and of thy brethren the prophets, and of them which keep the sayings of this book." It appears from this that God's people become angels after death, and as I believe that we will retain about the same form in the next life that we have in this, I must conclude that the angelic form is similar to the human.

But I can hardly accept Mr. S.'s idea that heaven itself is in the form of a man, or that a whole society of angels appears like a single individual; except in the sense in which Paul speaks of the church on earth, comparing it to the human body with its several members: Christ being the head and others performing the offices of eyes, ears, hands, etc.; and all so intimately connected that when one member suffers, the whole body suffers with it. In that sense I think that heaven may very appropriately be compared to the human body.

I believe that heaven corresponds to man in this respect: that as man's environments in this life correspond with the requirements of his human nature, there being air for his lungs, color and beautiful landscapes to gratify the eye, and musical sounds to charm the ear, so his environments in the next life will be such as to satisfy his spiritual nature. And as I believe that we shall retain our individuality there, beginning the next life about as we end this, retaining our present nature and characteristics, except so far as the same will be purified and exalted (which process will itself be a work of time and progression, not a sudden and miraculous change of ourselves into somebody else), our environments there must correspond in some degree to our environments here, only they will be much more grand and delightful.

I believe that heaven corresponds with the earth in the fact that they are both governed by the same natural laws. The same God created them both, and as heaven was created before the earth, the laws which God there established were extended into this world. In other words, the earth was created in accordance with the laws of heaven.

As we are to have material bodies in the resurrection, composed of flesh and bones, like Christ's glorious body, I believe with Mr. S. that we shall have dwellings in the next life, but they will be composed of the most beautiful and substantial materials. They will not be gaseous or imaginary. Mr. S. has much to say about correspondences, but an imaginary dwelling for a material body would be entirely out of all correspondence.

I agree with Mr. S. that there will be governments, laws, order and regulations in heaven. There will be no anarchy or confusion there; no strikes, lockouts, boycotts and rowdysim. God will be king and angels will be officers. Some of the men who have become angels will share in that authority.

"And Jesus said unto them,

Verily I say unto you, That ye which have followed me, in the regeneration when the Son of Man shall sit in the throne of his glory, ye also shall sit upon twelve thrones, judging the twelve tribes of Israel."—Matt. 19: 28.

Paul writes to the Corinthian brethren:

"Do ye not know that the saints shall judge the world? and if the world shall be judged by you, are ye unworthy to judge the smallest matters? Know ye not that ye shall judge angels? How much more things that pertain to this life?"—1 Cor. 6: 2, 3.

John, speaking of those who were martyred for the cause of Christ, says: "And I saw thrones, and they sat upon them, and judgment was given unto them, * * * And they lived and reigned with Christ a thousand years."—Rev. 20: 4.

But the laws will not be burdensome or oppressive, but will be such as we shall delight to obey, knowing that they represent the will of a loving Father and were established for our good. We shall need no penalties to keep us within the limits of the law.

I believe with Mr. S. that angels wear garments, for the Bible informs us that they wore them in ancient times (white and shining), and those who have visited the earth in modern times were also clothed; but I believe their garments are material and substantial. I do not believe that we shall go parading about heaven clothed in imaginary garments.

In speaking of the speech of angels, it seems to me that Mr. S. is a little self-contradictory. On page 129, paragraph 237, he says: "That angelic language has not anything in common with human languages, is evident from this, that it is impossible for the angels to utter one word of human language; this has been tried but they could not."

Then on page 134, paragraph 240, he says:

"The angels who speak with man do not speak in their own language but in the man's language, and also in the other languages with which the man is acquainted." On page 135, paragraph 248, he says, "The speech of an angel or a spirit with man is heard as sonorously as the speech of a man with a man; yet it is not heard by others who stand near, but by himself alone." Then he goes on to explain why it is impossible for an angel to be heard and understood by more than one person.

And yet when the angel spoke to the women at the sepulchre (Matt. 28, Mark 16 and Luke 24) they heard and understood. So also did the shepherds when the angelic choir sang "Glory to God in the highest, and on earth peace, good will toward men." (Luke 2: 13).

Again, on page 136, paragraph 249, he says,

"To speak with spirits at this day is seldom given, since it is dangerous: for then the spirits know that they are with man, which otherwise they do not know. * * * Some also who lead a solitary life sometimes hear spirits speaking with them, and without danger: but the spirits with them are for intervals removed by the Lord, lest they should know that they are with man; for most spirits do not know that there is any other world than that in which they are; thus also they do not know that there are men elsewhere; and therefore it is not lawful for man to speak in turn with them, for if he should they would know it."

But we learn from the Bible that the angels are God's messengers and were often sent to men on errands of mercy and for man's instruction; and Paul says, "Are they not all ministering spirits, sent forth to minister for them who shall be heirs of salvation." (Heb. 1: 14).

Now, from my study of the Bible I have always gathered the idea that angels were superior to men and were able to instruct us. Is it possible that God's messengers, having been sent so often to minister to mankind, never knew whither they were sent, to whom they were sent, or that there ever was such a world as this, or any men in it, or any world other than their own, or any people outside of their own special sphere?

I can easily accept Mr. S's idea that there are schools and divine services in heaven, for I believe that our life there will be one of eternal progression. We were not created to sit still and vegetate through the eternal ages. There can be no such thing as remaining stationary. We must either advance or retrograde, and heaven is a place for growth and development. And as the school and the church are important agencies in our mental and spiritual growth in this life, so there will be corresponding agencies to help us in our mental and spiritual advancement there.

From these things it is quite natural to suppose that there are books and writings in heaven. In fact, we are told in the Bible that a book of remembrance is kept, that there is a book of life there, that the names of Christ's people are recorded in heaven, and that we are to be judged at last out of those things which are written in the books.

It is also natural to suppose that there are books there to be used for our mental and spiritual improvement. I do not think, though, that the writings in those books will say one thing and mean another, or that the instructions therein contained will be obscured and hidden from those who study them. In fact I believe the instructions that we shall receive there will be much clearer to our comprehension than our earthly studies are in our present state.

I believe with Mr. S. that the future of the heathen man who has lived up to the best light that he had will be preferable to that of the christian, so-called, who has lived a wicked life. I believe this, not only from my estimate of God's character, but also from the teachings of Scripture. I do not exactly agree with Mr. S., however, as to the future state of the heathen man; but this subject is so vast that I can only touch upon it briefly here.

I know that it is a generally accepted belief among Protestant christians that a man's eternal destiny is fixed at death; that he then enters his eternal home, that home being either heaven or hell. I once held that view myself, but having since made a more careful and thorough study of the Scriptures on that point I find that that idea is a great mistake.

Peter said on the day of Pentecost, "For David is not ascended into the heavens." (Acts 2: 34). And Jesus said to Nicodemus, "No man hath ascended up to heaven, but he that came down from heaven, even the Son of man which is in heaven." (John 3: 13). Some will remind us that the thief went to Paradise with Christ on the day of his crucifixion. Very true; but Paradise is not heaven. Christ himself said to Mary three days later, "I am not yet ascended to my Father." (John 20: 17).

Paradise is a place of rest where the spirits of good men and women await the first resurrection, which will take place at the coming of Christ and the ushering in of the millennium. Then, if we are worthy to have part in that first resurrection, we shall reign with Christ a thousand years.

Christ said, "I go to prepare a place for you. And if I go and prepare a place for you, I will come again and receive you unto myself; that where I am, there ye may be also."—John 14: 2, 3. Christ has not yet come again. He did not come in 1757. There was no resurrection then, neither was the millennium ushered in then; nor is it here now. The devil does not seem to be chained yet. The nations have not ceased to learn war, but at present they are learning more of the science of war than ever before. The earth is not yet freed from its thorns, thistles, weeds and briars. The lion has not yet learned to eat straw like the ox, and if the wolf is dwelling with the lamb and the leopard lying down with the kid, the lamb is inside of the wolf and the kid inside of the leopard.

The man who is destined for heaven at last is not yet fitted to enter that place where God and all the holy angels are. He would be very miserable if he were placed there now. He must pass through Paradise, the resurrection, the millennium, the little season and the Judgment day before he can enter the New Jerusalem. (See 1 Thess. 4: 13-18; 1 Cor. 15: 12-28; Rev. 20 and 21).

But how about the heathen man who has never heard of Christ; who has died without law? Can he ever get to heaven? We are told that no one can be saved except through Christ.

"Neither is there salvation in any other: for there is none other name under heaven given among men whereby we must be saved."—Acts 4: 12.

"For other foundation, can no man lay than that is laid, which is Jesus Christ."—1 Cor. 3: 11.

But a great percentage of the human race (in fact, nearly the whole from Adam down to the present generation) have never heard of Christ.

"How then shall they call on him in whom they have not believed? and how shall they believe in him of whom they have not heard? and how shall they hear without a preacher?"—Rom. 10: 14.

Will God then condemn all those people to everlasting torment because they have not believed in a Savior of whom they never heard because they were so unfortunate as to be born at such an age and place that to hear of him was impossible, and at the same time save us because we were born under more fortunate circumstances? We are told that God is no respecter of persons (Acts 10: 34), but this would be partiality of the very worst kind since the time and place of our birth is a matter over which neither we nor they had any control whatever. How then is this matter to be righted?

How is justice to be rendered in this case? We are told (Luke 12: 48), "But he that knew not and did commit things worthy of stripes shall be beaten with few stripes." Few stripes cannot mean everlasting torment. Again, "Verily I say unto thee, Thou shalt by no means come out thence till thou hast paid the uttermost farthing."—Matt. 5: 26.

These words clearly imply that when the sinner has suffered the full penalty of his sin, the punishment will cease. What is God's purpose in punishing the sinner? Is it to gratify his desire for revenge? No, indeed. That would be contrary to God's character. He punishes the sinner for the same reason that an earthly parent sometimes punishes his child; not because he hates him, but in order to reform him, to raise him to a higher, nobler and more desirable condition.

"For they [our earthly parents] verily for a few days chastened us after their own pleasure; but he [God] for our profit, that we might be partakers of his holiness. Now no chastening for the present seemeth joyous, but grievous; nevertheless, afterward it yieldeth the peaceable fruit of righteousness unto them which are exercised thereby."—Heb. 12: 10, 11.

Now what possible good can accrue to either God or man by continuing the punishment after the purpose for which that punishment was instituted has been accomplished?

"As I live, saith the Lord God, I have no pleasure in the death of the wicked; but that the wicked turn from his way and live."—Ezek. 33: 11.

But what is to be his lot after his punishment ends? Can he then enter into the kingdom of heaven? If so, he must come in through the door, that is, through Christ. Jesus says:

"I am the door: by me if any man enter in, he shall be saved, and shall go in and out, and find pasture."—John 10: 9.

"He that entereth not by the door into the sheepfold, but climbeth up some other way, the same is a thief and a robber."—John 10: 1.

But very few of the human race, comparatively speaking, ever heard of Christ in this life. And yet we're told concerning him, that,

"That was the true light which lighteth every man that cometh in to the world."—John 1: 9.

And the angel said to the shepherd, "Behold, I bring you good tidings of great joy, which shall be to all people."—Luke 2: 10.

Notice that the light, the joy, and the good tidings were for all people, every man, not for a favored few: favored, not for their superior goodness or piety, but because of the times, places and circumstances of their birth.

"For therefore we both labour and suffer reproach, because we trust in the living God, who is the Saviour of all men, specially of those that believe. These things command and teach."—1 Tim. 4: 10, 11.

"And he [Christ] is the propitiation for our sins: and not for ours only, but also for the sins of the world."—1 John 2: 2.

But how are all these statements and promises to be fulfilled in the case of those who have died without a knowledge of Christ? Has God held out false promises? I think not. Jesus says (Matt. 16: 18), "Upon this rock I will build my church; and the gates of hell shall not prevail against it." But if death ends all opportunity for salvation, the gates of hell (or what I consider a better translation, the gates of the grave) do prevail against the power of the church. But Christ says positively that they shall not. They may seem to prevail for a season, but they shall not prevail in the end.

The Bible often represents the soul of the wicked as confined in a prison. It is also called a pit. But how shall they be delivered?

"The Spirit of the Lord God is upon me: because the Lord hath anointed me [Christ] to preach good tidings unto the meek; he hath sent me to bind up the broken-hearted, to proclaim liberty to the captives, and the opening of the prison to them that are bound."—Isa. 61: 1.

"I, the Lord, have called thee [Christ] in righteousness, and will hold thine hand, and will keep thee, and give thee for a covenant of the people, for a light of the Gentiles; To open the blind eyes, to bring out the prisoners from the prison, and them that sit in darkness out of the prison house."—Isa. 42: 6, 7.

Again, "That thou mayest say to the prisoners, Go forth, to them that are in darkness. Show yourselves. They shall feed in the days, and their pasture shall be in high places."—Isa. 49: 9.

In Zech. 9: 11, we read: "As for thee also, by the blood of thy covenant I have sent forth thy prisoners out of the pit wherein is no water."

This is evidently the pit where the rich man was praying for water. In Ezekiel 31: 16 to 18, we find the expressions, hell, the pit, and nether parts of the earth all refer to the same place: that Pharaoh and his host went there, and that they were at some future time to be comforted there. The pit is evidently in the heart of the earth, and the graves in the sides of the pit, spoken of in Ezekiel 32: 23, are evidently at the surface of the earth.

"And they shall be gathered together, as prisoners are gathered in the pit, and shall be shut up in the pit, and after many days shall they be visited."—Isa. 24: 22.

Now when did these promises of being visited and comforted and delivered from the prison begin to have their fulfillment? Jesus said (Matt. 12: 40), "For as Jonas was three days and three nights in the whale's belly; so shall the son of man be three days and three nights in the heart of the earth."

He must have referred here to his spirit, for his body was in Joseph's new tomb at the surface of the earth. But what was he doing in the heart of the earth? Peter says, 1 Peter 3: 18 to 20:

"For Christ also hath once suffered for sins, the just for the unjust, that he might bring us to God, being put to death in the flesh, but quickened by the Spirit: By which also [the original and the revised both say, in which also] he went and preached unto the spirits in prison; which sometime were disobedient, when once the long-suffering of God waited in the days of Noah while the ark was a preparing."

Why was he preaching to those spirits in prison? See fourth chapter, sixth verse.

"For for this cause was the gospel preached also to them that are dead [the original and revised say, For unto this end was the gospel preached even to the dead] that they might be judged according to men in the flesh, but live according to God in the spirit."

What were some of the results of that preaching?

"Wherefore he saith, When he ascended up on high, he led captivity captive [the marginal reading says, a multitude of captives] and gave gifts unto men. Now that he ascended, what is it but that he also descended into the lower [or nether] parts of the earth."—Eph. 4: 8, 9.

"And he laid his right hand upon me, saying unto me, Fear not: I am the first and the last: I am he that liveth and was dead; and behold I am alive forevermore, Amen; and have the keys of hell and of death."—Rev. 1: 17, 18.

[TO BE CONTINUED.]

ANNOUNCEMENT.

Having been in ill health during the past two years, I have not been actively engaged in business; but my health now being much improved, I have accepted a proposition from a large Clothing and Clean Establishment to handle their line of goods, and am again prepared to offer my old patrons Good Value in clothing at very low prices. Thanking all for past favors, I now solicit your patronage in the future; I also desire to make new friends and solicit correspondence. Will give special discounts to ministry. Prince Albert Suits a specialty.

Respectfully,
GILBERT J. WHITEHEAD.
1019 Francis St., St. Joseph, Mo.

JOTS BY THE WAYSIDE.

BY T. W. CHATBURN.

Camp ground, Los Angeles, California.—According to command we are here adding our mite to the success of the meetings. The reunion was, by agreement, declared off, in consequence of hard times brought about by the continued drouth, and two days' meetings substituted; each branch to have such meetings. The Los Angeles branch, however, concluded to extend their meeting for eight days longer. Quite a few tents are on the ground, and it looks just a little natural, but so far behind the reunions in the Zion land that the contrast is painful; however, it is fairly well attended for a branch meeting. The grounds are beautiful and very convenient indeed. Bro. A. H. Smith, Gomer Griffiths, A. Carmichael, Van Fleet, T. W. Williams, D. A. Anderson, Joseph Burton and T. W. Chatburn make up the ministerial force.

Preaching is fair to excellent; Gomer's chart sermons on the lines of priesthood are educators to both elder and laity. A few of the Brighamite elders attended, President Nye heading them; he was anxious to have an introduction to the "Jot man;" had heard considerably of him; said, however, he was not a fighting man, he was a man of peace—O how the mighty have fallen—how smooth and sleek they are, so "overwhelmingly affectionate."

Bro. Alexander goes to San Bernardino for next Saturday and Sunday, then to Garden Grove on the following Saturday and Sunday. The Saints are delighted to see "Uncle Alex."

We have held four weeks of tent meetings at Orange, and will continue another week, commencing again on Tuesday night. We had quite a tilt with the Brighamites on the streets of Santa Ana last Saturday night; by pre-arrangement we had the boys to circle them around and not let them out, which they did very successfully—while we told them a "bit" of their history, to the joyful satisfaction of the immense crowd. They would not reply.

ENTERTAINING conversation is not alone dependent upon a well-stored mind, a ready wit or broad culture. It lays under contribution qualities of heart as well as head, and should reveal sincerity, sympathy and simplicity. We must feel an interest in our subject before we can inspire it, and enthusiasm is contagious when it is sincere. It gives animation to the face, vivacity to the manner, and has a thought-compelling power that aids fluency of expression.—August Ladies' Home Journal.

Dairy For Sale or Lease.

Fifteen good milk cows, one two-year old short horn bull. Milk and butter tools, cans and wagon; also house and barns to shelter all of stock; also 30 tons of hay if wanted. Inquire of John Allison, 702 South Avenue, Independence, Mo.

ECZEMA, ITCHING HUMORS, PIMPLES, CURED BY B. B. B.

BOTTLE FREE TO SUFFERERS.

Does your skin itch and burn? Distressing eruptions on the skin so you feel ashamed to be seen in company? Do scabs and scales form on the skin, hair or scalp? Have you eczema? Skin sore and cracked? Rash form on the skin? Prickling pain in the skin? Boils? Pimples? Bone pains? Swollen joints? Falling hair? All run down? Skin pale? Old sores? Biting sores? Ulcers? All these are symptoms of Eczema and impurities and poisons in the blood. To cure take B. B. B. (Botanic Blood Balm), which makes the blood pure and rich. B. B. B. will cause the sores to heal, itching of eczema to stop forever, the skin to become clear and the breath sweet. B. B. B. is just the remedy you have been looking for. Thoroughly tested for thirty years. ENSIGN readers are advised to try B. B. B. For sale by druggists at $1 per large bottle; six large bottles (full treatment) $5. Complete directions with each bottle. So sufferers may test B. B. B., a trial bottle given away at our office, or send five cents, which pays exact cost of postage (the medicine is free), and address Blood Balm Co., 86 Mitchell St., Atlanta, Ga., and medicine sent at once by return mail. Describe your trouble and free, personal, medical advice given.

Low Rates.

HOME SEEKERS' EXCURSIONS.

The Missouri Pacific Railway and the Iron Mountain Route are now running a series of excursions to the west and southwest and to points in Arkansas, Louisiana and Texas, at the very low rate of one fare for the round trip, plus two dollars. Detailed information will be cheerfully furnished, as well as maps, folders, time cards, and illustrated pamphlets on the various states, by addressing H. C. Townsend, General Passenger and Ticket Agent, St. Louis, Mo., or F. A. Millard, City Agent, Independence, Mo.

CURED OF CANCER.

ONE OF MICHIGAN'S MOST PROMINENT CITIZENS, AT THE AGE OF 74, CURED OF CANCER, PRO-NOUNCED INCURABLE BY SEVERAL PHYSICIANS, CURED BY DR. WM. O. BYE.

Caledonia, Mich., Aug. 19, '99.
DR. W. O. BYE:

Dear Sir:—I can report my cancer as entirely healed up and shows but a very slight scar, which is more than I expected, considering the very large cavity after the cancer came out. I had shown it, previously to using your treatment, to our local physicians and they all pronounced it incurable, except one who thought perhaps the knife would help, but advised not to meddle with it, but your cure has done the job and that without any pain, and I am sure I am very grateful.

Very truly,
J. B. PROCTOR.

This case was cured with home treatment. A free book is sent telling what they say of the treatment. Address DR. BYE, Drawer 1111, Kansas City, Mo. (If not afflicted out this out and send to some suffering one.)

Books and Pamphlets

PRICE LIST

- "FROM PALMYRA TO INDEPENDENCE," by Elder R. Etzenhour, 444 pages; cloth binding..... $1 00
- "PAPER AND PENCIL," by Elder R. Etzenhour, 377 pages; cloth bound; 3 illustrations. Reduced from $1.00 to..... 75
- "THREE BIBLES COMPARED," by Elder R. Etzenhour; paper binding; 5 for $1.00; each..... 25
- "THE BOOK OF MORMON VINDICATED," by Elder I. M. Smith; 112 pages; Paper cover, 4 for 1.00; each..... 30
- Cloth Bound, 2 for 1.00; each..... 60
- "SPIRITUAL GIFTS AND THE SPIRIT OF PALMYRA," by Elder M. H. Bond, of the Society; 58 pages, paper bound, with fine engraving of the author..... 25
- "FAVORITE CREEDS," by Elder R. C. Evans; 6 for $1.00; each..... 20
- "THE BOOKS AND UTAH MORMONISM IN CONTRAST," by Elder R. Etzenhour; 39 pages; paper cover; 20 for $1.00, 3 for 25c; each..... 10
- "THE CREEDS LAID BARE," by Elder R. Etzenhour; paper cover; 3 for 25c; each..... 10
- "THE RESURRECTION OF THE WICKED," by Elder W. J. Smith; 39 pages, paper cover; 3 for 25c; each..... 10
- "WHO WAS JOSEPH SMITH?—WAS HE A FALSE PROPHET?" by Elder J. W. Peterson of the Quorum of Seventy; 39 pages; paper cover; engraving of authors; 3 for 25c; each..... 10
- "THE BOOK OF MORMON TRANSLATED," by Elder R. Etzenhour; 27 pages, paper cover; 3 for 25c; each..... 10
- "THE LEGAL SUCCESSOR," by Apostle J. W. Wight; 90c per doz.; 3 for 25c; each..... 10
- "APOSTLE J. W. WIGHT," by Apostle J. W. Wight; 40 pages, paper cover; 3 for 25c; each..... 10
- "THE JOSEPH SMITH INTERVIEW," by Elder Joseph Luff's answer to Elder R. J. Parker; by E. L. Kelley; per hundred 90c; per doz. 15c; 3 for 40c; each..... 5
- "IS WATER BAPTISM ESSENTIAL TO SALVATION," by Elder Joseph Luff; 90c per 100; 15c per doz.; 3 for 40c; each..... 5
- "WHAT WAS THE PURPOSE OF FAITH WITH MOTIVATIONS GIVEN IN FULL," 20c per doz.; 2 for..... 5
- HISTORICAL ENGRAVING, size 20x28 inches; postpaid in U. S. or Canada..... 50
- "EVANGELIST," a dust for soprano and tenor; words by J. Cole Moxon; music by W. H. Lieb..... 25
- SERMON PAMPHLETS.
The following pamphlets 5 cents each, 3 for 10 cents, 6 for 15 cents, or 25 cents per dozen:
"Signs of the Times," Revised and Enlarged, by Elder J. S. Roth; 70 pages; illustrated.
"The Book of Mormon; Evidences of its Divinity," by Elder R. C. Evans; 68 pages.
"The Law of Life," by Elder F. M. Cooper; 38 pages.
"The Restoration of Israel," by Elder S. W. L. Scott; 46 pages.
"A Retrospective View of the Reorganization," by E. C. Briggs; 38 pages.
"Gospel Message," by President Joseph Smith; 54 pages.
"Modern Knowledge of the Antiquities of America," by Elder H. A. Stebbins; 34 pages.
"Greed Making; Man Shall Not Add To Nor Take From the Word of God," by Elder I. M. Smith; 36 pages.
"Antiquarian Evidences Concerning the Book of Mormon," by Elder E. L. Kelley; 40 pages.
"Joseph Smith; Was He a Prophet of God?" by Elder R. C. Evans; 40 pages.
"Sign Seekers," by Elder I. M. Smith; 32 pages.
"Gospel Antiquity," by Elder Joseph Luff; 39 pages.
"God is Light," by Elder W. H. Kelley; 48 pages.
"Why I Left the Baptist Church," by Elder W. H. Kephart; 33 pages.
"The Marriage Relation," by Elder J. W. Wight; 41 pages.
"The Personality of God and Doctrine of Christ," by Elder J. S. Roth; 38 pages.
"Save Yourselves," by Elder I. M. Smith; 34 pages.

We also fill orders for all Herald office publications. Address all orders and make all remittances to
ENSIGN PUBLISHING HOUSE,
Independence, Mo.
Missouri Pacific Railroad.
Quick time, good connections, low rates to all points. Rates, time cards, etc., cheerfully furnished on application. F. A. MILLARD, Agent. Telephone 17.

STATE SAVINGS BANK OF LAMONI,

Incorporated under the laws of the State of Iowa, July 1, 1898,

Offers depositors a safe bank for their savings, and solicits the correspondence and deposits of all Estab. renters, and will pay four per cent interest per annum on year deposits. Send money by check, draft, or money order, or by registered letter, or by money order, and you will have your money in the United States or Canada, and direct your letter to W. A. Hopkins, Cashier of the State Savings Bank of Lamoni, Ia. Upon receipt of remittance a certificate of deposit will be issued, and the money held for you until you desire to withdraw it. This bank has facilities for handling very large business by keeping surplus funds invested in safe and available securities and has already received deposits from sixteen different states. All letters containing inquiries or business will be promptly answered.

List of Stockholders:—Wm. Anderson, Geo. H. Hilliard, Mrs. David Dancer, Miss Alice Dancer, Mrs. Elizabeth Dancer, Mrs. H. Messiguite, A. R. Anderson, W. A. Hopkins, Oscar Anderson, Frank Criley and Geo. W. Blair.

DR. JOS. MATHER,

PHYSICIAN.

Office, Liberty St., One Door South of Chrisman-Sawyer Bank.
Phone 190-3. Independence, Mo.
RESIDENCE, 301 S. SPRING ST.
CALLS ANSWERED NIGHT OR DAY.

A SPECIAL BARGAIN.

$575.
For 6 Acres, with small cottage, barn, etc., in West Lamoni. Only small payment required to secure a valuable home. Lock Box No. 7, Lamoni, Iowa.

Broken Brick-a-Bracs.

Mr. Major, the famous cement man, of New York, explains some very interesting facts about Major's Cement.
The multitudes who use this standard article know that it is many hundred per cent better than other cements for which similar claims are made, but a great many do not know why. The simple reason is that Mr. Major uses the best materials ever discovered and other manufacturers do not use them, because they are too expensive and do not allow large profits. Mr. Major tells us that one of the elements of his cement costs $5.75 a ton, and another costs $3.65 a gallon, while a large share of the so-called cements and liquid glue upon the market are nothing more than sixteen-cent glue, dissolved in water or citric acid, and in some cases, altered slightly in color and odor by the addition of cheap and useless materials.
Major's Cement retails at fifteen cents and twenty-five cents a bottle, and when a dealer tries to sell a substitute you can depend upon it that his only object is to make largest profit.
The profit on Major's Cement is as much as any dealer ought to make on any cement. And this is doubly true in view of the fact that each dealer gets his share of the benefit of Mr. Major's advertising, which now amounts to over $5,000 a month throughout the country. Established in 1876.
Insist on having Major's Cement, and don't accept any off-hand advice from a druggist.
If you are at all handy (and you will be likely to find that you are a good deal more so) in having Major's Cement, you can use your rubber boots and family shoes, and any other rubber and leather articles, with Major's Rubber Cement and Major's Leather Cement.
And you will be surprised at how many dollars a year you will thus save.
If your druggist cannot supply you, it may be forwarded by mail, either kind. Free of postage.

D. F. NICHOLSON, Cashier.
H. C. NICHOLSON, Ass't Cashier.
COMMERCIAL BANK,
LAMONI, IOWA.
Ample responsibility. Five per cent interest paid on time deposits. Correspondence solicited. Farms and town property for sale.
SUBSCRIBE FOR THE
College City Chronicle
The Leading Local Paper of LAMONI, IOWA.
Published Weekly by the Chronicle Publishing Co.
A CARD.
To the Saints who do not know me I wish to say, I have been in the real estate business for about fifteen years in Jackson county, Missouri. I am well acquainted with the people there, where to locate the brethren better than one who has not had experience. I know all about values; I know a bargain and am in position to advise.
And I wish to say there are other Latter Day Saints here who are in the same position. Now if you are not afraid of your brethren, please call and see them when in Independence, or write them. I will give you for reference any honorable person with whom I have ever done business, or any business man in Independence, banker or merchant; also Bro. Wm. Crick; Joseph Luff; H. R. Mills; J. W. Luff, Business Manager of the ENSIGN Publishing House; W. H. Garrett, Editor of the ENSIGN; I. N. White of the Twelve; Alfred White, Missionary. I do all this to show you that Latter Day Saints can be honorable in real estate business as well as any other business. W. S. LOAN.

Any one desiring back numbers of Sunday School Quarterlies, Heralds, Ensigns, or Hopes, may be supplied upon application to the Literary Exchange, Box 261, Independence, Mo.

MISSOURI PACIFIC—MAIN LINE DEPOT.
No. 95—Wichita and E. G. Mail	12:49 a.m.
" 9—Kansas & Nebraska Lim.	4:34 a.m.
" 93—Texas, Joplin & K. C. Ex.	6:15 a.m.
" 3—St. Louis Express	6:33 a.m.
" 73—Lexington Branch Pass.	8:35 a.m.
" 7—East Mail	10:00 a.m.
TRAINS EAST.
" 1—Joplin and K. C. Mail	3:16 p.m.
" 81—St. Louis Mail and Ex.	5:17 p.m.
" 5—St. Louis Mail	5:55 p.m.
" 71—Lexington Branch Pass.	6:45 p.m.
TRAINS WEST.
No. 98—K. C. & Wichita Mail	2:42 a.m.
" 72—Lexington Branch Pass.	6:53 a.m.
" 6—St. Louis Mail	7:23 a.m.
" 62—K. C. Texas & Joplin Mail	8:37 a.m.
" 2—St. Louis Through Mail & Pass.	10:17 a.m.
" 78—Lex. Branch Passenger	6:10 p.m.
" 4—St. Louis Through Mail & Pass.	1:37 p.m.
" 94—K. C. Tex. & Joplin Ex.	7:40 p.m.
" 8—St. Louis Through Mail & Pass.	9:30 p.m.
" 10—Kan. & Neb. Limited	11:12 p.m.
Nos. 7, 9 and 10 do not stop.
LIBERTY STREET DEPOT.
TRAINS WEST.
No. 73—Lex. Branch Pass.	8:30 a.m.
" 71— " " "	6:40 p.m.
TRAINS EAST.
No. 72—Lex. Branch Pass.	6:56 a.m.
" 78— " " "	6:15 p.m.
Tel. 17. F. A. MILLARD, Agent.
CHICAGO & ALTON.
EAST BOUND.
" 101—Local Way Freight	7:49 a.m.
" 47—St. Louis & Chicago Mail	8:37 a.m.
WEST BOUND.
No. 51—Chicago Limited	6:58 a.m.
" 49—St. Louis Flyer	9:38 a.m.
WEST BOUND.
" 50—St. Louis Limited	6:55 a.m.
" 62—Chicago Limited	8:08 a.m.
" 102—Local Way Freight	8:50 a.m.
" 48—Chicago & St. Louis Mail	5:50 a.m.

Two Boxes of Quit-to-bac Cured Him.

"KIEB, Okla., March 29, 1900.
"Bro. Ordway—I have been enabled to quit tobacco after the use of two boxes of your antidote (Quit-to-bac). I have used tobacco for thirty years and both chewed and smoked plug tobacco.

L. S. STALEY.
Three boxes of Quit-to-bac sent postpaid arrived in the United States from Canada, August 14, with positive guarantee of cure or money cheerfully refunded. U. S. postage stamps taken. You run no risk, you will not be free from this God-condemned habit? Address, (Bro.) B. F. ORDWAY, Peoria, Ill.

THEY ADMIT IT.

Bro. Hull, Chaucery, Ohio, says we saved him $12.00 on August 13, 1900.
Bro. Farrell, West Sullivan, Maine, writes that we saved him $5.00 on a $7.00 suit.
Youth's heavy three-piece suit, age 12 to 19, $3.50.
Goods are all sent prepaid.

MEN'S SACK SUITS.
Black, all wool worsted Men's Suits, four buttons, round or square cut, 14 or size $7.00; 16 ounce $7.25; 18 ounce $8.25; 20 ounce $8.75. Extra fine, strictly all wool Oxford steel gray, heavy; worth $18.00, price $9.00.

PRINCE ALBERT SUITS.
Same goods as above, 14 oz. $9.50; 16 oz. $10.00; 18 oz. $11.00; 20 oz. $11.50. 14 oz. French Twist Sacks, worth $18.00, price $9.00. Prince Alberts, worth $25.00, $13.50.

MEASUREMENTS.—Give size of bust around chest just under arms with coat off, size of waist, length of in seam of pant leg, your height and weight.
Make all drafts, express and money orders payable at Seymour, Mo. Send all communications, letters, orders and registered letters to Oimorah, Mo. THE E. T. ATWELL CO., Cumorah, Mo.

R. R. TIME TABLES.

Any one desiring back numbers of Sunday School Quarterlies, Heralds, Ensigns, or Hopes, may be supplied upon application to the Literary Exchange, Box 261, Independence, Mo.

Missouri School For The Blind—St. Louis.

To the Press of Missouri.—Want of proper information concerning this school has been the cause of many blind children growing up in ignorance, when they might have been educated and fitted to earn a support for themselves.

The school has been established since February 27, 1851. The title "Blind Asylum," by which it is sometimes called, is a misnomer that puts the school in a wrong light and does it harm.

The blind of the State should not be deterred from taking advantage of the opportunity that the State offers here to become educated, because of the belief that the school is a "home" or "hospital" where the blind of all ages and conditions are admitted for treatment, or that it is an asylum for the helpless and infirm blind. The institution is simply a part of the great public school system of the State. It is in no sense a home or asylum, but simply a school where the blind children of the State are admitted for a limited time for the purpose of being educated and put in a position to do something for themselves. The chief object of the school is to make the blind self-sustaining. The several departments are under the supervision of competent instructors, especially adapted to the work undertaken. In the literary department a thorough course is given in all the elementary branches, as well as in the branches of a high school course. In the department of music an extended course is pursued in vocal and instrumental music, as well as in theory, harmony and composition. In the work department the boys are taught a number of useful trades, and the girls to sew, crochet, knit, and do a variety of other useful work. The departments of physical culture and kindergarten are features of much importance.

The school is supported entirely by appropriations made by the legislature, and is, therefore, strictly a State school. Liberal provision has always been made for its support, and there is no charge made for tuition or for board and lodging.

Pupils must be provided with ample clothing, and their expenses to and from the school must be borne by the parent or guardian.

Applicants for admission must be of good mental and physical capacity. Those who are feeble-minded or who suffer such physical deformity or weakness as to necessitate special care, are not admitted. None are received under the age of nine years, and while applicants are sometimes admitted as old as twenty-four, they should be much younger. The school being supported by the State, none but bona fide residents are admitted.

Attention of the County Clerks of the State is called to Section 9770, R. S. 1899, which provides: "The County Clerk of each County shall certify to the Superintendent of the School for the Blind in St. Louis, the names of all blind persons of school age in his county, giving name, age, sex and color, and the name and postoffice address of parent or guardian of such persons."

J. N. HOLMES, Pres., Piedmont. E. C. Waters, Vice-President, Vandalia; Jas. C. Jones, Secretary, St. Louis; Wm. Jeff. Follard, Treasurer, St. Louis; Dr. J. Harvey Moore, Oculist, St. Louis; S. M. Green, superintendent.

Pittsburg's Proposed Church.

Dear Ensign.—Pittsburg don't take much of your space very often, but on this occasion we want to try and reach any former residents of this place who are interested in church developments here. We own a lot, free from debt, and want to put up a church building, and ask the help of any on whom we may have any claim of past association. We find that a hall, situated in the very heart of the business portion of the city, located on the top floor, is becoming more and more of a burden for us to bear, and is a hindrance to the development of the work here, so we want to get away from this hall and rent bondage; the branch has paid out nearly fifteen thousand dollars in rent since it was established here.

The cut below was made from the plans for a brick church that will cost about three thousand dollars, not including the basement, which would be omitted.

PITTSBURG'S PROPOSED CHURCH.

We are now trying to raise a thousand dollars so we will not have to go over two thousand dollars in debt. To boom the matter we are going to have a rally meeting of the branch on Sunday, September 16th. Old Pittsburg has been draining its financial life blood to build up the work in other places, so any who can help us who have been the recipients of its aid, may now reciprocate.

I really believe an elder of good address could collect nearly a thousand dollars from the business men of the city. We have received considerable money from outsiders to buy the lot. Who will help us?

C. EDWARD MILLER, President of Branch. 112 Lillian St., Pittsburg, Pa. August 24.

THE GENERAL REUNION.

The general reunion will convene at Dow City, Iowa, September 28, 1900, and will continue for ten days, if the Lord is willing. President Joseph Smith and a goodly number of able ministers are expected to be with us to conduct the services of the reunion.

An invitation is extended to the missionaries and local ministers and Saints everywhere, but especially to those of the Galland's Grove and Little Sioux districts, to come and help us. We want you to come to worship God and receive and enjoy the influence and power of the Holy Spirit, as God shall be willing to bestow it upon his people. The grounds are in good condition and we think there will be room for all who may come.

An effort is being made to secure reduced rates over the lines of "The Western Passenger Association," should the effort prove to be successful we will give notice of the same as soon as possible.

In behalf of the reunion com., J. M. BAKER, C. E. BUTTERWORTH. Dow City, Iowa, Aug. 21.

CONFERENCE MINUTES.

The Eastern Colorado district conference convened at Wray, Colorado, Aug. 18th. E. F. Shupe in the chair, assisted by Joseph Luff, A. E. Tabor secretary.

Ministry reporting: Elders; E. F. Shupe, J. B. Roush, C. R. Duncan, J. F. Curtis, E. D. Bullard (baptized 4), J. W. Kent and James Kemp; priests, A. B. Hanson, F. D. Bullard, R. E. Crawford and G. Keller; teacher, A. E. Tabor.

Branch reports: Denver, 169; Highland, 22; Mt. View, 11; Eustis, Nebraska, 61; Rocky Mountain, 39; Cedar, 23; Laird, 48. Branches not reporting: Cottonwood, Nebraska, 71; Fair View, 28. Total membership of district, including disorganized branches, 488.

DR. PRICES' CREAM BAKING POWDER

Used in Millions of Homes—40 Years the standard. A Pure Cream of Tartar Powder. Superior to every other kind. Makes delicious cake and pastry, light, flaky biscuit, griddle cakes—palatable and wholesome.

NOTE.—Avoid baking powders made from alum. They look like pure powders, and may raise the cakes, but alum is a poison and no one can eat food mixed with it without injury to health.

PRICE BAKING POWDER CO., CHICAGO.

PLEASE NOTICE.

Brethren in church authority residing within limits of Pittsburg, Pennsylvania, district, outside of branch associations, will please report to our conference if doing anything or not for the cause, and the prospect for missionary effort in your localities. The district in Pennsylvania extends eastward to line of 77th meridian, from north to south lines of the state; westward to western limit except Erie, Crawford, Mercer and Lawrence counties; Jefferson and Belmont counties in Ohio; Marshall and Ohio counties in West Virginia. Send your statement to J. F. McDowell, 4729 Jacob St., Wheeling, West Virginia, not later than September 4th. J. F. McD.

August 22.

Two Days Meeting.

There will be a picnic and two days' meeting in Gilmore, three miles and a half south of Farwell, Isabella county, Michigan, September 8th and 9th. Everybody welcome. Those coming by rail will be met at Farwell. ETHEL G. PHIPPS, Sec. GILMORE, Mich., Aug. 21.

There will be a two days meeting held in the Wilder school-house, five miles east of Evansville, Rock county, Wisconsin, September 29 and 30, 1900. Meetings will begin Friday evening; on Saturday evening the Religio will hold a literary entertainment. Bro. Heman C. Smith and H. A. Stebbins are expected to be present. W. A. McDOWELL, Dist. Pres. WILLIAMS BAY, Wis., Aug. 21.

NOTICES.

To the Saints and Friends of Minnesota, Greeting.—We are very much in need of money; please send in your tithes and offerings at once. This money is due for the Lord's work, and no Saint should be willing to accept the responsibility for hindering the progress of that work by failing to do their plain duty in sending their tithes and offerings to the authorized agent appointed to receive and disburse them, lest blessings earnestly desired and urgently needed, be withheld by reason of such neglect of duty. Let me hear from all as early as possible.

F. D. OMANS, Bishop's Agent. PERHAM, Minn., Box 337.

BORN.

WOODFORD.—At Washington, Kansas, September 11, 1899, to Bro. and Sr. Charles H. Woodford, a daughter, named Mary Audentia, and blessed at Barnes, Kansas, August, 23, 1900, by Elder H. A. Stebbins.

Resch.—In Concord township, Ottawa county, Kansas, December 11, 1899, to Bro. and Sr. Orestes Resch, a daughter, named Hazel Irene, and blessed at Minneapolis (Kansas) reunion, August 19, 1900, by Elders H. A. Stebbins and J. A. Robinson.

MARRIED.

NOYES-KECK.—At the home of the bride, Lebeck, Missouri, at 9 a. m., August 19, 1900, Bro. John W. Noyes and Sr. Ida M. Keck, daughter of Elder F. C. Keck, Elder R. T. Walters officiating. A host of relatives and friends were present to offer congratulations. After the ceremony all repaired to the Coal Hill church for Sunday School and preaching services, at the conclusion of which a dinner was served at Bro. Keck's.

DIED.

BEES.—At Scandia, Kansas, August 6, 1900, Marilla Isles, wife of James W. Bees, aged 79 years, 8 months and 20 days. She was born in Knox county, Ohio, November 16, 1820, and was married to Bro. Bees, September 19, 1839. She united with the Reorganized Church of Jesus Christ of Latter Day Saints, July 20, 1834, lived a consistent life and died in a full assurance of a glorious resurrection.

GRAY Why let all your neighbors and friends think you must be twenty years older than you are? Yet it's impossible to look young with the color of 70 years in the hair. It's sad to see young persons look prematurely old in this way. Sad because it's all unnecessary; for gray hair may always be restored to its natural color by using— AYER'S HAIR VIGOR For over half a century this has been the standard hair preparation. It is an elegant dressing; stops falling of the hair; makes the hair grow; and cleanses the scalp from dandruff. $1.00 a bottle. All druggists. I have been using Ayer's Hair Vigor for over 20 years and I can heartily recommend it to the public as the best hair tonic in existence. Mrs. G. L. ALDENSON, April 24, 1899, Editor, Tex. If you do not obtain all the benefits you expect from the Vigor, write the Doctor about it. Address, Dr. J. C. AYER, Lowell, Mass.

ZION'S ENSIGN.

"OUR CREED: ALL TRUTH."

VOLUME 11.

INDEPENDENCE, MISSOURI, THURSDAY, SEPTEMBER 6, 1900

NUMBER 36.

ZION'S ENSIGN.

A Literary and Religious Newspaper, published in the interest of social, scientific and religious truth, every Thursday, at Independence, Jackson County, Missouri.

PRICE, $1.00 PER YEAR, IN ADVANCE.

ENSIGN PUBLISHING HOUSE,
of the Reorganized Church of Jesus Christ, of Latter Day Saints.

W. H. GARRETT, EDITOR.
J. W. LUFÉ, BUSINESS MANAGER.

Make all remittances, and address all communications to ENSIGN PUBLISHING HOUSE, Box B, Independence, Jackson County, Missouri.

New subscriptions can begin at any time. If possible to avoid it, never send silver as it is liable to wear through the envelope and be lost. Always give the name of the post office to which your paper is sent or we can not find your name on our lists.

When sending your address changed, give both the old and new address.

Papers will be discontinued one month from the time subscriptions expire, unless ordered otherwise.

In making remittances, money orders are preferable for they are absolutely safe. If you can afford it, do not send coin or stamps. Canadian stamps are an entire loss, and Canadian currency is only worth ninety cents on the dollar to us, for that is all we can get for it at the bank.

Letters should be addressed, and orders and drafts made payable to
ENSIGN PUBLISHING HOUSE,
Independence, Mo.

Box B.

GIVE PRAISE.

It is indeed a remarkably phlegmatic temperament which is not susceptible to words of commendation. There are but few natures which can receive, without feelings of gratification, the outspoken admiration of others for the talent and ability manifested in some directions in which those offering the words of praise may be interested. And it is not an unnatural desire that one's best efforts for the bettering of conditions—whether in this life or the one into which every soul must enter—of his fellowmen, should be recognized and appreciated. Every one who is earnestly seeking to work righteousness and bring his life into unison with the Divine will, is moved by the hope of receiving the loving approbation of the Father for the sacrifices made in accomplishing that work.

But it is interesting, and, sometimes, saddening to see how differently some natures are affected by the applause or commendation of others. Some natures cannot stand worldly prosperity; it is their ruination, spiritually. So it is with some individuals with regard to "the praise of men;" they begin to have a very exalted opinion of their abilities, and take credit to themselves for their talents, forgetting that it is the gift of God, and that to Him belongs all honor for the success they are able to attain; imperceptibly to themselves, perhaps, but very perceptibly to others, they gradually assume a rather condescending manner to others, and manifest the exaltation of spirit which possesses them. This is the sad and distasteful effect sometimes manifest.

There are other natures which seemingly constantly crave the good opinion of their fellows, and if they do not receive it about every so often, become discouraged with their efforts and imagine they are doing no good because some one does not openly manifest appreciation. But when such is given, it acts upon their spirit as a "healing balm," and they move along complacently, satisfied that their fellows think well of them. There does not seem to be any particular harm resulting from this "mode of praise," and as it is a stimulant to increased endeavor, it accomplishes a good work in them and harms no one.

Other natures there are, upon whom the approbation of their fellows falls with pleasure and satisfaction, but who realize also that the good they have been able to accomplish has been through the grace of God, and while this kindly feeling of their brethren is pleasing and encouraging, a feeling of humble gratitude to God as the source of their success is expressed, and strength is given to renew their efforts along the same lines, or, if possible, to enlarge their sphere of usefulness.

Judicious praise is due to every one in well doing. Our heavenly Father is not slow to acknowledge the efforts His children put forth in obeying Him; He sends the Holy Spirit to cheer, comfort and aid; when afflictions seize them, and the ordinance of His house is performed, acknowledgement is given, and relief is had; warnings, admonitions and commendations are given from time to time, and thus His people are cheered and encouraged. Too often is the kindly word of appreciation withheld until after death's icy hand has stilled the pulsation of the heart, and paralyzed the life forces, so that the tardy acknowledgement given for good works performed, falls unheeded upon the one to whom they would have been of most benefit. This is not the right way; give cheer and comfort to the weary and heavily laden of life's children while the battle is on and the heart grows faint with the force of the conflict.

How gratefully words of praise fall upon the ears of a child; how their little hearts warm towards the donor, and if wisely administered, so as not to encourage an inordinate love for praise, it will do much in assisting him to do right and to resist evil temptations. How often is the life of a faithful, devoted wife made unhappy for lack of a loving testimonial of the appreciation with which she is really regarded, but the expression of it has been neglected. A tender, thoughtful solicitude for her comfort; a caress from her loved ones, that speaks, more strongly than words, the emotion of the heart, would lighten her burdens and stimulate and refresh her wearied spirit more than can be measured, and it is due her unselfish devotion that she should thus be made aware of the appreciation of her work. Why should any member of a family be slow to manifest such kindly evidences of loving interest and affection towards the others forming that circle. There is nothing unmanly or weak in honest, sincere affection manifested towards ones own, and no one should be ashamed in their homelife to let it be seen that every effort put forth for the happiness of the household, has the hearty appreciation and cooperation of all other members of that home.

The apostle, on one occasion, exhorted the Saints that they should "See that ye love one another, with a pure heart fervently." (1 Peter 1:22). The human heart naturally craves sympathy and affection, and if a true, sincere affection is had, as enjoined by the apostle, it will manifest itself in kindly deeds; in ministering to the well-being of the household of faith; as well as in the homelife. God so loved the world that he gave His Only Begotten Son as an offering—a propitiation—for the sins of those who are willing to show their appreciation of such love, "Perfect love casteth out fear." "There is no fear in love" is the language of Holy Writ, and as the mind and body are moved by that which occupies chief place in the heart, so if the heart is filled with a pure affection, it must naturally manifest itself in a manner that will be comforting and assuring.

One of the striking testimonies of the Apostle John is, that,

We know that we have passed from death unto life, because we love the brethren. He that loveth not his brother abideth in death.—1 John 3:14.

And Jesus declared:
By this shall all men know that ye are my disciples, if ye have love one to another.—St. John 13:35.

If this requirement is enjoined upon the followers of Christ, how strongly should the necessity for the fruits of the Spirit being manifest in ones home life, be impressed upon every child of God. Let every one "be kindly affectioned one toward another." Give words of praise and commendation when you feel it is due; but never descend to flattery; hypocrisy is abominable. But if any should feel that they do not sincerely love his brother; if a sister feels that she has no affection for her sister (in the family or church), it is an evidence that something is not as it should be, and a self-examination in humility and prayer, should not be delayed, for it is impossible to truly love God, and not love one another: My little children, let us not love in word [hypocritically], neither in tongue [deceitfully]; but in deed and in truth.—1 John 3:18.

INDEPENDENCE REUNION.

The reunion closed with the services Sunday night; four were baptized Sunday noon, and two Saturday, five of whom were confirmed at the afternoon service and one child blessed. Sunday morning the pavilion was crowded and President Joseph Smith delivered a very strong discourse, marking some of the distinctive doctrines which the church has proclaimed the past seventy years, for which, in early days, they were strongly opposed, but latterly many others have expressed a belief in them as being the doctrines of the Bible. President Smith has given some remarkably powerful sermons at this reunion. Bro. A. H. Parsons was the speaker at 2:30, Sunday, and spoke with good liberty. At 7:30 Bro. Columbus Scott preached the final sermon of the reunion and it was a splendid effort on the future of the Saints. He held the attention of his audience very closely until the end.

At the business session, Saturday afternoon, it was unanimously decided to continue the reunion next year and the missionary in charge together with Bishops R. May and Ellis Short were made committee of arrangements, with power to select place and name time. Votes of appreciation were given to Kansas City papers for the very fair and full reports of the proceedings; to the committee for their good work in preparing for this reunion, and to Sr. Belle James for faithful services in reporting. A vote of thanks should have been given the chorister and chorus for untiring and devoted as well as efficient service, which contributed very much to the success of every service. It was overlooked in the hurry to get out of a warm building. The reunion was a success, though but six were baptized; the moral effect in a better understanding of our position is incalculable. Now prepare for 1901.

EDITORIAL ITEMS.

OUR patrons will please take notice that our stock of Historical Engravings is exhausted, and no more perfect copies can be obtained. We have, however, a few copies which are very slightly damaged, which we can furnish, while they last, at 15 cents, when accompanied by $1.00 for ENSIGN subscription.

BRO. EBEN MILLER is trying to prevent the denizens of Cleveland, Ohio, from being "mixed" as to the identity of the church he represents. He had printed some hand bills with a display heading, "Strangers Beware," stating that the Mormonism of Utah is a departure from the faith of the church organized by Joseph Smith in 1830; he enumerates some of the doctrines taught by the Utah people and says the church which holds services in Memorial Post Hall, 170 Superior street, every Sunday at 11 a. m. and 7:30 p. m. rejects those teachings and invites the people to "come and hear the truth."

EXTRACTS FROM LETTERS.

ELDER R. M. MALONEY, El Reno, Oklahoma:

We are hopeful in the work. Bro. S. S. Smith and I are engaged at Fairview with fair attendance and interest, best we have seen at that school-house in five years.

MRS. A. R. BANKS, Walla Walla, Washington:

A lady friend sent me a copy of the ENSIGN, and I enjoyed it very much. My husband and I wrote to one of your ministers and he wrote that he was coming through the place in which we then lived, but before he came we had moved here, and we did not get to see him; we were very much disappointed about it. Have you any ministers near here? If you have would be pleased to have them call.

We are unable to answer whether or not any of the ministry of this church live in the neighborhood of Walla Walla, but trust our brethren of the traveling ministry assigned to that territory, will make a note of this call and arrange to meet it when convenient.

BRO. WM. C. BURROUGHS, Troop F, 4th United States Cavalry, now stationed in Philippine Islands, in a letter written July 10th, and received August 31st, thus writes:

The ENSIGN is my only preacher in this country; I would be lost without it. When I read about some good meeting it makes me wish I was there. I don't hear any preaching or singing, no prayers or testimonies, no music of any kind except when I go to Manila, once in every two months. I am in a crowd of soldiers all of the time; all I can hear is some profane or vulgar word; no one can imagine how I desire to be among some Saints, or among some who have respect for God and his word. I am still in the faith, hoping to be better prepared for the trials to come, and that I may be placed among Saints soon. Pray for me, brethren and sisters, that I may be faithful and worthy of the blessings received; the greatest blessing I have is good health, considering the difficulties in this country.

We are glad to know that our brother keeps up his interest in the work of the Lord and remembers his baptismal covenant, and that, though surrounded with so much of evil amid the temptations besetting the pathway of a soldier, he still remembers that he is a soldier in the great army of the Lord, and longs for those associations which bring peace, joy and comfort in the Holy Ghost. May our heavenly Father protect him in his integrity, and give him grace to abide in faithfulness.

GENERAL CHURCH NEWS.

INDEPENDENCE.

The usual services will be held in the church next Sunday; preaching at 11 a. m. and 7:30 p. m. Social service, 2:30 p. m.

Sr. Lucy Hamilton is convalescing nicely.

Sr. Pliny Sherman was quite ill Monday.

The editor is at the Stewartsville reunion this week, representing the ENSIGN.

Sr. Agnes Farrow has secured a school at Grain Valley and will teach this winter. She will make a competent instructor.

President Joseph Smith left this (Thursday) morning for Stewartsville, Missouri, reunion. Bro. Columbus Scott also left for the same place a day or two ago.

Mr. G. W. Coakley, recently postmaster here, has moved his goods to Los Angeles, California, where he has relatives and friends. Himself and family will follow in about ten days.

Bro. W. C. Duncan and family left overland, Tuesday, for Colorado to reside. Bro. Duncan's health is quite poor, his lungs being affected. We hope his health may improve until it is restored fully, and that prosperity may attend them.

Sr. Jennie Newton has so far recovered her health as to be able to return to her home at Cove, Arkansas. That much esteemed brother, A. L. Newton, came up the latter part of last week, took in the reunion, and on Wednesday departed with his family for Cove.

Bro. J. W. Brackenbury was quite ill last week, but we are pleased to note he is out again, though still feeling the effects of the attack. His grandson, Byron, son of Bro. Luther Brackenbury, of California, who has been quite low with typhoid fever, is also improving.

Bro. Levi Cheney met with an accident last week that was almost fatal; he was standing near where the pipe was being drawn from the well when a stick of wood, used for a lever, flew up and struck him under the chin and prostrated him senseless; assistance was procured and he is now around again. Coming so closely upon the stroke of paralysis which attacked Sr. Cheney, his wife, it was felt that the old adage, "misfortunes never come singly," was verified in their case; it surely came in pairs in this instance. Sr. Cheney is slowly improving.

The regular monthly business meeting of the branch was held Monday evening, President W. H. Garrett presiding, John W. Luff secretary. The usual reports were read, showing work done by the officers. The treasurer reported for month of August, receipts, $81.24; expenses, $15.32; balance, $15.92. In consideration of the immense amount of work required in correcting and transferring the records of the branch to the new record, a vote of thanks was tendered the brother doing the work, and the compensation increased to $15.00. Bro. John Joseph Luff, from Lamoni, and Srs. M. A. and Marie Clark, from Chicago, were received by letter as members of the branch. Letters of removal were granted Bro. and Sr. Wm. Curtis, to Centerville, Iowa. The statistical report of the branch for the past six months shows net increase, -39; present number, 1063. The following were elected as delegates to the district conference convening with Armstrong branch, next Saturday and Sunday; W. H. Garrett, H. H. Robinson, A. H. Parsons, G. H. Hulmes, M. T. Short, Josiah Curtis, Ellis Short, W. N. Robinson, B. J. Scott and Wm. Clow.

LAMONI, IOWA.

A delightful change in the weather, the memory of the practical thoughts in the Sunday School lesson, yesterday, and the testimonies, in the afternoon service, of faith in God, all inspire us to renewed diligence in the work of the Lord. The Sunday School had its usual good attendance and everyone seemed to be of good cheer. The forenoon sermon was by Dr. J. H. Hansen, subject "Healings." Elders Salyards, Allen and Gault were in charge of the afternoon sacrament service; Elder H. N. Snively delivered the evening sermon at the church, and Apostle Heman C. Smith spoke on "Friendship" at the Home.

Elder H. A. Stebbins returned from the Northwestern Kansas Reunion, Tuesday, having been absent twenty days and delivered seventeen discourses. He filled his regular appointment at Davis City, yesterday.

Apostle W. H. Kelley preached at the Evergreen church, Sunday; Elder F. M. Weld held services at Spring Valley, Elder F. E. Cochran at Greenville, Apostle J. R. Lambert at Pleasanton, Elders Isaac Carlisle and J. P. Anderson at Center school-house, and Priest David Keown at Andover.

Elder Fred A. Smith left on Friday for Carroll county, to hold a ten days meeting.

Bishop E. L. Kelley left Saturday for the Stewartsville reunion.

Sr. T. J. Bell and daughter are visiting relatives near Byrnesville, Indiana.

Sr. Roxanna E. Anderson returned from California on Thursday, to take up the duties of the school-room. Sr. Anderson has been spending her vacation with her husband, "doing missionary work" on the Pacific coast.

Sr. Frances Davis gave a reception on Friday afternoon to those interested in the Kindergarten work. She gave a very interesting talk in explanation of methods. The "grown up girls" participated in the little songs, games and plays, and thus obtained a very practical idea of the work. Sr. Davis will open a Kindergarten at her home, September 10th, to continue three months.

Elder F. M. Weld, missionary in charge of Decatur district, informs us that arrangements have been made for two days meetings as follows: Davis City, Iowa, September 15th and 16th, in charge of Apostle J. R. Lambert and Elder M. M. Turpin; Lucas, Iowa, September 22d and 23d, in charge of Elders Duncan Campbell and J. C. Clapp; Pleasanton, Iowa, September 29th and 30th.

District conference will be held at Lone Rock, Missouri, October 6th and 7th; and on October 13th and 14th, meetings will be held at the Evergreen church. On the 14th President Joseph Smith will conduct dedicatory services.

Your pardon please—Decatur district Sunday School workers and Religians—your convention occurs next Friday, Saturday and Sunday, not as stated last week.

GRACE L. KRAHL.
September 3.

CHICAGO, ILLINOIS.

Branch headquarters, 716 W. Van Buren St. Sunday meetings 2:45 and 7:45 p. m.; Lang Mission, 3411 Cottage Grove Ave., 10:45 a. m. and 7:30 p. m.; West End branch, 748 N. 19th St., 10:30 a. m. and 7:30 p. m.; 503 W. 37th St. (colored mission), 10:30 a. m. and 7:30 p. m.

Yesterday added another pleasant milestone to the work in Chicago, in the pleasant and spiritual union service which was well attended and encouraging. Let us begin to look forth to and prepare for the next one, October 7th.

Bro. Joshua Terry Hackett, newly appointed missionary to our district, came to the city Saturday to enter into the work assigned him. He preached last night at the mission. He is a young man and we bespeak for him care from the Saints, and on his part humility and hard work.

Sr. Boddy, of the Shelton, Nebraska, branch, is visiting in city, and worshiped with the dear Saints, also Sr. Wheeler, of Stark county, Illinois, rejoiced in meeting with the church people.

Bro. S. C. Good preached at the hall yesterday at 3 p. m. He is very busy in gospel work in a private way—a very effectual way.

Bro. L. F. Hills, of Marion, Iowa, an honored employee of the Northwestern Railway Company, to whom the company has tendered a promotion, was in the city a few days. He has decided to engage in the gospel work, and will soon enter upon his mission despite the flattering offers of worldly remuneration. Success, "Lou."

Sr. T. A. Phillips, wife of our honored Canadian missionary, is visiting a daughter in our city, and was in attendance at the union service yesterday. We were pleased to form her acquaintance and to learn that R. C. was "digging" into the work, trying to complete a church house before their district conference. We suggested that the Canadian elders come over to Chicago to take lessons in street preaching.

Sr. Laura Paden, a zealous Saint of Lima, Ohio, rejoiced with the Saints in worship yesterday. Any elder passing that way will receive a welcome at her home, 803 Pine street.

Through the kindness and aid of the dear Saints, and at the urgent request of one nearest to us, we start tonight for the North Missouri reunion at Stewartsville, expecting to visit our old home, St. Joseph, then hasten back to our blessed work in Chicago. We may be absent over two Sundays.

Bro. F. M. Pitt and family returned safely yesterday, and soon bled away to the places of worship. We welcome them.

Bro. A. McCallum called our mind back to pleasant scenes of the past by his presence in our home. Alex loves the work and fails not to tell others the "pleasing story" when opportunity offers.

Yours in love,

J. M. TERRY.

395 Ogden Ave., Sept. 3.

ST. LOUIS, MISSOURI.

Yesterday, from the heart we could say, "Beautiful morning, day of Hope," for the sky was beautiful in its delicate coloring of blue and white, and we were glad that so fair a day greeted us upon our entrance into our new church. As early as 8:45 the Saints could be seen hurrying towards our new place of worship, and a little after 9:30 Sabbath School was commenced, with a fine attendance. As we witnessed the children and young people filing in one after the other, heart and eyes overflowed with gratitude to God that once again we were permitted to assemble as a worshipping body; we thought the opening song, "Revive thy work, O Lord" very appropriate. A souvenir was provided for each child, and, I believe every one present, through the kindness of some kind hearted persons.

Leaving the Sabbath School room we ascended to the auditorium, and were somewhat agreeably surprised by the number present; this main room is much larger than our former quarters, and at this time was well filled, and the number continued to increase. Promptly the voluntary was played by Sr. Walrond, then hymn No. 156; invocation by Bro. J. C. Hitchcock. As the choir sang, and the music of the anthem soared heavenward, our prayer went fervently upward that as we were permitted such a beautiful place of worship, that we might make it holy also, and worship the Lord in spirit and in truth. Bro. Arthur Allen addressed the waiting congregation. The sacramental service was held in the basement at six p. m. Good attendance and a splendid meeting. At eight p. m. the auditorium was crowded, many not of our faith being present. Bro. Allen was again the speaker, assisted by Br. Barraclough and J. C. Hitchcock. The anthems by the choir were inspiring in their beauty of melody.

The seventh day is God's reception day;

Six days in every week He comes to us

To buoy our strength with His for daily tasks

To bring us comfort or to give us joy; But on the seventh He throws wide

His doors, And bids us enter. All heaven's courts are filled

With bloom and beauty and the sound of song.

Our little "court" was filled with bloom and beauty and the sound of song, and we rejoiced exceedingly, that upon our entrance God sent his ambassador, the Holy Spirit, to bid us welcome; we felt that our King "received upon yesterday."

We had visitors yesterday from Belleville, Godfrey and Alton, Illinois; also from our home folks, Cheltenham and Oak Hill. One child blessed by Brn. Allen and Gordon Smith. Total collections and offerings, $88.80.

A party of our young people visited with Sr. Crawford and family, Collinsville, Illinois, Sunday, August 26th.

Sr. Tena Archibald went to Independence, visiting the reunion at Washington Park.

Bro. R. B. Trowbridge is at present at Sedalia, recuperating, expecting to return here Thursday, then on East with wife and baby, intending to sojourn with Bro. Bond and "Aunt Nelly."

Sunday School business meeting Tuesday of next week.

Prayer union at the home of Sr. Mercer, this week, No. 2576 Montgomery street.

The Mite society will have its meeting the last Monday of September instead of the first Monday of October; we meet at the home of Sr. Maria Cook, 2730 Rutger street. Mite society members please take notice and let us have a good attendance.

Sr. M. Walker is visiting in the city, arriving this evening; she intends to remain three weeks.

ETNA.

LETTER DEPARTMENT.

COUNCIL BLUFFS, Iowa, Sept. 1.

Editor Ensign:—The Pottawatomie district conference is again a thing of the past, and taking the Sunday School convention, which convened on Friday, it may be said that it was the most successful gathering of the church forces hereabout for many days. Perfect harmony prevailed in all departments of the work. The Sunday School convention listened to two excellent papers on features of the work by Sr. Julia Hansen and Sr. George Underwood, which elicited discussion. The officers of the district were continued for the ensuing three months, and no change in the forces in the field.

The meeting on Sunday was held in Parisk's Grove, three miles from Hazel Dell chapel, with social service at 9:30, preaching at 11 o'clock by Bro. D. R. Chambers, after which the baskets were opened and everyone was provided with all they could eat out of the good things provided by the sisters. Dinner over we repaired to the water where five precious souls were buried with Christ by baptism. Returning to the ground Bro. Joshua Carlisle discoursed on the gospel in a manner satisfactory to all. Indeed both discourses were well received by all present. The writer spoke in the chapel Saturday evening, and Sunday. Bro. Wells, of Atlantic, Iowa, discoursed acceptably at the chapel, in which place the meeting was called. I never witnessed a greater interest than was manifested at these meetings, and the prospect of an early ingathering of souls was never better. What is needed is more forces in the field. Only two of us engaged actively in the work, it is impossible to cover all the field.

Our arrangements so far, are as follows: Bro. Chambers goes home for a ten days needed rest, the writer will go to Honey Creek station the first Sunday, second at Ransoms' school-house, likely preaching during the week, assisted by Bro. Adolph Madison, and Saturday before the third Sunday go to Neola to meet Bro. Chambers, and again try that hotbed of sectarianism.

It is hard work to get a foothold in the cities, especially without money, and that is a scarce commodity with the missionary. Bro. Chambers made allusion to this at the conference, and if any of the Saints have more money than they have use for at present, it would be thankfully received by ye missionaries, while in city work.

About twenty-five have been received into the church the past three months, and others are only waiting for the troubling of the waters. In Bro. H. N. Hansen the missionaries have a friend, who, by his wise counsel and his unflinching impartiality and kindness, strengthens their hearts and hands, and it is a pleasure to visit his home, presided over by Sr. Agnes, his better half.

Pray for us, brethren, that God will bless us, and send more laborers into the field for the harvest is all ready for the reapers. Ever praying for the success of the gospel, I am

Yours in bonds,
J. S. STRAIN.

LARO, Philippine Islands, July 22.
Editor Ensign:—Perhaps a few lines from this part of the world regarding the people, their modes of living, and religious belief, would be interesting to the Saints. I will try and give the best I can.

I have been in the Philippine Islands since October 27, 1899, and have been almost through the island of Luzon. I left Manila the 1st of December and traveled north about three hundred and fifty miles to Vigan, the second city in size on Luzon. I stayed in Vigan six months, and then came to Laro, my company being ordered here for garrison.

The Filipinos are divided into many different tribes, and each tribe has a separate language. I believe that is one reason the Americans make such slow progress. The Tagalos and Ilocanos are the most civilized, and live in the cities and towns of any size, while the Igorrote tribes live in the mountains and in small towns called barrios. From six to twelve bamboo houses are as many as is usually found in one barrio. The Igorrotos go almost naked, and live by fishing, raising rice, and on the bananas, coconuts and other fruits. They wear long hair like our American Indian. Some of them follow head hunting. They travel around in bands armed with spears, and occasionally attack a barrio of some other tribe. They cut the heads and hands off of those whom they murder and then eat them.

They ran a spear through an American soldier who belonged to E company of my regiment. He was sick and tired and had fallen a short distance behind his company. They severed his head and hands and ate them. They usually put the heads of their victims on sharp pointed poles and carry them off in that way. I do not know that this practice is carried on in southern Luzon.

The only religion I have ever seen or heard of them practicing is the worshiping of idols. The women wrap beads around their forearm from the wrist to the elbow. They keep their bodies tattooed and wear strings of beads and shells. Once in a while they come into the towns along the coast. Whenever they have their picture taken they place their idol at their feet. They bury the dead about the same way our Indians do, by interring rice, tobacco and their spears with them.

The Tagalos and Ilocanos live in the towns on the coasts, and raise rice, hemp, tobacco, sugar and coconuts, and most of them, especially those in the cities, speak Spanish, and are a mixed race of Spanish, Chinese, Filipinos, and a few Japanese. The real Filipino is short of stature, black in color, with black eyes and coarse, black hair. The mixed breeds are called "Mestizas."

The only religion is Roman Catholic; that is, they use the rites of the Roman Catholic church, but they do not recognize the pope of Rome as the head of their church. They simply act independently and do not send any money away from their own country for their church. Wages are very low (about 20 cents a day), and most of the money goes to the church. I believe that the priests, or padres as they are called, are almost entirely responsible for the insurrection. I do not believe they would tolerate any other religious belief than their own if they could help themselves, but the time is now close when they will have to give ear to others. In Manila their churches have already got their missionaries. The people themselves do not seem to know of anything but Catholicism; but the padres know that American rule will damage their church. Some of the priests have led charges against the Americans, and some have been killed in battle. They collect money through the church to carry on the insurgent army. "Agutaldos's March" is a tune they play in their churches quite often. The people stand at attention, and cross themselves while it is being played. They have frequent parades.

They have cockfighting almost in the church yard every Sunday after their meetings are over. They fasten sharp knives or gaffs to the legs of the cocks, and one, and sometimes both of them are killed. The people are confirmed gamblers; most of the priests keep Monte games going in their own house, and "bino" (a kind of rum) is sold in the rear of a great many of the churches. "Bino" is as bad an enemy to the American soldier as the insurrecto is. It sells at about two centanos a glass.

My company had an engagement with the enemy last Sunday evening. I had just written a letter home and had mailed it, and the mail was put on a wagon and sent to Vigan. A squad of about fifteen men were sent as an escort and when about one mile and a half south of here they were ambushed. One American soldier and two horses were killed on the American side. Five were found on the enemy's side. We tried to make a flank movement on them with the rest of the company, but failed, as they did not run the way we thought they would. About all the rebels left now are "ladrones" (thieves). They thought the wagon we had sent out had the pay master with it as it was about time for him, but they were mistaken. There was nearly one hundred of them.

Their church buildings are all large brick or stone structures, and have lots of bells attached to them.

One of the customs of the people is to build what is called skull pits. When the relations or friends of a dead person are too poor to pay the taxes on the grave, the bones are taken up and put in the pit which is a square pan made of brick in the rear of the church. Wheat flour is almost entirely unknown; in fact, I have never seen any of the natives have it unless they had traded for it from the soldiers; rice is used in its place. The natives carry everything on the top of their heads. They are all filthy people; smallpox is in nearly all the towns.

The rainy season is here now. It commences in May and lasts until November in southern part of the island; it does not last quite so long here; it rains some every day. I am expecting to start back home in November or December. I have learned to talk some Spanish.

All the natives use tobacco, men, women and children. The women smoke cigars that are as much as a foot in length, and some are longer than that.

There is but one railroad on the island; it is a narrow gauge. The cars are small and the road runs from Manila north to Dagupan, 185 kilometers, or about 115 American miles. All hauling or freighting done by natives is done with caribou, or water buffalo, and two wheeled carts.

Earthquakes are felt very often here; some very severe shocks are felt at times. I have seen the boys jump out of bed at night, and get outside during one of them. All brick buildings have walls about four feet thick, and are not over two stories high. Manila has no buildings higher than three stories. My regiment has had some very brisk engagements with the enemy since it has been here.

All houses are built up high off the ground on account of so much water during the rainy season. This town is two miles from the China sea. The Chinese are the most prosperous business men in this country.

These people, in my estimation, are not capable of running good government. I hope the time will not be long till elders will be sent here. Other churches have men in the field already. I ask an interest in the prayers of all Saints.

Your brother in the gospel,
LAWRENCE C. SMITH.
F. Co., 33d U. S. V. Infantry.

DENVER, Col., August 26.

Editor Ensign:—We left Denver Thursday night on the Burlington "Flyer" for conference at Wray, Colorado. After we had proceeded some distance, we were informed by the conductor that our train did not stop at Wray, and we would have to get off at Yuma, thirty miles short of our destination, and take the local freight in the morning. As the laws of railroads are as unchangeable as those of the Medes and Persians, we had to submit and so we waited in the depot at Yuma till 6:30, when the freight train arrived one hour late; but we boarded it, thinking we would be in Wray for a late breakfast; but freight trains are very uncertain; we got to Wray at 10 o'clock, three and one-half hours making thirty miles. We were met at the depot by Brn. Hansen, Duncan and Bullard, who had come, expecting the district tent to arrive from Colorado Springs on this train; but no tent arrived. Bro. Duncan was pretty blue, as he had shipped the tent from the Springs on Monday, and might reasonably expect it by Friday. So we interviewed the agent as to when we might expect it, and were informed that it had not yet been received by the Burlington from the Denver & Rio Grande, but he promised to do all he could for us, and telegraphed to Denver to have it shipped that night on the fast freight to Akron and transferred to the local there (as the fast freight does not stop at Wray), and so Saturday morning the tent arrived and Bro. D. was all smiles.

In the meantime the brethren had arranged for the use of the school-house if the tent did not come. Friday afternoon the Sunday School Association met at the house of Bro. E. D. Bullard; the session was short but very interesting; three children were confirmed who had been baptized previously. Friday night prayer meeting; the house was filled to overflowing, and a good time was had.

Saturday morning we met for business, E. P. Shupe and Joseph Luff presiding; the tent was comfortably filled with Saints from the surrounding country, who had come from fifty miles around to attend the conference; another was confirmed; business again at 2:30. At 8 p. m. the tent was crowded and more than could be accommodated, to hear Bro. Luff dispense the bread of life. Sunday at 9:30 Sunday School; at 11 a. m. Bro. Luff was again the speaker to a large congregation. After the morning service Bro. Bullard buried two precious souls beneath the liquid wave; at 2:30 sacrament and confirmation in charge of E. D. Bullard and A. B. Hansen; another good time. At 3 p. m. the tent was more than crowded, almost as many outside as in. Bro. Shupe was the speaker followed with a few remarks by Bro. Luff. This closed, according to the opinion of the writer, one of the most successful conferences of the district. The attendance was large both of the church and others, and the best of attention was paid; in fact, we never saw better attention, the people seemed almost starving for the bread of life. The brethren are still continuing the tent meetings. Bro. A. B. Hansen did good service in printing and distributing bills announcing the services. The writer and Bro. Luff returned to Denver Monday morning.

E. F. SHUPE.

JERUSALEM, Palestine, July 30.

Dear Ensign:—Will write you a letter and thank you for your weekly visits. You are a welcome friend. Wishing you were much larger and could come twice a week. You are always full of good news. Your sermons, letters, editorials and general church news are read with delight, love and joy. Your coming to us in this far away land makes us realize how good you are. In making your journey on ocean and sea to the Holy Land where our Lord and Master did so much for a lost and sinful world, I hope you will not stop your visits to me, for we would be lonely without your weekly trips. I am very thankful to the dear Saints, those who sent me the Heralds, Expositions and Hopes, and pray that the God of heaven will bless them for their kindness to me, for indeed it was like visiting with them, for I love the children of God dearly.

I will give you a few lines about the city of Jerusalem. It has indeed the appearance of becoming a great city before a great while from the great amount of building going on continually. The Jews are, I think, doing a great deal of building and some very fine and expensive. They are building a new hospital that is very large and beautiful. The Jews are a very industrious people; they are praying and weeping weekly for God to restore their beloved city Jerusalem and country back to them. Other people are spending much money and labor in making Jerusalem a great city. We have been nine years here and we have seen some improvements, some resembling a little our country, such as sprinkling the dusty streets, although in a very homely way, but they sprinkle the streets all the same. Also butter making is another improvement; we can get pretty fair butter now. There is another improvement I would love to see take place, that is making syrup from the sweet cane. The natives raise it to eat, but know not how to make syrup and sugar. I believe some one will come yet and make sugar and syrup. Syrup and sugar both are very high in price here. Jerusalem is a lively city, good markets, plenty of fruit, and vegetables. Figs will soon be ready for market; olives will not be ready for four months. The vineyards are all ripening and sending in their lovely grapes filling the market. We will have plenty of grapes and cheap too, until some time in October. Then the oranges will begin to come in and will last until May. There are some apples, but very poor and little and very high. Plenty of peaches and some very fine, but high in price. Last Thursday, August 2d, the news came here by telegram that the King of Italy had been assassinated; we have heard nothing more since.

I will bring this to a close hoping you may do much good.

Your sister in Christ,
Mrs. W. P. BROWN.

Camp Grounds,
Near SHERWIN JUNCTION, KS.,
August 20.

Editor Ensign:—The Spring River district reunion began Friday, August 10th. By the energetic supervision and labor of the committee, Brn. Taylor, Richards and McCall, the pleasant grove of tall oaks and hickory was made in readiness to receive all who were willing to come. The large pavilion was reared in a convenient location, and although it covers a large area it would not accommodate all the attendants at all times. The general oversight of the services was in charge of Bro. E. A. Davis, our district president.

The arrangement of services was such as is usually followed at reunions. After the arrival of Bro. J. A. Gunsolley, on Tuesday morning, from eight to nine o'clock we held a Sunday School session, and repeated the same program on Wednesday, Thursday and Sunday mornings.

Thursday afternoon was occupied by the Sunday School workers, Brn. E. A. Davis, M. S. Frick and J. A. Gunsolley occupying most of the allotted time in talks calculated to instill interest and arouse action in this line of work among members of the church. Sessions of institute work were taken up at the conclusion of the afternoon preaching services, Bro. J. A. Gunsolley taking charge. His services and instruction in teaching and general management of Sunday School and Religio work was gladly received and highly praised by teachers and members generally.

Friday afternoon was taken up by Zion's Religio-Literary Society. A program was introduced consisting of numerous subjects which related to the Religio work and were profitably discussed by a number. A new feature of the Religio work, "The Home Study Department" was explained by Bro. Gunsolley. At the conclusion of this service the baptism of Will Sherwin and Maud Thomas occurred, Bro. Warny officiating. The presiding and preaching was done by the following priesthood: Brn. E. A. Davis, T. S. Hayton, F. C. Keck, F. C. Warny, J. M. Richards, W. H. Prewit, J. A. Gunsolley, W. S. Taylor, S. D. Love, M. A. Love, A. M. Baker, E. E. Bradley, Noah Karahoo (Lamanite elder), E. W. Depew, John Thomas, W. B. Hillan, H. Thurman, J. W. Thorp, J. T. Davis, J. C. Severine, W. E. Hayden, J. T. Riley, M. S. Frick, W. S. Macrae, J. Briggs. The preaching throughout the entire ten days was stamped with Latter Day thoroughness. Brn. F. C. Keck and W. S. Macrae arriving on Monday, 13th, from the Oklahoma reunion, Bro. Macrae leaving for home on Thursday on account of sickness of wife and child; Bro. Keck going home Friday. On Thursday Bro. J. T. Riley and W. E. Hayden, from Indian Territory, and Bro. S. W. Simmons, from Arkansas, arrived. The latter was sick on arrival; he was relieved by administration, but did not feel well enough at any time to fill his appointments; on Sunday, 19th, he returned home.

The Saints were immeasurably built up through the inspiring character of the prayer and testimony meetings, the word of the Lord again being confirmed to his people by speaking in tongues, singing in tongues, interpretation of tongues, prophecy and revelation, the melting influence being present in great power; at one session, at least, I believe that every one of the large audience was shedding tears. Many persons present exclaimed that they never before saw such evidences of the divinity of this latter day work. We were warned against the results of ineffective discipline in the homes of his people; that he was pleased with our good desires, but was grieved that our actions were not more in harmony with our desires; that upon the rising generation depends a great work and upon the present fathers and mothers rests this great responsibility. Another confirmed this in speaking by the power of the Spirit—that parents should see to preparing their children, for it would be the children of this generation that would have to meet the great and trying events just preceding the coming of the Savior. Another declared that the children of this generation would be those who would be tried as by fire. These were indeed joyful seasons, and the outpouring of the Spirit of God at the different meetings was like showers in a very drouthy season.

The sermons preached and instructive lessons by the elders were never more enjoyed. The weather was all that could be wished throughout; however, it is too dry for the farmers best interests; roads are awfully dusty. The attendance was good; about forty families camped on the ground. Some of our Lamanite brethren from Indian Territory were present, and to our Bro. Karahoo (Lamanite) was delivered a great promise through prophecy.

I will not forget to mention that the sisters did not fail to remember the prayer union on Thursday afternoon, when they had a good spiritual feast. On Sunday evening, the 19th, closed one of the best reunions ever held in the southwest. A resolution was passed that we ask next district conference to take into consideration the time and place of a reunion next fall. On Sunday at 1 p. m. ten more were baptized.

By a vote of the congregation the district president, E. A. Davis, was requested to preach the closing sermon. The whole community for miles around came out.

Yours truly,
M. S. FRICK.

ZION'S ENSIGN.

Entered at the Post Office at Independence, Mo., as Second Class Matter.

COMMENTS ON SWEDEN-BORG.

CONCLUDED.

The Apostle John, looking down through the ages to the final consummation of all earthly affairs, says (Rev. 20: 13):

"And the sea gave up the dead which were in it; and death, and hell delivered up the dead which were in them: and they were judged every man according to their works."

The keys of hell and of death were formerly held by Satan, but now, thanks be to the Lord, they are held by Christ, he having obtained them through his own death and resurrection. (See Heb. 2: 14).

From the foregoing passages, I am forced to the conclusion that every person who is born into the world, at some period of his existence (either in this life or in the spirit world), has had, or will have, the privilege of hearing and accepting, or rejecting, the gospel of Christ. They can neither accept nor reject what they have never heard.

Those who accept and obey its requirements and remain ever faithful to their duties under it, will come forth in the first resurrection and inherit the celestial glory, compared by Paul with the glory of the sun.

Those who accept it and receive a remission of their sins by obedience to its first principles, but afterwards prove neglectful of duty, though never becoming positively vicious, nor letting go their hold on the gospel, will, I believe, come forth in the first resurrection and inherit the second, or terrestrial glory, compared by Paul with the glory of the moon. So also will those who have been blinded by the craftiness of men and by false education and traditions as to what God really requires of them, but have led good and noble lives, and have been obedient to the best light that they had.

Those who knowingly reject the gospel after having heard it in its fullness and have led vicious lives, cannot come forth in the first resurrection, but must remain in the spirit world till after the millennium. These will come forth in the last resurrection, and having suffered the full penalty for all their sins, having paid the uttermost farthing, will receive a reward proportioned to the amount of good that they have done. These will receive that lesser glory which Paul compares with the glory of the stars.

But there is still another class of whom Jesus said, "He that shall blaspheme against the Holy Ghost hath never forgiveness, but is in danger of eternal damnation." (Mark 3: 29). "But whosoever speaketh against the Holy Ghost, it shall not be forgiven him, neither in this world, neither in the world to come." (Matt. 12: 32). This is the class described by Paul in Hebrew 6: 4-6:

"For it is impossible for those who were once enlightened, and have tasted of the heavenly gift, and were made partakers of the Holy Ghost, and have tasted the good word of God, and the powers of the world to come, if they shall fall away, to renew them again unto repentance; seeing they crucify to themselves the Son of God afresh, and put him to an open shame."

These cannot hope to inherit any of those glories, for they are vessels of wrath, doomed to suffer the wrath of God, with the devil and his angels, in eternity.

I believe with Mr. S. that no man was created for hell, that God desires to save all, and that those who come short of salvation at last, are those who refuse to be saved. They gravitate towards hell by a natural law of attraction. They go to that place for which they have lived and for which their natures adapt them; they seek their own kind and they find them. If they are miserable there, they would be still more miserable if they were transferred to heaven.

I agree with Mr. S. that dying infants are immediately received into a state of blessedness, for they have committed no sin for which to be punished; and if (as some claim) they are infected with the guilt of original sin inherited from their ancestors, that sin has been fully atoned for by Christ. And believing, as I do, that we shall all begin the next life about as we end this, and that the future life of the Christian is to be one of eternal progression, both mentally and spiritually, I believe that education for the infant is just as necessary there as here, and that they are placed under the tuition of those best adapted to that work. I do not believe that they are always to remain infants, but that they grow up to manhood and womanhood the same as they would have done had they remained here.

I do not agree with him though, that they are all evil, and nothing but evil, nor that after they have become adults in heaven, they are let into evils there, in order to show them how awfully wicked they are. Jesus said of them, "Of such is the kingdom of heaven." (Matt. 19: 14; Mark 10: 14; Luke 18: 10). They cannot be so very wicked as to be adjudged totally depraved. But if it is necessary that they should see evil in order to recognize it and so be able to avoid it, and to give opportunity for the exercise of their free moral agency, and to learn what it is to resist temptation, there will be abundant opportunity for all that in the little season following the millennium, when the devil shall be unchained.

I fully agree with Mr. S. that in order to reach heaven, a man does not need to walk like a devotee, with a sad and sorrowful face and drooping head, but may be joyful and cheerful. In fact, the best Christians I have known have usually been of the cheerful kind.

I also agree with him that a man is not admitted to heaven because of his poverty, nor excluded because of his wealth. A rich man may get there as well as a poor man, if he has come by his wealth honestly and uses it properly, and does not make a god of it, nor allow it to pervert his nature or harden his heart against the poor. The rich men of Palestine, in the time of the early church, were the aristocracy, the potentates, who acquired their wealth by extortion, by robbing the laborer of his hire, and by oppressing the poor and making them slaves. James therefore had good reason for scoring them as he did. But though I believe that the rich and the poor may both gain an entrance into the New Jerusalem, I do not believe, as I did a certain wealthy church member whom I once knew, that if the poor ever reached heaven, they would have to be servants to the rich while there. The great trouble with both sides is that there is too much envy, jealousy, hatred and malice displayed between the rich and the poor. This ought not to be, especially among Christians.

THE SPIRIT WORLD.

Mr. S. says (p. 265, par. 421), "The world of spirits is not heaven, nor is it hell, but it is a middle place or state between both; for thither a man after death first comes, and then after some time he is, according to his life in the world, either elevated into heaven or cast into hell."

He also represents the spirits of the good as going thence, after a little preparation, directly into heaven, and the spirits of the wicked as going thence directly into hell. I agree with him in the idea that the spirit world is an intermediate place or state of existence (as I have already explained) and that some degree of preparation may there be made for a higher state of existence; but I do not think that the good and the bad spirits are intermingled there, nor that we step directly thence into heaven.

I believe that the spirit world includes both paradise, a state of blessedness, where the spirits of the good are received; and the prison house or pit, where the spirits of the wicked are confined and punished. In the spirit world, both the good and the bad spirits await the resurrection of their bodies. The good come forth at the beginning of the millennium and reign with Christ a thousand years (1 Thes. 4: 13-18; Rev. 20: 4, 6), but the wicked will not come forth till the end of the thousand years. (Rev. 20: 5).

Again, Mr. S. says (p. 277, par. 447):

"Death in the word, in its internal sense signifies resurrection and continuation of life."

And again (p. 278, par. 447):

"By resuscitation is meant the drawing forth of the spirit of man from the body, and its introduction into the spiritual world, which is commonly called resurrection."

Thus we see that Mr. S. makes death and resurrection identical in meaning, while the Scriptures makes them the opposites of each other.

"For as in Adam all die, even so in Christ shall all be made alive."—1 Cor. 15: 22.

Mr. S. makes the resurrection to mean the separation of body and spirit and the introduction of the spirit into the spirit world, while the Scriptures define it as the coming forth of the spirit from the spirit world and the reunion of the spirit with the body.

"It doth not yet appear what we shall be: but we know that when he shall appear, we shall be like him."—1 John 3: 2.

"Who [Christ] shall change our vile body, that it may be fashioned like unto his glorious body."—1 Thes. 3: 21.

Christ's resurrected body consisted of flesh and bones. (Luke 24: 36-43). It was the same body that was crucified.

"And the graves were opened; and many bodies of the saints which slept arose, and came out of the graves after his resurrection, and went into the holy city, and appeared unto many."—Matt. 27: 52, 53.

Our resurrection is to be like Christ's.

"But now is Christ risen from the dead, and become the first fruits of them that slept. For since by man came death, by man came also the resurrection of the dead. For as in Adam all die, even so in Christ shall all be made alive. But every man in his own order: Christ the first fruits; afterwards they that are Christ's at his coming."—1 Cor. 15: 20-23.

This last passage clearly places the resurrection in the future. So also do 1 Thessalonians 4: 16 and Revelation 20: 4-6, 12, 13, whereas Mr. S. makes each man's resurrection coincident with his death.

I agree with Mr. S. that a man's spirit is in a perfect human form (as I have already stated), for we read in the Bible of the spirits seeing and recognizing one another in the spirit world, as in the case of Abraham, Lazarus, and the rich man, and also that the angels, who are all ministering spirits, were often taken for men. And, as I have already stated, I agree with him in his idea that a man begins the next life about as he ends this. The body is the house in which the spirit dwells; and when a man steps out of his house, he is not miraculously changed into somebody else. He is the same man with the same character, feelings and disposition as before. And I believe that the same traits of character that a man possesses in this life he will retain in the next (for a long period at least), except that in the case of Christ's followers, their undesirable traits will, in the course of time, be overcome and purged away.

I agree with Mr. S. in the idea that heaven must be entered, if at all, through a long period of progression, not by an immediate act of mercy at the time of the man's death. We must become perfect beings, as perfect even as the angels are, and adapted to the environments of heaven, before we can enter there. Without this perfection and adaptation, we could not be happy in heaven, even were we permitted to dwell there.

But to attain to that condition, it will be necessary for most of us, if not for all, to make the best improvement possible during the entire millennium, with all the advantages of having the devil chained, hardships and temptations removed, our bodies perfected, our minds quickened and strengthened, and Christ himself for our companion, teacher and ruler.

I believe that Mr. S.'s "correct" in his idea that God rules in hell (the Bible teaches that), and that he modifies and ameliorates to some extent the sufferings there. That would be according to his mercy. If the power of Satan were wholly unrestrained, the sufferings of his victims would be far more severe than they are.

I believe also that he is right in his statement that the punishments there are manifold, being more gentle or more severe according to the evils which men have committed. That is according to reason and justice. Were it otherwise, God would not be rewarding every man according to his works. Jesus himself says, speaking of certain cities:

"Verily I say unto you, It shall be more tolerable for the land of Sodom and Gomorrah in the day of judgment than for that city."—Matt. 10: 15.

That was a positive statement, emphatically expressed, that there are different degrees of punishment in the next life.

I believe also, as I have already explained, that God forces no man to hell, that he goes of his own accord to that place and to that society which is most congenial to his nature. Every man has originally both good and evil in his nature, and if, in the exercise of his free moral agency, he will cultivate the good and ever strive, with God's help, to overcome the evil, the tendency of his nature will lead him upward. His desire will then be to do right, to please God, and to obey his commandments, as far as he understands them. This tendency, if guided aright, will eventually lead to the salvation of his soul. The most serious obstacles in that man's way are false teachings and false traditions, but the Lord will take all such things into consideration in judging him.

But if, on the other hand, he cultivates the evil and allows it to overcome the good, his tendency is downward as surely as by the natural law of gravitation. Thus it is that a man becomes responsible for his own destiny and enters that condition in the next life to which his conduct in this life has adapted him.

HELL.

I think Mr. S.'s explanation of hell fire, that it is the result of envy, hatred, malice, selfishness and all the other evils of a wicked spirit's lower or infernal nature intensified, is a very plausible one, to say the least, and I am not disposed to contradict it. We all know by experience that those feelings tend to fierce heat; so much so that the expressions hot with anger, burning with hatred and heat of passion are common household words.

Now, in a place and condition wherein all the evil sentiments and characteristics known to man have full sway, where every person is filled to overflowing with hatred and malevolence toward every other person, and where the chief occupation is persecuting, harassing and tormenting one another, how many times more fierce and intense must that heat become than anything of that nature that we have ever experienced here. I think that fire is the most appropriate figure by which it can be expressed. Therefore I have no desire to controvert that position, but am satisfied to let it stand upon its merits.

Although evil spirits naturally seek one another's society as being more suited to their tastes than the society of good spirits, as there is no love there but the love of self, there is nothing in their congeniality to restrain the fullest exercise of all their worst passions.

In this description I am not referring to the spirits in prison to whom Christ went, and preached after his death on the cross, many of whom were susceptible to good influences, but to those who absolutely refuse the proffered salvation, those who have "trodden under foot the Son of God, and have counted the blood of the covenant, wherewith they were sanctified, an unholy thing, and have done despite to the Spirit of grace." (Heb. 10: 29).

I have no objection to offer to Mr. S's view of the expression gnashing of teeth, that it is the continual dispute and combat of falsities and of those who are in falsities with each other, because every one fights for his own falsity and calls it truth and that these disputes and combats are heard like the gnashing of teeth.

MY OWN VIEWS.

I will now give you a brief synopsis of the religious doctrines which I believe and accept.

I believe in God the Eternal Father, in Jesus Christ his Son, and in the Holy Ghost.

I believe that men will be punished for their own sins, and not for Adam's transgression.

I believe that through the atonement of Christ all men may be saved (if they so will) by obedience to the laws and ordinances of the gospel.

I believe those ordinances are:

- (1) Faith in God and in his Son Jesus Christ; but that faith must be an obedient one, not a mere historical belief in their existence and their divinity. The devils believe in them that way and acknowledge them as God.
- (2) Repentance, and by that word I mean turning away from sin, ceasing to do evil and learning to do well, and rectifying so far as lies in our power whatever wrongs we have committed, not a mere empty regret for sin without a cessation of it or any attempt at restitution.
- (3) Baptism by immersion by those in authority for the remission of sins.
- (4) Laying on of hands by those in authority for the gift of the Holy Ghost.

But we must not stop at these ordinances. We must go on unto perfection, adding to our faith virtue; and to virtue knowledge; and to knowledge temperance; and to temperance patience; and to patience godliness; and to godliness brotherly kindness; and to brotherly kindness charity." And we must also live in the daily exercise of all the christian graces.

We must continually strive to become wiser and better; to overcome the evil within our natures; to do right because it is right and to avoid wrong because it is wrong, and not because we hope to gain a reward by doing the one or avoid a punishment by abstaining from the other; to do by all (both enemies and friends) as we would wish to be done by; to become more and more like Christ and to hold out faithful even unto the end.

I believe in the resurrection of the body, that the dead in Christ will rise first, and that the rest of the dead will not live again until the thousand years (the millennium) are expired.

I believe in the doctrine of eternal judgment, which provides that men shall be judged and rewarded or punished according to the degree of good or evil that they shall have done.

I believe that a man must be called of God as was Aaron, and ordained by the laying on of hands of those who are in authority to entitle him to preach the gospel and administer in the ordinances thereof.

I believe in the same kind of organization that existed in the primitive church, viz., apostles, prophets, bishops, seventies, elders, pastors, teachers, evangelists, etc.

I believe that in the Bible is contained the word of God so far as it is translated correctly. I believe that the canon of Scripture is not full, but that God by his Holy Spirit will continue to reveal his word to man until the end of time.

I believe in the powers and gifts of the everlasting gospel, viz., the gift of faith, discerning of spirits, prophecy, revelation, healing, visions, tongues, and the interpretation of tongues, wisdom, charity, brotherly love, etc.

I believe that the religion of Jesus Christ as taught in the New Testament Scriptures will, if its precepts are accepted and obeyed, make men and women better in the domestic circle and better citizens of town, county and state, and consequently better fitted for the change which cometh at death.

I believe that man should worship God in spirit and in truth, and that such worship does not require a violation of the constitutional law of the land unless I can clearly perceive a law to be directly opposed to justice, morality and the law of God. In that case I would obey God rather than man.

I believe that obedience to law, loyalty to government, and patriotism are christian duties and should be practiced by all.

I believe that every one should be allowed to worship God according to the dictates of his own conscience so far as the exercise of that privilege does not interfere with the rights of others.

Your brother in Christ,
G. L. JONES.

THE WORK IN RICHMOND.

Dear Ensign.—I feel like chatting a few moments with the dear Saints this morning, for there are many things of an encouraging nature to tell you.

Bro. Goodrich has been with us for some time, although not holding many meetings as yet, still I think he has done some good work for the Master. It was so extremely hot the week after he first came, that it was almost impossible to go out much, but we made several calls together, and he made some by himself, and we told the gospel story, and distributed tracts; we find quite a good number willing to read, and that seems about the most we can do to sow the gospel seed in every fertile spot we can find. No, not all, we can pray and trust. Paul may plant and Apollos may water, God only can give the increase.

The Apostolic minister here is doing good work, and if the ministers of our church, or of the church of Jesus Christ, were all as consecrated and as fearless as he is, there would soon be a convulsion in the religious world, so called, that would overthrow Babylon. He is preaching much truth, and is really preparing his followers for the reception of the angel's message. I have not time in this short letter to tell you all I wish to concerning him and his work, but I want all who really feel an interest in the advancement of the Master's cause here in this place, to pray, and pray earnestly, for Bro. Daugherty, that he may see the truth clearly, and, seeing the truth, may have the courage of his convictions.

I expect soon to send a long article under the head of "Notes and Comments," then you can all see the reason I have for being so hopeful. He does not seem to antagonize me at all and one night as I gave him a tract and told him to read it, so he could see what I was giving his people to read, he said, "Go ahead, sister, I'm not going to kick." I generally go to him and say something to him about his sermon, after service is over, especially if he has touched on some points of our doctrine not accepted by the orthodox churches.

Last night he preached on the angels' visit and message to Zacharias and showed how it was a devout and consecrated priest who believeth not the angel's message, and said it would be so today. He touched on the possibility of angels' visits today, and showed how the dumbness that fell on Zacharias was not the only sad effect of refusing to believe the angel's message, but the people had to suffer for it also. He had no blessing to give them, no benediction, no words of cheer and encouragement, might as well have no priest. I went to him after service and said, "Bro. Daugherty, why did you not go a little farther?" He said, "I would, but I saw the people were getting restless." I was determined he should know what I meant, so I said, "You ought to have told them that the angel had come and brought a message and the priests were as disbelieving today as was Zacharias." He said, "I do not look for angels always to come with wings either, for they would most likely come in the garb of man. I used to notice, and if I heard a strange preacher speak of his trade, or of his place of residence, some where, then I would conclude that he could not be an angel, but I don't do that any more, I have come to the conclusion that I do not know anybody anymore. I sometimes think that I may have turned away angels unaware, in fact I think I have many of them." So many came crowding around him to speak to him, I had no further opportunity. Straws show which way the wind blows, and I am glad to note so many straws of thought showing that the current is setting in the right direction.

Bro. Goodrich and myself visited another lady of the Utah church and found her thoroughly disgusted with Utahism, having been to Utah and seeing with her own eyes that they still practiced the accursed doctrine of polygamy there. But she is firm in the gospel faith. We spent a very pleasant and, I trust, profitable time with her, Bro. G. telling her, as he generally tells all with whom he talks, that if they will ask God, He will give them a witness that his words are true, and that he is indeed sent of God. As we arose to go she said, I feel that I want you to bless my baby, so we had prayer with her, and then her babe was brought in and he blessed it. It was the first I had ever seen blessed. Bro. Goodrich is in Newport News now; will be back next week, I expect, to hold a series of meetings here. Many thanks to all who so kindly sent me papers.

Now my word to each is, if you have not laid all on the altar, to do so at once, hold nothing back. Lie not to the Holy Ghost, a full and free giving up of all to God is our duty and our reasonable service. A whole heart or none. Remember me in your prayers.

Your sister in the faith,
A. R. CORSON.

Dear Saints:—Since writing the above, some things have occurred of which I would like to speak, if the editor can let me have a little more of his valuable space. I went again to call on that lady of whom I wrote in the above, and she told me many things of her life in Utah, and I don't wonder at her being disgusted. But she says she can never turn to any of the orthodox churches, for she realizes that truth is truth no matter in what company it is found. A diamond would be a diamond just the same if found on a dung hill as if found in a king's palace.

I took her a number of Heralds bound together, containing "The Succession to the Presidency." The sister who sent them to me will be pleased to know that they went to a soul who was hungering for just such meat as they contained. I found a lady there from Powhatan county, with whose kin people I was well acquainted, and at first I was tempted to keep still and not say anything about our holy faith, but wait till some other time to speak to Mrs. C., but remembering my promise to my God, and that, "We want no cowards in our ranks," I ventured. I had with me my article on polygamy in reply to those Utah elders, and asked permission to read it while they sewed; so then I explained to this lady that my faith was that of the Latter Day Saints, with a few words of explanation as to the differences between us and the Utah people who call themselves by the same name. I also read her the Epitome of our faith, and she agreed with every word of it, which surprised me somewhat as I expected to find her a strong Baptist, as all her friends and kins-people were; but she told me that she once joined the Methodist church, but not till she was forty-seven years old, "and that is what kept me out of any church for so long," she said, "one teaching one thing and one another." At present she is not a member of any church. About several points in which we differ from the orthodox churches, she said she had held the same views for a long time. "I wish," she said, "you could have a talk with old Mr. —, naming an old gentleman who is one of the pillars of the particular Baptist church to which her friends belong. Thank the dear Lord with me that I did have courage to speak; I, at least, have shown her where to look for truth, and she said she would gladly read all the papers I would give her.

Last Sunday afternoon I went over to the home of a Mr. Murry, a member of the Apostolic Church, who I think is led of the Lord. He has a clearer knowledge of God's word than almost any man I ever met, and yet he cannot read a word. It is at his house I attended the prayer meetings I have mentioned. I took a few tracts along and while gathering them up I was impressed with the thought that I would need an "Epitome of the Faith." Well, after conversing awhile he said, "Sr. Corson, I want to ask you one question and I know you will tell me the truth and you will not be offended at me." "No, indeed," I replied, "ask all the questions you wish."

"Well, does your church teach that a man can have seven wives?" "No, indeed, it does not," I replied, and now I know why I was told to bring the "Epitome of Faith" with me; I did not know when I started, but something seemed to tell me I would need it. So I read first the paragraphs on marriage. He said he knew better, but the persons that said it were so sure I thought I would ask you. Then he said he had asked the Lord about me and the Lord had shown him that I was to be believed. I do not care to say all he said as it would sound like boasting, but I thank the Lord that he is witnessing to the truth of my words.

The next night I had a little business with him, so I went over to his house and it so chanced (shall I say chanced?) that the same sister who told him about the seven wives, came in, so Bro. Murry said, "Sr. W., you know what you told me about the church Sr. Corson belongs to—allowing a man to have seven wives?" "Yes." "Well, 'tain't no such thing. Sr. Corson had the articles of her faith with her when I asked her, and read them to me, and let me tell you they are Bible, sister." He said to his little girl, "Go to my Bible and bring me that little paper in it." Then he asked me to read it. Meanwhile a man from Halifax came in, also one or two boarders, so I had quite a little audience. As I read each paragraph Bro. Murry would say, "that's Bible," or "that's truth" or "that's all right." "Sister," he said to her, "I have always felt to have confidence in Sr. Corson, haven't you?" "Yes," she replied, "I have always felt to have confidence in whatever she says." And then Mr. Murry said that he never has been mistaken yet when God shows him what a person is. That is his way of speaking it.

Once he told me after my speaking in prayer meeting concerning the true church, that God had shown him the true church and he will know it when he sees it. We are nearly correct, but the true church will have all things common. He said he asked the Lord to show him the truth about Joseph Smith and God showed me this, said he. Joseph Smith is the Elias that was to come to make all things ready before Christ comes in his glory. He knows nothing about the work of Joseph only the little I have told him and possibly others, but I do not think that idea advanced at all.

It is not common for the P. S. to be longer than the letter, but I do not know just when I may get time to write again, as I expect to go to Newport News tonight and stay until the 7th, when I expect Bro. Goodrich will be here, and my spare time will be taken up in other ways. But I wish to relate two dreams I have had recently that seem to have a spiritual meaning.

I dreamed that I was walking along a narrow brick paved path in company with several of the Saints, among whom was Bro. G. All at once I noticed there was a low paling fence running along separating the path in two parts, and on the other side from me was the Apostolic people whom I know. We were all marching along in the same direction, but we on our side of the fence seemed to be moving a little faster so that we were passing them. Nearly all had their heads bowed as if troubled about something; especially was this the case with Bro. Goodrich and Bro. D., the pastor of the Apostolic church, but I had my head up watching to see what was going on and so did many others on both sides, and as I in passing came opposite to such as were watching they would seem surprised to see me, and would reach their hands out over the fence and exclaim, Why, how are you, sister? So we marched on and all at once I was surprised to discover the low paling all gone and there was nothing separating us. Then I noticed that the path began to ascend and was leading up a very steep hill. I could see a large throng ascending the hill rapidly, the summit of which was bathed in the most beautiful light as we sometimes see when the sun sets behind a hill, only there was a peculiar softness about this light that was not like sunlight. I told this dream at Sunday School in the class and the teacher's eyes filled with tears as she extended her hand. I also mentioned it to another who said on my remarking how Bro. D. was preaching more and more as we believed, and that it looked as if my dream might come true and that fence be removed at last, "Yes, he keeps pounding away at it." And so he does; he knocked several palings off last Sunday night.

I also dreamed a few nights ago that I was at Bro. D's house and he had the table set, and many guests there. He asked me to dine with them; I replied, "No, but I will take a little milk." I thought milk seemed to be the principal thing on the table. I sat down on a low stool at his feet when he poured some milk in a saucer and gave it to me, and as I was drinking he took up a bottle and poured some beer, it tasted like, in with my milk; without saying a word I immediately spit it back in the saucer and said, "I told you I wanted nothing but milk," and poured the rest out. He seemed hurt and surprised, but just then I awoke with these words in my mind, "Nothing but the sincere milk of the word."

Since I began writing this P. S. I received a letter that set the joy bells ringing loudly in my heart. It is from Sr. Martha Proctor, Dallas, Polk county, Oregon, who says my articles have been a help to her, and the published correspondence between myself and Bro. Goodrich helped her to see the truth, but she is in a little trouble yet about the Inspired Translation of the Bible. I have not got it, therefore am not prepared to help as I would like. I shall reply soon, and if the little discrepancy she finds between this and the other books is all, I think it will soon be made plain to her. I hope some one will write to her. She is even more alone than I am in the faith, as I do have Dr. Starke to talk with once in awhile, and have met several of the Saints since my baptism and feel thankful to God for the privilege of Bro. Goodrich's company. Let I weary you will say God be with you all. Amen.

Your sister in the true faith,
ALICE R. CORSON.
3829 4th St., Fulton,
Richmond, Va., Aug. 3.

POLYGAMY NOT A NATURAL INSTITUTION.

Editor Ensign:—In your issue for July 26th, in an article by Sr. Alice R. Corson, entitled "Notes and Comments," I notice that the Utah elders are still stating that there is a large majority of women, and this is a premise upon which the conclusion is predicated that polygamy is the natural marital relation between the human species. To show that the Utah representatives are incorrect in this statement, I herewith forward you a quotation from Dr. Combes' "Moral Philosophy," published first in this country (Scotland), 1840, but in America some time earlier between this date and 1886.

Lecture 6, "Polygamy and Divorce." "On the subject of polygamy I may remark that it is pretty well ascertained by statistical researches that the proportions of the sexes born are thirteen males to twelve females. From the greater hazards to which the male sex is exposed, this disparity is reduced in adult life to equality; indeed in almost all Europe, owing to the injurious habits and pursuits of the men, the balance among adults is turned the other way, the females of any given age above puberty preponderating over the males."

From the foregoing it can be seen that so far as nature is concerned equality is the rule and disparity the exception. The reasons given for the greater number of females in Europe is because of the injurious habits which may be classified as war, drunkenness, vice and sensuality, drink alone being responsible for more deaths, than war, famine and disease combined. Of course, the pursuits in which men are engaged were, and still are very dangerous; but since 1840 matters have been still more equalized by the introduction of dangerous pursuits for women which have increased the mortality among females by diseases such as phthisis, anemia and pulmonary consumption, which diseases have become almost epidemic in European countries, and some, such as England and Germany, are treating them as contagious diseases, and isolation is being adopted. So I think we can safely claim equality in the present time. Further:

"In some Eastern countries more females are born than males; and it is said that this indicates a design in nature that there, each male should have several wives. But there is reason to believe that the variation from the proportion of thirteen to twelve is the consequence of vicious habits in the males. In our own country it is observed that when old men marry young females the progeny are generally daughters, and I infer that, in the eastern countries alluded to, in which an excess of females exists, the cause may be found in the superior vigor and youth of the females.

"The equality of the sexes, therefore, when the organic laws are duly observed, affords one strong indication that polygamy is not a natural institution. This conclusion is strengthened by considering the objects of the domestic affections. Harmonious gratification of the faculties constituting the domestic group in accordance with the moral sentiments and the intellect, is attended with the greatest amount of pure enjoyment and the most advantageous results, but this can only be attained by the union of one male with one female."

Let us now compare the domestic relations of polygamy as portrayed by Brigham Young, and by comparing the scanty records of the domestic relation of even Bible worthies we see plainly that polygamy in its effects is diametrically opposed to monogamy, and so judging by fruits, premising first that "God is the author of peace and not confusion," we present in contrast the "Moral (or immoral) Philosophy of President Young."

"Men will say, my wife, though an excellent woman, has not seen a happy day since I took my second wife. No, not a happy day for a year, says one; and another has not seen a happy day for five years. I am going to give you from this time to the 6th of October next for reflection, that you may determine whether you wish to stay with your husbands or not, and then I am going to set every woman at liberty, and say to them, Now, go your way."

GOD says, "What I the Lord have joined together let no man put asunder." What about the divine authority for polygamy? I think Brigham Young forgot when he uttered the foregoing language.

"And my wives have got to do one of two things; either round up their shoulders to endure the afflictions of this world, and live their religion [so this superb apostle of polygamy evidently makes the admission that his polygamy cannot produce any other fruit to these poor souls than an unutterable affliction, and yet we have got to believe (or be damned) that God devised such a diabolical scheme. Not so long as it is written "God is love," and "Great peace have they which love thy law, O God." Let God be true and Brigham the liar. "He that is sent of God speaketh the words of God. Then upon scriptural authority we denounce this man as an impostor in claiming to be a servant of God.] or they may leave, for I will not have them about me. I will go in heaven alone [yet, don't forget his revelation made it impossible only on condition of possessing more wives than one] rather than have them scratching and fighting around me. Prepare yourselves for two weeks from tomorrow; and I will tell you now, that if you tarry with your husbands after that I have set you free, you must bow down to it, and submit yourselves to the celestial law. You may go where you please after two weeks from tomorrow, but remember that I will not hear any more of this whining."—Journal of Discourses, Vol. 4, pp. 55-57.

Then by its fruits, polygamy stands condemned, and cannot have emanated from God because it produces the very opposite to God's nature. "The fruit of the Spirit is love joy, peace, long suffering, gentleness, goodness, faith, meekness, temperance. Against such there is no law. * * If we live in the Spirit, let us walk in the Spirit. Let us not be desirous of vain glory, provoking one another, envying one another."—Gal. 5: 22-26.

Evidently the spirit of Utah Mormonism is no relation of this spirit so sublime in its majestic simplicity.

Again hear Dr. Combe:
"Further, when we consider that in married life the pleasures derived from the domestic affections are unspeakably enhanced by the habitual play of the moral feelings, and that polygamy is fatal to the close sympathy, confidence, and respect, and reciprocal devotion, which are the attendants of active moral sentiments, we shall be fully convinced that the Creator has not intended that man should unite themselves to a plurality of wives."

Then indisputably the moral philosophy is arrayed against this offspring of Utah Mormonism, and when we consider too that God's aim and object in the establishing of the gospel economy is that by a utilization of the helps and government attaching thereto, we are to become partakers of the divine nature, this nature being God's nature, holiness, purity and spirituality, it is impossible that this high spiritual standard of godliness can be obtained by feeding the abnormal appetite of fleshly lusts. Why, God would frustrate the very designs His inscrutable wisdom had conceived. Outside of the glamour, and disrobed of its sophism, the grim, stark fact remains that polygamy is only an unnatural, godless method, adopted by mankind for the feeding of their carnal nature. Let us heed then, the admonition of the inspired apostle:

"For they that are of the flesh do mind the things of the flesh: but they that are after the Spirit, the things of the Spirit. For to be carnally minded is death, but to be spiritually minded is life and peace. Because the carnal mind is enmity against God, for it is not subject to the law of God neither indeed can be. So then they that are in the flesh cannot please God."—Romans 8: 5-8.

The sorrowful history of the rise and decline of polygamy, especially so far as Utah is concerned, in livid letters of sin and misery, attest in pitiful eloquence that Paul spoke the truth. For following contingent, as it were, upon their open disregard of God's sacred law governing marriage, it seemed as though the very sluices of sin and rapine were flung back wide and outrushed the overwhelming torrents of licentiousness that completely swallowed up every vestige of truly manliness and inspiration, and a protracted defense of such anti-christian, unnatural doctrines, is only evidencing that the light that was in them, having become darkness, the darkness is unutterable.

J. W. RUSHTON.
HAMILTON, Scotland.
Dairy For Sale or Lease.

Fifteen good milk cows, one two-year old short horn bull. Milk and butter route, cans and wagon; also house and barns to shelter all of stock; also 30 tons of hay if wanted. Inquire of John Allison, 702 South Avenue, Independence, Mo.
35-41.

Teach Children Economy in Little Things.

Teach children not to waste trifles which they often throw away without thought, and which if saved might be of use to others, if not to themselves. Wrapping paper, pieces of twine, odds and ends of various kinds may do service a second time if put away until the need for them arises. The habit of economy is one that ought to be cultivated, for careful saving makes lavish giving possible. Hoarding is not a vice of childhood, nor should it be encouraged, but the wise husbanding of resources for future expenditure is a valuable lesson that cannot be learned too early.—August Ladies' Home Journal.

Grains of Truth.

Good efforts will not be lost. They conquer who endure. 'Tis well to save, 'tis well to have, A goodly store of gold. To buy and give to those in need, For this world's charity is scarce indeed.

Bear and forbear are the best bears to have in a family.

Ministers of God should not be like the finger boards on the highways, always pointing the road for folks to go on, but never going that way themselves.

A MITE.

To Clean and Polish a Piano.

In cleaning and polishing a piano go over the woodwork with a cloth wet with paraffine oil, being generous with the oil where the woodwork is very much soiled. Let this remain two or three hours; this is to soften the dirt. Then wash with soap and water and a soft cloth, being careful not to let any water touch the works inside the piano. Use a good white or a white castile soap. Wipe dry with a soft cloth and polish with soft old linen or chammois leather.—September Ladies' Home Journal.

THE Collegiate and Educational articles that appear regularly in The Delineator from the pen of Carolyn Halsted, are far more than newsy chit-chat. They have the serious intention of either informing the outer world regarding purposeful developments in College methods, or of aiding the student to be more, to do more, and to get more than appears on the surface of College life. Her September contribution consists of "Suggestions to the New Student." It is wise and can be read with profit by the new to whom all things collegiate are novel, and by the old student for whom the early experiences of Collegiate life are becoming mere hazy memories.

Oil Cure for Cancer.

Dr. Bye has discovered a combination of oils that readily cure cancer, catarrh, tumors and malignant skin diseases. He has cured thousands of persons within the last six years, over one hundred of whom were physicians. Readers having friends afflicted should cut this out and send it to them. Book sent free giving particulars and prices of Oils. Address Dr. Bye, Drawer 1111, Kansas City, Mo.

RHEUMATISM.

A BLOOD DISEASE AND CURED BY B. B. B.

BOTTLE FREE TO SUFFERERS.

Rheumatism is as much a blood disease as cancer, ulcer or scrofula, and to cure to stay cured, it should be treated as such; hence Botanic Blood Balm (B. B. B.) should be used. It neutralizes the specific poison that causes rheumatism, expels it from the system, and permanently cures after everything else fails. George W. Leonard, of Atlanta, writes under date of July 2, 1899, that he was cured of Rheumatism ten years ago by B. B. B.; that before that he suffered most excruciating pains in bones and limbs. His hands would puff up and swell, his knee caps would get so stiff he could hardly bend them, and he could hardly walk without the aid of a crutch. He tried doctors and medicines, but none reached the root of the trouble, which was in the blood. Sometimes he thought he had found a cure, but alas, his symptoms would come back again until he was cured ten years ago by the use of eight large bottles of B. B. B., and he has been perfectly well ever since. John M. Davis, of Tyler, Texas, had been subject to attacks of inflammatory rheumatism since ten years of age, yet he was permanently cured, with no trace of the disease left, by eight large bottles of B. B. B. To further convince you that B. B. B. cures the most obstinate case, we will send a sample bottle free, so you may test the remedy at our expense. Can anything be fairer? You will find large bottles for sale by all druggists for $1.00, or six bottles (full treatment), $5.00. For free trial bottle enclose five cents, which pays exact cost of postage (the medicine is free), and address BLOOD BALM CO., 86 Mitchell St., Atlanta, Ga., and bottle and medical book will be sent, all charges prepaid. Describe your trouble, and we will include free medical advice.

ANNOUNCEMENT.

Having been in ill health during the past two years, I have not been actively engaged in business; but my health now being much improved, I have accepted a proposition from a large Clothing and Cloak Establishment to handle their line of goods, and am again prepared to offer my old patrons Good Value in clothing at very low prices. Thanking all for past favors, I now solicit your patronage in the future; I also desire to make new friends and solicit correspondence. Will give special discounts to ministry. Prince Albert Suits a specialty. Respectfully,

GILBERT J. WHITEHEAD. 1010 Francis St., St. Joseph, Mo.

Low Rates.

HOME SEEKERS' EXCURSIONS.

The Missouri Pacific Railway and the Iron Mountain Route are now running a series of excursions to the west and southwest and to points in Arkansas, Louisiana and Texas, at the very low rate of one fare for the round trip, plus two dollars. Detailed information will be cheerfully furnished, as well as maps, folders, time cards, and illustrated pamphlets on the various states, by addressing H. C. Townsend, General Passenger and Ticket Agent, St. Louis, Mo., or F. A. Millard, City Agent, Independence, Mo.

Books and Pamphlets

PRICE LIST

- "FROM PALMYRA TO INDEPENDENCE," by Elder R. Etzenhouser, 444 pages; Cloth binding, 40 cents; Paper binding, 44 cents. $1.00 65
"AUTOBIOGRAPHY OF ELDER JOSEPH LUFF," 377 pages; cloth bound; 3 illustrations, Reduced from $1.00 to..... 75
"THE BOOK OF MORMON VINDICATED," by Elder I. M. Smith; 112 pages; Paper cover, 4 for 1.00; each..... 30
"THE PERSONALITY OF GOD AND DOCTRINE OF CHRIST," by Elder J. S. Rothli; 38 pages..... 60
"SAVE YOURSELVES," by Elder I. M. Smith; 34 pages..... 25
"THE BOOK OF MORMON AND ITS TRANSLATOR," by Elder R. Etzenhouser; 27 pages; paper cover; 3 for 25c, each..... 10
"THE LEGAL SUCCESSION," by Apostle J. W. Wight; 90c per doz.; 3 for 25c; each..... 10
"APOSTASY OF THE CHURCH," by Apostle J. W. Wight; 40 pages; paper cover; 3 for 25c; each..... 10
"THE JOSEPH SMITH INTERVIEW," by Elder Joseph Luff's answer to Elder R. A. Carter; by E. L. Kelley; per hundred; 90c; per doz. 15c; 6 for 10c; 2 for..... 5
"IS WATER BAPTISM ESSENTIAL TO SALVATION," by Elder Joseph Luff. 90c per 100; 15c per doz.; 6 for 10c; 2 for..... 5
"WHAT WERE BELIEVERS' THEFTS OF FAITH," with quotations given in full. 20c per doz.; 2 for..... 5
HISTORICAL ENGRAVING, size 2x2 1/2 inches; postpaid in U. S. or Canada..... 50
"EVANGELIA LOST," a duet for soprano and tenor; words by J. Cole Moxon; music by W. H. Lieb..... 25
SERMON PAMPHLETS. The following pamphlets 5 cents each, 3 for 10 cents, 6 for 15 cents, or 25 cents per dozen: "Signs of the Times," Revised and Enlarged, by Elder J. S. Rothli; 70 pages; illustrated..... 50
"THE Book of Mormon; Evidence of its Divinity," by Elder R. C. Evans; 58 pages..... 50
"The Law of Life," by Elder F. M. Cooper; 38 pages..... 50
"The Restoration of Israel," by Elder S. W. Luff; 46 pages..... 50
"A Retrospective View of the Reorganization," by E. C. Briggs; 36 pages..... 50
"Gospel Message," by President Joseph Smith; 64 pages..... 50
"Modern Knowledge of the Antiquities of America," by Elder H. A. Stebbins; 34 pages..... 50
"Creed Making; Man Shall Not Add To Nor Take From the Word of God," by Elder I. M. Smith; 36 pages..... 50
"Antiquarian Evidence Concerning the Book of Mormon," by Elder E. L. Kelley; 40 pages..... 50
"Joseph Smith: Was He a Prophet of God?" by Elder R. C. Evans; 40 pages..... 50
"Sign Seekers," by Elder I. M. Smith; 32 pages..... 50
"Gospel Antiquity," by Elder Joseph Luff; 34 pages..... 50
"God's Light," by Elder W. H. Kelley; 46 pages..... 50
"Who I Left the Baptist Church," by Elder W. H. Kephart; 33 pages..... 50
"The Marriage Relation," by Elder J. W. Wight; 41 pages..... 50
"The Personality of God and Doctrine of Christ," by Elder J. S. Rothli; 38 pages..... 50
"Save Yourselves," by Elder I. M. Smith; 34 pages..... 50
We also fill orders for all Herald office publications. Address all orders and make all remittances to Independence, Mo. ENSIGN PUBLISHING HOUSE, Independence, Mo. Missouri Pacific Railroad. Quick time, good connections, low rates to all points. Rates, time cards, etc., cheerfully furnished on application. F. A. MILLARD, Agent. Telephone 17.

STATE SAVINGS BANK OF LAMONI.

Incorporated under the laws of the State of Iowa, July 1, 1898,

Offers depositors a safe bank for their savings, and solicits the correspondence and deposits of all EXCESSY savers, and will pay four per cent interest per annum on your deposits. Send money by Bank Draft, or Express or Post Office order, or Registered Letter, or your private check on any bank in the United States and Canada, and direct your letter to W. A. Hopkins, Cashier of the State Savings Bank of Lamoni, Iowa. Upon receipt of same, we will issue a receipt and promptly issue and sent on return mail to the sender. This bank has facilities for handling a very large business by keeping surplus funds invested in safe and available securities and has already received deposits from sixteen different states. All letters containing names of savers should be promptly answered.

List of Stockholders:—Wm. Anderson, Geo. H. Hilliard, Mrs. David Dancer, Miss Alice Dancer, Mrs. Ella D. Whitehead, Mrs. Lucy L. Resseguie, A. K. Anderson, W. A. Hopkins, Oscar Anderson, Frank Criley and Geo. W. Blair.

DR. JOS. MATHER,

PHYSICIAN.

Office, Liberty St., One Door South of Chrisman-Sawyer Bank.

Phone 190-3. Independence, Mo.

RESIDENCE, 301 S. SPRING ST.

CALLS ANSWERED NIGHT OR DAY.

A SPECIAL BARGAIN.

$575.

For 6 Acres, with small cottage, barn, etc., in West Lamoni. Only small payment required to secure a valuable home. Lock Box No. 7, Lamoni, Iowa.

Broken Bric-a-Bracs.

Mr. Major, the famous cement man, of New York, explains some very interesting facts about Major's Cement.

The millions who use this standard article know that it is many hundred per cent better than other cements for which similar claims are made, but a great many do not know why. The simple reason is that Mr. Major uses the best materials ever discovered and other manufacturers do not use them, because they are too expensive and do not allow large profits. Mr. Major's cement is the best material ever discovered and other manufacturers do not use them, because they are too expensive and do not allow large profits. Mr. Major's cement is the best material ever discovered and other manufacturers do not use them, because they are too expensive and do not allow large profits.

Major's Cement retails at fifteen cents and twenty-five cents a barrel, and when a dealer tries to sell a substitute you can depend upon it that his only object is to make larger profit.

The profit on Major's Cement is as much as any dealer ought to make on any cement. And this is due to the fact of the fact that each dealer gets his share of the benefit of Mr. Major's advertising, which now amounts to over $5,000 a month throughout the country.

Insist on having Major's. Don't accept any off-hand advice from a druggist. If you are at all handy (and you will be) and find that you are a good deal more so than you imagine) you can repair your rubber boots and family shoes, and any other rubber and leather articles, with Major's Rubber Cement and Major's Leather Cement.

And you will be surprised at how many dollars a year you will thus save. If your druggist is not a showy fellow, it will be forwarded by mail; either kind. Free of postage.

D. F. NICHOLSON, Cashier.

H. C. NICHOLSON, Ass't Cashier.

COMMERCIAL BANK,

LAMONI, IOWA.

SUBSCRIBE FOR THE

College City Chronicle

The Leading Local Paper of LAMONI, IOWA.

Published Weekly by the Chronicle Publishing Co.

A CARD.

To the Saints who do not know me I wish to say, I have been in the real estate business for about fifteen years in Jackson county, Missouri. I am well acquainted with values, know where to locate the brethren better than one who has not had experience. I know all about values. I know a bargain and am in position to advise. And I wish to say there are real Latter Day Saints here who are in the real estate business. Now, if you are not afraid of your brethren, please call and see them when in independence, or write them. I will give you for reference any honorable person with whom I have ever done business, banker or merchant; also Bro. Wm. Crick; Joseph Luff; H. R. Mills; J. W. Luff, Business Manager of the Ensign Publishing House; W. H. Garbutt, Editor of the Ensign; I. N. White of the Traveler; Alfred White, missionary. I do all this to show you that Latter Day Saints can be honorable in real estate business as well as any other business. W. S. LOAR.

Any one desiring back numbers of Sunday School Quartermen, Heralds, ENSIGNS, or if you may be supplied upon application to the Literary Exchange, Box 201, Independence, Mo.

Two Boxes of Quit-to-bac Cured Him.

"KIEL, Okla., March 29, 1900. 'Bro. Ordway—I have been enabled to quit tobacco after the use of two boxes of your antidote (Quit-to-bac). I have used tobacco for thirty years and both chewed and smoked plug tobacco." "L. S. STALEY."

Three boxes of Quit-to-bac sent postpaid anywhere in the United States or Canada for only $1.50, with positive guarantee of cure or money cheerfully refunded. U. S. postage stamps taken. You run no risk, why not be free from this God-condemned habit? Address, (Bro.) B. F. ORDWAY, Peoria, Ill.

THEY ADMIT IT.

Bro. Hull, Chaucey, Ohio, says we saved him $12.00 on a $13.00 suit.

Bro. Farrell, West Sullivan, Maine, writes that we saved him $5.00 on a $7.00 suit.

Youth's heavy three-piece suit, age 12 to 19, $9.50. Goods are all sent prepaid.

Black, all wool worsted Men's Suits, four button, round or square cut, 14 ounce $7.00; 16 ounce $7.25; 18 ounce $8.25; 20 ounce $8.75. Extra fine, strictly all wool Oxford steel gray, worth $18.00, price $9.00.

FRINGS ALBERT SUITS. Same goods as above, $9.50; 16 oz. $10.00; 18 oz. $11.00; 20 oz. $11.50. 14 oz. French Twill. Sacks, worth $18.00, price $9.00. Price Alberts, worth $25.00, $13.50.

MEASUREMENTS—Give size of bust around chest just under arms with seam off. Give your height in cent of pant leg, your height and weight.

Make all drafts, express and money orders payable at Seymour, Mo. Send all communications, letters, orders and registered letters to Cumorah, Mo. THE B. T. ATWELL CO. Cumorah, Mo.

R. R. TIME TABLES.

MISSOURI PACIFIC—MAIN LINE DEPOT.

Table with columns: TRAINS WEST, No., Route, Time. Includes routes to Wichita, Kansas, Nebraska, Texas, Joplin, Lexington, and St. Louis.

Table with columns: TRAINS WEST, No., Route, Time. Includes routes to St. Louis, Lexington, and Kansas City.

Table with columns: TRAINS WEST, No., Route, Time. Includes routes to St. Louis, Lexington, and Kansas City.

Table with columns: TRAINS WEST, No., Route, Time. Includes routes to St. Louis, Lexington, and Kansas City.

Table with columns: TRAINS WEST, No., Route, Time. Includes routes to St. Louis, Lexington, and Kansas City.

Table with columns: TRAINS WEST, No., Route, Time. Includes routes to St. Louis, Lexington, and Kansas City.

Table with columns: TRAINS WEST, No., Route, Time. Includes routes to St. Louis, Lexington, and Kansas City.

Table with columns: TRAINS WEST, No., Route, Time. Includes routes to St. Louis, Lexington, and Kansas City.

Table with columns: TRAINS WEST, No., Route, Time. Includes routes to St. Louis, Lexington, and Kansas City.

Table with columns: TRAINS WEST, No., Route, Time. Includes routes to St. Louis, Lexington, and Kansas City.

Table with columns: TRAINS WEST, No., Route, Time. Includes routes to St. Louis, Lexington, and Kansas City.

Table with columns: TRAINS WEST, No., Route, Time. Includes routes to St. Louis, Lexington, and Kansas City.

Through tickets to all points in the United States and Canada. For further information regarding rates, etc., call on J. W. DUGAN, Agent, J. CHARLTON, G. P. & T. Agt., Chicago.

FAITH—WHAT IS IT?

ELDER A. H. PARSONS.

Often this question is asked by Saints as well as those who are not members of the church. A few thoughts, though imperfectly expressed, might help some one to a deeper consideration of the subject.

It's not as some have supposed that but few are permitted to enjoy as a blessing of their own. Yet observation teaches the thoughtful mind that a great many who profess to enjoy this marvelous yet natural result of "hearing the word of God" do not understand how to manifest the fact that they are possessors of the "substance hoped for."

It's good not to be an extremist, hence the better we understand ourselves and our religion in all its powers and privileges, the better equipped we are for life in the gospel.

Membership in the church alone will not make our faith perfect. Jesus said, "he that will do the will of my Father" will "know," have an increase of that obtained by "hearing of the word."

This substance, or faith, comes to man by the preaching of the word; hence a preacher is needed, and he, as the instrument of God, sows the seed which develops action upon the part of the hearer. Not all in an audience are "hearers." In fact, but very few out of the hundreds who are present in preaching services are hearers in the sense of being practically benefited by the effort made by the minister. Yet we often hear people say, "He is a good preacher," but so far as the sermon helping such person or persons to a better life is not made apparent by their acts.

By hearing the word, faith is begotten in the soul, and when that word treats of baptism like the eunuch of New Testament times, we would say, "Here is water, what doth hinder" of me being baptized?

You who have passed through this part of the gospel system ought to know just how you obtained faith to be baptized; also what effect the act of baptism had on the faith obtained by hearing of the word. In the act of baptism your faith was increased; this you know, which could not have occurred if you had failed to comply with the word heard.

How many Saints say they have not faith to be administered to, just as though it took a great effort upon their part to do what God has said in his word should be done when sick, than when baptized. If we should do, when we feel that baptism is necessary, as we do sometimes when we are sick, how many would be baptized?

"How is that?" says one. Well, when we begin to believe in baptism as the result of hearing of the word, call in a doctor of theology of the evangelical sort, to diagnosis our case and apply a panacea, as we often do when sickness overtakes us, call the physician instead of the elders authorized to do by God in his word, that is, if there is "any sick among you."

"But," says the objector, "I have not faith."

"Have you not heard the word that treats of God's means of healing?"

"Yes, I have heard but cannot act."

Is it not strange that hearing in one instance produces such marvelous results, inasmuch that people will go down into the cold, icy water and be baptized, yet the same preacher and the same God and the selfsame word fails to create substance or faith sufficient to cause these same individuals to call for these same elders to ask God, who so marvelously blessed them in the waters of baptism, to now heal them of their sickness, though they can easily believe he can and did heal their sin sick soul? Why not believe he can heal the bodily sicknesses?

It ought to be understood that there is a difference between being "afflicted" and "sick." In the first case we are instructed to pray. It would not be in keeping with the rule of action to call the elders when prayer is the thing needed. If we can not pray for ourselves, how could we command grace, exercising good, common sense, to ask somebody else to do the thing we are commanded to do and fail to do?

If we would just stop and think these matters over prayerfully, I am sure there would be better results accruing to the members of the church.

It's not always a pleasant task for our elders to tell parties just what they think about such matters when they are called to administer to them. Some good people, no doubt, would get very much incensed if the elder or elders would tell them they were not sick, yet some will pay a physician two or three dollars to tell them the same thing. The difference must arise from the fact we have been more studious hearers of tradition than the word of God.

All that is required of Saints in sickness is to be just as faithfully or earnestly engaged in doing the Father's will as when they moved forward into baptism. Do just what he commanded, let others say and do what they please. "Yes," says one, "but the law compels us to have a physician." That's all right, be "subject to the powers that be," is the advice given, but that does not change the counsel of God, neither ought it to weaken our faith in the means ordained of God for healing the sick. He knew when he gave this command that there would be other means in the world used, but as a special favor he bequeathed this means of grace as a panacea for the ills of his covenant children.

As such, we want to be hearers of this word; not hearing the sound only, but doing that required at our hand, so that God can increase the substances first obtained, that we may become rich in eternal things. May the Lord so help us is the earnest prayer of your co-worker.

CONFERENCE MINUTES.

The conference of the Northwestern Wisconsin district was held at Paulson, Chippewa county, Wisconsin, June 9th and 10th, 1900. Elder C. H. Burr was chosen to preside over the conference. Elders A. V. Closson, A. L. Whiteaker, Peter Mucus and Wm. Hutchinson were in attendance. A. V. Closson was chosen president of the Northwestern district, and Louisa M. Shaver, secretary.

Branches reported as follows: Frankfort branch, 110, gain 18; Reed, 51, gain 5; Evergreen, 89, loss 9; Elders reported: A. V. Closson, baptized 4; A. L. Whiteaker, baptized 1; Wm. Hutchinson, baptized 1. Priests Wm. Closson, Murry Shedd, S. E. Livingston and Geo. Hewitt. Speakers during conference were, C. H. Burr, A. V. Closson and Peter Mucus. Conference adjourned to meet at Porcupine, Pepin county, Wisconsin, October 6th and 7th.

A. V. CLOSSON, Pres.
LOUISA M. SHAVER, Sec.
ONO, AUG. 31.

The Massachusetts district conference convened at Silver Lake, Massachusetts, August 11th and 12th, during the Massachusetts district reunion, and the presidency of the reunion was chosen to preside, viz., W. H. Kelley, Richard Bullard, M. H. Bond, F. G. Pitt and G. H. Hilliard, and the other reunion officers, with the exception of the secretaries, were appointed to act.

Missionaries reporting: Bishop Bullard, M. H. Bond, G. H. Gates, G. H. Smith, N. R. Nickerson, Teacher John Marchington.

Branches reporting: Providence, 226; Boston, 178; Fall River, 122; Plainville, 102; Dennisport, 60; Cranston, 37; North Plymouth, 35; Brockton, 23; New Bedford, 21; Little Compton, 14.

Bishop Bullard reported receipts and expenditures since January 1, 1900. Report referred back to be completed. Bishop Bullard tendered his resignation as district president, request granted, and retiring president given a rising vote of thanks, the vacancy to be filled by selection of missionary in charge.

Recommendations from Cranston, Boston and Providence for ordination of Delmont Smith to office of teacher, E. L. Traver, deacon, and J. T. MacKinnon, teacher; Mills B. Cottrell, teacher, respectively.

One baptized during conference. Adjourned to meet at Providence, Rhode Island, the last Saturday in February, 1901.

W. A. SINCLAIR,
Associate Clerk.
FALL RIVER, MASS., AUG. 26.

The London, Canada, district conference convened at St. Thomas, Ontario, June 16, 19. Elder R. C. Longhurst, president of the district, opened conference at 10 a. m., Elder Longhurst presided, assisted by President Joseph Smith and Apostle R. C. Evans. Bro. John L. Burger and John Shields, secretaries. The elders reports were then read; all were encouraging. A lot of new members have been added to the church and several new openings have been made in the past nine months.

Reports were received from the following branches: Arthur, Corinth, Ellice, Egremont, Garafaxa, Humber Bay, King Lake, London, Masonville, McKillop, Oliphant, Proton, Selkirk, St. Marys, Stratford, St. Thomas and Toronto, making a total of seventeen branches reporting to conference. The district treasurer's report was read: On hand last report $23.00; October conference collection $37.72; total expenses $15.69; balance on hand $45.43. Preaching by President Joseph Smith, Apostle R. C. Evans and Elder A. C. Barnore.

Three were baptized at this conference by President Joseph Smith, and four children were blessed. Bro. R. C. Longhurst was sustained as president of district, and Bro. John H. Taylor as vice president; Bro. John L. Burger, of St. Thomas, was chosen secretary of district, and Bro. Samuel Pope, of London, was chosen treasurer. A hearty vote of thanks was tendered to Sr. Maggie McGregor for past services as secretary. A vote of thanks was tendered to St. Thomas branch for the kindness and attention shown to Saints attending conference. Conference then adjourned to meet at Toronto the first Saturday and Sunday in October.

JOHN L. BURGER, Sec.

Reduced Rates to Reunion.

By the assistance of Bro. George N. Derry, Woodbine, Iowa, we have been enabled to secure reduced rates of one and one-third fare, on the certificate plan, over the lines of the "Western Passenger Association" to those attending the annual reunion at Dow City, Iowa, from September 28th to October 7th, 1900. Those attending the reunion should come early as we must have at least one hundred certificates by the third day of the session, Sunday not being counted, before the certificates will be available for reduced fare on the return trip.

Procure certificates from the local agent of each line over which you pass in coming to the reunion. It will be necessary for you to pay full fair in coming to reunion, but if you are careful to procure certificates as directed above, and see that at least one hundred are in the hands of our secretary, Bro. A. H. Rudd, by Monday, October the 1st, you will be able to purchase your return tickets for one-third fare. There will be no reduction for tickets of fifty cents or less.

JAMES M. BAKER,
C. E. BUTTERWORTH,
In behalf of committee.
Dow City, Ia., September 1.

Two Days Meeting.

There will be a two days meeting at Millersburg, Illinois, September 15th and 16th. We hope Saints and friends will take notice, and a goodly number be in attendance; the Saints there have made preparation to receive you. They have enlarged their church and repaired it, and will be glad to care for all that come. All are cordially invited.

J. W. ADAMS, Dist. Pres.
MOLINE, Ill., AUG. 23.

Two days meetings will be held at the following places: Joyfield, Benzle county, Michigan, September 23d and 24d, and Fressoll, Mason county, Michigan, September 29th and 30th. Those coming to Joyfield by train take Toledo and Ann Arbor railroad to Beulah, where train will be met Friday evening and Saturday morning, and take Perre & Marquette railroad to Fressoll. We hope Bro. Cornish, Berve and all others of the ministry who conveniently can, will attend.

J. A. GRANT, Dist. Pres.
BELLAIRE, Mich., AUG. 28.

Conference Notices.

Having received a favorable reply from most of the branches, as to their willingness to have the date of the Northern Michigan district conference changed, we, therefore, announce that it will be held on the 13th and 14th of October, instead of 6th and 7th as per conference resolution.

J. A. GRANT, Dist. Pres.
BELLAIRE, Mich., AUG. 28th.

The annual conference of the Ohio district will be held at Vales Mills, Ohio, beginning October the 6th at ten o'clock, a. m. All branch officers are requested to have full reports made out on proper blanks, and bring or send them to the undersigned at Vales Mills, Ohio, not later than October 5th.

We desire to see the district well represented as there will be some important business considered. W. H. Kelley and a number of the ministry will be present. All come on the 5th. Those wishing to be assisted from the railroad stations please address S. J. Jeffers, Radcliff, Ohio, or Jasper Bowen, Vales Mills, Ohio.

JAMES MOLZER, Dist. Pres.
LIMERICK, Ohio, AUG. 28.

The Kirland district conference will convene with the South New Philadelphia, Ohio, branch, October 6, 7, 1900. In connection with conference there will be church dedication. Apostle W. H. Kelley and one of the bishops are expected at this conference, also expect a good representation of the ministry of the Kirland and Pittsburg districts present. Let the Saints turn out and make this conference a success, and that we may enjoy a spiritual feast.

A cordial invitation is extended to the Saints and friends of the Pittsburg and Wheeling district to be present, and the Spirit and bride say come, and him that heareth say come, and let him that is athirst come.

Business will be transacted at 2 p. m. Saturday, October 6th. Branch secretaries get out your branch reports in good time, see to having them correct, and address them to W. J. Baldwin, 95 Elm St., Sharon, Pennsylvania, so we can correct all errors if there be any. Branches that failed to report to last district conference at Sharon, Pennsylvania, in March, 1900, please make out your reports for one year.

W. J. BALDWIN, Sec.
SHARON, Pa., AUG. 25.

The conference of the London district will meet at Toronto, Ontario, 5th, 6th and 7th of October, 1900. The Sunday School convention meets at 2 p. m., Friday, October 5th, the day before the conference. We hope all the Saints will put forth an effort to attend this conference and convention, as the Lord has said it pleases him to see the Saints so assembled.

Branch secretaries will please get their statistical reports made out and send them in, please be very particular in making out your reports as even just one mistake causes a lot of writing and makes work for everybody. Let us try to have it said that at the Toronto conference there was not one report turned back for correction. The priesthood also take notice and prepare their reports for conference. Sunday School secretaries please send a report of their Sunday Schools and avoid mistakes as much as possible. A secretary cannot be too careful in making out his report. I trust all will accept this notice and every one who has the chance to attend this convention and conference.

JOHN L. BURGER,
Sec. of Dist. and Dist. S. S. Ass'n.
G. T. Ry. Roundhouse, St. Thomas.
After October 1st, address reports to 765 King street, West Toronto.

GRAY Why let all your neighbors and friends think you must be STREAKS twenty years older than you are? Yet it's impossible to look young with the color of 70 years in the hair. It's sad to see young persons look prematurely old in this way. Sad because it's all unnecessary; for gray hair may always be restored to its natural color by using—

AYER'S HAIR VIGOR

For over half a century this has been the standard hair preparation. It is an elegant dressing; stops falling of the hair; makes the hair grow; and cleanses the scalp from dandruff.

$1.00 a bottle. All druggists.

"I have been using Ayer's Hair Vigor for over 20 years and I can heartily recommend it to the public as the best hair tonic in existence."
—Mrs. L. A. Eaton, Lowell, Mass., April 24, 1899.

If you do not obtain all the benefit you expected from the Vigor, write the Doctor about it. Address: Dr. J. C. Ayer, Lowell, Mass.

ZION'S ENSIGN.

"OUR CREED: ALL TRUTH."

VOLUME 11.

INDEPENDENCE, MISSOURI, THURSDAY, SEPTEMBER 13, 1900

NUMBER 37.

ZION'S ENSIGN.

A Literary and Religious Newspaper, published in the interest of social, scientific and religious truth, every Thursday, at Independence, Jackson County, Missouri.

PRICE, $1.00 PER YEAR, IN ADVANCE.

ENSIGN PUBLISHING HOUSE,
Of the Reorganized Church of Jesus Christ of Latter Day Saints.

W. H. GARRETT, Editor.
J. W. LUFF, BUSINESS MANAGER.

Make all remittances, and address all communications to Editor, Ensign Publishing House, Independence, Jackson County, Missouri.

New subscriptions can begin at any time. If possible to avoid it, never send silver as it is liable to wear through the envelope and be lost. Always give the name of the post office to which your paper is sent or we can not find your name on our lists.

When desiring your address changed, give both the old and new address. Papers will be discontinued one month from the time subscriptions expire, unless ordered otherwise.

In making remittances, money orders are preferable for they are absolutely safe. If you can avoid it, do not send gold or silver. Canadian stamps are an entire loss, and Canadian currency is only worth ninety cents on the dollar to us, for that is all we can get for it at the banks.

Letters should be addressed, and orders and drafts made payable to
ENSIGN PUBLISHING HOUSE,
Independence, Mo.

Box B.

ACCEPTABLE FAITH.

One of the striking features of any large city of modern times is the towering buildings of iron and steel, some of which run up from fifteen to twenty-four stories in height. The various stages reached in the erection of these immense structures excite quite a good deal of attention from many observers, but none are of more absorbing interest than the preparation for and the laying of the foundation. No part of the building receives a more thorough inspection, or more careful thought and work than the initial stage, making the foundation substantial, secure and dependable; for every one is aware that the security and durability of the structure depends very largely upon the solidity and quality of the work done upon the foundation. First of all, an excavation so deep is made that, standing on the surface and looking down, the workmen seem much smaller in stature than they really are. This will convey an idea of the depths sought in beginning a structure in which, when completed, several hundred individuals may carry on different vocations in obtaining a livelihood.

This careful work upon the foundation manifests the wisdom with which men are endowed in doing work which is of the greatest importance to the stability of the edifice to be reared upon it; and if all men were equally wise in the various callings and pursuits of life, the conditions would be far in advance of those which now prevail. An individual who allows his selfish propensities to predominate in his life, is building upon a very sandy and insecure foundation; it will not stand the test to which it will surely be subjected, and the sweeping away of the labor of a life time—the one time allotted him in which to make himself rich for eternity—will be a loss which an eternity cannot repair.

The paramount object of this life is to give every individual, without regard to race or condition, an opportunity to build a character which will stand the judgment and meet the approval of the eternal Architect. The Scriptures assure us that "every man's work will be tried so as by fire," and that if any man's work cannot abide the trial "he shall suffer loss." Now, as obedience to the principles laid down in a plan is an essential that cannot be successfully ignored and the design of the architect fully carried out, so with the plans of the Creator, there should be no deviation from the principles He has revealed as the plan upon which our salvation is to be secured; there must be no liberties or license taken in evading any of the requirements indicated as being a part of the great scheme of life, else will our work be for naught, and we shall "suffer loss."

The Savior indicated that those who were wise were they who digged deep and laid the foundation of their house "upon a rock;" and they who carefully lay the foundation of their hope upon the revealed will of the Lord Jesus Christ as the rock of safety, and continue to build upon it are building both wisely and surely. The individual is truly unfortunate who allows himself to go through this life refusing to avail himself of the opportunities, privileges and blessings which they who have faith in the promises of God, experience.

But there are two classes of this kind in the world, and they are often encountered. One deceives himself in the thought that he is a freeman; sees no necessity of subscribing to any gospel law, and sometimes would like to annihilate all earthly law, so that there should not be a single restraining element to the perfect liberty(?) which he should like to exercise. He is a sad testimony to the shortsightedness of humanity; he is just as certainly and surely in the toils and powers of the adversary as though he had regularly and knowingly enlisted in that service. He is blind to his true condition and a veritable slave to his own imagination. No man is free to do entirely as his own will dictates, for such a course leads directly to an invasion of the rights of others, to an infringement upon their liberty; hence, every good man is willingly subservient to good and wholesome laws which always make for the peace, happiness and security of all, and there can be no enjoyment, whether of this life or the one to come, without obedience to law.

The second class who are deceiving themselves, are they who say they believe in God, and accept Jesus Christ as the Savior, but fail to do the things he has commanded. This is a very numerous class, notwithstanding the Savior has said, "In vain do ye call me Lord, Lord, and do not the things which I say," and, that "He that heareth these sayings of mine and doeth them not shall be likened unto a foolish man which built his house upon the sand." The argument of the Apostle James is very logical and forceful on this line. He says:

What doth it profit, my brethren, though a man say he hath faith, and have not works? Can faith save him?

Why, certainly, would be the instantaneous reply if this question propounded by James were presented to many religionists today. Can faith save a man? Assuredly it will, would be the answer, and they would quote Paul's words, "Believe on the Lord Jesus Christ, and thou shalt be saved" (Acts 16: 31); but they fail to read Paul as he intended to be understood, for the jailor's expression of faith in Christ was immediately—"the same hour,"—confirmed by his works; and so James proceeds, with his argument, and after showing that it would do no good to say to a needy person "be thou warmed and filled," if the things needful to such condition were not supplied, says:

Even so faith, if it hath not works is dead, being alone. Yea, a man may say, Thou hast faith, and I have works: shew me thy faith without thy works, and I will shew thee my faith by my works. For as the body without the spirit is dead, so faith without works is dead also.—James 2: 14, 17, 18, 20.

This ought to be an end of controversy on this point. Faith, no matter how strong, is as the body without the spirit—dead—unless it be supported by those works commanded of the Lord, such as repentance, baptism in water for the remission of sins, laying on of hands of an inspired, or divinely authorized, ministry for the gift of the Holy Ghost, together with the practice of those virtues which made our Lord Jesus Christ the admired of all nations—love, justice, holiness, charity, etc. From the language of James, it is apparent that this "faith-alone" class existed in his day, they who depended upon Jesus doing it all, and they nothing, simply believing in Him as the Christ; and he endeavored to disabuse their minds of this pernicious theory.

He did not in the least lessen the importance and necessity for faith in God and in Christ; he simply desired to impress this class with the fact that it was a living, active, intelligent faith, not a dead form, which is essential to find acceptance with God. And when they did otherwise, they simply deceived themselves.

The argument of James is just as effective today as it was when he wrote it, because it is truth, and truth never changes; and no man need be deceived who is willing to believe that which is written in the Scriptures.

CAMP NOTES.

The reunion in Bro. Ben Dice's grove near Stewartville, Missouri, which commenced August 31st, and closed last Sunday, September 9th, was marked by the presence of the Spirit of Peace. It is said there were thirty tents on the ground. Brn. J. C. Foss, sub-missionary in charge, and T. T. Hinderks, president of the district, were in charge. The preachers were President Joseph Smith, Bishop E. L. Kelley, J. M. Terry, C. Scott, J. S. Roth, John Smith, Swen Swensen and J. C. Foss. The discourses were unusually good, and had the very closest attention. The order throughout was most excellent, no confusion being seen during any of the services. The prayer meetings at 9 o'clock in the morning were seasons of grace and uplifting, the Lord manifesting Himself to His Saints in tongues, interpretation and revelation. Brn. T. A. Hougas and J. A. Gunsolley represented the interest of the Sunday School and Religio very profitably and entertainingly. Thursday, Sunday School day, the Stewartville Brass Band attended and assisted greatly in the exercises without charge, remaining until after the preaching at night by President Joseph Smith. They also returned Saturday, assisting in the Religio exercises.

A good representation on behalf of Graceland College was made by Bishop Kelley and Bro. J. A. Gunsolley Friday afternoon. Peace, love and happiness characterized this "camp of Israel" on the Zion land.

EDITORIAL ITEMS

Our correspondents should always mail their items on Monday; if they delay longer, they sometimes reach us too late.

ELDER GEO. H. GRAVES, 505 37th street, Chicago, our colored preacher, says he cannot see how any Saint can do without the ENSIGN and Herald. He looks for them before they are due. He says the work in Chicago is progressing, especially the street work.

The Christian Leader (Cincinnati, Ohio), for August 7, 1900, contains Elder Clark Braden's "endorsements" entire, as he published them in circular form recently. It is really both amusing and pathetic to see the distracted efforts Elder Braden is making to do everything in the way of obtaining endorsements that he is now (not what he has been) sound in the faith as held and taught by those of his brethren who are accounted as pillars in their society, except the reasonable demand made of him. Bro. White's proposition is very simple indeed, and he has shown his consistency and justice by being first to comply with them, before submitting them to Mr. Braden. But Mr. Braden's movements seem to give substantial evidence to the claim that he CANNOT obtain the endorsements of the editors of the Christian Evangelist and the Christian Standard, testifying in just so many words that he is now sound in the faith as they hold and teach it. Hence the usual tactics, throwing dust to blind the readers of his articles to his inability to show that he really represents the church which he claims to represent.

EXTRACTS FROM LETTERS.

BISHOP G. H. HILLIARD, Jonesport, Maine, September 1:

I go to Indian River today to district conference. Have preached here the last three nights; will preach three nights next week, then go to Bar Harbor and on to Lamolne conference, the 8th. We got the conferences reversed in notice sent in.

ELDER J. J. CORNISH, Minden City, Michigan:

Our two days meetings in the eastern district were very good, especially at Riley Center, Minden City and Shabbona, the last named was an extra good one. Much good was done in all the meetings. Three were baptized at Five Lakes, four at Shabbona, one at Riley Center, and six here, at Minden City. Others are obeying the gospel at other places, and the work is moving on nicely. All of the ministers are good spirits. Many of the outside people are more favorable to our work.

ALEX. McMULLEN, Sunbury, British Columbia:

I have located in a new place and have been teaching here for some over two months and so wish to get the Eastern district as possible. We have endeavored to forward the Master's cause here by starting a Sunday School and am pleased to say that it is being better attended of late. I am superintendent, but of course it is only Latter Day Saints inasmuch as I try only to have Bible truths taught. Elder MacGregor preached a few sermons here in June and I think there are a few of Israel to be gathered here in the future. I am distributing my ENSIGNS after I read them, and find them very useful.

ELDER S. W. L. SCOTT, Coldwater, Michigan:

We just closed an intensely interesting series of meetings at Scott Center, three miles north of the Braden-Scott battle ground. Audiences large, liberty good. Moving on to Flint, our services were crowned with the baptism of four persons, Bro. Henry Bodle, Sr. Mary Chamberlain and her two married daughters, Mrs. Lou Phillips and Lillie Compton. Beautiful scene, mother and two daughters waiting by baptism into the Kingdom. expect to open up in Orland, six miles from Flint, after two days services, October 6th and 7th. Prospects are flattering for a great work in northern Indiana, "open doors" everywhere. Twenty sermons, four baptisms, confirmations, and administrations in fourteen days, is my record for August.

GENERAL CHURCH NEWS.

INDEPENDENCE.

Sr. Smart, recently of Montana, has commenced the foundation for her new home, on her lot between Brn. Joseph Luff's and Geo. Hayward's residences on West Electric street.

Brn. D. B. Jarrad, recently of Fairfeld, Nebraska, and W. Ross, of Kenton, Tennessee, are the latest arrivals to take up their abode on the Zion land. We are glad to welcome them.

Sr. Drury, who has for some time been keeping house for her brother, Cyrus Mooney, departed for her home in Canada, Monday of this week. She has many friends here as well as at her home.

A very interesting and instructive Sunday School teacher's meeting was held on the 11th. "Words and Phrases" in Senior Quarterly lessons were discussed, and also attended to a little business. Twenty were present.

The prayer meeting Wednesday night was a good one, and the attendance very much better than for some time past. With the advent of cooler evenings the Saints should attend these meetings promptly and regularly; it will be a blessing to all who do so.

Bro. R. M. Elvin was called home on business connected with the Graceland College board, of which he is a member, and left for Lamoni this (Thursday) morning. His labors while here have been of much benefit. He is a diligent worker and a useful man.

Sunday was clear, but exceedingly warm, but the services at the Saints' church were fairly well attended. Bro. A. H. Parsons was the speaker at the morning hour giving good instruction. At 7:30 p. m. Bro. B. J. Scott occupied to the edification of the assembly. The afternoon meeting was spiritual and enjoyable.

Bro. Geo. Horton received the sad news of the death of his brother, Wesley B. Horton, which occurred August 28th. He died firm in the faith and had lived a long and useful life, having occupied positions in the public service as postmaster and superintendent of the county farm in Manistee, Michigan. His wife, daughter and grandchildren and many friends mourn their loss.

Sr. Willis Campbell, daughter of Bro. and Sr. Henry Kemp, is in very poor health. Sr. G. H. Hilliard has been suffering severely from a heavy cold on the lungs, but was much relieved by administration Sunday. Sr. P. Peterson has been bedfast with an attack of rheumatism the past week but is some better again. Sr. C. A. Roell has also been under affliction's hand, but is better again.

Sr. F. Hefflon, who departed for San Diego, California, Thursday of last week, is having quite an experience in reaching her destination. When about a day's journey from her objective point a bridge on the railroad was swept away, effectually barring progress. The passengers were taken to a large hotel at a hot springs, and boarded at the company's expense. At last accounts the repairs had not been completed, but passengers were transferred, and Sr. Hefflon was expected to reach her destination Tuesday.

Sr. Mary B. Skillman, who was baptized during the reunion at Washington Park, was formerly a member of the Christian (Campbellite) church at Deepwater, Missouri. She was quite a prominent member there, and when she began investigating the latter day work very earnest efforts were made by ministers and laymen of her church to prevent her from leaving that communion; but the testimony was too strong, and her love for truth led her, not without a great struggle and sacrifice, to accept the gospel in its fullness. May she now experience that peace and satisfaction she has so long sought, but hitherto failed to secure in other faiths, of which we are assured she will if faithful and diligent in the service of our heavenly Father.

The Daughters of Zion held their regular monthly meeting last month, seventeen being present. Visitors from abroad were Mrs. M. Walker and Jennie Newton. Sr. Walker gave a very interesting talk on the kindergarten work, and Sr. Pointer read a paper on "the Entertainment of Children at Home," which was well received. There were a few interesting short talks on "Books for Children to Read." They will hold their next meeting on Wednesday, September 19, 2:30 p. m., in the north room of the church. The prepared reading in Home Column of Herald, August 8th, will be considered; then will be a supplementary discussion of the question, "Is Work in Moderation Good for Children? If so, How Shall we Teach Them to Like it?" Let all the members attend, and all who are interested in this important work are cordially invited.

The semi-annual conference of the Independence district was held with the Armstrong branch, Kansas City, Kansas, Saturday and Sunday, September 8th and 9th, Bishop R. May and Vice President Alfred White presiding. The usual reports from branches and ministry were read, all but one or two branches making report. District secretary made report and presented statement of Bro. H. A. Stebbins with regard to work done on district record, and on motion the sum of fifteen cents per hour was allowed as compensation for ninety hours work. Bro. C. F. Scarelliff was recommended by the Holden branch to be ordained an elder, which was on motion referred to missionary in charge and president of the district. Recommendation of first Kansas City branch for ordination of Bro. J. Arthur Gillen to office of elder was presented, and on motion his ordination was ordered immediately, under charge of President May. A hymn was sung and the brother was ordained by Brn. R. M. Elvin and J. A. Robinson, Sr. The district Sunday School Association made report which was adopted. A motion was made to change the rules of representation to one delegate for every six members instead of one for every twenty-five or fraction, which prevailed, and the representation will now be one delegate for every six members. On election of officers for the district Bro. R. May was elected president for one year, he to choose his assistant. Bro. Alfred White was so chosen. Bro. D. R. Winn was sustained as secretary and treasurer. On motion it was decided to hold the next conference at Independence, the second Saturday in March, 1901, which will be March 9th. Some items of business were transacted at the evening session, the balance of the time being occupied in five minute speeches. Sunday morning Bro. R. M. Elvin was speaker and Bro. J. A. Robinson, Sr., at night. Social service in the afternoon.

SAN FRANCISCO, CALIFORNIA.

Services at Golden West Hall, 320 Post street, every Sunday. Sunday School 10 a. m., preaching 11 a. m. and 7:30 p. m.; prayer meeting first Sunday of each month at 12:15 noon. Elder C. A. Parkin presiding elder, residence 3010 16th street.

August 19th, we had preaching at 11 a. m. by D. A. Anderson, and at 7:45 p. m. by Elder Schmidt; both sermons were much enjoyed by the hearers, a number of strangers being present on both occasions.

We had a fine prayer meeting Wednesday evening, Elders Griffiths and Fred Blair being in attendance. Some very important business was also attended to.

The Sisters' Prayer Union held its regular session Thursday afternoon, with about an average attendance. All those requesting prayers were remembered.

There was a full house at the Religio Friday evening. Bro. Balsban read a very fine paper on "Ideals," which was well received. There were several other good things on the program also.

Last Sunday morning Bro. G. T. Griffiths gave us a very nice discourse, using an illustrated chart, which made his remarks more impressive. Our hall was filled, one soldier brother among the number. Geo. S. Dove, of Morrisite fame, was also there. After the sermon a child who had been baptized was confirmed by Chas. A. Parkin, Griffiths and Blair; an infant was blessed by Elders Griffiths and Blair; Bro. Chas. J. Kaighin was ordained an elder by Brn. Griffiths, Blair and Phillips. In the evening we had preaching by Bro. A. B. Phillips. It was a fine discourse and well received by all present.

Bro. Albert Haws and family have located in our city, so we expect them to unite with our branch soon. Two members joined us last week.

Quite a number of the traveling ministry are here now to attend our coming reunion, to be held at Oakland. Our Patriarch, Alexander H. Smith, will be among the welcomed ones.

Our weather now is clear, warm and pleasant, and good health prevails generally. All well among the Saints.

GEO. S. LINCOLN.

August 31.

LAMONI, IOWA.

Preaching yesterday morning was by Elder Earl D. Bailey, from Arkansas. Elder H. A. Stebbins delivered the evening discourse, subject, "The Wages of Sin." Bishop Wm. Anderson occupied at Pleasanton, Elder F. M. Weld at Surprise schoolhouse, Elder J. C. Clapp at Tuskego, also John Ford and Isaac Carlisle, who have been holding tent meetings there, Priest David Keown at New Buda.

Wave Monroe, daughter of Bro. Isaac A. Monroe, was baptized in the Home pond yesterday after Sunday School, by Elder H. A. Stebbins.

We learn that the convention of the Sunday School and Religio, held at the Evergreen church, Friday, Saturday and Sunday, passed off pleasantly; prayer meetings were quite spiritual.

Elder E. A. Stedman returned the last of the week from his Minnesota mission.

Our branch president, J. A. Gunsolley, returned yesterday, after a five weeks tour among the various reunions in the interests of the Sunday School and Religio. Bishop E. L. Kelley returned from Stewartsville reunion today; he brings good reports of meetings.

Among the arrivals who will attend Graceland College, we note Miss Floy Lewis, of Denver; Carl Sheen from Highland, South Dakota; Brn. Parker and Turman from Smithland, Iowa.

Sr. Lucy Ressigie left Friday for six weeks visit at Detroit, Michigan.

Sr. W. W. Blair returned Saturday from Washington Park reunion.

Bro. David Harder, of Cove, Arkansas, is visiting relatives here.

Bro. G. J. Whitehead, of St. Joseph, Missouri, arrived in the city last week and has opened up a stock of new fall clothing and ladies' cloaks.

G. L. K.

September 10.

SECOND KANSAS CITY BRANCH.

Corner Sixteenth street and Pennsylvania avenue. Sunday School 9:30 a. m., preaching 11 a. m., prayer meeting 7:30 p. m., preaching 7:30 p. m.

Several of our branch were encamped at the reunion at Washington Park, eight families being represented. This, however, did not appear to interfere greatly with the work on our new church basement, for through the untiring efforts of our branch officers and others, the work has moved gradually on, until now our basement is ready for the roof and floor; it is the intention to fit it up for occupancy until we are better supplied with means to further complete the work.

Our Religians have volunteered to put the roof on the basement, but there are still many more ways when all those who feel benevolently inclined can work to a good advantage.

The missionary tent is again in our midst, but the attendance or interest is not so good as before pulling up stakes the last time. Hope we may at least get back to normal again, ere long.

Last night, Sunday, the attendance was better than at any time since our return from the reunion, and Bro. F. C. Warnky gave us a splendid discourse on the "Immortality of the Soul."

Mrs. Noland, who has for some time been investigating the truth in our midst, was baptized yesterday (Sunday), at Armstrong, by Elder J. D. White. We are glad to have her numbered with our little band, and as she is the mother of several grown up children, we hope to see them all led to follow her example ere long.

The Saints are highly pleased with the work done by Bro. Daniel Hough, of Chelsea Park, on our church basement. It is indeed a credit to him.

A. C. K.

September 10.

DENVER, COLORADO.

Church, corner of 22d and Arapahoe Sts. Services Sunday:—Sunday School at 9:45 a. m.; preaching at 11 a. m. and 7:30 p. m.; sacrament service the first Sunday in each month at 6 p. m. Prayer meeting Wednesday evening. Zion's Religio-Literary Society Friday evening.

Hot, dry and dusty. A little shower, Sunday, cooled the air and laid the dust, but there was not near enough of it.

Bro. Luff has gone home. Bro. Hiram Harder and wife arrived Friday from Wray. Sr. Harder was taken to St. Anthony's hospital; she is very low with consumption, and unless the Lord sees fit to stay the progress of the disease her days are few. Bro. Joseph Schmutz, at this writing, is some better.

Sr. Lum, of Chicago, arrived in the city Thursday and was an attendant at the church Sunday.

Bro. and Sr. Hollenbeck, of Omaha, called at the church Sunday evening, between trains; they have been rusticating in the mountains and were on their way home.

The Sunday School picnic at Golden, Labor Day, was a pronounced success.

By letter from Bro. Roush we learn that the tent work at Wray was very satisfactory.

Elder C. R. Duncan has gone home to prepare for the winter; his health has been poor of late but he hopes to be able to move out again soon. Sr. Duncan has secured a school near their home and will teach the young idea how to shoot for the next seven months.

Born, to the wife of Deacon I. C. Edwards, August 28th, a son.

Sr. Lenore Schmutz has gone to Lawrence, Kansas, to attend the university.

Bro. Sam Brannan and Sr. Floy Lewis left Friday for Graceland college.

The Sunday morning services, both Sunday School and preaching, were well attended; preaching by the pastor. No evening meeting.

S.

September 10.

"FROM PALMYRA TO INDEPENDENCE," by Elder R. Etzenhouser, 444 pages;
Cloth binding.....	$1 00
Paper binding.....	65

LETTER DEPARTMENT.

BANK, Maryland, Sept. 7.

Editor Ensign:—Perhaps a few lines from these parts will be of interest to your readers. It may be some have wondered why we have not written before. Well, I think it is for lack of something important enough to write about. You know it is natural for one to want to write something good; to tell of our successes, while we keep silent about our failures. And does the travelling elder ever meet with failure? Yes indeed, many of them, even though his letters do not reveal them. And it has been a question in my mind whether it is just right to tell only one side as it conveys a false impression and makes things appear brighter than they really are. I believe it is best to state facts about as they are unless they are too bad, and will get us into trouble if we tell them, when it may be best to smile at them and pass on; but even then we must not smile too loud or someone will go for us.

I reached my new field, Pennsylvania, last May; called at Pittsburg and spent a few days very pleasantly with the good Saints there, and then pushed on to my objective point, Philadelphia. Was made welcome by the little band of Saints here, and was soon in harness, but found it rather up hill work to accomplish very much. The Saints have a good hall, but they have it for Sunday only. All other meetings are held in private houses. Another peculiar thing there is not an elder in the entire district excepting one brother whom we seldom see, as he is a travelling man. Therefore the local force is quite limited, although we have several good brethren of the lesser priesthood, upon whom the work depends in the absence of the missionary.

One of the first things talked up was the consideration of a lot for a church building. I purchased a bicycle with the money which I received for my bicycle which I sold in England, and began the search for a lot which resulted in securing what appears to be a bargain, in the right neighborhood. It is estimated that we can sell a part of the ground, if we desire, for enough to get a lot large enough for our church, free. So far, the Lord seems to have prospered us, and a Saints' church in this city is among the possibilities of the near future. The Saints seem anxious to do their part. We have a good Sunday School, presided over by Bro. Christy, and a nice lot of young people, therefore things ought to move forward.

I have been absent from the city the last five weeks; it was thought best for me to attend the Massachusetts reunion, and it was a spiritual feast for me. The grove, weather, preaching, people, in fact, everything connected with the reunion was simply fine. We had also a good choir and excellent singers, so of course I was happy.

One of the treats in connection with the reunion was a visit to Plymouth; I shall never forget our feelings as we stood on old Plymouth Rock and sung as only Saints can sing, "The Breaking Waves Dashed High," "My Country 'Tis of Thee," "Marching Through Georgia," and "Praise God From Whom all Blessings Flow." We created quite a little sensation among the lookers on, one old gentleman jumped down from his carriage, swinging his hat, while every feature beamed with patriotism, exclaimed, "Good, good, you make a fellow feel young again." Some inquired who we were, and we were pleased to tell them that we were followers of Christ, and were members of his church restored in these latter days.

After the reunion closed we had the pleasure of visiting the Saints at Boston, Fall River, Plainville and Providence, and indeed it was a pleasure. May God bless these kind Saints for the warm welcome afforded us. We could only give a flying visit; would like to have remained longer, but had to attend the Philadelphia district conference which convened on August 25th at Banks, Maryland; Baldwin is the name of the railway station. Here I was joined by Bro. Geo. Robley, and we have been laboring together ever since.

We had a peaceful conference, after which we began meetings under the trees in Bro. D. Carter's yard, and have had excellent interest and good attendance. We are right out in the country, over two miles from the station. It was estimated one hundred and fifty were present last Sunday night. The air is so still and clear that our voices reach a long distance. One lady said she could hear every word on her front porch and she lives about three-quarters of a mile away. This may sound pretty big to some but we have her word for it, that is all. Two have been baptized, and it is reported three more will be ready by next Sunday. We are preaching every night and three times on Sunday. Next week we begin a series of meetings in a grove a few miles distant. Bro. Robley is a good companion, an excellent preacher, and a man who makes friends for the cause.

We hope to make an opening at Easton, Pennsylvania, where Sr. Tate has been sowing the good seed, sometime this fall. Later on hope to reach Scranton, and still later, perhaps Pittsburg. Hope the Lord will direct. May the Lord prosper the Saints at Pittsburg in their efforts to erect a church. Friends, kindly assist them all in your power. We cannot succeed in these large cities without a place of worship that we can use every night in the week, as well as Sundays.

I am feeling well in the work, would like to be able to accomplish more, but am trying to be faithful and exercise patience.

In gospel bonds,
F. G. PRY.

805 E. Allegheny Ave.,
PHILADELPHIA, Pa.

PICKERING, La., Sept. 7.

Editor Ensign:—It has been to these many days since I have written a line to the ENSIGN. This leaves me well and holdid meetings in Pickering. We are having pretty fine meetings, baptized two ladies and hope others will come in before this meeting breaks. I am trying to get the work planted in Louisiana.

Very little preaching has been done in this state. Eighteen hundred people are said to be here, about half negroes. We have a nice house, 32x50, erected by W. R. Pickering Lumber Company; the Methodist and Baptist both preach in it, but error is harmless where truth is free to combat it. There are also three saloons and a great deal of immorality of the worst kind; drunkenness, murder and everything of the kind. We are holding up Christ and the gospel to them, hoping a few more will accept, I may try other towns before I return home to Cove.

