Michigan, W.	70.18	148.52	91.54	57.57
Minnesota	71.53	61.97	66.86	75.39
Missouri, S.	167.37	75.91	87.35	65.78
Mobile	13.63	45.43	27.90	169.50
Montana, E.	11.10	13.00	35.82	36.54
Montana, W.	113.09	136.45	65.89	38.42
Nauvoo	180.26	180.86	48.77	154.72

www.LatterDayTruth.org

District	Feb., 1933	Feb., 1932	Mar., 1933	Mar., 1932
Nebraska, C.	32.77	17.91	39.47	69.18
Nebraska, N. E.	180.73	421.69	797.51	249.66
Neb., N. W., & Black Hills	71.19	24.14	38.85	75.33
Nebraska, S.	96.86	241.56	95.26	110.12
New England, So	327.00	991.97	327.71	491.55
New York	21.70	394.06	811.60	182.69
New York and Philadelphia	554.81	273.95	366.87	399.96
North Dakota	77.75	59.91	33.72	93.10
Ohio, N. W.	93.14	124.75	65.42	77.45
Ohio, S.	443.80	473.41	444.73	403.86
Oklahoma, E.	9.87	25.25	8.00	40.60
Oklahoma, C.	215.55	191.31	250.24	298.15
Oklahoma, W.	115.03	139.51	4.00	1.00
Owen Sound	213.12	144.16	116.40	124.58
Pittsburgh	96.82	136.34	84.98	107.69
Portland	122.45	102.34	86.94	245.62
Rock Island	169.90	467.72	124.95	138.80
Saint Louis	118.63	251.85	104.36	101.71
Saskatchewan, N.	22.48	31.76	51.81	272.31
Saskatchewan, S.	12.00	9.50	28.25	48.89
Seattle and British Col.	617.50	463.99	438.27	208.18
Spokane	94.62	165.98	354.95	107.87
Spring River	313.79	10.32	684.20	1,422.58
Texas, C.	85.99	92.12	121.57	69.35
Texas, S. W.	41.36	40.33	41.03	39.80
Toronto	162.67	372.90	248.26	262.06
Utah	25.36	28.47	32.68	35.38
West Virginia	48.49	80.27	69.45	65.09
Wheeling		156.99	190.96	35.97
Winnipeg	15.50		7.20	2.45
Wisconsin, N.	33.92	78.25	24.30	9.93
Wisconsin, S.	143.39	175.66	103.41	80.25
Unorganized	140.15	124.45	152.84	363.20
Australia
British Isles				2,246.32
Germany
Hawaii	76.50	105.44		254.81
Norway and Sweden	6.33	17.96	5.13	34.83
Society Isles	45.48	111.17	9.65
Foreign Unorganized	16.00	50.00
Total	$15,968.63	$19.183.75	$14.591.92	$20.628.86

Interested in Nursing? Please Notice

(Continued from page 708.)

This venture, which is in full accord with the best thought at the time, has been sufficiently successful to justify the Boards of Trustees of the two institutions in making the temporary arrangement permanent. Hereafter all students desiring to take training in the Independence Sanitarium will be required to spend the first year of their course at Graceland College. The officials of the Sanitarium expect to adhere rigidly to this rule. Those planning to take nurses' training should make their plans accordingly.

As previously suggested this course

Saves Time—Five year's work in four.

Broadens Training—Combines cultural and professional preparation.

Increases Efficiency—Provides proper balance of theory and practice.

Opens New Avenues for Service—Graduates will have splendid foundation for either teaching or supervision.

We are happy to give our full indorsement to this combination course. Here as in other ways the church and her institutions set the pace. As we write these words the report comes of the working out of such a combined effort by one of the wealthiest hospitals and largest universities of the Middle West. Undoubtedly others will follow this example.

Young women interested in nurses' training should write at once for detailed information in regard to this new combination course. Letters addressed either to President G. N. Briggs, Graceland College, Lamoni, Iowa, or to Miss Gertrude Copeland, superintendent of the Independence Sanitarium, Independence, Missouri, will receive immediate attention. The Graceland College catalogue for 1933-1934 which is now available for distribution contains on page 55 complete information in regard to this course. The summer months will pass quickly. Write at once and begin now to make your plans to enroll at Graceland in September, 1933.

F. M. McD.

Teaching Positions Wanted

A number of church members of excellent character, training, and ability, who have prepared for teaching, some of them with several years of experience, find themselves without positions for the coming year, and without prospects of securing positions. This is causing distress among their families.

If any readers of the Herald know of opportunities for school-teachers, principals, or superintendents, we should be most grateful to have them communicate with us. Inquiries will be treated confidentially and given immediate attention. Credentials and letters of recommendation can be furnished. And, if circumstances justify it, parties will be put into direct communication. We urge promptness, however, because every available position is generally taken as quickly as the opportunity offers. Those who would help must move rapidly. Write directly to the Herald Editors.

A Mystery

It is sometimes urged that prayer is mysterious. So is everything else, if we stop to think about it. Matter is a mystery. Nobody knows what matter is. Force is a mystery. Nobody knows what force is. Gravitation is a mystery. Nobody knows what gravitation is. Nobody know what takes place when we drop a lump of sugar into a cup of coffee. Whether the change is mechanical or chemical, the very wisest men are not able to say. We know just one thing, that by dropping sugar into the coffee the coffee is sweetened. For most of us that is enough. We know that by dropping a prayer into a day we sweeten the day. How this is brought about we do not know. Who has sight so keen and strong that it can follow the flight of song or flight of prayer? Why should we not be as reasonable and practical in our religion as we are at the dinner tables.—Charles E. Jefferson.

www.LatterDayTruth.org

NEWS BRIEFS

Lamoni Expects a Large Crowd at Youth Conference

Lamoni, Iowa, is taking on new life as the opening date of the youth conference of the church, June 17, draws near. As the conference city it will draw a record crowd from all parts of the United States. "Already between a hundred and seventy-five and two hundred young men and women and youth leaders have sent word that they expect to be here," says The Lamoni Chronicle. "They are coming in caravans from such distant points as California and Maine and in carloads from many other districts. Representatives will be here from a majority of the districts of the church in the United States and from some in Canada."

These guests will be housed in the college dormitories and dined in the commissary. Some will stay with relatives and friends in town, and still others have made arrangements to bring tenting equipment and pitch camp on the campus.

Nine Baptized at Alton, Illinois

A few days ago Evangelist Richard Baldwin baptized nine young people at Alton, Illinois, at the close of a series of missionary meetings. The candidates ranged in age from ten to twenty-five years, and a fine spirit characterized their acceptance of the gospel. This was the second short series of meetings Brother and Sister Baldwin had conducted at Alton.

President F. M. Smith in Far West Stake

President F. M. Smith completed a successful tour of Far West Stake May 28. He spent two Sundays in the stake, preaching three times each day. Neighboring groups joined in the services at each place, making it possible for the President to speak to representatives from all parts of the stake. The first Sunday, May 21, was spent in the eastern part of the stake centering at Cameron and Stewartsville. The following Sunday Brother Smith spent at Guilford and Saint Joseph.

Southern California Graceland Alumni Organize

Graceland alumni of Southern California District have formally organized themselves under the name Southern California Graceland Alumni Association. This action was taken by thirty-two ex-Gracelanders at a banquet the evening of May 27, at Central Los Angeles Church, and the following are officers of the association: President, Stella Brockway; vice president, Rupert Wight; chairman of finance committee, Wilber Gillen, and corresponding secretary, Winifred Milner.

The association plans to do many things. There was much head nodding at the banquet when it was suggested that they send a student to Graceland each year from Southern California. The association will meet again this month to make further plans and arrangements.

Topeka Junior Choir Invited to Take Part in State Fair Program

On May 19, in the evening, the junior choir of Topeka, Kansas, Branch, furnished four special numbers for the Topeka Council of Children's Workers' Institute, held at the First Baptist Church. The choir was directed by Fern Weedmark and Mildred Goodfellow.

Mr. Settle, of the State Council, was present and stated that the junior choir of the Latter Day Saint Church was the only vested choir in the city, and extended an invitation to them to take part in the Kansas State Fair program in September.

Sixtieth Wedding Anniversary for Doctor and Mrs. Joseph Luff

"Sixty busy years have flown since Joseph Luff, twenty years old, and Janet Parker, eighteen, stood before the altar in their native city of Toronto, Canada, May 24, 1873, and were made husband and wife," says the Independence Examiner. Both are still active and interested in the affairs of life, and on May 24, this year were receiving the congratulations of numerous relatives and friends at their home in Independence. There was no formal celebration of the anniversary.

They came to Independence in 1879. Doctor Luff has to his credit a career as missionary for the church, physician, pastor, and author. Today he continues as a practicing physician, and a preacher not under regular assignment. He has written books on phases of the latter day faith and is the author of several hymns. Ten years ago this venerable couple formally observed their golden wedding day. They are the parents of three daughters and two sons all of whom live in Independence.

www.LatterDayTruth.org

Youth and the Work of the Church

This program feature is for everybody, and is given each day from 2 p. m. to 4 p. m. - - - - - - - - -

By F. M. McDOWELL

The period from two to four p. m. each week day of the "Youth Conference" will be set aside for addresses, forum discussions, group conferences, etc., all dealing with aspects of the general theme, "Youth at Work in the Church." Topics will be assigned for discussion each day. The procedure followed will vary from day to day according to the nature of the topic under consideration. A conscientious effort will be made to conduct this forum in a manner which will permit freedom of participation and yet will eventuate in some tangible and practicable conclusions. A careful selection will be made in advance, of speakers, chairmen of group conferences, findings committees, etc. Talk there will be, and plenty of it, but talk pointed towards the solution of mutual problems and in line with the nature, needs and goals of the church.

Monday, June 19.

Topic Number 1 —"The Church: Its Divine Appointments."

THE PROBLEM STATED: The church represented in this conference is distinctive; distinctive in its origin, beliefs, message, organization, government, and goals.

Our first problem is to see, then, just what manner of church this church is, to set up clearly its divine appointments and to state the implications of this picture in our attempt to discover the place and part of young people in its work. It must first of all be clearly realized that in this forum we are concerned with the work and activities of young people as members of the church.

In a word, our first task is to set up the nature and purpose of the institution in, for, and with which our young people are to serve.

PROCEDURE: This topic will be discussed in an address of thirty minutes to be followed by a short period for questions and constructive comments.

Topic Number 2—"The Missionary Task of the Church —Winning Men."

THE PROBLEM STATED: "This church is essentially a missionary church. When it ceases to function as such it will die." "The 'gospel' requires the sharing. To lose the desire to share its good news is to lose the very essence of its spirit." Are these oft repeated statements true? Such is our second problem.

Just what is the meaning, purpose, significance and value of missionary work? Is it an out-of-date procedure? Does the divine commission "Go preach" refer to the church of the present day? In a word, can our missionary task be so formulated that its challenge and costliness, its attractiveness and compensations will again appeal to our young men and young women? Is there a real place for youth here? What are the bearings of this divinely imposed task in our attempt to set up a working program for our young people?

PROCEDURE: This topic will be discussed in an address of thirty minutes to be followed by a short period for questions and constructive comments.

Topic Number 3—"The Local Church at Work —Building Men."

THE PROBLEM STATED: The unit of our church administration and endeavor is the local church or branch. Just what is the place and function of a branch as related to the work of the church as a whole? What activities may legitimately be carried on as a part of branch work? Can there be a unified endeavor? What are the paramount responsibilities of individual members? Is there a real place for young people in a properly organized and functioning branch? If so what is that place?

In a word, can the work of the local church be so organized, supervised and carried out as to capture the enthusiasm and call out the self-sacrificing service of young people?

PROCEDURE: This topic will be discussed in an address of thirty minutes to be followed by a short period for questions and constructive comments.

Tuesday, June 20.

Topic Number 4—"Our Financial and Industrial Program."

THE PROBLEM STATED: The church must win men and build men. It must finance this total endeavor, but this "financing" in itself must be so administered as to become part and parcel of the saving work of the church. Our God-given financial law thus has as its chief purpose not the financing of the church but the salvation of men.

What is the present financial situation in the church? What are the next steps in our financial program? What is the relation of these steps to the total program of industrial Zion? Can Zion, "the vision splendid," be so defined as to capture our youth? Is there a real place for young people in our financial and industrial program?

PROCEDURE: This topic will be discussed in an address of forty-five minutes followed by a short period for questions and constructive comments.

Group Conferences—three topics, three groups.

Group 1—Ways in which youth may serve in the missionary work of the church.

Group 2—Ways in which youth may serve in the local church or branch.

Group 3—Ways in which youth may serve in our financial and industrial program.

Wednesday, June 21.

Topic Number 5—"Working Together, or Problems of Cooperation."

THE PROBLEM STATED: If our young people are to work in, for, and with this church, many problems of cooperation will arise. Young people must work with each other, with older people, with teachers, leaders, members of the priesthood, with the pastor. Our knowledge of human nature and of the contrasting viewpoints of youth and age leads us to expect many difficulties here. There will be points of friction. Misunderstandings will arise.

Are these problems insurmountable? Do they mean that either the young people or the older ones must give way or get out of the picture? Must youth and age always be in conflict? What illustrations can be cited of successful adjustments of these problems? What are the sources of friction on the part of leaders? What are the sources of friction on the part of youth? What constructive suggestions can be had pointing towards a harmonious endeavor?

PROCEDURE: Reports of findings of groups on "Ways in which Youth May Serve the Church"—20 minutes. Further questions and constructive suggestions—10 minutes.

Address: "Working Together"—15 minutes. Questions and constructive suggestions—15 minutes.

Group conferences, 45 to 60 minutes. Two groups:

Group No. 1—Young people only.

Group No. 2—Pastors, leaders, teachers and other adults.

Topic—"Working Together."

Thursday, June 22.

Topic Number 6—"Youth Organized for its work in the Church."

THE PROBLEM STATED: In view of the divine appointments of the church already set up and in view of the now generally accepted "Church School Plan," how may our young people be organized for their work in the church?

What, in brief, is the Church School Plans? What provision is made for the activities of young people in the church school plan? What organization of the young people's division is contemplated? Is the organization and program of the young people's division adequate as a youth program for the local church? What does experience have to say on this point? What experiments have been tried in broadening or supplementing the work of the young people's division, and with what success?

www.LatterDayTruth.org

What, if any, district organization of young people is desirable and necessary? What is the voice of experience here? What problems have arisen? Are such difficulties as have appeared inherent in young people's work or are they due to inability or unwillingness to make adjustments?

What is the concensus of opinion in regard to any church-wide organization for young people? What experiments have been tried with the use of a "name" for a young people's organization? What should be the merits or limitations of the use of one name to be applied to the young people's endeavor throughout the entire church?

What lessons may we draw from the years of experience of other denominations in young people's organizations? Is the trend toward or away from a separate young people's organization?

PROCEDURE: Report the findings by young people on the problem of "Working Together"—10 minutes. Report of findings of adults and leaders on the problem of "Working Together."—10 minutes.

Address: "Youth organized for its work in the church." General statement, 20 minutes. Questions, Discussions in "U," 20 minutes. (Discussion will be limited to a select group for this period.)

Mass forum discussion, 45 to 60 minutes.

Friday, June 23.

Topic Number 7—"Plans, Programs, and Activities."

THE PROBLEM STATED: In view of the nature and purpose of the church, the organization and work of the church school, and our conclusions in regard to the organization of our young people within the church, what constitutes a sane program of activities which may legitimately be sponsored by the young people? Is there a real place for such activities as drama, music, literary programs, study, recreation, athletics, worship, scouting, group projects, clubs? What governing principles may we set up which grow out of the purpose of the church? What consideration should be given to the nature and needs of youth here? Shall the church endeavor to duplicate the program of the home, the public school, and community? What should constitute the difference between such group activities under church supervision and those found elsewhere? What suggestions can be offered leading towards a balanced program here?

PROCEDURE: Report of findings on "Youth Organized for its work in the Church"—30 minutes. Questions and constructive suggestions—10 minutes.

Address: "Suggestions for a Balanced Program of Activities"—20 minutes.

Group conferences, 45 to 60 minutes:

Group 1—Scouting for boys.
Group 2—Activity programs for girls—girl scouts, Orioles, etc.
Group 3—Drama, music, literary activities and programs.
Group 4—Recreation, athletics, etc.
Group 5—Study and worship activities.

Saturday, June 24.

Topic Number 8—"Looking Toward a Sane and Balanced Program for Youth Within the Church."

THE PROBLEM STATED: Our task here is to summarize the findings and conclusions of the various discussions throughout the week with a view to furnishing practical guidance to future endeavor. This summary should constitute a working guide and program for the entire church. Certain matters may require further investigation and experimentation. There may be left "some loose ends" which can be cleared up in further discussion. These will be considered in the closing conference hour.

PROCEDURE: Statement of findings of group conferences on activities and programs, 30 minutes.

General summary with statement of unfinished matters, 30 minutes.

Closing conference hour, an open forum. Miscellaneous topics determined by the general summary and nature of unfinished matters.

Worship in the Young People's Program

By Roy A. Cheville

This course is one of the electives of the "Materials and Methods" groups offered every day from 7.30 to 8.20 a. m. - - - - - - - - - - - -

This course aims to discuss first of all the nature and purpose of the worship experience. The term "worship" is widely used today and needs interpretation to prevent triteness or misunderstanding. Fundamentally the worship experience is a harmonious communion with God. In this study the social aspect will be used, which involves a unity with others, as well. Under what conditions is a rich worship attainable? When is it desirable? Will it appeal to young people? How may it help them? How is it essential? What is the Latter Day Saint quality of worship?

The second lesson will deal with the planning of the service of worship. It will set forth a few general principles to follow and will assemble materials usable in the order of the service. Such matters as climax, alternation of feeling, types of services, etc., will be presented. Concrete cases will be considered, so that the principles will be applied to specific services, not to mere imaginary situations. Programs will be presented for the class to evaluate and reconstruct.

The third period will be concerned with the use of themes. Just now the use of themes has become a hobby. In many instances the theme, however, is like the text to the old time sermon—it was read and then forgotten. What is the purpose of using a theme? How are themes found? How are they used in the service? What are some themes that may be used in young people's work?

The next class session will be devoted to the problem of administration. What qualities are desirable in leaders? What staff of workers is necessary? What is the relation to the pastoral arm of the branch? How can the leader plan his work so that the technique will not crush out the spirit but will add to it? May not good services be enjoyed without much planning? The class will arrange a summary of desirable conditions and qualities for administrative workers.

The fifth and sixth periods will consider definite plans for worship services. One session will examine what is often called the "regular" service, and the other the "special" service. In both of these sessions, it is planned to pool the materials of members of the class, so that students will have a helpful addition to their fund of worship materials. Hymns, readings, scripture, poems, etc., will be considered. In the special worship service, such kinds as Christmas, Thanksgiving, Baptism, Mother's Day, and many other types of services will be worked out. Latter Day Saints Anniversary Days will receive special attention. These services will be considered as integral parts of the young people's program.

The course hopes to give (1) a general understanding of the worship service, (2) an opportunity for exchange of valuable experiences, (3) a fund of materials for use in the branch, (4) an understanding of the needs and demands of young people's services, and (5) the spirit and inspiration to work out motivating and uplifting services in the spirit of Latter Day Saintism.

www.LatterDayTruth.org

ENDURING CONVICTIONS

By F. HENRY EDWARDS

This program feature will be given for everyone, each day from 10:45 to 12 o'clock. - - - - - - - - -

A university professor recently called on a group of his students to "Play the game of life like men." "Splendid, professor," said one of them, "but how can we play the game of life unless we know where the goal posts are?" Our thoughtful young people will immediately recognize the importance of this question. If there are no goal posts, there can be no game and rules are just foolishness. In the morning forum at the June convention we are going to survey the field, examine the goal posts, feel the zest of the game, and, we hope, get in and play.

What we really believe about the goals of life determines the kind of life we live. Our beliefs are therefore tremendously important. Many of the most damnable deeds in history have been done by well-meaning people whose consciences were all right but whose convictions were all wrong. We do not need less sincerity, but sincerity wedded to sound convictions.

Constructive activity is but foolishness unless it is supported by an adequate foundation. The thing that Jesus condemned in the man who built his house upon the sand was not his inactivity but his indiscretion. It was not that the builder did nothing, but that he did the wrong thing. He was active and energetic; no doubt he meant well, but his work was utterly without value in the time of crisis and real need.

These are enlisting days, and there can be no neutrality. We require enthusiasm in the other concerns of life. How much more vital is enthusiasm for God's kingdom on earth! The time has come when men of God, being strong in their convictions regarding the work and purpose of Divinity, must feel something of the spirit which animated Paul when he said, "Woe is me if I preach not the gospel," and which moved splendid old John Knox when he cried, "O God! give me Scotland or I die!"

We hope that those participating in the work of the convention will come to this forum in the spirit of worship and with a keen desire to share in the deep and rich experiences of essential Christianity. We do not wish merely to talk about the basic convictions of the followers of Jesus so much as to open our hearts to the enlightening influence of the Spirit of God under which we can feel their compelling power.

There will not be time to include many topics which should rightfully have place in such a course. Our daily themes will be as follows:

Monday, June 19, The Purpose of Our Creation:

Two insistent questions invariably come to mind when we think about the purpose of our creation: To what end were we born? and, Can we look the ugly facts of life squarely in the face and still believe in God? We cannot ignore such stark realities as ignorance, poverty, disease, graft, war, etc. Yet Christianity says: Men were made for a better purpose than this. Their destiny is to become the sons of God. God knows no other way to create spiritual personalities worthy to be called his sons than to put upon us the responsibility of choosing which way we will go, and letting us grow by the choices which we make. Our heavenly Father hates the ugliness of life even more than we do, and is removing it by persuading us to choose his way of life.

Tuesday, June 20, The Love of God:

We live in a world in which we are constantly discovering new beauties. Our own bodies are fearfully and wonderfully made. Yet we ourselves are frequently childish and rebellious, and have spoiled a world full of promise. Our Heavenly Father could compel our obedience, but he could not do so and leave us free. Instead he sent his Son to show us the way to live, and then to suffer in his own body, at Calvary, in order that we might feel the hatefulness of sin. Having done so much for us he is pleading with us to choose his way of living.

Wednesday, June 21, The Tragedy of Sin:

Discourtesy to a stranger is just bad manners, but discourtesy to our mothers is positive indecency. Willful determination to have one's own way among a group of equals is mere obstinacy, but willful determination to have one's own way against the pleadings of our Heavenly Father is sin. The difference, in both instances, lies in the love involved. Sin is treason against the love of God. It is "hardness of heart." And sin brings moral blindness, for no one is so blind to the true meaning of sin as the sinner himself. How to make sinners into sons of God is a problem which only the love of God can solve.

Thursday, June 22, Forgiveness and New Life:

It is useless to move a man out of the slums and leave him with a slum mind. If you do so, he will make a slum out of his new home. Similarly, it is useless to forgive a sinner and to leave him without a change of heart. If you do so he will continue in sin. Our heavenly Father is eager to forgive us, but for our own sakes he first requires that we shall recognize our sinful acts and habits for what they really are, that we shall put them away, and that we shall earnestly desire to live according to his will. Then, and not until then, does forgiveness become complete, and we who were "dead in trespasses and sin" "walk in newness of life."

Friday, June 23, The Church and the Kingdom:

The best evidence of sincere repentance is for us to enlist in the cause of Christ. Service under this enlistment will demand our best thinking and our heart's devotion, but failure to enlist and to serve will cost life itself. The idler is constantly attracted to the ways of sin. Our heavenly Father needs our help in bringing others to Him and in building his Kingdom, but we need to serve him even more than he needs our service.

Saturday, June 24, Immortality and Eternal Life:

There are multitudes of rich men who are poor, for a man's life does not consist of the abundance of his possessions but in the quality of his soul. The reward of a Christian man's devotion is in the kind of person he becomes. "He that hath eternal life is rich." Eternal life is a life of enduring achievements through fellowship with the prophets and seers. It is a social experience ministered to in the ordinances of the gospel, and manifest in the building of the Kingdom. It is the judgment of God meted out to the righteous and the harbinger of celestial glory.

We Are Afraid

Modern life is organized on behalf of those who have and against those who have not. In an acquisitive society money is the golden key that unlocks privileges, education, position, and power. We know in our heart of hearts that this is wrong and unchristian. It cuts straight across Christ's mind. Yet the church is so dependent on that acquisitive society for its economic maintenance that it locks itself behind a closed economic system. Concerning any looking toward justice and fairness, say the one word, "Bolshevic," and most of us take to cover. We are afraid, so we close the doors.—E. Stanley Jones, in Christ of Every Road.

www.LatterDayTruth.org

The Prophetic Message of the Restoration

This is an elective course to be given from 9.45 to 10.30 a. m. every day.

By John F. Sheehy

Introduction

The message of the Restoration has been and is prophetic. It could not be otherwise. It is founded on the revelation of God in latter days. It has life in proportion to its fulfillment of the prophecy of the ages. It must culminate in the complete fulfillment of God's will among men. The angel message has stood the test of a century and has found beautiful expression in the lives of Saints and martyrs—our parents and grandparents. Our study should challenge anew the faith and intelligence, the energy and the consecration of the present generation. The Book of Mormon came as a clear declaration of a pre-Columbian Christian civilization in America. The best students of archæology of our day are admitting the evidences of modern research but are at a total loss to account for the civilization within the range of written history. The books foretell the return of the Jews, and the building of a new Jerusalem. Rapid strides are being made in these directions in our day. We are being swept forward in an age when divine prophecy is finding remarkable fulfillment.

The story of "the restoration of all things spoken of by the mouth of all the holy prophets since the world began" is a message of thrilling interest to those who are called to share in the work of restitution. The early days of the Restoration are replete with the drama of sacrifice, consecration and blessing. They challenge us to go forward in our day to share the burden of carrying the message to the nations of the earth, and to perfect a Zion through which God may demonstrate the power of his truth.—The Editors.

WE EXPECT to help stimulate an active interest in the prophetic calling of Joseph Smith and an appreciation of the Book of Mormon and Doctrine and Covenants, and shall have occasion to refer to the prophetic declarations in them. We hope to have an inspirational class.

The Book of Mormon history came as an outstanding prophecy telling of a pre-Columbian civilization in America.

Both books foretell a new Jerusalem—a Zion to be established.

This subject will be strictly fundamental. We shall endeavor to tell the story of the early days of the Restoration. These are the days of the "restitution of all things spoken by the mouth of all the holy prophets since the world began."

Today and tomorrow we shall have classes to be taught. In this course we intend to stress the use of textbooks by teacher and student. We are fortunate in having two outstanding quarterlies, one by F. Henry Edwards on "A Study of the Doctrine and Covenants"; the other by Woodstock, Davis, and Carpenter on "The Message of the Book of Mormon." No teacher should be without a textbook. We shall urge the use of these two quarterlies.

We are interested in the "work of restoring all things." We shall teach the restoration of:

The Church

Jesus came to save the world. The medium through which he intended to work the salvation of all people is "The Church." To his Apostles he said, "I will build my Church!" The Church of Christ was to be so powerfully organized that no power could overthrow it. The church must preach the gospel. The gospel is the power of God unto salvation. The work of the church is to save the world. As Christ lived so he preached. As he preached so he lived. He lived and preached the way of God's righteousness. God's righteousness is revealed in the gospel. As Jesus triumphed over death, hell, and the grave, so his church shall be the force that will prevail against all powers even the "gates of hell." It was to meet every need of mankind.

Here would be found the government of God. The work of restoration would not be complete, in fact could hardly be started without the restoration of the New Testament Church, with apostles, prophets, doctrine, revelation, and Zion.

The Gathering of Israel

This has always been an interesting subject. The return of the Jews to Jerusalem to rebuild their city has been carefully woven into the story of the restitution of all things. "Lebanon a fruitful field," "Jerusalem a city without walls" is closely connected with the coming forth of a book foretold by Isaiah.

The Book of Mormon

We shall review the story of Isaiah in relation to the story of Joseph Smith. According to Isaiah the "words of the book" are to be delivered to a learned man. "The book" to him that is not learned!

In connection with this book God shall proceed to do a marvelous work, even a marvelous work and a wonder. The story of the restoration is a marvelous work and causes plenty of wonderment.

The Book of Mormon is one of the foundation stones of the Restoration. It is a book that has increased the faith of thousands of people. In this lesson we shall discuss the claims of Joseph Smith, the testimony of the witnesses, and the Solomon Spaulding manuscript.

The Solomon Spaulding Story

There are many stories told about the origin of the Book of Mormon. Two stories hold the center of discussion, the story told by Joseph Smith and the church and the story of the Solomon Spaulding lost manuscript. You will remember two stories were circulated in Jerusalem about the resurrection of Jesus. One story told by the apostles and the other told by the chief priests and the soldiers.

We shall have for the class a complete copy of the answer of the church to the Spaulding story. For many years the elders of the church have been called upon to defend the old tale of the stolen manuscript. This is a very interesting research. It includes a thorough account of Solomon Spaulding's activities to the day of his death. It is also necessary to know something about Sidney Rigdon, Philaster Hurlbut, Eber D. Howe, L. L. Rice, and James H. Fairchild.

Revelation

Revelation is a gift of God made possible by his expanding life in the souls of men. Then again when the prophets spoke they declared a message. They reveal the will of God. Through the prophets God speaks.

The prophets of the Restoration received revelation from God. These revelations are printed in a book. The origin of this book shall be carefully considered and its teachings on the following subjects: Social revelations, moral standards, and the high ideals of the kingdom of God. We shall give special attention to Section 42 of the Doctrine and Covenants. This section is known as "The Law." It is important that we know something about the just requirements of God. It is educational and inspirational to note the high ideals of the church as early as 1831.

www.LatterDayTruth.org

Prophetic Messages of the Bible

By J. A. Koehler

This course is elective, and the material below suggests the main points of discussion by the author. Time, each day from 9:45 to 10:30 a. m. - - - -

Why is interest in prophecy reaching new heights? It is because we are beginning to see in prophecy the answer to the problem of the age. The prophets of yesterday transfixed the civilization of today; they apprehended the distress of peoples and of nations that would arise from such a civilization; and they foresaw the absolute necessity of supplanting our modes of government with The Kingdom mode of government as the only means of saving us from utter destruction.

The problems of all the peoples of all the ages is one. It is the problem of government. The answer to the problem is The Kingdom mode of government. And this is the theme which runs all the way through all the prophecies of the Bible.

For the purposes of this convention we have selected the prophecies which bear most heavily upon and therefore give us the best appreciation of the "Latter Day Work."

Monday, June 19.

"THE GOVERNMENT."

(Isaiah 9: 6, 7.)

From necessity, the business of peoples is "government." Peoples have no other way of realizing the aims for which organized society exists except through government. And therefore the need of the race is Godly Government.

There is no other path to peace. And since the task of The Physician of the race is determined by the need of the patient, which is the race, it was foreordained that Government should be upon HIS shoulder, to order it and to establish it with judgment and with justice.

JUSTICE AND JUDGMENT! The basis of peace. Is it any wonder that, contemplating the achievements of the peoples of the church in the latter days under the leadership of "A CHILD" which "unto us is born"? This master of the problem of government should cry out in the ecstasy of his soul: THE PRINCE OF PEACE.

Tuesday, June 20.

"THE HIGHWAY OF THE PEOPLE."

(Isaiah 58: 62.)

Who has surpassed Isaiah in his passion for social justice? Moreover, he was a master of the problem of social justice. And he knew that social justice was conditioned in Godly government. In this prophecy Isaiah speaks of the government in terms of "The Highway of the People."

And again prophecy points to our day. This is the day, says Isaiah, when the peoples of the church, under divine guidance, would cast up a highway of economic justice which is destined to become "The Standard" for all peoples.

Wednesday, June 21.

"THE STONE CUT OUT OF THE MOUNTAIN."

(Daniel 2; Isaiah 2.)

The peoples of the church in the latter days are to block out a sector of governmental functions which they will take over in the free exercise of their rights as citizens of The State. They will set up their own mode of government in economic life. Isaiah calls it "The Mountain of the Lord's House." We peoples of the church today call it Industrial Zion.

This prophecy of Daniel is an outline of the great changes in government which have taken place throughout the ages. It is a predication of lessening efficacy in government; and a designation of the agency through which A Government of God is to be realized.

Thursday, June 22.

"A MARVELOUS WORK AND A WONDER."

(Isaiah 29.)

What a stormy peace record the world has made—its peoples distressed and distraught! What a blundering record of government! No wonder the prophet should say, "They are drunk but not with wine. They stagger but not with strong drink."

But the governments which the peoples of the church will realize under the leadership of "The Prince of Peace" shall be "A marvelous work and a wonder."

At this point we will discuss God's On-Going Purpose throughout the ages; the theme of all prophecy; the restitution of all things which God has spoken by the mouths of all the prophets since the world began.

Friday June 23.

"MAN SHALL NOT LIVE BY BREAD ALONE."

(Matthew 4: 4; Jeremiah 10: 23.)

Here we must review briefly the industrial progress of the race—the means to which it has resorted in its endeavor to satisfy its wants. And then the outcome of this pig trough philosophy.

This is a prophecy that the economic purposes of the race would miscarry for the want of Godly Government.

It raises for our consideration the question of the relation of righteousness to truth; or, in other words, the relationship of the Kingdom mode of conduct to the efficacy of economic endeavor. At this point we shall try to give an appreciation of the Latter Day Work in relation to the need of the world.

Saturday, June 24.

"THE GOOD NEWS OF THE KINGDOM."

(Revelation 18; Matthew 24.)

"Babylon shall fall." The collapse of ungodly social institutions is decreed in the very nature of things. And the end of ungodly government must come. We can't achieve our purposes without it. But with the fall of Babylon comes the proclamation of "THE KINGDOM." With what ecstasy this galaxy of intellectual stars contemplated the coming kingdom, may be judged by their ALLELUIAHS! The Lord God Omnipotent reigneth. Alleluiah! THE KINGDOM.

And this is the message of the prophets: the kingdoms of this world all shall become the kingdom of our God and his Christ.

Stewardship

"I was born with music in my system. I knew musical scores instinctively before I knew my A. B. C.'s. It was a gift of Providence. I did not acquire it. So I do not even deserve thanks for the music.

"Music is too sacred to be sold. And the outrageous prices the musical celebrities charge today are truly a crime against society.

"I never look upon the money I earn as my own. It is public money. It is only a fund intrusted to my care for proper disbursement.

"I am constantly endeavoring to reduce my needs to the minimum. I feel morally guilty in ordering a costly meal, for it deprives some one else of a slice of bread—some child, perhaps, of a bottle of milk. My beloved wife feels exactly the same way about these things as I do. You know what I eat; you know what I wear. In all these years of my so-called success in music we have not built a home for ourselves. Between it and us stand all the homeless in the world."—Fritz Kreisler.

www.LatterDayTruth.org

Music in the Services of the Church

By Mabel Carlile

The subject, "Music in the Services of the Church," involves such varied church activities and types of music, that it is difficult to know what is best to present in a few class periods. It is obvious that music in the church school might be quite different from that of the preaching or prayer service.

Many of the best trained and most experienced musicians in the church are making plans to be present at the conference. Among these are: Paul Craig, Independence, Missouri; Franklyn Weddle, Flint, Michigan; Arthur Oakman, Berkeley, California; Louise Evans, Grand Rapids, Michigan, and J. H. Anthony, Lamoni, Iowa. Any of these musicians will be glad to help solve the problems of various localities. An effort has been made to determine in advance the particular needs of those who anticipate work in this class. It will be our purpose to make the work as practical and full of help as possible. Special group conferences may be arranged to meet particular needs.

Below are listed fields in which help will be given, depending upon the needs and desires of the class.

(a) Beginning Conducting.
(b) Advanced Choral Conducting.
(c) Music for Social Gatherings or Community "Sings."
(d) Orchestral Problems.
(e) The Voice and its Training.
(f) Graded Anthem Materials for Choirs.
(g) Problems of the District and Local Music Director.

DRAMA

This is offered as one of the elective courses of the "Materials and Methods" group, from 7.30 to 8.20 a. m.

A.—Dramatization in Church Work

By June Whiting Lea

(This outline covers the first set of three lectures, for June 19, 20, and 21.)

Never has there been such a real need for wise and devoted development of dramatization in church work as at the present time. All over the country drama is being given a prominent and progressive place in the activities of the church. The challenge for this real need comes to the teachers and leaders of young people, especially the youth in their 'teens who possess powers of appreciation, possibilities of interpretation, and abilities to accomplish assigned tasks. The first three lessons of this course will concern the opportunities which lie open to the young people of the church for the development of the dramatic instinct.

Lesson I. Values of Church Dramatization

In the first lesson the spiritual, intellectual, and social values of religious drama and entertainments for church use will be discussed.

Religious drama in its true sense is a dramatic form of worship. A study of the history of the Christian church shows us the earliest known specimen of English drama to be a dramatization of the story of the Resurrection arranged by the clergy of the church, acted by them, and presented in the church. The attitude of reverence and the message of religious drama can best be secured by an emphasis on prayer in which those who participate in the drama are made to realize from its beginning that theirs is a consecrated task.

Drama, both religious and recreational, calls for careful preparation and thorough study, not only of the various characters presented, but also of the manners and customs of the period and country which surround the story in order that a correct and worth-while portrayal of events may be given the audience.

The successful production of a dramatization involves one of the great problems of Zionic life—that of working together harmoniously and cooperating in a task that brings understanding and happiness to the group.

Lesson II. Selection of Dramatizations

The selection of dramatizations for religious and recreational purposes will be considered in respect to the occasion, the facilities at hand, the abilities and interests of the group. Attention will be given to a definite place for drama in the year's program of the church as a means of encouraging an expressional activity that will develop the Christian life of its youth.

Lesson III. Interpretation of Drama

Selections from religious and recreational dramatizations will be read and discussed in the relation of thought to speech. The technical principles of reading, such as meaning, diction, vocal quality, and character portrayal will receive consideration.

B.—The Technique of Dramatic Production

By Florence Thompson

(This outline covers the second set of three lectures, for June 22, 23, and 24.)

Lesson I.

A. Preparation of the play:
   1. Know your play thoroughly. Read it again and again. Visualize the setting, the characters, and the action.
   2. Edit the text. Make any necessary changes in the script.
   3. Prepare the prompt book. Mark clearly all cuttings and revisions. Check and underline all warnings for entrances and all back stage cues.
   4. Draw a scene plot for each set. Place all entrances, exits, and windows. Fix the position of the furniture.
   5. Plan the action and stage movement.

B. Rehearsal of the Play:
   1. Work out in advance a definite schedule of rehearsals.
   2. Begin and close rehearsals on schedule time.
   3. Keep these steps of rehearsal in mind.
      a. Familiarize the actors with the play. Read entire play, each actor reading his part. Draw a scene plot for the cast.
      b. Block out the action. Walk through the play, reading lines, using furniture or substitutes in proper position.
      c. Work for memorization and characterization.
      d. Polish the play. Work for tempo, mood, and smoothness. Point up the lines.

Lesson II.

A. Costume:
   1. Plan costumes with an eye to color and line, in order to characterize each actor and fit in with general theme of play.
   2. Make the costumes appropriate.
   3. Be consistent in the use of materials.
   4. Work for general effect—not for detail.
   5. Demand costume rehearsal before dress rehearsal.

B. Make-up:
   1. Use make-up sparingly except for character parts.
   2. Apply straight make-up as follows.
      a. Cold cream.
      b. Grease paint (only when necessary).
      c. Eye shadow.

(Continued on page 723.)

www.LatterDayTruth.org

Youth's Part in the Latter Day Restoration

By Alice M. Burgess

"And it shall come to pass in the last days, saith God, I will pour out of my Spirit upon all flesh: and your sons and your daughters shall prophesy, and your young men shall see visions, and your old men shall dream dreams."—Acts 2: 17.

THE REFORMATION, within and without the Catholic Church was mostly the work of mature men, scholars, priests, and writers of established years and experience. They attempted to free the people of the domination of priestcraft and the religious autocracy of papalism. They emphasized faith, sincerity, and a greater purity of life—instead of dependence on the ritual and sacraments of the church—for salvation. They were noble men, and undoubtedly they possessed a degree of heavenly fire to enable them to effect the Herculean tasks of the Reformation.

But the vision of complete restoration, a rebirth of the New Testament Church with the concomitant rejection of all established churches, had to wait upon the youth of the latter days. And as we study the inception and the development of this great restoration movement, we are struck by the literal fulfillment of our scriptural text. Indeed do the sons and daughters prophesy and the young men see visions. Yet it seems a simple and a fitting thing. For who so well qualified for the audacity, the high idealism and the pure truth of the Latter Day Message—as young men and maidens? For youth with all its illusions, its unbroken courage, its pure faith, and strong purpose, sees visions that the disillusionment and the practical skepticism of maturity can rarely behold.

Look at the fourteen-year-old lads around you. Would you choose any of them to be God's prophet to the world, through whose agency a new dispensation might be born? Yet Joseph Smith at fourteen began on the vision splendid which eventually launched a new church and a new religion: new yet old; old as Christ's message and ministry—yet new as truth always seems which has been forgotten by mankind. Five years the lad prayed, studied, and went about his normal hard working life, straying a little at times from the high purpose that beckoned, yet always returning to the heavenly vision. At eighteen years came the second great vision, and at twenty-one Joseph was entrusted with the plates from Hill Cumorah. Before he was twenty-five years old he had published the Book of Mormon and had been inspired to organize the church. It is an interesting fact that of the six men who were charter members of the church, all were under thirty, and five under twenty-five years of age. The first missionaries who set out to carry the light of the restored gospel through trackless wildernesses to the pioneer communities of the middle west were young men, three of them at least under twenty-six. The importance of this mission to the West can scarcely be over-estimated since it resulted in the establishment of the church in Kirtland, Ohio, with all the thrilling train of events that took place there, and more or less directly in the winning of such valuable men as Sidney Rigdon, Frederick G. Williams, Orson Hyde, Lyman Wight, Luke S., and Lyman E. Johnson, Edward Partridge and Newel K. Whitney to the church.

Of the three witnesses to the Book of Mormon two were under twenty-five; of the eight witnesses all except Joseph Smith, sr., were young men ranging from nineteen to thirty-one years of age. What a sacred testimony and holy trust was theirs, to bear this witness to the world! It is impressive that such young men should be trusted with this responsibility. And it is still more significant that, though they were given this charge in the years of their early manhood, never to the best of human knowledge did any man of them deny the truth of their first clear testimony.

As the church grew and the quorums were organized and filled, a mighty army of young men rallied to do their part, shoulder to shoulder with those of maturer years. Six of the first quorum of the twelve, were under thirty, only one (Thomas B. Marsh) was over thirty-five. The first High Council had its quota of young men, five of whom are known to have been under thirty, and of the first High Council in Zion five were under thirty years.

Emma Smith was encouraged by a direct divine message and called to be an "elect lady" when she had just turned twenty-six. A host of young women, wives, sisters and sweethearts of these youths did their full share in the early church work. Elizabeth Cowdery was sixteen when the church was organized. As the wife of Oliver Cowdery she went through the trying times in Missouri when nineteen to twenty-four years of age.

As we pass on to the annals of the Reorganization we see "Young Joseph" taking his place at the head of the church at twenty-seven years of age. Before he was thirty-five the quorums of the church were organized and working with splendid efficiency, and missionary forces were working all through the states from Maine to California as well as in Canada and Great Britain. He had finished the Inspired Translation and had it off the press and ready for mailing and under his editorship the Herald had grown into a truly valuable paper issued semi-monthly instead of once per month. There is no possible way of measuring the value of the contribution Brother Joseph made during these early years to the development of the church. He laid all the strength and vigor of his young manhood on the altar of service and God accepted and blessed that sacrifice to the good of thousands of souls.

Although Young Joseph humbly sought the counsel and aid of many men of more mature years, there were not lacking in the Reorganization a host of young men and women who vigorously pushed the work in many fields. Four of the first twelve of the Reorganized church were under thirty-five; of these, Jason W. Briggs, E. C. Briggs, and W. W. Blair were to become stalwart pillars in the church. Later such men as Thomas W. Smith, Alexander Smith, William H. Kelley, Zenos Gurley, jr., Joseph Luff, Gomer T. Griffiths, and John W. Rushton were to enter the Quorum of Twelve in early manhood and give valiant service as young men. For many years John W. Rushton was the youngest Apostle of the Restoration, and before his ordination into that quorum (at twenty-eight years) he was known for years in England as the "boy preacher." Other "boy preachers" have made their contribution of early service in the mission field, notably John J. Cornish, T. W. Williams, and R. C. Evans.

Such noble young women as Elizabeth Doty Blair, Emma Burton, Marietta Walker, Mrs. Henry Stebbins, Mrs. B. C. Smith, Alice Cobb, and a little later Mrs. R. S. Salyards. Vida Smith, Audentia Anderson and Estella Wight have played a very definite and measurable part in the Reorganization. They all brought their talents, as young women, to use for the glory of God's kingdom and the service of others.

David A. Smith entered the First Presidency at the age of twenty-eight and gave to the church a number of years of devoted service, leaving a precious legacy of beautiful art and poetry, much of which was produced in boyhood and earlier manhood.

President Frederick M. Smith entered the First Presidency when he was twenty-eight, after earlier years in editorial and missionary training. President McDowell was still thirty-three when he entered that quorum after a notable term of service in Graceland College as teacher and Dean of the College Department. Apostles Gleazer, Ellis, Budd, and Ed-

(Continued on page 723.)

www.LatterDayTruth.org

Young People in Other Churches

By Edna Stobaugh

The present "youth movement" in our church has its counterpart in many other religious bodies. It is a response to the necessities of the hour. We share the impingement of changing conditions in the world in which we live. The movement is an effort to readjust ourselves most effectively to the new intellectual, social, industrial and moral conditions attendant upon the war and its consequences.

We are really living in a new age, and the problem which confronts Christianity is how best to conserve and perpetuate the good of the past in the light of today and to carry it forward in the further conquest of truth and righteousness. This problem we share with other Christian churches; perhaps more than others because of the nature and purpose of the Restoration.

The older societies, such as the Christian Endeavor, Epworth League, Walther League, and Baptist Young People's Union, were a very necessary step to be taken in making the church "youth conscious." The society had to be an auxiliary in order to exist and in order to let youth "live." But in too many cases they became so self-sufficient that the church could be forgotten almost entirely. The church group found itself with two or more separate organizations, often with overlapping, conflicting or inadequate programs, resulting in divided loyalties, friction, and inefficiency.

Thus arose the necessity that the youth in auxiliary societies become "church conscious," on the one hand, with heightened loyalties centered in the ideals and purposes of the church—and that the church group become "youth conscious," on the other hand, and make adequate provision within the church itself, for the program and activities of youth.

Presbyterian

The young people of the Presbyterian church do not now have a national or church-wide organization. Some local churches have adopted the Christian Endeavor plan with its program, while others have developed local organizations of their own. Their leaders of youth observe that Christian Endeavor, being interdenominational, fails to serve denominational interests. Loyalties are built up about the society which fosters their activities rather than about the church in which their membership rests.

One interesting group is the young people of the Linwood Boulevard church of Kansas City, Missouri. The young people are organized into two departments of the church school, high school age and above high school age, with regular officers and teachers. They use some material put out by the Christian Endeavor World and also by their church headquarters for these meetings in the morning. Sunday evening these two groups form as choirs and practice for forty-five minutes before the evening hour. They remain in a body for this service contributing their part in responses and special numbers. In this way the young people support the evening service both in attendance and service; a problem is solved for the pastor and the young people themselves are happy in their service. They have four big activities a year: In the fall a pilgrimage to some nearby town, a banquet at Christmas, an Easter breakfast, and another gathering during the summer. They have abandoned the old Christian Endeavor because it was inadequate and did not serve their purpose; however, due credit is given the society by these people. The new form is bringing better results in so far as it is making their young people "church conscious," and the leaders in charge are quite proud of their success.

Methodist (South)

Miss Elva T. Sturges writes as follows: "I visited the South Methodist headquarters in Nashville. As you know they went onto a new program of religious education one month after we did and they have made a very creditable progress since. The Epworth League is now only a minor organization in their young people's division. Two of the reasons that they assigned for the failure of the Epworth League were the overlapping organization and the programs handed down from headquarters which were not suitable for local groups. Their new organization is probably the best that has yet been devised, but since our own church goal and organization are in no way like theirs it would not be suitable for us."

An excerpt from a pamphlet published by the Methodist Church, South, states: "The legislative provision which the 1930 General Conference made for a unified approach to our whole Christian educational task, grew out of a situation which was generally considered unsatisfactory. In local churches there often was duplication in program, overlapping in organizations, division of loyalties, and sometimes actual competition. It was clear that the church desired to end this situation and to substitute for it a program and an organization which would function effectively and harmoniously. This new program should retain all the values which the three organizations in the young people's field, the Sunday school, the Epworth League, and the Young People's Missionary Society, had developed. Yet the new program should be more than a mere combing of the old. Rather, it should be one program, new and enlarged—a unified program serving young people who live unified lives."

Christian Endeavor

The first Christian Endeavor society was formed by the Reverend Francis E. Clark, minister of the Williston Congregational Church, of Portland, Maine, in 1881. Almost immediately the idea proved valuable. Religious periodicals learned of the new plan and spread its influence. The society's progress caused churches and Sunday schools to examine their programs with new attention. In the years that followed, the movement spread throughout the world, 112 countries and scores of denominations have societies.

Today Christian Endeavor societies are formed for the training of youth in Christian service, within the church and for the church. The society's particular task is to provide training and opportunities for the developing and enriching of the individual's Christian character and his practice and expression in Christian service. "For Christ and the Church" is the society's motto. So important as to be practically essential to the Christian Endeavor plan is the covenant or pledge. The opening sentence of the usual form of pledge reads as follows: "Trusting in the Lord Jesus Christ for strength, I promise him that I will strive to do whatever he would like to have me do."

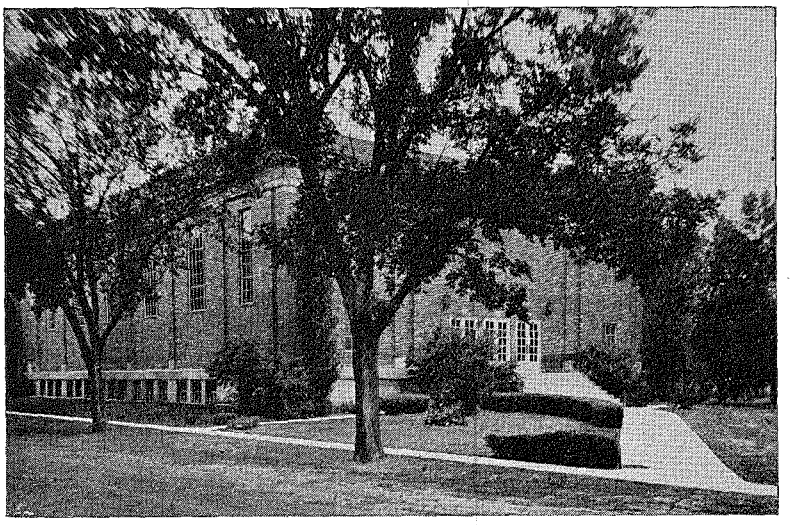
These societies use almost altogether the Committee Plan of organization. The membership of the group is divided into four committees, namely: lookout, prayer meeting, recreation, and missionary. These committees plan and carry out the activities and program of the organization.

Baptist

The society type of young people's organization has always had, and still has, a very distinctive purpose, a very definite goal, in the realm of Christian young people's work. That purpose is to provide the young people with their special part in the church's program for helping individuals live as Christians in the life of today. Specifically, that purpose is to provide a young people's organization made up of young people, managed by young people—preferably with adult counsel—and carrying out a well-balanced program. The commission plan which is being used now provides for the development

(Continued on page 723.)

www.LatterDayTruth.org



Zimmermann Hall—General Assembly

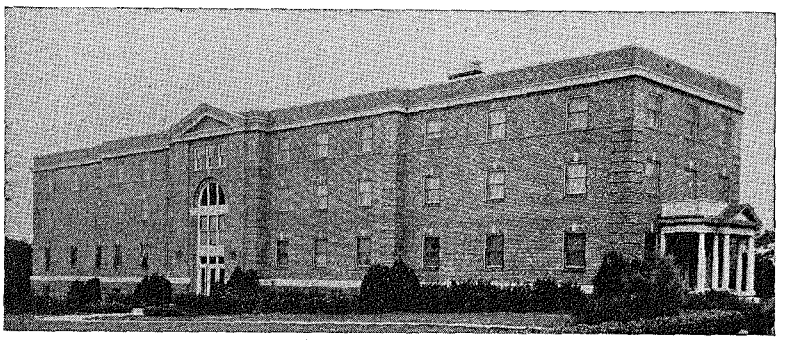
Where the Throngs Will Gather.

GRACELAND COLLEGE

Lamoni, Iowa

"HOME OF THE CONFERENCE"

June 17-25



Walker Hall

Where the Multitudes Are Fed.

The Reception Room

The Place to Meet and Talk

www.LatterDayTruth.org

Young People in Action

By C. B. Woodstock

At the General Conference of 1932, a group of young people representing various parts of the church in all the world, met in a number of called sessions under the direction of E. E. Closson, general church director of young people. Near the close of the conference a "Working Agreement" or plan of action was presented to the General Conference and given publicity in the Daily Saints' Herald. This set out the desire of the young people of the church to provide through the young people's division of the church school for such organization and activities as should enable them most effectively to meet the problems of their personal and group lives in the light of truth as revealed in the gospel, and to render at once the service of which they are capable in helping to carry forward the work of the church.

For this the young people and their leaders felt "the need of pooling experiences, sharing materials and working out together their common problems." To meet this end the young people in this "working agreement" pledged their loyalty, their devotion and their enthusiasm.

The record of the year that has passed has fully justified the pledge. From various parts of the church come evidences that the young people and their leaders are really in earnest in their desire to assist in the responsible work of the church.

We summarize below the organization and activities of young people in a number of the stakes, districts and branches of the church. In each case the organization in itself became an activity, furnishing an opportunity for experience in leadership and an avenue for individual and collective expression.

Kansas City Stake

In the branches of this stake "O. B. K." (Our Brother's Keeper) is the young people's division itself, with officers elected from among the young people. It includes all the young people between the ages of thirteen and thirty who regularly attend and participate in the activities of the group.

The local cabinet is composed of a councilor, vice councilor and secretary-treasurer, elected from among the young people. The young people's director of the church school is advisor to the council, and represents the pastor to whom he is responsible for the work of the council in its relation to the church and its total program. The cabinet plans and carries out the recreational, expressional, and social activities of all the young people in the branch.

In the stake, the O. B. K. council is made up from the elected councilor and the young people's director from each branch. This council chooses a president, vice president and secretary. The treasurer is the stake bishop. The stake council is a clearing house for local program ideas and stake-wide needs of the young people. It plans and sponsors a year's program of activities and educational contests.

The plan has worked excellently for three years, especially where there is available wise and sympathetic leadership. It provides a carefully balanced program planned a year in advance. The branches are close enough together to allow extensive inter-group activity. Leadership is associated with the stake presidency, so conflicts between this program and other church programs are avoided.

Far West Stake

In the branches of the stake a young people's supervisor is appointed by the pastor and church school director. The young people elect a president, vice president, and secretary-treasurer. These with the pastor and the church school director form a council which provides whatever activities seem advisable for the group. The local organization is closely associated with the church school and the branch, being sponsored directly by the young people's supervisor, and indirectly by the church school director and the pastor, thus assuring harmony in the total branch program.

In the stake a director of young people's activities is appointed by the stake presidency, the appointment being ratified by the stake conference and by the young people, themselves. The young people elect a president, vice president, and secretary-treasurer. These four with the stake president constitute a council which plans the stake-wide activities. At present there are four events included in the annual young people's program: a convention in June, reunion in August, a fall rally in November, and a rally in March in connection with the stake conference. These provide occasions for social contacts, expressional activities, class work, inspiration and communion in worship. Between these dates the local groups are busy with local projects.

Under this plan which has been in operation some years, unusually good results are reported. There is splendid enthusiasm and a fine spirit of fellowship among the young people throughout the stake. They feel the responsibility which is shared with them. The name and slogan, "O. T. Z." (Onward to Zion), has been adopted with the song of that title as the theme song.

Holden Stake

In this stake a young people's organization was effected in October, last. The stake young people's council consists of a president, vice president, and secretary-treasurer with four other council members, all elected by the young people. These work under the direction of the stake presidency and with their full cooperation. The members of the council are chosen from the various branches of the stake to distribute representation.

Two special projects have been undertaken; observance of the financial law, and the holding of a stake convention. In recent weeks emphasis has been placed on a large group attendance at the Lamoni conference, the development of a definite local young people's program of activities in each branch, and the making of a schedule of group projects to be completed at the fall stake convention.

A splendid spirit of real fellowship among the young people is reported, with the growth of a definite consciousness of the meaning and purpose of the church, and an appreciation of the responsibility of membership.

Lamoni Stake

A stake young people's council is composed of the supervisor of young people and a representative from each branch. From the council the usual officers are elected to form an executive committee to serve with the stake presidency in planning and carrying forward young people's work.

On May 28, a stake-wide inspirational and fellowship meeting was held. The chief purpose of the organization is to provide occasions for cooperative endeavor and the development of the fundamental religious experiences which make good Latter Day Saints.

Eastern Colorado District

The young people's division is organized in each branch with officers under the young people's leader. The leader, in turn, works under the pastor and the church school director in the branch, and with the district presidency and district young people's officers. In the district there are the three usual officers who work with the district president. Plans for district projects, meetings, conferences, outings

www.LatterDayTruth.org

and the like are carried out through the local young people's leaders.

In Denver the young people are active in all church services, loyally supporting the choir and its work. They have an early Sunday morning prayer service the first Sunday of each month. They also have an early evening service each Sunday with study and program preceding the evening sermon. A dramatic club provides plays and pageants for the church services, also entering their plays in the Denver Religious Drama Contest. A boys' basket ball team is entered in the Denver inter-church league. A training class helps young people prepare for the teaching work of the church school. Social activities consist of get-together luncheons, parties, trips to the hills, two- and three-day outings in the mountains and good-will trips to other branches.

Philadelphia, Pennsylvania

The young people's division is composed of some six groups as follows: A young men's group who meet for study and recreation each Wednesday evening; a young women's group which meets for devotional and recreational activities on Tuesday evening; a young women's K. U. Club meets Friday evening for work in home economics and recreation; intermediate girls meet on Wednesday evening for study, dramatics, and recreation; Boy Scouts meet each Wednesday evening; young people's choir meets for rehearsal on Friday evening.

The Young People's Council consists of eleven members chosen from their group. The council plans activities and projects involving the young people. Vesper services are held each Sunday evening. An entire group social and recreational hour is held once a month.

The council plan has helped to unify the program, to develop leadership, and to impress upon all their responsibility for the welfare and progress of the church.

McKenzie, Alabama

The young people's division is organized as two groups; the young women in the "Dorcas Circle" and the young men in the "R. O. L. H." Club, (Richer Opportunities Lie Here). These work under the supervision of the young people's supervisor of the church school.

The Dorcas Circle meets weekly, discussing etiquette, cooking and sewing, home management, personal hygiene, the church books and periodicals, etc. The R. O. L. H. Club meets weekly to study better farming methods, social behavior, and matters pertaining to the belief and program of the church.

Each of the above groups is responsible for a monthly program at the church, in which they give to the branch the best results of their study and research. McKenzie is the host to the Southern Young People's Convention to be held in the late summer.

Spokane, Washington

The young people's council consists of all teachers, leaders, president of the young people's class and the church school director. The council plans monthly programs in advance. Usual activities include a young people's Sunday each month, when they have special responsibilities; a branch party once in two months; one Sunday evening class hour a month is spent as a group meeting for business or a program; group visiting at homes under the direction of the visiting director and the pastor.

Plans under way include a Dramatic Club; volley ball and baseball teams; full compliance with the financial law of the church; life saving courses offered at public swimming pools; attendance of young people at local conventions and the Lamoni conference; weekly discussion of Herald youth page articles.

The slogan adopted is "Every member a Legionaire by 1934."

YOUTH'S PART IN THE LATTER DAY RESTORATION

(Continued from page 719.)

wards entered the Quorum of Twelve in young manhood, ranging from thirty-two to twenty-five years of age when they were ordained to Apostleship. Hundreds of young men in the mission and pastoral work of the church are giving and have given their very lives in constant devoted service to the cause of Christ. They are supported and inspired in almost every instance by devoted young women who sometimes are called to bear the heavier burdens.

The church has always offered to the young a wide opportunity for service. Youth has been called to every office of the church and yet some of the most valuable contributions have undoubtedly been in the steady inconspicuous support of the local and general church, by the young people who are not called to any particular office. The church depends on the young to stand loyally for the ideals of the Restored gospel, that we not only may be given the highest ideals of life to bear aloft to the world but that to this generation may be vouchsafed the glorious achievement of realizing our ideals.

DRAMA

(Continued from page 718.)

d. Rouge and lip stick.
e. Liners for eyes or wrinkles.
f. Powder.

Make-up will be demonstrated in class.

LESSON III.

A. Elementary Principles of Acting:
This lesson will include traditional rules of acting and and stage movement.

B. Back-stage Organization:
The wise director will assign every back-stage task to some one else. Keep the following things in mind.
1. Fix responsibility definitely.
2. Keep a constant check on each department.
3. Plan scene and light rehearsals for stage crew only.
4. Do not depend on actors to move sets.

The stage crew consists of the following:
1. Stage manager and assistants.
2. Electrician.
3. Carpenter.
4 Property man, who handles all movable objects.
5. Prompter.
6. Call boy.

YOUNG PEOPLE IN OTHER CHURCHES

(Continued from page 720.)

of a program of endeavor based on the needs, interests, and capacities of the local church group.

Generally speaking, the society is an auxiliary organization of the church. The Baptist Young People's Union of America is a separate body, even though it operates exclusively within the Northern Baptist Convention, has a governing Board of Managers made up of state-elected representatives and an executive committee, and holds its own convention.

Evangelical Lutheran Church

The Walther League is an international organization of Lutheran young people within the Synodical Conference. The young people's association is semi-independent of the church. The church appoints a Board for Young People's Work with whom the executive board of the association work together in cooperation and harmony. The young people are encouraged to foster interest in the church school. The educational program of the league aims to build upon the knowledge which the children have gained in the Christian Day School and Sunday School.

www.LatterDayTruth.org

Prayer and Testimony

Prayer

"Four things prayer can do for us, any one of which has been given to it in the religious life of the past: It can open our eyes to the beauty of the world in which we live, It can introduce us into a fellowship more intimate and satisfying than any human friendship. It can furnish us with supplies of energy which will reinforce our limited powers and make us adequate to meet whatever strain the day may bring. It can keep us true to our best selves, by holding ever before our eyes the man or woman we were meant to be."—William Adams Brown.

Greetings From the British Isles

By W. H. Greenwood

We are mutually interested in the progress of the Angel's Message I know, and like our brother Paul we are engaged in "Pressing On to the mark." It is a mark worthy of our deepest attention—"our high calling."

We are striving to have each Saint reach out to this standard. It is the "rod of iron," reliable, strong, and firmly set in a foundation of truth and justice.

We have faith in its eternal endurance, it will help to build divine character in all who keep a firm hold, and assure each one the spiritual fellowship with the brotherhood of the Master.

Special appeal is being made by Apostle Rushton to the brethren of the priesthood here to remember their calling. This appeal is trenchant, urgent, pressing, and must achieve results hitherto unrealized in this mission. I have just had the company of Brother Rushton for a few days, and I am delighted to realize the strength, character and disposition resident with him. God bless him.

We still believe that there is virtue in the words of the Master, "Be of good cheer, I have overcome."

To this end we labor in love, sympathy, and compassion, that the church might be redeemed, our fellow men saved, and the cause of the Master be glorified.

May the spirit of God minister to the church with the brethren, and to the cause of Zion.

MOSTON, MANCHESTER, ENGLAND, 23 Cicero Street.

Let Us Build Zion of Consecrated Lives

By Frank Couey

Seeing so many letters and articles from the Saints has inspired me to add my testimony. I have been a member of the Latter Day Saint Church for over twenty-five years, and only for a short time have I had church privileges.

For seven years I wandered from the path which I should have traveled, but seeing my error, I am now trying to plant my feet on solid ground once again. Zion building is of much interest to the Saints, especially to the isolated ones. Jesus says, "Go ye therefore, and teach all nations, baptizing them in the name of the Father, and of the Son, and of the Holy Ghost: teaching them to observe all things whatsoever I have commanded you: and, lo, I am with you alway, even unto the end of the world." Of what shall we build Zion, stone, brick, or wood? Let us build it of consecrated Saints who are willing to observe all things he has told or will tell us.

MISSOULA, MONTANA.

Are We Building on Solid Rock or Shifting Sand?

By Everett G. Huntington

"Therefore whosoever heareth these sayings of mine, and doeth them, I will liken him unto a wise man, which built his house upon a rock: And the rain descended, and the floods came, and the winds blew, and beat upon that house; and it fell not: for it was founded upon a rock. And everyone that heareth these sayings of mine, and doeth them not, shall be likened unto a foolish man, which built his house upon the sand: And the rain descended, and the floods came, and the winds blew, and beat upon that house; and it fell: and great was the fall of it." (Matthew 7: 24-27.)

These are the words of Jesus, and I believe that each one of us should consider them seriously, applying them to his own life.

Are we building our life cottage with material that will abide that day when all our works shall be tried and tested? Are we building on the foundation of rock that is given us in God's word, or are we building on some other plan of which we have heard? Are we building on the solid rock of Christ's redeeming love and putting many windows in our houses so that the gospel light of God may come in and clean away the webs which Satan weaves to deceive? Are the rocks in our foundation implicit faith in God and his Son; repentance for our past sins and a turning from evil to right so that new life can begin; baptism by immersion for the remission of our sins; the laying on of hands for the reception of the Holy Ghost, otherwise we shall not receive it; then a beginning to lay up treasures not of the world which give the receiver's heart lasting joy as fruits of the second birth?

If we obey Christ we are building on the foundation of rock. If we do not obey him, we are building our houses on sand.

RICHVILLE, MINNESOTA, BOX 95.

"God Moves in a Mysterious Way"

By Mrs. Roy A. Ormsbee

There are only three in our family of my husband, myself, fifteen children, and an adopted boy, who do not belong to the church, and they are my husband, a ten-year-old son, and a nine-year-old daughter. It is my earnest prayer that these three will soon learn the joy and peace of serving Christ.

I know there is great blessing in prayer. It is just as the hymn says:

"Pray in faith, and pray unceasing,
To the God we love and trust,
For our prayers are much availing,
If we walk upright and just."

I think of that hymn often, and another hymn which has been a great help to me because of its fine thought is:

"What a friend we have in Jesus,
All our sins and griefs to bear!
What a privilege to carry Everything to God in prayer!"

Although sometimes the day seems dark and dreary, when we go to God in prayer, he answers if we put our whole faith and trust in him. I am learning every day to put my

www.LatterDayTruth.org

Prayer and Testimony

whole trust in Christ, and am trying to do his will at all times.

I could cite many proofs concerning the truthfulness of the gospel, for I know this is the true church of Christ, and I know, too, that we must not sit back and expect our President and his helpers, the quorums of the church, to build Zion alone. We as members have a great work to do not only in raising money but in fasting, sacrificing, and working.

We must all be builders, and not wreckers, as Brother J. J. Ledsworth told us in one of his sermons delivered here. We must not find fault with what our brother and sister do, but watch our own work and keep constantly in mind how Jesus lived; we must follow him.

Here let me give one of many proofs I have of the truth of the gospel. When our eldest daughter was nineteen years old and had been married to a Catholic boy about one year and a half, she took a bad cold and developed tuberculosis, and wasted away her young life until she died seven years ago last August. Her experiences in the gospel had been limited. She heard only one Latter Day Saint sermon, that preached by Elder Henry Sheffer after she was confirmed by him and Brother Irvin Sheffer. She attended one Latter Day Saint Sunday school at Onaway two years before her death. Our family was large and we were isolated from church privileges, but she read the Bible and church papers of different denominations. She also used to read the Saints' Hymnal, and asked me to teach her the hymn tunes. We often sang them together.

Sometime in July after she had contracted the disease, she obtained her husband's consent to send for Elder Sheffer for administration for she was suffering great pain and could eat nothing. He (Elder W. H. Sheffer) was working in the paper mill at Cheboygan, but secured time off to respond to her call. He came twenty miles on three or four occasions. At the first administration the pain left and she was able to eat what she wished. Then she asked Brother Sheffer to baptize her, and the day was appointed for the ordinance.

When word got about that she was to be baptized, the people of different churches, visited her at the home of her father-in-law, and tried to induce her to change her plans. They urged her to be sprinkled. (At that time I was the only Latter Day Saint in Koehler Township.) But she was firm in her decision; she told them that she was going to be buried with Christ as the Bible told her in Saint John 3: 1-8, and said that Elder Sheffer must baptize her as he was God's ordained servant. She declared that God would never put a command in the Bible and then kill people while they were being baptized, as her visitors told her would happen to her. She said that she wanted to be baptized before she died.

Then her friends came to her father and to me and we told them quietly the same words she had said. Finally, these people declared that if we could not stop Elder Sheffer, they would, and I told them that I was not worrying about Elder Sheffer for God would keep him from harm, and that he was God's servant and must obey His will. I believed that Margarette would come out of the water brighter if not better than when she went in.

When her husband and her father carried her down to the water's edge, one could feel the very tenseness of the people who lined the shore and bridge. Some had never before witnessed a baptism. Everything was very quiet, and the hymn and prayer were plainly heard. Margarette looked bright and peaceful; many remarked about that. She said afterwards that she suffered no pain and did not even feel the cold water. She lived one week and then passed away.

Elder W. H. Sheffer preached the funeral sermon in the doorway of her father-in-law's home to a large houseful of people and many more stood in the yard. Many were there who would never have entered a church to hear a Protestant preach, and some told us afterwards that it was a wonderful sermon; they had never before understood the Bible so plainly.

We miss our dear girl, and her passing away was a trial to many, for she was dearly loved. But through Elder Sheffer's labors here and the help of such workers as Elders Kramer, Marshall McGuire, Ernest Burt, J. J. Ledsworth, Amos Guy, Fred Truax, and Brother Light, both here and at Tower, over one hundred have been baptized and sixty or seventy children have been blessed. Onaway Branch has two units of organization, one at Tower, three miles this way from Onaway, and one at Koehler church school, of Afton, seventeen miles. We are doing the best we can. Cheboygan Saints, twenty miles away, are trying to do their best in the work of the Lord. May the good work move on and may God's will be done.

AFTON, MICHIGAN, Koehler Township, Cheboygan County.

Admonished to Uphold the President

By Rees Jones

I am sixty-three years old and have learned to love the latter-day work. I have had many fine testimonies of its truthfulness and am firm in the faith. I know that a man can be a fine scholar, but if he has no testimony of the work, he has not much of a foundation on which to build.

While reading Brother Gomer T. Griffiths's testimony concerning our President, which appeared in the Herald of few weeks ago, I felt that I also should bear my testimony on this same subject.

Some years ago my step-father, Almer Lloyd, came to visit me and stayed with me one summer. One Sunday morning we were going to a neighbor's home for dinner, and before we left we had a word of prayer. Before we had arisen from our knees, the Spirit fell on Mr. Lloyd in great power, and he spoke in tongues and the interpretation was also given. We were told wonderful things. Outstanding among these we were assured that if we would uphold him and honor him as our President, Brother Frederick M. Smith would accomplish and finish the work that his forefathers began. For that purpose, we were told, he was born.

CROSSFIELD, ALBERTA, CANADA.

Request Prayers

Sister Richard Baldwin, who is now in the Sanitarium at Independence, where she underwent an operation, desires the prayers of the Saints. She is improving slowly.

George Elson, who is in the State Hospital, Norfolk, Nebraska, thanks all who have prayed for him since last fall, and feels that he has been blessed. He desires a continuance of prayers on the part of the faithful in his own behalf, that he may be healed of mental infirmities.

www.LatterDayTruth.org

QUESTION TIME

Does your answer on the teacher's duty toward officers (see Herald, April 19) refer to membership duties of officers?

Certainly not. The duties of officers are incurred by virtue of ordination to office. As stated in my answer referred to, the law distinguishes between official duties and membership duties. Officers who do not perform their duties are subject to the jurisdiction of officers under whom they are required to labor. Such duties are not membership duties.

But every officer of the church is also a member, and if he becomes guilty of sin or fails to do his duty as a member, the teacher having jurisdiction may perform such labor as the case requires. The law requires the teacher to "see that all members do their duty," hence no member is exempt simply because he is also an officer, and if he disregards his membership duties he cannot plead that teachers lack jurisdiction. In this case the teacher deals with him as a member, and not as an officer, for he has no authority to concern himself with the duties of superior officers, though as members they must perform membership duties or be amenable to the teacher for failing to do so.

In this connection it should be understood that the branch president has authority to direct the labors of the other officers under his jurisdiction, including the teacher. This is provided for in the law of the church, and helps to secure better coordination and harmony of effort; tending to avoid confusion, duplication of plans and labor.

Who are those not written in the book of life (Revelation 20: 15)?

The previous verse (14) shows that this is the second death, hence the text cited evidently refers to those who shall be subject to the second death. Doctrine and Covenants 76: 4 states that the "only ones on whom the second death shall have any power" are those who have suffered themselves to be overcome, "and to deny the truth, and defy my power; . . . having denied the Holy Spirit, after having received it, and having denied the only begotten Son of the Father." They are termed the "sons of perdition," the only ones who shall not be redeemed "in the due time of the Lord."

Who baptized John the Baptist?

Doctrine and Covenants 83: 4 states that he was baptized while in his childhood, but I do not recall any information which states by whom he was baptized. We are told that he was ordained by an angel, but whether he was baptized by an angel or by his father or by some one else appears uncertain.

Where do the spirits of the righteous and the wicked go after leaving the body?

The Book of Mormon (448: 43-47) states that the spirits of both good and bad are taken "home to that God who gave them life." Then the spirits of the righteous are received "into a state of happiness, which is called paradise; a state of rest; a state of peace." And then the spirits of the wicked "shall be cast into outer darkness; . . . a state of awful, fearful, looking for, of the fiery indignation of the wrath of God upon them"; until the time of the resurrection.

Explain John 9: 4, "the night cometh, when no man can work."

This was the language of Jesus at the time he opened the eyes of one born blind. He did this on the Sabbath day, though he had previously (see 5: 8-18) been threatened with death for performing a miracle on the Sabbath. Jesus appears to have referred to the fact that he could not afford to delay his work to satisfy the unjust views of the Jews who opposed him. His time was short on earth,—the night must soon come when work would be no longer possible. In fact, this was but about six months before his crucifixion, and he stressed the fact that persecution, opposition, danger, and cruel misrepresentation must not be permitted to interfere with the performance of his divinely appointed work while yet that work could be done—not even for a day.

A. B. PHILLIPS.

www.LatterDayTruth.org

NEWS OF CHURCH AND HOME

Address all news and letters to Editors of the Herald, Box 237, Independence, Missouri. Correspondents are requested to make their letters brief. The Editors reserve the right, on account of space limitations, to shorten all letters as circumstances require.

Seattle and British Columbia District

Vancouver, British Columbia

Several very helpful services have been held in this branch during the past month.

President Elbert A. Smith visited here April 23, and members from New Westminster and Bellingham Branches were also present. The three branches enjoyed all-day meetings. A young people's prayer and testimony meeting took place from nine till ten o'clock, and church school followed. At eleven, Brother Elbert A. Smith delivered a most profitable sermon after which the Daughters of Zion served lunch in the lower auditorium. Brother Smith again addressed the Saints at two thirty. At five thirty the young people served dinner following with a very entertaining program from six thirty to seven thirty. Brother M. H. Cook preached that evening.

District President Monte E. Lasater visited Vancouver on that day, too. He and his daughter motored up in the morning with Brother Elbert A. Smith from Seattle, and returned in the afternoon.

During the following week Brother Cook preached missionary sermons on Tuesday, Wednesday, and Friday evenings.

The Fidelis Club had a costume party May 1. Each guest brought a costume and exchanged it by drawing numbers and dressing in the costume he had obtained. In the den, artistically decorated to represent a filling station, doughnuts and punch were served. The evening was spent with games and comments on the becoming costumes.

The young people take turns, two at a time, in preparing the program and taking charge of the Sunday evening service, also in planning a social for the week.

Tacoma, Washington

This branch is very proud of its junior department which has added considerably to the interest of the church school services by taking part.

The Mother's Day services were impressively put on by the junior department, Sister Lottie Bronson in charge. White and red flowers were presented to the mothers.

The Saints are sorry to lose Sister Bronson as director of the junior department, but believe that Sister Eaton will render capable service in her place. Sister Bronson has had the department for several years and has done a good work. Her husband has found it necessary to resign as head of the adult division. He will be replaced by Sister Arnold. The Bronsons are planning on moving east this summer and want to visit surrounding places such as the mountain and the ocean, and also neighboring branches.

Brother M. E. Lasater, district president, visited here one Sunday, preaching the morning sermon. He was accompanied by his wife. Brother Burr Bronson, of Puyallup, delivered the Mother's Day sermon which was enjoyed by all, and the Saints hope that this will not be his last visit.

A wiener roast was held by the young people at the home of their leader, Ray Sowers. They played games, roasted wieners, and sang songs. They held a box social, May 27, at the church to raise money for the branch expenses.

During the three summer months of June, July, and August, the Sunday evening services will be discontinued.

Rally Day Programs for Utah District

Include Branches at Provo, Ogden, and Salt Lake City

Utah District is in the midst of a series of rally-day services. These began at Provo Sunday, May 21, and the dates so far determined are Ogden, May 28; Salt Lake City, June 4. These services are conducted by the district presidency and the superintendent of Religious Education, assisted by local workers.

In each place the rally day is prefaced by missionary services held on Thursday and Friday evenings in which the audience is treated to a view of the beauties and wonders of the national parks of Utah and Arizona. These are used to emphasize the fasts that only by faith can men account for these wonders of creation and the need for a re-emphasis of that faith today.

The program for the rally days (Sundays) is about as follows: Prayer service, 9.30 a. m.; church school and unified service, 10 to 11.30; basket dinner, 12; experience meeting (in which all are expected to participate) 2.30 p. m.; round-table discussion; Book of Mormon Class at 7 p. m., and lantern lecture and gospel talk at 8 p. m. These slides are loaned Elder A. M. Chase by the advertising department of the Union Pacific Railroad, and are very good.

Portsmouth-Nauvoo Branch

Near Portsmouth, Ohio

Work of the church is being greatly enjoyed in this branch. The women's department is moving forward. They are small in number but large in spirit and accomplishments. Nothing is too hard for them to undertake. They meet at the church every Friday afternoon.

On the first Sunday of May, Elder A. E. Anderton and Elder Gray, of Columbus, were here. At one thirty in the afternoon the Saints assembled for prayer meeting, enjoying a wonderful spirit. Then the mission was organized into a branch, the name being Portsmouth-Nauvoo Branch. O. A. Rexroad was chosen president; Walter Culp, first counselor, and second counselor, Martin L. Crabtree. Sister Nella Rexroad is secretary and James Cheffins, treasurer. Martin L. Crabtree is the publicity agent, and Walter Culp, auditor. These officers were chosen to serve until September 15, when the church school, women's department and all other phases of activity will again be organized. The Saints feel that they will be able to report much good done in the year that is ahead.

During April, Missionary John R. Grice, of Columbus, Ohio, visited at Portsmouth for one evening and his message was centered about building Zion.

The Sunday school is a good one for a country school, there being as many nonmember pupils as there are members. All are interested and working together. Officers feel that some will come into the church this summer.

There is a fine corps of priesthood, two elders, two priests, and one teacher. They take turns on Sunday evening in occupying the pulpit. A Bible class is held on Friday evening of each week with fair attendance.

May 14, Sister Rexford's class and others gave a short Mother's Day program which was much appreciated. At the beginning the congregation was favored by hymn numbers sung by a women's quartet.

The Children's Day program will be held, June 11, and there will be basket dinner. Saints of neighboring vicinities are invited to bring their lunch and feast with these members.

www.LatterDayTruth.org

Wimer, Oklahoma

Two Are Baptized

Saints of Wimer Branch, Oklahoma, were glad to have as their guest, May 20 and 21, Brother J. L. Creviston, of Mulberry, Kansas. Services were well attended Saturday, and Sunday, May 21, was an all-day meeting, dinner being prepared and served by the young people of the Sunday school. Two women were baptized. Elder Duncan and family were present from Nawata. Brother Creviston, who returned home Monday, left the Saints of Wimer Branch greatly encouraged.

San Antonio, Texas

First Church, Rockwood Court and South Cherry Streets

President F. M. Smith was the guest of Saints at Austin, Texas, April 26. He was met by Elders George H. Wixom and J. A. Robinson. The following day, in company with Brother and Sister Robinson, he arrived in San Antonio, remaining at their home as a guest during his stay there. A reception was held in President Smith's honor immediately following his arrival, at which time he gave a short talk. Friday evening President Smith preached at Bandera, and the following Sunday, he occupied the pulpit at the First San Antonio Church, there being a large crowd of Saints at each service from Houston, Bandera, Medina City, Himes, Pipe Creek, Beeville, and Keerville.

The theme for the Sunday morning service was "Zion and the Gathering." Dinner was served cafeteria style by the women of the branch back of the church. At two thirty, a round-table discussion followed. Excellent music was furnished by the choir, directed by Sister Emma Jackson. Preceding the Sunday evening preaching service, a song festival was held under the leadership of Sister Robinson, accompanied by R. W. Jett and Elmer Beard, violinists; Rouss Eastham playing the saxophone, and Ed. Priebe, the trumpet. These musicians have been contributing their help for several weeks.

Pastor R. W. Jett and the assistant pastor, Floyd Jett, with the help of W. H. Mannering, have been conducting a series of cottage meetings, one night each week, at the homes of different Saints.

Rouss Eastham, supervisor of Religious Education, has revived the Friday evening social meetings for the young people, with good results.

The women's department has contributed liberally to the branch in a financial way, and also helped the general church with their tithes.

Easter Sunday the choir sang, "Eternal Life," directed by Miss Emma Jackson, and this was repeated Monday night for the benefit of the Baptist Mission Home.

Saints of First Branch were saddened by the passing of Brother W. H. Ferguson, who died May 19. He is survived by his wife, three daughters, two sons, ten grandchildren and a number of friends. Funeral services were held by T. J. Jett, jr., assisted by J. A. Robinson. Interment was in Mission Burial Park.

Yakima, Washington

Observe Special Occasions

Easter Sunday, the classes of the Yakima Church School retold the story of Easter in songs, pantomimes, plays and prayer.

On Mother's Day a lovely program was given. The girls of the young people's class presented, "Mothers of Many Lands." Three girls from the beginners class rocked their dolls before a Dutch scene, while two others sang a Dutch lullaby. The intermediate class showed how Mother's Day is a day when all people pause for at least a few moments, to pay tribute to their mothers. Other songs and readings added to the entertainment.

A surprise shower was given May 19, in honor of Edith Clapshaw, at which time she was presented with many useful gifts.

Two members of the young people's class, Miss Edith Clapshaw, daughter of Sister Ida Mae Clapshaw, and Mr. Wallace Benjamin, son of F. A. Benjamin, were united in marriage at the church, Sunday, May 21, by Elder B. H. Van Eaton. The bridal couple was attended by Miss Pearl Allen and Mr. George Allen. Betty Lou Parker, niece of the bride, and Frances Malcolm, as flower girls, led the wedding procession. Sister B. E. Nutley played the wedding march and Mr. Frank Malcolm sang, "O Promise Me," and "I Love You Truly." A reception was held at the home of the bride's mother, and after a week on the coast, the couple will be at home in Yakima.

One-day Meeting at Netawaka, Kansas

About forty-five were in attendance at the one-day meeting held at Netawaka, Kansas, May 7. Apostle Roy S. Budd was there and delivered a splendid discourse on "Loyalty" that afternoon. The sacrament service was in charge of the district missionary, J. W. A. Bailey. Opening remarks were by B. F. Deller, of Topeka. Bishop's Agent O. E. Weedmark gave a short talk preceding the sermon in the afternoon. Also there was a special number, "The Gates of Gold," by Dorothy Deller and Homer Wolverton, Mrs. B. F. Deller, accompanying. All district officers were present except one.

South Bend-Mishawaka Branch

Mishawaka, Indiana

Sunday afternoon, May 14, Saints of Mishawaka Branch had the pleasure of hearing Apostle D. T. Williams. His sermon was based upon building of greater and better ideals in the minds and hearts of the people.

April 12, James H. Nunn was baptized into the church by Elder Myers.

The branch treasury has received much help recently as a result of a contest between the Temple Builders and Oriole Girls against the women's department. The women's department, being the losers, served supper to the winners on the evening of May 16.

Mishawaka Branch was made happy, May 17, by the visit of Brother and Sister Walters, accompanied by two other families from Bloomsburg, Pennsylvania. Other Saints who have visited here recently are Sister Parker, of Dowagiac, Michigan; Brother Maynard, of Berrien Springs; Elder Coonfare, of Benton Harbor, and Sister Marks and family of Niles, Michigan.

Easter Sunday was observed with a program by the Sunday school, which was enjoyed by all, and the Mother's Day service was in charge of the religio, under the supervision of Brother Galloway. Congregational services have been carried on splendidly, causing an increased interest and attendance. Those who have occupied the pulpit of late are Apostle D. T. Williams, Elders Hoxie, Coonfare, and Myers, Priest W. Hardy, and Deacons Ziggonhorn and Taylor.

Midland, Michigan, Young People Are Busy

Sponsor District Gathering

The young people's meetings in Midland Branch are proving highly successful. They are held every two weeks with an attendance of from thirty to forty young men and women. The Book of Mormon is being studied for one hour at each class meeting which is then followed by a brief business meeting and then by recreation and refreshments. Harry Runkle is president of the class and is doing a splendid work in keeping the meetings interesting and helpful.

A few weeks ago the class sponsored a district young people's meeting, and here is the story of the gathering which the Midland Republican Weekly printed:

"A get-together meeting of the young people of the Latter Day Saints' Church, of Central Michigan District, was held Tuesday evening at the Community Center Club rooms. Approximately two hundred and twenty-five were in attendance,

www.LatterDayTruth.org

representing Saginaw, Bay City, Flint, Tawas City, Beaverton, Clare, Coleman, Bentley, Gladwin, and Houghton Lake. A one-hour program was given by the various branches in the district as well as Midland Branch, after which a short business meeting was held and refreshments were served."

This meeting was sponsored by the young people of Midland Branch and was held for the purpose of acquainting the members of the various branches with each other. A second meeting of this kind will be held at Beaverton, Michigan, June 22, and it is hoped that they will be able to continue these gatherings throughout the coming summer which will serve in part to replace the reunions which have been held in the past, but which will be eliminated this year.

William Ash has been appointed superintendent of Religious Education of Central Michigan District, and the meeting held Tuesday evening was in charge of Harry Runkle assisted by Miss Blanche Engle.

Kansas City Stake

Fourteen Congregations Assemble in Stake Conference

It may seem incredible to some, but Kansas City Stake's devotional services on Sunday, May 1, was a twelve-hour meeting with scarcely any intermission between programs, many of the members remaining through the entire day. All services were closed at each of the other thirteen local churches, allowing the members to attend the conference at Central Church, and there was a fine showing from all congregations.

Sunday's theme was, "Working Together With God," and the schedule of the day's program was as follows: Church school at 9.30 a. m., there being eleven adult classes and nursery, beginner, primary and junior exercises. Beginner teachers sponsored a demonstration.

The church school classes and instructors were: Financial law, F. S. Anderson; church history, J. A. Gardner; high school class, Leonard Houghton; priesthood, C. A. Skinner; young people's class, C. E. Wight; Men's Bible Class, F. B. Blair; Bible prophecies; ladies' class, Book of Mormon, Sister D. H. Blair; junior church class, Sister John Blackmore; teacher attitudes, John Blackmore. The junior church demonstration was in charge of Sister H. A. Higgins and the primary church demonstration, Sister Signa Mitchel.

At 10.55, the sermon was by Apostle J. F. Garver, and during this hour a junior church and a primary church demonstration were conducted. Dinner was then served the congregation, and immediately following came the O. B. K. Oratorical Contest. In the high school division there were three contestants, and in division number two there were six. In this, nine young people were discovered who are very able to represent the work of the church. The union prayer service, scheduled for three o'clock, was a little late in beginning, but the precious time was well used by young and old. At five thirty a stake reporters' meeting was held, and at the same hour supper was served. Then a radio concert entitled, "The Show Boat," Ted Malone, in person, as captain, was a time for relaxation.

At eight o'clock the sermon was by Bishop G. L. DeLapp, and at nine thirty the Saints went home, physically tired, but spiritually refreshed. The day's music was excellent.

The business session, held on Monday night, carefully and rapidly disposed of business on hand, sustaining officers, providing for the ordination of two young men, and receiving the resignation of Councilor E. N. Palmer and boys' leader, William O. Hand. The bishop's report was read and showed a balance on hands after handling more cash than for any recent year, and names of the auditing committee were announced.

Central Church

Elder J. A. Gardner has finished a series of three illustrated lectures on early church history, given at the Sunday evening hour. Many of the slides used were made from pictures which Brother Gardner has taken.

The Women's Club of Central Church held its final luncheon of the year at one o'clock, May 25. Rabbi Samuel S. Mayerburg, of Congregation B Nai Jehudah, was the guest speaker, and gave an interesting talk on "The Zionic Movement." The rest of the program consisted of a group of songs by Mrs. Minetta Newton Isaacks, of Independence; a reading by Miss Pauline Hood, and a group of Scotch songs by Mrs. Fred Wamsley and Mr. James Price. About one hundred were present, and the women cleared about thirty-five dollars.

Miss Marguerite Hooper, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. William H. Hooper, and Mr. Edward D. Crankshaw were married at eight o'clock Monday, May 29, at the home of the bride's parents. Elder Cyril E. Wight read the service. Miss Betty Plows, of Chariton, Iowa, attended the bride, and Mr. Robert Crankshaw acted as best man for his brother. The bridal couple will make their home in Kansas City.

Miss Helen Louise Scott, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Glenn A. Scott, sr., of Kansas City, Missouri, and Mr. William Howard Harrington, son of Mr. and Mrs. Ed. C. Harrington, of Independence, Missouri, were married the evening of Saturday, May 27, at eight-thirty at Central Church. Elder Cyril E. Wight read the service. Preceding the service, Mrs. Marguerite Johnson Blaine, accompanied by Miss Amy E. Winning, sang two numbers. The Wahdemna Choral Club, of Independence, sang the "Bridal Chorus," from "Lohengrin," accompanied by Miss Winning, who also played during the service. Mrs. J. Adelbert Withee, of Independence, Missouri, sister of the bride, was matron of honor, and the bridesmaids were Miss La Rena Bullard, Miss Ruth Arthur, and Miss Virginia Horn, all of Kansas City, and Miss Margaret Wyatt, of Saint Joseph, Missouri. The bridegroom was attended by his brother, Mr. Philip Harrington, of Independence, as best man, and the ushers were Mr. Richard Harrington, Mr. Al Swenson, and Mr. J. Adelbert Withee, of Independence, and Mr. Norman White, of Kansas City. Little Miss Burdine Root, of Wichita, Kansas, acted as flower girl. Mr. and Mrs. Harrington will be at home after June 15, in Independence.

Chelsea Church

The women of Chelsea Church, Kansas City, Kansas, organized a La-Da-Sa Club at the beginning of the year under the leadership of Mrs. Levi Gamet. Other offices elected were Mrs. Spillman, vice president, Mrs. W. C. Bayless, secretary, and Mrs. Leo Lewis, treasurer and news reporter. Since organizing, the club has increased its membership and fellowship. Its aim has been to develop spiritually and to promote social gatherings. Meetings are held twice a month.

Soon after organizing, the club held a box supper and "slave" sale. In March the women enjoyed a luncheon with Mrs. D. H. Blair as guest speaker. Her subject was, "The Outlet for Activities of Club Women." April 20, they gave a covered dish luncheon with Mrs. G. C. Mesley as speaker. "Hymnady," was her subject. Soon the women will present a play, "Elizabeth's Holiday," from which they hope to raise a neat sum. They also have a quilt to dispose of.

Grandview Church

This congregation was happy on May 12, to welcome the Wahdemna Choral Club in a program of a cappella music. The club came from Independence, and was directed by Paul N. Craig. Director and singers are to be congratulated on the merit of their concert. Balance was evident in the rendition of each number, and harmony was perfect. The quartet and violin numbers were attractive features, and the entire program was warmly applauded by a fine audience. Though a cappella music is something of a novelty to Grandview people, they greatly appreciate the chorus's contribution, and hope these musicians may return another time.

Argentine Church

The seven forty-five hour, May 28, was given over to the Boy Scouts, Scoutmaster Frank Tuttle in charge. The boys were addressed by Doctor Paul Campbell, newly appointed in charge of this territory. Mr. Charles Serslev, commissioner, presented the new charter to Troop 26 and tendered certificates to the scouts present.

www.LatterDayTruth.org

Armourdale Church

Elder H. A. Higgins, pastor of Quindaro Church, conducted a series of special meetings, which began May 28, and ended the evening of June 4. "Standards of Measure," "Faith, God's First Law," "The Law of Progress," "The Unchangeable Promise," "The Blueprint of Christ," and "The New Earth," were some of the subjects discussed to good crowds. Brother Higgins was given splendid support by the choirs of the stake which furnished special music. He is a man who seems very much at home in presenting a missionary sermon. Elder Julian Gough is pastor at Armourdale.

Holden Stake

Blue Springs Church

On May 7, sacrament service was in charge of Pastor O. W. Sarratt. Priest G. G. Phillips instructed the Saints in regard to the offering; Brother Sarratt spoke of conditions in the last days, and Brother Sam Smith talked concerning the fulfillment of prophecy in latter days. After these remarks, they enjoyed the spirit of testimony and the gifts of the gospel.

That evening it was made known that the religio was to be discontinued for some time during the summer months. Preaching service opened with the pastor in charge and Brother J. A. Farrow as the speaker. His theme was "Builders."

A special program of music was enjoyed Mother's Day, and Pastor O. W. Sarratt gave a short sermon on the theme, "Mary, Mother of Jesus." He presented each mother with a purple ribbon on which, printed in gold lettering, was the word "Mother." Last year he presented each mother with a potted geranium.

In the evening there was no service, some of the Saints meeting at the Methodist Church to hear the high school baccalaureate sermon. Ed Stowell and Juanita Campbell from the Saints congregation were among the graduates.

On Wednesday, May 17, Gerald Sarratt, a young brother, met with an accident. While riding his bicycle on the highway, he plunged headlong on the pavement, and was brought home unconscious by a stranger. He suffered much, but was again able to meet with the Saints, May 28.

On the morning of the twenty-first R. J. Stark was in charge of the service, and Brother C. A. Joice preached on the theme, "Behold, the Savior at Your Door." In the evening A. Campbell was the speaker and his topic was, "The More Abundant Life."

The service, May 28, was in charge of Priest Howard Cook, of Independence, who introduced the speaker, Gerald G. Phillips. The subject of the sermon was "Faith as a Grain of Mustard Seed." That evening a trio playing Hawaiian instruments, from Second Church, Independence, gave the music. Brother Fred Immer preached on the text, "God so loved the world that he gave his only begotten Son."

The church school sessions and prayer services have been well attended.

Atherton Church

Sister Edith Koehler has charge of junior church one Sunday each month. For the month of May she held her service in the main auditorium and the parents had the pleasure of observing the good work she is doing among the children.

Four new names have been added to the cradle roll: Dan Matthews chose to make his home with Guy and Helen Hanson; Thelma Marie made the choice of O. D. and Florence Hughes as her parents, and Carol Ann came to live with Richard and Hazel Moore. A few months ago David came to the home of Otho and Emma Clark.

Sunday, May 21, Bishop J. A. Koehler preached in the morning and was at his best on problems of economic conditions.

Brother and Sister Lloyd Bogue, now of Grandview, Missouri, but former residents of Atherton, spent that day at services here and visiting relatives.

Patriarch Albert Carmichael occupied a recent morning hour, giving a valuable sermon to the Saints. In the afternoon he attended the priesthood meeting and imparted to them a portion of his wonderful store of knowledge.

The evening service was entirely devoted to music by a group of young people from Heathwood and Quindaro churches, Kansas City, Kansas. They gave orchestral numbers, vocal solos, selections by a ladies' quartet, a piano duet and a violin solo.

Sister George Beebe is quite ill at this writing, and prayers for her will be appreciated.

Race Track, Montana

Young People Alert to Opportunities

The young people of Race Track, Montana, have organized a dramatic club to become better equipped to furnish entertainment within the branch as well as for personal development. The president of the dramatic club is Harvey Eliason; vice president, Eva Meagher; secretary, Alta Thorburn; business manager, Howard Eliason; stage manager, Leonard Eliason; costume mistress, Peggy McKee. The director of the club is Mrs. Harvey Eliason, and their first production was given Easter Sunday.

The Oriole Troop of the Girl Scouts gave a mother and daughter banquet on Mother's Day. A three-course dinner was served at seven o'clock to twenty-six guests. Mrs. Harvey Eliason was toastmistress and presented the following program: Vocal solo, "Mother O' Mine," Mrs. Frank Jensen; toast, "Loyalty to Mothers," Bertha Beck; response, "Loyalty to Daughters," Mrs. Eva Meagher; piano solo, Alta Thorburn; Mother's Day song, Girl Scouts; talk, "Loyalty to Scouting," Mrs. J. S. McGillvray.

Under the supervision of Kenneth Eliason the choir meets every Wednesday night. The women's groups of Anaconda, Deer Lodge and Race Track held a joint meeting in the church at Deer Lodge, May 25. One of the special features was a fashion show presented by the Deer Lodge women, in which were exhibited costumes worn back as far as the seventeenth century. This meeting is an annual affair and a much looked for occasion.

Far West Stake

President F. M. Smith Visits This Region

President F. M. Smith completed a very successful tour of Far West Stake Sunday, May 28. He spent two Sundays in the stake, preaching three times each day. Neighboring groups joined in the services at each place, which made it possible for President Smith to speak to representatives from all parts of the stake.

The first Sunday, May 21, was spent in the eastern portion of the stake centering at Cameron and Stewartsville. In the morning and afternoon large crowds greeted the chief executive at Cameron and listened attentively to his message. The surrounding groups were well represented although rain prevented some from attending.

In the evening an even larger crowd assembled, at Stewartsville where the Saints had been looking forward to this visit from President Smith. Preceding the sermon, Leonard G. Ehlers rendered the solo, "A New Commandment," from "Olivet to Calvary." Brother Smith gave the setting for the inspiration of this solo and then gave an impressive and forceful discussion of the commandment, "That ye love one another." All were made to sense the futility of anything but sacrificial and devoted service to one another and hence to God. President Smith had a large, attentive audience of the membership and friends of the church. In the local press, publicity was given him as having delivered a "wonderful sermon." President Smith impressed his audience with a clearer interpretation of the higher ideals and goals of the church and a greater determination to help realize them.

The following Sunday was spent at Guilford and Saint Joseph. Weather conditions prevented most of the surrounding groups from attending the services, but the Guilford Saints were very happy to have President Smith with them. His inspiring discussion of the vital subjects in which each Latter Day Saint should be interested, gave those present a better understanding of the mission of this church and its members individually as well as in a group. This was Brother Smith's first visit to Guilford, but the Saints hope he will return in the near future. Stake President Ward A. Hougas, Brother Edward Larson, of Kansas City, and Bishop Milo Burnett, of Saint Joseph, accompanied President Smith.

www.LatterDayTruth.org

In the evening they returned to Saint Joseph where President Smith was the speaker at the vesper service at First Church. A beautiful musical setting preceded the sermon. After the organ prelude and opening exercises the choir, under the direction of E. J. Ehlers, sang, "How Beautiful Upon the Mountains," and Mrs. C. E. Haden sang, "Out of Zion God Hath Shined." In an informal, yet convincing manner, President Smith discussed the objectives of the church and the immediate problems concerning the gathering and the building up of Zion. His message was hopeful and encouraging, but at the same time pointed out the great tasks that lie before the people.

Saints in Far West Stake were very glad of the opportunity of having President Smith with them on these two days, and realize that much strength and encouragement are received by becoming better acquainted with the leading men of the church.

Missionary Series at Guilford

Elder J. Charles May has been conducting a series of meetings in Guilford. The series began on Sunday evening, May 14, and continued until the young people's rally which convened there June 3 and 4. Much good was done. Brother May, with his untiring enthusiasm for the gospel, his singing, and his travel pictures, transmits to all a new hope and interest. He also visited in many homes of the Saints.

Stewartsville Church

Stewartsville is active in all divisions under the consecrated leadership of Pastor Gordon Hidy. The women's division continue their monthly educational meetings with interesting theme programs and inspiring study of the Book of Mormon. The priesthood meet each Sunday evening preceding the regular service for a study of the Manual, under the leadership of the pastor. The young men have been responding for some time in giving the theme talks for the worship period of the church school. They are to be commended for their preparation and efficient rendition.

The young people are loyal to their worship service which they hold semimonthly and show efficient and consecrated work in their preparation and exemplification. They are equally interested in their games and recreation which follow each service. They expect soon to have both a girls' and boys' team in tennis and volley ball, and then hope to have some friendly competition with nearby groups.

At the regular meeting on April 6, the young people worked out a theme, "An Open Door to More Efficient Daily Work," and a part of the service was made up of Lenten numbers. One evening preceding Easter, about fifteen young people with their supervisor went to the homes of several shut-ins and sang Easter songs. A beautiful pre-Easter service was held on Wednesday night with the theme, "Not My Will, But Thine Be Done."

Easter Sunday was fittingly commemorated throughout the day with music and readings. At the morning service a beautiful ordinance was carried out in the blessing of the little daughter of the pastor. Elder F. L. Hinderks delivered a joyous, impressive sermon on the subject, "A Day of Triumph."

The children's division gave their Easter service at the home of Sister W. H. Worden who is unable to be out.

Another special day was celebrated May 14. The church was beautifully decorated with garden flowers and potted plants for Mother's Day. Church school was opened by the singing of several favorite songs of the mothers. A theme talk and several beautiful poems in honor of mother were given. After the lesson study, a program including musical numbers, readings and a playlet was given preceding the Mother's Day sermon by Elder A. E. McCord.

In the evening the La Da Sa Ladies' Choral Club, of Cameron, gave an artistic musical and literary program which was much appreciated by Stewartsville members and friends.

A large number of the young people went on a picnic Saturday, May 27, to Wilver Dell, the beautiful country home of Walter W. Head, twelve miles south of Saint Joseph. The time was pleasantly and profitably spent with tennis, volley ball, and other games as well as roaming over the attractive grounds which included a two-acre peony field. They were glad to have Wayne Simmons, of Cameron, president of the stake O. T. Z.'s, as their guest.

A number of other interesting services have also been held recently. Elder L. A. Keck was a welcome visitor on March 26, when he occupied the morning hour. That evening the branch joined with the other churches in a "Better Homes in America" service at the Methodist Episcopal Church. An impressive sacrament service was held on April 2, and Elder A. E. McCord gave a beautiful sermon in the evening. The Saints are glad to have Brother and Sister McCord back in their midst and rejoice with him over his improvement in health.

A musical and literary vesper service was given by the young people May 28. Their theme, "The Search for, or the Secret of Happiness," was beautifully portrayed in all of the numbers, closing with the playlet, "The Search for Happiness."

Independence

Monday, June 5, was dollar sacrifice day for the women of Independence in an effort to raise six thousand dollars for the church as the first mile-stone in their sacrifice campaign, but the report of the amount raised did not reach the Herald in time to go to press with this issue.

Last week at the time of their meeting, May 29, the total of collections stood at $5,363.28. Mrs. C. C. Koehler, leader of women, was in charge of the two o'clock service, assisted by her women helpers and by Pastor J. F. Sheehy, Bishop J. S. Kelley, and Elder W. B. Paul. Mrs. Florence Moore, of Englewood, announced the program sponsored by the La-Da-Sa young people of that congregation. Program numbers consisted of songs by the Boys' Choir of the Stone Church and a reading by Mrs. Verla Waters of Enoch Hill.

It was reported at this meeting that "The Old Maids' Convention," sponsored by the women's department, but given by the men, was not only an excellent show, but made a sum of fifty-seven dollars for the sacrifice offering. Mrs. Nellie Brocaw and Mrs. Velma Brocaw Nunn directed the production which afforded splendid entertainment to large crowds in the Dining Hall the nights of May 25 and 26. The women appreciate the cooperation of this cast of about a dozen men.

The department will have a big picnic at the Campus this Thursday evening in celebration of the work accomplished in raising the sacrifice offering during the past seven months. All who have helped in the campaign are invited.

Approximately seventy Herald Office employees and their families enjoyed fun, frolic, and an entertaining program at an all-shop party the evening of May 26. Business Manager Ward A. Hougas was master of ceremonies, and program numbers were presented by two radio entertainers, office employees and members of their families. The closing feature before refreshments was the showing of two movie reels giving the story of paper making. Special guests of this occasion were Elder Albert Carmichael and Bishop G. L. DeLapp, members of the Board of Publication, and O. W. Newton, secretary of the board, and their wives.

There were three Latter Day Saints in the graduating class of twenty-six from the school of Religious Education sponsored each year by the International Council of Churches in Kansas City. The three-year course was completed this year by Anne Friend Roberts, of Independence, and by Miss Irene Hunter and Mrs. Signa Mitchell, of Mount Washington.

www.LatterDayTruth.org

The name of Wendell Luff was accidentally omitted from the list of church members among the William Chrisman High School graduates, published in the Herald of May 16. The editors are sorry.

Hundreds of people flocked to Mound Grove, the church cemetery a mile north of Independence, on Memorial Day, decorating the graves of loved ones and friends. When evening came the place was strewn with flowers.

Moving pictures at the Campus opened Saturday, May 27, and will be shown twice weekly, on Tuesday and Saturday nights, during the summer, weather permitting.

The Independence Music Club gave its annual spring concert at the Stone Church last Friday evening, and the public responded in large numbers to the invitation to attend. In the presentation of a worthy and artistic program, the club was assisted by Colin Ferrett, basso, of Kansas City, the Misses Elizabeth and Elinor Smith, harpists, and the Aeolian Chorus, directed by Paul N. Craig.

Stone Church

The morning church services, May 28, sounded a memorial note in the life experience of children and adults, beginning with the church school worship services.

Pastor John F. Sheehy, speaker at eleven o'clock, delivered a thought provoking sermon on Civil War days which included spiritual advice to the Saints. Elder T. A. Beck was in charge of this service, assisted by Bishop J. S. Kelley. With Robert Miller at the organ, the Stone Church Choir, directed by Paul N. Craig, sang "Sing to the Lord." Mrs. Pauline Arnson sang a solo, accompanied by Mrs. Hazel Scott Withee.

In the evening the Wahdemna Choral Club, Paul N. Craig director, presented a program of a cappella music which was refreshing and uplifting to the congregation. In addition to the excellently executed chorus numbers, solo work was done by Fern Griggs and Dorothy Peak, sopranos; Opal Hanson and Nida Kress, contraltos, Edward Brackenbury, tenor, Palmer Phillips, baritone; Orrin Fry, violinist, and the Midwesterners quartet, Duane Swalley, Roderick May, Robert Crawford, and Edward Cronenbold. Mrs. Hazel Scott Withee played the organ processional.

The Girl Scouts of the Stone Church, Troops 37 and 46, are planning a four-day camping trip for the early part of July. On the night of May 23, they gave an entertainment in the form of a "trip around the world," as a means of providing funds for this trip. Their ticket office was the Auditorium foyer, and they escorted one hundred and twenty-five "tourists" to six stations representative of Holland, Scotland, Hawaii, Japan, Ireland, and the United States. At each stop the guests were entertained with program numbers typical of the country, food, and souvenirs.

Miss Helen Winship, daughter of Elder and Mrs. Samuel Winship, of Fayette City, Pennsylvania, and Alma B. Fairbanks, son of Elder and Mrs. P. G. Fairbanks, of Independence, Missouri, were quietly married, January 9, 1933, at Independence, the bridegroom's father officiating in the ceremony. The marriage was announced only a few days ago. Mrs. Fairbanks has been seriously ill in the Sanitarium for a number of weeks, but at this writing seems somewhat improved.

A large crowd gathered for the sacrament service, June 4, and President Elbert A. Smith gave the sacrament talk. With him in the stand were Elders D. S. McNamara, A. K. Dillee, and T. A. Beck, and Bishop G. L. DeLapp, J. S. Kelley, and R. T. Cooper.

Downstairs a communion service was held for the juniors of the church school.

Elder Hubert Case was the evening speaker, addressing an attentive audience. The Stone Church Choir supplied the musical program, being assisted by George Anway and Colin Ferrett, guest soloists.

Second Church

Elder B. C. Sarratt was in charge of the eleven o'clock preaching service, Sunday, May 21. The choir sang "Savior Thy Dying Love." Miss Mildred Fulk and Miss Elsie Lee Street sang the duet. Brother Earl Audet directed the choir, and it was accompanied by Mrs. Gladys Inman on the organ. Elder Arthur Whiting offered the opening prayer. Apostle Clyde F. Ellis, the speaker, took his text from Doctrine and Covenants 11 and 12.

Mrs. Clara Curtis played an organ prelude for the seven thirty service, after which the congregational singing was directed by Mrs. Agnes Edmunds, and accompanied by Mrs. Alice Mintun. Mrs. Gladys Inman sang two solos, "A Song of Redemption," and "An Evening Prayer." Elder Frank Veenstra, missionary from Holland, and his wife sang a duet in their native tongue. Prayer was offered by Elder Brown of group twenty-one. Apostle E. J. Gleazer preached on "Hidden Reserves."

Mrs. Agnes Edmunds was in charge of the eleven o'clock Junior service, Sunday, May 28. The opening prayer was by Elder D. A. Whiting. A poem was read by Grace Dillee. Brother D. A. Whiting talked a short time on "Walking With God." A story, "Should He Steal?" was told by Mrs. William Totty.

Pastor William Inman was in charge of the eleven o'clock preaching service upstairs. An organ prelude was played by Mrs. Gladys Inman. The invocation was by Assistant Pastor B. C. Sarratt. The choir, under the direction of Brother Audet and accompanied by Miss Edna Stobaugh at the piano and Mrs. Gladys Inman at the organ, sang "O Love Divine." Elder R. A. Conyers, supervisor of the junior service, was the speaker.

An organ prelude, "Chanson," was played by Brother Drexel Mollison at the seven thirty service. Pastor William Inman was in charge. The opening prayer was by Elder D. A. Whiting. The congregational singing was directed by Brother Earl Audet and accompanied by Miss Geraldine Fields on the piano and Brother Drexel Mollison on the organ. Sister Geraldine Fields played a piano solo. Brother Audet sang a solo, "What If It Were Today?" Assistant pastor in Zion, Elder D. S. McNamara, preached.

Walnut Park Church

Memorial Day was observed Sunday morning, May 28, at the eleven o'clock hour by a service in charge of Brother C. G. Closson, a member of the Sons of Union Veterans, and a member of the local priesthood.

The program opened with the congregation singing, "America," after which Brother W. B. Haskins, a member of the Spanish War Veterans, offered the invocation. The choir then sang, "Lest We Forget." The memorial address by Evangelist U. W. Greene, was followed by a male quartet number, "Tenting Tonight." Members of the quartet were, Albert Chapman, R. G. Blackburn, J. F. Wolfe and E. E. Moorman. Brother Greene dramatically pictured the horrors and the cost of war, and suggested that the Saints honor their heroic dead by lending their moral support to the cause of peace. A part of the center section was reserved for and occupied by the troops of Boy and Girl Scouts, and members of the Spanish War Veterans and its auxiliary.

Junior services were held in the basement at the same hour, the talk being by Elder Welton Wood and the story by Sister E. E. Moorman.

The program period of the religio, held each Sunday evening at six o'clock, was taken up by two numbers by a young people's chorus and a short talk by Elder Welton Wood. At seven thirty, Elder Gomer R. Wells preached.

Enoch Hill Church

The young people gave a farewell party for Hubert Whitehead, May 25. Brother Whitehead, who has been a faithful choir member and worker in other departments, has left for his former home in Dunlap, Iowa.

The general appearance of the church home has been improved. Several trees and shrubs have been planted on the church grounds, and the interior of the building has been changed by a rearrangement of the seating and an addition to the rostrum.

Several members of this congregation and their neighbors and friends have formed a garden club with Miss Nellie Mae Kramer as president and Mrs. Agnes Hartman and Mrs. Verla Waters, assistants. This club hopes to make Enoch Hill community a beautiful place in which to live. It meets on alternate Monday evenings.

www.LatterDayTruth.org

Mrs. Ivy Chrestensen, women's supervisor, gave considerable effort to building up enthusiasm for the women's dollar sacrifice day, June 5. She was pleased at the response given.

Elders Joseph Martin and F. J. Petre had charge of the eight o'clock prayer service Sunday morning. A spiritual feast was enjoyed by those attending.

The congregation enjoyed sermons by two faithful, local men Sunday, May 28, Elders John Miller and F. J. Petre.

At the morning service the choir sang, "Memories of Galilee," and a double quartet of young women sang, "In the Garden of Our God."

In the evening, Millard Pace, tenor, sang, "Tell Me the Old, Old Story," with chorus accompaniment by a quartet, William Shakespeare, Sister J. J. Jones, Sister Charles Warren, and George Essig.

Two socials were enjoyed during the past week, one a farewell party for Brother George Essig who is leaving Independence to make his home in Winthrop, Arkansas; the other, a birthday surprise for Elder William Shakespeare.

The young people are enjoying recreation each Monday and Friday evening on the church lawn, under the supervision of Elder H. E. Winegar.

A large number attended the communion service last Sunday morning, and in the evening Apostle Myron A. McConley delivered an encouraging discourse. Brother Alfred Waters played a cornet solo, "The Flower Song," and the choir sang, "Somebody Told Me of Jesus."

Elder John F. Sheehy, pastor in Zion, and family, worshiped with Enoch Hill Saints in their mid-week prayer service, May 31.

Gudgell Park Church

The six o'clock Sunday evening services have been discontinued for the summer.

The women's department has been very busy trying to help in the work of paying the church debt.

Several of the departments are busy at present preparing a Children's Day program for next Sunday.

June 4, Brother and Sister Ronald Sherman had their baby blessed, giving him the name, Russel Jerome Sherman.

The spirit of Easter prevailed here, April 16, and there were a few special numbers in the morning. At eleven o'clock Brother Will Odom talked. That evening the choir gave the cantata, "The Morn of Victory." There are twenty young people in the choir, and the congregation is proud of their work.

Recent speakers have included Elders E. A. Thomas, R. V. Hopkins, J. W. Smith, R. E. Jones, and C. A. Kress. Starting May 7, Patriarch A. Carmichael gave some interesting lectures which were finished the last Sunday evening in May.

Spring Branch Church

This congregation was made happy when the members came to church the morning of May 28, and found racks on the back of the seats containing new Hymnals.

At the Sunday school hour they had several minutes of special prayer for Mamie Howe, Lillie Robinson, and Otis Brown, who were injured in an automobile accident on the preceding Friday. Mamie was in a critical condition and the others were suffering much pain. All are members of this local's young people's department. Jeffie Butler gave a talk on the Sunday school and its helpfulness.

Speakers on that day were T. J. Butler in the morning, and Leonard White at night. Music at the morning service consisted of a duet by Gladys and Alma Dixon.

Usually there is splendid attendance at the Wednesday night and Sunday morning prayer meetings.

Helpful discourses were given, May 21, by Robert Fish, morning speaker, and F. T. Mussell in the evening.

East Independence Church

Since this congregation is mostly composed of rural Saints who are particularly busy with the season's work, church services are few but greatly enjoyed by the members.

Speakers lately have included H. L. Barto, pastor of Enoch Hill Church; David Spease, of Walnut Park; H. V. Minton, and Jesse Holsworth, of the Stone Church, and local men: C. Edgerton, T. W. Thatcher, Harry Friend, and Clair Austin.

Mother's Day was beautifully observed with a short program in story and song telling of the "Mothers of All Times," given by a group of young girls and a chorus of women, directed by the church school chorister, Sister Edith Medor. Brother H. V. Minton gave a touching tribute to mothers.

The infant daughter of Brother and Sister Michael Friend, Rosemary Lodica, was blessed by Elders H. L. Barto and her grandfather, Harry Friend.

Graduation exercises for the Spring Branch School, of this district, were held in East Independence Church. Teachers of the school, Miss Ona Sloan and Miss Jaynne Lewis were in charge and Elder John Blackmore, a faculty member of William Chrisman High School, Independence, gave the address. Of the eight graduates, four are members of the church, Wilma Gaulter, Delbert Bailey, Wilbert Butler, and William Eagle.

Williston, North Dakota

Five Candidates Are Baptized

The Saints here were helped by splendid cottage meetings, held the week of May 5 to 12, by State Missionary P. T. Anderson. Attendance was good and the weather favorable. On the afternoon of May 12, five candidates, three boys and two girls between the ages of eight and ten, were led into the waters of baptism.

The Saints hope and pray that these may become true Zion buildings and that all together they may strive more earnestly to build up and forward the work of the Master here.

Acting on suggestions from Brother Anderson, they have been able to make considerable improvement in the Sunday school routine. They have also organized more effectively in class work, and feel that they are much better prepared to go on with the work that has been intrusted to their care. They ask the prayers of the Saints that they may always have the physical and spiritual strength to carry on.

Australasian Mission Holds Sixteenth Annual Conference

Large Attendance—Harmony—Varied Services

The Australasian Mission held its sixteenth annual conference at Balmain Branch, April 9 to 16. The first four days were pre-conference sessions, educational in character. The conference proper extended over the Easter period, from Good Friday to Easter Monday. Altogether the conference was very profitable and worth while, many expressing themselves as being highly edified and spiritually enlivened. The evening sessions were largely attended, the Sunday evening meeting having the largest attendance of any conference, according to some of those who have attended many times. Over eighty people were outside the church, unable to find room inside. Whole-hearted cooperation was promised by the conference.

The educational work during the pre-conference sessions centered around the theme, "Evangelizing and Zionizing." Apostle G. G. Lewis taught the priesthood class; Elder R. McLaughlin, the men; Elder A. J. Corbett, the women, and Elder W. J. Haworth, senior young people.

On April 9, Elder W. J. Haworth preached a fine sermon introducing the theme of sacrifice. Sacrifice Week had been established in the mission from April 9 to 16, culminating with an Easter service.

In the afternoon a young people's program presided over by Elders Gillard and Swain was instructive and inspirational. It was a revelation to see how the young people are developing, using their talents in vocal and oratorical directions. This was one of the outstanding services of the conference.

www.LatterDayTruth.org

All prayer meetings were of high order, intelligently and spiritually directed. On Good Friday a communion service was in charge of Elder W. J. Haworth.

The addresses on Religious Education within the church were short, because of time limit, but they were instructive and helpful. Musical items gave good balance to the program. There is some excellent musical talent in this mission.

On Good Friday night an augmented choir, under the direction of Ross J. Parks, gave an excellent rendition of the cantata, "From Olivet to Calvary." This served to enhance the meaning of Easter. Much credit is due the director for this fine performance especially prepared for the conference. The church was packed to overflowing. The organist was W. H. Gresty, son of the late Patriarch J. T. Gresty.

Services on Saturday consisted mostly of business sessions which were characterized by a good spirit and a touch of humor.

At the organizing of the conference, Apostle G. G. Lewis was appointed to preside, and Elders Haworth and Corbett and Patriarch J. H. N. Jones were associated with him. Business was concerned with the affairs of the mission, the hearing and acting upon reports, the appointing of a board of publication for the Standard Publishing House, the dealing with certain financial affairs, the appointing of a small committee of young people to work with Brother Geofrey Gillard in the interests of the young people of the mission; the recommending of Brother Gillard to the position of director of Religious education, and other items.

On Easter Sunday the Saints enjoyed a day of spiritual exercises. Early morning prayer services for young people and for adults, church school session, and a preaching service culminating with the taking of the Easter Sacrifice Offering, made a profitable morning. The results from this service so far as the sacrifice offering was concerned, were very encouraging, over fifty pounds being received. The depression has been felt in Australia for a long time, and this offering was very good. During the day other collections were taken amounting to over twenty-five pounds. Apostle G. G. Lewis addressed a meeting of the priesthood at one o'clock in the afternoon which was largely attended, discussing ministerial problems and opportunities.

Immediately after this meeting came the sacrament and prayer service. This was what the Saints had been looking forward to. It lasted for two and a quarter hours and was of a high order. At the evening service four hundred heard the sermon. A loud speaker operating in the school hall cared for the overflow crowd. Conference officially closed at the end of that service, having recorded its appreciation of the work done by Elder W. J. Haworth acting as mission president during the past seven years.

A picnic was arranged for Easter Monday (a public holiday) at one of the many beautiful resorts overlooking Sydney Harbor. This was attended by a large crowd of young people and others not so young.

Madison, Wisconsin

2119 Jackson Street

The young people presented an illustrated service, April 23, teaching their friends the principles of the gospel. They drew in illustration a church building. Many hymns were sung to help carry out the lesson.

April 25, a son was born to Brother and Sister Lee Root. He was named David Lee.

Brother Williard Hield, of Green Bay, was the speaker the morning of April 30, his theme being, "Does it Do Any Good to Pray?" The evening sermon was by Floyd Griswold, "Are You Carrying Your Cross?" A picture of a man carrying the cross was drawn on the board by Steve Brigham while a quartet sang, "I Can Hear My Savior Calling," and "Take Up Thy Cross and Follow Me." Brother Griswold's text was, "He that will not take up his cross and follow me, is not worthy of me."

May 14, a Mother's Day program was given by the Steven's family. There were four generations joined the circle besides other children of Sister Stevens, grandchildren, and great-grandchildren. The program was presented in the form of a dialogue, Sister Stevens being the main figure. Her father and mother joined the church in New York when Joseph the Founder was President. Sister Stevens was blessed under his hands. Her children and grand-children told how they, too, embraced the work of the church. Robert Brigham's daughter, five years old, gave a little reading telling that God loved grandma and she did, too. Also a letter was read from one of the daughters of Nettie Stevens, who lives in Cape Horn, Washington, telling of the interest of the family in the gospel. They are trying to do missionary work, distributing church literature and letting their light shine. At the close of the service the song, "Consecration," was sung. Brother Lee Root had charge of the service and gave a short talk on the influence a mother exerts and the part Sister Stevens has played in the building of a work every mother can do.

As a small tribute to the mothers, each was given a carnation by the church school.

Elder L. G. Holloway spent a few days in Madison. He was on his way to Black River Falls and Porcupine in northern Wisconsin. On May 18, instead of the regular prayer service, Brother Holloway preached one of his inspiring sermons on the subject, "Man's Experience With God."

The next event for which the Saints are planning and praying is the district conference at Soldiers Grove. Many hope to go from here, and are expecting a large conference. District President H. W. Woodstock has met with the priesthood there and made out the program.

"It takes a heap o' livin' in a house to make it home"

However here's some of the best chances to start owning a real home that you will perhaps ever have.

5 Rooms—modern except heat—west part of Independence $1,500
5 Rooms—modern—near Walnut Park 2,000
5 Rooms—modern—3 blocks from square 2,000
5 Rooms—modern—Englewood district 2,750
Also vacant lots, $100 to $750

Farm products and other basic commodities have already doubled and trebled in value. Real Estate is bound to follow. Get in while you can on these depression prices. We accept your church notes and bonds as cash.

CENTRAL DEVELOPMENT ASSOCIATION
221 West Lexington Street
Independence, Mo.

or

THE PRESIDING BISHOPRIC
The Auditorium
Independence, Mo.

www.LatterDayTruth.org

The Bulletin Board

Appointment of Bishop's Agent

Bishop Charles Fry having been transferred to the Northeast Kansas District, has presented his resignation as bishop of Des Moines District, and Stephen Robinson has been appointed to act as bishop's agent for that district.

We take this opportunity of expressing our appreciation for the splendid cooperation of Bishop Fry during his long years of service.

We are also glad at this time to recommend to the Saints of the Des Moines District, Brother Robinson as bishop's agent, and solicit their cooperation in this phase of church work.

We hereby request that the solicitors send their June and subsequent reports to Stephen Robinson, 2212 Thirty-ninth Street, Des Moines, Iowa.

Yours sincerely,
THE PRESIDING BISHOPRIC,
By G. L. DELAPP.

Approved by:
THE FIRST PRESIDENCY,
By F. M. SMITH.

One-day Meeting

There is to be an all-day meeting at the Park of the Pines Sunday, June 18. First meeting at ten o'clock. We are expecting a large crowd and a good time. Northern Michigan District will also hold a one-day meeting with Gladstone Branch, June 25. All are cordially invited to attend.—Allen Schreur.

Des Moines to Give Play

Des Moines, Iowa, Branch will present the drama, "At the Gate Beautiful," June 16, at eight o'clock, and wishes to extend an invitation to all branches of Des Moines District to attend. This play will also be given at the youth conference at Lamoni, Iowa, June 24.—Bertha Deskin.

Reunion Schedule

Please send in changes for this schedule immediately.

DISTRICT	PLACE	TIME
North Dakota	Logan or Burlingtown	June 24 to July 2
Minnesota and Northern Wisconsin	Chetek	July 1 to 4
Owen Sound	Port Elgin, Ontario	July 2 to 9
Eastern Montana	Fairview, Montana	July 7 to 9
Central Texas	Hearne	July 14 to 23
Southern Saskatchewan	Weyburn Plains,	July 19 to 23
Kentucky-Tennessee	Puryear, Tennessee	July 22 to 30
Southern New England	Onset	July 22 to August 6
Nauvoo	Nauvoo	July 23 to 30
Northern Saskatchewan	Saskatoon,	July 27 to 30
Lamoni	Lamoni	July 28 to August 6
Toronto	Lowbanks	July 29 to August 12
Alberta	Edmonton	Aug. 4 to 6
Northwestern	Silver Lake	Aug. 4 to 13
Northern and Western Michigan	Park of the Pines	Aug. 4 to 13
Spring River	Columbus, Kansas	Aug. 4 to 13
Eastern and Western Maine	Brooksville	Aug. 12 to 19
Kirtland Combined Reunion	Kirtland	Aug. 10 to 20
Far West Stake	Stewartsville	Aug. 17 to 27
Western Montana	Race Track	Aug. 18 to 27*
Southeast Illinois	Brush Creek	Aug. 25 to Sept. 3
Idaho		Aug. 16 to 20
West. Oklahoma	Eagle City, Oklahoma	Aug. 5 to 13

(*Tentative date. To be confirmed later.)

THE FIRST PRESIDENCY,
By F. M. MCDOWELL.

Our Departed Ones

GRAHAM.—David Graham was born at Camden, Missouri, October 14, 1849, and grew to manhood in the Camden community. He married Miss Caroline Harvey at Henry, Missouri, (now known as Henrietta) September 12, 1869. To them fourteen children were born, five girls and nine boys. Of these one daughter, Gertie, and six sons, Charley, Luther, John, Ether, Arthur, and Leonard, who was killed in the World War, preceded him in death. His wife followed him in death thirty-two days. There remain to mourn seven children: Mrs. George Hutson, of Henrietta; Mrs. Fidella Ware, of Saint Joseph, Missouri; Mrs. Viola Lewis, of Portland, Oregon; Mrs. Lucy Wilkinson, of Hardin, Missouri; Thomas Graham, of Richmond, Missouri, David Graham, of Kansas City, Missouri, and Clyde Graham, of Benton, Kansas; thirty-two grandchildren, and thirty-seven great-grandchildren. He was baptized into the church in 1880, and was a faithful worker in and member of the church, a deep student of the gospel which he loved so well. He was loved and respected by all who knew him, a faithful husband, father, and friend. He had lived at Hardin, Missouri, for thirteen years. The funeral was held April 12, at the Joiner Funeral Home, Richmond, the sermon by H. L. Barto, of Independence, Missouri.

GRAHAM.—Caroline Graham, wife of the late David Graham, passed away at her home at Hardin, Missouri, May 12, from heart trouble. She was born September 15, 1854, at Henrietta and was married to David Graham in 1869. To them fourteen children were born, seven of whom survive: Thomas Graham, of Richmond, Missouri; David Graham, of Kansas City; Clyde Graham, of Benton, Kansas; Mrs. Elinor Hutson, of Henrietta; Mrs. Viola Lewis, of Portland, Oregon; Mrs. Fidella Ware, of Saint Joseph, Missouri, and Mrs. Lucy Wilkinson, of Hardin. Her husband preceded her in death thirty-two days. She was baptized into the church in 1880, and was a faithful member to the last. Funeral services were held from the Christian Church at Richmond, by Elder William G. Hamann, assisted by Elder Oscar Case. Interment was in Richmond Cemetery.

FOUNDS.—Ruth Ann Knopp was born February 7, 1861, in York County, Pennsylvania. Was baptized August 18, 1870, in Harford County, Maryland, by John Matthews, and enrolled as a member of Elk Mills Maryland Branch. She lived near Fawn Grove all her life. Married Mr. Founds, April 18, 1886. She died Sunday, April 2, 1933, at her home in Harford County, and her funeral was held at Fawn Grove in the funeral parlor of W. Howard Webb. Harry B. Mann, of the Reorganized Church of Jesus Christ, officiated at the funeral. Pallbearers were Ross Lowe, George Hodge, Carl Strawbridge, Harold Miller, J. R. Miller and W. D. Taylor. Interment was in the Friends Cemetery, Fawn Grove.

KIRTLAND REUNION

August 10-20, 1933

WILL YOU BE THERE?

Plan to Come!

Others Succeed—
How About You?

Fur Farming & Trapping is guiding hundreds into backyard industries that exceed the regular business and pay-check. It will help you too. A dime brings you a sample copy.

Address
G. T. RICHARDS
Bunceton - - - Missouri

CLASSIFIED ADS

Rates 3 cents per word first insertion; 20 per cent discount on subsequent insertions. Minimum 75 cents per insertion.

REGARDING ADVERTISING

While we exercise care in the acceptance of advertisements appearing in these columns, we can not guarantee full satisfaction between buyer and seller and we therefore advise that in every instance a proper investigation be made by all parties concerned.

WANTED: Position as Commercial Instructor in High School for coming year. Have college degree, teaching experience and practical office training. Am a member of the L. D. S. Church. Miss Alta Harper, 415 Park Lane, East Lansing, Michigan.

DO YOU USE CALENDARS in your business? We have one of the best lines in the United States at money saving prices. Send us a sample of about what you want, give us the quantity and we'll be glad to quote you. Herald Publishing House. 23-tf

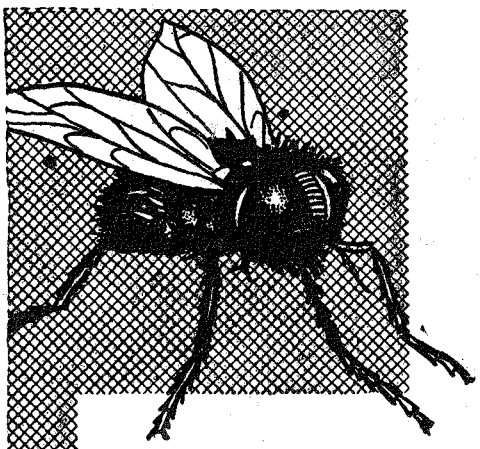
IMPROVED FARMS for sale. Any size. Same county as Thayer Branch. For description, write H. H. Cunningham, Alton, Missouri.

WHY BE WITHOUT when $2.98 will buy 250 Letterheads and Envelopes printed to suit you. June only. Hurry. Herald Publishing House, Independence, Missouri. 23-tf

FARMS FOR SALE near Lamoni, Iowa, at bargain prices. Small down payment. Long time on balance at 4½ per cent interest. See this land at once. Prices are advancing. Wilber Prall, Lamoni, Iowa. 23-1t*

ORDER THOSE MAGAZINES through the Herald Publishing House and help the church. $10,000 in commissions could be saved for the church annually if all would cooperate. 23-tf

www.LatterDayTruth.org



ATTENTION PLEASE!

WE KNOW IT'S FLY TIME BUT

The Herald Publishing House Needs 500 New Customers Who Appreciate Good Printing Service. We Want You to Try Our Printing. We Know That You'll Enjoy The Satisfaction Of Using Stationery That Is CORRECT. Here's Our Special Introductory Offer:

DURING JUNE ONLY

We will complete for you and deliver at your door the following:

250 LETTERHEADS (8½x11 or smaller) (16 or 20-lb. Bond)

250 ENVELOPES (Regular Stock Size 6¾—24-lb.)

$2.98

(Postpaid In U. S. A.)

COPY MUST NOT BE HEAVIER THAN THIS—PLEASE TYPE OR PRINT YOUR COPY

John Doe, President — Richard Roe, Manager

John Doe Manufacturing Co.

Electrical Supplies, Etc.

INDEPENDENCE, MO.

(Letterhead Style Suggestion)

JOHN DOE MFG. CO.
Fifth Avenue,
INDEPENDENCE, MO.

(Envelope Style Suggestion)

This is less than the usual cost of production. These prices good during the month of June Only. Don't ask for an extension of time. We want the people of the church to become acquainted with the work of their own institution.

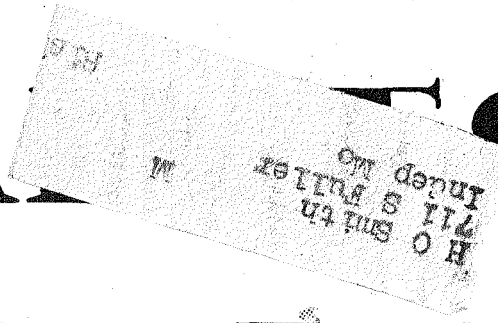
HERALD PUBLISHING HOUSE

"Where We Unite in Service"

Ward A. Hougas, Manager — Independence, Mo.

www.LatterDayTruth.org

The Saints' Herald



"Faith is a principle which underlies all life. It is a principle by which all men live, if they live to any purpose. No man succeeds in this world who does not walk by faith."—Charles Edward Jefferson.

A Glance at This Issue:

Readjustment of Auditorium Bonds
By Bishop L. F. P. Curry

Reaching the Goal of Sacrifice
An article, with an editorial by F. M. S.

A New Oriole Program for 'Teen Age Girls
By C. B. Woodstock

"Consecration"
The Hymn Written for Young People

Outlines
Additional Helps for the Conference

Worship Services for July, 1933

Volume 80 JUNE 13, 1933 Number 24

www.LatterDayTruth.org

THE SAINTS' HERALD

June 13, 1933

Volume 80 Number 24

FREDERICK M. SMITH, Editor in Chief.
ELBERT A. SMITH, Associate Editor.
FLOYD M. McDOWELL, Associate Editor
LEONARD J. LEA, Managing Editor.
LETA B. MORIARTY, Assistant Editor.
WARD A. HOUGAS, Business Manager.

Entered as second-class matter at the post office at Independence, Missouri, under Act of March 3, 1879. Issued weekly at Independence, Missouri. Price $2 a year in advance for the U. S. A., its territories and possessions, and Canada; foreign, $3 a year. Accepted for mailing at the special rate of postage provided for in section 1103, Act of October 3, 1917; authorized July 21, 1921.

Published for the Reorganized Church of Jesus Christ of Latter Day Saints.

HERALD PUBLISHING HOUSE
INDEPENDENCE, MISSOURI

CONTENTS

EDITORIAL:
- Independence Women Reach a Goal 739
- Blue Pencil Notes 740

HELPS FOR THE PASTOR:
- A Chalk Talk, by B. S. Lambkin 741
- The Minister's Calendar 741

OFFICIAL:
- Readjustment of Auditorium Bonds 741
- Comparative Report of Income for April 1932-1933 741

NEWS BRIEFS 743

YOUTH'S FORUM:
- Elmwood Delegation Reaches Youth Conference 744
- If I Were Graduating This Year 744
- Your Summer Program 744

ARTICLES:
- Secrets of Life, by Evan A. Fry 745
- The Priest and the Child, by Harley A. Morris 746
- Reaching the Goal of Sacrifice, by Mrs. D. J. Krahl 747
- "Consecration," the Hymn Written for Young People 748
- A New Oriole Program for 'Teen Age Girls! by C. B. Woodstock 749
- Class Outlines 750
- Signs of the Times and Pre-Millennial World Events, by E. B. Hull 753
- Weekly Health Letter, by A. W. Teel, M. D. 754
- Scenes in the Mansion House, by Warren L. Van Dine 754
- I Must Be True, a Poem, by R. E. Hubricht .. 755
- Prayer and Testimony 756
- Question Time, by A. B. Phillips 758

WORSHIP SERVICES FOR JULY, 1933 751
NEWS OF CHURCH AND HOME 759
THE BULLETIN BOARD 766

The Pigeonhole

To the Pigeonhole!

I was feeling BLUE
Not much use in this world
The Herald came today
Read about the young woman from Kansas
She cannot see
She cannot hear
She is Happy

I saw a beautiful tree from my window
Perfect in design, symmetrical
A little girl in a red dress
Blue eyes and golden curls
A Garden, roses galore, snapdragons
A riot and whirl in color
The sky was blue
The sunset golden and red

I was ashamed
Can I live beautifully?
Can I live truthfully?
I can see
I can hear

Thanks a lot
To the Pigeonhole.

—E. A. Kaler.

Shop Notes

PERCY says: "Keep your eyes open today." "Why?" we ask, in spite of the fact that we bit on this one last year. "Because you will look silly going around with them shut!" "Have you ever noticed," the Pigeon interrupted, "that some people would do just as well to keep their eyes shut? They never see anything anyway." And then, of course, there is spiritual blindness as well as the other kind, too.

THE PRESSROOM PROLETARIAN educed an edict last Thursday. He is especially addicted to edicts on Thursday, because it is an easy day. "Our country is like a car with too many drivers. Sometimes several are yanking at the wheel at once, and sometimes nobody is watching it at all. The miracle is that we have kept out of the everlasting ditch as long as we have."

THE PERENNIAL LOVER says: "I always keep five or six girls on my dating list. If you date any girl oftener than once in two weeks, she will think you want to marry her. And I can't afford that!"

PIUTE PETE was comforting his tonsils at the drinking fountain. "I don't care much about this 3.2 stuff the papers are raving about, but I do know that a good drink of ice water on a hot day brings 100 per cent satisfaction!"

Etching in Brimstone

The Office Critic is planning to fit up a neat literary colony in the Place of Everlasting Punishment for the cranks and amateur prophets who bombard editors with manuscripts and manifestoes. She will give each of them a private office, desk, and swivel chair with plenty of paper, pens, and ink—in fact, all the equipment for an unlimited amount of writing— and no postage stamps!

www.LatterDayTruth.org

Editorial

Independence Women Reach a Goal

Last week the women of Independence, under the organized leadership of Sister C. C. Koehler, reached a goal which they had set for themselves some months previously. For thirty-two weeks they had been earnestly engaged in the task of raising six thousand dollars by the personal contact method. I was present at the meeting on Monday, the 5th instant, when in the upper auditorium of the Stone Church the women in larger measure than usual met in a determined effort to close the campaign by "going over the top." One could easily sense a subdued excitement which seemed to put the question, "Will we do it?" But along with this one could also detect a fine spirit of confidence which seemed to say, "Of course we will." And they did.

As the reports of the various group leaders were read, the figures almost from the first report indicated a certainty of success; and when the total collection for that meeting of more than six hundred dollars was announced, thus assuring those present that the goal had been reached, it was pleasing to note the smiles of satisfaction everywhere present in that splendid group of women workers.

Those smiles seemed to say, quite as positively as words, "Why, was there any doubt in your mind that we could and would reach the goal? There was none in mine!" It was pleasing, too, to note the controlled enthusiasm. Nothing boisterous, nothing loud; just a manifest spirit of quiet pleasure that the goal represented by the figures had been reached.

I am sure, too, that this finer expression of enthusiasm was evidence that within that body of workers was generally present the knowledge that the work achieved was not confined to the task of raising money and that "going over the top" in reaching the goal set by the figures, was perhaps a small part of the real work done. The visits to the homes of the Saints in Zion, visits repeated each week, have, I am sure, enriched the spirit of fraternity and strengthened the ties that bind, visits which had not alone benefited, strengthened, helped the inmates of the homes visited, but I feel sure that every worker in that group of fine women had felt her own spirituality enriched, her feelings of humanity softened, and her appreciation of the church and its work enhanced. And the justly felt sense of elation at reaching the goal set for money to be raised was softened by the consciousness of the greater spiritual and social aspects of the work done, for our women know that there are some tasks the results of which cannot be measured in dollars and cents—which have their compensation in the satisfaction of soul, springing from the knowledge that good has been achieved in duty being well and conscientiously performed.

There also seemed to be present a consciousness of the good that comes to each in concerted efforts. Not one there but had at least an innate consciousness that the strength which comes from union enhances the interests of each unit of the union. This was doubtless a factor in the women reaching the decision to continue their united efforts. With home as well as individual improvement in view it was decided to continue regular meetings, at least once a month, and give united attention to some things which will add to the common good and weal.

We congratulate the women of Zion on the demonstration they have made of what can be accomplished by concerted effort, and again on their determination to carry on as a united band, having in view still other things by which they can help Zion and her cause. With all there is to be done, I heartily hope that the women will never lose sight of the great spiritual and social values which lie in regular and frequent visits into the homes of the Saints.

Onward towards still other goals!

F. M. S.

Stick to the Fight

When things go wrong, as they sometimes will,
When the road you're trudging seems all uphill,
When funds are low and the debts are high,
And you want to smile but you have to sigh,
When care is pressing you down a bit,
Rest if you must, but don't you quit.
Life is queer with its twists and turns,
As every one of us sometimes learns,
And many a failure turns about,
When he might have won if he'd stuck it out.
Don't give up, though the pace seems slow—
You may succeed with another blow.
Often the goal is nearer than
It seems to a faint and faltering man;
Often the struggler has given up
When he might have captured the victor's cup,
And he learned too late, when the night slipped down,
How close he was to the golden crown.
Success is failure turned inside out—
The silver tint of the clouds of doubt,
And you never can tell how close you are—
It may be near when it seems afar;
So stick to the fight when you're hardest hit—
It's when things seem worst that you mustn't quit.

—Author unknown.

www.LatterDayTruth.org

Blue Pencil Notes

Fruit "in the Season Thereof"

CONCERNING FRUITS the Word of Wisdom says: "Every fruit in the season thereof." Years ago a good sister who believed that canned or preserved fruits should not be eaten said to President Joseph Smith, "When is it right to eat canned strawberries?" He replied, "In the season of canned strawberries."

RECENTLY President Frederick M. Smith was talking to an audience in the Stone Church on the subject of the Word of Wisdom. He was expounding that part of it which relates to the use of fruit "in the season thereof." His argument was that fruit put up in jars at a time when it is ripe and wholesome and kept in good condition is a legitimate article of food. That it is "in season" so long as it is kept in condition suitable for human consumption. He argued that all foods must be preserved in some way for winter use in any climate where there is winter. Even wheat, corn, potatoes, cabbages, and so on, must be preserved in some way in containers or bins. At this juncture he inquired: "If we ate things only as they matured and ripened what would we eat in Missouri in the winter?" Away back under the gallery a deep bass voice replied: "Icicles."

THE POSITION taken by President Frederick M. Smith on this question is the position that the Presidency has always taken when interpreting the Word of Wisdom. That was the position taken by the late President Joseph Smith, and of course his standing under the law entitled him to be heard first in interpretation of church law. The matter is timely now when fruit is ripening and housewives are preparing stores for next winter. Some time ago Dr. Logan Clendenning prepared and published a statement concerning the relative values of canned and fresh fruits and vegetables. He had made experiments and prepared tables showing contents of vitamins, calories, calcium, phosphorus, iron, etc. The differences were very slight. In some instances fresh fruit and vegetables had a slight advantage; in others the canned goods were a very little the better.

THESE TESTS applied to good grades and standard brands of canned goods. We have lost at some points under our system of mass production. Under scientific management wholesale canners should be able to turn out a better product than comes from the individual kitchen; but often they do not. The trouble with a lot of commercially prepared canned fruit is that it was not put up "in the season thereof" and so is never fit for human consumption; it was canned while yet green and hard, perhaps in order to preserve its form, and the processers trusted to heat to duplicate the chemical changes that should come from ripening on the tree or vine in the sun. A jar of peaches put up properly in the home from well ripened fruit is better than almost anything of the kind to be bought on the market. Such a jar of fruit when opened has a delightful fragrance and a splendid flavor—yes, in mid-winter, and furnishes a wholesome and nutritious variation in the monotonous winter diet. It is distinctly wholesome and "in season."

THAT was what President Joseph Smith meant when he said, "the season of canned strawberries." Evidently the Lord had in mind the condition of the food at the time it is eaten. If too green or too ripe and decayed it is not to be eaten either from the tree or from the jar; if in the stage of development where it reaches perfect ripeness and soundness it can be preserved in a wholesome state without the addition of injurious adulterants the "season thereof" may be prolonged almost indefinitely and it may be used at any time.

AT THIS TIME when nature all over this part of the earth is loading tree and vine and bush with luscious fruit in such vast profusion that much of it will be wasted if not preserved for future use, our housewives should be preparing it skillfully, according to the most modern methods, and storing it for the time of want next winter when again there will be many hungry mouths to be fed. Icicles make poor winter provender, of themselves, no matter how cooked. A big one melted down and taken (not too hot), with the addition of cream and sugar, accompanying a good dish of home-canned peaches, a few slices of good home-made bread, with plenty of butter, will go very well indeed.

E. A. S.

Jesus expressed the essence of a good man's life in two words, "Follow Me." To the twelve those words meant a complete surrender—even to the taking up of their abode with Jesus. To others the words meant to actively identify themselves with the crusade for righteousness. Jesus did not mean for his followers to imitate or copy. That request was a challenge to every man to associate himself with that most worthy of seeking.—Fletcher Nelson, in "The Way of a Good Man," Church Management.

www.LatterDayTruth.org

HELPS FOR THE PASTOR

A Chalk Talk

By B. S. Lambkin

The following may be used for a chalk talk for the Junior department, or for a sermonette. Title: "Saints and the Mississippi." Use a blackboard. Draw a diagram of the river from its source to the gulf, with several tributaries. Well down the river draw a sketch of a power house.

Application: Each Saint represents a drop of water, each creek or small river a branch, each river like the Wabash a district. If a drop of water wishes to use the power which it has, it must begin to go in the direction of the power house which is the church. If it does not its power is worth nothing. It must not only go in the right direction, but it must join with others who are going that way. If it goes alone, it will soon evaporate. When all the drops are gathered at the power house, and are still willing to be used, there is power to do any needful work.

The Switch Board: If each drop were permitted to say what should be done with the power there would be nothing done. There must be men at the switch board who are responsible and who know their business. No drop of water stays at the power house. They all flow on into the infinite, the sea.

The Minister's Calendar

● Youth Day—June 18

It has been encouraging to notice in our news and correspondence the readiness with which officers of the local churches have accepted the suggestion for observing June 18 as Youth Day.

June 18 is the opening day of the real work of the Youth Conference. The spiritual power and good of that conference will depend on far greater numbers than those who are able to be present. Back of the leaders and the young people at the conference are the parents and the friends, and the thousands of young people who cannot attend. Back of them are their local officers, back of them the many children coming on in the church who will depend on them in later years for guidance.

This day will not be a day for setting youth against age, but rather a day for reconciling them and coordinating their ideals and ambitions. It is a day for calling Youth into the service of the Master, and into the work of the church. It is a day for uniting the parents and the children in mutual esteem and affection that, under the guidance of faith, may lead us to the doors of the kingdom.

Beginnings

The test of our work is always willingness on the part of youth to go along with us. Youth loves to pretend but he hates pretense. In the past we have asked him to believe with us, to "rejoice in the Lord" with us, to sing hosannas with us, often before he was prepared to put heart into any of these good things; his almost stubborn silence, or his awkward and ashamed acceptance—these should long ago have warned us that he was not honestly going with us.

The new way is to start not with adult religious satisfactions but with the natural and sincere interests of the young; on these we build. The slow growth of religious knowledge and of religious conviction, eventuating in an unassailable religious character, is our criterion on the way up and our standard of achievement to the end.—Hughes Mearns, in International Journal of Religious Education.

OFFICIAL

Readjustment of Auditorium Bonds

Since the Joint Council of February, 1931, it has been necessary very frequently to readjust our expenditures in accordance with the available income. By the cooperation of all concerned this was accomplished during the years of 1931 and 1932. The continuance of the business depression, increasingly restricting the income of the membership, has made it clearly evident that further readjustments were necessary.

Accordingly, we recently began negotiations with the trustee of the Auditorium bond issue with the object of reducing interest for five years and temporarily suspending principal payments for the ensuing three years. A plan has been agreed to, and our fiscal agents are presenting it to the bondholders for their acceptance. In the week which has elapsed from the time of the first letter to bondholders, over $80,000 of bonds have been deposited in escrow to be exchanged for the new bonds.

The original bonds provided for five per cent interest annually, and principal payments for the ensuing four years of $74,000. The revised bonds provide for three per cent interest for the years 1933, to 1935 inclusive, four per cent interest for the year 1936, and five per cent thereafter. In other words, under the original bonds we would have to pay during the ensuing four years interest of $55,750, principal of $74,000, or a total of $129,750. Under the revised plan, interest will amount to $36,480 for the same period, and principal to $5,000, a total of $41,480. This represents a total reduction in cash requirements for the period of $88,270, and will be a tremendous help to us in getting through this period of stress. For a clearer conception of the foregoing statement, it should be borne in mind that our next principal payment would have been January 15, 1934, but interest will run from January 15, 1933. Interest dates are January 15 and July 15 of each year.

So far both interest and principal have been met punctually, a record which has helped materially in our approach to the bondholders. Furthermore, we have been aided by the manner in which our own members have sacrificed in reducing interest and extending maturities on the obligations due them. Nonmember creditors would not have been interested in our plea if the Saints themselves were doing nothing to help pass the crisis. The bondholders fundamentally look to the moral fiber of our people to meet all obligations, and in this we feel assured there will be no disappointment.

www.LatterDayTruth.org

Preferably, we should have announced this readjustment after we knew that all of the bonds were deposited. However, we believe knowledge of this plan will be of great interest to the church in connection with the Sacrifice Period at the close of this month. We pray that our efforts will be successful, and that the Saints will continue their loyal support.

THE PRESIDING BISHOPRIC,
June 10, 1933. By L. F. P. CURRY.

Comparative Report of Income for April 1932-1933

It is to be noted that the income for April, 1933, is $1,715.50 less than for the same month a year ago. The following comparative statement shows the status of each district. This time we have also included the number of members and the per capita contribution for April, 1933.

We are not attempting to make a complete analysis of the figures for each district, but are of the opinion that the figures showing the per capita contribution will be of interest. Subsequent reports will show up any discrepancies which may appear in these figures because of one or more large contributions in some districts.

THE PRESIDING BISHOPRIC,
By G. L. DELAPP.

District	Apr., 1932	Apr., 1933	Membership	Per Capita contribution
Independence Stake	$ 1,421.84	$ 1,789.45	6,380	$ .28
Far West Stake	270.96	271.00	2,554	.11
Holden Stake	302.71	202.47	2,095	.10
Kansas City Stake	583.51	685.73	3,030	.23
Lamoni Stake	255.63	333.63	2,178	.15
Alabama	40.37	121.33	797	.15
Alberta	64.34	74.60	615	.12
Arizona	117.67	137.97	300	.46
Arkansas	1.30	19.55	799	.02
California, N.	688.12	444.95	2,176	.20
California, S.	436.53	384.27	2,639	.15
Chatham	460.11	258.77	1,444	.18
Clinton	104.49	95.84	1,117	.09
Colorado, E.	231.24	132.06	1,914	.07
Colorado, W.	16.08	47.97	367	.13
Des Moines	231.30	337.85	1,674	.20
Detroit	829.54	289.36	3,272	.09
Florida	54.81	45.90	935	.05
Idaho	133.98	42.56	708	.06
Illinois, C.	45.89	122.25	767	.16
Illinois, N. E.	467.61	317.62	1,426	.22
Illinois, S. E.	62.85	52.21	1,260	.04
Indiana, S.	203.08	88.20	771	.11
Iowa, N. W.	300.32	236.84	2,808	.08
Iowa, S. W.	80.90	178.74	2,033	.09
Kansas, N. E.	34.26	45.02	760	.06
Kansas, N. W.	43.25	35.79	536	.07
Kansas, S. W.	317.84	59.67	629	.10
Kentucky and Tennessee	35.50		669
Kirtland	736.47	285.23	1,921	.15
London	322.41	331.13	987	.34
Maine, E.	78.79	61.35	572	.11
Maine, W.	75.03	122.89	652	.19
Michigan, C.	189.15	176.43	1,878	.09
Michigan, E.	219.29	437.81	1,860	.24
Michigan, N.	63.94	65.62	1,447	.05
Michigan, S., and Ind., N.	321.14	354.87	2,361	.15
Michigan, W.	49.33	93.46	902	.10
Minnesota	68.75	60.02	795	.08
Missouri, S.	102.60	64.63	984	.07
Mobile	33.29	12.87	933	.01
Montana, E.	10.98	27.31	273	.10
Montana, W.	46.42	334.03	597	.06
Nauvoo	103.35	140.42	1,250	.11
Nebraska, C.	20.32	111.53	494	.23
Nebraska, N. E.	382.19	248.97	1,327	.19
Neb., N. W., and Blk. Hills	55.89	332.94	666	.50
Nebraska, S.	148.88	183.10	741	.25
New England, S.	561.52	293.96	1,139	.26
New York	152.06	205.08	611	.34
New York and Philadelphia	549.49	316.85	1,539	.21
North Dakota	59.64	76.36	542	.14
Ohio, N. W.	110.70	88.42	579	.15
Ohio, S.	359.87	517.44	2,047	.25
Oklahoma, E.	14.61	8.48	838	.01
Oklahoma, C.	395.80	250.35	2,103	.12
Oklahoma, W.	167.00	50.79	750	.07
Owen Sound	50.80	57.60	1,464	.04
Pittsburgh	123.79	123.41	628	.20
Portland	146.92	149.27	950	.16
Rock Island	443.82	189.63	1,716	.11
Saint Louis	179.22	210.00	1,585	.13
Saskatchewan, N.	10.31	39.89	683	.06
Saskatchewan, S.	5.70	11.00	447	.25
Seattle and British Col.	331.23	20.00	1,314	.15
Spokane	68.71		899
Spring River	217.05	210.96	1,908	.11
Texas, C.	76.68	122.64	678	.18
Texas, S. W.	38.50	26.77	816	.03
Toronto	135.61	110.50	2,117	.05
Utah	22.38	32.26	473	.07
West Virginia	104.09	55.23	415	.13
Wheeling	40.24	79.33	623	.13
Winnipeg	5.00	15.77	177	.09
Wisconsin, N.	36.09	41.75	668	.06
Wisconsin, S.	96.12	78.70	623	.13
Unorganized	144.03	229.23	778	.29
Australia, July to Dec., 1932		4,678.70	2,636
British Isles			1,548
Germany			326
Hawaii			556
Norway and Sweden	3.97	1.04	170	.06
Society Isles	141.47	22.23	1,348	.02
Foreign Unorganized		10.02	341	.03
Total	$15.656.67	$18.619.87

Religion in National Life

Roger W. Babson says: "The churches are to America what a compass is to a ship, or a steering wheel to an automobile. Legislation, labor unions, employers' associations, and all the other organizations are mere shells of the egg. Nations ultimately rise or fall in accordance with their religions. Our liberty, security, and prosperity depend upon the churches. All we have that is worth while, we owe to them.

"Those of us who are prosperous may think that we can now get on without the church, but let us not forget our children. We may have received enough religious momentum from our parents to carry us through, but we haven't enough to carry our children through. Only by a revival of religion, in which they must take an active interest, can our children's future be secured.

"When you hear a man say, 'I hate,' adding the name of some race, nation, religion or social class, you are dealing with a delated mind. That man may dress like a modern, ride in an automobile, listen over the radio, but his mind is properly dated about 1000 B. C."

A conviction is more than an opinion or a conjecture, more even than a belief. A conviction is a belief which has been personally appropriated and which has become a determining factor in life.—William Adams Brown, in Pathways to Certainty.

www.LatterDayTruth.org

NEWS BRIEFS

Wheeling Branch Fifty Years Old

Half a century organized as a branch. That is the record of Wheeling, West Virginia, Branch which celebrated its fiftieth anniversary May 28, with ceremonies in which reminiscences, talks of sacrifices of early workers, and the bearing of strong testimonies to the truth of the gospel took prominent part.

Of the fourteen charter members five remain, and three were present at this golden jubilee celebration—G. T. Griffiths who organized the branch; L. D. Ullom, eighty-five years old, and Betty Liston, of Kirtland, Ohio. At one of the services the testimony of L. D. Ullom, which had been written, was read, also a communication from Sister Annie E. Smith, of Syracuse, New York, another of the surviving charter members, and a letter from Joseph E. Ebeling, who for twenty-four years was a worker in Wheeling Branch, and is now president of Colorado Springs Branch.

Far West Stake O. T. Z.'s Add Highly Successful Convention to Their Record

"The most wonderful young people's convention ever held in the stake." That was the comment of many on the convention held by Far West Stake O. T. Z.'s at Guilford, Missouri, June 3 and 4. "Onward to Zion" was the theme, and it was agreed that the convention itself was a big step in that direction.

Young people came from Stewartsville, Saint Joseph, Bedison, Ross Grove, and other churches in the stake, to share the good spirit which prevailed. Elder Ray Whiting, of Council Bluffs, Iowa, was the guest speaker, and Stake President Ward A. Hougas gave the young people his aid and support. The entire program of the convention was outlined and directed by the young people themselves with the advice of stake officers.

Spring River District Says Farewell to Elder Lee Quick

Spring River District tendered thanks and said farewell to Elder Lee Quick, missionary to the district for twenty-five years, at the Miami, Oklahoma, conference, held May 26 to 28, in an appropriate ceremony. Brother Quick, a veteran of the gospel work, has been assigned to missionary service in Oklahoma and Texas. His home is at Mapleton, Kansas.

Columbus Congregation Moves Into New Tabernacle

Saints of Third Church congregation, Columbus, Ohio, are now happily located in their new meeting place which they call "the tabernacle." For many months they have dreamed of and worked toward such a meeting place, and it is a reality now because of their sacrifices and constant effort to reach their goal.

On Wednesday evening preceding Mother's Day, they moved into the new edifice, connected the lights to a neighboring garage, and sitting wherever they could, were called to order by Pastor F. C. Welsh. Gratefully and joyously they sang such loved hymns as "We Thank Thee, O God, for a Prophet" and "Consecration."

Mother's Day was the first full day of services in the new tabernacle, and there was a record attendance, Saints coming from many points in that region. This day marked the formal opening of the building.

Special Conference Approves Names for Ordination

The principal business of a special conference called for Southwestern Iowa, May 3 and 4, at Hazel Dell Branch, Weston, was most pleasing. It was the approving of the names of seven men called to offices in the priesthood—one to the office of elder, four to the office of priest, and two to the office of deacon.

San Francisco Young People Communicate With Hawaiian Youth Through G. J. Waller Patriarch G. J. Waller sailed home to Honolulu, May 12, taking with him three copies of The Zion Builder, a paper published semimonthly by the young people of Bay City branches. He was asked at a farewell party given him by the young people of San Francisco, to present one copy of the paper to each of the three congregations in Honolulu, and have correspondents appointed in each group. The Zion Builder as an enterprise and recreation, is increasing friendly cooperation among the young men and women of the Bay City branches.

Brother Waller's stay on the mainland was most helpful to Saints in California and Arizona. A few weeks ago he was ordained a patriarch at San Francisco, and entered at once into his patriarchal duties.

www.LatterDayTruth.org

Youth's Forum

A Page of Thought and Discussion for the Young People of the Church

ELMWOOD DELEGATION REACHES YOUTH CONFERENCE

Bill and Etta Storm College Hill With Elmwood Contingent

Last week the Conference Special swept through the editorial rooms and the print shop, out into the mails and all over the country. Everything else was sidetracked, and even Bill and Etta, leading the Elmwood contingent at a rapid pace toward Lamoni, had to pull over to the side of the road to let it go by.

Little Timmy Walsh had to change a tire on his old "Model T" with which, aided by a high-compression cylinder head, he faithfully kept up at the end of the procession. It was Bill's idea to give Timmy the loudest siren he could find, and if any accident happened to one of the cars, Timmy would signal for a stop. Timmy himself had the first trouble—felt the car weave, and then the unmistakable thumping of a flat tire. As soon as he started the siren every other driver up the line sounded his horn until Bill, who was in the lead, came to a stop. "You're a peach," Bill laughed. "I appoint you an official guard, and you break down!" Timmy smiled as he bent over his tire, and they were soon ready to go again.

On the second morning of the journey the party met with difficulty—not in the cars, but among the personnel. As Etta said, "Not all the flat tires are on wheels —some of them occupy seats." Margery Barnes, whose only reputation in Elmwood was "the fashion plate," would not get up at six o'clock when all the rest of the party did. When they were finishing a quick breakfast she arose and yawned at them languidly. She would "start when she got ready, and not before," she told Bill. A few minutes later Etta took the situation in hand. "All right," she said pleasantly, "let the young lady have all the time she needs to get ready. The caravan will move according to schedule"—and then raising her voice, "Into your cars, travelers!" Motors roared, the line formed on the concrete slab, and the procession moved away. Margery, with a lipstick in one hand and her hair in a rat's-nest-like confusion, looked at them, and her eyes filled with tears. "Wait for me!" she cried. Timmy slowed his car long enough to say, "The caravan's moving, sister. If you want to go with us, come now!" An hour later Margery, white and tense, sans breakfast and sans make-up, caught up with the procession and claimed her place in it.

When they reached Calligan County they found that the late May rainstorms had flooded Turbid River and washed out a bridge. A detour of several miles over miry roads was necessary. The few sets of chains owned by the party were called into service again and again to get first one car and then another out of the mudholes. Towropes stretched taut, and some broke. At various stages the party was covered with mud and threatened with tears. By helping each other they managed to get through, although the mud was churned to a batter-like consistency by the time Timmy brought his car, roaring and plunging, out of the last hole. When all at last reached the slab again, there was a sigh of relief. Bill looked at his watch: "Four hours late!" And the party went on.

The sun was sinking the direction of Home Pond when the caravan ground slowly up College Hill. Worn, dirty, and hungry, they alighted near Walker Hall. Etta soon found N. Ray Carmichael. "We're nearly dead, but we're glad to be here," she told him. "Please scatter us around so that we'll get acquainted with others besides our own crowd." N. Ray smiled. "I'll let Gene Closson take care of you. He has your reservations and assignments." And at that moment Gene, cheerful as usual, came up to take charge of the travelers.

If I Were Graduating This Year

If I were graduating this year, I'd begin anew my course of education. I should not regard it as something completed, put aside. I should try to see new signs of my progress and usefulness.

I should also strive to make myself employable, cultivating traits of keenness, faithfulness in small things, patience, and painstaking reliability.

I should remember how lucky I am to have the privilege of an education when so many just as good as I am, or better, have to go out to work early in life and never get a chance for higher training.

I should prepare for great days of triumph ten, twenty, thirty years from now, and not be discouraged and embittered by embarrassing, trying unemployment today.

I should not try to live on the strength of my school reputation.

I should not only try to secure facts —I should also strive to interpret them wisely and apply them helpfully to social need.

I should study my own capacities and the needs of my community and lend my strength to work that needs to be done—to some definite, near-at-hand job in which I could really help.

If I were graduating this year, in other words, I should strive above all to grow in mind and spirit and usefulness and to make a real start toward a distant but worth-while goal. I should gather all the aids I could from religion, philosophy, science, and other studies and from my own experience, and benefit from wise reading and from the advice of trained elders.

If I were graduating this year, I'd be proud of my diploma. I'd take it home, show it to everyone, have it framed and put on the wall, and then get busy and make that Latin mean something to all the world!—By Richard K. Morton, in the "Epworth Herald."

Your Summer Program

A Sunrise Prayer Meeting

Unless you are very fortunate, some of the young people of your church will be going away for the summer to seek employment. Readjustments of educational and social programs will be necessary. It will be too hot to spend much time indoors at study, and even the most interesting of programs lose attraction when beaches, hills, and lakes call young friends to the out-of-doors.

This summer call to nature is not something to moan about. Rather you should make new plans and keep your crowd together. Here is one summer event that has been used with good results:

Sunrise prayer meeting and breakfast. Assemble your party at 6 a. m., or earlier, and have the materials for a breakfast to be cooked over campfires. Drive together to some quiet natural retreat, where you should begin prayer meeting promptly at seven. It is good to ask some people ahead of time to be ready for talks or prayers in order that the meeting may not drag. Both talks and prayers should be short, stimulating, and cheerful. There is no worse "wet blanket" for a party like this than a long, dragging, pointless talk. And note this: your crowd will have a better meeting on empty stomachs. Conclude the prayer meeting by seven forty-five, and take the crowd to breakfast. A simple breakfast of fried eggs and bacon, buns and cocoa, with some fruit, is best. Keep things moving and insist that everybody get back to the church in time for prayer meeting.

Have you ever tried it? It's lots of fun!

The brave one is not he who feels no fear,
For that were stupid and irrational;
But he whose noble soul its fear subdues,
And bravely dares the danger nature shrinks from.

—Joanna Baille.

www.LatterDayTruth.org

Secrets of Life

By Evan A. Fry

"Beware ye of the leaven of the Pharisees, which is hypocrisy. For there is nothing covered, that shall not be revealed; neither hid, that shall not be known. Therefore, whatsoever ye have spoken in darkness shall be heard in the light; and that which ye have spoken in the ear in closets shall be proclaimed upon the housetops."—Luke 12: 1-3.

MOST OF US can probably find grounds for plenty of fear and trepidation if we stop to think about the full import of this statement. I dare say that there are very few individuals who do not have some sort of skeleton in the closet, which they would just as soon not have revealed to the stares and mocking comments of a relentless and merciless world. Fortunate indeed is the man whose life is an open book, who can willingly submit his life to the searching scrutiny of even his enemies without fear of the disclosures such a search would bring.

Of course, all of us keep hidden certain incidents and chapters of our lives which we regard as our private concern, and which would do us no harm and cause us little if any embarrassment if they should be published from the housetops. Every life has its intimacies and its sacred memories which it does not care to share with an unsympathetic world, but which it is glad to share with some one who understands and sympathizes. We are entitled to the privacies of our own soul, and in the revelation of these legitimate privacies, we can anticipate no devastating humiliation or grief to ourselves.

Then there are other things in our lives which we wish to keep secret because the revelation of them to the world would hold us up to the shame and ridicule of our fellow men, and cause us to lose their love and respect in some degree. It is this type of skeleton which we guard with jealous care, lest we lose prestige in the eyes of our friends and acquaintances. No two persons conceal exactly the same type of skeleton, of course. The dark chapters in my life would not coincide with the dark chapters in your life at all. But we are all alike in dreading the day when our most secret thoughts and most secretly spoken words shall be shouted from the housetops, and when our most carefully guarded faults shall be revealed.

I believe that it is well that we should guard our reputation and keep ourselves from public ridicule if it is honorably possible for us to do so. I do not brand as hypocrites all who sin and manage to conceal it from the world, for I dislike to judge any man until I know his inmost wishes and his heart-felt desires, which perchance may be far different from the actions which he finds himself performing.

ALL OF US know plenty about the truthfulness of the old adage that the spirit is willing, but the flesh is weak, and knowing this from our own experience, we can dearly afford to condemn as a hypocrite the man who is suddenly caught in some blighting sin, but who has been posing meanwhile as a paragon of virtue. Perhaps the desires of that man were of the best; perhaps he was surprised and overtaken by some overpowering temptation; perhaps he is truly sorry and repentant for his mistakes; perhaps exposure and public condemnation would only add to the already crushing burden upon his soul, and therefore he shrinks before the specter of merciless publicity for his faults. Certainly I have no right to condemn such a person as a hypocrite if by chance his duplicity should be exposed, for perhaps I should have a great deal to suffer from exposure myself. Furthermore, I am in no position to judge of his motives and desires. I can judge only from the incomplete and misleading deeds which have caught the eyes of men.

I do not mean to imply, however, that there are not plenty of hypocrites who sin over and over again, willfully, maliciously, and with perfect callousness of conscience, even while they profess all known brands of Christianity and maintain fully-paid-up memberships in the congregations of our most popular and most fashionable churches. You and I both know far too many men who spend their week days fleecing widows and orphans and oppressing the poor, and their Sundays in giving alms to the church and thanks to God for a prosperous week's business. You and I both know far too many unfaithful husbands and wives, who fondly imagine that their sins are covered, and who profess sanctity even while they defy the dictates thereof. There are still far too many people who fondly imagine that salvation may be had in exchange for coin-of-the-realm, and that forgiveness of sin may be had through the medium of some ritualistic formula or hocus-pocus of the church, regardless of the inner change and reaction of the sinner himself.

The man who is truly sorry for his sins will turn from them; the hypocrite will continue in his sins until he is caught. Then he will manifest a startling amount of sorrow (Continued on page 755)

www.LatterDayTruth.org

The Priest and the Child

By HARLEY A. MORRIS

A number of other articles on the work of the visiting priest have been printed. While they do not necessarily represent official views, we believe they contain thoughtful ideas and constructive criticism.

SOMETHING has been said in recent issues of the Herald concerning what the adult member has a right to expect from the priests' visit, and of the ordained man's view of his task. Perhaps it is time for some one to champion the rights of the child: what he expects of the priesthood, what he has the right to expect and what effect the realization of these rights will have on the church of the future.

When the priests visit the home, what does the child expect shall be his share in the visit? Well, having learned from like experiences in the past, he does not expect very much: a dull evening of conversation beyond his comprehension, enlivened, at best, by a kindly spoken word from the brethren whom, if the attitude of the parents be as it should, he regards with respect and deference. In many homes children, having no desire to stay up for the priests' visit, view with less repugnance an early bedtime than they do the prospects of sitting still in a chair while their elders discuss matters that in the very nature of things can have no appeal.

Numerically, a considerable portion of the membership of the church are children. So far as the baptismal certificate is concerned, the rights and privileges of the junior are as great as that of the adult member. If just wants and needs mean anything in a spiritual sense, he can with justice demand more. At the least the child has a right to expect from the visiting priest an equal share in the time occupied. As a member of the church he requires the consideration of his problems in language within his comprehension, in a manner to excite his interest and with illustrations common to his experiences. This means that the priest must make a definite preparation for the visit with the ages of the children in mind. He must provide himself with illustrative material; he must school himself to get down to their level—to talk to them on a common plane—not down at them from some high pinnacle of superiority to which his ego has elevated him. He must be enthused over his message—believe in its importance—and present it in a way that will compel the child's attention without the continual admonition of mother's "Johnny, listen to the man."

As a member of the church, the child has a right to equal consideration with any other member. As a potential leader of the church he has a right to form proper attitudes toward church fundamentals. He needs to think of the priesthood as the ministering arm of the church—God's personal representatives in dealing with his people. He needs to feel that the priesthood are concerned with him and with his problems and that they do understand him and them. He needs to develop a feeling of confidence in the ministry early in life, so that when he is torn between the conflicting urges of adolescence he can, if he wishes, feel free to seek advice beyond the family circle.

Important as is the part the priest may play in developing these attitudes, it in itself is not sufficient. The parents have a definite responsibility here which, if not properly borne, will yet destroy the major portion of the good thus made possible. The attitude of the parents toward the ministry, in so far as their own problems are concerned, is highly important in fostering a favorable attitude on the part of the children. But another influence, not manifest when the priest deals with the adult exclusively, intrudes itself when he ventures to share with the parent the care and confidence of the child. Nearly all parents are selfish with regards to their own children. In their love for them, they willingly spend themselves for their offspring and are fully repaid by the affection and trust which they receive in return. But let some one else venture within the family circle of love, immediately they are conscious of jealous resentment. And the fact that the outsider may be actuated by the highest of motives is of no consequence.

If there is the slightest bit of danger of the priest alienating the affections of the child there should not one word be said against this defensive attitude. But there isn't. The priest is called, pledged and set apart to encourage and foster the family relationship. He has no other excuse for entering the home—he should have no other purpose while there and if he does in any way violate the trust imposed upon him, it becomes a matter of first importance to be taken up officially.

Not all priests can teach juniors. Not all are willing to devote the time and patience necessary to handle properly this age-group. But every branch should find within its priesthood one or more who are willing to devote themselves to this type of ministry; and to them should be entrusted the task of visiting those homes containing children. To the individual, if there be any, who needs praise and prominence to inspire him to his best efforts, this task will not appeal. So, too, the individual who must see quick results cannot find success with children. But to the minister with patience and vision, willing to be satisfied with small visible returns there is no greater task in the church.

www.LatterDayTruth.org

Reaching the Goal of Sacrifice

The story of how the women of Independence successfully completed their campaign for raising $6,000 for the church.

By Mrs. D. J. Krahl
Secretary of the Campaign

TO RELATE THE FACTS and particulars pertaining to the late achievement of the women in Zion is one thing; to convey an idea of the spirit animating and supporting us through the entire project, is quite another.

Doubtless no more inauspicious time could have been chosen nor a more unpromising future held out for launching a campaign to procure six thousand dollars, announced as our quota, than the month of October, 1932. In the midst as we were of the severest and most prolonged financial depression our country has ever known, with the unemployment situation continuing, and doubt and anxiety in the minds of many families as to how a living would be obtained through the approaching winter, we were faced by a formidable array of obstacles that brought us squarely to the test as to whether we possessed the "faith of our fathers."

But these very conditions foreboding small and slow funds flowing to the church at a time when important payments were coming due and missionaries' family allowances far in arrears, made imperative the church-wide appeal of the Presiding Bishopric for financial assistance.

Just why the appeal was made to the women of the church, we do not know. Certainly not because we were in possession of wealth—perhaps it was because of our general reputation for helpfulness when possible. But when we came to consider that it is the women largely who have the handling and distribution of the family income, we became assured that the possibilities were within our hands. Probably this was the thought in the minds of the Bishops.

So it was, to hasten the story, that the pastor in Zion, Elder John F. Sheehy, called together the women supervisors of districts and leaders of groups for the purpose of considering this proposition. At this first meeting there was expressed an appreciation of the seriousness of the situation and a willingness to comply with the request. Several meetings followed in which some troublous questions were discussed and finally cleared up to the satisfaction of all. Our attention was then given entirely to the plan we would adopt to obtain so large a sum. Suggestions of entertainments, suppers, dinners, etc., entailing a great amount of work and bringing in uncertain lump sums only at intervals, together with the wearisomeness of such demands upon the families and homes did not appeal to us strongly. But when the note of personal sacrifice was struck there was an immediate, enthusiastic and general response. It was set forth in figures what pennies, nickels, dimes and quarters, sacrificed in the homes in various ways, would amount to in a given time by a certain number. The estimate was startling. The more we thought about it the more convinced we became that small sacrifices regularly given was the plan we should adopt.

This decided, a vital feature of the plan evolved for which we have always been thankful, and that was that we would go after the offering. We foresaw that too often circumstances would prevent, and indifference or trivial things hinder the arrival of the offering at the appointed time and place. For another reason, we did not wish that securing these contributions should be the sole, absorbing object of the calls at the homes, but that the personal contacts made with families, of becoming acquainted or better acquainted, were very much to be desired, and were equal in importance to the other. President Smith urged this upon us at the outset, that these visits should be made of social and spiritual value. I cannot speak with certainty for all, but I do know that some who collected the offerings from week to week called at homes where they were certain no offering would or could be made, but a kindly inquiry as to the welfare of the family, and an invitation extended to the Monday meeting, a cheery word for better times left a little sunshine with those who would gladly have helped if circumstances had permitted. We cannot now evaluate the worth of these visits to the homes, but we have discovered how lacking we have been in this important, saintly duty.

We found that our organization of women in Zion was well adapted to carry out this part of the plan. The group leaders would collect the offering in their respective groups, list and total them. These would be turned over to the supervisor of the district who in turn would list and total the aggregate of each group in her district; these with the grand total would comprise her report. There are fourteen districts and forty-five groups in Zion, so making these reports consumed the larger part of the time and was the most interesting portion of the Monday meeting. Bishop J. S. Kelley presided at the blackboard. As each supervisor came forward with her collec- (Continued on page 755)

www.LatterDayTruth.org

"Consecration" the Hymn Written for Young People

For twelve years the church has been singing "Consecration," a beautiful hymn-prayer written especially for the young people but which appeals to all singers and listeners. The words were written by Brother Albert W. McCullough, to the Hawiian air, "Aloha Oe," in 1921. Today the young people love this hymn. They sing it as a theme song in their work groups, use it in their prayer services, and make it a part of the program at every convention and institute.

Several years ago the author of the hymn was requested to tell something of its writing. This is his story:

"The writing of 'Consecration' was wholly a spontaneous and unstudied thing. The subject of it, the theme around which it was to be built, came at almost the same time as the idea of writing it. Both were due indirectly to the suggestion of a friend.

"While singing the air 'Aloha Oe' to the accompaniment of a guitar one afternoon, my friend, Elder Ray Whiting, remarked that simple Hawiian melody though it was, it had sufficient beauty and feeling to be used for more sacred purposes. Knowing that I had made attempts in the past with varying degrees of success, to write poetry, he suggested that I try to fit words to the tune and see what success we should have making a hymn of it.

"This took place during the first Zion Builders Services in Lamoni, which I was unable to attend because of physical disability, though through the kindness of others much of the spirit of the meetings was mine. With the thought in mind of the great tasks and wonderful opportunities that were ahead of the young people of our church, I wrote the first two stanzas and chorus immediately after my friend's departure. The third verse was written a day or so later.

"Just before the close of the services spoken of, the verses came to the notice of Brothers George E. Anway and Harold C. Burgess. The song was sung for the first time by Brother Anway at the final meeting of the series. Through the efforts of Brother Burgess it was used in other young people's services in different localities."

Later when the manuscript was being set in type the song was named "Consecration" by Sister Estella Wight, editor of Stepping Stones and Zion's Hope.

Brother McCullough is now in Lawrence, Kansas, where for the past two years he has been working upon his doctorate in the university. He is pursuing research in the fields of biology and psychology and thus bringing to fruition another inspiration received in Graceland days. Music, especially sacred music, is still his chief diversion.

Consecration

Unto God who knows our ev'ry weakness,
With faith we lift our hearts in pray'r,
Asking in humility and meekness,
For his love, his direction, and his care.

Chorus:
In these latter days, with songs of praise,
We all must help to spread the gospel story;
Our ev'ry deed from sin be freed
Till Zion we redeem.

Though the task be great that lies before us,
We trust in One divinely strong;
Knowing well at last we'll be victorious,
We will pray that the time will not be long.

Lord, accept the humble consecration
Of our lives, our talents to Thy cause,
Till Thy word is preached in ev'ry nation,
And all men have a knowledge of thy laws.

We of Little Faith

Years ago we learned that grand opera could be poured out of the point of a needle.

Later we learned that we could take a bit of a box and some wires into a bank vault, made of armor plate, underground, and listen to an orchestra concert in a distant city. There is no escape from the amazing phenomena of nature.

"Yea though I take the wings of the morning and fly to the uttermost parts of the earth, Thou art there."

The Psalmist could not know what the mind of man would yet produce, but he knew that there was a power that reached everywhere. That is all we know now. But knowing that, we know all. We are prepared to believe all.

Those who scoff at miracles argue logically enough that the Creator never sets aside natural law. I do not believe He does, but there are natural laws that we are just beginning to sense. It may be ages before we understand them.

Much of what we used to call the occult has been drawn up into the sunlight. Telepathy is an open secret. Almost everybody has experienced some invisible forces which seem to lie all about us yet are incomprehensible, but there are times when they are undeniable.—Selected.

www.LatterDayTruth.org

A New Oriole Program for 'Teen Age Girls!

By C. B. Woodstock

WE ARE VERY HAPPY to announce to the girls of the church the production of a fine new Oriole program for 'teen age girls. This project has been under way for a number of years and it is with much satisfaction that we see it now taking shape in a most interesting and practical form of local organization for girls from twelve to eighteen years of age.

In general the plan followed is similar to the former plan of the Oriole girls, but the whole program of activities has been revised and greatly extended to give guidance and training in a variety of worthwhile experiences. It will become a part of the regular provision of the young people's division. In developing the new Oriole program the committee has had the advantage of years of experience with Girl Scouts, Campfire Girls, and under the old Oriole program. The new program is designed especially to meet the needs of our own church girls, to uphold the ideals of the church, and to make extensive provision for the working out of projects centering in the objectives of our church. At the same time it uses as far as possible the means and methods which have made the national girls' organizations successful. Present organizations of Orioles will be able to continue their work under the new program which offers a greatly enlarged field of activities and adds many attractive features. New Oriole groups are urged to organize at once and get ready for intensive work during the coming summer months.

A careful reading of the new program reveals a well-balanced, church-centered plan designed to appeal to native interests of 'teen age girls, and to furnish an abundance of interesting, educational, healthful activities, all of which will help our girls to develop normally into the kind of young women who shall help make happy successful homes, and who shall be able to help carry forward the work of the church. The source book of the new, enriched program is Our Girls, a splendid book of activities for 'teen-age girls published in 1930, which sells for $1.00.

The new plan calls for a new Oriole Guide, a program and schedule of activities, to be printed as a supplement to Our Girls' book. There will also be a new Log Book or Oriole Girl's record of her progress in craftmanship. A series of attractive seals has been designed as awards for specific achievement in personal and group endeavors.

None of the above are to be expensive and the money cost of membership in the Oriole movement has been kept at the absolute minimum, for it is adapted to the needs of every girl of 'teen age in the church.

The new girls' program has the hearty endorsement of the young people's division and of general officers of the Department of Religious Education. It will be submitted for consideration at the conference of young people's workers in June and published in pamphlet form early in the summer. In the meantime present Oriole groups or groups of girls who wish to organize will do well to secure a mimeographed copy of the new plan and get ready for activity at once.

A mimeographed copy of the Oriole Guide may be secured now from the Department of Religious Education, The Auditorium, Independence, Missouri. Price 15 cents.

OTHER GIRL ORGANIZATIONS

In 1930, by general agreement in the Department of Religious Education, approval was given to the participation of our girls in Girl Scouts and Campfire organizations where either of these are well organized and where such participation has the approval of the local church authorities. In some localities this has been done very successfully and the plan still has general approval. Those who wish to work with either of the above or similar national organizations should make application to the local chapter headquarters.

We should use the word "God" to describe what is behind the mystery of existence. . . . I have never known a thinking man who did not believe in God. . . . Everyone who reflects at all believes, in one way or another, in God. . . . To me it is unthinkable that a real atheist should exist at all. . . . It seems to be as obvious as breathing that every man who is sufficiently in his senses to recognize his own inability to comprehend the problem of existence, to understand whence he came and whither he is going, must in the very admission of that ignorance and finiteness recognize the existence of a something, a Power, and Being in whom and because of whom he himself "lives and moves and has his being." That power, that something, that existence, we call God.—Professor Millikan, in World's Work.

www.LatterDayTruth.org

Youth Conference Course Outlines

Because these outlines did not reach the office of the Editors in time, it was impossible to include them in the regular Youth Conference Edition. But they are presented here in plenty of time for all to secure copies. Those who attend the Conference should clip these outlines and attach them securely to last week's issue, which serves as the Conference manual for study and programs.

Class in Recreational Leadership

(Daily Meetings at 7:30 A. M.)

By E. E. Closson

Lesson One

A brief survey of present conditions in the pursuit of pleasure, stressing the place that organized recreation, group games, and competitive sports hold in a well-rounded program of constructive leisure time activities.

Topics to be considered:

1. Why is there more leisure for the young people of today than there was fifty years ago?
2. How does this increase in leisure present a "problem"?
3. Just what is this "problem"?
4. What are some of the things that can be done to remove the threat of misused, destructive leisure?

Lesson Two

The importance of leadership in the program of constructive recreation. Some of the outstanding qualities of a good leader will be considered and illustrations will be given showing how to direct group recreation.

Topics to be considered:

1. List a number of requisites for good leadership.
2. What are some of the advantages and disadvantages occasioned by the peculiar physical, moral, and spiritual characteristics of a leader?
3. How may the average young person qualify for leadership?

Lesson Three

Active games and how to play them will be demonstrated. New ideas for the play period, and stunts, tricks, and mirth-making devices for certain occasions will be illustrated.

Topics to be considered:

1. The appropriateness of certain games only at certain times.
2. How a program of recreational activities should be balanced.
3. Sources for new material.

Lesson Four

In this lesson a number of musical games, folk games, and the more graceful type of group play will be demonstrated. The time, place, and occasion for this type of recreation will also be considered.

Topics to be considered:

1. Why are musical games not used more extensively among young people?
2. What are some of the benefits to be had from this type of recreation?
3. Explain why rhythm is pleasing, and tell how it may be used without danger.

Lesson Five

A typical program of recreation for one month in the average-sized branch will be planned. Varying activities which will appeal to groups of different ages and interests will be demonstrated.

Topics to be considered:

1. The season, the location, the time and the occasion for a party.
2. How should an evening of recreation be planned?
3. What are the elements that insure the success of a party, banquet, picnic, tournament, or the like?

Lesson Six

The place recreation should occupy in our daily life will be considered along with some of the complications and dangers involved when recreation is either over or under emphasized in a young people's group. How a program of creative recreation may become a part of every well regulated branch will be discussed.

Topics to be considered:

1. Who is responsible for recreation in the branch?
2. What careful distinction should be drawn between amusements and recreation?
3. Who is to decide what young people should and should not do on Sunday?

Class in Pastoral Administration

By Blair Jensen

The course in pastoral administration will for the greater part consist of a discussion of some of the major problems that constitute a part of the regular routine of the pastor-administrator. Discussion by the class and presentation of specific problems will be welcome.

In the discussion of visitation emphasis will be placed upon the purposes, types, methods, and mechanics of visiting. Specific attention will be given to the relative values sought by the regular visits of the priesthood, visits of labor, and social visits.

The organization of branches for missionary endeavor will be outlined. Through every phase of branch activity the missionary thread must run, if the gospel is to be advanced and the work to prosper. It is essential that the individual members of the branch be aroused and inspired to individual activity in an organized channel. The spirit of evangelism should pervade every branch department and activity.

The church year will be presented. Presentation will be made of the purpose of having general plans built throughout the year as well as a discussion of the values to be derived from the same. While a general outline and plan for a period of months should be in hand, yet this should be subject to such changes as new conditions and situations and leads would indicate to be desirable. This calendar will be built with a special reference to those events and days that are of special interest to Latter Day Saints.

Departmental activities and their relationships will be studied under the topic of "Organization and Coordination." No department has a right to exist for itself alone. Each and every department must have as its basic reason for existence the welfare of the church and the advancement of its message.

The branch will be discussed from the standpoint of its relationship to the general church and also of its place in the community life.

Such ramifications from the material presented in this syllabus will be entered into as are deemed advisable in the following out of leads and interests developed in the class discussions.

This course is built upon the premise that young people's activities must be centered about the theme of preparation to carry on the responsibility of church activity, and is specifically designed for those whose desires, interests, and activities center around pastoral administration.

www.LatterDayTruth.org

WORSHIP SERVICES FOR JULY, 1933

The Church School

Prepared by Arthur Oakman and Elva T. Sturges

THEME FOR THE MONTH: "JUDGE RIGHTEOUSLY."

FIRST SUNDAY, JULY 2

Theme: "Consider His Ways."

Instrumental Prelude: "O God Whose Presence," N. S. H., 73; S. H., 84.

Call to Worship: Doctrine and Covenants 45: 1; 85: 8; 38: 5.

"Hearken O ye people of my church, to whom the kingdom has been given, hearken ye, and give ear to him who laid the foundations of the earth, who made the heavens and all the hosts thereof, and by whom all things were made which live and move and have a being." "Verily I say unto you, That which is governed by law, is preserved by law, and perfected and sanctified by the same. That which breaketh a law, and abideth not by law, but seeketh to become a law unto itself, and willeth to abide in sin, and altogether abideth in sin, cannot be sanctified by law, neither by mercy, justice, or judgment; . . ." "Wherefore hear my voice and follow me, and you shall be a free people, and ye shall have no laws but my laws, when I come, for I am your lawgiver, and what can stay my hand?"

(S) Hymn: "Blest Be Thou," N. S. H., 121; S. H., 31.

(S) Prayer: For quietness, humility, openmindedness.

Minister: Doctrine and Covenants 41: 2; 85: 3.

"He that receiveth my law, and doeth it, the same is my disciple; and he that saith he receiveth it, and doeth it not, the same is not my disciple, and shall be cast out from among you; for it is not meet that the things which belong to the children of the kingdom, should be given to them that are not worthy, . . ." "The light which now shineth, which giveth you light, is through him who enlighteneth your eyes, which is the same light that quickeneth your understandings; which light proceedeth forth from the presence of God, to fill the immensity of space. The light which is in all things; which giveth life to all things; which is the law by which all things are governed; even the power of God who sitteth upon his throne, who is in the bosom of eternity, who is the midst of all things."

Hymn: "The Lord Jehovah Reigns," N. S. H., 120; S. H., 142, verse 1.

Minister: Psalm 19: 1-11.

Response by Congregation: Psalm 19: 12. "Who can understand his errors? cleanse thou me from secret faults."

Hymn: "The Thunders of His Hand," N. S. H., 120, verse 2.

Ministers: Doctrine and Covenants 85: 9, 10, 11.

Hymn: "Through All His Mighty Works," N. S. H., 120, verse 3.

Talk: We are living in a universe that is governed and controlled by law. Each sphere of existence has its own ways of behaving. Science investigates and discovers the laws governing the physical realm. The artist discovers and uses the laws governing the representation of the natural world. The musician writes his music according to the logic of harmony and good form. Jesus is the master of all. He reveals the laws governing the spiritual realm in which man is, and through him they are made available for those who seek to know him. The laws governing the formation of character are as fixed and unalterable as those of any other kingdom. Everything we do is subject to the laws of God; hence he who refuses to do right will, if he continues to refuse, finally lose the power to do right. He who is wicked is fearful; conversely, a righteous man is free from fear. He who loves God loves also his brother, for it is an irrevocable law that he who despises another cannot have the love of God in his heart.

(S) Hymn: "And Will This Sovereign King," N. S. H., 120, verse 4.

(S) Commission: Genesis 6: 64; Doctrine and Covenants 10: 6.

"Therefore it is given to abide in you, the record of heaven, the Comforter, the peaceable things of immortal glory, the truth of all things, that which quickeneth all things, which maketh alive all things, that which knoweth all things, and hath all power according to wisdom, mercy, truth, justice and judgment."

"And now, verily, verily I say unto thee, Put your trust in that Spirit which leadeth to do good; yea, to do justly, to walk humbly, to judge righteously, and this is my Spirit."

(S) Benediction: Psalm 19: 14.

"Let the words of my mouth, and the meditation of my heart, be acceptable in thy sight, O Lord, my strength, and my redeemer." (Recited by the group.)

Picture: W. L. Taylor: "When I Consider Thy Heavens."

SECOND SUNDAY, JULY 9

Theme: "Judge Me, O Lord."

Instrumental Prelude: "The Lord How Wondrous," N. S. H., 116; S. H., 144.

Call to Worship: Doctrine and Covenants 56: 1, and Colossians 3: 23-25.

"Hearken, O ye people who profess my name, saith the Lord your God, for, behold, mine anger is kindled against the rebellious, and they shall know mine arm and mine indignation in the day of visitation and of wrath upon the nations. And he that will not take up his cross and follow me and keep my commandments, the same shall not be saved." "Therefore, whatsoever ye do, do it heartily as to the Lord, and not unto men; knowing that of the Lord ye shall receive the reward of the inheritance: . . . But he that doeth wrong shall receive for the wrong which he hath done: and there is no respect of persons."

Congregational Response: Psalm 25: 1, and 4, 5.

"Unto thee, O Lord, do I lift up my soul. Show me thy ways, O Lord, teach me thy paths. Lead me in Thy truth and teach me."

(S) Prayer: For enlightenment and forgiveness: to be concluded by the Lord's Prayer, the congregation joining.

(S) Hymn: "Holy, Holy, Holy," N. S. H., 39.

Scripture Reading: From Moroni 7: 3-17.

Hymn: "Lord for Tomorrow," N. S. H., 276; Z. P., 124.

Meditation:

God is not a legalistic bookkeeper who totals up the debit and credit sides of the spiritual ledger, and at the last day rewards us by handing us packages of joy if the balance of good predominates, or cartons of misery if it shows we have been mostly evil. The judgment of God is much more than that which is meted out to us at the last day. In one sense it is profoundly true that the last great day of judgment will find us rewarded by a fixity of character which is final, and which will determine our capacity for using the attributes of God: intelligence, love, service, power. But in another equally profound sense the judgment of eternal God is operative now. It is being written into our lives each day, by the thoughts, words, and deeds by which we are possessed.

A clear recognition of the fact of eternal judgment as always operative will make a wise man sober. He will not be careless about his habits of life. Our lives ought to be so ordered as to invite the daily judgment of the eternal One. This can be done as we listen to the voice of his Spirit, which through consistent daily meditation and worship, speaks peace to our souls.

Hymn: "Let Me No Wrong or Idle Word," N. S. H., 276, verses 2 and 3.

(S) Psalm of Blessing: To be read by the minister: Psalm 1.

(S) Response by the People: Psalm 26: 1, 2.

"Judge me, O Lord, for I have walked in mine integrity: I have trusted also in the Lord; . . . Examine me, O Lord, and prove me; try my reins and my heart."

(S) Benediction: Alma 15: 68, 69.

"And now may God grant unto these my brethren, that they may sit down in the kingdom of God; yea, and also all those who are the fruit of their labors that they may go no more out, but that they may praise him forever. And may God grant it may be done according to my words, even as I have spoken. Amen."

Picture: W. L. Taylor, "The Lord Is My Shepherd."

www.LatterDayTruth.org

THIRD SUNDAY, JULY 16

Theme: "Love the Brethren."

Instrumental Prelude: "Gracious Spirit," N. S. H., 192.

Call to Worship: Doctrine and Covenants 39: 1.

"Hearken and listen to the voice of Him who is from all eternity to all eternity, the great I AM, even Jesus Christ, the light and life of the world; a light which shineth in darkness and the darkness comprehendeth it not; the same which came in the meridian of time unto mine own, and my own receiveth me not; but to as many as received me gave I power to become my sons, and even so will I give unto as many as will receive me, power to become my sons."

Congregational Response: 1 John 3: 16.

"Hereby perceive we the love of Christ; because he laid down his life for us; and we ought to lay down our lives for the brethren."

(S) Hymn: "O Love That Will Not Let Me Go," N. S. H., 285.

(S) Prayer.

A petition for the Spirit of God by which we may rightly judge each other.

Scripture Reading: 1 John 4: 7-21.

Hymn: "O Brother Man," N. S. H., 339, verse 1.

Meditation: Story of the woman taken in adultery. (John 8: 2-11.) The Scribes and Pharisees—the self-satisfied people of the days of Jesus—saw in this woman only that she had sinned. According to their idea of justice, she should be punished. That was all they were concerned with. Because of his great love, Christ saw in her boundless possibilities. He was not less concerned than they were about what she had done. But he placed it in the background of her future possibilities. He saw this woman as a future constructive witness of the redemptive power of God. So, while in no way condoning her sin, he forgave her with the injunction, "Go, and sin no more."

What of our estimate of each other? If we see only our brother's faults, and the appropriate punishment thereto, the love of God does not abide in us. An eye of affection for him will, however, give us a vision of his possibilities, and our conduct toward him will be motivated by what we know and believe he can be in God.

Hymn: "For One Whom Jesus Loved," N. S. H., 339, verses 2 and 3.

Admonition: Doctrine and Covenants 122; 16, 17.

Hymn: "I Would Be True," N. S. H., 294.