We hope to have Bro. W. S. Macrae with us in October. Dr. W. B. Toney backed out and will not meet me at Cove, September 25th, after all his blood. I have an insulting letter from him to that effect. He says the Latter Day Saints are a "humbug," but is afraid to undertake to prove it.

In bonds,
J. D. ERWIN.

CLIFFORD, N. D., Sept. 4.

Editor Ensign:—We are trying to do what we can to publish the latter day message on these great prairies of the Dakotas; though I sometimes wonder when the final day shall come if on these great prairies shall be found many visible marks of our labor or travels. But the field is the Lord's and I hope to do my part in sowing the seed and thus show myself a willing servant, and leave the results with the Master.

A majority of the farms here I think would average a mile square and some a great deal larger, so you can easily imagine how easy it would be to travel five or six miles and only pass two or three houses (there being a road on each side of every section). Then most of the people here are a busy people; not many come to Dakota for their health, but for wealth. The towns are usually small and contain just people enough to do the business of the community.

Upon my arrival in Dakota soon after General Conference, I visited for a few days at the home of Bro. and Sr. Delay, of White, South Dakota. Bro. Less and Sr. Carrie are Saints of God indeed, and while alone in gospel warfare are standing as true witnesses of the Master. May their faith and courage, and all such among Israel be sustained by our heavenly Father.

I also called for a short time at the home of Bro. and Sr. Stone, of Arlington; while arriving afoot and alone in the darkness of the night, I soon found something to eat, and a pleasant place to rest, as well as the cheerful association of the children of God. My short visit there was pleasant and I had hoped to return and attend the grove meetings which were to be held at their home soon after I left, but, like many other bright hopes of life, it faded when the time came to materialize.

From there I went to Howard, and found a few kind Saints who did what they could to help the missionary in his work. There I also met Bro. S. K. Sorenson who seemed full of courage and hope. We preached a few sermons in Howard and talked the gospel to those we could reach.

From Howard I went to Lake County and held as many meetings as opportunity seemed to afford. The few Saints and friends were kind; I hope some good was done while there. I soon afterwards visited Dicky county, North Dakota, and was kindly cared for at the home of Bro. and Sr. Peck. They are the only Saints in that part of the country. I held a number of meetings in the "regions round about," and while it was a very discouraging time, on account of drought we managed to keep cheerful. I also called at Hecla, and then on to Kidder, where I was kindly cared for by Bro. John Bierline and family as one could wish for while in missionary work. Their kindness will not soon be forgotten. Preaching, working in the harvest field, and visiting, and talking the gospel occupied the time while there.

I am now at Clifford, North Dakota, which will be my permanent address during the rest of the year. Bro. William Sparling, our sub-missionary in charge, lives here. He has done a good work in the Dakotas, and is a kind, earnest worker for the Master. I baptized two adults here recently as fruits of Bro. Sparling's labor. I expect to go further north from here soon.

Let all scattered Saints in the Dakotas, or others who would like to have meetings in their community, address Bro. William Sparling, Clifford, North Dakota.

Ever praying for the success of our Lord's work, I am

Your brother in gospel bonds,
LEONARD FOUGHTON.

MOLINE, Ill., Aug. 28.

Dear Ensign:—It has been some time since I wrote anything for your columns, but I have not forgotten you. We have been actively engaged in the work of the Master since we last wrote; have been with the tent most of the time since returning from the land of Zion (where we were for a few days the fore part of August). We have attended a two days meeting at Pleasant Valley where we had a very good time and a goodly number of Saints were there. One young man, after the sermon Sunday afternoon, came forward and said it was enough, he was ready to go to the water; he had been attending the Sunday School and Religio for some time, and he was surely brought to a knowledge of the work by those helps.

On Monday, August 13th, we pitched the tent in South Moline, and have been holding forth each night since, Bro. J. C. Crabbe being the speaker on the first night; since then F. A. Russell, F. M. Cowper and the writer have been the speakers, as Bro. Crabbe went to Savanna to look after the work there.

I was also at Savanna a few days and spoke three times to Saints there, but many being out as it was raining; however we had a nice congregation out last Sunday night.

There are some noble Saints at Savanna, though none who hold the priesthood, but they have a nice Sunday School, of which our young Bro. Norton Grayless is in charge; they also have social meeting every Sunday, and prayer meeting on Wednesday night. I wish others would follow their example, and go and do likewise. The Lord has a work for this young brother, and if faithful he will be called to preach the gospel. He was baptized by Bro. F. A. Russell in 1889, being the first one he baptized.

We are receiving much assistance from the Saints of this place, and also Rock Island and Davenport. Mrs. Leonard and Howard are at Rock Island at present, and are also attending the meetings; interest seems to be growing, and some are anxious to ask questions. Some are attending who claim to be unable to sin (am sorry their hands are so strong), and are incorruptible. One woman said she was resurrected. She does not look old enough to be one of those that came out of the grave at the time Christ was resurrected. She says she is resigning with Christ now, and the thousand years are over when Satan was bound, that he was bound up in the Catholic church, and when Luther came out Satan was loosed. Pretty hard on Mr. Luther, don't you think?

Ever your brother in the one faith,
J. W. ADAMS.

PUEBLO Col., Sept. 2.

Editor Ensign:—I thought I would write you a few lines to let you know of my whereabouts. I am living here since the latter part of June, when we moved from Kansas City. I feel very lonesome here, being deprived of meeting with the Saints. I have not seen any Saints since coming here. I have heard that there were some living here, and I would be glad to meet with them; if they will write me at No. 1144 West Fourth street I would be so glad. My husband and I would be glad to meet any of the ministry if they should come to Pueblo.

I would be glad to start a Sunday School for our children and others if they will assist me. We have to send the children to other Sabbath Schools or keep them at home. They have been used to going every Sabbath morning while at home in Kansas City. In looking over your pages for church items from our first Kansas City branch, I seldom find any items, and often wonder why it is that the reporter for the branch is so dilatory in writing up articles of interest. My husband was baptized last April in the font in the first Kansas City branch by Bro. B. J. Scott, and was confirmed at the afternoon service, but he did not get to enjoy the meetings as he came out here a few days afterward.

I hope the Saints will remember us in our isolated condition and that some elder will come here and hold meetings; I long to be in the society of my brethren and sisters. I rejoice to know that my father, H. L. Ashbaugh, who was a teacher for four years or more, has been called and ordained to the office of a priest, and that at the next regular monthly business meeting he was elected presiding priest of the First Kansas City branch for the remainder of the term, Bro. Walter Smith having gone to his field of labor in the Far West district. Bro. James Armour was also ordained to the office of teacher, and was also elected presiding teacher of the branch for the remainder of the term. May these brethren magnify their calling and become useful in the church as my prayer.

Your sister in Christ,
Mrs. R. E. GIVENS.
No. 1144 West 4th St.

TOPEKA, Kan., July 20.

Editor Ensign:—Perhaps a short sketch concerning the work in this place might interest some. June 7, 1900, I left home for Scranton, Kansas, conference, meeting with some brethren on the way, and at Topeka on taking the train for Scranton, to my great pleasure I found a jolly crowd of Saints from Atchison, New-awa, and other places. We had a good attendance at the conference for that time of year, and since I have been in the church have never witnessed such peace and harmony; every kind of business was brought up and discussed, but with the best of feeling throughout, everything being settled in a satisfactory way to all.

Monday, June 12th, we came to Topeka, Bro. Frank Pierce and myself having been appointed to take charge of the Northeast Kansas district tent; and in our consideration we decided to locate it in north Topeka. With the aid of the Topeka brethren we got the tent to the location, raised ready for living and work by Tuesday evening, when our meetings began; since which time we have constantly preached from house to house, and canvassed from house to house. With but few exceptions we have been kindly received, and have had splendid crowds nearly all the time, with good interest. We have had the best of liberty, have done lots of hard work, but what the result will be we know not, but we hope for the best.

We shall always remember the Topeka brethren for the many kindnesses we received from them, and also very gratefully thank each branch in the district for their kindly aid financially. And now, here this week, we will tomorrow, Wednesday, July 11th, move the tent to south Topeka, 18 Kansas avenue; Bro. Duffy will kindly aid us in moving. We had the now say what the results will be, but, as we have had so much success of it, one must say good-by to everything else; there is no place to shut up the tent, for by so doing you have all the grounds to go over again.

M. T. Short, our missionary in charge, made a short visit; we find him to be alive in the work in every sense of the word, and always ready to give kindly advice to those under him. We find Bro. Pierce ever ready to do all in his power, so we hope for a good summer's work. Although we have many hardships and obstacles to surmount, we do hope for the best through it all. I am in the work.
J. W. HUDGENS.

WHITE ROCK, Kan., Sept. 3.

Editor Ensign:—As we realized so much good from the other letter I wrote you, I thought I would write again and let you know about it. Shortly after my letter appeared in your columns I received a letter from Bro. M. T. Short, saying he would come and preach at White Rock, and around and tried to find a place for him to preach in, encountering the usual abuse and slanderous confounding with the Utah church. You know all about what it means, dear Elder. Well, I finally secured an old hall, dilapidated, most of the windows broken, and no seats but five chairs. We made up the deficiency with boards, and here Bro. Davis preached four sermons, commencing on the evening of June 14th. There were small audiences, hardly the same persons being present two evenings, until Sunday evening quite a goodly number were out and seemed much interested in what he had to say about the different gospel dispensations. Our daughter, Eunice, was baptized, and on Sunday, August, June 17th, and then Bro. Davis left us, promising to return about the last of September. We are looking for him. I have tried to keep the seed sown, from dying out altogether by placing my ENSIGNs and some sermon pamphlets in the post office for the people to take and read. Some read and some did not.

For the last two months we have been having prayer meetings among we few scattered ones, holding it every two weeks and alternating between us and Bro. Davis' Marples', twelve miles south of us. Last Sunday we went a distance of fifteen miles and met at the home of Bro. Bonner, near Scandia. There are six families of us, though two can only attend by mail, and are near us. Two weeks ago our meeting was here and we enjoyed the presence of Sr. B. V. Springer, from Republic City, who gave us some earnest admonitions and counsels to faithfulness. It is so strengthening to us Saints who are so far from the work to have the blessed privilege of hearing a testimony from one so old in the work as Sr. Springer.

We have two teachers in our crowd, Bro. Marple and Bro. Ramsey, so we can have a little preaching once in a while too. If the Lord will, I would like to have these people hear a little more truth before we go away. The fall work is well advanced and most of the fodder cut, and I do not think work could be their excuse now. Even if it were, the advantage of Zion and the furtherance of the gospel work, I remain.

Your sister in the one faith,
Mrs. LOTTIE M. JOHNSON.

ZION'S ENSIGN.

Entered at the Post Office, at Independence, Mo., as Second Class Matter.

REMISSION OF SINS.

Sermon Delivered by Elder J. J. Cornish, at Chicago, Illinois, April 22, 1900.

Reported for Zion's Ensign by Bro. Elmer E. Johnson and Sr. Mabel Sanderson.

Dear brothers, and sisters, and friends, it affords me pleasure to be with you, and to address you from the word of the Lord. Being a little wearied in my journey, and not having proper rest, I may not occupy so long a time as usual, not feeling so well. There is a passage of scripture I would like to use for a starting point, though an oft repeated text by some; probably not so much by our people, but we will use it, and bring certain other passages of scripture to bear in connection with it, such as we think might be appropriate for the occasion. It is found in the first epistle general of John, the first chapter, and a part of the 7th verse:

The blood of Jesus Christ his Son cleanseth us from all sin.

I will repeat it, "The blood of Jesus Christ his Son cleanseth us from all sin." Found in the first epistle general of John, last part of the seventh verse. Why I say that this is an oft repeated text by some people who believe a little differently than we do, is because they, in their belief, differ with us somewhat; and in the difference, that passage of scripture is brought to bear more than many other passages that we may perhaps use more frequently than they. And I believe this afternoon I will quote a few passages of scripture that seem to come along in line with this one, and also those that to some may appear to be in another line; and we will bring them together and see if we cannot bring forth from the Book of God the same plan of salvation in all those passages. They may at first appear contradictory to some, but upon a more thorough examination, we will find that there is no contradiction, but they all bring us to the same end—bring about the same results by complying with the order as it is recorded therein.

Another passage of scripture is used very frequently too, with this one, by those who dwell so much on the blood of Jesus Christ cleansing us, and it is found in the sixteenth chapter of the Acts of the Apostles:

"Believe on the Lord Jesus Christ and thou shalt be saved, and thy house."

I believe that it is also found in St. John third chapter, about the sixteenth verse, after the same manner; and some people have used those passages, dwelt upon them frequently and at length, to the exclusion of many other passages which we think should be brought in, in connection with the plan of salvation.

Some may say, "Well, this passage is in the Bible that the blood of Jesus Christ his Son cleanseth us from all sin." That is true. One may say then "Is not that enough?" Well, there is where we think such have made mistakes, in that they have taken certain passages and pinned their faith right upon that statement, and that statement only; and if we are to do that, then I ask the question, if "the blood of Jesus Christ his Son cleanseth us from all sin," why use the other passage, "believe on the Lord Jesus Christ and you shall be saved?" If the blood does it alone, why say believe in Jesus? Some may say, believe that Jesus' blood does atone. Very well, on the other hand, why not use that passage, simply believe that he is the Christ, and leave out the blood? Now, we have often heard men say ONLY believe, and you shall be saved. Some times we have heard them in testimony meetings arise and testify to "ONLY believe and you shall be saved," and that is all that is necessary, and then perhaps the congregation will sing, "Nothing for me to do, nothing but the blood of Jesus," with "There is eternal life for a look at the crucified one," and so forth.

I wish to call your attention to another passage of scripture; this one is found in the second chapter of the Acts of the Apostles, it is the thirty-eighth verse. This passage was given as an answer to a question that had been asked the apostles on that memorable day of Pentecost. The question was "Men and brethren, what shall we do?" The answer in that thirty-eighth verse says, "then Peter said unto them, Repent and be baptized every one of you, in the name of Jesus Christ for the remission of sins." Now, some people say, "Well, that is the passage you Latter Day Saints harp on so much." Yes, well, what of it? Is it in the Bible? You must all agree that it is in your Bible. Then is it not the scripture? Is it not the word of God? Should it not be believed in by us? Now, I have quoted that passage to people who dwell so long on "only believe and you shall be saved," and asked them why not believe that passage as well as the other one, they sometimes have answered that is enough, what more do you want? It says to believe, and am I to believe that one and discard the other? Vice versa, the opposer may say, But am I to believe, "Repent and be baptized for the remission of sins," and not believe that one which says, "Believe on the Lord Jesus Christ," or the one that says, "The blood of Jesus Christ his Son cleanseth us from all sin?" I answer, No! take them all in. Now, if the other parties who disbelieve the faith of the Saints today would be fair, they would grant us the right to use those passages as we grant them the right to use the passages that they love so much; but while we tell them that we believe in all these passages, and that it takes all those points to bring salvation to us, we differ with them upon the idea that they can be saved by taking a part of them. I want to read another passage of scripture. It is following right on in the second chapter of the Acts from the thirty-eighth verse that I referred to; it says:

"And with many other words did he testify and exhort, saying, 'Save yourselves from this untoward generation.'"

Now, may be somebody thinks we have got mixed up a little. First, the blood of Jesus Christ his Son cleanseth us. Second, Believe on the Lord Jesus Christ and you will be saved. Two ways. The other one, Repent and be baptized for the remission of sins. Three ways. The other, Save yourselves. Four ways. Says one, that is kind of mixed. First, the blood of Jesus is to do it. Then, faith does it. Then, baptism does it. Then, do it yourself—"Save yourselves from this untoward generation." What are you going to do about it? These passages are in the Bible, they are there, and we believe in them, and we are going to look over them separately; read the text and context and see if we can't prove from those passages and others which we may think wise to bring in, that the great plan of salvation cannot be obtained unless we comply with all of them.

I do not believe "to only believe and you shall be saved," and nowhere in that Bible does it so state. If that be a fact we read that the devils believe and tremble, and if only believe and you shall be saved, then why are not the devils saved? And that passage which says that the devils believe and tremble shows that they only believe, and you ONLY believe, then your salvation would be no greater than that of the devils. Would it? Now, the devils do not comply with the requirements of the law, and then when I speak upon that other part which you leave out, you say, I believe it is there as you say, but I will not go forth and obey all these things that you speak of, because I do not believe it is necessary. Then if that doctrine be correct to only believe and you shall be saved, we have not gone any further than his Satanic Majesty, the devil. Judge ye.

Now, let me call forth that passage again, found in the sixteenth chapter of Acts, and give you a brief history of it, to show you the idea of what brought forth that language. This was at the time when two of the ministers for Christ were preaching the gospel; some of the people were opposed to that preaching, and they brought those men in to the market place to the magistrates, and the magistrates commanded them to be whipped and placed in prison; and when the jailor received the charge to keep them safely, he put them in the inner prison and made their feet fast in the stocks, etc., and no doubt they thought over the matter then, and conversed over it, and Paul says to Silas (perhaps), "Well, Jesus said we would receive tribulation in the world; here it is." Silas, "Yes, that is so." Jesus said, "rejoice in that day. If they persecute me, they will you. If they have kept my saying, they will keep yours." "Yes, but Paul, do you not remember that they persecuted him without a cause." "Well then, we may expect the same, if they have called the master of the house Beelzebub, what will they call or do unto them of his household? Be of good cheer, Brother Silas, our cause is just, we have done no wrong, we have nothing to fear. If they killed that Savior, they can do no more than that to us."

So they thought the matter over, and finally concluded that they would sing a hymn; and so they sang praises to God, and the prisoners heard them, and God moved for their good; he caused the foundation of that prison to be shaken, and every man's bands were loosened and the jailer awaking out of his sleep, and supposing that the prisoners had been fled, would have killed himself, but Paul said, Do thyself no harm, we are all here. We did not run away. We did not do anything wrong. We have been whipped and put into this prison uncondemned. The jailer then called for a light, and came in trembling, and fell down before Paul and Silas and brought them out and said, "Sirs, what must I do to be saved?" Now, that was the question he asked. "What must I do to be saved?" Now, the answer in part is, and they said, "believe on the Lord Jesus Christ and thou shalt be saved, and thy house." Now, that is not all that they told them. There is where we make a mistake; we stop too soon sometimes, like that old man who was in the habit of stealing chickens. One of his brethren wanted to know why he did so. Why, he says, the Bible says steal. Why, no, the Bible does not say that. Yes it does. Well, where? It says let him that stole steal. Yes, but you did not read it all; there is more than that; it says let him that stole steal no more. Shut up, he said, I don't want you to read that other part. I read all I want. This is in the Bible. Just so with somebody else who says, only believe, or, the blood of Jesus is enough; "Nothing but the blood of Jesus," etc., and when I tell them that they stop too soon, and there is more to do, Shut up, they say, I read all I want to; it reads, believe on the Lord Jesus Christ and you shall be saved, and that is enough. It is not enough any more than let him that stole steal, and leave off, "no more."

I read on, and you will see that there is more than only believe, as some would have it. And the next verse says, "and they spoke unto him the word of the Lord, and to all that were in his house." Then what? The next passage says, "he took them the same hour of the night and washed their stripes and was baptized, he and all his straightway." Now, then, let us go back to that passage again. They said "believe on the Lord Jesus Christ and thou shalt be saved and thy house, and they spake unto him the word of the Lord and to all that were in his house." Now, some might ask, "Elder, can you tell me what the word of the Lord was that they spake?" I believe I can. I will turn your attention to Matthew, twenty-eighth chapter and nineteenth verse, and tell you I think it was that. I will quote it, and then will give you my reasons why I believe that was the passage that they quoted. It is the last commission, you remember, where Jesus sent them to preach the gospel unto all the world. He said:

"Go ye, therefore, and teach all nations, baptizing them in the name of the Father, and of the Son, and of the Holy Ghost. Teaching them to observe all things whatsoever I have commanded you: and, lo, I am with you always even unto the end of the world."

Why, I think that they made that statement that Jesus has given, as written by Matthew, was because the very following verse in that sixteenth chapter of Acts says, "he took them the same hour of the night, washed their stripes and was baptized." So they must have taught them baptism, and that was the last thing the Savior had to tell them before he left this earth and was seated on high, at the right hand of God the Father where he was before.

Another passage I wish to call to your attention. I remember one time in public discussion in Canada, we occupied for nine evenings, and the elder who took the other side of the question in referring to that passage said, "I am going now to admit that baptism, after the manner of burial, as the elder has said, is correct; but" he says, "to harmonize with our discipline, I am going to prove from this passage that our mode of sprinkling and pouring, as well as immersion is also correct, and also proves that infants as well as adults, are proper subjects for baptism."

"Now," he says, "there was a little stream running under the wall of that prison, coming in at one side and going out the other. Now," he said, "it was not deep enough for them to baptize those parties there. It was not deep enough to baptize them by a burial. So hence, he either sprinkled or poured them, one of the two." "Furthermore," he says, "according to statistics, and as history will bear me out, at that time there would be an average of about five persons at every house; it would average that; that would be the man, and his wife and two children that had arrived to the years of accountability, and one child that had not. So the scriptures showed that they were baptized. Now, then," he says, "I have proven sprinkling or pouring; one was sprinkled, one poured, etc., for all I know. We give them their choice, no doubt they did the same; and, furthermore," he says, "there must have been one there, at least, that had not arrived to the years of accountability."

Now, in answer to that (making it brief), I told him that it was unreasonable to think that there would be a little stream running there under the wall; that it would have to be arched up there to let that water through, and if that should be a fact, what would hinder the prisoners from getting away? They would not mind getting a little wet to get out, and that argument was, therefore unreasonable; and I don't find any account of any such stream going through that prison. Furthermore, I said, the baptism was not performed in that jail at all. Now, it says he brought them out." "But," the opponent said, "he brought them out of the inner prison into the outer prison. There is where this rite was performed." I say now, it was not performed there. He brought them out of the inner and outer prison, and took them over to his house, and that scripture says he preached to him the word of the Lord, and to all who were in his house, not in the jail, and then the jailer took them the same hour of the night and washed their stripes, went away out of their house where there was sufficient water; why, these men had been whipped, no doubt, until the blood ran down their bodies; he went out and washed their stripes and was baptized, he and all his, straightway. He and all his household. And when he had brought them into his house, he set meat before them, and rejoiced, believing in God, with all his house. Now, that is not true that the baptism was done in the outer prison.

Well, says one, how are you going to account for the sprinkling of the little child? Well, I get out of it in this way: I said the elder made the remark that there was the jailer, his wife and two children that had arrived to the years of accountability, and one that had not; and they were all baptized, and that too in the jail; that proved that sprinkling was the mode of baptism and that an infant as well as adults were baptized. Well, I told him that he was wrong in that case, that there was an exception to that rule, for the man only had one child. Had a daughter, and she had grown up and was married and her husband was a shoe maker and lived across the road from the jail. "Where did you find that?" said he. "Just over on the other page there, where you found your statement." You may ask, "What do you prove by that?" Oh, nothing much. I merely offset his story by another, that is all. What good have you done? I simply have shown that there was no proof on either side.

Now, let us turn to the Bible to get some proof. I now turn to that scripture, and after they were baptized he "brought them into his house, and he set meat before them, and rejoiced, believing in God with all his house." They all believed. That is the point I want. There were no children there; they all believed and rejoiced. That is all we ask; so long as they are old enough to believe in God and rejoice in God, such parties are fit subjects for baptisms, such parties who truly repent of all their sins and make a covenant with God that they will serve him, may be admitted into the church.

But when I read "believe on the Lord Jesus Christ," I must not stop too soon, but read on, and see what else there is to do.

To believe on the word of the Lord Jesus Christ. To say that we believe that Jesus is the Christ, and then do not do what Christ said, is an argument to me that we do not believe in Jesus Christ at all. Let me give you an outside illustration. Suppose I go along the street and I see a gentleman with his feet up, perhaps higher than his head, resting himself and reading a newspaper, and I see that his house is on fire, and he is unaware of it, and I say, "Your house is on fire" and he drops the paper down, looks over his shoulder and says "What?" "Why, your house is on fire," I say again. He says, "Is it?" and he goes right on reading. Well, I know the man does not believe me. You would know that he does not believe what I said to him; but if he drops that paper, rises up and moves to act, then you make up your mind that he believes what I said to him; he is moving now to try to put out that fire if possible. So, when a man says, "I believe in Christ" but goes right on and pays no attention to that Christ, and does not do what that Christ said, I have but little confidence in his faith in Christ.

That is a kind of a lazy way anyway, to have him do it all and they do nothing. They do the sinning, and the sinless one is to do the saving, and do it all for them. Move to act; do something; obey the gospel. Christ, upon one occasion, said to the Jews which believed in him, "—they believed remember, if belief does it, they were saved—'If ye continue in my word, then are ye my disciples indeed, and ye shall know the truth, and the truth shall make you free.'" What is truth? Pilate asked Jesus that question one time when he was about to give him over to be crucified, but he was so excited he did not wait for an answer; but upon another occasion Jesus answered and said in his prayer to the Father, speaking of his disciples, "Father sanctify them through thy truth: thy word is truth." So then, "if you continue in my word you will know the truth [my words], and the truth [my words] shall make you free."

Then another may say, "Well, but elder, does not the Bible say that the Son shall make you free?" Well, I understand that to be in connection with this passage, if you will take what the Son said, and do it; maybe I can give that idea a little plainer by calling your attention to another statement. You remember Jesus sent his disciples out to preach, free. "Freely ye have received, freely give." So one day the disciples came to the Savior, and they said, Lord, we have left all and followed thee? What will we have therefore? what will we get therefore? And Jesus said to them, there is no man that has forsaken houses or land, or brethren or sister, or father or mother for my sake and the gospel's, but what shall receive now in this time a hundredfold, and in the world to come everlasting life. For Christ's sake and the gospel's. Then another one (kind of a critic), "But, elder, I thought you said there was only one gospel; now you say gospels." "For Christ's sake, and the gospel's sake," Christ and the gospel both inseparably connected. We must believe in Jesus Christ and in the words of Jesus Christ and we will have salvation.

Then another may say, "Well then, elder, what about that baptism?" That is what Christ said, "Go teach the nations, baptizing them in the name of the Father, the Son, and the Holy Ghost." Then again, in St. Mark 16:16, 17, "He that believeth in Christ shall be saved" is sometimes quoted, but it reads, "He that believeth and is baptized shall be saved; but he that believeth not shall be damned." And so I notice in this connection, "Repent and be baptized for the remission of sins." If you will read that chapter (Acts 2) you will find that Peter had been telling them about that Jesus. You will remember that it was the memorable day of Pentecost, when the Spirit had come upon them; when people heard them speaking in other tongues, they were pricked in their hearts and were in a great quandary what they should do to be saved. Peter told these people that they had crucified Jesus Christ, that he had ascended up on high and that he had shed forth that power they there saw and heard, and he tried to inspire faith in them in Christ, that same Jesus whom ye have taken and crucified with your cruel, wicked hands, he hath ascended up on high, and hath shed forth this which you now see and hear. They then being pricked in their hearts, said, "Men and brethren, what shall we do?" "Repent." True, you have crucified him, but repent, then be baptized for the remission of sin, then you shall receive the Holy Ghost. You can have that same power and gift of the Holy Ghost. Joel said, in the last days that God would pour out his Spirit upon all flesh. We are now receiving that Spirit that will come in latter days, as well as they, and you may be the rich recipients of that same Spirit if you comply with the requirements of the gospel of the Son of God.

Another may say, "I wish you would explain those passages where they should save themselves. Then they have to be baptized to do it, and Jesus has nothing to do with it." Now let us see if he has not. I read right on in connection with that passage which says, "repent and be baptized for the remission of sins," and with many other words did he testify and exhort, saying, Save yourselves from this untoward generation." Now read the next verse, "Then they that gladly received his word were baptized." Ah! here the gospel plan has been introduced to them and he tells them that Jesus has done all that he can do. He has now sent forth his ministering servants to tell you what the law says that you must do in order that you may obtain salvation. Now then, will you do it? Will you come to him that you may have life? Now save yourselves from this untoward generation. There is a plan laid down, will you accept it? Then they that gladly received the word were baptized; they went forth in obedience to that plan, accepting that part that Christ had done for them. Jesus did not do it all, you have to do something for yourself.

The question might arise in the minds of some, where the blood of Jesus cleanses, I can't see where the blood of Jesus takes effect. Well, maybe I can tell you a little about it. We will see. Supposing, now, you have a brother preaching here, supposing I had been one of the congregation and I came out to meeting; I attended the meeting for several evenings, say twenty or thirty as the case may be; time after time had a little conversation with the elder about it, and I made up my mind that they must be right; I believe it must be true, and believing that it was true, I felt that I should comply with it in order that I obtain salvation with the rest. I would go up to that elder and say, "Now elder, I have been listening to your preaching right along, night after night, day after day, I believe that it is right;" give him my reasons, tell him how I feel about it and say, "Elder, if you think that I am a fit and proper person to become a member of your church, I wish you would baptize me." Well, of course, he is supposed to know something about it, that minister that preaches to the people is supposed to know a little something about it whether or not that party has been learning the gospel plan; whether the inspiration of the Almighty doth flow from him to his congregation, drawing them together in that one faith; he will have some idea about it. If he is satisfied that I am a fit and proper person to become a member of the church, he may say, all right, I will baptize you. The time is appointed and arrangements made, and he takes me in the water, he stands in the water side by side with me, and raises his hand and says, either "having authority given me by Jesus Christ" or "having been commissioned by Jesus Christ," whichever term he may use, "I baptize you in the name of the Father, and of the Son," etc. You may wonder at the saying, "Having been commissioned by Jesus Christ." You know I would believe of course that he was, because I believe that that church was right, but you may wonder at the idea that the others do not use that. But I did not know that the others were commissioned, but I had an idea that this man is, because he is telling me the same old time religion that obtained in the days of Christ and his disciples, when the same kind of ministers were called and sent to administer in the ordinances of that gospel. And so he says with the understanding that he has been commissioned, "Having been commissioned, I baptize you in the name of the Father, and of the Son, and of the Holy Ghost."

Then he buries me in that water; now what am I buried in that water for? To be baptized for the remission of my sins. What else? To be translated out of the kingdom of darkness in through the door, into the kingdom of God's dear Son. When that brother buries me in that water, that I may be baptized for the remission of my sins, the blood of Jesus Christ meets me there. That is the time; it meets me then. And so Jesus Christ has shed his blood for us, that through our obedience to that gospel that he gave, his blood will atone, and so he baptized me for the remission of my sins, and by obedience to that gospel the blood of Jesus Christ his Son, together with a compliance with the ordinance of his gospel, my sins are remitted; I rise to walk in newness of life. I am born again from the kingdom of the world to the kingdom of Christ. I start anew in the divine life; thus I think I can see how all those passages bear out the same idea.

Says one, That it is not clear to me yet about the blood of Jesus Christ. It reads, "the blood of Jesus Christ cleanses us from all sin." Yes, I know. Well, let us see. Here is a man that has been drunk. He fell in the ditch. Poor fellow, I get a stick and scrape the mud off. Well, then I wash him; clean him up, and he stands there staggering. His eyes are all swelled. I say to him, "Do you believe in Jesus?" He answers, "Yes." Does the blood of Jesus Christ cleanse that man in that filthy state? Well, if you are going to take that passage unqualified, you must take that person. It would, I answer, it cannot affect him in that condition. You may take another man, and you have, no doubt, perhaps read of him; he has committed murder; maybe three or four persons he has killed. He may have fled, but is brought to justice, he is tried, proved guilty, and condemned to die. He stands on the gallows, the rope is bound about his neck, he is about to be swung off, should you ask him, "Do you believe in Jesus?" he answers, "Yes." Then does the blood of Jesus Christ cleanse us from all sin? No murderer hath eternal life, you remember. You notice that won't answer. That won't do. Well, says one, what is it there for? That is like that other passage may be, that says, let him that stole steal. They stop too soon, or something is wrong. It certainly does not contradict the other parts of the scripture. Let us read all that verse, "But if we walk in the light, as he is in the light, we have fellowship one with another, and the blood of Jesus Christ his Son cleanseth us from all sin." When we walk in the light as He is in it, and not until then, will his blood take effect. People who are constantly rebelling against God, and are not walking in the light, but killing, cursing and doing all manner of wickedness, does the blood of Jesus Christ affect them? It cannot, except by condemning them. Well then, don't you see, when we walk in the light, then his blood will atone, and not until then, will his blood atone for any of us.

What kind of a light was there reflected by the Savior? I remember of reading that the Savior came to John the Baptist, saying, "I want to be baptized of thee." What, Son of God to be baptized? Why, if he was the sinless and stainless one, why need he be baptized? He did it to fulfill all righteousness, and he came to lay the example for the race. Now then, we, the sinners, and the ones that have been wrong, surely we ought to follow that example, that we might become like him. John thought, like some of you, that he was the Savior and did not need baptism, or that he was not fit to baptize him. Yes, but said Jesus, "Suffer it to be so now, for thus it becometh us to fulfill all righteousness," and when John learned that fact, that Jesus must be baptized to fulfill all righteousness, then he suffered him. And so it says that, "Jesus when he was baptized, went up straightway out of the water: And lo, the heavens were opened unto him, and he saw the Spirit of God descending like a dove and lighting upon him, and lo a voice from heaven saying, This is my beloved Son, in whom I am well pleased." (Matt. 3: 15-17). God says, by his own audible voice, that Jesus was His Son. He was then about thirty years of age, and was baptized, and God says, I am well pleased with what he has done. And don't you think, dear brother and sister, that God will be well pleased when we comply with the same thing? We will then have fellowship with him when we walk in that light; then his blood will atone.

Jesus made the statement that except a man was born again of water and of the Spirit that he could not enter into the kingdom of heaven. Now, I understand except a man (Jesus was a man, and he was God manifest in the flesh)—but except a man be born again; Jesus, I understand, was no exception to the rule. If he then, in whom was found no guile, must comply with that order, don't let any of you think that you can get through this life all safe, and land over on the other shore, and find an abundant entrance into the kingdom of God, without you comply with the same thing.

Says one, "I cannot see how that can be." That was just the way with the old man that Jesus was talking to. He said, "How can it be?" Jesus says we speak that which we do know, and testify of that which we have seen and you receive not our testimony; and while the old gentleman still marvelled over it, Jesus wound up the matter by again saying, "Marvel not that I said unto thee, ye must be born again." Who can truthfully say Jesus told a lie? He told the truth. He said it would be the truth that would make them free. If Jesus then, while here upon the earth, never told a lie, but always told the truth, in order that he might bring the truth before the people, and bring salvation to the race, do you mean to tell me that we can have salvation without obeying that principle or truth, or that Jesus will turn around and tell a lie to save us who do not obey him? No, he would not. If I thought he would, and thus change the order of things, I would feel quite different about it from what I now do. I certainly would. He told the truth, and he said that it is the truth that would make you free, and He cannot turn around and change it, and thus tell a lie to make you free.

Let me bring in a case before the Judge in the day of Judgment; we are supposing this case. It won't be the way I am going to tell you, but it is the way some other people say the Judgment will be. One will come in, then another, etc., and then our turn will come to stand before the judge; we will just stand before him and of course we will plead our case, and the Lord will have the recording angel turn over that great book, and find your name, and all the black marks and all the good marks, etc., one is sent to hell, another to heaven, etc.; finally Nicodemus' case comes up, and the books are opened and we are to be judged according to our works. Well now, then, when the books are opened, supposing that the passage is brought up where Jesus says to Nicodemus in the 3rd chapter of St. John,

"Except you are born of water and of the Spirit ye cannot enter into the kingdom," and Jesus having made that statement, and being truthful, etc., says, "Well, Nicodemus, were you born of water and of the Spirit the way I told you when I was down there?" Answer, No Lord, I did not do that just that way. Now, what are you going to do in this case? Did I not say that except it was done you could not enter heaven? Do you not know that what I said unto one I said unto all? Now, Nicodemus may plead and say, Lord, don't you know that when they were about to crucify you I held the law up before them and I cried out in the midst of those wicked people and said, Does our law judge any man before it hear him and know what he doeth? I stood for you there, Jesus. I did the best I could, under the circumstances, to defend you. All right, pretty good plea. Now, Jesus, you lie for me now, and save me, will you? Well, will he say, I remember that was a good thing that you did for me, I guess I will save you. Do you think he will do it? He cannot do it and be God. He cannot and be my true Savior. He will not go back on his words. He must stand upon that principle, "My words are Spirit and they are life," not a jot or tittle of it shall fail. "Heaven and earth shall pass, but my word shall not pass away until all shall be fulfilled." If you have not done it, Nicodemus, you cannot enter the kingdom of God. Jesus cannot change it. Dear brothers and sisters and friends, we must bend to the gospel of Jesus Christ and not endeavor to make God bend to our plan. Let us come to that plan and it will be well.

"Well," says one, "but you mean probably that nobody but you fellows are going to be saved." Well, I would be glad if all of us fellows would be enabled to obey all of his commands, and live up to them and be saved. I kind of feel all right just now. I want to do right all along the journey of life; but we are in a very wicked world, and I do not know how many temptations I may fall into before my race is run; but my desire is to stand for the right, living according to the plan that God gave me, and when my life's work is over, that I might hear that welcome plaudit, "Well done good and faithful servant," etc. But before I close I call your attention to somebody that said, Well, if I do all but that borne of water, etc., I guess I will be saved. All right, Well, supposing you do one part, then you live to that part—and then you come up in the day of accounts, can you expect full reward?—Can Jesus say "well done" when you did not do it at all? I answer, No. He cannot say "well done" when you only obeyed what suited you. It would not be well done if you left a little out. Think over these things. May the Lord bless you, is my prayer in Jesus' name.

Utah District Reunion.

The reunion is being held in the Saints' chapel at Pleasant Grove, Utah; organization was effected September 1, 10 a. m., by election of the following officers, viz: president, Elder D. W. Wight; secretary, Elder W. S. Pender; chorister, Elder R. J. Parker; organist, Bro. D. W. Wight, with privilege of selecting assistants. By motion the chair was authorized to appoint a reception committee, Brn. Hosea Sterrett, R. J. Parker and W. S. Pender were appointed as such committee. The president on invitation addressed the meeting briefly, stating that he knew too much time and means might be spent in holding reunions, but he had looked forward to a reunion in Utah as being pleasurable and of profit. To accomplish our work, we must possess spirituality and sociability. The surroundings of the Saints in Utah generally, do not contribute to the development of these characteristics, hence, a reunion here is especially desirable. The order of services provided is: preaching daily at 10:30 a. m. and 7:30 p. m., and prayer meeting at 3 p. m. Thursday, September 5th, was given to the Sunday School workers. The prayer service in the afternoon, September 1st, was in charge of Brn. R. R. Dana and Hosea Sterrett, it was a spiritual meeting. Only about forty visiting Saints first day, which, comparatively, is a small reunion, but began with excellent prospects of a successful session. Bro. D. W. Wight was taken sick and was unable to attend either Saturday or Sunday, after the opening service, but is well again. No sooner did he convalesce, than Bro. R. J. Parker was similarly afflicted, not being yet able to attend meetings, but better. Aside from these fleeting clouds, the horizon of our reunion has been bright, and our hearts have already been made glad by the presence of the geniality of Saints and the Spirit of the Master. The more do we appreciate these, as they appear in such striking contrast to the coldness of spirit and darkness of mind so characteristic of too many in this country.

The preaching thus far has been done by Brn. S. D. Condit, R. J. Parker, R. R. Dana, D. W. Wight, P. Anderson and W. S. Pender. Of the ideas presented which impressed themselves upon the mind of the hearer as important, we mention a few in condensed form.

In four discourses by three speakers attention was directed to the difference in method of work as employed by our heavenly Father, and by Satan, to accomplish the purpose of each. Satan makes miracle the basis of his operations, and points to it as infallible evidence upon which to rest ones entire hopes; also points to miraculous manifestation, bestowed frequently without rendering obedience to the law of God, as proof that it is not necessary to keep the law of the Lord. Our heavenly Father makes truth and his law the basis upon which the hope of the race may securely rest, giving his endorsement and approval to miracle only so far as the same is bestowed in harmony with his law, and as a result of faithfully observing it. Miracle, as something we can neither understand nor explain, is not a safe basis upon which to predicate our hope of eternal life. Hence, Christ advised against such a standard, declaring that false teachers would perform "great signs and wonders insomuch were it possible, they would deceive the very elect."

Miracles, when performed by ignoring or violating the "doctrine of Christ," instead of being a means of safety, are, in fact, a means of deception. "He that abideth not in the doctrine of Christ hath not God." Yet many, if not all, the miracles of modern spiritualism, under its multiplied forms of various schools of "Faith Cure," "Christian Science," etc., are claimed without any reference to obedience to the principles of the doctrine of Christ. Jesus warned against such deceptions. "Many shall come in my name saying I am Christ, and shall deceive many." Nearly all phases of modern spiritualism are ready to proclaim that Jesus is Christ. Then how are they "to deceive many?" Evidently, by those miracles they have power to perform, and by ignoring or violating the "doctrine" which Jesus taught. Thus they use the influence of his name, but do not teach and practice the truths of the gospel and so deceive "many."

When the gospel was first committed to this generation, in 1830, miracles were universally denied. The world had "a form of godliness but denied the power thereof." But this condition was not to continue until the Savior should come. For Paul had said: "Let no man deceive you by any means, for that day shall not come, except there come a falling away first, and that man of sin be revealed, the son of perdition; * * * even him whose coming is after the working of Satan, with all power and signs and lying wonders and with all deceivableness of unrighteousness in them that perish; because they received not the love of the truth that they might be saved." (2 Thess. 2: 3-10). After the gospel had been preached several years, and many did not "receive the love of it, the powers of darkness began to be made manifest, to work "in the hearts of the children of disobedience," to try to imitate and counterfeit the blessings of God bestowed through obedience to the gospel.

In speaking of those who have departed from God, Doctrine and Covenants 1: 3 reads: "They seek not the Lord to establish his righteousness, but every man walketh in his own way, and after the image of his own God, whose image is in the likeness of the world, and whose substance is that of an idol, which waxeth old and shall perish in Babylon, even Babylon the great which shall fall." In a sense, every denomination has a christ and a god of their own, because they represent the Father and the Son and their doctrine differently. This is especially true of the dominant church in Utah, and hence the language above quoted has especial application to them. They worship Adam for god, and claim that he, and not God, is the father of our Lord. (See Journal of Discourses, Vol. 1, page 50). "The faith that was once delivered to the Saints," as manifested in the peculiar but very successful method adopted to capture Jericho; to select men for "Gideon's band," to disperse the Midianites; the preservation of three Hebrews in the fiery furnace, etc., were cited as examples of possible attainment, and impelling us to contend for such faith.

The possibility of putting too much confidence in religious leaders, especially those endowed with the miraculous gifts of the gospel, was cited. A close acquaintance with such persons frequently develops that they are imperfect. Their defects should be scrupulously avoided. The presence of the gifts of the Spirit in such instances, is not an endorsement of the individual's defects, but rather an effort on the part of our heavenly Father to eliminate them. Man is composed of body and spirit. The body requires physical food, consisting of the same elements of which it is composed. Hence, the same kind of food which is now required to sustain the life of the body has always been required in the past and will always be necessary in the future. The inward man, or spirit, also requires food, intellectual food, the truth, to sustain it. The appetite, if not perverted, will crave just the kind of food necessary to sustain the body. All the elements essential to physical life may be found in the flesh of animals, vegetation, water and the air around us. So, if our intellectual appetite is not perverted, and we desire earnestly to know the truth, it may be found, "Ask and it shall be given; seek and ye shall find; knock and it shall be opened unto you." If the flesh is lacerated, suffering results and nature begins to repair the wound. If we violate God's law we suffer, but alleviation and cure are found in repentance.

The same brethren who did the preaching, also conducted the prayer services daily. They have been of a spiritual and edifying character. Tomorrow will be devoted to Sunday School work. Bro. Parker is still confined to his room this evening, September 5th.

W. S. PENDER, Sec.
Perfect Foods Are Very Few.

There are very few single foods containing the proper amount of nitrogen and carbon. It is intended that we shall mix our foods to get a perfect diet. The whole wheat grain is very nearly a typical food; it may lack a little fat. Milk and eggs are also nearly perfect. The pulse or chick peas of the East are quite perfect food.—September Ladies' Home Journal.

In the selection of trees for planting, it is quite an item to avoid forked trees. The forked apple or pear tree nearly always come to ruin sooner or later, by the splitting of the fork. If the tree is forked, avoid the difficulty by cutting off the smaller, weak limb, making a smooth, slanting cut, and securing as nearly an upright growth as possible with the remaining limb.—Sel.

Gossip may be friendly and neighborly. I like the word because it conveys the suggestion of good news or good comment, but it is no longer gossip when it ceases to deal with pleasant happenings and loving wishes, and becomes critical or censorious or lapses into slander. The most unworthy talk in the world is that which is carried on in whispers and semi-confidences, and which retails the unfortunate errors of people whom we know. Never to say an unkind thing, never to imply an unfriendly thing, even by our silence, are rules which we should make, and to which we should scrupulously adhere.—Margaret E. Sangster, in the September Ladies' Home Journal.

The text books of the Ben Pitman or American system of shorthand writing, recently adopted by the St. Louis Board of Education for the public schools of that city, can be obtained from the Missouri Shorthand College, 918 Pine street, St. Louis, Missouri, for one dollar. Hon. W. T. Harris, United States Commissioner of Education, Washington, D. C., states: "The Ben Pitman system of shorthand writing is used more than any other system." The only shorthand institution in the state using the Ben Pitman text books is the Missouri Shorthand College, St. Louis, Missouri.

WATCH YOUR BLOOD.

IF IMPURE, TAKE B. B. B.

BOTTLE SENT FREE.

Any ZION'S ENSIGN reader whose blood is becoming thin or impure, or who already suffers from blood or skin humors, such as sores, ulcers, pimples, unsightly eruptions, fluttering heart, scrofula, swollen glands and aching joints, aching back, itching skin, falling hair, bone pains and shifting aches, cancer, eating sores, eczema, boils, scald head, rheumatism, catarrh, can be permanently cured by using B. B. B. (Botanic Blood Balm), thoroughly tested for 30 years. People who need more blood or who want rich, pure blood, people whose skin is pale or who suffer from any form of impure blood, should at once send their name and address to Blood Balm Co., 86 Mitchell St., Atlanta, Ga., enclosing five cents (stamps or coin), to cover exact cost of postage (the medicine is absolutely free), and they will forward, prepaid by mail, a sufficient free trial bottle of B. B. B. to fully prove its remarkable action in healing every evidence of impure blood. The Medical Investigator says that B. B. B. is the most wonderful blood purifier made, as it cures after all else fails; the finest remedy made for spring humors. ZION'S ENSIGN readers who suffer are advised to try B. B. B. Large bottles for sale by druggists, $1 per bottle, or 6 large bottles (full treatment), $5. Complete directions for home treatment go with each large bottle. If you don't want to buy a large bottle of the druggist before knowing more about B. B. B., then write for a free trial bottle. It will convince the most skeptical. B. B. B. is perfectly safe to use by old and young. B. B. B., while healing humors in the blood, improves the appetite, stimulates the liver and makes the weak strong by giving new, red blood. So write today, enclosing five cents to cover exact cost of postage, addressing Blood Balm Co., 86 Mitchell St., Atlanta, Ga., and the medicine will be sent day order is received. Describe trouble and free medical advice given.

Persons intending the acquirement of shorthand and typewriting should select a responsible school, otherwise their time and money are wasted. As success in shorthand is largely dependent on the teacher as well as pupil, it is absolutely necessary that instructors should be practical shorthand writers and no others are competent to teach. Benn Pitman system taught.

The Principal of "The Missouri Shorthand College" is John H. Schofield, the well known journalist and shorthand writer, and member of the National Shorthand Writers' Association. In order to show that he is a practical and recognized exponent of shorthand, reference letters are herewith published from leading educators:

Prof. E. Benjamin Andrews, now Chancellor of Nebraska University, and recently Superintendent of Chicago Schools, comments on his character and ability as follows:

Board of Education, Office of Superintendent of Schools, Chicago, Feb. 21, 1900.

Mr. John H. Schofield is well and favorably known to me as the successful director of a large shorthand college in Providence, R. I. I consider him not only one of the most expert practical shorthand writers whom I have ever known, but also an upright, honorable and perfectly trustworthy gentleman.

E. BENJAMIN ANDREWS, Superintendent of Schools.

Commenting on Mr. Schofield's ability and character, President J. G. Robinson of Brown University, Providence, R. I., contributes the following:

Brown University, Providence, R. I.

I have known Mr. John H. Schofield for years as stenographic reporter for the Providence Journal. His work has given special satisfaction to all parties concerned. His character as a Christian gentleman has also commanded respect, and I take pleasure in commending him to the confidence and good-will of all with whom he may meet or with whom he may have business relations.

President Brown University.

Brother Fabrician, of La Salle College, Philadelphia, Pa., adds the following testimonial:

La Salle College, Philadelphia, Pa.

Mr. John H. Schofield: My Dear Sir—It gives me much pleasure to say a timely word to bear witness to your character as a man, and your ability as a journalist and shorthand writer. I hope and pray that your efforts, in whatever channel you may choose to direct them, will be rewarded with the measure of success which your talents, your energy and your accomplishments must win. You are, however, too well and favorably known to need this note or recognition from your very sincere and devoted friend,

BRO. FABRICIAN.

Those so situated that they cannot attend school sessions, taught by mail, as Principal John H. Schofield has had gratifying success by this method of teaching. Many students who will devote two hours daily to practice, cannot fail to obtain a good general knowledge of shorthand in twenty weeks. This is a short time to acquire a profession that will enable persons to be self supporting. Those who attend the school generally graduated in about sixteen weeks, but this depends largely on the ability and general knowledge of the pupil. As a knowledge of shorthand is of no practical utility unless able to spell and compose correctly, students deficient in those lines are taught without extra charge. Shorthand and typewriting furnishes lucrative, as well as pleasant employment for both sexes, but more especially for young ladies, as there are always positions for those who are capable and competent.

Positions Secured for Graduates. Instruction in Bookkeeping and full Commercial Course if Desired. Rooms and Board furnished pupils from abroad at moderate rates.

THE MISSOURI SHORTHAND COLLEGE,
No. 918 Pine St.,
ST. LOUIS, MISSOURI.

Learn Shorthand.

A Knowledge of Shorthand and Typewriting Will Enable You to Be Self-sustaining.

The Missouri Shorthand College of St. Louis, Mo., is one of the Leading Shorthand Institutions in the United States.

Persons intending the acquirement of shorthand and typewriting should select a responsible school, otherwise their time and money are wasted. As success in shorthand is largely dependent on the teacher as well as pupil, it is absolutely necessary that instructors should be practical shorthand writers and no others are competent to teach. Benn Pitman system taught.

The Principal of "The Missouri Shorthand College" is John H. Schofield, the well known journalist and shorthand writer, and member of the National Shorthand Writers' Association. In order to show that he is a practical and recognized exponent of shorthand, reference letters are herewith published from leading educators:

Prof. E. Benjamin Andrews, now Chancellor of Nebraska University, and recently Superintendent of Chicago Schools, comments on his character and ability as follows:

Board of Education, Office of Superintendent of Schools, Chicago, Feb. 21, 1900.

Mr. John H. Schofield is well and favorably known to me as the successful director of a large shorthand college in Providence, R. I. I consider him not only one of the most expert practical shorthand writers whom I have ever known, but also an upright, honorable and perfectly trustworthy gentleman.

E. BENJAMIN ANDREWS, Superintendent of Schools.

Commenting on Mr. Schofield's ability and character, President J. G. Robinson of Brown University, Providence, R. I., contributes the following:

Brown University, Providence, R. I.

I have known Mr. John H. Schofield for years as stenographic reporter for the Providence Journal. His work has given special satisfaction to all parties concerned. His character as a Christian gentleman has also commanded respect, and I take pleasure in commending him to the confidence and good-will of all with whom he may meet or with whom he may have business relations.

President Brown University.

Brother Fabrician, of La Salle College, Philadelphia, Pa., adds the following testimonial:

La Salle College, Philadelphia, Pa.

Mr. John H. Schofield: My Dear Sir—It gives me much pleasure to say a timely word to bear witness to your character as a man, and your ability as a journalist and shorthand writer. I hope and pray that your efforts, in whatever channel you may choose to direct them, will be rewarded with the measure of success which your talents, your energy and your accomplishments must win. You are, however, too well and favorably known to need this note or recognition from your very sincere and devoted friend,

BRO. FABRICIAN.

Those so situated that they cannot attend school sessions, taught by mail, as Principal John H. Schofield has had gratifying success by this method of teaching. Many students who will devote two hours daily to practice, cannot fail to obtain a good general knowledge of shorthand in twenty weeks. This is a short time to acquire a profession that will enable persons to be self supporting. Those who attend the school generally graduated in about sixteen weeks, but this depends largely on the ability and general knowledge of the pupil. As a knowledge of shorthand is of no practical utility unless able to spell and compose correctly, students deficient in those lines are taught without extra charge. Shorthand and typewriting furnishes lucrative, as well as pleasant employment for both sexes, but more especially for young ladies, as there are always positions for those who are capable and competent.

Positions Secured for Graduates. Instruction in Bookkeeping and full Commercial Course if Desired. Rooms and Board furnished pupils from abroad at moderate rates.

THE MISSOURI SHORTHAND COLLEGE,
No. 918 Pine St.,
ST. LOUIS, MISSOURI.

STATE SAVINGS BANK OF LAMONI,

Incorporated under the laws of the State of Iowa, July 1, 1898,

Offers depositors a safe bank for their savings, and solicits the correspondence and deposits of all Ensign readers, and will pay four per cent interest per annum on your deposits. Sundry money for Registered Letter, or your private check on any bank in the United States or Canada, and direct your letter to W. A. Hopkins, Cashier of the State Savings Bank of Lamoni, at Lamoni, Iowa. Upon receipt of same a certificate of deposit will be issued, and the money will be placed to your credit. This bank has facilities for doing any large business by keeping surplus funds invested in safe and available securities and has already received deposits from sixteen different states. All letters containing inquiries or business will be promptly answered.

List of Stockholders:—Wm. Anderson, Geo. H. Hilliard, Mrs. David Dancer, Miss Alice Dancer, Mrs. E. B. Wray, Mrs. Lucy L. Resequie, A. R. Anderson, W. A. Hopkins, George Anderson, Frank Criley and Geo. W. Blair.

DR. JOS. MATHER,
PHYSICIAN.

Office, Liberty St., One Door South of Chrisman-Sawyer Bank.

Phone 190-3. Independence, Mo.

RESIDENCE, 301 S. SPRING ST.

CALLS ANSWERED NIGHT OR DAY.

A SPECIAL BARGAIN.

$575.
For 6 Acres, with small cottage, barn, etc., in West Lamoni. Only small payment required to secure a valuable home. Lock Box No. 7, Lamoni, Iowa.

Broken Brics-a-Bracs.

Mr. Major, the famous cement man, of New York, explains some very interesting facts about Major's Cement. The multitudes who use this standard article know that it is many hundred percent better than other cements for which similar claims are made, but a great many do not know why. The simple reason is they never discovered and other manufacturers do not use them, because they are too expensive and do not allow large profits. Mr. Major tells us that one of the elements of his cement costs $3.5 a pound, and another costs $3.65 a gallon, while a large share of the so-called cements and liquid glue upon the market are nothing more than sixteen-cent glue, dissolved in water or electric acid, and in some cases, altered slightly in color and odor by the addition of cheap and useless materials. Major's Cement retails at fifteen cents and twenty-five cents a bottle, and when a dealer tries to sell a substitute you can depend upon it that his only object is to make largest profit.

The profit on Major's Cement is as much as any dealer ought to make on any cement. And this is doubly true in the case of the fact that each dealer gets his share of the benefit of Mr. Major's advertising, which now amounts to over $8,000 a month throughout the country. Established in 1876.

Insist on having Major's. Don't accept any off-hand advice from a druggist. If you are at all handy (and you will be likely to find that) cut out a good deal more so than you imagine) you can repair your rubber boots and family shoes, and any other rubber and leather articles, with Major's Rubber Cement and Major's Leather Cement.

And you will be surprised at how many dollars a year you will thus save. If you don't drug, you can supply you, it will be forwarded by mail, either kind. Free of postage.

D. F. NICHOLSON, Cashier.
H. C. NICHOLSON, Ass't Cashier.

COMMERCIAL BANK,
LAMONI, IOWA.

Ample responsibility. Five per cent interest paid on deposits. Correspondence solicited. Farms and town property for sale.

SUBSCRIBE FOR THE
College City Chronicle
The Leading Local Paper of LAMONI, IOWA.

Published Weekly by the Chronicle Publishing Co.

A CARD.
To the Saints who do not know me I wish to say, I have been in the real estate business for about fifteen years in Jackson county, Missouri, and am well acquainted with values, know where to locate the brethren better than one who has not had experience. I know all about values; I know a bargain and am in position to advise. And I wish to say there are other Latter Day Saints, in Missouri, who are in the real estate business. Now, if you are not afraid of your brethren, please call and see them when in Independence, or write them. I will give you for reference any honorable person with whom I have ever done business, in any business man, Missouri, banker or merchant; also Bro. Wm. Crick; Joseph Luff; H. R. Mills; J. W. Luff, Business Manager of the Ensign Publishing House; W. H. Garrett, Editor of the Ensign; J. N. White of the Twelve; Alfred W. Hills, missionary. I do all this to show you that Latter Day Saints can be honorable in real estate business as well as any other business. W. S. LOAN.

ANY one desiring bank numbers of Sunday School Quarterlies, Heralds, Ensigns, or Hopes, may be supplied upon application to the Literary Exchange, Box 291, Independence, Mo.

Two Boxes of Quit-to-bac Cured Him.

"KREB, Okla., March 29, 1900
"Bro. Ordway—I have been enabled to quit tobacco after the use of two boxes of your antidote (Quit-to-bac). I have used tobacco for thirty years and both chewed and smoked plug tobacco."

"L. STALEY."
Three boxes of Quit-to-bac sent postage prepaid to the United States or Canada for only $1.50, with positive guarantee of cure or money cheerfully refunded. U. S. postage stamps taken. You run no risk, you will not be free from this God-condemned habit? Address, (Bro. B. F. Ordway, Peoria, Ill.

THEY ADMIT IT.

Bro. Hull, Chaucery, Ohio, says we saved him $12.00 on a $13.00 suit. Bro. Farrell, West Sullivan, Maine, writes that we saved him $5.00 on a $7.00 suit. Youth's heavy three-piece suit, age 12 to 19, $3.50. Goods are all sent prepaid.

JEN'S SACK SUITS.
Black, all wool, worsted Men's Suits, four button, round or square cut, 14 ounce $7.00; 16 ounce $7.25; 18 ounce $8.25; 20 ounce $8.75. Extra fine, strictly all wool Oxford steel gray, heavy; worth $18.00, price $9.00.

PRINCE ALBERT SUITS.
Same goods as above, 14 oz. $9.50; 16 oz. $10.00; 18 oz. $11.00; 20 oz. $11.50. 14 oz. French Twill Sacks, worth $18.00, price $9.00. Prince Alberts, worth $25.00, $13.50.

MEASUREMENTS.—Give size of bust around chest just under arms with coat off, size of waist, length of in seam of pant leg, your height and weight.

Make all drafts, express and money orders payable at Seymour, Mo. Send all communications, letters, orders and registered letters to Wm. L. CO., THE E. T. AYER & CO., Cumrah, Mo.

R. R. TIME TABLES.

MISSOURI PACIFIC—MAIN LINE DEPT.

TRAINS WEST.	a.m.
No. 95—Wichita and K. C. Mail	12:40
" 9—Kansas & Nebraska Linn.	4:34
" 93—Texas, Joplin & K. C. Ex.	8:15
" 3—St. Louis Express	6:33
" 73—Lexington Branch Pass.	8:35
" 7—Fast Mail	10:00
TRAINS EAST.	a.m.
" 91—Joplin and K. C. Mail	3:16
" 1—St. Louis Mail and Ex.	5:17
" 5—St. Louis Mail	5:55
" 71—Lexington Branch Pass.	6:45
TRAINS EAST.	a.m.
No. 96—K. C. & Wichita Mail	2:42
" 12—Lexington Branch Pass.	6:53
" 6—St. Louis Mail	7:23
" 92—K. C. Texas & Joplin Mail	8:37
" 2—St. Louis Through Mail & Pass.	10:17
" 78—Lex. Branch Passenger	p.m.
" 4—St. Louis Through Mail & Pass.	6:10
" 94—K. C. Tex. & Joplin Ex.	1:37
" 8—St. Louis Through Mail & Pass.	8:30
" 10—Kan. & Neb. Limited	11:12

Nos. 7, 9 and 10 do not stop.

LIBERTY STREET DEPOT.

TRAINS WEST.

No. 73—Lex. Branch Pass.	8:30 a.m.
" 71— " " "	6:40 p.m.

TRAINS EAST.

No. 72—Lex. Branch Pass.	6:55 a.m.
" 78— " " "	6:15 p.m.

Tel. 17. F. A. MILLARD, Agent.

CHICAGO & ALTON. EAST BOUND. a.m.

" 101—Local Way Freight	7:40
" 47—St. Louis & Chicago Mail	8:37
" 51—Chicago Limited	6:33
" 49—St. Louis Flyer	9:33
WEST BOUND. a.m.
" 60—St. Louis Limited	6:55
" 52—Chicago Limited	8:38
" 102—Local Way Freight	8:20
" 48—Chicago & St. Louis Mail	5:50

All trains make regular stops. Through tickets to all points in the United States and Canada. For further information regarding rates, call on J. W. DUGAN, Agent, J. CHARLTON, O. P. & T. Agt., Chicago.

Christ Blessing Little Children.

ALICE R. CORSON.

"Why troublest thou the Master?" The disciples roughly said. As the weary, care-worn mothers their babes to Jesus led. That he might lay in blessing His hands upon each head.

"See how the people throng Him, And hear his words so true; No time has He for children, Why troublest thou the Lord?" But lovingly the Master Rebuked them when He heard.

Oh, happy little children, Thus favored of the Lord, To lean upon His bosom, And hear His words so true; Methinks the memory always With joy their pulses stirred.

And Jesus loves the children As dearly now as then, And through His chosen servants He blesses them again; And gives to them His Spirit To keep them from all sin.

So mothers, bring your children, His servants will obey, The dear Lord is so gracious, Nor turn one child away. Grieve not His love so tender By doubting and delay.

FULTON, Richmond, Va.

Amusing Sick Children.

It will pay educators and mothers of families to preserve a set of the interesting articles contributed to The Delinctor by Lina Beard, sister of Dan Beard, the famous cartoonist. These articles, written and illustrated by Miss Beard, deal with amusements for sick children, showing how fun and pleasure for the little ones can be obtained by providing them with cones, thorns, thisie-down, etc. These articles are really exceedingly clever.

In nothing else in the words we habitually use in the common talk of daily life do we show so plainly our degree of refinement, our culture or the lack of it, and the plane on which our thoughts move. It is, therefore, worth our while, do you not see, to take some pains with our conversation, not in such a way as to make us seem stiff and pedantic, but to recognize the fact that here, as in other departments of life and learning, it is training that tells in results.—September Ladies' Home Journal.

MILK is not a beverage; it is a perfect food. Where children drink milk at meals it should take the place of nitrogenous foods—meat, of course, being omitted. It is far better when the children eat meat to give them water to drink. Where two sorts of nitrogenous food are used, like meat and milk, constipation is universal.—August Ladies' Home Journal.

Program of Sunday School and Religio at Dow City Reunion.

SEPTEMBER 28 TO OCTOBER 7, 1900. Saturday, September 29, 4 p. m.—Organization and instruction. Monday, October 1, 2:30 p. m.—Sunday School and Religio exercises. 4 p. m., Sunday School, Lesson 1. Tuesday, October 2, 2:30 p. m.—Religio, regular lesson (last lesson for September), 4 p. m., Sunday School, lesson 2.

Wednesday, October 3, 2:30 p. m.—Sunday School work. 4 p. m., Sunday School, Lesson 3. Thursday, October 4, 2:30 p. m.—Sunday School work. 4 p. m., Sunday School, Lesson 8. Friday, October 5, 2:30 p. m.—Religio work. 4 p. m., Sunday School, Lesson 10.

Saturday, October 6, 4 p. m.—Business. Sunday, October 7, 7:30 a. m.—Sunday School, Lesson 13. Bring Bible, Book of Mormon, Quarterlies, Autumn Leaves, Winnowed Songs and a prayerful heart. Come prepared to take part in all these exercises, either as teachers or scholars, preparing lessons beforehand as far as possible. Teachers' meetings will be held frequently.

May God's blessing attend all in their preparation to come, and in the duties assigned, that all done may be both pleasant and profitable. J. F. MITTUN, J. M. BAKER, DORA YOUNG, Prog. Com.

CONFERENCE MINUTES.

Conference of the West Virginia district convened with the Mount Zion branch at Goose Creek, August 25-28, 1900. Brn. J. F. McDowell and G. H. Godbey presided over the meeting.

The following branches reported: Buffalo City, 22; Wayne, 49; Belle-grove, 40; Mount Zion, 23; Harmony, 27; Cabin Run, 28; Clarksburg, 23; Union Grove, 23; Mt. Wayne, 11; Fairview, 37. Ministry reporting: Elders L. R. Devore, T. K. Ferrell, L. D. Uihom, G. H. Godbey, W. R. Odell, D. L. Shinn, J. H. Huffman, John Carpenter. Priests reporting: B. Beall and J. M. Kelley. Teachers, J. M. Jeffries and J. B. Russell.

Bishop's agent reported on hands at last report $14.05; received since last report $190.45; paid out since report, $185.47; balance in agent's hands $24.03. Election of officers: G. H. Godbey was sustained as president of the district; B. Beall, bishop's agent, and J. B. Russell, secretary. Preaching by the following brethren: J. F. McDowell, G. H. Godbey, V. M. Goodrich and J. L. Goodrich.

Officers present, high priests, 2; seventies, 2; elders, 6; priests, 2; teachers, 2. The following were elected to represent us at General Conference: G. H. Godbey, W. R. Odell, B. Beall, Sophia Smith, Louisa Osner, T. K. Ferrell, J. F. McDowell, J. L. Goodrich, V. M. Goodrich, Mary J. Beall, J. B. Russell, Charlie Williams, L. D. Uihom, A. McCoy, L. R. Devore, J. M. Kelley, H. Huffman, J. W. Trout, Mary Huffman, Lucinda Williams.

The district was well represented at the conference; it was one of the best ever held in the district. Conference adjourned to meet with the Wayne branch in Wayne county, on Saturday before the fourth Sunday in August, 1901.

J. B. RUSSELL, Sec. September, 1900.

NOTICES.

To All Whom It May Concern:—This is to certify that on the 20th day of August, 1900, and in the city of West Superior, Wisconsin, I silenced Bro. James M. Baggerly from all missionary duties, for causes pending.

I. N. ROBERTS, Sub-missionary in charge of Minn. West Superior, Wis., Sept. 4.

To the Fifth Quorum of Elders; Dear Brethren:—I have lately mailed you each a copy of our circular letter and had made some requests of most, if not all, of you in regard to our work. I now make the following general requests: Do all in your power to make a success of your work. Look on page 268 of the General Conference minutes for 1900, and keep accurate account of your labors according to that blank never get a day behind. On March 1, 1901, sit down and compile your report from the date of your last report, or from March 1, 1900, and forward to me at Lamon, Iowa. I will send you a blank report previous to that time.

I solicit your correspondence—inquiries will receive careful attention, and any information which you think will be to the advancement of our work will be duly considered by the officers. If any have failed to receive the circular letter inform me and one will be mailed you immediately.

Address me at Lamon, Iowa, or Santa Ana, California. Yours for better work, D. A. ANDERSON, Sec. SANTA ANA, Cal., Sept. 1.

Conference Notices.

Conference of the Fremont district will convene at the Saints' chapel, Thurman, Iowa, October 6th, at 10 a. m. Please send branch and ministerial reports to me in care of Bro. Wm. Leeka, Thurman, Iowa, not later than the 4th.

CHARLES FRY, Sec. Tabor, Ia., Sept. 4.

The quarterly conference of the northeast Kansas district will convene at Fanning, Saturday, October 6, 1900, at 10 a. m. Sincerely hope all will be present, especially all the officials, with their reports, letting love abound in our hearts.

P. CADWELL, Pres. J. W. BURNS, Sec.

The conference of the Northern Wisconsin district will convene with the Frankfort branch at Porcupine, Peppin county, Wisconsin, October 6th and 7th. We hope to have all of the ministry present. Come one and all and bring the report of the Lord with you.

A. V. GLOSSON, Dist. Pres. LOUISA M. SHAWER, Clerk. Ono, Wis., Sept. 6.

The Northeast Missouri district conference will convene with the Saints at Pollock, Missouri, October 6th, continuing over the 7th. We desire all who conveniently can to attend and bring your talents with you, and let us use them harmoniously for the good of the conference. Branches and ministry please forward reports to clerk, Geo. A. Tryon, Huntsville, Missouri.

J. A. TANNER, Dist. Pres. BEVIER, Mo., Sept. 1.

The conference of the Northern Minnesota district will convene with the Audubon branch, on the 13th and 14th of October, 1900. Branches will please take notice and send their reports to T. J. Martin, Detroit, Minnesota, by the 10th of the month. Elders, priests, teachers and deacons please report in person. Come Saints and all, let us have a good conference.

I. N. ROBERTS, Pres. T. J. MARTIN, Sec. September 5.

Convention Notices.

The Sunday School convention of the Northeast Kansas district will convene at Fanning, Kansas, October 5th, at 10:30 a. m., the morning session to be devoted to prayer and short talks on the Sunday School work; all the Sunday School workers are invited to attend so that we might have a profitable convention.

HARRY THOMAS, Supt. J. W. BURNS, Sec. NETAWAKA, Kan., Sept. 4.

The Sunday Schools of the Kirtland district will meet in convention at Blakes Mills, Tuscarawas county, Ohio, Monday, October 8, 1900. It is expected that Elder T. A. Hougas, general superintendent of the Sunday School Association, will be present. The schools in the district desiring to be enrolled in the district association will please report to the district convention. All schools intending to attend the convention will please prepare to render "Winnowed Songs" numbers, 92, 100, 170; and come prepared to contribute to the program to be rendered. We desire a full representation from every school in the district.

DORA EVANS McFARLAND, Dist. Sec. TEMPLE, Ohio, Sept. 7.

The Far West district Sunday School convention will convene with the Delano branch on September 28th, at 10:30 a. m. The following program has been arranged:

"What Can I do to Assist the Sunday School Superintendent?" Sr. Samuel Simmons. "How Can We get the Young People Interested in Sunday School Work?" Sr. Taddicken. "What is the Duty of Parents to Children?" Sr. Seelye. "What Relation is the Sunday School to the Church and How Will it Benefit us in Our Homes?" Bro. Swensen. "Is it Best to Give Rewards to Sunday School Pupils for Good Lessons and Prompt Attendance?" Sr. Mary Hinderks. These subjects will be followed by a general discussion, so please come prepared to take part. All are invited to come and bring the Spirit of the Master with you that we may have a profitable time.

C. J. CRAVEN, Dist. Supt.

MARRIED.

NORBURY-ZUBER.—At the home of the bride's parents, Knob Noster, Missouri, Wednesday, September 5, 1900, Mr. Ernest Norbury, of Jefferson City, Missouri, and Miss Julia May Zuber, of Knob Noster, were united in marriage by Elder J. A. Robinson.

DIED.

BIERLY.—At Seligman, Missouri, September 7, 1900, Sr. Martha J. Bierly. She was born June 19, 1849, at Janesville, Boone Co., Tennessee. Was baptized into the Reorganized Church of Jesus Christ of Latter Day Saints, Jan 25, 1886; lived a consistent christian life until death. Only a few hours before death she bore a strong testimony to the work. Funeral sermon by Elder J. F. Grimes.

Hacking

There is nothing so bad for a cough as coughing. It tears the tender membrane of the throat and lungs, and the wounds thus made attract the germs of consumption. Stop your cough by using the family remedy that has been curing coughs and colds of every kind for over sixty years. You can't afford to be without it.

Ayer's Cherry Pectoral

loosens the grasp of your cough. The congestion of the throat and lungs is removed; all inflammation is subdued; and the cough drops away. Three sizes: the one dollar size is the cheapest to keep on hand; the 50c. size for coughs you have had for some time; the 25c. size for an ordinary cold.

Write the Doctor. If you have any complaint whatever and desire the best medical advice, write the Doctor freely. Address Dr. J. C. AYER, Lowell, Mass. Oct. 28, 1898. Camden, N.Y.

Books and Pamphlets

PRICE LIST

- "FROM PALMYRA TO INDEPENDENCE," by Elder R. Etzenhouser, 44 pages; Cloth binding. $1 00
"THE BOOK OF MORMON VINDCATED," by Elder I. M. Smith; 112 pages; Paper cover, 4 for 1.00; each, .25
"SPIRITUAL GIFTS AND THE SEALS OF PALMYRA," by Elder M. H. Bond, of the Seventy; 58 pages, paper bound, with fine engraving of the author. 25
"THE BOOK OF MORMON IN CONTRAST," by Elder R. Etzenhouser; paper cover; 20 for 1.00, 3 for 25c; each... 10
"THE BLOODS LADY BARE," by Elder R. Etzenhouser; paper cover; 3 for 25c; each... 10
"THE RESURRECTION OF THE WICKED," by Elder W. J. Smith; 39 pages, paper cover, 3 for 25c; each... 10
"WHO WAS JOSEPH SMITH?—WAS HE A FALSE PROPHET?" by Elder J. W. Peterson of the Quorum of Seventy; 38 pages; paper cover; engraving of author; 3 for 25c; each... 10
"THE BOOK OF MORMON AND ITS TRANSLATOR," by Elder R. Etzenhouser; 27 pages, paper cover; 3 for 25c, each... 10
"THE BAPTISM OF SWEDENBORG," by Apostle J. W. Wright; 90c per doz.; 3 for 25c; each... 10
"APOSTASY OF THE CHURCH," by Apostle J. W. Wright; 40 pages, paper cover; 3 for 25c; each... 10
"THE JOSEPH SMITH INTERVIEW," by Elder R. L. Parkers by E. L. Kelley; per hundred 90c; per doz. 15c; 6 for 1.00; 2 for .50
"IS WATER BAPTISM ESSENTIAL TO SALVATION?" by Elder Joseph Luff; 40c per doz.; 15c per doz; 3 for .45
"WHAT WE BELIEVE," The Epitome of Faith, with quotations given in full. 20c Per Copy; 2 for 35c
HISTORICAL ENGRAVING, a 12 x 20x28 inches; postpaid in U. S. or Canada... 50
"EVANGELIA LOST," a duet for soprano and tenor; words by J. Cole Moxon; music by W. H. Lieb... 25

SERMON PAMPHLETS.

- The following pamphlets 5 cents each, 3 for 10 cents, 6 for 15 cents, or 25 cents per dozen:
"Signs of the Times," Revised and Enlarged, by Elder J. S. Roth; 70 pages; Illustrated.
"The Book of Mormon; Evidences of its Divinity," by Elder R. C. Evans; 58 pages.
"The Law of Life," by Elder F. M. Cooper; 38 pages.
"The Restoration of Israel," by Elder S. W. L. Scott; 46 pages.
"A Retrospective View of the Reorganization," by E. C. Briggs; 38 pages.
"Chapel Message," by President Joseph Smith; 54 pages.
"Modern Knowledge of the Antiquities of America," by Elder H. A. Stebbins; 34 pages.
"Creed Making; Man Shall Not Add To Nor Take From the Word of God," by Elder I. M. Smith; 26 pages.
"Antiquarian Evidences Concerning the Book of Mormon," by Elder E. L. Kelley; 40 pages.
"Joseph Smith; Was Ho a Prophet of God?" by Elder R. C. Evans; 40 pages.
"Quaker Seekers," by Elder I. M. Smith; 32 pages.
"Gospel Antiquity," by Elder Joseph Luff; 30 pages.
"God is Light," by Elder W. H. Kelley; 48 pages.
"Who I Left the Baptist Church," by Elder W. H. Kelley; 33 pages.
"The Marriage Relation," by Elder J. W. Wright; 44 pages.
"The Personality of God and Doctrine of Christ," by Elder J. S. Roth; 38 pages.
"Save Yourself," by Elder I. M. Smith; 26 pages.
We also fill orders for all Herald office publications. Address all orders and make all remittances to ENSIGN PUBLISHING HOUSE, BOX B, Independence, Mo.

Missouri Pacific Railroad.

Quick time, good connections, low rates for all classes. Rates, time cards, etc., cheerfully furnished an application. F. A. MILLARD, Agent. Telephone 17.

ZION'S ENSIGN.

"OUR CREED: ALL TRUTH."

VOLUME 11.

INDEPENDENCE, MISSOURI, THURSDAY, SEPTEMBER 20, 1900

NUMBER 38.

ZION'S ENSIGN.

A Literary and Religious Newspaper, published in the interest of social, scientific and religious truth, every Thursday, at Independence, Jackson County, Missouri.

PRICE, $1.00 PER YEAR, IN ADVANCE.

ENSIGN PUBLISHING HOUSE,
Of the Reorganized Church of Jesus Christ of Latter Day Saints.

W. H. GARRETT, EDITOR.
J. W. LUFF, BUSINESS MANAGER.

Make all remittances, and address all communications to ENSIGN PUBLISHING HOUSE, Box B, Independence, Jackson County, Missouri.

New subscriptions can begin at any time. If possible to avoid it, never send silver as it is liable to wear through the envelope and be lost.

Always give the name of the post office to which your paper is sent or we can not find your name on our lists.

When desiring your address changed, give both the old and new address.

Papers will be discontinued one month from the time subscriptions expire, unless ordered continued.

In making remittances, money orders are preferable for they are absolutely safe. If you can avoid it, do not send gold or stamps. Canadian stamps are an entire loss, and Canadian currency is only worth ninety cents on the dollar to us, for that is all we can get for it at the banks.

Letters should be addressed, and orders and drafts made payable to

ENSIGN PUBLISHING HOUSE,
Independence, Mo.

Box B.

MOBOCRACY.

The infamous and shameful spirit of the mobocrat is showing itself in various parts of this country, disgracing the commonwealth and dishonoring the constitution of the land, which guarantees to every citizen the right of "life, liberty and the pursuit of happiness." Of all the subjects of this lawless element which, for the time being, defies the laws by which the country is supposed to be governed, and ruthlessly tramples upon the rights of some of their fellow citizens more law abiding than they, none has a less excuse for this unchristian and inhuman exhibition of hate and prejudice, not to say bigotry, than the religious views of those thus persecuted.

It matters not what a man's belief is, so long as such belief does not extend to an infringement of the laws of the land or an encroachment upon the rights and liberties of others; and even when it does, only those principles adhered to which so conflict with the freedom of others, can lawfully be the subject of corrective inquiry. One man has as much right to worship in his way without interference as has another; and the moment this is denied one, it may with equal justice be denied all, and woe to the people where such a spirit and rule may prevail.

At Mansfield, Ohio, there has been a great deal of confusion and lawlessness of this character exhibited with regard to the ministers and adherents of one Alexander Dowie, of Chicago, Illinois, who, it appears from the Ram's Horn, a religious paper published in that city, has assumed to himself the title of "Doctor" without the assistance of any university or college of learning. It appears the methods and doctrines of these men are obnoxious to some of the denizens of the Ohio city, and they being unable to secure their expulsion by the due process of law and order, undertook to expel them by force, unlawfully and in a disorderly manner. But these disciples of Elder Dowie would not stay down; and the following from The Kansas City (Missouri) Journal and The Kansas City Star, of September 17th, is the latest regarding this outrageous proceeding. We have no sympathy with the methods, system or teachings of Mr. Dowie, so far as we understand them, believing that what truth he has incorporated in his system is dishonored and nullified by the use to which he puts it; but we cannot see the slightest excuse for the action taken by the residents of Mansfield.

MANSFIELD, O., Sept. 16.—A mob today drove Zion Elder Ephraim Bassinger, of Bluffton, Indiana, and two of Dowie's converts here out of the city, and thus broke the monotony of the usual routine followed for the past four Sundays.

Elder Bassinger was in the city yesterday, held several meetings without molestation and had a number of consultations with his attorney, A. A. Douglass. He left last night, but returned again today and was holding a meeting at the home of E. H. Leiby, when the officers went there and took him to the depot, followed by a jeering mob of several hundred. He was a target for apples, tobacco cuts, missiles and kicks as he was escorted to the depot, and when he arrived there he was a pitiable sight. The passenger train was missed by about two minutes, and while they were waiting for the next train the mob went to the home of E. H. Leiby and took him and Frank Calver, both Zion followers, and marched them to the depot. When an express train arrived all three were put on it and hustled out of the city.

MANSFIELD, O., Sept. 17.—Ephraim Bassinger, an elder of the church, headed by Alexander Dowie, and two Dowie converts, were driven out of town yesterday. Bassinger was holding a meeting at the home of E. H. Leiby. Officers went to the house and broke up the meeting. Then they took the elder to the depot. A mob of several hundred followed them. The elder was pelted with missiles. While the officers were waiting for the train the mob returned and got Leiby and Frank Calver. The three were put upon the train and warned not to return. Several times before have Dowielites been run out of this town.

The correspondent does not mince matters in the least, in giving those engaged in this unholy work a name; he plainly called it a "mob," and Webster defines "mob" as (1) "The lower classes of a community; the populace, or the lowest part of it." (2) "A throng, a rabble; especially an unlawful or riotous assembly; a disorderly crowd." It is not a difficult matter to classify, according to these definitions, those who took part in the action above noted.

It seems almost incredible that these elders and members of Mr. Dowie's society should be attacked in a private house of one of its members, in this enlightened age, when the power of the law is so capable of controlling the unruly; but it is the more astonishing that two officers, supposedly guardians of the peace, should lead their aid to take the minister from a private house, lead him through a storm of missiles and permit him to be otherwise shamefully assaulted and abused. Not a line has, from the first, appeared, which we have noticed, showing that the slightest attempt was made by the authorities to disperse the riotous throng. Apparently they gave these unlawful proceedings, at least, a tacit consent. What an exhibition of perfidy—men, who solemnly swore by the name of the Most High to preserve the peace of the commonwealth and protect every citizen in his rights so far as was in their power, apparently making no effort to execute the law when one or more of its citizens were assailed for the stand they occupied in asserting his or their conscientious belief.

It would appear to a reasoning mind that if the converts of Mr. Dowie's followers in Mansfield was not sufficiently unlawful that a charge of improper conduct, before the proper authorities, could be successfully prosecuted, that they should have been left unmolested to worship as they deemed best, no matter how obnoxious their methods and belief were to others, so long as they did not commit a breach of the peace. There is absolutely no power which can compel any man to accept that which any other man teaches, if he does not desire to do so, and under these circumstances those men should not have been interfered with; those who did not sympathize with what was taught by them, should have gone on quietly about their business; no possible harm could have accrued to them, or any one else for that matter, and the "land of the free" would not have had such a spectacle forced upon it as, the failure to act lawfully resulted.

Mansfield is a city of considerable size and importance, situated somewhere about half way between Chicago, Illinois, and Pittsburg, Pennsylvania. Three trunk lines of railroad pass through its outer precincts. The Pennsylvania Company between Pittsburg and Chicago; the Erie railway between New York city and Chicago; and the Baltimore and Ohio railway between Baltimore, Maryland and Chicago, and it would seem to every fair-minded person that sufficient civilization and lawful prestige should be resident there to make mob rule an impossibility. Something is, therefore, radically wrong that the contrary is the fact, and that mobs, instead of lawful power, may hold undisputed sway whenever the spirit of frenzy moves the "populace."

It may be suggested in the minds of some, that being so far distant from the disgraceful scene and unadvised as to all the facts in the case, a correct judgment cannot be passed upon the matter. This thought might be worthy of consideration if there could be two sides to an unlawful proceeding; but we cannot bring ourselves to believe that a violation of laws made for the express purpose of protecting the rights of every law abiding citizen, can, under any circumstances, be justifiable. If the law is inadequate to meet certain cases, amend the law to cover the deficiency; that is proper and correct; for no statute can be maintained which infringes the rights and consciences of good men. The law, primarily, is made for the evildoer; hence the righteous man has nothing to fear from any law which can be maintained according to the constitution of the land. That constitution was inspired of God, and under its rightful exercise no man can be deprived of his rights. Mob action, then, is reprehensible and uncalled for, and should be insistently condemned everywhere as a relic of barbarism, unworthy of a nationality or any community which occupies the position among the nations of the world which the United States of America has so dearly won. The orderly portion of the city of Mansfield, Ohio, owe it to themselves, to their mighty state, and to the United States, and to the whole world of professing christians that they take the proper steps to rid themselves of this dark blot upon their fair name.

THE DAUGHTERS OF ZION.

With this issue we present to our readers a new, and what we are confident will be a valuable and much appreciated feature in the greatly needed and important work the noble band of workers known as the "Daughters of Zion" are doing—a department for their work. As will be seen, the services of Sr. Clara Clark Curtis have been secured as its editor; and the mere announcement of the name of this talented sister will to her numerous acquaintances make this department eagerly sought for when the ENSIGN makes its appearance each week, and will, we are sure, commend itself to the thousands who will thus become acquainted with her through her work in this department. May our Father give grace and inspiration to the efforts of our sister and all those engaged in this good work, that the high standard of righteousness in the homes of the Saints may be more nearly approximated and thus the requisite preparation be made to meet the soon coming Lord Jesus Christ. Read carefully the "Introductory" on page 6 of this issue.

EDITORIAL ITEMS.

ELDER F. C. KECK has removed from Lebeck, and is now domiciled at 700 North Ash street, Nevada, Missouri.

Do NOT send any more orders for our Historical Engraving. Our supply is entirely cleared out. Not even an imperfect copy left.

BRO. C. M. FULKS, Lehigh, Indian Territory, says if any Saints or friends want work in coal mines, they can find employment there, strip pit men, $1.50; man and team, $2.50 per day. Everything reasonable, good country and people. Those interested may write him.

BRO. W. S. PENDER, one of our missionaries to the Rocky Mountain mission, recently sent us the testimony of Mrs. Sophia K. Cook relative to the reply of Joseph Smith, the martyr, to the inquiry as to who would be his successor, in which he presented and named his oldest son, the present president of this church (Reorganized) which statement was published in the ENSIGN for August 23d; but Bro. Pender did not at that time get the lady's affidavit to the statement. This he has now done, and submits it for the use of the elders of the Reorganization. This is our explanation for republishing the statement.

THE General reunion will be held at Dow City, Iowa, beginning September 28th, and lasting ten days. The committee are doing everything they can, that, if possible, the success of previous years may be more than realized; they have secured the use of a fine grove and ample preparations are being made to care for all who may attend. It will be noticed from reading the Sunday School program in last week's issue there will be but two preaching services, one in morning and one in evening each day, the afternoons being occupied in Sunday School and Religious work. President Joseph Smith will be in attendance, and many other good speakers also, so that if the weather is propitious, a good, profitable time will be enjoyed. The ENSIGN and Herald will be represented as usual, giving those in attendance a good opportunity to secure valuable books and aids, and to renew or initiate subscriptions to the ENSIEN and Herald, which no live, earnest Saint is willing or can afford to neglect." We hope there will be an extra large encampment this year. Dow City may be reached either via the Chicago & North Western, or the Illinois Central railways, both roads affording excellent service we believe.

To show how impossible it is for human power to search out the north country, God having set an effectual barrier to all progress in that direction until His set time to deliver the seed of Israel (Isa. 23:8) has come, the following from the Harrisonville, Missouri, Cass News, of September 14th, will be of interest:

POLE DEFENDED BY ICE.

There are four hundred miles of icebergs, floating ice, plains of ice and all other sorts of arctic obstructions to traverse between the nearest discovery to the pole and the pole itself. Perhaps some means of overcoming these difficulties may present themselves within the next century as science goes on in its progressive way.

Science will never overcome these obstacles, the power of God alone must do it.

EXTRACTS FROM LETTERS.

ELDER JAMES MCKIERNAN was six miles southwest of Gladstone, Illinois, September 11th, and thus notes his experiences:

Elder J. S. Salvay and I are on the Mississippi bottom, opposite Burlington, in Illinois, holding tent meetings. In a new place to us, but it is a familiar place to the mosquitoes; they blend their music with our songs, add points to our remarks, and give exercise to the audience, so that none gets sleepy. We began here September 8th, and so far have had good interest. Today the wind has been blowing a severe gale, so we had to lower the tent to the ground and put weights on it all around to prevent the wind from wrecking it. We will remain here about a week yet, guests of Bro. Lawrence Willey and Allen Pryor.

Bro. McKiernan's home address is, Box 225, Farmington, Iowa.

BRO. THOS. KNOX, Terryville, Connecticut, September 2d:

I have the pleasure of sending herewith a subscription to the ENSIEN. I have taken the "silent preacher" this two years, and have been blessed and edified through its inspiring letters which I love to read; I have been an investigator of the claims of the Latter Day Saints for two years or more, and decided to obey the gospel the first time I had an opportunity. As there was not any Saints near by us, I watched for the nearest point of meeting, which was one hundred and sixty miles or so from where I live, so decided to go to the reunion at Silver Lake, Plimpton, Plymouth county, Massachusetts, August 4th; where I found myself amongst Saints indeed. There was not one face that I knew until I arrived there, but as soon as I made my case known and my intentions, I found that there were brothers and sisters awaiting to befriend me, and the will of the Lord approved, "Inasmuch as ye did it unto the least of these my brethren, ye did it unto me." I pray that the Lord may bless you in your every effort to spread his kingdom through the length and breadth of this land, until the whole world shall be filled with righteousness and truth; my desire is to live the gospel. I was baptized in Silver Lake on the 6th of August, by Elder N. R. Nickerson, of Plymouth, and confirmed by M. H. Bond and Geo. Koble, on the 6th, and I can truly say it has been a calm ever since, and I feel, as the Saviour said, "the wind bloweth where it listeth and thou hearest the sound thereof, but canst not tell whither it comes or whither it goeth," so is every one that is born of the Spirit.

GENERAL CHURCH NEWS.

INDEPENDENCE.

Bishop R. May, president of Independence district, will preach at the stone church next Sunday morning.

Bro. Wm. Crick's fine new house, on West Electric, adjoining Bro. M. T. Short, is looming up. It will be a very complete and comfortable as well as beautiful home when completed.

Sr. Sarah Richner, of Temple, Ohio, is visiting her son, Bro. W. O. Hands, Kansas City, Missouri. Sr. Hands and children started, last week, to visit friends in Pittsfield, Illinois, and will be absent about two weeks.

The Saints should come to church next Sunday morning prepared to make a liberal contribution to secure our winter supply of coal before another advance in price is made. There is also the rent for janitor's house to be met. "And whatsoever ye do, do it heartily, as unto the Lord, and not unto men."

Only fifty-two were present at Religio, Friday night, less than half the enrolled membership. Were you absent? Can you afford to continue to be? God has said he will use this organization for the establishing of Zion and choose out of it those who shall be warriors in his cause. Would you be one of the chosen ones? Now is the time to prepare. Come and give your best efforts to the good cause.

People who wish to keep secrets from the reporters should avoid arraying themselves in striking attire and going off with eligible escorts of the opposite sex on a fine morning. We take pleasure in introducing to our citizens Mrs. Thomas Faunce, formerly Miss Hattie Cheney, the change having occurred in the office of the probate judge, Kansas City, Kansas, some three weeks ago. No cards, no cake, but congratulations just the same. Mr. Faunce is a resident of Nebraska City, Nebraska.

Sunday was quite cool, making wraps necessary for comfort out of doors, and fires needful indoors. Bro. M. T. Short preached a practical discourse at 11 a. m. He left shortly after five o'clock p. m. for Atchison, Kansas, where he was announced for the evening. The communion service, at 2:30 p. m., was a blessing to those participating, a comforting and admonitory revelation being given by the Spirit, encouraging the Saints to faithfulness. At 7:30 p. m. Bro. A. H. Parsons preached a good, edifying and instructive sermon. A number of non members were present.

The hymeneal altar was erected at the home of Bro. and Sr. George Bartholomew, Sr., on Friday evening last. Before it stood, in characteristic place and attitude, their daughter, Emily May, Mr. Lawrence C. Wells and Elder Joseph Luff. The last named, after a brief prayer, uttered those words of the church formula which have gladdened so many hearts on similar occasions, and the two former, as husband and wife, stood legally and lovingly obligated to each other for life. By the preference of the bridal pair the affair was quiet and void of all unnecessary ceremony, the bride's father and brother being in the east. The happy couple left immediately for Eureka Springs, and upon their return will probably make their home in Kansas City. Emily's friends and admirers, who are legion, will join in wishing her and her life companion bon voyage.

Bro. Geo. A. Gould and wife are much delighted with the advent of a ten pound girl Wednesday. Congratulations.

LAMONI, IOWA.

A sudden drop in the thermometer made us hurry to our fireside Sunday morning and don our wraps for out of doors.

Quite a number of teachers were absent from Sunday School but there was a good representation of scholars. Sr. Roxanna Anderson offered her resignation as assistant superintendent, stating that other duties would not permit her acting further in the office. The resignation was accepted and Bro. D. J. Krahl was chosen for the unexpired term. At 11 o'clock Bishop E. L. Kelley delivered an excellent discourse to a large audience. The afternoon prayer service was very good. Bro. W. A. France was at this meeting ordained to the office of priest, under the hands of Bishop E. L. Kelley and High Priest R. M. Elvin. Bro. Elvin was the speaker at the evening hour, delivering a very profitable sermon on the day of compensation.

The Religio held an interesting session Friday evening, good attendance. A beautiful duet was sweetly rendered by little Zadie Salyards and Maggie White.

The Daughters of Zion held their regular monthly meeting on Friday afternoon. The session was a profitable one; we earnestly wish more mothers were able to attend these meetings.

Ruth Evangeline, daughter of Bro. and Sr. I. N. W. Cooper, was baptized Tuesday evening by Elder Columbus Scott.

Elder H. A. Stebbins left Friday for Wisconsin. He was accompanied by Sr. Stebbins as far as Burlington. Sr. Stebbins will visit her sister at that point.

Bro. and Sr. I. N. W. Cooper left Thursday evening for Des Moines, where Bro. Cooper will undergo treatment.

Dr. J. H. Hansen's family (except his daughters, Audentia and Zenobia, who will spend the winter in Omaha) left Sunday for Vernon, Texas, where they will make their home.

Elder Columbus Scott departed Monday for his mission field.

Apostle W. H. Kelley went to Plainville, Nebraska, on Saturday, called there by the illness of his brother, Mr. Geo. T. Kelley. He will attend the Dow City reunion.

Elder R. M. Elvin came in Friday evening, called home on college business.

Sr. Susan Burgoyne celebrated her seventy-eighth birthday last Tuesday in a very pleasant manner, at the home of Bro. and Sr.

John Scott. A few old acquaintances were invited to enjoy the occasion, and the afternoon was happily spent. Some very pretty useful gifts were bestowed and were highly appreciated.

Grace land college opened last Tuesday with encouraging prospects. Forty students entered in college proper, twenty-two in musical department, fifteen in elocution. This is a larger enrollment for the first week than at any time heretofore, and we are advised by the board of directors a number of new students will enter this week.

GRACE L. KRAHL.

September 17.

SECOND KANSAS CITY BRANCH.

Elder Arthur Gillen, who was ordained September 8th, at district conference, as told in last issue of the ENSIEN, preached in the tent at 17th and Holly, Monday night, September 10th, on "The necessity of absolute obedience to God's commands," drawing the lesson from 2 Kings fifth chapter. He made a noble effort and was blessed with the Holy Spirit.

This branch is straining its resources to get their chapel in condition for use and they need assistance. Our president, Elder Joseph Emmett, and others are laboring faithfully to get the structure enclosed, that the Lord's work may be done according to his will.

The district tent will go to Wyandotte, Kansas, this week, on 9th and Ohio avenue, on the Grandview electric line.

Sunday and Wednesday services will probably be held in Bro. Emmett's house, 1720 Drripp, for a few weeks.

JOHN C. GRAINGER.

2124 East St.

ST. LOUIS, MISSOURI.

Thursday September 6th, the first marriage to be solemnized in our new place of worship was that of Sister Elder Novise and Edward C. Bell. Elder Arthur Allen performed the ceremony, after which a number of invited guests repaired to the bride's home. A number of beautiful presents were received; the happy couple left on an early train for a bridal trip, being the guests of relatives in Indiana.

Bro. Allen was called by wire to O Fallon, Illinois, to administer to a sick brother; he left immediately after the wedding service, not being permitted time to mingle with the wedding company. He found the brother very low, and we have since been informed of his passing away.

Sunday, September 9th, Bro. J. C. Hitchcock addressed the congregation at the rock church, both morning and evening service.

Quite a number are on the sick list; among them J. C. Hitchcock, Esther Mercer, Sr. Cook, and Sr. Lula Dawson.

Sr. M. Walker, of Lamoni, addressed the Sabbath School September 9th.

The young people of the Cheltenham Religio were entertained at the home of Bro. and Sr. Pond, Thursday night of last week. The same evening a goodly crowd of married folks assembled at Bro. and Sr. Burgess'. They reported having a fine time.

Bro. Noah Cook was called to administer to Sr. Mercer's daughter Esther, last week, the child suffering with diphtheria.

Bro. Allen has returned from the Illinois Reunion, and left last evening for Holden, Mo, intending to visit with homefolks for several days.

Bro. and Sr. Trowbridge departed Sunday evening, for the East, where they will visit for some weeks.

Sr. Maud Crawford was over from Collinsville to attend the wedding, and remained a few days. Brn. Christensen, Barraudough and Elliott have been occupied preaching at different points of the field the past two Sundays.

Bro. Allen was speaker twice yesterday; we are informed that the attendance last night was very gratifying; a number of Utah elders were present.

ETTA.

September 18.

SAN FRANCISCO, CALIFORNIA.

Services at Golden West Hall, 320 Post street, every Sunday. Sunday School 10 a. m., preaching 11 a. m. and 7:30 p. m.; prayer meeting first Sunday of each month at 12:15 noon. Elder C. A. Parkin presiding elder, residence 3010 16th street.

Our reunion is over and a thing of the past. Ten days have been profitably spent in teaching, preaching and strengthening Saints and friends of the cause. It was the largest gathering we have had for a long time. A good spirit prevailed throughout and every one was well pleased with the meetings. The general order was prayer meeting at 9 o'clock; preaching at 11 a. m., 2 and 7:30 p. m., all of which were well attended. Some of the time the tent was too small for the congregation assembled.

Sunday School was also established and held its sessions every afternoon at 4 o'clock.

The Religio formed a district organization, and one session was devoted to conference business. Six members were added to the church list and many people came to a better understanding of our claims. Chas. A. Parkin was ordained bishop and Chas. Kaighn and John Saxe were ordained counselors. One child was blessed.

Preaching was done by Elders Alex. H. Smith—our Patriarch, Gomer T. Griffiths, Joseph F. Burton, Fred B. Blair, Keeler, Phillips, Allen, Geo. Daley, C. A. Parkin, R. Etzenhauer, Schmidt, Chase, Hiram Holt, Wm. O. Clark and others. Beside these we noticed present Elders Jos. Parr, J. B. Price, John Carmichael, C. W. Hawkins, Putney, A. Haws, Jos. Vernon, Wyatt, Willey, Richard Ferris and others. We held no meetings of any kind in this city during the reunion so that all could attend at Oakland, and our members who were not located in the camp were continually passing to and fro on the ferries.

The eating tent was managed by Srs. Ella Lytle and H. P. Brown, and the financial part was under the control of Elder Phillips. Elder Chase was happy in his part as conductor of the choir. The preaching was grand and much lasting good was done. May it ever be remembered.

Geo. S. LINCOLN.

September 11.

LETTER DEPARTMENT.

STEWARTSVILLE, Mo., Sept. 11.
Editor Ensign:—Seated in the pavilion at the reunion, I drop you a few lines. We are at the closing of a very successful meeting; in some regards surpassing any of the past. After an absence of over two years we were very, very happy to meet so many whose hand grasp and smiles and hearty greetings bore witness that the gospel fire of years ago was burning brighter and brighter. It is a continuous feast to my soul. We look with pity westward and see in our mind's eye T. W. C. with heaving breast and face Zionward, saying in thought, "I wish I were there." So do many others, T. W., we miss you; be of good cheer, there will be another next year.

The prayer meetings and preaching services have been good, and many citizens have heard the gospel, and we trust much prejudice will be removed. On Sunday School and Religion days the Stewartsville brass band favored us with their music free of charge. From what we see the gospel work in good old Far West is moving on nobly, and the old pillars to the work still stand. We miss, however, the familiar figure of Bro. J. T. Kinnaman and his musical voice. The meeting is favored by the presence of Bro. Joseph Smith and Bishop Kelley, also Bro. Scott and J. S. Roth are here and have rendered noble service.

We go from here to St. Joseph to remain over next Sunday, then turning our face eastward, stopping in Burlington, Iowa, and hasten back to our blessed work in the great modern Babylon, Chicago, Illinois. As we write we hear the musical voice of Sr. Josie Millard singing "Abide With Me." Prof. Millard was present and favored us with some excellently rendered selections. We now hear, "O for a faith that will not shrink," which is my closing prayer.

Yours ever,
J. M. TERRY.

ATLANTIC, Ia., Sept. 21

Editor Ensign:—Since coming here have lived our faith, but had not done much talking until in June, when I stumbled and loosened one of my ribs; had to call the doctor, and as I live by the main road, and have become favorably acquainted with my neighbors, of course it was only natural for them to call on me; but I had sent for some tracts, and when they called I would introduce the subject and give them some tracts until I had several interested. But I lay here not able to do anything for four weeks, when Bro. D. R. Chambers came to Fontanelle, and from there answered to my call.

Meantime many of the neighbors got to understand from the doctor that I would not be able to work for some time yet; but when Bro. Chambers administered to me I received the blessing, the rib straightened to its place, and the next day I went to work around the house; the second day I jumped upon the self-binder, and then into the field shocking oats, and that caused some interest and questions with these. I lost no good opportunity to get the gospel principles before them with a liberal supply of tracts. Well, about the 6th of August who should step in but Bro. Paul M. Hanson, of Underwood, a priest, so we started to hunt a suitable place to blow the gospel trumpet; went to Atlantic first; falling, went next to Marne; failed—crowded out by the Methodists—so we called for the neighbors to come to my house and started in; had meeting two nights, then went to the school-house, invited the people to come, and they did, from thirty to forty each evening. We had eight good sermons which just about covered the gospel grounds with good illustrations.

Bro. Hanson is young but he made many friends here, both for himself and the cause of our Lord and Master. We again had a supply of tracts and gave liberally of them to all who wished to read. Bro. Hanson did some visiting among the neighbors and left them with warm invitations to come back again.

LATER.—We got out the word that we expected some of the elders here soon, either Bro. D. R. Chambers or Bro. I. M. Smith, to tell us more of that glad news. So now Paul has planted (not sparingly) now when David or Isaac come and water, we pray the Lord of the harvest to give us a bountiful increase, even sixty or an hundred fold. We think some nearly ready to trouble the waters.

The conference of this district was to be at Hazeldell, near Underwood, the 25th and 26th. I started on the 23d, stopping at Harlan to see Bro. J. W. Chatburn, but he was away from home. Went then to Bro. David Brewster's, who I found just ready to go east about thirty miles to Audubon, to set up the tent with Bro. Stubbart, of Lamoni; they had baptized certain at Harlan, and felt like pushing the cause.

From thence to the conference, found a good spirit present with a fair gathering. The reports showed a desire to forward the cause. The spirit of peace prevailed. The preaching was by Bro. D. R. Chambers, J. Carlisle and the writer. I came home rejoicing in the truth, with a renewed determination to make a greater effort to push the cause in this vicinity.

Ever praying for the spread of the truth,

GEO. H. WELLS.

GROVE SPRINGS, Mo., Sept. 13.

Editor Zion's Ensign:—Bro. D. W. Thomas, the district president, and the writer arrived here at the pleasant home of Bro. and Sr. Anderson, and although neither of the older members of the house were at home, and it was away past dinner, it did two hungry men good to see little Sr. Clara light a fire and cook a meal in short order, and a dinner worthy a king, to set to. We shall commence meeting at 11 a. m. tomorrow, and preach twice a day. There are many here near the kingdom which we hope to help a little nearer.

Before leaving home we took down the tent, or what was left of it; for this season with its high winds has about finished it for further use. But in putting it away we breathed a silent prayer for the noble family of Saints who gave it, for it indeed has been a means of giving the light of the gospel to many a soul. My last sermon in it was on the divine mission of Joseph Smith, in which I was greatly blessed and I believe it did much good.

The Saints in Springfield have bought a very fine church lot on one of the main streets on the north side, and while it will tax the pocketbook of the few Saints here to build, yet we have many friends on the outside who are giving us good help. Any one who feels interested in a church building at Springfield, and can help us any, it will be thankfully received and accepted for if sent to the writer or any of the building committee. We expect to commence work right away.

There are at present more calls for elders than one can fill, and the Saints who need elder's assistance should not forget that it takes money to travel on railroads, and horse shoes and money to fix buggies, and sometimes fifty cents or one dollar to stay over night while traveling from place to place. We shall always try and do the best we can.

H. SPANLING.

STEWARTSVILLE, Mo., Sept. 11.

Editor Ensign:—The Far West Missouri district reunion which was held at Stewartsville, Missouri, from September 1st to the 10th, was a grand success, under the presidency of T. Hinderks and J. C. Foss. The preachers were President Joseph Smith, Bishop E. L. Kelley, Ephraim Sumnerfield, Swen Swensen, J. A. Gundersley, J. S. Roth, J. C. Foss, S. F. Cushman, J. M. Terry, John Smith, C. Scott.

Bro. T. A. Hougas and J. A. Gundersley represented the interest of the Sunday School and Religio work. Thirteen were baptized. God's Holy Spirit was present to aid in presenting the word of life. Tongues and interpretation and several prophecies were given, which greatly helped to cheer us on our way. Many who were sick were administered to and received the blessing. We had the pleasure of listening to the young men of Stewartsville playing on the brass band two days on the camp ground.

Bro. Head, Ben Dice and their noble, saintly wives, did well to feed the multitude which came on the ground. C. P. Paul acted well his part, as usual, to collect money to pay expenses, and seeing that the elders didn't leave the ground without enough to purchase their ticket. (That's right, Charley.)

President Joseph Smith was made the choice to deliver the closing sermon on Monday evening, and delivered a fine sermon on spiritual gifts, true and false gifts. As it commenced to rain, and the wind was blowing so hard, only about one hundred were present to hear the wise instruction given. Thus closed the best reunion ever held in old Far West district.

Yours ever,

J. C. FOSS.

EAGLES CORNERS, Wis., Sept. 1.

Dear Brothers and Sisters—I am still at my post operating our gospel tent. I am alone so far as human help is concerned, and yet I feel that the Lord is with me. My associate, Bro. F. L. Sawley, a week ago today took his departure, and so I must fight the battle alone. I am having large audiences, my tent full every evening, and on Sunday evenings I have a regular overflow. I am now having a tilt with the Seventh Day Adventists on the Sabbath question. I told Mr. Westcott, their champion last night, that I would let him have the use of my tent this evening, and he could place before this people his views on the Sabbath question.

I expect to move my tents to Balmoral on Mill Creek, about three miles north of this place, next week. There never was a time when the people of these hills and valleys seemed to be so anxious to hear the pure gospel of Christ as now.

My wife's rheumatism became so bad that she was compelled to return to her home in Pleasant Grove, two weeks ago. Pray for me, brothers and sisters, that I may have strength both physically and mentally, to carry on the work assigned to me, and may the Lord bless and prosper his people in all righteousness, is the prayer of your old brother and co-laborer,

In gospel bonds,

E. M. WILDERMUTH.

NEW FLORENCE, Mo., Aug. 26.

Editor Ensign:—After reading the many encouraging letters in the ENSIGN, I feel to press forward in serving the Lord. I loan my papers to my neighbors; some of them are interested, but others will not take them.

There are no Saints near us, so it is not all sunshine, but I am glad I have been so near to a Latter Day Saint. I hope we may be able to so live that we may in the future be entitled to enjoy many seasons of refreshing from the presence of the Lord.

May God bless all efforts for good, is my prayer.

Hopefully yours,

E. L. COLEMAN.

HORNERSTOWN, N. J., Sept. 9.

Editor Ensign:—This pleasant Sabbath morning, being isolated from our own church, I thought I would let the dear sisters and brothers know how I love this little paper so freighted with good reading; and I felt in my heart that we ought all to try and pen a few words to help cheer them along, for, we, as a people, cannot praise our Father too much for his great blessings he is bestowing on his people in sickness and in health. And my prayer is, "Lord, help me to come up higher and live more pure, and trust in thee every day," and I pray that as others read the good advice and the gospel sermons that they may understand them. I praise our Maker that I ever had the great privilege of obeying this gospel, and I want so to live that I may bring those who are dear and near to me into the kingdom. Every one who is honest in heart and desires to be saved, must study the word of God; it seems so plain to me, for it is one straight road, and I often think how is it we can't all see alike? Would not we be ashamed to meet our Savior face to face who has suffered and died for us, and to be asked, "Do you believe in my word?" and then to hear him say ye have not kept my commandments?

How many, many churches there are in this day. I often wonder how they read the Bible; they must think the Lord's word is not much account or else they cannot see.

I trust I may live to see the gospel spread far and wide and that I may mingle with his people more, and that this paper may be the means of bringing many into the kingdom.

Your sister in the one faith,
S. A. HOPKINS.

STOKES BAY, Ont., Sept. 9.

Editor Ensign:—I thought I would write a few lines to the ENSIGN, which is a very welcome visitor at our home. We also take the Glad Tidings. I feel that I have a great deal to be thankful for; I am very glad that ever I obeyed the true gospel of Jesus Christ. I know it is the true gospel, I know by the Spirit that he gives me.

It is now a little over a year since my husband and I obeyed the gospel, and my heart goes out with gratitude toward God when I realize how good he has been to me. My little boy who is now a little over two years old had always been very delicate till last winter. Elder J. L. Mortimer administered to him and now he is quite healthy. How much I love this latter day work. I feel that God is blessing me every day; we have some very spiritual meetings here, although there are not many Saints. Thank God he is not confined to numbers, but has promised to be with the twos and threes.

Elder John Shields has been among us for a few weeks but is going to leave us again to attend to his heavenly Father's business elsewhere. May God bless him in his efforts to proclaim the true gospel of Jesus Christ. He has indeed been a great blessing to the Saints here since he came here; we regret very much to see him leave. I pray that God will prosper him in this latter day work.

The prayer of my heart is that God may make me a Saint in every sense of the word, that he may make me a blessing to those around me. I want to show by my daily walk and conversation that I have indeed been born of God. I beg an interest in the prayers of the Saints that I may always be found faithful, doing my Master's blessed will.

Your sister in gospel bonds,
MRS. EMILY BURLBY.

DE SOTO, Neb., Aug. 27.

Editor Ensign:—The ENSIGN is truly a welcome guest at our home. Were we compelled to be deprived of it I am sure we would feel like we had lost one of our best friends. It has often cheered me in times of darkness when it seemed that all my earthly friends had deserted me. Three years ago this winter I obeyed the blessed command of the Lord; never, since, have I regretted this step. I was sure that I was pleasing my Savior by obeying his command. The truthfulness of this being His work has been proven to me many times since I have been in the church. There is no branch here. I hope and pray that the time is not far off when the Lord will open the way here and send forth the light of the gospel to the people here. Dear ENSIGN readers, I ask an interest in your prayers for all of us Saints in this part of the Lord's vineyard. I feel that it is hard to live the life of a true Latter Day Saint and be in a scattered condition, deprived of the benefits gained from a branch.

Your sister in the faith,
MRS. F. V. TUCKER.

Dairy for Sale or Lease.

Fifteen good milk cows, one two-year old short horn bull. Milk and butter route, cans and wagon; also house and barns to shelter all of stock; also 30 tons of hay if wanted. Inquire of John Allison, 702 South Avenue, Independence, Mo. 35-41.

Books and Pamphlets

PRICE LIST

- "FROM PALMYRA TO INDEPENDENCE," by Elder R. Etzenhouser, 44 pages; Cloth binding.....$1 00
Paper binding..... 65
"AUTOBIOGRAPHY OF ELDER JOSEPH LUFF," 377 pages; cloth bound; 3 illustrations, Reduced from $1.00 to..... 75
"THREE BIBLES COMPARED," by Elder R. Etzenhouser; paper binding; 5 for $1.00; each..... 25
"THE BOOK OF MORMON UNVEILED," by Elder L. M. Smith, 112 pages; Paper cover, 4 for 1.00; each..... 30
Cloth Bound, 2 for 1.00; each, 60
"SPIRITUAL GIFTS AND THE SEER OF PALMYRA," by Elder M. H. Bond, of the Seventy; 58 pages, paper bound, with fine engraving of the author..... 25
"FAITH, OBEYANCE," by Elder R. C. Evans; 6 for 1.00; each..... 20
"THE BOOK OF MORMON IN CONTRAST," by Elder R. Etzenhouser; paper cover; 20 for $1.00, 3 for 25c; each... 10
"THE CREDS LAID BARE," by Elder R. Etzenhouser; paper cover; 3 for 25c; each..... 10
"THE RESURRECTION OF THE WICKED," by Elder W. J. Smith; 39 pages, paper cover, 3 for 25c; each..... 10
"WHO WAS JOSEPH SMITH?—NOT A FALSE PROPHET?" by Elder L. M. Smith, of the Quorum of the Seventy; 39 pages; paper cover; engraving of author; 3 for 25c; each 10
"THE BOOK OF MORMON AND ITS TRANSLATOR," by Elder R. Etzenhouser; 27 pages, paper cover; 3 for 25c, each..... 10
"THE LEGAL SUCCESSOR," by Apostle J. W. Wight; 90c per doz.; 3 for 25c; each..... 10
"APOSTASY OF THE CHURCH," by Apostle J. W. Wight; 40 pages, paper cover; 3 for 25c; each..... 10
"THE JOSEPH SMITH INTERVIEW;" Elder Joseph Luff's answer to Elder B. J. Barker; analyzed by E. L. Kelley; per hundred 90c; per doz. 15c; 6 for 10c; 2 for..... 5
"IS WATER BAPTISM ESSENTIAL TO SALVATION," by Elder Joseph Luff, 90c per 100; 15c per doz.; 6 for 10c; 2 for..... 5
"WHAT WE BELIEVE," The Epitome of Faith, with quotations given in full. 20c Per doz.; 2 for..... 5
"EVANGELIA LOST," a duet for soprano and tenor; words by J. C. Moxon; music by W. H. Lieb..... 25
SERMON PAMPHLETS.
The following pamphlets 5 cents each; 20 for 1.00, 50 for 1.50, or 25 cents per dozen.
"Signs of the Times," Revised and Enlarged, by Elder J. S. Roth; 70 pages; Illustrated.
"THE Book of Mormon; Evidence of its Divinity," by Elder R. C. Evans; 58 pages.
"THE Law of Life," by Elder F. M. Cooper; 38 pages.
"THE Restoration of Israel," by Elder S. W. L. Scott; 46 pages.
"A Retrospective View of the Reorganization," by E. C. Briggs; 36 pages.
"Gospel Message," by President Joseph Smith; 64 pages.
"Modern Knowledge of the Antiquities of America," by Elder H. A. Stebbins; 34 pages.
"Creed; Making; Man Shall Not Add To Nor Take From the Word of God," by Elder I. M. Smith; 36 pages.
"Antiquarian Evidences Concerning the Book of Mormon," by Elder E. L. Kelley; 40 pages.
"Joseph Smith;" Was He a Prophet of God? by Elder R. C. Evans; 40 pages.
"Sign Seekers," by Elder I. M. Smith; 32 pages.
"Gospel Antiquity," by Elder Joseph Luff; 39 pages.
"God Is Light," by Elder W. H. Kelley; 40 pages.
"Who I Left the Baptist Church," by Elder W. H. Kephart; 33 pages.
"THE Marriage Relation," by Elder J. W. Wight; 41 pages.
"THE Personality of God and Doctrine of Christ," by Elder J. S. Roth; 58 pages.
"Know Yourselfes," by Elder I. M. Smith; 34 pages.
We also fill orders for all Herald office publications.
Address all orders and make all remittances to
THE ENSIGN PUBLISHING HOUSE,
Box B, Independence, Mo.
Missouri Pacific Railroad.
Quick time, good connections, low rates to all points. Rates, time cards, etc., cheerfully furnished on application.
F. A. MILLARD, Agent.
Telephone 17.
www.LatterDayTruth.org

ZION'S ENSIGN.

Entered at the Post Office at Independence, Mo., as Second Class Matter.

FRUIT BEARING.

ELDER W. E. PEAK.

"Then answered Peter and said unto him, Behold we have left all, and followed thee; what shall we have therefore?"—Matt. 19: 27.

Peter with other disciples of Christ, had gladly left their positions in life to be with Jesus. Their love for home and worldly success was perhaps as strong, if not stronger, than the average. But when the beauty of the gospel was seen by them it was so appreciated that they were willing to forsake the comforts of home and the prospects of gratifying worldly ambition to obtain a better understanding of it. While they were permitted to drink from the fountains of truth to quench the burning thirst for knowledge of spiritual things, as few men have been permitted to do, yet upon this occasion, as Peter views the past trials and sacrifices he had made, he desires further light as to "the reward" or recompense for his labors.

When the thorns of trials, and the burdens of life press heavily upon us as a result of our religious duties, the question naturally comes to our minds, as it did to Peter, "What shall we have therefore" if we retain our integrity. The Lord has given, to his faithful servants, light on this question, and they have reflected that light, to a degree, in their writings. Therefore, let us endeavor to obtain from these precious pages as much as possible under the circumstances.

One of the first promises, and the conditions on which it was made, is found in John 8: 31, 32:

"Then said Jesus to those Jews which believed on him, If ye continue in my word, then are ye my disciples indeed; and ye shall know the truth, and the truth shall make you free."

When the evidences are presented sustaining the fact that Jesus is the Christ and we properly understand them, belief in his Messiahship is the result. Then we are in the condition to be addressed in the above language of our Savior.

"If ye continue in my word, then are ye my disciples indeed," clearly indicates that something is required of man beside "belief" or "faith" in order to be his disciples in the proper sense of the word. We must "continue in his word." This implies an acceptance of and obedience to every requirement of his "law." (Gal. 6: 2). As men will not respect nor observe the teachings of a man until they are satisfied that his teachings are true, the first step required of us is to believe that Jesus is the Christ; when we can really accept this, we believe all his teachings to be true. Then, when we look back over the narrow path of life, we see various mistakes we have made and sins committed. We know they are such by the results. Any act of ours which brings sorrow or distress to our associates, pain or trouble to our fellowman, or bad after results to ourselves, cannot be otherwise than sin, "for sin is the transgression of law."

We can easily see that all nature is designed to be governed and controlled by law, and when any part is so situated that the law designed to govern is not strictly observed, bad results follow. Vegetation is to be brought to perfection and beauty in the manner ordained. When we walk through the gardens and in the groves in the spring-time, just before the approach of summer, and see the blooming flowers and tender sprigs, while the warm breeze, like the breath of life, makes its way over the landscape, the sun shining in his beauty, the soil moistened by copious rains, we expect the best results, for the laws which should govern are being enforced. In the fall of the year, when vegetation has reached its full development, compare some of the same species that have grown under such favorable conditions with those that grow in some less favored place; where the chilly winds blew long in the spring, the sun was almost scorching hot in the summer, and the rain was so scanty in quantity that the plant was hardly able to find nourishment to bring a few seeds to maturity. One will be thrifty, strong, perfect in shape and beautiful to behold; the other dwarfed, scrubby, ill shaped and almost repugnant to see. Why this difference. One was enabled to comply with the laws to govern its development, and the other was not. To the extent they complied with the law designed to govern their nature, to that extent came perfection. The same principle holds good throughout nature. See the difference between the well kept and properly trained horse, with every muscle developed, his limbs proportioned, and his glossy coat shining, as he nimbly passes by, with the poor, unkempt, overworked one.

Is man an exception? The answer comes rolling back in thunder tones, "No." As we look at so many of our fellowmen who are dwarfed, warped and crooked, both mentally and physically, we trace the cause, easily, to sin—"transgression of law." We examine ourselves and find the effects of sin to such a degree that we cry out in alarm. We realize we are sinking far below the mark we might have reached. We see others who have lived lives of sin, and the results were premature weakness, mental imbecility, bloated faced, beary eyed, drunken soles, and disrespected, foul-mouthed criminals, whose very presence was a disgrace to the society. We feel that our environments have fastened a habit or disposition on us that will lead us into one or more of these conditions. We try to resist and then realize for the first time how weak we are. We struggle, but so often, oh how vain. We have been serving Satan, perhaps unwittingly, yet the effects are the same, and we realize the truth of this verse, "Know ye not, that to whom ye yield yourselves servants to obey, his servants ye are to whom ye obey; whether of sin unto death, or of obedience unto righteousness."—Rom. 6: 16. As the "servant" is to a degree under the control of his Master, and to this extent has lost his freedom, so it is with all who become servants of Satan by committing sin. This bondage is in proportion to our work in the service of Satan; from the slightest loss of freedom to the condition of the man who dwelt "among the tombs." (Mark. 5: 2-16).

Having once placed ourselves under Satan's influence, our minds are darkened, the way to liberty and happiness is covered, and while one sin brings sorrow and trouble, in our blind rush for liberty we fall into worse conditions and go from one sorrow to another. Thus the thief, drunkard and gambler pursue their downward path, and if left to themselves, there would absolutely be no hope. But thanks to the Almighty, there is a rescuer; "My Spirit shall not always strive with man."—Gen. 6: 8. This gives us to understand that by the "Spirit of God" light is flashed across the pathway of the sinner from time to time, enabling him to see, not only the end of his career, but the way out of the bondage. The sinner fully comprehends the fact that his wickedness has caused him trouble, and that men who have avoided such crimes are happier; but as he is in them, he sees no way for happiness himself, but by a continuation in that which has brought him trouble, only it should be done with more caution. Thus reasons the thief, drunkard, etc., etc. But when the Spirit "strives" with him, he sees himself living a righteous life, and longs for the character and environments which will enable him to reach such a condition. Then if he can be brought in contact, and associated with a true saint, what a lesson he will learn! He sees his theory demonstrated; he compares his state of bondage with the freedom of the saint and hears the Savior say, "If ye continue in my word, then are ye my disciples indeed; and ye shall know the truth and the truth shall make you free." He turns to Christ and eagerly obeys the gospel, as a starving man accepts the proffered food. Is it necessary to exhort such men to repent? No. Explain to him the laws, obedience to which, brings man to the highest condition and places him in touch with his maker, and he readily accepts them and forsakes the "ways of sin," as he has already learned that they lead to death.

"Repentance," how much clusters around the word. Paul says: "For godly sorrow worketh repentance to salvation not to be repented of: but the sorrow of the world worketh death."—2 Cor. 7: 10.

We should not suppose that "godly sorrow" is "repentance," but it is a condition of the mind that brings about repentance; it is a result of an understanding of the mistakes we have made in transgressing the laws of God. Repentance is the result of knowledge. Give a person an understanding of the effects of sin, and he knows that for his own good in time and eternity he should refrain from it; and if he has been unwise enough to sin in the past, he realizes the effects and feels sorry. Then he will cease to do evil, which includes those things he is sorry for having done. This is "repentance to salvation." But there is no use to tell a man to repent till he understands that what he is doing is not for his good.

When we desire to have men repent, let us be "laborers together with God" (1 Cor. 3: 9) and teach them to see the better way. This can be done on our part by calling their attention to experiences in their own lives and the lives of others, and also by setting an example which will give them to understand that we have been with Jesus and are as "a city set on a hill," and letting our "light so shine before men that they may see our good works and glorify your Father which is in heaven."—Matt. 5: 16.

With a correct understanding of repentance and a desire for reformation of character we are prepared for the next requirement of the law of Christ, which is baptism, as may be seen from the following:

"Then Peter said unto them, Repent and be baptized every one of you in the name of Jesus Christ for the remission of sins, and ye shall receive the gift of the Holy Ghost."—Acts 2: 38.

This passage is so plain that all may understand that baptism is the next step after repentance, and Peter also informs us, the object is "for the remission of sins."

Paul, in speaking of the mission of Christ, says, "Christ Jesus came into the world to save sinners; of whom I am chief" (1 Tim. 1: 15), and expressed in few words the work of our Savior, and tells us the condition he was in when the gospel found him. While he was a sinner, and of such a character that he could be "chief" among them, yet his sins were pardoned by obedience to the requirements of heaven. By an examination of Acts, ninth and twenty-second chapters, we learn that he was converted to the fact that Jesus was the Christ. He repented of his sins, which is manifested by his fasting and praying for three days (Acts 9: 9). At the expiration of this time, Ananias, by the command of the Spirit, came to him and laid his hands on him for the restoration of sight, which was immediately received. His sins were yet unpardoned. What more was required, may be asked. Listen, and we learn how he was to be freed from them.

"And now why tarriest thou? arise and be baptized and wash away thy sins, calling on the name of the Lord."—Acts 22: 16.

When Peter had witnessed a wonderful display of God's power at the household of Cornelius, his mind was so enlightened that he learned the grand truth that "God is no respecter of persons." (Acts 10: 34.) And Paul declares the fact that Christ is "the same yesterday, today, and forever." (Heb. 13: 8.) By coupling the two statements together we learn that the Lord required a sinner to believe on the Lord Jesus Christ, and repent and be baptized, to have their past sins washed away, and that he is the same today. As he is no respecter of persons he requires the same of you and me. By thus continuing in his word we obtain pardon for those sins that made us "aliens from the commonwealth of Israel, and strangers from the covenants of promise, having no hope and without God in the world." (Eph. 2: 12).

When our sins are forgiven, we stand uncondemned before God, but:

"Now if any man have not the Spirit of Christ, he is none of his."—Rom. 8: 9.

This shows how necessary it is to have the Holy Ghost as an abiding comforter. To have this we must "continue in my word."

"But when they believed Philip preaching the things concerning the kingdom of God, and the name of Jesus Christ, they were baptized both men and women. Now when the apostles which were at Jerusalem heard that Samaria had received the word of God, they sent unto them Peter and John: who when they were come down, prayed for them, that they might receive the Holy Ghost (for as yet he had fallen upon none of them: only they were baptized in the name of Jesus Christ): Then laid they their hands on them, and they received the Holy Ghost."—Acts 8: 12-17.

They have now received "the adoption of sons," "and because ye are sons, God hath sent forth the Spirit of his Son into your hearts, crying Abba Father."—Gal. 4: 6. By obedience to those ordinances we are grafted in (Rom. 11: 17-23) the olive tree or true vine, and form a branch.

"As the branch cannot bear fruit of itself, except it abide in the vine: no more can ye except ye abide in me. I am the vine, ye are the branches."—John 15: 4, 5.

To the extent we have corrupted our natures or characters by sin, to that extent we disqualify ourselves to bear fruit when we are grafted in the true vine. "Every branch in me that beareth not fruit he taketh away."

While pardon is offered to all on condition of obedience, yet the diseased and weakened character of those who have wallowed in sin, to a great extent remains, as is represented by the parable in Matthew 18: 8-9; 18-24.

The ground on which the seed fell is represented as being in four different conditions. "By the wayside" was land that was not tilled, the fowls came and devoured the seed that fell there. It could not be expected to be otherwise by any farmer when sowing his grain; he would expect no crop from the seed that fell on such ground. This represents a class that has reached such a condition of Satanic bondage that the servants of God do not expect them to accept the gospel.

The second class is as ground covered with stones; so many stones and so little soil, that a wise farmer would not expect a crop from seed that fell on such ground. While it grew for a while, yet it could not continue till it developed fruit. So it was with the third class. These would obey the gospel ordinances and have their sins forgiven, be grafted into the true vine and become a branch; but would be one that "beareth not fruit" and it would be taken and cast into the fire and they are burned.

The fourth class is represented as "good ground," and the seed that fell on it brought forth fruit, some an hundred fold, some sixty fold, some thirty fold.

It must be borne in mind that these conditions had been reached by the people before the word of the kingdom or gospel is preached to them. Young man, when you conclude that you will spend a few more years enjoying the pleasures of sin, remember that you are forming a character for the gospel seed to fall on. What kind of a character will it be? Such as is represented by the wayside, stony places, among thorns or good ground. Our every thought and act in life assist in this formation. We can live recklessly just a little too long, so the wisest plan is to run no risks.

A careful examination of this parable may throw light on the "race question." It is not the rapid growth made by the branch or the seed sown, that is profitable, but the amount of fruit that is matured. "Herein is my Father glorified, that ye bear much fruit: so shall ye be my disciples." (John 15: 8). And "every branch that beareth fruit, he purgeth it that it may bring forth more fruit;" shows that God will work with every individual in the way that will bring him to the highest condition that is possible for him to reach. Yet all who bear fruit will not be equal, on account of the condition they were in before the gospel reached them. Some will bring forth "thirty-fold, some sixty-fold and some an hundred-fold."

What kind of fruit is a child of God expected to bring forth? may be asked. See Galatians 5: 22, 23 for the answer: "But the fruit of the spirit is love, joy, peace, long-suffering, gentleness, goodness, faith, meekness, temperance: against such there is no law."

The apostle said, "Examine yourselves, whether ye be in the faith: prove your own selves," and it is good advice. If we do this carefully and prayerfully we can tell whether we are bringing "forth the fruit of the Spirit" or not. If we can see that we have developed any or all of those traits in our character, to some extent, since we obeyed the gospel, we should feel encouraged. If not, we should know that it is only a question of time when we will be removed by the husbandman's pruning knife.

As the vineyard is valued by the fruit it produces, so is the Saint. We do not expect fruit till after the manifestation of life is seen in the vines, such as buds, leaves, blooms, sprigs, etc.; neither do we expect the fruit of the Spirit till after the manifestations of the Spirit have been produced.

"But the manifestation of the Spirit is given to every man to profit withal. For to one is given by the Spirit the word of wisdom; to another the word of knowledge by the same Spirit; to another faith by the same Spirit; to another the gifts of healing by the same Spirit; to another the working of miracles; to another prophecy; to another discerning of spirits; to another divers kinds of tongues; to another the interpretation of tongues: But all these worketh that one and the selfsame Spirit, dividing to every man severally as he will."—1 Cor. 12: 7-11.

This clearly explains what some of the manifestations of the Spirit are; and as the sap from the vine permeates every branch, giving it life, and manifesting this life by leaves and blooms, preparing it to bring forth the fruit in due time, so the child of God receives the Spirit of Christ, which manifests itself in these various gifts, preparing the Saint to bring forth the fruit of the Spirit. The fruit of the Spirit is as much more important than the manifestations of the Spirit, as the fruit of the vine is more valuable than the bloom or the leaves. While we would not expect the grape unless the leaves and bloom were seen in their proper time, neither should we expect the fruit of the Spirit till after the manifestations of the Spirit are enjoyed.

In walking through the orchards or vineyards, in the spring of the year, we sometimes see a great many thrifty branches and numerous blossoms; the air is cool and balmy, and everything indicates an abundance of fruit in the fall; but before the harvest, the withering frost, the plagues, or the drought comes, and all the fruit is destroyed; we are disappointed, yet the manifestations at the beginning were all that could be desired. The conditions at first were favorable, but they did not continue and a complete failure was the result. So it is sometimes with the Saint. He receives of the life-giving power—the Spirit—and its manifestations are numerous, which causes us to rejoice and expect an abundance of gospel fruit, but how sad it is when we see his failure. Some seem to imagine that the manifestations are all there is to seek for; that when they are obtained all has been received that is necessary, and fail to follow the apostle's instruction.

"Add to your faith virtue; and to virtue knowledge; and to knowledge temperance; and to temperance patience; and to patience godliness; and to godliness brotherly kindness; and to brotherly kindness charity. For if these things be in you, and abound, they make you that ye shall neither be barren nor unfruitful in the knowledge of our Lord Jesus Christ."—2 Peter 1: 5-8.

Paul clearly presents the difference between the manifestation of the Spirit in what is called "gifts" with the "fruit," in 1 Corinthians 13: 1-3:

"Though I speak with the tongues of men and of angels, and have not charity, I am become as the sounding brass, or a tinkling symbol."

"Tongues" is a gift, and "charity," "which is the pure love of God," is the fruit of the Spirit."

"Though I have the gift of prophecy and understand all mysteries, and all knowledge; and though I have all faith, so that I could remove mountains, and have not charity, I am nothing."—v. 2.

The gifts of prophecy, and knowledge, and power to remove mountains, or miracles, are given by the Almighty as means to bring about a certain end or condition. The end sought is to enable man to bring forth the fruit of the Spirit; and if after receiving all of these gifts from God, having received all these miraculous manifestations, then if we have brought forth no fruit, of a truth we are nothing. Like the branch of the vine that has been tenderly cared for and pruned, which fails to bear, it should be removed to give place for others.

If we would always bear in mind the fact that the gifts are means to bring about the purposes of God, and not an infallible sign that the individual has reached, or nearly reached, perfection, we would not stumble so often when we see some brother or sister exercise the gifts without producing as much fruit of the Spirit as we expected. The gift may have been of the Spirit, and its divine origin should not be doubted on account of the instrument through which it was given. Balaam was addressed by the Lord when his donkey was used as the instrument. It was a manifestation of divine power. But we read of no fruit being produced by the one used as the instrument upon this occasion, yet God's purpose was accomplished.

Nebuchadnezzar had a wonderful dream by which the future history of the world was represented. This dream was given by the God of heaven, and "maketh known to the king what shall be in the latter days." (Dan. 2: 28). This was a manifestation of the power of God, not because Nebuchadnezzar was as righteous and as pure as he should have been, but to bring about the desired results. Many others may be mentioned. They all teach the same lesson, that is, they are given to enable us to understand the great principles of man's redemption, God's work among the children of men, and to assist us in working out our own salvation, which consists in bringing forth the fruits of the Spirit.

Any manifestation given that does not enlighten the mind on some important question, or assist us in living our religion, is of no particular benefit to us. It may be of God, but if we are not in the condition to profit by it, it is lost to us. The whole law of human redemption, with all the gifts and manifestations of the Spirit, is for the purpose of developing within us a character like the one exhibited in the life and work of our Savior. Therefore,

"Let us hear the conclusion of the whole matter: Fear God and keep his commandments: for this is the whole duty of man."—Ecc. 12: 13.

So the most glorious promise made to man in this life is the opportunity of becoming Christ-like by continuing in His service according to His word.

WHY I LEFT THE UTAH MORMONS.

I will give a few reasons why I left the Utah Mormons. I know there are quite a number of good people who belong to that church, those who are honest and faithful, and would leave that church just as quickly as I did if they had the same truths put before them. I will give a few quotations from Brigham Young and other leading men of that church. It must be distinctly understood that Times and Seasons, Journal of Discourses, Millennial Star and Deseret News are papers published and endorsed by leading men of the Utah church. I would not be so particular about this statement, but I know that some are liable to think that these papers were published by their enemies.

Some of their elders say, "Why go back and bring up what Brigham Young said so long ago?" We answer we are willing to cease quoting him, when they repudiate him as the mouthpiece of God; but so long as they claim him as their prophet, given by God to guide the Saints in this latter day, so long they must uphold and sanction what he taught his people.

Brigham Young said March 27, 1855:

"I say rather than that apostates should flourish here, I will unsheath my bowie knife, and conquer or die [great commotion in the congregation, and a simultaneous burst of feeling assenting to the declaration]. Now, you nasty apostates, clear out, or judgment will be put to the line, and righteous to the plummet [voices generally, 'Go it, go it!']. If you say it is alright, raise your hands [all hands up]. Let us call upon the Lord to assist us in this, and every good work."—Journal of Discourses, Vol. 1, page 83.

How different this is from the teachings of Jesus. We find in Matthew 26: 51, 52, that "one of them which were with Jesus, stretched out his hand, and drew his sword, and struck a servant of the high priest's and smote off his ear. Then Jesus said unto him, Put up again thy sword into his place: for all they that take the sword shall perish with the sword."

President Brigham Young preached February 8, 1857, as follows:

"All mankind love themselves; and let these principles be known by an individual and he would be glad to have his blood shed. That would be loving themselves even unto an eternal exaltation. Will you love your brothers and sisters likewise when they have committed a sin that cannot be atoned for without the shedding of blood? Will you love that man or woman well enough to shed their blood? That is what Jesus Christ meant. He never told a man or woman to love their enemies in their wickedness. He never intended any such thing. I could refer you to plenty of instances where men have been righteously slain in order to atone for their sins. I have seen scores and hundreds of people for whom there would have been a chance in the last resurrection if their lives had been taken and their blood spilled upon the ground as a smoking incense to the Almighty, but who are now angels to the devil until our elder brother Jesus Christ raises them up, conquers death, hell and the grave. I have known a great many men who have left this church, for whom there is no chance whatever for exaltation; but if their blood had been spilled it would have been better for them. The wickedness and ignorance of the nations forbid this principle being in full force, but the time will come when the law of God will be in full force. This is loving our neighbor as ourselves; if he needs help, help him; and if he wants salvation and it is necessary to spill his blood upon the ground in order that he may be saved, spill it."—Journal of Discourses, Vol. 4, page 220; or Deseret News, Vol. 6, page 397.

The Utah elders try very hard to make the people believe that Brigham had reference to criminals being put to death according to the law of the land. Now ask the honest reader to re-read these quotations and then see if you don't come to our conclusion. Was he not preaching to the members of his church? Was he not talking about men and women who had left that church? If he had reference to criminals who have been executed according to the laws of the land, why does he say, "The wickedness and ignorance of the nations forbid this principle being in full force." Were not the laws of the land in full force then and now?

My conclusion is that he meant to teach his church members to kill every man or woman who left that church. He tries to make them believe the proper way to love your brother if he leaves the church is to spill his blood, and that by killing the body they would save the souls of their brethren. I must add that I am truly glad that so far I have not been exposed to those loving brethren. This doctrine certainly is of the devil. Did Jesus teach such doctrine? Did any of the apostles teach such doctrine?

I do not think these quotations need much comment. I think there are quite a number of Utah Mormons like the writer [who will say, "If these statements are true I am done with that church." Dear reader, they are true, and you can see the original papers as they came from the Utah press if you wish to do so. True, there are not a great number of them now, but I am truly thankful that a few have been kept.

Now listen to J. M. Grant, Brigham Young's counselor:

"I say there are men and women here that I would advise to go to the president immediately, and ask him to appoint a committee to attend to their case; and then let a place be selected and let that committee shed their blood."—Deseret News, Vol. 6, p. 235.

Suppose that one of Joseph Smith's counselors, of Lamoni, Iowa, was to preach these words verbatim, would not every one, even the Brighamites, say that the "Josaphites" were teaching blood atonement? Yes, he would be teaching the Saints to commit murder. I thank God that we have no such blood-thirsty men at the head of our church.

Hear the Prophet(?) Brigham once more:

"Now hear it, O inhabitants of the earth, Jew and Gentile, saint and sinner! When our father Adam came into the garden of Eden, he came into it with a celestial body, and brought Eve, one of his wives, with him. He helped to make and organize this world. He is Michael the Archangel, the Ancient of Days! about whom holy men have written and spoken. He is our FATHER and our GOD, and the ONLY GOD with whom we have to do. Every man upon the earth, professing christians or non-professing, must hear it, and will know it sooner or later.  When the Virgin Mary conceived the child Jesus, the Father had begotten him in his own likeness. He was not begotten by the Holy Ghost. And who is the Father? He is the first of the human family; and when he took a tabernacle, it was begotten by his Father in heaven, and after the same manner as the tabernacles of Cain, Abel, and the rest of the sons and daughters of Adam and Eve. From the fruits of the earth the first earthly tabernacles were originated by the father, and so on in succession. I could tell you much more about this; but were I to tell you the whole truth, blasphemy would be nothing to it in the estimation of the superstitious and over-righteous of mankind. However, I have told you the truth as far as I have given.  I have given you a few leading items upon this subject, but a great deal more remains to be told. Now, remember from this time forth and forever that Jesus Christ was not begotten by the Holy Ghost. I will repeat a little anecdote. I was in conversation with a certain learned professor upon this subject, when I replied to this idea—if the Son was begotten by the Holy Ghost, it would be very dangerous to baptize and confirm females and give the Holy Ghost to them lest he beget children, to be palmed upon the elders by the people, bringing the elders into great difficulties."—Sermo by Brigham Young, Salt Lake City,

April 9, 1852. Journal of Discourses, Vol. 1, pp. 50, 51.

Brigham calls on both Jew and gentile, also saint and sinner to hear him. He says that Adam brought one of his wives with him. If God had ever intended to have polygamy practiced in this world, then was the time. Why did He not have Adam to bring two or more wives and thus set an example for all mankind in the future. When He took out one rib to make Eve only, why did He not take a rib from the other side and make a body for one of his other wives?

He says that Adam is our Father and our God. The Utah elders try to make it appear that Brigham said that Adam would be a god sometime as we are all sons of God. That kind of explanation will not do, as Brigham uses the present tense, "is." If I say that Charles T. Conner is my father, do I mean that he is not my father now but will be? No, it would mean that Charles T. Conner is my father now; then we must come to the same conclusion in regard to Brigham's teaching. He simply taught that Adam was at the time he was speaking our God; not only a god, but the ONLY GOD that we have anything to do with. Then if this is true we should pray to Adam and Adam only. Please re-read and you will see that he teaches that Adam is the father of Jesus Christ. He says that he (Christ) was not begotten of the Holy Ghost. He says he (Christ) was begotten of the Father. He then asks the question, "Who is the Father?" and answers it himself by saying, "He is the first of the human family."

Dear reader, how can any one believe in such a wicked, profane prophet? He even makes sport of the Bible teaching of the birth of Jesus Christ. You may talk about such infidels as Thomas Paine or Robert G. Ingersoll, but I do not think you will find any worse and probably not so bad a one as Brigham Young. We had just as well accept Mr. Ingersoll as prophet as Mr. Young. Mr. Ingersoll did not advise his followers to kill any one that left his standard. Ingersoll certainly will come up in the Judgment and condemn Brigham Young.

May the Lord help the honest in heart to accept the gospel and be saved, is the prayer of

Your humble servant,

JOHN C. CONNER.

INDEPENDENCE, MO.

Utah District Reunion.

September 7th two sermons were preached on the value and use of the sacred books of the church. Their chief use is to point to the divinity of Christ and define the religious system he established. Belief that Jesus is the Son of God and an understanding and a belief of his teachings qualifies one for baptism. Belief of other matters is only incidental or not material. "See, here is water; what doth hinder me to be baptized? And Philip said, If thou believest with all thy heart, thou mayest. And he answered and said, I believe that Jesus Christ is the Son of God. And he commanded the chariot to stand still; and they went down both into the water, both Philip and the eunuch, and he baptized him."—Acts 8: 38-39. The Bible, the Book of Mormon and the Doctrine and Covenants unite in testifying, "Neither is there salvation in any other; for there is none other name [than that of Jesus Christ] given under heaven or among men, whereby we must be saved." They also unite in teaching the same doctrine, "the principles of the doctrine of Christ." (Heb. 6: 1, 2).

In speaking of the object of the publication of the Book of Mormon and the effect its publication would have on the former commandments contained in the Bible, Doctrine and Covenants 3: 12 reads: "Behold, I do not bring it to destroy that which they have received, but to build it up." The doctrine of the immortality of the soul, as taught in the Bible, is "built up" and made so plain in the Book of Mormon, page 311, that there is no room for "disputation." It reads:

"Behold, it has been made known unto me, by an angel, that the spirits of all men, as soon as they are departed from this mortal body; yea, the spirits of all men, whether they be good or evil, are taken home to that God who gave them life. And then  the spirits of those who are righteous, are received into a state of happiness which is called paradise," etc. "And then the spirits of the wicked  shall be cast into outer darkness."

On page 444 the Book of Mormon is so plain in its teachings concerning the mode of baptism, that no room is left for the unhappy controversy which has been going on so long among the different churches.

"Whoso repenteth of his sins and desireth to be baptized in my name, on this wise shall ye baptize them. Behold ye shall go down and stand in the water.  And then shall ye immerse them in the water and come forth again out of the water."

On pages 58 and 72 the Book of Mormon treats of predestination, showing plainly it does not interfere with the agency of man. It also "builds up" and makes clear other Bible doctrines.

As another theme for consideration, the importance, application and results of repentance were shown. The Ninevites were saved from predicted destruction because they repented "at the preaching of Jonah." Repentance is demanded before baptism and frequently after, until, in fact, we reach gospel perfection. The church has been admonished to repent of lightmindedness, carelessness, and other evils. Doctrine and Covenants 87: 2: "And all they who receive the oracles of God, let them beware how they hold them, lest they are accounted as a light thing and are brought under condemnation thereby." Unbelief and vanity should be repented of. Doctrine and Covenants 88: 8: "And your minds in times past have been darkened because of unbelief and because you have treated lightly the things you have received, which vanity and unbelief has brought the whole church under condemnation  and they shall remain under this condemnation until they repent."

Baptism and the Holy Spirit were considered. Baptism is the "counsel of God" and ought not to be neglected. Luke 7: 30: "The Pharisees and lawyers rejected the counsel of God against themselves, not being baptized of him." We have also the command and example of Christ: "Go ye therefore and teach all nations, baptizing them." God manifested his pleasure when Jesus was baptized, the Spirit descending and alighting upon him, and "lo! a voice from heaven saying, This is my beloved Son, in whom I am well pleased." If we live right, God will give us the gift of his Spirit, which in His wisdom we need, though possibly not the gift we want and ask for. But all these worketh that one and self-same spirit, dividing to every man severally as he will. 1 Cor. 12: 11: "Covet earnestly the best gifts." The gift which is best for one might not be good for another. The best gift is the one we need.

Another speaker showed that while the various churches had been changing their doctrines to meet the demands of these progressive times, neither the first organization, nor the Reorganization in succession had even cancelled a single doctrine, or modified its announcement of gospel principles, from 1830 to the present. Beloved brethren, do not err, every good and perfect gift is from above and cometh down from the Father of lights, with whom is no variableness nor shadow of turning. (Jas. 1: 16, 17).

The social services were full of interest and marked by spiritual activity that betokens good for the faithful workers and for Zion's welfare "in the valleys of the mountains." Four were baptized the last day of the reunion, September 10.

W. S. PENDER, Sec.

DAUGHTERS OF ZION.

INTRODUCTION.

For some time the Advisory Board of the Daughters of Zion have had in contemplation the introduction of their work through the medium of a column in ZION'S ENSIGN, but various causes have contributed to delay the movement. Now, however, the Board are happy to announce that all arrangements have been completed, and with the present issue the work will begin.

In consummating this most desirable arrangement the Advisory Board feel themselves greatly indebted to the editor of the ENSIGN for his most hearty co-operation and cordial sympathy in the same; also to the Board of Publication through whose courtesy the space is given for their occupation. They deem themselves fortunate in having secured the services of Mrs. Clara Clark Curtis as editor of this column. Sr. Curtis has from her childhood been intimately known to some of the members of the Advisory Board, and they especially feel to congratulate themselves, as well as all who are interested in the advancement of the work in which they are engaged, upon having obtained her consent to take charge of this column. Sr. Curtis will herself explain the scope and object of the work contemplated, and we earnestly bespeak for her a most hearty co-operation upon the part of those in whose interest, without money or price, her labors will be given.

In the word of God we are assured that in the exercise of a gift lies its profit to us, hence we desire that the free and cheerfully bestowed labors of our young sister may be fully appreciated. The scope of our work is broad and its influence extending. God is raising up helpers from unlooked for sources to aid in carrying it on; and his ministry are nobly seconding our efforts.

We hope that the young and middle aged who have not yet forgotten the "gladness of their youth" will realize and appreciate the opportunities which the present, with open hands, is offering them.

In addition to the labors of Sr. Curtis the column will be held open for such notices and communications in regard to the work as the Advisory Board may, at any time, deem it advisable to insert, and while again thanking all who have contributed to the starting of this column, we feel constrained to say we anticipate that its final results for good, not our thanks, will be their richest reward.

By Order of Advisory Board,
Mrs. M. E. HULMES, Pres.
Mrs. H. H. ROBINSON, Sec.
INDEPENDENCE, MO., Sept. 17.

FACTS.

To thoroughly understand that God the Father, the Son, Jesus Christ, and the Holy Ghost are three persons we will examine a few quotations of the Bible on this subject and see if we can separate those three. Our Savior means just what he says, and when he went out to pray he said, "Oh my Father, if it be possible, let this cup pass from me: nevertheless not as I will, but as thou wilt."—Matt. 26: 39. Now to whom was our Savior praying? Was he asking a favor of himself?

I will now refer to the martyrdom of Stephen; while being stoned to death he looked up to heaven and saw the glory of God and Jesus was standing on the right hand of God (Acts 7: 55). Would it not be impossible for a person to stand on the right hand of himself? Jesus is a separate person from his Father.

Examine the account of his baptism; on coming up out of the water what was it that lighted on him in the form of a dove? (Matt. 3: 16). We are told it was the Spirit of God. Whose voice was it that spake from the heavens, "this is my beloved Son in whom I am well pleased?" (Matt. 3: 17). Jesus who had just been raised from the water, being one person, the Holy Ghost, which descended from above and rested upon him in the form of a dove, making two personages, and does not the voice from heaven belong to the third person?

We are told in the Bible, "And this is life eternal, that they might know thee, the only true God, and Jesus Christ whom thou hast sent."—John 17:3. Therefore it is our duty to find out the character and being of God; the Bible says these are what must be understood if we desire eternal life.

We can only understand the things of man by the spirit of man, but to comprehend the things of God we must have the Spirit of God; and to understand the true and living God, also Jesus Christ whom he sent, we must be assured that he has a body and parts. Did our Savior have them? If so, then his Father had also, for the words of Paul says that Christ was "the express image of his person." (Heb. 1:3). Jesus appears in the midst of his disciples, after his resurrection, with a body of flesh and bones, and called upon his disciples to satisfy themselves on this point by touching him, and said, "For a spirit hath not flesh and bones, as ye see me have." (Luke 24:39). Then he called for something to eat. (verses 41-43). With this tangible body he ascended into heaven and stood, as Stephen said, on the right hand of God. (Acts 7:55).

Now if he has no body, what became of the one he took away with him? "Oh," says one, "this is nonsense," but if it is nonsense it is Bible evidence. But another may say, "God is just a spirit." Does that prove that he has no body? We are also told that we must worship him in spirit. Am I to understand from this that we must worship him without a body? Have you a body? Have you a spirit? Yes; were you made in the image of God's body and spirit? So I understand the Bible; man was made in the "express image of God." (Gen. 1:26, 27).

W. R. RUSH.

THE Autobiography of Elder Joseph Luff, of the apostle's quorum, is a book full of interest from beginning to end. Bro. Luff is so widely and so favorably known in and out of the church in his years of service in gospel work, that the mere mention of a work of this kind being offered should create a desire to possess it. Two fine sermons are included in its pages and the price is so reasonable that every Saint's home should have this book in their library. It's a splendid thing for the Sunday School library also. 75 cents cloth, postage prepaid.

PATENTS 50 YEARS' EXPERIENCE TRADE MARKS DESIGNS COPYRIGHTS ETC. MUNN & Co. 35 Broadway, New York

FREE BLOOD CURE. AN OFFER PROVING FAITH TO SUFFERERS.

Ulcers, cancers, eating sores, painful swellings, effects of blood poison, persistent eruptions, that refuse to heal under ordinary treatment, are quickly cured by B. B. B. (Botanic Blood Balm), made especially to cure all terrible, obstinate, deep-seated blood and skin troubles. Is your blood thin? Are you pale? All run down? Have you eczema? Pimples? Blisters and bumps? Skin or scalp humors? Boils? Eruptions? Skin itches and swollen? Aching bones? Rheumatism? Scrofula? Catarrh? To cure all these blood troubles take B. B. B. (Botanic Blood Balm), because it drains from the blood and entire system all the poisons and humors which cause all of these troubles, and the cause being removed, a permanent cure follows. All the sores heal and new, rich blood is made.

Everyone says that B. B. B. is the most wonderful blood purifier of the age; and no wonder, for it has cured the most deep-seated, obstinate cases (even the most deadly cancer) after doctors and patent medicines had failed. Thoroughly tested for thirty years and never known to fail. Our faith is so great in B. B. B., that we will send to any sufferer a trial bottle free, so that they may test the medicine at our expense. Large bottles for sale at the drug store for $1.00, or six large bottles, (full treatment) $5.00. For free trial bottle enclose five cents which pays exact cost of postage (the medicine is free), and address Blood Balm Co., 86 Mitchell St., Atlanta, Georgia, and bottle and medical book will be sent, all charges prepaid. Describe your trouble, and we will include free personal medical advice. Write today.

Low Rates.

HOME SEEKERS' EXCURSIONS.

The Missouri Pacific Railway and the Iron Mountain Route are now running a series of excursions to the west and southwest and to points in Arkansas, Louisiana and Texas, at the very low rate of one fare for the round trip, plus two dollars. Detailed information will be cheerfully furnished, as well as maps, folders, time cards, and illustrated pamphlets on the various stages, by addressing H. C. Townsend, General Passenger and Ticket Agent, St. Louis, Mo., or F. A. Millard, City Agent, Independence, Mo.

AMERICA'S MOST POPULAR RAILROAD CHICAGO AND ALTON RAILROAD PERFECT PASSENGER SERVICE TO CHICAGO, ST. LOUIS, KANSAS CITY, PEORIA, DENVER AND POINTS IN ILLINOIS, MISSOURI AND TERRITORY BEYOND.

Learn Shorthand.

A Knowledge of Shorthand and Typewriting Will Enable You to Be Self-sustaining.

The Missouri Shorthand College of St. Louis, Mo., is one of the Leading Shorthand Institutions in the United States.

Persons intending the acquirement of shorthand and typewriting should select a responsible school, otherwise their time and money are wasted.

As success in shorthand is largely dependent on the teacher as well as pupil, it is absolutely necessary that instructors should be practical shorthand writers and no others are competent to teach. Benn Pitman system taught.

The Principal of "The Missouri Shorthand College" is John H. Schofield, the well known journalist and shorthand writer, and member of the National Shorthand Writers' Association. In order to show that he is a practical and recognized exponent of shorthand, reference letters are herewith published from leading educators:

Prof. E. Benjamin Andrews, now Chancellor of Nebraska University, and recently Superintendent of Chicago Schools, comments on his character and ability as follows:

Board of Education, Office of Superintendent of Schools, Schiller Building, Chicago, Feb. 21, 1900. Mr. John H. Schofield is well and favorably known to me as the successful director of a large shorthand college in Providence, R. I. I consider him as one of the most expert practical shorthand writers whom I have ever known, but also an upright, honorable and perfectly trustworthy gentleman.

E. BENJAMIN ANDREWS, Superintendent of Schools.

Commenting on Mr. Schofield's ability and character, President E. G. Robinson of Brown University, Providence, R. I., contributes the following:

Brown University, Providence, R. I. I have known Mr. John H. Schofield for years as a stenographic reporter for the Providence Journal. His work has given special satisfaction to all parties concerned. His character as a Christian gentleman has also commanded respect, and I take pleasure in commending him to the confidence and good-will of all with whom he may meet or with whom he may have business relations.

E. G. ROBINSON, President Brown University.

Brother Fabrician, of La Salle College, Philadelphia, Pa., adds the following testimonial:

La Salle College, Philadelphia, Pa. Mr. John H. Schofield, My Dear Sir:—It gives me much pleasure to say a timely word to bear witness to your character as a man, and your ability as a journalist and shorthand writer. I hope and pray that your efforts, in whatever channel you may choose to direct them, will be rewarded with the measure of success which your talents, your energy, and your accomplishments must win. You are, however, too well and favorably known to need this note or recognition from your very sincere and devoted friend.

BRO. FABRICIAN.

These so situated that they cannot attend school sessions, taught by mail, as Principal John H. Schofield has had gratifying success by this method of teaching. Mail students who will devote two hours daily to practice, cannot fail to obtain a good general knowledge of shorthand in twenty weeks. This is a short time to acquire a profession that will enable persons to be self supporting. Those who attend school generally graduated in about sixteen weeks, but this depends largely on the ability and general knowledge of the pupil. As a knowledge of shorthand is of no practical utility unless able to spell and compose correctly, students deficient in those lines are taught without extra charge. Shorthand and typewriting furnishes lucrative, as well as pleasant employment for both sexes, but more especially for young ladies, as there are always positions for those who are capable and competent.

Positions Secured

for Graduates. Instruction in Bookkeeping and full Commercial Course if Desired. Room and Board furnished pupils from abroad at moderate rates.

THE MISSOURI SHORTHAND COLLEGE, No. 018 Pine St., ST. LOUIS, MISSOURI.

STATE SAVINGS BANK OF LAMONI.

Incorporated under the laws of the State of Iowa, July 1, 1898.

Offers depositors a safe bank for their savings, and collects the correspondence and deposits of all Esson renters, and will pay four per cent interest per annum on deposits. Send money by Bank Draft, or Express or Post Office order, or Registered Letter, or your private check on any bank in the United States, and direct your letter to W. A. Hopkins, Cashier of the State Savings Bank of Lamoni, at Lamoni, Iowa. Upon receipt of funds a certificate of deposit will be issued and sent on return mail to the sender. This bank has facilities for handling a very large business by keeping surplus funds invested in safe and available securities, and has already received deposits from sixteen different states. All letters containing inquiries or business will be promptly answered.

DR. JOS. MATHER, PHYSICIAN.

Office, Liberty St., One Door South of Chrisman-Sawyer Bank.

Phone 190-3. Independence, Mo. RESIDENCE, 301 S. SPRING ST.

CALLS ANSWERED NIGHT OR DAY.

A SPECIAL BARGAIN.

$575.

For 6 Acres, with small cottage, barn, etc., in West Lamoni. Only small payment required to secure a valuable home. Lock Box No. 7, Lamoni, Iowa.

Broken Bric-a-Bracs.

Mr. Major, the famous cement man, of New York, explains some very interesting facts about Major's Cement.

The multitudes who use this standard article know that it is many hundred per cent better than other cements for which similar claims are made, but a great many do not know why. The simple reason is that Mr. Major uses the best materials ever discovered and other manufacturers do not use them, because they are too expensive and do not allow large profits. Mr. Major tells us that one of the elements of his cement costs $3.75 a pound and another costs $2.65 a gallon, while a large share of the so-called cements and liquid glue upon the market are nothing more than sixteen-cent glue, dissolved in water or citric acid, and in some cases, altered slightly in color and odor by the addition of cheap and useless materials.

Major's Cement retails at fifteen cents and twenty-five cents a barrel, and when a dealer tries to sell a substitute, you can depend upon it that his only object is to make larger profit.

The profit on Major's Cement is as much as any dealer ought to make on any cement. And this is done by true in view of the fact that each dealer gets his share of the benefits of Mr. Major's advertising, which now amounts to over $5,000 a month throughout the country. Established in 1876.

Insist on having Major's. Don't accept any off-hand advice from a druggist. If you are at all handy with your eyes you will be likely to find that you are a good deal more so than you imagine; you can repair your rubber boots and family shoes, and any other rubber and leather articles, with Major's Rubber Cement and Major's Leather Cement.

And you will be surprised at how many dollars a year you will save, if your druggist cannot supply you, it will be forwarded by mail; either kind. Free of postage.

D. F. NICHOLSON. H. C. NICHOLSON, Cashier.

COMMERCIAL BANK, LAMONI, IOWA.

Ample responsibility. Five per cent interest paid on time deposits. Correspondence solicited. Farms and town property for sale.

SUBSCRIBE FOR THE

College City Chronicle

The Leading Local Paper of LAMONI, IOWA.

Published Weekly by the Chronicle Publishing Co.

GRAGELAND COLLEGE, LAMONI, IOWA.

Send for Catalogue, to I. W. ALLENDER, Secretary, Lamoni, Iowa.

Two Boxes of Quit-to-bac Cured Him.

"KIEL, Okla., March 29, 1900. "Dr. Ordway:—I have been enabled to quit tobacco after the use of two boxes of your antidote (Quit-to-bac). I have used tobacco for thirty years and both chewed and smoked plug tobacco.

"L. S. STALEY."

Three boxes of Quit-to-bac sent prepaid anywhere in the United States or Canada for only $1.50, with positive guarantee of cure or money cheerfully refunded. U. S. postage stamps taken. You run no risk, why not be free from this God-condemned habit? Address, (Bro.) E. F. ORDWAY, Peoria, Ill.

THEY ADMIT IT.

Bro. Hull, Chaucey, Ohio, says we saved him $12.00 on a $13.00 suit.

Bro. Farrell, West Sullivan, Maine, writes that we saved him $5.00 on a $7.00 suit.

Youth's heavy three-piece suit, age 12 to 19, $3.50. Goods are all sent prepaid.

MEN'S SACK SUITS. Black, all wool worked Men's Suits, four button, round or square cut. 14 ounce $7.00; 16 ounce $7.25; 18 ounce $8.25; 20 ounce $9.75. Extra fine, servery, all wool Oxford steel gray, servery, worth $18.00, price $9.00.

PRINCE ALBERT SUITS. Same goods asacks, 14 oz. $9.50; 16 oz. $10.00; 18 oz. $11.00; 20 oz. $11.50. 14 oz. French Twill Sacks, worth $18.00, price $9.00. Prince Alberts, worth $25.00, $13.50.

MEASUREMENTS.—Give size of bust around chest just under arms with coat off, size of waist, length of in seam of pant leg, your height and weight.

Make all drafts, express and money orders payable at Seymour, Mo. Send all communications, letters, orders and registered letters to Cumorah, Mo. THE E. T. ATWELL CO. Cumorah, Mo.

R. R. TIME TABLES.

MISSOURI PACIFIC—MAIN LINE DEPOT.

Table with columns: TRAINS WEST, a.m., No. 95—Wichita and K. C. Mail, 12:49; 9—Kansas and Nebraska Lim., 4:54; 92—Texas, Joplin & K. C. Ex., 8:15; 3—St. Louis Express, 6:23; 73—Lexington Branch Pass., 8:55; 7—Fast Mail, 10:00.

Table with columns: TRAINS EAST, p.m., 91—Joplin and K. C. Mail, 3:16; 1—St. Louis Mail and Ex., 1:17; 5—St. Louis Mail, 5:55; 61—Lexington Branch Pass., 6:45.

Table with columns: TRAINS EAST, a.m., No. 96—K. C. & Wichita Mail, 2:27; 72—Lexington Branch Pass., 6:53; 6—St. Louis Mail, 7:23; 92—K. C. Texas & Joplin Mail, 8:37; 2—St. Louis Through Mail & Pass., 10:17.

Table with columns: TRAINS WEST, p.m., 78—Lex. Branch Passenger, 6:10; 4—St. Louis Through Mail & Pass. Mail, 1:37.

Table with columns: TRAINS WEST, p.m., 94—K. C. Tex. & Joplin Ex., 1:40; 8—St. Louis Through Mail & Pass., 9:30; 10—Kan. & Neb. Limited, 11:12; Nos. 7, 9 and 10 do not stop.

LIBERTY STREET DEPOT.

Table with columns: TRAINS WEST, No. 73—Lex. Branch Pass., 8:30 a.m.; 71—" " " " 8:40 p.m.

Table with columns: TRAINS EAST, No. 72—Lex. Branch Pass., 6:56 a.m.; 78—" " " " 6:15 p.m.; Tel. 17. F. A. MILLARD, Agent.

CHICAGO & ALTON.

Table with columns: EAST BOUND, a.m., 101—Local Way Freight, 7:50; 47—St. Louis & Chicago Mail, 8:27.

Table with columns: WEST BOUND, a.m., 51—Chicago Limited, 9:38; 49—St. Louis Flyer, 9:38; 50—St. Louis Limited, 6:55; 52—Chicago Limited, 8:08.

Table with columns: LOCAL WAY FREIGHT, p.m., 102—Local Way Freight, 7:50; 48—Chicago & St. Louis Mail, 8:27.

All trains make regular stops. Through tickets to all points in the United States and Canada. For further information regarding rates, etc., call on Tel. 29. J. W. DUGAN, Agent. J. CHARLTON, G. P. & T. Agent, Chicago.

PASTORAL.

To the Saints of Northern Nebraska District, Greeting:—We have been looking over the field the past summer and find there is great need for a more earnest and determined effort upon the part of each member to live as become a follower of the Christ.

Now, Saints, this should not be! We should be active! This work is worth all the labor we can bestow on it; and when we find a branch too indifferent to hold services, and where they do have services only two or three come out when there should be sixty or more, it is evidence of coldness in the work and of a very poor condition, very discouraging to the few active workers.

For shame on such a condition. Blessed with the grandest work in the world, and the greatest privileges of any people, we should find no effort or sacrifice on our part too great to make in the interest of our fellow beings, and the furthering of this gospel hope. Besides, we cannot afford to stand still, but should progress and grow in grace and knowledge, virtue, and the power of the Holy Spirit for good.

Now, how little heed is paid to these commands; and if we become careless and indifferent as to these things God has given us, how can we expect to have any claim on him, or that he would answer us when we call upon him? And how can we ever expect to get in suitable condition to be gathered together, or to enter the presence of our God and Savior? Jesus said his disciples should be the salt of the earth, and if the salt have lost its savor, wherewith shall the earth be salted?

Again; while we should be a light to the Gentiles, an electric light tower set upon a hill that cannot be hid, we by our carelessness and slothfulness become as a lamp with a very small and smoky chimney, and it is with great difficulty that we are able to penetrate the gloom sufficient to find the small flickering light that may be there.

It is essential for every member to be thoroughly alive in this work, and especially every officer. They should be diligent and active in their office. The officers in this church were not set there for the purpose of honoring some men by giving them office, but to perfect the Saints and edify the body of Christ.

It has been our desire to have every one of the priesthood who can do so to be at work. Where not engaged in branch work, seek for places in your near vicinity, and warn your neighbors as the Book of Covenants directs.

The lady can be of great help in this also, if they will in wisdom and humbleness of spirit make the effort. You should study to use wisdom and patience in all your efforts.

call your attention to. In the immediate past you have paid too little attention to the district conference. How can you expect the missionaries to do this work for you when they are not members of the district, or take very much interest when you do not manifest sufficient interest to come yourselves, or even send representatives in many instances? You should manifest an interest in the business that may come before these conferences, and they should be made times of refreshing, rejoicing and instruction; helps along the way to mutually benefit one another and help on this great cause we profess to love.

We hope you will arouse yourselves to the necessity of being more energetic and active than in the past; and as our district conference is near, try and have each branch send a good representative, and be sure and send all reports promptly and properly made out.

Now, Saints, we plead with you to wake up and take hold anew, and let us put our shoulder to the wheel and roll the work forth as it should be, with an earnest zeal that will evidence faith in the work, active faith, that our light may shine brightly like an aro light, in which the electric current flows uninterrupted, for where the Spirit of God flows among his people, there is light, and it will shine. May God bless you and help you in this warfare of life, that you may come off more than conqueror, is the prayer of your humble servants in gospel bonds,

FREDERICK A. SMITH, Pres. JAMES HUFF, Sec.

Succession in Church Presidency.

AFFIDAVIT OF MARTIN HARRIS' NEIGBE, MRS. SOPHIA K. COOK.

Provo City, Utah, Sept. 13, 1900. With no other motive than that the truth may be known by all men to whom this affirmation may come, I, Mrs. Sophia K. Cook, do hereby solemnly swear that I was born near Pontiac, Michigan, July 28, 1828. I was baptized into the Church of Jesus Christ of Latter Day Saints in Missouri, in my girlhood, my parents having previously united with that church; that I am now a member of the Church of the Latter Day Saints, the headquarters of which is located at Salt Lake City, though I do not endorse polygamy; that I was present in a meeting held in a bowery in Nauvoo, Illinois, the date of which, to the best of my recollection, was the spring or summer of 1843 or 1844; I was sitting west from the speaker's stand, only a few feet; at this meeting I heard Joseph Smith, president of the Church of Jesus Christ of Latter Day Saints, say, in substance: "I have often been asked who would succeed me as the prophet to the church; he is here in the stand." He then turned and led his son, Joseph, before the audience and said: "My son, Joseph, will be your next prophet." Approximately, I should say there were several hundred people present at this meeting.

SOPHIA K. COOK. Subscribed and sworn to before me this 13th day of September. A. D., 1900. JOHN U. BUCHI, Notary Public. My Commission Expires Feb. 6, 1901.

Fall Opening of Graceland.

The sixth year of Graceland College opened September 11th, at ten o'clock with a creditable increase of attendance, there being a goodly number more than on the opening day of last year. The day's work showed about forty enrolled in literary and business departments, twenty in music, and fifteen in elocution, making a total of seventy-five.

At chapel exercises, a number of visitors were present, among them several members of the Board of Trustees. The opening song was, "Praise God from whom all blessings flow," after which Elder Fred M. Smith read a scripture lesson from Proverbs. Fred was formerly Professor of Science and Mathematics, and our first alumnus. Elder Wm. Anderson, president of Board of Trustees, offered prayer. "Oh reapers of life's harvest" was sung with animation by all present. Announcements and assignment of work were made by the teachers, and all dispersed to their several duties.

This opened another year which promises to surpass former years in excellent results. What shall the harvest be?

J. A. GUNSOLLEY. LAMONI, IOWA, Sept. 15.

General Reunion.

At the general reunion which will be held at Dow City, Iowa, from September 28th to October 7th, there will be preaching services only in the forenoon and evening, from the 1st to the 5th of October, arrangements having been made by the Sunday School and Religio committees to use these afternoons in their work.

Board without lodging can be had at hotel and private residences at $3.00 per week; board with lodging $3.50 per week.

The reunion committee will be running a boarding tent on the ground, where single meals can be had for 25 cents, five meals for $1.00, or $3.00 per week. All who can be requested to patronize the boarding tent because any profits derived therefrom will go towards defraying the expenses of the reunion. The committee will donate all of their labor and will do all in their power to the satisfaction of its patrons.

Board for teams can be had at livery barns where they will be fed and cared for at 60 cents per day. Barn room without feed 25 cents per day. Bed springs can be rented for 25 cents during the session and cots for 20 cents.

The grounds are in good condition and the citizens and their committees are doing all in their power to make our meetings a success, and the town council have especially favored us. We especially urge all who want tents, springs or cots to send their orders at once to A. H. Rudd, Dow City, Iowa; and all who have any business with the committee in any other way to either write to A. H. RUDD, Sec., or J. M. BAKER, Chm., Dow City, Ia.

Important Notice.

For reasons which will be explained at the proper time, the time of holding the Ohio district conference is changed from October the 6th to September 29th, just one week earlier than formerly announced. All branch officers please prepare your reports accordingly.

JAMES MOLEB, Pres. MIDDLETOWN, Ohio, Sept. 12.

District Religio Convention.

Northeastern Illinois district Religio Association convenes at the stone church, Plano, Friday, October 5th, at 3:15 p. m., for business. An instructive program will be rendered at 7:30 p. m.

ADAM J. KROCK, Vice Pres. PIPER CITY, Ill., Sept. 14.

The Teachers' Quarterly.

Owing to unavoidable circumstances we have to announce that the Teachers' Quarterly could not be issued in the form originally intended for the quarter October, November and December; but the matter for teachers, supplementary to that found in regular quarterlies, is being issued as a supplement to Senior Quarterly. Further announcements will be made as the work progresses, and remittances already received will be applied when the Quarterly is issued.

J. A. GUNSOLLEY, For executive.

NOTICES.

The South Missouri reunion which was to convene October 5th will have to be postponed altogether for this year, as the district tent is now unfit to hold meetings in; and to send off for the mission tent at a cost of perhaps $20.00 or more, with no money in the hands of the committee, is impracticable. So by consulting the missionary in charge, Bro. White, and other missionaries, it was concluded that for this year it would be unwise to try to have a reunion.

The district conference was to convene October 10th, but will be changed to convene Saturday the 13th at 9 a. m. We hope as many as can will come; leave the spirit of fault finding at home, but come with the Spirit of the Master, and we will have a spiritual time together.

D. W. THOMAS, Dis. Pres. SPRINGFIELD, Mo., Sept. 14.

Conference Notices.

The Kewanee district conference will convene at Canton, Illinois, October 6th, at 10 a. m. Please bring or send in branch reports.

J. W. ADAMS. MILLERSBURG, Ill., Sept. 16. Home address, New Boston, Ill.

The Clinton district conference will convene at the Saints' chapel in Rich Hill at 10 a. m., on Saturday, October 6, 1900.

T. R. WHITE, Dist. Pres. VINA H. GOFF, Clerk. NEVADA, Mo., Sept. 18.

The St. Louis district conference will convene Saturday evening, September 29, 1900, at 7 o'clock, in the rock church, Glasgow Avenue and Dickson street, St. Louis, Missouri, in the transaction of business, and on the following Sunday for worship.

J. G. SMITH, Dist. Sec. 2816 Lyon St., St. Louis, Mo.

The conference of the Eastern Michigan district will convene on the 6th and 7th of October, with the Flint branch, at Flint, Michigan. Branch presidents and secretaries will please make out reports and address them to Elder Wm. Davis, Flint, Michigan. Elder J. H. Lake, president of mission, is expected to be with us. All others are cordially invited to attend.

A. BARR, Pres. APPELEGATE, Mich., Sept. 10.

Convention Notices.

The Clinton district Sunday School convention will convene at Rich Hill, Missouri, Friday, October 12, 1900. The presence of the teachers in the district is requested, as the work of the convention will be principally devoted to their instruction and the need of more thorough consecration to duty.

Do not excuse yourself if you are not a teacher; you may be some day. Come praying for the success of the work.

MINA KEARNEY, Supt. WARREN McELWAIN, Sec.

The South Missouri district Sunday School Association convention will convene at Springfield, Missouri, October 12, 1900. As I was elected secretary for the district July 7, 1900, and do not know how many schools there are in the district, I hope all the secretaries of the different schools will take notice and send me their preliminary report. If any have not blanks please write me at Pomona, and I will send you one. I hope to hear from you soon. I hope to have your report at least one week before.

JAMES M. RUDD, Dist. Sec. POMONA, Mo., Sept. 10.

Sunday School convention of the Northwest Kansas district met at Minneapolis, Kansas, August 17th, at 9:30 p. m. General Superintendent T. A. Houghs in charge. Schools reporting: Gaylord, Beloit, Greenleaf, Blue Rapids, Sterling, Minersville, Minneapolis, Idylwild; Homestead not reported. After reports of superintendents and treasurer, Sr. Stella Hart of Greenleaf was elected district librarian. Mrs. Verdie Nelson, Olive Grant and Nettie Job were appointed program committee for next meeting. Adjourned to call of superintendent. ELLA LANDERS, Sec. STOCKTON, Kan., Sept. 12.

A PURE GRAPE CREAM OF TARTAR POWDER.

Highest honors, World's Fair Gold Medal, Midwinter Fair. Avoid Baking Powders containing alum. They are injurious to health.

The Kewanee District Sunday School Association will convene at Canton, Illinois, Friday, October 5th, at 10:45 a. m. The Canton Sabbath School extends a cordial invitation to all schools to take part in an entertainment to be given Friday evening. Any one who is willing to take any part will please notify Miss Ida L. Jones, Canton, Illinois. Officers will please see to their reports, and local librarians will please remember our district librarian and send to their reports to her (Mrs. Bessie Clark, Peoria, Ill.) that she may be able to make out her report.

Mrs. Ed LAMB, Dist. Sec. 722 N. Walnut St., Kewanee, Ill. September 17.

DIED.

RYAN.—Near Angola, Kansas, September 2, 1900, Sr. Alice Ryan, aged 34 years, 7 months and 8 days. She was born January 25, 1866; baptized March 15, 1874; was married to C. K. Ryan October 28, 1897, and leaves an infant a few days old. She was a sister of Bro. R. W. Davis and her life was that of a true christian. She was loved by all and had no enemies. Funeral sermon at the Richland school-house by Elder F. C. Keck.

PASSING YEARS. Look in your mirror today. Take a last look at your gray hair. Its sure may be the last if you want it so; you needn't keep your gray hair a week longer than you wish. There's no guesswork about this; it's sure every time.

To restore color to gray hair use—

After using it for two or three weeks notice how much younger you appear, ten years younger at least.

Ayer's Hair Vigor also cures dandruff, prevents falling of the hair, makes hair grow, and is a splendid hair dressing.

It cannot help but do these things, for it's a hair-food. When the hair is well fed, it cannot help but grow.

It makes the scalp healthy and this cures the disease that causes dandruff.

$1.00 a bottle. All druggists. "My hair was coming out badly, but Ayer's Hair Vigor stopped the falling and has made my hair very thick and much darker than before. I think there is nothing like it for the hair."—Cora A. Adams, April 25, 1899, Darrow, I. T.

Write the Doctor. If you do not obtain all the benefits you desire from the use of the Vigor, write doctor about my hair.

ZION'S ENSIGN.

"OUR CREED: ALL TRUTH."

VOLUME 11.

INDEPENDENCE, MISSOURI, THURSDAY, SEPTEMBER 27, 1900

NUMBER 39.

ZION'S ENSIGN.

A Literary and Religious Newspaper, published in the interest of social, scientific and religious truth, every Thursday, at Independence, Jackson County, Missouri.

PRICE, $1.00 PER YEAR, IN ADVANCE.

ENSIGN PUBLISHING HOUSE,
Of the Reorganized Church of Jesus Christ of Latter Day Saints.

W. H. GARRETT, EDITOR.
J. W. LUFF, BUSINESS MANAGER.

Make all remittances, and address all communications to ENSIGN PUBLISHING HOUSE, Box B, Independence, Jackson County, Missouri.

New subscriptions can begin at any time. If possible to avoid it, never send silver as it is liable to wear through the envelope and be lost. Always give the name of the post office to which your paper is sent or we can not find your name on our lists.

When desiring your address changed, give both the old and new address. Papers will be discontinued one month from the time subscriptions expire, unless ordered continued.

In making remittances, money orders are preferable for they are absolutely safe. If you can avoid it, do not send coin or stamps. Canadian stamps are an entire loss, and Canadian currency is only worth ninety cents on the dollar to us, for that is all we can get for it at the banks.

Letters should be addressed, and orders and drafts made payable to
ENSIGN PUBLISHING HOUSE,
Independence, Mo.

Box B.

"WORDS FITLY SPOKEN."

The ability to rightly and properly express one's thoughts or ideas is an acquirement of much value to its possessor. Some may think it an easy matter to tell what one knows, and perhaps nearly all can do so in a manner. But when they come a time—as it will come to every Saint who is anxious to make known to others their testimony of the gospel truths they have experienced—when it is desired that their words may be effectively spoken, then it is that the value of the power to do justice to the subject is recognized both by the speaker and the hearer.

Especially is this ability to fully and fittingly represent their subjects in a clear, concise and convincing manner desirable for those who stand as ambassadors of Christ, in preaching the law of life, as it also is to those who enter into the different professions in life, such as lawyers or instructors of men; and while occasionally there are found those to whom facility of good expression is natural, by far the greater number of mankind must acquire this most helpful accomplishment by close study and observation. Who cannot recall sometime in their experience when, to their sensitive natures, a good sermon or address has been robbed of its force and power to edify, by the use of some grossly improper terms in conveying the thoughts of the speaker? We have known good men, in handling an intensely interesting theme, to greatly lessen that interest by their inability to properly express themselves, though well acquainted with the subject; their awkwardness in handling it through the deficiency in their vocabulary attracted too much attention from the theme.

In our early experiences in this work we have heard able thinkers, good men, who seemed to think the word "necessity" inadequate, and so coined the word NECESSITY, and clung to it, notwithstanding their attention was directed to its impropriety. Again, there have been others who, while publicly proclaiming themselves as former school teachers, would yet persistently use the word BORNED in quoting John 3:3, "Except a man be borned again," etc., instead, as it is written, "Except a man be born again, he cannot see the kingdom of God." Much of this is probably merely a "mannerism" but the careful student avoids such expressions as militating against the good he is seeking to inculcate and establish.

God has expressed clearly that it is His will that His Saints shall be educated. His admonition to them is to study all good books, and to gain a knowledge of the histories of men and of countries. Now good books are valuable; and they are "good," as they contain truthful information. Education enables us to sift that which we read and separate the chaff and the tares from the good grain. While it may be said that all educational books contain many truths, errors and untruths are also often found in them, necessitating wise discriminating powers to enable the reader to absorb only that which is good. A good collegiate course is of very great assistance in this regard. It is not altogether what one absorbs from books while going through the course of study prescribed, which tends to the finished scholar, but that which is of greatest value, after the laying of a good solid foundation in the fundamentals of the course is the methodical training the student obtains; the ability to study without feeling that it is study, because of the pleasure realized in gaining knowledge; the ability to concentrate the powers of the mind upon a subject until the object of the research is attained.

This ability makes men and women "polished shafts in the quiver of the Lord" when they enter his service for work, and gives them a vantage ground and a prestige they would otherwise not possess. It is true the Lord is able to do the polishing when He has to do it; but it takes years to complete it in ordinary individuals, as they can only attain it by diligent study and service. Hence, it seems better from a philosophical standpoint to have as much of the polishing process done in youth, before the time for active service in the vineyard arrives, so that efficiency may be possible from the beginning and not deferred until nearly the end of life.

These thoughts lead us to the theme in which we desire to interest our readers: namely, the value of an education. Every one who can possibly attain it, owe it to themselves, to their fellow man, and to their God, to obtain the best education which the facilities at their command make possible. But few are able to fully estimate the worth or excellence of a good tool, until actual experience forcefully demonstrates it. So it is of education. Until one arrives at an age, and is placed in a situation, where its use is a positive necessity, its inestimable value is not discerned; and it is only when it is too late to correct the unfortunate underrating placed upon it in the days of public school attendance at our disposal, that we learn its priceless worth, and mourn our lack of interest when it should have been most intensely engaged.

Personally, we are made sad, and sometimes indignant, at the short sighted and unwise policy adopted by so many school boards today, in the cramming process adopted as a curriculum. Not only are the pupils forced to study hard during school hours, but are compelled to continue the studies at home and far into the night, continuously, in order to maintain their grade.

This is ruinous to health, and is frequently the cause of so many bespectacled young girls and boys seen in our schools; and in order to preserve their health parents are often compelled to withdraw their children from school, just when it should be of most service to them. This is all wrong. The course of study should be so arranged as not to burden the life of the pupil and make the school life a drudgery. Strong men howl about having to work ten hours a day to earn a living, but apparently think nothing of their children, with far less strength than they possess, working hard mentally (the most severe strain with which the physical nature can be tasked), for six hours in school, and as many and often more hours out of school, and yet wonder why their children have such a distaste for school and its studies. If they really appreciated the torture so often imposed upon their children by this cramming process, such a mighty protest would be thundering against those responsible for it as would compel the establishing of a more consistent and considerate course of study. This cramming policy results in a smattering knowledge of a little of everything, and little of value of anything in particular, and a college course becomes a necessity if a substantial education is to be obtained.

The Church of Jesus Christ,

Reorganized, has wisely made provision for this need of a sound and practical, as well as a thorough education, in the erection of Graceland College at Lamoni, Iowa; equipping it with a corps of teachers whose work does honor to the interests which they represent. President Harkness, a man of wide experience and reputation as an educator, is a gentleman of fine qualities and attainments, and an enthusiastic, earnest worker. Prof. J. A. Gunsolley, at the head of the business department, is so well known that no word which we can say can raise him in the esteem and affections of all who know him. He is a thorough worker, and those graduated from his department will be a better testimonial of his efficiency as an instructor, than any mere wordy recommendation that can be given. The other instructors have been as carefully selected for their special work, and together compose a faculty whose finished work will compare favorably with any other in the land.

Graceland really needs the support of the Saints. It is worthy, and where parents can arrange to give their children an education which will serve them faithfully in years to come, they should consider the claims of their own college in preference to those of any other. With increase of patronage will come increase of facilities, by which still greater results may be reached, and if those who are really able, would honor the appeals of those in whose hands the eradication of the debt now upon it, and of those appointed to secure the necessary funds for current expenses, would "tend to the Lord," in this direction, a small amount of the prosperity with which He has favored them, it would truly be as "bread cast upon the waters," whose returning waves should bless "both the sower and the seed." God bless Graceland and her noble, self-sacrificing workers—they truly are such—and may His face shine upon her interests until, as a power for good in His hands, her walls may echo and echo again with a throng of earnest, happy workers, who shall be "epistles known and read of all men," in the grandeur of results manifest in the work of God for the salvation of men and the redemption of Zion.

EDITORIAL ITEMS.

SR. J. F. BURTON has changed her address from Santa Ana, California, to Howard's Summit, Los Angeles Co., California.

BRO. H. W. BELVILLE, Hebron, Nebraska, says their conference convened there September 9th and 10th, and proved to be of good result. Baptized one and organized a Sunday School. He desires that this little branch at Hebron will still continue to advance and hopes for the welfare of Zion.

BISHOP C. J. HUNT, of Deloit, Iowa, was called to Golden City, Missouri, last week on account of the sickness and death of his eldest sister, Mrs. L. Robbins. He returned home this week.

THE editor will be in attendance at the Dow City reunion representing the ENSIGN interests, and will be glad to receive all renewals of subscriptions and a great many NEW ones. He will also have a supply of books and tracts issued by the Ensign Publishing House for sale, as usual. Sustain the ENSIGN with your subscriptions and patronage; it is church property, and your own interests are involved in its financial success.

LET every one read Bro. E. J. Lang's letter in this issue and be convinced of the necessity of taking good care of each copy of the ENSIGN received. See that they are kept clean and smooth and carefully preserved until the next work season begins; then send them to those engaged in tent work, breathing an earnest prayer for our heavenly Father's blessing to accompany the offerings, that precious souls may be enlightened and led to the light, and to obedience to the gospel. Be sure to make it possible, as our good Bro. Lang says, that it shall be said of all, that you have "done what you could."

BRO. T. W. CHATBURN has not retired to an innocuous desuetude even if his "Jobs by the Wayside" have thus been relegated. The Evening Blade of Santa Ana, California, in its issue for August 23d, contains nearly a column article replying to some misrepresentations of the Brighamite elders and an unfair action of the city council enjoining him from following up the said elders on the street, and showing up their errors and unreliability and unworthiness of acceptance by the people. The council it seems acted without hearing Bro. Chatburn's side. Against this unjustico he protests and after telling what the Utah elders really believe and answering some of their untruthful statements, he closes his article in the following characteristic vigorous and emphatic manner:

I do not ask any favors or privileges at the hands of the city council or the officers, but I do and shall demand my rights to be heard on the streets of Santa Ana if others can. I am an American citizen, a Union soldier and a minister of the gospel, but have no compromises to make with Brighamites or others who may wish to serve the devil under the livary of heaven.

I hereby give notice that I will speak upon the street next Saturday evening, and invite all interested to hear what I have to say. Yours kindly,

ELDER T. W. CHATBURN.

JOHN C. HITCHCOCK.

We are again called to mourn the loss of a good man, an earnest, devoted, faithful and consecrated laborer in the vineyard of the Lord, who, in the inscrutable, but infinite wisdom of God, was permitted to close his mortal life work in the prime of his life, and at a point where, to human knowledge, his labors seemed to be so much needed. Bro. John C. Hitchcock died at his home, 2507 Slattery street, St. Louis, Missouri, Friday, September 21st, of Bright's disease. At the time of his decease he was General Secretary of Zion's Religious Literary Society (as he had been since its incipency), president of St. Louis district, and president of the St. Louis branch. He was a hard, systematic worker, and seemed to put all the energy of his nature into his work, imparting his enthusiasm to others, by which much was accomplished in the furthering of the work of the Lord. To know Bro. John was to love him for the devotion he manifested and the love which he had for the Master. It seems hard, very hard, to have to give him up; to lose his counsel and work, but the Father has taken him, and we can but pray that he, upon whose shoulders his work may fall, may be richly endowed with grace, wisdom and strength to carry it on to victory.

To Sr. Hitchcock and to his bereaved family, our tenderest sympathies are extended; we mourn with them; but have the consolation that, having wrought a good work, having fought a good fight, having kept the faith, his rest will be glorious, and the morning of the first resurrection will bring him again to a life from which all sickness, pain and sorrow has fled away. Till then, dear brother, farewell.

The following beautiful tribute from his late pastorate, through Sr. Florence Burgess, received after the above was in type, eloquently expresses their sense of our brother's worth:

"The church in St. Louis feels almost overwhelmed by the crushing blow that has fallen upon us. Our beloved president, John C. Hitchcock, has been called to the world beyond, and the first feeling of unbelief, a feeling that the sorrowful fact could not possibly be true, has been followed by anguish of heart and an almost unbearable sense of oppression. Yet with it all such a blessed feeling of sympathy and love has drawn us together; for grief is a bond that unites more strongly than anything else.

"Of his life, to know him was to feel that it was one of purity, of self-denial, of tireless energy in working for all that is good and noble. The example he gave us by living his belief so thoroughly, speaks to us even more eloquently than did the sermons which were wont to encourage and inspire us. This example will always remain in our minds, urging us on to ambitions of the noblest sort.

"He was born on December 19th in the year 1867, at Ancona, Livingstone county, Illinois, and the never-to-be-forgotten night when he passed away from us was Friday, September 21st, of this present year of 1900, at his home in this city. Between those dates, how much to tell, and how impossible to tell it all in words. He united with the church in 1888, on February 6th, at Lamoni, Iowa, and came to St. Louis about nine years ago. We are so thankful for the privilege of having known him during these years.

"Seven years ago, when the Religio, which has spread so well, was first thought of and begun, he was one of its originators, being its first General Secretary, which office he still held at the time of his death. It will serve to show how great was the growth he helped to accomplish in the society, and also his own ceaseless labors in that direction, to say that in those seven years this young people's work had grown to such size and importance that during his last term he sent out 1628 letters and 160 postal cards, besides Constitution and By-laws, leaflets of instructions, sample programs, and the like.

"He was ordained a teacher in the church on November 5, 1893, a priest on December 13, 1896, and an elder on March 12, 1898, all at St. Louis, Missouri. Two years ago he was chosen as presiding elder of our church, and not long past was superintendent of our Sunday School, perhaps the most thorough and earnest we ever had. All of this too, while he was filling a rather important position as one of the most trusted employees of the Missouri, Kansas & Texas railway, and was in daily attendance at his work there. To think of it all is to be filled with wonder at his determination, his strength of mind and spirit.

"And now, just as we have obtained, with him at the lead and mainly through his efforts, a beautiful rock church, so much larger and better equipped than the little chapel we used to have, he is taken from us, and at first we feel as though our rejoicing is all turned to bitterness. On the first Sunday in the new church he was so pleased and happy; on the second he was feeling ill, but preached in the morning and evening notwithstanding, as our missionary elder was away; on the third Sunday he was not able to be out, and on the fourth Sunday, sorrowful congregations, with bowed heads, met throughout the day, and wandered, between the services, to his home, to gaze in a sort of dazed wonder at his face, so beautiful and peaceful in its last sleep.

"The next day, Monday, September 24th, the funeral was conducted from the church which he obtained for us, and from which (oh, the crushing irony of the contrast) he was the first to be carried to rest. The sermon, by Elder Arthur Allen, was a touching as well as comforting one. It included the dates we have given in his life, and also the fact that on January 9, 1895, he was married to Etta M. Izatt. A son blessed this union, who, with his mother, survives him.

"Besides his own consoling words, the preacher read us the poem; 'There is No Death,' which is said to have been our dear brother's favorite poem, and which, therefore, seems to come as a blessed message from his lips. The church was full, as he would so love to see it; the scene was one of impressive and solemn majesty—the interior draped with black, the awe-struck crowd, the minister whose voice would falter even as he spoke words of cheer; the flower-laden casket, and himself, the most peaceful and most majestic figure of all.

"And now, since first the sense of his departure was borne in on our unwilling and unbelieving hearts, the question uppermost in our minds has been, 'The Religio, the Sunday School, the church, what will they do without him?' Yet we feel that we must not give up; we know that he would not wish it so if he were here; that he does not wish it so. And thus there comes a strong determination to be brave, to be far more diligent than ever, and carry on the Master's work after the manner that he did, as nearly as possible.

"Things that he said are so apt to come back to us now with renewed force, and there comes to me the remembrance of a sermon I once heard him preach, in which he spoke of the different degrees of glory, the celestial being the highest, and the one which aspiring souls would aim to reach. He described, too, a vision he had had, representing the beauties of heaven. The ending of that sermon clings in my mind, it was so impressive. The last words were: 'As for me, I shall never be satisfied until I see the gates open, and hear the great King say to me, "Enter into thy celestial rest."' Oh, we feel that he is sure of that entrance now, and so he is satisfied. And if he is satisfied, why should we mourn?

"At another time he read in the pulpit that beautiful little poem called 'Sometime.' The words I cannot quote, but it expresses the thought that sometime the clouds of mystery and darkness will be swept away and we shall understand; and then, so the last stanza concludes, 'I think that we shall say, "God knew the best."' How appropriate that is now, and how comforting, when we are so puzzled in our grief as to what good reason there could be for his departure being so sudden and sorrowful. We pray that some enlightenment and comforting assurance may be given us, clinging to this hope that, even if not given soon, we shall know all 'sometime.'

"I wonder if Whittier ever wrote anything prettier than these lines:

"As for him who never sees
The sun shine through his express trees!
Who hath not learned, in hours of faith,
That truth to flesh and sense unknown,
That life is ever lord of death,
And love can never lose its own.

"It is true that we cannot lose him; we have not lost him, we, who loved him as pastor, as friend, as brother. He is only waiting for us in those shining realms of glory he spoke about.

"And so we hope that the spirit of love which has come to us and drawn us together, and also the resolve to strive to the utmost in the gospel cause, may never grow less than now; that our sorrow may be accompanied by peace instead of bitterness, but that that love and that resolve which are born of our sorrow may never alter, except to grow even stronger. Then we can hope to meet him ere long in that place of which it is written, 'God shall wipe away all tears from their eyes; and there shall be no more death, neither sorrow, nor crying, neither shall there be any more pain.'"

2933 Harper St., St. Louis, Mo.

GENERAL CHURCH NEWS.

INDEPENDENCE.

Bro. Geo. Hayward was quite ill Sunday, but is again, we are glad to say, improving.

Elder Jos. Luff will preach at the Saints' church Sunday morning, and Elder R. J. Parker at night.

Bro. John D. White left Sunday evening for St. Louis to attend the funeral of Bro. J. C. Hitchcock.

Sr. Clara Clark Curtis left Sunday evening for St. Louis to join her husband there for the present. They expect to return here in the future.

Sr. M. Walker, of Lamoni, Iowa, returned from St. Louis, Missouri, Thursday evening, of last week, and is the guest of Sr. M. E. Hulmes. It is probable that both herself and Sr. Hulmes will attend the Dow City reunion.

Sr. W. T. Bozarth returned from Colorado, Thursday, of last week, and is now again domiciled in her cottage near the stone church. She has been tenting it in the mountains and looks and feels much better than when herself and husband took their overland trip. Bro. Bozarth has gone into the mission field again, as he has long desired to do, and is also feeling well.

Sunday was cool and cloudy, turning to rain about half past eleven a. m., but slacked up nicely so as to permit those at church to return home comfortably. Bishop R. May preached a good discourse at 11 o'clock on some things required in the gathering; and at night Bro. I. N. White was the speaker to the comfort and edification of the Saints. The afternoon service was very good.

The announcement Sunday morning of the sudden death of Bro. J. C. Hitchcock, which occurred at his home in St. Louis last Friday, was a great shock to his many acquaintances here. Sorrow was shown in the countenances of the Saints and regrets were expressed on every side at his untimely demise. Immediately after the close of the morning service the local society of Religians met in special session and passed resolutions expressive of these feelings at their loss; their resolutions will be found in another column. He was only confined to his house for a short time, and Sr. M. Walker, who came from St. Louis Thursday evening of last week, brought word that he expected to be back to his office by the following Monday; but this, alas, was never realized. The funeral took place Monday.

LAMONI, IOWA.

Very heavy rainfalls Saturday and Sunday nights and Monday morning.

The attendance at Sunday School yesterday passed the four hundred mark. A circular letter was sent out by the superintendent last week, requesting each teacher to act as a visiting committee of their own class. We believe many absent scholars can be brought back by this means.

Apostle J. R. Lambert discoursed to the Saints at the morning hour upon the subject of "Charity." President Joseph Smith preached at 7:30, topic, "Our Duty to Our Fellow Man." Afternoon prayer service was well attended and in charge of President J. A. Gunsolley and Elder Sparks.

Bishop E. L. Kelley preached at Saints' Home Sunday evening. Bro. Frank Cochran held services at Surprise schoolhouse, and Bro. John Ford at Center schoolhouse.

Sr. Mabel Blair, daughter of Bro. George Blair, met with a very severe accident on Thursday evening while out riding. The carriage was tipped over, throwing Miss Mabel to the ground, breaking her limb below the knee. The physician says it will be several months before she will be able to walk, but we trust through the goodness of our heavenly Father she may have a more speedy recovery.

G. L. K.

September 24.

CHICAGO, ILLINOIS.

Branch headquarters, 716 W. Van Buren St., Sunday meetings 2:45 and 7:45 p. m.; Lang Mission, 3411 Cottage Grove Ave., 10:45 a. m. and 7:30 p. m.; West Pullman branch, 748 119th St., 10:30 a. m. and 7:30 p. m.; 508 W. 37th St. (colored mission), 10:30 a. m. and 7:30 p. m.

Starting from St. Joseph at 8:15 a. m., after bidding adieu to the many dear Saints of that city, Bro. C. E. Hubacher and C. H. Isleib seeing us safe on board the cars, from whom we were loth to part, we sped our way through Stewartsville, Cameron, Chillicothe and changing at Laclede through Pollock and Farmington, where we dropped some of our cards thinking some Latter Day Saint might find one. We arrived at Burlington at 7 p. m., where we were met by Srs. J. L. Wright and H. D. Ennis with her son Lowell, with whom we spent a pleasant hour in converse. We found Sr. Ennis much improved in health from a severe sickness. Boarding the 10:25 train we arrived home early Friday evening to find wife glad to welcome us though arriving some hours ahead of time. We were pleased to get back being greatly benefited in health by the trip, being built up by the pure air of "poor old Missouri!" and the kindly treatment of her noble sons and daughters.

Our beloved deacon, E. E. Johnson, lingers in about the same condition without any material change either way. Pray for him.

Our Religion is very prosperous. Each member has agreed to raise one dollar by some extra work or means for the purchase of a new organ. When the work is done each one is to tell how they earned their dollar. This little incident illustrates what can be done by a united effort. The secret is for each priesthood to do something.

Our priestly meeting occurs next Monday night. Let all the priesthood come together and have an interesting session. Some papers will be read and other interesting matter presented.

Bro. A. McCallum spent several days in our city on business, recently departing for other fields.

Our services yesterday were interesting, the Saints enjoying each other's company under the spirit of peace and unity.

Being absent on the third Sunday and not being able to fill our West Pullman appointment we will be there next Sunday, the 30th, for the evening service only.

Bro. E. J. Lang baptized one last Sunday, a lady of goodly presentment and we trust will be active in the work. We welcome her.

In good cheer and charity for all,
J. M. TERRY.
385 Ogden Ave., Sept. 24.

DENVER, COLORADO.

Church, corner of 22d and Arapahoe Sts. Services Sunday—Sunday School at 9:45 a. m.; preaching at 11 a. m. and 7:30 p. m.; sacrament service the first Sunday in each month at 6 p. m. Prayer meeting Wednesday evening. Zion's Religio-Literary Society Friday evening.

Still no rain. The weather has been cool of late and if we only had rain to lay the dust it would be delightful, as this is the best time of year in Colorado for weather.

Bro. and Sr. D. H. Bellrose and children have returned from their visit in Kansas; they were in attendance at the Stewartsville reunion and report a very enjoyable time.

Sr. Wormley and sister, of Moline, Illinois, are sojourning in the city.

Bro. Joseph Schmutz is a little better at this writing. Sr. Harder is very weak with no prospect of improvement.

Bro. Frank Schmutz does not get any better; he has been taking treatment of a specialist with no benefit.

Preaching Sunday morning by Elder J. W. Gilbert, in the evening by E. F. Shupe.

S.

September 24.

SECOND KANSAS CITY BRANCH.

The Sisters' Aid Society cleared eight dollars at the social in the tent last week, for the building of the chapel.

All the branch meetings yesterday were held in Bro. Alex. McIntosh's house. There were fifty present at Sunday School. The morning preaching service was conducted by Elder Joseph Emmett, assisted by Priests Thomas Newton and George Edwards. Bro. Edwards preached upon the eleventh chapter of Job.

The Saints are hopeful and enthusiastic concerning the chapel, although there are difficulties presenting themselves.

At Sunday afternoon prayer meeting, all present took part in testimony, and they were cheered by the Comforter.

JOHN C. GRAINGER.
September 24.

LETTER DEPARTMENT.

RIPELEY, Okla., Sept. 17.

Editor Ensign:—I baptized one fine sister last week, one who had been convinced of the divinity of the latter day work for some time, but had delayed in joining the fold. We had a very good meeting at Servado. Bro. Ralston and family, late from Colorado, are good, worthy Saints and have aided in establishing the work among their neighbors. Sr. Alice, a young Saint of 15 years and less than two years (I believe) in the church, is firm in the faith and manifests it to her many friends and acquaintances who seem to think the dance is the proper place for young people; but Sr. Alice has stood nobly for the Lord and his cause and has refused to be influenced by the vanities and follies of the world. How true it is and how sublime the thought which says:

"Tis a war that calls for valor,
'Tis a conflict with the world."

The hope of this nation is the young and the unborn of the nation. So the hope of the church are the youthful ones. For even if those who now constitute the church should be true and faithful they must finally lay down their work, and the generation of young who will soon be called forth to carry on the work must be fitted to take their place.

But the many good things that are being done now; the auxiliary organizations in the church; the Sunday School; Zion's Religio; Daughters of Zion; Sons of Zion; and with a more watchful care of the home; a more complete understanding of the duties of branch and district officers, should and we believe it will, prove a glorious safeguard for the young of the church. And yet the text of Paul will always remain a good one, wherein he says, "He that thinketh he standeth take heed lest he fall." I expect to visit the Oak Grove branch near Sumner, then work westward to Dawey county.

In bonds yours,

R. M. MALONEY.

SUMNER, Okla.

OZARK, Mo., Sept. 16.

Editor Ensign:—If you will be so kind as to permit me space in your columns, which are always laden with words of comfort and cheer, I will try to pen a few thoughts in regard to one writing to church papers.

If our minds are burdened because all is not sunshine, or because the world does not see as we do, should we seek to relieve ourselves by writing a pathetic letter? or, in other words, lodge a complaint through the church papers to our brethren, of our surroundings, and at the close of our letter, ask the Saints to all pray for us. But, at the same time, could we hear the earnest petition of some honest brother or sister to our heavenly Father, in the name of Christ, for us, and the words of that prayer would be about as follows:

"Holy Father, remember, I pray thee, in the name of thy dear Son, those who have so earnestly asked an interest in our prayers. Oh, righteous Father, help them to have patience in all things; to suffer all manner of evil for the gospel's sake, and when they are reviled that they may not revile again. And help them to overcome the world, by that spirit of love that should be manifested by everyone of thy children. Amen."

Do you suppose we could then begin to see the mistakes and shortcomings of our lives? And if so, think you not that we would not see that the trials we bore were perhaps justly ours? Or would we still persist in thinking, in the old selfish way, that we were mistreated without much cause, and we would seek revenge to make the wrong right.

Now let us see; does two wrongs make a right? Can we conscientiously take the letter we have written and face the brother that prayed that most earnest prayer for us, and say "All is well, and your prayer has been heard?" God forbid. Did we intend to convey the idea in our letter for some one to pray for a way to be opened for us to get revenge for a wrong? If so, we have not made it plain and the brother who prayed for us misunderstood us and prayed amiss. See his prayer, hear his words, "Help them to overcome the world by that spirit of love," etc.

Let us ask the simple question, after all is done who is benefited? In my opinion this is the sum of the whole matter; time spent, talent spent, the two wrongs does not make a right, our case is no better and we are only to blame. May God help us to walk in accord with his law, and keep his commandments which he has given us, and only ask in accord with his will, live righteously and thus brighten the pathway for all who may know us in this life. I am,
Your brother in Christ,
J. T. DAVIS.

CHICAGO, Ill., Sept. 16.

Dear Ensign:—I thought best to send you a few lines to let you know that our street work has not been fruitless; we have labored nights on the street when we felt more like staying home, so tired after the day's work; but when in active service, never felt better; we talk to large crowds and they listen with great interest, as the gospel story is something new to them. Have given away about one thousand ENSIGNS; the people are not used to having papers given to them free, and they wonder how it can be done; they are very eager for the papers, and as a result of handing an ENSIGN to a lady on the street some time ago, this morning we had the pleasure of baptizing her into the fold. And now, dear ENSIGN, we know that you are doing a good work, and we take pleasure in handing you to the people; and as a silent preacher, your testimony speaks louder than thunder, and may the God of heaven bless you and speed you on in your mission of light and truth. To the many Saints who have sent me the papers, let us all join together in praising the Lord for the one soul, hoping for future results from our labors; and in our labor of love let us feel that we did what we could. I have about four hundred papers on hand that will last through the open air season, so Saints please send your ENSIGNS to other calls or hold them till next season.

Your brother in bonds,

E. J. LANG.

3411 Cottage Grove Ave.

NEOLA, Iowa, Sept. 21.

Editor Ensign:—As stated in my last letter we were to begin work in Neola the third Sunday in the month, and the light is on. Bro. Paul Hansen began at Ransoms' school-house the first Sunday, holding until the second, when I came and continued the meetings until Wednesday. Bro. Hansen baptized one young woman, the daughter of Bro. Cole Fisher, on Sunday, as a result of his labors. The third Sunday, as per notice, I went to Neola to arrange for our meetings, but no place could be had for love or money, until Sunday night we secured the room of a political club, and began work. Bro. Chambers came on Saturday, but was called to go to Lincoln, Nebraska, to see Bro. John Lapworth, who was hurt at Lincoln in an accident. He did not return until Monday, was not here more than an hour until he was called home to see his father, who is very sick. He came back on Wednesday, but owing to illness did not preach until Thursday night.

Bro. Roy Wood, of Carson, has been with us, rendering valuable service until yesterday, when he got a message stating that his little son had broken his arm, and he went home on first train; so you see we have had an up hill work from the start, but we are not discouraged and will continue over Sunday.

It is our intention to begin a series of meetings with the Boomer branch on the 28th if we are able.

Bro. Chambers is not well and has not been for some time, and ought to have a long rest; but the Saints seem to think the missionaries are made of cast iron, and they drag him all over the district to see their sick, when they have elders at home. It is wrong, and I hope the Saints will exercise judgment when they know his condition; besides, his poor old father needs all his spare time. We want him to rest next week and hope he will not be troubled.

Pray for us that God will give strength for our work.

In bonds,

J. S. STRAIN.

St. JOSEPH, Mo., Sept. 17.

Editor Ensign:—Leaving Chicago on the 4th I was soon carried to Stewartsville, Missouri, where I found in session the North Missouri reunion. In the midst of kindly greetings of the dear Saints, and astonishment at the changes of the last two years, we hugely enjoyed the meetings, and the fresh country air beyond our powers to describe. We missed the jocular voice and presence of T. W. C. of whom we thought, and wished for his presence, but thousands of miles lay between us. Hope on, brother, they voted another reunion for 1901.

On Tuesday I came to St. Joseph, where we spent the first five years of our active ministry. We found the city much improved, and the spiritual interests by no means dead. We met the Aspey mission Saints on Friday night; was greeted by a full house. Yesterday we occupied at the church morning and evening, with good spirit and full house, especially in the evening. At the close one asked for baptism, which will be attended to on Wednesday evening. Others may come. We preach again tomorrow night at the mission. Our time is fully occupied in making calls and renewing old acquaintances.

We find some sickness here. Grandma Jones, mother to Sr. Wm. Lewis, is very sick. We found Sr. Pearl Parker also quite sick with typhoid fever. Bro. A. Worden's youngest child passed away yesterday morning. We find the work here, in charge of Bro. Wm. Lewis, ably aided by Bro. H. Taddicken, G. W. Best and Coventry Archibald. Many familiar faces are missing, which brings sadness. Bro. D. H. Blair and wife were up from Kansas City, also Sr. Ida Pearson and Bro. Harrington. We feel that our short visit is doing us good physically and spiritually.

Space will prohibit a full account of all we would love to tell. We start home Thursday, stopping one night in Burlington, then on to our blessed Chicago charge and dear ones, where we expect to arrive Friday, 8:30 p. m., to enter with renewed energy into the work before us. We are more and more in love and rapport with this work, and hope to see the triumphant armies of Zion be crowned with the victor's laurels.

Yours ever for truth,

J. M. TERRY.

DES MOINES, Iowa, Sept. 16.

Editor Ensign:—Our church is at the corner of East 16th and Des Moines streets. Services Sunday: Sunday School at 10 a. m. Preaching every alternate Sunday at 11 a. m.; every Sunday at 8 p. m. Sacrament meeting every alternate Sunday at 11 a. m. Prayer meeting Wednesday evening. Zion's Religio-Literary Society Friday evening. M. H. Cook presiding elder.

Our district conference and reunion held at Colfax, Iowa, September 1st to 10th, is over and we who had the great pleasure of there meeting with the Saints and friends of the district are again in our accustomed places better equipped, prepared and encouraged to go on faithfully discharging the duties devolving upon us in the carrying on of this precious work. Certainly no Saint who was blessed of God with the privilege of being present at those meetings could go away feeling no stronger for the race in the remainder of the "battle of life," for not a session passed that did not present food for the hungry and drink for the thirsting soul. Especially did the closing sermons cause us to more fully comprehend the beauty and magnitude of this glorious work in which we are engaged, and inspire us with renewed energy and greater determination to press onward "till every foe is vanquished and Christ is Lord indeed." It now remains the duty of those who "drank from the fountain freely" to impart to others of the goodly things received.

We young people also were blessed in that we succeeded in organizing a district Religio Association. This organization is certainly becoming a factor for good in the bringing of souls into the kingdom of God. May our young Saints be made to rejoice in this new field of labor and improve the opportunity thus given them to prepare for greater usefulness in the service of the loving Master.

We are striving here as a little band of workers to do our Master's will in all things and have been blessed in many ways; but feel there are still greater blessings awaiting us if we but keep humble and faithful and worthy of receiving them. Bro. I. N. White stopped with us on his way through from reunion and gave us an excellent talk Friday evening on the subject of "faith." Many have been heard to say they were greatly benefited and given renewed strength to push "Onward and Upward." He encouraged all to work in their respective places without murmuring or complaining, assuring them if they did their reward would not be small. To him we would say, "Come again, Bro. White."

Our branch was well represented at our forenoon meeting today to partake of the sacred emblems, and the sweet, peaceful influence of the Spirit was manifest to a good degree. Bro. Stamm was announced as our speaker for this evening.

As a whole the work here is progressing and getting into that condition in which we may live still nearer to God than heretofore if we will only be obedient children. May we ever be found striving to "Come up higher" that we may have God's Spirit to enjoy, we made partakers of the great blessings that are ever ready to be prepared to enter into that "haven of rest" at the close of this earthly life, is my prayer in the dear Redeemer's name.

Yours in the most holy faith,
J. B. BRIZZARD.

BOTTINEAU, S. D., Sept. 7.

Dear Ensign:—You are a welcome visitor at our home and I am thankful I am able to read your pages. I often feel like writing, especially when I see good news, but it hurts me very much at times to write, I think of Sr. Jennie Page, it is so hard for her to write; I do not know her personally but I hope the blessing of our heavenly Father may rest upon her. Dear sister, you shall have my prayers.

The work here is in good condition; we have our meetings every first Sunday and this summer we have had them oftener. It is nine miles to go, but I have only missed one meeting, I am not strong and get very tired, but I am well paid for going. Bro. Spang and Thorburn have been here and did a good work for us. Thorburn is here yet. Last Monday two more were baptized; one of them, my sister, Mrs. John Redny, her husband is an unbeliever. The way the church has gone, he thinks it is enough to keep people out of the church, but his wife's people are nearly all Latter Day Saints, and he said he had great respect for them. I pray God he may see the light and come and go with us. The other baptized was Mabel G. Geringer, a bright young girl. A good many who are coming into the branch here are the very best in the county.

In last ENSIGN I saw a letter from Carl W. Lange; he was my father in the gospel; it was his teachings that opened my eyes to the truth. — was an Adventist. — was baptized the Sunday that Sr. Whitteaker was, who was healed. I was with her nearly every week of her sickness; I used to sew for her children, some of them were small then. I am willing to give in my testimony to all the facts concerning her sickness and being restored to health. Bro. Lange did a good work there, and may God bless him with health again.

Saints of God, let us all be up and doing our duty; let us examine ourselves; see if any hatred or envy or anything of an evil nature is in our heart, for this side of the grave is the place for us, as Saints, to get right; we must love one another. May my Father help me to do this. There are many of you whom I would be very glad to see, but I do not expect to do so in this life. May God grant we shall meet in the resurrection. Dear Saints, remember me in your prayers. I am,

Your sister in the gospel,
MATTIE S. HOWEY.

ZION'S ENSIGN.

Entered at the Post Office at Independence, Mo., as Second Class Matter.

LOOSE THE FETTERS.

An Earnest Plea.

BY ELDER R. M. ELVIN.

Wise men lay up knowledge.—Prov. 10: 14.

None should be more anxious than latter day Israel to put themselves in line with the foregoing. For of old it was written:

"They shall not hurt nor destroy in all my holy mountain: for the earth shall be full of the knowledge of the Lord, as the waters cover the sea."—Isa. 11: 9.

"Many are of the opinion that the signs bespeak the near fulfillment of the above prediction, and the "Army of the Lord" should stand in the front rank of those possessing knowledge, agreeable to ancient and modern revelation, as pointed out in this paper.

Now, dear Saints, we (the trustees of Graceland College) need money for running expense; and as your servants, duly appointed at the General Conference of 1900, ask your aid, that we may have the opportunity to perform our duty as faithful stewards, in an acceptable manner, but without prompt and liberal response to this our appeal, it will be impracticable for us to accomplish that which you appointed us to do.

We do not hesitate in making our wants known, for as your servants in this church work, we indulge the thought that you would not appoint faithful, willing men to work, and then tie their hands by withholding the means whereby that work can be successfully done.

No apology is necessary for this appeal, as it is impolitic for us to borrow money for running expenses, which would only increase interest, and to run the College without money is utterly impossible and impracticable.

Some one has said: "A friend in need, is a friend indeed." Saints, we are in need, will you hear and respond to this our appeal?

"But to do good and to communicate forget not, for with such sacrifice God is well pleased."—Heb. 13: 16.

Prior to my baptism into the church, I might say that if there came to me any aspirations in life, it was that I might become a politician and a lawyer—that was the profession which seemed to have attracted my youthful attention. After I had accepted of the gospel, it was but a short time until I was requested to submit to an ordination, and the first question I asked of those who presented this proposition was, "What will be my duty?" The elder kindly brought to me the book of Doctrine and Covenants, and on a piece of paper marked out the pages pointing to the duty of the office to which they purposed to ordain me.

I asked for time to study and to seek for divine guidance, that if it was the Lord's will that I should take this office and responsibility upon me, that I might feel that it was right. And before I had given my consent, there came a direct revelation to appoint me to another office, that of elder; and with the revelation came the evidence that it was my duty to accept, so before I was twenty-one years of age, I had begun in the active ministry as an elder in the church.

From the time of my entering into the work, there settled upon my soul the conviction that the thought suggested in the text was the all important one, that I should acquire knowledge. I do not believe there has ever been a time that has come and gone since the time of my uniting with the church, but my soul has thirsted, and my prayer has gone up to my heavenly Father for more knowledge, and for that divine knowledge that will assist me in accomplishing good for others. The crowning glory that comes to man is a manifestation of divine knowledge: it is that which should be the passport into the circle of the redeemed ones, and will take away the veil from off our faces, that we may stand in the presence of our Redeemer and Mediator and holy angels, and that without fear or shame.

It must be apparent to the thoughtful ones that a disparagement in knowledge here is a barrier to our associating with those who are further advanced in education and the science of life and the affairs thereof. I have had some lessons, object lessons, that taught me clearly; I could not misunderstand that fellow feeling that is in our hearts, of a diffidence which we experience in the presence of those whom we consider our superiors. I remember that for five years, while serving the government, that men, far in advance of me in education, and with wealth beyond everything that I have ever had any thought of, would come in, remove their hats, pay respect to me, that I could not under any consideration expect of them; and the only reason that I can now assign for it was that it was not to me, but to the position that I occupied. As if you should enter into the presence of a judge, a governor, a senator of the United States, or the president of the United States, there would come from your heart, your feelings, the position that the individual occupied, and you would pay respect and deference to this individual that you would not, did he not occupy the place that he does.

I have heard many, very many, of our elders express themselves that they would rather take a good, sound thrashing than to stand up and preach in the presence of President Joseph Smith, or in the presence of some of the twelve apostles, and I remember my first experience of this stage fright, that came over me in 1869, in returning from the Galland's Grove conference. I was the companion of the president of the church, and as we went to the schoolhouse, he says "Robert, you will have to preach tonight." It scared me so, frightened me, and I protested that I possibly could not do so. Years have come and gone and there has come to me this conviction, while I may have the same respect, the same love for men and office now as I had then, a refusal to discharge my duty will not excuse me to my heavenly Father, and I have reached this conviction that I am not the servant of the president of the church or of any leading man in this church. I am their fellow-laborer and the servant of God and the Lord Jesus Christ; and while I recognize them in their place, and oftentimes think as I have this morning, that although that which I have to present to you might be presented better by someone else than by myself, that does not for a moment release me from the responsibility that rests upon me.

I have heard the president of the church say that no man was excused until he had first made attempt to do that which was required of him; so remember, you who are younger in the ministry than your speaker, if the president of the church ever asks you to do anything, go and try to do it, and if you fail, let me tell you, you will never find a kinder or more sympathetic friend, than you will in him who requests you to do that work; and I believe that this is but a manifestation of Him whom we seek to serve, that when He asks us to discharge a duty, and we shall make the effort to discharge that duty, then he will help us, and our infirmities will be an appeal to His sympathy to give us strength that we need in the hour thereof.

ELDER R. M. ELVIN.

Simplicity, to me, is the strongest evidence of a desire to do right; and I have thought often of the poor, colored man who was tempted and an effort made to discourage him in his religious efforts when the infidel said to him: "Sambo, you are very religious, you believe in God. Now, what would you do if God commanded you to jump through that stone wall?" And the poor, black man looked at the wall and looked at the one who had made the proposition and said, "Massa, afore God, if God commanded me to jump through that wall, it would be my business to jump, it would be God's business to put me through that wall."

If God requires me to do anything, it is my business to try and do that, and then I am willing to leave the results with my heavenly Father. Now "wise men lay up knowledge."

I am glad this morning, glad from the deep recesses of my heart, that I can look up toward my heavenly Father and say, as wide and as far as my association with the Latter Day Saints has gone, that there is a universal testimony that rises up from all directions, that our people desire to become wise and acquainted with all the duties that God has imposed upon them. Somewhere back there in the tradition of the elders, I do not know when, and where, and how it came about, but I can remember it in my early youth. I hear but very little of it at the present time, there was so frequently said to us that all we had to do was to go out and open our mouths and God would fill them; and there is a degree of truth in this, there is a degree of what is right in this, but for one let me say, that my understanding of this is that I shall not go with an empty head; that there shall be stored up in the store-house of knowledge, that which will be for my good, and for the good of my fellow creatures, that I have laid to heart the lessons of the past; that I have been studiously engaged in gathering together a goodly store of that which shall help me in the discharge of every duty; and then when the hour and the necessity comes, and I stand up trusting to my heavenly Father, the Spirit of God will go to that store-house of knowledge that I have already laid up and He will bring out of that store-house, and bring on the tongue such words as shall be words of comfort, and cheer, and instruction to those who shall hear and listen.

For one, I pledge you this morning, that I refuse to become as a fledgling in the nest and open my mouth to receive bug or worm as the mother bird may bring them, without first knowing what it is. I have reached that stage of manhood that I do not propose to receive and adopt as a part of my belief and life-work, the statement of any man nor any set of men, until I am satisfied that God will set the seal of his approval thereon, and when I have that seal, then I shall abide thereby.

This requires study, it requires consideration and prayer; it requires an acquaintance with that which is contained in our text books. It is an astonishment to me when I come in contact with those in any form of what is called Mormonism by the world, that they shall go out to preach the gospel, and that they manifest their ignorance of the text books and the history of the church. And permit me to counsel you people of the Reorganization that are here present this morning, that in your getting knowledge—and above all things get knowledge—let me urge upon you that the foundation, that the leading text books of your acquiring knowledge shall be as God directed; the Bible, the Book of Mormon and the book of Doctrine and Covenants, and then add to it the history of this church from its earliest incipency up to the present time; and if you have time to acquire additional knowledge, then go out according to the direction that is laid down in these books, that you may acquire that knowledge, and you will discover that there is a cherishing fountain that will spring up unto eternal life in accepting God at his word, and doing that which he has commanded and directed you to do.

You will have the strength and confidence that when your faith is assailed, you will have right away in the knowledge box that God has intended that you shall keep well filled, the answer to give to every man in the hour that he shall demand of you. You will not be at a loss for the Spirit will come instantly and tell you what will be the proper answer to the question that is presented.

Now there is a work in this, and while our subject this morning is not strictly of a religious character, there is a religious business connected with it; and you will discover already that there is something at the end of Bro. Elvin's talk to you that points in that direction. We wish to read a little notice in the Herald for August 29, 1900, on page 571, being this week's Herald:

GRACELAND COLLEGE NOTICE.

Graceland college will open on the 11th of September. Current expenses will have to be met. Bro. R. M. Elvin has been requested and authorized by the trustees to visit the different branches and solicit subscriptions to help pay the running expenses which will be at the lowest calculation three hundred and fifty dollars per month. We cannot afford to borrow any more money to run the college. We have about forty yearly twenty-five dollar subscriptions. We need sixty more. Will the Saints and friends of the college come to the rescue? Trusting that the Saints will receive Bro. Elvin in a friendly, practical spirit, that this branch of the work may be a grand success. Yours for the triumph of every church institution,

WM. ANDERSON,

President Board of Trustees.

This clearly sets before you why we have chosen wisdom or knowledge as the theme of conversation, and that this may be spread wider and more helpful to others; that there is an undertaking in the church, and that work is the work that we shall present to you this morning. I ask your attention to the Book of Covenants, and perhaps the most of my time will be occupied in this book on this particular subject. Section 122, paragraph 13, page 373 of the Book of Covenants, as I hold it in my hand, reads as follows:

"The Spirit saith further, The Twelve should remain in Lamoni and continue in council with the Presidency and the Bishop and his Counselors if practicable, a sufficient time after the adjournment of Conference to counsel together, and agree on the things of the law and the general affairs of the church, so that when the traveling Council shall separate for their several fields, there may be no longer reason for distrust, suspicion, or dissention, and if these officers will so counsel together in the spirit of moderation and mutual forbearance and concession, my law will be more perfectly understood by them, and a unity of sentiment and purpose will be reached by them. It is the will of your Lord and your God that this should be done. It should have been done before; but the adversary hath hindered, desiring to prevent the success of my work in the earth."

The adversary had prevented the culmination of a certain work that was not brought about until 1894, and as wise men, as a church, we should have the guidance of God's Holy Spirit, we should not permit that there should come within our breasts or within our ranks, anything that may bring about a recurrence of that of the past, when the wrong or the misfortunes that the Lord speaks of, should recur to distress or harass the people of God. We should be wise, that there should not again come to us any distress, any suspicion or any dissension, and we ought to be wise in laying up the knowledge, that whenever there comes to us a difference of views, that at once we accept the counsel of God, and in moderation and with mutual forbearance and making needed concessions, not compromising God's law in that which is right, and concessions of the radical positions perhaps that we may have occupied, that there may be no "sprag in the wheel," as a coal digger would say, that the cause of God may not be hindered, but that it may grandly, and in all its parts, move steadily upward to the accomplishment of that whereunto God hath directed it.

I turn next to section 123, I read paragraphs 1-6 and 29, on pages 375, 6, and 381. You will see the reason for reading these.

"In compliance with the requirement of paragraph 13 of the revelation received during conference and by agreement between the quorums affected, the first presidency, the twelve, and the bishopric met in joint council in the editor's room of the Herald office, at 9 a. m., Friday, April 20, 1894. There were present, Joseph Smith, and W. W. Blair, of the first presidency; Alexander H. Smith, E. C. Briggs, James Caffall, W. H. Kelley, J. H. Lake, J. R. Lambert, Heman C. Smith, Joseph Luff, and Gomer T. Griffiths, of the twelve; E. L. Kelley, G. H. Hilliard and E. A. Blakeslee, of the bishopric."

Paragraph 3. "A number of questions were named and noted for discussion, and considerable informal talk was indulged in, after which resolutions were presented, discussed and adopted in the following order, all decisions being finally made unanimous with the sole exception noted:—

LAMONI COLLEGE.

Paragraph 4. "Resolved, That you look with favor upon the effort to build a college at Lamoni, to be controlled by the church."

Paragraph 5. "Resolved, Further, that we believe it should be purely an educational institution and free from sectarian influence or bias."

Paragraph 6. "Resolved, Further, that we give our hearty support to the present movement, looking in the above direction." And in the 29th paragraph of this section, it reads:

"Thus ended the work of the council convened in accordance with the requirement of the revelation which had been formally accepted by the church. All present were convinced that the appointment had been wisely made and that the results were and would be such as would fully attest the divinity of the call."

One of the things considered by that council that we have this endorsement from, was the college at Lamoni: and this was to be an institution of learning. We turn now to section 85, paragraph 36, page 226, and in that section we read:

"Therefore, verily I say unto you, my friends, call your solemn assembly, as I have commanded you; and as all have not faith, seek ye diligently and teach one another words of wisdom; yea, seek ye out of the best books words of wisdom; seek learning even by study, and also by faith. Organize yourselves; prepare every needful thing, and establish a house, even a house of prayer, a house of fasting, a house of faith, a house of learning, a house of glory, a house of order, a house of God; that your incomings may be in the name of the Lord; that your outgoings may be in the name of the Lord; that all your salutations may be in the name of the Lord, with uplifted hands unto the Most High."

With all the work that we should do for the church, we are not permitted to neglect this house of learning, where education may be furnished to the youth of the church. Let no one here understand that the college was built by the church with the intention that it was to furnish to the leading men of the church a place at which they might educate their children at the expense of the church, for the college was built that every one coming knocking at the door, might receive the same opportunity and the same privilege. It is to be a house of learning, not a house in which preachers will be made—far be it from the church that we should reach the conclusion that we must have a place after the manner of the world to prepare our ministry in the college, and send them out. That would be incompatible with the teachings of the church for the past seventy years. Do not for a single moment think that the church is changing from its position, that God has the right to select his ministers wherever he sees fit to select them; whether the man is capable of reading a single verse in the Bible, or whether he may be a graduate from the best college in the land. That is not the condition or status of qualification: the qualification that God looks at is the purity of the individual's intention, and his desire to serve God, and his willingness to work for God; but if God shall select him while he is unable to read "a b c," it is no reason in the world that he should remain there. God expects him to become a student and to advance steadily.

The world has said that the putative founder of this church was an ignorant man; possibly, in a certain sense, that was true; but if true when God first called him in his youth, it is not true at the time that he laid down his life for the testimony of the Lord Jesus Christ. So long as life remains, I am a student at the feet of every man who can bring intelligence and knowledge and light to me; and I expect to progress forward steadily; and after I have laid down this life, in the higher school I expect still to be a student at the feet of the great teachers in that sweet by and by.

Now this book tells me that we are to seek for this knowledge. I turn to section 90, paragraph 12, page 289; I find here an additional encouragement for my thus seeking knowledge:

"And verily I say unto you, that it is my will that you should hasten to translate my scriptures, and to obtain a knowledge of history and of countries, and of kingdoms, of laws of God and man; and all this for the salvation of Zion."

My view of Zion and her work; I try to lift it up and make it a cosmopolitan work—a world work. I believe that the eternal God foreshowed in the thought presented by the Lord Jesus Christ to his apostles when he said, "Go ye into all the world and preach the gospel to every creature," is a component part of the mission that we have to perform; and let me tell you that there came to me a beautiful lesson of the necessity of this knowledge. I heard Representative Dooliver of Iowa (he sits in the halls of Congress); was a possible candidate for president or vice-president of these United States. In that speech he told us that when Dewey went down to Manila and sank Montejó's fleet, and the question was, What was the Government going to do with Manila and the Philippine Islands. The next question was, Where are they? He says, "I took the Atlas and I looked around Cuba and those southern islands in the Caribbean Sea and Gulf of Mexico and I found no Philippine Islands; and then I looked up and down the shores of the Pacific and I saw no Philippine Islands, and I wondered what about my geography? Where are these Philippine Islands? I thought they lay right at our door, but," he says, "I hunted and I searched and after I got ten thousand miles away I found them, and to my astonishment I found more than a thousand of these Islands and more than ten million people occupying them there."

GRACELAND COLLEGE.

I do not know how many elders, if they had been pressed to tell when this Spanish-American war first broke out, had they been asked concerning the whereabouts of the Philippine Islands, would have been prepared to answer. But here is a commandment given away back there in the early history of the church which is binding upon you and me, that we are to have a knowledge of history and countries and nations. And the object or reason why this knowledge is to be entertained, retained and preserved by the church is for the welfare of Zion.

There is the reason for it. God never spoke a vain word to his people, but we have perhaps been neglectful for all these many years in acquiring the necessary knowledge. I believe that it is a matter of duty which rests upon the church that individual members thereof make a study of every nation, her laws and the governments thereof; of every island and wherever the face of man is found; that we should become acquainted and be well prepared to answer when God shall say, Go hither with the gospel.

Now, the college has fallen into the misfortune of fighting debt and some have thought that this debt was in the building of it. Part of this debt has been accumulated by reason of borrowing money for the running expenses and the increase of interest. I believe in round numbers the church is paying about fifteen hundred dollars a year interest upon the indebtedness, and the effort was made last April—and it was a wise movement, I think—in which there were sent out subscription lists throughout the church that you should subscribe twenty-five dollars and only a thousand of these subscriptions would meet the entire indebtedness of the church upon the college, so your twenty-five dollars pays the entire indebtedness.

I was talking with Bro. Kelley the other day about this, and he told me that he was going to call these subscription lists in the first day of next month and make an immediate effort to settle the indebtedness; Bro. Kelley will take care of that; but there is something else we trustees have to provide for, there is something else we have to look after and that is this: The college will have to be run, and we will have to raise money from the Saints. We have nowhere else to go, and as you read in this notice, about three hundred and fifty dollars per month for ten months will be thirty-five hundred dollars per year we will have to raise.

The raising of the twenty-five thousand dollars to pay the debt embarrasses the Board of Trustees for the reason that those who contribute to the paying of the debt do not feel like paying for the running expenses, and the embarrassment for this year will be the hardest year that Grace Land College perhaps will ever have. We have here blank contracts; these contracts propose to you that if you will take one of these contracts running for five years, paying twenty-five dollars annually, that you have a five year scholarship in the school and this is transferable. If you haven't a child of your own, you may select a child and the contract is good until the scholarship is received, until the work is received by the scholar. If you do not feel that you are able to meet that, confer with one of your brothers, and if you can unite, two of you may subscribe. This is payable twenty-five dollars annually. This is one of the means by which we may expect to meet this immediate demand.

We further plead with you for immediate help, donations right out, if you can afford it; and every college in the broad land receives these donations from those who can afford it. We have not received a proposition from any individual for a million dollars, more or less, but we will be satisfied with the twenty-fives or the fifties or the hundreds as they may come to us. But this is a work of the church. The responsibility rests upon you, and as a Trustee recognized of my fellow brethren of the Trustees, I feel the responsibility resting upon me to present this matter plainly to you and to tell you that I believe it will be disastrous to the church if you fail, and allow that college to go down. I believe it is to the interests of the church, to the interests of our work, now, and for all time to come, that it shall be sustained and made a success. But we need more than your money; we need your words of encouragement and cheer. We have a library; we need what books you may feel able to donate to it. We have there a museum; we need what curiosities you may send there to attract the attention. We have many curiosities and these are attractive.

We have a herbarium there, and we need the selections of vegetation from all parts of the world. I have written to England, to the Sandwich Islands and the Philippine Islands, California and elsewhere asking for help in that direction. We want to make it a success; we want our young men and women who shall go in there shall come out bright people, not only in the affairs of life and to battle with the affairs of life, but we want that when they come out of there, if God shall so direct them, that they shall be grander and better able and fitted to represent this glorious work, this truth of heaven.

Some are busy finding fault with what has been done and is now being done, forgetting that the whole of this work and responsibility resulted from the several acts of the General Conferences.

Now to the grumblers and disgruntled a parting word; Holy Writ says.

"Give, give and it shall be given unto you; good measure, pressed down, and shaken together, and running over, shall men give into your bosom. For with the same measure that ye mete withal, it shall be measured to you again."—Luke 6: 38.

Some have gone so far in their opposition to this work of the church that they advocate the payment of the debt and the burning of the building.

"Perhaps thou shalt say, The man [church] has brought upon himself [itself, the church] his misery; therefore I will stay my hand, and will not give unto him [the church] of my food, nor impart unto him [the church] of my substance, that he may not suffer, for his punishments are just. But I say unto you, O man, who-soever doeth this, the same hath great cause to repent: and except he repenteth of that which he hath done, he perisheth forever, and hath no interest in the kingdom of God."—Mosiah 2:3.

We beg! not for our individual necessities, but for the cause of God—the work of the church; will you permit us to beg in vain?

To one and all, let me close this appeal with the inspired and truthful words of Paul:

"But this I say, He which soweth sparingly, shall reap also sparingly; and he which soweth bountifully, shall reap also bountifully. Every man according as he purposeth in his heart, so let him give; not grudgingly, or of necessity: for God loveth a cheerful giver."—2 Cor. 9: 6, 7.

Do you desire that we write you up and report you to the next Conference as among those whom God loveth?

JOTS BY THE WAYSIDE.

BY T. V. CHATBURN.

Tent meetings are still in order, weather could not be nicer for the purpose. Six have been baptized here. Bro. G. T. Griffiths and Alexander H. Smith have gone north to attend the Oakland reunion. Bro. Alexander will return in October.

The Los Angeles reunion was not declared off by Apostle G. T. Griffiths—as published of late—but by the agreement and concurrence of the officers and missionaries of Southern California district. We all thought, because of the drought, the expenses would be too great for the Saints this year in their straitened conditions, and the sequel has, I think, proved the action was correct.

We received a flaming poster of the Stewartsville meeting, the names were familiar ones indeed; dads and grandads of the "Far West reunion." We "sighed for the days of auld land Zion."

The Brighamites are still whining; their whine before the city council and cowardly attack of the officers of Santa Ana was a real boomerang. President Nye was sent for, and from mis-statements and whines from his little ones, he rushes into the papers; poor Chatburn. However, he has not seen the inside of the hobo cell yet. "Brigham" told it straight when he dared the world to "produce as mean devils and as smooth liars as his elders."—Journal of Discourses, volume 4, page 77. Of course Bro. Nye will call this persecution. Please look up the Journal, Bro. Nye, and take your medicine.

We are glad Bro. Nye quotes us from the ENSIGN so freely, it's an indication he is reading; read on Bro. Nye; don't whine, but meet squarely the record you have made, or discard and repudiate it as simply "Brighamism" and a very low grade at that. Be a man, don't whine; do you hear me, Bro. Nye?

A Very Peculiar Incident.

Upon the eventful morning of May 3, 1884, a little before one o'clock a. m. myself and wife were very suddenly aroused from slumber by some unusual rapping at the sitting room door; her ear seemingly first caught the unexpected sound, and in a kind of an irritative and sharp manner said, "Sam, Sam, there is some one at the door." With this I sprang to my feet and was instantly there, interrogating sharply, "Who's there?" Receiving no answer, I opened the door and to my surprise beheld my wife's brother, Joseph D. Charles, with nothing on him as clothing but shirt, drawers and socks, standing in the following position: his back as if leaning a little against the kitchen wall fronting me, his right leg crossing his left, and having procured a broom had turned it end for end and was as if resting his arms and head upon its sweeping part. In the midst of my amazement from the peculiarity of the scene I said, "My God, Joe, is this you?" Receiving no answer I repeated sharply, "Joe, is this you?" But still no answer came. This brought my wife and her father (now deceased) to see for themselves. In order to make this narrative as plain as possible to the reader I will here state that at this epoch I had not been long in married life, but had gone to live with my wife's parents, it being advantageous to us as well as an accommodation to them, as the old dear mother at this time was suffering from sickness, which in a little while after liberated her from all earthly toil and care. Bro. Jos. D. Charles was also married, and like myself, living with his wife's parents or rather occupying an upstairs room in their dwelling, nearly three-quarters of a mile between us. Joseph at this juncture was and had been extremely ill for quite a time, suffering severely, from which he departed this life May 12, 1900.

Receiving, as we said, no answer to my repeated inquiry, "Joe, is this you?" I took him in my arms as a child and carried him to the sofa, whereupon he awoke, emphasizing the saying, "Thank God I am delivered." "Sam," he continued, "go, will you, for the elders that I may be administered unto."

My father, Samuel Garland, is an elder and residing some twenty or more rods west of the dwelling; I immediately called on him, who upon hearing my say quickly responded, and with Joseph's father, Elder Thomas Charles present as before stated, they unitedly administered to him. Great power attended the ministration, but not to his entire recovery.

After a little time had elapsed,

Joseph said, "Sam, will you step across to our house and acquaint Emma of my whereabouts?" I replied that I would and immediately started; making nearly a straight cut east across the slough, having, as before stated, nearly three-quarters of a mile to go; and upon my journey as I might have expected by a little forethought, it having rained heavily the whole of the entire day before, flooding the slough, etc., my legs even with rubber boots on became extremely wet by the grass and brush laying in my pathless way. Upon my returning home as I took the road, being much farther around, mud and clay was ankle deep.

Upon arriving at the house I found the whole of the family sound asleep as if nothing uncommon had occurred—especially his wife whom I had come, as stated, to notify of her husband's whereabouts—with doors that had been locked the night previous open and ajar, one of which could not have been opened by Joseph as the key was not accessible, being on the other side of the door. This amazed a little the whole of us.

The writer will make this inquiry more especially to those in Christ who believe in and preach a restored gospel with signs and wonders following. What power was it that escorted Bro. Joseph D. Charles from one dwelling to the other in the dead of this dense and dark night? Did he arise from his "sick couch" when in dreamland and travel alone the described distance? If so, why was there not the slightest symptoms of the perilous "sleep-walk upon him"; when I myself a few hours later undertook the task and had become besmeared with mud, clay and wet and that extremely so. Was he conveyed by some friendly mortal in a vehicle of some kind? If so, who was the merciful one that did the saintly deed? Surely it would have come to light ere this, a period of sixteen years having elapsed since the strange occurrence.

The question might be asked, and that wisely perhaps, What great blessing did he derive by being "delivered" as stated, when he first spoke? This I suppose, he imagined that he would find better nursing and care at home with his dear parents, but the more especially by his sister Carrie, my wife, as his wife, poor soul, was unable to do for him as desired and means productive of comfort very limited I can assure you. And another may be asked, Why was not the affair made public ere this? It was not agreeable with his feelings that it should be so; he had made it known to some of the brethren and they seemed to make light of it, as if the merciful God would hardly notice poor Joe. Hence it seemed in the province of wisdom to let it rest until now after his demise. More of interest might be said, but we forbear by just inserting that Joseph repeatedly informed us of the whole affair, how it transpired, as he had been in prayer to our heavenly Father for "deliverance" for several days and miraculously found it at last. More anon. To the truthfulness of this narrative we in the fear of God sign our names.

SAMUEL GARLAND, JR.
CARRIE GARLAND (Wife).
SAMUEL GARLAND, SR.
KEWANEE, Henry Co., Ill., Aug. 15.

ADVISORY COMMITTEE.

Mrs. Mary E. Hulmes, Pres., Independence, Mo.
Mrs. J. H. Robinson, Cor. Sec., Independence, Mo.
Mrs. B. C. Smith, Independence, Mo.
Mrs. Lucile, Eisenhower, Kansas City, Mo.
Mrs. Clara Fricke, Independence, Mo.
Mrs. Callie B. Stebbins, Recording Sec., Lamoni, Ia.
Mrs. Anna Murphy, Treas., Independence, Mo.

DAUGHTERS OF ZION DEPARTMENT.

+ MRS. H. B. CURTIS, Editor. +

SALUTATORY.

It was not without prayerful consideration that I felt to yield to the request of the Advisory Board to take charge of this space in the ENSIGN so kindly accorded them by the management, to enter upon the work required of me in these columns; and I do so, not because I feel competent in the fullest sense, but because I know the Lord will always second our "best," and furthermore, believe I am acting in harmony with his will concerning the work I should do in his cause.

I address myself particularly to the girls at this time, because we very much desire to interest them in the great work the older minds have brought out; and here, in these columns, by the free interchange of thought and experience, we hope to teach our young and growing girls to wear, with royal dignity, the great crown of womanhood, and later, wife and motherhood.

I believe more is required of Latter Day Saint womanhood than any other. There are many good, christian homes throughout the land, but we, who have more of the truth than others, must let our light truly shine, and, as women, can best do that in our homes.

I would not have you old and wise beyond your years, but do earnestly pray that just a bit of the responsibility that is ours may rest upon your lives, like the shadow upon the hilltops at noonday, that veils and refreshes but does not conceal nor darken the beauty of the landscape.

In the beginning God made woman the helper and home maker; and it rests with us to magnify our calling. Man goes out into the different avocations of life, and upon us devolves the duty of sustaining him with good, pure homes, the fragrance of which will linger about him like the perfume to a flower, and sweeten other lives than his own. Perhaps he goes into the mission field. Who can estimate the help a strong courageous wife will be, or how the knowledge of a good home will hedge him about and preserve him from the temptations that wait upon him in this line of duty, perhaps to a greater extent than any other. Let us think of these things, and determine within ourselves we will be that which God, in his wonderful economy, designed we should be, in the great latter day plan of salvation.

We are living in the days when Zion is to be rebuilt. "Zion" means the pure in heart. Does that not call for better and wiser men, women and homes? Ah yes! That is the great and far reaching purpose of the Daughters of Zion—to improve upon that which we have, and provide better for the future.

The mightiest and noblest work of nature is given into our hands. To no mean extent we make the world what it is. Look into the vista of the future, girls, and see what perfect, cultured womanhood can accomplish. It is a glorious thing to be a woman, a true woman, such as we are going to learn to be. Let us all work together through this medium that has been opened to us, willing, one and all, to receive and impart strength that will establish us more firmly in our true sphere; and our faith.

I have not left my girlhood so far behind me that I cannot realize what it is to be a fun-loving girl, but life has taught me some lessons that I would teach you, and the most important is that woman is at her best in her home, and in all the conditions of life I have seen the truth of the saying—"The hand that rocks the cradle, rules the world."—Rules it for good or ill.

We will aim to move steadily, even though slowly perhaps, keeping our eyes fixed upon the mark of our high calling, which is set in the heavens, and, like the star the wise men followed, stands still above mother and child.

I will compare a good woman to a beautiful sail ship cutting its way through the water. Silently but steadily she keeps to her course, responsive ever to the touch of the guiding master hand; and her influence, like the waves that follow after the ship, forever follows her, forever widens, until it reaches from shore to shore.

To the older Daughters of Zion I can only say that the best impulses of my heart and life are centered in this question of good homes; and I yield them my service gladly, willingly, but humbly withal, trusting that whatever mistakes I may make (and I surely will make some), they will believe are those of the head, and not the heart; and for all such I bespeak their indulgence.

I hope we may all so work together in harmony, that our individual efforts may go up to the throne of God as one great effort, and there be accepted of him. I pray that his blessing may be upon us, that this reaching out by the mothers in Israel may prove to be a gathering in and cementing together of those who love the latter day work.

It appeals to me in this wise: the young learning at the feet of those who have passed through the experiences of life; the old drawing their inspiration and strength from on high, all united and happy as mother and daughter in truth.

Again soliciting the hearty cooperation of young and old, and asking that you remember me always in what I desire to accomplish, I remain,

Your sister in Christ,
Mrs. H. B. CURTIS.
St. Louis, Mo., Sept. 22.

What the Boxers Think of Us.

We are accustomed to look at the Chinese as backward, unprogressive, wedded to the past in fact, as not more than half civilized. That being our view of them, it will be interesting to know what they think of us.

"You English only look at Chinese matters from your own point of view. Oh, if you could only look at them from ours! Western civilization is to us a thing of yesterday. Chinese civilization is unnumbered thousands of years old.

"But, as I say, we have outgrown it all. From the experience of past centuries we have learned wisdom. Our passions and ambitions have settled down into a calm desire for happiness in this world.

"Against this we protest. We want to be let alone. When we ask you to go away you refuse; and you even threaten us if we do not give you our harbors, our land, our towns.

"Our missionaries come with a new religion, upon the main principles of which they are bitterly divided themselves. They tell us that, unless we accept their doctrines, we shall suffer eternal punishment. They frighten our children and the most weak-minded of our older people, and create all kinds of dissensions between families and individuals.

"If we wanted your railroads and machines we could buy them, but we do not. We have learned to do without them: Yet you say you will force us to buy them. Is that just? I say it is an impertinence, an outrage.

CANCER.

A BLOOD DISEASE AND CURABLE. Editor of Zion's Ensign:—Twenty or twenty-five years ago, old Dr. Gillam, the distinguished specialist of Atlanta, demonstrated that Cancer, in any form, was due to a malignant, deadly poison in the blood, and by using B. B. B. (Botanic Blood Balm) this poison was gradually drained from the system, then the sores healed, and a real permanent cure was made.

"Lately an eating Cancer broke out in my head and ears, and ate all the small bones out of my mouth, and I could scarcely eat and talk. I could eat a little strained soup, that was all. I tried nine doctors, but none could cure me, my case was pronounced hopeless, so I tried B. B. B., and was cured. The disease made me most deaf. B. B. B. helped my hearing.

We will send any reader of Zion's Ensign a sample bottle of B. B. B. free of charge, and prepaid, so they may test the medicine and know for themselves that B. B. B. is the remedy for cancer, eating sores, ulcers, persistent eruptions, and all malignant blood troubles.

EVANELIA LOST, a duet by Bro. J. Cole Moxon. Fine souvenir engraving of the little gospel boat. Everyone should possess a copy. Not a very great many of them left, better send in your orders for one or more before there is nothing left you but regrets that you do not possess a copy.

Learn Shorthand.

A Knowledge of Shorthand and Typewriting Will Enable You to Be Self-sustaining.

The Missouri Shorthand College of St. Louis, Mo., is one of the Leading Shorthand Institutions in the United States.

Persons intending the acquirement of shorthand and typewriting should select a responsible school, otherwise their time and money are wasted.

As success in shorthand is largely dependent on the teacher as well as pupil, it is absolutely necessary that instructors should be practical shorthand writers and no others are competent to teach.

The Principal of "The Missouri Shorthand College" is John H. Schofield, the well known journalist and shorthand writer, and member of the National Shorthand Writers' Association.

Prof. E. Benjamin Andrews, now Chancellor of Nebraska University, and recently Superintendent of Chicago Schools, comments on his character and ability as follows:

Board of Education, Schiller Building, Chicago, Feb. 21, 1900.

Mr. John H. Schofield is well and favorably known to me as the successful director of a large shorthand college in Providence, R. I.

E. BENJAMIN ANDREWS, Superintendent of Schools.

Commenting on Mr. Schofield's ability and character, President E. G. Robinson of Brown University, Providence, R. I., contributes the following:

Brown University, Providence, R. I. I have known Mr. John H. Schofield for years as stenographic reporter for the Providence Journal. His work has given special satisfaction to all parties concerned.

President Brown University.

Brother Fabrician, of La Salle College, Philadelphia, Pa., adds the following testimonial:

La Salle College, Philadelphia, Pa. Mr. John H. Schofield: My Dear Sir: It gives me much pleasure to say a timely word to bear witness to your character as a man and your ability as a journalist and shorthand writer.

BRO. FABRICIAN.

Those so situated that they cannot attend school sessions, taught by mail, as Principal John H. Schofield has had gratifying success by this method of teaching. Mail students who will devote two hours daily to practice, cannot fail to obtain a good general knowledge of shorthand in twenty weeks.

As a knowledge of shorthand is of no practical utility unless able to spell and compose correctly, students deficient in these things are taught without extra charge. Shorthand and typewriting furnishes lucrative, as well as pleasant employment for both sexes, but more especially for young ladies, as there are always positions for those who are capable and competent.

Positions Secured

for Graduates. Instruction in Bookkeeping and full Commercial Course if Desired. Room and Board furnished pupils from abroad at moderate rates.

THE MISSOURI SHORTHAND COLLEGE, No. 918 Pine St., ST. LOUIS, MO., MISSOURI.

STATE SAVINGS BANK OF LAMONI.

Incorporated under the laws of the State of Iowa, July 1, 1898.

Offers depositors a safe bank for their savings, and solicits the correspondence and deposits of all persons desiring to save their money. Send money by Bank Draft, or Express or Post Office order, or Registered Letter, or your private check on any bank in the United States or Canada, and direct your letter to W. A. Hopkins, Cashier of the State Savings Bank of Lamoni, at Lamoni, Iowa.

DR. JOS. MATHER, PHYSICIAN.

Office, Liberty St., One Door South of Chrisman-Sawyer Bank.

Phone 100-3. Independence, Mo.

RESIDENCE, 301 S. SPRING ST.

CALLS ANSWERED NIGHT OR DAY.

A SPECIAL BARGAIN.

$575. For 6 Acres, with small cottage, barn, etc., in West Lamoni. Only small payment required to secure a valuable home. Lock Box No. 7, Lamoni, Iowa.

Broken Bric-a-Bracs.

Mr. Major, the famous cement man, of New York, explains some very interesting facts about Major's Cement.

The multitudes who use this standard article know that it is many hundred per cent better than other cements for which similar claims are made, but a great many do not know why. The simple reason is that Mr. Major uses the best materials ever discovered and other manufacturers do not use them, because they are too expensive and do not allow large profits.

Major's Cement retails at fifteen cents and twenty-five cents a barrel, and when a dealer tries to sell a substitute you can depend upon it that his only object is to make larger profit.

The profit on Major's Cement is as much as any dealer ought to make on any cement. And this is doubly true in view of the fact that each dealer gets his share of the benefits of Major's cementing, with new amounts to over $5,000 a month throughout the country. Established in 1876.

Insist on having Major's Cement. Don't accept any other brand unless you are sure you are getting the genuine. If you are at all handy (and you will be likely to find that you are a good deal more so than you imagine) you can repair your rubber boots and family shoes, and many other rubber and leather articles, with Major's Rubber Cement and Major's Leather Cement.

If your druggist cannot supply you, it will be forwarded by mail; either kind. Free of postage.

SUBSCRIBE FOR THE

College City Chronicle The Leading Local Paper of LAMONI, IOWA. Published Weekly by the Chronicle Publishing Co.

Two Boxes of Quit-to-Bac Cured Him.

"KIEL, Okla., March 29, 1900. "Bro. Ordway:—I have been enabled to quit tobacco after the use of two boxes of your antidote (Quit-to-bac). I have used tobacco for thirty years and both chewed and smoked plug tobacco.

Three boxes of Quit-to-bac sent postpaid anywhere in the United States or Canada for only $1.50, with positive guarantee. Pure or money cheerfully refunded. U. S. postage stamps taken. You run no risk, why not be free from this God-condemned habit? Address, (Bro.) B. F. ORDWAY, Peoria, Ill.

Low Rates.

HOME SEEKERS' EXCURSIONS.

The Missouri Pacific Railway and the Iron Mountain Route are now running a series of excursions to the west and southwest and to points in Arkansas, Louisiana and Texas, at the very low rate of one fare for the round trip, plus two dollars. Detailed information will be cheerfully furnished, as well as tickets, time cards, and illustrated pamphlets on the various states, by addressing H. C. Townsend, General Passenger and Ticket Agent, St. Louis, Mo., or F. A. Millard, City Agent, Independence, Mo.

WITH SOOTHING BALMY OILS. Cancers, Tumors, Piles, Fistulas, Bleeds, Eczema and all Skin and Wound Diseases. In Watson, Michigan, Mo., Cancer Cure cured. Dr. Bye, of Lamoni, Iowa, writes: "I have cured a large number of cases of Cancer of the Breast, Cervix, Uterus, Ovary, Bladder, and all other parts of the body. My cure is simple, safe, and permanent. Address, Dr. Bye, Cor. 9th and Broadway, KANSAS CITY, MO."

THEY ADMIT IT.

Bro. Hull, Chaucery, Ohio, says we saved him $12.00 on a $13.00 suit. Bro. Farrell, West Sullivan, Maine, writes that we saved him $5.00 on a $7.00 suit. Youth's heavy three-piece suit, age 12 to 19, $3.50. Goods are all sent prepaid.

MEN'S SUITS. Black, all wool worsted Men's Suits, four button, round or square cut. 14 ounce $7.00; 16 ounce $7.25; 18 ounce $8.25; 20 ounce $8.75. Extra fine, strictly all wool Oxford steel gray, heavy; worth $18.00, price $9.00.

FRANCE ALBERT SUITS. Same goods as above. 14 oz. $9.50; 16 oz. $10.00; 18 oz. $11.00; 20 oz. $11.50. 14 oz. French Twill. Sacks, worth $13.00, price $9.00. Prince Alberts, worth $25.00, $13.50.

MEASUREMENTS.—Give size of bust around chest just under arms with coat off, size of waist, length of In seam of pant leg, your height and weight.

Make all drafts, express and money orders payable at Seymour, Mo. Send all communications, letters, orders and registered letters to Cumorah, Mo. THE E. T. ATWELL CO. Cumorah, Mo.

D. F. NICHOLSON, H. C. NICHOLSON, Cashier, Asst. Cashier.

COMMERCIAL BANK, LAMONI, IOWA.

Ample responsibility. Five per cent interest paid on time deposits. Correspondence solicited. Farms and town property for sale.

R. R. TIME TABLES.

MISSOURI PACIFIC—MAIN LINE DEPOT.

Table with 2 columns: Train Name/Number and Time. Includes routes to Wichita, Kansas, Texas, St. Louis, Lexington, and Past Mail.

" 81—Joplin and K. C. Mail... 3:16 " 1—St. Louis Mail and Ex... 5:17 " 5—St. Louis Mail... 5:55 " 1—Lexington Branch Pass... 6:45

TRAINS EAST. " 96—K. C. & Wichita Mail... 2:52 " 72—Lexington Branch Pass... 6:53

LIBERTY STREET DEPOT. TRAINS WEST. " 70—Lex. Branch Pass... 8:30 a.m. " 71—" " " 8:40 p.m.

TRAINS EAST. " 72—Lex. Branch Pass... 6:56 a.m. " 73—" " " 6:15 p.m.

CHICAGO & ALTON. EAST BOUND. " 101—Local Way Freight... 7:40 " 47—St. Louis & Chicago Mail... 8:27

WEST BOUND. " 60—St. Louis Limited... 6:55 " 62—Chicago Limited... 8:08

" 102—Local Way Freight... 8:20 " 48—Chicago & St. Louis Mail... 8:50 All trains make regular stops. Through tickets to all points in the United States and Canada. For further information regarding rates, etc., call on Tel. 29. J. W. DUGAN, Agent. J. CHABRON, G. P. & T. Agt., Chicago.

An Object Lesson.

As evidencing some of the varied experiences an editor meets we give our readers a part of a letter sent to us for publication. The other part was "prepared", and published. No one should write for publication unless they have something to say which will be of service in uplifting others and cheering them on in their warfare.

Now I am going to say just what I think I think I have enough to keep my writing delayed. I married a man that does not belong to any denomination an more than that dont want me to. eny one hast to have a good lot of gret to do eny thing. an I have rote 6 or 6 letters to the Editor and have not seen my nam in the enygn but once, an If thire is eny thing in them Worth printing rot me to go to eny truble but I cant afford to take your paper if you cant acountences me.

CONFERENCE MINUTES.

Conference of the Utah district convened at Pleasant Grove, Utah, September 8, 1900; Elder D. W. Wight was chosen to preside and Elder W. S. Pender secretary. Branches reporting: Ogden, 63; Pleasant Grove, 72; Salt Lake, 160; Provo, 90. Ministry reporting: Elders W. S. Pender, Peter Anderson, R. J. Parker, S. D. Condit, R. R. Dana, D. W. Wight, H. B. Sterrett, Priest James Downs; Teacher John Hendrickson. Bishop's agent reported: Balance on hand last report, $58.87; receipts, $229.60; expenditures, $202.99; balance on hand, $85.48. Officers elected: Missionary in charge chosen president; Sr. Maggie McLane sustained secretary and Sr. J. D. Cooper bishop's agent.

Following named were selected delegates to the next General Conference: Bro. John Hendrickson, Peter Anderson, R. J. Parker, S. D. Condit, W. S. Pender, D. W. Wight, R. R. Dana and Sr. Flora Phillips. Conference adjourned subject to call of president. W. S. PENDER, Sec. Pittsburg district conference assembled at Fairview, West Virginia, September 8, 1900, at 10 a. m., Elders J. F. McDowell and James Craig were chosen to preside, James Ralsbeck and J. E. Ebeling secretaries. Credential committee, L. A. Serig, L. D. Ullom and Thos. Gaskill. Branch reports: Pittsburg, 161; Wheeling, 160; Fayette City, 60; Fairview, 50; Beaver falls, 15; Gann, no report. Elders reporting: James Craig, baptized 3; V. M. Goodrich, J. B. Wayt, J. F. McDowell, C. Edward Miller, L. D. Ullom (baptized 6), W. H. Forbes, R. Perrie, O. J. Tary (baptized 5), Priests: John Bright, W. W. Hodge, Louis A. Serig (baptized 1), J. F. A. Smith, W. E. Rush, Thos. Gaskill. Teachers: H. L. Jenner, T. S. Hadfield. Deacons: J. E. Ebeling, E. E. Omohundro. Bishop's agent's report: receipts, $1,135.47; expenditures, $954.32; balance on hand, $181.15. Report audited by L. A. Serig and Robt. Perrie and found correct. Bro. McDowell made a statement as to the condition of the work in the district, and the growing interest in the financial part of the work. Bro. Craig spoke of the condition of the work as seen from his view point. Statements were heard from two of the delegates to General Conference. Upon recommendation from Fairview branch, Bro. Jasper Dobbs was ordained teacher, and McClellan Lydick a deacon, Bro. McDowell and Perrie officiating by request. J. F. McDowell was sustained as district president, and James Craig as associate president; E. E. Omohundro as secretary, and L. D. Ullom as bishop's agent. The routine business of conference having now practically closed, action was taken by those interested in organizing a district Sunday School Association, the schools in the district favoring such action. The following brethren were elected as officers until next conference: J. F. McDowell, superintendent; James Craig, assistant; L. A. Serig, secretary; J. E. Ebeling, treasurer. Preaching 7:45 p. m., Sunday, 10:30 a. m. preaching; 2:30 p. m., social meeting with sacrament. A few sick ones were administered to, after this service Bro. Craig baptized a Mr. Carr. The preaching was done by J. F. McDowell, James Craig and Robert Perrie. Conference closed to meet in Wheeling, West Virginia, March 2, 1901, at 2 p. m. Sunday School association Friday evening, March 1st, at 7:30 p. m. A peaceful, spiritual season was enjoyed throughout.

E. E. OMOHUNDRO. 435 6th Ave., PITTSBURG, Pa.

Conference of the Philadelphia district convened at Baldwin, Maryland, August 25th, Geo. W. Robley chosen to preside, F. G. Pitt, associate; E. B. Hull, secretary. Branch reports: Philadelphia 107, gain 2; Baldwin 57, no change.

Ministry reporting: Elders F. G. Pitt, G. W. Robley; Priests D. C. Carter, H. H. Bacon, M. O. Matthews; Teachers A. D. Angus, J. V. Carter; Deacon H. Hargon. Treasurer reported: On hand at last report $3.11; collected $4.65; expended $4.25; balance $3.51. The license of Deacon John Swank was ordered recalled. F. G. Pitt was elected district president, E. B. Hull, secretary and treasurer. John Zimmerman was sustained as bishop's agent. Preaching Saturday evening and Sunday evening by F. G. Pitt, and Sunday afternoon by G. W. Robley. On the 26th Priest M. O. Matthews baptized his daughter, Lulu E. Matthews; and Ira Humes was ordained a deacon. Adjourned, time and place left to district president.

E. B. HULL, Sec. Northwest Kansas conference convened on camp ground at Minneapolis, August 11th, J. F. McClure in charge, assisted by H. A. Stebbins; Ella Landers secretary.

Ministry reporting: Elders W. H. Manning, J. A. Davis, Wm. Landers, J. F. McClure, Alma Kent. Priests L. G. Gurwell and W. S. Hodson. Branches reporting: Blue Rapids, Solomon River, Beloit, Rural Dale, Scandia, Idylwild. Branches not reported: Homestead and Norcaur.

Bishop's agent, Arthur Smith, reported amount on hand last report, March 17th, $132.75; received since, $224.05; paid out, $158.25; balance on hand, $199.45. Books audited; found correct.

Officers elected, Alma Kent, president; Ella Landers, secretary; Edwin Sandy, treasurer. Motion carried to buy a horse and buggy for our missionaries. Presidents of branches appointed as committee to solicit money for this purpose. Clerk of district and missionaries to ask help from scattered members. Money, when collected, to be given to bishop's agent, A. Smith. Adjourned to meet at Idylwild in light of moon in November. ELLA LANDERS, Sec. STOCKTON, Kans., Sept. 12.

Convention Minutes. Convention of the Northeast Missouri district association met in Higbee, June 14 and 15, 1900. District superintendent, Louise Palfrey, being absent, assistant superintendent, Sr.

Mary J. Richards, very ably superintended the meetings. Geo. A. Tryon was secretary.

Bevier and Higbee Sunday Schools reported. Superintendents' reports were had from Bro. Robert Thurbuck and David L. Morgan.

Treasurer's report was read, referred to an auditing committee and found correct, as follows: Balance February 8, 1900, $5.88; receipts $6.84, expenditures, 20 cents; balance on hand $12.50.

Librarian of the district, Wm. Chapman, reported. The report was adopted and on motion his request to get report books was granted. Bills of expense were allowed of superintendent 75 cents, assistant superintendent $2.40, secretary 71 cents, librarian 12 cents.

Resignation of Sr. Louise Palfrey, as superintendent of district, was accepted, and election of one to fill her place was deferred till next convention.

The local choir, with the assistance of Sr. Thurburn, helped in the convention to the pleasure of all present. Considerable time was spent in institute work, the discussion of questions of interest to workers in the district. The Sunday School Sunday morning was well attended. All of the district officers were present except one. The school was divided into six classes. There were fifty scholars and after the class work the school was reviewed by Bro. I. N. White. Although the work in some parts of the district was slow, the convention was an enjoyable and profitable one. Adjourned to meet at Pollock, October 5, 1900.

G. A. TRYON, Sec. Grove Meeting.

The annual grove meeting of the New Marion, Indiana, branch was held September 1st, continuing over the 9th. District President M. R. Scott was present and had charge; M. Anna Camren, secretary. David Hurbaugh, J. J. Boswell and M. Anna Camren, were appointed a committee on arrangements. Sunday morning the stand was occupied by W. H. Kelley and G. Jenkins, subject, "The Two Covenants," followed in the afternoon by M. R. Scott and David Hurbaugh, on the "Plan of Salvation" evening, W. C. Marshall and J. J. Boswell, subject, "The Narrow Way." Monday evening G. Jenkins and J. J. Boswell took up the subject of "Duty of the Creature to the Creator."

Meetings were held each evening during the week and three discourses on Sunday, the 9th, with increasing interest. There were several visiting Saints from a distance whose presence was gladly welcomed. Prayer and social meetings were held afternoons at the Saints' homes, which were much enjoyed. In all there were thirteen discourses delivered, wherein the true principles of the gospel were set forth in a clear and Biblical manner. We think much good was done. M. ANNA CAMREN.

Resolutions of Condolence. The following preamble and resolutions were passed by the Independence local Religio, at a special meeting Sunday, September 23, 1900:

WHEREAS, In the infinite wisdom of God he has seen fit to remove our brother, John C. Hitchcock, from our midst, thus depriving us of the direction and incalculable assistance he so willingly rendered. Therefore, be it, Resolved, That we, as a society of Religians, express our deep sympathy for his immediate family and friends; and be it further Resolved, That it is the sense of this society, that in the death of our co-worker and friend, the Religio sustains a most serious loss, and while we deplore the necessity for his removal, yet we bow to the will of Him who doeth all things well. And be it further Resolved, That a copy of these resolutions be sent to the church publications.

MARIE H. CLARK, ELO McNICOLS, CARRIE E. POINTELL, Com.

NOTICES.

To All Whom it May Concern: This is to certify that by mutual consent Bro. R. T. Walters is transferred from the South Missouri district, to the Central Illinois district, by reason of an urgent demand for an efficient laborer for that district.

L. N. WHITE, Minister in General Charge. INDEPENDENCE, Mo., Sept. 21.

This is to certify that Bro. Earl Cortwell is appointed to labor in the Independence and Clinton, Missouri, districts, in the stead of Bro. Les Quick, who has been released at his own request, the First Presidency and Bishop concurring in this appointment.

L. N. WHITE, Minister in General Charge. INDEPENDENCE, Mo., Sept. 21.

To scattered members of church in Northwest Kansas district:—We have not names of all so take this means of asking you to help in buying a conveyance for our missionaries. We have been offered a buggy or road wagon "at reduced rates or cost." Now is our chance to give in a much needed cause. It will be a great saving for us, as well as provide a way for our missionaries to travel without depending on railroad trains, and enable them to reach points that are now somewhat neglected. Please read action of district conference as reported, and send remittances to Idylwild, Clay county, Kansas. A. SMITH, Bishop's Agent. IDYLWILD, Clay Co., Kas., Sept. 12.

A Correction. The notice of the Sunday School convention in the Clinton district, as appeared in last week's issue of ENSIGN, should read October 5th instead of October 12th.

WARREN McDELVAIN, Sec. EL DORADO SPRINGS, Mo., Sept. 24.

Conference Notices. The conference of the Northeastern Illinois district convenes at Plano, Illinois, October 6th and 7th. Branch clerks will please have their reports up to and including September 22d.

HENRY SOUTHWICK, Dist. Pres. The semi-annual conference of southern California district will meet at 10 a. m., October 26th, with the Newport branch. Branches please take notice and be properly represented by delegates.

Saturday afternoon will be devoted to the Sunday School work. Let all come who can and thus keep pace with the work. A. CARMICHAEL, Pres.

The Northeastern Illinois district conference will convene October 6th and 7th, at the stone church at Plano, Illinois. Branch officers will please see that their respective branches are correctly and fully reported. The ministry are required to report in writing, so please see to it, that your reports are in. Come one and all and come prepared for a good, profitable time.

HENRY SOUTHWICK, Dist. Pres. WILLIAMS BAY, Wis., Sept. 22. Northern Michigan district conference will convene at Beaverton, October 13th, at 10 a. m. We hope there may be a good representation, both of officers and members. Branch secretaries please see that statistical reports are properly made out and sent in. Elders, priests, teachers and deacons send in written reports as the laws and usages of the church require, and if convenient be present in person. Please send all branch and ministerial reports to C. B. Joice, South Boardman, Michigan. After October 6th, Beaverton, Michigan, care of J. A. Carpenter.

J. A. GRANT, Prea. C. B. JOICE, Sec. WEST BAY CITY, Mich., Sept. 18. Galland's Grove district conference will convene at the Saints' chapel, Galland's Grove, Iowa, Saturday, October 27, 1900, at 10 o'clock, a. m., continuing over Sunday. We hope every branch in the district will forward their reports to our district secretary, Sr. Nellie Rudd, Dow City, Iowa, at least five days before the time for conference to convene. All local ministers and branch officers will please send their individual reports to the district secretary in due time.

A PURE GRAPE CREAM OF TARTAR POWDER

Highest Honors, World's Fair Gold Medal, Midwinter Fair Avoid Baking Powders containing alum. They are injurious to health

In addition to your reports to conference it is necessary that every minister and branch officer in the district should send an itemized report of their labors to C. E. Butterworth, Dow City, Iowa, by the first of October, January and March, in order that he may be enabled to make a full report to our general missionary in charge, J. W. Wight, in harmony with instructions received. We have prepared and sent you blanks on which to make out your reports, hoping that all would report promptly.

C. E. BUTTERWORTH, J. M. BAKER, Pres. Dow City, Ia., Sept. 13.

MARRIED.

SELBY-SCHROEDER.—At the home of the bride's parents near Lebeck, Missouri, September 16, 1900, John H. Selby and Sr. Mattie Schroeder, Elder Abner Lloyd officiating. A few of their immediate friends only were present.

COUGHS KILL

We know of nothing better than coughing to tear the lining of your throat and lungs. It is better than wet feet to cause bronchitis and pneumonia. Only keep it up and you will succeed in reducing your weight, losing your appetite, bringing on a slow fever, and making everything exactly right for the germs of consumption. Better kill your cough before it kills you.

Ayer's Cherry Pectoral

kills coughs of every kind. A 25 cent bottle is just right for an ordinary cough; for the harder coughs of bronchitis you will need a 50 cent bottle; and for the coughs of consumption the one dollar size is most economical.

"My cough reduced me to a mere skeleton. I tried many remedies, but they all failed. After using the Cherry Pectoral I immediately began to improve, and three bottles restored me to health. I believe I owe my life to it." EDNA F. MORGAN, Oct. 7, 1888, Haverhill, Va.

ZION'S ENSIGN.

"OUR CREED: ALL TRUTH."

VOLUME 11.

INDEPENDENCE, MISSOURI, THURSDAY, OCTOBER 4, 1900.

NUMBER 40.

ZION'S ENSIGN.

A Literary and Religious Newspaper, published in the interest of social, scientific and religious truth, every Thursday, at Independence, Jackson County, Missouri.

PRICE, $1.00 PER YEAR, IN ADVANCE.

ENSIGN PUBLISHING HOUSE,
Of the Reorganized Church of Jesus Christ of Latter Day Saints.

W. H. GARRETT, EDITOR.
J. W. LUFF, BUSINESS MANAGER.

Make all remittances, and address all communications to ENSIGN PUBLISHING HOUSE, Box B, Independence, Jackson County, Missouri.

New subscriptions can begin at any time.

If possible to avoid it, never send silver as it is liable to wear through the envelope and be lost. Always give the name of the post office to which your paper is sent or we can not find your name on our lists.

When sending your address changed, give both the old and new address.

Papers will be discontinued one month from the time subscriptions expire, unless ordered continued.

In making remittances, money orders are preferable for they are absolutely safe. If you can send it, do not send coin or stamps. Canadian stamps are an entire loss, and Canadian currency is only worth ninety cents on the dollar to us, for that is all we can get for it at the banks.

Letters should be addressed, and orders and drafts made payable to

ENSIGN PUBLISHING HOUSE,
Independence, Mo.

Box B.

WHY FAILURES.

Our divine Lord, after his crucifixion, came to his disciples, and among other gracious and kindly gifts, promised his followers, included that of the healing of the sick. The language attributed to him by the sacred writer is:

They shall lay hands on the sick and they shall recover."—Mark 16: 18.

James, the apostle, also wrote:

Is any sick among you? [Saints] let him call for the elders of the church: and let them pray over him, anointing him with oil in the name of the Lord: and the prayer of faith shall save the sick, and the Lord shall raise him up; and if he have committed sins, they shall be forgiven him."—James 5: 14, 15.

The terms in which these statements are given are very positive: they "shall recover," the Lord shall raise him up; and yet among those who believe these promises, and who have accepted—obeyed—the gospel as Jesus our Lord committed it, men, women and children die, and, apparently, this promise, made so definitely, fails. To these cases the scornful and unbelieving refer as proof positive that God does not now heal the sick as he promised; and that it is not now an ordinance of the gospel though he once did establish it as such. And they angrily insist in instances where the illness has resulted fatally, that if a physician had been called in time the result would have been different, the patient would have been healed; as though it was an acknowledged fact that physicians possess a sure panacea for every ailment, and people never die under treatment of even the most skillful of practitioners.

Some who oppose the teachings or claim that the healing of the sick is a gospel ordinance, or one of the gospel gifts in our day, make a comparison of the example shown in the continued illness, or death of some who has had this ordinance administered to them many times, seemingly ineffectively, and the administrations of the Savior; they point to His work and assert that He healed every one who came to Him; they then make the deduction that if the ministry of this church were sent of Him, and authorized by Him to administer in this manner today, the sick thus administered to, would, in every case, be healed, which conclusion they think both logical and convincing.

We are not going to assert that our Savior did not heal every case which came to Him—we had much rather believe that He did—we are confident if He did not, it was through no flaw in his authority, or that He was unwilling to do so; but at the same time there is not the least proof for the assumption that such was a fact, nor does it detract from His majesty, power or glory as the Only Begotten of the Father, to say that it is possible, that even when He ministered, some may not have been healed, as was the case with some of the ministrations of His apostles. It will be remembered that not until after his resurrection was all power in heaven and in earth given into his hands, though it is certain that He did possess the requisite authority to administer the gospel, and to make promises under its ordinances which are certain of fulfillment.

Let us suppose in this connection, a not improbable case,—at least it is not in this age, and men are alike in all ages; the traits of character we see manifest now are but the repetition of that which was manifest when our Lord was in the active ministry upon the earth—and the promise of healing was predicated upon the right exercise of faith in the promises of God, because of faith in the Lord Jesus. Now, suppose a man had presented himself, having some ailment, who did not believe He was the Savior of the world, the Son of God, but sought for a sign, a manifestation of His wonder-working power, and which, if received, would straightway be ascribed to Savior influences; and the Savior refusing to gratify so unworthy a demand, it would be sneeringly ascribed to His lack of power, and as an evidence that He was not sent of God. Is it reasonable to suppose that such an individual would be gratified by being healed of his infirmities? Many such cases have been met today, is it unreasonable to suppose they were manifest in the Savior's time in the earth?

Can any one present a satisfactory explanation as to why it was necessary for the Savior to anoint the man's eyes twice before he fully received his sight, as related in Mark 8: 22-25, upon any other hypothesis than that there was a lack of proper conditions existing somewhere? Again, it is recorded in Mark 6: 5, 6, that He could in his own country on a certain occasion do no mighty work, "save that he laid his hands upon a few sick folk and healed them. And he marvelled at their unbelief." If the eternal Father cannot save men unless they exercise faith in Him, and manifest a willingness to comply with His revealed will, can, or rather, will He be likely to do that which is not of so great an importance as compared with the necessity of the spiritual man—heal their bodies—unless they have faith and comply with His law.

But whether or not the Savior really did heal every one who came asking His clemency and ministrations, is not essential to the explanation as to why all sick are not now healed. No one will claim that the apostles healed every one, if they are conversant with the New Testament. In the case of every one, there certainly did, at a time when the most faithful ministrations, the most earnest of supplications, availed not against the powers of disease and death, for all, without an exception outside of the Apostle John, and some few others on this continent have died; "it is appointed unto man once to die." The apostles could not cure the young man possessed of the devil (Matt. 17: 14-21) because they lacked faith. Yet they probably had healed others on other occasions, as had the seventy (Luke 10: 9, 17). Paul, mighty as he was in faith, was compelled to leave Trophimus sick at Miletum. (2 Tim. 4: 20).

The fact is, it is, and always must be, a matter subject to the wisdom and will of our heavenly Father that the sick are healed by His power, through the means He has appointed.

The thousands of cases where miraculous healings have been performed under this ordinance are seldom mentioned abroad—they are occurring almost daily, and often in cases where physicians of skill and integrity have said there was no hope, and from a human standpoint it was true; but the Lord has mercifully intervened, and through the administration of His servants has miraculously restored health to those who were afflicted. But it is not blazoned abroad. Thanking to God for his blessings is manifest, but only a few are generally acquainted with the circumstances, outside of those of the family connections. But when there does happen a case wherein the Lord takes the individual from earthlife, it is assumed at once as an evidence that there is no gifts of healing in the church today, just as men will point to an unruly member of a church as a sample of all who belong to the church. This is wrong, and no fair-minded person will judge from such evidence.

The scriptures provide for the ordinance for the healing of the sick; as has been shown, abundant promise is given that when the conditions are obeyed—obedience to the gospel—the Lord will recognize such lawful act, and bless with health, if the sick are not at that time "appointed unto death;" hence some other reason than that urged by its opponents must be found when those who comply with the gospel laws are not healed under its administration. God is true, loving and wise; His promises endure forever; they never fail.

EXTRACTS FROM LETTERS.

ELDER F. C. KECK, Maysville, Arkansas, Sept. 28:

We are now in the middle of a debate with Elder Carlin of the Baptist Church. E. A. Davis is doing the debating on our side and I am acting as his moderator. So far we are perfectly satisfied that truth is gaining the victory and God is standing by His servant and the work introduced by Joseph Smith. Good crowds.

BRO. WILLIS W. KEARNEY is at Sedalia, Missouri, and is trying to get some of the people interested in the gospel message. He says:

While here working at my trade I have been talking the gospel to a most excellent young man and his wife; they seem much interested and want to investigate. Bro. J. A. Robinson's testimony in Herald for September 12th was grand and made a favorable impression upon these people. I also added my own testimony in the same line. I am trying to do what I can for the gospel we all love.

ELDER H. O. SMITH, McGee, Indian Territory, September 15th:

I went to a Methodist and Baptist joint meeting last night; got a chance to hand a few tracts to the people and took one subscription for the ENSIGN. Was holding meetings here and they came in and crowded me out; I baptize two or three tomorrow and have gotten the thinking element interested. May continue next week if they close tomorrow; if not, will go to Wilburton. You may give my address as Wilburton, Indian Territory, in care of Peter Adamson, until October 15th; as next month is report month for all the missionaries they will want to know my address.

BRO. ALBERT T. DAVIS, Rosedale, Kansas, Sept. 23:

Last Thursday evening wound up a series of preaching services conducted here in Rosedale under the management of Bro. J. D. White, which has, we think, resulted in much good to those who heard. While the numbers out to hear were small, the preaching was excellent. We have heard some favorable remarks since the meetings have closed from those living near the meeting place, so we are not discouraged yet, but still entertain hopes that in the near future the Saints can have the gospel again proclaimed to the citizens of Rosedale. While we realize there are many who will not hear, we believe there are also many who will. It is by the preaching of God's word that the honest in heart come to "understanding" and "learn doctrine." As they hear and learn, the news becomes "glad tidings." May the blessings of God attend the preaching of His word everywhere in the prayer of your brother in gospel bonds.

ELDER G. H. GRAVES, Chicago, Illinois, September 29th:

I love street work because I can reach many of our brethren who will not come in a mission to hear this blessed gospel. Prejudice is dying out here; on September 22d and 23d I had the pleasure of standing on the street with three colored ministers and two white ones; they started their meeting at 8 o'clock which lasted till 11 p. m., and the writer was chosen to speak last, which I did with pleasure. On the 24th I preached at the Salvation Hall to a good crowd, and my heavenly Father blessed me with good liberty. I expect this winter to preach around in a good many places in this city. Have already been invited by some. May the colored people come up higher, is the prayer of your colored missionary.

ELDER T. O. KELLEY writes from Morris Chapel, Tennessee, September 14th:

Our work moves slowly along in this mission. Elder C. L. Snow and I held a very interesting meeting near Fulton, Kentucky, from August 25th to September 2d. We had the assistance of Bro. D. W. Cook on the first night, he preaching the introductory sermon. Crowds not large, but attentive. It has seldom been my good fortune to see such good listeners. Three were baptized, all good material, others were moved to tears under the Spirit's power. Several near the kingdom, and prospect fair for a branch organization in the not very distant future. Good prospects also at Davis chapel, Marshall county, Kentucky, where quite a number of fine people are interested, and to whom it is a pleasure to preach, because of their interest in hearing the glad story. Will hold a protracted meeting there, commencing 2d Saturday and Sunday in October. Hope there will be a troubling of the water at that time.

BRO. F. M. WILLE, West Oakland, California, September 8:

Our reunion here is, in my opinion, a success; three baptisms yesterday, the preaching grand, joy and happiness pictured on every face. I do not like to give anyone the preference; all are giving precious pearls of truth and dropping them in heart's deep well. The attention is all that can be desired, the Saint's testimony meetings are much enjoyed also many are melted to tears, and eternal loyalty is pledged to Him who bore our griefs and suffered for our transgressions. May your kind admonition bring to speedy terms all those who are in arrears to one of those gospel helps which specially cheers the isolated, and may the usefulness of the ENSIGN, together with all church publications, increase till it shall be called for, and be as indispensable to those that wish to grow spiritually as the daily bread that we all need in order to live. With love to all workers who labor in bringing forth the kingdom of God and establishing righteousness. I am your brother and co-laborer in Christ.

A LATTER DAY SONG.

BY ALICE R. CONSON.

My heart overflows with the joys of salvation,
I'm longing to tell it abroad,
How Christ will soon come, the desire of all nations,
And with us take up His abode,
And if we would His presence and brightness endure,
Our souls must be cleansed till all spots and stains are gone,
Our election and calling will then be made sure.

No time then, O Saints, for the fashion and folly,
That lures but to ruin at last;
Our Master has said: "Be ye perfect and holy,
Lest ye from my presence be cast."
No time for the pleasures that die in a day,
No time to heap wealth that will soon melt away,
Nor to gather up treasures to rust and decay.

Only time to be sure for the Master's returning,
Our robes are kept spotless and white,
Our lamps filled with oil, and trimmed and kept burning,
That wanderers, seeing the light
And hearing the voice that is bidding them "come,"
May find the one pathway that leadeth them home,
No more in the deserts of darkness to roam.

All glory to God who so plainly has shown me
The way to my glorified home,
Tho' a wanderer long, yet He ever has known me,
And sought me and wooed me to come,
Remitting my sins and my fears all dispelling,
When I heard and obeyed, Oh, 'tis joy beyond telling,
What wonder my heart with sweet rapture is swelling.

Oh! all ye who hear, will ye list to the story,
And seek for the kingdom today?
Straight and narrow the path, but it leadeth to glory,
And 'twas Jesus that marked out the way,
And shall we not follow though all men deride?
What need we to fear with His Spirit to guide?
His grace is sufficient whate'er may betide.

Where else can we go, for Babylon is falling,
The day of her doom draweth near;
'Come ye out, Oh, my people,' the Master is calling,
Oh, who will be wise and give ear?
Nor think in the wilderness you are secure,
Nor in refuge man-made that shall not endure,
It is only the house on the rock stands secure.

3829 4th St., Fulton, Richmond, Va.

GENERAL CHURCH NEWS.

INDEPENDENCE.

Bro. Arthur Smith, of Lamoni, Iowa, is visiting in our city.

Our editor is in attendance at the World's Reunion at Dow City, Iowa.

Bro. Leonard White, son of Bro. and Sr. Alfred White, has purchased the dairy business of Bro. John Allison.

Three hundred and seventeen were in attendance at Sunday School Sunday morning. At eleven o'clock Elder Joseph Luff was the speaker, and Elder R. J. Parker at night.

Bro. W. H. Garrett, branch president, being absent, Bro. J. W. Layton, presiding priest, was in charge of the regular branch business meeting Monday night. Bro. T. J. Poulkes was received on certificate of baptism, and letters of removal were granted Sr. Celestia Weldon to San Jose, California, branch, and William Tillery to Delano, Missouri, branch. The matter of placing hot air furnaces in the church before cold weather was discussed at some length, and resulted in the appointing of a special business meeting for one week from next Monday night (October 15th), to consider the matter. The branch should be well represented at that time.

LAMONI, IOWA.

We could fully appreciate the glorious sun and clear sky of yesterday after having passed through a very gloomy, stormy week. We again had an excellent attendance at Sunday School, there being present four hundred and three. Bishop Wm. Anderson addressed the Saints at morning service and Elder G. J. Whitehead at the evening hour. Usual prayer service was held at 2:30, in charge of President J. A. Gunsolley and Elder S. Ackerly.

Elder I. N. Roberts spoke yesterday morning and evening at Evergreen church.

We regret that we omitted to mention in last week's items, the baptism of Sr. Howard White, which occurred on the 19th inst. Elder D. C. White officiated in the ordinance. She was confirmed at the Wednesday evening prayer meeting under the hands of Bishop E. L. Kelley and Elder D. C. White. The little babe of Bro. and Sr. Howard White was blessed at the same meeting by Brn. White and Kelley.

President Joseph Smith left Wednesday noon for Dow City reunion; and Bro. John Smith in the interests of Herald Publishing Company, and Bro. R. M. Elvin in the interests of Grace-land College, departed Friday night.

Elder I. N. Roberts was here a few days last week on business. He leaves tomorrow for Stewartsville, Missouri, thence to Dow City reunion; Bishop E. L. Kelley is also an attendant at the reunion.

Apostles W. H. Kelley and Heman C. Smith left for their respective fields of labor last week.

Bro. Geo. Blair stated at the Sunday School yesterday that he would, next Sunday, present his resignation as superintendent, the reason being that he will no longer be located in Lamoni, having decided to engage in the banking business at Keokuk, Iowa. It is a source of regret, not only to the Sunday School that they should lose their wise and faithful superintendent, but to the branch in general.

Sr. Mabel Blair had the most comfortable day yesterday since her severe accident of ten days ago. She has been remarkably patient and cheerful through all her suffering. Her friends are now permitted to visit her and they are not slow in embracing the opportunity.

Bro. John A. Gardner, of St. Joseph, Missouri, arrived in Lamoni last Wednesday. He will remain indefinitely.

G. L. K.

October 1.

CHICAGO, ILLINOIS.

Branch headquarters, 716 W. Van Buren St., Sunday meetings 2:45 and 7:45 p. m.; Long Mission, 3411 Cottage Grove Ave., 10:45 a. m. and 7:30 p. m.; West Pullman branch, 748 118th St., 10:30 a. m. and 7:30 p. m.; 608 W. 37th St. (colored mission), 10:30 a. m. and 7:30 p. m.

Sr. Fletcher, of Sandwich, with Srs. Randall and Fannie Vernon, of Downers Grove, were with the Saints in their 3 o'clock service yesterday; also the Sabbath School.

Mr. W. A. Webster and Sr. Gracie, his newly wedded wife, have returned from their wedding tour and settled down to real married life.

Mr. F. E. Harnew and Sr. Fannie M. Flood were made happy in marriage at the elder's parsonage on Thursday evening last. From present appearances they have before them a happy married career. So might it be. They will reside near Oak Lawn just outside Chicago city limits. Blessings to you, F. and F.

We hope the reader took our last items for what they meant and not what they said altogether. The typo got us mixed a little.

Bro. Atkins, of Aurora, mingled with the Saints in prayer and worship yesterday. He will spend a few days in the city taking sketches.

We drink the bitter cup of bereavement anew with Sr. Etta M. Hitchcock, in the loss of her widely known and much beloved husband, John C. With our John he has preceded us a few days to the better estate. Our hope is like a cherishing fountain under such trying ordeals.

Bro. H. A. Stebbins is expected to spend Sunday, October 14th, with us; occupying at 3411 Cottage Grove, at 11 a. m. and at 716 Van Buren street, at 3 p. m., and if able and willing at West Pullman at night.

But a few will attend the Plano conference from here so the meetings will go on as usual. Union service at the mission beginning at 8 o'clock; preaching morning and evening, also Sabbath School and preaching at headquarters at usual hours; Bro. S. C. Good occupying at 3 p. m., if in the city.

Sr. Dottie Logan, daughter of Bro. and Sr. Good, has lately returned from a protracted visitation to health resorts. She is benefited yet not wholly restored. She was at her post in the temple of service yesterday.

Our street work is about done on account of the weather, so we must look after other means to spread the word to this great city. How would cottage meetings do? We shall see.

Yours in hope and good cheer,

J. M. TERRY,

395 Ogden Ave., Oct. 1.

SECOND KANSAS CITY BRANCH.

Elder A. H. Parsons preached at the eleven o'clock service, in Bro. McIntosh's house, assisted by Bro. Thomas Newton. He spoke upon the scripture found in the sixth paragraph, section 90, page 238 of Doctrine and Covenants. Earl H. Babcock was baptized in the Armstrong font, by Elder Joseph Emmett, and confirmed at the afternoon prayer meeting, of this branch, by Brn. Parsons and Emmett. In the evening Bro. Parsons preached a very edifying sermon, with plainness that was easily understood, showing forth forty points of identification, or reasons, for the hope that is within us, whereby those who are seeking the body of Christ, or the Church of the living God, the Lamb's bride, may recognize the system organized by the First Born. He referred to Scripture for authority. The gospel should consist of faith, repentance, baptism, laying on of hands for four objects, conferring the Holy Spirit, blessing of children, healing of the sick, and for ordination to the priesthood; name, Church of Jesus Christ; inspiration, revelation; priesthood, consisting of apostles, prophets, bishops, evangelists, pastors, teachers and deacons; gifts of Spirit consisting of wisdom, knowledge, faith, healing, miracles, prophecy, discerning of spirits, tongues, interpretation of tongues, fruits of the Spirit consisting of virtue, love, joy, peace, longsuffering, meekness, gentleness, temperance and patience. Any organization that has not all these land marks cannot successfully establish a claim as the covenant people of God.

JOHN C. GRAINGER.

October 1.

SAN FRANCISCO, CALIFORNIA.

Services at Golden West Hall, 320 Post street, every Sunday. Sunday School 10 a. m.; preaching 11 a. m. and 7:30 p. m.; prayer meeting first Sunday of each month at 12:15 noon. Elder C. A. Parkin presiding elder, residence 3010 16th street.

We had a full house at our prayer meeting September 12th. It was almost like a conference, there were nine elders in attendance; it was a very pleasant meeting, enjoyed by all.

We had preaching Sunday, 16th, at 11 o'clock, by Alexander H. Smith, and at 7:30 by G. T. Griffiths. There was a good attendance at both sessions, and remarks were much enjoyed by all.

Tuesday evening we had a special business meeting, to consider the ways and means to further advance the cause in our city and neighboring towns. All were united in their desire to do all they could to help the work. Some interesting experiences in church work were related by the missionaries.

Wednesday, Bro. David was baptized by G. T. Griffiths, and confirmed in the evening by Alexander H. Smith. The prayer meeting was well attended, and the peaceful spirit prevailing was much enjoyed.

There was a full house again Friday evening at the Religio.

We offer our apology to Bro. A. B. Phillips; we got him mixed up with Bro. D. A. Anderson, and have been crediting the latter with work done by the former. Bro. Phillips was the preacher here, while we have been calling him Anderson. It was fine preaching all the same.

Our missionaries are scattered; Bro. R. Etzenhouser is at Sacramento; Fred B. Blair, Lower Lake; G. T. Griffiths, San Jose; A. H. Smith, Santa Rosa; Elders Allen and Hiram Holt are at Walnut Creek; Brn. Chase and Phillips are with the district tent at Golden Gate, Oakland.

GEO. S. LINCOLN.

September 23.

LETTER DEPARTMENT.

NEBLEYVILLE, Mo., Sept. 28.

Dear Ensign:—Bro. Spurlock and myself are now at the home of Bro. Joseph Robertson; expect to commence meeting in a school-house near here tonight. We were here last June and preached a few times and left some apparently interested.

A great deal of the time we are breaking new ground, haven't been privileged to initiate any into the fold of Christ as yet, but have made friends to the work. They are finding out that we do not belong in Utah.

Most of our preaching is in the rural districts as we can hardly ever get a building in town. We were promised the use of the building where the Christians (Campbellites) hold their meetings, in Doniphan, the county seat of Ripley county; but before the time came that we were to occupy we were informed by the minister that they had reversed their decision and we could not get the building, saying they thought we were Adventists when they promised it.

Bro. Spurlock had a short discussion with a Christian minister, commencing September 18th, lasting four days. We feel that good was done, notwithstanding the attendance was small, owing to the busy time of year. It was held in daytime.

We have received through the mail several rolls of church papers, for distribution, for which we desire to thank the senders. If others desire to send papers we will try and see that they are put to good use. Acorn Ridge, Stoddard county, Missouri, will be our address for some time.

Yours hopefully,

GEO. W. BEEBE, Jr.

ROCK ISLAND, Ill., Sept. 30.

Editor Ensign:—The Saints of the tri-cities have got started in their new hall, 902 Rock Island. Both money and labor were freely contributed by the Saints to get the hall in proper condition for meetings. Some additional improvements may be added in the not very remote future. The branch prayer meetings on Wednesday evenings are fairly well attended and are spiritual and interesting. If any of the resident Saints doubt it, let them come and see for themselves. The Religio is having some interesting meetings; a very nice program was rendered by the society at the hall on Saturday evening. Some excellent readings were had, besides other important features. The social closed with a very interesting debate, led by Elder F. A. Russell, one of our live missionaries.

Elders J. W. Adams and F. A. Russell were the speakers Sunday. Bro. Adams preached a good sermon on the mission of Christ. Attendance was very good; twelve or fifteen outsiders were present. Bro. Russell preached a real interesting sermon in the evening on, "The Old Landmarks." A number of outsiders were present. The Sunday School is increasing in numbers, and the outlook is hopeful for continued success. All have need to work. Sr. Benson is sick with malarial fever. Branch business Monday evening, getting reports ready for district conference.

F. M. COOPER.

COOKS POINT, Tex., Sept. 27.

Editor Ensign:—I have visited Brazos, Lee and Robertson counties of late, and preached to the people as circumstances permitted; sickness and business among the people prevented some. I met a doctor at Hearne, in Robertson county, whom I had been acquainted with for about twenty years; he had been a dissipated character and had professed to be an In- fidel in years gone by, but of late had quit drink and joined the Baptist church: I was telling him that I gave him much credit for the reformation, when another doctor, a Methodist preacher, came up and commenced to talk to me. We had not talked long before he told me if he had me tied and off to one side he would teach me something. As a rule preachers are the greatest means in the devil's hands in preventing the people from hearing the truth as contained in the gospel in its fulness. They cry out "Mormonism, delusion," etc., to keep the masses of the people from investigating for themselves. Paul said, "Prove all things and hold fast to that which is good." But "no," says the preachers; they know as long as they keep the people in the dark they can keep them in their ranks; that is the way their mother did in days of yore; she kept the masses of the people in the dark, but when the light was turned on, through God's own appointed means, the honest people rebelled against Romanism; and so it will be with modern Babel, she will fall, for the kingdom that God has set up will break in pieces all these (or other) kingdoms, and will stand forever. I am yours in the conflict until the battle is over.

E. W. NUNLEY.

NEW FLORENCE, MO., Sept. 24.

Editor Ensign:—It has been some time since I have written anything for your columns, but I have not forgotten you. We are doing but little in this part of the vineyard. We have just organized a Sunday School; the writer is the superintendent, and teacher of the Bible class. Myself and wife are the only Saints who live here, but there are some who would join if an elder would come, I think. I wish Bro. I. N. White would send some one to this place to start the work here. We are trying to do what we can to publish the latter day message the best we can, hoping to see some of the elders here soon.

One of my neighbor's children died and a procession followed it to the grave a quarter of a mile long; the writer took charge of the funeral, text Job 19: 26-27. I shall always do the best I can to advance the cause of Christ.

Yours in the faith,

F. M. BASS.

OLD FAR WEST, KERR P. O.,

Sept. 10.

Dear Ensign:—The Stewartsville reunion passed off a grand success to the last; over eight hundred (800) in attendance the last Sunday, September 9th. We had hoped to close with a word of flourish. Bro. Joseph was the closing speaker at 8 a. m.; the 10th, and as he said, the flourish was mostly in the elements, as the wind blew a gale and the rain fell in torrents, but the Saints enjoyed the sermon, which was addressed mostly to them, there being but few other than Saints present. There were thirteen in all baptized during the reunion.

On the following Friday, the 14th, Bro. Benjamin Dice, of Stewartsville, hauled the district tent to this place (Old Far West). Here we met Bro. Swensen, who had preceded us a day, coming from Kingston, where he had been called to preach the funeral sermon of a child. Also Bro. S. F. Cushman arrived about 7 p. m., from Stewartsville, coming on wheel, acting as a sort of fore-runner, but had gotten lost in the hills north of here and came in late. We pitched the tent on Saturday, with the assistance of Bro. Harry Friend and Mr. Dan Carp, others lending us tools and other things. We made all things ready and at 8 p. m. the battle was on, Bro. Swensen the speaker, and thanks to kind providence it was not a battle with shot and shell, as was fought on this very ground in those by-gone days. We have had good attendance and excellent interest, the tent being full Sunday night, notwithstanding the meetings were poorly announced. Oh! how the mighty ones have fallen; right here where the Saints were driven and spoiled, we are invited to return, and an excellent feeling exists towards our people. We have six members here now.

During the day we visit among the people and are kindly received. I have had the pleasure of visiting with Bro. Swensen, Mrs. Sarah Kerr, a daughter of John Whitmer, one of the eight witnesses to the Book of Mormon. She, with her daughter belong to the Whitmerites; they received us kindly and talked of old times, as they had been informed by their parents; they showed us several pictures of old time Saints, among them was the picture of David Whitmer and an oil painting of Oliver Cowdery and wife, the latter a fine piece of art painted from life.

I have visited many places pointed out as the land marks of former times; and as an evidence that the mobbers were really in earnest when they were driving out the Saints, I was shown the stump and parts of one-cotton wood tree which stood near the house of Joseph the Seer, which tree had been cut down and out of it have been picked eighty-four leaden bullets shot there in the troublesome times. I secured five of them myself.

There are fine prospects for the work in this immediate neighborhood and we hope ere long to see the waste places built up. We continue here over Sunday, then to the district conference at the Delano branch, north of Cameron.

Yours in bonds,

WALTER W. SMITH.

TORONTO, Ontario, Sept. 23.

Editor Ensign:—Thanks for your kind acknowledgment of my subscription now being due. Yes, I do wish to receive the Ensign as usual, for it is a comforter and an instructor, for its columns contain that which nourishes, delights and is, of course, strengthening to the Saints of God here on earth. Many, I can say all of my neighbors and shopmates, say both the Saints Herald and the Ensign, in fact all our publications, contain that which is good talk and common sense, yet I am surprised to find so few in our branch who take either the Herald or the Ensign and especially among the priesthood. Well might the Lord say, "My people perish for the lack of knowledge" to Toronto branch.

When I ask the reason why some do not take in these papers, they usually answer they cannot afford it. I ask them if they take in the daily papers, "Oh yes." Then why not the church papers?

One brother, an elder, says to me with a deep sigh, "Oh brother, I wish I could devote more of my time to the Lord's work." I said you can easily do that, and with surprise he looked straight at me, and said, "How?" I said just take in the church papers and educate yourself; set well posted in the doctrines and principles of our church and the restored gospel; then whenever you come in contact with any one else you will be able to instruct them and lend them the church papers, and he being a meek brother accepted my advice without being offended with me. I hope he will see it his duty to put it into practice.

We have nearly got through with our new church and hope to have it ready by conference, October 3d and 4th. We have had a group taken of our church front and its workers or builders. I remain,

Your brother in Christ Jesus,

F. M. FREEMAN.

LOWRY CITY, MO., Sept. 26.

Editor Ensign:—It is raining today so I thought a few jots for ye missionary would interest some, and at the same time let you know that I and my traveling companion, Bro. T. R. White, have not been idle. Bro. White is a most excellent companion to travel with, and an earnest worker in the vineyard of the Lord. We have been blessed in our efforts fairly well as this is our first missionary work. The 30th of this month will have found us putting in our first six months in trying to convince men of this great latter day work. We have visited several sections of the country and made some new openings. At our two days meeting in the Wheatland branch, in Hickory county, we baptized two. This is certainly a most excellent branch, no schisms to be found in it or among any of its members. Oh, how pleasing this is to our Father in heaven. May the Lord continue to bless them.

We came from there west to St. Clair county, seven miles; commenced meetings; held five or six nights; baptized one and others gave their names. Our last effort at that place was to convince them of the divinity of the Book of Mormon. I was requested to take up that subject and I was only too glad for the opportunity. After the services several came to me and said, "Well, you made that so plain, and I do believe it is just as you explained it, and I believe this is the church of Christ." I said, "Now is the time to obey." May "God help them to do so.

This is in the neighborhood where I was raised, and I pray that God will draw them yet into his kingdom, that they may rejoice in the gospel as them of old.

From thence Bro. White came to his home at Lowry City, and I went to Concord school-house and held forth four nights.

Last week we held forth at the Merritt school-house, four miles west of Calhoun, in the Tebo branch; found them thirsting for the gospel, so we, by the help of the Lord, did all we could to quench their thirst.

Conference nearing, we concluded to visit the Lowry City branch, and hold forth a few nights, then go to Rich Hill to attend conference the 6th and 7th of October.

I feel that there is a great deal of good to be done in this section of country and that many will yet obey the truth. It seems to me that we have moved mountains of prejudice; I find the people everywhere we go have been misinformed as to what we believe; they are taught by our enemies that we are Utah Mormons, or in other words, just the same in doctrine. But they are finding out the difference, and it will not be long until all will know that we are the chosen people of God, because of our obedience to the gospel. The Lord keep us faithful.

Your brother in bonds,

J. N. STREPHENSON.

MILLERSBURG, Ill., Sept. 27.

Editor Ensign:—The two days meeting held at this place, September 15th and 16th, was well attended and greatly enjoyed by all present; three were baptized. Bro. Russell and Adams of the missionary force were present and did most of the preaching, which was very good.

I have remained in this vicinity awaiting some correspondence, and last Sabbath visited the old historical Buffalo Prairie Branch, well known to early missionaries of the Reorganization. In company with Bro. J. W. Terry, we arrived at the church in time for Sabbath School, at 10 o'clock. While there is perhaps not as large an attendance as there has been in days that are past, yet we noticed deep earnestness and true devotion on the part of many, to make the work a success. At 11 a. m. the writer, assisted by Elder Terry, preached from the text found in Philippians 3:13, 14.

Buffalo Prairie will ever be remembered by me, for in the little graveyard near by lies the earthly remains of my mother. The work seems to be moving steadily forward in these parts. We notice that some seem to manifest a desire to more fully consecrate themselves to the work, which is good.

May we ever be faithful to the truth is my prayer.

Your brother,
WILL E. LARUE.

SCOTSFIELD, Carbon Co., Utah,

September 26.

Dear Ensign:—I will endeavor to write a few lines for your paper and let you know where we are located. We are at Scofield, Carbon county, Utah, 112 miles from Salt Lake City. My husband belongs to the Brighamites and I belong to the Josephites, as we are called by these people. There are lots of Mormons here and several have been reading my literature. My husband is not satisfied with his church as he don't believe in polygamy or blood-atonement or Adam-God.

I see through the Ensign that Bro. W. S. Pender is in Utah. If this letter should reach his eyes I would very much like for him to call down this way as my husband wants baptism. We knew Bro. Pender in Kansas. I believe there are honest souls here to be saved and I believe he could reach the Mormon church here to preach in. There are two churches here, one in town and one a mile up the canyon from us. The winter has started in here. There is six inches of snow on the mountains. This place is twenty miles from the main line of the Rio Grande Western railroad; there are trains running from the main line here every day. Asking the prayers of all the Saints,

Your sister in Christ,
MRS. NELLIE MYERS.

ALMA, Ill., Sept. 13.

Editor Ensign:—I take this method of thanking you and the dear sisters, Ethel I. Skank, of Henderson, Iowa, and Marie H. Clark, of Kansas City, Missouri, for their kindness in sending me literature for missionary purposes. I also received the twenty-five cents' worth of pamphlets and the book, "From Palmyra to Independence."

I have been giving them to my friends to read, and all who read them seem pleased. They can find no fault with them, only some of them say they cannot believe Joseph Smith was a prophet of God. I say to them, if I can prove it by the Bible they will believe, will they not? They say, yes. Then I give them "Book of Mormon; Evidence of its Divinity," by Elder R. C. Evans, and proceed to explain to them in a way with which all Latter Day Saints are familiar. I then give them Ensigns, Heralds, and other pamphlets. I have the "Voice of Warning" and have been letting them read that, and all seem pleased who have read it.

How could they help but be pleased with this beautiful gospel? I tell them to read and investigate, that if it does not come in harmony with the Bible not to accept it. But I know it is true, and it is like gold; the more you rub it the brighter it will shine. I am so thankful I have been led into the knowledge of the truth that has so blessed my life, once so full of doubt and uncertainty of anything the future held for me, for God does not want us to be in doubt. Jesus says if we will do God's will we shall know of the doctrine, whether it be of God, or whether he (Jesus) speaks of himself. (John 7:16, 17). That is what God's servants are trying to tell the people—God's will; the gospel, as Jesus taught it eighteen hundred years ago, showing them how they may become members of that kingdom and be saved. Showing there has been a great apostasy during the dark ages, but was restored again in 1829 and 1830 according to Revelations 1: 6, 7; Isaiah 29th chapter and Ezekiel 37th chapter.

Since I have been led into the knowledge of the truth my great desire has been to bring others to the same knowledge also. I fully realize that Amos 8:11-13 has been and is being fulfilled today. "Behold, the days come, saith the Lord God, that I will send a famine in the land, not a famine of bread, nor a thirst for water, but of hearing the words of the Lord. And they shall wander from sea to sea, and from the north even to the east, they shall run to and fro to seek the word of the Lord, and shall not find it. In that day shall the fair virgins and young men faint for thirst."

People are seeking to and fro for something higher and better than they have ever known; some join one church, some another, yet they are hungry and thirsty. And to those who are seeking signs, Satan will give them; he has many servants who will perform miracles to make believers; but faith in God "cometh by hearing" the words of God, as told by those whom he has called. Jesus never performed a miracle to gratify morbid curiosity; but instead, he called them an evil, wicked, adulterous generation and tells them plainly that they should have no sign only as his death and resurrection after three days should be a sign unto them. God's way is that signs shall follow the believer; Satan's way is different. And there shall arise false Christs, and false prophets, and they shall show great signs, and wonders, inasmuch that if it were possible they shall deceive the very elect. (Matt. 24: 2-11). False Christs and false prophets are to do the working of miracles to make believers. God will send them strong delusion that they should believe a lie, that they all might be damned who believe not the truth, but have pleasure in unrighteousness. (2 Thes. 2: 8-12). Oh, servants of God, go to all the world and preach this beautiful gospel of Jesus Christ. Feed those hungry and thirsty ones with this bread and water of life, that they may never hunger and thirst again.

I feel my inability to say or do much that would influence others, but as I was brought into the kingdom by the power of God, in answer to prayer, as I have stated in a previous article, and I had made a vow I would work for his kingdom if he would take me in, I feel depressed and condemned every time I neglect an opportunity to speak for Christ; I feel like Paul, necessity is laid upon me, we is me, I teach not this gospel. It is a pleasure to me to work for Jesus, though in my weak way; I feel that if I sow the seed, God will give the increase, and in persecution I try to feel thankful I am accounted worthy to suffer for Jesus' sake, for he that will live godly in Christ Jesus shall suffer persecution. God be praised, I feel like some are not far from the kingdom. Pray with me, dear Saints, that I may be given wisdom in all my efforts, and that my children, brothers and sisters, as well as others, may be brought into the fold.

The first of April my husband went to St. Joseph, Missouri, to work at his trade (which is carpenter) as we wanted to select a home where we could have church privilege, give our children a good education and live in the regions round about Zion. He was taken sick a few days after he got there, with pneumonia; he got better and went to work but the smallpox broke out there and work became so scarce he got discouraged, and receiving a letter from his brother-in-law, living near Pond Creek, Oklahoma Territory, stating they were going to have a house built, and would give him the building of it if he would come out, and they thought he could do well as times were good but there; so he went, their house is built, and another but there is not a house to rent in Pond Creek; he is now working sixteen miles southwest of Pond Creek, building a house for Mr. Orr near Coldwater post office.

If it is God's will I would rather live nearer Zion, but I trust in God to build another branch of our church. Saints near there where there is plenty of work, I would be glad to hear from some one or have them meet him if convenient. I have felt lately that God had a work for me to do here, and would not permit me to leave, and I have heard that God's will will be done. I love this people here and have felt that God had a people here, for Satan has been working so hard to keep down the truth. I have charity for them as on account of the great latter day apostasy the way of truth has been hid spoken of. I pray that I may open up the way so an elder may get a hearing in this place, and these people may hear this beautiful gospel. Satan's host is working hard, God needs brave soldiers in his army, like Paul and others who were willing to risk their lives for the sake of the truth. I am corresponding with several friends and relatives, have told them of the angel's message, and they are interested. I have sent them some literature; one lady, Mrs. John T. Graves, living near Cherokee, Iowa, says she never heard of the Latter Day Saints but once, and she thought it beautiful. She is a Baptist but is not satisfied, wants to hear more about the Saints; she has a sister living in Cherokee. Will some elder please hunt her up and explain the gospel to her? I believe she would obey for her.

Elder M. E. Gowell preached at Brewer chapel from 18th to 21st of August inclusive, at night, and on Sunday, 19th, at 11 a. m., we had our prayer and testimony meeting, and felt that the power of the Spirit was there. Blessings enjoyed by the Saints and association of the Saints as I am not permitted to meet with them often. I enjoy reading the sermons and letters in Ensign and Herald from the dear Saints, Sr. Alice Corson and others. How do you pray we may all so put our names to that God will gather his people to Zion.

Dear Sr. Jennie Page, how my heart goes out to her in her affliction; she seems so patient and humble and seems to have such faith. Can she not be administered to? Have the Saints Prayer Union prayed for her? After all earthly power has failed God can heal her. I pray, if it is his will, she may be healed, and be a living witness for Jesus; but I want to feel to say from my heart, not my will, but thine be done, O God, for we know we have need of patience, that after we have done his will, we should receive the promise.

May the Holy Spirit be with us all, and may we all be ready and waiting when the bridegroom comes. Pray for me that I may be faithful.

Your sister in hope of the first resurrection,

Mrs. Effie J. McCullough.

ZION'S ENSIGN.

Entered at the Post Office at Independence, Mo., as Second Class Matter.

THE MORE EXCELLENT WAY.

BY ELDER T. C. KELLEY.

CHAPTER IV.

I notice here one more objection made by those who do not believe in the saving efficacy of baptism, and then pass on to another line of thought.

It is claimed that the words of Jesus (John 3:5), "born of water," do not mean baptism in water. The writer once held a discussion with a minister who made some pretensions to being a man of learning, and though he would not say what the words, "born of water," did mean, he claimed that they did not mean baptism, and said the idea of baptism was not in the meaning of the word "born" or its original. That the words are figurative, there can be no doubt, and that a real birth in the sense in which the word is ordinarily used, was not meant, is equally certain. What could be the reality of which "born of water" was the figure? Or what idea did Jesus wish to convey when he said, "Except a man be born of water and of the Spirit he cannot enter into the kingdom of God?" I offer the following as the consensus of opinion of the scholars of the world on this subject:

"But does born of water certainly mean baptism? Dr. J. R. Graves, Bro. Moody's senior editor, says: 'born of water' refers to the baptism of one previously born of the Spirit," and then adds: "It means nothing else, and no Baptist that we ever heard or ever read of, ever believed otherwise, until A. Campbell frightened them away from an interpretation that is sustained by the consensus of opinion of all scholars of all denominations in all ages." I have quoted Dr. Graves to establish the one point, that "born of water means baptism."—Nashville Debate, page 142. The debate was between Rev. Moody, Baptist, and Rev. Harding, Christian—Campbellite—and the quotation is from one of Mr. Harding's speeches.

Allowing that Dr. Graves was correct in the above statement, and the fact is established that "born of water means baptism," otherwise, nothing relating to the meaning of words can be established by human testimony. And if, by the words, "born of water," Jesus meant baptism in water, then no one who refuses to be baptized, when the opportunity is afforded him, can hope to enter into the kingdom of God.

From "The History of Sprinkling," by L. C. Wilson, Oskaloosa, Iowa, I quote as follows:

"Timothy Dwight, the greatest Rabbi of Presbyterians the New World has produced, says, Vol. 4, pp. 300, 301: 'To be born again is precisely the same thing as to be born of water and the Spirit.' 'To be born of water is to be baptized.' 'He who, understanding the nature and authority of this institution, refuses to be baptized, WILL NEVER ENTER INTO THE VISIBLE NOR INVISIBLE KINGDOM OF GOD.' So affirms the president of Yale."—p. 132. Again: Dr. Whitby, a scholarly Presbyterian, in commenting on John 3:5, says: "That our Lord here speaks of baptismal regeneration the whole Christian church from its earliest times has invariably taught."—History of Sprinkling, p. 133.

(Thus it is seen that Dr. Graves (Baptist) and Dr. Whitby (Presbyterian) agree in their testimony, that the opinion of scholars, in the various denominations, "in all ages" of the Christian church, "from its earliest times," was that the words, "born of water," in John 3:5, refer to baptism. At least this was their opinion until, "A. Campbell frightened them away from" it. Dr. Dwight adds his illustrious name to the list, and emphasizes his opinion by saying, "He who, understanding the nature and authority of this institution, refuses to be baptized, will never enter into the visible nor invisible kingdom of God.")

More testimony on this point it would seem would be superfluous, but some people have to be literally overwhelmed, submerged, covered, baptized with proofs in order to convert them to the scriptural idea of baptism, so I give the following from Dr. Wall, an Episcopalian: "There is not any one writer of any antiquity in any language, but who understands it (John 3:5). 'Except a man be born of water and the Spirit he cannot enter into the kingdom of God' of baptism; and if it be not so understood, it is difficult to give an account how a person is born of water any more than born of wood."—History Infant Baptism, Vol. 1, p. 147; Scriptural Baptism pp. 120, 121.

Here I let the argument on this point rest with the remark that, as a Baptist, Dr. Graves did not believe in baptism as essential to salvation, nor did Dr. Dwight nor Dr. Whitby, as Presbyterians; but they evidently made honest statements of truth touching the point under consideration, notwithstanding the fact that their testimonies militated and still militates against their respective creeds. And while, under such circumstances, their testimony might have more weight than if they testified in favor of their own creeds, we see no good reason for rejecting the testimony of Dr. Wall, who, as an Episcopalian, may have believed in the saving efficacy of the ordinance of baptism, since they all substantially agree.

If the testimony of Drs. Graves, Dwight and Whitby be true, their creeds are utterly at fault as to the question of baptism, i. e. its saving efficacy, and if human testimony can establish a point at all, then it is established that "born of water," as used in John 3:5, means baptism in water, and the whole question regarding the saving efficacy of that Holy Rite is settled in the mind of every person who believes in the divinity of Jesus, the Christ, and who believes the statement attributed to him in the third chapter of John. Who, then, "can forbid that" all who truly believe and repent should be baptized "for the remission of sins," as, without it, none can enter into the "visible nor invisible kingdom of God." Who will take upon himself the responsibility to cast out the sacred and holy ordinance and refuse to give it a place in the more excellent way to be saved.

Now, since the importance, yea, the necessity of baptism, is so clearly set forth, let us inquire what it is to be baptized. How is it to be performed? Upon this question there are differences of opinion again. One class says, "By immersion only;" another, "By effusion only;" and still another, wishing to appear more liberal minded, and perhaps, to please all and avoid controversy, "by either of these methods, as best suits the fancy or convenience of the recipient of the ordinance," just as though God was dependent upon the taste or caprice of mortal man, to point out the method of keeping the solemn ordinance, without which, as we have seen, it is impossible for him to enter into the kingdom of God.

Has God no will in this matter? Has that will not been expressed? If he has a will and has not expressed it, is he not at fault? Would it not be strange if he should not express his will as to the how, when so much, yea, entrance into his kingdom, depends upon the doing of what is conveyed in the word baptism?

There are three ways by which men profess to obey this holy ordinance, but which is the more excellent way? Which is the way "cast up" by the Lord? Listen:

"Then cometh Jesus from Galilee to Jordan unto John, to be baptized of him."—Matt. 3:13.

Does Jesus know the way to be baptized? Will he walk in that way? Yea, verily. Now read:

"And Jesus, when he was baptized, went up straightway out of the water: and lo, the heavens were opened unto him, and he saw the Spirit of God descending like a dove, and lighting upon him: and lo a voice from heaven, saying, This is my beloved Son, in whom I am well pleased."—Verses 16, 17.

If, when Jesus was baptized, he up went straightway out of the water, does it not follow that just before he was baptized he went down into the water? Nothing can be clearer than that. So if Jesus knew the way and walked therein, in his example we have the proof that the more excellent way to be baptized is to go down into the water and come up straightway out of the water. Remember that he is "the way," and this way of baptism pleased not only himself but his Father as well; and the Father manifested his pleasure by permitting his own voice to be heard from heaven, saying, "This is my beloved Son in whom I am well pleased." Would the Father be so well pleased with any other than the more excellent way? So the more excellent way to be baptized, as attested by the example of Jesus and also by the voice of his Father, was by immersion in water, or going down into the water and coming up out of the water as did the Savior.

But did John baptize all others in that way?

"And there went out unto him [John] all the land of Judea, and they of Jerusalem, and were all baptized of him in the river of Jordan, confessing their sins."—Mark 1:5.

Jesus went to Jordan unto John to be baptized, and was baptized by going down into the water and coming up out of it again. The people of Judea and Jerusalem went to the same John and were baptized in the river of Jordan. Can it be possible for any one to read these two accounts and have any doubts as to the manner of baptism in either case? John was a man sent from God (John 1:6), and as such certainly understood what would be pleasing to him, and so baptized by taking his candidates down into the water and baptizing them in the river of Jordan.

Philip understood the matter just as did John; for when he had preached Jesus unto the Ethiopian eunuch, and the eunuch demanded to know why he could not be baptized, and being informed that he could on condition, "If thou believest with all thine heart; he commanded the chariot to stand still: and they went down both into the water, both Philip and the eunuch; and he baptized him. And when they were come up out of the water, the Spirit of the Lord caught away Philip, that the eunuch saw him no more: and he went on his way rejoicing."—Acts 8:38, 39.

Here it is easy to see that Philip baptized in the same way that John did, and that God sanctioned the work, else his Spirit would not have been present in such power that it caught away Philip that the eunuch saw him no more. In the mind of Philip and the eunuch also, it was necessary to go down into the water in order that the eunuch might receive baptism. Have any of my readers a more excellent way? A way that merits and receives the sanction and blessing of God is surely good enough, anyway. In the foregoing cases of baptism, but one method is pointed out, and that is immersion in water and coming again straightway up out of the water. Sprinkling and pouring are entirely out of the question.

Again:

"And John also was baptizing in Ænon near to Salem because there was much water there: and they came and were baptized."—John 3:23.

If John had wished to sprinkle the people in the modern sense of that term, he would not have had any need for "much water." A very little would have sufficed to baptize all the people in Ænon, if a few drops of water sprinkled on the forehead was baptism. But John's way of baptizing required much water, and this element was to be found in great abundance at Ænon, hence the man sent of God (John 1:6) to baptize with water, repaired to that place to baptize because there was much water there. The only method of baptism in which a large quantity of water would be necessary is immersion, hence John must have immersed the people; and he being sent of God to do such work, as is shown above, it follows that he must have baptized in the more excellent way.

"But," says the objector, "it was not that much water was needed in which to baptize the people, but for culinary purposes, and for the multitudes to drink, and also for their horses."

Mr. A. C. Rogers, a Pedobaptist writer, says:

"Again (John 3:25), we read that while Christ was baptizing in Judea, and John was baptizing in Ænon, near to Salem (because there was much water there—"Polla Eudata," many springs, or watering-places for drinking and culinary purposes necessary to the multitudes)," etc.—Christian Baptism, p. 16.

But how did Mr. Rogers, or any one else, find out that it was for drinking and culinary purposes that much water was needed? Not from the Bible, for it does not hint such a thing. On the other hand it expressly declares that the reason why John baptized at Ænon was because there was much water there.

Not long since the writer visited one of the largest (if not the largest) electric plants in the world. It was keeping in motion the street cars of the little city in which it is located, and those of a larger one twenty miles and more away, as well as sending cars back and forth between the two cities at regular intervals of only a few minutes. The machinery that generates the electricity which runs all these cars, is all run by water. The plant is situated on the banks of the famous Niagara River, and convenient to the rapids.

Why did the designers and builders of the plant select such a place for its location? "Because there was much water there." Why should they want much water? Was it because they expected to have great crowds come to see the wonderful machinery, and they wanted to furnish them water to drink, and for culinary purposes? Nonsense, do you say? Not any worse than to say that such was the reason that John baptized at Ænon. There was much water at Niagara, therefore the great electric plant, whose intricate machinery was to be moved by water, was placed there. That proposition will not be disputed by any one, I am sure. Nor would it be disputed if I should transpose it and say the plant was located at Niagara because there was much water there. No one would ever dream the much water was for "drinking or culinary purposes," but all would understand that much water was needed to move the machinery and operate the plant.

There was much water in Ænon and therefore John went there to baptize, not to give the people a drink of water or a chance to wash their hands or to cook a meal of vituals. To say anything else is to dispute the Bible, for its language is clear, "John also was baptizing in Ænon near to Salem because there was much water there."

On this passage Richard Fuller says: "The Greek for 'much water' is polla hudata, and the Pedobaptist translators have correctly rendered it 'much water.' But it is now pretended that the phrase only means 'many streams!' Again I ask, must there not be some mutiny of conscience? First, hudor never means 'stream.' It always means 'water.' The plural hudata, means 'waters,' and, of itself, imparts quantity."—Scriptural Baptism, page 76.

And on page 77 he quotes Doddridge thus:

"Nothing surely can be more evident than that polla hudata, 'many waters,' signifies a large quantity of water, it being sometimes used for the Euphrates. Jeremiah 51: 13, (Septuagint).

And from Olshansen (vol. 2, p. 101) thus:

"John baptized at Ænon, because there was deep water there, convenient for immersion."

And again from Kuinol, vol. 3, p. 248:

"An abundance of water, so that the human body could be easily immersed in it, according to the mode of baptism as then practiced; hudata does not signify many streams, but an abundance of water as in Revelation 1: 15, and other places."—Ibid p. 78.

These three authors, Mr. Fuller claims, were Pedobaptist writers, and yet, they agree with him, that the Greek words from which the English "much water" comes in the common version, signify "a large quantity of water," "convenient for immersion," "that the human body could be easily immersed in it." We all know that the English of it means the same thing, and so we have a strong presumptive proof in favor of immersion as the more excellent way, yea, the only way to be baptized.

Now, let us examine the meaning of the word baptize. When Jesus Christ commanded his apostles to baptize the nations, he certainly used a word, the meaning of which they fully understood. They could not have been ignorant of its import, or neither they nor the people were under any obligation to obey. To say that there was, or is, anything in the great commission which cannot be easily understood is a reflection against Christ. None can afford to do that. That the pure Greek for baptize is baptizo, and for baptized is baptistheis, I believe there is no variation of opinion among scholars.

"The question before us, then, is this, what does baptizo mean? I answer it means immerse. It no more means to pour or sprinkle than it means to fly. * * * But in Greek baptizo means immerse. Our opponents have been, over and over, defied to produce a single instance where it means sprinkle or pour. They have ransacked all the Greek writings, and have failed."—Richard Fuller, Scriptural Baptism, page 16.

Some, perhaps, will say: Fuller was a Baptist, an immersionist, we cannot accept his testimony. Well, here are statements from those who are not Baptists, but believers in sprinkling or pouring, and yet candor seems to have compelled them to testify against themselves and their creeds:

Calvin.—"The word baptizo signifies to immerse, and the rite of immersion was performed by the ancient church."

Luther.—"Baptism is a Greek word, and may be translated immersion, as when we immerse anything in water that it may be wholly covered."

Beza.—"Christ commanded us to be baptized: by which word, it is certain, immersion is meant. * * * To be baptized in water signifies no other than to be immersed in water, which is the external ceremony of baptism."—Scriptural Baptism, p. 23.

Vitringa.—"The act of baptizing is the immersion of believers in water. Thus also it was performed by Christ and the apostles."

Gurtlerus.—"To baptize among the Greeks, is undoubtedly to immerse, to dip, and baptism is immersion, dipping."

Salmasins.—"Baptism is immersion, and was administered in former times, according to the force and meaning of the word."

The author of the Free Inquiry Respecting Baptism, Lepsic, 1802: "Baptism is perfectly identical with our word immersion or submersion. If immersion under water is for cleansing or washing, then the word means cleansing or washing."—p. 7. "The baptism of John and that of the apostles were performed in precisely the same way, that is, the candidate was completely immersed under water."—p. 36.

Bretschneider.—"An entire immersion belongs to the nature of baptism. This is the meaning of the word."

Scholy, on Matt. 3, 6: "Baptism consists in the immersion of the whole body in water."—Scriptural Baptism, pp. 24-26.

These are selected from a large number of authors of great learning and it is believed that the testimony of these men, when united with the testimony of those favorable to immersion, and the plain statements of the English Scriptures, concerning the different baptisms of the New Testament, where we are told that people were baptized "in the river of Jordan," in a place where there was "much water," that "they went down into the water," and came "up straightway out of the water," in the performance of the act of baptism, will be enough to convince even the most skeptical, provided they have honesty of heart and a desire for truth, that the meaning of the word baptizo, or baptize, is immersion and nothing else. And if that is the meaning of the word in Greek, the language in which the New Testament was written, it is certainly very clear that when Jesus said, "He that believeth and is baptized shall be saved," and, "Baptizing them," etc., he had in his mind, and conveyed to the mind of his apostles, the idea of immersion only, and that, to use Prof. Anthony's words to Dr. Parmly, "Sprinkling, etc., are entirely out of the question."—See Scriptural Baptism, p. 62.

But now comes Mr. A. F. Rogers in full war-paint dress, and being duly aroused and enthused, deposes as follows:

"Whatever may have been the meaning of baptizo in classic Greek, that has no bearing whatever on its meaning in the Bible; and to go to this source for its meaning there, is an insult to all intelligence, both human and divine, for this reason: Two hundred and eighty-five years before John the Baptist was born, the old Hebrew Scriptures were translated into Greek; and in this translation there were two Hebrew words, "Rahats" and "Tabal," that must be rendered into Greek, and they both signifying the same thing, WASHING or PURIFICATION. With this difference: Rahats signified any washing in things of common life, while Tabal was never used in this sense at all, but to express only purification from sin. It was a religious ordinance only, hence, these translators find Lono in Greek exactly answering to Rahats in Hebrew, and they substituted the one for the other; but when they look into the Greek for a word answering to Tabal, it is not there! Why? Because the Greeks were heathens, and had no use for a word that expressed why a religious ordinance of purification from sin. Now, there was but one thing they could do, and that was what they did: they substituted Baptizo for Tabal, not because they were synonymous, but because it had some resemblance to the one they wanted. It's original among the Greeks, therefore, has nothing whatever to do with its Bible meaning; since it has been made a substitute for Tabal, it means, as any child ought to know, precisely what Tabal meant before. Nothing more, nothing less. The word baptize, or baptizo, then, in the Bible, has but one meaning—purification, or salvation from sin. Not the condition of salvation, as some stupidly confirm, but salvation itself."—Christian Baptism, pp. 10, 11.

Thus does this author dispose of the argument based upon the meaning of the word baptizo or baptistheis, in classic Greek. A Greek word in any other book, whatever its meaning, may mean something quite different the moment it is put into the Bible by a translator or writer. At least, that is the position of this writer as to the word baptizo, and if it is true of it, why not of other words?

Orpheus said (Argn. 5: 14): "But when the sun had dipped himself (original, baptized himself) into the flood of the ocean, and the dark-shining moon led in the stormy night, then went forth the war-like men who dwelt in the northern mountains."

And Heraclides Ponticus, "When a piece of iron is taken red hot from the fire, and is dipped (original, baptized) in water, the heat, being quenched by the peculiar nature of the water, ceases."—Scriptural Baptism, p. 17.

Here it is easy to see what the Greek word baptizo means, viz.: dip, plunge, immerse. None dispute that, but when "two hundred and eighty-five years before John the Baptist was born," when, according to Mr. Rogers, "the old Hebrew Scriptures were translated into Greek," and the action of Naaman, the leper, is described, and the translators wish to render into Greek the Hebrew word taval (spelled tabal by Mr. R.) they say: "And Naaman ebaptizato en to Jordane."—See Scriptural Baptism, p. 45.

Mr. Rogers thinks it an "insult to all intelligence" to give the same meaning (dip, plunge, or immerse) to the same word. Pshaw! Some people's intelligence is very easily insulted. I wonder is it because of the quantity, and if so, is it large or small intelligences that are most easily insulted?

But for the argument's sake we will grant that Mr. Rogers' definition is correct and see how quickly his argument will explode in his own hands. Baptism, according to his rendering, means in the Bible purification from sin only. Let us now read, substituting purify or purification for baptize, baptism, etc.:

"I indeed have purified you with water, but he shall purify you with the Holy Ghost."—Mark 1: 8.

Mr. Rogers and others who believe with him may say it sounds all right, and that the "water of purity" (Num. 19) represented the blood of Christ just as our water of baptism does. (Chris. Bap. p. 12). And so John was simply sprinkling the water of purity on the people and promised them another baptism by the Christ when he came. But wait a minute: Does Mr. Rogers "purify" by sprinkling "the water of baptism" on those who are yet to be "purified" with the Holy Ghost? Does he not "purify" those who claim to have been already purified by this Holy Comforter? Why change the order and refuse to baptize with water until after the candidate has been already baptized with the Spirit?

"John verily baptized with the baptism of repentance" (Acts 19: 4), "unto repentance" (Matt. 3: 11), or in other words baptized en water those who repented or "brought forth fruits meet for repentance," or in other words, gave evidence of a genuine repentance and in this way gave "knowledge of salvation unto his people by the remission of sins." (Luke 1: 77). And then seeing they had believed his message and repented of their sins and were baptized of him en, i. e. in water for the remission of sins, John could very appropriately promise them: "He shall baptize you with the Holy Ghost."

But Mr. Rogers and his ilk do not like John. They wait until the people, in their judgment, have been baptized with the Holy Spirit and then sprinkle a little water upon them to "represent the work of grace in the soul." Such a practice is clearly at variance with that of John and so it cannot be the more excellent way.

Again: "Then cometh Jesus from Galilee to Jordan unto John to be purified of him."—Matt. 3: 13.

What! Jesus Christ purified? From what? Sin? No; for he was "without sin." Neither was "guile found in his mouth." From what else could one need to be "purified?" Echo answers, What else? Jesus then was a sinner and needed purification, or cleansing, or saving or else Mr. Rogers' definition of baptizo is wrong.

But Mr. Rogers claims that it is the spiritual baptism that saves. He also claims that the spiritual baptism has a "sign" or symbol and says: "The one saves really and the other emblematically." (Christian Baptism, p. 12).

The baptism of Jesus by John in the river of Jordan, then, was a sign or symbol or emblem of something that had taken place or was yet to take place. Mr. Rogers would have us to believe that it "represents the Spirit's work in our salvation." (Christian Baptism, p. 35). Then the Savior was a sinner and was saved by "the Spirit's work in his salvation" really, and was emblematically saved or "purified" by his baptism in Jordan at the hands of John. Can Mr. Rogers or any one else really be in earnest in professing to believe such an unreasonable and unscriptural proposition? If so, then I am sure they need to be "taught the way of God more perfectly," for they are not in "the more excellent way."

Again, if "Baptizo" or baptize means to purify, then to purify means to baptize, and purification means baptism, etc.

Now let us read: "Seeing ye have baptized [purified] your souls in obeying the truth through the Spirit, unto unfeigned love of the brethren, see that ye love one another with a pure heart fervently."—1 Pet. 1: 22.

Again: "Cleanse your hands, ye sinners: and baptize [purify] your hearts, ye double minded."—James 4: 8.

Any one can see that the sense and true meaning of the above passages are destroyed by this way of defining and interpretation, hence no further proof is needed to show that Mr. Rogers' way of defining the word "baptizo" is not the more excellent way. To believe Mr. Rogers is to believe that Christ was a sinner in reality and that the Holy Spirit's baptism saved him really and that his baptism in Jordan was a sign of the Spirit's baptism and saved him emblematically. It is difficult for the writer to see how persons with intelligences large enough to be "insulted" can possibly believe that.

To believe Mr. Rogers' theory is to believe that John the Baptist was wrong both as to design and the subjects of baptism, for,

"John verily baptized with the baptism of repentance, saying unto the people, that they should believe on him which should come after him, that is on Christ Jesus."—Acts 19: 4.

"I indeed have baptized you with water: but he [Christ] SHALL BAPTIZE you with the Holy Ghost."—Mark 1: 8.

That was John's way; Mr. Rogers reverses the order, waits until his candidate professes to receive the baptism of the Holy Ghost and then performs what he calls the rite of baptism with a few drops of water sprinkled upon the party already baptized, professedly, with the Holy Ghost. Any one can see that John's way and Mr. Rogers' way are opposed each to the other, that is, if his intelligence is not too badly "insulted" and I ask the reader to decide honestly as to which of the two is the more excellent way.

Again; John took his candidates down into the water, as seen in the baptism of Christ; he baptized them "in the river of Jordan" (see Mark 1: 5), and in so doing gave "remission of sins" (Luke 1: 77), and "knowledge of salvation" unto the people by such remission. This way of baptizing was accepted and submitted to by the Christ; was approved by his Father, which approbation was clearly manifested by the Holy Ghost descending in the form of a dove and resting upon the Lord, while a voice from heaven—the voice of God—made known the fact that the work of John and Jesus was accepted by Him. Could there be a more excellent way to baptize than that?

Thus we see that God and Christ, and also the Holy Ghost, and John the Baptist are on record as approving immersion as the proper way to baptize, for the idea of baptizing "in the river of Jordan," the going down into the water and coming up out of the water, is unalterably opposed to the idea of baptism by any other method than immersion. And if any of my readers are yet unsatisfied and wish corroborative evidence, then I add to the list of witnesses the whole of that great multitude that went out from "Jerusalem, and all Judea, and all the region round about Jordan, and were baptized of him in Jordan, confessing their sins."—Matt. 3: 5, 6.

"Tis true we have no direct testimony in words from any of this multitude, but their action in submitting to the ordinance of baptism "in Jordan"—"in the river of Jordan," shows that their belief was immersion and not sprinkling or pouring. A man or a woman who is not willing to take the testimony of God the Father, and of Christ the Son; and of the Holy Ghost, corroborated by John, Philip, and us we have seen, by a whole multitude of people to whom John had given "knowledge of salvation by the remission of sins" by baptizing them for the remission of their sins, is entirely beyond the reach of evidence. To such an one evidence would be as pearls to swine. He would not believe one, nor a thousand, nor a million though they "arose from the dead."

Our case is proved with all upon whom evidence, borne either by human or divine witnesses, will have any effect. Others we know not how to reach. We give them over to the belief of their own traditions without proof; to the belief of the traditions and doctrines of men which have been substituted for the doctrine of Christ; but once more we wish to warn them, in the language of the wise man, that "There is a way that seemeth right unto a man, but the end thereof are the ways of death."—Prov. 14: 12.

Gently as the zephyrs of a calm May morning; yea, tender and sweet as the angelic song of "peace and good-will" at his birth, the voice of the Good Shepherd is heard, saying unto all:

"I am the way." "If any man serve me, let him follow me; and where I am, there shall also my servant be: * * * him will my Father honour."—John 12: 26.

"Come unto me, all ye that labor and are heavy laden, and I will give you rest. Take my yoke upon you, and learn of me; * * * and ye shall find rest to your souls."—Matt. 11: 28, 29.

Reader, do you wish to be honored of God? Do you wish to find rest to your soul? If so, then follow Christ in all things whatsoever he saith unto you, by precept or example, otherwise you "shall be destroyed from among the people" of God.

Now, if we really wish to follow Christ in this matter of baptism, what will we do?

First, as he went to John, a servant of God who had been sent to baptize with water, so we will go to one of God's servants who is authorized of God to baptize, "to be baptized of him."

Second, with this servant of God we will go down into the water in order to a proper baptism by immersion; otherwise how can we follow his example in "coming up straightway out of the water when he was baptized?"

God approved of this method of baptism and signified his approbation by sending his Spirit and acknowledging the divine Sonship of Him who received it. In like manner did he signify his approbation of this method of baptism in the case of Philip and the eunuch by sending his Spirit in such power that it "caught away Philip" and caused the eunuch to go "on his way rejoicing." Were not these persons honored of God the Father? Certainly. Well, then, the fact that God honored them is proof of the strongest character that they were following Christ—the way—"the more excellent way."

Are any of my readers hesitating still? Then I invite them to listen once more to that same gentle voice of the same Good Shepherd, and note that this time there is a tone of solemn warning in his voice:

"Verily, verily, I say unto you, He that entereth not by the door into the sheepfold, but climbeth up some other way, the same is a thief and a robber."—John 10: 1.

Now, therefore, as our blessed Lord has taught us both by precept and example, yea, and by commandment (in that he saith, "follow me"), that the way to be baptized is by immersion and not by sprinkling or pouring, let us say in the language of Israel's sweet singer:

"Therefore I esteem all thy precepts concerning all things to be right; and I hate every false way."—Psa. 119: 128.

God does not approve of false ways. Never at any time has he signified his approval of sprinkling or pouring by sending his Spirit upon those who were baptized in that way, as he did upon Jesus, John, Philip, and the eunuch. Not a line nor a verse can be found in the Bible showing that he did. But he did, as we have seen, approve, and signified his approval of immersion. Therefore I conclude that it is the more excellent way.

[TO BE CONTINUED.]

A Relic of Ages Ago.

Another artesian well is being driven on the asylum grounds, near the one driven a short time ago, close to the old reservoir. There was a peculiar incident yesterday when the pipe had reached a depth of about 75 feet. The men at work at the well were amazed when they discovered that the drill had bored through the trunk of a tree three feet and two inches in diameter. The chips that were brought up, some of them four inches across, were hard and dry and the wood was well preserved. The chips had the appearance of being a species of hemlock, although it is impossible to determine definitely.

The mystery is, how long the body of the tree has been buried seventy-five feet below the surface of the earth. Probably ages, and it illustrates that a forest existed at that point long before the hills were formed.

The well had reached a depth of one hundred and eight feet last night and a flow of water had been struck. The other well has a flow of 125,000 gallons a day.—The Morning Record, Traverse City, Michigan, September 13, 1900.

Why the Hair Falls.

"The popular explanation of the reason why men are bald, why their hair falls out more than women's, is because women do not wear closely fitting hats, as men do, and consequently the air circulates more freely in the hair and cools the scalp, thereby tending to keep the hair in a healthy condition," said a prominent Washington skin specialist to The Star.

"This theory is a deep rooted one, but is only partially true. I will tell you the fundamental reason. It is not generally known that the skin of a woman fits differently over the cranium from that of a man. Beneath the cuticle on a woman's cranium is a thin layer of adipose tissue, or 'fat,' about a sixteenth of an inch in thickness. This layer of fat is not present on the cranium of a man. His cuticle fits and draws tightly over the skull.

"The result is that the cuticle on a man's cranium atrophies, or dries and withers, quicker than that on a woman's. His hair does not receive the nourishment that is imparted to the hair of a woman by reason of the layer of adipose tissue, and the result is that his hair becomes more readily dry and diseased, falls out, and baldness ultimately ensues. A bald woman is a rarity. If the cuticle of a woman's head fitted as tightly as that of a man's, a baldheaded woman would be a common sight. Wouldn't she be a funny object? Ough!

"There is not one woman in a million that knows nature was kind to her in the manner I have mentioned. In fact, it is not known outside of the medical profession, and in that profession not sufficient importance is attached to it in treating diseases of the scalp. It also furnishes an explanation as to why women can go around in the winter time with a postage stamp for a hat and not take cold. It is not altogether because their hair is thick and long, but because the extra layer of fat imparts to the head of a woman a warmth that is not furnished to the cranium of a man. This is a scientific explanation which I do not recall reading in the public prints."—The Morning Record, Traverse City, Michigan, September 13.

How to Save School Children.

In the October Ladies' Home Journal Edward Bok takes up the cudgel again against the cramming methods inflicted on school-children, and urges as a step toward a reform of the abuse, "that every parent who has a child at school will send a note to the teacher, that, under no circumstances whatever, will the father and mother permit any home study by the child.

"This may seem a very simple thing to do," he contends, "but often the simplest things are the most effective. If the teachers of this country should, within the next month, receive thousands of notes from parents, to the effect pointed out, which they could—and I can speak for hundreds of teachers when I say that they would gladly do so—hand to the heads of their schools, it would practically mean a readjustment of the entire system of study. This may be better understood when it is realized that the entire system of study during school hours, in many of the schools is so arranged as to allow for some of the work to be done by the pupils at home. Let this taken-for-granted home study be stopped, and a change would at once have to be made. The studies at school cannot be increased in number, for already there are too many. The school hours cannot be lengthened because the tide has set in to shorten them. Hence, some studies would have to be thrown out, if home study were eliminated. And this is the result desired."

We are receiving orders for Bro. A. Haws' little book, "Sabbatarian Theories a Delusion," a review of the arguments of the Seventh Day advocates. It is a useful little work, and we have heard only words of commendation for it. We can fill all orders, 15 cents each.