Picture: Hofmann, "Christ and the Adultress."

The Children's Division

Prepared by Mildred Goodfellow and Fern Weedmark

FIRST SUNDAY, JULY 2

Sacrament service for adults and children together. It is suggested that at the close of the class period the teachers recall, with the children, the purpose of the sacrament service, especially if there are new pupils or visitors present. The picture, "The Last Supper," may be shown, not only for the benefit of the children who were not present when it was shown before, but also for those who have seen it. It is a picture that people appreciate seeing often.

SECOND SUNDAY, JULY 9

Theme: "The Golden Rule."

Prelude: "Loving Each Other," Zion's Praises, 83.

Call to Worship: "Praise the Lord, call upon his name, declare his doings among the people, make mention that his name is exalted." (Isaiah 12: 4.)

Hymn: "The Rosy Gates of Summer," Zion's Praises, 86.

Prayer.

Scripture: Matthew 7: 12. (This should be memorized.)

Hymn: "Loving Each Other," Zion's Praises, 83.

Sermon Talk: Text: Matthew 19: 19b. Jesus said to treat others as you would like them to treat you. Of course, you would like other people to be kind to you, to help you, to tell you the truth, to be honest with you, to respect your property (that is, not take anything that belongs to you, without your permission). Suppose everyone practiced the "Golden Rule." This world would be a happier place to live in. Sometimes children make fun of other children; sometimes even laugh at their clothes. If they would stop to think how they would feel if some one made fun of them, they would act differently. If you will think of a time when some one helped you or did something nice for you, you will remember how happy you felt. Of course, other people feel the same way. The Golden Rule, like all the other rules that Jesus gave us, will make us happy if we follow it.

Story: "The Day Charlie Stopped," Stepping Stones, September 13, 1931, or "Annette Comes Through," Stepping Stones, January 22, 1933.

Special musical number: Song, "We Would See Jesus," new Saints' Hymnal, 155, by Junior Choir, or instrumental solo by a junior boy or girl.

Story: How David practiced the Golden Rule. (1 Samuel, chapters 24 and 26.) How Joseph practiced the Golden Rule. (Genesis, chapters 42, 43, 44 and 45.) Told by juniors.

Closing Hymn: "Never Pass Them By," Zion's Praises, 42.

Benediction.

THIRD SUNDAY, JULY 16

Theme: "Honesty."

Prelude: "Beautiful Valley of Eden," Zion's Praises, 155.

Call to Worship: "What doth the Lord require of thee, but to do justly, and to love mercy, and to walk humbly with thy God?" (Micah 6: 8.)

Hymn: "There's an Old, Old Path," Zion's Praises, 207; new Saints' Hymnal, 260.

Prayer.

Scripture: Romans 12: 17b, Philippians 4: 8, Hebrews 13: 18.

Hymn: "Dare to Do Right," Zion's Praises, 79.

Sermon Talk: The prophet Micah said that God requires us to deal justly with all men. That means that we should be fair and honest. You know what your conscience is. Some people call it the little voice inside of us that tells us whether the things we do are right or wrong. If we do something wrong, we are apt to say our conscience bothers us. We mean by this we are not happy. If we are fair and honest with other people, we will have what we call a "clear conscience," which means that we feel free and happy. Paul said (Acts 24: 16) that he always tried to "have a conscience void of offence toward God and toward men." (Explain.) The late President Joseph Smith once said, "I never owned a dishonest dollar in my life, and I have not knowingly wronged man, woman or child." (Page 30, pamphlet, "Joseph Smith, A Centennial Tribute.")

Story: "His Answer," Stepping Stones, February 1, 1931, or "The Lost Dollar," Stepping Stones, August 30, 1931.

Hymn: "I Would Be True," new Saints' Hymnal, 294.

Story: Story from Lesson Seven, page 33, Junior Quarterly, The Junior and His Bible, April, May, June, 1931, by Myrtle A. Weber, or How Fred Harvey Lost His Chance, Stepping Stones, October 9, 1932.

Closing Hymn: "Look for the Beautiful," Zion's Praises, 147; new Saints' Hymnal, 209.

Benediction.

(These programs will be completed in next week's Herald.)

One of the most significant features of the teachings of Jesus is the central place which he gives to the fact of personality. He regards every human life as sacred and as possessing infinite dignity and value in the sight of God. Nor is this strange. The entire creative process reached its zenith when man was made in the likeness of God. The aim of all our teaching has been to bring man into a full realization of his sublime possibilities.—The Pilgrim Highroad.

www.LatterDayTruth.org

A Cumulative Tract Publication
for the
Reorganized Church of Jesus Christ of Latter Day Saints

Signs of the Times and Pre-Millennial World Events

By E. B. Hull

IN THIS AGE of modernistic views, some have supposed that inspiration received from God in Bible times was not intended for all ages, but was given for these primitive times and the infant church, for its development, but when the church became grown there was no need of special revealment, that the "Canon of Scripture is full." The Bible is now the means of guiding us into "all truth," and men are now to use their own wisdom and learning in interpreting the word of God. They have overlooked the statement, "that the things of God knoweth no man except by the Spirit of God." Also, "That the Lord God doeth nothing but he revealeth his secrets unto his servants, the prophets." So if the Lord is doing business today as he did anciently, we must expect something to be revealed from heaven in the same old-fashioned way.

People for years have tried by mathematical calculation of biblical prophecies to determine just when Christ would return to this world, and the signs relating to his coming. Many dates have been set, but all have failed in their deductions. They overlook many of the words of our Savior, that he spake to his disciples on this question.

When Jesus sat upon the mount of Olives, his disciples came unto him privately, saying:

"Tell us, when shall these things be which thou hast said concerning the destruction of the temple, and the Jews; and what is the sign of thy coming; and of the end of the world?" [or the destruction of the wicked, which is the end of the world.]—Matthew 24: 4. (Inspired Version.)

Jesus answered them, as follows:

"Take heed that no man deceive you. For many shall come in my name, saying I am Christ; and shall deceive many. . . . Therefore be ye also ready; for in such an hour as ye think not, the Son of Man cometh."—Matthew 24: 5, 6, 51. (Inspired Version.)

There is one religious organization in this country, whose founder claims that she is the woman of Revelation 12, and is to rule all nations with a rod of iron; she overlooked the wording of that verse, it says "she brought forth a man child, who was to rule all nations with a rod of iron." (Revelation 12: 5.) The word of the Lord to his church today, is:

"Verily I say unto you, that the Son of Man cometh not in the form of a woman, neither of a man traveling on the earth; wherefore be not deceived."—Doctrine and Covenants 49: 4.

Jesus continues to explain regarding his return to the earth and the things that will happen prior to his coming:

"Jerusalem shall be trodden down of the Gentiles, until the times of the Gentiles be fulfilled. . . . In the generation in which the times of the Gentiles shall be fulfilled, there shall be signs in the sun, and in the moon, and in the stars; and upon the earth distress of nations with perplexity, like the sea and waves roaring. The earth also shall be troubled, and the waters of the great deep; men's hearts failing them for fear, and for looking after those things which are coming on the earth. For the powers of heaven shall be shaken."—Luke 21: 23-26. (Inspired Version.)

Paul says: "That blindness in part is happened to Israel, until the fullness of the Gentiles be come in."—Romans 11: 25.

ACCORDING to the words of Jesus, certain things must take place in the heavens and on the earth before his coming. After he told them of the distress of nations, etc., he then gave them the parable of the fig tree. The cursing of the fig tree was because it had failed to discharge its mission and do its work. President Frederick M. Smith says: "When we, in our activities fail to produce from our environment those thing that will bring to us specific fruit, that which is to us what the fig is to the fig tree, then we are failing in our mission, just as the fig tree failed."

Jesus tells of the condition of the times in the world just prior to his coming, as follows:

"For it shall be with them as it was in the days which were before the flood; for until the day that Noah entered into the ark, they were eating and drinking, marrying and giving in marriage, and knew not until the flood came and took them all away; so shall also the coming of the Son of Man be."—Matthew 24: 45. (Inspired Version.)

Moses tells us of the condition of the world in the days of Noah, he says:

"God saw that the wickedness of man had become great in the earth; and every man was lifted up in the imagination of the thoughts of his heart; being only evil continually. . . . The earth was corrupt before God; and it was filled with violence."—Genesis 8: 10, 17. (Inspired Version.)

If the world is to be in a similar condition at the coming of Christ, we may expect a fulfillment of the prophecy given by Paul:

"But of the times and the seasons, brethren, ye have no need that I write unto you. For yourselves know perfectly that the day of the Lord so cometh as a thief in the night. For when they say, Peace and safety; then sudden destruction cometh upon them, as travail upon a woman with child; and they shall not escape. But ye, brethren, are not in darkness, that that day should overtake you as a thief."—1 Thessalonians 5: 1-4.

Jesus said: "Of that day and hour no one knoweth; no not the angels of God in heaven, but my Father only."—Matthew 24: 43.

The word of the Lord came to Joseph Smith on this subject:

"Ye say that ye know that the end of the world cometh; ye say, also, that ye know that the heavens and the earth shall pass away; and in this ye say truly, for so it is; but these things which I have told you shall not pass away until all shall be fulfilled. And this I have told you concerning Jerusalem; and when that day shall come, shall a remnant be scattered among all nations, but they shall be gathered again; but they shall remain until the times of the Gentiles be fulfilled. . . . And when the times of the Gentiles is come in, a light shall break forth among them that sit in darkness, and it shall be the fullness of my gospel; but they receive it not, for they perceive not the light, and they turn their hearts from me because of the precepts of men; and in that generation shall the times of the Gentiles be fulfilled."—Doctrine and Covenants 45: 3, 4.

(To be continued.)

(Note to the reader: This article is of tract length, and will be presented in installments of uniform size that may be saved and bound together to form a pamphlet that may be used for reference or for lending to friends.)

The missionary spirit in the world of religion has nearly died. They say that this is because people have become liberal and tolerant. Can we not see that this so-called liberalism and tolerance is merely a brutal loss of interest? It is one thing to let your fellow men live their own lives. It is quite another thing not to care what becomes of them. Unless you care, religion not only loses the other man: it loses you.

www.LatterDayTruth.org

Weekly Health Letter

Summer Bowel Troubles

By A. W. Teel, M. D., Church Physician

It is a well-known fact that bowel troubles in summer are very frequent among old and young, but infants suffer the most.

In the old days when sanitary conditions were not as good as they are now the mortality from summer disorders was extensive. Today in spite of our knowledge of modern sanitation the fatality list is far greater than it should be. Not because of the lack of knowledge on the part of our physicians and hygienists is this brought about, but directly due to the carelessness on the part of the layman.

Putrefactive germs during the warm and hot months of summer are the chief offenders. This is brought out by recent experiments and observations by European physicians of well-known reputation. The principal sources of infection are bad water, milk, and meat. Hear the admonition of the Lord in section 86 Doctrine and Covenants wherein it says that meats should be used "sparingly" and "should not be used except in times of winter or of cold or of famine."

Milk as a precaution should be boiled, and no doubt meat should be discarded altogether during the summer months for we have an abundance of other things that are much better to take its place, especially during the hot months when it is always swarming with germs which cause decay.

Most diseases are transmitted by various impurities in water, and many harmful germs and parasites may be found therein especially from dug wells or lakes and streams with the exception of springs and artesian wells. Great care should also be taken to disinfect fruits of all kinds and all other foods such as, cabbage, celery, lettuce, and radishes. Fruits and vegetables are often seriously contaminated from fertilizing material such as, sewerage, etc., thus introducing dangerous germs and parasites into the intestines or various other parts of the body. Those who plant their own gardens have the advantage as they have means of knowing whether vegetables grown are safe.

During the summer months fresh vegetables, salads, and fruit juices should be the chief dietary. Precaution should be used to keep the bowels moving freely by the daily cold bath, exercises, free drinking of water, and a laxative diet. Soaking the food in Peroxide of Hydrogen one part to twenty of water for five minutes will render them comparatively safe. Of course, they should first be thoroughly cleaned by preferably running water, and then after being taken out of the peroxide should be again washed well. Raw vegetables and fresh fruits, purchased from the market, should never be eaten without this preparation.

Scene in the Mansion House, Nauvoo: June, 1844

(Testimony of the Mother of the Prophets)

By Warren L. Van Dine

THE MOURNING MULTITUDES had gone to weep
By hearths an overflowing scourge had touched.
I sat beside the bodies of my sons—
The last footfall had died outside the door
And darkness rife with fears and vague alarms
Had settled over Mansion House and town.
I had the Book of Mormon in my hands—
Some one had left a candle on a stand
Beside the biers on which the prophets lay.
"And this is what God meant," burned in my mind,
"When I was told that in five years my sons
Would have power over all their enemies!"

"Why weep for those whom God has called to rest!"
A voice asked from the shadows at my side.
The book slipped through my fingers to the floor.
"These men are needed in a larger world!"
I seized the smoking candle from the stand.
My flaring light fell on breastplate and sword.
A giant Nephite warrior stood on guard
Between the still forms of my murdered sons.
"And will you save their bodies from the mob!"
I cried. "I've prayed all day for even that!
The fiends swear they will tear them from their graves!"
"The next time I stand guard above these dead,"
He pointed to the light that like a star
Gleamed in the cabin at the water's edge
Where Joseph lived at first, "the kings of earth Will throng that turf to heap flowers on their tombs."
"And shall I see that day!" I sobbed in joy.
He did not speak. The night had swallowed him.

(Author's Note: This fictionalized account is based on the testimony of the prophet's mother given in Chapter 54 of her work "Joseph Smith The Prophet And His Progenitors.")

Courtship

But courtship is vastly more than a conquest. It is an exploration. It is a journey into life undertaken to discover whether a man and woman share those interests, tastes, ideals, and sentiments which in the sharing develop and sustain love. It is an adventure far more thrilling than any quest for the South Pole or the lost treasures of the Incas, for it may lead to the love of a home-partner, the satisfactions of home life and the joys of fatherhood and motherhood.

Nothing, therefore, can count more in courtship than honesty, sincerity and fair play. Too much is at stake to risk resorting to deceit, insincerity, shrewd dealing, or any of the sharp practices of warfare. There is, however, room for a legitimate pride of conquest—not the exultation of wife-capture by a surprise attack with superior forces, or husband-snaring with cleverly concealed traps, but the exaltation of winning a mate by that honest sharing of life which makes for growth into love.—Roy E. Dickerson, in the Epworth Herald.

www.LatterDayTruth.org

REACHING THE GOAL OF SACRIFICE

(Continued from page 747.)

tions and report, the figures were put upon the board with generous applause from the audience.

No one who was present at the first meeting October 31, will ever quite forget the suspense that held us. Was the plan a success? Was it workable? Would it bring the final result? Our hearts were full of anxiety. But what was our joy to find at the end of the reports that day that $384.97 had been turned in. Where did it come from? How did we do it? We could hardly realize it even though that was what we set out to do. A little analysis however, showed that the Laurel Club had contributed $154, the Tuesday Club, $20, which brought the true amount of individual offerings down to $210.97. There were 573 contributors. We were encouraged.

At the second meeting $287.02 in individual contributions and $67 from the Laurel Club made the total for that week $354.02.

In eleven weeks when we reported our work to the conference in Zion, we had gathered $2,333. In February we reached the $3,000 mark. On March 20, we passed the $4,000 point. May 15, we reached the $5,000. In this month it was decided to have a dollar day in June, and June 5 was the time set to reach our goal. Many and various were the ways in which each earned her dollar, some not limiting themselves to that amount. But we had $636.72 to obtain. Could we do it? Some feared we could not, but a determination and an eagerness to finish the job was disclosed when the final results placed upon the board read $6,040.07. Always sparing of applause in the upper auditorium of the church, I think nothing but a command from the President of the church, who was with us, could have restrained us in expressing our exultation in the accustomed mode. Our hearts swelled with gratitude to the One who had assisted us through to the end. The goal was won! And we cannot help thinking it was won in a way acceptable to the Lord.

At this last meeting a touching experience was related by a sister which showed a splendid spirit of sacrifice and appreciation. She was called to the rostrum to speak of it and did so in a modest, humble, but eloquent manner. Some months ago she had been ill and was told by a physician that she should seek the services of a skilled surgeon for an operation. She called upon the Great Physician and was healed. Deeply grateful for the wonderful blessing she had received, the pain and suffering of an operation she had been spared, the great cost of hospital service and a year probably of disability, she said to her husband, "Don't you think we should make an offering to the Lord of $100?" Her husband readily assented and a check for $100 was placed in the offering on this last day which enabled us to reach our goal.

A few days ago a husband and wife came to one of our supervisors with countenances beaming, the wife saying, "I have my dollar for dollar day!" A neighbor later told this supervisor that she knew positively that fifty cents was all that family had left for the necessities of an entire week. Sickness and unemployment had been their portion much of the past year, yet they rejoiced in doing their part even at so great a price.

A tribute of appreciation was paid to Sister Charlotte Koehler, chairman of the campaign, on the final day. Her dauntless spirit on such an adventure as we had engaged in gave us heart and hope all along the way. The sacrifice of her time, profession and untiring efforts is worthy of our highest commendation.

The story of this achievement may be summed up in a few, brief words: We accepted a task and we finished it. Farewell, campaign of 1932-33. We shall miss you now that you will no longer be with us. For the small offerings we gave to you, you gave to us magnanimous returns in opportunity, service, unity, and love. With these you have shown us the way to victory. You now must hasten to other hearts and hands, and we to other goals, Farewell.

SECRETS OF LIFE

(Continued from page 745.)

—but only the sorrow for having been found out. Is it not a fearful and awe-inspiring thought that all of us, saints and sinners, hypocrites and sincere zealots, must all some day face the blinding light of God's great throne, in which all hidden things will be revealed? Surely, we should take heed daily lest we be led into those things which will cause us grief and shame in the days when all things shall be revealed.

THERE IS ONE MORE ANGLE to this problem which is really worth a whole sermon in itself, but which I want to give at least a passing examination. You are all familiar, I am sure, with the other type of hypocrite who makes it his particular business to see that the sins of his neighbor are ferretted out and paraded before the world. He works under a cloak of sanctity. He is judge, jury, and executioner for his victims, and no one is too high or too low to escape the chastisement of his tongue and the judgment of his disclosures. He makes it his business and his life work to publish the secret acts of frail mortals from all the best available housetops, meanwhile making a great show of piety and religious fervor.

Even if he does chance to be fulfilling scripture, I have nothing but contempt and futile, useless pity for such a vulture, who preys upon the souls of erring, and perhaps repentant men. And I wonder whether all of us good Christians are not often guilty of this same crime —that of fatally wounding our brethren by the disclosure of those things about them which should have been kept hid. God, in his mercy, as well as in his perfect justice, will reveal all things in his own best way and at the proper time. Until then, let us judge not, that we be not judged, and let us so order our lives that we may not fear the revelations which the great day of reckoning shall bring.

I Must Be True

By R. E. Hubricht

I must be true, though there be none who trust me;
Although no hero's praise for me be said.
I must be true, though no one beareth witness
And no one sees the lonely way I tread.

I must be true when those most dear must doubt me;
Whose eyes have seen, and seeing, been deceived.
When every circumstance must prove me guilty,
And when no word of mine could be believed.

I must be true; e'en when the tempter whispers:
"Thou art alone. Besides, no one doth care;
No one has ever weighed thy heavy burden
And none would even deign your load to share."

I must be true, for One was true before me
Who being true, for truth was crucified.
I must be true though life be void of pleasure.
HIS life of grief in death, was glorified.

Be thou content; be still before
His face, at whose right hand doth reign
Fullness of joy forevermore,
Without whom all thy toil is vain.
He is thy living spring, thy sun, whose rays
Make glad with life and light thy dreary days.
Be thou content.

—Lyra Germanica.

"To set one's face in the right direction and then simply to travel on, unmindful of and never discouraged by even frequent tumbles by the way, is the secret of all human achievement. To be truly and persistently grateful for our blessings brings many more to us. Thanksgiving multiplies our good amazingly.

www.LatterDayTruth.org

Prayer and Testimony

Helps Man to Find God

"Prayer is a method that man has developed in his religious life to help him to find God. Its value is in the fact that it has been effectual to this end. The great truth is that through prayer he comes into contact with the Power that empowers, uplifts and comforts. So that whereas he was weak, or irresolute, or disquieted, he is now by this great means strong, or determined, or calm. That is its justification.

"Prayer is a spiritual act and its blessings are spiritual. As Augustine said, 'The reward of God is Himself'—not houses or land or barrels of flour or suits of clothes."—John M. Atwood.

No Place for Contention in the Church

By Mrs. C. B. Freeman

The gospel of Jesus Christ is the dearest treasure we hold, and daily I pray that I may carry on in such a way as to enjoy the rich blessings which, we are told, will follow the believer.

I can testify that God is a God of miracles today, and has power with the physical body, with the elements, and with the spirits of men. It is of one of those experiences that I wish to write.

At one time we lived in a small branch, and a beautiful spirit of love joined the Saints. Their prayer services were blessed; their sick were healed, and sinners were converted. Later a spirit of misunderstanding entered, estranging one from another. During this time I went to a cottage prayer service at the home of a sister who was estranged from our family. No friendly greeting was given, and had it not been for the coming of another brother and sister who were friendly, I fear I should have returned home. During the meeting I undertook to pray, and my vision was opened. I saw the love of God for his children though they were erring. There is only one thing to which I can compare this experience, the vision of Nephi when he saw the Savior born into the world, that he might save the people from their sins. I was shown how charity is kind, how it bears all things, endures all things, and suffers long. I was very thankful that I went to that meeting and glad that the people, at a later date, "buried the hatchet," and tried to live as a united group. There was no joy in the branch until we did this.

I have learned that it is for us to forgive. There is no place for contention in the church of God. May we watch and pray that we may win in the battle of righteousness. Let us put on the full armor of God, having faith, hope, and charity, and being full of love for the people of God.

AVA, MISSOURI.

Grateful for Prayers

By Julia A. Crocker

I wish to thank all the Saints for their prayers in my behalf. I have been much better since my request for prayers was printed in the Herald. I can walk about the house some without my cane and out into the yard a little with it.

I know this is the true church of God. I have had many strengthening, spiritual experiences. The Lord has blessed me abundantly, and my daily prayer is for faith, wisdom, patience, strength, courage, and love; that the words of my mouth and the meditations of my heart may be acceptable in the sight of the Lord, my strength and my Redeemer.

I also pray for our beloved President, Brother Frederick M. Smith, and all his helpers, that they may have God's Spirit to guide them, that they may be able to direct the church and that Zion may soon be redeemed. I also pray that the President of the United States may be guided by the Spirit of the Father, and given wisdom to lead our nation.

LOOMIS, CALIFORNIA, Rural Delivery 1, Box 166.

A Testimony of True Conversion

By Elsie G. Wettengel

The testimonies of the Saints always strengthen me. I bear mine with a silent prayer that it may be helpful.

I was reared by a devout, Christian mother. At an early age I united with a church. I enjoyed laboring in the vineyard for my Master, but I was always on the lookout for a church home more nearly like the one Christ established. In my early twenties, I was wandering aimlessly about, seeking a new church home. I partook of some so-called worldly pleasures, but soon discovered that it was impossible to serve two masters, and I found the more lasting pleasure in serving the one I had learned to love from infancy.

About ten years ago, I overheard some of the villagers ridiculing a new family in our midst. They called them "Mormons." I recalled that some Mormon elders had given me tracts years before. (I do not know why I preserved them.) Curiosity caused me to glance through them. To my amazement I ascertained that the "Articles of Faith" contained the very essence of a creed I believed. Naturally, I sought the acquaintance of the new family.

The angel's message was new to me and very fascinating, but I was unwilling to accept the Book of Mormon as a sister book of the Bible. History had taught me things about Joseph Smith and his Mormon followers, so I decided this was not the church I was seeking.

However, my restless heart kept crying to God for wisdom and understanding, and I was privileged to enjoy a vision. An angel appeared at the foot of my bed and I heard a voice say, "Believe as this man says." Then Brother Turner appeared to be standing there. (He was the elder through whose untiring efforts I had learned about the angel message.) All doubt was removed. I knew this was the church Christ had established on earth.

I did not request baptism because I knew my earthly loved ones would resent the step I would be taking. Shortly afterward I dreamed that I was ill, but was healed through administration. Soon thereafter a nervous ailment wrecked me both mentally and physically. I traveled and doctored for months without any improvement. Finally, I requested administration. Under the hands of Brothers McDowell and J. L. Cooper I was instantly healed.

I should have been baptized immediately but I listened to friends although deep in my heart there was a burning desire for a closer fellowship with God through obedience.

I requested baptism when the desire became so overwhelming that I could no longer resist. I had a severe cold at the time, being unable to speak about a whisper and was coughing frequently. Friends considered it folly for me to be baptized in icy waters (the time was February 22). That did not bother me, but I must admit it required faith to be buried under the water, as I had been removed from the lake in an unconscious condition two years before, and

www.LatterDayTruth.org

Prayer and Testimony

greatly feared water. I was instantly healed of my cold, and no longer did I fear treacherous waters.

I never cease to praise God for permitting me to hear of his church and receive instructions through his chosen ones.

My association with the Saints grows sweeter as the years roll by. A day never passes that I cannot praise God for some manifestation, sealing my trust and faith and causing me to pronounce this a marvelous work and a wonder.

Although I see members representing the latter-day gospel groping blindly and falling short of the standard God requires of Saints, it does not lessen my faith in the true gospel. Please unite with me in praying for those careless ones. We are our brother's keeper. Our careless blunders may wreck precious souls. God grant that we Latter Day Saints may strive to pattern our lives after the divine example—our Savior. What would Jesus say? Where would Jesus go? What would Jesus do? are questions which when prayerfully considered never lead us astray. Pray that I may ever be faithful.

SERENA, ILLINOIS, Route 1.

Would Live Her Testimony

By Mrs. A. E. Barnes

I want to live my testimony, suiting my actions to my speech, for I realize that very often our actions speak louder than the things we say. I desire to live in such a way that when I ask a blessing, God will give it. I want my life to be a shining example to others.

I know this is the church of God. Many experiences have caused me to feel sure of this. God has blessed me most bountifully, and I know that he continues to bless his people if they are faithful.

I enjoy reading the Herald, and especially does it encourage me to read the testimonies of others.

JAY, FLORIDA.

Two Isolated Ones Hope for Visit of Missionary

A letter from W. A. Lawson

I was baptized by Brother A. H. Christenson in September, 1913, and am glad to be called a Saint of God.

We are living here in the pinto bean district of New Mexico. That is our main crop. We are fifteen miles from Mountainair, and would be glad for some elder to stop to see us and hold a series of meetings. We seldom hear a sermon by an elder of our faith, but we can get a good place to hold a meeting at any time. We know of no Saints living close to us and often hunger for true gospel preaching and association.

We should like an interest in the prayers of the Saints, that we may ever be found faithful and true, and should appreciate hearing from Oklahoma friends.

A letter from Mrs. Rosy Lawson

I have been a member of the church thirty-two years, and never have I regretted the step I took when I decided to be baptized. I have made many mistakes, but pray that in the future my mistakes will be fewer.

My husband joined the church in 1913, and we have been isolated and have had trials and temptations, but we know that we can stand steadfast with the help of the Father.

We live out here in New Mexico where the few Saints live very far apart. It is hardly ever that we have the opportunity to hear a sermon by members of our own faith. Of course we hear sermons by speakers of other churches, but those do not satisfy our longing for the gospel word. We are hoping for the time when an elder of the church will come this way and preach for us a week or more, for we know that we can secure a church building for such meetings.

MOUNTAINAIR, NEW MEXICO.

The Lord Wonderfully Good to Suffering One

By Mrs. Mary Adams

The Lord has been wonderfully good to me. In the fall of 1931, I was instantly healed of sore eyes. I had been blind part of that summer, and could see to do no handwork. I could not read all summer. Then I heard of the Saints' church. Elder A. M. Baker was holding meetings there in September, and I went to hear him. I had to wear colored glasses at that time. On the third night I went up and gave my name for baptism. Before Brother Baker touched my hand, I heard something like a soft whisper: "Your eyes are healed." I had not been thinking of my eyes, but I took off the glasses that night, and have not had any trouble with my eyes since. I am seventy years old and sew, crochet, quilt, and work all day long. Yes, my testimony is—the Lord has been wonderfully good to me.

HOT SPRINGS, ARKANSAS, Route 1.

Prays for Courage to Live Religion

By Mrs. Ellen Havely

Though we are entirely isolated as far as attending church is concerned, my husband and I read the Book of Mormon during the past winter, and we read everything about the church that we can get.

The Herald is a great inspiration to me. From it I seem to get good advice in my own personal problems. This morning as I read the testimonies I felt the Spirit urging me to bear my testimony, for I have received many blessings from the Lord.

The depression has done one thing for us for which I am thankful. It brought us closer to God and to a better understanding of His ways.

Friends, pray for me, that I shall have more courage to live my faith and be an example for right to my children and neighbor. Pray, too, that I shall have the right kind of knowledge to teach my children. My prayer is for the church officers and every member, that all may be alive to their opportunities and responsibilities in teaching others the way of the Lord, for it is only through the Lord's way that we can bring to pass the kingdom of God on earth.

SLATER, WYOMING.

Request Prayers

Mr. and Mrs. John W. Baldwin, of McKenzie, Alabama, request the prayers of the Saints in behalf of their nine-year-old daughter, Genella, who has for more than a month been seriously afflicted, that if the Lord wills, she may be made well.

A sister living in Maine, who asks that her name be withheld, desires the prayers of the church for herself and her family, that they may be well physically and spiritually. She bears a strong testimony concerning the blessings the Lord has already given her.

www.LatterDayTruth.org

QUESTION TIME

How often must branch officers be elected?

The church has not made any rigid rule as to the time when officers of the branches must be elected. The districts and branches usually provide their own rules in this matter. Some branches that once elected officers every six months have adopted annual elections, believing that too frequent changes did not work to the benefit of the branch, as plans were likely to be changed somewhat as often as new officers were installed.

Inasmuch as the standing ministers of the branches are to have the watchcare of the flock under the direction and instruction of the Presidency and the Twelve (Doctrine and Covenants 120: 3), it would be well to consult with them in case any problem should arise connected with the election of officers, keeping in mind whatever rules the district may have enacted governing the matter.

May an elder be elected president of a branch where a high priest is available?

The rules of the church do not make it imperative that an available high priest shall be elected instead of an elder, though this procedure would seem to be in harmony with the intent of the law when one can be agreed upon by the branch in the case, if it be a large branch. The law states:

"If a branch or district be large, he who is chosen to preside should be a high priest, if there be one possessed of the spirit of wisdom to administer in the office of president; or if an elder be chosen who may by experience be found qualified to preside, as soon as practicable thereafter he should be ordained a high priest by the spirit of wisdom and revelation in the one ordaining, and by direction of a high council, or general conference, as required in the law."—Doctrine and Covenants 120: 2.

The fact that the branch elects its officers implies the power to choose the one to be elected, within the restrictions of the law itself, hence it sometimes has happened that a priest or teacher has been elected even when elders were at hand. But this procedure seems to imply either that the branch believes there are good reasons for not asking such elders to serve, or that there is factional trouble existing. In the latter case the Presidency or Twelve who may be consulted would doubtless advise as to the course that should be pursued, if requested. And this would appear to be the advisable course to take when such a contingency is found to exist.

Why is not feet washing practiced as commanded in John 13: 14?

The instance given in John 13: 4-15 evidently concerned the apostles who were with Jesus at the feast of the passover. There is no evidence that it was designed to apply promiscuously to all members of the church, but modern revelation shows that it was instituted for the "school of the prophets," of which we read:

"And ye shall not receive any among you into this school, save he is clean from the blood of this generation; and he shall be received by the ordinance of the washing of feet, for unto this end was the ordinance of the washing of feet instituted."—Doctrine and Covenants 85: 45.

Provision is made in the law for the organization of the school of the prophets, which is to include the officers of the church. When this organization has been effected under divine direction, the ordinance will doubtless be required.

Please explain the parable of the unjust steward (Luke 16: 1-12).

The Revised Version renders parts of this text somewhat differently than found in the common version. Verse 9 says:

"Make to yourselves friends by means of the mammon of unrighteousness; that, when it shall fail, they may receive you into the eternal tabernacles."

It should be noted that Jesus does not himself commend the unjust deeds of the steward in the parable, but says "his lord" commended him for using wisdom. This does not mean that his dishonesty was commended, but it was his dishonesty that had driven him to further dishonesty for his future protection. Jesus therefore advises his disciples to use the "mammon" in such a way that they would gain friends when it should be spent. This does not advise dishonesty, however, but prudence in the use of temporal things.

A. B. PHILLIPS.

The realities of both physical science and organic science reveal a God, a divine intelligence that we, as intelligent being can depend upon. . . . Science leads us straight to a belief in God, and this is the foundation of religion. . . . Science does not prevent a man from being a Christian, but makes him a better Christian. It has made me a better Christian.—Professor Pupin of Columbia University, Literary Digest.

www.LatterDayTruth.org

NEWS OF CHURCH AND HOME

Address all news and letters to Editors of the Herald, Box 237, Independence, Missouri. Correspondents are requested to make their letters brief. The Editors reserve the right, on account of space limitations, to shorten all letters as circumstances require.

Columbus, Ohio

Tabernacle or Third Church

The April sacrament service, in charge of Pastor F. C. Welsh and Elder Myers, was well attended. The evening speaker, W. P. Vickroy, of Lancaster, presented an inspiring sermon on "Authority."

At a special service four young men were ordained, under the hands of F. C. Welsh, A. E. Anderton, and G. P. Myers, Robert Bohlen and Theodore Dougherty to the office of priest; Robert Albright and Mathew Welsh to that of deacon.

The following young people have been baptized, Donna Leatherwood, Violet Leatherwood, and Ray Edwards, Elder F. C. Welsh officiating, assisted by Homer Owens.

April 9, the speaker at the morning service was Elder Schafenberg, who also addressed the religio. The sermon Sunday evening was given by F. C. Welsh. C. H. Foster, accompanied by Jennie McCay, sang a solo.

Easter Sunday Theodore Dougherty addressed the congregation. The junior Bohlen sisters sang a duet, and Robert Junior and Pauline Schmidt added their bit by reading. The evening speaker was Elder S. Ferguson.

May sacrament service brought visitors from Wellston and Mount Vernon, Ohio. Immediately following the service, Sister E. Myers and Brother McConnauhy were united in marriage by G. P. Myers.

In place of the Wednesday evening prayer service preceding Mother's Day the Saints moved from the former meeting place into the tabernacle. After all things had been moved, the lights were connected to a neighboring garage. Sitting wherever they could, the Saints were called to order by Elder Welsh, and under the leadership of C. H. Foster, sang such songs as, "We Thank Thee, O God, for a Prophet," and "Consecration." The meeting closed with Elder A. E. Anderton offering prayer.

On Mother's Day the hopes and works of the Saints reached a happy consummation when the congregation spent their first day in the new tabernacle. Church school exceeded previous record attendance by six, and received the largest collection in the history of this congregation. The sermon was preached by Ted Dougherty, and in the evening Pastor Welsh occupied the stand. Several musical numbers were presented, a trio by Sister Welsh, Mathew Welsh, and Ted Dougherty. A solo by C. H. Foster, accompanied by Sister McCay.

Saints of Third Church wish to express their appreciation to all those who helped in building their new tabernacle.

Ottumwa, Iowa

Maintains Varied Program of Activities

Regular church services continue to be held by Ottumwa Branch—church school at 9.45 a. m. on Sunday in charge of Sister E. Hughes; morning church service at 10.45, and prayer meeting Wednesday at 7.45 p. m. John E. Baker is pastor.

The women of the branch are maintaining their reputation for being good workers. Despite the depression, their dinners, bazaars, rummage sales, and other activities are quite successful, and their financial aid has been a real help to the branch. Sister Vera Pheleger is the leader.

At least three young people from here will attend the youth conference at Lamoni, and several others are planning and working to that end.

Ottumwa people were happy to have Elder F. C. Bevan, now of Rock Island, Illinois, in charge of the sacrament, June 4. At this service they were given divine encouragement and admonition. Brother Bevan was branch president here for a considerable time.

A number of fine services made up the Easter program here. Four young people, Donna Leach, James Phleger, Lillian Baker, and Mary Louise Baker, were baptized in the church font, this being an impressive service. Bishop Charles Fry officiated, and many friends and nonmembers were present. The congregation then assembled in the upper auditorium for the confirmations.

The service in the evening was one of beauty. An Easter pageant, "He Lives Again," written by Myron F. La Pointe, a local young person, was presented. The pageant is written in three parts, and was presented by fifteen characters and one reader. In it the Easter story was handled in a new and impressive way.

Saints of this city will miss Brother and Sister Fry and their son, Harold, who are moving to Northeastern Kansas, where Brother Fry will take up his duties as bishop. A cooperative picnic will be held as a farewell to them.

Traverse City, Michigan

Saints of Traverse City looked forward to June 3 and 4, at which time the Western Michigan conference was held.

Brother Sheldon Reynolds has returned to his home for the summer vacation, after spending a year at Graceland College.

The branch choir, under the leadership of Harry Doty, is favoring the congregation of Traverse City with special music each Sunday.

Though many of the priesthood are unemployed, they are doing all they can to further the work by visiting others and helping to encourage those who may be in need. Brothers Jay C. and H. A. Doty visited Bendon Branch, May 28, while Ray Dick and B. H. Doty visited Joyfield Saints, where the latter delivered an inspiring sermon. On June 11, H. A. Doty, sr., will give them one of his illustrated lectures.

Brother and Sister E. B. Blett, of Grand Rapids, Michigan, visited Traverse City Sunday, May 28, at which time Brother Blett gave a talk for the opening of the prayer service.

Saints of this branch were sorry to hear of the death of Lucy J. Curtis, who passed away at the home of her daughter-in-law, May 21, at the age of ninety-eight years. Funeral services were conducted by Elder B. H. Doty.

Wray, Colorado

Church Building Ready for Use

The work of remodeling the Saints' church building at Wray, Colorado, is almost finished. Here is what a local paper has to say of it:

"The work of remodeling the Latter Day Saint church building in Wray has progressed to the extent that it will be ready for occupancy on next Sunday and regular church services will be held in the church building in place of at the home of Reverend A. E. Tabor, as they have during the time the remodeling work was under way.

"The work at the church is not entirely completed, but the auditorium has been completed to the extent that it is ready for occupancy. The roof of the church has been lowered, the building set back farther from the front of the lot and a complete basement has been built. A new entrance to the church and new cement work about the entrance to the building has been installed. The new arrangements make a more attractive building and the auditorium has gained several feet in seating space. The basement will provide a furnace room, and a dining room and kitchen. The dining room is arranged so that it can be utilized for class purposes and for recreation.

www.LatterDayTruth.org

"The improvements which have been completed will give the congregation of the church a much more attractive and comfortable place of worship, and are an improvement to the appearance of the church lot."

Frank Dunlap Meets Accidental Death

Loyal Member of New Westminster Branch

New Westminster Saints, of British Columbia, suffered a tragic loss a few days ago when Frank Dunlap, twenty-seven years old, and a dependable Saint, met instant death when he was run over by freight cars in the yards of the Pacific Coast Terminals Company Limited. He was employed by the Terminals company as a spare switchman on the firm's yard engine, which is used to move freight cars between the yards and the docks.

Frank was the son of Brother and Sister H. C. Dunlap, of New Westminster, and was a splendid church boy, a worker, a student. In the branch at Westminster he has been a real helper. A friend describes him thus: "Frank has been a loyal supporter in the church, taking his turn on programs, bearing his testimony, cutting the church lawn, helping to serve refreshments at socials, bringing his sisters to Sunday school, always dependable in every way. In his home he was kind and thoughtful."

He is survived by his parents; three brothers, Eugene Dunlap and Richard Dunlap, at home, and Harry Dunlap, of Vancouver, and three sisters, Mrs. Maidie Gibson and Mrs. Helen Chidlow, of New Westminster, and Mrs. Rose Huffman, of Victoria. His funeral was attended by over three hundred people.

Providence, Rhode Island

Every Department Organized and Active

Church work in this part of the country has been progressing. Several adults have been baptized this year, and there are bright prospects for the addition of others to the fold in the near future.

Elder Frederick W. Roberts has preached almost every Sunday evening for the past several months, giving some inspiring missionary sermons.

Pastor Daniel F. Joy has been ably assisted by a loyal corps of workers, and all feel especially pleased at the harmony and good will prevailing among the members.

Recently the local chapel was painted outside and thoroughly redecorated and renovated inside. Most of the credit for the redecoration goes to the women for their untiring work.

Under the capable leadership of Sister Louise Geisch Fox a women's choir of about twenty members has been organized. They render valuable assistance in the morning services.

Easter Sunday was an eventful day in Providence Branch. In the evening the children's concert was given at the conclusion of which an impressive play written concerning Book of Mormon history, by Elder Herbert Floyd, was presented.

Sister Thankful Hopkins, of East Killingly, passed away, April 19, after a wonderful life of service and devotion to the gospel which she so dearly loved. Elder E. M. Brown, assisted by Sisters E. A. Fox and A. Laura Brown, conducted the service in Connecticut.

Sister Delphia Toombs recently fell downstairs, and after spending several days in the Rhode Island Hospital, is well on the road to recovery at her home in South Attleboro.

Lincoln, Nebraska

Twenty-sixth and H Streets

Members of Lincoln Branch have been encouraged in their work by much activity in various lines, and the evidence of development and awakening interests on the part of some and sustained devotion on the part of others. Mid-week prayer services have not been largely attended, but they well repay those who are faithful.

The La-Da-Sa Club meets regularly on Sunday evening, programs being in charge of the members in turn. Study of church history has given place to the reading of A Call at Evening, with discussion of the doctrinal points presented therein. Upon her birthday, the club presented Easter Schrunck with an inlaid end-table, the work of Richard Stake. She deeply appreciated this.

One of the most ambitious and successful plays attempted by the young folks was given early in March, "Farm Folks." The leading roles were taken by Mary Reichenbach, Rogene Anderson, Ruth Wilcox, Doretha Hunt, Roxy Fletcher, Richard Stake, and Paul Baldwin, ably assisted by a number of others. Piano music between acts was furnished by Miss Myrtle Pierce, who has since become the wife of Brother Roxy Fletcher, the ceremony being performed at the home of Francis Schrunk, officiating priest.

Early in April Esther Schrunk's class gave a playlet, "The Ten Virgins," well presented, and furnishing an excellent setting for Brother Lenox's sermon which followed. During its performance, a number of appropriate songs were sung by Alfred Jensen.

And on Easter morning the La-Da-Sa Club gave a dramatic portrayal of the resurrection of Christ and incidents connected therewith. Will Poague sang a number of songs between these scenes, and the evening sermon, by Elder Charles Nirk, was in harmony with the spirit of the day.

Another playlet was presented the evening of May 7, with Sisters Pfanmiller, Hunt, and Harder giving a pointed lesson on the value of paying tithing. Elder O. L. D'Arcy, taking advantage of the cue offered, preached a good sermon on that privilege enjoyed by the Saints.

On Palm Sunday, Branch President B. M. Anderson occupied the pulpit, giving a brief description of the incidents connected with the missionary tour of Christ which ended with his spectacular entrance into Jerusalem attended by the acclaims of the people. Alfred Jensen sang the ever-popular solo, "The Palms." Brother D'Arcy was the evening speaker.

Mother's Day brought a visit from a much-respected brother, Charles H. Porter. He drew an appropriate lesson for the morning from the consecration of the mother of Samuel, who dedicated her son from birth to the service of the Lord. That day, Brothers Anderson and Lenox, accompanied by Brother and Sister D'Arcy, from Auburn, drove to Grand Island, where they met a group of sixty or more, gathered from nearby places. It was an all-day service, the character of which was unusually high and spiritual.

Sunday evening programs once a month are arranged by the young people of the branch. Some of the playlets mentioned have been given under their auspices. Capitola Mechling sponsored one featuring the history about "Saint Patrick," who he was, and what he did for Ireland. Will Poague, accompanied by his daughter, furnished some Irish songs for the occasion.

The morning sermon on Memorial Sunday was furnished by E. J. Lenox. Patriotic hymns were sung, and during the Sunday school hour his young son, Buren, assisted in the services. Francis Schrunk preached in the evening on the principle, "Laying on of Hands."

Other speakers of late have been Ralph Harder, Will Poague, and George Weller. Some musical offerings have been contributed by Peggy Smith and Alvin Pfanmiller, piano duet; by Ruth Pfanmiller, piano solo, and by Virginia Poague and two of her schoolmates who gave a vocal trio.

The birthday anniversary of Sister Katie Hale was marked by a special luncheon given by the Willing Workers, the service group of the women's department over which she has long presided. Material for a house dress, a gift from the group, was made up during the afternoon by "the other Katie," Sister Ralph Harder. Just now, the branch is extending to Sister Hale its deep sympathy for the recent loss of a niece and the latter's two children, all three of whom lost their lives in a destructive tornado which swept through northwestern Nebraska. Their farm home, near Tryon, was completely destroyed. The husband and father was away from home at the time, and returned to find his entire family dead, and every building on the place together with much stock and equipment, a total loss. Surely affliction's hand was heavily laid upon that young man, and the hearts of all thoughtful people are stirred with sympathy and pity.

www.LatterDayTruth.org

Viola Poague, her mother, Sister Nirk, Eunice Fulton, and Sisters Allen and McWilliams have all been on the sick list since the last letter from Lincoln, but mercifully, all have been restored, and are able once more to come out to church gatherings. Sister Effie Smith, however, was called upon to suffer the loss of a loved one, when her son, Monroe, passed away, April 1, after a brief illness. He had been a thoughtful and kind son, the main support of his widowed mother and two young brothers, and the church grieves with those sorrowing over his loss.

The men of the branch have of late had some "bees," not in their bonnets, but on the church lawn. The results are most commendable. The ground was dug up, dandelions turned under, reshaping and grading done, and seed sown heavily. Shrubbery was planted about the buildings, which, with the growing grass, has done much already to improve the appearance of the place, and gives promise of still greater beauty and symmetry to come.

Elder Howard Harder and family, from Independence, spent one Sunday with his brother, Ralph, here. He spoke to the Sunday school, and with others of his family, contributed to the success of the sacrament service of the morning. Other visitors that day were Sister Rogene B. Smith, of Kansas City; Harry Smith and his four sons and Duane Anderson, from Beatrice, Nebraska, and Stephen Turpen, wife and mother, and Leslie Hale and family, all from Omaha. That seemed the banner day for attendance at Sunday school this spring, bringing it just under the one hundred mark. Other visitors of late have included Harvey Sandy and Aldine Smith, both of Kansas City, Sisters Noble and Elledge, of Independence, and a couple of young people from Nebraska City whose names have escaped the correspondent's ken.

Social affairs have included a surprise party for W. S. Farrar on his birthday. It was planned by his wife and daughter and attended by the men of the local priesthood and their wives. A leather-bound, four-year diary was presented to the brother, who is serving the branch faithfully in his office of deacon.

Esther Schrunk had a surprise birthday party for her mother, Sister Cecelia Hunt, a dozen or more sisters showering the good lady with packages of flower seeds. Sister Hunt brought from her childhood home in Germany an enthusiastic love for flowers, and has been untiring in her efforts to keep our church supplied with fresh blossoms. This is a loving ministry in which Sisters Farrar and Allen and others have also shared.

Another party occurred at the Schrunk home, when Francis' aunt, Sister Pauline Elledge, was honored.

Mary Reichenbach fell into line, and executed a successful surprise on her mother, in honor of that lady's birthday. "Geneva" was properly astounded, but fell into the spirit of the evening, and enjoyed every minute especially, perhaps, the unwrapping of the miscellaneous gifts brought as souvenirs.

The Willing Workers meet regularly each Wednesday to quilt and lunch together. Having finished the reading and discussion of Hutchinson's One Increasing Purpose, they are now interested in The Destiny of Britain and America, by "The Roadbuilder."

The Workers have held one bake sale and served lunch one Saturday at the courthouse—each netting fair returns. Their largest venture of late was the Mothers' and Daughters' banquet, given the evening of May 26. Cecelia Hunt, Katie Harder, and Ruth Pfanmiller were the committee in charge, and under their capable direction and due to their tireless energy it was an unqualified success. The room and tables were prettily decorated, a scheme of lavender and white being carried out in crepe paper festoons, nut cups, candles, flowers and place cards. Esther Schrunk was toast mistress, and directed the singing of special songs and rounds; Blanche Farrar offered grace; Peggy Smith gave a reading; Virginia Poague sang a solo, and Doretha Hunt and Rogene Anderson, a duet. Mary Reichenbach offered a toast to the mothers, and Audentia Anderson one to the daughters. Julia Reichenbach spoke of the pioneer mothers, their experiences and ideals, while Capitola Mechling contrasted their opportunities and environments with those of today. Forty mothers and daughters were banqueted, the three-course meal being served by Francis Schrunk, Richard Stake, and George Haskell.

Caraway, Arkansas

Elder A. M. Baker held a series of meetings here the first week in May, ending on the seventh. His themes were, "Faith," "Repentance," "Church Organization," "Restoration of the Gospel," "Restoration of Palestine," and "The Great Battle of Armageddon."

On May 7, Sunday, Brother Baker administered the sacrament after which the Saints engaged in prayer and testimony meeting.

Dean Swift once preached to an audience of tailors from the text, "A remnant shall be saved."—Shedd.

O. T. Z. Convention Outstanding Success

Three Young Men Called to Priesthood

The O. T. Z.'s of Far West Stake look back on the convention held at Guilford Saturday evening and Sunday, June 3 and 4, as one of the most outstanding young people's conventions ever held. It was more successful than the most optimistic had anticipated. This was perhaps the greatest representation of young people from all parts of the stake that has ever gathered together.

The theme of the convention was, "Onward to Zion," and truly this convention was a step in that direction. Elder Ray Whiting, the guest speaker, made a stirring appeal in his lectures that, "Onward to Zion," be made the theme not only of the two days, but of his hearers lives.

The convention officially opened at eight o'clock Saturday evening with a good crowd in attendance including carloads from Cameron, Stewartsville and Saint Joseph in addition to representations from the nearby branches. On Sunday the crowd was even larger, and filled the church to capacity.

A splendid musical prelude was given by the Guilford, Bedison and Ross Grove young people after which Elder Ray Whiting, of Council Bluffs, Iowa, gave his opening lecture setting forth some of the specific things that must be accomplished by youth if the theme, "Onward to Zion," is to be effective.

A pleasant recreational hour was directed by Leonard G. Ehlers, supervisor of young people's activities, on the large lawn behind the church. As a surprise the entertaining groups served sandwiches and lemonade. The Guilford Saints are to be congratulated on the splendid way in which they handled the large number of visitors over Saturday night and also on Sunday for the basket lunches. Their hospitality was much appreciated.

Another inspiring lecture by Ray Whiting was enjoyed at nine forty-five Sunday morning. After a fitting musical interlude arranged and given by Stewartsville, a communion service and allegiance meeting was held. This service will perhaps remain in the minds of the young people as the outstanding service of the convention.

After a season of earnest, prompt prayers and testimonies in which a wonderful spirit of consecration was expressed, Stake President Ward A. Hougas spoke at length in prophecy to the young people telling them that the Lord was well pleased with their efforts and prayers and giving much timely advice. He then spoke in turn to three young men, calling them to the Aaronic priesthood and charging each one with his specific duties. The young men called were Wayne Simmons, of Cameron, (president of the Stake O. T. Z.'s), and Garland C. Snapp, of King City, to the office of priest, and Herman Johnson, of

www.LatterDayTruth.org

Saint Joseph, to the office of deacon. Following the prophecy, Elder Ray Whiting testified that that which was given was of the Spirit.

This came as a climax to the wonderful spirit present throughout this service as well as other services at the stake gatherings of the young people.

At this hour Elder F. L. Hinderks, of the stake presidency, spoke to the adults in the basement of the church.

The Guilford young people again showed their ability to handle the large number of visitors at the basket dinner which was served at noon.

The afternoon service was opened by a group of numbers by a mixed quartet from First Saint Joseph Church. Elder Whiting conducted a forum, summarizing and emphasizing the points of his previous lectures, urging that the young people come in closer contact with God and make the specific preparation to move "Onward to Zion."

The closing service of the convention was the vesper service at five o'clock which might be termed a "Youth Speaks for Itself" program. Mingled with music furnished by young people from various branches, four talks were presented by young people of the stake. Kenneth Piepergerdes, of Maple Grove Branch, and vice president of the Stake O. T. Z.'s, gave his idea of "Effective Living by Youth." The question of "Why a Young Person Needs Religion" was discussed by Willard Hinderks, of Stewartsville. Lavota Jobe, of Guilford, gave a talk on, "What Youth Has the Right to Expect of the Church," and Helen R. Beadnall, of Saint Joseph, and secretary of the O. T. Z.'s, spoke on, "What the Church Has the Right to Expect of its Youth."

A wonderful day was closed and one long to be remembered. There was a feeling of reluctance at parting, but all are looking forward to meeting again at the reunion where a fine young people's program will be carried out. Far West Stake has a right to be proud of her young people and more especially when it is realized that the entire program of the convention was outlined and directed by the young people themselves with the advice of the stake officers.

Perth, Western Australia

Good Eastern Meetings for Small Branch

Not long ago this little branch concluded its Easter services which were successfully conducted. Attendance might have been larger but for the period extending over four days, allowing a number of Saints to take their annual holidays.

Good Friday saw the church opened for a special service, Elders E. H. Davies and A. Robinson, and Priest Oscar Stack officiating. Each spoke for twenty minutes and the talks were interspersed with solos, duets, and congregational hymns.

Easter Sunday came at an appropriate time, being sacrament Sunday. On this occasion a good service was in charge of Brother A. Robinson, who was assisted by Elder E. H. Davies and Priests Oscar Stack and Len Broadway.

Sunday evening saw the Fremantle group still holding evening services. The number of strangers attending these meetings, fluctuate. Elder E. H. Davies, missionary to Western Australia, has this work under his control.

Young People of Northwestern Ohio Hold Convention

Effect Their Own District Organization

The young people of Northwestern Ohio District met at Bradner, Ohio, May 27, led by Frank Slye, district president.

The first meeting of the convention opened with a program which presented talent from the various branches of the district. Brother Slye was assisted at the convention by Floyd Clark, director of Religious Education, and Hazel Smith, director of music.

Sunday began with an eight o'clock prayer service in charge of Elder Jacob Halb, assisted by Tom Mott, of Toledo, and Floyd Holdren, of Saint Marys. Then came the church school with its formal opening of a call to worship, prayer, scripture reading, theme talk and music by Saint Marys Choir. During the class period the school was divided into three groups, the children in charge of Ollie Yeager, of Sylvania, and Mary Smith, of Bradner; the young people instructed by Elder Smith, of Detroit, and the older people taught by Elder Green, also of Detroit.

Bishop H. E. French, of Columbus, was the eleven o'clock speaker. At this hour Sylvania Choir gave special music, and a mixed quartet took part in the program.

The noon meal was served by women of Bradner Branch.

"Our Aims," was the theme of a short talk by Boyd Holdren near the opening of the Sunday afternoon organization meeting. He also explained the purpose of the Tenth Legion. Immediately following, Floyd Clark read parts of a communication from President Floyd M. McDowell, presenting the different types of young people's organizations in the church. Brother Green, of Detroit, was chosen chairman of the meeting, and election of officers of the contemplated young people's organization resulted in the following choices: President, Boyd Holdren, of Saint Marys; vice president, Roy Martin, of Toledo; secretary, June Bryant, of Toledo; treasurer, Floyd Holdren, of Saint Marys. When the business of organization had been transacted, instrumental music by the Hoffman boys, of Perrysburg, Ohio, was enjoyed.

Kansas City Stake

Chelsea Church

Recent assistance given this congregation by Missionary William I. Fligg, illustrated the truth of the statements: "The order is forever," "There can be no furlough granted; never must the flag be furled." Brother Fligg arrived home in Independence from his mission field in the Northeast, April 27, and was immediately called upon to speak at Chelsea the night of April 30.

Chelsea Choir gave the evening anthem at Central for conference Sunday, the number being, "Open Our Eyes."

Stake President Cyril E. Wight spoke on, "What the Message Means to You," the night of May 21.

The scouts gave a supper the evening of May 16, to send the boys to summer camp for a week. Each year part of their registration fee for camp is raised by the local congregation so that some of the boys who otherwise would be unable to attend, may enjoy the benefits of a week in camp.

The La-Da-Sa Women's Club gave a one-act play the evening of June 2. A charge of ten cents was made and ice cream and cake were served at the close of the evening. The profits are to be used for church expenses.

Brother Eddie Baker, of Quindaro, spoke here the evening of June 4, giving a fine sermon.

Armourdale Church

Elder H. A. Higgins, of Quindaro, closed his series of special missionary meetings here June 4, in the evening. An average attendance of eighty-six was had during the seven nights. Those wishing to unite with the church were asked to pray and think over the matter of baptism before making their final decision.

Brother Higgins accepted an invitation to occupy another week, providing the congregation is willing to wait until next fall. A rising vote of thanks was tendered him.

Fulton, Iowa

Profit From Visit of Elder R. E. Davis

Several young people of this branch are planning to attend the young people's convention at Moline, Illinois, June 11.

Elder E. R. Davis held a series of meetings last week, ending Sunday with an all-day meeting at the church. He taught the adult senior class, giving them some useful advice. A picnic dinner was served at noon on the church lawn. Sunday evening, the rain kept many from attending. Special music was furnished by Brother Drake, playing his clarinet, and Peter Edwards, the violin.

A few weeks ago the young people enjoyed a picnic dinner at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Earl Mayberry.

The Farmer Creek Sunday School

www.LatterDayTruth.org

Convention will be held in the near future. Several of the young people of Fulton Branch are to take part in the program, Ruth Heide, scripture reading; Arlene Heide, song; Beneta Saunders, recitation; Bonneita and Lilliath Smith, duet; Helen Turner, clarinet solo; Elder John Heide, talk; Merle Turner, recitation; Kenneth Walters, recitation; Latter Day Saint juniors, song; Alberta Smith, recitation; Max Campbell, recitation; Latter Day Saint young people, song; Nellie Jackson, reading; Alice Joyce Moeller, reading; Dorothy Mae Moeller, recitation. All the Sunday Schools of the township are to be represented in the program.

Bert Sherman is the new assistant superintendent of the Sunday School in Fulton.

Independence

The women of Independence reached and passed their six-thousand dollar goal Monday, June 5, which was special dollar sacrifice day. In a thirty-two week campaign of personal sacrifice they raised a sum of $6,055.50 for the church.

In celebration of reaching their goal, they extended an invitation to all the church families in Independence to eat supper together on the Campus Thursday evening, June 8. Several hundred responded to the invitation, picnicking in family or neighborhood groups, and remaining on the grounds for a program of which Pastor John F. Sheehy was master of ceremonies. The program was arranged by Mrs. Pauline James Arnson. Presidents Frederick M. Smith and Elbert A. Smith, and Bishops G. L. DeLapp and J. S. Kelley gave short, commendatory speeches, and the evening was enjoyed as an outstanding social event. Details of the women's sacrifice campaign are presented in other columns of this issue.

Saints of Independence are fortunate to have as their summer Sunday evening speaker at the Campus President Elbert A. Smith. He will deliver his opening sermon to members from the several congregations in this city next Sunday night at the Campus.

Services of baptism marked the activities of almost every congregation of the church in Independence last Sunday. This was most appropriate for Children's Day. There are approximately two thousand children of Latter Day Saint parents in the school system of Independence, and from this source come a large number of the baptisms on this particular day of the year. At the Stone Church alone there are 537 children between the ages of seven and seventeen.

A large congregation enjoyed the concert given by the Cantanina Chorus, directed by Mrs. H. C. Burgess, Monday evening, June 12, at the Stone Church. Everyone was cordially invited to hear this group of twenty girls sing. Joy Harder was accompanist and piano soloist; Elinor Smith, harpist; Verna Kelsey and Marcine Turner, soprano soloists; Doris May, accordionist; Betty Good and Mildred Shupe, contralto soloists, and the Shupe sisters, a vocal trio.

The Aeolian Chorus, directed by Paul N. Craig, will give a concert the evening of June 16, at the Stone Church. Assisting artists will be: Pauline James Arnson, soprano; Colin Ferret, bass; Dorothy Koehler Waters, organist, and Lyda Budd Robertson, reader.

The Young People's Council of Independence is sponsoring a week-end trip to the Young People's Convention at Lamoni. Pickwick Greyhound Busses will be scheduled to make the trip starting from the Auditorium at one-thirty the afternoon of June 24, and returning after the last meeting on Sunday, June 25. The fullest support of the pastors in Independence is given to the plans of the council to secure the attendance of a large representation from Zion at the conference, and the young people who plan to go to Lamoni are invited to get in touch with their council member representative or call the pastor's office at the Auditorium for tickets and further information.

Stone Church

All the services of Children's Day at the Stone Church were devoted to the interests of the children, this being the one day in the year when their activities take precedence over those of the adults. And it was most appropriate that these services should begin with an eight o'clock baptismal ceremony. There amid a beautiful setting of ferns, baskets of lilies and artificial grass, thirty-three children, most of them just past their eighth birthday, were inducted into the kingdom of God on earth. For three Sundays the candidates had met as a class and were given pre-baptismal instruction by Pastor J. F. Sheehy.

The boys and girls baptized were: Everett Thompson, Duane Lundquist, Eleanor Bullard, Helen Robertson, Mary Chloe Gallagher, Shirley Ann Vardeman, Virginia Bath, Helen Mae Thomas, Evelyn Lucille Preston, Dorothy Lee Schwab, Dorothy Lee Tyler, Howard Bevins, James Plain, Norma Edwards, Elizabeth Smith, Glen Tonahill, Jackie Tonahill, Robert Audet, Ellis Short III, Mary Bishop, Marcine Simmons, Dorothy May Penrose, Betty Lewis, Dorothy Brown, Donald Barrett, Marilyn Rogene Miller, Margaret Mae Webster, Bethel LaJune Reimer, Frederick Smith, Selma Hoskins, Relma June Teague, Doris Goldstein, and Mabel Danielson.

Members of the ministry officiating in the ordinance were A. H. Thompson, David Lundquist, Walter Bullard, W. B. Paul, and J. F. Sheehy. Superintendents S. A. Thiel and Howard W. Harder were present to assist.

During the baptism soft piano music was played. The beautiful floral background was created by a decorations committee from the young people's department headed by T. A. Beck.

The Children's Day theme was carried out in worship exercises of the church school departments preceding the school's class period. At eleven o'clock came a program typical of the day, songs, recitations, and chorus numbers by the members of the beginner, primary, junior, and intermediate departments. These selections given by a group of singers and readers represented a group of approximately six hundred children in the school, and were enjoyed by a large congregation of parents and friends.

At two-thirty in the afternoon the candidates baptized in the morning were confirmed members of the church at an impressive service, and two babies were blessed, Alice Louise, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Vance Eastwood and Jane Carolyn, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Paul B. Elliott.

The junior and intermediate departments presented a worship service on the theme, "I Would Be True," at seven-thirty in the evening, and Pastor John F. Sheehy gave a sermonet. Music was by the Stone Church Unit of the Auditorium Junior Orchestra, directed by Leon Snow, the Clematis Chorus, directed by Mrs. J. R. Lentell, and instrumental soloists. Warren Cannon told a story which fitted well into the theme. This was the last Sunday evening service to be held at the Stone Church this season.

Second Church

The communion service Sunday, June 4, was opened by an organ prelude by Mrs. Gladys Inman. Pastor William Inman conducted the service. The invocation was given by Elder John Miller. Elder Sam Inman talked on the oblation. The talk on the Communion was given by Pastor Willian Inman. A prayer was offered by Elder D. A. Whiting. The emblems were then blessed and passed.

Elder Sam Inman was in charge of the seven thirty service. The choir, under the direction of Brother Earl Audet, and accompanied by Mrs. Gladys Inman on the organ and Miss Edna Stobaugh at the piano, sang, "O for a Thousand Tongues." Elder Frank Veenstra was the speaker. He read as his text, Psalm 15.

Walnut Park Church

Children's Day, Sunday, was observed with baptismal services held in the basement of the church during the church school hour. Fifteen candidates became members of the church at that time, nine being baptized by Pastor Frank McDonald, five by Elder W. T. Gard, and one by Brother Constance, an elder whose home is in Warrensburg. Those baptized were: Kenneth Butterworth, Beulah Byrne, Virginia Byrne, Marcella Culp, Kenneth Curtis, Carl Gold, John Gunzel and Anna Gunzel, father and daughter;

www.LatterDayTruth.org

Wallace Reynolds, Bernice Fereday, Delmar Macrae, Fred Burns, Elta Pearl Lucas, and Richard Atwell. Confirmation services followed at the eleven o'clock hour, twelve different elders having a part in the rites.

At seven thirty Sunday evening a special Children's Day program was given, consisting of a piano solo by Lavona Crabb; a Scripture reading by Leonard Curtis; a play, "The Feeding of the Multitudes," and a sermonet by Elder C. Ed. Miller. Those having parts in the play were: Robert Butterworth, John Crandall, George Harrington, Daisy Willoughby, Beatrice Butterworth, John Gunzel, Argene Wenholz, Henry Countryman, Harold Dillee, Margaret Gunzel, Wilma Smelser, Emily Taylor, Eddie Butterworth, Lavona Crabb, Elza Warneke, and Leonard Curtis.

Mrs. Martha Campbell, seventy-seven years old, mother of W. J. Campbell, of Walnut Park district, died Thursday, June 8, at her home in Port Sanilac, Michigan. Funeral services were conducted at two o'clock Sunday afternoon from the home of W. J. Campbell, in Independence, in charge of Elder Frank McDonald. Mrs. Campbell formerly lived in Independence. She is survived by seven sons, five daughters, and fifty-two grandchildren. Music for the service was a solo, "Beautiful Isle of Somewhere," by Mrs. Madge Kueffer, and a duet, "I May Not Know the Reason Why," by Mrs. Kueffer and Mrs. Madge Gault.

A son, Robert Kenneth was born Monday, June 5, to Mr. and Mrs. Jack G. Mitchell.

Englewood Church

June 4, Elder S. S. Smith was present to make the presacramental talk. Pastor R. W. Howery was in charge of the service, assisted by Elders E. M. Moore and A. G. Hougas.

Sister Fred Koehler, who, since the death of her son, Frederick, three months ago, has been sojourning with her daughter in Denison, Texas, has returned to Independence, and at the sacrament service, testified of the goodness of the Lord to her in her bereavement.

Independence was fortunate in having a profusion of flowers for Children's Day, and the little church home at Englewood was attractively decorated. The baptismal font was in readiness for the candidates who marched to the rostrum with their parents, preceded by Elder Perry Hiles, former pastor, who performed the sacred rite in an impressive manner.

Those baptized were Benjamin Richard Jurden, William Caldwell, jr., Carl Marcus Hynden, jr., Howard Lee Doughherty, Jess LeRoy and Helen Maxine Cunningham, twins, Dorothy June Seymour, and Mary Catherine Ingram.

While the candidates were preparing for the confirmation, the congregation was led in a song service by Sister Gladys Welch, assisted at the piano by Sister Stella Howery, and just preceding the confirmation the Simms sisters sang, "I Think When I Read the Sweet Story of Old." Little Marjorie Sue McNamara, daughter of Elder and Sister D. S. McNamara, was blessed by her father and Elder Perry Hiles, who also officiated in the blessing of Altabelle Dougherty, daughter of Brother and Sister Howard Dougherty. The following elders confirmed the candidates baptized a short time before, R. W. Howery, Perry Hiles, D. S. McNamara, A. G. Hougas, and Thomas Richardson.

The regular Children's Day program was enjoyed at seven thirty in the evening, each department being represented by numbers. The closing was very effective, a tableau, "Rock of Ages," by the class of junior girls taught by Sister Seymour. Elder C. B. Woodstock addressed the children, calling to mind the first children's day held in the Land Bountiful in Book of Mormon times when the Savior was among them.

The women's department will hold its last regular meeting of the season tomorrow at the home of Sister Bea McNamara, an all-day meeting with covered-dish luncheon. They plan to finish a quilt they have been working on.

Enoch Hill Church

The marriage of Miss Anna Poloney to Donald E. Bullard was solemnized after the midweek prayer service, June 7, at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Richard Bullard, the bridegroom's parents, Elder H. L. Barto officiating.

Sunday, June 11, Apostle F. Henry Edwards was the speaker to the adult congregation, and many favorable comments were heard on his discourse.

A beautiful service was planned for the junior church hour, Sunday morning, showing the children the great love the Savior has for his little ones. Elder Amos Allen was the guest speaker. Robert Young read Luke 2: 40-52 in the Inspired Version of the Bible, and Sister Bessie Sellers talked on the picture of Jesus as a boy talking to the wise men in the Temple. Sister Clara Frick told a story. The music was well planned and executed.

At two o'clock in the afternoon a number from this congregation accompanied the children and young people to Second Church where eleven were baptized in the font which was pleasingly decorated with seasonal flowers. Those whose names were added to the church roll as a result of this service are: Bennie Bullard, Dannie Shirk, Francis Hartman, Esther Kramer, Glenn Beebe, Russell Beebe, Nelson Inman, Harold Inman, Mabel Kipp, Dixie Buchanan, and Leora Tanner. These were confirmed at a special confirmation service.

The Boys' Choir of the Stone Church, directed by Miss Marcine Smith, were present and sang Sunday evening. Several piano numbers were played by the boys and there was a reading. Their entertainment was appreciated.

Semiannual Conference for Spring River District

Everyone Cooperates to Make Services Impressive

Another semiannual Spring River district conference has become a matter of record and the impressions which have been left in the lives of Saints of that district by the conference are most helpful. There is reason to believe that for some the meeting held at Miami, Oklahoma, May 26 to 28, was a turning point in their lives. As many were heard to express, "It was a wonderful conference."

Unexpectedly President Elbert A. Smith walked into the prayer meeting Saturday morning and remained for the business session which followed. Sunday morning he returned and preached the morning sermon to over four hundred who had gathered for the last day of the conference. He used as his theme, "Prayer," which touched a responsive chord in the hearts of all those who heard him. Preceding the sermon the combined choirs of Joplin, Pittsburg, Webb City, and Miami, under the direction of sister Beatrice Deaver, presented a cantata, "Hear My Prayer."

The meeting Friday night was in charge of the district young people's president, Frank Shank. It consisted of a program given by the Miami High School Glee Club, followed by a recreational period.

Saturday morning a prayer meeting was held at nine thirty under the leadership of District President Amos T. Higdon. The Spirit of the Master was present and blessed all those who were at this service.

Apostle J. F. Garver and Bishop G. L. DeLapp were present at the Saturday afternoon business session at which the annual election of district officers was held. Elder Higdon was reelected president of the district. The Saints of the district feel indebted to the church for permitting so able a church worker to continue in their midst during this time of depression. Other officers named were A. J. Jones, of Columbus, and I. O. Waldron, of Webb City, Counselors; R. G. Smith, of Pittsburg, director of Religious Education; Mrs. C. E. Wilson, of Joplin, secretary; Mrs. A. M. Hogan, of Carthage, historian; Mrs. C. H. Hobart, of Webb City, director of the adult division; V. L. Krucker, of Miami, a former Graceland student and talented musician, director of music, and Raymond Troyer, of Joplin, publicity agent.

The conference voted to accept the Springfield, Missouri, Branch into the district, and Nowata, Oklahoma, was selected as the place for the next meeting which will be held November 17 to 19. After a busy and successful day, Apostle Garver preached on Saturday night.

At the young people's prayer meeting

www.LatterDayTruth.org

Sunday morning the retiring young people's president, Albert Cobb, delivered the opening remarks. This meeting, which is looked forward to by many of the district youth and their leaders, was in charge of Brother Higdon. Ellsworth Weaver, of Pittsburg, spoke at the church school hour on "The Second Missionary Journey of Saint Paul."

At the Sunday afternoon services the following ordinations were made: James M. Jones, of Webb City; B. F. Kyser, of Miami, and A. A. Farris, of Joplin, to the office of elder and C. D. Wilson, of Miami, to the office of priest. Floyd Simpson, of Joplin, was given the conference approval to the office of deacon, but was unable to be present to be ordained. Bishop DeLapp preached in the afternoon.

Appropriate ceremonies marked the withdrawal of Elder Lee Quick, of Mapleton, Kansas, for twenty-five years a district missionary to accept a similar assignment in Oklahoma and Texas, and the retirement of Sister A. N. Deaver as director of music. The district feels that it has lost a valuable asset with the transfer of Brother Quick.

The Graceland alumni met Sunday afternoon and voiced a desire to form an alumni chapter in the district as soon as the necessary arrangements can be made.

Bisbee, Arizona

Children Dedicate Club

"Onward, ever onward," is the slogan of Bisbee members. While they are few in number, and are feeling the depression, they continue to press on in the gospel work.

They will miss two sisters this summer who have been of great service in the branch. Sister Eynart went to Los Angeles a short time ago, and Sister Adams passed to her reward, March 28.

Pastor Davis is holding cottage meetings each week, and these are enjoyed by all who attend.

Some rich experiences have blessed the Saints here during the spring months, and they are grateful.

This year on Children's Day the children from seven to fourteen years of age, dedicated their club which is sponsored by Myrtle Vaclav. They named the club O. T. Z., (Onward to Zion) and the motto of the club is, "Loving Each Other," with the hymn by the same name as their theme song. The club has decided to help buy Sunday school books for its own members with some of the dues, but has not as yet chosen the study subject it will take up.

"Love is not getting, but giving. It is goodness, and honor, and peace and pure living—yes, love is that, and is the best thing in the world, and the thing that lives longest."—Henry Van Dyke.

San Francisco, California

Danvers and Caselli Streets

During Patriarch G. J. Waller's stay on the mainland recently, the San Francisco and East Bay branches have been the recipients of many uplifting sermons from him. His faith and humility in and devotion to the principles of the church have won for him the love and admiration of both the old and young members here. He began his patriarchal labors immediately after his ordination and many now rejoice at the blessings received under his hands. His stay was all too short. Because he had endeared himself to the hearts of all, the young people of the San Francisco branches, under the leadership of Albert Boynton, gave him a farewell party on the evening of May 9. A musical program and short social time were enjoyed in the social hall, and later in the evening, the women's group and Idola Club served refreshments in the dining room, where a huge cake depicting on it the ship, Malolo, sailing toward Diamond Head, held a place of honor. After Brother Waller's farewell talk, Brother Albert Boynton presented him three copies of the paper, The Zion Builder, published biweekly by the San Francisco young people, and asked him to present one to each of the three Island branches and have correspondents appointed in each place. The group then sang, "Aloha Oe," and "God Be With You," as we said farewell. Brother Waller sailed home to Hawaii on May 12.

The San Francisco Branch is proud of its young members and those nonmembers who are assisting with the work these young people are doing. The Sunday evening service of the church school has shown great improvement in interest and attendance with these young people in charge. Under the leadership of Brother Albert Boynton they now have good programs sometimes with travel pictures. The splendid work of the young people in publishing The Zion Builder, semi-monthly, has drawn them closer together, and interested nonmembers, as well as increasing the friendly feeling of cooperation among the Bay City Branches. In this paper the activities of the different branches are announced and later reported. It is the radio of the Bay City branches.

When at a joint meeting of the priesthood of the district it was decided unwise, because of economic conditions, to hold a reunion in the Northern California District this summer, it was also decided to hold two-day meetings in the various branches. May 27 and 28, were set apart for this branch and considerable publicity was given these dates, so that all the meetings were well attended. Elder Arthur Oakman was the speaker Saturday evening and Sunday morning and gave two excellent sermons. The Sunday morning prayer service was presided over by District President G. P. Levitt. This was an outstanding meeting, a spiritual feast and one that will long be remembered. During this communion with God, Brother Levitt announced that he was directed by the Spirit to speak to Elder J. A. Saxe. He was highly commended for his long years of faithful service and devotion. The sweet Spirit accompanying this message rested on all present. Elder Edwin Burdick, bishop's counselor, spoke forcefully on stewardship to the adults and young people during the church school period. At the afternoon session the meeting was in charge of Brother Levitt, assisted by Brother Oakman and Brother Burdick, when different subjects were discussed by those in charge and members of the audience were asked for contributions of opinions. This proved to be a helpful meeting. The two-day services were closed by a splendid Memorial Day sermon in the evening by Brother Levitt.

On May 30, many of the Saints from nearby branches gathered at Irvington reunion grounds and besides enjoying a refreshing outing and visit with friends, busied themselves about the grounds doing much to beautify the place. A picnic there for July 4, was also planned.

Miami, Florida

Seven Enter Waters of Baptism

The work of the Master is moving on in Miami Branch. This is evidenced by the fact that six young people and one adult entered the waters of baptism, February 19, the president of the branch officiating, assisted by Brother John Fisher, priest. Almost all of the Saints went with the candidates and officiating ministers to the great Atlantic Ocean where the ordinance was performed. Sisters Fisher and Stevens had charge of the singing at the water's edge.

After the baptism, the confirmation service was held in Brother and Sister Fisher's home, then Pastor Lawrence Willey spoke on "The Gift of the Holy Ghost and Spiritual Gifts," for thirty minutes. God showed his approval of this service by manifesting his Spirit, and the Saints rejoiced.

On this occasion Brother Willey was privileged to baptize his wife, his sixteen-year-old stepdaughter, and two grandsons, nine and eleven years old.

Others Succeed—
How About You?

Fur Farming & Trapping is guiding hundreds into backyard industries that exceed the regular business and pay-check. It will help you too. A dime brings you a sample copy.

Address
G. T. RICHARDS
Bunceton - - - Missouri

www.LatterDayTruth.org

The Bulletin Board

Reunion and Conference Notices

A profitable and pleasant time is assured all who attend the conference and reunion of the Central Texas District at Hearne, Texas, July 14-23. We are glad to announce that Apostle R. S. Budd, Patriarch F. A. Smith, and Elder Lee Quick will be with us. Let us all come prepared to stay the ten days for a wonderful meeting. A comfortable campsite to which improvements have been added from year to year, is available for all who can come. Everything free to those bringing their own camp equipment. The dining hall will be operated for those who cannot, or will not, bring their own equipment. For this service there will be a charge of $3 for the ten days, if paid in advance to Brother C. W. Tischer, district president, 2212 Washington Avenue, Houston, Texas. Those waiting until arrival at grounds to make arrangements for meals, will be charged a proportionately higher rate. We are hopeful of a large attendance at this meeting, and are determined to make the cost of attendance as little as possible, to enable the district to get the greatest possible benefit out of this meeting. Just pack up the things and bring the family for ten days of real, lasting pleasure.—C. M. Mitchell, Route 4, Bryan, Texas.

Reunion Notice

Toronto district annual reunion will be held at Lowbanks, Ontario, July 29 to August 14. Two weeks of worship, instruction, music and recreation, will be provided by the best available talent. President F. M. Smith and Apostle D. T. Williams with other prominent ministers, teachers and musicians, assure the campers and visitors of a high type of reunion program. There will be classwork arranged by B. H. Hewitt, also land and aquatic sports as well as campfire specialties and entertainments; a girls' camp in charge of Ethel Law, and a boys' camp in charge of Bert Gozzard; music conducted by S. G. Clark; Sunday school, preaching, and all other activities in charge of specialists. Children's classes and amusements. Tents $2 per week, $4 for entire reunion; springs and matresses 50 cents each; all reunion necessities can be secured at refreshment booth at city prices. Meals for adults: breakfast, 20 cents; dinner, 25 cents; supper, 25 cents; weekly tickets, $4.50. Children between six and twelve, breakfast, 10 cents; dinner, 15 cents; supper, 15 cents. Children under six are free. Refreshment booth sells ice cream, soft drinks, candy, etc., at city prices. Members and friends from other districts are especially invited to camp with us. Please order tents and supplies early, the supply is limited, from either of the undersigned or your nearest committee member.—J. A. Wilson, chairman, 133 Langley, Avenue, Toronto, Ontario; James Pycock, secretary-treasurer, 8 Day Avenue, Toronto, Ontario.

Annual All-day Services

The annual all-day services at Evansville are to be held as usual at the residence of Sister C. C. Hoague, sr., 412 West Church Street, June 18. We hope to have all the district officers with us, also a goodly number of the young folks who cannot attend the convention at Lamoni. Come, all who can. Basket dinner at noon.—C. C. Hoague, branch president.

Week of Meetings in Northern Wisconsin

Apostle J. F. Garver, assisted by Leonard Houghton, plans to hold meetings at Sparta, Wisconsin, Sunday, June 25, at 10 to 12 in the forenoon, and at 2 p. m. At the church, five miles north of Black River Falls, Sunday and Monday evenings, June 25 and 26. At the church in Porcupine Valley, near Durand, Wednesday and Thursday evenings, June 28 and 29. And to attend the reunion at Chetek, July 1 to 4. We sincerely hope all Saints who can will attend these meetings. In these trying times we all need spiritual strength and courage. Brother Garver is one of the church's very active, earnest workers. All will enjoy hearing him. —Leonard Houghton, district president.

Meeting at Nauvoo

To the membership of Nauvoo District and others who may be interested, greetings: The reunion committee met some time ago and decided to hold a meeting this year similar to that which has been held the past two years. The services will be held in the church at Nauvoo, July 23 to 30. Evangelist Richard Baldwin and Sister Baldwin are coming to be with us for the period. This should be enough to warrant a large gathering. We hope there will be those who desire to take their vacation at this time and will make arrangements to come to Nauvoo. Beautiful camping sites are available and comfortable rooms can be se-

GLAD TIDINGS

Many of the Saints that have tested the PHOSFO cannot praise it enough. A Natural Food is bound to bring Natural results. The unnatural, such as diseased meat, denatured, devitalized foods are bound to bring on disease. White flour, white sugar, spices, vinegar, tea, coffee, and many other things will never build up a strong body. Strong, willing workers can only build up Zion. God created us to work. Too many neglect the physical. Get every muscle into action and food to feed them.

Sickness is positive evidence that you have not been a good Saint either mentally, physically, or spiritually.

Special, 3 $1.00 cans of PHOSFO for.....$2.00
5 pounds in bulk, in U. S. A..... 2.50
5 pounds in bulk, in Canada..... 3.00
Good Health Flour, 5 pounds, 2nd and 3d zone for ..... .50

A. B. KLAR, Food Specialist
Manufacturing Dover, Ohio.

$2.98

This Is Bargain Month. As a means of introducing our service to several hundred more L. D. S. business and professional men, farmers and church workers, we offer the following:

250 8½x11 Letterheads—20-lb. Bond
250 No. 6¾ Envelopes—Reg. 28-lb. Stock
(Both Postpaid in U. S. A.)

Let us care for your every printing need. How about some calendars for next year?

HERALD PUBLISHING HOUSE
"Where We Join in Service"
Ward A. Hougas, Manager Independence, Mo.

www.LatterDayTruth.org

cured at a nominal cost. However, all those coming should come prepared to take care of their individual needs. We hope to have a program provided that will assure all who come a time of educational, spiritual, and social enjoyment. Anyone desiring to make provision for rooms, etc., should communicate with J. C. Page, Nauvoo, Illinois. He will help you. Remember the time, July 23 to 30.—F. T. Mussell, for the committee.

Barberton Night Services Discontinued

Beginning with the first Sunday in June the Sunday night services in Barberton Branch were discontinued until the first Sunday in September when they will be resumed.—E. L. Main, branch clerk, R. D. 2, Barberton, Ohio.

Services in the London District, June, 1933

Services in London District for the latter part of June are: June 18. Special rally in Delhi: 9.30 a. m., prayer service in charge of district presidency; 11 a. m., church school; 2.30 p. m., preaching by Bishop J. C. Dent, and 7 p. m., preaching by Elder Percy Farrow. June 24 and 25, district rally for young and old, at Stratford: Saturday, 2 p. m., at Queens Park, soft ball, races, contests, volley ball. Kindly bring lunch baskets; 8 p. m., program in church. Musical numbers by district members. A play, "The Most Precious Gift," will be given by Rostock and Stratford young people. Sunday, 9.30 a. m., prayer service; 11 a. m., preaching by Elder Percy Farrow; 2.30 p. m., roundtable, in charge of R. H. Atkinson, and 7 p. m., preaching by Bishop J. C. Dent. Everybody come and help us make this rally a real get-together.—James Winegarden, district president; Percy Farrow, district missionary.

Accredited Institute

An accredited institute will be held at Kirtland, Ohio, June 16, 17, and 18. The first session will be held, June 16, at 7.45 p. m. The general theme will be, "Fundamental Ideals of Latter Day Saintism." Regular credits will be allowed all who attend five or more sessions. Everyone is invited.—John L. Cooper, pastor of Kirtland Branch; William F. Webbe, district superintendent of church schools.

Young People's Convention

The Toronto district young people's convention will convene in Toronto Church, June 23 to 25. They have been preparing for this gathering for some time. There is to be a special cantata, "Esther," given on Saturday evening, June 24.—J. L. Prentice.

New Address

J. L. Verhei, president of Portland Branch and District, 423 South East Sixty-ninth Avenue, Portland, Oregon.

Request Prayers

Mrs. M. C. Davis, 28 Sheridan Street, Wabash, Indiana, requests the fasting and prayers of the Saints in her own behalf. She suffers from cataracts on her eyes which greatly impair her vision. She knows the Lord hears the prayers of his faithful children, and feels that he has a blessing for her.

Reunion Schedule

Please send in changes for this schedule immediately.

DISTRICT	PLACE	TIME
North Dakota	Logan or Burlingtown	June 24 to July 2
Minnesota and Northern Wisconsin	Chetek	July 1 to 4
Owen Sound	Port Elgin, Ontario	July 2 to 9
Eastern Montana	Fairview, Montana	July 7 to 9
Central Texas	Hearne	July 14 to 23
Southern Saskatchewan	Weyburn Plains,	July 19 to 23
Kentucky-Tennessee	Puryear, Tennessee	July 22 to 30
Southern New England	Onset	July 22 to August 6
Nauvoo	Nauvoo	July 23 to 30
Northern Saskatchewan	Saskatoon,	July 27 to 30
Lamoni	Lamoni	July 28 to August 6
Toronto	Lowbanks	July 29 to August 12
Alberta	Edmonton	Aug. 4 to 6
Oklahoma	Canton, Oklahoma	Aug. 4 to 13
Northwestern	Silver Lake	Aug. 4 to 13
Northern and Western Michigan	Park of the Pines	Aug. 4 to 13
Spring River	Columbus, Kansas	Aug. 4 to 13
Eastern and Western Maine	Brooksville	Aug. 12 to 19
Kirtland Combined Reunion	Kirtland	Aug. 10 to 20
Far West Stake	Stewartsville	Aug. 17 to 27
Western Montana	Race Track	Aug. 18 to 27*
Southeast Illinois	Brush Creek	Aug. 25 to Sept. 3
Idaho		Aug. 16 to 20
West. Oklahoma	Eagle City, Oklahoma	Aug. 5 to 13

(*Tentative date. To be confirmed later.)

THE FIRST PRESIDENCY,
By F. M. McDOWELL.

CLASSIFIED ADS

Rates 3 cents per word first insertion; 20 per cent discount on subsequent insertions. Minimum 75 cents per insertion.

REGARDING ADVERTISING

While we exercise care in the acceptance of advertisements appearing in these columns, we can not guarantee full satisfaction between buyer and seller and we therefore advise that in every instance a proper investigation be made by all parties concerned.

FOR SALE: 8-room residence and store. Completely modern. Choice location southeast Independence. Garage; garden; chicken houses. No encumbrance. Trade for apartment. Mrs. O. L. Crabb, Route 5, Box 137, Independence, Missouri. 24-1t*

IMPROVED FARMS for sale. Any size. Same county as Thayer Branch. For description, write H. H. Cunningham, Alton, Missouri.

WHY BE WITHOUT when $2.98 will buy 250 Letterheads and Envelopes printed to suit you. June only. Hurry. Herald Publishing House, Independence, Missouri. 23-tf

ORDER THOSE MAGAZINES through the Herald Publishing House and help the church. $10,000 in commissions could be saved for the church annually if all would cooperate. 23-tf

"It takes a heap o' livin' in a house to make it home"

However here's some of the best chances to start owning a real home that you will perhaps ever have.

5 Rooms—modern except heat—west part of Independence $1,500
5 Rooms—modern—near Walnut Park 2,000
5 Rooms—modern—3 blocks from square 2,000
5 Rooms—modern—Englewood district 2,750
Also vacant lots, $100 to $750

Farm products and other basic commodities have already doubled and trebled in value. Real Estate is bound to follow. Get in while you can on these depression prices. We accept your church notes and bonds as cash.

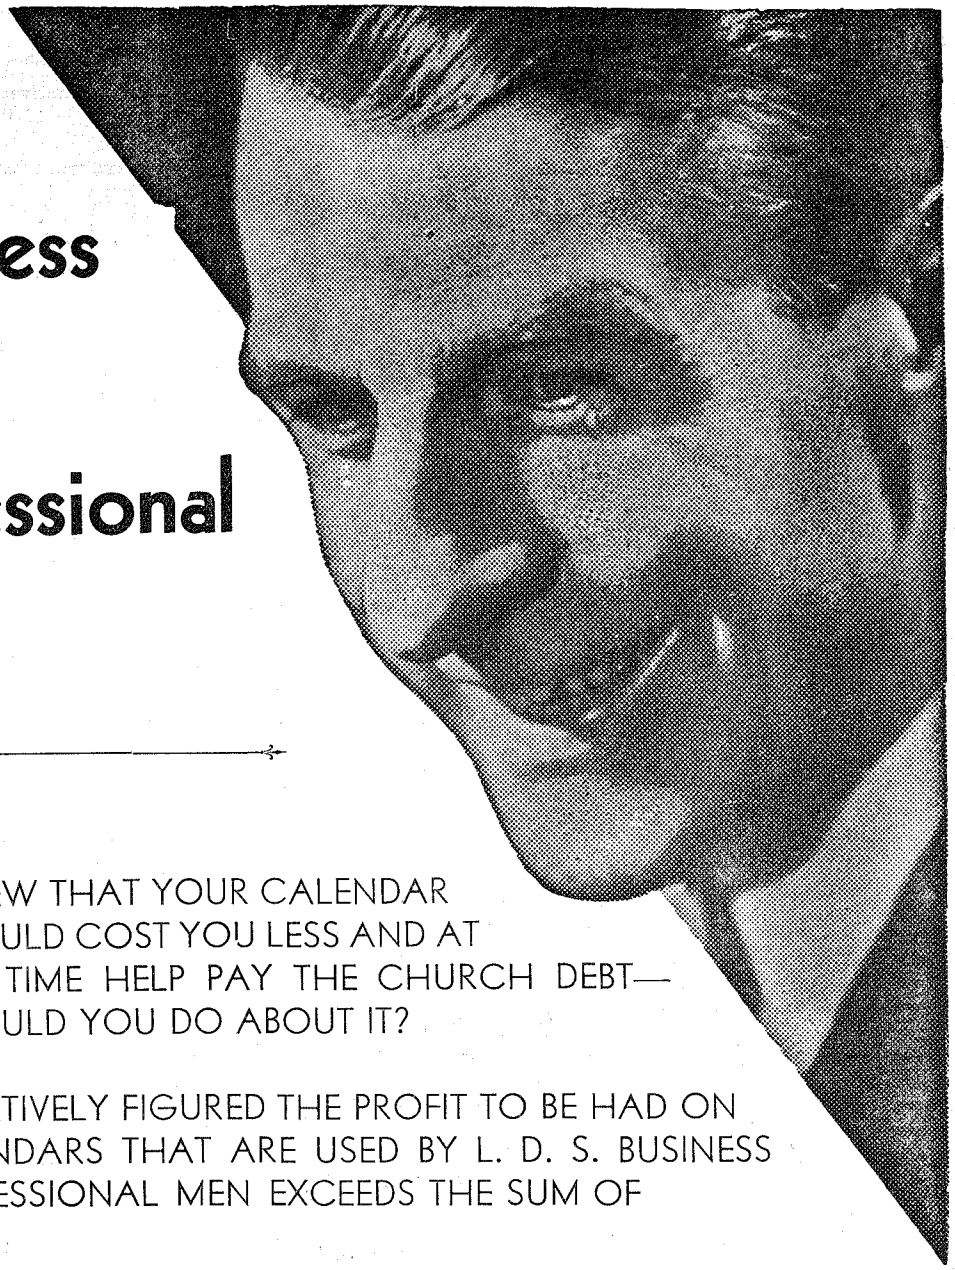
CENTRAL DEVELOPMENT ASSOCIATION
221 West Lexington Street
Independence, Mo.

or

THE PRESIDING BISHOPRIC
The Auditorium
Independence, Mo.

www.LatterDayTruth.org

Mr. Business and Professional Man



IF YOU KNEW THAT YOUR CALENDAR ORDER WOULD COST YOU LESS AND AT THE SAME TIME HELP PAY THE CHURCH DEBT— WHAT WOULD YOU DO ABOUT IT?

CONSERVATIVELY FIGURED THE PROFIT TO BE HAD ON THE CALENDARS THAT ARE USED BY L. D. S. BUSINESS AND PROFESSIONAL MEN EXCEEDS THE SUM OF

$5,000 Per Year

We handle one of the largest and best lines of calendars available to the trade. Our prices are right—we save you money and give you service—What more could you ask?

Send us a sample of your last year's calendar and give us an idea of what you want for 1934—We'll be glad to quote you prices on any quantity you suggest.

Herald Publishing House

"Where We Both Profit by Our Business"

Ward A. Hougas, Manager

Independence, Mo.

www.LatterDayTruth.org

The Saints' Herald

[illegible] Butler
[illegible]

Youth Conference Etchings

A Preliminary Survey

With the Church on the Continent

By John W. Rushton

Blue Pencil Notes

By E. A. S.

Isaac Watts

A Hymn Writer Who Was Prophetic

The Church School Training Program

By C. B. Woodstock

Signs of the Times

By E. B. Hull

Volume 80 June 20, 1933 Number 25

www.LatterDayTruth.org

THE SAINTS' HERALD

June 20, 1933

Volume 80 Number 25

FREDERICK M. SMITH, Editor in Chief.
ELBERT A. SMITH, Associate Editor.
FLOYD M. McDOWELL, Associate Editor
LEONARD J. LEA, Managing Editor.
LETA B. MORIARTY, Assistant Editor.
WARD A. HOUGAS, Business Manager.

Entered as second-class matter at the post office at Independence, Missouri, under Act of March 3, 1879. Issued weekly at Independence, Missouri. Price $2 a year in advance for the U. S. A., its territories and possessions, and Canada; foreign, $3 a year. Accepted for mailing at the special rate of postage provided for in section 1103, Act of October 3, 1917; authorized July 21, 1921.

Published for the Reorganized Church of Jesus Christ of Latter Day Saints.

HERALD PUBLISHING HOUSE
INDEPENDENCE, MISSOURI

CONTENTS

EDITORIAL:
- Working Together 771
- Jackson County 771
- Across the Desk of the Editor in Chief 772
- Blue Pencil Notes 773
- First Prize Awarded to Carl Heinricks 773
- Correction in Report of Presiding Bishopric 773

YOUTH CONFERENCE ETCHINGS:
- The Conference Goes to Work 774
- Etta's Report 774

NEWS BRIEFS 775

ARTICLES:
- A Hymn Writer Who Was Prophetic, by L. B. M. 776
- With the Church on the Continent, by John W. Rushton 777
- The Church School Training Program, by C. B. Woodstock 779
- Weekly Health Letter, by A. W. Teel, M. D. 780
- Report of the Department of Statistics, by C. L. Olson 780
- Worship Services for July, 1933 782
- Warn Our Youth! by Elmer A. Kaler, Ph. N. 786
- Signs of the Times and Pre-millennial World Events, by E. B. Hull 787
- Prayer and Testimony 788
- Question Time, by A. B. Phillips 790

NEWS OF CHURCH AND HOME 791

THE BULLETIN BOARD 797

The Pigeonhole

The Pigeon Goes to Church

"I'd like to make some sweeping assertions this morning," announced the Pigeon tucking a wing feather into place.

"Be careful," I cautioned, "you remember—"

"Very well, thank you," ruefully. "I need no memory course to help me recall my former transgressions," but his eyes twinkled. "I've been thinking of the old adage which says for us to sweep our own dooryards before going in to sweep our neighbor's."

"Yes."

"I've been applying that to Latter Day Saints. As a church we Latter Day Saints think pretty well of ourselves, but here are some questions that keep bothering me. They trouble me especially when I go to church: Why can't Latter Day Saints behave in church? That refers to all of us. What is the trouble? Why do we whisper, or for that matter talk out loud? Why do we make sarcastic comments under our breath when we don't agree with the speaker's opinions? Why do we strut about in service? Why do we giggle? Don't we realize these things are rude, or don't we ever stop to think?

"So—" I mused, "you've been to church again?"

"I certainly have. Fact is I'm a regular church goer, and as I've observed before I'm not one of your congregation sleepers. I keep my eyes open, and I see things."

"Good bird," I returned.

He chuckled and then sighed: "And the other day I heard a congregation sleepily—yessir sleepily—singing:

"Let us be no longer sleeping,
For the day is near at hand;
Let us each our watch be keeping,
As a firm united band."

A Scientific Parable

There was once a tiny electron
Who gazed about him and cried,
"What an infinite thing is an atom!
How deep and how long and how wide!
Can the mind conceive anything huger?
Well, I can't for one, and I've tried!"

An atom peered vaguely around him,
And with every glance that he cast
He thought, "Oh, a molecule's limits
Are most unbelievably vast;
For cosmic bewildering greatness
A molecule can't be surpassed!"

Yet the scientist's lens microscopic,
For all of its strength, failed to show
A glimpse of electron or atom
Or molecule, either! And so
We learn a most excellent moral,
Though just what it is I don't know.

—Berton Braley in Life.

www.LatterDayTruth.org

Editorial

Working Together

There is nothing in the world finer than to see father and son working together in some joint effort, the father contributing long experience and steadied judgment, and the son giving fresh energy and enthusiasm, and perhaps new ideas, to the task. One may be sure that the work which can claim the loyal cooperation of both of them is a good work. A similar observation may be made concerning mothers and daughters.

Such cooperation of young and old is a result, primarily, of putting the young people to work early, giving them tasks and minor responsibilities, and guiding them through their early experiments. This requires patience on the part of the older people, and sometimes considerable restraint. It also requires humility.

It is hard to believe that older people would be jealous of the attention given to young people in the endeavor to train them for work in the church. And yet, surprisingly enough, we do encounter it. Some one complained that we are giving too much space in the Herald to young people. We picked up the issue under protest to see. There were five pages for young people and twenty-two for older readers. Surely that was not out of balance in favor of the young people.

It is to be regretted that some are taking advantage of the present difficult conditions to "clamp down on" young people and make things harder for them than they need to be. This will inevitably react unfavorably on the young people, and brew trouble for us later, if allowed to continue. Harsh discipline and unkindness will always foster rebellion. Happily, most people are too sane and too kind to take advantage of the unfair situation in which the young people are caught today.

There is only one church. It is a church for both old and young. No church can get along without its older members. No church can afford to neglect their experience, their spirituality, their power for good. No church program will be adequate that does not claim their services, and take advantage of the leadership they can give.

The church that cannot keep its young people coming back to its service and support will surely die, and die quickly. If the older people of ten, fifteen, and twenty years ago had not made an effort to enlist the young people in the cause of the church, we would lack many who are among our stanchest adult leaders today. And strangely enough, some of those who complain of the attention given to young people today, were themselves reclaimed from an inviting world, and engaged in the service of the church by just such attention.

Young and old can work together amicably and to great mutual advantage. Christian love and fellowship must be called on in making the adjustments of personality and character that are necessary to harness all our forces in the gospel team.

Let us work together. We must work together if the church is to succeed in its important work.

L. L.

Jackson County

FROM SEVERAL DIRECTIONS have come to us comments concerning the question of the original boundaries of Jackson County. The mention made by the Presiding Bishopric in the article on "The Gathering," published a few issues earlier than this, has given rise to these comments. The reference to Jackson County in section 102, Doctrine and Covenants, is in the way of a commandment to purchase of lands (all that can be purchased) in Jackson County, "and in the adjoining counties round about." So even if the borders of Jackson County never at any time extended west of the present western borders of Missouri, the "adjoining" counties to the west would take in quite a territory to the westward. The changes in the political boundaries of Jackson County form an interesting bit of history, and we hope soon to present Herald readers with information on this. After all is said, what chiefly interests us now on the matter of the gathering is not what the political boundaries or limits of the county were when the first commandments were given to purchase lands therein, but rather what we may first turn to now. To obey duly and wisely the command, is our first great task in this direction. There is plenty of scope in "Jackson County" and the "adjoining counties round about."

The gathering should go on smoothly, wisely, advantageously.

F. M. S.

Too often those life-giving principles Jesus taught are buried in our human institutions with pomp and parade. Often we do not look to the simple; we have become so big and important in our thoughts that the simple does not appeal to us.—E. J. Gleazer, in a sermon, "This Do and Thou Shalt Live," delivered at the Stone Church, Independence, Missouri.

www.LatterDayTruth.org

Across the Desk of the Editor in Chief

THERE HAS COME to my desk a letter written to a fellow worker in the church and which I pass on to our readers, who will, I am sure, appreciate the sentiments expressed and the language used in giving them vent. Doctor Frances E. Clark, manager of the educational activities of the R. C. A. Victor Company, Inc., wrote to Albert N. Hoxie in a way that cannot but be some degree of compensation for some of the hurdles he has had to take in organizing and maintaining his famous Harmonica Band. Well, here is the letter:

"My dear Mr. Hoxie:

"An impressive incident occurred a month ago which remains so vividly in my mind that I cannot refrain from relating it to you.

"On the morning of Inauguration Day (March 4) I had gone to the Broad Street Station a bit early to catch the 8.20 Washington train.

"Standing directly before the train gate idly watching the throngs embarking on another train, my attention was suddenly drawn, by confusing noises to a motley crowd at the extreme right.

"There approached a group of perhaps forty boys and young men in their early teens, tousled, unkempt, slouching along, no attempt at keeping step or poise, carriage, or 'togetherness.' Voices—hard, raucous, jangling like 'bells out of tune,' snarled out on the morning air. Then the faces came into vision. O the pity of it! Youth with all its promise: distorted, depraved, twisted, defiant, and 'don't care.' A few seemed sorrowful, downcast, hopeless, and O so young! Wrecks of humanity! As the first line came opposite I was horrified to see that they were handcuffed in groups of four evidently being moved from one prison to another.

"When they had been herded into a waiting train the gates were opened and I sat down in my car heartsick, thinking of the stricken mothers and fathers as well as of the broken lives of those boys—just boys—social derelicts—which might have been turned into self-respecting citizenship.

"All at once my ears caught the regular rhythm of marching feet. Soldiers? No—a lilting swing as of 'on the toes' stepping along—infectious, joyous. Quickly I glanced out the window. Almost below me came the first rank of shimmering, glistening, beautiful uniforms. Ah. A band! But no—these are boys and young fellows, and wait! They are carrying no visible instruments—their arms swinging at sides, heads up, eyes front, proud and happy, moving along as if on springs, alert, upstanding, all in step, 'each for all.' Then my eye caught the faces—all alight with some inner wellspring of joy, happiness, and purpose. Bubbling laughter evidently lay just below the surface, but perish the temptation, for were they not 'in formation'? So decorum and discipline prevailed.

"My puzzled wits for a moment stood still. Who are these shining Galahads? They seem to have found the Grail in truth, beauty of mind and body, and high purpose in living. Then quickly the light broke and recognition flared within as I spoke aloud, 'Ah. Hoxie's boys!' In another moment came the commander of the battalion himself, also in resplendent uniform, serious, but glowing with a great spirituality of human kindness, an overwhelming desire to use his life in the salvaging of boys who are the men of tomorrow, and who, like Goldsmith's minister, 'Allured to brighter worlds and led the way.'

"What could be the media for such a ministry? Music.

"Music, the only common language of the emotions, the language of romance, of inspiration and emulation, which alone can reach and guide the turbulent, chaotic spirits of adolescence. Left unguided, these are fruitful soil for temptation in hours of idleness empty of purpose.

"Why did Hoxie choose the humble harmonica for his sword in this crusade? thought I. Because it was most musical? Most stylish? Most popular? Most likely to bring him fame? Certainly No; but rather because it offered a simple, get-at-able, well-nigh universal means to give boys music—the armor of modern knighthood—protection against the temptations of present day life—Music, the singing inner spirit of consecration to ideals which alone can save youth. If only that group of shackled wreckage passing by could have had your training, the locked cell might have been a happy home life no matter how humble.

"You have suffered Gethsemane, Mr. Hoxie, in defending your cause from the so-called 'high brows' among musicians who saw only the surface of a seeming debasement of their art and failed to go deep enough to discover that Music arrives at Divinity only when it serves the higher needs of spiritual development. If it be by means of the songs of the Salvation Army, the stirring tunes of the Scottish bagpipe, the glorified mouth harp, or the great symphony orchestra, no matter what the means of interpretation, it is the soul of the music itself that speaks to the needing human heart.

"Your unique mission has been carried throughout the country, and as a result, thousands of boys have been galvanized into new life through music.

"Sir Knight of the Harmonica Boys' Crusade to the Holy Land of fine Manhood, I salute thee. Keep the vision that will not let people perish. May you be given strength, power, and material support to continue your devoted, truly inspirational work in the building of boys into useful, well-mannered citizens, and the Great Builder shall see and hear and say 'Well done!'

"Sincerely yours,
"FRANCES ELLIOTT CLARK."

I have always taken a great pleasure in seeing Brother Hoxie successful in his harmonica movement; but it has always been more pleasurable to me to see him working with and leading our own choirs. Am I selfish in that? I do not think so, for there is a great big work to do in musical circles among us and with our choirs, and in this I've always wanted to see him play his part. But let him as well as others be reminded, tempus fugit, and Zion awaits being freed from her bondage.

BROTHER E. Y. HUNKER evidently watches and reads the Herald with considerable care, and likes occasionally to give us encouragement by telling of his interest in Herald articles. In a recent letter he said:

"It is with deep interest that I have followed your editorials on 'The Gathering.' I am very happy indeed to see the appearance of such writing and read the splendid official articles by the Presiding Bishopric on the subject. . . . I feel that such work is of necessity very timely."

Brother Hunker's interest in Zion generally is keen, and he senses the importance of meeting our tasks in this direction. So it is not at all strange that he finds much of interest in the articles to which reference has been made. F. M. S.

www.LatterDayTruth.org

Blue Pencil Notes

DEACON GOODENTART thinks that if the angel Gabriel were to come to earth and preach, some people would say, "He may be a good horn blower but his preaching isn't so hot—let's got to a movie."

THERE WAS A DOG SHOW in Independence, and one fine big bull dog was warming up for the parade. Under the watchful eye of his mistress he walked down the street pushing a baby buggy. He was dressed in some outlandish rig and walked on his hind legs with his paws on the handlebars of the buggy. As he passed me he rolled his big brown intelligent eyes up at me from under the bonnet, in the most humanly apologetic manner imaginable. He seemed to say: "I know this woman is making a terrible fool of me—but what can I do about it?" Some women do make awful fools of dogs—and men.

WE MAY REPRODUCE the voices of the silent dead. We may even cause the departed to walk and talk from the silver screen, but after all death has taken the substance and left us only the shadows and the echoes. There is no personality present. There is no way to reproduce the past or again enter its domain. We can only press forward.

THE HUMAN SOUL is strangely isolated and alone. We may talk to our friends and express to them a few selected thoughts, but they are so busy with the never-ending stream of their own consciousness that they scarcely hear what we say. In the hours of our greatest joy they come to congratulate us, and we are looking down upon them from a height, and though we take them by the hand we cannot take them up to where we are. In the hours of our greatest sorrow and deepest dejection they come to comfort us. They may stand by our side, but we are down in the depths and their voices sound far away. In the hours of our greatest struggles and temptations they do not even realize what is happening. If we fall, they are amazed. If we triumph, they do not even know that we have fought. They say to us, "It is so easy for you to be a Christian!" When we are born into the world we see no face that we have ever known. When death comes, with dim eyes and deadened ears we turn our backs upon our loved ones and depart alone. And yet love and friendship and fellowship are invaluable—they make this otherwise unbearable loneliness bearable—at times forgotten. And we look forward to a time when there shall be a finer and more understanding fellowship—when we shall see as we are seen and know as we are known. E. A. S.

First Prize Awarded to Carl Heinricks

Philadelphia Man Submits Winning Design in Trade-mark Contest

The Trade-mark Contest announced by the Herald Publishing House on April 25, has just closed with the selection of a design by Carl Heinricks of Philadelphia as the winner of first place. There were 133 entries in the contest, which brought out every kind of art imaginable—from the crudest pencil sketches resembling a prehistoric scrawl to the best product of modern advertising art. There were many drawings of genuine merit, and the judges were unhappily powerless to combine the best features of all the good designs into one.

Other contestants whose designs drew prizes for excellent work were:

June Ruoff, 1927 9th Street, St. Joseph, Missouri
Ira Benham, Sunnybrook, Alberta, Canada
Frederick Fish, 224 South Pendleton, Independence, Missouri
Arthur E. Beverage, 922 Massachusetts Avenue, Cambridge, Massachusetts
Roscoe Misselhorn, Sparta, Illinois

The winning design is medallion shaped, featuring an ancient printing press against the background of a star in reverse light, with the name of the publishing house encircling the edge in bold lettering. The drawing will be made into cuts soon and the new trade-mark will be printed for the benefit of readers.

Correction in Report of Presiding Bishopric

In the report of the Presiding Bishopric regarding the "Comparative Report of Income for April 1932-1933" the item of $4,678.70 should have been shown as a separate item and not included in the total for the month of April 1933, as this represents income from Australia for a period of six months. The total income exclusive of this would then amount to $13,941.17 instead of $18,619.87, or $1,715.50 less than for 1932. This is to correct a typographical error. G. L. DELAPP.

What then do I believe? I believe, in the first instance, that it is necessary to believe something. Complete skepticism does not work. On the other hand, I believe equally strongly that it is always undesirable and often harmful to believe without proper evidence. . . .

We must believe something, for otherwise we should never act. On the other hand, we must not believe everything, or believe too readily, or we shall act wrongly. . . .—Julian Huxley.

www.LatterDayTruth.org

Youth Conference Etchings

The Conference Goes to Work

WHILE THIS ISSUE of the Herald goes to press, the Youth Conference is beginning its meetings in Lamoni. As we have said before, the Conference concerns all the young people of the church; it is for those who must stay at home as well as those who attend. The results of its work, under the guidance of leading men of the church, are expected to be of benefit to all.

We hope that out of the conference will come a new understanding, a new sympathy between young and old in the church. It is not the purpose of the conference to divide them—rather it is the purpose of the conference, as President Smith has intimated, to consider the problems which are common to both youth and age, and to unite both of them in loyal devotion to the ideals and service of the church.

It will be the task of the Herald to distribute to the church at large the news and benefits of the conference. The Youth Forum page will continue, perhaps with an expanded program, in its endeavor to serve the young people and their needs.

Watch the Herald in the coming weeks. We'll have something for you.

THE PILOT.

Etta's Report

Psychic Interlude

"But how could you? Here it is only Saturday, and registration has only begun. Yet you have written my report of the first two days of the Conference before I have sent it in, and you are printing it before it has happened!" Etta was distress.

"My dear young lady," said the Pilot. "Editors have to do strange things to keep their papers from reading like ancient history. You forget, Etta, that for fifteen years I have known the men who are to address the Conference, and I know their ideas on everything, with an intimacy that sometimes startles me. I know you, too, and it is fairly easy to predict, under the circumstances, what you will write."

"I think you are outrageously conceited," she said, continuing her walk.

Saturday They Arrive

It is interesting to watch them come in—by motorbus and train, in new cars and in ancient rattling wrecks. They are all tired and dusty, but they are laughing. I have never seen more wholesome good humor in any gathering. They seem to be fine clean young people, and I am thrilled to think of the friendships I shall make during the days we are here together.

> "Only when I was past forty-five did I realize what life was all about. It was the first time I ever considered seriously what some one else's point of view might be. . . .
>
> "After stumbling around looking for contentment for years I suddenly learned that you cannot find it by hunting furiously for it, like a puppy looking for fleas in a rug. Happiness sneaks in through a door you didn't know you left open."—John Barrymore (in the "American Magazine" for May 1933)

The Cultural Aspects of Eating

If I were a philosopher, I should observe that when you teach young men and women to eat correctly, you civilize them. The table is a test of culture, a proving ground for intelligence and self-control, an X-ray examination of the character of one's home training. What a fine thing it is for them to be here, in this spacious dining room of Walker Hall, eating and talking together, observing each other, learning, and making acquaintances that may turn into permanent friendships, or change careers.

The Prayer Meeting

It seems strange to be sitting here in this old chapel with its darkened wood, with so many other young people all around me. I think of the generations of young people who have sat here—all of them with their hopes, their ideals, their problems—some of them now the mothers and fathers of young people here today. The same clean lives, the same glorious possibilities of development, the same spirit of consecration to life and to the work of the church are here. As I listen to what they say now, I realize how much I am a part of them, how strong the bond of friendship is between us. And I think, too, of the fine young people who could not come, and of the parents and friends who are at home, at this very hour, and praying for us. Surely we share a great privilege and blessing here today. Surely we have a great responsibility.

This Younger Generation

These people are serious. They know that they face a hard world; they have no illusions, but they do have some ideals by which to shape their lives. They show the marks of strength and courage. They are a new type. The flapper is extinct, and the drug-store cowboy is a thing of the past. You cannot watch these youngsters long without realizing that they are men and women. I can feel confident of the future of the church if these people are to be its servants.

Bill (Monday)

Today I noticed that Bill has been discovered by a starry-eyed blond, and he returned her gaze with that smitten fish look of his. Oh, yes, I have seen it before, but no girl gets it out of a man after a close acquaintance disillusions him about her. No, I will not let this spoil the Conference for me. It is too important. If I am going to fight with Bill over a thing like this, it will be after I get home. I will not be jealous. Oh, that man!

Howard (Tuesday)

I was a little doubtful about this Conference yesterday, but today I am sure that it is going to be a success. I was sitting in the back of the room when I saw Bill enter with that blond. (Not that I cared!) I was just thinking how glad I was that I have my own car to drive back home in. I'd hate to ride with Bill now. And then a young man came and sat down next to me. (It was the only vacant seat.) Somehow we got to talking. Oh, it is wonderful to talk to a man who can think of something besides eating and his job! Ideas mean something to him. He is an architect, and will have a new position when he returns home. He has traveled. (He is handsome, and two inches taller than Bill!) I adore tall men! Oh, yes, his name is Howard. Really, the Conference is going to be a success!

You may never know how much good the word of cheer or the useful suggestion that you can make will do. Have you ever read Longfellow's poem entitled "The Arrow and the Song"? It would be good to read to some young people's gathering. Take the hint and write something for the many young people who read this page. And the Pilot wishes here to express his appreciation of the way our younger writers are sending in some very good contributions that are helping to improve our regular output of articles. See you next week!

THE PILOT.

"A new force in nature of some sort or other will be discovered by which many things not now understood will be explained. We unfortunately have only five senses; if we had eight, we'd know more."—Thomas A. Edison.

www.LatterDayTruth.org

NEWS BRIEFS

President F. M. Smith Blesses Two Grandsons

When Saints of District One A and One B, of Independence, met in combined prayer service at the Stone Church the evening of June 14, they were privileged to witness a beautiful ordinance, that of the blessing of little children. On this occasion President Frederick M. Smith blessed his two youngest grandsons, Stephen Page Larsen, son of Elder and Sister Edward Larsen, and Paul Madison Edwards, son of Apostle and Sister F. Henry Edwards. Both infants are the second sons of the daughters of President Smith. Brother Smith was assisted in the ordinance of blessing by his sons-in-law, Apostle Edwards and Elder Larsen.

One Hundred and Ninety-six Baptisms

Reports of baptisms received during the last week total one hundred ninety-six. Seven were baptized at Ludington, Michigan; one, Columbus, Ohio; seven, Oelwein, Iowa; fifteen, Lamoni, Iowa; four, Thompson Mission, Iowa; one, Evergreen Branch, Iowa; five, Bloomington, Iowa; four, Blythedale, Missouri; one, Allendale, Missouri; thirty-one, Lachine, Michigan; six, Des Moines, Iowa; six, Centralia, Washington; eight, Shidler, Oklahoma; one, Rock Creek, Iowa; seven, Burlington, Iowa; five, Birmingham, England; and eighty-seven from Independence.

Mrs. Deal Six Directs Winners of Senator Capper Trophy

Mrs. Deal Six, member of our church and formerly connected with religious drama in Independence, has piloted the Young People's Class of the Presbyterian Church at Vinland, Kansas, into the ranks of good dramatists and made them winners of the Senator Capper trophy for drama in Religious Education in the State of Kansas. This group represented Douglas County in the state-wide religious drama tournament held at Coffeyville, May 31 and June 1 and 2, under the auspices of the Kansas Council of Christian Education.

The Vinland group, coming from a small rural community, competed against churches of all sizes. Its play, "And He Came to His Father," by Erna Kurckmeyer, presented by fifteen players, was given first place by the unanimous decision of the judges. Originality, real talent, and sympathetic understanding on the part of the players added to the effectiveness of the drama. During the winter the play formed the basis of a religious project for the class, the members studying it seriously, designing and constructing their own stage setting and properties and making the costumes.

Mrs. Six, the director, will be remembered by the Saints for her excellent work in the directing of the centennial conference drama of the church, "Fulfillment."

Apostle C. F. Ellis to Society Islands

Apostle Clyde F. Ellis will sail for the Society Islands Mission on the S. S. Makura from San Francisco, July 5, and will probably remain there until conference time next spring.

This is a familiar territory for Brother Ellis who already has served on two missions in the islands, spending something like seven years there. He undertook his first mission to the Society Islands in 1914, and returned to the United States in 1919. Went again to the islands in 1922. The Saints of America wish him Godspeed and bon voyage on this his third mission there.

"Juvenile Day" for Hutchinson, Kansas

Pastor T. C. Turpin, of Hutchinson Branch, has designated the third Sunday of each month as "Juvenile Day" at which time special instruction and talks are given for the benefit of the young people. One of the aims of the branch is to prepare a group of progressive young men and women. They are planning a discussion of the outline of the problems handled at the Youth Conference at Lamoni.

Apostle J. F. Curtis Celebrates Fiftieth Birthday in the Church

From Clitherall, Minnesota, Apostle J. F. Curtis wrote the Herald on June 10: "Today, I am celebrating my fiftieth birthday in the church. I was baptized June 10, 1883, by Elder J. C. Foss, at Independence, Missouri. This work grows dearer to me as the years go by."

On June 4, Brother Curtis baptized eight more people at Clitherall. When he was there last fall he baptized twelve. Elder Lester Whiting, branch president, baptized four at Ottertail, about twenty miles from Clitherall, the evening of June 5, and these, too, will be members of the branch at Clitherall.

Brother Curtis was scheduled to begin meetings at Duluth, June 11. He has baptized twenty-one into the church this year.

www.LatterDayTruth.org

A Hymn Writer Who Was Prophetic

Isaac Watts Wrote Many Hymns Which Fit Into Our Philosophy

By L. B. M.

THOUGH he was born in the latter part of the seventeenth century and lived not quite fifty years in the eighteenth, Isaac Watts, an English minister of the Independent faith, wrote many of the hymns that we sing today, hymns which seem to be a part of our latter-day religious and social philosophy.

Among the hymns of which Saints never tire singing is the familiar and exultant, "Praise Ye, the Lord!" When we sing it we never think of the antiquity of this hymn, but it is old. It has been sung by many peoples of many religious faiths; but each new generation finds it new and very applicable to life. It is a favorite with many of us, and often in church services we raise our voices in this song of praise for and recognition of God's power and glory:

"Praise ye the Lord! 'tis good to raise
Your hearts and voices in his praise;
His nature and his works unite
To make this duty your delight.

"He formed the stars, those heav'nly flames,
He counts their numbers, calls their names;
His wisdom's vast, and knows no bound,
A deep where all our thoughts are drowned.

"Sing to the Lord! extol him high,
Who spreads his clouds along the sky;
There he prepares the fruitful rain,
Nor lets the drops descend in vain.

"He makes the grass the hills adorn,
And clothes the smiling fields with corn;
The beasts with food his hands supply,
And the young ravens, when they cry.

"His saints are lovely in his sight;
He views his children with delight;
He sees their hope, he knows their fear,
And looks and loves his image here."

These five verses of the song are found in the old Saints' Harp, in the old Saints' Hymnal, and in the new Saints' Hymnal. Verses in varying number have appeared in song pamphlets issued for various church needs. It is familiar to all of us.

Mr. Watts was born July 17, 1674, at Southampton, England. After a grammar school education in his native town, and attendance at an academy in London, he accepted a position for five years as tutor in the family of Sir John Hartopp, at Stoke-Newington. During the latter part of his service for this family, he officiated as the assistant of the Reverend Dr. Chauncey, minister of the Independent Church in Mark Lane. He succeeded to the post of Dr. Chauncey in 1702. Isaac Watts was a popular writer and his theological works were numerous, but it is his reputation as a hymn-writer that has stood through the years.

Prophetic? Yes, I believe he was. He had no knowledge of the latter-day gospel, and yet he wrote:

"We're marching to Zion,
Beautiful, beautiful Zion;
We're marching upward to Zion,
The beautiful city of God."

And something else very familiar to us—we sing it every conference:

"Sure I must fight if I would reign;
Increase my courage, Lord!
I'll bear the toil, endure the pain,
Supported by thy word."

Is not this the last verse of his hymn "The Lord, How Wondrous Are His Ways!" reassuring and prophetical:

"His everlasting love is sure
To all his saints, and shall endure;
From age to age his truth shall reign,
Nor children's children hope in vain."

Some of his other hymns which we sing are "Come, Sound His Praise Abroad," "Great God, Attend! While Zion Sings," "Blest Are the Souls That Hear and Know," "Come, Gracious Lord, Descend and Dwell," "The Lord Jehovah Reigns," "My Dear Redeemer and My Lord," "Alas! And Did My Savior Bleed," "When I Survey the Wondrous Cross," "The Heavens Declare Thy Glory, Lord," and others. (All the above appear in the new Saints' Hymnal.)

A complete collection of Mr. Watts's works was issued in six volumes by Jennings and Doddridge, London, in 1753, five years after the author's death.

We owe a great debt of gratitude to Issac Watts for the many, beautiful hymns he has given us.

It is impossible to bring to pass the brotherhood of men and a true love for one's fellows until the affections of the individual are first placed with God. Any attempt to reconcile men with their fellows will fail if God is ignored.—E. J. Gleazer, in a sermon, "This Do and Thou Shalt Live," preached at the Stone Church, Independence, Missouri.

www.LatterDayTruth.org

With the Church on the Continent

By John W. Rushton

SINCE THE LAST COMMUNICATION from Europe I have completed a three month's journey in continental Europe, including Scandinavia (Norway, Sweden and Denmark), Germany, Holland and a few days in France; returning to England just before the Christmas holidays.

In the early days of September I left Newcastle-on-Tyne and crossed the North Sea in a very comfortable little vessel under the Norwegian flag. We had a very fine crossing and the beauty of the fjord up to Oslo was entrancing indeed. It was pleasing to see Brother V. D. Ruch waiting on the dock for me who, as soon as the usual routine of examining the passport and passing the customs officers was finished had me on the way to Grefsen where he and Sister Ruch with their little daughter Velma reside. It was my privilege to spend about six weeks with Brother Ruch as my companion and interpreter visiting the towns of Porsgrund and Bon as well as this capital city of Norway, Oslo. Porsgrund will be familiar to those who know of the work of Brother Peter Muceus who with his wife and family put in many years of hard work in this place. Also, Brother Hunker has a warm place in the memory of these Saints. Bon (pronounced like Berne), has a branch existing for a number of years which resulted from the labors of several missionaries beginning with Brother Muceus. The hardships, difficulties, the mental and spiritual strain to which these brethren have been exposed cannot be appreciated until one has actually been through them. The difference in customs, food, language, and methods of living, together with the fact that one is a "foreigner," all make it a trial of one's temper, patience and faith. Brother and Sister Ruch have put in eight years of very fine service which has made possible the recent success of the church in Norway. It is always encouraging to find that the brethren who have labored among the people are "esteemed very highly in love for their work's sake." And standing out very conspicuously in these north countries is the work of our late brother and apostle, Peter Anderson. His name and work are enshrined in the hearts of many and his ministry constitutes a "saga of love and devotion"; and in the hearts of his countrymen this brother has been truly canonized. In Norway we now have three local churches and these organizations give promise of permanence. It was my privilege to organize the congregation in Porsgrund with Brother Karl Carlson as presiding elder and he has the assistance of a noble group of men and women. Here we were the guests of the two sisters of Brother Muceus, Mrs. Thronsen and Mrs. Peterson, whose kindness and hospitality made our stay a very pleasant one indeed. The congregation in Oslo is the result of the work of Brother and Sister Ruch and he with Brother Blum are the associate pastors. In Bon the congregation is presided over by Brother Arthur Iveson.

JOHN W. RUSHTON
Apostle in charge of the European Mission

IN SWEDEN AND DENMARK the church work has all but flickered out. We have a few members in Stockholm, the capital city, a few in Helsingfors in Sweden. In Aalborg we have a few and one or two in Copenhagen, Denmark. It is indeed regrettable that the investment of the past years should be allowed to atrophy in this way.

There is much to interest one in these countries and much to arouse admiration. Oslo, Stockholm and Copenhagen are cities of great beauty and combine the glories of nature with the skill and artistry of man through the centuries. Many of the buildings are of classic architecture and one moves in an atmosphere of history and romance. There are to be seen relics of the old Vikings and some of the boats have been found with which they challenged the seas and storms when they left their native shores to plant their banners and cultures in far away places. It is more than a tradition in Norway that North America was discovered by Leif Erricssen centuries before Columbus found the western continent. In Stockholm we visited the Royal Palace, the largest in the world, with four hundred furnished rooms filled with treasures of various kinds, including quaint furniture, tapestries, paintings, crystal and chinaware, clocks and other things of priceless value. The reigning family is descended from the famous general of Napoleon Bonaparte, Bernadotte. At the time of our visit the city was gaily bedecked to celebrate the visit of the Prince of Wales and his brother Prince George. The present king in spite of his seventy years is an enthusiastic tennis player.

www.LatterDayTruth.org

IN COPENHAGEN, through the kindness of Mr. and Mrs. Neilsen who are relatives of Brother P. M. Hanson, we had a fine automobile drive of more than sixty miles through this city and its environs. We visited Königsberg and saw the famous castle—the "Elsinore" of Shakespeare's "Hamlet." We were told that the supposed grave of the gloomy prince was really the resting place of a black cat. We visited also the magnificent old palace at Frederickberg. While in this city we visited the only member of the church we knew of, a Miss Mikkelsen who is a very fine linguist, a graduate of the university, an advanced student on psychology, and has made some very interesting experiments in psychical research.

In Aalborg, (Denmark) we met with a few of the church people who are nobly struggling to keep the spark of life aflame. In this town as also in Stockholm the work of Brother P. T. Anderson is remembered also with much appreciation. We were privileged to meet a few of the faithful ones including the sister of Brother Anderson, also Brother and Sister Lindberg and family and Brother Lundstrom all of whom are doing their best to keep things moving. In Sweden we were interested in observing the drink traffic because of the publicity given to the experiment of "control" inaugurated by Dr. Brat. However, my observation was that the traffic in intoxicating liquor was not as agreeable in Sweden and Norway as in the other countries which I have visited. I saw more people under the influence of drink and had more unpleasant contacts with such than in Britain, Germany, Holland or France.

The Scandinavian peoples are of fine quality and their hospitality is of the most generous type. They are very polite and courteous, sometimes to the embarrassment of the phlegmatic Englishman. In raising their hats to men as well as women this is no half-hearted languid gesture, but a real majestic sweep of parabolic dimensions. Even the children in meeting a stranger give a gracious bow or curtsey. One is impressed with the loveableness of human nature when met in close and intimate contact no matter where or whom.

WHO CAN DESCRIBE the scenery of these north lands? The rugged mountains covered with pines, the valleys with their silvery birches and trembling aspens, the fjords which thread their tortuous ways between the high, frowning and jagged peaks; it is awe-inspiring. During my stay in these lands I was able to enjoy the glories of the autumn. As we moved through the panoramic and kaleidoscopic scenery on swiftly moving trains or sauntered along the highways and the country lanes we saw the whole through the eyes of Elizabeth Browning and could think only of the lines—

> "Earth's cram'd with Heaven
> And every common bush afire with God."

Nature's process of eremacausis literally lights the "fires of death" and gives the exquisite splendor of matchless beauty to the changing decay. As we contemplate her artistic grace we are lost in "wonder, love and praise." Whether as burned out cinders in the heavens, the dying stars, the astral nebulae, turning into molten silver, embossing the earth with rich traceries of filigree; or in the new born life expressing itself in the fragrance and beauty of new blossoms, the laughing greenery or the mellifluous songs of the mating and nesting birds, all things in life and death combine to make the Dominus Laudamus of Nature. It is the pageantry of Life and Death. Catholicism and Protestantism both have contributed to the religious and cultural life of the people as witnessed by the castles, palaces, university buildings, churches and cathedrals, schools and hospitals, museums and libraries and the public buildings all blending the ancient and modern make up the record of historical evolution.

In leaving Scandinavia and the church friends with others whom we met I thought of the many references in Saint Paul's letters to the fidelity and constancy of the personal friends both men and women who had ministered to him at different places, and had immortalized them because of their friendship and kindness to him. Truly there are many such today who will be numbered with them in the day of God's remembrance.

Saturday morning October 22, I left Copenhagen for Gedser where the train embarks on the ferry boat and for two hours we are on the sea making for Warnemunde our first stop in Germany. While taking a walk around the ferryboat for exercise, I heard two gentlemen talking. There was no mistaking it, they were Americans, and as they did not seem to be confining their conversation to anyone in particular, I apologized for intruding and was welcomed to the party. The elder man was from Hamburg, where he was in business, but hailed from Philadelphia originally. The younger man, who was his companion and evidently just "over," was from New Orleans. It was good to hear the English tongue again and especially with an American flavor. The young man (Continued on page 784)

www.LatterDayTruth.org

The Church School Training Program

By C. B. Woodstock

THE MOST IMPERATIVE NEED in church school work is for teachers and leaders qualified for the task of leadership. The enthusiasm of the class, the vigor with which the lesson study is attacked, the clearness of ideas and ideals established, the expression given in changed, enriched lives, even the power of the good Spirit which should accompany the teaching effort, all are conditioned very definitely by the qualifications, native and acquired, possessed by the teacher. Much is demanded of the church by way of well-prepared quarterlies and a church school organization conducive to intellectual and spiritual growth. But the chief essential, after all, is the personality, the spirit, and the real teaching ability of those who stand before our classes.

In this hour of need, when finances are low, when many are out of employment and the future of industry looks uncertain, it is gratifying to find our church people in large numbers devoting themselves to study and institute effort to qualify themselves for the teaching work of the church.

Our training program provides for well-organized courses of study in the church school curriculum, for correspondence courses carried with the general department of religious education, for local, district and general institutes, for certain college and experience credits and for recognition of credits earned in religious education under interdenominational sources.

Our credit files now contain the accumulating records of over 5,000 individuals who are seeking training to qualify for service. This fact is significant if the training may be wisely directed into most profitable channels, maintained at a high standard of efficiency, and seasoned with the spirit and purpose of the great Master Teacher.

BROOKLYN, New York, has led the way in a courageous, far-visioned movement in ordering at a recent business meeting that after October, 1934, all teachers of the local church school should be chosen from among those who hold not less than a second grade certificate in religious education and leadership. This will assure the branch that in coming years its teachers will have had at least 150 hours of consistent preparation for their responsible tasks. Immediate steps are being taken to carry forward the local training of teachers so that no one who is willing to qualify will be denied the chance to serve.

We commend the pioneer spirit of Brooklyn. In scores of branches the same action might well be taken. It all depends upon whether we really mean business or not and if we are ready to pay the price for achievement.

CREDITS have been turned in recently from a number of institutes. Late in February Apostle McConley held classes at New Westminster, British Columbia, and a month later he conducted an institute at Seattle. In March President McDowell and Apostle F. Henry Edwards conducted an institute for Holden Stake at Lees Summit. April 1 to 9 these brethren held institute classes for a week at Detroit. The total attendance at 26 sessions in Detroit was 6,172. The average attendance at afternoon week-day classes was 83, while the average at evening classes was 263. Early in March, President McDowell held an institute at Joplin, Missouri, and a week later at Denver, Colorado. On March 8 to 9, C. B. Woodstock conducted an institute at Mapleton, Kansas. April 7 to 9 Patriarch A. Carmichael and Pastor D. B. Sorden conducted an institute at Los Angeles in connection with the district conference.

Since the beginning of the year thirty students have completed correspondence courses; twenty-two have completed quarterly courses for credit, and seven have turned in credits earned at interdenominational schools.

Recently at Topeka, Kansas, at the close of an interdenominational training school in which seven denominations were represented by seventeen churches with 108 students, two were awarded diplomas for the completion of 120 hours of training class work. These two were Mrs. Fern Weedmark and Mrs. Mildred Goodfellow, local leaders in our church school at Topeka. It is especially worthy of note that these two are not only qualifying in every way possible for local responsibility, but both are giving generously of their time in the preparation of junior worship programs for general church use, and Mrs. Goodfellow has accepted appointment as editor of the primary quarterly series.

"As leaders of young people let us essay our tasks with faith, believing that the ultimate fruits of our labor shall be manifested in the lives of Christlike, young men and women. For this let us pray; to this end let us work."—Dwight D. W. Davis, in "The Call of God to Youth."

www.LatterDayTruth.org

Weekly Health Letter

Sunstroke or Heat Prostration

By A. W. Teel, M. D., Church Physician

SUNSTROKE or heat prostration is brought about by undue exposure to heat either in the direct rays of the sun or during hot weather in engine rooms, laundries and the like. An attack may come on in the night and under cover as well as by day.

Persons of a vigorous constitution and of regular and temperate habits can stand much greater heat and exertion than an individual who debilitates or adheres to the use of alcohol, tobacco, or other narcotics.

The attacks are more likely to come on after a full meal. When one is exposed to excessive sunlight or heat of any kind, the onset may be sudden, accompanied by dizziness, pain or uncomfortable sensations in the head. Sometimes this is followed by circulatory disturbances which bring about a sort of faintness and is frequently followed by nausea and vomiting with marked muscular and general weakness. The pulse is rapid and feeble, and the body surface cool. The great majority of such cases are mild, and sometimes pass away more or less quickly if the patient is placed in an incumbent position in a cool quiet place with free ventilation, and will recover in a day or two.

There is some danger of an oversensitiveness to the sun's rays after having an attack of this kind. If the case continues to get worse instead of better, the temperature may rise in a very short time as high as 111 degrees F. which begins with dizziness, headache, oppression, nausea, and vomiting, and there might be twitchings and rarely convulsions may occur. Unconsciousness is quite common, and the patient may succumb to heart failure and coma which is likely to terminate fatally in an hour or so. Nearly all cases should be taken immediately to the hospital or a physician hastily summoned.

In the meantime the patient should be carried to a shady spot out of the direct rays of the sun and get all the fresh air possible for him. Active and energetic measures should be employed until the physician arrives, the indications being to reduce the temperature of the overhead centers and to stimulate activity. After being removed to a suitable place, the patient should be in a recumbent position. The clothing should be removed from the neck, chest, and waist. Ice should be put to the head and temples and pieces of ice under the body and arms. If spirits of ammonia are obtainable, they should be held near the patient's nose. Liquids by the mouth are contra-indicated. If a hose and water are at hand, turn a stream of water over the entire body, and keep it running over the subject continuously. The legs and arms should be briskly massaged to stimulate the circulation, and you will find that the patient will yield readily to the simple treatment outlined for reducing the temperature.

But it should not be forgotten that many cases require medical skill. In every case of violent sunstroke there remains some irritation of the brain which may become chronic in character. After a reduction of the temperature, many cases of this kind demand stimulants, prolonged rest, and sometimes a change of climate may be necessary. Systematic common-sense treatment is always indicated.

Osler recites a case of a man, who, following a sunstroke could never stand a temperature of over 75 degrees. After living in a cellar for some time moved to Alaska to obtain relief.

Many cases that become chronic are made so sensitive to heat that in the summer they get severe attacks, have ugly tempers, and may gradually become delirious and insane.

Report of the Department of Statistics

By C. L. Olson

The report of the Department of Statistics for the months of January, February, March, April and May shows the following changes in the total enrollment during this period:

Total enrollment of the church January 1, 1933	108,276
January baptisms	129
Gains from the unknown	8
Gains by correction	1
Total gain	138
January deaths	115
Expulsions	20
Losses by correction	3
Total loss	138
Total enrollment of the church, February 1, 1933	108,276
February baptisms	125
Reinstated	1
Gains from the unknown	11
Gains by correction	3
Total gain	140
February deaths	87
Expulsions	5
Losses by correction	8
Total loss	100
Net gain during February	40
Total enrollment of the church, March 1, 1933	108,316

www.LatterDayTruth.org

March baptisms	184
Reinstated	3
Gains from the unknown	8
Gains by correction	1
Total gain	196
March deaths	79
Expulsions	8
Losses by correction	4
Total loss	91
Net gain during March	105

Total enrollment of the church, April 1, 1933 108,421

April baptisms	190
Gains from the unknown	8
Gains by correction	2
Total gain	200
April deaths	80
Expulsions	9
Losses by correction	3
Total loss	92
Net gain during April	108

Total enrollment of the church, May 1, 1933 108,529

May baptisms	241
Gains from the unknown	15
Gains by correction	4
Reinstated	1
Total gain	261
May deaths	90
Expulsions	1
Total loss	91
Net gain during May	170

Total enrollment of the church, June 1, 1933 108,699

The following miscellaneous reports were also reported during these five months:

Type of Report	Jan.	Feb.	Mar.	April	May
Transfers	461	570	406	414	396
Blessings	139	66	142	186	159
Marriages	72	86	82	66	61
Ordinations	15	16	19	32	22
Divorces	4	5	6	13	5
Silences	2			1	2
Licenses surrendered	3		1	1	1
Licenses restored	3	1		1
Marriage annulled				1
Branch disorganized	1		1

The baptisms for these five months were distributed as follows:

	Jan.	Feb.	Mar.	April	May
Zion and the stakes	23	18	16	16	25
Districts in United States and Canada	88	107	115	143	206
Unorganized territory	1		3	13	7
Australian Mission			28
British Isles Mission	2				3
Hawaiian Mission	4			18
Holland Mission	11
Norwegian Mission			1
Swedish Mission			2
Society Islands Mission			19
Totals	129	125	184	190	241

The following branches and missions, outside the stakes, had three or more baptisms during the past five months, as indicated:

During January:

Alpena, Michigan	10
Sioux City, Iowa	5
Lorain, Ohio	4
Magnolia, Iowa	4
Niagara Falls, New York	4
Onaway, Michigan	4
Tulsa, Oklahoma	4
Bellingham, Washington	3
Bradner, Ohio	3
Council Bluffs, Iowa	3
East Los Angeles, California	3
Levi, West Virginia	3
Port Huron, Michigan	3
Sacramento, California	3

During February:

Mapleton, Kansas	16
Alpena, Michigan	11
Los Angeles, California	9
Third Columbus, Ohio	6
Eagle City, Oklahoma	6
Cash, Michigan	5
San Antonio, Texas	5
Long Beach, California	4
Coleman, Michigan	3
Lansing, Michigan	3
Wichita, Kansas	3

During March:

Saint Louis, Missouri	11
Eustis, Nebraska	8
Brentwood, Missouri	7
Wabash, Indiana	7
Saginaw, Michigan	6
Beardstown, Illinois	5
Fairland, Oklahoma	5
Shenandoah, Iowa	5
Chadwick, Missouri	4
Third Columbus, Ohio	4
Lancaster, Ohio	4
Second San Antonio, Texas	4
Second Columbus, Ohio	3
Saint Marys, Ohio	3
Saint Thomas, Ontario	3

During April:

Sperry, Oklahoma	15
Wellsburg, West Virginia	9
Dow City, Iowa	8
Bisbee, Arizona	7
Muscatine, Iowa	7
Cleveland, Ohio	6
Sylvania, Ohio	6
Beardstown, Illinois	5
Butman, Michigan	5
Flint, Michigan	5
Lansing, Michigan	5
Boston, Massachusetts	4
North Platte, Nebraska	4
Third Columbus, Ohio	3
Kewanee, Illinois	3
Minneapolis, Minnesota	3
Sawyerville, Illinois	3
South Bend-Mishawaka, Indiana	3
Wheeling, West Virginia	3

During May:

Lachine, Michigan	31
Longview, Washington	16
Eros, Louisiana	11
Detroit, Michigan	8

www.LatterDayTruth.org

East Bay, California	7
Miami, Florida	7
Winnipeg, Manitoba	7
Bloomsburg, Pennsylvania	6
Nelsonville, Ohio	6
Fresno, California	5
McDermott, Ohio	5
Ottumwa, Iowa	5
Stratford, Ontario	5
First Chicago, Illinois	4
Dallas, Texas	4
Lancaster, Ohio	4
Minot, North Dakota	4
San Bernardino, California	4
Council Bluffs, Iowa	3
Eastern Colorado District	3
Hazel Dell, Iowa	3
Magnolia, Iowa	3
Missouri Valley, Iowa	3
Oak Harbor, Ohio	3
Pontiac, Michigan	3
Scammon, Kansas	3
Utleyville, Colorado	3

For the purpose of comparison with other years, we wish to give the following table showing the number of baptisms for January, February, March, April and May of this year, for last year, and for the 1920-30 average for these months, as follows:

Month	1933	1932	1920-30 Av.
January	129	155	156
February	125	78	173
March	184	168	272
April	190	188	214
May	241	103	227
Totals	869	692	1,042

By the above it will be seen that while the number of baptisms for these five months is less than for the 1920-30 average, nevertheless, there were 177 more baptisms this year during this period than there were in 1932. We trust that this improvement may continue throughout the year.

June 14, 1933.

If a man feels that his life is spent in expedients for killing time, he finds it hard to suppose that he can go on for ever trying to kill eternity. It is when he thinks on the littlenesses that make up his day, on the poor trifles he cares for, his pipe, his ease, his dinner, his gains, his newspaper, that he feels so cramped and cabined, cribbed and confined, that he loses the power of conceiving anything anything vast or sublime—immortality among the rest. When a man rises in his aims and looks to the weal of the universe, and the harmony of the soul with God, then we feel that extinction would be grievous; that it would be a waste of a plant brought by God to perfection, towards comprehending God's work and longing to help it, and thereby becoming able to help it, if at this moment it was to perish.—W. R. Aldger.

Worship Services for July, 1933

(Continued from last week.)

The Church School

FOURTH SUNDAY, JULY 23

Theme: "Remember His Word."

Instrumental Prelude: "The Lord Jehovah," N. S. H., 120; S. H., 142.

Call to Worship: 1 Nephi 5: 126ff.

"Behold the Lord hath created the earth that it should be inhabited, and He hath created his children that they should possess it.
"He raiseth up a righteous nation; and destroyeth the nations of the wicked.
"He ruleth high in the heavens, for it is His throne, and the earth is His footstool,
"And He loveth those who will have Him to be their God."

Response by the Congregation: 1 Nephi 5: 121, 122.

"Behold, the Lord esteemeth all flesh in one.
"He that is righteous is favored of God."

Minister: 2 Nephi 6: 41.

"O, the greatness and the justice of Our God! For He executeth all His words, and they have gone forth out of His mouth, and his law must be fulfilled."

(S) Hymn: "Once More We Come Before Our God," N. S. H., 75; S. H., 29.

(S) Prayer: A prayer of confession for past failures, and of petition for light and illumination.

The Scriptures: Alma 21: 64-71.

Hymn: "Unmoved by Fear," N. S. H., 21; S. H., 4, verses 1 and 2.

Meditation: "We are to be judged."

The person who is engaged in the building of the kingdom of God and his own character, likes to know how well he is succeeding. He wants a judgment that is true, and will not err, an infallible evaluation of his work. He is not content to wait until the last great day to know this; he wants to be sure that the work he is now doing is fit for the kingdom of God. Such a man invites Eternal Judgment all the time, and welcomes the voice of God when it comes into his life.

The kingdom builder also desires that the finish of his work shall receive the approval of Divinity—for the sake of the work—so he welcomes the last great day of Judgment also.

He who neglects his work, who is indolent in his service to God, who is impatient with his fellow men, has no fellowship with Kingdom-of-God men. The last great day of judgment will find him in distress of mind, realizing his wasted opportunities, feeling he has no power to abide in the presence of God—having created for himself "outer darkness."

Hymn: "I Fear But That I May Not Gain," N. S. H., 21; S. H., 4, verse 3.

(S) Commission: Acts 17: 31; Mormon 3: 22; Matthew 7: 2, 3.

"He hath appointed a day in which He will judge the world in righteousness by him whom he hath ordained; and hath given assurance of this unto all men, in that he hath raised him from the dead. And ye must stand before the judgment seat of Christ to be judged according to your works; and if it so be that ye are righteous, then are ye blessed with your fathers who have gone before you. Judge not unrighteously, that ye be not judged. But judge righteous judgment. For, with what judgment ye judge ye shall be judged; and with what measure ye mete, it shall be measured to you again."

(S) Hymn: "Redeemer of Israel," N. S. H., 190; S. H., 158, verses 1 and 4.

(S) Benediction: 2 Corinthians 13: 14.

Picture: Michelangelo, "The Judgment." (If this picture is used it should be interpreted during the preworship service

www.LatterDayTruth.org

so that an appreciation and understanding of it will be developed.)

FIFTH SUNDAY, JULY 30

Theme: "Be Ye Merciful."

Instrumental Prelude: "God Is Love," N. S. H., 127.

Call to Worship: Micah 6: 1, 2.

"Hear ye now what the Lord saith; Arise, contend thou before the mountains, and let the hills hear thy voice. Hear ye, O mountains, the Lord's controversy, and ye strong foundations of the earth; for the Lord hath a controversy with his people, and he will plead with Israel."

Response: Psalms 25: 11; 27: 11.

"For thy name's sake, O Lord, pardon mine iniquity; for it is great. Teach me thy way, O Lord."

Leader: Micah 6: 8.

"He hath showed thee, O man, what is good; and what doth the Lord require of thee, but to do justly, and to love mercy, and to walk humbly with thy God?"

(S) Hymn: "My God, How Wonderful Thou Art!" N. S. H., 133; S. H., 111.

(S) Prayer: A petition that God will make known unto us his will concerning our lives.

Scriptural Meditation: Alma 19: 87, 93-107.

Hymn: "There's a Wideness in God's Mercy," N. S. H., 132, verses 1 and 2.

Scripture Meditation: Luke 6: 32-38.

"And as ye would that men should do to you, do ye also to them likewise. For if ye love them only who love you, what reward have you? For sinners also do even the same. And if ye lend to them of whom ye hope to receive, what reward have you? for sinners also lend to sinners, to receive as much again. But love ye your enemies, and do good, and lend, hoping for nothing again; and your reward shall be great; and ye shall be the children of the Highest; for he is kind unto the unthankful, and to the evil. Judge not, and ye shall not be judged; condemn not, and ye shall not be condemned; forgive, and ye shall be forgiven. Give, and it shall be given unto you; good measure, pressed down, and shaken together, and running over, shall men give into your bosom. For with the same measure that ye mete withal, it shall be measured to you again. Be ye therefore merciful, as your Father also is merciful."

(S) Hymn: N. S. H., 132, verses 3 and 4.

(S) Commission: Alma 19: 78.

"Therefore, my son, see that ye are merciful unto your brethren; deal justly, judge righteously, and do good continually; and if ye do all these things, then shall ye receive your reward."

(S) Prayer by Congregation: Psalm 19: 14.

"Let the words of my mouth, and the meditation of my heart, be acceptable in thy sight, O Lord, my strength, and my redeemer."

Picture: Hofmann, "Christ Healing the Sick."

(Note: N. S. H. means the new Saints' Hymnal. S. H. means the Saints' Hymnal, old edition. Z. P. means Zion's Praises. Scripture readings have been adapted from selections especially for use in these programs.)

The Children's Division

FOURTH SUNDAY, JULY 23

Theme: "Inasmuch as ye have done it unto one of the least of these my brethren, ye have done it unto me." (Matthew 25: 40.)

Prelude: "Nearer My God to Thee," new Saints' Hymnal, 317. (Played with chime effect.)

Call to Worship: "I heard the voice of the Lord, saying, Whom shall I send, and who will go for us? Then said I, Here am I; send me." (Isaiah 6: 8.)

Hymn: "Send Me Forth, O Blessed Master," Zion's Praises, 166; new Saints' Hymnal, 214.

Prayer.

Scripture: Matthew 25: 34-40.

Hymn: "We'll Scatter Good Seed," Zion's Praises, 115; new Saints' Hymnal, 220.

Sermon Talk: Can you remember when you were small you wondered how people could give gifts to God and Jesus or do anything for them, since they are not here? Your parents or teacher told you that the only way you could help God and Jesus was by helping God's children. Jesus said that when we do anything to help others, we are doing it for him. We must not think that only the big things count. Jesus said if anyone gives a cup of cold water in his name, that the gift will be rewarded. (Matthew 10: 42, Mark 9: 41.) Let us remember this, and whenever we have an opportunity to help somebody or help in the church, no matter how small the task may be, let us do it willingly and gladly.

Story: "The Standard of a Man," Stepping Stones, February 15, 1931, or "The Boy Who Gave a Cup of Cold Water," page 128, Knights of Service, by Emerson O. Bradshaw.

Hymn: "Cast Thy Bread Upon the Waters," new Saints' Hymnal, 346, or "Help Somebody Today," found in A Junior Hymnal, by J. E. Sturgis and W. S. Martin; also in Eternal Praise, by Marion Lawrence and E. O. Excell, and other songbooks.

Story: "Where Love Is, There God Is," page 157, Knights of Service, by Emerson O. Bradshaw; also page 156, Ethics for Children, by Ella Lyman Cabot, or "The Vision of Sir Launfal," page 15, Junior Quarterly, The Junior and His Bible, April, May, June, 1931, by Myrtle A. Weber; "The Legend of Saint Christopher," page 41, Junior Quarterly, The Junior and His Bible, April, May, June, 1931, by Myrtle A. Weber.

Closing Hymn: "I Love to Scatter Sunshine," Zion's Praises, 136.

Benediction.

FIFTH SUNDAY, JULY 30

Theme: "God will reward every one according to his works."

Prelude: "Great and Marvelous Are Thy Works," Zion's Praises, 110; new Saints' Hymnal, 123.

Call to Worship: "Great and marvelous are thy works, Lord God Almighty; just and true are thy ways, thou king of saints." (Revelation 15: 3b.)

Hymn: "Great and Marvelous Are Thy Works," Zion's Praises, 110; new Saints' Hymnal, 123.

Prayer.

Scripture: 1 Corinthians 3: 8, Doctrine and Covenants 59: 5b, 2 Timothy 4: 8.

Hymn: "Gather the Reapers Home," Zion's Praises, 101.

Sermon Talk: The Bible tells us God will judge us at the last day and that everyone will be judged according to his works (Revelation 20: 12, 13) and rewarded according to his works. (Matthew 16: 27.) Paul says that God is a righteous Judge (2 Timothy 4: 8). There is one thing we can be sure of and that is that God is just. Whether we are rewarded or punished will depend on how we live in this life.

Story: "The Measuring Rod," the Departments' Journal, November, 1929, bottom of page 10.

Special Musical Number: Hymn: "Onward to Zion," new Saints' Hymnal, 436, or instrumental number by a junior.

Story: The parable of the talents, (Matthew 25: 14-28), or Dramatization: The parable of the talents, (Matthew 25: 14-28). This may be arranged by the juniors, using their own words, or given as it appears in Bible Plays and How to Produce Them, by Mary Ellen Whitney, This book is available at some public libraries. In the Pilgrim Elementary Teacher, February, 1932, there is a dramatization, The Parable of the Talents. It is not the Bible story, but a practical application of it.

Closing Hymn: "Earnest Workers for the Master," Zion's Praises, 99.

Benediction: This may be given by the juniors, using the words of, "May We Who Know the Joyful Sound," new Saints' Hymnal, 98. (Use first verse, omitting last line.)

www.LatterDayTruth.org

WITH THE CHURCH ON THE CONTINENT

(Continued from page 778.)

particularly spiced his share of the conversation with coruscating and scarifying profanity. But it was very good just the same to hear some one say something (no matter what or how), which was homelike. The conversation was on the only topic which seems to have been popular since 1929, the depression and bewilderment as to how such a thing could happen. I could not help them and we were apparently comfortable only in the thought that our ignorance was mutual.

ONCE AGAIN on terra firma, this time German soil, we traveled with rapidity and comfort over a fine track towards Berlin. At 8.30 p. m., we pulled into the bahnhof (station or depot) at Berlin and saw Brother C. F. Greene looking so intently for me, that when I stood before him he did not see me until I said, "Hello! Brother Greene, you're looking for me?" He was so excited that he said, "Ja!" This is German for "Yes sir!" There was a group of German Saints on the platform who gave me a kindly welcome and gathered up my bags we boarded a street car and were soon at our lodgings for the night.

The work in Germany has grown amazingly since the days when the late C. C. Joenke and A. J. Becker made their initial efforts several years before the war, followed by the labors of Peter Anderson, H. N. Hansen, A. Kippe, C. F. Greene, L. Hoisington, J. Smolney, and others. Brother J. Stebel is in Poland and Czecho-Slovakia. We now have organized branches in Berlin, Hannover, Gros Rächen and Gros Wärtemberg; and missions in Breslau, Augsburg, Offenbach, Plauen, Einbach, Braunschweig, Elmshorn, and Tilsit. Except the two last named, I visited all of these places. While in Gros Wartemberg, Brother John Stebel and several of the Saints from Poland visited and worshiped with us. Brethren Greene and Smolney have done splendid work, under conditions not at all easy. The local men of the several places are deserving of the warmest praise for their fidelity in holding the work together, and I was very favorably impressed by their general ability and loyalty to the cause. In all of the churches the services usually consist of a church school and preaching, sacrament service the first Sunday of each month, Bible study in the midweek service. In Berlin we have a membership of about 65; Hannover, Rächen and Wärtemberg each have a membership of 125. At Rächen we have a nice church building, all other places meet either in halls, schools or the homes of the members.

TO SYSTEMATIZE ONE'S THOUGHTS and impressions of Germany after four or five weeks visit and traveling extensively, is not easy, and we must speak with considerable reserve. But one does get very definite impressions and I venture to state a few. The political situation is very confused. (This was written in rough draft in December, 1932.) The recent election, November 6, does not seem to have clarified it. This was the second election in six months. Von Papen is out, and at present Hindenburg is trying to get Hitler to form a party in the Reichstag. The only major party which had gained in that election was the Communist, the Nazis (Hitler's party) lost 35 seats but was still the strongest of the political groups. Of course since this was written the "Nazis" are in control and apparently have succeeded in establishing the dictatorship which is similar to that of Mussolini, of Italy. Economically, conditions are depressing. Out of a population of 65,000,000, from 5,000,000 to 7,000,000 are out of work. These are cared for by the state as follows: unmarried men and women receive 9 marks a week, which is about two dollars. Married couples receive 12 marks and 3 for each child. The people are showing signs of severe strain and under-nourishment. One feels in the air the ominous quiet and nervous expectation of coming storm. This since has been more or less realized with the developments of Hitlerism, and what the end will be no one can safely prognosticate. As well as possible I have conversed with many people representing different grades of thought and find that all seem to agree upon one thing and that is, the prevailing uncertainty.

One gentleman whom I met on the train traveling between Leipsig and Augsburg, he was going to Rome and thence to Spain, impressed me very deeply. He had been an officer in the German army during the war and belonged to an aristocratic group in Berlin. Now he was a journalist for a European paper and was well versed in European conditions. He was a linguist and spoke eight different languages, and if he was as good in the others as in English and German he was very good. Our conversation began when he heard me speaking to Brother Greene, and the American election being "the news" of the day, he was interested in prohibition. Like most people I have met and talked with abroad, he did not have much respect for America's "noble experiment" and seemed to have the opinion that America was overrun with corrupt politicians, bootleggers, racketeers and gunmen; that "speakeasies" were in every street and "alcoholic poisoning" the chief cause of casualties. The general feeling seems to be that the American people have been insincere about the whole business of legislating the nation into sobriety. These opinions are gathered from the tourists and the sensational newspapers and above all, from the films emanating from Hollywood. It is not easy to get the public to listen patiently to the other side of the question when these sinister influences are at work forming the popular ideas. "Beer, glorious beer," seems to be the reason (in European thought) why Roosevelt has been elected to the presidential chair.

Well, it was my turn after a while, and I made use of it by asking, "What about Germany? What of the future of this great country and people?" Very brilliantly and with some cynicism he summarized the situation. He denounced the Versailles Treaty. He had been one of Germany's attaches to that conference. His conclusion was that Wilson and Lloyd George were to be blamed for allowing Clemenceau to dictate a "peace of revenge." Wilson's idealism with regard to "self-determination" had expatriated four and half millions of German people in different lands which were now separated from Germany and he was emphatic about the evils which must come from giving the strip of land called the "Polish Corridor" to Poland. Next he condemned the war debts which would take from Germany all that she could produce for sixty-six years. The imposition of all the guilt for the late war upon Germany was an intolerable injustice and with not a little heat he said, "That lie must be removed." Further, he stated that all the European nations were equally guilty and particularly the late King Edward of Britain, whose entente cordiale had practically separated Germany from Europe. Jealously because of Germany's economic development and her industrial greatness was the root cause of the war. The presentation of the "other side" was impressive and illuminating. He blamed the United States for entering the war and that Germany's mistake was in not invading Belgium and in not having borrowed ten or fifteen millions of dollars from the United States at the beginning of the war. He did not believe it a mistake to sink the "Lusitania," because she was carrying ammunitions. I asked, "What of the future? What about Germany's attitude towards disarmament?" His opinion was that Germany must have an army and equipment to protect herself against her enemies, which were being created by France. Germany feels the utter hopelessness of the present which, as he called attention to, is shown in the prevalence of suicide. (Hitler in his speech gave the number since 1918 as 224,000.) His impressive statement was this: "The Germans are a very patient people, but they are also an emotional people and when they see that there is no relief to be had they will jump to destruction and drag as many of their enemies with them as they can." I asked, "How?" "By joining hands with the Russian Soviets," was the reply.

This may account for Hitler's program

www.LatterDayTruth.org

against the Communists and Trade Unionism and the Jews. I left him when Augsburg, the city famous because of Luther, was reached, but I have not forgotten the impression his speech made on me. He will spend the winter in Spain and doubtless have some interesting observations on the transition of that country from an almost mediæval monarchy to a modern democracy.

A WORD ABOUT COMMUNISM may not be amiss especially in the light of what is happening in so many places today. Just a few weeks before I left America I had the pleasure of listening to Doctor Sherwood Eddy who gave the first public statement on his return to America from a two-year tour through Europe and the Orient including China and Japan, to the University faculty in Berkeley. My own observations brought Doctor Eddy's speech very forcibly to my mind. Germany lies west of Russia and China to the east. Emanating from Moscow there is a very strong and controlling propaganda of Communism and in China; according to S. S. Lautenschlager, in the Christian Century for October 5, 1932, there is a Communist party in China calling itself the "Provisional Government Chinese Soviet Republic" ruling over five provinces aggregating 60,000 square miles. Four armies do its bidding and all together they total about 150,000 soldiers. The Chinese Soviet aims at consolidating these five provinces, which are half north and half south of the River Yangtze, thus creating a Soviet empire of 100,000,000. The second aim is the control of western provinces thus connecting with Sovietized Mongolia and Moscow. Besides this, the news shows that in Japan the Communists are gaining there. Here is matter for serious thought, especially in view of the lack of leadership and apparent breakdown of the capitalistic system. There is no power which can neutralize this tendency, but the spirit and ethic of Jesus Christ. And it was very encouraging to see the way the German people eagerly accept the gospel as proclaimed in the New Testament. The new movement in Protestantism, Barthianism, is a revolt against the modern attempts to objectivate the gospel in the various so-called forms of "socialized religion," and they are concerned with man's inner consciousness of God and adjusting themselves to His will.

GERMANY in common with all other countries is asking for justice; relief must come from some source, and no country can isolate itself secure in its own resources, allowing others "to stew in their own juice." The hope that the coming World Economic Conference may provide some way out of the present tangle and establish a foundation of mutuality is very fervid. The recent conversations between M. Herriott, Bennett, MacDonald and Roosevelt give promise that such hope may not be in vain.

Time and space will not permit me to say anything of the many interesting features which I richly enjoyed in the many towns during my stay in Germany. In Breslau I passed a bust of Schleiermacher, one of the many great theologians Germany has given to the world. In Augsburg, I was in a city redolent with the memories of Martin Luther, in Frankfurt-on-Main, the home of Goethe, and I went into the rooms where he lived and worked, sitting at the desk on which it was said he had written almost the whole of Faust. In Leipsic I saw the great monument erected to commemorate the victory over Napoleon which had been dedicated just before the outbreak of the World War by the ex-Kaiser. What a fountain and source of cultural value Germany is! In spite of everything, civilization owes to her an unpayable debt of gratitude.

FROM GERMANY I went to Holland and was met in Rotterdam by Brother Veenstra and a group of brethren who took me to the meetinghouse which was filled with Saints and friends who had gathered from Vriesland as well as Rotterdam. A very cordial welcome was given me and I enjoyed the spirit of the work in the services which were held there. In Rotterdam we have a congregation of about 140. Brother and Sister Veenstra supported by the local brothers and sisters have done a very excellent work and it is with regret we have to bid them adieu as they leave for their home in America. Brother Arie Mosterdyk, however, with his fellow workers, will carry on in the meantime. Here again we found that the country was under the paralyzing influence of the universal depression and the unemployed were in the same situation as in other countries. Once again we found that the state was caring for the people in a very efficient manner. It is tragedy that so many young men and of middle life are unemployed and have been for some years. Some, we were told, have not worked since leaving school. A generation wasted because of the prevailing economic freeze.

In Rotterdam there is a population of six hundred thousand. It is estimated there are 45,000 registered unemployed and twenty thousand unlisted. Married people receive 12 guilders per week and for each child 1 guilder, a guilder equalling about 40 American cents. The school children of the unemployed receive a free meal at noon and three times a year clothing for them. The needs in clothing and bedding for the unemployed also are supplied by the government. Sick people have medical attention supplied, also nursing in the home and help. Taxes are regulated according to the size of the family and averages 100 guilders per 1,800 guilders of income. The people of Holland are very kind and hospitable; they are thrifty and clean in their homes. The country is famous for its natural beauty and for the heroic struggle which the people have made against the natural handicaps confronting them. In one of the streets on our way to Schiedam we were permitted to enter the little church where the pilgrim fathers had worshiped and to stand in the pulpit from which Robinson had preached. Every flag was a tombstone and the place was a mausoleum of many sacred dead. We trod reverently and lightly over the dust of many generations and inwardly thanked God for their life and work.

Before leaving Holland we were privileged to attend a baptismal service, and Brother Veenstra inducted eleven souls into the church. Besides the congregation of about one hundred and forty in Rotterdam of which little flock Brother Arie Mosterdyk is pastor, we have a mission in Vriesland, which is about two hundred miles north from Rotterdam. Here is an agricultural and dairying population of about five thousand, and we have a congregation of about fifty under the care of Brother DeJong. We were very glad to have a large auto bus bring almost the entire congregation and their friends to the week-end services during my visit.

We left Holland with a high regard for the Saints and friends whom we had met. Turning towards England the train took me through Belgium and northern France. We passed through many places with names which the war had made familiar, including Brussels, Antwerp and Mons. We remembered the anxious time when the thin line of the British troops was swept back before the tidal wave of the invaders and in the ratio of eighty to one, it seemed that it was humanly impossible to stop them. The train moved swiftly along the course which these warring hosts had struggled over, but now there was little evidence of that fiery baptism, as the westerning sun in this late autumn day lit up the foliage in all the glories of Nature's coming sleep. The awful hiatus in civilization Nature graciously covers with virgin snows or waving harvests.

OF FRANCE there is nothing to report as to church activities. I was informed that 95 per cent are nominally Roman Catholic. We do not have any nucleus, not even a member, so far as I know. The few days I spent in Paris were enjoyed and the historical epochs seem to be imprinted at every nook and corner. There are noble and beautiful specimens of architecture, and it is easy to believe that Paris is indeed the Queen of Cities.

A visit to the Louvre with its priceless treasures in art was all too short, a period of quiet meditation and worship in the church of the Madeleine was restful, a rapid tour through the cathedral of Notre Dame, a view of Saint Gervais where the shell fired on Good Friday from a distance of seventy-five miles filled the world with consternation and killed over seventy of the worshipers, and the visit to the Invalides where we looked upon all that is left of the glory that once was Napoleon's, and a visit to the Place de la Concorde, where we considered the horrors of the Revolution, all stirred one's soul with many memories. The crossing from Calais to Dover was well up to its reputation though fortunately I was among the few escaping the miseries of seasickness.

www.LatterDayTruth.org

ABOUT A WEEK I spent in London and Enfield among the Saints and friends before leaving for the north for Christmas and New Years with my relatives and friends. So far the winter was very mild and not a bit like an English Christmas. London was also minus the customary fog at this season. But, if I flattered myself that I was to escape the rigors of winter, I had a rude awakening. But of this, I must wait for another season to write.

MANCHESTER, ENGLAND, May 22, 1933.

WARN OUR YOUTH!

By Elmer A. Kaler, Ph. N.

IT IS INDEED worthy of note to call to the attention of all Latter Day Saints of the Word of Wisdom Centenary 1833-1933. More than ever the warning given to our people in that section of the Doctrine and Covenants to be emphasized in our day and time.

To prove the great wisdom of the Almighty in foreseeing the one hundred years to our times as well as the time when the section was given, let me quote one particular part of this word of wisdom: Doctrine and Covenants, section 86: "Behold verily thus saith the Lord unto you, in consequence of the evils and designs which do and will exist in the hearts of conspiring men in the last days, I have warned you, and forewarn you . . . And again tobacco is not for the body, neither for the belly, and is not good for man, . . . etc."

On a recent Sunday evening I visited the special missionary service of one of the large and prominent protestant churches. The speaker of the hour was a well known foreign missionary. He called particular attention to the insidious and evil manner in which certain American cigarette manufacturers were advertizing the use of cigarettes in foreign lands. In China they teach the Chinese parents that if the children are given a cigarette or two a day they will not have to buy them so much food because of lessened appetites. In a prominent paper published in a South American country appeared in full colors the illustration of the Lord's Supper, with a cigarette in each person's mouth. Also another illustration was published of the crucifixion, Christ hanging in agony on the cross, in the background was Judas, with the saying, "If I had only had ....cigarette I would not have done this!"

"Because of the designs and evils of men!" How equally insidious is present day American Tobacco Company's advertising of cigarettes and etc., in the U. S. A. I have before me now in one of the "quality" magazines of America a full page in colors of a very attractive young lady with a cigarette; the statement above says, "mildness and character ..... cigarettes." All manner of sly and crafty references to all walks of American professional life is seen before your eyes: doctors, nurses, students, business executives as well as the skilled craftsmen in trades. On billboards, in cars and trains, in newspapers, and all kinds of illustrated weekly and monthly magazines, widely distributed and read. Slogans of every kind and description, to catch the eye and deceive our youth and womanhood. "Reach for a ..... instead of sweet," then you don't get overweight, "They are kind to your throat ....," "I am graduated to ....," "I'd walk a mile for a ....."

Though certain physicians may have endorsed certain features regarding some certain tobacco company's cigarettes they still have not given any real endorsement to tobacco itself. Let me give you some of the honest and unbiased opinions by our leading physicians regarding the use of cigarettes and tobacco.

Doctor Elmer Lee, M. D., editor of one of our leading health monthlies, says, "Why do youth yield to the smoking habit? At the time they begin to toy with the cigarette they do not suspect where it will lead them. They are innocent of its death clutch that is masked by what is supposed to be the fun and bravery of the smoke." "Women and girls play with the cigarette . . . the mark of fashion in an outward effort to appear of some greater importance than is justified . . . only to fall slave to the tobacco and a miserable victim to a nerve destroying narcotic."

It is well described by one doctor as "The Deadly Cig," a young man, broken in health, came into a doctor's office one day. Inquiry revealed that he smoked between forty and fifty cigarettes every day. After the physician had told him the real condition his body was in, the frightened boy said, "G-give me something that will help me overcome my craving for the devilish things, for God's sake do, doctor! I can't stop alone, they are a complete master of me." The kindly physician told him there was nothing in medicine that would overcome that craving, unless he used will power. The tyrant nicotine "will kill you" as it has done countless others. He could not quit—and so six months later the Deadly Cig claimed another victim. One says, "I do not smoke, it has no effect in my life," but it does threaten every Latter Day Saint. Warn your youth of the evil designs of men.

Learned medical and scientific men are agreed that if the feminine sex continues its present indulgence in cigarettes and tobacco it will not be many years before women will be dropping dead—victims of apoplexy and heart disease—as is common among men tobacco users of today. Medical men are bending every effort to reduce the death rate of cancer and tuberculosis and other deadly diseases, but Lady Nicotine will soon be helping the grim reaper to make up any loss through our scientific efforts in the long white pills of American manufacturing.

"Not a cough in a carload," says a familiar ad, but in one package of these products enough poison can be extracted and if taken internally it would kill a human quickly. Chemistry has proved that nicotine is as deadly in its way as prussic acid.

It is to the shame of American artists who have painted the beautiful American girls that adorn the prominent ads of cigarette publicity, that the use of the Deadly Cig has increased many times the past six years. Clever advertising which has inveigled many into thinking it is the smart thing to do. I do not have to dwell at length in proving these facts, just look around you every day; on the streets in public places and in public conveyances, everywhere and anytime. The churches seem to be the only places exempt, and how they light 'em up as soon as services are over.

This warning may not be timely for Latter Day Saint boys and girls so particularly; you may be the judge among your own boys and girls. Spread the seed wherever it is needed. I have three boys, under ten years of age and now it is one of our biggest problems as parents in this early stage of life already, the Deadly Cig. On this one hundredth centenary of the word of wisdom to us as a people, WARN OUR YOUTH!

"We are learning that to think the best of our fellow travelers, to find some good in everything, to square our daily living by the Golden Rule, is not to be a 'door-mat' or a 'goody-goody,' but a straightforward, right-doing man or woman on the direct road to the goal of happiness."

"God's way for us is the way of peace, joy, and success—the ideal way that we have always longed for. If we continue in this way we are sure to abide in all good. When we know what is God's will for us, and try to do that will, we are certain to find an easy way to fulfill it."

www.LatterDayTruth.org

"And there are none that doeth good except those who are ready to receive the fullness of my gospel, which I have sent forth unto this generation. Wherefore, I have called upon the weak things of the world, those who are unlearned and despised, to thresh the nations by the power of my Spirit; . . . And the poor and the meek shall have the gospel preached unto them, and they shall be looking for the time of my coming, for it is nigh at hand; and they shall learn the parable of the fig tree; for even now already summer is nigh, and I have sent forth the fullness of my gospel by the hand of my servant Joseph; and in weakness have I blessed him, and I have given unto him the keys of the mystery of those things which have been sealed, even things which were from the foundation of the world, and the things which shall come from this time until the time of my coming."—Doctrine and Covenants 34: 3, 4.

This light that was to break forth among them that were in spiritual darkness was to be the fullness of the gospel of Christ, that John and Daniel said was to come forth at the end of the one thousand two hundred and sixty years, according to Revelation 12: 6, 14, and Daniel 7: 25. Amos says:

"Behold, the days come, saith the Lord God, that I will send a famine in the land, not a famine of bread, nor a thirst for water, but of hearing the words of the Lord: And they shall wander from sea to sea, and from the north even to the east, they shall run to and fro to seek the word of the Lord, and shall not find it."—Amos 8: 11, 12.

This looks very much like an apostasy, as Jesus said to the scribes and Pharisees:

"Thus have ye made the commandment of God of none effect by your traditions. . . . This people draw nigh unto me with their mouth, and honoreth me with their lips; but their heart is far from me. But in vain do they worship me, teaching the doctrines and commandments of men."—Matthew 15: 6-9.

ROGER WILLIAMS, the founder of the Baptist Church in America, said: "There can be no recovery out of that apostasy till Christ shall send forth new apostles to plant churches anew."—Presidency and Priesthood, pages 109, 110.

John Wesley, the founder of Methodism, said in his seventy-first sermon, found in volume 2 of his book of sermons:

"The times that we have reason to believe are at hand—if they are not already begun—are what many pious men have termed the time of the Latter-day Glory, meaning the time wherein God would gloriously display his power and love in the fulfillment of the promise that 'the knowledge of the Lord shall cover the earth as the waters cover the sea.' The generality of Christians can see no signs of the glorious day that is approaching; but how is this to be accounted for? How is it that men who can now 'discern the face of the sky,' who are not only great philosophers but great divines, as eminent as ever the Sadducees or Pharisees were, do not discern the signs of the glorious times, which if not begun, are nigh, even at the door? And yet the wise men of the world, men of learning and renown, can not understand what we mean by talking of an extraordinary work of God. They can not discern the signs of these times. They see no signs at all of God's arising to maintain his own cause, and set up his kingdom over all the earth."

A revelation given through Joseph Smith in November, 1831, found in Doctrine and Covenants 1: 3, 4, 6, as follows:

"Wherefore the voice of the Lord is unto the ends of the earth, that all that will hear may hear; prepare ye, prepare ye for that which is to come, for the Lord is nigh; and the anger of the Lord is kindled, and his sword is bathed in heaven, and it shall fall upon the inhabitants of the earth; and the arm of the Lord shall be revealed; and the day cometh that they who will not hear the voice of the Lord, neither the voice of his servants, neither give heed to the words of the prophets and apostles, shall be cut off from among the people; . . . wherefore I, the Lord, knowing the calamity which should come upon the inhabitants of the earth, called upon my servant Joseph Smith, jr., and spake unto him from heaven, and gave him commandments, and also gave commandments to others, that they should proclaim these things unto the world; . . . I, the Lord . . . willeth that all men shall know that the day speedily cometh, the hour is not yet (1831), but is nigh at hand, when peace shall be taken from the earth, and the Devil shall have power over his own dominion; and also the Lord shall have power over his Saints, and shall reign in their midst, and shall come down in judgment upon Idumea, or the world."

Because the Jews rejected Christ and his message, he said: "The kingdom of God shall be taken from you, and given to a nation bringing forth the fruits thereof."—Matthew 21: 43.

Moses said: "The Lord shall scatter thee among all people, from the one end of the earth even unto the other."—Deuteronomy 28: 64.

This scattering came in the year 70 A. D., when Titus, the Roman general captured Jerusalem and 1,100,000 perished in the siege, besides 101,700 prisoners were taken, the whole nation destroyed and the people were scattered in all the world, according to prophecy. Not only were the Jews scattered, but the land was made barren, no rain fell on the land, as Zechariah says:

"I scattered them with a whirlwind among all nations whom they knew not. Thus the land was desolate after them, that no man passed through nor returned; for they laid the pleasant land desolate."—Zechariah 7: 14.

This country was a barren waste until the year 1853, when the former and latter rains were restored to the country. Joel has something to say regarding this event:

"Be glad then, ye children of Zion, and rejoice in the Lord your God: for he hath given you the former rain moderately, and he will cause to come down for you the rain, the former rain, and the latter rain in the first month."—Joel 2: 23.

Israel is to remain in their scattered condition and the land is to be trodden down of the Gentiles until the time of the Gentiles be come in. (Luke 21: 23, Inspired Version.)

Prior to the land becoming a fertile country again, Ezekiel says a book is to come forth, it is to be a record of the tribe of Joseph, for all the house of Israel his companions. (Ezekiel 37: 15-19.) The Psalmist having this same knowledge writes:

"Truth shall spring out of the earth; righteousness shall look down from heaven. Yea, the Lord shall give that which is good; and our land [Palestine] shall yield her increase."—Psalm 85: 11, 12.

Jesus says: "Sanctify them through thy truth, thy word is truth." (John 17: 17.) By this we understand that sometime "God's truth" is to come from the ground, it is to be a record of the tribe of Joseph, and after this takes place the land of Palestine will yield her increase, or as Isaiah says, "That Lebanon shall be turned into a fruitful field, and the fruitful field shall be esteemed as a forest." (Isaiah 29: 17.)

Soon after this shall the "Lord set his hand again the second time to recover the remnant of his people. . . . And he shall set us an ensign for the nations, and shall assemble the outcasts of Israel, and gather together the dispersed of Judah from the four corners of the earth."—Isaiah 11: 11, 12.

(To be continued.)

(Note to the reader: This is the second installment of this article of tract length. Each installment will fill a page until the tract is completed. Readers may cut out the pages and bind them together for reference or for lending.)

www.LatterDayTruth.org

Prayer and Testimony

Divine Partnership

"Prayer is indispensable in our daily life in striving to discover the purpose of the universe and in our desire to live in accordance with that purpose.

"Without God man cannot develop his full strength. Most of the lasting accomplishments of the world have been achieved by men who have taken God into partnership and have received inspiration and strength through prayer and meditation."—Clement M. Biddle.

Appreciates Blessings of Church

By Luther Troyer

I write this testimony of the Lord's blessings to me because I get much comfort from the testimonies I read in the Herald, and feel that if my testimony can be of benefit to others, it is my duty to give it.

I was baptized when eight years old, but did not realize what the gospel was. When I was about fourteen years old, I acted very childish and took offense at the mistake of an elder in the branch; I quit going to church.

At the age of seventeen I entered the Navy and forgot all about the church. I took up many worldly habits, one of these being the tobacco habit. Several times I tried to quit smoking after I realized the expense of it, but I could not.

When I was twenty years old, I decided that I would go to church, but I did not intend to try to live my religion. And so I ventured over to the Long Beach Branch one day and was amazed at the unity and friendliness that I found there. The first time I went to a young people's meeting, I found a spirit there which I did not know existed. As a result I began to read the Bible and I found many things there so convincing that I had to believe them. The wonderful sermons that I heard every time I attended church, helped a great deal, too.

I began to take more and more interest in the church, and I asked the Lord to help me quit the tobacco habit. My prayer was answered to the extent that I was able to cease smoking just a few months after I started going to church.

I shall never forget the first sacrament service I attended. The Lord's Spirit was present and I could feel it strongly. Since that time, with His help, I have been able to quit other habits I had formed; but I know that I have many faults which I must overcome before I shall be worthy to live in Zion.

Many times my prayers have been answered. I have been blessed exceedingly. One time we were at sea many miles and I retired to pray. I felt the Spirit of the Lord come down and rest upon me, and it gave me encouragement to continue striving to save myself.

At another time I felt that my yoke was so heavy I could carry it no longer, and that I could not endure the temptations which beset me. I knew that I should not feel like that, but should be happy for the opportunity to carry my part of the load, so I went to the Lord and asked him to help me see these things as I should. Within twenty-four hours I felt stronger in the gospel than ever before, and I have continued to feel that way ever since.

Last Sunday, May 28, I had duty aboard ship and was disappointed because I did not get to attend the young people's prayer meeting at Long Beach. I went to the Lord in prayer at the same time they had their meeting, and felt his Spirit of peace and happiness rest upon me. It remained all day.

I know that the Lord will be with us under any condition if we try to obey his commandments, and I ask an interest in your prayers that I may be faithful.

U. S. S. Tennessee, LONG BEACH, CALIFORNIA.

The Everlasting Promise

By Helena Stark

As I lay awake one night, the day and age in which we are living were in my thoughts. I thought of the distress of nations and of the conditions that exist among us who have been called to be Saints, and I wondered how long it would be before the clouds would be lifted and Zion would be purified. As I pondered over these things I was prompted to arise and write to the Herald a poem which was given to me by Sister Clemens when we lived on Enoch Hill in Independence.

The words of this poem give much comfort and strong assurance that God will come to the rescue of his people in their distress, those who seek to be faithful to the covenant they have made with him. I wish to pass this message on to others.

This sister was troubled because of different things, and she walked out near our home in Independence. Since our house stood on a hill, she had a good view of Independence. There as she stood looking over the city and considering the conditions existing among the Saints, conditions which she felt should not be, the Spirit came to her, and the words of the poem which she wrote when she returned home.

The Everlasting Promise

One eve, as the sun was setting,
  And the world was going to rest,
I stood on a hill in Zion,
  And gazed at the gleaming west.
And I murmured, O Zion, beloved!
  Where are thy garments now?
So beautiful, woven in heaven,
  Where the crown that shall deck thy brow?

I thought of the strife and contention,
  Till my spirit was burdened with woe,
And I wondered if Zion in heaven
  Was like the one here below.
But no! That bright Zion above us,
  Is perfect, for the Master is there;
It's our pattern, to fashion our Zion,
  That God has bestowed on us here.

Then came his dear voice through the stillness,
  Afar from the blue misty hills,
O child! why so troubled in vision,
  Know you not, all shall be as God wills?
There shall be a beautiful Zion,
  Implanted on this earth below.
I have spoken, my word shall not fail you;
  Like the Zion above, it shall grow.

And it shall become pure and perfect,
  My Spirit shall rest like a flame,
To burn out all strife and contention,
  For Zion must be more than a name.

www.LatterDayTruth.org

Prayer and Testimony

Then, oh! the blest feeling of comfort
That surged o'er my sore burdened soul!
I knew that the Master had spoken,
And his name would return to Him there.

Then up, all ye Saints, to the battle!
Gird on your armor, "Be strong."
Conquer self, then we'll be victorious,
And we shall in Zion belong.
Equality is the crown of our Zion,
And love is her raiment so pure,
Whoever puts on these blessed garments,
Shall forever and ever endure.

OAK GROVE, MISSOURI.

Gospel Stands Test of Investigation

By Lawrence Willey

I officiated in a baptismal service, February 19, when six young people and one adult entered the kingdom. The ceremony was witnessed by a small group of Saints and friends of Miami, Florida, Branch who stood on the Atlantic seashore, and the confirmation at the home of Brother and Sister Fisher was attended by a pleasing degree of God's Holy Spirit.

I had greater reason to rejoice, I feel, than anyone else on this occasion, for the adult candidate was my companion, and among the other candidates were her sixteen-year-old daughter who is almost through high school, and my two grandsons, nine and eleven years old.

Sister Willey and I were married seven years ago. She came here a strong believer in Unity faith, and claimed healings under their direction.

Some time after coming here she began attending spiritualist meetings during the winter months. There are many factions of them here. She was caused to wonder at and finally to believe in the manifestations of what she thought was God's power until she put them to the test under my instruction and her never-tiring effort for the truth.

Up to this time she looked upon the Latter Day Saint Church as just another church. She respected all churches and cared for none; they did not come up to her expectations. Unity had failed, also Spiritualism. She had weighed them in the balance and found them wanting.

Her prayer was, "Father lead me." She finally began to read some of the Saints' books, and the more she read, the more she asked for. The questions that were put to me, caused me to scratch my head and dig deep in the Bible, Book of Mormon, and Doctrine and Covenants, but I was always able to satisfy her.

Many times I came home and found meals late, church books piled up around my wife, and a goodly number of questions ready for me. This went on for eighteen months. As she learned, she taught her daughter, and many times I found them in earnest conversation on church doctrine. I was not surprised when they offered themselves for baptism.

Now she is rejoicing in the gospel and says that we must obey the financial law also.

HIALEAH, FLORIDA, 133 E. Fifth Street.

Thankful He Is a Latter Day Saint

By D. W. Clark

I have many blessings for which to be thankful. I am grateful to the heavenly Father for permitting me to live in this great age of the world. It is marvelous just to think of the many inventions in machinery that this generation has produced, and the uses to which these things are put. But I am more thankful that I am a Latter Day Saint, a member of the church with which God is pleased and to which he speaks through his servant the Prophet.

I feel that I am living in one of the "gateways" of Zion, and that, too, affords me joy. I want all of you to pray for me that I may strive to live so as to help in the building of Zion. I want to be like a tree that is planted by the river which, when drouth comes, knows no thirst. I want to overcome my faults and be faithful to the little things that are given me to do.

MCKENZIE, ALABAMA, Route 2.

Corrects a Statement

By John Vigil

I wish to correct a statement that I made in the Herald some time ago, that I was the only elder in Durango from 1922 to 1930, and also to apologize to the elders who were here during that time. Although I presided over the branch all that time, except one year when Brother F. Moser was in charge, I should explain that Brother T. W. Caviness was ordained an elder in 1927, and elected to preside. But he had to go away from home, and I, being his assistant pastor, took his place. Brother Caviness was in Durango and near the town until 1929. In 1927 or 1928, Brother W. B. Farley came back to Durango, and has successfully presided over the branch from 1931, until the present time. The Saints love and respect him, and he loves and watches over his flock.

DURANGO, COLORADO, Box 895.

Request Prayers

Mrs. M. Scott, Maple City, Michigan, requests the prayers of the Saints in her own behalf. Some time ago she fell on the ice and is now in a very weakened condition. She has received many blessings from prayers and has great faith in this work.

Mr. and Mrs. E. J. Williams, Chilhowee, Missouri, requests the prayers in behalf of their son, Everett Williams, who is greatly afflicted. They have great faith in the church.

Sister Mildred E. Holmes, of Armada, Michigan, has been very ill since early spring. Though administration helped her several times, she grew worse on Decoration Day, and the doctors now want to take her to the tuberculosis sanatorium for a period of from eighteen months to two years, when she recovers strength enough to make the trip. She desires the prayers of the Saints that she may be healed and that she may not have to leave her home and three little children. She wishes to be strong enough to serve the church.

Sister Floyd Young, of Lebanon, Missouri, requests the prayers of the Saints for her baby who is suffering from convulsions. Brother and Sister Young have faith in the healing of God. Pray for the child that he may be healed.

www.LatterDayTruth.org

QUESTION TIME

Is there any difference between revelation and inspiration?

These terms are often used in different settings, though in some situations they might be used interchangeably. One of the differences, strictly speaking, would be that revelation is the making known of something not previously understood; while inspiration is the illumination or supernatural influence which enables one to receive the thing revealed. That which is revealed is also called a revelation, the word being employed in more than one sense.

Divine inspiration, it is understood, comes from God, as also does divine revelation. However, it is conceivable that one might be given a revelation by means of an angel or other method which would not involve any particular supernatural inspiration on the part of the one receiving it. It is also possible that a revelation might be given which would require divine inspiration to comprehend. Probably one would usually be "in the Spirit" when receiving a message from God, and would to that extent be inspired.

Please explain Matthew 11: 11, which says the "least in the kingdom of heaven" is greater than John the Baptist.

This text has been the subject of considerable wonderment, and wide differences of opinion have existed concerning it. Some hold that Jesus was "least" among them, and that he referred to himself as superior to John. It is true that he may have been considered among the least by some Jews, but the text does not say the one considered to be the least was greater than John. It specifically says, "he that is least." It reads as follows:

"Among them that are born of women there hath not risen a greater than John the Baptist: notwithstanding he that is least in the kingdom of heaven is greater than he."—Matthew 11: 11.

One commentator thinks Jesus referred to his apostles as greater preachers of the gospel than John. But it appears from the language recorded by Luke (7: 26-28), as well as the preceding verses of the text in Matthew, that Jesus referred to John's prophetic mission and office as distinguishing his greatness. There had never risen a greater prophet than John, yet Jesus declares that John was "much more than a prophet," for he was the "messenger" that should "prepare thy way before thee." Jesus here is quoting Malachi 3: 1, which refers to the second coming of Christ, not his first coming. This means that John was "much more" than a prophet, for he was the one who should come as an angel messenger to prepare for the Lord's second coming.

With the foregoing facts in mind, it appears that Jesus was pointing out the great majesty, power, and glory of those—even the least—who are in the divine kingdom, with special reference to the heavenly kingdom triumphant. It was another way of saying that the least of those who reach that celestial state are greater than the greatest prophet here on earth. This emphasized the importance of seeking first the heavenly kingdom, the greatness of which is reached in the celestial life. John himself became greater than any prophet, when he attained his angelic state.

Why does the Lord's prayer follow the King James Version, instead of the Inspired, in the Book of Mormon?

So far as I know, there is now no one living who can answer this inquiry with authority, as those involved in producing the work are not here to answer. However, the explanation which seems more reasonable to me than others suggested would be that an error must have crept into the text in some way. There are several ways in which it might have happened. The scribe who wrote the manuscript of the Book of Mormon was quite familiar with the King James Bible. At that time great reverence was felt for the exact wording of the Scriptures, and it could easily happen that one would record the language of a familiar text as he knew it to exist. One who has copied or recorded language knows how easy it is to write down an error in this way, because of what is indelibly written in the mind. The printer also claimed that he made some slight changes, but how many were corrected later, I do not know.

A. B. PHILLIPS.

www.LatterDayTruth.org

NEWS OF CHURCH AND HOME

Address all news and letters to Editors of the Herald, Box 237, Independence, Missouri. Correspondents are requested to make their letters brief. The Editors reserve the right, on account of space limitations, to shorten all letters as circumstances require.

Missionary Pair Visit New York

Enjoy a Week of Sight-seeing

Norwalk, Connecticut.—Mrs. Gunsolley and I had a wonderful week in the metropolis New York, last week, where I preached Sunday night, and we met with the Saints Wednesday night at their Brooklyn chapel. We were visiting Sister Anna Foy Thomas, who lived with us while she was a student at Graceland, and who is now a visiting nurse. We had the experience of getting lost in the subway, but did not feel that we had done so badly when we were told that people who have lived in New York all their lives do as much. We found our way out all right and were not sorry for the experience.

We attended a Sunday afternoon service in Riverside Church, the Rockefeller church whose pastor is Harry Emerson Fosdick, and enjoyed a program, "The Ministry of Music," in which the wonderful chimes were a part. It is a wonderful institution, but oh, if they only had the fullness of the gospel there! However, they do not want it, for they do not know what it is. We also visited the great cathedral of Saint John the Divine, which has been in process of building now sixty years and it is estimated that it will take forty years more to complete it, but when it is completed it will be the finest church in the world. Do you suppose Saint John will accept it, especially if he is required to endorse the philosophy of the organization or society building it? Do you suppose he could obtain permission to occupy the pulpit? We also visited the Plymouth Church in Brooklyn made famous by the pastorate of Henry Ward Beecher. It is a very modest structure so far as the architecture is concerned, but is still quite a popular church. We sat in the pew bearing a brass plate upon it with the name of Abraham Lincoln, and could we feel our patriotism rising to a higher level? And when we sat in the pulpit chair once occupied by Beecher, do you suppose our consecration to the cause of liberty and humanity received a stimulus? You know Beecher was an ardent supporter of Lincoln and his anti-slavery program.

We had a ride on the Fifth Avenue doubledeck bus, and took a trip by boat entirely around Manhattan Island, viewing the city from the water. We visited Miss Liberty on Bedloe Island, but so much fresh paint had been applied internally that we did not venture higher than the elevator carried us. We paid our respects to Coney Island and the famous board walk. The art museum and the museum of natural history each claimed a portion of our time. We ate at an automat restaurant and in the Greenwich Village, and paid a short visit to Chinatown. In short, if anybody ever saw more than we did in a week's time, they had to go some.

We're back in Norwalk for this week and next, then to Westhaven for a week, then to New London for a week, then to Onset for the ministerial conference, July 1 and 2, and to remain there until the close of the reunion, August 6.

J. A. GUNSOLLEY.

Wheeling, West Virginia

Fiftieth Anniversary of Branch a Memorable Occasion

The observance of the fiftieth anniversary of Wheeling Branch on May 28, was featured by a number of happy events that made the occasion memorable. Of the fourteen charter members of fifty years ago, but five remain, three of whom were in attendance at the memorial day services. Those present were G. T. Griffiths, L. D. Ullom and Betty Liston, of Kirtland. The two who were not here, are Annie E. Smith, of Syracuse, New York, and Mary Brewster, of Kirtland.

A tinge of sadness was felt as memory reverted to those who, in the past, labored here valiantly in the service of the Lord, and when their work was finished, answered the summons of the silent reaper. However, the assurance that they labored not in vain brings solace, and serves to inspire and quicken to duty, those who remain.

Brother Griffiths, who organized the branch, was happy to be a guest on that day and, true to that characteristic for which he is known, gave words of comfort and instruction. In a reminiscent mood he related many things of interest, that played a part in establishing the church work here and in its subsequent development. He recalled instances of real sacrifice, and loyal service performed by many. Space will not permit individual mention of the names worthy a place on the roll of honor, beginning with the charter members and those who later became identified with the branch. A number of former members and friends from distant parts were also welcome visitors, and enjoyed the spirit of good fellowship that pervaded the days exercises.

L. D. Ullom, now eighty-five years of age, had his testimony of the work written, and it was read to all present. Sister Annie E. Smith, of Syracuse, New York, not being able to come sent a written communication which was also read. Then from Colorado Springs, Colorado, was received a cheering and heartening message from Joseph E. Ebeling, who for twenty-four years was a worker in Wheeling Branch. He is now president of the branch in Colorado Springs.

The afternoon service was an informal program made up of a number of short talks appropriate for the occasion. Two of these are entitled to special mention. Only the older readers of the Herald remember a valiant servant of God who died in Wheeling in 1885, at the home of Brother Griffiths, an apostle of Jesus Christ, Josiah Ells. At that time Doctor Leonard Eskey, a practicing physician attended Brother Ells and was present at his death. Doctor Eskey, now eighty-three years of age, was present at the Saints' anniversary meeting, and favored them with an encouraging talk. He referred to the splendid character of many of the Saints with whom he was intimately acquainted, both presonally and in his profession. He spoke affectionately of Brother Ells as Father Ells, and paid the most beautiful and sublime tribute to his godly life, and peaceful and triumphant death. He said Brother Ells had a firm belief that Joseph Smith was a prophet, and added his own words, "And I believe he was a prophet. They killed the prophets and stoned them that were sent unto you."

The Reverend W. H. Fields, pastor of the First Christian Church of this city during the last twenty-eight years, now in charge of a congregation of fourteen hundred, favored the Saints with a short address. He spoke in a happy and fraternal mood, assuring them of his good wishes and those of his congregation. It was of special interest that he prefaced his talk by stating that his grandfather and grandmother were Latter Day Saints, and commended their practical religious life.

Talks by a number of the local priesthood made a valuable contribution to the meetings, but details are omitted in this writing. One thought stressed was: The success of the church during fifty years is not shown by its numerical strength, but by its ability to stand the test to which it has been subjected, and to triumph in the lives of those who live its precepts. Thus may all who are now workers in the vineyard, be assured that the church is founded on the solid rock that cannot be moved. With this assurance, may their courage and zeal be increased to enable them to consummate the tasks now at hand.

www.LatterDayTruth.org

East Bay Branch

Twelve Recently Baptized in This Group

Much interest is being shown by Saints living in Berkeley and Oakland who compose the congregation of East Bay Branch.

A series of missionary services on the fundamentals of the church was conducted, by Elder Arthur Oakman, April 9 to 16. He presented his message in such a way that the Saints were impressed with the privilege of serving God. As a result of these services two young men were baptized.

On the evening of Good Friday the Keystone Choral Club presented the cantata, "The Seven Last Words of Christ," Brother Oakman singing the solo part.

The Easter sermon was preached by Patriarch G. J. Waller, of Honolulu, Hawaii. It was the story of the resurrection, and music by the choir added greatly to the beauty of the service. At the conclusion of the service, several children were baptized. These with other candidates baptized a week or two later bring the total of recent baptisms up to twelve.

The "Zion Builders All," a young people's organization, recently held an initiation service which was impressive.

The department of music presented a recital, May 21. Roy Elliott, organist, was assisted by Arthur Oakman, baritone soloist; Eddie Peterson, violinist; Betsy Sutton, cellist, and Barbara Reeves, pianist.