Books and Pamphlets

PRICE LIST

"FROM PALMYRA TO INDEPENDENCE," by Elder R. Etzenhouser, 444 pages; cloth bound, $1.00; paper binding, 81	00
"AUTOBIOGRAPHY OF ELDER JOSEPH LUFF," 371 pages; cloth bound; 3 illustrations, Reduced from $1.00 to.....	75
"THREE BIBLES COMPARED," by Elder R. Etzenhouser; paper binding, 5 for $1.00; each.....	25
"THE BOOK OF MORMON VINDICATED," by Elder I. M. Smith; 112 pages; Paper cover, 4 for 1.00; each.....	80
"SPIRITUAL GIFTS AND THE SEED OF PALMYRA," by Elder M. H. Bond, of the Seventy; 68 pages, paper bound, with fine engraving of the author.....	25
"FAULTY CREEDS," by Elder R. C. Evans; 6 for $1.00; each.....	20
"THE BOOKS AND UTAH MORMONISM IN CONTRAST," by Elder R. Etzenhouser; paper cover; 20 for $1.00; 3 for 25c; each.....	10
"THE CREEDS LAID BARE," by Elder R. Etzenhouser; paper cover; 3 for 25c; each.....	10
"THE RESURRECTION OF THE WICKED," by Elder W. J. Smith; 39 pages, paper cover, 3 for 25c; each.....	10
"WHO WAS JOSEPH SMITH?—WAS HE A FALSE PROPHET?" by Elder J. W. Peterson of the Quorum of Seventy; 39 pages; paper cover; engraving of author; 3 for 25c; each.....	10
"THE BOOK OF MORMON AND ITS TRUTH," by Elder R. Etzenhouser; 27 pages; paper cover; 3 for 25c; each.....	10
"THE LEGAL SUCCESSOR," by Apostle J. W. Wight; 90c per doz.; 3 for 25c; each.....	10
"APOSTASY OF THE CHURCH," by Apostle J. W. Wight; 40 pages, paper cover; 3 for 25c; each.....	10
"THE JOSEPH SMITH INTERVIEW," Elder Joseph Luff's answer to Elder R. J. Parker; by E. L. Kelley; per hundred 90c; per doz. 15c; 6 for 10c; 2 for 5c.....	5
"THE WARRIOR'S ESSENTIAL TO SALVATION," by Elder Joseph Luff. 90c per 100; 15c per doz; 3 for.....	5
"WHAT WE BELIEVE," The Epitome of Faith, with quotations given in full. 20c Per doz. 15c.....	5
"EVANGELIA LOST," a duet for soprano and tenor; words by J. Cole Moxon; music by W. H. Lieb.....	25
SERMON PAMPHLETS.
The following pamphlets 5 cents each, 3 for 10 cents, 6 for 15 cents, or 25 cents per dozen:
"Signs of the Times," Revised and Enlarged, by Elder J. S. Roth; 70 pages; illustrated.
"The Kingdom of Mormon; Evidences of its Divinity," by Elder R. C. Evans; 68 pages.
"The Law of Life," by Elder F. M. Cooper; 38 pages.
"The Restoration of Israel," by Elder S. W. L. Scott; 46 pages.
"Retrospective View of the Reorganization," by E. C. Briggs; 36 pages.
"Gospel Message," by President Joseph Smith; 54 pages.
"Modern Knowledge of the Antiquities of America," by Elder H. A. Stebbins; 34 pages.
"Creed Making; Man Shall Not Add To Nor Take From the Word of God," by Elder I. M. Smith; 36 pages.
"Antiquarian Evidences Concerning the Book of Mormon," by Elder E. L. Kelley; 40 pages.
"Joseph Smith: Was He a Prophet of God?" by Elder R. C. Evans; 40 pages.
"Sign Seekers," by Elder I. M. Smith; 32 pages.
"Gospel Antiquity," by Elder Joseph Luff; 36 pages.
"God Is Light," by Elder W. H. Kelley; 46 pages.
"Why I Left the Baptist Church," by Elder W. H. Kenhart; 33 pages.
"The Marriage Relation," by Elder J. W. Wight; 41 pages.
"The Personality of God and Doctrine of Christ," by Elder J. S. Roth; 38 pages.
"Save Yourself," by Elder I. M. Smith; 34 pages.
We also fill orders for all  Herald  office publications.
Address all orders and make all remittances to ENSIGN PUBLISHING HOUSE, 603 B. Independence, Mo.
Missouri Pacific Railroad.
Quick time, good connections, low rates to all points. Rates, time cards, etc., cheerfully furnished on application. F. A. MILLARD, Agent. Telephone 17.

Arizona's Buried Cities.

The bureau of ethnology in Washington purposes to dig up the buried cities of the Gila (heel-ah) valley in Arizona, where, as has long been known, there was anciently a great population. Through causes wholly unknown, the people who built these towns dissipated or perished, leaving behind them plentiful evidences of a high civilization in the shape of irrigating works on a vast scale, and some remains of buildings of great size. The period of their occupancy of the region can only be guessed at, but the best possible reasons exist for supposing that it was at least 1000 years ago; it may have been 2000 years, or even more.—Our Times, New York, Sept. 15.

KNOWLEDGE of the Bible will refine, enlarge and elevate the vocabulary of any one, and the girl who studies her Bible daily and reads Shakespeare, Scott, Macaulay and Ruskin will be a better talker than she who limits her reading to the daily newspaper or the latest agreeable book. Dickens, Thackeray, William Black, Blackmore, Barrie, Crockett, Mrs. Oliphant and George Eliot are all helpful to those who would be good, bright, varied and entertaining talkers, because in all these authors you continually find wholesome thoughts expressed in forceful and strenuous English, and bit by bit you receive of the wealth these masters of English have so carefully bestowed upon their work.—September Ladies' Home Journal.

Swallowed a Saw.

"O mamma, I've swallowed a seed!" "Don't say 'seed,' my child. Only ignorant people say seed. You should say 'saw.'" Nothing clears up the brain and makes grammar easy equal to one of Ayer's Pills at bedtime. These Pills cure biliousness and constipation.

EVANELIA LOST, a duet by Bro. J. Cole Moxon. Fine souvenir engraving of the little gospel boat. Everyone should possess a copy. Not a very great many of them left, better send in your orders for one or more before there is nothing left you but regrets that you do not possess a copy. Only 25 cents each. Let us hear from you promptly.

Low Rates.

HOME SEEKERS' EXCURSIONS.

The Missouri Pacific Railway and the Iron Mountain Route are now running a series of excursions to the west and southwest and to points in Arkansas, Louisiana and Texas, at the very low rate of one fare for the round trip, plus two dollars. Detailed information will be cheerfully furnished, as well as maps, folders, time cards, and illustrated pamphlets on the various states, by addressing H. C. Townsend, General Passenger and Ticket Agent, St. Louis, Mo., or F. A. Millard, City Agent, Independence, Mo.

ANY one desiring back numbers of Sunday School Quarterlies, Heralds, Ensigns, or Hopes, may be supplied upon application to the Literary Exchange, Box 261, Independence, Mo.

ECZEMA, ITCHING HUMORS, PIMPLES, CURED BY B. B. B.

BOTTLE FREE TO SUFFERERS.

Does your skin itch and burn? Dispressing eruptions on the skin so you feel ashamed to be seen in company? Do scabs and scales form on the skin, hair or scalp? Have you eczema? Skin sore and cracked? Rash form on the skin? Prickling pain in the skin? Boils? Pimples? Bone pains? Swollen joints? Falling hair? All run down? Skin pale? Old sores? Eating sores? Ulcers? All these are symptoms of Eczema and impurities and poisons in the blood. To cure take B. B. B. (Botanic Blood Balm), which makes the blood pure and rich. B. B. B. will cause the sores to heal, itching of eczema to stop forever, the skin to become clear and the breath sweet. B. B. B. is just the remedy you have been looking for. Thoroughly tested for thirty years. ENSIGN readers are advised to try B. B. B. For sale by druggists at $1 per large bottle; six large bottles (full treatment) $5. Complete directions with each bottle. So sufferers may test B. B. B., a trial bottle given away at our office, or send five cents, which pays exact cost of postage (the medicine is free), and address Blood Balm Co., 86 Mitchell St., Atlanta, Ga., and medicine sent at once by return mail. Describe your trouble and free, personal, medical advice given.

GRAGELAND COLLEGE, LAMONI, IOWA.

Send for Catalogue, to I. W. ALLENDER, Secretary, Lamoni, Iowa.

AMERICAS MOST POPULAR RAILROAD CHICAGO AND ALTON RAILROAD PERFECT PASSENGER SERVICE TO

CHICAGO ST. LOUIS KANSAS CITY PEORIA DENVER

ILLINOIS MISSOURI AND TERRITORY BEYOND.

Learn Shorthand.

A Knowledge of Shorthand and Typewriting Will-Enable You to Be Self-sustaining.

The Missouri Shorthand College of St. Louis, Mo., is one of the Leading Shorthand Institutions in the United States.

Persons intending the acquirement of shorthand and typewriting should select a responsible school, otherwise their time and money are wasted.

As success in shorthand is largely dependent on the teacher as well as pupil, it is absolutely necessary that instructors should be practical shorthand writers and no others are competent to teach. Benn Pitman system taught.

The Principal of "The Missouri Shorthand College" is John H. Schofield, the well known journalist and shorthand writer, and member of the National Shorthand Writers' Association. In order to show that he is a practical and recognized exponent of shorthand, reference letters are herewith published from leading educators:

Prof. E. Benjamin Andrews, now Chancellor of Nebraska University, and recently Superintendent of Chicago Schools, comments on his character and ability as follows:

Board of Education, Office of Superintendent of Schools, Chicago, Feb. 21, 1900. Mr. John H. Schofield is well and favorably known to me as the successful director of a large shorthand college in Providence, R. I. I consider him not only one of the most expert practical shorthand writers whom I have ever known, but also an upright, honorable and perfectly trustworthy gentleman.

E. BENJAMIN ANDREWS, Superintendent of Schools.

Commenting on Mr. Schofield's ability and character, President E. G. Robinson of Brown University, Providence, R. I., contributes the following:

Brown University, Providence, R. I. I have known Mr. Schofield for years as stenographic reporter for the Providence Journal. His work has given special satisfaction to all parties concerned. His character as a Christian gentleman has also commanded respect, and I take pleasure in commending him to the confidence and good-will of all with whom he may meet or with whom he may have business relations.

E. G. ROBINSON, President Brown University.

Brother Fabrician, of La Salle College, Philadelphia, Pa., adds the following testimonial:

La Salle College, Philadelphia, Pa. Mr. John H. Schofield: My Dear Sir—It gives me much pleasure to say a timely word to bear witness to your character as a man, and your ability as a journalist and shorthand writer. I hope and pray that your efforts, in whatever channel you may choose to direct them, will be rewarded with the measure of success which your talents, your energy and your accomplishments must win. You are, however, too well and favorably known to need any note or recognition from your very sincere and devoted friend,

BRO. FABRICIAN.

Those so situated that they cannot attend school sessions, taught by mail, as Principal John H. Schofield has had gratifying success by this method of teaching. Many students who will devote two hours daily to practice, cannot fail to obtain a good general knowledge of shorthand in twenty weeks. This is a short time to acquire a profession that will enable persons to be self supporting. Those who attend school generally graduated in about sixteen weeks, but this depends largely on the ability and general knowledge of the pupil. As a knowledge of shorthand is of no practical utility unless able to spell and compose correctly, students deficient in those lines are taught without extra charge. Shorthand and typewriting furnishes lucrative, as well as pleasant employment for both sexes, but more especially for young ladies, as there are always positions for those who are capable and competent.

Positions Secured for Graduates. Instruction in Bookkeeping and full Commercial Course if Desired. Room and Board furnished pupils from abroad at moderate rates. THE MISSOURI SHORTHAND COLLEGE, No. 918 Pine St., ST. LOUIS, MISSOURI.

STATE SAVINGS BANK OF LAMONI.

Incorporated under the laws of the State of Iowa, July 1, 1898. Offers depositors a safe bank for their savings, and solicits the correspondence and deposits of all Excess readers, and will pay four per cent interest per annum on year deposits. Send money by Bank Draft, or Express or Post Office Order, or Registered Letter, or your private check on any bank, and direct your letter to W. A. Hopkins, Cashier of the State Savings Bank of Lamoni, at Lamoni, Iowa. Upon receipt of same a certificate of deposit will be issued and sent on return mail to the sender. This bank has facilities for handling a very large business by keeping surplus funds invested in safe and available securities and has already received deposits from sixteen different states. All letters containing inquiries or business will be promptly answered. List of Stockholders:—Wm. Anderson, Geo. H. Hilliard, Mrs. David Dancer, Miss Alice Dancer, Mrs. Ella D. Whitehead, Mrs. Lucy L. Resseguie, A. K. Anderson, W. A. Hopkins, Oscar Anderson, Frank Grilly and Geo. W. Blair.

DR. JOS. MATHER, PHYSICIAN.

Office, Liberty St., One Door South of Chrisman-Sawyer Bank. Phone 190-3. Independence, Mo. RESIDENCE, 301 S. SPRING ST.

CALLS ANSWERED NIGHT OR DAY. $495.

Will buy 44 acres with four room cottage, barn, well, etc., in west Lamoni. Only a small payment required to secure this home, and it is a bargain for some one. Apply to Lock Box 7, Lamoni, Iowa.

Broken Brick-a-Brace.

Mr. Major, the famous cement man, of New York, explains some very interesting facts about Major's Cement. The multitudes who use this standard article know that it is many hundred per cent better than other cements for which similar claims are made, but a great many do not know why. The simple reason is that Mr. Major uses the best materials ever discovered and other manufacturers do not use them, because they are too expensive and do not allow large profits. Mr. Major tells us that one of the elements of his cement costs $2.65 a pound, and another costs $2.65 a gallon, while a large share of the so-called cements and liquid glue upon the market are nothing more than sixteen-cent glue, dissolved in water or citric acid, and in some cases, altered slightly in color and odor by the addition of cheap and useless materials. Major's Cement retails at fifteen cents and twenty-five cents a barrel, and when a dealer tries to sell a substitute you can depend upon it that his only object is to make larger profit. The profit on Major's Cement is as much as any dealer ought to make on any cement. And this is doubly true in view of the fact that each dealer gets the same amount of cement for $2.65, which means, which now amounts to over $5,000 a month throughout the country. Established in 1870. Insist on having Major's. Don't accept any off-hand advice from a druggist. If you are at all handy (and you will be likely to find that you are a good deal more so than you imagine) you can repair your rubber boots and family shoes, and any other rubber and leather articles, with Major's Rubber Cement and Major's Leather Cement. And you will be surprised at how many dollars a year you will thus save. If your druggist cannot supply you, it will be forwarded by mail; either kind. Free of postage.

Commenting on Mr. Schofield's ability and character, President E. G. Robinson of Brown University, Providence, R. I., contributes the following: Brown University, Providence, R. I. I have known Mr. Schofield for years as stenographic reporter for the Providence Journal. His work has given special satisfaction to all parties concerned. His character as a Christian gentleman has also commanded respect, and I take pleasure in commending him to the confidence and good-will of all with whom he may meet or with whom he may have business relations. E. G. ROBINSON, President Brown University. Brother Fabrician, of La Salle College, Philadelphia, Pa., adds the following testimonial: La Salle College, Philadelphia, Pa. Mr. John H. Schofield: My Dear Sir—It gives me much pleasure to say a timely word to bear witness to your character as a man, and your ability as a journalist and shorthand writer. I hope and pray that your efforts, in whatever channel you may choose to direct them, will be rewarded with the measure of success which your talents, your energy and your accomplishments must win. You are, however, too well and favorably known to need any note or recognition from your very sincere and devoted friend, BRO. FABRICIAN.

SUBSCRIBE FOR THE College City Chronicle The Leading Local Paper of LAMONI, IOWA. Published Weekly by the Chronicle Publishing Co.

Two Boxes of Quit-to-bac Cured Him.

"KIRK, Okla., March 29, 1900 "Bro. Ordway—I have been enabled to quit tobacco after the use of two boxes of your antidote (Quit-to-bac). I have used tobacco for thirty years and both chewed and smoked plug tobacco. "L. S. STALEY." Three boxes of Quit-to-bac sent postpaid anywhere in the United States or Canada for only $1.50 with positive guarantee of cure or money cheerfully refunded. U. S. postage stamps taken. You run no risk, why not be free from this God-condemned habit? Address, (Bro.) B. F. ORDWAY, Peoria, Ill.

OLDEST. LARGEST. BEST. 35TH YEAR SPALDING'S COMMERCIAL COLLEGE. (INCORPORATED) East Wing, N. Y. Life Bldg. Kansas City, Mo. Bookkeeping, Shorthand, Typewriting, Telegraphy, English Branches. Twenty Rooms, Sixteen Teachers and Lecturers. No Vacations. Practical Courses. Thorough Instruction. Rates Moderate. Free Catalogue. FREE EMPLOYMENT BUREAU Tel. 1174. J. F. Spalding, A. M., Pres.

CANCER CURED WITH SOOTHING BALMY OILS. Cancer, Tumor, Catarrh, Piles, Fistula, Ulcers, Eczema and all Skin and Womb Diseases. H. Sherman, Unity, Mo. Cancer Expectorant. Write for Illustrated Book, Sent Free on Demand. DR. BYE, Cor. 8th and Broadway, KANSAS CITY, MO.

THEY ADMIT IT. Bro. Hull, Chaucery, Ohio, says we saved him $12.00 on a $13.00 suit. Bro. Farrell, West Sullivan, Maine, writes that we saved him $5.00 on a $7.00 suit. Youth's heavy three-piece suit, age 12 to 19, $3.50. Goods are all sent prepaid.

MEN'S SACK SUITS. Black, all wool worsted Men's Suits, four button, round or square cut. 14 ounce $7.00; 16 ounce $7.25; 18 ounce $8.25; 20 ounce $8.75. Extra fine, strictly all wool Oxford steel gray, heavy; worth $12.00, for $8.00. PRINCE ALBERT SUITS. Same goods assacks, 14 oz. $9.50; 16 oz. $10.00; 18 oz. $11.00; 20 oz. $11.50. 14 oz. French Twill Sacks, worth $18.00, price $9.00. Prince Alberts, worth $25.00, $13.50. MEASUREMENTS.—Give size of bust around chest just under arms with coat off, size of waist, length of in seam of pant leg, your height and weight. Make all drafts, express and money orders payable at Seymour, Mo. Send all communications, letters, orders and registered letters to THE B. T. ATWELL CO. CUMORAH, MO.

D. F. NICHOLSON, Cashier. H. C. NICHOLSON, Asst. Cashier. COMMERCIAL BANK, LAMONI, IOWA.

R. R. TIME TABLES.

MISSOURI PACIFIC—MAIN LINE DEPOT. TRAINS WEST. No. 65—Wichita and K. C. Mail. 12:49 a.m. " 9—Texas & Nebraska Lim. 4:34 a.m. " 93—Texas, Joplin & K. C. Ex. 5:15 a.m. " 3—St. Louis Express. 6:33 a.m. " 78—Lexington Branch Pass. 8:35 a.m. " 7—Fast Mail. 10:00 a.m. " 91—Joplin and K. C. Mail. 3:16 p.m. " 72—Lexington Branch Pass. 5:51 p.m. " 5—St. Louis Mail. 5:55 p.m. " 71—Lexington Branch Pass. 6:45 p.m. TRAINS EAST. No. 66—K. C. & Wichita Mail. 2:52 a.m. " 72—Lexington Branch Pass. 6:53 a.m. " 6—St. Louis Mail. 7:23 a.m. " 92—K. C. Ex. & Joplin Mail. 8:37 a.m. " 2—St. Louis Through Mail & Pass. 10:17 a.m. " 78—Lex. Branch Passenger. 6:10 a.m. " 4—St. Louis Through Mail & Pass. 1:37 p.m. " 94—K. C. Ex. & Joplin Mail. 7:40 a.m. " 8—St. Louis Through Mail & Pass. 9:30 a.m. " 10—Kan. & Neb. Limited. 11:12 a.m. Nos. 7, 9 and 10 do not stop. LIBERTY STREET DEPOT. TRAINS WEST. No. 73—Lex. Branch Pass. 3:30 a.m. " 71— 6:50 p.m. TRAINS EAST. No. 72—Lex. Branch Pass. 6:44 a.m. " 78— 6:16 p.m. Tel. 7. F. A. MILLARD, Agent.

CHICAGO & ALTON. EAST BOUND. " 101—Local Way Freight. 7:40 a.m. " 47—St. Louis & Chicago Mail. 8:27 a.m. No. 51—Chicago Limited. 6:38 p.m. " 49—St. Louis Flyer. 9:38 p.m. WEST BOUND. " 50—St. Louis Limited. 6:55 a.m. " 62—Chicago Limited. 8:08 p.m. " 102—Local Way Freight. 2:20 a.m. " 48—Chicago & St. Louis Mail. 5:50 a.m. All trains make regular stops. Through tickets to all points in the United States and Canada. For further information regarding rates, etc., call on Tel. 29. J. W. DUGAN, Agent. J. CHARLTON, G. P. & T. Agt., Chicago.

ADVISORY COMMITTEE.

- Mrs. Mary E. Holmes, Pres., Independence, Mo.
- Mrs. H. H. Robinson, Cor. Sec., Independence, Mo.
- Mrs. B. C. Smith, Independence, Mo.
- Mrs. Luella W. Hines, Kansas City, Mo.
- Mrs. Clara Prick, Independence, Mo.
- Mrs. Corlie B. Stebbins, Recording Sec., Lamoni, Ia.
- Mrs. Anna Murphy, Treas., Independence, Mo.

DAUGHTERS OF ZION DEPARTMENT.

MRS. H. B. GURTIS, Editor.

"OUR AIM, MANKIND TO BLESS."

THE MODEL HOME.

I believe it is only cowards who apologize, but feel that I shall have to be a coward this once. The good "house wife" can appreciate to the full extent the ever present discomfort of moving, more especially when it is from one city to another. I cannot, however, consistently dwell at length upon the general "up-side-down-ness" of everything, because, in the midst of our household chaos, my mind has turned to the contemplation of the model home, from which, however, moving and the horrors incident thereto have been excluded. In view of the above, I hope the editor has your sympathy, for whatever imperfections this week's column may present. In calling it the model home, I meant it in a practical sense, and not one of those visionary model homes, not possible of human attainment. Into this home I would first introduce good health as the autocrat who rules, us morally, mentally and physically. The ancient Greeks placed side by side, good health and good morals, sound body and sound mind. God has thought enough of the body of man to give special instruction concerning it, and it seems like egotism on our part to slight it. Strive then for a sound body and be sure a sound mind will be the natural sequence.

To this end I hope soon to have ready for insertion whenever space permits, a series of the physical culture movements that will tend to develop our grown and growing girls. The inspired writers have recognized the close allegiance of body and mind. A prominent physician was once asked for the best rules of hygiene. "The gospel of Jesus Christ" was his prompt reply. "Love one another," "pray for them that despitefully use you" and "do good to them that hate you" will keep the heart and mind pure, and in turn react upon the health.

That faith and trust the Savior invites will lighten our spirits and thus stimulate the proper functions of the body, and the temperance in all things counselled will save us from the ravage of excesses.

I believe every true home should be consecrated to God by erecting the family altar therein. There is nothing which enters into that home life requiring arbitration that cannot be settled by the Word of God. Let religion into the home, let it do its full work and the Lord will recognize and bless. Children should be taught, not only the beauty of religion, but by familiarity with it as applied to all conditions and exigencies of life, will learn to accept it as a practical guide and safe counselor. Let us next invite into this home love and unity, twin virtues that wait upon its happiness and success. Love is charitable, it is patient, it is helpful; it is the oil that makes the domestic machinery run smoothly.

Order is heaven's first law. It is therefore a much to be desired factor in the rearing of a model home. Order and method enable us to accomplish twice as much as we could otherwise, and with far less inconvenience to ourselves. A home should be like a hive of bees, and this brings us to industry; not one or two busy ones, but all working together in proportion to their ability. No drones in our model home. Patience, knowledge, cheerfulness, economy, hospitality and all the other virtues are the legitimate offspring of these great primary principles. Health, religion, order, love and industry; I can only add one thing more; what a beautiful thing it would be if our children would never hear in the home a derogatory remark about anyone, and especially about a brother or sister in Christ. How grand if they could be trained from childhood to look only for the good. What a stride forward in spirituality, and how it would bless the homes of the future. I believe it would do its part toward abolishing wrong doing. Says Christ, "Whatever things are true, whatsoever things are just, whatsoever things are of good report, if there be any virtue and if there be any praise, think on these things."

With such homes, our boys and girls are safe. The world is not apt to sully, but will be the gainer for their having lived in it. Above all, let us be generous in distributing the influence of these good homes, that they may be.

As the reflection of a light Between two burnished mirrors gleams,
Or lumps upon a bridge at night, Stretch on and on before the sight, Till the long vista endless seems.

"The woman who does woman's work needs a many sided, multi-form culture; the heights and depths of human life must not be beyond the reach of her vision; she must have knowledge of men and things in many states, a wide catholicity of sympathy, the strength that springs from knowledge and the magnanimity that springs from strength. She bears the world and she makes it. The souls of little children are marvelously delicate and tender things, and keep forever the shadow that first falls upon them, and that is the mother's."—Selected.

JOTS BY THE WAYSIDE.

BY T. W. CHATBURN.

NEWPORT BEACH.—It's seldom we come down here; this time I came to see president of district, Bro. "C," who, with his family, are sunburning on the beach.

This is a sandy place and every time I visit it, it seems more sandy than before. There are two planks laid down for sidewalks, the campers paying tribute to keep the sand shoveled off. I heard they had found the plank once or twice this summer, but sand is clean and healthy for children, and there are scores of the little scamps, sunburned and browned, who will never see happier days.

People never get sick or die at Newport beach, unless they drown, then the people will stand on the beach and see them carried out to sea and merely wonder why there is no life saving apparatus at Newport. The bathing is very nice, the surf is full of happy folks, women and children predominate. Cream, vaseline or arnica are in great demand at the beach, to anoint the sunburned fair ones. There are no doctors here, no one gets sick nor are there any children born. Churches are an unknown quantity; this is a place of pleasure seekers instead of God. Sunday is an unusual bathing day, all know it's wicked, but think it is awfully nice. Newport beach can never be made beautiful, but it may be made comfortable and should be. Rents are high; every cottage, shack, tent and wickings are full, commanding from one dollar to twenty per week. Our brother, Wm. McMullen, "wharf master" at the beach, greets one with a smiling face and lots of good Irish wit, which makes you feel at home although you may be on a sandy foundation. He is son-in-law to the much lamented D. S. Mills, deceased.

Newport, however, is a place for people who want to rest and save laundry bills; where the quiet minded and hard working people find a pleasant outing; they can lie on the warm sand and lave in the 'sunshine alternating with the white surf and appropriate all the good, bracing, brownning ocean winds for a few blissful weeks. Conventionalities and style are not known here.

There goes a girl in her bathing suit, bare footed, with a rake and pail; she is going clamming.

There comes a whole family, they are going at it systematically; there are always strangers to be initiated, they will be wiser by sundown, but lots of fun. Up towards the end of the tent row there are eight strapping big fellows; they have been splashing in the surf all morning, and will be out soon with appetites that cause the cook to groan for sympathy. See that fat man and slim lady, and the pretty girl dipping her dainty toes in the surf, reluctant to devote her body to the devastating wave, but here comes the big breaker; as it rolls toward them they dive through its foaming crest with a splash and a shout that makes the blood tingle with joy. But we must be away, back to the gospel tent to assist Bro. Anderson in telling the message we bear to those who are hungering and thirsting for the bread of life.

Wonderful Ruins in New Mexico.

A party who recently returned from Pajarsto (pah-yahrs-toh) canyon, in New Mexico, report the excavation of a number of large, stone ruins between Bland and Espanola. The building discovered was 560x450 feet, entirely of stone, carefully dressed. It was two or three stories high originally, but now only walls six to ten feet remain standing. The upper story evidently was open to the sky, and upon this the dwellers in the building probably spent both night and day.

Butitis the finds made in a room nine by twelve feet in size that are the most suggestive of the civilization of the ancient people. An old furnace for smelting was found, near which was a large iron bar, deeply incrustated with rust, also pieces of rich, copper ore, as well as gold ornaments and a piece of beautiful turquoise. Twenty-five pieces of pottery of great beauty and brilliancy were in the room. They were heavy, fully one-quarter of an inch thick, and decorated inside and outside with unique designs, showing some degree of uniformity.

Among the other articles found were beautiful woven baskets, iron knives, stone battle axes, polished stone reflectors, and several musical instruments.—Our Times, New York, September 15th.

THE Autobiography of Elder Joseph Luff, of the apostle's quorum, is a book full of interest from beginning to end. Bro. Luff is so widely and so favorably known in and out of the church in his years of service in gospel work, that the mere mention of a work of this kind being offered should create a desire to possess it. Two fine sermons are included in its pages and the price is so reasonable that every Saint's home should have this book in their library. It's a splendid thing for the Sunday School library also. 75 cents cloth, postage prepaid.

Graceland College Subscription Lists.

All persons having in their hands subscription lists for cancellation of Graceland College debt are hereby requested to make return of the same by the 15th of October next. It is desirable to get the full number in and ascertain how many, if any, of the one thousand subscribers are lacking. Any parties who have lists in their hands and who have not presented them to branches and individuals as requested, please do so at once and then forward subscription list to the undersigned and oblige. We have on lists already returned a goodly number of subscribers, and if those to come in do as well it will place our educational work where it should be.

To those who have not subscribed to this fund already, we hope you will do so at once, and if subscription list is not presented to you by local agent, please send your name to the undersigned at Lamoni, Iowa, and oblige. Do not delay this a day. We will give due notice when the lists are filled to the amount of one thousand twenty-five dollar subscriptions, and subscribers will have due notice and opportunity to fulfill the obligation. Desiring to hear from one and all by the 15th of October, 1900, I am, in behalf of the bishopric,

A PURE GRAPE CREAM OF TARTAR POWDER

Highest Honors, World's Fair Gold Medal, Midwinter Fair
Avoid Baking Powders containing alum. They are injurious to health.

Very respectfully,
E. L. KILLEY,
Presiding Bishop.

LAMONI, Ia., Sept. 24.

DIED.

DAVIDSON.—At Long Pine, Nebraska, September 3, 1900, Evaline M., daughter of Bro. John J. and Sr. Mary G. Davidson. She was born January 24, 1882, at New Troy, Herriot county, Michigan, and was baptized by Elder R. S. Mengel, near Coxville, Nebraska, October 5, 1899. Funeral services in Congregational church, Long Pine, conducted by the pastor of that church.

FISHER.—At the residence of her grandmother, Sr. Fisher, 1212 North 5th Street, Burlington, Iowa, Ida Fisher, aged 11 years. She was born at Burlington, November 2, 1889, and was blessed by her great grandfather, Elder John Bauer. She fell a victim to diphtheria and died September 7, 1900. Funeral services at the family home, 9:30 a. m., September 8th, by Elder James McKiernan. Interment at Aspen Grove cemetery.

CONSUMPTION

Do not think for a single moment that consumption will ever strike you a sudden blow. It does not come that way. It creeps its way along. First you think it is a little cold, nothing but a little hacking cough; then a little loss in weight; then a harder cough; then the fever and the night sweats. Better stop the disease while it is yet creeping. Better cure your cough today.

You can do it with

Ayer's Cherry Pectoral

The pressure on the chest is lifted, that feeling of suffocation is removed, and you are cured. You can stop that little cold with a 25 cent bottle; harder coughs will need a 50 cent size; if it's on the lungs the one dollar size will be most economical.

"I confidently recommend Ayer's Cherry Pectoral to all my patrons. I am using it now in my own family. Forty years ago I feel sure it saved my life."—J. H. HOBBS, Jr., Jan. 4, 1899. Fort Madison, Iowa.

Write the Doctor at any time. Address, Dr. J. C. AYER, Lowell, Mass.

ZION'S ENSIGN.

"OUR CREED: ALL TRUTH."

VOLUME 11.

INDEPENDENCE, MISSOURI, THURSDAY, OCTOBER 11, 1900.

NUMBER 41.

ZION'S ENSIGN.

A Literary and Religious Newspaper, published in the interest of social, scientific and religious truth, every Thursday, at Independence, Jackson County, Missouri.

PRICE, $1.00 PER YEAR, IN ADVANCE.

ENSIGN PUBLISHING HOUSE,
Or the Reorganized Church of Jesus Christ of Latter Day Saints.

W. H. GARRETT, EDITOR.
J. W. LUFF, BUSINESS MANAGER.

Make all remittances, and address all communications to Editor, Postoffice Box, H. B. Independence, Jackson County, Missouri.

New subscriptions can begin at any time. If possible to avoid it, never send silver as it is liable to wear through the envelope and be lost.

Always give the name of the post office to which your paper is sent or we can not find your name on our lists.

When desiring your address changed, give both the old and new address.

Papers will be discontinued one month from the time subscriptions expire, unless ordered continued.

In making remittances, money orders are preferable for they are absolutely safe. If you can avoid it, do not send gold or stamps. Canadian stamps are an entire loss, and Canadian currency is only worth ninety cents on the dollar to us, for that is all we can get for it at the banks.

Letters should be addressed, and orders and drafts made payable to
ENSIGN PUBLISHING HOUSE,
Independence, Mo.

Box B.

THE REUNION.

Dow City, Iowa, a nicely situated little hamlet on the lines of the Chicago & Northwestern and Illinois Central Railways, about sixty-three miles east of Omaha, Nebraska, was the scene of a pleasant gathering of the Saints commencing Friday, September 28th and closing Sunday evening, October 7th. The place selected by the committee for setting up the camp was the city park, about five minutes' walk from the railway station, the end of the principal business street, terminating at the midway entrance to the park. It is a level lot of about two or three acres, well shaded, and having an abundant supply of the very finest of water furnished by a driven well and lifted into a large tank by a 1 1/2 horse power gasoline engine.

Organization was had by placing Presidents Joseph Smith and E. L. Kelley, Apostle J. W. Wight (missionary in charge) and High Priest C. E. Butterworth in charge; A. H. Rudd, D. M. Rudd and Oscar Case secretaries; S. B. Kibler and James Pearsall choristers; and Brn. W. A. Carroll, J. M. Baker, J. L. Butterworth, R. Wight and Wm. Pett police. The first session was held Friday, Sept. 28th at 10:45 a. m., and after organizing preliminaries had been completed, short, encouraging talks were given by President Joseph Smith, C. E. Butterworth and J. M. Baker. At 2:30 p. m. after a half hour's prayer service short talks were made by different brethren. At 7:30 p. m. Bro. C. E. Butterworth was the speaker, taking as his theme, "The law of the Lord is perfect."

Saturday morning prayer service was led by Brn. A. Jackson and Oscar Case. Bro. J. M. Stubbart of Lamoni, Iowa, preaching at 10:45; Bro. J. F. Mintun at 2:30 p. m. and President Joseph Smith at 7:30 p. m. Bro. J. F. Mintun called the assembly together at 4:15 p. m. and organized for Sunday School, Religio, and Daughters of Zion work.

Sunday dawned clear and warm and a good number were in attendance at all the services of the day. The morning hour was occupied by Pres. Joseph Smith, who delivered at the request of Sr. Melinda McIntosh, the funeral sermon of her daughter, Sr. Maggie McIntosh, the youngest child of Bro. John A. (deceased) and Sr. Melinda McIntosh who died last May. In the afternoon Elder R. M. Elvin was the speaker and at the close of the sermon Mr. Green, mayor of Dow City, delivered an address of welcome to the visiting Saints, which was fittingly acknowledged on behalf of the Saints by President Joseph Smith. At night Bishop E. L. Kelley discoursed to a good sized audience of attentive listeners.

Monday dawned stormy, the rain and wind making the surroundings very uncomfortable. While the brethren were at breakfast the wind cast the roof of the big tent upon some standards which were placed to hold up the lamps, tearing the canvas badly in three places. New canvas was procured by the committee and the willing hands and deft fingers of a number of the sisters present on the grounds soon made the tent better than it was before. The morning prayer meeting was held in the Saints' church and a good spiritual experience was enjoyed by a full house. The rain having ceased, the 10:45 service was held in the tent, Bro. Chas. Derry preaching a fine sermon. The afternoon was devoted to Sunday School work in charge of Bro. J. F. Mintun, Bro. T. A. Hougas being unable to be present owing to illness. At night Bro. J. R. Lambert of Lamoni, Iowa, preached in his usual forceful manner.

Tuesday morning was clear and the morning prayer service in the tent was well attended and enjoyed. Bishop C. J. Hunt of Deloit, Iowa, spoke upon the titling requirements at 10:45. The afternoon was occupied with Religio work, Bro. Mintun being in charge; an interesting session was passed. At night Bro. Fred A. Smith of the Omaha mission, preached a very instructive discourse upon the promise of the Savior, "If any man will do the will of the Father he shall know of the doctrine," etc.

Wednesday morning Presiding Bishop E. L. Kelley of Lamoni was the speaker, closing his sermon a little before the noon hour. As soon as he had taken his seat, to the surprise of most of the audience, at least, the chairs on one side of the pulpit were quickly carried across to the other side, leaving a vacant space into which Pres. Joseph Smith stepped simultaneously with the occupancy of the organ stool by Sr. Nellie Martin of Perry, Iowa, who sounded out the notes of a well known march and out from tent No. 1, occupied by Bro. W. A. Carroll and wife of Auburn, Iowa, marched a young couple into the tent, up the aisle to the platform where President Joseph Smith received them, and in a remarkably short time she who had been Sr. Effie Abbie Rounds, a comely lass of some 19 summers, daughter of Oliver and Abbie Rounds, became Mrs. Yokely Carroll. Congratulations followed the benediction. Bro. Carroll is the eldest son of Bro. and Sr. W. A. Carroll, and is a tonsorial artist at Auburn, where the newly wedded pair will make their home. At night Pres. Joseph Smith supplemented the effort of Bro. F. A. Smith Tuesday by a sermon on the same subject. The afternoon was used for Sunday School Institute work.

Thursday morning, Bro. J. R. Lambert addressed the Saints. At 2:30 p. m. Bro. Chas. Derry was the speaker, and at the close of the sermon Mrs. M. Walker, of Lamoni, Iowa, and M. E. Hulmes, of Independence, Missouri, took the stand and presented the interests of the Daughters of Zion society. Sr. Hulmes made a brief but interesting address, outlining the aims and objects of the society, and then introduced Sr. Walker, the "mother" of the society, who clearly and ably explained the importance of the work to be accomplished, and the weighty responsibility resting upon the "daughters of Zion," for the accomplishment of the "army of the Lord." She was listened to with earnest attention. Several of the sisters spoke in support of the movement, and a number of the brethren would have added their testimony had time permitted. An enthusiastic local was organized as a result of the efforts of these good sisters, and the prospects are encouraging for a wide spread of this much needed "help."

At the evening hour Bro. J. W. Wight led his audience up the gospel ladder in his usual energetic and forceful manner. Friday morning Bro. R. M. Elvin ably presented the claims of Graceland College. At the close of this service nine were baptized by Apostle J. W. Wight. The afternoon sermon was by Bro. Fred A. Smith, of the high priests. President Joseph Smith preached at night, to a good sized audience, who listened very attentively. Saturday morning Bro. J. R. Lambert preached a splendid discourse upon the duties of the Saints. At 2:30 p. m. the business session was held, and after a reading of committee's report, and other necessary preliminaries, the place for holding the reunion for A. D. 1901 was presented and Dow City received the unanimous vote of the assembly, the time being left to the committee, Brn. C. E. Butterworth, J. M. Baker, A. H. Rudd, D. M. Rudd and W. A. Carroll, who served this last year, and are continued for another year. Bro. Chas. Derry occupied at night, in his usual logical and philosophical manner, to the edification of the audience.

Sunday morning was clear but quite cool. At 7:30 a. m. Sunday School was conducted, in charge of Brn. T. A. Hougas, General Superintendent, who had arrived Thursday afternoon, and J. F. Mintun; a successful session was enjoyed. At 10:45 Bishop Kelley was the speaker, four being baptized in the Boyer river, at the close of the sermon, Bro. D. M. Rudd officiating, making thirteen baptized during the reunion. At 2:30 p. m. Bro. J. W. Wight preached a very effective sermon on authority, using the blackboard to emphasize his points. At night, in a splendid spirit, President Smith delivered the closing sermon; it was a remarkably good effort, and the audience, which filled the tent, listened with unabated interest to the close.

There was a large crowd present, the largest since the opening of the reunion, but the order was unbroken, so far as we observed. The brethren acting as police were vigilant but wise, and everything passed off without any unpleasant experience. The weather unfortunately, doubtless, prevented a good many of the Saints from tenting; there were but eighty-four or eighty-five tents on the ground, but two hundred or more could have been easily accommodated. The hotels and many private houses were full of guests attending the reunion, but the attendance was not so great as in former years; however, the thought was expressed that the reunion of 1901 will bear a different testimony, and we believe it will.

The prayer meetings at 9 o'clock were very enjoyable, the testimonies being cheering and the gifts of the Spirit being quite freely manifest in prophecy, tongues and interpretations. The reunion of 1900 was a success.

EDITORIAL ITEMS.

BISHOP R. MAY was at Holden, Missouri, last Sunday and reported a good time. Bro. C.

Fred Scarcliff was ordained an elder in the afternoon, an excellent spirit being present. Bro. May returned Sunday evening.

BRO. JOSEPH KIRBY, Box 507, Allegan, Michigan, desires the address of some Latter Day Saint living in Leavenworth, Kansas.

SR. ALICE R. CORSON, 3829 4th street, Fulton, Richmond, Virginia, desires a few copies of the ENSIGN of July 20th. Those having a copy of that date will confer a favor by sending to her.

We regret to learn that Bro. Arthur Allen is in very poor health at his home, Holden, Missouri, suffering from malaria. His friends regard his condition as rather serious. Remember him in your prayers, Saints.

BRO. and SR. L. R. DEVORE have moved from their former home, Graysville, Ohio, and are now locating at Holden, Missouri. They are much pleased with the country, and when they get fully settled, they will enjoy the surroundings. They will be a great help to the work at Holden. We are also informed that Bro. James Moler and family will shortly take up their residence at the same place. We extend a welcome to the Zion land to these faithful Saints.

EXTRACTS FROM LETTERS.

ELDER F. C. KECK, Blendville, Missouri:

Conference is over and we had a good time. Bro. I. N. White will preach here until the 12th, then at Webb City until the 19th, and at Weir City until the 26th. Saints of Spring River district please take notice, remember these dates and attend.

ELDER HIRAM L. HOLT writes that Bro. D. Allen and himself are in the Joaquin Valley, and that his address will be Tulare City, California. He adds:

We have the district tent with us ready to do work anywhere in these parts, either with the tent or without. It is a hard year to get the gospel before the people, but who knows when it will be any better, so let us go to with our might and we will be free.

BRO. WM. J. LEVITT, Chipewawa, Michigan:

There are twenty Saints here, all starting on new places, but we are hopeful and trying to live as becomes Saints of God; we have Bible reading and prayer meeting every Sunday afternoon, and God recognizes us by a goodly portion of His blessed Spirit, until as one good sister said last Sunday: "I tell you, one needs a handkerchief in such meetings as these." I think, if we continue to live as we are now doing, we shall be the means in God's hands of spreading the gospel light abroad in this place. I have an invitation to go to a new place four miles from here and preach next Sunday. I believe there is a division in Babylon over there, so now is the chance.

GENERAL CHURCH NEWS.

INDEPENDENCE.

In editorial, read fifteen instead of thirteen baptized at the late reunion at Dow City.

Weather very pleasant this week, nights and mornings cool.

Sunday morning Elder Joseph Luff preached at the Saints' church, Bro. Geo. H. Hulmes occupying at night.

We will try to tell you next week about the ringing of the wedding bells in a city not a thousand miles distant.

The platform at Short and West Electric streets is proving quite a convenience for the patrons of the electric line who reside in that neighborhood.

Sr. Smart's new building, adjoining Brn. Joseph Luff and Geo. Hayward, is assuming goodly proportions. It will be a nice, modern home and a credit to the neighborhood.

Sr. James Hendrickson is spending a week visiting her brother and family, at Arko, Missouri, whom she has not seen for sixteen years. She was accompanied by Sr. W. H. Garrett.

Mr. Charles H. Peek and Sr. Maggie A. Blatt were married last Saturday night, October 6th, at the home of the bride's mother, Sr. W. H. Blatt, Bishop R. May officiating. The ENSIGN extends congratulations and best wishes.

Bro. and Sr. J. A. Robinson, Sr., and Sr. Belle James are visiting in Toronto, Canada, renewing old acquaintances and taking a much needed rest. They are enjoying the association very much as well as the good meetings had there.

Mrs. Louis H. Horn, of St. Joseph, Missouri, and Mr. and Mrs. Gustavus A. Horn, of Ogden, Utah, gave us a call Wednesday, of last week. Mrs. G. A. Horn is the niece of Bishop James Taylor, one of the oldest and most prominent Mormons of Utah.

Bro. Wm. Crick's new home on West Electric street, adjoining Bro. and Sr. M. T. Short's residence, presents a fine appearance; the first story is stone veneered, slated from second story to roof. This kind of a residence gives the city an inviting appearance.

The old weatherboarded log house, corner West Lexington and Osage streets, just opposite the old ENSIGN office, has been torn down preparatory to building a number of cheap, one-story buildings on the ground from the corner up to those already erected. The old land marks are being rapidly obliterated.

Bro. J. W. Brackebury and family left, with his son, Luther, and family, for California last week, where they will make their home for some time. The western climate seems to agree with Bro. J. W.'s health better than that of Missouri. We trust they may be prospered every way and accomplish good for the work of the Lord.

Mr. William A. Harper and Sr. Susie L. Burhart, both of Independence, called at the home of Elder Joseph Luff, on Wednesday evening of last week, and presented him with a document which authorized him to unite them in matrimonial bonds, which he proceeded to do forthwith. The next train out from town carried the happy pair to Lexington, Missouri, where they will make their home. They carry with them the congratulations and good wishes of all who know them.

The brethren, Hulmes, Kress & Co. (Geo. H. Hulmes, Victor Kress and Frank Criley, the latter late business manager Herald Publishing House), are meeting with deserved recognition in the fine, artistic work they are putting up in Kansas City, U. S. A. Their picture work is life-like, and their sign work up-to-date. They have been regularly enrolled among the manufacturing concerns of Kansas City, and are acknowledged as the foremost firm in their line in the city, and this in the face of the opposition of the Chicago "Gunning's" system, which occupied first place prior to the advent of this firm. Bro. B. Frank Hulmes is chief sign writer and does work of the finest character. We are proud of them, for besides being good business men, they are faithful members of the church.

Next Monday evening an important meeting of the branch will be held at which every member should be present, as the business to be considered is of the deepest interest to them. The meeting is called to consider the necessity now pressing upon the branch for a system of heating which will make the church comfortable at all seasons. An offer has been made, accompanied by a guarantee, which seems quite satisfactory, the chief question being the amount required to put it in. Every one must see the immediate need of this improvement and should carefully consider what they are able and willing to give towards it, and when they name the amount, should be ready to respond as soon as called upon. One brother has voluntarily offered one hundred dollars towards it, and such generosity should be promptly met in the same spirit, and there will be no difficulty or delay in putting in the heating apparatus.

LANONI, IOWA.

The usual services were held at the brick church yesterday. President J. A. Gunsolley addressed the Saints both morning and evening, delivering two very profitable discourses. We would like to hear from the shepherd of the flock oftener than we do. The afternoon prayer meeting was a very spiritual one; the gift of tongues and exhortation were present, edifying and encouraging the hearts of all. Bro. Will France spoke at Andover, Sunday evening.

Wednesday afternoon, about 5 o'clock, the officers and teachers of the Sunday School gathered at the home of Bro. and Sr. D. F. Nicholson, to pay their farewell respects to Sr. W. W. Blair, who left for California the following day. As a token of love and esteem of her co-workers in the Sunday School, a beautiful copy of the New Testament Inspired Translation, bound in Morocco, and Winowed Songs were presented to her. Bro. J. A. Gunsolley made the presentation speech, to which she responded with a few well chosen remarks. She was accompanied by Sr. Fred Blair and Master Wayne, and Sr. Alice E. Cobb; they will join Bro. Fred Blair at Oakland, California, where they will be located for the winter.

Bro. John Shippy met with an accident which has confined him to his bed for the past week. Sr. Shippy is also sick. We trust the administrations have been effectual.

A little son was born to Bro. and Sr. Aaron Allen on Thursday.

The Decatur district conference met with the Lone Rock branch last Saturday and Sunday. Brn. R. S. Salyards, Wm. Anderson and H. N. Snively delivered the sermons. Good prayer meeting in charge of the district officers, on Sunday at 2:30. Bro. Francis M. Harp was ordained to the office of teacher, and Bro. W. T. Rook to the priest's office. Next conference to meet in February, at Greenville church at call of district president.

The Evergreen branch will dedicate their church next Sunday. President Joseph Smith will conduct the exercises.

How disappointed we are when we fail to find St. Joseph items in ENSIGN. G. L. K. October 8.

CHICAGO, ILLINOIS.

Branch headquarters, 716 W. Van Buren St. Sunday meetings 2:45 and 7:45 p. m.; Lang Mission, 3411 Cottage Grove Ave., 10:45 a. m. and 7:30 p. m.; West Fullman branch, 748 119th St., 10:30 a. m. and 7:30 p. m.; 608 W. 37th St. (colored mission), 10:30 a. m. and 7:30 p. m.

There was a fair representation of the district at our conference just closed at Plano. The walls of the old stone church resounded with the firm testimony, the song of joy and praise and the preaching of the word. Brn. H. C. Smith, H. E. Moler, A. J. Keck, J. T. Hackett, G. H. Henley and H. Southwick, of the ministry were present, and if there were any other the writer might be mentioned. The business passed off smoothly, though some of the business was not so smooth. Bro. H. C. Smith gave us a very able sermon Sunday night, on "The two Covenants," showing the contrast and the superiority of the Christian over the Mosaic. Bro. Southwick was continued president and Bro. J. F. Keir, secretary. The general spirit was good and the tendency onward.

Our brother, E. E. Johnson, is gaining in strength slightly, yet confined to his bed. He gets relief through administration.

Bro. H. C. Smith, our general missionary in charge, will be with us over next Sunday, 14th, preaching at the mission, 3411 Cottage Grove avenue, at 11 a. m., and at branch headquarters at 7:45 p. m. There will be held the usual sacramental service at 8 o'clock. We would love to see all these services well attended. Bro. Smith will preach at West Pullman, Monday night.

We had a very enjoyable priesthood meeting on the night of the first. A universal willingness was expressed by all present to enter anew into the prosecution of the city work and seek new fields in which to present the word, also to continue street work as long as possible. So if this spirit is prosecuted, and we so believe, the work will surely move.

Bro. Charles Culver, one of our good, careful deacons, is spending his vacation in the land southward from Zion, getting acquainted with the Lamanites while recuperating in body. We hope for Charles a profitable trip and safe return.

Bro. H. A. Stebbins has changed his route and will not visit our city as expected. Bro. H. C. Smith will occupy as announced.

We hope for a good, large day next Sunday in all our services all over the city.

Bro. G. H. Graves is without a hall just now, the owners of the one he occupied renting to other parties for more money. He will soon be located again, however, and continue the work. Bro. W. H. Fuller is engaged busily in street work at various points, reaching colored and white.

A resolution was passed at the conference asking the district to share in the expense of the mission work among the colored people in Chicago. If each branch will share a little in this, the work will be prosecuted more vigorously. The money to be expended by the joint counsel of the bishop's agent and missionary in charge of Chicago. Bro. Midgorden will counsel each branch in this matter. This fund will be reported to each conference with complete statement. Any wishing to commence at once can send to Bro. J. Midgorden, St. Avenger, Illinois. Hoping for final rest.

Your brother,
J. M. TERRY.

395 Ogden Ave., Oct. 8.

SAN FRANCISCO, CALIFORNIA.

Services at Golden West Hall, 320 Post street, every Sunday. Sunday School 10 a. m., preaching 11 a. m. and 7:30 p. m.; prayer meeting first Sunday of each month at 12:15 noon. Elder C. A. Parkin presiding elder, residence 3010 16th street.

Our Sunday School held its regular session at 10 a. m. Sunday. The attendance holds up to the usual number and the interest continues. We had preaching at 11 a. m. by A. B. Phillips, and at 7:30 by A. Haws; both sermons were good and well received.

The branch prayer meetings are better attended than ever. Bro. Saxe's parlors are crowded every Wednesday evening of late. At the last meeting we had the pleasure of having Bro. J. F. Burton with us.

At the Friday evening Religion there was good attendance. Bro. Edgar Smith had a fine paper, very well written and nicely read. There were also several other very interesting numbers on the program and all were active and energetic.

Bro. R. Etzenhouser is at Sacramento, where, with the assistance of the branch, he is stirring up quite an interest in the work. Fred Blair is at Santa Rosa; A. B. Phillips has gone to Stockton; Pres. A. H. Smith is in San Jose; A. M. Chase remains at Oakland, putting in good ticks and keeping the cause before the people. Brn. Allen and Holt were at Walnut Creek when last heard from. With this scattering of the missionaries it seems like the people ought to learn something about the Saints and their doctrines.

Our winter rains have commenced and already the hills are beginning to tinge with green, but it is still warm and pleasant here. Business is dull and times are quiet. Politics interfere with the general run of things.

GEO. S. LINCOLN.

October 5.

SECOND KANSAS CITY BRANCH.

Elder J. D. White preached Sunday morning from the third chapter of John.

The afternoon prayer meeting was a season of rejoicing because of the presence of the Spirit in power.

At the evening meeting Bro. Joseph Emmett spoke on the 9th and 10th verses of 2d chapter of 1st Corinthians. The efforts of the day will surely bring forth fruits to the glory of God and the upbuilding of Zion.

Our chapel is under cover; the roof was put on last week. When it is finished it will be large enough to hold a district conference in.

JOHN C. GRAINGER.
2124 East Street.

LETTER DEPARTMENT.

BRIDGE, Oregon, October 2.

Editor Ensign:—This writing finds me up for repairs, but I hope soon to be about my "Master's business."

I wish to take this means of expressing my thanks to those Saints who came to my aid last spring to assist me into my field of labor. May the good Lord bless them for the same; and while I did not receive the necessary amount, I had some given me to purchase clothing, which (though I was greatly in need of it) I took from that fund and paid my way to my field. One good sister took one garment, sewed and otherwise repaired it, and a good brother did the same to another one, till now they look fairly well, but three years of service to a suit is nearly all it can stand.

This county (Coos) presents a very inviting field for labor, although much prejudice remains. Some twenty odd years ago the work was first introduced in this county by Bro. J. C. Clapp, when some twelve accepted the truth, but of these only a few remain true to their covenant. However, this is not to be wondered at when we come to consider that for some twenty years they were not visited by the ministry, and as one of them remarked to the writer, "we concluded we would have to live and die alone."

But some few years ago Bro. Joseph Luff came and revived the work and baptized a few; then later Brn. Holt and Chase came and did likewise, and a year ago Bro. Chase and writer did some labor, when nine were added by baptism. This year Bro. C. E. Crumley and the writer have been doing missionary labor, and to date have baptized eleven, while others have given their names and we hope will obey ere long. We now have thirty-one or thirty-two members in this county in a disorganized condition, but we expect this to be attended to when Bro. Griffiths comes, which we expect soon.

I wish to say to all who have written me in regards to labor, be a little patient, I hope to reach you all in time. I may be a little slow, but, I hope, sure. My plan is to work the ground good as I go, then when I leave a place I feel I have done my duty.

Books and Pamphlets

PRICE LIST

Table listing various books and pamphlets with their prices, including titles like 'FROM PALMYRA TO INDEPENDENCE', 'THE BOOK OF MORMON', and 'THE LEGAL SUCCESSOR'.

Bro. Crumley will settle his family in this country and will be a great help to the work. I find him a very agreeable co-worker and an able defender of the faith, and I feel to recommend him to all, as worthy of confidence and support, which I pray will be given him.

My meetings were fairly well attended considering everything. I am to return there again before leaving this part of my field, and one is to be baptized on my return.

The Saints in this field, as in all places I have traveled, have been very kind, and take pleasure in administering to the wants of the stranger who sojourns among them; one cannot but feel at home with them, as one man (not a member) remarked to the writer, "I find a feeling of love and friendship I find nowhere else."

I think the West is headquarters for his Satanian majesty, but there are many noble souls throughout this country, and I hope they may hear and obey the truth, that sinners may turn and live; for such we labor and pray.

My address till November 1st will be Myrtle Point, Coos county, Oregon. Yours in hope of eternal life. D. L. HARRIS.

Cove, Ark., Sept. 18.

Editor Ensign:—I arrived home on the 12th inst., from Wilburton, Indian Territory, where I had been laboring for a time, having accomplished but little; but being invited to give them a call, I did so, doing the best I could. The branch was, and still is, in a much divided condition. At the end of ten days, found my efforts a failure, and was on the eve of taking leave of them when Elder Smart arrived in the place, coming to Bro. Peter Adamson's, the priest of the branch, at supper time. After the meal we talked the matter over, and nothing would do but I must remain awhile longer, and together with the newly arrived brother make another trial to bring about a unity in the branch.

Bro. Smart came with me to Cove, where a hearty welcome was awaiting us. He came to visit some old acquaintances and remained some five days preaching to the people, delivering five discourses with increasing congregations, and interest from start to finish. Everybody pleased, as well as the preacher himself, who said he never met with a people who made him feel as if he were right at home so much as the branch at Cove. He thinks we have the model branch of all the southwest.

Our branch is indeed in fine condition, owing largely to the efficient labor of the president and other officers of the branch. It is most encouraging to the missionary, having been gone for months, to return and be received with open arms, "glad to see you," and kind greetings on every hand. Yes, we have to believe God has a people in Cove. We have labored to build them up and will continue so to do; and so will we try to do wherever we may be.

Bro. Smart returned to Wilburton where he left his horse and buggy, the animal being much jaded and needing rest. We found the brother a most congenial companion, a wise and good counselor, and truly a man of God, and in the work in dead earnest. May many more such be added to the church and ministry. Hope to have him for a yoke fellow sometime. Yours for the good of the cause, D. D. BARCOCK.

CHILLICOTHE, Mo., Oct. 4.

Dear Ensign:—I have just returned from the Far West district conference; had a splendid time. Our noble brethren, J. C. Foss and Swen Swensen, gave such good instruction, proving that the Lord had put his seal upon them; that God is true; that we are his servants, preaching the gospel of our Lord Jesus Christ.

I was requested by some of the elders to give a description of Chillicothe and Livingston county, Missouri, as the Saints have turned their heads for land, looking to locate in this beautiful land of Zion. I advise all who want to buy to come and look for themselves. If there are any questions you wish to ask, write me, inclosing stamp. There is no branch here. The country surrounding Chillicothe is second in agriculture to none in the West; a city of 8000 inhabitants, eighty-three miles north-east of Kansas City. Good land can be had for $20 to $35 per acre.

Yours in bonds, R. S. PARKER.

PONTIAC, Mich., July 18.

Dear Ensign:—I thought perhaps a few lines of experience from me might be a little encouragement to some of the readers of the Ensign, although I am a new member. I was born in 1832, in the state of New York, a Quakeress, and brought up by parents who lived very close to their discipline; they moved to Ohio when I was between three and four years old, and well do I remember it too, for they moved with a yoke of oxen; they were eighteen days on the road, and I got very tired. They moved into a new country, where there were no meetings of Friends or Quakers as they are generally called. In the course of two years there were ten families that had moved in that neighborhood, all relatives, and they felt that they must have a place of meeting for worship; so they held meetings at my father's house a year, then it was taken to one of my uncles in the neighborhood, finally they concluded to build a meeting house; they went together, cut logs, hewed them and built a Quaker meeting house, as it was called, where we attended meetings till my parents and a little brother took sick and died, and were buried near it in a week's time, leaving myself, three sisters and one brother to battle with the hardships that come along in this world.

When I was nearly twenty-two years of age I married a Quaker and went with him to Canada to live among Friends, attended meetings twice a week when health and weather would permit; lived there some twelve years, when we moved back to Ohio; but the meetings had gone down, as many of the old members had died, some younger ones had moved away, but the old meeting house stood there, looking forsaken. In 1861 we moved to Pontiac where there was no church of our own that we could attend; there were plenty of churches, the Methodist, Baptist, Presbyterian, Congregationalist, the Free Methodistist, the Church of England and the Catholics. We went to all, especially to all the protracted meetings where we were always very strongly invited to come forward to the mourner's bench to be prayed for, which looked very queer and ridiculous to me. Many times we were asked why we did not join some church and not stand out alone. Oh! how often I think of it now, of what I used to tell them, that I never would join any church till I found one that I thought was better than my own. Eight years ago last April we moved up into Crawford county, nearly two hundred miles from here; a few months after my husband took sick with dropsy of the heart and lingered along for about two years, and died, leaving me very sad and lonely, among strangers and away from relatives, and all I had left was just one daughter, living in Pontiac.

In the course of a year and a half, moved in the neighborhood with his wife and family, and in due time I called on them, and the more I became acquainted with them the more I became attached to them, they were so kind to me. I went often to see them, and in time Mrs. Thayer gave me some of the ENSIGNS, the Saints' Herald and Glad Tidings, the first I had ever seen or heard of the Saints. I read them and got more, for I was very anxious to get acquainted with their religion, and they were very willing to give me all the information I wanted.

In about a year after, by Sr. Thayer's writing, Elder Cornish came and held meetings in our school-house; such preaching as I never heard before, the second sermon he preached I said to myself, that is far ahead of the Quakers, that surely is the true gospel, the only way to salvation, and for a few moments it seemed to me that I was in another world of light, I never can explain. I attended every meeting, which I think was every night for over a week and on Sunday. I shall never forget how very much I enjoyed those meetings. I was fully convinced that it was the only true gospel preached on earth, and I longed to become a good Latter Day Saint.

A year ago last spring I was taken sick with palpitation of the heart, and feared last I might die, before there would be a chance for me to be baptized. When sufficiently recovered I concluded to come to Pontiac to my daughter's, and a few weeks after I received a letter from Sr. Thayer saying that she had written to Elder Durand, of Detroit, to call when passing through Pontiac.

In a few days I received a letter from Elder Durand, saying that he would call to see me on a certain date; himself and wife came, en route to Oxford to visit among some Saints and preach, so I arranged to go with the elder and was baptized in Stony Lake, near Oxford, the 30th day of last July, by Elder E. H. Durand.

Dear Saints, I wouldn't be placed back where I was a year ago, not for all the world, for I have been gaining slowly in health ever since I was baptized; I wished that I might live till I could be baptized, then I thought if God saw fit to take me, I was ready to go. Pray for me, dear brothers and sisters, that I may have health and strength to support myself and that I may be able to do something for the church. I am living on the Auburn road, just about a mile from Saginaw street, just beyond the toll gate, in Mr. Bartlett's tenant house, just across the driveway from their big brick residence. They are very kind people.

I would be much pleased to receive a call from Elder Cornish, also Elder Durand or any of the good Latter Day Saints. I often wish that the Saints could hold a tent meeting here in Pontiac; I can give sleeping room for two men, or two ladies, or a man and his wife, and I will feed all that I can. Please call, for I am a lonely Saint here in Pontiac.

Your sister in the gospel of Jesus Christ, ELIZABETH S. WILLSON.

In care Smith Bartlett.

LEESVILLE, Henry Co., Mo., September 2.

Editor Ensign:—We are a few isolated Saints who are trying to live worthy of the name Saint. We feel oftentimes that it is hard to be separated from the brothers and sisters and church privileges, yet we know God's hand is over us, and he will lead and guide his children if they truly trust him and try to live acceptably in his sight. How glad I am for the hope I have for a better life; I feel to thank my heavenly Father more each day, for leading me into the marvelous light of the gospel of his dear Son, this same gospel which has been restored to earth in these the latter days; my heart goes out today for all humanity. Oh, that all would hear and accept the glad tidings of great joy and keep the faith that was once delivered to the Saints. We know that our probation here is short and growing shorter every day, so let us as Saints endure to the end, be faithful in all things, observe all the commandments, Jesus Christ being our helper, and we shall be crowned with glory and reign with him a thousand years.

Dear Saints, my object in writing this letter was to show you the desire of a lady friend of mine; seven years ago last April I was very sick, lay for two days and nights and did not move only to turn my head on the pillow; I tried the best physician in town, I got no better but grew worse. We sent for Bro. J. H. Wells and W. S. Macrae; they came and administered to me, I got better right away, and in a few days I was well again; this lady was there and saw how bad I was, and here is a true copy of a letter I got from her:

"Dear Friend:—I am in trouble and want your prayers. I have a sister that is very sick and I want your prayers for her. I do not belong to your church, but I firmly believe in your religion. I know your life was saved by prayers and faith in God. My sister's husband was walking along a few days ago and dropped dead. I want you to pray for her that the Father will comfort her and raise up friends for her. Won't you please remember her in prayer Sunday, September 9th, at 10 o'clock in the morning and 4 o'clock in the evening. I firmly believe your prayers will help to save her."

Bro. J. H. Wells, won't you please send the Saints a letter through the ENSIGN.

Your sister in the faith, MARY R. OVERTON.

GUY, Okla. Ter., Sept. 27.

Editor Ensign:—Day before yesterday as I was thinking of what I had had in mind and heart about a sister, having gone the day before to confess to her and ask her forgiveness, the thought came to me that I had not confessed all, and that only by diligence about my duty in this matter could I clear myself.

In ENSIGN dated September 6th, is found a letter from Sr. Corson, in which these words occur: "Now, my word to each is, if you have not laid all on the altar, to do so at once, holding nothing back. Lie not to the Holy Ghost; a full and free giving up of all to God is our duty, and our reasonable service," etc. And in the same number of ENSIGN there is a letter from M. S. Frick, in which, in speaking of meetings they had, he said, "We were warned against the result of ineffective discipline in the homes of His people; that He was pleased with our good desires, but was grieved that our actions were not more in harmony with our desires; that upon the rising generation depends a great work and upon the present fathers and mothers rests this great responsibility."

Now, Saints, I don't know that I can make you see what all this was to me, but with reference to Sr. Corson's remarks, to lay on the altar; a full and free giving up; I had not made all things right that I had done; I had not confessed my sins, and this I must do to lay all on the altar, and come out and be what I am and not keep some things back and make people believe I am all right, and had laid all on the altar, and thus lie to the Holy Ghost if it were possible; but I believe the Holy Spirit would know and would not stay with me.

In Bro. Frick's letter; God was pleased with the good desires of his people, but grieved that our actions were not more in harmony with our desires; now, we teach our children (or I have at least) that if they take any thing they must take it back, and it makes no difference whether it is worth any thing to the person or not, it is stealing just the same; so it is too; but have I, as a parent, done this? Have I set this example? I have not; but I want to do so by making all things right, as far as I can, that I did wrong; I ask the Saints to pray for me, that I may do all the Spirit has bid me.

I remain, MRS. JESSIE WALKER.

ZION'S ENSIGN.
Entered at the Post Office at Independence, Mo., as Second Class Matter.

DIVINITY OF THE BIBLE.

Sermon by Elder J. M. Terry, August
12, 1900, at Chicago, Illinois.

[REPRODUCED BY MABEL SANDERSON.]

We have before us a variety of exercises this afternoon, sacrament, ordination, social meeting and preaching; and I trust that we will get from the services of the hour some good that will be of lasting benefit to us. I shall promise you to curtail my time about one-half, at least, if not more, so as not to weary unnecessarily those in attendance. As a text for the subject we have in hand, I will call your attention to the 42d chapter of Isaiah and the 9th verse, which reads:

The former things are come to pass, and new things do I declare: before they spring forth I tell you of them.

Jesus said, while talking to his apostles concerning his death and resurrection:

And now I have told you before it comes to pass, that when it is come to pass ye may believe.—John 14: 29.

In this text, with the corollary statement of the Savior, we have the foundation upon which we desire to build a few arguments in defense of the divinity of the Bible. Before entering upon an investigation of unfulfilled prophecy, or prophecy fulfilled more especially, we want to have something more to say about that history—the Chinese history—of which we spoke briefly at our last effort. As we turn again to the history of the Chinese nation, we there discover an account of a king who lived years ago under the name of "Yao." Their history declares that in the time of this king there was "a day lost" and the sun grew exceedingly hot so that there was danger of all perishing. By comparing this with the Mosaic history, we find a beautiful harmony. In the days of Joshua the power of God was made manifest when he commanded the sun to stand still, and the moon not to move, and for the space of a day did these things continue. Instead of the Chinese history being a refutation of the divinity of the Bible it comes to us as a beautiful witness testifying to the same things and according with that which we find recorded in the sacred writ.

"There lived a poet by the name of Ovid who amused the children by writing poetry concerning Phaeton's chariot, and during the time of this event there was a day lost and there was great heat." When we come to examine again we find that Phaeton was a Canaanitish prince and that this fable originated with the Phoenicians, the nation against whom Joshua fought when the moon stood still in the valley of Ajalon, when the sun stood still in the midst of heaven and hastened not to go down about the space of a whole day. So, again, we find from this history that there is a beautiful harmony concerning these important events.

We are, sometimes, confronted with the objection to the Bible because there was found the bones of a human being 600 feet below the solid rock; the objector, of course, claiming that the short duration ascribed by the historian Moses as the age of this earth is entirely too short for 600 feet of solid rock to accumulate upon the bones of an individual; therefore the opponents of the divine word of God objected to the Bible because they say this is a matter of importance. But when we turn to the word of God, which is supported by scientific research, the testimony is there found that at one period in this world's history the foundations of the deep were broken up and there came out the mighty floods of water that covered the entire surface of the earth, which fact is testified to by scientific testimony. Suppose you that it would be a thing incredible that at the time of this wonderful upheaval, when the very foundations of the deep were broken up; that when these mighty floods receded to their original condition, that they could not carry with them the bones of an individual and the lapse of a few thousand years would seal them over and leave them to be discovered by investigation? Thus altogether it is probable according to divine revelation. Thus we see when we come to examine these objections that seem to loom up like mountains against the divinity of the Bible—God's divine word—that when they are examined by the X-Rays of reason and of correct history, they dissolve like the dews of the morning and they are dissipated before the light of God's divine word. After all these objections the word of God—the testimony of the divine witness of God—stands firmly fixed against these seeming objections. We leave this thought and the examination of these objections to the examination of that which is more directly spoken of in the text, "New things do I declare: before they spring forth I tell you of them."

If there is one evidence above another that stands in defense of the divinity of God's word it is that which we find couched in that divine word, prophecies that have been remarkably fulfilled; and the very nature of their fulfillment is so remarkable as to place it beyond the possibility of human ken or human wisdom to foretell. Now, some might object that it is a very easy matter to foretell the decay of an empire or the overthrow of a nation; because as events follow each other they will in the course of time produce the effect to make wonderful changes and revolutions in matters as we find them now; and when we come to consider that in the prophecies not only the bare event is told, but certain peculiar conditions connected with that event are also foretold, and when we find according to authentic history that the conditions have been fulfilled to the uttermost it proves beyond the peradventure of a doubt that there must have been wisdom superior to the wisdom of man. It might be very easy for me to say that my brother or sister—to any individual—that you shall die. I might deliver such a prophecy as that with all confidence that it would be fulfilled; because I know that death will come to every individual; but if I should connect with that prophecy, "You shall die at a certain place on Thursday of next week at 10 minutes past 2 o'clock of a certain disease," then I would lay myself liable to detection, and the lapse of time would prove as to whether my predictions were founded upon actual foreknowledge or whether it was mere guess work. If such a prediction as that should come to pass it would be prima facie evidence that I was possessed of knowledge from some source or other beyond the ordinary; but foretelling death without any specification is a prophecy that any person could utter and that the lapse of time would fulfill. And so it is with the overthrow of nations or of cities. Any person might say that the time would come when England or France or Germany would be overthrown. We are well aware of the fact that if this world stands long enough that the mutations of time will produce this change; but if we should accompany that with certain specifications it places it upon a role of predictions by some supernatural power.

Now, under this line we want to present a few of the plain prophecies of God's divine word, and if the history will carry out these prophecies and testify to their exact fulfillment, it certainly will be evidence that the power that produced them was power divine. Now, I want to call your attention this afternoon, of the many in hand, to just a few, because our time is half gone now. I call your attention to some of the prophecies of John the divine, as he was caught up in the Spirit and the Lord told him that he would show him things that should come hereafter. Here is a claim made by John of prophetic power, and if these things that he declared should come hereafter, and if the very nature of their fulfillment was such as to render it impossible for him to have foreseen these of himself, it certainly must appear as evidence in support of his inspiration. I want to call your attention to his prophecies concerning some of those churches of Asia Minor.

"Unto the angel of the church of Ephesus write; These things saith he that holdeth the seven stars in his right hand, * * * I know thy works, and thy labour and thy patience. * * * Nevertheless I have somewhat against thee, because thou hast left thy first love. Remember therefore from whence thou art fallen, and repent, and do the first works; or else I will come unto thee quickly, and will remove thy candlestick out of his place, except thou repent."—Rev. 2: 1-5.

Here we have a declaration concerning the church which was at Ephesus, which is, that except they should repent, the Lord would come to them and remove their candlestick out of its place. Now, this idea of a candlestick might be interpreted to mean the place or locality, or that which holds or supports the candle which gives the light. If I should have here a candle, that candle would be placed in a candlestick, and the light, of course, would be attached to the candle. If I should say I will remove the candlestick out of its place, it would mean that I would remove not only the candle, the light, but that which contained the candle and supported it. So with this church at Ephesus. The church was located at Ephesus, and the church was the candle of the Lord, that which was given to give light to the world, as Jesus had said, "Thou art the light of the world." And this candle was located in Ephesus, a city in Asia Minor, one of the seven churches. Now, the Lord says: "I will remove thy candlestick." Now, the question is, did the Lord fulfill that prophecy?

History, in speaking concerning Ephesus, describes the splendor and the grandeur of the city, one of the grandest of the East, and a stronghold it was for those who worshipped idols. It was a great resort for the learned, and great after idolatrous love; and it was also a stronghold of evil powers. While the church was located here it was in the height of its grandeur and wealth, and riches, but as time passed, we find that instead of the church heeding the warning voice of God, and all repenting and doing their first work, they continued in their spirit of indifference, and in keeping with God's threatenings, we read concerning Ephesus:

"But now a few heaps of stones and some miserable mud cottages, occasionally tenanted by Turks, without one christian abiding there, are all that remains of ancient Ephesus. Its streets are obscured and overgrown. A herd of goats was driven to it for shelter at noon, and a noisy flight of crows from the quarries seemed to insult its silence. We heard the partridge call in the area of the theatre and the stadium."

This is the description of Dr. Chambers who visited this scene. A wonderful and remarkable fulfillment of prophecy, "I will remove thy candlestick if thou repent not." Thus we have the history and destiny of Ephesus standing as a firm stake in favor of the thought that John, the revelator, who spake hundreds of years before, was moved by the power of God. But that the opponent may not claim that this Dr. Chambers probably was favorable to Christianity and formed the history to suit their case, we quote from Gibbons. Those of you who are acquainted with the history of Gibbons, know that he was an avowed opponent to Christianity and to the Bible, and we could not expect from him favor, except so far as his honor as an historian would compel him to write. We quote from him:

"In the loss of Ephesus the church deplores the fall of the first angel, and the extinction of the first candlestick of the revelation—this was accomplished by the Ottomans in 1812,"

Thus we have the testimony of both infidel and christian concerning this matter that Ephesus has fulfilled every condition of prophecy, placing it as irrefutable evidence in favor of the divinity of the Bible. But we hasten to one more, and that will fill the time allotted.

We want to talk now about Philadelphia. "Philadelphia" means brotherly love. Our present Philadelphia in Pennsylvania, being founded by William Penn, the Quaker, was so named because of the peculiar feature of that work, the Quaker movement, that they were bound together in the bond of love. Philadelphia anciently was one of the cities of Asia Minor; also, where was located one of the seven churches to which the Lord directed John to send a messenger, the account being as follows: "To the angel of the church of Philadelphia write"—we have here a prophecy to the reverse of the one to Ephesus—"Because thou hast kept the word of my patience, I will also keep thee from the hour of temptation which shall come upon all the world."—v. 10.

Now, as we look into the history of Philadelphia, we find that during the subsequent days that the Mohammedans swept through that country, and Philadelphia—while subject to their ravages, being compelled to either take the sword or the Koran and accept Mohammed as their prophet—that Philadelphia, by some means, was protected from their ravages, and the church continued at that place, and the historian tells us that:

"It has retained a better fate than most of its neighbors, for under the name of Alasher or City of God, it is still a place of repute. Gibbon says that Philadelphia is still erect, though in possession of the Turks, yet there are a thousand christian inhabitants, mostly Greeks."

A remarkable fulfillment of prophecy: "I will keep thee from the hour of temptation." But my time is out. We leave the matter with you and at some future time will take it up, and present some far more remarkable evidences than those we have given you today.

THE MORE EXCELLENT WAY.

BY ELDER T. C. KELLEY.

CONCLUDED.

CHAPTER V.

Only a fractional part of the evidence or proof in favor of the necessity of baptism and the laying on of hands, and showing that they are a part of the more excellent way, has been presented in the foregoing chapters; but, as stated before, enough has been given to prove our case with all who can be moved by the force of logical argument, based upon evidences of the strongest character, both human and divine.

But there are two questions still, in connection with baptism, to which we call attention, and to the answering of which this chapter is devoted.

1. By whom shall baptism be administered?

2. By whom shall it be received?

Here again, as elsewhere, in our search for the true way, we are invited by the worldly wise to walk in a number of different ways, and we are assured by the devotees of each that it is "the good way" in which we should walk, and that therein we may "find rest to our souls." But these ways do not agree; they do not lie along the same route, do not run in the same direction, and cannot all be right. From among them we must choose. Then, dear reader, let us be careful to select the "more excellent way."

As to who shall administer, not a great deal need be said, for since baptism is a heaven-ordained and God-appointed ordinance, it stands to reason that no man could administer this holy rite, with acceptability to God, unless God had called him and authorized him so to do.

In Matthew 28:19, in addressing his apostles, Jesus is made to say:

"Go ye therefore, and teach all nations, baptizing them in the name of the Father, and of the Son, and of the Holy Ghost."

For one party to do anything in the name of another party, is to do it by the authority of that party. This is a well known and universally accepted principle, as applied to transactions between men; why does it not hold good when applied to transactions between God and man? There is, indeed there can be, no good reason why it should not hold good. If then, the eleven apostles whom Jesus addressed in the words quoted above, were authorized to baptize "in the name of the Father, and of the Son, and of the Holy Ghost," it was because the Father, and the Son, and the Holy Ghost had given them that authority; and without it they could not have baptized a single soul, in the sense in which the word is used in the commission. They might have immersed them, and that would have been a baptism so far as the classic meaning of the word is concerned; but christian baptism—while, as we have seen, it cannot be administered by any other method than immersion—means more than immersion. It means immersion "in the name" or by the authority of the Father, Son, and Holy Ghost. Without such authority, immersion of itself considered, is not baptism; hence all those who have been immersed by unauthorized persons, i. e., those not called of God, have not, in reality, been baptized in the sense the commission requires. They are right as to the manner, but wrong as to authority, and anything done without authority is not really done at all.

Illustration: A sells a parcel of land, to which he holds legal title, to B. C, a regularly appointed and properly commissioned notary public, is called in to write the deed and take the acknowledgements of A. and his wife to the same. The deed is signed by A. and wife; the acknowledgements are taken according to law; the notary public certifies to the same, and affixes his seal; one or more witnesses attest the proceedings; the deed is delivered to B. and he is in full possession of the title to the land.

Again: D. sells a parcel of land to E, and F, who is in need of a little money, hears of the transaction and offers to write the deed and take the acknowledgements of D. and wife to the same. F. has no commission as a notary public, magistrate or other officer, but neither D. nor E. are aware of the fact; or if they are, their questionings are soon silenced by the smooth words of F.; and his assurances that he can write a deed that will answer as well as if written and acknowledged by C. or any other notary public; and they employ him to do the work. The deed is written, signed, acknowledged; F. adds his certificate, but affixes no seal, for, he has none, which fact shows that he has no authority. The deed is then delivered to E, who goes home in fancied, but not in real, possession of the title to the land. Result: On test examination the deed is found to be of no value, because of F.'s lack of authority. E, therefore, has no real title, hence he cannot legally hold it nor convey it to any other party. D. must go to the trouble and expense of making another deed.

Meanwhile F. is arrested and punished for violation of the law of the land for presuming to do what he was not, under the law, commissioned to do.

Now everyone knows this to be true, and every one knows that it is right that it should be true. It is necessary for the protection of the rights of men. Now, do any of my readers think it is right for the law of the land to punish those who act without authority in earthly matters and at the same time think it right for any one who is presumptuous enough to do so, to step right over into the sacred realms of the kingdom of God and proceed, without proper authority, to administer the laws and sacred ordinances of the same? Surely not. No one with reasonable judgment could be so inconsistent.

The eleven apostles were authorized to baptize. No one will dispute that. Now, who else?

"There was a man sent from God whose name was John."—John 1: 6.

Now read verse 33:

"And I knew him not: but he that sent me to baptize with water, the same said unto me, Upon whom thou shalt see the Spirit descending, and remaining on him, the same is he which baptizeth with the Holy Ghost."

This scripture shows, (1) that John the Baptist, was sent from God, and that (2) he was sent to "baptize with water." No room for any doubt that he had authority to baptize, and it was the very best authority—the authority of God himself. This is further attested by the fact that Jesus went to John for baptism. He knew John's baptism was all right, that it was from heaven and not of men.

"And Jesus answered and said unto them, I also will ask you one thing, which if ye tell me, I in likewise will tell you by what authority I do these things. The baptism of John; whence was it? from heaven, or of men? And they reasoned with themselves, saying, If we shall say, From heaven; he will say unto us, Why did ye not then believe him?"—Matt. 21:24-25.

The above verses show that Christ recognized that John's baptism was from heaven, for he virtually confesses to the chief priests that his authority to do these things was from the same source as John's baptism, or authority to baptize. It was a very logical conclusion that these chief priests and elders came to, when they reasoned that, "If we shall say, from heaven, he will say unto us, Why did ye not then believe him?" If he had received authority from men they would not have been under any obligation to receive baptism at his hands. "Nor are we today under any obligation to receive baptism at the hands of any man who has not been authorized of God, & called and commissioned of God to baptize.

"But," says one, "Jesus says, 'Go ye into all the world, and preach the gospel to every creature.' (Mark 16:15). That is our authority to preach; and again he says, 'Go ye therefore, and teach all nations, baptizing them' etc. That is our authority to teach and baptize."

Yes, I have read that he said that; but did he say it to you? Did he say it to any of the reformers and church builders, such as Luther, Calvin, Knox, Henry VIII, Wesley, Campbell or Ellen G. White, or any one else?

"O yes," says one, "he says so to them through the Bible, but not by revelation direct." And they went out on the authority of the words of Jesus to eleven apostles, but not to themselves, and preached, baptized, and bulld churches? "Yes," and the words "go ye" are to be applied to every man who chooses or "feels impressed" to go? "Yes." Then the commission, though given to the eleven apostles, may be used by any one who chooses to apply it to himself, and by the authority of the words "go ye" he may go out and preach and baptize? "Yes."

Well now, reader, if you insist that the commission to the apostles, as given by Matthew and Mark, is applicable to men today, in clothing them with authority to preach and baptize, may I just ask if the same commission to the same eleven apostles as recorded by Luke, is also applicable? And, of course, to this question you must answer yes.

Now read: "And ye are witnesses of these things. And, behold, I send the promise of my Father upon you: but tarry ye in the city of Jerusalem, until ye be endued with power from on high."—Luke 24:48, 49.

Now, if, "go ye" in Matthew and Mark is applicable to any man today, then we insist that "tarry ye" in Luke, is equally applicable and must be heeded, or there will be no validity attaching to the ministry and baptism of any one who fails to "tarry" at Jerusalem or some other place until he is "endued with power from on high" and not from the faculty of some theological seminary.

The commission to the apostles does not, and cannot authorize any man now living to preach or to baptize, unless some of them are now living, and if they are, their commission does not authorize anybody outside of the eleven, to either preach or baptize, any more than Noah's commission to build an ark authorizes them to build another ark, or Moses' commission to lead the Israelites out of Egyptian bondage authorizes them to lead the Jews from Russia over into Palestine today.

When God wanted John to preach and baptize he called and sent him to the work. When Jesus wanted the apostles to go and preach and baptize, he knew that John's commission, though it was from heaven, was not sufficient for them, and so he gave them a commission for themselves. When he wanted a quorum of seventy, he "appointed" and sent them saying, "Go your ways." (Luke 10:3). When he wanted Paul and Barnabas he called them by the Holy Ghost, speaking through the prophets at Antioch, and they were "sent forth by the Holy Ghost." (Acts 13:3, 4). When he wanted elders they were called by the Holy Ghost, and by it they were made overseers over the flocks of God. (Acts 20:28).

For none of these, nor for any other minister for God, of which the Bible makes mention, would any former commission to some other party, answer; but every one must, and did, have a call and commission for himself, and that by revelation from God, either directly or indirectly. Such were authorized to baptize; none others were. Such are authorized to baptize today; none others are.

"Hard on those who do not believe in present revelation," did you say? "Friend, I do thee no wrong." Did you not agree to take the "tarry ye" in Luke, as well as the "go ye" in Matthew? The fact that God approved of baptisms that were performed by those whom he called, such as John (Matt. 3), the eleven (Mark 16: 20, Acts 2: 38), Paul (Acts 19), Philip (Acts 8), is of itself, strong proof that the position for which we are now contending is true, viz., that only those who are called of God are authorized to baptize in his name. These are they who may be likened unto the true notary who had authority to make deeds and take acknowledgements thereof and convey title, even the remission of sin. Who could wish for a more excellent way than that?

Reader, did you know that in our times, just as in times of old, baptisms are being performed that are approved of God by the giving of his Spirit, attesting the fact that sins have been remitted, that pardon has been received?

Do you not know further, that in these days, just as in days of old, there are thousands of so-called baptisms, sprinklings, pourings, and even immersions, without authority; which God does not recognize, or approve by sending his Spirit upon those who administer, or those who receive them? Such administrators may be likened unto the notary who makes deeds and acknowledges, without any commission, and hence cannot convey title; and those who receive such baptisms, if it were proper to call them such, are in the same condition as the parties who were deceived by the fraudulent work of the pretended notary who had no commission, and no seal with which to attest and make good his work. No one ought to mistake that for the more excellent way, yet many do, and are seemingly satisfied without the approval of God's Spirit bearing witness with their spirit, that they are the children of God and have a right or title, properly conveyed by the authority of God, securing to them a home in the land of peace. Is it not strange that that should be mistaken for the more excellent way?

SUBJECTS OF BAPTISM.

Let us take up now the second question referred to at the beginning of this chapter, viz.,

Who are proper subjects of baptism, or by whom should baptism be received?

One party says those of mature age, who have already received the baptism of the Holy Ghost, and been made new creatures in Christ Jesus.

Another party says that little children, infants, are proper subjects of baptism as well as those of mature age, who have previously been baptized of the Spirit.

And still another party says: "Penitent believers, whose sins are not yet forgiven, are to be baptized for the remission of sins."

Possibly there are other views entertained, but this will suffice for our present purpose. Here are three ways of looking at this question, and as they are different, essentially so, they cannot all be right. All are not in harmony with the teaching of Him who said, "I am the way."

Let us look at this first position, that is, that those of mature age, who have been baptized with the Holy Ghost, are the only proper subjects of water baptism. The writer agrees with the party making this claim, so far as relates to those of mature age, at least sufficiently mature to be taught the principles of the gospel, of which baptism is one; but he disagrees with them in that only those who have previously been baptized of the Spirit, are fit subjects for water baptism.

In these articles scriptural evidences have been adduced in great abundance to show that John baptized sinners; people who confessed their sins, and after he had baptized them with water, he promised them they should yet receive the Holy Ghost. (See Mark 1: 8). If these people had received the Holy Ghost, John did not know it, and yet he had baptized them: or if he did know, he promised that they should receive, sometime in the future, that which they already had received, and were still in possession of at that time. To believe John did that, is to believe him to have been knavish or foolish, or both. We can hardly afford to do that.

Again: The Samaritans were baptized in water by Philip, but had not yet received the baptism of the Holy Ghost. The apostles heard of their baptism, and sent Peter and John, "Who, when they were come down, prayed for them, that they might receive the Holy Ghost: for as yet he was fallen upon none of them: only they were baptized in the name of the Lord, Jesus."—Acts 8: 15, 16.

To say that none are entitled to water baptism only those who have already received the Holy Ghost, is to dispute the foregoing verses of Scripture; and to say that Philip made a mistake, that Peter and John also made a mistake, and that the rest of the apostles at Jerusalem were compromised in the mistake with them, is unwarranted by the facts and, worst of all, it is to say that God sanctioned the mistake; for the 17th verse says: "Then laid they [Peter and John] their hands on them and they [people who had been baptized in water] received the Holy Ghost."

Now, we have two positions before us, either one of which we may accept.

1. That God, the Holy Ghost, Peter, John, the rest of the apostles at Jerusalem, and Philip all made a mistake in teaching that persons who had not received the Holy Spirit or its baptism, were proper subjects for baptism in water, or

2. Those who now teach that only those who have received the Holy Ghost, or its baptism, are entitled to water baptism, are making a mistake in so teaching. To believe the former, is to at once destroy the foundation of all religion, so far as Bible revelations are concerned. To believe the latter, therefore, is certainly the more excellent way to dispose of this matter. It is better for us to enter into life with no human creed, yea, with all creeds (except the creed of Christ) blotted out of existence, than to have a hundred, or a thousand, creeds; and, with them, be cast "into outer darkness, where there shall be weeping and wailing and gnashing of teeth."

Again: On the day of Pentecost a vast number were convinced by the powerful discourse of Peter, inasmuch that they

"Said unto Peter and to the rest of the apostles, Men and brethren, what shall we do?"—Acts 2: 37.

There's an important question; and the answer, as given in the Good Book, throws light on the question, who shall be baptized? Let us read it, v. 38:

"Then Peter said unto them, Repent, and be baptized, every one of you, in the name of Jesus Christ for the remission of sins, and ye shall receive the gift of the Holy Ghost."

That was Peter's answer. It was the answer of "the rest of the apostles," for they stood up with him and not one of them demurred or objected, or excepted to his answer, and that compromises them again. It was the answer of the Holy Ghost, for Peter and his brethren were filled with it at the time, and "spake with tongues as the Spirit gave them utterance." (Verse 4.) It was the answer of Jesus Christ, Peter says:—

"This Jesus hath God raised up whereof we all are witnesses. Therefore being by the right hand of God, exalted, and having received of the Father the promise of the Holy Ghost, he hath shed forth this, which ye now see and hear."—v. 33.

It was the answer of God, the Father, for in verses 16 and 17 we read:

"But this is that which was spoke by the prophet Joel; And it shall come to pass in the last days, saith God, I will pour out my Spirit upon all flesh," etc.

Now, if God poured out his Spirit on Peter and others, as is here declared, then whatever Peter said under the power of that Spirit was the voice of God's Spirit, therefore the voice of God himself. So it is easy to see that God sanctioned, or approved the answer of Peter.

Now let us sum up the question and the answer.

1. People who have received neither the baptism of water, nor the baptism of the Spirit, but who are sinners, and, in a sense, the slayers of Christ (v. 37), ask, "What shall we do?"

2. In answer they are told (a) to repent, (b) to be baptized, and (c) ye [who repent and are baptized] shall [future tense] receive the gift of the Holy Ghost.

Any one can see that according to this answer, the baptism of water preceded the baptism of the Spirit, just as when John baptized the multitudes in Jordan, and when Philip baptized the denizens of Samaria.

Who are the witnesses to this order, and how many are there? (1), We write Peter's name on the list as he is spokesman. Then we write (2) Andrew, (3) James, son of Zebedee, (4) John, (5) Philip, (6) Bartholomew, (7) Thomas, (8) Matthew, (9) James, son of Alphaeus, (10) Lebeus, (11) Simon, (12) Matthias. These are the names of the quorum of the Twelve, and they stand as a unit upon this matter. John the Baptist baptized persons in water who had not yet had the baptism of the Spirit (Mark 1: 8), and so we write him as our thirteenth witness that water baptism precedes Holy Ghost baptism. Philip, the evangelist, as we have seen, did the same thing at Samaria, so we write him down as the fourteenth, and Paul did the same thing at Ephesus (Acts 19: 1-4), so he makes the fifteenth; while the Holy Ghost came to different ones at different times, who had previously been baptized in water, hence we may safely write him as the sixteenth witness.

Jesus Christ, as we have seen, did, on the day of Pentecost, "shed forth" those wonderful things which were done and said, thus signifying his approval and we unhesitatingly write Him as our seventeenth witness. And as God the Father, sent or "poured out" his Spirit upon those who taught and those who accepted the doctrine that water baptism precedes Spirit baptism, with confidence we write Him as our eighteenth witness in the case of the matter before us.

Eighteen witnesses, especially when three of them speak directly from heaven, and the others are in good standing and of good repute, as members of the kingdom of God on earth, ought to be sufficient to prove any cause. There can be no doubt that they all agree, that their testimony is all on one side, and in favor of the idea that penitent persons may receive baptism in water previous to the baptism of the Holy Ghost. On the strength of this evidence we rest our case, confident in the belief that our way is more excellent than any other, because it is God's way; and that the idea that only those who have received the Spirit's baptism are entitled to the baptism of water, is not "the good way" because it is "not cast up" by the Lord.

But are there no witnesses on the other side; are there none who answer the question, "What shall we do," in a different way than did these eighteen witnesses?

Yes, plenty of them. Friend, if you are on the other side of the question, you are not by yourself by any means. Millions of people, including great and mighty Doctors of Divinity, testify for you and say that no one is entitled to water baptism until he has been baptized of the Spirit.

"Well, then, have I not the advantage in the number of witnesses," do you ask?

Yes, as to numbers you do have the advantage; but as to character, credibility or reliability of witnesses, how is it? Is not the advantage with the eighteen witnesses who are against you? Yea, verily. Surely nothing more need be said on that point.

INFANT BAPTISM.

A little time and space devoted to the question, "Are infants proper subjects of water baptism?" and we are done.

What we have already presented proves clearly that they are not, for they are not sinners, and as already proved, water baptism is for repentant sinners; and as infants are not sinners—and if they were, would be utterly incapable of repentance—baptism is not intended for them. That is reason enough why infants need not to be baptized; but hear Mr. A. F. Rogers tell why they should be:

"I claim that infants (children) are proper subjects; that God requires it; that we have scripture example for it; that if we withhold it we are guilty of violating positive law; and that in thus withholding it we deny their interest in Christ and their title to heaven. * * * If infants are saved they must be baptized, for there is no salvation without it. Not that they cannot be saved in heaven without water baptism. I say no such thing. But I do say, that if they are saved in heaven the only thing in the universe that saves them is the baptism of the Holy Ghost, of which water baptism is the sign."—Christian Baptism, pp. 71, 72. (Last emphasis mine).

Again: "But if Christ saves them, it is from sin; and what sin have they to be saved from? Guilt? No; they have none to be pardoned. There is, therefore, but one sense in which he can save them, and that is from the depravity of their nature that unfits them for heaven."—p. 73. (Emphasis mine).

On page 74 he says: "The universal necessity of the new birth arises from the fact that we all have been 'born of the flesh'—that is of sinful parents; consequently we have a sinful nature, for like can only produce like."

Further along on same page: "Our infant children, then, need and must have both the sign and the thing signified (water and Spirit baptism), for they are born of the flesh even as we, and without the birth or baptism of the Spirit they cannot be saved." (Emphasis mine).

Mr. Rogers' position is now pretty clearly set forth.

1st. Infants come into the world totally depraved, or at least with a depravity of nature that unfits them for heaven.

2d. This depravity of their nature must be taken away by the baptism of the Spirit or "they cannot be saved."

3d. Mr. Rogers assumes without one scintilla of evidence to support him in the assumption and not a syllable of proof does he even try to offer in its support that water baptism is a "sign" of the Spirit's baptism, and must be given to infants by the minister because it is supposed that God has saved the poor infants from that "depravity of their nature that unfits them for heaven;" hence he concludes that infants need and must have the "sign."

But Mr. Rogers' premise is wrong to start with; his conclusion must be wrong also.

Webster defines "depraved:" Corrupt, wicked, destitute of holiness or good principles.

"Totally" he defines thus: Wholly, entirely, fully, completely.

If, then, infants come into the world in a totally depraved state, they are born wholly corrupt, entirely-wicked, completely destitute of holiness or good principles; can any sane man believe that?

Calvin's doctrine that:

"Reprobate infants are vipers of vengeance which God holds over the flames of hell, until they turn and spit venom in God's face" (See Calvin's Institutes, Vol. 1, Saints' Herald, Sept. 5, 1900), is no worse.

"But," says one, "the Bible does not say anything about reprobate infants." Very true; but it says fully as much about reprobate infants as it does about infants that are totally depraved, wholly wicked, entirely corrupt. The devil himself is not worse than that.

Now, having seen what Mr. Rogers and Mr. Calvin believe about the condition of infants at birth, let us see what Jesus taught respecting them:

"But Jesus said, Suffer little children, and forbid them not, to come unto me: for of such is the kingdom of heaven."—Matt. 19: 14.

Again: "And said, Verily I say unto you, Except ye be converted and become as little children, ye shall not enter into the kingdom of heaven."—Matt. 18: 3.

This scripture shows that Jesus regarded that the character of infants—"little children," is exactly the kind that men must have in order to enter into and inherit the kingdom of heaven. Jesus was right; and if Mr. Rogers was right in his claim that infants have a "depravity of nature that unfits them for heaven," and if Mr. Calvin was right in his claim that infants—some of them at least—"are vipers of vengeance," then for us to "be converted and become as little children" and consequently fit to enter and abide in the kingdom of heaven, we would have to become "totally depraved;" that is, we must become "wholly corrupt," "entirely wicked" and "completely destitute of holiness," or to use Calvin's words, we must become "vipers of vengeance" in order to enter into the kingdom of heaven. Nonsensical as this appears, we must believe it or discard the heresy upon which Mr. Rogers bases his argument in favor of infant baptism, viz., that children are born into the world with "a depravity of nature that unfits them for heaven," and that "without the birth or baptism of the Spirit they cannot be saved."

But Mr. Rogers does not believe this heresy himself. In fact, no man of sound judgment can believe it unless he refuses to use his judgment. After taking the ground, as the quotations already given from his little book show, that "the only thing in the universe that saves them [infants] is the baptism of the Holy Ghost," and that to withhold water baptism from infants is to "deny their interest in Christ and their title to heaven," and that the baptism of the Spirit saves them from "that depravity of their nature that unfits them for heaven," and that our infant children * * * are born of the flesh even as we, and without the birth or baptism of the Spirit they cannot be saved"—after proclaiming this monstrous heresy with as great a flourish of trumpets as Joshua's priests did when they encompassed the city of Jericho—there seems to have been a mutiny of his stilled conscience, a revolution of his misguided and mistreated judgment until finally, in spite of himself, he "flops" and explodes his own arguments by contradicting himself thus,

page 78:

"Here, then, is infantile justification. Christ purchased the blessing and the Holy Ghost applied, and our infants came into the world in this state of grace—children of God and heirs of glory. Many of them die and go to glory before they ever see the light of this world," etc. (Emphasis mine). Now, if our infants come into this world children of God, heirs of glory, then I am much puzzled to know how they came with "a depravity of nature that unfits them for heaven." If many of them die and go to glory before they ever see the light of this world, I am at a loss to know why they "need and must have" both the baptism of water and Spirit and why, without the latter "they cannot be saved." Does God "baptize their souls" before they are born? If so, then they are not born totally depraved are they? Or do they "backslide" in their pre-natal state so that they "need" the baptism of water and of the Spirit that they may be saved?

If God does baptize their souls before birth, neither Mr. Rogers nor any other man knows anything about it, for there is no revelation of the fact in the Bible or elsewhere. If God ever baptized the soul of a single infant since the world began and by that baptism saved that soul "from that depravity of nature" that unfitted it for heaven, then he has kept it a profound secret; for there is not one line, sentence, word or syllable of revelation in regard to it. Mr. Rogers simply assumes it, but does not prove nor even attempt to prove it. Why is this? Echo answers, Why?

But there is no need for me to say more. Mr. Rogers has, as we have seen, blown up his own magazine and bursted his only gun. He bases his whole argument on the depravity of infants and their consequent need of the Spirit's baptism, and then overthrows his position by admitting that they come into the world in a state of grace—"children of God and heirs of glory."

Baptism in water is "for the remission of sin." Infants have no sins to remit. Therefore infant baptism is not a part of the more excellent way.

Baptism in water is for those who believe (Mark 16: 16; Acts 8: 37; and for those who repent (Acts 2: 38). Infants can neither believe nor repent; therefore infant baptism is no part of the more excellent way.

"Go ye therefore and teach all nations, baptizing them in the name of the Father, and of the Son, and of the Holy Ghost."—Jesus to the eleven, Matt. 28: 19.

They were to baptize those whom they taught. Infants cannot be taught, hence there neither was nor is a commission to baptize them; therefore infant baptism is no part of the more excellent way.

Suffer little children, and forbid them not, to come unto me: for of such is the kingdom of heaven. And he laid his hands on them and departed thence."—Matt. 19: 14, 15.

"And he took them up in his arms, put his hands upon them, and blessed them."—Mark 10: 16. That is the more excellent way, for it is according to the mind of him who said: "I AM THE WAY."

It is not pretended that anything like an exhaustive discussion of matters presented in this paper has been made, but it is hoped that at least a few rays of light have been thrown across the path of some who may be in search of the more, yea, the most excellent way—"the good way"—and may they be able to find it and "walk therein," and so doing "find rest to their souls."

RHEUMATISM.

A BLOOD DISEASE AND CURED BY B. B. B.

BOTTLE FREE TO SUFFERERS.
Rheumatism is as much a blood disease as cancer, ulcer or scrofula, and to cure to stay cured, it should be treated as such; hence Botanic Blood Balm (B. B. B.) should be used. It neutralizes the specific poison that causes rheumatism, expels it from the system, and permanent cures after everything else fails. George W. Leonard, of Atlanta, writes under date of July 2, 1899, that he was cured of Rheumatism ten years ago by B. B. B.; that before that he suffered most excruciating pains in bones and limbs. His hands would puff up and swell, his knee caps would get so stiff he could hardly bend them, and he could hardly walk without the aid of a crutch. He tried doctors and medicines, but none reached the root of the trouble, which was in the blood. Sometimes he thought he had found a cure, but alas, his symptoms would come back again until he was cured ten years ago by the use of eight large bottles of B. B. B., and he has been perfectly well ever since. John M. Davis, of Tyler, Texas, had been subjected to attacks of inflammatory rheumatism since ten years of age, yet he was permanently cured, with no trace of the disease left, by eight large bottles of B. B. B. To further convince you that B. B. B. cures the most obstinate case, we will send a sample bottle free, so you may test the remedy at our expense. Can anything be fairer?

You will find large bottles for sale by all druggists for $1.00, or six bottles (full treatment), $5.00. For free trial bottle enclose five cents, which pays exact cost of postage (the medicine is free), and address BLOOD BALM CO., 86 Mitchell St., Atlanta, Ga., and bottle and medical book will be sent, all charges prepaid. Describe your trouble, and we will include free medical advice.

GRAGELAND COLLEGE, LAMONI, IOWA.

Send for Catalogue, to I. W. ALLENDER, Secretary, Lamoni, Iowa.

Learn Shorthand.

A Knowledge of Shorthand and Typewriting Will Enable You to Be Self-sustaining.

The Missouri Shorthand College of St. Louis, Mo., is one of the Leading Shorthand Institutions in the United States.

Persons intending the acquirement of shorthand and typewriting should select a responsible school, otherwise their time and money are wasted.

As success in shorthand is largely dependent on the teacher as well as pupil, it is absolutely necessary that instructors should be practical shorthand writers and no others are competent to teach. Benn Pitman system taught. The Principal of "The Missouri Shorthand College" is John H. Schofield, the well known journalist and shorthand writer, and member of the National Shorthand Writers' Association. In order to show that he is a practical and recognized exponent of shorthand, reference letters are herewith published from leading educators:

Prof. E. Benjamin Andrews, now Chancellor of Nebraska University, and recently Superintendent of Chicago Schools, comments on his character and ability as follows:

Board of Education, Office of Superintendent of Schools, Schiller Building, Chicago, Feb. 21, 1900. Mr. John H. Schofield is well and favorably known to me as the successful director of a large shorthand college in Providence, R. I. I consider him not only one of the most expert practical shorthand writers whom I have ever known, but also an upright, honorable and perfectly trustworthy gentleman.

E. BENJAMIN ANDREWS, Superintendent of Schools.

Commenting on Mr. Schofield's ability and character, President E. G. Robinson of Brown University, Providence, R. I., contributes the following:

Brown University, Providence, R. I. I have known Mr. John H. Schofield for years as stenographic reporter for the Providence Journal. His work has given me much satisfaction to all persons concerned. His character as a Christian gentleman has also commanded respect, and I take pleasure in commending him to the confidence and good-will of all with whom he may be associated, or with whom he may have business relations.

E. G. ROBINSON, President Brown University.

Brother Fabrician, of La Salle College, Philadelphia, Pa., adds the following testimonial:

La Salle College, Philadelphia, Pa. Mr. John H. Schofield: My Dear Sir—It gives me much pleasure to say a timely word to bear witness to your character as a man, and your ability as a journalist and shorthand writer. I hope and pray that your efforts, in whatever channel you may choose to direct them, will be rewarded with the measure of success which your talents, your energy and your accomplishments must win. You are, however, too good and favorably known to need this note or recognition from your very sincere and devoted friend,

BRO. FABRICIAN.

Those so situated that they cannot attend school sessions, taught by mail, as Principal John H. Schofield has had gratifying success by this method of teaching. Mail students who will devote two hours daily to practice, cannot fail to obtain a good general knowledge of shorthand in twenty weeks. This is a short time to acquire a profession that will enable persons to be self-supporting. Those who attend school generally graduated in about sixteen weeks, but this depends largely on the ability and general knowledge of the pupil. As a knowledge of shorthand is of no practical utility unless able to spell and compose correctly, students deficient in those lines are taught without extra charge. Shorthand and typewriting furnishes lucrative, as well as pleasant employment for both sexes, but more especially for young ladies, as there are always positions for those who are capable and competent.

Positions Secured

for Graduates. Instruction in Bookkeeping and full Commercial Course if Desired. Room and Board furnished pupils from abroad at moderate rates.

THE MISSOURI SHORTHAND COLLEGE, No. 918 Pine St., ST. LOUIS, MISSOURI.

STATE SAVINGS BANK OF LAMONI.

Incorporated under the laws of the State of Iowa, July 1, 1898. Offers depositors a safe bank for their savings, and solicits the correspondence and deposits of all Exactor readers, and will pay four per cent interest per annum on year deposits. Send money by Bank Draft, or Express or Post Office order, or Registered Letter, or your private check on any bank in the United States or Canada, and direct your letter to W. A. Hopkins, Cashier of the State Savings Bank of Lamoni, at Lamoni, Iowa. Upon receipt of a certificate of deposit will be returned to you. This bank has the honor of handling a very large business by keeping surplus funds invested in safe and available securities and has already received deposits from sixteen different states. All letters containing inquiries or business will be promptly answered. List of Stockholders:—Wm. Anderson, Geo. H. Hilliard, Mrs. David Dancer, Miss Alice Dancer, Mrs. Ella B. Whitehead, Mrs. Lucy L. Resseguie, A. K. Anderson, W. A. Hopkins, Oscar Anderson, Frank Criley and Geo. W. Clair.

DR. JOS. MATHER, PHYSICIAN.

Office, Liberty St., One Door South of Chrisman-Sawyer Bank. Phone 100-3. Independence, Mo. RESIDENCE, 301 S. SPRING ST. CALLS ANSWERED NIGHT OR DAY.

$495.

Will buy 44 acres with four room cottage, barn, well, etc., in west Lamoni. Only a small payment required to secure this home, and it is a bargain for some one. Apply to Lock Box 7, Lamoni, Iowa.

Broken Bric-a-Bracs.

Mr. Major, the famous cement man, of New York, explains some very interesting facts about Major's Cement. The multitudes who use this standard article know that it is many hundred per cent better than other cements for which similar claims are made, but a great many do not know why. The simple reason is that Mr. Major uses the best materials ever discovered and other manufacturers do not use them, because they are too expensive and do not allow large profits. Mr. Major tells us that one of the elements of his cement costs $3.75 a pound, and another costs $3.65 a gallon, while a large share of the so-called cements and liquid glue upon the market are nothing more than sixteen-cent glue, dissolved in water or citric acid, and in some cases, altered slightly in color and odor by the addition of cheap and useless materials.

Major's Cement retails at fifteen cents and twenty-five cents a bottle, and when a dealer tries to sell a substitute you can depend upon it that his only object is to make larger profit.

The profit on Major's Cement is as much as any dealer ought to make on any cement. And this is doubly true in view of the fact that each dealer gets a share of the benefit of Mr. Major's advertising, which now amounts to over $5,000 a month throughout the country. Established in 1876.

Insist on having Major. Don't accept any off-hand advice from a druggist. If you are at all handy (and you will be likely to find that you are a good deal more so than you imagine) you can repair your rubber boots and family shoes, and any other rubber and leather articles, with Major's Rubber Cement and Major's Leather Cement.

And you will be surprised at how many dollars a year you will thus save. If your druggist cannot supply you, it will be forwarded by mail; either kind. Free of postage.

SUBSCRIBE FOR THE College City Chronicle

The Leading Local Paper of LAMONI, IOWA. Published Weekly by the Chronicle Publishing Co.

Two Boxes of Quit-to-bac Cured Him.

"KIEL, Okla., March 29, 1900. "Bro. Ordway—I have been enabled to quit tobacco after the use of two boxes of your antidote (Quit-to-bac). I have used tobacco for thirty years and both chewed and smoked plug tobacco.

"L. S. STALBY." Three boxes of Quit-to-bac sent postpaid anywhere in the United States or Canada for only $1.50, with positive guarantee of cure or money cheerfully refunded. U. S. postage stamps taken. You run no risk, why not be free from this God-condemned habit? Address, (Bro.) B. F. ORDWAY, Peoria, Ill.

OLDEST. LARGEST. BEST. 35TH YEAR

SPALDING'S COMMERCIAL COLLEGE. (INCORPORATED) East Wing, N. Y. Life Bldg., Kansas City, Mo. Bookkeeping, Shorthand, Typewriting, Telegraphy, English Branches, Twenty Rooms. Sixteen Teachers and Lecturers. No Vacations. Practical Courses. Thorough Instruction. Rates Moderate. Free Catalogue. FREE EMPLOYMENT BUREAU Tel. 1174. J. F. Spalding, A. M., Pres.

CANCER CURED WITH SOOTHING BALMY OILS. Cancer, Tumor, Catarrh, Piles, Fistula, Ulcers, Eczema and all Skin and Wound Diseases. Dr. Jos. Mather, Physician.

THEY ADMIT IT. Bro. Hull, Chaucey, Ohio, says we saved him $12.00 on a $13.00 suit. Bro. Farrell, West Sullivan, Maine, writes that we saved him $5.00 on a $7.00 suit. Youth's heavy three-piece suit, age 12 to 19, $3.50. Goods are all sent prepaid.

MEN'S SACK SUITS. Black, all wool worsted Men's Suits, four button, round or square cut. 14 ounce $7.00; 16 ounce $7.25; 18 ounce $8.50; 20 ounce $8.75. Extra fine, strict-ly all wool Oxford steel gray, heavy; worth $18.00, price $9.00.

PRINCE ALBERT SUITS. Same goods as usual, 14 oz. $9.50; 16 oz. $10.00; 18 oz. $11.00; 20 oz. $11.50. 14 oz. French Twill Sacks, worth $18.00, price $9.00. PRINCE ALBERTS. Give size of bust around chest just under arms with coat off, size of waist, length of in seam of pant leg, your height and weight. Make all drafts, express and money orders payable at Seymour, Mo. Send all correspondence, letters, orders and registered letters to CUMORAH, MO. THE E. T. ATWELL CO. CUMORAH, MO.

COMMERCIAL BANK, LAMONI, IOWA. D. V. NICHOLSON, Cashier. H. C. NICHOLSON, Asst. Cashier.

R. R. TIME TABLES.

Table with columns for Missouri Pacific-Main Line Depot, Trains West, Trains East, and Liberty Street Depot. Lists train numbers, destinations, and times.

CHICAGO & ALTON.

Table with columns for East Bound and West Bound. Lists train numbers, destinations, and times.

JOTS BY THE WAYSIDE.

BY T. V. ORATURN.

Tent meetings moving on nicely, crowd's all we could ask, interest fair to middling.

On Friday night a Christian minister, Rev. Mr. Hyder, challenged me to discuss church propositions; had them written up and signed when he presented them. They are the regular church questions and have the "ear marks" of Braden. Of course I signed them, and we commence discussion tonight, to continue six nights. Excitement augmented and expectancy of Christians greatly of the sanguine type. Bro. D. A. Anderson is my moderator; more anon. OCEAN VIEW, Cal.

Daughters of Zion.

"OUR AIM, MANKIND TO BLESS."

MRS. H. B. GURTS, Editor,

The Daughters of Zion is an organization in the church, of mothers and others who are interested in the welfare of our homes. Under the supervision of the general society, local societies are established, where they may meet to consider together their work as home keepers, and as moulders of character. Their purpose is to increase love for the home, to promote social purity, to study the problem of child care and development; that thus they may better prepare themselves for their responsibility as wives and mothers, and that from the home may go the influence that shall fulfill their aim, which is "mankind to bless." Have you a local in your branch? If not, can you not organize one? Send to the corresponding secretary for constitutions. The Advisory Committee will be pleased to hear from you, and will gladly furnish you any assistance in their power. Send your list of names of members to the recording secretary.

ADVISORY COMMITTEE.

- Mrs. Mary B. Hulmes, President, Independence, Missouri.
- Mrs. H. H. Robinson, Corresponding Secretary, Independence, Missouri.
- Mrs. B. C. Smith, Independence, Missouri.
- Mrs. Lucina Etzenhouser, Kansas City, Missouri.
- Mrs. Clara Frick, Independence, Missouri.
- Mrs. Callie B. Stebbins, Recording Secretary, Lamoni, Iowa.
- Mrs. Anna Murphy, Treasurer, Independence, Missouri.

Editor's address, 3216 Laclede Avenue, St. Louis, Missouri.

THESE columns are open to those who desire to ask questions in regard to the Daughters of Zion work. Send same to the editor who will be glad to give them space, and they will be answered by some member of the Advisory Board.

I wish to state for the encouragement of those who so much desired to interest the girls in this great work, that I received a letter last week from a dear young sister, who lives a long way from us, but whose heart is evidently in the Daughters of Zion work. She said she was so glad that the girls could be represented, and among other good things she said was this:

"Being one of the girls I appreciate the interest that is taken by those experienced in helping the youth to guide their feet aright."

Is that not good cheer? It was to me, and I sincerely hope others of "my girls" will come forward, as this one has done. It will not do one-half the good for you to read what others say as it will to try to say something yourself. There was such a hearty and sincere God speed to the new departure that it cheered me very much. I hope to hear more from this sister.

As I have been asked by the editor of this department, also by the Advisory Board, to prepare an outline of our local meetings in Independence, I do so, not with the thought that it will be a model for others to go by, but with the hope that it may offer a suggestion or two to others who have but recently organized and are not yet familiar with the work.

Our first effort is to make every one feel as free and easy as possible, so we observe only enough formality to keep things running in order. For that reason, remarks are addressed to the one presiding, and by so doing it seldom becomes necessary for the chairman to suggest that there should but one talk at once.

We follow the program provided in the Herald. The chairman frequently calls upon one or more of the other sisters to engage in prayer, but reads the scripture lesson herself, having carefully noted beforehand if there are any points in it having bearing upon the subject of the other lesson, or are particularly calculated to give encouragement in our work, and calls attention of sisters to them. We have been in the habit of reading or calling upon one of the sisters to read the culture lesson through, and then discussing it afterwards.

There is another plan that we think has some advantages over the former, and which we think we shall adopt for a time at least, and that is to have sisters bring Herald's and read in turn parts of the lesson and discuss as we go along.

Either plan has its advantages; by the first we get a better comprehension of the whole on which to base our arguments. We often find that sisters are not very free to express their thoughts, so we find it quite helpful to be prepared with questions to put to them, and we endeavor to look at all questions from both sides; that is, for and against. As often as we think practical we appoint one of the sisters to write a paper on the lesson, and we have been encouraged when we have heard them read, to find that our sisters have been led to so good an understanding of the responsibility of their position in the church and in the world.

We have felt many times that God has been very near to us in our meetings, and we have received help to go on with our work.

After the lesson is over we call roll and then hear reports from our visiting committee, committee appointed over young ladies' society, and attend to any other business we may have on hand, then close with song and prayer.

MRS. B. C. SMITH.

A RECRUITING SONG.

BY ALICE R. CORSON.

I have taken my stand 'neath the banner of love,
With Christ for my captain and king,
His sweet voice I heard and accepted the word,
And my all to his service I bring.
I have taken my stand 'neath the banner of love,
Too long have I lingered, but now
I have made him my choice and my soul doth rejoice,
As in humble submission I bow.

CHORUS:
I have taken my stand 'neath the banner of love,
I'll desert its fair colors no more;
And no foe need I fear with my captain so near,
Soon, soon will the conflict be o'er.

I have taken my stand 'neath the banner of love,
And here will I ever abide;
With naught to alarm, for safe from all harm
Is the soul who keeps close to His side.

I have taken my stand 'neath the banner of love,
And the armor of faith have put on,
Ready, at his command, to go forward or stand,
Keeping guard till the victory is won.

'Neath the banner of love is my shelter and shade,
My refuge when danger is nigh;
All my wants I may bring to my Captain and King.

And each need he will freely supply,
'Neath the banner of love there is rest, peace and joy,
Unshaken by conflict or storm,
No cares can oppress, nor griefs long distress

The soul that doth lean on His arm,
And while I abide 'neath the banner of love,
And walk with my face to the light,

No enemy's dart shall enter my heart
'Through the breastplate of righteousness bright,
While onward I march 'neath the banner of love,
Whatever the powers that assail,
With truth's keen edged sword in the strength of my Lord,
O'er my foes I will surely prevail.

For the battle we fight 'neath the banner of love,
Is a conflict with Satan and sin;
And tho' he wage the war, wage, tho' all should engage,
Yet Christ will the victory win.

Who would not enlist 'neath the banner of love
Since Christ is the captain and king?
This warfare to wage 'gainst the powers that engage
His soul into bondage to bring.

Who would not enlist 'neath the banner of love
And to the end bravely endure?
And on yonder fair shore when the conflict is o'er,
A home everlasting secure?

Who would not enlist 'neath the banner of love,
Since the Captain stands ready to pay
In heaven's pure gold, every soul that is enrolled?

Oh! why should ye longer delay?
Oh! come and enlist 'neath the banner of love
That flows from the ramparts of heaven;
Rich bounties to all who answer His call,
The Captain has said shall be given.

Oh! come and enlist 'neath the banner of love,
And angels thy helpers shall be;
And a bright crown of life at the end of the strife.

The Captain has waiting for thee.
3829 4th St., FULTON,
RICHMOND, Va., May 7.

CONFERENCE MINUTES.

Conference of the Far West district convened with the Delano branch, near Cameron, Missouri, September 29th and 30th; Bro. T. T. Hinderks and J. S. Constance in the chair; Charles P. Faul and A. Leaverton secretaries.

C. P. Faul, bishop's agent, reported as follows: On hand last report, $138.61; received and on hand, $613.12; disbursements, $377.30; on hand, $205.32. Chair appointed M. Shaw, J. W. Roberts and J. C. Elvert to audit the account. Committee examined the books and reported the same to be correct.

Ministry reporting: Elders, Wm. Lewis, confirmed 2; T. T. Hinderks, blessed 1 child; J. S. Constance, D. E. Powell, baptized 6; C. E. Gulnaud, sat on one elder's court; Swen Swensen, confirmed 5, blessed two children;

S. F. Cushman, baptized 2, confirmed 1, blessed 2 children; J. W. Roberts, Arnold Nesser, A. W. Head, W. E. Summerfield, Ben J. Dice, J. C. Elvert, blessed 2 children, solemnized 1 marriage; J. C. Foss, baptized 6, confirmed 2; M. Shaw, baptized 5, confirmed 6, blessed 2 children; R. Archibald, confirmed 2, blessed 1 child. Priests: Robert Garlich, baptized 2; Walter W. Smith; R. S. Parker. Teacher, C. J. Craven.

Branch reports: Wakenda, 60, gain 1; Delano, 111, loss 2; German Stewartsville, 77; Edgerton Junction, 42, gain 3; DeKalb, 51, loss 1; Mount Hope, 42; Stewartsville, 156, gain 3; Pleasant Grove, 86, gain 1; St. Joseph, 468, gain 19.

Bro. H. B. Taddicken was recommended by the St. Joseph branch to be ordained to the office of elder. This was granted and referred to the president of the St. Joseph branch to provide for ordination.

Bro. W. E. Haden was recommended by the Stewartsville branch for ordination to the office of elder. This was also granted and referred to Bro. F. C. Keck, of the Spring River district, to provide for this ordination. Bro. Haden is now laboring in the office of priest as missionary in that district.

A motion carried authorizing the secretary of the district to purchase a suitable valise to carry the district books, etc., and present his account to the next conference for allowance.

Bro. B. J. Dice presented a bill of $10.53 for materials bought for tent seats furnished the district. A collection was ordered to pay same.

Moved that the president and missionary in charge appoint two days meetings in branches throughout the district; carried. Meetings appointed as follows: Mount Hope, October 27th and 28th, in charge of J. C. Foss and S. F. Cushman; Wakenda, October 27th and 28th, J. C. Elvert and W. W. Smith; Pleasant Grove, October 27th and 28th, M. Shaw and C. E. Gulnaud; Delano, November 3d and 4th, T. T. Hinderks and Charles P. Faul; St. Joseph, November 10th and 11th, J. C. Foss and S. F. Cushman; Stewartsville, November 17th and 18th, H. B. Taddicken and M. F. Bryant; Kingston, November 24th and 25th, A. W. Head and Ben Dice; DeKalb, November 24th and 25th, J. S. Constance and J. W. Roberts; German Stewartsville, December 1st and 2d, D. E. Powell and Andrew St. Lewis; Edgerton Junction, December 1st and 2d, A. Nesser, Jr., and D. J. Flanders. Any minister finding he cannot fill the above appointment will see that substitute is sent.

Officers elected were T. T. Hinderks, president; J. S. Constance, vice president; C. P. Faul and A. Leaverton, secretaries; Charles P. Faul, sustained as bishop's agent.

Bro. Swen Swensen, because of secular affairs, will be compelled to return to his home. A vote of thanks was tendered him for his faithful service while missionary in the district.

Preaching by Bro. Swen Swensen, Wm. Lewis and J. C. Foss. Social meeting in charge of Bro. M. Shaw and D. E. Powell.

Adjourned to meet with the St. Joseph branch, December 15th and 16th.

G. P. FAUL.

Conference Notices.

Quarterly conference of Northwest Kansas district will meet at Idylwild, November 3, 10 a. m. Please send all reports to district president.

A. KENT.
IDYLVILD, Clay Co., Ks., Oct. 8.

The Texas Central district conference will meet at Texas Central branch, near Hearne, November 3d, at 10 o'clock a. m. Sunday School Association at same place on the 2d, at 10 o'clock a. m. Let every officer in the district make a report. Come everybody who can and let us have a good time.

E. W. NUNLEY, Dist. Pres.

DIED.

STONE:--At the home of Bro. and Sr. Thomas Lilly (who have had the care of him since December, 1899), at

A PURE GRAPE CREAM OF TARTAR POWDER

Highest Honors, World's Fair Gold Medal, Midwinter Fair
Avoid Baking Powders containing alum. They are injurious to health.

Taylorville, Illinois, October 1, 1900, Nephil, son of James and Elizabeth Stone, of Higbee, Missouri; aged 1 year and 12 days. Funeral service in charge of Bro. Luther Simpson, at his residence.

AGENSTEIN.--At Omaha, Nebraska, September 23, 1900, Sr. Susanna Agenstein. She was born October 4, 1815, in Switzerland; came to America in 1870 and went to Utah; becoming dissatisfied she joined the Reorganization October 8, 1871; moved to Omaha the same year and has lived there ever since. She lived and died true to her covenant with her Lord. Her home was ever a home for the ministry and her hand a liberal one in helping this work. The poor lost a friend, the church a staunch and faithful member and society a noble citizen, and her family a true, devoted and loving mother. She leaves one son and four daughters, besides many sorrowing friends to mourn her departure. The funeral was from the church; where she was a faithful attendant for nearly thirty years; sermon by Elder F. A. Smith. The genuine sorrow of the Prayer Union as they gathered around their departed president's remains was a marked evidence of the esteem in which our departed sister was held by those who knew her well.

All except bad ones!

There are hundreds of cough medicines which relieve coughs, all coughs, except bad ones! The medicine which has been curing the worst of bad coughs for 60 years is Ayer's Cherry Pectoral.

Here is evidence:

"My wife was troubled with a deep-seated cough on her lungs for three years. One day I thought of how Ayer's Cherry Pectoral saved the life of my sister after the doctors had all given her up to die. So I purchased two bottles, and cured my wife completely. It took only one bottle to cure my sister. So you see that three bottles (one dollar each) saved two lives. We all send you our heartfelt thanks for what you have done for us."--J. H. BURKE, Macon, Col., Jan. 13, 1899.

Now, for the first time you can get a trial bottle of Cherry Pectoral for 25 cents. Ask your druggist.

ZION'S ENSIGN.

"OUR CREED: ALL TRUTH."

VOLUME 11.

INDEPENDENCE, MISSOURI, THURSDAY, OCTOBER 18, 1900

NUMBER 42.

ZION'S ENSIGN.

A Literary and Religious Newspaper, published in the interest of social, scientific and religious truth, every Thursday, at Independence, Jackson County, Missouri.

PRICE, $1.00 PER YEAR, IN ADVANCE.

ENSIGN PUBLISHING HOUSE,
of the Reorganized Church of Jesus Christ of Latter Day Saints.

W. H. GARRETT, EDITOR.
J. W. LUFF, BUSINESS MANAGER.

Make all remittances, and address all communications to ENSIGN PUBLISHING HOUSE, Box B, Independence, Jackson County, Missouri.

New subscriptions can begin at any time. If possible to avoid it, never send silver as it is liable to wear through the envelope and be lost. Always give the name of the post office to which your paper is sent or we can not find your name on our lists.

When desiring your address changed, give both the old and new address. Papers will be discontinued one month from the time subscriptions expire, unless ordered continued.

In making remittances, money orders are preferable for they are absolutely safe. If you can avoid it, do not send coin or stamps. Canadian stamps are an entire loss, and Canadian currency is only worth ninety cents on the dollar to us, for that is all we can get for it at the banks.

Letters should be addressed, and orders and drafts made payable to
ENSIGN PUBLISHING HOUSE,
Independence, Mo.

Box B.

THE LORD'S COMINGS.

The importance of the age in which we now live—"the dispensation of the fullness of time"—is understood and appreciated by but comparatively few. Important events have been, and are now, transpiring, and others of equal significance remain to be developed in the future in the fulfillment of the designs of our heavenly Father, preparatory to the second advent of the Savior, whose coming is the theme of many sermons and the expectation of perhaps millions of people. All who thus look for and desire His coming, are striving to make such preparation as their conception of what is needed to properly commend them to His divine favor, admonishes them to do.

It is the third time in the history of this world—so far as it has been given us—when the coming of the Son of God to this planet was anticipated; twice were the expectations realized, and the third will be just as surely, and as literally, according to the prophecies, as were the other events in fulfillment of the divinely inspired predictions of the servants of God. But each time not all were prepared for His coming, though some had endeavored to make preparation, their failure resulting from a misconception of what was necessary to be done.

At His first appearance there was so much disappointment among certain classes of churchmen that they could not be induced to accept Him or acknowledge His claims, though the miracles and wonder working power that testified of His divinity were so convincing in their character. The statement is generally credited that these devout people, chafing under the yoke of the Roman dynasty, expected the Deliverer to come and free them from this hated bondage. Not the suspicion of a suggestion apparently entered their minds that the Lord did not acknowledge them as His chosen people, hence, when the Savior came, of course He would come directly to them, assume the reigns of government and destroy their enemies.

Holding this view of His advent, it is small wonder that they would not give credence to the claims of the lowly born infant, coming into the world like other men, instead of coming in the "clouds of heaven with power and great glory" as the prophets had testified. Then, again, the place of His birth was, in their estimation, a complete refutation of the claims to prophetic prerogatives, for nothing had been written, according to their knowledge, that would support the assertion; for "out of Galilee ariseth no prophet" (John 7: 52), and under this conviction they continued to oppose Him, until the awful tragedy of the cross was the culmination. Their "looking" and their "preparation" were a failure, being misguided. By too many, we fear, will their errors be repeated when He shall come the last time, "the second time without sin unto salvation."

The second time His appearance was looked for, and for which preparation was made—though directly connected with, and in reality, a part of His first coming—was to His sheep on this continent of America, after His crucifixion at Jerusalem. As, after His resurrection, He appeared to His disciples at Jerusalem, and again, to more than "five hundred of the brethren" (1 Cor. 15: 6), so on this continent He appeared to His followers as He testified He would do, recorded by John.

And other sheep I have, which are not of this fold: them also I must bring, and they shall hear my voice; and there shall be one fold and one shepherd.—John 10: 16.

Some have interpreted this statement to have reference to the gentiles; but this will be found untenable when it is remembered that the gentiles were never denominated His "Sheep," that appellation being given to the house of Israel, or descendants of Abraham only: further, no gentile body ever heard His voice, so far as we have record. But when we turn to the descendants of those who emigrated from Jerusalem to America, and who were of the same nationality as were those to whom Jesus addressed himself when advising them of the other sheep, we have at once the rational and only consistent interpretation of His declaration.

The account of His appearance to His people on this land is so beautiful that we reproduce it for the benefit of those who may not have read it.

And now it came to pass that there were a great multitude gathered together, of the people of Nephi, round about the temple which was in the land Bountiful; and they were marveling and wondering one with another, and were showing one to another the great and marvelous change which had taken place; and they were also conversing about this Jesus Christ, of whom the sign had been given, concerning his death. And it came to pass that while they were thus conversing one with another, they heard a voice, as if it came out of heaven; and they cast their eyes round about, for they understood not the voice which they heard: and it was not a harsh voice, neither was it a loud voice, nevertheless, and notwithstanding it being a small voice, it did pierce them that did hear, to the centre, insomuch that there was no part of their frame that it did not cause to quake; yea, it did pierce them to the very soul, and did cause their hearts to burn. And it came to pass that again they heard the voice, and they understood it not, and again the third time they did hear the voice, and did open their ears to hear it; and their eyes were towards the sound thereof; and they did look steadfastly towards heaven, from whence the sound came: and behold, the third time they did understand the voice which they heard; and it said unto them, Behold, my beloved Son, in whom I and my Father are pleased, in whom I have glorified my name, hear ye him. And it came to pass as they understood, they cast their eyes up again towards heaven; and behold, they saw a man descending out of heaven; and he was clothed in a white robe, and he came down and stood in the midst of them, and the eyes of the whole multitude were turned upon him, and they durst not open their mouths, even one to another, and wist not what it meant, for they thought it was an angel that had appeared unto them. And it came to pass that he stretched forth his hand, and spake unto the people, saying, Behold I am Jesus Christ, whom the prophets testified shall come into the world; and behold I am the light and the life of the world, and I have drunk out of that bitter cup which the Father hath given me, and have glorified the Father in taking upon me the sins of the world, in the which I have suffered the will of the Father in all things, from the beginning. And it came to pass that when Jesus had spoken these words, the whole multitude fell to the earth, for they remembered that it had been prophesied among them that Christ should shew himself unto them after his ascension into heaven. And it came to pass that the Lord spake unto them, saying, Arise and come forth unto me, that ye may thrust your hands into my side, and also that ye may feel the prints of the nails in my hands, and in my feet, that ye may know that I am the God of Israel, and the God of the whole earth, and have been slain for the sins of the world. And it came to pass that the multitude went forth, and thrust their hands into his side, and did feel the prints of the nails in his hands and in his feet; and this they did do, going forth one by one, until they had all gone forth, and did see with their eyes, and did feel with their hands, and did know of a surety, and did bear record, that it was he, of whom it was written by the prophets, should come. And when they had all gone forth, and had witnessed for themselves, they did cry out with one accord, saying, Hosanna! Blessed be the name of the Most High God! And they did fall down at the feet of Jesus, and did worship him.—Nephi 5: 1-7, Book of Mormon, small edition.

The Savior then proceeded to instruct them in His doctrine as He had taught in Palestine.

Lastly, He is to come in this age in which we now live. All the signs which He gave as indicative of the near approach of the supreme day, are being rapidly shown, and the culmination must come ere many more years have passed. But sad it is to realize that so many are making preparation for that day in their own, and not in the Lord's, way, deceiving themselves as others have done. Many, too, who have been once awakened and felt the power of the world to come, have grown careless and neglectful, apparently thinking that just so they have a membership in the church, they are safe, whether or not they are living faithful. How awful is this deception. But Jesus said there would be five who are foolish.

Let every one rightly estimate the importance of this dispensation, make the best use of the opportunities and privileges afforded and seek to do the will of God, working with Him in the upbuilding of his kingdom and the establishment of righteousness. Live each day approved of Him, then will not "that day come upon them unawares." (Luke 21: 34).

EDITORIAL ITEMS.

Sr. J. C. HITCHCOCK, 2510 North Garrison Ave., St. Louis, Missouri, feels very deeply the many expressions of sympathy tendered to her by the Saints in her deep bereavement. She says in a note to the editor of the ENSIGN:

While I deeply appreciate them, I cannot just yet make any response personally. Later on I want to do so, but not right now; I can't.

We are sure that none will feel that their affectionate offerings in her time of sorrow and trial are the less grateful to our sister though she cannot yet bring herself to the recital of sorrowful details which personal replies entail. She is trying to bravely adapt herself to the situation and do what she can to be useful in the Lord's work, from which she will surely realize the blessing and peace of Him who is abundantly able to comfort and sustain His children.

We have ready for mailing the excellent article which has been running through the ENSIGN recently, from the pen of Elder T. C. Kelley, entitled, "The More Excellent Way." It is a booklet of sixty-eight pages, and we have placed the price at the lowest limit—ten cents each, postage paid—so that every one might be able to secure a copy. There should be a large demand for this work setting forth so clearly, as it does, the principles of the gospel, and logically disposing of many of the erroneous claims made as to church organizations of the day. It is a scriptural and reasonable presentation of the plan of salvation, and should be widely scattered as a means of introducing the gospel to others. Send in your orders. Address ENSIGN Publishing House, Independence, Missouri.

EXTRACTS FROM LETTERS.

ELDER L. G. GURWELL, Alexander, Rush county, Kansas:

Bro. Manning and I are doing good work here now. Four have obeyed the gospel. We find prejudice wherever we go.

ELDER W. T. BOZARTH, 3116 Gilpin street, Denver, Colorado, October 1st:

I landed here safe last Friday night after a ride overland of two hundred miles. I am well and feel fine. Preached yesterday.

ELDER J. C. FOSS, St. Joseph, Missouri:

We are having splendid meetings, God's power is present to bless. I spoke on Sunday at the DeKalb church at 11 o'clock; I've not enjoyed such a power of God's Spirit in presenting His word for many a day. Saints are enjoying the gifts of the gospel. I am holding forth this week at the Aspey mission. Preach in St. Joseph church next Sunday.

BRO. J. G. HODGES, of Grove Hill branch, Eastern Iowa district:

Heretofore we have not had much preaching, but this spring and summer we have had. Elder J. R. Sutton and family moved to Fairbank last spring; Bro. Chas. Shippy sold his place at Grove Hill and bought a place in the precincts of Arlington branch; he is president of Grove Hill branch. There have been no baptisms for some time. Except the Lord helps us our branch will be disorganized in the spring, unless Bro. Sutton remains with us. Brethren and sisters, let us be faithful, "For the day of the Lord draweth nigh." Satan knows he has but a short time, therefore he will, if possible, "deceive the very elect."

Sr. (Miss) KATE BETZ of Canton, Ohio, will spend the winter in Columbus, Ohio, and will be located at 285 Lafayette Street. In sending a remittance for the ENSIGN for a friend, she says:

I wish I could send my names and dollars for the ENSIGN, but people at Canton tell me they are perfectly satisfied with their own church and the religion their ministers teach; that all denominations are partly right and partly wrong in some things. They tell me they don't believe there is a true church on earth today. They go to church in the morning, the afternoon is spent at the lake or some other pleasure resort; during the week they can be seen at all the shows and theatres in the city. It is very hard to live the life of a true Saint when I have to associate with that class of people every day. I have spent many an hour in secret prayer to God that my life may be made brighter and happier by being permitted to associate with true Saints.

GENERAL CHURCH NEWS.

INDEPENDENCE.

Ernest Walburn is very ill with typhoid fever; all the rest of the sick are improving.

The Wednesday evening prayer meeting this week was marked by a splendid spirit and interest. The testimonies were fine.

Bro. Joseph Luff will preach next Sunday morning at the stone church, by special request, on the subject of "Does death end all."

The pastor preached the morning discourse last Sunday at the Saints' church, and Bro. H. H. Robinson preached at the evening hour.

Sr. J. H. McMullin, who has been spending several months in Colorado to benefit her health, returned home this week decidedly improved by her trip. Bro. John says he is feeling better himself now that she has returned safely.

Sr. Lydia Billinsky, of the ENSIGN force, is having a very serious experience with a threatened attack of typhoid fever. She was improving, but unfortunately suffered a relapse which is making it hard for her to endure. We hope she will speedily recover.

Elder W. T. Bozarth reached home Tuesday evening, being called here unexpectedly on business. The change in climate is affecting him quite painfully already, but he is unable, owing to his business affairs, to return to his mission work at present.

Bro. Geo. F. Campbell and wife, Sr. Ida V. Campbell, were baptized in Shultz's pond last Sunday, the 14th, at the close of the afternoon service, Bro. H. H. Robinson officiating. They were confirmed at the evening service by Brn. G. H. Hulmes and B. J. Scott respectively.

Bro. Geo. Hayward has been having a very sore attack of what is thought to have been ivy poisoning the past ten days. We are much pleased to note his gradual return to health. Bro. Hayward is a useful man, especially when there are administrations to the sick to be performed.

Bro. A. H. Mills, of this city, eldest son of Bro. and Sr. H. R. Mills, and Sr. Maud Lambert, of Lamon, Iowa, daughter of Bro. and Sr. J. R. Lambert, were married at the home of the bride's parents, Wednesday, October 17th. Their numerous friends will join in wishing them a happy and prosperous life voyage. The ENSIGN extends congratulations and bids them God-speed.

We forgot to mention last week that Bro. J. Jos. Luff has opened up what he styles a "Candy Kitchen" in the McCoy block on West Lexington street nearly opposite the Ticket office of the Electric line. While his products may be classed in the line of "luxuries" it is doubtless a great satisfaction to those who indulge in them to know where to get an article which they know is pure. We hope he may meet with sufficient encouragement to justify his continuance. Sr. Mittie Luff is the obliging sales-lady.

Bro. and Sr. A. L. Newton, of Cove, Arkansas, will give a reception at their home, Saturday evening, October 20th, at 8 o'clock, on the occasion of the twelfth anniversary of their marriage. We should very much like to be present, but the four hundred miles intervening is an unsurmountable obstacle. True, in these days of electricity and swift motion, a little thing like that should not be allowed to intervene, but those whose business it is to annihilate distances, are insistent upon being remunerated for services rendered, and so, dear brother and sister, regrets, and many happy returns of the day.

The building committee, of this branch, Brn. R. May, William Crick, Ellis Short, Geo. H. Hulmes and John A. Robinson, Sr., are to be congratulated on the good work done in clearing off the church debt, after so many years of hard pulling and faithful work in connection with their predecessors. Monday last they had sufficient money in hand, except about forty dollars, which the committee were compelled to advance; though more than enough had been pledged, all have not yet met their agreement, but of course will yet do so as they are expected to do. The party who held the mortgage was out of the city on Monday but returned home Wednesday, when the money was paid over to him, fully satisfying the indebtedness. This will be welcome intelligence to the Saints here, and to all interested in the progress of the work here. Now for the work of finishing the building and getting it in shape for dedication. Let all work to that end.

Monday night a special business meeting of the branch was held, according to the resolution of the last regular session to consider the question of heating the entire church building. The pastor presided and took notes in absence of the secretary; after the opening exercises were concluded, and a few remarks made by one or two, a resolution prevailed that it was the sense of the meeting that the church should be heated at a cost not to exceed five hundred dollars, that being the lowest tender for satisfactory work. Immediate steps were then taken to ascertain if the necessary funds could be raised. The chair, at the suggestion of some brethren, appointed Brn. B. C. Smith, Dell White and George W. Nesbitt as solicitors to wait upon those present, and although a very small number, comparatively, had manifested sufficient interest in the matter to be present, $156 was subscribed, which, with Bro. Wm. Crick's offer of $100, the Sunday School donation of $20, the probability of being able to borrow $40 of Religio funds, and from other sources, swelled the amount to $311. On motion Bishop May was requested and authorized to present the matter again at the morning service next Sunday, when it is hoped that sufficient will be secured from those who have not yet pledged assistance to this fund, to raise the entire amount, thirty days being given in which to pay pledges. Keep this in view then, and give liberally. It is a work that must be done; the lower auditorium is now too small for the attendance, and the sooner this is finished the better, so that we can have the use of the upper room at all seasons. Let every one do what they are able, if only twenty-five cents, and if all will thus work together, it will be very easily accomplished.

ST. LOUIS, MISSOURI.

We are pleased to know that Bro. Allen's condition is better, and he will be welcomed to his field of labor, whenever health permits his return.

Bro. Billinsky visited Oak Hill mission yesterday morning, and then spoke at Cheltenham, in the afternoon. Bro. John Dawson went to Alma, Illinois, by early train, putting in the day doing good work, and assisted Bro. Geo. Barraclough at the evening service. Bro. Barraclough preached the funeral sermon of a Mr. Crossley who departed this life some few weeks ago.

Sr. Belle Crocker and children have returned from their Utah trip.

Bro. Jas. Christenson was our speaker Sunday morning, assisted by Bro. Gordon Smith. Bro. C. took for subject matter the 43d section of the Doctrine and Covenants.

The infant son of Bro. Geo. Crowell and wife was blessed, under the hands of Bro. Smith, at the afternoon meeting, named Harold Emerson.

Bro. Tom Elliott occupied the rostrum, evening hour. His effort was commended, and we are always glad to see our young men stepping onward and upward.

The Mite Society are making preparations for a Thanksgiving dinner and Bazaar; particulars later.

Sr. Mary Brown, on last Tuesday, was married to Dr. Tilman Brown, of Winfield, Kansas. Bro. Christenson officiated, and the happy couple departed the same evening for their future home. Congratulations, Sr. Brown.

ETTA.

Oct. 18.

LAMONI, IOWA.

Elder M. F. Gowell addressed the Saints Sunday morning and Elder John Smith at evening. Afternoon prayer meeting is reported very good.

The Sunday School teachers' meetings, held every Monday evening, are very well attended, and much interest is manifested by them to become proficient teachers of the sacred word.

The Wednesday evening prayer meeting held at the brick church was fairly well attended. Good interest was shown in the time being well occupied. The prayer meeting held at Mite Society Hall, same evening, is reported good.

Friday afternoon occurred the monthly meeting of the Daughters of Zion. It was one of the most profitable and interesting sessions we have ever attended of this organization. The school teachers of the town have expressed a desire to join with us, that they may gain additional qualifications, and co-operate with the parents in the best methods of dealing with children.

Sr. Dorcas E., wife of Bro. H. A. Harder, who returned from Wray, Colorado, week before last, passed from this life Wednesday morning, 10th inst. Sr. Harder had been gradually declining for a long time and was a great sufferer from the dread disease, consumption. She is spoken of in highest terms by her many friends, who, with a loving husband and dear little boy, mourn her departure. May the Lord comfort the bereaved with His Holy Spirit. Funeral occurred Thursday morning at brick church, sermon by Elder Asa Cochran.

Bro. J. S. Snively returned from his mission field, Illinois, bringing with him a good subscription list for Graceland College.

Dedicatory services were held at Evergreen church yesterday, 14th inst., the Evergreen branch having completed the building and payment of a neat house for their services. President Joseph Smith delivered the dedicatory sermon. Quite a number of the Saints from Lamon attended the services and report an enjoyable time.

Elder M. F. Gowell arrived last Saturday to assume his duties on the auditing committee soon.

Sr. M. E. Ronat, from Sacramento, California, arrived in the city yesterday, to join the family at the Saints' Home. Apostle G. T. Griffiths accompanied her as far as St. Joseph. Bro. Griffith will visit his family at Kirtland, Ohio, who are having a siege with scarlet fever, before he returns to his mission.

G. L. K.

October 15.

CHICAGO, ILLINOIS.

Branch headquarters, 716 W. Van Buren St., Sunday meetings 2:45 and 7:45 p. m.; Lang Mission, 3411 Cottage Grove Ave., 10:45 a. m. and 7:30 p. m.; West Pullman branch, 748 119th St., 10:30 a. m. and 7:30 p. m.; 608 W. 37th St. (colored mission), 10:30 a. m. and 7:30 p. m.

Yesterday was a good day for the Chicago work. The day was fine and attendance and spirit of the meetings were very good. In the morning Bro. H. C. Smith occupied at the mission to a good house of attentive listeners, who listened not in vain, hearing, as they did, some excellent thoughts from "What Lack I Yet." At the evening hour he preached at branch headquarters to another full house, with a goodly number of strangers, some of whom heard for the first time.

Sr. J. E. Brown, of St. Paul, is visiting in the city, and her testimony indicated much joy in meeting with the Lord's people.

The Saints to the number of thirty, counting two or three sweet babies, gave the parson and wife a complete surprise and spent a happy hour, leaving tokens of substantial regard. If you let us know the next time you surprise us, we will have seats prepared. Thanks, dear Saints.

Bro. J. B. Rodger, wife and two daughters, of Batavia, Illinois, Bro. S. M. Rogers, of Piper

City, Bro. A. R. Wilcox, of Plano, Sr. Norris, of Kewanee, Bro. Norris, of Sandwich, Srs. Randall and Vernon, of Downers Grove, and Bro. Atkins, of Aurora, were among the happy worshippers yesterday, all rejoicing under the good influence so prevalent in the services.

We enjoyed a flying visit from our cousin, E. S. Campbell, of McKeesport, Pennsylvania, on Thursday last.

Bro. H. C. Smith has made plain the way of life so far as time has permitted. He occupies here again tonight, at West Pullman on the three or four following nights, then on to Peoria, Illinois, in the Kewanee district, where he will spend the third Sunday, thence, probably, to Kewanee and Rock Island, the tri-city mission, for the fourth and first Sundays respectively.

The street work still continues vigorously in some parts of the city, and will as long as the weather permits. Good is being done.

Bro. Pement now has his family with him and has become a fixed ingredient in the Chicago work.

Brn. F. C. Good, F. M. Pitt, E. J. Lang, G. H. Graves and Wm. Henry Fuller were the preachers last Sunday, all to the good of the cause.

The Sabbath School work is doing well. The superintendent asked the children how many would like to be baptized, when a number of little hands went up, so look out for good news from Chicago next week. In the covenant of peace,

Yours,

J. M. TERRY.

395 Ogden Ave.

DENVER, COLORADO.

Church, corner of 22d and Arapahoe Sts. Services Sunday:—Sunday School at 9:45 a. m.; preaching at 11 a. m. and 7:30 p. m.; sacrament service the first Sunday in each month at 6 p. m. Prayer meeting Wednesday evening. Zion's Religio-Literary Society Friday evening.

The weather is fine, days clear and warm, nights cool. A shower of rain would be very acceptable to lay the dust.

Bro. Joseph Schmutz is considerably improved in health so much so as to attend the services at the church Sunday morning.

Sr. Fern Hamlin has returned from Salt Lake and is in attendance at the North Side High School. Fern has lots of push and will undoubtedly make her mark in the world.

Mrs. McNall of Omaha, with her family, has lately come to Denver and seems to be interested in the gospel. Among the late arrivals in the city are H. O. Smith, Jr., and Miss Black of St. Joseph; Sr. Mamie Chaturm of Independence, and Bro. J. B. Roush and family of Wray, Colo.

Bro. John Brennan has been confined to the house with his old friend, the asthma. This is the first severe attack since he has been in Denver.

At the Sunday morning meeting Bro. and Sr. Edwards' new baby was blessed by Elders Roush and Bozarth.

Bro. S. H. Eye got a fall a few days ago that came near being quite serious. One arm is injured from the effects so that he cannot use it.

The meeting of the Religio has been changed to Sunday evening at 6 o'clock, and from present appearances it is the right move. The meeting Sunday last was well attended and the program well rendered. The study of the Book of Mormon is becoming more interesting to all.

The Sunday preaching was by Elder J. B. Roush in the morning and W. T. Bozarth in the evening.

October 15.

SECOND KANSAS CITY BRANCH.

Corner 23d and Holly. One block south of Observation Park line. Bro. Wm. Clow preached the first sermon in our new church at the morning meeting yesterday. After a few brief remarks of commendation to the branch for their efforts to obtain a place to assemble, he presented the lesson taught by the Savior to the Samaritan women at Jacob's well.

At the evening meeting Bro. Thomas Newton addressed a fair congregation, using the first twenty-one verses of chapter 17 of St. John, as a foundation for the lesson. He presented forcibly, reasons for the people to have a knowledge of God in order to comprehend him.

The Wednesday evening prayer meetings and the Religio meeting, Friday evenings, will be held regularly in the church at 7:30.

The branch extends their thanks to all who have helped us in the erection of the building and trust the Lord will reward them, and we wish to extend an invitation to the Saints everywhere to visit and worship with us in our own home, upon which the Lord has set his seal, by his Spirit. We are encouraged to make continued efforts to forward this wonderful work of God.

J. C. GRAINGER. 2124 East St., Oct. 15.

LETTER DEPARTMENT.

PIPESTONE, Minnesota, Oct. 10. Editor Ensign:—We cannot boast of any great progress being made in this part of the Lord's vineyard, but have reason to believe that our claims are now better understood than formerly among the people generally speaking. Some are investigating and interested enough to help us in our financial needs; one lady (an outsider) left in the hands of a sister $1.00 for our benefit. May God bless all such willing hands. Certainly they will receive their reward, and may the Spirit of the Master lead them to obey the truth.

For the past two weeks I have labored at Correll, Bigstone county, a place where the gospel had never been preached. Bro. James M. Blood being the only member of our church at that place, and by his request and the advice of Bro. I. N. Roberts I preached there seven times. Bro. Blood had secured the use of the Union church for us, therefore felt free to occupy while there; in regard to our efforts the future must reveal. Will say some felt quite interested, others bitterly opposed and especially was the latter true of the Norwegian element. While I was speaking on the subject of the resurrection one of them told me, "If you will come back here in a year, I will fix up a dose for you to swallow." This was especially on the future punishment of man. I suppose I shall have to prepare for the dose and swallow it if necessary. Gave away many tracts and on the whole I truly believe a foundation for future work is laid there.

Bro. Blood's spiritual pulse seems to beat in harmony with the work, though we never met before. I found him a good faithful Saint who is doing all he can to get the truth before the people there. I wish we had all of our people equally earnest. We had two or three invitations to come again by outsiders where we stayed at times.

The last night of our meetings, October 3d, we took the midnight train and crossed over into South Dakota, Grant county, where I preached nine times in June, 1899. Held two meetings there last Sunday, assisted in a temperance meeting in the afternoon. I am satisfied I was considered quite extreme in my remarks on that question by some; the tobacco is something they had not considered. Bro. Walling's efforts there in July, 1899, are remembered and will not soon be forgotten by some; trust Bro. Walling will be able to return sometime.

I expect to labor in Pipestone, Nobles and Kook counties until cold weather, when the eastern part of the state is preferable on account of the shelter, there being more timbered country. I desire to reach all southern Minnesota Saints as soon as possible. With best wishes for the work in general and success to the ENSIGN, I am as ever,

Your brother in the faith, ELI HAYER.

KIRK, Col., Oct. 9

Editor Ensign:—Elder J. B. Roush and the writer have been conducting tent meetings near this post office, at Bro. D. W. Zimmerman's place. The attendance has been fair, not large, because the weather has been cool, and at this time of year meetings in a tent are rather cold. Last Wednesday Bro. Roush returned to Wray, Colorado, his health not being the best—took a cold in coming down to this place. From that time until last Sunday I preached every night. At the last meeting, Sunday night, we had a large crowd. Was assisted in the meetings by the local brethren.

Large congregations in this sparsely settled western country are the exception. Some came as far as fourteen miles to hear us. Considerable prejudice exists in these parts. The faithful lives of the Saints are having a good effect in lessening opposition against the angel restored message.

Monday last the tent was taken down and stored away for safe keeping till next spring. No baptisms were made, but I believe much misunderstanding was corrected in regard to our belief and doctrine.

I feel encouraged to press onward and sound the gospel trumpet.

Your co-worker, A. B. HANSON.

WRAY, Col.

BAYMINETTE, Ala., Sept. 17.

Dear Ensign:—Our conference passed off a few days ago with that peacefulness that attends the Saints of God when they come together in humility and of heart. Our force was small, so was our attendance, but we enjoyed the Spirit of God. Bro. W. L. Booker occupied the chair, preaching being done by Elders W. B. Booker, G. T. Chute and a Elder Allen from Florida. The prayer meeting began with the ordaining of Bro. E. A. Bankester to the office of teacher, blessing of two children, and administered to two afflicted sisters after prayer and testimony were had to the good of all.

Bro. Corson's writing is instructive indeed. May the Lord bless her with his Spirit that she may bring many to knowledge of the truth. Yours for the upbuilding of Zion, G. W. BANKESTER.

CORRELL, Minnesota, Oct. 7.

Dear Ensign:—I have received a spiritual blessing in having my request in Herald answered by Bro. I. N. Roberts in sending Bro. Eli Hayer to this place. He arrived on September 28th at 3:30 p. m. and I took a flying trip around town and at 8 in the evening had a fair crowd—considering the time—of attentive listeners.

Bro. Hayer preached on the first principle of the gospel, "Faith," with good spirit, followed with the others. On Sunday morning he preached from 1 Corinthians 15, on the resurrection. The Lutherans said, "It is a shame to listen to such preaching." It put a spot on their eternal damnation doctrine and one said he would have a dose for him when he returns next year, and would take the stand half of the time, to which Bro. Hayer agreed. Would that he or some one else will not wait a year.

I love the restored gospel in its fullness and the prayers of all of God's Saints. Yours for Christ, JAS. M. BLOOD.

LAMONT, Ia., Oct. 16.

Editor Ensign:—Permit me to say to all those who read the article, "Loose the Fetters," that we are still much in earnest and alive in behalf of Graceland College, and as "eternal vigilance" is the price of liberty, so the keep-at-it policy shall be our rule, until success shall be assured to this church institution "of learning."

Let none wait until they can do something big; may! withhold not your mite, for the old Scotch adage is still true, "many micks make a muckle." So send to the undersigned or to Daniel Anderson, your donation, and thus become a willing helper in the Lord's work, and the coming generation will rise up and call you blessed.

In behalf of Graceland, ROBT. M. ELVIN.

Box 224.

LEXINGTON, Tennessee, Oct. 13.

Dear Ensign:—Your weekly visits are as water to a thirsty soul. Being isolated as I am from the church only as one of the elders comes in and preaches a few times. Bro. T. C. Kelley of Independence, Missouri, was in here embracing the fourth Sunday in September. That day he preached the funeral sermon of Bro. S. Reed's wife to a large crowd of as attentive listeners as I ever saw. He preached on the resurrection with good liberty and God blessed the word spoken, for three were added to the church by baptism; one was a faithful member of the Baptist Church.

Elder T. C. Kelley, our missionary in charge, is the right man in the right place and can delve deep into the mysteries of the kingdom of God and His righteousness and make them plain to his hearers.

Elder C. L. Snow, another one of our beloved preachers, paid us a visit last spring and preached several good sermons and baptized four, two of them were my own children, for which the Lord be thanked. One of them, my daughter, a while after she came into the church was bitten by a very large copperhead snake, but her faith in the gospel promise of Christ brought instant relief and no harm was felt, all to the astonishment of my neighbors. This has strengthened the Saints in this part of the country very much, but has not made any believers as I know of, although they say the snake and the place where it bit her, also the scripture where it says "they shall take up serpents and they shall not hurt them" (Mark 16: 18), yet they cannot believe.

Now at this time the Campbellites are making inroads among the different sects in this country so the fight is with them for numbers only, very little for truth. But I think the excitement will put a goodly number to reading the Bible. I have been battling for the truth for a number of years and have had quite a time with the adversary of truth in getting the gospel of Christ before the people. But while we have been closed out of their houses and ordered out of the country and our lives threatened, yet we are spared to see some of our friends coming to the light and some who were our bitterest enemies have turned to be friends of this latter day work.

I do hope that Latter Day Saints one and all will soon see the necessity of living up to our privileges in Christ so that when our elders come in our midst their teaching will have such influence that people can have the confidence in them that is expected they should have; until this is done the elders are going to have a heap of trouble in getting new openings and getting the people to hear. So I believe that the spread of truth depends upon Saints living their religion and keeping themselves under subjection to the gospel of our salvation and not be doing such things as cause the truth to be evil spoken of. May truth spread unto all the honest in heart and error be exposed is my desire.

J. H. SCOTT.

DETROIT, Mich., Oct. 11.

Dear Ensign:—I enjoyed the Washington Park and Stewartsville reunions much. The association with Saints, the spirituality of the prayer and preaching services, the humility and earnest devotions of the young people, and their anxiety to be useful in the work, and their promptness in Sunday School and Religio work was very commendable and encouraging. All was a season of refreshing to me.

Nor shall I soon forget how that on the last Saturday of the reunion at Independence, Bro. John A. Robinson hustled me around over the adjoining regions, with horse and buggy; down towards Independence, past the old (new) English castle, with its shady, undulating surroundings, its stone towers and turrets, its small windows, and its miniature lake and fish pond. But we had no time to scrutinize details, so over the hilly, rocky cross roads we hasten, around to the park, take in Bro. Elvin's experimental sermon, or rather, sermon of experiences, and then, without stopping for dinner, we were out hastening past Fairmount Park and on to the "old stone road" that leads north to the Missouri river crossing, and leading on to the town of Liberty.

It was down this road that the Saints were driven by angry opposers, when compelled to leave Jackson county in 1831, I think; Jesus, our commander and leader, was, in his humility, "led" from judgment; but his latter day followers were "driven" before the lawless and enraged mob, from their homes and possessions; and that too, in a land guaranteeing to all its citizens liberty to worship Jehovah according to the dictates of conscience; but alas, "things are not always what they seem." Human inconsistency is a puzzle, who can solve it?

Who can tell why the Saints suffered as they did for eight years, in the lovely state of Missouri? Was it permitted because of their pride? Disobedience to divine command? Disregard of the state laws? Lack of wisdom? Polluting their inheritances? Disregard of the law of equality in temporal things? Was it the result of the spirit of speculation by which they sought to devour each other? Did they stop doing the work commanded, and begin to say, "Alight not this money be given to the ex-changers, for there is no need of these things?" Ah yes, who knew best what was needed, they, or the Nobleman? And we may inquire, will history, in this particular, repeat itself?

I am anxious for the Saints to call a halt right here, scan those eight years of suffering, examine our own hearts, lift our eyes and look carefully around, view the prospect; and when this is done, will some one give us our exact bearing as to the redemption of Zion? Are we still deciding that our Lord hath no need of the things enjoined, and move right on doing what is not commanded? Yes, the parable will be fulfilled, but not to our credit or advantage. Doctrine and Covenants 98:6. Go right on giving our strength to stocks and stones.

But I must not forget Bro. Robinson nor Bro. Lentel—I believe is the name—nor the lovely fruits, plums and peaches, so red and fresh and luscious, then growing so like beautiful ornaments on the land of Zion. Nor must I forget the tears of joy that fell from the eyes of the brother, as we received from his hand the free gift of fruit, which we enjoyed so splendidly.

After drinking in the beautiful scenery presented to the eye, by the forests fringing the river at that sorrowful crossing place; the gradual bend of the river resembling a silver bow; the foliage of variegated colors, with the town of Liberty in the distance, looking gray in the background of the view. But through all its beauty, saw, mentally, the mingled scene of sorrowful Saints, weeping wives and mothers, subdued fathers, barefooted, half-clad, weary, forlorn children; exiles, wanderers; no home, no retreat of safety to rest, at the mercy of an enraged, intoxicated mob; and the prophets and servants of the Lord imprisoned, and without the least shadow of justice, in the prison seen dimly in the distance.

We hurried, returning from the view and the horse sweating to a lather in the hot sun and dusty road, we hasten to Bro. Robinson's to dinner, then on to the park again to the afternoon services, for we had gone west to attend the reunion. The sermon over, on to Kansas City we rush, Bro. Robinson and I. A hurried drive into, and a hastened scan of the implement concern, superintended by the Robinson company, and away we go to the camp of the Saints, and Bro. John, after all this rush, preached an interesting sermon at night, explanatory of his experiences in his introduction to "this great latter day work."

But time and your patience would fail were I to enter into all the details of my visit to the reunions; suffice it to say it was "peace on earth, good will to men" all the way round. The only cloud o'er shadowing the bow of promise was the leave taking of Saints and of little family after a brief visit at home. On my return to the city by the lakes (Detroit), I found the Saints here generally well, and a halo of peace glowing over the branch.

The branch place of meeting is 344 Grand River avenue, and preaching services are held regularly Sundays at 10:30 a. m. and at 7:30 p. m., prayer meeting Wednesdays at 8 p. m.; Religio Literary society meetings held Friday evenings at 8.

I was privileged to attend the eastern Michigan district conference held at the city of Flint, the 6th and 7th instants, as also the Sunday School district convention of the day previous. Both well attended; Bro. J. H. Lake and A. Barr, presided over the former, and Bro. Lake and Sweet over the latter.

A host of young people attended both conference and convention. How splendid it seems, or is, rather, to have the young preferring to attend the church gatherings, and take an interest in the Lord's work. District reports over twelve hundred members.

But the Religio society ought, by all means, to send a missionary of their department into these districts. The young people will never know how much they are losing till organized and in good Religio working order. What grand spiritual developments await our young people, by organized and concerted studies of God's work.

Sunday, the 7th, was a day fully devoted to the Master's service. Young people assembled in prayer service at 8 a. m., general prayer service at 9 to 10:30 a. m. During these services Bro. F. C. Smith was ordained to the office of a seventy, by Elders J. H. Lake and C. Scott, and Bro. Jas. Davis was ordained a priest, under the hands of Elders C. Scott, J. H. Lake and A. Barr. Bro. Hawk had charge of the young people's prayer meeting, and Elders J. J. Bailey and Wm. Davis the 9 to 10:30 services. Bro. Wm. Hartnell, of Juniata, was designated to be ordained to the eldership, through the gifts of tongue and interpretation.

Bro. A. Barr preached at 10:45. Dinner and supper were served in dining rooms of the hall (G. A. R.) we occupied. Bro. Liddy preached at 2 p. m. and Bro. Lake at 2:45; at 5:15 E. K. Evans, of Grand Rapids, Michigan, by request, preached. He delivered a clear, clean cut sermon on the "Fullness of the Atonement." At 7:50 Elder C. Scott discoursed to a crowded hall—a large one at that—on the latter day work, concluding at 8:05. It was rather a notable day for us. I go next week to St. Clair to hold a series of meetings.

I think another conference or two like this one, if held at Flint, will jar it sensibly. The few Saints there did nobly, entertaining such a large number. May all Saints be awake.

Hopefully, C. SCOTT.

ZION'S ENSIGN.

Entered at the Post Office at Independence Mo., as Second Class Matter.

"MORMONISM.

"Its Leaders and Designs."

ELDER H. O. SMITH.

The above is the title of a book issued in 1857, from the press of W. P. Fetridge & Co., of New York, and written by one John Hyde, Jr. As far as I know there has never been a reply written to the statements made therein, and my only apology for doing so at this late date, is, that in the "Southwestern mission" our elders have had the book to meet; and in the seven different debates held with Elder Chism, of the Christian church, he has made it the basis of his attack upon us.

In the late discussion held at Oklaunion, Texas, between Bro. C. Scott and Mr. Chism, he stated publicly that if we could show one garbled quotation from Hyde's book he would discard the book and never use it in a discussion with our people again. Bro. Scott showed a number of misquotations but it did not satisfy Mr. Chism because we quoted from an edition of the Book of Mormon and Doctrine and Covenants published after Hyde wrote his book. I have gone to the trouble, therefore, to get the editions of the books published prior to 1857, so that subterfuge might avail nothing.

I shall not try to answer the arguments as they have been so often refuted, but simply content myself with showing the inconsistencies and garbled statements made. One thing is noticeable in all exposes (?) of Mormonism; the various authors start out by protesting that they are sincere, and what they have done is for love; each one flatters the public that they are competent witnesses and have told the truth, and nothing but the truth. On pages 26 and 27 Hyde says, "That I have done right I am convinced; God knows I have done it in the love of right * * * If in the succeeding pages I have been guilty of exaggeration, I am not aware of it; I certainly do not intend it. Mormonism licenses too much corruption under the name of religion, to need any exaggeration to make it atrocious."

Hyde was born in 1833, baptized 1848, and was, therefore, at his baptism but fifteen years of age, and came into the church four years and a little more after Joseph Smith was killed—he was baptized September 4, 1848, Joseph Smith was killed June 27, 1844—(Hyde p. 17), therefore could not have known anything about the church at Nauvoo, or in Missouri; and yet he says on page 50, "They were far worse at Nauvoo than at Salt Lake; were far worse at Missouri than at Nauvoo." No exaggeration here!

In his introduction he mentions "the meanness of its origin" and "as ensuring human misery and consummating human degradation, it should be noticed by the philanthropist." It would be curious to know how a system could continue to improve its advocates if it is all that Mr. Hyde claims for it in his book. If Mr. Hyde were alive we might ask him to arise and explain, but as he is dead, will some of his ardent admirers please stand up?

That he was densely ignorant of what transpired in the early history of the church, and even much that was done in his own, or the Brighamite church, we have only to call the reader's attention to his frequent assertions in regard to Joseph Smith's having children by his alleged plural wives. On page 4 he says that Joseph Smith began practicing polygamy as early as 1833, and says that as early as 1846 he "had children living who were the offspring of this very practice." On page 84 and 85 he tells of a son born to a Mrs. Dibble by Joseph Smith—and yet he does not exaggerate! Everyone knows that the Utah people would long ago have produced those children had there been any; but on the contrary Wilfred Woodruff admits that no children were ever born to Joseph Smith in that way.

On May 30, 1892, Mr. Nedig (not a member of any church), of Wampum, Pennsylvania, wrote Mr. Woodruff on this point, and Mr. Woodruff, through his secretary, Geo. Reynolds, replied as follows:

"The facts that you refer to are almost as much a mystery to us as they are to you; but the reason generally assigned by the wives themselves is, that owing to the peculiar circumstances by which they were surrounded, they were nervous and in such constant fear that they did not conceive."—Was Joseph Smith a Polygamist? pp. 9, 10. Thus it is conceded by the Utah people themselves, that nothing of the kind ever occurred, and in this, Hyde out-Brighams Brigham's false assertions. But Hyde has gone through the Brigham school in which he says, "They publicly defend lying for expediency, believing the end justifies the means."—p. 49, and he certainly was an apt scholar and did not entirely apostatize from the Brighamite faith.

On page 137 we are given this bit of historical information by this man who does not exaggerate. Speaking of Brigham Young he says:

"He was convinced by Elder Samuel H. Smith, brother of the Prophet Joseph Smith, who has since apostatized."

This is something new in the way of history, that Samuel H. Smith apostatized, as he died almost immediately after the murder of his two brothers, Joseph and Hyrum, having passed away July 30, 1844. With Hyde, Brigham was the honest man, Joseph Smith the knave. One he knew, the other he did not know. On page 152 he says, "Smith was not a man of genius;" 153, "Brigham was superior not only to Smith, but also to Rigdon." On page 154, "No man ever lived who had more deeply devoted friends than Brigham Young." On page 145, of Brigham he says:

"Feared with a stronger fear, venerated with a more rational veneration, but not loved with the same clinging tenderness that the people still felt for Joseph Smith, Brigham swayed them at his will. They learned to dread his iron hand and were daunted by his iron heart."

Italics are mine, but there is evidently a contradiction here. The clinging tenderness with which the people regarded Joseph Smith was the power that Brigham wielded over his people, never undertaking a measure without the use of Joseph's name, and, good or bad, it won when he once convinced the people that Joseph began it. On page 146 I find this:

"Colonel Kane who had embraced Mormonism in Iowa."

"This is the first time I ever knew Colonel Kane was a Mormon. On page 168:

"A Mr. Howard was a Mormon merchant, but grew dissatisfied in 1845 and determined to leave Salt Lake."

How could he leave Salt Lake in 1845 when they did not go there until 1847? It may be pleaded that this might be an error in the printing. True, but Hyde ought to be more careful in the printing of a book that is to overthrow the faith of thousands. For if such palpable errors as this are allowed to creep in how might it not be with something more important?

I pass on, however, not noticing only a little of his inaccurate statements and contradictions, and come to his manifest dishonesty in quoting from the books of the church. On page 184 he quotes from the Doctrine and Covenants, European edition, page 188 (section 45:13 in late edition):

"And it shall be said among the wicked, let us not go up to battle against Zion, for the inhabitants of Zion are terrible; wherefore we cannot stand."

Hyde quotes it as follows:

"And the wicked shall say, let us not go up to battle against Zion, for the inhabitants of Zion are terrible and we cannot stand; when one shall chase a thousand and two put ten thousand to flight."

The latter clause is not found in the section at all, and the rest is not quoted verbatim. Page 110, European edition (section 6: 11 late edition), reads:

"Did I not speak peace to your mind concerning the matter? What greater witness can you have than from God?"

Hyde renders the latter part thus, "What greater witness can you have from a god?"

Paragraph 12 reads:

"Verily, verily, I say unto you, that there are records which contain much of my gospel, which have been kept back because of the wickedness of the people; and now I command you, that if you have good desires, a desire to lay up treasures for yourself in heaven, then shall you assist in bringing to light, those parts of my scriptures which have been hidden because of iniquity."

Hyde renders it:

"There are other records kept back; you shall assist in bringing to light those parts of my scriptures."—Hyde p. 251.