Saints of this congregation were sorry to lose Brother Roy Elliott, organist, who found it necessary to continue his study of music in the South. A farewell party was tendered him May 23. Roy was presented a small gift by the music department in appreciation of his work.

Sister Peat, an active member of the branch, has passed away. For a number of years the home of Brother and Sister Peat has been the meeting place for the midweek prayer service, and Sister Peat will long be remembered for her faithful work.

The women's department is continuing its good work by regularly turning money into the organ and building fund. During the sacrifice week in the early spring, the women responded well, turning in a sum of more than sixty dollars.

Mrs. Luella Hawley was recently elected president of the Dorcas Club, which held its regular monthly meeting at her home, May 23. Each member present contributed twenty-five cents as a gift to the organ fund.

Special Conference for Southwestern Iowa

Chief Business—Approving Recommendations for Ordination

The business transacted by the special conference of Southwestern Iowa, held at Hazel Dell Branch, Weston, May 3 and 4, was of a constructive nature. The business session was held on the afternoon of the first day, the conference having been called to consider recommendations from some of the branches with regard to the calling of several men to offices in the priesthood. Brother J. C. Adams, from Crescent Branch, was approved by the conference for the office of elder; Brother Charles Hunk, from Glenwood, and Brother Morreil Cuttow, of Tabor, were approved for the office of deacon in their respective branches; Brothers Elmer Johnson, of Hazel Dell, David Damitz, Cyril Damitz and Darrel Sewing, of North Star Branch, Underwood, were approved for the office of priest. The conference ordered that these ordinations be provided for.

Another item of business brought before the conference concerned the frequency of conferences to be held in the future. It was decided to hold the conference every quarter rather than once each year, the meeting places to be in the different branches in the district, the date and place to be named by the district president. It was also decided that these meetings should not be held just to transact business but should partake more of the nature of get-together services.

A good spirit was manifested throughout the conference, many from the several branches being present.

Apostle F. H. Edwards who took the place of Apostle John F. Garver, who was prevented from being present by the death of his brother, together with Missionaries P. T. Anderson and E. Y. Hunker, took part in the services.

On Sunday the meeting started with church school at 9.45 in charge of O. A. Currie, of Council Bluffs. Sister Currie was in charge of the small folks in the basement. A short talk was given the adults by Bishop W. T. Wellman, of Omaha, after which his counselor, Merle Grover, taught the older members on subjects relating to the Doctrine and Covenants. The sacrament meeting immediately followed church school, District President J. A. Hanson in charge.

When all upstairs had been served the holy emblems, Lee Landon, the second counselor of Brother Wellman, with David Mackintosh went to the basement to serve the emblems to the younger ones and also to hold a service especially adapted to their needs.

After the passing of the emblems the ordinations of four of the brothers whose names were approved for office at the business session Saturday were cared for by W. T. Wellman, O. A. Currie, E. Y. Hunker, Dan Butler, Amos Graybill, H. P. Larsen, P. T. Anderson and Nels Johnson. The four men ordained were J. C. Adams, Charles Hunk, Morreil Cuttow and Elmer Johnson. The last named is the son of Nels Johnson, well known in this district where he once served as district president and is now president of Underwood Branch, one of the old branches of the Reorganization. The other three men whose names were approved by the conference, are going to be ordained later in their own home branch. The charge to be humble and try to do all in their power to be approved of God, was given the new officers by Brother J. A. Hanson.

Following this meeting a basket dinner was served in the basement of the church, the tables being spread with good things to eat and a friendly spirit prevailing.

At two o'clock the orchestra gave several fine numbers followed by a song, "Jesus Loves Me," by the small son and two small daughters of Brother and Sister Tom Vallier. Brother Lee Landon sang a solo and then went to the basement to talk to the children.

At two thirty Apostle F. Henry Edwards came from Omaha to preach a fine sermon. Elder P. T. Anderson was the evening speaker.

North Platte, Nebraska

Small Branch Activities Continue

Not long ago a cyclone passed through McPherson County, Nebraska. Eight people were killed, among them Sister Dora Newberry Pyzer, and her two daughters, Iola, and Mary.

Mother's Day program was fittingly carried out, May 14, with the mothers and young people taking part.

Irma Payne, daughter of Brother and Sister J. F. Payne was baptized the first Sunday in April by her father. This event was omitted in the last report, there being four baptisms instead of three.

Sister Cassie Sivits and family recently returned home from Lamoni, where Glen and La Vern Sivits have been attending Graceland College, with their sister, Edith.

Elder J. F. Payne and family motored to Thune, Nebraska, May 4. They reported a day well spent.

Brother Peter Burke, of Independence, Missouri, is visiting Saints in this branch.

www.LatterDayTruth.org

Independence

The Young People's Council of Independence held its annual reception for the pastors at the Stone Church Dining Hall the evening of June 12, about seventy guests attending. This is an event designed to bring the pastorate and the council together in a social function. Honor guests were Pastor John F. Sheehy and his associate pastors, H. G. Barto, D. S. McNamara, and A. K. Dillee, and W. Earl Page, director of Religious Education.

To give Saints living outside of Independence some idea of the many activities in the center place, it can be added that on this same night, June 12, there was in progress in the main room of the Stone Church a concert by the Cantanina Chorus, in the Y. K. T. room an entertainment by the Clematis Chorus in honor of their fathers and mothers, and on the lawn Troops 37 and 46 Girl Scouts were at play previous to a court of awards held at their room in the Auditorium.

The young people's council sponsored an all-day picnic for the church schools of Independence June 19, on the riverboat Idlewild. Fifteen hundred tickets were issued, free of charge. The steamer left the dock at 10 a. m. for a trip down the Missouri River, and returned to Kansas City at 5 p. m. An enjoyable excursion was reported.

The marriage of Miss Ferne Roberson, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Ernest Roberson, of Benton, Illinois, and Franklin L. Parsons, son of Mr. and Mrs. Arthur L. Parsons, of Max, Nebraska, was solemnized at Independence Saturday afternoon, June 17, in the home of Elder H. L. Barto. Brother Barto officiated, assisted by Elder R. L. Fulk. The simple but impressive ceremony was witnessed by a few close friends. Mr. and Mrs. Parsons, both former students of Graceland College, are making their home, at present, at Manhattan, Kansas.

The Campus

The Auditorium Band, directed by Sanford Downs, opened the first Sunday evening service on the Campus with several special numbers. Elder A. K. Dillee was assisted by S. S. Smith in the stand. Two special solos were rendered by Lilly Belle Allen, assisted at the piano by Mary Okerlind. President Elbert A. Smith was the speaker.

All the Latter Day Saint churches in Independence, with the exception of Walnut Park and Sugar Creek, have disbanded Sunday evening meetings in favor of the services on the Campus for the summer. Approximately twenty-five hundred were present for this first meeting.

The pastors of Independence have launched a summer "get-acquainted" campaign among all the districts of Independence. Their plan for the summer is to meet with one or more districts each Tuesday night at the Campus for a picnic supper, and on Wednesday night, to hold prayer meeting with them at a local church. Districts One A and One B of the Stone Church had the pastors as guests June 13 and 14.

Each Saturday afternoon, at two-thirty, members of the congregations of Independence have an opportunity to meet at the Campus for recreation. Three indoor baseball diamonds are provided although no regular teams will be organized. This recreation is for all those who desire to participate regardless of age.

Stone Church

Prayer services at the Stone Church the evening of June 14, were of outstanding characters. In the lower auditorium the young people witnessed the baptism of three candidates, Bert Beverstock, Ed. William Hall, and Nelson Elbert Guthridge, Elder John F. Sheehy officiating. After the baptisms, Elder E. Y. Hunker gave an appropriate talk on the significance and purpose of that ordinance. Then the baby sister of Nelson Guthridge, Mary Alma, was blessed by Elders T. A. Beck and E. Y. Hunker. These brothers also officiated in the confirmation service that followed.

Upstairs the combined prayer service of District One A and One B was in progress in charge of Elder C. I. Carpenter. At this meeting President Frederick M. Smith blessed two grandsons, Paul Madison Edwards, son of Apostle F. Henry and Sister Alice M. Edwards, and Stephen Page Larsen, son of Elder Edward and Sister Lois Larsen. Brother Smith was assisted in this ordinance by his two sons-in-law, Brothers Edwards and Larsen. This ceremony was followed by an address by President F. M. McDowell, by silent prayer on the part of the worshipers, and vocal prayer by Elder D. S. McNamara, then President Smith and Pastor Sheehy were called upon for short talks.

The young people's department of the Stone Church School meets at the Auditorium at nine-thirty each Sunday morning. On June 18, Brother W. J. Lee was in charge of the service, and congregational singing was directed by Jason Woodside. Carl Houston Hobart sang "Song of the Wanderer," Miss Joy Harder at the piano. Doctor E. P. Nelson, of Central Church in Kansas City, introduced as the speaker of the worship period, Doctor E. L. Davidson, instructor at the Kansas City Dental College. He talked on "Versatility." Doctor Davidson is himself a versatile person. Besides his work as instructor at the college, he directs the college glee club, paints, and collects all kinds of books.

After the worship program the eleven classes assembled. Average attendance of these classes is one hundred and fifty. Bishop J. A. Koehler is teaching his course on "The Industrial Institutions of Zion" to the combined To-Ko-Lon and Criterion Classes.

Bishop A. B. Phillips, eleven o'clock speaker at the Stone Church, chose for his theme, "Spiritual Material of Temporary Things," and his text was taken from John 6: 63. The Stone Church Choir, directed by Paul N. Craig, sang "The Lord's Prayer," accompanied at the organ by Robert Miller and on the harp by Miss Elinor Smith. Miss Smith also played a solo. Elizabeth Tanner Hitchcock, guest soprano from Kansas City, sang a solo. Bishop J. S. Kelley was in charge of the service, assisted by Elder S. A. Thiel.

The wedding of Miss Virginia May Mathis, daughter of Mrs. A. L. Mathis, and Kenneth Clutter, son of Mr. and Mrs. Ira G. Clutter, took place the evening of June 17, at the home of the bride's mother. The double ring ceremony was read by Elder R. L. Bishop. About sixty guests witnessed the pretty service. The bride was attended by her sister, Miss Dorothea Mathis, and Vern Faire attended the bridegroom. Little Barbara Louise Henderson was flower girl. A reception immediately followed the wedding ceremony. Mr. and Mrs. Clutter are at home in Independence.

Second Church

June 11, the Children's Day program was presented by the Primary Department. Little Billy McPherson played an organ prelude of hymns. A chorus of children sang "Jesus Loves Me." A short play, written by teachers in the department, was presented.

Twenty candidates were baptized in the afternoon. The font was decorated beautifully with asparagus and flowers. Above the font were the words, "Ye must be born again."

An appropriate Children's Day program was presented during the evening hour.

Enoch Hill Church

Young people of this congregation began the summer's recreational activities the evening of June 9, by entertaining fifty young people from Second Church. There were volley ball games between the girls' teams of the two congregations and also the boys' teams. Then guests and hosts enjoyed ice cold lemonade. Roy Settles was in charge of the visitors, and Miss Ruby Johnson and Elder H. E. Winegar, of Enoch Hill, took the lead in directing the evening's entertainment.

Brother Millard Pace was in charge of the senior church school last Sunday morning, and there was a vocal duet by Verla Waters and Pauline Alexander. Nellie Mae Kramer, assistant church school director, read from Doctrine and Covenants 85: 36 and talked on success and achievement.

"The Great Highway" was the theme of the eleven o'clock speaker, Imal Burke, and Sister Margie Thomas sang

www.LatterDayTruth.org

"Beside the Still Waters." Dorotha Beebe, small daughter of Brother and Sister C. W. Beebe, was blessed by Elders William Shakespeare and John Petre.

Sister Richard E. Bullard was in charge of the junior church. Fred Martin gave the scripture reading; Myron Warren played a violin solo which he dedicated to his father, the day being Father's Day. Brother Joseph Martin was the speaker. "Love One Another," was a duet number by Laverna Martin and Jewel Allen. Hortense Jones played a piano solo, and Sister William Worth told a story.

Sunday evening services of this congregation have been discontinued until fall, the Saints meeting with the other congregations at the Campus.

Spring Branch Church

The group prayer services Wednesday night were in charge of Brothers O. E. Sedoris, Robert Fish, M. Jacobsen, and Leonard White.

Brother A. L. Murdock, a member of the church who has been ill for some time, was able to attend the eight-fifteen prayer service, Sunday morning.

At the eleven o'clock service Sister Gladys Smith sang, "Teach Me to Pray." Brother Jesse Smith read Doctrine and Covenants 45: 13. After the preaching service Bonnie Belle Nelson was baptized.

East Independence Church

On a recent Sunday this congregation was given an interesting program by young men from the Stone Church. Brother Guinn Bronson took charge of the eleven o'clock hour introducing Blaine Bender who directed the song service and also sang a baritone solo. Brother Bronson gave a short address, and Priest James Moses delivered the sermon on the text, "In my Father's house are many mansions."

Local members are glad to have home once more a young brother, Thomas Thatcher, who was critically injured in a fall some weeks ago, and spent some time at the Sanitarium. He seems to be doing fine.

Sacrament service for June was a peaceful occasion in charge of the local ministry.

Recent speakers in this congregation have been Clair Austin, C. Edgerton, D. S. McNamara, and the local pastor.

The monthly play night with Sugar Creek as guests, brought out a large crowd to enjoy games on the volley ball court.

Children's Day services were beautiful and songs were sung by the junior choir in charge of Sister Edith Meador. In the afternoon three children were baptized at Spring Branch Church by the East Independence pastor, Ellis Thatcher, James Meador, and Juanita Crabb.

On Father's Day two young men of the Rainbow Class gave short addresses on the reason for Father's Day and the father of the Prodigal Son. These were followed by a sermon befitting the day by H. V. Minton. Local musicians also contributed appropriate music.

East Independence members also are meeting with Saints of the other congregations at the Campus on Sunday evening.

Thune, Nebraska

Enjoy All-day Meeting Here

Saints of Thune, Nebraska, were made happy, June 1, by an all-day meeting arranged by priesthood, and it was found that forty-eight people attended, eighteen of that number being of their Sunday school. The day began with sacrament in charge of Elder Engelbrecht. Following the sacrament service, a worship period was held in charge of Brother Knudsen, which was effectively carried out.

A basket dinner at noon was followed by community singing at two o'clock in charge of Brother George Sutterfield. Special music was furnished by Sister Engelbrecht and her two daughters, and Sisters Knudsen and Sutterfield, and Brother Sutterfield. Preaching at three o'clock was by Brother Payne. Sister Payne and her two daughters sang a trio, "Have Thine Own Way Lord."

Sister Acey Godfrey requests the prayers of the Saints in her behalf.

Hood River Mission

(Portland District)

Saints of Hood River Mission were recently delighted to have Apostle M. A. McConley with them. It is hoped that he may return again soon.

Repairs are being made on the church building. A "painting bee" was held at which time men painted, and the women cooked the noon and evening meals. The Saints are proud of their church because it was donated by Brother H. W. Chapman, relative of many of the members here.

Although the number enrolled in the church school is only fifteen or twenty, the Saints are doing all they can to further the work and they ask an interest in the prayers of the church.

Missionary Harold Velt and wife are expected at Hood River in the near future to conduct a series of meetings in this part of Oregon.

Akron, Ohio

Members of Akron Branch spent an enjoyable evening, June 6, celebrating the birthday of their pastor E. M. Knight. Dinner was served at seven o'clock, and forty-three guests were present.

On Wednesday night these Saints were again made happy by the presence of Apostle Paul M. Hanson.

Thayer, Missouri

Will Hold Conference Soon

Starting July 5, a three week's series of meetings will be held at Thayer, Brothers J. Charles May and W. E. Haden in charge. Brother May will have his stereopticon machine with slides of scenes and views of the people of the Society Islands. The missionary tent will be used so that there will be room for all those who attend. July 15 and 16 conference will convene and all are requested to make a special effort to be there.

Elder Stevenson, of Pawhuska, Oklahoma, recently preached several good sermons here.

The members of this little group are proud of their growing branch.

Traverse City, Michigan

Largest District Conference Greatly Enjoyed

The 1933 conference of Western Michigan District is now a part of history which will be long remembered by those who were present. It was the largest conference ever held at Traverse City, about two hundred being present.

At nine o'clock Saturday morning, June 3, the first meeting, one of prayer and testimony, met under the direction of District President Buel Shelley and his associates, J. Randall and J. C. Doty.

At the close of this meeting the matter of business was taken up and continued until noon when dinner was served to ninety-five in the church dining room.

The afternoon schedule contained items of business, recreation, and a round-table discussion. In the evening there was an excellent program by volunteers.

The priesthood assembled for their meeting at 7 a. m. Sunday, and every member present was well repaid for his attendance. At the prayer service that morning the capacity of the church was taxed, and standing room was at a premium. During this hour one hundred and fourteen testimonies were given. Patriarch James Davis, of South Boardman, was in charge.

Apostle Clyde F. Ellis delivered two excellent sermons to a packed house and everyone enjoyed having him here. This will, no doubt, be the last time he meets Michigan Saints for many months since he is to sail for the Society Islands from San Francisco early in July. The Saints wish him Godspeed and pray that he will return safely to his home and loved ones.

The following branches were represented at the conference, Bendon, Cadillac, Freesoil, Ludington, Marion, and South Boardman. Before the close of the last service a rising vote of thanks was given Traverse City Branch. This was followed by a pledge from every member, to give his utmost support to District President Shelley and his associates during the year ahead.

www.LatterDayTruth.org

Port Huron, Michigan

All Are Working in the Interest of the Church

Pleasantly situated at the source of the colorful and rapidly flowing Saint Clair River is the city of Port Huron (one of the gateway cities to Canada) with its population of over thirty thousand. In this garden city over a period of years, the church has been represented by some of its able ministers whose appeal has made possible a consistent development that produced a branch which at the present time has an enrollment of five hundred and sixty-five, with a local priesthood of forty. A modest percentage of these worship at the cement block building on Varney Avenue.

During the past winter the building has been filled with members and nonmembers who have listened to able addresses by Apostle D. T. Williams who has periodically visited the branch, and sermons by the pastor, William Patterson who has presided over the branch for one year. The outstanding meetings have been the sacrament and prayer services which have been largely attended, and which have brought comfort, hope, courage, and direction to the people. God has blessed them with his Spirit in terms of their capacity and needs.

Patriarch John Shields visited this locality for several weeks during the winter, and the people were blessed through his office.

Sunday evenings have been devoted to the preaching of the fundamentals of the church's faith with manifest success. During the year thirteen have been baptized into the branch, and there are more interested in the angel's message which has not lost its powerful appeal to the honest in heart.

Under the stable direction of Elder Wilfred Phillips (who last fall moved with his family from Sarnia, Canada, where he was for ten years pastor), the church school, which is two years old in this city, has maintained a steady hold on the interest and attendance of the people. Local church facilities are inadequate for the growing needs of the department.

As in all forward moving branches, Port Huron has a wide awake women's group under the energetic and businesslike leadership of Sister May Engel Locke. This group of Dorcases, Marys and Marthas, are a financial and spiritual bulwark to the branch. With their aid, in addition to maintaining current expenses, the branch has, during the past year, reduced its debt five hundred dollars, leaving a debit balance of two hundred dollars. One hundred and fifty dollars of this is the balance of an investment in a lot at the rear of the church.

This lot was graded last fall and planted with grass seed which has developed into a promising lawn aiding in facilitating social and recreational activities. The members of the branch take a great interest in their church property and have by volunteer labor and donations encircled the building with flowering shrubbery, graded the boulevard in front of the church, improved the driveways, and cleaned the interior of the building preparatory to redecoration. The local contributions have not diminished the steady and consistent flow of tithes and offerings into the general church fund through the busy hands of the bishop's solicitor, "Joe" Muir, whose job is life and whose life is a job.

The young people of the branch are taking greater interest in the work of the church, and last month they convinced a large audience of their dramatic ability by reproducing the three-act play, "Mother Mine," under the direction of Sister Ada Wyman. Port Huron has a group of splendid young people.

Sister Ruth Patterson has charge of the children's division and has during the year accomplished much in the way of class and program work in a department which has had able direction for many years.

The city is districted for ministerial facilitation and most of the elders in charge of these groups are functioning successfully. There is a splendid spirit of unity, devotion, and cooperation among the local ministry. This in itself is sufficient to warrant a growing membership.

There is a manifest desire by the dependable members and ministers of the branch to comply with the whole law of God, and to be and do that which will make possible the gathering of the Saints, and the building up and redemption of Zion.

Lachine, Michigan

Young People Recently Organized

Missionary Ledsworth has just completed an eight week's series of meetings. The meetings were well attended every night and at the close thirty-one members were baptized.

Meetings for the young people of Lachine, who were recently organized under the name of "Sunshine Boosters," are held every Friday night. Recreation is planned for the third Friday night of each month. The young people, the choir, and the junior girls had important parts in the Easter program.

A special meeting for the women was called May 9, by Pastor Guy. The women expect to begin their regular work again soon.

Kansas City Stake

Gladstone Church

At the Kansas City stake conference held May 1 and 2, Elder Harry Sevy was appointed as Pastor of Gladstone Church. The members of this congregation welcome Brother and Sister Sevy and pledge them their full support.

The junior church gave an enjoyable Children's Day program which was followed by a sermonet for the children by Brother George Harrington.

Brother Glenn Mode, leader of the O. B. K.'s, will represent the young peofifty young people from Second Church.

Ludington, Michigan

106 South Rath Avenue

Apostle D. T. Williams recently gave a splendid discourse on the topic, "Technocracy and the Brotherhood of Man."

Daniel Talbert, infant son of Elder J. L. Randall and wife, was blessed a short time ago by Apostle Williams.

On April 20, the women's group, under the direction of Sister Estella Walters, gave a program at a local theater. The group expect to purchase church school quarterlies with the proceeds from the program. They expect to put on the same program at Fountain, in July.

Elder C. E. Harpe, missionary, preached in Ludington, Elm Flatts, and Sugar Grove during the months of January, February, and March. The attendance at these meetings was good.

Sunday, May 14, Mother's Day was observed in the evening. The young people, under the direction of Sister Mabel B. Foster, young people's supervisor, gave a splendid service honoring mothers and fathers. The musical prelude was played by Sister Leona Petersen. Sister Loretta Chadwick played the accompaniment for the congregational singing. Two appropriate short talks were given by J. L. Randall, who spoke on "Our Christian Home," and G. H. Foster, whose topic was "What Every Mother Knows." The singing of "Blest Be the Tie That Binds," concluded the service.

April 29, Elder Buell Shelley, of Freesoil, district president, with Pastor John Randall, associate, drove to Traverse City to confer with Elder J. C. Doty, associate, on district work.

Elder H. A. Doty, of Traverse City, gave an illustrated lecture at the Freesoil church, May 7.

Ludington has been fortunate to have several visitors recently. Sister Sam Long, of Reed City, and Brother and Sister Swager and daughter, Catherine, of Muskegon, Michigan, were among these.

Elder Buell Shelley, district president, attended church services Sunday morning, May 28. Some members of the branch attended district conference at Traverse City, June 3 and 4.

On Sunday, June 11, Children's Day

www.LatterDayTruth.org

was observed with a program during the eleven o'clock hour, under the direction of Sister Kleber Hill. The following children were baptized on that day: Gloria Foster, Betty Genson, Richard Hammond, Betty Hammond, Richard Randall, Minnie Smith, and Mary Smith. Elders John Randall and J. L. Randall, and Priest G. H. Foster performed the rites of baptism for them.

The confirmation service was held in the evening. As a march was played, the children, all dressed in white, took their places on the platform. After the address by Pastor John Randall, a quintet sang, "Living for Jesus." Gloria Foster sang a solo, "So Can I." As soft music was played by Sister Glenn H. Foster the pastor extended the right hand of fellowship to the new members.

Cheyenne, Wyoming

Hope to Organize Branch

Saints of Cheyenne are looking forward to the time when it will be possible for them to have an organized branch. They have nineteen members in the church, but no one holds the priesthood. The church work is conducted along the lines of the church school program.

Everyone is proud of the work which, with the active leadership of Sister Mendenhall, has been accomplished. Money from rummage and bake sales has helped to pay for the lot and building for the church meetings. In addition to the sales, each family pledged to give an equal amount each month for this cause.

Sister Buffehr is teacher of the adult department and her daughter, Dolores, is leader of the junior young people. Dorthea Buffehr, a student at Graceland, is home again and resuming her work as director of recreation and expression.

Apostle Myron A. McConley stopped here for one night recently and preached to a full house.

Columbus, Ohio

Second Church, Rinehard and Twenty-second Streets

The women's department met, May 11, in the social room of the church. Vera M. Hunter read a splendid paper on "The Baptism of the Spirit."

The primary department gave a good Mother's Day program, May 14. Each mother was presented with a small bouquet of flowers. May 21, at the evening hour, Elder C. W. Clark, pastor of First Church, preached a splendid sermon on "Christian Fellowship."

Sunday morning, May 28, Elder S. E. Dickson, pastor of Lancaster, Ohio, took for a theme, "Preparation for Zion." In the evening Patriarch J. E. Matthews baptized Miss Marie Cheeseman, and Elder G. H. Kirkendall preached on the "Mission of Athletics." After the sermon each member of the four basket ball teams was presented a trophy in appreciation of his splendid records. Each team won the championship in its district and the senior girls won city championship also. The senior boys were presented with a silver cup. This is the second successive year that the boys have won this cup. The intermediate girls were presented with a pennant.

Eustis, Nebraska

Eight Recently Baptized by Elder W. A. Smith

Eustis Saints were organized as a branch some thirty-seven years ago with an elder, priest, teacher, and deacon in charge but all these officers have passed on or moved away, and for about twelve years, they have had no branch officers. Nevertheless, the members are determined to carry on in spite of this handicap.

They have a wide-awake church school of some forty members, and on the first of April they organized a church service to be held on Sunday evening to give the young people entertainment. This they call "The Excelsior Legion." They have thirty minutes of program and thirty minutes of class study. It has been so arranged that all must take part in both program and classwork. John Easterday was elected president and Justus Sandquist is vice president with Vance Link as secretary and treasurer.

The first of March, Missionary W. A. Smith held a series of meetings here and wonderful interest was manifested. The Saints rejoiced at the rich, spiritual blessings they enjoyed. This rejoicing can well be understood when it is realized that a year or more elapses between sermons which the Eustis members hear. Brother Smith preached the principles of the gospel, stressing the need of spiritual rebirth and the beauties of the latter-day glory. In consequence, eight candidates were led into the water to arise in newness of life. One of these was a brother seventy-two years old. Brother Smith also blessed several little children and administered to the sick. The Saints look anxiously forward to his return in the near future and think that perhaps there are others who will obey. They are strong in the faith and one hundred per cent for the Herald—every family takes it.

An impressive Easter program was given. A reading, "A Word Picture of the Crucifixion," was beautifully rendered by Sister Ruth Easterday and followed by a pantomime of the resurrection by ten young people, the choir rendering appropriate music. Other days such as Mother's Day and Children's Day were appropriately observed.

The Saints are very busy. They are united in their effort to keep alive the work and help develop the talent of each member. They have their faces Zionward.

Hutchinson, Kansas

Prepare Progressive Group of Young People

Saints of this branch are continuing their efforts to prepare a more progressive group of young people. Pastor T. C. Turpin has designated the third Sunday in each month as "Juvenile Day," at which time special instruction and talks will be given for the young people. They are planning a discussion of the outline of problems handled by the Lamoni young people's conference.

Mother's Day and Memorial Day services were well carried out.

Recently a play, sponsored by the local church group, returned the amount of $8.40, which is to be applied on the church building fund.

Saints of this branch were saddened by the death of R. S. Peters who passed away in May.

June 8, Apostle R. S. Budd delivered an instructive sermon here. He was accompanied to Hutchinson by Elder Stoft, of Wichita.

Vinalhaven, Maine

Young People Are Helping

Vinalhaven young people are trying to help spread the gospel. They are led by Ralph Candage and Archie Begg, who are doing much to forward the latter-day work.

In addition to all other regular branch meetings during the week the young people enjoy a recreation meeting every Thursday evening. This is well attended by young men and women who enjoy the games and the lectures.

The young people in this part of Maine pray for the church and especially for the Youth Conference which is in session at Lamoni, Iowa.

Service at Armada, Michigan

Saints of That Community Gather in Private Home

A short time ago church services were held at the home of Sister Mildred Holmes, of Armada, Michigan. Of this meeting the Armada Times says:

"The services at the home of Mrs. Mildred Holmes were well attended last Sunday. Ross Frederick, three-months-old son of Mr. and Mrs. Ross O. York, of Columbus, grandson of Mr. and Mrs. Holmes, was blessed by Elder John Hall, of Lake Orion, and Elder Robert H. Huston, of Capac. Elder Frank Davis, of Lake Orion, assisted by Elder Skinner, of Saint Clair, had charge of the sermon. Two guitar solos were played and sung by Mrs. James Macklem. The Saints at Saint Clair Church were invited as guests of this service, and Mr. Coeburn, of Ontario, played the piano."

Brother and Sister Holmes are very grateful to the Saints of this neighborhood for their help in this service.

www.LatterDayTruth.org

The Bulletin Board

Conference Notices

Arkansas and Louisiana district conference will be held at Bald Knob, Arkansas, July 21, 22, and 23. President F. M. Smith and Apostle Roy S. Budd are expected to attend. The Saints of the district are urged to cooperate with the officers in charge in making this conference a success. Branch secretaries and all members of the priesthood, are requested to have their reports in the hands of the district secretary on or before the date of the conference.—Seth P. Harbour, district secretary, Bald Knob, Arkansas.

Southern Missouri district conference will convene at Thayer, Missouri, July 15 and 16. Elders J. Charles May and W. E. Haden will officiate.—Clarence H. Mayo, Southern Missouri publicity agent.

The Eastern Montana district reunion and conference will be held on July 7, 8, 9, 1933, at Fairview, Montana. Conference on Saturday, the eighth. Hotel accommodations, or bring your tents and camp. If you are interested in the future economical and spiritual existence of the race, bring your families and friends; take advantage of this three-day social and educational event. Apostle J. F. Curtis is expected. Missionary L. O. Wildermuth and other church leaders will be speakers on these dates.—Joseph L. Barry, district secretary.

District Conference

The Clinton district annual conference convenes at Nevada, Missouri, July 8 and 9. Business sessions will be held at 10 a. m. and 2 p. m. Saturday. President F. M. Smith and Apostle John Garver are expected to meet with this conference. This is the time for the election of district officers, and we feel that there should be a large representation from all branches. Conference closes at 4 p. m. Sunday.—C. C. Martin.

Ministerial Conference

Southern New England ministerial conference will convene at Onset, Massachusetts, July 1 and 2, at 7.30 p. m. Apostle Paul M. Hanson will be in attendance.—F. S. Dobbins, district secretary, post office box 544, Onset, Massachusetts.

Notice to Eastern Quorum of Elders

Eastern quorum of elders will meet for the annual election of officers, at Onset, Massachusetts, July 2, 1933, with the ministerial conference of the Southern New England District.—F. S. Dobbins, secretary and treasurer, post office box 544, Onset, Massachusetts.

Correction

Sister Harriet Stevens, age eighty-three, of Madison, Wisconsin, asks that a mistake in the June 6, issue of the Herald, page 734, be corrected. It is stated, under the Mother's Day program in the Madison news letter, that she was blessed when a baby under the hands of Joseph Smith, the founder of the church. Sister Stevens was not born until six years after the death of the founder.

Conference Minutes

WESTERN MAINE.—District conference met with Stonington Saints, May 13 and 14. Business session was held Saturday at 2 p. m., with District President E. F. Robertson in charge, associated with Bishop E. L. Traver. Statistical reports were read from six branches, Vinalhaven, Stonington, Rockland, Mountainville, Little Deer Isle, Dixfield, and the nonresident group, showing a net gain in the district since June, 1931, of thirteen, and a membership of 642. Ministerial reports read included letters from five elders, five priests, and two teachers. Reports were also read from various district officers. The following officers were chosen: President, E. F. Robertson; counselors, Henry R. Eaton and A. Begg; clerk, Louise J. Eaton; organist, Jennie Carten; chorister, A. Begg; superintendent of Religious Education, B. B. Holland; Bishop E. L. Traver was sustained bishop of the district. Speakers for the conference were Elder Newman Wilson, Bishop E. L. Traver and Elder A. Begg. Quite a number of visitors came from various parts of the district, and fine weather prevailed during the conference. Adjournment was had, the conference to meet at Vinalhaven in the fall, the exact dates being left to the district presidency.

WESTERN MICHIGAN.—The largest district conference held for some years in Western Michigan District convened at Traverse City, June 3 and 4. Each branch was represented by its president and several other members. Conference opened with a prayer service at 9 a. m., in charge of the district presidency, Elders Buell Shelley, J. C. Doty, and J. L. Randell. The business session took place at 10.30 with a greeting read by Elder Buell Shelley. Reports were read from different officers. J. C. Doty, church school director, reported the membership of 362, and nine schools. Mary Tubbs read the statistical report showing the membership of seven branches for the past year to be 906; ten baptisms, and eight deaths. It was learned that nearly 300 sermons has been preached by local men. The treasurer's report of J. E. Bennett showed an amount on hand of $22.14, the amount raised during the year of 1932, being $1,702.79, and $496.08 during the first five months of 1933. Doty Price was ordained to the office of deacon by Apostle Clyde F. Ellis, assisted by Elders Buell Shelley, J. L. Randell, and Peter Price. Business session continued at 1.30 p. m., and the following Saints were appointed delegates to the General Conference of 1934: Brothers J. E. Bennett, Byron Doty, J. R. Randell, Ray Dick, and A. R. Ellis, and Sisters J. E. Bennett, Mary Tubbs, Kate Reek, and A. R. Ellis. Officers chosen for the following year are: District president, Buell Shelley, of Freesoil, Michigan; assistant presidents, J. L. Randell, Ludington, Michigan, and J. C. Doty, Traverse City, Michigan; district secretary, Mary Tubbs, Freesoil; church school director, J. C. Doty; music director, B. H. Doty, Traverse City, Michigan. Immediately after the election of officers, short talks were given by Apostle Clyde F. Ellis, and Elders Ellis, Burge, Shelley, Randell, and Peter Price. A round table discussion was held for the older folks, while baseball was enjoyed by the younger ones. With B. H. Doty in charge, a program was given in the evening, people from different branches taking part. Apostle Clyde F. Ellis preached the sermon at both the eleven o'clock and two o'clock services. Saints of Western Michigan were especially happy to have Brother Ellis with them because of his being born and reared in that district. The time and place of the next conference were left in the hands of the district presidency. The Saints of Western Michigan pledged anew their support to the district president, Brother Buell Shelley.

Our Departed Ones

BIDDLE.—Mrs. Margarette Z. Biddle was born July 30, 1860, in West Middlesex, Pennsylvania. Departed this life on May 30, 1933, at her late home in New Castle, Pennsylvania. She united with the church in New Castle, Pennsylvania, being baptized, May 18, 1919. Was united in marriage to Silas Cassidy Biddle, February 1, 1885, in Lawrence County, Pennsylvania. Her husband was a Cival War veteran, and died January 26, 1916. She is survived by the following children: William, of Baltimore, Maryland; Frank, Lydia, Washington, Emma, and John, of New Castle, Pennsylvania. She was a woman of sterling character, loved by all that knew her, a devoted mother, a sympathetic friend, a faithful Saint and church worker. Funeral services were held at the home of her daughter, Mrs. William McCune, New Castle, Pennsylvania; sermon by Elder E. B. Hull. Interment was in New Castle Cemetery.

GILBERT.—Eda Johanna Davis, the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Richard H. Davis, was born October 15, 1867, in Utah. While she was still a child, the family moved to Labette County, Kansas, where at the age of nine years she became a member of the church. Her activity in the church was one of the most important influences in her life. In 1892, she was married to Elmer Ellsworth Gilbert and to this union were born three children: Ellsworth Glaud Gilbert, of Paola, Kansas; Alva Richard Gilbert, of Lamoni, Iowa; and Vida Mae Gilbert, of Pittsburg, Kansas. Because of the death of his mother, Alice Ryan, Richard Morgan Ryan, of Kansas City, Missouri, became a member of the family at birth. On September 18, 1927, Sister Gilbert's husband preceded her in death. She has now joined him, passing away Sunday evening, May 14, 1933, at her home in Pittsburg, Kansas. Besides the immediate family, she is survived by three brothers: David W. Davis, of Harvison Canyon, California; James H. Davis, of Oak Grove, Missouri, and Richard W. Davis, of Olympia, Washington. Funeral services were conducted from the A. K. Smith Funeral Home, Amos T. Higdon officiating, S. Farrington assisting. Interment in the Highland Park Cemetery.

BOYD.—Bertha Mae Holden was born to Elijah N. and Zelphina Holden at Schroon Lake, New York, November 9, 1877. At the age of ten she moved with her parents to Colorado. She was united in marriage to William Everett Boyd, October 18, 1900, and to this union four children were born: Everett Scott Boyd, of Alexander, Kansas; Evelyn Mae Boyd, of Washington, District of Columbia; Mrs. Velma Lucille Brollier, of El Paso, Texas; and Margery Wilma Boyd, of Springfield, Missouri. She united with the church in 1911, and although not often where there was a branch of the church she ever tried to do what she could for the advancement of the gospel. She aided all her children to attend Graceland College at considerable sacrifice in order that they might be able to offer a contribution to society and the church that would be of value. She moved to Springfield, Missouri, in August, 1931, where she passed away May 18, 1933. Besides her husband and children she leaves to mourn her departure five grandchildren, and many other relatives and friends. Funeral services were conducted by Amos T. Higdon, J. B. Ansley assisting.

FERGUSON.—J. William H. Ferguson passed from death unto life at eventide May 19, 1933, at his home in San Antonio, Texas. He was born in Alton, Illinois, March 15, 1855. Married Miss Sophia Wight, daughter of Lamoni L. and Sophia Wight, in Llano County, Texas, December 19, 1883. Was baptized by Brother Winegar, November 13, 1927, being seventy-two years of age. He suffered intensely for three months or more, and was administered to several times, receiving relief. His funeral was held on Sunday at four o'clock, and interment was in Mission Burial Grounds, May 21. The funeral sermon was by T. J. Jett, jr. Six children were given to this union, one passing away in infancy. The wife, five children and their companions, ten grandchildren, numerous other relatives, and friends survive him. Brother and Sister Ferguson's married life had almost reached its fiftieth anniversary.

CURTIS.—Lucy Jane Curtis was born in Flagstaff, Maine, March 1, 1835. At the age of ten years, she moved to Ohio with her parents. United in marriage with Mark Curtis in 1853, and to this union were born six children, five of them preceding her in death.

www.LatterDayTruth.org

She moved to Michigan at the close of the Civil War where she resided the remainder of her life. Died at her home at Traverse City, May 21, 1933, being ninety-eight years of age. Her passing followed several years of illness. She leaves to mourn one daughter, Mrs. H. E. Nelson, of New Bedford, Iowa; ten grandchildren, and nineteen great-grandchildren, besides other relatives and friends. Her body was taken to the Sampson Funeral Home where at ten thirty Wednesday morning Elder Byron Doty officiated. Interment was in the family lot at Oakwood Cemetery.

POST.—Joseph Martin Post was born April 20, 1851, at Lake Falls, Pennsylvania. He united with the church in 1913, and lived an honorable life. Brother Post died at the home of his daughter, Mrs. E. Pittenger near Bangor, Wisconsin, May 19, 1933. His wife preceded him in death twenty years, also two children. He leaves to mourn his departure three children, Mrs. E. Pittenger; Mrs. Edith Melvin, of Pervano, Michigan, and Henry Post, of New York; ten grandchildren and seven great-grandchildren, together with other relatives and friends. Funeral services were held at his late home, L. G. Holloway, of Lamoni, Iowa, preaching the sermon. Interment was in the Burus Cemetery.

VANDERWOOD.—Joseph J. Vanderwood, son of John and Anna E. Vanderwood, was born in Malad, Idaho, January 23, 1891. He died May 16, 1933, after a lingering illness. He is survived by his widow, Pearl Vanderwood; three children, Thelma, Joseph, and Alice; two brothers, Elder J. E. Vanderwood, of Independence, Missouri, and William H. Vanderwood, of Malad, Idaho, and three sisters, Mrs. Sophia Winkler, and Mrs. Kate Kunkle, both of San Diego, California, and Mrs. Mary Thompson, of Fromberg, Montana. Mr. Vanderwood was a World War veteran, and a military funeral was conducted by the American Legion. Elder A. M. Chase preached the funeral sermon. Interment was in South Jordan Cemetery.

HERRING.—Russel L. Herring was born March 17, 1873, at Arlington, Tennessee. After uniting with the church, August 4, 1903, he was ordained a priest in 1911, Brothers S. W. Simmons and C. T. Sheppard officiating. He died May 20, 1933, at Holdenville, Oklahoma. He leaves to mourn, his wife, Maggie Land Herring; one son, Doctor H. R. Herring; three sisters, and a host of friends. The funeral service was in charge of Elder Ed. Dillon, of Oklahoma City, the sermon being preached by Elder J. E. Lancaster, of Tulsa. Interment was in the Holdenville Cemetery. He was a faithful worker for the Master, always ready to lend a helping hand.

ELSWICK.—Marilla Needham was born in Delaware County, Indiana, May 19, 1860, and departed this life March 3, 1933. She moved to Iowa when but a young girl, and was married to Marion Elswick in January, 1879. Their married life was spent in Pottawattamie County, moving to the home place in the fall of 1888. On this place they labored, enduring privation and hardship and rearing their family until the father was called home Septmeber 12, 1919. To this union were born seven children, two of whom passed away in infancy. The surviving are Everett and Omer, of Lamoni, Iowa; Mrs. Alta Hougas, of Independence, Missouri; Ray, on the old home place, and Mrs. Edna Hotze, of Carson. She is also survived by a twin sister, Mrs. Rozilla Haygood, of Oakland, Iowa, and a brother, Fred Needham, of Lamoni, thirteen grandchildren, other relatives, and a host of friends. The funeral was held from the Saints' church at Carson by Pastor T. A. Hougas, the sermon by Elder John Hansen, of Weston, Iowa. Interment was in Carson Cemetery.

GREENE.—Norman Gould Greene was born August 26, 1907, at Tabor, Iowa, and died May 14, 1933, at Fairplay, Colorado, after a week's illness. He was baptized into the church by Elder W. E. Haden in 1915. June 5, 1929, after receiving his degree from Tarkio College, Tarkio, Missouri, he married Laura Hopp, of Glenwood, Iowa. Spent a year teaching at Logan, New Mexico, and a year in Como, Colorado. For the past two years they had lived at Fairplay where he held the school superintendency. His was a happy life for he was unusually strong and healthy until the time of his brief sickness. Leaves many friends in Tabor and other places where he has lived. He is survived by his wife; an infant son, Gordon; his parents, Mr. and Mrs. J. F. Green; an older brother, Franklin, and a sister, Maurine. After funeral services at Fairplay, the body was brought to the home of his parents at Tabor where another funeral was held May 19. Interment was in Tabor Cemetery.

HOLMES.—Wentworth Holmes, son of Wentworth and Elsie Seavy Holmes was born September 30, 1848, at Smithfield, Maine. Died at his home in Joy, Illinois, May 20, 1933, the last of a family of seven children. The Holmes family moved to Illinois in 1857, and settled on the open prairies of Duncan Township where some of the family have continued to live. He began work on the railroad early in life and for more than a quarter of a century was employed by the Burlington railroad until he was promoted to the position of division bridge superintendent, later becoming conductor of a passenger train. Moved to Joy, Illinois, in 1890, and started the first bank there. In 1891, he organized the Holmes and Bean Lumber Company; was interested in real estate and made several additions to the town of Joy. He traveled much over the United States spending many months on both Pacific and Atlantic coasts, and later enjoyed telling stories of his travels. He was a great reader and retained his interest in political developments and world affairs to his last hours. Although aged, he never wore glasses. Became a member of the church April 28, 1862, being baptized by Ebinezer Page. Married Sarah C. Keck, August 25, 1874, She passed away September 22, 1920. To them four children were born all of whom are living: Mrs. Eva Bean, of Joy; Lermond W. Holmes, of Galesburg; Mrs. Merte Bradford, of Wichita, Kansas, and Wentworth V. Holmes, of Joy. He married Miss Minnie Sheats, December 15, 1921, and she was a devoted companion. She survives him together with the four children, eleven grandchildren, two great-grandchildren, and friends. Funeral services were held from the home under the care of the Reverend V. W. Elston, of Joy, the sermon being by Elder E. R. Davis, of Lamoni, Iowa. Interment was in Aledo Cemetery. Pallbearers were the grandsons.

OATS.—Dennis Garfield Oats, son of Thornton and Elizabeth Oats, was born October 5, 1882, at Little Grand, Wisconsin. He was born and reared in Grant County, Wisconsin. Married Muciel Suck, March 4, 1925, and to

GLAD TIDINGS

Many of the Saints that have tested the PHOSFO cannot praise it enough. A Natural Food is bound to bring Natural results. The unnatural, such as diseased meat, denatured, devitalized foods are bound to bring on disease. White flour, white sugar, spices, vinegar, tea, coffee, and many other things will never build up a strong body. Strong, willing workers can only build up Zion. God created us to work. Too many neglect the physical. Get every muscle into action and food to feed them.

Sickness is positive evidence that you have not been a good Saint either mentally, physically, or spiritually.

Special, 3 $1.00 cans of PHOSFO for.....$2.00
5 pounds in bulk, in U. S. A..... 2.50
5 pounds in bulk, in Canada..... 3.00
Good Health Flour, 5 pounds, 2nd and 3d zone for ..... .50

A. B. KLAR, Food Specialist
Manufacturing Dover, Ohio.

Loyal? Of Course You Are!

HOW ABOUT YOUR CHURCH LOYALTY?

A lapel button or pin with the church seal identifies you. Many are buying them now. Join those who are thus identified.

Bronze (with Blue Enamel) $1.00
Silver (with Blue Enamel) 1.50
Gold (with Blue Enamel) 1.50

Lapel Buttons or Pins with safety clasp—Postpaid

HERALD PUBLISHING HOUSE

"Where We Join in Serving the Church"

Ward A. Hougas, Manager Independence, Mo.

www.LatterDayTruth.org

them were born two children, Donald G. and Dorothy L., who with their mother are left to mourn. Besides his immediate family, he leaves two sisters, Mrs. Willis Pennock, of Lancaster, and Mrs. Otto Losch, of Little Grant, and a host of other relatives and friends. He united with the church, June 16, 1927, and remained a faithful member till death. He was sick but a few days and died at their country home, May 17, 1933. The funeral was held at Lancaster, Ohio, the sermon being by Elder J. O. Dutton, assisted by Elder G. E. Noble. Interment was in Little Grant Cemetery. He was well known to Lancaster Saints, and while he lived in their midst, his home was always open for church services of all kinds.

OMANS.—Garry Elsworth Omans was born June 6, 1864, at Birchland, Oswego County, New York. Moved to Becker County, Minnesota, with his parents, George and Melissa Omans, when he was eighteen years of age. He was married at Detroit Lakes to Mrs. Ellen E. Tuttle, June 9, 1890, and lived in Frazee County the remainder of his life except for five years spent in Independence, Missouri, where he established a cabinet shop. Due to Mrs. Omans mother's ill health, Mr. and Mrs. Omans returned to Minnesota in the spring of 1927, to help take care of her, and had made their home in Evergreen Township for six years. Mr. Omans died April 27, 1933, at his home in Evergreen, having been severely afflicted for the past four years. He was a devout member of the church for many years, and passed to rest with the assurance of eternal life. He is survived by his wife; their children, George Eli Omans, of Shenandoah, Iowa; Mrs. Lula E. Jepson, of Independence, Missouri; Leland E., of Evergreen, and Mrs. Lillian E. Gilick, of Sandpoint, Idaho; one step-daughter, Mrs. Jennie E. Daft, of Independence; one brother, Bert S. Omans, of Joplin, Missouri; three sisters, Mrs. Anna Casavant, of Sioux City, Iowa; Mrs. Estella Lane, of Independence, Missouri, and Mrs. Edith Becon, of Clinton, Missouri; his uncle, Frank Omans, of Frazee, and other relatives and friends. The funeral was held in Englund Funeral Chapel at Detroit Lakes, the discourse being delivered by Elder Lester Whiting, of Clitherall. The deceased was a man of sterling character, cheerful, helpful, industrious.

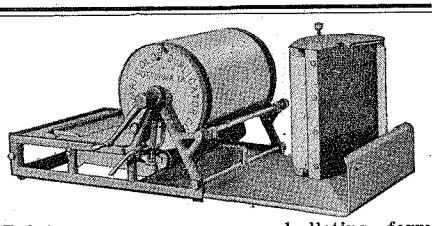
HUTCHINSON.—Naomi Hutchinson was born August 24, 1873, at Sacramento, California. She passed from this life early the morning of May 24, 1933. Leaves to mourn, her daughter, Mrs. Fred L. Rheinsmith; brothers, William J., Fred L., Robert, and Charles Blair, of Sacramento, and John S. Blair, of Salinas, California, and many friends. She was baptized June 8, 1924, by G. H. Wixom, at Sacramento, and was a faithful worker in the church. Her highest ambition in life was to walk in the steps of the Savior. She was the daughter of the late Sister C. W. Blair of blessed memory in Sacramento. Hers was a large funeral from her home in Sacramento, and the church choir, of which she was a member, rendered the music. The sermon was by W. H. Dawson. Interment was in Odd Fellows Lawn Cemetery.

Reunion Schedule

Please send in changes for this schedule immediately.

DISTRICT	PLACE	TIME
North Dakota	Logan or Burlingtown	June 24 to July 2
Minnesota and Northern Wisconsin	Chetek	July 1 to 4
Owen Sound	Port Elgin, Ontario	July 2 to 9
Eastern Montana	Fairview, Montana	July 7 to 9
Central Texas	Hearne	July 14 to 23
Southern Saskatchewan	Weyburn Plains,	July 19 to 23
Kentucky-Tennessee	Puryear, Tennessee	July 22 to 30
Southern New England	Onset	July 22 to August 6
Nauvoo	Nauvoo	July 23 to 30
Northern Saskatchewan	Saskatoon,	July 27 to 30
Lamoni	Lamoni	July 28 to August 6
Toronto	Lowbanks	July 29 to August 12
Alberta	Edmonton	Aug. 4 to 6
Oklahoma	Canton, Oklahoma	Aug. 4 to 13
Northwestern	Silver Lake	Aug. 4 to 13
Northern and Western Michigan	Park of the Pines	Aug. 4 to 13
Spring River	Columbus, Kansas	Aug. 4 to 13
Eastern and Western Maine	Brooksville	Aug. 12 to 19
Kirtland Combined Reunion	Kirtland	Aug. 10 to 20
Far West Stake	Stewartsville	Aug. 17 to 27
Western Montana	Race Track	Aug. 18 to 27
Southeast Illinois	Brush Creek	Aug. 25 to Sept. 3
Idaho		Aug. 16 to 20
West. Oklahoma	Eagle City, Oklahoma	Aug. 5 to 13

THE FIRST PRESIDENCY,
By F. M. MCDOWELL.



Print your own programs, bulletins, form letters, handbills, etc., with the Vari-Color Duplicator. Manufactured by Alfred E. Goodwin, 911 North Court Street, Ottumwa, Iowa.

DON'T WISH!

Thousands are making extra money in one or other of the phases of fur and game farming. Ten cents brings you the most practical magazine on the market in this field. Others are making extra money—why not you?

Address

Fur Farming & Trapping
Bunceton, Missouri

CLASSIFIED ADS

Rates 3 cents per word first insertion; 20 per cent discount on subsequent insertions. Minimum 75 cents per insertion.

REGARDING ADVERTISING

While we exercise care in the acceptance of advertisements appearing in these columns, we can not guarantee full satisfaction between buyer and seller and we therefore advise that in every instance a proper investigation be made by all parties concerned.

IMPROVED FARMS for sale. Any size. Same county as Thayer Branch. For description, write H. H. Cunningham, Alton, Missouri.

WHY BE WITHOUT when $2.98 will buy 250 Letterheads and Envelopes printed to suit you. June only. Hurry. Herald Publishing House, Independence, Missouri. 23-tf

WANTED: Rebuilt Two-Unit Portable Hinman Electric Milker: "R" Herald Publishing House, Independence, Missouri. 25-2t*

ORDER THOSE MAGAZINES through the Herald Publishing House and help the church. $10,000 in commissions could be saved for the church annually if all would cooperate. 23-tf

DO YOU USE CALENDARS in your business? We have one of the best lines in the United States at money saving prices. Send us a sample of about what you want, give us the quantity and we'll be glad to quote you. Herald Publishing House. 23-tf

Forty Thousand People Read These Ads

Your Home For the Future

May be one of these. Priced right and of the type that will please you. Your church notes and bonds are cash on these deals too. Locate in Independence on a permanent basis.

5 Rooms—modern—north of square	$2,500
8 Rooms—modern—near square—suitable for apartments	3,000
5 Rooms—modern—brick—not far from Auditorium	2,500
5 Rooms—partly modern—close to square	1,250
Vacant lots—$100 to $750

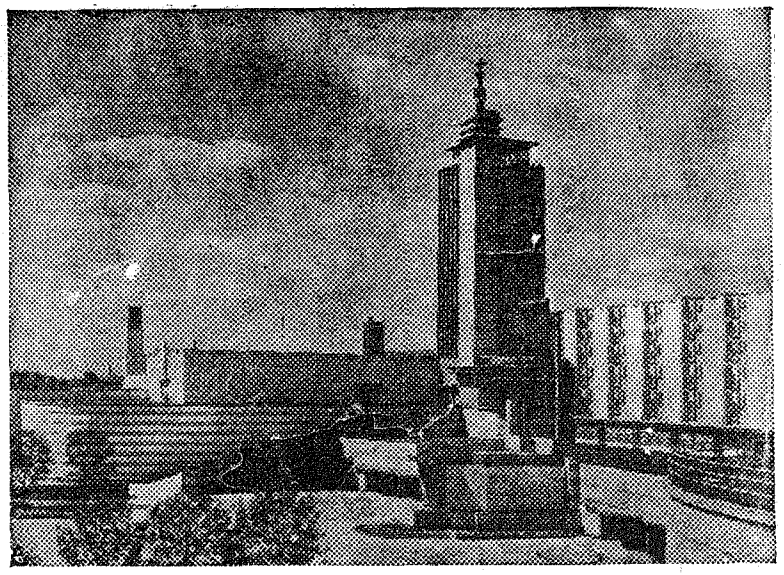
CENTRAL DEVELOPMENT ASSOCIATION
221 West Lexington Street
Independence, Mo.

or

THE PRESIDING BISHOPRIC
The Auditorium
Independence, Mo.

www.LatterDayTruth.org

Yes! You're Right



The carillon tower of the Hall of Science rises 176 feet above the spacious courtyard, making for one of the most impressive structures of The Century of Progress World's Fair at Chicago.

This IS a Part of the World's Fair

BUT WAIT! Did You Ever Stop to Realize

That there's a world of knowledge at your doorstep that you haven't invited in yet? In order to make it easy for you here's six suggestions of real bargains from now until July 30 that are really worth your time reading. Bring the world to your door. Read your own literature. Note these prices—Postpaid in U. S. A.—Good until midnight, July 30—Write today!

1. THE FOURTH RELAFORD by Viola V. Short
   A beautiful story of real love. Fascinating and appealing.
   SPECIAL JULY ONLY 60c

2. WITH THE CHURCH IN AN EARLY DAY by Marietta Walker
   A gripping tale of early history. Appealing to young and old.
   SPECIAL JULY ONLY 75c

3. HIGHER POWERS OF MAN by President Frederick M. Smith
   A masterpiece by a master mind. Should be in every home.
   SPECIAL JULY ONLY 85c

4. THE GOSPEL STORY by Marietta Walker
   The gospel story made plain for the younger folks. Buy it at this bargain price for the children.
   SPECIAL JULY ONLY 35c

5. INSPIRED NEW TESTAMENT
   Handy and accurate. Wanted by every Latter Day Saint.
   SPECIAL JULY ONLY 55c

6. HESPERIS
   Poems by David H. and Elbert A. Smith. If you like good poetry here it is at a real bargain.
   SPECIAL JULY ONLY 40c

Postpaid in U. S. A.—No Commissions

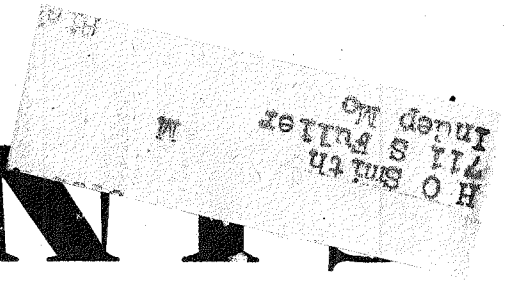
HERALD PUBLISHING HOUSE

"The House That Serves You"

WARD A. HOUGAS, Manager — INDEPENDENCE, MO.

www.LatterDayTruth.org

The SAINTS HERALD



Our Concept of God

By Arthur Oakman

The Death of Christ

By Ray Whiting

Preparation

By Cyril Chorlton

Third Prize Contest Story

RING CARRIES THE MESSAGE

By Florence Wildermuth Andes

Volume 80 JUNE 27, 1933 Number 26

www.LatterDayTruth.org

THE SAINTS' HERALD

June 27, 1933

Volume 80 Number 26

FREDERICK M. SMITH, Editor in Chief.
ELBERT A. SMITH, Associate Editor.
FLOYD M. McDOWELL, Associate Editor
LEONARD J. LEA, Managing Editor.
LETA B. MORIARTY, Assistant Editor.
WARD A. HOUGAS, Business Manager.

Entered as second-class matter at the post office at Independence, Missouri, under Act of March 3, 1879. Issued weekly at Independence, Missouri. Price $2 a year in advance for the U. S. A., its territories and possessions, and Canada; foreign, $3 a year. Accepted for mailing at the special rate of postage provided for in section 1103, Act of October 3, 1917; authorized July 21, 1921.

Published for the Reorganized Church of Jesus Christ of Latter Day Saints.

HERALD PUBLISHING HOUSE
INDEPENDENCE, MISSOURI

CONTENTS

EDITORIAL:
- The Youth Conference—a Milepost in Our History 803
- A New Definition of Matter to Match Old Definitions of God 803
- Bishop D. S. McDole Passes Away 804
- World War Veteran Wishes to Hear From Old Friends 804
- Across the Desk of the Editor in Chief 804
- A Word to Writers 805

HELPS FOR THE PASTOR
- In Charge 805
- Calling to Office 805

YOUTH'S FORUM:
- Youth Conference a Success From Start 806
- Etta Kett Finds Conference a Real Success but not in the Expected Way 806
- Conference Paper for Sale 806

NEWS BRIEFS 807

ARTICLES:
- Preparation, by Cyril Chorlton 808
- The Latter Day Saint Concept of God, by Arthur Oakman 809
- Ring Carries the Message, by Florence Wildermuth Andes 811
- The Death of Christ, by Ray Whiting 813
- Weekly Health Letter, by A. W. Teel, M. D. 814
- Too Much Ballyhoo, by E. J. Hayden 814
- Unanswered Prayer, by Merl B. Grover 818
- Question Time, by A. B. Phillips 819
- Prayer and Testimony 820

NEWS OF CHURCH AND HOME 823

THE BULLETIN BOARD 829

The Pigeonhole

■ "A few weeks ago," comments the Pigeon, "people were complaining of overproduction on the farms. Farmers were dumping milk in the roads, and a great sum of money was set aside to persuade them not to raise so much grain so that prices would go up. Now it looks as if the Lord is taking steps to punish an ungrateful people. If this drouth continues much longer, there will certainly be no overproduction. Without a change of expression, the same mouths that were crying for price relief will be howling for famine relief."

■ He Wanted Work

"There are two kinds of people who want work," says the Pigeon, "those who want work, and those who want to want work. There's a lot of difference between wanting and working: you can want it while you are sitting on a box in the shade, without even thinking. Work is an affair of blisters and callouses, sunburn and sore muscles."

The young man really wanted work. He had been out of it for months. He offered to work in exchange for church books. The offer took the business manager by surprise, but he said that anybody who wanted church books enough to work for them ought to have them. Accordingly the young man was permitted to work until he had earned more than fifty dollars worth of books.

His work was so good that the manager decided to let him work for wages, and in the last few weeks he has repaired broken windows, painted screens, stopped leaks in the roof, installed new electrical fixtures, polished brass where we didn't even know there was any brass, and in general has done a great deal to make both shops and offices look better.

This man has certainly paid his way. And he offers an example to others who are unemployed: if you really want work, there are many ways of getting started at a paying job. Soon his work here will be finished, and he will be out looking for work again. When that time comes, we wish him good luck. He deserves it.

■ Willingness Helps

Do not despise the temporary jobs. Do not even despise the jobs that have no salary attached—they may train you for a position or open the door to a new opportunity for you.

When the last step in the retrenchment program was taken there was a cut in the staff at the Auditorium that left the offices short of needed help for a time. Volunteer workers were called in. Some helped sporadically, and others helped steadily. One young lady, while she helped, took every opportunity to study for more difficult tasks; a secretary, she also studied writing.

Not long ago one of our regular staff was taken seriously ill, and it was necessary to have extra help in the editorial office. This situation created a temporary job with pay. Quite naturally the young lady was chosen to fill the position. Others may have been as able, but she surpassed them in willingness and faithfulness. A donated service may give you contacts that will lead to regular employment.

www.LatterDayTruth.org

Editorial

The Youth Conference—A Milepost in Our History

If there were ever any doubts as to the advisability of holding the Youth Conference at Lamoni this year, those doubts have probably been entirely overcome by those who had the good fortune to be there. To find so many young people devoted to the interests and program of the church—to find them such a fine clean type of young people—to listen to their conversation and to be with them a few days—these things have brought a revelation and an experience that one would not have missed for anything.

We believe that future results in church work will continue to justify the effort that was made. The exchange of ideas, the bearing of testimonies and the discussions of ideals, have all strengthened and inspired those who have been there.

Many of the young people have said that the Conference has resulted in a better appreciation of the church and its message. This, it is believed, will spread all over the church and result in new interest and vitality for the work. There will be no new "movement" or organization among the young people. It simply means that there will be more young people "in the harness" back home among the branches.

Many who have come to the Conference from smaller branches have commented that all their church experience has been confined to the few numbers within their own circle, until they thought of the whole church organization as a "little band." But they were surprised to find literally a host present at the Conference—a host of young people very like themselves.

This Conference, it is predicted, will result in a better participation of the young people in the general work of the church, a better understanding of its ideals and goals. It will probably result in a larger attendance by the young people at the next general conference. It has already resulted in many friendships that will last through the years.

All things considered, the church has reason to rejoice because of its fine young people, and to look to the future with hope and courage because of the splendid workers that are making ready to come to our assistance.

The Youth Conference has proved its worth. We may look forward with happy expectation to the next one.

L. L.

A New Definition of Matter to Match Old Definitions of God

He laughs best who laughs last. At present the laugh is on the materialist. A generation ago materialistic scientists constantly taunted Christians with inability to satisfactorily define and explain God; with inability to put "spirit" on exhibition and weigh it with scales. They, the materialists, believed nothing that they could not see and handle. They had searched the universe, it was all material, a machine, a mechanism; life was chemical reaction as simple as mixing soda with vinegar and getting an effervescence. Matter had been reduced to the atom, the last little, indivisible unit of matter; and nowhere had God been found. "The fool has said in his heart there is no God." The fool of fifty years ago not only said it in his heart; he said it at the top of his voice and printed it in many books.

Today what a change! It is now discovered that the materialists knew very little about their subject. Matter is not at all what it seemed to be. They had not even scratched the surface. The atom has been explored and it is not hard and indivisible; it is a universe in motion, electrons and protons in rapid flight. No scientist has ever seen an electron, more than he has ever seen mind or spirit; yet all pin their faith on electrons. They "walk by faith and not by sight." No scientist has been able to define electrons satisfactorily, so that one of them admits: "The 1927 model of the atom as depicted by the up-to-date physicist is as unlike the 1917 model as the 1927 automobile is unlike the model of a decade before."

Most interesting is the following description of the atom, and the concluding definition of matter as it comes from the pen of a professor of geology of Harvard University:

"A few years ago it was believed that the atom was the incompressible, indivisible, and indestructible unit of the material universe. No one had any rational ideas as to how atoms came into existence or what really determined their activities after they had come to be. Today, the structure of the atom is partially known and our scientific concepts have radically changed. The atom is composed of electrons and protons, and these are in all likelihood nothing but negative and positive charges or units of electrical energy. The apparent mass, form, and weight of objects are due to the number and arrangements of the electrons and protons within the atom and to the high velocities at which these units of energy are moving. In other words, the atom is fundamentally an aggregation of swiftly moving units of energy. From this is derived a modern definition of matter, which though somewhat facetious is nevertheless true:

www.LatterDayTruth.org

'Matter consists of tiny particles of nothing, moving very swiftly.' "—Science in Search of God, by Mather, page 65.

This definition of matter reminds us of some of the old vague definitions of God. Evidently physicists begin to encounter some of the difficulties that beset the Christian when he tries to define things as yet beyond his full comprehension. After all, matter, like spirit, retreats back into the invisible and in its ultimate reality is as baffling as spirit to comprehend and define. In that unseen realm where invisible and indefinable forces move in swift and orderly power God dwells and works: "In all things and through all things." It is easy to contact matter, hard to comprehend and explain it. Certainly it is no more strange that men find it relatively easy to commune with God, who "is not far from any one of us," and yet find it impossible to comprehend him fully or define him satisfactorily.

ELBERT A. SMITH.

Bishop D. S. McDole Passes Away

Bishop D. S. McDole, for many years a pastor in Seattle, Washington, and an important figure in the work of the church in the Northwest, passed away June 20 at 10 p. m. The whole church regrets the loss of a strong worker and leader in the death of Brother McDole. Further information regarding him will be presented in our next issue.

World War Veteran Wishes to Hear From Old Friends

Thomas W. Price, a World War veteran, now disabled and with a family dependent upon him, is in danger of losing his compensation for disabilities, unless he can secure affidavits of old friends who knew him before the war, stating that he did not have tuberculosis at that time. The loss of compensation will be very serious, since he is so ill he cannot work. He was baptized in 1913, and there are many friends among church people who should be able to furnish the required affidavits, according to his letter. They are asked to write to him at Box 122, Robinson, Pennsylvania, for further information as to how they may help him. Or they may have a regular affidavit made out in correct form, signed before a notary, and send it to him.

Solitude

The storm
Named solitude
Cuts our dead branches out,
Sends roots to find a deeper source.
Come, storm!

—Elinor Lennen.

Across the Desk of the Editor in Chief

BROTHER VOTAW, writing from Fresno, California, on the first of May, said that the church at Tulare was packed the Sunday previous "with enthusiastic Saints who responded nobly to the efforts made by Brother Burdick of Sacramento to interpret the financial law as being a part of the celestial law by which Zion must be built up." This is another indication of the continued and active interest had by our people in the fascinating subject of Zion. May the Lord bless the Saints of Tulare and other places where their faces are so earnestly turned toward Zion.

IN A LETTER from William Patterson from Port Huron recently he spoke of having not only read the official statement on the gathering by the Presiding Bishopric, but said he discussed it before the branch and was conscious of the Spirit of God manifesting approval as they read and commented on the statements. Brother Patterson felt that such a statement at such a time would go far toward winning back whatever confidence had been lost and stimulating the interest of the Saints in Zion and the gathering. Brother Patterson has always maintained a great interest in Zion and her cause and we are sure that interest he passes on to his branch. Port Huron, under the leadership of Brother Patterson, seems to be doing splendidly.

WE HAVE MADE MENTION a number of times of places where branches were left struggling because of members moving away and especially members of the priesthood. Brother E. R. Davis in a recent report to the Presidency speaks of having conducted meetings at Matherville, Illinois, with good interest, but speaking of the branch he says:

"This is a small branch about depleted as a result of members moving away, but at present there seems to be a revival of interest, and the possibility of gathering in some new members."

We wish Brother Davis every success in his efforts to thus build up the waste places, of which we have far too many.

I HAD OCCASION recently to write Brother Charles Fry relative to change in appointment and received a letter in reply which, because of the fine spirit manifested, was encouraging and helpful to me. He closed the letter by saying:

"The experiences of my past years (and I have been in the service of the church thirty-three years) have but confirmed and increased my faith in God and the restored gospel. I have not been without my sorrows and disappointments in the work, but my faith is stronger and my joy greater than ever before."

It is always fine to hear sentiments like this from the tried and true workers of the past. May the Lord bless Brother Fry and all his earnest coworkers in the church. F. M. S.

www.LatterDayTruth.org

HELPS FOR THE PASTOR

In Charge

One pastor with years of successful administrative work to his credit, says that it is his firm belief that the pastor should be in charge of the Sunday services as often as possible. In other words, the people should be convinced of his interest in his work by his willingness to serve. A branch will maintain better morale where the people know who is to be in charge. This duty should be filled as often as possible by the one elected, and not left to others.

Another suggestion he gives is this: "Don't overload your rostrum with men who are invited there simply as a mark of respect or deference. It is best to have on the platform only the men who have something to do, and not too many of them. Too many faces on the platform distract the congregation, especially if their owners go to sleep."

We have been present at services when there were as many as three extra men present, each to make some kind of announcement, and none of whom could be heard beyond the fifth row. It would help if pastors could take their assistants out to some vacant lot and teach them to talk so they could be heard. The gospel needs to be proclaimed with clear voices.

Calling to Office

The man who waits for ordination to office before he will work in the church, will not work in it after he is ordained to office.

The best ministers of the gospel are men who have proved their fitness for the divine call before it comes.

Women have no hope of ordination, hence they often labor less selfishly, and more for the good of the cause.

There is a great need in the church for the development of the spirit of lay workmanship. "Many are called," says the Scripture—yes, as many are called to some service as submit to baptism—called into the church service. "But," continues the Scripture, "few are chosen." Few are chosen to be ordained to office. And from the number that fail after ordination, one is sometimes tempted to think that fewer still should be "chosen" for that honor.

Some young men have hesitated before accepting the call to serve in the work of the church. Some of them hesitated in order to examine the purity of their own hearts. And others hesitated in order to be coaxed.

Not every young man towards whom one has a good feeling is necessarily called to the priesthood of the church. Be sure that the call is Divine, not human. And remember that the test of life will prove a man's fitness and integrity.

The church is sometimes disgraced by men who cannot live up to the strict obligations of their priestly office. They must realize, as they look at the conduct of other men, that what is admissible or at least beyond censure for other men, is not for them. A member of the priesthood must often say to himself, as he looks at the ways of other men, "I can't do that!"

A Word to Writers

New duties and conditions in the editorial offices make it necessary for us to announce some changes in the methods of handling manuscripts. We desire that all contributors be informed of them. Our work will be greatly facilitated; and we are sure that the new methods, once understood and accepted, will result in increased satisfaction to the writers. Here are the new rules:

1. Keep copies of all articles sent to us if you wish to preserve them. Articles may become lost or mislaid, although we try to be careful.
2. Send stamps for the return of manuscripts in case they are not used, if you wish them returned. The office must discontinue furnishing postage for this purpose. We cannot maintain a file of unused articles.
3. Be patient. We cannot use the manuscripts as fast as they come in. Sometimes they are kept for weeks and even months before being used. And even then we may find it impossible to use them.
4. Please do not expect criticisms. Our limited time does not permit us to make them. Writers frequently become offended by criticism after they have asked for it, and experience has taught us that it is often useless.
5. Use a typewriter if possible, and double space the lines. Good clear handwriting is acceptable, with ink preferred.
6. We do not pay for articles of a general nature. Our material for periodicals comes from people who contribute their writings because of their interest in the work of the church.

We wish to take this opportunity to thank the many writers whose contributions, given without hope of remuneration, have made it possible for the Editors to carry on the work and service of our publications. To them we owe a debt of gratitude which cannot be sufficiently expressed, and which will be repaid to individual writers only in the satisfaction that they may feel in having helped in a good cause.

Manuscripts come to our office in far greater numbers than it is possible for us to use them. We are always glad, however, to receive them. Each one is given consideration according to its merits. We shall try to make decisions promptly, and return those that are not available.

THE EDITORS.

www.LatterDayTruth.org

Youth's Forum

A Page of Thought and Discussion for the Young People of the Church - - - - - - - -

Youth Conference a Success From Start

More Than Twenty States Are Represented in Large Gathering

The reports of the Youth Conference at Lamoni must remain incomplete for this issue of the Herald, but it has already surpassed the most optimistic hopes of the officers in charge. More than 450 had registered by Monday, and more were coming in at that time. Large crowds had been anticipated for the first week-end, but the full-time registrations had passed the expected 250 mark long before the Saturday afternoon period was closed, the officers were frantically telephoning for more books, badges, and Conference Heralds.

It may already be stated as quite probable that this Youth Conference will go down in the history of the church as the finest and most significant gathering of its young people that has yet taken place. The splendid character of the people attending, the enthusiasm and interest manifested, the spirit of fellowship and friendliness from the start, the high quality of the program, and the excellent responses from the people, all served to set standards for future conferences that will be hard to pass.

Credit for the success of the Conference will be distributed in several directions: to the able planning of President F. M. McDowell and C. B. Woodstock, who have worked indefatigably in its behalf, to the counsel of Apostle F. Henry Edwards; and to N. Ray Carmichael and his assistants who, as hosts to the visitors, did everything that could be done to assure the comfort and happiness of all who came.

Graceland College was an ideal setting for the Conference. The classrooms, the office space, the College Chapel, and the large auditorium of Zimmermann Hall, all served the primary need of a variety of places to meet. The commissary department and the beautiful living room in Walker Hall met all the needs of the Conference for meals and informal social gatherings. The trees and lawns of the campus made possible many moments of relaxation in pleasant surroundings. Visitors who could not be accommodated at the College received every courtesy and hospitality in the homes of citizens of Lamoni, who deserve a generous word of appreciation.

Sunday was a significant day. The first meeting of the Conference was the Sacrament service. Seated on the platform were: President Frederick M. Smith and President F. M. McDowell; Apostles Paul M. Hanson, R. S. Budd, and F. Henry Edwards; then E. E. Closson, J. A. Koehler, C. B. Woodstock, and J. F. Sheehy; all of whom made contributions to the work of the Conference. Blair Jensen and Roy Cheville were in charge of the emblems. The program was quiet, orderly, and beautiful, and marked from the opening by a tone of spirituality.

The opening address was by President Frederick M. Smith, who struck the keynote of the conference by centering attention upon the effort to solve problems by discussion between youth and their leaders. Notes on this speech will appear in an early issue of the Herald. Bishop G. L. DeLapp also delivered a splendid address in the evening.

It is reported unofficially (just as we go to press) that the registration rose to more than six hundred before the second Saturday, and that there was an estimated number of twelve hundred visitors on Sunday. Space forbids us here to give even casual mention of all the good things that have been said of the various meetings of the conference. But we shall have more information later for the benefit of our readers who could not attend.

We may be proud of the fact that the church can call to its service the numbers of fine young people that were present at the Conference. To those who were unable to attend we shall try to carry some of the benefits of the meetings.

Etta Kett Finds Conference a Real Success But Not in the Expected Way

Comic Interlude

The Pilot was working on the Conference Edition of the Tower, 'way up in room 204 of the Ad building. It was there, years before, that he had ground out Religio Quarterlies, a pageant, and various other things, under the guidance of "Mac" who was then on the Graceland faculty. Deep in a reverie about the past, he awoke to find the door open, and Etta looking at him with an amused smile.

"Asleep again, Sir Pilot, according to your old habit. I wonder you ever get anything done. Or do you employ ghost writers?"

"I—ah—ulp—"

"Oh, it's quite all right. I just wanted to drop in and tell you that your write-up of the conference last week wasn't such an inspiration. It shows, doesn't it, that even editors may just as well wait for the facts to happen?"

The Pilot felt hurt. "Do you think it's kind to rub it in?" he asked.

"That was just my way of saying that I have the real report ready for you."

And to Etta belongs the credit for the report which appears on this page.

A Note From Etta's Diary

"Wednesday you could have smothered me with a ten-cent powder puff. I was sitting at one side of the room for the morning worship service, when I looked around and saw the new acquaintance, Howard, escorting a slim lip-stick up the aisle. She was dressed in an exaggerated organdie costume, which made her look like a dandelion, blowing white. She wore an engagement ring, too. And to cap it all, Bill, perspiring in the wake of his new blonde temptress, came seeking a pair of seats up towards the front. . . . Well, a wonderful service, in which I forgot all my troubles, and decided to devote the rest of my life to church work. And after the meeting I hailed that good sport and chivalrous gentleman, Timmy Walsh, who took me down town to drown my sorrow in an ice-cream soda. All refreshed, we made it back in time to enjoy the morning forum under Brother Edwards, who said good things faster than I could cram them into my notebook. In spite of it all, I am having a wonderful time at this Conference!"

Conference Paper for Sale

Extra copies of the "Youth Conference Special Edition" of the Graceland Tower may be had by sending ten cents, either coin or new one cent stamps to E. E. Closson, Lamoni, Iowa. This is to carry the news of the conference and its proceedings to as many as possible who may be interested.

This special edition contains much good material that will be a source of help and inspiration to young people and their leaders. You will find it well worth the money. While there is a good supply on hand you should send early in order to avoid disappointment.

"In order that joy may be constant, it must be founded upon something that does not change. If our joy be centered upon God—the real, the true, the eternal—it will endure always; it will not be vacillating, affected by every little flurry in our affairs."

"Let us think of the philosophy of the Master as something we can apply in our daily living. His teachings and truths about life are to be demonstrated in our own lives. His laws of life are those which we must apply in our own living."

www.LatterDayTruth.org

NEWS BRIEFS

Brief Messages From the Youth Conference

"A wonderful time—I never saw a more enthusiastic yet serious group of young people."

". . . Just the jolliest bunch you can imagine here at Camp Zion!"

"Lamoni people all seem happy over the progress of the convention."

"And do I enjoy the class lectures!"

"Even though it's been warm and dusty, everyone is a good sport."

"The inspirational talks have helped me immeasurably."

"Camp Zion" at Youth Conference

The young people who enjoyed the outdoor benefits of Camp Zion at the Youth Conference at Lamoni, Iowa, June 17 to 25, were the envy of their convention cousins. The campers hailed from Maine, Wisconsin, Missouri, Iowa, and other States, and established their tent city south of the athletic field of Graceland College. Some lived at the camp from choice and others from necessity in an effort to stretch a limited allowance over the nine days of the convention.

The first thing the campers did after taking up their abode in the tent city was to hold an election and a name-choosing contest. Officers elected were characteristic of the camp's temporary needs—a president, a judge, a camp marshall, an inspector, a chef, and others.

Visitors to Convention

Among general church officialdom attending the young people's convention at Lamoni last week, for either part or all of the time were the three members of the First Presidency—Frederick M. Smith, Elbert A. Smith, and Floyd M. McDowell; Bishop G. Leslie DeLapp; four members of the Quorum of Twelve—Paul M. Hanson, John F. Garver, F. Henry Edwards, and Roy S. Budd, and the following elders: C. B. Woodstock, John F. Sheehy, J. Charles May, Ward A. Hougas, and Leonard Lea, of Independence; George Mesley, of Kansas City; Glaude A. Smith, of Denver, Colorado; Henry L. Livingston, of Philadelphia, Pennsylvania; Arthur Oakman, Berkeley, California, and L. G. Holloway and Blair Jensen, of Lamoni. Australia was well represented by George Mesley, Walter Johnson, Albert Loving, and Colin Ferrett, and Denmark was represented by Edward Larsen.

Independence Has Ten Marriages in a Month

June this year is living up to its record as the month of weddings, at least such is the case in Independence. Here during the past month exactly ten weddings have been reported among young people of the church, and there are, no doubt, others which have not been reported. In this array of bridal couples either one or both of the principals are church members.

Preaches Fifteen Sermons in Eleven Days

Elder Glaude A. Smith, of Denver, Colorado, is the untiring missionary and president of Eastern Colorado District. He is crowded with church activities, and travels hundreds of miles to do his work.

Leaving his home on Wednesday, May 31, he traveled in his car thirteen hundred miles, visited ten towns and cities, preached thirteen sermons, made sixty-eight visits and four shorter calls, baptized two candidates, attended four other services, and preached two funeral sermons by June 11.

Brother Smith took a carload of young people from Denver to the convention in Lamoni.

President F. M. Smith at Rock Island, Illinois

President Frederick M. Smith was a stranger, except in name, to most of the Saints of Rock Island District until his visit there June 10, but his genial comradeship and words of counsel at their conference won him many friends. Visitors were present from almost every branch in the district.

In his addresses President Smith forcefully reminded the people of the tasks before the church.

Organize Two New Missions

A mission of the church was organized at Ann Arbor, Michigan, June 11, where the Saints are happy to have as their leader Elder W. E. Leland.

For some time a few Saints have lived in Anderson, Indiana, but they have been too few even to have a mission. During the week of June 11, Elder J. O. Dutton, veteran of the missionary field, held preaching services there each night. On Sunday, June 18, six candidates entered the waters of baptism. Anderson Saints have now organized a mission, and aspire to a fully organized and established branch in the near future.

www.LatterDayTruth.org

PREPARATION

From an address at the Young People's Convention of Northern (England) District . . .

By CYRIL CHORLTON

PREPARATION is essential no matter what activity or undertaking may be concerned. We have many examples to substantiate this. Consider for a moment the youth with the desire say to become an eminent doctor; he has the vision of his ideals before him for inspiration and encouragement, but this alone is useless. He must study, learn, and gain experience, starting with the little things and pursuing a directed course. Each stage is a task in itself which must be prepared for with patience and determination until out of the dream and desire grows something tangible, and the day arrives when he must qualify for his final degree. His success will depend upon the youth himself. If his preparation has been sound he will succeed and reach his objective, but if he is careless in his early efforts and does more dreaming than work he will never even approach the final stage. His ideals will be useless and he will utterly fail.

It is often said that great men are born, not made; but this is not true, for no matter what natural potentialities a person may have, there must necessarily be a period of conscientious preparatory work if anything worth while is to be achieved. The most successful business venture, industrial achievement, engineering feat or undertaking of any kind requires tremendous effort in preparation. In both secular and sacred history we find many instances where intensive preparation has been made for the accomplishment of a work, but I do not think we could take a finer example than that of our Savior Jesus. When we view his work among men we can divide it into two periods—thirty years of preparation for about three years ministry, and yet we know that at the age of twelve his knowledge and understanding amazed the learned men of his day.

In the process of preparing it is vital that we have an intelligent understanding of what is required of us. Particularly does this apply to us as young Latter Day Saints. We must appreciate the value of this work in which we are engaged, and also the responsibilities that will be ours when the time comes. It will be our job to carry on the work of the church in presenting to the world a real message of a practical religion. The world is waiting for such a message, but will only appreciate it when it is presented in a practical way. By demonstrating the saving power of the gospel in this life as well as a promise of eternal life will converts be made.

The chaotic state of things today and the terrible conditions under which thousands are suffering are the result of men pursuing their own selfish desires, and now their hearts are failing them in their attempts to find a solution for the problems, while the only solution is in the simple message of Jesus of Nazareth. But here is the emphasis—not only must this message be preached in so many words, but also in deeds; Christianity must show the way out of the difficulties. I was reading some time ago an article by a well-known writer in which he stated that the religion of the future would be a practical one, one which would govern the whole make-up of our lives. He said that the religions which are merely concerned with rituals and ceremonies would die out because the intelligent individual today is looking for something that will give him guidance and help in every problem with which he is faced. Is not this the essence of what is promulgated by our church?

And so in our preparation for the work we must have an understanding and an intelligent appreciation of what is expected of us. We must realize that the work of the Church is to fulfill the will of God and to help in the working out of His purposes —"the works and the designs and the purposes of God cannot be frustrated neither can they come to naught." If then we fail, God will appoint some one else for the work, therefore let us appreciate the privilege that is conferred upon us and be seriously concerned in equipping ourselves for the future. Now is the time for preparation. The results that will be achieved will, to a large extent, be affected by what we are doing.

This task of character building is not one that can be accomplished in a few days or weeks or even months; it is the result of patient and conscientious application of our understanding of the gospel to our lives, and as we grow in knowledge and experience and apply them so will these characteristics be reflected in our lives. The Apostle Peter says: "But the God of all grace, who hath called us unto his eternal glory by Christ Jesus, after that ye have suffered a while, make you perfect, stablish, strengthen, settle you." (1 Peter 5: 10.) Let us then endeavor to apply these graces and thereby make our religion practical. When we consider these things one might well ask, "What is the position of the youth of the church? Are they preparing for the future? And, Is the church giving direction and assistance to the young and encouragement to do their share in the work?" I believe that things are being done. The youth are entering into the spirit of the work with a desire to help and the church in turn is doing its part in giving the necessary leadership.

www.LatterDayTruth.org

The Latter Day Saint Concept of God

By Arthur Oakman

OUT OF THE HISTORY of the hundred years of the Latter Day Saint movement, and largely responsible for it there has emerged a very definite theology. Underlying the main movements of the church and interpreting them there is a very powerful and attractive belief about God. This understanding grew. It is still growing. It was not arrived at in a single flash of intuition, nor reasoned out by a group of men, it came from the experience of the Latter Day Saint people. We believe that as the history of the church progressively unfolds, this understanding of God and his nature will unfold also.

WHY WE TALK ABOUT GOD

We speak about God, not that we might define him. We cannot do that. Science cannot define. It describes. Were God "definable" and we were to "definitize" him, by the very fact of our so doing he would cease to be God, uninteresting, unattractive, known all about. It is only the assurance that we are in the presence of a great mystery that keeps alive reverence and compels our search. We talk about God because we cannot know him and remain silent. We believe that he is infinite, that is, not bound by finite limits. "The finite cannot comprehend the infinite." This does not make us deny the existence of God. Neither does it make us believe that God is wholly "unknowable." It means that we can only understand as the Infinite reveals itself. We believe that men can know God in conformity to their willingness to receive the revelation he chooses to give. As men have comprehended God so their language about him has become more beautiful. The limits of our ability to express the reality of God is clearly stated:

"But great and marvelous are the works of the Lord and the mysteries of his Kingdom which he showed unto us, . . . which he commanded us we should not write, while we were yet in the Spirit, and are not lawful for man to utter, neither is man capable of making them known, for they are only to be seen and understood by the power of the Holy Spirit, which God bestows on those who love him and purify themselves before him."—Doctrine and Covenants 76: 8.

Some one has said, "Words are used to obscure thought." He would better have said that there are some experiences which it is impossible to translate into words. So while we talk about God, we do so, not to tell all there is to know about him, but to tell what we know of him and describe how we came to know him. Latter Day Saints believe that to them, through their one hundred years of existence as an organized society, there has come a progressive revelation of God. We believe that the organization of the church was an outgrowth of revelation, and that it was organized expressly to live by and express the contents of that revelation. We do not believe that this understanding was given for us alone, because in the very heart of our understanding of God we have come to see that there is a compassion, a judgment, a justice exercised upon all mankind, and we are stewards of the truth committed to us.

"I the Lord am willing to make these things known unto all flesh . . . Search these commandments, for they are true and faithful."—Doctrine and Covenants 1: 6.

WHAT THEOLOGY IS

Theology is a statement of belief in God. Its true ground is experience. No man has a right, no man can, rightly describe God only as his own personal experience has led him to know and most assuredly believe. He may sympathetically read the experiences of other men, but only as the conclusions drawn from his study find verification in experience, can he really construct a working theology. In this wise must theology be distinguished from intellectualism and speculation. Christianity is not a system, it is a life. What is true of a man, is also true of a society. Any statement of belief in God is only valid as it has found confirmation in experience. And, where the human race has experienced God, there we find a statement of belief. Thus, in Israel, through Judah particularly, in generations of toil and hardship, the stern discipline of life, and the tutelage of the prophets, man came to believe in one God.

It is perfectly natural for man to give an explanation of experience. It is only through the meaning of the facts of life that they gain significance. It is nothing to man that a malefactor was crucified on a cross of wood. Thousands have so died. It is nothing that in his case it was unjust. Others have died unjustly. But if that Crucifixion means that God was made man for us men, and that we killed him by our sins, and that sin kills all men! then it is tremendously important. There is no message in the mere relation of the events of Easter morning. It may be phenomenal that this man rose from the dead, or that His disciples imagined they saw Him resurrected. But if it depicts the true destiny of humanity, and reveals at once the power of a righteous life, then it is all important. Theology rightly defined is the interpretation of the understanding of God through experience.

www.LatterDayTruth.org

God Is a Person

He is at least this. He must be at least this. As we contemplate great nature, and see the orderly processes of the universe around us, and as we realize that they seem to move toward us we can see that man is supreme. Or, rather, that personality is the highest expression of creative power. The universe produces persons. It must therefore have its origin in the activity of a person. As personality is the highest known thing, God must at least be personal. It is quite evident that we did not create ourselves. We emerged dependent. We did not create nature or the universe, it is that we discover. To "account" for the universe and ourselves then, we must needs believe that there is a Divine Person behind all the phenomena of nature and man. A Divine Creator.

There is a widespread belief that the universe is a vast machine constantly in the process of destruction and rehabilitation, a state of creative and destructive flux, and nothing more. Were we able to see into the heart of reality we would see nothing more than a mechanical force, which by its very persistency moves and produces all things. It works with such precision that it obscures the thought of any person back of it. It is self-complete. The more of it we discover, the deeper we are driven to see an inexorable law through all things. Science has helped confirm this belief. It has discovered, tabulated and made available for our use these universal laws. The universe: "A perfect machine."

But a moment's reflection will serve to show that the more perfect a machine, the greater the precision with which it works, the more it is able to go without attention, the greater the mind that invented. The most efficient machine seems to obscure the designer, it seems to go of itself. "It is almost human," we say; which of course, is a tribute to the mind which designed it. This is true of the universe. It is a "machine" made to produce persons. It must have a person to conceive such an end. The fact that men are finding order, mechanism and precision increasingly evident with their advancing knowledge moves us to see that a mind is back of it all. It is characteristic of mind that it finds expression in order. The keener the mind, the more orderly. A cultured mind resents disorder. It is the most glorious characteristic of nature, that man its highest expression demonstrates his superiority by his ability to create machines. It is in their use that man has dominated the material world around him. It is perfectly reasonable therefore, that as we find, through analyzation and experiment that we are surrounded by a vast machine of delicate and powerful construction, that we should be led to infer that a mind is responsible for it. Latter Day Saints believe this implicitly.

"Behold I am God; Man of Holiness is my name. Man of Counsel is my name, Endless and Eternal is my name, also. Wherefore I can stretch forth my hands and hold all the creations I have made, and mine eye can pierce them, also.

"The heavens, they are many, and they cannot be numbered unto man, but they are numbered unto me, for they are mine; and as one earth shall pass away and the heavens thereof, even so shall another come.

"He that ascended up on high as also he descended below all things, in that he comprehended all things, that he might be in all and through all things, the light of truth, which truth shineth. This is the light of Christ. As also He is in the sun, . . . and the power thereof by which it was made. As also he is in the moon, . . . and the power thereof by which it was made. As also the light of the stars, and the power thereof by which they were made. And the earth also, and the power thereof, even the earth upon which you stand."—Doctrine and Covenants 36; 22; 85.

Whatever may be the form or shape of God is relatively unimportant. We know personality now as it appears in the form of mankind. It is in the shape of a man that personality as we know it is manifested. Therefore our language about God naturally takes on anthropomorphism. Man, in the fundamental spiritual capacities of his nature is like God, a being of intelligence, will, emotion, and freedom. Man is like God. Man is theomorphic. God came here once we are told in the form of a man, and it was only after he left that he came into his own rightful place of recognition in the hearts and lives of those who saw him. "Show us the Father," we still say with Philip of old, and by our asking show our lack of understanding, and our inability to see the essential fact of the spiritual life of God. To say that God is a person is neither to limit him to a shape, nor to affirm that he has no shape, but to say that whatever the kind of organism through which he functions, he possesses all the attributes of personality, intelligence, feeling, will, freedom, truth, beauty. What is tremendously important is that men see the evidence that God is and why he created us. How, that by the very act of creation made us long for and aspire to him, and by the fact of his own being supplies the basis from which we can be satisfied. This is the ground of faith. His being inspires it.

It is beyond the structure of reason to imagine anything higher in the scale of creation than the most perfect person: "In whom all things have their consistency." Blind, unconscious force, or relentless mechanism is certainly inferior to personality and freedom. The one outstanding fact in the history of religion is that mankind, through the ages, has been searching for an object worthy of its devotion, and to which (Continued on page 815)

www.LatterDayTruth.org

The Third Prize Herald Contest Story

Ring Carries the Message

A True Story

By Florence Wildermuth Andes

"BOO! It's cold," said Mr. Hall, stamping the snow from his overshoes and shutting the door quickly to keep out the storm. "How are you feeling, Roxie? Better, I hope."

"Oh, no," his wife spoke from the bed, "My head and back ache so dreadfully and I am so hot part of the time, and cold the rest. I'm sure I never did cough so, and little Frank is so sick, too."

"Poor baby," he said sitting wearily in a chair, "I wish I could do something for you both, but I've done all I know. Is there anything you want?"

"No, only keep up the fires and give me another drink," she replied.

Mr. Hall brought the water to his wife and the child, both of whom drank feverishly. He stood looking at them for a moment, then straightened the bed covers and filled both stoves.

"Well it's early yet," he said, "but I'm going to do up the chores and house in. I don't feel very well. I'm afraid I'm taking the flu myself."

"Oh, I hope not," said his wife in alarm. "Some one must be up to keep the fires burning, and take care of the ones in bed."

"Maybe a good night's rest will make me feel better. I've been up quite a bit the last few nights," he replied as he put on his cap and mittens and went outside.

IT WAS THE MONTH OF MARCH, that first terrible winter of the "flu" epidemic. The long, cold winter, with its succession of blizzards and high winds with an occasional warm day or two in between, brought by a Southwest wind, which is called by the settlers a "chinook," and usually followed by intense cold, had been almost a horror to the homesteaders of Eastern Montana. And the dread specter of that fearful disease stalking like a giant across the snow-covered prairies.

This country is, in reality, only a continuation of the Dakotas, with its wide stretches of unbroken rolling prairies across which the wind sweeps, mile after mile, taking the snow with it, and piling it into huge drifts, often nearly covering the scattered shacks, and with nothing to check its speed, or to break the fierceness of its onslaught. The homesteaders had flocked there when it was opened by the government, and filed on claims, hoping to gain for themselves homes, and the houses they erected were often inadequate shelters for themselves and their families.

Mr. Hall's house consisted of two rooms sixteen feet square. The one was used as a kitchen, and contained a small cookstove, a homemade table and cupboard, a few chairs, and a box or two—one used as a washstand. The other room, which served as living room and bedroom, had a bed, a heating stove, a rude stand, an old writing desk, and a rocking chair.

There had been an early thaw that winter, and much of the snow that had lain so thick on the ground had melted and filled the coulees with water; but now the wind had veered to the northeast, the temperature was falling rapidly, and a blizzard was raging over the land.

MR. HALL soon finished caring for his horses and cattle, brought in plenty of coal for the night, and a pail of drinking water. "Come on in, Ring," he said to the dog who was at his heels. "It will be cold enough before morning that even you will be glad enough to be close to the fire, I think."

Ring was a shepherd dog who was much beloved by the family. He had lost one hind foot, having at one time forgotten to get away from a mowing machine quickly enough, but that did not hinder his activity or usefulness. He would go after the cows and bring them in, carry a drink of water to his master, or go on any errand when told to do so; in fact, he seemed to understand almost everything that was said to him.

He came when bidden and curled up by the fire while Mr. Hall again filled the stoves, gave another drink to his wife and little son, and went to bed. The wind howled dismally, and the snow beat against the windowpanes, finding any crack or crevice that was not perfectly tight, and sifted in to lie in little white ridges on the windowsills. Occasionally, in a lull of the wind, the "Yip-yip-yeo-woo" of the coyotes could be heard on the hills near by. Mr. and Mrs. Hall both tossed restlessly in their bed, and sometimes little Frank would rouse and cry fretfully for a drink.

MORNING came at last, but no cessation of the storm. Mr. Hall managed to crawl painfully from the bed at intervals to replenish the fire.

"It is a God's mercy that coal is to be had for the digging in this country," he said once to his wife. "We could never buy it, but as it is we have plenty. I'm glad I filled the shed up before this blizzard set in."

"Yes," said his wife, "it makes good heat even if it is only lignite. But what will you do when your pails are empty. Will you feel able to bring more from the shed?"

"I don't know," he said, "maybe I'll feel better after a little while." But he did not feel better; instead he kept getting worse. The water supply ran low and they were all too sick even to dip up the snow piled against the doors, and melt it for drinking water. "The coal is 'most gone—won't last another night," said Mr. Hall as he staggered back to bed along in the afternoon.

"What shall we do?" cried his wife. "We'll freeze to death," and she shivered as she thought of the times in previous winters when people had frozen in their own homes, because they chanced to be without fuel or fire.

"I don't believe I could get out to the coal shed, to say nothing of carrying in a pail of coal," said Mr. Hall. "I nearly faint every time I try to get across the room."

"No you can't, and I can't either. Oh, what will we do? Rasmussens are only a half mile away. Maybe they will see it if we hang out a signal," said Mrs. Hall.

"Not in this blizzard. They couldn't see anything, and if they did see it they wouldn't know what it meant. Besides who could hang it out?"

THEY WERE SILENT for a while, only their Creator knowing their thoughts. They were weak and suffering and death seemed stalking, in more than one form, around the lonely shack on the prairies.

"There's only one way," said Mr. Hall presently, "that is to send Ring for help. I hate to risk it for fear he may get lost or never make it, and freeze to death. It's a good ten miles to the home place.

"Poor Ring," said his wife. At the sound of his name the dog pricked up his ears, then came to the bedside and laid his head on the covers, his nose touching his master's hand.

"Ring, old boy," said Mr. Hall, caressing the silky ears lovingly, "Can you carry a message and save our lives?" Ring wagged his tail and licked the hand that fondled him, signifying his willingness to go.

www.LatterDayTruth.org

After a few moments Mr. Hall dragged himself slowly from his bed and got the dog something to eat, of such food as happened to be cooked, adding a generous slice of uncooked ham. Then, stopping to rest between times, he found a pencil and paper.

"Where will you send him?" asked his wife. "To Asa? He's probably at Spensers, as Herb was very sick the last we heard." Asa was a older son and the Spencers were the people who lived on the homestead formerly occupied by the Hall's.

After much difficulty and many stops to rest, the note was written, carefully wrapped and securely fastened to Ring's collar. Mr. Hall then took the dog's head between his hands and looking into the brown eyes raised adoringly to him said, "Go home, Ring! Go back home!" He pointed his finger in the direction of the home place. "Go home. Take the note to Asa. Go to Asa—go home—take it to Asa," he repeated. He opened the door letting in a whirl of snowflakes. The dog hesitated as the fierce wind struck him and frozen snow cut his face. He looked up at his master appealingly. Mr. Hall steeled himself against the beseeching eyes and urged him again. "Go home, go back home. Give the message to Asa. Good doggie, go home to Asa, and may God help you to get there," he almost sobbed. The dog made no more protests but darted forward, and was soon lost to view in the blinding storm.

THE DAY wore on to a close, and night fell like a pall of gloom over the cottage. They were so alone—so utterly alone. Shut in by the blizzard, they might as well, and really seemed to be, a thousand miles from any other human beings. There were no telephones, for the country was but newly settled, and only thinly populated. They were all very very sick, and with no one to care for them, no food cooked, very little water, and the icy hand of death seemed indeed ready to grasp them. From time to time Mr. Hall crept from the bed to put a little of the steadily diminishing supply of coal in the heater, shutting the draughts so as to conserve all the heat possible, carefully closing the door into the kitchen, and adding some coats, as more covering to the bed; but still they were shivering, and the windowpanes were covered thickly with frost. At last the dreary night wore away, but daylight is long a-coming in the northern land and it was eight o'clock before it was fully light.

Mrs. Hall tried to raise up in bed to look after baby Frank. "Oh," she moaned, "my head is so dizzy I can scarcely see."

"What do you want done, Roxy?" asked her husband weakly, "I can do it better than you."

"A drink for the baby, and myself, too, if there is enough."

"I'll get it," he said, thinking to himself: "If there is any." After several attempts, he succeeded in getting out of bed and over to the water pail, which he had previously brought in from the kitchen.

"Here's all there is," he said, as he held about half a cupful to the child's fever parched lips. The little one drank eagerly and then clutched the cup. "More water, I want more dwink."

"That's all there is now, dear," soothed the mother. "Wait till we can get some more."

"No! No! I want more dwink. I'se so firsty," wailed the little fellow piteously, but after a time lay down and again sank into fitful slumber.

"And so am I—so thirsty," said his mother.

"I'll see if I can get some snow," said Mr. Hall. "We must have some water." He was so weak and faint he could scarcely walk, even by holding by the furniture, but at last he reached the door. The ice had made it stick till he could scarcely pull it open, but at last it yielded, and he dipped up a pail of snow from the drift that stood nearly to the top of the doorway. It was hard to get the door closed, but he exerted all his strength to accomplish it as quickly as possible, for the icy air was fast filling the room. "There," he said, sinking into a chair close by. "In a minute I'll put this on the stove to melt and we'll have some water.

"I doubt if it will melt," said his wife. "There's not enough heat. Oh, it's so cold in here."

He made his way to the stove, set the pail of snow on it and turned to the coal pail.

"Here goes the last of the coal," he said, "and a mighty little at that."

"Oh, dear," moaned his wife, "and I'm so cold," and the tears came in spite of her efforts to keep them back.

He crept slowly back to bed and crawled under the covers.

"I wonder what time it is," said his wife presently.

"Nearly nine o'clock," he answered, "I can see the clock. I guess Ring never got to Asa."

"Poor dog," she said. "Well, I guess he's as well off as we are. He's probably already frozen to death and out of his misery by now, while we have that to go through with."

"Oh, don't give up hope yet, Roxie," said Mr. Hall. "Some one will come or something will happen. I think the storm must be about over—I'm sure the wind is not blowing so hard, and any way we can trust in God and pray that He will send us help."

"But He has let lots of people freeze to death," said his wife. "You know every winter some one is found frozen around here."

"I know, I know," he answered, "but He knows best. We can only trust him. If it is time for us to go, we will go. He doeth all things well. His will be done."

IT WAS NEARLY NINE O'CLOCK and the blizzard which had raged all night was over when Asa Hall came out of the house where he had been at the bedside of the sick man. Soon another man came out and joined him.

"Well," said Asa, "poor Herb is out of his misery, and has crossed the dark river, into the great beyond."

"Yes," replied the other, "he suffered enough, but he was a good man and is in the hands of a just God."

"It is something we all must meet one time or another," said Asa. "As the poet says, 'I have a rendezvous with death.'"

"Only God knows when or how," replied his companion. "His will be done." They were both silent for a few moments.

"Look," said his companion suddenly, pointing to a moving object. "Isn't that a dog out there? Why it is a dog, and he's all covered with snow and ice."

They both watched as the creature slowly and carefully made its way across the coulee, which was now filled with snow and slush ice, and not solidly frozen except in places. The two men went to the bank of the coulee.

"Why, look!" cried Asa, "I believe it's Ring, our old dog. Come here Ring, poor old doggie, you're just tired out, aren't you? Where have you been?"

He went as far as he dared down the bank of the coulee and helped the shivering dog up on the level ground.

"Why Ring, you're so cold and tired you're nearly dead. Where did you come from? I'll take you to the house and warm you up."

As he stooped to brush the snow from the dog's thick hairy coat, he noticed that something was fastened to his collar.

"What's this?" he exclaimed. Why Ring, old fellow, you've brought me a message, haven't you. How did you ever get here across all these coulees and through that awful blizzard last night?"

With trembling hands he unfolded the note. "What is it?" asked his friend, as he saw Asa's face turn pale.

"It's from Dad," he replied, "and it says: 'Come at once Asa, or whoever gets this message. Roxie and I and little Frank are very sick—no coal or water in the house—hurry! J. C. Hall.'"

Other hands than his warmed and fed the tired trembling dog, for Asa rushed toward the barn after the team and in a short time they were hitched to the bobsled. But as he was ready to start the faithful old Ring sprang into the sleigh with him.

"Well old dog," said Asa. "So you're ready to go back with me are you? Did you get some breakfast and get warmed up?"

It was fully three hours before they reached the little shack where Mr. and

(Continued on page 818.)

www.LatterDayTruth.org

THE DEATH OF CHRIST

A Discussion of Sacrifice

By Ray Whiting

"Christ also suffered for us, leaving us an example, that we should follow his steps." "Christ died for the Church."

THE WHOLE WORLD rejoices over the resurrection of Christ, and it is good that it is so, for the resurrection is the greatest event of all time. Nothing equals it in the hope held out for humanity. It was the climax of his ministry; it was the supreme test of his divinity. Without his triumphant resurrection, his life would have been spent in vain. Even though he taught with great wisdom and preached with eloquence and healed with miraculous power, if he had not risen from the dead he could not have been our Savior.

The Apostle Paul says: "And if Christ be not risen, then is our preaching vain, and your faith is also vain. . . . And if Christ be not raised, your faith is vain; ye are yet in your sins. Then they also which are fallen asleep in Christ are perished."

So I repeat, it is well that a great many today speak of his resurrection, but I wish to talk about his death for if we miss the significance of his death we will unquestionably miss the significance of his resurrection.

On every hand we see evidences of the fact that many do not comprehend the far-reaching effect of his death and resurrection, for there are some who seem to think that only those who in this life hear and obey the gospel have any chance to partake to any degree of the blessings made possible through Christ. And it is further taught that those who miss the portals of heaven at death must remain forever and ever in chains, and darkness, and eternal torment. Yet the Word says that "As in Adam all die, even so in Christ shall all be made alive." And again, "For the hour is coming, in the which all that are in the graves shall hear his voice." Peter says Christ went and preached to the spirits in prison which were disobedient in the days of Noah. And in Revelation 20 we find that some day all men will come forth, out of the sea and death and hell and every man be judged according to his works.

Then there are some who think since Christ died no other death is necessary. I find a number of Latter Day Saints apparently of this conviction. They fail to see that victory came after the cross; that life eternal came after the suffering; that newness of life comes after the death of the old life.

A Roman soldier, so the story goes, declared that the Christian system could not live because it was founded upon the death of its Leader. Yet we know that that is just why it does live. No worthy cause lives unless some one is willing to die for it. It is upon the sacrifices and worn-out or dead bodies of men and women that every good cause lives. When men quit dying for a cause—the cause dies.

Let us take Democracy for example. Men died that it might be. Think of the Revolution. Democracy then meant something vital, it was appreciated both by individuals and by groups. But how is it now? No one is sacrificing—no price is paid—there are no deaths, and Democracy has become cheap and unappreciated. It is dying in this great country of ours if it is not already dead.

There was a time when religious liberty was the moving force of men and nations. Then religion and the church meant something; they were appreciated. But religious liberty was founded upon the dead bodies of men and women who died as martyrs to the cause. How about religion and the church today? They are weak. The church is almost helpless in the grasp of our present world problems. It has lost the respect and confidence of many thinking people. We have taken our religion too easy. We are not paying the price of a vital religion. We are not paying the price of a vital religion. Not enough sacrifice is made for the church now; too few are actually dying for the cause. Let me quote from a Herald that comes to my hands as I prepare this sermon: (Herald, April 12, 1933, page 457.)

"Take our own land, America. Can you name one outstanding spiritual goal that engages the attention of the American people at this time? I cannot. I have sought diligently to find one, but if there is one it escapes me. Our forefathers who founded America had definite spiritual goals. They looked forward to religious liberty, to political liberty, and they sought to realize their goals in the great experiment in democratic government which they launched. People generally do not think about religious liberty now. What they want is liberty to be irreligious. Political freedom does not mean much. Politics has become a byword. Democracy has lost its hold on the popular imagination. The people too often do not respect the Constitution and have little respect for Congress. Some people are even beginning to wish for a dictatorship. In other words, they have forgotten the old ideals and have found no adequate new ones, so far as the nation is concerned."

It is easy to distinguish one who senses the deep significance of religion. Such a one is dying for it daily in one way or another. Such a one does not believe that just because Jesus died, no more death is necessary. He believes as did Peter that "Christ also suffered for us leaving us an example, that ye should follow his steps." And as John taught, "Hereby perceive we the love of God, because he laid down his life for (Continued on page 817)

www.LatterDayTruth.org

Weekly Health Letter

Some Common Skin Disorders

By A. W. Teel, M. D., Church Physician

No one will question that a clear, clean, and healthy skin is desirable. Those living in extremely hot climates, or during the ordinary hot summer months, especially in the middle west, and particularly those who are prone to skin disorders, should remember that the sweat glands are more active, making the skin more liable to infection.

Sun baths have been found to be very beneficial in many cases unless the exposure is too long, causing sunburn that may be extremely harmful and in many cases serious. Too long exposure to the sun destroys the protecting cover of the skin, and the entrance of various germs and parasites is made possible. It is a peculiar fact that red-headed persons and blondes are more susceptible to the rays of the sun than brunettes. A healthy tan should be acquired slowly, the subject being careful that the sensitive skin layers are not injured. Always remember that when a skin is moist it burns easily.

"Barber's itch" has a similarity to ringworm and is medically known as impetigo contagiosa. It is more frequently seen in summer and may attack the feet or hands. As it is an infectious disease it rapidly spreads from one person to another especially in children, characterized by crusted sore patches of a yellowish color which may spread from the face to other parts of the body. Antiseptic ointments applied to the affected part quickly respond to treatment if judiciously applied.

Ringworm is a parasitic disease and usually affects the hands and feet, but all parts of the body are susceptible to it. It is a contagious vegetable parasite, being particularly prevalent during the summer months and may attack the hair follicle especially those of the bearded regions, but any part of the body may be affected. The involved parts have patches blister-like looking places and are red and angry in appearance. An individual may contract this disease in gymnasiums and contaminated floors, Turkish baths, and bathhouses. Some of the bathhouses have antiseptic solutions to be used as a preventative. The easiest way to prevent this disease is a simple precaution of wearing shoes or slippers or bathing shoes.

Early attention to this disease is very imperative, and the treatment should be continued by a physician.

The skin plays a very important part in preserving the health of the body and should be cleansed every day, special attention being paid to the summer months when many other skin diseases that have not been mentioned in this article are more prevalent than in the winter months. In order to prevent trouble of this kind you should take a hot bath daily, followed by a cold shower. If this simple prevention is carried out, it will go a long way toward keeping the skin healthy.

Too Much Ballyhoo

By E. J. Hayden

MAGAZINES have come to occupy a very important place in the lives of almost every family in the nation. There is scarcely a home in which at least two magazines will be found, regularly, upon the reading table. And in the selection of these magazines is reflected the chief interests of those who read them.

It is true, of course, that the radio has come to take the place of a considerable portion of our reading. But still there is a large amount of interest in the current publications of the day. The daily press brings the news of the immediate present. But we have come to look to the publishers of our magazines, to furnish entertainment for a dull evening; to provide us with the latest developments of our favorite hobby; to help us over the perplexities in our trade, or avocation; to bring to us, logically arranged, and explained, the significant and vital points of the work of our legislators, and a hundred and one other things, aside from providing a reliable buyer's guide, in the way of carefully selected advertising matter.

All these things are true: and because they are true, we should give careful consideration to what we read, and encourage our children in reading. And it might be slightly surprising to some of us to learn how much, or perhaps we should say how little, we really know about the things in which we profess to be the most vitally interested. To illustrate: Only recently, a farmer complained very bitterly, that he could not obtain satisfactory results in raising forage crops. And a young man, with practically no knowledge of farming, asked: "Have you ever tried lespedeza?" To which the farmer replied: "Lespe what? I never heard of it." When informed that almost all farm papers were full of talk about it, he said: "Well, to tell the truth, I have had time to do but very little reading of farm papers, for three or four years." Yet this farmer never misses a number of either the True Story Magazine, or Ballyhoo: and can tell you almost everything published in either of them.

Truly, "A little nonsense, now and then, is relished by the best of men." A little pastry is a fine

www.LatterDayTruth.org

thing with which to add zest to a meal. And pickles are a splendid relish. But who could live on pie and pickles? And we should seek, with fully as much care, to provide proper nourishment for the mind, as for the body. A diet of Ballyhoo, whether it goes by that name or by some other, will surely bring on a case of mental disorder, which will be all but incurable. And if one may seek the cause through an examination of the results: it would not be hard to guess that a great many of the voters were devoting more time to ballyhoo, of various sorts, than they were to ascertaining the facts. If it had not been so, we would not now find ourselves face to face with the forces of booze and boodle, in battle array.

THE LATTER DAY SAINT CONCEPT OF GOD

(Continued from page 810.)

it can surrender itself. It is this longing that is responsible for religion. It is the fear of being dissatisfied in his search that has led man to worship, and sustains even now his worship. "Man's other self." No rational being can long worship anything less than himself without surrendering some of his reason. Latter Day Saints believe that God is a person. This belief receives fresh impetus as we contemplate the circumstances which surrounded the coming forth of the church. Joseph Smith tells us that in the exercise of prayer he received a startling confirmation of his faith. On a memorable spring morning of 1820 when he was earnestly seeking light for direction, he "Saw two personages standing above me in the air. One of them spoke to me, calling me by name and said, (pointing to the other) 'This is my beloved Son, hear him.' "—Church History, volume 1, pages 9ff.

God Articulate

It is not surprising that God should speak to men. "He that made the eye shall He not see?" says the Psalmist. He that made the mouth shall He not speak? Basic to our belief in God as a person, and growing out of that belief is the doctrine of Divine Revelation. Now the prayer of Joseph Smith, as are all prayers which count, was the address of person to person.

If a belief about God is held which precludes the possibility of his speaking to men, it must either be on the ground that he cannot, or that he will not. The tragic thing about such belief is that those who hold it shut their hearts to the recognition of the voice of God. Now either God has not the power to speak or he is indifferent, loveless and capricious. To say that he cannot speak to men is to say that he is something less than we are. For it is the very center of human personality that it is able to communicate itself to others. To say that God cannot speak is to insult him. To believe otherwise, that he will not, is to deny the experience of the best men of the race, who, despite sorrow and difficulty have loved God. "Though He slay me, yet will I trust Him." And, when we say that God speaks to men, we mean that he communicates his mind to them just as surely and definitely as man speaking to man. "As a man speaketh with his friend." It is not only that we have an appreciation of the creative work of God, and interpret what we consider he says. It is not only that the sense of beauty or that the impulsion to duty leads us to feel within ourselves that God is speaking to us. It is more than this. It is that God, while leading us to these ecstasies tells us by his own voice the things it is imperative we know. And, just as surely as teacher to pupil, mind to mind, person to person do Latter Day Saints believe that God speaks to men, and guides their individual and social life.

God a Social Being

Personality is only socially developed and sustained. I know myself as I know other people. Were there no other people I would never be self-conscious. I come to see in other persons my own activities, and through their expression I am led to know myself. Consequently I cannot feel unless there is an object about which I am emotionally disturbed. I cannot will without seeing a result to which I move. I cannot be a person unless it is through the activities of other persons toward me and me toward them. God likewise, is not a solitary individual. We say he was a person before the world was, having within His own being all the elements of conscious personal life. He loved his Son. Through His Son were all things created. Because of what men might become in the Son of God He created them. As it is impossible to conceive of a personal God except he should have some object in which he can find full expression of himself, we say:

"Which Father, Son, and Holy Ghost is one God, infinite and eternal."—Doctrine and Covenants 17: 5.

We may but dimly see into the heart of the being of God, but our belief that God is a person, and that he contains within his own being all the elements of conscious personal life we have come to know as he has revealed himself through his son, Jesus Christ.

"And the Father and I are one, I am in the Father and the Father in me."—Doctrine and Covenants 50: 8.

It may be that had we been left to reason our way through to a conclusion about the nature of God we should utterly have failed to come to a satisfying understanding thereof. Reason without revelation gropes in the dark. But believing that God has revealed to us something of his nature, we come to welcome as the light of our reason this conception of God as a person, and therefore a social being. Reason, while it may of itself be unable to construct an adequate conception of the divine nature, has within itself the ability to recognize and assimilate the reality as expressed in revelation.

Of course, the language is inadequate to the reality, but it is the best language we can find to express the truth about God which has come to us through our own history, and the lives of men who have found God through his son Jesus Christ. Any other language, which implies God as less than a person, is misleading and false. And, what is more, this personal Godhead could exist as personal even before the worlds were created. God does not have to depend on this world for self-expression. It is very satisfying to the reason as we contemplate an Infinite Creator, a Person, who was before the world was, to think that He was a social being.

That God Is Love

No one can think about the intentions of the universe without really feeling that they are good. Everything seems to move toward man. Much has been written in speculations to where the center of the universe is. The question is wholly relative. Every person is a center of the universe. The beauty of inorganic nature, the glory of a sunset, the sweetness of the dawn, the wonder of the rugged mountain belong to man. The affection of friends, the deep love of mother all point to a beauty and affection which cannot be denied.

"Inasmuch as ye do these things [keep my commandments] the fullness of the earth is yours: the beasts of the fields and the fowls of the air, and that which climbeth upon the trees, and walketh upon the earth; yea, and the herb and the good things which cometh of the earth, whether for food or for raiment, or for houses or for barns, or for orchards, or for gardens, or for vineyards; yea all things which cometh of the earth, in the season thereof, are made for the benefit and the use of man, both to please the eye, and gladden the heart; yea, for food and for raiment, for taste and for smell, to strengthen the body, and to enliven the soul. . . . and in nothing doth man offend God, or against none is his wrath kindled, save those who confess not his hand in all things, and obey not his commandments."——Doctrine and Covenants 59: 4, 5.

www.LatterDayTruth.org

"And behold all things have their likeness; and all things are created and made to bear record of me."—Genesis 6: 66; Inspired Version.

Were it not for the awful fact of sins, death and dissolution, we should indeed feel that all things good were worth while. Our wavering hope needs confirmation in the face of these facts of life. It seems as if the whole purpose of life is frustrated when people die. We cannot feel that it is just, it is not intended to be that way. It is this unalterable conviction which makes men do all they can to conserve life. The greatest thing a man can do is to save another's life. How then is death just? But our weak faith receives a welcome confirmation. God himself comes here and demonstrates that death can be overcome. Through Jesus Christ we feel that death loses its sting. In the fact of his resurrection we are led to see life and righteousness coinciding to be supreme. And this affection of God for us is all the more confirmed when we see that he had to die himself to give us this assurance. In the gift of Jesus Christ, who was the Son of Man according to the flesh, and the Son of God according to the Spirit, and who lived here, died here, was resurrected here, and is now eternally alive in the heavens; in the gift of Jesus Christ God has confirmed His love toward humanity. He has demonstrated his power to vindicate the promise of life to his sons. It is as if he were saying to men, "You men, listen, death is a calamity; it is repulsive to you and to me, it is a negation of all that I am, it is an insult to my love for you: but I have shown you that it is not necessarily final: You need not die. There is a way by which life can be perpetually renewed. I have paid an awful price that you might know this, but I was happy to do it. You need not be subject to death if you live the kind of life I lived when I was among you."

"For, behold, I, God, have suffered these things for all, that they might not suffer, if they would repent; but if they would not repent they must suffer even as I; which suffering caused myself, even God, the greatest of all, to tremble because of pain, and to bleed at every pore, and to suffer both body and spirit . . . nevertheless glory be to the Father, and I partook and finished my preparations unto the children of men."—Doctrine and Covenants 18: 2.

"For God so loved the world that he gave his only begotten Son."—John 3: 16.

Latter Day Saints believe that by the fact that Jesus Christ now lives, the sources of spiritual power which persisted through his own life and death upon earth, and enabled him to take again his body, are available for all men. Christ we believe had power over death. He rose from the dead. He had therefore no need to have died. Of course, if he need not have died, he must have done it voluntarily. He did it for our sakes, because He loved us.

In the living Lord is the conviction that God is love. Who is afraid of death when he knows that he is going through that dark gateway with a friend?

"Yea, though I walk through the valley of the shadow of death, I will fear no evil; for thou art with me."—Psalm 23.

God Absolute

Jesus has demonstrated that the worst thing sin can do to a righteous life is not sufficient to rob it of life. It may just temporarily disarrange the scheme of things. God is supersatanical. Death cannot hold his son. He enters into the house of the strong man and spoils him of his goods.

"My wisdom is greater than the cunning of the Devil."

"The works, designs, and purposes of God cannot be frustrated neither can they come to naught."—Doctrine and Covenants 2.

"I am God, and beside me there is none else."

The resurrection of Christ has become at once the center of history and its goal. It is that to which righteousness moves. It is that which truth brings, and in which beauty receives full satisfaction.

"All power is given unto me."—Jesus.

God Exists in Law

Science has taught us that there is no "capriciousness" in the nature of things. All things have their essential nature. All things behave according to prescribed laws. Fire burns, water wets, friction causes heat. All effects have causes back of them. There is a reason for all things. It is this fact of law which has made science possible. One of the dogmas of scientific research is that "Law is uniform, There is only one principle back of things, nature is knowable." These laws, as Emerson says, "execute themselves." They bring their own reward and punishment with them. It is by the recognition and appropriation of these laws, and working in harmony with them that man has gained supremacy. Were there no law, all would be chaos. No such thing as reason could exist, neither mind, nor order. It is only as the mind of man discovers the law in nature, that he becomes a "reasoning animal." "We are the offspring of God" (Paul). The very existence of God demands law and order. Latter Day Saints believe that God is the Great Lawgiver. He must be impersonal because these laws are immutable. They are eternal. Whoever transgresses them cannot escape the punishment, whoever keeps them cannot escape the reward.

"All kingdoms have a law given: and there are many kingdoms; for there is no space in the which there is no kingdom; and there is no kingdom in which there is no space, either a greater or lesser kingdom. And unto every kingdom is given a law; and unto every law there are certain bounds also and conditions.

"That which is governed by law, is also preserved by law, and perfected and sanctified by the same."

"All truth is independent; in that sphere which God has placed it, to act for itself."—Doctrine and Covenants 85: 90.

There is no "sentimentality" with God. The laws of the universe demand adherence if they are to preserve. God cannot "forgive" on the basis of "feeling" alone. He may and does suffer with us, but the only condition on which reward can come is through obedience.

"I, the Lord, cannot look upon sin with the least degree of allowance."—Doctrine and Covenants 1: 5.

Omnipotent

As God is a law-abiding being, he is only able to do that which is in accordance with law. In the operation of these laws of the universe God is omnipotent. He can do anything which is in harmony with his nature. He cannot do anything. Omnipotence does not mean this. It means powerful above all things. Powerful in and through all things.

A God of Miracles

As in man, so in God. The last generation has wrought magic by the appreciation and the use of the laws of nature and the universe. As man uses the laws around him to serve his purposes, so God in his being uses that law of life to accomplish his purposes. A miracle is not the negation of law. It is the result of the interaction of law. The law of gravity is still in operation when I raise a stone from the ground. But it is superseded. A miracle is an extraordinary event. Anything we do not understand appears miraculous. Anything that happens, and of which we feel there is no reasonable explanation we feel is miraculous. The conception that the world of nature is dominated by law in no way precludes the action of God in a series of miraculous events. No one would be presumptious enough to say that we know all the laws of the universe. When we feel that the very essence of God demands order, and contemplate the vast disorder which has come as the result of our own blindness and sin, it is not unnatural that God should insist, by occasional miracles that his nature must be satisfied. As Augustine said, A miracle is God's protest against sin. He does nothing contrary to the supreme law of nature, but the miraculous appears to be in conflict with what we know in nature.

The miracles of Jesus were not capricious. He avoided giving the impression of a mere wonder worker. He told those he healed to not speak his name. He knew that the childish delight which comes from scrutiny of the mysterious would obscure his real mission. All the miracles of Jesus were the restoration of nature, not its negation. Sin has brought disorder, disease and death. God counterworks. He restores that which he originally created.

www.LatterDayTruth.org

Latter Day Saints believe that God is a God of miracles. It is impossible to think of a Christian Church without the miracle of the Resurrection to account for it. He who has created, can re-create.

God Purposeful

Latter Day Saints believe that the whole earth was created originally that righteousness and truth might dwell thereon. In a moving passage of modern scripture, the earth is represented as protesting against the perversion of the original purpose of God through sin.

"And it came to pass, that Enoch looked upon the earth, and he heard a voice from the bowels thereof, saying, Woe, is me the mother of men! I am pained: I am weary because of the wickedness of my children! When shall I rest and be cleansed from the filthiness which has gone out from me? When will my Creator sanctify me, that I may rest, and righteousness, for a season, abide upon my face?"—Doctrine and Covenants 36: 10.

Again:

"Therefore it [the earth] must needs be sanctified from all unrighteousness, that it may be prepared for the celestial glory; for after it hath filled the measure of its creation, it shall be crowned with glory, even with the presence of God the Father; that bodies who are of the celestial kingdom may possess it for ever and ever; for, for this intent was it made, and created; and for this intent are they sanctified."—Doctrine and Covenants 85: 4.

God created man for a purpose.

"For this is my work and my glory, to bring to pass the immortality, and eternal life of man."—Doctrine and Covenants 22: 23.

But men have sinned and rebelled against God. His purpose has temporarily been frustrated. Their agency or ability to choose has given them this possibility of rebellion. They have no need to rebel. Man can say "yes" and "no" even to God. He can say "yes" and "no" to himself. This is what makes him a man. This is what makes him like God through obedience. Because man has failed to do according to his knowledge of the best over vast areas of life suffering has ensued. In this suffering God is affected.

"All flesh is corruptible before me, and the powers of darkness prevail upon the earth, among the children of men, in the presence of all the hosts of heaven, which causeth silence to reign, and all eternity is pained."—Doctrine and Covenants 38: 3.

"And it came to pass that the God of heaven looked upon the residue of the people, and he wept."—Doctrine and Covenants 36: 6.

But in the final analysis his purpose will be served.

"I will not suffer that Satan shall accomplish his evil design in this thing."—Doctrine and Covenants 3: 2.

There has been a vast disordering of God's world. Empires have risen and fallen. Governments have evolved and wasted and crumbled. Systems of political, economic and social life have been tried, and have failed. Even today we are wondering just how long our present industrial system can last. The blindness of men has brought disorder. Man needs redemption. He needs instruction from an infallible person. The systems of the past have been built upon the sands. They have not been planted by that Father. Latter Day Saints believe that God's purpose will be served, and that his government will be set up on earth.

"And it shall come to pass in the last days, that the mountain of the Lord's house shall be established in the top of the mountains, . . . and all nations shall flow unto it."—Isaiah 2: 2.

"I the Lord . . . willeth that all men shall know that the day speedily cometh, the hour is not yet, but is nigh at hand, when peace shall be taken from the earth, and the Devil shall have power over his own dominion; and also the Lord shall have power over his saints, and shall reign in their midst, and shall come down in judgment upon Idumea, or the world."—Doctrine and Covenants 1: 6.

Latter Day Saints believe that even now God is working to accomplish this purpose.

God Is the Final Judge of All Men

Judgment is always operative. It is in the very nature of life itself. Every act, brings a reaction. Every thought brings a reward or a punishment. Every habit sows a behavior pattern. "Sow a thought, reap an act. Sow an act, reap a habit. Sow a habit, reap a character. Sow a character and reap a destiny." Morality is governed by law. The wicked man is a fearful man. The actively good man is at peace, and knows he is "safe." He that will not be righteous, in the last resort cannot. "Where I am, they cannot come for they have no power."—Doctrine and Covenants 28: 8.

Men may seem to escape the judgments of unrighteousness, but in the end the judgment is sure, and it is God who judges.

"Hearken . . . ye people from afar, and ye that are upon the islands of the sea, listen together; for verily the voice of the Lord is unto all men, and there is none to escape, and there is no eye that shall not see, neither ear that shall not hear, neither heart that shall not be penetrated; and the rebellious shall be pierced with much sorrow, . . . and the Lord shall come to recompense unto every man according to his work, and measure to every man according to the measure which he has measured to his fellow man."—Doctrine and Covenants 1: 1, 2.

THE DEATH OF CHRIST

(Continued from page 813.)

us: and we ought to lay down our lives for the brethren." Paul said, "I die daily."

We can know of the reality of eternal life only after we have died to the things of the world. An appreciation of the new life can be had only after we have died to the old one. The joy of Easter comes only after the suffering of the Cross. Death is a principle of Life and holds true in every realm, "Except a corn of wheat fall into the ground and die, it abideth alone." "He that loveth his life shall lose it; and he that hateth his life in this world, shall keep it unto life eternal."

Christ died for the church. What a lesson! Yet so few have learned it. He knew that the church, if it was to survive, was to live on the sacrifice and suffering and self-denials and death of those who professed to love it. Therefore, "he suffered for us leaving us an example." As my text says, "that we should follow in his steps."

Too many of us have acted as if the church was not necessary at all, or else as if it could survive and flourish without effort or sacrifice on our part. It is said that a Quaker professor speaking before a class recently said, "If the Quaker church ever fails, it will be because there are not enough Quakers in jail." If properly interpreted, how true that is of any church.

If the church of God fails on the earth it will be because there are not enough men and women sacrificing and suffering and dying daily for it.

May we see in the death of Christ, not only the fact that he died to make the resurrection possible, but that he also died for the church as an example for us that, if we too would rise to newness of life and taste the real joys of the resurrection, we must give ourselves whole-heartedly and unreservedly, and if necessary, literally die for the church.

"It is good to have money and the things that money can buy. None of us question that. But it is also good to check up once in awhile and make sure that we have not lost the things money cannot buy. Sometimes we get so busy 'making a living' that we forget how to live."

www.LatterDayTruth.org

RING CARRIES THE MESSAGE

(Continued from page 812.)

Mrs. Hall lived, for the drifts were very high in places and had to be shoveled and the roads unbroken all the way. There was no smoke coming from the chimney as they came in sight, and Asa's heart smote him in fear for he wondered if the Death Angel who had visited the Spencer's place during the night, had also stopped at his father's home.

He urged the tired horses forward, and Ring sprang from the sleigh and ran ahead, barking joyously as, in a few minutes, they turned in at the gate, which stood open, as most farm gates do in that country in the winter time. He climbed from the sled and ran to the house, and, kicking down the snow, he forced open the door and entered, Ring dashing in with him. All was quiet in the room, and first he thought his worst fears were to be realized, but as he went up to the bed his father opened his eyes.

"I was sure you would come, Asa," he said feebly. "Thank God you are here in time."

"Yes," said his mother," when I heard Ring barking I knew he'd carried the message and you were near. Good old Ring; he saved our lives."

"I want a dwink," wailed baby Frank.

Asa quickly brought water from the well to quench the thirst of the feverish ones, and coal and wood from the shed to build the fire, and in a short time the room was warm and the sick ones well cared for and cheerful. Then he went to the barn, fed and watered the cattle and horses and in a short time was back in the house, and began to cook some nourishing food for the invalids.

"Cook a little extra Asa," said his father. "Good old Ring shall have a big supper tonight."

"Thank God for Ring," said Mrs. Hall, "for surely He guided the dog through the darkness and blizzard."

"He guides us all," said her husband reverently, "but I, too, say 'Amen!' thank God for Ring."

"Yes, indeed," said Asa. "He who guides the waterfowl in its flight, directed the footsteps of our faithful dog and answered your prayers."

"It takes courage to face yourself and place the responsibility for your happiness, your success, and your health squarely upon yourself, but when you are courageous enough to do this, you will begin to find the solution for your difficulties."

"It is by the passion of sympathy that we enter into the concerns of others. . . . For sympathy must be considered as a sort of substitution by which we are put into the place of another, and affected in a measure as he is affected."—Edmund Burke.

Unanswered Prayer

By Merl B. Grover

(From a radio address.)

All seemed finished. The cruel cross had done its awful work. Pity and love had taken decent care of the broken body. The tomb was sealed, and the broken hearted followers were left watching in the shadows. Those followers had loved him; they had been reborn as a result of their experience with him; they had tried to make their ways his ways, and they had now come to the place where they must witness his death. A great leaden weight seemed fastened to their heartstrings, for not only had they lost their dear friend, not only had the path which they thought had no ending, come apparently to an end, but they suffered the agony of unanswered prayer—and to a people whose faith is as supreme as was the faith of those people in Jesus, and in Jesus' God, the refusal of their God to hear their petitions was indeed bitter.

They must have prayed for him. Mary his mother prayed that his cross might be lifted, for do not all mothers pray that their loved ones might not have to suffer? Mary Magdalene his friend must have prayed as only a deep and devoted friend can pray—that he be given strength; Peter who had denied him; Thomas, who had sometimes doubted him; John who had leaned upon him—all (if the same kind of love burned in their breasts as we know about today) must have prayed with all their hearts that this awful ordeal might be spared him. And now their prayers were unanswered, unheeded, and all seemed dark and hopeless and ended.

But those followers of Jesus had yet to learn what most of us have yet to learn today—that there is no unanswered prayer. A prayer may be denied in form, but it is never denied in substance. Our desired blessing may not come to us in our way so that we may recognize it—but it ever comes in God's way. I think often of the mother of Augustine. Her only son was going wrong, and he had announced his intention of going to Italy. Italy was a land of temptations, and she saw him there ruining his life in the excesses in which she believed he must inevitably indulge. So she prayed that he might not go to Italy, but her prayer was unanswered—her humble petition was refused, and the refusal was bitter. Augustine went to Italy and in Italy he found God. God found him and he discovered there the work by which the world was to know him, and by means of which he was to leave his mark upon the world. Was his mother's prayer unanswered? And I think also of the prayer of Jesus—"If it be thy will, let this cup pass from me" —but it did not pass from him: he had to drink it to the last bitter dregs. But who can say his prayer was unanswered? See the serenity with which he bore his suffering, look at the glory he brought to his heavenly Father, remember the love he gave in return for the hatred of those who crucified him. Unanswered prayer? Ah, no; altered, perhaps, in form but never denied in substance. God never closes one door before us but he opens another beside us, and many of us in looking back can see now a door he closed that we thought then was a denial, and discover another that he opened, which we know now was the real answer.

The greatest tragedy of Christianity is and has ever been the tragedy of misunderstanding. His people, at the time of his ministry, misunderstood him, and allowed him to be crucified; the Crusaders misunderstood him and sought his material, not spiritual, possessions; many of us in experiencing defeated hopes apparently at his hands have in our narrow vision, misunderstood, being unable to see through and beyond, and recognize that he denied us our little blessing in order to bring to us his great blessing. And when we come to understand him better, we will begin to appreciate more the kind of a God he really is.

Fate and Life

By Gladys McKim Redding

On every beach there is a tide,
Where life swings to and fro:
Whose shifting heaps of shining sand
Countless changes show.

Each endless plain has its rippling breeze—
Not lightly does it pass,
For it changes the signals of every leaf—
Repatterns all the grass.

Each mountain has a raging stream
To grind its fortress down—
Its frost to change the verdant green
To a dull, lackluster brown.

Each Indian summer brings its fall,
With days bereft of cheer.
Before the world gets gay with Spring
There must be a winter drear.

In every season there must be Boisterous wind and rain.
In every life one must see
Some sorrow and some pain.

With each rose there is a thorn,
With each victory, a fight;
Before one views the beauteous morn
He first goes through the night.

In each there is a valiant heart;
An inborn courage true,
A light that guides and shows our part
In all that we must do.

For each there is a destiny,
For all a fated star:
Where e're we be, on land or sea,
In countries near or far.

www.LatterDayTruth.org

QUESTION TIME

Does the Doctrine and Covenants teach that all will finally be saved?

Section 76, paragraph 4, states that all except those who are overcome, deny the truth and the Holy Spirit, and defy God's power, shall be redeemed "in the due time of the Lord."

Those who deny the Spirit after having received it are called the sons of perdition, and many believe that they are those who had been saved, but who later willfully throw away their salvation and will to serve the Devil. This view holds that all will receive salvation, but that some will throw it away and will not finally be saved.

That salvation is bestowed upon many in this life appears to accord with Paul's statement to Timothy that the Lord "hath saved us," and with his words to Titus (3: 5) that "according to his mercy he saved us." Yet that it might be thrown away seems to be recognized in Paul's statement that he kept himself in subjection, lest after he had preached to others, he might "become a castaway."

Various texts appear to show that the saved are mentioned in two ways in the Scriptures: those who in this life obey the gospel, and those who continue faithful and obtain the immortal glory of the celestial resurrection. The inference is that we retain our free agency after obeying the gospel, and may become servants of the Devil and the sons of perdition afterward if we choose to do so.

The foregoing does not mean that all will be saved in the same glory, for there are three glories referred to that shall be occupied by individuals according to their works. Whether or not any of those of the lesser glory will ever reach the celestial glory at some time in eternity, has been much speculated upon. However, the same section (76: 7) shows that those who receive the telestial glory shall not reach the presence of God, but are debarred "worlds without end."

Was Lehi a descendant of Ephraim, or of Manasseh?

The Book of Mormon states (Book of Alma, 8: 3) that he was a descendant of Manasseh. The text is as follows:

"Aminadi was a descendant of Nephi, who was the son of Lehi, who came out of the land of Jerusalem, who was a descendant of Manasseh, who was the son of Joseph, who was sold into Egypt by the hands of his brethren."—Pages 334, 335.

From the fact that several others migrated with Lehi to the promised land, it is believed by many that some of them may have been descendants of Ephraim. But there seems to be no text that determines the exact lineage of all who accompanied Lehi to the new country, hence it is somewhat a matter of conjecture.

What is the modern name of the river Laman (Book of Mormon 5: 35)?

From the descriptions of time, direction, and characteristics of the section referred to, it seems probable that Lehi had reached a point by the gulf of Akaba, which is an eastern wing of the northern extremity of the Red Sea. There are no permanent rivers indicated at this point, but at certain seasons the rains form torrents of waters which rush down through the valleys to the sea in this vicinity. It was probably after the rains of such a season that Lehi reached this point, for he mentions it as the "fountain of the Red Sea." At such seasons as has been mentioned there is a high tide of water pouring into the main body of the Red Sea from the gulf of Akaba, which accords with the description of the text.

Did ancient biblical nations have coined money?

The most ancient custom involving the precious metals was to weigh out the amount agreed upon in a given transaction. This is mentioned in Genesis 23: 15 and afterward. It is believed that silver was the first metal to be used in this way, and was the kind of "money" referred to in Genesis 17: 12, this being the Hebrew term keseph, which is more commonly translated silver, as the "thousand pieces of silver" of Genesis 20: 16. Such a large number of pieces would seem to indicate that they used pieces of definite size or value even in that ancient time. But coined money is said to have been invented by the Lydians about 685 B. C.

A. B. PHILLIPS.

www.LatterDayTruth.org

Prayer and Testimony

A Prayer

Teach me, Father, how to go
Softly as the grasses grow;
Hush my soul to meet the shock
Of the world as a rock;
But my spirit propt with power,
Make as simple as a flower.
Let the dry heart fill its cup,
Like a poppy looking up;
Let life lightly wear her crown,
Like a poppy looking down.

Teach me, Father, how to be Kind and patient as a tree.
Joyfully the crickets croon
Under shady oak at noon;
Beetle on his mission bent,
Tarries in that cooling tent.
Let me also cheer a nook—
Place for friendly bread and book—
Place where passing souls can rest
On their way, and be their best.

—Edwin Markham, in "We Believe in Prayer."

Work Grows Dearer Each Year

By Mirtie B. Keith

I have had no opportunity to meet with the Saints since last summer in our reunion at Hearne, Texas. I enjoyed this association with the members of the church.

I receive great strength from the Herald and loan it to several of my friends who also enjoy reading it.

As a girl I heard older Saints say that this work grew dearer to them each year. I thought perhaps they just imagined it did, but I know it for myself now. Oh, that men could comprehend the mercy and love of our heavenly Father! There are people who are starving for the bread of life while others are satisfied with husks.

I enjoyed hearing of Elder A. M. Baker's work as I knew him when we were young. I rejoice to know he is still faithful to the gospel. May God bless and help every human being in all the world, so that all men may come to a higher plane of living. I am leader every other Sunday night in the union young people's league here. I hope and pray I may be able to help some one to a higher, better life.

DAVILLA, TEXAS.

God's Blessings Are Sure

By Harlan Land

On the twenty-seventh day of April, 1909, I made a covenant with the Lord to serve him the remainder of my life. At that time I firmly believed I would never again transgress the sacred law of God, but I little dreamed of what the future held for me.

Several times I had been spoken to by the elders of the church under the influence of the Spirit of God. Many spiritual experiences have been given to me.

A certain thing happened that caused me much distress and discouragement, and in my prayer to God I cried from the depths of my soul, "Oh, God, why did it have to happen?" Instantly the answer came, "It was for a wise purpose in Me."

I marveled that God would bless me, the least of his children, with such precious blessings, but in the years that followed I was made to understand why he blessed me so abundantly. For since that time I have met with experience that I believe would have driven me from the church had I not received the divine knowledge I did.

I have passed through my "Garden of Gethsemane" more than once and the end is not yet, but my hope is in the perfect love and mercy of the Master and his precious gospel. I want to do my best for when we do our best God will never forsake us. I want only the things that I can use to the glory of God, and accomplish some good for the blessed Master who has done so much for me.

COUNCIL BLUFFS, IOWA, 206 Platner Street.

Realizes Nearness of God's Hand

By Arthur Monk

After about five months' investigation, I became convinced that the Reorganized Church of Jesus Christ of Latter Day Saints is the true church of God. I desired to become a member, but being a user of tobacco, I felt that I was in no condition to be baptized. I resolved that I would test myself for a week and if I could get through that seven days without using tobacco, I would ask for baptism.

Well do I remember that week. As the days passed I felt sure that I was going to fail in the test—I hungered for tobacco. But I asked the Lord to take the desire from me, and in answer to my prayer, he did so. Now after three years and ten months, I can say that desire has not returned.

I am thankful for this experience and as I look back upon the things that have taken place, I am caused to rejoice and to praise the Lord. In many, many places I can see where his hand was over me and his protecting care was round about me, keeping me from the evils of the world and the dangers that have beset me. These realizations have given me courage.

I have made mistakes, but through obedience to the gospel I have obtained forgiveness, and the Lord has recognized my desire to serve him faithfully. I ask the prayers of the Saints that I may never wander from the path of righteousness, but continue faithful to the end.

FLINT, MICHIGAN, 319 Mason Street.

Do Isolated Saints Appreciate Gospel More Than Others?

By Mrs. E. C. Riebold

Sometimes I wonder if those of you who live near enough to a branch to attend and take part in the activities realize how fortunate you are and how thankful you should be. I believe that only those of you who have been away, as we are, can truly understand the loneliness of the isolated member, and the longings that well up in his heart for the fellowship, or help and strength to be gained through the association with people of like faith.

We are a family of three. My husband and I are members of the church, but our ten-year-old daughter has not yet become a member. We are trying to teach her to know, understand, and love the gospel.

Elder G. H. Wixom has visited us twice, and we are pray-

www.LatterDayTruth.org

Prayer and Testimony

ing that he may visit us again this summer. His visits are an inspiration. He gives us a glimpse of the church life and makes us long for the time when we can be associated with the Saints. We intend to move near a branch as soon as possible.

There is much an isolated member can do for his church. We are trying to live and teach those about us of the true doctrine of Christ.

Again, Saints, those of you who live near a branch, let me caution you to be thankful for your opportunities, and those of you who are isolated, let us hasten the time when we, too, can live near a branch.

LAMESA, TEXAS.

Overcomes Wasteful Habit

By Ralph F. Wilt

When I was baptized into this church, I was a slave to smoking. I tried to stop this habit, but the craving for tobacco was so strong within me that it seemed impossible to quit.

During prayer meeting, one night, I was spoken to by the Spirit through one of the elders in charge and told to clean up my body. I set Tuesday as the day I should stop this habit. Sunday and Monday I made that a matter of special prayer, asking for strength and divine help, to carry out this decision.

I know that without God's help I would have continued to crave tobacco, and although I have been tested many times during the last year, I have been able to overcome such a wasteful and bad habit.

I pray that others may receive the needed strength to clean up their bodies for God's work here on earth. I, like others, need your prayers.

AVA, MISSOURI.

A Living Testimony

By Mrs. Clara M. Mercer

I love this church and all its workers. If only we could all realize the importance of humbling ourselves for the task that is ours. I have received testimony upon testimony of the truthfulness and divinity of this latter-day work, and I am striving daily to live the life of a true and faithful Saint. I seldom get to bear my testimony in church, but I realize that I am bearing my testimony daily by living the religion of Jesus Christ. It is my prayer that I may live so that my neighbors and friends can see my good works, and be led to glorify our Father in heaven.

My patriarchal blessing says that I shall be looked upon as a mother in Israel, and my children shall in later years call me bessed. I am asking the earnest prayers of the Saints that I may be able to live daily so that when the time comes for my departure I shall be fully prepared to go.

COLUMBUS, KANSAS, Route 6, Box 39.

Prayer Is Answered

By Mrs. Viola Coswell

Some few weeks ago I wrote you requesting prayers for my son, John Coswell, of Dallas, Iowa, and now I am writing to thank you. He writes me that the prayers in his behalf were answered.

In order that some one may better understand how great and loving is our God, I am writing the following experience. Some years ago I was in a critical condition from a stroke and neuritis. Not knowing of any elders near, I prayed that God would send some one to administer to me. I was hardly able to be out of bed when I heard a knock at the door, and there stood Elder F. T. Mussell. His administration was a wonderful blessing to me.

I am asking for prayers for myself that God will give me strength that I may be able to do my work.

MANKATO, MINNESOTA, 1435 North Fourth Street.

Misses Association with Saints

By Mrs. Garland Hutchinson

I attended the district conference which convened April 21, at Davidson, Oklahoma, and had the privilege of meeting for the first time President Frederick M. Smith and Apostle Roy S. Budd.

President Smith delivered three good sermons and Brother Budd also preached three times. Elder Ed. Dillen, of Oklahoma City, gave one talk. A comforting spirit prevailed throughout the conference and the Saints left for their homes feeling spiritually benefited and greatly encouraged.

I enjoy the letters in the Herald and I can hardly wait for the paper to come each week as it is the only contact I have with the church. During the winter I enjoyed the worship radio programs from KMBC, but have not been able to get them since warm weather set in.

I worship with other churches because I get so homesick for association with church people. My desire is to live a holy consecrated life and do all in my power to build the kingdom.

I hope to locate in a district that has a branch so that my children will have the opportunity to hear and accept the gospel. I desire the prayers of the Saints.

HEALDTON, OKLAHOMA, Box 764.

Request Prayers

Irene Ewing, of Gassville, Arkansas, has been sick all her life and asks that the Saints pray for her that she may have better health.

Sister Bertha McGuire of Mikado, Michigan, requests the prayers of the Saints in behalf of Sister LeFluer also of Mikado, who recently suffered a stroke. Doctors believed she would never be able to walk again, but by fasting and prayers of the members of the branch, she can take a few steps when helped a little. Sister McGuire also requests prayers for herself. She has been ill for some time.

Brother E. P. Grant of Rogers, Minnesota, requests the prayers of the Saints in his behalf.

Sister Lizzie Thomas of Springerton, Illinois, desires the prayers of the Saints that she may be healed of her afflictions. She has been confined to her bed since January.

Sister Florence Adams of Magnolia, Iowa, requests the united prayers of the Saints, on Sunday, July 2, for her sister, Mrs. Mary Marshall, who is afflicted with tuberculosis. Sister Marshall is in the sanitarium at Oakdale, Iowa. She desires, if it is God's will, to regain her health for the sake of her three children.

Mrs. E. J. Goedkin of Willapa, Washington, requests the prayers of the Saints for her daughter, Evelyn, who is sick and unable to walk. She is in a hospital at present.

www.LatterDayTruth.org

"Thus saith the Lord God: Behold, I will take the children of Israel from among the heathen, whither they be gone, and will gather them on every side, and bring them into their own land."—Ezekiel 37: 21.

After the land was made fertile with the rains in the spring and the fall, the Jews could not gather back to this land and live in peace, because of the oppression of the owners of the country, who oppressed the inhabitants with heavy taxes. Hence the land was not in condition for the gathering until after the world war, when the country was taken from the Turkish government and a British protectorate was declared.

Ezekiel tells how this is to be brought about:

"After many days thou shalt be visited: in the latter years thou shalt come into the land that is brought back from the sword, and is gathered out of many people, against the mountains of Israel, which have been always waste: but it is brought forth out of the nations, and they shall dwell safely all of them."—Ezekiel 38: 8.

Balfour Declaration

In the early part of the month of November, 1917, Sir Arthur Balfour, who was then British Secretary of Foreign Affairs, wrote a letter to Lord Rothchild on behalf of the British Government, in which he stated that the British Government was prepared to establish in Palestine a Jewish National Home, where the Jewish people could develop their religion. This act came to be known as the Balfour Declaration.

To many this was a strange thing to do at this time, for the British Government was in war, and up to this time the Allied arms had suffered appalling losses. The Hindenburg line was almost to the gates of Paris. The British had been trying to capture Constantinople, but without success. They had suffered reverses in Mesopotamia, particularly the loss of Kut-el-Amara, and in other parts of this sector. The Russian front had crumbled, allowing the Central Powers to concentrate more men on the Western front. Then came this Balfour Declaration. But what effect would that have on the war? Soon after this a tremendous change took place. New interest was aroused throughout the whole Allied army. United States came into the war on the side of the Allies. Instead of retreats and defeats, we read of victories and advances along all fronts.

General Allenby had been concentrating an army in Egypt, and on December 9, 1917, this army came into Palestine and knocked at the gates of Jerusalem. In the city was a Turkish army that had been preparing for General Allenby's army when it should arrive. There was published in a New York newspaper an account of the advance of Allenby's army into the city of Jerusalem.

The Turkish commander had notified a Christian missionary that he must vacate the house that he was living in, as it was to be used as the headquarters of this Turkish commander. The missionary's family moved out, the last person to leave was the wife of the missionary; as she was going from the house she heard a noise over her head, it was the buzz of British airplanes, bombing planes of the British army. While she was looking at these planes there came into her mind a scripture passage found in the book of Isaiah:

"As birds flying, so will the Lord of host defend Jerusalem; defending also he will deliver it, and passing over he will preserve it."—Isaiah 31: 5.

She wondered why this prophecy should come into her mind at this time, but she was soon to see its fulfillment.

The Turkish commander seeing the British airplanes, and hearing that the British forces was near the city, gave orders to his army that they leave the city and go North, at the same time General Allenby's army came in from the South. The officers dismounted, removed their hats and marched to the site of Solomon's Temple, where they knelt in silent prayer, giving thanks to God that the city had come into their hands without the firing of a shot or shedding of blood. They did not realize that they were not only making history, but they were fulfilling prophecy. God was making it possible for his scattered people to come back into their homeland and live in peace.

Palestine Under British Protectorate

Isaiah gives us another prophecy regarding the Gentiles coming into the land of Palestine to liberate the land from the oppressor:

"Who are these that fly as a cloud, and as the doves to their windows? Surely the isles shall wait for me, and the ships of Tarshish first, to bring thy sons from far, and their silver and their gold with them."—Isaiah 60: 8, 9.

"Therefore thy gates shall be open continually; they shall not be shut day nor night; that men may bring unto thee the forces of the Gentiles."—Isaiah 60: 11.

"Sheba, and Dedan, and the merchants of Tarshish, with all the young lions thereof, shall say unto thee."—Ezekiel 38: 13.

Here we have symbols of countries, people and powers who will have something to do in delivering the land of Palestine from the hands of its oppressors. First, we notice that the prophecy of Isaiah 60: 11 refers to the liberator as being Gentile; Isaiah 60: 9 says that they are from isles, having ships like the old city of Tarshish; and they are to have an ensign of a lion with little lions. (Ezekiel 38: 13.)

The Bible Dictionary says "The ships of Tarshish were celebrated in their day for their commercial enterprises," and 1 Kings 10: 22 refers to the Navy of Tarshish.

Now some nation likened unto the city of Tarshish, with a merchant marine and navy, is to come from isles with her little lions to liberate the land of Palestine from its oppressor.

Great Britain is an island kingdom, at least her headquarters is on an island, she has a great navy with a large number of merchant ships, likened unto Tarshish. In her banner is the emblem of a lion, her little lions are her Colonial possessions, and this is what General Allenby's army was composed of—men from Australia and New Zealand. Since their entrance into Palestine, the gates (harbors) of the country are now open to all the world, according to Isaiah 60: 11.

There is an old Arab proverb which says That until the river Nile flows into Palestine, shall the Prophet from the west drive the Turk from Jerusalem. It was supposed that this would never happen, but the Lord made a covenant with Abraham that his seed should possess all the land from the Nile River to the River Euphrates. (Genesis 15: 18.) Little did they think that this proverb might come to pass.

When Allenby's British army of 96,000 men started from the Suez Canal for Palestine, they were closely followed not only by a swiftly laid railway along the desert road, providing commissariat facilities, but also a huge pipe line was laid to supply water for the army. The Nile water was drawn from a canal in Egypt, was filtered at the Kantara water works, and then pumped underneath the Suez Canal to reservoirs on the east bank. Here it was chlorinated and then, thanks to seventeen auxiliary pumping stations, carried through the pipe line over two hundred miles of the desert into Palestine. So that prophecy was fulfilled, and the Turk was not only driven out of Jerusalem, but out of Palestine.

(To be continued.)

(Note to the reader: This is the third installment of this article of tract length. Each installment will fill a page until the tract is completed. Readers may cut out the pages and bind them together for reference or for lending.)

NEWS OF CHURCH AND HOME

Address all news and letters to Editors of the Herald, Box 237, Independence, Missouri. Correspondents are requested to make their letters brief. The Editors reserve the right, on account of space limitations, to shorten all letters as circumstances require.

Nauvoo, District

Conference Meeting Proves Fruitful

The June conference of the district was called for June 3 and 4, to meet at Fort Madison, Iowa. The first session was held at 2.15 p. m. and while there was not a large attendance for the opening service, a splendid influence prevailed. President Floyd M. McDowell, with his wife and father, arrived a short time before the meeting began, and Bishop Charles Fry was also there, ready to do his part.

After the opening exercises, Brother Fry was called upon for a short address, and he expressed his hope and faith in the final triumph of the church and its work. This was Brother Fry's last meeting with the district for a while as he was transferred to the Northeastern Kansas District. Then Patriarch W. A. McDowell followed with some of his many experiences and his unswerving faith in the angel message. This seemed to give a setting for Brother F. M. McDowell's address which followed. He made the theme for his remarks, "Keeping the Faith." He had the attention and interest of a fair-sized audience.

Sunday morning the day's service began with the church school at 9.30 a. m. The district superintendent was in charge of this meeting. In the worship period a story was told to good effect. It was indeed a pleasure to listen and see how Roderic Lewis, of Nauvoo, held the attention of the large number present as he impressed upon his hearers the value of being true.

Then came the sacrament service, and by this time the house was filled with worshipers. This service blended into the closing of the church school. The sacrament was administered in due form after which the service was given over to prayer and testimony. There was a spirit of true devotion and inspiration that is seldom witnessed and rarely surpassed. In just a short space of time there were some thirty-eight testimonies borne interspersed with hymns of a suitable nature to help lift the mind to the things of God and his work.

Dinner was served at the noon hour by the women of the local church. It was estimated that two hundred or more were served.

At two o'clock a baptismal service was held when Brother Elbert Lambert, of the Rock Creek Branch, inducted a lad from their church into the kingdom. After this service Brother F. M. McDowell brought a message direct to the membership of the conditions of the church and what was and is being expected of its members.

On Sunday, June 11, arrangements had been made for the Children's Day program by the church school. After the lesson period, the program was given by the children. A baptismal service followed, and seven children were led into the waters of baptism by Elder W. H. Gunn. These candidates were confirmed by Elders Gunn, Mussel, and McIntire.

Word from Elder J. C. Page at Nauvoo states that President Frederick M. Smith and Bishop G. L. DeLapp will be at Nauvoo for the memorial service, June 27.

District meetings will be held July 23 to 30.

Oelwein, Iowa

Seven Candidates Are Baptized

The Saints at Oelwein, Iowa, witnessed an impressive baptismal service on the banks of a small stream, when seven persons were baptized by Pastor George McFarlane. Confirmation services were held the following week with Brother McFarlane and Brother Charles Shippy the officiating elders.

The interior of the church building has been improved by the addition of new window curtains, a new platform, and railing curtains. A few of the women of the Emma Burton Circle made the curtains and hung them and at the same time the circle gave the church a general cleaning.

The members are enjoying an attendance contest, the men competing against the women. Much interest is shown and many visitors are attending church services. The attendance has more than doubled at almost every service. The contest will close with the two-day district meeting to be held at Oelwein, July 8 and 9. The winning side is to be entertained at a picnic presented by the losing side.

Children's Day was observed by giving the children complete charge of the church school worship service. A small boy, Leslie Pratt, hardly tall enough to be seen above the pulpit was the leader, and performed his duties well.

Chicago, Illinois

Central Church, Sixty-sixth and Honore Streets

Central Church has been busy the last few months. Many pleasing and comfortable changes have been made both inside and out of the church. Grass, trees, flowers, and shrubbery beautify the grounds, and at the rear of the church a parking space has been provided. The interior of the building has been redecorated, and a new heating system will be installed before cold weather. The young people as well as the older ones have done their part in this work.

Some splendid sermons have been preached during recent months. Apostles John F. Garver, F. Henry Edwards, and Paul Hanson; Bishop G. Leslie DeLapp, and Elder R. E. Davey have been among the visiting ministers. Several local men have also given good talks.

The music department has given its cooperation to make the services in the church a success. Arthur Sherman is director, and Floyd McNickle, organist.

A few unhappy events have occurred during this period. February 10, Brother Keir preached the funeral sermon of Sister Leona Schulty. April 18, Brother E. Lowe conducted the service for Sister Vera Gilligan.

During the past four months, the Central Chicago Sunday Evening Club has had charge of the evening service twice a month. June 18, was the last one of these services until September.

Special programs were given on Palm Sunday, Easter, and Mother's Day. Children's Day services were enjoyed at ten o'clock, June 11. The juniors gave a short play and sang children's choruses. All flowers used during this service were sent to the aged, sick, and shut-in.

Several new cradle roll babies have recently been blessed. Brother Keir and Olliver blessed the infant daughter of Sister Irene and Brother Gregory Wayne, giving her the name of Gene Patsy; Carol Jean, daughter of Sister Mildred and Brother Ted Spuehler; Gary L. Wadman, son of Sister Zelda Wadman; Ronald E. Compton, son of Sister Stella May and Brother Jerry Compton, and Nancy Janice, daughter of Sister Lana and Brother Irvin Ridge.

The women have disbanded for the summer months.

Vacation time is here again and the

www.LatterDayTruth.org

Saints welcome visitors to the World's Fair. Sister Guinee and family, of Joplin, Missouri, have recently been visitors in Chicago.

Detroit District

Young People Organized

The young people of Detroit district have organized for activities. The object of this organization is to keep the young people of the district interested in church work.

Representatives from the two Detroit branches, Wyandotte, Flint, Lake Orion, and Pontiac attended the first meeting which was held in Pontiac. The representatives consisted of the young people's leaders and presidents from each branch.

Brother M. J. Crowley opened the meeting with prayer and gave an interesting talk on the shortness of the lives of young people and the necessity of using them to the best advantage.

Election of officers followed with Grant Davis, of Detroit, as chairman; J. I. Dunlap of Oxford, assistant chairman; and Mary Parker of Pontiac, as secretary.

Meetings are to be held the last Sunday in every third month starting July 30, 1933. Many helpful and interesting subjects were discussed, and it was decided that the last Sunday night of each month should be given to the young people of each branch to have full control of the meeting.

The first activity is a district picnic to be held at Stoney Lake, June 24.

Missionary Spends Busy Month in Far West and Lamoni Stake

Fine Meetings at Guilford, Blythedale, and Allendale

An impressive baptism took place at Blythedale, Missouri, Sunday morning, July 11, following a week's series of meetings.

Three candidates had presented their names for baptism. Two of these were the grandsons of Norman W. Smith, known to so many because of his musical ability—several of his compositions are to be found in both the Saints' Hymnal and Zion's Praises. The other candidate was the wife of Brother Thurman McDaniels.

We selected a beautiful shady spot on Big Creek for the baptism. As we approached the place of baptism the father of the two boys, Mr. Olaf Gaarter, and husband of Sister Ruth Ellen Smith Gaarter, decided to join his two sons in baptism and complete the family circle. Our hearts were made glad and the good Spirit was present as we sang the song, "Tenderly, Tenderly, Lead Thou Me On." The words were written by Joseph Smith and the Music composed by Norman W. Smith. How fitting were the words, and how especially appropriate for the occasion. The confirmation service of these four was held at the church immediately following the baptism.

Upon reaching Allendale, Missouri, in the afternoon, to begin services the evening of this same Sunday, I found Brother Willard Moon here and a baptismal service arranged for at which time the Spillman family circle was completed. Brother Moon led Brother Spillman's little daughter into the water of baptism. We are hoping for others here as a result of this week's series of meetings.

Since leaving home one month ago today, I have had some fine meetings at Guilford, Missouri, where Brother William T. Ross, pastor, and I did considerable visiting in the homes of the Saints My association with Brother Ross in this work was very much enjoyed. Two adults were baptized here.

During this last month, I have preached twenty-eight times, visited fifty-seven homes and seven have been baptized. The hospitality of the Saints and friends and their kind assistance in various ways are to be commended.

J. CHARLES MAY.

Birmingham, England

Appreciate Herald

Sunday, June 11, five children dressed in white were seated on the platform with Pastor P. S. Whalley and Elder Frank Schofield. The baptismal font was surrounded with flowers. Sister Ethel Schofield was in charge of the service. Brother Whalley spoke of the sacredness of the occasion. He drew a mental picture of the River Jordan, and how Jesus came to John requesting baptism. The Spirit was felt in power as Pastor Whalley and Elder Schofield conducted the children into the waters of baptism. This was Brother Schofield's first experience of administering that ordinance.

During the sacrament service in the evening the candidates were confirmed. The children who were baptized were Freda Jones, Irene Pearson, Marjorie Wilkins, Annie Wilkins, and Iris Rock. At the close of the service Brother Whalley spoke through the Spirit, delivering a message to the Saints.

Apostle John W. Rushton arrived at Birmingham, April 24. On April 25 and 26 he addressed the Saints, his subject was "Where Livest Thou?"

Fifty-one of the young people of the branch enjoyed an outing at Sutton Park not long ago.

The memorial service for Sister Ann Roberts who died May 13, was preached by Elder A. Kendrick in the church. Comforting songs were rendered by Sisters Whalley, Madge Meredith, and Brother Reginald Woodward.

The new Herald is much appreciated in Birmingham and new subscriptions are coming in each week.

Pisgah, Iowa

Ten Are Baptized

Children's Day was one to be remembered. The pageant, "Zion Redeemed," written by Mollie Davis, was most effectively carried out by the young people and children. After the program ten candidates were baptized.

Elder J. W. Lane has been arousing the Saints in and around Little Sioux. Because of his untiring efforts in his labor with the Saints at that point, they are now holding regular services each Sunday.

Special programs are always provided as suggested by the church school. Sister Elva Silsby is in charge and is aided by a splendid corps of workers.

Vancleave, Mississippi

Young People Are Busy

Sunday, June 11, was observed as Children's Day and the children of the branch participated in all the services. Four candidates were baptized in the afternoon, Brother Albert Miller officiating. A play, "Mother Nature's Message," was given by the children Sunday night. Sister Howard Jennings was in charge of the program.

The young people of the branch are proving very successful. They are ready and willing to do their part of the work. Meetings are held every Saturday night. Class work and short programs usually precede the recreational period on the lawn. Volley ball is their main game.

Miss Hazel Barnes, niece of Brother Albert Miller, and Mr. Lee Entrekin were united in marriage May 18. Mr. and Mrs. Entrekin will make their home in Biloxi. The Saints regret the departure of Sister Hazel for she was a help in the musical department.

Des Moines District

Six People Baptized Here

An all-day meeting was held at Dunreath, Iowa, June 11, District President Henry Castings was in charge. There was preaching by Brother Castings at eleven o'clock. Three candidates, Mrs. Celia Mohler, Mrs. Arminta Koons and Floyd Koons, were baptized at two o'clock by Elder Clyde McDonald, followed by confirmation service and testimonies.

Elder Stephen Robinson preached at eight o'clock to a large congregation of interested listeners.

There were three persons baptized in Des Moines. June 11, by Elder Frank Mussell.

www.LatterDayTruth.org

St. Louis Conference Centers Attention on Young People

Organize "Goodwill" Teams for Summer Activities

The Saint Louis district conference, especially designed to serve the young people, met with Saint Louis Branch, May 26, with the hope of promoting the young people's organization in the district.

A six-class institute was conducted, Elder B. S. Lambkin of the district presidency as teacher. Class work was accredited and a good number registered for these credits. Brother Lambkin taught lessons on "The Teacher's Point of View and His Position in the Department of Religious Education." There were two fifty-minute class periods on Friday night after which the young people of Saint Louis Church were hosts to visiting young people and an hour of games and contests was topped off with wieners and buns and cocoa. Chief among the games was the "track meet" in which groups from Alton, Belleville, Brentwood, Lansdowne, Maryland Heights, and Saint Louis churches competed.

There were four class periods Saturday afternoon, beginning at two o'clock. At seven in the evening the conference met for a short business session, receiving reports from various officers and statistical reports from a number of the branches. Brother William Hambleton, of Alton, was chosen to occupy the office of priest in the Aaronic Priesthood at this meeting, his ordination taking place later in the conference.

Following the business session, guests were again given into the charge of the young people, and another enjoyable hour was spent watching the dramatic clubs from Brentwood and Sawyerville perform. Brentwood presented, "Domestic Tranquillity," and "Margy Goes to the Game," and Sawyerville presented the sketch, "In the Doctor's Chair." The dramatic group of Saints Louis Church had been busy rehearsing on their coming play, "Girl Shy," and did not give a sketch at the conference.

Sunday's services opened with church school at 9.30 a. m., in charge of the local supervisor, Elder C. L. Archibald. At 10.40 a. m. classes were closed, and while a medley of hymns was being played the congregation assembled for worship and preaching service. The young people occupied the center section of the auditorium, and the worship was in charge of Elder T. J. Elliott, of the district presidency. After the singing of "Zion Builders," by the congregation, Brother Elliott introduced Teacher Walton Lambkin for a short talk on "The Young People's Part in the Building of Zion." Brother Lambkin comes from Belleville, Illinois, group. Then while the organ played, members of the choir took their places. The choir sang two anthems after which Elder Elliott introduced District President Roy Remington, the speaker. The text of the morning sermon was taken from Ecclesiastes 12:1: "Remember now thy Creator in the days of thy youth."

At noon a basket dinner was enjoyed by everyone and a social hour.

Then at 1.30 p. m., Elder B. S. Lambkin conducted a class discussion for the priesthood, and Sister T. J. Elliott, Sister Lambkin and Sister Maybelle Remington conducted the women's meeting. At this time also the young people met with District President Remington and the supervisor, Dorothy Elliott, to discuss and outline a summer program for their department.

It was decided to have the young people's groups of the larger branches organize "good will" teams, and exchange visits with the smaller branches on a prearranged schedule which conforms to and coordinates with the "Roto" plan schedule of the district organization. These activities will go on from week to week during the summer, and then there will be a grand rally at which time all of the teams and all of the young people will get together for a good time. The matter of attending the Lamoni Youth Conference was discussed and several indicated their intentions of attending, and promised to return with information and enthusiasm for the district.

At 3 p. m. the conference "shifted" again, this time for the prayer and testimony meetings. The adults, under the supervision of Elders T. J. Elliott, B. S. Lambkin, W. C. Carl, and J. D. Hull, met in the lower auditorium; the young people, under Elder Roy Remington and Priests F. F. O'Bryan and William Knussman, met in the upper auditorium, and the juniors and primaries, supervised by Sister Maybelle Remington, met in the children's room. Sister Remington was assisted by Sister Adele Moore and Sister Grace Billinsky, of Saint Louis Church, and Sister Emma Atwood, of Brentwood Church.

At 4.15 p. m. the conference met en masse in the upper auditorium to hear the closing address by Elder J. Edward Nicholson, pastor of Belleville. He brought to a fitting conclusion the theme of the conference, "Remember Now Thy Creator in the Days of Thy Youth," by sounding again the call of the Master, "Come Up Higher."

People were present from Alton, Belleville, Brentwood, Lansdowne, Maryland Heights, Nebo, Sawyerville, Saint Charles and Saint Louis Branches. The maximum attendance was at the Sunday eleven o'clock service when three hundred met for worship.

The conference adjourned to meet, August 25, at Saint Louis, this being scheduled as a ministerial conference.

General church men passing through Saint Louis, Missouri, either to or from appointments, are welcome to stop and speak to the congregation. There are seven pulpits within an hour's drive of Saint Louis, and speakers will be welcome at any one of them. Write District President Roy Remington, 238 West Big Bend Road, Webster Groves, Missouri.

Creston, Iowa

Odd Fellows Hall, Pine and Mills Street

Brothers A. D. Blair, pastor and Hollis Yarrington, director of religious education, keep the work going nicely in this little branch with the help of laity, teacher and leaders. Although there are only ten families with an average Sunday attendance of twenty-five, these Saints are studying quite seriously. In the church school the children study current quarterlies; adults study Doctrine and Covenants and "Message of Book of Mormon"; young people, right living. On Wednesday evening, besides the regular prayer meeting, there is a class in Old Testament study. The women's group, under the leadership of Mrs. C. E. Reece, meets every other Thursday afternoon and study Paul the Apostle.

There is an active choir directed by Miss Elsie Hammer. The young people are organized under the leadership of Grace Thiehoff, their representative, Donald Bowman. On May 28, fifteen of them were present at the service of the Lamoni Stake Young People's Day, and several are attending the Youth Conference at Lamoni.

A musical program was given recently by members of the branch at the home of George Hall. Much talent, both vocal and instrumental, was discovered. Miss Opal Hall, a contestant on the marimba at the Iowa State Music Contest last month, contributed much by her selections on that instrument.

Marilyn Joy, three months old baby girl, is the welcome addition at the James Bowman home. She is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Ferrin Bowman.

Miss Elizabeth Crawford is our one high school graduate this season.

During the past five months, recreation has played a big part in the program of this group. Both young and old take part in this activity.

An all-day meeting was held in March. Visiting men of the ministry from Lamoni, Blair Jensen and Burton Hynden, and Apostle John Garver were present. Brother Merl Grover delivered an Easter sermon which was preceded by an appropriate program. Other visiting ministers, whose help in the pulpit has been much appreciated, were Marion F. Cooper, Omaha, Nebraska; A. J. Yarrington, Lamoni; John Lane, Mount Ayr, Iowa, and former pastor, Ralph Wicker, who spent one evening with them in prayer meeting.

www.LatterDayTruth.org

Independence

More than seventy people from the congregations of the church in Independence spent Sunday at the Youth Conference at Lamoni. These, added to the number from Independence who were able to attend the entire convention, gave the center place a good representation.

On Saturday night, "The Violin Maker of Cremona," presented by an Independence cast, was one of a group of one-act plays enjoyed by the convention. This play was given first place in the dramatic contest sponsored by the Independence Young People Council last February, and its director was Mrs. Helen Brackenbury.

President Elbert A. Smith made a flying trip back from Lamoni where he was the morning speaker at the young people's convention, Sunday afternoon to be the Campus speaker in the evening. His sermon was enjoyed by Saints from the several districts in Independence who assembled to participate in the open-air service. Music was by the Auditorium Orchestra, and there were solos by Mrs. Nina G. Smith. George Anway led the congregational singing.

Stone Church

Evangelist U. W. Greene preached the baccalaureate sermon for the graduating class of the School of Nursing, Independence Sanitarium, at eleven o'clock Sunday morning. For a scripture reading he chose Romans 12, and his text was Matthew 13:44.

Though the weather was intensely warm, a large congregation of friends and patrons of the Sanitarium and its staff, honored the occasion, and the graduating class was seated with Miss Gertrude Copeland, superintendent of the Sanitarium.

The board of directors of the Independence Sanitarium School of Nursing has announced the school's commencement exercises for eight o'clock tonight, June 27, at the Stone Church. There are ten graduates: Mittie L. Rodgers, Geneva Haden, Opal L. Jones, Veda Shupe, Florence Phillips, Ethel M. Scott, Sarah King, Anna Bernette Donaldson, Iva Oliver, and Marie Kugler. Robert S. Clough, agent of the Jackson County Farm Bureau, will be the speaker. A reception for the graduates will follow the commencement exercises at the nurses' home.

The Stone Church Choir, directed by George Anway, sang at the Sunday morning service the hymn, "My Jesus, I Love Thee," and the anthem, "As Pants the Hart," the soprano solo of the latter being sung by Miss Lilly Belle Allen. LeRoy Smith, baritone, sang the solo, "Cast Thy Burden on the Lord." The morning's organists were Robert Miller and Mrs. Louise Lewis.

Philip Landfried, fifty-eight years old, passed away at his home early, June 23, after a three months' illness. He was a man of sterling character, a resident of Independence for twenty-nine years, and a member of the church. Leaves to mourn his death, his wife, Mrs. Emma Landfried; four sons: Bert, Robert, John, and James; five daughters: Mrs. W. H. Rogers, Mrs. Paul Tandy, Mrs. Ruth Logsdon, and Miss Mary and Miss Eleanor Landfried; four sisters, one brother, and many friends. The funeral was held at the Stone Church Sunday afternoon at one thirty, B. R. McGuire preaching the sermon, E. E. Willard in charge. Brother Landfried was a prominent member of the Masonic Lodge, and the Masons conducted services at the graveside at Mound Grove Cemetery.

At 2.30 p. m., the general Sunday afternoon prayer service was held to good effect in the lower auditorium of the church. This service is attended by many faithful worshipers of this and other congregations.

Second Church

An organ prelude opened the eleven o'clock service, Sunday, June 18. Assistant Pastor B. C. Sarratt conducted the meeting; invocation by Elder John Miller. The choir, under the direction of Mrs. Vera Redfield Thomas and accompanied by Mrs. Gladys Inman and Miss Edna Stobaugh, sang, "Praise the Lord, All Ye Nations." Pastor William Inman used as a scripture reading the eleventh section of the Doctrine and Covenants. He enumerated the many activities and accomplishments of members of the church in the last six months.

The junior service was opened by Brother R. C. Conyers. Waneta Bates, Rosalee Stoner, and Grace Louise Smeaton sang a trio. "Borrowed Father," a story, was told by Mrs. Agnes Edmunds. Brother Conyers then gave a short talk.

Sunday, June 25, Sister B. C. Sarratt told the story of the conversion of Alma, taken from the Book of Mormon to the junior department. A short talk was given by Brother Conyers.

Bishop C. J. Hunt was the speaker at the eleven o'clock hour, and gave a sermon of encouragement. The choir, under the direction of Mrs. Thomas, sang "My Soul Be On Thy Guard."

Tuesday evening, approximately one hundred and twenty-five persons attended the Second Church picnic at the Campus. Bishop J. Stanley Kelley, representing the Bishopric Elder A. K. Dillee, representing the Pastor in Zion, and President Elbert A. Smith, representing the Presidency, were the guests of the occasion.

Wednesday evening, a union prayer meeting was held at the church. President Smith and Bishop Kelley were present. There were several prayers followed by talks by both the guests.

The program and ice cream social, sponsored by the young people, and scheduled for last Friday, will be given Friday the Thirtieth, at seven thirty.

Liberty Street Church

An impressive ordination service took place last Wednesday night at the church, the evening being that which is usually devoted to a joint prayer meeting of the four groups of this district. Brother Cecil Walker, an ardent worker with young people and children, was ordained to the office of priest, and Brother Lee Davis to the office of teacher. Elders D. S. McNamara, Walter Curtis, J. R. Lentell, and Chester Young officiated in the ordinance. The meeting began with prayer by Elder Ward A. Hougas, and the prayer of consecration was offered by Elder E. A. Thomas. Then the charge was given by Elder D. S. McNamara, assistant pastor in Independence.

A number from this congregation found it possible to attend the closing day's service at the Youth Conference, Lamoni, June 25. They were missed from local services, but returned to Independence with enthusiastic reports.

Elder Vernon Reese, of the Stone Church, was the speaker Sunday morning at the eleven o'clock hour. This was a special service, devoted to an explanation of the present stand of the Dry forces of Jackson County and the State of Missouri.

Among the other recent speakers who have brought significant and helpful messages are Elders E. A. Thomas and Walter Curtis.

On a recent Friday night, Liberty Street and Englewood Church young people joined in an evening of recreation and games at Hill Memorial Park.

Liberty Street Church was the scene of the wedding of Miss Frances Trowbridge, daughter of Brother and Sister R. B. Trowbridge, of Independence, Missouri, and William I. Meador, son of Mrs. Cleo Meador, Sedalia, Missouri, June 18. Elder C. Ed. Miller officiated. Mrs. Charles Sanders was matron of honor and Miss Ruth Deaven, bridesmaid. Myron Trowbridge acted as best man and Charles Sanders was the groomsman. Kenneth and David Smith were ushers. A reception followed the ceremony at the home of the bride's parents. After July 1, Mr. and Mrs. Meador will be at home in Independence.

Miss Dorothy G. Peek, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Harry R. Peek, and Palmer C. Phillips, son of Bishop and Mrs. A. B. Phillips, were united in marriage Saturday evening, June 24, at the home of the bride's parents. A simple ceremony was read by Bishop Phillips before the families and a few close friends. The bride was attended by her sister, Miss Erma Peek, and Bernard Wilson attended the bridegroom. Both Mr. and Mrs. Phillips are members of the Wahdemna Choral Club.

Walnut Park Church

Services on Sunday were well attended, considering the extreme heat. The Walnut Park Orchestra, under the direction of Leon Snow, played a special number during the program period following the church school.

www.LatterDayTruth.org

At eleven o'clock Evangelist Albert Carmichael preached on "Zion." Music was furnished by the boys' chorus, under the direction of Ralph G. Blackburn. At this same hour the junior service in the lower auditorium heard an interesting talk by Elder C. Ed Miller. Sister Barwise told a story to the young folks.

The program at the religio assembly hour consisted of a reading by Mary Dobson; a violin solo by Evelyn Crabb; a reading by Betty Ann Mosier; a piano solo by Mildred Crabb, and a vocal duet by Bernard Butterworth and Donald Barber.

The day's services were closed with preaching in the evening by Apostle Clyde F. Ellis.

The funeral services of John Henry Logeman were held from Walnut Park Church the morning of June 14. He was a retired farmer seventy-eight years of age, and passed away the morning of June 12, at the home of his son, Gerard H. Logeman. He is survived by his wife, three sons, one daughter, and one brother. Interment was in Mound Grove Cemetery.

Enoch Hill Church

Several from Enoch Hill took advantage of the excursion of the Idlewild, sponsored by the young people's council a week ago today. Everyone took a picnic lunch, and spent the greater part of the day cruising on the river. Music and games were provided for the children.

Enoch Hill was also represented at the Lamoni Youth Conference.

Elder Robert Whitsitt talked on "Faith and Learning" during the church school period Sunday morning, and Brother Roth made an interesting appeal in behalf of the work of the Dry forces of this country.

Elders Charles Warren and Robert Whitsitt were in charge of the eleven o'clock service, and Brother Warren read the scripture lesson, Isaiah 6. A trio of young women, Sister Ruth Hayes, Sister Rilla Johnson, and Sister May Worth, accompanied by Louise McDonald, sang "One Day Nearer Home."

Elder R. L. Fulk, a faithful missionary, was the eleven o'clock speaker. He admonished the Saints to remember the first two principles of the gospel—faith and repentance.

Spring Branch Church

Sunday was a big day at Spring Branch. The early prayer service was a fitting start for such a day. Sunday school followed this meeting and at the close of this meeting Sister Ethel Fish gave a short talk.

The eleven o'clock service was opened by Pastor G. W. Eastwood. Gladys and Alma Dixon sang, "Beautiful Isle of Somewhere," as a request. "Creation," was sung by the choir. Brother Alma Tankard gave a sermonet on baptism after which Don Farley, son of Brother and Sister Walter Farley, of Bates City, was baptized in the font here. After the baptism Francis Tankard and Fern Belk sang, "Follow On." After a short talk by Elder Robert Fish, he and Elder Jake Andes confirmed the little boy and also Bonnie Belle Nelson. The service was well attended and quite impressive.

Apostle Lewis Busy in Australia

Pastor H. Jacka a Conscientious Worker

Some two months previous the pastor of the branch at Euroa, Victoria, arranged with Elder A. J. Corbett for a series of missionary services at that branch. I accompanied Brother Corbett to Euroa and stayed for one week. The branch at Euroa is a very enthusiastic little branch. Most of the members live quite a distance from the church, but they are faithful in attendance. There are some excellent missionary possibilities and the people of the branch are alive to them. The group is shepherded by Pastor H. Jacka and he finds able assistance in Elder Ralph Butterworth, a son of Apostle C. A. Butterworth. Through the efforts of the people and the generous help of Brother Jacka a very nice brick church has been erected, and there is nothing owing upon it.

The Jacka family is quite interesting. All, except the little girl aged seven, play some musical instrument. Some are able to play several instruments. The orchestra which plays in the church services every Sunday has six members of the Jacka family in it in addition to several other members. Some of the players are beginners, but they do very well and they are learning the art of cooperating.

The missionary effort seemed to be well received. I spoke at two evening services to a large crowd of people, about half of which were nonmembers. Mother's Day was celebrated while I was there. Elder A. J. Corbett is continuing the services for another three weeks.

Brother Jacka is a contractor and builder by trade. He is kept very busy at present, having entered into a contract for the erection of four brick homes. He employs quite a lot of Latter Day Saint labor. He also owns a brick kiln, and although it is not a modern kiln, it is very suitable for his work. While guests at his home, we were privileged to see the kiln lighted and the bricks dried and burned. It was a very interesting process and brought quite a large number of people around to see the men at work.

After finishing a week's work with the Saints at Euroa, I then went down to Melbourne, Victoria, where we have a number of branches. The Saints have been very cooperative in welcoming me. So far I have visited only one branch in the Melbourne area.

G. G. LEWIS.

Mobile, Alabama

Junior Church Advances

The musical department of the branch gave a lawn party June 2, for the benefit of the building fund. The special feature was a coronation in which Miss Verna Booker was queen and chose as her king, Mr. Aubrey Miller.

Last week there was a series of meetings held at the Long home on Owen's Lane. Brother Franklin Steiner, Brother Amos Berve and others were the speakers.

The junior church is making great strides in advancement with Miss Anna Mae Hough as director. She has mapped out a program whereby the work is divided and there is not so much responsibility on one person. Each Sunday a different class has the program in charge. Miss Hough has made a list of the classes to show on which Sunday each has the program in charge, so that the teacher may have sufficient time in which to prepare. Miss Edwina Goff is in charge of the music and Miss Mellanee Powell is pianist for the department.

The young people meet each Tuesday evening at eight under the direction of Earl Smith. The department is divided —one group having as its leader Oran Cochrane, and the other Dan Miller. The programs of these groups are uplifting in their nature. Each Tuesday evening a different group gives an entertainment. They are judged by this standard: dramatics, 50 points, music, 25, and games 25. The group that has the most points at the end of three months is to be entertained by the losing group.

Southern Indiana District

Sacrifice Period Begins

The Saints of this district are still pressing on, but sometimes there seem to be many things to overcome, and especially along financial lines.

The Saints were all sorry to hear of the departure of Apostle Clyde F. Ellis, for the Society Island Mission. He will be greatly missed here. They suffered another loss in the Indianapolis church. Elder Charles H. Fish has gone to his home in Independence, after years of service to the branch as well as to the district.

There was a two weeks' series of meetings at Brooklyn, and one week at Centerton. Last week a series of meetings opened in Anderson where there are two families of Saints and some people who are very friendly to the gospel message.

www.LatterDayTruth.org

The district conference will meet with Indianapolis Branch sometime in August.

All members of the district are requested to do what they can for the sacrifice period, June 25 to July 2, and while with many it may mean nickels and dimes, yet it takes them to make the dollars. Sacrifice to them means the consecration of money or means of any sort to better and higher purposes—the work of the Lord.

Shidler, Oklahoma

Branch Is Growing in Numbers

Shidler Branch is making much progress both in gaining new members and learning how to work together.

Recently one adult and seven children were baptized. Others are investigating the gospel.

Elder S. W. Simmons preached a series of sermons recently. During these meetings Elder Hubert Case visited this point and preached one sermon in conjunction with Brother Simmons's services.

The Children's Day program was well attended.

Kansas City Stake

Sunday, June 18, the ministry of the stake met at Central Church at 2.30 p. m. with Stake President Cyril E. Wight in charge. Similiar meetings have held the third Sunday of each month, at three o'clock, but hereafter two thirty will be the regular time. Two dates during the year will be devoted to prayer. The priesthood will use as a basis for lesson study, "What Latter Day Saints Believe About God," written by President Elbert A. Smith. Following this study, the ministry will meet in quorum capacity for thirty minutes.

Central Church

The women's department held a carnival on the church lawn the afternoon and evening of June 16. The women made $58.20 on this occasion. Mrs. J. R. McVey won the quilt and Brother Cyril Wight's church school class won the cash prize for the highest percentage attending. The class was eighty-eight per cent strong.

A number of the members attended the Youth Conference at Lamoni over the week-end and several stayed to attend the classes during the week.

Elder John A. Gardner's church school class is wide-awake and working. An attendance contest held between this class and Brother Wight's class was won by the former class. Since that time, the attendance has been increased nearly forty per cent. It is the ambition of those in charge to have this class pledge anew, that whatever task the church asks of it, it will be ready to do that task graciously and willingly. At present they are studying the basic principles of the church and how they affect life in a social, business, and educational way.

The young people's chorus, under the direction of Eugene Christy, is planning to give one evening's service a month. They are also practicing on the operetta, "Gypsy Rover."

One lovely contribution toward the early worship service on sacrament morning is music by the girls' quartet consisting of Melva and Amy Blankenship, Marcene Murphy, and Dorothy Fry.

Northeast Church

June 18, was a splendid day at this busy church. Eight children were confirmed that day by Elder E. W. Lloyd and Pastor Henry F. Davis. Also, a small child, John Homer Mauzey, was blessed by Elders Davis, and George Mauzey.

An ice cream social held Friday evening, June 16, yielded a profit of nearly sixteen dollars.

Bennington Heights

Regular services were held at the church, Sunday, June 18. Ralph Goold, one of the local men, talked at the eleven o'clock hour. Elder E. W. Lloyd was the speaker for the evening service.

Pastor and Sister O. G. Helm and daughter, Dorothy, with Brother Don Stafford and family drove to Lamoni early Sunday morning, June 18, for the day's services.

Thursday night, June 22, the choir had a party at the home of Fred Witte.

Argentine Church

June 18, the church school observed Father's Day. The sermonet was given by Elder W. S. Brown and in the evening Elder George W. Winegar's subject was "Light."

Heathwood Church

A series of illustrated lectures on American archæology, showing Christ in America and the Restoration, has recently been completed by Brother Lester A. Fowler. The interest and attendance were good especially among the nonmembers. There has been an average of twenty-three nonmembers present each Sunday evening and three Book of Mormons have been loaned to those interested.

Special music was rendered during the meetings by Anna Decker, Garland Tickemeyer, Kenneth Decker, Avis Tyree, Lela Eskridge, and Lester Fowler.

May 28, the orchestra and ladies' quartet accepted an invitation to furnish the evening program at Atherton, Missouri. Sister J. L. Johnson directed the orchestra. Edna Decker, Avis Tyree, Lela Eskridge, and Blanche Green, composed the quartet. Soloists were Garland Tickemeyer, Mona Gross, Vivian Palmer, Charles Wilson, and Avis Tyree, violinist. Accompanists were Mrs. Flossie Tomlinson and Mrs. J. L. Johnson.

Otter Lake, Michigan

Otter Lake Branch held its biannual election of officers June 5, almost all the officers being reinstated.

The church school is planning to take the children on a trip to the zoo park, at Royal Oak. Pastor A. J. Jones has announced that there is no age limit for those who wish to engage in this outing.

Otter Lake will soon hold its all-day meeting, the date being announced later.

Small Group at Potter Valley, California

Meetings Held Once Each Month

The few Saints living at Potter Valley, Mendocino County, in Northern California District, meet but once monthly because they are widely scattered.

Elder George Sherman, former pastor of San Diego Branch, was their pastor for nearly two years. He baptized two worthy adults into the fold. But last fall Brother and Sister Sherman lost their work and left the Saints of Potter Valley very lonely, there being no elder nearer than the Bay Cities.

The world-wide economic depression following so closely upon what the writer from Potter Valley chooses to term "our seven years spiritual depression in the church," has left them poorly equipped to help get the church out of debt. Nevertheless, the members are loyal and they are trying to help.

Mikado, Michigan

Begins Sunday Evening Services

The Saints of Mikado are striving hard to keep their little church well represented at that point. All winter they had Sunday school with good success.

June 1, the women of the branch gave an ice cream social. The fourteen dollars made from the social was turned over to the church.

Starting the first Sunday in June the Saints here have had Sunday evening services. These will continue during the summer.

Centralia, Washington

Elder Marcus H. Cook Holds Meetings

June 10, Centralia held their annual Sunday school picnic. On Children's Day six were baptized. The church is moving along nicely here. Elder Marcus H. Cook was at Centralia the week starting June 10.

www.LatterDayTruth.org

The Bulletin Board

Appointment of Bishop's Agent

Bishop Charles Fry having been transferred to the Northeast Kansas District has presented his resignation as bishop of the Nauvoo District, and W. H. Gunn has been appointed to act as bishop's agent for that district.

We take this opportunity of expressing our appreciation for the splendid cooperation of Bishop Fry during his long years of service.

We are glad at this time to recommend to the Saints of the Nauvoo District, Brother Gunn as bishop's agent, and solicit their cooperation in this phase of church work.

We hereby request that the solicitors send their June and subsequent reports to W. H. Gunn, 1325 Thirtieth Street, Fort Madison, Iowa.

THE PRESIDING BISHOPRIC,
By G. L. DELAPP.

Approved by:
THE FIRST PRESIDENCY.

Pastoral

To Branch Presidents and Members in Rock Island District, Greetings: During the month of July we are planning five week-end meetings; at Fairview (Anamosa Branch), July 2; at Oelwein July 7 to 9; at Savanna July 14 to 16; at Kewanee July 21 to 23; at Moline July 28 to 30. The meeting at Anamosa will be an all-day meeting with basket lunch at noon. Preaching at 11 a. m., and at 3 and 8 p. m. At the other four places the meetings will be in the nature of a regional reunion institute, designed to reach practically every member of the district. The meeting at Oelwein should accommodate Waterloo, Cedar Rapids, and Anamosa. The Savanna gathering should accommodate Osterdock, Clinton, Fulton, Deer Grove, and other near-by points. The Kewanee meeting should reach Galesburg, Dahinda, Peoria, Pekin, Princeville, and Farmington. The Moline meetings should benefit the Quad-Cities, Matherville, Millersburg, Joy, Buffalo, Prairie, Muscatine, Iowa City, and other near-by points. It is expected that Patriarch Albert Carmichael will be with us during the month for patriarchal work. Tuesday, Wednesday, and Thursday of each week will be devoted to visiting the branches where blessings are desired, that cannot be taken care of during the week-end meetings. Will branch presidents please make a survey of their branches, and report to me as soon as possible the number who desire blessings, so that we can arrange our program accordingly? The program at each place, except Anamosa, will be as follows: prayer meeting each morning at 8.30. Institute work Friday and Saturday at 9.45, 11.00 and 2.30. Recreation Friday and Saturday at 4 p. m.; Saturday night, social gathering. Sunday: Church school at 9.45; preaching at 11, 2.30, and 8. Those coming for the Sunday services should bring basket lunch. The local branches, where the meetings are to be held, are asked to arrange for the Friday night programs, the recreational activities, and the Saturday night social gatherings. Arrangements will be made to make the institute work accredited, for the benefit of those who wish to work toward a certificate in Religious Education. Will branch presidents kindly send in their second quarter's report right after June 30.—E. R. Davis, district president, 2329 Twenty-third Avenue, Moline, Illinois.

Ministerial Conference Postponed

The ministerial conference of Southern New England District will meet the first Sunday of the Onset Reunion as President E. L. Traver is confined to his home and Apostle P. M. Hanson is unable to attend on the date as advertised.—F. S. Dobbins, district secretary, Box 544, Onset, Massachusetts.

All-day Meeting

Saints of Netawaka, Kansas, and surround regions are invited to an all-day service at Netawaka, Sunday, July 2, beginning at 10 a. m. with a sacrament meeting, followed by preaching at 11 and at 2.30 p. m. District President David Little and Bishop Charles Fry will be present. Please bring basket lunches.—David Little, district president.

Conference Notice

Northern Saskatchewan district conference, which will be held in Saskatoon July 27 to 30, will be preceded by a two-day institute, beginning Tuesday morning, July 25. Meals will be served in the basement of the church to all visiting Saints, who are requested to bring contributions of food if possible. Special education and class work will be features of Tuesday's and Wednesday's activities and young and old are urged to attend the entire six days.—Lottie Clark Diggle.

Southern Missouri district conference will convene at Thayer, July 15 and 16. Prayer meeting is scheduled for 10.30 a. m. Saturday, and business meeting at 2 p. m. This is the time for the election of district officers, and we shall be glad to have a large representation from all branches. Apostle J. F. Garver and Elder J. Charles May will be present. We are hoping that Thayer Saints, with the help they may solicit, will give an enjoyable program Saturday evening at eight o'clock.—W. E. Haden, district president.

Conference-reunion Notice

The Utah conference and reunion will convene July 7 to 9, at Ogden, Utah. General missionaries in attendance will be Apostle M. A. McConley, Elders A. M. Chase and Frank Veenstra. Meetings will begin Friday evening with an illustrated lecture given by Brother McConley, on "The Restoration." Saturday's program will be prayer service at 9 a. m.; business meeting at 10.15; lunch at noon; recreation in the afternoon, and campfire service and wiener roast in the evening. Early Sunday morning young people's prayer service will convene; general prayer service at 9.15 a. m.; unified service, 10; basket dinner at noon; round table at 2.30 p. m.; song service, 7.30; and preaching at 8. We hope that our branches will make an effort to attend these services. Facilities for camping or other entertainment will be provided by Ogden Branch, assisted by contributions to meet expenses from other branches. If you can, be present at the first service, Friday evening, and stay throughout the two days. I am sure that you will be amply repaid for your efforts.—A. M. Chase, district president.

Request Prayers

Mrs. Ted Munson, of Frazee, Minnesota, requests the prayers of the Saints on July 2, in behalf of her sister, Mrs. Anton Jenson, better known to many as Lillian Barnes, daughter of F. G. Barnes. Mrs. Jenson has tuberculosis and is at the San Beach Sanitarium at Lake Park, Minnesota.

The Saints of Magnolia, Iowa, request the prayers of the Saints in behalf of Sister Mariam Coffman who is in poor health, and also for little Molly Jean Geith who is very ill with pneumonia.

Our Departed Ones

PICRAUX.—L'Amyra Hattie Picraux, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. C. K. Spear, was born October 17, 1903, at Fairfield, Nebraska. She was united in marriage to Theodore Picraux, November 17, 1926. Three children were born to this union; Frances Faye, Kathryn Ruth, and Theodore Joseph. She died in the hospital at Fairfield, Nebraska, June 8, 1933. She leaves to mourn their loss her husband, three children, father and mother, two sisters, Mrs. Frances Wakelin, of Fairfield, Nebraska, and Mrs. Emma Handke, of Oak Mills, Kansas; five brothers, John S., Akron, Colorado; Gerald C., Verona, Nebraska; Lyle L., Elba, Colorado; Scott R., Stockton, Kansas, and Glen O., Fairfield, Nebraska; and a host of friends and relatives. She was baptized into the Reorganized Church of Jesus Christ of Latter Day Saints in 1912, at Fairfield, Nebraska, and always lived a true Saint.