Here he entirely changes the meaning of one clause, making the quality of the witness depend upon the manner in which the testimony was given, also teaching inferentially a plurality of gods, while the book makes the value of the testimony depend upon whether it came from God or not; and in the 12th paragraph making seventeen words do duty for seventy-two.

On page 273 he quotes from Doctrine and Covenants, European edition, page 108 (late edition Sec. 10: 3), as follows: "Seek not for treasures but for wisdom; and, behold, the mysteries of God shall be unfolded to you; and then you shall be made rich." Then says that Joseph had to "rebuke him [Cowardery] for his too impetuous desires to be rich," and says the inducement held out to Cowdery was riches; but here is the quotation as it really is in the book. I quote the whole of verse 3, Hyde begins in the middle of a sentence and just after a comma:

"Now as you have asked, behold, I say unto you, keep my commandments, and seek to bring forth and establish the cause of Zion. Seek not for riches but for wisdom and, behold, the mysteries of God shall be unfolded unto you, and then shall you be made rich. Behold, he that hath eternal life is rich."

The reader will notice that Mr. Hyde changes the word "riches" to "treasures," and "unto" to "to," and leaves out the qualifying clause or sentence denoting what kind of riches are meant. Is this the work of an honest man? Is it the work of a man who does not want to exaggerate or misrepresent? Assuredly not. But the end is not yet, for thus far his misrepresentations are tame beside his mangling of Book of Mormon quotations and statements. On page 215 he tells the falsehood that others have so often repeated after him. He says:

"On page 509, European edition [large edition, 439], we are told Moroni fills up his plates, and says, 'I have no more room on the plates, and ore I have none for I am alone.' The plates of his father, the book with rings, are all full. He has no more plates, nor ore to make any of; and yet the matter of forty-seven closely printed pages of pretended translation follows directly after."

A more glaring misrepresentation of facts could not be found anywhere, unless Mr. Hyde is like the story of Daniel Webster, who, when a boy going to school, used to have very dirty hands; and when the teacher called him up one day to punish him by furling his hand he held his right hand out to receive the blow; but when the teacher saw how dirty it was she said, "Daniel, if you can show me another hand as dirty as this one, in this room, I will let you off without punishing you." As quick as thought the left hand was placed beside the right, and as it was equally as dirty, Daniel escaped; and so Mr. Hyde may be able to show something as dirty from another page of his book, and I do not doubt it in the least.

Moroni, in writing his account, said that his father had written the account of the destruction of his people, but only had written the intent thereof or an abridgment, "And behold, I would write it also, if I had room upon the plates, but I have not; and ore I have none for I am alone." He does not say that he has "no more room" on the plates; does not say that he "had filled them up;" nothing of the kind; simply, that he had no room for that extra matter; that is all. His father had written his account of the battle, and Moroni wanted to write his, but had no room for it, and also to complete the record or to write what he had been commanded to write. On page 222 Hyde says, "Lehi prophecies on page 11, European edition (p. 9, large edition), 'these plates shall go forth to all nations—never grow dim, nor perish.' These plates are not, as the Mormons often try to apply the passage, the plates upon which the Book of Mormon was engraved, but the plates of Laban. The Mormons claim literal interpretations of Scripture. It was the plates that should never grow dim, the plates that should never perish, the plates to go forth to all nations. Where are they?"

I have heard of a man setting up a man of straw and kicking it over and then applauding the performance, and here truly is an instance of it. Now, see how simple a tale will put you down, Mr. Hyde; I know you do not want to "exaggerate," but you have, consciously or unconsciously, done so. Let us read the passage just as it is.

"And now, when my father saw all these things, he was filled with the Spirit, and began to prophecy concerning his seed; that these plates of brass should go forth unto all nations, kindreds, tongues and people, who were of his seed." (Italics are mine).

Now, you see that by omitting five words you have "exaggerated" what was meant for only a small portion of the human family, in to "all nations." It is a wonder that your "love" had not made your vision more acute; but then they say love is blind.

On page 223 he represents Nephi as building a ship all by himself and in a short time. But unfortunately we read in the book, that

"And it came to pass that they [Nephi's brothers] did worship the Lord, and did go forth with me; and we did work timbers of curious workmanship."—European Ed., p. 41 (large Ed., p. 35).

So he was not alone. On same page Hyde says, "One thing is painfully noticeable, Smith is very cautious not to give the slightest clew as to where they sailed from, how long they were in reaching that point, in which direction it lay from Jerusalem."

But again we find the book very explicit in these matters, for it says they traveled "nearly a south south-east direction," (p. 84 E. Ed., p. 29, L. Ed.), and that they "sojourned for the space of many years, yea, even eight years in the wilderness."—E. Ed., p. 36, L. Ed., p. 31.

On page 228 Hyde calls attention to what he calls contradictions, and says, "On page 3 (3, L. E.) it says 'Lehi left Jerusalem because 'God directed him in a dream,' but on page 411 [p. 354, L. D.] we are gravely told Lehi was 'driven out by the people.'" Another misquotation. Here it is as the account gives it, p. 3:

"For behold it came to pass that the Lord spake unto my father, yea even in a dream, and said unto him, Blessed art thou Lehi, because of the things which thou hast done; and because thou hast been faithful and declared unto this people things which I commanded thee, behold they seek to take away thy life. And it came to pass that the Lord commanded my father even in a dream, that he should take his family and depart into the wilderness." On page 411 it reads, "Our father Lehi was driven out of Jerusalem, because he testified to these things."

It does not, in either case, say he was driven out by the people, but it infers in both places that the people were the primary cause of Lehi leaving Jerusalem; just as Herod was the cause of Christ being taken into Egypt. Herod really drove Christ's parents into Egypt, and yet God warned them to flee into Egypt in a similar manner in which Lehi was told to go into the wilderness; but to impute a contradiction would be far fetched indeed.

On page 229 Hyde says: "On page 517 [446, L. E.] we are assured that 'the Lord led Jared and his brother out to America,' but on page 406 [349, 350, L. E.] the reader is divinely instructed that it was 'the devil.'"

The words I have placed in italics, Hyde encloses in quotation marks, as though quoting the words of Moroni. But the exact words are as follows:

"And when thou hast done this, thou shalt go at the head of them down into the valley, which is northward. And there will I meet thee, and will go before thee into a land which is choice above all the land of the earth." The contradictory quotation is lengthy, but I will give it so the reader may see how reliable this non-exaggerator is, "Now behold those secret oaths and covenants did not come forth unto Gadianton from the records which were delivered unto Helaman; but, behold, they were put into the heart of Gadianton, by that same being who did entice our firsts parents to partake of the forbidden fruit; yea, that same being who did plot with Cain, that if he would murder his brother Abel, it should not be known unto the world. And he did plot with Cain and his followers from that time forth. And also it is that same being who put it into the hearts of the people to build a tower sufficient high that they might get into heaven. And it was that same being who led on the people who came from the tower into this land; who spread the works of darkness and abomination over all the face of the land, until he dragged the people down to an entire destruction and to an everlasting hell; yea it is that same being who put it into the heart of Gadianton to still carry on the work of darkness and of secret murder; and he has brought it forth from the beginning of man, even down to this time. And behold it is he that is the author of sin."

A child of ordinary intelligence could tell that there is no contradiction here. On same page Hyde says:

"The Nephites built on America a temple like unto Solomon's; and this poor family had come to this land destitute a few years before."

But the book says it was not like Solomon's temple.

"And I, Nephi, did build a temple; and I did construct it after the manner of the temple of Solomon, save it were not built of so many precious things; for they were not to be had upon the land; wherefore it could not be built like unto Solomon's temple. But the manner of the construction was like unto Solomon's temple; and the workmanship thereof was exceeding fine."—Book of Mormon, page 65; (L. Ed., p. 57).

Hyde cannot or does not even quote the Bible correctly. On page 230 he quotes John 16:7 as follows:

"If I go not away, the Comforter cannot come."

But correctly quoted, it reads:

"For if I go not away, the Comforter will not come unto you; but if I depart, I will send him unto you."

He then mixes up the 26th verse of the 14th and the 13th verse of the 16th chapter of John and renders it like this: "He, when he is come, shall bring all things to your remembrance, and show you things to come." Then tries to reason that as Jesus Christ said the Spirit or Comforter could not come until after Christ went away, that because the Book of Mormon claims that they enjoyed the Spirit before Christ, it could not be a true record and says, "If we believe the New Testament is true, we must reject the Book of Mormon as an imposture." "For [says Hyde] in the Scriptures we are informed that the Savior had to die in order that his disciples might obtain the gift of the Holy Ghost." It would be interesting to know where the Scriptures say so.

But his reasoning would do away with the Bible, for we read that the Spirit rested on seventy elders, as also on Moses (Num. 11), and in Deuteronomy 34: 9 Joshua received it, and in 1 Samuel 10: 6 Saul was promised it, and in the 10th verse he is said to have received it.

Another garbled quotation is found on page 231. On page 520 (448 L. Ed.), I read:

"And, behold, O Lord in them there is no light, whither shall we steer? and also we shall perish, for in them we cannot breathe, save it is the air which is in them; therefore we shall perish."

Hyde renders it:

"And Jared cried unto the Lord, we shall all perish, there is no light to steer by, and in them we cannot breathe, for there is no air."

No comment is necessary. I will only give one more. On page 235 Hyde says, "Another strong evidence of forgery may be found on page 513 (442 L. Ed.) 'For do we not read, that God is the same yesterday, today, and forever, and that in him is neither variability nor shadow of changing.' The first part of this sentence is to be found in Paul's epistle to the Hebrews, chapter 13:8—'The same yesterday, today, and forever.' The closing clause was written by James 1:17—'Father of lights, in whom there is no variability nor shadow of turning.' The Nephites do not pretend to have these epistles; how then could they read what they did not have? Smith made a terrible oversight here."

As usual Mr. Hyde does not quote correctly, but there is only a slight variation in language, but it is curious to note that that variation makes the language as given by Mr. Hyde just a little more like that from which he claims it was taken than that of the Book of Mormon. We know Hyde claims to be an honest man, but we think it will do no hurt to watch him; so we give it as it is in the Book so the reader will have it as it is:

"For do we not read that God is the same yesterday, today, and forever; and in him there is no variability neither shadow of changing?"

But Moroni was not quoting from Paul's epistle to the Hebrews nor from James, but from previous books written by former prophets from among his own people; on page 108 (89 L. Ed.) and page 107 (98 L. Ed.), I find the language "the same yesterday, today, and forever" used by Nephi who had written nearly a thousand years before Moroni said, "do we not read," and on pages 228, 229 (197 L. Ed.) I find Alma using the words, "neither doth he vary from that which he hath said; neither hath he a shadow of turning." Smith's oversight was not so terrible after all, but one cannot help but think that Hyde has proven himself a dishonest man, notwithstanding his protestations of honesty and love for the truth.

I might add much more of the same kind, but will forbear, for I might weary the reader; but wish to say this in conclusion that I have read and closely examined many books written against the "Mormons," so-called, some of them by men who have at one time been members of the church; have also held one, and listened to other, discussions, and have failed yet to find one man among our opponents whose method of examining or searching for the truth I would care to follow; and while Mormonism may be a delusion, I am certain of one thing; it condemns me if I lie or misrepresent an opponent in the least.

If then, as I have shown, Mr. Hyde has misrepresented and falsified the records, how can we believe him in anything? And although he gives fourteen different statements, given by fourteen different individuals, and one that he claims was signed by fifty-one different men—although he does not give their names—how can we know that those men made such statements? May it not be that he has changed those statements to suit his convenience just as he changed the words of the Book of Mormon, Doctrine and Covenants and even the Bible, when by so doing he could make a better showing for his side.

I cannot believe that Mr. Hyde did not know how the books read because his quotations show a familiarity with them, that will not admit of such a thought; but that he deliberately falsified the records presuming on the ignorance of the people to carry out the deception is evident on almost every page. But Hyde was only twenty-four years of age when he wrote his book, and his desire to become famous as a writer against Mormonism got the better of his love for the truth. But what shall we say of mature men, men of sound judgment, who will take him as the criterion by which to judge Mormonism.

WILBURTON, I. T., Oct. 6, 1900.

SPIRITUAL GIFTS.

ELDER W. A. GOODWIN.

"Now concerning spiritual gifts, brethren, I would not have you ignorant."—1 Cor. 12: 1.

The above language was used by the Apostle Paul some fifty-nine years after the birth of Christ and was directed to the saints at Corinth, who it seems were gentiles, and at some time prior to the declaration here made by Paul were worshipers of dumb idols, that is, they were made of wood or stone. We will now briefly consider who was this man Paul, who has said he would not have these people ignorant concerning spiritual gifts, and we ask:

Paul, were you one of Christ's true followers from the beginning?

Let him answer, Acts 26: 9, 10:

"I verily thought with myself, that I ought to do many things contrary to the name of Jesus of Nazareth. Which thing I also did in Jerusalem: and many of the saints did I shut up in prison, having received authority from the chief priests; and when they were put to death, I gave my voice against them."

This shows the state of mind that this man Paul was in before he accepted the terms of the gospel; with his conversion nearly all are familiar, it is found in Acts 9. And although it is claimed by millions that they in their inmost soul believe that Paul was converted as is related in the chapter given, yet if a man claims conversion in this age of the world even in the same manner as Paul did, he is called an impostor. Now as we find him converted to the religion that Jesus Christ taught I ask him again, Paul, you have been preaching to the saints at Corinth, where did you get the doctrine you teach. Again let him answer, Galatians 1: 11, 12:

"But I certify you, brethren, that the gospel which was preached of me is not after man. For I neither received it of man, neither was I taught it, but by the revelation of Jesus Christ."

Reader, are you now fully satisfied that Paul preached the true gospel? If you are, do not forget that he said, he would not have them ignorant concerning spiritual gifts. For we shall undertake to reason with you concerning those gifts. In the first place we ask the intelligent world when and where did God first give such blessings to man? We go back to the days of Adam and Eve and we find God talking to them, giving them counsel as to what was for their benefit, yet in the face of all this they erred; they put at naught God's counsel and did that which he told them not to do, for which He chastized them by putting them away from him out of his presence; and while we find little in the Bible concerning their lives for a time thereafter, yet they must have called upon God, and that too, in an acceptable manner, for we find Him once more accepting the offerings brought before Him. And we find Enoch, the seventh from Adam, prophesying (one of those spiritual gifts) concerning the second coming of Christ (Jude 14th verse), and good old Noah who served God in righteousness was blessed with the privilege of conversing with Him, He making a covenant with him and sealing it by putting the bow in the cloud, that never while the earth should stand would man be swept off its face by a flood. Then look at the great blessings given to Abraham, that in him and his seed should all the families of the earth be blessed. What joy must have filled his righteous soul to know that the God of heaven placed such implicit confidence in him.

We will next notice Moses, a man of such sterling worth that God made choice of him to bring his brethren, the Jews, out from Egyptian bondage, whither He suffered them to be driven because of their wickedness. See them on the desert about to perish for want of water when God told Moses to smite the rock and water would issue forth; contrast the faith of Moses with the modern leaders of the people in this, the nineteenth century. Moses went before his people and carefully looked after them; but today the people must dig and delve to keep the minister. And we might mention David and Solomon, men of great wisdom when they were obedient to God; then follows the prophets Isaiah, Jeremiah, Hosea, Daniel and others; all received great spiritual blessings and although they were tortured, whipped, sawn asunder, stoned, reviled and some thrown into fire, yet none of those things had the effect of making them deny that God lived and that those blessings which they received were a free gift from Him.

Dear friends, stop a moment, and ask yourselves the question, "Am I willing to undergo what those ancient worthies underwent, for a true knowledge such as they possessed? or when persecution comes to me, do I, in the strength of Israel's God, withstand it as did those noble defenders of truth," and while you thus reflect let the voice of the reverend divines, of these latter days, come sounding in your ears, listen: "God does not talk in this age as he did in days of yore," "God has done his work," "You cannot know from God as they knew," "You cannot receive of those great blessings as they did for they were only for those in early days." But if this be true, and the Apostle Paul was to write to the Saints of God now, concerning spiritual gifts, he would have to write somewhat like this, "Now, concerning spiritual gifts, brethren, I would have you ignorant," and thus he would directly contradict his statement of former days.

Now, reader, if you have never felt the balmy influences of God's Holy Spirit, if you have never heard the gift of tongues, nor heard a prophet speak in the name of the Lord, neither seen a vision nor had dreams, don't let your heart sink in despair, at those man-made theories such as I have just given; for just as sure as God ever spoke to his people in any age, then will he speak today. But you may ask, Why is it that among all the great churches, with their college and seminary schooled divines, their wealth and splendor, with members counted by the millions, that we hear all these things ridiculed and spoken against as of no use now? I will answer you, and let you look for proof of what I say. They are all man-made churches; they each have their peculiar beliefs, many of their doctrines are the doctrine of men; God never authorized them to teach nor preach, and thus He is not bound to give blessings where He and His doctrines are not honored.

Having briefly examined some of the great blessings given prior to the coming of Christ in the flesh, let us look in His life's work and see if He did not confirm His work by giving to the faithful such blessings as were for their good. And if we find Him still continuing the work as God had given before, is it not then proof that they were to be continued? In Matthew 3 we first find Jesus coming to John to be baptized of him; not that Jesus had personal sins to be remitted, but that by his example the world, in following, might have their sins remitted. Look at the blessing given at His baptism; not alone did God speak, but the heavens were opened, and God proclaimed to as many as heard, that He was well pleased with this act of His Son. Immediately He began teaching the gospel; and in Matthew 4:23 we find Him "preaching the gospel of the kingdom, and healing all manner of sickness and all manner of disease among the people." Now, look, dear ones, if in the preaching of the gospel when Jesus was here, the sick were healed, or if a part of the gospel plan was to cure disease when, where, and by whom, was the gospel plan changed, if at all? Look over the world today, see the sickness, suffering, pain and dread diseases over which man has no control, then tell me there is no need of the power of God now. How much easier it seems to me, would it be for us to go to God in humble sincerity, repenting of our wrongs, be baptized by one whom He has sent; have the hands of His servants laid upon our heads, and thus have that greatest of gifts of God to mortal man, bestowed upon us, even the gift of the Holy Ghost; from that time on live lives of purity, doing good instead of evil, then when our loved ones, or ourselves, are stricken with disease, let us be true to our trust, sending for the elders, as the Apostle James says, have God in His infinite love and mercy, restore such an one to perfect soundness. "But," says one, "I never saw any such done." No, my friend, neither did you ever receive reward until you had earned it; when you obey God, he will be true; don't ask him to stoop to our level, but let us come up to His.

We might follow Jesus all through his ministry, and find him bestowing those great blessings upon the needy; restoring the withered limbs, healing the lepers, giving sight to the blind, casting out evil spirits; in fact, not only in word, but in deed, dropping a blessing wherever faith could claim it. But, friends, if now we go on from year to year, serving God as we call it, and we never have one of those great blessings bestowed upon us or our loved ones, where is the proof that ever man received them? Do you not see that the proof is wanting? And thus Paul says, "Concerning spiritual gifts, I would not have you ignorant," for had they been ignorant of the bestowal of such, then it would have only been a question of time, until they would have become as the world is today, believing they were not for them.

Paul says there are diversities of gifts, but the same spirit; how wondrously did God provide for the human family, providing they would obey him; but here again the objector comes forward and says they were not for all the human family, but only to the apostles; but I ask them, "Are you the church of Christ, here on earth?" "Oh! yes," they say, "to be sure we are; and that is not all either; any who claim to be Christ's, who do not believe as we do, are impostors," say they. Then if you are the church, let us see what it was. Paul says God set in the church; 1 Cor. 12:28:

"And God hath set some in the church, first apostles, secondarily prophets, thirdly teachers, after that miracles, then gifts of healings, helps, governments, diversities of tongues."

Remember, now, God set these in the true church, so I ask my emphatic friend, "Have you apostles in your church?" "Oh! no, they are not needed now." "Well, have you prophets in your church?" "Oh! no, there are no prophets now, only false ones like Joe Smith." "Well, was Joe Smith, as you call him, a false prophet?" "Why, of course he was." "Well, how do you prove he was?" "Well, eh hum, well, everybody says he was." "Oh! no they don't; do you know that there thousands of bright minds, in the United States alone, who believe him to have been a true prophet?" "Well, they are all fools or else they would know better." Yes, Well, if this is the evidence you bring to prove him a false prophet, then you would condemn the prophets of old in the same manner, for just such evidence was brought against them.

But let us examine this church a little farther. Paul says, after the prophets were teachers; have you teachers in your church? "Oh, yes." Then miracles, do you perform miracles? "No, we don't." Then gifts of healings, do you have the gifts of healings in your church? "No sir, we don't aspire to such high things." Then helps, governments, diversities of tongues; do you have the gift of tongues in your church? "No sir, no one but the Mormons or Latter Day Saints, as they call themselves, claim any such high things as that." Well now, let us look at it; you claim to be the true church, and out of all the spiritual gifts spoken of in this chapter, you only lay claim to having teachers, so your church compares with the New Testament's church, about like the boy's horse, when he gathered up a little hair in the stable, and then told his mother he had a horse.

But if these things were not to continue in the church in all ages, why did Paul write as he did to the Saints at Ephesus (Ephesians 4:8), that when Jesus ascended upon high, he gave gifts unto men, while you say that he took them away; which shall we believe? And among those gifts were apostles, prophets, evangelists, pastors, and teachers; here again you are confronted with the evidence that out of five officers named you have only the least and last—teachers, and yet I suppose you will claim to be the true church. In the thirteenth verse Paul says these were to continue until we all come in the unity of the faith, and of the knowledge of the Son of God unto a "perfect man." Have you arrived at perfection, brother? if not, then those spiritual gifts are needed, for it was only through their operation that we could become perfect.

In conclusion I will say that either in the true church, much less out of it, where those gifts are not bestowed you may rest assured that there is something wrong; for God is true, let man be what he may; so let us, without bias or prejudice, examine all things, then when we find truth hold fast to it, for:

Truth is truth, wherever found,
On Christian or on heathen ground.
LONDON, OREGON.

WE are receiving orders for Bro. A. Haws' little book, "Sabatarian Theories a Delusion," a review of the arguments of the Seventh Day advocates. It is a useful little work, and we have heard only words of commendation for it. We can fill all orders, 15 cents each.

JOTS BY THE WAYSIDE.

BY T. W. CHATBURN.

The discussion is over, we still live and the church is moving on. Three were baptized, Saints encouraged and a better understanding of our work among the unbelievers, obtained.

Bro. Hyder, our worthy opponent, when driven to the wall, repudiated Campbell and his Christian system, and finally claimed he belonged to the Church of Christ, set up nineteen hundred years ago; of course to bridge over the 1900 years—to Rev. Hyder—and without any revelation since John, was a rocky road indeed.

Bro. Hyder is assuming to Braden's shoes; he is a very important man in his own estimation. Said he had "been laying for our elders for three years; had challenged Brn. Keck, Duncan, Simmons and others, but they were all afraid of his question for discussion, and it remained for a Missouri tenderfoot to take the bait and he was so glad of this opportunity; he was going to do what no other man had ever done, take out the very mudsills and let the "delusion" drop into the hole and bury it forever. I, Edward Hyder, am the man that can do it," etc., etc.

"He had lived at Stewartsville among the Saints for seven years, knew the weak points and would expose them—had witnessed the death of Annie Jones, almost under the hands of elders, and they were to blame for her demise—he had been offered a high position in the church and his family well cared for, if he would only condescend to preach for the Saints; had been called by an apostle that I would not object to," etc., etc.

The above are the main points aside from the proofs given of his church being in harmony with the Christ Church, also the negative arguments when we were affirming.

It is not necessary to state how we met this modern giant of the peat lands of California; we are fully satisfied with results, and so are all the brethren. Another tilt is brewing with him on the Book of Mormon; he is not yet satisfied, seemingly. I am perfectly satisfied and I am resting so nicely this pleasant, cool evening within hearing and seeing distance of the ever restless ocean, on the wonderful peat lands of California.

From where I sit I look off towards the north and east, and see the ever undulating stretches of green meadows, dotted with the darker green of the green trees, and away in the far distance, some seventy miles or more, the "everlasting hills," majestically grand in the soft, purple beauty of their vast, rolling outline; on the west the sun is fast sinking into his watery grave, amid the rolling sea of the mighty Pacific; his last gleams of light are playing gleefully upon the walls of the distant sombre hills, and all nature is quietly sinking into sweet repose; the beautiful twilight is gently falling, the soft, tender sky colors are fading and blending into the dark of night, the air is scented with blossoms and new mown hay, all nature is indeed going quietly to sleep. Man should and of right ought to be happy, yet we can conceive of conditions that this serenely beautiful place would seem to be a mockery to those who are fasting the bitterness of life, whose misfortunes and environments shut out the sweetness of love and affection for God, his gospel and promise, without which life's worth is gone, and existence a farce even amid such beauties of nature, and the unbeliever must ultimately pay tribute to the future, inevitably so, whose demands gleam like tears of regretful fire, and yet they turn away and are lulled to sleep upon those peaceful tunes:

Come unto me all ye that are weary and heavy laden,
And I will give you rest.

Many thanks for the picture sent by true hearts of the Far West reunion; we can feast upon the faces of those we love; with you our heart has warmed with the Spirit of God, and it was a pleasure indeed to serve the Master; we testify "He" was in the planting and will not forsake you in the gathering—never cease the conflict—never furl the flag—and when the roll is called (sometime), Bro. Terry, we'll be there.

Darkness has settled around me, the whip-poor-will is singing his doleful song, the sad waves of the sea roar more distinctly their woeful story, "so we hang our harp on the willow and think upon thee."

Daughters of Zion.

Editor Ensign.—I want to congratulate the Daughters of Zion and the church because it has made another forward movement in opening the columns of ZION'S ENSIGN to Zion's mothers. What could be more appropriate? Why, your name, ZION'S ENSIGN, would be a misnomer without Zion's mothers to help lift it up and keep it up as Zion's banner. To my mind this is a nail driven in a sure place; a stepping right to the front where we should have been long ago, and where all real reforms and governments must commence. We may build great churches, establish colleges, preach the gospel, boom reunions, Sunday Schools, Religions, literary societies, and all other reformatory measures, as helps and nurseries to the church. These things should all be well and carefully done, for they are of great benefit to the body; but after we have said and done all that we possibly can along these lines, they are only secondhand nurseries, helps and governments, because they do not nor cannot rock the wonderful cradle that lays the foundation and so largely forms the characters that rule homes, societies, churches, states, nations and the world. Mothers alone can do this, either wisely, or fashionably and unwisely. If the latter, then the Sunday Schools, the Religions and the church can commence to counteract and to unlearn that which has been rocked, stamped, and instilled into the young and plastic mind in the cradle.

Then I repeat what I wrote several years ago, i. e., that the parents and homes must be reached, and there purify the fountain head through which the lives and characters of the whole world must pass; for just so long as children are unlawfully born into the world, through improper motives, and unlawfully cradled in the homes of fashion, contrary to physical laws, just so long the church, with all of its powers, helps, and nurseries, must and are playing second fiddle. This is unwise; therefore, let us boom the mother's efforts to purify the fountain head, then the streams of life will run clear and pure into the great ocean of life, the kingdom of our God and this Christ. So, dear sisters, organize and reach every mother and every coming mother as soon as possible, and educate them in their power for good or for evil, and in what God designed them to be. More anon, if health will permit.

Your brother in Christ,
A. Haws.
SAN FRANCISCO, Cal., Oct. 13.

A Flesh Builder.

The following clipping sent us by an observant sister, explains itself:

Dear Brother:—Inclosed you will find this little piece that I can heartily indorse because I have tried cream as a flesh builder; it is far ahead of many things that are being used, and there is hardly any person that cannot retain it on the stomach. I see every little while some of the Saints who are sick with consumption, and as I have lost friends with that complaint, feel for others and would gladly put anything in their way that would do them any good, especially anything in the line of food. I believe in Ralstonism. With best wishes I am in the gospel,
Your sister,
M. C. P.

"STRIPPINGS" AS A FLESH-BUILDER.
D. J. KENDALL, M. D.

The last part of the milking, or the "strippings" taken immediately after milking, before it has parted with any of the animal heat, is the most valuable thing known to build up a person who is thin and emaciated from any disease.

My theory for years has been that the "strippings" contains nearly all cream, which I have demonstrated to be a fact. I also believe that when taken immediately after milking, while it contained all the animal heat and before any change had taken place it would be absorbed at once into the circulation without going through the ordinary process of digestion. This I have also found to be true.

I direct my patients to begin with one-half pint and gradually increase the quantity until at the end of a week they are taking a quart at a time, or as much as they can possibly take without too much discomfort. This should be followed up regularly twice a day.

I have known many people who could not drink cold milk or even milk which had stood for an hour or two, and yet these persons could drink a quart immediately after milking without the slightest derangement of the digestive organs.

In consumption the patient steadily loses in weight, and although the old methods are used faithfully to try and build up the strength, yet the patient steadily loses in weight. It is no uncommon thing for my patients who followed my instructions to gain five pounds in weight each week. No other plan I have heard of has proved so successful.

It should be remembered that it is very important to select a cow that is healthy and one that gives very rich milk. Then it is also of very great importance that the very last of the milking, or "strippings" should be taken, and of equal importance that this should be taken immediately after milking, while it contains all the animal heat. No other food is so successful.

The consumptive will soon find a change for the better if the above instructions are followed.

I have tested this plan in hundreds of cases in the last few years, and I know there are thousands of cases whose lives might be saved if the above instructions were followed. Of course, in most cases a certain amount of medical treatment is also necessary.

WATCH YOUR BLOOD.

IF IMPURE, TAKE B. B. B.

BOTTLE SENT FREE.

Any ZION'S ENSIGN reader whose blood is becoming thin or impure, or who already suffers from blood or skin humors, such as sores, ulcers, pimples, unsightly eruptions, fluttering heart, scrofula, swollen glands and aching joints, aching back, itching skin, falling hair, bone pains and shifting aches, cancer, eating sores, eczema, boils, scald head, rheumatism, catarrh, can be permanently cured by using B. B. B. (Botanic Blood Balm), thoroughly tested for 30 years.

People who need more blood or who want rich, pure blood, people whose skin is pale or who suffer from any form of impure blood, should at once send their name and address to Blood Balm Co, 86 Mitchell St., Atlanta, Ga., enclosing five cents (stamps or coin), to cover exact cost of postage (the medicine is absolutely free), and they will forward, prepaid by mail, a sufficient free trial bottle of B. B. B. to fully prove its remarkable action in healing every evidence of impure blood. The Medical Investigator says that B. B. B. is the most wonderful blood purifier made, as it cures after all else fails; the finest remedy made for spring humors. ZION'S ENSIGN readers who suffer are advised to try B. B. B. Large bottles for sale by druggists, $1 per bottle, or 6 large bottles (full treatment), $5. Complete directions for home treatment go with each large bottle. If you don't want to buy a large bottle of the druggist before knowing more about B. B. B., then write for a free trial bottle. It will convince the most skeptical. B. B. B. is perfectly safe to use by old and young. B. B. B., while healing humors in the blood, improves the appetite, stimulates the liver and makes the weak strong by giving new, red blood. So write today, enclosing five cents to cover exact cost of postage, addressing Blood Balm Co., 86 Mitchell St., Atlanta, Ga., and the medicine will be sent day after day is received. Describe trouble and free medical advice given.

SAINTS who contemplate making Independence their home, or those already here, who desire to secure a lot in eligible, well situated property, would do well to see the Wilson Lawn addition, owned by Bro. Ellis Short and situated near Pacific Bridge, Independence.

BEFORE YOU VOTE, read up on the Money Question on all sides. To aid you, we offer the "Library of Live Questions," ten books, 152 pages. Publisher's price $1.85; ours $1.00 only. Written by Republicans, Democrats, Populists and Socialists. You need them. Address the Headquarters, Western Supply House, Nebraska City, Neb.

NOTICE

To all who expect to buy or move to Independence with a view of residing here permanently—I am prepared to furnish you with all the information needed in regard to real estate, if you will enclose stamp for reply. Now is a very good time to buy; values are at a very low ebb, and the Saints may as well take advantage of it.
Your brother,
W. S. LOAR.

Learn Shorthand.

A Knowledge of Shorthand and Typewriting Will Enable You to Be Self-sustaining.

The Missouri Shorthand College of St. Louis, Mo., is one of the Leading Shorthand Institutions in the United States.

Persons intending the acquirement of shorthand and typewriting should select a responsible school, otherwise their time and money are wasted.

As success in shorthand is largely dependent on the teacher as well as pupil, it is absolutely necessary that instructors should be practical shorthand writers and no others are competent to teach. Benn Pitman system taught.

The Principal of "The Missouri Shorthand College" is John H. Schofield, the well known journalist and shorthand writer, and member of the National Shorthand Writers' Association. In order to show that he is a practical and recognized exponent of shorthand, reference letters are herewith published from leading educators:

Prof. E. Benjamin Andrews, now Chancellor of Nebraska University, and recently Superintendent of Chicago Schools, comments on his character and ability as follows:
Board of Education, Office of Superintendent of Schools, Schiller Building, Chicago, Feb. 21, 1896.
Mr. John H. Schofield is well and favorably known to me as the successful director of a large shorthand college in Providence, R. I. I consider him not only one of the most expert practical shorthand writers whom I have ever known, but also an upright, honorable and perfectly trustworthy gentleman.
E. BENJAMIN ANDREWS, Superintendent of Schools.

Commenting on Mr. Schofield's ability and character, President E. G. Robinson of Brown University, Providence, R. I., contributes the following:

Brown University, Providence, R. I.
"I have known Mr. John H. Schofield for years as a stenographic reporter for the Providence Journal. His work has given special satisfaction to all parties concerned. His character as a Christian gentleman has also commanded respect, and I take pleasure in commending him to the confidence and good-will of all with whom he may meet or with whom he may have business relations."
E. G. ROBINSON, President Brown University.

Brother Fabrician, of La Salle College, Philadelphia, Pa., adds the following testimonial:

La Salle College, Philadelphia, Pa.
Mr. John H. Schofield: My Dear Sir—It gives me much pleasure to say a timely word to bear witness to your character as a man, and your ability as a journalist and shorthand writer. I hope and pray that your efforts, in whatever channel you may choose to direct them, will be rewarded with the measure of success which your talents, your energy and your accomplishments must justify. Yet, however, I will well and favorably known to need this note or recognition from your very sincere and devoted friend,
BRO. FABRICIAN.

Those so situated that they cannot attend school sessions, taught by mail, as Principal John H. Schofield has had gratifying success by this method of teaching. Mail students who will devote two hours daily to practice, cannot fail to obtain a good general knowledge of shorthand in twenty weeks. This is a short time to acquire a profession that will enable persons to be self supporting. Those who attend school generally graduated in about sixteen weeks, but this depends largely on the ability and general knowledge of the pupil.

As a knowledge of shorthand is of no practical utility unless able to spell and compose correctly, students deficient in those lines are taught without extra charge. Shorthand and typewriting furnishes lucrative, as well as pleasant employment for both sexes, but more especially for young ladies, as there are always positions for those who are capable and competent.

Positions Secured

for Graduates. Instruction in Bookkeeping and full Commercial Course if Desired. Room and Board furnished pupils from abroad at moderate rates.

THE MISSOURI SHORTHAND COLLEGE,
No. 918 Pine St.,
ST. LOUIS, MISSOURI.

STATE SAVINGS BANK OF LAMONI,

Incorporated under the laws of the State of Iowa, July 1, 1898.
Offers depositors a safe bank for their savings, and solicits the correspondence and deposits of all Bank Draft, or Express or Post Office order, or Registered Letter, or your private check on any bank in the United States or Canada, and direct your letter to W. A. Hopkins, Cashier of the State Savings Bank of Lamoni, Iowa. Upon receipt of same a certificate of deposit will be issued and interest returned. This bank has a business of keeping surplus funds invested in safe and available securities and has already received deposits from sixteen different states. All letters containing inquiries or business will be promptly answered.
List of Stockholders:—Wm. Anderson, Geo. H. Hilliard, Mrs. David Dancer, Miss Alice Dancer, Mrs. Ella D. Whitehead, Mrs. Lucy L. Rossegate, A. K. Anderson, W. A. Hopkins, Oscar Anderson, Frank Criley and Geo. W. Hillar.

DR. JOS. MATHER,
PHYSICIAN.

Office, Liberty St., One Door South of the Christian-Sawyer Bank.
Phone 190-3. Independence, Mo.
RESIDENCE, 301 S. SPRING ST.
CALLS ANSWERED NIGHT OR DAY.

$495.

Will buy 1/2 acres with four room cottage, barn, well, etc., in west Lamoni. Only a small payment required to secure this home, and it is a bargain for some one. Apply to Lock Box 7, Lamoni, Iowa.

Broken Brick-a-Braes.

Mr. Major, the famous cement man, of New York, explains some very interesting facts about Major's Cement.
"The multitudes who use this standard article know that it is many heads of patent better than other cements for which similar claims are made, but a great many do not know why. The simple reason is that Mr. Major uses the best materials ever discovered and other manufacturers do not use them, because they are too expensive and do not allow large profits. Mr. Major tells us that one of the elements of his cement costs $3.75 a pound, and another costs $2.85 a gallon, while a large share of the so-called cements and liquid glue upon the market are nothing more than sixteen-cent glue, dissolved in water or citric acid, and in some cases, altered slightly in color and odor by the addition of cheap and useless materials."
Major's Cement retails at fifteen cents and twenty-five cents a bottle, and when a dealer tries to sell a substitute you can depend upon it that his only object is to make larger profit.
The profit on Major's Cement is as much as any dealer ought to make on any cement. And this is doubly true in view of the fact that the dealer gets his share of the benefit of Mr. Major's advertising, which now amounts to over $6,000 a month throughout the country. Established in 1873, Major's cement has never failed. Don't accept any off-hand advice from a druggist.
If you are at all handy (and you will be so if you are) you can repair your rubber boots and family shoes, and any other rubber and leather articles, with Major's Rubber Cement and Major's Leather Cement.
And you will be surprised at how many dollars a year you will thus save.
If your druggist cannot supply you, it will be forwarded by mail, either kind. Free of postage.

SUBSCRIBE FOR THE
College City Chronicle
The Leading Local Paper of LAMONI, IOWA.
Published Weekly by the Chronicle Publishing Co.
TRAINS WEST.
No. 95—Wichita Branch P. M. 12:49
" 9-Kansas & Nebraska Line 4:34
" 93—Texas, Joplin & K. C. Ex. 8:15
" 3—St. Louis Express..... 6:33
" 72—Lexington Branch Pass. 8:35
" 7—Fast Mail.....10:00
" 91—Joplin and K. C. Mail. 6:11
" 1—St. Louis Mail and Ex. 5:17
" 5—St. Louis Mail..... 5:55
" 71—Lexington Branch Pass. 6:45
TRAINS EAST.
No. 98—K. C. & Wichita Mail..... 2:52
" 73—Lexington Branch Pass. 6:53
" 6—St. Louis Mail..... 7:32
" 92—K. C. Texas & Joplin Mail 8:37
" 2—St. Louis Through Mail & Pass.....10:17
p.m.
" 78—Lex. Branch Passenger..... 6:10
" 4—St. Louis Through Mail & Pass..... 1:37
" 94—K. C. Tex. & Joplin Ex. 7:40
" 8—St. Louis Through Mail & Pass..... 9:30
" 10—Kan. & Neb. Limited..... 11:12
Nos. 7, 9 and 10 do not stop.
LIBERTY STREET DEPOT.
TRAINS WEST.
No. 73—Lex. Branch Pass. 8:30 a.m.
" 71— " " " 6:40 p.m.
TRAINS EAST.
No. 72—Lex. Branch Pass. 6:56 a.m.
" 78— " " " 8:15 p.m.
Tel. 17. F. A. MILLARD, Agent.

Two Boxes of Quit-to-bac Cured Him.
"KIEL, Okla., March 29, 1900
"Bro. Ordway:—I have been enabled to quit tobacco after the use of two boxes of your antidote (Quit-to-bac). I have used tobacco for thirty years and both chewed and smoked plug tobacco.
"L. S. STALEY."

Three boxes of Quit-to-bac sent postpaid wherever in the United States or Canada for only $1.60, with positive guarantee of cure or money cheerfully refunded. U. S. postage stamps taken. You run no risk, why not be free from this God-condemned habit? Address, (Bro.) B. F. ORDWAY,
Peoria, Ill.

OLDEST. LARGEST. BEST.
35TH YEAR

SPALDING'S
COMMERCIAL COLLEGE.
(INCORPORATED)
East Wing, N. Y. Life Bldg., Kansas City, Mo.

Bookkeeping, Shorthand, Typewriting, Telegraphy, English Branches, Twenty Rooms. Sixteen Teachers and Lecturers. No Vacations. Practical Courses. Thorough Instruction. Rates Moderate. Free Catalogue.

FREE EMPLOYMENT BUREAU
Tel. 1174. J. F. Spalding, A. M., Pres.

CANCER CURED
WITH SOOTHING, BALMY OILS.
Cancer, Tumor, Catarrh, Piles, Fistula, Ulcers, Eczema and Skin and Womb Diseases. Dr. W. A. Hopkins, Cashier of the State Savings Bank of Lamoni, Iowa. Write for Illustrated Book, Sent Free. Address, Dr. B. A. Sutherland, Care of Post Office, Box 2, No. 918, Liberty Street, Mo.
DR. BYE,

THEY ADMIT IT.
Bro. Hurl, Chaucey, Ohio, says we saved him $12.00 on a $13.00 suit.
Bro. Farrell, West Sullivan, Maine, writes that we saved him $5.00 on a $7.00 suit.
Youth's heavy three-piece suit, age 12 to 19, $3.50.
Goods are all sent prepaid.
MEN'S SACK SUITS.
Black, all wool worsted Men's Suits, four button, round or square cut. 14 ounce $7.00; 18 ounce $7.25; 18 ounce $8.25; 20 ounce $8.50. Fine line, strictly 14 oz. Oxford steel gray, heavy; worth $18.00, price $9.00.
PRINCE ALBERT SUITS.
Same goods as above, 14 oz. $8.50; 16 oz. $10.00; 18 oz. $11.00; 20 oz. $11.50.
14 oz. French Twill Sacks, worth $18.00, price $9.00. Prince Alberts, worth $25.00, price $15.00.
MEASUREMENTS.—Give size of bust around chest just under arms with coat off, size of waist, length of leg seam of pant leg, your height and weight.
Make all drafts, express and money orders payable to Seymour, Mo. Send all communications, letters, orders and registered letters to Cumorah, Mo. THE E. T. ATWELL CO.
Cumorah, Mo.

D. F. NICHOLSON, Cashier.
H. C. NICHOLSON, Ass't Cashier.
COMMERCIAL BANK,
LAMONI, IOWA.
Ample responsibility. Five per cent interest paid on time deposits. Correspondence solicited. Farms and town property for sale.

R. R. TIME TABLES.
MISSOURI PACIFIC—MAIN LINE DEPOT.
TRAINS WEST.
No. 95—Wichita Branch P. M. 12:49
" 9-Kansas & Nebraska Line 4:34
" 93—Texas, Joplin & K. C. Ex. 8:15
" 3—St. Louis Express..... 6:33
" 72—Lexington Branch Pass. 8:35
" 7—Fast Mail.....10:00
" 91—Joplin and K. C. Mail. 6:11
" 1—St. Louis Mail and Ex. 5:17
" 5—St. Louis Mail..... 5:55
" 71—Lexington Branch Pass. 6:45
TRAINS EAST.
No. 98—K. C. & Wichita Mail..... 2:52
" 73—Lexington Branch Pass. 6:53
" 6—St. Louis Mail..... 7:32
" 92—K. C. Texas & Joplin Mail 8:37
" 2—St. Louis Through Mail & Pass.....10:17
p.m.
" 78—Lex. Branch Passenger..... 6:10
" 4—St. Louis Through Mail & Pass..... 1:37
" 94—K. C. Tex. & Joplin Ex. 7:40
" 8—St. Louis Through Mail & Pass..... 9:30
" 10—Kan. & Neb. Limited..... 11:12
Nos. 7, 9 and 10 do not stop.
LIBERTY STREET DEPOT.
TRAINS WEST.
No. 73—Lex. Branch Pass. 8:30 a.m.
" 71— " " " 6:40 p.m.
TRAINS EAST.
No. 72—Lex. Branch Pass. 6:56 a.m.
" 78— " " " 8:15 p.m.
Tel. 17. F. A. MILLARD, Agent.

CHICAGO & ALTON.
EAST BOUND. a.m.
" 101—Local Way Freight..... 7:40
" 47—St. Louis & Chicago Mail 8:27
p.m.
No. 51—Chicago Limited..... 6:38
" 49—St. Louis Flyer..... 6:38
p.m.
" 50—St. Louis Limited..... 8:54
" 52—Chicago Limited..... 8:08
p.m.
" 102—Local Way Freight..... 2:20
" 48—Chicago & St. Louis Mail 5:60
All trains make regular stops. Through tickets to all points in the United States and Canada. For further information regarding rates, etc., call on
J. W. DUGAN, Agent
J. CHARLTON, G. P. & T. Agt., Chicago.

Daughters of Zion.

"OUR AIM, MANKIND TO BLESS."

MRS. H. B. CURTIS, Editor.

The Daughters of Zion is an organization in the church, of mothers and others who are interested in the welfare of our homes. Under the supervision of the general society, local societies are established, where they may meet to consider together their work as home keepers, and as mothers of character. Their purpose is to increase love for the home, to promote social purity, to study the problem of child care and development; that thus they may better prepare themselves for their responsibility as wives and mothers, and that from the home may go the influence that shall fulfill their aim, which is "mankind to bless." Have you a local in your branch? If not, can you not organize one? Send to the corresponding secretary for constitutions. The Advisory Committee will be pleased to hear from you, and will gladly furnish you any assistance in their power. Send your list of names of members to the recording secretary.

ADVISORY COMMITTEE.

- Mrs. Mary E. Hulmes, President, Independence, Missouri.
 - Mrs. H. H. Robinson, Corresponding Secretary, Independence, Missouri.
 - Mrs. C. C. Smith, Independence, Missouri.
 - Mrs. Lucina Etzenbouser, Kansas City, Missouri.
 - Mrs. Clara Erick, Independence, Missouri.
 - Mrs. Callie B. Stebbins, Recording Secretary, Lamoni, Iowa.
 - Mrs. Anna Murphy, Treasurer, Independence, Missouri.
- Editor's address, 2216 Laclede Avenue, St. Louis, Missouri.

The Elder Sister's Part.

"Good advice and counsel sage,
"And, 'I never did so when I was your age,"

So have I heard the attitude of an older sister to a younger one half humorously described. The "good advice and counsel sage" are well enough, but does not the second line imply something which we would be better without? I mean the complaining spirit which we girls are prone to assume toward our "little sister." How often we treat her with a supercilious air, as becoming our superior age and wisdom, or perhaps condescend at times to quarrel with her.

A great deal has been said about the mother's duty in her home; but a young girl has a distinct duty as daughter and sister, and may easily assume a large share of the responsibility. As daughter and sister, I say, and the one comprises the other; for how can she show herself a better daughter to her mother, than by helping her cast a good influence round the other members of the family? If, then, this girl has a smaller sister, she can be even more helpful and sympathetic with her in some ways than her mother can, for she has more recently trod the path, has more recently been a child herself.

But perhaps there is no little girl in your household, and so you say that nature has not assigned to you the elder sister's part, and hence this does not apply to you. We want to be broader in our view than this. What of the little maidens who have been denied the advantage of an older sister? Cannot our girl form a strong friendship with some of them, which shall give mutual benefit? I think she can, for their little hearts are very easily impressed.

Have you ever read "The Wide, Wide World?" The heroine is a little girl named Ellen Montgomery, a child of intense, passionate feeling, but thoroughly lovable. At first her heart is entirely bound up in her mother, and with such a nature this means a great deal. But this

CONSISTENCY.

If consistency were cultivated and accepted as one of the brightest jewels and a stricter adherence to the same observed, a greater harmony and other benefits would be derived therefrom, not otherwise attainable. For this reason the injunction of St. Paul to Timothy, "Be instant in season who are out of season" [or be consistent, steady minded at all times] (2 Tim. 4: 2, etc.), is pertinent, for they would not endure sound doctrine. Consistency should be the regulator of our judgment and actions, the principle and means to attain a higher standard of perfection, but which were, and are, lost through inconsistency. Those characters enumerated by St. Paul (2 Tim. 3: 1-6) were the losers by having only a form of godliness, but denying the power thereof.

Eloquence and liberality without charity are of no avail (1 Cor. 13).

For those with velvet lips and tongue will not compose the heavenly throng. But with true charity alone They will surround His glorious throne.

St. James (1: 27, etc.) points out the nature of true religion and necessity of consistency. Those who transgress and abide not in the doctrine of Christ have not God (St. John 2: 9) is applicable to the Utah body especially, who, in substituting polygamy as the only means of exaltation instead of the plan of salvation, and Adam as their God and the Father of Jesus Christ, and other abominable heresies, have lost all claim on God, the latter day work "Mormonism" being an independent institution or system; and consistency demands the stopping of classing them with the "latter day work," any more than classing the devil and his adherents with the host of heaven.

The Savior prayed for those that God had given him (John 17) and so through the Holy Scripture the fact is prominently placed before us that only those are accepted of God who receive and live up to His glorious gospel to the best of their ability.

Disobedience (inconsistency) was the cause of all the ills and woes with which mankind were afflicted; Adam fell, the Antediluvians were destroyed by the flood; the Jews were scattered among all nations, while judgments were, are, and will be poured out upon all nations, for rejecting the gospel of Jesus Christ, who, by the brightness of His coming, will consume the wicked and rebellious.

Saul, king of Israel, tried to bribe God by a sacrifice, but was rebuked by Samuel the prophet and told "that obedience is better than sacrifice," and Saul lost his kingdom (1 Samuel 15: 22). Therefore strict obedience to the laws and will of God is the only safe plan to escape dire punishment and destruction in this life and the future one.

Who are the foolish virgins? Those who, in the garb of a Saint, serve the devil, and who are ashamed of the name God chose for the book that contains the fulness of the gospel of Jesus Christ, and other matters of the highest importance to mankind (Isa. 29; Ezek. 37; Isa. 60; Rev. 14: 6), a denial of which is a denial of Christ Himself, but they will share the same fate. He will deny them before his Father.

At that grand reunion of all the Saints in Zion, those of the latter days will be hailed as the champions and victors of the greatest conflict between the power of light and those of darkness upon this mundane sphere, and the fulness of the everlasting gospel of Jesus Christ will be accepted by the ancient saints, when the kingdom and dominion and the greatness thereof, will be given to the Saints of the Most High, etc. (Daniel), while the Lord Jesus Christ rules supreme.

CARL W. LANGE.

VIOLA, Wis., Sept. 29.

Resolutions of Condolence.

The following resolutions were voted by the St. Louis Religio District Convention, September 28, 1900:

WHEREAS, It has pleased our heavenly Father in his infinite wisdom and mercy, to remove from our midst our beloved brother and co-worker, John C. Hitchcock, be it

Resolved, That we, the St. Louis Religio District in convention assembled, do hereby tender our sincere and heartfelt sympathy to the bereaved family and relatives, in this their hour of severe trial. And be it further

Resolved, That a copy of the same be sent to the family of the deceased brother. And be it further

Resolved, That a copy be sent to the church papers for publication. And be it further

Resolved, That a copy of these resolutions be spread upon the minutes of the meeting.

Respectfully submitted,
FLORENCE BURGESS,
JNO. J. BILLINSKY, } Com.
CHAS. J. KEMINGTON.

Resolutions adopted by the St. Louis district conference, September 30, 1900:

WHEREAS, It has pleased our heavenly Father to take from us at this time of need our beloved brother and president, Elder John C. Hitchcock, and

WHEREAS, The departed one has always shown himself an untiring worker, ever ready to comfort those in sorrow, to strengthen the weak and encourage all, being slow at all times to consider his own convenience when duty called, be it

Resolved, That in the demise of our beloved brother the St. Louis district has sustained a loss as severe as it was unexpected, and be it further

Resolved, That the St. Louis district in conference assembled extend to his bereaved family and many mourning friends their deepest sympathy, and further

Resolved, That while the loss to us is so serious that our poor human judgment would at first question, yet through all we feel our Father knows best and we believe our brother has but gone to perform labor blessed with greater fruitage in another sphere of usefulness. And be it

Resolved, that a copy of these resolutions be sent to the bereaved family, to the church publications, and to the district secretary to be spread upon the minutes.

JAS. CHRISTENSEN,
J. J. BILLINSKY, } Com.
S. R. BURGESS.

We, the Religians of the Far West District, realizing that in the removal of Bro. J. C. Hitchcock by the hand of death, the society has lost a worthy member and a faithful officer, one who was ever ready and willing to use both time and means for the advancement of the society, and one whose place it will be hard to fill; yet we humbly bow to the divine will, believing that his reward will be commensurate with the labor done; and

A PURE GRAPE CREAM OF TARTAR POWDER

Highest Honors, World's Fair Gold Medal, Midwinter Fair
Avoid Baking Powders containing alum. They are injurious to health we hereby extend our deepest sympathy with the bereaved family, and pray God to grant to them that consolation that He alone can give in this hour of their great trial.

Adopted by the Far West district association, Cameron, Missouri, September 30, 1900.

WALTER SMITH, Pres.
S. H. STAMMONS, Sec., pro tem.

Conference Notices.

The Saints of the Central Illinois district have changed the date of their conference to be held at Taylorville, Illinois, from October 27th and 28th to December 1st and 2d, 1900, in order to get their new church finished to hold their conference in.

R. T. WALTERS,
BEADSTOWN, Ill., Oct. 13.
DIED.

WEEKS.—At Paulson, Wisconsin, October 3, 1900, Bro. Chauncey E. Weeks, aged 49 years, 3 months and 20 days. He was born at Springville, Wisconsin, June 13, 1851; baptized December 13, 1861, by Elder W. S. Pender, confirmed by E. M. Wildermuth and W. S. Pender, and died in the hope of a glorious resurrection. A wife, and four children mostly grown, and a host of friends mourn their loss. Funeral sermon by A. L. Whitaker, a large crowd of friends and neighbors manifesting their esteem and respect for the deceased.

The Whole Truth!

There's nothing so bad for a cough as coughing.

There's nothing so good for a cough as Ayer's Cherry Pectoral.

The 25 cent size is just right for an ordinary, everyday cold. The 50 cent size is better for the cough of bronchitis, croup, grip, and hoarseness. The dollar size is the best for chronic coughs, as in consumption, chronic bronchitis, asthma, etc.

ZION'S ENSIGN.

"OUR CREED: ALL TRUTH."

VOLUME 11.

INDEPENDENCE, MISSOURI, THURSDAY, OCTOBER 25, 1900

NUMBER 43.

ZION'S ENSIGN.

A Literary and Religious Newspaper, published in the interest of social, scientific and religious truth, every Thursday, at Independence, Jackson County, Missouri.

PRICE, $1.00 PER YEAR, IN ADVANCE.

ENSIGN PUBLISHING HOUSE,
Of the Reorganized Church of Jesus Christ of Latter Day Saints.

W. H. GARRETT, EDITOR.
J. W. LUFF, BUSINESS MANAGER.

Make all remittances, and address all communications to ENSIGN PUBLISHING HOUSE, Box B, Independence, Jackson County, Missouri.

New subscriptions can begin at any time. If possible to avoid it, never send silver as it is liable to wear through the envelope and be lost. Always give the name of the post office to which your paper is sent or we can not find your name on our lists.

When desiring your address changed, give both the old and new address. Papers will be discontinued one month from the time subscriptions expire, unless ordered continued.

In making remittances, money orders are preferable for they are absolutely safe. If you can avoid it, do not send coin or stamps. Canadian stamps are an entire loss, and Canadian currency is only worth about cents on the dollar to us, for that is all we can get for it at the banks. Letters should be addressed, and orders and drafts made payable to

ENSIGN PUBLISHING HOUSE,
Independence, Mo.
Box B.

A HOPEFUL SIGN.

We are indebted to the thoughtfulness of Bro. R. R. Dana for a copy of a pamphlet entitled, "The First Presidency of the Church and Kingdom of God; How Chosen," by N. Tanner, Jr., from the press of W. W. Browning & Co., Ogden, Utah. It is an argument against the plan pursued by the Utah Church of permitting the quorum of Twelve to choose the presidents of the church, and especially "exploiting the disqualification of Elder George Q. Cannon for that position. A part of the preface reads:

Upon investigating the laws of God upon the subject and comparing them with the present method of choosing the First Presidency there appears to be an irreconcilable inconsistency, and, considering the disposition of men to maintain a rule whereby getting themselves into line they will be automatically moved up and placed in the office of President rather than take the risk of being chosen and placed there by the body of the Church as God has directed; and considering the further fact that by the establishment of this rule the right of choice by the body is denied, whereas God has said choice shall exist, there seems to be an imminent danger of the disfavor of God and a consequent necessity for a word of warning and protest against existing conditions vitally affecting every soul in the Church.

In the chapter headed "The First Presidency" on page 6 this argument is presented:

If it shall be said that for more than half a century the Twelve have chosen the President, and he in turn has chosen his Counselors, and this is cited as a precedent forever settling the question, the answer is that neither the Twelve nor the President of the Church can make or repeal a law of God, either by establishing a precedent or by special enactment. "I am your lawgiver," says Jesus. If the Twelve and the President possess the authority claimed for them, that authority will be found in the word of God, and if not found in the word of God it does not exist, because no precedent of man can grow into a law of God, no matter of how long standing; much less can it repeal a law which

God has given in plain and explicit language, hence the question is as pertinent today as it ever was, "What is the proper method of choosing the First Presidency of the Church."

Another chapter heading: "How Chosen," is sub-headed, "Neither the Twelve nor the President of the Twelve entitled to choose.—Nor does Seniority of Ordination to the Apostleship entitle one to be President.—All the Faith and all the Prayers of all the Twelve and of all Israel not sufficient to induce God to change His Law and call the President of the Church by Revelation through the President of the Twelve.—He is not Revelator to the Church.—The Saints must Choose First Presidency or incur God's Displeasure."

The headlines of another chapter read: "President Cannon as a Candidate—Unsuitable on Account of His Apostasy from Certain Doctrines of the Gospel, and his Record in Relation to Manipulation of Tithing.—Church Bonded Heavily and Carrying Vast Amounts of Unprofitable Stock of Private Enterprises of which he was Chief Promoter, and the Stocks appear to have become the property of the Church only after they were known to be Unprofitable.—How much Church Funds were invested in Saltair and the Power Dam and in Mines and Railroads.—Did he turn over any of his Unprofitable Stocks, and if so why did he not turn over others that were Paying Fat Dividends."

There is some pretty good philosophy in some of the arguments made, and coming from a Brighamite standpoint is indicative that some of the members of that church are beginning to comprehend the situation. It is a hopeful sign, and we rejoice to see a disposition manifested to disregard the "keys which the written word never contained," referred to by Brigham Young at one time, and to come back to the standard given by the Almighty to preserve His people from just such an experience as the Utah Church has been having. The author seems to have occupied a position of responsibility in the church and possibly may yet continue, as he says on page 80: "I have taught the Elders laboring under my presidency," etc. His arraignment of President George Q. Cannon is quite severe, though it is made more as a statement of facts than as a complaint; yet he did at one time lay charges of apostasy against President Cannon before the stake president, Angus M. Cannon, which were ignored and an appeal was taken to the First Presidency, but with what result is not stated. May God grant that there may be an awakening among that people which shall lead them to a study of the Books in which the law is written; and learning which, there may be manifested a persistent willingness to do the commandments of the Lord and to disregard everything taught which is not in harmony therewith, no matter by whom it may be advanced. In this alone is there freedom and salvation.

EDITORIAL ITEMS.

THE prayers of the Saints are requested in behalf of Sr. Nancy J. Lake of Bellair, Illinois, who is very sorely afflicted and in consequence has become deranged in mind.

ELDER T. W. WILLIAMS has a new address. He may now be found at 1322 Myrtle Avenue, Los Angeles, California. Don't send any more mail for him to 1014 Alpine Street.

L. A. LYON, Prairie City, Missouri, has a "lot" of old ENSIGNS, Heralds, Hopes and Autumn Leaves to donate to any who would like to have them. State how many are wanted, when you write to above address.

SEVERAL weeks ago, a sister in Missouri wrote the editor of the ENSIGN, relative to a home for her daughter in this city. If the sister will again send her address she will receive favorable reply. The former letter has been mislaid.

BRO. J. B. ROUSH has changed his residence, removing from Wray, Colorado, to 8010 California street, Denver, Colorado. Those who wish to communicate with our brother and desire prompt service will not hereafter address him at Wray.

We again request all the sisters who address letters to the ENSIGN, to in each case designate the proper title in which they should be addressed. Besides designating themselves as "Your Sister," if a member of the church, they should add the prefix to their names "Miss" or "Mrs." as the case may be. We are unfortunately not personally acquainted with every member of the church, or even with all our valued corps of correspondents, and a little attention to this matter will assist the office force materially.

PLEASE DON'T write business matters and church information for publication on the same sheet. We, too frequently, receive letters containing remittances and interesting church news all written on the same sheet. We file and preserve all business letters, and when these "amalgamated" letters are received the editor is compelled to copy off the items of interests, before handing the letter to the accounting department; this makes extra work, and inconvenience for both departments. We therefore renew our request to ALWAYS use a separate sheet of paper for business, making remittances, etc., then if you have some items of interest to our readers use another piece of paper for telling it. Otherwise it may not at times be at all necessary to wonder why no note was made of those interesting bits of news you sent.

SUBSCRIBE for the ENSIGN and get it out among your neighbors as a missionary. The isolated Saints especially can do a good work in this way and arouse an interest that will result in saving precious souls if carefully and prayerfully followed up. Give it a trial and note the results. A few dollars from each isolated member in the church, used in this manner, will be treasure laid up on high. Now, Saints, do not pass this carelessly by; we are earnest in this proposition and if the suggestion is followed out in the proper spirit, you will have occasion to thank the Lord for the opportunity given you to aid in spreading His gospel.

BRO. SAMUEL ROWLEY, Liberty Center, Iowa:

We are well pleased with the ENSIGN. When we are through reading them we hand them out to our neighbors, and also send them off wherever we think they can do good.

This is just what nearly every one can and should do with prayerful earnestness. Many an honest heart, seeking the way of life, may thus be brought to obey the gospel, adding a star to the crown of those who have been instrumental in bringing the knowledge of the gospel to them. The sending or handing of these papers to others should be followed by earnest prayer to the heavenly Father, that it may be as seed sown upon good ground, and that the harvest may be a bountiful one, in richness of the fruit of righteousness resultant.

EXTRACTS FROM LETTERS.

ELDER W. P. ROBINSON, Oregon, Wisconsin:

I have just started the work in Blue Mounds, Wisconsin; have good interest, and some near the kingdom. Bro. C. H. Burr has been laboring with me the past week. I expect to return there.

ELDER H. A. STEBBINS, Burlington, Iowa:

I arrived here yesterday [Oct. 18th] from my trip to northern Illinois and southern Wisconsin. Expect to be here over Sunday and then go to Lamont. Visited Lyons, East Delavan, Janesville, Wilder, Oregon and Madison, Wisconsin, and Missoula, Illinois.

ELDER D. C. WHITE, Bedison, Missouri, Oct. 18:

On September 20th I commenced a series of meetings in the Christian church at Ravenwood and continued two weeks with fair interest. Weather was against us, so much rain, but our crowd run from 50 to 200. Some of the business men out to hear. Our conference at Sweet Home church, October 6th and 7th, was good and a fair hearing. J. Vaughn, Davis and myself doing the preaching. Bro. J. A. Davis went from there to Guilford and I to this place. I am holding meeting in the Christian church at Bedison; crowds rather small, but I am feeling well in body and mind, and have the best of liberty. May the Lord bless his work.

ELDER F. C. KECK, Mound Valley, Kansas, Oct. 15:

I am holding forth in the neighborhood where Elder P. W. Shick of the Christian Church and I held a discussion last May. We are having fine interest; last night the building was not large enough to hold the people. Some stood up outside, others sat in their vehicles. I preached 1½ hours with the Spirit of the Lord upon me to a marked degree. Audience spell-bound under its influence. Debate was a success and did much good.

BRO. RUTHEN ELVIN, Balsam Lake, Wisconsin, has removed from Seattle, Washington, to Balsam Lake recently and writes:

Sr. Martha Mana was baptized into the church September 29th by Elder John Davis. She is a conscientious woman who has been battling the various denominations for many years; having met us, became convinced that this is the way for which she had long sought. I feel that she will be a zealous worker and by her others may come into the church. I was sorry to leave Seattle, as through our efforts to date a few have embraced this work. Elder Davis is a pleasant man who adapts himself to circumstances and is capable of presenting the gospel in its true light.

BRO. JAMES RIPLEY, River Phillip Centre, Nova Scotia:

Elders S. O. Foss, and W. W. Blanchard have left for their homes after traveling and preaching in Nova Scotia, Delhavan, Lockhartville, South Rawdon, Waverly, Glenville, River Phillip, and at Williamsdale where they organized a branch. We were very sorry to see them leave us, as there appeared to be a move in the work and more unity with the Saints. We who have taken charge of the branch feel a great responsibility in guiding, leading, and doing the work, in the way that will be acceptable to the Master. We ask the prayers of all the Saints, that we may be united and our faith strong in the latter day work. If this should be read by Bro. Ralston, in Servado, Oklahoma, whose name I saw mentioned in ENSIGN recently, he would confer a favor upon us by writing us, as my wife's name was Ralston, from Greenville, Nova Scotia.

BRO. D. T. WALDRIP, Benton, Iowa:

The ENSIGN is eagerly looked forward to in our home. We find it a great help to us in our isolated condition, being filled as it is with letters of courage and strength from those we love. There is one other family of Saints living in this town. Brn. Lambert and Bell have preached here a few times, but the people seem to be satisfied with what they have. There is quite a number here who say they are free from sin. I often wish I could say the same thing, truthfully, but I find that the nearer I live to the Master the more I recognize the impurities of my nature and find weaknesses that must be overcome. And when I find such noble brethren as Brn. Terry, Bell, and others, testifying that the "Christlike" is a life of continuous warfare, I am apt to think that my "sanctified" friends are deceiving themselves. Success to the ENSIGN in its noble work.

GENERAL CHURCH NEWS.

INDEPENDENCE.

Earnest Walburn, who has been very ill with typhoid fever, is getting along nicely.

Sr. H. Sly left Sunday evening for Ashland, Wisconsin, to spend the winter with her daughter.

Bishop G. H. Hilliard reached home Wednesday evening, bringing good reports from the different fields he has touched in his travels.

The rain staid with us Monday but the sun came out clear and warm Tuesday, and has been so ever since; which change is quite agreeable to all.

Sr. Hattie Newkirk left Tuesday for Iowa to visit relatives and to benefit her health. A change of air and scenes should bring this much desired result.

Sr. Lydia Billinsky is still confined to the house with what seems to be a malarial attack. We trust she will soon be able to return to her case in the ENSIGN composing room. The force misses her.

The Gleaners held a conclave at Bro. and Sr. Farrow's home on Pendleton avenue, Tuesday afternoon. Our young sisters are taking quite an interest in this society, and we are confident much good will result if rightly continued.

Sr. J. G. Torrance was quite ill the early part of the week but is improving, we are glad to say. Bro. Geo. Hayward is also slowly improving; his strength returns quite slowly, but we are much pleased to note improvement is being made, if not so speedy as we could wish.

Bro. Fred Gerber has transferred Bro. J. S. Lawton's house from North Spring street to Crysler street, opposite Bro. Skinner's. Bro. Gerber is an adept at that kind of work and gets considerable of it to do. We believe Bro. Pointer is also engaged in the same line.

A temperance lecture was delivered at the Saints' church last Tuesday evening; Mr. O. J. Hill, of Kansas City, being in charge, with Bishop May. The pastor being detained by sickness. A Mr. Copley, also of Kansas City, gave an interesting address. A good sized audience being present. The meeting will be continued next Tuesday evening.

The first Sunday in December (2d), at the morning service, has been designated by the pastor for the annual collection for Bethany Hospital, Kansas City. This is a very worthy institution where, occasionally, some of the Saints have been cared for without charge. The institution is doing much good and should receive all the encouragement our circumstances will authorize. Keep the date in memory.

Sunday morning was rainy and cool, for which cause the audience at the stone church was not so large as was to be expected from the character of the sermon as announced, "Does Death End All?" by Elder Joseph Luff. At night Bro. J. A. Robinson, Sr., was the speaker on the experiences realized in his late trip to Canada. The audience was quite attentive, but the rain again kept many away. The afternoon sacramental service was a memorable one and much enjoyed.

Bishop Hilliard will preach at the Saints' church next Sunday morning. Bro. B. J. Scott will occupy the evening hour.

Religio tomorrow, Friday, evening. Lesson Alma 3:7-9; 4:1 Alma's ministry at Zarahemla. We are glad to note the continued interest in the lessons studied in this society; but now that the evenings are cooler and longer, we hope to see a much larger attendance, more proportionate to our branch membership. It is doing most excellent work, the result of which will be clearly manifest later on. Prepare yourselves for the Lord's work, by taking advantage of the most excellent opportunities afforded in the systematic study of the Scriptures. It will bring yourself and others much rejoicing by and by.

ST. LOUIS, MISSOURI.

Many folks gladly greeted Bro. Allen yesterday morning at the 11 o'clock service. Bro. James Christenson assisted.

Bro. and Sr. Dukes, of Collinsville, Illinois, visited with the Saints yesterday.

Just average attendance at Sabbath School. Teachers' meetings are now held at seven o'clock, Friday evenings, preceding the Religio.

Priesthood meetings are held the third Tuesday of every month.

Bro. Noah Cook presented the truths of the gospel to a fair sized audience Sunday evening, Bro. Allen assisting.

A long looked for rain put in an appearance and we have mud instead of dust.

Bro. Allen and Christenson presided at the social meeting, 2:30 p. m. Five prayers and about ten testimonies occupied the time.

The sisters of the Mite Society are working systematically, and with enthusiasm, to make the bazaar and Thanksgiving dinner a success.

We rejoice with our people of Independence in the present satisfactory condition of their church. We too desire to see the day when our place of worship may be dedicated.

Sr. Sarah Cook is on the sick list. Sr. Lydia Billinsky has our prayers for her speedy recovery. E.P.T.A.

October 22.

LAMONI, IOWA.

Inclement weather yesterday interfered somewhat with our usual good attendance at Sunday School. At morning preaching service there was a good attendance; the Saints were addressed by Elder R. S. Salyards. Bishop E. L. Kelley occupied the evening hour.

A few of the Saints gathered at the home of Bro. and Sr. J. D. Stead, last Tuesday evening, and held a prayer and testimony meeting. Sr. Stead has been afflicted for some time and unable to attend meetings.

The officers of the Religio met Sunday afternoon and decided to form some additional classes in Book of Mormon study. This will make eight in all.

One hundred and ten students are enrolled in Graceland College.

Sr. Savage and daughter, Grace, left Thursday morning for Boise City, Idaho, where they will reside in the future.

Our chorister, Bro. Ben Anderson, is on the sick list.

Bro. and Sr. Henry A. Stebbins returned today. Bro. Stebbins from Wisconsin, where he has been doing missionary work, and Sr. Stebbins from Burlington, Iowa, where she has been visiting relatives. They leave tomorrow for Fanning, Kansas, to be present at the marriage of Sr. Fannie Gurwell to Bro. W. S. Pender; Bro. Stebbins will officiate.

Elder Fred A. Smith arrived home on Saturday.

The wedding of Bro. Arthur H. Mills, of Independence, Missouri, and Sr. Maude Lambert, of this city, occurred at the bride's residence, on last Wednesday evening at 7:30 o'clock. Apostle J. R. Lambert, father of the bride, performed the ceremony, assisted by Elder H. R. Mills, father of the groom. Those present were Bro. and Sr. H. R. Mills, and son and daughter, Frank and Mabel, of Independence, Missouri, and relatives and a few intimate friends of this place. G. L. K.

October 22.

CHICAGO, ILLINOIS.

Branch headquarters, 716 W. Van Buren St., Sunday meetings 2:45 and 7:45 p. m., Lang Mission 3411 Cottage Grove Ave., 10:45 a. m. and 7:30 p. m.; West Pullman branch, 748 119th St., 10:30 a. m. and 7:30 p. m.; 508 W. 37th St. (colored mission), 10:30 a. m. and 7:30 p. m.

Deacon Culver arrived home happy in heart and bettered in body, from his trip to the land of the Lamanites. He reports an excellent visit, the kindest treatment and a pleasant, all around visit. We are glad to see Charles back again, the question now being, can we hold him here after such a pleasant trip. We shall try hard.

A high grade entertainment has been arranged for the night of the 31st of this month. First grade talent, in the church and out, will be employed, combining amusement and instruction. We hope to see it well sustained, as the proceeds are to go for the building up of the gospel work in Chicago. Srs. Pitt, Penny and Sanderson have it in charge, aided by others.

We had a very pleasant meeting yesterday morning at West Pullman, where we addressed the Saints with good spirit. The efforts of Bro. H. C. Smith were highly spoken of, as they are in other parts of the city.

Bro. Bachelder has about recovered from a severe operation, and his musical violin added much to the interest of the services yesterday. With Sr. Worrell, his sister, he has located in our city.

Our hearts were gladdened on Wednesday evening in seeing three precious souls inducted into the kingdom by baptism. Two of them were the precious fruit of the Sabbath School, Ethel and Blanchey Bellaw, two bright children. We hope soon to see their parents follow them. "A little child shall them." The other was one of the class spoken of by Isaiah (29:24) who has been looking for something substantial for a long time, and found it finally in the "marvelous work," Bro. Henry P. Qualls, by name, who, if faithful, will be of use to the work, and to whom the work will be of countless benefit.

We formed the acquaintance of Bro. J. W. Matthews, who has temporarily located here. He was a member in the old church, and passed through the scathing times in Salt Lake, where he endangered himself by giving Bro. E. C. Briggs a home and protection on his first mission to that wandering people. He related a remarkable healing of blood poison recently while in St. Louis. The doctor said he could not live, he sent for the elders, they came and as they entered the room he could feel the power of God with them. It was a miracle too lengthy to tell here. Bro. Matthews still loves the work.

The Religio held a meeting at Sr. Braidwood's to tell how each had earned his dollar. It was amusing to listen to; some in meter told the story, and others in prose. "Jimmy" was the master of ceremonies, and when he counted the cash he reported $19.37 as the proceeds. The organ will be repaired and the rest will probably "go up in smoke."

Bro. S. C. Good preached at the three o'clock hour yesterday, giving good satisfaction. In the evening we spoke to a good house with many strangers present. We told them of "The Gospel" with good liberty and fair attention.

A special program has been prepared for our next priesthood meeting, Monday night, October 29th, at 3411 Cottage Grove avenue. Five papers will be read on vital questions. Let all come.

Bro. E. J. Lang baptized a Sr. Della E. Johnson on Sunday night, 14th. She was confirmed same evening. She lives in Bese-lin, Illinois.

Bro. W. H. Deam, Srs. Della Braidwood and Gracie Webster are among the afflicted, with others. Bro. Johnson is about the same, with a little more strength.

Don't forget the union service one week from Sunday—November 4th.

J. M. TERRY.

395 Ogden Ave., Oct. 22.

SAN FRANCISCO, CALIFORNIA.

Services at Golden West Hall, 320 Post street, every Sunday. Sunday School 10 a. m., preaching 11 a. m. and 7:30 p. m.; prayer meeting first Sunday of each month at 12:15 noon. Elder C. A. Parkin presiding elder, residence 3010 16th street.

Sunday, September 30th, we had preaching at 11 a. m. and 7:30 p. m. by Apostle G. T. Griffiths. These were his farewell sermons for us, as his departure from this city and district is drawing near. There was a full house on both occasions. Among others present we noticed Bro. Bohall, from Eureka, Humboldt county, Sr. Page, from San Benito, and Sr. Montgomery, from San Jose.

Fred B. Blair and Chas. A. Parkin went to Santa Rosa to administer to the sick.

Last Sunday we had preaching at 11 a. m. by Chas. A.

Parkin; at 12:15 sacrament meeting was held, and a very good, spiritual time was enjoyed; many prayers were offered and testimonies given. Determination of better service to God and the cause were made. As a branch we enjoy much of the Holy Spirit, not in open demonstration so much as in unseen satisfaction and personal influence. At 7:30 your correspondent was the speaker.

The Wednesday night prayer meeting was well attended, and very satisfactory to all present.

The Religio was over-crowded Friday evening, thirty-three were there. The room is getting too small as the interest increases. The Book of Mormon studies are proving very interesting and instructive.

Bro. G. T. Griffiths has left us; he is now working his way up through northern California and on through Oregon. Bro. Chase has gone to Santa Rosa.

Last Sunday J. A. Saxe went to Irvington and held services there; J. H. Anthony went to Stockton, held a sacrament meeting, and also one preaching meeting, he occupying the pulpit. He reports a fair attendance, but only two strangers to hear him.

Two of our warships are here in our bay, the "Iowa" and the "Philadelphia." They expect to sail away soon.

All well here.

GEO. S. LINCOLN.

October 13.

LETTER DEPARTMENT.

ALEXANDER, KAN., Oct. 16. Dear Ensign—Bro. L. G. Gurwell and myself have labored the last few weeks in Ness county. We are pleased to report some interest; under our hands four were baptized, among whom was Grandma Roush, age eighty-three years; her former hope was founded upon Methodism as taught in early times, but reading and hearing the latter day message, had no ease of conscience until she accepted it.

Saints in this sparsely settled country are not afraid of distance, for several quite often go twelve and fifteen miles to attend church. Such zeal cannot help but be appreciated by the preacher. We are for the cause of Zion.

Your brother,
W. H. MANNERING.

RED OAK, IA., Oct. 19.

Editor Ensign—It is gratifying to read the encouraging reports, from different parts of the field, and I should be glad if my report could be of the encouraging kind too, but it is not.

Some three weeks ago I went to Pontauelle, Iowa, and began preaching in the Advent church, which the Saints there have rented when not used by the Advent brethren. But for some cause, the audiences were very small. There are some noble Saints there, and they are trying to keep the work moving; but it is not all smooth sailing, as the burden falls on the few, as it usually does. Bro. J. M. Baker, priest, presides over the branch and is doing well. Bro. S. Butler and his noble wife live there, and are both firm in the faith. The Elder made his home with them while there. Bro. David Oglevie is a priest, a young man, and alive in the work.

One week ago last Wednesday, I went to Atlantic, where Bro. G. H. Wells lives. He and his family are in the faith, but their neighbors seem to be "established" in their determination not to hear the gospel. After going to the school house for five evenings, with audiences of 0, 1, 2, 1, 0, (not including Bro. Wells' family),

I gave it up and left, hoping they may finally change their minds and investigate the truth before it is too late.

But I still feel that I would rather be in the "straight and narrow way" with the few than to be in the "broad way" with the many. God is in this work, and I hope to spend my life in helping to build up the kingdom of God among men. Men may refuse to listen to the preaching of the gospel, but that does not relieve the servants of God from the responsibility of preaching it.

May the Lord bless his people, and give them strength for the conflict.

In gospel bonds,

ISAAC M. SMITH.

MAGNOLIA, Iowa, Oct. 15.

Editor Ensign—Since arriving home I have been undergoing a spell of illness, not very severe, but quite unpleasant, having lost my appetite for about two days, and became very weak and slightly feverish; but with the exception of a slight cold I am now feeling quite well, for which I feel thankful. My family are quite well, children are all reading and studying while I write at this evening hour, 7 p. m.

Since last Wednesday Elder F. A. Smith held services in our chapel, having only a fair hearing, but few non-members attending. He returned to Omaha today.

Elder J. W. Wight is holding services about five miles northwest of this place; he has baptized nine, and others are ready, so I learned today.

Bro. Pyrand is feeling quite well today. He was out overseeing the gathering in of his apple crop. His improvement comes very slowly, with many discouragements along the route.

Elder D. R. Chambers started again for his mission Saturday, first stop being at Crescent. He is much better, and with care, he expects to be strong in a short time.

The harvest time is here, and the winter is near. With activity are the farmers gathering in their crops, and preparing for the time when they can neither sow nor gather, but should enjoy the fruits of their labor. But all do not enjoy the fruitage they had anticipated, or, if they do, it already belongs to another. This is a lesson full of meaning. May we enjoy spiritually the fruits of our labor when the winter of life comes.

Your brother,

J. F. MINTUN.

TORONTO, Ontario, Oct. 16.

Editor Ensign—Your paper's visits are enjoyed and its contents perused with pleasure. Despite this I certainly owe it more than a reading. This is so of many more. We should remember, dear readers, there is such a thing as a literary pauper. People who eat but do not work are paupers, no matter what their social standing. They are consumers without being producers. So also of those who read but do not write. They derive benefit without giving any in return, but since "it is more blessed to give than to receive" these lines are written.

The conference held here the 6th and 7th is a thing of the past. Both it and the Sunday School convention held the day previous were good and well attended. Reports gave the London district a total membership of two thousand. The Saints here enjoyed the meeting although they had worked hard to get the new church ready therefor. For two weeks previous Bro. Evans, J. L. Mortimer, Jos. Osborne and the writer worked from 7 and 8 a. m. to 11 p. m. and sometimes until 1 o'clock the following morning. The same may also be said of Bro. W. H. Smith who made the seats. Sometimes work went on longer than this, especially by Bro. Mortimer. He was the regular brick mason, but did the plastering and some other work. He earned quite a reputation among the people near as well as among the Saints as a man of industry. Bro. Evans did considerable work besides bearing his responsibilities as chairman of the building committee; much anxiety was connected with his work along that line. Wo-must not forget to mention that the Saints whose circumstances permitted worked of evenings after their day's work. They also worked on holidays and Saturday afternoons. Some did more and some less than others, for which there may have been reasons. We shall not therefore mention any names for we could not do justice to all concerned. It is not wise or necessary to say much about the part Bro. Osborne and I performed, for although a single man, he doesn't care about creating a reputation among the young ladies and my characteristic modesty(?) prevents my say.

The missionaries have departed for their fields of labor. My acquaintance with them is not very great since I have not been over the mission much, but my association with them at the two conferences I have attended has been pleasant indeed. They impress one as being an honest, pure class of men. They appear to be, and I believe are, free from that jealous spirit which mars the happiness and usefulness of some of the ministry.

From what I have been able to glean from the church papers there is no reason for being disappointed with the progress the work is making. The manoeuvres of Bro. Griffiths and co-workers have been watched with pleasure, and while I surmised the San Francisco correspondent got things a trifle crooked once in a great while, still I understood approximately what he meant. California seemed to me like home, I was there so long. I enjoyed my stay though it embraced some of the most trying experiences of my life. The drouth which has obtained in some parts at least for three years hinders progress, doubtless, in every department of business, not excepting that of our heavenly Father. The brethren who are laboring so hard to get the gospel before the people under such circumstances have my sympathy and prayers.

Soon after my arrival in this field I was placed in charge of missionary work in this city. It is a conservative city of nearly 300,000 inhabitants. It has not a superior among cities of its size. I shall remain here until the end of 1900 and possibly until the close of the conference year. I have a chronic dislike toward travelling rapidly from place to place as I formerly did, and as many of the ministry have done to the detriment of the work. Within the last two years I have remained in a place until I received orders from the missionary in charge to move on. Under his direction I have made trips which seemed to me unwise and unnecessary. I may have been mistaken in this since I do not claim to be infallible.

My work in Canada has been some the same as elsewhere although I have had some new experiences. The Saints have treated me as well and in some cases better than each other. The following sayings apply to this country the same as others:

"The woof of life's web is of mingled yarn, good and ill together."

"'E'en in the midst of earth's beautiful places there always is something that isn't quite right."

I shall begin a series of meetings the 21st inst. at Humber Bay, five miles away. There is a branch of excellent Saints there who are anxious to have missionary work done in that locality. I have preached there once and sometimes twice of Sundays ever since I came here, June 19th. They take a commendable interest in the church literature and have supplied the writer with papers which he has sent to various persons.

The greatest desire of my heart can be expressed by "Nearer, my God, to Thee," and "Oh, for a closer walk with God."

Ever praying and laboring for the spreading of God's work and the advancement of His people, I am,

Yours in gospel bonds,

ALMA C. BARMORE.

FANNING, KS., Oct. 19.

Our conference here on the 6th and 7th inst. was well attended, and passed off all right every way. Bro. A. H. Parsons was present and aided much. He has been connected with your humble servant, and assisted by the local Saints in conducting a series of meetings that were well attended. Bro. Pierce and myself have been holding forth several evenings to fair sized, attentive audiences, three miles south of the hamlet, and Alonzo is advertised for this 7:30 p. m., in the white seminary of rural lore that adorns the hillside.

We have had fine weather and good roads. The autumnal changes have touched the forest and field, so that the woods are assuming a variegated aspect, and the corn is drying rapidly. The ears are not large, solid and plentiful, and the blades are light brown or buff, and quite sear. The gray clouds are more or less in the sky, and the warm south wind still passes over the land. Fall wheat clothes many a landscape with the emerald so beautiful and refreshing to behold. The husker's song may be heard, as the jolly swain drives his team afield, and gamers in the maize of a thousand hills and valleys. Fruits on tree and vine must be plucked or digged to as well. I trust the spiritual toiler and husbandman may reap and garner the golden grain of humanity. The fruitage that abides is of more consideration than the bread that has to be often replenished.

Prejudice, indifference, ignorance, sectarian bias, and pride, the love of world, and its emoluments and honors, bigotry and stubbornness, and sin in all its forms, phases and power, interspersed with Satanic measures, agencies and influences, make a thorny way for the pilgrim feet of faith and morals. Were it not that there is an Almighty back of, and in this work, we would reef sail and cast anchor. I find the only reasonable course to pursue is to give the gospel canvass to the breeze and sail on; our land forces must burn the bridges, and know no retreat, armistice or compromise.

Our envoys to foreign strands should remember that Christ quieted turbulent Galilee, and hence he is on the mighty ocean as well as the solid land.

It is good to trust and confide in our Father, nor doubt His goodness, ability, disposition and willingness to save, even to the uttermost. We sure will reap in due time if we faint not, nor be discouraged, dismayed or alarmed. Courage, constancy and fidelity will see us all through for certain, therefore onward and upward we will go, nor fear what puny man can do, say or think.

One Mr. Carpenter, of Spiritualistic fame, announced that he would answer questions from his lecture and exhibition platform, whereupon I handed him the fifteen questions written, but behold! he passed all by without a reference or comment. His entertainment was rendered in the opera at Atchison, and I reviewed somewhat next evening. Please print them in the Ensign for any or all of that cult to consider and respond to if they find time, disposition and ability to do so. There is a great deal of something akin to that system or order of things in many movements, and the numbers are ever on the increase. I will not, at this time, enter into an examination of the witch ball of darkness. Hoping that truth and light may spring forth speedily, and that graces and peace may adorn the highway of holiness, I am still in the conflict, harness on, and at the plow.

With pity for the weak and needy, and charity for all concerned, I am as ever your most obedient servant, trusting co-laborer and unchanging friend,

M. T. SHORT.

THE QUESTIONS.

Please answer the following, as advertised at close of your lecture, or exercises, viz.:

1. Is there an Almighty God, with size and shape of a man?
2. Was Jesus Christ His only begotten, immaculately conceived Son?
3. How do you regard His life?
4. What about His doctrine?
5. What value of the atonement?
6. Is there forgiveness of sins, or a law of life and salvation?
7. What avails is there in baptism?
8. What about a literal resurrection?
9. Is there future rewards for virtue, and punishments for vice and crime?

10. What conditions are necessary to be an up-to-date Spiritualist?

11. Does your philosophy promote faith, morals, and purity of life?

12. How is it that some of your accredited mediums are drunken, vulgar and profane?

13. Tell us of the origin, power and destiny of the devil.

14. Are wonders and miracles infallible tests of the genuineness of anything?

15. Give us your views about magnetism, mesmerism, hypnotism, affinity and repulsion?

Respectfully submitted,

ELDER M. T. SHORT.

OHLEMAN, Ill., Oct. 14.

Editor Ensign—I beg leave for a little space in the letter column of your consoling paper, the ENSIGN, which is a very welcome guest at my home, and has been since August last. I have been in search of the truth of the gospel for some time, and my heart wells up with gratitude to God for the privilege of finding what I believe, by investigation, to be the true gospel, by reading the ENSIGN and other papers and books of the Saints' church and doctrine. I do not belong to the Saints' church.

When I first began to be interested in the matter, I prayed God that if the Saints' doctrine was the true doctrine of Jesus Christ, that he would not let me spurn nor reject it; but if it was not the true doctrine let me not accept it, for I want to be right in this matter; so I began to investigate it, and in comparing the printed sermons with the Bible, I find them to be according to the Scriptures. I want to say here that I am fifty years old; I have been a member of the Methodist and also the Baptist churches, and in neither of them did I find their doctrine according to the Scriptures; and now since, by prayerful investigation, I earnestly and honestly believe that I have found it, and my prayer to God that I may be permitted to live until opportunity is afforded me to be baptized; this is my sincere desire. There are no Saints living here, and when I speak of the Saints' church and doctrine to the people, they say that they are none other than the Mormons; and then I explain the difference as best I can, and some of them seem ready to accept my explanation as being correct. Being ignorant at first as I myself was, they were ready to put it from them. Oh! that I had an opportunity to obey the gospel by baptism, that I might be enabled to enjoy the full blessing of the gospel. Could it be possible that an elder could come into these parts? I would gladly welcome him into my home. I have never heard or been permitted to hear any of them preach as yet, but I trust that I may in the future. Remember me in your prayers.

Your brother in the faith,

W. H. BASS.

SENVADO, O. T., Sept. 5.

Dear Ensign—The banner of King Imanuel waves here in Oklahoma, as well as in other portions of God's heritage, and evidences indicate that the work is constantly advancing; but under conditions that are familiar to all representatives in other parts, and that by diligent, persistent and honorable work. The prospects for the work are as good, if not better, than at any other time for Oklahoma. A goodly number has been gathered into the fold of Christ since general conference, and it evidences to us God's marked approval has rested upon his people.

Our reunion, August 3-13, was one calculated to stimulate to greater activity. It was the most profitable one yet held. The co-operative boarding house was a decided success. Meals were given at six and two-thirds cents per head after all expenses were paid. Children under ten, one half. There are several features of this experience that would pay the candid observer to notice. First of all it is an educational along lines in which the people of God are considerably interested. You see the principle makes us to be as one large family, eating from one festal board. Another thing to be considered, it relieves all the alsters of drudgery and work around camp, which is of no little importance, calculated as it is, to make it a place more to be dreaded than enjoyed; but this plan gives them ample opportunity to attend all the services where otherwise it would be impossible. As for the expenses I do not believe that is to be considered when it is rated so low; and when you come prepared to board yourselves I do not believe you could get it much cheaper unless you would wish to eat the rations down from plenty to one half fare.

A good representation of the Saints of Oklahoma was present. The missionary force was all in attendance. Bro. H. O. Smith's presence among us was very much enjoyed and appreciated. Bro. F. C. Keek and Bro. W. Henry Smarts genial countenances were also much appreciated, but some of their spare time was occupied in fixing coats etc., as the ones we had were not able to resist their avoirdupois. The prayer services were spiritual and strengthening. Oh that we could always feel so joyous and happy as we do after enjoying a season of prayer with God's people, where the cheery influence of His Spirit is bestowed. Eight were led into the waters of baptism by Bro. W. S. Macrae at the close of the reunion. We truly regret the departure of Bro. W. S. Macrae to Arkansas. He has done much of the pioneer work here, but our loss is their gain.

The writer with Bro. R. M. Maloney held a very good meeting nine miles northeast of El Reno at Fair View school house and left some about ready for baptism. We came from there to this place. The work never has been opened up at this place. Our meetings so far are well attended, but the people are yet curious, though I think we have opened their eyes, and the force of the angel's message is beginning to dawn upon some of them. I think we will baptize some here. Bro. R. W. Davis and W. H. Rhodes are laboring near Blackwell. Bro. Hubert Case and W. R. Smith are with the gospel tabernacle. They were at Okarche last we knew of them, with the intention of going west to hold a meeting in Dewey county, and also Blaine county. Bro. W. M. Aylor has been associated with Bro. Case but has now gone home to spend a few weeks to recruit up in health. Our aged Bro. D. S. Crawley, I understand, has been quite sick, since our reunion, but I trust the mercies of the Lord have given him strength to battle on. The Kiowa and Commanche reservation will be opened for settlement before long, this will afford homes for many.

May the great work of the Master roll on until it is done and may our efforts be united.

In the gospel,

S. S. SMITH.

STOKES BAY, Ont., Oct. 9.

Editor Ensign—Will you allow me a little space in one of the best of papers, which I would not like to do without. There is a little band of Saints in this part of the vineyard and God has blessed us here. Last Sunday was sacrament, but it was so rainy there were not many out; we had it held at Sr. Alice Burley's, as she was too poorly to get out. She has just buried her little boy, and asks the prayers of the Saints for her health that she may be restored.

We have lovely meetings and Sunday School, God's Spirit is with us, and I am not sorry I bear the name of Latter Day Saint; I am not ashamed of it. I thank my dear heavenly Father for His goodness and kindness to me, I never had such health and strength; He has blessed me in many ways, and I intend to press my way onward. I also ask the prayers of the Saints that we all so live so that we can say we have been with God.

We are looking for Bro. John Shields back; he has many friends here, and is thought of a lot of by all, being esteemed as a good, spiritual living man. May God bless us all in my prayer.

Your sister in the true faith,
Mrs. HENRY RIDGET.

ZION'S ENSIGN.

Entered at the Post Office at Independence, Mo., as Second Class Matter.

A POPULAR CHURCH.

Weighed in the Balance and Found Wanting.

ELDER FREDERICK GREGORY.

"If there come any unto you, and bring not this doctrine, receive him not into your house, neither bid him God speed: for he that biddeth him God speed is partaker of his evil deed."—2 John 10, 11.

"Be not deceived; God is not mocked: for whatsoever a man soweth that shall he also reap."—Gal. 6:7.

"And Jesus answered and said unto them, Take heed that no man deceive you. For many shall come in my name, saying, I am Christ; and shall deceive many."—Matt. 4:4, 5.

"Prove all things; hold fast that which is good."—1 Thes. 5:21.

There can be no question as to the meaning of the above passages of scripture. Man is made a responsible creature and amenable to God. He is, therefore, admonished by the Master and his ministry to make thorough examination of any matter claiming his attention and which demands more or less consideration. We are particularly warned against being deceived, being told that "God is not mocked." That is, he cannot be swayed from the true principle of reward as referred to by Paul when he says, "for whatsoever a man soweth that shall he also reap." Knowing then that God will only permit us to reap accordingly as we have sown, should we not be careful and first "prove all things," after which, "hold fast to that which is good;" for if there come any (any man) unto you and bring not this doctrine and we receive him and bid him Godspeed, the word of God declares we are partakers of that man's evil deeds and would, therefore, have to share his condemnation.

Then in the light of the scripture quoted it should not be thought presumptuous or un-Christ-like for me, or any other person, to make the test therein commanded, inasmuch as it is a God-given privilege and duty. Moreover it is a most holy safeguard thrown around weak, unfortunate man, to protect him from the many forms of godliness denying the power of God, and the spiritual wickedness that has crept into high places; from different forms of deception referred to in the Word as being the methods employed by the evil one, and all that is calculated to keep the soul of man in degradation.

To investigate the claims, teaching, organism, practice, etc., of any minister or church organization is a duty binding on every intelligent man or woman. The Word speaks pointedly when it says:

"Know ye not, that to whom ye yield yourselves servants to obey, his servants ye are to whom ye obey; whether of sin unto death, or obedience unto righteousness?"—Rom. 6:16.

The use of our intelligence, judgment and agency is demanded and from which we have no escape. For any minister or church organization to oppose or deny such investigation would bid indicate fear and weakness, possibly in the presence of that which is foreign to the true pattern in the examination—the doctrine of Jesus the Christ, so clearly presented in the written word, and of which there need be no difference of opinion.

As there are so many ministers and churches, each advocating their own peculiar philosophy and making claim to godliness, it would be impracticable to place each one on trial and report complete findings in this little work. One of the many is selected, namely, the "Church of England," because of its prominence, age and claim. The established church is not made the special creature for investigation because of any ill will or prejudice, or, using a common expression, that we wish to pull it to pieces. A fair examination is intended; so if it be as claimed, the church in question should welcome such a work, rather than cry it down. If agreeable to the teachings of Christ in fact, the examination would only make that fact still clearer; but if weak and lacking, we may expect the error to show itself when compared with that which is universally acknowledged to be the proper standard of evidence in such matters. Without further reasoning as to the advisability and actual necessity of the work contemplated, we proceed first to make inquiry into the

ARTICLES OF RELIGION.

That no injustices be done the adherents of the church in question, and that we might know the full meaning and extent of its doctrine as by them taught, we quote quite freely from the Book of Common Prayer, it being an acknowledged authority to the church, and especially drawn up to express definitely and uniformly, the doctrines of the church. The articles of religion as found in the prayer book used by the church today, were agreed upon at a convention of archbishops, bishops and the clergy, held in London, 1562. The following is part of the king's declaration which serves as preface to the said articles as agreed upon:

"Being by God's ordinance, according to our just Title, Defender of the Faith and Supreme Governor of the Church, within these our Dominions, We hold it most agreeable to this our kingly office, and our own religious zeal, to conserve and maintain the Church committed to our charge, in the unity of true religion, and in the Bond of Peace; and not to suffer unnecessary disputations, altercations, or questions to be raised, which may nourish faction both in the church and commonwealth. We have therefore upon mature deliberation and with the advice of so many of our Bishops as might be conveniently called together thought fit to make this declaration following:—That the Articles of the Church of England (which have been allowed and authorized heretofore, and which our Clergy generally have subscribed unto) do contain the true doctrine of the Church of England, agreeable to God's word; which we do therefore ratify and confirm requiring all our loving subjects to continue in the uniform profession thereof, and prohibiting the least difference from the said articles; which to that end we command to be new printed, and this our declaration to be published therewith."

From the 4th paragraph the following is taken, "From which we will not endure any varying or departing in the least degree." The 6th reads, "We will that all further curious search be laid aside, and these disputes shut up in God's promises, as they be generally set forth to us in the Holy Scriptures, and the general meaning of the Articles of the Church of England according to them. And that no man hereafter shall either print or preach, to draw the article aside any way, but shall submit to it in the plain and full meaning thereof; and shall not put his own sense or comment to be the meaning of the article, but shall take it in the literal and grammatical sense." (Italics mine.)

We gather the following from the king's declaration:

1. Arch-bishops, bishops and clergy in general consent to articles as drawn up.

2. Said articles do contain the true doctrine of the Church of England.

3. The least difference from said articles is prohibited.

4. No further change or amendment of articles contemplated.

5. All are to submit to the plain and full meaning of the articles.

6. None are to put their own sense to the meaning of any article, but accept in the literal and grammatical sense.

With the above in mind we now turn our attention to ARTICLE NUMBER ONE which reads, "There is but one living and true God, everlasting, without body, parts or passions; of infinite power, wisdom, and goodness; the Maker and Preserver of all things, both visible and invisible, and in unity of this Godhead there be three persons, of one substance, power and eternity; the Father, the Son, and the Holy Ghost." Let us remember that these articles "do contain the true doctrine of the Church of England" and that said articles are to be "taken in the literal and grammatical sense."

Article number one, as quoted, gives us the united opinion of archbishops, bishops and clergy relative to the Godhead, and all within the borders of Episcopalianism are expected to endorse this conception of God, Christ and the Holy Ghost, as a Trinity. The "least difference" being "prohibited," churchmen are under obligation to believe that the one true and living God, the maker and preserver of all things, is "without body, parts or passions."

For such as have unshaken confidence in the opinion of the clergy, this may be an easy matter; but for those who have, by reading and study, become acquainted with the written word, it might be quite difficult. Accepting the Bible as the best and most authoritative teacher, there arises some difficulty in harmonizing the views of the bishops with the testimony of inspired men whose statements none would dare question.

In Exodus 33:9-11 we are told as Moses entered the tabernacle a cloudy pillar descended and stood in the door of the tabernacle "and the Lord talked with Moses, face to face as a man speaketh unto his friend." Pertaining to another but similar experience had by Moses, God says in 28d verse: "I will take away mine hand and thou shalt see my back parts but my face shall not be seen."

Upon another occasion, as we read in Exodus 24:9, 10: "Then went up Moses and Aaron, Nadab and Abihu, and seventy of the elders of Israel and they saw the God of Israel; and there was under his feet, as it were, a paved work of a sapphire stone, and as it were the body of heaven in his clearness." In Genesis 32:30 Jacob bears the testimony, "for I have seen God face to face and my life is preserved."

Going back to Moses' time to the morn of man's creation, account of which we find in Genesis 1:26, we read, "And God said, Let us make man in our image after our likeness." This was agreed upon as shown by verse 27, "So God created man in his own image, in the image of God created he him." James, living four thousand years later, so understood the work of creation. James 3:9: "Therewith bless we God, even the Father, and therewith curse we men, which are made after the similitude of God." Jesus, the Son of God, and who "came from God," testified, John 14:9, "He that hath seen me hath seen the Father." John 12:45, "He that seeth me seeth him that sent me." On this point Paul testified, Hebrew 1:2, 3, "Hath in these last days spoken unto us by his Son whom he hath appointed heir of all things, by whom also he made the worlds; who being the brightness of his glory and the express image of his person." Philipians 2:6, "Who being in the form of God thought it not robbery to be equal with God." 2 Corinthians 4:4, "Christ, who is the image of God." Colossians 1:15, "Who is the image of the invisible God." Now a question.

Where is the harmony between the true doctrine of the church of England and the texts quoted? Moses says he "seen God face to face, as a man speaketh unto a friend." Jacob says he "seen God face to face." Moses, Aaron, Nadab, Abihu and seventy elders saw God standing on a most beautiful work. God made "man in his own image," after his "likeness." Jesus said, "He that seeth me seeth him that sent me," while Paul also testified Christ was "the image of God"—the "express image of his person."

When the archbishops, bishops and clergy agreed in convocation first in 1562, and again in 1571, that the true and living God had no body, parts or passion, they evidently made a serious mistake. Possibly in drawing up this article on the Godhead, the bishops neglected consulting the above Scripture, but accepted as authoritative the idea of God as taught in the creed of Catholicism and expressed in the catechism as follows:

Q.—What is God?

A.—God is a spirit eternal, independent, infinite and immutable, who is present everywhere, who seeth all things and governeth the universe.

Q.—Why do you say that He is a spirit?

A.—Because He is a supreme intelligence who has neither body, nor figure, nor color, and who cannot fall under the senses.—Catechism of Catholic church, by Rev. P. Callet.

However good the intentions of the men formulating this article, we, with God's word in our hand and before us, as a reliable, authoritative light and teacher, cannot allow such a conception to be true, and correctly representing the Maker and Preserver of all things. God being a spirit does not prohibit Him from possessing a body. Now, would it follow that His body should be composed of flesh and bones, but most likely would be composed of matter consistent with, and eternal as spirit, if not spirit itself.

Passing on we next notice ARTICLE XI, the latter part of which reads, "Wherefore that we are justified by faith only is a most wholesome doctrine, and very full of comfort."

"Wherefore we are justified by faith only. Is this a fact and agreeable with the word? This justification by faith only is emphasized in the next article, treating on good works, wherein it is said good works are the fruit of faith, and do spring out of a true and lively faith, but they follow after justification, making it conclusive as the bishop's teaching that "good works, pleasing and acceptable to God," have nothing whatever to do with justification; that we are justified by faith only, and therefore it is a good and wholesome doctrine, very full of comfort, etc.

In so concluding the clergy may have been strictly conscientious, but to be honest with ourselves and true to the light that has come to the world since 1571, there can be no question but what a second mistake has been made, as shown by the following texts of scripture. James, whose writings are acknowledged as inspired, and therefore correct, says, James 2:14:

"What doth it profit, my brethren, though a man say he hath faith, and have not works? Can faith save him?"

Seventeenth verse: "Even so faith, if it hath not works is dead, being alone."

Twentieth verse: "But wilt thou know, O vain man, that faith without works is dead."

Twenty-sixth verse: "For as the body without the spirit is dead, so faith without works is dead also."

This article setting forth the true doctrine of the church of England, separates faith from works, in that it places justification in between, thus justifying men and women by faith only, which the inspired writer says is dead because of it being alone, or thus separated. Think of it. Faith when alone is dead; yet according to the established church this dead faith becomes the only means of justification, a most wholesome doctrine and very full of comfort."

Faith and works are inseparably connected, the latter demonstrating faith and justifying the person, as James says, James 2: 24, "Ye see then how that by works a man is justified, and not by faith only." James 1: 22, "Be ye doers of the word, and not hearers only, deceiving your own selves." By works a man is justified and not by faith only.

The theory can not be as "wholesome" nor as "full of comfort" as our Episcopalian friends imagine, if James rightly represents the facts. James is against the established church, and now a question. Which shall we endorse? If James be a true servant of Christ, and inspired when writing, is it not clear that the uninspired bishops and clergy have made their second mistake?

Before passing on to another point we turn to Luke 7: 29, 30 and quote, "And all the people that heard him, and the publicans, justified God, being baptized with the baptism of John. But the Pharisees and lawyers rejected the counsel of God against themselves, being not baptized of him." The point made is that the people were justified by their obedience to the counsel of God, i. e., the baptism of John. Works accompanied faith and justification followed the works.

We pass ARTICLE XIX for the present and examine ARTICLE XX.

We are told, "Wherefore although the church be a witness and a keeper of the holy writ, yet as it ought not to decree anything against the same, so besides the same ought it not to enforce anything to be believed for necessity of salvation."

Taking the literal and grammatical sense of the above, the church ought not to enforce anything to be believed for necessity of salvation. In New Testament times the church of God and its divinely called ministry had something definite to present to the world as the doctrine of Christ, and from which their commission would not permit them to vary, and these clearly defined teachings were given to the world by them, as the only means of salvation.

But how with the church established by law? In their own words it is not to enforce anything to be believed for necessity of salvation. Then people may join the church and not believe what the church presents as the doctrine of Christ, and if it be the church of Christ, as churchmen think, then salvation comes to them in their unbelief. The Church of England lacks the order and authority of the primitive church.

ARTICLE XXIII introduces the call and work of the ministry. It reads:

"It is not lawful for any man to take upon him the office of public preaching, or ministering the sacraments in the congregation, before he be lawfully called, and sent to execute the same. And those we ought to judge lawfully called and sent, which be chosen and called to this work by men who have public authority given unto them in the congregation to call and send ministers into the Lord's vineyard."

To help explain the meaning of the above the prayer to be read or said in behalf of the men having this public authority, so called, found among the "Prayers and Thanksgivings upon Several Occasions," is quoted in part.

"Almighty God, our heavenly Father, who hath purchased to thyself an universal church by the precious blood of thy dear Son; mercifully look upon the same, and at this time so guide, and govern the minds of thy servants the bishops and pastors of thy flock, that they may lay hands suddenly on no man, but faithfully and wisely make choice of fit persons to serve in the sacred ministry of thy church."

From the prayer as quoted, we learn it to be the work of "bishops and pastors" to "faithfully and wisely make choice of fit persons to serve in the sacred ministry of the church," and from the article we gather the fact that these "bishops and pastors," men who have public authority, have that authority "given unto them in the congregation, also when they make choice of persons whom they deem fit to serve in the ministry, such persons are properly called and sent into the Lord's vineyard."

The Church of England may be able to point to time and place when its doctrines and church were established by law—human wisdom and authority—but with all its establishment, can it be said it was established on New Testament teachings or in harmony therewith? When and where in the true Christ church, the history of which is given in the New Testament, did bishops and pastors get their authority in the congregation? What authority had the congregation relative to confirming priesthood authority upon any who may desire the office of bishop or pastor? And when did the Lord retire from business and delegate sole authority to bishops and pastors and leave it with their wisdom entirely to appoint men to work in the Lord's vineyard.

The Lord held the reins of government in His own hands and did all the appointing himself. He personally appointed the Twelve and Seventy, and speaking of those who should afterwards be needed to labor in preaching His word, He said, Matthew 9: 37:

"Then saith he unto his disciples, The harvest truly is plentiful, but the laborers are few; pray ye therefore the Lord of the harvest, that he will send forth laborers into his harvest."

Is it not plain to be seen that God reserves the right to himself to appoint laborers and send them into the harvest? Who is the Lord of the harvest? The "bishops and pastors" occupy the holy position if the doctrine of the archbishops, bishops and clergy of the established church be true, and that looks like taking the "honor unto themselves." Paul, speaking of the priesthood, remarks, Hebrews 5: 1-4:

"And no man taketh this honor unto himself, but he that is called of God as was Aaron."

To the Corinthians he wrote, 1 Corinthians 7: 17:

"But as God hath distributed to every man, as the Lord hath called every one, so let him walk. And so ordain I in all the churches."

The selection of seven men (Acts 6: 1-6) to "serve tables" and their appointment by the apostles is not sufficient evidence of a call to the "ministry of the word."

The apostles were engaged in the latter, that being their special work, and this serving tables or caring for the poor prevented them in their particular work, hence seven are chosen and set apart by laying on of hands for the serving of tables, and it is certain the laying on of hands is not always to confer priesthood authority. Note the distinction between serving tables and the ministry of the word. The mere fact of Stephen afterwards preaching is no evidence that he received priesthood at that time. He may have held it prior to his being chosen to look after the poor. So for Episcopalians to refer to this instance and make it the rule of action to forever govern the ordination of men to the "ministry of the word," is unfair and unscriptural to say the least.

Paul said, "As the Lord called * * * so ordain I," and "No man taketh this honor * * * but he that is called." This divine call means nothing short of revelation, as instanced in Acts 13: 2:

"As they ministered to the Lord, and fasted, the Holy Ghost said, Separate me Barnabas and Saul for the work whereunto I have called them."

We now quote part of ARTICLE XXVI:

"Although in the visible church the evil be ever mingled with the good and sometimes the evil have chief authority in the ministrations of the word and sacraments, yet forasmuch as they do not the same in their own name but in Christ's, and do minister by his commission and authority we may use their ministry, both in hearing the word of God and in the receiving of the sacraments."

Here we are informed the ministers appointed as before mentioned minister "not in their own name but in Christ's, and do minister by his commission and authority." Bishops and pastors receive their authority in the congregation and then they make choice of others. Is this ministering by Christ's commission? Is the voice of the people the infallible will of God? The incorrectness of this position has been already shown, so we pass on to another thought found in same article.

"Sometimes the evil have chief authority in the ministrations of the word and sacraments." If the "chief authority" be sometimes "evil," what of the ones chosen by him and ordained under him? Can he or they being "evil" make proper choice of men to serve in the sacred ministry? And where is the safety of the people who blindly yet meekly submit to such evil chief authority? Such looseness bears the mark of the beast and has no place in the word or church of God. The idea of a corrupt ministry ministering acceptably to God and profitably to the people has long since passed away. Men must be "called of God as was Aaron," not appointed by man or a congregation, else his ministrations will "not profit this people at all, saith the Lord." (Jer. 38: 32).

Before leaving the manner of ordaining of men to the ministry it will be in order to carefully examine what is called "THE FORM AND MANNER OF MAKING, ORDAINING AND CONSECRATION OF BISHOPS, PRIESTS AND DEACONS," used by the English Church. That of the deacon comes first in the Prayer Book, hence we consider it first. The bishop is seated at or near to the holy table when the archbishop or deputy brings before him those to be made deacons and addressing the bishop, says, "Reverend father in God, I present unto you these persons present, to be admitted deacons."

The expression "Reverend father in God," to say the best for it, is a blasphemous falsehood and borrowed as a relic of Roman Catholicism—the Mother Church. Our blessed Savior would not permit an inquirer to say "Good Master," but the bishops are to be addressed "Reverend father in God." Wonderful presumption indeed for such as get their authority in the congregation. The holy table is likewise a relic of Romanism, but we proceed. The bishop asks, "Do you think you are truly called, according to the will of our Lord Jesus Christ, and the due order of this realm to the ministry of the church?" To which answer is made, "I think so." While the deacon only thinks so, or guessing at it, there is no doubt about his call being according to the order of the realm, but serious doubt as to it being according to the will of our Lord, for no such order was ever instituted by Him or His church.

The duty of the deacon in part is set out as "instructing the youth in the catechism," and in the "absence of the priest to baptize infants," which claims attention later on. After promising to "reverently obey your ordinary and other chief ministers," "following with a glad mind and will their godly admonitions," the "Reverend father in God," laying his hands upon the person, says, "Take thou authority to execute the office of a deacon in the church of God committed unto thee," and then delivering to him a New Testament, adds, "Take thou authority to read the gospel in the church of God and to preach the same, if thou be thereto licensed by the bishop himself."

If the reverend father had said, "Take thou authority to execute the office of a deacon in the Church of England," we could have no objection, but when he comes to do such business for the church of God we have reason and right to reject. A prayer follows that deserves the sharpest of criticism.

"Almighty God, giver of all good things, who of thy great goodness hast vouchsafed to accept and take these thy servants unto the office of deacons in thy church."

Where has God, by Himself or through any one of His servants, vouchsafed to accept these deacons into His church? There is not the least to show that God had anything to do with such appointment. It is the degenerate offspring of Rome, done by a "Reverend father in God" acting professedly as vicegerent of the Almighty.

In the preface to this form of making deacons, priests and bishops we are told, "And none shall be admitted a deacon except he be twenty-three years of age, unless he have a faculty. And every man which is to be admitted a priest shall be full four and twenty years old. And every man which is to be ordained or consecrated bishop shall be fully thirty years of age." Might I ask, is this the order of the church of God or is it alone peculiar to the due order of the realm? Evidently the latter, for no such rule is given by Jesus or found in the practice of the primitive church.

[CONTINUED NEXT WEEK.]

IS IT A "FRAUD"? AN "IMPOSITION"?

Ensign Readers.—Attention! "Lend us your ears!" "Variety is the spice of life." You have all, no doubt, had ample opportunity of hearing the Book of Mormon defended by Americans, but it is not often that an opportunity is offered of hearing or reading a defense of it by an Australian. Well, we are going to afford you such an opportunity, for once in a lifetime at least. Some time ago, an "evangelist" of the "Campbellite" stripe created quite a stir in the Newcastle district by visiting around among the people and giving free readings from the book written against the church by D. H. Bays. We challenged him to debate the issue, but he declined, preferring to do his dirty work single handed. Nothing remained for us to do but to reply by lecturing. So your humble servant delivered a series of lectures. The Book of Mormon was placed upon trial. The main allegations made against it and its translator were treated as the evidence for the prosecution, our usual Book of Mormon arguments constituting the defense. Joseph Smith was defended against such charges as "false prophet," "polygamist," "author of the polygamic revelation," etc., etc. Many of the Saints expressed a desire to possess the subject matter in permanent form for future reference. So we decided to have it published in pamphlet form at the first opportunity. The time has at last come, and now we are "killing two birds with the one stone."

The Wallsend branch, where there are only a few Saints have inaugurated, a "building fund," with a view of erecting a permanent place of worship. A few of us have scraped together the money required to publish these pamphlets, and we are getting out so many that when all are sold there should be quite a substantial amount to hand over to the "building fund." As we cannot depend upon the sale in Australia of such a large number as we are having published, we desire to place them on sale to the American Saints. The price is only fifteen cents per copy, and we are certain that no one can afford to do without one at that price. Those who have seen the "advance sheets" declare that anyone getting a copy at fifteen cents will be getting their money's worth ten times over. We desire to say, however, that we wish it understood that we do not publish this pamphlet, as an answer to Bays' book. One should not expect to find the answer to a dollar and a half book in a fifteen cent pamphlet; besides we leave that work to abler men, if the church deems it at all necessary to answer the book. We believe, however, that the charges made against the Book of Mormon are successfully answered and refuted, as are the charges against Joseph Smith already referred to. Now, Saints, will you not come to the front and assist us in our effort to get the truth more prominently before the people of this country? The books which we will sell to them will do good, and if you will only take those which we cannot sell to them, you will materially assist us in the building of another church in this country, and who can tell how many hearts may be made glad, and how many souls saved through the gospel of God's dear Son because of your assistance? Do not turn a deaf ear to this appeal, but make up your mind to assist us. Send for one right away, if you delay, you may forget.

And now just a word about the way in which to send your money. American money is of no use here; so the best way for you to do is for a number of the Saints to club together and send their orders and money in one letter. If, say, twenty persons in one branch decided to take one copy each they could send their money by international money order, just as cheaply as one person could send fifteen cents. In fact, twelve dollars can be sent at the same cost. Will some one in each branch try to sell at least twenty copies for us? Book agent (Herald and Ensign), will you take the matter up for us? We will allow you the usual ten per cent commission, to cover expenses. Saints! where it is possible, will you place your orders with your branch book agent as soon as possible? Where you have no agent, will some one come to the front and act for us? Should there be any places in which only seven or fourteen decide to take a copy, they may send a one or two dollar bill as the case may be, by registered letter, we will be able to use paper money, in paying Herald office accounts. So if seven Saints want a copy each, let them send along a dollar bill. Where Saints are isolated, or where seven copies are not ordered, you may send your orders and cash to Elder Gomer R. Wells, Deer Lodge, Montana, U. S. A., and he will send all such orders and money to us by money order. When sending letter to Australia, remember that the postal rate is five cents. If you do not have a five cent stamp on your letter we are fined double the amount lacking, at this end. When sending money orders (and be sure you get an international one), make them payable to Walter J. Haworth, Wallsend, New South Wales, Australia, and send all orders to same address.

Now another word about Australia's ENSIGN. We would so like to get five hundred subscribers, so that we could soon begin the paper. Will the missionaries, and others, stir the matter up a bit for us, and see what can be done? Bro. Caffall says we ought to get five thousand; well, I can assure you we will not object. I am sure you cannot send us too many names. I'm really afraid, Bro. Caffall, that if the Saints sent us five thousand subscriptions we would be inclined to buy a printing plant, and flood the country with our paper. No we won't object. Send them along. You will no doubt be rather surprised to learn that so far only thirty-six promised subscriptions have arrived, and fifteen of them have been promised by two Saints. Now, Saints, can you not do better than that? Can you not sacrifice seventy-five cents a year in helping us spread the gospel in this land? You could not begin to estimate the amount of good that seventy-five cents, spent in such a cause, might accomplish. Do help us! These English speaking countries are the places where the gospel should be spread. Will you help us spread it here?

Trusting we may receive a hearty response to both our appeals, I am,

Yours fraternally,

WALTER J. HAWORTH.

THE Autobiography of Elder Joseph Luff, of the apostle's quorum, is a book full of interest from beginning to end. Bro. Luff is so widely and so favorably known in and out of the church in his years of service in gospel work, that the mere mention of a work of this kind being offered should create a desire to possess it. Two fine sermons are included in its pages and the price is so reasonable that every Saint's home should have this book in their library. It's a splendid thing for the Sunday School library also. 75 cents cloth, postage prepaid.

Daughters of Zion.

"OUR AIM, MANKIND TO BLESS."

MRS. H. B. GURTIS, Editor.

The Daughters of Zion is an organization in the church of mothers and other who are interested in the welfare of our homes. Under the supervision of the general society, local societies are established, where they may meet to consider together their work as home keepers, and as moulders of character. Their purpose is to increase love for the home, to promote social purity, to study the problem of child care and devotional; that thus they may better prepare themselves for their responsibility as wives and mothers, and that from the home may go the influence that shall fulfill their aim, which is "mankind to bless." Have you a local in your branch? If not, can you not organize one? Send to the corresponding secretary for constitutions. The Advisory Committee will be pleased to hear from you, and will gladly furnish you any assistance in their power. Send your list of names of members to the recording secretary.

ADVISORY COMMITTEE.

Mrs. Mary E. Hulmes, President, Independence, Missouri.

Mrs. H. H. Robinson, Corresponding Secretary, Independence, Missouri.

Mrs. B. C. Smith, Independence, Missouri.

Mrs. Lucina Etzenhouser, 2417 Prospect Ave., Kansas City, Missouri.

Mrs. Clara Frick, Independence, Missouri.

Mrs. Callie B. Stebbins, Recording Secretary, Linnon, Iowa.

Mrs. Anna Murphy, Treasurer, Independence, Missouri.

Editor's address, 3183 Olive St., St. Louis, Missouri.

I ATTENDED services at the Jewish synagogue not long ago, and among other good things, heard this bit of condensed philosophy: "The best way to keep a man out of the mud is to shine his shoes."

"Shine his shoes, shine his shoes," like a refrain it sounded in my ears, and I drew a, to me, valuable lesson therefrom, notwithstanding I applied it a bit differently than did the learned Rabbi. My application was a literal one. How far will it refine a man, and lift him out of the mud of carelessness to keep him neatly and respectfully dressed all the time. How much more careful and dainty will a woman be, if about her work, her hair is neatly combed, her dress is whole and clean, and her shoes carefully laced, and made neat?

It is a mistake for a woman to think an old gown, no matter if torn and perhaps dirty, "will do" until her morning's work is finished.

Such a figure, with her hair tightly screwed into an unsightly little knob at the back of her head, and her shoes tidy or not, as happens, is not a pleasant memory for the husband to carry in his mind during the day. She may suffer in comparison with some other woman. Neither do children like to see their mother so, however much, the mother may think they do not notice or care.

"Shine your shoes," dear women, in other words take a few minutes, (and it only takes a few) arrange your hair becomingly, even though plain, put on a clean gown and apron, you will work better, and accomplish quite as much, if you feel respectable and tidy.

Being careful in matters pertaining to the toilet is bound to have its refining effect. We are sure to be more careful in speech, act and attitude.

So with the girl. Never dress up, girls, and have on torn or untidy under linen, or holes in your hose, or any such thing. You cannot be the refined lady if you do, that you can if you have the consciousness that you are clean and wholesome "every whit."

This is the lesson I drew from the old Rabbi's illustration and it has served me, as I hope it may others.

"I DIDN'T THINK!" A woman flings the whiteness of her reputation in the dust, and, wailing to the realization of her loss when the cruel glare of the world's disapproval reveals it, she seeks to plead her thoughtlessness as an entreaty of the world's pardon. But the flint-hearted world is slow to grant it, if she be a woman. "You have thrown your rose in the dust, go live there with it," the world cries, and there is no appeal, although the dust become the grave of all that is bright and lovely and sweet in a thoughtless woman's really innocent life. A young girl flirts with a stranger on the street. The result is something disagreeable, and straightway comes the excuse: "Why, I didn't think! I meant no harm; I just wanted to have a little fun."

Now, look me straight in the eye, young gossamer-head, while I tell you what I know. The girl who will flirt with strange men in public places, however harmless and innocent it may appear, places herself in that man's estimation upon a level with the most abandoned of her sex and courts the same regard. Strong language, perhaps you think, but I tell you it is gospel truth, and I feel like going into orders and preaching from a pulpit whenever I see a thoughtless, gay and giddy girl tiptoeing her way upon the road that leads direct to destruction. The boat that dances like a feather on the current a mile above Niagara's plunge is just as much lost when it enters the whirling, swinging, wrath of waters, unless some strong hand head it up stream and out of danger. A flirtation today is a ripple merely, but tomorrow it will be a breaker, and then a whirlpool, and after that comes hopeless loss of character. Girls, I have seen you gather up your roses from their vases at night and fold them away in damp paper to protect their loveliness for another day. I have seen you pluck your jewels like sun sparkle from your fingers and your ears, and lay them in velvet caskets which you locked with a silver key for safe keeping. You do all this for flowers which a thousand suns shall duplicate in beauty, and for jewels for which a handful of dollars can reimburse your loss; but you are infinitely careless with the delicate rose of maidenliness, which, once faded, no summer shining can ever woo back to freshness, and with the unsullied jewel of personal reputation which all the wealth of kings can never buy back again, once lost. See to it that you preserve that modesty and womanliness, without which the prettiest girl in the world is no better than a bit of scentless lawn in a milliner's window, as compared to the white rose in the garden, around which the honey bees gather. See to it that you lock up the unsullied splendor of the jewel of your reputation as carefully as you do your diamonds, and carry the key within your heart of hearts.

"AMBER." If it were in order for us to Jackson County (Mo.) Schools.

Starting from Independence on Wednesday morning, October 10th, we had the pleasure of spending four days with county superintendent, W. H. Johnson, in the district schools of Jackson county. On Wednesday night we talked to the people of Buckner and vicinity, and on Thursday night to those of Oak Grove.

Wherever we went we found the people practically unanimous in their support of the schools. We found nearly all the country school-houses in fair condition, many of them as good as new, well furnished, well arranged, clean and attractive. In a few cases the walls were tastefully decorated with flowers, grasses, leaves and pictures. In perhaps one-third of the schools visited we found a small library of well selected books. These are proving valuable sources of interest and information.

Nearly all the teachers we met are vigorous, young people who are growing professionally. A majority of them are reading and studying educational and pedagogical literature, and are taking an interest in the discussion of methods of teaching in their township and county meetings. If the average holds good throughout, the country schools of Jackson county are in charge of teachers with an average experience of more than four years. The average number of pupils attending each school is about twenty-five. The largest school we saw had forty pupils; the smallest, sixteen.

With her excellent rock roads, rendering distance a minor consideration, and her intelligent, enterprising people, we believe that Jackson will soon have a rural high school within a few miles of every home in the county.

A few country districts are too small in enumeration and valuation to support a good school; while some others are too large for a one room school, and too weak financially to support two. An easy solution to these problems, where the roads are so good, is to enlarge the district in the one case sufficiently to support a good one room school, and in the other a two room school with a two years' high school course.

Jackson county schools give an emphatic, affirmative answer to the question, "Can country district schools be graded?" Superintendent Johnson has had charge of these schools long enough to affect a pretty thorough organization, graduation and classification. The results of his work are apparent in an increase of interest on the parts of parents, pupils and teachers, uniformity of work and articulation of district schools with schools of higher grade.

We found pupils of a certain grade doing practically the same kind of work in the several schools visited. In a few instances the teacher followed the book slavishly and the pupils seemed to take little interest; but this was the exception, not the rule.

make suggestion, we should say to the rural teachers of Jackson county: Get close to nature, make your teaching more concrete, more rational. Let the book be the "servant," not the master, and try to develop in your pupils independence of thought and expression.

We should say further: Procure, if possible, a few books on nature, literature, history and geography, and use them to supplement the work of the text, and to form in the children the reading habit.

L. J. HALL,
Ass't. State Sup't. of Schools,
JEFFERSON CITY, Mo., Oct. 23.

Kitchen Weights and Measures

A LIST THE COOK SHOULD KEEP CLOSE AT HAND OR COMMIT TO MEMORY.

Four teaspoonfuls of liquid make one tablespoonful.

Four tablespoonfuls of liquid, one gill or a quarter of a cup.

A tablespoonful of liquid, half an ounce.

A pint of liquid weighs a pound.

A quart of sifted flour, one pound.

Four kitchen cupfuls of flour, one pound.

Three kitchen cupfuls of cornmeal, one pound.

One cup of butter, half a pound.

A solid pint of chopped meat, one pound.

Ten eggs, one pound.

A dash of pepper, an eighth of a teaspoonful.

A pint of brown sugar, thirteen ounces.

Two cupfuls and a half of powdered sugar, one pound.—November Ladies' Home Journal.

We have ready for mailing the excellent article which has been running through the ENSIGN recently, from the pen of Elder T. C. Kelley, entitled, "The More Excellent Way." It is a booklet of sixty-eight pages, and we have placed the price at the lowest limit—ten cents each, postage paid—so that every one might be able to secure a copy. There should be a large demand for this work setting forth so clearly, as it does, the principles of the gospel, and logically disposing of many of the erroneous claims made as to church organizations of the day. It is a scriptural and reasonable presentation of the plan of salvation, and should be widely scattered as a means of introducing the gospel to others. Send in your orders. Address ENSIGN Publishing House, Independence, Missouri.

We are receiving orders for Bro. A. Hays' little book, "Sabatarian Theories a Delusion," a review of the arguments of the Seventh Day advocates. It is a useful little work, and we have heard only words of commendation for it. We can fill all orders, 15 cents each.

SAINTS who contemplate making Independence their home, or those already here, who desire to secure a lot in eligible, well situated property, would do well to see the Wilson Lawn addition, owned by Bro. Ellis Short and situated near Pacific Bridge, Independence.

FREE BLOOD CURE.

AN OFFER PROVING FAITH TO SUFFERERS.

Ulcers, cancers, eating sores, painful swellings, effects of blood poison, persistent eruptions, that refuse to heal under ordinary treatment, are quickly cured by B. B. B. (Botanic Blood Balm), made especially to cure all terrible, obstinate, deep-seated blood and skin troubles. Is your blood thin? Are you pale? All run down? Have you eczema? Bumps? Blotches and rashes? Skin or scalp humors? Boils? Eruptions? Skin itches and swollen? Aching bones? Rheumatism? Scrofula? Catarrh? To cure all these blood troubles take B. B. B. (Botanic Blood Balm), because it drains from the blood and entire system all the poisons and humors which cause all of these troubles, and the cause being removed, a permanent cure follows. All the sores heal and new, rich blood is made.

Everyone says that B. B. B. is the most wonderful blood purifier of the age; and no wonder, for it has cured the most deep-seated, obstinate cases (even the most deadly cancer) after doctors and patent medicines had failed. Thoroughly tested for thirty years and never known to fail. Our faith is so great in B. B. B., that we will send to any sufferer a trial bottle free, so that they may test the medicine at our expense. Large bottles for sale at the drug store for $1.00, or six large bottles (full treatment) $5.00. For free trial bottle enclose five cents which pays exact cost of postage (the medicine is free), and address Blood Balm Co., 80 Mitchell St., Atlanta, Georgia, and bottle and medical book will be sent, all charges prepaid. Describe your trouble, and we will include free personal medical advice. Write today.

NOTICE

To all who expect to buy or move to Independence with a view of residing here permanently:—I am prepared to furnish you with all the information needed in regard to real estate. If you will enclose stamp for reply. Now is a very good time to buy, values are at a very low ebb, and the Saints may as well take advantage of it.

Your brother,
W. S. LOAR.

GRAGELAND COLLEGE,
LAMONI, IOWA.

Send for Catalogue, to
I. W. ALLENDER, Secretary,
Lamoni, Iowa.

Learn Shorthand.

A Knowledge of Shorthand and Typewriting Will Enable You to Be Self-sustaining.

The Missouri Shorthand College of St. Louis, Mo., is one of the Leading Shorthand Institutions in the United States.

Persons intending the acquirement of shorthand and typewriting should select a responsible school, otherwise their time and money are wasted.

As success in shorthand is largely dependent on the teacher as well as pupil, it is absolutely necessary that instructors should be practical shorthand writers and no others are competent to teach. Benn Pitman system taught.

The Principal of "The Missouri Shorthand College" is John H. Schofield, the well known journalist and shorthand writer, and member of the National Shorthand Writers' Association. In order to show that he is a practical and recognized exponent of shorthand, reference letters are herewith published from leading educators:

Prof. E. Benjamin Andrews, now Chancellor of Nebraska University, and recently Superintendent of Chicago Schools, comments on his character and ability as follows:

Board of Education,
Office of Superintendent of Schools,
Chicago, Feb. 21, 1900.

Mr. John H. Schofield is well and favorably known to me as the successful director of a large shorthand college in Providence, R. I. I consider him not only one of the most expert practical shorthand writers whom I have ever known, but also an upright, honorable and perfectly trustworthy gentleman.

E. BENJAMIN ANDREWS,
Superintendent of Schools.

Commenting on Mr. Schofield's ability and character, President E. C. Robinson of Brown University, Providence, R. I., contributes the following:

Brown University, Providence, R. I.
I have known Mr. John H. Schofield for years as stenographic reporter for the Providence Journal. He work has given special satisfaction to all parties concerned. His character as a Christian gentleman has also commended respect, and I take pleasure in commending him to the confidence and good-will of all with whom he may meet or with whom he may have business relations.

E. C. ROBINSON,
President Brown University.

Brother Fabricjan, of La Salle College, Philadelphia, Pa., adds the following testimonial:

La Salle College, Philadelphia, Pa.
Mr. John H. Schofield: My Dear Sir:—It gives me much pleasure to say a timely word to bear witness to your character as a man, and your ability as a journalist and shorthand writer. I hope and pray that your efforts, in whatever channel you may choose to direct them, will be rewarded with the measure of success which your talents, your energy and your recommendations must win. You are, however, too well and favorably known to need this note or recognition from your very sincere and devoted friend,

BRO. FABRICJAN.

Those so situated that they cannot attend school sessions, taught by mail, as Principal John H. Schofield has had gratifying success by this method of teaching. Mail students who will devote two hours daily to practice, cannot fail to obtain a good general knowledge of shorthand in twenty weeks. This is a short time to acquire a profession that will enable persons to be self-supporting. Those who attend school generally graduate in about sixteen weeks, but that depends largely on the ability and general knowledge of the pupil. As a knowledge of shorthand is of no practical utility unless able to spell and compose correctly, students deficient in those lines are taught without extra charge. Shorthand and typewriting furnishes lucrative, as well as pleasant employment for both sexes, but more especially for young ladies, as there are always positions for those who are capable and competent.

Positions Secured
for Graduates. Instruction in Bookkeeping and full Commercial Course if Desired. Room and Board furnished pupils from abroad at moderate rates.

THE MISSOURI SHORTHAND COLLEGE,
No. 918 Pine St.,
ST. LOUIS, MISSOURI.

STATE SAVINGS BANK OF LAMONI,

Incorporated under the laws of the State of Iowa, July 1, 1893.

Offers depositors a safe bank for their savings, and solicits the correspondence and deposits of all kinds of funds, and will pay out interest per annum on any deposits. Send money by Bank Draft, or Express or Post Office order, or Registered Letter, or your private check on any bank in the United States, and direct your remittance to the State Savings Bank of Lamoni, Iowa. Upon receipt of funds a certificate of deposit will be issued and sent on return mail to the sender. This bank has facilities for handling a very large business and keeps all its funds invested in safe and profitable securities and has already received deposits from sixteen different states. All letters containing inquiries or business will be promptly answered.

List of Stockholders:—Wm. Anderson, Geo. H. Hilliard, Mrs. David Dancer, Miss Alice Dancer, Mrs. Ella D. Whitehead, Mrs. Lucy L. Resseguie, A. K. Anderson, W. A. Hopkins, Oscar Anderson, Frank Criley and Geo. W. Hiale.

DR. JOS. MATHER,
PHYSICIAN.

Office at Residence, 301 S. Spring St.,
INDEPENDENCE, MO.

CALLS ANSWERED NIGHT OR DAY.

Phone 190-3.

$495.

Will buy 4½ acres with four room cottage, barn, well, etc., in west Lamoni. Only a small payment required to secure this home, and it is a bargain for some one. Apply to Lock Box 7, Lamoni, Iowa.

Broken Bricks Braces.

Mr. Major, the famous cement man, of New York, explains some very interesting facts about Major's Cement.

The multitudes who use this standard article know that it is many hundred per cent better than other cements for which similar claims are made, but a great many do not know why. The simple reason is that Mr. Major uses the best materials ever discovered and other manufacturers do not use them, because they are too expensive and do not allow large profits. Mr. Major tells us that one of the elements of his cement costs $3.75 a pound, and another costs $2.65 a gallon, while a large share of the so-called cements and liquid glue upon the market are nothing more than six-cent glue, dissolved in water or etric acid, and in some cases, altered slightly in color and odor by the addition of cheap and useless materials.

Major's Cement retails at fifteen cents and twenty-five cents a bottle, and when a dealer tries to sell a substitute you can make depend upon it that his only object is to make larger profit.

The profit on Major's Cement is as much as any dealer could get to make on any cement, and this is doubly true in view of the fact that each dealer gets his share of the benefit of Mr. Major's advertising, which now amounts to over $5,000 a month throughout the country. Established in 1876.

Insist on having Major's. Don't accept any off-hand advice from a druggist. If you are at all handy (and you will be likely to find that you are a good deal more so than you imagine) you can repair your rubber boots and family shoes, and any other rubber and leather articles, with Major's Rubber Cement and Major's Leather Cement.

And you will be surprised at how many call on you for your cement. If your druggist cannot supply you, it will be forwarded by mail; other kind, free of postage.

SUBSCRIBE FOR THE
College City Chronicle

The Leading Local Paper of LAMONI, IOWA.
Published Weekly by the Chronicle Publishing Co.

Two Boxes of Quit-to-bac Cured Him.

"Kris, Okla., March 29, 1900.
"Bro. Ordway:—I have been enabled to quit tobacco after the use of two boxes of your antidote (Quit-to-bac). I have used tobacco for thirty years and both chewed and smoked plug tobacco.
"L. S. STALEY."
Three boxes of Quit-to-bac sent postpaid anywhere in the United States or Canada for only $1.50, with positive guarantee of cure or money cheerfully refunded. U. S. postage stamps taken. You run no risk, why not be free from this God-condemned habit? Address,
(Bro.) B. F. ORDWAY,
Peoria, Ill.

OLDEST. LARGEST. BEST.
35TH YEAR

SPALDING'S
COMMERCIAL COLLEGE.

(INCORPORATED)
East Wing, N. Y. Life Bldg., Kansas City, Mo.
Bookkeeping, Shorthand, Typewriting, Telegraphy, English Branches. Twenty Rooms. Sixteen Teachers and Lecturers. No Vacations. Practical Courses. Thorough Instruction. Rates Moderate. Free Catalogue.
FREE EMPLOYMENT BUREAU
Tel. 1174. J. F. Spalding, A. M., Pres.

CANCER CURED

WITH SUFFERING, BALMY OILS. Cancer, Tumor, Catarrh, Piles, Fistula, Ulcers, Eczema and all Skin and Womb Diseases. Dr. J. M. Taylor, 3000, Cass St., St. Louis, Mo. Write for Illustrated Book. Sent free. Address Cor. 9th and Broadway, KANSAS CITY, MO.

THEY ADMIT IT.

Bro. Hull, Chaucery, Ohio, says we saved him $12.00 on a $14.00 suit. Bro. Farrell, West Sullivan, Maine, writes that we saved him $5.00 on a $7.00 suit.
Youth's heavy three-piece suit, age 12 to 19, $3.50.
Goods are all sent prepaid.

MIEN'S SACK SUITS.
Black, all wool worsted Men's Suits, four button, round or square cut, 14 ounce $7.00, 16 ounce $8.75, 18 ounce $8.25, 20 ounce $8.75. Extra fine, strictly all wool Oxford steel gray, heavy; worth $18.00, price $9.00.

PRINCE ALBERT SUITS.
Same goods assacks, 14 oz. $9.50; 16 oz. $10.00; 18 oz. $11.00; 20 oz. $11.50. 14 oz. French Twill, Sacks, worth $18.00, price $9.00. Prince Alberts, worth $25.00, $13.50.

MEASUREMENTS.—Give size of bust around chest just under arms with coat off, size of waist, length of in seam of pant leg, your height and weight. Make all drafts, express and money orders payable at Seymour, Mo. Send all communications, letters, orders and registered letters to Cumorah, Mo. THE E. T. ATWELL CO., Cumorah, Mo.

D. F. NICHOLSON, H. C. NICHOLSON,
Cashier, Asst. Cashier.

COMMERCIAL BANK,
LAMONI, IOWA.

Ample responsibility. Five per cent interest paid on time deposits. Correspondence solicited. Farms and town property for sale.

R. R. TIME TABLES.

MISSOURI PACIFIC—MAIN LINE DEPOT.

TRAINS WEST.
No. 95—Wichita and K. C. Mail	12:49 a.m.
" 9—Kansas & Nebraska Lim.	4:34
" 93—Texas, Joplin & K. C. Ex.	8:15
" 3—St. Louis Express.	8:33
" 73—Lexington Branch Pass.	8:45
" 7—Past Mail	10:00 p.m.
TRAINS EAST.
" 81—Joplin and K. C. Mail	3:16
" 1—St. Louis Mail and Ex.	5:17
" 5—St. Louis Mail	5:55
" 71—Lexington Branch Pass.	6:45

No. 96—K. C. & Wichita Mail	2:52
" 72—Lexington Branch Pass.	6:53
" 6—St. Louis Mail	7:23
" 92—K. C. Texas & Joplin Mail	8:37
" 2—St. Louis Through Mail & Pass.	10:17 p.m.
TRAINS WEST.
" 78—Lex. Branch Passenger.	6:10
" 4—St. Louis Through Mail & Pass.	1:37
" 94—K. C. Tex. & Joplin Ex.	7:40
" 8—St. Louis Through Mail & Pass.	9:30
" 10—Kan. & Neb. Limited	11:12

LIBERTY STREET DEPOT.

TRAINS WEST.
No. 73—Lex. Branch Pass.	8:30 a.m.
" 71—" " "	8:40 p.m.
TRAINS EAST.
No. 72—Lex. Branch Pass.	8:55 a.m.
" 78—" " "	6:16 p.m.

CHICAGO & ALTON.
EAST BOUND.
" 101—Local Way Freight. 7:40
" 47—St. Louis & Chicago Mail 8:27 p.m.
No. 61—Chicago Limited 8:38
" 49—St. Louis Flyer 9:38 WEST BOUND
" 50—St. Louis Limited 6:55
" 62—Chicago Limited 9:38 p.m.
" 102—Local Way Freight. 2:20
" 48—Chicago & St. Louis Mail 5:50
All trains make regular stops. Through tickets to all points in the United States and Canada. For further information regarding rates, etc., call on
Tel. 29. J. W. DUGAN, Agent.
J. CHARLTON, P. P. T. Agt., Chicago.

CONFERENCE MINUTES.

The Fremont district conference convened at Saints' chapel, Thurman, Iowa, October 6th, Elder Henry Kemp was chosen to preside, Charles Fry secretary. Branches reported: Henderson, Riverton, Hamburg, Tabor, Shenandoah, Glenwood, Thurman. Ministerial reports: Elders G. Kemp, E. S. Wilcox, G. W. Needham, N. L. Mortimore, A. T. Mortimore, G. F. Walling, J. B. Clise, I. M. Smith, J. Comstock, J. C. Moore, F. Becksted, D. Hougas, T. A. Hougas, Wm. Leeka, H. Kemp. Priests L. C. Donaldson, J. B. Lentz, Jos. Roberts, C. Fry, E. Goodie, C. C. Case, A. J. Davidson, Jas. Vinnerd. Teachers S. Dyke, C. M. Roberts. Deacons E. F. Wilcox, S. S. Clark.

Wm. Leeka, bishop's agent, reported: On hand January 1st, $145.70; receipts, $204.85; total, $350.55; expenditures, $924.61; balance on hand, $55.95. An auditing committee reported the account correct.

A communication from the Tabor branch recommending the ordination of Charles Fry to the office of elder was adopted and ordination provided for. All those having missions were continued in the same. T. A. Hougas was elected to succeed himself as one of the trustees of the district tent.

Officers sustained: Daniel Hougas, president; Henry Kemp, associate president; Chas. Fry, secretary; Wm. Leeka was sustained as bishop; also other church authorities.

Preaching by Chas. Fry and Henry Kemp. Sacrament and social service Sunday afternoon, in which all profited. At the evening service Charles Fry was ordained an elder by Brn. H. Kemp and Wm. Leeka and was granted an elder's license.

Adjourned to meet at Shenandoah at a date to be set by district president and sub-missionary in charge.

CHARLES FRY, Sec.

TABOR, IOWA, Oct. 13.

The Kirtland district conference was called to order by associate president, F. J. Ebelling; W. H. Kelley was made chairman of conference, with F. J. Ebelling as his associate. Richard Baldwin was appointed associate secretary; Bro. C. B. Warner usher.

The following branches reported: Cleveland, Youngstown, Washingtonville, Kirtland, Conneautville, Blakes Mills and Akron, Ohio, and Sharon, Pennsylvania.

The following ministry reported: W. H. Kelley, G. H. Hilliard, J. F. McDowell, J. Cramer, Bro. Gordon, J. McConaughy, C. E. Warner, Richard Baldwin, John Baldwin, J. Hollibaugh, F. J. Ebelling, Abram Morgan, L. D. Ullom and O. J. Tary.

Bro. J. Hollibaugh and A. Morgan ordained to the office of priest.

Bishop's agent's report then read and on motion was held over to be audited at our next district conference, February 13, 1901.

Matter of disorganizing Youngstown and Toledo branches left in the hands of the missionary in charge.

Preaching Saturday evening by Bro. G. H. Hilliard. Sunday, 9 a. m., prayer meeting; preaching at 11 a. m. by W. H. Kelley; sacramental, 2:30 p. m. The Spirit of God was present and all made to rejoice 'in the gospel. Preaching Sunday evening at 7 p. m. by J. F. McDowell.

Question of meeting place of next district conference left in hands of district president.

Election of officers: F. J. Ebelling, president; Richard Baldwin, associate; W. J. Baldwin sustained district secretary; Eben Miller sustained bishop's agent.

W. J. BALDWIN, Sec.

100 Oakland Ave., Sharon, Pa., October 18.

Clinton district conference convened at Rich Hill, October 6, 1900. Missionary in charge, I. N. White, was elected to preside, assisted by district president, T. R. White; secretary, Vena A. Goff, assisted by Warren McKilwin.

Ministry reporting: Elders T. R. White, A. J. Roberts, A. A. Goff, F. M. Sharrack, H. L. Kinning, C. Quick, S. C. Andes, G. W. Beebe, Sr., A. Lloyd, Sven Swensen, C. P. Welch. Priests N. Stephenson, A. C. Silvers,

A. S. Leeper, S. C. Williams, C. H. Athey.

Bishop's Agent reported, cash on hand last report, $36.19; receipts, $201.81; expenditures, $233.83; balance on hand, $14.17. Found correct.

Branches reporting were: Rich Hill, Taberville, Walker, Nevada, El Dorado Springs, Veve, Wheatland, Lowry City; no reports from Deepwater, Tebo or Lebanon branches.

On account of discrepancies existing between branch reports and district records, it was ordered that each branch clerk bring or send his branch records to the district clerk at the next conference, for comparison.

The district treasurer reported $1.05 received as per capita tax. Resolution from the Wheatland branch requesting the next reunion to be held there was referred to the reunion location committee. The treasurer was authorized to defray the expenses of the missionary in charge.

The time and place for next conference was set for the last Saturday before the full moon in February at Coal Hill chapel.

Much encouragement was received by the counsel of Bro. I. N. White. The preaching and prayer services were spiritual, enjoining sacrifice and more righteous living on the part of the Saints, with promises of greater blessings to be poured out. All felt repaid for time spent in attending.

VENA A. GOFF, Dist. Clerk.

Convention Minutes.

Northern Michigan district Sunday School association convened at Beaverston, October 12, 1900. C. B. Irwin was elected district superintendent; H. J. Badder, assistant superintendent; C. B. Joice, secretary; Alice Jostelyn, treasurer; J. J. Cornish, J. H. Peters, J. A. Grant, delegates to General Association.

Adjourned to meet at Fork second Friday in June, 1901.

C. B. IRWIN, Supt.

C. B. JOICE, Sec.

The Massachusetts district Sunday School association will convene in Somerville, Massachusetts, Saints' church, November 10th, at 2:30 p. m., continuing over Sunday. A good program is under way. We hope to see a large attendance from every school in the district, especially teachers. Reports are requested to be sent to secretary one week in advance of convention.

M. C. FISHER, Supt.

O. V. HOLMES, Sec.

123 Sutton St.

PROVIDENCE, R. I., Oct. 16.

Far West District Religio convention met with the Delano branch, four miles north of Cameron, September 28th. Reports from officers show increased interest in the work; reports of locals show an increase in membership of sixty-eight, two locals. A committee on good literature for the district was appointed, Bro. Samuel H. Simmons, Cameron, Missouri, chairman. A called meeting on September 30th, passed resolution of condolence on the death of our late general secretary, Bro. J. C. Hitchcock.

WALTER W. SMITH, Pres.

SAM'L H. SIMMONS, Sec., pro tem.

CAMERON, MO., Oct. 11.

Convention of the Northeast Missouri district Sunday School Association met at the Pollock branch, October 5, 1900; Mary J. Richards, superintendent; D. L. Morgan, secretary, pro tem. Reports were had from Pollock, Bevier, Higbee and Salt River schools.

Treasurer's report was read and approved as follows: balance last report, $12.50; receipts, $3.41; expenditures, $3.98; balance, October 1, 1900, $11.93. Geo. A. Tryon, treasurer. Librarian, Wm. C. Chapman, reported asking to be released.

Superintendents Robt. Thruetley and D. L. Morgan reported. Bill of expense of assistant superintendent amounting to $4.92, was allowed and ordered paid.

The election of superintendent, which was deferred at last convention, was again deferred till next convention. Bro. D. L. Morgan was chosen chorister with Annie Williams as organist.

Sr. Allie Thorburn read a paper on, "What Should Be the Attitude of Parents Toward the Sunday School?" Bro. Morgan also read a paper on, "How Are the Sunday School and Religio Associated?" At night an entertainment program was rendered, consisting of songs, recitations, etc. Sunday School, Sunday morning at 9:30. A review was given by Joseph Tanner, when a collection was taken amounting to 1.05.

The convention then adjourned to meet prior to the next district conference and at the same place as conference.

D. L. MORGAN, Sec. pro tem.

Kirtland district Sunday School Association convened at South New Philadelphia, formerly Blakes Mills, Ohio, October 8th. Superintendent, assistant superintendent and secretary all being absent, Bro. Francis Ebelling was elected chairman pro tem., Sr. I. J. McMillen, secretary; Sr. Bessie Darst, organist. Short talk by Bro. Hilliard on the importance of Sunday School work and the training of young minds in the right direction. Report of secretary read and approved. Report of Kirtland, Ohio, Sunday School read and approved. A verbal report of Blakes Mills, Ohio, Sunday School by Bro. Charles Cramer. Bro. Dalberg, of Akron, Ohio, Sunday School; Bro. Tary for Wheeling, West Virginia, Sunday School; Richard Baldwin for Sharon, Pennsylvania, followed with short talks by Bro. Ebelling on the influence that children exert over their elders, and Bro. McDowell on the importance of the Sunday School relative to church work. Sr. Belle McMillen on importance of woman's work in the Sunday School. Sr. Cramer and others also spoke briefly.

The question, shall we adopt the international lesson text, was discussed, and the convention resolved that the use of our own lesson text be continued.

Bro. Dalberg asked the question, what benefits are derived by a Sunday School belonging to the Association? Bro. McDowell answered, showing that the same benefits were derived as for a branch to belong to a district conference, and then showed the benefits accruing from having a Sunday School Association. On motion the Akron, Ohio, Sunday School was admitted to membership in the association.

Officers elected: Bro. Richard Baldwin, superintendent by unanimous vote; Bro. Charles Cramer, assistant superintendent; Sr. Dora E. McFarland, Secretary; Sr. Sarah Baldwin, treasurer. Committee on program: Bro. Francis Ebelling, Charles Cramer, Mrs. Hattie Griffiths, Bessie Darst and Isabella J. McMillen. Bro. F. J. Ebelling chosen as chairman of committee.

Resolved, That the association work in the interest of the tent, to raise money for tent and equipments. Motion carried that when the association convenes in February, that the Sunday Schools go en masse. Resolved, That we meet as an institute, and that the place of meeting be left for the district officers to decide.

An interesting literary program was rendered in the evening by the Blakes Mills Sunday School, Sharon Sunday School not being represented as was expected, owing to the sad death of one of the scholars. Bro. Richard Baldwin gave the address of welcome; Bro. McDowell gave a very interesting talk of ten minutes duration. The most interesting feature in the evening's entertainment was a motion song by "Six Little Sunbeams." Adjourned to meet the last week in February, 1901, at place designated by district superintendent.

ISABELLA J. McMILLEN, Sec. pro tem.

GLENWOOD, Ohio.

NOTICES.

To the Saints of the Pacific Slope Mission, Greeting:—I hereby give notice that Bro. H. L. Holt will perform missionary work in the branches of the northern and central districts in harmony with the local authority. Bro. D. L. Allen will be associated with Bro. J. Davis in Washington, the remainder of the conference year.

The rest of the ministry will continue to labor in their present fields.

Two of our children are sick with scarlet fever; have been quarantined for five weeks and will be for some time. One of them is improving nicely, but the baby girl is not past the dangerous point.

All matters requiring my attention must be referred to those in charge of the respective fields, as I am not allowed to write while under quarantine.

I shall be glad to hear from you but will not be able to answer, so be patient in expecting a reply. Desiring an interest in the prayers of all, I remain,

Yours in gospel bonds,

G. T. GRIFFITHS.

PER LULU GRIFFITHS.

TEMPLE, Ohio, Oct. 19.

To Whom It May Concern:—The following is a list of names of scattered members of the Kingston branch: Barstia E. Casto, Mary E. Motter, Sarah E. Owens, Sarah Hall, Zelpha M. Rains, Louella W. Hill, Sarah A. Bond, Thomas King, Madge S. Bender, William L. Frost, Rebecca Ryerson, Samuel Ballinger, Mary J. Patchia, Isabelle Crouse, Elsie M. Branson, Phebe M. Colvin, Joseph H. Phillips, Anna Smith, Henry Colvin, Myrtle Smith, Elsie P. Colvin, Amy T. Smith, Ellsworth G. Carpenter, Laura Fuller, Joseph J. D. Craven.

The undersigned would be glad to hear from any or all of the above named persons, as the whereabouts of most of them are unknown to the officers of the Kingston branch. Would like to hear from them in regard to their spiritual condition. Come, Saints, please wake up and give an account of yourselves.

C. J. CRAVEN.

Teacher and Clerk of the Kingston Branch.

KINGSTON, Mo., Oct. 14.

Convention Notices.

The Philadelphia District Sunday School Association will meet in convention on November 3rd at Philadelphia, Pennsylvania. Business session at 4 p. m., at 6th and Huntingdon streets. A good time is being prepared for. Entertainment in the evening.

O. T. CURISTY, Supt.

E. B. HULL, Sec.

1248 Harold St., Philadelphia, Pa. October 14.

Notice of Committee on Improvements of Sunday School Association.

To all interested in the upbuilding of God's kingdom on earth:—The time is nearing when we must formulate our report and publish it, and feeling a deep anxiety that nothing that should be noticed in this report shall escape being noticed, we urge upon all individually, or as schools or district associations, to send to my address any suggestion for improvement of anything connected with the Sunday School work, with any friendly criticisms of any feature of the work as it is now being conducted, with suggested change for the betterment of that criticized.

By order of the committee, J. F. MINTUX, Chairman. Box A, Magnolia, Ia., Oct. 15.

Message of Sympathy.

Since our respected and beloved brother, John C. Hitchcock, has passed from the active duties of life to enter upon that more abundant life which God has for the faithful of his children, and

Since the place once filled by him in the home, in the church, in the Sunday School, and in our society is now vacant,

We, the Religio Society, of Lamoni, feel keenly the loss to our work, and sincerely sympathize with his companion and child, who, because of the near ties of love, must realize and mourn his departure most of all;

And we feel in our hearts the response to our Father's teaching, "Thou shalt live together in love, inasmuch that thou shalt weep for the

A PURE GRAPE CREAM OF TARTAR POWDER

DR. PRICE'S CREAM BAKING POWDER

Highest Honors, World's Fair
Gold Medal, Midwinter Fair

Avoid Baking Powders containing alum. They are injurious to health loss of them that die," while we find comfort also in his word, that death is sweet to them that die in him.

We seek to sustain our sorrowing sister with the strength of this assurance, and the brightness of this hope, and pray our heavenly Father in her behalf that he may be with her in her hour of trial, that she be not left utterly desolate.

It is well with our brother: may it also be well with our sister and child.

ANNA SALYARDS,

C. I. CARPENTER,

ROXANA E. ANDERSON.

For the Religio of Lamoni. Adopted September 28, 1900.
LAMONI, IOWA, Oct. 13.

DIED.

OLSEN.—In Nettie township, Grundy county, Illinois, October 15, 1900, of disease of brain and spine, Eva Ann, daughter of Mr. Jacob and Sr. Sarah Elizabeth Olsen, aged 10 years, 3 months and 23 days. For eight months she suffered much. Bro. and Sr. Austin Hayes were her grandparents. Bro. Henry A. Stebbins preached the sermon in the Kingston chapel, La Salle county, on the 17th, Bro. Thomas Hougas having charge.

TIME IS LIFE

The father? Gone for the doctor. The mother? Alone with her suffering child. Will the doctor never come? Where there is a cropp in the house you can't get the doctor too quick enough. It's too dangerous to wait. Don't make such a mistake again; it may cost a life. Always keep on hand a dollar bottle of

AYER'S CHERRY PECTORAL

It cures the croup at once. Then when any one in the family comes down with a hard cold or cough a few doses of the Pectoral will cut short the attack at once. A 25 cent bottle will cure a miserable cold; the 50c. size is better for a cold that has been hanging on.

Keep the dollar size on hand. "About 25 years ago I came near dying with consumption, but was cured with Ayer's Cherry Pectoral, since which time I have kept Ayer's medicines in the house and recommended them to all my friends."—D. M. THURGOOD, Jr., Bristol, Vt., Jan. 16, 1899.

Write the Doctor. If you have any complaining whatever and desire the best medical advice, write the doctor freely. Address
Dr. J. C. AYER, Lowell, Mass.

ZION'S ENSIGN.

"OUR CREED: ALL TRUTH."

VOLUME 11.

INDEPENDENCE, MISSOURI, THURSDAY, NOVEMBER 1, 1900

NUMBER 44.

ZION'S ENSIGN.

A Literary and Religious Newspaper, published in the interest of social, scientific and religious truth, every Thursday, at Independence, Jackson County, Missouri.

PRICE, $1.00 PER YEAR, IN ADVANCE.

ENSIGN PUBLISHING HOUSE,
Of the Reorganized Church of Jesus Christ of Latter Day Saints.

W. H. GARRETT, EDITOR.
J. W. LUFF, BUSINESS MANAGER.

Make all remittances, and address all communications to ENSIGN PUBLISHING HOUSE, Box B, Independence, Jackson County, Missouri.

New subscriptions can begin at any time.

If possible to avoid it, never send silver as it is liable to wear through the envelope and be lost. Always give the name of the post office to which your paper is sent or we can not find your name on our lists.

When desiring your address changed, give both the old and new address. Papers will be discontinued one month from the time subscriptions expire, unless ordered continued.

In making remittances, money orders are preferable for they are absolutely safe. If you can avoid it, do not send coin or stamps. Canadian stamps are not in the line, and Canadian currency is only worth ninety cents on the dollar to us, for that is all we can get for it at the banks. Letters should be addressed, and orders and drafts made payable to
ENSIGN PUBLISHING HOUSE,
Independence, Mo.

Box B.

KNOWING.

To have so distinct a knowledge of a matter as to be certain of ones position with regard to it, is both desirable and needful. Especially is this true in so important a question as that which concerns our future life and happiness. As much that passes for, and is called worship is but a lip service, while the affections of the heart are predominately worldly, and sensual, so much of that which is accepted as knowledge is purely and solely a belief, and thus is far short of actual truth. Knowledge is the truth, and the lack of it leads to error; it matters not how earnest one may be in his acceptance of an erroneous view, this honesty and integrity of purpose can never change an error into a truth. That is a philosophical impossibility.

Now while the truth of the plan of salvation is capable of being satisfactorily demonstrated to every individual who seeks it according to the rule by which it is governed, yet the sources of knowledge are not always open to the observation of others; that is to say, it is not always possible to demonstrate to others that one possesses that which he claims to have. For instance: every earnest individual, no matter what system of belief or philosophy he may espouse, if the name of Jesus Christ is the central tenet, has his connection with that form of doctrine because he believes it is Scriptural and justifiable; and will maintain that he is right, because the Spirit of God bears witness. Others just as honest, just as earnest and devout, believe the first to be in error, that he is deceiving himself, and so hold to a different form of belief, perhaps widely divergent from the other, and so believes, because he has the Spirit of God testifying to the correctness of his faith. Who is to decide between these claims?

The Holy Spirit comes as a personal witness, like the wind to which the Savior made reference in John 3:8, or like the elements of heat and cold. No one can impress another with the sensations pervading him, and it can only be understood or comprehended when, under the same influence, the same feelings are experienced by each; as the apostle says,

We having the same spirit of faith, according as it is written, I believed, and therefore have I spoken; we also believe, and therefore speak.—2 Cor. 1:13.

Or as he says on another occasion,

For what man knoweth the things of a man, save the spirit of man which is in him? even so the things of God knoweth no man, but [except he has] the Spirit of God.—1 Cor. 2:11.

This makes it plain to the simple mind that, when two or more are possessed of the same Spirit of truth, they will see and understand the principles of truth alike; likewise must it be true that when two or more possess the same spirit of untruth, they will see alike on the lines suggested by that spirit.

To whom ye yield yourselves servants to obey, his servants ye are to whom ye obey.—Rom. 6:16.

The Savior taught:
Ye shall know the truth, and the truth shall make you free.—John 8:32.

Here is a definite promise made by the Son of God, and therefore of the most absolute authority. "Ye shall know the truth." No reasonable ground here for the assertion sometimes made that no one can know now, as men and women once had opportunity of knowing, for God is no respecter of persons. But how is it possible to obtain the knowledge here promised? The verse preceding (v. 31) makes it very clear; ponder it carefully:

Then said Jesus to those Jews which believed on him, If ye continue in my word, then are ye my disciples indeed.

What more could be said to give emphasis to the simple plan of our heavenly Father through which knowledge, satisfactory and conclusive, shall be realized by the child of God: all that is needful is to continue in the doctrine which Jesus Christ, as the royal representative of the Supreme Power of all creation, taught and delivered to his disciples. But this continuing in His word, does not mean in a superficial, or incomplete sense—continuing in a part of what He taught, and disregarding at the will or teaching of any claiming priestly prerogatives, whatever of those teachings which men think and say are "nonessential"—Christ makes no exception, "If ye continue in my word then are ye my disciples indeed." "If ye do not continue in my word then are ye nor my disciples indeed," would be the language of the teaching as applied to those who failed to do "the will of the Father."

This, then, is the manner by which it may be ascertained who is in possession of the "Spirit of Truth." Those who abide "in the doctrine of Christ hath both the Father and the Son," and they manifest that they are Christ's by doing that which he did—doing the will of the Father—continuing in His doctrine; and those who do not so continue—abide in the doctrine of Christ—cannot have the knowledge promised and predicated, upon a faithful adherence to the principles of truth as laid down by the Lord Jesus Christ. Hence it surely follows that those who disregard the path which Jesus Himself trod, so far as the doctrines declared to be necessary to salvation, and the organization which He set up, are concerned, can at best only possess an assurance which comes from a belief that they are doing all that is required by the Savior.

Knowledge of divine or spiritual things, is the result of compliance with certain laws, which govern the spiritual realm. It cannot be sought out by man's inventions, for it is "spiritually discerned," and that which claims to be knowledge, if it has not been obtained through the channels ordained of God—the laws set to govern it—cannot be the truth, and is therefore unreliable. So then, if an individual says, "I know I am right, have been born again and am saved," while at the same time he is living under a broken law, rejecting baptism; for instance, or laying on of hands for the gift of the Holy Spirit, by those duly commissioned of the Lord, it is safe to conclude that the knowledge claimed is deceptive, and will result in disappointment and loss, in the end. It is safe to follow the Savior's example and instruction, for,

He that followeth me shall not walk in darkness, but shall have the light of life.—John 8:12.

HYPOCRISY UNPROFITABLE.

No one should be hypocritical anywhere, but especially in the church of Jesus Christ. It is both a folly and shame for any one to try to deceive their brethren, especially the officers of the church, when living in sin. That sin will surely find you out. God cannot be deceived and the hypocrite will be sure to reap a bitter reward. The church is established to assist men and women in doing right; in living pure, virtuous and upright lives; in building up a character that shall be acceptable to our heavenly Father, and thus prepare us to live in a realm of truth, and happiness forever. "The wages of sin is death." No escaping that fat. True repentance may be exercised so as to escape the results of a continuance, but the scars will show, when one has knowingly and wilfully sinned, even though it be forgiven, because of a repentance. When an individual knows he is doing wrong, and still persists in doing wrong, and at the same time seeks to hide his transgressions from the officers set in the church to guard the fair name of the church, as well as to save the erring, he adds to the heinousness of his transgression the sin of hypocrisy; but he seems to forget, astonishing as it is, that he cannot deceive the Lord, and his angel watchers. A wonderful blindness seems to take hold of individuals of this class, and they think if they can only keep it in the dark so the officers cannot get hold of it, they can continue holding membership in the church, and are safe. How awfully are they deceived. They overlook the declaration of the Scriptures, "Whosoever a man soweth, THAT shall he also reap." (Gal. 6:7); and that it is declared of the end of the hypocrite that his portion shall be among those whose habitation is where there is "weeping and gnashing of teeth." Job says "The joy of the hypocrite is but for a moment," and his condemnation will not tarry.

THANKSGIVING.

Thursday, November 29th, has been appointed by President McKinley a day of Thanksgiving by the nation for the blessings kindly vouchsafed by our heavenly Father during the past year. As law abiding, as well as a God-fearing people, the recommendation of the president of the United States should be respected and honored by the Saints, and so far as possible they should gather at their places of worship, and hold services consistent with the purposes of the day; the following is the Thanksgiving proclamation:

Washington, Oct. 29.—The State department today issued the following:

BY THE PRESIDENT OF THE UNITED STATES OF AMERICA—A PROCLAMATION.

It has pleased Almighty God to bring our nation in safety and honor through another year. The works of religion and charity have everywhere been manifest. Our country through all its extent has been blessed with abundant harvests. Labor and the great industries of the people have prospered beyond all precedent. Our commerce has spread over the world. Our power and influence in the cause of freedom and enlightenment have extended over distant seas and lands. The lives of our official representatives and many of our people in China have been marvelously preserved. We have been generally exempt from pestilence and other great calamities and even the tragic visitation which overwhelmed the city of Galveston made evident the sentiments of sympathy and Christian charity by virtue of which we are one united people.

Now, therefore, I, William McKinley, President of the United States, do hereby appoint and set apart Thursday, the 29th of November next, to be observed by all the people of the United States at home or abroad, as a day of thanksgiving and praise to Him who holds the nation in the hollow of His hand. I recommend that they gather in their several places of worship and devoutly give Him thanks for the prosperity wherewith he has endowed us, for seed-time and harvest, for the valor, devotion and humanity of our armies and navies, and for all His benefits to us as individuals and as a nation; and that they humbly pray for the continuance of His divine favor for concord and amity with other nations, and for righteousness and peace in all our ways.

In witness whereof I have hereunto set my hand and caused the seal of the United States to be affixed.

Done at the city of Washington this twenty-ninth day of October, in the year of our Lord one thousand nine hundred, and of the independence of the United States the one hundred and twenty-fifth.—William McKinley.

By the President, John Hay, Secretary of State.

EDITORIAL ITEMS.

OUR "Item" space is all occupied, and those who desire to report items from their respective branches, should put them in letter form, and they will appear in letter department as we have room.

In a recent note to the editor, Bro. H. A. Stebbins mentions the pleasing intelligence that the health of Sr. Stebbins continues to improve. All those who remember how low she was at the April conference this year will be gratified to hear of her improvement, and that her usefulness in the work, and in the home circle, is still continued. Bro. and Sr. Stebbins were to return home Monday last.

An entertainment was announced by the Chicago Saints for October 31, at the hall corner Van Buren street and Winchester avenue, in that city. A very interesting program was prepared consisting of solos, instrumental and vocal readings, tableaux, etc. A fine orchestra was engaged to assist, and from the names on the list, we are confident that every number was a pleasure to hear. We trust the patronage was as satisfactory as the program and participants were excellent, and that the work in Chicago will be materially assisted as a result.

EXTRACTS FROM LETTERS.

SR. SARAH HILL, Westend, Illinois:
I could not do without the ENSIGN, not having the privilege of attending any of our meetings. If any of the Southern Illinois missionaries are traveling this way, come to my house, they will be welcome. We will try to get a house, believing there are lots of honest people here who would obey the gospel.
www.LatterDayTruth.org

GENERAL CHURCH NEWS.

INDEPENDENCE.

Bro. W. T. Bozarth will preach at the morning service next Sunday.

An interesting priesthood meeting was held Monday evening, and matters of importance to the interests of the work were discussed.

Brn. R. J. Parker and J. C. Foss returned home this week, some matters here requiring their presence. The wet weather and bad roads have interfered with meetings.

Religio prayer meeting Friday evening (tomorrow), subject "Apostasy and Pride." Let there be a full attendance and hearty response in considering the subject. Think it over carefully.

The carpenters were to commence the work in the church this Thursday morning, preparatory to putting in the furnaces. It will require about twenty days to complete the work, but it is not thought that the services will be interfered with.

Sr. Bowker lost a black cashmere shawl about four weeks ago, while attending the morning service. It has fringe on two sides and a mended place on one corner. Any one having found it, or knowing where it may be found, will confer a favor by informing our sister.

Mr. Herman Farris, of Clinton, Missouri, lectured at the stone church, Tuesday evening, in the interest of temperance and the Prohibition party. He is a fluent speaker and was listened to very attentively throughout, though the audience was very slim, owing to the rain which came down copiously about the time for the meeting.

Sunday was again rainy and disagreeable, but a good sized audience listened to an excellent sermon by Bishop G. H. Hilliard, on the responsibility attaching to the Saints in warning the sinner and the righteous. At night Bro. B. J. Scott occupied very acceptably, though the audience was quite small, owing to the rain. The afternoon service was most excellent.

We have the sad intelligence of the death of Bro. Thomas B. Rice, at Clinton, Missouri, October 26th. The Brn. White speak of him, after many years of association, as a man of sterling character, and Bro. M. G. Maudsley writes of him as being known as a very exemplary brother. Our sympathies are tendered those bereaved in the loss of a kind husband, father and brother, and to the community in which he lived so long, in the loss of a good man and citizen.

Next Monday evening the regular business meeting of the branch will be held. At this meeting there will be an election of officers for the ensuing term. Let every one come prepared to remain until all the business is completed. You can surely make this sacrifice in the interest of the cause once in six months, even if you are detained a little late. Very few think it a hardship to remain at a reception or party until eleven or twelve o'clock any time. Let us try to be consistent and when the Lord's business is under consideration, don't get impatient and go home before it is all finished.

Next Sunday has been designated by the pastor as a day of fasting and prayer, for a greater earnestness and deeper consecration to the service of the Lord, that the Saints may make that preparation by which the greater blessings promised therein may be realized. The morning and midday meals should be abstained from as far as possible. Those who are weak and sickly should partake of a little nourishment, sufficient to meet the necessity, but should deny themselves a full meal so as to make the offering according to their strength. Let there be a general compliance with this request for the benefit and blessing of the body, and for the advancement of the work here.

Bro. A. J. Headlee, wife and stepdaughter, Miss Dora Walker, arrived in Independence overland, last week. Having had a desire the past two years to be baptized, which, owing to distance from the Saints, they had not had opportunity, Mrs. Headlee and daughter made request to have the ordinance performed here, the daughter a life-long but patient sufferer from curvature of the spine, expressing the thought that she would not long survive; arrangements were made and on Tuesday Bro. H. H. Robinson administered the rite in Shultz's pond. They were confirmed at Bro. Robinson's house in the evening, Bro. Robinson and the pastor officiating. Wednesday morning Sr. Walker passed away very peacefully at the home of Bro. and Sr. Robinson, the funeral taking place this Thursday morning, from the church, Bro. Robinson preaching the sermon. It seems her life was prolonged until she could obey the Lord's commands, when, at the call of her Lord, she gently fell asleep in Him, to awaken in resurrection happy and free from pain. The sympathies of the Saints are extended to Bro. and Sr. Headlee in their bereavement.

LAMONI, IOWA.

Sunday was quite a dismal day, a slow rain set in early in the morning and it continued more or less during the day. Many were kept from services. Apostle J. R. Lambert discoursed to the Saints at 10:30, and Elder J. C. Clapp at 7:30. Elder M. F. Gowell spoke at the Home.

The Sunday School classes are planning how they will earn their Christmas offering. Sr. Columbus Scott's class has already had a "sewing bee," and Sr. Vida Keown's class gave a "Hard Times" social in the hall last Friday evening, which was largely attended.

Colds and sore throats have been prevalent among children the last two weeks, but all are recovering nicely.

The Wednesday night prayer meeting last week at brick church was very well attended.

indeed. The time was well spent in testimony, song and prayer.

The Book of Mormon class at Saints' Home, in charge of Bro. Will Mather, is becoming quite interesting; about twenty-five were present last Tuesday evening.

Sr. T. R. White, of Lowry City, Missouri, arrived Saturday night and will remain about a week visiting.

Apostle J. W. Wight returned home last week.

Sr. Emma Franks and Bro. Clark Brower, from Colorado, one of Graceland College students, were baptized last Wednesday.

We failed to mention last week that Bro. Gilbert J. Whitehead had returned to St. Joseph on account of ill health. He has moved his family to Severance, Kansas, where he will go into business. G. L. K.

October 30.

ST. LOUIS, MISSOURI.

Places of worship: Rock Church, Glasgow avenue and Dickson street; services: Wednesday evening, prayer service; Sunday, Sabbath School 9:30 a. m., preaching 11 o'clock a. m., social service 2:30 p. m., preaching at 8 p. m.; Cheltenham, 5731 Manchester Ave., services, Sunday School, 10 a. m., social meeting 2:30 p. m., preaching 7:30 p. m.; Oak Hill, Sunday School 9:30 a. m., and services at 2:30 and 8 p. m.

Bro. Dave Hilliard and Bro. and Sr. Dukes, of Collinsville, Illinois, were among our visitors lately.

The young people of the Cheltenham Religio enjoyed a social evening at the home of Bro. Earl Poid, Saturday last. We are sure they had a splendid time. Bro. Joe Jaques, of Belleville, came over for the party.

Two of our members met with accidents lately; Bro. O. O. Randall had a heavy box fall upon his foot, somewhat crippling him, and Bro. Jim Lloyd was thrown from a wagon; the horse he was driving became frightened, and as a consequence he is confined to the house, with his foot in a plaster of paris bandage.

Bro. and Sr. R. B. Trowbridge have returned from their eastern trip; they were welcomed by their many friends, Sunday.

Sr. Sarah Cooke, and Emma, daughter of Bro. Gordon Smith, are on the sick list.

Bro. A. Allen was our speaker, morning hour, assisted by Bro. Billinsky.

It can now be taken for granted that after this there will be a Sunday School business meeting the last Tuesday of every month.

Sr. Crawford and a lady friend were attendants at the afternoon service yesterday.

The social service was in charge of Brn. Billinsky and Barraclough. From its beginning there was an activity that was, doubtless, pleasing to the Father, for the meeting was full of that quiet, peaceful, uplifting and strengthening influence, which benefits and cheers; at its close there was a feeling which made us wish to leave the room with sandals cast aside, for the place was holy. Bro. Allen addressed the Saints at 8 p. m., Bro. John Billinsky in charge.

Sr. Curtis and her husband were among the audience Sunday night; we were also pleased to see a number of strangers in attendance.

The choir delighted us with two new anthems yesterday, what subtle and unspeakable delight comes to us down the avenues of music; truly, as the words say, "He helpeth the weak hearted." ETTA.

October 29.

CHICAGO, ILLINOIS.

Branch headquarters, 716 W. Van Buren St., Sunday meetings 2:45 and 7:45 p. m.; Lang Mission, 3411 Cottage Grove Ave., 10:45 a. m. and 7:30 p. m.; West Pullman branch, 748 119th St., 10:30 a. m. and 7:30 p. m.; 608 W. 37th St. (colored mission), 10:30 a. m. and 7:30 p. m.

Bro. F. M. Pitt occupied at the mission yesterday morning with fair liberty, on the subject of "The great image." He spoke also at 716 Van Buren street at 3 o'clock to a good audience. Bro. S. C. Good occupied at the evening hour at headquarters and Bro. E. J. Lang at the mission. The Saints are reported as feeling well and the services were of an encouraging nature.

Sr. A. F. Daily and daughter arrived from Pingree, Michigan, to make their home in our great city. We hope for them success.

The elder is undergoing a dental operation which will result in a complete renewal of the dentals. In the midst of the operation we were severely attacked by the "grippe" or something of that nature, which has held us a prisoner for near a week, most of the time on the bed; but by the tender nursing of an angel wife, the prayers of the Saints, the kindness of (Bro.) Dr. Reise, I find myself this morning growing better. This will explain to the Saints our absence from their hearthstones in pastoral calls. As we grow able we expect to occupy to the extent of our strength.

Dr. J. A. Reise has written a tract on "Bible sanctification" and at considerable personal expense had it printed. Samples can be had on application, or 10 cents a dozen by sending to the writer. The proceeds go for gospel work.

Bro. G. H. Graves' mission is still at the same number 508 37th street, but is on second floor instead of the first. Bro. H. C. Smith made the arrangement when here.

J. M. TERRY.

395 Ogden Ave., Oct. 29.

DENVER, COLORADO.

Church, corner of 22d and Arapahoe Sts. Services Sunday—Sunday School at 9:45 a. m.; preaching at 11 a. m. and 7:30 p. m.; sacrament service the first Sunday in each month at 6 p. m. Prayer meeting Wednesday evening. Zion's Religio-Literary Society Friday evening.

The weather is better than if we had the ordering of it ourselves, dry and warm with no prospect of change for the worse.

Bro. James Chesley, formerly of Little Sioux, Iowa, but of late of Larkspur, Colorado, has moved with his family to Denver.

Sr. Eliza Bratton, of Husted, is visiting her sister, Sr. Brannan. Bro. Alma B. Hansen Sundayed in the city on his way to Lamar to assist Bro. Duncan in gospel work at that place.

Elder R. C. Evans made a short call in the city on his way west, Thursday and Friday of last week. By the way, if these elders passing back and forth through Denver, do not arrange to stop over Sunday, there is going to be trouble; all ye please take notice.

Bro. Roush, with the branch officers, has been doing some pastoral work the past week, the fruits of which were manifested at the Sunday morning service.

The singing Sunday, especially in the morning, was fine. Bro. Gilbert is training the singers, and prospects are that we will have the choir of the city in the near future.

The church was fairly well filled Sunday morning to hear Elder J. R. Roush on the subject of "God's law the only rule of church government."

A good attendance at the evening service when Bro. Alma B. Hansen discoursed on the character of the plates of the Book of Mormon and their translation. S.

SAN FRANCISCO, CALIFORNIA.

Services at Golden West Hall, 320 Post street, every Sunday. Sunday School 10 a. m., preaching 11 a. m. and 7:30 p. m.; prayer meeting first Sunday of each month at 12:15 noon. Elder C. A. Parkin presiding elder, residence 3010 16th street.

Our Sunday School still holds its sessions every Sunday at 10 o'clock. It is quite well attended, and is doing good work, teaching both old and young the things of the kingdom.

At 11 a. m. Elder J. B. Price was the speaker. His remarks were much enjoyed by the Saints and friends who filled our place of worship, and were attentive listeners.

Chas. A. Parkin preached at Berkeley at 11 a. m., and at Oakland at 2 p. m., enjoying good liberty on both occasions.

Elder Geo. Daley, president of the Sacramento branch, was in attendance at our morning service.

At 7:30 p. m. Elder J. H. Anthony preached on the evidences in favor of the Book of Mormon. It was quite an able discourse.

There was a good attendance at the Wednesday evening prayer meeting, and a peaceful, pleasant time was had. It was an hour well and profitably spent.

There was a larger crowd than ever at the Religio Friday evening, thirty-three being in attendance. The house was filled to overflowing. The Lookout committee must be doing good work.

A. M. Chase has gone to Oregon. Sr. Chas. E. Crumley and family are here, on their way to the same place, to join her husband. They will live there for the time being. F. B. Blair is at Santa Rosa. Bro. Allen is at Seattle.

We are having lovely weather now between the rains. It has not been very wet as yet, only enough rain to wash the air and purify the atmosphere.

Politics are getting ripe and stump speakers are growing more plentiful as election day approaches. Crowds listen to their harangues while the gospel is neglected by them. We are still holding the fort, nevertheless.

Geo. S. LINCOLN.

October 20.

LETTER DEPARTMENT.

WILDERSVILLE, Tenn., Oct. 14.
Editor Ensign:—We are a few Saints who are trying to serve the Master. I am sorry that we, as Saints, can't have our church privileges as we ought, but that is no reason why we should not keep the laws of the Father, though it seems hard to think that the real law of Jesus Christ would be objected to; but the good book, the Bible, tells us that the things of God are foolishness unto men. Of course that explains that the law of Christ is foolishness to man unless he has been born of the water and of the Spirit (John 3: 5), been regenerated, then he becomes subject to the laws of Christ.

O, says one, I know I have been changed, been born of the water, been regenerated. Then why should such people reject the laws of Christ? Because the who does not keep the commandments does not live (John 14: 23); oh, "He that saith, I know him, and keepeth not his commandments, is a liar, and the truth is not in him." (1 John 2: 4). So it is with every one who says, "I know I have had a change of heart, I have been regenerated," and does not keep the commandments. James 1: 22 says, "Be ye doers of the word and not hearers only." Was not Abraham justified by works? If we have faith and not works, our faith is dead, being alone. (James 2: 17).

I cannot see how anyone can claim to believe the New Testament and not keep its teachings. If any are christians they should let their light so shine, that others may see their good works, that it may be pleasing unto them. O, that the Saints of this neighborhood might show this by their good works that it would draw others, and cause them to obey the angel's message. May God so bless us all, that we may be enabled to lay the plan of salvation before others that they may be partakers of this gospel. I cannot see why anyone should object to the same laws of Jesus Christ, that were kept by the apostles and saints eighteen hundred years ago, why is not the same law good now? There is nothing wrong with such a law being kept today.

Yours in the one faith,
W. B. RUSH.

DOW CITY, Iowa, Oct. 23.
Editor Ensign:—As it has been a long time since I penned a letter for your columns you will perhaps pardon me for writing now. The Herald and Ensign are both filled with encouraging letters, sermons, good articles and valuable information. When one reads them carefully it seems strange that any family of Saints should be without them. They are of special worth to scattered Saints and their friends as well as to all others. To understand the development of the work and its present needs it is of the utmost importance that they should be carefully read. They help us give a consistent reason for the hope within us. May their field of usefulness widen and their power for good increase "until the dawning of the perfect day."

The citizens of our town seem to be pleased that there was such a strong vote in favor of holding the next reunion at Dow City, and all those who attended this fall seem to think that we had an excellent reunion, and that the attendance will be much larger next fall, if all goes well.

We have had some lovely weather in these parts since the close of the reunion, though rain has been falling the greater part of the time during the last three days. The Holy Spirit is enjoyed by the Saints and the gifts are received to the encouragement of all. The power and blessings of God are enjoyed by His people when they make a reasonable effort to discharge their duties and live in harmony with the gospel of Christ.

Surely there is nothing which brings so much joy and satisfaction to the soul; nothing that gives such a living assurance of the life to come and the glories of the Saints' eternal home, as the revelations of the Holy Spirit to those who walk with God. We should, each and all, make a reasonable effort to warn our neighbors that they with us might rejoice in the truths and power manifest in this restored gospel. It would be well for the lay members as well as the minister to remember the beautiful statement found in section three in the Book of Covenants, as follows:

"And faith, hope, charity, and love, with an eye single to the glory of God, qualifies him for the work. Remember, faith, virtue, knowledge, temperance, patience, brotherly kindness, godliness, charity, humility, diligence."

Love makes all nature bloom afresh,
 And gives new life to hearts of flesh;
 Love makes the eyes to sparkle bright,
 And lights each soul with heavenly light.

Love makes the sun more lovely seem,
 And brightens up the pale moon's beam;
 Love makes the stars to sparkle
 In the firmament of heaven.

And fills this world with God's pure light.

Love helps us see our Father's hand,
 In all that meets our world so grand;
 Love reaches yet beyond the veil,
 Where life and love shall never fail.

Love makes the home a blessed place,
 Where love beams bright from every face;

Love gives the housewife health and cheer,
 And makes our children seem more dear.

Love gives the hearth a brighter glow;
 The Christian's life a deeper flow;
 Love gives the rose a brighter hue,
 And teaches Saints just what to do.

Love helps us to perform our part,
 Without a fear of Satan's dart;
 Love makes a heaven here below,
 And helps us in God's favor grow.

Love parts us to the veil above,
 And makes us know that God is love;
 Love helps us see our Father's hand,
 And makes us know that life is grand.

When gospel love is in the soul,
 It helps us press toward the goal;
 By it we see our Father's hand,
 And know His favor still is mine.

Love helps us to endure in faith,
 And by it we shall win the race;
 Love makes this earth a blessed place,
 And draws to us God's smiling face.

Yours in bonds,
CHARLES E. BUTTERWORTH.

OLD FAR WEST, Kerr P. O.,
 October 18.

Dear Ensign:—We closed our meeting at Far West, Sunday 14th; they were well attended to the last, there being one hundred and fifty present the last night; good interest and a fine feeling among the people. We have made many friends for the work, and will surely be able to baptize some; several are investigating.

We have been here thirty days, and today we store the tent away at Bro. Samuel Simmons', north of Cameron. This will close the tent work for 1900 in Far West district. May God bless the work in the waste places.

Your brother in gospel bonds,
WALTER W. SMITH.
 STEWARTSVILLE, Mo.

ZENA, I. T., Oct. 18, 1900.

Editor Ensign:—I have just arrived home once more from a trip of 1,118 miles traveled by buggy and alone. Opened six new places and baptized five. I labored nearly all together in new fields, was well treated by everybody and especially at Cove, Arkansas. The Cove branch is a model, such system, order and unity I have never seen before; our worthy Bro. A. L. Newton, is president, the right man in the right place. Such kindness as I have received on this trip I shall never forget. I did not want for anything.

It may seem useless to some for me to make such trips as this, but I have labored so long within fifty miles square, and there are plenty left there to do the work any way, there being four conference appointees within thirty miles square besides the local elders and priests who are all at work; so I thought I had better step out a ways and examine the picket line, and hope I have done nothing wrong in so doing.

In my travels I have found some wanting the gathering to take place at once; they have been waiting for a home long enough; others trying to lay up something to help when the time comes; some looking for great things to transpire and haven't seen just what they wanted to see and are restless. Bro. Griffith's letter in a back paper, explained everything just right to my mind. The pure in heart, if this call was made, how many are ready? Some who haven't anything want to lay it all down at the bishop's feet. If any one has anything to dispose of in this way, I am satisfied the bishop would receipt them.

I know four years ago, when I was first ordained I was like most of all young pigeons, bigger when first hatched than will ever be again; but I found the best remedy was to pull a few feathers out of the wings of my imagination, and stick them in the tail of my judgment, and learn to fly better. The order of Epoch in Doctrine and Covenants is all right, and needs no fixing by me; the only thing is to fix my life to fit it. Gen. 4: 7 would be good for every one to read. We can't rush anything that pertains to God's work, only prepare ourselves which will bring it about quicker than anything else we can do. There is to be a resurrection of the dead too, but that is God's business and none of ours; because there is to be such a thing as the resurrection, that fact will not justify us to act like a pack of wolves and dig up the dead before the time of the resurrection.

Of course this is my view, hope it will not offend any one else whose views are not like those I have expressed. May God help us, and may we all help ourselves to see more alike.

May this good work roll on and on, until the battle is won.
 Your brother,
W. H. SMART.

CASHION, Okla., Sept. 2.

Editor Ensign:—I have been looking for a letter from Oklahoma, ever since the reunion, so I thought that I would note down a few lines. It is with pleasure that we recall the ten days spent in camp, and the benefits derived from it. The "family" table, from the general verdict, was a success and that we must have it established at our next reunion; I think the advantage gained, in excess of all that could be said against it. There were several in attendance who couldn't have come if they had been forced to get up a camp of their own. I think that one reason we had such good meetings, and the sisters were able to get the benefits of the meetings as well as the men; financially it was a success, 65 cents per meal, and I think that it could be furnished for less than that, but those who go must have a desire to please and to be pleased, and not to be too easily offended, for it is impossible to have everything in a camp that one would like to have at home.

The preaching was good and well appreciated by all, and the prayer meetings were good and enjoyed by everyone. I think that what we lost at home financially, was more than paid spiritually, and those who staid at home were the losers; especially those Saints who are isolated, missed one of the feasts of the year, "spiritual feast." I hope that we may grow in knowledge of this latter day work.

Your brother in Christ,
Geo. M. HILES.

LINDSEY, Pa., Oct. 15.

Editor Ensign:—We are few in number, myself and wife came to this place three years ago; there were three more added by baptism and are doing good; Elder A. H. Parsons did the baptizing. We have started a Sunday School, 17 teachers and pupils enrolled. We also have prayer meeting in our house Sunday and Wednesday evenings. There are some who are investigating this work, and two that I know of who will obey when an elder comes this way. I have written to some brothers at Fayette trying to get Bro. J. F. McDowell's address, and I also wrote to a brother in Wheeling, West Virginia, and still no answer from any one. Either they are too busy in other matters or are sleeping soldiers in the army of the Lord.

At times I have neglected to live as I should, but I do want to live right in the sight of the Lord. I will do all I can to make an elder feel at home, and will bear part or all of his expenses as I am well aware of the hardships an elder is put to, and know it takes money to ride on the trains as the conductor "counts his worthies." I ask a prayer in our behalf.

I think there would be a great deal of good done if a good live elder would come and do preaching for ten days or two weeks and make my home his home. I hope and pray that this will come to the notice of the district officers, and that some one will come before cold weather sets in.

Yours in the faith and love for all the Saints,
W. F. BEAM.

CENTRALIA, Nemaha Co., Ks.,
 Oct. 12.

Dear Ensign:—Many times have I thought I would write to your columns, but would think, why should I take the space of more able writers, for I love to read the letters. It is encouraging to read of the prosperity of the church, how the Saints are being blessed in this gospel work. Though we are sheep without a shepherd, and have not the privilege of meeting with God's people, and receiving of His blessings it is encouraging to know He is not partial, and will bless His people everywhere alike if they live for His blessings.

I have not had the privilege of meeting with the Saints in prayer meetings since last December. That seems a long time without feasting at the Lord's table, as it were, for when we meet in a right way, we receive such great blessings that it is a feast to our souls.

We are but few in this place and it seems not enough have that desire, so we are deprived of that blessing. I do pray God will pour out his Spirit on us few Saints that we will have a stronger desire to do his will. We have to stand much persecution in this place all because we started a Saint Sunday School last summer. The Methodists are building a church here, and they make their brags that we can't use it. The people have two preachers here, one is a Methodist, the other I don't know what he belongs to, but I think the Methodist preacher has caused the people to have more hatred in their hearts than they ever had before. I pray that we may be able to endure all things for Christ's sake; that the dark clouds may roll away and brighter days will come for us; that we may lead lives worthy to be called Saints, and that we may not bring any stain upon the church, that when we are called to depart this life we may be worthy to dwell with his chosen ones. Pray for us, dear Saints.

Your sister in Christ,
Mrs. AGIE BROOKS.

VOLINA, Ala., Oct. 15.

Dear Ensign:—Since my return from the hospital, instead of improving in health, I have, as I have before made mention, suffered terribly in various ways. Besides the lung trouble, which is very severe, I am still having chills and fever every day, saying but little of the hard convulsions, dyspepsia, severe headache and many other such pains. With all this I feel thankful that I am not confined to bed all the time, but an unable to walk two hundred yards, owing to pains in limbs, etc., being so severe. With all this I feel that in some ways I have been greatly blessed and this is a little encouraging.

My afflicted, sympathetic father seems to possess love of both father and mother, and is ever ready in an affectionate, patient way to watch after me, while my stepmother's smiles and kind words and offers are ever gladly received by me, saying, "but little of my affectionate little half brother and sister, who seem ever ready to befriend 'poor sick sister,' and inquire if there is anything they can do for me.

Neighbors are also so kind and generous; while dear, precious Saints, whom I have never met, have caused me to spend many pleasant hours in reading their highly appreciated, encouraging letters, and often looking over their much prized gifts; such favors as I often wish I was able to return, to prove my appreciation of the same. I am now making mention of darling Sr. Newberry, of Rhode Island, and Sr. Patience Remington, of St. Louis, Missouri; Sr. S. J. Ribble, of Ohio; Sr. Eliza Shaw, F. H. Cowen and M. H. DuMeid, of Missouri; Sr. B. Day, M. E. Russell and Myrtle Elliot, of Iowa; Sr. A. Page, M. A. Flory and E. Pickles, of California; Sr. E. L. Chedell, M. C. Farce and Susie, of Rhode Island; and Sr. E. Weise, of Idaho, and kind Sr. Schwartz, of Nebraska, with many others from whom I feel ever delighted to hear, even if I am unable to answer their encouraging letters. I trust that each dear Saint will remember my condition and forgive my seeming negligence. It seems impossible to persuade kind neighbors to accommodate me in this way, as education doesn't seem plentiful, and neither can bear the idea of exposing their ignorance to those they have never met; and stepmother is unable as housework, etc., is so plentiful, time scarce, and no servant to assist, and me not allowed to aid in any thing, even when I strive to stay out of bed and hover around the heater the entire day.

I trust that all elders and Saints will ever remember me in their prayers, as my main desire is to be prepared to go when I am called, which I feel sure is near. My craving desire is for more faith, patience, charity and strength to overcome my many evil, sinful ways. How I wish some kind elder would call by occasionally, and I could be administered to, as I feel so anxious to be relieved of the same severe affliction which was suffered by the boy of whom we are told in Mark 9: 17-22, before consumption, etc., force me to bid farewell to all.

Uncle Sam Page, of Bay Minette, has been visiting us, and caused papa and I to feel better by telling us how he expects Bro. Turpen to visit us ere long, and how I hope this will soon come to pass, and that he, with other kind elders, can visit us. Our home is now twelve miles from Evergreen, and seven miles east of Castleberry, which is a small town almost midway between Mobile and Montgomery. Well I must close as good news is so scarce and me feeling so badly. With much love to all, and a quantity of good wishes, etc., to Sr. E. J. McCullough and M. S. Howery, I am as ever,
 Your devoted sister,
JENNIE PAGE.

GALENA, Kans., Oct. 9.

Editor Ensign:—I want to say that I am enjoying this great latter day work; I know that it is of God for I have had many testimonies of it before I came in it, and also since I obeyed the gospel. I am not two years old in the church until the 19th of February, and I think that it is the grandest thing out. I am fifty years old and have thrown away my time since eighteen years of age in other churches, first in the Missionary Baptist, and then in the South Methodist, but never found perfect satisfaction until I found it in this great latter day work; and I just want to say that in order to show to the world that the prop is knocked out from under the Seventh Day Adventist, a few months ago, I, from some cause, was led to ask the Lord in regard as to whether we were keeping the proper day for the Sabbath, and an angel of the Lord appeared unto me in a dream and told me to give myself no uneasiness for we were keeping the right day since the day of Christ, and it is today that I am so wonderfully impressed to write this to the ENSIGN.

I want to say that God blesses me in visions and spiritual dreams, and my desire is to ever be faithful in doing what the Lord has assigned me to do. I want to be instrumental in the hands of God in bringing souls to Him. I and all that I have is for the work. I stand alone in this work; I haven't a relative in the work; and I desire the prayers of all the Saints that I may live so humble and so submissive to God, that the rest of my folks may soon come in, and this is my prayer that all of the Saints will live faithful, in order that we may be permitted to come up higher. I remain one in the faith of the great latter day work.
Mrs. N. E. WILLIAMS.

ZION'S ENSIGN.

Entered at the Post-Office at Independence, Mo., as Second Class Matter.

A POPULAR CHURCH.

Weighed in the Balance and Found Wanting.

ELDER FREDERICK GREGORY.

CONTINUED.

The manner of ordaining priests is much the same as making of deacons, so we pass with but few additional remarks. The "Reverend Father in God" is seated at the holy table when the person to be admitted priest is presented for examination. In answer to the question of the bishop, as to whether he be truly called according to the will of our Lord and the order of the Church of England, he makes similar answer as when ordained deacon, "I think so." While the man is in doubt and only thinks so, the bishop urges upon him the idea of "whereunto it hath pleased God to call you." In connection with the authority as conferred upon him by the bishop, the following is significant for what it implies. "Receive the Holy Ghost for the office and work of a priest in the Church of God, now committed unto thee by the imposition of our hands. Whose sins thou dost forgive they are forgiven; and whose sins thou dost retain, they are retained."

That we might know the extent of power granted unto these priests to forgive and retain the sins of men and women, we allow the Prayer Book to speak further before making comment. Found in the order for the visitation of the sick is the following: "Here shall the sick person be moved to make a special confession of his sins, if he feels his conscience troubled with any weighty matter. After which confession the Priest shall absolve him (if he humbly and heartily desire it) after this sort." Now follows the words to be said by the priest:

"Our Lord Jesus Christ, who hath left power to his church to absolve all sinners who truly repent and believe in him, of his great mercy forgive thee these thine offences. And by his authority committed to me, I absolve thee from all thy sins, in the name of the Father, and of the Son, and of the Holy Ghost."

Again, to make no mistake about this matter, we quote "The Absolution," used in every morning and evening service of the church. The priest standing and people kneeling, he says:

"Almighty God the Father of our Lord Jesus Christ, who desireth not the death of a sinner, but rather that he may turn from his wickedness and live; and hath given power and commandment, to his ministers, to declare and pronounce to his people, being penitent the absolution and remission of their sins."

Now, what have we got in the above? Unquestionably another relic of Popery. The forgiveness of sin is left in the hands of, and according to, the judgment of these priests who received their authority from the "Reverend Father in God," and he received it from the congregation. What a weapon of power this is in the hands of these priests, and who is there that can question their having it, according to the authority conferred upon them by the bishop at their ordination? If these fathers in God have such authority, the priest has power to forgive sin or retain it, as best suits his good or bad judgment. Fortunate indeed, are the people whom he judges "penitent," if so be that "whoso sins ye forgive they are forgiven," but alas, how unfortunate are those who do not stand in the good graces of the priest, and are, from the priest's standpoint, judged impenitent. This doctrine makes the people answerable to the clergy and not to God.

The Prayer Book says: "Our Lord Jesus Christ who hath left power to his church to absolve all sinners who truly repent and believe in him. * * * By his authority I absolve thee from all thy sins." No obedience to the word of the Lord required, merely a confession to the priest, who, judging him sincere in such confession, says, "I absolve thee from all thy sins." Am I too severe when I brand such teaching as a work of the beast? Is it not the Roman Confessional without the box? And is the box not innocent?

Touching the true ministry of Christ, "called of God as was Aaron," they have authority from God, but not to "absolve thee from all thy sins." They are delegated with authority to preach the gospel of Christ and minister in its ordinances, and when people are baptized in the name of Jesus Christ for the remission of sins (Acts 2:38) the ministry had the authority from Christ to baptize them for the remission of sins; but they simply performed the rite, and the Giver of every good and perfect gift granted the absolution, and not the minister of the ordinance. Following this John says, "if we confess our sins He is willing and just to forgive us," Christ, and not the priest of Rome or her offspring.

Next comes the manner of consecrating bishops, which is much the same in subject matter as the forms already considered. We notice, however, the archbishop sitting at the holy tables is, upon this occasion, addressed "Most Reverend Father in God." Possibly the idea of "most" reverend indicates a greater degree of sanctity; if so, it can only be in the eyes of men who have been cradled in such blasphemy, and who now have not the hardihood or good sense to push such idolatry from them as a cunningly devised plan of him who savors not the things which be of God, but those things which be of men. We return to the articles of religion and quote,

ARTICLE NUMBER XXVII.

This article treats on baptism. "Baptism is not only a sign of profession and mark of difference, whereby Christian men are discerned from others that be not christened, but it is also a sign of Regeneration or new birth whereby, as by an instrument, they that receive baptism rightly are grafted into the church * * * The baptism of young children is in any wise to be retained in the church as most agreeable with the institution of Christ."

There are but four points in the above to which we will give attention.

1. Baptism is a mark of difference whereby christian men are discerned from others.
2. They that receive baptism rightly are grafted into the church.
3. Baptism of young children is to be retained in the church.
4. Baptism of children is most agreeable with the institution of Christ.

Taking these thoughts into consideration we can reach but one conclusion, and that is, infants or adults being properly baptized are grafted into the church and by that means marked as christian, while those infants or adults unbaptized are necessarily outside the church and marked unchristian. This is evidently the reason for holding infant baptism in the church. Little children not baptized would be lost, as plainly inferred, and as we shall see as we proceed to investigate the question from an English church point of view.

A foot note to "Public Baptism of Infants," reads, "It is certain by God's word, that children which are baptized, dying before they commit actual sin, are undoubtedly saved."

If baptism is a mark whereby christian men are discerned from others, it is a mark whereby christian babies are discerned from others, and if they that receive baptism rightly are grafted into the church, then those who do not receive baptism (be they adults or infants) are certainly not grafted into the church; therefore, the foot note cited expresses no doubt as to the salvation of the baptized infant.

But what of the unbaptized infant? It is as undoubtedly lost as the one baptized is undoubtedly saved, if the true doctrine of the Church of England be the true doctrine of Christ. To bear us out in the statement that unbaptized babies or children are lost according to the established church doctrine, we quote more of the Prayer Book, from the "Public Baptism of Infants."

"Dearly beloved, forasmuch as all men are conceived and born in sin; and that our Savior Christ saith, None can enter into the kingdom of God, except he be regenerated and born anew of water and of the Holy Ghost; I beseech you to call upon God the Father, through our Lord Jesus Christ, that of his bounteous mercy he will grant to this child that thing which by nature he cannot have; that he may be baptized with water and the Holy Ghost, and received into Christ's holy church, and be made a lively member of the same."

In this the priest publicly beseeches the people present to call upon God that "he will grant to this child that thing which by nature he cannot have." The child has been "conceived and born in sin" and has not, up to this hour of baptism, received the favor and blessing of God, hence the earnest supplication of the congregation is requested that God, in his bounteous mercy, would "grant to this child that which by nature he cannot have; that he may be baptized with water and the Holy Ghost, and received into Christ's holy church, and be made a lively member of the same." Is it not plain from this that the child by water baptism is received into Christ's holy church? But we read again in the prayer that follows:

"We beseech thee for thine infinite mercies, that thou wilt mercifully look upon this child; wash him and sanctify him with the Holy Ghost; that he being delivered from thy wrath may be received into the ark of Christ's church."

Can there be any doubt now as to the condition of the child before its baptism? When presented for baptism, God is asked to look mercifully upon the child, wash him, sanctify him; "that he being delivered from thy wrath may be received into the ark of Christ's church." If not delivered from God's wrath, which deliverance comes through its baptism, is there not serious doubt as to its salvation? Can the child enter the kingdom unwashed, un sanctified, and with God's wrath upon it? Churchmen, this is the doctrine of your archbishops, bishops and clergy. What think you of it? Do you say I am mistaken? If so, let us read again.

"Almighty and immortal God * * * We call upon thee for this infant, that he, coming to thy holy baptism, may receive remission of his sins by spiritual regeneration."

No spiritual regeneration for the infant until he comes to this holy baptism, and can he enter the kingdom without regeneration? If not, and he dies without this holy baptism—spiritual regeneration—is the infant, thus neglected, not unsaved and lost forever if Episcopalianism be true? Again "Almighty everliving God * * * and grant that this child now to be baptized therein, may receive the fullness of thy grace, and ever remain in the number of thy faithful and elect children." By the holy baptism it becomes elect but of necessity unelect if not thus baptized. After christening the child the priest says, "We receive this child into the congregation of Christ's flock and do sign him with the cross," etc.

This sign is to mark the infant as a christian but he is not thus marked till truly engraved into the church by holy baptism. Continuing he says, "Seeing now dearly beloved brethren that this child is regenerate and grafted into the body of Christ's church let us give thanks unto Almighty God for these benefits."

With all this from the Prayer Book can we in reason doubt the position occupied by the English church on this infant question? English church people may not believe in the damnation of the unbaptized, but the Prayer Book teaches it nevertheless, and it must stand as the true doctrine of the Church of England until such time that the church authoritatively disowns the miserable creature, and then it would only evidence the clearer that lo, for these many years she has been fondling and idolizing one of Mother Rome's unscriptural doctrines. The "private baptism of children," and "baptism to such as are of riper years" are similar in teaching to the form examined and are therefore already answered.

Now, to the second part of the article.

Is it a fact that infant baptism is "most agreeable with the institution of Christ?" Is not this an admission that infant baptism was not instituted by Christ, but merely agreeable with what Christ instituted? And does it not as clearly infer that infant baptism was instituted later than Christ's or the apostles' time? The only claim made for infant baptism in the above, is that it is agreeable with the institution of Christ, and for us to know whether or not it is agreeable to the institution of Christ, necessitates an understanding of what Christ taught, touching the question of baptism and the salvation of infants.

This is important, for by Christ's doctrine we must measure the bishops and priests, even though they be the "most reverend fathers in God," to know whether they bring to us the doctrine of Christ, or are advocating another introduced long ago in the darkest period of the world's history. Jesus does say to Nicodemus, "Except a man be born of water and of the Spirit he cannot enter into the kingdom of God," and unmistakably refers to the water baptism and the Spirit baptism as two essential features to entering into God's eternal kingdom. It is noticeable, however, that Jesus says, "Except a man be born of water," etc. If he had said "Except babies be born of water," etc., the established church and others might have some reason to believe in the regeneration of babies, or their being grafted into the church, and delivered from God's wrath, by the sprinkling of a few drops of water up on them.

To make it conclusive that Christ did not teach an infant baptism, we have only to show the pre-requisites of water baptism. "He that believeth and is baptized shall be saved, but he that believeth not shall be damned."—Mark 16: 16.

"If thou believest with all thy heart thou mayest. And he answered and said, I believe that Jesus Christ is the Son of God."—Acts 8: 37.

"But when they believed Philip preaching the things concerning the kingdom of God they were baptized both men and women."—Acts 8: 12.

"Men and brethren, what shall we do? Then Peter said unto them, Repent and be baptized every one of you in the name of Jesus Christ, for the remission of sins, and ye shall receive the gift of the Holy Ghost."—Acts 2: 37, 38.

I could continue to quote scripture proving the water baptism taught by Christ and his ministry was illegal unless preceded by proper faith and repentance, but, believing all Bible loving and intelligent Episcopalians will yield the point, I forbear; for "without faith it is impossible to please God," if Paul had right understanding. Baptism in water, then, was not intended for babies, but for men and women who gladly received the word of God.

In this connection I cite a question from the Catechism:

"Q.—What is required of persons to be baptized?"

"Ans.—Repentance, whereby they forsake sin; and faith, whereby they steadfastly believe the promises of God made to them in the sacrament."

Churchmen, do ye not yield the point? Then why baptize babies? They cannot exercise "faith whereby they steadfastly believe," or repent "whereby they forsake sin." Even if they could repent, or it was permissible for some one to repent for them (which is an absurdity), what sin have they to forsake? Is it agreeable to the institution of Christ that one person should assume to repent for another? If so it would have been well had the bishops given us chapter and verse. But now having said that faith and repentance are required of persons to be baptized, we are led to wonder how in the name of consistency, and in the light of Scripture, they could baptize infants incapable of either faith or repentance; but we are not left to guess, as the following from the Catechism helps us out:

"Q.—What is your name?"

"A.—N. or M."

"Q.—Who gave you this name?"

"A.—My Godfathers and Godmothers in my baptism; wherein I was made a member of Christ, the child of God and an inheritor of the kingdom of heaven."

"Q.—What did your Godfathers and Godmothers then do for you?"

"A.—They did promise and vow these things in my name. First, that I should renounce the devil and all his works, the pomps and vanity of this wicked world, and all the sinful lusts of the flesh. Secondly, that I should believe all the articles of the Christian faith. And thirdly, that I should keep God's holy will and commandments, and walk in the same all the days of my life."

"Q.—Dost thou not think that thou art bound to believe, and to do as they have promised for thee?"

"A.—Yes, verily, and by God's help so I will. And I heartily thank our heavenly Father that he hath called me to this state of salvation. And I pray God to give me this grace that I may continue in the same unto my life's end."

In this baby baptism the child is neutral. Under no circumstances can the infant exercise either faith or repentance. The godfathers and godmothers may be sincere in promising these three things for the child, but in so doing they express their own mind and not the mind or will of the babe. To make binding on the infant in after years anything the godfathers or godmothers might promise at its baptism, be it good or bad, means nothing less than to take away its agency, and it becomes a slave to the will and wish of the godfather. The principle is degrading and they who teach it ought to move out into the light where they can breathe the sweet air of liberty.

Lest it be thought unfair to so conclude, let me emphasize the following: "Dost thou not think that thou art bound to believe and to do as they have promised for thee?" And the child old enough to learn the catechism prior to confirmation into the church, is taught to answer, "Yes verily, and by God's help so I will: And I heartily thank our heavenly Father that he hath called me to this state of salvation."

Now, where does the choice of the young man or woman learning the catechism and about to join the English church, come in? Have they any choice at all? Are they not bound to believe and do all their godparents promised in their name when baptized as an infant? Yes, verily. Then the young man or woman entering the established church is a slave, with no liberty to choose a course agreeable to their own individual judgment. Moreover they are further taught to thank God for calling them to this state of salvation. In answer to this last expression I cannot think of any better reply than to cite the Litany, or that part said by the people, which reads, "Good Lord, deliver us;" for what is so sacredly named a state of salvation, is but another name for slavery, and if taught outside the church, Episcopalians would be among the first to raise their voice against it.

Before leaving the question of infants there is another point taken by the English church requiring an examination. We are told repeatedly in the Prayer Book that "all men are conceived and born in sin," and are "by nature born in sin and the children of wrath." We are also told the infant, by baptism, is washed, sanctified, and regenerated or born anew. If the first were true then the latter would be a necessity, but what of this doctrine "by nature born in sin and children of wrath," and where does it come from?

Is it a fact that the child born into this world is so impure that it needs regeneration? or washing? or sanctifying in order to share the glory of the Father's kingdom? So says the Prayer Book, but what saith the Scripture? Did Jesus represent the little ones as unwashed, or unregenerate? If so, then they need washing, but if he does not so represent them, woe to the man or men who reflects on his judgment.

"Woe unto them that call evil good and good evil; that put darkness for light, and light for darkness; that put bitter for sweet and sweet for bitter."—Isaiah 5: 20.

The Master thoroughly understood his mission to earth, and made no mistakes, so we can decide the matter by an appeal to him. We read Matthew 19: 13, 14:

"Then were brought unto him little children, that he should put his hands on them, and pray: and the disciples rebuked them. But Jesus said, Suffer little children and forbid them not, to come unto me; for of such is the kingdom of heaven."

Luke 18: 15 says "they brought unto him also infants."

It is evident Jesus had then, or at some time previous, given parents to understand that it was their privilege to bring their children to him for a blessing, or they would not have done so. Jesus rebuked his disciples, and does He not rebuke the priests of the established church and all who hold to the baptism of babies as a means of regeneration, or their entering the kingdom of God, when he says, "Suffer little children and forbid them not to come unto me, for of such is the kingdom of heaven?" Will any say these "infants" or "children" had been sprinkled previous to this, or that Jesus baptized them by sprinkling? Will any say that Jesus made a distinction between the circumcised and uncircumcised? That he received the circumcised and rejected the uncircumcised? Surely there are none so blind.

The invitation extended to every child born irrespective of the parents' creed, suffer little children, means all children who are little and who have not reached the years of responsibility. When we stop to think of what Jesus said, "of such is the kingdom of heaven," what are we to say and do with a church or doctrine that will not allow children to enter and become members of the kingdom—children of God—until a number of godfathers and godmothers go responsible for them, and they have the child baptized? If these little ones were "children of wrath" and "conceived and born in sin," and required washing, sanctifying, regenerating, etc., did not Christ know it? And if so would he handle such unholy creatures? Would he say "of such is the kingdom of heaven?" Let churchmen answer. Why, is it not clear that if Christ believed as the Church of England teaches, he would have suggested godfathers, godmothers, baptism, etc., but alas, he lays the axe at the root of the Episcopalian tree, and down it must come sooner or later.

Think of it, my friends, where our Lord says, "of such are the kingdom of heaven," the great established church says they are "children of wrath," unregenerate, unwashed, unsanctified, unchristianized. How about this being most agreeable with the institution of Christ? Another convocation of archbishops, bishops and clergy in general might be a good thing, and make a big change, but as things stand now, the church of England is most agreeable with the Church of Rome, in this and other matters. The words of Christ found in Matthew 18: 8, "Except ye be converted and become as little children, ye shall not enter into the kingdom of heaven," would have a very peculiar interpretation from the standpoint of the Prayer Book. Jesus would be made to say, "Except ye be converted and become as unwashed, unsanctified, unregenerate children of wrath, ye shall not enter into the kingdom of heaven." Such methods of interpretation may suit the English church, but are an insult to Christ, "counting the blood of the covenant an unholy thing." Little children are not lost if unbaptized. The atonement of our Lord "taketh away the sin of the world," so that little children are redeemed by the blood of Christ.

There is but one text that speaks of being born in sin; that has been woefully abused and misapplied. It is the statement of David found in Psalms 57: 1-5, "Behold I was shapen in iniquity and in sin did my mother conceive me." David here makes a confession of guilt and attributes his weakness largely to the conditions surrounding his birth. He was born in the days of polygamy and knew it, but all are not so conceived in sin or shapened in iniquity. To so state means to dishonor the marriage law. Sin is the transgression of the law, and those born in violation of honorable wedlock are as David, and can make such a confession, but this is not to be confounded with "original sin," so called, as cleaving to every man making them children of wrath, etc. The idea of original sin had its origin in Romanism and has met with strong support in Protestantism, unfortunately.

Before concluding this brief examination of the Prayer Book we give attention to TWO OTHER MATTERS of interest:

First, Every morning and evening service includes a prayer for the Queen, part of which cannot be otherwise than objectionable to any just person. And objection can be raised without conveying the idea of disloyalty to her Majesty. It reads, "Strengthen her that she may vanquish and overcome all her enemies." This no just person could endorse, inasmuch as it judges her ever in the right and her enemies always in the wrong. The judgment of the nation is held up as infallible and the people pray for her to prevail irrespective of justice. We suggest that people pray for the right to prevail and let the Almighty decide.

Second, That part of the Catholic faith which reads, "As whose [Christ] coming all men shall rise again with their bodies; and shall give account for their own works. And they that have done good shall go into life everlasting, and they that have done evil into everlasting fire. This is the Catholic faith; which except a man believe faithfully he cannot be saved."

The statement that all men are to rise with their bodies at the second coming of Christ is not true, yet it is the Catholic Faith, which a man must believe faithfully or he cannot be saved. So the Catholic Faith is that I must believe a falsehood or lose salvation. In support of my position I first cite the words of Christ, then Paul and then John:

"And shall come forth [all men]; they that have done good, unto the resurrection of life; and they that have done evil, unto the resurrection of damnation."—John 5: 29.

The question is, Are all men raised at the coming of Christ or is there a certain amount of time between the "resurrection unto life" and the "resurrection of damnation?" Let Paul answer, 1 Thessalonians 4: 16, "For the Lord himself shall descend from heaven with a shout * * * and the dead in Christ shall rise first." 1 Corinthians 15: 23, "Christ the first fruits, afterwards they that are Christ's at his coming."

We get the idea clear that the dead in Christ rise first and at the time of his coming. This will be the resurrection unto life, no doubt, as made still clearer by John, Revelation 20: 4-6:

"They lived and reigned with Christ a thousand years. But the rest of the dead lived not again until the thousand years were finished. This is the first resurrection."

Here we have the first resurrection—the dead in Christ—one thousand years before the "rest of the dead." Am I not correct in saying the Catholic Faith, so called, is misleading and when I have to believe the Catholic Faith to be saved, of necessity I am forced to believe a falsehood. What think you reader? We now quote ARTICLE XIX. Of this article special attention is invited:

"The visible church of Christ is a congregation of faithful men, in the which the pure word of God is preached, and the sacraments be duly ministered according to Christ's ordinance in all those things that of necessity are requisite to the same."

Allowing this definition of the visible church of Christ as correct, there are two points to keep in mind in considering the claims of the church under question.

1st. In which the pure word of God is preached.

2d. And the sacraments duly ministered according to Christ's ordinance.

In the acceptance of this definition how about the established church? Is it a or the visible church of Christ? It is questionable indeed according to their own accepted idea of the visible church of Christ, but to settle the question we call for a strict compliance with ARTICLE XIX, which no good, honest Episcopalian should have any objection to, and it is only just to measure them by the rule they measure others.

Having examined the true doctrine of the Church of England as found plainly stated in the Articles of Religion and other forms used in church service, twice endorsed by archbishops, bishops and clergy in convocation, first in 1562 and again in 1571, we have unmistakably proven said articles and forms unscriptural in many respects, therefore justly and fearlessly charge the established church with teaching the following Romish (for the most part) doctrine in opposition to the pure word of God and proper ministrations of the sacraments according to Christ's ordinance:

1st. That God is without body, parts and passions.

2d. That we are justified by faith only.

3d. That the true church ought not enforce anything to be believed necessary to salvation.

4th. The blasphemous title of "Most Reverend Father in God."

5th. That a true bishop receives authority in the congregation.

6th. That bishops and pastors are to make choice of ministers and send them into the Lord's vineyard.

7th. The idea and use of a holy table.

8th. That priests and deacons should guess at their calling.

9th. That the priest has power from Christ to absolve the sick or a worshipping congregation upon their confession.

10th. That infants are by nature the children of wrath; unwashed, unsanctified, unregenerate, liable to eternal wrath and damnation, etc.

11th. That infants are born again and become members of Christ by sprinkling.

12th. The doctrine of god-fathers and godmothers making promises and going responsible for the child's course in earth life.

13th. That the child is bound to live as the godparents may promise and so deprived of his or her agency.

14th. That we should pray for the Queen to vanquish all her enemies without consideration of her enemies' cause.

15th. That all men, just and unjust, are raised from the dead at Christ's coming.

We might mention other Romish features connected with the Church of England, but the foregoing are taught in the Prayer Book and enable us to decide as to whether or not the established church preaches the pure word of God and duly ministers the sacraments according to Christ's ordinance.

Measuring the Church of England by their own statement of Christ's church, what shall be our decision? Can we endorse it as the visible church of Christ? These are questions that require answering and what shall we say? Churchmen may feel indignant at this apparent boldness and may perhaps turn away terribly disgusted and insulted at such questions, but they remain to be answered nevertheless. As men and women of intelligence and freedom, shall we hesitate in reaching a conclusion? We need not fear the established church now as did they who lived and saw it established. It is but an institution of men, established by law, a fact of which it appears proud. Our duty is, "Fear God and keep his commandments." Peter said upon one occasion, and his words are applicable to any in such a dilemma, "We ought to obey God rather than men." (Acts 5:29). How true the words and yet how few there are who think or who do "obey God rather than men." What will our English church friends do? Will they follow and trust in the opinions of the clergy—the words of men? Nay, surely not, for we read, "Cursed is the man that trusteth in man, and maketh flesh his arm." Then let us and let them turn to the word of God and obey it, inasmuch as it comes as "a lamp to our feet and a light to our path."

Now let me conclude with the words of God as delivered by Daniel to the king of Babylon, and which we can accept as the only verdict in the disposal of the established church as the visible church of Christ, churchmen and all concurring, Daniel 5:27, "Thou art weighed in the balances and art found wanting."

[CONCLUDED NEXT WEEK.]

"A MORE EXCELLENT WAY"

ELDER E. W. NUNLEY.

We propose to offer a very few thoughts as to what we understand the Apostle Paul to mean by the above language. By reading the entire chapter we see that Paul was teaching the church at Corinth about the organization of the church, and the different gifts which were bestowed upon the different members of the church, to qualify them to do the work that Christ designed they should. He asked the church these questions, viz.:

"Are all apostles? are all prophets? are all teachers? are all workers of miracles? Have all the gifts of healing? do all speak with tongues? do all interpret? I say unto you, Nay; for I have shown unto you a more excellent way, therefore covet earnestly the best gifts."—1 Cor. 12:29-31, I, T.

The above shows us conclusively that the apostle was contrasting the more excellent way with some other way referred to by him. Now, he tells us in the chapter referred to what the way is to which he has made reference, and the excellent way as well; so we are not left to guess at it as some have done.

We call attention to verses 27 and 28 of this chapter.

"Now ye are the body of Christ, and members in particular. And God hath set some in the church, first apostles, secondarily prophets, thirdly teachers, after that miracles, then gifts of healings, helps, governments, diversities of tongues."

Then Paul proceeds to ask the church to which he was then writing, Are all apostles? are all prophets? are all teachers? etc. Nay, he says, for I have shown unto you a more excellent way. Now, what was that more excellent way? He had shown them that they were the body of Christ; and that God had put in the church apostles, and prophets, and teachers, etc., and this was the more excellent way, for it was more excellent to be thus organized and endowed, than for them to all be apostles, or all prophets, or all teachers, etc., and all have the same gifts, and as it was then, so it is now; it is more excellent to be organized and endowed just like the church was then, than to be organized like any of the sects of the day are, for we have the more excellent way, being organized, and are blessed as was the church in Paul's day.

BURDEN BEARERS.

The constant rotation of the wheels of time brings to all a period of experience when life's burdens bear more heavily than at other seasons, and perhaps the knowledge and understanding of this, prompted or inspired the great apostle to the Gentiles to write:

"Bear ye one another's burdens, and so fulfill the law of Christ."—Gal. 6:2.

To this we add:

"See that ye love one another; cease to be covetous; learn to impart one to another as the gospel requires."—D. & C. 85:38.

Were the two above injunctions lived up to, never would there appear a word in our publications asking for financial help, for the storehouse of the Lord would be full and running over.

Once more we turn to our daily guide book and read:

"Behold, I say unto you, that ye must visit the poor and the needy, and administer to their relief, that they may be kept until all things may be done according to my law, which ye have received."—D. & C. 44:3.

Graceland College is a creature of the church's creation, and it is "poor" and it is "needy," as all such institutions are in their infancy.

Here is another forceful reminder:

"And remember in all things, the poor and the needy, the sick and the afflicted, for he that doeth not these things, the same is not my disciple."—D. & C. 52:9.

Let me ask you, dear Saints: After Graceland College was brought into being by the "HEARTY SUPPORT" of the First Presidency, the quorum of Twelve, and the Bishopric, in council April 1894, and by the voice and vote of General Conference, can you afford to let that institution suffer, languish and die? Where, O where! are our philanthropic men and women of this church in this hour of our necessity? Yea! where, O where!! are the humanitarians of this church that live not for themselves, but for the good that they may do for others?

I am asked "Bro. Elvin, why is the College not self supporting?" Thank you brother for firing that question at me. I will try to answer: notwithstanding the church authorized the building of Graceland College, and it is therefore, a child of the church, and largely dependent upon the church for support, in both students and money, nevertheless I am safe in the estimate, that not one-fourth (¼) of the children of the Saints who are now attending College are in attendance at Graceland. Where are they going to College? Going! why to the institutions of the world, and sectarian institutions of learning, exposed to the possibility and probability of being educated away from the faith of their fathers, and out of a fellowship of the church; ah, do not put this aside with a pooh! pooh!! for that which has come to the youth of the church, is liable to come again to those thus exposed.

I feel fully assured that if we had enrolled as students of Graceland, all the children of the church now in attendance at the many colleges patronized by our church membership, our church institution "of learning" would be under no necessity of pleading for help for the running expenses.

Please, dear reader, before you permit this plea to slip from your mind, immediately make such provisions to bear your portion of this burden, as will encourage and relieve the anxiety of the present Board of Trustees, and assure the success of running the College this year without the necessity of borrowing money to meet running expenses.

If you are not now prepared to remit, please send us your name and amount that you will be willing to contribute for this purpose on or before April 1, 1901.

For success,
ROBT. M. ELVIN.

Box 224 LAMONT, IOWA.
Oct. 25, 1900.

Was Joseph Smith a Seer?

Does the Book of Mormon say there should be a mouthpiece for the Lord? No, not in so many words. But it does say on page 209, that a man who had the interpreters through which to look, "The same is called seer," and it is a "high gift from God."

"And the king saith, that a seer is greater than a prophet." Then, Ammon said, that a seer is a revelator and a prophet also; and a gift which is greater can no man have, except he possess the power of God, which no man can; yet a man may have great power given him of God."

Now, from this we learn, that God may or does raise up a man on whom he bestows this "high gift, that of a seer who is a revelator and a prophet also," and when in possession of the interpreters can also translate. Yet it is possible when not possessing the interpreters, may still retain the gift of seer, hence be a "Revelator and prophet also." This places him in condition to know of things past and to come, by which secret or hidden things come to light, and things which are not known shall be made known by them which otherwise could not be known. (Mosiah 8:13-17).

Now if you will examine verse 13 you will there learn that no man can use the interpreters to "look in them, except he be commanded, lest he should look for that he ought not, and he should perish." We here learn that only he who has the gift of seer, is commanded to look. "Therefore he becometh a great benefit to his fellow beings."—v. 18.

On page 77, v. 6, the Lord promised to "raise up a seer," who was to be a "choice seer," and to him the Lord would give power to bring forth my word, and not only the bringing forth my word

"INCURABLE" HEART DISEASE SOON CURED.

During the last two or three years very great improvement has been made in the treatment of the different kinds of disease of the heart. Cases formerly considered incurable now rapidly recover. The well known specialist, Franklin Miles, M. D., LL. B., of Chicago, will send his new Individual Treatment free to any of our afflicted readers who will mention this paper.

This liberal offer is for the purpose of demonstrating the great superiority of his new system of Treatments for heart troubles, such as short breath, pain in the side, oppression in the chest, irregular pulse, palpitation, smothering spells, puffing of the ankles or dropsy.

They are the result of twenty-five years of careful study, extensive research, and remarkable experience in treating weak, dilated, hypertrophied, rheumatic, fatty or neuralgic hearts, each one of which requires different treatment.

The Treatments are carefully selected for each patient, as regards their age, weight, and stage of each kind of heart disease. All afflicted persons should avail themselves of this liberal offer. No death comes more unexpectedly than that from heart disease.

Rev. J. W. Stokesbury, of Fallport, Mo., had head, heart, stomach troubles and nervous prostration. "Three physicians failed to help him. He writes: 'I regard myself cured.'

The eminent Rev. W. Bell, D. D., of Dayton, Ohio, General Secretary of Foreign Missions, writes editorially in the State Sunday School Union: "We desire to state that from personal acquaintance we know Dr. Miles to be a most skillful specialist, a man who has saved neither his name nor money to keep himself abreast of the great advancement of medical science."

A thousand references to, and testimonials from, Bishops, Clergymen, Bankers, Farmers, and their wives, will be sent on request. These include many who have been cured after from five to fifteen physicians and professors had pronounced them "incurable." Among them are H. A. Groce, 504 Mountain St., Elgin, Ill.; Mrs. Sophia Steinberg, No. 282 21st Ave., St. Paul, Minn.; Mrs. A. B. Colburn, Blessing, Ia.; Mrs. M. B. Morelan, Rogers, Ohio, and the presidents of two medical colleges, etc.

Send at once to The Dr. Miles Association, Cor. Adams and State Sts., Chicago, Ill., for free treatment before it is too late.

only, "but to the convincing them of my word, which had already gone forth," meaning the Bible. From this we learn, that this "seer" not only brings forth the Book of Mormon, but also has convincing power given him, to prove to them that the Holy Scriptures are true. That the two "shall grow together, unto the confounding of false doctrines, and laying down of contentions, and establishing peace, and also to a knowledge of my covenants, saith the Lord."—vs. 6 to 12. Hence, being a seer could be a translator, and was evidently a revelator and a prophet, hence, mouth piece, inasmuch as a prophet speaks in the name of the Lord.

I have quoted from "The Nephite Records."

L. H. EZZELL.

Atonement Day With New York Jews.

Thousands of Hebrews who failed to get into the crowded synagogues, halls, theaters and every other conceivable building which was devoted to prayer went to Central park yesterday, where, under clouded skies, they celebrated Yom Kippur, or the Day of Atonement.

It was an inspiring and pathetic sight. Men with praying shawls, white and black gowns and skull caps, sat on the benches the livelong day and prayed. They were not all grouped together, but kept separate, so as to not violate any of the park ordinances.

Although it drizzled at times, they remained in the park until sunset, when they went to their homes to eat their first meal in twenty-four hours. They had fasted from 5 p. m. Tuesday.

The Thalia, Windsor and People's theaters on the Bowery were so crowded that a detail of police and firemen was on duty at those places for fear of an accident.

Never before in the recollection of the oldest East side citizen has the observance been so rigidly kept.

Hundreds of places in the wholesale district along Broadway were closed, and no woman could purchase a hat in any of the seventy-eight millinery stores along Division street for love or money.

According to the Rev. Dr. Leopold Zinsler, rabbi of the Congregation Shalom Zedek, there are about 15,000 more Hebrews in the city than there were a year ago.

So many Hebrew boys are employed by the Western Union and Postal Telegraph companies that the messenger service was somewhat crippled yesterday.—The Kansas City (Mo.) Star, Oct. 26, from N. Y. World.

Baptized in His Chains.

At Wichita, Kansas, Frank Allgood, sentenced to three years in the penitentiary for horse stealing, was baptized by immersion at the Christian church. His hands and feet were shackled and he had to be carried to the baptistry.—The Cass News, Harrisonville, Mo., Oct. 26.

ANYONE in a position to use church literature to good advantage apply to M. H. Clark, Box 4, Station A, Kansas City, Missouri. We have a large supply on hand and at our disposal, and trust you will make your wants known.

Reduced Rates For Voters.

The Missouri Pacific railway will make a one fare round trip rate between all stations on the system. Tickets on sale November 3d and 4th, good to return on or before November 9, 1900.

Tel. 17. F. A. MILLARD, Agt.

OUR ANGELS WHISPER Family Register, Marriage Certificate, Lord's Prayer and other pictures are quick sellers. Agents wanted for above and other goods. Address (Bro.) B. F. Ordway & Co., Peoria, Ill.

GRAGELAND COLLEGE, LAMONI, IOWA.

Send for Catalogue, to I. W. ALLENDER, Secretary, Lamoni, Iowa.

Books and Pamphlets

PRICE LIST

- FROM PALMYRA TO INDEPENDENCE, by Elder R. Etzenhouser, 444 pages; cloth binding.....$1.00
Paper binding.....65
"AT THE FEET OF ELDER JOSEPH LUFF," 377 pages; cloth bound; 3 illustrations. Reduced from $1.00 to.....75
"THREE BRIBES COMPARED," by Elder R. Etzenhouser; paper binding, 5 for $1.00; each.....25
"THE BOOK OF MORMON YET UNGATED," by Elder I. M. Smith; 112 pages; Paper cover, 4 for 1.00; each.....30
Cloth bound, 2 for 1.00; each.....60
"SPIRITUAL GIFTS AND THE SPIRIT OF PALMYRA," by Elder M. H. Bond of the Seventy; 58 pages, paper bound, with fine engraving of the author.....25
"FAULTY CREEDS," by Elder R. C. Evans; 6 for $1.00; each.....20
"THE POORS AND UTAH MOHONISM," by Elder R. Etzenhouser; paper cover; 20 for $1.00, 3 for 25c; each.....10
"THE CREEDS LAID BARE," by Elder R. Etzenhouser; paper cover; 3 for 25c; each.....10
"THE RESURRECTION OF THE DEAD," by Elder W. J. Smith; 39 pages, paper cover, 3 for 25c; each.....10
"WHO WAS JOSEPH SMITH?—WAS HE A FALSE PROPHET?" by Elder J. W. Peterson of the Quorum of Seventy; 39 pages; paper cover; engraving of the Prophet; by Elder W. J. Smith; 39 pages, paper cover, 3 for 25c; each.....10
"THE LEGAL SUCCESSOR," by Apostle J. W. Wright; 90c per doz.; 3 for 25c; each.....10
"APOSTASY OF THE CHURCH," by Apostle J. W. Wright; 40 pages, paper cover; 3 for 25c; each.....10
"THE MORE EXCELLENT WAY," by Elder T. C. Kelley; 68 pages; 2c each.....10
"THE JOSEPH SMITH INTERVIEW," Elder Joseph Luff's answer to Elder R. J. Parker; by E. L. Kelley; per hundred 90c; per doz. 15c; 6 for 10c; 2 for.....5
"IS THERE BETTER REVELATION TO SALVATION," by Elder Joseph Luff. 90c per 100; 15c per doz.; 3 for.....5
"WHAT WE BELIEVE," The Epitome of Faith, with quotations given in full. 20c Per doz., 2 for.....5
"EVANILLA LOST," a duet for soprano and tenor; words by J. Cole Moxon; music by W. H. Lieb.....25

SERMON PAMPHLETS.

- The following pamphlets 5 cents each, 3 for 10 cents, 6 for 15 cents, or 25 cents per dozen:
"Signs of the Times," Revised and Enlarged, by Elder J. S. Roth; 70 pages; Illustrated.....5
"The Book of Mormon; Evidences of its Divinity," by Elder R. C. Evans; 58 pages.....5
"The Law of Life," by Elder F. M. Cooper; 38 pages.....5
"Resurrection of Israel," by Elder S. W. L. Scott; 46 pages.....5
"A Retrospective View of the Reorganization," by E. C. Briggs; 36 pages.....5
"Gospel Message," by President Joseph Smith; 32 pages.....5
"Modern Knowledge of the Antiquities of America," by Elder H. A. Stebbins; 34 pages.....5
"Creed Making; Man Shall Not Add To Nor Take From the Word of God," by Elder I. M. Smith; 36 pages.....5
"Antiquarian Evidences Concerning the Book of Mormon," by Elder E. L. Kelley; 40 pages.....5
"Joseph Smith; Was He a Prophet of God?" by Elder R. C. Evans; 40 pages.....5
"Sign Seekers," by Elder I. M. Smith; 32 pages.....5
"Gospel Antiquity," by Elder Joseph Luff; 39 pages.....5
"God is Light," by Elder W. H. Kelley; 46 pages.....5
"Why I Left the Baptist Church," by Elder W. H. Kephardt; 33 pages.....5
"The Marriage Relation," by Elder J. W. Wright; 41 pages.....5
"The Personality of God and Doctrine of Christ," by Elder J. S. Roth; 38 pages.....5
"Save Yourselves," by Elder I. M. Smith; 34 pages.....5

We also all orders for all Herald office publications. Address all orders and make all remittances to ENSIGN PUBLISHING HOUSE, 209 B. Independence, Mo. Missouri Pacific Railroad. Quick time, good connections, low rates to all points. Rates, time cards, etc., cheerfully furnished on application. F. A. MILLARD, Agent. Telephone 17.

Learn Shorthand.

A Knowledge of Shorthand and Typewriting Will Enable You to Be Self-sustaining.

The Missouri Shorthand College of St. Louis, Mo., is one of the Leading Shorthand Institutions in the United States.

Persons intending the acquirement of shorthand and typewriting should select a responsible school, otherwise their time and money are wasted.

As success in shorthand is largely dependent on the teacher as well as pupil, it is absolutely necessary that instructors should be practical shorthand writers and no others are competent to teach. Benn Pitman system taught.

The Principal of "The Missouri Shorthand College" is John H. Schofield, the well known journalist and shorthand writer, and member of the National Shorthand Writers' Association. In order to show that he is a practical and recognized exponent of shorthand, reference letters are herewith published from leading educators:

Prof. E. Benjamin Andrews, now Chancellor of Nebraska University, and recently Superintendent of Chicago Schools, comments on his character and ability as follows:

Board of Education, Office of Superintendent of Schools, Schiller Building, Chicago, Feb. 21, 1900. Mr. John H. Schofield is well and favorably known to me as successful director of a large shorthand college in Providence, R. I. I consider him not only one of the most expert practical shorthand writers whom I have ever known, but also an upright, honorable and perfectly trustworthy gentleman.

E. BENJAMIN ANDREWS, Superintendent of Schools.

Commenting on Mr. Schofield's ability and character, President E. G. Robinson of Brown University, Providence, R. I., contributes the following:

Brown University, Providence, R. I. I have known Mr. John H. Schofield for years as stenographic reporter for the Providence Journal. His work has given special satisfaction to all parties concerned. His character as a Christian man has also commanded respect, and I take pleasure in commending him to the confidence and good-will of all with whom he may meet or with whom he may have any business relations. E. G. ROBINSON, President Brown University.

Brother Fabrician, of La Salle College, Philadelphia, Pa., adds the following testimonial:

La Salle College, Philadelphia, Pa. Mr. John H. Schofield: My Dear Sir—It gives me much pleasure to say a timely word to best witness to your character as a man, and your ability as a journalist and shorthand writer. I hope and pray that your efforts, in whatever channel you may choose to direct them, will be rewarded with the measure of success which your talents, your energy and your accomplishments must win. You are, however, too well and favorably known to me by title or recognition from your very sincere and devoted friend, BRO. FABRICIAN.

Those so situated that they cannot attend school sessions, taught by mail, as Principal John H. Schofield has had gratifying success by this method of teaching. Mail students who will devote two hours daily to practice, cannot fail to obtain a good general knowledge of shorthand in twenty weeks. This is a short time to acquire a profession that will enable persons to be self supporting. Those who attend school generally graduated in about sixteen weeks, but this depends largely on the ability and general knowledge of the pupil. As a knowledge of shorthand is of no practical utility unless able to spell and compose correctly, students deficient in those lines are taught without extra charge. Shorthand and typewriting furnishes lucrative, as well as pleasant employment for both sexes, but more especially for young ladies, as there are always positions for those who are capable and competent.

Positions Secured

for Graduates. Instruction in Bookkeeping and full Commercial Course if Desired. Rooms and Board furnished pupils from abroad at moderate rates. THE MISSOURI SHORTHAND COLLEGE, No. 918 Pine St., ST. LOUIS, MISSOURI.

STATE SAVINGS BANK OF LAMONI.

Incorporated under the laws of the State of Iowa, July 1, 1898. Offers depositors a safe bank for their savings, and solicits the correspondence and deposits of all money lenders, and will pay four per cent interest per annum on your deposits. Send money by Bank Draft, or Express, or Post Office order, or Registered Letter, or by any of our bank in the United States or Canada, and direct your letter to W. A. Hopkins, Cashier of the State Savings Bank of Lamoni, at Lamoni, Iowa. Upon receipt of funds a certificate of deposit will be issued and sent to your residence. This bank has facilities for handling a very large business by keeping surplus funds invested in safe and available securities and has already received deposits from sixteen different states. All letters containing inquiries or business will be promptly answered. List of Stockholders:—Wm. Anderson, Geo. J. Hilliard, Mrs. David Dancer, Miss Alice Dancer, Frank Dill, W. Hitchcock, Mrs. Lucy B. Resseguite, A. K. Anderson, W. A. Hopkins, Oscar Anderson, Frank Criley and Geo. V. Blair.

DR. JOS. MATHER, PHYSICIAN.

Office at Residence, 301 S. Spring St., INDEPENDENCE, MO. CALLS ANWERED NIGHT OR DAY. Phone 100-3.

$495.

Will buy 4 1/2 acres with four room cottage, barn, well, etc., in west Lamoni. Only a small payment required to secure this home, and it is a bargain for some one. Apply to Lock Box 7, Lamoni, Iowa.

Broken Brick-Bracs.

Mr. Major, the famous cement man, of New York, explains some very interesting facts about Major's Cement. The multitudes who use this standard article know that it is many hundred per cent better than other cements for which similar claims are made, but a great many do not know why. The simple reason is that Mr. Major uses the best materials ever discovered and other manufacturers do not use them, because they are too expensive and do not allow large profits. Mr. Major tells us that one of the elements of his cement costs $3.75 a pound, and another costs $3.65 a gallon, with a large share of the so-called cements and liquid glue upon the market are nothing more than sixteen-cent glue, dissolved in water or ethric acid, and in some cases, altered slightly in color and odor by the addition of cheap and useless materials. Major's Cement retails at fifteen cents and twenty-five cents a barrel, and when a dealer tries to sell a substitute you can depend upon it that his only object is to make larger profit. The profit on Major's Cement is as much as any dealer ought to make on any cement. And this is doubly true in view of the fact that each dealer gets his share of the benefit of Mr. Major's advertising, which now amounts to over $5,000 a month throughout the country. Established in 1876. Instead of buying Major's, don't accept any off-hand advice from a druggist. If you are at all handy (and you will be likely to find that you are a good deal more so than you imagine) you can repair your rubber boots and clothing shoes, and any other rubber and leather articles, with Major's Rubber Cement and Major's Leather Cement. And you will be surprised at how many dollars a year you will thus save. If your druggist cannot supply you, it will be forwarded by mail; either kind, free of postage.

SubSCRIBE FOR THE College City Chronicle The Leading Local Paper of LAMONI, IOWA. Published Weekly by the Chronicle Publishing Co.

QUIT-TO-BAC

CURES THE TOBACCO HABIT. 3 BOXES, POSTPAID, $1 50 (U.S. Stamps or Money Order.) With Positive Guarantee of Cure, or Money Cheerfully Refunded. You Run No Risk; why not try it and be a free man? Address, (Bro.) B. F. ORDWAY, Peoria, Ill.

OLDEST, LARGEST, BEST. 35TH YEAR. SPALDING'S COMMERCIAL COLLEGE (INCORPORATED) East Wing, N. Y. Life Bldg., Kansas City, Mo.

Bookkeeping, Shorthand, Typewriting, Telegraphy, English Branches, Twenty Rooms. Sixteen Teachers and Lecturers. No Vacations. Practical Courses. Thorough Instruction. Ratee Moderate. Free Catalogue. FREE EMPLOYMENT BUREAU Tel. 117. J. F. Spalding, A. M., Pres.

CANCER CURED

WITH SOOTHING, BALMY OILS. Cancer, Tumor, Ovarian, Pilon, Fistula, Ulcera, Eczema, and all Skin Diseases. Dr. J. E. Mather, Peoria, Ill. Write for Illustrated Book. KANSAS CITY, MO. DR. BEY, KANSAS CITY, MO.

THEY ADMIT IT.

Bro. Hull, Chauncey, Ohio, says we saved him $12.00 on a $13.50 suit. Bro. Farrell, West Sullivan, Maine, writes that we saved him $5.00 on a $7.00 suit. Youth's heavy three-piece suit, age 12 to 19, $3.50. Goods are all sent prepaid.

Men's sack suits. Black, all wool worsted Men's Suits, four button, round or square cut. 15 ounce 87.00; 16 ounce 87.25; 18 ounce 88.25; 20 ounce $8.75. Extra fine, strictly all wool Oxford steel gray, heavy; worth $18.00, price $9.00.

Prince Albert suits. Same goods as above, 14 oz. $9.50; 16 oz. $10.00; 18 oz. $11.00; 20 oz. $11.50. 14 oz. French Twill Sacks, worth $18.00, price $9.00. Prince Alberts, worth $25.00, $13.50. MEASUREMENTS.—Give size of bust around chest just under arms with coat off, size of waist, length of in seam of pant leg, your height and weight. Make all drafts, express and money orders payable at Seymour, Mo. Send all communications, letters, orders and registered letters to Cumorah, Mo. THE E. T. ATWELL CO. Cumorah, Mo.

D. F. NICHOLSON, Cashier. H. C. NICHOLSON, Asst. Cashier. COMMERCIAL BANK, LAMONI, IOWA. Ample responsibility. Five per cent interest paid on time deposits. Correspondence solicited. Farms and towns properly for sale.

R. R. TIME TABLES. MISSOURI PACIFIC—MAIN LINE DEPOT. TRAINS WEST. a.m. No. 95—Wichita and K. C. Mail. 12:49 p.m. " 9—Kansas & Nebraska Linn. 4:34 " 84—Texas, Omaha & K. C. Ex. 8:15 " 3—St. Louis Express. 8:53 " 73—Lexington Branch Pass. 8:35 " 7—Fast Mail. 10:00 p.m. " 81—Joplin and K. C. Mail. 3:16 " 1—St. Louis Mail and Ex. 5:17 " 8—K. C. Ex. & Joplin Ex. 5:55 " 71—Lexington Branch Pass. 6:45 TRAINS EAST. a.m. No. 96—K. C. & Wichita Mail. 2:23 " 72—Lexington Branch Pass. 6:53 " 5—St. Louis Mail. 7:23 " 92—K. C. Ex. & Joplin Ex. 8:37 " 2—St. Louis Through Mail & Pass. 10:17 p.m. " 78—Lex. Branch Passenger. 6:10 " 4—St. Louis Through Mail & Pass. 1:37 " 94—K. C. Ex. & Joplin Ex. 7:40 " 8—St. Louis Through Mail & Pass. 9:30 " 10—Kan. & Neb. Limited. 11:12 Nos. 7, 9 and 10 do not stop. LIBERTY STREET DEPOT. TRAINS WEST. No. 73—Lex. Branch Pass. 8:30 a.m. " 71—" " 6:40 p.m. TRAINS EAST. No. 72—Lex. Branch Pass. 6:56 a.m. " 78—" " 6:16 p.m. Tel. 17. F. A. MILLARD, Agent.

CHICAGO & ALTON. EAST BOUND. a.m. " 101—Local Way Freight. 7:40 p.m. " 47—St. Louis & Chicago Mail 8:27 " 6—St. Louis Flyer. 9:38 WEST BOUND. a.m. " 50—St. Louis Limited. 6:56 " 62—Chicago Limited. 8:09 p.m. " 102—Local Way Freight. 8:20 " 48—Chicago & St. Louis Mail 8:50 All trains make regular stops. Through tickets to all points in the United States and Canada. For further information regarding rates, etc., call on J. W. DUGAN, Agent. J. CHARLTON, G. P. & T. Agt., Chicago.

Daughters of Zion.

"OUR AIM, MANKIND TO BLESS."

MRS. H. B. GURTIS, Editor.

The Daughters of Zion is an organization in the church, of mothers and others who are interested in the welfare of our homes. Under the supervision of the general society, local societies are established, where they may meet to consider together their work as home keepers, and as moulders of character. Their purpose is to increase love for the home, to promote social purity, to study the problem of child care and development; that thus they may better prepare themselves for the responsibility as wives and mothers, and that from the home may go the influence that shall fulfill their aim, which is "mankind to bless." Have you a local in your branch? If not, can you not organize one? Send to the corresponding secretary for constitutions. The Advisory Committee will be pleased to hear from you, and will gladly furnish you any assistance in their power. Send your list of names of members to the recording secretary.

ADVISORY COMMITTEE.

- Mrs. Mary E. Hulmes, President, Independence, Missouri.
- Mrs. H. H. Robinson, Corresponding Secretary, Independence, Missouri.
- Mrs. B. C. Smith, Independence, Missouri.
- Mrs. Lucina Etzenhauer, 2417 Prospect St., Kansas City, Missouri.
- Mrs. Clara Frick, Independence, Missouri.
- Mrs. Callie B. Stebbins, Recording Secretary, Lamoni, Iowa.
- Mrs. Anna Murphy, Treasurer, Independence, Missouri.

Editor's address, 3183 Olive St., St. Louis, Missouri.

MOTHER.

I am not one of the mothers, but am "Mother's girl," and as mother's girl I would like to have a chat with some of "our girls" on the treatment of our mothers. At present writing I am many miles from my home and am in a position to now fully appreciate a mother's love and care.

Much has been said and written on the care of children, but little has been said as to how children (grown ones) should care for mother. Mother is a great and grand blessing and like many another, is not appreciated until we are deprived of the same. My "dear girls," let us not wait until the mother has gone home and then think with pangs of regret of what we might have done. Let us begin now and lighten her overburdened shoulders and help her to enjoy the remaining years of her life. Let us be such "helpers" that mother can truly say "My last years are the best."

Let us so plan our work that "mother" can have a chance at least once in a while to "get out" and see friends and neighbors. Try it, girls, and you will be pleased and amply repaid by the renewed look in your mother's face. And again, let us not leave all the hard things for mother; let us take up some of the unpleasant duties and not with the face and air of a martyr, but with the love of mother in our faces and it will indeed be a labor of love, for which we will feel amply repaid.

In this age of the world we too often pass our loved ones by without a token of affection.

God is love and the closer we come to Him the more of the spirit of love will we possess, and the more loving we should be to all, and especially to those "loved ones" who first loved us.

It has been beautifully said that, "God could not be everywhere, so he made mothers." Too often we sit idly by and permit these same mothers to bear all the burdens. Let us come a little closer to the Scriptures and learn to bear one another's burdens and thus fulfill the law of Christ.

Many, many times I have seen a dear, loving mother grieved by the unkind words of a thoughtless daughter, while same daughter had only words of kindness and sympathy for "the sometime guest."

"The choicest garb, the sweetest grace,
Are oft to strangers shown;
The careless mien, the frowning face,
Are given to our own."

We flatter those we scarcely know,
We please the fleeting guest,
And deal full many a thoughtless blow
To those who love us best."

So often I have seen the patient, uncomplaining mother set aside as it were until she seemed but little more than a servant in her home; the home where she should be queen and as such should be treated by all of her loved ones and especially by you girls.

In all your experience you will find no one more willing, more ready to sacrifice to do anything for your good than dear, kind, loving mother.

"There are words that speak of quenchless love,
Which burns in hearts we cherish;
And accents that tell of a friendship proved,
That will never blight nor perish.
There are soft words murmured by dear, dear lips,
Far richer than any other;
But the sweetest word that ear hath heard,
Is the blessed name of mother."

"Oh, magical word, may it never die,
From the lips that love to speak it;
Nor melt away from the trusting hearts
That even would break to keep it.
Was there ever a name that lived like this?
Will it ever be such another?
The angels have reared in heaven a shrine
For the holy name of mother!"

MOTHER'S GIRL.

How much beautiful truth is embodied in the above; truth that I want my girls to consider well. A great wave of "child culture" is sweeping over our land which is well and good so long as we do not fall into the mistake of making the child the center of our world. For the good of the child all things should not gravitate his way. I quote from a good authority: "Sometimes I think, rather sadly, that despite all that has been done for the children of this generation, they do not and cannot, have a very intense enjoyment of life because there is too much of the dead level of continual entertainment about it."

It is a homely saying, yet true. "Keep in the middle of the road." There, and there alone, is safety. I hope to hear again from "Mother's Girl."

On account of the growing needs of the general society the Advisory Committee have decided to call upon all the locals for funds to carry on the work. We trust all will respond as soon and as liberally as possible.

The Advisory Board of the Daughters of Zion take this opportunity to return thanks to Bro. Haws for his kind words of encouragement in ENSIGN for October 18th, also to other brethren who have given them such words of good cheer of late. The editor would also be pleased to have some more good words for her column from Bro. Haws, who so fully appreciates the needs of the present day.

CONFERENCE MINUTES.

The quarterly conference of the South Missouri district convened at Springfield, Missouri, October 13th. The meeting was called to order at 10 a. m. by the President, Elder D. W. Thomas. The weather being favorable there was a very good attendance. Preaching services at 7:30 p. m. by Elder Merritt, Sunday morning, priesthood meeting at 9:30, preaching services at 11, meeting in charge of D. W. Thomas and preaching by Bro. J. T. Davis. At 2:45 p. m. prayer and sacrament service in charge of Elder D. W. Thomas. At this meeting Bro. J. T. Davis was ordained to the office of priest. At 7:30 p. m. there was a large attendance and a good discourse by Elder H. Sparling. Conference closed to convene at Pomona, Missouri, January 5, 1901. S. N. GRAT, Dist. Clerk. SPRINGFIELD, Mo., Oct. 19.

The Northern Michigan district conference convened at Beaverton, October 13, 1900, J. H. Lake, president, J. J. Cornish, R. W. Hugil and J. A. Grant associates; C. B. Joice, secretary; E. A. Goodman, assistant. Branch reports: Mikado 19; Greenbush 37-36; Coleman 146-150; South Boardman 93, gain 4; Hersey 104, gain 3; Glover 21; Isoco 77, gain 8; Yalley 85, loss 2; Boyne City 50, loss 1; Whittemore 45; Kingsley 46, loss 1; Free-soil 162, gain 3; Bellaire 84, gain 11; Chase 45; Prescott 32, gain 4; Fork 45, gain 1; Wilson 23, gain 7; Star 29, gain 3; Alpena 40, loss 6.

Ministerial reports: R. W. Hugil, baptized 3; J. H. Peters; Levi Phelps; J. R. Beckley, baptized 14; W. D. Ellis, baptized 10; David Smith, baptized 6; John Schreuer, baptized 6; Amos Berve, J. A. Grant; C. G. Lewis; J. J. Cornish, baptized 19. Priests: C. E. Irwin, baptized 2; F. S. Brackebury; G. D. Washburn, baptized 12; Abram Burr; E. A. Goodwin. Teacher A. Whitehead. Deacon C. B. Joice.

Bishop's agent reported amount on hand last report, $923.03; received since, $658.33; total disbursement, $760.10; due church, $51.26. Audited and approved.

J. H. Peters elected district president, C. B. Joice elected district secretary, J. J. Cornish, bishop's agent, sustained. J. H. Peters was elected as delegate to General Conference, with such other officials as may attend.

Preaching by J. H. Lake, J. J. Cornish, E. K. Evans, W. D. Ellis, J. R. Beckley. Four baptized. E. A. Goodwin ordained elder, W. P. Buckley and John McKnight priests, Edward S. White teacher. Adjourned to meet at Fork, Isabella county, the second Saturday and Sunday in June 1901. J. H. PETERS, Pres. C. B. JOICE, Sec. SOUTH BOARDMAN, Mich., Oct. 22.

Christmas Programs.

The Christmas programs issued by the General Sunday School Association will be ready to mail about November 10, 1900. Price will be 5 cents each; 50 cents per dozen, or $1.00 per hundred, postage prepaid. Send orders to the Business Manager of the Herald Office, Bro. John Smith, Lamoni, Ia. Order your programs early and begin work on them at once.

We have examined the manuscript of this program and consider it of unusual merit and will do credit to the many contributors and to the committee which prepared it. It is adapted to the use of the smallest school in the Association or to the largest. You may find parts for any individual or class in your school. It has been prepared with this point especially in view. So do not think that your school could not use it.

We hope that all schools whether large or small will celebrate the Christmas with appropriate exercises. Do not desecrate the day or treat the occasion lightly, but make it one of pleasure, worship and reverence. These programs are issued with the hope to assist those who wish to celebrate the day with appropriate exercises by furnishing them with material such as they cannot find without much effort if at all. We believe that all will be pleased with the program that use it.

Yours for the work,
T. A. HODGAS, Gen. Supt.
HENDERSON, IOWA, Oct. 29. 2t

Boundary Lines of Districts, Etc.

It is necessary to have on record a description or statement of the boundary lines of every district, for the use of the Presidency and other departments. District presidents and secretaries are therefore requested to forward statements of the boundaries of their respective districts. They are requested to also give lists of names of branches in their districts.

If boundaries have not been specifically defined, or not specified at all, kindly so report, and as soon as possible. If your district contemplates action on boundary lines, please report its present status, also its further action when taken. It is necessary to make the record complete. District officials are requested to give this request their early attention. Please do not omit lists of branches. The foregoing request, made in June, 1900, has been responded to by but eighteen out of a total of sixty-nine districts. Responses from all are earnestly desired.

R. S. SALLYARDS,
Church Secretary.
LAMONT, IOWA, Oct. 15, 1900.

NOTICES.

Information is wanted of the whereabouts of Isaac Newton Gore or his wife, Clementine Gore. The last heard from they were in St. Joseph, Missouri. Anyone knowing their address will confer a great favor by sending same to the ENSIGN or to

LAWSON PASCHAL, Puryear, Tenn.

To the Second Quorum of Elders; Dear Brethren—I have lately mailed to each member of the quorum one of our circular letters. If anyone should fail to receive one, please inform me and I will mail you another at once. Each member will please seek to do all they can to magnify their calling, and keep a correct account of all their labors, so that on the first of March, 1901, you will make out your report on a blank which I will send to you before that time and you will send it to me, so that I can have our reports all in order when we meet at General Conference in April at Independence, Missouri.

F. C. WARNKY, Sec.
2122 Wabash Ave., Kansas City, Mo.

Conference Notices.

To the Northeast Texas and Choctaw District.—The Saints in the above district will please remember that the conference of the above district convenes at Cove, Arkansas, on December 1st, and not on the 5th, as some have understood. Please remember. It is expected that a profitable time will be had. The missionary in charge will be present. Let us have a full turnout.

ELLIS SHORT,
KANSAS CITY, Mo., Oct. 29.

Convention Notices.

The semi-annual convention of the Massachusetts District Sunday School will convene Saturday, November 10, 1900, at 2:30 p. m., 64 Broadway, Somerville, Mass. Everybody come. Take any Broadway-Somerville car. M. C. FISHER, Dist. Supt. 39 Hudson St., Somerville, Mass. October 22.

MARRIED.

ALBERTSON-MESSICK.—At the home of the bride's parents, Kansas City, Missouri, Sunday, October 21, 1900, Mr. Harrison D. Albertson and Sr. Alice M. Messick were united in marriage by Elder E. C. Warnky.

PENDER-GURWELL.—In the Saints' chapel, Fanning, Doniphan county, Kansas, on Wednesday evening, October 24, 1900, Elder W. S. Pender and Sr. Fannie B. Gurwell were united in marriage, Bro. H. A. Stebbins officiating in the ceremony. The bride is a daughter of Bro. and Sr. William Gurwell. Saints of long experience in the gospel and Bro. Pender has for years been in the missionary service of the church.

Preceding the ceremony Bro. Stebbins preached upon the marriage covenant as defined in God's word; Bro. A. H. Parsons assisted in this service. Then the couple came forward, the groom being attended by Elder M. T. Short and Mr. Leonard Whitlow, the groomsmen, and bride by her parents and her sister, Helen, as bridesmaid. Thus, standing under a leafy arch, the two, already united in heart, were made one according to the laws of God and of the land.

During the sermon and ceremony the chapel was filled with interested friends and neighbors. Going thence to the home of Bro. and Sr. Gurwell, the wedding feast was held. Six of the ten sons and daughters are now married. Bro. Pender expects to return to the Rocky Mountain mission work about December first.

DIED.

CAULKINS.—At Hamburg, Iowa, October 8, 1900, Sr. Nancy Jane Caulkins, wife of Bro. Myron Caulkins. She was born September 2, 1850, in Buchanan county, Missouri; baptized August 23, 1870, at Riverton, Iowa, by Thomas Nutt, confirmed by James W. Caulkins. Funeral at Saints' chapel, Hamburg, Iowa, Elder Henry Kemp officiating. Husband, three sons, one daughter and many friends mourn for her.

RICE.—At Clinton, Missouri, October 26, 1900, of a complication of diseases, Bro. Thomas B. Rice, aged 63 years. He was born in Medora, Illinois, moved to Clinton 23 years ago, and, until incapacitated by reason of ill health, was engaged in mercantile pursuits. His wife, formerly Miss Susan Chilton, of Medora, Illinois, and one daughter, with four brothers and five sisters survive him, none of them, however, being identified with the church of which the deceased was so worthy and exemplary a member. A few weeks ago Elder H. H. Robinson, of Independence, Missouri, was called to administer to him, from which temporary relief was realized, but he soon relapsed and has gone to his reward. Funeral Saturday, October 27th, conducted by Rev. C. M. Truex, pastor of the Baptist church.

ON GUARD

The warning cough is the faithful sentinel. It tells of the approach of consumption, which has killed more people than war and pestilence combined. It tells of painful chests, sore lungs, weak throats, bronchitis, and pneumonia. Do not suffer another day. It's useless, for there's a prompt and safe cure. It is which cures fresh colds and coughs in a single night and masters chronic coughs and bronchitis in a short time. Consumption is surely prevented, and cured, too, if taken in time.

Ayer's Cherry Pectoral

A 25c. bottle for a fresh cold; 50c. size for older colds; $1 size for chronic coughs and consumption.

"I always keep a bottle of Ayer's Cherry Pectoral on hand. When every time I get cold I take a little of it and I am better at once."

LANS O. HODGAS,
Oct. 19, 1898. El Paso, Texas.

Write the Doctor. If you have any complaint whatever and desire the best medicine, write the Doctor freely.

Dr. J. C. AYER, Lowell, Mass.

ZION'S ENSIGN.

"OUR CREED: ALL TRUTH."

VOLUME 11.

INDEPENDENCE, MISSOURI, THURSDAY, NOVEMBER 8, 1900

NUMBER 45.

ZION'S ENSIGN.

A Literary and Religious Newspaper, published in the interest of social, scientific and religious truth, every Thursday, at Independence, Jackson County, Missouri.

PRICE, $1.00 PER YEAR, IN ADVANCE.

ENSIGN PUBLISHING HOUSE, of the Reorganized Church of Jesus Christ of Latter Day Saints.

W. H. GARRETT, EDITOR.
J. W. LUFF, BUSINESS MANAGER.

Make all remittances, and address all communications to ENSIGN PUBLISHING HOUSE, Box B, Independence, Jackson County, Missouri.

New subscriptions can begin at any time. If possible to avoid it, never send silver as it is liable to wear through the envelope and be lost. Always give the name of the post office to which your paper is sent or we can not find your name on our lists.

When desiring your address changed, give both the old and new address.

Papers will be discontinued one month from the time subscriptions expire, unless ordered continued.

In making remittances, money orders are preferable for they are absolutely safe. If you can avoid it, do not send gold or stamps. Canadian stamps are an entire loss, and Canadian currency is only worth ninety cents on the dollar to us, for that is all we can get for it at the bank.

Letters should be addressed, and orders and drafts made payable to ENSIGN PUBLISHING HOUSE, Independence, Mo.

Box B.

EVIL SPEAKING.

Speak not evil one of another brethren. He that speaketh evil of his brother, and judgeth his brother, speaketh evil of the law, and judgeth the law: but if thou judge the law, thou art not a doer of the law, but a judge.—Jas. 4:11.

Thou shalt not speak evil of thy neighbor, nor do him any harm.—D. & C. 42:7.

It would seem to an observant mind that if there is anything to give possible color to the theory of the total depravity of the human family naturally—unregenerated, which is sometimes advocated, it is the almost universal inclination to find pleasure in hearing or relating something of the weaknesses and imperfections in another's character. If just a tittle of the interest that is now used in unseemly gossip in all classes of society, inside as well as outside the church, was displayed in speaking of the gospel, how different would be the conditions existing. Or, if as much assiduity were used in speaking of the good traits characteristic of others, entirely ignoring the baser sort—in conversation—as some seem to show in spreading and magnifying evil reports, the devil would be raging, instead of well pleased and delighted as he must be under the existing conditions.

Many a young person, lacking in discretion, but innocent of wrong intention, has been cruelly wounded, and in some instances even ruined in their lives by the despicable habit of slander, superinduced by a spirit of evil surmising. It will be a heavy burden to bear in the judgment for those who are the principals and accessories in this unholy, unchristian work, for the declaration of the Savior with regard to blessings given for kindly acts, will apply with equal force to those who so uncharitably wound His children: "As ye have done it unto one of the least of these my brethren ye have done it unto ME." (Matt. 25:40). This thought should impress itself upon the mind so strongly that the last thing we should be willing to do, should be to needlessly and causelessly inflict a wound fraught with such distressing results, upon any one. God's children are required to be helpful in their influence, to cheer and encourage, under all conditions, leaving judgment for transgressions with the Lord, and in the hands of those appointed overseers of the flock.

The plea is often made when confronted with the direful evidence of havoc wrought in someone's character, "I did not intend to do harm;" perhaps not, but the result is precisely as though harm had been intended. It does not lessen the woe of the sufferer that the harm was but incidental, unpromeditated; not a particle; the fact, stern and uncompromising, is that harm has resulted, and a great deal of hard work is imposed upon some one, and much humiliation will be experienced, before restitution can be made and effective restoration of character completed. But those instrumental in spreading an unfavorable story, seldom display anywhere near the interest and energy in trying to correct the wrong done. Seldom indeed.

The story is told of a member of the Roman Catholic church who in her confession to the priest, mentioned having told certain things derogatory to the character of a fellow parishoner. The priest listened carefully to her recital and when it was completed, he imposed as a penance upon the culprit, the necessity of going upon the highway and scattering bits of paper along the road, after doing which she should report to him again. The woman hastened joyfully away, congratulating herself upon the lightness of the sentence and the ease with which it could be performed. In due time she returned to the father confessor and told him she had complied with his decision, and after being assured that she had done her work thoroughly, the wise priest commanded her to immediately return and gather up every piece she had scattered and bring it to him. Upon her startled assertion of the impossibility of doing this part of the penance, as the winds had scattered them far beyond reach, the priest impressed the lesson upon her of the mighty task of gathering up the effects of a slander, and she went thoughtfully out from his presence impressed with the magnitude of the evils resulting from this arm of the adversary's service. How does the lesson impress you, reader?

But it may be urged the actions of one against whom unfavorable reports may be circulated tend to confirm the truth of the reports and at least give color to the truthfulness of the stories told. Supposing this to be true and for the sake of the argument allowing that it is true, what liberty does that fact bestow that any one may use it to spread the shame of it? What authority does that confer upon anyone to lower the individual in the estimation of those who may still hold a good opinion of such an one? Where is there a warrant in God's word for the license so often assumed to enlarge upon the demerits of those who are said to be erring? Things are not always what they seem and it requires keen penetration, a well balanced temperament and a very strong sense of justice and as strongly tempered with mercy, to enable one to judge righteously always, as the disciples of Jesus are enjoined to do.

There is one right way and only one way to act when wrong doing by a member of the church is revealed, and that is to tell it to the proper officer of the church AND TO NO ONE ELSE; you have, then performed your duty in the case and the responsibility rests upon that officer (the teacher) to see that it is corrected. If he fails to take notice after due time then the pastor—the presiding officer of the local church—should be informed, and if he fails, then the district presiding officer and from there to the missionary in charge. But no one should bind themselves to secrecy in concealing a misdemeanor from which the fair name of the church would suffer or the work of the Lord be hindered. In so doing one becomes a partaker of the evil. An unsavory report is sometimes told another in confidence, "You won't tell anyone else, will you?" "Don't you say a word about it to anyone else," or "Don't tell anyone that I told you," etc. Generally the person thus pledged has someone in whom they place confidence and in imparting the information to that other one under the same kind of an assurance they forget they have violated their promise and soon the report is public property; then stop it if you can.

The remedy for this evil is not to give pledges of this character. Better crucify the feeling of curiosity and remain in ignorance of the fearful thing than to be made a partaker in the evil by keeping it from those who are set in the church by the Lord to see that no evil exists, and in which category that of "backbiting" or slander is specifically named. Give every person who wishes to bind your conscience in this manner to understand that it is your duty to make known to the officers of the church any wrong which may be existing, and to give them your authority for your information so that they may be able to trace it down to its source and have justice done, and that you would be under condemnation before the Lord were you to act otherwise. This would stop all the evil if every one would act in this manner, and the adversary would lose a fruitful assistance in his unholy work. Brother, sister, what think you? What will you do in this matter? "Every man shall be rewarded as his works shall be."

EDITORIAL ITEMS.

SR. DELLIS A. PERRY, 104 North Willard street, Burlington, Vermont, would like to know if there are any of the Saints in that part of the state. She expects to remain there for about three months, and a call from any Saint living in the vicinity, will be welcomed at any time.

ELDER RICHARD BALDWIN, of Sharon, Pennsylvania, is doing some effective work at Titusville, Pennsylvania, seven have been baptized, and is preaching to a full house every night. He says, "The work is onward here; more openings than I can fill." This is in a region where but little of the work is known and we rejoice with our brother in the interest manifested.

ELDER J. W. RUSHTON, on August 11th this year, had an article in The Hamilton (Scotland) Advertiser regarding the faith of the Saints. To this article one Sueddon, apparently a Brighamite, took exceptions and in the issue of The Advertiser for September 22d, in an article headed "Utah and its People," made some statements and referred to Bro. Rushton in uncomplimentary terms. October 13th Bro. Rushton in about a "galley" of "minion" presents the facts in the case, citing authorities on Brigham Young's teaching and other officials, relative to polygamy, blood atonement, Adam-God, and the character of the people of Utah as described by President Young. It is a very able statement and the people of Scotland who have sufficient interest to investigate, cannot fail to be impressed with the truths in Bro. Rushton's presentation.

THE ENSIGN gratefully acknowledges the thoughtful consideration of Bro. F. M. Freeman, 496 Givens street, Toronto, Ontario, for two large photos of a group of the Canada Saints—with President Joseph Smith and Apostle R. C. Evans leading features—and the new church of the Saints with a group of workmen in front. Bro. R. C. Evans, with cap and overalls, being among the number, as well as several ladies and boys. We feel proud of the appearance of the church as being a credit to that noble band of self-sacrificing and hard working Saints, whose love for the work and diligence manifested made such a church home possible. It is of brick, neat but plain in design, and will surely attract the citizens of Toronto to the fact that the faith of the Saints has a good foundation in Toronto. The brethren and sisters represented in the larger picture are intelligent and pleasant looking people, and with such earnest workers to move it, the gospel is sure to make progress in Toronto. We bid them Godspeed in the good work.

EXTRACTS FROM LETTERS.

ELDER J. C. FOSS, St. Joseph, Mo., Oct. 19:

Am preaching again this week at the Aspey mission, assisted by Elder M. Shaw, who has charge of the mission; he stands by me nobly and is a good worker at the mission. Last Sunday we ordained Bro. Henry B. Taddison an elder; the Spirit was present to bless. Bro. Wm. Lewis is a kind father to the branch. Bro. S. F. Cushman, and Walter W. Smith closed a long series of meetings in the tent at Far West, on Sunday last. A hundred and fifty people present. Our district is in a healthy condition; of course there is a good chance to improve.

ELDER H. E. MOLER, Wilmington, Illinois, October 30:

Bro. J. T. Hackett and I have been laboring here, and near here, for over three Sundays. We find those Saints baptized by Bro. A. J. Keck and myself still alive in the work, and desirous of being advanced. We are rejoicing in the truth, and in the light which they possess. We held a weeks meeting at Wesley, but the farmers were too busy to attend. We go, the latter part of this week, to South Wilmington, a new mining town which has been southwest of here, to the first effort that has ever been made there. Expect to look after some new openings near Piper City later on.

Bro. J. L. TERRY, Millersburg, Illinois:

Zion's cause seems to be gaining ground in our branch at Millersburg, notwithstanding there are some things that should not be. We have just had Apostle Heman C. Smith with us for a few days, expounding the Scriptures to the citizens of our village, which I think has done good. In that it has strengthened the Saints and gave some of those not of our faith something to think about. Bro. Smith is very convincing in his arguments, and I cannot see why anyone cannot understand that this is God's work, and in harmony with His plan of salvation. One, a Bro. Reynolds, was baptized Sunday by Bro. J. W. Adams. Bro. Smith had a good sized and very attentive congregation, and I think his stay among us, though of short duration, will result in good, both in bringing some into the fold and helping the Saints to a better understanding of the duties devolving upon them. Saints in Millersburg have been blessed both spiritually and temporally. They have repaired their church to the extent of about one hundred dollars worth, which was a large undertaking, considering the financial condition of the Saints in our branch. But it is evident that the Lord has blessed them in their undertaking, and the result is, they have the repairing done and paid for.

HOW IS THIS?

Combination No. 1.—$1.00.

From Palmyra to Independence (paper cover).....	5
Book of Mormon Vindicated (paper cover).....	30
The Book of Mormon and its Translator.....	10
The Books and Utah Mormonism in Contrast.....	10
The Legal Successor in the Presidency of the Church.....	10
Total, $1.25

All the above post paid to any address for $1.00.

Palmyra to Independence will be sent in cloth cover for 30 cents extra, or Book of Mormon Vindicated in cloth cover for 20 cents extra, or both for 50 cents extra.

Combination No. 2.—$1.00.

Spiritual Gifts and the Seer of Palmyra.....	25
Faulty Creeds.....	20
Creeds Laid Bare.....	10
The Resurrection of the Wicked. Who Was Joseph Smith? Was He a False Prophet?.....	10
The Book of Mormon and its Translator.....	10
The Legal Successor in the Presidency of the Church.....	10
The Apostasy of the Church.....	10
The Joseph Smith Interview. What We Believe.....	5
The Law of Life. The Restoration of Israel. A Retrospective View of the Reorganization. God in Light. The Marriage Relation. Save Yourselves.....	15
Total, $1.25

This combination will also be sent to any address on receipt of $1.00. For either of the above the cash must accompany the order.

Address, ENSIGN PUBLISHING HOUSE, Independence, Mo.

GENERAL CHURCH NEWS.

INDEPENDENCE.

Sr. Joseph Clark has just returned home from a three months visit with relatives and friends in Provo and other points in Utah and in Idaho.

Bro. John D. White's new house on Short street, is looming up. The Vernon addition is a popular part of the city and is getting some nice residences.

Bro. Bert Eaton will leave for his home, Stonington, Maine, this (Thursday) evening; he is in poor health; Bro. John C. Foss will accompany him to look after his welfare.

Elder Alfred White will preach next Sunday morning at the Saints church, and Bishop G. H. Hilliard at 7:30 p. m. It may be necessary to hold services in the lower auditorium for a Sunday or two until the furnaces are in shape for use.

We congratulate Bro. A. H. Smith, our good natured Patriarch, on the advent of a sweet little granddaughter at Independence last Saturday. Bro. and Sr. W. F. Kennedy the happy parents will see that she gets the best of care.

Every official of the branch, the Sunday School, and the Religion, are earnestly requested to meet the pastor in the north room of the basement, next Monday evening at 8 o'clock sharp. Important questions are to be discussed looking to advanced and enlarged work in some departments.

Bro. Willis W. Tousley and Mrs. Lillie Stickley were married at the home of Sr. Douglas, Bro. Tousley's sister, on South Delaware street, property formerly owned by Bro. J. W. Brackebury, Sunday afternoon, November 8d; Bro. W. H. Garrett officiated.

Sunday was a most delightful day, the sun shining clear and warm. Bro. W. T. Bozarth being unable to fill his appointment, Bishop G. H. Hilliard consented to take his place, and occupied very acceptably. Apostle I. N. White preached at night to a good sized audience. The afternoon service was fair but a little slow. There were large audiences present at all the services.

A beautiful cantata to be given in the church for the benefit of the organ fund, is a contemplated event for some time during the winter. It will be prepared by Srs. W. N. Robinson and Belle James, who will be assisted by our best talent, and will be a treat for our music loving people. The church should be filled to overflowing when it is presented, it will be well worth hearing.

The weather has been bright and warm the past week; grass is green and in some places heavy, the falling leaves being the only indication of approaching winter. The editor of the ENSIGN gathered nearly a half peck of ripe tomatoes from vines in his yard the past week, and there were blossoms and green tomatoes yet on the vines. Sr. J. B. Smith, on West Electric street has, we hear, been having lettuce and radishes all fall taken from her garden; others are having similar contributions from their gardens. We hope to be favored with another mild winter.

Monday evening the branch business meeting was held; W. H. Garrett presiding, J. W. Luff secretary. The usual reports were read. The treasurer reported receipts for October, $27.90; expenditures $17.82; balance $10.08. His report for the six months showed receipts $194.10; expenditures $184.02; balance $10.08. Nine additions were made to the branch on letters of removal. Election for officials to serve for the ensuing six months being called, those serving the past six months were, under a suspension of rules relative to manner of voting, sustained. This summary action enabled the session to finish its work about half past eight when adjournment was had.

The Oratorio of the Creation, by Haden, was splendidly rendered before an audience that nearly filled the great Convention Hall, Kansas City, Thursday evening of last week, under the direction of Prof. Carl Busch. The soloists, Mr. Hamlin, tenor; Mr. Clark, baritone, and Mrs. Clark Wilson, soprano, received generous applause for their excellent work. The chorus, among whom are a number of our Independence Saints, Bro. W. N. Robinson being the secretary, did splendid work and were frequently applauded for the fine rendering of their parts. There were nearly five hundred of them, and besides their splendid singing, they made a fine appearance. It was an enjoyable success.

ST. LOUIS, MISSOURI.

Places of worship: Rock Church, Glasgow avenue and Dickson street; services: Wednesday evening, prayer service; Sunday, Sabbath School 9:30 a. m., preaching 11 o'clock a. m., social service 2:30 p. m., preaching at 8 p. m.; Cheltenham, 5731 Manchester Ave., services, Sunday School, 10 a. m., social meeting 2:30 p. m., preaching 7:30 p. m.; Oak Hill, Sunday School 9:30 a. m., and services at 2:30 and 8 p. m.

Bro. Arthur Allen departed last week for Belleville, where he has been busy doing preaching.

Sunday morning was bright and cheerful; quite a well filled house greeted Bro. Barraclough; his text was from the 10th chapter of Matthew, and we much enjoyed his clear, logical reasoning. One point, made beautifully clear and impressive was, that we may not buy God's blessings, but through OBEYANCE merit them. He was assisted by Bro. Jas. Christenson.

A fine showing of strangers at the evening services, of late.

Appointments yesterday: Bro. Allen, Belleville, two services; Bro. J. G. Cole, Cheltenham, in the afternoon, Bro. N. N. Cooke, night service; Oak Hill mission; Bro. Ivor Davis in the afternoon; Bro. T. J. Elliott, occupying at night, while Bro. Henry Roberts spent the day at Alma, Illinois.

Bro. John Billinsky was in Belleville during the day, on Sunday School and teacher's business.

The looks of the interior of our church has been some little improved; it was so very nice at first, we thought it couldn't be improved very much, but yesterday as we looked at the finished panel, and our eyes were pleased with the added draperies, we could heartily congratulate the gentlemen who have made this their pleasant work. Our church organ has been added to, and at present looks very imposing with its adornment.

Sr. Ward and family, late of Pleasant Hill, are located here; permanently we hope.

Sr. Sethena Ashton is quite sick; Srs. Cook and Mercer are ailing.

The Mite Society is becoming very much enthused over their forthcoming bazaar and Thanksgiving dinner. We have bright prospects.

Bro. John Parrish addressed the evening congregation, Bro. Barraclough, assistant.

November 8.

CHICAGO, ILLINOIS.

Branch headquarters, 716 W. Van Buren St., Sunday meetings 2:45 and 7:45 p. m.; Lang Mission, 3411 Cottage Grove Ave., 10:45 a. m. and 7:30 p. m.; West Pullman branch, 748 119th St., 10:30 a. m. and 7:30 p. m.; 508 W. 37th St. (colored mission), 10:30 a. m. and 7:30 p. m.

The criminal court of Chicago, surpasses any court in the world in point of number of criminal cases tried last year, there being 3,501 against 3,234 for London, England, with twice the inhabitants. Can the Saints withstand this high tide of evil? yes, by being prayerful, careful and wise.

We rallied strength sufficient to meet with the Saints in union service yesterday, which was well attended, and imbued with the good Spirit. A number however, were deprived the privilege of taking part by others occupying much more than their portion. "Wisdom is the principal thing."

The entertainment passed off smoothly, there being displayed good talent, especially in the musical line.

An excellent prayer meeting was held Thursday night, all present taking part, young Sr. Ethel Bellow telling how she felt the holy influence of the Spirit at her baptism, and when she prayed, and felt it there at the meeting.

Sr. Mamie Booth, sister of Deacon Culver, starts Tuesday for Denver, Colorado, probably to make her future home there. Peace and good will attend her.

By telegram we learned of the death of Sr. Seaton, of Sandwich on Friday last. The funeral to occur on Sunday 2 o'clock. We were wholly unable to comply with the request to attend and preach the sermon which we sincerely regretted. We are convalescing slowly.

Invitations are out announcing the wedding of Sr. Emma L. Little to Bro. Philip Rogers, on Thursday next at 3411 Cottage Grove avenue. May this change prove a mutual blessing.

Bro. G. H. Henley has returned home after a summers tour in the district as a missionary, looking and feeling well.

We enjoyed a call from Bro. Nelson Caselman, of near Cowgill, Missouri. He is 81 years old, was baptized in 1840, and yet delights to talk of the latter day work. We love to meet the old veterans. His daughter, Sr. Martin accompanied him.

Bro. P. Pement and G. H. Henley occupied the mission pulpit yesterday, and Bro. F. M. Pitt and Wm Strange at branch headquarters.

Next Sunday is our monthly sacrament meeting at 716 Van Buren, commencing at 3 o'clock. Bro. F. M. Cooper will preach at night, also at 3411 Cottage Grove at 11 a. m.

J. M. TERRY.

395 Ogden Av. Nov. 5.

FIRST KANSAS CITY BRANCH.

2324 Wabash Ave., Sunday School 9:30 a. m.; preaching at 11 a. m. and 7:30 p. m.; social service 12:15 p. m. D. F. Winn, pastor, 2306 Bellfontaine.

Things are moving along in the usual way with us. Since our last report Bro. and Sr. D. H. Blair have located in our midst, and are quite an acquisition to our Sunday School.

Bro. M. Leeton and family have returned and are again members of our branch.

The regular semi-annual election of officers held on Monday evening resulted as follows: D. F. Winn, presiding elder; L. H. Ashbaugh, presiding priest; M. Leeton, teacher; Geo. Hidy, deacon; Will MacLaren, Clerk; Arthur Gillen, chorister; Sr. Lulu Sandy, organist; E. Etzenhouser, press agent.

Bro. James Armour, who has served the branch faithfully for the last two years, will move to his former home, Olathe, Kansas, soon.

Elder F. C. Warnky is announced as speaker for Sunday evening, November 10th. He is a forceful and logical speaker, and we hope to have a good audience. R. E. PORTER.

November 8.

SAN FRANCISCO, CALIFORNIA.

Services at Golden West Hall, 320 Post street, every Sunday. Sunday School 10 a. m., preaching 11 a. m. and 7:30 p. m.; prayer meeting first Sunday of each month at 12:15 noon. Elder C. A. Parkin presiding elder, residence 3010 16th street.

Sunday we had preaching in the morning and evening by Fred B. Blair. He used his chart, which made his remarks very interesting, as the lines of his discourse were pictured before us, making his sermons doubly impressive. Our hall was well filled on both occasions.

Bishop Chas. A. Parkin went to Berkeley in the morning and preached there, John A. Saxe, following him at the same place in the evening. Bro. Blair also preached at Oakland in the afternoon. We had quite a number of visitors during the day, among them we noticed Sr. J. M. Range and daughter from San Jose.

Our prayer meeting Wednesday evening was well attended, and a good time was had. At many of our meetings of late, our place of worship is well filled; the interest is increasing, and a good spirit nearly always prevails.

The sisters' prayer union held its regular session Thursday afternoon.

Friday evening we had a specially fine meeting at the Religion. The lesson was interesting, and the program fine; the room was over-crowded, some having to sit out in the hall. It was the evening our paper, "The Electric Spark," was to appear. This was a fine number, some of the articles were splendid. We have some fine writers among our young people, who are sure to make their mark in the world, if they continue. If they use their talents aright, they are sure to be an honor to the church and themselves. We understand that a copy of the "Spark" is to be sent East.

We are putting forth extra efforts here for the spread of the truth, and the cause is prospering.

Geo. S. LINCOLN.

Oct. 28.

LETTER DEPARTMENT.

LAMAR, Colo., Oct. 31st.

Editor Ensign:—I wish to ask the missionaries of northwest Kansas to call on James W. Scott, who lives seven miles northeast of Oberlin, Kansas. I met him on the road, or rather in camp, while making a trip by wagon from Wray to Colorado Springs, in company with Bro. Tabor and family. We camped near them one night, and talked the gospel to them. They seemed very much interested and requested that we send an elder to preach in their neighborhood, whom they promised to entertain. Will the brethren please call on them?

I came to this place nearly two weeks ago; found Bro. Ralston and Bradshaw living here. Began preaching at once in Enterprise school-house where I held eight services; interest and attention was good until the political meetings began in the neighborhood, and then we found that we could do very little until after election. Prospects are quite good for

ZION'S ENSIGN.

Entered at the Post Office at Independence, Mo., as Second Class Matter.

A POPULAR CHURCH.

Welghed in the Balance and Found Wanting.

PART II.

ELDER FREDERICK GREGORY.

[CONCLUDED].

This part of the inquiry is given to the relation of some few important items of history, touching the origin and establishment of the church under question. Our object is to know and make plain the meaning of the term "by law established." It will be necessary to go back into the early days of England's history and note first the introduction of the Catholic religion. I quote quite freely from "Cabbet's History of the Reformation," believing the story is best told in this Englishman's words. He says, Letter 1, par. 11.

"Then, coming nearer home and closer to our own bosoms, our ancestors became Christians about six hundred years after the death of Christ. And how did they become Christians? Who first pronounced the name of Christ to this land? Who converted the English from paganism to Christianity. * * * The work was begun, continued and ended by the Popes, one of whom sent over some monks (of whom we shall see more by and by) who settled at Canterbury, and from whose beginnings the Christian religion spread, like the grain of mustard seed, rapidly over the land. Whatever, therefore, any other part of the world might have known of Christianity before the Pope became the settled and acknowledged head of the church, England, at any rate never had known of any Christian religion other than that at the head of which was the Pope; and in this religion, with the Pope at its head, England continued to be firmly fixed for nine hundred years."

Quoting from Letter 2, paragraph 45, the thought is continued:

"England at the time when this religion was introduced, was governed by seven kings, and that state was called the Hierarchy. The people of the whole country were Pagans. Yes, my friends, our ancestors were Pagans; they worshipped Gods made with hands; and they sacrificed children on the altars of their idols. In this state England was when the Pope of that day, Gregory I, sent forty monks with a monk of the name of Austin (or Augustin) at their head to preach the gospel to the English."

As to the time of this work paragraph 44 says:

"It is supposed by some, and indeed, with good authorities of their side, that the Christian religion was partially introduced into England so early as the second century after Christ. But we know for a certainty that it was introduced effectually in the year 596; that is to say, 923 years before Henry VIII began to destroy it."

Saint Augustin upon his arrival applied to the king and obtained permission to preach to the people which he did, meeting with great and immediate success. As time went on the number of monks was greatly increased and the work spread rapidly. In process of time the church acquired an immense amount of land and other property; having built majestic church edifices, monasteries, nunneries, etc., and for fully nine hundred years England knew no other religion, during which time the nation cheerfully submitted to the rule and authority of the pope. But the time came for a change. The reign of Henry VIII was a most unfortunate one to the Catholic church. Of him Cabbet says, Letter 2, par. 61:

"This king succeeded his father Henry VII, in the year 1509. He succeeded to a great and prosperous kingdom, a full treasury, and a happy and contented people, who expected in him the wisdom of his father, without his avarice, which seems to have been that father's only fault. Henry VIII was eighteen years old when his father died. He had an elder brother, named Arthur, who, at the early age of twelve years, had been betrothed to Catharine, fourth daughter of Ferdinand, king of Castile and Arragon. When Arthur was fourteen years old, the princess came to England, and the marriage ceremony was performed; but Arthur, who was a weak and sickly boy, died before the year was out, and the marriage never was consummated; and indeed, who will believe that it could be? Henry wished to marry Catharine, and the marriage was agreed to by the parents on both sides: but it did not take place until after the death of Henry VII. The moment the young king came to the throne, he took measures for his marriage. Catharine being, though only nominally, the widow of his deceased brother, it was necessary to have, from the Pope, as supreme head of the church, a dispensation, in order to render the marriage lawful in the eye of the canon law. The dispensation, to which there could be no valid objection, was obtained, and the marriage was, amid the rejoicings of the whole nation, celebrated in June, 1509, in less than two months after the king's accession."

(Par. 62). "With this lady, who was beautiful in her youth, and whose virtues of all sorts seem scarcely ever to have been exceeded, he lived in the married state, seventeen years, before the end of which he had three sons and two daughters by her, one of whom only, a daughter, was still alive, who afterward was Mary, Queen of England. But now at the end of seventeen years, he being thirty-five years of age, and eight years younger than the queen, and having cast his eyes on a young lady, an attendant on the queen, named Anne Boleyn, he, all of a sudden, affected to believe that he was living in sin, because he was married to the widow of his brother, though, as we have seen, the marriage between Catharine and the brother had never been consummated, and though the parents of both the parties, together with his own Council, had unanimously and unhesitatingly approved of his marriage, which had, moreover, been sanctioned by the Pope, the head of the church, of the faith and observances of which Henry himself had, as we shall hereafter see, been, long since his marriage, a zealous defender." (Par. 63). "But the tyrant's passions were now in motion, and he resolved to gratify his beastly lust, cost what it might in reputation, in treasure; and in blood. He first applied to the Pope to divorce him from his queen. He was a great favorite of the Pope, he was very powerful, there were many strong motives for yielding to his request; but that request was so full of injustice, it would have been so cruel towards the virtuous queen to accede to it, that the Pope could not, and did not, grant it. He, however, in hopes that time might induce the tyrant to relent, ordered a court to be held by his Legate and Wolsey, in England, to hear and determine the case. Before this court the Queen disdained to plead, and the Legate, dissolving the court, referred the matter back to the Pope, who still refused to take any step towards the granting of the divorce. The tyrant now became furious, resolved upon overthrowing the power of the Pope in England, upon making himself the head of the church in this country, and upon doing whatever else might be necessary, to insure the gratification of his beastly desires and the gutting of his vengeance."

(Par. 64). "By making himself the supreme head of the church, he made himself, he having the sword and gibbet at his command, master of all the property of that church, including that of the monasteries. His counsellors and courtiers knew this; and, as it was soon discovered that a sweeping confiscation would take place, the parliament was by no means backward in aiding his designs, every one hoping to share in the plunder. The first step was to pass acts taking from the Pope all authority and power over the church in England, and giving to the king all authority whatever as to ecclesiastical matters."

The accession of Henry VIII to the throne in 1509 introduces a new era in the history of England. From the year 596 or earlier, till Henry's rebellion, all was quiet and the people of England knew no other religion but that of the pope. Henry stood at the head of a great and prosperous kingdom, with a full treasury; a very zealous Catholic and favorite of the pope. Martin Luther, the leading man in the work of reforming the Roman Catholic church, had commenced his work in the year 1517, at which time, and for nine years after, Henry was very much attached to the Catholic religion. While Luther and others were railing against the great church Henry took occasion to defend the claims of the See against the great onslaught of the reformers, and in the year 1521, four years after Luther made his attack on Rome, and five years before he became dissatisfied with Catharine his wife, which led to the quarrel between him and the pope, the king wrote a book against Luther and the reformation work, in which he very zealously maintained the Catholic religion. For this noble defense of the pope's authority against Luther's assault, King Henry received from the pope the title of "Defender of the Faith," a title still held by our sovereign lady, Queen Victoria, though it is noticeable she and her subjects deny the faith so nobly defended by Henry.

Henry was married in 1509 and lived with his wife for seventeen years, which would bring us to the year 1526, when, having grown tired of his wife, and becoming infatuated with Anne Boleyn, who is believed by some to be his own daughter, he applied to the pope, the head of the church, for divorce, but this the pope, he it said to his honor, refused to do under any pretext whatever. At this the king became enraged and resolved upon overthrowing the power of the pope in England and making himself head of the church in England. He could not very well, nor did he ask for Luther's assistance, for he and Luther were at a disagreement already, so he remained Catholic in faith but refused longer to submit to the rule and authority of the holy See, because his holiness had not given consent to him putting away his first and legal wife for such a trifling cause. Henry at once set to work in earnest. He could not be a protestant nor did he wish to serve under the pope, so that it became necessary for him to establish a religion of his own unto which all England must submit.

His first step was to appeal to Parliament and have it pass acts taking from the pope all authority and power over the church in England, and giving to the king all authority whatever as to ecclesiastical matters. This was followed by other enactments forbidding the people, all Roman Catholics, in England, making payment or appeals to Rome. In the year 1528, an act had been passed to exempt the king from paying any sum of money that he might have borrowed; other acts of similar import following.

At the time of Henry being crowned king, Cobbet says there were in England 645 monasteries, besides 90 colleges, 110 hospitals and 2374 chantries and free chapels. The whole were seized on, first and last, and taken into the hands of the king, and by him granted to those who aided him in the work of cutting off the authority of the pope. In Letter 5, paragraph 162, speaking of the sundry acts of Parliament necessary to establishing the church under Henry, Cobbet writes:

"However, upon reports thus obtained, an Act of Parliament was passed in March, 1536, the same year that saw the end of Anne Boleyn, for the suppression, that is to say, confiscation of three hundred and seventy-six monasteries, and for granting their estates, real and personal, to the king and his heirs! He took plate, jewels, gold and silver images and ornaments. This act of monstrous tyranny was, however, base as the Parliament was, and full as it was of greedy plunders, not passed without some opposition. Hume says, that "it does not appear that any opposition was made to this important law." He frequently quotes Spellman as an historical authority; but, it did not suit him to quote Spellman's 'History of Sacrilege,' in which this Protestant historian says, that 'the bill stuck long in the Lower House, and could get no passage, when the king commanded the Commons to attend him in the forenoon in his gallery, where he let them wait until late in the afternoon, and then, coming out of his chamber, walking a turn or two amongst them, and looking angrily on them, first on one side, and then on the other, at last, I hear (saith he), that my bill will not pass; but, I will have it pass, or I will have some of your heads; and without other rhetoric, returned to his chamber. Enough was said; the bill passed, and all was given him as he desired.'"

Thus, by act of Parliament, after making himself head of the church, and having the sword and gibbet at his command, made it an act of high treason for any person in the realm refusing to acknowledge his authority as head of the church in England, the king seizes all the property of the Catholic Church in England and forces this Parliament, under penalty of death, to will to him and his heirs all of said property. The facts as presented by Cobbet, are confirmed by the following from Edith Thompson's School History, pages 161, 162:

"Henry, at first only in hopes of frightening the Pope, went along with the general desire for a reform of ecclesiastical abuses; and as the breach between the King and Rome widened, step by step, the English church was withdrawn from the power of the Pope. A statute in restraint of appeals enacted that from Easter 1534, there should be no appeals to the Bishop or See of Rome. All payments to Rome were stopped, and the King was declared to be Supreme Head of the Church of England. Denial of this title was one of the many matters which were now made high treason, and men had not liberty even to be silent, for suspected persons were liable to be called upon to express their acknowledgement of the royal supremacy."

"British Empire" history, page 161, under the year 1535, remarks:

"This was the final breach with Rome. Henceforth the Church of England had a separate existence. Paul III, now Pope, hurled the thunders of excommunication at Henry; but the English king heeded not."

I could quote other histories confirming what has already been stated, but pass on to other matters. Suffice it to say that Parliament went so far as to pass an act in 1537, making the king's proclamations of the same force as acts of Parliament, except in cases of mere private right; thus law and justice were laid prostrate at the feet of this unprincipled king, whose only quarrel with the Pope was because the latter would not legalize his beastly lust.

Henry, now Pope and king of England, made Thomas Cranmer archbishop of Canterbury, a dignity just vacant. Cranmer became Henry's chief advisor, and judge in all ecclesiastical matter. The king was still wanting divorce from his first wife with whom he had lived seventeen years, and being master of Parliament and all England, he soon arranged matters to his satisfaction. Speaking of the ready help the king found in Cranmer, Cobbet says, Letter 2, paragraph 68:

"Cranmer, in April 1533, wrote a letter to the king, begging him, for the good of the nation, and for the safety of his own soul, to grant his permission to try the question of the divorce, and beseeching him no longer to live in the peril attending an incestuous intercourse." Matchless, astonishing hypocrite! He knew, and the king knew that he knew, and he knew that the king knew that he knew it, that the king had been actually married to Anne three months before, she being with child at the time when he married her!

The king too felt anxious about the safety of his own soul and graciously granted Archbishop Cranmer the privilege of trying the divorce. The court was ordered held in Dunstable, and the Queen, Henry's wife, Catharine, was cited to appear, which citation she wholly ignored. After keeping the court open the number of days required by law, he pronounced sentence against the Queen, declaring her marriage with the king null and void from the beginning. This done, the king was asked to submit to the will of God as voiced in the decision of the spiritual court, which he was very willing to do as might be imagined. But one child was living afterwards, Mary Queen of England.

Following this divorce the king's wish had to be gratified. He wished to marry Anne and so Bishop Cranmer ordered another court, at which he declared that the king had been married to Anne Boleyn; and he confirmed the marriage by his pastoral and judicial authority. One daughter was born to them, afterwards Elizabeth, Queen of England. Anne was not very chaste for soon she is charged with having committed adultery with four gentlemen of the king's household, and with incest with her brother, Lord Rochford. All were adjudged guilty and sentenced to be put to death.

But for Anne to be put to death, as Henry's wife and Queen, and because of adultery and incest, would disgrace his royal highness, and to save the good name of the king, Cranmer is again on hand and executes some further work. No time was lost, a court was held and Cranmer cited the king and queen to appear to show cause why they should not be separated, as their marriage was unlawful, and they were living in adultery, therefore, for the salvation of their souls this court was held. This court was held on the 17th of May, and Anne was executed on the 19th, so there were but two days for Cranmer to play on; but he soon wound up proceedings, saying, "in the name of Christ, and for the honor of God," that the marriage "was and always had been null and void!"

Henry married Jane Seymour, his third wife, the day after Anne was beheaded. She died the next year shortly after the birth of her son Edward VI. The fourth unfortunate woman figuring as the wife of the British king was Anne, sister of the Duke of Cleves. This match was brought about by Cranmer, but Anne was not good looking and a pretext was soon found for having this marriage declared null and void. Anne was well pensioned off and spent the rest of her life in England, while the king without delay married Katherine Howard. She was found guilty of some misconduct and beheaded February 12, 1542. The next year Henry, with courage undaunted, married his sixth and last wife, Katherine Parr, who kept her place as Henry's queen until his death in 1547.

We return to follow the church established by law, backed up by the sword and bayonet. Under Henry, it was Catholic, but broken away from the Pope's authority. Henry doubtless would have been a protestant, and made his church protestant, but for the ill will that existed between him and the reformers; however, by severing England from the Pope, he prepared the way for this Church of England, established by law, to become protestant. Henry maintained the mass and the sacraments, putting to death protestants and Catholics, refusing to acknowledge him as having all authority, whatsoever in ecclesiastical matters. In the death of Henry Catholics rejoiced, but alas! England was gone from them. This church had become firmly established and the Roman yoke rejected in toto.

Edward the VI takes his father's place on the throne. Cranmer, the man that did such neat work for the king, also proved a valuable help in establishing the church. In Henry's reign he prepared a book of homilies and a catechism, allowed the clergy to have wives, and finally drew up the first Book of Common Prayer and Administration of the Sacraments. Edward is a weak, sickly boy, and dies in 1553, sixteen years of age.

The reformers had made many attempts to propagate their doctrines in England, but King Henry had kept them down, but in Edward's short reign the work of the protestants crept into England, and soon the church established by law became protestant in faith. Cranmer's Book of Common Prayer was amended to suit the latest turn of the established church, the great and only church of England. Mass was abolished and there was no longer to be an altar, but a table in its stead. This is undoubtedly the holy table we have mentioned in the Prayer Book and referred to in part I.

England was now flooded with protestant advocates and a general break up of Catholic ceremonies, customs, etc., took place. Edward's reign soon closed, but England's established church had gone protestant.

We now come to Mary's reign and again England is thrown into confusion and excitement. The new queen was a Catholic and her endeavors were to turn England back to its first religion, that of the Pope. Many obstacles were in her way, but as protestantism was young, and the majority were longing for the restoration of the mass, but who dare not openly express themselves, the new queen soon had the mass restored and the protestant church, established by law, begging the Pope's pardon. No doubt but what many were put to death which gives her the title of "Bloody Mary," but she was bent on redeeming England. Listen to Cobbet tell the facts here. Letter 8, paragraph 226:

"But, there were the plunderers to deal with! And, now, we are about to witness a scene, which were not its existence so well attested, must pass for the wildest of romance. What? That Parliament who had declared Cranmer's divorce of Catharine to be lawful, and who had enacted that Mary was a bastard, acknowledged that same Mary to be the lawful heir to the throne! That Parliament which had abolished the Catholic worship and created the protestant worship, on the ground that the former was idolatrous and damnable, and the latter agreeable to the will of God, abolish the latter and restore the former! What? Do these things? And, that, too, without any force; without being compelled to do them? No; not exactly so; for it had the people to fear, a vast majority of whom were cordially with the Queen as far as related to these matters, respecting which it is surprising what despatch was made. The late king died only in July, and, before the end of the next November, all the work of Cranmer, as to the divorce as well as to the worship, was completely overthrown, and that too, by acts of the very Parliament who had confirmed the one and 'established' the other. The first of these acts declared that Henry and Catharine had been lawfully married, and it laid all the blame on Cranmer by name! The second act called the protestant church, 'as by law established,' a 'new thing imagined by a few singular opinions,' though the Parliament, when it established it, asserted it to have come from the 'Holy Ghost.' What was now said of it was true enough: but it might have been added, established by German bayonets."

Paragraph 231, letter 8:

"On the 29th November the two houses petitioned the King and Queen. (The Queen married Phillip, Prince of Spain, July 25, 1554). In this petition they expressed their deep regret at having been guilty of defection from the true church; and prayed their Majesties, who had not participated in the sin, to intercede with the Holy Father, the Pope, for their forgiveness, and for their re-admission into the fold of Christ. The next day, the Queen being seated on the throne, having the King on her left, and Pole, the Popes' Legate, on her right, the Lord High Chancellor, Bishop Gardiner read the petition; the King and Queen then spoke to Pole, and he, at the close of a long speech, gave in the name of the Pope to the two Houses and to the whole nation, absolution, in the name of the Father, Son and Holy Ghost, at which words the members of the two houses, being on the knees, made the hall resound with Amen."

Think of it! This much established church is now altogether undone. Both houses of Parliament go down on their knees before the new Queen and ask her to intercede with the pope for them that they might obtain pardon. Hume in his history makes mention of this humiliating act. How agonizing it must have been to bow and ask the pope's pardon, but such is the case and well might Cobbet in his zeal ask, "Are the people of England aware of this? No, not one man out of fifty thousand." By act of Parliament everything but the property seized goes back to Catholicism under the reign of Mary, and the established church confesses a most horrible defection from the true church.

But we pass on to the end of Mary's bloody reign which was about five years. Elizabeth, daughter to Henry by his second and polygamous wife, now ascends the throne and she by her espousal of the Protestant faith caused considerable blood to flow before redeeming England from the power of the pope. She found the Parliament as willing to turn with her and legislate to support Protestantism as in Mary's day it conceded to the wishes of the sovereign lady. Very soon acts of Parliament were passed putting down the Catholic faith and re-establishing the Protestant. The Prayer Book was again taken up but revised to suit the new condition of things.

All persons were compelled to take the oath of supremacy on pain of death. To say mass or hear mass, to make or hear confession, to teach or be taught the Catholic religion, or to absent one's self from the newly established church were considered great crimes and all punished with a greater or less degree of severity, so that the gallows and gibbets and racks were in constant use. Cobbet says the punishment for keeping away from church service was an extremely heavy fine in money, which in order to pay many had to sell their estates piece by piece, and when in arrears the new head of the church was authorized by law to seize all personal property and two-thirds of their real estate every six months. Those having no money or property to pay fines were thrown into the prisons which were soon filled.

This proved both troublesome and expensive and to overcome this feature the Queen and Parliament enacted a law compelling all "recusants" not worth twenty marks a year to quit the country in three months after conviction and to punish them with death in case of their return. Altogether the reign of Queen Elizabeth was one of terror to the Catholics. They were forced under penalty of death or an extortionate fine to deny their religion and fall in line with the revivers of the church "established by law." She died in 1603 in the 70th year of her age and 45th year of her reign. Catholicism by that time was completely overturned and defeated as subsequent events show, while Protestantism was again established in crude form under the penalty of death, imprisonment or fine.

James I succeeded to the throne. In his reign the present authorized version of the Bible was given to the world which more firmly rooted the system of Protestantism. The Catholics are charged with trying to destroy the king's life and to have arranged the famous Guy Fawkes' plot to blow both king and Parliament into eternity. We find but little of interest in the long list of sovereigns that follow and consequently pass with but little mention. During the reigns of Charles I and Cromwell England underwent a second change or reformation. Protestantism needed reformation, for it was about as tyrannical as Catholicism. Hence arose the Puritan Fathers, who did much to purify the religious atmosphere. Charles II and James II follow as heirs to the throne. The latter being a Catholic at once undertook to favor that people by his king's office, which only added to England's trouble.

Being set aside as king, William, Prince of Orange, invaded England with an army to preserve peace and quiet, but more so to save England from Catholicism. He was made king. In his reign, well known to all, the no-popery war was carried on extensively and quite satisfactorily to the establishment of the purer Protestantism of today.

Taking a retrospective view we cannot help but see that from the rebellious Henry VIII to the present time the religious history of England is nothing more than a reformation within a reformation. The great and much established church from the coronation of Elizabeth down to the reign of George III enforced a penal code of laws shocking to the intelligence of any honest, just person loving sweet liberty of conscience. This multitude of enactments had for its object the punishment of dissenters and absenters—all who refused in any degree to support the church in forcing its way upon the people; but in 1778 the reign of George III these terrible laws were modified and the punishment softened.

It is possible that by this time the Church of England had become firmly and safely established and so no need of such compulsory measures; but it is more likely that this heathen penal code of laws was broken by a combination of forces outside and independent of the church established under such laws.

In the reign of George III the American people threw aside the British yoke and declared their independence and in this movement they were supported by other powers, which drew the attention of the nation to the injustice of such measures, hence came the change, but no thanks to the established church. Were it not for this happy change of affairs, the first measures of which were taken by the American people when they by act of Congress in the year 1776 laid twelve serious charges of tyranny against His Majesty King George and proclaimed themselves free, there is no telling when liberty of conscience would have found its way into the British realm.

In conclusion we rehearse the facts relative to the establishment of the Church of England and we do this in all fairness to the church in question.

Its history commences about the year 1526. King Henry in this year became tired of his wife as he had learned to love young and beautiful Anne Boleyn. The pope refused Henry a divorce which caused Henry to rebel and withdraw from the church, and at the same time forbid England to do homage to the pope. By act of Parliament he became head of the church and all England had to bow to him as such, or death soon found them. Gradually by act of Parliament the Church of England was formed and articles of religion drawn up. In Edward's reign big improvements are made, but in Mary's reign all is upset and the church "established by law" apologized to the pope and begged pardon. When Elizabeth ascends the throne this church now condemned as self-confessed apostates from the true faith is revived and more firmly established. But how? Just as in Henry's day, forced by the edge of the sword, the rack, faggot and other instruments of torture and death.

Thus organized by the polygamist Henry and forced by act of Parliament, backed up by the sword, etc., it was maintained by force for over two hundred years, when by the American revolution the compulsory measures were moderated and since abolished.

But can it be that this is the history of the church of God? Can we allow the claim of churchmen that the established church is the true church of Christ? Nay, there may be honest, true hearted people espousing the "articles of religion" and believing the church to be the church of Christ or a part thereof, but it cannot be so, on the ground that a corrupt tree cannot bring forth good fruit.

The honest and true hearted are worthy of a better cause, but they cannot better the origin or status of their cause, nor can they with the greatest of sophistry make it the handiwork of our beloved Master. He said he who takes up the sword shall perish with the sword, and here is the death knell of the established church.

Its origin, organization, doctrine and practice all mark it as the work of man, for in no sense does it correspond with the church of Christ as outlined in the word of God.

Reader, think and "judge not after the appearance, but judge righteous judgment."

VESSELS OF HONOR OR DISHONOR.

BY MRS. M. J. PHIPPS.

Those of us who have watched the making of vessels, know something of the work it takes to make a perfect, or even an imperfect vessel. How easy to mar in the making, and for us to behold a vessel of dishonor at the finish.

To make a vessel, I have seen the potter's clay placed upon the table, the wheel begins to turn, water is added to make it pliable, the paddle is used, while the clay and water are mixed just a little at a time. It is pounded and beaten, the wheel kept turning, until it begins to assume a different color, not so much resembling the lifeless lump of clay as at first. Pretty soon the bottom or foundation is seen under the hands of the potter; then the sides begin to grow; but we still do not know what kind of a vessel it is designed to make of it. The designer is very busy watching every lump and smoothing it out or throwing it aside, as he sees is best for the perfection of the vessel under his hands; he rubs, and wets, and smoothes it constantly, never for a moment stopping to rest, or the vessel might be marred in the making. His whole mind is intent on his work, and he dare not for a moment turn his gaze aside. Now comes the finishing touches; it is curved at the top until but a couple of fingers can be placed inside. The neck is made, then a handle is formed from more of the clay, is fastened on the outside, and we behold a perfect vessel, a jug. It is now a thing of excellence, and as we contrast it with the clay from which it was made, we wonder at what the "knowing how" will do.

Is there a lesson in this? Yea, a very deep lesson, and there are but few who do not find its meaning at some time in their own lives. There are times when we feel that we are being ground upon the wheel of events until in bitterness of spirit we are made to cry out in excruciating mental torture, and even question the Almighty as to why he permitted these things to come upon us. For a time we are unable to walk by faith; we want to know the why and wherefore of things. We are not willing to be as the clay in the hands of the potter; we would like to take our destiny into our own hands, and have things come to pass according to our own desires. And while we constantly ask God to "lead us in a straight path," yet we are conscious all the while that we want God's way to coincide with our own wishes; and at times it takes all the will power we possess to bring the words to our lips to say, "not my will, but thine be done."

How truly, at such times, we pass through our Gethsemane as literally as did our Savior in the garden; darkness may cover us as it did Him; we may cry and plead, oh, so earnestly for help, for one ray of comfort or light, day and night the agonizing cry may go up in one long prayer that never ceases, and still the light, the comfort is withheld until we are ready to cry out, "God has forsaken us." We have prayed, but He will not answer. It is useless to longer ask, for He refuses to listen, and leaves us in darkness and gloom. Ah, verily, we are being ground upon the wheel as the potter's clay. But still we continue to plead, for where else can we go. If God really does forsake us we are indeed lost. Then we begin to think how very little we deserve, and as those and kindred thoughts come to us o'er and o'er, we are led to the foot of the cross to humbly say, We have not deserved the great blessings we ask at thy hands; we see so many errors in our lives, so much that needs the purifying, cleansing process, even as the clay in the hands of the potter. Father, only let us know that we are accepted of thee, we ask no more, for we are unworthy. We will be content with this. But oh, don't let us be marred in the making. We want to come forth a vessel of honor, and not of dishonor. What will all this life be worth without this knowledge of our acceptance with thee.

Comfort and encouragement is sent us through one by whom we prayed we might receive light, and during his sermon we felt that he had indeed been led by the Spirit to tell us what we most needed; at the close of that discourse we have felt that God had not forsaken us, but that he had heard every cry, every prayer, seen every tear that fell, and with this assurance we were comforted. "Not to be marred in the making," had been our desire all along; and we were so glad that God knew our heart, our life; that every thought, act and desire were all known to Him, and that through the all-sufficient Christ every error was cancelled, and we felt that we stood before him pure and stainless. For me what a sweet consolation. God knew what was best, and His hand had been leading me in a way that I knew not, for this loving care had been constantly over me, and I believe to the sending of angels to support me.

And wherefore then this trial? I do not know, but God does. It may not be for me to know in this life, but in the great hereafter, I may even rejoice that it was sent. If it fits me for a better work in His name here, making me more efficient in giving help and encouragement to the lifting up the fallen, and being a benefit to mankind, then it will have fulfilled its mission, and I may rejoice in present afflictions, believing, with Paul, that they will work out for me a far more and exceeding weight of glory.

Does Cutting Promote Growth of Hair?

The question is answered by the Frankfurter Wochenblatt in this wise: "It is believed by laymen and professional hairdressers that cutting largely increases the growth of the hair. This belief begins with the involuntary comparison of the hair with a plant. As grass that is often cut short grows again and becomes thicker, so, it is believed, the hair should do when it is cut. This comparison, however, is a false one. A developed hair is a perfectly formed mass or horn which has nothing further to do with the case in which the hair rests than to receive from it from below further growth and to be held firmly by it. * * * In this mass of horn, as in the nails of the fingers and the toes, there is no longer any sap in circulation; this mass, so to speak, is a product which cannot be quickened and strengthened by new nourishment, because the latter cannot enter it. On the other hand, what happens in a blade of grass is totally different. The blade of grass is a network of fine ducts in which is constantly circulating the nourishment which the blade draws from the root; it presents, in contrast with the dead body of the hair, a living, vegetating substance which has a most intimate connection with the condition of its root, and which dries up infallibly when it is separated from its root, while the hair will remain unaffected for thousands of years after its papilla has withered away. We need cite only one irresistible proof of this, the hair on the head of mummies. The root of the hair as long as it exists can produce a new hair when the old hair has fallen out, while the root of many a plant gives existence to one sprout only and then together with it declines and dies. The more a hair is disturbed in its natural growth by continually cutting off its ends the less rest its papilla, the real producer of the hair finds; the papilla, being constantly incited to excessive production, wavers finally in its activity, decays and dies. For this reason a woman with a bald head is never or seldom seen, as the natural and very slow process of the growth of a woman's hair is not disturbed. The individual hair reaches a definite length; after years it falls out of itself, and a new hair begins to appear as soon as the papilla has had time to rest itself thoroughly and to prepare itself for the process of a new growth. These are the reasons which lead to the obviously valid conclusion that cutting the hair is rather injurious than useful.—Literary Digest.

NOTICE our Combination offers on page 2; they are bargains.

"INCURABLE" HEART DISEASE SOON CURED.

During the last two or three years very great improvement has been made in the treatment of the different kinds of disease of the heart. Cases formerly considered incurable now rapidly recover. The well known specialist, Franklin Miles, M. D., LL. B., of Chicago, will send his new Individual Treatment free to any of our afflicted readers who will mention this paper.

This liberal offer is for the purpose of demonstrating the great superiority of his new system of Treatments for heart troubles, such as short breath, pain in the side, oppression in the chest, irregular pulse, palpitation, smothering spells, puffing of the ankles or dropsy.

They are the result of twenty-five years of careful study, extensive research, and remarkable experience in treating weak, dilated, hypertrophied, rheumatic, fatty or neuragic hearts, each one of which requires different treatment.

The Treatments are carefully selected for each patient, as regards their age, weight, and stage of each kind of heart disease. All afflicted persons should avail themselves of this liberal offer. No death comes more unexpectedly than that from heart disease.

Rev. J. W. Stokesbury, of Pallport, Mo., had head, heart, stomach troubles and nervous prostration. Three physicians failed to help him. He writes: "I regard myself cured."

The eminent Rev. W. Bell, D. D., of Dayton, Ohio, General Secretary of Foreign Missions, writes editorially in the State Sunday School Union: "We desire to state that from personal acquaintance we know Dr. Miles to be a most skillful specialist, a man who has spared neither labor nor money to get the most abreast of the great advancement of medical science."

A thousand references to, and testimonials from, Bishops, Clergymen, Bankers, Farmers, and their wives, will be sent free on request. These include the names of those who have been cured after from five to fifteen physicians and professors had pronounced them "incurable." Among them are H. A. Groce, 504 Mountain St., Elgin, Ill.; Mrs. Sophia Snowberg, No. 232 21st Ave., S. Minneapolis, Minn.; Mrs. A. B. Gilbert, Blessing, Ia.; Mrs. M. B. Moreland, Rogers, Ohio, and the presidents of two medical colleges, etc.

Send at once to The Dr. Miles Association, Cor. Adams and State Sts., Chicago, Ill., for free treatment before it is too late.

MEMORIAL FUND NOTICE.

Since publication of the letter of Elder J. W. Wight describing the conditions surrounding the resting place of the martyrs, Joseph and Hyrum Smith, Saints seem interested in putting in proper condition this burial place and some have contributed to this purpose.

This will notify all who may wish to make an offering to be used for this purpose that they may do so by taking names and amounts contributed by each one and forward to the Bishop of the church, or place in the hands of any bishop's agent or local bishop who will forward the same, such means to be duly expended for the purposes given under the advice of Bro. Joseph and Alexander H. Smith and the Bishopric of the church.

All remittances will be receipted by publication through the Herald and ENSIGN. Respectfully,

E. L. KELLEY, Presiding Bishop. LAMONI, IOWA, Oct. 30, 1900.

THAT MEMORIAL FUND.

The letter of Bro. J. W. Wight, published awhile ago in the Herald, calling attention to the neglected condition of the supposed burial place of the martyrs, Joseph and Hyrum Smith, has started a wave of sentiment and feeling in many places, and letters concerning it are finding their way to the Bishop, some of which contain inquiries, money, and proffers of money.

Secrecy regarding these graves was for a long time enjoined and observed through fear of a possibility of desecration for selfish purposes or otherwise; so that the location is known to but few persons, probably less than five, though many have conjectured touching it.

The family of Joseph Smith has not been financially able to place a suitable monument or other memorial stone or inclosure to indicate where the remains of the martyrs are lying since the passing of time may have made it safe to so mark the place.

Hence no effort has ever been made by them to point out the spot.

The family is not given to superstition or overmuch sentimentality; and believe that the angel of the resurrection will not need a stone of recognition by which to find the bodies of these and other witnesses when the dead shall be raised.

The movement for a suitable marking of the spot does not originate with the family; but the members of it will not resent or resist such movement if those who choose should raise a fund for the purpose; nor will they refuse the trust proposed by the Bishop to execute the purpose of the contributors; stipulating only that they may associate with themselves such other persons as will properly secure the carrying of the trust into faithful execution.

JOSEPH SMITH.

Oct. 31, 1900.

An Appeal.

There is hardly an issue of the Herald or Ensign which does not contain a letter from some one who desires the elders to come that way and labor; who feels cut off from branch privileges—in a word, isolated. Did it ever occur to such individuals, we know it has to some, that they may become one of the greatest sources of strength the church possesses? With our isolated membership working earnestly to build up church interests in their locality, our church would receive a wonderful impetus. We have such a large scattered membership; it is not necessary for us to all be in the same place and doing the same thing. We know of more than one, men and women, who have sent to our Bureau for church literature, saying there was no one there to help them, so they were helping themselves, and when an elder did come their way there would be something to meet him. It is a difficult matter for the isolated ones to keep in the faith when inactive; we need workers, and this appeal is directed to all those who are isolated, that they join us in our effort to establish ourselves on a firmer footing. The Religio, an auxiliary to the church, has a department devoted to the home study class, where those not able to attend a branch or local, may have the same privileges and follow a course of study of the church books. We ask you to join it. We also have a department devoted to the interests of those who wish church literature for distribution and can make use of it. Be your own missionary, and believe the church counts its strength not only in a divinely appointed priesthood, but an intelligent and active laity. Leaflets outlining our plans will be furnished all on application, and we earnestly appeal to you, whether sick or well, young or old, rich or poor, to DO something, and we hope you will be sufficiently interested in this movement to write us. Address,

MARIE H. CLARK, Box 4, Sta. A., Kansas City, Mo. November 6. We are in especial need of about one dozen Autumn Leaves each for January and October, 1900; if any of our Religious, or those interested, can furnish us some of these we would appreciate it. Address as above.

SAINTS who contemplate making Independence their home, or those already here, who desire to secure a lot in eligible, well situated property, would do well to see the Wilson Lawn addition, owned by Bro. Ellis Short and situated near Pacific Bridge, Independence.

OUR ANGELS WHISPER Family Register, Marriage Certificate, Lord's Prayer and other pictures are quick sellers. Address (Bro.) B. F. Ordway & Co., Peoria, Ill.

$495.

Will buy 4 acres with four room cottage, barn, well, etc., in west Lamoni. Only a small payment required to secure this home, and it is a bargain for some one. Apply to Lock Box 7, Lamoni, Iowa.

Books and Pamphlets

PRICE LIST

- "FROM PALMYRA TO INDEPENDENCE," by Elder R. Etzenhouser, 444 pages; Cloth binding, $1.00; Paper binding, .65
"AUTOBIOGRAPHY OF ELDER JOSEPH LUFFY," 377 pages; Cloth bound, $1.00; Paper bound, .65
"THREE HILLES COMPARED," by Elder R. Etzenhouser; paper binding, 5 for $1.00; each, .25
"THE BOOK OF MORMON VINDICATED," by Elder I. M. Smith; 12 pages; Paper cover, 4 for 1.00; each, .25
"SPIRITUAL GIFTS AND THE SEER OF PALMYRA," by Elder M. H. Bond, of the Seventy; 68 pages, paper bound, with fine engraving of the seer, .65
"FAITHY CHAINS," by Elder R. C. Evans; 6 for $1.00; each, .20
"THE BOOKS AND UTAH MORMONISM IN CONTRAST," by Elder R. Etzenhouser; paper cover; 20 for $1.00, 3 for 25c; each, .10
"THE THREE LAID BARE," by Elder R. Etzenhouser; paper cover; 3 for 25c; each, .10
"THE RESURRECTION OF THE WICKED," by Elder W. J. Smith; 39 pages, paper cover, 3 for 25c; each, .10
"WHO WAS JOSEPH SMITH?" WAS HE A FALSE PROPHET? by Elder J. W. Peterson of the Quorum of Seventy; 39 pages; paper cover; engraving of author; 3 for 25c; each, .10
"THE BOOK OF MORMON AND ITS TRANSLATOR," by Elder R. Etzenhouser; 21 pages, paper cover; 3 for 25c; each, .10
"THE LEGAL SUCCESSOR," by Apostle J. W. Wight; 90c per doz.; 3 for 25c; each, .10
"APOSTASY OF THE CHURCH," by Apostle J. W. Wight; 40 pages, paper cover; 3 for 25c; each, .10
"THE MORE EXCELLENT WAY," by Elder T. C. Kelley; 68 pages; paper cover; each, .10
"THE JOSEPH SMITH INTERVIEW," by Elder Joseph Luff; 4 pages, paper cover; 9c. Per hundred; 10c per doz. 15c; 6 for 10c; 2 for .50.
"IS WATER BAPTISM ESSENTIAL TO SALVATION," by Elder Joseph Luff; 90c per 100; 15c per doz. 3 for .75.
"WHAT WE BELIEVE," The Epitome of Faith, with quotations given in full. 20c Per doz.; 2 for .35.
"EVANGELICAL LIGHT," a duet for soprano and tenor; words by J. Cole Moxon; music by W. H. Lieb. .25

SERMON PAMPHLETS. The following pamphlets 5 cents each, 3 for 10 cents, 6 for 15 cents, or 25 cents per dozen: "Signs of the Times," Revised and Enlarged, by Elder J. S. Roth; 70 pages; illustrated. "The Book of Mormon; Evidences of its Divinity," by Elder R. C. Evans; 68 pages. "The Law of Life," by Elder F. M. Cooper; 35 pages. "The Restoration of Israel," by Elder S. W. L. Scott; 46 pages. "A Retrospective View of the Reorganization," by E. C. Briggs; 36 pages. "Gospel Message," by President Joseph Smith; 54 pages. "Modern Knowledge of the Antiquities of America," by Elder H. A. Stocking; 34 pages. "Crested Man Shall Not Add To Nor Take From The Word of God," by Elder I. M. Smith; 36 pages. "Antiquarian Evidences Concerning the Book of Mormon," by Elder E. L. Kelley; 40 pages. "Joseph Smith: Was He a Prophet of God?" by Elder R. C. Evans; 40 pages. "Sign Seekers," by Elder I. M. Smith; 32 pages. "Gospel Antiquity," by Elder Joseph Luff; 39 pages. "Why I Left the Church," by Elder W. H. Kelphart; 33 pages. "The Marriage Relation," by Elder J. W. Wight; 41 pages. "The Personality of God and Doctrine of Christ," by Elder J. S. Roth; 38 pages. "Save Yourselves," by Elder I. M. Smith; 34 pages.

We also fill orders for all Herald office publications. Address all orders and make all remittances to ENSIGN PUBLISHING HOUSE, Box B, Independence, Mo. Missouri Pacific Railroad.

Quick time, good connections, low rates to all points. Rates, time cards, etc., cheerfully furnished on application. F. A. MILLARD, Agent. Telephone 17.

Learn Shorthand.

A Knowledge of Shorthand and Typewriting Will Enable You to Be Self-sustaining.

The Missouri Shorthand College of St. Louis, Mo., is one of the Leading Shorthand Institutions in the United States.

Persons intending the acquirement of shorthand and typewriting should select a responsible school, otherwise their time and money are wasted. As success in shorthand is largely dependent on the teacher as well as pupil, it is absolutely necessary that instructors should be practical shorthand writers and no others are competent to teach. Benn Pitman system taught.

The Principal of "The Missouri Shorthand College" is John H. Schofield, the well known journalist and shorthand writer, and member of the National Shorthand Writers' Association. In order to show that he is a practical and recognized exponent of shorthand, reference letters are herewith published from leading educators:

Prof. E. Benjamin Andrews, now Chancellor of Nebraska University, and recently Superintendent of Chicago Schools, comments on his character and ability as follows: Board of Education, Office of Superintendent of Schools, Chicago, Feb. 21, 1900. Mr. John H. Schofield is well and favorably known to me as the successful director of a large shorthand college in Providence, R. I. I consider him not only one of the most expert practical shorthand writers whom I have ever known, but also an upright, honorable and perfectly trustworthy gentleman.

E. BENJAMIN ANDREWS, Superintendent of Schools. Commenting on Mr. Schofield's ability and character, President E. G. Robinson of Brown University, Providence, R. I., contributes the following: Brown University, Providence, R. I. I have known Mr. John H. Schofield for years as stenographic reporter for the Providence Journal. His work has given special satisfaction to all parties concerned. His character as a Christian gentleman has also commended respect, and pleasure in commending him to the confidence and good-will of all with whom he may meet or with whom he may have business relations.

President Brown University. Brother Fabrician, of La Salle College, Philadelphia, Pa., adds the following testimonial: La Salle College, Philadelphia, Pa. Mr. John H. Schofield, my Dear Sir: It gives me much pleasure to say a timely word to bear witness to your character as a man, and your ability as a journalist and shorthand writer. I hope and pray that your efforts, in whatever channel you may choose to direct them, will be rewarded with the measure of success which your talents, your energy and your accomplishments must win. You are, however, too well and favorably known to need this note or recognition, from your very sincere and devoted friend, BRO. FABRICIAN.

Those so situated that they cannot attend school sessions, taught by mail, as Principal John H. Schofield has had gratifying success by this method of teaching. Mail students who will devote two hours daily to practice, cannot fail to obtain a good general knowledge of shorthand in twenty weeks. This is a short time to acquire a profession that will enable persons to be self-supporting. Those who attend school generally graduated in about sixteen weeks, but this depends largely on the ability and general knowledge of the pupil. As a knowledge of shorthand is of no practical utility unless able to spell and compose correctly, students deficient in those lines are taught without extra charge. Shorthand and typewriting furnishes lucrative, as well as pleasant employment for both sexes, but more especially for young ladies, as there are always positions for those who are capable and competent.

Positions Secured for Graduates. Instruction in Bookkeeping and full Commercial Course if Desired. Room and Board furnished pupils from abroad at moderate rates. THE MISSOURI SHORTHAND COLLEGE, No. 918 Pine St., ST. LOUIS, MISSOURI.

STATE SAVINGS BANK OF LAMONI.

Incorporated under the laws of the State of Iowa, July 1, 1898. Officers depositors a safe bank for their savings, and solicits the correspondence and deposits of all Iowa residents, and will pay four per cent interest per annum on year deposits. Send money in bank draft, or Express or Post Office order, or Registered Letter, or your private check on any bank, or your letter to W. A. Hopkins, Cashier of the State Savings Bank of Lamoni, at Lamoni, Iowa. Upon receipt of same a certificate of deposit will be issued and sent on return mail. The bank has facilities for handling all business, by keeping surplus funds invested in safe and available securities and has already received deposits from sixteen different states. All letters containing inquiries or business will be promptly answered. List of Stockholders:—Wm. Anderson, Geo. H. Hillard, Mrs. David Hancock, Miss Alice Danca, Mrs. M. D. Whitehead, Mrs. Lucy L. Resseguie, A. K. Anderson, W. A. Hopkins, Oscar Anderson, Frank Grady and Geo. W. Blair.

Broken Brick-a-Bracs.

Mr. Major, the famous cement man, of New York, has nothing more very interesting facts about Major's Cement. The multitudes who use this standard article know that it is a many hundred per cent better than other cements for which similar claims are made, but a great many do not know why. The simple reason is that Mr. Major uses the best materials ever discovered and other manufacturers do not use them, because they are too expensive and do not allow large profits. Mr. Major tells us that one of the elements of cement costs $3.10 a barrel, and another costs $2.85 a gallon, while a large share of the so-called cements and liquid glue upon the market are nothing more than six-cent cement dissolved in water or etric acid, and in some cases, altered slightly in color and odor by the addition of cheap and useless materials. Major's Cement retails at fifteen cents and twenty-five cents a barrel, and when a dealer tries to sell a substitute you can depend upon it that his only object is to make larger profits. The profit on Major's Cement is as much as any dealer ought to make on any cement. Insist on having Major's. Don't accept any off-hand advice from a druggist. If you are at all handy (and you will be likely to find that you are a good deal more handy than you imagine) you can repair your rubber boots and family shoes, and any other rubber and leather articles, with Major's Rubber Cement and Major's Leather Cement. And you will be surprised at how many dollars a year you will thus save. If your druggist cannot supply you, it will be forwarded by mail, either kind. Free of postage.

THEY ADMIT IT. Bro. Hull, Chaucey, Ohio, says we saved him $12.00 on a $13.00 suit. Bro. Farrell, West Sullivan, Maine, writes that we saved him $5.00 on a $7.00 suit. Youth's heavy three-piece suit, age 12 to 19, $3.50. Goods are all sent prepaid. MEN'S SACK SUITS. Black, all wool worsted Men's Suits, four button, round or square cut; 14 ounce $7.00; 16 ounce $7.25; 18 ounce $8.25; 20 ounce $8.75. Extra fine, strictly all wool Oxford steel gray, heavy; worth $18.00, price $9.00. PRINCE ALBERT SUITS. Same goods as sacks, 14 oz. $9.50; 16 oz. $10.00; 18 oz. $11.00; 20 oz. $11.50. 14 oz. French Perill Sacks, worth $18.00, price $9.00. Prince Alberts, worth $25.00, $13.00. MEASUREMENTS.—Give size of bust around chest just under arms with coat off, size of waist, length of inch from of pant leg, your height and weight. Make all drafts, express and money orders payable at Seymour, Mo. Send all communications, letters, orders and registered letters to Cumorah, Mo. THE E. T. ATWELL CO., Cumorah, Mo.

QUIT-TO-BAC CURES THE TOBACCO HABIT. 3 BOXES, POSTPAID, $1.50 (U.S. Stamp or Money Order) With Positive Guarantee of Cure, or Money Cheerfully Refunded. You Run No Risk; why not try it and be a free man? Address, (Bro.) B. F. ORDWAY, Peoria, Ill.

OLDEST. LARGEST. BEST. 35TH YEAR SPALDING'S COMMERCIAL COLLEGE. (INCORPORATED) East Wing, N. Y. Life Bldg., Kansas City, Mo. Bookkeeping, Shorthand, Typewriting, Telegraph, English Branches, Twenty Rooms. Sixteen Teachers and Lecturers. No Vacations. Practical Courses, Thorough Instruction. Rates Moderate. Free Catalogue. FREE EMPLOYMENT BUREAU Tel. 1174. J. F. Spalding, A. M., Pres.

DR. JOS. MATHER, PHYSICIAN.

Office at Residence, 301 S. Spring St., INDEPENDENCE, MO. CALLS ANSWERED NIGHT OR DAY. Phone 190-3.

CANCER CURED WITH SOOTHING BALMY OILS. Cancer, Runon, Catarrh, Piles, Fistula, Ulcers, Rheumatism, Sciatica, Gonorrhea, Stricture, Hemorrhoids, Blisters, Burns, Scalds, Erysipelas, Eczema and all Skin and Wound Diseases. Dr. J. Mather, 301 S. Spring St., Independence, Mo. Dr. R. Byr, 301 S. Spring St., Independence, Mo.

$5.00 BOX RAIN COAT This Regular $6.00 Waterproof MACKINTOSH for $2.75. Send no money, and send to us. Name and address on this card. Cut this out and mail to us. Number of inches around body taken over bust, under arm, close up under arms and two or three inches below by express C. O. D., subject to examination. Express charges extra. Express office and if exactly as represented. If not exactly as represented, you may ever say or heard of, return for full refund. No cost on the market, pay the agent our special manufacturer price $2.75 and express charges. THIS MACKINTOSH is the latest style. Heavy fitting, made from heavy waterproof tan color, genuine Duffel cover cloth, with quilted, double breasted, Sager velvet collar, fancy plaid lining, with buttoned cuffs and buttoned straps, and made of the finest material. Able for both rain and overcoat. A bargain ever offered by us or any other house. Write for circular. Write for circular. Write for circular. H. S. MILLER CO., 305 Dearborn St., Chicago.

D. F. NICHOLSON, Cashier. H. C. NICHOLSON, Asst. Cashier. COMMERCIAL BANK, LAMONI, IOWA. Ample responsibility. Five per cent interest paid on time deposits. Correspondence solicited. Farms and town property for sale.

R. R. TIME TABLES. MISSOURI PACIFIC—MAIN LINE DEPOT. TRAINS WEST. a. m. No. 95—Wichita and K. C. Mail. 12:49 " 9—Kansas & Nebraska Mail. 4:34 " 93—Texas, Joplin & K. C. Ex. 8:15 " 3—St. Louis Express. 6:53 " 73—Lexington Branch Pass. 8:35 " 7—Fast Mail. 10:15 p. m. " 91—Joplin and K. C. Mail. 3:16 " 1—St. Louis Mail and Ex. 5:17 " 5—St. Louis Mail. 5:55 " 7—Lexington Branch Pass. 6:46 a. m. No. 90—K. C. & Wichita Mail. 2:22 " 72—Lexington Branch Pass. 6:53 " 6—St. Louis Mail. 7:23 " 92—K. C. Texas & Joplin Mail. 8:37 " 2—St. Louis Through Mail & Pass. 10:17 p. m. " 78—Lex. Branch Passenger. 7:10 " 4—St. Louis Through Mail & Pass. 1:37 " 94—K. C. Tex. & Joplin Ex. 7:40 " 8—St. Louis Through Mail & Pass. 8:30 " 10—Kan. & Neb. Limited. 11:12 Nos. 7, 9 and 10 do not stop. LIBERTY STREET DEPOT. TRAINS WEST. No. 73—Lex. Branch Pass. 8:30 a. m. " 71— " 8:40 p. m. TRAINS EAST. No. 72—Lex. Branch Pass. 6:56 a. m. " 78— " 6:16 p. m. Tel. 17. F. A. MILLARD, Agent.

CHICAGO & ALTON. EAST BOUND. a. m. " 101—Local Way Freight. 7:40 " 47—St. Louis & Chicago Mail. 8:21 p. m. No. 51—Chicago Limited. 6:58 " 49—St. Louis Flyer. 9:35 " WEST BOUND. a. m. " 50—St. Louis Limited. 6:57 " 52—Chicago Limited. 8:29 a. m. " 102—Local Way Freight. 8:28 " 48—Chicago & St. Louis Mail. 6:56 All trains make regular stops. Through tickets to all points in the United States and Canada. For further information regarding rates, etc., call on J. W. DUGAN, Agent. J. CHARLTON, G. P. & T. Agt., Chicago.

www.LatterDayTruth.org

Daughters of Zion.

"OUR AIM, MANKIND TO BLESS."

MRS. H. B. GURTIS, Editor.

The Daughters of Zion is an organization in the church of mothers and others who are interested in the welfare of our homes. Under the supervision of the general society, local societies are established, where they may meet to consider together their work as home keepers, and as mothers of character. Their purpose is to increase love for the home, to promote social purity, to study the problem of child care and development, that thus they may better prepare themselves for their responsibility as wives and mothers, and that from the home may go the influence that shall fulfill their aim, which is "mankind to bless." Have you a local in your branch? If not, can you not organize one? Send to the corresponding secretary for constitutions. The Advisory Committee will be pleased to hear from you, and will gladly furnish you any assistance in their power. Send your list of names of members to the recording secretary.

ADVISORY COMMITTEE.

- Mrs. Mary E. Hulmes, President, Independence, Missouri.
- Mrs. H. H. Robinson, Corresponding Secretary, Independence, Missouri.
- Mrs. B. C. Smith, Independence, Missouri.
- Mrs. Lucina Etzenhouser, 2417 Prospect St., Kansas City, Missouri.
- Mrs. Clara Frick, Independence, Missouri.
- Mrs. Callie B. Stebbins, Recording Secretary, Lamoni, Iowa.
- Mrs. Anna Murphy, Treasurer, Independence, Missouri.

Editor's address, 3188 Olive St., St. Louis, Missouri.

"Blessed are the pure in heart for they shall see God."—Matt. 5: 8.

Every word here spoken by the Savior is so simple that our very young boys and girls can understand, and to reach the youngest that may read this column we want to make this article very simple.

The heart is called the seat of life, for the pulsation of the heart the blood is caused to circulate through the body, so you see that it is the chief or vital organ; and as two things cannot occupy the same space at the same time, the heart cannot be full of both good and evil thoughts. It is either the seat of courage, honesty, love, goodwill and all that is approved of God, or it is full of cowardice, hatred, dishonesty, ill-will and all that goes to make an evil minded person. Proverbs 10: 20 says, "A wicked heart is little worth." We hope the young of this church have a desire to be of worth, not only to themselves, but a benefit to mankind.

Actions are the thoughts of the heart put in motion, so obedience to God and our parents, "Doing to others as we would have them do unto us," comes from a pure heart.

The good book says, "As a man thinketh so is he," meaning that our actions show the condition of our heart whether it be pure or impure. Jesus is our example: his life was full of good deeds; no unclean words came from his lips. We read again that "out of the abundance of the heart the mouth speaketh," so we may judge the heart by words as well as actions. Jesus, keeping his heart pure, was filled with the Spirit of the Father; was able to finish the work he was sent to do, and is now at the right hand of God; so if we walk in His ways shall we not see God?

We are apt to think that it was easier for Jesus to be pure and steadfast, even under the trying circumstances through which he was called to pass, because he had a knowledge of what was in store for him; but he has promised to send us his Holy Spirit if we will be pure in heart, and that is the Spirit that enabled him to triumph. We are not promised God's Spirit if we are not pure.

We read in the Bible that His Spirit will not dwell in unholiness, and part of the 16th verse, 3d chapter of 1 Corinthians, reads "Know ye not that ye are the temple of God and that his Spirit dwelleth in you."

Some of the young sisters who claim this part of the ENSIGN may say this simple article belongs to the Hope and not to this department. Are we not all Hopes of Zion, both old and young? The motto of the Daughters of Zion is "Our aim Mankind to Bless." Can we begin too soon to teach our young the need of pure hearts and lives, that from their youth they may be firm in right living, loving right because it is right, and shunning evil because it is wrong, and not for fear of the punishment that follows evil doing. So if their eye is single to the glory of God, their whole body will be able to see the object of their creation.

Who are to become the parents of our very elect, who will be able to withstand the trials that are to come in the last days, but our boys and girls who live in the light of God? Having our hearts pure the Lord will direct them and they will see the need of crucifying the lusts of the flesh and so present their bodies "a living sacrifice, holy, acceptable unto God, which is our reasonable service." They will be the parents of the righteous seed that the Lord has said he must have to carry on his work and prepare for the coming of His Son.

We may look at the Temple Lot a year, but that is not the beginning of the building. We only have to make our hearts pure, live by every word that proceedeth out of the mouth of God, that is our part toward the restoration of all things. God will do the rest. If we who call ourselves Latter Day Saints will not, He will find a people who will, for know, my dear young people, we are too weak to frustrate the purposes of God, He will have a people pure in heart, His Zion.

MRS. C. I. CLARK.

"I AM thoroughly disgusted with the way in which most of young mothers are raising their children now-a-days," said an elderly mother the other day.

"They think by honeying and coaxing them up they are going to teach them to mind.

"Now, there is Sr. A., she is afraid to correct her baby for fear she should make her cry; and Sr. B. is letting hers do as she pleases, until by and by she won't be able to control her in anything."

What a reflection upon the mothers of today, I thought. I wonder if they are really deserving of it. I know we used to have unwise mothers when I was young, but as I look back and consider them, it seems as if they erred more in their harshness to, than in their tenderness for, their children. I can recall very few mothers of my early recollections, who seemed to have the sympathy and careful solicitude for their children then, that I see in many mothers now, which gives rise to this question, Are the mothers of today going to the other extreme? and in their tenderness and solicitude for their children, going to lose sight of the fact that each child that comes to them, comes with an individuality and will of its own, that must be directed and controlled by the parent, which calls for the administration of correction and denial, as well as lavish affection?

Appointment of Bishop's Agent for British Columbia.

The Saints and friends of British Columbia will please take notice that to aid the bishopric in its work in said territory and better perform the work of looking after the poor and church finances, upon recommendation duly presented, appointment has been made this day of Bro. Daniel MacGregor, of Chilliwack, British Columbia; as agent of the bishopric in and for said territory.

Bro. MacGregor has been duly authorized to act in receiving tithes and offerings, and expending the same under the direction of the bishopric of said church, and will look after the same and give receipts and perform all other work incidental to the duties of a bishop's agent within said territory.

We hereby recommend him to the Saints and friends in British Columbia, and bespeak for him the help, good-will and aid possible for them to give.

Witness my hand this 30th day of October, A. D., 1900.

In behalf of the bishopric,
E. L. KELLEY, Presiding Bishop.

Resolutions of Condolence.

WHEREAS, It has seemed to be the will of our heavenly Father to remove from earth life our beloved brother and fellow worker in the Religio work, Bro. John C. Hitchcock, and,

WHEREAS, We are instructed to be in sorrow with those who are in sorrow; besides we feel the departure of our brother from active service with us to be our loss as well as those related to him by natural ties; therefore be it,

Resolved, That while we feel our loss deeply as Religians, we as the Galland's Grove District Association extend to the more deeply bereaved ones the sympathy of souls filled with brotherly solicitude, praying that God, our heavenly Father, may render the comfort needed; and,

Resolved, That a copy of these resolutions be sent by the secretary of the convention to the bereaved wife of our deceased brother, and to the church publications for insertion.