PARKER.—William Albert Parker, son of R. J. and Nellie Parker, was born April 16, 1879, at Independence, Missouri. United with the church June 10, 1906. Death occurred May 16, 1933. He is survived by his wife, Jennie Parker; his mother, Mrs. Nellie Parker; two brothers, John Edgar Parker and Robert Melvin Parker, and one sister, Mrs. Amy Hutchens. Funeral services were held in Carson Funeral chapel, Independence, the morning of May 19. Elder Paul M. Hanson conducted the service. Interment was in the family lot in Mound Grove Cemetery.

BOWER.—Sarah Elizabeth Bower was born September 7, 1850, at Beaver Island, in Lake Michigan. Her parents figured in the early days of the Reorganization. They were much in contact with the Strangites, but joined the Reorganization and with their children remained devoted to the church. Sarah Elizabeth was baptized, July 10, 1863, at Pawukee, Wisconsin. She died, May 23, 1933, having been a splendid and sincere Latter Day Saint all her days. Married George A. Bower, June 28, 1869, and to them three children were born: Mrs. Charles Schuster, of Thief River Falls, Minnesota; Benjamin Bower, of Long Beach, California, and Gilbert J. Bower, of Melville, North Dakota. There also survive her, two brothers, three sisters, three grandchildren, and seven great-grandchildren. Funeral services, attended by a great number of friends, were held at Thief River Falls, May 25, Elder V. E. Lundeen, of Minneapolis, in charge.

www.LatterDayTruth.org

MARTIN.—Albert Edward Martin was born May 31, 1861, at Colborne, Ontario, Canada. September 1, 1880, he was married to Harriet C. Rodwell. Was baptized November 13, 1887, by Elder R. B. Howlett, in London, Ontario, and was a member of London Branch till 1911, when he moved to Saskatchewan. In 1915, he was ordained to the office of priest. In 1918, he moved to Independence, Missouri. His wife died November 14, 1923. In 1924, he returned to Simcoe, Canada, and on September 1, of last year, was united in marriage to Mrs. Mary Little. Passed away at Simcoe, May 26, 1933, leaving to mourn, his wife, of Simcoe; three sons and three daughters: George W., Joseph E., Harry A., and Olive L. Rogers, of Independence; Mrs. Mina L. Vasbinder, of Brownsville, Ontario; Mrs. Grace L. Constable, of London, and one sister, Mrs. O. R. Erickson, Independence; twenty-five grandchildren, and three great-grandchildren. The funeral was held at Simcoe in charge of William I. Fligg, who preached the sermon.

WOODHEAD.—George Thomas Woodhead was born at North Odgen, Utah, August 6, 1854. Died at Salt Lake City, June 5, 1933. The most of his life was spent in freighting and mining. He was a man of the "wide open spaces" and even in his last days looked forward to the time when he might again go back to these spaces and his favorite enterprise of mining. He married Caroline Radmall in 1884. Four children were born to this union, three of whom with his wife survive him. They are, Mrs. C. W. Shippen, of Idaho Falls, Idaho; Mrs. W. J. Fahrni, of Lark, Utah, and Mrs. C. J. Price, of Salt Lake City, Utah. These with two grandchildren; two sisters, Mrs. Will Larkins, of Thatcher, Idaho, and Mrs. Ed. Webb, of Kaysville, Utah; three half-sisters, Mrs. Emily Paxman, of West Tintic, Utah; Mrs. Kate Geddes, of Logan, Utah, and Mrs. Laura Booth, of Los Angeles, California, and a host of other relatives and friends mourn their loss. He was reared in the Utah Latter Day Saint Church, but on February 22, 1895, united with the Reorganized Church of Jesus Christ of Latter Day Saints, and lived a consistent life until his death. He was loved and respected by all who knew him.

RIEPE.—Agnes Nenettie Garner was born January 8, 1862, at San Bernardino, California. Early in life she moved to Santa Ana with her parents, where she united with the Reorganized Church. Death occurred May 16, 1933, at Alhambra Hospital. She leaves to mourn two sons, two daughters and seven grandchildren; also two brothers and one sister. Funeral services were conducted by Elder Frank B. Van Fleet, and interment was in Azusa, California. Sister Reipe was one of the pioneers of California, and was a devoted follower of Jesus Christ.

GRAY.—Dama Henry Gray was born at New Bedford, December 16, 1896. During the World War he entered the service in the Navy. His last months were spent in convoy duty. He was mustered out with an honorable discharge. December 8, 1919, he was united in marriage to Frances Whitney, of Amboy, Illinois. To them were born five children, Catherine, John, Lowell, Alden, and David. He became a member of the church, June 18, 1930, being baptized by Elder J. L. Cooper. Brother Gray died, May 17, 1933, at the Hines Veteran Hospital. Funeral services were held in the Methodist Church, and Elder R. E. Davey, of Aurora, Illinois, preached the sermon. He leaves to mourn his departure his wife and five children, his mother, father, and sister, of Milan, besides a large circle of other relatives and close friends.

WRIGHT.—Hiram McClellan Wright was born, January 30, 1864, at Pickard, Indiana, son of John R, and Cynthia Wright. Moved to Plano, Illinois, in 1884, and married Eliza R. Dorby, September 11, 1885. To them four children were born, one son and three daughters, Russel V. Wright, of Ottawa, Illinois; Mrs. Ruby M. Kreamer, of Cape Girardeau, Missouri, and Mrs. Frances A. Zehrung, of Chesterton, Indiana. One daughter died in infancy. Mr. Wright lived in and around Plano for many years. In 1910, he moved to Sandwich, where he was employed at the Sandwich Manufacturing Company for over thirty-eight years. He was baptized a member of the church, November 8, 1885, at Plano, Illinois. Passed away at Sandwich, May 31, 1933. The funeral services were held from the Sutherland Funeral Home and from the Saints' church, Elder J. M. Blakely officiating, assisted by Elder L. O. Wildemuth. The Odd Fellow Lodge, of Plano, of which Mr. Wright was a member, performer their ritual at the church and at the grave. Interment was in Plano Cemetery. Besides his immediate family, Mr. Wright leaves one grandson, one brother, C. W. Wright, of Canton, Mississippi; three sisters, Mrs. J. W. Hart and Mrs. Willard Bowles, of Sheridan, Indiana, and Mrs. Wallace Champ, of Greensburg, Indiana; two brothers preceded him in death. He leaves also other relatives and friends.

OMANS.—R. D. Omans, son of Missionary Omans of a few years ago, was born in Michigan, January 4, 1875. He died May 18, 1933. As a small child he moved with his parents to Minnesota, where he grew to manhood and was married to Carrie B. Kolmorgan in 1899. To this union were born the following children: Mrs. John Dundas, of Lewiston, Idaho; Lloyd Omans, of Nezperce, Idaho; R. D., jr., and James, at home. He became a member of the church, June 20, 1900, and was faithful until death. He moved from Minnesota to Kamiah, Idaho, in 1902, and spent the rest

WHAT? Reunion

WHEN? Aug. 10 - 20

WHERE? Kirtland

COMING?

Good advice

BE STRONG

God wants us to be strong in mind, body and spirit. We must be an asset to the church, we must be active and frugal. If you want something done get in touch with the busy Saint. Eat the best of foods, they are not expensive in the end. Don't waste so much on foods to tickle the palate. The ice house and the green house are not much of an asset to health. Vegetables out of season cause many deaths and so does the ice house. Don't bank too much on Ice Cream. This is a big heat producer. Fruits and vegetables in their season are far superior.

A little Phosfo added to the fruit is wonderful. Why not get a can and start on the road to Health? What will a dollar bring you at the doctor's office? Often you have the same thing in the kitchen cabinet. Only about 5 drugs used that are not poisonous by nature.

A can of Phosfo delivered anywhere at $1.00. 3 cans in U. S. at $2.00 for awhile. 5 lbs. bulk only $2.50.

A. B. KLAR, FOOD SPECIALIST
Dover, Ohio

Free advice

NOW ONLY $1 [Value $3.50]

EVERLAST PEN-PENCIL

THIS IS 2/3 SIZE OF JUMBO

GUARANTEED FOR LIFE!

Think of it—a fine fountain pen at one end and a mechanical pencil with extra leads and eraser at the other. The pen alone is worth several dollars, and with the pencil thrown in you get the biggest value ever offered in this field.

The Everlast Combination is of such good workmanship and material that we GUARANTEE IT FOR LIFE. Made of beautiful DuPont Pyrolin, it has a Durium GOLD NIB that writes exceptionally well and stands up under most severe usage.

A Jumbo Size in black for men and boys and a Dainty Size in black and exquisite mottled colors for women and girls.

Attach $1.00 Bill to Coupon and Mail

LIFETIME PEN & PENCIL CO.
Care of Herald Publishing House
Independence, Mo.

Inclosed find $1.00 for which please send me prepaid one Everlast Pen-Pencil with lifetime guarantee.

Print Name .....

Address .....

City & State .....

Size ☐ Jumbo ☐ Medium

Note: If you want your name imprinted in gold add 25 cents.

www.LatterDayTruth.org

of his life there. He joined the Independent Order of Odd Fellows, December 8, 1905, and was an active member in the Odd Fellow and Rebecca lodges. During the World War he served in the Bremerton Navy yards, his work being the finer cabinet finishing on ships. He took an active part in the local schools, being affiliated with the manual training department. Was a faithful husband and a loving father at home and was loved by all who knew him. Elder Peter F. Klaus conducted the funeral.

COMLY.—Edith Moe Comly was born at Sierra Valley, California, March 22, 1864, and died at her home at Plano, Illinois, May 29, 1933. At the age of eight years, she left California to live in Iowa, and later moved to Illinois, where she spent the remainder of her life in and near Plano with the exception of a few years at Moline during her early married life. She became a member of the church, April 20, 1878, at Plano, being baptized by Joseph Smith. Married William McClellan Comly at Plano, June 10, 1885, and to them eight children were born, the eldest of whom, Edwin, preceded her in death a short time ago. She is survived by her husband, William Comly, of Plano; seven children, Arthur, of Chicago; Mrs. Frank Hastings, of Portland, Oregon; Eugene, of Omaha, Nebraska; Mrs. Harry Schultz, of Aurora, Illinois; Clarence, Mrs. W. L. Reissinger and Dale, of Plano; five grandchildren, other relatives and many friends. Her passing takes away a loving mother and faithful church member. Her pleasant, cheerful disposition endeared her to many. The funeral services were held at the Saints' church, Elder L. O. Wildermuth in charge, sermon by Elder J. M. Blakely. Interment was in Plano Cemetery.

Ten Marks of an Educated Man

He keeps his mind open on every question until the evidence is all in.

He listens to the man who knows.

He never laughs at new ideas.

He cross-examines his daydreams.

He knows his strong point and plays it.

He knows the value of good habits and how to form them.

He knows when not to think and when to call in the expert to think for him.

You can't sell him magic.

He lives the forward-looking, outward-looking life.

He cultivates a love of the beautiful.

—The American Magazine.

Words of Wisdom

Cherish your body, for God made it great;
It has a guest of might and high estate;
Keep the shrine noble, handsome, high and whole,
For in it lives God's work, a kingly soul.

—James Bartlett Wiggin.

DON'T WISH!

Thousands are making extra money in one or other of the phases of fur and game farming. Ten cents brings you the most practical magazine on the market in this field. Others are making extra money—why not you?

Address

Fur Farming & Trapping
Bunceton, Missouri

Reunion Schedule

Please send in changes for this schedule immediately.

DISTRICT	PLACE	TIME
North Dakota	Logan or Burlingtown	June 24 to July 2
Minnesota and Northern Wisconsin	Chetek	July 1 to 4
Owen Sound	Port Elgin, Ontario	July 2 to 9
Eastern Montana	Fairview, Montana	July 7 to 9
Central Texas	Hearne	July 14 to 23
Southern Saskatchewan	Weyburn Plains,	July 19 to 23
Kentucky-Tennessee	Puryear, Tennessee	July 22 to 30
Southern New England	Onset	July 22 to August 6
Nauvoo	Nauvoo	July 23 to 30
Northern Saskatchewan	Saskatoon,	July 27 to 30
Lamoni	Lamoni	July 28 to August 6
Toronto	Lowbanks	July 29 to August 12
Alberta	Edmonton	Aug. 4 to 6
Oklahoma	Canton, Oklahoma	Aug. 4 to 13
Northwestern	Silver Lake	Aug. 4 to 13
Northern and Western Michigan	Park of the Pines	Aug. 4 to 13
Spring River	Columbus, Kansas	Aug. 4 to 13
Eastern and Western Maine	Brooksville	Aug. 12 to 19
Kirtland Combined Reunion	Kirtland	Aug. 10 to 20
Northwestern Iowa	Woodbine, Iowa	Aug. 11 to 20
Far West Stake	Stewartsville	Aug. 17 to 27
Western Montana	Race Track	Aug. 18 to 27
Southeast Illinois	Brush Creek	Aug. 25 to Sept. 3
Idaho		Aug. 16 to 20
West. Oklahoma	Eagle City, Oklahoma	Aug. 5 to 13

THE FIRST PRESIDENCY,

By F. M. McDOWELL.

CLASSIFIED ADS

Rates 3 cents per word first insertion; 20 per cent discount on subsequent insertions. Minimum 75 cents per insertion.

REGARDING ADVERTISING

While we exercise care in the acceptance of advertisements appearing in these columns, we can not guarantee full satisfaction between buyer and seller and we therefore advise that in every instance a proper investigation be made by all parties concerned.

HIGH SCHOOL COURSE in two years; meets all requirements for entrance to college, business, and leading professions. Diploma given. Address Education, Herald Publishing House, Independence, Missouri. 26-25-34

WANTED: Situation in Illinois, Iowa, or Missouri, by experienced farm hand. Good milker, young, single, mechanical experience. Good references. Now employed. George Hayden, Bangor, Michigan. 27-2t*

WANTED: Rebuilt Two-Unit Portable Hinman Electric Milker: "R" Herald Publishing House, Independence, Missouri. 25-2t*

ORDER THOSE MAGAZINES through the Herald Publishing House and help the church. $10,000 in commissions could be saved for the church annually if all would cooperate. 23-tf

DO YOU USE CALENDARS in your business? We have one of the best lines in the United States at money saving prices. Send us a sample of about what you want, give us the quantity and we'll be glad to quote you. Herald Publishing House. 23-tf

Your Home For the Future

May be one of these. Priced right and of the type that will please you. Your church notes and bonds are cash on these deals too. Locate in Independence on a permanent basis.

5 Rooms—modern—north of square $2,500
8 Rooms—modern—near square—suitable for apartments 3,000
5 Rooms—modern—brick—not far from Auditorium 2,500
5 Rooms—partly modern—close to square 1,250
Vacant lots—$100 to $750

CENTRAL DEVELOPMENT ASSOCIATION
221 West Lexington Street
Independence, Mo.

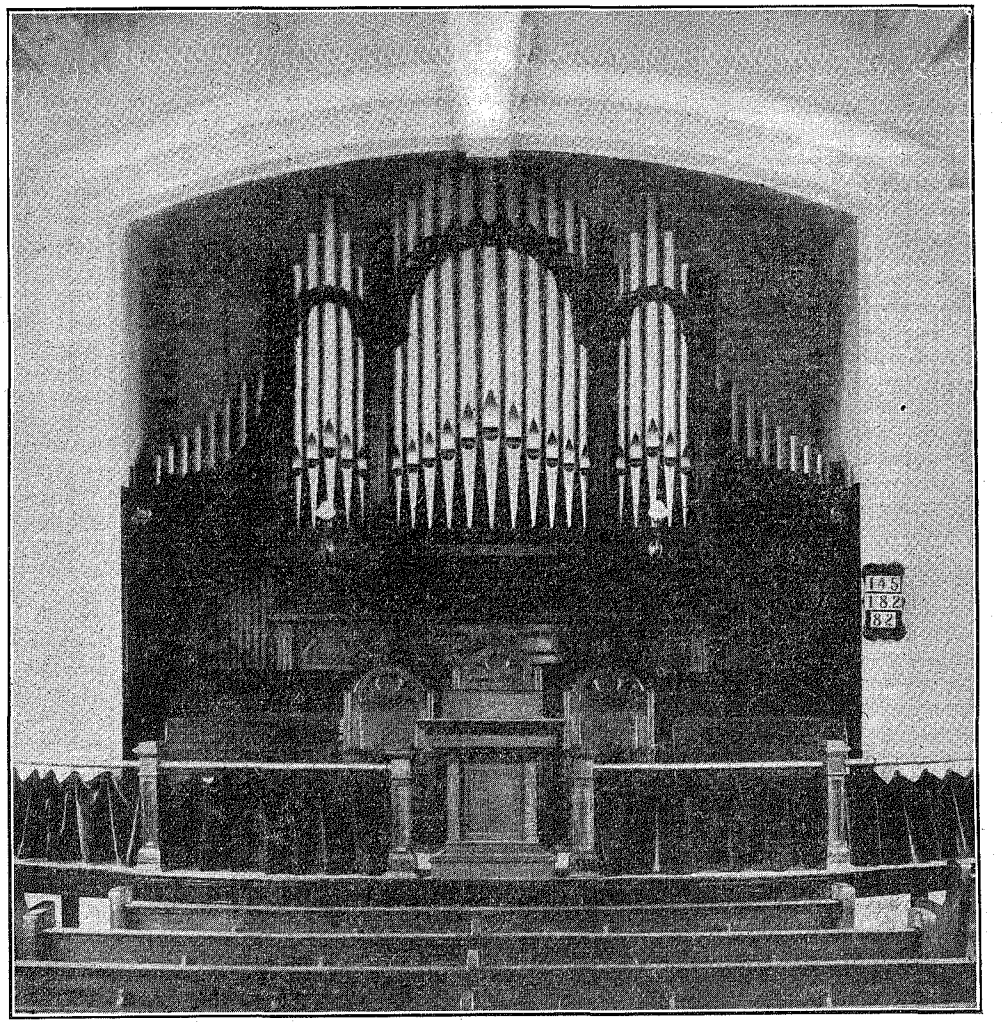
or

THE PRESIDING BISHOPRIC
The Auditorium
Independence, Mo.

www.LatterDayTruth.org

Ever Try to Sing Without a Songbook?

OF COURSE YOU HAVE AND YOU DIDN'T LIKE IT EITHER. WHAT DO YOU THINK YOUR FRIENDS AND VISITORS FEEL LIKE? YOU MAY NOT HAVE A BIG PIPE ORGAN BUT YOU CAN HAVE A BOOK TO SING OUT OF. WHILE YOU'RE GETTING READY FOR THOSE NEW HYMNALS TAKE ADVANTAGE OF THIS RED HOT "REUNION SPECIAL."



This is a familiar songbook, words only for 179 songs used at all recent General Conferences and reunions as well as regularly in hundreds of our churches. Paper bound but substantial.

$6.98 Per 100 (Add Your Transportation)

GOOD DURING JULY AND AUGUST ONLY

10c each or 12 for $1 postpaid if you need less than 100.

HERALD PUBLISHING HOUSE

"The Church Service Station"

WARD A. HOUGAS, Manager

INDEPENDENCE, MO.

www.LatterDayTruth.org

The SAINTS' HERALD

H O Smith
711 S Butler
Independence Mo

A Challenge to Youth

Notes From the Speech of PRESIDENT FREDERICK M. SMITH at the Opening of the Youth Conference, Lamoni, Iowa, June 18.

S. A. BURGESS, CHURCH HISTORIAN, REVIEWS

"Joseph Smith: An American Prophet"

By John Henry Evans

A "BLUE PENCIL NOTE" OF WARNING—

"Gadianton Walks Again"

By Elbert A. Smith

AN ARTISTIC VIEW OF CHRISTIAN LIVING—

"The Higher Quest"

By Geoffrey Gillard

Volume 80 JULY 4, 1933 Number 27

www.LatterDayTruth.org

THE SAINTS' HERALD

July 4, 1933

Volume 80 Number 27

FREDERICK M. SMITH, Editor in Chief.
ELBERT A. SMITH, Associate Editor.
FLOYD M. McDOWELL, Associate Editor
LEONARD J. LEA, Managing Editor.
LETA B. MORIARTY, Assistant Editor.
WARD A. HOUGAS, Business Manager.

Entered as second-class matter at the post office at Independence, Missouri, under Act of March 3, 1879. Issued weekly at Independence, Missouri. Price $2 a year in advance for the U. S. A., its territories and possessions, and Canada; foreign, $3 a year. Accepted for mailing at the special rate of postage provided for in section 1103, Act of October 3, 1917; authorized July 21, 1921.

Published for the Reorganized Church of Jesus Christ of Latter Day Saints.

HERALD PUBLISHING HOUSE

INDEPENDENCE, MISSOURI

CONTENTS

EDITORIAL:
- Temperance 835
- Blue Pencil Notes 835
- Across the Desk of the Editor in Chief 836

HELPS FOR THE PASTOR:
- Themes for Midweek Prayer Meetings, by J. F. Sheehy 837

YOUTH'S FORUM:
- A Summary of the Conference, by President F. M. McDowell 838
- A Note From Etta's Diary 838
- What They Think of the Youth Conference 838

NEWS BRIEFS 840

ARTICLES:
- A Challenge to Youth 840
- The Higher Quest, by Geoffrey Gillard 841
- A Book Review, by S. A. Burgess 843
- Our Common Enemy—War, by Esmond Crown 844
- Central American Writing, by M. H. Morgan 845
- Marbles for Keeps? 847
- Weekly Health Letter, by A. W. Teel, M. D. 850
- Victory Over Defeat, by Hugh F. Bland 850
- Signs of the Times and Pre-Millennial World Events, by E. B. Hull 851
- Prayer and Testimony 852
- Question Time, by A. B. Phillips 854

NEWS OF CHURCH AND HOME 855

THE BULLETIN BOARD 862

The Pigeonhole

Domestic Economy

"I have been observing a queer family recently," said the Pigeon. "Summer or winter, they never have enough clothes; but they attend more movies than those who work for a living. They are supported by charity; but they can afford money for fireworks for two weeks before the Fourth of July, when they have to be given food. They cannot pay rent for the house they live in, but their girls dress and paint extravagantly. Their men folks spend the whole day polishing the benches in the shade and smoking cigarettes, but they never do any visible work, not even to clean up the yard. And yet they can bring out more votes for an election than any three families that contribute to their support. Well, I suppose this is a part of a republican form of government."

The Last Week in June

The Editor looked out the window and saw the Pigeon promenading grandly on the limestone ledge. There was a suggestion of brand-new importance in his strut, but the Editor paid no attention, for the Pigeon, like some people, is likely to strut for very little reason. A few minutes later, however, when the Editor looked again, two pigeons were there! "Merely an optical illusion," he thought. "I'll clean my glasses." With the dust of editorial obscurity wiped away, two pigeons were still there, and one appeared smaller than the other, and differently marked.

"What does this mean?" exclaimed the Editor.

The larger of the two swept out a wing in a gesture of chivalrous deference.

"My dear Pigeonette," he said, "may I have the pleasure of presenting the Editor?"

And so the reader will not be surprised, hereafter, if the Pigeon's comments are tinged with a bit of the Feminine Viewpoint.

The Children

"Children's Sunday School classes," says Pigeonette, "are mostly taught by women. Mothers, sisters, aunties, and old maids are left to instruct the children in doctrine, church, history, ethics, Bible literature, or whatever they teach. The men hardly know that the children exist. What I'd like to see would be a special Sunday set aside every little while on which the men, and nobody but men, especially of the priesthood, would be required to teach the Sunday school classes all the way down the line. They would learn better to appreciate the problems of both teachers and children. It would be hard on the children, but it might teach the men something!"

How Do They Get Started?

Queer stories are circulated, some of them very ridiculous. One sister in an eastern congregation was heard to say to another, "You know Brother McDowell is a fine man, and I like him. But I have only one thing against him—his garage is electrically heated!" His friends have been laughing about this yarn ever since it came back to Independence. It was only last winter that his fingers were nipped with the frost while he was trying to start his car. The garage is not heated electrically. In fact, it is not heated at all!

www.LatterDayTruth.org

Editorial

Temperance

The defeat of the Eighteenth Amendment seems to be more and more certain as state after state goes on record for repeal. Only a miracle could save it now. And saving it would be of doubtful value, since it is worse than useless to have on the records a law which so large a part of the citizens are apparently determined not to respect or obey. Thus the last legal support of the nation-wide program for the suppression of the liquor traffic is taken away.

The Drys have lost their fight and spirit of resistance. They apparently regard their cause as a lost one. Probably not until another generation grows to maturity and beholds a new spectacle of the misery and degradation wrought by alcohol will there be sufficient moral courage to organize again to combat the liquor evil.

Under these conditions Latter Day Saints should preserve their individuality and stand by the ideals with which they proclaim to the world that they are "a peculiar people"—peculiar in their desire for clean and sober living. Whether we should revive the pledge of total abstinence, or whether some new weapon must be forged against liquor, does not now appear. But it is quite certain that some steps must be taken to counteract the deluge of advertising and propaganda that is poured upon the people through the press and the radio to blind people to the harm and danger of alcohol.

The writer of proverbs said, "Wine is a mocker, strong drink is raging." Nothing that has appeared in the history of the race since that condemnation was uttered has served to indicate a change in the character and effects of liquor. The Word of Wisdom warns us against it. Our Christian ideals are against it, and our hopes of Zion are against it.

We as a church must build strong defenses of faith and instruction against this evil. The armies of prohibition have failed. The armies of temperance must once more take the field.

Now, more than ever, it is the duty of the local churches to provide an attractive program of study, social activities and other attractions that will take the young people to the church, and thus keep them away from the resorts where they are urged to indulge in intoxicating drinks and other harmful things. The work of the church is bigger than ever.

L. L.

Blue Pencil Notes

Gadianton Walks Again

DO YOU REMEMBER how a few years ago we Americans sent an army down into Mexico to punish some bandits that the Mexican Government was too inefficient to capture? If a Mexican bandit were to come over the border now he would be held up and robbed before he had gone a mile. Poor old Pancho Villa rode a jumpy little Mexican pony and carried a revolver and rifle. Our bandits are probably the best in the world,—they have powerful automobiles and deadly machine guns. Mexicans always were a backward people.

RECENTLY the daughter of the City Manager of Kansas City was kidnaped in broad daylight by armed men who appeared at her home and took her and held her for ransom—which ransom was duly paid. More recently in a bloody machine gun massacre in front of the Union Station in Kansas City, under the shadow of our war memorial, five peace officers, including one federal officer, were mowed down by gangsters in the presence of numerous onlookers. These typical incidents bring home closely to church headquarters the fact that the country is now at the mercy of organized, armed, secret combinations of robbers and murderers. They have powerful connections one with the other the country over; powerful friends in politics and city governments; city strongholds and wilderness fastnesses where they hide.

THE Book of Mormon tells us that away back in Nephite times when the people had long been prospered and had given their hearts to the pursuit of riches and pleasure (book of Helaman 2: 139, 145) similar organizations arose. They terrorized the country. They were well armed robbers and murderers who sallied forth to slay and plunder and then fled away to secret hiding places. They had powerful and influential friends behind the scenes —at court. They threatened the existence of organized society. They became so bold that they even entered the judgment hall and killed the chief judge and his son as they sat in judgment (Helaman 2: 143). In other words they had "organized crime" then as we have it today—only they had a different name for it. Gadianton seemed to be a sort of criminal overlord in those groups of "gunmen" and assassins.

www.LatterDayTruth.org

THE LAST BOOK in the Book of Mormon contains a solemn warning to us, to "the gentiles" of later years. It is a prophetic warning of the thing now taking place. It says: "That you may repent of your sins and not suffer that these murderous combinations shall get above you . . . that the work, yea, even the work of destruction come upon you." (Ether 3: 96.)

The Book of Mormon conveyed a clear-cut definite forecast of the status of organized crime today in America. There is no occasion to divert its meaning to lesser things. The spirit of Gadianton walks again today. We have but to substitute for the names of Gadianton and Kishkumen the name of "Pretty Boy" Floyd, who with his machine gun roams as he will in Missouri, Arkansas, and Oklahome, or the names of several well-known and notorious leaders of various sorts of gangs of gunmen, racketeers, and higher-up political thugs in office, who have systematically looted such cities as New York and Chicago until they are all but bankrupt. Chicago has involved the whole state of Illinois in its near ruin. The menace is exactly as predicted in the Book of Mormon. If "these murderous combinations shall get above you" (beyond control —dominant) they will bring about your "overthrow and destruction."

SOME of our greatest daily newspapers are declaring in words of soberness that organized crime is quite hopelessly beyond the control of municipal and state organizations and the only hope lies in Federal intervention. If further social unrest should weaken the forces of federal control we can imagine how this nation would be parceled out among criminal overlords—even more than now.

It is time that America repented of her municipal and state corruption and connivance with crime; of her legal and judicial weakness and vagaries, her hordes of corrupt criminal lawyers, criminal bondsmen, paid witnesses and jurors, corrupt or timid judges; of her political rottenness; of the whole national decline and decay of morals and honesty and regard for law that has made this condition possible. Such repentance is at the very base of any successful attempt to reform and control. Crooked men in office supported by indifferent voters cannot wage victorious war against criminals out of office.

ELBERT A. SMITH.

The grace of quietness is a beautiful thing in God's house.

Across the Desk of the Editor in Chief

IN A RECENT LETTER received from Brother Gilbert J. Waller before he left San Francisco for his home in Honolulu, he writes:

"Brother Etzenhouser informed me that on Easter Sunday there were fourteen baptisms, which were performed by three priests, one from each of the branches, the Hawaiian, Chinese, and Japanese. Apparently a very fine spirit was present and everybody was pleased at the manner in which these young men officiated in performing the ordinance of baptism. This should be encouraging to you to know the work is going forward and that young men are developing spiritually in such a way that they will be very useful to the work in the future."

It is indeed encouraging to know that younger men are coming on and taking their places of responsibility and we are particularly pleased to know that these Hawaiian, Chinese and Japanese young men are developing and exercising the functions of the priesthood. Since my visit in Honolulu I have been particularly interested in noting the progress of the branches and of these young Saints of foreign birth, and we find our interest kept keenly alive by such news items as these.

IN A RECENT LETTER from Brother A. S. Votaw of Fresno, California, one of the stand-by workers of that branch, he adds a postscript which we are pleased to pass on to our readers. The postscript was added a day or so after the main part of the letter was written and he says:

"Did not get this mailed and will now add that almost 100 per cent of that splendid group of young people you met here have filed their inventories."

This is fine and is quite in consonance with what I expected from that "splendid group of young people." We may expect to hear from this well-organized band of earnest young workers.

AS AN INDICATION of the gradually awakening interest among the young people of the church, they taking a greater interest in churchly activities and the solving of church problems, we quote from a letter by Blair Jensen, president of the Lamoni Stake, who says:

"A week ago yesterday was our stake young people's day in Lamoni. About two hundred and fifty were in attendance. A very fine response in every way throughout the activities of the day. The keynote sounded was the need of the young people preparing themselves and fitting into the activities of the church, emphasizing the fact that the young people as an organization were merely another instrument to further the cause of the church and as an organization had not the right of existing for itself. One branch three months ago having but two young people, had one hundred per cent attendance with thirteen young people present. This is a specific example of the accomplishment in that period of time by one alert and active worker."

We are glad to see the young people of Lamoni Stake alert and feel that when they join hands with

www.LatterDayTruth.org

HELPS FOR THE PASTOR

Themes for Midweek Prayer Meetings

By J. F. Sheehy

Ask that people come in a prayerful attitude.
No visiting, story-telling, and laughter before the meeting.
Let all visiting wait until the close of the meeting.
Elders "shall direct as they are led by the Spirit."
Do not ever say "the meeting is in your hands."
"Have all things prepared beforehand," is good advice from the Lord for all our work as well as for the gathering.

Hymn (seated)
Hymn (stand)
Prayer
Scripture Reading
Remarks—(Brief. Tell theme of the service.)
Hymn
Season of Prayer
Hymn
Order of meeting changed to testimony
Testimonies and hymns
Announcements: "Theme for next week"
Hymn
Benediction
(Song numbers refer to the new Saints' Hymnal.)

July 5

Theme: The Voices of Jesus.
Special Thought: The Bridegroom's voice, "Open to me."
Scripture Reading: Songs of Solomon 5: 2-5.

Suggested Hymns:

No. 334—Tell me the old, old story
No. 186—This world will be blessed by and by
No. 335—Sing them over again to me
No. 45—Lord may our hearts be tuned to sing
No. 204—Awake ye Saints of God awake
No. 327—Did you think to pray
No. 295—Jesus I my cross have taken
No. 4—Come thou fount of every blessing

July 12

Theme: The Voices of Jesus.
Special Thought: The Friend's voice, "Counsel Thee."
Scripture Reading: Revelation 3: 18.

Suggested Hymns:

No. 231—Be not dismayed
No. 343—Bless be the tie that binds
No. 257—What a friend we have in Jesus
No. 260—There's an old, old path
No. 324—Pass me not, O gentle Savior
No. 296—Just as I am, Thine own to be
No. 294—I would be true

July 19

Theme: The Voices of Jesus.
Special Thought: The Physician's voice, "Wilt thou be made whole?"
Scripture Reading: John 5: 6.

Suggested Hymns:

No. 4—Come thou fount of every blessing
No. 49—Abide with me
No. 50—Day is dying in the west
No. 68—In thy name Oh Lord assembling
No. 124—The Lord is my shepherd
No. 209—Look for the beautiful
No. 234—My times are in thy hand
No. 239—Where wilt thou put thy trust
No. 276—Lord for tomorrow and its needs

July 26

Theme: Walking with God.
Special Thought: With whom are you walking? With men—good, or bad ones? With God? Are you in a condition to walk with him? Has the influence of the Holy Spirit been felt in your life? In what ways?
Scripture Reading: Genesis 5: 24. "Enoch walked with God." Can you recall other men who walked with God?
(Songs may be chosen from the lists above.)

---

the alert youngsters of other stakes and districts there will be a forward movement among our young people which will be pleasing to them as well as to the older ones of the church.

May the Lord bless our young people.

WE RECENTLY RECEIVED a letter from a district president who is perhaps one of the youngest district presidents in the church, and in his report, which contains much detailed information in regard to the condition of the field, he makes a personal reference which we desire to pass on because of the fine spirit manifest. The letter is from Brother Franklin Steiner, who is president of the Mobile District. He says:

"I was ordained an elder when nineteen years of age and have been district president since that time. During these six years it has been necessary for me to preside over the Mobile Branch about two years. During these few years of my ministry there have been trials and burdens, but to offset these there has been the influence of our heavenly Father's Spirit to bring joy and strength. During these years I have learned to love the people among whom I labor and I am praying that our relations together have been mutually beneficial. As one of the young men of the church I want to say that I have faith in the ultimate success of our church program. This is not idle presumption upon my part, but is a faith born by desire to know and nurtured by the Spirit of God as I have labored to establish his kingdom. The Lord has blessed me wonderfully, and as long as I am faithful and make an effort to learn my duty and perform it, I have the assurance that he will continue to supplement my efforts."

Then this young man speaks of having been privileged to consult with one of the older men of the priesthood and speaks of Brother Berve in the highest terms and in appreciation of his ministry and the help the elder brother has been to the young district president.

We appreciate this fine spirit and especially the spirit of cooperation and mutual helpfulness that it reflects. We feel sure that the Lord will continue to bless our young brother. F. M. S.

www.LatterDayTruth.org

Youth's Forum

A Page of Thought and Discussion for the Young People of the Church - - - - - - - -

A Summary of the Conference

By President F. M. McDowell

The Youth Conference developed a rich accumulation of materials, and it is difficult to encompass in one article even a statement of the themes presented. Imagine, then, each italicized phrase in the paragraphs below as the focal point of a whole body of material developed in lectures, lessons, addresses and forum discussions at the many meetings.

Our conference has in no uncertain way written into the background of our lives those enduring convictions which are to serve as the basis and point of reference, for all our thinking and activity. It has found support for these convictions in the witness of the ages and personal testimony of those who are now spending themselves in the on-going and unfinished work of God. Further assurance of the triumph of our cause comes to us as we have grasped the prophetic vision of the word of God, in all the dispensations of time. This impels us to world consciousness and an intelligent, courageous Christian citizenship devoted to the task of removing from our social order those ungodly elements which destroy man and thwart the purposes of God.

Repeatedly throughout the conference the call has come to personal cleanliness and to life on the higher levels. We have seen too that kindly and sympathetic relationship based upon mutual understanding involving all ages and groups was the logical outgrowth of our professed beliefs and divine purposes.

Repeatedly we have heard a plea for craftsmanship, by which was meant an intelligent and spiritualized skill in such important phases of life as physical and mental hygiene, the use of leisure time, creative peace, teaching and leadership; in fact, in all aspects of that work which is calculated to serve the interests of the Kingdom of God.

We have been able to see more clearly just how youth may find its place in this great continued and continuing story. We have seen how young people may be organized within the church machinery to supplement rather than to thwart the work of a divinely appointed church. We have been able to assimilate a fund of information in regard to the skills and methods which, while not first in church work, are nevertheless absolutely essential to its success. We have finally been assured through scores of testimonies of both leaders and young people of an unswerving loyalty to the cause of Christ. Our conference as we have said elsewhere, adds its weight to the prophecy that the kingdom shall be built.

There has been no depression for those who have been making their investments in the youth of the church. In June, 1933, the dividends received by such investors have established an all-time record.

After 20 years of close association with our young people and exactly ten years after the first church-wide young people's convention, I count myself among the rich. This conference marks a splendid climax to the endeavors of those years. I never was more certain of the triumph of the church; I never had greater faith in its young people, than now. This youth conference has been to me a splendid prophecy that the kingdom shall be built.

A Note From Etta's Diary

"It was Friday afternoon, at one of the committee meetings that I became involved in a heavy argument. Things were going against me until one young man who had not said much before took my side, and saved me from defeat. We talked a while afterward, and he told me he comes from a place where there is no branch. His mother, now dead, had brought him into the church. It was chiefly curiosity that brought him to the conference, but now he says he is greatly interested. Wayne Roland is his name. Nice, isn't it? Seems like a regular fellow.

"But I got another shock that evening after dinner. I was sitting in the living room of Walker Hall talking to Timmy Walsh, when in came our recent friend Howard with the girl who wore the organdie dress and the engagement ring yesterday. He introduced her as his cousin! And he's not engaged to her at all! And he confided to me later that he wants to write to me! A funny thing —isn't it?—that a cousin doesn't look half so poisonous as a financee.

"Our delegation from Elmwood have already declared that this conference is the finest thing that could have happened to them, or for the young people of the church. We are certainly going home with a new idea of church work."

● Association with delegates from other parts of the country has proved a valuable stimulant to the young people of Lamoni.

Gretchen Kelley.

Lamoni, Iowa.

● It is presenting a solution to youth of many of the problems confronting them in the branch back home.

Maxine Godfrey.

Fresno, California.

—From The Graceland Tower.

What They Think of the Youth Conference

● The conference has furnished part of the richest spiritual experience of my life. In it the young people have taken steps that will leave a bright spot in the history of the church.

Lloyd Siebert.

Kansas City, Missouri.

● This Youth Conference has made a spiritual impression on my life which can never be erased. It has strengthened my faith and given me a greater determination to guide my services toward the redemption of Zion.

Daisy M. Black.

Stewartsville, Missouri.

● This Youth Conference has given to me a greater appreciation and interpretation of the essential needs and desires of the young people in sensing a mutual and deeper responsibility to the call of the church toward Zion.

Richard Wildermuth.

Plano, Illinois.

● The Youth Conference is one of the greatest steps the church has ever taken toward the advancement and education of its young people. My only regret is that all the young people of the church could not be privileged to attend.

Arthur Hanna.

Cleveland, Ohio.

● The call of youth to youth for mutual support and understanding has at last been answered to the satisfaction of everyone.

Larry Dennis.

Chicago, Illinois.

● I consider this young people's conference to be the most progressive step in the consideration of its youth that the church has ever taken.

Jack Burlington.

Kansas City, Missouri.

● I believe this conference is giving an educational advantage to youth of this church that will enable them to become more valuable in the work of their home branches.

Roy C. Ebeling.

Colorado Springs, Colorado.

● The youth of the church are being bound together in closer union by this convention than ever thought possible, and union means power to accomplish the tasks set before us.

Anne Self.

Omaha, Nebraska.

www.LatterDayTruth.org

NEWS BRIEFS

Many Youth Conference Visitors to Independence

Twelve hundred attended the closing services of the Youth Conference at Lamoni, Iowa, the last Sunday, June 25. A record crowd and a record day. The services were highly successful. All in all, this was a fitting close to the convention. Everyone profited greatly.

Then the conference visitors came to Independence, dozens and dozens of them. Young men and women from Maine, Montana, Texas, Colorado, Ohio, California, and other distant points came for a glimpse of the center place. They inspected the Auditorium, the Stone Church radio studio, the Herald Publishing House, the Campus, the Sanitarium and other places. And they received a glad welcome from friends living in Independence.

Seventeen Ordinations Are Reported

During the last week several ordinations have been reported from different points. These come from Milwaukee, Wisconsin; Condon, Oregon; Independence, Missouri; Hammond, Indiana, and Alabama.

Sister V. D. Ruch Undergoes Major Operation in Norway

It has been eleven years since Elder V. D. Ruch was first appointed to his mission in Scandinavia. In May, 1922, Brother and Sister Ruch little knew what the next decade held in store for them. There have been joy and sadness, wonderful association with new friends and desolation, hope and despair.

The Ruches were home during that time a little over eighteen months, and then they were sent back for another five years. This spring, a few weeks after Brother Ruch wrote to headquarters, and consented to remain in Norway after that period has expired, it was necessary for Sister Ruch to enter a hospital, far away from old friends and family except her missionary husband and young daughter, and undergo a major operation.

It is good to have friends wherever we happen to go, and on the eve of her removal to the hospital, Saints in three different towns assembled in special prayer services, to offer their petitions to the Lord for a blessing in her behalf.

Sister Ruch has been absent from church meetings for nearly two months, and during that time the Saints and friends she has made in Norway have missed the sympathetic friendliness so characteristic of her.

Haileyville Saints Appreciate Help From Visiting Ministers

Haileyville members appreciate the help they have received in recent weeks from Apostle Roy S. Budd, who spoke there one evening; Presiding Patriarch Frederick A. Smith, who held a ten-day series of meetings; Elder S. W. Simmons, veteran missionary worker, from Keltner, Missouri, and Brother Joe Bussell, of California.

President F. M. Smith to Northwest at Death of Bishop D. S. McDole

A short time after word was received of the passing of Bishop D. S. McDole, of Seattle, Washington, June 20, President F. M. Smith left Independence for the Northwest. He will be in that region several days on matters of church business.

Brother McDole was ordained to the office of bishop about a year ago. He was a faithful helper in the church, and his death comes as a severe shock and distinct loss to the Saints. For many years he served as pastor of Seattle Branch, and was known throughout the Northwest for his devoted work and his business ability. He leaves his widow and two sons, Loren and Marvin.

Bishop E. L. Traver Recovering

Bishop E. L. Traver, who is president of Southern New England District, is recuperating at his home in Arlington, Massachusetts, from a bad fracture of the leg and other injuries which he suffered June 2. He spent a number of days in the hospital, but is now at home for the summer. It is likely that he will be confined to his bed for a period of weeks.

For First Time Hammond Is Host to District Conference

Being the most distantly located of all the branches of Southern Michigan and Northern Indiana District, Hammond Branch was the host of the district conference for the first time in its history June 9 to 11, this year.

An excellent conference was enjoyed. Apostle D. T. Williams was there and with the district president, Elder A. C. Barmore, presided. Business was harmoniously transacted. Several names were approved for ordination, and the district election of officers was held.

www.LatterDayTruth.org

A CHALLENGE TO YOUTH

(From the Conference Special Edition of the "Graceland Tower")

Extracts from the opening address of President Frederick M. Smith at the Youth Conference, Lamoni, Iowa, June 18.

PRESIDENT FREDERICK M. SMITH, delivered the opening address to the Youth Conference at Lamoni Sunday, June 18 before an audience that occupied practically all available seating space in Zimmermann Hall. A clear call to the young people of the church for a higher type of Christian standards and Christian living sounded definitely through the address. President Smith, as always, presented a stirring appeal for the ideal Zion, which is the goal of the church. Excerpts from his speech follow:

"I think as a church we have reached almost the maximum of achievement for the individual. . . . Only as we shall learn greater and deeper cooperation shall we be able to make further progress in the direction of the realization of our ideals. . . . Far too long have we had our efforts frustrated by the disinclination of certain groups to work with other groups in the achievement of our purpose; and the time is here when we must lay aside our selfish interests and learn that after all we are best served when we are serving the group. In other words, we must create a larger group consciousness, and from this group consciousness there must spring a larger and richer and more concerted group activity."

LIVE A CLEAN LIFE

Speaking of personal standards among young people, he said: "We must realize the value and importance of taboos. There are times when a person must say to himself, 'These are the things of which I shall deprive myself.' This is a part of the larger ideal of clean living. I would that every youth in my presence this morning might be everlastingly impressed with the idea that he owes it to the church of which he is a part to live a clean life for the sake of the church and for the greater good that he can do in it as a member and as an officer and as one upon whom duty has rested."

WEALTH FOR SERVICE IN CHURCH

President Smith turned his attention to the lure which the pursuit of wealth holds for many young people: "After all, wealth is an incidental thing and shouldn't be sought except for the good that can be done with it. I hope that the spirit and genius of this conference will impress upon you the idea that your efforts to seek wealth and money should be only because there is behind those efforts the deeper and richer purpose of serving God and His church. Unless this spirit is developed our future is hopeless. . . . And what is wealth compared with fraternity and religion? Who has not had his eyes opened by his experiences, and by the experiences of others, even though they may have carried him through another garden of Gethsemane? . . . Now I would not by any means say that we should despise wealth or property, I would have us seek wealth and accumulate property, but this should be done for the purpose of extending the work of the church and I hope this will be impressed upon you as one of the greatest needs of the present day."

The speaker declared his convictions upon the subject of recreations and amusements, deploring those which have a harmful effect upon body, mind, and spiritual development, and pleading for wisdom and discrimination among the young people in their choice of leisure occupations. He spoke against the spreading use of tobacco, alcohol and other habits of a destructive character. Youth must discount the pernicious advertising continually promoted by interested concerns over the radio, in the movies, and through the newspapers.

NEED OF YOUTH—FRATERNITY

"What the youth need is a larger tie that binds, and that tie is fraternity—fraternity based upon religion, a consciousness of God as well as a consciousness of Christ. . . . If our youth can consciously and with religious motivation and consecration that will bind them together, stand unitedly against those forces which threaten to degrade or destroy them, there will come to every individual young person of the church the strength he will need to resist the depredations of evil. And then, united in strength, consecrated to the work and welfare of the church, they may—by a sincere and humble approach to the throne of grace—erect in their own hearts a source of power, and eventually build a place of safety for themselves to which others in need may freely gather. . . . This is what I expect of the youth of the church, and this is what I expect to be the spirit and genius of this conference."

www.LatterDayTruth.org

The Higher Quest

By Geoffrey Gillard

"If ye then be risen with Christ, seek those things which are above, where Christ sitteth on the right hand of God."

NEARLY NINETEEN HUNDRED YEARS have run their course since Paul, "an Apostle of the Lord Jesus Christ," penned those stimulating words—an inspiring message arising out of his deep personal consciousness of the power of that "risen life in Christ" which even then filled his soul with triumphant joy. About him rose the grim walls of a Roman prison—an unfriendly gloom, and the dull heaviness of solitude; but within him surged the exultant freedom of one whose heritage of things unseen and enduring had given him already a victory over a hostile world. Paul's faith told him that, even within the dungeon that encompassed him, he was a risen man. Already he was experiencing the power of that life which is the guerdon of all who obey the law of the resurrected Christ.

For the "risen life" is not merely a sublime consummation to be looked for in some far-off, future day when the graves shall be opened; it is an experience which fills the present. There is a triumph over the bondage of darkness, death, and sin for which we need not wait. All whom the Son has made free are free indeed; risen with Him through the power of His Spirit, they are heirs to that unfettered life which, even amid bonds and chains and persecution makes the victory theirs.

So, Paul the apostle inscribed his exhortation to the Saints at Colosse, men and women who, like himself, had profited by the power of the resurrected Lord, and had entered upon the "risen life." He wished to fill the minds of those good folk with a sense of the demands that life makes upon those it animates.

FOR the "risen life," like all other forms of vitality, is governed by a law. It must receive sustenance, else it will cease to exist; it must be tended, nourished, exercised that it may expand with added vigor. That is the law of the "risen life"—those who have received it, those who are "risen with Christ," must continue rising.

Therefore, said Paul, "seek those things which are above, where Christ sitteth on the right hand of God." I have sometimes wondered how many of us are clear in our perception of what "those things which are above" actually imply. Do we ever ask ourselves where it is that "Christ sitteth upon the right hand of God"? Perhaps, if we ponder over Paul's expression at all, we visualize a far-off, mysterious realm, intangible and inaccessible. But thereby we nullify all the practical meaning of the apostle's injunction, and rob the "risen life" of its power over the present moment. Truly has it been said: "God is not secluded away in some shut-off heaven; he is dwelling and working in the very world where we live."

HENCE we must conceive of the "things which are above" as the things that pertain to the nature of God, the things that belong to His kingdom, the ennobling qualities that adorn the Christlike life.

"Whatsoever things are true, whatsoever things are honest, whatsoever things are just, whatsoever things are pure, whatsoever things are lovely, whatsoever things are of good report . . ." Here are the "things above" that partakers in the "risen life" are to seek. This is the higher quest—the upward life! It means a renunciation of all which drags us downward to the earthly, the sensual, and the beastlike, and a seeking after that which brings us nearer to the perfect likeness of our Lord. The law of the upward life is, ever to choose the higher path. A poet has written thus:

"To every man there openeth
A way, and ways, and a way,
And the high soul climbs the high way,
And the low soul gropes the low;
And in between on the misty flats,
The rest drift to and fro.
But to every man there openeth
A high way and a low,
And every man decideth
The way his soul shall go."

In every phase of human activity we find this higher and lower aspect; the one appealing to the spiritual side of man, the other ministering to his carnal nature. If our outlook be material, then we interpret life and its manifold activities in material terms; we seek for satisfaction of the physical appetites and senses, and life and art and nature all become ministers to our carnal demands. But when the spiritual rules in our lives, we learn to interpret life as a storehouse of riches that can be made to yield new strength and vigor to the higher aspect of our being.

Wherever we turn, the two paths stretch before us, one losing itself in the murky depths of materialism, the other rising steeply to the radiant heights of spirituality. And upward, following the latter, lies the higher quest!

www.LatterDayTruth.org

In the wide range of social intercourse with our fellow beings, the two roads are plainly marked. Love and friendship follow the one or the other, either downwards, surrounded by pride, selfishness, and baseness, to final degradation, or upwards, led by ideals of purity, nobility, and self-sacrifice, toward the divine. What a vast world of difference lies between the pure ray of love and the devastating flame of passion! The enduring, high-souled devotion of a Mercia for a Marcus may lead to a haven of unsullied peace; the selfish passion of an Abelard for an Eloise destroys them both. Similarly there is friendship which helps and ennobles, and there is friendship which degrades and ruins. David and Jonathan are the arch types of a lofty, unselfish attachment which has found expression in numberless other instances, but how many friendships have there been which have spelled disaster and ruin through their having lacked those ennobling qualities which lead men higher through mutual association!

We turn to the realms of art, literature, and music. Here also two pathways beckon us to follow. The galleries of the world abound with masterpieces of the painters' and the sculptors' craft. On canvas, in chiselled stone, and the more enduring bronze, noble conceptions have been lavished. Visions of beauty have been caught and there set down; great and inspiring moments of man's history and powers have been immortalized there; the splendors of nature, the lofty idealism of the human soul, the pageantry of civilization, have found master craftsmen to render them in terms of beauty, satisfying to the aesthetic sense, and enlarging the soul as their unspoken message has permeated its depths. But unhappily there abound also other works of art where the same supreme technique, the same consummacy of artistic genius have been employed to depict the vile and degraded, the meretricious and unlovely. Yes, side by side with works whose noble aspiration bespeaks the divine, are the lewd and debasing products of an inspiration that must surely well from an unhallowed source.

The realm of music shows a similar contrast. There are noble compositions that flood the soul with heavenly beauty, raising the mind with thoughts of the Godlike ideal which has inspired them, and filling the heart with swelling, lofty purpose. Such music has an undoubted power of spiritual inspiration; it radiates divinity, and its glorious strains pour like a cleansing flood about those whose hearts are tuned to catch the message that the auditory sense conveys to them. One who can sit unmoved, and unedified under the celestial strains of the immortal "Ninth Symphony" of Beethoven, the grandeur of the "Messiah" of Handel, or the inspired passages of the Gresty oratorio, is signally lacking in the perceptions which must accompany the higher quest; for these are truly "things which are above."

How sad it is to contemplate the other side—the mean, worthless music, full of superficial allure that disseminates sensual appeal and vulgar folly. The tawdry strains of jazz, cheaply redolent of the saloon and the dance hall; the voluptuous airs which even eminent composers have designed of set purpose, to create an atmosphere of abandoned license; these can in no wise contribute to the development of the upward life. If they lead their devotees anywhere, it will be away from the heights, on a downward path of folly set to their cheaply strumming accompaniment.

In the literary world the lesson is written large for all to read. There are books, there are poems, there are plays, that have a definitely moral and uplifting purpose. They enlarge the mind, and at the same time enlarge the soul. Their message strikes a note of love, or hope, or aspiration. The power of the writer's pen for good or for evil is widely acknowledged. Literature has ever been one of the mainsprings of human progress; and the world of books today is a vast storehouse wherein the heart and mind and soul of man may discover worth-while things to feast upon. There is literature existing as prose or verse, or drama that speaks of heroism and of virtue. It seeks to be and is ennobling in its effects upon the reader. Here we may well quest for "things above," that will minister to the risen life we are seeking to develop. But there are, alas, as all know full well, legions of books and poems, hosts of plays, that are redolent of things base and bestial. There are books that never should have been written, and there are books that never should be read. They soil the mind by the merest contact with them. Such are works that mock at life and at God; that glorify indecency and unfaithfulness, or make bitter ridicule of the higher aims of life, striving to render virtue and goodness impotent, and to raise up standards of worldliness and immorality. The essential danger of such works lies in the fact that frequently all the resources of consummate literary technique have been lavished upon them, in order to render them more attractive and more convincing in their base designs. If books of this type were invariably poor productions, devoid of literary skill, and lacking in charm or artistry of language, few, if any, intelligent persons would wish to read (Continued on page 849)

www.LatterDayTruth.org

A BOOK REVIEW

By S. A. Burgess, Church Historian

Joseph Smith: An American Prophet
By John Henry Evans
Macmillan Company, 1933, $4.00

THE WRITER resides in Salt Lake City and presents his subject entirely from the point of view of the dominant church of Utah. About two decades ago he published One Hundred Years of Mormonism and he was there described as Professor of Church History in the Latter Day Saint University in Salt Lake City. That book was approved by a committee of the Twelve Apostles of the Utah church and recommended to their First Presidency to be used for study by classes of young people in Utah.

This recent book purports to present Joseph Smith, jr., in a friendly light, and has been so received generally. It is an attempt to give a scientific treatment of Joseph Smith—facts, rather than opinions—as stated in the preface. But the figure presented is not Joseph Smith as his family knew and remembered him, nor as shown by his known speeches and writings.

Though the treatment claims to be scientific, no references are given for various assertions to sources available to the student. A few direct references are made to unpublished manuscripts and at the end a list of some of the materials in the Historical Library at Salt Lake City is given.

The book is not a biography, though the first part gives a life sketch—neither exhaustive nor detailed. This sketch contains much that is questionable and some obvious errors. For example, the statement that the Nephites joined the people of Zarahemla 150 years after Lehi landed. The Book of Mormon clearly indicates a much longer period. Such an evident error may not seem important, nor the statement that the Messenger and Advocate was published in Independence; they do not affect the character or philosophy of Joseph Smith.

But Mr. Evans also states that Joseph Smith was married to twenty-seven other women besides Emma Smith. For this assertion he gives no data of any kind, not even the name of one woman. Later he does give five pictures with names and in the text mentions one name, but fails to present date, data or reference.

The second section deals with religious philosophy. But the whole discussion is based not primarily upon the teachings of Joseph Smith, but rather upon the changed version of Mormon religion taught by Brigham Young and his associates and successors in Utah. Polygamy is sounded as a basic note all the way through the discussion. This involves celestial marriage—an ideal of the hereafter in which the physical marital relation continues. God is just man or was man. Man becomes a god when he gets enough wives and children in the celestial realm to people a world. Marriage is essential to glory and to a righteous resurrection.

With this there follows the theory peculiar to Utah, but not taught by Joseph Smith that every male holds the priesthood; every boy who is reasonably fit is ordained. (In fact there has developed a regular progression; a boy is a deacon at twelve years, a teacher at fifteen, a priest at eighteen, an elder at twenty-one—a peculiar male prerogative.) Women hold no priesthood, but get the priestly benefits by marrying a member of the priesthood.

Mr. Evans does not mention blood atonement, but he implies the doctrine of Adam God. In fact it is the philosophy of the Utah church, not the teachings of Joseph Smith which he offers.

This is made more objectionable because genuine statements of Joseph Smith are mixed with these more recent theories. He made no provision that boys should be ordained in a mechanical way on reaching a certain age, nor that all men should be so ordained. That is peculiar to Utah and contrary to the high and sacred value Joseph Smith attached to priesthood.

Joseph Smith did point out the divine possibilities of man, as does the King James version of the Bible (2 Corinthians 6: 18; 1 John 3: 1. seq.), but that did not involve a crude anthropomorphism. Any form of marital looseness or infidelity, whether called adultery or polygamy, his known writings and teachings have universally condemned. (Doctrine and Covenants 42: 27.)

The author's discussion is brief and thoroughly Brighamite. By certain established facts the Utah Mormons have been forced to retreat from the first date offered by them for polygamy in the early church (July, 1843) to the position that it was really started in thought and purpose as early as 1831. This date Mr. Evans adopts. On one page he quotes a part of the Book of Mormon (Jacob 2) and explains that it was not polygamy, but the manner of their polygamy that the Lord condemned in David and Solomon. That passage was written in the Book of Mormon in 1829, yet Mr. Evans on the next page alleges that Joseph Smith in 1931 asked the Lord how He justified Abraham, Isaac, and Jacob, Moses, and Solomon, in having many wives, etc.

How could Joseph Smith ask the Lord how He justified David and Solomon when two short years before Joseph Smith had said the Lord had told him that was an abomination? We think that passage in the Book of Mormon means that all polygamy everywhere and at any and every time is abominable to God. But even if it means just certain types of polygamy the Book of Mormon clearly specifies that David and Solomon were abominable in their practice—there is no possible justification there. The rest of the purported query is manifestly absurd. Isaac was no polygamist on any view of the scriptural record. We distinctly challenge the statement that the Bible shows that Abraham's adultery with Hagar (at the instance of Sarah) was ever approved of God. Nor was the deception and adultery of Jacob with Leah and the handmaidens justified by God. Nor does a fair consideration of the biblical record show that Moses ever at any time had more than one wife.

While it is absurd to think that Joseph Smith would ask such a question in 1831, with the Book of Mormon just translated and the Bible, particularly the manuscript of the Inspired Version, before him, it is easy to see how in 1852 men already in adultery and seeking to excuse themselves could insert such a query. And it is not at all hard to see why they should seek to base it on Joseph Smith's authority, in order to get the acquiescence of the people.

Mr. Evans would have us believe that Brigham Young followed the teachings of Joseph Smith very carefully and did nothing except in accordance with them. That he presented polygamy and other things and tried to put them on Joseph Smith, we will concede. That he tried to claim Joseph Smith's sanction for his innovations of evil, we may admit. But at times even Brigham Young was frank enough to say:

"If I have any knowledge touching the condition of this people at the present time, and the way they are taught, led, and counseled, and dictated by those who go before them to open the way, it is directly the opposite of that we saw in the days of Joseph the prophet."

This statement is not reported by an enemy, but is published by the Utah Church in Journal of Discourses, volume 1, page 78. At other times Brigham Young clearly said Joseph did not tell them all things, so they had to expect to hear things they never thought of before. He

(Continued on page 848.)

www.LatterDayTruth.org

Our Common Enemy---War

By Esmond Crown

Have you ever tried to calculate the cost of war? In money? In blood? In suffering? In hate? In civilization retarded? In progress halted? In brutality and lust? In danger to the church?

This article presents the views of one of our young people upon the question of war. We should be glad to receive other expressions upon the subject.

THE AIM OF OUR CHURCH is to establish a Zionic condition wherein a world society would be the ultimate goal—a society which is the interaction of each social group with respect to other groups in such a way as to promote integrating forces in organizing all mankind into a single democratic brotherhood. This cannot stop with the family, the branch, or even with the church—not even with the national governments. It must not stop until international understanding has been attained and international peace reigns.

Certainly the amelioration of the horrors of war is not enough. War is the expression of the selfishness and injustice which our organized legal systems and our national sovereignties perpetuate. It is up to the masses of people to eliminate the basic causes. The churches should take a prominent place in the action against war. We must organize against the illegal injustices which underlie the reality of war—that of national sovereignty and national armaments. We must enlist our hearts, consciousness, and intelligence in a never-ending and never-relaxing vigil against these injustices. It is only by organized good will on a world-wide scale that we can bring peace, love, and integration, which are God's forces, to the world. The world should have no place for any other forces than these forces which go to make up the conditions which are so ideal to us at the present time.

THE PEOPLE of this earth have to learn an old and yet ever new lesson, that of cooperation and peace. The crisis has been reached in our social evolution when the art of war has to be unlearned if our civilization is to be saved and perpetuated.

War leads only to disintegration of moral, economic, social and national standards. It leads to untold suffering, and wanton lust. War is only continued for the selfish ends of a group which gain materially, and by selfish and ruthless nationalists.

War is a breach of all laws of social welfare and just as the violation of the laws of health in the individual leads to sorrow, disease and pain, so also does the breaking of the social laws in the form of war lead to social disruption and decadence.

In Section 95: 3 of the Doctrine and Covenants these words are given. "Therefore renounce war and proclaim peace and seek diligently to turn the hearts of their children to their father and the hearts of the fathers to the children." Thus we are commanded by Almighty God to renounce war, teach faith, love, confidence, trust, dependence, etc.

Our own books establish a precedent for extreme pacifism. In the Book of Mormon we find that the people of Midoni who became reconciled to the teachings of Amon, Aaron, Omner, and Himni concerning the God of the Nephites, laid down their arms and buried them deep in the ground. In the meantime the Lamanites, those people who were known as the Amalekites and Amulonites, prepared for war upon the Anti-Nephi-Lehies. As they came to war on these repentant people of the Anti-Nephi-Lehies, the latter came out and prostrated themselves before the Lamanites, neither attempting to resist or run away, calling on the Lord in prayer. The Lamanites fell on this band and slew over a thousand before they became sickened and repentant for killing their brothers. They also threw down their arms and sought forgiveness for their wrongdoings. One thousand people were slain who were glad to die for their beliefs, yet not without result because many more were saved as a result of their nonresistance. This full account may be found in the fourteenth chapter of Alma in the Book of Mormon.

Our church professes to renounce war but we find that in each succeeding war some ministers of the church have rallied to the red flag of war and used its pulpits for promulgating the doctrine of war. This must cease if we are to establish a Zionic condition on earth. We must become pacifists if we are to establish a world society in which a Zionic condition will prevail. International understanding and peace shall reign if we consciously follow our beliefs. To establish this society wherein God is the ruling force, where laws are the laws of God, where mankind is fused into a single democratic brotherhood, is the task of the church. Let us keep our minds firmly upon it and work towards this end.

It isn't the place in which you worship but how you worship God wherever you are. It isn't how long, or how loudly, or how often you pray but how you pray when you pray. It isn't how much you give, but how you give it.—John F. Sheehy in a sermon preached at the Stone Church, Independence, Missouri.

www.LatterDayTruth.org

CENTRAL AMERICAN WRITING

By M. H. Morgan

THE Book of Mormon is an abridgment of various writings or books, and because Mormon compiled this abridgment, it is called after him—the Book of Mormon. It is taken, principally, from the two series of the plates of Nephi; the larger, having to do with the civil history of this people for a thousand years of national life, commencing 600 B. C. (page 15) and ending 400 A. D. (page 705), and the small plates, being a ministeral record, included entire and not abridged. There are also the writings of Mormon himself and Moroni his son, together with an abridged record of the Jaredites, or first colony, found in the Book of Ether, at the close of Mormon's history of the Nephites.

As the Nephites had taken with them from Jerusalem, the Brass Plates containing the five books of Moses, together with the complete record down to the reign of Zedekiah, 600 B. C. (page 15) we find entire chapters of Isaiah copied from the brass plates or Old Testament scriptures. Isaiah commenced to prophesy 760 B. C., and finished 698 B. C. The Bible at that time was not arranged in the same order it is now; so the books did not follow, then, in the same sequence.

That the record or Law did disappear from Jerusalem at this time (600 B. C., when the Nephites left Jerusalem) we find Eusebius, the historian, asserting in his Ecclesiastical History, page 177, that: "It [the law] was supposed to have been destroyed with the temple by Nebuchadnezzar," who took the city of Jerusalem 600 B. C.; and he also says that Esdras, a priest of the Tribe of Levi, through inspiration, folklore, etc., "composed anew all the discourses of the ancient prophets and restored to the people the laws given by Moses." This work of Esdras is what we have today in the first few books of the Old Testament scriptures down to 600 B. C., as the brass plates, containing the original copy, are still buried, with masses of other historical plates, in the Hill Cumorah.

A prominent biblical scholar, Professor A. S. Yahuda, takes exception, however, to the "popular assumption that the stories of Genesis were written during the exile in Babylon about the sixth century B. C. 'If that were so' he declared, 'the language would have shown unmistakable evidence of Assyrian influence.'" But the parallel between the works of Moses and Esdras (both of which were executed during Jewish captivity) is not the same. Moses was raised in Egypt, taught its language and traditions; his people had been captives in Egypt a few hundred years, so naturally the Egyptian would dominate, while Esdras, the Levite, had evidently received his training and ordination in Jerusalem under Hebraic influence altogether, and his writing would hardly be affected by the Assyrian influence, which at this time, did not last over fifty years.

But there are many prophets spoken of in the Bible whose works do not appear there. The Book of Jasher, one of the "lost" books of the Bible, spoken of in Joshua 10, was found in a library in Spain and translated into English by M. M. Noah in 1840, and throws much light on early Bible history. The Book of Mormon also refers to some, and quotes them, Zenos, Zenock, and others, and the statement is made on page 35: 163 that the Brass Plates contained more of these prophecies or writings than would be found in the Bible, or book, in the hands of the gentiles.

Ancient American Monolith, with glyphs, at Monte Alban

SCRIBES

Throughout Bible history we find mention of scribes, who at first only performed the clerical work of king or priest, keeping the civil or ministerial records. The mass of the people were illiterate, and had to depend on the more learned scribes or priests for even a reading of the Law. At a later period they assumed an authority not originally intended, in the affairs of the church, but at this time were known as "ready writers, secretaries, clerks, writers, and recorders," merely. Jeremiah, the prophet, reference to whose writings are also to be found in the Book of Mormon, employed Baruch in his cave outside the walls of Jerusalem to record his prophecies. But when David set the spiritual house in order just previous to his death, he arranged in their courses every department of religious worship; and it is thought by some that the scribes, of the tribe of Levi (Esdras the scribe was of that tribe) were set apart for that particular work. "The art of writing among Hebrews was limited to persons of learning and position, and to the class of scribes," says the Bible Dictionary.

Now, all through Book of Mormon history we find the plates in the hands of only one certain line, or pure strain. Mormon, almost at the close of the history, says on page 616, "I am Mormon, and a pure descendant of Lehi," and Lehi was of the House of Joseph. Nephi, at the beginning of the history, declares, on page 15: "My father Lehi also found upon the plates of brass (part of the Old Testament) a genealogy of his fathers; wherefore he knew he was a descendant of Joseph," and Laban, a relative and the former custodian of the plates in Jerusalem, from whom Lehi secured them, "also was a descendant of Joseph; wherefore he and his brethren had kept the records," (page 15) making it plain that they of that line were the rightful custodians of the records, and belonged to this order of scribes. All through the Book of Mormon we find the keepers of the records tracing their lineage back to Lehi, sometimes through his son Nephi.

METALS USED IN THE PLATES

The plates of brass are spoken of on page 3; of ore on page 63, and of gold on page 714. The plates which composed the Book of Mormon were of metal and hidden "in the earth" (page 705), not the Hill Cumorah. Mormon hid the vast accumulation of plates in his hands in the Hill Cumorah, 284 A. D. (page 701), and gave his son Moroni the abridgment he had made (our Book of Mormon). Mormon was killed in the final battle at the foot of Cumorah, and his son Moroni started on his long pilgrimage occupying some twenty-one years, away from Cumorah. "Whither I go it mattereth not," he says on page 705. "I am alone; my father hath been slain in battle, and all my kinfolks; I have no friends," and he had no more ore to write on. It is thirty-seven years since his father buried the bulk of the plates in Cumorah, with sixteen years of terrific Nephite slaughter.

www.LatterDayTruth.org

The Practice of Burying Important Documents or Records in the Earth

That it was customary to write on metal plates or sheets, and hide them in the earth for safe keeping, we learn from the following citations, taken from Parson's Text Book, and other histories.

Watson's Bible Dictionary, page 171, says: "The materials generally used by the ancients for their books were liable to be easily destroyed by the damp, when hidden in the earth, and in times of war, devastation and rapacity, it was necessary to bury in the earth whatever they wished to preserve from the attacks of fraud and violence."

You may remember that on page 195 it is recorded that the Lamanites had sworn to destroy not only the Nephite people, but their records, and also the traditions of their fathers.

In Pictorial Illustrations of the Bible, by Robert Sears, we find: "Tablets, and sometimes several tablets, formed into a book, (like the wooden tablets) consisting of plates of lead, copper, brass, and other metals, were anciently used either to form leaves in which the wax might be spread, or else for the writings to be engraved upon them. The latter process is exceedingly ancient." Jaredite history, the most ancient, found in the Book of Ether, was engraved on gold plates. (page 232.)

Century Dictionary: "Brass, an important alloy, consisting of copper and zinc. It is malleable and ductile so that it can be easily rolled into thin sheets, or hammered into any desired shape. This alloy was known to the ancients, and was made by them before they had any knowledge of the metal zinc as such." Since this process of alloy was known before these people came to the Americas, it is not astonishing that it should be used by them. Tubal-cain, spoken of in Genesis 4: 22, was an artificer in brass and iron.

American Encyclopedia Art Book: "Among the Greeks and Romans, books of wood were common. For the most important purposes they also employed ivory as well as bronze and other metals."

Doctor Buchanan speaks of the "royal grant" being "engraved according to the custom of those days, on plates of brass."

The Language in Which the Writing Was Done

Nephi says, on page 2: "I make a record in the language of my father, which consists of the learning of the Jews and the language of the Egyptians." This statement as to the language being Egyptian is reiterated in a good many places. Mormon says, on page 713, the book (of Mormon) was written "according to our knowledge in the characters which are called among us the Reformed Egyptian, being handed down and altered by us according to our manner of speech." The Book of Mormon states in another place that their speech varied from time to time, changes and localisms creeping in undoubtedly, as it does in our languages today. King Benjamin, in talking to his sons, made the statement on page 207 that "our father Lehi was taught in the language of the Egyptians; wherefore, he could read these engravings." (Meaning the plates of brass containing the Law.) So the Brass Plates were evidently written in Egyptian.

E. L. Clark, on page 182 of his Fundamental Questions, asserts that "The Hebrew language as a cultivated and written language, did not exist in the days of Abraham, Isaac, and Jacob . . . the vernacular of the Hebrews, especially during their centuries of bondage must have been the language of the Egyptians. . . . When Moses led the Hebrews out of Egypt, the language in familiar use among them, and in which they received the law (Brass Plates again) was not Hebrew, but Egyptian. . . . Moses was an Egyptian scholar and man of letters, learned in all the wisdom of the Egyptians, and in Egyptian, beyond a doubt, his speaking and all his writing was done." No wonder King Benjamin told his sons that because Lehi was versed in the language of the Egyptians he could read the brass plates, or books of Moses, etc.

WHATEVER it may have been, a universal language was originally spoken at Babel, and in this language evidently were written the plates spoken of on page 733—being a record brought by the Jaredites from the mother country, Babel, and written previous to the dispersion; but when the Jaredites, with others, suffered a confounding of the mother tongue, they engraved their subsequent history on twenty-four gold plates in the particular language apportioned to them (page 232.)

The Babylonian writing was cuneiform—wedge-shaped impressions made in clay and (later) stone by the use of a triangular stylus or carver. It was to be read from left to right. This cuneiform writing was in use among the Egyptians also and was the universal system until as late as the first century of the Christian era. The Phoenicians invented the first alphabet, and the Bible Dictionary says the Hebrew alphabet was a development of the Phoenician, but that it underwent many changes in the course of time.

As it was extremely difficult to engrave on metal (page 175) naturally only important documents were preserved in this way, but the Book of Mormon speaks of epistles, proclamations, sermons, letters and all kinds of writing passing from one group to another. (See pages 503, 504, 515, 387, 388, 92, 174, 277, 549, 210, etc.) Then, too, different factions kept their own copies of the Law, and these copies must have been on perishable material, for we find on page 353 that a certain group, in anger, "brought forth their records which contained (their copies of) the Holy Scriptures, and cast them into the fire, that they might be burned." Colonies, breaking away from the parent colony, carried with them copies of the Law, together with any of their own history they desired to keep. "Many kept particular and large records." (Page 549.) In this way certain features of the Law and accounts of their own doings have been spread throughout the Americas.

Now, in Egypt, a water plant called Papyrus was converted into a writing base for common purposes, the writer using a reed known as "kash" together with a red and a black ink, whose formula has now been lost. In the same way the Central Americans used the agava plant, converting it into a thick, coarse paper by means of masceration and pressure; they also used the inner bark of certain trees. Here again the same red and black ink was employed. Vast numbers of these codices or fiber books were discovered by the Spaniards in the fifteenth century, but unfortunately destroyed by their stupid and fanatical priests. The Book of Mormon declares they had "many records" which evidently were kept, many of them at least, on perishable material. Some of these codices were rolled on sticks, while others were folded into books, with thin, wooden backs. Brinton states that this people also wrote on slates of some soft stone.

Although the Chinese are credited with being the first real printers, Brinton, in his Myths of the World, pages 10 and 11, asserts that "there is reason to believe, in some instances, their (Central American) figures were not painted only, but actually printed with movable blocks of wood on which the symbols were carved in relief."

Arrangements of the Glyphs or Writing

On page 748 Ether declares "certain of us could write but little because of the awkwardness of our hands." No doubt many of the scribes whose duty it was to laboriously prepare these engravings, were unskilled in the use of the necessary tools, and their hands would

(Continued on page 849.)

www.LatterDayTruth.org

MARBLES FOR KEEPS?

An Inquiry Into the Morale of Sports for Young People

By a Mother of Four

"MOTHER, shall I play marbles for keeps?"

Clouded with anxious seriousness the deep blue eyes scanned the mother's face.

"Why, son, I don't believe I would. You and Robert have a fine time playing together just for the fun of it, and I don't believe you need to play for keeps. Somebody might get to feeling badly about it."

The answer seemed to satisfy the eager eight-year-old, and he carried the edict out to his good-natured companion.

That afternoon as the mother sat with her father—dear, sensible man with nearly eighty years of life and experience behind him—she paused in her reading to ask, "Father, should David play marbles for keeps?"

With a queer little quirk of smiling lips, he said, "Why not, daughter? I did—and always had my pockets full of them!"

The subject was dropped, but the daughter gravely pondered. She had been deeply prejudiced against all games that even squinted towards gambling, and had heard and read so much of young boys being led to ruin through a love for fascinating games of chance, for "raffling," for betting, gambling, or getting something for nothing, that she had set her face against all of them, rather inexorably.

But now, if her father—deeply religious and spiritual-minded man that he was—if he could see no harm in the lad playing marbles for keeps, well then, there must be another side to the question! Suddenly she asked herself, Just what is it you are afraid of, anyway? Sure enough, What was it?

She decided to say nothing to the boy for a while, so long as he was contented in playing "for fun," and she felt she must first orient herself to the new ideas that her father's words had put into her head—or the old ones they were tending to get out—she hardly knew which.

A FEW YEARS, and many changes. The loved parent laid away to await the call to new life. The mother and son removed to a distant city. New home, new surroundings, new companions.

Young David, now twelve, found a fine pal in a neighbor lad across the street, slightly older. And then one day:

"Mother, shall I play marbles for keeps?"

The same question, the same troubled gaze of earnest blue eyes, the same trusting appeal to a mother's wisdom and guidance. But this time the cloud was distinctly darker, the anxiety more evident.

"Why, son, I don't believe I would if I were you. Cannot you and Peter have a fine time playing together just for the fun of seeing which one can win?"

Same old answer; but this time the boy, older grown and wiser in the ways of his world, exclaimed, a note of dismal finality smothering the cheerful tones of his usual acquiescence: "Well, then! There's not a boy in all Oland who will play with me!"

A-ha, something must be done about it now, that was clear. The mother wondered if her own viewpoints on the subject had crystallized enough to enable her to wisely guide this child, dear as life itself to her. She must not go wrong, too much was at stake! Partly because he was in a hurry, just starting to school, and partly because she needed time herself, she said, "Well, lad, let us talk it all over tonight—shall we?"

DURING THE DAY she thought constantly and prayed earnestly. She recognized that many of her own inhibitions must exist because of the influence of those who had molded her childish conscience, formed her opinions for her—the teachers in Sunday school, the preachers from the pulpit, the counsel of her dear parents, the conversations heard in the home, the ideals and standards encountered in her study and reading. Just how exactly these things had combined to give her a correct view of the right, a clear conception of truth, a proper comprehension of God's will and purposes, she could not say; she felt that God alone could know, and it was suddenly borne in upon her that it were sheer arrogance to believe they had been exactly such as would make her opinions, her ideas, her views infallible. The thought brought a sense of great humility and yearning.

She had learned that mental or moral repression stultifies the opening mind and soul of a child just as surely as material restrictions and bands would injure the growth of his body. She also felt it quite true that too much laxity, too low standards, too great indulgence would surely develop undesirable character—a nature in which impulse would tend toward license and freedom which young people are not always able to recognize or curb, not always able to guide, control, or wisely use.

She perceived that for her to follow a course of prohibition or proscription would serve to separate her son from his companions, breed in him a sense of restlessness against restraint, of being "without the circle," in other words an "inferiority complex"—most damaging to the wholesome development of his natural gifts and powers. On the other hand, a lowering of essential standards, an attitude of indifference, or following the policy of laissez faire would work equal havoc, as it seemed to her. She could not consider without shuddering any course which would set his feet on a downward path, leading to gambler's den or other places of iniquity where God is lost sight of!

There must be a medium course to be steered with safety between these two extremes of prejudiced forbiddance on the one hand and culpable tolerance of worldly ways on the other. She groped blindly about in the somewhat heterogeneous furnishings of her mind, trying to find some gem of truth which would help her in this extremity. She did so want to do and say the right thing, the thing that would be a safe and sure guide to the lad who trusted her.

Again came the question: Just what is it you fear for your boy? And gradually evolved the light! Get deeper than the surface of do's and don'ts! Christ did not deal in a gospel of inhibitions touching the superficial things of life. He said nothing about playing marbles for keeps! He sounded no warnings about games of any kind. His diagnoses of human needs went deeper, down into the very heart and soul of mankind, probing to the sources of desire, motive, action! Keep the fountains clear and the waters will be pure, sweet and wholesome. Build up for your boy a strong wall of defense against wrong—not a wall of don'ts, but of do's. Help him to keep straight with his God, to desire nothing more earnestly than to be true and clean and trustworthy, and he will be able to make discriminations between the gold and the dross, even in a game of marbles.

THAT EVENING, in the quiet hour which is one of the most sacred in human experience—that hour when a child and its mother together seek wisdom from a higher Source—they had their talk over the marble question.

"I have been trying, my son, to think of all the ways in which playing marbles for keeps may injure you. Neither you nor I ever want to indulge in any pleasure or perform any deed or think any thoughts that will tend to lead us away from our Christ-ideals, for He is the only true example for us, our Elder Brother, sent to show us 'the way back home.'

"Life is bright and entrancing; many things allure and beckon. Some are good; some will blight. Compared with eternity, our earth-existence is short at best. It would be poor business for us to destroy our chances for the longer happiness by any indulgence which brings but passing pleasure here.

www.LatterDayTruth.org

"Let us look at this marble game and see what there is about it that might possibly make you less noble, less fine, less spiritual than you really desire to be. In the first place, playing for keeps might develop in you a miserly love of possession, of acquisition, of accumulation. This desire would cause you to forget to be generous, to be friendly, to rejoice in another's good fortune. Not a lovely trait, you will grant.

"Then, your eagerness to win might cause you to become quarrelsome, to dispute, argue, contend. These are disagreeable characteristics which banish friends, besides being unlovely in one who is trying to be Christ-like. He told us to try for the peaceable things of His kingdom.

"Next, you might develop a gambler's instinct. This has led many a boy into bad company, disreputable places, and finally caused his spiritual ruin. A boy who allows himself to be fascinated with the prospect of getting something valuable for little outlay, will sometimes be so determined to woo the fickle 'lady luck' that he will sneak away where gambling devices of many sorts lure him to stake his allowance, his earnings, often that which has been entrusted to him by others, in order to indulge his mania for this evil sport. Many a boy has even stolen in order to have money with which to gamble.

"Then again, sometimes a boy gets so eager to win that he will cheat, even at the marble game. He will fudge, or get closer than he should in shooting, or will make rules to favor himself, will say a marble was hit when it wasn't, or in many mean little dishonest ways try to win, and swell his holdings. Cheating, lying, being dishonest—truly an ugly trio of dangers!

"Again, there is a danger of not being a 'good sport.' Winning becomes such an objective that a boy sometimes gets sulky or angry or very petty-spirited when he loses. He is apt to claim his opponent did not play fair, is apt to call him a cheat or a liar or other bad names—all because he himself had set his heart on winning the most or the nicest marbles!

"And another thing a boy has to consider is that in his eagerness to win a lot of marbles he may keep on playing when he should be doing other things, studying, getting his lessons for the next day, even perhaps when he ought to be in Sunday school! Who can tell just where a boy may be led when he gets too engrossed in any such pastime?"

DURING THIS MONOLOGUE the boy had attentively listened, following his mother's analysis with a nod of approval once in a while, as though some of his own experiences had already proved many of her deductions correct. His face grew longer and longer as she outlined the case against "playing marbles for keeps." Doubtless he was turning over in his mind just what were the possibilities ahead or how he would be able to fill in his time when all the "other guys" were at the game.

"But of course, David, I am sure there is another side to the question. There should be nothing in this game itself that is essentially wrong; it is the wrong that can be made of it or grow out of it that we have been considering. Like a good many things we learn to do or to use in this life, it is the misuse of a game which brings disaster. Many good things are very bad when used in the wrong way. Fire is a blessing when it warms our bodies or cooks our food, but a terrible menace when it gets out of control, and burns up our houses or sweeps its destructive course through a beautiful forest. Water is one of God's best gifts to mankind; no one can live without it. And yet—how many, many lives are lost in it; sometimes whole cities having been swept away with death and desolation left behind—in the wake of a good thing gone wrong!

"So I feel there is nothing intrinsically wrong in any pleasant game of skill. If the rules are well understood and carefully followed, there should little harm result in your playing marbles for keeps—providing you can keep clearly in mind the misuses which make it wrong. If you can keep the fundamental principles of right conduct, right attitudes, right treatment of others, in mind and can play the game at all times to square up with these principles in all points, surely you can be in no danger of offending that gentle Law-giver who expects you to be clean, honest, and happy.

"If you can play fairly and honestly, can keep your temper and hold your tongue, can be truthful and courteous, cheerful and pleasant even in defeat, can curb your interest in the game so it will not get out of bounds and interfere with your studies and other duties, can recognize and throttle any upspringing desire to bet or gamble, can take your victories in generous appreciation of your opponent—why then, surely you can play marbles for keeps, can play any other honest game or indulge in any clean sport or pleasure with perfect immunity to your spiritual health and steady progress Godward!"

The boy's eyes were shining and his fair head nodding in comprehension. He seemed to see the path clearly outlined for him, a plain, manly course to be steered in careful discrimination between those attitudes, desires, words, actions which were in themselves ignoble, reprehensible, or had a tendency in that direction, and those which were clean, decent, manly—those that would allow him to have his happiness and pleasure with his young associates and yet leave him with a conscience clear and satisfying when prayer time comes at evening.

"But listen here, my boy! If you are so unskillful as to lose most or all of your marbles, your father will gladly replenish your supply and keep your sack well-filled. But if there is in your whole collection a single marble that has not been honestly and honorably won, remember this: you have paid far too high a price for it! If you cannot look upon it with a good and easy conscience, knowing you won it fairly, just remember it is too expensive a thing to have in your possession!"

Later, as the mother looked out upon the stars serene above her vigil, each in its undeviating course filling its place in God's plan and purposes, with a yearning sigh she again committed, as how oft she had done since his baby hands first touched her breast, that young life and its untrod future ways to the inscrutable and matchless wisdom of her heavenly Father, trusting that Love which surpasses her own would guide him unerringly in the constant choices she knew he would have to make between good and evil in the days ahead!

"Mother—shall I play marbles for keeps?"

A BOOK REVIEW

(Continued from page 843.)

also said Joseph Smith did not receive everything in his lifetime, so they had to expect something new. This is our most serious objection to Mr. Evans' book—the substitution and addition of Brigham Young's ideas, mingling them with what Joseph Smith did say and ascribing them all to him, in a very misleading way.

The third part of this book is the best. It treats of Joseph Smith's explanation of himself. Hence it quotes from his sayings, meets objections based on stories of his early life and discusses the Book of Mormon. But here still there persists, with glaring inconsistency at times, the reference to the peculiar idea and theories of the Utah church. There are good things in this section of the book—many of them, yet we find it necessary to insert even here a number of question marks.

In this third part of the book Mr. Evans calls into question the effort to deify Joseph the prophet and to treat all he says as holy, yet throughout the book that apotheosis is urged over and over. It is true that immediately following his death an account of his martyrdom was printed in the Doctrine and Covenants (1945), in which the following appears:

"Joseph Smith, the prophet and seer of the Lord, has done more (save Jesus only) for the salvation of men in this world, than any other man that ever lived in it."

This statement is distinctly not a revelation or statement of faith, doctrine or belief as part of church articles and covenants. Such sentiments are not uncommon shortly after the death of one beloved. At such times emotional statements are frequent. And as it happens similar statements have been made calmly concerning other men. In the Proceedings of the Illinois Historical Society of recent date, more than sixty-five years after his death a similar statement is made concerning Abraham Lincoln.

www.LatterDayTruth.org

Most emphatically it was not the claim of Joseph Smith himself. His style of writing was very unassuming. Mr. Evans quotes several passages from his pen in which Joseph Smith disclaims that he is at all times a prophet and speaks of himself as a man subject to human frailties. Of course such statements are grossly misrepresented by hostile critics and falsely made the basis of an alleged immorality. There can be no doubt that Saul of Tarsus was a great teacher and apostle and inspired of God, yet he feared lest he should become a castaway. It is a recognition of humanity, which is just. It is, with Paul, true humility.

It is one of the great tragedies of the Restoration, that after the death of Joseph Smith a small group went to Utah, and there entered into such immoralities as polygamy and blood atonement, and met with such difficulties with the Federal Government that they were given notoriety.

Joseph Smith, while living, stated the membership of the church in 1843 as over 150,000. In 1844 in reply to a suggestion that they go to Oregon he exclaimed, "What? Transport 250 thousand people across the plains!" These and other figures have made it seem probable there were around 200,000 people in the church in 1844. Of these, perhaps ten thousand went to Utah. They had sixteen years start before "Young Joseph," the son of the martyr, came to the Reorganization. They were always spectacular, whether in polygamy, war with United States, reclaiming the desert, a closed community, an important way station to the gold fields of California, or as an important link in the developement of the west.

They offer a ready basis of attack on Joseph Smith, and by transferring to him all their new ideas developed in Utah, furnish to the critic free evidence for his condemnation. It is much easier for his enemies to accept there allegations of polygamy, etc., than to try to meet the actual teachings of Joseph Smith and his descendants.

This book is permeated throughout with these accusations against Joseph Smith, which are none the less objectionable because they are presented affirmatively and with a friendly intent.

A Spartan, being asked why his people drank so little, replied: "That we may consult concerning others, and not others concerning us.—Plutarch.

—Onward.

THE HIGHER QUEST

(Continued from page 842.)

them. But quite often they spring from the pen of a literary adept and attract hosts of readers by their brilliance of style, or writ, or reasoning. But the partakers of the "risen life" must rigorously abstain; they must not be led away by the specious glamour of that which is defiling. No charm of style or literary grace can ever redeem a bad book from its essential villainy.

And so we might go on, multiplying instances. But invariably we find the same two paths to choose. Always must we remember that the law of the "risen life" is "upward, ever upward!" "Seek those things which are above."

In this way, and in this way alone can we retain the life which obedience to the law of Christ has engendered within us. That life must expand in order to continue; deny it sustenance, and it will dwindle away. Therefore, as we go about our ways let us ever seek after those things which will minister to the higher aspect of our beings—those things which draw us upward, along paths of beauty, love, and service, to the celestial, the ideal, the divine, where "Christ sitteth on the right hand of God!"

CENTRAL AMERICAN WRITING

(Continued from page 846.)

naturally be clumsy and "awkward." Farther on he adds, "When we write we behold our weakness, and stumble because of the placing of our words." Now this is significant in the light of Bishop Landa's statement that the hieroglyphic writings of Central America were placed differently, which he considered to be the whim of the writer or engraver, but which is more probably due to the fact that the documents represent not the work of one man only, but of many men, during varying periods of time, under different conditions, having to do also with changes in speech, and workmen more or less skilled. Some of these writings, he says, are "placed" to read from left to right; others from right to left, while still others read vertically; and another writer in Bulletin 57, Bureau of American Ethnology, declares they should be read in pairs—the first two columns; then the next two, and so on. Probably all of these systems were used at different periods.

Both the Jaredites and Nephites were laboring under changing conditions, where, as it is stated in the Book of Mormon, the language itself underwent changes. Practically Mormon's last words, page 713, were: "Condemn me not because of mine imperfection [in the writing]; neither my father, because of his imperfection; neither them who have written before him, but rather give thanks unto God that he hath made manifest unto you our imperfections, that ye may learn to be more wise than we have been." And on page 706 it says, "If there be faults, they be faults of a man."

On page 202 we have account of the writing on stone, when the large stone of Coriantumr, covered with engravings giving a history of the Jaredites was discovered by the people of Zarahemla, or Mulekites. Whether this stone was circular or not we do not know, but in our time we have an account of another large stone being discovered beneath the present site of the City of Mexico (Jaredite territory in early times, by the way) and this stone contains the most perfect calendar system known to man. Spinden in the Popular Science Monthly of January, 1929, and January, 1930, refers to a date on this stone of August 6, 613 B. C. (as translated into our calendar) and says: "On that remote day they put into operation a workable and astonishingly accurate calendar system, which has been the marvel of the scientific world since it was deciphered." In 613 B. C. the Jaredites still existed in and around Mexico. Coriantumr, their last survivor, was discovered by the people of Zarahemla at the same time they found the large stone, (page 202) and Coriantumr afterwards lived with the people of Zarahemla for nine moons. This was presumably some time shortly after the entrance of the Mulekites into Central America, or somewhere near 589 B. C., about twenty-four years after the date Spinden finds above, 613 B. C. Dellenbaugh, in his North Americas of Yesterday, declares that the calendar stone was one of a pair, the other, or base stone, being undiscovered with it. Now, both were in Jaredite territory, and if Spinden's date is correct, it points to a period of Jaredite habitation, and it is barely possible the calendar stone and the stone of Coriantumr were the pair. According to traditions, Quetzalcoatl (or Christ) perfected the calendar when He came, 600 years later, and it is worthy of note that according to Bulletin 57, American Ethnology, two of their twenty days were called "Lamat" and "Mulec." It is equally worthy of note that this calendar stone contains a complete compass card with its thirty-two points; and Dellenbaugh, in his North Americans of Yesterday, says the Central Americans must have "found a compass somewhere."

That Christ really did handle and criticize their records is evidenced by a statement found on page 667 Book of Mormon: "And it came to pass that he (Christ) said unto Nephi, "Bring forth the record which ye have kept"; and farther along on the same page he called their attention to omissions and mistakes, which were corrected, and on page 668 he gives to them part of the writings of Malachi which he orders in-

www.LatterDayTruth.org

Weekly Health Letter

Increase in Weight

By A. W. Teel, M. D., Church Physician

ONE of the greatest drawbacks to good health to the average person after they have reached the age of 30 or 35 is the inclination to put on weight. At this age the individual is prone to overlook the necessity of controlling his weight, believing that it is of no importance.

Increase in weight whether in the aged or nearly aged is not always traceable to diet but may be due to some glandular disturbance. If this is the cause, the increase in weight will persist in spite of the proper diet and exercise. However, I do not wish to say that increase in weight is always due to glandular disorder, but may be due to carelessness in diet, lack of exercise, and improper mode of living. Those who have been careless in regard to exercise and are gradually increasing in weight are subject to many constitutional and chronic diseases, especially gall bladder, diabetes, and high blood pressure. Heart disease is very prevalent among those who are overweight, caused by the heart muscle being replaced by fat with its resultant weakening and flabby condition.

Fads are like the poor, "they are always with us" and this rule applies to our bodily comfort or discomfort. I refer to the popular and dangerous fad of severe diets for reducing. No one should prescribe a diet for himself, as it should always be supervised by a physician who alone is able to determine by a thorough physical examination whether your overweight is due to diet, lack of proper exercise, etc., or whether it is caused by some disease.

One of the faults among women is that they believe it is unfashionable to be fat and not because it is a menace to health. It is well to remember that the opposite of being overweight—that is, this sudden and rapid loss of weight—is dangerous.

A diseased condition will likely occur regardless of overweight or underweight if certain foods are not included in the diet menu. Those that are essential are fresh fruits, leafy vegetables, and milk. These three dietical essentials supply the necessary vitamins and minerals that are needed for good health.

There are some diseases of a serious nature that are brought about by a too severe diet in an effort to reduce such as, anemia, beri-beri, scurvy, pellagra and quite a few other serious disorders.

Every person should make sure that the diet contains all necessary proteins, carbohydrates, and fats. Pies, rich desserts, and pastries should be avoided. In order to reduce the weight the proper amount of exercise should be instituted. Lack of this important part of the treatment always leads to overweight. One must keep in mind, however, that exercise taken too strenuously is harmful, especially to those who are not accustomed to it and any one who is obese.

Overweight is a hindrance to good health and longevity, and any one suffering from it should consult with his physician before attempting any form of exercise, diet, etc. To reduce properly is not so easy as it may seem, and overweight is far more difficult to cure than the average person is aware. My advice to everyone is to watch your weight and take the necessary steps to prevent excessive corpulency.

---

corporated into their history. Malachi was a prophet who went forth among the Hebrews about 420 B. C., almost 200 years after the Nephites had left Jerusalem, and naturally, they did not have his teachings. But Christ directed they be written in. This was before Mormon's time.

So we find this people printing, engraving on metal, on stone, wood, brass, and gold; burying important documents in the earth to preserve them from enemies; their writings cared for by a certain class, preserved for future generations, although its purpose was unknown to them at the time; but to their faith, obedience and labor are we indebted for our history known as the Book of Mormon.

No conflict is so severe as his who labors to subdue himself.—Thomas á Kempis.

Victory Over Defeat

By Hugh F. Bland

Our life is a game of winning and losing, rising and falling. All the time there is some one winning and some one losing. Those that win are acclaimed, ranked high, honored, and upheld. Their true values are expressed, and their past honors brought forward. The people shout and cry the song of victory reaching to the realms above.

Then there is some one losing. Some one must lose to let the others win. The one that loses is lost in the state of oblivion. He is barely mentioned by the crowd, and his name is hardly uttered, and when mentioned, it is said, "He lost."

Yes! he lost to his friends and went down in history as one who only tried. But to himself he won. He won because he put the obstacles from his path and pressed on when the cry of failure was heard on every side. He gained for himself knowledge, experience, and the value of carrying out his ambitions. These values are values that make a man. They are values because they are worth the efforts put forth to acquire them.

May I add that we all should try for the highest places in life and not be discouraged if we fail, because we gain by losing?

"There is no greater everyday virtue than cheerfulness. We are refreshed by the presence of cheerful people. Let us not forget to confer that pleasure upon others. An ounce of cheerfulness is worth many pounds of gloom in any market."

Most powerful is he who has himself in his power.—Seneca.

www.LatterDayTruth.org

Terms of the Mandate

The terms of the Mandate given by England in August, 1922, show that this mandate was in favor of Jewish colonization in Palestine:

"The mandatory shall be responsible for placing the country under such political administration and economic conditions as will secure the establishment of the Jewish National Home. An appropriate Jewish agency shall be organized as a public body for the purpose of advising and cooperating with the administration of Palestine in such economical, social, and other matters as may effect the establishment of a Jewish National Home. The Zionist organization shall be regarded as such an agency. The administration of Palestine, while insuring that the rights and position of all sections of the population are not prejudiced, shall facilitate Jewish immigration under suitable conditions and shall encourage, in cooperation with the Jewish agency, the settlement of Jews upon this land. The administration may arrange with the Jewish agency to construct or operate upon fair and equitable terms any public works, services, and utilities, and develop any of the natural resources of the country."

Rebuilding of Palestine

The Jews can be thankful for one thing that was accomplished by the World War, and that was the driving of the Turk out of Palestine, and the country being placed under British protectorate. By this act the Arab warriors are held at bay, or they would overrun the country. But now the Jews are encouraged to go to their home land and build up the country, which they are now doing, in harmony with the prophecies of Isaiah and Jeremiah.

"And they shall build the old wastes, they shall raise up the former desolations, and they shall repair the waste cities, the desolations of many generations."—Isaiah 61: 4.

"Thus saith the Lord; Behold, I will bring again the captivity of Jacob's tents, and have mercy on his dwelling places; and the city shall be builded upon her own heap."—Jeremiah 30: 18.

Joseph Smith, the prophet, was told by an angel that Jerusalem was "to be inhabited as a town without walls," his friends ridiculed him for making such a statement. Then he called their attention to the prophecy found in the book of Zechariah, as follows:

"I lifted up mine eyes again, and looked, and, behold, a man with a measuring line in his hand. Then said I, Whither goest thou? And he said unto me, To measure Jerusalem, to see what is the breadth thereof, and what is the length thereof. And, behold, the angel that talked with me went forth, and another angel went out to meet him, and said unto him, Run, speak to this young man, saying, Jerusalem shall be inhabited as towns without walls for the multitude of men and cattle therein."—Zechariah 2: 1-4.

The Encyclopedia Britannica says: "Prior to 1858, when the modern building commenced, Jerusalem lay wholly within its 16th century walls, but even now (1875) there are few private residences beyond this limit." Since this was written, Jerusalem without the old walls covers a larger area than within the old wall limit.

The Literary Digest says: "The authorities of Jerusalem advertised the ancient walls for sale, and much of the stone was used for building material for houses."

For more than eight centuries Palestine has been sought after by the Jewish people, which today has more than 700,000 inhabitants. A large majority speak the Arabic language, yet there are many Christians and some Musselman in the country.

The first Zionist Congress in 1897, adopted as their ultimate aim: "One nation, one constitution, one language and one country."

The Jews are not now ashamed, they can hold up their head anywhere, for they are the big business men of the world, they hold the money strings of all the Christian nations. Isaiah says:

"Therefore, thus saith the Lord who redeemed Abraham concerning the house of Jacob, Jacob shall not now be ashamed, neither shall his face now wax pale."—Isaiah 29: 22.

"Thus saith the Lord God, Behold I will lift up mine hand to the Gentiles, and set up my standard to the people; and they shall bring thy sons in their arms, and thy daughters shall be carried upon their shoulders. And kings shall be thy nursing fathers, and their queens thy nursing mothers."—Isaiah 49: 22, 23.

"The sons also of them that afflicted thee shall come bending unto thee; and all that despised thee shall bow themselves down at the soles of thy feet. . . . Whereas thou hast been forsaken and hated, . . . I will make thee an eternal excellency, a joy of many generations."—Isaiah 60: 14, 15.

"Thou shalt also suck the milk of the Gentiles, and shalt suck the breast of kings."—Isaiah 60: 16.

Soon after the terms of the treaty of Versailles, Palestine was placed under British protectorate, and thereby the action already taken by the British Secretary was again ratified. A military administration was established, which lasted until July 1, 1920, when it was succeeded by a civil administration, set up by Herbert Samuel, High Commissioner for Palestine. This act is also in harmony with prophecy.

"Their nobles shall be of themselves, and their governor shall proceed from the midst of them."—Jeremiah 30: 21.

War in Palestine

As the close of Israelite history draws near, many strange things will be enacted, especially in Palestine; for when the inhabitants of the land are living in peace, the jealous eyes of nations round about will break peace of the land, for Ezekiel tells of a power that is to come out of the North, a great army "to the land of unwalled villages, that are at rest, and dwell safely, to take a spoil, to take a prey," etc., but we will let Ezekiel tell his story:

8. After many days thou shalt be visited; in the latter years thou shalt come into the land that is brought back from the sword, and is gathered out of many people, against the mountains of Israel, which have been always waste: but it is brought forth out of the nations, and they shall dwell safely all of them.

9. Thou shalt ascend and come like a storm; thou shalt be like a cloud to cover the land, thou, and all thy bands, and many people with thee.

10. Thus saith the Lord God; It shall also come to pass, that at the same time shall things come into thy mind, and thou shalt think an evil thought:

11. And thou shalt say, I will go up to the land of unwalled villages; I will go to them that are at rest, that dwell safely, all of them dwelling without walls, and having neither bars nor gates,

12. To take a spoil, and to take a prey; to turn thine hand upon the desolate places that are now inhabited, and upon the people that are gathered out of the nations, which have gotten cattle and goods, that dwell in the midst of the land.

13. Sheba, and Dedan, and the merchants of Tarshish, with all the young lions thereof, shall say unto thee, Art thou come to take a spoil? hast thou gathered thy company to take a prey? to carry away silver and gold, to take away cattle and goods, to take a great spoil?

(To be continued.)

(Note to the reader: This is the fourth installment of this article of tract length. Each installment will fill a page until the tract is completed. Readers may cut out the pages and bind them together for reference or for lending.)

www.LatterDayTruth.org

Prayer and Testimony

Prayer for Another

"I have been for several days in a state of continual prayer for you. Not that I desire anything especial, nor that I ask for anything; it is a state which can be compared with a lamp, which burns incessantly before God."

—Madame Guyon to Fenelon.

A Testimony Read at the Fiftieth Anniversary of the Wheeling Branch

By Lorenzo D. Ullom

One Sunday in October of 1882, while working at the blast furnace in Benwood, West Virginia, where I had the contract to take out the pig metal, I was working a cast that was very hot and heavy, and it caused me to ask myself this question: "Why are you doing this hard work on Sunday when you have no one to keep but yourself?" I came to the conclusion that I did not have to continue this work to keep myself, and informed the superintendent of my decision to quit, and for him to put some one else on the job. He did not want me to quit, but on my suggestion and request he gave it to the two men who had been my helpers.

That was the turning point in my life when I felt that I wanted to do what was right. I then began to read the New Testament, and when I came to that part of the scripture that told of the cruel treatment of the savior and his death on the cross, it affected me so that I wept. In reading the New Testament I saw that it only provided for one church, and I was doubtful as to which church was right. In January, 1883, the Methodists were holding a revival in Benwood and I attended the meetings. At the third meeting I attended, the meeting was conducted in the ordinary way, and at the close of the sermon the invitation was extended to come to the altar, or mourner's bench and seek religion. The members were urged to take active part, and the minister walked down the aisle to where I was sitting, shook hands with me and sat down to talk. He asked me if I enjoyed religion. I told him no. Then he asked me if I would not like to have religion. I told him I would, that it was a nice thing to have, and that I believed in baptism by immersion. He said he had been baptized in the Baptist church, but had since come to the conclusion that a little water sprinkled on, would answer the same purpose. I said, "No. Saint Paul says there is one Lord, one faith, and one baptism, and that we must be buried with Christ in baptism." The minister did not want to argue the question with me, but wanted me to join his church. I told him I was not ready to join the church now. He replied, "We are living tonight, but we have no assurance that we will be living tomorrow," and I agreed with him on that.

He went back to the altar and called on all to kneel and pray, which was followed by two or three of the members praying vocally at the same time. I knelt down and prayed to the Lord to show me where the true church was, and I would obey the gospel and live right the remainder of my life. Tears were flowing down my cheeks and I repeated this prayer many times before the meeting closed, and again before retiring to bed that night, I continued to call on the Lord to show me the true church and I would serve him the remainder of my days.

Time passed on until the fourth of May, 1883, when Isaac Johnson walked up to where I was standing in the yard in Benwood, West Virginia, and asked me if I was going up to the meeting at the Boggs Run schoolhouse. I asked him, "Who is holding meetings there?" to which he replied, "Latter Day Saints." I said, "Yes, I will go and hear them." Two other persons present agreed to go with us, one being Taylor Linton who joined the church a little later. On arriving at the schoolhouse which was pretty well filled we found seats. The minister opened the service in the usual way and began his sermon on the subject of baptism. He said baptism must be by immersion. Then he talked on the laying on of hands for the gift of the Holy Ghost. As he began to preach I thought, "Oh what a joyful sound!" It had the right ring to it and the assurance came to me that this was not a common preacher, such as I had listened to in the past, but a true servant of God, with divine authority from God to preach the gospel in all its fullness like a true prophet of the Lord. He had not preached more than twenty minutes until I was convinced that he was a servant of God, and I decided I would be baptized. Services were announced for Friday, Saturday, and Sunday following, and the people were invited to come and bring their friends and neighbors. I continued to attend the meetings, and at the close of the sermon Saturday night, an invitation was given to any who desired to unite with the church to stand up. I was one of three to respond, and arrangements were made and we were baptized Sunday morning. As I came out of the water I felt that my sins had all been washed away and I felt as humble as a little child. I felt the love of God in my soul and it was the great desire of my heart to see all the children of God repent of their sins, and be baptized in the church as I had been. The minister, Brother G. T. Griffiths, announced a meeting for Monday night at the home of Brother Hulmes, to confirm us in the church. In addition to the confirmation at this time we had a nice prayer meeting. The next day Brother Linton and I were at our work under the hills quarrying out limestone for the blast furnace. About nine o'clock the Holy Spirit came upon me, down through my whole body and unfolded the fulfillment of my dream in my baptism into the Spiritual kingdom of our heavenly Father. I had been buried with Christ in baptism, putting off the old man of sin, and putting on the new man, Christ Jesus, the Rock of Salvation. This is my living testimony of this work. It is true.

As soon as people began to accept the truth preached, the adversary got busy and the schoolhouse was closed against us, and we found ourselves without any suitable place in which to meet. In talking over our situation at the close of a meeting held in the home of Sister Ebeling, I said, "I think we can go ahead and build a little church for ourselves." Brother Griffiths looked at me and laughed at the idea of fourteen members as poor as they were, considering such an undertaking. I offered to give one hundred dollars as a start, and loan five hundred more. When Brother Griffiths saw what I, a new convert was willing to do, he went to the Lord in prayer for light, and was told that we should go ahead and build and that the building would be paid for in one year. We secured a lot for $175.00 that was priced at $200.00. The contractor wanted $850.00 to build the house, but came down to $800.00. That made the total cost $975.00. I raised $50.00 more from my friends and we borrowed $300.00. In a short time we were meeting for worship in our new building. Then in February, 1884, came the highest flood in this valley of which there is any record. In that flood many houses were washed away, or moved off their foundations. However, this frame building resisted the swift current of the river when the water reached the eaves. The organ and books were all destroyed, but the building was not

www.LatterDayTruth.org

Prayer and Testimony

moved. In this my prayers were answered for I prayed much while the house was endangered that the Lord would save it. As soon as the water went down and the church was safe, I went to Moundsville court house and released the deed of trust that I held for the $500.00 I had loaned the church. I turned over the note I held and cancelled that part of the debt. After the flood some of the Saints who had suffered much loss were in sore need. The flood had moved the house of Sister Ebeling off its foundations and did much damage. Brother Griffiths wrote the Herald setting forth the condition of the church at Wheeling. From all over the country came help, until over $500.00 had been received. Out of that, $300.00 was taken to pay off the remaining note, and within the year from the time we started we had a church in which to worship free of debt, fulfilling the promise of the Lord. My testimony is that the Reorganized Church of Jesus Christ of Latter Day Saints is the true church and kingdom of our heavenly Father, with all the gifts and blessing in it.

BELLAIRE, OHIO, 4635 Harrison Street.

A Blessing Through the Years

By J. C. McClelland

The Lord has been wonderfully good to me all my life. I feel grateful to him that the gospel reached me in my younger days, and I sincerely thank God for the many blessings and testimonies that have come to me of the truthfulness of this latter-day work.

I will never forget the most wonderful sermon I ever heard. It was preached by Elder T. C. Kelley over forty years now. He preached on the Book of Mormon taking the prophets from the beginning down to the prophet Joseph Smith. That sermon was a wonderful testimony of the latter-day work, and even now I cannot look back to that sermon, but tears of joy will come to me. What a happy experience! And this is only one of many happy experiences that have come to me through obedience to the gospel of Jesus the Christ.

As I advance in years, my thoughts turn more to the things that I love most, the Spirit of peace, and assurance, that comes to me at times, a realization of the promise which was given me of eternal life if I continue faithful to the end.

I cannot help believing that there is a better, brighter, and happier condition over on the other side, far better than this world has ever known. The power of the gospel has revealed this to my satisfaction, and also that God is a God of love, mercy and justice, one who will hear and answer prayer in times of great need.

I sincerely hope, by the assisting grace of God, that I may be able to continue in this warfare for the right until God says it is enough. Let us live righteous and godly lives before the world, and we will never be sorry. Jesus will ever be our friend in need. I ask the prayers of the Saints.

ARNEGARD, NORTH DAKOTA.

Spirit an Ever Ready Comfort

By Morgan V. Gurwell

Many years ago, before the World War, while working on my father's farm in South Dakota, I had my first experience with a peculiar force that surged within me. I had joined the church a few years before this time.

Being somewhat depressed of mind and spirit, I looked upward at the blue sky and wondered what was beyond. Like a mighty surging force, the Comforter swept through me. I sat there wondering about it and why it should have happened to me as it did.

Since that time I have come to understand it. If I do right, this spirit within me is an ever ready comfort and assurance, but when I do wrong, I am troubled in mind and body and I am rebuked.

It has come to me to understand the interpretation of the Savior's statement to the Apostle Peter: "But whom say ye that I am? And Simon Peter answered and said, Thou art the Christ, the Son of the living God. And Jesus answered and said unto him, Blessed art thou, Simon Barjona; for flesh and blood hath not revealed this unto thee, but my Father who is in heaven. And I say also unto thee, That thou art Peter; and upon this rock I will build my church, and the gates of hell shall not prevail against it."

Let us strive to fulfill our mission in life by an honest realization, desire, and endeavor on our part to be of some service in the hands of the Master, that the world will be given life a little more abundantly. Let us cease to find fault, except in a helpful manner and because of the great darkness which seems to have come upon the nations of the earth. Let us be more prayerful and humble. With unified prayers, let us pray for one another that we may receive strength to overcome obstacles.

BARKSDALE FIELD, LOUSIANA, Box 172.

Blemishes

I saw her in the cloistered dimness where
We stranger twain a moment bowed in prayer.
Upon her cheek a grossly-blemished place
Made hideous an elsewise lovely face.
I pitied her, deep in my inmost soul,
That fate on her had levied such a toll.
Then in new radiance the lights upsprang,
And with relief my spirit leaped and sang.
The scar that lashed my sympathy like whips
A red rose was, the stem between her lips.

Oft in the darkness of our clouded ken
We note shortcomings in our fellow men;
Soul blemishes and mind-disfigurements,
Faults past denial, traits that give offense,
We pity or we blame, inquiring: "Why
Must others so less perfect be than I?"
Then comes the clearer light of graver years—
Virtues enlarged, sins shrunken, through our tears—
Till that which seemed a fault in blinder days
Shines out a glory and compels our praise!

—Strickland W. Gillilan.

Request Prayers

Sister Carrie Kemp, of Springfield, Missouri, requests the prayers of the Saints in behalf of her brother, S. M. Spencer, of Witts Springs, Arkansas. He has been ill for more than a year and is isolated from the church.

www.LatterDayTruth.org

QUESTION TIME

Will it be possible to sin during the Millennium?

Several facts appear to indicate that sin will not be an impossibility during the millennial reign, at least on some portions of the earth. For instance, we have the following words:

"I say unto you, that when the thousand years are ended, and men again begin to deny their God, then will I spare the earth but for a little season."—Doctrine and Covenants 28: 6.

"There shall be no more thence an infant of days, nor an old man that hath not filled his days: for the child shall die an hundred years old; but the sinner being an hundred years old shall be accursed."—Isaiah 65: 20.

"And when the thousand years are expired, Satan shall be loosed out of his prison, And shall go out to deceive the nations which are in the four quarters of the earth."—Revelation 20: 7, 8.

"Satan shall be bound; and when he is loosed again, he shall only reign for a little season, and then cometh the end of the earth; and he that liveth in righteousness shall be changed in the twinkling of an eye."—Doctrine and Covenants 43: 7.

From these texts and some others involving the question, it seems clear that men will retain their agency during the millennial period, though evidently not subject to the temptations of Satan until its close. At the coming of Christ, children will be living on earth who are too young to know sin. It appears that children will grow up to manhood and die "an hundred years old," and if sinners, they shall be accursed. There is no proof, I think, that sin will actually be absent from the lives of all men before the close of the period named, though this is not made very clear textually. The children of the redeemed "shall grow up without sin unto salvation," (Ibid. 45: 10); but of other children living in the period, it is not said.

How does one file an inventory, and under what conditions?

Ask your local bishop, agent, or solicitor for two inventory blanks, so that you may keep a copy for yourself and return the other after filling them out. If you need advice as to other details, your branch financial representative of the bishopric will gladly assist you. Next make separate lists of the value of your real estate, merchandise, mortgages held by you, cash, and all other personal possessions. Set down the amounts of these in the spaces of "Resources" column provided on the blanks furnished you. Next make separate lists of the amounts of notes, accounts, and all other debts you owe. Set down these amounts on the blanks under the column for "Liabilities." Then subtract the total of your liabilities from your total resources, which will show your net worth.

Having found your net worth, you should then add to it any money spent during the year on which tithing should be paid. For instance, if you spent a hundred dollars for a pleasure trip, you would add the hundred dollars to your net worth. But you would not add any money spent for necessary living expenses or for such repairs to your buildings as did not increase their value but was in the nature of maintenance expense. These points will illustrate the principle involved. The total of net worth and money spent as stated is the amount on which you owe tithing, a tenth being the tithe owed. This is for those who have not before filed an inventory or paid tithing.

If you had previously paid tithing, you should multiply the tithe paid by 9, the result being the amount on which you have paid tithes, which should be deducted from the total net worth in order to show how much remains on which you owe the tithe. Having completed the inventory, file it with your local bishop, or if necessary it may be sent to the office of the presiding bishopric, with the tithe due.

When was Satan cast out of heaven?

From the fact that Satan sought to beguile Eve (see Genesis 3: 1-7, Inspired Version) after he was cast down, it was evidently before the fall of man that he was cast out by God, but how long before is not clear.

A. B. PHILLIPS.

www.LatterDayTruth.org

NEWS OF CHURCH AND HOME

Address all news and letters to Editors of the Herald, Box 237, Independence, Missouri. Correspondents are requested to make their letters brief. The Editors reserve the right, on account of space limitations, to shorten all letters as circumstances require.

Fargo, North Dakota

Bungalow Church, 1423 First Avenue South

Children's Day was observed by the church school with a program from the children's division at eleven o'clock. The dramatization of the "Baby Moses" was the main feature. There were recitations and songs by the children. "Open the Door for the Children" was sung by Sister J. E. Henneman. The choir sang, "I Think When I Read That Sweet Story of Old." Pastor H. E. Ratcliffe gave a sermonet. A general picnic was enjoyed at Oak Grove Park.

A pretty wedding was solemnized at the church May 25, amidst palms, ferns and apple blossoms. Ina Freeman, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. R. H. Freeman, was united in marriage to Arlie Peterson. Elder P. T. Anderson read the marriage vows and Elder H. E. Ratcliffe assisted. Doris Rotzien attended the bride and Ray Benard, the bridegroom. Lorine Freeman and Darlene Fisher were flower girls. The "Bridal Chorus" from "Lohengrin," was played by Miss Virginia Walker. Sister J. E. Henneman sang, "O Promise Me," and Francis and Jerome Stowell sang, "Because." Mr. and Mrs. Peterson will reside at Fargo.

Another wedding took place May 24, at Moorehead. Maybelle Rife was united in marriage to Dudley Green.

Kenneth Shackow, church school secretary, was among the two hundred high school graduates this year.

The church grounds have been greatly beautified. Grass seed was sowed at the rear of the church, and flowers are growing all around.

The branch has just received twenty-one new Hymnals.

Youth Day was observed, June 18. Following the church school, in which problems of youth were discussed in the young people's class, a program was given. The opening song was "We're Marching to Zion." Then a beautiful story was told in connection with the picture, "Christ in Gethsemane." The young people marched to the platform and sang, "I Would Be True," and "Consecration." A reading, "I Must Be True," was given. The audience joined in singing, "Onward to Zion." Courtney Rotzien gave a sermonet, "Youth's Part in the Latter Day Restoration."

Recent speakers other than Pastor Ratcliffe are Warren K. McElwaine, of Lansford, Elder P. T. Anderson, Jerome Stowell, and Courtney Rotzien.

Anderson, Indiana

Membership Is Doubled After Meetings

During the week of June 11, Elder J. O. Dutton held a series of meetings. Sunday, June 18, six candidates were baptized. They were Mrs. William I. Fleeharty and her three daughters and one son; Wanda Mildred, Lucille Bernice, Virginia Lea, and Clifford Elmo. Kenneth Edwin, son of Brother and Sister E. P. Frandsen, was the other candidate.

About seven members of the church have been in Anderson for some time and the new members make the present total of thirteen Saints. They organized a church school Sunday, June 25, and hope soon to have a branch organized.

June 22, Elder Dutton went to New Albany and on Saturday, June 24, at 4.00 p. m. united in marriage Brother E. A. Jeagers and Mrs. Florence Jenkins. Brother Jeagers is well known to the Saints of New Albany and southern Indiana, as a faithful priest of the church.

Saskatoon, Saskatchewan

Effective Programs Given

On Easter Sunday Sister Ward L. Christy arranged the program for the morning hour. Violet Cruce told the story of Peter, the palm man, and ten young girls, clothed in white, portrayed the Easter story. This was followed by a playlet, "As Children See It." Pearl Denton representing "The Spirit of Easter," and Irma Denton, the teacher. An impressive exercise was the "Witnesses of Christ's Resurrection."

The infant daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Price was blessed during this service.

Two families have moved from this branch, William Nisbett, and Myron Beckman.

The Mother's Day program was in charge of Sister C. E. Diggle. The pantomime, "From High Chair to Armchair," portraying the life of the average woman, was presented. Mr. Alex Mackie sang "My Mother's Prayer," and Lily Anderson and Averil Diggle contributed a duet. Mrs. Steves added much to the effectiveness of the program.

Rock Island District

Welcome President F. M. Smith

Saints of Rock Island District were made happy to have as their guest speaker, for the first time, President Frederick M. Smith, who spent June 10 and 11 at the young people's convention at Rock Island. Almost five hundred were present at the Sunday services which were held at the Masonic Temple because the local church could not accommodate such numbers.

On Friday evening the local congregation presented a four-act play, "The Daughter-in-law." The play was written and directed by Sister Winifred Stiegel.

District President E. R. Davis was in charge of the prayer service Saturday morning. He also conducted an interesting class which discussed vital problems in recreation. At the business session Saturday afternoon a more extensive young people's organization was provided. Each branch was instructed to elect one member of its group to become a part of the district council which shall legislate and direct young people's activities.

President Smith addressed the conference in the evening. He made an appeal for greater appreciation and development of hymnology. The Word of Wisdom was also discussed with an enthusiastic audience.

Early Sunday morning the young people met with their leaders, Brother L. W. Stiegel and Thomas Beil, at Long View Park for prayer service. The entire convention met later at the Masonic Temple. A large congregation participated in the service with Brother Davis and F. C. Bevan, former missionary, in charge. President Smith was speaker at the eleven o'clock hour, presenting "The Lord's Prayer" as his theme.

In the afternoon Brother Smith conducted a round table and discussed some problems in relation to the gathering ing and the establishment of Zion. Sunday evening District President Davis delivered an effective sermon on the spiritual attributes of a Zion builder, and the cultivation of heart and mind necessary in each one to become an efficient and acceptable steward.

Special music during the convention was under the direction of District Chorister Nola Epperly. Soloists were Joy Davis and John Spoelstra.

www.LatterDayTruth.org

Magnolia, Iowa

Young People Earn Expenses to Reunion

Sunday, June 18, was observed as Children's Day. Sister Clara Butterworth, supervisor of children, arranged a program in which the younger members of the church school participated. After the program, Elder Gerald Gunsolley, district president, delivered a forceful sermon. Visitors present were, Mrs. Opal Hanson of Independence, Missouri; Mrs. Viola Crom of Logan; a group of young people from Persia, with their Sunday school teacher, Sister Gaterost; Sister Marie Adams and daughter, Donna June, of Woodbine; and also a number from the local Methodist Church.

Prayer meeting is held once each week, and it is encouraging to see the young people give their support to these meetings. The slogan for the year is "Higher Ground."

Sister Thelma Butterworth is supervisor of young people. This group had an ice cream social recently and the proceeds are to be used toward the expenses of the young people at the district reunion. They all expect to attend.

Sister Effie Brown is president of the women's department in the branch. The women served the junior-senior banquet this year.

Nathalie Butterworth, who is taking nurses' training in the Independence Sanitarium, expects soon to come home for her vacation.

Haileyville, Oklahoma

Appreciate Visiting Ministers

Since the last report received from Haileyville the Saints have been visited by several officers of the church. Apostle Roy S. Budd spoke one evening. Patriarch Frederick A. Smith held a ten-day series of meetings. Elder and Sister S. W. Simmons, from Keltner, Missouri, spent a week in Haileyville, and Brother Simmons spoke each evening. While Brother Joe Bussell, of California, was visiting his mother, in Wilburton, Oklahoma, he held one service here. The Saints feel greatly comforted and strengthened by these meetings.

Several members received their patriarchal blessing while Brother Smith was here. Sister Marie Ervin Perry, from Wilburton, kindly offered her services as his stenographer.

The Sunday school and prayer meeting are progressing and the members hope to have an elder among them before long. A women's organization has been effected by the branch. Wilburton and Haileyville Saints participated in a joint prayer and sacrament meeting at the local branch in charge of Patriarch Smith and Brother W. P. Hubble, on the first Sunday in April.

Several of the older members of the branch have been remembered on their birthdays by a friendly social and surprise party.

Practically every home in this branch buys a Herald each week under the new plan. Haileyville Saints are glad to know that Elder Lee Quick has been sent to Oklahoma as a missionary.

Miss Gladys Cox, of the local branch, and Ammon Powell, of Tulsa, were married at the home of the bridegroom's uncle, Brother George L. Parham. The Reverend C. M. Carleton, of the Baptist Church, officiated.

Ann Arbor, Michigan

New Mission Started

Sunday, June 11, the Detroit district president, Kenneth Green, and Elders W. E. Leland and Blakesley Smith, met with the Saints of Ann Arbor at the home of Sister Julie Rhodes. A mission was organized and Brother Leland was appointed by the district presidency to be in charge. A business meeting and a short service were held.

Sunday, June 18, a Sunday school was organized. Brother Longworth was chosen to act as superintendent. Meetings are being held at 305 South Main Street. The small group of Saints here feel they are very fortunate in having Brother Leland as their leader and are giving him their hearty support.

Denver, Colorado

Eight Attended Youth Conference

Eight young people left June 15 for Lamoni to attend the Youth Conference. They have been very active in different ways, raising money to help pay the expenses of the trip.

On June 4, Apostle E. J. Gleazer and his family, who were en route to California, visited here. Brother Gleazer addressed the branch during the sacrament service and preached in the evening.

Sunday, June 11, Apostle M. A. McConley was their visiter and preached the evening sermon. The morning service was devoted to the children, and a delightful program was given, under the direction of Sister Elsie Harper. This consisted of recitations, songs, instrumental music and short play, "Let the Little Ones Come," all by the children. At the close of the program, Betty Pearl and Kitty Lorraine Shepherd were baptized by Glaude Smith. Brother McConley gave the address to the candidates.

Sister Helena Garner had the misfortune to fall recently, breaking her knee, and has been confined to Saint Luke's hospital, where she is slowly improving. Sister H. B. Coon, who has been ill for several months, suffering from a heart ailment and complications, is still gravely ill. Sister Laura Kohankie has been ill for about six weeks, and has suffered greatly.

Wednesday evening, June 7, the marriage of Ammon Wildermuth, son of Mr. and Mrs. J. B. Wildermuth, to Miss Marjorie Hunt was solemnized at Saint Mark's Church. Ammon is a graduate of Graceland College and a former student of Colorado University, and his bride was graduated this year from Colorado Women's College. She is a talented musician.

They are proud of their graduates this year: Audrey Bennett and Clodagh Jones from North High School, Pauline Robertson from South High, Genevieve Coven from Wheatridge High, Lois Wildermuth from Graceland and Mary Williams from University of Denver.

Trenton, Missouri

Home-coming Observed

On June 11, Trenton Mission held a home-coming at the church for all scattered members and friends. The day's meeting was opened by the Sunday school period at nine-thirty. The sacrament service followed at eleven o'clock. Dinner, which was prepared by the women, was served in cafeteria style.

Sister W. H. Moore was in charge of the afternoon program, which consisted of songs, readings, and a sermonet by one of the local men. Saints from Spickard, Jamesport, and other places were present.

To the willing workers of the church, much credit must be given for the success of this meeting, and they appreciate the support rendered them by those taking part.

Trenton Mission is endeavoring to make this event an annual affair.

Clinton, Iowa

560½ First Avenue

Members of the Clinton, Iowa, Branch are actively interested in the program of the church.

They have just enjoyed an institute on the "Deeper Meaning of Stewardship" conducted by District President E. R. Davis. While Brother Davis was in Clinton a number of Saints from the vicinity of Deer Grove and Tampico, Illinois, drove to Clinton and united in the sacrament meeting, after which a basket lunch at Eagle Point Park was enjoyed by everyone.

The young people of the branch, under the leadership of Sister Doris Beil, have organized and are holding regular meetings. At these meetings a study period is held after which social activities are enjoyed. Also they hold their own young people's prayer service on the first Sunday of every month. An attendance contest was held by the young people and the losing side served a picnic supper to the winning members of the group. Much enthusiasm has been displayed in these activities in the past and a great deal is expected in the future. Several of the young people attended the youth's conference at Lamoni.

www.LatterDayTruth.org

The men of the branch have been improving the church property by building a new foundation in anticipation of a basement in the future. Also theater seats have been installed.

Pastor C. A. Beil is continuing to carry the gospel message to the Saints and their friends in nearby towns in Illinois.

Brother R. C. Cassiday has just returned to his home after a week in the hospital. Brother Cassiday has been ill for the past eighteen months and has been greatly blessed through prayer and administration.

Scandinavian Mission Enjoys Divine Blessings at Tenth Annual Whitsuntide Meetings

Saints Assemble at Oslo, Norway

The tenth annual two-day meeting of the Scandinavian Mission was held at Oslo, Norway, Sunday and Monday, June 4, and 5. It has been my privilege to attend nine of these ten Whitsuntide meetings, the only exception being in in 1928, when I was in America. Our heavenly Father, in his goodness and mercy, has seen fit to pour out his Spirit abundantly upon us at these annual gatherings, and this year was no exception to the rule. Each year seems to be better than the year before. We probably forget the good things enjoyed from year to year and are inclined to believe that the last gathering was the greatest Pentecost of them all. At any rate, God met with us this year and blessed us with his Spirit in an unusual degree, which made our hearts rejoice and gave us an added testimony that we are the children of God and are recognized by him as such.

There were twenty-five Saints and friends from out of town this year. Five of them drove four hundred miles in a car from Stockholm, Sweden, to meet with us. This was Brother Lindberg and his family's first visit to Norway, and they enjoyed it. Never before had they met with so many Saints. They were enthused over the country and its people and the association of the Saints. Porsgrunn, Kragerø, and Bøn were well represented this year.

Altogether eight meetings were held, the first being an open-air meeting in one of the city parks on Saturday night, where about two hundred and fifty people listened to our message. Then we had three meetings on Sunday and four on Monday. A spiritual sacrament service was enjoyed Sunday morning which greatly strengthened the Saints. A little girl who has been sick for some time was administered to and received a wonderful blessing. The local men of the priesthood did most of the preaching, and I have never heard them do better. Each one was inspired and blessed in presenting his message by the power of the Holy Spirit. There were eleven members of the priesthood present and a splendid priesthood meeting was held early Monday morning. The meeting on Monday afternoon was devoted to the women's department, and it fell to my lot to be the speaker this year.

Meals were served at the hall for the visiting as well as home Saints. This, of course, required a lot of work and I was very happy to note the cooperation and harmony which existed in the performance of this work. Each one was willing to do his part. I take this as a good sign that we are growing above the petty things of life which hinder our spiritual development and are coming nearer to that Zionic condition which should exist among the Saints everywhere. I had requested our members in the various towns to prepare themselves spiritually for this annual gathering so that God might bestow upon us his blessings. The Saints responded to this request and the result was a real Pentecostal feast for our souls. God is always willing to bless when we are in a condition to receive.

Sister Ruch Undergoes Major Operation

The only cloud upon our Whitsuntide gathering was the fact that Sister Ruch could not meet with us and give her services as she has in the years past. Her health has been bad for some time and the doctors for more than a year have urged an operation, but we have postponed it as long as possible hoping that she would get better or be healed. God in his wisdom has not seen fit to heal her, but allowed her at last to undergo a major operation which we trust not only has proved a blessing to her, but also to those near and dear to her and her brothers and sisters in the church here.

After being administered to, she entered the hospital on April 20. That evening special prayer meetings were held in three different towns for her. I attended the one in Oslo and my heart was touched by the sincere and fervent prayers which were sent up to God in her behalf. I knew that she was loved and respected by the Saints here, but little did I realize what an important place she occupied in the hearts of the people until this experience came to her. Their love and interest were good to see. We received the assurance at that meeting that God heard our prayers and that he would be with her during her operation, guiding the hand of the surgeon and arranging everything for her good.

For eighteen long days the doctors continued their thorough examination, taking twenty-two X-ray pictures of her in order to be sure as to her affliction. It was finally decided that it was adhesions caused from a former operation. She was operated upon May 8. The first three days she was very sick, but since has been slowly getting stronger. She was able to leave the hospital on May 27, after being there five weeks and three days. Such an experience in a foreign land with no relatives to comfort and cheer is not pleasant, but our daughter, Velma, and I very much appreciated the sympathy and love of the Saints who were kind to us. Sister Ruch has not yet regained her strength, but is able to be up most of the day, so we trust that it will not be very long before she is strong and we hope that her health will be better in the future.

We missed her services at our annual meeting this year as she usually makes a large contribution with her singing, music, lecture on women's work and her leadership and help in many other ways. We took her in a car to our sacrament service, hoping that she might be able to attend other services, but so many people around her and so much excitement was too much for her. She had to return home in the afternoon. It was a great disappointment to her and to us that she was not able to attend the meetings. Sister Emmy Carlsen, from Porsgrunn, played the piano for our congregational singing, and several of the other sisters sang special numbers.

Sister Ruch had several pleasant spiritual experiences while she was in the hospital which were a great comfort to her. We are very thankful to our heavenly Father for his recognition of us and the many blessings which he bestows upon us and his people from time to time. We have every reason to be faithful to him and do all within our power to build up his church and kingdom. To the Saints in America and other countries we send our greetings, and we stretch our hand out over the ocean to clasp yours which we believe is extended toward us in cooperation in the performance of the work which God has called us to do. May God strengthen and bless us for our tasks.

V. D. RUCH.

Coldwater, Michigan

Sixty Years of Unbroken Existence

Coldwater Branch with its more than sixty years of unbroken existence, is moving forward in the high plane of intellectual and spiritual endeavor embraced by the third generation of workers. The regular departmental services during the past year have found expression in special programs at Christmas, Washington's birthday, Easter, Mother's Day, and Children's Day, and Graceland College Day.

Apostle D. T. Williams, and District President A. C. Barmore have been the outstanding visitors of the year. The Saints appreciate the untiring efforts of Pastor S. W. L. Scott.

www.LatterDayTruth.org

Baltimore, Maryland

Five Are Baptized After Meeting

The work of the church in Baltimore is indeed progressing. Although the Saints are few in number, they are earnest and sincere in their endeavors. Meetings are held every Sunday morning in a hall on Highland Avenue near Bank Street, while prayer service is held every Wednesday night at the home of one of the Saints. Many spiritual blessings are enjoyed at these services which have been a great source of strength to the Saints.

The pastor, Elder Joseph Edwards, has been actively engaged in the work for the past year and has had splendid cooperation from the branch officers.

Elder Adolphus Edwards has been conducting a series of meetings at Jones Creek in the homes of Sisters Letha Altman and Vida Keller. On Sunday, June 4, the results of these meetings were realized when five were led into the waters of baptism by Elder Edwards. Those who were baptized are: Albert Altman, Vera, Jack and Gail Keller, and Philip Givens. The interest among the people at Jones Creek is encouraging.

Members at Baltimore have enjoyed the visits of Patriarch G. W. Robley, and Apostle Paul M. Hanson and have received much encouragement from their visits.

Dallas, Texas

Departments in Branch Are Working

The Saints in Dallas feel that they have not been neglected as far as spiritual blessings are concerned. Patriarch Frederick A. Smith recently paid a visit to the branch, preached four sermons, and gave three patriarchal blessings. Elder H. H. Davenport is the elder in charge of this little group.

Dallas members are proud and glad to have Bishop L. F. P. Curry living in their city. He gives them wise counsel from time to time.

On the twentieth of May, Apostle Roy S. Budd, and Elder George H. Wixom were in Dallas. Sunday, after church, a picnic dinner was held in one of the parks. The Saints are sorry to lose Brother Wixom as their missionary.

This branch has an active choir. Prayer meeting is held on Wednesday night and half those attending are young people. On Friday evening there is a Bible Class, also a Book of Mormon class, and Saturday afternoon is devoted to recreation for the children under the leadership of Virginia Anna Williams.

The Children's Day program was sponsored by the leaders of the children's division. The church was artistically decorated with flowers. Four children were baptized at eight o'clock Sunday morning.

Alto, Michigan

Membership Is Increased

Alto Branch feels justly proud of the activities and accomplishments made this year.

Ten baptisms, at 8.45, started the Children's Day program. Preaching at eleven and basket dinner at noon were enjoyed by all. At one o'clock the Saints again gathered at the water's edge to witness the baptism of three more candidates. The exercises by the children were given at one-thirty. The confirmation-preaching service, held at three o'clock, was of spiritual benefit to the Saints.

On June 18, Apostle D. T. Williams preached a splendid sermon in the afternoon, and June 25, Elder E. B. Blett, of Grand Rapids, was the speaker.

The church school attendance averages about seventy-five members. The young people hold special prayer services one night each month. Priesthood and women's department meetings and midweek prayer services are held each month.

Alto Saints meet at the Alaska schoolhouse.

New York District

Young People Accept Responsibility

A large delegation, particularly of young people, attended the New York district conference, held at Niagara Falls, June 10 and 11. At the business meeting present officers were sustained. Doctor Weegar announced his counselors as Elders F. C. Mesle and George F. Landes.

The prayer service Sunday morning was decidedly a spiritual one. Many testimonies were given, one that stood and will be remembered by the Saints for long was that of Apostle Paul M. Hanson. Priesthood and laity were admonished to be diligent, and given the promise that they would be cared for. A short model church school session took place before the preaching service. At eleven-thirty Apostle Hanson talked about the gathering of the Jews and the Saints, impressing the idea that the difficulties are not insurmountable in either case.

A group of Niagara young people served meals to all who desired, and earned a nice sum for their class Christmas offering. After the priesthood, talks preceded the musical program at three-thirty. The chorus of forty-four voices, under the direction of District Chorister Catherine Lambert, did well. Sister Doris Weegar Eidt was the soloist. The congregation listened attentively to an excellent discourse by District Missionary William I. Fligg.

The Saints at Syracuse enjoyed a splendid Children's Day program given mostly by the adults, and called "The Temple of Childhood."

Brother Mesle is being transferred to Niagara Falls, Ontario, by his company, and this leaves Sherrill without a pastor.

The women's department recently purchased books and tracts, and have been quite active in getting this reading material into the hands of individuals who might be interested in the church.

Santa Ana, California

Children Contribute to Service

Santa Ana Branch observed Children's Day, Sunday, June 11. Sister Charles Calkins, in charge of the junior church school, presented the children in a beautifully and carefully prepared program. Sister Ruth Hagin sang a solo and then Jerry Blake Morrison was brought to the altar by his parents and was blessed by Bishop D. B. Carmichael. At the close of the service the children marched up quietly and placed an envelope containing a small offering upon the altar. The entire congregation witnessed the baptism and confirmation of four little girls: Shirley Best, Dorothy Bose, Phyllis Brush, and Elsie Meyers.

The Saints enjoyed a beautiful Easter service. This program was arranged by Sister Taressa Koonce who included not only the children of the branch but several nonmembers. The church was decorated by Sister Aaron Engel.

One of the sisters has been quite ill and two weeks ago, Sister Kuhn, president of the ladies aid, called the women together at her home and held a special prayer service. The sister received an immediate blessing and her health has continued to improve. Aid society meets weekly and is well attended. Friday, June 16, under their direction, an ice cream social was held in the church basement followed by an impromptu program. Everyone enjoyed the evening and eight dollars were collected for local needs.

Bracken, Saskatchewan

Eight Are Led into the Church

The work of the church is moving along nicely in Bracken, and they have continued to have Sunday school and preaching service, providing the weather was fit.

On May 14, two young men were baptized into the church, and confirmation was at the schoolhouse. Elder Anson A. Miller officiated for the first time in this ordinance.

June 11, six more candidates were baptized and the confirmation followed. The Spirit was felt in power at both times. The Saints hope to have more unite with them soon.

A group from Bracken are planning to attend the district reunion at Weyburn Plaines.

www.LatterDayTruth.org

Fortescue, Missouri

Organize Girls' Clubs

On Thursday, June 1, the girls of the branch, met at the church and organized into an Oriole circle and Temple Builder chapter. Mrs. Howard Dodson was chosen as the Temple Builder leader, and Miss Zepha Jackson as the Oriole monitor. On Friday, June 9, they met again and began sewing on some Yo-Yo pillows. The clubs are scheduled to meet every Friday until the seventeenth of August.

Hammond, Indiana

Entertain District Conference

Hammond Branch has accomplished something which the members have looked forward to for some years—the entertaining of the conference for the Southern Michigan and Northern Indiana District. For the past few months they have been busy remodeling the kitchen and painting the building inside and out, under the able direction of Brother Clair Ellis. The conference convened here June 10 and 11, and the spirit of harmony and fellowship which prevailed throughout the conference amply repaid them for the effort put forth.

The members appreciated the presence of Apostle D. T. Williams and District President A. C. Barmore and wife, at the conference and the visit of Brother Williams' family prior to the conference.

After the Sunday school service on June 18, the children of the school participated in a beautiful service when two babies were blessed, Lila Mildred, daughter of Brother and Sister Ray Mair, and Betty Lou, daughter of Brother and Sister Otto Scheive.

Hibbard, Indiana

Children's Day Observed by District

Sunday, June 18, was an occasion that will long live in heart and memory of those attending the Children's Day exercises. Saints from more than ten different towns in the district came in cars.

The new church was well filled, when at ten o'clock the program was presented by Elder S. W. L. Scott and twenty-five members of the school. The literary committee consisted of Pastor Bennett, Sisters Irene Crum and Hattie McKinny. The music committee was Sisters Cathrine Reed, Lula Aley, Charlotte Bennett, and Brother John Aley.

Dinner at the church, was first served to the children, and then to the visitors and home members of the branch.

Preaching service was called at two-thirty, and Brother Scott talked on the theme, "Zion as a Cause, People, Land, and City." The evening service was in charge of Pastor Bennett.

Veteran Minister Spends One Hundred Days in Far West, and Lamoni Stakes

A Record of Service

A few months ago, the authorities of Far West, and Lamoni Stakes invited me to do church work in their respective fields. The officers and members of the stakes gave such splendid support during the one hundred days spent with them that I was enabled to hold ninety preaching services and visit in 151 homes of the Saints.

Very recently I had the pleasure of holding eight services in the historic Rich Hill, Missouri, Branch, and I am pleased to report that the general conditions were much better than when I visited there several years ago. This band of earnest workers is shepherded by Elder Birch Whiting.

In my ministerial diary, I find that covering a period of forty-one years I had administered the holy and sacred ordinance of laying on of hands for the blessing of the sick from once to a number of times every month except one in all those years.

C. J. HUNT.

Holden Stake

Warrensburg, Missouri

Warrensburg has failed to contribute to the News of Church and Home columns of the Herald for over a year, but it has not been because of lack of news. For the past year, under the leadership of Elder T. L. McCormick as pastor and Brother S. M. Andes, assistant, the church services have been well attended.

The young people have been well organized, and have contributed largely to the interest in the services. A dramatics club of young people was organized with Jonnie Raville as president and Lillian Johnson director of plays. The cooperation of about thirty-five members in this effort not only helped contribute to the church services, but also established a sympathetic working basis among the youth of this branch. Throughout the winter months about eight one-act plays and two pageants were given at Warrensburg and some of these plays were taken to Sedalia, Holden, Knobnoster, Marshall, and Lees Summit. In addition to the interest and enthusiasm in dramatics, there was a very definite increase in study in the young people's class based on Mrs. R. S. Salyard's "History of Christianity for Youth."

Elsie and Martha Andes returned recently from Wyoming where Elsie has been employed as teacher. Elsie is a valuable asset to the branch here because of her musical talent.

During the summer months dramatics has given place to the Twilight Club, conducted by Leamon Johnson as president, and Jonnie Raville and Ammon Andes, assistants. At present they are playing volley ball and preparing for contests to take place later with other branches.

Ammon Andes, who is the superintendent of the church school, attended the young people's convention at Lamoni last week.

Jewel and Eunice Johnson were baptized June 18, Brother Charles Constance officiating; confirmation was by Brothers S. M. Andes and John Bozarth.

The Children's Day program was given June 25.

Nauvoo, Ohio

Portsmouth-Nauvoo Branch

June 18, Elder Jacob Halb, of Middletown, Ohio, started a series of meetings. Brother Halb is a good speaker, and much interest is being shown in his sermons.

Friday, May 26, the women met at the church under the direction of Ida May Crabtree. After the opening worship service, the women talked over their work for the year.

Sunday, June 11, was a banner day for the Saints here. At this meeting Mr. Lion, who is an elder in another church, and his wife were present. Mr. Lion seems to be dissatisfied with the creed of his church and is investigating the latter-day message. After the eleven o'clock meeting, dinner was served by the women. At two o'clock the children gave a short program and Elder Francis May, of Dayton, Ohio, gave a thirty-minute talk.

Toronto, Canada

Interesting Programs Keeps Members Interested

Over two hundred have attended the sacrament service the last two months. On May 7, the Sunday school department held a rally day, and the members responded well. A total of 272 were present at this meeting and only a small per cent were visitors.

On June 4, the branch held a roll call Sunday. A large scroll was hung up at the rear of the main auditorium. This contained last year's roll call and those present this year, too, were given a star after their names. Only a few names lacked a star, and there was 261 present.

The local cottage missionary efforts are bringing results. Recently both of the north end missions led one convert into the waters of baptism. Missions are also located in the east and west ends of the city and interest is keen among the nonmembers attending. All available ministers are used in this work, and this provides a wonderful field for experience, especially to the younger members of the priesthood.

www.LatterDayTruth.org

On Children's Day, June 11, a special program was given by the junior department, under the direction of Sister Elsie Castle, the superintendent of the department. At the close of the service, Pastor J. L. Prentice baptized four children. A family of three, the mother, father, and little girl were also baptized by Brother Prentice the same day at Humber Bay. A district meeting was held at Glen Williams' home, and Elder Douglas Cameron baptized six new members.

The Friday evening, religio department sponsored a picnic at Center Island June 17. This department has decided to take study classes for the rest of the summer.

The department of women, directed by Sister Mary Wilson, is succeeding in its work.

Lowbanks, Ontario

Remember Special Days With Programs

Prior to the Easter service a duo recital was given by Mildred Clatworthy, pianist, and Delbert McDonald, organist. A special feature of this recital was a beautiful arrangement of Bernard's "The Old Rugged Cross." After the Easter sermon the women's department served dinner to those present.

The young people's choir is very active, and have contributed much to the special occasions this spring and summer. Brother MacDonald's services as musician and organist are appreciated by the members here.

Mother's Day, Children's Day, and Father's Day were observed with special programs. Two babies were blessed June 18, by Elder Clatworthy.

Hagerman, Idaho

Observe Special Occasions

Mother's Day program was given the evening of May 14. The young people's class presented "The Whole World Pays Homage to Mother." Josephine Ultican gave "The Wanderer," a musical reading. A duet, "My Mother's Face in Memory," was given by Minnie Williams and Audrey Dennis. Other appropriate readings and songs added to the evening's entertainment.

A Sunday school picnic was sponsored by the young people on May 30. A good time was enjoyed by the Saints and many nonmembers who attended.

On June 5, Miss Velma Abercrombie, daughter of Sister Alice Parks, and Leonard Hopkins, of Ruby Valley, Nevada, were united in marriage, at the home of Sister Parks, Elder S. D. Condit officiating. The bridal couple will make their home at Ruby Valley.

Friday evening, June 9, the department of recreation and expression gave an interesting program. All who took part are to be commended for their help. An ice cream social followed the program and the proceeds are to be used to purchase new Hymnals for the branch.

The Children's Day program followed the regular church school session and Sister Reveria Condit, leader of the junior department, was in charge. "Zion Builders We Would Be" was given in a pleasing and effective manner.

Hagerman members are looking forward to the association with the Saints at the coming reunion, to be held here August 16 to 20.

Portland District

Condon, Oregon

Apostle M. A. McConley visited the Portland District in April, and while there he preached two evenings at Condon.

Early in May, Elder and Sister Harold I. Velt went to Condon, and for the past month, he and his wife have been conducting missionary services which have been strengthening to the Saints, and have attracted many nonmembers.

Handbills were distributed among nonmembers and calls were made at almost every home inviting them to attend these meetings. Arrangements were made for special individual and family prayer, and twelve o'clock noon was set apart as a time for united prayers.

Ten nights were occupied with lectures on ancient America. The attendance averaged sixty-one and forty-six of this number were nonmembers. These lectures were followed by three weeks of gospel sermons, being preceded each evening, by short lectures on Australia.

The district president, Elder J. L. Verhei, with Elder Mark Yeoman, and Elder Livingston and wife, visited this branch, Sunday, June 11, and conducted all-day services. The Baptist people gave the Saints permission to use their font for the five baptisms.

Two men, Brothers Ray Moore and Dan Hawes were called and ordained to the office of priest and deacon, respectively. Brother N. E. Austin has been in charge of the branch for the past twenty years. Through his untiring efforts, and supported by a few faithful workers, the branch has been kept together.

Brother and Sister Velt are now holding meetings at Hood River, Oregon.

Hood River, Oregon

This mission is cared for in part by Brother Howell, associated with W. W. Belcher, of The Dalles, recently ordained a priest. The young people's organization is progressing under the leadership of Brother Sherwood and the Howard sisters, Eva Emily, and Wanda.

Longview, Washington

Willard Becker, who was recently ordained priest, is in charge of this group and is assisted by district officers.

The young people's organization is under the direction of Brother Becker, who is president; Myrtle Geer, vice president, and Brother Rasmussen, secretary-treasurer. They meet on Friday evenings at their new location on Eleventh and Broadway.

Sherwood, Oregon

Sherwood was organized into a district mission Sunday, June 4. Clark Livingston, a priest from Portland Branch, was placed in charge. Sister Livingston is church school superintendent; Marian Murdock, secretary; young people's leader, Robert Baily, and director of the junior department, Harley Morris.

Vancouver, Washington

This branch has been greatly encouraged by the attendance as a result of the untiring efforts of Pastor J. W. Vail and the assistance of Elder Nelson, associate to the district president, who meets with them on Sunday and Wednesday evenings. Following the prayer meeting, they have a class in "What it Means to Be a Latter Day Saint."

Camas, Washington

Camas group is unorganized but the members hope to be a mission soon. The district president, Elder J. L. Verhei, has been conducting a Thursday night class in "Church Objectives," using as a guide the pamphlet issued by the last General Conference. They have been enjoying exceptionally good attendance, with one social night each month. There are approximately fifty Latter Day Saints in this community, the majority are young people.

Tillamook, Oregon

Elder S. A. Dobson has recently been appointed to take charge of the work in this vicinity. He will have the capable assistance of Sister Dobson and their two sons, Wallace and Clinton, who are in the priesthood. It is expected that they will give a fresh impetus to the work here.

Portland, Oregon

There was a fine spirit of unanimity and an unusually large attendance at the business meeting Tuesday, June 6, which was held for the election of officers. It was practically a reelection, as many of the officers were returned to their offices. The following associates to the pastor were appointed by Elder Verhei and accepted by the meeting: W. H. Barker, home visiting; A. Livingston, director of Religious Education, and Mark Yeoman, business manager for the branch.

Friday, June 9, the young people

www.LatterDayTruth.org

elected the following officers for the coming year: Floyd Soneson, president; Clifford Bryson, vice president, and Kenneth Nottingham, secretary-treasurer.

Southern Wisconsin

President F. M. McDowell and His Father Visit Conference

President Floyd M. McDowell preached the first sermon of the Southern Wisconsin conference, held at Soldiers Grove, June 9, 10, and 11. Saturday morning a prayer meeting was enjoyed. Two classes on major objectives of the church were taught by President McDowell and Elder L. G. Holloway, during the morning. Two other classes were held in the afternoon, and at seven o'clock the regular business meeting was in charge of the district president.

Brother John Maas was ordained an elder after a recommendation had come from Milwaukee requesting same. Patriarch W. A. McDowell's text for the evening service was "Prepare to Meet Thy God, O Israel."

Early Sunday morning four children were baptized by Phillip Davenport, jr. President McDowell lead fifty-two young people in a prayer service at 8.45 in a nearby woods. At the same hour the adult prayer meeting was held.

"Avenues of Service in the Church," was the theme of President McDowell's ten o'clock class. After the eleven o'clock preaching service by Brother McDowell, a picnic dinner was served.

During the afternoon service the four children baptized earlier in the day, were confirmed and then under the hands of Brothers W. A. and Floyd McDowell, Brother Maas was ordained an elder.

Philip Davenport, senior, conducted the four-thirty vesper service. Several carloads came from Milwaukee, a distance of 185 miles, and from Madison, one hundred miles.

Ava, Missouri

Tigris Branch

Mother's Day was observed on May 14, by a program in the morning by the children. In the evening a play, "The Angel's Message," was sponsored by Sister Edna Norman.

District President W. E. Haden preached both morning and evening giving a fine tribute to motherhood. Brother Haden was joined by Brother E. C. Shelley, who preached three evenings beginning Wednesday, May 17, and days were spent working with the men of the branch in the building of the pastor's house. These services were closed Sunday evening, May 21.

Sister Lillian Freeman took her class, "The Sunbeams," for a picnic dinner, May 21. Fourteen little folk with some of their mother's enjoyed the treat.

The attendance of the Sunday school continues to increase. A program is given each Sunday following class study.

Children's Day was observed with a nice program, June 11. This was followed by a sermon by Elder Ray Whiting, of Council Bluffs, Iowa, who was visiting Brother and Sister Clark Hursh near Ava. Then a basket dinner was served. It was estimated that about one hundred were served. Following this they retired to the creek at Tigris where three children made the covenant of baptism, the pastor officiating. These were Leland Hursh, Maymie McCullough, and Warren Zuber. Returning to the church, the candidates were confirmed by Elders Whiting, Freeman, and Norman. In the evening the house was full again.

Brother Carl Newton and David Main have been seriously ill, but now both are recovering.

The Guaymis of Northwestern Panama

By Geraldine Wyatt

AN APPROPRIATE BEGINNING would be a quotation taken from Doctor Le Plongeon's preface to his book, Queen Moo and the Egyptian Sphinx:

"In this work I offer no theory. In questions of history theories prove nothing. They are therefore out of place. I leave my readers to draw their own inferences from the facts presented for their consideration. One thing, however, is certain—neither their opinion nor mine will alter events that have happened in the dim past of which so little is known today."

Few white men have ever penetrated into the territory of the Guaymis, and among these few the greater number have been escorted back to the frontier with dire threats. A. Hyatt Verrill, was one of the smaller number, and was received, entertained, and adopted by this tribe. He gives a very interesting account of them in his book, Old Civilizations of the New World. An excerpt follows:

"Physically and mentally they are far superior to the other Central American tribes. They average much taller than most tropical Indians, and are well built and proportioned. Their color varies from an ocher or russet to a light olive, many of the women being no darker than a brunette white woman. The eyes are straight, fairly large and are not infrequently brown or hazel. The hair is rather fine and is a deep brown rather than black, and in the case of the women is often decidedly tawny."

He proceeds to give a very elaborate description of them, their homes, habits and so forth. But the most interesting part is his recounting of a tradition of theirs. It is as follows:

"According to this tradition, the Chimus' ancestors arrived by way of the sea in a great fleet of rafts or canoes. . . . Following the death of their first ruler there were eleven successors, until the time when the kingdom was abolished and the people established a true republic."

All of the kings are not recorded in the Book of Mormon. I think there are something like five mentioned in the interval between the death of Lehi, and the beginning of the reign of the judges. But the Book of Mormon does record the names of the different men who kept the sacred records. After the death of Lehi, eleven different people had charge of the plates: Nephi came first and conferred them upon Jacob, his brother. Jacob passed them to his son Enos. Enos in turn passed them to his son Jarom. His son Omni was next. Omni's son Amaron came next, and then they were conferred to Amaron's brother Chemish. Chemish gave them to his son Abinadom. Abinadom passed them on to his son Amaleki. Amaleki, having no children, gave them to King Benjamin. King Benjamin's son Mosiah was the last king. It must be taken into consideration, that no true number of generations can be deducted from this list, because the plates did not pass from father to son throughout the entire time.

In conclusion, an interesting feature is that this tribe of Indians is now ruled by three chiefs, at the head of whom is one of the three. This king is always called Montezuma.

Reunion Schedule

Please send in changes for this schedule immediately.

DISTRICT	PLACE	TIME
Owen Sound	Port Elgin, Ontario	July 2 to 9
Eastern Montana	Fairview, Montana	July 7 to 9
Central Texas	Hearne	July 14 to 23
Southern Saskatchewan	Weyburn Plains,	July 19 to 23
Kentucky-Tennessee	Puryear, Tennessee	July 22 to 30
Southern New England	Onset	July 22 to August 6
Nauvoo	Nauvoo	July 23 to 30
Northern Saskatchewan	Saskatoon,	July 27 to 30
Lamoni	Lamoni	July 28 to August 6
Toronto	Lowbanks	July 29 to August 12
Alberta	Edmonton	Aug. 4 to 6
Oklahoma	Canton, Oklahoma	Aug. 4 to 13
Northwestern	Silver Lake	Aug. 4 to 13
Northern and Western Michigan	Park of the Pines	Aug. 4 to 13
Spring River	Columbus, Kansas	Aug. 4 to 13
Eastern and Western Maine	Brooksville	Aug. 12 to 19
Kirtland Combined Reunion	Kirtland	Aug. 10 to 20
Northwestern Iowa	Woodbine, Iowa	Aug. 11 to 20
Far West Stake	Stewartsville	Aug. 17 to 27
Western Montana	Race Track	Aug. 18 to 27
Southeast Illinois	Brush Creek	Aug. 25 to Sept. 3
Idaho		Aug. 16 to 20
West. Oklahoma	Eagle City, Oklahoma	Aug. 5 to 13

THE FIRST PRESIDENCY,
By F. M. MCDOWELL.

www.LatterDayTruth.org

The Bulletin Board

Notice of Appointment of Bishop's Agent

Notice is hereby given that Brother Monte Lasater has been appointed to act as Bishop's Agent, until further notice, of the Seattle and British Columbia, and Spokane Districts, taking over the work previously handled by Bishop D. S. McDole, recently deceased.

The loss of Brother McDole is felt very keenly in official circles of the church, as well as in the districts he served, as he gave unreservedly of his time and energy in furthering the cause of Zion and during his period of service as a Bishop made an outstanding contribution to the church.

Brother Mark Yeoman has been appointed as Bishop's Agent of the Portland District, which work was also previously supervised by Bishop McDole.

We hereby commend these brethren to the Saints in the respective districts asking for their whole-hearted support in this phase of the work of the church.

Solicitors of the Seattle and British Columbia, and Spokane Districts will send their reports, beginning as of this date to Monte Lasater, 4115 Bagley Avenue, Seattle, Washington.

Solicitors of the Portland District will send their reports to Mark Yeoman, whose address is 3723 N. E. Fifteenth Avenue, Portland, Oregon.

THE PRESIDING BISHOPRIC,
By G. L. DELAPP.

Approved by:
THE FIRST PRESIDENCY,
By F. M. SMITH.

Appointment of Bishop's Agent

Notice is hereby given that Samuel Worrell has been appointed to take over the work of Bishop's Agent in the New York and Philadelphia District, succeeding Bishop John Zimmermann, sr.

Bishop Zimmermann has served the church a great many years in the work of the Bishopric, and we wish to take this opportunity of expressing appreciation for the splendid work in the past. It now seems advisable to give him some relief from the details and active work in the above district, and we have, therefore, made the above appointment.

Brother Worrel comes very highly recommended by those who know him and have been associated with him. We are very glad to recommend him to the Saints of the New York and Philadelphia District and solicit their whole hearted support in this phase of the work of the church.

We hereby request that the solicitors send their June and subsequent reports to Brother Worrell, 2455 North Front Street, Philadelphia, Pennsylvania.

THE PRESIDING BISHOPRIC,
By G. L. DELAPP.

Approved by:
THE FIRST PRESIDENCY,
By F. M. SMITH.

Conference Notice

A special meeting is to be held at Highland Branch, Ohio, on July 8 and 9, and we urge all who can to attend. The first service will be on Saturday afternoon at three o'clock, at which time we would like to have a general discussion relative to increasing the devotional attitude of the ministry of Southern Ohio District. Preaching on Saturday evening, and services all day on Sunday. The first service on Sunday, July 9, will be sacrament at 8 a. m.—A. E. Anderton, district president.

No Reunion for Southwestern Texas

Because of lack of funds and the necessity for economy, the reunion committee has found it impossible to hold a reunion in the Southwestern Texas District this year. We recommend to any who might have been able to attend this one to go to Hearne, Texas reunion.—J. A. Robinson, T. J. Jett, jr., Rauss Eastham, committee.

Our Departed Ones

BRUNSON.—Rolla Adair Brunson, son of George M. and Hazel Brunson was born March 18, 1921, and died at Mercy Hospital, Kansas City, Missouri, April 29, 1933. He was baptized into the Reorganized Church of Jesus Christ of Latter Day Saints, June 16, 1929. He leaves to mourn his mother, father, three brothers, Wallace, Earl, and Wayne; one sister, Bonnie Lee; his grandparents; uncles, aunts, and cousins, and friends. The funeral was conducted by Frank McDonald; sermon by George Jenkins; interment was in Mound Grove Cemetery, Independence, Missouri.

HAYER.—Goodman L. Hayer, the son of Austin and Elizabeth Jacobs Hayer, was born November 12, 1848, in Lee County, Iowa. His mother died when he was two years of age. August 9, 1869, he married Miss Malina Hegland, of Canton, Minnesota. He and his wife were baptized into the church October 13, 1878. His wife preceded him in death in 1919; one son, Walter T., in 1907, and two daughters in infancy. He died at his home at Seneca, Illinois, March 10, 1933. He leaves to mourn his passing two sons, Albert E. and Zenas M., and one daughter, Mrs. Oscar H. Johnson, eight grandchildren and four great-grandchildren, all of Seneca, Illinois. Also two sisters, Mrs. Emma Wildey, of Fair Play, Missouri, and Mrs. Electa Hoie, of Seneca, Illinois. Funeral services were held at the Mission Church, Elder R. E. Davey preached the sermon. Interment was made in Section Cemetery.

NELSON.—Sarah Elizabeth Danielson was born August 28, 1870, in Ruland Township, Illinois. She passed away June 10, 1933. On September 18, 1897, she was married to Nick Nelson. To this union there was born one son, Truman. She became a member of the Reorganized Church of Jesus Christ of Latter Day Saints, May 3, 1896, remaining steadfast until the time of her death. She is survived by her husband, her son, five grandchildren, two sisters, and two brothers. Elder R. E. Davey preached the sermon in the Mission Church. Interment was made in Section Cemetery.

OLSEN.—Sarah Ann Elefsen, daughter of Elef and Ann Elefson, was born in Miller Township, LaSalle County, Illinois, July 19, 1863, and died June 12, 1933. She was married on March 4, 1886, to John Olsen. To this union were born eleven children. Mr. Olsen and three children, Addie, Amos, and an infant child preceded her in death. Eva Godwin, Celia, Ruby Varland, Oliver, Thressa Nelson, Stella Williamson, Truman, and Jesse, all of this vicinity live to mourn her death. On October 2, 1878, she united with the Reorganized Church of Jesus Christ of Latter Day Saints. Interment was in Brumback Cemetery.

LANE.—Jennie D. Lane was born November 26, 1876, in Monona County, Iowa, and died at Saint Joseph's Hospital at Sioux City, Iowa, Monday, June 12, 1933. She was united in marriage to J. W. Reilly on February 19, 1901, at Onaway, Iowa. To this union five

Not A Matter Of Sentiment

But a matter of good judgment. Buy a home on the present low prices and enjoy the inevitable rise in values. Your church bonds and notes are as good as cash.

5 rooms—modern—near Walnut Park Church	$2,250
5 rooms—modern except heat—west end of town	1,500
4 rooms—partly modern—southeast part of town	1,250
5 rooms—modern—near square	2,000

CENTRAL DEVELOPMENT ASSOCIATION
221 West Lexington Street
Independence, Mo.

or

THE PRESIDING BISHOPRIC
The Auditorium
Independence, Mo.

www.LatterDayTruth.org

children were born: Scott L.; Daisy D. Berg, Fred A.; Charles W.; and Jenivee W. All survive with the exception of Charles who preceeded her in death March 18, 1929. She was baptized into the Reorganized Church of Latter Day Saints at the age of fourteen years, and continued to be a faithful member through life. The members of the immediate family who survive are her husband, four children, five grandchildren; her father, J. W. Lane; two sisters, Mrs. Tillie Reeves, of Pleasanton, Iowa; Mrs. Olive Johnson, of Moorhead, Iowa; three brothers, J. Arthur Lane, of Lamoni, Iowa; John P. Lane, of Mount Ayr, Iowa, and Charles R. Lane, of Rosalie, Nebraska. The funeral services were held at the home Wednesday, with Ira Lewis, of Decatur, in charge. Reverend F. A. Fry preached the sermon. Interment was made in Lyons Cemetery.

CAMPBELL.—Martha McCullough was born at Ontario, Canada, In 1856, and departed this life at the home of her daughter, Mrs. Florence Levitt, Lexington, Michigan, June 8, 1933. She was united in marriage to H. G. Campbell in Sanlic County, Michigan, and to this union were born seven sons and five daughters all of whom survive. They are W. J. Campbell, Independence, Missouri; Henry, David, Willard, of Detroit, Michigan; Thomas, of Deckerville, Michigan; Russel, Mrs. Jennie Booth, and Mrs. Etta Young, of Sandusky, Michigan; Elmer, of McGregor, Michigan; Mrs. Elsie Braidwood, Lavina, South Dakota; Mrs. Rose Standard, Detroit, Michigan; and Mrs. Florence Levitt, Lexington, Michigan. She also leaves to mourn fifty-one grandchildren, and twenty-nine great-grandchildren, two brothers, Tom and Dave McCullough, and Mrs. Ellon Rich, a sister. Funeral services were held at the home of her son. Burial was in Mound Grove Cemetery.

LOGEMAN.—John Henry Logeman, was born at Columbus, Wisconsin, February 3, 1855, and he passed away at the home of his son, Jerard H. Logeman, of Independence, Missouri, early the morning of June 12, 1933. He was married to Abbie Rose Watson at Creighton, Nebraska, in 1890, and to this union were born three sons and one daughter, all of whom survive. They are, Jerard H. and Ammon E., of Independence, Missouri; Arden D., of Riverside, California, and Mrs. Cynthia Delong, Andover, Missouri. He is also survived by one brother, William, of Scotland, Nebraska, and nine grandchildren. He was baptized a member of the church October 26, 1896, and to the end he remained a true follower of the Christ. Funeral services were Wednesday, June 14, 1933, at the Walnut Park Church. Interment was in Mound Grove Cemetery.

CLASSIFIED ADS

Rates 3 cents per word first insertion; 20 per cent discount on subsequent insertions. Minimum 75 cents per insertion.

REGARDING ADVERTISING

While we exercise care in the acceptance of advertisements appearing in these columns, we can not guarantee full satisfaction between buyer and seller and we therefore advise that in every instance a proper investigation be made by all parties concerned.

HIGH SCHOOL COURSE in two years; meets all requirements for entrance to college, business, and leading professions. Diploma given. Address Education, Herald Publishing House, Independence, Missouri. 26-25-34

WHY BE WITHOUT songbooks when $6.98 buys 100 Songs of the Centennial. July and August only. Herald Publishing House. 27-3t*

WANTED: Situation in Illinois, Iowa, or Missouri, by experienced farm hand. Good milker, young, single, mechanical experience. Good references. Now employed. George Hayden, Bangor, Michigan. 27-2t*

WANTED: Rebuilt Two-Unit Portable Hinman Electric Milker: "R" Herald Publishing House, Independence, Missouri. 25-2t*

THE NEW Analytical Bible is meeting a hearty welcome. Priced from $7.75 up. Write for literature, Herald Publishing House, Independence, Missouri. 27-3t*

CENTURY OF PROGRESS visitors: Rooms and garage. Address, Joshua Evans, 5153 Wolfram Street, Chicago, Illinois. 27-3t*

COMMERCIAL PRINTING to suit at prices that will satisfy. Herald Publishing House, Independence, Missouri. 27-3t*

DON'T WISH!

Thousands are making extra money in one or other of the phases of fur and game farming. Ten cents brings you the most practical magazine on the market in this field. Others are making extra money—why not you?

Address

Fur Farming & Trapping
Bunceton, Missouri

Good advice

BE STRONG

God wants us to be strong in mind, body and spirit. We must be an asset to the church, we must be active and frugal. If you want something done get in touch with the busy Saint. Eat the best of foods, they are not expensive in the end. Don't waste so much on foods to tickle the palate. The ice house and the green house are not much of an asset to health. Vegetables out of season cause many deaths and so does the ice house. Don't bank too much on Ice Cream. This is a big heat producer. Fruits and vegetables in their season are far superior.

A little Phosfo added to the fruit is wonderful. Why not get a can and start on the road to Health? What will a dollar bring you at the doctor's office? Often you have the same thing in the kitchen cabinet. Only about 5 drugs used that are not poisonous by nature.

A can of Phosfo delivered anywhere at $1.00. 3 cans in U. S. at $2.00 for awhile. 5 lbs. bulk only $2.50.

A. B. KLAR, FOOD SPECIALIST
Dover, Ohio

Free advice

NOW ONLY $1 [Value $3.50]

EVERLAST PEN-PENCIL

THIS IS 2/3 SIZE OF JUMBO

GUARANTEED FOR LIFE!

Think of it—a fine fountain pen at one end and a mechanical pencil with extra leads and eraser at the other. The pen alone is worth several dollars, and with the pencil thrown in you get the biggest value ever offered in this field.

The Everlast Combination is of such good workmanship and material that we GUARANTEE IT FOR LIFE. Made of beautiful DuPont Pyrolin, it has a Durium GOLD NIB that writes exceptionally well and stands up under most severe usage.

A Jumbo Size in black for men and boys and a Dainty Size in black and exquisite mottled colors for women and girls.

Attach $1.00 Bill to Coupon and Mail

LIFETIME PEN & PENCIL CO.
Care of Herald Publishing House
Independence, Mo.

Inclosed find $1.00 for which please send me prepaid one Everlast Pen-Pencil with lifetime guarantee.

Print Name .....

Address .....

City & State .....

Size ☐ Jumbo ☐ Medium

Note: If you want your name imprinted in gold add 25 cents.

www.LatterDayTruth.org

And So—

"In a sterner age when men were in rather constant danger of losing this life they thought frequently concerning the 'next life.' Our fathers of a generation ago quite generally accepted immortality as a matter of course: the religious believed in it devoutly and prepared for the experiences of the world to come, while the irreligious also believed (and sometimes trembled) and often made an eleventh hour effort to readjust their lives through deathbed repentance."

Thus begins one of the most interesting bits of church literature published in the present generation.

What Latter Day Saints Believe About Immortality

By ELBERT A. SMITH

25 Cents Each (Postpaid in U. S. A.)

Worth twice the price—Vital to every life—Read it.
60 Pages Beautifully Bound in Substantial Paper Bindings.

Available At The

HERALD PUBLISHING HOUSE

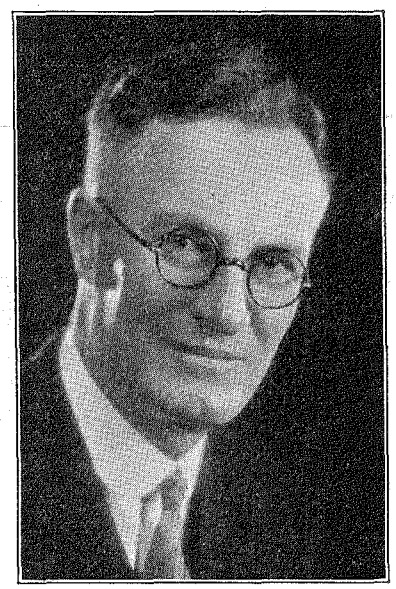
"Offering The Best In Church Literature"

WARD A. HOUGAS, Manager INDEPENDENCE, MISSOURI

www.LatterDayTruth.org

H O Smith
711 S Butler
Indep Mo

The Saints' Herald



M. A. McConley
Of the Quorum of Twelve

M. A. McConley

discusses

"That Which Endures"

A FOURTH PRIZE HERALD CONTEST STORY

"Cast Thy Bread Upon the Waters"

By Fair Loomis

Worship Programs for August, 1933

Volume 80 July 11, 1933 Number 28

www.LatterDayTruth.org

THE SAINTS' HERALD

July 11, 1933

Volume 80 Number 28

FREDERICK M. SMITH, Editor in Chief.
ELBERT A. SMITH, Associate Editor.
FLOYD M. McDOWELL, Associate Editor
LEONARD J. LEA, Managing Editor.
LETA B. MORIARTY, Assistant Editor.
WARD A. HOUGAS, Business Manager.

Entered as second-class matter at the post office at Independence, Missouri, under Act of March 3, 1879. Issued weekly at Independence, Missouri. Price $2 a year in advance for the U. S. A., its territories and possessions, and Canada; foreign, $3 a year. Accepted for mailing at the special rate of postage provided for in section 1103, Act of October 3, 1917; authorized July 21, 1921.

Published for the Reorganized Church of Jesus Christ of Latter Day Saints.

HERALD PUBLISHING HOUSE

INDEPENDENCE, MISSOURI

CONTENTS

EDITORIAL:
- The Missionary Spirit 867
- A Memoir of Bishop D. S. McDole 867
- Woman—Artist—Mother 868
- We Are Sorry! 868
- Would Exchange Branch Papers 869

OFFICIAL:
- Comparative Statement of Income for Month of May 1932 and 1933 869

THE YOUTH'S FORUM:
- Elmwood Young People Get Ready to Work 870
- A Thought for Today 870
- Question Marks 870
- Youth in Action 870

NEWS BRIEFS 871

ARTICLES:
- The Young People and the Work of the Church 872
- That Which Endures, by M. A. McConley 873
- "Cast Thy Bread Upon the Waters," by Fair Loomis 875
- Weekly Health Letter, by A. W. Teel, M. D. 877
- Saving Men, Not Civilization 879
- Immortality, a Poem 880
- Prayer and Testimony 883
- Question Time, by A. B. Phillips 884
- Signs of the Times and Pre-Millennial World Events, by E. B. Hull 885

WORSHIP SERVICES FOR AUGUST, 1933:
- The Church School 878
- The Children's Division 879

NEWS OF CHURCH AND HOME 887

THE BULLETIN BOARD 893

The Pigeonhole

He Certainly Would!

Dear Pigeonhole: The lady who tells the news over a certain radio station each morning, had just finished the morning portion including crime, murder, suicide, divorce, kidnaping, theft, etc., and having finished, announced, "Miss So-and-So will now sing for us, 'Take Time to Be Holy.'"

Had the Pigeon been around he would have said, "I think it was about time somebody took the time!"

Yours, MARCELLA SCHENCK.

Pigeonette

She is getting initiated into the ways of housekeeping. "Every day," she mourns, "I have to clean this ledge by your window. And I no sooner get it done than the Pigeon will be along and moult feathers all over it." She considered: "I think a domestic history of the world would be just a long pageant of men stalking around making a litter, and the women coming after them cleaning it up."

The A B C's

A silly fad among the schools in the last dozen years or more has been the "advanced" notion of not bothering to teach children the alphabet, because they could not see the use of this "rote memory" exercise. People who insisted that children ought to learn it were "old fogies."

The result has been that the grammar schools have sent youngsters to high school and on to college who can not use a dictionary, who do not know how to look up a word when they are uncertain of the spelling, and who cannot use a card catalogue. One wonders how they even manage a telephone directory.

Whether in scholarship or business, a knowledge of the alphabet is as important as a knowledge of the digits of arithmetic. Looking over the products of the schools, one wonders what teachers find to teach children so important that they cannot teach the A B C's.

Gossip

A story is told at headquarters of how the chief of police in a distant city who is also an active member played a practical joke upon a visiting general church officer. The church officer (we shall not name his office!) had asked the chief to meet him at the railway station. When he looked around for the chief he saw no one. In a few moments, however, a pair of husky policemen approached him, touched him on the shoulder, and said, "We want you!"

Astonished, the church officer protested, "This is a mistake! I am no criminal!"

"We never make mistakes!" barked the policemen in unison. "Come along with us. Tell it to the judge." And other witty remarks that are only witty when uttered by policemen.

A long ride in the patrol wagon. And then finally light dawned when the church officer faced his friend the chief of police, who was grinning broadly at him across a captain's desk!

www.LatterDayTruth.org

Editorial

The Missionary Spirit

The work of the missionary in these latter days is difficult; difficult because people are hard to approach, because they have been besieged with efforts to sell them every sort of thing under the sun, difficult because they have encased themselves in an armor of sales resistance, difficult because they are satisfied with themselves, their thoughts, their ways of life, their cheap morals, and their shallow spirituality. Through such a case-hardened armor of self-satisfaction it is hard to break. The minister of religion faces a world that is cold, cynical, suspicious and materialistic. The work of the missionary was hard enough when the church could put many of them into the field. It is even harder when the church can maintain only a small group of men upon whom responsibility for evangelizing the world rests.

In circumstances like these it is necessary for the members of the local church officers to undertake efforts to spread the knowledge of the gospel among their neighbors and friends. Our fathers and mothers in the church talked about religion at every opportunity. Like Saint Paul, they were "not ashamed of the gospel of Jesus Christ." They rejoiced that the light of that gospel had come to them; that salvation and the hope of eternal life was theirs. They rejoiced to be counted among the membership of a people whose lives were reclaimed from the world and dedicated to the service of the Master. They sang with real feeling "Shout the Tidings of Salvation" and many other songs that indicated the power of a triumphant and confident way of spiritual life.

Somehow we have not yet learned fully to share their exultant joy in the great privileges and blessings which the gospel brought to them and which it quite as surely can bring to us. Until we can be set on fire, too, with that burning desire to share the great blessings with others, it can hardly be said that we have begun to taste the ministrations of the Holy Spirit. We are grateful that salvation and a new way of spiritual life have come to us. The outcome of that gratitude should be a desire to share with others the blessings that we enjoy.

Our church is and must ever be a missionary church. We were at the beginning and ought ever to be a missionary people.

Every member who is seriously concerned about his duty will ask himself, "What can I do to contribute my part to this work?" The answer is simple, but putting it into action may be hard. As officers and members, every one of us can do his part to see that the church shall be a suitable place to receive and to instruct not only the members of the faith but those who are strangers to it. All of us can do something toward keeping up the church home, paying for its expenses, providing for its beautification. We can each do our part to see that we are orderly, reverent, and quiet in church and encourage our children to be so likewise.

Moreover, when the church home has become the place it ought to be, we can invite our neighbors and friends to join with us in the services, particularly on those occasions when a missionary effort is being made or some especially fine program is being presented.

The early church grew with phenomenal rapidity because the members became, after their baptism and confirmation, tireless missionaries for the cause. No one was baptized but was set afire with missionary zeal to win souls for Christ.

We must regain that spirit—we must work in that way if the world is to be evangelized and if Zion is to be built.

L. L.

A Memoir of Bishop D. S. McDole

For some days before the passing of Bishop D. S. McDole telegrams from Seattle had kept us informed of his critical condition, and these telegrams had to an extent prepared us for the sad news that he had finally succumbed; yet when there came information of his passing it was with a shock. A little over a year ago I had gone to Seattle and officiated at his consecration as bishop. His ordination was followed by a period of great activity in the office to which he was called, and in addition to the work of the bishopric in the Seattle and British Columbia District, he was soon asked to supervise that work in the Spokane District; and a little later there was added to his responsibility the task of supervising the financial work of the Portland District. With his usual promptness and efficiency the work was systematized and handled with good results to the church.

Not only was he active and energetic as bishop, but as a counselor, adviser, friend, preacher, and teacher, he had won a place in the hearts of the Saints of the Northwest that was to be envied. He was not only respected, but loved.

His passing brought grief not only to his family but to a host of friends and to the whole membership of the church in the Northwest, where his ministrations were uplifting and spiritually encouraging. His ability to win and hold friends and the respect of associates was attested by the many persons who came to his bier to pay their respects by their presence and floral tributes. The funeral obsequies were held in the Civic Auditorium in Seattle, and many evidences of sorrow at his passing spoke eloquently of the position he had won in the hearts of his friends and acquaintances. I would that all our members might so deport themselves that they could approximate the achievement of our departed brother in winning and holding the love, respect, and confidence of his associates and fellow workers.

www.LatterDayTruth.org

The Saints of the Northwest feel their loss keenly, as do we of the church generally, but with faith they are lifting up heads bowed in grief and with chastened hearts are carrying on in the cause our brother loved and in which he so zealously labored and they will carry on knowing that is just what he would have them do.

We pause in the flight of time, and think our time is short. How shall we spend it? In those things which make up a spiritual heritage which will leave the world better. Such heritages are left by the men who look beyond the grave, whose hope reaches into eternity. Such men have an abiding trust in God, a trust which prompts obedience to divine law and mandates, an observance of ideals which makes them thoughtful and considerate husbands, kind and yet forceful fathers, trusted neighbors, useful citizens, honorable business men. The day needs such men.

F. M. S.

Woman—Artist—Mother

It is not a letter, just a clipping from a newspaper. But it struck a responsive chord.

Madame Schumann-Heink has been one of the most popular of grand opera and concert singers, and for many years has entertained the public by using her splendid voice in musical interpretation. But it is not her voice alone which has held the approbation of the public. She is possessed of the womanly instincts and charms free from the ostentation and pretense which are too frequently displayed by those whose talents have captured the capricious fancy of what we term the public. She is a mother devoted to her family and proud of the fact that by the blessings of Deity she has been permitted to function in the prime purpose of womanhood—motherhood. She is, and has always been, woman and mother first, grand opera and concert singer next. This the public senses, and her charm as woman and mother has held the love and approval of her audiences and enriched to them the sweetment and quality of her fine voice. It may even be said that her very attitude of holding herself to be first a woman and mother, added to the rich experiences brought when in these capacities has impressed upon her musical qualifications a sympathy and depth of understanding which, reflected in the intonations of her songs, have loomed large as factors in holding and pleasing her listening public. And it is likely to be so always. Age and waning powers may mar her technique; but her very loyalty to her womanly ideals and devotion to family will still cause her to be loved and admired by her audiences though her voice may crack and waver with the tremulosity of old age.

She is seventy-two years old, celebrated that anniversary June 15th, and she says she will sing so long as people will come to listen, and when they stop listening she'll go out on the desert and yodel. If she does, there will be those who will want to hear her.

In an interview given on her birthday anniversary, she gave expression to some inhibitions which have prevailed in her life which I heartily commend to our young women, and I might say men, too. Said she: "I never drink, smoke, or go to bridge parties." She had too much to do as woman, mother, student, and singer to waste either physical powers, time, or energy in doing those worse than idle things. She had too deep a sense of responsibility as woman and mother to permit herself to vitiate her powers or lessen her capacity to transmit to her children the richest and best heritage of which she was capable.

Her loyalty to ideals, as much as her richly vibrant voice, has won and held the respect and admiration of those who love to hear her sing.

F. M. S.

We Are Sorry!

A mistake that was not the fault of the author crept into the article, "Central American Writing," by M. H. Morgan, in the Herald of July 4, 1933, page 845. A sentence near the bottom of the right hand column gives the date 284 A. D., but should be corrected to read, "Mormon hid the vast accumulation of plates in his hands in the Hill Cumorah, 384 A. D." We hereby make our apologies to the author.

The Sunday newspaper costs you five dollars a year. The Saints' Herald costs two dollars a year. If you must choose between them, which will it be?

www.LatterDayTruth.org

OFFICIAL

Comparative Statement of Income for Month of May 1932 and 1933

It is to be noted that the income for May, 1933, from the United States and Canada is $1,651.99 less than for the same month a year ago. The income from other countries is shown separately as it is not available to meet cash requirements of the church at home. Also because some of the figures for other countries represent several months receipts which are entered upon our books during the month in which the reports are received. Australia is to be commended for the splendid showing made which was the result of a sacrifice period held recently.

We present the per capita contributions for the consideration of the membership at large as well as for the district and branch officers. Additional figures showing the number of contributors, etc., are being sent to bishops, bishop's agents and solicitors. It is quite obvious that there is need for increased activity on the part of officers and members to increase the per capita contributions as it is impossible to carry on the work of the church efficiently with so little income. The ten highest stakes and districts in per capita contributions for the month of May, 1933, are as follows:

London, Ontario	$ .36
Independence Stake	.33
Western Oklahoma	.32
Northern California	.29
Kansas City Stake	.27
Southern New England	.26
Far West Stake	.25
Southern Ohio	.24
Spring River District	.23
Central Texas	.21

Comparative figures for all districts are as follows:

District	May, 1932	May, 1933	Per Capita May, 1933
Independence Stake	$ 1,454.08	$ 2,099.60	$ .33
Far West Stake	341.39	649.11	.25
Holden Stake	239.30	153.64	.07
Kansas City Stake	736.13	813.22	.27
Lamoni Stake	335.83	313.50	.14
Alabama	121.58	29.20	.04
Alberta	113.54	102.66	.17
Arizona	91.09	42.19	.14
Arkansas	24.02	12.41	.02
California, N.	455.07	630.65	.29
California, S.	325.68	448.48	.17
Chatham	151.59	282.82	.20
Clinton	99.83	124.89	.11
Colorado, E.	186.06	181.03	.10
Colorado, W.	18.54	24.10	.07
Des Moines	257.68	180.46	.11
Detroit	641.11	389.90	.12
*Florida	— 7.16
Idaho	62.83	51.26	.07
Illinois, C.	32.30	36.95	.05
Illinois, N. E.	212.78	273.24	.19
Illinois, S. E.	96.82	47.91	.04
Indiana, S.	118.70	34.63	.05
Iowa, N. W.	672.13	255.10	.09
Iowa, S. W.	139.16	136.96	.07
Kansas, N. E.	59.70	39.28	.05
Kansas, N. W.	16.00	6.35	.01
Kansas, S. W.	96.65	62.92	.10
Kentucky and Tennessee	21.52	5.72	.01
Kirtland	578.63	228.46	.12
London	406.06	351.27	.36
Maine, E.	110.38	51.74	.09
Maine, W.	83.88	91.59	.14
Michigan, C.	102.21	297.96	.16
Michigan, E.	388.64	230.08	.12
Michigan, N.	75.93	155.88	.11
Michigan, S., and Indiana, N.	415.37	280.21	.12
Michigan, W.	269.09	68.77	.08
Minnesota	61.59	52.94	.07
Missouri, S.	74.45	59.36	.06
Mobile	31.92	46.94	.05
Montana, E.	5.52	21.50	.08
Montana, W.	77.48	39.73	.07
Nauvoo	141.38	68.07	.05
Nebraska, C.	22.68	37.86	.08
Nebraska, N. E.	135.91	97.81	.07
Nebraska, N. W., and Black Hills	11.80	39.50	.06
Nebraska, S.	138.52	103.71	.14
New England, S.	356.50	297.98	.26
New York	204.21	88.12	.14
New York and Philadelphia	284.38	301.47	.20
North Dakota	60.43	19.34	.04
Ohio, N. W.	113.25	103.20	.18
Ohio, S.	349.15	483.35	.24
Oklahoma, E.		13.95	.02
Oklahoma, C.	167.23	17.00	.01
Oklahoma, W.	169.03	237.52	.32
Owen Sound	274.75	245.08	.17
Pittsburgh	119.75	104.09	.17
Portland	98.79	130.17	.14
Rock Island	521.93	204.98	.12
Saint Louis	120.86	152.04	.10
*Saskatchewan, N.	— 38.05	10.15	.01
Saskatchewan, S.	7.00	23.00	.05
Seattle and British Columbia	592.98
Spokane	76.60
Spring River	213.32	450.57	.23
Texas, C.	80.76	139.90	.21
Texas, S. W.	26.99	65.73	.08
Toronto	305.49	181.62	.09
Utah	17.07	17.43	.04
West Virginia	84.97	18.77	.05
Wheeling	239.60	27.30	.04
Winnipeg	2.86	6.25	.04
Wisconsin, N.	109.52	86.94	.13
Wisconsin, S.	97.57	116.84	.19
Unorganized	101.99	57.98	.07
	$15,004.32	$13,352.33
Australia	$ 1,901.26
British Isles	540.53
Germany	322.93
Hawaii	84.89	333.57
Norway and Sweden	9.05	10.75
Society Isles	163.28	41.93
Foreign Unorganized	23.76	20.00
Total	$18,050.02	$13,758.58

(*Adjustments made in May covering corrections for previous months show these figures as a minus.)

Would Exchange Branch Papers

Don La Rae, assistant editor of the San Francisco Zion Builder, writes that he would be glad to exchange branch papers with editors of similar branch publications. Address him at 139 Vista Grande Avenue, San Francisco, California.

Branch papers, some of them typewritten, some mimeographed, and one of them printed, furnish a source of interest and activity, especially for enterprising young people. The Editors of the Herald are always glad to receive copies of these papers, and frequently obtain items of news as well as good original contributions from them.

This world cannot be made over again upon a desk in a study or by people who are unwilling to take off their coats and sometimes get down and grub in the dirt, but it can be made over by such people as are willing under the influence of the Spirit freely, humbly, and devotedly to give the full measure of their strength and power, and seek Him in humility for more power to give again.—F. Henry Edwards.

www.LatterDayTruth.org

Youth's Forum

A Page of Thought and Discussion for the Young People of the Church

Elmwood Young People Get Ready to Work

An Appraisal at Prayer Meeting

Art Blanchard had been for some time the leader of the young people of Elmwood. With the help of his wife, Lillian, he had been able to bring them out to church activities and services with fair regularity. On the previous Sacrament Sunday he had been ordained to the priesthood. The young people, naturally proud of him, came out in full force for their next prayer meeting. In his opening remarks, Art referred to the Youth Conference:

"Since the Lamoni conference, I have been trying to take a measure of the young people here in Elmwood as members of the church. The conference taught all of us something about the church, its work, and ideals, and showed us the splendid army of young people that are gathering to its service. I wonder if we are in step with the others; or are we pampering ourselves with privileges and exemptions from responsibilities merely because we are young. I'd like to hear from some of you who can tell us what you gained from the conference."

For a time there was a thoughtful silence. Then Timmy Walsh arose:

"I have always known that quality is more important than quantity. But the conference brought home to me for the first time the real importance of mass and numbers. Just to know that we are a part of a great movement, and not a little handful of people struggling for a lost cause—to know that so many others believe as we do and are willing to sacrifice for the same ideals—has been a great cause of encouragement to me."

When no one else arose, Art called on Etta.

"The lesson I learned is that we need to grow up," said Etta. "As we approach manhood and womanhood, we must assume the responsibilities of maturity. The church cannot use us if we merely act like children who ought to be old enough to know better. But it can and will use us—and it really needs us—if we will act like what we should be, young men and women moved by the ideals of the gospel."

"It makes me ashamed to think what a baby I've been," said Margery Barnes, in a voice choked with emotion. "I'd like to start all over again, and make a new record for myself in this branch. I do want to help!"

When Mary March arose, there was a respectful and almost reverent silence.

"The kingdom of God is not our private possession. Young people are not the whole church and they are not a separate church. Nothing can be gained by pitting youth against age. We need to learn how to work together peacefully, happily, and fairly. It will take the combined contributions of all ages to realize the goals of the church. One thing we must do, and that is to realize our unity. God is calling us—all of us—to work together in the building of his kingdom."

"Well, Bill," said Art, "I haven't heard from you. What did you get out of the conference?"

Before Bill could get to his feet, a voice from the back called out: "Bill got a blonde!"

Bill flushed a good rich crimson under his coat of tan, and in the laughter that followed he did not dare to get up.

A Thought for Today

Make friends. Make friends and you will have friends. And the way to have them is to be a friend. No lasting friendship ever grew out of a selfish purpose. Friendship grows out of forgetfulness of self, love of others, and a willingness to think of them first. Think of their viewpoint—their desires, their preferences, their comfort, and their peace of mind.

Question Marks

Q.—I am nineteen and have been going with a young man who is not a church member. He is a good man, but not interested in any church. He has asked me to marry him, but my parents advise me against doing it. There are no young men in the church here of my own age, and it looks as if I must marry outside the church or not at all. What should I do?—K

A.—You might be happy with him for a while, but the chances are that he would take you away from the church, and that you would suffer from a feeling of spiritual loneliness and emptiness in after years. Few who marry outside the church succeed in bringing their mates into it. A large percentage are thus lost.

You ought to meet more young people of the church by visiting other branches, attending conferences and institutes. Not that you should purposely try to make a new match, but you should increase your contacts with church young people before deciding on so important a thing as your marriage. Out of these contacts you will develop some life-long friendships. And there is the chance that you may meet some one who will be a worthy companion.

Youth in Action

Frederick S. Anderson in Europe

The Graduate Magazine, University of Kansas, April, '33, contains a note of much interest to our young people. Frederick S. Anderson is the son of an associate pastor of the Central Kansas City Church, and is an active member of the young people's group at Central. He completed his university course at Lawrence in 1929, studied law in Kansas City and later took his M. A. degree in law at the University of Oklahoma.

Brother Anderson was chosen as one of an international debate team to tour the universities of England. This honor comes as a recognition of outstanding ability among recent graduates of the university. After completing their schedule the young men are touring Europe. Young people of the church join in congratulations.

We quote from the Graduate Magazine:

"Frederick S. Anderson, '29, and his colleague, Will Crews Morris of the University of Texas, have crossed the Atlantic. The American debate team was to arrive in England on April 26 and start touring British universities during the first week in May. This international team will meet the following institutions in the British Isles: Southampton University College, Bedford, King's, Birmingham, Aberystwith, Nottingham, Sheffield, Leeds, Manchester, Durham, Armstrong, Reading, Oxford and Cambridge. They will discuss the following questions: Is our capitalistic civilization a failure; should we support the principle of prohibition; is Bernard Shaw a menace to civilization; should the League of Nations be abandoned; is the communistic experiment in Russia a success?"

Australian Young People's Convention

Apostle G. G. Lewis, writing from Hamilton, New South Wales, Australia, says: "We have just had an excellent young people's convention in the Victoria District. It was their first. It was handled by the young people themselves under proper supervision. Very successful services were held of an educational, amusing and spiritual character. It has done them untold good.

"Wife and I are very well, as is Alice June."

www.LatterDayTruth.org

NEWS BRIEFS

Do You Know That—

Recently ten were ordained at Hammond, Indiana?

The young people at Milan, Michigan, have organized "The Clean Sport Club"?

A community sing is held each Tuesday night at Mobile, Alabama?

Nine were baptized recently at Blue Springs, Missouri?

A district picnic was sponsored by the young people of Flint, Michigan?

Six received religious education certificates following an accredited institute at Kirtland, Ohio?

Twenty Indians were recently baptized at the Indian Mission near Decatur, Nebraska?

Elder Frank Veenstra is with the Saints once again in Utah District?

The young people at Alaflora, Alabama, expect to have a conference this summer?

An institute was held in the interest of the church school at the Southern Michigan and Northern Indiana conference?

The Laurel Club of Grandview Church made thirty-three dollars at their semiannual bazaar and dinner, May 26, given in Kansas City?

Four children were blessed in the Kirtland Temple recently?

The Central High School A Cappella Choir, of Flint, Michigan, gave a Mother's Day concert at the church?

Elder W. Clyde Gault, of Detroit, is doing a good piece of work in leading the Milan Mission?

Will Send Student to Graceland

The Southern California Graceland Alumni Association will send a student to Graceland this year. This action was taken at the second meeting of the association in Bixby Park, Long Beach, June 24. Thirty were there for the meeting and picnic. "Thrills and joy," they say, "it is almost like going to Graceland again ourselves!"

Kirtland Prepares for Another Reunion

Historic Kirtland will be the meeting place of another highly popular reunion of the church, August 10 to 20. Many who experienced the divine blessings of the reunion there last year, will return; others will be there for the first time. All will be summoned to worship by the Temple bell.

It was ninety-seven years ago last March that Kirtland Temple was dedicated to the service of the Lord. One thousand people were present at this service, and Sidney Rigdon was the speaker.

Since that day the Temple has been the scene of many hallowed experiences. It is annually visited by hundreds of men and women eager to see the only temple on earth built at the express command of the Lord.

G. W. Leggott, British Pastor, Is Recovering

For a month Saints of North East Manchester Branch, England, were very anxious over the condition of their pastor, Elder G. W. Leggott. But a letter from Apostle John W. Rushton, dated June 26, brings word of his improvement.

Following an operation for cataract a number of weeks ago, Brother Leggott contracted a cold and heavy cough. This weakened him and caused the return of an old heart trouble. For many days his life hung in the balance.

Brother Leggott has given many years of faithful service to the Saints in England, and is known in America where he visited during a late General Conference.