MARY SCHAFER,
E. B. STROMAYER, } Com.
J. F. MINTUN.

Boundary Lines of Districts, Etc.

It is necessary to have on record a description or statement of the boundary lines of every district, for the use of the Presidency and other departments. District presidents and secretaries are therefore requested to forward statements of the boundaries of their respective districts. They are requested to also give lists of names of branches in their districts.

If boundaries have not been specifically defined, or not specified at all, kindly so report, and as soon as possible. If your district contemplates action on boundary lines, please report its present status, also its further action when taken. It is necessary to make the record complete. District officials are requested to give this request their early attention. Please do not omit lists of branches.

The foregoing request, made in June, 1900, has been responded to by but eighteen out of a total of sixty-nine districts. Responses from all are earnestly desired.

R. S. SALYARDS,
Church Secretary.
LAMONI, IOWA, Oct. 15, 1900.

Christmas Programs.

The Christmas programs issued by the General Sunday School Association will be ready to mail about November 10, 1900. Price will be 5 cents each; 50 cents per dozen, or $4.00 per hundred, postage prepaid. Send orders to the Business Manager of the Herald Office, Bro. John Smith, Lamoni, Ia. Order your programs early and begin work on them at once.

We have examined the manuscript of this program and consider it of unusual merit and will do credit to the many contributors and to the committee which prepared it. It is adapted to the use of the smallest school in the Association or to the largest. You may find parts for any individual or class in your school. It has been prepared with this point especially in view. So do not think that your school could not use it.

We hope that all schools whether large or small will celebrate the Christmas with appropriate exercises. Do not desecrate the day or treat the occasion lightly, but make it one of pleasure, worship and reverence. These programs are issued with the hope to assist those who wish to celebrate the day with appropriate exercises by furnishing them with material such as they cannot find without much effort if at all. We believe that all will be pleased with the program that use it.

Yours for the work,
T. A. HOGGAS, Gen. Supt.
HENDERSON, IOWA, Oct. 29.

NOTICES.

To the Saints of the Northeast Texas and Choctaw district, Greeting: As the end of the current year is drawing near, I beg to say that the work in our district, on the whole, is in a very favorable condition, there having been about fifty baptized since January 1st, mostly in western Arkansas, where the work is in a most encouraging condition; all the conference appointees being actively engaged in the work, and the local force is doing well. Also the missionary in charge, Bro. H. O. Smith, has been laboring for several weeks in our district, with excellent results.

Now, Saints, we hope you will not forget the temporal arm of God's work, as much is now depending upon the manner in which His law is honored and observed. The families of the missionaries must not be left without food and raiment, while the husband and father—on whom they depend—is expected, by the church, to go forward and unfold to the people the great, restored gospel, so grand, so elevating, so marvelous, but yet somewhat unpopular.

God requires of us one-tenth of all our net gains annually. Will we honor His law and thereby loosen the hands of His servants? Courage, brethren, and on to the victory!

Bro. E. A. Erwin will receive and forward all tithes in the branches in the Texas portion of our district, Brn. Newton and Bailey in Arkansas, and Bro. Peter Adamson in the Territory. Invoking God's blessing upon you, I am,
Your brother,
ELLIS SHORT,
Bishop N. E. Tex. and Choctaw Dist.
INDEPENDENCE, MO., Nov. 1.

A Card of Thanks.

To the dear friends who in the dark hours of our misfortune so nobly assisted us when our beloved daughter passed from this earth life to her home in the paradise of God we tender our heartfelt thanks. May our God greatly multiply his blessings to youward. May He deal as lovingly, kindly and tenderly by you as you have by us and our loved one that has gone on before, is the wish of your unworthy brother and sister,
A. J. AND LURENA HEADLEE.
INDEPENDENCE, MO., Nov. 1.

Conference Notices.

The Oklahoma district conference will convene with the Canadian Center branch in Dewey county, Oklahoma, Friday evening, November 30, 1900, at 7:30.

It is expected that each branch will send statistical report; please do not fail. Also, as per resolution, each elder, priest, teacher and deacon is required to report. We kindly urge that this provision be complied with, that the conference may know what labor is being performed. Many of the Saints in the district have not as yet visited the Canadian Center branch or the favored spot of Oklahoma—Dewey county—hence this will be a favorable opportunity, therefore we earnestly invite the Saints to attend the conference. It will benefit you, strengthen you in the faith, enliven your spirituality and help you to bless others.

The place of meeting will be at the Guy school-house (so far as is now known), seven miles northeast of Taloga. The busy season will be over and we hope the Saints will make an effort, an EXTRA effort to attend.
R. M. MALONEY, Dist. Pres.
SEILING, Okla., Oct. 29.

Convention Notices.

Notice is hereby given that the Sunday School convention of the Far West, Missouri, district will be held in St. Joseph, Friday, December 14, 1900, beginning at 10 a. m. Owing to the rainy weather there was no convention held at the Delano branch one month ago, therefore the program that was to have been rendered there will be rendered at the next convention. Parties assigned duties at that time will please take notice and come prepared that we may have a profitable time.

Notice is further given that Sr. Grace Constance of Cameron, Missouri, has been appointed secretary of the district to fill the vacancy caused by Sr. Blair moving out of the district, therefore all reports may be sent to her at Cameron, Missouri.

C. J. CRAWEN,
Supt. Far West Dist.
KINGSTON, MO., Oct. 31.

MARRIED.

BILLINGS-GALLUP.—At Independence, Missouri, November 2, 1900, Mr. Richard Billings and Sarah Gallup, Elder J. C. Foss officiating.

HUGHES-FERGUSON.—At the home of the bride's parents, Hardin, Missouri, October 31, 1900, Mr. Ansy A. Hughes and Sr. Laura Ferguson, Priest Walter W. Smith, officiating.

DIED.

HANSON.—At Appleton, Kent county, Ontario, October 24, 1900, Sr. Leah Hanson, who was born in Virginia in 1815 and was baptized by Elder J. E. Lake. For years she bore a faithful testimony to the truthfulness of the restored gospel and died peacefully, leaving a daughter, grandchildren and great-grandchildren to mourn their loss. The funeral services were conducted by Elder Geo. Green in the Saints' church, Lindsay branch. The funeral was largely attended and marked respect was paid to the departed.

Crouching

In every cough there lurks, like a crouching tiger, the probabilities of consumption. The throat and lungs become rough and inflamed from coughing and the germs of consumption find an easy entrance. Take no chances with the dangerous foe. For 60 years there has been a perfect cure. What a record! Sixty years of cures.

Ayer's Cherry Pectoral

soothes and heals the wounded throat and lungs. You escape an attack of consumption with all its terrible suffering and uncertain results. There is nothing so bad for the throat and lungs as coughing. A 25c. bottle will cure an ordinary cough; harder coughs will need a 50c. size; the dollar bottle is "one of the longest in the long run."

"One of my sons was splitting blood with a high fever and was very ill. We could hardly see any signs of life in him. The doctors did him no good. But one bottle of your Cherry Pectoral cured and saved his life." G. G. ANDERSON, Nov. 10, 1898. Pukwana, S. Dak.

Write the Doctor. If you have any complaint whatever, and want the best medical advice, write the Doctor freely.
Dr. J. C. AYER, Lowell, Mass.

ZION'S ENSIGN.

"OUR CREED: ALL TRUTH."

VOLUME 11.

INDEPENDENCE, MISSOURI, THURSDAY, NOVEMBER 15, 1900

NUMBER 46.

ZION'S ENSIGN.

A Literary and Religious Newspaper, published in the interest of social, scientific and religious truth, every Thursday, at Independence, Jackson County, Missouri.

PRICE, $1.00 PER YEAR, IN ADVANCE.

ENSIGN PUBLISHING HOUSE, of the Reorganized Church of Jesus Christ of Latter Day Saints.

W. H. GARRETT, EDITOR.
J. W. LUFF, BUSINESS MANAGER.

Make all remittances, and address all communications to ENSIGN PUBLISHING HOUSE, Box B, Independence, Jackson County, Missouri.

New subscriptions can begin at any time. If possible to avoid it, never send silver as it is liable to wear through the envelope and be lost.

Always give the name of the post office to which your paper is sent or we can not find your name on our lists.

When desiring your address changed, give both the old and new address.

Papers will be discontinued one month from the time subscriptions expire, unless ordered continued.

In making remittances, money orders are preferable for they are absolutely safe. If you can avoid it, do not send coin or stamps. Canadian stamps are an entire loss, and Canadian currency is only worth ninety cents on the dollar to us, for that is all we can get for it at the bank.

Letters should be addressed, and orders and drafts made payable to ENSIGN PUBLISHING HOUSE, Independence, Mo.

Box B.

CHARITY.

One of the most consistent and effective traits of character a child of God can possess is the beautiful and kindly grace of charity. No one can be a true disciple of the Christ without exercising this beneficent characteristic, blessing as it does, every one with whom it comes in contact. And while mercy may not rob justice, charity may legitimately, and often does, mitigate the severity of the judgment, passed at the demands of justice, leaving sweet hope to blossom and bloom in the burdened heart, that when justice has been satisfied, mercy shall claim its own, and bless the repentant and converted sufferer.

Charity, like all other good qualities, is susceptible of being misapplied and misused. One very striking proof of this fact is found in the position assumed by popular teachers—ministers—of the popular sects of the day, in that the distinctive doctrines of their belief must seldom be a subject for sermonizing, lest offense be given to others who differ in their interpretation and comprehension of what constitutes the church of Jesus Christ. A few items, such as faith, repentance, temperance work, etc. may be very freely commented upon, and in some cases even baptism may be dwelt upon; but any energetic effort as to the mode, must be carefully avoided lest others who hold opposite views should be led to antagonize that effort, and thus cause a division and strife among the churches. Hence to abstain from this investigation, to refrain from reasoning upon the subject, is deemed to be the exercise of charity and forbearance in love.

This procedure may, and apparently does, satisfy some minds; but it is a mistake to call it charity. It cannot possibly be true that two different understandings of one subject, diametrically opposite to each other, can be correct. It is possible that both may be incorrect, but it is certain that but one of them can be true. It is evident that truth alone is saving in its effects, hence if one party holds wrong or erroneous views of that which is essential to salvation, it is not charity in any sense to permit him to continue in that way, or to refrain from at least making the effort to enlighten him as to the truth of the matter as the word of God teaches it. At the same time due consideration must be given to the fact that he has rights with regard to his views which the spirit of charity will always respect. This spirit will never cause one, no matter how correct his position, to speak slightly or contemptuously of another's belief, nor will it permit railing accusations or slanderous references to be indulged in. On the contrary it will incite candor of speech, and gentleness of demeanor, soothing and calming to a perturbed spirit, carrying a weight of conviction, that will continue to do its work long after the interview has terminated.

Charity is an influence of love; while it hesitates to wound, yet it insists upon manifesting true friendship and brotherly regard by telling a brother of that which is harmful to his best interests, if occasion demands; warning him against an insidious enemy that may deprive him of what he has previously merited by sacrifice and earnest work, if continued; but it will also seek to present the matter in the gentlest manner possible so that it may be shown that love, not harsh criticism, is the basis of the effort at warning.

The Apostle Paul seemed to comprehend the significance and scope of this grace of charity, and his explanation found in 1 Corinthians 13, has been the inspiration, the instruction, that has, all along the ages, wherever it has been known, borne rich fruit, and blessed those influenced thereby, "CHARITY SUFFERETH LONG, AND IS KIND." It is not under circumstances most complacent and pleasant that we are often called upon to exercise charity. We may sometimes congratulate ourselves that we are exercising a good degree of charity when we have patience with others' failings, when our equanimity is not particularly ruffled; but it is quite a different matter, a more difficult thing, to control our thoughts and feelings, when we are innocently made the target for unjust, unmerited and uncalled for aspersions, when, under such circumstances, the charity exercised is of the suffering character. It requires a good degree of self-control and Christian fortitude, when our motives are misconstrued and impugned, to bear patiently an unjust estimate of our character, to which circumstances, over which we may have no control, may seem to give strength until, as the truth will sooner or later be revealed, it shall sweep away the false, and clear us of misrepresentation and wrong accusation.

But, difficult as it may be to attain to that charity which "suffereth long, and is [still] kind," it is a virtue to which every child of God should attain—and the sooner the better—before that degree of perfection in character is reached, which will commend us to God, because it is like Him. His blessings fall upon the just and the unjust; He bears long with the wickedness and folly of the rebellious and stiff-necked. He withholds not the rain, the heat, nor the light from the fields of the ungodly, more than others. He bears long and patiently with their waywardness. Why should not His children emulate, so holy an example, and "let all things have their perfect work." Perfection is not reached in a day, a month, in some regards, in years; we must bear patiently until her work is perfected, then shall we have reward that shall place us among the blessed.

"Charity envieth not." "O, but none of us will so far forget ourselves as to envy another. Have we not been taught from our youth, 'Thou shalt not covet'." True, indeed; and yet we sometimes hear it remarked, "Why don't the Lord prosper me as He does Bro. Aye? I am trying to do the best I can to serve the Lord, and I am as good as that brother." No answer comes to the inquiry, but plainly the charity that "envieth not" is lacking there, and any inclination to make comparisons, showing ourselves as being the victims of discrimination, is proof of the presence of a spirit of envy; for charity "doth not behave itself unseemly, seeketh not her own, is not easily provoked, THINKETH NO EVIL." (v. 5).

A close examination of our "profits and losses" occasionally, would, if we were wise as children of the light, as are the children of this world, probably be beneficial to our spiritual growth and development. We have before us always the one perfect pattern, the Lord Jesus Christ; how much of an assimilation to that example has been made in our characters during a certain period? Wherein are we lacking? And this examination, if candidly made, ought to show us some things wherein it would be profitable for us to "add to our faith" certain virtues in which we may find our character deficient, and to eliminate certain traits that are destructive of peace and progress.

Let all who truly love the Lord seek for a broader exercise of this precious and lovely grace, charity; then will unity abound more and more, and the Holy Spirit, acknowledging His own, flow as a river, to the comfort, blessing and salvation of the faithful in Christ Jesus.

EDITORIAL ITEMS.

BRO. JOHN R. RANK, Knox, Indiana, has been holding some good meetings at Seafield, Indiana, and at several school-houses south and east from Knox, having good interest. He anticipates increased attendance since the close of the political campaign, and hopes more good may result.

ELDER W. M. AYLOR, of Independence, Missouri, who is doing missionary work in Oklahoma territory, recently baptized two at Pond Creek, and others are believing. He has had good liberty and good attention. He was to start for Okatche, his former home, seventy miles south of Pond Creek, on the 6th.

SR. SARAH A. SNODGRASS, 257 North Myers street, Tucson, Arizona, has recently moved from Eldorado Springs, Missouri, to Tucson, in the hopes of benefiting her son's health, he being consumptive. She asks that the Saints pray for him that he may be spared to obey the gospel. She would be glad to have any of the Saints who may be living in the city, to call upon her.

ELDER F. C. KECK, Sherwin, Kansas, is feeling well and is diligently about the Master's business. He baptized two at Angola, Kansas, Monday, November 5th, and two at Sherwin on the 11th. He finds the branch at Sherwin in fine condition under the supervision of Bro. W. S. Taylor. He has enjoyed the Spirit in all his work to a marked degree and says he is in the conflict for life. He reports the brethren all at work.

BRO. J. R. MCKINNEY, Winthrop, Arkansas, thinks that prejudice is gradually giving way in that region, and hopes the time is near when the people will be anxious to read sound literature and be ready unto all good works. His family is the only one belonging to the church in that neighborhood, and he is seeking to walk and live consistently that others may see there is a reality in this latter day gospel, worthy of their consideration and acceptance. He believes some are near obedience, and he never lets an opportunity pass unimproved, to speak for the advancement of the gospel influence and power. May our brother be aided as he desires that his life and testimony may be effective witnesses for the truth as it is in the Lord Jesus Christ, and as revealed and restored in these last days.

WE were saddened last week at the receipt of intelligence of the death of Sr. Anna Nielsen, of Nebraska City, Nebraska, which occurred after an illness of but a few hours, October 21st. She was a very zealous, earnest Saint, hating shams but admiring faithfulness and integrity. She believed the latter day work with all her soul, and worked diligently in her sphere for its advancement. The appointments of the Lord's house were ever a delight to her, and none were more pleased at the progress of the gospel work than she. The church militant has lost a faithful member, but the church triumphant has gained one more, who hath been redeemed by the Lord Jesus Christ, to be with Him at His coming. Peace to her memory.

THE Coquille City (Ore.) Herald, October 16th, gives Bro. D. L. Harris the following kindly notices:

A PROTRACTED MEETING. Elder D. L. Harris of the Reorganized Church of Jesus Christ of Latter Day Saints will begin a protracted meeting at the little church next Saturday night. Be sure to hear the first service.

Elder D. L. Harris, who preaches at the little church Saturday night represents the church which is erroneously called Mormons. Come out and hear what he has to say.

Remember the meeting of Elder Harris to begin Saturday night at the little church. Come out to the first meeting and decide whether or not you wish to hear the whole services.

Elder D. L. Harris, of San Bernardino, California, representing the Reorganized Church of Jesus Christ of Latter Day Saints, who has been holding meetings at Bandon, passed through town yesterday on his way homeward. He is making fairly good progress in this county, having some thirty members within its limits. C. E. Crumley, a minister of this faith, will be at Bandon soon to look after the interests of their organization. This is the church which is constantly being confounded with the Mormon church, but which is a distinct organization with headquarters at Lamoni, Iowa.

This is pretty good for one issue. The editor shows a surprisingly liberal spirit in these notices.

ELDER W. S. MACRAE, Blendsville, Missouri:

Closed a meeting at Gordon Hollow, Saturday, November 3d, and will preach in Saints' church here next Sunday, the 11th; have one name for baptism on that date, making fifteen since beginning services here, September 9th. Expect to start for Arkansas next Tuesday (13th). Joplin presents an unlimited field for missionary labor. A General Conference appointee should be located in the city.

ALL PRAYER UNIONS are requested to meet Thursday November 22d in fasting and prayer in behalf of Sr. W. A. Smith, of Persia, Iowa, for the removal of an affliction from which she has been suffering the past eight months.

GENERAL CHURCH NEWS.

INDEPENDENCE.

The weather is quite cool, some little freezing, though it has been clear for the most part.

Bro. Burr Loar is selling tickets at the electric line station during Mr. Groesbeck's absence in the south.

Sr. Anna Flower has been ailing for some time past, and lately confined to her home: is contemplating a trip to St. Louis and other points as soon as she is able to stand the travel.

Bro. Wm. Roberts commenced the work preparatory to the erection of a new house for Sr. Letitia Crick on the lot between Sr. Walter Weeks and Bro. Robt. Kemp on Clark St. Wednesday morning.

Mr. Ralph Justice, son of Bro. and Sr. John Justice, died at the home of his brother on Lexington road Wednesday night, of consumption, and was buried Friday, Bro. H. H. Robinson conducting the exercises.

Bro. W. T. Bozarth will be the speaker at the Saints' church next Sunday morning, and Bro. G. H. Hilliard in the evening. The furnace men promise to have one of the furnaces ready for next Sunday, and say it will be of ample force to make the main auditorium comfortable this kind of weather, and services can therefore be held there as usual.

Bro. R. May has been making some extensive improvements in his mill machinery recently, substituting his old engine for a twenty horse power Weber gasoline engine, adding a new mill for grinding corn, and changing his elevators materially. Bro. May is up to the times, and always arranges to meet demands upon him in his increasing business.

Bro. Alfred White was the speaker last Sunday morning at the Saints' church, and Bro. Jos. Luff at night, Bro. Hilliard having gone to St. Joseph. The afternoon service was also quite well attended and was a good meeting. The lower auditorium was occupied for all services as the furnace work was still incomplete, and it was too cool in the main auditorium for safety to health.

Bro. and Sr. H. H. Robinson have decided to move to Lee's Summit for a time, in the interests of the work there. Bro. Robinson's health is such as to make it impracticable for him to be from home any length of time, and there being opportunity for good work at Lee's Summit, with the consent of those in charge, he has concluded to locate there and try to build up the cause in that vicinity. We regret his removal, but are confident that what we may lose, our brethren in our neighboring town will gain, and we trust abundant success may attend his labors. Sr. Robinson will also be missed from the work here, but we are assured that her earnest work in her new home will tell for good.

Next Sunday, being the third in this month, the young people are requested to attend prayer meeting at 6:15 p. m., fasting and praying for a deeper consecration of every power in the service of God; that a fuller, more spiritual and self-sacrificing devotion may be given, thus preparing themselves for the greater blessings promised. There should be a full attendance, and so far as possible, all should comply with the request to come fasting for this purpose.

Bro. and Sr. L. N. Totty's home is having a siege of sickness that calls for sympathy. The two little children of their daughter, Sr. Adam Tignor, and one little boy of Sr. Chas. Tignor are all sick with pneumonia, the latter having a succession of spasms Monday. The little girl of Sr. Adam Tignor was pronounced past human skill last Monday, but notwithstanding this, hopes are entertained that she will yet recover. We trust that all may speedily be restored though they are very ill.

At a meeting of the officers of the branch, the Sunday School and the Religio, Monday evening, the advisability of instituting a weekly young people's prayer meeting was considered. Sixteen were present and a general discussion was held, the unanimous expression being in favor of the movement. Time and place were factors considered, all but one or two being of the opinion that the regular night set apart for prayer—Wednesday—should be designated as the time. It was finally decided to leave the matter in the hands of the officers of the branch to arrange details. The branch officials also have in contemplation the re-establishing of prayer meeting Wednesday evening on the South Side, during the winter months at least, if satisfactory arrangements can be made, the opinion being that the prayer service is one of great importance to the welfare and progress of the Saints. We trust these efforts for advancement, "coming up higher," will meet with the earnest and united support of the Saints.

LAMONI, IOWA.

"Blow, blow, thou winter wind,
Thou art not so unkind
As man's ingratitude;"

A cold wave reached here last week which made us feel that winter was upon us. The heavy, leaden clouds obscuring the sunshine, made us think how cheerless our lives would be if the glorious sunshine of God's love, as manifested in the gospel, was still obscured by the "doctrines and commandments of men." So may we each day breathe a spirit of gratitude to our heavenly Father for his great love toward us.

At Sunday School yesterday, there were present three hundred and thirty-three. Only four teachers absent, three being out of town. Elder Fred A. Smith preached at 11 o'clock, a very profitable sermon, we judge, from the comments we have heard. Good reports come from the afternoon prayer and testimony meeting. Twenty-two testimonies were given, bringing out some fine thoughts. Bishop Ellis Short, of Independence, preached in the evening, subject "The Straight Gate and Narrow Way." He also touched upon the educational results of the gospel in some localities where he had been. Elder H. A. Stebbins preached at Saints' Home Sunday evening.

Elder R. M. Elvin has gone to Ellston, Iowa, to look after the work there.

Bishop Short and wife are visiting Sr. Short's parents, Bro. and Sr. S. V. Bailey.

The Religio was divided into eight classes last Friday night, and the prospects for a thorough study of the Book of Mormon are very encouraging. They voted to take up a penny collection at each meeting.

At the branch business meeting Tuesday evening, it was decided by vote to take up a collection to assist the Second Kansas City branch in their effort to prepare their church building for the winter.

The Daughters of Zion held another very interesting meeting on last Friday afternoon, the largest attendance for some time.

Sr. Lewis, at Saints' Home, had the misfortune to fall and sprain her arm quite badly; she is getting along nicely with it now.

Mr. Clayton Frisbee, of Ovid, Michigan, Mr. Charles Harp, of Evergreen, Iowa, Miss Flora Salisbury, of Fountain Green, Illinois, Miss Grace Badham, of Henderson, Iowa, and Miss Ida Oliver, of Malvern, Iowa, were enrolled in Graceland College last week.

Elder John Smith spoke twice at the Surprise school-house yesterday.

The sad news of the death of Bro. M. P. Hansen, at Arendal, Norway, October 25th, reached us this morning. Bro. Hansen was appointed to the Scandinavian mission at last General Conference, and he, with Bro. N. C. Engle, sailed on September 9th. We regret to have his missionary work brought to an end so suddenly, yet we feel that He that "marks the sparrow's fall" doeth all things well.

G. L. K.

November 12.

CHICAGO, ILLINOIS.

Branch headquarters, 716 W. Van Buren St. Sunday meetings 2:45 and 7:45 p. m.; Lang Mission, 341 Cottage Grove Ave., 10:45 a. m. and 7:30 p. m.; West Pullman branch, 746 119th St., 10:30 a. m. and 7:30 p. m.; 508 W. 37th St. (colored mission), 10:30 a. m. and 7:30 p. m.

The morning sermon at the mission was by Bro. Earl, on the gospel of reconciliation in the hands of a mediator. Attendance good, also the sermon.

We were pleased to form the acquaintance of Bro. R. T. Cooper, formerly of Mount Ayr, Iowa, now in the employ of a railroad, having a run from Chicago to Los Angeles, California, spending every alternate Sunday in these two cities. We told him of the branch, and residence of Bro. T. W. W. there.

He enjoyed our social sacrament meeting very much.

Bro. J. W. Morris has returned to Chicago for the winter. We welcome him.

Four papers will be read at our next priesthood meeting to be held November 26th next, "How Can the Priesthood Add to the Spirituality and Interest of the Social Meetings," "What Constitutes a Good Elder," "What Can a Good Deacon do for the Work," "What is 'Wisdom,' How Does it Effect Our Conduct, Especially in Social Meetings." An interesting meeting is expected.

Our sacrament service yesterday was of a very high order. In point of wisdom displayed it surpassed any meeting we have attended for a long time. An aged brother, 88 years old, while not of our number, arose and testified that there was present the Spirit of Christ, for he felt it. O, that such could be in the fold; but the Good Shepherd will provide a goodly place for such. The meeting was in charge of Bro. S. C. Good and W. H. Deam, assisted in the service by Bro. J. F. Keir and Wm. J. Cochran.

Among the scores of expressions of gladness at our recovery, we note especially the kind words and proffered assistance of Mr. Logan, who, while not of our number, yet is of a broad, charitable heart, trying to live by the Golden Rule. We would love to see him on the other side of the church door—within the fold.

Sr. Sloan has passed another siege of sickness. She was so far recovered as to be able to attend the service at the mission yesterday.

Bro. E. E. Johnson still lingers in about the same condition, probably some better.

Bro. F. M. Pitt occupied at headquarters last night, comparing former times with the present, making some good points.

The wedding of Sr. Emma L. Little to Bro. P. Rogers passed off pleasantly, Bro. E. J. Lang officiating.

Bro. F. M. Cooper remained in DeKalb yesterday, and we learn with joy of the revival of the work at that place.

Zion and the Gathering is a subject welling up in the minds of many of our Saints. It seems to come by intuition of the Spirit—one that it is agitated by anyone—this is proper.

In hope of an inheritance, I am your convalescing brother,

J. M. TERRY.

395 Ogden Ave., Nov. 11.

FIRST KANSAS CITY BRANCH.

2324 Wabash Ave., Sunday School 9:30 a. m.; preaching at 11 a. m. and 7:30 p. m.; social service 12:15 p. m. D. F. Winn, pastor, 2306 Bellfontaine.

The attendance at Sunday School was better than usual. Quite a number of visitors were present, and the review by Sr. D. H. Blair was splendid.

As previously announced, the morning sermon was by Elder M. F. Gowell, showing the different dispensations, with an illustrated chart. The discourse was very interesting.

In the evening the attendance was unusually good. The announcement in the papers of Elder Warnky's subject, no doubt brought some out who otherwise would not have attended. As far as is possible the presiding elder intends to publish the announcement of the speakers and their subjects in the future. We are informed that Bro. Geo. H. Hulmes is to be the speaker on next Sunday evening. Bro. Hulmes is a pleasing speaker and we hope the attendance will be good.

The time of the social meeting has again been changed and, until further announcement, will be held at 12:15, as it is the choice opinion that meetings held at that time have been better attended and more spiritual than at any other time.

We noticed in last week's Independence, items mention was made of the Oratorio and the Independence Saints who formed a part of it. There was a few of the Saints from the consolidated cities who took part, namely: Bro. W. H. Pease, E. C. Harrington and Arthur Gillen; Mrs. Russell Etzenhouser, Ida Pearson, and Mary, Mabel and Myrtle Warnky, which shows that we have some musical talent among our number. One or two with excellent voices were not members of the Oratorio.

Bro. Frank Rudd is at present connected with the Kansas City Commercial Agency, and we trust will move into our midst.

R. E. PORREER.

November 13th.

ST. LOUIS, MISSOURI.

Places of worship: Rock Church, Glasgow avenue and Dickson street; services: Wednesday evening, prayer service; Sunday, Sabbath School 9:30 a. m., preaching 11 o'clock a. m., social service 2:30 p. m., preaching at 8 p. m.; Cheltenham, 5731 Manchester Ave., services, Sunday School, 10 a. m., social meeting 2:30 p. m., preaching 7:30 p. m.; Oak Hill, Sunday School 9:30 a. m., and services at 2:30 and 8 p. m.

Our Sunday School wore an enlivening look yesterday; the attendance was noticeably increased, and the review conducted by Bro. Trowbridge, was brief and good.

Sr. Whiting has been sojourning in Denver, and while there hunted up the Saints.

We understand the Religio session of last Friday night was especially good, and judging from the program for next Friday night a very pleasant and instructive evening may be expected.

Sickness is in our midst, causing us anxiety; Bro. Gordon Smith's daughter, Emma, is quite sick, also Sr. Sethena Ashton; others are somewhat afflicted.

Business meeting of last Tuesday evening was fairly well attended, Bro. Allen and Christenson, presiding. Reports were given by a number of the priesthood, of which there was a good showing present. The deacon and financial clerk's report showed balance of nearly $30.00. A number of items were talked over, and taken altogether, we think the meeting was a splendid one, because of the desire to improve and do all for the best, manifested by those present.

We are expecting Bro. E. L. Kelley some time during the month, and, of course, when he comes, he may expect to be called upon to preach a goodly number of times.

A Thanksgiving prayer meeting will be held in the auditorium of the church, at half past ten o'clock November 20th.

Bro. Barraclough visited and preached at O'Fallon, Illinois, yesterday; Bro. Ivor Davis, Belleville, Illinois; Bro. Cole occupied the pulpit at Cheltenham in the afternoon, Bro. Henry Roberts, evening service, Bro. Jno. Parrish being the speaker at Oak Hill mission.

The Cheltenham folks will give a song service Sunday evening, November 25th.

Bro. Arthur Allen left for O'Fallon, Illinois, today, intending to hold a week's meetings there, endeavoring to arouse an interest, and comfort the Saints scattered in that region.

Practices for the song service of December 2d are now in order, here.

Bro. John Billinsky visited the Cheltenham school yesterday morning.

Bro. Allen was our speaker twice upon yesterday, Brn. Smith and Noah Cook assisting him.

Sr. Mary McDonald was one of our visitors; quite a number of strangers Sunday evenings, also two of the Utah brethren have been dropping in for the evening service.

The heating service of the church was in fine condition last evening, and it was pleasant and enjoyable to have the privilege of being so comfortable within, while outside was the wailing wind of dreary November.

Sr. Grace Johnson, little son Lyman, and Sr. Walron's little daughter made a brief visit with Kansas City friends and relatives over Sunday.

Bro. Allen was in charge of the afternoon social service; we have record of several prayers, and fourteen testimonies; a splendid time was had, and the joy in the hearts of the Saints, found frequent vent in songs of praise.

ETTA.

November 13.

SAN FRANCISCO, CALIFORNIA. Services at Golden West Hall, 320 Post street, every Sunday. Sunday School 10 a. m.; preaching 11 a. m. and 7:30 p. m.; prayer meeting first Sunday of each month at 12:15 noon. Elder C. A. Parkin presiding elder, residence 3010 16th street.

There is a great deal of sameness to our course of services here every Sunday. Sr. Ella Lytle still superintends the Sunday School, which holds its sessions regularly at 10 a. m., and its interest never lags.

At 11 a. m. Elder Albert Haws was the speaker. At 7:30 p. m. your correspondent had the honor of filling the pulpit. The Saints seemed to be satisfied with both addresses. Priest Balschan was the speaker at Berkeley at the morning hour, and J. M. Saxe followed him in the evening.

Fred B. Blair was at Stockton Sunday. J. H. Anthony went to Santa Rosa. It was quite a busy day with our locals. Chas. A. Parkin was at Oakland administering to the sick.

There was good attendance at our Wednesday evening prayer meeting. Bro. Saxe's rooms were well filled. A peaceful quiet spirit prevailed throughout.

Friday night was prayer meeting night at the Religio. They had a full house, and several strangers were among those present, and they seemed to enjoy the evening as well as the members did.

There is not much sickness among the Saints here now, all are comparatively well.

GEO. S. LINCOLN.

November 2.

LETTER DEPARTMENT.

SOUTH GOULDSBORO, Maine.

November 8.

Dear Ensign:—Maine is all right. Cunningham, Ames, Blanchard, Foss, Rich and myself all at work in the missionary field, local men not idle. Several new openings made and prospects good for lots of good work to be done this fall and winter all along the line. Maine is not dead by any means, neither is she going to die. There is a whole state full of as good material for Saints as there is in the world, and about as easy to reach as any where that I know, and we're going to reach some of them too.

Some six or seven weeks ago I left Oxford county, where, in company with Bro. C. H. Rich, we spent a few weeks in blowing the gospel horn in six places in and around Dixfield. The most of the Saints are alive and well, standing by us nobly in our efforts, by their presence and interest, and to even those who are not members, we are indebted for encouragement and favors, as well as financial aid. And what shall I say more for the time would fail me to tell of the Holmans, and Blanchards, and Tools, and Kidders, and Andrews, and Tainters, and Ventons also, who through faith, fed us on honey and sweet corn, loaned us horses and ferry boats, gave us good homes, and in many ways made us feel that there are many pleasing features in the missionary life.

W. W. Blanchard's work is well spoken of in that section. There are some noble young souls who will surely accept the faith before long.

From here I went alone into Aroostook county, Bro. Rich taking Hancock county for a while. My experience in Aroostook was varied. In one place opposition ran so strong that I was even stoned at, but I guess they had some Spanish blood in them for none "hit." However, after holding two more meetings, thus showing them that we did not care anything for their stones (that did not hit), we left them to think over the matter, and struck into other neighborhoods, where we left a number of fair minded people seriously thinking and investigating our claims. Only one, out of several who knew they ought to obey, and would have but for hindering causes, was baptized, but he is a good man, and, if faithful, is destined to do a good work.

The meetings in the pretty village of Washburn increased in size and interest to the last, some of the most influential people of the place standing right by us. May the Lord bless them.

My permanent home was at the residence of Sr. Foote, who, in more than one way, is proving herself a great support to the work, yet it will not be detracting anything from her to say that the Saints in Aroostook, as a rule, are only behind to the extent that their opportunities differ. Dear Saints and friends, I appreciate your kindness to me and am glad to know that your love for the work is at the bottom of it. I could mention the Nortons, Philbrieks, Greenlaws, Scotts, Duncans, Ballard's, Stoddards, HERSHEYs, HARRISSES and many others with pleasure, but space forbids. Why did I leave? Just because it seemed to be more necessary that I should be somewhere else. "Don't forget the assembling of yourselves together as the manner of some is." I stopped over two nights at Bangor where Elder G. I. Cunningham is spending a day or two getting the work before the people after the cottage meeting order. Election tide running too high for greater effort just then. Some nice people investigating.

Leaving Bangor I arrived here yesterday, where Bro. Rich has several places all ready for several weeks meetings; will begin this evening if all goes well. May the good Lord bless our efforts, give us wisdom, heal our bodies, forgive our sins, and crown us in His kingdom.

I have this to say, whatever failures I may make, or what even others may do that is wrong, I am convinced that God is in this work, and the man or woman that is not engaged in it is making an awful mistake. Another thing, I have some convincing evidences that "hot drinks" in Word of Wisdom means hot drinks in every sense of the word. How much evidence? Ten pounds avaricious, and feel better. Stop growling about your stomachs and try it six months before you say "crank."

I could tell you something else, but I won't this time.

Yours in the work,

H. J. DAVISON.

P. S.—Bro. Haw's book on the Sabbath is a good thing, give it a chance and it will go itself.

H. J. D.

FALL RIVER, Mass., Oct. 20.

Editor Ensign:—We are trying to "keep up with the procession" in the Massachusetts district, and with as creditable show as circumstances will permit. Glad of the weekly visits of the Ensign, and sorry that news furnished from this part of the country seem to be so scarce. The progress of work in the church is of interest to all, in all parts of the country, and I have tried to urge upon many of our young and capable brethren or sisters the duty of correspondence, or of furnishing to you items of interest to all. But it seems a hard matter to persuade people to exercise and develop inherent talent and ability in this direction, or to awaken a sense of obligation, privilege or duty to enlarge upon ones talent in church service and along these lines.

Matters in Providence and Fall River over which we have charge, are moving up towards better conditions, we believe; slowly, to be sure, but we trust permanently. At least we are desirous of laying foundation for future building, so solidly in alignment with God's law, that whether superstructure built thereupon by whomsoever maybe in the future—to stand or to fall, because of relative strength or weakness of material employed—or in manner of construction, that if it shall fall or fail, be or they who shall or may be obliged to clear away the debris or ruin of an unstable building, may find the old foundation and basis still intact, not laid in untempered mortar, or out of alignment or harmony with the directions of the Master Builder Himself.

The grand, consolidated, aggregative (aggravation) and mis-representative force from Utah are no more with us or to be seen upon our streets, or heard from anywhere, but, like the Arab have "Folded their tent

And silently stole away."

Neither carrying with them anywhere near the capture their loud advertisements and boasts gave us assurance of.

We agree with President Cannon of the Utah church, when in his speech at their late conference in Salt Lake City, he deprecated the policy of keeping "a great number of elders in the field, at large expense to the church, with small rewards so to speak" (italics mine); and that "they should transfer their work to countries where no preaching had been done." And if we are permitted to add a little to this advice—"Where Josephites are not to be found."

The hall on Westminster street in Providence, has been abandoned by them for some time. We see or hear nothing of them any more at all, and believe they have left this part of the country, and for good also, taking with them (some of them) a better knowledge of the true history of the church they are commissioned to represent, than they had before coming in contact with ministers of the Reorganized Church; but still leaving behind them however, the mal-odorous influence of the admixture of Brighamism with its puzzling and derogatory combination of truth and error, for us to battle with and overcome.

One or two of their "converts" have applied to us for baptism, having got their eyes open, or out into daylight, and among people who are given to the discussion of both or all sides of a religious question.

The work of the Religio is progressing in Providence, Fall River, Boston, and increasing interest being manifest throughout the district in this work of the young people, and old also, as we think we may properly add, unless too old to learn new things or better method in the study of God's word, especially the Book of Mormon and the ever increasing evidence of its truth and divinity.

The church is without doubt, increasing not only in members, but usefulness, influence and power in the world. Silently though it may be, the leaving process is going on, that was inaugurated through the angel's visit to the boy seer. Clearer and more vivid from day to day, are evidences of the dealings of Almighty God, even the God of the ancient prophets and the apostles of Jesus Christ, with this young man.

If the foundations of the religious work laid years ago through the instrumentality of Joseph Smith Jr. are not true, then there are for me no religious certainties in this great world of ours. But in the spirit of what I conscientiously believe to be a true worship, I many, many times am gratefully led to exclaim and repeat—"Praise to the Lord! for the great restoration, Brought by the angel, to Joseph the Seer."

In the faith,
MYRON H. BOND.

FULTON, Kentucky, Nov. 6.

Editor Ensign:—The conference and reunion of the Tennessee and Kentucky district was held October 27th to November 4th. The attendance was not near so large as we would have liked to see by the Saints, nor were we favored with an over quantity of preachers, the writer being the only preacher from outside the district, and Brn. D. W. Cook, C. L. Snow and J. H. Adair being the only ones of the home elders who put in an appearance. However, a good spirit prevailed and from the meetings a good influence went out in all directions.

The reunion was held in the new church recently erected near Swan, Kentucky. The church is not completed yet, but by dint of strong efforts on the part of Bro. Jeff Meyers who was chief carpenter, with some aid from others, it was near enough completed to be comfortable for the conference and reunion. The house is 22x34, with arched ceiling and floor inclined so that back seats are higher than front ones, and is strongly and substantially built, and when completed will be quite a creditable place in which to worship.

The burden of caring for visitors was cheerfully borne by Brn. J. H. and S. B. Adair, A. S. Snow, D. W. Cook, Jasper Jones, Jeff Myers, each did by their better half (and in fact the better half did most of the work). Half brother Thomas Snow and his sister, Alice McFadden, and also brother-in-law and Sister Bennett Sanders, are entitled to credit for their share in the same good work. The preacher enjoyed eating of the good things furnished by these good Saints and others whose names we may have left out unintentionally, and he hopes they enjoyed partaking of the spiritual food with which he tried to feed them. We heard a number say they never before enjoyed a meeting so much.

Bro. Snow gave excellent satisfaction Thursday night preaching on the laying on of hands. The Spirit's power was felt in the prayer service; outsiders were visibly affected by it. The young were spoken to by way of caution and exhortation and the old by way of encouragement and promise. All were so much pleased with the meetings that another reunion for 1901 was voted without a dissenting voice. The idea is to make it larger and better than this one if possible. All Saints please take notice.

This scribe favors district reunions, but not too many "general" reunions. General reunions are costly in both time and money. District reunions need not be. Some one of the general authorities could arrange to be at one or more of the district reunions with no more expense than would be necessary in reaching the same territory for other work. No missionary should go far out of his field to attend reunions even though they be known by the high sounding title of "general." No member should go long distances at great expense in attending reunions just because some noted preacher—of whatever quorum—is expected to commit the folly of leaving his field and spending sacred dollars of church money in attending the same reunion, when there was plenty of work just as laudable and just as necessary to be done in his own field and which he could do without needless expense.

But I did not set out to write a lecture nor preach a sermon. My mission address till further notice will be: Garland, Alabama. Correspondents please take notice.

In bonds,

T. C. KELLEY.

HAMBURG, Iowa, Nov. 6.

Editor Ensign:—The news that your welcome little visitor brings to us weekly cheers our hearts, and is an incentive inspiring us to move forward in this noble, and grand work, "the redemption of the race of mankind." We are still in the faith, working as best we can, to bring souls unto God, such as may be eternally saved in his kingdom; also endeavoring to build up and encourage the "rock of God" under our care, to press onward and gain the crown, and obtain the victory, through Him who has triumphed over death, hell and the grave.

The rainy weather has hindered us some of late, but we must not complain. Since leaving home I have preached in the Tabor branch, attended our district conference, and Sunday School convention held with the Saints of Thurman, preached in McPaul, and at Bartlett, and one week in this place, making in all seven weeks, and feel that our work has not been altogether in vain.

Bro. Charles Fry was our co-laborer in Bartlett. He is alive in the interest of the work, is doing well, and is beloved by all the Saints and friends. We have enjoyed a goodly degree of the Spirit, and had excellent liberty in presenting the word. We leave here tomorrow for Mill Creek, thence on to Shenandoah, and the last of this month to Carson, to meet with the brethren of the Potawatamie conference, after which we expect to be in some work in that district. I think most of the Saints are feeling well in the work, and are strong in the faith. Quite a number of non-members attend our meetings, and we hope to reap a plentiful harvest in the near future.

We have the same opposing powers to contend with, as all the people of God have ever had, but the watch word is "Push on, fear not," "He that has promised, is abundantly able to perform."

Now Bro. Editor, may God bless you in your labors of love for His cause, and help you in the arduous task imposed upon you as the presiding officer of the branch, and make you abundantly able to perform all the labor required of you as a servant of God. My health has not been the best for the last month, but is improving, and I hope for the best, and shall strive for the right, God being my helper, while life shall be granted me on this earth.

With best regards to all lovers of truth, I am yours in bonds,
HENRY KEMR.

FORMOSA, Kans., Oct. 21.

Dear Ensign: I thought perhaps a letter from this part of the vineyard would be acceptable. We had Bro. J. A. Davis, one of the northwestern Kansas missionaries, visiting us and while he was here, we got the Rockdale school-house for him to preach in. He had a large and attentive audience, who assisted in the singing. Bro. Davis had good liberty in setting forth the truths of the gospel. The people in the neighborhood are all busy again and we hope he will come again soon.

We are enjoying life in our Kansas home where the Ensign is a welcome visitor.

Yours in the faith,
EVALYN A. RAMSEY.

ZION'S ENSIGN.

Entered at the Post Office at Independence, Mo., as Second Class Matter.

CHARITY.

Sermon by President Joseph Smith, April 8th, 1860, at Lamoni, Ia.

[REPORTED BY SR. M. EUNICE WINN.]

We call your attention this morning to the reading of a portion of one of Paul's letters, that to the Corinthian brethren, the first letter: "Though I speak with the tongues of men and of angels, and have not charity, I am become as sounding brass, or a tinkling cymbal. And though I have the gift of prophecy, and understand all mysteries, and all knowledge; and though I have all faith, so that I could remove mountains, and have not charity, I am nothing. And though I bestow all my goods to feed the poor, and though I give my body to be burned, and have not charity, it profiteth me nothing. Charity suffereth long, and is kind; charity envieth not; charity vaunteth not itself, is not puffed up, doth not behave itself unseemly, seeketh not her own, is not easily provoked, thinketh not evil; rejoiceth not in iniquity, but rejoiceth in the truth; beareth all things, believeth all things, hopeth all things, endureth all things. Charity never faileth; but whether there be prophecies, they shall fail; whether there be tongues, they shall cease; whether there be knowledge, it shall vanish away. For we know in part, and we prophesy in part. But when that which is perfect is come, then that which is in part shall be done away. When I was a child, I spake as a child, I understood as a child, I thought as a child; but when I became a man I put away childish things. For now we see through a glass, darkly; but then face to face; now I know in part; but then shall I know, even as also I am known. And now abideth faith, hope, charity, these three; but the greatest of these is charity."—1 Cor. 13.

While I present the thoughts that may be presented to me, I want this congregation to think and decide, if they possibly can, what charity is, and let this run through every thread of the discourse, and your consideration of it.

I am reading from what is called the two records, the conjuncture of the Book of Mormon, commonly understood to be the stick of Ephraim, and the New Testament scriptures, supposed to be the stick of Joseph. The two records made by the Lord Jesus Christ, and his disciples, one upon the olden continent, the other upon this. I choose to read this from this record because of that which has come to us as a commandment by direct revelation, in which the church was charged to take these things which are written in the Bible, in the Book of Mormon and in the Commandments of the church, to be the things which they should teach. And as an individual I believe that if there is a people upon the face of the earth in civilized lands that have been compelled by the position occupied by them, to give an apology to the people, to the state, to the national government, of their fidelity to that which is for the best interests of the human race, a part of that people is assembled before me this morning. Hence, while I do not regard the language of the Apostle Paul as the language of God, nor yet the language of Jesus Christ, I do regard it as being of that character spoken of in prophecy, in which it is said; "To the law and to the testimony, if they speak not according to this word there is no light in them." The writings of the Apostle Paul are his testimony, they are to be regarded in this light, as his testimony, the history of his life, so far as it is written; the delineation of his character, so far as it appears from his writing; the hope that he had, and the expression of his kindly regard unto mankind—the kindest gentleman writer of the New Testament.

Events that are transpiring persistently present to us this thought that there is not that advancement in Christian ethics, the observance of Christian deportment, the performance of Christian conduct as it is taught in the New Testament scriptures, as it is impressed upon us in the Book of Mormon, as it comes home to us by direct revelation of Jesus Christ to the church itself. And as we have sung, and talked, and have uttered treatises in regard to that wonderful invitation that God has given us to "Come up higher," it seems to me that one of the reasons why we do not respond in directness and in fullness to this invitation to "Come up higher" is because we have failed to lay the sure foundation, upon which we can build, and make an establishment in our own hearts and minds to govern and control our thoughts and our actions, based upon the charity which Jesus Christ taught and exhibited to the world.

I guarantee that if I were to ask this congregation separately, to announce to this people what they understood the word charity to mean, they would say "The love of God." But would they mean the love that God has for humanity, or would they mean that reflected love in the human heart which it must have for its own kind, and respect for God? The love of God is an indefinite quantity. As I consider the history of the past, as I look out upon the present, as I look forward to the future, I can but accept to myself the thought that I can not comprehend the height, or the depth or the breadth of the love that God has exhibited for man. I can not place myself in the position of that Man of Calvary, and look upon things as he looked upon things, regard men as he must have regarded them, see the future of nationalities as he saw them, and comprehend the largeness of the heart that under all these conditions could patiently take that which had come to him of sorrow and grief, and looking up unto God in the merest paths of humility, say unto him, "I commend my spirit unto thee, but do thou forgive these, they know not what they do."

As I understand charity, it is a principle. I would like to think it to be ingrain in human nature; I know it is ingrain in the divine nature. I would like to think that it was the one grain of life, subtle and latent, that God implanted in all human kind. But my experiences, my observations, my dealings with myself, my dealings with my fellow-men, all of these point to the consideration that if it be ingrain, it has become sorely overcharged with that which is selfish; that as man has lived upon the earth, he has gone out from the presence of his God in more senses than one, and—to his extreme detriment—in no other direction so far, as in this departure from that which should take into consideration the love of man.

I know that it is well for us to talk of the sacrifices that we make, and of the sacrifices that we are willing to make for our fellow men. I honor those men who have taken their Bibles in their hands, and have gone out into the field, into the stubble field, into the wild and barren field, where man has never reaped before, in the sense that they go out that they may reap. I honor them for the sturdy integrity of their natures and their persistency in preaching the love of God to men; but while I honor them I can see a failure in growth in that which should mark them in every condition of life; the exercise of that peculiar quality that I believe and recognize as charity. I find there is a field that is being left uncultivated in their own hearts; and as I regard myself, the conditions and things that have surrounded me from my youth until now, and look forward on days before me and see all the difficulties upon the right and upon the left with which I must meet and contend, I am sadly aware that for me, as well as for them, there is a failure to cultivate that finer quality that God has intended men should exercise towards their fellow men; and hence I call your attention to the reading of this epistle of the Apostle Paul, this morning, found in the 13th chapter, and representing the statement of the apostle as being true, that faith, hope and charity, these three endure, but the greatest of these is charity.

Faith is a trust in God. Faith is a quality in the human mind, a confidence and hope in the human heart that, looking forward, sees that which has not yet transpired, in contemplation, and works under the difficulties that may surround, and under all the disparities that conditions may have imposed, and, without faltering, pursues that steadfast course to reach the goal that must finally give the triumph. That faith that can not be turned to the right or to the left by fears; that faith that regards not death, but feels an assurance of life unshaken under all conditions, if the soul be but subservient unto that which the Master has commanded; such faith as that is sublime. It is not confined to the Master, nature, God. It is not confined to the high and the haughty, it is not confined to the learned or to those who live in grandeur; but it finds its best development in those who are humble, in those who are both poor in goods and poor in spirit; it finds its rest in the home, on the highways, in every condition where the soul is intent upon doing that which God has commanded. I will not stop to attempt to describe my understanding of the different kinds of faith, it is unnecessary; suffice to say that that faith which Paul is writing about here, is that which endureth, and if you know what endurance means, you may comprehend what that faith is.

Hope endureth to the end. We, who have grown gray, my fellow-laborers, upon whose heads and faces I see, as upon my own, the blossoming hairs that indicate that life's fitful fever is almost over, and that they are standing just a step this side of the place where all must cease to labor, can remember the scenes along life's pathway, when we began this battle, side by side—strong and hearty—knowing no ache and no pain, recognizing no fear, being exercised by no doubt, and I ask myself the question, "When hope was then in my heart, and in their hearts, does not that same prospect now make us greet each other as boys, and young men in the field, hoping and hoping on forever? It endureth. It is the conjoint work of desire and expectation. He who hath hope desireth to rest; he expects it. He dare not desire it and expect it unless he is willing to work and suffer for it, and he that doeth this, his hope shall endure forever.

I turn now and ask myself the question, "What is the nature of the work of charity in my heart?" And it strikes my heart with all the apostle says, "It knoweth no evil." Under the discipline of this principle in me, I am compelled, by virtue of my christian education, by virtue of my faith in God, by virtue of my desire and expectation, I am compelled to believe my brother and sister innocent of wrong, innocent of evil, until my spirit and my heart and my brain are compelled to accept the untoward influence of evidence which proved them to have been guilty. If I am wronged in any sense, either as an officer or as a man, I must look at him who has done me wrong, not seeking to find an evil motive for what he has done growing in his heart, with an intention to do me injury; I must measure him by his environments, by virtue of this resident charity in my soul. I must find, if I can, a proper motive for his action. I must not lay his act at his feet and say, "You have done me evil, because your heart is evil." I have no right to judge the outside world in such a spirit as that, how much less have I a right to judge my fellow men of like faith with myself, who are joined together in an effort to present Jesus Christ, the lover of mankind, the one whom my brother so excellently painted before us last night, as having taken this warfare into His own heart, and going down into the confines of the pit, wrested from him who held rule over death and hell, the keys of his power, and won the right to set the captives free. I am obliged then, in the interests of this Man, when I teach, I am obliged by my christian education and my hope, to find motives of good for the acts of my fellow men, and to refuse to believe them evil until they have been proven to have been evil by intention. I know in this I strike at the popular opinion that the act is the indication of the motive, and that the only measure for the intention is the act itself.

We are enjoined to be careful how we judge our fellow men because for the things which we condemn, we ourselves do them; and before I get through, I shall weave this moral into my effort, and emphasize this principle by a few statements of every day life, coming within my own observation and at work in my own experience, circumstances in my own life; then you cannot blame me if I, by this example, emphasize the virtue of the principle before you. The indwelling of this peculiar spirit, the operation of the principle, closes the ear to the tongue of scandal, it closes the ear against the insinuations of evil. It absolutely refuses to take within itself the cankering weight that results from the consideration that my brother or sister has done wrong, or is evil.

It refuses to stoop to the repeating of that which they may have heard that is injurious to the reputation of a brother or sister. One of the first questions which it asks the mind is, "Is that which is stated of this man or woman like the man or woman?" And if the mind says, "No," there is a refusal to entertain that thought. The next question is, "Is it probable?" And from the consideration of the individual and his or her surroundings, there must come an answer, and the mind must take cognizance of the consideration of the charge and refuse to give credence to the evil charged; and the next, and last question to be determined is, "Is that which is stated true?" If not, this charity refuses to be governed by it.

"Charity vaunteth not itself." Charity vaunteth not its own goodness, its own acquirements, its own hopes, but carries itself seemly before its fellows. And now let me inquire how far reaching is this charity? How far is this work carried? "Doth not behave itself unseemly." What is the meaning of that? As I regard it, in the expression of this principle, it is that if, in any of my goings hither or thither, I betray a sense, or the lack of a sense, of due propriety of the occasion in which I am engaged; if I am careless of the proprieties, no matter what they may be, I am behaving myself unseemly. Whether in the public highway, in the home, in the pulpit or in the pew, it matters not what may be the character of the conduct that disturbs the peace, and the dignity of the occasion upon which I may be called to act, or participate in, if it disturbs or annoys, then it is an unseemly act, and disregardful of this peculiar quality called charity. And again; if there is that which takes place in the character or conduct of an individual which is the result of some peculiar disability, charity refuses to take cognizance of that particular act, charity refuses to recognize that there is anything out of the ordinary in that individual's conduct.

I want to call your attention to a circumstance that will, in a sense, emphasize this teaching of the apostle; two of them.

I was, at one time, in the leading church, in the city of Washington. I was near the door of the pew—they had those old fashioned pews where the doors swing open—it was the fashionable church of the national metropolis. I had listened to the sermon and to the singing. I had tried with all my powers to engage in the worship in the spirit thereof, and I confess that I was pleased to think that I might, in a strange city, in a strange house, and among a strange people, mingle my worship with the theirs, in such a satisfactory manner. But this condition of mind was disturbed. The cause of the disturbance was this. Right near to the pulpit there were two ladies meeting, one in the aisle, the other in the door of the pew, but beyond them and nearer the pulpit, and in a seat like these, a woman had sat during the service, and at the close she arose and started to go through the aisle occupied by one of the two women—and I must tell you that they wore hoops at that time, and this woman's skirts were so extended that it was impossible for anyone to pass her as she then stood. This woman who wanted to pass was dressed in calico, she had a faded shawl over her shoulders. Her bonnet was not like some of these bonnets that I see before me today, but was like herself, characteristic of want or decent poverty. As she came to this woman standing in the aisle, she said, "Will you please allow me to pass." The woman in the aisle looked over her shoulder and never moved. I thought that poor woman looked like she would faint, and with quivering lips she repeated the request, "Will you please allow me to pass;" the haughty woman looked around her, gathered her skirts up and stepped into her pew, holding her dress carefully lest the other should touch her. All the influence of that sermon, of the singing, everything that made me think that possibly there might have been a place where men might worship in spirit, all that passed out of my heart, was overcome, and the question that arose in my mind was, "Is this the house of God, and do these have the faith as enjoined by the Apostle James, who, reproving that peculiar lack of charity in those who profess christianity, charged them that if one came in their midst, "in goodly apparel, and there come in also a poor man in vile raiment; and ye have respect to him that weareth the gay clothing, and say unto him, Sit thou here in a good place; and say to the poor, Stand thou here, or sit here under my footstool: are ye not then partial in yourselves and are ye become judges of evil thought?" Note, he says to them, "My brethren, have not the faith of our Lord Jesus Christ, the Lord of glory, with respect of persons."

The Apostle Peter gave utterance to that which points this charity that "God is no respecter of persons: But in every nation he that feareth him and worketh righteousness, is accepted with him." Hence we who are Latter Day Saints today, we who are congratulating ourselves upon the thought that we have a system of religion that brings us near to God, we ought to have at work in every breast not only the consciousness that we are followers of faith and hope and charity, but that we have the principle within ourselves, that it may be called the love of God for man; it may be called the reflected love in the human heart which it has for its own kind and for God. But it is a never failing principle that when it becomes ingrain in the man it makes him as near like his Master as he can be, until he is disrobed of the environments of the flesh and exemplifies the teachings of the Master in every word, in every act.

Now my brethren and sisters, can we not possibly grow in this particular? Can we not respond to that inquiry and that beautiful, helpful invitation to "Come up higher," to assimilate to ourselves these things that enable us to so live and be, that when sinned against we can take into recognition the things written of Him who in his love for man left His high estate, took upon Him our nature, put Himself in touch with fallen humanity, became our example and help, and who bore our sorrows, and by whose stripes we are healed? and who said of those who had sinned against Him, "Father, forgive them, they know not what they do."

The other illustration is this: An aged sister, one who had obeyed the gospel in the days of the Martyr, had retained a portion of her youthful spirit, and, when fast approaching the age of eighty years (she had been very careful in her wardrobe and had preserved a number of garments worn in her youthful days), one day took a fancy to dress herself in some of the habiliments that she wore fifty years ago, when the fashions were different from what they are now. And dressed in the peculiarly old garments that they wore at that time she entered the church, walked up the aisle and was observed of all the observers; and some who are so lacking in the principle that should take cognizance of the individual rather than her clothing, were so rude as to laugh, and even go so far as to say that she was lacking in brain and mental power, when, if they had only taken into account all the feelings of the old sister, they would have been pleased to recognize the peculiar conditions that took her back to the days of her youth, and thus enabled her when mingling with the Saints of God, even in her youthful habiliments, to partake of the spirit of love and of her Master. Now in both of these instances there was an unseemliness of behavior, but not in the individual who may have lost her mental powers; if it were so, so much more should there have been that long suffering that could take cognizance of that, and feel pity rather than contempt, or a recognition of it as vanity.

Charity will not permit us to take, I might say, observant notice of the shortcomings of our fellow men, of the deformities either of mind or body of our fellow men. The right kind of charity is of that sort that if we meet a man or woman who may have become deficient by accident of any member of his body that we never see the shortcoming; the missing fingers of the hand or disfigured face or feature. True charity never sees these things in an observing way, never calls it to the mind of the individual who may be suffering mental distress because of consciousness of his deformity. The same principle applies to those who may be of oblique vision mentally as well as of oblique vision physically. Those who because of their surroundings may have taken a different view of human kind and conditions than we, why should we not express for them a charity that we would demand from them? Christ taught his disciples to say, "Forgive us our trespasses as we forgive those who trespass against us," and may God pity us, if we never learn to say this prayer in the blessed recognition of what we should mean when we say, "Forgive us our trespasses as we forgive those who trespass against us." Brethren and sisters, never use that prayer in public or private in this form, "Father, forgive us our trespasses for we forgive those who trespass against us" in the spirit of self-justification, making a plea that because our forgiveness has gone out to another we are entitled to forgiveness, but remember instead that we are commanded to forgive all men. Why? Because with the shortness of the human intellect we cannot see that which lies hidden beyond the human sight in the heart and the brain, that which moves the individual; and hence we cannot give that righteous judgment that we should; and God saves us from the consequence of making a bad judgment by telling us to forgive all men, and He will forgive whom He will, it is His right to reserve forgiveness if He will. I want to illustrate this, and shall do so at my own expense.

You who are acquainted with the history of the church remember quite well the character represented and known as Thomas C. Sharp of the Warsaw Signal. After the driving out of the Saints from Illinois he became an active and able lawyer. It was never my opportunity or privilege to meet him—or my misfortune—until after he had served the county as county judge. One day I met him in the bar of the court house. I was passing through the bar to speak to Judge Edmonds, and this gentleman started from his seat and met me nearly at the opening of the bar. I stopped and looked him squarely in his face and I thought the man would drop. I stepped to one side to allow him to pass, but just in that brief glance I saw that peculiar self-consciousness that made me pity him. Afterwards I saw this judge of the county court seated upon a wheeled chair, having the power to think and see, but unable to utter a word that could be recognized, a helpless paralytic. In the impulse of the moment I shook his hand and introduced Bro. Kelley who was with me. Afterwards I received two or three letters from some of those people who had been in Hancock county, because, as they wrote, they learned that I was shaking hands with murderers. But I thought down in my heart, "I would not change places with that man for all that this earth has, and if God could bear with him I surely could." The cherishing of enmity toward the man who may have slain my father was not in keeping with my profession of faith in Him who lifted His face to the Father and said, "Father, forgive them, they know not what they do," saying it of those who were slaying the Lord of life and glory. I tell you that in that particular moment I felt within myself what I thought to be a reflection of that principle of charity which I believe that the Apostle Paul intended to teach should be one of the chief characteristics of the christian.

I hope you will pardon me for the little emotion I may have shown, but I feel the importance of this subject. I feel the necessity within myself for this charity. I feel the necessity impressed upon me by the things that are surrounding me. I see it reflected in the faces of those with whom I am speaking and meeting in this conference. I feel it within myself that we must understand the full meaning of this christian charity and give it acceptance in our lives. It is not needful that we have it in principle only, but it must be in practice. It must become the chief keynote of our development of character. Am I asking too much of you? Elders, members, delegates, men holding public positions, men and women holding private positions, am I asking too much that you take this sermon into account?

Answering what is charity, let me read this eloquent disquisition of the apostle and leave the subject with you.

"Charity suffereth long." How long? Listen to the prayer of those under the altar, "How long, O Lord, dost thou not judge and avenge our blood on them that dwell on the earth?" White robes were given to every one of them and they were told to rest for a little season; so also shall white robes be given us, and we are bidden to wait. White robes signify the righteousness of the Saints, pure and white, bleached under the dews of loving kindness and the sunlight and warmth of God's love, bleached by his kindly administrations; and if we shall continue it will not be long until our souls shall be whiter than fuller's soap could make them, and ere long we shall be redeemed and sanctified if we will.

"Charity suffereth long, is kind." "This kind to man, 'tis kind to beast, it has the impulses of kindness, restraining that which does injury or harm.

"Charity envieth not." I know something about the influence of envy. I have had its baneful influence exercised upon me once for about three-fourths of an hour and I never want to pass through an ordeal more trying than this. Envy and covetousness had for a brief period possession of me. I was walking along the road between the broad acres of a man who could stand in his door and looking out upon his domain, say, "This is mine;" and I was traveling the streets a poor man—I envied the man, I coveted his possessions, and for an unfortunate three-quarters of an hour I was suffering the torments of this command, "Thou shalt not covet;" therefore I can emphasize this language of the apostle, "Charity envieth not."

"Charity vaunteth not itself, is not puffed up, seeketh not her own." How frequently do we injure our own interests and those of others by unduly seeking and contending for that which is our own or that which we seem to recognize as our own.

"Is not easily provoked, long suffering, patient, thinketh no evil," can weep for the downfall of an enemy as well as a friend.

I heard on yesterday, it seems to me, that Dr. Lamb who wrote his book called the "Golden Bible," was suffering the darkness of blindness. I felt moved to pity that the man who wrote the "Golden Bible" to destroy the work I was trying to build up had been deprived of the blessed boon of sight.

"Beareth all things." That is a characteristic of charity. We have borne some things, but as we look back over the sixty years of the past we are assured that we have not begun to bear as much as some of those who presided here in the confines of the land called by us the "regions round about" were compelled to bear.

"Charity believeth all things, hopeth all things, endureth all things, never faileth." Now, my friends, go out from this house with the understanding that your charity shall never fail you, let it become that particular part of your being that shall never wear out. Walk safely the ways of this life that in His divine wisdom He has fitted for you, and never use carelessly the gifts and attributes for doing good with which God has so wondrously endowed us all. "I am thankful that there is a God on high who judges righteously." I have heard men use that expression when arraigned before human courts, yet they were rejoicing that by and by they would stand before a Judge who would judge justly. Do not use it carelessly. I thank you for the kindness with which you have listened to me.

Daughters of Zion.

"OUR AIM, MANKIND TO BLESS."

MRS. H. B. CURTIS, Editor.

The Daughters of Zion is an organization in the church, of mothers and others who are interested in the welfare of our homes. Under the supervision of the general society, local societies are established, where they may meet to consider together their work as home keepers, and its moulders of character. Their purpose is to increase love for the home, to promote social purity, to study the problem of child care and development, that thus they may better prepare themselves for their responsibility as wives and mothers, and that from the home may go the influence that shall fulfill their aim, which is "mankind to bless." Have you a local in your branch? If not, can you not organize one? Send to the corresponding secretary for constitutions. The Advisory Committee will be pleased to hear from you, and will gladly furnish you any assistance in their power. Send your list of names of members to the recording secretary.

ADVISORY COMMITTEE.

- Mrs. Mary E. Hulme, President, Independence, Missouri.
- Mrs. H. B. Robinson, Corresponding Secretary, Independence, Missouri.
- Mrs. B. C. Smith, Independence, Missouri.
- Mrs. Lucina Etzenbuser, 2417 Prospect St., Kansas City, Missouri.
- Mrs. Clara Frick, Independence, Missouri.
- Mrs. Callie B. Stebbins, Recording Secretary, Lamoine, Iowa.
- Mrs. Anna Murphy, Treasurer, Independence, Missouri.

Editor's address, 3138 Olive St., St. Louis, Missouri.

ANY one knowing of a bright little girl, about eleven or twelve years of age (in the church or out), who needs a home, please correspond with the editor of this department.

[Many who read the following know and love the gentle singer. Though forced to be separated from those she loves, yet her heart ever turns to that one dear spot—home. We trust that God in His mercy will soon restore her to health and loved ones.]

"HOME, AND LOVED ONES."

"I can never forget the loved ones
Around our social hearth;
The sunny smiles of gladness,
The songs of artless mirth;
Though for my health I'll woo me
In other lands to roam,
I can never forget the dear ones,
Who cluster 'round our home.

"Ah, I know those hearts are turning
To me, when far away;
That their loves pure and tender,
Was with me on my way;
And wherever I may wander,
Wherever I may roam,
I can never forget the dear ones,
Who cluster 'round our home.

"I can never forget my father,
Who so cheerily toils for me;
And mother's tender loving care;
Her loving child I'll be;
My sisters and my brothers,
They will long for me to come,
And cheer them with my presence,
As they cluster 'round our home.

"But, by and by there I will be,
Then no more to roam;
Come back to my friends and loved ones,
Back to my old quiet home;
And then we all together,
Will happy be once more
And live to meet our Savior
Upon the other shore.

"There no more grief nor sickness
Will mar our peacefulness;
But with our blessed Savior,
We'll all find peace and rest.
There we'll all be God's children
And know as we are known,
And together in our Savior
We'll cluster 'round His home."
—"RENA."

SOME have written to me and asked, "What shall I write about?" For the benefit of all I will reply here.

The desire of those who were instrumental in securing this space, was for mutual improvement and enlightenment along those lines in which we, as daughters of Israel, most need assistance. It is, therefore, not necessary that an article be an exhaustive exhibition of rhetoric or learning. Aim to express, as simply as the English language will permit, some truth of which you have learned the full significance, and all will re-

THE SACRAMENT.

Then said Jesus unto them, "Verily, verily, I say unto you, Except ye eat the flesh of the Son of man, and drink His blood, there is no life in you."—John 6:53.

Painful observation guarantees safety in saying that many of the Saints do not fully realize the infinite importance attaching to this scripture. The life here spoken of can not be the three score years and ten, but life for eternity. From these words of Jesus it is evident, that partaking of the emblems of the body and blood of the Son of Man, is as essential to the obtaining of everlasting life, as is the birth of the water and the Spirit.

It is then the positive duty of every servant of Christ, baptizing repentant believers, to see to it, that they have the opportunity of receiving these emblems at once; also to instruct them of such necessity, as well as "to expound all things concerning the church of Christ to their understanding," as set forth in Doctrine and Covenants, sec. 17, par. 18. In fact, this subject should closely follow the preaching of the first principles of the gospel, that each one presenting him or herself for baptism, may already anticipate this most sacred duty and privilege.

If those entering the fold of Christ are living in the immediate vicinity of a branch of the church, and the next regular sacrament meeting day is near, and the official who has inducted these converts to the kingdom is assured that they can and will be present, it may possibly do so trust to such opportunity, changing only a few days of life. Otherwise an opportunity should be made at once. It is not supposed that any person coming into the church with full purpose of heart, will be in such a condition of mind, as to render them unworthy, nor that they will have any reluctance in observing this part of the covenant with the Lord. Then the subsequent life, hope and reward, rests with the individual, so far as the ordinances and their effect are concerned. True, the enduring to the end may depend largely upon the instruction, admonition and encouragement given by the ministry in charge, as well as the missionaries to whom they may listen; but the responsibility of continuing in the exercise and enjoyment of church privileges, or means of grace, each one must assume for himself.

On the other hand, if the official bringing souls into the fold, is neglectful relative to this ordinance, as also the recording of names, the scripture found in Ezekiel 33:7-8 would somewhat depict the situation. "Though the one obeying so far as instruction was given, might suffer loss, the neglectful servant will certainly be held responsible.

The writer of this article is moved to thus write by having met persons, who have been into, and out of the church, who never partook of the bread and wine in a single instance; and others who have been members for years and have never partaken. Such a course is dangerous, and can not be overlooked by Him who said, "If ye love me, keep my commandments."

There is another feature of this subject, which is equally important with the foregoing. We have met a still greater number, who entered the church in good faith, observing all these ordinances, partaking of the emblems once or more, who have not sat around the festal board for years; apparently forgetting that while baptism and the laying on of hands are required but once for life—on conditions of having received them at the hands of one having the authority of Christ, and enduring to the end—it is not so with the ordinance of the sacrament of the Lord's supper. Jesus said, (Luke 22:19), "This do in remembrance of me." Paul also wrote (1 Cor. 11:26), "For as often as ye eat this bread and drink this cup, ye do show the Lord's death till He come." Not once only; not at the stated times for one year nor five, but "Till He come."

Another thought. If any person in the church of Christ suffer himself to get into such a state of mind, either as a consequence of unchristian conduct, or hardness of heart, or thinking that someone else holds aught against him, that he will not attend the sacrament meetings; or, being present, refuses the emblems, gives Satan vantage ground which it will require a struggle to regain, and continuing in this spiritual condition through life, is just as sure to lose all he has, and meet with disappointment, as he dares to risk it. Such a position is more unsafe than to never have started in the service of Christ.

What is my duty if such is the situation with me? First of all, repentance. I must so correct my life as to be worthy. Second, I must make reconciliation, whether I am the offender or the offended. But says one, Suppose that I was in a sacrament meeting, having a desire to receive the blessing attending the Lord's supper, and there remember that my brother has aught against me? Jesus said (Matt. 5:23) "Leave there thy gift before the altar, and go thy way, first be reconciled to thy brother, and then come and offer thy gift."

"But," you say, "He is so far away that I cannot do so and get a blessing today." A bit of experience of the writer, here, may serve to show our possibilities in such cases. This was just our position at a certain time some thirty years since, with these exceptions; the meeting was only for prayer and testimony. Besides this, the offense was not simply remembered on the occasion, but a knowledge of it was carried there, with no thought that the offended brother might not be present. The reading aloud, before the hour of meeting, to the Saints gathered, a sublime poem in the Herald, written by Sr. Braby, long since gone to her rest, completely melted the stubborn heart,

"INCURABLE" HEART DISEASE SOON CURED.

During the last two or three years very great improvement has been made in the treatment of the different kinds of disease of the heart. Cases formerly considered incurable now rapidly recover. The well known specialist, Franklin Miles, M. D., LL. B., of Chicago, will send his new individual Treatment free to any of our afflicted readers who will mention this paper.

This liberal offer is for the purpose of demonstrating the great superiority of his new system of Treatments for heart troubles, such as shortness of breath, pain in the side, oppression in the chest, irregular pulse, palpitation, smothering spells, puffing of the ankles or dropsy.

They are the result of twenty-five years of careful study, extensive research, and remarkable experience in treating weak, dilated, hypertrophied, rheumatic, fatty or neuragic hearts, each one of which requires different treatment.

His treatments are carefully selected for each patient, as regards their age, weight, and stage of each kind of heart disease. All afflicted persons should avail themselves of this liberal offer. No death comes more unexpectedly than that from heart disease.

Dr. W. W. Stokesbury, of Fallport, Mo., had heart, stomach troubles and nervous prostration. Three physicians failed to help him. He writes: "I regard myself cured."

The eminent Rev. W. Bell, D. D., of Dayton, Ohio, General Secretary of Foreign Missions, and formerly in the State Sunday School Union: "We desire to state that from personal acquaintance we know Dr. Miles to be a most skillful specialist, a man who has spared neither labor nor money to keep himself abreast of the great advancement of medical science."

A thousand references to, and testimonials from, Bishops, Clergymen, Bankers, Farmers, and their wives, will be sent free on request. These include many who have been cured after from five to fifteen physicians and professors had pronounced them "incurable." Among them are H. A. Groce, 504 Mountain St., Elgin, Ill.; Mrs. Sophia Snowberg, No. 282 21st Ave., S. Minneapolis, Minn.; Mrs. A. B. Colburn, Blessing, Ia.; Mrs. M. B. Moran, 1111 Ohio, and the presidents of two medical colleges, etc.

Send at once to The Dr. Miles Association, Cor. Adams and State Sts., Chicago, Ill., for free treatment before it is too late.

which, during the opening prayer of the meeting, by another, asked the Lord, in deep contrition, for a blessing today. The above scripture flashed into our memory. To comply with it, and get a blessing today was impossible. A fervent promise was instantly made to the Lord, that reconciliation should be quickly made upon returning home. No sooner was the promise made than accepted. There instantly followed one of the choicest blessings of thirty years of a weak and feeble service. "This needless to say that the promise was promptly kept in the humblest manner.

On the other hand it is possible for the offended one to so rise above the offense, as to resolve before God, in silence, to so fully and freely forgive the offender, as never to harbor nor mention it again, and get a blessing there and then. Such a resolution carried out will be a victory over Satan and self, which will be a long step toward the final triumph.

The saddest thought in all the work of redemption is forcibly portrayed in the parable found in Matthew 25:1-13, "And five of them were wise, and five were foolish." This cannot be applied to the world, for He said, "The kingdom of heaven shall be likened unto ten virgins." The thought that half shall fall away, or at least be overtaken without oil (the Holy Spirit), would be unbearable indeed, if the doctrine of "popular theology" were true, which would consign all the unfaithful ones, as well as the unrepentant world, to eternal damnation, with no release when "the uttermost farthing" shall have been paid. The statement found in the vision, Doctrine and Covenants, section 76, that those who deny the Holy Spirit after having received it, are the only ones on whom the second death shall have any power, affords great comfort; but it is still sad to contemplate that so many who have taken upon them the name of Christ, will fall short of the celestial glory; some having to "pay all that is due" (Matt. 18: 34, 35), before obtaining any reward, only because they will not forgive, every man his brother his trespasses.

Those who willfully neglect the means of grace, forgetting "the assembling themselves together," and purposely disregarding the repeated witness unto "God the eternal Father," that they do take the name of Christ upon them, keeping His commandments, that they may always have His Spirit to be with them, must certainly come under condemnation.

Again: If Satan can make a Saint think he or she is unworthy to eat the bread and drink the wine, and keep them away from the sacrament in that way, he has effected his purpose just as surely as if really unworthy, and he doesn't care how he accomplishes his design. Don't let him cheat you that way.

Awake, Saints, awake,
No time now for resting.
O. B. THOMAS.

ANYONE in a position to use church literature to good advantage apply to M. H. Clark, Box 4, Station A, Kansas City, Missouri. We have a large supply on hand and at our disposal, and trust you will make your wants known.

We are now filling orders for Bro. T. C. Kelley's fine treatise on the "More Excellent Way." Sr. M. Brearley of Michigan, in ordering copies, says of it: "I have read it in the ENSIGN and desire it very much for some of my friends who are investigating our faith, and in booklet form it is just the thing." Send in your orders. Ten cents each.

We are receiving orders for Bro. A. Haws' little book, "Sabatarian Theories a Delusion," a review of the arguments of the Seventh Day advocates. It is a useful little work, and we have heard only words of commendation for it. We can fill all orders, 15 cents each.

SAINTS who contemplate making Independence their home, or those already here, who desire to secure a lot in eligible, well situated property, would do well to see the Wilson Lawn addition, owned by Bro. Ellis Short and situated near Pacific Bridge, Independence.

NOTICE.

To all who expect to buy or move to Independence with a view of residing here permanently, I am prepared to furnish you with all the information needed in regard to real estate, if you will enclose stamp for reply. Now is a very good time to buy; values are at a very low ebb, and the bairns may as well take advantage of it.

Your brother,
W. S. LOAR.

HOW IS THIS? Books and Pamphlets

Combination No. 1.—$1.00.

- From Palmyra to Independence (paper cover)..... $ 05
- Book of Mormon Vindicated (paper cover)..... 30
- The Book of Mormon and its Translator..... 10
- The Books and Utah Mormonism in Contrast..... 10
- The Legal Successor in the Presidency of the Church..... 10

Total, $1.25
All the above post paid to any address for $1.00.

Palmyra to Independence will be sent in cloth cover for 30 cents extra, or Book of Mormon Vindicated in cloth cover for 20 cents extra, or both for 50 cents extra.

Combination No. 2.—$1.00.

- Spiritual Gifts and the Seer of Palmyra..... 25
- Faulty Creeds..... 20
- Creeds Laid Bare..... 10
- The Resurrection of the Wicked..... 10
- Who Was Joseph Smith? Was He a False Prophet?..... 10
- The Book of Mormon and its Translator..... 10
- The Legal Successor in the Presidency of the Church..... 10
- The Apostasy of the Church..... 10
- The Joseph Smith Interview, What We Believe..... 05
- The Law of Life..... 10
- The Restoration of Israel. A Retrospective View of the Reorganization..... 15
- God is Light..... 10
- The Marriage Relation. Save Yourselves..... 10

Total, $1.25
This combination will also be sent to any address on receipt of $1.00. For either of the above the cash must accompany the order.

Address,
ENSIGN PUBLISHING HOUSE,
Independence, Mo.

OUR ANGELS WHISPER

Family Re-ister, Marriage Certificate, Lord's Prayer and other pictures are quick sellers. Agents wanted for above and other goods. Address (Bro.) B. F. Ordway & Co., Peoria, Ill.

$495.

Will buy 44 acres with four good cottages, barn, well, etc., in west Lamoni. Only a small payment required to secure this home, and it is a bargain for some one. Apply to Lock Box 7, Lamoni, Iowa.

GRACELAND COLLEGE, LAMONI, IOWA.

Send for Catalogue, to
I. W. ALLENDER, Secretary,
Lamoni, Iowa.

SUBSCRIBE FOR THE College City Chronicle

The Leading Local Paper of LAMONI, IOWA.
Published Weekly by the Chronicle Publishing Co.

PRICE LIST

- "FROM PALMYRA TO INDEPENDENCE," by Elder R. Etzenhouser, 444 pages; Cloth binding..... 31 00
- Paper binding..... 05
- "A BARGAIN TO BE MADE" BY JOSEPH SMITH, 37 pages; cloth bound; 3 illustrations, Reduced from $1.00 to..... 75
- "THREE BIBLES COMPARED," by Elder R. Etzenhouser; paper binding, 5 for $1.00; each..... 26
- "THE BOOK OF MORMON VINDICATED," by Elder I. M. Smith; 112 pages; Paper cover, 4 for 1.00; each..... 30
- Cloth Bound, 2 for 1.00; each..... 30
- "SPIRITUAL GIFTS AND THE SEER OF PALMYRA," by Elder H. H. Bond, of the Seventy; 58 pages, paper bound, with fine engraving of the author..... 25
- "FAULTY CREEDS," by Elder R. C. Evans; 6 for $1.00; each..... 20
- "THE BOOKS AND UTAH MORMONISM IN CONTRAST," by Elder R. Etzenhouser; paper cover; 20 for $1.00, 3 for..... 10
- "THE CREEDS LAID BARE," by Elder R. Etzenhouser; paper cover; 3 for 25c; each..... 10
- "THE RESURRECTION OF THE WICKED," by Elder W. J. Smith; 39 pages, paper cover, 3 for 25c; each..... 10
- "WHO WAS JOSEPH SMITH? WAS HE A FALSE PROPHET?" by Elder J. W. Peterson of the Quorum of the Seventy; 39 pages; paper cover; engraving of author; 3 for 25c; each..... 10
- "THE BOOK OF MORMON AND ITS TRANSLATOR," by Elder R. Etzenhouser; 27 pages, paper cover; 3 for 25c; each..... 10
- "THE LEGAL SUCCESSOR," by Apostle J. W. Wright; 90c per doz.; 3 for 25c; each..... 10
- "ARREST OF THE CHURCH," by Apostle J. W. Wright; 40 pages, paper cover; 3 for 25c; each..... 10
- "THE MORE EXCELLENT WAY," by Elder T. C. Kelley; 68 pages; paper cover; each..... 10
- "THE JOSEPH SMITH INTERVIEW," by Elder Joseph Smith's answer to Elder R. J. Parker; by E. L. Kelley; per hundred 00c; per doz. 15c; 6 for 10c; 2 for..... 5
- "IS WATER BAPTISM ESSENTIAL TO SALVATION?" by Elder Joseph Luff; 39 pgs; 10c; 15c per doz; 3 for..... 5
- "WHAT WE BELIEVE," The Epitome of Faith, with quotations given in full. 20c per doz.; 2 for..... 5
- "EVANGELIST," a duet for soprano and tenor; words by J. Cole Moxon; music by W. H. Lieb..... 25

SERMON PAMPHLETS.

- The following pamphlets 5 cents each, 3 for 10 cents, 6 for 15 cents, or 25 cents per dozen:
 - "Signs of the Times," Revised and Enlarged, by Elder J. S. Roth; 70 pages; Illustrated.
 - "The Book of Mormon: Evidences of its Divinity," by Elder R. C. Evans; 58 pages.
 - "The Law of Life," by Elder F. M. Cooper; 38 pages.
 - "The Restoration of Israel," by Elder S. W. L. Scott; 46 pages.
 - "A Retrospective View of the Reorganization," by E. C. Briggs; 38 pages.
 - "Gospel Message," by President Joseph Smith; 54 pages.
 - "Modern Knowledge of the Antiquities of America," by Elder H. A. Stebbins; 41 pages.
 - "Cred Making; Man Shall Not Add To Nor Take From the Word of God," by Elder I. M. Smith; 38 pages.
 - "Antiquarian Evidences Concerning the Book of Mormon," by Elder E. L. Kelley; 40 pages.
 - "Joseph Smith: Was He a Prophet of God?" by Elder R. C. Evans; 40 pages.
 - "Sign Seekers," by Elder I. M. Smith; 32 pages.
 - "Gospel Antiquity," by Elder Joseph Luff; 39 pages.
 - "God is Light," by Elder W. H. Kelley; 46 pages.
 - "Why I Left the Baptist Church," by Elder W. H. Kephart; 33 pages.
 - "The Marriage Relation," by Elder J. W. Wright; 41 pages.
 - "The Personality of God and Doctrine of Christ," by Elder J. S. Roth; 38 pages.
 - "Save Yourselves," by Elder I. M. Smith; 34 pages.

We send all orders for all Herald office publications to Address all orders and make all remittances to
ENSIGN PUBLISHING HOUSE,
Box B, Independence, Mo.

Missouri Pacific Railroad.

Quick time, good connections, low rates to all points. Rates, time cards, etc., cheerfully furnished on application. F. A. MILWARD, Agent. Telephone 17.

STATE SAVINGS BANK OF LAMONI.

Incorporated under the laws of the State of Iowa, July 1, 1898.

Offers depositors a safe bank for their savings, and solicits the correspondence and deposits of all Bankers, and will pay four per cent interest per annum on year deposits, saved money by Bank Draft, or Express or Post Office order, or Registered Letter, or your private check on any bank in the United States or Canada, and direct your letter to W. A. Hopkins, Cashier of the State Savings Bank of Lamoni, at Lamoni, Iowa. Upon receipt of a certificate of deposit will be issued and sent on return mail to the sender. This bank has a large business by keeping surplus funds invested in safe and available securities and has already received deposits from sixteen different states. All letters containing inquiries or business will be promptly answered.

Broken Bric-a-Bracs.

Mr. Major, the famous cement man, of New York, explains some very interesting facts about Major's Cement.

The multitudes who use this standard article know that it is many hundred per cent better than other cements for which similar claims are made, but a great many do not know why. The simple reason is that Mr. Major uses the best materials ever discovered and other manufacturers do not use them, because they are too expensive and do not allow large profits. Mr. Major tells us that each element of his cement costs $3.75 a pound, and another costs $2.65 a gallon, while a large share of the so-called cements and liquid glue upon the market are nothing more than sixteen-cent glue, dissolved in water or citric acid, and in some cases, altered slightly in color and odor by the addition of cheap and useless materials.

Major's Cement retails at fifteen cents and twenty-five cents a bottle, and when a dealer tries to sell a substitute you can make larger profit.

The profit on Major's Cement is as much as any dealer ought to make on any cement.

If you are using more than sixteen-cent glue, insist on having Major's. Don't accept any off-hand advice from a druggist.

If you are at all handy (and you will be likely to find that you are a good deal more so than you imagine) you can repair your rubber boots and family shoes, and any other rubber and leather articles, with Major's Rubber Cement and Major's Leather Cement.

And you will be surprised at how many dollars a year you will thus save.

If your druggist cannot supply you, it will be forwarded by mail; other kind. Free of postage.

THEY ADMIT IT.

Bro. Hill, Chauncey, Ohio, says we saved him $12.00 on a $13.00 suit.

Bro. Farrell, West Sullivan, Maine, writes that we saved him $5.00 on a $7.00 suit.

Youth's heavy three-piece suit, age 12 to 19, $35.00. Goods are all sent prepaid.

MEN'S SACK SUITS. Black, all wool, chest and Men's Suits four button, round or square cut, 14 ounce $7.00; 16 ounce $7.25; 18 ounce $8.25; 20 ounce $8.75. Extra fine, strictly all wool Oxford steel gray, heavy; worth $18.00, price $9.00.

FRENCH ALBERT SUITS. Same goods as sacks, 14 oz. $9.50; 16 oz. $10.00; 18 oz. $11.00; 20 oz. $11.50; 14 oz. French Twill Sacks, worth $18.00, price $9.00. Price Alberts, worth $25.00, $13.50.

MEASUREMENTS.—Give size of bust around chest just under arms with coat off, size of waist, length of inseam of pant leg, your height and weight.

Make all drafts, express and money orders payable at Seymour, Mo. Send all communications, letters, orders and registered letters to Cumorah, Mo. THE B. F. ORDWAY CO. Cumorah, Mo.

QUIT-TO-BAC

CURES THE TOBACCO HABIT.

3 BOXES, POSTPAID, $1.50 (U.S. Stamp or Money Order).

With Positive Guarantee of Cure, or Money Cheerfully Refunded. You Run No Risk; why not try it and be a free man?

Address,
(Bro.) B. F. ORDWAY,
Peoria, Ill.

OLDEST LAMONI 35TH YEAR BEST.

SPALDING'S COMMERCIAL COLLEGE.

Bookkeeping, Shortland, Typewriting, Telegraphy, English Branches. Twenty Rooms. Sixteen Teachers and Lecturers. No Vacations. Practical Courses. Thorough Instruction. Rates Moderate. Free Catalogue.

FREE EMPLOYMENT BUREAU. Tel. 1174. J. F. Spalding, A. M., Pres.

DR. JOS. MATHER, PHYSICIAN.

Office at Residence, 301 S. Spring St., INDEPENDENCE, MO.
CALLS ANSWERED NIGHT OR DAY.
Phone 100-3.

WITH SOOTHING BALMY OILS. Cough, Croup, Hoarseness, Whooping Cough, Asthma, Pleurisy, Phthisis, Catarrh, Bronchitis, Eczema, Itch, and all Skin and Wound Diseases. Dr. Mather's Balm, 25 Cents a Box. Dr. Mather's Balm, 25 Cents a Box. Dr. Mather's Balm, 25 Cents a Box.

$5.00 BOX RAIN COAT

This Regular $5.00 Waterproof Raincoat, made of the best material, is now on hand. Send no money. Cut this out and send to us.

State your height and send us number of inches around waist taken over the fullest part, also of under arms, and we will send you this coat at express 50 c. D. O., subject to examination. This coat is made of the finest material and is exactly as good as any other coat of the kind. It is made in a very neat and stylish manner and is a very good bargain over any other coat of the kind. It is made in a very neat and stylish manner and is a very good bargain over any other coat of the kind.

any other house. Write for samples to H. C. NICHOLSON, 306 Dearborn St., Chicago, Ill. H. C. NICHOLSON, Ass't Cashier.

COMMERCIAL BANK, LAMONI, IOWA.

Ample responsibility. Five per cent interest paid on their deposits. Correspondence solicited. Farms and town property for sale.

R. R. TIME TABLES.

MISSOURI PACIFIC—MAIN LINE DEPOT.

TRAINS WEST. a.m.
No. 95—Wichita and K. C. Mail. 12:49 p.m.
9—Kansas & Nebraska Lim. 4:34 p.m.
93—Texas, Joplin & K. C. Ex. 8:15 p.m.
5—St. Louis Express..... 6:33 p.m.
73—Lexington Branch Pass. 6:53 p.m.
7—Fast Mail..... 10:00 p.m.

91—Joplin and K. C. Mail..... 3:16 p.m.
1—St. Louis Mail and Ex. 5:17 p.m.
5—St. Louis Mail..... 5:55 p.m.
71—Lexington Branch Pass. 6:45 p.m.

TRAINS EAST. a.m.
No. 96—K. C. & Wichita Mail..... 2:52 p.m.
72—Lexington Branch Pass. 6:53 p.m.
6—St. Louis Mail..... 7:23 p.m.
92—K. C. Texas & Joplin Mail 8:37 p.m.
2—St. Louis Through Mail & Pass..... 10:17 p.m.

78—Lex. Branch Passenger..... 6:10 p.m.
4—St. Louis Through Mail & Pass..... 1:37 p.m.
94—K. C. Tex. & Joplin Ex. 7:46 p.m.
8—St. Louis Through Mail & Pass..... 9:30 p.m.
10—Kan. & Neb. Limited..... 11:12 p.m.

73—Lex. Branch Pass. 8:30 a.m.
71..... 8:15 a.m.
75..... 8:45 a.m.
Tel. 17. F. A. MILLARD, Agent.

CHICAGO & ALTON. EAST BOUND.

101—Loch W. Freight..... 7:40 a.m.
47—St. Louis & Chicago Mail 8:27 a.m.
No. 51—Chicago Limited..... 6:38 p.m.
49—St. Louis Flyer..... 9:38 p.m.

WEST BOUND. a.m.
50—St. Louis Limited..... 6:55 a.m.
52—Chicago Limited..... 8:08 a.m.
102—Local Way Freight..... 2:20 p.m.
48—Chicago & St. Louis Mail 5:50 p.m.
All trains make regular stops. Through tickets to all points in the United States and Canada. For further information regarding rates, etc., call on
J. W. DUGAN, Agent
G. P. W. CHAULSON, G. P. T. Agt., Chicago.
www.LatterDayTruth.org

MEDITATIONS.

I have thought at times when arising from prayer, and wondered if my prayer was intelligent, after asking the Lord to help me to think right that I may speak right and act right. Is it according to the idea of free agency to ask God to think for us? Must we not of our own free will and accord, so think, write, talk and make efforts to do right that we way thus please the Lord and be enlightened and strengthened by Him?

Should we not observe strictly the Word of Wisdom, though it is not a command of God? Are we not commanded to live by every word of God? If the Word of Wisdom is one of the words that proceeded from God, and as we are commanded to live by every word, then in that sense are we not commanded to keep the Word of Wisdom, the same as that word with promise in Matthew 24: 39, Inspired Translation, "Whoso treasureth up my word shall not be deceived?"

A LAMONIAN.

When the Child "Plays Hookey."

Children sometimes pretend to be ill to escape going to school. Feigning illness to escape duty is called in the army malingering and is always punished when detected. A child who habitually complains of headache just before school time should be put on a sofa in a darkened room, not permitted to read, nor look at pictures, and have a hotwater bag placed at his feet. If the ailment is real this is the best treatment for the early stages; if it is feigned the silence and solitude soon become so irksome that the culprit is glad to do anything to escape from them. Other affected pains should be treated as if they were real, and it should be distinctly understood in the family that the child who is too ill to go to school, and to learn his lessons, is too ill to be out of bed. If a child play truant the lessons he loses should be made up at home in his play-time, and the mother should take pains to see that this is done, so that he may find truancy unprofitable. He may be put to bed as soon as he returns home on the assumption that he must be ill, because nothing but illness should keep him from going to school.—November Ladies' Home Journal.

It is all Over.

What is all over? Why, the presidential election that has been attracting the attention of the people, causing them to forget or neglect my earnest appeal in behalf of our Graceland. But, dear Saints, do not deceive yourselves, by any means, that I have gone to sleep on duty, or in anywise forgot the responsibility put upon the trustees by the action of last General Conference.

We, your servants, do not propose to leave a stone unturned that will contribute to the success of Graceland; the attendance was never larger this time of year, and we expect an increased attendance for the winter term.

Now, dear Saints, I once more appeal to you for needed financial aid, to meet the running expenses.

May the grace of God move upon your souls, that with a liberal hand your duty to Graceland shall be discharged, and then I will cease from troubling you. Still upon the watch-tower.

ROBT. M. ELVIN.
Box 224, Lamoni, Iowa, Nov. 9.

CONFERENCE MINUTES.

The conference of the Southern Nebraska district was held with the Hebron branch September 9-10, 1900. Preaching by Elders C. H. Porter, Caleb Blodgett and W. M. Self. One baptized and one child blessed.

Business session was called to order by the president, J. W. Waldsmith. C. H. Porter was chosen secretary pro tem.

Reports from official members were received, showing 291 meetings attended, 127 sermons held, 143 sermons preached, 2 funerals conducted, 3 baptisms, 8 children blessed, 4 marriages solemnized, 38 sick administered to. J. W. Waldsmith and M. H. Forsent of the high priests; C. H. Porter, Seventy; Elders W. M. Self, A. J. Myers, James Thomas and C. E. Blodgett; Priests R. O. Self, H. W. Belville and E. Robertson reported.

Branch reports were received from Blue River and Nebraska City branches, giving a membership of 386, gain 12; Elmwood branch report received after conference adjourned.

Bishop's agent reported total receipts $364.84; paid out $359.64; balance on hand $4.90.

The District Sunday School Association was reported by Superintendent W. M. Self as being well carried on, everything considered.

Elder C. E. Blodgett was granted a license; the one he had was worn out.

On motion the following resolutions were adopted: That this conference does hereby endorse the action of our missionary in charge, Elder James Caffall, in the proposed annexation to the Southern Nebraska district of so much of Hall and Buffalo counties as heretofore belonged to the Central Nebraska district.

That we favor the action as suggested by petition from the Northern Nebraska district relative to boundary lines and that we present the same to the branches of the district for their ratification and approval with instructions to them to report their action to the next district conference.

That we request the secretary of the district to report the action of this conference to the several branches relative to the proposed change in boundary lines.

The present district officers were all sustained and conference adjourned to meet in Wilber in January, 1901, at call of district president.

E. D. BRIGGS, Dist. Sec.

The London, Ontario, district conference convened at Toronto, Ontario, October 6-8, 1900; Elder R. C. Evans, president of Canada mission, president, assisted by the district president, R. C. Longhurst and vice-president John H. Taylor; John L. Burger and John Shields secretaries. By resolution of conference the presidency appointed the following committees: Credential committee, Jno. McKenzie, N. Overholt and Jas. L. Mortimer; auditing committee, Geo. Buschlen, R. B. Howlett and Thos. Seaton; administering committee, S. Tomlinson, G. C. Tomlinson, R. W. Tarzwell, A. C. Barnore and Charles Neal.

Reports were received from seventeen branches in the district, showing a gain in membership of 41 for the past three months. There were still fifteen branches in the district who had not reported. Secretary's report of district from October 1899 to June 1900 was as follows: Last report, 1911; present number, 1932; gain by baptism, 81; by letter, 29; loss by letters of removal, 23; by death, 15; expulsion, 1. Not gain 71. Ministry: 1 apostle, 1 high priest, 3 seventies, 40 elders, 34 priests, 27 teachers, 25 deacons; 10 new ordinations and 6 marriages; 18 branches reported to June conference. John L. Burger secretary.

A resolution was passed for an order on the treasury to the amount of $7.93 due secretary for postage, stationery, etc. The treasurer's report showed a balance in treasury of $45.43. A rule now on the books in regard to Saints paying 5 cents each meal during conferences was rescinded.

Resolved, That next conference convene at Arthur, Ontario, the second Saturday and Sunday in June 1901.

Resolved, That Elder R. C. Evans be our delegate to General Conference and that he have power to choose any who may be going from the district to act with him.

Resolved, That we request the First Presidency of the church to return Elder R. C. Evans to the Canada mission.

Bishop's agent's books were audited and found correct.

Officers for the ensuing term were then elected as follows: President, R. C. Longhurst; vice-president, John H. Taylor; secretary, John L. Burger; treasurer, Sam'l Pope; bishop's agent, R. C. Evans. Speakers for conference were as follows: A. C. Barnore, John A. Robinson and R. C. Evans. Prayer and sacrament meeting was held Sunday from 8 to 11 a. m. The Saints met again Monday 8 a. m. for business meeting.

Resolved, That hereafter branch secretaries make out their statistical reports and send them to district secretary one month before each conference so as to save time in correcting mistakes in reports at conferences.

Resolved, That railroad rates be published in the church papers one month before each conference.

Resolved, That the Grand Valley branch be disorganized and that the district secretary call in the branch records and furnish letters of removal to those who wish them to the Garafra branch.

Conference collections amounted to $38.83. Conference expenses were $2.65 and the balance, $36.18, was paid over to the Toronto branch to go on their church building fund.

The ordinance of baptism was administered to four persons by Elder R. C. Evans and confirmed by G. C. Tomlinson, S. Tomlinson, R. B. Howlett and Geo. Buschlen.

Resolved, That we tender Toronto branch a hearty vote of thanks for the kindness and hospitality shown to Saints attending conference.

JOHN L. BURGER, Dist. Sec.
ST. THOMAS, ONT., NOV. 3.

Convention Minutes.

The semi-annual Sunday School convention of the Chatham district, met with the Chatham Saints on Friday, October 12, 1900, Sr. Jessie A. Hackett, district superintendent, presiding, Bro. J. H. Tyrrell, assistant, Sr. Mary M. Green secretary, with Sr. Annie Kettlewell as her assistant. Elder B. St. John, Sr. E. A. Levertson, Sr. Nellie Burr chosen as credential committee, Elder A. E. Mortimer and Bro. Moroni Traxler chosen as auditing committee.

Visiting Saints were granted all the rights and privileges of the convention. The following reports were then read: Longwood, Lindsay, Chatham, Cumorah, Wallaceburg or Zion, Zone, Pine Grove, Prince Albert, Ridgeway, Wabashi and Buxton, giving a total enrollment of 374 persons.

The report of the treasurer, Bro. Geo. A. McPadden, was read, audited and found correct. The report from Bro. J. H. Tyrrell in regard to the library fund, was read. Have received from schools and individuals $12.50, also two books donated; it was moved and seconded that it be a traveling library and that the committee be continued. The superintendent was given an order on the treasurer for $1.20 for expenses such as postage, etc.

The selection of officers for the ensuing term was as follows: Sr. Jessie A. Hackett, district superintendent; Elder James J. Williamson, first assistant superintendent; Elder J. H. Tyrrell, second assistant superintendent; Sr. Mary M. Green, secretary; Bro. Geo. A. McPadden, sustained as treasurer; Elder B. H. Tyrrell, district librarian; Elder B. St. John, appointed delegate to the general Sunday School Convention. All present were then invited to take part in the evening entertainment. The evening session was devoted to entertainment. The program consisted of speeches, music and singing, reading and recitation, drafting, also Elder Tyrrell gave several selections from a phonograph. All seemed to enjoy themselves. The prizes for drawing the most correct map of Palestine were a Book of Mormon neatly bound, a Hymnal, and History of Joseph the Seer; those who did the best were Frank Shippy, Sr. Annie Kettlewell and Bro. Levi Tyrrell. All did remarkably well. Saturday morning session was opened by singing and prayer, then responsive reading from 1 Corinthians, 13th chapter. Bro. Williamson was then chosen to take charge of the Bible class which brought out some very interesting answers.

The following resolutions carried: That we meet at 2 o'clock on Friday afternoon, prior to the meeting of our next conference. That the auditing and credential committees be released. That a vote of thanks be tendered Sr. Maggie Edder, our retiring secretary. That a vote of thanks be given to the Chatham Saints for their hospitality. That Bro. Tyrrell, Sr. Hackett and Bro. Williamson see after the drafting for the next convention.

MARY M. GREEN, Sec.
CHATHAM, ONT., NOV. 1.

Convention of the Clinton Sunday School district association convened at Rich Hill, Missouri, Friday, October 5, 1900.

Prayer meeting at 9 a. m., in charge of Brn. Stephensen and Swensen. At 10 a. m., after the usual opening exercises, Sr. Kearney, district superintendent, took charge, Sr. A. C. Silvers was chosen assistant secretary pro tem.

Reports of officers, Sr. Mina Kearney, district superintendent; Warren McElwain, secretary and treasurer, Sr. M. J. Phipps, librarian, were read.

The following schools reported: Rich Hill, Coal Hill, Veve, Walker and Nevada. The report of the latter school was given verbally by Sr. Kearney, also verbal report was given of the Kennicott home school by Sr. Maude Kennicott. A large per cent of the officers and teachers of the schools of the district reported, showing a better interest in Sunday School work in this district.

Blank reports will be sent out early this time and superintendents of schools will see that all such reports are made out and sent in to next convention.

A talk was given by Bro. I. N. White, followed by a short talk by Bro. Warren McElwain, Teachers' consecration to duty in Sunday School work. Talk by Bro. G. W. Beebe, Sen., The great aim of Sunday School work as viewed by a teacher. Good. Then followed a talk by district superintendent after which the "round table discussion" was taken up, and the "pros" and "cons" of ten important questions relating to Sunday School work were discussed effectively.

The next convention will be held at Coal Hill chapel, six miles east of Eldorado Springs, the day before quarterly conference. An interesting entertainment was enjoyed at night, given principally by Rich Hill Sunday School.

WARREN McELWAIN, Sec.
ELDORADO SPRINGS, MO., OCT. 29.

Sunday School association of the Philadelphia district, convened at Philadelphia, Pennsylvania, November 3d and 4th, O. T. Christy, superintendent, in the chair, E. B. Hull clerk. Report of Philadelphia school as follows: enrollment 51, average attendance 44. Treasurer reported on hand at last report $5.02, collected since $5.40, expended $5.04, balance on hand $4.67. A bill of $1.50 was presented and ordered paid.

The following officers were elected for the ensuing term: superintendent, H. H. Bacon; associate superintendent, Willard Bettrick; secretary and treasurer, E. B. Hull.

The following delegates were chosen to represent this district at General Convention, F. G. Pitt, Sr. C. Pitt and G. W. Robley. Motion made instructing the delegates to use their influence toward having the delegate system corrected, as small districts are severely hampered by the present system.

In the evening an entertainment was held, which was enjoyed by all; those who strove to make this part of the program a success, need to be complimented upon the success they achieved.

As this was also the yearly anniversary of the Philadelphia school, presents of Bibles and other books were given to meritorious scholars.

Sunday morning F. G. Pitt spoke to the children on the necessity of remembering our great Creator in the days of their youth, followed by sacramental service and preaching in the evening by Geo. W. Robley.

Adjourned to meet at Baldwin, Maryland, about six months from date.

E. B. HULL, Dist. Sec.
1248 Harold St., Philadelphia, Pa.
November 8.

Conference Notices.

The New Hope district conference will convene at Richmond, Virginia, at Keare's hall on Orleans street, in Fulton, on Saturday, December 8, 1900, at 10 o'clock a. m. A week's reunion will be held in connection with this conference. All the Saints in the district who can be expected to attend. Those coming on Friday please give notice, and they will be met at the depot. Resides the elders in the district, W. H. Coley, apostle in charge, is invited to attend.

J. L. GOODRICH,
3820 4th St., Fulton, Richmond, Va.
November 5.

DIED.

NIELSEN.—At her home in Nebraska City, Nebraska, October 21, 1900, Sr. Anna Nielsen, after an illness of eighteen hours. She was born in Norway, November 18, 1852, came to America and to Nebraska City in 1866, and has since resided here. Was married December 1, 1870, to Mr. Niels Nielsen, who departed this life April 3, 1889. She was baptized April 21, 1872, by P. G. Bergstien and was ever devoted to the service of God, and was an earnest worker in the Sunday School. A brother, John Dahl, is the only surviving relative. Funeral sermon by Elder Mark H. Forscutt, text Revelation 14: 13. Burial was largely attended, her body being laid to rest beside that of her husband in Wynka cemetery.

THROAT REST
You can cough yourself into bronchitis, pneumonia, and consumption. Bandaging and bundling your throat will do no good. You must give your throat and lungs rest and allow the cough wounds to heal. There is nothing so bad for a cough as coughing. Stop it by using
AYER'S Cherry Pectoral
Even the cough of early consumption is cured. And, later on, when the disease is firmly fixed, you can bring rest and comfort in every case. A 25 cent bottle will cure new coughs and colds; the 50 cent size is better for settled coughs of bronchitis and weak lungs; the one dollar size is more economical for chronic cases and consumption. It's the size you should keep on hand. All that is to be done to watch for sudden attacks of croup or acute lung troubles. Every country home in the land should keep Ayer's Cherry Pectoral constantly on hand to provide against an emergency." Dec. 14, 1888. Holland, Mich.

ZION'S ENSIGN.

"OUR CREED: ALL TRUTH."

VOLUME 11.

INDEPENDENCE, MISSOURI, THURSDAY, NOVEMBER 22, 1900

NUMBER 47.

ZION'S ENSIGN.

A Literary and Religious Newspaper, published in the interest of racial, scientific and religious truth, every Thursday, at Independence, Jackson County, Missouri.

PRICE, $1.00 PER YEAR, IN ADVANCE.

ENSIGN PUBLISHING HOUSE, of the Reorganized Church of Jesus Christ of Latter Day Saints.

W. H. GARRETT, EDITOR.
J. W. LUFF, BUSINESS MANAGER.

Make all remittances, and address all communications to ENSIGN PUBLISHING HOUSE, Box B, Independence, Jackson County, Missouri.

New subscriptions can begin at any time. If possible to avoid it, never send silver as it is liable to wear through the envelope and be lost. Always give the name of the post office to which your paper is sent or we can not find your name on our lists.

When desiring your address changed, give both the old and new address. Papers will be discontinued one month from the time subscriptions expire, unless ordered continued.

In making remittances, money orders are preferable for they are absolutely safe. If you can avoid it, do not send coin or stamps. Canadian stamps are an entire loss, and Canadian currency is only worth ninety cents on the dollar to us, for that is all we can get for it at the bank. Letters should be addressed, and orders and drafts made payable to ENSIGN PUBLISHING HOUSE, Independence, Mo.

Box B.

COMING TO ZION.

The Kansas City, Missouri, dailies of Friday, November 16th, contained a lengthy article purporting to be a sermon by President Lorenzo Snow, of the Utah church, in which the statement was made that they (the members of the Utah church) would soon go to Jackson county and build the temple which it was predicted by Joseph Smith, the martyr, would be built upon the Temple Lot at Independence. The papers commenting upon that declaration locally, say that although it has been known for years that Independence is regarded by all who acknowledge belief in the mission of Joseph Smith as Zion, no appreciable rise in the price of real estate has resulted.

While, doubtless, the Brighamites are sincere in their hope to take up their residence in this land, and that hope is used by the leaders of that church as a means to incite a payment of tithing, which it would seem is a little slow in coming, yet the fact remains that the Lord has decreed that the "wicked and the rebellious shall NOT inherit the land," and it is patent to others, if not to themselves, that the conditions prevailing among the members of the dominant church in Utah at this time are such that a very radical change will have to take place among them before their hopes in this direction will be possible of realization. Those conversant with the manner of life among the rank and file of that people know that it is not of a spiritual character as the word of God indicates the meaning of spirituality; and until repentance and correction in deportment towards the Almighty is manifest, it is a mere idle boast to talk of doing any work appointed of the Lord.

There can be no question of the right of these people to come to Jackson county, Missouri, or any other place, so long as they are law abiding, and so long as the "appointment by lot" is not in force. But it is a very different matter to essay to build the temple, or to occupy on consecrated grounds where direct guidance of the Lord is an essential to the work. The Lord has intimated that His Spirit would not dwell in unholy temples, and those who are called and chosen to do His work must possess a willing and obedient heart; must possess those characteristics which made the Christ so eminent in His life, and which have made His example the perfect pattern for all ages and nations of mankind wherever it has become known. If the Utah people, by a change in their lives, conform to this inspiring example, they may be chosen; if the members of the Reorganized church attain that high standard to which many of its membership are approximating, they will be chosen; if our brethren of the Hedrickite and other folds come up to the conditions, they also will unite in the grand work now before the people of the Most High. It all depends upon the purity of life, the consecration of powers, and the most perfect obedience unto the revealed will of God as to who shall be favored of Him in doing the work He has designed for the happiness and salvation of the human family.

"Zion is the pure in heart." There can be no question as to the correctness of this statement. Long ages ago the Psalmist, in contemplation of this matter, propounded the question, "Who shall ascend into the hill of the Lord? or who shall stand upon the holy place?" and answers, "He that hath clean hands and a pure heart; who hath not lifted up his soul unto vanity, nor sworn deceitfully. He shall receive the blessing from the LORD, and righteousness from the God of his salvation." (Ps. 24: 3-5). Every one, therefore, who entertains the hope of participating in the glories and blessings which are to be manifest at the completion of the temple and the redemption of Zion; who has a desire to assist in the work of the Lord in any way, must, absolutely MUST, bring with that service an humble, pure, consecrated life and purpose; must have a heart filled with love to God and His children; free from the spirit of jealousy or envy, delighting in seeing the Lord's work accomplished by the hands of those whom He has chosen to do it.

It really does not matter, therefore, so far as the purposes of our heavenly Father are concerned, who occupies the land of Zion while the redemption is still unaccomplished. There is no room for uncertainty that when the gathering, according to the Lord's plan, is consummated, only those who are prepared to abide the law of Zion, the pure in heart, will have an inheritance there no matter by what name they are now known religiously. There will be a sifting—and we believe that process is now going on—by which those who are worthy to abide shall be made known; so that it behooves every man and woman who profess the name of Christ to be watchful, prayerful, diligent, lest our character should not be sufficiently broad and deep to withstand the measure of trial, and we should slip through the meshes of the sifter into the heap of the rejected.

In all reason, what can be more inspiring, more to be desired by a child of God, than the standard which He has set up, that of RIGHTEOUSNESS. It is His own character; and to be righteous is to be God-like. Righteousness is the passport into divine favor; into celestial glory, the highest type of life, everlasting life; an eternity of existence in which everything shall be harmoniously perfect; no wish beyond that which is enjoyed; perfect love abounding; no selfishness, no wounding; all serene, perfect bliss; and to attain this glorious condition we have only to sacrifice now those principles which are at enmity with this standard, and diligently strive to now build our characters in conformity with the rules which govern in the world to come in which we desire to dwell, and victory is assured. It requires a strong effort and a fierce battle with the powers which are from beneath; but we have the assurance in the conflict that we are on the side of right, and right will prevail. Do not be discouraged, though the strife be long and the engagement heavy. All heaven is interested in our welfare and rejoices in our successes. We can afford to be patient, to press steadily forward, for victory is at the end; already the end of the conflict draws nigh, and the result is presaged by the desperate efforts the adversary is making on every hand.

There need be, therefore, no uneasiness felt over the statement of President Snow that within the next twenty years many of their number "will return to Jackson county." As has been shown they, nor none others, can dwell here unless they comply with the conditions laid down by our heavenly Father—righteousness and purity of character; and to all who are willing to thus live, every Saint will say Come, and "God speed the day," no matter from what place or party. Under those conditions it will be as the Apostle says, "All are one in Christ Jesus;" and may our Lord turn and overturn, govern, direct and inspire, until this happy and much longed for condition is attained, and the redeemed shall come to Zion with songs of everlasting joy.

EDITORIAL ITEMS.

BRO. RUSSEL KENNEDY, West Wheeling, Ohio, calls attention to a typographical error in ENSIGN for November 1st, in Bro. Gregory's article, "A Popular Church Found Wanting," 4th column of 5th page, the reference to Psalms 57:1-5, should be Psalms 51:1-5.

BRO. HENRY YORK, Elk post-office, Chaves county, New Mexico, says he is going to do his best to have some of our elders come there and preach. He is confident of one or two openings besides his own private house. The Christian church has recently closed a protracted effort here, in which a number united with them, but Bro. York got to read the word of God to some of them, and has convinced them that the signs of the gospel should follow the believer as Mark records (16: 17, 18). Bro. York says any who can come will confer a favor by writing him at the above address.

EXTRACTS FROM LETTERS.

SR. (MRS.) HELEN SHERWIN, Blendsville, Mo:

Our branch here is doing very well, eighteen new recruits lately, and we feel spiritually benefited.

ELDER J. W. WALDSMITH, Nebraska City, Nebraska:

We had two very excellent sermons yesterday and last night delivered by our worthy Presiding Bishop E. L. Kelley. The weather without was very gloomy, yet he had a fair hearing. I wish that he could make his visits to Nebraska City more frequent.

ELDER J. L. GOODRICH, 3829 4th, Fulton, Richmond, Virginia:

The way seems very much hedged up here just now, but may be the dawn of day will soon appear, as the darkest hour is said to be just before day. I have found the location of the Utah elders and some of the members, and expect to spend most of my time among them until conference, December 1st. There are six elders here and they hold Sunday School. They also have a number of members about twenty-five miles from here whom I want to visit.

BRO. WM. CHRISMAN, of South West City, Missouri, writing from Grove, Indian Territory, November 6th, says:

The debate is over and there is a better understanding of the gospel among the people. The debate was between Bro. W. H. Smart and J. A. Frazier, a Missionary Baptist preacher. Commenced November 2d and continued four nights. It closed last night and I was baptized today. I acted as Bro. Smart's moderator. He also baptized two last week, one the ex-judge of McDonald county, Missouri, and his step-son. The judge is just one year younger than the church; born 1831; I hope and pray for the welfare of the church. We have eleven Saints within eight miles of each other, and hope it may be sometime in the near future that I may have the opportunity of meeting regularly with them. My desire is to labor on and on until the Lord comes.

ELDER J. B. ROUSH, 2942 California street, Denver, Colorado:

If any of the Saints have friends in Denver whom they would like to have visited in the interest of the gospel, and will send me their address, I will be glad to call on them. Sometimes a little introduction in this way enables us to increase our attendance at the church. I think conditions are improving in the Denver branch quite perceptibly. Meetings are better attended and more life manifested. The music being furnished by our choir, lately organized, is excellent. I think the Religio is doing better work now than at any time since my acquaintance with Denver. I hope any Saints coming this way will not fail to come to our church services on Sundays at 11 a. m. and 7:30 p. m., also Religio at 6 p. m. Our church is easily found on the corner of Twenty-second and Arapahoe streets.

ELDER JOSEPH WARD, Mountain Home, Arkansas:

I had a good meeting near Hardy, Arkansas, but my meeting at Raven-den Springs and Martin's Creek would have been a complete failure, as I was seized with an attack of the grippe, had it not been that Bro. D. R. Baldwin was with me. I baptized two at Martin's Creek this time and five when I was there in August. I have announced to begin meeting next Saturday near Henderson. This is a new opening, but there is no trouble to get a place to preach in this field; the difficulty is to get them to turn out to hear. I have preached in live new places in this, Baxter, county, but had very poor interest. I do not expect to altogether revolutionize Northern Arkansas this year, but will do all I can for the cause of our Master; the people must hear the sound of the angel's message so I will continue to preach it to them.

BRO. JOSEPH W. WHITEAKER, Belle Centre, Wisconsin:

We enjoy the sermons and letters in the ENSIGN from different parts of the world which shows that the latter day work is making commendable progress everywhere. The work in the Wheatville branch is on the upward move; nineteen have been added to our number by baptism in the last year and a half. We have no building in which to worship only as we meet at each other's houses for services, but are contemplating building a church next spring. Bro. Sawley and Houghton have done a good work here: they are men of energy and well qualified to make the gospel plain; they are held in great respect by all who become acquainted with them. Others of the ministry have also done good work here. Our branch is scattered over quite a territory but as a rule we are united and are blessed of the Lord in the enjoyment of a good degree of the Holy Spirit. We are trying to live in such a way that the gospel will have a good effect on our lives, making us pure and intelligent in the beautiful work of the Lord.

GENERAL CHURCH NEWS.

INDEPENDENCE.

Bro. E. H. Robinson moved his goods to Lee's Summit Tuesday.

The little Tignor children who were so ill a few days ago are all better and are playing around as usual.

The furnaces will be completed before next Sunday. The work of completion was begun Tuesday.

Leona Samantha, daughter of Geo. F. and Sr. Samantha Cheney Thompson, and grandchild of Bro. and Sr. Levi Cheney, was blessed Sunday, November 4th, Brn. W. H. Garrett and H. R. Mills officiating.

Religio Friday night, subject for discussion Parliamentary Practice, Book of Rules, chapter four. This will be a very valuable exercise. Be sure and attend it, and be prepared to make use of what you learn when the occasion arises. Every one should acquaint themselves with so useful a help.

Thanksgiving services, consisting of a thirty minutes sermon, and short talks by different members present, will be held at the Saints' church, Thursday morning of next week, at eleven o'clock. This is the plan followed heretofore and has been found most satisfactory. Every one should be present and join in these services. Let all do so as far as possible.

The weather has been variable the past few days, ranging from freezing to thawing, interspersed with considerable rain. Today, Thursday, is warm and spring-like but the indications are that this condition will be of short duration, and another change will soon come, to colder weather. The leaves on some of the trees are yet quite green, though the trees are mostly bare.

Our genial and faithful brother, A. L. Newton, of Cove, Arkansas, has been buying goods in Kansas City the past week, and worshipped with the Saints here last Sunday. He made the ENSIGN a brief visit Tuesday evening, before starting home on the 9.30 p. m. train. He looks much better than when he resided here, and with his estimable companion, has been instrumental in doing a splendid work at Cove and in the regions thereabouts. We are always glad to see Bro. "Bert."

Bro. W. T. Bozarth preached a fine discourse at the Saints' church Sunday morning upon the theme of "Man's Responsibility to His Creator as an Intelligent Being." At night Bishop Hilliard made a forcible, practical talk upon the duties of the Saints and the characters they should possess. Both services were held in the main auditorium, one of the furnaces being temporarily arranged so that the building was quite comfortable though not more than half the heat reached the auditorium. The afternoon service was well attended and a good, spiritual meeting was had. The young people's prayer meeting at 6:15 p. m. was a splendid one, Brn. Layton and Criley being in charge. At one time twelve prayers were offered before arising. The prayer services are increasing in interest and attendance very encouragingly.

Sr. Anna Flower has gone to St. Louis visiting friends and will likely be away for some time.

Bro. Geo. H. Hulmes will preach next Sunday morning at the Saints church, and Bro. R. J. Parker at night. The furnaces will be completed and the temperature of the auditorium will be quite comfortable.

Bro. J. E. Lewis is laying a fine granitoid walk on West Electric street from Bro. T. C. Kelley's corner to Bro. M. T. Short's corner (Walnut to Short streets). We believe it is being done on the city's requirement.

And now for a pleasant and concerted pull in behalf of our furnace fund. The sisters, always ready for a good work, will give a supper in the lower rooms of the church next Tuesday evening, November 26th, under the auspices of the Building Committee, for the benefit of the furnace fund. In addition to this treat, Bro. Geo. Hayward, who is never behind any one when he can do anything for the cause we all love, will give a grand phonographic entertainment, in the main auditorium. Every one knows he has a splendid instrument and a very extensive collection of hymns, songs and instrumental pieces which are very entertaining. The admission to supper and entertainment has been fixed at the very moderate price of twenty-five cents; and to the concert alone, adults fifteen cents, children ten cents. Every one should attend and do their part in meeting this debt. It must be cleared up before the close of the year, which leaves but a short time before us. Be sure to give this effort your earnest support.

LAMONI, IOWA.

At Saints' Home, November 13th, Sr. Mary Ann Seelye (aged 85 years) passed from this life into the great beyond. Sr. Seelye obeyed the gospel in 1837 at Savannah, New York, and was received into the Reorganization on her original baptism. Apostle W. H. Kelley, who has charge of her estate, was called home from Cleveland, Ohio, and accompanied the remains to Savannah, New York, where they will be interred beside the body of her husband. Beautiful tetter, thy work all done, Beautiful soul into glory gone, Beautiful life with its crown now won, God giveth thee rest.

Bro. Jones at Saints' Home is very low with consumption. He expresses a willingness to go when the Master calls. He requested the prayers of the Saints Sunday afternoon that he might be relieved from his sufferings.

Bishop E. L. Kelley left Monday evening for Plainview, Nebraska, to visit his brother, Mr. G. T. Kelley, who has been ill for some time. Bro. Kelley expects to visit Nebraska City, Independence and St. Louis before returning.

Sr. Alice Thorburn returned last week from a visit to Higbee, Missouri. The Sunday School and Religio appreciate her return.

President and Sr. Joseph Smith welcomed a little son at their home on Sunday, the 18th inst.

Two excellent sermons were preached on Sunday by Apostles Heman C. Smith and J. W. Wight. Each chose the same text, "Ye are my friends if ye do whatsoever I command you." Bro. Smith brought out some fine thoughts on "friendship," Bro. Wight dwelt upon the "commandments."

GRACE L. KRAHL.

November 19.

CHICAGO, ILLINOIS.

Branch headquarters, 716 W. Van Buren St., Sunday meetings 2:45 and 7:45 p. m.; 444 Mission, 3411 Cottage Grove Ave., 10:45 a. m. and 7:30 p. m.; West Fullman branch, 748 189th St., 10:30 a. m. and 7:30 p. m.; 508 W. 37th St. (colored mission), 10:30 a. m. and 7:30 p. m.

A dense fog hangs over our great city this morning, representing the spiritual condition of the masses of the people. The sunlight of revealed truth is shut out by moral sins and spiritual blindness, yet there may be found a remnant who love the truth dearly, and are shining with electric brightness under the influence of the restored gospel. The Saints are growing in spiritual strength and the blessed dove of peace and good will spreads its wings over the Chicago branch.

Our investigator, R. Sena Nayaka, from Ceylon, who is taking a medical course at the Rush Medical College, gave a very interesting talk before the Religio, on Oriental history and Brahmanism and the "Vedas" (book of knowledge). Sena is a bright young man of twenty-four summers, small in stature, and very gentlemanly in demeanor. He received a vote of appreciation by the Religio.

Bro. F. M. Cooper, after spending a few days with his family, hied away to his field of work. We were pleased to learn of his success in his field.

A patriarch is a father to the whole church; the question is, why does not our father talk to his children a little more through the medium of the church papers. A word from him is always read with eagerness.

Two articles attracted our special attention, one on "Love," by Bro. Gowell, in Herald of the 7th, another the editorial in ENSIGN of the 8th. They are worthy of note.

Bro. Wm. Strange occupied the morning hour at the mission, assisted by the elder, Bro. Wm. Wainwright preached at night. Bro. S. C. Good preached "Truth" at headquarters, and Priest J. F. Keir gave us a good little sermon at night on "Spiritual Ethics." Bro. James is just commencing in this line—he possesses two points that us older ones would do well to follow—he does not indulge in repetitions, and when he gets done he takes his seat.

The Saints voted yesterday to hold a prayer and testimony meeting on Thanksgiving day, beginning at 10 o'clock; there will also be the usual prayer meeting at night.

Priesthood meeting Monday night at 3411 Cottage Grove avenue. We hope for a very interesting and instructive meeting. Begin to prepare for the union service on December 2d. We want to have the best one ever held—why should we not? Let each one try to make it so.

In good cheer,

J. M. TERRY.

305 Ogden Ave., Nov. 19.

ST. LOUIS, MISSOURI.

Places of worship: Rock Church, Glasgow avenue and Dickson street. Services: Wednesday evening, prayer service. Sunday Sabbath School, 9:30 a. m.; preaching at 11 a. m.; social service at 2:30 p. m.; preaching at 3 p. m. Cheltenham, 5731 Manchester Ave., services: Sunday School 10 a. m.; social meeting 2:30 p. m.; preaching 7:30 p. m. Oak Hill, Sunday School 9:30 a. m., and services at 2:30 and 8 p. m.

The busiest people around here now are members of the Mite Society we believe, as all are preparing for the bazaar and Thanksgiving dinner of next week.

There were but few at the Wednesday evening prayer service, but those present enjoyed a quiet, sweetly solemn hour, and went away refreshed and strengthened for the morrows and their demands.

Thursday evening we had the pleasure of visiting with the Cheltenham Religio. These young people though few in number are making strenuous efforts in the right direction, and we rejoice when we feel the enthusing influence of the Spirit of God. An especial program was rendered and the young folks then repaired to the home of Bro. and Sr. Remington for a social time.

Bro. Billinsky and wife, Bro. Trowbridge's family, including Mr. Caldwell, Bro. S. A. Burgess, were visitors at Cheltenham Religio Thursday evening.

Brn. C. J. Spurlock and G. W. Beebe came in Saturday evening and Sunday with the Saints.

Bro. A. Allen has been doing some preaching at O'Fallon, Ill., all of the past week.

The morning service was in charge of Brn. Christensen and Spurlock, Bro. Beebe being speaker.

Our Bro. Fred Johnson was accompanied to the church at the morning hour by his father, from Burlington, and a cousin, Bro. Christensen's brother was also among our visitors.

Friday evening we had occasion to admire the courage of a young sister and her escort who drove fourteen miles that they might have the privilege of attending the Religio at Belleville. A goodly number of others were in attendance, and our eyes were dimmed on our homeward way because of the interest being taken in the Book of Mormon. Surely it seems to us that the Lord is gathering 'out from among the honest hearted.

The evening session was fairly well attended, but we were unfortunate in that our choir was "the choir invisible" and we had no anthems. Bro. Spurlock addressed the waiting assembly; a few visitors.

Sr. Josie Billinsky, Sr. Cook and others are on the sick list. Mr. R. J. Crawford of Collinsville attended the afternoon service.

The Prayer Union this week assembled at the home of Sr. S. Cooke, 2520 Slattery street.

Prayer service Thanksgiving morning, at 10:30 a. m. in the Auditorium.

Appointments yesterday: Oak Hill, Bro. Barraclough; Cheltenham, Bro. Davis afternoon, J. S. Parrish night service; at rock church, Bro. Beebe morning, Bro. Sparling night; Bro. T. J. Elliott, Belleville.

ETTA.

November 19.

SECOND KANSAS CITY BRANCH. Corner 23d and Holly. One block south of Observation Park line.

The Sunday School is enjoying a boom; there were about 125 present this morning and there are indications of a further increase.

Our deacon, Bro. Brown, addressed the branch this morning, elucidating the 2d chapter of 1 Peter. He was followed by Bro. Thomas Newton in exhortation and instruction. Altogether the meeting was edifying and productive of good.

The Saints are more active and take a more lively interest in the work since we have our own place of meeting. The possibilities for good have been greatly increased in this branch and much more could be done if we could have a series of revival meetings under the direction of Bro. I. N. White or some other missionary to stir us up. There are many outsiders attending the meetings who need the application of the Spirit of revelation to give them understanding.

The local Religio is preparing for a Thanksgiving supper at 6 and entertainment at 8 o'clock, Thursday, November 29. Adults 25 cents, children 15 cents. All are invited. Proceeds to benefit the church.

The afternoon prayer meeting was very spiritual and enjoyed by all present. Much good seed was sown and renewed courage and determination were given to overcome evil and do right.

Elder J. D. White occupied the stand in the evening.

Bro. Chas. Emmett and Miss Miriam Haldeman were married at the Methodist Episcopal church of Kansas City, Kansas, by Rev. Hancock. The young couple are living at 9th and Harrison, this city. We congratulate Charlie, and wish his young bride joy and happiness in their new state. Their voices in our choir Sunday evening were helpful. J. C. GRAINGER.

2124 East St., Nov. 19.

SAN FRANCISCO, CALIFORNIA.

Services at Golden West Hall, 320 Post street, every Sunday. Sunday School 10 a. m., preaching 11 a. m. and 7:30 p. m.; prayer meeting first Sunday of each month at 12:15 noon. Elder C. A. Parkin presiding elder, residence 3010 16th street.

Sunday at 11 a. m., we had the pleasure of having Bro. Fred B. Blair as our speaker. The hall was well filled, as it is at all our morning services of late. It is very encouraging to see the attendance increasing, and the attention so good. But the sweet, hallowed influence that attends the speaking is still more so.

At 12:15 we held our sacrament meeting, many prayers were offered and a number of testimonies given, and experiences related. We had a real good meeting, enjoyed by all; two children were blessed by J. M. Saxe and the writer. J. H. Anthony held services at Irvington, Albert Haws occupied the pulpit at Santa Rosa. Evening preaching here by J. M. Saxe.

There was a good attendance Wednesday evening at 1911 Mission street, filling the rooms with interested Saints, anxious to speak in the Master's cause. The time was well spent in prayer and praise.

The sister's Prayer Union met as usual Thursday afternoon, and spent a profitable hour in prayer and praise.

Friday evening was Religio night, where the full attendance was encouraging to all, and the studies and program were interesting and instructive. The Religio has been very prosperous under the presidency of Sr. M. E. Saxe, and our place of meeting is growing almost too small to hold all who attend.

All generally well here.

GEORGE S. LINCOLN.

November 10.

LETTER DEPARTMENT.

DETROIT, Mich., Nov. 12.

Editor Ensign—A word from Detroit may not be unwise, and may work good in some way. Winter is drawing on and the sullen roar of the winds among the tops or the tall forests of Michigan contrast to us vividly with keen, relentless prairie sweepers of away out west, those northwesterners from the Dakotas. But in point of variety and brazenness the sweepers are preferable.

The work of the Lord in Detroit and vicinity, and in fact in all the Lake mission, seems to be upward and onward. A season of peace prevails among the Saints in the city; old and former troubles seem to be forgotten, and all are working harmoniously for advancement and victory in branch, Sunday School and Religio. The Religio is enlarging now at the rate of one to two members every meeting, and the interest is growing. A number of outsiders have joined, and the interest in the study of the Book of Mormon and the work from that standpoint is increasing. A goodly number of outsiders are also attending the preaching services and it is evident that the knowledge of the work is spreading here.

Sr. Condit, of Malta, Idaho, who is attending one of the special schools of the city for a brief term, has hunted up and is seen quite often at our Sunday and weekly prayer meetings, also at Sunday School and Religio, and usually brings some of the students with her. She is a worker for sixteen. An East Indian attended Religio recently and is getting intensely interested in the Book of Mormon.

I am urged to come to Toledo, Ohio, and also to Metamora, near Toledo, and do some preaching, as the work there stands greatly in need of attention. Some of the Toledo Saints are moving away because of neglect by the ministry of the word, so I hear. Cannot the missionary in charge in Ohio see to this call? When going to Metamora write to James Courson who resides near there. May the Master "send more laborers into His vineyard."

Brighamite elders are hardly ever seen at our services here any more. It was reported in papers that they had gathered fifty members in the city, but we are unable to find out who and where they are, or to confirm the report. It is said that when they thoroughly canvass a district and gather out all they can, they seal that district up to eternal woe; but for some reason they are succeeded by others who unseal the district, and re-canvass, and seal again. The question naturally arises, How often do the Brighamite authorities have to seal those who reject their message to get them to stay sealed to endless woe? It does not look much like God's work; He has to change too often according to their theory. He, according to their theory, has to yield to their visionary caprices often, seems to find places to renew his points so often, and for improvement.

They once taught that the presidency of the church was vested in the prophet and seer, Joseph Smith, and his seed, and so they waited a long time for Joseph Smith, the son of the seer, to come to Utah and take the presidency; but because he would not go, then the second son of the seer, Alexander, would; but as he for good reasons would not go there, then they said it was little David's place to come and be inaugurated president at the hands of Brigham Young, but David would not, and so published to the world, and then they changed about, and gave the presidency of their church to a tribe of whom nothing was said, as relating to presidency over the church, in any of the revelations to the church. And so God changed in regard to this grave matter according to the Brighamites.

From 1835 to 1845 A. D., some of these Brighamite leaders said that polygamy was not a doctrine of the church, and their second president, John Taylor, denied it as late as 1850, and he and others denied that Joseph Smith ever taught or practiced it. But in 1852 at a special conference held at Salt Lake City, they took it all back and turned about face, and said Joseph Smith, before his death, in June, 1844, did teach polygamy as early as July 12, 1843, thus logically admitting that they falsified when denying that Joseph Smith taught it, or that it was a doctrine of the church prior to 1845. And some years after they put two of the lady members of their church on the stand to swear under oath that they (John Taylor, Brigham Young and others) were falsifying when they in Times and Seasons, prior to 1845 and 1850 denied that polygamy was a church tenet, or that Joseph had ever taught it.

Later along, under the presidency of Wilford Woodruff, a manifesto, or revelation ostensibly from God, was promulgated, releasing the Utah church from the further practice of polygamy, and they say it is not to be practiced any more by the Brighamite church; yet one of their elders tried to prove to me, just a few Sundays since, that Jesus teaches polygamy. Am unable to find the text however. Well, as they say they have given up the doctrine of polygamy will they not have to abandon the doctrine of "going by the angels and the gods to kingdoms which they created, before they ever went there?" And abandoning those ideas they will leave the angels and gods in the lead after all.

Now, all these old Brighamite ideas will have to be left in the background if these young elders now traveling around are sincere when they tell us they are now representing the new Utah—that is Utah church now reformed. Reform is to form anew or reorganize, you know. Men have now for over four hundred years been calling their reformed churches "The Reformation," and they keep the reformation rolling on by reorganizing. These fellows out in Utah change their base so often that we do not know where, very often, to find them. I hope they may be able some day to see their inconsistencies and forsake them, and come out of darkness into light.

I did not intend when beginning this letter to write so lengthily, but if a thought is dropped that will advance the cause of truth I will not regret having written.

C. SCOTT.

482 Scotten Ave.

WALNUT CREEK, Cal., Nov. 11.

Editor Ensign—My trip westward some months since with stops at Denver and Salt Lake City and with such pleasant companions as Bro. Elbert A. Smith and wife, and Bro. D. A. Anderson and wife, was enjoyable indeed. Theirs perhaps more so than when they may be on gospel duty in single file.

Arriving at 4 p. m. at San Francisco and reporting that same evening for prayer service at Bro. J. A. Saxe's was close connection we fell. Installed as I was as a regular at Bro. and Sr. Anthony's made home-like feelings. The new arrivals were willing to be pardoned for a view of the ocean and other pleasant scenes the next day, Bro. Crumley and Sr. Roberts acting as guides.

I next spent pleasant days at San Jose visiting two of my sisters and aided Bro. Chase and Allen in tent work. The stay was an all around pleasant affair.

After these few brief days I reported to enter the tent campaign, but being not yet in the land "where changes never come" my first ocean voyage to Eureka, Humboldt county, occurred in the pleasant company of Bro. F. B. Blair. We fed the fish, etc. Had a pleasant visit with Bro. and Sr. L. T. Kinsey; were off next day for rural parts and work. Two pleasant months were spent, delivering about forty sermons each. Bro. Blair baptized two daughters of Bro. D. A. Robinson, who, if faithful, will be very useful. A Mrs. Wilson became deeply interested, as did also some others who may obey later. Bro. S. B. Robinson and family, Sr. Vedder and Alta, Bro. Worthington and family, with others, cared for us.

The reunion next engaged attention and was an enjoyable occasion. The cream of the feast was to me the experiences of Bro. Burton in his South Sea Islands mission, from which he had so recently returned. I believe it was so generally, while the whole quota of services were good. The services of the Patriarch and his scribe were in demand.

The whole business feature of the affair was directed and much of it executed by Bro. Blair in a commendable manner. He worked hard from start to close and after. Bro. Phillips and a host of good helpers made a success of the commissary department.

The celebration of the "Native Sons of the Golden West" was on in San Francisco. The parade was a thing of beauty and wonderment. Bro. Alexander remarked of it, "Seventy-five thousand dollars spent and not a thing in it to point men to the Savior of the world." Pleasure loving Californians do not trouble much with church matters within church hours on Sundays, to say nothing of other times. The parade represented the Red man in his day, the pioneer days, and all the material progress since; one float representing the fruit industry venerated as it was with the various fruits was certainly a thing of beauty. It was named, "The Pride of Santa Clara." The veneering of fruit was relieved and interspersed with bottles in rich profusion; had it all been catsup and pepper sauce, thought about the curse of drink might have been dispelled and how "The Pride of Santa Clara" brought misery as well as prosperity. Civilization? Are we civilized?

The Sacramento Saints made a commendable effort to warn the city, procuring a down town central place, fitting it up neatly and maintaining service there four full weeks at considerable expense and efforts in attendance and other ways. The attendance was not large, yet quite a number were reached. The preaching fell mainly to me; Bro. Griffiths spoke twice, Bro. Chase and Phillips once each. During this time the chapel was refitted nicely; another mark of credit to the Sacramento branch.

At Bro. Askew's solicitation tried my luck at Eldorado and like all my predecessors had a limited hearing. A pleasant visit, however, and splendid opportunity for study.

The desire of many years to visit the scenes of my childhood, where in my 4th year in 1860 we settled and from where in 1871 we removed to Missouri, was realized. Mr. T. E. Wilkinson, who had married Miss Collista Dustin—one of my schoolmates, met me at Acumppo. I was soon installed in their pleasant home perfectly at home. I was furnished over one hundred miles of ride alternately in buggy or surrey, Mr. W. and Collista alternating or both accompanying. Old time neighbors and schoolmates were met. Dustin, Carter, Connell, Kennefick, Peck, Smithson, Huntington, Smith, Presbury, Calaway, Shinn, being some of the names. All received a call or visit pleasantly and some with marked satisfaction to them as also myself. The happenings of other days of the long ago were recounted pleasantly, when we boys and girls sang sometimes, "Hurrah for the school boys' happy lot; the school girls' sunny hours." The boys and girls of then had boys and girls at the same school-house now. We felt older, changed much of course, yet recognition was easy in numerous instances, much more so than I thought so many years would allow.

My father's old home was little changed, but few of the native forest trees remained, decking the farm for shade. The orchard and vineyard had given place to grow wheat. The buildings are as we left them, simply older.

Memory was stirred to its depths in many ways as we chatted on various topics. Here our family and several others had obeyed the restored gospel. While no opportunity to reach the public was at hand the issue came up and was considered, affording me much satisfaction to defend the cause I love above all others. The election was during my stay, in which my friend Wilkinson and some others took a deeper interest than I. While memory endures, the visit will be cherished as one of the delightful experiences of life.

Mr. Wilkinson first to greet me gave the parting hand last at the train and as I sped away my thoughts flowed back to his kindness and that of his household (my place of abode) being of large measure throughout. Others were as kind, but I was with them less. Some were Catholic, some rotastant of one sort and some of another, others not allied to any. In this the community was still as it used to be. Christ preached but one gospel, established but one church. The overthrow of it developed variations. The variations should be avoided; the original restored sought for. This I urged upon their attention. Wishing each other well we parted, hoping to meet soon again. In the faith and at work.

R. EISENHOWER.

HOLDEN, Mo., Oct. 30.

Editor Ensign—Sunday, Oct. 28th, was a day long to be remembered by the Saints of this place and by the visiting Saints, one sister remarking that the moment she stepped into the hall, she felt the presence of the Spirit, while others testified that from the beginning, through to the close, they enjoyed that blessed influence that lifts up the heart in praise and thankfulness to the Giver of all good. Others again told what the Spirit indicated to be to follow the faithfulness and upright living of the Saints. All who were present rejoiced.

Bro. James Moler, from Ohio, accompanied by his brother and sister-in-law (Bro. and Sr. Moneymaker, of Lee's Summit), and Bro. Essig, from near that place, came in while our meeting was in progress; they too partook of its life-giving power. The rain kept many from attending who otherwise would have been there; however, there was a goodly turnout. This was the fourth Lord's day the writer has sojourned in Holden, yet the first one that she was able to attend the exercises of the day. Although it poured down rain, she made ready to go, hoping Sr. Arthur Allen would come along with her surrey and take her to the hall, as she had done each evening the writer was well enough to go. Yes, she came with her interesting family all snugly housed in the surrey. She halted and found me ready, said she would take the children up two blocks away, then return for me, husband having gone on before, not thinking I would get there. The exercises were first Sabbath School, after a few minutes recess, prayer and testimony services, then at 6 p. m. Religio, at 7 preaching. Bro. Devore has been preaching each night for a week, having good liberty. Though few of world's people were present, the Saints were edified and strengthened for further duties. Bro. Moler staying for a few days to look out, possibly, a location; those in charge thought it best for him to preach each evening he would be here. Then Bro. Devore would continue, in the which he will lecture for two evenings on the "Society Islands' mission." Political meetings in vogue have a tendency to keep people away, besides shows, lectures, and the inclemency of the weather.

There are not many young people here in this branch, but those who are seem, to an observer, to take a deep interest in the different exercises. The song services are sweet and attractive. In the Sabbath School Sr. Ruth Allen presides at the organ. At Religio and preaching Sr. Fannie Davis and F. Scarellif seem to each be mistress of the situation.

Bro. Resch and family will move back here in the near future; their worth to this good cause the Saints here know and appreciate. Bro. Fred Scarellif, our energetic president of the branch and superintendent of the Sunday School, is constantly looking out for the best good for both the branch and Sunday School, and has a smiling welcome for the aged and the youth, a kind word for all. This is as it should be. We greatly admired the beautifully arranged report of the Sunday School secretary, Bro. Frank Resch has charge of the Religio, an earnest, energetic brother.

By request of the superintendent, the writer is to take charge of the Intermediate class in the Sunday School. We preferred listening to Bro. Frank Resch teach them on this first time we were present, that we might get a little acquainted. While listening our heart went out toward those dear children, and we felt that nothing greater would we ask than to have health and the blessed Spirit to enable us to teach and instruct and be able to plant within their hearts the gospel truths, to win them to Christ. We breathed a sincere prayer for help both in body and mind, for that work, for surely we need it.

Several from elsewhere are talking of locating at Holden. We notice that many, in and out of the church, who have left Holden in the past, sooner or later return; it is a striking feature to the writer.

ELLA.

ALTON, Mo., Oct. 20.

Dear Ensign—Upon your arrival I lay all my other papers aside and give attention to the dear Ensign which has so many good sermons. Oh, how they do feed my soul, and when I read letters from Illinois it makes me homesick to see the Saints. I could not help shedding tears when I heard the news from their branches. My prayer is that the Lord will bless them. Pray for me, dear Saints, because I am so far away from you. I am so proud for Chicago, Plano and Sandwich; may the Lord bless them.

It would be a good opportunity to open up a branch on our place. Bro. Spurlock, Lon McGuire and Ward have sown some good seed here; Bro. McGuire came here every third Sunday whenever he could, but it seems that the care of his family prevents the him from doing much missionary work. I wish a good missionary with family would move in our branch and take the third Sunday and a meeting for a week. I think our Saints all would be very willing to keep a family. It needs a missionary to visit the branch and preach around. Bro. Ward, don't spend your time in Arkansas too long because we all need you and we would all be glad to have you here.

Bro. Chrestensen preached a few good sermons here, but the people abused him; however they got their pay for it. I am thankful that the Lord has power over all. I would be glad to see Bro. Chrestensen again for we think he is a good brother. I ask all the Saints to pray for me and my neighborhood that the Lord may open their eyes.

Your sister in the one faith,
 THERESA GRAFF.
 At Cave Spring.

ZION'S ENSIGN.

Entered at the Post Office at Independence Mo., as Second Class Matter.

THE POWER OF CHRIST.

Sermon by Elder R. C. Evans.

[REPORTED BY M. EUNICE WINN.]

The singing of the first hymn this evening has directed my mind to a train of thought upon which I shall invite your attention and consideration:

"Glory to God in full anthems of joy,
The being he gave us, death cannot destroy.
Sad were the life we must part with tomorrow
If tears were our birthright, and death were our end;
But Jesus hath cheered the dark valley of sorrow,
We'll rise from the dead and immortal ascend.
Lift, then your voices, in triumph on high
For Jesus has risen, and man shall not die."

All our hopes depend on this unique figure, who is represented to us, in the volume called the Bible, as the Savior of the world.

Statisticians inform us that since the creation of Adam until now there has been over one hundred and forty-three billions of people upon the earth. The best information that we can gather informs us that less than one billion has ever worshipped in spirit and in truth. Today there is over one billion of heathens. It is estimated that the life of man is about thirty-three years and a third; if this is correct, it follows that this whole mass of heathens will have died within the next thirty-three years and four months; in other words thirty million die nearly every year, two million, five hundred thousand every month, 576,923 every week, 82,191 every day, 3,524 every hour, 58 every minute, I nearly every second. We narrow it down, and say that according to these figures one dies every pulsation of the human heart, every tick of the clock, and this dying has been going on until this present hour. This being the fact it proves that the great majority of these fearful billions, as represented by these figures, have gone down to the tongueless silence of the tomb, sunk into the vortex of despair, irretrievably lost, if it be true—as commonly asserted in the creeds which claim to represent the Christ of God—that in this life only there is hope, or, in other words, death ends all.

The word of God is the only source from which we may seek information as to the facts of God's purposes, and the ultimate result of these purposes regarding humanity. In this word of God we are told that Jesus Christ is to act, and has acted, and will act a very important part. We are told, in the first chapter of Paul's letter to the Colossian brethren, that all things were created by Jesus. Paul supplemented this statement when he wrote to the Hebrew brethren in the first chapter, saying: "God, who at sundry times and in divers manners spake in time past unto the fathers by the prophets, hath in these last days spoken to us by his Son, whom he hath appointed heir of all things, by whom also he made the worlds." We are told over here in the first chapter of the gospel as recorded by St. John, 10th verse, of Jesus that He was "in the world, and the world was made by him, and the world knew him not." Indeed, this chapter informs us that "all things were made by him, and without him was not any thing made that was made." We learn from these passages that Jesus Christ was the Creator of the world, that he made all things; now we ask, Why did He make them? What was the purpose in the mind of God in making the world and peopling it with the sons of men? This blessed volume gives us information upon this momentous question. We are told in the 4th chapter of the Book of Revelation, that God, who is the Lord worthy to receive glory, and honor and power, "created all things for His pleasure." Note this thought—the Lord created man for His pleasure. That same God revealed through his servant, Ezekiel, as we find recorded in the 33d chapter, "I have no pleasure in the death of the wicked." If he has no pleasure in the death of the wicked, and all things were made for His pleasure, shall we believe that God has made a successful rival to thwart the design of God? But, least I weary you, I appeal to God to answer this question, and turning to Isaiah 46th chapter, the golden tongued prophet is there made to say for his Creator in these words, "I will do all my pleasure." We are told in the Record, by that grand character, impetuous Peter, that God is not willing that any should perish; and because the Lord is not willing that any should perish, it seems fitting to us that He should provide ways and means for the rescue of men, as they sail out upon the dark, white-crested foam of human experiences, surrounded by the triune enemy, the world, the flesh and Satan; and hence, we look to this wonderful personage, whom we call Jesus the Christ, for help in the hour of humanity's extremity.

Turning to John's gospel 38th verse, 6th chapter, we read that Jesus came into this world to do the will of his Father. We have learned what that will was—that none should perish. Again Jesus informs us, "I came as it is written of me, in the volume of the book, to do thy will, oh God." The Master gives us a full conception of this thought, as we believe, when He told those pathetic stories recorded in St. Luke, as referred to in the 15th chapter. You remember that one of these stories says, The Kingdom of heaven is like unto a woman who lost a piece of silver, and she swept the house from cellar to garret, if you will allow me that expression; she did not weary in her search, but the Master tells us she swept the house, and searched until she found it. This Shepherd of the sheep, who, without any degree of egotism was able to say, "I am the good shepherd" in one of these pretty little stories, which he relates there, says that he would leave the ninety and nine and search for the lost sheep how long, think you? He gives us to understand that he would wander through the forests, over the mountains, in the dells, in the darkest caverns of the universe until he finds it. And so we do not limit the power of God, the wisdom of God, or the love of God, but acknowledging that He is omnipotent in all His attributes, and has absolute power that cannot be described by the stammering tongue of man, we are led to believe that He will work His eternal purposes, until the ultimatum shall reveal the fact that the last wandering child shall have been rescued from the vortex into which sin and humanity's weaknesses have hurled him.

Now this cannot be accomplished in this probationary condition. It is admitted by all creeds and societies that if this was the object of God at the beginning, it has failed, so far as its having been accomplished in this life, is concerned. The record is quite prolific in statements that reveal this thought, that so far as this life is concerned the path is so narrow that very few there be that go in thereat. And so we have sometimes heard the choir sing,

All hail the power of Jesus name,
Let Angels prostrate fall,
Bring forth the royal diadem,
And crown him Lord of all.

And as soon as the choir was seated, the parson, from his text, would begin to urge upon the people the fact that the devil was an eternal jailer, and a perpetual turnkey; God's great representatives, in the dark pit beneath, over which he presided throughout the eternal years, as prince of hell. Thus you discover the parson contradicts the choir, and not wishing to be guilty of such an offense tonight I have selected my text from that which the choir sung to us.

Is it a fact that the devil will be an eternal jailer? The Latter Day Saints have been accused of being narrow-minded, contracted in their theological views, but we are here to say tonight, that keeping in strict touch with the divine word, we can afford to be broader than those who accuse us of narrow-mindedness. We refuse to believe that God made a successful rival in the personage of Satan, or that he has a successful rival in this character; and so, turning to the record, we learn that it is the purpose of Jesus Christ to "destroy the works of the devil," 1 John 3: 8, while creedology gives him an everlasting situation as prince of the damned. If I can read this New Testament aright, it tells me this story of the hope that Jesus Christ was manifest for this purpose; that he might destroy the works of the devil and that he will rule, and govern and control until Satan, his enemy, is bound, imprisoned, and the kingdom, glorious and triumphant, is handed over to the Father who shall be all in all. See 1 Tim. 2: 6; John 12: 32; Rev. 1: 18; Col. 2: 15; Rev. 20: 1; 2 Tim. 1: 10; 1 Cor. 15: 25, 26, 54, 55; Heb. 2: 14; Phil. 2: 10; Rev. 5: 18.

Now we must look beyond the grave, as the place and time where Jesus shall accomplish much of this great work—the redemption of man. He informs us, as we find recorded in the 16th of Matthew, "Upon this rock I will build my church, and the gates of hell shall not prevail against it." Now I know that I must be brief tonight; I want to show you just one point in connection with this text. A large and respectably and worthy portion of the religious world takes the position upon this text, that therein Jesus made promise that no error would be permitted to creep into the church; that He would protect it, and that His representatives would never go astray as far as doctrine was concerned; and that He would so protect his church that it would never go into apostasy. I fail to see a single hint of such a promise in this text. Jesus in this text does not say that the powers of earth shall not overcome the church. He is talking about another country. He does not refer to what shall transpire upon the earth, he is referring to something that is going to be enacted in hell. He says after this wondrous truth that Jesus is the Christ, with all that it may mean—and I cannot go into that tonight—after this wonderful fact with all that is couched within it, "even the gates of hell shall not prevail against it." And so we may examine the scriptures with regard to the work that may be performed on the other side of the grave, or in hell, if you please, and see whether this prophecy has met or will meet with fulfillment.

It is a fact, demonstrated by every protestant sect, that there has been an apostasy from original christianity, else why the necessity for a reformation? To the protestant world let me appeal tonight; if Catholicism has remained pure in doctrine and church organization, you have no business in a protestant church. But what do the protestants say in regard to this matter? Taking up the book of "Homilies on Perils of Idolatry," p. 261, appointed to be read in the time of Queen Elizabeth, when the church of England was brought into existence by an act of Parliament, I read: "Laity and clergy, learned and unlearned, all ages, sects, and degrees of men, women and children, of whole Christendom (an horrible and most dreadful thing to think) have been at once drowned in abominable idolatry, of all other vices, most detested of God, and damnable to man, and that by the space of eight hundred years and more." I might occupy the time tonight and cull from protestants, such as Buck, Mosheim, Wesley, Bowers and others to prove there has been an apostasy upon the earth, that the gates of hell had prevailed. If that is what it means Jesus would have been made a false prophet; but it is too late in the day to try to prove the Son of Mary a false prophet. Our hope depends on His being all that He claimed to be, and so we look for a fulfillment. I hurriedly turn your attention to a few passages from the Old Testament relative to the subject. You may take these down and examine them at your leisure. Isaiah 24th and 42d chapters, Zechariah 9th chapter, together with Ephesians 4th chapter, Ezekiel 32: 18-32, give us a little information with regard to those who pass from this stage of action to try the realities of that other world. We are told here of whole nations that have "gone down to hell," "to the sides of the pit," "to the netherly parts of the earth." We are told in these chapters that they are prisoners of hope; note this cheering thought, prisoners of hope. The reason for this hope is given in these chapters, in that it is said they are to be visited after many days. In the tenth chapter of Hebrews we are told who is going to make this visit—"He that is to shed His blood to seal the covenant." David, in describing this hero who is to make a triumphant march in hell, there describes Him as a personage that is to be free among the dead; the shackles of death shall not hold Him, the furies are powerless to stay Him in His triumphant, victorious march through hell—free among the dead. (Psalms 88: 5-11) Who was this character who shed His blood to seal the covenant? Every man, woman and almost every child in this audience who has been privileged to attend the Sabbath School, will tell us that this personage is none other than Jesus the Christ. Now, did He fulfill this prophecy? I hurriedly draw your attention to the New Testament upon this thought. Jesus, as recorded by John, 5: 25, informs us that the "dead are to hear His voice." Paul informs us in the fourth chapter of Ephesians, "He that ascended," and you will all say that was Jesus, "He that ascended was the same also that descended, first into the lower parts of the earth, that he might fill all things."

Now, let me draw your attention to this closing thought: He descended into the lower parts of the earth that He might fill all things. Allow me to digress a moment. In Chicago during the World's Fair, I heard an individual deliver a lecture in which he made use of this statement, that the "Sword of christianity has been bathed in blood, from Bethlehem's barn until this present hour, and I have no use for the one-horse God of the Jews," referring in this statement to Jesus the Christ. Why did this individual say that he had no use for the one-horse God of the Jews? Every one will acknowledge that a one-horse blacksmith shop, carpenter shop or grocery, is a business on a small scale. When I heard that man make that statement it caused me to think, Who taught that individual that Jesus was a one-horse God? The creeds that say that only the few who have been fortunate enough to hear Him or His message in this life, they only, and no other, will be saved; these creeds have taught that Jesus was a one-horse God. The statisticians tell us that less than one billion, out of the one hundred and forty-three, would be saved; and if that were true Jesus would only be a one-horse God. So I took the privilege of contradicting the gentleman, and he treated me very kindly; being small he indulged me somewhat, and being nicely treated, I took up the two points referred to. First I tried to show that the creeds and parsons who had taught him that Jesus had only made provisions to save the few who, in this life, had the privilege of hearing the gospel, had misrepresented God's great plan regarding human redemption, and that the Fenny, Furness, Spurgeon, Wesley, Edwards, Moody, Benson, and in a word, the idea of the hell fire and blister doctrine, as taught by those men, and their followers, was as revolting to justice and mercy, as it was silly and unscriptural. Second, I took the position that the sword of christianity had never shed one drop of blood and offered evidence to support my claim.

While the old gentleman petted me, being a youth, and he drew it very mildly on me, he said, "My friend, if you had read the history of christianity, you would not have made a display of your dimnuitiveness on this occasion. Have you not read that John Calvin burned Servetus at the stake? Have you not read that John Knox burned the very monastery down in which he received much of his education? Have you not read that Henry the Eighth slew hundreds of Catholics, and that Catholicism has slain her thousands? Have you not read that over fifteen million men have been martyrs to the christian religion?" "Yes, sir," I answered, "I am aware of that, but I am not here as an apologist for John Knox, John Calvin, Queen Elizabeth or King Henry the Eighth. I am here in defense of the Man who said "love your enemies," and he that smites you on one cheek turn to him the other; the character that stands behind the christian religion never inspired His followers to shed a drop of blood, but rather to suffer."

Now, back to the thought. Jesus was the one that ascended, you all acknowledge that; if you do not I turn your attention to first chapter of the Acts of the apostles, where the men, gazing heavenward, saw two personages standing before them, saying, "Ye men of Galilee, why stand ye gazing up into heaven? This same Jesus, which is taken up from you, into heaven, shall so come in like manner as ye have seen him go into heaven." I quote this just to support the thought that He ascended, and Paul says, "He that ascended, is the same also that descended, first into the lower parts of the earth that he might fill all things." He is not a one-horse God then, but is going to "fill all things." He declared, "If I be lifted up, I will draw all men unto me." Did He descend into the lower parts of the earth? I take up the Church of England's Prayer Book and the Catholic Catechism and read: "As it is to be believed that Jesus rose from the dead, so also it is to be believed that He descended into hell." And I stop and ask the question, If he descended into hell why did He go there? What was His purpose in descending into hell? The Bible says He did, your creed says He did, now why? If there is no hope beyond the grave, why did He go there? You would not tell me He went just merely to tantalize those who were suffering in Satan's dominion, and say, "I told you so." If He were to say that, millions would rise and say, "Who ever you are, sir, we never saw you or heard of you." Millions would rise and say, "Who ever you are, free among the dead as you seem to be, we do not recognize you." And that would be true. So that He could not say "you shunned my counsel upon the earth, and hence you are from this time forth turned from the sunny way that leads to the true life; you have chosen this part." No, He could not say that, because, it would not be true, they had no opportunity to hear Him, for the most part.

But what does the Scriptures say that He did do, when He went there and led captivity captive and gave gifts unto men. That is what the Psalmist said He would do. Peter throws some light on this (third chapter of 1 Peter), "Christ also hath once suffered for sins, the just for the unjust, that he might bring us to God, being put to death in the flesh, but quickened by the Spirit; by which also he went and preached unto the spirits in prison; which sometime were disobedient, when once the long suffering of God waited in the days of Noah, while the ark was a preparing, wherein few, that is, eight souls were saved by water. The like figure whereunto baptism doth also now save us." Of course you who believe that baptism does not save us will excuse me for quoting this.

This record informs us that He preached to the spirits in prison, that is what the prophets in the Old Testament said He would do, and they went back into their history, back to the ante-diluvian times, to the days of the flood and refers to the millions of earth's sons and daughters who were born in ignorance, lived in ignorance, and who had died in ignorance, from the flood to the time of Christ who had never heard the name or felt the power of the Christ in earth-life, yet they would hear Him in their prison home. These were the people referred to, and of whom we are told were prisoners of hope, to be visited after many days; so we found Him there speaking to the spirits in prison. Now why did he preach to them? The next chapter throws light on the thought and says that because He was the judge of the quick and the dead he preached to them that they might live according to God in the spirit but be judged according to man in the flesh. So we find Him preaching to spirits in prison that they might live according to God in the spirit and be judged according to man in the flesh.

A very pretty story is told in the Book of Nicodemus. You people will remember reading of Nicodemus, that wonderful character who came to Jesus by night, referred to in the 3d chapter of John. Well, there is a book in the world said to have been written by this character in which He describes Christ's visit to hell. The Book of Nicodemus is found in the work called "The Apocryphal New Testament." The story says that when the Master approached the prison house or hell, Satan and his angels knew and feared him. The prince of hell shouted, "Shut the brass gates of cruelty and make them fast with iron bars and fight courageously, lest we be taken captives." When the promised conqueror of death, hell and Satan arrived before those mighty "gates of hell" they flew wide ajar; entering, He displayed His omnipotence and commenced the work of preaching to the "prisoners of hope." Doubtless Satan endeavored to encourage his angels and they perhaps intended to be brave and obedient to their cruel leader. But when the voice of the meek and lowly yet mighty Christ was heard, it is said that they concealed themselves behind the sooty doors, and the conquering Christ approached them with these words, "Lift up your heads, oh ye gates; and be ye lifted up, ye everlasting doors; and the King of glory shall come in." (Psa. 24: 7-10). Now I draw your attention to this thought that in both of these passages in the Book of Nicodemus and also in the Psalms the word gate is referred to. Are they the gates referred to. Are they the Master when he said, "The gates of hell shall not prevail against it?" He had to go there or all these prophecies would have failed. He came to do the will of God, and the will of God was that man should be saved, and in order to reach the great majority of those who had never been reached before He came He had to go to hell, and the record said He should go, and the record said He did go. I fancy I see Him there, making strides towards those brass gates. I see Him there, grappling in deadly conflict with Apolyon, struggling for the supremacy of worlds and after that struggle was over and the victory won He arose triumphant over hell and the grave, giving to earth's burdened children, who were then feebly following Him, this wondrous promise, "Because I live you shall live also."

In closing let me draw your attention to the thought referred to in the 1st chapter of Revelation; there we are told that on a bright Sunday morning—"The Lord's day" it is called—John the beloved, yet the prisoner of Romish hatred, was exiled there on that rocky shore, and while he sat amid the shadows of the gray dawn of that Sunday morning a bright messenger appeared to him from glory and said, "I am he that liveth and was dead; and behold, I am alive forever more, Amen; and have the keys of hell and of death." How did He have the keys of hell? He went there for them. He went there for that express purpose, to conquer that which was never conquered before and to destroy the works of the devil. He held the keys and authority and power over hell, and so we find over hers in the 5th chapter what He is going to do. It is said in this 5th chapter of Revelation, "Every creature which is in heaven and on the earth, and under the earth, and such as are in the sea, and all that are in them, heard I saying, Blessing, and honour, and glory and power, be unto him that sitteth upon the throne, and unto the Lamb forever and ever." So then he recognizes that Jesus Christ is the hero of every struggle, the chief among ten thousand, the one altogether lovely, the hope of this world and every other.

Now how this is to be brought about, when it is all to be accomplished, I cannot say; but I have this to say, as I listened to the sweet voices behind me tonight, singing that wondrous song—"Jesus is risen, and man shall not die," I thought—clustering around that unique figure—that man without a shadow in the world was the hope of the universe, and so I present to you these scattered thoughts, praying that they may help you so that you may love Him more and serve Him better in this life. I thank you.

"INSTANT IN SEASON."

Dear Ensign:—Once more I want to use your columns to chat a while with the dear brothers and sisters of like precious faith; a privilege I highly prize, as the opportunity to chat face to face with even one or two, is so seldom mine. However I have been permitted, by the grace of God, to visit the few Saints at Newport News, seeing 'all of them but Sr. Harland; I went, in company with Srs. Rand and Taylor, to call on her, but she was absent from home. I regretted not seeing her very much; I had set so many times to go to Newport News and had been disappointed each time, and I often wonder if my disappointments were indeed His appointments in these cases. I believe all our disappointments are, and when I am disappointed, I like to "watch out," as the children say, for the why, for there always is a why to every thing God does, even to thwarting our little plans. And I wonder if the why in this case was that I might meet just the parties I did meet, and have just the conversation with them I did have; and I wonder too, if I said all God would have me to say, or if I kept back any part of the message He wished me to deliver.

One of the bluest blooded of the blue-blooded "F. F. Vs." [First Families Virginians] was the first lady with whom I had a conversation, and she was very pleasant and nice though she lost no time in letting me know her station in life. She is a noted lawyer's wife, and from appearances is quite wealthy. Gradually I turned the conversation into a religious channel, mentioning the Apostolic church, when she said she had often heard of Mr. D's church, and then I remarked how strange it was that there should be so many different churches and all claiming to be right, and all finding or claiming to find their different and conflicting doctrines in the word of God. "Yes," she replied, "And I cannot see how any can help but see that all are wrong in one thing." What is that? I queried. "In keeping Sunday for the Sabbath." She was a Methodist, I believe she said, but had been attending the tent meetings of the Seventh Day Adventists, and said they had made the Bible so plain to her, and she felt they were right?

I gave her some reasons for not keeping Saturday, that she had never heard before; she argued that Christ was our example and he kept the seventh day Sabbath and so should we. He was circumcized, too and kept the passover, and other Jewish rites and feasts, BEFORE HIS RESURRECTION, and thus fulfilled all the law; and after his resurrection He instituted a new order of things, as He was Lord of the Sabbath, and had fulfilled the law concerning the old Sabbath under the old covenant; so in the new covenant He sets apart a new day even the first day of the week, and I could see the wisdom, and love of God in this? It would have been impossible for the early disciples to have met together, on the seventh day of the week, without breaking the Jewish law that they were under to some extent, the national laws I mean, which were in force among themselves even though they were under Roman government; and as they would ever be watching for something to accuse the early Christians of, how gladly would they have charged them with Sabbath breaking, had they rode on beasts of any kind or even walked farther than the allotted Sabbath day's journey. But they were at liberty on the first day of the week to celebrate it in any manner they chose; so we find them always coming together on the first day of the week and Christ meeting with them before His ascension, thus sanctioning their meeting together on that day; also sanctioning the same by the giving of the Holy Ghost on Pentecost, which was the first day of the week or "the morrow after the Sabbath." (See Lev. 23:15.) And by a careful, unprejudiced reading of the new Testament it is clearly seen that the early Christians did not keep any other day as the Lord's day, but the first day of the week. Before I left the boat I told what my faith was and she seemed never to have heard of the Latter Day Saints at all; I gave her some tracts and leaflets containing the epitome of our faith and she promised to read them. "What will the harvest be?"

Another young lady member of the same Christian Church that I was in Pennsylvania—not that branch of it known as Campbellite or disciple church—made my acquaintance, or I made hers, and found her an intelligent and earnest young woman. We were soon talking on the subject of churches and doctrines when I told her our faith, though I first gave her a tract "The Law of Life" to read, as it was raining, and passengers were glad of something to pass away time. She said it was excellent and she would be glad to read more. She had heard some Utah elders preach once, and was not aware that there was another kind of "Mormon." She seemed to see the necessity of a restored gospel, as I pointed out to her how the early church lost its authority, when the "Man child was taken up to heaven," and admitted that the authority could only be restored again by the one who first gave it. It was good to see the lighting up of her countenance as a new (to her) truth was shown her. She gave me her name and address, that I might notify her when Bro. Goodrich would have meetings again, and said if she was back in the city then she would try to attend. She was going to the country for her health, and did not know when she would be back. I gave her several tracts and leaflets and told her I wanted to leave my testimony with her as to the truth of this gospel; that I had had many evidences of its truthfulness.

I know no one in Newport News, and as Sr. Taylor did not receive my last letter, telling her I was coming, I would have been in a bad predicament had not providence so ordered it that a gentleman whom I had met several years ago at his brother-in-law's house, a near neighbor of mine in the country, was on board, and having lived in Newport News until recently, was going there again with an elderly lady, his wife's sister, and two nieces from Tennessee; their route lay almost all the way in the direction I wished to go, and he directed me right to Sr. Taylor's door. Was it providence too, that made me forget my lunch and threw me on the mercy of these people for something to eat, which they kindly offered me, thus opening the way for our acquaintance, and for my finding out who this gentleman was, as I would not have recognized him? I found the lady was a Methodist, and yet she was not a Methodist. She was a reader and a thinker, and held many views I am sure would not be recognized as orthodox. She read the tract I gave the young lady, and was well pleased with it, so I gave her a little word glimpse of the kingdom, explaining a little of the differences between us and the Utah church, and gave her some tracts. So the seed of the kingdom may be quite widely scattered, and I can only trust that it will fall on good ground.

Expecting to come back Monday morning, I went to the wharf at the regular hour, and found the boat on which I came down was not going to return, and I would have to wait till the next morning, and return on another boat. This gave me an opportunity to explain the gospel to a young lady who lives in the house with Sr. Taylor, and I thanked God for the privilege, and hope He will open her eyes to see the truth as it is in Jesus. On board the next day I met a W. C. T. U. lady, a Methodist, and one in whom I felt an interest as soon as I saw her; and I talked much with her, mostly sowing seed for thoughts, and stirring the soil a little at the same time, to prepare for future seed sowing let it be by whom it may. Oh may the Holy Spirit drive the ploughshare of truth through all their hearts and fit the soil for the reception of the good seed.