Church Seals Awarded at Lorain, Ohio

Church seal pins were presented June 11, at Lorain, Ohio, to Sister F. T. Haynes, of Cleveland, and to Sisters Hazel and Ruth Minkler, of Wellington, as tokens of appreciation of their work which has entitled them to the possession of Gold Seal Certificates in religious education. This presentation took place during the Sunday school hour.

Churches Observe Anniversaries

The cornerstone of the Kirtland Temple was set in place one hundred years ago this July 23. Many people have passed over the holy threshold of the building since 1833, and many will, no doubt, plan to visit the structure to help the Saints commemorate this anniversary.

The church at Grandview, Kansas, commemorated the tenth anniversary of their present church home, June 25. A special all-day service was enjoyed, and most of the district officers were present.

The sixth anniversary of the Second Church, Columbus, Ohio, was observed, June 18.

Also on June 18, a special service was held to commemorate the fifteenth anniversary of the church at Waterloo, Iowa. Elder V. A. Hall, of Willoughby, Ohio, was asked to give a review of the history of the branch. Brother Hall was the first president of the branch.

www.LatterDayTruth.org

The Young People and the Work of the Church

During the Youth Conference one of the "Forums" gave much time to the consideration of the part that young people might play in the work of the church. Addresses were given on each of the following subjects: "Young People and the Missionary Task," "Young People and the Financial Program," "Young People in the Local Branch." Following the addresses committees were appointed composed of both leaders and young people. Reports of these committees were turned over to a "Findings" committee. The following is a brief summary attempting to set forth the attitude of the young people toward the church and the part they desire to play therein. The statement contains so much of merit that we pass it on to the readers of the "Herald." This document was not formally approved by the Conference.—The Editors.

The young people present at the convention have felt the love of our heavenly Father and are eager to assist in building his Kingdom. We thank God for his many gifts to us, and particularly for his church and for the good men and women connected with it whose lives are an inspiration to the young.

As we approach the close of our convention, we wish to affirm our loyalty to God and to his church and to express our desire to enter more fully into its work in the several branches where we reside.

We seek no greater honor than to carry our share of the work entrusted to all. Our most immediate contribution, and possibly the most effective, will be through enrichment of the services of our local branches. This we hope to do by developing our talents and making them available as may be needed in the church school, in musical activities, in dramatic work, and in various other ways.

We appreciate the interest of our leaders in our recreational needs, and hope to develop a constantly better type of leisure time activity, but we seek to be given a responsible though subordinate part in the church task rather than to be provided with a round of activities which merely entertain. It will help us to make an effective contribution if ideas which have been used to advantage in various church centers can be shared with us in time for us to incorporate them into our plans and to submit them to our local leaders for approval.

We believe that we should carry our share of the financial burden of the church, and that filing inventories, paying tithing, keeping budgets, etc., should be kept before us by the responsible officers of the church.

Our personal invitation should and will be extended to our neighbors and friends, who might thus be induced to attend our meetings, but we intend to support these invitations by lives which will commend the church to the favorable attention of good people.

During special series of services and at other times we hope to aid our local pastors by our attendance, by contacting visitors, by providing transportation, by distributing literature, and by any other desirable methods which may commend themselves to us under specific circumstances.

We believe that our message is worthy of the attention of honorable and intelligent people. We hope to present it without apology and in a manner suited to its importance. To this end we hope to engage in persistent study of the word of God, in prayer, and in those activities which will bring us added experience and power.

THE YOUTH CONFERENCE,

By The Findings Committee.

www.LatterDayTruth.org

THAT WHICH ENDURES

A sermon delivered before the combined graduating classes of Graceland College and Lamoni High School. . . . . .

By M. A. McCONLEY

"Righteousness exalteth a nation, but sin is a reproach to any people."

YOURS IS A MOST GLORIOUS HERITAGE. You are entering upon the duties of a more active citizenship in one of the most powerful nations of all time. And of such God has said, "Unto whom much is given, of him shall much be required."

Your civil freedom is a heritage which has been bought with a price. The power and prestige of our flag reaches far back into history. And in the privileges it confers, there enters the sacrifices of thousands of noble men and women who have gone before us.

The fruitage of Runnymede, the courage of Bunker Hill and the patient endurance of Valley Forge, the supreme sacrifices of Shiloh and Gettysburg, the stern resistance and awful cost of Chateau Thierry, the Argonne, and the Marne—all these reach down through successive generations and make their contribution to the opportunities and privileges which are yours as a citizen of this great republic, where it has been sought to develop "a government of the people, for the people, and by the people."

Let us see that liberty, the rights, and the protection which such a government guarantees to all within its ranks shall not be lost. And to this end let us recall that our forefathers associated with their coveted ideal—liberty, a certain accompanying condition, which was necessary in order that liberty might endure—a firm and abiding trust in God.

For, as our civil liberty was developed, there accompanied it a safeguard which would guarantee that our children and our children's children, might still enjoy it. The adoption of the motto, "In God we trust," was not an idle gesture on the part of the founders of this great nation.

The idealism which prompted the sacrifices made by the leaders of the Reformation found fertile soil in the hearts of those who crossed the mighty deep in the Mayflower. They left their homes, their loved ones, their earthly possessions, to come to a new land and brave the dangers and endure the hardships incident to its development. They came not that they might profit in material possessions, not that they might find gold, but rather that there they might have the privilege of worshiping according to the dictates of their conscience and, as a fruitage of such worship, might find God.

THEIR QUEST was not in vain. They found God, and sought to build a social structure in which the blessings of God might be reflected in earthly endeavor. Righteous men were raised up who formed the immortal document known as the Constitution of the United States of America, guaranteeing both civil and religious liberty.

The land selected for this noble enterprise, I verily believe to be a land chosen of God for this purpose. Favorably situated geographically, a broad ocean on either side, it was thus protected during the days of its early development, from intrusion from foreign shores. And at the same time she was given strategic advantages in the development of a commerce which reached to the four quarters of the earth.

And the freedom which they initiated, and the document which guaranteed it have acted as a leaven until the whole world has been profited thereby. And today a greater degree of freedom and liberty—both civil and religious—is enjoyed by the countless millions who populate our globe.

As a result of this condition, the intellect of man was fired with noble ambition, and the scope of his opportunity enlarged. And advancement in science and invention made such progress as never before. The powers of nature were harnessed. Her deficiencies were overcome, and man became not the creature of his environment, but to a very large extent the conqueror thereof. Distance at home was reduced by the gradual speeding up of the means of transportation. Isolation, in any part of the globe, is a thing of the past.

With the rapid spread of knowledge, the work of mankind has been greatly changed. For we have suddenly been projected into a machine age. And it matters not whether it be on the farms and other sources of raw material, or in the factories where these are prepared for consumption and use, or with the merchant and business man who distribute them, or whether it be in the homes of all these people, or in the social life of their respective groups, life has been transformed and changed by the introduction of the machine. Labor and time saving devices in a thousand forms are now in universal use and new ones are being invented every day. The electric light, the electric iron, and washing machine and kindred domestic appliances, the gas stove, the telephone, the automobile, the tractor, the combine, the adding machine, the typewriter—

www.LatterDayTruth.org

factories filled with uncanny, automatic machines—these have remade the world. And in the physical realm, a thousand miracles are performed as a part of our regular, daily routine.

Thus the world into which you enter is not the same world which confronted me when thirty years ago I sat as one of the graduating class of Graceland College.

YOU HAVE INHERITED not only this vast knowledge which our civilization has developed, but you have also inherited her unsolved problems, which are many. For there has not been the same advancement in morals and righteousness, in the social life of our nation that there has been in mechanical knowledge.

I would be very happy if I could say to you today, that you have but to follow the example of your fathers and all will be well in our fair land. But unfortunately human selfishness, greed, and desire for gain, which too many of our people have exhibited, have projected problems which are demanding that you build better in this particular than did your predecessors.

I wish that I could assure you that our commerce at home and abroad is in a healthy condition, that our material possessions are stable and secure, that we have ample financial reserves in the treasuries of our respective municipalities and states, and in the hands of our national government to meet every emergency. But my young friends, unfortunately, it is not true.

For you are surrounded by a world whose industry lies paralyzed by fear, and suspicion, and doubt. You are citizens of a world whose treasuries were almost bankrupted by the recent world war, of a nation whose local and national treasuries have been further depleted and endangered by selfish political interests and "pork-barrel" legislation. In fact, you come into the more active participation of life in your respective communities, when a national emergency exists to the extent that Congress has conferred upon our chief executive practically dictatorial powers.

We cannot say to you, as Horace Greeley said to the people of his day, "Go west and grow up with the country," for we have reached and populated our great western coast, and it is as adversely affected by the present conditions as is the rest of the nation.

We are happy that there is a national and even international effort being made to solve the problem, in which has been enlisted the talent of all the great nations of the world. But only insofar as human wisdom shall be supplemented by Divine grace, shall helpful methods toward a solution be discovered and effected.

BUT THERE ARE SOME FACTORS which only the individual citizen may control. And these cannot be cured by paternalistic legislation. And it is to these fundamentals, which the individual citizen must initiate, that I invite your attention this evening.

In God's word I read, "Righteousness exalteth a nation, but sin is a reproach to any people." Also that "The wages of sin is death." I further learn from the family Bible, that "whatsoever a man soweth, that shall he also reap," and this applies to nations as well as to individuals. And America is no exception to the rule.

For eight years, I did missionary work in Hawaii, and I learned to admire the motto which is on her royal coat of arms—"Ua mau ka ea o ka aina i ka pono"—which interpreted is, "The life of the land is preserved by righteousness." No truer statement was ever made.

The fundamental cause of our present troubles is that we sowed to the wind, and now we have reaped the whirlwind. We thought we could despise the eternal laws of truth and not pay. But to our sorrow—and yet I hope to our eternal good likewise—we have learned that though the "mills of the gods may grind slowly, yet they grind exceedingly fine," and we all have to pass through them.

Our nation was ruled by selfishness and greed and almost swept off its feet. When the unprecedented prosperity of a few years ago came, instead of going to church on Sunday and paying their devotions to the most high, as was the habit and custom of our forefathers, the average family bought a new car and started making Sunday a day of celebration and holiday making. When wheat was a dollar a bushel, did the average farmer thank God for that condition and begin to see what he could do for his unfortunate neighbor? No, he mortgaged his farm to buy more land, so he could thereby corner a fortune for himself and his son John before the market dropped. And this greed drove the price of land so high, that it has bankrupted the farmers of the whole country.

When business was so brisk, did the average business man increase his subscription to charity and pay his tithing in larger amounts to his church? No, he did not; but he enlarged his investments and started playing the stock market that he might more quickly lay aside a large competence without any effort.

Almost two thousand years ago, while here in person in his earthly ministry, Christ preached a sermon—commonly known as the Sermon on the Mount. After enumerating the laws which bring blessing to mankind, he said, "Whosoever heareth these sayings of mine (Continued on page 881)

www.LatterDayTruth.org

A Fourth Prize Herald Contest Story

"Cast Thy Bread Upon the Waters"

By Fair Loomis

"WHAT DOES the quotation mean, Isibel?" Ten-year-old Isidore lifted questioning eyes to her older sister's face as she held out the sampler she had begun embroidering. Without waiting for a reply she cried eagerly, "Every time I look at yours I wish I had one like it. Oh! it is lovely." From a smooth blue gray background the words, "I will lift up mine eyes unto the hills from whence cometh my help," stood out in beautifully shaded letters of lavender, purple, and white.

Isibel, busily putting in the last stitches, answered, "Yes, I love the colors, and I love the words because mother does. I'll be finished with this in a moment. We will go to mother and have her explain your new words. Don't be idle, Isidore."

The sun was well down the western sky and cast a golden light over a wide valley through which a large river flowed. Along the flats were forests of cottonwood, birch, ash, and willows. Higher up the slopes were cedars and higher yet the dark green firs, then the timber line. Farther up as the range extended northward rose a majestic snow clad peak. They liked to call it Sentinel.

Over all this great expanse of natural beauty the sky bent like a great blue bowl. An occasional fleecy white cloud floating over touched with gold added grandeur.

It was to this scene which beggared description, Isibel looked up presently. "There, it is done."

She looked across the valley with the joy of an artist. Slowly her gaze followed the range and came to a long pause on Sentinel. "I know exactly what David felt like when he spoke the words of my sampler." She stood up gathering her materials quickly. "Already I am gaining strength from the hills. Only if David could see these I as sure he would say mountains."

"So am I." Isidore's dimpled face was sober as her gaze followed her sister's to the grand old mountain. "And we'll need it sister, all the strength and courage we can get out here in this wild country."

They looked in silence. Then Isibel spoke, "We must hasten, mother may need us even now."

Not many yards to their right and above them were a tent and two wagons known in those days as prairie schooners. A little higher up the slope a log cabin was fast becoming a dwelling. Beside the tent was a large Dutch oven and campfire equipment. A tall slender woman worked at an improvised table. She turned as the girls came and stood beside her. "Hasten, we must have supper ready soon." What a rare smile she had! What depth of understanding in those black eyes!

As they began their part of the evening tasks Isibel said, "Mother, once long ago you told me the meaning of Isidore's sampler but I was so little I fear I forgot."

Mother paused, took the frame in her hand then read aloud, " 'Cast thy bread upon the waters,' It is only this girls, never withhold aid you can and should give another in need. Oh, there are times it will take all the courage you have." She stirred the supper over the fire then continued, "Then you will have to hunt for more. You recall what Christ said about giving even so little as a cup of cold water in His name." She glanced down into Isidore's eager little face. "It is a beautiful thought, my daughter, rather like a parable. Not real bread like we put on our table; no, it's any kindness in His name." She bent and kissed the upturned face. "And remember, girls," her eyes sought the white Sentinel, "When things are hard we can do what Isibel's sampler suggests. We can always lift our eyes to the hills which, figuratively speaking are lifting our hearts to God." Another pause and the great dark eyes seemed to see much farther than the mountain, "And, my daughters, help will surely come."

When they sat at supper and sharp appetites were somewhat appeased father said briefly, "Tomorrow we start chinking."

"I will be so glad to get into the cabin so I won't have to move things when it looks like rain. It will be almost like heaven to cook on the fireplace again."

MORE THAN THREE YEARS BEFORE Orin Barton together with his father, and his brothers had left Saint Louis, Missouri. Ben Barton had been in the northwest for several months going out with explorers some years earlier. Returning home he had spread the news of the marvelous country where already a fairly good trading post was established.

The Bartons traveled west to a place called Independence where they joined a large, well equipped train then preparing to start for the Oregon Trail. Leaving Westport under direction of Captain Jonathan Schwab they started early in the spring. It would take a book of large dimensions to relate the hardships, storms, winds, merciless blinding heat, and the quicksand in those treacherous, wide bedded rivers. Only once did the Indians molest them. The progress was slow because of many ox teams and cattle driven. The first wagon train to make the overland trip, they arrived very weary from the long trek but with zeal in their hearts. Part formed a settlement, part took up land on the mountain sides.

Orin Barton chose the mountain and with Ben's help had quickly prepared logs for their cabin. Israel was great help for he was large for his age. When ready, men had come from the settlement and helped in the "raising."

A few days later, the chinking done and dry, came the happy time of moving into the cabin the treasures so long stored in the wagons. Heirlooms from Germany and Scotland, more than a hundred years before, just had to be brought to the new home. Plenty of bedding, the large and small spinning wheels, the woolen loom, and father's tool chest. Plows and axes, crowbars, shovels and picks.

Uncle Ben went down to the settlement and father and Israel turned to the work of preparing logs for a good stable, for the stock must be sheltered from the cold and wild animals.

Lessons began. Amos and Mark recited through the day, the older children at night while father planed boards to make furniture.

Busy days, full of work but they were happy for they had each other and were making a home and mother was the one who sweetened life to the utmost. Cheering the children, encouraging father in his hard tasks, "lifting tons in that work of clearing and building, with her voice and smile."

Long before winter the log stable was ready. Also the most of the lean-to at the back of the cabin.

On rainy days father had made a table, benches, and stools. Now he began on a cupboard, from floor to ceiling with plenty of shelf room and doors with strong wood buttons. And beside it a work table.

After supper a lesson from God's word was read. Then either father or mother prayed.

Sometimes the Indians from the Reservation came. They seemed friendly. The Bartons were learning their language which was Chinook. Many a package of corn bread, and doughnuts went home with those visiting Indians.

www.LatterDayTruth.org

ONE DAY after winter had set in an Indian chief and a squaw came through the bushes into the little clearing. A cold rain was falling. Father bade them enter and come to the fire. The squaw who carried her baby on her back did not speak but the chief with an eloquent gesture said, "Papoose heap sick."

Mother took the baby, unwrapped the fine soft skins, loosened the board to which the child was strapped. Laid across her lap before the fire the little creature limp and moaning, seemed indeed "heap sick." Carefully she examined the throat and behind his ears. She looked up at father with horror filled eyes, "I think it's measles."

"Where in the world," he exclaimed.

"Probably at the trading post."

The chief, who was Lone Wolf, the squaw's father, spoke little English and it took repeated questions to learn that conditions were terrible with the Indians. Would they come? "Medicine man no good. Indians die."

The Bartons exchanged glances. Mother spoke in a voice not quite steady. "If it is measles, thank the Lord we have all had them." Turning to the mother she said, "I try."

At her command the girls flew about gathering articles for a hot mustard bath. Mother gave the bath quickly. Wrapped the child well, gave him a cold drink from a spoon, and put him to bed. The plaintive moaning ceased and the baby slept. She was many, many years ahead of the belief of hot drinks inside and hot covers outside to break out measles.

The Indians' eyes followed every move. Especially eloquent were the mother's filled with anguish over her helplessness.

"You stay. I go with your father," she said to the squaw whose name was Onaway. The girl sank on the floor by the corner of the fireplace, leaning wearily against the wall. As mother looked at her, scarcely more than a child herself, she realized that whatever the baby had the mother was taking also.

Never as long as any of the Barton children, old enough to remember those eventful days, lived, could they forget the time that followed. It proved to be measles the Indians had. Father and mother went to the Indian camp. They did the work of doctor and nurse. It was too far and the weather too severe for father to go for help at the trading post. The Indians were panic stricken. They believed their camp filled with evil spirits. Father moved many of the little children to the cabin where Isibel was cook and nurse. Onaway stayed. She was a good patient and she was mercifully spared a severe case of measles. All the children helped care for the little Indians. At the camp father and mother nursed, prepared the dead for burial, and directed those who were well. Crowded, having only limited material to work with, they wondered afterwards that more didn't die.

AT LAST the Bartons were at home, alone. It took several days rest before they felt like getting back to work and lessons.

The first Sunday as they sat before the fire talking over events, father remarked, "I think they learned more about cleanliness and food than they would ordinally learn in a lifetime."

Mother sat in the big armchair holding James on her lap and as the children talked of the strange experiences her sparkling eyes turned approvingly on each speaker. Although she spoke no word they knew how happy she was for what they had done.

At last Isidore mentioned the sampler, "Mother, I've wondered if the hard work we did to help our Indian neighbors could be the thing spoken of in my sampler. I noticed the children looking at it many times. Onaway, too."

Mother spoke slowly, "Yes, I think we have all done what we could, every one of us, and as surely as the Lord liveth it will come back to us."

They sat in silence, within the warmth and glow of the fire, without the wind and loud soughing of the firs. This family so near to each other and so dearly loved. Mother broke the silence, speaking haltingly as though a power greater than she put the words into her mouth. "I have been used to Indians all my life. I have seen them under many conditions and circumstances, and I have a deep, deep conviction that they are a remnant of a mighty people. It may be far back —oh, very far back. No one knows who they are, cannot even conjecture where they came from—absolutely nothing." No one spoke and presently the soft voice went on, "I believe more and more as I look into the eyes of these Indians 'there is a history back of you. A great history. You may not know it yourselves exactly, but you do know more than you are telling.' Father," turning suddenly to face him, "The day will come when white men are going to know about them where they came from and why. In my soul I believe they are descendants of some of the Israelites and I have thought so for a long time. I shall not live to see that day, you may not, but I believe the children will."

All eyes were on her as she spoke so earnestly. The older children felt a strange thrill of awe as though they had witnessed something they could not understand. This mother, quiet, unassuming, yet with something in her courageous heart that was at once steel and pure gold. Small wonder they adored her and strove to be like her.

More than two years passed. Busy years. The clearing had grown to several acres. Fruit trees had been planted. Plants and shrubs had been dug out along the river bottoms and transplanted to the yard about the cabin. As they added all the improvements, mother had steadfastly kept before them the loving observation of the beauty all around them, beauty of earth, mountain and sky. Often she quoted to them, "Eye hath not seen, nor ear heard, neither have entered into the heart of man, the things which God hath prepared for them that love him."

ONE DAY that spring a little sister came. How happy they were over the tiny bit of heaven. When James looked at the little face and a wee pink fist closed over his finger he said gleefully, "A baby angel." But joy dimmed quickly. Mother was not doing well. Israel was sent horseback hurrying down to the settlement for the trading post doctor and grandmother Barton. Soon after he was gone mother called Isibel and Isidore to her bedside. A terrible fear clutched at their hearts as they saw how white that loved face was getting. Even the lips were turning gray. Isidore trembled so violently she could not stand so she sat on the side of the bed and held the hand on the coverlet as though it would steady the wild flood of emotion that was welling up in her soul. Isibel, with far more self control saw with horror the terrible thing that threatened them.

"My daughters, I am going to leave you. I shall be gone long before Israel can get to the settlement." She paused and the silence was broken by wild sobbing Isidore could not control. Father stood beside them tight lipped, while drops of anguish formed on his forehead.

"I want to give you directions about little sister." Father laid a steady hand on Isidore's quivering shoulders and said quietly, "I will help you remember, girls." With increasing weakness and pauses she told them how to use the milk of a young cow, lately freshened, diluting it with water and increasing milk as the baby grew. "Don't forget to give her water." She went on, "You, Isibel, must take the responsibility. You are older and very strong, you are capable and well taught. And girls, you have a wonderful treasure in father."

The dark eyes that spoke love beyond words rested on them a moment, then she smiled, such a smile of heavenly joy as they had never seen, then the lids drooped like those of a tired little child.

Isidore gave a wildly imploring glance to her father's face and whispered, "She will be better, father. She has gone to sleep."

He did not answer that terrified look of inquiry, and did not speak for a brief time. When he did, it was in a strange, harsh voice the girls had never heard. "Yes, she is asleep, and she will wake only when the Lord calls his own."

(Continued on page 882.)

www.LatterDayTruth.org

Weekly Health Letter

Some Problems of Old Age

By A. W. Teel, M. D., Church Physician

Many people resent being called an old man or an old woman. It certainly does not seem like music to our ears to hear that we are getting old. Scientists have been working overtime trying to find ways and means to stop the ravages or lessen the infirmities brought on by senility.

Just where old age begins and where it ends no one has been able to fully comprehend. As the years go by adjustments must be made if the individual expects to live to a ripe old age. For as the years advance bodily changes are continually taking place. Any one who overlooks these certain changes and stays out of adjustment must pay a severe penalty in death or prolonged infirmities.

The daily newspaper reports the death of some prominent individual almost every day whose passing was very unexpected, and it has been found out by investigators that the individual has paid little or no attention to the essential changes in his habits especially those of eating, drinking, exercises, rest, and sufficient sleep.

Many individuals at middle age or past try to make themselves believe that they can do as much as they could at 20. If you will watch the reports of sudden deaths recorded in the newspapers and literature, you will find a large majority of them occurred after eating a large meal. Overeating is one of the most dangerous acts and one of the most common practices of the aged. In fact it seems to be one of the common faults of mankind. At mealtime one should leave the table just "a little hungry." Eating slowly is one of the most important things to observe, and those who discontinue the practice of eating rapidly will tell you that they are surprised how much better they enjoy their food. Plenty of water should be drunk between meals.

We are just as old as our arteries, and one may be old at 30 or 35 and be young at 60 or 70, depending upon his habits of eating. The average person, having disobeyed the laws of nature, should avoid the dangers of overexertion.

The demands of the body require at least a reasonable degree of care, and it is the duty of the individual to heed the admonition of Holy Writ and the scientists in preserving the requirements of this machine.

It is quite a common occurrence for a sudden death to happen as the individual is running to catch a bus or street car. Sufficient sleep is another thing that should be secured for those beyond middle age. Often a daily nap is beneficial.

This machine of ours composed of flesh and blood may be very properly compared to other forms of machinery—something like the automobile—when we imagine we hear an unusual sound and take it to the garage, so should we periodically visit a physician and have a careful check-up examination to see or find out if we have anything in need of attention. If the doctor should discover that we have put some undue strain or injury upon ourselves, we may be able to remedy the defect in time before serious consequences develop. Those approaching middle life or past should at least every six months have a urine analysis.

I do not wish to be misunderstood; I do not mean that exercise is not essential to the aged or nearly aged; but I do mean that you should be familiar with the limitations of the body. Emphasis must also be given to the fact that too sudden exertion or any sort of exercise taken to excess is dangerous and harmful. Modification should be the watchword and is always the best guide. Overindulgence in anything should be avoided. This rule applies to exercise. If you are advised to play golf, walk, or swim, do it in moderation.

These few precautions will not deprive you of the many pleasures that you should enjoy as age advances. It is well to remember that nature has required of you to make the proper adjustments on account of the changes that are continually taking place, and your vocation and environment must be taken into consideration.

Jesus is more than a teacher of an ultimate wisdom. . . . Jesus was a teacher who died to save men who would not listen to his teaching. No other teacher has done that. And that sets him above and apart from all other teachers. It does not mean, as some may hold, that he added to the wisdom of the teacher the blindness of a fanatic. The combination is unthinkable and impossible. It means that to the wisdom of the perfect teacher in him was added the love of the perfect brother. There have perhaps been others as wise as Jesus, but none have had his love. Therefore there have been none so wise. To be wise and love—this is beyond all wisdom.

. . . The old ways of approach to that life-giving stream are closed to many modern men. For these I write. We have to know him after the flesh. There is for us no other way. But to know him after the flesh is to know him after the spirit: for we shall find that he was, in very truth, the ineffable Word made Flesh.—Murry.

www.LatterDayTruth.org

Worship Services for August, 1933

The Church School

Prepared by Arthur Oakman and Elva T. Sturges

THEME FOR THE MONTH: "CHOOSE YE."

FIRST SUNDAY, AUGUST 6

Theme: "Be Ye Free."

Instrumental Prelude: "Lord may our hearts," N. S. H., 45.
Call to Worship: Doctrine and Covenants 22: 23.
Response by the Congregation: Genesis 6: 46.

Minister: Genesis 6: 51, 52; 2 Nephi 1: 117, 119, 120. . . . "God hath made known unto our fathers, that all men must repent . . . saying . . . I am God; I made the world, and men before they were in the flesh." "And . . . they have become free forever, knowing good from evil; . . . and all things are given them which are expedient unto man. And they are free to choose liberty and eternal life, through the great mediation of all men, or to choose captivity and death, according to the captivity and power of the devil."

(S) Hymn: "O Lord of light, and love, and power," N. S. H., 299, verse 1.
(S) Prayer: For understanding of the nature of man.
The Scriptures: John 8: 31-36.

Minister: "Then said Jesus to those . . . which believed on him, 'If ye continue in my word, then are ye my disciples indeed; and ye shall know the truth, and the truth shall make you free.' "
Congregation: "How sayest thou, 'Ye shall be made free?' "
Minister: " 'Verily, verily, I say unto you, Whosoever committeth sin, is the servant of sin. And the servant abideth not in the house forever, but the Son abideth ever. If the Son therefore shall make you free, ye shall be free indeed.' "

Meditation: On Freedom.

The agency of man is a fact of our own inner experience. We feel that we have the power to do what we choose to do. This sense of our freedom and responsibility persists in spite of our failure to do as we ought. Even the remorse we feel at failure to live at our best is merely an expression of the sense that we could have done better; hence a conviction of our own freedom. Let anyone feel that he cannot live righteously and the sense of freedom departs from him, and the springs of moral effort are quenched.

Our freedom is strictly limited, however. While we are free to choose between right and wrong, we are forced to choose one or the other. A man who does not keep the commandments of God, or make a reasonable effort to do so, is thereby choosing the way of the evil one. The only way we can be free from sin, is to choose the way of God.

(S) Hymn: "O Lord! my best desires fulfill," N. S. H., 277; S. H., 132.
(S) Commission: Helaman 5: 85, 86.
Picture: Hofmann, "Head of Christ."

SECOND SUNDAY, AUGUST 13

Theme: "Whither Goest Thou?"

Instrumental Prelude: "Lead Kindly Light," N. S. H., 265.
Scriptural Meditation: Saint John's Gospel, chapter 14, verses 1-7.
Prayer.
(S) Hymn: "Lead On, O King Eternal," N. S. H., 181.
Talk: We must decide.

We modern people do not have much time to meditate. The big issues of life are passed unnoticed because of our preoccupation with a multitude of little things. Our range of knowledge is very wide, but it is not very deep. Yet it is absolutely essential that we see clearly if we are to determine our course. The motives we have are much more important than our factual knowledge, for our motives determine the direction of our lives.

The man who has no reasonable assurance that the ways of God are best, walks in darkness. To think about ourselves honestly and carefully is to be wise. To choose the way of God as we are taught that way by the witness of His inner Spirit, is to be led to light and power. To have faith in God is to be spiritually motivated to righteousness and peace. To have faith in anything less than God and his truth is to be led to darkness and despair.

"One ship drives East"

One ship drives east and another west,
With the self-same winds that blow;
'Tis the set of the sail, and not the gale
That bids them where to go.

Like the winds of the sea, are the ways of fate,
As we journey along through life;
'Tis the set of the soul that decides the goal,
And not the storm or the strife.

—Ella Wheeler Wilcox.

Period of Meditation:
Hymn N. S. H., 305; S. H., 172. Two verses are played softly, while the congregation meditates on verses 3 and 2 of this hymn.
Minister reads: Deuteronomy 30: 19, 20, beginning, "I have set before you . . ."
Hymn: "Be with me, Lord," N. S. H., 305, verse 1.
Minister reads: 2 Nephi 6: 79-82.
Hymn: "O may I never do my will," N. S. H., 305, verse 4.
Benediction: Moroni 9: 28.
Picture: Tissot, "The Sermon on the Mount."

THIRD SUNDAY, AUGUST 20

Theme: "Consider the Cost."

Instrumental Prelude: "Father, hear the prayer we offer," N. S. H., 203.
Call to Worship: Deuteronomy 7: 6-8:

"The Lord thy God hath chosen thee to be a special people unto himself, above all people that are upon the face of the earth. The Lord did not set his love upon you, nor choose you, because ye were more in number than any people; for ye were the fewest of all people; but because the Lord loved you, and because he would keep the oath which he had sworn unto your fathers. . . . Know therefore that the Lord thy God, he is God, the faithful God, which keepeth covenant and mercy with them that love him and keep his commandments to a thousand generations."

(S) Hymn Response: "I would love thee," N. S. H., 128; S. H., 63, verses 1, 3 and 5.
(S) Prayer: That the Spirit of God may guide us when we make our choices.
Story: Sidney Rigdon counts the cost. Church History, volume 1, pages 129-142. Sidney Rigdon was a popular preacher in a Protestant church when he first became convinced that the doctrines he was preaching were not of God. Despite the fact that he knew he would have to find employment among the laboring class, and that he would lose many of his friends, he resigned. After two years as a journeyman tanner he began preaching those things that he believed to be true. Again success came to him, and when he had reached the pinnacle of fame he heard of the gospel of Christ as it was preached by the elders of this church. This time he knew what baptism would cost him in friends, popularity, and material wealth. But true to himself he chose the harder course and entered the church.
(S) Hymn: "Am I a soldier," N. S. H., 202, verses 1, 2, 3.
Scripture Meditation: Luke 14: 26-34.
(S) Hymn: "Sure I must fight," N. S. H., 202; S. H., 201, verse 4.

www.LatterDayTruth.org

(S) Benediction: Numbers 6: 24-26.
Picture: Cornicelius, "The Temptation."

FOURTH SUNDAY, AUGUST 27

Theme: "Choose Wisely."

Instrumental Prelude: "O worship the King," N. S. H., 9.
Call to Worship: Matthew 7: 22, 23.
Prayer: A confession of our own incompleteness, and a petition for wisdom.
Hymn: "Father, in Thy mysterious presence kneeling," N. S. H., 101.
Scripture Reading: Matthew 7: 27-36. The parable of the builders.
Hymn: "Tenderly, tenderly, lead Thou me on," N. S. H., 267; Z. P., 5, verse 1.
Talk: The Story of Young Joseph. Church History, volume 3, pages 254ff.

Joseph Smith was a young man of 21 when the time came for him to decide upon his vocation. For some time he had been studying law with the idea of taking it up professionally. It is true, that he was in line for the presidency of the church but it held no great attraction for him; for, as president his father had been killed, and now the church was divided into many factions. He was just recovering from a severe illness and as he lay contemplating his future course a vision opened before him.

"I saw stretched out before me towns, cities, busy marts, courthouses, courts and assemblies of men, all busy and all marked by those characteristics that are found in the world where men win place and renown. This stayed before my vision until I had notely clearly that choice of preferment here was offered to him who would enter in, but who did so must go into the busy whirl and be submerged by its din, bustle and confusion. In the subtle transition of a dream, I was gazing over a wide expanse of country in a prairie land; no mountains were to be seen, but as far as the eye could reach, hill and dale, hamlet and village, farm and farmhouse, pleasant cot and homelike place everywhere betokening thrift, industry and the pursuits of a happy peace were open to the view. I remarked to him standing by me, but whose presence I had not noticed before, 'This must be the country of a happy people.' To this he replied, 'Which would you prefer, life, success and renown, among the busy scenes that you first saw, or a place among these people without honors or renown? Think of it well, for the choice will be offered to you sooner or later, and you must be prepared to decide. Your decision, once made you can not recall it, and you must abide the result.' "

(S) Hymn: "Trustingly, trustingly, forward I go," N. S. H., 267, verses 2, 3.
(S) Benediction.
Picture: Cornicelius: "The Temptation."

Note: In all cases the Inspired Version of the Bible has been used. N. S. H.—New Saints' Hymnal; S. H.—old Saints' Hymnal. Z. P.—Zion's Praises. "(S)" means that the congregation is to stand.)

Saving Men, Not Civilization

Christianity's commission is not to save civilization but to save men; not to save a civilization, but to build a Christian civilization. Never was greater need or more fertile field for the preaching of repentance in the name of Christ. We speak not only to the heart and conscience of men, but to their minds as well, when we urge some real form of social control of industry in place of the chaos of unrestrained profitseeking; when we urge economic reserves in the form of unemployment insurance for men, as well as provision for machines and dividends; when we demand a wider distribution of wealth, instead of its present concentration.—By Halford E. Luccock.

The Children's Division

Prepared by Mildred Goodfellow and Fern Weedmark

FIRST SUNDAY, AUGUST 6, 1933

Sacrament service for adults and children together. An appropriate story to be told the children at the end of the class period is, "At the King's Table," Stepping Stones, February 7, 1932.

SECOND SUNDAY, AUGUST 13, 1933

Theme: "Choose you this day whom ye will serve." (Joshua 24: 15.)

Prelude: "Holy, Holy, Holy Is the Lord," Zion's Praises, 26; new Saints' Hymnal, 7.

Call to Worship: "The Lord is in his holy temple: let all the earth keep silence before him." (Habakkuk 2: 20.)

Hymn: "Holy, Holy, Holy Is the Lord," Zion's Praises, 26; new Saints' Hymnal, 7.

Prayer.

Scripture: Ecclesiastes 12: 1; 1 Timothy 4: 12; Joshua 24: 15-18.

Hymn: "Dare to Do Right," Zion's Praises, 79.

Sermon Talk: Text: "Thou mayest choose for thyself." (Genesis 2: 21, Inspired Translation.) When God placed Adam and Eve in the Garden of Eden he told them they could eat the fruit from every tree in the garden except one. Although God told them not to eat the fruit from this tree, yet he told them they could choose whether or not they would obey him. They chose to disobey God and so they were cast out of the beautiful garden. We make choices every day. When we play games we choose whether we shall play fairly or otherwise. Let us try to make the right choices. Let us choose to serve God rather than Satan.

Story: "Sidney Rigdon's Choice," Church History, volume 1, page 131; "Truth Is Better Than Riches," pages 16 and 17, Junior Quarterly, "New Testament and its Writers," Third Year, Part 2, January, February, March, 1933, by Hallie M. Gould, or "The Cobbler's Son," Stepping Stones, April 3, 1932.

Hymn: "Consecration," new Saints' Hymnal, 293. (This may be preceded by the story of how this hymn was written. See page 748, The Saints' Herald, June 13, 1933.)

Story: "Amulek's Choice." (Book of Mormon, pages 328, 335, 336, 358.)

"In the City of Ammonihah there lived a man by the name of Amulek. Amulek was a rich man and had many relatives and friends in this city. Many times God had called Amulek, who only hardened his heart and refused to hear. He went on rebelling against God until one day as he was journeying to visit a relative an angel of the Lord appeared unto him and told him to return to his own house, where he would find a prophet of the Lord; that this prophet had fasted many days and was hungry; that if Amulek would care for this holy man, he and his household should be blessed.

"Amulek returned home, and the angel's message was fulfilled, for the prophet Alma met Amulek and was recieved into his house. Alma stayed with Amulek many days, and we are sure that during that time he taught Amulek the gospel. The Lord sent an angel also to manifest those things unto Amulek.

"After many days the Lord sent Alma and Amulek out together among the people of Ammonihah to prophesy and preach repentance. Because of the choice he made to follow Jesus, Amulek forsook all his gold, silver, and precious things and was rejected by his own household and friends, but Amulek had become one of the family of God and he was happy as he went about his work preaching the gospel."

www.LatterDayTruth.org

Closing Hymn: "Don't Step There," Zion's Praises, 167.
Benediction.

THIRD SUNDAY, AUGUST 20, 1933

Theme: "Jesus' Choice."

We suggest the picture, "Christ and the Doctors," by Hofmann, be used with this worship service. A large copy of this picture may be obtained from David C. Cook Publishing Company, Elgin, Illinois, for 15 cents, No. 6118-M.

Prelude: "The Old, Old Path," Zion's Praises, 207; new Saints' Hymnal, 260.

Call to Worship: "The Lord is in his holy temple: let all the earth keep silence before him." (Habakkuk 2: 20.) If you have this call to worship arranged with music, it may be sung by the junior choir. (See songbook, Children's Praises, No. 1.)

Hymn: "Father, Once Again We Come," Zion's Praises, 168; new Saints' Hymnal, 80.

Prayer.

Story: "In His Father's House," (Luke 2: 41-52, page 42, Knights of Service, by Emerson O. Bradshaw.

Hymn: "O Master Workman of the Race," new Saints' Hymnal, 152. (First verse.)

Sermon Talk: Text: Luke 2: 49. We are sure Jesus made the right choices when he was a small child, but the Bible does not tell about any choice he made until he was twelve years old, and then he chose to be about his Father's business. Jesus was always true to this choice. When he was tempted he made the right choice. (Matthew fourth chapter, Luke fourth chapter.) Paul tells us that Jesus was tempted as we are, yet was without sin, (Hebrews 4: 15) which means, of course, that he always chose to do right. In all his ministry he was always found doing the will of his Father. He is, indeed, our great example. When circumstances come up that make it necessary for us to make a choice, let us remember that Jesus always made the right choice.

Special Music: Song by junior choir. "The Boy of Galilee," found in a pamphlet service for Children's Day called, In the Days of Thy Youth, published by Lorenz Publishing Company, 8 cents, is a beautiful number.

Picture Appreciation: "Christ and the Doctors," by Hofmann. Material for this appreciation may be obtained from The Gospel in Art, by Bailey; also books available at the public library. If this picture is purchased from David C. Cook Publishing Company, a printed description of the picture will accompany it.

Closing Hymn: "The Child of Galilee," Zion's Praises, 36, or "Fairest Lord Jesus," new Saints' Hymnal, 23.

Benediction.

(Note: There was printed in Zion's Ensign, October 1, 1925, page 628, a legend about Christ in the Temple. This would make a splendid story for this service.)

FOURTH SUNDAY, AUGUST 27, 1933

Theme: "The Reward of Our Choice Is Certain."

Prelude: "Minuet in G," by Beethoven, or "We'll Scatter Good Seed," Zion's Praises, 115; new Saints' Hymnal, 220.

Call to Worship: "The Lord is in his holy temple: let all the earth keep silence before him." (Habakkuk 2: 20.)

Hymn: "We're Marching to Zion," Zion's Praises, 37; new Saints' Hymnal, 5.

Prayer.

Scripture: Galatians 6: 7, 1 Peter 3: 12, Doctrine and Covenants 81: 3.

Hymn: "We'll Scatter Good Seed," Zion's Praises, 115; new Saints' Hymnal, 220.

Sermon Talk: The following appears in a letter written by W. W. Phelps to Oliver Cowdery: "Who would idle or revel away a few years of fleshly gratification, and lose a thousand years of happiness and an eternity of glory?" (Church History, volume 1, page 534.) Brother Phelps understood how important it is to make right choices. We gain or suffer from our choices. If we choose to serve God, we will be permitted to live with him in the life to come; if we choose not to serve God, we will lose that happiness. Some choices we make bring their reward or punishment in this life. (Give examples of happiness that followed a right choice, and unhappiness that followed a wrong choice.) Other choices we make will bring reward or punishment when we stand before God, the righteous Judge, in the day of judgment. (See 1 Timothy 5: 24.) The Bible tells us God will reward every one according to his works. (Revelation 20: 12, 13; Matthew 16: 27; 2 Timothy 4: 8.)

Story: "Ruth the Faithful," page 20, Knights of Service, by Emerson O. Bradshaw, or "The Boy Who Was Not Afraid," page 117, Knights of Service, by Emerson O. Bradshaw.

Special musical number by a junior boy or girl, or song, "Cast Thy Bread Upon the Waters," new Saints' Hymnal, 346.

Stories: "The Choice of the Rich Young Ruler." (Matthew 19: 16-22; Mark 10: 17-22; Luke 18: 18-23.) Emphasis should be placed on the fact that the rich young man chose not to follow Jesus, and we hear no more about him.

"Paul's Choice." (Acts 9: 6, chapters 13, 14, 16, and other chapters.) Emphasize the fact that Paul chose to follow the example of Jesus; lived a consecrated and useful life, and was sure of his reward. (2 Timothy 4: 8.)

Closing Hymn: "Never Be Discouraged," Zion's Praises, 96; new Saints' Hymnal, 236.

Benediction.

Immortality

Oh! Listen, man!
A voice within us speaks that word, startling;
"Man, thou shalt never die!" Celestial voices
Hymn it unto our souls; according harps,
By angel fingers touched, when the mild stars
Of morning sang together, still sound forth
The song of great immortality.
Thick clustering orbs, and this our fair domain,
The tall, dark mountains, and the deep-toned seas
Join in this solemn, universal song.

Oh, listen, ye, our spirits; drink it in
From all the air. 'Tis in the gentle moonlight;
'Tis floating mid day's setting glories; night
Wrapped in her sable robe, with silent step
Comes to our bed and breathes it in our ears:
Night, and the dawn, bright day, and thoughtful eve,
As one vast mystic instrument, are touched
By an unseen living Hand, and conscious chords
Quiver with joy in this great jubilee.
The dying hear it; and, as sounds of earth
Grow dull and distant, wake their passing souls
To mingle in this heavenly harmony.

—Richard Henry Dana.

For churches to close now or to "let up" is like hospitals closing during an epidemic. We say this because an epidemic of fear, such as is raging today, is as dangerous as an epidemic of "flu" such as raged in 1918. The need of the hour is not more money, more real estate, or more stocks and bonds, but rather more self-control, unselfishness, faith and courage. Self-control, unselfishness, faith and courage are spiritual qualities which cannot be secured from bankers or stores, but only from ministers and churches.—Roger W. Babson, "Church Attendance: The Facts and Their Meaning," in Federal Council Bulletin.

www.LatterDayTruth.org

THAT WHICH ENDURES

(Continued from page 874.)

and doeth them, I will liken him unto a wise man, who built his house upon a rock. And the rain descended, and the floods came, and the winds blew, and beat upon that house; and it fell not: for it was founded upon a rock. And everyone that heareth these sayings of mine, and doeth them not, shall be likened unto a foolish man, who built his house upon the sand. And the rain descended, and the floods came, and the winds blew, and beat upon that house: and it fell: and great was the fall of it."

That latter prediction is what happened to us. We have been building too much on the sand. Temporarily, at least, America lost her bearings. She forsook the motto initiated by her founders. She thought herself so powerful and so rich and so learned that she did not need to trust in God. And she erected a superstructure conceived in selfishness, and composed mostly of inflated land values and watered stock. And when the storms came and the winds blew, her house went down. And what a crash it made—banks closed, thousands of homes and farms lost on mortgages, millions of unemployed, life's savings lost, hopes and ambitions ruined.

BUT LET US TAKE HOPE and courage. We may not have so much to live on, but we still have just as much to live for. Let us learn a lesson from our folly and build a superstructure founded on truth, and honesty, and square dealing. Let us haul down the false standards of success erected in those later years, where the dollar was the coveted goal of all earthly endeavor. And let us remember that it is what we are and not just what we have that counts.

Christ said, "A man's life consisteth not in the abundance of the things which he possesseth." My friends, things are only a means to an end. Character and not genius is what America is short on today.

America needs a rebaptism in the ideals of Jesus Christ. She needs to adjust her vision of life and its purposes, so that people shall renew their contact with their God. To put it in plain English, what we need most in this country today, is to get down on our knees and repent of our sins. And only in so far as we do, may safety and happiness for the morrow be guaranteed.

What part are you going to play? On which side is your youth and your talent going to be enlisted?

MEMBERS OF THE GRADUATING class of Lamoni High School, the state of Iowa has made a considerable investment in your education. The citizens of Lamoni have invested thousands of dollars in taxes to that end. Members of Graceland's graduating class, the church has made a large investment in your training. The sacrifices of your fathers and mothers, as well as your own efforts have entered into it.

Has it been a wise investment?

In the years to come, will it pay profitable dividends in a more enlightened and righteous citizenship? We hope and believe that it will. But the answer is with you. Our heavenly Father says, "To be learned is good if they hearken unto the counsels of God."

It is true that we need citizens of culture who are learned in the arts and sciences. We need men and women who understand the physical laws of this world in which we live. We need farmers who know how to analyze the soil, and are able to determine as to its best use. We want men trained in the scientific raising of cattle, and sheep and hogs; we need expert artisans and learned professional men and women. And without such a culture our civilization cannot be perpetuated.

But if we have all these and lack character, they are useless. Without spiritual culture, without real Christians, the training of the head and of the hand, be it ever so perfect, is all in vain. We need more than anything else, a restoration of the cardinal virtues—honesty, industry, square dealing, the love of God and love of man—which produce happy homes, trust-worthy neighbors, and stable communities. Without them, our civilization is doomed.

The machines are here; and they will be continued. Ours is the problem of so adjusting their use that they shall prove a blessing and not a curse. Will they be used or abused? That is one of your big problems.

It is inevitable that with the use of the machines, hours of labor shall become increasingly less. What shall be done with the leisure time? The answer will determine the future of our nation. For what we do when we are at work determines what we have. What we do in our leisure hours determines what we are.

If we shall use our leisure time wisely, we shall have such a development of culture, such a perfection of talent as the world has never seen. But if we shall follow the path of least resistance, and use our leisure time only for amusement, as seems to be the too general inclination today, then we shall witness the dissipation of our talents and the more quickly bring down our nation's destruction upon us.

Young people, I am not attempting to prophesy. I am not making any economical forecast. I am just bringing to your attention a simple problem in spiritual mathematics. And the equations are just as certain and dependable as are those of arithmetic or geometry.

FAITH is the glue that holds society together. Without men and women of sufficient honor to command confidence and trust, it is impossible to have successful homes. There must be confidence between people or business cannot be carried on. There must be those we can trust with public responsibility, with public resources and public money, or we cannot have government.

Today there is a dire and increasing need of righteousness and truth in every phase of human endeavor. And unless we have a spiritual awakening, the future means increasing trouble and finally a breaking down of government itself.

May God give you grace and wisdom and courage to do your part in effecting a solution of the problem.

Industry will still be necessary. There never can be any substitute for hard work. And we must learn teamwork and cooperation as never before. And do not be ashamed to start at the bottom and work up. Great courage will be needed. Gene Tunney says that in any phase of human endeavor, a man must fight. There are many things we will have to fight, but the most difficult task will be to conquer ourselves. Greed, lust, the human weaknesses to which the flesh is heir—wickedness in high places—all these must be overcome.

Theodore Roosevelt, of immortal fame, advises, "In life, as in a game, the principle to follow is, Hit the line hard; Don't foul, and don't shirk. Play the game!"

Have faith in yourself, in your neighbor and in your God. Believe that right makes might and in the end that truth will prevail.

Let hope buoy you up in times of despair. Be cheerful. Smile. "The thing that goes the farthest, towards making life worth while, that costs the least, and does the most, is just a pleasant smile."

Remember there is a Higher Power to whom you can turn and in whose wisdom you can trust, when your own fails you. Make it a habit of keeping in touch with your God, and you cannot go far wrong.

May the blessings of peace and happiness crown your efforts in the development of those eternal virtues which time does not efface but which always endure.

Ten Marks of an Educated Man

He keeps his mind open on every question until the evidence is all in.

He listens to the man who knows.

He never laughs at new ideas.

He cross-examines his daydreams.

He knows his strong point and plays it.

He knows the value of good habits and how to form them.

He knows when not to think and when to call in the expert to think for him.

You can't sell him magic.

He lives the forward-looking, outward-looking life.

He cultivates a love of the beautiful.

—The American Magazine.

www.LatterDayTruth.org

CAST THY BREAD UPON THE WATERS

(Continued from page 876.)

THE DAYS THAT FOLLOWED were like a dream. People came from the settlement. Out in the workshop men made a coffin. The women cushioned it with a quilt and lined it with a fine, white sheet.

A wonderful memory of that calm, happy face that had been more to her children than anything else in the world was strengthened now by a look of infinite joy as if a reflection of what she saw as her soul burst its bondage of flesh and looked out on the immortal, had left its imprint. Precious memory!

Some one had thought to send a messenger to the Indians and they came for the services—many of them. It was a brief service. A hymn, prayer, some of mother's favorite scriptures, brief remarks, another hymn, and a prayer.

Once as the Indians were passing the coffin Isibel, even though bowed in anguish, noticed how clean they all were, wrapped in their best blankets or skins. She noticed that if any feeling at all was expressed, it was a pathetic reflection of a race-old sorrow, but there was a look of stricken sorrow on the younger faces. At the grave they stood in silent awe.

When it was partly filled Chief Lone Wolf, casting his blanket on the ground, touched one of the men lightly on the arm. "Me," he said, and took the shovel from his hands. A warrior stepped forward and took a man's shovel. Another warrior did likewise. They finished filling the grave, while the white men looked on in silent astonishment.

As the minister lifted his hands to pray and the men removed their caps, Lone Wolf glanced at them, then gravely he removed the feathers from his hair and bowed his head. Instantly every man and boy of his company followed his example.

FROM THE HOUR OF HER MOTHER'S DEATH Isibel took the responsibility of little sister. No one but the heavenly Father to whom she carried her burdens almost hourly knew how often she went down to the quiet grave and poured out her sorrow in tears and prayers.

Summer passed and harvest was over. Uncle Ben wanted Israel to come into his blacksmith shop to learn the trade, so after the corn was shocked he went down to the settlement. It was a hard winter, heavy snows, cold, stinging cold, when the pitiless, steel blue, cloudless sky bent to meet a pitiless, blindingly white earth.

In January father decided to go down to the settlement for powder was needed and there were several errands to do. He left very early one morning, telling the girls he would be back sometime tomorrow night.

Always before mother had been there when father was away. Plenty of wood and water were brought in, all the chores were done and the stock secured for the night before dark.

Isibel closed and bolted the door and set about warming the cup of milk and bread for little sister while Isidore prepared the simple evening meal for them.

When the girls sat on the big rug before the fire studying their lessons Isidore asked, "Isibel, if an animal came prowling tonight could you shoot it?"

Isibel thought a moment, "All the stock are secure, so let them prowl."

"But there is the meat father hung under the eaves yesterday. That might attract a wolf or a bear."

"Well if a bear or a wolf tries to get our meat I'll surely try my best to shoot him." As she spoke she got up and took the musket from its rack. Father had carried the lighter carbine with him. She looked it over carefully. "It has a terribly heavy charge of powder for it is the same load father put in it when he went out to shoot the wolf that got out of range so speedily yesterday." She stood it against the wall by the door.

After they were cuddled under the covers and steady, deep breathing told that Isidore was asleep, Isibel lifted her burdened soul to God for help and strength and courage to take the place of mother and father, too, while he was away.

Next day father had not come so at supper time they ate and after the reading and prayers the little ones went to bed. The moon rose, flooding the earth with glory. Several times through the evening the girls opened the door and looked and listened. Why didn't father come?

SOMETIME IN THE NIGHT Isibel was roused by a scraping sound and she said to Isidore, "Father has come." But almost before her feet were thrust into her shoes she realized the noise was not made by father, besides, he would have called. Isidore had sprung up and was putting on her shoes.

"S-s-s-h Isidore. It is something getting at our meat. Throw some kindling on the coals while I get the gun." Quickly as possible the trembling girls got to the door and slipped back the heavy bolt. At the noise they made, the scraping, snuffling, noise stopped and a considerable crunching of the snow followed. Isibel whispered, "A bear and he went down on all fours, I think." In a little bit the scraping and snuffling began again.

"Now, Isidore, listen and don't get so scared you forget, I'll step out and shoot and back in here as quick as I can. Slam the door and bolt it quick. I'll help you."

The kindling was blazing up and showed the objects in the room plainly as they swung the door wide and Isibel with the gun ready stepped out.

Her conjecture was right for a dark hulk that looked as big as the side of the house loomed before the frightened girl. As she swung the gun to her shoulder and took a sight against that dark object that was turning sharply toward her, she was conscious that she cried aloud, "Oh Lord help me."

A flash, a deafening report, and the girl fairly tumbled back into the room bumping Isidore so hard that she sent her sprawling on the floor.

A wild scream pierced the air. Instantly bedlam started, for the report of the gun, the scream of the girl and the terrible noises just outside woke every child.

Quickly throwing more wood on the fire, Isibel took up the shrieking baby and to the other children cried, "Hush! hush! sister shot a bear! everything is all right."

At last when quiet was restored and the children were back to bed Isibel opened the door and looked out. Yes, her bear was there and was still.

Before daylight an Indian came to the door with a message. Father, on his return, never so expert on snow shoes hurrying over a dangerous shelving place, slipped, fell, and shattered his right leg below the knee. After two hours suffering in the cold the Indians had happened to find him. A litter had been made quickly and they had carried him back to the settlement. The Indian had come at once to say Uncle Ben would come to stay as soon as the doctor had set the leg. But, casting a weather eye toward the sky he said, "Come soon or no come." He was evidently greatly surprised that Isibel had killed the bear which was a huge Cinnamon. He fell to work skinning it rapidly, skillfully. He tacked the hide on the wall in the kitchen, stretching and scraping it carefully. Isibel insisted he take all the meat he could carry with him. As he shouldered a great piece he said in Chinook, "Storm, squaw come stay."

A storm did set in very soon and Uncle Ben did not come. Before noon figures came through the swirling snow. Onaway and her husband. Two days later when Uncle Ben finally got up the mountain nearly frantic with fear, he found the Barton children safe and comfortable. Isibel was placing a hot supper on the table as she asked eagerly about her father and told him all that had happened.

As long as Onaway stayed and Cloud-in-the-sky came every day it was not necessary Uncle Ben should stay. Before he left Isibel put her arm through his and turned him toward Isidore's sampler. "Uncle Ben, did you ever know a scripture to be fulfilled as much as this?" "Cast thy bread upon the waters," he read in a husky voice, "And it shall return unto you after many days," finished the girl reverently.

www.LatterDayTruth.org

Prayer and Testimony

Have You Prayed Today?

Have you and I today
Stood silent as with Christ, apart from joy or fray
Of life to see by faith his face;
To look, if but a moment, at its grace,
And grow, by brief companionship more true,
More nerved to lead, to dare, to do
For him at any cost? Have we today
Found time, in thought, our hand to lay
In his, and thus compare
His will with ours, and wear
The impress of his wish? Be sure
Such contact will endure
Throughout the day; will help us walk erect
Through storm and flood; detect
Within the hidden life, sin's dross, its stain;
Revive a thought of love for him again;
Steady the steps which waver; help us see
The footpath meant for you and me.

—George Klingle.

Healing Speeded by Administration

By Elsie Reed Keatley

I want to add my testimony concerning the truthfulness of this great work, to the testimonies of others. I have received many blessings, and also my family.

Six years ago, my husband received a great blessing through administration. Before an operation on his stomach, he asked for the elders to come. The doctors and nurses marveled at the improvement he made after the operation.

My seventeen-year-old son has a growth in the back of his mouth. The doctor says that after an operation to remove the growth, it is probable radium treatments will be necessary. I ask the prayers of the Saints of God that it may be a tumor, and that it may be removed easily and effectively.

I get great benefit from letters written in the Herald.

BAZINE, KANSAS, Route 2.

Blessed in Illness

By Mrs. Minnie B. Johnson

In April, 1932, our oldest daughter suffered an attack of acute mastoiditis. After an X-ray picture had been taken at the hospital, the specialist told us that the case was so serious he would take absolutely no responsibility for anything, but that an operation was imperative.

At five o'clock, Sunday evening, April 24, she underwent an operation. The doctor said there was always danger of interior cranial infection. On Tuesday evening he reported that there was no infection, but erysipelas might develop as late as a week after the operation. No complications set in, however.

I knew no Saints in the city, but knew of Elder Ray Whiting, and I called him, asking him to remember us. He called at the hospital on Monday, and several times afterward. As my husband is not a member of the church, I did not ask for administration. I wrote Brother and Sister Emmet Purcell, of Missouri Valley, to remember us.

You who have had serious illness in your family know that every breath was a prayer. As I knelt in prayer the night of the operation, I was comforted to such an extent that I felt sure she would recover, but I knew recovery would be slow. We made frequent trips to see the doctor all summer and during the fall for head dressings, and he marveled each time at the improvement she had made. He thought the wound would not close entirely, but thanks to the power of God, it is now entirely healed.

To you who were with us in spirit and prayer, I shall ever be grateful. Though I am not privileged to attend church services, I am strong in the faith.

MONDAMIN, IOWA.

Two Testimonies That Have Impressed Me

By Mrs. C. B. Freeman

I wonder sometimes if Saints realize how long their testimonies may live in the hearts and lives of other Saints, especially the young. I would like to relate two testimonies that especially left a great impression with me.

It was about the winter of 1911, at a young people's prayer meeting in Lamoni. The congregation was asked to give special testimonies of blessings, and Brother Anderson bore testimony as to how, by the use of consecrated oil, his eyesight had been strengthened. At this time I wore glasses continually and could not be without them without suffering from headaches. I had been told by doctors fitting my eyes, that I would always have to wear them. Soon after this, on my way to Montana, I accidentally broke my glasses. I was miles from a good optician, but I remembered this testimony and began putting oil in my eyes. It was wonderful the relief that came to them. Later I had my eyes anointed and prayed for. Since then I have had no trouble.

We have used the consecrated oil in the eyes of our children with remarkable results. Our smallest child, Carol, was told by the school nurse and later by a doctor that she had trachoma. Later she began to blink terribly, and her eyelids seemed to be inflamed. We resorted to the oil again, with much prayer, and the trouble completely disappeared.

In about the year 1922, we had a friend visiting us with her small son. These people attended our Sunday school, but did not belong to the church. While playing, my little daughter threw a stone which hit the little boy in the eye injuring it badly. Feeling deeply concerned, I turned a spoonful of the oil in the eye. The pain ceased, and in about half an hour, you could not tell the eye had been injured.

Another testimony which was a source of great comfort to me was borne by Sister Charles Fish, who was at the bedside of her dying sister, at Belding, Michigan. This was shortly after the time of my baptism when I was about eighteen years of age. The sister stated that so often in hours of stress when in need of comfort, or guidance, she would take the word of God, in any of the three books, and be led to a passage which would meet her need. This testimony has meant more to me than words can express, and it is a comfort to know that the kind heavenly Father we are serving has caused these things to be written, which can mean so much to us when we have need.

I feel thankful for these testimonies and can see why we are admonished to meet often together that we may be strengthened by a testimony or a prayer.

AVA, MISSOURI.

Request Prayers

Sister Sadie E. Moffit, of Dunn Center, North Dakota, requests the prayers of the Saints in behalf of Sister Howard Hanks, who is very low at the Dickinson Hospital.

www.LatterDayTruth.org

QUESTION TIME

Is the Holy Spirit an entity, or only an influence in the sense that men influence each other?

The scriptures clearly indicate that the Holy Spirit is a divine Intelligence and one of the Godhead. He is therefore much more than an abstract term used to denote an effect. He is also a Cause; just as fully so, it appears, as Jesus was a cause in promoting his mission. The Spirit is personified in the sacred text, including all such leading versions as the Douay, Emphatic Diaglott, Moffatt, Weymouth, Twentieth Century, Syriac, and both revised versions, and is described in the Doctrine and Covenants as one God with the Father and Son:

"Callings of God by the Holy Ghost, which beareth record of the Father, and of the Son, which Father, Son, and Holy Ghost are one God, infinite and eternal, without end."—17: 5.

The Holy Spirit could scarcely be infinite if he were only an influence in the sense that a human being may exert influence with another. The infinite nature of the Spirit is implied also in the promise of Jesus:

"Howbeit when he, the Spirit of truth, is come, he will guide you into all truth; for he shall not speak of himself; but whatsoever he shall hear, that shall he speak; and he will show you things to come."—John 16: 13.

We know very little as yet about the significance of visible form in the spiritual realm, or what relationship it may have to the reality of a divine personage. We are familiar with it only in its physical aspects as they concern material things of this world. This may help to explain why the Holy Spirit appeared in visible form at the baptism of Jesus (see Luke 3: 22), but we know of no intelligible answer as to the form or substance of the Holy Spirit that would simplify our concept of his divinity. Paul refers (Romans 8: 27) to the "mind of the Spirit," and warns Ephesian saints (4: 30) to "grieve not the Holy Spirit." The subject is one of the "mysteries" that may be revealed to those who reach the heavenly life to come.

Was it the religious world, or his disciples, that Jesus prayed might be "one"?

This prayer was uttered by Jesus just before he entered the garden where he was betrayed by Judas. The prayer did not include the religious world in general, for he explained (17: 9): "I pray not for the world, but for them which thou hast given me, that they may be one, as we are." Afterward in his prayer he included those who should believe through the testimony of his disciples:

"Neither pray I for these alone, but for them also which shall believe on me through their word."—John 17: 20.

Evidently, then, Jesus prayed for the unity of all Christian believers. It was through this unified discipleship that the world would be induced to believe on him (verse 21), and it is an admitted fact that the disunity of Christians has been one of the chief obstacles to the conversion of the world.

Is it right to canvass for votes of inactive members in order to remove a branch president?

What might be wrong in one situation might conceivably be right in another. But under ordinary circumstances it would probably tend to disrupt harmony in a branch if certain persons should seek by undue influence to obtain support for one whom they desired elected for purely personal reasons, or to defeat an acting officer for similar reasons. If a president should prove himself unfit or unworthy to serve longer, the majority of the members would probably be aware of it and could be expected to withdraw support without any undue influence from others. It might be better in such cases to consult the apostle, district president, or other minister in charge of that field. He would then doubtless advise such procedure as would be most likely to secure happy results with the least friction.

While members have the right to vote their preferences for the officers to be elected, when it is necessary to state such choice it should be done in a kindly and Christian spirit and usually at the time the election occurs. In any event personal motives should not so prejudice one that he becomes unfit to make an impartial choice in the interests of the branch itself. A. B. PHILLIPS.

www.LatterDayTruth.org

14. Therefore, son of man, prophesy and say unto Gog, Thus saith the Lord God; In that day when my people of Israel dwelleth safely, shalt thou not know it?

15. And thou shalt come from thy place out of the north parts, thou, and many people with thee, all of them riding upon horses, a great company, and a mighty army:

16. And thou shalt come up against my people of Israel, as a cloud to cover the land; it shall be in the latter days, and I will bring thee against my land, that the heathen may know me, when I shall be sanctified in thee, O Gog, before their eyes.

17. Thus saith the Lord God; Art thou he of whom I have spoken in old time by my servants the prophets of Israel, which prophesied in those days many years that I would bring thee against them?

18. And it shall come to pass at the same time when God shall come against the land of Israel, saith the Lord God, that my fury shall come up in my face.

19. For in my jealousy and in the fire of my wrath have I spoken, Surely in that day there shall be a great shaking in the land of Israel;

20. So that the fishes of the sea, and the fowls of the heaven, and the beasts of the field, and all creeping things that creep upon the earth, and all the men that are upon the face of the earth, shall shake at my presence, and the mountains shall be thrown down, and the steep places shall fall, and every wall shall fall to the ground.

21. And I will call for a sword against him throughout all my mountains, saith the Lord God: every man's sword shall be against his brother.—Ezekiel 38: 8-21.

Ezekiel tells of the great battle that is to be fought on the plain of Esdraelon, the open field in the north of Palestine, referred to by John in Revelation 16: 16, as the "Battle of Armageddon." The result of this battle is recorded in Ezekiel, thirty-ninth chapter. In verse two it says, "that only a sixth of Gog's army will escape, and serve twelve states that it will take seven months to bury the dead, that the land may be cleansed." so great will be the battle of the great God. Joel says:

"I will remove far off from you the northern army, and will drive him into a land barren and desolate, with his face toward the east sea, and his hinder parts toward the utmost sea."—Joel 2: 20.

Another army is to enter Palestine for spoil, it is to come into the southern part of the country. Ezekiel gives us no prophecy of this event, but Zechariah and John the Revelator do. Zechariah says:

"For I will gather all nations against Jerusalem to battle; and the city shall be taken, and the houses rifled, and the women ravished; and half of the city shall go forth into captivity, and the residue of the people shall not be cut off from the city. Then shall the Lord go forth, and fight against those nations, as when he fought in the day of battle. [At the battle of Armageddon]. And his feet shall stand in that day upon the mount of Olives, which is before Jerusalem on the east, and the mount of Olives shall cleave in the midst thereof toward the east and toward the west, and there shall be a very great valley; and half of the mountain shall remove toward the north, and half of it toward the south. And ye shall flee to the valley of the mountains; for the valley of the mountains shall reach unto Azal: yea, ye shall flee, like as ye fled from before the earthquake in the days of Uzziah king of Judah: and the Lord my God shall come, and all the saints with thee."—Zechariah 14: 1-5.

John gives us some more particulars of this invasion in the eleventh chapter of Revelation, but Zechariah gives us the exact time; it is when Christ shall come, and all the saints with him, which is the end of the age, the beginning of the Millennium, John says that after the city and temple had been rebuilt by the Jews, the Gentiles will tread it under foot forty and two months, during which time there shall be two prophets continually prophesying and working mighty miracles. It seems that the Gentile army will be hindered from utterly destroying and overthrowing the city, while these two prophets continue. But after a struggle of three and a half years, the Gentiles will succeed in destroying these two prophets, and then they will overrun the city. They will be so glad that they will send gifts to each other because of the death of the two prophets, and in the meantime they will not allow their dead bodies to be buried, but will suffer them to lie in the streets of Jerusalem three and a half days, during which time the armies of the Gentiles will view these dead bodies as they lie in the streets. But after the three and a half days, the spirit of life from God will enter them, and they will arise and stand upon their feet, and great fear will fall upon them that see them. And then will be heard a voice from heaven, saying, "Come up hither," and they will ascend up to heaven in a cloud, and their enemies will behold them. (Revelation, eleventh chapter.) Then will come the shaking of the earth spoken of by Ezekiel, and the rending of the Mount of Olives, recorded by Zechariah. John says, "The same hour there was a great earthquake, and the tenth part of the city fell, and in the earthquake, were slain of men 7,000."

Doctrine and Covenants 45: 7-9 gives a record of this time, it tells of the mount cleaving in twain and the Lord appearing on the mount, and for the first time the Jews will recognize Jesus as the Savior. It speaks of the earth reeling to and fro and the shaking of the heavens, and the voice of the Lord heard in all the ends of the earth. This will be the end of the age, the ushering in of the Millennium, the thousand years reign of peace.

Lost Tribes of Israel

There is still another stupendous miracle to be enacted about this time, it is the coming forth of a portion of the Ten Lost Tribes of Israel.

History tells us that about 952 B. C. ten of the tribes of Israel separated from their brethren and formed themselves into a separate kingdom, with their capitol at Samaria. Here they continued to live until 721 B. C., when Shalmaneser, king of Assyria came into their country, conquering the nation and carrying the people to his own land. It was supposed that the Israelites had amalgamated with the Assyrians to such an extent that they had lost their identity, but such was not the case. God has a hand in the destiny of his people, even though they are disobedient at times. Doctrine and Covenants 2: 1 says, "The works and designs, and the purposes of God can not be frustrated, neither can they come to naught."

The Jewish historian Josephus, in his book, Antiquities of the Jews, book 2, chapter 5, tells that the ten tribes in his day (93, 94 A. D.) were still beyond the river Euphrates."

The Israelite captives remained in Assyria for a time, then they came out of the country in a body and went to the north, according to the author of the Book of Esdras, of the Apocraypha.

"And whereas thou sawest that he gathered another multitude unto him, These are the ten tribes which were carried away prisoners out of their own land in the time of Hosea, King, whom Salmanasar the King of Assyria led away captives and he carried them over the waters, and so they came into another land. But they took this counsel among themselves, that they would leave the multitude of the heathen, and go forth into a further country where never mankind dwelt, That they might keep their statutes which they never kept in their own land, and they entered into the Euphrates by the narrow passage of the river, for the Most High shewed signs for them and held still the flood till they were passed over. For through that country there was a great way to go, namely a year and a half; and the same region is called Aisareth. Then dwelt they there until the latter time; and now when they shall begin to come, the Highest shall stay the springs of the stream again, that they may go through, therefore sawest thou the multitude with peace."—Esdras 13: 39, 47, of the Apocrypha.

www.LatterDayTruth.org

Some of these Israelites must have gone through northern Europe, and lived there for a time, for instance, the tribe of Dan refused to shed their brothers' blood in the days of Jeroboam, the first king of Israel, (975 B. C.), and rather go to war with Judah, they left the country in a body and went to Greece, to Javan, then to Denmark, (at one time called Danmark or Dan's country). Keating, in his History of Ireland, says "The Danaans were a people of great learning and wealth. They left Greece after a battle with the Assyrians, and went to Ireland and Denmark, the latter also being called Dan-mares." But according to Jeremiah and the Doctrine and Covenants, and also the Book of Mormon, we believe that some of the Israelites must have gone still farther north, beyond the boundries of our present civilization of Europe and Asia, for in these books we have an account of Christ visiting them and of them coming to the land of Ephraim in the last days; they will discover us, we will never discover them, any more than the Lord did not permit the Europeans to discover the land of America, until the people of this land had disobeyed him to such an extent that he brought other people to this country to enjoy the bounties of this wonderful land. Of the coming forth of these lost tribes of Israel, Jeremiah says:

"Therefore, behold, the days come, saith the Lord, that they shall no more say, The Lord liveth, which brought up the children of Israel out of the land of Egypt;

"But, The Lord liveth, which brought up and which led the seed of the house of Israel out of the north country, and from all countries whither I had driven them; and they shall dwell in their own land."—Jeremiah 23: 7, 8.

"Therefore, behold, the days come, saith the Lord, that it shall no more be said, The Lord liveth, that brought up the children of Israel out of the land of Egypt;

"But, The Lord liveth, that brought up the children of Israel from the land of the north, and from all the lands whither he had driven them: and I will bring them again into their land that I gave unto their fathers."—Jeremiah 16: 14, 15.

A later prophet declared:

"Prepare ye for the coming of the Bridegroom; go ye, go ye out to meet him, for, behold, he shall stand upon the Mount of Olivet, and upon the mighty ocean, even the great deep, and upon the islands of the sea, and upon the land of Zion; and he shall utter his voice out of Zion, and he shall speak from Jerusalem, and his voice shall be heard among all people, and it shall be a voice as the voice of many waters, and as the voice of a great thunder, which shall break down the mountains, and the valleys shall not be found; he shall command the great deep and it shall be driven back into the north countries, and the islands shall become one land, and the land of Jerusalem and the land of Zion shall be turned back into their own place, and the earth shall be like as it was in the days before it was divided. And the Lord even the Savior shall stand in the midst of his people, and shall reign over all flesh.

"And they who are in the north countries shall come in remembrance before the Lord, and their prophets shall hear his voice, and shall no longer stay themselves, and they shall smite the rocks, and the ice shall flow down at their presence. And an highway shall be cast up in the midst of the great deep. Their enemies shall become a prey unto them, and in the barren deserts there shall come forth pools of living water; and the parched ground shall no longer be a thirsty land. And they shall bring forth their rich treasures unto the children of Ephraim my servants. And the boundaries of the everlasting hills shall tremble at their presence. And then shall they fall down and be crowned with glory, even in Zion, by the hands of the servants of the Lord, even the children of Ephraim; and they shall be filled with songs of everlasting joy."—Doctrine and Covenants 108: 5, 6.

This miracle will eclipse anything that has happened like this heretofore, for the Lord will command the great deep, and it shall be driven back to the north countries, and the islands shall become one land and the earth shall be like it was in the days before it was divided. We have no history of such an event, only a verse in Genesis 10: 25, which says, "The earth was divided in the days of Peleg." Peleg was the fourth in descent from Shem, who was the son of Noah.

Some scientists have thought on this question, and some are of the opinion that at one time the land part of this world was all together and the waters around it. We have an account of the opinion of Doctor Alfred Wegener, geologist of the University of Gratz, Austria, as printed in the Readers' Digest, for November, 1931:

"All the continents of the earth once formed one great land mass. In the remote past this land mass split up, forming the present continents, which he (Doctor Alfred Wegener) holds are still moving, with North America drifting slowly toward the equator, at the rate of two miles every 1,000,000 years. The speed king is Greenland, which is believed to be crawling westward at the rate of six feet a year.

"It is supposed that the dry land floating about on a sea of molten rock like great rafts on a quiet ocean, some forty or fifty miles below the crust of the earth.

"Doctor Wegener at one time found himself staring at a large map of the world, and unconsciously began to play a game with himself, in his imagination sliding the continents around and fitting together the pieces of land like a jig-saw puzzle.

"In his mind, he pushed Africa 3,000 miles to the west; the bulging outline of Brazil filled the Bay of Guinea and the protecting Cape San Rogue nestled in the hollow of the Cameroons, He moved Europe across the Atlantic and found the southwest northeast slant of its west coast paralleled that of the eastern shores of America. He pulled Greenland 1,500 miles to the south; its southern tip dovetailed with the Labrador coast on the west, and with the Scandinavian peninsula on the east.

"Finally, after months of consideration, Doctor Wegener became convinced that all the present bodies of land were once joined together in one vast continent—the mysterious Gondwana Land.

"This monster land, like an extra weight on one side of a spinning top, made the earth lopsided. The whirling world careened through space struggling to balance itself and redistribute its mass. Under the terrific force of the spinning planet, racing 1,000 miles an hour, the land broke into the several pieces we know as continents today.

"But when you are trying to solve the jig-saw puzzle, finding two pieces that fit together is not enough. They must also match in color. So Doctor Wegener went further and found several places where the "colors" matched as well. For instance, the rock strata on the South American coast and on the African coast are remarkably similar. Again, if you push geological maps of North America and western Europe together, he pointed out, black coal veins in one continent join black coal veins in the other, forming a continuous line. In at least five points on opposite Atlantic coasts, he discovered closely corresponding geological formations.

"Finally, it is interesting that the legends there are references to 'lost continents.' The Greeks told of a mysterious 'Atlantic,' that disappeared beyond the Pillars of Hercules; the Welsh tell of a legendary 'Avalon'; the Portuguese of the long lost 'Isle of the Seven Cities.' These may record the remote memory of long ago catastrophes when continents broke apart and drifted away."

(To be continued.)

(Note to the reader: This is the fifth installment of this article of tract length. Each installment will fill a page until the tract is completed. Readers may cut out the pages and bind them together for reference or for lending.)

www.LatterDayTruth.org

NEWS OF CHURCH AND HOME

Address all news and letters to Editors of the Herald, Box 237, Independence, Missouri. Correspondents are requested to make their letters brief. The Editors reserve the right, on account of space limitations, to shorten all letters as circumstances require.

Missionary Case and Wife Visit Oklahoma

Spiritual Growth in Michigan

My visit home was so filled with good will and good times with loved ones, the time, as usual, was too short. I took my wife to Oklahoma to see her people, and this was a real treat. We met a few of the Saints we years ago learned to love and appreciate. We attended church services at Shidler where Brother Simmons was holding meetings. Brother Simmons was among the Kaw Indians near the home of Charles Curtis, ex-Vice President. I had baptized some of these people years ago, and the crowd of Indians and white people was large. Four white children were baptized before the meeting and two were blessed.

Coming back to Michigan I was soon busy at work in the various branches. The young people at Bentley, on Tuesday evening of this same week, assembled for Bible study taught by Sister Beatrice Saunders. There were about seventy young people at this meeting.

Thursday evening, a large attendance, particularly of young people, met at Beaverton, and enjoyed an excellent program.

There seems to be a growing interest in spiritual things, a real increase in the spiritual growth of the church. If we ever learn the value of kindness, peace, and humility, and apply it, we shall see greater growth in this church than ever before in this generation.

HUBERT CASE.

Utah District

Enjoys Visits of Apostles E. J. Gleazer and M. A. McConley, Elders J. E. Vanderwood and Frank Veenstra

Utah District has lately been favored with short visits from Apostles Gleazer and McConley. Apostle Gleazer was traveling with his family by auto from Independence to California, and before coming notified Brother Chase that they would stop at the auto camps rather than in the homes of the Saints, as the son of the family at these various stops would do canvassing for auto accessories, and help with the expense of the trip.

The family arrived in Salt Lake City, June 10, and when Brother Gleazer called up Elder Chase to know of the appointments, and when he found that there was an appointment at Ogden for him that evening, he reversed the usual order of things by inviting Elder A. M. Chase and wife to be their guests for the trip as well as for the trip to Provo for the following Monday night. These two branches and that of Salt Lake, feel revived after listening to his inspired sermons.

The theme at each of these services was "The Zionic Plan of Stewardship and Consecration," and the Lord surely assisted him in his message. In Salt Lake City a number of the elders of the Utah Church were in attendance and were much interested; one declared it the best sermon on that subject he had ever heard. Their position is that the Lord gave this law to the church, but that they are not good enough to keep it, (and were not good enough, so were not able to obey it,) so the Lord took it away and gave them the law of tithing instead. You can imagine Apostle Gleazer's answer to this. It was fine and effective.

Apostle McConley, passing through on the way to his mission field in the West, stopped here, June 15 and 16, giving the Saints an inspirational sermon the evening of the sixteenth. He also arranged with the district presidency for a three-day reunion and district conference to be held at Ogden, July 7 to 9.

Elder John E. Vanderwood was with the Saints in the district, May 20, to June 8, coming to attend the funeral of his brother, Joseph Vanderwood, and while here renewing old acquaintances, as well as visiting relatives. The Saints of Malad, Idaho, Ogden, Provo, and Salt Lake City, Utah, enjoyed his sermons.

The series of rally days recently held at Salt Lake, Provo, and Ogden, were a decided success. The branches responded well, though at some sacrifice. Ogden is the center of the district and is about eighty miles from Provo and Malad. Malad commandeered the school bus and individual cars to attend the rally at Ogden, and thirty-eight Saints attended.

Elder Roy Hewes, president of Ogden Branch and a member of the reserve officers in the national army, was called to the colors as chaplin and sent to the Boise district for six months. The coming of Elder Frank Veenstra just at this time was providential for Ogden Branch. A business meeting was held the evening of Brother Hewes' departure for his assignment in the Boise area, and Brother Veenstra, who is just back from his mission to Holland, and has been appointed to this district, was voted in as branch president.

At the business meeting of the branch in Salt Lake, June 28, Elder A. M. Chase, pastor and district president, stated that his work in this district was missionary as well as pastoral and thought it might be well to begin open-air meetings in the park of the city and county building on Sunday evenings. The branch voted unanimously in favor of this, and the next Sunday evening, Brother and Sister Chase loaded folding chairs, Bilhorn organ, songbooks and bag of tracts and were found at their old stand under the electric lights about eight o'clock, ready for action.

Mobile, Alabama

Community Singing Is Enjoyed

The Children's Day program, June 18, was given by the junior church department. The songs were selected by the junior leader and six boys and girls gave a dialogue on fundamental principles.

A special feature of the service was the blessing of several babies. As the parents brought their children to be blessed the junior church sang appropriate songs, "In the Early Springtime," and "Bring Them In." Several young boys and girls were baptized in the afternoon by Pastor Amos Berve and Elder Franklin Steiner. These were confirmed at the evening service.

Mobile Church participated in a community sing Tuesday night, June 20, at the Oakdale Methodist Church. Pastor Berve was called upon to offer prayer, and after the singing of a few congregational songs, the Saints' choir sang the anthem, "Rock of Ages." A male quartet composed of Oran Cochrane, Dan Miller, Earl Scott, and Aubrey Miller gave a beautiful interpretation of "Consecration." Several churches participated and Mobile Saints were the host for the next sing held Thursday, June 29.

An all-day meeting was held at Bayou La Batre, Sunday, June 25. There was dinner on the ground, and meetings were held in the morning, afternoon and evening. Brothers Berve, Oscar Tillman, and Franklin Steiner were the speakers of the day. These meetings were at the home of Brother Oscar Tillman. This is a mission of Mobile Branch, and services are held there each Sunday morning and night. Brother Delbert Tillman is church school superintendent, and Brother Franklin Steiner presides at the evening service.

www.LatterDayTruth.org

Kennett, Missouri

Young People Are Interested in Work

Under the efficient leadership of Elder H. H. Wiggins, Kennett group is moving onward. May 25, Brother R. Robertson, from Salt Lake City, visited there, and he delivered four sermons to the branch. The young people especially wish to extend their thanks and appreciation to him through the Herald for his splendid work at this place.

The young people are working, and seem to manifest more interest than ever before. The officers and members are proud of their efforts, and feel assured much good will come from the work they are doing.

The present membership is nearly one hundred. Many Saints are interested in the purchasing of new land that is opening up in this section. Missionary W. E. Haden has patiently assisted many in getting homes there.

Lorain, Ohio

Religious Training Is Given Emphasis

The Saints of Lorain Branch are fortunate in having recently been able to rent a church building in which to hold services. This building is more centrally located than the hall in which they formerly met, and is provided with a basement of ample size, and rooms in which to conduct classes.

On the Sunday, June 11, at nine o'clock, many of the branch gathered at the Y. M. C. A. to witness the baptism of two adults and four children. This Children's Day was also marked by the singing of a beautiful and appropriate solo by Sister F. T. Haynes, of Cleveland, during the Sunday school hour. Church seal pins were then presented to Sister Haynes, and Sisters Hazel and Ruth Minkler, of Wellington, as tokens of appreciation of their labors which have entitled them to the possession of Gold Seal Certificates.

At eleven o'clock, Elder E. G. Hammond, of Akron, preached an inspiring sermon, following which three children were blessed, and two were confirmed.

The afternoon program consisted of a song service, followed by a prayer and testimony meeting, during which three others were confirmed, and one child blessed.

The church school held its annual picnic, June 21.

Under the leadership of Sister Ruth Minkler, a teacher training class has been organized which will meet each Thursday evening at the church.

Alaflora Branch

Near Brewton, Alabama

Alabama and Florida district conference convened at Alaflora Branch at 2.30 p. m., June 3, with a number of visitors from other branches. An unusually good spirit prevailed at the conference.

There is to be a young people's convention of several days' duration some time later in the summer.

Elder Earl T. Higdon was the speaker at the eight o'clock Saturday evening service, and chose for his subject, "Why Tarriest Thou?" Regular meetings were held throughout the day, and lunch was served on the church lawn.

At the three o'clock meeting, two young men, Brother Clarence Dreaden, of Local, Alabama, and Brother Gordon Barnes, of Pensacola Branch, were ordained to the Aaronic priesthood. Elder C. J. Clark gave an impressive talk on the sacredness of the priesthood, and Brother Higdon sang a solo.

Seventy-three Saints witnessed the conference prayer service. Elder A. D. McCall was in charge of this meeting and was also the speaker at the evening hour.

The junior choir, under the direction of Earl Higdon, has furnished some good music. The women's department is under the leadership of Sister J. A. Bishop. Some good programs are carried out each week, and the women are trying to assist financially. It was voted at the last business meeting that twenty per cent of the money made each time should go to the general church treasury, and the rest to be placed in the branch treasury.

Calumet, Oklahoma

Young Priesthood Give Talks

May 26, each of the three youngest members of the local priesthood gave a short sermonet at the evening hour. The young people had charge of the services throughout the day.

The first Sunday in June was rally day. Patriarch Frederick A. Smith and Elder Z. Z. Renfroe were in Calumet over the week-end. Brother Smith gave patriarchial blessings to six and delivered two sermons on Sunday. A large number of visitors were present and the Spirit of the master was present in the sacrament and prayer services in the afternoon.

The children of the branch gave a beautiful program and Brother A. G. Owings delivered a short sermon on "Decision" during the eleven o'clock hour June 11. Three children were baptized.

Starting Thursday, June 22, Brother and Sister Hale Smith held services the remainder of the week. Calumet Saints were pleased to have them there and extend a welcome to come again.

Apostle Roy S. Budd gave a beautiful sermon on "Worshiping God," at the evening service, June 25.

There was an all-day picnic the fourth of July. In the evening a play was presented.

Dunn Center, North Dakota

Three Graduate Here

On Sunday, June 18, Elder P. T. Anderson met with Dunn Center Branch for all-day services. Meetings were held in the forenoon. A baptismal and confirmation service was held in the afternoon. The following list are new members: Mr. and Mrs. Lewis Dinehart and daughter, Hazel, and a fine young man, Iver Engebretson, the first of his family to unite with this church, and Mr. Merrill Moore.

Florence Tucker graduated from the Dunn Center High School this year with the honor of valedictorian. Florence does good work in the Sunday school and church. Clema Moffit graduated from Carlton High School at Carlton, Minnesota, and has returned to her home here. Grace Tucker has graduated from the Dickinson State Teachers College.

Seattle and British Columbia District

Bellingham, Washington

Elder A. C. Martin is holding a series of meetings here. The week of June 18, his discourses were particularly for the Saints, urging all to press forward towards the redemption of Zion. The week of June 25, his sermons were on the doctrines and beliefs of the church. The attendance has been small, and those of the church who neglected to attend missed something worth while.

The Lynden Saints, who have been meeting as a mission, are now meeting with the Bellingham Saints in Sunday services.

Recently Elder Marcus H. Cook visited here, and preached a number of times.

The young people's group has enjoyed two wiener roasts and two hikes lately. This group gave a "tin can party" recently. Those attending were asked to bring a can or cans of food to donate towards the food supply for those of the young people who plan to attend Silver Lake reunion. They are hoping to have one hundred per cent attendance.

Rosedale, British Columbia

On May 6, Elder A. C. Martin, district missionary, started a three-weeks' series of meetings. Preaching services were held every evening during the week with the exception of Saturday. Elder Martin is well known in this part of his field, and his visit was greatly appreciated.

During the past month two families have taken up residence in Rosedale. Brother Leonard Quance and family, from Vancouver, and Brother Joseph

www.LatterDayTruth.org

Bates and family, from Saskatchewan. Both families will be a valuable asset to the work here as both men hold the priesthood.

Recently two socials were held by the group. One was in the form of a welcome to the Quance family, and the other was a farewell to Brother Martin.

Vancouver, British Columbia

A mother and daughter banquet was held at the church, May 19. A delicious meal was prepared by the daughters and served by the young men. The tables were gayly decorated with flowers of the season. About sixty were present. Bertha Morrison acted as the toastmistress for the occasion.

A few of the young people of Vancouver went to New Westminster, May 24, and enjoyed a nice time at the home of Sister Butterfield.

Independence

The Young People's Council of Independence sponsored a missionary trip to the First Church of Saint Joseph, Missouri, July 9. A special program was given during the church school hour by young people from here. Kenneth Morford, vice president of the council, gave a short talk on the purpose of the organization and on what the council is trying to accomplish.

At noon a picnic lunch was enjoyed in one of the beautiful parks. Arrangements were made for the group to visit the asylum in the afternoon. About seventy young people enjoyed the trip to Saint Joseph.

The Campus

Tradition was upheld at the Campus again this year—a big and busy fourth of July! The day's program was full, and the weatherman was more lenient than for several years.

A baseball game began at 10 a. m., and from that hour, too, until 1 p. m., all contestants for the afternoon's races and contests, were required to register at the grand stand. The games and contests—fourteen events in all—were sponsored by the Chamber of Commerce, and prizes were numerous. In the races there were boys' and girls' relays and dashes, a three-legged race, sack, balloon, and wheelbarrow. Men and boys over eighteen had a tug of war and a horseshoe pitching contest. These events lasted from 1 to 3 p. m. Then the Campus ball fans enjoyed a ball game between the Fifth Ward Democratic Club of Kansas City and the Campus team.

In the evening picnickers sought shady parts of the Campus to spread out family dinners. And the day was finished with a Will Rogers movie, "Down to Earth," plus comedy, naturgraph and news. Refreshment stands were open all day.

Sixty boys are being furnished recreation in a baseball league known as the Independence Boys' League, which plays every Saturday morning at the Campus. There are four teams in the league and they are named after Big League teams—the Yankees, the Pirates, the Tigers and the Cubs. T. A. Beck is president of the league and E. H. McKean, league manager.

Last Saturday morning the league began the second half of the season and is playing a twelve-game schedule. At the end of the season the teams placing first and second will play a three-game series for the pennant.

The purpose of the league is to promote good sportsmanship among the boys and to provide recreation for them at home. The Independence Young People's Council sponsors the league activities, and will give an out-door ice cream social for the league at the Campus Friday evening, July 14, to raise funds for the boys' expenses.

The Yankees, who have been in first place all season, are now sponsored by the Herald Publishing House, and the Herald business manager, Ward A. Hougas, has outfitted the team with uniforms. This club has scheduled games with out-of-town clubs, and arrangements are being made to meet other clubs in Independence. The Yankees will also continue their Saturday morning league schedule.

The Sunday evening preaching services at the Campus are going well. Large congregations of Saints gather to listen to the word of truth expounded by President Elbert A. Smith. Brother Smith is one of the favorite speakers of the church in Independence, and the Saints are happy to have him as the summer Sunday evening speaker. He is conducting a study of the Book of Doctrine and Covenants by giving emphasis to general teachings of the church. Last Sunday evening, July 11, he spoke on the Restoration and the dispensations of the fullness of time.

Musicians of the various congregations are very helpful. The Auditorium Band is generous with its services, and members of choirs and choral clubs have offered beautiful gifts of song.

Stone Church

The main auditorium of the Stone Church was crowded as usual for the communion service, July 2. Opal Goode Doty created a reverential atmosphere for the service with soft organ music. Pastor John F. Sheehy was assisted in the stand by Bishops G. L. DeLapp, J. S. Kelley, and R. T. Cooper, Apostle F. Henry Edwards, and Elders C. Ed. Miller and T. A. Beck. Brother Edwards gave the principal address and then the congregation engaged in silent prayer and meditation.

Apostle and Mrs. James A. Gillen announce the marriage of their daughter, Clarice, to John W. Webster, of Meeteetse, Wyoming. The wedding took place at Denver, Colorado, June 26. Mr. and Mrs. Webster will make their home in Wyoming. The bride is an Independence girl and a graduate of William Chrisman High School. She also attended Graceland College and the University of Kansas.

The quality of worship of the young people's midweek prayer meetings at the Stone Church has shown decided improvement in the past few weeks. Attendance also has grown, and is now above the one hundred mark. Elder T. A. Beck, in charge of these services, is giving a devoted leadership. In the past two weeks he has been assisted in the stand by Elders J. W. A. Bailey, W. Earl Page, and others.

Thirty-five Girl Scouts of the Stone Church troops, 37 and 46, have been enjoying a five-day camp on a private estate west of Merriam, Kansas. They left by auto early last Friday morning, and camp activities were designed especially to emphasize the attaining of First Class scout rank. With them went the following officers: Mrs. Alberta Cox and Miss Leta Moriarty, captains; Mrs. C. B. Woodstock, instructor in handcraft; Miss Marguerite Givens, lieutenant, and Mrs. Pearl W. Moriarty, camp nurse. The girls earned the money which made this camp possible by their "trip around the world," and a bake sale. They will return to Independence tonight.

Miss Frances Gindhart, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. W. S. Gindhart, and Homer Kelley, son of Mrs. Kearney Kelley, were married the evening of June 29, at the Stone Church. The ceremony was read by Evangelist U. W. Greene following the rendering of an appropriate musical program. The bride was given in marriage by her father, and attended by her sister, Miss Irene Gindhart, and Miss Margaret Hawxby, of Auburn, Nebraska. Flower girls were Betty Jo and Verna Jean Crumm, and Bobby Kelley was the ringbearer. Patricia Donaldson and Catherine Lee Filson lighted the candles. Robert Kelley acted as best man for his brother and William Haden, of Lamoni, was groomsman. Ushers were Howard Reese, Roy McNeil, George Briggs, and Kenneth Filson. A reception followed the ceremony at the home. The bridal couple left for a brief wedding trip to Chicago and are now at home in Independence.

The Stone Church was the scene of another wedding the evening of July 3, when Miss Berenice Koehler, daughter of Elder and Mrs. C. C. Koehler, became the bride of Lloyd Howe, of Independence. Elder John F. Sheehy read the ceremony, and Paul N. Craig played the organ, "I Love You Truly," "The Rosary," and the bridal march. The bride was given in marriage by her father, and was attended by the bridegroom's sister, Miss Dorothy Howe, and her own sister, Mrs. A. G. Campbell. The bridegroom was attended by his brother, Earl Howe and by Cleo Nesbitt. Mr.

www.LatterDayTruth.org

and Mrs. Howe are now at home in Independence.

Pastor John F. Sheehy was the eleven o'clock speaker at the Stone Church last Sunday morning. He presented a sermon of counsel and challenge to the Saints.

Second Church

Though the morning was extremely warm, a good crowd participated in Second Church's sacrament service, July 2. The hour began with an organ prelude played by Mrs. Sam Inman, and the invocation was offered by Brother F. L. Freeman, sr., who also gave a short talk on the oblation. Brothers J. L. Conyers and A. K. Dillee confirmed the baptism of George Dillee, and Elder S. H. Fields talked on the sacrament. A special prayer was offered by Assistant Pastor B. C. Sarratt.

Walnut Park Church

Quarterly election of religio officers was held Sunday evening. Those elected were: President, Vernon Sackman; first vice president, Milford Nace; second vice president, Wilma Smelser; secretary, Fern Price; chorister, Thelma Moorman; pianist, Lavona Crabb; devotional chairman, Melba Moorman; social committee, Jessie Anderson, Audrey Horn and Helen Moorman; membership committee, Opal Colebank, Eddie Butterworth and Opal Horn. Following the election, the new officers took places on the rostrum and were introduced to the membership by C. G. Closson. Elder Welton Wood then made a short talk to the officers, emphasizing the responsibilities which their election to office placed upon them.

Sacrament services Sunday morning, July 2, were in charge of the pastor, Elder Frank McDonald, assisted by Elder M. T. Williams. In spite of the extreme heat the church was well filled. Elder Rodyen Barnhardt made a short talk preceding the taking of the oblation, and Brother McDonald talked to the congregation preceding the serving of the emblems.

Sister Marian Campbell, who for a considerable time reported the Walnut Park items to the Herald, underwent a major operation at the Sanitarium Saturday, July 1, and is reported to be recovering satisfactorily.

On Wednesday, July 5, twenty-five young people of the Liberty Street Church met with the young people of Walnut Park in their prayer meeting held on the lawn at the home of Brother and Sister Fred Horn. The meeting was held in conjunction with the regular midweek meeting of Group 28 North, and drew an attendance of ninety, about sixty-five being young people. C. G. Closson of Walnut Park presided, assisted by Lee Davis of Liberty Street.

Friday evening, July 7, the members of the priesthood of Walnut Park and their wives met in the basement of the church for a covered-dish dinner, followed by singing of hymns and talks pertaining to the task of the priesthood and ways in which their wives can help them in their work. The singing was led by Brother Erwin Moorman, Sister Gladys Reynolds accompanying at the piano. Elder Benjamin Bean presided during the speaking program. Among those who talked were the pastor of the Walnut Park congregation, Elder Frank McDonald, Elders A. K. Dillee and John F. Sheehy of the pastorate in Zion, Sister Sheehy, Sister Dillee, Sister M. T. Williams, and a number of short, impromptu talks by others present who were asked to make a contribution to the occasion. The attendance was estimated at approximately one hundred.

Spring Branch Church

Activity and spirituality continue to characterize the midweek and early Sunday morning prayer services.

At the sacrament meeting, July 2, Brothers Robert Fish, Jesse Smith, J. Andes, and J. C. Mabbott presided. A vocal number was given by Gladys, Imogene and Alma Dixon. Then Russell Carroll, son of Brother and Sister Gleason R. Carroll, was blessed.

On this day the congregation was happy to have as visitors several former members of the branch—Brother and Sister J. C. Mabbott, of Bates City, Dorothy Mabbott, Guilford Mabbott and family, and Brother and Sister Clive Heath, of Atherton, and Judith Bilquist, also of Atherton.

Regular services were held during the week. The eleven o'clock service, July 9, was opened by Jesse Smith. The choir sang "The Heavens Declare." "Love" was the subject of the talk by Elder Robert Fish.

Sunday evening, July 16, the Saints of Spring Branch are planning to visit Atherton. All are to meet at the church at 6.00 p. m.

Enoch Hill Church

The three groups and the young people met in union midweek prayer service with pastor H. L. Barto in charge, assisted by J. W. Collins and W. J. Brewer.

Brother C. E. Beal, superintendent of the church school, was in his place Sunday morning, July 2, after a few Sundays' absence attending to duties in the junior church school in the lower auditorium.

Before the sacrament service the mothers' trio, composed of Sisters Willis Young, Millard Pace and Charles Warren, sang, "Abide With Me." Pastor Barto was in charge of the service which was characterized by the spirit of consecration and devotion.

The women from Enoch Hill, who are attending Bishop C. A. Skinner's classes at the Stone Church Monday afternoon, are feeling well repaid.

Enoch Hill young people had as their guests the evening of June 30, boys and girls from Gudgell Park. Volley ball was the attraction of the evening. The Gudgell Park girls defeated Enoch Hill girls, but the home district boys turned the tables by winning their series from the visiting boys.

An impressive prayer service was held early Sunday morning, July 9.

Elder W. J. Brewer completed a series of talks, given by members of the priesthood, describing "The Threefold Man." He talked on "Man and His Spiritual Nature." Sister Ruth Hays sang, "Take Time to Be Holy."

Brother S. A. Thiel made an interesting talk on prohibition, acquainting the young people with some of the conditions in Independence in the day of the saloon.

"Come Unto Me" was sung by Sister Anna Watts Crick, accompanied by Sister Opal Hanson. Their contribution was appreciated by the Saints as both women were former members of Enoch Hill congregation. Elder A. K. Dillee made the subject of his talk "Charity."

Gudgell Park Church

June was a profitable month for this congregation. It began with a singularly helpful sacrament service. In spite of intense heat the attendance of Wednesday night prayer meetings was good.

On Children's Day, June 11, the children gave a good program. Two little boys were baptized, Eugene Atwell and Alfred Williams. They went to the Walnut Park font for this ordinance.

On June 18, Pastor Walter Chapman gave the congregation an interesting talk which all enjoyed. Then a week later Apostle Clyde F. Ellis was the speaker. Gudgell Park members were happy to listen to him.

On the afternoon of that day, June 25, a number of Saints motored to Blue Springs to a small lake near the farm of Brother Oglevie where a baptismal service took place. The shades of evening were falling as the members gathered at the water's edge to sing, "Jesus, I My Cross Have Taken." The call of a whippoorwill broke in upon the ordinance. Brother Matthew Cleland officiated. Arrangements were made for the confirmation to take place the following Wednesday at the church.

Five young men of Gudgell Park decided to study church history and public speaking as a leisure time occupation. Melton Martin, Earl Sherman, Melvin Atwell, George Martin, and Donald Berch met May 5 at the home of Melton Martin and organized a church history class. The class meet every Monday evening at the home of their teacher, Walter Chapman. Others have joined and any one is welcome to attend. Brother Chapman lives at 1515 South Dodgeon, Independence, Missouri.

www.LatterDayTruth.org

Holden Stake

Atherton Church

The Saints recently enjoyed an evening at the home of Brother and Sister Van Tuyl. Strawberries, ice cream and cake were served to about two hundred people.

Ammon Beebe was numbered among the high school graduates of Independence.

Apostle Myron A. McConley visited Atherton, June 4, for the sacrament hour. Instead of the regular testimonies, Brother McConley gave a brief talk which was very encouraging.

The children, trained by Mildred and Mary Helen Thomas, gave an impressive program on Children's Day. In the afternoon two adults and five children were baptized and were confirmed in the evening.

A number of the young people from Atherton attended the Youth Conference.

Apostle J. A. Gillen spoke at the eleven o'clock hour, June 25. He bore a faithful testimony of the truthfulness of the gospel, and gave advice to seek earnestly for a divine consciousness of our acceptance with God, for such will be necessary to combat the subtle influences of the satanic foe.

In the evening, Brother O. Clark preached.

Blue Springs Church

The sacrament meeting, June 4, was in charge of Pastor O. W. Sarratt. Brother Gerald Phillips talked concerning the oblation. Brother R. J. Stark gave a sermonet on "Charity." The subject of Brother D. Spease's talk in the evening was "The Spirit of God."

Sunday, June 11, the Saints at Blue Springs observed Father's Day with a program, and each father present was given a red silk ribbon bookmarker.

On the eighteenth, it was voted to discontinue the Sunday evening service during July and August. In the evening Brother Joe Martin, from Independence, talked on "Faith." Sister J. Jones and Sister C. Warren sang a duet number, "Abide Thou With Us."

The Children's Day program was given, June 25. After the morning service the Saints gathered at a cool and peaceful grove in the Oglevie woods for lunch. After dinner two young men, Winfred Robinson, and Glen Scoles, and seven children, Maxine Rice, Eugene Immer, Lane Stark, Warren Sarratt, Homer Bybee, Mildred Hartley, and Altha Halfhill were baptized. Brothers H. Hattey from Bates City, R. J. Stark, and Alma Campbell officiated in the baptisms. The confirmation followed in the evening.

The church school and Wednesday evening prayer services are well attended in spite of hot weather.

The infant son of Mr. and Mrs. J. T. Richardson, was blessed Sunday, June 18. He was given the name Richard Harold. Sister Richardson before her marriage was Erma Robinson.

Kirtland, Ohio

Spring and Summer Are Busy Seasons for Youth

Several of the young people of Kirtland Branch have been active in first one event and then another all spring and summer. About the most important occasion was the school commencement. Of the sixteen graduates the following belong to the church: Paul Wallace Webbe, Clyde Oscar Ebeling, Alice Jeanette Smith, John Thomas Nutter, Ruth Gwendolyn Davies, Mary Alice Hall, and Edgar Charles Manross. The class presented a story of the year 1933 in music, and each one had a part. "Smiling Through," class song, was composed by Clyde Ebeling.

On Children's Day eight candidates were baptized and confirmed. Patriarch F. G. Pitt preached the sermon at the eleven o'clock hour.

Sister Hazel Blohm, director of Religious Education in Northern California District, visited in Kirtland recently and took part in the Children's Day program.

A six-session accredited institute was held in Kirtland June 16, 17, and 18. The class work was built around the general theme, "Fundamental Ideals of Latter Day Saintism." The teachers were Elder John L. Cooper, Earl R. Curry, Sister Mary E. Gale, Au Vergne Proper, and Brother William F. Webbe. District President James E. Bishop was present for the institute, and on Sunday preached two splendid sermons in harmony with the general theme. He presented certificates to Sister Jean P. Cooper, first grade, and Mary E. Gale, Beatrice Gale, Alma O. Curry, Mae Webbe, and William F. Webbe all received second grade certificates.

Four children were blessed in the Temple recently under the hands of Elders E. A. Webbe, Thomas Thomas, and George Lindsey.

Apostle Paul M. Hanson was a recent visitor at Kirtland and delivered some good sermons. Elder and Sister F. G. Pitt are in Kirtland again, and the Saints appreciate the help given by Brother Pitt.

Inquiries and discussions are being heard about the coming reunion. A great time of rejoicing is anticipated.

July 23, will be the one hundredth year anniversary since the corner stone of the Temple had been laid. Plans to hold a commemoration service at that time are under way.

Several of the Saints from here attended the fifty year anniversary of the Wheeling, West Virginia, Church.

Esther Ruth Givens, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Harry Givens, became the bride of Mr. Russell E. Starcher of Akron, Ohio, on June 19, in the Temple. Pastor John L. Cooper performed the ceremony. Mr. Starcher is employed at Akron, Ohio, but Mrs. Starcher will reside in Kirtland for awhile. A miscellaneous shower was given for the bride by her sister, Anna Manross, June 29.

Sister Anna Householder, reunion chorister, is making preparations for reunion music. This department made an outstanding contribution toward the success of the reunion last year.

Ella M. Foster, of East Side Cleveland, died April 8, 1933. She was loved by all that knew her. Interment was made in Kirtland Cemetery.

Kansas City Stake

Grandview Church

The Laurel Club held its semiannual bazaar and dinner, May 26, at the church, and about thirty-three dollars was cleared. Some lovely music was furnished by the local orchestra.

Children's Day was observed June 11, with an appropriate program by the children under the direction of Sisters Francis Krummel and Ethel Hicklin. Two children were baptized by Elder C. D. Jellings.

Th La Da Sa Club held their spring luncheon at Central Church in Kansas City, June 12, with one hundred present. Mrs. A. L. Cooper, teacher of the world's largest Bible class for women, spoke on "The Larger Life." Music was furnished by Josephine Crinklaw, soloist, Sarah Jean Griest, pianist, and Elizabeth Smith, harpist. This was the last club meeting until fall.

The members of Grandview celebrated the tenth anniversary at their present church home, June 25. The church was beautifully decorated with garden flowers and candles. A family worship program of special music and a sermonet by Pastor C. G. Mesley opened the day. The choir gave a concert at eleven o'clock and Stake President C. E. Wight was guest speaker. The evening service was opened by a concert by the orchestra. Apostle J. A. Gillen spoke on "The Greater Vision." A candle light appreciation service was conducted by ten young people and one small boy.

Argentine Church

Regular services were held throughout the day, June 25. Bondie Shireman, deacon, was the booster for the "Sacrifice week" at the morning service. Elder John W. A. Bailey was the evening speaker on "Knowing What We Believe."

Gladstone Church

Saturday evening, July 1, an ice cream social was held on the lawn of Brother and Sister Barham. A good attendance and a fine social time were had.

The presence of Pastor Harry Sevy

www.LatterDayTruth.org

and wife added much to the success of the July sacrament service.

During the church school period, La-Rena Bullard sang, "My Task."

Brother Earl Cox and family have recently moved into the neighborhood, and are giving willing service in every way possible. Brother Cox is a deacon.

Milan Mission, Michigan

Elder Clyde Gault a Willing Worker

Milan Mission, under the leadership of Elder W. Clyde Gault, of Detroit, is keeping step with the church in its onward march to Zion.

On June 11, under the hands of district officers, K. H. Green and A. B. Smith, Jesse Masten, one of the young men, was ordained to the office of priest. A baby was blessed at the same meeting.

A young people's club has been organized and is called "The Clean Sport Club." June 18, three candidates were baptized by Brother W. C. Gault.

Until recently Elder Gault has been in charge of the Ann Arbor group, but resigned so that he might give more attention to Milan. This mission stands as a lone sentinel doing its duty between Detroit and Toledo. Members come fourteen and twenty miles over rough road to attend services.

Manchester, England

Beresford Road Church

On the evening of Thursday, May 29, an interesting event took place in the schoolroom of the above church. Permission had been granted to "The Order of the Sons of Temperance" to hold meetings for the purpose of organizing a branch of their work in this district, and this evening was made the occasion of a splendid gathering of the order.

Pastor W. R. Armstrong was asked to take the chair, and seemed to be in his element both in his opening and intervening remarks.

A program had been arranged in which the artists who took part were the ladies of the Manchester Grand Division office staff, and one speaker referred to them as having filled a long felt want, in the fact that they had now provided the order with a concert party for future use, and gave them to understand that there would be frequent calls for their services. They provided good entertainment.

During the first part of the program, Miss Fogg sang two songs, "I Love the Moon," and "One Alone"; Miss Lord recited "Our Alfred," and "And Yet I Don't Know"; Miss Heath sang, "When Song Is Sweet"; Miss Warmisham recited, "His First Long Trousers"; Miss Ashworth sang, "Derry Dale," and the ladies combined in giving an amusing representation of "Broadcasting."

In this piece the audience were asked to pretend that they did not see the performers and to imagine that they were tuning in on a wireless set, getting in reception a medley of talks from stations all over the country. The result may be better imagined than described, and it is left to the reader to imagine the effect of hearing one speaker tell how to care for a sick person, when another voice interjects, "Pour oil in the joints and well lubricate."

In the second half of the program, Miss Fogg sang "Roses," and "Old Fashioned Town"; Miss Lord recited "The West Wind"; Miss Heath sang "The Little Brown House"; Misses Heath and Warmisham sang "The Second Minuet"; Miss Warmisham recited "Vespers," and "He Who Serves," and three of the women finished up with a sketch, "Our at 'ome Day."

The speakers of the evening were Brother F. Garside, Grand Worthy Patriarch; Grand Scribe, Brother Walter Davies, C. B. E., J. P. F. F. I., and Mrs. R. Wheeldon, Grand Patron who is in charge of the juvenile branch of the order throughout Manchester.

One of the speakers spoke in appreciation of the kindness extended to them by Pastor Armstrong and church members, and the general atmosphere of the meeting was similar to that of the church gatherings, where everybody is made to feel really welcome.

The Saints hope that this order will meet with every success in their efforts to open up a new branch, for they are sure it will be to the benefit of all. The order's aims are in harmony with those of the church. They believe that when the body is kept free from those things that injure it, the mind is in a far purer state too, and hence in a better condition to think of the pure things of life. They look forward to a cleaner race of people, free from the pollutions of alcohol, and the church, too, looks forward to a race of people free, not only from the pollutions of alcohol, but from the nerve-destroying poison of nicotine; to a race of people who in every sense of the word, think only of "whatsoever things are true, whatsoever things are pure, whatsoever things are beautiful."

Gospel Hall, James Street

A special Children's Day program was enjoyed June 18. Nine young people and one adult were baptized in the morning by Elder Harold Barrington. Prior to the ceremony, Brother John Schofield, from Birmingham, preached to the Saints on the necessity of entering the waters of baptism.

The service in the afternoon was conducted by the church school director, Elder H. Barrington. Solos were sung by the Misses Florence Hayward and Edith Noble. Brother Curtis Leggott, although far from well, took his accustomed place at the organ. May Colden gave a splendid talk on class work, and Sister Noble next talked on "Decisions."

An impressive feature of the program was the presentation of gifts by the children. Brother Leggott played softly on the organ while gifts of fruit, and pots of preserves, were received by Elder F. Topping, as a mark of their loving thought and esteem for the aged members, and the sick of the branch.

For the evening a short worship program preceded District President Chandler's address on the "Laying on of Hands." Following this the candidates who had been baptized were confirmed.

Pastor G. W. Leggott, who is loved and respected by all who know him, is seriously ill. Brother Leggott has led the Saints here for many years, and the Saints spend much time in prayer in his behalf.

Columbus, Ohio

Second Church, Rinehard and Twenty-second Streets

Patriarch J. E. Matthews gave a short talk at the sacrament service, June 4.

The women's department met June 8, in the social room of the church with twenty-three members and one visitor present. Sister Ruth Hamilton read a splendid paper on "The Resurrection," and a paper on "Luck" was read by Sister Maud Reeves.

June 11, District President A. E. Anderton preached a good sermon taking for a theme, "An Open Door."

The sixth anniversary of the dedication of the church was observed June 18, and Patriarch Matthews, and Elder C. W. Clark preached the sermons. The choir sang several anthems, and Sister Hazel Gribben sang a solo.

June 25, Patriarch J. E. Matthews blessed Lois Eileen, the little daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Will Wemlinger.

The Children's Day program was well given. The junior choir sang the cantata, "Now Summer Is Here." Cathleen Swisher told the story, "A Page of the King." Recitations and dialogues were much appreciated.

An ice cream social was given June 27, and a good crowd was present.

Other speakers for the month were Elders G. H. Kirkendall and A. H. Nieman.

Decatur, Nebraska

Indian Mission

Children's Day was observed at the Indian Mission, June 25, at which time twenty-three were baptized, four of which were adults. All but three were Indians.

Charles Putman of Council Bluffs, delivered two fine sermons during the day, and the Saints also enjoyed a good program. A fine four-piece orchestra from the government office helped with the program during the entire day. Five children were blessed.

www.LatterDayTruth.org

Sunday, July 2, an aged Indian woman, very low with tuberculosis, entered the waters of baptism. She has a firm belief that the Lord will bless her with health, and since then she has received a wonderful blessing.

950 Kilo. KMBC 315.6 Meters

Church Programs Over KMBC

Devotional service at 6.30 each weekday morning. Drexel Mollison, organist; John F. Sheehy, speaker.

Sunday, 7.30 a. m., Bible Study, by U. W. Greene.

Sunday, 11.00 a. m., music by Stone Church Choir.

Sunday, 5.00 p. m., Vesper Service, U. W. Greene, speaker.

Sunday, 10.00 p. m., Doctrine Hour, A. B. Phillips, speaker.

The Bulletin Board

Appointment of Bishop's Agent

Notice is hereby given of appointment of Walter Johnson as bishop's agent for Lamoni Stake. Brother Johnson will work in conjunction with and under the supervision of the Lamoni Stake Bishopric.

We take pleasure in commending Brother Johnson to the Saints in the Lamoni Stake, asking their continued support in the work of the Bishopric.

Solicitors will continue to send their reports to the Lamoni Stake Bishopric as heretofore.

THE PRESIDING BISHOPRIC,
By G. L. DELAPP.

Approved by
THE FIRST PRESIDENCY,
By F. M. SMITH.

Appointment of Bishop's Agent

Notice is hereby given of the appointment of Arlie D. Allen, of Rich Hill, Missouri, as bishop's agent of the Clinton District, succeeding R. T. Walters of Eldorado Springs.

We wish to take this opportunity of expressing our appreciation for the work of Brother R. T. Walters, who has served the church a long time in this capacity. We also commend Brother Allen to the Saints of the Clinton District and ask their support in his behalf. Solicitors are hereby notified to send their reports for the month of July to Arlie D. Allen, 1014 Olive Street, Rich Hill, Missouri.

THE PRESIDING BISHOPRIC,
By G. L. DELAPP.

Approved by
THE FIRST PRESIDENCY,
By F. M. SMITH.

Conference Notice

Southern Saskatchewan district conference will convene July 19 to 23. Visitors are coming from Manitoba, Alberta, Northern Saskatchewan, North Dakota and from all parts of Southern Saskatchewan. We expect all Saints in the district to put forth an effort to attend. Musicians are requested to bring their musical instruments. A good program is provided. Weeks have been spent in preparation and planning. Meals and sleeping quarters provided; no charge.—J. R. Neill, district president.

Pastoral

To the members and friends of Kirtland District, greetings: What stirring memories come with the mention of the name Kirtland! One never thinks of Kirtland without thinking of the Temple, the house of God, and his memory goes back to the hallowed experiences of God's people in connection of this house of "divine appointment." Today the people of God have opportunity to enjoy the fruits of the labors of those who sacrificed and suffered and builded a monument that would endure until our time. The same Divine power is in attendance now as then as is attested by those who have had the privilege of worshiping there. Even nonmembers, many of them, have testified concerning the peculiar power they have felt within the sacred portals of the Temple.

Only a short time now, comparatively, and the Saints will gather from various parts of the United States and Canada to worship God within the Temple. The reunion will be in session from August 10 to 20, and friends everywhere are invited to prepare to make their pilgrimage to Kirtland to attend the reunion. Come with your heart filled with love for God's people, and he will meet you there and bless you and hearten you for the "good fight of faith."

If you are one who has never visited this historic beauty spot, you have missed something really worth while and should determine to make every effort possible to come for the entire ten days. Should you be one who has met with the people of God in reunion at Kirtland in previous years, we shall have no need to urge you to come.

Morning hours of the reunion will be filled with good things from the first stroke of the Temple bell until noon: Prayer service, 8 to 9.15; class period, 9.30 to 10.30; sermon, 10.45 to 11.45; dinner, noon. In the afternoon: Class work or priesthood service at 2, and the remainder devoted to recreation. Song service at 7.15 p. m. followed by preaching.

The daily study classes and educational activities of the children, also junior church, will be in the hands of competent people. The music will be in charge of Sister Anna Householder, as last year.

Tents for full time of reunion may be had at following prices: 10 by 12, $2; 12 by 14, $2.50; steel and canvas cots, 50c. Mattresses, 50c. Bring your own bedding. Send all orders at the earliest possible moment to J. L. Cooper, R. R. 2, Willoughby, Ohio.

Parents, see that your young people who attend are chaperoned, having some one responsible for them.

Kirtland is located twenty-five miles East of Cleveland, three miles southeast of Willoughby, three miles southwest of Mentor, and fifteen miles north of Chagrin Falls, on paved road.—John R. Grice, for the committee.

Week of Special District Services

Sunday, July 23, a week of special services will open at Nauvoo. Church school, 9.30 a. m., preaching at 10.45 a. m., basket dinner at noon. Preaching service in the afternoon, also in the evening. Suggested Daily Schedule for the Week: 10 to 10.50, class period, F. T. Mussell; 11 to 11.50, class period, R. Baldwin; 10 to 10.50, junior worship, Mrs. Baldwin, and 11 to 11.50, handcraft for juniors, Mrs. Baldwin. Afternoon, recreation will be provided. Evening, preaching service, Richard Baldwin. As noted in the Herald, Nauvoo is an ideal place to enjoy a vacation. Ample camping facilities and comfortable rooms can be secured at a nominal cost. Write or consult J. C. Page, Nauvoo, Illinois. But those coming should come prepared to care for their individual needs. Will your branch or group be represented? We hope so. The coming of Brother and Sister Baldwin assures us of excellent help for this gathering. Remember the dates—July 23 to 30.—F. T. Mussell.

All-day Meeting

The Lancaster, Ohio, Branch of the Southern Ohio District have planned an all-day meeting, Sunday, July 23. All are invited to attend and enjoy a day of spiritual blessings. There will be preaching on Saturday evening, July 22, and the Sunday services will commence with a social service at 8.00 a. m. prompt. Come and enjoy yourselves. There will be a basket dinner at noon on Sunday.—A. E. Anderton, district president.

No Reunion for Northwestern Kansas

Because of economic conditions, it does not appear wisdom to hold a reunion in the Northwestern Kansas District for the year 1933.—R. S. Budd, J. W. A. Bailey, and David Little.

Reunion Notices

The thirteenth annual reunion of the Northern and Western Michigan districts will be held at the Park of the Pines, August 4 to 13 inclusive. Apostle D. T. Williams will have charge of the program. Louise Evans of Grand Rapids, will have charge of the music associated with Elder B. H. Doty of Traverse City, who will direct the orchestra and band. President Frederick M. Smith will visit our reunion this year. Also Bishop Elmer Evans of Grand Rapids, Percy Farrel and wife of Ontario, Canada, and the local ministers of the districts will be present. The reunion committee have improved the grounds and everything indicates we will have a large crowd and a good time. Meals will be served as usual in the dining hall, adults twenty cents and children ten cents. Those desiring tents please order at once from Ada Alldread of Boyne City, Michigan. Bring your bedding with you. The committee extends an invitation to members of other districts to come and worship with us. You are welcome at Park of the Pines.—Allen Schreur, for the committee.

www.LatterDayTruth.org

The Southern California reunion will be held at Laguna Beach, California, beginning Saturday, August 26, and closing Sunday, September 3. The campground is known as "Cresses Lodge," and is about three-fourths of a mile north of the city. Gas, water, lights, and a place for a tent and auto will be furnished by the grounds committee, but all are asked to bring their own camping equipment. The grounds are beautiful and clean, nestled in the hills, near the ocean and this section is sometimes called the "Artists Paradise" of the Pacific. Apostle E. J. Gleazer will be present and classes will be taught daily by D. B. Sorden and L. L. Sutherland. Other activities will include prayer services and sermons, and the beach is an excellent place for recreation. Indications are that we shall have one of the greatest reunions for many years, a large attendance is expected, and the Saints of Arizona and Northern California are especially invited. For additional information communicate with Bishop D. B. Carmichael, 1311 North Garnsey, Santa Ana, California, or the undersign.—W. A. Teagarden, district president, 595 Third, San Bernardino, California.

Oklahoma State reunion will be August 4 to 13, inclusive, at Canton, Oklahoma, in the city park. The park is equipped with electric lights and city water, good shade and nice camping grounds. Those wishing to rent a tent for reunion write, not later than July 25, to Lester E. Dyke, at Eagle City, Oklahoma, stating size of tent desired. A dining hall will be near the reunion grounds for the benefit of those wishing to purchase meals. Patriarch F. A. Smith and Elder Lee Quick will be present. Come, Saints, and help make this reunion a success in every way. For other information write the undersigned.—Roy L. Diamond, secretary Western Oklahoma District, Eagle City, Oklahoma.

Spring River district reunion will be held in the city park at Columbus, Kansas, August 4 to 13. Apostle F. Henry Edwards and Elder John F. Sheehy, pastor in Zion, will be with us. We are going to have a feast of good things spiritually, socially, and intellectually. There will be class work for the young people, the women, and the priesthood; also prayer meetings, sermons, and recreation for all. We have an ideal location for all our activities. There will be a dining hall where meals will be served at reasonable prices, but those who wish may prepare their own meals. The price of tents and cots will be as follows: 10 x 12 $2.25; 12 x 14 3½ foot wall, $2.75; 12 x 14 6 foot wall, $4.25; 12 x 20 6 foot wall, $4.75; folding army cots at 65 cents each. Send in your orders for tents and cots immediately to C. D. Wilson, 124 B Street, Southwest, Miami, Oklahoma. We hope to see a good representation from all the branches in the district, and trust that some of our friends may come from other districts to worship with us. —Amos T. Higdon, district president.

Reunion Schedule

Please send in changes for this schedule immediately.

DISTRICT	PLACE	TIME
Central Texas	Hearne	July 14 to 23
Southern Saskatchewan	Weyburn	July 19 to 23
Kentucky-Tennessee	Puryear, Tennessee	July 22 to 30
Southern New England	Onset	July 22 to August 6
Nauvoo	Nauvoo	July 23 to 30
Northern Saskatchewan	Saskatoon,	July 27 to 30
Lamoni	Lamoni	July 28 to August 6
Toronto	Lowbanks	July 29 to August 12
Alberta	Edmonton	Aug. 4 to 6
Oklahoma	Canton, Oklahoma	Aug. 4 to 13
Northwestern	Silver Lake	Aug. 4 to 13
Northern and Western Michigan	Park of the Pines	Aug. 4 to 13
Spring River	Columbus, Kansas	Aug. 4 to 13
Eastern and Western Maine	Brooksville	Aug. 12 to 19
Kirtland Combined Reunion	Kirtland	Aug. 10 to 20
Northwestern Iowa	Woodbine, Iowa	Aug. 11 to 20
Far West Stake	Stewartsville	Aug. 17 to 27
Western Montana	Race Track	Aug. 18 to 27
Southeast Illinois	Brush Creek	Aug. 25 to Sept. 3
Idaho		Aug. 16 to 20
West. Oklahoma	Eagle City, Oklahoma	Aug. 5 to 13
Southern California District	Laguna Beach	Aug. 26 to Sept. 3

THE FIRST PRESIDENCY,
By F. M. McDOWELL.

LETTERHEADS AND ENVELOPES

20-lb. Hammermill Bond Printed to Your Order. Neatly boxed. Postpaid. Satisfaction Guaranteed

Price per	100	250	500	1,000
Letterheads 8½ x 11	$1.00	$1.75	$2.50	$4.00
Envelopes 3⅝ x 6½	1.00	1.75	2.50	4.00
Letterheads and Env.	1.50	2.50	4.00	7.00

J. R. S. Co., Dept. S. Send for Samples. Columbus, Ohio

DON'T FORGET

KIRTLAND REUNION

August 10-20, 1933

Why Wait Longer?

Here's two redhot specials that will go in a hurry. Homes are selling in Independence every week. Trade your bonds for a good home and profit on the rise in prices later.

1416 West Maple Street
5 rooms—modern except heat—west end of Independence, near Sanitarium $1,500

1717 Harris Street
5 rooms—modern—two blocks from Englewood Church—one half block from car line and Englewood business district 2,750

The above homes are not mortgaged. Clear title can be given. Here are two excellent opportunities for owners of church bonds or church notes to exchange same for homes in Independence.

CENTRAL DEVELOPMENT ASSOCIATION
221 West Lexington Street
Independence, Mo.

or

THE PRESIDING BISHOPRIC
The Auditorium
Independence, Mo.

www.LatterDayTruth.org

CLASSIFIED ADS

Rates 3 cents per word first insertion; 20 per cent discount on subsequent insertions Minimum 75 cents per insertion.

REGARDING ADVERTISING

While we exercise care in the acceptance of advertisements appearing in these columns, we can not guarantee full satisfaction between buyer and seller and we therefore advise that in every instance a proper investigation be made by all parties concerned.

WEDDING BOOKS—Marriage Certificates. Samples sent for examination. Prices from 10 cents to 85 cents. 20 styles from which to choose. Leather, Mocotan, Fabrekoid, Vellum art cover stock. Latest styles. Ask for cuts and prices from which to make selection for samples. Paragon Publishing Company, Lexington, Kentucky.

HIGH SCHOOL COURSE in two years; meets all requirements for entrance to college, business, and leading professions. Diploma given. Address Education, Herald Publishing House, Independence, Missouri. 26-25-34

POSITION WANTED: Manager or buttermaker in cooperative or independent creamery. Can also handle bookkeeping. Wish to locate in branch of church. Over eight years experience. W. A. T. Peterson, Albert City, Iowa.

WHY BE WITHOUT songbooks when $6.98 buys 100 Songs of the Centennial. July and August only. Herald Publishing House. 27-3t*

WANTED: Situation in Illinois, Iowa, or Missouri, by experienced farm hand. Good milker, young, single, mechanical experience. Good references. Now employed. George Hayden, Bangor, Michigan. 27-2t*

FARMS, ALL SIZES. Best terms. Call at our office on Highway No. 71, or write Chas. R. Bowman, Butler, Missouri.

CHICAGO WORLD'S FAIR VISITORS wishing to lodge in L. D. S. homes should write to Mrs. W. G. LaBrant, 4322 Jackson Blvd., Chicago, (telephone Columbus 8470) for full details. First Chicago branch address is 4416 Gladys Ave. All welcome. H. T. McCaig, Pastor. 28-tf

FOR SALE: $400.00 in church bonds for $360.00 cash. T. Y., care Herald Publishing House. 27-1t*

CENTURY OF PROGRESS visitors: Rooms and garage. Address, Josh Evans, 5153 Wolfram Street, Chicago, Illinois. 27-3t*

COMMERCIAL PRINTING to suit at prices that will satisfy. Herald Publishing House, Independence, Missouri. 27-3t*

Request Prayers

Sister John Neal, of Allendale, Missouri, requests the prayers of the Saints in behalf of her husband who is confined to his bed part of the time because of his poor health.

Mrs. Mae Davis, of Wabash, Indiana, requests the prayers of the Saints that if it is the will of the Lord, her eyes might be healed. Cataracts are growing on both eyes, and her vision is growing weaker. She is a widow and must make her own living. Mrs. Davis also requests prayers for her granddaughter, Mrs. Charles Oliver, of Lansing, Michigan, who is, at the present time, in the hospital suffering from tuberculosis.

G. W. Leggott, pastor of the branch at Manchester, England, has been seriously ill for some days, and has been the subject of prayers to many people in England. He is quite well known to American Saints, having attended a recent General Conference of the church, and the members of Manchester Branch, desire that his friends in America will remember him in their prayers.

New Address

Lee E. Root, bishop's agent, 1923 East Washington Avenue, Madison, Wisconsin.

The Saints of Blenheim Branch wish to express their regret at losing the Berk family who have recently moved from Blenheim to Hearst, Ontario, and it is the hope of these Saints that the Berks will have the association of other Saints in their new abode.

NUTRIA

Do you know that Nutria are among the highest priced fur animals to be found in commercial fur farming. Read the article in the July issue of Fur Farming & Trapping. The one story is worth a year's subscription. Send a dime for sample copy to

G. T. RICHARDS
Bunceton, Missouri.

NOW ONLY $1 [Value $3.50]

EVERLAST PEN-PENCIL

THIS IS 2/3 SIZE OF JUMBO

GUARANTEED FOR LIFE!

Think of it—a fine fountain pen at one end and a mechanical pencil with extra leads and eraser at the other. The pen alone is worth several dollars, and with the pencil thrown in you get the biggest value ever offered in this field.

The Everlast Combination is of such good workmanship and material that we GUARANTEE IT FOR LIFE. Made of beautiful DuPont Pyrolin, it has a Durium GOLD NIB that writes exceptionally well and stands up under most severe usage.

A Jumbo Size in black for men and boys and a Dainty Size in black and exquisite mottled colors for women and girls.

Attach $1.00 Bill to Coupon and Mail

LIFETIME PEN & PENCIL CO.
Care of Herald Publishing House
Independence, Mo.

Inclosed find $1.00 for which please send me prepaid one Everlast Pen-Pencil with lifetime guarantee.

Print Name .....

Address .....

City & State .....

Size ☐ Jumbo ☐ Medium

Note: If you want your name imprinted in gold add 25 cents.

www.LatterDayTruth.org

THE NEW DEAL IS A SQUARE DEAL — IF YOU TRADE WITH US!

Better Printing At Moderate Cost

Your Printing Business Will Keep the Dinner Pail Full for Thirty Church Families

Try a Real
Print Shop

Let Us Bid
on Your Job

You Will Be Satisfied

We Print
Anything But Currency

And Print It Better—

And More Economically

THE GOOD OLD - FASHIONED
FULL DINNER PAIL

Sensible Advertising

Normal Business

Fair Wages

Steady Employment

Economic Foundations

HERALD PUBLISHING HOUSE

"Your Own Institution"

INDEPENDENCE, MISSOURI

WARD A. HOUGAS — BUSINESS MANAGER

www.LatterDayTruth.org

The SAINTS' HERALD

H O Smith
711 S Butler
Indep Mo

F. M. MCDOWELL

Of the First Presidency

Leader of the Youth Conference

Organizing the Young People

Two Articles Growing Out of the Youth Conference:

Youth Organized Within the Church Program

A Church Program for the Teen Age

Loyalty

By J. A. Gunsolley

Partnership in Marriage

By Lottie Clark Diggle

Volume 80 July 18, 1933 Number 29

www.LatterDayTruth.org

THE SAINTS' HERALD

July 18, 1933

Volume 80 Number 29

FREDERICK M. SMITH, Editor in Chief.
ELBERT A. SMITH, Associate Editor.
FLOYD M. McDOWELL, Associate Editor
LEONARD J. LEA, Managing Editor.
LETA B. MORIARTY, Assistant Editor.
WARD A. HOUGAS, Business Manager.

Entered as second-class matter at the post office at Independence, Missouri, under Act of March 3, 1879. Issued weekly at Independence, Missouri. Price $2 a year in advance for the U. S. A., its territories and possessions, and Canada; foreign, $3 a year. Accepted for mailing at the special rate of postage provided for in section 1103, Act of October 3, 1917; authorized July 21, 1921.

Published for the Reorganized Church of Jesus Christ of Latter Day Saints.

HERALD PUBLISHING HOUSE
INDEPENDENCE, MISSOURI

CONTENTS

EDITORIAL:
- Blue Pencil Notes 899
- How to Address Your Letters 900
- A New Church School Secretary's Record 900
- Auditorium Notes 900
- Our Host Appreciates His Guest 901
- Prize Winners in Graceland Broadcast Contest 901
- Youth Organized Within the Church Program 904

YOUTH'S FORUM:
- The Story of Etta Kett 902
- A Thought for Today 902
- Question Marks 902
- Helps for Leaders of Youth 902
- The Successful Leader 902

NEWS BRIEFS 903

ARTICLES:
- Loyalty, by J. A. Gunsolley 905
- "Come to the Feast," by Evan A. Fry 907
- Partnership in Marriage, by Lottie Clark Diggle 908
- Civilizing the Children 908
- A Church Program for the Teen Age, by C. B. Woodstock 909
- Discipleship, by Thomas S. Williams 910
- Weekly Health Letter, by A. W. Teel, M. D. 911
- A Teacher of Little Children, by Myrtle Weber 913
- What Latter Day Saints Believe About the Restoration Movement 913
- Prayer and Testimony 914
- Question Time, by A. B. Phillips 916
- Signs of the Times and Pre-Millenial World Events, by E. B. Hull 917
- A Hymn Answer to Wordsworth, by L. B. M. 918

NEWS OF CHURCH AND HOME 919

THE BULLETIN BOARD 925

The Pigeonhole

Women and Ladies

The Office Grouch was ruminating:

One is glad to see, now that styles in clothing are harking back to older times, that styles in manners are changing, too. Among the younger set one is able to observe young women here and there who know what it is to be a lady.

Some years ago, about the time that heavy German boots started their fateful march across Belgian soil, certain revolutionists began to preach a new social gospel in which the word woman was held high, while the word lady was put to scorn. Since that time two generations of young things have come on the scene among whom there were a great many female athletes, but few ladies. Emancipation came to mean dissipation. Refinement of speech, restraint of manner, old-fashioned loveliness, charm, and sweetness were thrown to the ash heap with bustles, ostrich feathers, horsehair upholstery, family Bibles, and certain other outmoded fashions. Women forgot their "carriage" and learned to gallop. Voices that were never trained to gurgle quite naturally squawked. They couldn't even sing anything but "mammy" songs, "blues" and endless ballads crooned tunelessly between tightly clenched teeth.

Here and there one met an old-fashioned lady. In her presence the sordid world and its unpleasant inhabitants could be forgotten. Out of homes of refinement and culture occasionally came daughters who reminded one of what true ladies could be.

Good voices, charming manners, refinement, will soon be in style again. The post-war generation will find it hard to conform, and some of them will be pretty awkward. Some will never know the difference. But, women, remember this: if you want to be a "rough-neck" now, you will be passé. And we know that you would rather die than be called that!

A Back-fire!

"Yes," says the Office Critic, "We had two of those ladies you mention on a recent camping trip. They were sweet to look at but they couldn't do a thing for themselves, and wouldn't do anything for anybody else. If it's ladies that you want to admire, go ahead; but give me women!"

And Self-defense

"I still think I am right," insisted the O. G. "You haven't any right to condemn the lady as a person for the faults of her imitators. Of course we know that the foundations of real ladyship lie in character and personality—in fundamental goodness, purity, kindness, and high courage. But I believe that these fine qualities of character will result in grace and refinement, dignity, reserve, and modesty.

"And I think I will point out to you," continued the O. G. drawing in his Adam's apple, "that two of the best girls in that camp answered all of the requirements for a lady. They are willing to work; they are gracious in action, courteous in speech, and considerate of others. They understand the necessity of restraint as well as the joy of freedom. They, it seems to me, are your best examples of ladies!"

www.LatterDayTruth.org

Editorial

Blue Pencil Notes

Millions for Tribute?

WHAT AMERICAN does not remember his old school day studies in early American history? And how he thrilled to the perhaps exaggerated story of the brave exploits of our country's defenders? For example, there was the story of Stephen Decatur. As you will remember the piratical powers along the southern coast of the Mediterranean, Algiers and Tripoli, had long preyed on foreign commerce. They exacted yearly tribute from European nations for protection of shipping. They had a lucrative "racket," though the word had not yet been coined.

EARLY IN THE NINETEENTH CENTURY America refused longer to submit to this extortion. A navy was gotten together and Commodore Stephen Decatur in two successive wars taught the pirates a lesson and finally broke their power. Our motto in those days was, "Millions for defense, but not a cent for tribute." This particular chapter in my particular textbook closed with these words: "The United States never afterward paid tribute to any of the pirate powers."

ALAS, today our early pride is humbled. We pay tribute annually to gangsters and racketeers and grafters who live under the very protection of the flag that Stephen Decatur made a terror to the lawless. Conservative men who have studied the situation claim that this tribute exceeds the annual cost of maintaining the Federal government,—and that, as all taxpayers know to their sorrow, is an enormous sum. In the past five months kidnapers in the United States have demanded $650,000 in ransom money and have collected more than a quarter of a million. At this writing three American families in various parts of the country are negotiating with kidnapers for the return of loved ones —they are literally begging for mercy and promising to pay all the money that they can raise. While at the same time C. C. Nicolet, United Press staff correspondent, who is investigating "rackets" in New York City, reports: "From a head of lettuce to a carload of steel, everything shipped into New York City pays tribute to the racketeers."

We have millions for tribute and very little to spend effectively for defense. This tribute comes out of the pockets of the common people. The cost of crime in every form, direct and indirect, goes back to the taxpayer. The pirates of the nineteenth century issued a challenge in a distant part of the world. It was heard over broad seas. That they should put their hands into our pockets, that they should kidnap and hold American sailors for ransom was not to be tolerated. We had millions for defense—not one cent for tribute.

TODAY the challenge is right at home. It is much more menacing. Representative newspapers have declared editorially that the states and cities are powerless to cope with the situation; that the power of the Federal government must be invoked. The San Francisco Chronicle says:

"The time has come when the Federal government must lend its power to the crushing of organized crime or see society crushed by organized crime. Local government everywhere has been shown inadequate to cope with the ferocious assaults of the underworld, because crime is no longer a local problem but a national menace. . . . Cynical, brutal gang leaders have usurped the rule of law. They have put crime on an organized basis, a Big Business with troops, armed cars, fortified strongholds."

THE Kansas City Star says: "One thing is certain: organized crime, including murder, banditry, kidnaping, racketeering, bombing, is going to get badly beaten or it is going to get a lot more destructive." Following the massacre of police officers in Kansas City recently the Attorney General of the United States said: "Kansas City gangsters' activities not only challenge the department of justice but are a challenge to American civilization."

Again there comes to our mind the Book of Mormon warning:

"Wherefore, O ye Gentiles, it is wisdom in God that these things be shown unto you, that thereby ye may repent of your sins, and not suffer that these murderous combinations shall get above you. . . ."

OUR PLIGHT today is not alone the result of the desperate wickedness of combinations of murderers and robbers. They could be handled of themselves—they exist because of the partnerships that they are able to form with business and politics. Edward Mulrooney, former New York police commissioner, reports (American Magazine, July) that in one year one New York manufacturing concern sold 77 machine guns, many of which later figured in crimes in various parts of the country. He estimates that fifty thousand guns of various types are brought into the country and sold annually, most of them to be used illegally. American business men are eager to manufacture or import and sell weapons that are to be used by gangsters to slaughter fellow citizens. Politicians and officeholders in our large cities maintain relations with organized crime and profit from its revenue.

www.LatterDayTruth.org

HERE IS A REPORT from behind the scenes: When our former missionary T. W. Williams was elected alderman in Los Angeles, it seemed that he had entered into a high position where he could be happy and render service in a great municipal organization. But shortly before his death he told a close personal friend that he was exceedingly unhappy, for he had found conditions of corruption that he did not dream existed, and he was powerless to combat them. Los Angeles is but one city, and not the worst one in the United States.

THE AUTHORITIES in every large city know who the gangsters are and where they may be found. It is time that there was good old-fashioned repentance, such as the Book of Mormon called for, before these "murderous combinations shall get above you." The gangsters should be disarmed and their power broken. But before that can be done their allies in politics and business must be broken. We might well return to the slogan of our youth: "Millions for defense, not one cent for tribute."

ELBERT A. SMITH.

How to Address Your Letters

Business letters for us should be addressed simply: "Herald Publishing House, Independence, Missouri." They should not be addressed to the Business Manager, Ward A. Hougas, as personal mail. Brother Hougas is also President of Far West Stake, and therefore is absent a part of the time on that part of his church work, and ordinary business letters addressed to him as personal mail are sometimes delayed.

Letters for the Editors should be addressed: "The Editors, Herald Publishing House, Independence, Missouri." Unless the mail is of a personal nature, it is better to address it to the Editors rather than to individuals on the staff.

HERALD PUBLISHING HOUSE
Independence, Missouri

A New Church School Secretary's Record

A new secretary's book providing a concise but adequate record of all church school activities for a year is now ready for mailing. This has been prepared by the Department of Religious Education for the use of all schools of the church. The record of the Sunday morning session, or the Sunday school, occupies two thirds of the page, but other spaces provide for items of Sunday evening sessions and meetings of classes or groups of the Church School held during the week.

The new record book contains an amount of carefully worded directions for the organization and administration of the Church School, especially in the matter of records and reports. The book contains space for 52 weekly records and four pages prepared to receive the items of the four quarterly reports for a permanent record. With the record book are sent eight loose quarterly report forms for use in reporting the school to the pastor and to the district director of Religious Education at the end of each quarter.

This new yearly record takes the place of the former Sunday school record and will be known as Number 1007 in the Herald Catalog. The price, including a supply (8) of the necessary report blanks, is 60 cents.

Loose-leaf record pages of the New Church School Record are numbered 518, and may be had, punched for convenient filing, at 20 for 25 cents. Extra copies of the quarterly report form, Number 517, may be had 10 for 15 cents.

The new record books and report forms are adapted to the use of both large and small schools.

HERALD PUBLISHING HOUSE
INDEPENDENCE, MISSOURI

Auditorium Notes

Elder J. W. A. Bailey, recently placed in charge of the guide service of the Auditorium, reports a steady stream of visitors who ask questions and show interest in this great and unusual structure. Brother Bailey is at the desk from nine to twelve in the morning and from two to five in the afternoon. He is kept busy explaining the work and belief of the church to many who are unacquainted with it. Among the visitors are many from the Utah church, who show a friendly interest.

Many favors which God giveth us ravel out for want of hemming, through our own unthankfulness; for though prayer purchaseth blessings, giving praise doth keep the quiet possession thereof.—Thomas Fuller.

www.LatterDayTruth.org

Our Host Appreciates His Guests

Only those who attended the first and second young people's conventions of ten and eight years ago respectively will ever quite appreciate the favor extended to the young people of the church by Graceland College in making available her buildings and equipment for the recent conference. As a matter of fact, it would have been absolutely impossible to have cared for the Conference without such privileges. We have made use of our earliest opportunity to express to the college authorities our sincere appreciation for their generosity and kind, helpful, and sympathetic attitude and, in a word, their wholehearted support of the Youth Conference. Before this word of appreciation reached President Briggs and his co-workers, however, he had written us expressing his feeling as host in such a splendid and enthusiastic way that we are making it available through the columns of the Herald for the benefit of conference visitors as well as church workers in general. The following communication addressed to the First Presidency is printed just as received from President Briggs:

President F. M. McDowell
The Auditorium
Independence, Missouri

Dear Brother:

Now that the Youth Conference is a matter of history, Graceland desires to take this opportunity to express to you and through you to the conference workers and those in attendance our pleasure in entertaining what we regard as the finest gathering of the kind ever assembled on college hill. That the church has such an enthusiastic and intelligent group anxious to spend a week together in a discussion of the fundamentals and philosophies of our program and belief should be very heartening to you and all the general officers of the church. The intelligence and intense interest with which the program was entered upon not only by the leaders, but by the delegates as well, cannot help but be a source of great satisfaction to those in the field who will have the aid of these young people in their various branches and districts. The whole import of the Conference seemed to be one of devising ways and means to be of maximum assistance in carrying into effect the program of the church as determined by General Conference and general church officials.

We are happy that the church has this center of religious and educational culture where such a group as you assembled from all parts of the country could feel at home and enter immediately upon their eight day tasks with 100% efficiency. You and those planning and working with you are to be congratulated on the outstanding success of the Conference and those in the field who will have the assistance of the hundreds of young people from so many branches and districts will be grateful to you during the months to come that you have sent back to them so many helpful and efficient workers in their most important tasks.

Looking forward with pleasure to the time we can again entertain you and the next Youth Conference, and with full confidence in the beneficial results of the present one, I am Very truly yours, G. N. BRIGGS.

Prize Winners in Graceland Broadcast Contest

The readers of the Herald will recall the broadcast put on for a twelve-week period by Graceland College during the spring. Each presentation consisted of an address by a noteworthy alumnus or college speaker with music furnished by Graceland College talent and alumni. The twelve-weeks programs were received with very great interest.

In connection with the broadcast, the unique feature was the offering of prizes for the best summaries of eight of the addresses. The judges have just rendered their decision as follows:

First prize $50.00: Glenn Thomas Crossan, Stewartsville, Missouri.

Second prize $30.00: Vida Gamet, Trenton, Missouri.

Third prize $20.00: Eleanor Sandy, 3117 Jackson Avenue, Kansas City Missouri.

The awards will be applied to the contestant's first year's tuition at Graceland.

The winner of first place, Mr. Glenn Thomas Crossan, of Stewartsville, Missouri, is a graduate of the Stewartsville High School having completed his course there in May, 1932, with a very superior record as a student. Mr. Crossan spent last year in the Junior College at Cameron, Missouri.

Those receiving mention are: Aleta Mae Runkle, of Pisgah, Iowa; Vera Niles, Pisgah, Iowa.

In addition to the regular contest, a prize of ten dollars was to be awarded to the contestant who wrote the best summary of the first address of the Graceland College Radio Broadcast which was President G. N. Briggs'. This award consisted of credit to be applied to the contestant's first year's tuition at Graceland. The summary was not to be longer than 250 words, and was to be in not later than one week after the address.

The winner was Miss Eleanor Wakehouse, of Pisgah, Iowa. Miss Wakehouse says concerning her plans to attend Graceland, "I know that my attendance at Graceland will help me get a good foundation for a successful life. I shall be associated with those who believe as I believe. Graceland offers so many great advantages that I believe one is wise in choosing it for a better preparation for life."

Those receiving honorable mention are: Eleanor Sandy, 3117 Jackson Avenue, Kansas City, Missouri; Glenn Thomas Crossan, Stewartsville, Missouri; Vida Gamet, Trenton, Missouri.

The serene, silent beauty of a holy life is the most powerful influence in the world, next to the might of the Spirit of God.—Henry Ward Beecher.

www.LatterDayTruth.org

Youth's Forum

A Page of Thought and Discussion for the Young People of the Church

The Story of Etta Kett

Bill Gets a Prescription

"I don't want you to understand that I'm complaining, Bill, because I'm not. But since you ask me, I'll tell you."

Bill was at one telephone and Etta at the other. The wires between them quivered and became warm. It was Bill who had called, and as we lift an eavesdropper's receiver Etta is talking:

"I just couldn't go with you again, Bill, and keep my self-respect. Not after the way you treated me at the conference. Of course we had nothing between us in the way of an understanding. You pretty carefully avoided anything like that. I admire your caution, now that I see it was caution. You let me down pretty hard. Walked out on me. Deserted me. This is the second time you've shown a roving uncertain tendency. You couldn't be fair to me. Now it looks as if you can't be fair to your blonde friend."

"But I've broken off with her!" protested Bill.

"I'm sorry to hear it. Looks like you haven't any self-control at all."

"Oh, you're just jealous!"

"No, this isn't jealousy, Bill. It's just that you have revealed a defect of character that I don't like. And as long as you show it I don't care to bother with you. I gave you a fair trial, and you didn't meet the test."

"But what are we going to do? We've gone together, we've worked together. People expect us to be together. We can't be enemies now!"

"We don't need to be enemies, unless you insist on being more foolish than you ever have before. I can't live up—or down either—to other people's expectations."

"But what about me? What am I going to do?"

"Figure it out for yourself, Bill. You should have thought of that before you went trailing after your blonde. And it may do you good to think for yourself instead of sponging from other people."

"Is it necessary to be so sarcastic?"

"It's truth, Bill, and you know it."

"Well, you've got me whipped. I'm sorry. I admit I made a mistake. I want us to be friends, and you won't have it. What do I do now?"

"Do I understand that you're asking me for advice?" asked Etta steadily.

Bill gulped twice.

"Er—ah—well, yes."

"Then here it is. And you can take it or leave it, as you wish. My advice to you is to learn to be loyal. A friendship takes two loyalties, yours as well as the other fellow's. And if you really value a friendship, your obligation to be loyal is that much greater. And you need to be loyal to the implied duties of friendship as well as to your specific agreements. I'd just like to see if you can walk a straight path under your own power, with nobody to help you."

A moment of silence, in which Bill clung speechlessly to the receiver, followed.

"Did you get that, Bill?" asked Etta.

"I think I did."

"Then good-bye!"

A Thought for Today

People never get anything worth having for nothing. Those who think they get things without price deceive themselves, for the thief throws away his character for a bit of perishable loot, and the parasite loses manhood and independence.

We pay for everything we get, whether they are good or bad. We hold two obligations to ourselves and society; to be willing to pay a fair price, and to set our goals to get the right things out of life.

Question Marks

The Pilot:

I have been going with a Catholic girl for some time, and have been planning to ask her to marry me. Just lately I have heard that in event of marriage a non-Catholic has to sign papers regarding the baptizing of his children. I have been wondering what to do.—C. H.

Answer: The most recent regulation of the Catholic church regarding marriages, promulgated by the Pope, is that the Protestant member of a marriage with a Catholic must sign an agreement promising to have all children born to the union baptized as Catholics and to have them given full training and instruction in the Catholic religion. (This is an old rule, recently strengthened.) Otherwise the church will not sanction the marriage. And you should know that they consider invalid any marriage not performed by their own priests, and the members of the union living in adultery.

For a Protestant to sign such an agreement regarding his unborn children is doubly wrong. It is unfair to himself, and humiliating to his manhood, for he abandons all his just right to have anything to say regarding the training and church attendance of his children. And it takes away from the children their right to choose their own religious faith when they come to the years of discretion. This arrangement takes away from the Protestant man everything except the duty of making the money and maintaining a home for a Catholic family, whose primary allegiance is to the church and not to him.

The only way out is to have the girl definitely leave the Catholic church and join a Protestant denomination before you are married. Otherwise, there will be no peace for her, or else no justice for you.

Can't you find some other good girl for company?

THE PILOT.

Helps for Leaders of Youth

Our good friend, C. G. Mesley, a popular and successful leader of young people in Kansas City Stake, makes a suggestion that may be of some value to other leaders.

He tells us ("Believe it or not"—but he is a truthful man!) that he reads the news columns of the Herald every week and as he does so he gathers suggestions for activities, parties, worship, themes, prayer meetings, and special celebrations. In several years he has accumulated a large file box of classified suggestions which he can use whenever he is in need of help.

If you haven't tried this plan before, it may be a good thing to start now. All it takes is the imagination to recognize a good idea when you see it, and sufficient sense of order to keep your clippings together.

The Successful Leader

1. Submerges himself, and lets others stand in the limelight as much as possible. He knows that he will have to be in front too much of the time anyway.

2. Plans ahead. Keeps notebooks and files of material on hand for use. Is not caught empty handed.

3. Is responsible and dependable. And teaches others to be so.

4. Always keeps control of his temper, even when others lose theirs.

5. Can always laugh when things go wrong. A sense of humor will save him.

6. Helps to develop other leaders. Does not try to do everything and collect all the credit for himself.

www.LatterDayTruth.org

NEWS BRIEFS

Patriarch G. T. Griffiths Sixty-seven Years Old in the Gospel

Sixty-seven years ago July 5, Brother Gomer T. Griffiths was born by baptism into the kingdom of God on earth. He was then but ten years old, and he was baptized at Saint David, Illinois. Ten years later, July 5, 1876, Brother Griffiths was ordained a priest, and since then he has been ordained to five different offices. He began missionary work soon after the first ordination, and for more than half a century has been faithful at his task. He is known too and loved by hundreds of Saints with whom he has labored; they appreciate his life of sacrifice and service. Brother Griffiths' home is at Uniopolis, Ohio.

Young People Undertake Big Goal

The Saints of Milton, Florida, can be more than proud of their young people. This band of consecrated workers has undertaken a heavy but worthwhile project—a Graceland College Scholarship Fund. Happy will be the boy or girl who first has the privilege of using this opportunity, but happier still will be that group of young people who make such an opportunity possible.

First President Helps Celebrate Branch's Birthday

The fifteenth anniversary of the Waterloo, Iowa, church was observed, June 18. Elder V. A. Hall, of Willoughby, Ohio, and first president of the branch, read the history of the branch. Ten of the thirty-five charter members were present for this celebration. The branch has had five presidents during its existence.

Australia Loses Faithful Worker

The Australasian Mission has lost a man who was a faithful pastor, an ardent soul builder, and a zealous worker, Elder Alexander Seaberg. Brother Seaberg was born at Monstras, Smaland, Sweden, February 28, 1851, and went to Australia in 1875. He united with the church, August 8, 1886, at Tuncurry, New South Wales, being baptized by Elder J. F. Burton. He was ordained an elder in 1888, and acted as pastor of Balmain congregation from 1905 to 1911. His death occurred April 29, 1933. Brother Seaberg leaves his family and a host of friends in Australia and America.

"The Restoration" Is Presented by Seventy Children

Sister Ruth Patterson, wife of Elder William Patterson, directed the pageant, "The Restoration," presenting seventy children from Port Huron, Michigan, Branch on Children's Day. It was one of the outstanding events of the year and many people were turned away from the church because of lack of seating capacity in the local church.

During the month of June, thirteen babies were blessed, and sixteen candidates were baptized at Port Huron.

Apostle J. F. Curtis in Northwest

Apostle J. F. Curtis has recently given missionary help at the following places: Williston, North Dakota, and Fairview and Andes, Montana.

At Fairview he with Elders George Thorburn, L. O. Wildermuth, and P. T. Anderson, held a three-day reunion and conference. Four were baptized, and there are others who are investigating the teachings of the gospel.

Women Make Contribution

The women's club of the Kansas City Central Church held its annual birthday dinner June 30. At this dinner the women presented Bishop C. A. Skinner a check for $1,372 for the building fund of the church.

Three Young Men Are Ordained at Underwood, Iowa

Cyril Damitz, David Damitz, and Derald Sewing, descendants of the late John P. and Joshua Carlile, were recently ordained to the priesthood at Underwood, Iowa. Cyril Damitz is a former student of Graceland College, and is now an interne at Providence Hospital, in Detroit, Michigan.

J. P. Carlile was at one time president of North Star Branch at Underwood, and for many years he and Joshua Carlile were associated in the work of the church in the Pottawattamie District.

Patriarch John Shields Very Busy

During the month of June Patriarch John Shields, of Hillsburg, Ontario, availed himself of the opportunity to call and assist at the following places: Orillia, Ravenna, Redickville, Port Elgin, Harriston, Drew, Arthur, Acton, Delhi, Mitchell, Strafford, and London. He has been exceedingly blessed in his labors. He traveled more than seven hundred miles in his car.

www.LatterDayTruth.org

Youth Organized Within the Church Program

One of the many problems discussed at the recent Youth Conference and Leadership Convention may be stated as follows:

Taking into consideration the divine appointments of the church and the nature and needs of youth, how can our young people organize so that they may carry their share of the work of the church and yet find abundant opportunities for self-expression?

For the consideration of this problem a representative committee of conference visitors was informally appointed. On this committee were several district and branch officers as well as young people's leaders together with several young people.

We placed in the hands of this committee the following materials:

1. The action of the General Conference of 1930 in establishing a Department of Religious Education and outlining the "Church School" plan.
2. The Church School Handbook which contains a detailed outline of the church school plan.
3. The results of three years of experience with young people's work in many centers of the church.
4. A summary of the experience of other churches with young people's organizations.

With this information at hand this committee of workers spent several hours discussing the entire problem of organized effort among the young people of the church. While neither the committee nor the Youth's Conference had official standing or legislative right, we believe the following summary of their conclusions should be helpful as indicating an interpretation of the program of the young people's division of the church school as approved by the General Conference and as its detailed methods have been formulated in the light of experience. We present in our own words the findings of this committee.

Any organization of our church young people should be effected in harmony with the church school program adopted by the General Conference in 1930. This program places the responsibility of the young people's work in the young people's division and provides for elected representatives of the young people to serve in a cabinet or council in planning the activities of the Division. Such complete organization, while clearly anticipated in the action of the General Conference and in the Church School Handbook should only be effected with the full consent of the pastor, the director of religious education and the superintendent of the young people's division in the branch.

Such an organization should be kept simple and should include in its activities all the members of the young people's division of the church school. Its requirements should be no more restrictive than the membership requirements of the church school. (This regulation does not refer to small groups, organizations or clubs, but only to a general organization of young people in the branch. For such general activities it is felt that the young people's division itself is adequate.)

It was the feeling of the committee that newly organized groups of young people should move slowly in the choice of a name, until a general name for the church-wide effort among young people may be chosen.

Considerable interest was manifest in the matter of the choice of a name to stand for this young people's effort throughout the church. The Presidency is arranging for a headquarters' committee to work with the committee of the young people and their leaders to give further consideration to this problem.

District organizations of young people should be effected only with the full consent of the district presidency and the district director of religious education. The activities of such a district organization would be at all times under the general supervision of the district presidency and in full accord with the total church program of the district.

The consensus of opinion, based upon observation and experience would seem to indicate that the best form of district council is one composed of the young people's director of each branch and, where elected, the president or representative of the young people themselves. (Thus a district of five branches would have a council of ten members, five young people's directors and five young people's representatives.) This district council may select its own officers for executive work.

The district council should plan the young people's program to suit the particular needs of the district (size of branches, distance from each other, district program); such program to have the approval of the district officers.

Some districts and stakes provide for mass assemblies of the young people of their respective territories and such mass assemblies choose officers from among the young people to carry on under the direction of the district officers a program of activities for the district or stake. Where such a plan is in operation it may be well for it to be continued until such time as experience may indicate the advisability of adopting the district council plan as outlined above. It may be that in some districts this plan can be followed more advantageously than the council plan.

For the time being at least any church-wide activities of young people should be arranged by the church authorities and program materials provided and shared through the general department of religious education.

It appears to us significant that the experience of other churches as well as our own experience, both before and after adopting the church school plan, all seem to point towards the conclusion that the program adopted for the work of religious education in the conference of 1930, which includes a provision for the establishment of a young people's division, is not only adequate for our needs but in harmony with the very best thought in the field. Such a program makes it possible for our young people to find their opportunities for self-expression within rather than outside of the total church program. Such a plan clearly contemplates no separate organization of the young people. It has as its purpose nothing save it be the welfare of the total church. Recognizing the divine appointments and divinely established purposes of the church it is time the young people organized their efforts within the church to serve most effectively its interests.

F. M. McD.

www.LatterDayTruth.org

LOYALTY

By J. A. Gunsolley

THE DICTIONARY defines "loyalty" as "True to plighted faith or duty." By obedience to the gospel one makes a covenant and plights his faith in the truth and commits, or pledges himself, to the duty of building up the kingdom of God. The nature of that pledge is clearly expressed in the three following passages of scripture:

"Thou shalt love the Lord thy God with all thy heart, and with all thy soul, and with all thy strength, and with all thy mind; and thy neighbor as thyself."—Luke 10: 28, Inspired Version.

"All those who humble themselves before God and desire to be baptized, and come forth with broken hearts and contrite spirits, and witness before the church that they have truly repented of all their sins, and are willing to take upon them the name of Jesus Christ, having a determination to serve him to the end, and truly manifest by their works that they have received of the Spirit of Christ unto the remission of their sins, shall be received by baptism into his church."—Doctrine and Covenants 17: 7.

"And now, as ye are desirous to come into the fold of God, and to be called his people, and are willing to bear one another's burdens, that they may be light; yea, and are willing to mourn with those that mourn; yea, and comfort those that stand in need of comfort, and to stand as witnesses of God at all times, and in all things, and in all places that ye may be in, even until death, that ye may be redeemed of God, and be numbered with those of the first resurrection, that ye may have eternal life: now I say unto you, If this be the desire of your hearts, what have you against being baptized in the name of the Lord, as a witness before him that ye have entered into a covenant with him that ye will serve him and keep his commandments, that he may pour out his Spirit more abundantly upon you?"—Book of Mormon, Mosiah 9: 39-41.

The world warmly approves of loyalty and strongly disapproves of disloyalty. One who is true to his plight of faith in his country and upholds the honor of his flag under all circumstances and conditions, in peace as well as in war, willing to give his life to defend that honor, deserves to be regarded as a true patriot. But one who contributes to a condition of lawlessness and disrespect for civil authority, whether in time of peace or war, is an enemy to his country and forfeits his right to be regarded as a loyal citizen.

Who does not love the Bible story of David and Jonathan? Such loyalty between friends deserves the very highest commendation. Upon the other hand who does not despise the one who betrays the confidence of a friend? or who by the carelessness of his conduct reproaches the good name of his family or of the society of which he is a part?

What would have Christianity been today but for the loyalty of such Bible characters as Abraham, Isaac, Jacob, Moses and all the prophets and apostles? or such characters in the Reformation as Huss, Melanchthon, Calvin, Luther and the Wesleys? or in the Restoration such as the Smiths, Cowdery, Whitmers, Rigdon, Harris? or in the Reorganization such as the Smiths, Gurley, Blair, Briggs and Robinson? Some of these were martyrs to the cause which was dearer to them than life; and others gave their lives unreservedly to maintaining the cause held by them in the same light. The names of all are revered today because of their loyalty.

AN EXAMINATION into the nature of the duty to which the followers of Christ must be true to prove their loyalty reveals various aspects to which it is well to give attention:

"Humble themselves before God," or to be submissive or subject to the will of God, is fittingly expressed in the memorable words, "Not my will, but thine be done." One cannot be loyal to God and truth who insists on carrying out his own will rather than in promoting God's will. He cannot think that the serving of his own interests is paramount to the building up of the kingdom of God. He cannot turn to his own interest the advantage given him by association with God's people and membership in his church to the detriment of the interests of the church, and be truly humble.

"Broken hearts" means that the things one's heart had been set upon no longer remain the objects of his affections. The desires of his heart are broken away from carnal things and are centered upon the enduring things of truth. One cannot continue to love and serve the world and be loyal to God.

"Contrite spirits" implies deep repentance, which is variously interpreted. Some seem to think that repentance means quit your meanness, or cease to do evil and learn to do well; but to repent means to change one's way of thinking and acting, to correct his life by departing from error and turning to the truth, turning from darkness to light. One repents from sin by confessing his sin and forsaking it; and there is no true repentance from sin without both the confessing and forsaking.

PLIGHTING OR PLEDGING FAITH AND OBEDIENCE includes one's taking upon himself the name of Christ, "For as many as have been baptized into Christ have put on Christ." (Galatians 3: 27.) In one of the Ten Commandments we find this: "Thou shalt not take the name of the Lord thy God in vain; for the Lord will not hold him guiltless that taketh his name in vain." (Exodus 20: 7.) The idea is far too general that to take the name of the Lord "in vain" means to use the name of the Deity in conversation in a profane way, or in swearing, as commonly understood. But it has a wider and deeper significance. The followers of Christ bear his name, having been baptized in his name, becoming members of his family and household of God, thus becoming "Christians," a name first given them in derision, but a name fittingly expressing the relation established by the covenant of adoption, baptism, meaning "of, or belonging to the household and family of Christ." A failure to honor that name having taken it upon one, and thus forfeiting the benefits attaching thereto is to take the name in vain; and "The Lord will not hold him guiltless that taketh his name in vain."

www.LatterDayTruth.org

Loyalty to God and his church, or being "true to plighted duty" implies faithfully keeping the commandments of God. The preacher thus expresses it in Ecclesiastes 12: 13, 14: "Let us hear the conclusion of the whole matter; fear God and keep his commandments; for this is the whole duty of man. For God shall bring every work into judgment, with every secret thing, whether it be good, or whether it be evil." It is thus seen that a knowledge of the commandments is of paramount importance when the keeping of them is of so much consequence.

The keeping of God's commandments is intimately bound up in human relationships, and serving God consists in serving humanity. It is the only way of divine service, and it is beautifully expressed in 1 John 1: 7, "But if we walk in the light as he is in the light, we have fellowship one with another, and the blood of Jesus Christ his Son cleanseth us from all sin." Hence, loyalty to God consists in being loyal to his people and his church; and so it might be enjoined upon the followers of Christ, Unto Christ be loyal, and it follows as the night the day, thou canst not then be disloyal to any of thy fellow men.

BUT THE KEEPING OF THE COMMANDMENTS has come to be irksome to a large per cent of the professing followers of Christ. There seems to be a growing tendency in modern Christendom towards the idea that the philosophy of life as taught by Christ eliminates the idea in large part, if not altogether, of the "Thou shalt" and the "Thou shalt not," that being a feature of the "law of carnal commandments" that was nailed to the cross. It is held that one's conscience is rather to be his guide instead of specific requirements introduced by "Thou shalt" or "Thou shalt not." And examination of the teachings of the Master shows quite to the contrary, as the following statements will reveal very clearly:

Jesus said, "I do nothing of myself; but as my Father hath taught me, I speak these things." (John 8: 28.) Again he said, "As my Father hath sent me, so send I you," addressing himself unto his ministers. So, the teaching of Jesus and his ministry is divinely sanctioned, which entitles them to full faith and credit by all professing Christians.

Upon one occasion when accosted by the lawyer asking, "Which is the great commandment in the law?" Jesus answered, "Thou shalt love the Lord thy God with all thy heart, and with all thy soul, and with all thy mind. This is the first and great commandment. And the second is like unto it; Thou shalt love thy neighbor as thyself. On these two commandments hang all the law and the prophets." (Matthew 22: 36-39.) Here it is seen according to the words of Jesus, that the greatest commandment and the second in greatness, upon which two commandments "hang all the law and the prophets," are both introduced by "Thou shalt." This would seem to make all his commandments mandatory, whether specifically introduced by "Thou shalt," or "Thou shalt not"; and they are not left to the conscience, convenience, temperament, pleasure or prejudice of the individual. So, not only are the Decalog and the Pentateuch made mandatory by "Thou shalt," and "Thou shalt not," but the gospel is also placed upon the same basis.

WITH THE RESTORATION OF THE GOSPEL has come a reiteration of many commandments introduced by the mandatory introductions referred to. Some of these follow in this discussion; and we first examine section forty-two of the Doctrine and Covenants, which comes to the church as the constitutional law forming the basis of other laws given by divine revelation, and those resulting from General Conference enactments.

"And now I speak unto the church":

"Thou shalt not kill; and he that kills shall not have forgiveness in this world nor in the world to come. And again, I say, Thou shalt not kill; but he that killeth shall die." It might be questioned why the church should thus be warned; but it is well to remember that many killings have been justified in the name of Christianity; and that even among those believing in the great Restoration the taking of human life has been justified on the grounds that nothing short of the blood of the transgressor could atone for his sin, the atonement of Christ not being sufficient.

"Thou shalt not steal; and he that stealeth and will not repent, shall be cast out." Breaking into a house, or taking that which belongs to another without the owner's consent, are not the only forms of stealing. Defrauding (Continued on page 912)

www.LatterDayTruth.org

"Come to the Feast"

By Evan A. Fry

"A certain man made a great supper, and bade many, And sent his servant at supper time to say to them that were bidden, Come; for all things are now ready. And they all with one consent began to make excuse. The first said unto him, I have bought a piece of ground, and I must needs go and see it: I pray thee have me excused. . . . And another said, I have married a wife, and therefore I cannot come. So that servant came, and showed his lord these things. Then the master of the house being angry, said to the servant, Go out quickly into the streets and lanes of the city, and bring in hither the poor, and the maimed, and the halt, and the blind. And the servant said, Lord, it is done as thou hast commanded, and yet there is room. And the Lord said unto the servant, Go out into the highways and hedges and compel them to come in, that my house may be filled. For I say unto you, That none of those men which were bidden shall taste of my supper. . . .

"If any man come to me, and hate not his father, and mother, and wife, and children, and brethren, and sisters, yea, and his own life also, he cannot be my disciple. And whosoever doth not bear his cross, and come after me, cannot be my disciple. . . . So likewise, whosoever he be of you that forsaketh not all that he hath, he cannot be my disciple."—Luke 14: 16-28, 33.

Our whole western civilization is based on the very antithesis of the lesson taught in this scripture reading. The chief, and often the only emphasis of our modern life is upon things—material possessions, houses, lands, money in the bank—and a man's success is commonly measured in terms of dollars and cents.

No man whose primary purpose in life is the accumulation and hoarding of material things can be a true disciple of Jesus, for he that cometh to Jesus must forsake all that he hath. I do not believe that Jesus meant for all of his followers to be paupers or mendicants, but rather that they should seek first the kingdom of heaven; that they should mentally forsake and disregard their possessions, and maintain rather a jealous zeal and passionate, all-consuming love for the more valuable things of the spirit.

Material possessions make slaves of those who possess them. Man is by instinct acquisitive and possessive, and as soon as he has something in his possession, he forms a deep, and sometimes almost an insane attachment for it. If he loses it, he is immediately either alert to fight for its recovery, or depressed with woe-begone pessimism because of its loss. If you don't believe you are a slave to your possessions, try this simple experiment. Imagine what you would do if it should suddenly become necessary for you to move on half an hour's notice. Would your possessions cause you any trouble or any regrets?

What would you do if you should lose your automobile tomorrow? How would you face life if all your earthly possessions should be swept away tomorrow? Would life be all over for you, or would you still have your most valuable possessions intact?

The people of this parable who had been bidden to the supper by the master of the house were slaves to their own interests and their own worldly possessions. They had had sufficient advance notice of the supper so that they should have been able to put their affairs in order, for they had been bidden to the feast. It appears from the parable that the lord giving the feast was a man rich and powerful —one whose acquaintance it might have been well to cultivate for more reasons than one. Obviously, too, the supper which he had prepared was most desirable. But those whom he had bidden were so enslaved by their possessions that they could not be bothered when the servant came to announce that the supper was ready.

The whole human family has been invited by the Master to come to his feast of spiritual food and drink. But more and more in our modern age, we find people refusing or ignoring the invitation because of their love for the fleeting things of this world. The invitation once rejected is dangerously near to being withdrawn. Your place at the supper table may be taken by another who was less a slave to materialism than were you.

I think the only two specific cases mentioned in the parable are significant. You will remember that one man could not come because he had to go look after a newly acquired field. That man represents the type of person who serves the Lord and seeks after heavenly riches only after his bank book and safe deposit boxes show a good store of dollars and bonds and mortgages and deeds. After he has attended to business, he will serve the Lord, he thinks, but somehow business always takes all of his time, and he never gets around to serving the Lord. That man has his counterpart in thousands if not in millions of modern Americans.

The second man, you will remember, had just married a wife, and therefore begged to be excused. Even a new wife was not to be sufficient cause for staying away from the supper to which the husband had been invited. Now I think you will agree with me, if you will give a little thought to the matter, that Christ didn't mean (Continued on page 912)

www.LatterDayTruth.org

PARTNERSHIP IN MARRIAGE

By LOTTIE CLARK DIGGLE

IGNORANCE IS BLISS, but marriage is the exception that proves the rule. Young people are inclined to rush precipitously into a partnership which calls for the wisdom of Socrates (and even Socrates' wisdom did not bring him conjugal felicity), and which requires infinite tact, sympathy and understanding. They trust to luck to weather the stormy sea of matrimony. It is little wonder that shipwrecks are so frequent and squalls inevitable and that many fail to steer the matrimonial bark into a safe harbor.

Marriage requires more foreknowledge than any of the professions. A woman to be a successful wife and mother should be teacher, nurse, cook, dressmaker, preacher, and psychologist combined. Fewer men would flounder in the sea of matrimony if they had more or less knowledge of biology, architecture, psychology and economics. They should also understand home decorating, food values, budgeting, textiles, child training and eugenics, in order to share intelligently and sympathetically the problems of parenthood. It is to be regretted that algebra and geometry crowd out these essential subjects which should be given a prominent place on the curricula of our high schools and universities. Fortunately, however, the world is awakening to the need of a more intensive study of homecraft for both sexes.

The following are a few suggestions, gleaned from observation, experience and study, which may be helpful to young people who are contemplating marriage:

A Good Husband

1. Realizes that his wife is unhappily conscious of the heavy biscuits or tough pie crust and so refrains from comment or criticism.
2. Does not compel her to come begging for every dollar she requires, but believes in having "all things common."
3. Shares as far as lies in his power the extra burden of bearing and rearing the children.
4. Loyally defends his wife from his family's interference or criticisms and does not ask her to live with them.
5. Upholds her when she corrects the children.
6. Knows that although "Man's love is of man's life a thing apart, 'tis woman's whole existence," and brings her joy unspeakable by reiterating his love.
7. Refrains from comparing his wife with his mother.
8. Curbs his temper when she is angry or irritable.
9. Realizes that being tied in the home all day with the children, she enjoys an outing in the evening.
10. Does not refer to his wife as "she" or "the woman."
11. Does not reserve his pleasant manners for outsiders and vent his ill temper on his defenseless wife.
12. Does not take advantage of his superior strength, and the fact that the Bible declares man the head of the house, to bully and boss a helpless wife.

A Good Wife

1. Strives to maintain her half of the marriage partnership by intelligent and efficient home-making.
2. Spends the family income wisely.
3. Is not guilty of the unpardonable and home-wrecking sin of nagging.
4. Does not neglect her husband for her children.
5. Is neatly and suitably dressed in the home.
6. Is always loyal to her husband.
7. Endeavors to welcome her husband's friends.
8. Tries to soothe and comfort him when he is tired or discouraged.
9. Upholds him when he corrects the children.
10. Does not assign to herself always the cup without a handle, or the neck of the chicken, and then grumble because her husband regards her as a "remnant."
11. Never refers to her husband as "he" or "my man."
12. Knows that he is the head of the house; she is the neck.
13. Has a saving sense of humor.
14. Realizes that her husband enjoys her companionship in the home in the evenings, and if possible plans some of her outings for the afternoons.

Civilizing the Children

"If a state is to have a civilized population, its children must be taught to behave like civilized beings. This instruction, I believe, should begin in the nursery schools. A child's universe is bounded by his skin; so is an infantile adult's; and the behavior of these two types is likely to approach too close to savagery for the general welfare.

"About the most important thing the child has to learn is that the world is full of other people, whose rights he must observe, and with whom he must be scrupulous in the fulfillment of his obligations.

"You may think this a trite observation; but anybody who sees much of youth knows scores of young persons of good family who grow to the ages of sixteen or seventeen gloriously unaware that there is anyone else on earth who has any rights, or that they themselves have, or could possibly incur, any obligations to anyone else. Their negligent parents have failed to point out these elementary facts."—Claire Williams in the Forum and Century.

The people to whom life has meant most have been people who have been most convinced that they possessed something so excellent that for its sake life itself were well lost. Losing themselves in some great cause they have found freedom to be their best selves, and with this freedom they have won happiness and inner peace.—William Adams Brown, in Pathways to Certainty.

www.LatterDayTruth.org

A Church Program for the Teen Age

By C. B. Woodstock

The recent Youth Conference was preeminently an occasion for the clarifying of ideas and the perfecting of plans for a more effective program of activities for the youth of the church. Forenoon class work centered in the message and witness of the church, the enduring convictions of the Restoration forming the basis and background of all our church endeavor. The afternoons were given over to particular emphasis on the methods of procedure, the discovery of ways and means of accomplishing the objectives of the church, and the share youth may contribute as they increasingly grow into adult responsibility.

Early in the Conference two important committees were formed to investigate the needs of the early teen-age group of boys and girls, to weigh present available programs and to advise methods of procedure. It is becoming evident that while boys and girls from 12 to 15 years of age are included in the range of the young people's division, it is not wise nor possible to advance early adolescents into the more mature social life and activities of later adolescence and the early twenties. For the younger age there must be provided an educational and activity program suited to their interests, needs, and capacity to participate. Such programs are found in the Oriole, Girl Scout and Campfire programs for girls and the Scout program for boys.

Early Adolescent Girls

A committee on the girls' activity program gave consideration to the particular interests and the specific needs of girls of early adolescence, including health, social and recreational expression, handcraft, nature, better citizenship, and religious education and expression. After careful detailed discussion the committee agreed that a girls' club or similar organization under proper church supervision and leadership would vitally assist in meeting the needs.

The newly revised Oriole program was studied and judged as to the possibility of its use in comparison with national girl movements such as Girl Scouts and Campfire Girls. It was found that the Oriole program as completely meets the fundamental needs of girls as any of the others, and it has the additional advantage of being church centered, church directed, and providing a direct stimulus to specific religious education, along our own church lines. Yet it was the opinion of the committee that such religious features as are introduced in the program would not exclude nonmembers of the church.

As compared with national girl organizations, the revised Oriole program requires much less financial expenditure for both girls and leaders, thus making it more generally available to girl groups throughout the church.

Immediate plans are being made to print the revised Oriole program as a supplement to Our Girls and as a guide and schedule for the use of Oriole girls and their leaders. Our Girls is a splendid book of teen age activities published by the church in 1930 and sold until recently for $1.00. An attractive Oriole Record Book is also being prepared for the use of each girl—with pages for achievement records and the keeping of award seals. A series of fifteen awards has been designed to recognize specific achievement in as many fields of endeavor. The Herald Publishing House is now able to make a very fine special bargain offer of both Our Girls with the New Oriole Guide for $0.98, or the Guide alone may be had for fifteen cents. The Oriole Record Book, attractively printed on tinted paper and with leatherette cover, will sell at twenty-five cents each, postpaid.

While the Oriole plan is thus given general endorsement by those interested in the girls of the church, it is also to be urged that where our girls have already gone into national organizations (Girl Scouts or Campfire) with the approval of local branch authorities, or where they shall choose to do so later under conditions judged to be advantageous by those in charge, due recognition and encouragement should be given so long as they prove adequate to the local needs.

Early Adolescent Boys

A similar committee of men interested in Boy Scouting met daily to study the needs of early adolescent boys and to recommend a program. They considered in detail these needs and the various means of supplying them. Enthusiastic approval was given to the Boy Scouts of America as affording splendid opportunities for instruction, guidance and training in worth-while boy life under stimulating adult leadership. This is especially true where leadership may be supplied by a well qualified, earnest member of our own faith.

Attention was called in their report to two particular phases of the Boy Scout program: Cub Scouts organization for boys of 10 to 12, and the Standard Church Troop (Continued on page 913)

www.LatterDayTruth.org

DISCIPLESHIP

I.—Distant Disciples

By Thomas S. Williams

DISCIPLESHIP implies personal adherence to the views and doctrines of one's teacher. It indicates companionship and dependence.

"Distant" may be described as different in kind; not conformable; remote in time, place, and character. It implies slightness of connection and aloofness of manner.

Hence it is clear that the words comprising our text are contradictory. One cannot be a distant disciple for, as an examination of our subject reveals, nearness is a quality of discipleship.

Moses, in words recorded in Deuteronomy 30: 11-15, pointed out that the commandments of God are not hidden from his people. "Neither are they afar off. They are not away in heaven or across the sea. But the word is very nigh unto thee, in thy mouth, and in thy heart, that thou mayst do it." There is, then, no justification for not knowing the law, or for being distant disciples.

Distant discipleship is a state of mind, rather than of geographical location. I know an elder who drives forty miles to take charge of a service. And I once knew a family who, because it was necessary to ride seven miles by interurban cars to reach the church, considered themselves isolated.

The type of disciple under consideration depends upon the writings of an older age. This is well as far as it goes. A study of the utterances of the ancients does not sufficiently qualify one for meeting the problems of the present world. One may be so near the experiences of a bygone age that he will be distant from problems of the present. The writings of the prophets may help us in suggesting attitudes, but a knowledge of methods comes only through an understanding of conditions as they exist and a vision of what they ought to be.

Near discipleship implies an appreciation of the customs, ideas and habits of other groups. We can better understand our own church and its objectives through a knowledge of the beliefs, practices and objectives of other religious groups.

Desire for social standing or for official position may place distance between a disciple and his teacher. A man may be in the church merely for social approval. He may be thinking of the monetary returns which his church membership may bring him. Like some of the followers of Jesus, he may be interested in the loaves and fishes.

A near, or true, disciple is sincere, devout, wholehearted. His worship is not the mouth and lip worship of him who follows afar off. He is one with his master in thought and feeling, experiencing with him the throes of Calvary, and the joy of the Mount of Transfiguration. "Were you there when they crucified our Lord?"

Quibblings over technicalities of ceremony, procedure, or organization frequently cloud the mind and chill the heart to such an extent that the deeper significance of the Master's words are lost. Honest, God-fearing folk thus separate themselves from the real essence of Jesus' teachings.

It is interesting to contemplate that the feeling of aloofness may exist in the mind of the disciple only, and not in the mind of the teacher. We may feel far from our Creator, yet, we are assured, the Creator is never far from us. This thought, that of God's concern for his sinning children, is well portrayed in the story of the prodigal son. The father saw the son "afar off" and went out to meet him. Throughout all his wanderings, the father was never far from the son.

An experience in my own life will further illustrate. Through the years I had felt that my father had manifested very little interest in my church activities. However, after his recent death, I was surprised to discover by the notes which he left that he had tenderly noted my progress step by step. Thus it may be with our heavenly Father when at times we feel that he is distant and unconcerned. The separation is of our own making, a result of our own attitude of mind.

A wise man will make haste to forgive, because he knows the true value of time, and will not suffer it to pass away in unnecessary pain. He that willingly suffers the corrosions of inveterate hatred, and gives up his days and nights to the gloom of malice and perturbations of stratagem, cannot surely be said to consult his ease. Resentment is a union of sorrow with malignity, a combination of a passion which all endeavor to avoid, with a passion which all concur to detest. The man who retires to meditate mischief and to exasperate his own rage, whose thoughts are employed only on means of distress and contrivances of ruin, whose mind never pauses from the remembrance of his own sufferings, but to indulge some hope of enjoying the calamities of another, may justly be numbered among the most miserable of human beings, among those who are guilty without reward, who have neither the gladness of prosperity nor the calm of innocence.—Detroit's Beacon Light.

www.LatterDayTruth.org

Weekly Health Letter

By A. W. Teel, M. D.,
Church Physician . . .

Spring Cleaning—A Law of Nature

Spring cleaning is an instinct and a law of nature. The flowers displace their dirty coverings, due to the glories of spring which banishes the coat of the winter's chill. The trees shed their old, dead parts, and the birds discard their dirty coats and spend several hours washing and cleaning their bodies and feathers. The old, disheveled, ashbox-looking drake spends several hours cleaning and oiling his feathers. The caveman had the same natural kind of instinct as that of other animals, no doubt inherited farther back than we can imagine.

Household cleanliness is also an hereditary instinct, from which the housewife busies herself with the cleaning out of all offensive matter that has accumulated in the rooms during the short days of winter. Most everyone remembers their mother's prodigious efforts when she threw the window shutters wide open, and gave the rooms a good, and much needed, sunshine bath. She was not satisfied with just merely ventilating, and letting the sunshine into the rooms, but the carpets were turned up, and some poor fellow's lot was to beat them. Certainly not a very wholesome job for a fellow thus employed, being compelled to stand in a cloud of dust, in his attempt to perform this most needed spring cleaning. Investigators have found that those who are so unfortunate as to be compelled to follow this line of endeavor—I refer to janitors in large apartment houses—show that these carpet beaters die at an early age from consumption. One could not expect anything else, when they are compelled to stand, day in and day out, breathing the germ-laden dust. Whatever the sacrifice may be so far as the janitor is concerned, the housewife is mindful of the fact that it is necessary to save the lives of herself and family. If the carpet cleaner dropped dead, as he beat the carpet, then the occupation would stop at once, but not all carpet beaters die from it.

I might be questioned as to this statement, from the fact that I have told you in former articles something about how sunlight and air kill germs. This same thing applies to babies that have been fed bad milk. If they should die instantly from such an unwholesome diet, such a pernicious line of diet would be stopped instantly. Nevertheless, if the janitor were properly instructed how to protect himself, his dangers might be reduced to the minimum; but just merely cleaning the carpets, and perhaps scrubbing the floors, is not enough.

Too many, I fear, stop at this stage of the cleaning process. For then there are the sinks, ice boxes, closets, pantries, paper boxes, papers, and other odds and ends, which should not be forgotten. In smoky neighborhoods, very special attention should be paid to the walls greasy from coal soot. Wearing apparel also should be carefully aired. I believe that every housewife, in going through the spring cleaning process, should have all these first taken out and then fumigate the house, as outlined by the various state boards of health.

I even notice that so many times the annual house-cleaning is done only in a cursory manner, such as just wiping off the walls, opening the windows, etc. But it should extend farther than this, as every physician knows that insects are carriers of infection. Fleas may carry the germs of many diseases. The mosquito carries the germ of malaria, and the bedbug the germs of relapsing fever. The housefly is one of our worst enemies, because of his filth-laden feet, and his ability to crawl unnoticed into every niche and corner. Cockroaches have been known to cause serious diseases, and care should be taken that all food containers should be carefully protected to keep them from gaining entrance. These tiny pests, that we have already mentioned, may have paid a recent visit to some outhouse, crawled over pest-laden feces, and after a hasty return, crawled over your bread and other articles of food. Special care should be taken concerning roaches, as they usually find a home in dirty, dark, damp corners in the kitchen and pantry.

Sometimes on the farm is one of the worst places, on account of the barns, chicken houses, stables, etc. And these should not be forgotten in the cleaning process. All places that favor breeding of vermin and disease germs should be carefully scrutinized; and all debris and waste should be destroyed. Rats, mice, flies, and fleas, are unmistakably filthy, and are capable of transmitting some of the most dangerous diseases. Mosquitos breed in water tanks and cesspools, and are frequently found in cisterns, flush tanks, and toilet rooms. All tanks and cisterns should be covered, and all debris-catching receptacles about the barnyards and streets should be destroyed, preferably by fire. Crude petroleum, or coal oil, is one of the best disinfectants to prevent the development of mosquitoes in tanks and rubbish piles. Any swamps near the house should be thus treated (Continued on page 912)

www.LatterDayTruth.org

WEEKLY HEALTH LETTER

(Continued from page 911.)

and drained. Serious epidemics have been traced to germs carried by flies on their feet, gathered from feces, dead animal matter, etc. All garbage cans should be thoroughly cleansed and prepared and equipped with appropriate, practical covers. The manure piles that are frequently accumulated during the winter months, are an ideal breeding place for flies. Manure pens should be carefully cleaned and, in rural districts, hauled far enough away to be sure that the water supply will not become contaminated. It is a splendid idea to lime or whitewash all the manure piles, pigpens, etc., care being taken to sprinkle it freely about the area line of the most common carriers of diseases, as the flies and mosquitos.

Some of the reunions I have attended have been derelict in their duty in regard to cleanliness; and I fear have been the result of more harm than good to the community in many instances in this respect.

LOYALTY

(Continued from page 906.)

by false promises, or contracts that may be evaded, or contracting debts with no likelihood of ability to pay, or not making consistent effort to pay; are all forms of stealing; and they are so prevalent in the world that the church is affected more or less. Hence the Lord's commandment, "Thou shalt not steal."

"Thou shalt not lie; he that lieth and will not repent shall be cast out." A lie is a willful misstatement; a malicious falsehood to deceive; while a falsehood may be an innocent misstatement of a supposed fact. According to this divine decree an unrepentant liar should not be retained in the church.

"Thou shalt not commit adultery." History shows that the church has been cursed by the spirit of adultery in violation of law; and also by adultery in the name of Christianity under the sanction of so-called divine revelation. The church and the world are cursed by the growing volume of divorce cases crowding our courts, the basis of a large portion of which is beyond doubt the spirit of adultery.

"Thou shalt not be proud in thy heart." Pride has been a prominent factor in the downfall of nations in the past upon both the Eastern and the Western Continents.

"Thou shalt not speak evil of thy neighbor nor do him any harm." This commandment supports the one to love one's neighbor as himself, for one will not harm another whom he truly loves. Backbiting and evil-speaking are sources of great evil in the church and in the world. One cannot think good and speak evil. Neither can he think and speak evil and walk straight; for "As a man thinketh in his heart, so is he;" and "From the abundance of the heart the mouth speaketh." Zion cannot become the "pure in heart" until evil speaking is fully eliminated.

"Thou shalt not be idle; for he that is idle shall not eat the bread nor wear the garments of the laborer." This commandment cannot have reference to unemployment caused by economic depression. It includes the idle rich as well as the idle poor, and the former is a greater menace to the welfare of society than the latter. God's law is to put an end to both conditions.

HAVING THUS CALLED ATTENTION to some commandments introduced by the negative, "Thou shalt not," let us turn our attention briefly to a few introduced by the affirmative, "Thou shalt."

"If thou lovest me, thou shalt serve me and keep all my commandments." Here is a commandment to keep the commandments of God, accompanied by a statement of conditions testifying of that love. Without the testimony the profession of love can be only an empty profession—idle words, perhaps, to be accounted for, perhaps, in the day of judgment.

"He that sinneth and repenteth not, shalt be cast out of the church; and the administrative officers supported by the membership of the church bear the burden of enforcing this commandment. The lack of enforcing this commandment is one of the serious hindrances to progress and growth of the kingdom of God.

"The elders of the church, two or more, shall be called," in the case of sickness, "and if they die they shall die unto me, and if they live, they shall live unto me." Here is a specific affirmative commandment, "shall be called"; and yet how lightly is it regarded in far too many instances! To be sure the sick should "be nourished with all tenderness with herbs and mild foods" by friends; but if that part of the commandment to call for the elders of the church were more faithfully observed, who can tell what great blessings might thus come to the church?

"Thou shalt live together in love." This implies mutual effort upon the part of every disciple of Christ to possess toleration, forbearance, patience and charity towards all; to cultivate a forgiving disposition, and to practice virtue and holiness before the Lord. Individuality must be subordinated to community life, that the kingdom of God may flourish and finally become a reality.

"Thou shalt stand in the place of thy stewardship." Everyone has a divine stewardship in that God has invested in him physical, mental, moral and spiritual power, or attributes, for which he must render an accounting in the final day. What one is is God's gift to him; what one does is his gift to God. The latter should be commensurate with the former.

"Thou shalt take the things which thou hast received, which have been given unto thee in my scriptures for a law to be my law to govern my church." Here is a "Thou shalt," with reward and penalty attached, "and he that doeth according to these things, shall be saved, and he that doeth them not shall be damned, if he continues."

The Lord has not failed to make it clear and emphatic that salvation is dependent upon doing according to the law, which is loyalty, being "true to plighted faith or duty," and that condemnation will surely result from doing them not.

"COME TO THE FEAST"

(Continued from page 907.)

exactly what this imperfect and quite too literal translation makes him seem to mean when he says that a man should hate his wife, for few people before or since have emphasized the sanctity of marriage more forcibly or in fewer words than did Jesus when he said that a man should leave his father and mother and cleave unto his wife, and that they twain should be one flesh—joined by God, and incapable of being put asunder by any man.

I should rather believe that when Jesus said that a man should hate all his relatives, he meant again to prescribe an attitude or state of mind, which should place all family relationships in a position of secondary importance, with first stress on spiritual values and the saving of an immortal soul. Certainly we should be the losers if we went contrary to all the dictates of conscience and common sense and moral law just in order to maintain peace with our relatives. It is highly desirable to love and live peaceably with all men, but if it comes to a showdown between continued friendship and the integrity of our soul, there should be no hesitation about forsaking the friendship if there comes a call to service which you know is from the Master, his business should come first, and your relatives second. We are commanded to seek first the kingdom of God, and then promised that "all these things"—riches, honor, power—shall be added unto us as we need them.

Christianity is primarily a great adventure in faith and consecration. He who would be the true Christian must through faith be unreservedly consecrated to the cause which he has espoused. Unless he is so consecrated, Christ cannot own him, and he may arrive at the feast too late, only to find that his reserved seat at the table has been taken by another who was willing and anxious to forsake everything and go when the invitation came. We have abundant promise that the feast will more than recompense us for all the things we may have left behind when we come to the table of the Lord.

www.LatterDayTruth.org

A CHURCH PROGRAM FOR THE TEEN AGE

(Continued from page 909.)

for boys from 12 to 16. The former is well adapted to junior boys, with a most interesting and valuable set of Cub manuals to guide in "things to do." The Standard Church Troop provides for close supervision by the pastor and the control of the troop activities by a church committee. Opportunity is also given to stress church projects and participation in local church services in the total Scout program.

Those interested in organizing a troop of Boy Scouts or Cub Scouts should make application to the local Scout headquarters, or they may write direct to National Scout Headquarters, 2 Park Avenue, New York City.

It was urged that the value of any program lies in its leadership, and that the church should seriously consider the problem of providing trained leaders, consecrated to the task of building boys and girls into the kind of people who shall be able to help realize the great objectives of the church. This becomes one of the most commanding challenges the church must meet. Early adolescent boys and girls need sympathetic, stimulating, inspiring leadership from those whose spiritual natures have been touched and quickened by vital religious experiences. This challenge comes especially to the older young people to furnish this leadership for boys and girls of Scout and Oriole age.

A Teacher of Little Children

By Myrtle Weber

(The following has appeared as a foreword of a Kindergarten quarterly, but the beauty and appeal of its expression deserve a more general appreciation by all who love childhood.—C. B. W.)

Coworkers with Him! Were He to ask,
"Come, star with me the spaces of My night,
Or light with Me tomorrow's sunset glow,
Or fashion forth the crystals of My snow,
Or teach My sweet June roses how to blow,"
O rare beautitude! But holier task,
Of all His works of beauty rarest high
Is that He keeps for hands like ours to ply!
When He upgathers all his elements,
His day, His nights, whole eons of His June,
The mighty Gardener of the earth and Sky,
That to achieve toward which the ages roll,
We hear the voice that sets the spheres attune,
"Help me, my comrades, flower this little soul!"

—W. G. Gannett.

TO BE A TEACHER of little children is truly a high and holy task, for we are coworkers with God himself in helping to build Christlike character, in forming ideals which may last through eternity.

How glibly we remark that the children are the hope of the future, they are the men and women of tomorrow. And yet, how serious are we? Our church, and the world, has a right to expect great things from the children who are now in the kindergarten departments of our church schools. Yet the work of the kindergarten seems trivial to many in these busy times, and we are often satisfied to subject these precious lives to the poorest we have. The children are so little. What does it matter if we infringe upon their rights? if we tuck them off in the corner of some unfinished basement? if we do not provide materials for their development? if their teachers are illy prepared? During the Franco-Russian war a baby was born, but the world did not notice. It was too busy; greater things claimed its attention. That baby became the eminent scientist, Louis Pasteur, who, by his discovery, saved more lives than were lost during that war. So engrossed in their own affairs were the people of Bethlehem that they took no notice of the birth of Jesus. Yet he was the Messiah, the Prince of Peace, the Savior of mankind. Can you not begin to appreciate the possibilities that lie in the children you teach?

Teaching little children is more than a patriotic service; indeed, it is a world service. It is the demand of the King of kings that you shall prove "in all things, faithful." The time you give to church school work is a freewill offering to the cause in which you believe. To help little children to grow, to develop, to form desirable habits requires persistence, perseverance, and patience, and the price each kindergarten teacher must pay is "eternal vigilance." But as Margaret Slattery says, "We teach and impatiently cry for results. God teaches and with majestic patience waits through the years for the lesson to be learned." Let us be whole-hearted coworkers with God. Let us measure up to our holy task. Let us be alive to the opportunities that lie before us.

"Right-thinking means right-saying and right-doing, and by no other means can come the harvest of good we desire. This is not 'new' thought—it is as old as the world. And so it happens that life has always been what we make it, and still is."

Self-reverence, self-knowledge, self-control,
These three alone lead life to sovereign power.

—Tennyson.

What Latter Day Saints Believe About the Restoration Movement

Notes taken from a sermon for young people by Elbert A. Smith

"This is the greatest work in the world!" This testimony of early elders lives today. In Isaiah 29 this work is described "even a marvelous work and a wonder."

We as Latter Day Saints believe in the Restoration of the old and primitive order of Christianity, rather than in the Reformation of man-made creeds and beliefs. And what we believe about the Restoration can be briefly summarized under five headings.

(1) We believe in continuous revelation, that God speaks today as he did two thousand years ago. Joseph Smith, a lad, came out of the woods declaring that God does speak today. We believe that the canon of Scriptures is not full; that God continues to reveal his will to his people through his chosen servant the prophet.

(2) We believe in the restoration of the scriptural form of doctrine which Paul epitomizes for us in Hebrews, 6th chapter.

(3) We believe in the restoration of the scriptural form of church organization described in 1 Corinthians 12 and Ephesians 4. God should know how he wants his church organized, and so in the work of the Restoration when the church was organized, it was built on His plan with a living prophet and all other officers presented in the New Testament as Christ had them in the church. And this was not done by the will of man but by commandment from heaven.

(4) We believe in the restoration of old-time gifts and blessings. These gifts and blessings came back to earth, and the Saints began to sing, "The Spirit of God like a fire is burning."

(5) We believe in the restoration of the old-time authority, the authority of the ministry to act in the name of Christ. Without question Jesus Christ came with authority to minister to the world. He said: "For as the Father hath life in himself; so hath he given to the Son to have life in himself; and hath given him authority to execute judgment also." "I seek not mine own will, but the will of the Father which hath sent me." "Ye have not chosen me, but I have chosen you, and ordained you. . . ."

Words of Wisdom

Cherish your body, for God made it great;
It has a guest of might and high estate;
Keep the shrine noble, handsome, high and whole,
For in it lives God's work, a kingly soul.

—James Bartlett Wiggin.

www.LatterDayTruth.org

Prayer and Testimony

The Doctrine and Covenants

By Hazel L. Minkler

While reading the testimonies in a recent issue of the Herald, I was impressed to bear my testimony concerning the necessity for the study of the Doctrine and Covenants. The Lord has told us that "out of the books which have been written will he judge the world," and while all of us perhaps realize the necessity for the study of the Inspired Version of the Bible, and many of us are diligent students of the Book of Mormon, I wonder how many of us realize that the Doctrine and Covenants should claim as large a part of our time as these other inspired books.

As the Bible is the special contribution of the Jews to the literature of the world, and the Book of Mormon, the contribution of the ancient inhabitants of America to the world, so the Doctrine and Covenants contains the revelations of the Lord to the people of modern times. As such, its contents are for all men, even those from afar, and those that are upon the isles of the sea. (Doctrine and Covenants 1: 1.)

Coming forth, as it has, in this the hour of God's judgment, it is a merciful and wise provision on the part of the Almighty for the acquaintance of the honest in heart with those laws by which they may escape the perilous times which are coming upon the earth. Of its status at a future time, we are reminded by Isaiah, in the words, "Out of Zion shall go forth the law, [the Doctrine and Covenants] and the word of the Lord from Jerusalem." Its importance is further seen when we consider that it is referred to in Psalm 85: 11, in the words: "Truth shall spring out of the earth; [the Book of Mormon] and righteousness [the Doctrine and Covenants] shall look down from heaven."

That its contents are to be classified as scriptures, which are as valid as any as were ever before written, is shown by the following words.

"And whatsoever they shall speak when moved upon by the Holy Ghost shall be scripture; shall be the will of the Lord; shall be the mind of the Lord; shall be the word of the Lord; and be the voice of the Lord, and the power of God unto salvation." (Doctrine and Covenants 68: 1.)

This statement was made concerning the traveling ministry, and if it applies to them, how much more does it apply to the revelations given through the prophet, seer, and revelator to the church, and embodied in this book.

The book is tangible evidence of the immutability of God's laws, as certain of the revelations of the Lord to his ancient saints, and not contained in other scriptures, are given to us, in these last days for our profit and guidance. Such are the revelations of section 77 and 101. In section 95 we are told of the manner in which we are to meet our enemies, and are informed that this is the law which the Lord gave to his servant Nephi, and also to Abraham, Isaac, and Jacob, as well as the ancient prophets and apostles.

It also affords us the same evidence that the canon of scripture is not full, neither will it be full until the coming of the Son of Man, for they who go to the land of Zion are to be blessed with commandments not a few, and with revelations in their time. (Doctrine and Covenants 59: 1.)

Nowhere do we gain so clear a conception of the fact that Christ is our Father, as well as our Elder Brother, as in the Book of Mormon (page 251) and Doctrine and Covenants, section 90, and in the latter the Lord informs us that he has shown us these things that we may know how we worship, and what we worship.

As we consider its contents, we are led with the Psalmist to exclaim, "Oh, how love I thy law, it is my meditation all the day." Let us apply ourselves diligently to the study of its revelations, that we may realize the promise of the Lord that "unto him that keepeth my commandments, I will give the mysteries of the kingdom, and the same shall be in him a well of living water, springing up unto everlasting life."

And again, "He that receiveth light and continueth in God, receiveth more light, and that light groweth brighter and brighter, until the perfect day."

Sister Richard Baldwin Improves in Health

Some weeks ago the Editors printed a request for prayers in behalf of Sister Richard Baldwin, who had undergone an operation. We rejoice that the heavenly Father has been pleased to bless one who is so worthy. Following is a note from Brother Baldwin, which brings good news:

"Sister Richard Baldwin wishes to thank her many friends who remembered her with their prayers, and letters and cards during her recent illness. We know that God heard and answered the prayers of His people in her behalf, for the doctors stated that her recovery has been remarkable. At the present time her mouth is nearly healed and she desires that the Saints will remember her that she may be blessed still further.

"So many were the letters and cards received that it will be impossible for us to answer them all, so we are asking the Editor to insert this note of thanks to all who have written."

We are sure that all who wrote, and many who did not, will continue to remember Sister Baldwin in their prayers.

Isolated Saint Calls for Defense of the Truth

By Fred A. Peterson

I have been living here at Bristol, Tennessee, for the past eight years, and my heart goes out to all of like faith who are isolated from the church. No one seems to understand my belief, and how I do wish at times that I could converse with a Latter Day Saint that is grounded in the faith, as I feel that it would help me to live better these trying times.

My heart was made to rejoice the other day by my niece, a very brilliant girl of seventeen, who recently attended a Bible School Camp, sponsored by the Christian Church, at Milligan, Tennessee, which is a distance of about thirty miles from Bristol. The subject of Mormonism was brought up during one of their morning lectures. It seemed that the speaker was making it very clear that both the Utah Church and the Reorganized Church were the same. This young girl knew the difference, and asked for the privilege to explain it to the class. This she was granted. Upon her return to Bristol she said, "Uncle Fred, I had a chance to defend your church while at camp this week. I remembered what you had told me about your church and the Mormons, and I explained it as best I could the way that you had explained it to me. It seemed to interest the listeners, as they did not know that a distinction was made between the two churches. A number of people attending this lecture expressed themselves as being glad to get this information, as they were ignorant on the subject."

There is one thing that our school children have to study

www.LatterDayTruth.org

Prayer and Testimony

in our American history that certainly should be corrected. That is, the slander that is placed upon Joseph Smith, which reads as follows: That he, (Smith) received a revelation from God declaring that every true Mormon marriage would last forever, and sanctioned the marriage of more than one wife by those deemed worthy. Those, said he, who keep this law will in the next world pass by the Angel in Glory.

Much more is said, and for the sake of our on-coming generation, cannot this be corrected, along with other errors in our textbooks used in public schools? We, members of the church, know better, but nonmembers take it for the truth.

My prayers daily are for the church and for all of God's people, especially for those that are isolated and have not the privilege of meeting with the Saints.

BRISTOL, TENNESSEE, 649 Fifth Street.

Holds to Faith in Isolation

By Mrs. M. J. Solomon

I am thankful to the Lord for what he has done for me, and I am trusting in him for future blessings. I know that through the prayers of the Saints, the Lord has blessed me and I desire the prayers of all that my faith in God will be strengthened.

I read my Bible and the Herald for they are full of cheering words and testimonies. The Heralds cheer our isolated ones especially. It has been twenty-five years since I have heard a Latter Day Saint preach. My husband and I were baptized at Stewartsville, Missouri, at the reunion, and I have never regretted the day I was led into the water, for I know this is the church of Jesus Christ. I have been in the Reorganized Church for twenty-seven years, and I never had a desire to join any other. I ask the Saints to pray for me that I will hold out faithful and that God will heal me.

GILLETTE, WYOMING.

My Father's Prayer

By Gomer T. Griffiths

What great and wonderful changes have taken place in the church since I was baptized into it. All the head officers and leaders who were in charge of the work at that time, have passed over the great divide, and only a few of the missionaries are now living.

My parents were baptized into the church in 1844, just a short time before Joseph and Hyrum Smith were killed. I am happy that my parents saw the light of the gospel, and I feel grateful to them that they instilled in my heart love for God and his eternal truths.

An old brother by the name of David Thomas, who was a friend of my father when I was a child, told me that one Sunday morning while he was visiting in our home, I came up to my father and he took me on his knee and said, "David, I have dedicated this boy to the Lord, and I have received the evidence that the Lord will accept him and use him in his service."

One day after I had preached a sermon, Brother Thomas came to me and told me that he had hardly believed what my father had told him regardiing me, but that now he was sure the Lord had heard and answered my father's prayer concerning me. My father did not live to see the answer to his prayer, but my mother lived to see me officiate as an apostle in this latter-day work.

Dear parents, I can assure you that the God of our fathers does not turn a deaf ear to the prayers of the fathers and mothers in behalf of their children.

The church numbered only a few hundred when I was baptized, and the membership of the church was only nine thousand seven hundred and fifty when I entered upon the missionary work. "Change and decay in all around I see; O Thou who changest not, abide with me." Conditions in the church and in the world are not as bright and encouraging as they might be, however, let us meet the discouragements with brave hearts and with faith in God, and all will be well in the end.

Brought Into the Church by Healing

By Gertrude Dougherty

My husband and I came in contact with the church through his healing. Upon some investigation he decided to be baptized, but I could not make up my mind. Brother G. P. Myers, sensing my aversion to the Book of Mormon, called upon us and explained to us the prophecies concerning its coming forth and of Joseph Smith and the work he was to accomplish. There accompanied him such a Spirit that all doubt was removed from my mind. However, I went into the water with the feeling that this church was not any different from the one in which I was brought up, but I had a sincere desire in my heart to serve my heavenly Father, and he has recognized my desire and has blessed me with blessings too numerous to tell.

Since that time I have had a wonderful experience as to the divinity of the Book of Mormon, and I shall ever be grateful for it. I have never been called upon to pass through trials for which I have not been prepared. I have thought of the words of President Floyd M. McDowell, "I don't know how I'm going to solve my problems of the future, but the way I know and God helping me I am going that way." That is my determination, and I should like to ask your prayers that I may always be willing and able to do my bit.

COLUMBUS, OHIO, 27 West Ramlow Street.

This Is God's Work

By Anna Thompson

Many times I have been wonderfully blessed in this great work of God, and I am a firm believer in prayer. I have been a member of this church thirty years, and have raised a family of five girls and one boy all of whom belong to the church.

All my children are married and I feel fortunate that all the "in-laws" with the exception of one young man, belong to the church, and I ask the prayers of the Saints in his behalf. Of my five sons-in-laws, three hold the priesthood.

I ask you to pray for me that my health may be better.

BREWTON, ALABAMA, Route C, Box 168.

Request Prayers

Mrs. Mary Jarvis, of Blanchard, Oklahoma, requests the Saints to fast and pray, July 23, on behalf of her two daughters, Mrs. Wilkerson and Mrs. Watkins who are both in poor health. Mrs. Jarvis also requests prayers for herself.

www.LatterDayTruth.org

QUESTION TIME

Does Acts 2: 27, 31 refer to Christ's soul, or that of both David and Christ?

Most translators make these texts refer to Christ, as though David were speaking in the words of Christ. Verse 31 thus would explain verse 27, though this point is not very clear in the Authorized Version, and is somewhat obscure in the Douay and the Syriac. These versions are as follows:

"Because thou wilt not leave my soul in hell, neither wilt thou suffer thine Holy One to see corruption. . . . He seeing this before spake of the resurrection of Christ, that his soul was not left in hell, neither his flesh did see corruption."—Authorized Version.

"Because thou wilt not leave my soul in hell, nor suffer thy Holy one to see corruption. . . . Foreseeing this, he spake of the resurrection of Christ. For neither was he left in hell, neither did his flesh see corruption."—Douay Version.

"For thou wilt not leave my soul in the grave, nor wilt thou give thy pious one to see corruption. . . . And he foresaw, and spoke of the resurrection of Messiah, that he was not left in the grave, neither did his body see corruption."—Syriac Version.

Another interpretation offered, though not accepted by most students probably, is that "my soul" in verse 27 refers to David, and that "his soul was not left in hell" also refers to David; but that "thine Holy One" in verse 27 refers to Christ, and that "neither his flesh did see corruption" refers to Christ. This would mean that David was speaking of himself and of Christ in the Psalm referred to (16: 10). But it is generally believed that David was by inspiration presenting the words of Christ, in which case neither text has reference to David. Acts 13: 33-37 also appears to convey this inference.

Why does Genesis 2: 11 say every tree became "a living soul"?

In speaking of man, Doctrine and Covenants declares that "the spirit and the body is the soul of man." Any living organism which had existed as a spiritual creation prior to its physical being might therefore be so termed. Of the tree, the text states: "It was spiritual in the day that I created it." The spirit of life therefore animates the physical creation having the characteristics of life. The tree of life itself was one of those planted in the garden of Eden. Life is a deep mystery, whether it be animal or vegetable substance through which it finds expression, and it is evidently of the realm of the spiritual world.

When was the prophet Samuel first placed in the care of Eli at the temple?

The only original source of information is that found in the Old Testament. The early life of Samuel from his birth is recorded largely in 1 Samuel, and it is stated that as soon as Samuel was weaned he was dedicated to the Lord at Shiloh. Of his mother, Hannah, we read:

"When she had weaned him, she took him up with her, . . . and brought him unto the house of the Lord in Shiloh: and the child was young."—1 Samuel 1: 24.

We learn in 2 Maccabees 7: 27 that Jewish mothers sometimes did not wean their children till three years of age, and we may therefore accept this period as the approximate time when Samuel was taken to Shiloh to be under the care of Eli. At this time it is not certain that there was a temple existing in Shiloh, which was a city in Ephraim to the north of Bethel and about twenty miles north of Jerusalem. For a long time the ark and tabernacle were there, and served as the place of worship. The term "house of the Lord" may be translated in several ways, and does not necessarily mean a structure of stone, wood, or similar materials, as used in the text quoted.

Did the shepherds see the star that led the wise men to Jesus?

According to Kepler, Jupiter and Saturn were in conjunction at about the time referred to, and later were joined by Mars. It is said that they passed each other three times, and may have been the light that guided the magi, as held by several students. It seems to be significant that this conjunction was in the constellation of the Fishes, for a fish is the astronomical symbol of Judea. However, others hold that the star of Bethlehem was probably a comet or a meteor. In either event, it seems probable that the shepherds may have seen this remarkable sign, even if they were unable to interpret its meaning, though the record does not give information on this point.

A. B. PHILLIPS.

www.LatterDayTruth.org

Signs of the Times and Pre-Millennial World Events By E. B. Hull

A cumulative tract publication. Continued from July 11. Preserve for reference.

This is not all the proofs we have of people living beyond the bonds of civilization, or the world as we know it. Jesus said to his disciples in Palestine:

"Other sheep I have, which are not of this fold; them also I must bring [gather], and they shall hear my voice; and there shall be one fold and one shepherd."—John 10: 16.

The Jews thought he referred to the Gentiles, but they forgot when the woman of Canaan wanted Jesus to heal her daughter, who was vexed with a devil, Jesus said to her: "I am not sent but unto the lost sheep of the house of Israel." (Matthew 5: 24.) John says, quoting the words of Jesus, "But ye believe not, because ye are not of my sheep, as I said unto you. My sheep hear my voice, and I know them, and they follow me." (John 10: 26, 27.)

When Christ appeared to the people on the American Continent, according to the Book of Mormon, he said:

13. And now it came to pass that when Jesus had spoken these words, he said unto those twelve whom he had chosen, Ye are my disciples; and ye are a light unto this people, who are a remnant of the house of Joseph.

14. And Behold, this is the land of your inheritance; and the Father hath given it unto you.

15. And not at any time hath the Father given me commandment that I should tell it unto your brothren at Jerusalem; neither at any time hath the Father given me commandment, that I should tell unto them concerning the other tribes of the house of Israel, whom the Father hath led away out of the land.

16. This much did the Father command me, that I should tell unto them, that other sheep I have, which are not of this fold; them also I must bring, and they shall hear my voice; and there shall be one fold, and one shepherd.

17. And now because of stiff-neckedness and unbelief, they understood not my word; therefore I was commanded to say no more of the Father concerning this thing unto them.

18. But, verily, I say unto you, that the Father hath commanded me, and I tell it unto you, that ye were separated from among them because of their iniquity; therefore it is because of their iniquity, that they know not of you.

19. And verily, I say unto you again, that the other tribes hath the Father separated from them; and it is because of their iniquity, that they know not of them.

20. And verily, I say unto you, that ye are they of whom I said, Other sheep I have which are not of this fold; them also I must bring, and they shall hear my voice, and there shall be one fold, and one shepherd.

21. And they understood me not, for they supposed it had been the Gentiles; for they understood not that the Gentiles should be converted through their preaching;

22. And they understood me not that I said they shall hear my voice; and they understood me not that the Gentiles should not at any time hear my voice; that I should not manifest myself unto them; save it were by the Holy Ghost.

23. But behold, ye have both heard my voice, and seen me, and ye are my sheep, and ye are numbered among those whom the Father hath given me.

24. And verily, verily, I say unto you, that I have other sheep, which are not of this land; neither of the land of Jerusalem; neither in any parts of that land round about, whither I have been to minister.

25. For they of whom I speak, are they who have not as yet heard my voice; neither have I at any time manifested myself unto them.

26. But I have received a commandment of the Father, that I shall go unto them, and that they shall hear my voice, and shall be numbered among my sheep, that there may be one fold, and one shepherd; therefore I go to shew myself unto them.—Nephi 7: 13-26.

4. But now I go unto the Father, and also to shew myself unto the lost tribes of Israel, for they are not lost unto the Father, for he knoweth whither he hath taken them.—3 Nephi 8: 4.

Using the statement of Jesus in Palestine with that recorded in the Book of Mormon, we can understand that the earthly mission of Our Lord was only to the House of Israel —those in the land of Palestine, those on the American Continent, and those known as the Lost Tribes of Israel. The Jews, the Lehiites and the Lost Tribes are to have the words of Christ written in books. The Book of Mormon gives us a very definite account of his explanation of this subject to the people on the American Continent:

64. Wherefore, because that ye have a Bible, ye need not suppose that it contains all my words; neither need ye suppose that I have not caused more to be written:

65. For I command all men, both in the east, and in the west, and in the north, and in the south, and in the islands of the sea, that they shall write the words which I speak unto them:

66. For out of the books which shall be written, I will judge the world, every man according to their works, according to that which is written.

67. For behold, I shall speak unto the Jews, and they shall write it:

68. And I shall also speak unto the Nephites, and they shall write it;

69. And I shall also speak unto the other tribes of the house of Israel, which I have led away, and they shall write it;

70. And I shall also speak unto all nations of the earth, and they shall write it.

71. And it shall come to pass that the Jews shall have the words of the Nephites, and the Nephites shall have the words of the Jews:

72. And the Nephites and the Jews shall have the words of the lost tribes of Israel; and the lost tribes of Israel shall have the words of the Nephites and the Jews.

73. And it shall come to pass that my people which are of the house of Israel, shall be gathered home unto the lands of their possessions; and my word also shall be gathered in one.

74. And I will shew unto them that fight against my word and against my people, who are of the house of Israel, that I am God, and that I covenanted with Abraham, that I would remember his seed for ever.—2 Nephi 12: 64-74.

Here we find that there are to be at least three books written by three divisions of the House of Israel. Notice, that the Jews, the Lehiites and the People of the North country (Lost Tribes of Israel) are to have the same words —the same gospel. Ezekiel thirty-seventh chapter and Isaiah twenty-ninth chapter tell about the Sticks of Judah (the Bible), and the Stick of Joseph (the Book of Mormon). The Doctrine and Covenants is not one of the books referred to in the Bible, for the contents of this book is rather an interpretation of the law found in the other two books, especially pertaining to the building of Zion. The Doctrine and Covenants is an international book, and is that which is referred to by Jesus in 2 Nephi 12: 70, as follows: "And I shall also speak unto all nations of the earth, and they shall write it." (See first three verses of Doctrine and Covenants, first chapter.)

Most of the people that came to America with father Lehi, in 600 B. C., were of the house of Joseph, of the tribe of Manasseh. Those that came nine years later may have been of the tribe of Judah. The people that were found here by Columbus and others are of the tribe of Manasseh, and when patriarchal blessings are given to the Polynesian race and the lineage is declared, they, like the Indians are of the tribe of Manasseh. When Patriarch Martin was in Honolulu, Hawaii, he gave a lengthy prophecy in the Honolulu church on December 2, 1928, a part of which is as follows:

"Many years ago I sent a remnant of Manasseh to these islands of the sea. Yea, your forefathers were brought to this place that a righteous people might be raised up unto me, sayeth God. They dwindled into ways of wickedness and were led by false spirits to wander after strange gods. But in mine own due time, I sent to you the "Stick of Joseph" in the hands of Ephraim, that you might have knowledge of your ancestors and be taught the fullness of the everlasting gospel, that I might turn you from the errors of your progenitors, and raise up here a people who would serve me in righteousness, and from time to time I have sent my servants to assist you in your efforts to walk the way of life."

www.LatterDayTruth.org

The above is according to the words of Nephi, which says, "That the fullness of the gospel of the Messiah come unto the Gentiles, and from the Gentiles unto the remnant of our seed." (1 Nephi 4: 16.)

It is believed that the Polynesians of the Pacific Ocean are Nephites, of the tribe of Manasseh, just as the Indians are of the Lamanite line. These Polynesians are supposed to be the descendants of Hagoth's ships that sailed north from the coast of Peru, and were never heard of again.—Alma 30: 6-13. The legendary history had by the Hawaiians regarding their origin is of people wrecked from ships in the South Sea Islands, and from these islands they spread to other islands in the Pacific.

The Geographic Society of Washington, District of Columbia, made an extensive survey of the race in these islands, and in the Geographic Magazine of February, 1924, they gave an account of their findings. In the article it states that the Hawaiian Islanders and others were of Israelitish origin, for when they were discovered by Captain Cook, the English navigator, these Islanders were practicing customs similar to the customs of ancient Israel in Palestine.

The writers of the explorations of prehistoric races in Central and South America and Mexico, tell of a legend of a bearded white man that once visited their land, he was called Quetzal-Coatl by some of the nations, he was God who came from the east; he was a teacher of religion, but disappeared as mysteriously as he had come. When he went away, he promised to return at some future day, and this reappearance had been looked for with confidence by each succeeding generation.

When Christopher Columbus, Cortez and Pizarro visited the American Continent, the natives everywhere received them as celestial visitants, they even prostrated themselves on the ground, considering the Spaniards as personages from heaven. It would not have been possible for Cortez and Pizarro to have entered the land of the Astecs and the Incas, if they had not been taken for heavenly personages. Pizarro was taken to be the God of long ago, that promised to return to them. Captain Cook had the same experience when he visited the islands in the Pacific ocean. These islanders had the same ideas of this bearded white man that at one time visited their ancestors, and promised a return visit. This alone shows that the Polynesians are connected with the ancient Americans in some way.

We are living in the last days, the days of great events, we are nearing the end of the age, we might remember the admonition given by the Savior:

"Let my disciples therefore take heed to themselves, lest at any time their hearts be overcharged with surfeiting, and drunkenness, and cares of this life, and that day come upon them unawares. For as a snare it shall come on all them who dwell on the face of the whole earth. And what I say unto one I say unto all. Watch ye therefore, and pray always, and keep my commandments that ye may be counted worthy to escape all these things which shall come to pass, and to stand before the Son of Man when he shall come clothed in the glory of his Father."—Luke 21: 34-36, (Inspired Version.)

(Note to the reader: This is the last installment of this article of tract length. Readers may cut out the pages and bind them together for reference or for lending.)

A Hymn Answer to Wordsworth

By L. B. M.

I like to hear people sing, large groups, small groups. I like to stand in the midst of a congregation which sings hymns as if it found inspiration in them and appreciated them. Some hymns are beautiful, comforting, restful. Another group of hymns make us think and resolve to grow, and still others spur us on to immediate action and duty.

A hymn which is a particular favorite of mine is "Take Time to Be Holy." It is a popular hymn and is heard much over the radio, in various congregations, and sung as solos. In it are counsel, instruction, admonition, and challenge. And the words are set to a beautiful melody. Think here as I quote the first two verses. They were written by W. D. Longstaff in 1887:

"Take time to be holy, speak oft with thy Lord;
Abide in him always and feed on his word;
Make friends of God's children, help those who are weak,
Forgetting in nothing His blessing to seek.

"Take time to be holy, the world rushes on;
Spend much time in secret with Jesus alone;
By looking to Jesus, like him thou shalt be;
Thy friends in thy conduct his likeness shall see."

True? Wonderfully so. If we but lived these words we should be a much happier people, a much more joyous world. And these verses, when read thoughtfully, prayerfully, give the answer to the lines written by William Wordsworth, English poet of renown, who lived from 1770 to 1850, and was the author of many worthy poems:

"The world is too much with us: late and soon,
Getting and spending, we lay waste our powers:
Little we see in Nature that is ours;
We have given our hearts away, a sordid boon!
This sea that bares her bosom to the moon;
The winds that will be howling at all hours,
And are up-gathered now like sleeping flowers;
For this, for everything, we are out of tune;
It moves us not."

Surely the answer is:

"Take time to be holy, let Him be thy guide,
And run not before him whatever betide;
In joy or in sorrow still follow thy Lord,
And looking to Jesus, still trust in his word."

www.LatterDayTruth.org

NEWS OF CHURCH AND HOME

Address all news and letters to Editors of the Herald, Box 237, Independence, Missouri. Correspondents are requested to make their letters brief. The Editors reserve the right, on account of space limitations, to shorten all letters as circumstances require.

London, Ontario

Scholastic Recognition to Fred Skelton and Orlo Dent

The church school, under the supervision of Elder Frank Gray, has been progressing. The Sunday morning sessions have been well attended, and on Friday evenings after lesson study, some interesting programs have been presented.

On the evening of May 19, a debate was held on "Resolved, That the Church Is Not Meeting the Present Day Problem." The affirmative side was taken by John C. Dent and Arlo G. Hodgson, and the negative by James F. Winegarden and John Judkins. Norman Fishleigh acted as chairman and the judges were John E. MacGregor, Harry Simpson, and Frank Gray. Strong points were brought out on both sides. The affirmative won.

One evening in June, the Temple Builders and Orioles, under the direction of Sister L. Winegarden and Sister Madeline Timbrell, presented a good program.

The church school, on the last Sunday in June, had charge of the services throughout the day, and chose as the theme, "Prayer." A beautiful and dignified meeting was held in the evening with Elder F. Gray, director, in charge. The junior choir and orchestra under the leadership of Madeline Timbrell and Raymond Neal gave several effective numbers. Ernest Cambridge spoke on "Why Should I Pray?" and Marie Mottashed talked on "The Answered Prayer." It is indeed encouraging to see the young people take part so willingly and capably.

The young men have a team in the church city soft ball league and are doing well.

Recent speakers at the evening services have been pastor John E. MacGregor, Bishop John C. Dent, Elder J. E. Mottashed, of Detroit; Patriarch John Shields, Elder George C. Tomlinson, of Saint Marys; Priest W. A. Alford, and Priest Arlo G. Hodgson. The Saints have received helpful instruction and inspiration from the sermons.

The branch mourns the loss of Gordon Pennacott, a boy seven years of age. On Sunday, May 14, at the regular session of the church school, a special memorial tribute was held, and the orchestra played Chopin's "Funeral March," and the last part being sounded by Ronald Neal on the trumpet.

The young people are doing well in scholastic work. Orlo Dent has graduated from the Medical School of the University of Western Ontario and the Saints wish him much success. Fred Skelton, son of Brother Joseph Skelton, won a three hundred dollar scholarship at the Sir Adam Beck Collegiate at the end of the term.

The women's department, with Sister L. Winegarden as president, is active, and meets every Thursday afternoon at the church. They are conducting a booth on Saturdays at the East End Market, and by this means are assisting financially with the local expenses.

Many of the Saints here have been visiting in other places, and London has had many visitors.

Brother John, "Uncle John," Vasbinder, who has been quite poorly of late, was with the Saints at the sacrament service. It is the prayer of his many friends that the Lord may restore him to health.

London held its annual picnic at Springbank on July 1. About two hundred enjoyed participating in the day's activities.

Flint, Michigan

Young People Do Their Part

Flint Church has had several enjoyable services during the past few weeks one of which was the Mother's Day service. The Central High School A Capella Choir, directed by Franklin S. Weddle, sang "Choral Grace," a fifteenth century melody; four chorales from "Jesu Priceless Treasure," by J. C. Bach; "Salvation Is Created," by R. Nathoniel Dett. Zola McNamara gave a musical reading and Allen Pohly sang two solos, "Mother Machree," and "Mother of Pearl." The sermon was given by the pastor, A. H. DuRose.

On the evening of May 26, the mothers and daughters enjoyed a banquet at the church while the fathers and sons proved their ability in the fine art of serving.

During the month of May, Elder James W. Davis preached a series of gospel sermons at the Baltimore Boulevard Church, and G. E. Burt preached at the Newall Street Church.

A Children's Day service, in which all departments participated, was planned for the morning of June 11. Brother DuRose gave the sermonet. Zola McNamara told the story, "The Selfish Giant," by Oscar Wilde. A quartet of junior girls sang, "I Think When I Read That Sweet Story," and "Hozanna." Betty Jane and Arlee Rae Hunter sang a duet, "The Home God Gave to Me."

June 15, a program and refreshments were sponsored by the north end group of women at the Newall Street Church. The main feature of the evening was a one-act play. Other numbers on the program were piano solos by Ruth Wallace and Irene Yaggle, a reading by Zola McNamara and a violin solo by Arlene Burt.

On June 18, the Saints enjoyed a prayer and testimony service instead of the usual preaching service for the morning worship. A group of junior girls directed by Ruth Wallace sang three quartet numbers.

About seventy of the Flint folk enjoyed the district picnic sponsored by the young people at Stony Lake, June 24. Swimming seemed to be the most attractive sport of the day.

The evening worship of June 25 was planned and given by the young people Several young people contributed to the program. Four short talks were given on "Youth's Responsibilities," "To the Home," Vida Phillips; "To the Community," Margaret Mason; "To the Church," Mildred Barker; "To Themselves," Dan B. Green. Pastor A. H. DuRose gave a short "Address to Youth."

Selden, Kansas

Young People Organize Class

Sunday, June 25, the young people of Selden Branch met at the home of Verna May Miller to organize a class.

Norman Prettyman was elected to be class leader, and has the power to appoint a committee to carry out activities, and act as the class teacher and chorister. Norris Merrill was elected secretary-treasurer; Verna May Miller, organist, and also associate leader. Cecil Hase was elected to be sentinel. Laura Hase was elected to be the class reporter. The class will meet every two weeks on Sunday nights, have their meeting and a party afterwards.

www.LatterDayTruth.org

Southern Michigan and Northern Indiana

Ten Are Ordained at Conference

Hammond, Indiana, the most distant of all branches in the district, felt fortunate in entertaining, for the first time, the conference of the district, July 9, 10, and 11.

The first meeting of the conference took the form of a preaching service, the sermon by District President A. C. Barmore on Friday night, June 9. At ten o'clock Saturday morning, a prayer meeting was held which ended with the organization of the conference. Apostle D. T. Williams and the district president presided at this meeting.

At 2 p. m. the regular business meeting was held, Apostle D. T. Williams in the chair. The following candidates were approved for ordination: Clarence Dudley and John Luce for elder; H. Ennenga, priest; Alexander Dudley, teacher, and Bruce Douglas, deacon, all of Lansing; Douglass Osborne, elder and Floyd Deal, priest, of Muskegon; David Young, of Battle Creek, elder; S. Nicholls, of Fort Wayne group, priest, and Charles Jowsma, of Alto, deacon.

A special March conference was ordered for the election of delegates to the General Conference and to transact other necessary business. Elder A. C. Barmore was reelected district president. He renominated as counselors Elders W. F. Ryder and A. J. Dexter, whose nominations were confirmed. Elder A. J. Dexter was chosen to act as district director of the church school; Miss Louise Evans as district chorister; Miss Myrtle E. Perry as district secretary, and Bishop Evans as district treasurer. An open priesthood meeting was held at 4 p. m.

Saturday night an institute was held in the interest of the church school, Elder A. J. Dexter in charge. The following addresses were given: Dennison Smith on the "Church School"; Hazel Dexter Smith, "Religion in the Home," and Bishop Evans on "Amusements for Young People."

Regular conference services were held on Sunday. A two o'clock ordination service was held and three of the before mentioned candidates were ordained: Douglass Osborne and David Young as elders, and H. Ennenga, priest. Elders McKnight, Dexter, Barss, A. Whitehead, Philemon Pement, and Apostle D. T. Williams officiated in this ordinance.

A symposium of addresses by Apostle D. T. Williams on "Missionary Work"; A. Whitehead on "Reviving the Local Church," and Philemon Pement on "Recruiting the Local Church," followed at three-thirty.

Hammond Branch did well in caring for their guests. The women and other workers, deserve great credit.

New Philadelphia, Ohio

Elder Samuel Mansel Is Conducting Lectures

Roy A. Noble, Ann Watkins, Marian Angus and Joseph Barker of this branch were among the one hundred and fifty graduates of the 1933 graduating class of New Philadelphia High School, May 31.

Miss Pauline Singer and Donald Nobel were married May 12, in Wheeling, West Virginia, by Elder Louis Serig.

Brother Samuel Mansel has completed the first part of a series of stereopticon lectures he is giving. The first two weeks have been devoted to lectures on church history and were well received.

Funeral services for Thomas H. McMillen were conducted from the home of his parents Sunday afternoon, July 2. He died at Union Hospital from severe burns received in an explosion at his place of employment. Elder William L. Goudy was in charge, assisted by Elders John D. Carlisle, and interment was in East Avenue Cemetery. He is survived by his aged parents, two sisters and three brothers, to whom the deepest sympathy of the branch is extended.

Elder William L. Goudy, assisted by Elder John Carlisle, officiated at funeral services for Albert Eugene Swihart, eight years old, a nonmember who died from diphtheria. He with his sister was a regular church school attendant.

Children's Day, June 11, was carried with appropriate services, also Mother's Day. Sermonets were given by Elders Charles Cramer and John Carlisle. Each mother present was given a carnation.

East Jordan, Michigan

Young People Earn Money to Meet Expenses

The young people's class of East Jordan Branch has a membership of twenty-eight. They meet the first Tuesday of every month. The outstanding activities of last fall were the old-fashioned corn husking bee and supper at Brother Murphy's, and the masquerade Halloween party at the class president's home. Through the winter, dramatics held first place, and this spring Brother and Sister Newman invited the class to their home a few miles from Charlevoix, to a warm maple sugar party. Money was raised in various ways, by candy sales at indoor ball games last winter, and selling ten cent lunches delivered at the homes and business places.

The lunches have been a great success, so much so in fact that the women's department have been selling them for two different Saturdays. The orders have averaged over one hundred each time.

The women are also making an applique bedspread and are soliciting names at five cents a person to be worked on the blocks. The spread is to be sold when it is completed.

The public school bus and seven cars took the Sunday school to The Park of the Pines' one-day meeting, June 18.

Wimer, Oklahoma

Several Visitors There Recently

Elder J. L. Creviston, of Mulberry, Kansas, met with the Saints of Wimer, June 17 and 18. Prayer meeting was held Sunday afternoon at the home of Brother and Sister Green, Elder Smith, of Miami, in charge.

District President Amos T. Higdon visited with the Saints of Wimer, June 17.

Elder A. Smith held services at Hudson, June 12 to 18. There was a large attendance at both Wimer and Hudson, and much good was accomplished.

Woodbine, Iowa

Looking Forward to Reunion

The Saints of Woodbine Branch, under the leadership of Elder George Young, are making an effort to learn how to live together.

Brother Kirkwood and family moved from Magnolia to Woodbine. Brother Frank Fry, who has recently married, has purchased a grocery store at Dow City, and has resigned his office as church school superintendent. Brother Joe Hamer was elected to fill the vacancy.

Mother's Day, District President Gerald Gunsolley gave the Saints an inspiring sermon, and left all hunting for some work to do, to advance the gospel in this little town.

Woodbine is in the drouth stricken district, and prospects look discouraging, but all are looking forward to the coming reunion, and are praying earnestly that much good may come, not only to the branch, but also the district.

After a short program Children's Day, three little girls were baptized by the branch president.

The women's department has been putting forth an effort to assist Brother Hunker in his missionary work.

Washunga, Oklahoma

Visit of Elder and Mrs. Hubert Case Enjoyed

The Saints here deserve recognition for the success of their meetings from May 13 to 21, with Brother Sam Simmons preaching.

The visit of Brother and Sister Hubert Case was a happy reunion on Sunday May 28, when Brother Case baptized four young people, and preached to an assembly of old friends. Saints from Shidler and Ponca City attended the meeting.

The women's department was organized here, May 25, at the home of Sister Lucy Dovey.

www.LatterDayTruth.org

Far West Stake

Cameron Branch

Attendance at all services has been good in spite of the hot weather. A contest running for sixteen Sundays has created more enthusiasm in the church school and has helped increase the class enrollments. The average attendance for the first six months of the year showed an increase over last year. The contest is about half over and will end with the beginning of the stake reunion.

On Children's Day, June 11, five young people were baptized. The junior department gave a fine program in the evening to a splendid audience.

Some of the Cameron young people attended the stake convention at Guilford with their leader, and expressed themselves as enjoying the association of other young people of the stake and particularly thanking the Guilford and neighboring branches for their hospitality during the two days.

Cameron had a good representation at the Youth's Conference at Lamoni on the first Sunday. All thought the convention was a great success, and wished to remain longer, but conditions prevented and none were able to return the second Sunday.

The O. T. Z. class of the church school elected new officers on July 2, with Joe Wright as president, Glenn Flanders, vice president, and LaVerla Daniel, secretary-treasurer. The class is composed of young men and women from fifteen to twenty-five years of age or over, including a few married couples and has an attendance of twenty to forty each Sunday.

During July and August union services with the other churches will be held in the city park. Elder J. F. Sheehy, former pastor, addressed a splendid audience on July 2, for the first of these services.

A young people's cast is working on a three-act play, "Paying the Fiddler," which is to be given at the stake reunion as one of the series of young people's programs. Reunion is the foremost thought now and a number plan to camp and others expect to go when working conditions permit.

Kingston and Oakdale

An all-day joint meeting was held by Kingston and Oakdale Branches, June 18, at the Oakdale church. There was a good attendance from both places and a profitable and enjoyable day was spent. Stake President Ward A. Hougas was the speaker morning and afternoon. The young people's choir made a splendid contribution to the day's activities by singing at both services. All joined in a basket dinner at noon. A fine spirit of fellowship prevailed all day.

Saint Joseph Branch

The quarterly amalgamated sacrament service on July 2, was well attended by the Saints from all four churches. Elder Ward A. Hougas, city pastor, was assisted in the stand by the three local pastors, Elder O. Salisbury, of Second Church, Roscoe D. Peterson of Third Church, and Elder J. L. Bear, Fourth Church. Elder Hougas gave the theme talk.

First Church

Children's Day was effective at First Church. Because of several cases of sickness among the children, it was held a week late, June 18. After a short worship period in the morning, a beautiful baptismal service was conducted. Five girls were baptized by Elder Howard C. Timm, associate pastor. The confirmation followed at the morning church hour.

In the evening a beautiful cantata was presented by the children's division under the direction of the teachers. This year's program was different from the usual Children's Day exercises in that it was typically Latter Day Saint. The cantata was "Zion Redeemed," by Mollie Davis, and beautifully depicted a story of the nations gathering to Zion and giving up their flags for an emblem of purity. At the end a church banner was unfurled.

Pastor Ward A. Hougas spent June 25, in Saint Joseph delivering two outstanding sermons morning and evening. A dramatic prelude was given by the junior young people the night of July 2. It was "He Passeth This Way." The sermon which followed was by Elder Hougas.

The O. T. Z.'s had a picnic the evening of June 20, at Bartlett Park. An enjoyable evening was spent in games following the picnic lunch by about fifty young people.

The young people's monthly prayer service was held the morning of June 18, at the church. Elder Timm was in charge.

On June 15 the Ul-Lik-Us Players gave a Revue in the lower auditorium of the church. The evening's entertainment consisted of two parts, the first a series of short comedy skits and numbers and the last a play in two scenes, "Ding Dong School Bell." The program was for the purpose of raising funds and as a review of the year's work which has been extensive. Ice cream and candy were also sold. The club is now working on a one-act sacred drama for the annual reunion.

First Church was happy to have a group of Independence young people as their guests the morning of July 9. The Independence Young People's Council provided an interesting program through the church school hour and also several musical numbers for the morning worship service. Bishop Milo Burnett was the speaker.

After a basket dinner in the park, the young people went through the State Hospital No. 2 east of the city.

In the evening Elder H. C. Timm was the speaker, giving a good sermon on "If Ye Would Have Life, Keep My Commandments."

A meeting of the young people was held Sunday afternoon, July 9, at which time Elder Timm presented plans for a campaign to be started immediately after reunion. The plan will enlist all of the young people willing to enter into the work and the purpose of the meeting was to find out how many would give their support. The response was very favorable.

All departments are active and many are looking forward to reunion. The choir had a vacation during June, but is back at work rehearsing for reunion music. They decided to join with the musicians in neighboring stakes for the Harvest Festival concert in the fall at Independence.

Coeur d'Alene, Idaho

Senior Young People Add to Services

There has been a great deal of activity in the church work here during the winter and spring months. Missionary Joseph Sandidge held a lengthy series of meetings during the winter with good results, and returned to hold a second series this spring, but was called away to other fields so he held meetings only a few evenings.

The church school director requested the senior young people to take charge of the worship service of the school one Sunday each month. On Easter Sunday evening these young people, under the direction of Miss Ruth Stucker, gave the play, "The Way of the Cross." There was a large crowd present, and some were turned away for lack of seating capacity.

May 14, the young people had charge of the worship service which was dedicated especially to the mothers. Following the church school Elder Elmer D. Chase used the same theme in his sermon.

On the nights of June 4 to 6, inclusive, Elder Stanley J. Font showed three sets of lantern slides which he had obtained from the Graphic Arts Bureau at Independence, Missouri. These pictures are educational and well worth seeing. Brother Font is president of Spokane District. He and Sister Font and children are out in the district at present doing church work. They will not return home until after attending the reunion to be held at Silver Lake, August 5 to 14.

The evening of June 9, the young people of Spokane, Washington, entertained the Coeur d'Alene people with a play, "The Wife of Judas." Miss Margaret Kenny directed the production.

On the evening of June 10, a pretty wedding took place at the church when Miss Pearl Walters became the bride of Harold J. Warwick, of Spokane, Washington. Mrs. Warwick is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Nels J. Walters, of Coeur d'Alene. Elder L. E. Holmes officiated. About fifty relatives and friends were present.

www.LatterDayTruth.org

An entertainment was given by the children on Children's Day. Each teacher of the different classes, assisted the director of the children's division in making the program a success.

Father's Day was also observed, the senior young people taking charge. The service was conducted similar to that of Mother's Day. The fathers were made to feel that they, too, are appreciated and highly esteemed by the youth.

Elder Chase and family, who left Coeur d'Alene about twelve years ago, are again in this district. Brother Elmer D. Chase still loves to tell the gospel story and the Saints feel it a privilege to listen to his interesting sermons.

Waterloo, Iowa

First President of Branch Helps Observe Anniversary

Most of the services have a fairly regular although small attendance.

The round table talks Sunday evenings by Elder Guy Haynes are especially interesting, showing careful study and preparation.

Easter services were under the auspices of the music department, and the cantata and special music made an interesting program.

Mother's Day program was made up with special care, using "The Home Beautiful" as a central theme. After the program, the branch adjourned to the home of Brother and Sister W. H. Wood where all were entertained at a good dinner given in honor of the mothers. Thirteen mothers were present, Sister McCoy, the eldest and Sister Grace Wolff, the youngest.

For Children's Day a pageant, "The Temple of Childhood," was given.

On June 18, a special service commemorating the fifteenth anniversary of the organization of the branch was held. Elder V. A. Hall, of Willoughby, Ohio, was asked to give a review of the history of the branch which he did. Brother Hall was the first president of the branch which consisted of thirty-five members, ten of whom were present. These were V. A. Hall, Ed and Maud Loper, Emma Roosa, Esther, Glen, and Raymond Trusty, P. M. Hinds, W. H. and Pheobe Hinds. During its existence the branch has had five presidents, V. A. Hall, A. J. Fisher, C. A. Kress, Guy Haynes, and W. H. Wood.

June 25, at noon the branch witnessed its first church wedding when W. H. Wood read the single ring ceremony uniting in the bonds of matrimony, his daughter, Thelma, and Thomas Saul. The bride who entered the church on the arm of her brother, Kenneth, was accompanied by her little niece, Frances Meyers, as ring bearer. Norma Roosa and Harold McElvenny attended the bridal couple. After the prayer and a few appropriate remarks. Russel Wood, brother of the bride sang, "I Love You Truly," accompanied by Mrs. Ruth Austin. After the ceremony the congregation repaired to the home of the bride's parents where dinner was served to about sixty friends and relatives. The young couple will live on a farm near Waterloo.

Port Huron, Michigan

A Pentecostal Blessing Is Enjoyed

During the statistical year of 1932-1933 the members of the branch have been greatly blessed through the laying on of hands for the restoration of the sick. For despite much sickness only one died during the year in a branch of 656 members, and she was over seventy years old.

Port Huron Branch held its Children's Day exercises June 18. In the morning a continuous service was conducted at which nine children were blessed and eleven were baptized amidst impressive scenes of meaningful ceremony. In the evening every available space was occupied and many people were turned away from the church when seventy children gave the inspiring pageant, "The Restoration," under the direction of Sister Ruth Patterson. It was with deep feelings and great pride parents and teachers saw their children efficiently enact the rising of America, the establishment of the church, and the contemplated consummation of the latter-day work—Zion. During the week four more children were blessed and five were baptized into the church, making sixteen baptisms and thirteen blessings during the month of June.

For two weeks preparation was made by prayer and fasting that God would pour out his Spirit upon his Saints, and especially upon those to be confirmed. All were reminded of the tarrying of the Saints at Jerusalem that they might be endowed with power from on high; and Port Huron Saints, too, were rewarded by a veritable Pentecost which bound them together.

The last Wednesday evening in June ninety members met at the church for prayer and prayed earnestly for an outpouring of the Spirit for Sunday morning. At nine o'clock Sunday a large number of Saints came fasting and praying and realized the promise of Christ: "Blessed are they that do hunger and thirst after righteousness, for they shall be filled with the Holy Ghost." It was a very inspiring sight to see the sixteen chairs in crescent formation behind the chairs of the presiding officers, occupied by those recently baptized and awaiting confirmation. Candidates ranged from eight to over seventy years of age.

The solemnity of heaven rested upon the assemblage as they sang and prayed, and the Spirit of revelation and prophecy encouraged, plead, exhorted, commended and warned them by mouths of His servants. The Saints were told that this experience was only a foretaste of what God desired his people to receive if they would become more united, prayerful and sacrificing; and this Spirit was to be poured upon the entire church.

During the month of June the average attendance at prayer service was eighty-one. More are interested in and investigating the church and Elder Nye, who during the winter, has been conducting missionary services in his home, sixteen miles from the church, reports that four people have given their names for baptism. The work is onward and upward in Port Huron.

Toronto District

William I. Fligg Helps in Young People's Convention

The young people of Toronto District held their annual convention in Toronto, June 23, 24, and 25, many visitors being present from neighboring districts as well as from many branches throughout the Toronto District.

The convention opened on Friday evening with a splendid talk by Missionary William I. Fligg, who spoke on the subject, "Workers Together With God." Then came a short musical program.

On Saturday afternoon Elder Fligg conducted an interesting class on the subject, "The Gathering." Saturday evening about thirty-five of the young people from Toronto presented the cantata, "Esther," which was splendidly enacted and conducted by Brother S. G. Clark. The scenery, lighting effects, and costumes were managed by Brother William Faulds, jr., and the Washington family. The proceeds were used for the organ fund of Toronto Branch.

The prayer service Sunday morning at nine-thirty was well attended by the young people. On Sunday afternoon, there were two speakers from the young priesthood of Toronto District, Bartley Farr, of Woodbridge, spoke on the subject, "Loyalty," and Charles A. McLean, of Toronto, spoke on "The Word of Wisdom." One of the visitors from Niagara Falls, New York, Catherine Lambert, played an organ selection between the two talks. On Sunday evening, Elder Fligg spoke to a large audience on "The Mission of Paul." There was a young people's choir of about thirty voices from the different branches throughout the district at the morning and evening preaching services.

The women's department of Toronto Branch served meals on Sunday.

The young people of Toronto District enjoyed the privilege of having Elder Fligg with them during their convention and are looking forward to hearing him again at the Lowbanks reunion.

www.LatterDayTruth.org

Independence

Seven hundred singers have responded to an invitation to take part in the concert to be presented by the Harvest Home Festival Chorus Sunday afternoon, October 8, and this week are commencing rehearsals in their local choirs in Independence and in Kansas City, Holden, and Far West Stakes. All choir singers of the congregations included in this territory are urged to attend the weekly rehearsals of their own choirs and to take part in the fall concert.

The concert is to be the festival gift of singers and musicians to visitors of the Harvest Home Festival. It will be jointly given by the chorus and by the Auditorium Orchestra. Paul N. Craig will direct the chorus and Orlando Nace the orchestra.

Under the direction of the young people's council, the young Latter Day Saints of Independence began their summer Sunday evening missionary visits to nearby congregations. People having cars were invited to take as many passengers as they could on these trips, and the young people of the congregations were parceled out as follows: Stone Church visited Lexington, Missouri; Englewood, Enoch Hill and Liberty Street, Lees Summit; Spring Branch, Sugar Creek and East Independence, Atherton; Walnut Park, Second Church and Gudgell Park, Grandview, Missouri.

These visits are designed to stimulate friendship activities among the younger members of the various congregations and to increase their interest in and knowledge of the gospel truths. Each visiting team presents a short musical program and furnishes the evening speaker.

At home in Independence on Sunday night, the combined congregations of the church listened to President Elbert A. Smith's splendid sermon at the Campus.

Stone Church

Among the high points of interest at the Stone Church during the week may be classed President F. M. McDowell's excellent sermon Sunday morning on "Creative Friendship."

Groups in the Stone Church territory are active. The women are hard at work, endeavoring to add to their sacrifice fund by means of socials, sales and other functions. In spite of midsummer heat and languor the Stone Church Choir and other musicians contribute their weekly help and inspiration to the church services. The church school departments are putting many plans into operation and are looking ahead to the opening of another church school year in October.

Julia Anna Koehler died Sunday, July 16, at her home in Independence. She was born August 30, 1848, at Nauvoo. March 25, 1894, she was baptized into the church by Arthur Allen. She is survived by her aged husband, George K. Koehler; four daughters, Mrs. Marguerite Robertson; Mrs. Louise Knoch, both of the home; Mrs. Anna Hunter and Mrs. Amelia Goode, of Kansas City, Missouri; four sons, George M. Koehler, of Kansas City; Bishop J. A. Koehler, Elder Charles C. Koehler and Elder H. Arthur Koehler, of Independence, Missouri. Funeral services were held at the Stone Church this afternoon.

Enoch Hill Church

Tuesday, July 11, the Enoch Hill Saints held their annual picnic on the church lawn instead of the Campus. Presidents Elbert A. Smith and Floyd M. McDowell were there representing the Presidency. Elders John F. Sheehy and A. K. Dillee, representing the pastorate of Zion, and Brother Colin Ferrett were guests of the evening. Prayer service on Wednesday evening was enjoyed by all attending.

Friday evening the Saints met at the home of Brother and Sister Joseph Alexander for a party in honor of Brother and Sister Roy Hill, of Chanute, Kansas, who were for several years members of the Enoch Hill congregation. The young people also had an enjoyable evening with Czerna and Mildred Hill.

The senior young people's recreation continues as usual on the church lawn on Monday and Friday evenings.

Pastor H. L. Barto preached a good sermon at the eleven o'clock hour Sunday, using for his subject, "What of the Night?" Sisters Millard Pace and Charles Warren sang a duet, "All the Way."

Sunday evening the young people went to Lee's Summit on a missionary trip.

Englewood Church

Elder Leonard White used as the theme of his talk Sunday morning, July 16, "The Coming Forth of the Book of Mormon." Brother White gave abundant proof of its divinity both by means of the Scripture and archæology.

The Saints here are looking forward to August 8, when it will be their privilege to picnic with the leaders of the church in Independence.

The women's department gave a social on the church lawn last Friday evening, proceeds of which will go toward the one hundred dollars pledge the women made to help in the expenses of the church. The department will hold an all-day picnic at Hill's Park on their regular meeting day, Wednesday, July 19.

Spring Branch Church

Many of the young people of the church attended and took part in the Wednesday evening prayer service. A large number attended the eight-fifteen prayer service Sunday morning, July 16.

At the eleven o'clock hour Sunday, Brother Alma G. Tankard was the speaker. Emmet Bowen sang "Face to Face," and the choir sang, "Onward, Speed Thy Conquering Flight." Robert Fish talked at the junior service.

At six o'clock sixty-two of the branch, mostly young people, met at the church and from there went to Atherton. They arrived at the church early and enjoyed a half-hour song service. Elder G. W. Eastwood, pastor of Spring Branch had charge of the service and he was assisted by George Beebe, pastor of Atherton. An interesting program was furnished by members of the congregations from Sugar Creek, East Independence, and Spring Branch. Brother Beebe gave a sermonet.

Ontario, California

Learning Songs in New "Hymnal"

Recently two young people were baptized at Ontario. They are Bessie Jo Mueller, of Riverside, and Clinton Ellsworth Gaunt, of Ontario. Others have requested baptism.

Brother Lacey has organized a Book of Mormon class which meets each Tuesday evening. Good interest is shown by those attending.

On Friday night a song service is held to practice songs from the new Saints' Hymnal. The music is in charge of Brother Charles Swain. The junior choir is directed by Sister LaVerne Marvel.

A good time was enjoyed by all who attended the July 4, picnic at Covina Park.

Kansas City Stake

Central Church

The women's club held its annual birthday dinner on the evening of June 30. Approximately one hundred were present. The women presented Bishop C. A. Skinner with a check for $1,372.00, which with some funds yet to be collected, is their year's contribution toward the building fund.

Pastor and Sister Cyril E. Wight were presented a lovely quilt as was Sister B. F. Moats, retiring president, who has served faithfully for three years. Sister J. H. Paxton was introduced as the new president.

Sister Lillian Stoddard underwent an operation at Menorah Hospital recently, but is now at her home.

Brother and Sister John A. Gardner's church school class enjoyed a swimming party and wiener roast at Wildwood Lakes on Friday evening, July 7.

Northeast Church

July 9, was a happy day for Northeast Church. The young people started the day of activity at eight o'clock with prayer meeting; all attended church school, and participated in the choir at eleven o'clock. In the afternoon this same group of young people attended a grove meeting on the Missouri River shore, and in the evening attended two more services at the church.

www.LatterDayTruth.org

Pastor Henry F. Davis, although suffering from a severe wound in one eye, gave a splendid talk at the eleven o'clock hour, and Elder H. A. Higgins, of Quindaro Church, was the three o'clock speaker at the grove. Sisters Mildred and Esther Lungwitz sang a beautiful duet. Elder Ralph Goold gave an interesting talk from Matthew 6, at eight o'clock.

July 2, Stake Missionary J. Charles May was with the Saints here. His singing and sermon were a spiritual feast. Elder E. W. Lloyd was in charge of most of the services on both Sundays.

Enfield, Middlesex, England

"New Church," Lancaster Road

It has been a long time since news from Enfield has appeared in the Herald, but favorable progress has been made in all departments of branch activities. "Inspiring services for the enjoyment of all" has been the slogan of Pastor John A. Judd, and the attendance, especially at the Sunday evening services, has been good.

Time has not passed, however, without leaving some traces of sorrow in its wake. Brother Joseph A. Kemp, one of the pioneers of the work in Enfield, passed away following a stroke. Sister Eliza Clark passed peacefully away at her home after years of suffering, patiently borne. By her undying love for the gospel and her great faith, she set an example to Saints and friends, while her kindly words of encouragement and advice will long be remembered by all. The Saints were further shocked and saddened by the tragic death of Robert Cozzi, the twelve-year-old twin son of Sister Lily Cozzi. Together with his brother, Robert was baptized at Enfield by Pastor Judd. He was crushed by a heavy motor-lorry at a railway level-crossing, and died the following morning.

Splendid Whitsuntide services were held at the New Church, Apostle John W. Rushton being in attendance. He gave an address at the eleven o'clock service on Sunday, and also some good advice to the priesthood at their meeting in the afternoon. An inspiring service was arranged for the evening hour. Brothers Rushton and Judd blessed the infant daughter of Mr. and Mrs. W. Meacock, friends of the Saints, and afterwards Brother Rushton delivered a good sermon. There were almost a hundred Saints and friends present. The sacrament and fellowship service that followed was a great blessing to all.

On whit-Monday a party of fifty of the Saints journeyed to Kew Gardens, London, where they spent an enjoyable day amid beautiful scenery enhanced by bright sunshine.

Two have been baptized this year, and names of two others wishing baptism have been received.

Underwood, Iowa

North Star Branch

At the district conference, several names were recommended for ordination. Among them were three young men from this branch. Brothers Cyril Damitz, David Damitz, and Derald Sewing. Since Brother Cyril Damitz was not present at the conference, June 18 and locally observed as ordination day. There were present at the ordination District President J. A. Hanson and Brother H. A. Merchant, of Omaha, with Brother Hanson in charge.

To the members of this branch, it was impressive and gratifying to see these young men assume this responsibility and show their willingness to serve in that office.

These three young men are the grandsons of the late J. P. Carlile and nephews of Joshua Carlile, also deceased. Brother Cyril, who attended Graceland two years, and received his M. D. degree at Iowa City, left last week for Detroit, Michigan, where he is an interne at the Providence Hospital.

Traverse City, Michigan

Ten New Members in a Month

Traverse City Branch is endeavoring to keep in step with the general church. The activities in the branch are varied and numerous, and the members have no need to seek worldly pleasures.

On June 18, one adult and five children entered the waters of baptism and confirmation service preceded the regular evening meeting. Two babies were blessed the same evening, also on Sunday, July 2, four children were baptized in the waters of Boardman Lake, making a total of ten new members in less than a month. If every person, young or old, could only realize what it means to go into partnership with God, how much easier his walks in life would be.

On July 4, the Saints, also several nonmembers, motored to Silver Lake and enjoyed an old-fashioned picnic. Games were played by young and old after which all who desired went swimming, and others made ready the long table which was loaded with many good things to eat.

All members of the priesthood here are busy either in the home branch or visiting the nearby branches, and the efforts made are much appreciated by the places visited.

On July 30, a one-day meeting will be held at Joyfield church, and the officers of the district hope that all branches will be represented there as it has been several years since a meeting of this kind has been held at Joyfield. In fact, the church was closed for six years, and there were some who talked of disposing of the building, but the fire has been rekindled and may God so rule that it may continue to be kept burning and never die down.

Several cars loaded with Saints gathered at the home of Brother and Sister Eugene Barnard, three miles east of Kingsley, Thursday evening, July 6, and enjoyed games of various kinds. B. H. Doty proved to be the star ball pitcher. Ice cream and cake were served after which songs were sung, prayer offered, and everyone declared it an enjoyable evening.

Many of the Saints from here as well as elsewhere have gone into the orchards to pick cherries, and to enjoy three or four weeks of roughing it.

Mapleton, Kansas

Three Weddings During June

Brother H. J. Dennis, who was in charge of this branch for a number of years, is lying at the point of death with cancer.

The branch is partially organized along the lines of the church school program, and once each month the juniors entertain the rest of the school. This arrangement is enjoyed by all and conditions seem to have improved since the adoption of the plan.

During June there were three weddings in this branch. Brother Needham's two daughters were married, and also Brother Lee Quick's daughter, Lois.

Reunion Schedule

Please send in changes for this schedule immediately.

DISTRICT	PLACE	TIME
Southern Saskatchewan	Weyburn Plains,	July 19 to 23
Kentucky-Tennessee	Puryear, Tennessee	July 22 to 30
Southern New England	Onset	July 22 to August 6
Nauvoo	Nauvoo	July 23 to 30
Northern Saskatchewan	Saskatoon,	July 27 to 30
Lamoni	Lamoni	July 28 to August 6
Toronto	Lowbanks	July 29 to August 12
Alberta	Edmonton	Aug. 4 to 6
Oklahoma	Canton, Oklahoma	Aug. 4 to 13
Northwestern	Silver Lake	Aug. 4 to 13
Northern and Western Michigan	Park of the Pines	Aug. 4 to 13
Spring River	Columbus, Kansas	Aug. 4 to 13
Eastern and Western Maine	Brooksville	Aug. 12 to 19
Kirtland Combined Reunion	Kirtland	Aug. 10 to 20
Northwestern Iowa	Woodbine, Iowa	Aug. 11 to 20
Far West Stake	Stewartsville	Aug. 17 to 27
Western Montana	Race Track	Aug. 18 to 27
Southeast Illinois	Brush Creek	Aug. 25 to Sept. 3
Idaho		Aug. 16 to 20
West. Oklahoma	Eagle City, Oklahoma	Aug. 5 to 13
Southern California District	Laguna Beach	Aug. 26 to Sept. 3

THE FIRST PRESIDENCY,
By F. M. MCDOWELL.

www.LatterDayTruth.org

The Bulletin Board

Appointment of Bishop's Agent

Notice is hereby given of the appointment of Mr. C. Kaat, Kikroosstraat 24c, Rotterdam, Holland, as bishop's agent of the Holland Mission. We commend Brother Kaat to the Saints of the Holland Mission and ask their support in his behalf.

THE PRESIDING BISHOPRIC,
By G. L. DELAPP.

Approved by
THE FIRST PRESIDENCY,
By F. M. SMITH.

Conference Appointment

At the conference of the Northeastern Illinois District, June, 1933, Elder C. A. Edstrom, of 1136 South Maple Avenue, Oak Park, Illinois, was elected district president to succeed Elder R. E. Davey, who will now be free to give additional time to his missionary work in the district. Matters requiring the attention of the district presidency should therefore be addressed to Brother Edstrom.

Conference Notices

The semiannual conference of the Northeastern Kansas District will convene at Atchison, Kansas, Ninth and Santa Fe Street, July 29 and 30. Apostle Roy S. Budd and Bishop Charles Fry will be present. Presidents of all locals and groups are requested to send their semiannual reports to District President Dave Little, Burlingame, Kansas. Secretaries will send their statistical reports to the undersigned. The election of district officers with other business of the district will take place at this meeting. We hope to have a large attendance at the first service at eleven o'clock Saturday morning, July 29.—Mrs. H. C. Pitsenberger, district secretary, 2331 Buchanan Street, Topeka, Kansas.

Southern Indiana district conference will convene at Indianapolis, Indiana, August 12 and 13. Prayer meeting is scheduled for ten thirty. Saturday morning and business meeting at 2 p. m. This is the time for the election of district officers, and we desire to have a large representation from all branches and groups. Will all branch officers see that their statistical reports are sent to Nita R. Ferguson, 4619 Cliff Avenue, Louisville, Kentucky, or to J. O. Dutton, 309 N. Denny Street, Indianapolis, Indiana. Also will all ordained to the priesthood, please send their reports for the past year closing with July 31. We are hopeful that one of the twelve will be able to attend. Apostle C. F. Ellis is now on a foreign mission and he will be greatly missed by all. Any wishing to be met at the trains, will please notify, Elder A. W. Gage, 1141 West 33rd Street, Indianapolis, Indiana. The church is located at the corners of Chester and Ninth Streets.—J. O. Dutton, district president; Nita R. Ferguson, district secretary.

The Western Colorado district conference will be held at Delta, Colorado, August 4, 5, and 6. Friday night, August 4, the first service will be in the form of a miscellaneous program entertainment. Saturday morning prayer service continuing with class work during morning and business meeting at 2.30 p. m. Preaching in evening. Services all day Sunday. Those in charge of the three-day services will be Apostle R. S. Budd, of Independence; Elder William B. Farley, Western Colorado district president, and Brother Glaud A. Smith of Denver. Arrangements are being made to care for all visitors for this meeting period.—Edra Vest, secretary.

Alberta district conference will convene with Edmonton Branch, August 4 to 6, beginning with a prayer service Friday at 10 a. m. This is the time for the election of district officers, and we shall be glad to have a large representation from all branches. Apostle J. F. Curtis will be present. Sleeping quarters and breakfast will be provided for visiting Saints.—Ira I. Benham, district president.

Conference Postponed

In order to have President F. M. Smith with us, the Arkansas and Louisiana district conference has been postponed till July 28 to 30, one week later than previously scheduled. Send all reports to Seth Harbour, Bald Knob, Arkansas. The conference will be held at Bald Knob.—A. M. Baker, district president.

Three-Day Meeting

Arrangements are being made for a three-day meeting at Ribstone, Alberta, starting Monday, July 31. Apostle J. F. Curtis will be present and as many of the priesthood as can attend are expected. Young and old are urged to attend the entire three days.—Ira I. Benham, district president.

Conference-Reunion Notice

The reunion of Eastern Michigan District will be held at Cash, Michigan, August 20 to 27, inclusive. The annual district conference will be held on the last two days of the reunion. Lunches and refreshments will be served on the grounds. Those wishing information concerning tents write C. C. Whitford, 640 Tenth Street, Port Huron, Michigan. For any other information write Bruce E. Brown, General Delivery, Sandusky, Michigan.—Bruce E. Brown.

Reunion Notices

Lamoni stake reunion will be held, July 28 to August 6, at Lamoni. Special speakers and workers at the reunion will be President Elbert A. Smith, Apostles F. Henry Edwards and John F. Garver. Those wanting to reserve rooms should communicate with Sister H. H. Gold, Lamoni, Iowa.—Blair Jensen, Lamoni Stake reunion committee.

Northwest joint reunion of the Seattle, British Columbia, Portland and Spokane Districts wlil convene at Silver Lake, Washington, August 4 to 13. The principal speakers will be Apostles M. A. McConley, E. J. Gleazer, and Elder D. B. Sordon. Tents: 8 x 10 wall tents, $3; 10 x 12 wall tents, $3.50; 12 x 14 wall tents, $4. Springs: double springs, 50c; single springs, 25c; free straw for ticks. Cabins; small single room cabins, $4; large single room cabins, $5; large two-room cabins, $6. The above price includes lights, water, wood, straw, and one double springs. Please send all orders for tents, cabins, or requests for information to L. R. White, Box 643, Mount Vernon, Washington.—Monte E. Lasater, district president.

The annual reunion of Northwestern Iowa District will be held in beautiful Mound Park at Woodbine, Iowa, beginning August 11 and closing Sunday, August 20. Ten full days of instruction, worship, music, and recreation are being planned. President Floyd M. McDowell, Apostle John F. Garver, Elder E. Y. Hunker, and other prominent ministers will be present. Those interested in renting tents write to H. A. Reynolds, Woodbine, Iowa. The rental prices are as follows: 7 x 9 with 3 foot sidewall, $2.25;

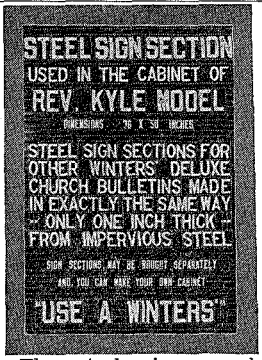
LOOK FORWARD FOR 1933!

Every wayfarer you can attract within your doors—every new member you can add to the congregation means added strength for both him and you. A Winters' Bulletin at a cost of $25 to $35 has proved its ability. In the past two years, more than 3,000 churches bought Winters' Interchangeable Steel Sign Panel and complete lithographed letter and numeral equipment separately. Ask about our co-operative plan.

H. E. Winters Specialty Co.

Dept. HPC, 310 East 4th Street, Davenport, Iowa.

You can have a complete, Illuminated Winters' DeLuxe Bulletin for only $59.00. Send for our free catalog showing various styles and prices.



The steel sign panel—heart of your bulletin.

www.LatterDayTruth.org

10 x 12, $3; 12 x 14, $3.50; 12 x 14 with 6 foot sidewall, $5.75. Folding cots for rent at 25 cents each. Flooring can be had by including $1.00 with your order for a tent. All orders must be received not later than August 5. Private rooms are available in modern homes close to camp grounds at reasonable prices. Send your orders for rooms to J. O. Deal, Woodbine, Iowa. There will also be an eating house operated by the reunion in the local church basement. Every effort is being made to make this reunion one of the most profitable you ever attended. Do not miss this opportunity for ten days of association with Saints engaging themselves in study and worship.—H. A. Reynolds.

Credit Class Work at Nauvoo Reunion

Attention is called to the fact that during the week of special services at Nauvoo, Illinois, July 23 to 31, class work will be offered each week-day forenoon in the following subjects: "Junior Worship," Mrs. Alice Baldwin; "Handcraft for Juniors," Mrs. Alice Baldwin; "A Witnessing Church," Elder Richard Baldwin. For training credit it will be necessary to be present at least five of the six days. This is an excellent opportunity to train for efficient church work. —Arnold Ourth.

Convention Notice

For months Rich Hill, Missouri, young people have been planning a convention and while the activities and problems will be those of youth, all are invited to attend and enjoy the fellowship of youth. Elder Leonard Lea and wife will be present and give of their best for our spiritual development. Commencing at 10 a. m. Saturday, July 29, and ending 4 p. m., July 30, will be two full days of prayer, class work, and recreation. Meals and lodging will be furnished free by Rich Hill young people.—C. C. Martin.

Notice Park of the Pines Musicians

The following list of anthems will be sung at the Pines Reunion: "150 Psalm," C. Franck; "O Love Divine," A Thayer; "Holy Art Thou," Handel; "Send Out Thy Light," Gounod; "Bless the Lord O My Soul," Ippolitof-Ivanof; "The Heavens Are Declaring," Beethoven; "Repent Ye," Scott-Deis; "Turn Ye Even to Me," Harker; "Twilight," Nevin; "New Every Morning Is Thy Love," Billard; "Remember Now Thy Creator," Adams. If possible get the permission of your branch director and bring several copies. If they are not in your library order from Lyon and Healy, Chicago, Illinois. Kindly do not neglect securing copies. The lack of sufficient copies is an unnecessary hindrance. — Louise Evans, 240 Travis Street, Northeast, Grand Rapids, Michigan.

Announcement

We are expecting to hold special services on July 23, to commemorate the one hundredth anniversary of the laying of the cornerstone of Kirtland Temple.—John L. Cooper.

New Address

Harold I. Velt, Hollywood Court, Longview, Washington.

Address Correction

Attention is called to a correction in the address of Samuel Worrell, bishop's agent for New York and Philadelphia District. The correct address is 3455 North Front Street, Philadelphia, Pennsylvania.

Request Prayers

Sister Beatrice Peart, of 208 East B Street, Iron Mountain, Michigan, requests the Saints to pray for her healing. Since February she has been suffering from a number of ailments, and the doctor has been able to give her no relief. There are no Saints living near her, but she has faith in prayer.

District President William H. Chandler requests the prayers of the Saints in behalf of Sister Sarah Barlow of 6 Roger Square, Harrogate, Yorkshire, England. Sister Barlow is a faithful Saint living in isolation from the branch of which she is a member. Apostle J. W. Rushton has visited her, also Patriarch William H. Greenwood and Brother Chandler.

Marriages

MATHIS-TROYER.—Miss Marjorie Mathis, of Joplin, Missouri, became the bride of Raymond Troyer, former Graceland student, June 26. The ceremony was read by Elder S. N. Gray at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Paul Thornton, in Joplin. Mr. Troyer is employed by the Joplin Globe and News Herald. While attending Graceland he was, for two years, editor of the Graceland Record, the weekly newspaper of the college. The name has since been changed to the Graceland Tower. Mr. and Mrs. Troyer are at home at 1712 Joplin Street, Joplin, Missuori.

BACHMAN-ELWELL.—The wedding ceremony of Miss Jean Bachman and Mr. Harry Murl Elwell, of Calumet, Oklahoma, was performed June 25, in the Latter Day Saint Church at Eagle City, Oklahoma, by Apostle Roy S. Budd, assisted by Pastor A. G. Owings, of Calumet Church. Vesta Mitchell and Leo Elwell attended the bride and bridegroom. A delicious buffet luncheon was served at the Bachman home in Canton at twelve-thirty, and from two to three a reception was enjoyed by many friends and relatives. The bridal pair received many useful and beautiful gifts. Late in the evening the happy couple motored to Stillwater where Mr. Elwell's work is located at the present time.

Our Departed Ones

PETERSON.—Annina Jensen was born in Denmark, September 2, 1879, and died at her home in Kimball, Nebraska, June 20, 1933. In March, 1903, she came to the United States, and August 5, 1903, was united in marriage to Petrus Peterson at Weston, Iowa. To this union four children were born; Mrs. Arthur Bauer, and Henry, of Dix, Nebraska; J. Chris and Donald, of Kimball, Nebraska. She leaves to mourn her death her devoted husband, four children, five grandchildren, a sister in Denmark and one in Tyler, Minnesota. She was a member of the Lutheran Church in early life, later becoming a member of the Reorganized Church of Jesus Christ of Latter Day Saints. George E. McConley, of Sterling, Colorado, conducted the funeral service in the Methodist Church, and was assisted by the

LETTERHEADS AND ENVELOPES

20-lb. Hammermill Bond Printed to Your Order. Neatly boxed. Postpaid. Satisfaction Guaranteed

Price per	100	250	500	1,000
Letterheads 8½ x 11	$1.00	$1.75	$2.50	$4.00
Envelopes 3⅝ x 6½	1.00	1.75	2.50	4.00
Letterheads and Env.	1.50	2.50	4.00	7.00

J. R. S. Co., Dept. S. Send for Samples. Columbus, Ohio

Prices Are Low

Values are high. Bargains like these cannot last long. Things are "going up" and it will not be long until you will have to pay more. See these offers before you buy:

4 Kooms—modern except heat—Mt. Washington district—2 blocks from car line $1,350
5 Rooms—modern—convenient location—west end of Independence 2,000
6 Rooms—modern—brick—3 blocks south of Auditorium 2,500
2 Rooms—not modern—south part of Independence 400

The above homes are not mortgaged. Clear title can be given. Here are two excellent opportunities for owners of church bonds or church notes to exchange same for homes in Independence.

CENTRAL DEVELOPMENT ASSOCIATION
221 West Lexington Street
Independence, Mo.

or

THE PRESIDING BISHOPRIC
The Auditorium
Independence, Mo.

www.LatterDayTruth.org

Methodist and Presbyterian ministers of that city.

PETERS.—Rufus S. Peters was born in Aurora, Missouri, April 15, 1867, and departed from this life May 4, 1933, at the Grace Hospital at Hutchinson, Kansas. He was baptized twenty-eight years ago at Webb City, Missouri. April 3, 1890, he was united in marriage to Rhoda Cooper at Polo, Arkansas, and to this union eight children were born, four of whom preceded him in death. He leaves to mourn their loss, his wife, and four children, Mrs. Audrey Sanders, Mrs. Margaret Turpen, Clifford Peters, of Hutchinson, and Earl G. Peters, of Joplin, Missouri; also ten grandchildren, and a host of friends. Funeral services were conducted by Elder A. E. Stoft, of Wichita, Kansas. Interment was in Memorial Park Cemetery.

SAXTON.—Chauncey Alvin Saxton was born at Willoughby, Ohio, April 7, 1869, and died June 25, 1933, in Cleveland, Ohio, after an illness of several months. He united with the church in 1902, and was ordained a deacon in 1921. He leaves to mourn his passing, his wife, three sisters and three brothers, together with his many associates and friends. Services were conducted in the Glenville Christian Church in Cleveland by its pastor, Reverend F. D. Butchart, and in the Temple at Kirtland by Elder Ebenezer Curry, assisted by the Reverend Butchart. Interment was in Temple Hill Cemetery.

McMILLEN.—Thomas H. McMillen was born July 14, 1909, at New Philadelphia, Ohio. Died, June 30, 1933, at Union Hospital. He united with the Reorganized Church of Jesus Christ of Latter Day Saints, October 16, 1918. He is survived by his aged parents Albert J. and Margaret McMillen, three brothers and two sisters. Funeral services were conducted from his late residence Sunday, July 2, by Elder William L. Goudy, and interment was made in East Avenue Cemetery. He leaves a large circle of friends to mourn his death.

COFFMAN.—Sarah E. Garner was born April 17, 1866, in Raglan Township, Harrison County, Iowa. She was the daughter of Henry and Anna M. Garner. She died at her home, June 26, 1933, after a lingering illness. She was married April 7, 1889, to Elmer Coffman, and to this union were born nine children, one son dying in infancy. She is survived by her husband, six daughters: Ada Bertha Crabb, of Little Sioux, Iowa; Mary Inez Allison, and Eva Beryle Allison, of Delta, Louisiana; Lois Susan Powell, of Orson, Iowa; and Anna Marie and Gladys, of the home; two sons; four sisters, Margaret Myers, of Missouri Valley, Iowa; Mary E. Carter, of Sioux City, Iowa; her twin sister, Ella Bertha Edwards, of Mondamin, Iowa, and Minnie M. Morrow, of Alberta, Canada. She was baptized at a reunion in her father's grove, in October, 1884. The funeral sermon was by Elder J. F. Mintun, at Magnolia, Iowa, where she was buried.

NUTRIA

Do you know that Nutria are among the highest priced fur animals to be found in commercial fur farming. Read the article in the July issue of Fur Farming & Trapping. The one story is worth a year's subscription. Send a dime for sample copy to

G. T. RICHARDS
Bunceton, Missouri.

GOING!!

GOING!!!!

GOING!!!!!

Only 13 Days Left at These Prices!

1. THE FOURTH RELAFORD by Viola V. Short
   A beautiful story of real love. Fascinating and appealing.
   SPECIAL JULY ONLY 60c
2. WITH THE CHURCH IN AN EARLY DAY by Marietta Walker
   A gripping tale of early history. Appealing to young and old.
   SPECIAL JULY ONLY 75c
3. HIGHER POWERS OF MAN by President Frederick M. Smith
   A masterpiece by a master mind. Should be in every home.
   SPECIAL JULY ONLY 85c
4. THE GOSPEL STORY by Marietta Walker
   The gospel story made plain for the younger folks. Buy it at this bargain price for the children.
   SPECIAL JULY ONLY 35c
5. INSPIRED NEW TESTAMENT
   Handy and accurate. Wanted by every Latter Day Saint.
   SPECIAL JULY ONLY 55c
6. HESPERIS
   Poems by David H. and Elbert A. Smith. If you like good poetry here it is at a real bargain.
   SPECIAL JULY ONLY 40c

Postpaid in U. S. A.—No Commissions

HERALD PUBLISHING HOUSE

"The House That Serves You"

Ward A. Hougas, Mgr. Independence, Mo.

CLASSIFIED ADS

Rates 3 cents per word first insertion; 20 per cent discount on subsequent insertions. Minimum 75 cents per insertion.

REGARDING ADVERTISING

While we exercise care in the acceptance of advertisements appearing in these columns, we can not guarantee full satisfaction between buyer and seller and we therefore advise that in every instance a proper investigation be made by all parties concerned.

ELDERLY LADY WISHES POSITION as housekeeper to family of Saints near a branch of the church, location unimportant. Mary J. Calvert, care Floyd Bradford, Lock No. Four Branch, Charleroi, Pa. 29-3t*

WEDDING BOOKS—Marriage Certificates. Samples sent for examination. Prices from 10 cents to 85 cents. 20 styles from which to choose. Leather, Mocotan, Fabrekoid, Vellum art cover stock. Latest styles. Ask for cuts and prices from which to make selection for samples. Paragon Publishing Company, Lexington, Kentucky.

HIGH SCHOOL COURSE in two years; meets all requirements for entrance to college, business, and leading professions. Diploma given. Address Education, Herald Publishing House, Independence, Missouri. 26-25-34

WHY BE WITHOUT songbooks when $6.98 buys 100 Songs of the Centennial. July and August only. Herald Publishing House. 27-3t*

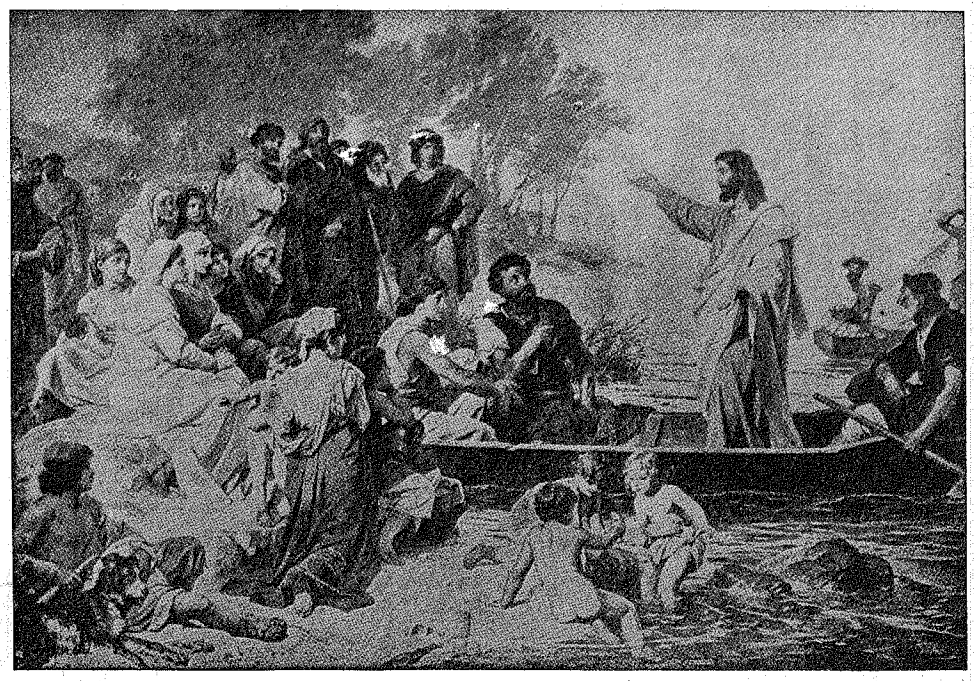
FARMS, ALL SIZES. Best terms. Call at our office on Highway No. 71, or write Chas. R. Bowman, Butler, Missouri.

CHICAGO WORLD'S FAIR VISITORS wishing to lodge in L. D. S. homes should write to Mrs. W. G. LaBrant, 4322 Jackson Blvd., Chicago, (telephone Columbus 8470) for full details. First Chicago branch address is 4416 Gladys Ave. All welcome. H. T. McCaig, Pastor. 28-tf

CENTURY OF PROGRESS visitors: Rooms and garage. Address, Josh Evans, 5153 Wolfram Street, Chicago, Illinois. 27-3t*

COMMERCIAL PRINTING to suit at prices that will satisfy. Herald Publishing House, Independence, Missouri. 27-3t*

www.LatterDayTruth.org



JESUS didn't need a quarterly—but don't flatter yourself—you aren't that smart. If you're human, like the rest of us, you need some source materials for class instruction. The Fall Quarterlies

Will Soon Be Ready for You

Kindergarten—Number 121
Leading Childhood to God.....Second Year
By Myrtle Weber and Tessie Smith

Primary—Number 211
Helpers in God's World.....First Year
By Mildred Goodfellow

Junior—Number 311
Old Testament Stories.....First Year
By Hallie Gould

Intermediate—Number 411
Lessons From the Book of Mormon.....First Year
By Hazel Dexter Smith

Senior Young People—Number 511
Youth and Life.....First Year
By Vida Watson and Gladys Elliott

Older Young People—Number 641
The Message and Witness of the Restoration.....Fourth Year
By Arthur Oakman and Elva Sturges

Adult—Number 721
A Study of the Financial Law
Prepared under the direction of the Presiding Bishopric

The Quarterlies provide the only organized curriculum for the Church School. They are prepared by experts. The best source materials and the ablest writers are brought together in an effort to present in the most convenient and suitable form the sort of knowledge and instruction that the Church School ought to carry to its students. Keep up the Quarterly system of instruction.

Keep in step with the publication schedule.

Order by Number

Plan your next year's program now.

HERALD PUBLISHING HOUSE
Independence, Missouri

www.LatterDayTruth.org

The Saints' Herald

S. A. BURGESS
Church Historian

Jackson County, Missouri

A Historical Sketch

By S. A. Burgess

BEGINNING A NEW CUMULATIVE TRACT

By M. H. Cook

The Seventh Day Adventists

R. S. Salyards, Sr.

Have Faith in God

Mrs. F. T. Haynes

Music in Our Services

Volume 80 July 25, 1933 Number 30

www.LatterDayTruth.org

THE SAINTS' HERALD

July 25, 1933

Volume 80 Number 30

FREDERICK M. SMITH, Editor in Chief.
ELBERT A. SMITH, Associate Editor.
FLOYD M. McDOWELL, Associate Editor
LEONARD J. LEA, Managing Editor.
LETA B. MORIARTY, Assistant Editor.
WARD A. HOUGAS, Business Manager.

Entered as second-class matter at the post office at Independence, Missouri, under Act of March 3, 1879. Issued weekly at Independence, Missouri. Price $2 a year in advance for the U. S. A., its territories and possessions, and Canada; foreign, $3 a year. Accepted for mailing at the special rate of postage provided for in section 1103, Act of October 3, 1917; authorized July 21, 1921.

Published for the Reorganized Church of Jesus Christ of Latter Day Saints.

HERALD PUBLISHING HOUSE
INDEPENDENCE, MISSOURI

CONTENTS

EDITORIAL:
- Spiritual Foundations in Educational Program ... 931
- Standards for Church-Centered Recreation ... 931
- Regarding Publicity ... 932
- Nauvoo Camp for Young People ... 932
- Across the Desk of the Editor in Chief ... 932
- Who Has Subscribed for the Herald Longest? ... 934

HELPS FOR THE PASTOR:
- A Call for Help ... 934
- The Sunday Evening Program ... 934

NEWS BRIEFS: ... 935

YOUTH'S FORUM:
- Nauvoo Camp, August 7-18 ... 936
- A Thought for Today ... 936
- The Story of Etta Kett ... 936
- Youth in Action ... 936

ARTICLES:
- A Brief Sketch of Jackson County, by S. A. Burgess ... 937
- New Developments for Our Girls, by Alice M. Burgess ... 938
- Have Faith in God, by R. S. Salyards ... 939
- Old Pete, by Elizabeth Cole ... 941
- Music in Our Services, by Mrs. F. T. Haynes 942
- Weekly Health Letter, by A. W. Teel, M. D. 944
- A Family Altar, by E. Leola Nice ... 945
- The Seventh Day Adventists, by M. H. Cook 947
- Prayer and Testimony ... 949
- Question Time, by A. B. Phillips ... 950

NEWS OF CHURCH AND HOME ... 951

THE BULLETIN BOARD ... 958

The Pigeonhole

■ Ebenezer

The congregation was singing, "Come Thou Fount of Every Blessing," and had just begun on the second stanza, "Here I'll raise my Ebenezer." A small boy stood on the seat beside his mother, helping her hold the songbook. Suddenly he began to ask questions:

"Momma, what is a Yebenezer? Momma, whatisaYebenezer? Momma whatisa—"

"Hush, darling, we're supposed to sing now."

"But I wanta know what it is."

"You want to know what what is?"

"A Yebenezer. It's in the song."

But the mother didn't know what an Ebenezer was, and stopped his questions by plugging his mouth with a piece of taffy candy.

How many of us sing that song without knowing the story behind the name! The children of Israel had suffered some rather bad defeats at the hands of their perennial enemies, the Philistines. But when they remembered the Lord and had Samuel pray in their behalf, the Lord delivered them and they obtained a victory. The Bible narrative concludes the story:

"Then Samuel took a stone, and set it between Mispeh and Shen, and called the name of it Ebenezer, saying, Hitherto hath the Lord helped us. So the Philistines were subdued, and they came no more into the coast of Israel."

How often we need to go down on our knees and ask forgiveness. How often we ought to be thankful for our deliverance. And it would be appropriate if we could erect a memorial of the event as a mark of our gratitude. Perhaps it would not be a stone marker, but a memory in our hearts that would forever set our feet in new and better paths. Each life needs an Ebenezer.

■ Shop Notes—Too Many People

"Too many people are talking about the search for the Holy Grail," says Lori Lew, "when most of the human race are satisfied to drink out of a tin cup!"

"What is wrong with the world today?—Why," says the Iconoclast, "the main trouble with it is that there are too many people asking, 'What is wrong with the world today?' and doing nothing about it!"

Percy adds, with a wry little smile, "Why the world's all right—it's me that gets tongue-tied and trips on my own shoe laces!"

"The trouble with people," said the Press Room Proletarian yesterday, "is that they only join an organization for what they can get out of it. They never want to join for what they can put into it. That is what keeps most organizations what they are. You have to build a house before you have one to live in, and you get to live in the kind of house you build. The same is true of society. And we never will have a society fit to live in until we are willing to undergo the expense of thought and trouble that it will take to build it."

■ "I heard something the other day," offered the pigeon blinking at me, "that I think is a good idea. We could well put it into practice. It was—Never criticize unless you have a suggestion that will better the situation."

www.LatterDayTruth.org

Editorial

Spiritual Foundations in Educational Program

Spiritual foundations are laid by the educational curriculum. The early missionaries recognized that, and out of the Scriptures they formed the concept of a teaching program of the "fundamental principles" of the gospel. Faith, repentance, baptism, laying on of hands, the resurrection, and the eternal judgment became the Six Principles of every missionary curriculum. This was the basic education of the day. It is still the basic program of education that the church must offer to its members as the prerequisite training for entrance into the church and for the spiritual way of life. We have added to these primary studies such subjects as the apostasy, the reformation, the restoration, church history, the Book of Mormon, and the Doctrine and Covenants, and training of character and personality.

Our church educational curriculum of study has grown until today it is embodied in our tracts for adult readers, and in our quarterlies for children and for older students. No single individual can master all of the material that has gone into our quarterlies. No teacher can presume to do a better job of arranging studies for her classes than the quarterlies have done. If she has not sufficient training or teaching ability to use a quarterly, she has not the ability to organize an effective study program of her own.

There has been too much free-lancing in church school work for the good of the children. They grow up in the church work with a very superficial knowledge of the institution, its history, and its gospel.

Church officers in some branches have already awakened to the harm they have done in depriving their classes of the advantages of the standard church curriculum. This is reflected in the increasing sales volume of some numbers.

The spiritual life of the young people of the church depends upon an adequate curriculum of study. No better program than that offered by the quarterlies is available; nor, in the opinions of general church officers, are there any others so good for our purposes.

A privately organized course of study may have some good points, but it is also bound to have some weak points, and to reflect the limitations of the teacher. Our local branch officers should insist on one thing for their church schools: Use the quarterlies!

L. L.

Standards for Church-Centered Recreation

Points to observe in building a recreational program for the local church

1. Church-centered recreation should be a definite part of the church program. It should be administered as a part of the church school; should supplement the total church endeavor and lead towards the goals of the church.

2. Church-centered recreation should place its major emphasis upon personality, character, life, growth; and not upon mere amusement, profit, or thrills.

3. Church-centered recreation should be inclusive, should be for all and not a few; should emphasize participation rather than mere witnessing.

4. Church-centered recreation considers the qualifications and personal character of the leader of paramount importance.

5. Church-centered recreation should be of the type that is easily supervised; should consist of activities which submit themselves readily to being directed toward the goals of the church and consistent with its program.

6. Church-centered recreation should be creative and constructive, promoting the highest type of cultural, moral, and spiritual life.

7. Church-centered recreation should not attempt to fill the entire life of the individual. It should seek to develop that type of character which is both willing and able to choose wisely from recreational opportunities available in the community.

8. Church-centered recreation should be adapted to the needs of the local group. It should take into consideration such varying factors as age and sex, outside opportunities available, financial condition of the members, as well as convictions, feelings and attitudes of the members involved.

9. Church-centered recreation should not merely duplicate the recreational efforts of the public school and community. It should recognize and, as wisdom dictates, supplement, and even support such activities.

10. Church-centered recreation should encourage self-expression on the higher spiritual levels involving meditation, worship, church services, leadership, etc. Experimenting should be on these higher levels rather than with questionable amusements.

F. M. McD.

Unless religious talk leads to righteous living, it is useless. The test of theory is action.

www.LatterDayTruth.org

Regarding Publicity

At various times the Editors receive urgent requests for large amounts of space for publicity for various church enterprises. Where these affairs are of concern to the church at large, we do our best to give what publicity we can, but we cannot always fully satisfy the desires of the promoters. Where the enterprise concerns a district or a group of districts, it is necessary to keep further restrictions upon the space allotted to publicity.

This year we have maintained a list of the reunions. In several issues there were twenty-four of them on the schedule. Some of them are held in places of great historical interest to the church; some have beautiful grounds and locations that are especially attractive to visitors. Numbers of them, however, can offer little more than the program of spiritual and educational activity which is the foundation of all reunion work.

In addition to a place in the list, we can give reunions space for special advance announcements, but it is necessary for us to prepare these announcements ourselves from information submitted. We do not have the space to give to long campaigns of advance publicity. When the reunion is in progress, or afterward, it also has a news value. It would be unfair to give very much more publicity to one than to the others, whatever the merits of the different ones may be. There is no such thing as a reunion, in the literal usage of the word, for the whole church. Reunions are for districts, and their publicity must necessarily be kept within limits in order to be fair to all.

We hope that this word of explanation will help to clarify the situation in the minds of our friends. We promise to do all that we can, fairly and consistently, to help with every church project. But we must take a general rather than a local view in order to give every aspect of the work its fair representation. L. L.

Nauvoo Camp for Young People

Nauvoo will welcome Young People's Camp from August 7 to 18. The Camp, under the leadership of Brother E. E. Closson of Graceland College, has proved its worth. There is no longer any argument about its value to the young people in building character, providing wholesome experience, and promoting friendships. This year it is ready once more to receive the young people. Announcements appear elsewhere in this issue. Those who are interested should write immediately to E. E. Closson, Lamoni, Iowa.

Across the Desk of the Editor in Chief

BROTHER WARD A. HOUGAS, president of the Far West Stake, recently held a convention for the young people at Guilford. I know from my experience in visiting Guilford recently that the young people and the Saints were looking forward with great anticipation to this convention, and in a letter from Brother Hougas written on the 5th of June he stated that the young people's convention at Guilford proved to be outstanding in every respect. The church was filled to capacity, balcony, upstairs and basement, and he feels safe in saying that in every way it has been the outstanding convention in his experience in Far West Stake.

It is good to know that the Saints of Guilford enjoyed the official presence and work of their stake president, and it is indicative of the time that the young people's convention crowded the capacity of the building at Guilford.

NOT OFTEN is it that I have a chance to see a letter from home folks about home conditions, especially like the one from which I am quoting now. A sister wrote to her brother. Her brother in Texas showed me the letter and I at once had an editor's desire to show it to our readers. You know (or maybe you do not) that editors are always thinking about their readers. I know that our readers outside of headquarters want to know about how things are there, and sometime from others than our editors. Well, "Belle" wrote to John as follows:

"Things are moving along in Zion, spiritually, people being affected by conditions proportionately to their spiritual advancement, and likewise they are affected adversely if their condition is low spiritually. But from one who has been on the heights and in the depths I would say that there are a lot of people here who are prepared for the Bridegroom's call and will not have the door shut in their faces; while there are many who are here but are not gathered, and in God's own due time, according to his promises, they will be weeded out; he said let the wheat and tares grow together till the harvest and then the reaping time will fix them.

"Poverty stalks in Independence. But not more so than elsewhere except there are more proportionate poor here than in other branches because they are already here and must be dealt with. But the sacrifice of the women continues, and it is marvelous and effective, and the spirit that is engendered by the unity of these workers is beyond anything that has happened in late years. If I did not hear some members who say occasionally they can't see the progress, I would be saying to you that the church has never reached the heights among the membership that they are now enjoying. The priesthood of the old church and some of the Reorganization have at times reached this pinnacle, but the people are getting there now."

I like the frankness of that letter and the penetrating observation of the writer. We are growing, though our expressed differences might at times make us think differently. And I may say that if the women keep up their present pace in their work, and spirits (and the observation quoted was made some weeks ago) as they seem to be doing, then we are going to move more surely and perhaps a little more quickly forward. And it surely warms the men of the priesthood to see the members rising to the heights.

www.LatterDayTruth.org

NOT LONG AGO I had occasion to effect a reorganization of the work in Seattle District, because of Brother McDole's passing. Indications were that Brother Monte Lasater, an already heavily loaded officer would have to assume additional responsibilities. I hesitated. But wisdom pointed to the more and so Brother Lasater was asked to undertake, for a time at least, the work of bishop's agent in addition to that of district president in which he had been so active. A letter from him has just passed over my desk which tells of how the task weighed heavily upon him at first, and then how he received help from the Source upon which we all lean so heavily. He writes:

"When President Smith was here he gave me some good advice, especially along the line of the new task given me. I will admit it was all a puzzle to me. So many papers, receipts, and letters to be written! On retiring that night I was tired and confused, but tried to sleep, and did sleep after lying awake for some time. About three o'clock I awoke still thinking of books, papers, receipts. Conscious that I was awake, there came to me the Spirit of God, and I saw the solution to my problems. I was able to understand the books and papers, and it was made so clear to me that I felt as though I had worked at the task for years. And next morning I started to get out the reports. I felt as though I had received a blessing rather than another added responsibility."

It is a comforting experience, Brother Lasater, and is one of the compensations of carrying heavy responsibilities for duty's sake. And that Source of strength and wisdom remains open to us so long as we keep in the proper attitude for the Spirit to help us.

NUMEROUS SUGGESTIONS reach us from our correspondents, and many are repetitions of ones others have submitted. However, we are always glad to have our readers feel free to make such suggestions though we do not promise to accept or act upon those received; for among the large number submitted some are quite likely to be good and workable. Here following is one we pass on being well worth while for our readers to think over. Sister Hudson, of Eldorado, Kansas, writes:

"Dear President F. M. Smith, or any of your counselors:

"Just a suggestion: Why not drop the word sacrifice and insert the word invest? We invest every cent on a new home or a farm till it is paid for. This is our new home; yes, for years to come. People get to thinking they are really sacrificing while not to any great extent. If I do without a new dress till my home is paid for, I never notice that. Why not invest all till our Zionic home is reached? It is no sacrifice to most of us. We just get in the old rut of thinking we are doing something. Let us invest in Zion.

Why not consider our contributions to the church to be investments? It will give us a fine attitude towards the church and our religious tasks if we can think of investments as suggested. And in times to come we will find pleasure in knowing we made such investments.

Let's form the habit of thinking in terms of investment rather than sacrifice. Thank you, Sister Hudson, for the suggestion.

And here's another letter on this same subject of investments. While I was in Texas a few days ago Brother John Robinson told me of an incident which I asked him to lay on my desk. He did. Here it is:

"Keo and I were visiting in a rural community, in the interests of the church. This place was perhaps forty or fifty miles from a railroad. We had been invited to the home of an old-time Latter Day Saint, but because of the difficulty in negotiating the roads had put it off from time to time. Finally catching a good stretch of weather we attempted the trip. We drove miles through underbrush along 'hogbacks,' fording creeks, through a stubble field or two and finally skirting an abandoned oil derrick and through a garden patch, we arrived at the isolated home. There we found the sister, a lady nearly seventy, who was to be our hostess.

"Though they claimed to be 'poor folks' evidences of material comforts were on every hand. A cellar well stocked with home-packed meat and vegetables and fruits. Machinery—some primitive it's true—well housed and cared for and the stock sleek and fat.

"In the course of the conversation, which had been on various church topics, I was deeply impressed by the statement from the sister which I pen here as nearly as I remembered it and noted it afterwards. She said, 'Brother Robinson, we're poor folks, you know, and we can't do as much as we would like to, and I don't know that I will ever be able to go where it is and to see it, but I am thankful to my Lord that I have put a few dollars in the Auditorium.'"

That good sister is not the only one who is rejoicing because she has an "investment" in the Auditorium. And many of us wish we could increase our investment therein. In the near future when it is finished, how our pride in it will grow as the building is permitted to work at its real job.

And Brother Robinson adds:

"Brother Fred, that caused me to make a set of slides of the building of the Auditorium, that I might gratify the wish of the faithful who still 'thank the Lord' that they have put something in the great building; that I might show it in pictures and give them that much satisfaction. And it caused me to 'thank the Lord' that we have those stanch and true Latter Day Saints who have to an extent at least caught a vision of the beautiful city of Zion, that must be built, and are willing to sacrifice their hard-earned dollars that this may be, even though they never expect to live to see it. That is Zion building material. May God grant that we ministers find more of it."

That's it, the material for building Zion will come quickest from those who in contributing tithes, and offerings, for Auditorium, for college, for Sanita-

www.LatterDayTruth.org

rium are investing in Zion and her progress, investing in a place of safety.

This work is big enough, fine enough, important enough in its spiritual significance to justify the attitude that contributing time, talents, money, and property is but investing in something which will bring us handsome and soul cheering returns in due time.

I RECENTLY HAD OCCASION to consult one of the officials at the Kansas City Public Library about some books, and we chatted a few moments about conditions in general and library work in particular, and I was pleased to hear her say that the changed conditions seemed to have made a change in the demand for books. There was decrease in the demand for and circulation of books of fiction, and increase of those written on definite subjects. People seemed to seek information rather than amusement. And that's fine! F. M. S.

Who Has Subscribed for the "Herald" Longest?

Charles L. Sessions, of South Boardman, Michigan, writes that he has been a subscriber to the Herald for thirty-eight years, lacking an interval of one year in the stretch. This is a good record. It raises an interesting question in the editorial offices as to who has been a subscriber to the Herald for the longest period of years, and also as to who, now living, was the earliest subscriber. We should be glad to hear from the "old timers" and see how many have long records to their credit. Please send us the date of your first subscription, and tell us whether you have subscribed continuously since.

We should also like to know how many have been subscribers for twenty-five years or more.

The Herald has been published since 1860. A fire, three moves that crossed state lines, depressions, and all the other hazards that afflict the publishing business have not been able to stop it. It has been printed in such widely separated places as Cincinnati, Ohio; Plano, Illinois; Lamoni, Iowa, and Independence, Missouri. Its history has paralleled the history of the Reorganization—inseparably connected with it. The oldest subscriber can go back about as far as he wants to go.

Any prophet or preacher who teaches more or less than Jesus and his apostles did, does so on his own responsibility; and must sooner or later suffer the consequences for so doing.—D. E. Tucker, in "The True Way Is the Gospel Way."

HELPS FOR THE PASTOR

● A Call for Help

J. B. Snyder, of 1513 South Fife Street, Tacoma, Washington, sends a call for help for Sunday evening programs. He writes:

"I wish we could have some good suggestions for Sunday evening programs, especially for our young people."

A few general suggestions have already been given in this column, but it appears that we shall not be able at present to furnish immediate help in detailed programs. If any of our readers can give us any help by telling us of programs that have been used successfully in their branches, we would greatly appreciate it. If suitable, the material can be published for the benefit of everybody.

● The Sunday Evening Program

Some time ago when we wrote of the Sunday evening program before, a few readers protested that the story of the gospel should be enough, either morning or evening, and that it is a departure from our true tasks to foster anything else. But we feel that we ought to try to meet the righteous needs of the people when they ask for help.

We believe that no Sunday evening service ought to be devoted entirely to entertainment. A program of empty merriment and aimless activity will lose interest as quickly as anything else. There should always be something serious and thoughtful—a short sermon or talk, or entertainment that promotes Christian ideals.

The evening program, in general, can be in three parts:

1. Entertainment—A program of sacred or classical music, sometimes varied with congregational singing. Or a play, preferably of a religious character, or some other good piece of work. Or lacking these, some study in class work. This part of the program should be varied from week to week.
2. Worship—A season of prayer and religious songs, with a period for meditation. Should be short.
3. Spiritual instruction—A sermonette or talk touching church work. This should be the high point, religiously, of the evening's program.

Every branch should have an orchestra or a dramatic club for the young people, probably both. These will give them an opportunity to contribute something, and will strengthen their friendships among church people. Many young people become interested in church work through early contacts with its people in music and drama.

www.LatterDayTruth.org

NEWS BRIEFS

Gilbert J. Waller Patriarch of Hawaii

Gilbert J. Waller, for many years called the "Father of the Saints in the Hawaiian Islands," is now their father in office as well as in name and deed. He was ordained a patriarch on the mainland of the United States last March, and since that time has been shaping his pastoral work in Honolulu so as to give his patriarchal watchcare to all the church members in the Territory of Hawaii.

In order to do this, it has been necessary for Brother Waller to resign as president of the Honolulu Main Branch, the Chinese Branch, and the Japanese Branch. In each congregation he has been succeeded by consecrated young men who are respectively, Elder Virgil Etzenhouser, Priest Samuel Lee, and Priest David Kumata.

Brother Waller is almost seventy-two years of age, and he has a record of constant service in the church and especially in Hawaii.

San Bernardino Has D. O. U. Class

The young people of San Bernardino Branch, California, have named themselves the "D. O. U." (Depend On Us) Class, and are living up to their name. Branch officers are finding them very dependable and helpful.

A Daughter Born to Apostle and Sister G. G. Lewis

From Australia comes news of the birth of a second daughter to Apostle and Sister George G. Lewis. Rosemary Lewis was born June 22, at Hamilton, New South Wales.

Large and Successful Reunion for North Dakota

The North Dakota reunion was by no means "depressed." Convening June 25, and continuing through July 2, it was highly successful and the largest attended gathering of its kind in years. Apostle J. F. Curtis and Missionary P. T. Anderson were present during the entire session, and Elder L. O. Wildermuth happened in from Montana for the latter part of the reunion. These three were a great help.

On the closing Sunday of the reunion eight were baptized, three babies were blessed, and two men were ordained to the office of elder. Dunn Center was the best represented branch in the district.

O. W. Okerlind Baptizes a Mother and Seven Children

A short time ago Elder O. W. Okerlind took a short missionary trip into Alberta District, where no missionary is located at present, preached the gospel to a large family, and baptized the mother and seven children. Among the children he baptized two pair of twins. He also blessed the other four children of the family.

Some time ago Brother Okerlind read a letter from the mother of this family in Zion's Ensign, in which she expressed the wish to join the church. He wrote to her and was invited to visit her and her family when he could.

Nine Baptized at Muskegon

Nine candidates were baptized at Muskegon, Michigan, in two weeks. Eight of these were inducted into the kingdom on Children's Day which the branch held late this year, July 2.

This day brought a variety of services and ordinances to the local Saints. Outstanding, of course, was the baptismal ceremony. A baby was blessed later in the day, and two men were ordained to offices in the priesthood. Then in the evening the children gave a fine program.

Prepare for Harvest Festival in California Branch

Already the women of San Bernardino Branch are at work on preparations for the Harvest Festival which the branch plans to hold in October.

Ninety-two-year-old Elder Firm in the Faith

Elder W. H. Brewer who spends his winters at Biloxi, Mississippi, and his summers in Illinois, writes the Herald to assure the Saints of his continued faith in the gospel and the church.

Brother Brewer was born in Marion County, Illinois, January 29, 1841. In the early spring of 1880, Missionaries I. A. Morris and I. M. Smith visited southern Illinois with the angel message. Brother Brewer became interested in the word of the truth while attending their meetings. He was baptized by G. H. Hilliard March 21, 1880, in Deer Creek, Wayne County. So consecrated and dedicated was his life to the work of the Lord, that ten days later, March 31, he was ordained an elder.

www.LatterDayTruth.org

Youth's Forum

A Page of Thought and Discussion for the Young People of the Church

Nauvoo Camp, August 7-18

Make Arrangements Now!

The Camp at Nauvoo opens August 7 for twelve days of inspirational fellowship, training, and recreation. The program this year is planned to interest young people from fifteen to twenty-four years of age. Leadership training in music, dramatics, recreation, scoutcraft, and related fields will occupy the forenoons, while the afternoons and evenings will be used for recreation, boating, swimming, games, and campfire activities. Those who have attended the Nauvoo Camp in previous years know something of the spiritual experiences in store for those who are able to come.

The following letter of appreciation was written by a mother whose daughter attended the Nauvoo Camp last year. Although these people are not members of the church they have a great deal of confidence in what our church is doing for its young people every summer at Nauvoo.

"Dear Folks:

"Ever since the camping days spent at Nauvoo last summer we have planned to send you a few lines, telling you how greatly we have appreciated what your camp did for our daughter. What she gained from camp cannot be measured in dollars and cents because it deals with the growth of character.

"Judging from what we have experienced we believe that the camp has leaders well qualified to lead young people. You have the ability to instill into them, by example and training, the great things of life and the love of our Maker! Few leaders are able to accomplish this.

"We have heard a great deal about the wonderful prayer meetings held at camp. They were mentioned so many times in the Round Robin letter written by the camp girls. We have been very happy over the spiritual depths reached by our daughter under your tutelage, and we shall look forward to the time when we may send our youngest daughter to your camp.

"Our wish is that you may have a happy and prosperous year ahead, and may you be doubly blessed in your ability to lead and direct young people." (Mr. and Mrs. Lethin, Moline, Illinois.)

There is only a short time left before camp opens. Letters of inquiry sent to E. E. Closson, Lamoni, Iowa, will receive prompt attention. Full particulars about the camp will be sent to any one between the ages of fifteen and twenty-four on request.

A Thought for Today

Make the best friends you can—seek those who are greater than you who can give you something; but always be willing to give your friendship to those who need you. Someday you will find unexpected ways in which you need them. Only thus can we maintain the balance of kindliness which is so greatly needed to keep the world going.

The Story of Etta Kett

Etta Gets a Prescription

Etta had not been away from the telephone for five minutes after her last conversation with Bill Ellison before she began to wonder if she had been justified in all she had said. From that feeling she began to blame herself for being too blunt, officious, and meddlesome. Then she feared that her strong temper was driving her friends away from her.

Later in the evening when Mary March called to see her, Etta was indulging herself in a storm of tears, remorse, and self-reproach in her own room.

Etta washed her face to remove the tear stains and combed her hair, then called Mary upstairs where they could talk privately. In the level glances that the girls exchanged, Etta knew that Mary was reading her thoughts, and it was not long before she was pouring out to Mary the whole story of her regrets and disappointment.

"I wish you would tell me honestly and frankly what you think of me," Etta was saying. "I know that is asking a lot of you, but you can't realize how terribly I need it. I always seem to see other people so clearly, and right and wrong stands out in bold relief around them—but for myself, I blur—I can't see or criticize myself as I should."

"That is a big order," said Mary with a smile.

"But you will help me, won't you?" she asked, searching Mary's face.

"Well, in the first place, Etta, I think you are taking this too tragically. But it is a thankless task to criticize—and I would hate to lose your friendship for doing it."

"You won't lose my friendship. And I will be everlastingly grateful if you will help me to see my way clearly out of this muddle I have got into."

Mary looked very sober.

"This is going to be hard for me to say. I hate to do it. But I can never forget what a debt of gratitude I owe you. And I can't refuse to try to help you now."

Etta lowered her eyes. Mary continued:

"What you told Bill was right enough. If he's a man he will take it and be better and stronger. It ought to be one of the best lessons he has ever had. But you should also try to criticize yourself."

For perhaps the first time in her life Etta listened while somebody else talked. And she listened attentively and respectfully.

Mary went on: "You are very quick and energetic. Sometimes, without meaning to be, you seem harsh to others. Be kind. Be slow to speak your criticisms. Be generous. Be willing to forgive even where there are many faults. Be willing to admit that another person's opinion may be as good as your own. Keep yourself from dominating a crowd or a situation. Put yourself a little in the background. The satisfaction of exerting power can be enjoyed only at the sacrifice of friendship and love. It is good to be right, but it is sometimes a mistake to impose one's conception of right on others—because one may be wrong. These are general principles that have helped me, Etta, and I think they will help you."

Etta was broad-minded and intelligent enough to take her criticisms. When Mary left, she felt that she owed Mary a greater debt than Mary owed her.

Youth in Action

By C. B. W.

● Providence, Rhode Island

The Sign Foretold is the title of an unusually effective dramatization of the Christmas theme taken from the Book of Mormon and furnished for distribution by the young people of Providence, Rhode Island. The play is in two acts and requires about one half hour. It requires five men and three women, with a number of extras.

This play was produced by local players in Providence at Christmas time last year under the direction of Hazel B. Garlick. The author is Herbert D. Floyd. Although the theme is the sign of Christ's birth, the play could be used at any time of year.

The above group of players have presented a number of religious plays. They are now working on another dramatization from the Book of Mormon to be given at the Onset reunion.

Mimeographed copies of The Sign Foretold may be had from the Department of Religious Education at 25 cents a single copy, three copies for fifty cents.

(To be continued.)

www.LatterDayTruth.org

A Brief Sketch of Jackson County

By S. A. Burgess

In 1803, the United States took over the Louisiana Purchase from France. This included the land west of the Mississippi River to the Rocky Mountains, but did not include Texas. What is now Missouri was shortly divided into five districts. The southern one included Arkansas. In 1813 these districts were called counties. Saint Louis County extended to the Osage boundary line, so included the eastern three miles of the present Jackson County. This Indian line had been established in 1808. As more counties were formed, this narrow strip was included in Howard County, 1816, in Cooper County, 1818, then in Lillard County, 1820.

The establishment of Missouri as a state was much delayed by the slavery question and Missouri was not admitted to the Union until 1821. In the meantime, numerous plans were offered. Among them one which would have made the northern boundary to correspond to the northern boundary of Illinois. Another, the western boundary to correspond with the Osage treaty line. That would have included only the eastern three miles of the present Jackson County. A third proposal would have included only the land south of the Missouri River, but would have extended due west from the mouth of the Kaw River to the western boundary of the United States. That boundary, however, ended at the Rocky Mountains. A fourth plan and the only one approved by the territorial legislature would have placed the line sixty miles west of the mouth of the Kaw and about sixty miles north of the present northern boundary of Missouri. This may be the basis of the idea some have had that Jackson County once took in part of Kansas, but there was no Jackson County! White settlement was limited by the Osage treaty line. Nor were any of these plans approved. When Missouri was admitted as a state, the western boundary was a line due north and south through the mouth of the Kaw River. The Platte Purchase was not added until 1837.

Then in 1825 another treaty was made with the Osage Indians, transferring the remainder of the land in the state of Missouri as well as lands in Kansas. Immediately plans were made for the organization of Jackson County. But it was not until 1826 that civil and military authority was transferred and the county organized. In 1827 the county seat was established and named Independence. A temporary court house was erected at the cost of one hundred and fifty dollars on a lot on Lexington Street, one block east of the court house square. Immediately steps were taken to erect a permanent court house. The plan called for a brick building on a stone foundation, at a cost of nineteen hundred dollars. But this building was delayed and not completed until sometime in the '30's. In the past one hundred years it has undergone major revision, extentions of one kind and another, five different times. The fifth is just now being completed, in a style of a Colonial Virginian meeting house. This is very appropriate historically because Missouri has taken its common law from Virginia, and Jackson County was very largely settled from the southern states.

Jackson County, as first organized, extended south to include what is now Bates County and so continued until 1835 when Van Buren County was formed which included all that is south of the present Jackson County. At that time Jackson County was reduced to its present dimensions.

When the church was trying to establish Zion, in 1831 to 1833, Jackson County included, as stated, three counties. To the east Lafayette County also included some three and a half counties. To the west there were no counties, nor clear-cut political divisions. In a general way the new Missouri territory was applied to all this western land; later, the southern part was called Indian territory, taking in the southern half of Kansas at least.

In 1833 there were two counties facing Jackson County on the north, Ray and Clay Counties. Ray County included eight counties as they stand at present. Clay County included five counties. Both extended to the northern boundary of Missouri, but, of course, did not approach the Missouri River to the west. There was a dispute concerning the northern boundary of Missouri, and claims were made which would have taken in part at least of the southern tier of Iowa counties. This is perhaps the basis of the statement that Lamoni was included in this territory, also the erroneous statement that Jackson County once extended to Iowa. At no time has any county or political division been made in Missouri that included both sides of the Missouri River. Jackson County never extended east or west of the present county lines and at no time extended north of the Missouri River. The supreme court of the United States in 1899 determined the northern boundary of Missouri where it exists at present.

At the south, Jackson County was bordered by Crawford County. This county extended two counties south of Bates. It did not include any part of the two southern tiers of (Continued on page 944.)

www.LatterDayTruth.org

New Developments for Our Girls

By Alice M. Burgess

A Gang Age for Girls

"Mother, can we have a club? I want a club that meets once a week and does things."

What mother of girls has not had such a petition, not once but many times as her girl developed into early adolescence. Young daughter feels the tremendous unfolding of energies and capacities, yet she is constantly aware of her own undeveloped state and keenly sensitive of her own immaturity. She is growing so fast she finds difficulty controlling and disposing of her arms and legs yet she is constantly called upon to make new social adjustments. She is apt to be inarticulate, physically awkward, painfully self-conscious. She dreads to walk down the street alone and will cross the street to avoid meeting and greeting some one. But if she can have the protecting enveloping presence of other girls what a different being she becomes! Her sense of incompleteness and inadequacy vanishes when she can lose her identity in a group who are "all for one and one for all." She needs the self-confidence and the relief from strain that such association gives her. And she is doubly blessed if such "ganging" together takes place under wholesome conditions and wise leadership.

Our Girls' Work Grows

For over a decade and a half women of the church have been working toward an adequate organization for girls. First Bluebirds, Orioles, and Temple Builders (for older girls) had their rise. When there seemed to be a demand for something broader, endorsement was given to Scouting, Campfire Girls, etc., where they seemed desirable. But few of our church units found these national organizations suited to their particular needs. Meanwhile Oriole and Temple Builder groups have persisted and the demand for more materials and a definite schedule has increased. In these years Lenoir Woodstock, wife of the associate director of religious education, was constantly working with girls and studying their needs and problems. In 1930, as general church leader of girls, she edited a comprehensive book called, Our Girls. Her aim was to expand the Oriole movement to include all the best features of the national organizations and still to remain a definitely church-centered, intrinsically religious organization. This book, almost encyclopedic in its nature, provides a most inspiring and stimulating program for our girls. The Oriole Guide, now available, serves as a schedule of activities and a guide to the use of Our Girls.

Girl Workers Welcome the New Program

It was the writer's good fortune during the Young People's Convention at Lamoni to meet with girl workers from many localities to examine and discuss the new Oriole program. I was constantly surprized by the enthusiastic reception which this new movement met. The committee of about sixteen women met four times through the hottest, most weary part of the day, but the interest ran high. As they examined in detail the new Oriole Guide occasionally some little controversy arose but always ended in approval of the text.

Since then the interest has grown remarkably. From Maine to the west, from Canada to Texas have come inquiries concerning the new Oriole work and orders for the Oriole Guide. It seems to answer a deeply-felt need throughout the church.

Broad Horizons and Detailed Suggestions

Our Girls comprehends a wide field of activities and interests. Here every girl may find stimulating activity suggestions, inspiring thought-provoking cultural and religious requirements and splendid health, etiquette, homemaking, handcraft and woodcraft schedules. The book is so encyclopedic that it would be difficult for the untrained girl or leader to use it to the best advantage if she did not have the new Oriole Guide to organize the material for her. The system of ranks and honor awards has been worked out very carefully and completely. After the Oriole has worked up through the four ranks she still has the possibility of earning more than fifty seals for her record book. Every type of girl, from the scholar to the athletic type, from artistic, musical, or butterfly girl to the more practical girl with a taste for home or business activities will find here delightful fields of endeavor and rich suggestions for self-improvement and interesting group projects.

A Zionic Task

There is no more religious task, nor any phase of church work in which we are more justified in asking Divine guidance than in this work of guiding the development of our girls. There is no more critical age, physically, spiritually, or mentally, than this early teen age (twelve to fifteen years). No wonder many of our wide-awake mothers and girls workers are thanking God already (Continued on page 945.)

www.LatterDayTruth.org

Have Faith in God

A radio address by R. S. Salyards, Sr.

THIS WORLD is a world of marked and striking contrasts; good and evil, truth and error, light and darkness, benevolence and selfishness, love and hate, and attending conditions resulting from action of these opposing forces are ever present in the experiences of mankind. Such conditions have been apparent from the beginning of historic time. Man as an individual or as a collective body, is a manifestation of the qualities and forces named. Highly gifted and richly endowed, he is capable of reaching the lofty heights of attainment, or of descending to the lowest depths of darkness, infamy, and misery. The highest manifestation of being, he is endowed with intelligence, a moral nature, and physically is the paragon of animals. Giving rein to his carnal, selfish nature, he belies or corrupts his higher powers and becomes in his low estate not "a little lower than the angels," where God placed him in the beginning, but lower, vastly lower, than the beast of the field. Before him lies the pathway to life and happiness; below the broad and downward way to disease and death of mind and soul. He is permitted to make his own choices; he is not an automaton, created to be tossed to and fro by every inclination, but to govern himself according to reason and judgment.

This in brief is an epitome of the tendencies, powers, and course of humanity, as seen in the history of civilization, as in operation in the world of today. We may remark in passing that of man's doings before the historic period there have been much of speculation and conjecture in endeavor to account for his origin and so-called prehistoric development. The Bible is the only reasonable and reliable account to which we have access. We are reminded of the statement of a bright British journalist, to the effect that such active being as man could not long have existed without leaving account of his doings.

THE BIBLE which is "the word of God," sets our minds at rest upon the vital questions of life, its origin and meaning and the means by which it shall be made happy, successful, and complete—questions which in all time have been raised in the mind and stirred the heart of the race. The first words in the sacred record are these: "In the beginning God." This is a consistent and significant prelude to the account of creation. It proceeds to state that God created the world, including man, whom he made in his own image and likeness; that he created him a free agent, a self-determining being. The record gives account of the dominion conferred upon man, his place in nature, instruction given him, his disobedience by yielding to temptation, his fall, separation from God, loss of innocence, and subjection to the powers of evil.

Something adverse to its good has happened to the race; some great forces operate which form a basis for existence of the contradictory qualities of good and evil in man. A condition has obtained and been handed on in which we have our being in a world of struggle, of trial and error. The Bible account is the only rational and comprehensive explanation of the situation. It states in brief that man fell from a state of innocence in which he enjoyed communion with his Maker; that being enjoined what to do and what not to do, he yielded to other and contrary instruction, and thus became subject to a power that opposed good by temptation to do evil. This account is strictly in harmony with the nature of man and his present environment. Today he is born innocent; he develops to a stage where, confronted by truth and error, good and evil, he is free to make choice, and on that choice his course of life depends. If he yields to wrong, he becomes subject to the results of wrong. If he continues under influence of any evil enticement, selfish purpose, injurious habit, etc., such yielding entails his freedom, lessens his moral power, and to the extent that he consents to such rule of life he becomes subject to habits and forces that hinder and enslave. It is an eternal law that, as stated in the good word, "As a man thinketh in his heart so is he"; and as it might be added, as a man acts, so he determines his character and influences his environment. This statement is true to life; it is apparent in the acts and reactions of society today. Its comprehension is necessary to intelligent course of living, to reform, to attainment, to welfare. It is true as Saint Paul states, "Be not deceived; God is not mocked: for whatsoever a man soweth, that shall he also reap. For he that soweth to his flesh shall of the flesh reap corruption; but he that soweth to the Spirit shall of the Spirit reap life everlasting." The law of compensation operates not only in the action of physical forces; it is apparent in the development of character; and character determines the status of man here and in the world to come. God will judge men according to their works. The scriptures so state, and such judgment is just and according to the sanctions of common and statute law.

There are no surprises for God; he knows the end

www.LatterDayTruth.org

from the beginning. Foreknowing the course of man, he made provision for every emergency. This should teach us to believe in him and to adjust ourselves to live according to his counsel. The race will never succeed by resort to anything contrary to the divine method in any deed or in any form of religion. The development of religion is not subject to human creation or device or philosophy. God is the author of eternal salvation. He only is able to construct a plan of salvation, a gospel for redemption. Nor has he neglected to provide a system that will bring man to life eternal. "His ways are perfect," says the word; also that "Whatsoever God doeth, it shall be forever: nothing can be put to it, nor anything taken from it." And "his counsel shall stand." Man should discern and consent to be governed by "the perfect law of Liberty." Man should "have faith in God"; he is not warranted in belief that he can improve God's methods. "He is the Rock, his work is perfect," declared Moses to Israel.

GOD did not abandon man to his fallen state; he knew of his state of helplessness, subject to an enemy of superior power. He provided a Redeemer in the person of Jesus Christ. He "so loved the world that he gave his only begotten Son," that man should not perish in his sins, but that by repentance, reformation, and obedience he might have "eternal life." Although man fell by transgression, he would learn the contrasts between good and evil, life and death. Thus God so overruled the transgression and fall, that man, tasting the bitter, might learn to appreciate the sweet; that in all the broad range of mortal life he might become conscious of God and truth as necessary to completeness of life and felicity.

Jesus Christ, the "lamb slain from the foundation of the world," was declared to Adam, in his conscious state of loss. The seed of the woman was to bruise the head of the serpent; the man was to be attacked, but not destroyed by evil. Jesus, the Christ, was manifest that he might destroy Satan and his works. We read: "Forasmuch then as the children are partakers of flesh and blood, he also himself likewise took part of the same; that through death he might destroy him that had the power of death, that is, the devil; and deliver them who through fear of death were all their lifetime subject to bondage. For verily he took not on him the nature of angels; but . . . the seed of Abraham. Wherefore in all things it behoved him to be made like unto his brethren, that he might . . . make reconciliation for the sins of the people. For in that he himself hath suffered being tempted, he is able to succor them that are tempted." (Hebrews 2: 9, 14-18.)

CHRIST, the Son of God, was declared from the beginning, as the means of restoration of man to God. His mission of redemption was manifest to Adam and his posterity before and after the flood. Jesus himself declared: "I am the door of the sheepfold. All that ever came before me who testified not of me are thieves and robbers." (John 10: 7, 8, Inspired Version.) Speaking of Christ, Peter wrote: "Of which salvation the prophets have inquired and searched diligently, . . . Searching what, or what manner of time the Spirit of Christ which was in them did signify, when it testified beforehand the sufferings of Christ, and the glory that should follow. . . . Christ . . . who verily was foreordained before the foundation of the world, but was manifest in these last times for you, who by him do believe in God, that raised him up from the dead, and gave him glory; that your faith and hope might be in God." (1 Peter 1: 10-21.)

Christ came as universal Savior, to meet the great need of the race, to make manifest the universal purpose of God. He manifested a universal spirit, that which will normalize and redeem every man in every race. Only Christ could and does meet the demand and accomplish the great universal need of restoring man to God.

He taught men, as fundamental to general welfare and universal salvation, "Have faith in God." He enjoined that as primal; as the means of realizing life; as the method of pursuing life's meaning and happiness; as the only rule of becoming and of building life in all its institutions—to return to the foundation of things; to have faith, to obey, to trust, to receive of and to know God. They were not merely to pronounce his name in casual formality, but to believe, to experience a conscious realization of God in their very souls; to live in him as Creator, upholder, and overruler of all life and being. They were not to limit belief to use of the physical forces of nature, but as above and through all and as transcending all, they were to believe in and live unto God himself; to worship and to be actively subject to him.

Jesus taught men to call their Creator "Our Father who art in heaven"; to believe in his abiding affection; that they were the children of God; that he loved them and was concerned in all that pertained to their welfare; that they should love him and love one another. He taught and manifested living, genuine love, which is in him a deep and holy passion, and which as Drummond says, is "the greatest thing in the world"; that it should live and burn in the heart of every man and be the inspiring energy that should actuate and bring the race to knowledge of God and to unity and cooperation with one another. (Continued on page 945.)

www.LatterDayTruth.org

OLD PETE

Furnished by - - - - - - - -
Jackson County Tuberculosis Association

By ELIZABETH COLE

OLD PETE was the freight elevator man at the factory. Every day men and women who handled large and small boxes or packages rode up and down in that elevator with old Pete. He was an untidily dressed, scrawny creature, seldom pleasant and never helpful. "I'm hired to run this elevator," he would say when asked to lend a hand in moving a heavy box, " 'n I'll be dinged if I'm going to do anything else."

"You don't believe in giving something for nothing, do you?" asked cheerful Jim Haynes, one day when old Pete had been particularly disagreeable in his refusal to help.

"Nobody never giv' me something for nothing. Why should I do anything I ain't hired to do?" Old Pete coughed his hacking cough and started the elevator upward.

Jim Haynes looked keenly at the stooped-over, thin, old man. He made up his mind he would speak to the doctor at the clinic about him.

"That old guy is sick—something's the matter with him. He has a continual grouch and what is more, he's always coughing," he said to his wife that night.

"Maybe he's got consumption," she replied.

"Well, I never thought of that. Good heavens!" Jim exclaimed, "what if he has been shooting his germs around freely for years!"

Jim spoke to old Pete the next morning. "Ever been to a doctor for that cough?" he asked casually as the old man carried him up.

"No, what'd I want to be monkeying with such high-fallutin' ideas? Doctors is for the rich," he grunted with contempt in his cross, hoarse voice.

"Oh, there are doctors for the poor, too," replied Jim. "I've got a fine one—wouldn't charge you a cent. Wish you'd come with me to see him."

"Humph, went once about ten year ago. The 'doc' gave me some cough syrup and said most everybody got a cough when they was my age—said I had to expect asthma or rheumatiz. Well," he grumbled, "I've got 'em both."

"That cough doesn't sound like asthma to me," remarked Jim. "Think it over. Why not come to the doctor with me tonight? He'd probably fix you up in no time. It's not right for you to have had that cough all these years."

"Well, it ain't killed me yet. That's something." And the old man went into another paroxysm of coughing.

It was three days before Jim Haynes got the old fellow to the clinic. Then he went sceptically and mutteringly.

"All Tommy Rot! He ain't going to give me something for nothin'. Had to cough out $2.00 last time and I suppose prices is up in ten year. Never heard of a doctor that didn't cost money." He actually believed Jim was getting him there under false pretenses and added, "Well, I'll tell him at the start—no money out of me. If he wants to look at me then, I'll be surprised."

Jim let him rave on. He explained old Pete's attitude to the physician who was to examine him, and who told Jim in reply that he was quite used to such feelings on the part of old-timers. "They aren't educated up to clinics yet," he said.

The result of the examination showed that the thin old man had tuberculosis. He had had it for years and the tragic part of it all was that, while with him, the disease had remained at a moderately advanced stage for years, he had been distributing his germs about freely. In the home of his son where he lived it was discovered that two children and the son's wife had active tuberculosis. An eighteen year old daughter had died several years ago from tuberculosis but no one had ever suspected Old Pete of having given her the disease.

As a result of this experience and through Jim Haynes' influence, physical examinations were required at the shoe factory for all employees. Several of those who had ridden daily in the freight elevator with grouchy old Pete were found to be tuberculous. In short, he had been giving something (namely germs) for nothing for years and nobody had had the slightest suspicion of what a dangerous person he really was.

Old Pete, it was found out, had visited a quack doctor those "ten year ago." A real doctor would have stripped him to the waist and made a thorough examination, told him of the dangers of infection and taken steps to effect a cure.

Nowadays whenever a case of tuberculosis is discovered, the physician immediately asks — from whom did he get it—to whom has he given it? All "contacts" must then be examined. The real cause of tuberculosis is a germ. Everybody is daily coming in contact with tuberculosis germs but when a few get into a healthy body no harm is done because the body fights back. But if one lives daily with a careless person (Continued on page 944.)

www.LatterDayTruth.org

Music in Our Services

By Mrs. F. T. Haynes

"Art in general, and music in particular, have been, and continue to be, of the greatest possible service in developing man's religious nature in bringing him to an experience of communion with God and fellowship with Jesus Christ," says Mr. E. E. Harper in his book on Church Music and Worship.

"Music is related to religion in a most vital way, as servant and handmaiden," continues Mr. Harper, "(1) giving to the church the greatest means of spiritual impression and expression; (2) affording a setting and creating atmosphere for the benefit of preacher and sermon; (3) calling together congregations for worship and affording a fitting, dignified, and adequate means of expression in worship, in prayer, praise, exhortation, and dedication; (4) assisting in religious education; and (5) binding together in oneness and fellowship Christians of all ages, of all lands, races, tongues, creeds, and faiths. No wonder that Martin Luther one day exclaimed, 'Music is the art of the prophets.'"

From the early dawn of creation music has been one avenue by which man has expressed his emotions. The Lord tells Job that when the foundations of the earth were laid, "the morning stars sang together." We find that the church people of the Old Testament used music extensively in their services as a means of interpreting their feelings in their worship of the Deity. The word of the Lord to us as a church in Doctrine and Covenants 24: 3, "for my soul delighteth in the song of the heart; yea, the song of the righteous is a prayer unto me. And it shall be answered with a blessing upon their heads."

So we find that music is an important part of the service of worship which we render unto God. Music is so expressive of one's feelings that almost before a person is aware of it he is giving some demonstration of the mood he is in, either joyful or sorrowful. So it is of utmost importance in religious growth. Our emotions are deeply stirred by music, and it is by emotions we express the feelings within us, some more and some less.

> "Let the young men and the maidens cultivate the gifts of music and of song; let not the middle-aged and the old forget the gladsomeness of their youth and let them aid and assist so far as their cares will permit; and remember that saints should be cheerful in their warfare that they may be joyous in their triumph."—Doctrine and Covenants 119: 6.
>
> "My soul delighteth in the song of the heart; yea, the song of the righteous is a prayer unto me. And it shall be answered with a blessing upon their heads."—Doctrine and Covenants 2: 3.

Selection

The selection of the hymns for a service may either make it or break it. By this I mean there should be unity in the service. To secure unity it is a good plan for the minister to select hymns that fit in well with his sermon, and suggest them to the chorister before the time for service so that together they may choose those songs which may be successfully sung by the congregation. If it were possible to have competent leaders in every branch, there is no reason why our congregations should not know the vast wealth of hymns contained in our books. If it is not possible for the minister and chorister to work together thus, then the chorister should select hymns as nearly appropriate to the character of the service as possible, using also seasonal hymns, the specially classified opening and closing, morning and evening hymns.

To illustrate: For morning service try one like, "To Thy Temple We Repair," number 59, in the new Saints' Hymnal. Then just before the sermon sing one of a prayerful mood, that the minister may receive an inspiration from it, such as number 74, "O Lord, Around Thine Altar Now." If it is possible to have special musical selections from the choir, or a solo, arrange that something of a pleasing, prayerful nature shall be used as an inspiration both to the minister and to the audience. On no account should any of the hymns used in our services be "jazzed up," either in the prelude, interlude, or during the singing of them. It is entirely out of place in church services; it takes all the dignity out of the hymn and robs the service of its chief function.

Blessed are the branches who have consecrated choirs to help with the congregational singing, and more blessed are they if they also have a competent leader of that choir.

For evening service a season of congregational singing, of fifteen minutes or more, can well be arranged. This affords a good time to correct errors in congregational singing. It is hardly appropriate to interrupt the singing for the services for this purpose at other times after worship has started. It is also a good time to learn a new hymn. Our evening services should be made very attractive. Have a change of service occasionally, well interspersed with special music and rousing, good hymns. Even in this service it may be well to have a hymn of a prayerful nature before the minister preaches. Since we usually have no instrumental accompaniment in our prayer services, it is well to select some one who can start and carry hymns correctly to take charge of the starting of hymns. This is one service where each member is privileged to choose a hymn that appeals to him and expresses the sentiments or feelings. But it is well to have some one that all can rely on to start the hymns, or if started by others to see they are carried through successfully.

Interpretation

It is well to interpret a hymn the way it is written for congregational singing. In singing a hymn as a solo the soloist may take liberties and interpret it according to his own feeling, but in congregational singing it is well to keep to the time and the interpretation indicated by the composer.

Where possible, if the song leader will give the history of the hymn and its composer and incidents connected with it, this will tend to excite interest in the words. Many hymns have a religious history connected with them. They are the result of religious experience some one has had, and this very fact makes them of greater value to a service of worship. The public library will aid the leader in finding much valuable material along this line.

There are a few things that should be encouraged in every congregation, such as:

1. Each member should deem it a privilege and responsibility to take part as best he can in congregational singing.
2. A very definite effort should be made that good tone, correct time and suitable volume may be possible.
3. Each worshiper should think of the meaning of the words as they are sung, that the fullest possible effect of the hymn may be obtained.
4. The singing should be consciously dedicated to the worship of God.

In taking a glance at our congregations when singing it would appear that about fifty per cent take part in this mode of worship. Perhaps it is because the pastor and leader do not make strenuous effort enough to have all take part. Perhaps we are losing the art and the spirit of congregational singing. When I was a little girl the minister used to read part of the hymn to the congregation before they sang it, and I am inclined to think if we tried this method now it might stimulate greater interest in the hymn. If read with certainty and sincere purpose on the part of the reader, with expression and dignity, it would impress the people who are to sing it.

www.LatterDayTruth.org

Leading

There is serious need of musical education in the congregations of our church. One has only to listen to our people sing the various hymns in our books, and watch the rhythm and time they keep, to become aware of this fact. It can hardly be determined where the fault of incorrect singing of our hymns first starts, but it perhaps begins with some strong voiced person who, without knowing his error, or without ability to carry the tune, gives the wrong lead, starts on the wrong pitch, flats the tones or violates the rhythm. If he is followed by the others the song has lost its beauty and its inspiration.

There should be a leader chosen to direct the singing in services, and this leader should be one who is spiritually minded and consecrated to the work of the church. It is suggested that a close relationship should exist between the minister, or pastor, and the leader of the music of the congregation. They should be able to work together in planning the nature of the services and the music fitted to it. This harmony of cooperation will insure a more unified service.

The one who is chosen to direct the singing of the congregation should have if possible, a thorough knowledge of music. If this is not possible, then he should possess a general knowledge such as the value of time, rhythm, and the art of getting people to sing together. Ours are such a small church in many places that it is not possible to have specialists in all branches, but the best material to be had in every branch should be selected. The qualifications for this office should be considered rather than the individual.

We need to take congregational singing seriously. One of the best methods of correcting errors in congregational singing would be to have a choir that is serious and consecrated to the task of improving the music in our ranks. This choir can become an influential factor in uplifting the quality of our singing. The choir members should be trained to sing the hymns correctly, and then the only thing for the congregation to do would be to follow them or be left behind. This would not happen very often, for they would take notice something was wrong, and would be wise enough to know it must be the congregation.

Singing With the Spirit

We, of all people, should have the greatest aid in interpreting sacred music. We all can recollect some instance when the singing of the service seemed to be better than usual, and brought us nearer to our heavenly Father. Many of our congregations have experienced the pleasure of singing with the Spirit of God assisting them, and it brought peace and comfort to their souls. Ought we not to strive to always have this accompaniment to our singing?

In speaking of singing and its wonderful effect on various congregations, and their participation in that part of the service, one writer makes this comment on the bringing of the heavenly forces to assist us in this direction: "And often enough it is easy to believe that God and all the heavenly hosts are themselves participating in the music of earth-born men." Is it too much to think that at some times when we are singing with the Spirit that the heavenly forces do join us?

Let those who have the gift of song and are able to do special work in the music circles of the church cultivate the art of doing it with the assistance of the Holy Spirit's guidance. Experienced musicians testify that when they earnestly ask for the Spirit to be granted to them, when they are called to do some solo work in the services, that God does bless them to such a degree that it makes their hearts sing with joy that they are able to render this beautiful service.

And this is true also of those who direct the singing of the services. They, too, may enjoy the assistance of the Spirit in their work. It will help them to select hymns that fit in well with the services, and help them to reach the hearts of the worshipers and bring them nearer to the purpose of the occasion, the worship of God, the Eternal Father.

Training for Service

Let those who are musically inclined try to secure the best teachers they can afford to instruct them, for the foundation of music is of the utmost importance. And let them bear in mind that this education should be used in the service of the Master. The church can use most of the musicians in the various branches. It has lost some of the professionals, to be sure, because of our inability to reimburse them financially. But those who take up music as an avocation and not professionally can be used by the church if they will give their time and service to it.

We should encourage our musicians to give their best to the church. If you have enjoyed what they have tried to do, tell them so, and encourage them to continue in it. This means much to them, and after all, it is the least we can do in the way of expressing our appreciation for the part they have taken in the service.

Encourage them to seek out the best teachers they can afford, and apply themselves diligently to this work, that they may bring to the services of God the best there is in them.

Music Appreciation Classes

Our church schools are fertile grounds for the education of music. Children love to sing! It is of vital importance to have some one who understands music to teach them the various songs and hymns of the church. Children learn very quickly, and if errors in singing are pointed out to them, they correct them and notice very quickly when others make those mistakes. Music is a vital factor in our church schools, and one who understands music should direct it.

One important factor in the betterment of music in our services would be the holding of music appreciation classes. There is one handicap in this method, however, as most people decide these classes are only for those interested in music. This is a mistake! Musically inclined people already appreciate music, hence these classes should be for those who have not had a musical education, and should be, primarily, in our church, for the teaching of our music used in the various services we attend. These classes would provide a splendid opportunity to teach the correct way of singing our hymns and songs.

One serious handicap in the music improvement in our church of today is that people get tired of drilling on the music until they have learned it. But this is very necessary. We have to dig deep in order to get things worth while. Music is not a lazy person's vocation, or avocation, any more than the Bible is a lazy man's book. We have to keep constantly at it in order to make it our own. When we hear one of our ministers quote from the sacred records of the church, is it because he has read it over once? Oh no! that man has made a study of that material in order that he may have it for ready reference. So must the study of music be with a body of people who desire to render it acceptably.

We must keep striving for music appreciation until we interest the people who need this improvement in the rendering of church music. Then there is the question, how shall we interest them in these classes? It seems to me it is a mistake to mix a musical instruction class in with religious classes in an institute. For this reason; we have so few workers in our congregations, that many are both singers in a choir and teacher of a church school class, and they are torn between the desire to attend the class on music, and the urge to attend the expert method of teaching their class in church school. They must make a choice and miss one or the other.

A better way would be to have one institute for music alone, and encourage all the district to attend. Make it so attractive in the form of congregational singing and its improvement, and special forms of music, both instrumental and vocal, that it will be worth while to attend it. To do this there must be some one at the head of it with plenty of energy and push, some one who can out-

www.LatterDayTruth.org

Weekly Health Letter

Some Suggestions Concerning Arthritis

By A. W. Teel, M. D., Church Physician

Arthritis is a persistent inflammation involving the joints of the body and is one of the oldest diseases known to mankind. Until recent years it was believed that it was incurable, but now when it is properly treated, it is curable in most cases. At least the patient has the assurance that he will obtain relief.

The disease usually attacks those between the age of 20 and 40 and may come on suddenly, attacking the lining of the joint or other structures even to that of the bone itself. Focal infection is usually the cause which may exist anywhere in the body.

When the focal infection is localized regardless of its distance from the joints, be it in the intestine, gall bladder, sinuses, tonsils, or teeth, the trouble may be removed by means of the X-ray, dietetics, and other lines of modern treatment that are instituted by the up-to-date physician. In all cases an intelligent search should be made to locate the seat of the infection. Sometimes this is quite difficult. The teeth quite often are the cause. Unfortunately the public is inclined to believe that a tooth that does not ache needs no attention, but quite often the X-ray reveals the fallacy of this belief.

The X-ray certainly has been a blessing to mankind in the treatment of this disease as well as many others, for by it we are able to locate whether it is a diseased gall bladder, appendicitis, or infected sinuses. Many physicians will testify that it is almost miraculous when the localized infection is removed.

Other cases where focal infection cannot be found or even where it is found and removed, faulty elimination and improper and persistent body posture, and unhygienic living conditions will be found to be the offenders, and their proper correction brings about the desired relief from pain and inconvenience.

The lack of sunshine, fresh air, exercise, the eating of improper food, and the failure to eat fresh fruits and vegetables are some of the causes and should be corrected in all cases.

The case should be subject to a complete and thorough examination, and the disorders of the intestinal tract and the digestive apparatus must not be overlooked even though a localized focal infection should be found.

Blood-building foods are necessary in all cases. Some authorities recommend some of the various liver extracts on the market for this purpose. In all cases the diet should be of the easily digested variety, simple and nutritious, taking care that they contain the required amount of vitamins, proteins, and mineral salts.

All cases require prolonged and careful treatment to insure complete recovery.

---

line a program of interest, and who can get other people to work. Then it is important that they have the cooperation of the other officers of the district.

May all who can assist in this part of our church worship services do so with heart and mind open for the direction of the Holy Spirit, that they may be able to give their best to the service of the Master. May we as a church win for ourselves the reputation of being a singing people, able to tell the gospel in song as well as by the gift of preaching. So may we become a delightsome people before God, the Eternal Father, to whom we may express our love and devotion in service of song and praise.

A BRIEF SKETCH OF JACKSON COUNTY

(Continued from page 937.)

counties. It did extend eastward to include fourteen counties as at present constituted. It took in the present territory of Crawford County.

There remained two questions for consideration which were more or less a matter of opinion. One is the "region round about" as referred to in Doctrine and Covenants, section 98: 9 and 102: 8, "the counties round about," and "adjoining counties." The other question is the extent of the land of Zion.

Strictly speaking, "the adjoining counties" to the west. It is practically certain that no land could have been purchased in the west in 1834. The "region round about" may well be more extensive, and we may speculate concerning the "residue is in my hand," Doctrine and Covenants, section 98: 9.

In fact the early church members purchased land in Van Buren County and in the counties to the north. In history the settlements have been rather to the north, but this by no means limits the "region round about." This term has always received a liberal interpretation by leading officers of the church. The "adjoining counties" would have taken in most of the west boundary counties of Missouri, but not quite all.

The "adjoining counties" may well include the Far West Stake, Lamoni Stake, the Clinton, Missouri District, and possibly a large part of the Spring River District, as well as territory in Kansas.

How far the "regions round about" may have extended is a matter of opinion. Nauvoo was stated to be a cornerstone of Zion, Doctrine and Covenants, section 107: 18. Zion evidently included a large part, if not all, of Missouri, probably southern Iowa and eastern Nebraska, Kansas, and a corner of Oklahoma at least.

OLD PETE

(Continued from page 941.)

like Old Pete who is coughing or spitting out germs the danger of getting the disease is great.

The children of the household especially must be watched for they may already have the very early form of tuberculosis, even though they appear to be perfectly well. They should be given the tuberculin test, which is simple and harmless and tells whether or not tuberculosis germs are in the body. If the test is positive the next step is to have the child X-rayed. From the X-ray picture the doctor can usually tell if any damage has already been done, and if so he suggests how the child may be saved from developing serious disease.

Often there are older persons, in the household—relatives, boarders, servants

www.LatterDayTruth.org

—who have chronic tuberculosis and don't even know it. They, like Old Pete, may believe they are suffering from bronchitis or asthma or heart disease. Such people are especially dangerous because usually they take no care to protect others from the disease.

"From Whom Did He Get It?—To Whom Has He Given It?" is the slogan of this year's Early Diagnosis Campaign. It is conducted annually to help educate all the Old Petes who unknowingly continue to spread the germs of tuberculosis.

HAVE FAITH IN GOD

(Continued from page 940.)

TO PROMOTE and to attain this divine destiny, he ordained and instituted a law to govern man. That law is the gospel, the "glad tidings of great joy" which Christ declared and which he preached during his mission upon earth. That gospel is "the power of God unto salvation" unto every man who believes and obeys it. In the language of Saint Paul, "It is the power of God unto salvation" for the reason that, as he states, "therein is the righteousness of God revealed from faith to faith." Paul wrote this language in his epistle to the Romans, at the end of a life in which he had sounded the depths of Judaism and philosophy, during his contacts with about every known religious system extant in the Roman Empire. He was able to estimate the various cults in vogue in his day; and as a result of that broad observation and out of his rich spiritual knowledge in Christ, as the inspired apostle to the Gentiles, he spoke, for his Master, and so declared the gospel of Jesus Christ; not as a formal, institutionized system of religion, but as the means of power to save men from sin and to recreate them into life eternal.

It becomes every one to stop in the mad rush of world-life and by prayer and faith and study of the divine word to seek to know of God and obey his gospel. It is the wise thing, the fine thing to do. It will prove to be a means of rightly directing and regulating the lives of men and women and their children. It will implant within the soul a love of righteousness, purity, and good sound sense. Good men and women who have not been satisfied to live in ignorance of God, to live a merely physical life with its ordinary round of limitations—such have thought earnestly and desired to attain access to the divine nature, to satisfying communion of soul in God. By earnest prayer for guidance, for the divine blessing, they have been led into larger life, have found the truth, have obeyed the gospel in its fullness, hence have openly testified of blessings and deep soul-satisfaction in Christ. Such persons could not be content with mere, passing living unto no definite, noble purpose. Saint Augustine well expressed the soul-hunger of those who hungered and thirsted after righteousness. He said, "O God, thou hast made us for thyself, and our souls are restless until we find rest in thee."

THE APPEAL of God to man through Christ is the highest, the greatest, the noblest, the best, from every point of view. It becomes professing Christians and all earnest people to sense its meaning and thus to devote themselves to truth as it is in God, in all the features of life and being. Professed believers, church members have no time for frivolity and trifling and artificial and not worth while wasting of time and energy in unsatisfying, negative living. There is too much at stake, too much of great importance, too much ignorance of God, too much evil and waste in human life to be rectified and remedied. Christianity needs compelling and energizing power, such as will impel men and women to high lines of religious life. All need faith in God, to desire and to possess him in inward motivation to true and constructive action. God is not a respecter of persons, but he is a respecter of character. He will lead every one seeking him to real knowledge that he is and that "he is a rewarder of them that diligently seek him." When true to himself, man is "incurably religious." The deep and sincere hunger of the soul for God is the normal quest of the soul who is true to God and to himself. Let us believe in the great God who has created us, who has made such wonderful provision for us, and especially in the sublime life and teaching of Christ, and like him, "have faith in God."

Man was commanded to "be fruitful and multiply and replenish the earth and subdue it." The dominion granted him signifies his capacities and powers. Lord Bacon, stated that in this injunction the history of man is epitomized. Man has constantly interrogated and sought to subdue and use the forces of nature. He is kingly in his powers and potentialities. His quests and efforts in building civilization have been disclosed in marvelous achievements. In addition to control and adaptation of material things, in government, in science, art, and literature, as seer, poet, philosopher, he has learned the nature and uses of elements created and endowed by the Great Author of all existent things. Among these activities stand out his effort to interrogate the unseen, to attain to immortality and eternal life. Jesus Christ is the great answer to all the longings of the human soul. He is the revealer of God, the interpreter of the soul of man; he is the ultimate and true expositor and philosopher. He is more than that; he is the very light and life of man and of all things; for all things are created by him and for him. In that great role of possession he lives to subdue all things unto himself, that all may be perfected in and submitted to God. Thus his work and his glory is, "to bring to pass the immortality and eternal life of man." Thus he appeals to us to have faith in God; to become his sons and daughters; and thus to inherit with him the glory that is to be revealed "in the day of his appearing and kingdom."

NEW DEVELOPMENTS FOR OUR GIRLS

(Continued from page 938.)

for this splendid new help for their task. As they study the new program and prepare themselves to use it intelligently, efficiently and prayerfully, they will see bigger possibilities opening before them and they will be inspired to deeper devotion and more faithful service to our girls.

May the young women of the church who are fitted for this important work, but have never undertaken it, catch the vision and begin now to prepare for leadership in the new movement. Later (perhaps next conference) the church will be able to give well-organized courses in girl leadership, but right now the task is ours to become thoroughly familiar with the new Oriole Guide and the source book, Our Girls. Mothers, teachers of girls and girl leaders will find much joy, inspiration and practical help in these books.

(As stated in last week's Herald, the present Oriole program is offered to all who wish it. It is the provision of the church for intermediate age girls. Where Girl Scouts or other organizations are already established and giving good service these should be continued.)

A Family Altar

By E. Leola Nice

IT WAS MY PRIVILEGE, once, to spend a short time with a Latter Day Saint family I had long known through district associations. The day of my arrival closed in happy confusion which ended as we separated for the night. I went into my room but stood for a few moments in puzzled thought. What was it—something seemed to be not just right. Yet I could find nothing definite amiss, so dismissed the thought and retired.

Next morning there was a flurry and more confusion as office people hurried away early, school children later, then the work of the day resumed by the mother and finally evening had come again. Came a repetition of the rather noisy sociability of the family and their casual good nights as first one and then the other of us retired. Again I was troubled by the feeling of something strange, or forgotten but could not decide what it was. I undressed, turned out the light, then raising the shade I knelt there at the window to close my day as usual with prayer. The peace and stillness held me, the moon shining down through swaying peppers, palms and tall eucalyptus trees, and I decided to stay there for a while in the beautiful meditation the situation afforded. I sank down on the floor, rested my arms on the sill and drank in beauty and the feeling of security my prayer had just given me.

www.LatterDayTruth.org

Again came the thought that had troubled me. What was not as I felt it ought to be in this home? They were all they should be as hosts, their invitation had been voluntary, they were glad to have me—their growing friendliness showing that. We had separated for the night and—ah! I knew. We had separated, yes, yet we had always been separated, for there had never been anything to bring us together. They had failed to have family prayer! And this was a Latter Day Saint home, the home of an elder, a pastor whose entire family were members; a home in which the ritual of family prayer would have been made difficult by not a single foreign thought. And this father—surely he was not a do-as-I-say-and-not-as-I-do minister, and yet within my memory was the recollection of three or more sermons by him on this very thing—family prayer, establishing a family altar, home worship—preached in all the sincerity he possessed. Here, I thought, was a man who spoke as one who knew the blessings such a spiritual ceremony could bring to a home, and his desire was to have his congregation share these blessings. But quickly came a reluctance to judge. I would wait. Perhaps my presence had caused a feeling of embarrassment among them, and they had simply omitted prayer on these two nights.

The next night was a meeting night at the church, which the entire family attended. Being strange to the branch I observed closely the things I might otherwise have taken for granted. By the time I was again ready to sink down by the window in meditation, after another night with no family prayer, I was forced to admit that, though the children of this family were undoubtedly as good and fundamentally as clean as babes, they did lack a respect for their church and had little sense of reverence for things spiritual which could not possibly have been true if they had been taught at home to be prayer-minded, to have a more intimate knowledge of God and his goodness and holiness, if their worship had been carried into their home, and so become a part of their make-up. And as the days passed I knew beyond a doubt that theirs was not a home-praying family, and in spite of all I could do, my estimation of them as Saints dwindled. And it hurt me to find it so.

PONDERING on these things in the meditation period which ends my days, there has come again to me a very beautiful and vivid memory from my childhood.

I was about seven when my family moved to the country and here I met a girl whose parents were descendants of a very old Spanish family. Virginia Alvarado and I, as unlike as two children could be, yet found in each other a sincere friendship. Probably the first thing that impressed itself on my mind was Virginia's attitude toward her mother. We seldom saw her, while we played doll-house outside, but when we did I noticed immediately the feeling of reverence and deep respect my friend showed her black-mantled mother. I was instinctively in awe of her, of the quiet dignity of her walk, the beauty of the soft latin tones of her words of greeting, said always in Spanish for she knew Virginia was teaching me her language, and it was our quiet little joke, this exchange of "Buenas dias. ¿Como esta, querida?" and my "Muy bien, gracias. ¿Como esta Vd., Senora Alvarado?" Then there was the look on her face; it was a long time before I was able in my childish reasoning to explain it. There was a look of beauty, of peace, and reverence, coupled with that tremendous calm and reserve—the thing that made Virginia and me rise when she came near. I remember, too, that the courtesy of her father and Virginia's grown brothers, Dave and Joe, toward their mother was beautiful to see.

Virginia's home was typically Spanish-Californian, a very old adobe house, to which had been added for additional quarters, a wooden structure, connected by a hall and a deep veranda. The house had intrigued me, with its rambling roominess, and I began to wonder why Virginia and I so seldom entered it, and then usually just the rooms at the back or her bedroom. Perhaps she felt herself lacking in the courtesy I had shown her in my own home of easy hospitality, so she found occasion one day to take me into what was really her home.

The living-room ran clear across the front of the 'dobe structure. It had windows on three sides, narrow, grated on the outside, curtained on the inside, and by the time the light had penetrated through them in the two-foot-thick walls into the room, it was very dim and soft, and left the room in quiet shadow. As we entered, in silence, I was overcome with a feeling of reverence, strangely. Virginia made one expressive gesture of showing me, "Here is my home," and as my eyes became accustomed to the soft glow, I let them wander along the whitewashed walls in growing wonder. Things! There were more things there than I could catalogue in my memory in days. A great chest under the windows near-by, which was full, I knew, of laces, drawn-work, silver, mantillas and family heirlooms. There were couches and chairs, old and curious. An old organ in the corner, almost hidden under lace squares, tidies, bric-a-brac; beside it a guitar tied with a wide sash. Pictures, religious pictures of I don't know what age and value. Old hangings on the walls, tapestry and fine serapes of vivid hues, long-fringed and rare, a Chimayo or two, heavy Indian rugs on the floor that permitted no sound of footstep. Then my dazed eyes found a light which shone from a little windowless room built out from the wall. There against the inner wall of the recess was what seemed to be a small table or cupboard, a curtain draped about it. Before it was a low stool; on top of the lace-draped table was an elaborate candelabra and a candle, burning quietly. On the wall above this hung a painting of a Mother holding her Babe, and hanging from it, a rosary with its pendant cross on which I knew was a tiny image of the crucified Savior. The walls of the recess were entirely covered with precious serapes, beautiful mantillas, another religious picture or two, small figurines of saints.

As these things registered slowly on my mind, I knew at once the reason for my awe and the reverence which had possessed me. Here was the family altar! Here was the sacred pivot about which the home-life of this reverential family—Spanish, and Catholic!—moved and had its being. Here was the place that mother had spent many an hour; here achieved her serenity, her beauty of soul, her dignity. Here she had come with burdens; here been relieved and sent on with peace in her heart. Here she, as well as the other members of that family, had knelt and prayed day after day in such sincerity and humility that the Savior himself must certainly have come to stand before them, to reach out and bless them, there in the beautiful temple they had built for his dwelling. It was the memory of this Presence that they carried about with them in their daily activities, and which manifested itself to me in the form of calm, quiet dignity, of humility, reverence and a beauty no other influence in all the world could create.

I had had enough experience with spirituality, worship, reverence and family prayer in the heart of my own home to sense these things, to understand. Without a word, Virginia and I turned and tip-toed from the room. But I, somehow, had become a different child.

All we like sheep have gone astray; we have turned every one to his own way; and the Lord hath laid on him the iniquity of us all.—Isaiah.

Blessed is the man that trusteth in the Lord, and whose hope the Lord is. For he shall be as a tree planted by the waters, and that spreadeth out her roots by the river, and shall not see when heat cometh, but her leaf shall be green; and shall not be careful in the year of drought, neither shall cease from yielding fruit.—Jeremiah 17: 7, 8.

www.LatterDayTruth.org

A Cumulative Tract Publication
for the
Reorganized Church of Jesus Christ of Latter Day Saints

The Seventh Day Adventists

Their Methods of Propaganda and Their Doctrine Examined

By M. H. Cook

Whatever is urged upon the public, that may entail serious consequences, and effect either great loss or gain to those who accept it, becomes of public interest; and it should be subjected to the most careful inquiry by those who are asked to accept of it. Ever since 1844, the Adventists have been urging their claims that the Christian world has departed from the law of God, especially in regard to their attitude toward the Sabbath, and the Decalogue.

They have sold thousands of books expounding their theories, by methods that are, to say the least, questionable. Many of their books have been sold by agents who claimed that they were working their way through school, and thus playing on the sympathies of the people and have sold books to hundreds without letting them know they were Seventh Day Adventist books. In thirty-two years as a traveling minister, I have never seen a book published by them that gave the name of their church on the title page.

The names of their various publishing houses carefully conceal the name of their church. The following publishing houses either do, or have published their propaganda:

Review and Herald Publishing Company, Battle Creek, Michigan, Chicago, Illinois, Toronto, Ontario.

Review and Herald Publishing Association, Washington, D. C.

Pacific Press Publishing Association, Mountain View, California.

The International Religious Liberty Association Publishing Company, Chicago, Illinois.

They have carefully coached teachers who get into homes under the guise of studying the Bible with the families, and have carefully prepared lessons devoted to their propaganda. As a rule people generally are not prepared to meet persons trained thus insiduously to introduce their doctrines, and are often misled by them.

In this study we shall carefully examine their claims and doctrines, from both Bible and historical standpoints.

They claim to believe the Bible implicitly; and claim for it that it is the final test of the truth and safety for all teachers of religion.

I will let Mrs. E. G. White, their founder, speak for them regarding this: "To the law and to the testimony. If they speak not according to this word, it is because there is no light in them. The people of God are directed to the scriptures as their safeguard against the influence of false teachers and the delusive power of spirits of darkness. Satan employs every possible device to prevent men from obtaining a knowledge of the Bible; for its plain utterances reveal his deceptions.—The last great delusion is soon to open before us. Anti-Christ is to perform his marvelous works in our sight. So closely will the counterfieit resemble the true, that it will be impossible to distinguish between them except by the Holy Scriptures. By their testimony every statement and every miracle must be tested."—The Great Controversy Between Christ and Satan, (seventh edition) page 411.

"But God will have a people upon the earth to maintain the Bible, and the Bible only, as the standard of all doctrines and the basis of all reforms. The opinions of learned men, the deductions of science, the creeds or decisions of ecclesiastical councils, as numerous and discordant as are the churches which they represent, the voice of the majority —not one or all these should be regarded as evidence for or against any point of religious faith. Before accepting any doctrine or precept, we should demand a plain 'Thus saith the Lord' in its support."—Ibid. 414.

The above commits them to the following:

1. The scriptures contain the law that must govern.
2. Its utterances are plain.
3. Every statement and miracle must be tested by them.

This puts the matter fairly before us, so we will proceed.

From the above it is apparent that if it can be established by their own rule that they are indeed the church established by God, to lead the people of earth out of darkness and back into the way of truth and salvation, their law would be the Holy Scriptures, and every doctrine and claim supported by a plain "Thus saith the Lord." But this is only true to the extent that we accept their peculiar, and what often seems to us absurd interpretation. We are warned by a very plain utterance as follows "Even as our beloved Brother Paul also according to the wisdom given unto him hath written unto you; As also in all his epistles, speaking in them of these things; in which are some things hard to be understood, which they that are unlearned and unstable wrest, as they do also the other scriptures, unto their own destruction."—2 Peter 3: 15, 16.

That there are various interpretations of the same texts of the scriptures no one can deny; and it would be unkind and unjust to accuse all who differ of being dishonest in their various understandings. Even in civil law there are often widely different opinions necessitating a decision from the Supreme Court to settle questions. So can it be possible that we are at the mercy of every self-appointed Bible interpreter? and must we accept their conclusions? or has God made some provision by which we may be safeguarded?

I read in 1 Timothy, 3, 15: "But if I tarry long, that thou mayest know how thou oughtest to behave thyself in the house of God, which is the church of the living God, the pillar and ground of the truth."

Now are the Adventists that church? If so, they should tally with the church as set up by Jesus in Bible times in doctrine, origin, organization, and practice. If they are not that church, and therefore not the pillar and ground of the truth we would be justified in rejecting their peculiar interpretations of the Bible and refusing to recognize them as the sole representatives of the truth.

The following texts are especially pertinent in this consideration:

"For what man knoweth the things of a man, save the spirit of man which is in him? Even so the things of God knoweth no man, but the Spirit of God."—1 Corinthians 2: 11.

"But the natural man receiveth not the things of the Spirit of God: for they are foolishness unto him: neither can he know them, because they are spiritually discerned."—1 Corinthians 2: 14.

"For who hath known the mind of the Lord, that he may instruct him? But we have the mind of Christ."—1 Corinthians 2: 16.

"If ye love me keep my commandments. And I will pray the Father, and he shall give you another Comforter, that he may abide with you forever; Even the Spirit of truth; whom the world cannot receive, because it seeth him not, neither knoweth him: but ye know him; for he dwelleth with you and shall be in you."—John 14: 15-17.

"Howbeit when he, the Spirit of truth is come, he will guide you into all truth; for he shall not speak of himself; but whatsoever he shall hear, that shall he speak: and he will show you things to come. He shall glorify me; for he shall receive of mine, and shall show it unto you."—John 16: 13, 14.

"And we are his witnesses of these things; and so is also the Holy Ghost, who God hath given to them that obey him."—Acts 5: 32.

www.LatterDayTruth.org

"Wherefore I give you to understand, that no man speaking by the Spirit of God calleth Jesus accursed; and that no man can say that Jesus is the Lord, but by the Holy Ghost."—1 Corinthians 12:3.

The above proves:

1. That the church of the living God is the pillar and ground of the truth.

2. Man cannot know the things of God nor testify that Jesus is the Christ except by the Holy Ghost.

3. Without that Spirit or mind they are foolishness to Him.

4. The apostles and people of the church in Paul's day had the mind of Christ.

5. It was to be their instructor to guide them into all truth.

6. It was promised to all who obeyed God. See also:

"For the promise is unto you, and to your children, and to all that are afar off, even as many as the Lord our God shall call."—Acts 2: 39.

Now if the Adventists can measure up to those requirements they would be worthy of our consideration, but if they cannot, and fall short of what the scriptures teach, by their own rule we would be justified in rejecting them.

Let us examine the church as set up by Jesus Christ and compare it with the Adventists and see if they can measure up to it.

"And God has set some in the church, first, apostles, secondarily, prophets, thirdly, teachers, after that miracles, then gifts of healings, helps, governments, diversities of tongues. Are all apostles? are all prophets? are all teachers? are all workers of miracles? Have all the gifts of healing? do all speak with tongues? do all interpret?"—1 Corinthians 12: 28-30.

"And he gave some, apostles; and some, prophets; and some, evangelists; and some, pastors; and teachers; for the perfecting of the saints, for the work of the ministry, for the edifying of the body of Christ: till we all come in the unity of the faith, and of the knowledge of the Son of God, unto a perfect man, unto the measure of the stature of the fullness of Christ; That we henceforth be no more children, tossed to and fro, and carried about with every wind of doctrine, by the sleight of men, and cunning craftiness, whereby they lie in weight to deceive."—Ephesians 4: 11-14.

"And it came to pass in those days, that he went out into a mountain to pray, and continued all night in prayer to God. And when it was day, he called unto him his disciples; and of them he chose twelve, whom also he named apostles."—Luke 6: 12, 13.

"After these things the Lord appointed other seventy also, and sent them two and two before his face into every city and place, whither he himself would come."—Luke 10: 1.

First Timothy 3: 1, 2, speaks of bishops, and in verse 8, deacons are mentioned as having a place in the church. Elders were to be ordained in all churches. (Titus 1, 5.)

"Wherefore, holy brethren, partakers of the heavenly calling, consider the apostle and high priest of our profession, Christ Jesus."—Hebrews 3: 1.

"For every high priest taken from among men is ordained for men in things pertaining to God, that he may offer both gifts and sacrifices for sins."—Hebrews 5: 1.

"And no man taketh this honor unto himself, but he that is called of God as was Aaron."—Hebrews 5: 4.

From the above it will be seen that:

1. There were apostles, prophets, seventies, elders, high priests, bishops, and deacons in the church.

2. God set them there, they were gifts that Christ gave to men.

3. All did not hold the same office, i. e., some were not apostles, some were not prophets, some did not have all the gifts, etc.

4. No one took the honor unto himself who was not called as Aaron was called. The above applied to Jesus Christ himself.

"The next day John seeth Jesus coming unto him, and saith Behold the Lamb of God, which taketh away the sin of the world. This is he of whom I said, After me cometh a man which is preferred before me; for he was before me."—John 1: 29, 30.

It will also apply to John the Baptist.

At the naming and circumcising of John, his father Zacharias speaking by the Holy Ghost said, "And thou, child, shalt be called the prophet of the Highest: for thou shalt go before the face of the Lord to prepare his ways; To give knowledge of salvation unto his people, by the remission of their sins."—Luke 1: 76, 77.

The twelve apostles were so chosen. (Luke 6: 12, 13.) Paul and Barnabas were so called. (Acts 13: 1, 2.)

The above indicates the kind of organization had in the church that in Paul's day was the pillar and ground of the truth. Do the Adventists measure up to it? Where are their apostles? Oh! they tell us that their traveling representatives are apostles; but if this is true, why do they not call them apostles and claim apostolic power and authority for them? Jesus Christ called twelve apostles and gave them power to bind on earth and in heaven. (See Matthew 16: 19; John 20: 21, 22, 23.) Here power was given to them to remit sins, in line with their commission. They were sent as Christ was sent. He was given commandments what he was to say and teach. (Matthew 28: 19, 20.) By the observance of the teaching and performance of the ordinances he sent them to administer was given the promise of the remission of sins. (Acts 2: 38.) Paul asserts that, "We are ambassadors for Christ," speaking of himself and Timothy (2 Corinthians 5: 20), and the context plainly indicates that they were properly authorized representatives, acting in Christ's stead. Now the Adventists have no recognized quorum of apostles and the Scriptures plainly indicate that such a quorum was placed in the church as a safeguard against deception—one reason for distrusting them.

Have they prophets? Yes, one (a prophetess) Mrs. E. G. White. But we will show from her writings, comparing with the scriptures that her claims of being a representative of God is unfounded in truth. There is no definite prophecy in the Bible that clearly, or so far as I can find, or even remotely refers to her as God's chosen instrument to bring forth the great latter day movement. Her call is not as Aaron was called, and the same will apply to their general ministry. (See Hebrew 5: 4.)

As to the origin of the Adventist Church, it cannot be denied that it began with William Miller, although he never became identified with the Seventh Day Adventists. Still the leaders of the Seventh Day Adventists were with him in his work, and were in full sympathy with him. They were disappointed by his false teachings, but still quote and indorse his calculations of the prophetic periods. Now was William Miller a prophet? If not, he was not working with God, for a very plain statement of the Bible says, "Surely the Lord will do nothing, but he revealeth his secret to his servants the prophets." (Amos 3: 7.)

The Douay or Catholic version reads, "for the Lord God doeth nothing without revealing his secret to his servants the prophets."

Now if he was not a prophet this plain statement of the Bible would show that God was not working through him. And to affirm that he was a prophet would make it necessary for them to defend him. The Bible gives a plain rule by which to test prophets as follows: "If there arise among you a prophet, or a dreamer of dreams, and giveth thee a sign or a wonder, and the sign or the wonder come to pass, whereof he spake unto thee, saying, Let us go after other Gods, which thou has not known, and let us serve them; thou shalt not hearken unto the words of that prophet, or that dreamer of dreams."—Deuteronomy 13: 1-3.

"When a prophet speaketh in the name of the Lord, if the thing follow not, nor come to pass, that is the thing which the Lord hath not spoken, but the prophet hath spoken it presumptuously; thou shalt not be afraid of him."—Deuteronomy 18: 22.

By the above plain statement of the Bible we will try William Miller and Mrs. E. G. White.

(To be continued. This is the first installment of a cumulative tract publication which will be printed in sections until completed. The installments may be cut out and gathered and preserved for reference or loan purposes.)

www.LatterDayTruth.org

Prayer and Testimony

Learned the Truth Through Prayer

By U. W. Greene

There very recently died in western Maine a sister whose passing brought vividly to my mind an experience that I deem worthy of passing on to the church. I was laboring in the town of Canton, in what is known as the Dunn District, and a number of people were interested in the message as presented to them, yet but one had been baptized into the church.

That summr after leaving them a gentleman passed through that district who had spent considerable time in the writing of the old stories concerning Joseph Smith and the Mormons. His visit created considerable excitement. Some of the people felt that I had deceived them and so expressed themselves and threatened personal violence should I return. That fall in the prosecution of my missionary work I was at Dixfield. Some of the brethern felt that I should not return to that district unless accompanied by several of the brethren. I replied that having preached nothing but the truth I was not afraid and was going into the district once more. I made the trip over the mountains following a blazed trail, and stopping for a season of prayer I told the Lord of the excitement and of the threats and asked for his direction and his protection. The spirit rested upon me. "Be of good cheer. No harm shall come to you, for I have much work for you to do in that neighborhood."

I continued my journey rejoicing over the influence of the spirit resting upon me, and the first home I visited I was met at the door by an aged mother and her daughter, who immediately told me of the stories circulated by Mr. West. I observed that the aged mother was quite nervous, and presently she said, "Elder, I have a beautiful lily in the back yard. I want you to come out and see it," and as we stood by the lily the tears began to roll down her cheeks as she said, "Elder, we have had everything in this house but prayer. But since Mr. West passed through this neighborhood I have been praying, for I remember that you taught us that if we wanted to know the truth of this work we could ask of God and he would make it known. The Lord has convinced me that you have brought the truth and I want to be baptized." I said to her, "Have you mentioned this to your husband?" and she said, "No, I have not mentioned it to any one." "How would Sunday afternoon suit you for the baptism?" She said, "That would be perfectly all right with me."

Returning to the house her daughter said, "Elder, I have a new photo album in the car and some pictures that I want to show you." Going with her she placed the album on her knees, but did not show me the pictures, but said, "Since Mr. West passed through this neighborhood I have been praying concerning the message you brought to us, and the Lord has revealed to me that you brought the truth, and I want to be baptized." I said, "Have you mentioned this to your husband or mother?" She replied, "No, not to any one." So I asked her if Sunday afternoon would be all right, and she said, "Certainly it would be."

Late that afternoon her father and husband came in from the field, and again I listened to a repast of the stories circulated by Mr. West. Presently the old gentleman said, "Elder, I have some beautiful calves in the barn. I want you to come out and see them." But as we entered the barn he did not mention the cattle but walked to the rear end, and as he leaned his head against one of the beams, tears rolled down his cheeks as he said, "Elder, I have never prayed before until since Mr. West passed through here, but I have read in the Book of Mormon that we might ask of God and he would give to us a testimony concerning the truth of the gospel. Right here I set up my altar and right here God gave me a testimony that the Book of Mormon was true, and that the message you have brought is the fullness of the gospel of Jesus Christ. I want to be baptized." I said to him, "Have you mentioned this to your wife?" He answered, "No, not to any one." I put the question to him, "Would Sunday afternoon suit you all right?" He replied that it would be very satisfactory indeed.

Just after supper the son-in-law said, "Elder, I have a trout pond in the back yard. I want you to come out and see it." As we passed by the platform I was looking for a suitable place to perform the baptism. He continued walking until he reached the line fence to the woods, and as we stood there he said, "Right here I erected an altar of prayer, and right here God, made known to me that you have brought the fullness of the gospel, and I want to be baptized."

The following afternoon I had the pleasure of leading nine souls into the waters of baptism, all of whom had been making this work a special subject of prayer. It was a season of rejoicing to me, and an additional testimony of the fact that God will hear and answer prayer when people approach him with humble hearts seeking to know his mind and his will.

On my last visit to western Maine, taking dinner with those good Saints, the sister placed that same album on my knee and asked if I remembered the day when she had first showed it to me. Now she has passed within the veil and is in the Paradise of God resting from her labors.

I present this to you readers as one of the remarkable experiences that has come to me during the many years of my labors as a missionary of the church.

"The Most Isolated Member"

By A. Deane Gough
Lieutenant, U. S. Army

I received and devoured last evening, the May 16 issue of the Saints' Herald. I consider this issue to be the best, most inspiring, most encouraging one that I have read, and I have been reading the Herald for years.

I feel that I am the most isolated member of the Latter Day Saint church. I believe I am the only member in the Orient, and the nearest to me is some four thousand miles distant in Australia. Although it always comes at least a month late, the paper is the source of my spiritual strength. It comes an inspiration. It refreshes like a visit with loved ones whom I have not seen for years.

But though I am thousands of miles from home, I enjoy the sweet influence of a guiding Spirit that I know to be divine. I feel that I have been more richly, more abundantly blessed during my year of service here, than in any other year of my life. The weekly message from Independence keeps alive in me the desires, assurance, and faith of my childhood.

FORT MILLS, CORREGIDOR, PHILIPPINE ISLANDS.

Miss Orpha Phelps, who now lives at 1221 Clinton Street, Saginaw, Michigan, is isolated from all contacts with church members, and would be glad to exchange correspondence with members of the church. She has been a member three years, and is eighteen years of age. A constant reader of the Herald, she feels the need of strength to be obtained from friendship with church people.

www.LatterDayTruth.org

QUESTION TIME

Are baptisms in a font as lawful as those performed in a river?

The lawfulness of an act or ordinance is determined by words of command or instruction. Weighed by this rule, which of course must be admitted, we find no Scripture that specifies that baptism must be performed in a river. The baptism of water is specifically commanded, but the commandments touching this subject do not require its performance in any particular place. John baptized in Jordan at one time, and Jesus was baptized there, but at another time John baptized in Aenon because there was "much water" there. The word is derived from a Chaldee term signifing "springs." Aenon is not a river, hence a river was evidently not thought to be necessary by John. The Greek term rendered "much water" literally means abundant or plenteous waters. Weymouth renders it "many pools of water." The chief requirement as to the water appears to be that there shall be enough for immersing the candidate. The early church was so severely persecuted that it was at times compelled to perform baptisms secretly, and for this purpose a number of baptisteries were built under ground in various places. These baptisteries were made of sufficient depth to immerse the convert, and were so constructed that water from the underground springs would run into them when it required. This shows quite conclusively that while immersion was required, it need not be performed in a river or any other particular place. Baptism is a world-wide ordinance, and is applicable to sections of countries where there are no rivers.

What became of the saints which arose from their graves, as stated in Matthew 27?

So far as I know, there is no further information concerning those saints which Matthew declares "came out of their graves" at the time Jesus consummated his great atonement for man. He states that they "appeared unto many," but to whom, or to how many, is not known. It seems reasonable to assume that they were resurrected to immortality and therefore became "as the angels," as promised those who shall be worthy (Mark 12: 25, Luke 20: 36). It has been supposed by some that they became ministering angels on earth, but as we have no proof of this, any opinion would be only speculation.

Is there any proof that Paul had children or was married?

There are no reliable records concerning the life of Paul except such as we find in the Scriptures, with some plausible references by Eusebius and a few early Christians writers. There are two references to children in the writings of Paul, but both of them clearly refer to children in a gospel sense. In one of them (2 Corinthians 6: 13) he says: "I speak as unto my children," and in the other (Galatians 4: 19) he refers to his converts as "my little children." We read of Paul's sister's son (Acts 23: 16), but nowhere in Scriptures of his own children in the flesh.

Perhaps the most convincing evidence concerning the question of marriage on the part of Paul is his statement to the saints at Corinth, in which he offers advice to the unmarried and widows. This statement is recognized as implying that Paul was unmarried, or possibly that his wife had died, if he had ever been married. Either might possibly be inferred by the words:

> "I say therefore to the unmarried and widows, it is good for them if they abide even as I."—1 Corinthians 7: 8.

How long did Noah preach to the people before the flood?

We do not know at what age Noah began to preach. Some have assumed that he warned the wicked for a century or perhaps one hundred and twenty years prior to the flood, but others infer from modern revelation that he preached for a much longer period. Doctrine and Covenants 104: 27 states that "Noah was ten years old when he was ordained under the hand of Methuselah." Whether or not he began to preach soon after his ordination is not stated; but if so, he must have preached five hundred and ninety years before the flood, as he was six hundred years old when the flood came (Genesis 7: 6). After his sons were born and had daughters, perhaps fifty or more years before the flood, Noah was commanded to "declare the gospel" to the people (see Inspired Version, Genesis 8: 7).

A. B. PHILLIPS.

www.LatterDayTruth.org

NEWS OF CHURCH AND HOME

Address all news and letters to Editors of the Herald, Box 237, Independence, Missouri. Correspondents are requested to make their letters brief. The Editors reserve the right, on account of space limitations, to shorten all letters as circumstances require.

Steubenville, Ohio

Branch's Contribution to the Church

Since the organization of the branch in Steubenville, some twenty years ago by Evangelist U. W. Greene, many events of a peculiar character have transpired. Some of them have been sad and some have been of a more cheerful aspect. But whether sad or gay we are reminded of the word of the inspired apostle. "All things work together for the good of those that love the Lord."

Steubenville has given to the church two missionaries. One of them, Elder Rees Jenkins, who died as a prisoner of the Turkish Army in Damascus. When the Turks retreated from Damascus, Brother Jenkins and his wife, were missionaries at Jerusalem. The Turks arrested Brother Jenkins. While he was a prisoner in Damascus, he took typhoid fever and his body was thrown in a hole with other corpses. He had made a friend of a missionary of another faith and he (his friend) found the body of Brother Jenkins and gave it a decent burial. He reported this to the authorities of the church and when President Smith visited the Eastern Countries he found the grave and placed a marker upon it.

Brother James E. Bishop also served as a missionary for some eighteen years and fifteen months of that time were spent in the British Isles Mission. He is still doing what he can.

During the years that Steubenville Branch has been in existence, many have moved away. If a home-coming were possible, quite a crowd would gather. There are A. H. D. Edwards and Joseph Edwards, and also John Edwards and their families. The first name was president of the branch for a number of years and was under appointment in Wales for some time in his early manhood. Death has taken its quota. Only a few can claim the fact that they are charter members. While the work has not increased as rapidly as desired, Steubenville has helped in the establishing of the branch at Wellsburg, West Virginia, which has taken on a goodly growth. These Saints possess a nice little church, finely located.

June 25, was a red letter day for Steubenville. The family circle of the president of the branch, Elder David Collin was completed as also the family circle of Elder William Richards. Their sons the youngest of the family, were baptized David Collin, aged fourteen, and William Richards, aged thirteen, were baptized by Elder William Richards. At the same time Mr. Harry Stocks and his daughter, Marie, were baptized. They had been baptized many years before but for some reason they were never confirmed. They had lived in various places and lost touch with the church. Within the last year or so, since settling in Steubenville, they have attended meetings regularly and have been anxious to be made full members of the church. After due consultation with authorities it was thought best to rebaptize. Brother Stocks has several grown children. One of them is in California with the reforestation army. It is hoped that all of his family will unite with the church as well as many other and that a day of steady progress may be witnessed in Steubenville.

Before the candidates were baptized, Elder James E. Bishop spoke on the ordinance of baptism and then Elder David Collin thanked the Saints and officers of Wellsburg Branch for giving them the use of the church and baptistry for the occasion. Following the immersion of the candidates the confirmation was administered. The whole service was impressive and the hearts of the people were touched. Witnessing the act of baptism when it is administered rightly, has a good effect on people in and out of the church. Likewise confirmation and all the ordinances of the church can be made very impressive to the pure in heart.

Northeastern Illinois District

Mission Branch Entertains Conference

The Saints who met with Mission Branch, June 9, 10, and 11, in conference of Northeastern Illinois District were abundantly blessed by God's Spirit.

Apostle John F. Garver was present and God poured out his Spirit in a large degree in the services, especially so in the preaching of his word. The prayer services were peaceful and inspiring. The program Friday evening was good.

The Deselm Farm Bureau orchestra gave an enjoyable program Saturday evening before the preaching service.

Elder R. E. Davey tendered his resignation as district president which was accepted, and a hearty vote of thanks granted for his untiring efforts in the work in this district. Brother C. A. Edstrom was elected to fill the vacancy and he chose as his counselors, R. E. Davey and H. P. W. Keir.

The resignation of Sister Clara B. Easterbrook, district director of religious education was presented and accepted, and C. A. Edstrom was elected to fill the unexpired term.

The priesthood met at 3 p. m., Brother Garver in charge. The women met under supervision of Sister R. E. Davey. Brother Edstrom gave a fine talk. A reading was given by Sister Marybeth Martin, and Sister Helen McCaig read a paper on the "Effects of Music in the Home." There were seven baptisms. The confirmation took place on Sunday afternoon.

A hearty vote of thanks was given Mission Saints for their hospitality.

Wagner, South Dakota

Cal Crisman, New Member of Church, Is Sunday School Superintendent

Wagner, South Dakota, is in an unorganized territory and for the past few years has been without an elder. An Indian priest, Brother Charles Hare, has been active among his own people on the reservation.

The Saints are scattered, but have kept up the Sunday school and women's department.

On May 27 and 28, Apostle Curtis and Elder C. E. Burnett, of Sioux City, Iowa, spent Saturday and Sunday with the Saints. Brother Curtis held a business meeting at which time the Saints chose Elder Burnett as pastor. Brother Burnett will meet with the Saints at least once a month. Brother Hare was sustained as branch priest.

Apostle Curtis baptized Brother Cal Crisman while there. Brother Crisman was placed in charge of the Sunday school. Sister Ida Calwell is head of the women's department, and Ruth Buhler is branch secretary-treasurer and bishop's agent.

Bishop Milo Burnett, of Saint Joseph, Missouri, gave the Saints a talk the last of June on the financial program of the church. At this time Russell Buhler was baptized.

The women are planning a bazaar and other features at this time.

www.LatterDayTruth.org

Mount Vernon, Illinois

Visiting Officers Are Heard

The Saints here are strong in the faith and working together. Regular services are held each week regardless of the season's excess heat.

Elder F. L. Sawley met with the Saints during the months of May and June. He is at Brush Creek at present.

June 1, the young people's class, taught by Brother Louis Deselms, enjoyed a wiener roast. June 29, Pastor Deselms was agreeably surprised when several members of the branch drove to his home to help celebrate his birthday. They took with them ice cream and cake.

The Sunday morning service, June 25, was discontinued so that all could go to Brush Creek to hear President Frederick M. Smith. President Smith was unable to attend the service, but the Saints enjoyed sermons by Apostle Paul M. Hanson and Bishop G. L. DeLapp.

The young people's class has been successful in increasing their membership.

Bremerton, Washington

Services of Visiting Young Men Are Appreciated by Saints

The church building has been placed on a concrete foundation making a full basement. This gives the Saints an auditorium, kitchen, furnace room, and a class room.

In March the women of the Harmony Club had the first meeting in the kitchen. This group of women is busy divising new ways to make money to pay for these improvements.

During the months of April and May, Brothers Luther Troyer of the U. S. S. Tennessee, and James Hazzard of the U. S. S. Colorado were in Bremerton. These young men were active in aiding the work at the branch and in the services. Bremerton Saints appreciated their help and miss them since they have returned to their posts.

Easter Sunday a number of the Saints from Bremerton went to Spokane to hear President Elbert A. Smith.

Special services were held on Mother's Day, Father's Day, and Children's Day. Children's Day was especially interesting. In the mid-afternoon the Saints and friends gathered at the home of Sister Loveless, at beautiful Kilsap Lake. After a simple worship service, Brother Lundeen led three little girls into the waters of baptism. They were Patricia and Audery Brown, daughters of Brother and Sister Dan Brown, and Jean McNutt, niece of Brother and Sister W. G. Day.

In the evening the confirmation service took place before the preaching hour.

June 1, some of the women accepted an invitation to visit the Seattle Women's Club. They not only enjoyed the trip, but were greatly benefited by the speakers.

Many of the Saints attended the funeral services of Bishop D. S. McDole, at Seattle.

Milton, Florida

Coldwater Branch

Sunday evening, June 18, Pastor C. T. West appealed to the members, as well as the nonmembers, to consider the first question ever propounded to man by God, "Adam, Where Art Thou?" He beautifully brought out his point by substituting the word of address to "Brethern." His discourse was well received by the entire audience.

The church school has taken on renewed interest. Brother S. G. Allen, of Milton, is the director of the church school; Brother C. T. West is teacher of the adult class; W. J. McQueen, young people's class; Sister Gladys Wolfe, intermediate class, and Sister Bessie Clark is in charge of the primary classes, having under her as teachers, Sister C. T. West, and Sister Stella Hawsey.

On Wednesday evening, June 21, prayer meeting was held. The service was in charge of W. J. McQueen assisted by Leonard Wolfe. The Lord poured out his Spirit in great abundance. Several prayers were offered by young people who were nonmembers of the church. Brother C. T. West bore his testimony and stated that the service was one of the most spiritual he had ever attended.

The young people's class is attempting several projects under the direction of its leader. Among them are a class in practical stewardships, another is a Graceland college fund, looking forward to the time when they shall have sufcient money in the treasury to purchase a scholarship for one member of the class.

Mobile, Alabama

Organize "The Genial Gleaners"

Last week's cynosure was the community sing held at the Saints' church Thursday evening, June 29. This was the second of a series of community meetings to be held at the different churches in Oakdale. Several of the girls cleaned and decorated the church and it was a beautiful setting for the entertainment. The choir sang "The Beautiful Garden of Prayer." Oran Cochrane gave a trombone medley, "Old Folks at Home," and "Just a Cottage Small." A trio composed of Anna Mae Hough, Mildred Holland and Ethel Cooper sang "The Broken Pinion." The Baptist Church responded with a quartet, and a member of the Methodist Church sang a Negro spiritual. The next sing will be at the Baptist Church.

The unmarried girls of the branch, from the age of fifteen and up have organized themselves in "The Genial Gleaners Club," calling themselves the "G. G's." They are making a special endeavor to live up to their motto, "Find and Give the Best," and their song is, "Follow the Gleam." Definite study and work have not yet been decided, but they are taking over the arrangement of flowers in the church for Sunday and other special occasions. Each member has a specific day to perform this duty. The officers are: Anna Mae Hough, leader; Vida Steiner, assistant leader; Mildred Booker, secretary, and Margaret Orr, treasurer.

Buchanan, Michigan

The Lord Still Blesses His Saints

The Saints of Buchanan feel that they have much to be thankful for, especially in regards to the activities and progress of the church.

In the fall of 1926, Elder George Harrington, district president, organized a small Sunday school here with a few faithful sisters carrying on the work. Soon the school began to grow. Then with the help of occasional visits and much encouragement from Elder J. W. McKnight, of Galien; James O. Best, and Elder Meyers, of Mishawaka, the Saints began to realize their efforts were not in vain.

In August of 1930, Elder McKnight baptized a class of young people. The following winter Elder O. J. Hawn held a series of meetings, at the close of which he baptized another group of earnest workers.

One year ago last fall, Elder Mark Gross and family joined this branch, and since, with his assistants, George Seymour and Stephen Martin, the work of the branch has been growing steadily.

March 5, the Saints rejoiced when Brother Lloyd Johnson testified that through administrations and the prayers of the Saints, God had seen fit to remove a cancer which had come upon his face. What marvelous healings the Lord bestows upon his children when they walk humbly before him.

June 16, Apostle D. T. Williams delivered a message, "Christ, the Great Revolutionist." This band of Saints always looks forward to Brother Williams' visits as his sermons are inspiring and encouraging.

Sunday, June 18, Children's Day exercises were held after which Elder Gross conducted five children into the waters of baptism. Confirmation followed in the evening, Brother Hunt, of Benton Harbor, assisting. This baptism brings the total from previous baptisms by Elders Hawn and McKnight to thirty-four during the past three years.

The women's department deserves recognition and praise. They have helped the branch through many a perilous time by their untiring efforts. They have held many bake sales, and on Wednesday evening, June 28, they held an ice cream social, which netted nine dollars to help carry on expenses during the coming winter. Besides being actively engaged in this way, they have also kept the church building clean.

www.LatterDayTruth.org

Kansas City Stake

The regular priesthood gathering of the stake met at two-thirty, Sunday, July 16, and continued the study of the subject, "What Latter Day Saints Believe About God." Immediately following the study period, all members met in quorum capacity to discuss problems in which the quorums are directly concerned.

Sister Julia Anna Koehler, mother of Bishop J. A. and Elder H. A. Koehler, who passed away July 16, united with the church at the old First Kansas City Branch where her family worshiped for a short time. Their membership was then transferred to Second Kansas City Branch, later they moved to Independence.

Argentine Church

July 9, speakers for the day were W. S. Brown in the morning, and Lloyd Siebert at night, who recounted the splendid happenings at the Youth's Conference at Lamoni.

Brother W. S. Brown was the church school speaker, July 16, and Patriarch Ammon White preached in the evening.

Sioux City, Iowa

Young People's Class Furnish Program Each Month

A series of meetings, held by Missionary E. Y. Hunker the first two weeks in May, was well attended. Brother Hunker's sermons were full of instruction and vitality.

Quite an elaborate program was carried out honoring Mother's Day. On Friday evening, May 12, the department of recreation, under the direction of Sister C. E. Burnett, sponsored a banquet for mothers and daughters, about one hundred guests being present. The men and boys served the banquet. Sunday morning the program of talks and music centered around the theme, "Mothers of the Reorganization." The evening entertainment was presented by the E. O. W. young people's class in the form of a pageant, "Mothers of Men."

The two groups of women have been busy sewing and working. The women have been responding whole-heartedly this year to the church's call for assistance.

A welcome renewal of priesthood visits in the branch has created a marked increase of interest among the members of the church. Brothers Clem Evans and C. E. Burnett have been especially active in this part of the work.

Sunday morning, June 4, three of the members of the E. O. W. class were baptized. They were Arthur Thompson, Al Quilleash, and Lillian McIntyre. The following Sunday, on Children's Day there were twelve baptisms. Of these there were two adults and ten children. The adults were Iola McIntyre and Irwin Johnston. Confirmation services on both Sundays were richly blessed with the Spirit.

On Children's Day during the Sunday school hour, the children of the intermediate and junior departments presented a pageant, "God's Garden," Sister Bessie Johnson directed this group.

The monthly program for June by the young people took the form of a slide-lecture on "Nauvoo." In spite of the extremely hot weather, attendance is being maintained.

San Bernardino, California

Young People Are Dependable

At the beginning of this year, the young people of San Bernardino Branch held a banquet and organization meeting at the church. This banquet was attended by thirty members of the young people's division in addition to their divisional leader and the pastor of the branch. Officers of the class were elected and the plans for the year were outlined. The class voted to call themselves the "D. O. U.," meaning, "Depend On Us," and the class, since its organization, has been active in all departments. The officers of the branch have been able to depend on them whenever they are called upon to assist. They meet the first Friday of every month for further plans in their work.

Apostle Gleazer was with the Saints the last Sunday in March and a good crowd attended, many coming from quite a distance.

The first Sunday in April the pageant, "The Challenge of the Cross," was presented before the sacrament service and by request it was repeated during the study hour preceding the evening service.

A short program was given Easter morning followed by a baptismal service, four children being baptized by Brother Will Boren.

The Mother's Day sermon was given by Pastor Teagarden, and in the evening the play, "The Mothers of Men," was given by the young people's division. This was inspiring and educational.

Children's Day, June 11, the worship service was in charge of the children, the entire morning service being conducted by them with the exception of the sermon which was by the pastor.

Youth's Day, June 18, the service was in charge of the young people's division. The morning sermon was given by Apostle M. A. McConley who stopped in San Bernardino on his return from the middle west. Brother McConley's sermon was greatly enjoyed. After the sermon the young people held a picnic lunch and a short program and social time was enjoyed.

Attendance has been steadily increasing the past year in all departments. Prayer meetings and sacrament services especially are well attended. The women's department is busy with its work of preparing for the Harvest Festival which the branch is planning on holding next October. The women also visit the sick of the branch as well as conduct a welfare department. This department has been able to supply many of the unfortunate members with the necessities of life and also provide carfare for some of the members who live some distance from the church and otherwise would not be able to attend.

The main auditorium in the church is always beautifully decorated with flowers. One of the sisters who has charge of this work raises her own flowers and through her efforts many baskets of lovely blossoms are brought to the church every Sunday morning. After the evening service these are taken to the sick and aged of the branch who are not able to attend.

Missionary meetings have been conducted by Brother A. D. Logeman at Riverside, and as a result four have been baptized there.

O. W. Okerlind Finds Outstanding Interest in Alberta

Baptizes Eight in One Family

Last month I made a missionary trip into Alberta District which is at present without a missionary. One reason for my going was that in this district are now living several members who formerly resided in Southern Saskatchewan District.

Some years ago I read in the Ensign a letter from a woman living in Alberta. She expressed a desire to join the church. I wrote to her, and received an answer at once. She inclosed a dollar requesting me to visit her and her family if possible. I arrived at her home last week and found a family of eleven children. I held two services a day with those boys and girls, using my chart to make the gospel plan clear to them. July 10, I had the privilege of baptizing the mother and seven children. One of the unusual things about the baptism was that among the children baptized were two pairs of twins. I blessed the four other children.

There is a good opening for the gospel where this family lives, and I look for many others to embrace the truth there later. I preached to a congregation which filled the schoolhouse July 9.

I attended the district conference at Weyburn Plains July 19 to 23.

O. W. OKERLIND.

The members of Beloit, Wisconsin, Branch, have changed the hours of the Sunday services. Church school meets at nine o'clock and preaching service begins at ten.

www.LatterDayTruth.org

Independence

Since the conclusion of their six-thousand-dollar sacrifice campaign a few weeks ago, the women of Independence are rallying to raise a weekly sacrifice fund for local expenses. They meet in the Stone Church lower auditorium at 2 p. m. each Monday.

Among the highly profitable prayer meetings held in Independence is that of the German Saints. This is conducted every third Wednesday evening of the month, after sacrament Sunday, and is in charge of Elder August Fluehe, formerly of Einbeck, Germany. Last Wednesday night a considerable number of members from the Fatherland met in the Y. K. T. room. The service is conducted in the German language.

The Sunday evening missionary trip schedule for young people of Independence congregations, July 23, was as follows: Liberty Street and Englewood went to Grandview, Missouri; Stone Church, Gudgell Park, Spring Branch, and Sugar Creek to Lees Summit; Second Church and Enoch Hill to Atherton, and Walnut Park and East Independence to Lexington.

A volley ball tournament for both boys' and girls' teams of the various congregations in Independence will open Thursday evening, July 27, at seven-thirty at the Campus, under the sponsorship of the Independence Boys' Baseball League, assisted by Girl Scouts of the Stone Church. Boys' teams and girls' teams will play simultaneously and are matched as follows: Second Church versus Gudgell Park, Enoch Hill versus Walnut Park, Liberty Street versus East Independence, and Spring Branch versus Stone Church. During the tournament ice cream and pop will be served, and at the close of the games a musical program will entertain the guests.

At the Campus Sunday night the Saints enjoyed hearing a former missionary team of singers, Elders J. F. Sheehy and H. A. Koehler. While they sang a favorite old hymn, Brother Koehler accompanying on the piano, many in the congregation were reminded of former General Conference days when these two used to sing.

President Elbert A. Smith's sermon centered about Zion and he based his discourse on references from the book of Doctrine and Covenants. Brother Smith will be absent from the Campus service two Sunday nights while he attends the Lamoni reunion from July 28 to August 6. While he is away Elders J. F. Sheehy and C. Ed. Miller will refresh the memories of the Campus congregation with stereopticon pictures of stirring scenes of early Independence and church history. These will be most appropriate when it is recalled that one hundred years ago in July, August, and September, there were troublous times in Independence—the Saints were being driven out by the mobs.

The Independence Young People's Council honored the new class of nurses which entered training at the Sanitarium July 1, with a reception the evening of July 17. Guests of honor in addition to the eleven class members were Miss Ruth Briggs, their teacher, President and Mrs. F. M. McDowell and Pastor and Mrs. J. F. Sheehy, and Elder W. Earl Page, director of Religious Education in Independence.

Stone Church

Elder J. E. Vanderwood, the speaker Sunday morning, delivered a helpful discourse founded on the text, words of Jesus: "In your patience possess ye your souls." The Stone Church Choir furnished a pleasing musical background for the sermon.

Ernest G. Haberlein, fifty-five years of age, passed away at his home July 17, from a second paralytic stroke. He had lived in Independence twenty-seven years. Surviving are his wife, Mrs. Della Haberlein, and two daughters, Miss Kathryn and Miss Ruth Haberlein, all of the home; a sister, Mrs. L. A. Wells, of Detroit, Michigan, and two brothers, Fred A., and Leonard C. Haberlein, of Kansas City, Kansas. The funeral was held from the home, May 19, Evangelist U. W. Greene preaching the sermon. Interment was in Mound Grove Cemetery.

The young people's midweek prayer service, July 19, followed the theme of President F. M. McDowell's sermon on the preceding Sunday, "Creative Friendship," and Priest James Moses made the principal address.

Group prayer services are being conducted with success and profit to all. Many of these meetings are being held in the gardens of the Saints. At various places also missionary services are held one night each week.

Walnut Park Church

Seven children were baptized Sunday morning, and a confirmation service was held at the close of the church school, following the class work. Pastor Frank McDonald presided at the service, and the ordinance of confirmation was administered by eight elders, members of the local priesthood. The new members are Crawford Alman Gard, Lavona May Gard, Ruth Alice Tignor, Alene Catherine Lucas, Paul Richard Hamm, Dorothy May Hamm, and Paul Eugene Roberts.

Elder J. W. Davis was the speaker at the eleven o'clock hour Sunday. Special music was by the Boys' Choir, sponsored by Glen Fairbanks and directed by Miss Marcine Smith. Three special numbers composed the welcome contribution of this group of boys to the morning service. President Floyd M. McDowell was the speaker Sunday evening.

During the past week Brother and Sister F. R. Schafer of the Walnut Park congregation observed their fortieth wedding anniversary. Formal observance of the occasion was at the home of their son-in-law and daughter, Brother and Sister Carroll Olson.

On Sunday, July 16, the young people's class taught by Brother Athey sponsored a missionary trip to Grandview, and presented a short play, written especially for the occasion, as a part of the evening service. This play was presented for the benefit of the home folk at the program period following the class work of the church school, the morning of the same day.

Enoch Hill Church

The kindergarten department, under the supervision of Sisters John Jones, John Johnson, and Millard Pace, presented a fifteen-minute program to the senior department of the church school July 23. Sister Jones introduced five little children who have a perfect attendance record for the entire year. These were Dorothy and Verne Jenkins, Dorothy Hayes, Joan and Elsie Lee Rogers.

Friday morning, July 21, the little folks enjoyed a picnic on the church lawn. There were about thirty little tots present, six years of age and younger. Sister Charles Warren, former superintendent of the children's department attended.

Sister Dick Bullard told a Bible story at the junior service, and Brother Lawrence Martin, a young member of the priesthood, gave an interesting sermonet. Brother C. E. Beal told the story of Jared and his brother, and this was followed by a piano solo by Miss Hortense Jones. The pianist for the junior church school is Jewel Allen, and the chorister is Dorothy Winegar.

Elder H. A. Koehler was the speaker at the eleven o'clock service, Sunday morning. Pearl Chrestensen sang as a solo, "Life's Weaving."

Spring Branch Church

Many of the young people of the branch attended the Wednesday evening prayer service.

Emmet Bowen, of Long Beach, California, who is visiting at the home of his uncle, C. W. Bowen, was taken ill Tuesday, but is now much better.

The Sunday morning prayer service was in charge of Robert Fish. At the eleven o'clock service President Floyd M. McDowell was the speaker. Francis Tankard and Fern Belk sang "I Shall Meet Him Face to Face."

East Independence Church

Recent speakers for the morning hour were Elder J. E. Vanderwood and Patriarch Ammon White.

Each Friday evening a large crowd gathers on the volley ball court for recreation. Cecil Meador is in charge of the recreational activities of the church.

The Saints are successfully using the themes suggested by the pastor in the Wednesday evening prayer service.

Very tragic was the death of Richard

www.LatterDayTruth.org

A. Smith, nineteen-year-old son of Mr. and Mrs. Robert E. Smith, of East Independence. He was drowned in Lake Lotawana Saturday, July 15. He was a violinist in a junior orchestra conducted by Leon Snow, and with other members of the orchestra was spending the day picnicking at the lake. Richard was assistant superintendent of the Sunday school at East Independence, and graduated from William Chrisman High school in 1932 with honors. The funeral was held from East Independence church, Elder J. J. Teeter was in charge of the service, and President Elbert A. Smith preached the sermon. Interment was in Mound Grove Cemetery.

J. F. Curtis and L. O. Wildermuth in Eastern Montana

Nine Baptized in One Week

Excellent meetings were enjoyed at the Fairview reunion of Eastern Montana District, July 7 to 9, and four candidates were baptized. One of these was a woman who has been taking the Herald and investigating the gospel for some time. The others were young people.

Apostle J. F. Curtis and Elder L. O. Wildermuth held several meetings at and near Andes, Montana, where five entered the waters of baptism. Among these candidates were a father, a son, and a daughter who completed the family circle, and the other two were young people.

In all there were nine baptisms in Eastern Montana in a single week.

Then Brothers Curtis and Wildermuth went to Hinsdale and held services in the Methodist church with good interest and attention. All-day meeting and a picnic dinner were enjoyed on Sunday at the home of Sister Addie Richter on the banks of Milk River. Everyone had a fine time, and attendance was good.

Following this day Apostle Curtis departed for Canadian points and to attend other reunions.

Thune, Nebraska

All-day Meetings Are Enjoyed

The Saints at Thune enjoyed a wonderful all-day meeting, July 2. Sixty-one people were present and only twenty-two of this number were members of the local group.

An all-day meeting was held at a little branch about eight miles south of Thune July 9, and many of the members here attended.

Several weeks ago Sister McCarter was kicked by a horse and two ribs were broken. She is recovering nicely. Her small daughter, Darlene, was thrown from a horse and her shoulder broken. That is healed now, but she has twice since mashed a hand. Everyone hopes this may be her last misfortune.

Those who were permitted to attend the Youth Conference are very enthusiastic.

Far West Stake

Stewartsville Branch

Attendance at the communion service, June 4, was much impaired, as a large delegation was in attendance at the young people's stake convention at Guilford on that date. In the afternoon four children were baptized by Brother R. M. Jeffries. Three of them were his grandchildren.

A large number of young people attended the Youth Conference in Lamoni a part of the time. Those attending all through the conference were Daisy Black and Glenn Crossan.

All churches in Stewartsville were closed recently for two weeks on account of an unusual epidemic of measles and whooping cough.

On Sunday night, July 2, the Saints' church had charge of the first of a series of ten union services held in the city park each Sunday night. Brother A. E. McCord gave one of his forceful and inspiring sermons on the second great commandment, "Love Your Neighbor as Yourself." The Young sisters added much to the service by rendering the duet, "Whispering Hope."

July 9, at the church school period, Sister Madge Head, who had just returned after spending several days in Chicago at the Century of Progress, gave an interesting review of the Hall of Religion and expressed regret that our church is not represented there. The branch was glad to hear an aged brother, B. J. Dice, in one of his helpful sermons at ten forty-five.

F. L. Hinderks, of the stake presidency, was the speaker Sunday morning, July 16, urging the Saints to a more consecrated and active service. There was also a confirmation service at this time with Brothers Hinderks, Z. J. Lewis and R. M. Jeffries officiating.

L. G. Ehlers, director of church school, gave an interesting talk of his and Mrs. Ehlers' recent visit to the World's Fair.

The branch was handicapped during the sacrifice period by not being able to hold meetings, but quite an attractive offering was collected with encouraging contributions from the young people.

The young men and women hope to have their tennis and volley ball equipment complete by their next semi-monthly meeting.

In the recent broadcast contest sponsored by Graceland College over K. M. B. C., of Kansas City, Glenn Crossan was awarded first prize for writing the best eight summaries of the eleven addresses given. The prize is fifty dollars credit on his first year's tuition at Graceland. Glenn also received honorable mention for writing the summary of the first lecture given by President G. N. Briggs. All congratuate Glenn and wish him continued success when he enters Graceland.

Stewartsville is looking forward with happy expectation to the coming reunion which will be held August 17 to 27.

Haverhill, Massachusetts

Small Number Carrying On Faithfully

The depleted number of Saints at Haverhill Branch is often cause for discouragement to the faithful few still remaining. However, services are held regularly Sunday morning and Wednesday night in the little hall which has been the church home for so many years.

The communion service held the first Sunday in June was outstanding. Often the Saints have been made to rejoice in the thought that where two or three are gathered in His name there the Lord will be.

The church school, under the supervision of Hamlen Jordan and Margaret Randall, is endeavoring to follow the outline of service presented in the Herald.

The members of the branch, Sister Jordan and Margaret Randall are to be guests at Camp Gilbert, Amherst, Massachusetts, the State camp of the H. H. Club workers. Sister Jordan has been a local worker for years and has earned the name of "Aunt Susie" to the camp by her sympathetic work among the girls.

Some time ago Elder E. F. Robertson spent a few days with the Saints and much good was accomplished through his uplifting sermons and genial companionship.

Tawas City, Michigan

Faithful Workers Continue Visiting

During the past few months this branch has been visited by several of the faithful leaders of Central Michigan District. On June 18, Elder Otto Bartlett, Brothers Harry Runchle, and William Ash were with the Saints during the morning service, and each gave an inspiring talk. Elder Hubert Case has visited here several times, and his encouraging words are always willingly received by the Saints.

An all-day service was held June 25. Many members from neighboring branches attended.

Apostle and Sister D. T. Williams, of Detroit, were with the Saints of this branch the night of June 29. It was the first opportunity that many of the members, have had to meet Sister Williams.

On July 2, Brother Ery Irvin, of Whittemore, delivered his first sermon in the church at Tawas City. He is a young man, and has been in the church work only a short time.

www.LatterDayTruth.org

Plano, Illinois

Sunday night, July 9, Elder R. E. Davey, of Aurora, Illinois, gave a good sermon.

Brother Walter Sanderson is able once more to attend church services. He has been severely afflicted since last September when he suffered a bad burn. While still in the hospital, his mother, who lived at his home, died, also his eldest daughter, Sister Mabel Reedy, a young mother passed away.

Sister Edith Comly, recently was buried, after suffering all winter. Her oldest son was buried about five weeks before his mother. Brother "Mac" Wright, of Sandwich, also was buried here recently, and his brother-in-law, Joseph Worby, was buried a short time ago.

Easter, Mother's Day, and Children's Day were observed here with good programs.

Sister Irene Johnson and Brother Richard Wildermuth attended the Youth Conference at Lamoni.

Junior church is held twice a month.

Sister Ilah Blakely was one of the five from here who sang at the World's Fair in a chorus of five thousand.

Fremont, Nebraska

Visiting Ministers Preach Here

In April, Fremont Saints were privileged to have with them the district officers and several other visitors from Omaha. Brother Merl Grover, of Omaha, preached at the eleven o'clock service. In the afternoon Bishop W. T. Wellman conducted a round-table discussion. Many questions of interest were taken up.

Sunday, June 25, Elder E. Y. Hunker began a series of cottage meetings. His theme for these meetings was "The Way to the Kingdom."

Other speakers have been Elders Earl Oehring, of Lyons; H. A. Merchant, of Omaha; Ray Whiting, and P. T. Anderson, of Council Bluffs, and Arthur Rasmussen, of Columbus.

All departments are active and are endeavoring to carry on their work in accordance with the plan of the general officers of the church. They find the Herald a great help in planning and carrying out the work.

Outstanding Reunion for North Dakota

Large Number Attend

The North Dakota Reunion, held June 25 to July 2, was a great success. The attendance was the largest in several years, and the devotion of the young people was especially noticeable.

Apostle J. F. Curtis and Missionary P. T. Anderson were present throughout the eight days. Elder L. O. Wildermuth, from Montana, attended the latter part of the reunion and preached a few times.

On Sunday, July 2, eight were baptized, three babies blessed and a number asked for administration. Laurel V. McElwain and Ralph T. Darling were ordained to the office of elder. On Monday morning after reunion had closed, another was baptized.

Dunn Center had the biggest percentage in attendance of any branch in the district.

Apostle J. F. Curtis went from this reunion to attend Eastern Montana Reunion at Fairview. Missionary P. T. Anderson went to Williston, North Dakota, and other western points.

Local ministers in attendance were: Fargo, Harry E. Ratcliffe, pastor, and Doctor Charles Young; Dunn Center, Lester Anderson, pastor, and G. C. Adams; Minot, F. G. Spaulding, pastor, C. A. Smith, Warren K. McElwain, Laurel V. McElwain, and James O'Brien.

Leora Emily Davis, daughter of Omar and Elleana Davis, born January 15, 1925, at Yates Center, Kansas, was baptized and confirmed in Cassville, Missouri, July 2, 1933, by Elder Howard J. Carpenter.

Hood River, Oregon Mission

Missionary Harold I. Velt Spends Two Weeks With Saints

Saints of the Hood River Mission have just closed a two-week series of meetings by Elder Harold I. Velt.

One thousand handbills were put out under the direction of Brother Velt by girls of the intermediate class of the church school assisted by other members of the church. The two local papers were liberal in publishing news of the Saints' services, and also of the lectures on "Ancient America," which Brother Velt expects to return soon to present the people of Hood River.

The success of the meetings was pronounced although there were no baptisms. The first evening service was attended by only one nonmember, but the last evening there were twenty-three present.

The second Sunday Brother Velt was here, he called on the well-known evangelist, Billy Sunday, who is at present resting at his home in the upper part of Hood River Valley. Brother Velt had a

NOW ONLY $1 [Value $3.50]

EVERLAST PEN-PENCIL

THIS IS 2/3 SIZE OF JUMBO

GUARANTEED FOR LIFE!

Think of it—a fine fountain pen at one end and a mechanical pencil with extra leads and eraser at the other. The pen alone is worth several dollars, and with the pencil thrown in you get the biggest value ever offered in this field.

The Everlast Combination is of such good workmanship and material that we GUARANTEE IT FOR LIFE. Made of beautiful DuPont Pyrolin, it has a Durium GOLD NIB that writes exceptionally well and stands up under most severe usage.

A Jumbo Size in black for men and boys and a Dainty Size in black and exquisite mottled colors for women and girls.

Attach $1.00 Bill to Coupon and Mail

LIFETIME PEN & PENCIL CO.
Care of Herald Publishing House
Independence, Mo.

Inclosed find $1.00 for which please send me prepaid one Everlast Pen-Pencil with lifetime guarantee.

Print Name .....

Address .....

City & State .....

Size ☐ Jumbo ☐ Medium

Note: If you want your name imprinted in gold add 25 cents.

www.LatterDayTruth.org

pleasant chat with both Mr. and Mrs. Sunday.

On the last Sunday of the services, July 2, the sacrament service was attended by thirty-one. Two friends who had been attending, bore testimony; also one woman had her little six-months-old baby blessed. Sister Gladys Dixon's baby was also blessed.

Brother Velt left Hood River regretting that he could not remain longer.

Nowata, Oklahoma

Elder Lee Quick Leaves Spring River District

During the week of June 11, Elder Amos T. Higdon, district president, was here visiting the Saints, and on Sunday morning, June 18, he preached. At the noon hour a basket dinner was enjoyed by Saints and friends of several different branches of the district.

At two-thirty a program was given by the district music director, A. P. Krooper. Elder Lee Quick commenced a two weeks' series of meetings at eight o'clock that evening. Five were baptized as a result of the meeting held by the visiting ministers.

Apostle Roy S. Budd held one preaching service.

The Saints are sorry to lose Brother Quick from Spring River District. He was the first to bring the gospel to this territory. They wish him luck in his new field of endeavor.

Everyone is looking forward to the district conference to convene here in November. The young people are planning to present a play the first night of the conference.

Central Michigan District

Young People Hold Second Meeting

A second meeting of the Central Michigan young people was held June 22, at Beaverton. Both young and old were invited to attend this get-together, and approximately 275 were there, representing Houghton Lake, Bay City, Farwell, Coleman, Saginaw, Bentley, Beaverton, Gladwin, Clare, Alma, and Midland. An enjoyable program was given by the various branches, each branch furnishing at least one number, songs recitations, short plays, and choir numbers.

During the short business meeting which intervened, with Elder Hubert Case in charge, the young people were invited to hold their next get-together at Saginaw and also at Bentley. The matter was finally voted to be left in the hands of those in charge consisting of William Ash, the district superintendent of Religious Education, and the young people's director in each branch. It has since been decided that the next meeting will be held at Bentley sometime during the first week in September.

At the close of the program and business meeting, the entire group of 275 people was hospitably served with homemade ice cream and cake, during which time Harry Runkle, of Midland, directed many pep songs.

The meeting at Beaverton was in charge of Ralph Rosevear and John Churneski.

Muskegon, Michigan

Children's Day Observed July 2

Nine candidates have been baptized at Muskegon during the last two weeks. July 2, was observed as Children's Day. The day was begun with a priesthood meeting at nine o'clock. An ordination and sacrament service followed at ten and lasted until twelve-thirty. Floyd Deal was ordained a priest, and William White a deacon. A great degree of God's Spirit prevailed throughout the meeting.

A picnic lunch was served at noon and at three o'clock, eight candidates were baptized. At seven o'clock the new members were confirmed and a baby was blessed. At seven-thirty the Children's Day program was given, Miss Lula Holiday in charge.

There were present Saints and visitors from Buffalo, New York; Charleston, West Virginia; Detroit, Michigan, and Orin, Michigan.

June 19, Apostle D. T. Williams met with the Saints and gave an inspiring talk.

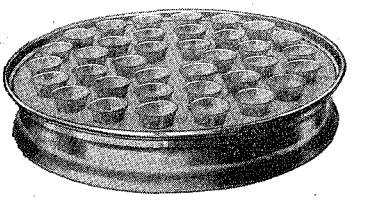
The Blue Bird band, under the direction of Lula Holliday, gave a mother's and daughter's banquet at the church Thursday evening, June 8, and everyone enjoyed the event.

The Saints are sorry to hear that Brother and Sister Whitehead are planning to leave Muskegon Branch. They will be greatly missed.

Five children ranging from the ages of ten to fifteen were baptized Sunday, July 9, at Bracken, Saskatchewan, Canada.

Communion Service

"The Kind That Adds Power to Your Service"



"IDEAL" Noncollecting Tray 11¾" Diameter. Tray and 36 Glasses *$6.50.

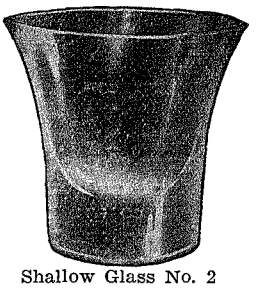
Highly polished Aluminum Tray with 36 Plain Glasses *$6.50
Highly polished Aluminum Tray with 44 Plain Glasses ..... * 7.75

COMMUNION CUPS

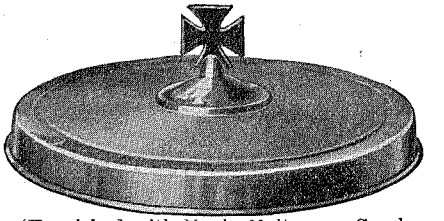
(Best quality lead blown glass)

Heavy Bottom, No. 2 Shallow—1¼ in. high
No. 3—1½ in. high

Plain Glass, per doz. *$1.00
Gold Band, per doz. ..... * 1.35
Aluminum Cups, doz. ..... * 1.20
Waxed Paper Cups, per 100 ..... * .60



Shallow Glass No. 2



(Furnished with Knob, Maltese or Greek Cross)

COVERS

COVER—Aluminum ..... *$ 2.40
BASE—Aluminum ..... * 2.40
Quad. Silver Cover ..... * 11.50
Quad. Silver Base ..... * 11.50

HERALD PUBLISHING HOUSE
"Your Own Supply House"
Ward A. Hougas, Mgr. Independence, Mo.

www.LatterDayTruth.org

The Bulletin Board

Appointment of Bishop's Agent

Notice is hereby given of the appointment of Franklin Steiner as bishop's agent of Mobile District, to succeed Henry B. Scarcliff.

We wish to take this opportunity of expressing our appreciation of the services rendered by Brother Scarcliff in this connection, and at the same time to commend to the Saints of Mobile District, Franklin Steiner, who has already served the church in many capacities very efficiently, and who comes to us well recommended for this phase of the church work.

Solicitors will please send all reports, beginning with the month of August to Brother Franklin Steiner, whose address is Route 2, Box 193, Mobile, Alabama.

THE PRESIDING BISHOPRIC,
By G. L. DELAPP.

Approved by
THE FIRST PRESIDENCY.

Appointment of Bishop's Agent

Brother Lester Hershey having resigned as bishop's agent for Central Texas District, notice is hereby given of the appointment of C. M. Mitchell to that office.

We wish to express our appreciation for the service rendered by Brother Hershey in this phase of the work.

Brother Mitchell comes well recommended and we solicit for him the cooperation and support of the Saints in the Central Texas District.

Solicitors are requested to send their reports beginning with the month of July to C. M. Mitchell, Route 4, Bryan, Texas.

THE PRESIDING BISHOPRIC,
By G. L. DELAPP.

Approved by
THE FIRST PRESIDENCY.

Accredited Institute

A Kirtland district accredited institute will be held at Barberton, Ohio, July 29 and 30. Four lectures will be given centering around the theme, "Teaching the Child." To secure credit it will be necessary to attend all four lectures, the first of which will commence Saturday evening at seven forty-five. Special preaching on Sunday.—James E. Bishop, district president; William F. Webbe, superintendent of church schools.

Reunion Notice

Western Montana reunion will be held at Race Track, August 18 to 27. The meetings will be held in a large pavilion which has been divided into a kitchen and a room for holding services. Meals will be served on the grounds. A good camping site is available to everyone. Those wishing to rent tents will please write for further information to John Eliason, Race Track, Montana.—Alta Thorburn.

Place of Conference Changed

By order of the district president, the semiannual conference of Northeastern Kansas district held at Fanning, July 29 and 30, instead of at Atchison as previously announced.—Mrs. H. C. Pitsenberger, district secretary.

Our Departed Ones

PARKS.—Hiram Parks was born December 23, 1853, near Bellville, Hastings County, Ontario. He was married to Sarah Foster in October, 1877. To this union were born two sons and four daughters. Those who survive the parents are Harry Parks, of Shellbrook, Saskatchewan; Mrs. James Vennard and Mrs. Sidney Smith, of Port Elgin, and Mrs. Oswald Schrank, of Shellbrook. His first wife preceded him in death in 1926. In 1929 he was united in marriage to Mrs. Mary Ann Scott. He was baptized into the church in 1908, and died June 10, 1933, at his home near Port Elgin, Ontario. The funeral service was in charge of D. B. Perkins, sermon by John Shields. Interment in Sanctuary Park Cemetery.

MORGAN.—Alice Irene, daughter of John H. and Adella Mehaffey, was born near Lacona, Iowa, May 27, 1880, and departed this life May 6, 1933. She was united in marriage to Levi O. Morgan, March 2, 1904, and to this union was born one daughter, Doris Loree. In the spring of 1906, she united with the Reorganized Church of Latter Day Saints. She leaves to mourn their loss, her husband, daughter, five sisters, and four brothers. The sisters are Mrs. E. O. Shaver, Indianola; Mrs. Fern Wilkinson, Mendota, California; Mrs. Anna Harp, Oakland, California; Mrs. Lillian Lester, Long Beach, California; the brothers, Charles and William, of Lamoore, California; Glen, of Barnard, Missouri, and Samuel, of Long Beach, California. Funeral services were held May 8, at the Overton Funeral Home. Burial was made at the Indianola Cemetery.

JOHNSON.—Elizabeth Newport was born December 31, 1858, near Des Moines, Iowa, and departed from this life July 3, 1933. In 1876, she was married to Dave Dalton. To this union was born one child, Elmer. In 1878, Dave Dalton died, and in 1890, she was married to John Johnson. To this union were born two children, Maude and Myrtle. Elmer and Myrtle preceded her in death. She leaves to mourn her passing, her husband and one daughter, Mrs. Maude Hall; seven grandsons, and three granddaughters; three sisters, Lydia Wisley, of Cassville; Clara Gregory, of Kansas City, and Mrs. W. W. Mendell, of

LETTERHEADS AND ENVELOPES

20-lb. Hammermill Bond Printed to Your Order. Neatly boxed. Postpaid. Satisfaction Guaranteed

Price per	100	250	500	1,000
Letterheads 8½ x 11	$1.00	$1.75	$2.50	$4.00
Envelopes 3⅝ x 6½	1.00	1.75	2.50	4.00
Letterheads and Env.	1.50	2.50	4.00	7.00

J. R. S. Co., Dept. S. Send for Samples. Columbus, Ohio

For Rent Reasonable

Room in modern Latter Day Saint home, near Century of Progress. Small deposit required with reservation. References exchanged.

MRS. S. H. BATTON,
7349 South Michigan Avenue,
Chicago, Illinois.

950 Kilo. KMBC 315.6 Meters

Church Programs Over KMBC

Devotional service at 6.30 each weekday morning. Drexel Mollison, organist; John F. Sheehy, speaker.

Sunday, 7.30 a. m., Bible Study, by U. W. Greene.

Sunday, 11.00 a. m., music by Stone Church Choir.

Sunday, 5.00 p. m., Vesper Service, U. W. Greene, speaker.

Sunday, 10.00 p. m., Doctrine Hour, A. B. Phillips, speaker.

If It's a Matter of Price

Here's a fine range of prices in attractive homes. Why rent when these are available at such low prices? Real estate is going up. Take advantage of these depression prices.

5 Rooms—modern except heat—west end of Independence $1,250
8 Rooms—modern—large lot—north section of Independence 2,750
5 Rooms—modern—five blocks north of square 2,500
8 Rooms—modern—three blocks west of square 3,000

The above homes are not mortgaged. Clear title can be given. Here are two excellent opportunities for owners of church bonds or church notes to exchange same for homes in Independence.

CENTRAL DEVELOPMENT ASSOCIATION
221 West Lexington Street
Independence, Mo.

or

THE PRESIDING BISHOPRIC
The Auditorium
Independence, Mo.

www.LatterDayTruth.org

Chicago; two brothers, Dave Mills, and Spencer Mills. She was united with the church in 1894. Funeral sermon was by Elder Howard J. Carpenter, of Cassville, Missouri.

EATON.—Emery F. Eaton, son of Thomas H. and Charity Eaton, was born at Stonington, Maine, April 16, 1872, and died at his home near the same village July 7, 1933. He was married July 3, 1897, to Nora A. Carter, who with their two daughters, Mrs. Geneva Tracy and Mrs. Lela Rice, and grandchildren, survive him. Brother Eaton was baptized May 8, 1898. Besides his widow and daughters he leaves two brothers, Henry and Calvin, and one sister, Mrs. Cornelia Shepard, all of Stonington. Funeral services were conducted from the home, July 9, sermon by Elder E. F. Robertson.

HASKELL.—Daniel T. Haskell was born at Deer Isle, Maine, February 11, 1858, and died at his home in Stonington, July 7, 1933. He was baptized into the church September 18, 1895. In 1881, he married Catherine E. Eaton. Sister Eaton preceded him in death about five years ago. One son, Theo. A., and one daughter, Mrs. Maud E. Conway survive, and two grandsons. Funeral services were held at the Saints' church in Stonington, Elder E. F. Robertson in charge.

BRUMLEY.—Mary Brumley was born March 7, 1851, at Boonville, Onsley County, Kentucky. She was united in marriage to Asbury Riggins, March 14, 1870, and to this union three children were born, two of them and her husband preceding her in death. Mrs. Riggins moved to Springfield, Missouri, fifty-five years ago, as a young widow and later married Daniel Brumley, a pioneer merchant, who died in New Mexico about fifteen years ago. She united with the Reorganized Church of Jesus Christ of Latter Day Saints, May 28, 1893, at Columbus, Kansas, and was faithful to the gospel to the end. Sister Brumley passed from this life June 21, 1933. She is survived by her daughter, Mrs. W. M. Bishop; eight grandchildren: W. E. Bishop, of Los Angeles; R. L. Bishop, of Independence, Missouri; Mrs. E. L. Kemp, of Oklahoma City; Miss Margaret Bishop, of Saint Louis; Mrs. W. H. McSwain, Raymond, Albert, and Francis Bishop, of Springfield, and ten great-grandchildren. Services were conducted by Elder Henry Sparling, in Klingner Chapel. Burial was in Maple Park Cemetery.

DENNIS.—Hallie J. Dennis was born November 5, 1891, at Pinkhill, Missouri, and passed away at Mapleton, Kansas, July 11. He leaves to mourn his passing his wife and six children. He was baptized March 30, 1913, and was ordained a priest in 1916, and an elder in 1924. He served as pastor of Mapleton Branch for about fourteen years. The funeral was held at the church, Lee Quick in charge, and sermon by W. E. Haden. Interment was in Mapleton Cemetery.

WALTERS.—Richard Thompson Walters was born April 7, 1857, at Kankakee, Illinois. He was married to Elizabeth Thomas April 10, 1879, and one child was born to this union. He was baptized into the church May 26, 1887. He was ordained to the office of priest in 1890, to elder in 1894, and to the office of seventy in 1897. He served as a missionary for twenty-eight years. For the past eleven years he has acted as bishop's agent. He departed from this life July 12, 1933. Leaves to mourn their loss his wife, Elizabeth Walters; one daughter, Mrs. Walter Johannes, of Kansas City; one grandson, Richard, and two sisters, Miss Mollie Walters, of Virgil City, and Mrs. Amanda Gobin, of Pratt, Kansas. Funeral services were conducted at the home by Elder Lee Quick, of Mapleton, Kansas. Burial was in Virgil City Cemetery.

KOEHLER.—Julia Anna Glasner was born August 30, 1848, at Nauvoo, Illinois, and passed from this life July 16, 1933. She was united in marriage to George Koehler in 1868 and to this union were born eleven children, three of whom preceded their mother in death. Those surviving are Mrs. Marguerite Robertson and Mrs. Louise Knoch, both of the home; Mrs. Anna Hunter, of Mount Washington; Mrs. Amelia Good, of Kansas City; Goerge M., of Kansas City; J. August and Charles C., of Independence; H. Arthur, of Kansas City; thirty-eight grandchildren, thirty-three great-grandchildren, and three great-great-grandchildren. Funeral services were conducted at the Stone Church. The sermon was by Elder John F. Sheehy and he was assisted by Evangelist U. W. Greene. The burial was in Mound Grove Cemetery.

Mrs. Nora Johnston, of New Canton, Illinois, writes that they have a growing little branch at New Canton. The Herald hopes soon to hear of their activities.

Reunion Schedule

Please send in changes for this schedule immediately.

DISTRICT	PLACE	TIME
Southern Saskatchewan	Weyburn Plains,	July 19 to 23
Kentucky-Tennessee	Puryear, Tennessee	July 22 to 30
Southern New England	Onset	July 22 to August 6
Nauvoo	Nauvoo	July 23 to 30
Northern Saskatchewan	Saskatoon,	July 27 to 30
Lamoni	Lamoni	July 28 to August 6
Toronto	Lowbanks	July 29 to August 12
Alberta	Edmonton	Aug. 4 to 6
Oklahoma	Canton, Oklahoma	Aug. 4 to 13
Northwestern	Silver Lake	Aug. 4 to 13
Northern and Western Michigan	Park of the Pines	Aug. 4 to 13
Spring River	Columbus, Kansas	Aug. 4 to 13
Eastern and Western Maine	Brooksville	Aug. 12 to 19
Kirtland Combined Reunion	Kirtland	Aug. 10 to 20
Northwestern Iowa	Woodbine, Iowa	Aug. 11 to 20
Far West Stake	Stewartsville	Aug. 17 to 27
Western Montana	Race Track	Aug. 18 to 27
Southeast Illinois	Brush Creek	Aug. 25 to Sept. 3
Idaho		Aug. 16 to 20
West. Oklahoma	Eagle City, Oklahoma	Aug. 5 to 13
Southern California District	Laguna Beach	Aug. 26 to Sept. 3

THE FIRST PRESIDENCY,
By F. M. MCDOWELL.

NUTRIA

Do you know that Nutria are among the highest priced fur animals to be found in commercial fur farming. Read the article in the July issue of Fur Farming & Trapping. The one story is worth a year's subscription. Send a dime for sample copy to

G. T. RICHARDS
Bunceton, Missouri.

CLASSIFIED ADS

Rates 3 cents per word first insertion; 20 per cent discount on subsequent insertions. Minimum 75 cents per insertion.

REGARDING ADVERTISING

While we exercise care in the acceptance of advertisements appearing in these columns, we can not guarantee full satisfaction between buyer and seller and we therefore advise that in every instance a proper investigation be made by all parties concerned.

FARMS, ALL SIZES. Best terms. Call at our office on Highway No. 71, or write Chas. R. Bowman, Butler, Missouri.

HIGH SCHOOL COURSE in two years; meets all requirements for entrance to college, business, and leading professions. Diploma given. Address Education, Herald Publishing House, Independence, Missouri. 26-25-34

WHY BE WITHOUT songbooks when $6.98 buys 100 Songs of the Centennial. July and August only. Herald Publishing House. 27-3t*

ELDERLY LADY WISHES POSITION as housekeeper to family of Saints near a branch of the church, location unimportant. Mary J. Calvert, care Floyd Bradford, Lock No. Four Branch, Charleroi, Pa. 29-3t*

WORLD'S FAIR VISITORS will find a Comfortable Home with Frank B. Almond. Convenient to church and fair grounds. Rates reasonable. Address, 3811 Gladys Avenue., Chicago, Illinois. Phone, Nevada 1124. 30-1t

COMMERCIAL PRINTING to suit at prices that will satisfy. Herald Publishing House, Independence, Missouri. 27-3t*

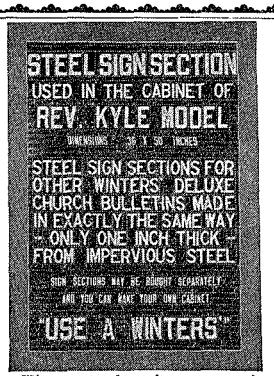
CHICAGO WORLD'S FAIR VISITORS wishing to lodge in L. D. S. homes should write to Mrs. W. G. LaBrant, 4322 Jackson Blvd., Chicago, (telephone Columbus 8470) for full details. First Chicago branch address is 4416 Gladys Ave. All welcome. H. T. McCaig, Pastor. 28-tf

LOOK FORWARD FOR 1933!

Every wayfarer you can attract within your doors—every new member you can add to the congregation means added strength for both him and you. A Winters' Bulletin at a cost of $25 to $35 has proved its ability. In the past two years, more than 3,000 churches bought Winters' Interchangeable Steel Sign Panel and complete lithographed letter and numeral equipment separately. Ask about our co-operative plan.

H. E. Winters Specialty Co.
Dept. HPC, 310 East 4th Street, Davenport, Iowa.

You can have a complete, Illuminated Winters' DeLuxe Bulletin for only $59.00. Send for our free catalog showing various styles and prices.



The steel sign panel—heart of your bulletin.

www.LatterDayTruth.org

Do They Pull??

Read This:

Here's Dollars for You if You'll Take Them.

"I am very proud of the fact that I located Walter D. Scott, of Aruba, Dutch West Indies, which is only 23 miles from Venezuela, South America. He saw my ad in the Herald, as he and family are L. D. S. people. We sold him a fine 65 acres just 2½ miles west of Butler, on gravel highway No. 52, a farm that we think is choice."
(Signed) Chas. R. Bowman, Butler, Missouri.

This sale resulted from the first ad which Mr. Bowman ran in the Saints' Herald. Now he advertises in each issue. So do many others.

Why?

Because They Get Results

Here's a few things that our ads have been doing:

Selling Farms	Selling Bonds
Selling Houses	Buying Equipment
Finding Friends	Finding Locations
Getting Jobs	Selling Used Machinery
Finding Boarders	Recovering Lost Addresses

Etc., Etc., Etc.

Herald Want Ads Will Buy, Sell or Trade most anything you have or want. The cost is so small (only 3 cents per word with substantial discounts on time contracts). Why not use them to a greater advantage more frequently.

HERALD PUBLISHING HOUSE

"Your Church Clearing House"

WARD A. HOUGAS, Manager INDEPENDENCE, MISSOURI

www.LatterDayTruth.org

The SAINTS' HERALD

J. F. CURTIS of the Quorum of Twelve

The Mission of Christ

By J. F. Curtis

The Harvest Festival of 1933

By C. C. Koehler

The Family Worship Hour

By Harley A. Morris

Volume 80 August 1, 1933 Number 31

www.LatterDayTruth.org

THE SAINTS' HERALD

August 1, 1933

Volume 80 Number 31

FREDERICK M. SMITH, Editor in Chief.
ELBERT A. SMITH, Associate Editor.
FLOYD M. McDOWELL, Associate Editor
LEONARD J. LEA, Managing Editor.
LETA B. MORIARTY, Assistant Editor.
WARD A. HOUGAS, Business Manager.

Entered as second-class matter at the post office at Independence, Missouri, under Act of March 3, 1879. Issued weekly at Independence, Missouri. Price $2 a year in advance for the U. S. A., its territories and possessions, and Canada; foreign, $3 a year. Accepted for mailing at the special rate of postage provided for in section 1103, Act of October 3, 1917; authorized July 21, 1921.

Published for the Reorganized Church of Jesus Christ of Latter Day Saints.

HERALD PUBLISHING HOUSE
INDEPENDENCE, MISSOURI

CONTENTS

EDITORIAL:
- The Annihilation of Minorities 963
- The Church and the Problem of Leisure 963
- A New Monument at Nauvoo 964
- Old Subscribers 964
- Across the Desk of the Editor in Chief 965

HELPS FOR THE PASTOR:
- Suggested Midweek Prayer Service Programs, by John F. Sheehy 966

NEWS BRIEFS 967

YOUTH'S FORUM:
- Youth in Action 968
- The Story of Etta Kett 968

ARTICLES:
- Munitions Racketeers Equip Rival Armies Impartially 966
- The Harvest Festival of 1933, by C. C. Koehler 969
- The Family Worship Hour, by Harley A. Morris 970
- The Mission of Christ, by J. F. Curtis 971
- The Responsibility of the Home in Religious Education, by Hazel L. Minkler 972
- Treasures, by Geraldine Wyatt 976
- Now at Eve, a Poem 976
- The Seventh Day Adventists, by M. H. Cook 977
- Weekly Health Letter, by A. W. Teel, M. D. 979
- The Open Conspiracy 979
- Discipleship, by Blair Jensen 980
- Only a Dog, by Edna Stobaugh 981
- Fingerprinting Beggars 981
- Prayer and Testimony 982
- Question Time, by A. B. Phillips 984

NEWS OF CHURCH AND HOME 985

THE BULLETIN BOARD 989

The Pigeonhole

Parents and Children

"Isn't it odd how funny we are?" ruminated the Pigeon. "So often we cause the ones for whom we care the most the greatest anxiety and anguish. I know from former experience that I risk my neck when I say I believe that truth applies to parents and children. It works both ways; children cause their parents great and almost unlimited anxiety, but parents also cause their children worry, embarrassment, anguish. You," and he paused in his measured strutting to regard me seriously, "like to quote Scripture, what does it have to say about that?"

"About parents and children?" I ventured.

"Certainly, that's what we're talking about, isn't it?"

"I beg your pardon but—" then I picked up my Bible. "Well, over in Exodus," I continued, "one of the Ten Commandments reads: 'Honor thy father and thy mother: that thy days may be long upon the land which the Lord thy God giveth thee.'"

"Very good and true," commented my hearer, "but go on—what do the parents have to do?"

I hesitated.

"There's something in the Bible about the parents and what they are to do to cause their children to honor them," he positively declared. "Once I heard a sermon preached on it."

"Oh—"

"Exactly."

"Paul wrote to the Ephesians: 'Children, obey your parents in the Lord: for this is right. Honor thy father and mother; which is the first commandment with promise; that it may be well with thee, and thou mayest live long on the earth. And, ye fathers, provoke not your children to wrath: but bring them up in the nurture and admonition of the Lord.'"

For a moment the Pigeon stood quite still. "Do you believe that?" he demanded.

"Of course."

"I think Paul was a wise and inspired man, too, but I'll bet some of those Ephesians thought he didn't know what he was talking about since he was only a bachelor and didn't have any children. Anyway, I still believe that often we cause the ones for whom we care the most the greatest anxiety and anguish."

Wanted—News Clippings About Joseph Smith

We have received copies of a newspaper story containing erroneous statements about Joseph Smith, that has been circulated, apparently, by a syndicate. We take this opportunity to thank those who have sent clippings, and to request others to send us copies of the story from papers wherever it appears. Be sure to send us the headline containing the name and date of the paper with the clipping. We wish to learn, as far as possible, how widely this story has been distributed.

THE EDITORS.

Herald Publishing House, Independence, Mo.

www.LatterDayTruth.org

Editorial

The Annihilation of Minorities

Recent events in Germany tend to add to the alarm that is felt throughout the world over grave conditions, not only there but elsewhere. Hitler, who a few short months ago was derided as a jingoist, a demagogue, and a shallow upstart in command of a mob, has now shown the world that he can muster sufficient strength in Germany to weld the people into a unit of power for his purposes, and to disorganize all opposition. In this case his majority is not satisfied with a victory—it demands sole possession and absolute unhampered power. Hitler is annihilating the minority parties in Germany.

Parallels have existed longer elsewhere. In Russia, Stalin came into a situation in which all opposing minorities had been destroyed, and he took care to remove all who might lead new minorities. In Italy there is only one man—so to speak—only one man who dares to speak his mind—Mussolini; unless another might be named who is a citizen of another state—the Pope.

Liberty is in disgrace. Individualism is castigated as obstructionism. The decree has gone forth from the world's masters that protesting minorities must be silenced or exterminated. There is no room left for a dissenting opinion. Independence has been found too costly a luxury for the modern world state.

Like the absolute monarchy, the democratic form of government is in danger of losing its sanction from the people as its right to rule, because of its inefficiency, extravagance, and corruption.

The new governments of the dictators are demanding the same powers that were exercised by all forms of tyranny from the most ancient times: the power to act without responsibility to anybody save themselves, the right to dictate death arbitrarily (despite the pretenses of trials), the control of conscience, and the suppression of free speech. These forms of power and interference extend over the schools, the press, the churches, and all forms of business.

Even in our own country we are submitting to a dictatorship in a milder form, which we may regard as one of a benevolent character. It is proving that flexibility may be imparted to what has hitherto been regarded as a rigid system of government. Fortunately, many think, it has succeeded in removing obstructing minorities from the path of national progress.

Yet minorities should not be annihilated. They are a wholesome corrective. The world's progress depends upon their existence and activity. They correct abuses, and furnish the salt of new ideas with which intellectual leadership is stimulated.

In religion, too, we must safeguard the rights of minorities. Without them the Reformation and the Restoration would have been impossible. We are a minority. Other religious groups in our country, too, are minorities. We cannot see the tendency abroad in the world for the suppression of minorities without regarding it as a threat against that liberty upon which all progress depends.

L. L.

The Church and the Problem of Leisure

A Gleaning From the Youth Conference

How the local church may endeavor to solve the problem of the wise use of leisure time on the part of its members.

1. The local church may plan and execute an educational endeavor calculated to develop in its members both the disposition and the ability to choose leisure-time activities wisely. The home, church school, and pulpit may cooperate in the development of such interests and tastes, such loyalty to God and Christ, such loyalty to right, truth and decency as will eventuate in the choice of the best each day. This is the only permanent solution to the leisure-time problem.

2. The local church may cooperate with other recreational agencies in the community. Church members are citizens and should encourage community efforts toward wholesome recreation, such as parks, playgrounds, libraries, art institutes, etc.

3. The local church may undertake a survey of the opportunities available for wholesome recreation and leisure-time activities within the community. Such information when collected should be made available for all as an affirmative program to aid in the choice of wholesome activities.

4. The local church may make an analysis of its church members, giving careful consideration to age groups, sex groups, the interest and needs of the members, time and equipment, and leadership available, etc., to determine most suitable program.

5. The local church could make an analysis of the interests and hobbies of the various members of the church. Such hobbies as handcraft, gardening, landscaping, etc., may well be encouraged. Groups may be formed having such common interests for pooling their experiences and carrying out projects in the interest of the church program.

www.LatterDayTruth.org

6. The local church should build up a balanced program of recreational activities, including drama, music, group games, social gatherings, sports, literary activities, and contests, all such being subject to the standards for church recreation elsewhere set up.

7. The local church may cooperate with educational agencies in the community and with the general church in a leadership training program to make sure that in all of these activities a high type of intellectual and spiritual leadership will be furnished.

8. The local church may, where the need is apparent, establish a well-organized program for adolescent boys and girls. Here such materials as have been furnished for Orioles, Girl Scouts and the Standard Church Troop of Boy Scouts will be especially helpful. F. M. McD.

A New Monument at Nauvoo

Nauvoo, already rich in historic association, has added another to the monuments which commemorate so many events in the infancy of the Latter Day Saint religion. On July 26, a marker was unveiled there, which has been erected by the Women's Relief Society, of the Latter Day Saint Church of Utah, on the site of the founding of the first women's organization of the church, The Female Relief Society, which was organized by Joseph Smith, with his wife, Emma, as the first president. The monument is also in her honor.

On the west end of the old Homestead property, which is owned by the Reorganized Church, are what remain of the foundations of a small grocery store, formerly operated by Joseph Smith. It was in this store that the Relief Society was founded, twelve years after the organization of the church, in order that the women might participate in an organized way in the work of relief and social service, and that they might be prepared by study and by association for such service. Beside this ruined basement the Church of Utah, with the permission of the Reorganized Church, has erected the new marker.

The monument consists of a beautiful slab of creamy colored quartzite, planked with seats on either side, and with a sun dial in front. In its simple setting of low evergreen, and against its background of smooth green lawn and majestic elms, with the grand sweep of the Mississippi behind it, the stone is a fitting tribute to the woman who headed this relief work, as she performed the other duties which her peculiar position demanded of her, with zeal and courage and the power born of a consecrated spirit.

Owing to the part played by the Reorganized Church in the placing of the marker, President Frederick M. Smith was present, and gave an address at the ceremony of unveiling. Fourteen descendants of the Prophet Joseph Smith and his wife, Emma, were also present at the exercises, as were other members of the Reorganization, from Independence, Lamoni, Lincoln and other places, as well as members of the local branch of the Reorganization. This is significant in that officials of the Reorganized Church and of the Utah Church participated in the same meeting, for the first time since the churches were separated after the death of the Martyr, over matters of doctrine and succession and over the introduction of polygamy by Brigham Young into the tenets of the group which followed him to Salt Lake City.

In late years many changes have taken place in the church properties at Nauvoo. The restoration of the Homestead, the reopening of the Nauvoo House, and particularly the location of the graves of the martyrs and Emma Smith and their reinterment in a suitable manner, are among the most notable. The change in the shore line owing to the building of the power dam at Keokuk and the gradual clearing and landscaping of the old property have also much improved this place of pilgrimage which holds such historic meaning to Latter Day Saints. Visitors to Nauvoo in the future will be happy to see this new monument also, and to pause in seeing it to offer tribute to the memory of Emma Smith and the courageous women who, in founding the Relief Society, took their places officially in the work of the church. A. M. E.

Old Subscribers

The request in last week's issue of the Herald for the names of old subscribers brought a response from C. E. Priest, of Independence, Missouri, who has subscribed for the Herald constantly for thirty-three years. He began in Michigan, at just about the turn of the century.

Mrs. S. C. Thomas, of Detroit, Michigan, has a remarkable record as a Herald subscriber. She has taken it steadily for fifty-eight years. Her father gave her a year's subscription when she was baptized, and she has continued it ever since. Besides this, she has given it to her children from the time each one was married, continuing the subscriptions as long as they lived. Thus she gave it to her oldest son, E. H. Thomas, for seventeen years, when he passed away. Other children are still receiving it, and have been receiving it as follows: Mrs. J. R.

www.LatterDayTruth.org

Booher, thirty years; E. A. Thomas, twenty-five years; B. H. Thomas, twenty years. Besides this, she took the Autumn Leaves for twenty-five years, until it was discontinued as a separate publication.

Across the Desk of the Editor in Chief

OVER MY DESK passes with some degree of frequency letters, reports, and papers having to do with the matter of foreign missions. The questions and problems involved in foreign missions and foreign mission policy or policies, therefore, comes to mind quite often and there are few sessions of the joint council of Presidency, Twelve, and Presiding Bishopric, in which the question in one form or another does not come up.

Our policy always has been, with a few, very few, notable exceptions, to send men, and women, on foreign missions for short terms. Some are coming to believe, and I find myself among that class, that the length of appointment in such cases should be for greatly longer times. In fact some of our men are coming to believe that appointments abroad should be for life or during good and efficient official behavior, and these men believe that among our people the spirit of service and sacrifice is no less fine than in other churches wherein foreign missions are undertaken on such basis of appointment.

Just now there is need to give consideration to men and women to serve in missions outside our headquarters country, and this question comes again to the fore: We need or shall soon need workers to go to Scandinavia, Holland, Germany, Tahiti, Hawaii, Australasia, et cetera, workers who have a working knowledge of the languages involved. I cannot but believe that we have them, but the question arises, are they willing and ready?

THERE RECENTLY CAME to our desk from Brother George W. Leggott of Manchester a letter which contains some personal news as well as expressions relative to the work, which we know the readers will enjoy. Through Brother Rushton we learned that Brother Leggott was under the necessity of submitting to an eye operation. Anent our inquiries concerning this, Brother Leggott in his letter said:

"The operation on my eye the specialist thinks is very satisfactory, and I am now struggling to learn to see over again. I am pleased to state that I can now see to read, though with difficulty, and I am hoping in the very near future to be able to read normally, which will be a great blessing to me as I have felt keenly the great need of reading."

In response to our request to be remembered to the Manchester Saints, Brother Leggott says it will be a pleasure for him to remember me to the Saints and feels that the memory of my visit to that country will be permanent in their minds. Then touching the general situation as affecting Manchester he says:

"I think that things in Manchester Branch are fairly good, with lots of opportunity for improvement. Brother Rushton has been in this town and the Northern District trying to do something in the way of regulating, collecting, preaching and teaching the Saints, and we believe many friends have heard him with great benefit. We are sorry that his time is so limited with us as he has such a wide field to occupy. We feel sure that the labors that he has been able to perform will be good and do good.

"This country at present, along with other parts of the civilized world, is going through a very severe crisis, but we are hoping that a suggestion contained in the United States President's inaugural address will be taken hold of practically and supported by American authority in the coming World Economic Conference, and that they may be able jointly, as executives, to come to some definite conclusion of operation and begin in reality to do things as well as to talk about them."

We are glad to see the continued interest of Brother Leggott and his group in the church work, and join him in hoping that by concerted action of the various nations involved better economic conditions are assured.

BROTHER E. R. DAVIS, writing from Clinton, Iowa, presents a problem which is facing a great many of the young people today. He says:

"Nearly everywhere I go I find one or more young people who would like to attend Graceland, but cannot do so for lack of funds. It makes my heart sad to think of it, and to see these young people wandering around aimlessly, picking up an odd job now and then, and taking up with companions outside of the church because they can't find suitable companionship of their age among the branches where they live. How much good could be done for the future happiness and success of our young people and for the benefit of the church if all who have an ambition could attend Graceland. I hope the time will come when the church will have a larger fund from which our worthy young people can draw to help them to attend our own church college. In most cases it would be a good investment."

For the reasons suggested by Brother Davis as well as for many others which we might list, we suggest that as the years proceed each year will see an increased number of our young people attending Graceland College for the good that will come to them directly and come to the church both directly and indirectly.

Brother Davis suggests a number of things which it will be well for our young people to be seriously considering. F. M. S.

Advice is like snow, the softer it falls the longer it dwells upon and the deeper it sinks into the mud —Anon.

www.LatterDayTruth.org

HELPS FOR THE PASTOR

Suggested Midweek Prayer Service Programs

By John F. Sheehy

FIRST WEEK

Theme: "Temple Building."

Scripture Reading: 1 Corinthians 3: 16, "Ye are the temple of God and the Spirit of God dwelleth in you."—Doctrine and Covenants 57:1.

Suggested Hymns:

No. 248—How gentle God's command
No. 123—Great and marvelous are thy works
No. 68—In thy name O Lord assembling
No. 423—My Country 'Tis of Thee. (Second stanza, Thy woods and templed hills. Only templed hill in America is Kirtland.)
No. 436—Onward to Zion

SECOND WEEK

Theme: "Zion the Place."

Scripture Reading: Doctrine and Covenants 57: 1. Isaiah 1: 27, "Zion shall be redeemed with judgment and her converts with righteousness."

Suggested Hymns:

No. 5—We're marching to Zion
No. 415—We thank thee, O God, for a prophet
No. 228—Triumphant Zion, lift thy head
No. 178—Hail to Zion

THIRD WEEK

Theme: "Zion the Condition."

Scripture Reading: Doctrine and Covenants, Zion is the pure in heart.

Suggested Hymns:

No. 173—Glorious things are sung of Zion.
No. 53—A calm and gentle quiet reigns tonight
No. 343—Blest be the tie
No. 317—Nearer My God to Thee
No. 190—Redeemer of Israel
No. 105—Sweet the place

FOURTH WEEK

Theme: "Peace on Earth."

Special Thought: Gospel of Jesus—makes for world-wide brotherhood. It can be. It is possible. Wolf and lamb, Isaiah 11: 6. United States and Canada, fortless boundary line. Fellowship in brotherhood. "Walk in the light of the Lord."

Scripture Reading: Isaiah 2: 4, 5, "They shall beat their swords into plowshares. Let us walk in the light of the Lord."

Suggested Hymns:

No. 338—Savior teach me day by day
No. 260—The Old, Old Path
No. 186—Sweet bye and bye
No. 318—One sweet hour with Jesus
No. 83—Lord let thy blessing rest in peace
No. 264—He leadeth me.
No. 2—Bow ye mortals
No. 278—Prince of Peace control my will

FIFTH WEEK

Theme: "Powerful Influence of Example."

Scripture Reading: Ruth 1: 16, "Entreat me not to leave thee, etc. Thy people shall be my people, and thy God my God."

Special Thought: Beautiful life of Naomi's influence over Ruth. Naomi, people, country, religions, God became the adopted people, country, religion and God of Ruth.

Suggested Hymns:

No. 209—Look for the beautiful
No. 294—I would be true
No. 255—Jesus and shall it ever be
No. 45—Lord may our hearts be tuned to sing
No. 277—O Lord, my best desires fulfill
No. 246—O God give strength to all thy Saints
No. 307—Take my life and let it be

(Note: Since it is impossible for us to get these programs out in time for use on specific dates, we suggest that officers in charge use them as convenient. The song numbers refer to the new Saints' Hymnal.)

Munition Racketeers Equip Rival Armies Impartially

International organization of munition firms is an important factor in their power to influence governments. Vicker's has factories or subsidiary companies in Italy, Canada, Japan, Roumania, Ireland, Spain, Holland, New Zealand, Poland, and through these in France and the United States.

The extent to which these firms are international not only in organization but in policy is shown by these facts from the period of the World War. In the Dardanelles Turkish soldiers mowed down Australian soldiers with English guns; German soldiers were trapped in barbed wire sold to France by German firms, and shot down by guns which they had previously made and which had been sold to Russia; French soldiers were disastrously attacked from zeppelins for which France had supplied aluminum and suffocated by gas made from supplies sold by French firms to Germany. This exchange of war materials was carried on between France and Germany through Switzerland, a similar exchange for the mutual destruction of their citizens was carried on between England and Germany by way of Denmark. In a town in England a gun captured from the enemy has been mounted as a war memorial—on one side there is an inscription recording the fact that British troops captured it after hard fighting, on the other side there is a plate giving the name of the British firm that had manufactured it.

Recently the Chinese have been defending themselves against the Japanese with arms supplied by Japanese manufacturers. Today at Shanghai, the center of armament distribution for European firms, armaments are sorted out, some for China, some for Japan.—From Who Wants War?—a pamphlet by Florence Brewer Boeckel. Quoted from Pilgrims Highroad, August, 1933.

www.LatterDayTruth.org

NEWS BRIEFS

Miss Estella Wight Returns to Editor's Desk

Miss Estella Wight, for twenty-six years editor of Zion's Hope and Stepping Stones, has returned to her desk in the editorial room of the Herald Publishing House after an absence of almost seven weeks due to illness. On June 13, Miss Wight underwent an emergency operation for appendicitis at the Independence Sanitarium. Her recovery has been rapid, part of the period of her convalescence being spent at the home of her friend, Miss Marcella Schenck, in Lamoni, Iowa. To the joy of her many friends, Miss Wight was able last week to return to her editorial duties.

Thriving Mission at Riverside, California

Twenty-five Saints at Riverside, California, are holding meetings each week under the leadership of Priest Arden D. Logeman. This mission was started January 12, this year, with only a few members. Since that time other Saints have joined the group, and four candidates have been baptized. "Unity" is their watchword.

Unique Socials at Council Bluffs

No one has been forgotten in the social activities of the branch at Council Bluffs, Iowa. In the month of May the mothers and daughters enjoyed a splendid get-together with a good program. Refreshments were served by the men of the branch. And in June the fathers and sons held their social and program and were feted by the women.

Church activities are continuing unabated during the warm summer months in Council Bluffs Branch.

Scranton's Pastor Now in Maine

Elder Thomas Jones, formerly pastor of Scranton, Pennsylvania Branch, is now living at Green Gables, Franklin, Maine, and will be happy to meet any Saints living in that vicinity.

Brother and Sister Jones left Scranton several weeks ago, to join their son who lives in Maine. They will be greatly missed at Scranton, where they were much loved helpers.

First Big Rehearsal of Harvest Festival Chorus

Almost four hundred singers gathered last Sunday afternoon at the Stone Church for the first general rehearsal of the Harvest Festival Chorus, Paul N. Craig directing. This chorus, augmented by singers from more distant points, will give the public a concert the afternoon of October 8, as the closing event of the Harvest Home Festival at the Auditorium. Singers were present Sunday from Kansas City, Independence, and other points.

Tent Meetings at Thayer, Missouri

Ten candidates were baptized at Thayer, Missouri, as the result of tent meetings conducted by District President W. E. Haden, Missionary J. Charles May, and Apostle John F. Garver. Attendance each night ranged from one hundred and fifty to three hundred.

Sixteen Baptized at Creola, Ohio

Recently, through the missionary efforts of Elder John R. Grice, sixteen candidates were baptized at Creola, Ohio; the church roll of Creola Branch was increased by eleven of these new members. This was indeed an encouraging increase to the faithful few at Creola.

In 1899, Young Joseph Smith, in his dedicatory sermon of the church building at Creola, Ohio, told the Saints that while their branch would languish, it would never be uprooted if they were faithful, as it is a vine of the Lord's planting.

Effective Work in Utah District

In recent weeks Apostle M. A. McConley, Elder A. M. Chase and Elder Frank Veenstra have been doing very effective work in Utah District.

A particularly pleasant and profitable meeting of the district was held at Ogden the week-end following July 4, during which time the district conference was in session.

No Rain This Season to Inconvenience the Sunday Evening Campus Congregation

For seven weeks now the Sunday evening Campus congregation at Independence has gathered and listened to the evening's sermon without the inconvenience sometimes caused by unexpected thunderstorms. In other years it has been found necessary occasionally, because of the weather, to hold the "Campus" service at the Stone Church on Sunday evening.

For six Sundays President Elbert A. Smith was the Campus speaker, but he is now attending the Lamoni Stake reunion, and Pastor J. F. Sheehy was the speaker in his stead last Sunday. Brother Sheehy gave an illustrated lecture on the early church.

www.LatterDayTruth.org

Youth's Forum

A Page of Thought and Discussion for the Young People of the Church

Youth in Action

Australia

Elder Geoffrey Gillard, young people's representative on the general church council, writes interestingly of organization and activities among the church young people of the Australasian Mission. We quote from his letter:

"At the present time the young folk are playing an important part in the work of the church in this mission. Every branch has its quota of young men and women who are regular and enthusiastic in their support of the various church activities; and who are eagerly taking advantage of every opportunity afforded them of developing themselves. In several branches the young people regularly outnumber the older Saints in their attendance at the various gatherings, including the spiritual services. Nearly every branch has in its priesthood several young men in their teens or early twenties. Thus from a general standpoint, we have some very fine material to work with, and to further develop by means of such activities as the young people's program provides for."

Among the activities described are social clubs to sponsor picnics, social evenings, sports gatherings, banquets, hikes, sight-seeing tours and inter-branch visits. The young people especially enjoy visiting the homes of aged members, bringing good will and cheer.

Various classes and groups are engaged in religious, literary and practical courses. The Dorian is a quarterly magazine published by the young people to stimulate literary effort. They solicit contributions from American and European Saints. This is a good idea! Address Geoffrey Gillard, 25 Maida Street, Leichhardt, New South Wales, Australia.

Branch Papers

A lively little branch paper is the Call to Worship of Madison, Wisconsin. The issue of July 16 sports a good piece of art work on the front cover, and one finds the names of old friends in the columns. Madison folks show quite a flare for poetry.

The San Francisco Zion Builder has sent its Editor in Chief, Albert Boynton, on a tour of inspection over the country, to such places as the Youth Conference, the World's Fair at Chicago, and, we hope, Independence. We are looking forward to his feature articles about the trip in future issues of the Zion Builder. Albert reports that he and a companion have been traveling as the guests of various railroad companies—but have elected to ride the freight trains.

In the latter paper Gladys Carmichael writes a fine appreciation of the Youth Conference. And Dorothy Wells collects this good bit from a sermon by Brother Steele: "Each individual may have experiences of communion with God through faith, prayer, and devotion. Even as a radio must be attuned to receive messages from the air, so must men be in harmony with God to receive his blessings."

The Story of Etta Kett

Rich Man, Poor Man,—

"Heigho, what's what?" caroled Etta Kett as she mounted the steps and entered the door of her home. Another day of work was over at the Elmwood Electric Light Company, where Etta was the manager's secretary.

"Mail for you, Etta," called her mother from the dining room.

"Good, but I hope it isn't—" The rest of Etta's hope was lost as she picked up the two envelopes from the hall table. Both were addressed in strange handwriting, and masculine handwriting at that. Ah, probably from some of the fellows she had met at the Youth Conference. Secretly the young woman hoped one was from Howard Bell; she rather liked him. But with an impartial gesture she broke the seal of one of them.

She glanced at the salutation, uttered a faint "Oh," and turned hastily through the three closely written pages to see the signature. Yes, it was from Howard; but she hadn't supposed he would begin quite so—so warmly. Without further hesitation, however, she plunged into the opening paragraphs:

"Honest, dear girl, I've meant to write to you a dozen times since the convention, but I've been horribly busy since my return. There's another reason, too, for my not writing you sooner. Since meeting you I've had a deep desire to close an episode in my life which I have considered closing for some time. Now it is closed and I am free to write as I want to write to you. But more of that later.

"To begin with, when I returned home, the new job I told you about awaited me. It isn't much, just an assistant in an architect's office with business at a low ebb, but it has a future if building ever starts again, and I'm pretty lucky to have a job at all.

"And now about the episode. I don't wish to be mysterious with you, dear, neither do I wish to cast reflections on anyone else. But—to make a long story short—I have broken my engagement. For two years I have been engaged to a jolly friend—we've grown up together—but after the conference, and especially after meeting you, Etta, I was convinced that Marcelene isn't my type of girl. She's pretty, vivacious, and good company, but she isn't a church girl and the course of her happy-go-lucky life will never run as I want mine to run.

"I trust you will try to understand how strong a factor you were in my decision to break my engagement. For some time I had suffered from doubts on the matter, but after meeting you, I realized that I could never be happy with Marcelene. I couldn't tell her why, but—"

"Is he conceited!" ejaculated Etta to herself in the hall mirror. "Oh, my!" and stuffed the letter back into the envelope unread. She would finish it after dinner when she was in a more lenient mood.

How different the other missive, and not nearly so lengthy:

"Dear Miss Kett:

"I hope my delay in writing to you has not caused you to question my sincerity when I said that I wanted to hear from you frequently. Truly I do. I want you to imagine that I, too, am a member of Elmwood Branch about which you told me, and that I am associated in your interests. May I? I often catch myself wishing that I might see you and hear you talk as you did that day in the committee meeting—remember? I certainly admired your pluck that day, and I thought you handled your reasons like so many soldiers. How you did talk to your point! I sincerely wish I had the ability to express myself as you do.

"Since returning to Illinois, I have busied myself on my uncle's farm. His specialty is hogs—not a delicate thing about which to write I'll admit—but hogs are very interesting to tend. Imagine a feature story in the Chicago Tribune, under the heading, "Northwestern Graduate Tends Uncle's Hogs!" If I had the money I should like to take postgraduate work this winter, but I suffer along with the proletariat.

"Here I am talking of myself, and that wasn't the idea of this letter at all. Write to me, will you please, about Elmwood and yourself and the effects of the conference on your delegation in general. How I miss the friends I made at Lamoni! Sunday is a rather difficult day for me now. The hogs seem even less glamorous than on other days.

"I trust that all this hasn't bored you, and hope you will write to me—believe me, I'll try to be a valiant correspondent. Just give me a chance, won't you?

"Very sincerely yours,

"Wayne Roland."

"Well," mumbled Etta to herself as she climbed the stairs to her room, a letter in each hand, "one wants me to love; the other wants me just to write. Now I wonder."

www.LatterDayTruth.org

THE HARVEST FESTIVAL OF 1933

By C. C. Koehler

THE HARVEST FESTIVAL OF 1933 will begin October 3 and end October 8. It will be a great exhibition and festival for the church, and it will be an important factor in alleviating suffering for the coming winter.

The needs are many, chief among them being an arousal of the old festival spirit under which influence the event made such rapid growth in the few years of its existence, and which must be revived and kept alive in order to keep it on a par with festivals of the recent past years. Otherwise we will have to admit it sprang up as a mushroom in the night and, like other things and institutions of similar unstable growth, its days are numbered.

THE AUTHOR may be called the father of the Harvest Festival. He put the idea into action, and was instrumental in promoting it to success.

The first Harvest Festival was a modest local effort, held in the main auditorium of the Stone Church in 1918. It grew in importance for several years at Second Church (South Side), and was at the Campus one season. When it was moved to the Auditorium a number of years ago, it became a church-wide affair. It has not missed a year since its beginning.

Fortunately its life is of a creative nature, the very essence of its existence having been imbibed of by many who drank deep of its spirit and who eagerly await the coming event in order to make it the biggest and best yet.

One great need is that the church at large recognize this particular fact; that local participation and interest (this included the near-by stakes and districts which regularly have an exhibit) must be supplemented by the offerings of those living at distant points in order to keep local interest at the proper pitch. If one were present when such queries as, "Where are the products from Maine? Hawaii? Florida?" etc., or "What did my home branch or state send?" and could see the looks of disappointment on their faces when told there was nothing, they would in a measure sense the deep interest and feelings had by the members in the Harvest Festival here.

Today we are looking after the needs of many who have come from distant points; the festival helps to supply some of the necessities of life for them. This is a church obligation, not a local one, but must be met locally. To assist in the work along this line we have in mind a feature exhibit. We have over eight hundred branches or organized districts in the United States which we hope to hear from this year. We'll let you in on our secret, and trust, as is the way with secrets, you will not be able to rest till you have made a confidant of others and interested them to the extent that the story will come back to us this fall colored up and magnified to such proportions, as to need the assistance of the combined Harvest personnel to unravel. Here's where we get all tangled up. We plan to have a large map of the United States (about 16′ x 20′ in bas-relief) with a tall flagpole in the center to represent Independence, and from each point from which we receive a package run a colored ribbon from a pennant to the pole. Details have not been worked out yet, but it will be readily seen what a beautiful feature exhibit this can be made and what interest it will arouse, not only among our own people, but among the thousands of visitors who attend from many states in the Union. To those who do not know what the attendance has been, we may say that conservative estimates run from 50,000 to 60,000 during a single festival season.

There is not an organized branch or district anywhere but could make up a package and pay its way here. If we hear from a majority of the 800 places, think what a network or giant web there will be.

Will your branch be on this 1933 Festival map? And will your eyes be pointed Zionward to the extent you will literally be tied to us with the "tie that binds"? Will you do your part in keeping an institution alive and growing that has meant so much to those in need and saved thousands of dollars to the church for the past years, annually?

Feature exhibits in miniature, typical of industries or characteristic of certain localities are wanted: for instance a lumber camp, with sawmill, etc., a cotton gin and press, a fishery and cannery, a fruit packing plant, etc., etc.

By way of advance information and to get across the foregoing suggestion, we announce an offer from the John Deere Plow Co. of Moline, Illinois, of farm equipment in miniature, including threshers, binders, and other farm necessities or accessories to a modern farm.

Inquiries are coming in for space. Is yours in?

Suggestions are welcome. Let them come forward.

We trust all concerned (please see to it that you are concerned) will (Continued on page 975)

www.LatterDayTruth.org

The Family Worship Hour

By Harley A. Morris

How shall we conduct our family worship hour? Not infrequently is the visiting priest confronted with this question. Perhaps still more frequently do parents ask themselves the question. Recently, while visiting a home in company with a priest of rich and varied experiences, this question was asked of us. I was interested in his answer. He said, in effect, that no set order of service is advisable; nor is it possible for one to make a suggestion that will be practical in all homes. There should be, he said, a variety of features, gauged to suit the various ages present, and, above all, encouragement to each one to attend and participate without making such participation compulsory.

In general, we give too little thought to our daily worship. We permit ourselves to form the habit of worship, when, actually, worship can never be a habit. Worship is a blend of intellectual and emotional responses to a stimulation produced by some need in our lives. And habit is deadly to both the emotion and the intellect. Again, we let other more pressing but less important affairs so crowd our worship that a hurriedly read Scripture and a prayer are all that we have time for. Too frequently we neglect even the spiritual preparation necessary to true worship—let alone the mental and physical qualifications. The speed of our modern life robs us of time our fathers spent in communion with the Infinite. Commercialized recreations coax us from our family circle, until the average family is seldom at home together except at mealtime, and not too frequently then. No discussion of the family worship period is complete without giving consideration to these things, because what we do depends upon what we want to do and how far outside circumstances permit us to follow our inclination.

Usually we think of a family as comprising parents and growing children. Family worship, then, becomes the worship of all the family—the intellectual and emotional responses of each one to the stimulation of a need of which he is personally conscious. Family worship is group worship. The family must be present. We are faced with the question of the value of family worship. If it is not important to our lives, then, let us waste no time with it. But if it is important, then it is worth sacrificing for. The time selected for the worship period should be as conveniently chosen as possible, but, once selected, each member should regard it as sacred to that alone and permit nothing short of an emergency to keep him away.

The time dedicated to this purpose need not necessarily immediately precede the hour for retiring. One family, in which are young people, finds time at the close of the evening meal. Another group arises early in the morning for their devotions. In general either of these periods are to be preferred to one in the late evening. Children, especially, find it a task to retain mental alertness so close to their habitual bedtime. Then, too, the temptation to be away in the evening is difficult to combat, and the likelihood of visitors dropping in is greater.

Prayer, one has said, is the heart of worship. Have you ever been engaged in a task that excited your interest, stimulated your imagination or aroused your competitive instincts and then torn yourself away from that task and abruptly knelt to pray? Did you offer a model prayer, or one heartfelt? Yet too often that is what we expect of our children. I can recall vividly of being hailed in from an exciting game of "hide and seek" to kneel at the family altar when actually prayer was the one thing farthest from my mind.

What I am leading up to is this: Prayer alone does not necessarily mean worship. We speak a great deal these days of attitudes, and here is one place that attitudes really count. Worship is more of an attitude of mind than it is a rite or formula of conduct. If our family worship is to be worship we must give heed to the formation of an attitude of worship. There must be a break from the work-a-day life. Jesus said: ". . . when thou prayest, enter into thy closet, and when thou hast shut thy door, pray to thy Father . . ." Mentally and emotionally we must shut the door to our surroundings, locking out the thoughts, feeling and forces that distract and annoy. Adults have learned something of mental discipline, but with children the transition is not so simple. For their benefit other features enter into the worship hour, which serve to concentrate their attention on spiritual values by giving direction to their imagination and mental activities and by enlisting their sympathies.

One of the best ways of reaching the child is through the story. Children like stories of all kinds, but the worship story must be chosen with care. Without being excitable, it must possess an appeal to the imagination of the child. Its situations must be concrete and within the scope of his experiences. It may be told or read. Of course a story is better if well told, but with the family worship hour we must do the best our (Continued on page 975)

www.LatterDayTruth.org

The Mission of Christ

By J. F. Curtis

THE MORE WE STUDY and learn of Christ, the more we are convinced that the world needs a Savior. If we could save ourselves by our own wisdom, we could provide our own plans. But our wisdom is not sufficient. What we know in this life we generally gather from other persons. If God had not revealed himself to us we would have no knowledge of his existence. Children without instruction grow up in ignorance. Parents find it necessary to teach their children while they are young, and later the children must receive further instruction from competent teachers in schools and colleges. In fact, life is made up of study from which we gather the things we need to know in life. Jesus Christ was the greatest teacher the world has ever known. Of himself he said: "I am the light of the world." Again he says: "I do nothing of myself but as my Father hath taught me, I speak these things." Even Jesus was taught by his Father. Jesus taught his chosen disciples for a period of three and a half years before he gave them the great commission to go into all the world and teach the gospel. The wisdom of the world is foolishness with God. But he whom God has sent speaks the words of God. In Saint John (5: 39) Jesus gave instruction to "Search the Scriptures; for in them ye think ye have eternal life and they are they which testify of me." The word of God should not only be read but studied in order that we may know what God requires of us.

On the day of Pentecost a minister was needed to tell the people the way of life. The Apostle Peter had been informed by Jesus himself concerning the commandments of God and when the opportunity came to instruct the people, Peter was ready with the divine message which was directed of the Holy Ghost. Up to this time the teachings of Christ and his apostles were more or less unpopular, but when the Holy Ghost came in mighty power many were convinced that the work was of God but they did not know in what way or manner to take hold of it. How to obtain the wonderful blessings now being enjoyed by others was the question, so they cried out: "Men and brethren what shall we do?" They were of the world, and without hope of salvation. Unless some one had been prepared to impart divine wisdom to these people they would have remained in ignorance of the gospel of Christ. Peter, the servant of God, knew what God required of them and the message delivered was "Repent and be baptized every one of you in the name of Jesus Christ for the remission of sins and you shall receive the gift of the Holy Ghost." A Pharisee might have given a different answer to the question.

How to become Christians, or followers of Christ, was the desire of these people, and it is the desire of many in the world today. The message delivered by the Apostle Peter was the message of heaven. Every one who had faith in what he said was called upon to repent. Who would dare to say that men do not need repentance today? The call of Christ to all men today is to turn from the world, and worldliness, to heed the message of the Lord Jesus Christ, and after putting off the old man of sin, put on the new man after Christ Jesus. Men of the world needed repentance then, they need it today.

Peter declared more of the word of God to them. He urged every one of them to be baptized. Just how popular, or unpopular, baptism was at that time we do not know, but one thing we do know, and that is that God's minister on Pentecost insisted that every one of the world who desired to follow Christ should be baptized. The question as to whether baptism is popular, or unpopular, is not the question today. The real question is, Is it of God? Has he commanded it? Was baptism right on Pentecost and wrong now? If Peter were here today would he not answer the people and say, "Repent and be baptized every one of you." Has God's message changed? Will it not remain as taught by Christ and his apostles? God is unchangeable, and the plan of salvation remains the same. "Save yourselves," cried the minister for Christ. Jesus said: "Come, follow me." The Son of God was baptized by John the Baptist in the River of Jordan. God acknowledged the act of his Son on this occasion. God had sent John to teach and baptize with water. Jesus demanded baptism, saying it was necessary to fulfill all righteousness. He whom God has sent will speak the words of God. On the day of Pentecost, Peter said that repentance and baptism were for the remission of sins. Sins must be remitted before we can be right with God. God's remedy for sin cannot be improved upon. It cost Jesus his life to teach the truth and oppose error. The world was in darkness and needed light. Light is needed today. The divine message of Christ is needed in the world now.

Peter declared that his message was not only for those to whom he spake but to them and their children and to all the Lord shall call. The call of Christ is: "Come unto (Continued on page 975)

www.LatterDayTruth.org

The Responsibility of the Home in Religious Education

By Hazel L. Minkler

That in the home must be laid the foundation for the religious education of the child is apparent for the same reason that the family should be the "point of departure for every kind of training—economic, social, educational, and religious." Within the circle of the family the child must begin his education for the social contacts which he must make in his youth and mature years. What these contacts shall be is determined largely by the nature of the suggestive and imitative influences of the home in which he is reared, as well as by the verbal instruction which he there receives. Frederick Pierce, in his book, Understanding Our Children, says that, if trained aright, the child should, by the age of six or seven, be able to make a satisfactory adjustment to the home, the school, and community. This statement is significant when considered in connection with the word of the Lord, as found in Doctrine and Covenants 68: 4, as follows:

"And again, inasmuch as parents have children in Zion, or in any of her stakes which are organized, that teach them not to understand the doctrine of repentance; faith in Christ the Son of the living God; and of baptism and the gift of the Holy Ghost by the laying on of the hands when eight years old, the sin be upon the head of the parents; for this shall be a law unto the inhabitants of Zion, or in any of her stakes which are organized; and their children shall be baptized for the remission of their sins when eight years old, and receive the laying on of the hands: and they shall also teach their children to pray, and to walk uprightly before the Lord."

When we consider that the first six years of a child's life, the preschool age, constitute the most important period of its whole existence, because during this period he is most impressionable, most formative, and most imitative, the responsibility of the home in his religious education becomes doubly apparent. "As the twig is bent, the tree is inclined," is only another way of expressing the idea of the plasticity of the brain and nervous system during this period in the life of the child.

Relative Importance of Heredity and Environment

It is true that the influence of the environment in which the child is reared is limited by its hereditary tendencies. Equality in mental attainments is an impossibility and, on the moral and religious side, there are exceptions to the Biblical rule, "Train up a child in the way he should go, and when he is old, he will not depart from it." It is, however, the exception which proves the rule. Addington Bruce, in his book, Your Growing Child, has truly said:

"Give a child, no matter how bad his heredity, the benefit of an excellent home upbringing, and the likelihood is that in after years he will be a decent, useful citizen. On the other hand, give the child a bad home upbringing and, however good his heredity, he will have a slim chance of turning out well."

As proof of his contention, this author cites the following statistics:

"In Minnesota a special study was made of the moral condition of about one hundred young people seventeen years old and upward, for whom, when they were children, foster parents had been found by the State. One or both of their parents had been of bad character. On the heredity theory, these young people were doomed to become of bad character themselves.

"It was found that in reality eighty-three per cent of them were growing to a splendid manhood and womanhood. That is, whatever evil tendencies they had inherited had, in the case of nearly all, been checked by enlightened home training.

"Of a similar group in Wisconsin nearly ninety per cent did well when placed in good homes. Of the few who did not do so well—only six children, all told—it was discovered that, in two cases, the homes in which they had been placed, were not really good.

"More striking still are the results of the work of the New York Children's Aid Society. In half a century this society found homes for nearly thirty thousand children of the slums, besides placing many thousands of older boys and girls of unfavorable heredity. Keeping a careful record of the careers of their wards, the society officials have been able to report:

"Eighty-seven per cent have done well. . . . have grown up respectable men and women, creditable members of society. Many have acquired property, and no inconsiderable number of them have attained positions of honor and trust.

"Similar records might be cited, from our own land, and from foreign countries. Always the outcome is surprisingly good."

Is it not probable that the parents, themselves, of these children would have been respectable, useful men and women, had their childhood environment been as favorable as that under which their children were reared? In all too many cases, the shortcomings of our children are attributed to bad heredity, rather than to the environment under which they live.

www.LatterDayTruth.org

The moral nature can not be isolated from other life problems. This being true, every phase of the child's environment has its bearing on its moral and religious development. For this reason parents should be continually on the alert to discover which factors of the environment are conducive, and which are deleterious, to the development of the character of their child.

Home as a Place for the Formation of Right Habits

The task of parents is to see that right attitudes and concepts are translated into habits. There is no such thing as goodness in the abstract. Goodness consists of specific acts of right doing, and for this reason the parents should diligently cooperate with the teacher of the church school in seeing that every inculcated moral precept, and every desire for right doing which is aroused in the child, shall find expression in appropriate acts.

Suppose, for instance, the teacher of the church school has for her aim the arousing of generous impulses within the child, and for which she desires to find an outlet in acts leading to the formation of habits of generosity. She bases her lesson on the story of the ten lepers. She closes the lesson with an announcement of a home project which requires that the child show in practical ways his gratitude for the many benefits conferred upon him by his parents. Shall not you, parents, exert the utmost thought and energy in seeing that this project is carried out in the home? And shall you not praise the child for the part he has successfully played in the carrying out of the project? For only in this way can the training which he receives in the church school be made effective in his life.

Contactual Education

One reason why the influence of the home is of such great importance during the first five or six years of the child's life is because the contact between him and his parents is perhaps more intimate and exclusive at this time than at any other period in his life. This demands that the law of imitation be understood and carefully observed by the parents, for it is perhaps the most potent of all educative influences in the life of the child. Imitation is of two kinds: conscious and unconscious. As the result of the latter, the child tends to absorb and unconsciously imitate whatever is presented to it in the way of habitual thought and action. He is influenced for good or ill by everything in its surroundings. Even the pictures on the wall are of great suggestive influence. The writer well remembers an incident which occurred in connection with a picture on the walls of her childhood home, entitled, "Christ Before Pilate." In the home at this time were two boys, a brother and a cousin, and one afternoon as the mother of the home was absent on a visit, these boys took occasion to express their indignation against the tormentors of Jesus by pricking out the eyes of all in the picture, except those of Christ. Thus great was the feeling aroused by this picture.

So great is the power of unconscious imitation that the child is likely to adopt even the physical mannerisms of the parent, so that if the father walks with a distinctive gait, the son is likely to assume the same gait. Even left-handedness is thought by some to be a matter of imitation, rather than of heredity, especially when the left-handedness is confined to certain things, such as a knife, a ball, etc.

Conscious imitation is based upon admiration, and as the result of its working the child is inclined to imitate those whom he admires, provided he does not feel hopelessly inferior to such persons. Hence, the importance of setting before our children examples of the sort of characters which we wish them to emulate. Biography and history are replete with such characters and we should form the habit of commending, in their presence, the good traits of our friends and neighbors.

Finally, it would be well if all parents would memorize the words of that wise old German pastor, Karl Witte, who, more than a century ago, wrote:

"Our children are what we are. They are good when we are good, and bad when we are bad. I could extend this assertion. With full conviction I could say that they become clever, magnanimous, modest, witty, agreeable, amiable, if these are our qualities. They become the opposite, if we precede them with the opposite. Parents, remember this: Instruction begins, but example accomplishes."

If the home example is bad, it tends to nullify the effects of all verbal teaching, and attempts at the formation of right habits in the child. As one writer has said in substance, "Go into any home where the parents set conspicuous examples of the lack of self-control, and you need place but little credence in their claims in regard to the inculcation of this virtue in their children." If discordant influences prevail in the home, these influences will be perpetuated in the homes of their children's making, and like Tennyson's brook that "goes on for ever," there is likely to be no end to the turbulence engendered by quarrelsome parents. Let the parents manifest naught but love and good will toward each other in the home, let them with reason and intelligence adjust the difficulties which arise in the home, and the children will imbibe this spirit of love, as the flowers drink the dew. Let the spirit of sacrifice extend to neighbors, to the church, and the spirit of tenderness and kindness be manifested toward all life.

www.LatterDayTruth.org

The Inculcation of Love in Our Children

As religion has to do with right human relationships, and love must form the basis of these relationships, it is important that we instill this principle within the child as early as possible in life. As Elizabeth Harrison says, "The first manifestations of love in a child are physical in their nature, such as a kiss, hug, or word of endearment. The parent should always recognize this love as the door, or entrance, to that higher love which manifests itself in service and self-sacrifice." She suggests that while the child is in the loving mood it is well to request of him some service, however slight, for the purpose of associating in his mind the ideas of love and service. We should never refuse proffered acts of service in the home. As early in life as possible, he must be taught a variety of useful things, as an outlet for the spirit of love and sacrifice which we wish to implant within him. "Love turned away, nourishes selfishness; and proffered help refused, begets idleness." If the mother finds it necessary to refuse one kind of service, she should immediately substitute for this another, within the capacity of the child to render. Knowledge of work is essential to the accomplishment of our religious ideals.

Family Worship

No theme treating of the responsibility of the home in Religious Education would be complete without a discussion of family worship, its value, and methods of conducting it. In Doctrine and Covenants 90: 6, we find a revelation, which reads, in part, as follows:

"But I have commanded you to bring up your children in light and truth, but verily I say unto you, my servant Frederick G. Williams, you have continued under this condemnation; you have not taught your children light and truth, according to the commandments, and that wicked one hath power, as yet, over you, and this is the cause of your affliction. And now a commandment I give unto you, if you will be delivered: you shall set in order your own house, for there are many things that are not right in your house."

One of the essential factors in the setting in order of our homes is the establishment of the family altar. As the Israelites of old were unified and held intact as a people by their altars of wood and stone, so this figurative altar of prayer strengthens family ties, unifies our ideals, and stablizes our conduct. It is a continual reminder to parents of their duties in regard to their children.

Around this altar should center some of the dearest memories of childhood. Each morning its devotional exercises should be to him a vitalizing, religious experience, from which he emerges with courage and faith, and fortified against the temptations of the day.

I wonder how most of us conduct this morning period of worship. Do we read our Bibles as a mere formality, and offer stereotyped prayers, or does the child, if we have one, feel the genial glow of God's Spirit in both our reading and prayers? Does he feel that the service is his, as well as ours? Is he encouraged to pray with us? The Lord has commanded us to pray vocally, as well as in secret; in public, as well as in private. At no other place than the family altar can the child so easily learn to pray without fear in the presence of others. His prayers, too, should be the spontaneous expression of his own desires, rather than the parrot-like repetition of some prayer written for children.

To the very young child, the parents stand in the place of God, and while he can not understand God as we do, by breathing the atmosphere of spiritual devotion at the altar of prayer, he finally becomes God-conscious, and is led to seek God for himself.

But it is obvious that no parent can lead a child to God who lacks his entire confidence. The secrets of the child's mind and heart are bound up in his reaction to the stimuli afforded by his daily environment, but many of his experiences will be withheld from the parent who treats him with harshness, and shows lack of sympathy with his weaknesses.

How many of us encourage our children to relate their experiences at the family altar; then, with them, seek for the solution of the problems involved in these experiences by an appeal to the Scriptures? Think for a moment of the value of such a method in habituating the child to turn to the Scriptures as his final court of appeal in cases where moral issues are involved.

Gary Cleveland Myers, head of the division of Parental Education of Cleveland College, Western Reserve University, says that it is in the home that the child must become acquainted with the Bible as literature, as it is surprising how little opportunty is afforded the child for this in the Sunday school. We know that the language of the Bible affords a medium of expression for the noblest and most sublime thoughts. Mr. Myers tells us that so far as oral English is concerned, those children who have learned to read aloud with pleasure frequently from the Bible, repeating over and over those parts they have found most musical and pleasing to their feelings, have a training which should make them ready and accurate with tongue and pen. He sees great value in a limited number of "memory gems," well selected, and says that no single volume has so many choice portions as the Bible, even if our interest is merely in its literary value.

The reading of the Bible for this purpose may be coordinated with the reading of it for its moral and spiritual value. If there are several children in the family, they should be encouraged to read aloud, in rotation, the verses of a selected chapter, the parents giving strict attention to their reading.

But let it not be thought that the Bible should form the exclusive reading of devotional periods. The Book of Mormon and the Doctrine and Covenants likewise contain many choice passages of rare beauty, truth and inspiration. Family worship affords a most convenient and effective occasion for the development of reverence and love for these scriptures, as well as familiarity with their contents. Many growing young people today know little or nothing in an intimate way of these distinctive gospel messages of the Restoration. To be cherished they must become a helpful part of the deepest religious experiences of our daily lives.

The reading of scripture may be alternated with other choice literature, including stories for children, having ethical and spiritual value. Even short biographical sketches have their place at this time. In these the child becomes familiar with characters which serve as life patterns for his words and deeds. Addington Bruce, in his book, Your Growing Child, deplores the fact that so little biography is taught in our public schools. Pictures of a religious nature, as well as others, which emphasize honesty, self-control, sympathy, good manners, and other valuable traits, should occupy no small place in our program for these periods. Sometimes a song service, either alone, or preceding or following the usual exercises, has a salutary effect upon the worshipers. The Lord has said that the song of the righteous is a prayer unto him, and shall be answered with a blessing upon their heads.

If there is a great difference in the ages of the children, it would perhaps be unwise to have the same exercises for all. Some time ago I participated in the devotional exercises of a home in which the children, ranging in age from seven to ten, listened to the story of the Last Supper, charmingly told, after which they and the adults had prayers together. Then the children were dismissed, after which the adult members of the family engaged in a study of the lesson assigned them for the following Sunday, by their teacher in the church school.

Prayers should be brief and simple, relating themselves, as a rule, to the common needs of the day. Seldom, if ever, should adult griefs and cares be voiced in the presence of children. These should be presented to our heavenly Father in secret.

www.LatterDayTruth.org

These ideas are merely suggestive, and the thoughtful parent will think of many more ways to make the period of daily worship attractive. Let us remember that it is by the faithful observance of this period that the child forms the habit of setting aside a portion of his day for prayer and meditation upon those things which tend to the upbuilding of his character.

THE HARVEST FESTIVAL OF 1933

(Continued from page 969.)

give the 1933 Harvest Festival some thought and consideration, as in doing so you are giving thought and consideration to the needy. "If ye are not equal in temporal things, ye cannot be equal in the manifestations of the Spirit." Keep in touch with the Herald or write in for what information you need.

For all information, and for all shipments of exhibits, please address: The Harvest Festival Committee, The Auditorium, Independence, Missouri.

THE FAMILY WORSHIP HOUR

(Continued from page 970.)

time will permit; and a well read story is not to be spurned.

I like the theme idea that has become so popular in our public services. The same principle can be applied to the home worship. When selecting a brief Scripture reading, the moral of the story may be kept in mind and harmony maintained between the two. Here, too, care must be exercised that the verses be understandable to the children. Frequently we select difficult passages on the assumption that the child will remember bits of Scripture and later come to a knowledge of their meaning. But it is a question if this is ever true to an appreciable extent. It is more practical to appeal to the conscious mind of the child than to trust to an unconscious assimilation. Nor should the reading be too long. Few adults care to listen to a lengthy and rambling Scripture, and children are even more easily tired.

The Scripture lesson opens the way for what I believe to be one of the most fruitful and yet most frequently neglected possibilities of the evening worship. Most everyone can look back to an evening around the fireside when mother or dad drew from the abundance of their experiences tales and anecdotes whose chief appeal, perhaps, lay in the fact that he knew the characters so well. Let the Scriptures suggest the theme and our own lives point the lesson. Now is the time, too, to talk about our problems. Many have found the family-council idea worth while. Here every member, irrespective of age, has a right to express himself. Recently I came upon another idea that I believe is worth passing on. A keen-minded father of several boys of high school age and younger introduces the newspaper into the family circle occasionally. And after talking with these boys on world problems, I can appreciate that these sessions lack a lot of being dull.

As the brother first quoted said, there is opportunity enough for variety in the worship hour. But we need a willingness to study and time to execute. It is just possible that as our home worship period increases in interest and variety, our indulgence in commercialized recreations and the like will decrease. But I believe that we shall be the gainer, and the church with us. For not only does the spirituality of the church of the present depend on the home, but the personnel of the church of the future as well.

THE MISSION OF CHRIST

(Continued from page 971.)

me all ye that labor and are heavy laden and I will give you rest." What a wonderful promise! Today men's hearts are troubled and torn by the heavy burdens of life. Some become so weary that they take their own lives. Every troubled soul needs a Savior, a Redeemer; Jesus is still the Light of the World.

When Jesus was born, the angels' choir sang: "Glory to God in the highest and on earth peace, good will toward men." The angel also declared: "Behold, I bring you good tidings of great joy which shall be to all people, For unto you is born this day in the city of David a Savior which is Christ the Lord."

Jesus said to Nicodemus, "Except a man be born of water and of the Spirit, he cannot enter into the kingdom of God." Christ emphasized the principle of baptism by saying, "Ye must be born again."

Jesus said: "My words will judge you." "The word that I have spoken, the same shall judge him in the last day." We should be prepared to meet the Lord when he comes. In Malachi 3: 2 we read: "But who may abide the day of his coming? and who shall stand when he appeareth?"

Paul says: "As we sow so shall we reap."

In Bible times as found in Acts 8 and 19 chapters, the apostles by prayer and the ordinance of laying on of hands conferred the Holy Spirit on those whom they baptized. Their example is worthy of imitation.

In Romans 16: 17, Paul gave a warning against false doctrines. He said: "Mark them which cause divisions and offences contrary to the doctrine which ye have learned; and avoid them."

If the teachings of Christ are not for us, then Christ died in vain. But his death was not in vain. For after his death he rose again by the power of God and he ascended to heaven to sit on the right hand of God to make intercession for us. He is our mediator with the Father. Isaiah, speaking of Christ, said that he is our leader and commander.

The words of Christ should sink deep into our souls. He that hungers and thirsts after righteousness shall be filled.

Schools, colleges, and universities without proper instructors would be failures. Armies, great or small, would be failures without proper officers. The soldier would be confused, not knowing where to go or what to do. He who seeks eternal life should study the word of God and find out how men and women became Christians in New Testament times.

In Matthew 24: 4, 5, Jesus warned his disciples against false teachers. He said: "Take heed that no man deceive you. For many shall come in my name, saying, I am Christ; and shall deceive many." We should remember that he whom God has sent speaks the words of God. Whoever refuses to teach the word of God is not a safe guide religiously. The command of Christ to his disciples was to go teach to the world the things he had commanded them.

In mathematics there are six fundamental principles, addition, subtraction, multiplication, division, notating, and numeration. The omission of one or more of these principles would fail to give the student the proper understanding of mathematics. There are six fundamental principles of the gospel of Christ. Faith, repentance, baptism, by immersion for the remission of sins, the laying on of hands by ministers of Christ for the reception of the Holy Ghost, the resurrection from the dead, and the eternal judgment. Unless these principles of the gospel are taken into consideration, no one can fully understand the great plan of salvation as taught by Jesus Christ. The stamp of divinity accompanied the teachings of Christ and his ministers and the blessings of God will still accompany this plan which was sent from heaven. We should progress religiously.

Let us repeat the words of the Apostle Peter in 2 Peter 1: 4-10, "Whereby are given unto us exceeding great and precious promises; that by these ye might be partakers of the divine nature, having escaped the corruption that is in the world through lust. And beside this, giving all diligence, add to your faith virtue; and to virtue knowledge; and to knowledge temperance; and to temperance patience; and to patience godliness; And to godliness brotherly kindness; and to brotherly kindness charity. For if these things be in you, and abound, they make you that ye shall neither be barren nor unfruitful in the knowledge of your Lord Jesus Christ. But he that lacketh these things is blind, and cannot see afar off, and hath forgotten that he was purged from his old sins. Wherefore the rather, brethren, give diligence to make your calling and election sure: for if ye do these things, ye shall never fall."

www.LatterDayTruth.org

Observance of the perfect law will bring celestial glory, or the glory of the sun. Some will only get the glory of the moon, which is a lesser glory, while others will only get a star glory, which is still a lesser glory.

Jesus said, in Saint John 14, that "In my father's house are many mansions: if it were not so I would have told you. I go to prepare a place for you." In Matthew 11: 22, Jesus says that at the day of judgment it would be more tolerable for Tyre and Sidon than for Chorazin and Bethsaida. Chorazin and Bethsaida had witnessed the greater miracles of Christ but had not repented.

In 2 Corinthians 12: 2, Paul says that he knew a man in Christ that was caught up to the third heaven. The great plan of God provides for degrees of glory and degrees of punishment. In Psalm 86: 13, David thanked the Lord that he had delivered his "soul from the lowest hell." The only foundation on which we can build for eternal life is Jesus Christ. In this life we have no continuing city, but we seek one to come, says Paul.

God's way is the best way. As we sow so shall we reap. Sin is deceptive. The broad way is the way of the world. While the narrow way is the way of the cross it leads to eternal life. To be able to spend eternity with God and Christ is the hope of all Christians and that hope grows brighter and brighter until the perfect day.

Treasures

By Geraldine Wyatt

ONE OF THE GREATEST PUZZLES to human kind, is the question of why the most saintly people are not rich. Are the poor of a necessity religious, or do men as they acquire an abundance of worldly goods grow deficient in worship?

Christ said: Matthew 6: 21.

"For where your treasure is, there will your heart be also."

In a book which I read recently, was recounted the experience of a near-sighted Mayan of Yucatan. This young man was ordered by the majordomo of the plantation to go to a certain granary and get supplies. The native whistling blithely opened the door to the store room, and seeing a post threw his broad brimmed hat upon it. To his great surprise the post "up and" knocked him down. He never knew what it was that hit him, but those to whom he recounted his story knew that it was an anaconda, or huge boa snake that had voluntarily taken up the duty of watching this granary. This man left his position with a very highly thought of employer stating that the plantation was no place for a nervous man, and since he was nervous he was going elsewhere.

Near sightedness is not necessarily confined to eyes. People generally fail to see beyond their daily and worldly needs when they acquire wealth. They cannot see that without God-given riches and talents they never could have become the owners of vast worldly goods. They forget that there is a far greater wealth yet to be obtained; the wealth vested in eternal life.

All through the scriptures, we are given the records of the up and downs of people following in the footsteps of Christ. Whenever they began to possess the abundance, and the fullness of the earth, their hearts were turned away from God. Their hearts were with their treasures, and their treasures were vested in worldly goods.

We find in the words of Jacob, Book of Jacob, 2: 23, 24:

"But before ye seek for riches, seek ye for the kingdom of God. And after ye have obtained a hope in Christ, ye shall obtain riches, if ye seek them; and ye will seek them, for the intent to do good; to clothe the naked, and to feed the hungry, and to liberate the captive, and administer relief to the sick, and the afflicted."

The thought has often occurred to me, that after people have sought the kingdom of God, and have obtained a hope in Christ, they realize the futility of seeking earthly goods, and hence have no desire for worldly wealth. Consequently their greatest efforts will be exerted otherwise than in the acquiring of riches. Of course we all know that we have to put forth our best effort to conquer in this world. If our best effort is used in the building of God's kingdom here on earth, we don't have much time left for "laying up treasures on earth." In other words, as has been said: "We labor in God's kingdom by profession, but are shoemakers from necessity."

Another thought that has occurred to me is that if and when we make ourselves—that is, the church as a whole—worthy of being God's stewards, when we show ourselves capable of handling the one talent given to us, God will entrust other talents to our care, even though they be borrowed from the Egyptians.

There is an often expressed phrase: "America is money mad." It isn't anything unusual that the present day inhabitants of this continent want wealth and lots of it. The ancient Americans were money mad too, and because their desires ran in that channel they were brought down to captivity, and even to utter destruction. Money cannot buy a crown in heaven, but it may buy a home with the devil.

Now that prosperity with all its evils is on the way to recovery, it might be well to remember the lamentations of Alma: (Book of Alma, 16: 100-106.)

"Now when Alma saw this, his heart was grieved: for he saw that they were a wicked and a perverse people; yea, he saw that their hearts were set upon gold, and upon silver, and upon all manner of fine goods.

"Yea, and he also saw that their hearts were lifted up unto great boasting, in their pride.

"And he lifted up his voice to heaven, and cried, saying: O how long, O Lord, wilt thou suffer that thy servants shall dwell here below in the flesh, to behold such gross wickedness among the children of men.

"Behold, O God they cry unto thee, and yet their hearts are swallowed up in their pride.

"Behold, O God, they cry unto thee with their mouths, while they are puffed up, even to greatness, with the vain things of the world.

"Behold, O my God, their costly apparel, and their ringlets, and their bracelets, and their ornaments of gold, and all their precious things which they are ornamented with;

"And behold, their hearts are set upon them, and yet they cry unto thee and say, We thank thee, O God, for we are a chosen people unto thee, while others shall perish."

Now at Eve

The rain fell all the day, and now at eve
The woods are smiling from their bath of showers;
In beauty as intangible they live
As of all fragile things, and frailest flowers;
Earth must be happy in such garments dressed!
What cool delight must dwell beneath those trees!
With Heaven's own baptism they have been blest,
Devout, all Nature seems brought to her knees;
In holy offices of love outspent,
Thus are the fairest of earth's fair ones purged,
That they might feel the chastening of the rain
Teaching love's secret attribute of pain;
Oh never death was, yet new-born emerged
A flower of life from its own cerement.

—Evan J. Thomas, in the Christian Herald.

What is the best government? That which teaches us to govern ourselves.—Goethe.

No man is such a conqueror as the man who has defeated himself.—Henry Ward Beecher.

www.LatterDayTruth.org

WILLIAM MILLER

That Mrs. White indorsed William Miller, I quote from the eleventh edition of Early Writings made up from two small earlier works, Experience and Views, and Spiritual Gifts, published in 1851 and 1858. "God sent his angel to move upon the heart of a farmer who had not believed the Bible, to lead him to search the prophecies. Angels of God repeatedly visited that chosen one, to guide his mind and open to his understanding prophecies which had ever been dark to God's people. The commencement of the chain of truth was given to him, and he was led on to search for link after link, until he looked with wonder and admiration upon the word of God."—Early Writings, page 229.

"As John the Baptist heralded the first advent of Jesus, and prepared the way for his coming, so William Miller and those who joined with him proclaimed the second advent of the Son of God."—Ibid., page 230.

"God directed the mind of William Miller to the prophecies, and gave him great light on the Book of Revelation."—Ibid., page 231.

"If Daniel's visions had been understood, the people could better have understood the visions of John. But at the right time, God moved upon his chosen servant, who with clearness and in the power of the Holy Spirit, opened the prophecies, and showed the harmony of the visions of Daniel and John, and other portions of the Bible, and pressed home upon the hearts of the people the sacred, fearful warnings of the word to prepare for the coming of the Son of Man.—Ibid., page 231.

"Angels of God accompanied William Miller in his mission. He was firm and undaunted fearlessly proclaiming the message committed to his trust. A world lying in wickedness, and a cold, worldly church, were enough to call into action all his energies, and lead him willingly to endure toil, privation and suffering."—Ibid., page 232.

"I saw that God was in the proclamation of the time in 1843. It was His design to arouse the people and bring them to a testing point, where they should decide for or against the truth. Ministers were convinced of the correctness of the positions taken on the prophetic periods, and some renounced their pride, and left their salaries and their churches to go forth from place to place to give the message."—Ibid., page 232.

"Thousands were led to embrace the truth preached by William Miller, and servants of God were raised up in the spirit and power of Elijah to proclaim the message. Like John, the forerunner of Jesus, those who preached this solemn message felt compelled to lay the ax at the root of the tree, and call upon men to bring forth fruits meet for repentance. Their testimony was calculated to arouse and powerfully affect the churches, and manifest their real character. And as the solemn warning to flee from the wrath to come was sounded, many who were united with the churches received the healing message."—Ibid., page 233.

" 'No man knoweth the day nor the hour,' was heard from hypercritical minister and the bold scoffer. Neither would be instructed and corrected by those who were pointing to the year when they believed the prophetic periods would run out, and to the signs which showed Christ near even at the doors. Many shepherds of the flock, who professed to love Jesus, said that they had no opposition to the preaching of Christ's coming, but they objected to the definite time. God's all-seeing eye read their hearts. They did not love Jesus near. They knew that their unchristian lives would not stand the test, for they were not walking in the humble path marked out by Him. These false shepherds stood in the way of the work of God."—Ibid. pages 233, 234.

"Ministers who would not accept this saving message themselves hindered those who would have received it. The blood of souls is upon them. Preachers and people joined to oppose this message from heaven, and to persecute William Miller and those who united with him in the work."—Ibid., page 234.

In the above Mrs. White claims that William Miller was "visited by angels," "accompanied by angels," "that his mind was guided by angels," "that God gave him great light," "that his message was truth," "that it was from heaven," "that the blood of souls was upon those who opposed him," "that his work was like that of John the Baptist," "that he came in the spirit and power of Elijah." What more could be claimed for a prophet? But what was his message? He first declared that Christ would come in the autumn of 1843. When that failed he again set the time in 1844. That also failed, and the thing did not follow nor come to pass, so according to the Bible we need not fear him. But the Adventists, always resourceful and unwilling to admit themselves wrong, have shifted the responsibility for their blunder, and charge God, who according to the Bible, is a God of truth, and neither the author of deception nor confusion, with purposely misleading them in the parts of the message that failed. Listen to Mrs. White:

"I saw the people of God joyfull in expectation, looking for their Lord. But God designed to prove them. His hand covered a mistake in the reckoning of the prophetic periods. Those who were looking for their Lord did not discover this mistake, and the most learned men who opposed the time also failed to see it. God designed that his people should meet with a disappointment."—Page 235.

Think of it! a man humbly, courageously, and faithfully serving God, directed by him and accompanied by angels, sent to declare a message of truth from heaven; with the blood of souls required of those who rejected it, and the God of truth designing that his message of truth, should be a falsehood, and disappoint those who believed it. Absurd! preposterous! and without precedent in the Bible. I do read, however, "And for this cause God shall send them strong delusions, that they should believe a lie; that they might all be damned who believe not the truth, but had pleasure in unrighteousness." (2 Thessalonians 2: 11, 12.)

Also Jesus says: "Then if any man shall say unto you, Lo, here is Christ, or there; believe it not. For there shall rise false Christs, and false prophets, and shall show great signs and wonders; insomuch that, if it were possible, they shall deceive the very elect."—Matthew 24: 23, 24.

"Beware of false prophets, which come to you in sheep's clothing, but inwardly they are ravening wolves. Ye shall know them by their fruits. Do men gather grapes of thorns or figs of thistles?"—Matthew 7: 15, 16.

"But of that day and hour knoweth no man, no, not the angels of heaven, but my Father only."—Matthew 24: 36.

"For yourselves know perfectly that the day of the Lord so cometh as a thief in the night."—1 Thessalonians 5: 2.

From the above Scriptures it stands out plainly that if God shall send delusion it will be to those who loved not the truth but had pleasure in unrighteousness, and to claim that God designed to deceive them would force us to look upon them as being in that class. That William Miller's teaching was a delusion, cannot be successfully denied. That they were deceived by it is a matter of history. So whichever horn of their dilemma they take, it is not to their credit.

Matthew 24: 24 indicates that it will not be possible to deceive the elect; therefore we cannot consider those deceived as being the elect.

That the angels who attended William Miller were not angels of God is evident, because they professed to tell things that the angels of heaven didn't know. So, it seems that he was in undesirable company.

They try to vindicate their position, however, by calling attention to the fact that until after the resurrection of Christ his disciples did not understand his mission and were looking for him to establish an earthly kingdom.

But in the mistaken understanding of the disciples, did angels guide them into these mistakes? Was God in them? Did he approve of them? Did John the Baptist make mistakes in his preaching that in after time required patching up? Never. There is no parallel. When Jesus met the two disciples on the way to Emmaus he did not commend, nor justify their mistakes, nor tell them that God purposely caused them to be mistaken. On the contrary we read, "Then said he unto them, O fools, and slow of heart to believe all that the prophets have spoken."—Luke 24: 25.

www.LatterDayTruth.org

Quite different from the Adventists. Again, "Afterward he appeared to the eleven as they sat at meat, and upbraided them with their unbelief and hardness of heart, because they believed not them which had seen him after he was risen." (Mark 16: 14.) So we cannot accept their claim that William Miller was a chosen servant of God but rather believe that he deceived himself and all who followed him. So we reject him and the claims made for him by the Adventists.

Mrs. Ellen G. White

Next we will examine the claim of Mrs. E. G. White as a prophetess.

First: She was among those deceived by William Miller. I quote from Early Writings.

"At the age of eleven years I was converted, and when twelve years old was baptized and joined the Methodist church. At the age of thirteen I heard William Miller deliver his second course of lectures in Portland, Maine. I then felt that I was not holy, not ready to see Jesus. And when the invitation was given for church members and sinners to come forward for prayers, I embraced the first opportunity, for I knew that I must have a great work done for me to fit me for heaven. My soul was thirsting for full and free salvation, but knew not how to obtain it."—Early Writings, page 11.

"In 1842, I constantly attended Second Advent meetings in Portland, Maine, and fully believed that the Lord was coming."—Ibid., page 11.

"I thought that those who loved Jesus would love his coming, so went to the class meeting and told them what Jesus had done for me, and what a fulness I enjoyed through believing that the Lord was coming. The class leader interrupted me, saying, 'Through Methodism'; but I could not give the glory to Methodism, when it was Christ and the hope of his soon coming that had made me free."—Ibid., page 13.

"Most of my father's family were full believers in the advent, and for bearing testimony to this glorious doctrine, seven of us were at one time cast out of the Methodist church."—Ibid., page 13.

So according to her own statement, although she claims she was converted and joined the Methodist church, she had not obtained and knew not how to obtain a full and free salvation. Her first satisfying experience came through hearing and accepting the teaching of William Miller, that the Lord would come in 1843 and later in 1844.

Jesus says, "Sanctify them through thy truth." (John 17: 17.)

William Miller's message was not God's word because it was not truth but a delusion, so her first satisfying experience came through a delusion.

Next, her own visions and prophecies will not stand when subjected to a scriptural test. Let us notice some statements made by her of a vision she claims to have had in 1847.

"I saw an angel fly swiftly to me. He quickly carried me from earth to the Holy City. In the city I saw a temple, which I entered. I passed through a door before I came to the first veil. This veil was raised and I passed into the holy place. Here I saw the altar of incense, the candlestick with seven lamps, and the table on which was the showbread. After viewing the glory of the holy, Jesus raised the second veil and I passed into the holy of holies—In the holiest I saw an ark:—In the ark was the golden pot of manna, Aaron's rod that budded, and the tables of stone, which folded together like a book. Jesus opened them, and I saw the ten commandments written on them with the finger of God. On one table were four, and on the other six. The four on the first table shone brighter than the other six. But the fourth, the Sabbath commandment, shone above them all; for the Sabbath was set apart to be kept in honor of God's holy name."—Early Writings, page 32.

The nearest I find authority for the above is found in Revelation 11: 19, where I read:

"And the temple of God was opened in heaven, and there was seen in his temple the ark of his testament; and there were lightnings, and voices, and thunderings, and an earthquake and great hail."

There is nothing in the above to justify her claim that in the ark was seen the golden pot of manna, Aaron's rod that budded, nor the two tables of stone with the Ten Commandments. To say so would simply be to add to the book of Revelation, and in the last chapter of that book we read, (Revelation 22: 18):

"For I testify unto every man that heareth the words of the prophecy of this book, If any man shall add to these things, God shall add unto him the plagues that are written in this book."

But she says that she was carried to the Holy City. Well, this is still more absurd, and wherever she went it is evident that she was mistaken in the place she was in. For I read, "And I, John saw the holy city, new Jerusalem, coming down from God out of heaven, prepared as a bride adorned for her husband." (Revelation 21: 2.) Again: "And I saw no temple therein: for the Lord God Almighty and the Lamb are the temple of it." (Revelation 21: 22.)

Here she not only adds to the words of the book, but presumes to contradict the writer by claiming that she saw a temple and its furniture when John says that he didn't even see a temple.

Her claim that the Fourth Commandment shown with more luster than the others is not very appealing when we compare the idea of the paramount importance she attached to it, with what we read: "For whosoever shall keep the whole law, and yet offend in one point, he is guilty of all." (James 2: 10.)

So far as the Ten Commandments (which we will show later was the national law to the children of Israel) are concerned, each was equally important.

She makes an absurd application of the promise made to the church in Philadelphia which reads: "And to the angel of the church in Philadelphia write; These things saith he that is holy, he that is true, he that hath the key of David, he that openeth and no man shutteth, and shutteth and no man openeth; I know thy works: behold, I have set before thee an open door, and no man can shut it." (Revelation 3: 7, 8.)

Mrs. White writes: "I saw that Jesus had shut the door of the holy place, and no man can open it; and that he had opened the door into the most holy, and no man can shut it. (Revelation 3: 7, 8.) And that since Jesus has opened the door into the most holy place, which contains the ark, the commandments have been shining out to God's people, and they are being tested on the Sabbath question."—Early Writings, page 42.

This purported revelation was not received until March 24, 1849, and previous to the time of Mrs. White they did not observe the seventh day as the Sabbath. So when she was shown that Jesus opened the door for the Sabbath to shine out to God's people she uses a text that was given to a local church, In the present tense, in 96 A. D., and tries to make it apply to specific conditions 1753 years later.

The above so-called testimony or revelation, was given to explain another blunder they had made in believing and teaching for a time a doctrine similar to the Old Testament teaching that when the high priest in the temple service went once a year into the most holy place to make an atonement for the people, and cleanse the sanctuary, that after he went into the most holy place no further sacrifices could be made for the sins of the year that was past; That the door of further opportunity was closed for that year. So the Adventists claimed for a time that when Jesus entered the most holy place in heaven in 1844, that the door was closed forever against those who had resisted their message. I read: "After the passing of the time of expectation, in 1844 Adventists still believed the Savior's coming to be very near; they held that they had reached an important crisis, and the work of Christ as man's intercessor before God had ceased.

(To be continued. This is the second installment of a cumulative tract publication which will be printed in sections until completed. The installments may be cut out and preserved for reference or loan purposes.)

www.LatterDayTruth.org

Weekly Health Letter

Eczema—A Common Disease of the Skin

By A. W. Teel, M. D., Church Physician

I am receiving numerous letters almost daily requesting my advice concerning eczema, which is one of the most common skin disorders.

Children suffer unspeakable agony, especially if it covers the whole body, which sometimes persists in spite of every effort upon the part of the parents. Some authorities believe it to be associated with some form of food poisoning and indigestion. The younger the patient, the more severe and persistent is the disease. It differs from psoriasis, as psoriasis is pock-marked and itching, and produces a graylike inflammation of the skin; while eczema is moist, red, and has crusty and scabby formations with marked burning and itching.

At least thirty per cent of all skin disease is eczema, and many mothers have great fear that it is contagious. Fortunately it is not. It cannot be transmitted from one person to another. It is much more prevalent in bottle fed babies than those that are breast fed.

In all cases it is important that the general health be properly looked after, which includes disorders of the digestive tract and constipation. Tobacco and alcohol in all forms should be discontinued. Relaxation and avoidance of overwork is absolutely imperative. In all cases, the diet should be carefully watched. It is well to bear in mind that some have a peculiar sensitiveness to some particular kind of food that often produces eczema. The daily use of cathartics is not advisable, but regular elimination is highly essential.

Unfortunately, many mothers do not realize the stubbornness of eczema, and become discouraged because of the long drawn-out treatment that is necessary in most cases. It often takes a long time before the cause may be discovered, and in many instances relief cannot be obtained until every item in the diet has been carefully considered. No promiscuous remedies should be used, unless advised by the physician.

The diet especially for infants should be carefully regulated so as to secure normal digestion and regulation of the bowels. Milk in some cases seems to be a cause of constipation especially in young children. Such cases require the substitution of vegetable purees and gruels to which a little butter may be added. In adults, a high-protein diet must be discontinued. Inactivity of the bowels with its resultant intestinal toxemia must not be neglected.

The Open Conspiracy

The old flags and faiths have lost their magic for the intelligence of the young; they can command it no more; it is in the mighty revolution to which the Open Conspiracy directs itself that the youth of mankind must once more find its soul if ever it is to find its soul again.

The new life that the Open Conspiracy struggles to achieve through us for our race is first a life of liberations. The oppression of incessant toil can surely be lifted from everyone, and the miseries due to a great multitude of infections and disorders of nutritions and growth cease to be a part of human experience. Few people are perfectly healthy nowadays except for brief periods of happiness, but the elation of physical well-being will some day be the common lot of mankind. And not only from natural evils will man be largely free. He will be left with his soul tangled, haunted by monstrous and irrational fears and a prey to malicious impulse. From his birth he will breathe sweetness and generosity and use his mind and hands cleanly and exactly. He will feel better, will better, think better, see, taste and hear better than men do now. All these things are plainly possible for him. They pass out of his tormented desire now, they elude and mock him, because chance, confusion and squalor rule his life. All the gifts of destiny are overlaid and lost to him. He must still suspect and fear.

Within the peace and freedom our Open Conspiracy will win, all these good things that escape us now may be ensured. A graver humanity, stronger, more lovely, longer lived, will learn and develop the ever-enlarging possibilities of its destiny. For the first time, the full beauty of this world will be revealed to its unhurried eyes. Its thoughts will be to our thoughts as the thoughts of a man to the troubled mental experimenting of a child. And all the best of us will be living on in that ampler life, as the child and the things it tried and learnt still live in the man. When we were children, we could not think or feel as we think and feel today, but today we can peer back and still recall something of the ignorances and guesses and wild hopes of these nigh forgotten years. And so mankind, ourselves still living, dispersed and reconstructed in the future, will recall with affection and understanding the desperate wishes and troubled efforts of our present state.—From H. G. Wells, The Open Conspiracy.

Since there is but one faith, one true Lord, one true baptism, there can be only one true church or body of Christ. (See Ephesians fourth chapter.)—D. E. Tucker in The True Way Is the Gospel Way.

www.LatterDayTruth.org

DISCIPLESHIP

II.—Straddling Disciples

By Blair Jensen

ONE of the gems of the ancient Scriptures with which all should be familiar is contained in the seventh chapter of the book of Judges. It is the story of Gideon and his selection of an army to repulse and overthrow the enemies of the people of Jehovah. Thirty-two thousand warriors had responded to the call to arms. Numerically they were far surpassed by the enemy. Then came the word of Jehovah to Gideon telling him that his army was too large and ordering him to proclaim that all who were afraid were to depart from Mount Gilead. Twenty-two thousand withdrew. Again came the command that the army of ten thousand was too large, and to march them to the water to drink. Nine thousand and seven hundred fell upon their knees and drank, three hundred scooped a handful of water to their lips as they remained alert to the possibilities of sudden attack. The story concludes with success coming to the strategic attack of this band of three hundred. We are taught herein that victory is not determined by numbers, and this fact is confirmed each day upon the battle fields of China.

Our subject is that of "Straddling Disciples" and we have carefully selected the story of Gideon's army as a background for our sermon. When this subject first became my assignment, I was immediately reminded of an interesting experience that I observed when a boy. My sister was sent to gather the eggs. With a bucket in her arms she blithely went forth. All was well until she attempted to climb over the board fence that barred her way to the cow shed. I presume that as she threw one leg over the topmost board she chanced to look down and suddenly felt that the earth was terribly distant from her. At least there she remained, straddling the fence, and shrieking hysterically until Mother arrived and returned her to the ground. Her task was unaccomplished. Another had to complete it. And so I meditated. How like unto "straddling disciples"—they straddle the fence. They cry aloud in unfounded fear. Another must spend his valuable time seeking to give them assistance and yet another must assume the responsibility of their task.

There are a few characteristics of "straddling disciples" that we desire to consider briefly. The first is carelessness. This is pointedly brought out in the story of Gideon's army. Nine thousand and seven hundred men were careless enough to fall upon their knees and thirstily drink of the water when they knew the enemies to be close about them, when they knew that the safety of Jehovah's people was in their hands. People even today and within the church are many times eminently careless of responsibilities of membership they have assumed, ofttimes thoughtlessly not realizing the value of alertness upon their part. The responsibility of church membership should be individually protected by every guard and precaution that one can throw around it. Carelessness regarding it means not alone the spiritual death of the individual but likewise that of others who may look to him for a pattern. One cannot speak too forcefully upon the matter of carelessness of personal conduct and especially of the personal conduct of the priesthood. I doubt not but that today every district and stake has suffered and is handicapped because men called of God have carelessly lived upon a lower plane than that upon which they were called to live. Especially is it true of the priesthood that not one of them can be so careless of his personal conduct as to bring stain to his name and reputation without the church to some extent being smeared by the same filth. The greater the responsibility he has assumed the greater the suffering of the church. Carelessness of responsibility and personal conduct is indeed a characteristic of straddling discipleship.

Another is indecision. Elijah contended with this and his ringing challenge was issued in his words spoken upon Mount Carmel. "How long go ye limping between the two sides. If Jehovah be God follow Him, but if Baal, then follow him." All of us appreciate the individual who will make a decision. If we do not agree with the decision he has made, at least we appreciate knowing where he stands and what his opinion is.

I have heard that an individual joined the church in Utah and our own. When sought out for his reason as to wishing membership in both the reply was had that he was certain that the Restoration Movement was true, but, as he did not know which church now had the most light, he wanted to be sure. I presume the church in the West would rate such a member as about as valuable as we would. Today the church is handicapped because of straddling disciples, individuals who as yet are undecided and have not determined whether this church is worth the demands it makes upon them. They wait to see what will happen. Perhaps if the cloud will be pushed aside by a brilliant display of sunshine they will swing in with us, but if the shadow deepens they will turn aside. Meanwhile they limp and straddle.

www.LatterDayTruth.org

Many would qualify as straddling disciples because they have allowed personal desires and selfishness to become their master. Judas is a fitting example. There is no question regarding his love and devotion to the ideals of his race. He had longed for the Messiah. He hoped and believed that in Jesus he had found him. His interpretation, though, was of a national victory; Rome to be overthrown, Jesus to be clad in robes of purple, the Jews to become the great nation among nations, and he wanted to have a part in it; to wear a richly bedecked robe, to be counseled with, to have an active part in the material affairs. When he finally concluded that Jesus would have nothing to do with an earthly and material kingdom, he betrayed him and then in remorse hanged himself. Unhappy, disappointed, and made so through his own selfishness, he is today despised and reviled by a world which loves and reveres his fellow companions. Whenever a man in the church has selfishly aspired it has invariably resulted in disappointment to himself, sorrow to his friends, and difficulties for the church. Indeed, many have straddled because of personal selfishness.

A final characteristic of a straddling disciple is fear. A quotation paraphrased would read, "He who straddles for fear of men can be no other than a straddling disciple so long as he does not master it."

The Apostle Peter had his moments of straddling and they certainly brought him in sorrow to his knees in remorse. For examples, the time during the passion week when thrice within a few hours he denied his Master and again many years later when he had his hand so strongly called by the Apostle Paul in the matter of the circumcision of Gentile Christians, as found recorded in the latter half of the second chapter of the Galatian epistle.

Today we have individuals who when elected to office in politics or what is deemed to be a position of honor, by their actions and sometimes words deny their church membership, forgetting the admonition given by Isaiah to those following after righteousness and seek in Jehovah, "look unto the rock whence ye were hewn and to the hole of the pit whence ye were digged."

Twenty-two thousand fearful recruits of Gideon's army returned to their homes and victory came without them, by reason of the fact that they were not present to bring confusion, hysteria and retreat.

Browning has written, "If you have not the stuff to dare to be good, better be a frank, open sinner than a colorless, hesitating nonentity."

Startling and challenging though this thought may be to us, yet we must recognize its verity. Conversions do come to those who are frank sinners, but seldom to those who straddle.

Straddling, when stripped of its embellishments, is revealed to us as hypocrisy. A straddling disciple, bluntly and plainly, is a hypocrite. By word he may maintain allegiance; by act he denies it. He attempts to serve two masters.

Our task is in our individual lives, to eliminate carelessness, master our indecisions, cast aside selfishness, and overcome indifference and fear. We must diminish those negative factors that vitiate and destroy our value as would-be Crusaders, that we shall stand forth revealed as true and living disciples of the lowly Nazarene, the Son of God.

Victory comes not because of straddling disciples, but in spite of them.

Only a Dog

By Edna Stobaugh

One can see, on the busy streets of a big city during the course of a year, many dogs lying dead by the side of the highway. Not much thought is given to the incident as onward each car goes. But whose pal and whose friend was destroyed that day?

One evening, while driving along the road, the engine stopped, and just ahead of the headlights, one could see a dog standing upright watching over an object. By observing more closely one could see a second dog lying dead just behind the first one. The latter, with saddened expression turned toward me pleadingly, was guarding her mate who had been killed by a passing traveler.

While sitting there waiting for the car to be repaired, I noticed the dog trying to lift the victim by the shoulders and drag him to the walk. It was a big task, and fearing the eyes of a stranger, she left her pal and lay down a short distance away to keep watch. The expression in the face of that dog was the most pitiful sight I had seen for a long time.

Recently I read a poem, "Only a Dog," written by Kenneth Beech Johnson, published in Our Dumb Animals, and the whole affair was brought vividly back to my mind.

"Only a dog,"
The motorist said.
"Only a dog,"
As he onward sped;
Leaving the dog in the roadway—dead.
Only a dog—I had loved and fed.

Only a dog,
We laid him away;
Only a dog,
But I tried to pray:
"Goodbye, old pal—" was all I could say
Only a dog—but I cried that day.

Only a dog,
But a faithful friend.
Only a dog,
And I could depend
On his love and trust to the very end.
Only a dog—but you comprehend.
Only a dog,
And I know he'll be
Only a dog,
Waiting faithfully—
Waiting to welcome me gleefully—
Only a dog—for eternity.

Fingerprinting Beggars

The proverbial freedom of the vagabond is rapidly disappearing. In Germany every man or woman who admits to being a gypsy must now have a fingerprint taken and sent to the Gypsy Police Office at Munich, which attempts to exercise some supervision over those wandering colonies which have steadfastly refused to carry personal papers or to bother with birth, marriage, and death certificates.

In Japan professional beggars have their own union or association, which has protested against the precedent set by Tokyo police in forbidding the use of miserable-looking children as lures to ensnare the passerby. These beggars declare that if such children are sent to the state orphan asylums begging will no longer pay.

A remarkable change has come over Italy and Sicily, too. Mussolini abolished begging by edict, and even attempted to suppress the mendicant organ-grinder abroad because he impaired Italy's dignity in foreign estimation. And Mexico is following Italy's example. During the Christmas season beggars proved to be such a pest in Mexico City that President Calles ordered the police to arrest them, and provincial authorities were charged to do likewise.

Czechoslovakia has been dealing with beggars in a rather complicated and interesting way. In Prague last winter a system was introduced whereby anybody who felt charitably inclined could buy metal discs from the city authorities. Then, instead of a coin, the mendicant was given a disc, which he took to a courteous and sympathetic, though perhaps not soft-hearted, Welfare Committee. Here he was given food, clothing, advice and work. The Czechoslovak Government, moreover, is now considering comprehensive and drastic measures to control roving gypsies. Vagrants will be required to possess identity books and to register their fingerprints and firearms.—The Living Age.

When the Bible touches sin, it grasps it with the rough hand of a man in earnest. It acknowledges the presence of it, it confesses the reality of it, it emphasizes the malignity and the awful danger of it, and stirs up in the heart a passionate desire to get rid of it.—Charles Edward Jefferson, in Things Fundamental.

Those who cannot command themselves cannot command others.—Hazlitt.

www.LatterDayTruth.org

Prayer and Testimony

A Prayer

(On Seeing a Lighthouse Near Boston)

By Mrs. George Orr

Dear God, thou lighthouse of my soul, shine brighter still!
Let not the foggy night conceal the way,
Guide me safely through each threatening ill;
Lead me to the dawn of endless day.
And as thy beckoning ray, the powers of life unfold,
May all the deeds that dim thy kindly light
Die, in the deepest shades of night untold,
That thou mayst ever stronger show thy might.
And, as I catch the lovelight of thy gleam,
Teach me of its nurture and its care,
That when some life in shadows falls unseen,
I may reflect its glory radiantly there,
And over many a dangerous pathway hover,
To be a kindly lighthouse for another.

Notes From Young People's Prayer Meeting in Independence

By The Reporter

It was not an unusual prayer meeting that the young people of the Stone Church enjoyed on a recent Wednesday night, but it was expressive of the joyous and intrepid spirit of youth and the willingness and desire of young men and women to do their part in the cause of Christ. These prayer meetings are improving in spirit, in number, and in participation under the leadership of Elder T. A. Beck, now assisted in song by Elder Evan A. Fry, and others.

On this particular Wednesday night Elder C. Ed. Miller spoke fervently, stirringly, on "The Need of the Old Faith," following which the worshipers sang the hymn which begins:

"Take my life, and let it be Consecrated, Lord, to thee."

Gleanings from the testimonies voiced will be of interest to all the church, I am sure, for the thoughts given words expressed the spirit which prevailed at the Youth Conference at Lamoni a few weeks ago.

A young woman, a Graceland student and daughter of an active missionary in the church, was the first to speak. She said:

"We do not know how much joy we can get out of a task until we have done that task. If we look, we see things about us to do, and in doing them, we help the church, and help each other. Pray for me that I may help in our big task."

Another Graceland girl declared: "I was fortunate enough to be reared in a small branch of the church, where we knew each other and were concerned about each other's needs and interests. Eagerly we listened to news of the church at large. And then I read in Autumn Leaves about the Evánelia, the gospel boat. It thrilled me just to think that our church at one time had such a boat to carry missionaries to distant places over the sea. Then at Graceland I heard Brother Miller speak of the Evanelia and he showed us a picture of it, and I knew that I was going to school with one of the girls whose people traveled for the church on that boat. This realization strengthened me in the purposefulness of the gospel."

At that a third young woman spoke. She is a new bride in Independence, and she and her husband both attended Graceland:

"I should like to have been the first to speak tonight, but already two have spoken. It just shows that if we are not ready to do the work of the Lord, some one else will do it. Every day we as young people are passing up responsibilities. Shall we begin to do our work? One of the best ways to begin is to study—to learn the truths of the Bible, Book of Mormon, and Doctrine and Covenants. Then after we have studied we can begin to teach. There is no better way to find the Christ than by leading others to him. The third thing for us to do is to pray, for from God we get our strength. These three things are links between the songs we have sung tonight, 'I Love to Tell the Story' and 'Let Us Pray for One Another.'"

"Though I am not a member of this congregation, I am happy to be here, and I want to tell you that I feel the time has never been better for young people to move out and rid themselves of the things which hinder them in doing the work of Christ," earnestly declared a young man. "I wish to be one of those who push forward for this purpose."

Then a young woman arose: "This is the first time I have taken the opportunity to speak at a prayer meeting in Independence. Since my childhood I have had the ambition to attend Graceland. For a time my family lived away from a branch of the church; nevertheless, we had meetings in our own home. We read from the books of the church, and opened our service with prayer and song. Tonight, more than ever, I see my own weaknesses; I realize that we never appreciate some things as we should. Pray for me that I may be thankful for the things I have."

"My experiences of the past week have taught me a new appreciation of the problems and difficulties faced by our pioneer forefathers," stated a young woman sitting near the back of the room. "For five days I have been camping in the woods with thirty-five Girl Scouts and a camp staff of five. As we trailed through the woods, even though they were not the wildernesses crossed by our forefathers who pushed westward to the land of Missouri, a new gratitude came to me for their earnestness in the gospel, their fortitude, and their love of Christ. They had a great goal to reach—Zion, and their faith was strong. It brought them through tremendous difficulties. I thank God for the opportunities we enjoy today, and ask the prayers of the Saints, that I, too, may share in the old faith."

At that a young priest stood up: "We know that the church of former years had certain things for which we of today would not care. Consider their lighting system, their transportation. And yet they had one thing which was most precious to them and which is most precious to us—the old Jerusalem gospel. Many years ago our forefathers worshiped in the same way we do. Two thousand years ago Christ was on earth and gave us the gospel. Before his time, Abraham was given a great promise by his God. He, too, worshiped as do we. Physical things about us have changed, but the gospel has not changed. How many of us are worthy the divine testimony given those who have faithfully, devotedly, served the Lord? The call has come for us to seek our King as did Saint Christopher in the legend told us by Brother Beck. During the last two or three months I have been waking up. I have been wondering what my message as a member of the priesthood should be. Now I have found that message—it is one to awake to the great responsibilities of the day. It will remind people that we are living in a day when great opportunities and great obstacles face us."

"We come to these prayer meetings," contributed a young woman, "to gain strength and courage to face the tasks of

www.LatterDayTruth.org

Prayer and Testimony

each day. And here we learn that others come for the same purpose. It is wonderful to think that we have such a source of help. My desire is that I may be found always faithful."

"I think I know that the old faith is needed today," stated the eldest son of the pastor in Zion. "I had an experience up at school. I was working in a group of 269 young fellows. Some were new—had been there three months. From this new group a young man who had the old faith was chosen to take a responsible position. As he and I were talking one day he asked me: 'How many fellows down there do you suppose are like the few of us? How many do not smoke? How many do not drink? How many are honestly making an effort? How many take the time to drop a kind word?' This young fellow had within him the old faith. The institution had recognized this faith in him and it had called him to work. Tonight I know that we need to follow Jesus—we need to have the old faith."

"Walking In The Light"

By Mrs. Lillian Gamet

Sometimes I wonder had I been brought to see the light of the gospel in some miraculous way, if I would more fully realize the power of it. About three years ago I was on my way to church in a large city and was thinking of the gospel and my part in it. As I left the street car another lady, a stranger to me, also got off, and I discovered she was also going to church. I soon learned she was a member of the church and she began telling me of her conversion and how happy she was in the work. She had experienced a wonderful testimony of the truth of the work. I told her how I had often felt and upon learning I had always been in the church, she quickly said, "Why, you have never known what it means to be in the dark and come into light for you have always been in the light." Those words were indeed a great comfort to me, and I shall never forget the peace they brought to me.

I and my family have enjoyed the blessings of healing under the hands of the elders many times. I wish to mention one that was outstanding in power.

Our youngest son was stricken with infantile paralysis at the age of three. His whole left side was apparently useless, and the day we were placed under quarantine, he was in a very critical condition. We asked two elders who lived near us if they were willing to come. Fearlessly, they came to the house and administered to him. Four days from that time he could walk, and continued to grow strong. The attending physician told us many times he could not account for such a remarkable change, and asked to take the child to a large medical convention to see if they could still find anything wrong.

It is my desire to live in a way worthy of such blessings and to be able to help others see the light. I desire to be remembered in the prayers of the Saints.

LAMONI, IOWA.

I Have Good Faith

By Merle Thompson

I am only a little girl, and soon will be eleven years old. I was baptized when I was eight and a half years old, and I enjoy going to Sunday school and helping to sing. I like best of all the prayer service, and I ask the prayers of the Saints that I may live and learn more about the church every day.

BREWTON, ALABAMA, Route C, Box 168.

The Lord Answers Prayer

By Mrs. J. H. Kuykendall

In 1929, I attended the church at Long Beach. The Saints there were the most friendly people I had ever met, and I was deeply impressed. I was a nonmember, and as soon as I began to accept the truthfulness of the gospel, the adversary tried to discourage me in every way. My friends told me falsehoods about the Book of Mormon, and also that this was a man-made church, but I thank my heavenly Father that I willingly surrendered myself to him and was not led astray by some false prophets.

For two weeks before I was baptized, there was a burning desire in my heart for a closer friendship with the Master. There seemed to be a voice whisper the assurance to me that this was the right church, but yet I was not ready to accept the Book of Mormon, nor did I want to give up my search and say the church was wrong. I kept asking the heavenly Father for wisdom and understanding that it be made known to me if it was the true church.

After three sleepless nights I was given the assurance that this was the right church and that the three books were true.

The following Sunday, Brother W. A. Teagarden preached a sermon on baptism and the laying on of hands. Following the service I asked to be baptized, and Brother J. L. Milner officiated in this ordinance. I have never regretted the step I took. I would like an interest in the prayers of the Saints that I may ever be faithful and true to the covenant which I have made with my Master.

Prays for Privilege of Attending the Church

By Mrs. Edith E. Carpenter

The Prayer and Testimony column in the Herald is a great comfort to me. I am not privileged to attend church services very often because I live too far from the church to walk, and as I sit here all alone and read the testimonies of the Saints, I think of the ones that have the opportunity to attend church and do not avail themselves of this privilege. How glad I would be if it were possible for me to attend every service. I ask that the Saints pray, that if it is God's will, I may have the privilege of going to church.

I have received many blessings from God's hand, and I am trying to live so that I may be worthy of all these blessings.

INDIAN RIVER, MICHIGAN.

Request Prayers

Sister Lucy Williams, of Pond Creek, Oklahoma, desires the prayers of the Saints, particularly those of Mount Washington, Missouri, church, for her own family and also for her sister and her husband.

Harry Tupper, of 2254 Fulton Street, Berkeley, California, requests prayers in behalf of a friend who, because of circumstances, cannot be named; to the effect that she may be led to Christ and more happily reconciled to her family, and that they may show more tenderness and kindliness to her in her infirmities.

www.LatterDayTruth.org

QUESTION TIME

Does Genesis 14: 39 teach that tithes are due only on what is not needed?

A careful analysis of the text referred to will show that Abraham paid tithes on all of his possessions, and the term "more than that which he had need" is an explanation of the fact that Abraham possessed riches above his needs, but does not imply that the tithe was based upon the surplus possessions he had obtained. The language is found in the Inspired Version, and reads as follows:

"Abraham paid unto him tithes of all that he had, of all the riches which he possessed, which God had given him more than that which he had need."—Genesis 14: 39.

In two clauses of this text it is stated that the tithe was paid on "all which he possessed," "all that he had," hence the last clause, which is separated from the rest of the sentence by a comma, must be understood to refer to the fact that God had blessed Abraham with more riches than he had need. The desire to do good on the part of Abraham enabled God to trust him with a superabundance of wealth. The word tithe itself literally means a tenth, and if Abraham paid tithes of all that he had—all of his possessions, which the text plainly states, such a tithe would not exempt any part of his wealth. Even the Pharisee, though lacking in some respects, kept this obligation strictly. Of this Luke 18: 12 says: "I give tithes of all that I possess."

The Jews of the Mosaic era were required to pay tithes of all their increase, and in this connection it should be remembered that their lands were apportioned in accordance with the requirements of the various tribes as inheritances. In some respects this is the ideal system, as the land belongs to God and is to be used for the purpose of making increase of such things as it will produce, the producer owing God the tithe of his increase thereon. But in commercial life it is clear that the land bears little direct relation to the business in which one may be engaged, hence the increase is not confined to products of the soil.

What is the meaning of Doctrine and Covenants 87: 6, "Let your families be small"?

This revelation was given in March, 1833, at Kirtland, Ohio, where the Saints had gathered in the interests of the church. Many strangers came to them, some from curiosity to see what manner of people the Saints were, and others to learn more about the new doctrine of which they had heard. It thus happened at times that the Saints supported more than they were able to care for, and some strangers did not adequately provide for the expense of their own living, but imposed upon the good will of the Saints. The text says:

"Let your families be small, especially mine aged servant Joseph Smith, sr., as pertaining to those who do not belong to your families; that those things that are provided for you, to bring to pass my work, are not taken from you and given to those that are not worthy, and thereby you are hindered in accomplishing those things which I have commanded you."—87: 6.

As may be noted, this did not refer to the number of children that parents might possess, nor was it intended to limit the number of children that one ought to have of his own family. But it was a warning to the Saints not to permit themselves to be imposed upon by those who sought only to live off of their substance.

Is there any certain place or time revealed for the battle of Armageddon?

The only knowledge we have of this event is the reference found in Revelation 16: 16, the reference to "the battle of that great day of God Almighty" being in a previous verse. This event is apparently to follow the pouring out of the vial of the sixth angel, which some interpret to mean the sixth period of the world's history, comparable to the thousands of years supposed to represent the premillennial period. But this is a matter of some uncertainty, and must therefore be considered as one of the things which God has not fully revealed. The term Armageddon, seems to imply a hill country, and probably a temporary place, but of its location nothing is clearly presented.

A. B. PHILLIPS.

www.LatterDayTruth.org

NEWS OF CHURCH AND HOME

Address all news and letters to Editors of the Herald, Box 237, Independence, Missouri. Correspondents are requested to make their letters brief. The Editors reserve the right, on account of space limitations, to shorten all letters as circumstances require.

Riverside, California

Unorganized Group Busy

A fine group of Saints living a dozen miles from a regularly organized branch, have built up a live and functioning mission group at Riverside, California.

These group meetings were started January 12, this year, Brother Arden D. Logeman, who was ordained a priest a year or two ago, in charge of the work. Since that time the meetings have continued each week, the attendance increasing from a very few until at present there is an average present of approximately twenty-five.

Four have been baptized. They are Brother and Sister David Peck, Sister Murphy and daughter. An increasing number of interested visitors attends, and it is the desire of these Saints soon to be able to bring their friends to the light of the gospel in such power and assurance that they may see fit to ally themselves with this great work.

Very commendable, too, is the work the women of this group are doing. They meet every Thursday at the home of Sister Angie Peck, who is in charge of this department, and here they have accomplished many things in the way of hand-made quilts and bazaar articles.

Brother J. F. Lacy, of Ontario, has been a help and inspiration to this group of Saints, giving his time most unselfishly in preaching and visiting among them, and on several occasions he has been privileged to speak wonderful words of encouragement to them through the Spirit of the Master, counseling them, encouraging them, and urging them to continue.

The choir and orchestra of Ontario Branch made one evening a special pleasure by their splendid music and the beautiful and generous spirit of cooperation which is the mark of true Latter Day Saints. The Riverside people are anxious for the time to come when they, too, will be able to make their contribution to the pleasure and uplift of their fellows.

The great desire of this group now is to establish a Sunday school. Surely if it is the will of the Lord, this group will soon be organized. In the meantime they are working toward this ideal by building up a treasury of which they may well be proud.

Traverse City, Michigan

Women Are Working Hard

Many of the young people here are busily engaged in helping to harvest the large cherry crop for which this region is noted.

Brother Clarence Hudson, of South Boardman, Michigan, has accepted a position at the Traverse City State Hospital, and the Saints are glad to have him meet with them.

Members of the women's department, through their untiring efforts are doing their part in helping to keep the branch up to standard under the present conditions. On July 8, they served lunch at the church dining room, and some lunches were delivered. This undertaking worked out so satisfactorily that it was repeated July 15, and proceeds amounted to $13.20.

Brothers Homer Doty, sr., Jay C. Doty, B. H. Doty, and daughter, Maxine, and Ray Dick, wife and daughter, Arliss, motored to Ludington to attend the one-day meeting held there July 16.

On July 30, a one-day meeting was held at Joyfield, Michigan. The first meeting opened at 9 a. m. This branch has been inactive for six years and through the help of Freesoil and Traverse City Branches, the gospel fire has been rekindled.

Denver, Colorado

Young People's Counsel Formed

A quiet wedding took place, June 14, at Trinidad, Colorado, when Miss Josephine Pople and Mr. Homer Shupe, both of Trinidad, were united in marriage by Elder E. F. Shupe, father of the bridegroom. Mrs. Leo Shupe, of Denver, sang, "I Love You Truly," before the service, with Miss Martha Pople at the piano. Both Mr. and Mrs. Shupe are well known to Saints throughout Eastern Colorado District and also to many of the ministry of the church who have labored in Colorado. Brother Shupe lived in Denver for many years and his bride has frequently visited here.

The young people's department held a luncheon and business meeting Sunday, July 16, following the morning service. Those who had been at the Youth Conference gave short reports on some of the classes attended, and provision was made for a council, to consist of the branch president, director of Religious Education, officers of the young people's department and four elected members. Those elected are Charlotte Darnell, Burrell Shupe, Ted Williamson and Farr Kemp. Plans were made for the work of the department for the next few months.

The little son of Cecil and Nellie Ainsworth was blessed, July 2, by Elders G. A. Smith and E. J. Williams, and given the name, John George. July 23, Ruth Elaine, infant daughter of Alman and Ethel Hurley, was blessed by Elders Smith and Williams.

Sister Anna Lundahl, aged eighty-five years, mother of Sister Anna Norris, passed away June 23, at the home of another daughter in East Saint Louis, Illinois. She was for many years a faithful and well-loved member of this branch, and made her home with Sister Norris until a year ago. In spite of the increasing infirmities of age, she was gentle, patient and cheerful. Her testimony was always, "I am so thankful for God's goodness, and that I still have my sight and can read my Bible."

Creola, Ohio

This little branch has been in existence for over forty years, and has had many experiences. Only a small number of Saints are enrolled here, but these few are faithful to their covenant with God.

Because of the small population and business opportunities offered at Creola, it has been necessary for many of the young people to go elsewhere in order to find employment. The Saints were told by Young Joseph Smith, when he preached the dedicatory sermon of the church building in 1899, that while the branch would languish it would never be uprooted if they were faithful, as it is a vine of the Lord's planting. The members have tried to be faithful.

Recently Missionary John R. Grice held a series of meetings at Creola. A lively interest was manifested and the audiences were satisfactory. The opposing force tried to counteract the success of the series when a woman Holiness preacher held services in the schoolhouse, but the effort was a failure from the start and lasted only a week.

On the next to the last Sunday seven candidates were added to the church, and on the closing Sunday nine more

www.LatterDayTruth.org

were baptized, making a total of sixteen. Eleven of these were enrolled in Creola Branch.

Lennox Mission, California

Hope to Repair Church Building

Lennox Mission, under the leadership of Elder W. J. Nuckles, is keeping step with the church in its onward march toward Zion.

The Children's Day program Sunday, June 11, was well attended.

On Monday evening, June 26, a series of missionary services were started with good attendance at every meeting. Elder D. B. Sorden, of Central Los Angeles Branch was with the Saints one night, and spoke on "Restoration."

Doctor A. W. Teel has spoken several times during the past few months, giving some very helpful talks.

The Saints are planning a social to be held at the church Friday evening, August 4. The proceeds will be used in repairing the church building. The floor and seats in the church have been painted recently and look much improved.

All are looking forward to the Southern California reunion at Laguna Beach, August 26 to September 3.

Scranton, Pennsylvania

The young people meet every Thursday evening, and have just completed a course, "The Teaching of Religion," by Charles B. Woodstock, under the guidance of their leader, Elder E. Walter Lewis.

On the morning of Sunday, May 14, the young people's society presented an enjoyable Mother's Day program.

Scranton Branch met with a great disappointment, May 26, when Pastor and Sister Thomas Jones left the branch to join their son who resides in Maine. Brother Jones was loved by all who knew him, and especially by the children. He aided in establishing a Boy Scout troop in the church in February.

The Boy Scout troop is under the leadership of Scoutmaster John Swales, a member of the young people's society. The troop was presented a flag June 14, by the Daughters of the American Revolution in the Elks' Club.

Sunday school is progressing under the church school program. A splendid program was presented on Children's Day, June 11, by the primary department. After the program two children, Leslie Parratt and Muriel Diehl were baptized by Elder E. Walter Lewis and confirmed by Elders R. J. Hawkins and E. G. Davies.

The department of women has not been idle. Sister Fanny Lewis is president of the club. The department has made and sold clam chowder and faggots; and, with the money received, have presented the branch twenty-five new Saints' Hymnals. John Morgan, an elderly member of the church, was their salesman.

The women's department is now studying "Church Objectives," and Elder E. Walter Lewis is their teacher.

The Saints enjoyed a series of meetings conducted July 9 to 11 by Evangelist George W. Robley, of Bloomsburg.

Scranton church picnic will take place August 8, at Rocky Glen.

All the activities in the church are being supervised by Pastor R. J. Hawkins, who, though a resident of Wilkes-Barre, finds time to and pleasure in shepherding the flock at Scranton.

Alva, Oklahoma

This is a small but a prosperous and spiritual branch of Saints ministered by Elder Kreel, formerly of Nebraska. They enjoy preaching services morning and evening on Sunday and have about six classes in their thriving church school. Though handicapped in some measure by lack of church facilities, Alva members are striving to carry forward the gospel message to their neighbors and friends.

There is quite a group of young people here, and they, too, are active.

On July 2, about forty members were present for the sacrament service, Brother Kreel presiding.

Thayer, Missouri

Tent Meetings Are Successful

A series of meetings opened on July 5, in the Southern Missouri District tent at Thayer, Missouri. District President W. E. Haden, Missionary J. Charles May, and Apostle John F. Garver were the speakers during this series. The attendance for the meetings ranged from one hundred and fifty to three hundred every night.

Conference was held on Saturday, July 15, and Brothers Garver and Haden were in charge of the business meeting. In the evening a program was presented in the Stone Church. Brother and Sister Francis Bishop and Marion, and Brother and Sister Ausly, from Springfield Branch, were present.

Sunday morning at the nine o'clock prayer service, everyone came fasting, and all who attended felt the Spirit of the Father in the meeting. At two-thirty in the afternoon, seven candidates were baptized. They were Mr. and Mrs. Lloyd Davis, Fred Martin, Harry Miller, Elaine, Grace, and Evelyn Hancock. Immediately following the baptism the candidates were confirmed at the tent by Brothers Haden, Davis, May, and Chrestensen.

Brother Haden went to Mapleton, Kansas, to conduct the funeral service for Hawley Dennis and on returning to Thayer he stopped at Eldorado, Missouri, to attend the funeral of R. T. Walter.

On July 19, a watermelon feast was held at the home of Brother and Sister Davis. This was a farewell to Brother Garver as he was returning to Kansas City that evening.

Sunday, July 23, Anne Byland was baptized, two others, Brother T. Burr, and Sister Bixby were baptized the following Sunday.

Kansas City Stake

The stake church school director, Elder George Mesley, called the local directors together the evening of July 18, to discuss the problems of the church leadership school to be held during October. Considerable emphasis will be laid by the faculty of the school on the quarterly as used in the various classes in the local churches. A committee of three was appointed on grading and promotions, to report at next meeting, August 8.

Argentine Church

The morning sermonet at church school was given by Elder D. P. Cooper. In the evening an interested audience listened to Elder J. E. Vanderwood discourse on the subject, "The Power to Become the Sons of God."

Fourth Church

The Holy Spirit was made manifest to a large degree in the regular monthly sacrament service the morning of July 2. Pastor James O. Worden was in charge of the service. Great effort is being made to make each sacrament service a richer spiritual experience than the preceding one.

The O. B. K.'s were in charge of the evening service. Priest Lloyd Siebert, O. B. K. Counselor, who had just returned from the Youth's Conference at Lamoni, was the speaker. He gave some of the high points of the conference in a forceful and convincing way.

Men of the local priesthood have filled the pulpit at the 11 o'clock hour for the past two months. Elder Marion Sneed, Priests Lionel Babcock, Morris Worden and Deacon Earl Raveill formed the staff. Their talks have been instructive and encouraging. Pastor James O. Worden began a series of four talks at the eight o'clock service July 9.

At the local priesthood meeting arrangements were made for the members to start visiting. The start being made with the priesthood, as a group, with their companions, visiting the home of one member of the priesthood each week. The first visit was at the home of the Pastor James O. Worden. The following week at the home of the Associate Pastor M. H. Sneed. This will lead up to the stake visiting campaign to start October 1.

The second Tuesday evening of each month the men of the local church meet for recreation. These meetings are greatly enjoyed. The last two meetings have been at the home of Brother David Evans. Games were provided by the committee in charge for the month, and plenty of homemade ice cream, cake and lemonade is available.

www.LatterDayTruth.org

The women of this group are also working under a monthly committee plan. A fine program has been provided this month. Each Thursday morning at ten-thirty devotionals are held, lunch at twelve o'clock and at one-fifteen in the afternoon pictures and lectures on such subjects as "Gift of Life," "Preventing Blindness and Drinking Health," "What the Depression Is Doing to Youth," and "A New World of Adventure," are discussed.

Bennington Heights

Regular services were held at the church during the past week.

At the eleven o'clock hour Bishop C. A. Skinner was the speaker. Special music was furnished by a women's quartet composed of Mrs. Mary Helm, of the local congregation; Mrs. Effie Hunter, of Dayton, Ohio; Mrs. Ola Davidson and Miss Edna Stobaugh, of Independence, Missouri.

At the evening hour Elder C. Ed Miller continued his illustrated lectures.

Dow City, Iowa

Elvin Baughman Chosen Pastor

On May 21, a double wedding occurred when Zeta Clothier was united in marriage to Frank Fry, of Woodbine, and Iven Clothier was married to Leila Wirth, of Elwood, Iowa. The ceremony was performed by Brother Fred Fry at his home in Woodbine.

Elvin Baughman was recently chosen as branch president for the remainder of the church school year. For the past two years the branch has been under district supervision with Brother Fred Baber in charge. Sunday, July 16, District President Gerald Gunsolley made the recommendation for the change. A vote of thanks was extended Brother Baber for his faithful service. Brother Gunsolley was the speaker for the day.

The priesthood of this branch consist of Elders Elvin Baughman, George Hansen, Priests Fred Baber, Frank Fry, E. B. Justice, and Deacon Everett Landon.

A junior choir has been started under the direction of Sister Baughman. The juniors recently enjoyed a picnic with their teachers, Ruth Justice and Mrs. Ola Boham.

Some are hoping to attend the reunion at Woodbine beginning August 11.

Mother's Day and Children's Day were observed with programs.

Iris Vanlandingham and Phyllis Pearsall attended the Youth Conference at Lamoni over the first week-end.

Beals, Maine

Young People Hold Meetings Each Sunday

Regular services are held here each Sunday. An afternoon prayer meeting is held at two o'clock, and Brother Josiah Alley is usually in charge. Sometimes he is assisted by Brothers Pearl Urquhart or E. W. Rogers, of Jonesport. The Saints feel fortunate in sometimes being favored with a talk by Elder Newman Wilson.

The young people meet each Sunday evening at six o'clock, and a large number attend.

The Saints are expecting a visit from five young fellows who attended the conventon at Lamoni. These are Millard Gray, Chester Gray, Leon Look, Marshall Kelley and William Wilson.

Council Bluffs, Iowa

No Summer Slump Here—Church Activities Continue

President F. M. Smith, Apostles J. F. Garver, F. H. Edwards, Bishop W. T. Wellman, and R. W. Scott have been recent speakers at Council Bluffs.

On April 17, a special business meeting was held at which time W. T. Wellman was accepted as bishop in charge of the finances of Council Bluffs and a committee consisting of the following was appointed to act under him as finance committee: Lee Landon, Bert Alexander, and Amos Graybill.

On May 11, a mother's and daughter's social was held at the church, about one hundred and forty being present. The following numbers appeared on the program: Stereopticon lecture on native flowers of Iowa, by Mrs. William Ury; two vocal numbers by the Currie sisters; reading by Pauline Doll; toast to the mothers by Pauline Doll and response to the daughters by Mrs. Edward Doll. Two songs composed especially for the occasion by Sister A. E. Dempsey were sung by the group. Ice cream and cake were served.

On June 14, the fathers and sons also had a social. This time the refreshments were served by the women's department. Brother Ray Whiting was called at the last minute to make the principal address due to the fact that the one who had been asked to perform this part was unable to be present. Everyone enjoyed the description of his trip to the Ozarks and some of his experiences. Brother O. A. Currie gave the toast to the sons, and Leslie Epperson responded to the fathers. Paul Stageman gave a demonstration of some of his magic tricks. Games and community singing occupied the remainder of the time. About seventy-five were present.

Brother Lee Landon has been appointed to other work and Merl Spence is now taking charge of the church school.

Attendance is increasing. Brother Beaty's class is especially well attended.

A considerable number of the young people attended the young people's convention at Lamoni. A few of them put on a play in the Coliseum Sunday evening, June 18. The title of the play was, "Let There Be Light."

The young folk are holding a special study class Sunday evenings at six-thirty. They are studying the financial law under the direction of Brother Leslie Epperson.

Apostle J. A. Gillen is to be in Council Bluffs and speak three nights commencing August 6.

Apostle F. H. Edwards will hold a series of meetings here in September.

Independence

The Independence chapter of the Graceland Alumni Association met at the home of President F. M. McDowell the evening of July 13, to effect a definite working organization and to discuss future activities. A picnic was planned for August 21, to be given by the alumni for 1933 high school graduates in Independence interested in Graceland College, and for Graceland students enrolled in the nurses' training class at the Sanitarium. Miss Ruth Briggs was chosen as acting president of the chapter, and Miss Ruth Timm as acting secretary. Various committee chairmen were also appointed.

About five hundred witnessed or took part in the volley ball tournament given by the Independence Boys' Baseball League at the Campus last Thursday evening. Eight congregations were represented in the tournament by both girls' teams and boys' teams. With volley ball, pop and ice cream, and a musical program the evening proved entertaining for the large number of young people present.

Almost four hundred singers from Independence, Kansas City, and nearby points, composing the nucleus of the Harvest Festival Chorus, assembled for rehearsal at four o'clock in the main room of the Stone Church Sunday afternoon. Paul N. Craig directed. This was the first general rehearsal of chorus singers. Local choirs have been at work on the harvest festival concert music for three weeks. The concert is to be given by a chorus of seven hundred voices Sunday afternoon, October 8, as the closing event of the Harvest Home Festival at the Auditorium.

Pastor John F. Sheehy gave the large Campus congregation an illustrated lecture on early church history Sunday night. The slides were furnished by Elder C. Ed. Miller.

Numbers of Independence people are finding opportunity to attend the World's

www.LatterDayTruth.org

Fair in Chicago. Among those recently returned from the fair was Elder D. S. McNamara, associate pastor in Independence. He was in charge of the Campus service Sunday evening.

Stone Church

The Stone Church Young People's Council sponsors recreation each Friday night at the Campus for the young members of this congregation. Volley ball, baseball, croquet, horseshoe pitching, and other games are enjoyed.

This council is composed of about fifteen young men and women, representatives of the various classes in the young people's department, Elder T. A. Beck, superintendent. Paul Tandy is president of the council, Phil Weeks, vice president, and Joy Harder, secretary. The council and Brother Beck are working to increase the effectiveness of worship, recreation, and study in the lives of Stone Church young people.

Elder R. S. Salyards, veteran minister, was the Sunday morning speaker at the Stone Church. For a text he chose the latter part of the eighth chapter of Paul's epistle to the Romans. The Stone Church Choir furnished the program of music, George Anway directing, Hazel Scott Withee at the organ. Gomer Cool played a violin solo.

Intermediate teachers of the Stone Church School met in the first of a four-session series Sunday afternoon at three o'clock in the Girl Scout room at the Auditorium, to discuss objectives of the department for the coming year and problems arising in class work. The meeting was in charge of the director of Religious Education, Elder W. Earl Page. One meeting will be held each week during August.

The Stone Church Boys' Choir, sponsored by J. Glenn Fairbanks and directed by Miss Marcine Smith, is enlarging its membership. Since its organization a little more than a year ago the choir has more than doubled its number, and still it grows. The boy singers have proved themselves willing helpers in church school programs in the various congregations of Independence and also at other points.

Second Church

This congregation is happy to have at home again Brother Ivan Dillee who graduated from Graceland College last year. While at Graceland Brother Dillee took a course in religious education, and he holds the office of priest. Returning to Independence he immediately set to work in Second Church. He has relieved Brother Roy Settles by taking charge of the young people's prayer services. The young people appreciate Ivan's interest and want to cooperate with him. Ivan is the son of Elder A. K. Dillee, an assistant pastor in Independence.

Twelve-year-old Billy McPherson opened the eleven o'clock service Sunday, July 30, with an organ prelude. The young people's choir, directed by Miss Mildred Fulk, sang "I Heard the Voice of Jesus Say," Billy McPherson accompanying at the organ, Mrs. Gladys Inman at the piano. "I Am Trusting the Lord Jesus," a vocal duet, was given by Nadine Inman and Geraldine Fields. Elder J. E. Vanderwood, the speaker, talked on "Faith," choosing his text from Matthew 17: 20.

Brother Gorden Cable was in charge of the eleven o'clock junior service, assisted by Brother Ellis Murdock. "God Will Reward Everyone According to His Works" was the theme of Pastor W. N. Inman's talk to the boys and girls. "Onward to Zion" was sung by Helen Willoughby, accompanied by Bethel Davis, both junior girls. A story, "The Measuring Rod," was told by Mrs. Agnes Edmunds.

Enoch Hill Church

Pastor H. L. Barto and Elder J. W. Collins presided over the union prayer service of the three groups and the young people last Wednesday evening at the church. A profitable hour was enjoyed.

Bennie Street, son of Brother and Sister L. R. Street, and a dependable intermediate boy, fell from a swing last Wednesday and broke both of his arms.

A quartet composed of Sisters Amos Allen and Charles Warren and Brothers Charles Warren and H. L. Barto sang, "None of Self and All of Thee," at the church school Sunday.

The boys and girls of the junior church school have just completed a Bible question contest in which the boys were victorious.

Brother J. H. Miller, speaker at the eleven o'clock service Sunday morning, warned the Saints of the greatest of all evils—selfishness. Sister Willis Young sang, "Acquaint Now Thyself With God."

The young people of this congregation and of Second Church spent a profitable evening Sunday making a missionary visit to Atherton church.

Women of Enoch Hill are ardent workers in and supporters of the city-wide sacrifice campaign being conducted by the women for the benefit of the local church fund.

Spring Branch Church

Wednesday evening prayer services were in charge of Alma Tankard, Arthur Peer, Morris Jacobsen, and C. J. Dixon. One meeting was held at the home of Sister Florence Smith because she is unable to get to the church for any of the services.

A large number attended the early Sunday morning prayer service, and a good spirit was manifested. Brother Shower was the speaker at the eleven o'clock hour. He spoke on the signs of the times and the second coming of Christ. Four girls, Fern Belk, and Elma, Imogene, and Gladys Dixon sang, "I Know That My Redeemer Liveth."

Self-control is only courage under another form.—Samuel Smiles.

I will be lord over myself.—Goethe.

A Lesson in Thrift

Read these four offerings below. In the face of rapidly rising markets these are bargains—and how! No use to pay rent when homes like these are so easily purchased. Thrifty people are buying homes rapidly now.

6 rooms—modern—3 blocks north of Stone Church	$3,250
4 rooms—modern except heat—Mt. Washington district	1,350
3 rooms—modern except heat—west end of Independence	1,500
7 rooms—modern—choice location	4,500

Your church bonds and notes are as good as cash on these homes. Why not buy a home in Independence NOW—you've always wanted one.

CENTRAL DEVELOPMENT ASSOCIATION
221 West Lexington Street
Independence, Mo.

or

THE PRESIDING BISHOPRIC
The Auditorium
Independence, Mo.

www.LatterDayTruth.org

Holden Stake

Warrensburg, Missouri

On June 25 the following candidates were baptized by Brother S. M. Andes: Ora Lee, F. A., and Frances Lipscombe, Agnes Julia Dunnevant, and Loren Johnson. The confirmation which took place in the evening just previous to a children's program, was quite effective. The stage was decorated in white and green with many beautiful garden flowers. Brother John Bozarth assisted Brother Andes in the confirmation. Another beautiful ceremony observed on this day was the blessing of the infant, Iva Loraine Bozarth, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Darwin Bozarth.

Holden volley ball teams played the young people's teams at Warrensburg, the result being a victory for Warrensburg boys and a victory for Holden girls. On July 24, Warrensburg teams went to Holden and the victories were reversed, Holden boys won and Warrensburg girls won. A good spirit prevails in these contests, and every one feels that these games and the practice that they require are a great factor in character building.

Doctor and Mrs. Jerome Andes, of New Orleans made a brief visit to his parents, Mr. and Mrs. S. M. Andes, July 12, while en route to Bozeman, Montana. Wilmer Andes, Irene Andes and Veda Jacobs accompanied them from Warrensburg.

Ralph Andes, instructor at the Agriculture College, Ames, Iowa, and Sammy Andes left for Montana, July 23. They will return later with Doctor Jerome Andes about August 10.

Jewel Banks, who has been in poor health for over a year, returned July 26 from the Independence Sanitarium. Jewel is a faithful helper in church school and other activities.

Marshalltown, Iowa

The Saints at Marshalltown spent an enjoyable day Sunday, July 16. Brother Kirlin and family, of Newton, visited there in the interest of the church school work, and Brother Kirlin preached at the eleven o'clock hour. Visitors from Rhodes were also present that day. After the morning services, everybody gathered at the park for dinner.

Marshalltown is badly in need of an elder.

Hot Springs, Arkansas

A pie supper was given by the Willing Workers, Thursday night, June 29. A sum of twenty-four dollars was raised, and a part of this money was used to pay the insurance on the church.

The women gave Elder and Sister W. H. Hampton a party, July 17, at the church on Highway No. 70. Brother and Sister Hampton were celebrating their sixteenth wedding anniversary. They were presented a name quilt and many other nice gifts. About sixty-two guests were present.

Webb City, Missouri

Apostle J. A. Gillen a Recent Visitor

Elder C. S. Warren, of Independence, Missouri, addressed the Webb City Saints, July 23. His sermon was instructive and uplifting.

Wednesday evening, July 19, the children's division of church school held a picnic at Landreth Park, their mothers being the guests of honor. Swimming was the principal entertainment of the evening.

A number of Saints availed themselves of the opportunity of hearing Apostle J. A. Gillen during his recent visit to Joplin.

At the close of the morning service, July 9, Sister Lunna Hood and Frank K. Metcalf were united in marriage by B. N. Rooks, of Joplin. Sister A. N. Deaver sang, "O Promise Me," and Neva Tremble played the wedding march.

Children's Day, June 11, the program was directed by Neva Tremble, children's supervisor. At three o'clock in the afternoon, four children were baptized, Ruth Brooks, Corrine Fry, Ruth Louise Oehring and Lloyd Kenneth Pruett, C. H. Hobart and Roy G. Oehring officiating.

Friday evening, June 16, an ice cream social was conducted by Sister Hettie Sutherland's class. The proceeds were used by the young people in their work.

Mary and Ruth Hobart attended the young people's convention at Lamoni, Iowa.

Be Big

Let not the littleness of people disturb you. Remember that if you have been made big enough to do big things in life, you have been made large enough to overlook little things. So do not imagine you are great so long as by sifting yourself you find jealousy, hatred, malice, or even the spirit which frets in your heart. These and greatness sleep not in the same soul.—John Trotwood Moore.

He that ruleth his spirit is better than he that taketh a city.—Proverbs 16: 32.

The Bulletin Board

Notice of Appointment of Branch Solicitor

We, the undersigned, serving as bishop's agent for Arizona and New Mexico, have accepted the resignation of Brother W. P. Bootman as solicitor for the Tucson Branch, and have appointed Sister W. A. Brooner, whose address is Route No. 2, Box 281, Tucson, Arizona, as his successor.

We take this occasion to thank Brother Bootman for his service and ask the Saints to cooperate with Sister Brooner to make the financial arm of the church a success.

LOUIS J. OSTERTAG.

Approved by
THE PRESIDING BISHOPRIC,
By G. L. DELAPP.

Reunion Notice

The annual reunion of Far West Stake will be held August 17 to 27, at Stewartsville, Missouri. Camping facilities are good. Tents may be ordered from J. E. Hovenga, Stewartsville, Missouri, at the following prices: 12x16, 6-foot wall, $6.95; 12x14, 3-foot wall, $3.60; 10x12, 3-foot wall, $2.90. Apostle J. F. Garver and Elder R. E. Davey, of Aurora, Illinois, will be in attendance throughout the reunion for class work and sermons. The program is planned to include ample activity for all ages including the children's activities, young people's prayer service and class, womens' class, general class and general prayer service. Apostle F. H. Edwards and President Elbert A. Smith will be visiting speakers on Sundays.—Helen R. Beadnall, stake secretary.

LETTERHEADS AND ENVELOPES

20-lb. Hammermill Bond Printed to Your Order. Neatly boxed. Postpaid. Satisfaction Guaranteed

Price per	100	250	500	1,000
Letterheads 8½ x 11	$1.00	$1.75	$2.50	$4.00
Envelopes 3⅝ x 6½	1.00	1.75	2.50	4.00
Letterheads and Env.	1.50	2.50	4.00	7.00

J. R. S. Co., Dept. S. Send for Samples. Columbus, Ohio

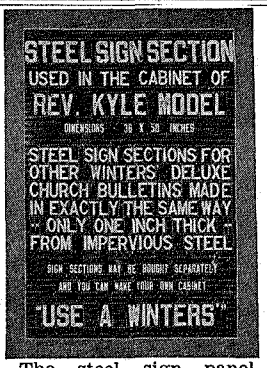
LOOK FORWARD FOR 1933!

Every wayfarer you can attract within your doors—every new member you can add to the congregation means added strength for both him and you. A Winters' Bulletin at a cost of $25 to $35 has proved its ability. In the past two years, more than 3,000 churches bought Winters' Interchangeable Steel Sign Panel and complete lithographed letter and numeral equipment separately. Ask about our co-operative plan.

H. E. Winters Specialty Co.

Dept. HPC, 310 East 4th Street, Davenport, Iowa.

You can have a complete, Illuminated Winters' DeLuxe Bulletin for only $59.00. Send for our free catalog showing various styles and prices.



The steel sign panel—heart of your bulletin.

www.LatterDayTruth.org

Conference-Reunion Notice

Conference and reunion of Des Moines District will be held at Des Moines Church, 717 East Twelfth Street, from August 13 to 20. The first service will be a sacrament meeting at 10 o'clock Sunday morning, August 13. Sermons at 2.30 and 8.00 p. m., by Apostle F. Henry Edwards. Daily program Monday to Saturday as follows: Prayer service at 8.00 a. m., class work at 10.00 a. m., with Brother Edwards in charge; testimony and special songs at 7.15 p. m.; sermon at 8.00. Sunday, August 20, a prayer service will be held at 7.30 a. m.; church school at 9.30; sermons at 11 and 2.30 by Brother Edwards. Basket dinner will be served at noon both Sundays. Visitors will be furnished cots and sleeping quarters free. Bring your bedding. Mattress, 55 cents; meals 50 cents per day. Notify Stephen Robinson, 2212 Thirty-ninth Street, Des Moines, Iowa, if you are coming to stay the full time, and arrangements will be made for your entertainment. A spiritual feast is assured.—H. Castings, district presidency.

Conference Notice

The annual conference of the West Virginia District will meet with Clarksburg Branch at their church, corner of Stealey and Baker Avenues, August 26, at two o'clock in the afternoon, for business. Closing service will be Sunday, August 27, at four o'clock. We hope to have one of the First Presidency or Twelve with us.—A. C. Silvers, district president.

All-day Meeting

There will be an all-day meeting at Harrison, Michigan, on August 13. The first service will be a prayer service at nine-thirty, at the Town Hall. All are invited to come and bring their dinner. Good speakers will be in attendance.—George W. Burt.

Conference Minutes

SOUTHERN SASKATCHEWAN.—The annual conference of Southern Saskatchewan District convened Wednesday, July 19, at Weyburn Plains on the farm of William Neill, under the direction of Elder J. R. Neill, district president, Apostle J. F. Curtis and missionary O. W. Okerlind. Saints attended from three Provinces, Manitoba, Alberta, Saskatchewan, and from several States, North Dakota, Kansas, and Missouri. Approximately three hundred and fifty people gathered; this is the largest number ever to attend a conference since the district was organized. A large number of nonmembers were present at all the meetings. Thirty-three services in all were held with thirteen baptisms and three ordinations. Five of the candidates for baptism came from Winnipeg, three from Regina, and the balance from scattered points. Brother Evans Fisher was called and ordained to the office of elder; Alvin Fisher and Albert Hodgins to the office of priest. Apostle Curtis, Elders Okerlind, Neill and Miller officiated in the ordination. A fine spirit was evident at the services and especially during the sacrament. Apostle Curtis spoke, through the Spirit of the Lord, words of comfort to the Saints. At the business meeting on Saturday, the following motion was passed in regard to colonization of the Saints of Southern Saskatchewan. "Whereas, under our present economic arrangement, large numbers of our people are unemployed and without means of earning a livelihood for themselves and their dependents: And whereas the prevalence of the present depression throughout the world indicates no betterment of conditions: And whereas the Lord has given to the church a system that will be for the betterment of humanity, and has admonished the church to organize according to the pattern he has given: Therefore be it resolved that this conference appoint a committee to look into the feasibility of a scheme of colonization for the members of the church, and that the said committee be requested to report to the next district conference. Committee appointed: District president, J. R. Neill, Weyburn; district treasurer, A. R. Toovey, Torquay; district secretary, C. E. Bruder, Regina. The following delegates were also elected to attend General Conference, 1934; J. F. Curtis, O. W. Okerlind, J. R. Neill, and C. E. Bruder. Sister Florence Blakely, Bethune, Saskatchewan, was elected as chorister in charge of the musical activities of the district. Brother J. W. Mountenay, Regina, was elected church school director. Good weather conditions prevailed throughout the entire five days. There was no charge for meals or beds and those in charge of the conference take this opportunity to thank the many Saints who aided in making this possible by their donations of foodstuffs. Although times have been hard and money scarce, approximately six hundred dollars was collected in the form of offerings and tithes. A short talk on the financial law was given Sunday afternoon by A. R. Toovey, bishop's agent. Apostle Curtis gave several forceful and inspirational sermons to an audience which packed the large barn loft used for the services. Elders Okerlind and Neill also delivered fine sermons. Class work was conducted by Elder Okerlind, Bruder, and Sister Levens. The conference closed Sunday evening with the understanding that another district conference would convene in July, 1934. Apostle J. F. Curtis motored to Regina Monday morning and left immediately by train for Saskatoon, where he will be in charge of the Northern Saskatchewan district conference. Elder O. W. Okerlind motored to Regina also and will attend the World Grain Show now in progress, after which he will continue his missionary activities in the district. The district presidency thanks the Saints for their kind cooperation which made the conference an outstanding success.

Our Departed Ones

HENRY.—Harold Henry was born in London, Ontario, November 22, 1897, and departed from this life, June 19, 1933, at Marine Hospital, Detroit, Michigan. He was baptized in London fifteen years ago, was united in marriage to Ethel Thompson, of Detroit, in 1926. To this union four children were born. He leaves to mourn his widow; a son, Harold, and three daughters, Lillian, Lenore, and Elizabeth; his mother, brothers, and sisters.

JAMES.—Leonard J. James was born October 2, 1896, at Bloomsdale, Missouri, and died April 20, 1933. He was united in marriage in April, 1929, to Clara Mauier. In 1931, he united with the Reorganized Church of Jesus Christ of Latter Day Saints. He was a World

NUTRIA

Do you know that Nutria are among the highest priced fur animals to be found in commercial fur farming. Read the article in the July issue of Fur Farming & Trapping. The one story is worth a year's subscription. Send a dime for sample copy to

G. T. RICHARDS
Bunceton, Missouri.

Hymns of the Centennial

(AUGUST ONLY)

100—$6.98 (Add postage Shipping wt. 20 lbs.)

Brand new edition, well bound and attractive. The most economical hymn book published for reunions, picnics and special gatherings. Very practical for regular use. Regular price, 10c each.

HERALD PUBLISHING HOUSE
"Your Own Supply House"
Ward A. Hougas, Mgr. Independence, Mo.

www.LatterDayTruth.org

War veteran. Surviving relatives are, his wife; mother, Mrs. Hattie James; two brothers, Richard and Howard, and two sisters, Mrs. Caroline Cain, and Mrs. Gertrude Wagner. Burial was in Maple Ridge Cemetery.

FASS.—Samuel Fass was born May 12, 1848, at Jonesport, Maine, and died May 4, 1933, at the home of his daughter, Mrs. Azua Parker, Mountainville, Maine. His wife preceded him in death four years ago. Brother Fass united with the church in 1871; was ordained an elder, and belonged to the quorum of seventies. He served the church for over fifty years. He leaves to mourn his departure four sons: Samuel O., John C., Alfred, and Harold; five daughters: Ina Grant, Whitneyville, Maine; Helen Norton, Wescogas, Maine; Azua Parker, Pearl Carr, Kansas City, and Bessie Carver, Calias, Maine. Funeral sermon was preached by Elder Henry R. Eaton.

RICHARDSON.—Jessie Richardson was born November 15, 1875; passed away at her home, July 15, 1933. She was united in marriage to Justius Richardson at Reed City, Michigan, September 24, 1891. To this union four children were born, Dolly, who died in infancy; Henry and Guy, of Attica, Indiana, and Mrs. Harley Kadwell, of Chase. She was baptized June 25, 1893, at Hersey, Michigan. She is survived by her mother, Mrs. Electa Blood; three children; seven grandchildren; two brothers, Oscar and Charles Blood, of Chase, and many friends. Funeral services were held at her home in Chase, Michigan, the Reverend James A. Reynolds officiating. Interment was in Pinora Township Cemetery.

Reunion Schedule

Please send in changes for this schedule immediately.

DISTRICT	PLACE	TIME
Lamoni	Lamoni	July 28 to August 6
Toronto	Lowbanks	July 29 to August 12
Alberta	Edmonton	Aug. 4 to 6
Oklahoma	Canton, Oklahoma	Aug. 4 to 13
Northwestern	Silver Lake	Aug. 4 to 13
Northern and Western Michigan	Park of the Pines	Aug. 4 to 13
Spring River	Columbus, Kansas	Aug. 4 to 13
Eastern and Western Maine	Brooksville	Aug. 12 to 19
Kirtland Combined Reunion	Kirtland	Aug. 10 to 20
Northwestern Iowa	Woodbine, Iowa	Aug. 11 to 20
Far West Stake	Stewartsville	Aug. 17 to 27
Western Montana	Race Track	Aug. 18 to 27
Southeast Illinois	Brush Creek	Aug. 25 to Sept. 3
Idaho		Aug. 16 to 20
West. Oklahoma	Eagle City, Oklahoma	Aug. 5 to 13
Southern California District	Laguna Beach	Aug. 26 to Sept. 3

THE FIRST PRESIDENCY,
By F. M. McDOWELL.

950 Kilo. KMBC 315.6 Meters

Church Programs Over KMBC

Devotional service at 6.30 each weekday morning. Drexel Mollison, organist; John F. Sheehy, speaker.

Sunday, 7.30 a. m., Bible Study, by U. W. Greene.

Sunday, 11.00 a. m., music by Stone Church Choir.

Sunday, 5.00 p. m., Vesper Service, U. W. Greene, speaker.

Sunday, 10.00 p. m., Doctrine Hour, A. B. Phillips, speaker.

For Your Vacation

Take along a few of the best church books of fiction —you'll enjoy reading them in your leisure hours.

Riches Untold	$1.25
The Fourth Relaford	75c
The Call at Evening	90c
Timbers for the Temple	75c
The Mormon Girl	50c
In the Shelter of the Little Brown Cottage	50c
A Vineyard Story	50c
A Reasonable Service	65c
Into the Latter Day Light	75c

(These Prices Postpaid in U. S. A.)

Read Your Own Church Literature

HERALD PUBLISHING HOUSE

"Where You Meet the Church"

Ward A. Hougas, Mgr. Independence, Mo.

CLASSIFIED ADS

Rates 3 cents per word first insertion; 20 per cent discount on subsequent insertions. Minimum 75 cents per insertion.

REGARDING ADVERTISING

While we exercise care in the acceptance of advertisements appearing in these columns, we can not guarantee full satisfaction between buyer and seller and we therefore advise that in every instance a proper investigation be made by all parties concerned.

HIGH SCHOOL COURSE in two years; meets all requirements for entrance to college, business, and leading professions. Diploma given. Address Education, Herald Publishing House, Independence, Missouri. 26-25-34

WHY BE WITHOUT songbooks when $6.98 buys 100 Songs of the Centennial. July and August only. Herald Publishing House. 27-3t*

CHURCH BOND FOR SALE: $100 Bond for $90. Act quickly. W. H. Eliason, 511 Sexton Road. Columbia, Missouri. 31-2t

FARMS, ALL SIZES. Best terms. Call at our office on Highway No. 71, or write Chas. R. Bowman, Butler, Missouri.

ELDERLY LADY WISHES POSITION as housekeeper to family of Saints near a branch of the church, location unimportant. Mary J. Calvert, care Floyd Bradford, Lock No. Four Branch, Charleroi, Pa. 29-3t*

COMMERCIAL PRINTING to suit at prices that will satisfy. Herald Publishing House, Independence, Missouri. 27-3t*

CHICAGO WORLD'S FAIR VISITORS wishing to lodge in L. D. S. homes should write to Mrs. W. G. LaBrant, 4322 Jackson Blvd., Chicago, (telephone Columbus 8470) for full details. First Chicago branch address is 4416 Gladys Ave. All welcome. H. T. McCaig, Pastor. 28-tf

www.LatterDayTruth.org

King James Version with 5,566 Corrected Renderings from the American Standard Version 9 Styles of Bindings

A NEW Bible That Unfolds the Bible and makes Bible study vastly more Interesting

A NEW kind of Bible—nothing like it, none so HELPFUL has ever been published before. JUST OFF THE PRESS—but already in use and heartily recommended by OVER 2,000 OF AMERICA'S LEADING MINISTERS—truly great men, like William B. Riley, Pastor, First Baptist Church, Minneapolis, Minnesota; Donald Grey Barnhouse, Pastor, Tenth Presbyterian Church, Philadelphia, and leading Bible Fundamentalists everywhere. Based on The King James Version, with 5,566 corrected renderings from the American Standard Versions, the New Analytical Bible gives the Minister, Sunday School Teacher and Bible Student what no other Bible does—it unfolds the Bible and adds fascinating interest and satisfying completeness to Bible study.

A WHOLE BIBLICAL LIBRARY COMPLETE IN ONE HANDY VOLUME

This remarkable volume contains the COMPLETE Bible text. Nearly 2,000 pages—but only 1¼ inches thick. Preachers, teachers, and Bible students say that never before have so many and such HELPFUL Bible guides and explanations been available in one volume.

Makes Bible study fascinatingly INTERESTING, with its 42 full-page charts and its complete but simple and easily understood analysis of both the Old and New Testaments in the King James Version, with 5,566 bracketed renderings taken from the American Standard Version and placed in the text where they belong. As a reference book, it is a wonderful time-saver. Rev. J. Stanley Durkee, D.D., L.L.D., Ph.D., Pastor, Plymouth Church, N. Y., says: "Without my realizing it I have been waiting long for this master work!"

Handy Reference Arrangement

The references follow each verse instead of being placed in fine print in the center. Before each of the 66 books, there is an Introductory Page, giving date, author, design and other information greatly enhancing the INTEREST of each book. "Any Sunday School teacher or leader of Bible study has a TREASURE in the NEW ANALYTICAL BIBLE!" declares Rev. M. Joseph Twomey, D.D., Pastor, Baptist Temple, Philadelphia.

NEW ANALYTICAL BIBLE

SINCERELY ENDORSED BY SUNDAY SCHOOL TIMES

"The title does not begin to suggest the riches offered here in the NEW ANALYTICAL BIBLE to the student of the Bible, whether beginner or one who has journeyed far. It is a work that will be studied and LOVED and will grow richer with each year's using," states THE SUNDAY SCHOOL TIMES.

66 ANALYTICAL OUTLINES

An Analytical Outline follows each Book—a clear, simple and informative analysis that will be of wonderful help in your Bible study and in the preparation of Sermons and Sunday School Lessons.

"With this Analytical Bible, I can now accomplish more," says Rev. Ross H. Stover, Pastor, Messiah Lutheran Church, Philadelphia.

PARALLEL HISTORY OUTLINES

A must interesting phase of this volume are the Contemporaneous Histories given in connection with most of the Books of the Bible. For example—just what was going on in Babylonia, in Egypt, or among the Moabites and Ammonites at the very time Genesis was written—What were the Assyrians, Phoenicians and Greeks doing when the Book of Judges was written? These and hundreds of other questions (not answered in other Bibles) are answered in the "Contemporaneous History" section of this remarkable NEW ANALYTICAL BIBLE. "It is a wonderfully constructed analysis. In your ANALYTICAL BIBLE you have rendered a real service to Bible students," declares Reverend Mark A. Matthews, Pastor, First Presbyterian Church, Seattle, Wash.

JOHN 5:39

39 ¶ Search [Ye search] the scriptures; for [because] in them ye think ye have eternal life: and they are they which testify of me.

Ver. 46; De. 18.15,18; Lu. 16.29; Ac. 17.11.

ACTS 17:22.23

22 ¶ Then Paûl stood in the midst of Märs' hill and said, Ye men of Ăth'-ĕns, I perceive that in all things ye are too superstitious [very religious].

23 For as I passed by, and beheld your devotions [observed the objects of your worship], I found an altar with this inscription, TO THE UNKNOWN GOD. Whom therefore ye ignorantly worship, him declare I unto you.

Facsimile of type showing corrected renderings in brackets and references after each verse.

HERALD PUBLISHING HOUSE
INDEPENDENCE, MISSOURI

Please mail me without obligation your new two-color folder illustrating and describing the NEW ANALYTICAL BIBLE.

Name .....

Street .....

City..... State.....

Send for FREE Catalog

Send the coupon—or a postcard—with your name and address and get the COMPLETE details of this wonderfully helpful NEW ANALYTICAL BIBLE. This FREE Catalog will interest and delight all Bible Lovers and Students.

www.LatterDayTruth.org

The SAINTS' HERALD

Mrs Ruth Butler
714 S Euclid
Ottawa KS

Recovery
An Editorial

The Price of Peace
By Merl B. Grover

The End and the Effort
By J. A. Gunsolley

Teaching in the Church School
By Ray Best

Worship Programs for September

Volume 80 August 8, 1933 Number 32

www.LatterDayTruth.org

THE SAINTS' HERALD

August 8, 1933

Volume 80 Number 32

FREDERICK M. SMITH, Editor in Chief.
ELBERT A. SMITH, Associate Editor.
FLOYD M. McDOWELL, Associate Editor
LEONARD J. LEA, Managing Editor.
LETA B. MORIARTY, Assistant Editor.
WARD A. HOUGAS, Business Manager.

Entered as second-class matter at the post office at Independence, Missouri, under Act of March 3, 1879. Issued weekly at Independence, Missouri. Price $2 a year in advance for the U. S. A., its territories and possessions, and Canada; foreign, $3 a year. Accepted for mailing at the special rate of postage provided for in section 1103, Act of October 3, 1917; authorized July 21, 1921.

Published for the Reorganized Church of Jesus Christ of Latter Day Saints.

HERALD PUBLISHING HOUSE
INDEPENDENCE, MISSOURI

CONTENTS

EDITORIAL:
- The New Monument at Nauvoo 995
- Recovery 995
- Helps for Ordering Quarterlies 996
- Meeting a Deficit 996
- More "Old Timers" Among Herald Subscribers 997

HELPS FOR THE PASTOR:
- Wednesday Evening 997

YOUTH'S FORUM:
- Your Ballot 998
- The Story of Etta Kett 998
- A Prayer 998
- The Demands of Life 998

NEWS BRIEFS 999

ARTICLES:
- Are We Converted? by L. B. M. 1000
- The Price of Peace, by Merl B. Grover 1001
- Discipleship, by Thomas S. Williams 1002
- The End and the Effort, by J. A. Gunsolley 1003
- The Steep Side of the Mountain, by Doctor H. E. Kleinschmidt 1004
- Teaching in the Church School, by Ray Best 1005
- The Higher Viewpoint 1006
- Weekly Health Letter, by A. W. Teel, M. D. 1009
- Question Time, by A. B. Phillips 1010
- The Seventh Day Adventists, by M. H. Cook 1011
- Prayer and Testimony 1013
- Thought Provokers 1014

WORSHIP SUGGESTIONS FOR SEPTEMBER, 1933:
- The Church School 1007
- The Children's Division 1008

NEWS OF CHURCH AND HOME 1015

THE BULLETIN BOARD 1022

The Pigeonhole

The Gambling Instinct

Just last Saturday, going to pay a bill at a public utility office, we saw something in a doorway that we wished would not exist here—a rough and disreputable character flipping the edges of a pack of badly soiled cards. His cards were no dirtier than his game, for he was a typical card-shark type of gambler, and his flipping the cards was the regular signal for attracting the unwary to cheat them of their money. The professional card gambler is no better than other creatures that prey on human misery: the pander, the narcotic seller, and the saloon keeper.

The gambler's instinct is like the sucker's instinct. The gambler wants to get something for nothing, and will do it by fair means or foul. And you can always count on it that his cards are marked. The sucker's instinct is to try to beat the gambler's game, on the mistaken notion that he is as smart as the gambler. But gamblers are not in their game to lose.

We hope that this generation of young people are wiser than others that we have known. The gambler's business did not seem to be flourishing. His clothes were old and dirty. We hope they remain old and dirty as long as he is in that business. We hope that he will starve at that occupation until he gets a better and more honorable one. If he chooses not to get a better one, we would just as soon see him in the river, for if he does not go there himself, he is sure to put others there.

They told us that the return of beer would not mean the return of the saloon. But its return has brought the gambler once again into the open, and we wait with interest to see whether the other old associates of the saloon will return.

Her Daughter's Friends

By Geraldine Wyatt

I once heard a woman say that she knew every family into which her daughter, a girl of eighteen, even won her way by friendship. Whenever a new friend was acquired, whether a young man or a young lady, the mother would go to the family and introduce herself as the girl's mother. She was always cordially received, always invited, and usually a lasting friendship was created. The girl chose her friends and associates, but the mother approved. Approbation that was greatly appreciated by her popular daughter.

A Slip

The Pigeon appeared this morning with one foot dyed a good rich black. "What's the idea," we asked. "A new color scheme? Or is it a modernistic fad—like tinted fingernails to match your gown?" "No," replied the Pigeon, "It was merely a slip, while I was writing yesterday, and my foot went into the ink bottle." When the Pigeon makes a slip he escapes with a blackened foot, but if an editor slips, he gets a black eye or a blot on the reputation.

The cloud of self-pity, if it is large enough, may obscure the sun of brotherly kindness.

www.LatterDayTruth.org

Editorial

The New Monument at Nauvoo

Some weeks ago there appeared in the news report of the day, an item stating that the National Woman's Relief Society, of Utah, intended to erect a monument in a street of Nauvoo to mark the site of the building in which the society was organized in 1842. The statement was made that permission had been granted the society by the Nauvoo City Council to erect the marker in the street by the old Masonic Hall, as this was the building in which the first meeting of the society was held. Some time afterwards I received a letter from a representative of the Utah Church saying that the society had learned the error of thinking that the Masonic Hall was the building in which the society was organized, and that the meeting was held in an upper room of the store owned by Joseph Smith, the room at that time being the regular meeting place of the Nauvoo Masonic Lodge. This store building stood on a corner of the block now known as the Homestead.

The letter requested that permission be granted by the Church for the Relief Society to erect the marker at the site of the old store building.

The letter reached me in San Francisco, as I was about to start the journey eastward and home. The train stopping a few hours in Salt Lake gave me opportunity to see and talk with Mrs. Robison, president of the Relief Society, and others of her assisting officers. I learned what they wanted, and on reaching home consulted with some of the brethren available, with the result that the permission was granted.

On July 25 I reached Nauvoo on returning west from Kirtland, and participated in the unveiling and dedicating ceremonies. These were conducted by the officers of the society, as will be seen from an account of the exercises appearing in another column; and of which I may have more to say later.

In granting permission to the society to erect the monument or marker, there was in no way any curtailment of the rights of ownership of the ground. The society did not ask for any.

The marker is of beautiful pink granite, well designed and appropriately set. The corner of the block has been beautified by the erection and landscaping of the monument and the location of a noteworthy historical building is thus well and appropriately marked, as I feel sure all will admit who see it. The expense of preparing the ground and landscaping the spot are borne by the society.

The Relief Society, which claims Emma Hale Smith as its first president, thus somewhat belatedly expresses appreciation of the "Elect Lady," and I for one was pleased to see the spot so well and appropriately marked.

As is so often the case, the newspaper reports of the occasion were mixtures of truth and error. Of these reports we may have more to say later.

F. M. S.

Recovery

I.—The Careful Use of Credit

Ever since the beginning of the depression we have been talking about the "recovery." And it was the notion of the more hopeful optimists that recovery was "just around the corner." This particular corner has proved to be like a turn in a modern highway—a long way around.

No matter when the recovery does come, we ought to be prepared to use it to the best advantage for all concerned. We have learned some hard lessons during the depression, and we should not forget them when wages improve, jobs increase, and business begins to move.

The first thing that we have learned, as a nation, is the dangers as well as the advantages of installment buying. Deferred payments constitute a mortgage on the future, arranged on the assumption that employment will be continuous and wages steady. When employment is interrupted or discontinued, or when wages are materially reduced, it becomes increasingly difficult, and sometimes impossible to fulfill contracts on future earnings. Those that can be are carried out at the cost of suffering and inconvenience to families.

During the war, nations contracted financial obligations impossible to meet. In the flush of a prosperous and inflated peace, the American people, in both homes and business, also contracted obligations very difficult or impossible to meet. Even some state governments were involved in the same kind of mistake. Repudiation of accounts, bankruptcy and outright failure have been the result.

This defaulting on obligations was a serious blow to credit. It caused the rapid collapse of that medium of exchange.

The injudicious extension and the unwise use of credit may be pointed out as the foundation cause of much of our present trouble. The collapse of our tremendously overdeveloped and pyramided credit structure was inevitable.

www.LatterDayTruth.org

In the future the "Pay-as-you-go" policy is a good one. Credit is a great convenience, but a dangerous one unless wisely controlled. We must be sure that we can pay for the groceries and the winter fuel before we contract to buy a new car. The trouble with a great deal of credit was that it was used to buy things that we did not need, while we could not pay for the things that we had to have. It made it possible for the average man—for a little while—to spend more than he earned.

If we avoid the use of too much credit, and pay as we go, both as a people and as a church, we shall go into the future more secure than we have been before. L. L.

Helps for Ordering Quarterlies

Three Rules That Will Simplify the Work of Church School Officers

For some years teachers, pastors, and secretaries of church schools have complained of their difficulties in planning their local study courses and in ordering Quarterlies.

The numbering system was introduced to simplify matters, and, so far as it has applied, has helped iron some of the troubles. "Order by number," has become the motto in this department. It has saved much worry.

The next step towards making things easier is for all classes, wherever possible, to use the current quarterlies. The troubles of many schools can be traced to the fact that they have scattered their ordering out over the whole curriculum; and thus have got lost and ordered the wrong things. Keeping in step with the current Quarterlies will eliminate this trouble. Out of this we have formulated a second suggestion: "Use the current Quarterly."

Too many people wait until they have only a few days left before they send their orders. Naturally, delays result. So, "Order now."

A LIST OF THE FALL QUARTERLIES

Kindergarten ..... Number 121
"Leading Childhood to God," by Myrtle Weber and Tessie Smith.

Primary ..... Number 211
"Helpers in God's World," by Mildred Goodfellow.

Junior ..... Number 311
"Old Testament Stories," by Hallie Gould.

Intermediate ..... Number 411
"Lessons From the Book of Mormon," by Hazel Dexter Smith.

Senior Young People ..... Number 511
"Youth and Life," by Vida Watson and Gladys Elliott.

Older Young People ..... Number 641
"The Message and Witness of the Restoration," by Arthur Oakman and Elva Sturges.

Adult ..... Number 721
"A Study of the Financial Law," prepared under the direction of the Presiding Bishopric.

For the benefit of those schools that have distributed their selections in other parts of the curriculum than the current issues, stocks of back numbers are maintained. In case these supplies are exhausted we cannot undertake the expense of extra printings, since the call is not great enough.

One great benefit of "keeping in step" with current numbers of the Quarterlies is that you obtain and use the material while it is new and fresh. This plan brings you the latest and best of our study publications.

The best plan is to follow these three rules:

1. Order by number. 2. Use current Quarterlies. 3. Order now.

The Prices: In quantities of one to three of one kind, 25 cents each; per year, 90 cents each. In quantities of four or more of one kind, 15 cents each; per year, 50 cents each.

HERALD PUBLISHING HOUSE
INDEPENDENCE, MISSOURI

Meeting a Deficit

The Church of the Holy Comforter at Kenilworth, Illinois, was faced with a $1,500 deficit. One Sunday morning the members of this church arrived for the service and found the front door walled up with bricks. They had been informed of an important announcement which was to have been made at the service, and consequently the attendance was unusually large. The side door of the church was open and the worshipers were directed to it, and found the service proceeding as usual. The rector informed the parish of the deficit and explained that he had taken this method of calling it to their attention, says the Church Management. It was explained that if the bricks were bought at $5.00 each, the deficit would be met and the door reopened. Of the three hundred bricks in the entrance way, one hundred of them were bought by the members after the service, and immediately following a letter campaign asking for the "unblocking of the door" was begun, and that in turn has been followed by a personal canvass. The campaign has been successful. The rector, Dr. Leland H. Danforth, believes the idea to be original with his church.

Compensation is the law of existence the world over.—Emerson.

www.LatterDayTruth.org

More "Old Timers" Among Herald Subscribers

"It has been a great help and inspiration to me," writes Mrs. Emma Sartwell, of Savanna, Illinois, of the Herald. Sister Sartwell is eighty-two years of age and has subscribed to the official church paper without intermission for more than fifty years.

Mr. and Mrs. G. A. Pringle, of Tawas City, Michigan, have subscribed to the Herald since the spring of 1889, with the exception of the year 1894.

Elder O. J. Tary, of Wheeling, West Virginia, has been a continuous Herald subscriber since the latter part of 1881. He writes also: "I started my subscription to the Ensign when it was but a few weeks old, and continued until it merged with the Herald."

C. E. Priest, of Independence, Missouri, began taking the Herald thirty-two years ago in Michigan.

Mrs. Joseph Elliott, of Aldrich, Minnesota, has been a constant Herald reader since 1885.

Elder Henry Castings, of Des Moines, Iowa, has taken the Saints' Herald since February, 1901, (he had not belonged to the church a month), without missing a copy. His subscription is paid up to February, 1934, and he says: "It is my firm belief that all members of the church should subscribe to the Herald."

Mrs. Emma Warnock Schaar and Vincent D. Schaar, of Lake Orion, Michigan, state that they have taken the Herald continuously for thirty-three years.

Mrs. H. D. Stevens, eighty-three years old, of Madison, Wisconsin, has subscribed to and read the Herald for thirty-seven years. She saves each copy to pass on to interested friends.

F. L. Freeman, of Independence, Missouri, has taken the Herald for more than thirty years.

Mrs. Hattie Lambert, of Ferris, Illinois, read the Herald in the home of her parents for ten or more years, and during her married life of forty-two years, it has always been in her home. So she counts her years as a Herald reader between fifty-two and fifty-five. "Still it is coming," she writes, "and we wouldn't like to be without it. It brings us much good."

Francis Earl, of Hartford, Michigan, has been a continuous subscriber to the Herald since 1885. He was an intermittent subscriber from 1871 to 1885.

Mrs. Jane Boyd, of Norton, Kansas, has been a continuous Herald subscriber since the fall of 1887. She formerly lived at Crescent, Iowa.

Mr. and Mrs. E. S. Weed subscribed for the Herald at Emerson, Mills County, Iowa, in October, 1881. Since that time the subscription has continued with only two interruptions totalling not more than two and one half years. Though they moved from town to town and state to state, the Herald followed them. In recent months Sister Weed has obtained her copy from the Herald package sent to Phoenix, Arizona.

Elder John Heide, of Fulton, Iowa, first signed for the Herald in October, 1887. He thinks it a fine paper and wishes for it God's richest blessings.

J. L. Gunsolley, seventy-eight years old, of Mapleton, Kansas, subscribed for the Herald when he was baptized in 1879, and has been a reader ever since. His action then resulted in bringing his parents, six brothers and three sisters (the entire family) into the church. In the family now are one patriarch, two elders, and two priests.

Mrs. Sarah J. Ross, seventy-seven years old, of Gilroy, California, has been a reader of the Herald all of her life, and says, "I hope to be able to read it as long as I live." She has been a constant subscriber since 1880, and before her marriage in 1878, was a reader of the Herald in the home of her father, Andrew Ballantyne, as far back as she can remember.

James H. Stratton, of Kansas City, Kansas, joined the church in 1875, and has taken the Herald continuously since it was printed in Plano and came twice a month. He was the first person baptized by Brother J. J. Cornish and about the third who joined the church in London, Ontario. He is one of the witnesses to the great light that was seen when Brother Cornish baptized two sisters. "I still have faith in this work," declares Brother Stratton, "and believe that God will accomplish all his purposes concerning it."

John Johnson, of Independence, Missouri, has taken the Herald continuously since he was seventeen years of age, and is now past sixty-seven. He lived in western Montana until he moved to the center place in 1925.

It is interesting to note from the letters of these old-time Herald readers that a large per cent of them were also Zion's Ensign and Autumn Leaves (later renamed Vision) subscribers, taking these periodicals from the time they began publication until they merged with the Saints' Herald. A number, too, took the Journal of History during its life of seventeen years.

HELPS FOR THE PASTOR

Wednesday Evening

Not long ago a prayer meeting was held for which nobody had made any preparation. The man in charge had not thought of songs to sing nor of what he was going to say. The people had not thought of them either. Nobody had thought of anything. Nobody expected anything. Nobody wanted anything. Nobody got anything. A few faithful retainers trotted out their hospital tales which all had heard many times, but otherwise not much was said. Towards the last the meeting dragged so badly that some one started an old gospel hymn to wake the people up, but it died on the second verse. The man in charge held the meeting fifteen minutes overtime to see if somebody might have a change of heart and say something. One person did talk, but there was no life in it. Two men going down the aisle were saying that, "If people would only come out, the meetings would be more interesting." They might have been told that if the meetings were more interesting, the people would come out.

In another part of the same city another prayer meeting was held. The leader had his songs picked, and had asked two good singers to see that they were started right and kept moving. The theme for the meeting had been given out the previous week, and the people had been urged to think and pray about it. The leader called on some to pray, then allowed time for free prayers. He then gave a short, well-planned talk on the theme which set up something for the congregation to think about. He stayed on his feet, made suggestions, called on some to speak, was quick to recognize volunteers, and in general kept the meeting moving. Before the close of the meeting many had prayed and testified, and he closed the meeting on time, leaving the people with a desire to come again.

Which of these meetings did you attend?

www.LatterDayTruth.org

Youth's Forum

A Page of Thought and Discussion for the Young People of the Church

YOUR BALLOT

Herald Popularity Contest

You are invited to vote. Fill in the blanks, clip the coupon, and send it in.

Here is a list of the "Herald" features. Put number 1 after the one you like best, number 2 after the next best, etc.

Pigeonhole.....
Editorial.....
News Briefs.....
Helps for the Pastor.....
Youth's Forum.....
Articles.....
Prayer and Testimony.....
Question Time.....
News.....
Story.....
Special Question:
Do you want another serial story? Yes.....
(Mark with an X) No.....
Name.....
Street and Number.....
City..... State.....
Age.....
Member of priesthood?.....
Active in women's work?.....
Teacher?.....

The Story of Etta Kett

The Privacy of a Goldfish

Rain, rain, rain. It slanted down like spinning drops of molten silver. Looking out through the north window of her upstairs room, Etta could see the blanket of gray clouds hanging low over the city. Floating mists blotted out the horizon and swept through the tops of the trees in the park nearby, and along the avenues of the residence district. It looked like nothing but trees, clouds, and rain. Etta drew a feeling of isolation, security, and peace from it.

And yet she was not able to concentrate on anything. She discarded a new volume of biography that she had eagerly anticipated reading, simply because it was too heavy for her mood. And she threw a magazine of light fiction into a corner in disgust. Then she tried writing. Howard Bell's letter annoyed her.

"I suppose you think," she said scornfully to his imaginary presence, "that I'm just going to fall down on my knees and let you walk in and possess me. Well, I'm not!" And tossed his letter back into a pigeonhole in the desk. Then Wayne Roland's letter. "Brother," she whispered, "I am not excited about your uncle's pigs!" Then she curled up in the window seat, brooding and daydreaming.

A sound of footsteps on the stairs.

"Etta," called her mother's voice, "a visitor for you."

Etta sprang from her seat to catch up the books and tidy the room.

"Come on up!" she called.

It was Lillian Blanchard.

"We're hoping for sunshine for next Saturday. It's about time the young people had a picnic and beach party. I want you to serve on a committee to get it organized."

"Who's on the committee besides me?"

"Harry Wentworth and Mary March, and Bill and you."

Etta's summer tan began to glow with a tinge of pink.

"Please, Lillian, leave me off the committee. I'll be glad to help with any particular task, but don't put me on the committee."

"Why not?"

"I've got reasons. Only please don't do it."

"Is it about Bill?"

"Well, yes," defensively.

"Don't you think it's about time you and Bill should get over your peeve and make up?"

"This is no mere peeve, Lillian. It's a period of probation for Bill. I would like to see him develop a side of his character that has so far failed to register. I appreciate your interest in helping us make up; but it will help most if you don't interfere just now."

"Perhaps you're right, Etta. I didn't know there was a noble experiment in progress. Most of the people at the church think it's just an old-fashioned lovers' quarrel. Two people who've been as prominent in church work as you and Bill have cannot quarrel without having the whole church standing around embarrassed until it's over. I hope you settle it soon!"

Lillian departed leaving Etta with something to think about.

A Prayer

Help us to pay honestly, unstintedly, and bravely:

Our part of the great price,

Which of old and forever thou, our God,

Dost pay for man.

Ennoble us this day with a share in Thy work of redemption.

The Demands of Life

What do I demand of life? First, health. Second, privacy. Third, a moderate degree of security. Fourth, the continued affection of those who are dear to me. Fifth, a modicum of leisure, during which I may indulge my vice of laziness and read the books I want to read, play the games I want to play, see the places I want to see. These things are all possible of attainment, providing the first—health—is vouchsafed to me. Privacy is a benefit which determination can secure. In the outdoor studio of my cottage, which has no telephone and no wireless apparatus, I can "sport my oak" as firmly as any working undergraduate. . . .

And as long as I work in this way I shall have the leisure I require. It need not be stolen, because only that man is denied leisure who is so bent upon prosperity that he must not leave his work for a day lest it perish or cease to produce those monetary profits which are his only touchstone of well-being.

Finally, there is the question of affection. I think that any man can endure if he has good friends. And I have proved my friends. In ordinary life they may regard me with great irony. They may find me facetious and voluble, and even tiresome. But when I have ever been in trouble I have found my friends constant and inexhaustible in patience. I should desire them always to remain so. If they were to fall away, I should indeed be desolate. They will not so fall away as long as they and I remain unchanged.

As to comfort, I have enough of it. A roof to my head, chairs, books and a bed; a warm fire in the evening. It is ample. . . . It is ideal. I do not want to live in great hotels or to have many servants at my beck and call. And I do not want anything that will cause me to vegetate, because in return for the benefits I claim from life, it is my desire to write one novel that is more than "goodish."

That is the whole point. No man can be satisfied with his attainment, although he may be satisfied with his circumstances. If I have given any suggestion that I am not satisfied with what I have done, the suggestion is due to clumsy expression. I have been returning thanks to good fortune. I have been betraying, perhaps, a readiness to be pleased with small results. But I have not been patting myself upon the back. Something more is needed. A philosopher once said to me, "The man who is satisfied has no future but the dust-bin."

—From Frank Swinnerton's Tokefield Papers.

www.LatterDayTruth.org

NEWS BRIEFS

Apostle C. F. Ellis Arrives in Society Islands

Apostle Clyde F. Ellis arrived at Papeete, Tahiti, Saturday morning, July 15, after a pleasant ten-day voyage from San Francisco aboard the R. M. S. Makura. This was his seventh time to cross the Equator. That evening he was given an official welcome by the branch at the mission headquarters, Tarona, amid speeches of officers, native songs and refreshments.

On Sunday Brother Ellis was called upon to preach morning and evening, and for the first time in eight years delivered sermons in the Tahitian language.

Apostle Ellis is known to the Saints of the Society Islands, having labored there on two previous missions. He first went to the islands in 1914.

Bishop Charles Fry Busy in Northeastern Kansas

Bishop Charles Fry, who early in the summer was transferred from Iowa to the Northeastern Kansas District, has found much to keep him busy in his new field. He held a series of meetings at Scranton in June; assisted in a midweek prayer service and preached on Sunday at Topeka, June 25; assisted District President Dave Little in a one-day meeting July 2, at Netawaka. Since then he has conducted services at Blue Rapids and Fanning. He closed a series of meetings at the latter place previous to the two-day meeting held there in lieu of the semiannual district conference which was postponed. From Fanning he went to Atchison, continuing his district tour.

Did You Know That—

Missionary labors this year have taken Elder William I. Fligg twice to London, Ontario, to Buffalo, Rochester, and Niagara Falls, New York, and other points?

Central Texas District has just held the best reunion-conference in its history at Hearne? More than one hundred camped on the grounds, a widely representative set of campers.

President F. M. Smith and Patriarch F. A. Smith were present at the recent conference of Arkansas and Louisiana District held at Bald Knob?

Eleven candidates have been baptized at Yuma, Colorado, since last winter?

Missionary J. O. Dutton baptized eight people during the Kentucky-Tennessee reunion, July 22 to 30, at Puryear?

Missionary E. Y. Hunker brought new courage and light to the Saints of Magnolia, Iowa, in a ten-day series of services a short time ago?

During the ninety-year life period of Brush Creek Branch, Illinois, the responsibilities of presiding officers have fallen chiefly on three men—Nathan A. Morris, 1842 to 1864; Isaac A. Morris, 1867-1912, and William Clements, 1912-1933?

More Than Their Share in Preparing for Harvest Festival

Brother W. J. Winn and family, of King City, Missouri, and two families of Saints of Union Star, Missouri, all living in Far West Stake, have already canned three hundred quarts of fruit and vegetables for the Harvest Home Festival, to be held early in October, and are now looking for two hundred more empty jars to fill.

Ninetieth Birthday for Brush Creek Branch

Southeastern Illinois District opened its celebration of the ninetieth anniversary of Brush Creek Branch June 20. The first day was set apart for a home-coming of old-time schoolmates who learned the three "R's" in the log schoolhouse in which the branch was organized. Eleven pupils were present and Mollie Hilliard, the teacher, who had not seen some of her "boys and girls" for fifty years.

One of the outstanding features of the celebration occurred June 24, when a drama, written by O. C. Henson, was staged, telling again the story of the organization of Brush Creek Branch in December, 1842, in the old Caudle Schoolhouse.

A replica of the log schoolhouse, erected chiefly through the efforts of local Saints on the site of the first edifice, was dedicated Sunday afternoon by Apostle Paul M. Hanson. This building will serve as a memorial to the branch and will contain pictures of former and present-day missionaries and church workers who have labored there; also photographs of students from this district to attend Graceland College from the first class to the present.

www.LatterDayTruth.org

Are We Converted?

By L. B. M.

"Why, of course I am," we say. "I'm converted. Wasn't I baptized? Sure I'm a converted member of the church." But are we?

Conversion—a common word—we often hear it. It comes to us from the Latin root converto which means to turn, to change, to divert. Webster says that its theological meaning is a change of heart; a change from worldliness to godliness; a change of the ruling disposition of the soul involving a transformation of the outward life. (The italics are mine, not Webster's.)

Conversion is something more than eloquent speech and splendid intentions. It includes a change in our way of living, a growing toward Christ-likeness. Just how thoroughly converted are we? (The "we" here refers to you and to me, Latter Day Saints of the church, 1933.)

A few mornings ago during the fifteen-minute worship service over KMBC, from the Stone Church studio, the story of the people of Anti-Nephi-Lehi's coming to live in the land of Jershon, given to them by the Nephites, was read. It impressed me, and one verse particularly. These were the people whom Ammon converted to a belief in God in his missionary labors among the Lamanites. So repentant were they of their own sins and the sins of their fathers that they refused to take up the sword against their brothers even when they suffered an attack. In consequence many of them were slain by the Amalekites. When Ammon and others saw the destruction of the people they loved, they wished to save them from complete annihilation and proposed to the king to take these people to the land of Zarahemla; and so arrangements were made, and the Nephites generously gave to the people of Ammon the land of Jershon, near the Land Bountiful.

That is the way the historical account goes. If you wish, read it for yourself in the fifteenth chapter of Alma, Book of Mormon. But this is the verse which appealed to me. Concerning these people of Ammon it says: "They were distinguished for their zeal towards God, and also towards men; for they were perfectly honest and upright in all things; and they were firm in the faith of Christ, even unto the end."

Surely these people were truly converted to God and Christ! First, "they were distinguished for their zeal towards God, and also towards men." Christ himself said to Simon Peter, "When thou art converted, strengthen thy brethren."

Second, the people of Ammon were "perfectly honest and upright in all things." Those words in themselves are wonderfully descriptive of the change that must come in our lives if we are truly converted. Are we perfectly honest? Do we always tell the truth? Do we refrain from gossip, severe and unnecessary criticism, backbiting? Are we upright in all things? Are we law-abiding?

Third, they were "firm in the faith of Christ, even unto the end." How many of us have the wavering variety of faith—much faith when things go well, little faith when things go adversely? Are there any among us in that class whom Christ frequently addressed as "ye of little faith"? Are there any who are indifferent and lazy and idle and asleep to the glorious opportunities before us? Are there any among us who work themselves into a fever of excitement over their own notions of right and wrong, failing to consult the One who is Infinitely Wise and Good?

There is nothing like a frequent inventory of self to show us where we stand as a member of the kingdom of God on earth. J. M. Barrie once wrote: "The life of every man is a diary in which he means to write one story, and writes another; and his humblest hour is when he compares the volume as it is with that he vowed to make it." We should have such humble hours frequently if we would be fit men and women to serve our God. Recently Apostle M. A. McConley told the Stone Church congregation in a stirring sermon, that when we begin to worry about the condition of society and the world, the thing for us to do is to get that "beam" right out of our own eye before we begin to worry about the "mote" in our brother's eye. Let us ask ourselves: How great for good is the power of my example? Do I live up to what I say in prayer meeting? What does my life, both at home and abroad, tell those who are younger and more inexperienced, of my brand of religion? Am I a good representative of the church? Is my hope in Christ expressed in my actions? Am I a good neighbor? What do I know about kindness, unselfishness, cleanliness, and truth? Such questions when squarely and personally faced, bring humble hours.

Frankly, are we as converted as were the people of Ammon who were "distinguished for their zeal towards God, and also towards men; for they were perfectly honest and upright in all things; and they were firm in the faith of Christ, even unto the end"? Has our life been outwardly transformed by the religion of Jesus Christ?

www.LatterDayTruth.org

The Price of Peace

By Merl B. Grover

WHAT is the price of peace? In the years 1914 to 1918, the world paid the price of millions of its strongest, choicest human lives for peace. The cry then was, "Make the world safe for democracy, and there shall be no more war." The price was appalling, terrible.

Men were torn from the breasts of their gray-haired mothers, never to return again; husbands were taken from their homes, leaving their wives and babies alone in the world, and in many cases financially helpless, waiting for a husband and father who never came back; mothers, fathers, brothers, sisters, sweethearts—all were called upon to give up their loved ones in a horrible, cruel death in that most brutal of man's degradations—war. Many there were who died on the battle field; many who returned maimed for life, having lost arms, legs, or having had their lungs eaten away by a poisonous gas, and some there were whose nervous systems were forever wrecked so that today we see them, poor, pitiful creatures, helpless and hopeless, devoid of every attribute that once made them valuable in the service of their country.

These men paid all this because they believed it to be the price of peace, and it was peace for which they sought—for their wives, their babies, and their children's children. And that peace came. On November 11, 1918, their dream seemed to be realized. The price had been paid, and peace was here.

Out of the maze of men who had been called leaders in that world struggle, there emerged a man who believed he had produced a plan whereby world peace, having been won could be forever kept. It shall not be our purpose to discuss the merits or demerits of that man's plan, but sufficient it is to say that its very introduction brought back to the world the whirlwinds of contention between leaders of men, which contentions are many times but the forerunners of the black clouds of war. So-called leaders, politicians we shall call them, promptly forgot the price which had been paid, and for thirteen years have argued and striven and contended over the policy of the nation. Newspapers have taken issue, political parties have assumed stands, and preachers, even in God's own church, have many times lowered themselves to the preaching of politics to God's people, and they still continue today.

With such nourishment, these whirlwinds of contentions have developed into veritable tornadoes with such power and ruthlessness that today there looms on the horizon the unmistakable black clouds of war. Throughout the great nations of Europe there are smouldering fusions which if ignited by an indiscreet act, would throw mighty powers into an even more horrible conflict than that of 1918. The price which men decreed for peace has been paid, but like so many of man's decrees it has fallen short of any degree of permanency.

Men's bargains have failed. It now behooves the Saints of God to turn to their Lord. He, too, has decreed a price for peace and that price is the keeping of his laws—all of them. That price will cost some lives, some sacrifices, but we have the assurance of God himself that it is permanent. He has told us that if we do these things which he requires, he will protect us and give us peace in a day when the swords of the world will be lifted against us. The price of peace, then, is not to be a bloody, fighting, dying soldier, but to be a consecrated follower of the manly Son of God. As President McDowell has said, it is the present generation, not the church, who stand at the crossroads. In a day when the clouds of war are hanging menacingly low; when revolutions within the great nations of the world seem to startle one with their nearness, it is for this generation to say whether they will pay today the price of peace which God requires, or wait and pay again and again the price of peace required by the world. Today, as in the beginning, man must make his choice.

The worst enemy of an effective life is fear, and uncertainty is the prolific parent of fear. Fear is always concentrating on the thing that may happen and so prevents us from fixing our attention upon the thing that is happening now. By its anticipation of future disaster it robs us of the gifts which today may bring. There is only one way to put this enemy to rout, and that is to lay hold on an enduring good of which no future happening can rob us. —William Adams Brown, in Pathways to Certainty.

Great preaching does not tell men what to believe. It shows them, by a gracious sifting of the heart, what they already believe. It sets the innate faith against the tortured doubt—and sounds the challenge:

"Like you this Christianity or not?
It may be false, but will you wish it true?
Has it your vote to be so if it can?"

—George A. Buttrick, in Jesus Came Preaching.

www.LatterDayTruth.org

DISCIPLESHIP

III.—Trifling Disciples

By Thomas S. Williams

A TRAVELER admiring the wonderful beauty of the great Cathedral of Saint Peter in Rome, turned to see two young men from the States. These young men said they were university students and that they had planned to stay for some time in Rome. But since there was nothing there for them they had decided to go on to Naples that night.

In spite of the great and wonderful things of value to be seen in Rome they saw nothing.

Perhaps the most prominent weakness of the trifling disciple is his failure to recognize higher values. He is blinded to real quality and intrinsic worth. The story of Esau and the disposal of his birthright is an illustration of this weakness.

The trifling disciple is undependable and is consequently more dangerous than a known enemy. Collective effort demands dependability. Hence, the trifler is not trustworthy in a cooperative endeavor. Group projects have no place for him.

The trifling disciple is an "easy going" individual. Like an English Lord he says: "If we must have a religion let us have one that is cool and comfortable." He fails to recognize the seriousness of life and the sacredness of his opportunity.

This type of person places value on time. The hours, weeks and years of his sojourn in this world mean very little to him. His time is spent in idleness, excessive amusements and unprofitable conversation. He gives too much attention to worldly pursuits. He is fully under the control of his environment. Because of his lack of mental and physical "drive," he is as vacillating as the waves of the sea. Instead of directing and controlling his surroundings for his good and for the good of others he is controlled by them.

The trifler is irreligious. He is not a religious man for "religion is a passion for righteousness and the spread of righteousness." A man who is consecrated and dedicated to his task, if his task be for social uplift, is religious. The trifler is guilty of rank infidelity.

The trifling man lacks discipline. The enjoyment of better things is the result of training, and training is discipline. This man does not get the most out of life for he merely skims the surface of things. The worth-while things are not discovered by the trifler. "It is to the glory of God to conceal a thing; it is the honor of a king to search out a matter."

Another outstanding weakness is his inability to discern the result of his trifling. He has no sense of consequence. If the trifler could see the result of his method, he would undoubtedly change it.

The trifling man is not in his right mind, for he is not in the full possession of all his mentality. Perhaps we should be more charitable and say he is not exercising that which he has. He is only part of a man. He is a divided self. To be a full and complete self a man must be completely consecrated to his work.

We might sum up the trifler by saying that he lacks God consciousness, not recognizing that his life is God given. He does not vision life as a stewardship. When a man visions life as God given and recognizes that God will require from him an accounting of his stewardship, he cannot trifle.

Let me conclude by quoting the words of another: "The true measure of a man is the depths of his convictions, the breadth of his sympathies, and the height of his ideals."

If you only preach and do not practice the love of Christ, you will not understand the meaning of suffering. The need of sacrifice was the central teaching of Jesus Christ. He was conscious of the need of suffering and of the cross. Love and the cross are the basis of the Christian church, and on the cross of Jesus we must construct our new society.

After the great industrial revolution, unfortunately, the Christian church failed to practice the principle of the cross. Therefore what we need today is a thoroughgoing reconstruction of the economic and social systems based on the principle of the cross. Capitalism and communism are both failures in constructing real society. What we need is to revive the spirit of the Sermon on the Mount and to live up to it.—Toyohiko Kagawa in "A Message to America," The Epworth Herald.

Let the preacher preach the social gospel. If he shirk that task, he may escape discomfort, but he will not escape himself or Christ. Let him preach a true nationalism. Let him preach a fairer industry—whose smoke becomes the pattern of His face against the sky. Let him cleanse the temple. Let him overturn by his zeal the tables of the money changers. But let him keep that preaching ever in the constraint of Christ's love; lest, wandering into propagandist realms, it is slain. Let him so preach that in all things "He may be exalted."—George A. Buttrick in Jesus Came Preaching.

www.LatterDayTruth.org

The End and the Effort

By J. A. Gunsolley

BEFORE entering upon any undertaking, especially if it be one involving much in its consequences, it is well to consider very carefully the object sought, the goal to be won, the end to be attained. Is the object a worthy one? Is it within reach if reasonable effort be put forth? Would its possession bring satisfaction? If the undertaking be one having to do with material things, it is more than likely that due consideration will be given before it is begun; but if the undertaking is one that has to do with immaterial, yet more enduring things, consideration is too often given but slight attention if not omitted altogether.

I.—The End—Salvation—Eternal Life

1. The term "eternal life" is variously defined and interpreted. To many it means to live in heaven; but "heaven" is also a term whose meaning is vague. Its location is uncertain, and conditions which will be found there are little understood. For centuries it has been taught that all men at death enter either into heaven or hell, and that both are without duration limit, or have no end. The one who believes in Christ and accepts him as a personal Savior, though only by profession, at death enters into heaven, a place of happiness and bliss, where he is to abide eternally in the presence of God and the angels. The one who does not accept Christ as a personal Savior in this life, at death goes to a place of eternal torment called hell. This philosophy, which was born during the Dark Ages, has persisted and is generally accepted by professing Christians; but it is a false philosophy and will not stand in the face of revealed truth. Divine inspiration declares: "For, behold, I am endless, and the punishment which is given from my hand is endless punishment, for Endless is my name; wherefore—Eternal punishment is God's punishment. Endless punishment is God's punishment." In like manner, then, eternal life is life given from God's hand, and is to be suited to every individual according as his works have been.

2. To be saved means to be redeemed from sin and its consequences. "He shall save his people from their sins," was the angelic annunciation to Mary concerning the mission of her child soon to be born whose name should be "Jesus." The life and power promised to those who would believe in him and enter into the life he would give them would save them from sinning as well as from the consequences of sin.

3. One of the goals of effort is to work out and establish a divine society upon the earth, as well as to look forward to an association with the "blood-washed throng" in the world to come. There is to be a time of the gathering of the righteous upon earth as declared the Psalmist, "Gather my saints together unto me; those that have made a covenant with me by sacrifice." Such a society was built up in the days of Enoch, and is clearly foretold in the prophecies concerning the latter days, or before the coming of Christ and the end of the world, or the "destruction of the wicked."

4. Another goal, or another phase of the goal, is the resurrection of the just. Everyone is to be resurrected, whether he shall desire to be or not. All are redeemed from physical death through the atonement of Christ; but every man shall come forth in his own order. The First Resurrection, or the resurrection of the righteous is for those who keep the celestial law, as well as for those who died without law. Those who abide the celestial law will be heirs of celestial glory and will live in the presence of the Father and the Son upon the celestialized earth. It is they only who shall inherit a fullness of glory, typified by the sun as given by Paul, while all others will receive the glory of the moon or the glory of the stars, except those who will inherit a kingdom which is not a kingdom of glory, who are the sons of perdition. (1 Corinthians 15: 35-42.)

II.—The Effort

The end or goal can be gained only through effort put forth according to law. This is aptly expressed by Paul: "And if a man also strive for masteries, he is not crowned, except he strive lawfully." (2 Timothy 2: 5.) The law governing effort may be divided into two classes, as follows:

1. There are the laws of initiation through and by which man qualifies for, and enters into, association with divinity for accomplishing the goal. These are again classified as follows:

(1) Faith, A. in God, B. in Christ, C. in the gospel, D. in the Church, E. in self.

(2) Repentance from dead works, which involves a constant changing, or turning, from darkness and error unto light and truth.

(3) Baptisms, of the water and the Spirit. (John 3: 5.)

2. Then there are laws of sanctification, among which are the following:

(1) Those having to do with the growth of the individual as to ele- (Continued on page 1006)

www.LatterDayTruth.org

The Steep Side of the Mountain

Furnished by - - - - - - - -
Jackson County Tuberculosis Association

By Dr. H. E. Kleinschmidt

Director, Health Education, National Tuberculosis Association

WHEN DEATHS FROM TUBERCULOSIS are plotted according to five year age groups, the curve looks not unlike Mount Blanc. The disease takes a high toll during the first year of life because babies born of tuberculous mothers die easily and quickly. A baby who has as yet developed no resistance against tuberculosis is likely to receive so many germs from his mother as to overwhelm him.

Aside from that hazard children apparently have little to fear from the destroying wand of the white plague. But during the late teens the curve begins to rise like a precipice and reaches its peak in the age group 20 to 25. It rides along on a plateau for the next decade and then gradually slopes off to old age.

Because the peak of this disease juts out in maturity, the general idea prevails that tuberculosis is a disease of adults. The curve, however, represents not the number of people who have tuberculosis but deaths from that disease. Knowing that tuberculosis usually exists for years before the final price is paid, we must assume that the trouble begins usually during childhood. That assumption has been proved to be a fact in recent years. We now think of tuberculosis as a children's disease, for it is during school days that most persons are first infected, and it is during the stress and strain of adolescence that this infection seems to become active. With each succeeding year of life a greater number of young people are carried away, though some do manage to live on for many years.

Being interested in prevention, our chief concern is with the valley and the steep side of the mountain. There is little use to blast away at the peak, for this living mountain of the dead builds itself up constantly from the valley below. What means have we of lowering the peak?

Perhaps the most important tool within our reach is the sound substantial knowledge that tuberculosis is a communicable disease. Tuberculosis causes tuberculosis—every case comes from another. The germ is in the sputum—kissing, the common use of dishes, sleeping together in a home where there is a case, are hazardous for the child. Most of us sooner or later get a few tuberculosis germs in our bodies but our resistance is enough to keep these small numbers from doing harm. But large numbers of germs or repeated "dosages" of them may be too much for the child to conquer.

Crowding, poor food, worry—these help to bring on the disease simply because they lower the resistance; but the deciding factor in most cases is undoubtedly close contact. If we can protect children and others from close contact with the open case we shall take the steepness out of the mountain. That is why sanatoria are built—so that the open cases can be removed to a pleasant place where they will get well and where they can be taught meanwhile how to protect others.

Doctors are no longer satisfied merely to make a diagnosis of tuberculosis in a person who comes to the office. As soon as the doctor is sure that the patient has the disease two questions rise to his mind. The first is, "From whom did he get it?" The other is, "To whom has he given it?" He can find out only by examining all persons with whom the patient lives, plays or works. That means first of all a thorough examination of the other members of the household. Often there are older persons in the household—relatives, boarders, servants—who have chronic tuberculosis and don't know it. They may believe they are suffering from bronchitis or asthma or heart disease. Such people are especially dangerous because usually they take no care to protect others from the disease.

The doctor is concerned especially about the children. Have any of them already been infected and if so, has the infection progressed to early disease? His chances of saving them from serious disease are excellent if he can discover it early before there are any indications of ill health. Fortunately, he now has the means of making the discovery. He uses the tuberculin test. This test is harmless. It tells whether or not tuberculosis germs have entered the body. But it tells only that and no more. If it is positive the next step is to have the child X-rayed. From the X-ray picture the doctor can tell if any lung damage has already been done. He also makes a careful physical examination to learn how well the child is resisting or stopping the disease. With this knowledge he can then plan the family life so that the child need not develop serious disease.

Can faith move mountains? The knowledge we now have can flatten out the tuberculosis mountain to a harmless plain.

www.LatterDayTruth.org

Teaching in the Church School

From an address at Delhi, Ontario, Rally Day Services, June 18, 1933. . . . . .

By Ray Best

THE CURRICULUM OF THE CHURCH SCHOOL

The word curriculum means the prescribed course of study. Whenever we read that group of words, "The curriculum of the church school," as we often do in the church papers, it means the prescribed course of study of the church school, and I would like to point out first of all that the courses of study that have been prescribed and prepared in quarterly form by the heads of our church school department should be used by all adult and intermediate grade teachers.

I mention this because in some schools, in order to save expense the adult classes are taught directly out of the Bible or other standard books. I know by experience that the result is generally an unsystematic discussion where no theme is carried to any satisfactory conclusion. More often than not a couple of the members get into an argument over their own private interpretation of some passage or phase of the Scripture and the rest of the class are forced to listen to something that in no way interests them. I have seen these arguments last until the class period was over, when those who were engaged in the argument have been more or less ruffled at each other, and the rest of the class bored almost to distraction, and all have left the classroom feeling more or less dissatisfied and discouraged.

I do not say that it is not possible to get a good lesson from the standard books, for that is where the lessons in our quarterlies come from largely, but I do say that the average adult or intermediate grade teacher has neither the time nor the ability to prepare a good progressive lesson from the standard books because of the scattered condition of the subjects and the proofs in them, and for other reasons.

Owing to these obstacles, the quarterly system of teaching or the church school curriculum is absolutely essential. In the Herald for May 23 we learn, that for adults a fresh study is prepared each year as the current quarterly for those classes that wish to be up to date, but any of the previous quarterlies listed in the curriculum may be elected for class use. Two new courses of study were also mentioned. A complete list may be obtained by applying to The Department of Religious Education, Independence, Missouri.

THE REQUIREMENTS FOR STUDY AND PREPARATION

An all important requirement in the study and preparation of a lesson is to be interested. Reading a lesson while your thoughts are on some other subject or divided between two subjects is very bad practice. We should think intently only about what we are reading or studying, and we can usually train our minds to concentrate if we try.

Self-interest can usually be promoted by studying our lesson in parts as they are generally written, better than if we try to study them all at once.

To illustrate this idea, I have here in an old quarterly a lesson entitled, "The Abundant Life," now the first thing we do in preparing this lesson is to forget everything else and concentrate on that title and establish in our minds the foundation thought derived from the beautiful statement of Jesus: "I have come that you may have life, and that ye may have it more abundantly"; and when we have put every other thing from our minds we find that questions naturally ensue. Probably the first question that would present itself would be what do we need to make our life abundant or fully sufficient? Our mind is now open and we begin to study our lesson which has been scientifically prepared, by reading carefully the introductory remarks. Then in full faced type the title of the first part of our lesson, "The Necessity of Friendship." Now we coordinate or harmonize this subtitle or title of the first part with the main title and get a partial answer to our question which is this, if we would live the abundant life then we need friendship.

Then study carefully the analysis under the subtitle showing the relationship between "Friendship and the Abundant Life," and not until this part of our lesson is thoroughly studied and clearly understood should we pass on to the next part, the title of which is, "The Necessity of Honest and Useful Work." Again let us study the analysis with the determination to establish clearly the relationship between the "abundant life" and honest and useful work, and so on until the lesson is complete, and if this study method does not kindle your interest I do not know what will.

When we find that a portion of Scripture is referred to in the lesson merely by the number and name of a chapter, and number of a verse, always look it up; it must be important or it would not be noted. I find that these verses and passages of Scripture are often helpful in expanding the lesson and helpful in prompting thought and intelligent discussion. I also find it a big help to take a fine pen or a sharp lead pencil and print the verse on the margin of the quarterly or between the lines for ready reference thus saving the time necessary to look it up during which the thought for which we are in hot pursuit might escape us.

www.LatterDayTruth.org

Another very important requirement of study and preparation is that we always look up in a dictionary the meaning of any words we do not understand, underscore the word and print in the meaning somewhere as close to it as you can with a sharp pencil or a fine pen so that the definition may be small but distinct.

You will notice that some words are given several different definitions in the dictionary and we must be careful to select the particular definition which fits into the words preceding and following the word that we do not know the meaning of.

To illustrate this and also to show the importance of knowing the meanings of words, we will use a sentence from our lesson, "The Abundant Life," "But an expended life is the very essence of unselfishness." Now we will say for example that "essence" is the word we do not know the meaning of; we observe that essence is the name given to the relation between the expended life and unselfishness, but because we do not know the meaning of the word we do not satisfactorily sense the magnitude or the importance of that relationship. So we consult our dictionary and we find that essence is given several different meanings such as, volatile matter, perfume, etc., but when we attempt to fit them into our sentence they do not sound right or sensible. Let's try one: "The expended life is the very volatile matter of unselfishness." Now that does not sound right or sensible does it? So we consult our dictionary again and find still another meaning for essence; that in which the real character of a thing really consists. Substituting this definition in our sentence we get this clear and sensible statement: "But an expended life is that in which the real character of unselfishness consists." Thus the magnitude and importance of the relationship between the expended life and unselfishness is clearly established and from this it should be clear how important it is to always look up the meanings of words and always be careful to select the proper definition.

METHOD OF TEACHING

The most successful teacher is one who has confidence in himself and at the same time merits the respect and confidence of his class. I do not mean that brand of self-confidence whereby we merely think that we are intellectually superior to everyone in the class and that we do not need much preparation in order to teach, but I do mean that confidence engendered by being well clothed with actual knowledge, honestly earned by time expended in careful study which is similar to that confidence that we enjoy by being well dressed in society.

Be ready to answer and settle any argument that might arise by intelligently and clearly explaining and proving your explanation, avoid argument but promote discussion by allowing the members to relate to the class experiences that would tend to strengthen the thought under discussion, also encourage the asking and answering of questions.

The art of teaching probably consists in making the lesson clear and plain, and in keeping the theme unbroken from beginning to end, more than in anything else.

It must be borne in mind that our responsibility as adult teachers is to contribute to our classes a growing comprehension and appreciation of the gospel plan according to the systematic methods adopted by our church authorities (and as one of these has said), help our students to gain in ability from week to week to control and direct the forces of their lives in harmony with gospel ideals and to develop a personal character which will be an asset in God's kingdom. That is our responsibility just as much as it is the responsibility of the teachers in other educational institutions to contribute to their classes a growing comprehension and appreciation of the accuracy of mathematics and other useful subjects according to the systematic methods adopted by our ministers of education.

We should always be conscious of the fact that the work of the teacher in either the adult or intermediate division is to lead in research and direct thought and discussion upon some practical subject of religious education that is progressive in its application. For the great purpose of religious education is not merely to adjust our people to their present environment, but to create a new and better environment and to adjust the lives of our people to it. The major items of this new environment or Zionic condition (which can come out of nothing but the true Christian social order, to which the church is trying to give birth), are economic, domestic, political, cultural and devotional elements. Our task is to help to train our people to understand and order their lives in harmony with these elements.

The economic situation that has grown out of the industrial revolution and the legitimate complaints of civilization today demands the creation of a more equitable order socially. This church has received by revelation from God a social program that exactly meets this demand. It is called the stewardship plan and its design is to establish an inspired government and bring into being a world ruled by God. The great purpose of religious education is to effect the growth of each scholar in this great reconstruction of society.

The pulpit is not a throne: it is an altar—yet its fires are not kindled by any human torch. They flame above all life (above the studio, the factory, the laboratory and the home) to guide men to a sacred place.—George A. Buttrick, in Jesus Came Preaching.

THE END AND THE EFFORT

(Continued from page 1003.)

ments of personal righteousness, some of which are enumerated in 2 Peter 1: 5-8 as being, virtue, knowledge, temperance, patience, godliness, brotherly kindness and charity.

(2) Then there are the laws governing the relationship between man and man as regards largely the enjoyment and use of temporal relations and things, a proper observance of which will result in a divine society. These are classed under the head of Stewardships, and include, A. Tithing (with annual statements and inventory), B. Surplus, C. Offerings, D. and Gatherings.

The two classes of laws involved in "the effort" should each be given proper evaluation. To be coworkers together with God attention to the laws of Initiation is necessary; for by compliance therewith the relationship of heirs of God and joint heirs with Christ is established, and entry is affected into the work of the Father and the Son. An observance of the laws of Sanctification makes for acceptable relationship insuring divine favor and final celestial reward.

The Higher Viewpoint

I remember once of climbing a long, winding mountain road for mile upon mile of successive elevation. There were many interesting points on the way. At times one could look off along the range and catch a thrilling view of the landscape. At several such points, where a turn in the road skirted a precipitous cliff, it was worth while to pause and enjoy the widening horizons. But a surprise far surpassing all these partial views was awaiting us. At last we reached a final turn which brought us out onto the very summit. What a view that was! All the former partial views gathered up in one and far surpassed! We could look back down the trail at various points from which we had caught our partial views. How inadequate they all seemed now! From our final vantage point we could see all that had been visible from lower down and how much more beside. And we saw it all in accurate perspective. At last we knew all that this mountain top, with its command of the surrounding country, could mean.—Harry C. Munro, in The Lesson Round Table, 1932; edited by Richard D. Dodge; Cokesbury Press.

Sin is punished naturally, not mechanically, not arbitrarily. All is in accordance with law. Whatsoever a man sows, that shall he also reap. If he sows to the flesh, he reaps corruption. If he sows to the Spirit, he reaps life eternal. . . . The punishment of sin is sensible and natural.—Charles Edward Jefferson, in Things Fundamental.

www.LatterDayTruth.org

Worship Suggestions for September, 1933

The Church School

Prepared by Arthur Oakman and Elva T. Sturges

THEME FOR THE MONTH: "MAKE GOD YOUR PARTNER."

FIRST SUNDAY, SEPTEMBER 3.

Theme: "Be Ye Clean."

Instrumental Prelude: "O Savior, Precious Savior," N. S. H., 34.

Call to Service: 1 John 3: 1.

"Behold, what manner of love the Father hath bestowed upon us, that we should be called the sons of God; therefore the world knoweth us not, because it knew him not."

(S) Song Response: "O Lord! Around Thine Altar Now," N. S. H., 74; S. H., 129, verses one, two and three.

(S) Prayer: Of thanksgiving to God for his goodness to us, and concluding with the Lord's prayer.

Scriptural Meditation: Romans 8: 1-14.

Hymn: "We Know, O Lord," N. S. H., 74, verses four and five.

Talk:

"Cleanliness is next to godliness," runs an old proverb. Before God can bestow many of the things we so urgently need, we must be a cleaner people. This means more than to be unconscious of any filthiness within us. Many a man is clean according to the accepted standards of the best society and yet not fit for service in the kingdom of God.

To be clean enough to work in the kingdom, one must possess motives that are pure in themselves. Cleanliness is an active warfare against all that is unclean, and involves therefore, more than the sweeping and garnering of our own spiritual lives. The one pure motive qualifying men to serve for God is charity, the pure love of Christ, which is manifested in the active giving of oneself in a clean cause.

(S) Hymn: "I Would Be True," N. S. H., 294.

(S) Commission: 1 John 3: 2, 3.

"Beloved, now are we the sons of God, and it doth not yet appear what we shall be; but we know that, when he shall appear, we shall be like him; for we shall see him as he is.

"And every man that hath this hope in him, purifieth himself, even as he is pure."

(S) Benediction: Psalm 19: 14.

SECOND SUNDAY: SEPTEMBER 10.

Theme: "Be Ye Capable."

Instrumental Prelude: "Once More We Come," N. S. H., 75.

Call to Service: Doctrine and Covenants 58: 6 and 119: 8.

"Verily I say, Men should be anxiously engaged in a good cause, and do many things of their own free will, and bring to pass much righteousness; for the power is in them, wherein they are agents unto themselves. And inasmuch as men do good, they shall in no wise lose their reward. . . ." ". . . All are called according to the gifts of God unto them; and to the intent that all may labor together, let him that laboreth in the ministry and him that toileth in the affairs of the men of business and of work labor together with God for the accomplishment of the work entrusted to all."

(S) Hymn: "Lord God of Hosts," N. S. H., 172.

(S) Prayer: A petition for stability, diligence, and patience.

Psalm: No. 15, to be read in unison by the congregation.

Scripture and Meditation: Parable of the talents. Matthew 25: 12-31.

The possession of talent is not of itself any guarantee that he who possesses has Christian character. Whether we have much or little, it is not what we have, it is the way we use it that counts. It determines our qualifications for service in his kingdom. The man who had one talent was not condemned because he had less than the other men; but because he was envious of them. He could have used his gift to bless men, but he failed to do so, and lost his talent. When that was taken away, he had nothing. He was nothing. Our natural endowments, used under the impulsion of pure motives make us capable to serve. If we use them selfishly, we will eventually lose them. And—what is more—gifts used rightly increase the capacity of the user to serve. The reward for such service is increased capacity for good, the highest kind of reward for a man who loves other people.

(S) Hymn: "Gracious Spirit, Dwell With Me," N. S. H., 192.

(S) Benediction.

THIRD SUNDAY: SEPTEMBER 17.

Theme: "Be Ye Consecrated."

Instrumental Prelude: "Unto God Who Knows," N. S. H., 293.

Call to Worship: Doctrine and Covenants 4: 1.

Response by Congregation: Doctrine and Covenants 64: 7. "Behold, the Lord requireth the heart and a willing mind."

(S) Prayer: A petition for forgiveness and a renewal of dedication.

A Story of Consecration:

The story of H. H. Deam is suitable. This may be told from the Church History account, volume 3, pages 732-737. Any other story illustrating consecration may be used if it is so desired.

(S) Hymn: "Take My Life," N. S. H., 307, verses one, two, and three.

Scriptural Meditation: Mosiah 1: 52-61.

(S) Hymn: "Take My Silver," N. S. H., 307, verses four, five, and six.

(S) Commission: Luke 10: 28.

". . . Thou shalt love the Lord thy God with all thy heart, and with all thy soul, and with all thy strength, and with all thy mind; and thy neighbor as thyself."

(S) Benediction: Numbers 6: 24-26.

"The Lord bless thee and keep thee. . . ." (and following.)

FOURTH SUNDAY: SEPTEMBER 24.

Theme: "Give of Your Best."

Instrumental Prelude: "Consecration," N. S. H., 293.

Call to Worship: John 4: 25, 26.

"And the hour cometh, and now is, when the true worshipers shall worship the Father in spirit and in truth; for the Father seeketh such to worship him. For unto such hath God promised his Spirit. And they who worship him, must worship in spirit and in truth."

(S) Hymn Response: "O Brother Man," N. S. H., 339.

(S) Prayer:

Scripture Reading: 3 Nephi 12:25-35.

Hymn: "Teach Us, O Lord, True Brotherhood," N. S. H., 341.

Period of Meditation: (Let a full moment elapse between the suggestion of each thought for meditation.)

Shall we think of the work that is being done at the present time by those who are giving of their best.

Of the opportunities and privileges that have come to us through the work of those who in past ages have given of their best.

Of God who always gives of his best, who gave us his son.

Of Christ who gave of his best even though it cost him all he had.

Of the present need of humanity which demands our best.

Of the difference it would make in our present activities in the work of Christ if we were to give of our best. What we might be able to accomplish and of what it would mean to the church.

Unison Reading: "O Son of Man," N. S. H., 352.

Commission: Doctrine and Covenants 104: 44; 122: 17.

"Wherefore, now let every man learn his duty, and to act in the office in which he is appointed, in all diligence. He that is slothful shall not be counted worthy to stand, and he that learns not his duty and shows himself not approved, shall not be counted worthy to stand. . . ." "Continue in steadfastness and faith. Let nothing separate you from each other and the work whereunto you have been called; and I will be with you by my Spirit and presence of power unto the end."

(S) Prayer Song: "Consecration," N. S. H., 293.

(Note: N. S. H.—New Saints' Hymnal; S. H.—old Saints' Hymnal. Z. P.—Zion's Praises. "(S)" means that the congregation is to stand.)

www.LatterDayTruth.org

The Children's Division

Prepared by Fern Weedmark and Mildred Goodfellow

FIRST SUNDAY, SEPTEMBER 3.

Joint sacrament service for adults and children.

Junior Quarterly, "The Junior and His Bible," by Myrtle A. Weber, April, May, June, 1931, Lesson Ten, contains helpful material about the sacrament.

SECOND SUNDAY, SEPTEMBER 10.

Theme: "Service."

Prelude: "Blessed Are They That Do," Zion's Praises, 224.

Call to Worship: "Choose ye this day to serve the Lord God who made you." (Genesis 6: 35, Inspired Translation.)

Hymn: "I Love to Scatter Sunshine," Zion's Praises, 136.

Prayer.

Scripture: Isaiah 6: 8; Joshua 24: 24; James 1: 22; 1 Samuel 12: 24.

Hymn: "Something to Do," Zion's Praises, 228.

Sermon Talk: Text: Isaiah 6: 8.

When the Lord called, Isaiah answered, "Here am I; send me." He did not stop to ask questions, but immediately responded to the Lord's call. That is the kind of workers God wants. We find true joy in serving God. (Acts 20: 24.) We should prepare ourselves to be workers in God's church. We should be willing to do whatever task is given us, no matter how small it may seem. David said, "I had rather be a doorkeeper in the house of my God, than to dwell in the tents of wickedness." (Psalm 84: 10.) If we are faithful in the little things we find to do, we will be given greater things to do. (Matthew 25: 23.) Jesus said, "If any man serve me, him will my Father honor." (John 12: 26.) It is an honor and privilege to be a worker in God's church. Suggest ways in which juniors may help.

Story: "How They Helped," Stepping Stones, August 7, 1933, or "Not What We Give, But What We Share," page 132, Knights of Service, by Emerson O. Bradshaw.

Hymn: "O Master Workman of the Race," new Saints' Hymnal, 152.

Story: "A Woman Who Loved Children," or "A Girl Who Helped Jesus," pages 47-50, Junior Quarterly, "Jesus and His Helpers," by Lucie H. Sears, April, May, June, 1930, or "The Boy Who Gave a Cup of Cold Water," page 128, Knights of Service, by Emerson O. Bradshaw.

Closing Hymn: "What Fruit Have You Gathered?" Zion's Praises, 14, new Saints' Hymnal, 221.

Benediction.

THIRD SUNDAY, SEPTEMBER 17.

Theme: "Stewardship."

Prelude: "Traumerei," by R. Schumann.

Call to Worship: "Whoso is found a faithful, a just, and a wise steward, shall enter into the joy of his Lord, and shall inherit eternal life." (Doctrine and Covenants 51: 5.)

Hymn: "Send Me Forth, O Blessed Master," Zion's Praises, 166, new Saints' Hymnal, 214.

Prayer.

Scripture: Romans 14: 12, Doctrine and Covenants 118: 4 (last sentence).

Hymn: "Earnest Workers for the Master," Zion's Praises, 99.

Sermon Talk: Text: Doctrine and Covenants 101: 2 (second sentence).

A steward is one who manages the affairs or property of another person. Everything in this world belongs to God. He is letting us use it. We are stewards whether we acknowledge it or not. If we are good stewards we will obey the law of the church and pay our tithing. (Doctrine and Covenants 106: 1.) Many boys and girls are complying with this law by keeping the Junior Stewardship Record Books and paying their tithing. This is one way we may be workers with God. We should also remember we are responsible to God for the use we make of our time, our talents and opportunities. Let us be faithful stewards over all these things.

Story: "The Stewardship Garden," Stepping Stones, May 4, 1930, or "Ellen's Covenant," Stepping Stones, January 8, 1933.

Hymn or Solo: "O Jesus, I have Promised," new Saints' Hymnal, 298.

Story: "The Parable of the Talents." (Matthew 25: 14-29), or a story selected from book, Stewardship Stories, by Guy L. Morrill. (This book may be obtained through the Herald Publishing House for 50 cents.)

Closing Hymn: "The Song-Gift," Zion's Praises, 162.

Benediction.

FOURTH SUNDAY, SEPTEMBER 24.

PROMOTION DAY

Prelude: "Let the Children Come," Zion's Praises, 108.

Call to Worship: "Who shall ascend into the hill of the Lord? or who shall stand in his holy place?" (Psalm 24: 3.)

Response: "He that hath clean hands, and a pure heart; who hath not lifted up his soul unto vanity, nor sworn deceitfully." (Psalm 24: 4.)

Hymn: "The Child of Galilee," Zion's Praises, 36.

Prayer.

Hymn: "Sunshine as You Go," Zion's Praises, 154.

Some things we have learned:

For juniors this may include psalms and other passages learned, drills on Paul's missionary journeys and other things they have enjoyed memorizing. The primaries may tell two or three of their favorite stories. If large pictures illustrating the stories selected are available, they may be displayed while the story is being told. An interesting dramatization could be worked up in which children represent the characters in the various stories studied by the primaries being promoted. Each child may wear a simple, appropriate costume, and tell something about the character he represents.

Song: By the junior class. A splendid song is, "We're the Rising Generation," found in a pamphlet, Promotion Day Program Material, for sale by David C. Cook Publishing Company, Elgin, Illinois, No. 7396-J, 4 cents.

Class History: This should include service projects carried out by the class, entertainments, etc. This should be written in an interesting way. A humorous reference or two to obstacles which had to be overcome will also add to the interest.

Song: By the primary class. This should be a favorite song selected by the children.

Presentation of certificates or diplomas, by the director of religious education. It is well to have a little ceremony connected with the presentation of diplomas. A pamphlet, Promotion Day Plans, may be purchased from David C. Cook Publishing Company, Elgin, Illinois, number 7397-J, 4 cents. It contains helpful suggestions and material.

A Pledge of Service:

This should be given by the juniors who are being promoted. A large candelabra should be made of light weight wood, with places for seven candles. If you prefer, flashlights may be used instead of candles. If so, they should be wrapped with white crepe paper and orange or red crepe paper placed over the end. The letters SERVICE (large size) should be placed on the candelabra below the places for the candles. A large flashlight or candle should be placed on a desk or table at the front of the platform. This should be lighted by the director of religious education, quoting as he does so, Matthew 5:16. From this candle each junior should light his candle (or make the motions of lighting his flashlight from it) before placing it in the large candlestick, at the same time repeating one of the following:

I sincerely pledge my life to God and his work. A prophet of old said, "Serve the Lord with all your heart." (1 Samuel 12: 20.)

I earnestly pledge my time to God and his work. Paul said, "Study to show thyself approved unto God, a workman that needeth not to be ashamed, . . ." (2 Timothy 2: 15.)

I reverently pledge my talents to God and his work. God has told us we should cultivate and improve our talents. (Doctrine and Covenants 119: 6; 81: 4.)

I will be vigilant in the service of God. May I realize the value of such service and have the vision to be a useful worker in his cause.

I desire to be an instrument in his hands for the good of his people. May he inspire me so I may instruct others in the things of his kingdom.

I will constantly try to serve him. Jesus said, "He that shall endure unto the end, the same shall be saved." (Mark 13: 13.)

I will be enthusiastic in my service to God. David said, "Serve the Lord with gladness; come before his presence with singing." (Psalm 100: 2.)

(Unison.) We pledge our love, our loyalty,
Our lives, our talents unto thee.

If there are no juniors being promoted, tell a story that the primary children will understand and enjoy. One of the following may be used:

"The White Flower of Happiness," Departments Journal,

www.LatterDayTruth.org

October, 1928, or "Learning by Head or Heart," Pilgrim Elementary Teacher, September, 1931.
Closing Hymn: "I Would Be True," new Saints' Hymnal, 294, or "Send Me Forth, O Blessed Master," Zion's Praises, 166, new Saints' Hymnal, 214.
Benediction.

Nothing will save us except peace. Economic and social justice, humanitarian endeavor, scientific discoveries—all are vain if destruction and utter degradation are always just around the corner. We must go out into the world; we must go to John Smith and drive the pagan from his heart—the foolish, short-sighted, self-destructive pagan. We must be tireless in this aim until a day comes when, if the masters call to war, no one answers the call, but men, quietly disregarding flag and drum and the paid lies of the press, go about their business of peace. And we can still go to John Smith, not only in the name of his essential manhood and his posterity, but in the name of Jesus. Not of Christ. Christ is a knight and a gentleman and a pagan myth. But in the name of Jesus and the teachers of Jesus and the descendants of those teachers who are still many among the kinsmen of the Nazarene. For nearly two thousand years these men have known that peace alone is salvation. Upon justice and truth and peace our world rests. The pagan has raged against these pillars of the world for ages. They are near to toppling. We must save them and so ourselves and our world from crumbling back into chaos.—Ludwig Lewisohn in If I Could Preach Just Once.

"Whom we love we serve." From that angle many of us have certainly been in love with the world and the institutions of the world and the things of the world. If we stop and consider for a moment how much of our time and our attention have been given to the things of this world and the institutions of the world, we will discover how much we have loved the world.—E. J. Gleazer, in a sermon, "This Do and Thou Shalt Live," preached at the Stone Church, Independence, Missouri.

The visible fact of dissolution seemingly is against faith, but the deepest presumptions of reason are with it. The rationality of the world's order and development, the incompleteness of life here, the insistent sentiment of justice, the instinct and hunger for the illimitable which betokens that "we are adapted to infinity," the sense of God and of life in Him, all support the belief in immortality.—Philip S. Moxom.

Weekly Health Letter

Indigestion

By A. W. Teel, M. D., Church Physician

One can hardly pick up a daily newspaper without noticing the glaring headlines of some outstanding public official dying from an attack of "acute indigestion." The probabilities are that if this individual had had an annual health examination, as everyone should have, instead of trying to cure himself with home remedies, such as bicarbonate of soda, etc., his life might have been saved.

Scientific medicine has found out a long time ago that all cases of indigestion are not due to a diseased stomach, but the cause may be a circulatory disorder. It may be traceable to a dangerous heart disease. And here is one of the great dangers of self-prescribing, for it remains only for the qualified physician to determine the cause of the indigestion. Too often it is looked upon as just something mighty discomforting; and it may be nature revealing that there is some real and serious disturbance of the body.

Improper diet or faulty eating habits, together with mental strain, such as fear and worry, interferes seriously with the secretion of the juices of the stomach. Food should be chewed slowly and carefully—never gulped. Pepper, spices, condiments, fried and greasy foods, should be omitted from the diet. It is far better and safer to leave the table when a little hungry than to have the disagreeable sensation of an overloaded stomach.

Fortunately, X-ray has been a great aid in diagnosing many sources of diseases brought about by indigestion. All specialists in this line make various thorough tests to determine whether the stomach is functioning properly or not. There may be symptoms of great disturbance of the stomach and intestines, and the trouble may be found in the diseases of appendicitis or the gall bladder. When the offending gall bladder or appendix is removed, the indigestion often disappears. The examination should not stop here, for the heart should be carefully X-rayed, as it may be the seat of trouble, especially those who have passed the age of fifty.

Coronary disease is fatal when neglected, and may only present slight symptoms. All people should be careful in this regard, and should not fail, if they have any of these symptoms, to go to their physician, who is the only one capable of proper advice.

www.LatterDayTruth.org

QUESTION TIME

Should a saint join other denominations in receiving the eucharistic sacrament?

This matter becomes clear when the principle involved is well considered. While we should always recognize the sincerity of others, we should not forget that the restored faith of the church is not in harmony with that of other denominations, and that the authority of God is essential to the performing of any of his ordinances, including that of administering the bread and wine. Unless administered by one having authority, we should not receive it, for to do so would be to disregard the divine plan, and it would also mislead others. It is for a similar reason that we do not recognize baptism unless performed by one having authority from God.

We are privileged to become members of the body of Christ by obeying the gospel and its ordinances as administered by those whom God has sent, but we have no right to change or ignore anything which he has instituted. Even the wine to be used should be prepared as directed in the revelation which requires that it be "of your own make" (86: 1). We are specifically forbidden to partake otherwise:

"Wherefore a commandment I give unto you, that you shall not purchase wine, neither strong drink of your enemies; wherefore ye shall partake of none, except it is made new among you; yea, in this my Father's kingdom which shall be built up on the earth."—Doctrine and Covenants 26: 1.

That only by authority is one entitled to administer the sacrament is made plain in the Book of Mormon, which says:

"Behold, there shall one be ordained among you, and to him will I give power that he shall break bread, and bless it, and give it unto the people of my church, unto all those who shall believe and be baptized in my name."—3 Nephi 8: 32.

We are directed by revelation that the sacrament shall be administered by using specified words and must be administered by specified officers:

"The elder or priest shall administer it; and after this manner shall he administer it: he shall kneel with the church and call upon the Father in solemn prayer, saying."—Doctrine and Covenants 17: 22.

With these clear commandments before us, no one who regards the instructions of the Lord more than the favor of man will be likely to consort with unauthorized bodies which do not recognize the principles of our faith when they presume to act in disregard of the word of the Lord, which of course they do not accept.

Should a branch president have his plans for business meeting cut and dried with his officers in advance?

While it is possible that one might make an unwarranted effort to control the acts of a business meeting, it does not necessarily follow that branch officers may not confer together in regard to such matters as are to be presented for branch action. The president is the administrative head of the branch and is shepherd of the flock, and it is entirely proper for him to confer with his associate officers in regard to branch interests and work prior to the meeting in which such matters are to be presented. Unity of the officers may often better result from discussion in priesthood sessions, and a clearer knowledge be had of that which should be done.

But this does not mean that branch officers should attempt to unduly control the acts of the branch in executive sessions. Matters should be openly and frankly dealt with on such occasions, and due consideration be given to any who may not agree with the presiding officer concerning methods or acts to be employed. Difference of opinion and desire should never be permitted to disrupt fellowship, but the good intentions of all should be respected, and the right of each member to be heard in a decorous and Christian manner must be accorded.

Is John the beloved disciple living on earth today, or did he die?

Aside from John 21: 22, 23, the only information covering this question, so far as I recall, is in Doctrine and Covenants 7: 1, 2, which states that he would "tarry" until Christ should come, and should be "a ministering angel." This would imply that John had received a degree of immortality, but whether it followed death or not is not stated, though we infer not, as the three Nephites (3 Nephi 13: 18) did not die.

A. B. PHILLIPS.

www.LatterDayTruth.org

Having given the warning of the judgment near, they felt that their work for the world was done and they lost their burden of soul for the salvation of sinners, while the bold and blasphemous scoffing of the ungodly seemed to them another evidence that the Spirit of God had been withdrawn from the rejectors of his mercy. All this confirmed them in the belief that probation had ended, or, as they then expressed it, "the door of mercy was shut." (The Great Controversy, seventh edition, page 268.) So whatever they may claim now, their own statements show that for a time they believed this absurd doctrine, but have since renounced it.

But as to Jesus entering the holy of holies in heaven in 1844. It is evident that the mercy seat between the cherubim, was looked upon as God's throne, as seen by the following: "Give ear, O shepherd of Israel, thou that leadest Joseph like a flock; thou that dwellest between the cherubims, shine forth." (Psalm 80: 1.) "The Lord reigneth; let the people tremble: He sitteth between the cherubim; let the earth be moved." (Psalm 99: 1.)

Now the ark of the covenant as set up by Moses was in the holy of holies and the mercy seat was over the ark, (See Exodus 40: 20.) and the cherubim were at each end of the mercy seat. (See Exodus 37: 6, 7.) Also, "And the Lord said unto Moses, Speak unto Aaron thy brother, that he come not at all times into the holy place within the veil before the mercy seat, which is upon the ark, that he die not: for I will appear in the cloud upon the mercy seat."

On the tenth day of the seventh month each year the high priest was to make this atonement. At this time he went into the holy of holies. (See Leviticus 16: 2-19, also 25: 27.)

Now if we were to admit for argument's sake, that in heaven or the holy city there is a literal tabernacle with all the fixtures that were in the earthly tabernacle, including the holy of holies, with the ark and the mercy seat; for them to make the claim that Christ went into the holy of holies in 1844, the Scriptures very plainly indicate that they have missed the time over seventeen hundred years. For we read in a plain Bible statement, "To him that overcometh will I grant to sit with me in my throne, even as I also overcame, and am set down with my Father in his throne." (Revelation 3: 21.) "Now of the things which we have spoken this is the sum: We have such an high priest, who is set down on the right hand of the throne of the Majesty in the heavens; a minister of sanctuary, and of the true tabernacle, which the Lord pitched, and not man." (Hebrews 8: 1, 2.)

"But this man, after he had offered one sacrifice for sins forever, sat down on the right hand of God." (Hebrews 10: 12.) Thus instead of Jesus Christ going into the tabernacle in heaven in 1844, as Adventists claim, it will be seen that he had been there for nearly eighteen hundred years. Another mistake.

Again in the ninth chapter of Hebrews, Paul speaks of the tabernacle service as an allegory or figure of man's redemption through Christ. The seventh verse speaks of the high priest who went into the second (or the holy of holies) once a year, but of Christ he says: "Neither by the blood of goats and calves, but by his own blood he entered in once into the holy place, having obtained eternal redemption for us." (Hebrews 9: 12.) "For Christ is not entered into the holy places made with hands, which are the figures of the true; but into heaven itself, now to appear in the presence of God for us." (Hebrews 9: 24.) "Having therefore, brethren, boldness to enter into the holiest by the blood of Jesus, by a new and living way, which he hath consecrated for us, through the veil, that is to say, his flesh."—Hebrews 10: 19, 20.

That these texts could only apply to the holiest, or the holy of holies is apparent; therefore Mrs. White and her followers have made the following mistakes:

First: What Jesus said to the church in Philadelphia (Revelation 3: 7-9), given over 1900 years ago to a local church, she has applied to a vision she claims to have seen in the nineteenth century. Thus adding to the things written in the book of Revelation. See Revelation 22: 19, 20.) That Christ began his work in the holy of holies in heaven in 1844, that the Bible says was completed in Paul's day.

Now I have answered this upon the supposition that in heaven there is a literal tabernacle and sanctuary, with its holy place and holy of holies after which the tabernacle set up by Moses was patterned, which cannot be proved to be true.

The words temple and tabernacle are sometimes applied to the human body: "Jesus answered and said unto them, Destroy this temple, and in three days I will raise it up—but he spake of the temple of his body." (John 2: 19, 21.) "Know ye not that ye are the temple of God?" (1 Corinthians 3: 16.)

"For we know that if our earthly house of this tabernacle were dissolved, we have a building of God, an house not made with hands, eternal in the heavens —for we that are in this tabernacle do groan, being burdened."—2 Corinthians 5: 1, 4.

The word temple sometimes applies to the people of the church: "In whom all the building fitly framed together groweth unto an holy temple in the Lord: in whom ye also are builded together." (Ephesians 2: 21, 22.)

God and Christ are spoken of as a temple: "And I saw no temple therein: for the Lord God Almighty and the Lamb are the temple of it." (Revelation 21: 22.)

From the above it will be seen that to rest an argument upon the figurative language we have quoted; and to try from that to prove that there is a literal material temple in heaven furnished so that every part of the tabernacle in the time of Moses was a duplicate of the heavenly, and that every detail of the earthly temple service has been going on in heaven for the last eighteen hundred years might interest those whose imaginations lead them into wild speculations on mysteries, but for one who wants solid demonstrable truth, it is too vague.

I will next notice one of Mrs. White's prophecies that is so clearly false as to facts as to be utterly indefensible.

"Said the angel, Get ready, get ready. Ye will have to die a greater death to the world than ye have ever died. I saw that there was a great work to do for them, but little time to do it."—Early Writings, page 64.

"'Deny self; ye must step fast.' Some of us have had time to get the truth, and to advance step by step, and every step we have taken has given us strength to take the next. But now time is almost finished, and what we have been years in learning, they will have to learn in a few months."—Ibid., page 67.

The above claims to have been given June 27, 1850. Six years after the time set for the coming of Christ. They were told that there were but a few months left. At this writing Christ has not come, and instead of a few months it has been over eighty-two years. But few if any to whom that message was given are living today. It has been longer than most people live. The prophecy has failed to come to pass. It is the thing the Lord has not spoken and we have no need to fear her.

Again: "Some are looking too far off for the coming of the Lord. Time has continued a few years longer than they expected, therefore they think it may continue a few years more, and in this way their minds are being led from present truth, out after the world. In these things I saw great danger; for if the mind is filled with other things, present truth is shut out, and there is no place in our foreheads for the seal of the living God. I saw that the time for Jesus to be in the most holy place was nearly finished, and that time could last but a very little longer. What leisure time we have should be spent in searching the Bible, which is to judge us in the last day.—The sealing time is very short, and will soon be over. Now is time, while the four angels are holding the four winds, to make our calling and election sure."—Early Writings, page 58.

While there is no definite time set in the above for the coming of Christ, it is definitely stated that some were looking too far for the coming of the Lord. Now they as a people have been expecting his coming ever since the above was given; and the statement that, "Time has continued a few years longer than they expected, therefore, they think it may continue a few years more." In the light of subsequent events it is so misleading as to destroy all faith in her prophetic claims. . . .

www.LatterDayTruth.org

Their church has no scripturally appointed apostles; no prophets that God has sent; no seventies; no high priests. Their elders and other officials are not called as Aaron was called and as a body they have followed in the delusions of William Miller and Mrs. E. G. White, showing conclusively that they have been the victims of blind and misleading guides. We cannot accept their claim of being the church, "the pillar and ground of the truth." Whatever inspiration may have been received by them must have come from some other source than from God.

I will now examine their Sabbath Day belief, and notice some inconsistencies connected with it.

The Adventists claim:

1. That the seventh day Sabbath law was in force from the beginning.

2. That the seven days of creation were days of this earth, and measured by its revolutions.

3. That the Ten Commandments are the foundation of God's government, in heaven and on earth.

Here is what Mrs. E. G. White says about it. "But Satan told his angels that he would make even the crucifixion and the resurrection tell to his advantage. He was willing that those who believed in Jesus should believe that the laws regulating the Jewish sacrifices and offerings ceased at the death of Christ, if he could push them farther, and make them believe that the law of Ten Commandments also died with Christ.—In this bold plan Satan strikes directly against the foundation of God's government in heaven and on earth."—Early Writings, page 215.

4. That the Ten Commandments are still binding as God's law.

5. That the Pope of the Roman Catholic church changed the Sabbath from the seventh to the first day of the week.

"The Pope has changed the day of rest from the seventh to the first day." "The Pope has made a breach in the holy law of God."—Early Writings, page 65.

6. That the Sabbath or the fourth is the greatest commandment. That is, the seal of God, God's memorial.

"The Pope has changed the day of rest from the seventh to the first day. He has thought to change the very commandment that was given to cause men to remember his Creator. He has thought to change the greatest commandment in the decalogue, and thus make himself equal with God, or even exalt himself above God."—Early Writings, page 65.

"The enemies of God's law from the ministers down to the least among them have a new conception of truth and duty. Too late they see that the Sabbath of the fourth commandment is the seal of the living God."—The Great Controversy, page 457.

These claims if proved untrue would overthrow their entire system; so we will proceed to examine them.

The first proposition is simply assumed, viz., "That the seventh day Sabbath was in force from the beginning." There is no mention made in the Bible of any man either keeping the seventh day or any other day as a Sabbath until the commandment was given to Moses, (Exodus 16: 23) over twenty-five hundred years after the creation. The language in Genesis 2: 3 plainly stating that God blessed the seventh day and sanctified it, because that in it he had rested from all his work, cannot properly be construed to mean other than the seventh day of the creation week, and was blessed after God had rested, putting it in the past tense, at the time it was sanctified. No mention is made of any law given at that time requiring all men in all future time to keep each succeeding seventh day, and there is no history of Adam, Enoch, Abraham, Isaac, Jacob, or even Melchizedek ever keeping any regular Sabbath.

Now to assume that it was given as a religious law, in Eden and kept through all these twenty-five hundred years, with no mention of it made, or command to confirm it, would in itself be unreasonable, but there is a statement in Deuteronomy 5: 2 that positively proves that no such law was given.

"The Lord our God made a covenant with us in Horeb. The Lord made not this covenant with our Fathers, but us, even us, who are all of us here alive this day."—Deuteronomy 5: 2, 3.

Now what was that covenant? Let the Bible answer. "And he declared unto you his covenant, which he commanded you to perform, even ten commandments; and he wrote them upon two tables of stone." (Deuteronomy 4: 13.) "When I was gone up into the mount to receive the tables of stone, even the tables of the covenant, which the Lord made with you." (Deuteronomy 9: 9.)

Now the covenant the Lord made with them was the Ten Commandments; or as Adventists would say, "The Law." It was not made with their fathers, and Abraham, Isaac and Jacob, also Adam and Enoch were their fathers; and the seventh day was a part of that covenant. Now to claim in the face of that, that it was given to them would be to contradict one of the plain statements of the Bible. Again it is evident that Israel knew nothing about the Sabbath when they were first told to keep it for it was necessary for God to give them definite instructions how to keep it which would have been unnecessary if they were already keeping it. (See Exodus 16: 23, 33; 20: 10; 31: 13-15; Leviticus 25: 32.)

Here is what Mrs. White says to the contrary: "The Sabbath was instituted in Eden before the fall, and was observed by Adam and Eve, and all the heavenly host. God rested on the seventh day, and blessed and hallowed it. I saw that the Sabbath never will be done away; but that the redeemed saints, and all the angelic host, will observe it in honor of the great Creator to all eternity." (Early Writings, page 217.)

In Hebrews 4, the context plainly shows that Israel is being discussed, we read: "For he spake in a certain place of the seventh day on this wise, and God did rest the seventh day from all his works."—"Seeing therefore it remaineth that some must enter therein, and they to whom it was first preached entered not in because of unbelief": Here again is the assertion that it was first preached to Israel. So this proposition goes down.

THE "DAYS" OF CREATION

The second proposition: That the seven days of creation were days of this earth and measured by its revolutions.

In this it is claimed that day begins in the evening at sunset, according to Leviticus 23: 32. But note the following: "And God said, Let there be lights in the firmament of the heaven to divide the day from the night . . . And God made two great lights; the greater light to rule the day, and the lesser light to rule the night; he made the stars also. And God set them in the firmament of the heaven . . . And the evening and the morning were the fourth day." (Genesis 1: 14-19.)

Now since the Adventists insist that the day is from sunset to sunset, will they explain how that as the sun was not set in the heavens until the fourth day, how was time counted for the first three days before there was any sun to set?

Again, "Thus the heavens and the earth were finished, and all the host of them. And on the seventh day God ended his work. . . . And God blessed the seventh day and sanctified it." . . . These are the generations of the heavens and of the earth when they were created, in the day that the Lord God made the earth and the heavens, and every plant of the field before it was in the earth, and every herb of the field before it grew; for the Lord God had not caused it to rain upon the earth, and there was not a man to till the ground." (Genesis 2: 1-5.)

In the above we find: The heavens and the earth were finished. On the seventh day God ended his work, and rested. God blessed the day on which he had rested. In verse four the whole period is summed up as a day. In verse five every plant and herb were created before they were in the earth. The physical part of man was not created.

(To be continued. This is the third installment of a cumulative tract publication which will be printed in sections until completed. The installments may be cut out and preserved for reference or loan purposes.)

www.LatterDayTruth.org

Prayer and Testimony

The Testimony of Joshua

Now therefore fear the Lord, and serve him in sincerity and in truth: and put away the gods which your fathers served on the other side of the flood, and in Egypt; and serve ye the Lord. And if it seem evil unto you to serve the Lord, choose you this day whom ye will serve; whether the gods which your fathers served that were on the other side of the flood, or the gods of the Amorites, in whose land ye dwell: but as for me and my house, we will serve the Lord.—Joshua 24: 15, 16.

An Affirmation of Faith

By Birch Whiting

(From a letter to President Smith.)

The gospel is divine; the church organization is of God's appointment; the Reorganization is the true successor to the original church of 1830. Joseph Smith, the martyr, and his successors in office, were and are divinely appointed prophets and presidents of the church and of the high priesthood. The revelations of the Book of Doctrine and Covenants and the promises contained in them are true. Zion will be established; the hastening time is here; the sifting time is upon us; the gathering is in progress; the temple will be built by this church and accepted by God, and the promises made regarding it verified through Jesus Christ to this people. God has revealed to me he has not forgotten his promises regarding the sealed records. They will come forth, the endowment, a portion of which has been enjoyed by some, will be received in fullness by all faithful priesthood members and Saints, and through these records and this endowment all factional misunderstanding and differences will be removed from the honest in heart. The Book of Mormon will then take its place and finish its mission; the Inspired Translation will be accepted as the greatest single contribution Joseph Smith made to the religious world through the Urim and Thummim; this church will not fail in its mission, though the power of all hell be turned loose upon it. We may fail the church, many will. We have only begun to lose members of this church, for the sifting has only started. I may fail, but this work is of God, and will stand every test yet to come, and blessed is the Saint who endures and lives to see the work of the next quarter century from 1930.

Let us go on Saints, hand in hand with God and each other, remembering our duty to unify our home life, our branch responsibilities, our district activities, and our general church experiences, in keeping with the code of good morals and the law given to us as a people, recorded in section 42, Book of Doctrine and Covenants.

In spirit I shall live every minute of the conference with you, and wait anxiously for a report of the work done, and the spiritual uplift which I know will come through instructions received from and association with President Smith and Apostle Garver, and others who may drop in unannounced together with the fellowship of Saints which is so valuable and uplifting to spiritual life.

I now say good-bye, may God bless and keep you all through to the end, and may I ask an interest in your faith.

Counts Her Blessings

By Mrs. Myrtle Yates

I am thankful to the Lord and want to testify to his wonderful goodness and many blessings to me, and most of all because he has spared my life to accept this restored gospel. I was baptized, April 9, this year, after many long years of faithful prayers and living on the part of my mother and father.

I am afflicted with tuberculosis of the lungs and have been here at the sanatorium nine months, but I know God's hand is over me. I have had several wonderful administrations, and have felt the power of God's Holy Spirit many times. The Lord has answered my prayers in behalf of my children, and in many ways he has been good to me.

I ask the prayers of the Saints that if it is God's will that I may be healed and spared to enjoy and help in this latter-day work. I want also to ask for prayers for my little faithful mother, Mrs. Mack Davis, whose eyesight is failing. She is brave and has faith that her sight will be restored.

LANSING, MICHIGAN, INGHAM SANATORIUM.

Has Intense Desire to Serve the Lord

By Mrs. Lillian Matney

I am not privileged to meet with God's people, and how my heart aches on Sunday to worship with the Saints! My greatest desire is some day to live where I can be with them.

There are several religious denominations here, and as we go to church from time to time, it saddens me to see how the people are being misled.

I have never had a greater desire to serve the Lord than I have enjoyed in the past month. God called our little five-months-old son home, June 25, the only son and baby we have had in our home for ten years. Of course we could not tell in words how much we loved him. But when the Lord took him, it made me stop to think how neglectful I have been in my duty to God.

I am the only member of the church in our family, and I need the prayers of the Saints. I am hoping and praying that if it is God's will Elder Lee Quick may come out to Iola this fall to hold meetings. He has written that he might be able to come. If other elders are passing this way I should be glad to have them stop to see us.

IOLA, KANSAS, 316 South Third Street.

Wish Information Concerning Missing Boy

Parents and friends ask the help of the Saints in locating the whereabouts of David Walters, a fifteen-year-old boy who left his home at Williston, North Dakota, July 6 or 7. He was last seen at Wenatche, Washington, about July 12. "Dave" has dark brown hair, blue eyes, and a few freckles on his nose. His right eyelid droops slightly. He is about five feet six inches tall, and slender. Please send information concerning him to Mr. and Mrs. Channon Walters, 1005 Second Avenue, West, Williston, North Dakota, or to Mrs. Clara Addicott, same address.

Request Prayers

Mrs. Ova Johnson, of Bald Knob, Arkansas, Route 1, Box 261, asks the prayers of the Saints that she may continue faithful to the church.

www.LatterDayTruth.org

Thought Provokers

"Go Forward"

(Shorthand notes from a sermon preached by Apostle M. A. McConley at the Stone Church, May 21, 1933.)

Read, Doctrine and Covenants 1: 8 and 2: 1.

Text: "Say unto the children of Israel that they shall go forward."—Words of the Lord to Moses.

● "More and more I am convinced of the fact that God, when he 'so loved the world, that he gave his only begotten Son,' included in his thought the people of today. For if there was ever a time when people needed a goal other than lust, greed, and desire, that time is now."

● "It seems to me that there are three things wrong with the world which only the gospel of Jesus Christ will cure:

"First, we are war weary. Through the centuries men have been unwilling to comply with the law which God gave to make men brothers.

"Second, our spiritual life has been frost-bitten. And unconsciously we of the church have partaken of the debased standards of the civilized world.

"Third, we have gone pleasure mad. The world must be amused. We have grown kind of nervous and jerky and high-strung, and we must be amused."

● "Woman is the architect of decency, and may God have mercy on the world when she leaves the high standards that motherhood has given her, and comes down to the standards of man!"

● "Out of broken homes we have crooked business and crime waves."

● "People have lost their money and their material goods throughout the country, but many of them have renewed contact with God. The price is great, but the result is worth it.

"A people without God cannot go forward.

"The Lord has given us a plan of redemption, but the only way in which we can become a part of that plan is by repentance, by cleaning house, and building on a more permanent foundation."

● Read Matthew 7: 24-27.

● "Independence along with the rest of the world needs cleaning out. The priesthood must awaken to their task and the membership—all of them—must say to themselves: 'I have a responsibility.'"

● Here compare the parable related in Luke 12: 15-21 to the spirit of today.

● "If Latter Day Saints had been true to their God, if those who went to sacrament service and partook of the emblems, pledging themselves to take the name of Jesus Christ and always to obey his will—if they had done this, conditions in the church would not be as they are. Being a Latter Day Saint in deed as well as word means a great deal more than most of us have thought."

● "If we are going to go forward, we can't do it by standing still. At least that is not my idea of going forward."

● "Not only must Latter Day Saints set the example by their lives, but by precept; they must do everything that they can to extend the ministry of the church and to hasten the day when it will be possible to send out all of the seventies."

● "We are making progress. I have never seen a better spirit than that which prevails among the people now. Let us take comfort in the thought that 'the works and the designs, and the purposes of God, cannot be frustrated, neither can they come to naught, for God doth not walk in crooked paths; neither does he turn to the right hand nor to the left; neither does he vary from that which he hath said; therefore his paths are straight and his course is one eternal round.'"

REMINDERS

A very wise man once said, "Men do not need to be told so much as they need to be reminded."

It is the wisdom that we already know and have forgotten that will help us far more than any new piece of wisdom we can discover.

Most real wisdom is very old.

Most men forget it very easily.

Lincoln's Philosophy

I like to see a man proud of the place in which he lives. I like to see a man live in it so that his place will be proud of him. To be honest, but hate no one; overturn a man's wrongdoing, but do not overturn him unless it must be done in overturning the wrong. Stand with anybody that stands right. Stand with him while he is right and part with him when he goes wrong.—Abraham Lincoln.

Youth's Aim

● We will make the gospel a living factor in our lives.

● We believe that our service for the Master will be fully compensated.

● No task shall be too great for us to undertake. No need of others too small for us to recognize and endeavor to alleviate.

● We will be true followers of those whom God has called, and find in faithful following a foundation for finer leadership.

● We will prepare, and ever keep in mind the purpose of our preparation as being Zion.

● We will believe in Zion, and endeavor to establish it within our hearts, our homes, and in our conduct toward our fellow men.

● We will keep the faith. And ever try to be worthy of the "Faith of Our Fathers."

● We know the Spirit of God can be a vital factor in our lives and will seek its influence, that love for humanity may be developed and increased; and that our lives may thus be influenced upon those with whom we daily come in contact.

● We will mold the link between knowing the right thing to do—and doing it.

L. A. S., in The Pilot.

A Worker's Prayer

If there be good in that I wrought,
Thy hand compelled it, Master, thine;
Where I have failed to meet thy thought,
I know, through thee, the blame is mine.

One instant's toil to thee denied
Stands all eternity's offense;
Of that I did with thee to guide,
To thee, through thee, be excellence.

Who, lest all thought of Eden fade,
Bringst Eden to the craftsmen's brain,
Godlike to muse o'er his own trade
And manlike stand with God again.

The depth and dream of my desire,
The bitter paths wherein I stray,
Thou knowest who has made the fire.
Thou knowest who has made the clay.

One stone the more swings to her place
In that dread temple of thy worth;
It is enough that through thy grace
I saw naught common on thy earth.

Take not that vision from my ken;
Oh, whatso'er may spoil or speed,
Help me to need no aid from men
That I may help such men as need.

—Rudyard Kipling.

www.LatterDayTruth.org

NEWS OF CHURCH AND HOME

Address all news and letters to Editors of the Herald, Box 237, Independence, Missouri. Correspondents are requested to make their letters brief. The Editors reserve the right, on account of space limitations, to shorten all letters as circumstances require.

Brush Creek Branch, Illinois, Celebrates Ninetieth Anniversary

Early Day Events Dramatized—Replica of Old Schoolhouse, Where Branch Was Organized, Is Dedicated

Southeastern Illinois District began its celebration of the ninetieth anniversary of Brush Creek Branch on Tuesday, June 20.

This branch occupies a place which is unique throughout the church. It was organized in December of 1842, and in its membership has included numbers of Saints who continued from the days of the Martyrs, Joseph and Hyrum Smith, without disorganization or rebaptism, down to the present. Many of the able men of the original church and of the Reorganized Church have labored there.

During this period of ninety years it is interesting to note that the work of presiding officer has fallen chiefly to three men. Elder Nathan A. Morris served as branch president from 1842 to 1864. Elder Isaac A. Morris from 1867 to 1912, with the exception of five years when Elder F. M. Slover served in 1896; J. D. Stead, 1898; S. D. Goosetree, 1902; J. F. Henson, 1903 and 1904. Then Elder William Clements presided from 1912 to 1933. Elder O. C. Henson recently was chosen to occupy as pastor, Brother Clements having retired from the responsibility.

Through the combined efforts and diligent labor of Brothers Henson and Clements and other workers of the branch a replica of the old Caudle log schoolhouse has been built on practically the same spot where the first building stood and in which the branch was organized. This building is most attractive and picturesque, and is to serve as a memorial with pictures of old-time and present-day missionaries and church workers who have labored there; also of Graceland students who have attended the college from Southeastern Illinois from the first class down to the present year.

Tuesday was a day set apart for the home-coming of the old-time schoolmates who attended school in the old log schoolhouse. Eleven of the pupils were in attendance. Mollie Hilliard, their teacher, was happy to be present and to greet her pupils some of whom she had not seen for more than fifty years.

A historical drama written by O. C. Henson, was effectively presented the night of June 24. The scenes told again the story of the beginning and the organization of the church in that community. The characters represented the first missionary in 1842, Brother Jefferson Hunt, and Doctor T. P. Green and wife, who entertained him in their home. Others who became interested in the first series of meetings and were converted, and helped to organize the branch were Mr. and Mrs. Nathan A. Morris and son, Isaac; Mr. and Mrs. Samuel Caudle; Mr. and Mrs. Benjamin Haws, and John Pritchett and family. The author of this drama must have been inspired not only in writing the play but also in the song which very fittingly closed the scenes.

Brush Creek Saints deem themselves fortunate to have had Apostle Paul M. Hanson and Bishop G. L. DeLapp with them. On Sunday the sermons of Brothers Hanson and DeLapp were full of inspiration and encouragement. The former was in charge of the dedication of the log cabin at three-thirty in the afternoon.

Elder F. L. Sawley, former missionary of the church, did an excellent piece of work in providing the music for the occasion and closed the celebration by preaching Sunday evening.

All the branches in the district were represented in the large attendance at this celebration, and some visitors were present from Central Illinois District. Brother O. C. Henson and the Saints of his congregation are to be commended for their dramatization of early day events in their branch. And the help of everyone who contributed to the joy and profit of this occasion was much appreciated.

Magnolia, Iowa

Missionary E. Y. Hunker Gives Valuable Help

Recently Saints of this branch enjoyed a ten-day series of meetings conducted by Missionary E. Y. Hunker. There was a good attendance of nonmembers at all meetings, and the Saints gave loyal support. Light, truth, and encouragement were received from Brother Hunker's sermons of admonition and warning.

Magnolia Saints are now looking forward with eager expectation to the district reunion, August 11 to 20.

Variety of Missionary Labors in Canada and United States

Now at Work Near Birthplace of Church

My experiences this year have been of considerable interest, and will prove, I trust, helpful to the church. Leaving home early in January, I was called to assist in the second anniversary services of Toronto Branch, Canada. The day and the crowd were all that could be expected. A week of missionary services followed and good interest was shown.

Most of February was spent at Buffalo, where I held three full weeks of missionary endeavor. These meetings were planned by Doctor P. L. Weegar, branch president. The doctor's work in leadership class for credit was outstanding, and will without doubt bear fruit in the development of the young people. Numbers of nonmembers attended these services, and one candidate was baptized.

I spent Easter with my son, Jimmy, and his family in Philadelphia, Pennsylvania. While there we enjoyed attending three services in which President F. M. McDowell and Apostle Paul M. Hanson spoke to the young people's convention of the district. We planned a four-day visit to Washington, District of Columbia and greatly enjoyed the sightseeing. After that I spent two weeks at home in Independence.

Then I was called again to Toronto this time to assist in their young people's convention. Toronto is a busy branch, and the departments are well organized under the direction of Brother J. L. Prentice, Bishop McLean and Sister James Wilson. The young men of the priesthood plan preaching services in homes located a distance from the center branch. This gives them good experience in their ministerial growth.

Before coming to Rochester, New York, I spent a couple of weeks preaching at and visiting Niagara Falls. I have been almost a month now with Elder William Shea at Rochester. The meetings, Sunday school and preaching services, are held in his home. The group of Saints here is small. It is lamentable that here so close to the birthplace of the latter-day church, we have so small a showing. Palmyra, the sacred grove, Hill Cumorah, and the old Smith home are all about an hour's drive from Rochester.

We held preaching services in the

www.LatterDayTruth.org

homes of the Saints, but felt an urge to do something bigger, to reach a greater number. We went to the city clerk, the public safety man, and then to the central police court to obtain a permit to speak in Washington Park. After considerable difficulty, we secured this permission and six services were held with an attendance of about one hundred listeners. We gave away all of our tracts and are happy to have scattered the seed of truth in this city.

WILLIAM I. FLIGG.

Best Conference-Reunion in History of Central Texas District

Large and Representative Attendance Participates in All Services

In many respects the conference-reunion at Hearne, July 14 to 23, was the best in the history of Central Texas District. The largest attendance and from the most widely distributed territory is recorded. Over a hundred camped regularly on the grounds. Houston led in the number present with over fifty who stayed on the grounds throughout the sessions. Southwestern Texas District sent over twenty representatives. Dallas Branch also was well represented. Four came from Breckenridge, and others came from Taft, Austin, Spring, Fairbanks, Medina, Bandera, San Antonio, Taylor, Caldwell, New Baden, Bryan, Sugarland, and Velasco.

Apostle R. S. Budd and Patriarch F. A. Smith were there and did their share in making the meetings completely successful. Brother Smith came Saturday, July 15, from Austin, and was there for the remainder of the time, and Brother Budd arrived Sunday morning from Oklahoma and was there until Thursday night. The time of both men was used to the fullest extent. A class at ten o'clock in the morning and one in the afternoon and preaching in the evening composed the regular schedule for Brother Budd besides other work. Brother Smith was in charge of the eight-thirty prayer service each morning, assisted in others, and preached several times at eleven o'clock in the morning. After the departure of Brother Budd, he was called upon to preach the evening sermons Saturday and Sunday. Between services he carried forward his patriarchal duties.

During the ten days of reunion, all of the fundamentals of the gospel were touched upon, making a well-balanced program of thought and study.

Elder W. H. Mannering, formerly a missionary in this district, and now a resident of San Antonio, was present and preached twice.

Excellent work with the juniors was carried out each day at eleven o'clock in the dining hall by Sister Chattie Everett, of Dallas.

Music and song services were under the direction of Leslie Kohlman and R. V. Post. They used Hymns of the Centennial, this being made possible to a great extent by the kindness of Sister Ida Stewart who furnished several dozen of these books to the district.

The reunion officially began Friday evening, July 14, when C. W. Tischer, district president, gave a fine sermon on "Enemies of Our Salvation."

On Saturday morning a prayer meeting preceded the opening of the business session at ten-thirty. The usual business of reading and approving reports was attended to. Twenty-four men of the priesthood reported their ministerial labors at this time. District officers, branch, statistical and church school reports were read. Two changes of procedure were made, one setting the second Friday in July as the regular time for the reunion and another instituting a new means of raising funds for district expenses. The recommendation for the ordination of Hal E. Davenport, of Dallas, to the office of deacon, was approved. Election of officers resulted as follows: President, C. W. Tischer; secretary, C. M. Mitchell; treasurer, A. V. Arnold; director of church schools, R. V. Post, and director of music, Leslie Kohlman. A grounds committee was elected and is composed of Hardy Hay, S. L. Dotson, Lynn Mitchell, and F. L. Arnold. Later Brother Tischer announced the selection of Elders J. R. Allen, of Marlin, and H. H. Davenport, of Dallas, as counselors in the district presidency, and his choices were approved by the congregation.

At the two o'clock service Sunday afternoon, July 16, a baby was blessed and Hal E. Davenport was ordained a deacon in an impressive service, Apostle R. S. Budd, Patriarch F. A. Smith, and Elder H. H. Davenport, Brother Hal's father, officiating.

Saints of this district are glad to see the advancement Brother Leslie Kohlman has made. They listened to a sermon by him the morning of July 22.

The young people were out early each morning for their prayer meeting in the woods. Good interest was shown in these services and attendance averaged about thirty. At the same hour the juniors had prayer meeting in the tabernacle, a nice group of youngsters being present and many taking part. One of the young people's prayer meetings was held after a sunrise breakfast in the woods.

The afternoons were devoted to recreation. With two volley ball outfits and one for horseshoes, there was considerable activity after it was cool enough to play.

The operation of the dining hall was successful from the standpoint of finances. After all expenses were paid and ice was furnished for all purposes on the grounds, a cash balance of thirty-three dollars was had. Local Saints helped greatly, donating what they had though this was limited by the drouth. It took the cooperation of all to make a success of the venture this year as reunion prices were cut almost in half. Only the most simple menus served in the most frugal manner saved the patrons from additional boarding expense. Those who gave untiringly of their time in serving the meals helped wonderfully to maintain satisfaction and comfort.

A movement is now under way among the women of the district, to stimulate interest in the reunion by soliciting year-round donations of foodstuff preserved in the homes of the Saints. Every bit given in this way will lower the per capita attendance cost. After all, the success of these gatherings is determined by the number of people benefitted by the reunion, and a lower attendance cost will allow greater numbers to come. This was demonstrated this summer.

The Saints of the district appreciate the help of Brothers Budd and Smith and all others who contributed to the success of the reunion. They especially appreciate the work of the district president who spends himself and his substance in directing the affairs of the district towards a high goal.

Going Forward in Utah District

Missionary Group Active in Neighboring Branches

A pleasant and profitable get-together meeting of the district was held at Ogden, Utah, the week-end following July 4, at which time the conference of the district convened and business was transacted.

Apostle M. A. McConley was scheduled for an illustrated lecture, July 7, but was unable to reach Ogden until too late for that service. In his stead Elder A. M. Chase presented an illustrated lecture on "Comparative Religions." Elder Frank Veenstra's comment was, "A very fine meeting, but if Brother Chase were in Holland to give that, he would have five hundred out to hear him; he'd have to take a collection at the door to keep some of them out."

Saturday morning was begun with a prayer service at nine o'clock, followed by a business meeting at ten. Conference organized by placing Apostle McConley, Elder Frank Veenstra and the district presidency in charge. Then adjournment was had until Sunday at 2.30 p. m. Preaching at eleven in the morning was by Brother McConley, and the noon intermission was spent at the home of Sister Jennie Winholtz, who invited all to dinner. The afternoon was devoted to an outing in Ogden Canyon with recreation and wiener roast and general round table and lunch. In the evening an illustrated lecture was given

www.LatterDayTruth.org

by Apostle M. A. McConley on "The Restoration."

An eight o'clock young people's prayer meeting opened Sunday's services, and was followed by a general prayer hour. Church school at ten-thirty was conducted by Wayne Hewes, local superintendent, followed by a sermon by Apostle McConley. At noon a basket dinner was served at Loran Farr Park.

At the afternoon business meeting occurred the annual election of officers as follows: President, A. M. Chase; counselors, R. R. Robertson and Frank Veenstra; secretary, Sister Dorcas Cunningham; superintendent of religious education and publicity agent, Sister A. M. Chase; treasurer, Roy Hewes; musical director, A. M. Chase.

The ordination of Brother Edward Moe to the office of priest (the request coming from Provo Branch and being approved by the missionary in charge, the district presidency and the conference) was cared for in a service following the business session. An excellent spirit prevailed.

Elder Frank Veenstra and Apostle M. A. McConley divided the eight o'clock hour. The former gave an interesting account of his work in Holland, and Brother McConley closed with a good talk on "Zion Building."

On the following Tuesday Elder and Sister Chase with Apostle McConley and daughter, Alice, and Elder Frank Veenstra, drove to Malad, Idaho, going by way of Logan, Utah, where a call was made on Sister Elna Carlson and a short devotional service was held. Arriving at Malad about 3.30 p. m., arrangements were made for three nights of services, Apostle McConley the speaker. A meeting for fasting and prayer for the sick of the branch was held at seven-thirty Wednesday evening preceding the sermon, and on Thursday afternoon a workers' conference was conducted.

On Friday the missionary group went to Salt Lake City, where services were held in the evening and all day on Sunday, then they journeyed to Ogden for a final service before Apostle McConley and Alice left for Denver.

At the request of the branch, Elder Chase goes to Malad each Thursday for a class in Doctrine and Covenants at 2.30 p. m., followed by a sermon at eight o'clock and returns home to Salt Lake City on Friday.

The Saints of this district were saddened by the death of Dean Starr, son of Mr. and Mrs. F. G. Starr, July 17. He leaves his wife and child besides his father's family. The size of the funeral cortege bore testimony to the many relatives and friends bereaved by his death.

Sister J. Crites, of Lucerne, Cass County, Indiana, writes that she is isolated from the church and wishes that an elder might visit that community to preach the gospel. The nearest branch is South Bend, eighty miles away.

Independence

Elder John F. Sheehy, pastor in Independence, left Friday morning to attend the Spring River District Reunion which is now in session at Columbus, Kansas. There he will be one of the guest speakers and helpers. During Brother Sheehy's absence from Independence his work will be carried on by his three associate pastors, Elders D. S. McNamara, H. G. Barto and A. K. Dillee.

Church business, special meetings, and reunions have called other officers away from Independence. Over the past week-end a number of men, whose headquarters are in the center place, were widely scattered. President Frederick M. Smith was in Toronto, Canada. President Elbert A. Smith was attending the closing day of the Lamoni reunion. President F. M. McDowell was in the capital city of Missouri, Jefferson City. Bishop G. L. DeLapp spent the week-end in Dallas, Texas. Apostle F. Henry Edwards was attending the Spring River reunion with Brother Sheehy at Columbus, Kansas, and Elder C. B. Woodstock presented himself at the Chetek reunion in Wisconsin.

Doctor John R. Green addressed the priesthood on "The Word of Wisdom," at their regular general meeting of the month Sunday afternoon at two-thirty. They assembled at the Stone Church. Following this lecture quorum meetings were held.

Elder C. Ed. Miller gave the Campus congregation an illustrated lecture on church history Sunday night.

When the Prosperity Club Campaign, conducted by the Independence Leader, came to an end the night of July 29, it was found that the Stone Church had polled the greatest number of votes and had therefore won the one hundred dollar prize.

To the women of the church in Independence goes the credit for the clipping of coupons and gathering in of votes from week to week during the campaign. From Monday to Monday these workers were reminded in their meetings of how much a one hundred-dollar check would help the women's sacrifice fund.

Twenty-one churches entered the race, but the Stone Church won with almost twice as many votes as the Saint Mary's Catholic Church which came in second place. Other Latter Day Saint congregations polling large votes were Walnut Park, Liberty Street, Second Church, Enoch Hill, and Spring Branch.

"Just Wants and Needs," was the subject of the talk by Bishop G. L. DeLapp, guest speaker at the women's meeting Monday, July 31. Sister C. C. Koehler, leader of women, was in charge. This week's collections brought the women's sacrifice offering, since the close of their six thousand dollar campaign, to a total of $381.03, which money is being turned into local funds. The program feature of the meeting was a one-act play, "Lend a Hand," presented by the Girl Scouts of Troop 46 of the Stone Church. The play was written by the captain and lieutenant of the troop.

Director Paul N. Craig is centering the attention of the Stone Church Choir on the preparation of Harvest Festival music. The choir has been very faithful in its services this summer, rendering musical help once each Sunday.

Stone Church

The August sacrament service was largely attended. This is the principal meeting of the month for the Saints of this large congregation, and on this occasion they met reverently for worship. At this hour Elder C. Ed. Miller presented in his opening talk the significance and history of the simple rituals of our church, stressing the three covenants we have to keep—the baptismal covenant, the marriage covenant, and the sacrament.

Bishop J. S. Kelley conducted the service, being assisted by Elders T. A. Beck, Ephraim Brown, S. A. Burgess, D. O. Cato, Bishop R. T. Cooper, and the corps of the priesthood who served the emblems. The service was orderly and worshipful, and Mrs. T. A. Beck played the organ.

Downstairs at the junior sacrament service Elder W. Earl Page gave the opening talk.

At the church school service, preceding the sacrament, the junior girls' chorus, directed by Mrs. J. R. Lentell, supplied music for the worship period in charge of Elder H. W. Harder, and there was a piano solo by Evelyn Salisbury. Elder C. B. Hartshorn formerly superintendent of the Stone Church School, was a visitor that morning, and offered the opening prayer.

Among those who have recently passed away was Sister Lulu W. May, wife of William May, who died last Saturday after a very brief illness at the Independence Sanitarium. Sister May was thirty-seven years old, and was baptized into the church November 18, 1906, at Independence, by W. H. Garrett. She is survived by her husband; two young sons, William Henry and Stanley; her father, C. G. Simmons, and family; grandparents, other relatives, and many friends. The funeral was held yesterday afternoon from the Stone Church.

Second Church

An organ prelude opened the sacrament service for Sunday, August 6. Pastor William Inman was in charge and the invocation was offered by Elder A. W. Whiting. Elder B. C. Sarratt gave the talk on oblation, reading a portion of Doctrine and Covenants 42. The remarks on the communion were given by Elder Sam Inman. The theme was, "Are We Prepared to Partake of the Emblems?" At the close of the service Brother Gordon Cable was ordained to the office of deacon by Elders A. K. Dillee and W. N. Inman.

www.LatterDayTruth.org

On Monday, August 7, the women workers began collecting envelopes again for local expenses.

On Thursday night the choir of this congregation will resume rehearsals under the direction of Brother Earl Audet.

The young people's volley ball team will play the Stone Church team Friday, August 11, at the Campus.

Liberty Street Church

A large group attended the regular Tuesday night meeting of the Doctrine and Covenants Class last week. Bishop J. A. Koehler, teacher of the class, used as his subject, "Economic Zion." Cecil Walker is president of the class.

Although the weather was threatening on Wednesday night, a goodly number were on hand at the young people's meeting preceding the midweek prayer service. An interesting talk was given by Elder E. A. Thomas and Pastor J. R. Lentell read two poems. After the regular business had been taken care of, the young people joined the older members at the home of Lee Davis in Group 30, where an hour was spent in fellowship and prayer.

The Liberty Street Choir, directed by Fred Friend, is making progress in the task of learning the songs and anthems to be sung in the Harvest Festival Concert. Twenty-four members regularly attend the rehearsals.

Twenty members of Cecil Walker's class and their guests met at the home of Miss Dorothy Singleton, August 3, for a get-together.

The young people of Liberty Street have been taking missionary trips for the last several alternate Sundays. These trips are taken under the auspices of the young people's council. Up to date Saint Joseph, Lees Summit, and Grandview have been visited. They will go to Quindaro next Sunday afternoon, where supper will be served before the services.

The younger members of the congregation meet every Monday night on the church lawn where they play volley ball. The first Friday of each month some other group of young people joins with Liberty Street for a recreational period either at Hill's Park or at the Campus. At present there are both a girls' team and a boys' team entered in the tournament on the Campus.

At the church school hour last Sunday morning the number, "Remember Me, O Mighty Lord," was sung by a male quartet, Joseph Frick, John Soderstadt, Harry Blake, and Lucien Amos. Harold Buseth played a violin solo.

The beloved hymn, "Come, Thou Fount of Every Blessing," opened the sacrament service Sunday morning. In his talk, Brother M. A. Smith gave the requisites of each individual who is worthy to partake of the sacrament, and solemnity reigned throughout the administering of the sacred ordinance. The Saints left this service thinking seriously on the words of the closing hymn, "I Know That My Redeemer Liveth."

Mrs. Hattie Dora Patrick, thirty-eight years old, and wife of P. E. Patrick, died July 31, at the Sanitarium. She is survived by her husband, two daughters, two sons; her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Gus Lindsay, of Greenville, Alabama; three brothers, three sisters, and many friends. Her funeral was held from the Liberty Street Church, August 2, Elder T. C. Kelley in charge. Interment was in Mound Grove Cemetery.

Enoch Hill Church

At the midweek prayer service, August 2, the children of Brother and Sister Myron Chamberlain and Brother and Sister Lester Phelps were blessed by Elders J. W. Davis and J. E. Martin.

On the same evening the young people met at the home of Sister Ivy Chrestensen in a semimonthly round table hour, Brother H. E. Winegar in charge.

Enoch Hill singers are joining other singers of the churches in Independence and surrounding stakes in preparing for the Harvest Festival concert to be given October 8.

The junior children, who meet downstairs, gave the program for the senior church school last Sunday morning. On this day the contest between the purple and gold teams of the school came to an end. The purple side won. This contest was to increase the number of students in the school and build up interest and enthusiasm in class work.

At the communion service the infant son of Mr. and Sister Fred Knapp was blessed by Elders C. E. Beal and Robert Whitsitt. A spiritual feast was enjoyed at this hour and during the eight o'clock prayer service.

Walnut Park Church

A well-filled church was present at the communion service Sunday morning. From the opening hymn, led by Brother Orlando Nace, to the closing prayer by Elder Royden Barnhardt, the service was beautiful and effective. An especially moving talk in behalf of the poor of the church was made by Brother Lewis Mauzey, one of the local deacons, preceding the oblation. The service was in charge of Pastor Frank McDonald, and the opening remarks were by Elder Benjamin Bean.

Children's classes of the church school which meet in the basement, were dismissed a few minutes earlier than usual Sunday morning, and a baptismal service was held. Those baptized were Helen LaVon Minton, daughter of Brother and Sister Earl Minton, and Mildred Kathleen Minton, daughter Brother and Sister Frank Minton. Elder F. A. Minton was the officiating minister at both baptisms. Both children were confirmed during the sacrament service in the upper auditorium, Elders John Taylor and Frank McDonald officiating. Following communion service a third candidate was baptized, Roy Verdon Minton, son of Brother and Sister Lloyd Minton, Elder F. A. Minton again officiating.

On Wednesday, August 2, another baptismal service was held at the Walnut Park Church. Mrs. Mary Elizabeth Pettyjohn and her two daughters, Ruth Irene Pettyjohn and Frances Anna Pettyjohn, were baptized by Elder Benjamin Bean, and were confirmed following the baptisms by Elders Bean and George Jenkins.

Mr. and Mrs. Thomas O. Masterson, of the Walnut Park district, announce the birth of their son, Thomas Ellsworth, on Wednesday, August 2, at the Sanitarium. The baby is a grandson of Elder and Sister C. K. Green.

The young people of Walnut Park are planning and receiving entries for a tennis tournament to be held in the near future. Several, both boys and girls, have expressed a desire to compete, and competition is planned in boys' and girls' singles, boys' and girls' doubles, and mixed doubles.

Holden Stake

Knobnoster, Missouri

The united purpose with which this branch is moving forward bespeaks a growth in spirituality. The prayer meetings are well attended and characterized by a goodly degree of the divine Spirit.

Pastor J. T. Nutt is endeavoring to give light and help to this congregation in a series of Sunday night services both interesting and instructive.

This being vacation period, there have been visitors in the homes of several members of Knobnoster Branch in the past few weeks. Among these was David Norman, son of Brother and Sister M. E. Norman, who has taught school in Washington State for several years. With him came his bride of a few months.

Blue Springs, Missouri

At the July sacrament service Brother C. A. Joice read a letter from Brother Donald Stark, bringing his testimony to the Saints. Brother Don is with the Civilian Conservation Corps at Camp Caldor, Placeville, California.

Brother Joseph Martin and Brother Amos Allen, of Independence, visited this branch and assisted in the service.

Brother and Sister O. W. Sarratt and son, Gerald, met with the Saints at Mapleton, Kansas, on sacrament Sunday.

Brother Lawrence Martin was the speaker Sunday morning, July 9, taking his text from 2 Timothy 2: 2. He presented some thoughts which he gleaned from the Youth Conference.

Patriarch Ammon White was at Blue Springs the following week-end, and gave ten patriarchal blessings to members of the congregation. He was also the speaker on Sunday morning, using

www.LatterDayTruth.org

as the foundation for his sermon the last three verses of the eleventh chapter of Matthew.

The baby son of Brother and Sister Fred Immer was blessed and giyen the name, Robert Glen, July 23. Then Elder Gomer Wells preached on the theme, "Keys."

The special musical numbers rendered throughout the services of the month by members of the branch have been much appreciated. The music by the young people's orchestra during the Sunday school hour, July 23, was particularly helpful.

"Looking Unto Jesus," was the theme of Pastor O. W. Sarratt's sermon, July 30.

The young people meet on the church lot on Thursday evenings to play volley ball.

Wednesday evening prayer services are well attended.

Apostle Receives Welcome in Society Islands

Preaches in Tahitian for First Time in Eight Years

R. M. S. Makura arrived at Papeete, Tahiti, Society Islands, the morning of July 15, and after nearly ten days of travel at sea, I was glad to step on land again. However, the voyage was a delightful one and a pleasant time was had by the passengers in their social and recreational activities. I succeeded in carrying away two prizes in the finals for deck games, and as this was the seventh time I had crossed the equator I was exempt from any tribute to Father Neptune. Several passengers, however, were given the customary "ducking."

At the wharf I was met by Brothers J. H. Yager, R. J. Farthing, and several local Saints. As soon as I had passed through the customs department, I was taken to the mission headquarters, Tarona, where I was made comfortable in the mission house with the Yager family. As usual, the first expression of hospitality by the natives was to bring me a pape haari (young coconut), which is a delicious drink. That evening an official reception was held by the branch at Tarona, and consisted of speeches by various officers in the branch, a variety of songs, and refreshments of cake and limeade.

The next day being Sunday I was called upon to preach both forenoon and evening hours. Due to the fact that it had been over eight years since I had preached in the native tongue I expected a little difficulty in expressing myself, but after I had started talking, the language came back to me with ease and freedom. Of course the tongue was a little stubborn when put to the test, but in the main I think the efforts carried over, and were understood.

On board the boat from San Francisco to Papeete we had as passenger Mr. de Tastes, who is the newly-elected delegate of the colonies in French Oceania, and who also is a member of the Chamber of Deputies. He was accompanied by a party of three doctors and one artist. The whole group will leave as soon as the receptions in their honor are completed for a tour of the islands of the colonies, and a French cruiser is now anchored in the harbor. They will be returning to France on the Makura when she returns from Australia. As soon as the excitement of the above and the celebration of the fourteenth of July—Bastille Day—which usually lasts several days, is over, I shall call on both the Governor of the Colonies and Mr. de Tastes to pay them my respects.

CLYDE F. ELLIS.

Los Angeles, California

Central Church, 3751 South Grand Ave.

Los Angeles members are happy to have with them this summer Apostle Gleazer and his family. Brother Gleazer has occupied the pulpit on several occasions. The Idola Club helped to celebrate their arrival with a house-warming and a party in honor of Brother Gleazer's birthday.

At present Pastor D. B. Sorden and family and Brother Gleazer are attending the Silver Lake Reunion. They will return in time to assist at the Southern California district reunion at Laguna Beach, August 26 to September 3. The Saints are looking forward to this reunion. It is some years since they had the privilege of attending a meeting of this kind in their own district.

Among the most outstanding programs this summer was that of Children's Day, when ten children were baptized and confirmed. In this connection workers are reminded of their loss of the services of Sister Laura Frey, who has been invaluable in her work of programs and dramatizations. Sister Frey has moved to Independence, due to illness in her family. An effective part of the children's program was the dramatization of the story of "The Good Samaritan."

The choir leader, Sister Stella Hodges, has been on an enforced vacation, due to ill health. However, she is improving, and the singers hope soon to have her back again. In her absence Sister Margaret Wickes Jones has been conducting the music and has done some fine work with individuals as well as the choir group as a whole.

The marriage of Miss Stella Brockway and Sid Omohundro, just recently announced, occurred May 12, at Ventura, California. Both the bride and the bridegroom are former Gracelanders, and for some time have lived in Los Angeles and taken active part in Central Church functions. They have the best wishes of their friends and former schoolmates living in various parts of the United States.

Kansas City Stake

Central Church

Much interest is being shown in the O. B. K. volley ball tournament now being held. Central Church has entered a boys' team and a girls' team, and both are doing well.

Elder and Sister John A. Gardner's church school class held its study night, July 25, at the Pritchard home near Independence. There was a record attendance of ninety-two. The August 1 meeting was held at the home of Brother and Sister Evan A. Fry and Brother and Sister J. Adelbert Withee.

Evangelist U. W. Greene has been the Sunday evening speaker at Central for about six weeks, and will continue during the month of August. Attendance at these meetings has been excellent and splendid comments have been heard concerning them.

The women's group has been serving supper each Wednesday evening, followed by prayer meeting and choir rehearsal. The combined service has increased both interest and attendance. The suppers will be discontinued during August, but will be resumed about the first of September.

The women's department held a meeting on Wednesday afternoon, August 2, to discuss its financial plans for the coming year. A plan similar to that now carried on in Independence was discussed. The final decision of what is to be done was postponed until the special meeting which has been called for August 16.

Mikado, Michigan

Visited by Hubert Case and M. A. Summerfield

Saints of Mikado Branch recently enjoyed an all-day meeting with Elders Hubert Case and M. A. Summerfield, of Tawas City, as their guests. Brother Case presented an interesting talk in the afternoon, relating several of his experiences in the South Sea Islands Mission. He sang a hymn in the native language which was greatly appreciated. Brother Summerfield occupied the pulpit in the evening.

An event of interest to the entire branch was the marriage of the pastor, Elder Marshall J. McGuire, to Miss Pearl Gertrude, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Edward Bowlsby, of Whittemore, July 2. Brother Steven Barr officiated in the pretty ceremony. The bride was accompanied by Rita McGuire, sister of the bridegroom, and Brother McGuire was attended by Edward Bowlsby, jr. The bridal couple will make their home at Mikado where they have many friends.

Ten families of this branch are regularly receiving the Herald.

www.LatterDayTruth.org

Good Attendance at Kentucky-Tennessee Reunion

Spiritual Blessings Enjoyed—Begin Preparations for Next Year's Gathering

Attendance at the Kentucky and Tennessee reunion at Puryear, July 22 to 30, was good even though the drouth over that region may have prevented some from attending.

Reunion opened with an afternoon organization meeting in which District President C. B. Gallimore, D. R. Dortch, P. B. Bowlin, and J. O. Dutton were chosen to preside over the reunion, and other officers were selected. Following the organization, ten-minute speeches were called for, and several of the elders responded.

Elder J. O. Dutton gave the opening sermon of the reunion that evening.

Elder J. Charles May had been scheduled for this reunion, and at the organization meeting was designated as one of those to preside, but he was unable to be present.

The regular order of meetings each day was: 9:30 a. m., prayer meeting; 11 a. m., preaching; 2 p. m., preaching, with the exception of one day when a round table was had and several subjects were discussed; 7:30 p. m., song service; 7:45, preaching.

Among the district elders occupying at the morning preaching hour were O. S. Caldwell, D. R. Dortch, P. B. Bowlin, J. P. Jimmerson, and Fred Mosier.

Yancy W. Bumpass, a young man of the district, was placed in charge of the recreation. Volley ball and other games were enjoyed.

The evening preaching hour was given over to Missionary Dutton who discussed aspects of the Restoration.

Early in the reunion a good rain fell and in the next few days there were several downpours to the extent that some damage was done to crops in the lowlands.

On both Sundays the time from nine-thirty to twelve o'clock in the morning was occupied by sacrament, prayer and testimony meetings. The Lord blessed these meetings with a goodly degree of his Spirit, and the gifts of the gospel were enjoyed, instructing and encouraging all. On one such occasion William Homer Ross was called to the office of elder.

Eight candidates were led into the waters of baptism during the gathering by Brother Dutton.

The sermons of all the speakers were touched by the divine Spirit and many favorable comments were heard from Saints and friends.

From two hundred and fifty to three hundred attended the evening services.

The business meeting of the reunion was held the last Sunday, and a new reunion committee was elected—William Homer Ross, C. B. Gallimore, C. L. Ross, J. P. Jimmerson and Fred Mosier. The new committee was requested by resolution not to sell soft drinks at the 1934 reunion, but lemonade. The committee is contemplating such improvements for the grounds as a dining hall and other buildings. The members of the district were admonished now to prepare for the next reunion.

During the meetings the Wall sisters furnished musical numbers with guitar and song.

Events in Owen Sound Reunion-Conference

D. T. Williams, B. H. Hewitt, Percy Farrow and Others Take Part in Services

A highly profitable reunion of Owen Sound District convened at Port Elgin from July 2 to 9. This order of services was followed throughout the week days —9:00, prayer meeting; 10:15 to 11:15, study hour, Apostle D. T. Williams in charge; 11:15 to 12:15, study hour in charge of Elder B. H. Hewitt; 2 to 6 p. m., recreation; 8 p. m., preaching.

The study classes proved most instructive and interesting, and were given a large attendance.

Each morning the children's division was in charge of Mrs. B. H. Hewitt, and this proved to be a fine addition to the reunion.

The conference of the district was held Saturday and Sunday, July 8 and 9. Two business meetings convened on Saturday, that of the morning being given chiefly to organization and the transacting of general business. In the afternoon the district officers were elected for the year as follows: President, Elder H. A. Dayton, of Hornings Mills, Ontario; first vice president, Elder G. E. Boos, Wiarton; second vice president, Elder F. C. McLean, Arthur; secretary, Elder R. J. Wilcox, Owen Sound; chorister, George Furness, Owen Sound; treasurer and bishop's agent, Elder F. B. Stade, Harriston; director of Religious Education, Elder H. A. Dayton.

On Saturday evening an entertaining program was presented by talent representing the various branches in the district, the range of territory covered being from Grand Valley to Sault Ste. Marie. A special feature of this program was a play by the junior girls, "The Way of the Cross," Mrs. B. H. Hewitt, of Toronto, supervising.

On Sunday Elder Percy Farrow was the morning speaker on the words of the rich young man, "What lack I yet?" (Matthew 19: 20.) Apostle D. T. Williams preached at half past two in the afternoon on the text, "Quit you like men, be strong." That night in his sermon Elder B. H. Hewitt described the picture, "The Doctor," advising his listeners to go to their spiritual doctor for help in difficulties.

Again Owen Sound Saints were impressed that much good can be derived by such gatherings if all go prepared to help as well as to be helped.

Mason City, Iowa

Small Group Cherishes Variety of Church Interests

This group began the year by electing officers. Sister Inez Kinney was chosen leader, and Sister Irene Woods, chorister. Sister Bernice Pitzer has the kindergarten class; Sister Annie Ivy took the intermediates; Sister Irene Woods the cradle roll, and Sister Kinney teaches the adult and young people's class. They have just been studying the Book of Mormon and are now taking up the quarterlies.

All took part in the programs given on Easter and Children's Day. Following the latter program the Saints went to Spring Park where twenty-five sat down to a picnic dinner.

The intermediates made some attractive posters on the principles of the gospel a short time ago and Elizabeth Hanley won first prize.

The intermediate and young people's classes enjoyed a contest on learning the books of the Bible. Dorothy Nelson won first place in the first group and Sister Nelson won in the young people's class. As a result the latter group treated the former to a picnic.

Not long ago Mason City members went to Charles City to participate in their picnic dinner and Sunday school held in the park. Thirty-two took part in these events.

Saints of Mason City are always happy to meet visiting members, and are looking forward to an all-day meeting when Brothers Stephen Robinson, Henry Castings, and Clyde McDonald, of Des Moines, will be here.

Beardstown, Illinois

Branch in Better Condition Than Ever Before

Beardstown Branch is going steadily forward. Interest and numbers are increasing.

Elder M. R. Shoemaker, one of the organizers of the branch, is still working in the office of pastor. The branch is in a better condition than ever before.

The ranks of the priesthood are filled with some fine men, who are making rapid progress. The local priesthood includes, Elders M. R. Shoemaker, C. H. Davis and E. E. Thomas; Priest Frank Corcoran; Teacher L. C. Jones; Deacon G. L. Lewis.

The music department of the branch is one of the outstanding working units. It presents a fourteen-voice senior choir under the leadership of Mrs. E. E. Thomas, who also directs a twelve-voice junior chorus. A ten-piece ensemble is directed by Mrs. Leah Shoemaker. Each Sunday afternoon during the Nauvoo reunion, the music department presented a program.

A large crowd enjoyed the annual

www.LatterDayTruth.org

church school picnic recently held.

Ogle C. Thomas, a Graceland student, is spending his vacation with his parents at Beardstown and is doing publicity work for the branch.

Beardstown Saints are looking into the future with a determination to strive onward.

Yuma, Colorado

Eleven Baptized Since Last Winter

Yuma Saints have made much progress since bringing their meeting place into town, which is much more centrally located. The average attendance at Sunday school is fifty, with more for preaching services, regularly conducted by Brothers Auld and Vincent, of Otis.

Since last winter eleven people have been baptized in this group.

Elder Glaude A. Smith, of Denver, was a recent speaker at Yuma, and after his sermon a report was given on the Youth Conference.

A good many Saints plan to attend the reunion at Wray, August 18, 19, and 20. This will be in charge of Brothers Smith and R. S. Budd.

Brother J. L. Lutz and wife were called to Iowa, due to the death of Brother Lutz's brother. They were accompanied as far as Lincoln, Nebraska, by C. F. Klusman and son, Harold, who will visit relatives there.

Four Corners Mission

Seven Miles South of Ava, Missouri, on Highway Five

The few Saints here have made a desperate effort during the last few months to keep their activities going. Now they are thankful for the effort put forth.

Attendance lately has increased each Sunday. Average attendance for July was twenty-four. The church school enrollment is growing steadily. The Saints are glad to have the assistance of Brother Walter Bullard and family who recently moved here from Independence.

In June Elder and Sister Ray Whiting and daughter, of Council Bluffs, visited this mission, and Brother Whiting preached four evenings to a splendid audience. The meetings were held out-of-doors, and to hear the hills ring and echo with the words of the gospel as they fell from the speaker's lips, was wonderful, helpful, and encouraging.

Leland, son of Brother and Sister Hurst, was baptized on Children's Day at Tigris Branch.

Dry weather has had ill effects on crops in this region. Nevertheless, visitors from other States say that things look well here when compared to those in other places.

The members of this mission wish to put forth every effort to keep the gospel work growing and to prepare themselves for the work the Master has for them to do. They wish to live acceptable lives, and to leave nothing undone that God would have them do.

Any who pass through here on Sunday will be welcome at church services. Church school is held 10 a. m.; sacrament at 11, the first Sunday of the month, other Sundays preaching. Bible class at 2 p. m. Sunday. Meetings are held at the home of Brother and Sister Clark Hursh.

Dunn Center, North Dakota

A Visit From Elder P. T. Anderson

Dunn Center Branch recently enjoyed the company of Elder P. T. Anderson, who spent a short time there. During his visit, the entire branch was entertained with a picnic near the home of Brother and Sister Lewis Dinehart, near Emerson, North Dakota. Brother Dinehart provided tables and chairs, which assured comfort for the group. Under the leadership of Elder Lester Anderson, swimming, volley ball, kitten ball, and croquet answered for amusement. To close the day, Miss Lucille Odren was baptized by Elder P. T. Anderson, her mother having united with the church some time before.

Some time ago the membership was entertained at the home of Brother and Sister Peter Rasmussen. Immediately following lunch, a song service was enjoyed along with games.

Brother Guy Adams was ordained to the office of elder, Elder P. T. Anderson officiating.

Elders Anderson and Adams recently called at the home of a neighbor of the Rasmussens for administration. The sick woman's condition is much improved.

Prayers are requested for Sister Peart, who has been ill for some time.

The young people's Sunday evening class is busy studying the Young People's Church History.

Those Spare Hours!

Use them to advantage. These low prices on your own church books are made to help you. Order today.

Riches Untold	$1.25
The Fourth Relaford	75c
The Call at Evening	90c
Timbers for the Temple	75c
The Mormon Girl	50c
In the Shelter of the Little Brown Cottage	50c
A Vineyard Story	50c
A Reasonable Service	65c
Into the Latter Day Light	75c

(These Prices Postpaid in U. S. A.)

Read Your Own Church Literature

HERALD PUBLISHING HOUSE

"Where You Meet the Church"

Ward A. Hougas, Mgr. Independence, Mo.

www.LatterDayTruth.org

The Bulletin Board

Conference Notices

Central Michigan district conference will convene at Coleman, Michigan, September 29 and 30, with prayer meeting at 9 a. m. Saturday, followed by business session. All branch presidents and branches should see that we have a concise, condensed report of all ordained men and of branches. Please see there is a basket of food from every branch to assist the local at Coleman. The priesthood meeting will be at 8 a. m. Sunday, and the attention of all will be centered on the objectives of the church. Apostle D. T. Williams will be present to assist us with the richness of his wide experience in travels and council meetings. This meeting will also be the election of district officers for the ensuing year. We are asking that the young people of the district present the Saturday night program and entertainment. They also will have a general district get-together meeting September 7, at Bentley, and will render a program that will interest all. This meeting is under the leadership of Brother William Asch, their district leader. Apostle Williams will also be with us there.—Hubert Case, district president.

Three-day Meetings in Eastern Colorado

Since it seemed unwise to attempt to hold a reunion in Eastern Colorado District this year, three three-day meetings have been arranged as follows: La Junta, Colorado, August 11, 12, and 13; Wray, Colorado, August 18, 19, and 20, and Denver, August 25, 26, and 27.

Saints living in the vicinities of these points are urged to attend these three-days' meetings. With the exception of the one at Wray, the services will begin with a preaching service at 7.30 p. m., on Friday. At Wray the first service will be a prayer service at 10 a. m., Friday. Apostle R. S. Budd and Elder Glaude A. Smith will conduct the meetings, and Elder J. D. Curtis is expected to assist with the classes in Denver. The district conference will be held at Denver on the dates given.—Glaude A. Smith, 249 Penn Street, Denver, Colorado.

Request Prayers

Sister Rosy Lawson, of Mountainair, New Mexico, desires the earnest prayers of the Saints in behalf of her husband, John Lawson, now in the Saint Joseph Hospital at Albuquerque, with a broken leg. The doctors hold little hope of saving the leg, but these Saints have faith in the healing power of the Lord. Sister Lawson would like also to have any Saints living in Albuquerque to visit her husband. He would be happy to have elders administer to him.

The Saints have been asked to pray for Sister Eveline Hughes, who is very sick in Weston Sanitarium, Toronto, Canada.

Our Departed Ones

RIDGWAY.—Joseph Oliver Ridgway was born November 17, 1847, near Runnells, Iowa, and passed away at the home of his son, Bert Ridgway, at Runnells, July 9, 1933. He was united in marriage to Matilda Calloway, May 16, 1867, and to them twelve children were born. Five of these survive. Brother and Sister Ridgway were married fifty-five years. She preceded him in death ten years ago. He was baptized a member of the Reorganized Church, July 25, 1903, by W. C. Nirk, and was a faithful member for thirty years. The funeral was held at Runnells, Iowa, July 11, in charge of Elder Clyde McDonald, of Des Moines, Iowa.

UMPHREY.—Susan Umphrey, daughter of John F. and Caroline Umphrey, was born at Bentley, Michigan, May 24, 1888. She united with the Reorganized Church of Jesus Christ of Latter Day Saints early in life and remained a faithful worker. She is survived by her mother, one brother, Matthew, and two sisters, Mrs. Martha Demeray, and Mrs. Thomas Wood. Funeral services were held Monday, July 3. Burial was in Bentley Cemetery.

HOLMES.—Glenn E. Holmes, son of Melvin B. and Carrie Holmes, was born April 20, 1885, in Buffalo Prairie, Illinois, met death in an accidental fall from a hay loft Monday afternoon, July 24, 1933. He was united in marriage to Orpha Winders, June 18, 1913, in Media, Illinois. One son, Ivan, and two daughters, Donna and Verla, came to this union. He united with the Reorganized Church of Jesus Christ of Latter Day Saints at an early age and continued to be a faithful member throughout his life. Glenn will be greatly missed from his place in his home, church, and community. He was loved by the young and his home was always open to their activities. Besides the immediate family who

LETTERHEADS AND ENVELOPES

20-lb. Hammermill Bond Printed to Your Order. Neatly boxed. Postpaid. Satisfaction Guaranteed

Price per	100	250	500	1,000
Letterheads 8½ x 11	$1.00	$1.75	$2.50	$4.00
Envelopes 3⅝ x 6½	1.00	1.75	2.50	4.00
Letterheads and Env.	1.50	2.50	4.00	7.00

J. R. S. Co., Dept. S. Send for Samples. Columbus, Ohio

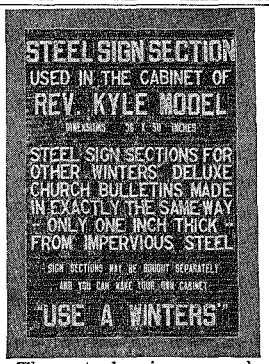
LOOK FORWARD FOR 1933!

Every wayfarer you can attract within your doors—every new member you can add to the congregation means added strength for both him and you. A Winters' Bulletin at a cost of $25 to $35 has proved its ability. In the past two years, more than 3,000 churches bought Winters' Interchangeable Steel Sign Panel and complete lithographed letter and numeral equipment separately. Ask about our co-operative plan.

H. E. Winters Specialty Co.

Dept. HPC, 310 East 4th Street, Davenport, Iowa.

You can have a complete, Illuminated Winters' DeLuxe Bulletin for only $59.00. Send for our free catalog showing various styles and prices.



The steel sign panel—heart of your bulletin.

A Lesson in Thrift

Read these four offerings below. In the face of rapidly rising markets these are bargains—and how! No use to pay rent when homes like these are so easily purchased. Thrifty people are buying homes rapidly now.

6 rooms—modern—3 blocks north of Stone Church.....$3,250
4 rooms—modern except heat—Mt. Washington district.... 1,350
3 rooms—modern except heat—west end of Independence 1,500
7 rooms—modern—choice location 4,500

Your church bonds and notes are as good as cash on these homes. Why not buy a home in Independence NOW—you've always wanted one.

CENTRAL DEVELOPMENT ASSOCIATION
221 West Lexington Street
Independence, Mo.

or

THE PRESIDING BISHOPRIC
The Auditorium
Independence, Mo.

www.LatterDayTruth.org

survive are his mother, Mrs. Carrie Holmes, of Independence, Missouri, and one brother, Lawrence Holmes and family, of Couer d'Alene, Idaho. His father died January 6, 1911. Two sisters and one brother died in infancy. Funeral services were held at the church at Joy, Illinois. The sermon was by E. R. Davis. Interment was in the Buffalo Prairie Church Cemetery.

GRAVES.—Ernest Franklin Graves was born December 25, 1910, at Joplin, Missouri. He was baptized August 12, 1923, at Joplin. Ernest enlisted in the United States Army in September, 1929, and was stationed at Fort Sam Huston, Texas. On the evening of January 8, 1933, while visiting in a private home in San Antonio, he was accidentally shot when a small caliber pistol was being passed for inspection. He never recovered from this wound, and passed away June 22, 1933, at Station Hospital, in Texas. Funeral services were conducted in Decatur, Alabama, by the Reverend S. V. Blythe. Surviving are his father, Robert E. Graves; his step-mother; his grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. R. V. Graves, of Decatur, Alabama, and Mrs. Eliza Wilson, of Joplin, Missouri; three brothers, Robert A., Thomas Jackson, and Roy Leon; two sisters, Evelyn Crawford, and Ethel Margaret, all of the home, besides many other relatives and friends.

ISLEIB.—Charles Henry Isleib, of Wellesley, Massachusetts, husband of the late Josephine Catherine Beiler Isleib, passed away at the Newton Hospital, June 3, 1933, after an illness of six weeks. He was born December 16, 1848, at Kertorf-Hessen, Darmstadt, Germany, and came to Albany, New York, when fourteen years old. There he received his education and remained until his marriage in 1869. Then he moved to Boston and joined the church in 1874. He had resided at Wellesley over twenty years at the time of his death and was greatly loved by a host of neighbors and friends. Surviving are four children, Charles T., Rollin H., Mrs. Robert G. Smith, and Josephine Isleib. Funeral services were held at this late home, June 6, by E. H. Fisher, of Somerville, and interment was in Woodlawn Cemetery at Wellesley.

Reunion Schedule

Please send in changes for this schedule immediately.

DISTRICT	PLACE	TIME
Eastern and Western Maine	Brooksville	Aug. 12 to 19
Kirtland Combined Reunion	Kirtland	Aug. 10 to 20
Northwestern Iowa	Woodbine, Iowa	Aug. 11 to 20
Far West Stake	Stewartsville	Aug. 17 to 27
Western Montana	Race Track	Aug. 18 to 27
Southeast Illinois	Brush Creek	Aug. 25 to Sept. 3
Idaho		Aug. 16 to 20
West. Oklahoma	Eagle City, Oklahoma	Aug. 5 to 13
Southern California District	Laguna Beach	Aug. 26 to Sept. 3

THE FIRST PRESIDENCY,
By F. M. McDOWELL.

950 Kilo. KMBC 315.6 Meters

Church Programs Over KMBC

Devotional service at 6.30 each weekday morning. Drexel Mollison, organist; John F. Sheehy, speaker.

Sunday, 7.30 a. m., Bible Study, by U. W. Greene.

Sunday, 11.00 a. m., music by Stone Church Choir.

Sunday, 5.00 p. m., Vesper Service, U. W. Greene, speaker.

Sunday, 10.00 p. m., Doctrine Hour, A. B. Phillips, speaker.

Reunion Special!

(AUGUST ONLY)

Hymns of the Centennial

100—$6.98 (Add postage Shipping wt. 20 lbs.)

Brand new edition, well bound and attractive. The most economical hymn book published for reunions, picnics and special gatherings. Very practical for regular use. Regular price, 10c each.

HERALD PUBLISHING HOUSE

"Your Own Supply House"

Ward A. Hougas, Mgr. Independence, Mo.

CLASSIFIED ADS

Rates 3 cents per word first insertion; 20 per cent discount on subsequent insertions. Minimum 75 cents per insertion.

HOUSEKEEPER WANTED: By employed L. D. S. young man. Prefer widow with H. S. education who needs home. Address D. R. H., care of Herald Publishing House, Independence, Missouri. 32-1t*

FOR SALE: Two beautiful adjoining lots in Kirtland, about three blocks from Temple. Each 70 x 195 feet. A bargain for cash. Address, Dr. Joseph Luff, Independence, Missouri. 31-2t*

FARMS, ALL SIZES. Best terms. Call at our office on Highway No. 71, or write Chas. R. Bowman, Butler, Missouri.

HIGH SCHOOL COURSE in two years; meets all requirements for entrance to college, business, and leading professions. Diploma given. Address Education, Herald Publishing House, Independence, Missouri. 26-25-34

CHICAGO WORLD'S FAIR VISITORS wishing to lodge in L. D. S. homes should write to Mrs. W. G. LaBrant, 4322 Jackson Blvd., Chicago, (telephone Columbus 8470) for full details. First Chicago branch address is 4416 Gladys Ave. All welcome. H. T. McCaig, Pastor. 28-tf

CHURCH BONDS FOR SALE by pension widow who needs cash. $100 or $200. Address S. E. R., care of presiding Bishopric, Auditorium, Independence, Missouri. 32-1t

NAME AND ADDRESS of presiding elder of Popular Bluff, Missouri, Branch desired at once. Expense paid. Write at once to Mrs. Jennie E. Randolph, Box 24, Yale, Illinois. 32-1t

FOR SALE: Modern, stucco, six-room bungalow, one half acre ground. All in fruit. Good chicken house and yard; garage; plenty shade; will have to be seen to be appreciated. One block to street car, three blocks L. D. S. church. 1400 S. Dodgeon Street, Independence, Missouri.

WANTED: Elderly man to help around poultry and dairy farm for board and a small wage this fall and winter. L. D. S. church here. Address, J. E. Hughes, Mapleton, Kansas. 32-1t

CHURCH BOND FOR SALE: $100 Bond for $90. Act quickly. W. H. Eliason, 511 Sexton Road. Columbia, Missouri. 31-2t

SITUATION WANTED by elderly man with motherless children. Farm preferred with widow who will take interest in children. Perry Shaw, Ray Hotel, San Fernando, California.

www.LatterDayTruth.org

— QUARTERLIES —

Three Helpers—

1. Order by Number.
2. Order Early.
3. Use the current Quarterly.

These three simple rules will help you to arrange your local church study program with the least possible trouble and no danger of confusion.

Be sure that your teachers have these necessary helps for effective study and teaching.

Use the current quarterlies, and your classes will be guided through the whole course of study without trouble, without missing anything, and without duplication.

HERALD PUBLISHING HOUSE
Independence, Missouri

Pull Together Now

For a Unified Church School Curriculum

The New Fall QUARTERLIES Are Ready

Kindergarten ..... Number 121
"Leading Childhood to God"
By Myrtle Weber and Tessie Smith

Primary ..... Number 211
"Helpers in God's World"
By Mildred Goodfellow

Junior ..... Number 311
"Old Testament Stories"
By Hallie Gould

Intermediate ..... Number 411
"Lessons From the Book of Mormon"
By Hazel Dexter Smith

Senior Young People ..... Number 511
"Youth and Life"
By Vida Watson and Gladys Elliott

Older Young People ..... Number 641
"The Message and Witness of the Restoration"
By Arthur Oakman and Elva Sturges

Adult ..... Number 721
"A Study of the Financial Law"
Prepared under the direction of the Presiding Bishopric

www.LatterDayTruth.org

The Saints' Herald

H O Smith
711 S Fuller
Indep Mo

Objectives and Methods

An Editorial Gesture to the Future

Will Your Branch Be Represented on the Harvest Festival Map?

"This One Thing I Do"

By Evan A. Fry

Zionic Job Insurance

By L. S. Wight

Have You Voted Yet?

Ballot on page 1030

Volume 80 August 15, 1933 Number 33

www.LatterDayTruth.org

THE SAINTS' HERALD

August 15, 1933

Volume 80 Number 33

FREDERICK M. SMITH, Editor in Chief.
ELBERT A. SMITH, Associate Editor.
FLOYD M. McDOWELL, Associate Editor
LEONARD J. LEA, Managing Editor.
LETA B. MORIARTY, Assistant Editor.
WARD A. HOUGAS, Business Manager.

Entered as second-class matter at the post office at Independence, Missouri, under Act of March 3, 1879. Issued weekly at Independence, Missouri. Price $2 a year in advance for the U. S. A., its territories and possessions, and Canada; foreign, $3 a year. Accepted for mailing at the special rate of postage provided for in section 1103, Act of October 3, 1917; authorized July 21, 1921.

Published for the Reorganized Church of Jesus Christ of Latter Day Saints.

HERALD PUBLISHING HOUSE
INDEPENDENCE, MISSOURI

CONTENTS

EDITORIAL:
- Objectives and Methods 1027
- Do Herald Readers Want Stories? 1027
- Quarterlies—How to Order by the Year 1028
- The Harvest Festival—What to Send 1028
- A New Religious Drama 1029
- Trade Mark of the Herald Publishing House 1029
- Auditorium Festival Chorus 1029

YOUTH'S FORUM:
- Etta Gets a Stern Reproof 1030
- Youth in Action 1030
- Fragment 1030
- Your Ballot 1030

NEWS BRIEFS 1031

THOUGHT PROVOKERS:
- An Old Covenant 1032
- Sin 1032
- Christian Exclusiveness 1032
- God and You, a Poem 1032

ARTICLES:
- Harvest Festival 1033
- "This One Thing I Do," by Evan A. Fry 1034
- A Book Review, by S. A. Burgess 1035
- Zionic Job Insurance, by L. S. Wight 1037
- Weekly Health Letter, by A. W. Teel, M. D. 1039
- Success as I Behold It 1041
- A Creed, a Poem 1041
- The Awakening of Man, a Poem 1041
- Prayer and Testimony 1042
- Question Time, by A. B. Phillips 1044
- The Seventh Day Adventists, by M. H. Cook 1045

NEWS OF CHURCH AND HOME 1047

THE BULLETIN BOARD 1053

The Pigeonhole

Do We Always Hide Our Light Under a Bushel?

By Edna Lucille Cox

Talent! What a small word to cover the possibilities lying therein. For years the standard of a person's talent has been accepted as the doing of something outstanding, such as singing, instrument-playing, recitation of poems, stories, or writing. Indeed, these are talents but not the only ones. Tact and the art of being still at the right time are two especial ones. The art of being friendly without the sticky sweetness one sometimes encounters is a seemly insignificant but really an important one So many things which seem commonplace in life are really talents.

Not long ago, a woman who is capably efficient in her homelife, made the statement that she had never enjoyed the knowledge of having any talents. My silent comment was that the lady did not know and could not realize how powerfully she had affected seven lives by her sweet patience and general understanding of human nature. Yes, talent means far more than that which is outstandingly done. Hence some people have more talent than generally thought.

"Some mothers and fathers," said the Pigeon, sitting on his cynic's post, "who seem unable to do anything with their children expect Sunday school teachers and officers to make angels of them. Parents who spoil their children six days a week, can't expect teachers to reform them in an hour."

Shop Notes

It was hot and sultry in the composing room today. The captain of the baseball team, perspiring over the "stone" pulled a malaprop: "There's sure a lot of humility in the atmosphere today!" Wilted with the heat, we agreed. "Sure is, brother, sure is!"

The Press Room Proletarian was wagging his head sadly. "What the grievance?" "Everything has gone socialist—the President is using methods that the Socialists have advocated for years. And nobody seems to realize it." "Why should that make you unhappy?" we asked. "Nobody left to argue with!" he answered.

Percy came in yesterday with his jaw locked in a large lump of taffy. "What this country needs most," he said out of the corner of his mouth, "is a good five cent candy bar that will sell for two cents!"

Sign on the shop door: "Agents and solicitors not allowed." A missionary approached. "I am a solicitor of souls, and an agent of the Master. Does this sign exclude me?" he asked.

An optimist is a man who goes into the insurance business hoping to find a prospect that doesn't already have more insurance than he can pay for. A friend remarked that insurance is the easiest business in the world to get into—and out of. News reports say conservative estimates place nation's unemployed at fifteen million. Odd coincidence that we had estimated that many insurance agents. The depression affords men a wide range of choices of methods of starving to death, of which this is one of the most genteel.

www.LatterDayTruth.org

Editorial

Objectives and Methods

There is now no doubt that this country is going through a great period of experimental government. The method, of course, is not new; but President Roosevelt has accelerated the process of experiment to a point where we can try new machinery and accept or discard it with greater rapidity than ever before. We have already learned more during his administration than would have been learned through several previous administrations.

People who had feared that the election had precipitated a mere politician into the White House, are now reassured by the knowledge that we have one who is a super-politician as well as a statesman. We do not know that the President will succeed in his endeavors; but we credit him with sincerity and practicality, we believe in his method, and we hope that it will work.

In foreign governments cabinets rise and fall upon a single experiment or policy. In our own government administrations have tried to carry through a four year period with programs conceived before the inauguration, and in the attempt have been at loggerheads with Congress for many months.

The President's experimental method has accomplished much good for us; it has so far kept the peace between Congress and the White House; it has tried means, found them wanting, and discarded them without exhausting the energies of the government or the resources of the nation; it has taught us quickly that some things can be done and that others cannot; and it promises to find remedies for a few of the troubles that have afflicted us.

We keenly regret, of course, that the admirable effort of the President should be coupled with the renunciation of our national work on prohibition. But apparently, as events are daily showing, repeal of the eighteenth amendment is the present will of the majority, and it is only a matter of time until it will be an accomplished fact. This aspect of the situation is not one that reflects much credit upon the Christian influence in our national affairs. But more of that later.

The present situation is of vast interest and importance to all of us. The experimental method is applicable to business, and even to church work. Our principles and our objectives remain the same. Revelation and prophetic leadership have made them known to us. They are a part of our philosophy and our motivation. We are devoted to them. But our method of realizing them is experimental; at least we have experimented. We adjust our program to conditions and necessities. At the present time a large debt enters into the consideration of every major church problem and operation. The time will come when it will be removed, and our attention will return to other and more important matters. Only by regarding our past failures as experiments from which we should learn can we be reconciled to them. It costs time, money, and effort to experiment, but we must bear the cost if we would reap the profit of experience. The plan—the principles and objectives—of salvation are the gift of God; but we must work out our own salvation. That will not be granted to us without cost.

From this viewpoint, the work and destiny of the church become clearer; its haltings and difficulties become less embarrassing. We are reconciled to taking the consequences of our own blunders and the punishment for our own folly without laying the blame on God.

After all, we are only human. Our first crude attempts to follow the Divine plan are awkward; sometimes we are caught working surreptitiously and guiltily upon our own selfish and worldly plans, and neglecting the Divine one entirely; but disaster brings us back to repentance. Like children, we handle badly the tools that have been loaned to us; we botch the job. But eventually we shall learn and build according to the plan.

L. L.

Do Herald Readers Want Stories?

A ballot is being carried in the Youth Forum section of the Herald to ascertain, among other things, whether Herald readers want another serial story of the type of Riches Untold.

Since the merging of our publications—including Vision and the Ensign with this publication—we have felt a responsibility for broadening the scope of our editorial policy. We wish to include material that will be of interest to younger readers as well as the older ones.

We are also trying to get a check up on the popularity of various departments. This information will help us to know how nearly we are coming to meeting the needs of our people.

The ballot will be printed a few more times in order to give all members of the family a vote. A

www.LatterDayTruth.org

closing date for the balloting will be announced later.

Have you voted yet? Have you asked others to vote? If not, now is the time to do it. Vote, and be sure that your preferences are represented.

L. L.

Quarterlies—How to Order by the Year

The Herald Publishing House allows a special price to schools that order Quarterlies by the year, and if they are to have this advantage we must insist on compliance with the conditions, which are these:

1. Order the Quarterlies ahead for the whole year, and send money with the order for the whole year.
2. Do not expect to change the order the next quarter. If you do, you will be charged the quarter rate.

The idea of granting the yearly subscription price rate is to save bookkeeping and expense. When patrons try to get the yearly rate, and still change orders each quarter, or send the money in quarterly installments, they are simply employing a trick to save money. We cannot permit this practice to go on.

A LIST OF THE FALL QUARTERLIES

Kindergarten ..... Number 121
"Leading Childhood to God," by Myrtle Weber and Tessie Smith.

Primary ..... Number 211
"Helpers in God's World," by Mildred Goodfellow.

Junior ..... Number 311
"Old Testament Stories," by Hallie Gould.

Intermediate ..... Number 411
"Lessons From the Book of Mormon," by Hazel Dexter Smith.

Senior Young People ..... Number 511
"Youth and Life," by Vida Watson and Gladys Elliott.

Older Young People ..... Number 641
"The Message and Witness of the Restoration," by Arthur Oakman and Elva Sturges.

Adult ..... Number 721
"A Study of the Financial Law," prepared under the direction of the Presiding Bishopric.

For the benefit of those schools that have distributed their selections in other parts of the curriculum than the current issues, stocks of back numbers are maintained. In case these supplies are exhausted we cannot undertake the expense of extra printings, since the call is not great enough.

One great benefit of "keeping in step" with current numbers of the Quarterlies is that you obtain and use the material while it is new and fresh. This plan brings you the latest and best of our study publications.

The best plan is to follow these three rules:

1. Order by number. 2. Use current Quarterlies. 3. Order now.

The Prices: In quantities of one to three of one kind, 25 cents each; per year, 90 cents each. In quantities of four or more of one kind, 15 cents each; per year, 50 cents each.

HERALD PUBLISHING HOUSE
INDEPENDENCE, MISSOURI

The Harvest Festival—What to Send

Some letters of inquiry have come asking what kind of contributions are specifically desired for the Harvest Festival. Brother C. C. Koehler, of the Committee, answered one letter in a way that will probably be helpful to other people. We take suggestions from his letter which indicate what is needed:

See the article "The Harvest Festival 1933" in the Herald for August 1, page 969.

Articles, novelties, products, etc., peculiar to your section of the country.

Miniatures of boats, fishing equipment; farm, factory, or plant layouts; anything that will tell in pictorial or miniature form the story of the occupations and industries of your part of the country.

Products of the soil, especially in preserved form.

Products of local arts and handcrafts, quality materials.

Foodstuffs that can be used to relieve the wants of the poor. In this connection we should stress the necessity of quantity.

There are various local clubs that will cooperate with the branches of the section from which they have come to produce beautiful arrangements of the exhibits. "The Great Northwest Club, the Three-I Club, Sunny South Club, California Club, the Y. K. T. Class, the Tokolon, and other classes, representatives of the stakes, and of some branches give fine help to arrange exhibits for the Festival.

Bishop J. S. Kelley, who is at the head of the Harvest Festival Committee, informs us that numbers of indigent and dependent people have come from other districts and branches of the church, and are now either wholly or partly dependent upon the church in Independence for the bare means of saving them from starvation and acute suffering.

Independence thus suffers from a movement of families that has proved advantageous to local churches elsewhere by freeing them of people that were only liabilities. This, however, is not altogether fair to Independence.

It is therefore quite fair that foodstuffs from the Harvest Festival, some of it donated by the church at large, should be used for the purposes of relieving the want of these people. Branches everywhere are urged to help with the heavy burden by sending what goods they can with their exhibits for the Festival. Every bit will be needed for suffering families in the coming winter.

www.LatterDayTruth.org

A full page notice of the Festival appears elsewhere in this issue. The time is now short. Local committees should be very active in preparing their contributions. We look forward to making this Festival one of the finest and most interesting that has ever been brought to the Auditorium.

Remember the time—October 3 to 8.

L. L.

A New Religious Drama

Will Appear in Herald August 29

A new religious drama, "The Play's the Thing," by Marcus L. Bach, will appear in the Herald issue of August 29. We are making an early announcement in order that all church school workers and leaders may arrange to get copies. If the play is not needed immediately, it is well worth keeping for a future occasion.

The play has easy, interesting lines, strongly individualized characters—and not too many of them, sustained interest, and a plot that holds suspense to the end. It can be presented in the average church with no special scenery, and may be used with or without costumes and make-up. The latter are simple if used. A colorful contrast of ancient and modern themes heightens the effect.

This play would ordinarily be accessible to churches only by purchase, but the Herald Publishing House has made a special arrangement to bring it free to our readers.

Don't miss it. It makes interesting reading, even for those who do not wish to produce it.

L. L.

Trade Mark of the Herald Publishing House

Above is a reproduction of the new trade mark of the Herald Publishing House. It was designed by Carl Heinricks of Philadelphia. Dignified, refined in detail, expressive of the long history of the House, and suggestive of the art of printing itself, it was considered the best of a number of fine contributions. We are glad to have this worthy emblem to appear on the stationery and work which are produced for our business. We print it here for the benefit of the many who were interested in the contest.

Auditorium Festival Chorus

The enrollment for the chorus this year is almost eight hundred—two hundred more than last year.

The Harvest Home Festival which opens in the Auditorium at Independence, October 3, will close on Sunday, October 8, with a concert by the Auditorium Festival Chorus giving its second annual performance in the afternoon at three-thirty.

The chorus is made up of choirs in the four stakes of Zion—Independence, Kansas City, Holden, and Far West.

This year we expect a very fine chorus. Special trips are being made by Mr. Craig to points outside of Independence, to meet in their own communities groups of choirs for special training. This gives to all the personal help of the director, and while it saves much expense to a large number, also provides personal contact for all with Mr. Craig. This, we feel, is a new departure in the training of a large chorus which should show splendid results at the Festival.

On August 6, Mr. Craig met three choirs in Holden; on August 13, several groups met in Saint Joseph at 2 p. m., and at 5 p. m., another large group of singers rehearsed in Cameron, Missouri.

More than usual interest is apparent this year in the Festival Concert. If this splendid interest continues, a great treat is in store for all, both singers and listeners.

The Auditorium Orchestra, with Orlando Nace, director, will join with the chorus in giving the concert and besides rendering special numbers of their own, will accompany the chorus in six of the numbers. Nine numbers will be sung by the chorus unaccompanied. The music is all very beautiful and includes some of the finest of our hymns, Negro spirituals, ballads, and folk songs. Some of the numbers are in eight part.

The chorus is something unusual and will present a beautiful appearance as well as a splendid concert. The concert will be in the late afternoon which will enable people from a distance to make the trip conveniently. Provision is being made to use the full capacity of the Auditorium to accommodate the crowds who will attend the performance.

There will be no admission charge for the concert this year, but an offering will be taken to help defray expenses.

Flowers are the smiles of God's goodness.—Wilberforce.

www.LatterDayTruth.org

Youth's Forum

A Page of Thought and Discussion for the Young People of the Church

Etta Gets a Stern Reproof

Her Past Mistakes Rise to Punish Her

Etta was returning home after work, feeling at peace with the world and kindly towards everybody. It was the kind of a day one thanked the Lord for the beauty of the world and forgave one's enemies—resolving not to make any more.

"Family's out," thought Etta, when no one answered her ringing, and she fished a key out of her purse.

A white envelope, bearing an indecipherable postmark, lay beneath the mail chute. Etta opened it curiously on her way upstairs. Once in her room, she began to read. First she turned white; then she turned red. But she went on reading:

Dear Etta:

Every week I read your column in the Herald and have been very interested in some of the things you have been writing. Now that the Young People's Convention is over and has been pronounced a success by all, especially those of us who attended, I am sending a few comments on your letter of May twenty-third.

I believe that all Latter Day Saints, young and old, should attend business meetings and use their influence in securing legislation that will promote fellowship and cooperation in the branch and not as you boast, "To keep them from putting anything over on us." Such an attitude, it seems to me, creates only confusion and discord for it separates the young people from the old and drives out the spirit of peace and understanding.

There may be such a character in the church as Gaston Crabbe but in twenty-three years of active missionary service I have failed to meet him. If there are such characters in our church, still I question the wisdom of using the powerful position you occcupy to mold the attitudes of the young people in a way which humiliates the many who because of age can no longer class themselves with young people, regardless of their interest in the church. Some few of our young people smoke cigarettes, but you would not appreciate Gaston Crabbe setting them up as representing the young people. It would not be fair, and injustice does not develop harmony.

I believe a study of parliamentary law and usage would assist you greatly, Etta, in maintaining harmony and good feeling in your branch business meetings as well as bringing to the youth of the church some valuable and much-needed information. Glaring at a previous speaker and personal remarks are serious offenses. For you to commend such acts leads to wrong conclusions and separates instead of bringing together; it hinders rather than assists in the building of Zion.

The young people are as distinctly a part of the church as the older members and are held accountable for the way in which they spend the money they earn. The fact that the Youth Conference was paid for by the young people does not lessen its cost to the church. Brother Joseph stated a truth when he said, "The Saints (church) have only one pocketbook." The convention cost the church exactly what it cost the young people for the young people are the church. It was a splendid investment and will surely bring in a good return in future offering to say nothing of the returns in character building.

I do not believe I am in the class with Brother Crabbe, about one half of my time is spent with young people, so I do not offer any defense for him. Brother Crabbe is dead wrong but if treated with kindness and not radically opposed his kind will soon vanish from the church.

I am not unappreciative of the many good ideas advanced in your letters, and am sending this as criticism rather than faultfinding. Someday I hope to meet you and have an opportunity to discuss problems with you across the table.

Sincerely,
O. BSER VANCE.

Etta tried to form a mental picture of her correspondent, Mr. Vance.

"If you only knew all that I've gone through since that business meeting, and how much I've been humbled," she said to the imaginary visitor, "you would forgive me. Bad temper and a loose tongue are evil possessions. And one has to suffer much to learn to control them."

Youth in Action

In the branch at Saskatoon, Canada, there is an organization known as the "Young People's Club," which has done much to help in organizing the social, recreational, and cultural activities of the young people of that place. In addition it has helped the young people to prepare themselves better for church service. Choir work, outdoor activities, programs, and many interesting things have occurred since the club began its work. Sister Lottie Clarke Diggle also reports the publication of a monthly paper, the organization of soft-ball teams, and other activities.

It may be remarked here that many churches have good level lots in back of the building which can be prepared, with little trouble, for a small field where soft ball teams may play. This game is a good wholesome out-of-doors sport, full of excitement and thrills, according to the "pep" of the teams. All ages can play it. Girls' teams are organized too. Both sexes can play on the same teams if the boys agree not to be "too rough," as the girls express it.

Fragment

What is poetry? Is it a mosaic
Of colored stones which curiously are wrought
Into a pattern? Rather glass that's taught
By patient labor any hue to take
And glowing with a sumptuous splendor, make Beauty a thing of awe; where sunbeams caught,
Transmuted fall in sheafs of rainbows fraught
With storied meaning for religion's sake.

—Amy Lowell.

YOUR BALLOT

Herald Popularity Contest

You are invited to vote. Fill in the blanks, clip the coupon, and send it in.

Here is a list of the "Herald" features. Put number 1 after the one you like best, number 2 after the next best, etc.

Pigeonhole.....
Editorial.....
News Briefs.....
Helps for the Pastor.....
Youth's Forum.....
Articles.....
Prayer and Testimony.....
Question Time.....
News.....
Story.....

Special Question:
Do you want another serial story? Yes.....
(Mark with an X) No.....

Name.....
Street and Number.....
City.....State.....
Age.....
Member of priesthood?.....
Active in women's work?.....
Teacher?.....

www.LatterDayTruth.org

NEWS BRIEFS

Nauvoo Reunion an Outstanding Experience

Nauvoo reunion really counted in the life experiences of its many attendants this year. The prayer which opened the sessions expressed the wish that the uplifting power of God might be present from the start of the reunion until the close and that the "best of the wine might be reserved for the last of the feast." Such proved to be the case. The Saints were accorded marked spiritual blessings at the early morning prayer meetings held the closing Saturday and Sunday mornings.

Attendance at the reunion this year (July 23 to 30) was better than for two years, and interest in class work was great. Among the helpers were Evangelist and Sister Richard Baldwin, of special meeting renown; Elder E. E. Closson, member of Graceland College's faculty; District President F. T. Mussell, and others.

Missionaries at Kennett, Missouri

When Elders J. Charles May and W. E. Haden moved their gospel tent from Thayer at the close of a successful series of meetings, to Kennett (both towns in Southern Missouri District), they found three other meetings beginning. Nevertheless, they erected the tent two blocks from the courthouse and from the very start had a capacity crowd, three or four hundred being present each night. One evening they had almost six hundred listeners. The series continues with the appreciative help of Kennett Saints.

Crescent's Sunday Evening Service Interests Everyone

The thriving branch at Crescent, Iowa, has worked out a Sunday evening program which attracts and holds the interest of young people, older folk, and children.

They open the service at seven o'clock with a half hour of class work after which a program is given. Then a short sermon is preached, and the entire congregation is dismissed at eight-thirty.

The young people's class of about forty members, is studying the Book of Mormon; the adult class the Doctrine and Covenants, and about fifteen boys and girls compose the children's class.

Santa Barbara Young People Enjoy Mountain Camp

Not long ago the young people of Santa Barbara Branch, California, enjoyed their annual outing at Foster Glen, a mountain camp. This is one of the many free county and State camps in southern California, and has a few cabins free, a number of camp sites, and free water.

A happy time was had by the young people at Foster Glen which is about thirty minutes' drive from Santa Barbara, high up in the historic San Marcos Pass, where General Fremont and his soldiers crossed the mountains at the time they occupied that country. The camp lies on the slope of the mountain which commands a beautiful view of the blue Pacific and the chain of islands some twenty-five miles out to sea.

Moline Couple Bear Faithful Testimony

Brother and Sister Thomas Gainey, of Moline, love to tell their joy in the gospel and their knowledge of its truthfulness. This worthy pair celebrated their sixty-eighth wedding anniversary this year. Brother Gainey is ninety-one years old, and Sister Gainey is eighty-four, but they are faithful Sunday school and church attendants in their branch. They were baptized into the church, July 23, 1905.

Nauvoo Camp Starts Off Well

Attendance at the young people's camp at Nauvoo outnumbers all expectations, according to W. H. Blair, camp treasurer, who returned to Lamoni, Monday (August 7). There were fifty enrolled before he left, and others from Independence, Missouri, Joy, Illinois, and other places were yet to come. The total will probably reach sixty or sixty-five before the close.

Camping conditions are ideal this year. The grounds and buildings are in the best shape they have ever been, the weather, at least at the opening of the camp, was cool, dry and pleasant in every way, and the group started on the two weeks of camping experience with highest anticipations.

A varied program of study, recreation and religious services has been planned under the general supervision of E. E. Closson, camp director.—Lamoni Chronicle.

www.LatterDayTruth.org

Thought Provokers

An Old Covenant

In an old volume of New England Historical and Genealogical Register, appears the following covenant made upon the organization of the First Church of Salem, Massachusetts, August 6, 1629. This was the first church organized in the Massachusetts Bay plantation, and while three centuries have elapsed since these pioneers herein pledged themselves to the service of God and each other, a thoughtful analysis of their covenant will confirm us in a conviction that the principles of right conduct are universal, and are as applicable to us here and now as they were to them in that bygone day. In fact, a careful perusal of their expressed desires and promises can hardly fail to inspire in us a revival of our vision of mutual obligations and a renewal of the pledges we took at the water's edge on the day of our baptism.

May I commend the following to the earnest attention of every devoted Saint, trusting that the Spirit shall bear witness to that which is true and abiding?

AUDENTIA ANDERSON.

"We covenant with our Lord and one another; and we do bind ourselves in the presence of God, to walk together in all his ways, according as he is pleased to reveal himself unto us in his blessed word of truth; and do explicitly, in the name and fear of God, profess and protest to walk as followeth, through the power and grace of our Lord Jesus Christ:

"We avouch the Lord to be our God, and ourselves to be his people, in the truth and simplicity of our spirits.

"We give ourselves to the Lord Jesus Christ and the word of his grace, for the teaching, ruling and sanctifying of us in matters of worship and conversation, resolving to cleave unto him alone for life and glory, and to reject all contrary ways, canons, and constitutions of men, in his worship.

"We do promise to walk with our brethren, with all watchfulness and tenderness, avoiding jealousies and suspicions, back-bitings, censurings, provokings, secret risings of spirit against them; but in all offences to follow the rule of our Lord Jesus, and to bear and forbear, give and forgive, as he hath taught us.

"In public or private we will willingly do nothing to the offence of the church, but will be willing to take advice for ourselves and ours, as occasion shall be presented.

"We will not in the congregation be forward, either to show our own gifts in speaking or scrupling, or there discover the weakness or failings of our brethren; but attend an orderly call thereunto, knowing how much the Lord may be dishonored, and his gospel and the professions of it slighted, by our distempers and weaknesses in public.

"We bind ourselves to study to advancement of the gospel in all truth and peace, both in regard to those that are within or without; no way slighting our sister churches but using their counsel as need shall be; not laying a stumbling-block before any, no, not the Indians, whose good we desire to promote; and so to converse as we may avoid the very appearance of evil.

"We do hereby promise to carry ourselves in all lawful obedience to those that are over us, in church or commonwealth, knowing how well-pleasing it will be to the Lord that they should have encouragement in their places by our not grieving their spirits through our irregularity.

"We resolve to approve ourselves to the Lord in our particular callings, shunning idleness as the bane of any State; nor will we deal hardly or oppressingly with any; wherein we are the Lord's stewards.

"Promising also, unto our best ability to teach our children and servants the knowledge of God, and of his will, that they may serve him also.

"And all this, not by any strength of our own, but by the Lord Christ, whose blood we desire may sprinkle this, our covenant, made in His Name."

The only way to dissipate erroneous impressions is to throw upon them the light of indisputable facts.—Charles Edward Jefferson, in Things Fundamental.

Sin

Shallow minds may say that sin is nothing—a trifle, an immaturity, a besetment we cannot avoid. But the saints have not so described it: their pages are blotted with tears and twisted with anguish. . . . There is an illness no drugs or surgeon's knife can cure. Jesus did not describe sin as a little thing: "If thine eye causeth thee to stumble, pluck it out. If thy hand causeth thee to stumble, cut it off." Thus Jesus spoke of sin. It was the one enemy to be feared: "Be not afraid of them that kill the body"—death was not to be feared: but sin was to be feared as its own hell.—George A. Buttrick, in "Jesus Came Preaching."

Christian Exclusiveness

There was a note of uncompromising exclusiveness in the preaching that followed the day of Pentecost. What the apostles claimed for Jesus Christ, an absolutely solitary and unshared significance, in the presence of the Jews, they claimed for Him before the whole world. For them there were not half a dozen redeemers; not half a dozen ways of salvation; but one way and one saving name. "Christianity to the apostles was not a competitive religion; it was the one absolute religion. The world to which they preached was full of various kinds of religions. People worshiped at the shrines of a thousand different deities. The apostles refused to admit the truth of any one of these religions, or the real existence of any one of these thousand deities. There was but one salvation, and one Name through which that salvation could be obtained."—B. H. Bruner, in Pentecost: A Renewal of Power.

God and You

Morning just at sunrise,
Fresh and sweet with dew,
All the world's a-sleeping:
Only God and you!

Skies of wondrous glory,
Amber, flame, and blue,
Holy silence brooding:
Only God and you!

Hills reflecting splendor,
Rose and violet hue,
Peace and beauty, stillness:
Only God and you!

Meadow lark a-singing,
Clear and sweet and true,
Trees, their green buds bursting:
Only God and you!

Heart of sunrise beauty,
All the long day through,
Holy, holy, holy!
Only God and you!

—Katharine S. Berger, in Youth.

There is an almost universal belief that man's hunger for happiness is just as legitimate as his hunger for bread; and that, far from saying that people have no right to be happy, we ought to see to it that all sorts and conditions of people have at least a fair chance to be happy. The securing of human happiness ought to be one of the goals of an intelligent civilization.

But our generation is not happy.

www.LatterDayTruth.org

Harvest Festival

October 3 to 8, 1933 Independence, Missouri

The Auditorium

The time for the Annual Festival at the Auditorium in Independence will soon be here. All preparations for exhibits should be made at once.

It is the desire of the general church officers that every district or branch send some contribution or exhibit of some kind so as to be represented on the giant relief map being prepared, with each contributor and the location marked. Your exhibit need not consist of bulky canned goods, etc., but may be articles of handiwork made by individuals or groups. Where possible branch contributions should be combined under the district, but if the district is not sending an exhibit, a branch offering will be very acceptable and be given a suitable place.

We need not go into detail as to the good that the Harvest Festival has done and will do for the church. For Independence and surrounding territory the Festival "fruits" have been a great help in solving our food relief problem. Not only this, the gathering together of the various exhibits with the attendant interest of the thousands of visitors has stimulated individual initiative and group cooperation as well as provided a medium for a general gathering under favorable circumstances of thousands of people, both members and nonmembers, with a result that there has been a praiseworthy comment from all.

Let us urge you again to organize in your branches or districts so as to participate in the October Harvest Festival.

—From a letter by PRESIDENT FREDERICK M. SMITH.

www.LatterDayTruth.org

"This One Thing I Do"

By Evan A. Fry

"This one thing I do, forgetting those things which are behind, and reaching forth unto those things which are before, I press toward the mark for the prize of the high calling of God in Christ Jesus."—Phillippians 3: 13, 14.

"Wherefore seeing we also are compassed about with so great a cloud of witnesses, let us lay aside every weight, and the sin which doth so easily beset us, and let us run with patience the race that is set before us."—Hebrews 12: 1.

THE ABOVE TEXTS, as well as other passages in his writings, seem to reveal a side of Paul's character which has been little noted by churchly and religious commentators. Paul was familiar with, and perhaps fond of, the athletic sports and games of the Greek and Roman world of his day. "I have fought a good fight; I have finished my course; I have kept the faith," he wrote to Timothy, as his life drew to a close. On another occasion he wrote, "I fight not as one that beateth the air," signifying that he knew the value of a good concentrated punch delivered purposefully and deliberately and vigorously where it would do the most harm to an opponent.

There is a lesson to be learned even on the athletic field or in the prize ring if one is sincerely looking for it—a lesson of concentration—of the "laying aside of every weight,"—of the focusing of every power of mind and body on the task in hand. Athletes running a hundred yard dash, for instance, discard ordinary cumbersome clothing for a light track suit and light running shoes. The track suit has no pockets—for the runner lays aside every weight, and discards every article which restrains freedom of motion. No runner in his right mind would expect to win a race carrying a suit case bulging with his treasured possessions, or juggling a load on his head, or dragging behind him a wagon load of all the things he thought he might need after the race.

And once the starting gun is fired, every energy, every sense, every nerve and muscle is bent towards the objective—the winning of the race. There is no looking to right or left; no stopping or loitering; no wandering from the way. Drinking soda pop is quite refreshing. Picking wild flowers on country bypaths is a most pleasant pastime. Viewing wonderful scenery is a lot more pleasant than straining nerve and muscle to win a race. Listening to praise and encouragement and applause from others gives us strength and zeal to go on. Stopping to pick a cinder out of your shoe will make the going less painful, perhaps. But, the racer who stopped to drink soda pop, or to look for wild flowers, or to admire beautiful scenery, or to bow to the applause of the grand stands, or to extract a cinder from his shoe, would be hissed by the crowd and regarded as a fool. The athlete who wishes to win a race must say with Paul, "This one thing I do . . . I press toward the mark."

I have been wondering lately whether it is not time for us as individuals and as a church to re-evaluate our lives and our activities in the light of this illustration. We like to quote the passage which says that the hastening time is here, and then go out and try to live up to it. Every branch, I am sure, has its quota of people who are always in a frightful hurry—who always have more than they can do—whose lives are a ceaseless and ofttimes a wearisome round of "church activity." Every branch has its priesthood who are always so busy with church work that they have no time to pay official visits, or do any missionary work. Every pastor finds countless petty demands made upon his time—demands which are all too often successful in drawing him away from the more necessary and important labors of his office. But if all these busy people would take time to analyze and evaluate their activities, we might all be surprised to find how non-essential most of them are after all.

It is not wrong, or against the rules, for racers to drink soda pop, or pick flowers, or admire the scenery, or stop to receive applause, or to remove cinders from their shoes. But it is foolish to stop for those things during a race. There is no law against running a race in a celluloid collar, derby hat, a pair of handcuffs, and a ball and chain, but no runner thus equipped would expect to hang up a new world's record for the hundred-yard dash.

It is not wrong to belong to so many church and Sunday school organizations and committees that you are out somewhere every night in the week; but it may be foolish, if you are forgetting meanwhile that you are supposed to be running a race for spiritual power and supremacy. It is not wrong for the pastor and priesthood to spend so much time raising the budget that they have no time to teach the financial law. Perhaps it is not wrong to hold so many church suppers and socials and entertainments that the people have no money left with which to pay their tithing. It is not wrong to spend so many Sunday sermons observing the countless holidays and days set aside for special causes and groups and organizations that there is rarely time for a gospel sermon. But perhaps these things will all seem very foolish to us when we (Continued on page 1040)

www.LatterDayTruth.org

A BOOK REVIEW

Revelation Among the Mormons
By George B. Arbaugh
University of Chicago Press, 1933
Price $3.00

By S. A. Burgess, Church Historian

It is most interesting to note how many post graduate students are taking some phase of our church history for the theme of their final dissertation for the degree of Doctor of Philosophy or Master of Arts. Of recent years a number of people have been continuously at work on such theses; as one finished one phase, another person has begun a new theme or period of the history. In the spring of 1930 George Arbaugh came to Independence to seek material for such a thesis. The week that he had to spend here was very inadequate to examine the material we have on his subject; though his mind was entirely made up and certain erroneous conclusions already reached on such subjects as the early church history, Joseph Smith, jr., and the Reorganization. He would accept no data from us on these subjects, but for a year following his visit we continued to hunt up old records and pamphlets for him concerning the factions which arose after 1844.

Naturally the first part of his thesis is taken up with Joseph Smith, jr., and the Book of Mormon. We should not be too harsh in our criticism of him, perhaps. Of course he had to get his Ph. D. degree and, equally necessary from his point of view, he must discredit Joseph Smith. So he adopted the theory of the Solomon Spaulding Romance as the basis of the Book of Mormon, which he considers the first revelation of Mormonism. Accordingly, Sidney Rigdon is supposed to have stolen the manuscript from Spaulding and from it to have written the Book of Mormon. In fact for nearly all the revelations to the early church, Rigdon is presented as the "angel" and the real source of inspiration, Joseph Smith as a mere figurehead.

He makes no attempt to present evidence, merely states his conclusions for which he gives many references. To analyze all these references would take a large volume. On the other hand the arguments have been fully answered a number of times in the past. To make the case alleged by this theory requires proof: 1. That there was another manuscript, not the manuscript found by L. L. Rice, though that bore clear idenifying marks and notes, and names of witnesses. This proof has failed for many opposers of the church. It seems to depend upon assertion and then repetition, and grows wonderfully with the years.

2. That Sidney Rigdon had access to the manuscript. Here again the story grows through repetition, though the Rigdon family and the historical records refute the possibility of such access.

3. That Rigdon did steal it.

4. That Rigdon knew Joseph Smith from 1823 to 1829.

5. That Rigdon wrote the Book of Mormon.

Here is offered a line of testimony which would seem somewhat convincing if all other facts are ignored and if we overlook the suspicious tendency of memories to become clearer after fifty years and after many repetitions of the tale. As we trace the development of these stories for a century we can see how from imagination they proceeded to supposition, then assertion became affirmation. This improved memory is not of things that have occurred but of past suggestion and discussion.

Hurlbut and Howe made every effort to prove this theory in 1834. But their proof was inadequate. So the story grew, and finally nearly eighty years later there is published a letter, alleged to have been written by one Saunders in 1887, who says he was introduced to Sidney Rigdon in 1827. That looks valid until we note that it was written sixty years after the event, that efforts had been made some years before to get Saunders to make such a statement, and that if such an introduction then occurred, Saunders was at the advanced age of seven or eight years.

In spite of many statements to the contrary, this is a thin attempt to refute the fact that Joseph Smith and Sidney Rigdon had never met, therefore could not possibly have become closely associated, before December, 1830.

Mr. Arbaugh's manner of argument is well illustrated by his attempt to show that Rigdon was present with Joseph Smith at critical times in Palmyra. A search of the records has shown that Rigdon was regularly in Ohio for the several years in question. Church records, marriage data and other court records all point to a continuous activity and residence in that state. Arbaugh attempts to answer this evidence by stating, "It would be possible with a fast team or stage coach to make a trip in five days, so if we can find fifteen days not accounted for it would give time for a trip there and back and a few days in Palmyra." If it is physically possible for Rigdon to get there our author assumes that he did go there. Since we have legitimately shown that Rigdon was regularly engaged elsewhere, it would seem to the legal mind that the burden of proof lies with the opponent, to show positive evidence that he was present at Palmyra at such intervals. But Mr. Arbaugh demands that we must show just where Rigdon was for days so closely together as to preclude the possibility of his making a trip to New York or to eastern Pennsylvania. If there remains a physical possibility that Rigdon could have made the trip, he assumes that he did go and work with Joseph Smith throughout these years, regardless of all evidence to the contrary. The whole story is an assumption of fact, the "proof" lacks conviction except for one who first makes his decision, then ignores all that does not uphold his theory.

www.LatterDayTruth.org

Some objections to the Spaulding Romance story are countered by the statement that only one eighth of the Book of Mormon is claimed to have been derived from the Spaulding manuscript; that all the remaining seven eighths is Rigdon's story. But if Rigdon could write seven parts, why should he bother with the Spaulding source for the other part. Would he not logically have been equal to the whole product?

Though the church has told a consistent story for years, while her opponents have changed with every wind and become remarkably more detailed in their statements the farther they get from the scent; Mr. Arbaugh asks one to believe that all witnesses who do not accept or confirm the Spaulding theory simply are liars and that the story of the start of the church, told so consistently by so many witnesses, is pure fiction. But we do thank him for his unqualified rejection (in the appendix) of all other theories, including specifically Riley's hypothesis of paranoia and fits and Prince's peculiarly ingenious name theory. These are other students who have earned their degrees by digging up new theories as to the origin of the Latter Day Restoration movement. These two men and others reject Mr. Arbaugh's Spaulding theory. Soon, if this process keeps up, every new theory will be disproved by a majority of writers and only the strong original story will be left.

The author refuses to be concerned with our ideas of what constitutes revelation, and so he accuses us of inconsistency in not accepting the Book of Abraham. This work, however, was never accepted by the church, nor was it presented as revelation. Joseph Smith wrote that he worked on a dictionary for it. It is a fact that he studied Hebrew and read other works of the orient. But the church does not take everything Joseph Smith said or wrote as divinely inspired. Joseph Smith urged more than once that a prophet does not always speak with prophetic vision, the human side must have expression at times. There is no inconsistency here with our ideas of revelation. But our rejection of the Book of Abraham does not fit in with Mr. Arbaugh's theory.

Mr. Arbaugh thinks he is announcing a great discovery when he states that George Miller wrote about 1855 that "United States is not our friend" (evidently because of serious loss of property and of life in Missouri and no redress) then that fifty-three princes were chosen as a council with reference to the kingdom of God. He deduces from this that Joseph Smith planned to be elected President and to use the military resources to make himself king. Failing in that plan he would go to Texas to establish a kingdom. Joseph Smith's many declarations and acts of loyalty are disregarded, as is also the fact that members of his family volunteered and bought to save the Union in 1861-1865. In fact, when Lyman Wight took a colony of the church people to Texas he fought loyally to uphold the government there.

The Masonic order has kings and princes but it is not considered therefore disloyal. Many churches have the cross and crown displayed and talk of the kingdom of heaven but that does not prove them treasonable. The fact that some people under oppression make strong statements does not make them traitors.

The author states an unqualified denial of the fact that "Young Joseph" was ordained to succeed his father. He does not take into consideration our position that Joseph was not ordained in the sense that a man is actually ordained to the priesthood, but rather set apart and designated by his father to become his successor. He gives no reference to show that he is aware of this claim. His only reference is to an attack upon the church which so misrepresents the facts that it was disregarded as unworthy an answer. In this reference a quotation is made from the testimony of Joseph Smith III in the Temple Lot suit. But the quotation stops in the midst of a sentence which, if it had been completely quoted, would have defeated the purpose of the reference. Indeed the completion of the sentence clearly indicates that Joseph was blessed and set apart by his father. This naivety of the author, who continually omits all that does not suit his purpose is most amazing. We cannot say he knowingly suppresses the facts, since he may have avoided learning them in this and other matters.

Mr. Arbaugh accuses the Reorganization of suppressing the first volume of the Saints' Herald. The facts are: 1. Because of the small membership of the church the circulation was small and only a limited number were published in the first place. Of these, many were lost, and those on file in the church library were destroyed in the fire of 1907 which burnt the Herald Pub- (Continued on page 1040)

www.LatterDayTruth.org

ZIONIC JOB INSURANCE

By L. S. WIGHT

IN A CONVERSATION recently with one of the newly elected Congressmen in Illinois, we were discussing some of the ways in which pressure is constantly brought to bear on our representatives. As one of the ridiculous proposals which are always made in times of stress, he gave me the following example. One of his constituents proposed that he introduce a bill in Congress to provide for a pension to all men over sixty years of age, as a sure way to end the depression. He suggested that the money for this could "easily be obtained" by adding "just a little tax" to each man from twenty-one to sixty. What a familiar sound that has. The man probably did not realize that the principal cause of our continued depression is the fact that "just a little tax" has been added to so many things that for months we have seen our government costs entirely out of balance. Industry could make no plans because of the ever-present danger of further tax costs, therefore activity has continued to decrease, and the situation has continued to get worse instead of better until it has reached what we hope is the climax in the bank moratorium.

When I asked the congressman the age of the man who made this suggestion, he laughingly asked, "How old do you suppose? Do you think he would have made the suggestion if he had been under sixty?" And that is the reason for my putting this story in this article. Here is another way of expressing the fear that seems to be in the mind of every one of us. The fear of uncertainty. We all want some kind of security. Salvation to most people is assurance of the thing they most highly prize. To some, the greatest goal of life is assurance that the next life will be one of ease. The Indian looked forward to nothing more than a perpetual happy hunting ground. I have even heard of Latter Day Saints paying tithing as a sort of premium on fire insurance.

THERE ARE THOSE who look forward to freedom from labor. They wear their very lives out in the effort to accumulate enough to quit work entirely. Because of the motive, they miss the real fun of work while working hard, as well as the very goal for which they have labored. Why? Because it is well known that with inactivity deterioration or death of the body begins immediately, especially when the change has been too sudden or radical. Such an individual could hardly enjoy the security of happiness that must have been the lot of a certain lady whom we may call "Aunt Mary." The story is told that she, living alone, had only one thought in mind. That was to help her neighbors whenever and wherever she could, especially in sickness or trouble. In giving such service, she of course could not be at church regularly. At her funeral, one good brother who was always in his amen corner made the remark that "Aunt Mary was a good woman but not very religious." To him the expression of religion was the outward appearance of paying his salvation dues by being in church regularly. His effort was to get. To her the expression of religion was giving service regardless of whether or not she was seen by the crowd. Her effort was to give. Her actual security in the happiness of being a blessing to mankind by giving service is very seldom reached by those who think only of getting some particular thing.

ONE OF OUR BISHOPS told me some years ago about a certain family which had always enjoyed life. The father and husband had a fixed income which was good. The family paid something to the church occasionally, had been regular attendants and thought they were doing what they could for the church. When the head of the family died the wife and children felt that inasmuch as they had been such "faithful" members of the church, the church should in some way take care of them. Investigation disclosed that the total which they had paid into the church, although well able to do much more, was less than the amount it would have required to pay for an ordinary life insurance policy of only $1,000. Yet their expression of the human desire for security was a request that the church do more than could reasonably be expected. They had probably not taken time to figure that the "church" is only a group of individuals and can do only what the members make possible by conservation and wise use of whatever they produce.

By this time the reader may wonder why "Zionic Job Insurance" has been selected as the title to this article. The reason is simply that the very purpose of looking forward to building a Zion has back of it the goal of security. And since Zion building has to do with material things it is only natural and logical that each one of us look forward to Zion as a place which can give us "Job Insurance." By that I mean the assurance that the man who is willing to work can always find something to do. Such should be one of the outstanding objectives of Zion. There are certain types of work which of necessity fluctuate and certainly there should be some way to bring about a balance so that those engaged in such types of work can always feel that no matter what the situation in their particular field, there never will need to be any idle days in Zion.

www.LatterDayTruth.org

Quite an ambitious hope that is for a community of human beings, but that such hope is justified in the hearts of men is easily borne out in a reading of the Doctrine and Covenants. There are many sections which indicate that Zion as a place of refuge will assure to every loyal Latter Day Saint a chance to use his abilities with regularity, which in common terms means job insurance in one form or another. The eighth verse of Section 64 is perhaps as strong as we need to quote: "And even the bishop, who is a judge, and his counselors, if they are not faithful in their stewardships, shall be condemned, and others shall be planted in their stead; for, behold, I say unto you that Zion shall flourish, and the glory of the Lord shall be upon her, and she shall be an ensign unto the people, and there shall come unto her out of every nation under heaven. And the day shall come, when the nations of the earth shall tremble because of her, and shall fear because of her terrible ones. The Lord hath spoken it. Amen."

Of course this quotation does not say that every man in Zion will be assured of a job, but it does say in effect that every faithful man will always find plenty to do, else how could Zion flourish? What I mean is that a way will be found to keep every man productively employed. As to how that can be done is a problem in itself and a big one. But it is one that can be solved by a unity of purpose in those who make up our Zionic communities.

THAT THERE IS A NEED for some such solution to our problems is obvious. The desperate conditions which we have faced for months certainly indicate that each one of us should do his part to help find the solution to our problems. As I write this I am sitting in a hotel away from home and friends, with the national bank moratorium having closed nearly everything. It happens that I am in a community of about 36,000 population with eight banks. During all previous trouble when banks have failed all over the land, not a bank here has closed its doors and the people had come to think that they never would. The sudden closing of all of them is a new experience to these people and it was actually amusing the first day to see the panicky feeling gripping so many. However, in a week's time they have learned to do business without money as so many others have been forced to do.

We hope that the bank moratorium will prove to be the climax of our worst troubles. The outstanding thing which should cause us concern is that people have been starving in the midst of plenty. In a land so rich in natural resources, peopled by those who still have the courage of pioneers, and with developed methods of doing business which have brought unlimited privileges to many, we see our system of distribution broken down. Food of all kinds is left to rot in all sections of the country simply because there is no profit in shipping it to those who need. This of course has been a favorite subject of the agitator who would stir up revolt against the government, but that does not help solve the problem as we need it solved. I mention this simply to impress the thought that in looking forward to working in a Zionic community we should expect all problems to be solved for the best interests of all. And also that in some way plans can be made to assure to every one who wants to work that there will always be something for him to do. I believe this can be done without too much artificial attempt to control natural laws.

In Doctrine and Covenants 101: 2 we find the following: ". . . I, the Lord, stretched out the heavens, and builded the earth as a very handy work; and all things therein are mine; and it is my purpose to provide for my saints, for all things are mine; but it must needs be done in mine own way; and, behold, this is the way, that I, the Lord, have decreed to provide for my saints: that the poor shall be exalted, in that the rich are made low; for the earth is full, and there is enough and to spare; yea, I prepared all things, and have given unto the children of men to be agents unto themselves. Therefore, if any man shall take of the abundance which I have made, and impart not his portion, according to the law of my gospel, unto the poor, and the needy, he shall, with the wicked, lift up his eyes in hell, being in torment." When God tells us so plainly that there is enough for all, with some to spare, why shouldn't we question the reason for the present situation in which we all find ourselves. Why shouldn't we take steps to find the way to solve these problems? If we fail, we will find ourselves in the midst of turmoil the consequences of which we cannot escape.

TO A VERY LIMITED EXTENT I quote from a recent interview with President William Green of the American Federation of Labor. This interview was given to the business men of this country through Nation's Business, the official organ of the United States Chamber of Commerce. I wish it were possible to quote the entire interview, as it is hard to do justice to it by picking out a few passages here and there, but at least (Continued on page 1039)

www.LatterDayTruth.org

Weekly Health Letter

Yellow Fever

By A. W. Teel, M. D., Church Physician

Yellow fever is a memory to us. In 1900 Guiteras called attention to the fact that yellow fever was never absent from Havana, Vera Cruz and Rio. It is a stranger now in all these places.

Yellow fever is caused by the bite of the mosquito which has been infected by previously biting a person suffering from this disease. It remained for Doctor Walter Reed, and three American volunteers, to expose themselves to this disease, in order that a thorough study of it could be made. These brave men, being suspicious that the bite of the mosquito was the cause of it, subjected themselves to the bites of the various, many types of these insects. One of the most difficult problems was to find out which one, or type of mosquito, was the cause of the malady. Within the past twenty-five years, as a result of these experimenters' knowledge, the prevention and treatment of yellow fever have been the means of Havana, and other infected areas, being clean and healthy.

The variety of mosquito found to be the cause of this disease has been given the high-sounding book name "Stegomyia Fasciata." The blood of this variety of mosquito was found to contain the germ, and when the mosquito bites the victim, the germ is passed from the mosquito to man. Symptoms begin in about five days after the bite, with a rapidly increasing temperature, preceded by a hard chill, aching head and back. The face becomes flushed, and jaundice puts in a slight appearance within the first twenty-four hours. Early diagnosis is highly important, and a urinalysis should be made in all cases which contain albumin.

It is called the yellow fever, because of its peculiar lemon-yellowlike discoloration of the skin. In about three days the symptoms abate for about twenty-four hours, and then comes the second stage of fever, the stage of collapse, or shock and black vomit. Many cases are not easy to diagnose, and can be cleared up only at the autopsy, where the box-board liver, that is so characteristic of this disease, is found.

Undoubtedly in Book of Mormon times, those who settled in this region must have suffered greatly from this malady. Since the discovery of the cause of this mosquito-board disease, it has been possible to build the Panama Canal, before which all attempts were futile. Yellow fever sufferers survive where very careful medical attention and nursing is had.

Few men, such as Doctor Walter Reed and his coworkers, have done so much for the cause of humanity.

ZIONIC JOB INSURANCE

(Continued from page 1038.)

these will suffice for my purpose in this article. At the annual meeting of this organization in Cincinnati last fall, President Green made a speech that was referred to in the press as "Green's fighting speech." It aroused so much comment that the interview from which I quote was requested to get direct from President Green the reasons for making such a speech. Here are some of the statements:

"Out of the recent American Federation of Labor convention in Cincinnati came the words, 'Forceful Methods' spoken by President William Green in the midst of what has been described as the most 'fighting speech' of his career. He was speaking for the six-hour day, the five-day week and higher wages." He was asked, ". . . 'What are the 'forceful methods' you had in mind when you addressed the convention?' . . . 'Labor has no secrets as far as principles are concerned,' said President Green. 'But labor, with all due deference to the opinions and the rights of others, does not need to confide its plans and its strategy to a world, much of which labor regards as bitterly hostile and menacing, not merely to organized labor, but to the millions of working people.' . . . 'We gave government every opportunity to produce a remedy. We gave management every opportunity to produce a remedy. We gave finance every opportunity. We went into conference with employers at the request of the President when the depression, as it is so foolishly called by many, was yet young. We agreed to refrain from drastic action if employers would refrain from drastic action. . . . American wage rates have, in all but a few lines, been destroyed. Worse than that, more than eleven million American breadwinners have no work, have had none for months and have no prospect of getting any. Is it only workers who can understand the meaning, in our homes, of such a condition? Can counting houses not understand its meaning, even a little bit? In addition to these millions of unemployed, other millions are working part time—a day, two days, three days a week. The whole living standard of those still at work has been changed. Finally after three years of suffering we, the organized workers, declare to the world, 'Enough; we shall use our might to compel the plain remedies withheld by those whose misfeasance caused our woe.' . . . 'We shall fight with every legitimate weapon at our command to restore the kind of America in which a man can have a chance in his own right. There has been a fear that we are in earnest. Let me use this opportunity to double-rivet the assurance that we are in earnest. The measure of our earnestness is the measure of the hunger of those who have no work and no food, of those who are being cast into the streets and driven to the gutters in exhaustion at the end of a long and futile search for work and economic safety. . . . We are out to end legalized robbery in the United States. I am aware that this declaration may sound harsh. Why not? Can anything be harsher to the privileged than the words 'There is no work' are to the unemployed? . . . Those whose stomachs have never writhed in the pain of hunger have no right to counsel patience. We are hearing today the counsels of the great millions. . . . I said in Cincinnati, speaking of the work-week of 30 hours, that "This great reform will be given to us in response to reason, or we will take it through force of some kind."

I realize that these scattered quotations cannot and do not give a complete picture of what Mr. Green said, but they are enough to suggest that some kind of remedy must be found to give men the security they have a right to look for, or there is no telling what will happen.

www.LatterDayTruth.org