I attend the ladies' meeting for the study of the scriptures, and oh, how I wish the opportunity was mine that belongs to the leader of that meeting. Will I be condemned for coveting that, when I long so for just such an opportunity? However I do drop a thought now and then but it is not as well received as I could hope, but all things come to those who wait and trust. Speaking of the Galveston horror, the leader told of a certain Dr. Buchanan, who prophesied the fall of Galveston ten years ago I think it was, "prophesied it now," she said "prophesied it" with emphasis. "That is not strange," said I, "of course there were to be prophets in these latter days." "Yes." "Have you ever read any of Joseph Smith's prophecies concerning the things that should come to pass in the latter days?" "No, I never have read Joseph Smith, for I do not believe in Joseph Smith." "No?" "Well, I do. I believe he was a prophet sent of God. Then I told her how in one revelation he said, "Thus saith the Lord, * * * and after your testimony cometh the testimony of thunders, lightnings and of earthquakes, and of the voice of the tempests, and of the sea heaving herself beyond her bounds," etc. And they admitted that these things were more often seen now than formerly. The lessons are on the second coming of Christ, and I marvel that people who get so much light will refuse to see more, unless they are so blinded by the sudden brightness that has shown around them that they cannot see any farther light present. Bro. D. preached on the healing of the blind man not long ago, and said when he saw, he knew it. While shaking hands with him I said, "Brother, I want to tell you that I see." "God bless you, sister, I'm glad you do all." "But, brother, I did not see all at once, and you know one man that Christ healed, after Christ had anointed him once with the clay, only saw men as trees walking, and it took another anointing too before he saw clearly." "Yes," said he, "and I presume there was quite a distance between where this blind man was and the pool of Siloam, and he did not receive his sight, or did not see clearly, till after he was washed." * * * "That was the way with me, brother, I saw, but I see more clearly since I have been washed." Oh, I praise God for the gospel light.

I must tell you how wonderfully the Lord has dealt with me on the line of healing. After I had testified to His healing me I was attacked with rheumatism in the left half of my chest from my waist up, and it was agony even to breathe; I could hardly endure the awful crushed-in sensation, as if I was between two millstones, and the burr being tightened; I can hardly describe it. I felt it was permitted as a test of my faith, and would not use any of the many remedies suggested by friends, for I had said I had taken God as my healer, and I did not intend to share the honor with another. One Sunday night while at prayer before retiring, and asking God to relieve me, if it was His will, that I might be able to do the work required of me, and as evidence that my work in the gospel, such as it is, was accepted of Him, something seemed to say, You need not ask for that any more, no use to pray for that any longer; and I felt as if I could not have asked again. I retired with the misery as severe as before, but left it in His hands who doeth all things well, and felt an assurance that I would be healed, and the next morning every vestige of the pain and soreness had disappeared, and has not troubled me much since. Having to get rid of my servant I sometimes find my shoulders aching from fatigue, but a little rest and they are all right again. I am so thankful.

Well, as usual, I have written a long letter and hope it will not be crowding out something better, for I do want to talk with you all. As ever,

Your sister in bonds,
ALICE R. CORSON.

3830 4th St., FULTON,
RICHMOND, VA., Nov. 1.

JOTS BY THE WAYSIDE.

BY T. W. CHATBURN.

The Southern California conference, lately ended, was largely attended, the good Spirit attending in all its deliberations; the social meeting was exceptionally good and very encouraging. Uncle Alexander, Joseph Burton, T. W. Williams, Elbert A. Smith and the writer were the speakers. Sunday School convention and Religion were also well attended and a fine interest was manifested throughout all the sessions of both. Bro. D. A. Anderson gave valuable assistance, adding to the effectiveness of these auxiliaries in the district.

Bro. T. W. Williams was elected district president, which will give him "room that he may dwell" more conspicuously about the district, which will be greatly appreciated. Bro. Albert Carmichael, relieved, feels lightened from one of the many burdens imposed on his faithful head.

Bro. Anderson and the writer will try street preaching for a time in Riverside and Redlands.

Weather is hot and dry, the drouth is still on, many anxious faces are looking heavenward for a sign of welcome rains, those harbingers of beauty and plenty.

No where in the wide world do the rains typify more fully than in this climate, the coming morn of the resurrection. For months the earth has laid brown and bare, all the grasses upon the hillsides and fields are dead, as the physical man when he is laid away in his earthly sepulcher.

But as for man there is to come another morning of life and advancement, so, to this land with the expected winter rains, an awakening of life and of beautiful growth such as seems most marvelous to one who is not acquainted with the conditions of nature and rapidity of growth here. Two months hence, with abundant rain fall, southern California will look like another world, all the brownness of fields and hillsides will have vanished and they will be garmented with rich grasses, jeweled with multitudinous flowers, and we shall hear the voices of rushing waters, cheering the hearts of the husbandman, as they go rushing on to the sea, and the song of the waterfall as it leaps from hillside and mountain; clouds will sweep across these blue skies in angry battalions, giving their gushing rains to enliven the bubbling springs by the mountain sides, piercing the air with their silvery lances, bringing life and animation to millions of the slumbering vegetation; the sun will burst forth, flooding the world with warmth and glory, bringing growth, life, wealth and color, and the resurrection will be complete.

It is not the slow transition that comes with an eastern spring, but the exuberant, swift unfolding of life; today will be a soft mist of green, tomorrow millions of tiny blades are lifted above the sod, each miniature spear perfect in form and glorious in color; the skies will look more clear, and as if it never bore a cloud; the air takes on more telescopic powers, a new life of radiance and beauty is opening, for it's nature's resurrection morning.

No one thoughtfully watching this marvelous renewal of life in the material world, this quickening of the dead, but will gather from it the lesson of man's immortality. Who cannot hear the melody of hope in every springing blade of grass, in every unfolding flower? Man, the crowning glory of creation, is not to be left to unending death; when, year by year, new life comes to all nature, surely the highest of all created things is not to be left to perish, for the emblem of His resurrection is found in all growing things. There is a glorious tomorrow for these dead fields and brown hills; for the hushed rivers and sleeping streams. With man it's the glad tomorrow of a better life, the glory of a new being and the freshness of eternal day. His spring time will come we feel assured; after the wintry blasts, the hush and silence of the grave, will come his glorious resurrection.

We noticed an eulogistic letter of late from Tennessee in which ye jots man came in for a slight share in "that if we had never built wiser we had built larger than we knew." Wrong, brother, we "knew" of two in one district, each of which were larger and finished from foundation to belfry. We admit it looks rather large for a thirty day job from the stump, but we feel assured now, if we could be permitted thirty days more, with

HEART DISEASES TREATED FREE.

THE CELEBRATED CHICAGO HEART SPECIALIST, FRANKLIN MILES, M. D., LL. B., WILL SEND $2.50 WORTH OF HIS NEW INDIVIDUAL TREATMENT FREE.

The afflicted reader will certainly never have a better chance to try a new and highly recommended Treatment for Heart Disease, complicated with Headache, Dizziness, Dullness, Neuralgia, Backache, Weak Stomach, Nervousness, Sleeplessness, Strabismus, etc.

Dr. Miles' Individual Treatment is the latest result of twenty-five years of laborious investigation and extensive experience, and his New Treatment is eminently scientific, and proves as successful as the usual methods.

Many hundreds of prominent people have testified to the almost miraculous results of this new treatment. The Doctor has for years been well and favorably known as a leading specialist in these diseases, and his offer should certainly be accepted by the afflicted reader.

Hundreds of so called "Incurable" cases have been cured by this new system of personal treatment by mail. A thousand references to and from Bishops, Clergymen, Physicians, Lawyers, Farmers, etc. testify to the fact. Mr. C. M. Buck, a prominent banker of Faribault, Minnesota, was cured after six eminent physicians of Chicago and elsewhere had failed. Mr. J. S. Zent, of Indianapolis, State Representative of the New York Life Insurance Co. was cured after failure of many physicians.

Dr. Miles has had twenty-five years of experience, and he is well and favorably known throughout the country. He has an able and extensive corps of assistants and investigators in his private offices. He has patients in every State, Territory, Canada, Mexico, South America, Alaska, Africa and New Zealand. He cordially invites the afflicted to write to him. Candid advice given without charge.

You may never have another such an opportunity. Do not fail to write for $2.50 worth of free treatment. Address Dr. FRANKLIN MILES, 201 to 209 State Street, Chicago. Please mention this paper and carefully describe your case.

the same faithful force and energy, it would be fully completed, and from its tolling bell would be heard the pealing tones and sentiment of the inspiring words:

Ye slumbering nations, who've slept a long night.

My address until otherwise ordered will be Santa Ana, California.

SAN BERNARDINO, CAL., NOV. 13.

The Irl R. Hicks 1901 Almanac.

Whatever may be said of the scientific causes upon which the Rev. Irl R. Hicks bases his yearly forecasts of storm and weather, it is a remarkable fact that specific warnings of every great storm, flood, cold wave and drouth, have been plainly printed in his now famous Almanac for many years. The latest startling proof of this fact was the destruction of Galveston, Texas, on the very day named by Prof. Hicks in his 1900 Almanac, as one of disaster by storm along the gulf coasts. The 1901 Almanac, by far the finest, most complete and beautiful yet published, is now ready. This remarkable book of near 200 pages, splendidly illustrated with charts and half-tone engravings, goes as a premium to every subscriber who pays $1.00 a year for Prof. Hicks' journal, Word and Works. The Almanac alone is sent prepaid for only 25 cents. Order from Word and Works Publishing Company, 2201 Locust Street, St. Louis, Missouri.

Look over our price list on page 7 and see if you cannot find something for Christmas presents. What would be more suitable than a copy of Elder Joseph Luff's Autobiography at 75 cents?

EXHORTATIONS.

Being desirous of discharging duty as a deacon in the church and not being an officer in a branch, I will endeavor to write a few words for the "silent preacher," ZION'S ENSIGN.

We are instructed to exhort each other as we see the day of the Lord approaching. We are evidenced by what is now transpiring and by what has been transpiring during the present century, that these are the latter days, and the times of the restitution of all things.

Then let us all try to so live that we may endure and not be overcome and destroyed by the tide of evil that is spreading and increasing in the world. Let us be prayerful and diligent, to add to our faith virtue, etc., that we may not fall or fail.

A DEACON.

Best Way to Treat a Sprain.

In treating a sprain wrap a folded flannel out of boiling water by laying it in a thick towel and twisting the ends in opposite directions; shake it to cool it a little, lay it on the painful part and cover it with a piece of dry flannel.

SAINTS who contemplate making Independence their home, or those already here, who desire to secure a lot in eligible, well situated property, would do well to see the Wilson Lawn addition, owned by Bro. Ellis Short and situated near Pacific Bridge, Independence.

We are now filling orders for Bro. T. C. Kelley's fine treatise on the "More Excellent Way." Sr. M. Brearley of Michigan, in ordering copies, says of it: "I have read it in the ENSIGN and desire it very much for some of my friends who are investigating our faith, and in booklet form it is just the thing." Send in your orders. Ten cents each.

NOTICE.

To all who expect to buy or move to Independence with a view of residing here permanently—I am prepared to furnish you with all the information needed in regard to real estate, if you will enclose stamp for reply.

Your brother, W. S. LOAN.

HOW IS THIS? Books and Pamphlets

Table with 2 columns: Title and Price. Includes 'Combination No. 1—$1.00' and 'From Palmyra to Independence'.

All the above post paid to any address for $1.00. Palmyra to Independence will be sent in cloth cover for 30 cents extra, or Book of Mormon vindicated in cloth cover for 20 cents extra, or both for 50 cents extra.

Table with 2 columns: Title and Price. Includes 'Combination No. 2—$1.00' and 'Spiritual Gifts and the Sear of Palmyra'.

This combination will also be sent to any address on receipt of $1.00. For either of the above the cash must accompany the order.

Address: ENSIGN PUBLISHING HOUSE, Independence, Mo.

OUR ANGELS' WHISPER. Family Re-ister, Marriage Certificate, Love's Prayers and other pictures are quick sellers.

$495. Will buy 44 acres with four room cottage, barn, well, etc., in west Lamoni.

GRAGELAND COLLEGE, LAMONI, IOWA.

Send for Catalogue, to I. W. ALLENDER, Secretary, Lamoni, Iowa.

ANYONE in a position to use church literature to good advantage apply to M. H. Clark, Box 4, Station A, Kansas City, Missouri.

PRICE LIST

Table with 2 columns: Title and Price. Includes 'FROM PALMYRA TO INDEPENDENCE', 'SPIRITUAL GIFTS AND THE SEAR OF PALMYRA', 'THE BOOK OF MORMON VINDICATED', etc.

SERMON PAMPHLETS.

Table with 2 columns: Title and Price. Includes 'The following pamphlets 5 cents each, 3 for 10 cents, 6 for 15 cents, or 25 cents per dozen'.

STATE SAVINGS BANK OF LAMONI.

Incorporated under the laws of the State of Iowa, July 1, 1898. Offers depositors a safe bank for their savings, and solicits the correspondences and deposits of all Ensign readers.

Broken Bric-a-Bracs.

Mr. Major, the famous cement man of New York, explains some very interesting facts about Major's Cement. The multitudes who use this standard article know that it is many hundred per cent better than other cements for which similar claims are made.

The profit on Major's Cement is as much as any dealer ought to make on any cement. Major tells us that his only object is to make larger profit.

THEY ADMIT IT.

Bro. Hull; Chauncey, Ohio, says we saved him $12.00 on a $15.00 suit. Bro. Farrell, West Sullivan, Maine, writes that we saved him $5.00 on a $7.00 suit.

QUIT-TO-BAC

CURES THE TOBACCO HABIT. 3 BOXES, POSTPAID, $1.50 (U.S. Stamps or Money Order).

QUIT-TO-BAC

CURES THE TOBACCO HABIT. With Positive Guarantee of Cure, or Money Cheerfully Refunded. You Run No Risk; why not try it and be a free man?

SPALDING'S COMMERCIAL COLLEGE. Largest. Best. 35th Year. Free Employment Bureau.

DR. JOS. MATHER, PHYSICIAN.

Office at Residence, 301 S. Spring St., INDEPENDENCE, MO. CALLS ANSWERED NIGHT OR DAY. Phone 110-3.

CANCER CURED

WITH SOOTHING, BALMY OILS. Cancer, Tumor, Catarrh, Piles, Fistula, Ulcers, Eczema and all Skin and Wound Diseases.

$5.00 BOX RAIN COAT. This Regular $5.00 Waterproof Mackintosh for $2.75.

SUBSCRIBE FOR THE College City Chronicle. The Leading Local Paper of LAMONI, IOWA.

R. R. TIME TABLES.

Table with 2 columns: Train Name and Schedule. Includes 'MISSOURI PACIFIC—MAIN LINE DEPOT', 'TRAINS WEST', 'TRAINS EAST'.

CHICAGO & ALTON.

Table with 2 columns: Train Name and Schedule. Includes 'EAST BOUND', 'WEST BOUND'.

Daughters of Zion.

"OUR AIM, MANKIND TO BLESS."

MRS. H. B. CURTIS, Editor.

The Daughters of Zion is an organization in the church, of mothers and others who are interested in the welfare of our homes. Under the supervision of the general society, local societies are established, where they may meet to consider together their work as home keepers, and as molders of character. Their purpose is to increase love for the home, to promote social purity, to study the problem of child care and development; that thus they may better prepare themselves for their responsibility as wives and mothers, and that from the home may go the influence that shall fulfill their aim, which is "mankind to bless." Have you a local in your branch? If not, can you not organize one? Send to the corresponding secretary for constitutions. The Advisory Committee will be pleased to hear from you, and will gladly furnish you any assistance in their power. Send your list of names of members to the recording secretary.

ADVISORY COMMITTEE.

- Mrs. Mary E. Hulmes, President, Independence, Missouri.
- Mrs. H. H. Robinson, Corresponding Secretary, Independence, Missouri.
- Mrs. B. C. Smith, Independence, Missouri.
- Mrs. Lucina Etzenhouser, 2417 Prospect St., Kansas City, Missouri.
- Mrs. Clara Frick, Independence, Missouri.
- Mrs. Callie B. Stebbins, Recording Secretary, Lamoni, Iowa.
- Mrs. Ann Murphy, Treasurer, Independence, Missouri.

Editor's address, 3188 Olive St., St. Louis, Missouri.

GIRLS be gentle. In this exhortation lies the call to that higher, better womanhood, the like of which is not an every day sight.

By gentleness I mean, possessing love, charity, hope and good cheer; withholding the harsh or unkind word, but ready always to speak the word of encouragement.

How often do we hear that it is by the well doing of little things we are made strong. It is very seldom the great magnificent opportunities come our way. Like the birds we must build with bits of stick and straw, a few threads or a leaf or two, but in the end, lo, we have a habitation. Sound each note truly and your life will be a psalm.

I have learned that the secret of true gentleness lies in the genuine love of humankind. Not merely to say we love our brother, and have no charity for him, nor patience with his imperfections. We must feel that love in our heart.

If we but try to appreciate the wonderful patience of God towards us, we cannot fail to have patience and love for one who is like unto us in weakness and in strength. It needs the charity to think well of people, to attribute the best and not the most selfish motives to their acts, and to believe in the ultimate triumph of righteousness and truth, though the heavens fall. Learn to be so truly sorry for the wrong doer that patience and gentleness must follow.

Never for one moment lower your standard of womanhood, no matter how much the circumstances seem to make it allow able, and in the end you will be glad.

I once heard this remark, "I had rather be called Jack, or a good fellow by the men of my acquaintance, than be one of those little mousey girls, afraid to call my soul my own." Think, you girls, what kind of a Latter Day Saint wife would that girl make. A girl does not need to be bold to be attractive, nor "mousey" to be gentle. I like a girl with plenty of spirit, but always showing in her acts the controlling power.

Do not renounce your throne nor queenship for the cap and bells of the court jester.

KINDNESS.

Love thinketh no evil, imputes no motive, sees the bright side, puts the best construction on every action.—Henry Drummond.

Kindness should ever be our watchword. God was kind even to the unthankful and evil (Luke 6: 35), and are we greater than He? His mercy and kindness endureth forever.

There is no time for us to sit with folded hands. Are we not all workers in God's vineyard? Only by prayer and watchfulness can we overcome our faults and make our lives more Christ-like.

It seems such a small thing for us to speak a kind word, but often it will be the means of helping some fallen one to try and live a better life. Let us strive to "hold up the hands that hang down, and strengthen the feeble knees." If we are strong this is our duty, for be sure of this, we are weak in some points, and have need of that forbearance from God, which we should exercise toward our fellows. Make them truly feel that they are God's children and worthy of being saved. Though you may have to help them many times over hard places, the effort will bring happiness to them and contentment to yourself, in knowing you have endeavored to make one life better. Think always of how often God helps you, and is it because of your own worthiness?

We too often wrap ourselves up in the mantle of selfishness, deaf to all that does not concern us, passing by on the other side, not once heeding the efforts that are being made to attract our attention. If we should happen to hear, we only give a glance and say to ourselves, "Why should I stop, are they not beneath my notice?" They should be made to feel that some one was trying to lighten their burden and lead them up a step higher. It is step by step that we gain the heights of glory.

In the beginning God created all men equal, so why should we draw the line between ourselves and some less fortunate brother or sister? The cry for better, something higher, is all around us; we must not turn a deaf ear, for God will hold us accountable for all the deeds done in this life.

In our homes we should be kind and forbearing with each other's faults, not waiting until they have gone from us forever—then our pleading and promises are all in vain: death has no ears to hear our cries, and the grave sends it back to us—a mocking echo. The present is the time for us to be up and doing, so that when the dark and gloomy day of renunciation comes, we will have the memories of the past to help us bear the burden.

Christ, while upon earth, taught us many lessons, always going about doing good, no matter what was said or done. He lived the right life and was ready to drink the cup, even to the bitter dregs, thinking only to do His Master's will!

Solely try, dear young Daughters of Zion, to live more like Him in everything, each day, to live that day, that hour, right, being determined to do the will of our Father so that not one of us will be left out when He comes. What a happy time it will be for all to meet and rejoice together.

It is my desire to be faithful and work for my Master, so when He calls me to lay down this life I may not be found wanting; that I may have so lived as to have led some one to a higher life, and that my small world here may have been made some better for my having lived in it.

MRS. J. M. BRAIDWOOD, CHICAGO, ILL.

CONFERENCE MINUTES.

Northwest Kansas district conference convened at Idylwild, Kansas, November 3, 1900, Alma Kent in charge, Arthur Smith, secretary pro tem.

Elders reporting, T. E. Thompson, J. A. Davis, A. Kent and L. F. Johnson; Priest L. G. Gurwell.

Branches reporting, Idylwild and Blue Rapids.

Arthur Smith, bishop's agent, reported, amount on hand last report, August 10, 1900, $109.75, tithes received $76.75, paid out, $225.10, amount on hand November 2, $51.10. Bro. Smith also reported he had not received any money to pay for conveyance for district missionaries.

District treasurer, E. Sandy, reported, nothing received since last report, nothing expended, amount on hand $1.53.

Resolved, That this conference grant the request of the Greenleaf Saints to be organized into a branch, and that we will assist and encourage them in their endeavors to build up the kingdom of God in that locality.

Resolution carried unanimously. Adjourned to meet first Saturday and Sunday before full moon in February 1901, at Blue Rapids.

ELLA M. LANDERS, Sec. STOKERTON, KANS., Nov. 15.

NOTICES.

To the Scattered Saints of the Dakotas, Greeting:—I again essay the task which imperative duty urges upon me. As a companion in tribulation I may safely say I comprehend to the fullest extent the severe calamity that has befallen us financially the past season, and my heart goes out in prayerful solicitude that all these things may yet, in the providence of God, work out our highest good. Trying times are upon us, but the duty of the hour is, as of old, "Seek first to build up the kingdom of God." Great emergencies call for heroic remedies, and the gospel spirit is necessarily one of sacrifice. General Conference last spring promptly responded to our petition for more elders, and I am sorry to have to report that the district is already two months in arrears for their family allowances. Dear Saints, having confidence in your generosity and earnest desires for the success of the work which is dear to each one of us, I respectfully solicit your aid, that the demands of the bishop may be honorably met, and that finally we may all receive the divine commendation of our Master, even Jesus Christ.

Yours in the gospel covenant,
WM. SPARLING,
Bishop's Agent.
CLIFFORD, N. D., Nov. 5.

Conference Notices.

The Northeast Texas and Oketa Nation district will convene in district conference at Cove, Arkansas, on the 1st of December (Saturday) at 10 a. m. The report has been circulated that it was to be later, but not so. The district Sunday School convention will meet here on Friday previous. All who are interested in Sunday School work should make it a point to be here on time. We expect a large attendance, so come and have a good time.

J. COLE MOXON, Dist. Sec. COVE, Ark., Nov. 15.

CHANGE OF DATE.

The time of conference at Richmond has been changed from December 8th, as published in ENSIGN for November 15th, to December 1st. All interested please be governed accordingly.

J. L. GOODRICH, 2829 4th street, FULTON, Richmond, Virginia.

A conference will be held at Wilber, Saline county, Nebraska, December 30 and 31, 1900, in and for the Southern Nebraska district. By setting our conference for the above dates it will give us the benefit of moon-light nights, also the usual holiday reduction in railroad fare. Branch officials will please see to have their reports ready and forward in time. We would like a full report of all branches; also of the ministry. We hope for a good attendance of the members as well. Come all who can come and bring the good Spirit of the blessed Master with you, and let us have a season of rejoicing.

J. W. WALDSMITH, Dist. Pres.

Convention Notices.

The Far West Missouri district Religion convention will convene at the brick church in St. Joseph, Missouri, December 14 at 7 p. m. Let all the locals report. Send reports to Miss Carrie Lewis, Stewartsville, Missouri. All ye Religians come and we will have a good time.

WALTER W. SMITH, Dist. Pres. STEWARTSVILLE, MO., Nov. 15.

BLESSED.

EDGERTON.—Delbert Nelson, son of Mr. George and Sr. Frances Edgerton, blessed by Brn. James Comstock and Lewis C. Donaldson.

EDGERTON.—Ruba Alma, daughter of Mr. George and Sr. Francis Edgerton, blessed by Brn. James Comstock and Lewis C. Donaldson.

DONALDSON.—Lorenzo Clark, son of Bro. and Sr. N. B. and Emma Donaldson, born October 21, 1900, blessed by Brn. Henry Kemp and Nathan I. Mortimore.

DIED.

PAUL.—At her home, near Clarkdale, Missouri, November 6, 1900, Sr. Catherine Paul. She was born in Kirchheim, Wurttemberg, Germany, 1829, baptized April 10, 1871, at Birmingham, Outagamie county, Wisconsin, by Elder G. Watson. She was married to Jacob Paul, and to them were born four children, three of whom preceded her—one child is left to mourn—our beloved Bro. Charles—well known in the church. Our beloved sister united with the church some twenty-nine years ago, and has ever sought to honor her profession faithfully until death. She was a member of the German branch and loved the work; always bore a firm testimony to the truth, was generous hearted, kind to the poor, a dutiful wife, and a kind and affectionate mother. Her greatest desire was to prepare her only son that was left, for the ministry. She met with a sad accident two weeks prior to her death in breaking her leg. She was a great sufferer, but patiently waited for the Master's call "Come home." Repeatedly she said, "I want to go home; what a joy it will be when I reach the other shore." Funeral services conducted by Elder Wm. Lewis. Burial in the cemetery of Elder T. T. Hinderiks to a large congregation. Her remains were laid to rest in the German cemetery waiting for the resurrection of the just.

AT PEACE. And I said: She is dead. I would not brook Again on that marvelous face to look. But they took my hand and they led me in. And I led me alone with my nearest kin. Once again in that silent place My beautiful dead and I face to face.

And I could not speak and I could not breathe.
With love and with rapture and with strange surprise
I look on the lips and the close shut eyes.
On the perfect rest and calm content
And the happiness there in her features
And the sweet white hands that had wrought so much
Now carelessly to kisses of fevered touch.
My beautiful dead who had known the strife
The pain and the sorrow that we call life
Who had never faltered beneath her cross,
Nor murmured when loss followed swift on loss.
And the smile that sweetened her lips
Lay light on the blessed mouth that I saw
I stammered from her hair a silver thread,
And I wept, yet I could not think her dead.
I felt with a wonder too deep for speech
She could tell what only the angels stole
And over her mouth I leaned my ear,
Lest there should be something I should not hear,
Then out from silence between us
A message that reached to my innermost soul,
"Why weep you today who have wept before,
That the road was rough I must journey o'er?"
Why mourn that my lips can answer
When anguish and sorrow are both forgot?
Behold all my life I have longed for rest,
Yes, even when I held you on my breast,
And now that I lie in breathless sleep,
Instead of rejoicing you sigh and weep.
My dearest, I know that you would not break
If you could, my slumber, and have not awoke,
For though my life was full of things that bless,
I have never, till now, known happiness.
When I dried my tears, and with lifted head
I left my mother, the beautiful dead.

HEADACHE

Pain back of your eyes? Heavy pressure in your head? And are you sometimes faint and dizzy? Is your tongue coated? Bad taste in your mouth? And does your food distress you? Are you nervous and irritable? Do you often have the blues? And are you troubled about sleeping?

Then your liver is all wrong. But there is a cure. 'Tis the old reliable

They act directly on the liver. They cure constipation, biliousness, sick headache, nausea, and dyspepsia. Take a laxative dose each night. For 60 years they have been the Standard Family Pills.

Price 25 cents. All Druggists. I have taken Ayer's Pills regularly for six months. They have cured me of a severe headache, and I can now walk from two to four miles without getting tired or out of breath, something I have not been able to do for many years. S. E. WATKINS, July 13, 1899. Salem, Mass. Write the Doctor. If you have any complaint whatever and desire the best medical advice you can possibly receive, write the doctor freely. You will receive a prompt reply without cost. S. E. WATKINS, Dr. J. C. AYER, Lowell, Mass.

ZION'S ENSIGN.

"OUR CREED: ALL TRUTH."

VOLUME 11.

INDEPENDENCE, MISSOURI, THURSDAY, NOVEMBER 29, 1900

NUMBER 48.

ZION'S ENSIGN.

A Literary and Religious Newspaper, published in the interest of social, scientific and religious truth, every Thursday, at Independence, Jackson County, Missouri.

PRICE, $1.00 PER YEAR, IN ADVANCE.

ENSIGN PUBLISHING HOUSE,
Of the Reorganized Church of Jesus Christ of Latter Day Saints.

W. H. GARRETT, EDITOR.
J. W. LUFF, BUSINESS MANAGER.

Make all remittances, and address all communications to, ENSIGN PUBLISHING HOUSE, Box B, Independence, Jackson County, Missouri.

New subscriptions can begin at any time. If possible to avoid it, never send silver as it is liable to wear through the envelope and be lost. Always give the name of the post office to which your paper is sent or we can not find your name on our lists.

When desiring your address changed, give both the old and new address. Papers will be discontinued one month from the time subscriptions expire, unless ordered otherwise.

In making remittances, money orders are preferable for they are absolutely safe. If you can avoid it, do not send gold or stamps. Canadian stamps are at the loss, and Canadian currency is only worth ninety cents on the dollar to us, for that is all we can get for it at the banks.

Letters should be addressed, and orders and drafts made payable to, ENSIGN PUBLISHING HOUSE, Independence, Mo.

Box B.

CHOOSE THE BETTER PART

Responsibility is a quality which attaches to every intelligent individual; none can escape the accounting which will be demanded for the stewardship entrusted to them, it matters not how they may have wrought, diligently or slothfully, or whether they have neglected altogether to perform the duties involved. The fact that mankind is endowed with a high degree of the powers of reason, by which, through the revelation of the Creator, they may comprehend their position in the world, the purpose of their creation, and the ultimate or end to be attained, establishes responsibility for the proper use of that gift, the account for which must inevitably be made. Teaching His disciples, in the Sermon on the Mount, our Lord said:

Ye are the salt of the earth: but if the salt hath lost his savor, wherewith shall it be salted? It is thenceforth good for nothing, but to be cast out, and to be trodden under foot of men.—Matt. 5: 13.

Probably no one will question that the Savior had reference to the capacity for good—the power to influence others to honor God in obeying His laws and commandments—resident in man by reason of the added intelligence and knowledge received through their adherence to the principles of truth enunciated by the Savior. The ability to incite in others a desire for a higher and nobler life, the possessing of the savor of life for others, of having salt in oneself, can only be exercised because of the presence of and the indwelling of the Holy Spirit in the individual who walks with Christ; hence, as Christ is the savor of life unto all who are saved, those who follow in His steps closely, must, in so far as they attain to the standard He established, also exert a saving influence upon all who love righteousness.

Now, if by reason of an acceptance of the doctrine of Christ, the ability to become a leavening force in the world, is received, it follows logically that if by reason of transgressing those commandments and falling away from the principles of truth, this influence is lost, and one again becomes subject to the workings of the powers of darkness, he is not fit to occupy in the kingdom of light, and, like the savorless salt, will be cast out. There will come a time when even the devil will have no use for him. When the arch enemy is bound he will certainly not be in a position to use any agency to work harm, and if those who fall away from the truth, after having a knowledge of it, continue in darkness until the binding of Satan, the Lord cannot use them in His work, so that if neither God nor Satan can use them, they must be as salt which has lost its savor and is good for no service, simply a useless material which, though it still exists, is entirely without glory.

But because one transgresses against God he does not thereby get rid of his responsibility. It is still his own, and he must answer before the great Judge of all as to why he abused his trust. A disposition to shirk the call of duty will not excuse the individual; the inclination to underestimate the importance of his stewardship and look to some one else to do his work, will not be approved. Jesus never did, never can, "do it all," "pay all the debt I owe," as is frequently asserted in song and in testimony in some quarters; for while a John stated that "God so loved the world that he sent his only begotten Son that whosoever believeth in him should not perish, but have everlasting life" (John 3: 16), it was Jesus, that same Only Begotten, who said, "Except a man be born of water and of the Spirit, he can not enter into the kingdom of God" (John 3: 5). There is, however, no conflict in the two statements; the trouble is in the unwarranted construction or interpretation placed upon the language of scripture. He who truly and rightly believes in Jesus Christ the Son of God, will feel constrained to obey and follow Him, which will assuredly lead him into the waters of baptism; Christ set the example for all others to follow when he was baptized by the authorized servant of God in Jordan river.

It will be apparent, therefore, to all who candidly consider the matter that it is a most desirable thing to be found working in harmony with the example and commands of the Savior, in exercising a saving influence upon our fellowmen; then when the day of awards becomes a reality to us, we will stand justified because we have chosen the better part, and having continued in the doctrine of Christ, have the approval of the Father, Son and Holy Spirit.

A SUGGESTION.

Our readers, as well as ourselves, greatly appreciate the many good letters our brethren of the ministry write us from time to time, from their respective fields. Everyone interested in the progress of the work never tires of reading of the experience of these earnest elders, and they cannot write too often when events transpiring in their experience influence them to inform their brethren, that they also may rejoice with them.

Some elders seldom, if ever, write letters, because they are fearful that some one will criticize them for desiring to see their names in print so often. This, we think, is a mistake; and we offer the suggestion that so uncharitable a statement, if made by any, which we doubt is most worthy of being passed without notice, as not being prompted by the right spirit. The editor probably can, in most cases, be depended upon to discriminate in this matter.

But there is one mistake some of our most valued correspondents occasionally make to which we desire to call attention and ask correction. Do not write the same letter to both the ENSIGN and the Herald. Write one of these papers as you may be led, alternately if you choose, but write to only one of them at a time, except on some special important occasion, when it is thought the news should reach every Saint, so far as possible, at once; there may be exceptions to any rule, you know.

Complaints have sometimes reached us along this line, from subscribers to ENSIGN and Herald, that they have the same letter from the same brethren in both papers. The Herald, at Lamoni, goes to press several days before the ENSIGN, and copies reach us Thursday morning, the ENSIGN press day. It will be readily seen that we have no means of knowing just what selections the Herald editors have made, and cannot therefore know that the same letters may appear in both papers in the issue for the same week.

We concede the thought that our brethren have acted in this manner from the best of motives to do good to the greatest number, for some take the ENSIGN who do not have the Herald and vice versa; and we appreciate their thoughtful consideration in this regard when contributing to the columns of the ENSIGN. But we think that greater good will be accomplished by writing different letters to each paper, though it may require a little more effort on their part; the end will justify the means in this instance, we think, and greater benefit will accrue to all.

EDITORIAL ITEMS.

ELDER ALMA C. BARMORE'S address is now 352 Lippincott street, Toronto, Ontario, care T. C. Hatley.

SR. SARAH HILL, West End, Saline county, Illinois, has been in the church about fifteen or twenty years but has had no opportunity to partake of the sacrament of the Lord's supper. She has a desire to do so when so favored. She was baptized by Bro. I. M. Smith and has tried to keep the faith, and still desires to live as near right as she can, knowing the time is short. She desires the prayers of the Saints that her lungs may be made well.

"THE MORE EXCELLENT WAY" by Elder T. C. Kelley is appreciated by all who desire a clear and forceful presentation of the subject to loan to those who are investigating or whom they may desire to become investigators. Sr. (Mrs.) M. Brearley of Gulliver, Michigan, in sending for five copies November 20th, says: "One of my friends (an old gentleman) has just finished reading the one I loaned him and today asked me if I could get any more of them and how much they are per copy. When I said 10 cents, he replied, 'Well, get me five copies. I want to send four away to my brother and cousins and keep one myself to refer to.' He also said it was a fine sermon, that no one could find fault with it. I am so happy to think it may reach some honest hearted ones and perhaps be the means of bringing them into the kingdom, with God's blessing."

Ten cents each, postage paid. Let us have your orders and we will fill promptly.

An evangelist of the society which accepts the philosophy of Alexander Campbell, has been making use of D. H. Bays' book, "Doctrine and Dogmas of Mormonism," in New South Wales, as a means of opposing the work of the Reorganization. This evangelist would not, however, accept a challenge to debate the issues between these churches, and Bro. W. J. Haworth, in two lectures at Hamilton, West, New South Wales, February 11th and 25th respectively, examines and answers Mr. Bay's assertions and arguments. These have been published in a pamphlet of 61 pages. Elder G. R. Wolls, Deer Lodge, Montana, is agent in this country for their sale, and will mail single copies to any address in the United States on receipt of 16 cents. Seven copies for one dollar may be obtained from Elder W. J. Haworth, Wall-send, New South Wales, Australia, by sending an international money order for the amount. Proceeds above cost of pamphlet will be applied on the chapel fund. Bro. Haworth advises that chapels are an essential to success of the work in Australia. A chapel is one of the distinctive lines in the minds of the public there, dividing our work from that of the Brighamites. The Utah people never build chapels, but arrange for their converts to go to "Zion" as soon as possible. When our people erect a chapel the Australians say, "They are not like the Mormons, they have come to stay." We have only given the pamphlet a glance for lack of time, but it appears to be a very complete and forceful examination and reply, showing the unreliability of Mr. Bays' witnesses, and the falsity of his premises. The book should have a large sale in this country, and thus encourage the brethren in their efforts to establish the everlasting gospel in Australia.

EXTRACTS FROM LETTERS.

MRS. D. C. GRANT, Vermontville, Michigan, November 20:

I am just going to write you a few words to let you know how I appreciate your paper, the "silent preacher," for indeed such it is, and I should miss it more than I can tell if I had to go without it, as I am one of the scattered ones. I hope we may all live in such a way that we will not cast even a shadow on the work we love so well; that we may not go empty-handed when called to leave this earthly dwelling place. Can say that I am more determined to be faithful than ever before.

BRO. G. W. SMITH, Lunsford, Arkansas, November 21:

I have not been able to do a day's work in twelve months, but have done as much as I possibly could in the way of gospel work this year. I believe we could have done a great deal of good here this year if we could have had an elder; the sects are all at a standstill in this country and the people are starving for the truth. I write this that some elder may see, and call this way. The chance yet remains for good to be done.

BRO. W. S. MACRAE is now in that mission and will probably answer the call of this brother. Lunsford is in Craighead county.

ELDER D. C. WHITE, Darlington, Missouri, Nov. 24th:

Just closed an eight days meeting at this place; spoke in the M. E. church, the first preaching of our people at this place. Bro. E. A. Bray is teacher here in the public school and through his and his lady's influence I obtained the use of the church. The Baptists were holding a protracted effort and detracted some from our crowd, but the few hearers we had were men and women of good minds—"thinkers." They spoke well of the preaching. The editor of the Darlington Record was out, postmaster and lady, professor of the public school, and the best of attention given. I spoke eight times, feeling well and the best of liberty.

GENERAL CHURCH NEWS.

INDEPENDENCE.

Eunice Fay, infant daughter of Bro. James A. and Sr. Laura E. Trask, was blessed Sunday afternoon, Apostles Joseph Luff and I. N. White officiating.

The heaters are still incomplete, but did good service last Sunday, nevertheless. The floor gratings have not yet been supplied, nor some of the air ducts opened.

Sr. Elizabeth Christmas, of Chicago, is making her daughter, Sr. J. B. Smith, and family, a pleasant visit, and enjoying the services in the church with the Saints.

The distressing news comes from Grannis, Arkansas, Monday, of the death of two of our brethren there, by the explosion of a portable boiler, one a Bro. Harris, the name of the other we have not learned.

Sr. Corthell, mother of Bro. Earl, met with a severe accident Saturday night last. She got up during the night to close a window, and was suddenly seized with a dizzy or fainting spell and fell, injuring her spine so badly as to confine her since to the house. We hope to soon be able to chronicle her recovery.

Bro. A. W. Hidy, of Cheyenne, Wyoming, is visiting Bro. and Sr. G. H. Hidy, of Kansas City, and with them worshiped with the Independence Saints last Sunday. Bro. Hidy in recovering from an attack of typhoid fever found it necessary to get into a lower altitude for the benefit of his nervous system. He is improving.

Some very foolish person broke a light out of one of the lower auditorium windows at the church one evening last week, and gaining admission to the church broke a glass in the library case and forced the lock on one of the doors, hunting for some of the Sunday School money, we presume. They should have known that nothing of value to a thief is left in the church over night, and spared the branch the necessary expense of putting in new glass.

Sr. L. Shaver is making a commendable effort to care for her little family without becoming a charge upon any one. She has the past year canvassed from house to house selling articles needed in the household, but as she was unable to give her children proper attention, having to be away from home so much, she has decided to open up a little store in her house and keep staples for sale at regular prices. She is deserving of the assistance in this enterprise which any may be able to give her.

Bro. J. W. Layton is laid up and has been suffering severely from an injury received while shoeing a horse. The horse, though a gentle one, gave a sudden jerk of his foot, throwing Bro. Layton off his balance and striking him in his side with the hock, knocking the breath out of him momentarily, and, as subsequently ascertained, bruising him internally, so severely that Wednesday morning he could only move in his chair with difficulty. Bro. Layton, as presiding priest of this branch, is a very useful man, universally esteemed for his integrity, and all the Saints will regret his accident. We trust that it is only temporary and that by the Father's blessing he may soon be able to resume his accustomed work.

Now, go over to Kansas City Thanksgiving evening and help out our good brethren and sisters of the 2d Kansas City branch in their energetic and enthusiastic efforts for a church home. The small amount from each necessary to cover the expense will not be missed, at the end of the year. Take 9th street cars to Washington street, transfer and go to 23d and Summit, and walk four blocks west, where the church is situated. Give them a generous support and rejoice with them in the good work they are doing.

Sunday was a fine day and the audiences at the services at the church were large and attentive. The morning sermon was by Bro. G. H. Hulmes; it was instructive and thought inciting. At night, Bro. R. J. Parker having kindly consented to occupy next Sunday, Bishop E. L. Kelley delivered the sermon, a good, practical discourse upon "justification by faith" which received close attention. The afternoon service in charge of Bro. I. N. White, H. R. Mills and B. J. Scott was very encouraging and enjoyable. A good sized audience participated.

The supper and entertainment at the church Tuesday evening for the benefit of the furnace fund, was largely attended, and while in the beginning the good sisters in charge were wondering if all the good things furnished for the occasion would be used, before eight o'clock, the hour for closing the supper, arrived, there was a famine, and some of the late comers supped on mashed potatoes and good water, without even a toothpick for dessert. A few minutes after 8, in the upper auditorium, Bro. Geo. Hayward got his wonderful phonograph in operation and gave the good audience a succession of vocal and instrumental pieces which were quite entertaining. An unpleasant feature was the moving about of some in the gallery. The entertainment closed at 9:30. The net proceeds were $73.50. Much credit is due to all engaged in the affair for the enthusiasm displayed—to the young sisters in selling tickets, and to the Saints and friends for the generous support given. Bro. Hayward with his fine phonograph was a good drawing card, but what he presented on that occasion is hardly a good beginning of the number of selections he has yet on hand. Perhaps an opportunity to hear more may be given in the future.

LAMONI, IOWA.

Yesterday was clear and bright and all services were well attended. A special collection was taken up at Sunday School for Christmas; the response was liberal indeed; amount collected $16.12. President Joseph Smith addressed the Saints at eleven o'clock, subject, "Where there is no vision the people perish." Elder M. F. Gowell commenced a lecture in the evening on "Restoration of the Gospel," using an illustrated chart. He will conclude next Sunday evening.

Teachers' meetings, held every Monday evening, continue interesting and instructive and are a commendable feature of the Sunday School work here.

Zion's Religio-Literary society has secured for the Religians and others interested, a course of lectures during the winter season. John R. Clarke, the renowned traveler, orator and vocalist, opened the course on Thursday evening with his very popular lecture, "To and Fro in London." The auditorium of brick church was well filled and the evening's entertainment was greatly enjoyed.

At the Religio last Friday evening Pres. J. A. Gunsolley was in charge of the parliamentary lesson. Seven new members were enrolled. Four ushers were appointed for the usual duties of that office. Next Friday evening, there being no regular program, Elder H. A. Stebbins will deliver a lecture on the Book of Mormon.

On last Friday afternoon a "Matron's Meeting" was held at the East Side school-house. This is sometimes called the "Mother's Congress" and those participating in the exercises are chiefly the mothers, and the teachers of the schools. Papers upon topics relating to the school and home were read, and then followed discussions. Excellent papers were read by Srs. C. B. Kelley, Francis Davis, Roxanna Anderson, and other good ones, by those not of the church, whose names we did not learn.

On Saturday morning Sr. Minnie Nicholson met with an accident which might have proved serious; as it is, she is quite painfully burned on her face and hand, by a small explosion of gun powder, which she accidentally threw into the stove.

Next Thursday evening Sr. Dr. Greer's Sunday School class will give a social. The proceeds will be given as the Christmas offering of the class.

Sr. Jennie Sprague and little daughter, of Carson City, Nevada, arrived in Lamoni last week, and will reside here in the future.

Elder J. C. Clapp has been holding services at Lucas, Iowa. President Gunsolley announced yesterday that the Thanksgiving services would be as last year, all Saints being requested to fast and meet at the church at 10 o'clock for prayer service.

Elder F. E. Cochran and J. P. Anderson held services at Surprise school-house, and Elder R. M. Elvin spoke at the Greenville church.

GRACE L. KRAHL.

November 27.

CHICAGO, ILLINOIS.

Branch headquarters, 716 W. Van Buren St., Sunday meetings 2:45 and 7:45 p. m.; Lane Mission, 3411 Cottage Grove Ave., 10:45 a. m. and 7:30 p. m.; West Pullman branch, 745 119th St., 10:30 a. m. and 7:30 p. m.; 608 W. 37th St. (colored mission), 10:30 a. m. and 7:30 p. m.

Your last issue was read with pleasure by us from start to finish. The "editorial" was good and safe. The general news and letters brought comfort and cheer, and that sermon—well, as "R. C." is so far away and under another flag, we will venture to say was "excellent." "Instant in season" was a pleasant chat, and showed Sr. Corson to be awake to the interest of the best and grandest work in the world.

We were pleased that "Jots" was "resurrected" again, and told us so nicely of his flowery experiences in sunny California. We have followed "Jots" to Kentucky and Tennessee and California, and feel a keen interest in his welfare. The short exhortation by "a deacon" was good, and we surmise it must have come from one of our short Chicago deacons. The "ads" we pass, and come to "Daughters of Zion," in which we feel a goodly interest, being personally acquainted with the editor and the principal contributor. Success, Sr. H. B.—give us something rich each week.

Bro. P. Pement gave us a strong defense of the Book of Mormon yesterday at our three o'clock meeting. He gave some pointed illustrations of the work easily to be understood. Bro. F. held a good service at the Lang mission in the morning.

Let all come to the union service next Sunday with a desire to add to the interest of the meeting. Place 3411 Cottage Grove avenue; time, three o'clock. We are informed that Bro. R. N. Burwell has been removed by the R. R. Co. from West Pullman to Michigan City. We regret to lose Robert from our active, able force of local workers.

Bro. F. M. Pitt preached a good sermon last night on "Christian Graces" with liberty. Bro. Johnson had a slight relapse, but has partially rallied from it, and is doing fairly well; has been bedfast for 151 days.

Hopefully and joyfully in the work. J. M. TERRY. 365 Ogden Ave., Nov. 26.

ST. LOUIS, MISSOURI.

Places of worship: Rock Church, Glasgow avenue and Hickson street. Services: Wednesday evening prayer service. Sunday: Sabbath School 9:30 a. m.; preaching at 11 a. m.; social service at 2:30 p. m.; preaching at 8 p. m. Cheltenham, 5731 Manchester Ave., services: Sunday School 10 a. m.; social meeting 2:30 p. m.; preaching 7:30 p. m. Oak Hill, Sunday School 9:30 a. m., and services at 2:30 and 8 p. m.

The Mite meeting of this afternoon was very enthusiastic, and all are in great hopes of having a splendid time at our forthcoming bazaar and Thanksgiving dinner.

Bro. A. Allen reports very encouragingly of his late visit at O'Fallon, Illinois. Services at night, save Wednesday evening, which he spent with the few Saints at Alma; administered the sacrament Sunday, and blessed two children.

At our prayer service of last Wednesday evening sixteen were present; there should be more.

Lately we have had a number on the sick list; some are improving, but Bro. Gordon Smith's daughter, Emma, is very poorly. Elder Allen was called to attend to the funeral of Bro. James Wild's mother, Thursday afternoon, at Belleville.

We were informed that the priesthood meeting of Tuesday night was a very good one. Bro. Spurlock and Beebe have gone on to other fields of labor.

The Sabbath School people are practicing for their sacred concert Sunday evening, December 2d.

The Friday night session of the Religio was most excellent; good attendance, and fine interest in the parliamentary program. However, we did not have time for any especial drill work, and we hope this will come up in due time. From a paper written by Mrs. Burgess, and read by her son, Arthur, we quote just a few lines: "At the late Convention our sometime leader and pastor proposed this parliamentary drill in our Religio meetings because he understood how necessary it was that our young people should be educated along these lines. It is the young upon whom the burden of government must soon rest. The great trust now descends to new hands. Let us apply ourselves to that which is presented to us as our appropriate object. Our proper business is improvement and let our time be a time of improvement." The paper was well read, and we would like to give all of it.

Bro. Allen was speaker at both services yesterday. The night session was largely attended, a few visitors being in the congregation. The voluntary played by Mrs. Walron, and the anthem rendered by the choir were refreshing and freighted with the exquisite pleasure that music alone can bring.

We are expecting Bro. E. L. Kelley the latter part of this week; next week there will be preaching service every night.

Bro. Christenson, Oak Hill mission, last night; Bro. Parrish, Belleville, Illinois.

The Cheltenham Sain's gave a sacred concert last evening.

Our social service yesterday was well attended; fifteen testimonies and five prayers were brought, as offerings to the Lord, during the sacred hour.

This week: Practice, Monday evening; Sunday School business meeting, Tuesday, 8 p. m.; bazaar and entertainment Wednesday evening; Thanksgiving dinner served November 29th, 12 to 3 p. m., supper 6 to 8, and an especial program Friday night by the Religio. We are busy people.

Thanksgiving morning at 10:30 a. m. prayer service. Come ye thankful people, come, Raise the song of harvest home.

ETRA.

November 27.

FIRST KANSAS CITY BRANCH. 2324 Wabash Ave., Sunday School 9:30 a. m.; preaching at 11 a. m. and 7:30 p. m.; social service 12:15 p. m. D. F. Winn, pastor, 2300 Bellefontaine. We were all anticipation last Sunday as we were informed during the week that Bishop Kelley had been seen passing through the city, and hoped that he would favor us with his presence on Sunday. We seem to be unfortunate in being too near Independence.

The morning sermon, by Elder Pickering, was very good as was also the evening sermon by President Winn.

President announces that Bro. Geo. Hicklin, of the Armstrong branch, will speak on the "Resurrection" next Sunday morning. Bro. Winn desires us to say that he will also be glad to have any of the elders who want to preach to call on us. They will be given an opportunity to do so and it will be appreciated by the congregation.

Sr. D. H. Blair visited St. Joseph last week, but was back with her class on Sunday morning. It is encouraging, both to superintendent and scholars, when the officers and teachers are promptly at their post when the time of opening arrives. It too often happens that persons will accept an office or a position as teacher, and are thereafter more noticeable for their absence than presence. Absence from the place of duty is sometimes unavoidable, but in many cases it seems to be premeditated.

Sr. Bruce Williams was circulating among the Saints on Sunday selling tickets to the Thanksgiving supper. We understand she met with fair success.

Sr. Ida Pierson has been quite sick for several days. We hope it is nothing serious.

Practicing for the Sunday School entertainment is going on and good progress is being made.

Elder F. C. Warnky is down at Rich Hill holding meetings, and, we understand, is meeting with good success.

We are pleased to note that Sr. Seifert and Sr. Peacock have again returned to the city. They are earnest and diligent workers, and will be quite an acquisition to the mission which has been established in the East Bottoms.

Our missionary, Bro. J. D. White, after quite an absence from our midst, made his appearance Sunday morning, the 18th, and Bro. Pickering gave way to him so that he was the speaker of the morning, and in the evening, as previously announced, Bro. G. H. Hulmes, of Independence, spoke to a fair audience. His sermon was very favorably commented upon.

R. E. PORTER.

November 26.

SAN FRANCISCO, CALIFORNIA.
Services at Golden West Hall, 320 Post street, every Sunday. Sunday School 10 a. m.; preaching 11 a. m. and 7:30 p. m.; prayer meeting first Sunday of each month at 12:15 noon. Elder C. A. Parkin presiding elder, residence 3010 16th street.

C. A. Parkin was the speaker here Sunday at 11 a. m. He also spoke at Oakland at 2 p. m. At our morning service Bro. Edgar Smith was ordained a priest by Elders Parkin and Lincoln. J. B. Price preached here at 7:30 p. m. and your correspondent was the speaker at Oakland at 8 p. m.

The Oakland Religio gave an entertainment a few weeks ago to help remove the church debt. The consequence is that the debt has been paid off and the church is now free. It is a nice, comfortable building, well lighted, and a nice new stove to warm and cheer all who enter. The Saints may well be proud of what they have accomplished, and the church may be congratulated on owning it.

John B. Saxe went to Irvington and preached there. J. H. Anthony was the speaker at Berkeley. A body of Russian Finns, who have a mission there, have kindly opened their doors and invited our people to preach at their place of meeting. Some of our people hold forth there every Sunday. Fred B. Blair speaks of holding a series of meetings there soon.

Albert Haws went to Stockton and held two services. He reports enjoying good liberty in presenting the word, although the congregations were small.

There was a good attendance at the prayer meeting Wednesday evening and a good spirit prevailed throughout. The members are awakening to the benefits to be received from attending the meetings regularly and they are doing their duty in this line better than ever now. They and our officers are to be congratulated on this line.

Friday evening it was very stormy; the rain came down in torrents, but there was a fair attendance at the Religio and a pleasant time was had. Bro. and Sr. Penfold from Santa Ana were there as visitors.

We still claim that we have the best and most energetic branch on the coast.

GEO. S. LINCOLN.

November 20.

We are now filling orders for Bro. T. C. Kelley's fine treatise on the "More Excellent Way." Sr. M. Brearley of Michigan, in ordering copies, says of it: "I have read it in the ENSIGN and desire it very much for some of my friends who are investigating our faith, and in booklet form it is just the thing." Send in your orders. Ten cents each.

LETTER DEPARTMENT.

TORONTO, Ont., Nov. 21.

Editor Ensign:—Concluding that a few lines from this section would be appreciated, these thoughts are penned. Missionary work is not very successful just now, from the standpoint of large audiences and baptisms; we trust, however, that seed is being sown which will, in time, redound to God's glory and honor.

We have been laboring in the region commanded by the Humber Bay branch for a month; we have also occupied in the new brick church in the city once each Sunday. Results among those without are not what we would like to see, but the Saints have done well. I am not as well satisfied to labor without positive success in proselyting as I used to be. I have become more anxious about seeing the effect of my work; however, we have no reason to complain if we have done our duty. When we have preached the gospel to the people our responsibility ends and theirs begins. That all may realize their obligations and do their best, is the prayer of,
Your brother in Christ,

ALMA C. BARMORE.

352 Lippincott St., Toronto, Ont.
Care of T. C. Hatley.

SPRINGFIELD, Mo., Nov. 19.

Editor Ensign:—The work on our new church is progressing very nicely. There seems to be a united effort of each to do all they can which we are glad to see. At no time have I seen all work together with a will as the Saints are doing here. Some are giving quite liberally in money, while others are quite as liberal with work, and thus the work is moving along. Bro. and Sr. Pickering and Bro. Short gave us a lift.

Bro. Thomas and Bro. Hoge are faithful with their teams; also others, not Saints, have assisted in team work. We are also receiving considerable help from others on the outside. May God bless all who thus help, is our prayer.

The smiling faces of Bro. and Sr. Pickering were quite a glad surprise to all of us when they put in an appearance Sunday week at the hour of preaching, and while their visit was a surprise I was glad that most every Saint was at his post, and I felt pleased that they could see by our increase in numbers that their past efforts were not in vain.

Our faithful band of Ladies' Aid Society has and is doing a noble work. To them is due the credit of making the first donation towards the new church and they also had the added honor of digging the first spadefuls of sod for the foundation. It was quite an interesting sight and caused quite a deal of speculation to many people when the ladies met at the church lot at 8 a. m. Saturday morning with picks and spades, ready to take out the first dirt, and to see them digging the writer could not help but just think what condition would the world be in if the ladies led in everything. I need not tell you that they did not finish the job, but left it in the hands of the brethren present and went home to wash the breakfast dishes up, feeling, no doubt, that they were more apt at that than with a pick or shovel.

As our building is getting to the point where it takes labor and there are several around in the district who promise to help, whose names I have forgotten, I will give a general invitation to all Saints who wish to help us with work, and if there should be any Saints (carpenters) who wish to see the land of big red apples, now is your time. We will promise to feed you well while you help us, and furnish you all the information on cheap homes, free of charge. As Sr. Nelson, who lives close by the church, has promised to take care of two or three, don't be afraid you will crowd us out. We have other doors of the same kind.

I wish the Saints to remember that the year is drawing to a close and our bishop's agent's book will close for this year the last of December. I would like to see all the Saints have their names on my books for some tithes before they are closed for the year. If you say you love the work let us see how much, and we are anxious to see how much the Lord has blessed you the past year. Trusting to hear from all,
In bonds,
HENRY SPARLING.

1862 Springfield Ave.

FREDERICKTOWN, Mo., Nov. 13.

Editor Ensign:—Bro. Beebe and I are now on our way from Stoddard county to the St. Louis, Missouri, district. We have passed through Ballinger county, and now we are in Madison. Thus far we have not found a Saint. We hardly expect to find any Saints till we get through to St. Louis, which place we expect to reach in a few weeks. We find the people quite clever.

We stopped and preached some in Ballinger county, scattered some tracts at the county seat and visited and tried to sell the Book of Mormon to the editor of the county paper. We expect to preach and bear testimony of this latter day work by the way, wherever we have opportunity to do so. Saints may address us at Acorn Ridge for the present.

Your brother in Christ,
C. J. SPURLOCK.

MANCHESTER, Tex., Oct. 29.

Editor Ensign:—I am away down here on the lone Pine Hill battling away for the everlasting gospel restored in the last days to prepare a people for the coming of our Lord and Savior Jesus Christ, which is nearer than this generation anticipates. I have just returned from a two weeks' trip in the Choctaw Nation where I went to preach to the people in the mountains and valleys, and while I was preaching to a few on the edge of a mountain and amid the rocks, and as I was leading a noble lady into the waters of baptism, I thought of what our Savior said, that He would send hunters to hunt them out of the rocks. We left others at this place near the kingdom.

Bro. P. B. Bussell was on the trip with me and rendered good service in preaching, singing, etc. He was just ordained to the eldership this summer. He is a noble man and bids fair to do a good work.

We feel to thank God for the progress and outlook for the gospel in this country. I think with care and good labor we will have quite an ingathering in this country in a few years; and let me say right here, dear Saints, if we would live up to the law and teachings of the church of Jesus Christ, it would be no trouble to get the gospel to the people. One disobedient Saint can tear down more in a month than an elder can build up in a year. So may God bless the Saints to live the commandments and be prepared to meet our Savior when He comes, for none but the pure in heart can see Him. I ask the prayers of all the Saints that I may do the work God has called me to do.

Your brother,
E. A. ERWIN.

MOSCOW, Idaho, Oct. 29.

Editor Ensign:—As we have strayed away from the familiar surroundings of church and latter day teachings which we enjoyed at Condon, Oregon, to Moscow, Idaho, where we have been four months without hearing the gospel preached in the good old intelligent way so that we could understand it, we ask for a little space for these few lines hoping that it may catch the eye of some of our local missionary elders who may have the opportunity of hunting us up, where we live, on Main street, and giving us the pleasure of hearing the restored gospel preached and taught to some of our neighbors, which I have reason to believe would end with much good being done.

I have found out that some ignorant persons (also others maliciously) have been misrepresenting us, causing the majority of the people to class us as the Utah Mormons. I find so many people that used to live neighbors to Joseph Smith according to their say-so, but upon asking them the date of their birth nine cases out of ten they were born since July 30, 1844, which only proves the persistent efforts of Satan through his legions to down truth and right. Since coming here I have talked with some who are willing listeners and are searching for the truth and read our ENSIGNS; others I have mailed them some ENSIGNS at their request.

A goodly amount of literature could be placed here to good advantage so that any of the Saints, far or near, having literature to send out in the interest of truth will greatly oblige by mailing same to me for distribution. Winter is near at hand and everyone has time to read, which is the right time to do good work. I am enjoying better health, that proves to me that if we try to do right we will be rewarded openly. We ask the prayers of all the Saints in behalf of and the success of all earnest work being done by those interested in the welfare of Zion's land.

Yours in the work,
HENRY E. CUENDT.

[If our Bro. will write to Miss M. H. Clark, Box 4, Station A, Kansas City, Missouri, stating his needs in this line he will be freely supplied with back numbers of ENSIGNS, Heralds, etc.—Ed.]

LOS ANGELES, Cal., Nov. 5.

The semi-annual conference of the Southern California district convened at Garden Grove Friday, October 26th. It was the best conference I have ever attended in California. Peace reigned and love and good fellowship was everywhere apparent. Of the general ministry there was present, Patriarch A. H. Smith; Seventy T. W. Chatburn; High Priests, J. F. Burton, A. Carmichael, N. Van Fleet, T. W. Williams, A. E. Jones; Elders, D. A. Anderson, Elbert Smith, C. W. Karl, H. Hemingway, John Morris, Sparks, and Betts; Priests, Chas. Salter, Frank Burton, Geo. Wixom, Wm. Mills, and Prothero; Teacher S.

Penfold; Deacons Clark, N. Paulson, and H. Backer.

The following brethren preached in the order given: Elbert Smith, T. W. Chatburn, J. F. Burton, T. W. Williams, A. H. Smith. The prayer meetings were wholesome and replete with spiritual power.

The following officers were selected for the ensuing year: T. W. Williams, president; A. Carmichael, assistant; Maggie Pankey, secretary. Adjourned to meet in San Bernardino, March 1, 1900.

The Sunday School session, likewise the Religio meetings, were successfully conducted. Bro. George Wixom is district superintendent of Sunday School, and president of the district Religio.

The "Mormons" have been holding a mission conference in this city and Brigham Young, Jr., has been the prominent dignity present. Bro. Chatburn, Anderson and myself attended the afternoon meeting Sunday and listened to a lengthy talk from him. He recounted the experiences through which the work had passed, and placed special emphasis on the evidence of divine approval in that they had made such a phenomenal growth. Had a very pleasant chat with him after the close of the service. Our discussion through the columns of the Evening Express is still continuing. Mr. Nye became very sarcastic in his last.

Bro. Alexander and Gould are in Garden Grove vicinity; likewise Bro. and Sr. Burton. Bro. Chatburn and Anderson are here for a few days. Bro. and Sr. Smith have returned to San Bernardino; Bro. Elbert is looking so much better than when he came out. His voice is stronger, he delivered a fine sermon at the conference. I think if he remains long enough in California he will become strong and well again.

Permit me to ask a special favor of the Saints generally: If any of you have relatives or friends in California, if you know of any one here who belongs to the church but have not united with any branch, if you know of any one who is coming out here to spend the winter, will you please send me their address or what their proposed address will be, and I will consider it a favor. Address T. W. Williams, 1322 Myrtle avenue, Los Angeles, California.

I copy the following from the Monday Evening Express, it is a correct report:

"ONE LITTLE NEST.

"Brigham Young, Jr., says that is all he has left of his big family. The husband of three wives, and father of thirty children. Brigham Young, Jr., spoke yesterday at a conference of the Latter Day Saints, at 245 1/2 South Spring street. The apostle is a strong advocate of the Mormon belief, and, although in an interview with an Express reporter a few days ago, he said, 'We are careful not to teach polygamy, now that the law forbids it,' his address yesterday could leave little doubt in the minds of his auditors as to his stand on the question. In touching upon the question he said, 'I was told to harmonize with the government. 'How can I,' I replied. They deprived me of my family and I yielded. Something else we believe to be right and which has been established by the gospel, will be declared wrong and done away with by the government.'

"I had a large family," he said gently, "and now I have a very small one. I was superlatively happy in the enjoyment of a large family, now I have but one little nest."

"Some day my son may say, 'Pa, you had more than one wife once, please explain about plural marriage.'"

"Then I can only say, 'My dear son, God revealed to us that it was to be done, the United States said that it was to be stopped.'"

"A statesman not long ago said to me, 'You were perfectly right at the time. Your country was sparsely settled, and you needed an increase in the population, now that need is over you must cut it off.'"

Yours,
T. W. WILLIAMS.

ZION'S ENSIGN.

Entered at the Post Office at Independence, Mo., as Second Class Matter.

TURN ON THE LIGHT.

Sermon by Elder J. C. Foss.

I heard a minister say in the sacred desk one evening not long since, that the Reorganized Church of Christ had made the statement that no one had received revelation from God but Latter Day Saints who belonged to the church, and that the church would have to take that back. All who know what the church believes understands very well that the church never took such a position, but always claimed that God would bless the people so far as they walk in righteousness before Him. Many a Saint has testified that God had wonderfully blessed them long before they ever heard of the true gospel as we preach it; and I remember well when I was using tobacco, the angel voice that spoke to me while walking along the road, telling me to throw it away. I did so, and the craving taste I had for the filthy habit left me as I dropped it out of my mouth; that was a year before I heard the true gospel.

God always blesses the workmanship of His hands, so far as they live in harmony with truth as He has revealed it. "As your faith, so be it unto thee." But to those in the world the light is not turned on as it is to those in the kingdom of God. Jesus said, "I am the light of the world: he that followeth me shall not walk in darkness, but shall have the light of life."—St. John 8: 12

"But," says one, "if Jesus is the light of the world, won't everybody then be enlightened who is born into the world?" The Master's word is very plain in answer to the above: "He that followeth me shall not walk in darkness." Then he must obey the truth in order to have the light turned on a little more, so that he may know God.

"Righteous Father, the world hath not known thee."—St. John 17: 25.

"Which things also we speak, not in the words which man's wisdom teacheth, but which the Holy Ghost teacheth: comparing spiritual things with spiritual. But the natural man receiveth not the things of the Spirit of God, for they are foolishness unto him. Neither can he know them, because they are spiritually discerned."—1 Cor. 2: 13, 14.

"For what man knoweth the things of a man save the spirit of man which is in him? even so the things of God knoweth no man except he has the Spirit of God."

"But," says one, "don't the Savior say in St. John 1: 9 that He lighteth every man who cometh into the world?" Yes; but read the fourth and fifth verses, Inspired Translation.

"In him was the gospel, and the gospel was the life, and the life was the light of men. But the light shineth in the world, and the world perceiveth it not."

God only enlightens as the people draw nigh unto Him, by obedience to the gospel. He said to the Jews:

"And ye will not come to me that ye might have life."—John 5: 41.

The words life and light are leading into the same thing. (See John 1: 4). Jesus don't force the light on any one; but when and wherever His gospel is preached there is the light, and the offer of life. Men may have natural abilities and seek from a worldly view of the matter to get gain.

"I wisdom dwell with prudence, and find out knowledge of witty inventions."—Prov. 8: 12.

"Lo, only this have I found, that God hath made man upright. But they have sought out many inventions."—Ecc. 7: 29.

This is the wisdom of man, and by that could not find out God.

"For after that in the wisdom of God, the world by wisdom knew not God, it pleased God by the foolishness of preaching to save them that believe."—Rom. 1: 21.

Right here is the gospel light turned on to give the true light of God in a gospel sense.

For we have walked in darkness hitherto, And had but just a little ray of light; But now the blessings fall as morning dew. And truth is shining as the morning bright.

Adam had but just a little ray of light given him at the first, for when the angel appeared to him and asked him why he offered sacrifice unto the Lord, Adam said, "I know not, save the Lord commanded me." (Gen. 4: 6, I. T.). And after angels had come to Adam and preached to him the gospel, Adam asked the Lord why man must repent and be baptized in water. (Gen. 6: 54). The answer is given in verse 63:

"For by the water ye keep the commandment, by the Spirit ye are justified, and by the blood ye are sanctified."

This is the plan of salvation unto all men through the blood of Christ. And in verse 53 the Lord said by his own voice to Adam:

"If thou wilt, turn unto me, and hearken unto my voice, and believe, and repent of all thy transgressions, and be baptized, even in water, in the name of mine only Begotten Son who is full of grace and truth, which is Jesus Christ, the only name which shall be given under heaven whereby salvation shall come unto the children of men, and ye shall receive the gift of the Holy Ghost, asking all things in His name, and whatsoever ye shall ask it shall be given you."

There is a grand promise of God to Adam; on condition that he would obey the gospel, he would give to him more light than he already had, even the true light of life eternal; and the Holy Ghost fell on Adam, and God told him that "as thou hast fallen thou mayest be redeemed, and all mankind, even as many as will." (Gen. 4: 9). Thus we see if man will let God, according to his gospel, turn on His light by His Holy Spirit, man can be enlightened as God wants him to be; even as many as will. So by Adam, accepting the gospel truth the Spirit fell on him. And he commenced "to prophesy concerning all the families of the earth."—Gen 4: 10.

Peter was once in the dark as touching the light of God. Notwithstanding, he could catch fish, and do many things after the manner of the world. Even after he had been baptized and chosen as one of the apostles of Christ, he denied his Master and said, "Woman, I know him not." (Luke 22: 57). Peter needed a little more light, and so the Master said:

"But I have prayed for thee, that thy faith fail not; and when thou art converted, strengthen thy brethren."—Luke 22: 32.

Peter was something like myself; for several weeks after I was baptized and had been called and ordained a priest, I did not receive the Holy Spirit, and Bro. Emery C. Foss, then president of our branch, who, when the hands were taken from his head, after being confirmed, rose to his feet and spoke in prophecy, said to me several times, "Bro. John, you have not received the Holy Spirit yet."

"Oh," I would reply, "I have received all the Lord has for me." But he would say, "I know better." But one day in the Father's house, for the first time in my life, the Holy Spirit came upon me in power. I could then see as I had never seen before. As soon as the meeting was closed he got me by the hand and rejoiced over me, and said, "Oh, my brother what did I tell you, I knew God would pour out of His Spirit upon you, Bro. John, if you were only faithful in keeping the commands of God." Peter needed more light, and so the Master said again:

"For John truly baptized with water, but ye shall be baptized with the Holy Ghost not many days hence."—Acts. 1: 5.

"And behold I send the promise of my Father upon you, but tarry ye in the city of Jerusalem until ye be endowed with power from on high."—Luke 24: 48.

"And when the day of Pentecost was fully come, they were all with one accord in one place. And suddenly there came a sound from heaven, as of a rushing mighty wind, and it filled all the house where they were sitting. And there appeared unto them cloven tongues, like as of fire, and it rested upon each of them. And they were all filled with the Holy Ghost, and began to speak with other tongues, as the spirit gave them utterance."—Acts 2: 1-4.

Here's the happy memorable day of Peter's conversion. Now, the true light, that lighteth every man that cometh into the world, who receives the truth, is manifest and they shall no longer walk in darkness, but shall have the light of life turned in upon them. Now, Peter is able to tell the old, old gospel story that was first preached by angels to father Adam. (Gen. 5: 44).

Now, after a few at Samaria had accepted of the word of God, as taught them by Philip, the proper representative of the church and kingdom of God, Peter and John were sent for, who, when they were come down from Jerusalem, prayed that these who had been baptized might receive the Holy Ghost; and they laid their hands upon them, and they received the Holy Ghost. (Acts 8: 17). There was one man there who had been baptized with the rest, who was a sorcerer; and when he saw the power of God come upon some of those who had been obedient to the gospel, no doubt through the promised gifts by which God confirmed the gospel, this poor, blind fellow, still in the dark, not having received the Spirit which gives life and light, offered to give the apostles money if they would give to him this power. God blessed Peter, he being a converted man, and the light turned on him, could see, and so he exclaimed:

"For I perceive that thou art in the gall of bitterness, and in the bond of iniquity; thou hast neither part nor lot in this matter, for thy heart is not right in the sight of God."

As the light had been turned on Peter, he was able to see the sad condition of Simon the sorcerer.

By and by the Lord speaks to Peter and bids him go and deliver the gospel message to the house of Cornelius. He had some difficulty in getting him to understand his duty in preaching to the gentiles, but when he saw that God had accepted the gentiles into His kingdom by obeying the gospel, the light was turned on Peter once more, and he said, "Of a truth I perceive, that God is no respecter of persons, but in every nation, he that feareth him, and worketh righteousness, is accepted with him."—Acts 10: 34, 35.

Some think this was the date of Peter's conversion, because he said, "Now I perceive." Not so, for he perceived in Simon's case, just the same as he did in the case of Cornelius; but it was because on Pentecost day God had turned the gospel light on Peter, and thereby he could see, as he marched along with the gospel sword. The Scriptures were then open to Peter's vision, so he could, by the power of God's Holy Spirit, strengthen his brethren, and not before. It was, is, and always will be, by the light of God's Spirit put upon His servants that they will be made to know how to deliver the message sent, for it should be delivered in the Spirit of God, or it's not of him. (D. & C. 50: 5).

So by that power of light, men should be called to the ministry, and not by a mere show of hands. The Lord moves, when men will let Him, in a mysterious way, His wondrous work to perform, and makes choice of the weak ones of earth to carry on His work in the power of His light, and not in the wisdom of the world; therefore His gospel shines in the dark world, but the world don't perceive it; therefore, because the world will not come to the light of the gospel, they will do wickedly, and none of the wicked shall understand. (Dan.

12: 10). But the wise shall understand; why? Because they have taken the Holy Spirit for their guide, and hence they will not be deceived, and hewed down and cast into the fire, and there be awakened to the awful condition, or darkness, they stand in.

Then ye dear ones of earth, repent and believe the gospel, and be baptized for the remission of sins, and let God, our heavenly Father, turn on the heavenly light by the laying on of the hands of His servants, and be converted like Peter was, and then you can say like others have and do today, "We speak that we do know, and testify to what we have seen," by the true light that lighteth everyone that cometh to the light. Him God will not turn away empty, though we may have been like the blind man upon whom Jesus laid His hands, that after anointing his eyes he saw men as trees walking; but when he put his hands on him the second time, and he saw every man clearly (Mark 8: 23-26); thus, before we obeyed the gospel, we had but just a little ray of light, a mere first touch.

I advise all to obey the gospel, and let the Lord give to you the second touch, by sending down His Holy Spirit that will enlighten you in the things of His kingdom, and you will no longer walk in the dark; but you can have the light of life, and be brought forth in the first resurrection, and dwell with God, Christ, angels, and the Saints in light. God bless you all. Amen.

A DAY DREAM.

In October 1883, at Pittsburg, Pennsylvania, I met with an accident, and one Sunday afternoon, during my convalescence, being weary, I dropped into a deep sleep. I am not aware that I dreamed while asleep, but upon awakening I sat upright on the side of the bed, and immediately the entire conception following, came to me; and so vivid was it, that I obtained paper and pencil and wrote it as rapidly as I could. When about half written, the door bell rang, and my wife came upstairs announcing that my mother had come to visit me. After conversing with her for some time, other visitors came, and not until late in the evening did I attempt to complete the writing; but at that time it had left my mind and I was absolutely unable to recall the remaining part, which fact troubled me greatly, for to me it seemed that the matter presented was an inspiration, and I did not want to lose it.

I waited until the following evening after the rest had retired before again attempting to finish the writing; but as before, I could not make an intelligent connection with what I had written. So anxious was I to receive what I had lost, that I engaged in earnest prayer, that inasmuch as the matter presented to my mind was inspired by a higher intelligence than my own, I should again receive the same vivid conception, instantaneously, as I wrote. The answer came at once, and without hesitation I completed what is herewith republished from the Saints Herald, of February 16, 1884, completing the last word at a little after midnight—the only work done on it afterwards, was in correcting spelling and a few minor errors and rewriting.

As it came to me while awake, I entitled it "A Day Dream." Recently the advisability of republishing was suggested to me, with a statement of the facts concerning its conception and writing; and in the hope that it might be of some service to some extent, I submit it to the editor of the ENSIGN. If thought by him advisable to republish, I hope the same spirit of light and peace may accompany its perusal, as I know it to have been present in its conception and writing.

Geo. H. HULMES.
INDEPENDENCE, Mo., Oct. 30, 1900.

It was morning. The earthly creations of God glistened with dew. Soft breezes from heaven played about among the branches and the leaves, and over the soft velvet of vernal green that decked the plain. And the soft light of the celestial orb of day dispelled the veil of darkness from over the existent beauties of God's terrestrial creations.

Moved by the wings of fancy, I stood upon a wooded height overlooking the verdant plain. East, west, north, and south, beauty, peace, and verdure were seen, and the rich alluvial soil ready to respond to the touch of him who seeks for food. Blessed be the all provident power of God.

Yonder towards the west, my attention was directed toward a dense mist that seemed to be rising before the morning light. Beneath the mist I saw what seemed to be a multitude of people. I turned, and to my right I discovered a personage with thoughtful, earnest brow, yet with a sad and troubled look, also gazing earnestly at the multitude. I had seen him before. I knew him to be of high and noble birth. His name is Reason. I knew him to have a lofty mission from God. I asked him the meaning of the multitude. He told me they were striving to erect a building by the command of God. The foundations have been laid for ages. A proclamation had gone forth that upon the foundation laid, a building should be erected, to glitter with gold, silver, and precious stones. The plans and specifications were drawn up in the courts of heaven, and all the conditions were made very plain, and very exacting, so as to insure a perfect building; not one imperfect stone or imperfectly laid piece of material would be allowed to remain in place; as it was evident if it did, that all that would be built upon the imperfect work would have to be destroyed, to get back to the perfect symmetry of the perfect foundation. And besides, it was intended that the building should be everlasting in its character.

It was intended by the Architect, that all the workmen engaging to work upon the building, should be imbued with the loftiest, purest, and holiest motives, in the work. That love, gentleness, justice, and mercy, and charity, should fill their hearts. And indeed, except these principles do fill their hearts, they soon fail in the peculiar intelligence needed to do the work, and to select proper material, especially as imperfect material lies about in great abundance; for while it is true the Architect has placed close to the foundation, bright and proper material in abundance, there are about and in the midst of the multitude, many emissaries of an enemy, who desires to hinder and destroy his designs. Their names are—Envy, Strife, Evil surmising, Jealousy, False pride, Prejudice, Wilful ignorance, False ambition, Zeal without humility. These emissaries, and many others, have been very diligent in placing imperfect building material in the midst of that provided by the Architect for the use of His workmen. And it requires great wisdom to be always able to distinguish the good from the bad. The last mentioned emissary of the enemy is one of the most dangerous, as he is always an enemy of the Architect; yet he often leads persons to suppose from the excess of zeal without humility, and therefore without knowledge—which he instills into those over whom he obtains influence, the opinion that he is an indispensable friend; and where careful, prayerful workmanship is most needed, this self-sufficient, arrogant zeal, often leads honest souls to neglect the simple perfect laws the Architect has given, and to thinking more of the laws of the creature than the Creator, thus becoming a law unto themselves, so that in supposed strength, but direct weakness, they zealously build that which must be destroyed. And the more thus built without humility, the greater the loss. I noticed some over whom this evil had gained sway, that with satisfaction they thought of the amount they had builded; and seemed lost to the fact that it was not gold, silver, and precious stones that had been used by them for material.

My guide continued—"I said the foundation had been laid for ages. Ages ago men built upon it. Some with proper material, but, alas, many with imperfect material, some even with wood, hay and stubble. Thus you see, though the foundation is still all there, but little of the superstructure has been completed; for all the work done with imperfect material has been destroyed, rejected. Then through the failure to follow the directions in regard to the work, the intelligence necessary to enable persons to learn the situation of the true foundation whereupon to build, has been lost; and multitudes, for ages, have been led here and there, by blind guides unauthorized by the Architect, and therefore uninstructed in regard to the true nature of the foundation. Hence they have arisen from time to time saying, Lo, here is the true foundation, and Lo, there. As a result of these blind guides, vast multitudes here and there over earth's fair domains, are building on shifting sands.

Thus for ages the foundation has been lost, and man through unbelief, has lost the glorious opportunity of working on the foundation, and thereby accomplishing, through the perfect law of God, the glorious result of earth's redemption from evil.

Here is a multitude of people, led by one authorized by the Architect, and instructed fully as to the whereabouts of the true foundation, and how and with what material to build. They have begun. Many have worked hard and passed beyond. Much work has been built of an enduring character, but alas, mingled with it is so much to be destroyed, that the remaining part seems very little."

I had watched with anxious eyes the people at work. "Let us approach nearer to the multitude."—"With my guide I came close to the foundation. Surely,

I thought, the Architect well said long ago, that if men builded hereon with proper material, that though wind and storms beat upon it, it would not fall. Powerful and strong it is as the pillars of heaven, broad and deep as infinity.

The first workman to demand our attention was a very aged, feeble old man; yet he was working with joy, at times in sorrow; for the enemy's emissaries had at times deceived him, and caused him to build differently from the instructions of the Architect whom he loved. Some of his work had not stood the test of the Architect's examination, as was evident from the wrecked fragments of work that lay at his feet. But he was building more carefully. I now noticed another very strange thing, that when any work was built on the foundation in strict accordance with the rules given by the Architect for the workmen, it emitted a glorious light. This did not appear in the imperfect work. My guide informed me that this was a distinctive trait of the work that would remain. If the work was not of an enduring character, it was dull and lifeless, even dark like night, in color.

My heart went out for the old man, for I saw his patience and humble zeal. I also saw with joy, that even though his strength did not seem greater than for his own task, yet he seemed ever ready to help with willing hand, others who were fainter and weaker than he. [At times I saw him take of the rare and precious stone, charity, of which there is abundant provision, but often hard to find by reason of the great amount of dark material mingled with the precious stones, I would see him, his hands filled with these precious stones; hasten to provide some weaker one with material, and kind encouragement, until, with empty hands, he would return to seek for more. Patiently he worked in love. The storms of passion, hate and sin found no resting place with him.

Yonder I see a woman at work. Weak and weary she seems, and yet upon her worn face there gleams a look of heavenly joy and radiant peace. Upon one of her weary arms she bears a babe. I approach closer to see her work. The stones with which she has builded are very small, but O, so bright (the widow's mite), and from the portion of the wall upon which she has toiled there comes a radiant light. Above her I think I hear a voice, sweet and low, like softest zephyr sounds. It seems to say, Eternal rest is near for thee, and joy, joy, joy.

Again I see a little child at work. She is laying little treasures of precious worth upon the walls. I ask my guide the name of some of them. They are so bright, and yet the hands that lay them are so weak and so small. He tells me that the names of the stones are obedience, love, study of useful things, charity, gentle words, true modesty, patience. And how they shine (and a little child shall lead them).

Yonder I see a youth, in the first flush of manhood, building; how strong, clear, and bright his work does look. May he continue carefully, prayerfully, for I see the influence of one of the emissaries of the enemy close to him, striving to place a dark, worthless stone in his hand, with which to build. But he has the precious stone of humility in his hand, which reflects back such a bright light that he sees by its reflection, the worthless nature of the stone offered, and takes the material of godly walk and conversation, sobriety and temperance, zeal with knowledge, zeal with patience, zeal with humility, soft answers that turn away wrath, and many other stones of like worth, seeking carefully with the light he is able to retain from the possession of the precious stone of humility. How strong, how glorious his work appears, worthy of the wonderful foundation. Yes, for the material, like that of the foundation, came from heaven ("all good comes from above, and all evil from beneath"). May God help him to continue in the possession of humility and truth, and help him to continue to reject all worthless material offered him, and build to the end of the work with gold, silver and precious stones.

I observed now a thing which gave much joy to the workers with the good material: and that was, that the work they did while they were humble and careful to follow the directions given them, not only reflected light back upon them, and enabled them to choose the proper material, but it also enabled others who had drawn near to the foundation to see the beauty, and to understand and admire the work; that they too desired and did begin to assist with the work. ("That others seeing your good works may glorify your Father which is in heaven"). And thus they continued rejoicing in the work. Many others I saw doing shining, eternal work, old and young. I felt to rejoice with great rejoicing. My guide also assumed a look of peaceful joy. Why, I ask him, was your brow so troubled and your look so sad when first I saw you gazing on the multitude. Look again, he said.

I now discovered that because of the reflected light upon the work we had been gazing upon, I had failed to notice multitudes around and among them also at work. I felt my heart go out to them also; but alas, in sadness and distress, and sad foreboding for the future of their work. From their work there came no reflection of light, no luster. It was dull, dead, dark, and would have to perish. No gold, no silver, no precious stones. Instead there was chaff, lusterless stones, material of no value. The more of this work done, the greater the fall. Poor souls, how earnestly some of them work. They are sure of the foundation. Yes, they have no doubt of that, but they have forgotten to take heed how they build thereon. My guide continued: "Some attempt to build with stones, and material which we will name after the emissaries who introduce their dark stones among the Architect's material. Here is one who has built much with zeal without knowledge, and zeal without humility, and zeal without charity. These are very mischievous stones. All work done with them will have to be destroyed; for with zeal without knowledge they have the Architect's directions, "In vain do ye call Lord, Lord, and do not the things I say." Of zeal without humility, they have the instructions "That except ye become as a little child, ye can in no wise enter the kingdom of heaven." Also of zeal without charity, they have the instructions from one bearing authority from the Architect, that "Though I speak with the tongues of men and of angels, and have not charity, I am become as a sounding brass or a tinkling cymbal. And though I bestow all my goods to feed the poor, and though I give my body to be burned and have not charity, I am nothing." "Charity suffereth long and is kind; charity envieth not, charity vaunteth not itself, is not puffed up." Each of these stones will have to come out of the wall.

O fatal error, with what satisfaction the deluded one vaunteth the work he hath done. Will not some good angel open the eyes of all such earnest workers ere it is too late? The law of the Architect is strict, but very plain; so plain that a wayfaring man need not err therein. Yet, "his just; no work can remain in the building that does not accord strictly with the plan; it must perish, else the building would be composed of the weakness of man, and not the perfection of God. Sad I felt as we advanced along the walls upon these perfect foundations, so much lusterless work is being built but to be destroyed.

As we advance, I see numbers who seem to be mingling with the workmen, and yet I look in vain for their work upon the foundation. I can discover none. I ask my guide, Are they not also workers? If not, why are they here in the midst of the dangers and discomforts that surround the building being erected? He answered, "They enlisted as workers, and made a covenant with the Architect that they would work in accordance with His directions. But thus far they have suffered the time to pass without even commencing to work. This is very sad, as they are to receive wages according to the work they do, and the manner in which they do it. If they do no work the reward of the unfaithful is theirs. Not only are they losing time, but the emissaries of the enemy are peculiarly successful with those who are not diligent. They are in great danger."

As we passed some portions of the walls I observed a thing strange and very sad. My guide's face assumed a stern aspect, and one of intense sadness. The cause was this: Some of the workmen who had been deceived into using the dark material for building, had become imbued with the intense darkness that emanated from the work they had done with the dark, dull stones and worthless material. If a radiant influence and light proceeded from the good material, so an influence and effect opposite in its character came forth from the opposite material. As the effect of the good was to increase the intelligence of the persons so building, so the other increased the darkness. Thus they became at times so affected with an unreasonable dislike for the work of their fellows, that often they would tear down and destroy their work. Indeed, so darkened did they become, that they would wantonly destroy the work of years, simply through bitterness of spirit. I asked my guide if these persons who had built wisely, and thus had their work destroyed, would lose the reward of their labors. He answered: "Nay, the Architect has means whereby account is kept of all work done, by whom done and how done; and none shall lose their reward if their work is destroyed by no fault of their own."

O for wisdom to guide the workers, that all may build and none destroy. My guide also informed me that they who work according to the directions given, use a cement to connect the precious stones together. The cement is composed of truth and consistency—truth to connect the stones, that there be no wide seams, and consistency so that the cement may not become brittle, and so fail to hold properly.

My attention was also directed to two exceedingly dark kinds of stones that lay about in great abundance among the material about the foundation. I was informed that the names of these stones were envy and petty ambition. I observed with sorrow that many of those who had long been building successfully, unfortunately at times, by allowing themselves to gaze too long upon these fatal stones, would become imbued with their influence, when finally they would place one of them upon their shinning work. This always had a very fatal effect; the workman, no matter how useful he had been, would now become blind, and make use of much material that would necessitate the destruction of what he had builded; unless he would speedily discover his mistake, and remove the stones, his hours of useful work would be passed.

I also noticed that for the sake of order, and because it was a part of the plan, some of the workmen were appointed as overseers of different portions of the work, and to assist the people in their different duties. Many did their work nobly, and so long as they kept much of the precious stone of humility about them, and studied diligently to learn their duty, they did well, and great was their joy. But alas, some of these men often became a hindrance to the poor workmen whom they ought to be helping, by reason of two dark and fatal stones, which the enemy of the Architect would endeavor, by every means, to place in the hands of these overseers and watchmen. These stones, my guide informed me, are called arrogance and presumption. And I saw that after they would possess one of these stones, and become influenced by the black darkness that came from it so dense, that like a fog it could be felt, these men lost their influence, and seldom again became efficient servants. My guide informed me that the Architect, having foreseen this peculiar danger that these men would fall into, had specially directed them to a very bright stone called meekness. ("Come learn of me, for I am meek and lowly of heart"). So the work went on, some paying strict attention to the plans and specifications, and some ignoring all except such portions as were agreeable to them.

At last, turning to my guide, I asked, What shall be the end, for the night is approaching? "Come with me," he said, "to yonder mountain, and we shall see." Attaining the mountain's height, he said: "Turn and look." A heavy darkness hung over all the plain. "Tis night now," he said, "when no man can work. The Architect, attended by the hosts of heaven, will come and finish the rest. The faithful laborers have ascended, the unfaithful have perished." Over the plain the fury of a great storm is gathering. The purifying lightnings of Omnipotence flash, the terrible thunders roll. Flame from above descends and laps with destroying tongue till nothing but that which stands the purifying trial by fire remains. The storm of fury at last ceases. All nature becomes calm, and darkness lies over all. With soul filled with awe, I turn to my guide, and ask again, What of the end? He answered, "The morning approaches, and that foreseen by John upon Patmos will soon be fulfilled, wherein he said: 'And I heard a great voice from heaven, saying, Behold the tabernacle of God is with men, and He will dwell with them, and they shall be His people, and God himself shall be with them. And shall wipe away all tears from their eyes, and there shall be no more death, neither sorrow, nor crying, neither shall there be any more pain; for the former things are passed away. And he that sat upon the throne said, Behold I make all things new. And he said unto me, Write, for these words are true and faithful. And he said unto me, It is done. I am Alpha and Omega, the beginning and the end. I will give unto him that is athirst of the fountain of the water of life freely. He that overcometh shall inherit all things, and I will be his God, and he shall be my Son.'—Rev. 21: 3-7.

EVANGELIA LOST, a duet by Bro. J. Cole Moxon. Fine souvenir engraving of the little gospel boat. Everyone should possess a copy. Not a very great many of them left, better send in your orders for one or more before there is nothing left you but regrets that you do not possess a copy. Only 25 cents each. Let us hear from you promptly.

BEING SUBMISSIVE.

We often pray that God would help us to be submissive to His holy will. Ah, dear Saints, let us stop a moment and think, ask ourselves the question, What does that mean? To the mind of the writer it means very much; it means a full and complete giving up of self and of all of our own natural inclinations and desires, and being perfectly willing to be led by the Spirit of God, which leads us contrary to our own will and way. Let us remember that to be spiritually minded is life, but to be carnally (or natural) minded, is death. Now, how can we be spiritually minded and not be willing to submit to the will of our heavenly Father?

Whenever and wherever God has His church, he always speaks to His children, tells them what to do; now, if God tells us to do anything, it is our duty to do it, and leave the results with Him.

Now, while there are many, many things we might mention, there is one thing I wish to mention in brief, that is in regard to the will of God in behalf of His children when sick and afflicted. Listen to the word of the Lord given to us in this last dispensation; He says if we are sick to call for the elders of the church. "But," says one, "we do not all have faith." True, but listen further, "If any have not faith to be healed, let them call for the elders, two or more, let them pray over them, anointing them with oil in the name of the Lord; and if they live they live unto me, and if they die they die unto me; and they shall be nourished with herbs and mild food, and not by the hands of an enemy." Now, brothers and sisters, we are our own free agents: we can do the will of God in this, as well as other things, or we can do our own will; which will we do? I feel to say not my will but Thy will be done.

I beg leave to tell a little of my experience. Some time ago I took the chills and fever, called for the elders, was administered to, and after the administration the elder said he would send to the drug store and get so and so, it was good, etc. This had a tendency to weaken my faith, I got no better; the brethren and sisters would come to see me, and seemed to not like to see me suffer, and first one and then another would tell me what would cure me; some would tell me to go to the doctor and get a prescription. This still weakened me, so I got some medicine, took it for some time, got worse all the time. One day while lying on the bed burning with fever, I got to thinking of the promises of God and how little I had heeded His words, when all at once the Spirit of God came to me and I breathed a silent, earnest prayer to Him that if He would forgive me I would trust and serve Him better in the future; then a voice seemed to say, Let the medicine alone, heed My words, and you will get well, and have a testimony to bear of My goodness. Well did our Savior say, Man shall not live by bread alone, but by every word of God. Brothers and sisters, I have not taken anything but consecrated oil as medicine since; am as stout as I ever was in my life, got well right away. Remember, God is no respecter of persons. I am in the work for life and to do all I can to help my brothers and sisters live nearer to God.

Your brother,
G. W. HANCOCK.
HOLDEN, Mo.

MEDITATIONS.

As children of God, who have yielded obedience to the gospel law in latter days, we are privileged to be blessed with good thoughts, inasmuch as we strive diligently to do the will of our heavenly Father. And I have thought that it is one of the duties we owe to our Master and to each other, that we impart such thoughts, in converse or by writing, to aid others to walk the narrow way that leads to eternal life. And I have also thought that if we can thus be a means to help others to endure the vicissitudes of the present life, we secure thereby spiritual strength, in keeping with the soul cheering promises of sacred writ, "Glorious are the fruit of good labors," "Good understanding gaineth favor," and "If a man's ways please the Lord, He will make even his enemies to be at peace with him."

A LAMONIAN.

Our Overfurnished Homes.

"More simplicity in our homes would make our lives simpler," writes Edward Bok in a plea for the exercise of better taste in furnishing our homes, in the November Ladies' Home Journal. "Many women would live fuller lives because they would have more time. As it is, hundreds of women of all positions in life are today the slaves of their homes and what they have crowded into them. Comfort is essential to our happiness. But with comfort we should stop. Then we are on the safe side. But we get on and over the danger line when we go beyond. Not one-tenth of the things that we think are essential to our happiest living are really so. In fact, we should be an infinitely happier and healthier people if the nine-tenths were taken out of our lives. It is astonishing how much we can do without and be a thousand times the better for it. And it does not require much to test this gospel of wisdom. We need only to be natural; to get back to our real, inner selves. Then we are simple. It is only because we have got away from the simple and the natural that so many of our homes are cluttered up as they are, and our lives full of little things that are not worth the while. We have bent the knee to show, to display, and we have lowered ourselves in doing it; surrounded ourselves with the trivial and the useless; and filling our lives with the poison of artificiality and the unnatural, we have pushed the Real; the Natural; the Simple; the Beautiful—the best and most lasting things out of our lives."

HEART DISEASES TREATED FREE.

THE CELEBRATED CHICAGO HEART SPECIALIST, FRANKLIN MILES, M. D., LL. B., WILL SEND $2.50 WORTH OF HIS NEW INDIVIDUAL TREATMENT FREE.

The afflicted reader will certainly never have a better chance to try a new and highly recommended Treatment for Heart Disease, complicated with Headache, Dizziness, Dulness, Neuralgia, Backache, Weak Stomach, Nervousness, Sleeplessness, Strabismus, etc.

Dr. Miles' Individual Treatment is the latest result of twenty-five years of laborious investigation and extensive experience, and his New Treatment is eminently scientific, and three times as successful as the usual methods.

Many hundreds of prominent people have testified to the almost miraculous results of this new treatment. The doctor has for years been well and favorably known as a leading specialist in these diseases, and his offer should certainly be accepted by the afflicted reader.

Hundreds of so called "Incurable" cases have been cured by this new system of personal treatment by mail. A thorough reference to and from Bishops, Clergymen, Physicians, Lawyers, Farmers, etc., sent upon request. Mr. C. M. Buck, a prominent banker of Faribault, Minnesota, was cured after six eminent physicians of Chicago and elsewhere had failed. Mr. J. S. Zent, of Indianapolis, State Representative of the New York Life Insurance Co., was cured after failure of many physicians.

Dr. Miles has had twenty-five years of experience, and he is well and favorably known throughout the country. He has an able and extensive corps of assistants and investigators in his private offices. He has patients in every State, Territory, Canada, Mexico, South America, Alaska, Africa and New Zealand. He cordially invites the afflicted to write to him. Candid advice given without charge.

You may never have another such opportunity. Do not fail to write for $2.50 worth of free treatment. Address Dr. FRANKLIN MILES, 201 to 209 State Street, Chicago. Please mention this paper and carefully describe your case.

SPECIAL BARGAINS

Combination No. 1.—$1.00.

From Palmyra to Independence (paper cover).....	3
Book of Mormon Vindicated (paper cover).....	30
The Book of Mormon and its Translator.....	10
The Books and Utah Mormonism in Contrast.....	10
The Legal Successor in the Presidency of the Church.....	10

Total, $1.25

All the above post paid to any address for $1.00.

Palmyra to Independence will be sent in cloth cover for 30 cents extra, or Book of Mormon Vindicated in cloth cover for 20 cents extra, or both for 50 cents extra.

Combination No. 2.—$1.00.

Spiritual Gifts and the Seer of Palmyra.....	25
Faulty Creeds.....	20
Creeds Laid Bare.....	10
The Resurrection of the Wicked.....	10
Who Was Joseph Smith? Was He a False Prophet?.....	10
The Book of Mormon and its Translator.....	10
The Legal Successor in the Presidency of the Church.....	10
The Apostasy of the Church.....	10
The Joseph Smith Interview, What We Believe.....	05
The Law of Life, The Restoration of Israel, A Retrospective View of the Reorganization, God is Light, The Marriage Relation, Save Yourselves.....	15

Total, $1.25

This combination will also be sent to any address on receipt of $1.00. For either of the above the cash must accompany the order.

Address, ENSIGN PUBLISHING HOUSE, Independence, Mo.

To Restore Polish to Brass.

If the bars on the bedstead are real brass the polish may be restored in the following manner: Rub them with rottenstone and oil, or with any of the good brass polishes that are in the market. When clean, burnish them by rubbing with a clean flannel cloth until the brass is hot. After this varnish or shellac them. Nearly all brass beds and brass trimmings on beds are finished with some kind of varnish, and such finishes should be treated with great care. When soiled, wipe with a cloth moistened with oil, and then wipe with a soft, dry cloth.—Maria Parlova in the December Ladies' Home Journal.

Inferior Items.

We know that intelligent beings called man exist. We are evidenced that a higher power called God exists also; and that a cunning evil power called Satan, with many assistants, does likewise exist. We experience that as sure as we cultivate and practice good thoughts, words and deeds that God helps us; and as sure as we give way to wrong impressions and speak carelessly and ill of others, and do what we know is wrong, we are then taken advantage of by the evil one, and then downward is our course. Moral: Let us choose good and practice it to a final portion with the just in life beyond.

INFERIOR.

WHEN the chimney is cold it is often difficult to light a fire without making a great deal of smoke. To prevent this, burn a few pieces of paper in the chimney, or smoke flue, and thus start an upward current.—December Ladies' Home Journal.

ANYONE in a position to use church literature to good advantage apply to M. H. Clark, Box 4, Station A, Kansas City, Missouri. We have a large supply on hand and at our disposal, and trust you will make your wants known.

SAINTS who contemplate making Independence their home, or those already here, who desire to secure a lot in eligible, well situated property, would do well to see the Wilson Lawn addition, owned by Bro. Ellis Short, and situated near Pacific Bridge, Independence.

THE SERMONS of the Rev. Dr. Newell Dwight Hillis (Plymouth Church, Brooklyn), Successor to Henry Ward Beecher, are published in the Brooklyn Daily Eagle every Monday, together with full reports of the sermons of Pastors of prominent churches in Greater New York. The Monday Eagle contains more articles on homiletics than any other daily paper in the United States. Samples sent on request. Subscription price per year, $1.50. Address, The Brooklyn Daily Eagle, Brooklyn, N. Y.

NOTICE.

To all who expect to buy or move to Independence with a view of residing here permanently.—I am prepared to furnish you with all the information needed in regard to real estate, if you will enclose stamp for reply. Now is a very good time to buy; values are at a very low ebb, and the Saints may as well take advantage of it.

Your brother, W. S. LOAR.

Books and Pamphlets

PRICE LIST

- 'FROM PALMYRA TO INDEPENDENCE,' by Elder R. Etzenhouser, 444 pages. Cloth binding, $1.00. Paper binding, 65c.
'AUTOBIOGRAPHY OF ELDER JOSEPH LUFF,' 377 pages; cloth bound; 3 illustrations. Reduced from $1.00 to 75c.
'THREE BIBLES COMPARED,' by Elder R. Etzenhouser; paper binding; 5 for $1.00; each, 25c.
'THE BOOK OF MORMON VINDICATED,' by Elder I. M. Smith; 112 pages; Paper cover, 4 for 1.00; each, 30c.
'SERIAL GARDEN THE GARDEN OF PALMYRA,' by Elder M. H. Bond, of the Seventy; 58 pages, paper bound, with fine engraving of the author. 25c.
'FAULTY CREEDS,' by Elder R. C. Evans; 6 for $1.00; each, 20c.
'THE BOOK OF MORMON IN CONTRAST,' by Elder R. Etzenhouser; paper cover; 20 for $1.00, 3 for 25c; each, 10c.
'THE CREDS LAID BARE,' by Elder R. Etzenhouser; paper cover; 3 for 25c; each, 10c.
'THE RESTORATION OF THE WICKED,' by Elder W. J. Smith; 39 pages, paper cover, 3 for 25c; each, 10c.
'WHO WAS JOSEPH SMITH?—WAS HE A FALSE PROPHET?' by Elder J. W. Peterson of the Quorum of Seventy; 39 pages; paper cover; engraving of author; 3 for 25c; each, 10c.
'THE BOOK OF MORMON AND ITS TRANSLATOR,' by Elder R. Etzenhouser; 27 pages, paper cover; 3 for 25c; each, 10c.
'THE GREAT SUNDAY,' by Apostle J. W. Wight; 90c per doz.; 3 for 25c; each, 10c.
'APOSTASY OF THE CHURCH,' by Apostle J. W. Wight; 40 pages, paper cover; 3 for 25c; each, 10c.
'THE MORMON WAY,' by Elder T. C. Kelley; 68 pages; paper cover; each, 10c.
'THE JOSEPH SMITH INTERVIEW,' Elder Joseph Luff's answer to Elder R. J. Parker; by E. L. Kelley; per hundred 90c per doz, 15c; 6 for 1.00; 2 for 30c.
'IS WATER BAPTISM ESSENTIAL TO SALVATION,' by Elder Joseph Luff, 90c per 100; 15c per doz; 3 for 40c.
'WHAT WE BELIEVE,' The Epitome of Faith, with quotations given in full. 20c Per doz.; 2 for 35c.
'EVAHELIA LOST,' a duet for soprano and tenor; words by J. Cole Moxon; music by W. H. Lieb. 25c

SERMON PAMPHLETS.

- The following pamphlets 5 cents each, 3 for 10 cents, 6 for 15 cents, or 25 cents per dozen:
'Signs of the Times,' Revised and Enlarged, by Elder J. S. Roth; 70 pages; illustrated.
'The Book of Mormon; or Evidences of its Divinity,' by Elder R. C. Evans; 58 pages.
'The Law of Life,' by Elder F. M. Cooper; 38 pages.
'The Restoration of Israel,' by Elder S. W. L. Scott; 46 pages.
'A Retrospective View of the Reorganization,' by E. C. Briggs; 36 pages.
'Gospel Message,' by President Joseph Smith; 64 pages.
'Modern Knowledge of the Antiquities of America,' by Elder H. A. Stebbins; 34 pages.
'Creed Making: Man Shall Not Add To,' Taken From the Word of God,' by Elder I. M. Smith; 36 pages.
'Antiquarian Evidence Concerning the Book of Mormon,' by Elder E. L. Kelley; 40 pages.
'Joseph Smith: Was He a Prophet of God?' by Elder R. C. Evans; 40 pages.
'Sign Seekers,' by Elder I. M. Smith; 32 pages.
'Gospel Antiquity,' by Elder Joseph Luff; 39 pages.
'God is Light,' by Elder W. H. Kelley; 46 pages.
'Why is the Baptist Church,' by Elder W. H. Kephart; 33 pages.
'The Marriage Relation,' by Elder J. W. Wight; 41 pages.
'The Personality of God and Doctrine of Christ,' by Elder J. S. Roth; 58 pages.
'Save Yourselves,' by Elder I. M. Smith; 34 pages.

We also fill orders for all Herald office publications. Address all orders and make all remittances to ENSIGN PUBLISHING HOUSE, Box B, Independence, Mo.

Missouri Pacific Railroad.

Quick time, good connections, low rates to all points. Rates, time cards, etc., cheerfully furnished on application. F. A. MILLARD, Agent. Telephone 17.

Eyes Tested Free! FUCHS Jewelers & Opticians. DEALERS IN Diamonds, Watches, Clocks, Silver-ware and Fancy Goods. Sewing Machines and all supplies. Fine Watch and Jewelry Repairing a Specialty. CHRISTMAS NOVELTIES. South Side Square, Independence, Mo.

OUR ANGELS WHISPER Family Register, Marriage Certificate, Lord's Prayer and other pictures are quick sellers. Agents wanted for above and other goods. Address (Bro.) E. F. Ordway & Co., Peoria, Ill.

$495. Will buy 4+ acres with four room cottage, barn, well, etc., in west Lamon. Only a small payment required to secure this home, and it is a bargain for some one. Apply to Lock Box 7, Lamon, Iowa.

GRAGELAND COLLEGE, LAMONI, IOWA. Send for Catalogue, to I. W. ALLENDER, Secretary, Lamon, Iowa.

Send for Catalogue, to I. W. ALLENDER, Secretary, Lamon, Iowa.

EUGENE FIELD'S POEMS A $7.00 BOOK. Given Free to each person interested in subscribing to the Eugene Field Memorial Souvenir Fund. Subscribers may amount their contributions as low as $1.00 with entire freedom to the artistic value of their contribution.

50 YEARS' EXPERIENCE PATENTS TRADE MARKS DESIGNS & COPIRIGHTS & C. Scientific American.

We are receiving orders for Bro. A. Haws' little book, "Sabatarian Theories a Delusion," a review of the arguments of the Seventh Day advocates. It is a useful little work, and we have heard only words of commendation for it. We can fill all orders, 15 cents each.

STATE SAVINGS BANK OF LAMONI, Incorporated under the laws of the State of Iowa, July 1, 1898. Offers depositors a safe bank for their savings, and solicits the correspondence and deposits of all Iowa residents, and will pay four per cent interest per annum on your deposits. Send money by Bank Draft, or Express or Post Office order, or Registered Letter, or your private depository, or any bank in the United States or Canada, and direct your letter to W. A. Hopkins, Cashier of the State Savings Bank of Lamon, Lamon, Iowa. Upon receipt of annual certificates of deposits, you may be issued and sent on return mail to the sender. This bank has facilities for handling all your business by keeping surplus funds invested in safe and available securities and has already received deposits from several different states. All letters containing instructions should be addressed to the undersigned.

Broken Bric-a-Bracs.

Mr. Major, the famous cement man, of New York, explains some very interesting facts about Major's Cement. The multitudes who use this standard article know that it is many hundred per cent better than other cements for which similar claims are made, but a great many do not know why. The simple reason is that Mr. Major uses the best materials ever discovered and other manufacturers do not use them, because they are too expensive and do not work large profits. Mr. Major tells us that one of the elements of his cement costs $5.75 a pound, and another costs $3.65 a gallon, while a large share of the so-called cements and liquid glue on the market are nothing more than sixteen-cent glue, dissolved in water or citric acid, and in some cases, altered slightly in color and odor by the addition of cheap and useless materials. Major's Cement retails at fifteen cents per twenty-five cents a bottle, and when a dealer tries to sell a substitute you can depend upon it that his only object is to make larger profit. The profit on Major's Cement is as much as any dealer ought to make on any cement. And this is doubly true in view of the fact that each dealer gets his share of the benefit of Major's advertising, which now amounts to over $5,000 a month throughout the country. Established in 1876. Insist on having Major's. Don't accept any off-hand advice from a druggist. If you are at all handy (and you will be likely to find that you are a good deal more so than you imagine) you can repair your rubber boots and family shoes, and any other wet and leaky articles with Major's Rubber Cement and Major's Leather Cement. And you will be surprised at how many dollars a year you will thus save. If your druggist cannot supply you, it will be forwarded by mail; either kind. Free of postage.

THEY ADMIT IT.

Pro. Hull, Chaucery, Ohio, says we saved him $12.00 on a $13.40 suit. Bro. Farrell, West Sullivan, Maine, writes that we saved him $5.00 on a $7.00 suit. Youth's heavy three-piece suit, age 12 to 18, $3.60. Goods are all sent prepaid.

MEN'S SACK SUITS.

Black, all wool worsted Men's Suits, four button, round or square cut. 14 ounce $7.00; 16 ounce $7.25; 18 ounce $8.25; 20 ounce $8.75. Extra line, strictly all wool Oxford steel gray, heavy; worth $18.00, price $13.00.

PRINCE ALBERT SUITS.

Same goods as above, 14 oz. $9.50; 16 oz. $10.00; 18 oz. $11.00; 20 oz. $11.50. 14 oz. French Twill Sacks, worth $18.00, price $9.00. Prince Alberts, worth $25.00, $13.50.

Make all drafts, express and money orders payable at Seymour, Mo. Send commands for your orders and registered letters to Cumorah, Mo. THE B. T. ATWELL CO., Cumorah, Mo.

QUIT-TO-BAC CURES THE TOBACCO HABIT.

3 BOXES, POSTPAID, $1.50 (U.S. Stamp or Money Order) With Positive Guarantee of Cure, or Money Cheerfully Refunded. You Run No Risk; why not try it and be a free man? Address, (Bro.) B. F. ORDWAY, Peoria, Ill.

SPALDING'S COMMERCIAL COLLEGE. (INCORPORATED) East Wing, N. Y. Life Bldg., Kansas City, Mo. Bookkeeping, Short-hand, Typewriting, Telegraphy, English Branches. Twenty Rooms, Sixteen Lecturers. No Yearly Tuition. Register at Once. Free Catalogue. FREE EMPLOYMENT BUREAU. Tel. 174. J. F. Spalding, A. M., Pres.

DR. JOS. MATHER, PHYSICIAN. Office at Residence, 301 S. Spring St., INDEPENDENCE, MO. CALLS ANSWERED NIGHT OR DAY. Phone 190-3.

CANCER CURED WITH SOOTHING BALMY OILS. Cancer, Gonor, Catarrh, Piles, Fistula, Ulcers, Boreas, and all kinds of Wound Diseases. Dr. B. E. YERGEN, 309 S. 11th St., Independence, Mo.

$5.00 BOX RAIN COAT This Regular $5.00 Waterproof is now selling for $2.75. Send no money. Cut this ad out. State your height and send to us. We will send you a sample of our number of inches around body taken over your head, and we will send you arms, and we will send you full coat by express C. O. D., subject to examination. Examine it at your nearest dry goods store. If you are not satisfied, we will refund the money. This is the most wonderful bargain you ever saw or heard of, and equal to any $10.00 coat on the market, pay the agent our special manufacturer's price $2.00 and express charge.

SUBSCRIBE FOR THE College City Chronicle The Leading Local Paper of LAMONI, IOWA. Published Weekly by the Chronicle Publishing Co.

R. R. TIME TABLES.

Table with columns for Train Name, Direction, and Time. Includes Missouri Pacific-Main Line Depot, Trains West, Trains East, and Liberty Street Depot.

CHICAGO & ALTON.

Table with columns for Train Name, Direction, and Time. Includes East Bound and West Bound trains.

Daughters of Zion.

"OUR AIM, MANKIND TO BLESS."

MRS. H. B. GURTIS, Editor.

The Daughters of Zion is an organization in the church, of mothers and others who are interested in the welfare of our homes. Under the supervision of the general society, local societies are established, where they may meet to consider together their work as home keepers, and as moulders of character. Their purpose is to increase love for the home, to promote social purity, to study the problem of child care and development; that thus they may better prepare themselves for their responsibility as wives and mothers, and that from the home may go the influence that shall fulfill their aim, which is "mankind to bless." Have you a local in your branch? If not, can you not organize one? Send to the corresponding secretary for constitutions. The Advisory Committee will be pleased to hear from you, and will gladly furnish you any assistance in their power. Send your list of names of members to the recording secretary.

ADVISORY COMMITTEE.

- Mrs. Mary E. Hulmes, President, Independence, Missouri.
- Mrs. E. H. Robinson, Corresponding Secretary, Independence, Missouri.
- Mrs. B. C. Smith, Independence, Missouri.
- Mrs. Lucina Etzenbouser, 2417 Prospect St., Kansas City, Missouri.
- Mrs. Clara Frick, Independence, Missouri.

- Mrs. Callie B. Stebbins, Recording Secretary, Lamoni, Iowa.
- Mrs. Anna Murphy, Treasurer, Independence, Missouri.

Editor's address, 3188 Olive St., St. Louis, Missouri.

LET me say to my girls at this time, in the words of the sweet singer of ancient Israel, "O, magnify the Lord with me, and let us exalt his name together." It seems to me it must be very pleasing to God that one day in our year be set apart for thanksgiving and praise. Surely one day is too short in which to thank Him for all the mercies of which we are the recipients. Every day and every hour should be filled with praise to Him. Did you ever think, girls, what a glorious thing it is to be young? To feel the young blood course through your veins, and have fullness of joy simply in living? Ah! think of it now, and go down on your knees in prayer to God for His Spirit to make this, your springtime of life, so full of sunshine and gladness, that it may remain, like the leaves, and turn to brilliancy and glory when the autumn shall be upon you.

When I go abroad upon the streets, I always breathe a prayer of thanksgiving that God has blessed me with soundness of body. I see so many poor creatures hobbling on crutches, wheeled in chairs, or even making their way on wretched stumps, possibly without arms as well, that I invariably say, "I will never complain of my lot again;" but sometimes I do, forgetting that I have been favored of the Lord. I don't think any of us are thankful enough for the common blessings of life, such as food, raiment, shelter and loved ones. Common, did I say? I mean common only in the sense that we have them every day and are so used to them that we do not appreciate them. Home and loved ones, is no common blessing, surely.

Then listen, our young daughters of Israel, who, in the providence of God, will be the mothers of those who shall enter in and enjoy the promised land, are you thankful enough for this gospel, this thing that is unlike anything else in the world, the wonderful light that will illumine our pathway all through life? Are you studying and perhaps, but it may be your duties lie close to home. Don't neglect little ones to attend a Prayer Union, and don't endanger your health and future usefulness by attending more meetings in a week than is consistent with the condition of your body—particularly if it is taxed during the day at desk or counter, as so many of our young are. Our course of action as outlined by the Father is temperance, early retiring and early rising, thus building up mind and body. The fact that we have undertaken more than we can accomplish consistent with the counsel He has given us, will prove to our own detriment, for which He is not in any way to blame, neither should He be called upon to operate contrary to His wisdom made manifest to us.

Again, girls, I am thankful for our cozy corner in the ENSIGN. Are you? I hope next year we will be enabled to chronicle some true progress. Progression is thanksgiving in the highest acceptance of the term.

Thanksgiving is essentially a home festival. Let us, therefore, rejoice in our homes today, looking forward to that greater, happier Thanksgiving when we shall all be gathered to our homes in Zion, from whence shall come continually "thanksgiving and the voice of melody."

"I EXPECT to be cared for and blessed so long as I am trying to do the Lord's work," said a good woman the other day, "I expect His help, that's the reward He has promised." Her motives were undoubtedly pure and she was giving time and strength unstintedly, yet to the ordinary observer the task she had undertaken was a hopeless one and its value in any case questionable.

"The old farmer with whom she had been talking leaned on the fence and looked after her as she moved away.

"There's a good deal of that kind of reward claimin'," he said. "I pay men for workin in my fields—I promise them board and 'lodgin' and fair wages so long as they work for me, but I expect them to come to me for instructions, and to use my tools and common sense. If some feller climbs in to my field his own way and goes to doin things I don't want done, and carry on foolish plans of his own that he thinks will be a great improvement, I don't know as he has any right to come to me at night and claim the pay I promised my workmen. Seems to me, though, that there's lots of folks tryin to do the Lord's work about that way."—Sel.

THERE is wisdom in the above for those who, whether young or old, are striving to do the work of half a dozen. This is a great and glorious cause and I would not wish to be understood as counseling stagnation, but it is distressing the way some of our young people lay their lives upon the altar of needless sacrifice.

"Be still and know that I am God" is the command of the Almighty in the Doctrine and Covenants to the impatient Saints. "Then be still, remembering who hath set His hand again the second time." Can He not accomplish His work without your running hither and yon in a breathless endeavor to do more than you can? Commendable

And faith increased, and hope sprang up anew, I knelt in humbleness and softly prayed: It came like dew. And flooded all about. Away all doubt. God's Spirit enters in; your worry cease, Your wandering's o'er, for here is peace, Here, here's heart's ease.

And faith increased, and hope sprang up anew, I knelt in humbleness and softly prayed: It came like dew. And flooded all about. Away all doubt. God's Spirit enters in; your worry cease, Your wandering's o'er, for here is peace, Here, here's heart's ease.

CONFERENCE MINUTES.

The conference of the Northern Wisconsin district convened with the Frankfort branch at Porepine, Wisconsin, October 6 and 7, 1900. Business session called to order by district president, A. V. Closson, Louisa M. Shaver acting as secretary.

Reports from official members were received showing 55 meetings attended, 107 services held, 118 sermons preached, 9 baptized, 3 children blessed, 2 marriages solemnized, 61 sick administered to. A. V. Closson, high priest, Elders P. Muecus and Wm. Hutchinson, Priests S. E. Livingston, Murry Shedd and Wm. O. Closson, Teachers J. W. Hooker and Morris Shedd, and Deacon O. A. Warren reported.

Branch reports were received from Reed and Frankfort branches giving a membership of 167, gain of 12. Evergreen branch received after conference adjourned.

Bishop's agent reported total amount received $39.50; paid out $28.50; balance on hand $11.00.

The following named members, A. V. Closson, Sr. White, P. Muecus, L. M. Shaver, S. E. Livingston, Vol White, Murry Shedd, Wm. Hutchinson and A. L. Whiteaker were chosen to attend General Conference.

Conference adjourned to meet with the Valley Junction Saints in June. A. V. CLOSSON, Pres.

LOUISA M. SHAVER, Sec.

Conference of the Northeast Missouri district convened at Pollock branch, October 6, 7, 1900, J. A. Tanner, president, David L. Morgan, secretary pro tem., assisted by Sr. Nydia Thomas.

Branch reports were had from Pollock, Salt River, Bevier and Higbee.

Ministerial reports from Wm. Chapman, J. T. Williams, J. A. Tanner, F. T. Mussell, J. F. Petre, Frank J. Chatburn, Charles Perry, M. E. Summerfield, D. L. Morgan, F. M. Burch Robt. Thrutchley, E. E. Petre.

District president's expense bill amounting to $2.75, was allowed. Bishop's agent, J. T. Williams, reported as follows: On hand last report $92.25, received since $140.30, disbursements $216.00.

Upon the recommendation of the Bevier branch and upon the approval of the conference, the ordination of Bro. A. G. Young was ordered provided for.

On motion the following resolution was approved of:

WHEREAS, It being apparent that the Carrollton and Missouri River branches are practically disorganized, and

WHEREAS, After diligent and earnest labor by the officers whose duty it is to perform such labor, there seems no reason to hope for reclamation of the said organizations, therefore be it

Resolved, That the said Carrollton and Missouri River branches be, and they are hereby disorganized. Conference adjourned to meet at Bevier branch in February, 1901.

NOTICES.

To the brethren and sisters of Arkansas and Louisiana, greeting:—Having been appointed to labor in the above named territory, the remainder of the year, I desire to inform all concerned that I am now in the field. Will the Saints please inform me of the needs of the work and opportunities for preaching, in their respective localities? Wisdom seems to favor the visiting of only as many points as can be thoroughly worked, hence we will conform our operations to this plan as far as practicable.

Brethren and sisters, if you desire the spread of the gospel live your religion at home, keep your friends and neighbors supplied with ENSIGNS, tracts, etc., and the results will be gratifying. If you can use more literature than you have, drop a card to the undersigned and you will be supplied. Let every Saint be a worker. Will the brethren of the missionary force please mail their reports to me, not later than January 1st. Until further notice mail addressed to Coal Hill, Arkansas, will reach me. My permanent address is Blendsville, Missouri. In bonds,

W. S. MACRAE,
Sub-Missionary in Charge.
HUNT, ARK., Nov. 23.

Conference Notices.

Conference of the Far West district will convene on Saturday and Sunday December 15th and 16th, in the Saints' church, corner Faraon and 17th street, St. Joseph, Missouri.

Will branch secretaries forward delegates' credentials and branch reports to the secretary of the district, one week prior to convening of conference. Bring the Spirit of the Master with you and the conference will prove a blessing to you.

T. T. HUNDERS, Pres.
C. P. FALL, Sec'y.
A. LEAVERTON, 1 Sec'y.

CLARKSDALE, MO., Nov. 22.

DIED.

STEEL.—At her home near Auburn, Iowa, November 8, 1900, Sr. Minnie Steel, nee Domm. She was born at Ottawa, LaSalle county, Illinois, May 17, 1858 and was married to Mr. Geo. Steel, August 24, 1874. Nine days before her death she was stricken on a rusty nail; blood poisons followed, resulting in her death. She was baptized into Christ June 19, 1898, by Elder W. A. Carroll, and has been an energetic and consistent member of the church ever since. A husband, one daughter and four sons, many relatives, neighbors and friends mourn her early departure from earth life. Funeral services at the Saints' church, Auburn, Iowa, the 19th inst., by Elders C. E. Butterworth and R. Wight. She rests with the righteous awaiting the resurrection of the just.

TREACHERY

A persistent cough is at first a friend, for it gives warning of the approach of a deadly enemy. Heed the warning before it is too late, before your lungs become inflamed, before the doctor says, "Consumption." When the danger signal first appears, help nature with

Ayer's Cherry Pectoral

Don't delay until your lungs are sore and your cold settled down deep in your chest. Kill the enemy before the deadly blow kills you. Cure your cough today. One dose brings relief. A few doses make the cure complete.

Three sizes: 25c. for an ordinary cold; 50c. for the harder colds; $1.00 the most economical for all cases.

"I consider your Cherry Pectoral the best remedy for colds and coughs and the best medical advice you can possibly receive, write the doctor first. You will receive prompt reply, without cost. Address: Dr. J. C. AYER & Co., Lowell, Mass.

Do not delay. Write the Doctor. If you have any complaint whatever and desire the best medical advice you can possibly receive, write the doctor first. You will receive prompt reply, without cost. Address: Dr. J. C. AYER & Co., Lowell, Mass.

ZION'S ENSIGN.

"OUR CREED: ALL TRUTH."

VOLUME 11.

INDEPENDENCE, MISSOURI, THURSDAY, DECEMBER 6, 1900

NUMBER 49.

ZION'S ENSIGN.

A Literary and Religious Newspaper, published to the interest of soul, scientific and religious truth, every Thursday, at Independence, Jackson County, Missouri.

PRICE, $1.00 PER YEAR, IN ADVANCE.

ENSIGN PUBLISHING HOUSE,
Of the Reorganized Church of Jesus Christ of Latter Day Saints.

W. H. GARRETT, Editor.
J. W. LUFF, BUSINESS MANAGER.

Make all remittances, and address all communications to ENSIGN PUBLISHING HOUSE, Box B, Independence, Jackson County, Missouri.

New subscriptions can begin at any time. If possible to avoid it, never send silver as it is liable to wear through the envelope and be lost.

Always give the name of the post office to which your paper is sent or we can not find your name on our lists.

When desiring your address changed, give both the old and new address.

Orders will be discontinued one month from the time subscriptions expire, unless ordered continued.

In making remittances, money orders are preferable for they are absolutely safe. If you can avoid it, do not send coin or stamps. Canadian stamps are an entire loss, and Canadian currency is only worth ninety cents on the dollar to us, for that is all we can get for it at the banks.

Letters should be addressed, and orders and drafts made payable to
ENSIGN PUBLISHING HOUSE,
Independence, Mo.

Box B.

EFFECTUAL SERVICE.

The individual who is faithfully and humbly working in the line of duty, with the demands of which he has become well acquainted by careful study of the laws governing, is generally to be depended upon as a source of strength to those engaged in like service. Our heavenly Father has, in the setting up of His kingdom, ordained, that there should be "helps" and "governments" by which His beneficent designs for the blessing of mankind should be carried out; and it is the worker, "the doer of the work," as James says, he who is blessed in his deeds, that makes his influence for good effective in moving the work. It is true that some individuals are possessed of a greater degree of zeal than they have wisdom, and such more often work harm than good to the cause to which their misguided efforts are directed.

It sometimes happens that a brother or sister—but much more often it is the brother—comprehending the one fact that God has again established the everlasting gospel among men, with all of its privileges and prerogatives, is seized with a strong desire that others may be impressed with the same fact, and straightway makes a sortie, and besieges everyone with whom he comes in contact, in an endeavor to force the claims of the gospel upon those who, unfortunately as he seems to think, have not the same range of vision, the same understanding of the scriptures as he possesses. The effect of this procedure is to disgust the besieged, harden them against the particular faith mis-represented by the unwisely zealous advocate, and weaken or altogether nullify his efforts—honestly made though they be—making it still more difficult for one who does possess wisdom and understanding to make an impression upon them.

It is a waste of energy, a use less task, to endeavor to compel any one to accept even a good thing; even were it possible for the effort to succeed so far as to induce an acceptance, the chances are that it would not be sufficiently appreciated to influence a continued activity in the duties enjoined, and falling into disuse, decay would result and condemnation instead of commendation would follow. Our heavenly Father never has forced his blessings upon any. Jesus says:

Behold, I stand at the door, and knock: if any man hear my voice, and open the door, I will come in to him, and will sup with him, and he with me.—Rev. 3: 20.

He will come to the door with His blessings and favors; will even ask admittance, and knock at the door, but further than that he cannot urge Himself. He will not PUSH His way in. But, mark the loving kindness and gracious condescension, "if any man hear my voice and open the door, I will come in," and how blessed is that one who thus hears, and who thus opens; what a guest to entertain; how grandly sweet and inspiring His presence and companionship. But we must realize our need of His presence, and appreciate His indwelling, must invite Him in, otherwise He cannot enter, though knocking never so loudly.

If, then, it is useful for every individual to indicate his willingness to have the Savior's presence before he can have that glorious privilege, why should anyone try to force another, against his inclination, to accept His gospel; the effort will always be unproductive of good, and does not have the sanction of the Master, who instructed His ministry that when they were persecuted in one city to flee into another. (Matt. 10: 23). Zeal without wisdom blinds its possessor and makes his efforts harmful to even a good cause; hence, while opposition to the truth has been made by perhaps thousands who afterwards were convinced of their error and became a power for good in the cause they had before earnestly and honestly opposed—as in the case of Saul of Tarsus, who became Paul, the great apostle—this effect has seldom, if ever, been accomplished by a disregard of a tactful presentation, a humbly wise and loving administration of the word.

The Apostle Paul in speaking of those whom he numbered as his own brethren in faith, prior to his acceptance of the gospel of Jesus Christ, says:

For I bear them record [or witness] that they have a zeal of God, but not according to knowledge.—Rom. 10: 2.

The revised version of the New Testament renders it "zeal for God," which is the evident meaning of the apostle. The consequence of this lack of knowledge was very unprofitable to them, and exceedingly unpleasant for the disciples of Christ, unprofitable to them for it was labor lost; unpleasant to the followers of Christ for it brought them persecution; and these results may follow when zeal without knowledge or wisdom is used in the endeavor to unduly urge the gospel truths upon others. Some individuals thus unfortunately endowed think they are called to preach, and chafe continually under the restrictions that will not permit them to officiate without an ordination, blaming some brother or brethren because they are not given the coveted authority; though their unfitness for such a work may be apparent to every one else, they themselves are unable to understand why their talents are not given the recognition to which they deem themselves entitled. Fortunately for any good work these are the exceptions, not the rule; they are immensely in the minority; here and there one may be found, but they are qualified for a good deal of mischievous work if permitted to exercise themselves extensively.

The injunction of the Lord is for every man to learn his duty. The mistake is often made that in order to commend us to our heavenly Father some great deeds are necessary, when the facts in the case are, that the greatest work that anyone can perform by which divine recognition will be realized, is to do that which lies next—closest—to him; if but a lay member, a prayerful, devoted service to God; a reverential attendance upon the appointed meetings of His house; a watchful abstinence from evil speaking and evil thoughts; an earnest, continued effort to help others, perhaps not so greatly blessed or fortunately situated as they, glorifies God and renders his service acceptable. If a deacon, be ambitious to do the work appertaining to that office in the very best manner possible for it to be performed, and do not fret or repine because you are not called to be an apostle or an elder. If the Lord wants you to fill either of these callings, He will certainly make it known through His appointed channels and authorities. But of one thing we may be assured, such a call will never come so long as one is unfaithful in the office in which he has occupied. Then again, increased capacities or endowments entail increased responsibility and effort, the weight of which an aspirant seldom, if ever, takes into consideration. An acceptance of any office in the lesser priesthood should never be considered as "a stepping stone to something higher." Every calling under God is an exceedingly honorable one, and the humblest duty should be performed with a thankful and humble spirit and a contrite heart, that the Lord has deemed us worthy to be workers with Him in any capacity; for if what may be considered a humble calling is conscientiously magnified, God is glorified in the work wrought, and others are helped and blessed thereby.

But to that man will I look, even to him that is poor and of a contrite spirit, and trembleth at my word.—Isa. 66: 2.

O ye that embark in the service of God, see that ye serve him with all your heart, might, mind and strength, that ye may stand blameless before God at the last day; * * * and faith, hope, charity and love, with an eye single to the glory of God, qualifies him for the work. Remember, faith, virtue, knowledge, temperance, patience, brotherly kindness, godliness, charity, humility, diligence. Ask and ye shall receive, knock and it shall be opened unto you.—D. & C. 3.

EDITORIAL ITEMS.

ELDER F. C. WARNKY, 2422 Wabash Ave., Kansas City, Missouri, recently closed a very good and profitable meeting at Rich Hill, Missouri, preaching eleven times to good congregations and many believing. He left there for Nevada, Missouri, Nov. 28th, to commence a series of meetings to continue as interest may justify.

BRN. C. J. SPURLOCK and G. W. Beebe, Jr., while laboring in Southeast Missouri, a new field, baptized two ladies at Dudley. They met considerable opposition, and had difficulty in obtaining a place in which to hold services. They pressed on, however, scattering Heralds, ENSIGNS and tracts among the people, having a desire to sow bountifully that the reaping may be likewise. Bro. Spurlock was not in good health and desired prayers in his behalf.

BRO. E. K. EVANS, of Grand Rapids, Michigan is meeting with encouraging success with his gospel paper, The Glad Tidings. Himself a versatile and forceful writer, he has enlisted in his work other bright minds and talents, and is doing a good work in spreading the latter day work. The Glad Tidings, an eight page, four column paper, is issued twice a month for fifty cents per year. Bro. Evans being editor and proprietor, and with the issue for December 1st, begins the fourth volume. We congratulate our brother and bid him godspeed in his good work, in bringing "glad tidings" to all who will receive them.

THE happy Christmastide is almost here, the season when all delight in giving others some token of the esteem in which they are held by the giver, and of striving to lighten some of the burdens of others as they are able. As one of the ways by which others may be benefited and made happy for a whole year, we present the claims of the ENSIGN. For the small sum of one dollar, grand sermons, encouraging letters, inspiring news of the Spirit's power manifested in blessings upon the children of God, and articles of general interest may be enjoyed for a whole year. Every mother should see that her daughters have a copy of the ENSIGN each week for the excellent instruction for their wellbeing, given in the "Daughters of Zion" department. The importance of this work cannot be over-estimated, and when such advantages are attainable so readily, to prepare the noble and lovely young minds and spirits for the grand work they are to do in the future in the Lord's work, no parent will be excusable if they neglect to give their loved ones these opportunities for advancement. Sr. H. B. Curtis, the editor of that department, is one of our talented and willing workers, and her work, if supported and sustained as it should be, will bring rich returns in the good accomplished in "our girls," the women and mothers of the future; and no advantage by which they may be more perfectly fitted for their important callings, should be denied them. We have some excellent sermons for the coming year, by President Joseph Smith, Apostles Joseph Luff and R. C. Evans, Columbus Scott, I. M. Smith, R. Etzenhouser and T. W. Chaburn of the seventy, and F. G. Pitt of the high priests. Others will also be added. Can you afford to miss any of these sermons, or the opportunity of winning souls to Christ by handing or sending the ENSIGN to your friends and neighbors not of the faith? We hope to have a large increase of new subscribers as well as renewals of those already on our list, during the holidays. Shall we have your assistance to this end?

BISHOP G. H. HILLIARD, Cove, Arkansas, Dec. 3:

We had a good conference here from Saturday to Monday noon. I preach here three more nights in connection with Bro. H. O. Smith. Bro. H. O. gave us an excellent discourse Sunday at 11 a. m. I go to Grannis, Arkansas, Thursday, and preach there until over next Sunday; then I go to Beaver, Texas, for next Tuesday week, December 19th. After that to Hearne, Cooks' Point and San Antonio, Texas. I will then go to California, but cannot give dates for appointments.

GENERAL CHURCH NEWS.

INDEPENDENCE.

Bro. J. W. Layton is improving, he was able to walk as far as Bro. McGuire's store Tuesday.

The cantata rehearsals are on as well as preparations for the Christmas Sunday School entertainment.

The musicale was held at Bro. and Sr. E. G. Smith's, Maple avenue, Tuesday evening. It was an enjoyable affair.

Bro. Isaac Blatt was unfortunate in having one of his feet crushed one day this week. The elders attended him Wednesday evening.

Sr. C. A. Bishop is quite feeble and suffers constantly from rheumatism, but bears her suffering patiently. Sr. M. C. Bowler is also very feeble and confined to her home.

Sr. Fannie Lee has been confined to bed the past two or three weeks, though able to sit up some. She does not seem to gain as rapidly as her friends would like to see her.

Sr. Shaver has rented her house to Bro. W. H. Bartholomew, and has moved her stock of groceries, etc., and family, to Grand avenue, near Bro. and Sr. Willis Campbell's residence.

Mr. John C. Douglass, a brother-in-law of the brethren Tousey, was baptized last Sunday afternoon in Shultz' pond by Bro. M. T. Short. He was confirmed at the evening service by Bro. Joseph Luff and W. R. Pickering.

Bro. and Sr. Chas. Bowen, of Chillicothe, Missouri, lost a nine year old child from membranous croup last Sunday. The remains were brought to Independence, Wednesday night, and interred in the city cemetery, Thursday.

Bro. John D. White's fine home and Sr. Letitia Crick's cottage are enclosed and rapidly approaching completion. The foundation for Bro. C. G. Gould's new home, corner Clark and Fuller streets, next to Bro. Geo. W. Frick's, is being erected.

Mildred Evalyn, daughter of Bro. Dr. Joseph and Sr. May Mather, was blessed at the afternoon service Sunday, Brn. M. T. Short and W. H. Garrett officiating. Laurence Hanna, son of Edwin H. and Anna W. Garrett, was also blessed at the same service by Brn. W. H. Garrett and M. T. Short.

The Wednesday evening prayer service last week was very helpful and cheering. The presence of the Holy Spirit made it an occasion of comfort and strength to all present. The attendance at these Wednesday evening prayer services should be more general, that all may participate in the blessings realized.

The service at the church, Thanksgiving, was a most excellent one. Bro. M. T. Short delivered a stirring discourse of thirty minutes, after which various brethren and sisters gave reasons for thanksgiving, which were so seasoned with the Holy Spirit that all were profited and uplifted. It was truly a season of grace and rejoicing.

UNTIL JANUARY 1, 1901,
FOR ONLY $2.00.

- 1 Copy "Palmyra to Independence" Cloth Bound,
- 1 Copy "Book of Mormon Vindicated" " "
- 1 Copy "Autobiography of Elder Joseph Luff"

REGULAR PRICE, $2.35.

Any of the above books would make a very acceptable Christmas Present. All are bound in cloth, and, until January 1st, we will send the three for $2.00.

Address, ENSIGN PUBLISHING HOUSE,
INDEPENDENCE, MO.

Count the trips when purchasing twenty-five ride books on the electric line. A brother recently purchased two of these books in Kansas City, in both of which one round trip was missing; there were but eleven round trips and one single trip tickets in them. It is probably a mistake in those who printed the books, and the railway will correct it on presentation. You had better count your tickets, though.

Sunday was a fine day and there were large audiences at all the services. Bro. Joseph Luff delivered the morning discourse which was full of good thoughts. Bro. R. J. Parker was the evening speaker, taking the Book of Mormon sustained by archaeological proofs as his theme. He did well. The afternoon service was enjoyable. The lower auditorium was about filled with those who came seeking to participate in the blessings of the Spirit.

Bro. Wm. Clow and Srs. R. May and Wm. A. Bushnell have issued an invitation for an anniversary prayer and testimony meeting to those who were present at the baptism, in Canada, when the scene was glorified by a shaft of light from heaven, and a heavenly voice was heard in testimony to at least one individual present there, Bro. Cornish being the administrator of the sacred write of baptism. It is desired that those who also attended the prayer meeting the Wednesday following the baptism shall be present as far as possible. Those who are unable to be present should be represented by letter, relating their experiences on those occasions. See the article headed, "An Anniversary," in another column.

The regular branch business meeting was held Monday evening, Bro. W. H. Garrett presiding, Bro. J. W. Luff, secretary. The usual official reports were read, the treasurer's report showing receipts for November, $50.82, and expenses $46.84, leaving balance of $3.98, and several bills yet unpaid. A young people's prayer meeting was authorized under direction of the officers of the branch on evening not conflicting with regular branch meetings. The janitor's compensation was increased five dollars per month until May 1st. The building committee not being ready to report officially, their report will be presented at the January meeting. Bishop

May, president of the board, stated that the supper and entertainment for the furnace fund had netted $73.80. Adjourned.

CHICAGO, ILLINOIS.

Branch headquarters, 716 W. Van Buren St., Sunday meetings 2:45 and 7:45 p. m.; Lang Mission, 3411 Cottage Grove Ave., 10:45 a. m. and 7:30 p. m.; West Pullman branch, 748 119th St., 10:30 a. m. and 7:30 p. m.; 608 W. 37th St. (colored mission), 10:30 a. m. and 7:30 p. m.

Another creditable milestone has been passed, marked by a good union meeting. Twenty-eight voices were heard in prayer and testimony. Three children who were baptized just prior to the meeting by Elder P. Pement, were confirmed during the assembly. A peaceful and joyful spirit prevailed. Brn. E. J. Lang and Wm. Strange were in charge.

Bro. F. M. Pitt, our efficient Sabbath School worker, has developed special talent in black-board illustrations. His fertile brain, aided by the Spirit, has evolved many excellent illustrations. For the benefit of schools abroad Bro. Pitt, by the aid of an artist and copying machine, is prepared to furnish twenty of his best illustrations, accompanied by explanation and the use of colored chalk, for the nominal sum of fifty cents, to cover actual cost. Those wishing copies will please order before the 15th inst. Bro. Pitt is one of the vice presidents in the General Association. Address 258 North Troy street, Chicago, Illinois.

Sr. F. G. Pitt arrived last week from Philadelphia, Pennsylvania, where she left her husband at his post. She will remain here with her children for some time.

Yesterday morning Bro. E. J. Lang preached from "Beware of False Prophets," etc., which is so often hurled at us, but he made the boomerang light on other heads. Well done.

Our colored missionaries, Brn. Graves and Fuller, are still at their work, endeavoring to bring souls to the true light. They are both earnest laborers.

We listened with pleasure to a sermon at branch headquarters last evening on the subject of "Love." It was analytically handled and many excellent thoughts presented. It was good—preached by Elder S. C. Good.

During our sickness the local brethren have done nobly in filling the various appointments, never once refusing, though sometimes at disadvantage to them. We hope ere long to be able for pulpit duty again.

We had an excellent priesthood meeting Monday night—the best we have attended. A paper was read by Bro. Strange which elicited a lengthy and pleasant debate. Attendance good.

The Saints had a pleasant and spiritual meeting on Thanksgiving. Appropriate hymns such as 250 and 256 were sung, and the voice of Thanksgiving was heard in appreciation of our liberties and the gospel of these latter days. It is good to render praise and adulation to our God.

In the work,

J. M. TERRY.

395 Ogden Ave., Dec. 3.

LAMONI, IOWA.

Our meetings yesterday were very well attended indeed. At Sunday School there were present 394, and at sacrament service in the afternoon it was estimated that 500 people were present. Elder John Smith addressed the Saints at morning service, and Elder M. F. Gowell in the evening, concluded his lecture on "The Restoration of the Gospel." Apostle J. R. Lambert preached at Evergreen church; Apostle W. H. Kelley, at Saints' Home, Sunday evening, and Elder H. A. Stebbins at Davis City, Iowa.

Prayer meetings at the Mite Society are still continued; though not largely attended, are spoken of as being quite spiritual.

Thanksgiving service was held on Thursday morning at 10 o'clock, in charge of President J. A. Gunsolley, assisted by Elder Asa Cochran and Presiding Priest M. J. Danielson. Forty-six testimonies were borne, seventeen sisters spoke in succession; this was a little unusual. All pronounced the meeting a good one.

Elder H. A. Stebbins, according to announcement, delivered a lecture Friday night, in auditorium, on the Book of Mormon. It was the request of the Religio. A fine audience greeted the speaker, and the lecture was well received and appreciated.

Bishop E. L. Kelley returned from a short trip to Independence and vicinity, Thursday afternoon, and left Saturday evening for St. Louis on church business.

Apostle W. H. Kelley returned from the east, Thursday. Elder I. P. Baggerly came home last evening. Elder David Wight, who is in charge of Utah mission, arrived home on Friday.

The regular monthly business meeting of the Sunday School will occur next Tuesday evening the 11th inst.

Word was received this morning of the death of Sr. Louisa Briggs, widow of Jason W. Briggs. She died in Colorado on November 28th.

Five more students have recently entered Graceland College—Jessie Tapscott and H. A. Harder, of Lamoni; H. S. and C. A. Gamet, Little Sioux, Iowa; and Robert McClanahan, of Henderson, Iowa.

G. L. K.

December 3.

ST. LOUIS, MISSOURI.

Places of worship: Rook Church, Glasgow avenue and Dickson street. Services: Wednesday evening, prayer service. Sunday: Sabbath School 9:30 a. m.; preaching at 11 a. m.; social service at 2:30 p. m.; preaching at 8 p. m. Cheltenham, 6731 Manchester Ave., services: Sunday School 10 a. m.; social meeting 2:30 p. m.; preaching 7:30 p. m. Oak Hill, Sunday School 9:30 a. m., and services at 2:30 and 8 p. m.

The Lord has blessed us in so many ways, in all ways, that we cannot express our thanks. Our service Thanksgiving morning was not as largely attended as we would have liked, but it was comforting to those present. Brn. A. Allen and Henry Roberts were in charge.

Many of our friends and well wishers away from here, we know, will be glad to learn that the bazaar and Thanksgiving dinner of the past week was a success, financially and socially. Today, with not all of our resources realized, we have in hand $350 in cash. We expect to realize almost four hundred and fifty dollars, and we face the future, strong in the determination to clear our church of its indebtedness, and to soon have it clear of incumbrance, so we may dedicate it to the most high God. Thankful are we that so far, our meetings have been blessings; many strangers have come out, and although we do not hope to astonish our city, yet we want to be a church whose doctrine is set high, and whose aim is, mankind to bless. May God speed the RIGHT.

The entertainment of last Wednesday evening, was given an especially good hearing for such an occasion, and many were the compliments passed upon those participating.

In the throng assembled in the church Thanksgiving day were many old friends who were once associated with the church; socially, the two days' service was a success, and many, many are the expressions of enjoyment and social cheer.

The Mite Society meeting of this afternoon was a rousing, enthusiastic one; as reports came in, showing substantial profits, after all the hard work, the sisters were delighted, and now we are going to have a watch party New Year's eve, where we intend to invite all our friends and show them how we appreciate the help rendered at this time.

Bishop E. L. Kelley came in Sunday morning, and is going to preach for us the major part of this week; possibly Bro. W. H. Kelley will be here the latter part.

Friday night the Religio presented a special program; the different committees were given opportunity to represent themselves. The idea, an innovation here, was extremely successful in its development; many good numbers were rendered, a Miss Corwin recited, to the enjoyment of the audience, and Bro. Harleld Burgess took charge of a phonograph, whose selections were pleasing. The entire program was good, and we wish it had been advertised largely.

The Mite Society wish to extend to the parties residing at places named below, who liberally assisted us in our Thanksgiving work, their hearty thanks: Pleasanton, Iowa, Kansas City, St. Joseph, Missouri, Sioux City, Iowa, Alton and Rock Island, Illinois, Tyler, Texas. We were also generously assisted by the Cheltenham Saints, and many friends and strangers in the city. A multiplication of words would not, could not, mean more than "We thank you."

At the Sunday School business meeting of last Tuesday evening, it was decided to have a Christmas entertainment.

Sr. Hequenbourg, accompanied by her sister-in-law, yesterday visited the church, morning service. Bro. Allen attended to the funeral of Sr. H's husband, Wednesday of last week, at Kirkwood, Missouri. Bro. Allen was called, by telegram, to Alma, to attend a funeral today, December 3d.

Business meeting postponed until Tuesday of next week.

Yesterday's social service was in charge of Brn. Kelley and J. J. Billinsky. It was more of a testimony character than prayer; the sacrament was administered and many soul inspiring and comforting hymns were given utterance.

ETTA.

December 3.

DENVER, COLORADO.

Church, corner of 22d and Arapahoe Sts. Services Sunday:—Sunday School at 9:45 a. m.; preaching at 11 a. m. and 7:30 p. m.; sacrament service the first Sunday in each month at 6 p. m. Prayer meeting Wednesday evening. Zion's Religio-Literary Society Friday evening.

The weather is fine; we had a little flurry of snow the 20th, but only enough to lay the dust; surely Colorado can furnish more pleasant weather than any other state.

The outlook in church work is the best since the organization of the branch as far as attendance. If the interest continues we soon can sing, "Give us room that we may dwell." At the Sunday morning service the chairs were nearly all filled. I think our new choir has something to do with it. One thing, it is attracting the attention of the young people.

The Religio is the best since its organization, the programs are very interesting. Some of the young people that opposed the Book of Mormon study in the past, are its most ardent supporters now; so I think we have reason to return thanks on the day set apart for thanksgiving.

Fasting and prayer is appointed for Wednesday, for Bro. Frank Schmutz, whose condition is sad indeed.

Thanksgiving service at the church at 10:30. The day was beautiful.

Among the new arrivals in the city are Sr. Booth, of Chicago; Sr. A. A. Johnson, of St. Joseph; Bro. Davis and son, of Omaha, and Bro. Miller, of El Moro.

It was reported Sunday that Bro. Joseph Graham had passed away, but it proved to be a mistake, it was a brother of his. Bro. Joseph is still confined to his bed at the hospital, but is some better. Sr. Graham is still hopeful that he may yet be restored to health.

At the church, Sunday morning, we met an old acquaintance, and old time Saint in the person of Sr. Hasson, formerly of Vincennes, Iowa.

Sr. Louisa Briggs, wife of Jason W. Briggs, was buried Thanksgiving, aged 73 years, 1 month and 29 days, funeral in charge of Elder J. B. Roush, music by the branch choir.

Our choir master, Bro. J. W. Gilbert, wore a smile clear across his face Sunday; the reason, one of the young brethren, who is learning the jewelers' trade, presented him with a nice ebony baton, silver mounted; the musical time ought to be all right now.

The attendance at the Sunday services was quite large, especially at the 6 o'clock sacrament service.

Elder J. B. Roush was the speaker both morning and evening.

Elder W. S. Pender was expected for the Sunday service but failed to put in an appearance. S.

December 3.

LETTER DEPARTMENT.

MILLWOOD, Manitoba, Nov. 6.

Editor Ensign:—Again I offer a few lines relative to my work as a servant of the church in the western Canadian province, believing it my duty to occasionally give brief accounts of labor performed and the success following, etc., for the benefit of the Saints generally but more especially for Ontario Saints whose money sent and partly sustains me, that they may see their prayers being answered. I have had some unpleasant experiences since taking up labor here, but on the whole I am content; studying to do the best I can under the circumstances to the building up of the work. I would therefore ask my beloved brethren in the east to continue their confidence in me and remember me constantly in prayer that my faith fail not; that humility and love characterize my efforts and my zeal be properly seasoned with wisdom and knowledge so that all possible good may be done that conditions allow, and to God we will ascribe the praise.

At last writing I was busily engaged in the region of Oaknock and referred to the status of the work at that time. In verification of my prediction that more would enter the kingdom I am happy to report the baptism of three more souls. Other three gave their names in for baptism, but later withdrew for reasons I will leave them explain to the Master. There are a number of others very near the door who wish more time for consideration which while granted we shall hope to be righteously spent. In all fifteen have been baptized, making a total of twenty-two Saints all of whom with exception of two or three can and no doubt will regularly meet for prayer services and Sunday School exercises. A school has been organized to be known as the Ashville school, Ashville being the nearest station on a lately constructed line of railway. The first name given was Ridgeway, but later changed to Ashville. A good interest is taken by the new Saints in school work, which is quite encouraging to me. May the blessing of God attend their every effort toward the establishing of themselves and others in the good work. I am of the opinion others will obey the gospel in that section, possibly when I return as I expect to at some time.

While I have to report the above progress there has been some prejudice created and dastardly work done. Satan has inspired his emissaries with renewed zeal and they have acted upon it to the detriment of the work in some parts. At Drifting River there are some believing, being very much interested, and here the Methodist preacher exhibited a meanness that jealousy alone breeds. He sought to oust me from the school by trying to leave an appointment for the same hour and in the same school as I had been occupying, but his offer was refused, and regarded with disgust by the people generally; but at Eldon school-house he was applauded for the same trick. Prejudice is high at Eldon and served the unprincipled an opportunity to show their hatred to my preaching and manifest the spirit they were of. When I arrived one Sunday evening his meeting was in progress. He pretended to feel sorry for the clash in appointments and said he did not know of my having the school engaged. I did not feel sorry for him as others and asked him for an explanation of his action two weeks previous at Drifting River. This was looked upon by his near friends as an unjust demand and made the excuse for what disorder followed. It was as a scourging and had the effect of ridding the building of the foolishly indignant and creed-bound. A number of the rough lingered on the outside to annoy the service as much as possible, and as I learned afterwards to sense me into a few pointers and effectively show me the error of my way; but their courage failed before my meeting closed, for slowly the rabble ceased. There are friends to our work in this dark corner of his majesty's realm, but prejudice is so high that evil triumphs for the time. But while the heathen rage and the people imagine vain things let us hope for patience to endure their insults, led on to it as they are by the professedly pious and sanctified. They will get their portion in a coming day. Drifting River people collected among themselves at close of last service the sum of $6.25 and presented it to me in the most friendly manner. May the Lord bless the honest and just and let His frown rest upon the rebellious in chastisement.

At present I am in Millwood remaining over night in a public house, awaiting the arrival of Bro. Selby Carter, who lives sixty miles distant to the southwest at Spy Hill. I formed the acquaintance of the Methodist preacher stationed at Spy Hill on the train en route and made arrangements with him to notify Bro. Carter of my arrival and waiting. I think this is likely to be the only favor he will do me, for I judge him knowing as much now about Latter Day Saint philosophy as he has any use for, but time will reveal matters more thoroughly. Am in hopes of securing a good, faithful hearing at Spy Hill school and enjoying the sweet Spirit of light, liberty and peace so as to present the restoration to the best advantage.

More anon. I am in the struggle for Zion's cause.

FREDERICK GREGORY.

WABASH, Ont., Nov. 16.

Editor Ensign:—I started out last June, after conference held in St. Thomas, Elder St. John, of Ridgetown, and I being appointed to labor together in tent work. We had the tent working about two months at the following places: Tillbury, Campbell, Side Road and Bothwell; it is now in the care of Bro. Charles Taylor, of Zone, and will be ready for use, if needed, at the conference to be held in that place the second Saturday, Sunday and Monday of next June.

We labored in the following places without the tent, Ridgetown, Blenheim, Cedar Springs, Buxton, Dent, ville, Chatham and Longwood. Then to Chatham again for the October conference. The business of Sunday School association went off well and an entertainment in the evening which was good, also; the conference business went through without a snag and with dispatch; good preaching on the Sunday at the Oddfellows' auditorium, a large hall, well attended. Monday we went to the Saints' hall to finish the conference business, after which a prayer meeting was enjoyed, during which our heavenly Father gave us some instruction by the gift of tongues and interpretation, through our worthy president of the Canada mission, E. C. Evans; we were thankful to our Father for His goodness towards us. Many grand testimonies were borne to the truth of this great latter day work.

After conference I went home to St. Thomas for a few days, then on to Longwood again where I baptized ten into the church; thence to Zone, and now at Wabash. Have been holding services here since last Friday, November 9th, some times fairly well attended, not so well sometimes on account of the weather being unfavorable. The Wabash Saints have built a nice little brick church, a credit to them, and if they will be loyal to God, themselves and the community, there can be a work done here; I hope, however, it will be done. Cheer up Saints, and do your duty in the storm or in the sunshine, God is at the helm of this work; if afflicted don't mind; if in tribulations don't mind; God is there watching us, let us do our duty, because you know it's those who come up through much tribulation who have entered into the rest prepared. Then, let us cheer up, missionaries, fathers, mothers, brothers and sisters, as one grand army of the Lord, and keep the good, old flag of peace and good-will toward men, to the breeze, never let it suffer. Pray for me; I have the same inclination towards God's work everywhere, that we may be a success as a people among the people. My permanent address is,

T. A. PHILLIPS,

Box 625, St. Thomas, Ont.

COUNCIL BLUFFS, Ia., Nov. 27.

Editor Ensign:—The Pottawatomie, Iowa district conference is again a thing of the past. Notwithstanding the inclement weather the attendance was very good, a number of the Saints of the Fremont district being in attendance.

The week preceding conference, which convened the 24th, was spent in preaching at Carson, by Bro. D. R. Chambers and the writer. Bro. I. M. Smith came on Friday, soon Bro. Kemp, Fry, Daniel, Thomas Hougas, and Apostle James Caffall, came on the scene and conference was called to order at 10:30 Saturday, Bro. Kemp and Chambers presiding. A report was had from every branch in the district, and the business was dispatched without a jarring note of discord.

From the report of our worthy agent, Bro. John P. Carlisle, the Saints in this district are observing the law of tithing in a satisfactory manner. I neglected to state that Bro. H. N. Hansen held forth at Wheeler's Grove branch the week preceding conference.

The preaching was done by Brn. Fry, Hansen, Smith, and Caffall. Bro. Caffall preached a strong sermon Sunday at 11 o'clock, with his old time vigor, notwithstanding his age.

Brn. Kemp and Fry remained after conference, preaching at Carson and Wheeler's Grove, respectively. A branch will be organized at Carson soon, and the necessary arrangements were made during conference.

The Saints at Carson, though few in number, entertained all who came, and none had reason to complain.

Bro. D. R. Chambers and Bro. H. N. Hansen will preside over the district the ensuing three months, and the other officers were sustained in their offices.

Yours in bonds,

JOHN S. STRAIN.

OTTAWA, I. T., Nov. 25.

Editor Ensign:—I offer a few lines relative to my work as a servant of the church in this part of the Lord's field. I am sorry to say that I have not done much the last two months. I went out with Bro. Haden and Bro. S. W. Simmons about three weeks ago, out at Blue Jacket, and engaged the school-house to preach in, but when we got to the school-house, behold, it was locked; we went and found the keys, but the school teacher wouldn't give them up, so we give up and went home.

I went out once a few weeks before to preach where they wanted to hear me preach, and stopped from Saturday over till Monday, but there was not any one come to hear me, so I hitched "gospel Jim" (that's my horse) to the buggy and went ahead until I found a place to preach and was blessed while I was out.

I rejoice in this great latter day work, for I know it is of God, the Father of all. This gospel truth is cutting its way in the country. I saw a letter in the last issue of the Herald, from Bro. J. N. Perkins, in regard to the gathering to Zion, it is good; if we would all work and pray for the gathering of Saints to Zion, let us pay tithing or free will offerings, let us put our shoulders to the gospel wheel and make it roll just to see how it will roll. For my part I have got one dollar for 1901, January the 1st, my wife says she got one dollar, so with Bro. Perkins that makes three dollars; how many more do we hear? Come now, the gathering time is near, let us keep the laws of our heavenly Father, and walk the gospel way. What is a more excellent way? I ask all God's people to pray for me.

Yours in the faith,

NOAH KARAOHO.

NASHUA, IOWA., Nov. 22.

Editor Ensign:—Brn. O. H. Bailey, J. B. Sutton and myself are laboring in these parts doing missionary work. We have been having good success thus far. I am going to open a new place, my first effort, beginning to-night. There are no Latter Day Saints anywhere near here, except Bro. Frank Home where we have staid at times. It seems good to get out in the world pushing into new fields now write for the harvest, and I can never read the revelation bearing on this point but that the Spirit at once attests its truth.

The place referred to where I begin tonight is a school-house; the Wesleyan Methodist people hold services there on Sundays. It is thought by some that there may be a clash, etc., but I told them I am here in the strength of the Lord, and that too, not to be scared out by any man.

We closed with a wonderful interest at Corville; Bro. Sulton spoke three nights in succession on the Book of Mormon, and with wonderful interest and utterance. On Monday night he forgot, run over his time and was going to quit, but the people cried out "go ahead." One Methodist man said he had heard more of the Bible truth in the three nights he heard us preach than he had heard before in his life. Another Campbellite friend remarked after I had given them a drill on the principles, that "It seems good to hear the gospel declared in its fullness once in a while." So the good work goes on.

Bro. Bailey is now preaching in the Congregationalist church at Bradford, a new point, with good interest. Bro. Sulton was unexpectedly called away last night to administer to sick, and he will, no doubt, begin services near Root Siding, west of Nashua.

Saints, our work is ennobling and grand; let us ever strive to make good use of our several privileges and opportunities. I can firmly see the hand of God in assisting us in the work in this place. May He ever be with us in my heartfelt prayer for Zion.

In bonds,

WILL E. LARUE.

WALKERTON, Ind., Nov. 7.

Dear Ensign:—You are a welcome visitor at our house with your encouraging letters and sermons. We hear no preaching except at other places. Myself and Sr. Pearson, of Knox, drove over to Galien, Michigan, thirty-five miles, and enjoyed a splendid conference. We were well cared for. Bro. Lake talked in tongues and it was worth my while to go even for that. I told my near neighbor about it; she said, "Do they do that now days?" I said, "Is not God the same as He always has been?"

I am more encouraged, we both are; my husband has to work every day and is glad he has the health to do so, but he can't get off to do these grand meetings. I heard Bro. Hilliard, of Independence, preach, and think he is a true man of God. Bro. E. K. Evans and Bro. Scott were all that preached.

Your sister in bonds,

JULIA DIBERT.

ZION'S ENSIGN.

Entered at the Post Office at Independence, Mo., as Second Class Matter.

THE OLD WAY OR THE NEW?

Sermon Delivered by Elder Robert J. Parker, at Independence, Missouri, Sunday, June 3d, 1900, at the Saints' Church.

We desire tonight to inquire into the question, "How shall we receive Christ, the old way or the new?" We will use as a text the 36th verse of the 3d chapter of St. John's gospel:

He that believeth on the Son hath everlasting life: and he that believeth not the Son shall not see life; but the wrath of God abideth on him.

From this language we see there is an absolute necessity of a belief in Jesus Christ in order that eternal life shall be obtained. It is true we are living in a christian nation, yet there are various ideas in regard to the word "believe" in Jesus Christ. We are told by many in the religious world that simply to gain the assent of the mind that Jesus is the Christ is all that is necessary in order that salvation shall be obtained.

Now, the Apostle James seemingly had a different view of this matter. He says, in his 2d chapter, 19th verse:

"Thou believest that there is one God; thou doest well: The devils also believe, and tremble."

We read in the 4th chapter of Luke that upon a certain occasion there was a man in the synagogue who was possessed with an unclean spirit, or unclean devil, and this spirit says to Christ:

"What have we to do with thee, thou Jesus of Nazareth? Art thou come to destroy us? I know thee who thou art; the Holy One of God."

Now, if it is a fact that simply to believe that Jesus Christ is the Son of God is all sufficient for our salvation, then this devil is in a saved condition. If belief is all that is necessary, this devil had more than a belief; he said he had a knowledge; he knew who He was, that He was the Holy One of God.

Again, in the 8th chapter of Matthew we find two individuals coming out of the tombs meeting Jesus, and they used similar language; they said:

"What have we to do with thee, Jesus, thou Son of God? art thou come hither to torment us before the time?"

It seems to me there are two important points in this verse; first, the devil understood and knew that Jesus was the Christ, that he was the Son of God; and secondly, the devil seemed to know that his time here on earth was limited; that the time would come when Christ would have universal power, when He would become King of kings and Lord of lords; when He would rule from the rivers to the ends of the earth.

We sometimes have presented for our consideration a portion of scripture found in the 16th of Acts; that is where Paul and Silas were at a certain place; a damsel, possessed of an evil spirit called unto them, and Paul rebuked this evil spirit and bid it come out of her. Now, this spirit caused the damsel to be a sooth-sayer and brought much gain to her master. And because Paul rebuked it and cast it out of her, her master was angry, and brought Paul and Silas before their rulers and they were cast into prison. They did not seem to feel bad about that; neither were they discouraged, downcast, or disheartened; neither did they have what we sometimes call the blues because they were being persecuted for doing miracles and preaching Christ among the people; but they seemed to have the Spirit of Christ with them as Peter and John did when they had been beaten upon one occasion and they said they were glad and thankful that they were worthy to suffer for His name's sake; so Paul and Silas seemed to be rejoicing that they were able to suffer for Christ's sake, and at midnight they were praying and singing, when suddenly there was an earthquake, and the walls of the prison shook, and the doors stood ajar, and when the jailor would have taken his life, Paul cried out, "Do thyself no harm for we are all here."

In this moment of excitement the thought of salvation seemed to come to this jailer's mind, and believing that these men were more than ordinary men because of this display of power, he called for a light, and sprang in and came trembling, and fell down before Paul and Silas, and brought them out and said, "Sirs, what must I do to be saved?" This answer is very often quoted, "Believe on the Lord Jesus Christ and thou shalt be saved, and thy house." What was the condition of this individual at the time? He had never believed in Jesus Christ; he, like many others of that day, thought He was an impostor, that He was a deceiver; he did not believe He was the Son of God; and as we find according to our text that it is absolutely necessary that we shall believe in Jesus Christ, therefore these apostles told them to believe in Jesus Christ; but was the work all accomplished when he had gained the assent of the mind that Jesus was the Christ? Ah, no, we find they taught him something else at least. We discover in the following verse that he took them the same hour of the night and washed their stripes; and was baptized, he and all his, straightway.

In the 5th chapter of John, Christ says to the people:

"Had ye believed Moses, ye would have believed me: for he wrote of me."

Did the Jews in Christ's time not believe that such an individual as Moses lived, that he was a great leader and prophet to Israel? They certainly did. They had no doubt as to the existence of the man, but they had failed to believe his prophecy or his writings concerning the coming of Jesus Christ; hence, Christ says to them:

"If ye believe not his [Moses] writings, how shall ye believe my words?"

We see from the language of Christ here that to believe in Moses meant more than to believe that he lived; it meant to believe in his words or his writings.

Again, in the 1st chapter of John and the 12th verse, He says:

"But as many as receiveth him [Christ], to them gave he power to become the sons of God, even to them that believe on his name."

Now, it doesn't say that they were made sons of God, but that power was given them to become the sons of God. I think we will all admit that this power was the power of God given to those individuals to enable them to become the sons of God. Paul tells us in the 1st chapter of Romans, that the gospel is the power of God unto salvation. Now, as many as receive Jesus Christ as being the Son of God, to them was given the gospel, and by obedience to this gospel they were enabled to become the sons of God.

Sometimes we hear the passage quoted where Paul said he was determined to know nothing among them, save Jesus Christ and Him crucified, and we read in various places in the Scriptures, of individuals preaching Christ to the people. Do you suppose they spent all their time in repeating over and over that Jesus Christ had come into the world, that He was the Son of God? We find when Philip joined himself with the chariot and found the eunuch reading from the 53d of Isaiah, he asked him if he understood what he was reading, and he said, How can I except some man explain it. Then Philip began at this scripture and preached Christ to him. No doubt he referred him to various places that are in the Old Testament scriptures speaking of Jesus Christ coming, and showed him how minutely He had fulfilled these predictions, and then he evidently showed the necessity of obeying that which Christ had brought into the world for the salvation of the world. For they had not traveled very far until the eunuch says to him, "See here is water, what doth hinder me to be baptized?" Now, Philip certainly had shown him the necessity of being baptized, although the record doesn't show anything about him teaching that, but the eunuch says that he began at the same scripture and preached unto him Jesus. So we discover when they preached Jesus, they preached the doctrine that he brought. Christ says in the 7th of John, "My doctrine is not mine, but his that sent me;" showing that He had a doctrine and that it came from God.

Now, the Apostle John in his second epistle, says:

"Whosoever transgresseth, and abideth not in the doctrine of Christ, hath not God. He that abideth in the doctrine of Christ, he hath both the Father and the Son."

From these quotations, and many more we might offer, we must reach the conclusion, it seems to me, that a belief in Jesus Christ necessitates a belief in his teachings. The old prophet has said that Jesus Christ would come as a leader and as a commander. If we are desirous of following Him as a leader, and obeying Him as a commander, we must be obedient to the things that He has said, for He asks the people in His day, "Why call ye me Lord, Lord, and do not the things that I say?" Then to believe in Jesus Christ necessitates obedience to the doctrine that He brought into the world as a means of salvation in order that we might obtain eternal life.

The next thought would be, "What is eternal life?" We have life upon one hand and its opposite, or death, upon the other. The Apostle Paul says, that the wages of sin is death, that sin is the transgression of the law. Now, if disobedience or sin causes death, then its opposite, obedience or righteousness, would cause or bring life. When we look at a human body and see no manifestation of life therein, we say that body is dead. The apostle says, the body without the spirit is dead. Now what has happened? What has taken place that we call death? The spirit has separated from the body and this separation is death. In the beginning when God created man, He placed him in the garden; he had life upon the one hand or death upon the other. He has his free agency, he could choose the good or the bad, and because he transgressed the law of God, he committed sin and the reward or the result of that sin was death or separation from God.

Now Jesus Christ comes as a redeemer. What is a redeemer? One who redeems; to redeem means to purchase back; to ransom; to liberate or rescue from captivity. That is the work of a redeemer. Then if Jesus Christ was to come into the world to redeem the world, He was to bring us back into the condition in which we once were. We find in the beginning that God created man in his own image, and he dwelt in his presence, but because of sin, death resulted and man was banished from the presence of God; but we find that by obedience to the gospel, the law or doctrine of Jesus Christ, there will again be a union with God and Christ, and that union will be life, and because of our immortality this life will be endless; hence we will have eternal life, and this eternal life will be obtained by obedience to the doctrine of Jesus Christ.

Now, Christ and his apostles taught this doctrine when they were on earth; but the Apostle Paul, seemingly by the inspiration of God, understood that the world would not continue in this doctrine, for he says in the fourth chapter of 2 Timothy:

"The time will come [he does not say maybe it will, or perhaps it will] when they will not endure sound doctrine; but after their own lusts shall they heap to themselves teachers, having itching ears; and they shall turn away their ears from the truth, and shall be turned unto fables."

What is truth? Christ says, "Sanctify them through thy truth; thy word is truth." Then their ears would be turned away from the word of God unto fables. Now, if we are living in a day and age of the world when this prophecy of Paul is having a fulfillment, we should not be blind to the fact, neither should we feel hard at those who try to point out the error of our way; but when we see the truth presented in its simplicity, no matter from what source it comes, we should be willing to be obedient to that truth, if we desire to be sanctified, for Christ prays to His Father that we should be sanctified through the truth, and His word is truth.

Then the question proper comes up, How shall we receive Christ, in the old way or the new? The old way is that which is recorded here in the New Testament scriptures; the new way is that as taught by modern christendom. In the tenth chapter of Romans, the Apostle Paul asks the question:

"How shall they believe in Him of whom they have not heard? And how shall they hear without a preacher? and how shall they preach except they be sent?"

Sent by whom? We will find out how, in the old way, they were sent. In the 4th chapter of 1 Timothy and 14th verse, the Apostle Paul, speaking to Timothy, says:

"Neglect not the gift that is in thee, which was given thee by prophecy, with the laying on of the hands of the presbytery."

First, we hear the voice of prophecy calling Timothy to a certain position; then by the imposition of the hands of those in authority, he was ordained to that office. Now, what is prophecy? We read that, "Prophecy came not in old time by the will of man; but holy men of God spake as they were moved by the Holy Ghost."—2 Peter 1: 21. Then the Holy Ghost, resting upon certain individuals, designated the mind and will of God, who should be his representatives, and by receiving the imposition of hands by those in authority, this authority was conferred upon them. In 1 Corinthians, the 7th chapter, 17th verse, the apostle says:

"But as God hath distributed to every man, as the Lord hath called every one, so let him walk. And so ordain I in all churches."

He did not mean in all the different denominations, but in the various churches established at Ephesus and Corinth and Rome, and various other places where the church of Christ had been established.

As God has distributed certain talents to certain individuals, as the Lord had designated these individuals to fill certain positions, so he ordained them, the Apostle Paul says, in these various places where he traveled.

In the 13th chapter of the Acts, the Holy Ghost speaking there, said, "Separate me Barnabas and Saul for the work whereunto I have called them. and after they had fasted and prayed, they laid their hands upon them and sent them away." This is how, in the old way, that men were called to represent Jesus Christ, but how is it in the new way?

In the new way, the congregation discovers a certain young man who manifests considerable ability and they say, "It is a pity that this man could not become a minister." The congregation sends him to college, gives him a classical education; he becomes versed in the creeds and catechisms, and starts out as a preacher. There are men in the world who have considerable of this world's goods; they do not desire that their sons shall toil at manual labor; they give them an education and start them out, one as a doctor, one as a lawyer, and another as a preacher, and the voice of prophecy is not heard at all.

Others we hear giving their experience; they say they had a queer feeling around the heart, and they thought that meant they should be a minister. Others happened to open the Bible where Christ sent out His ministry, and they thought that indicated that they should be ministers. Thus we see the difference between the old way and the new. Let us remember it, because when a man goes forth and officiates in the name of Jesus Christ, it means by the authority of Jesus Christ, and if neither God nor Christ hath called that man to do that work, then he cannot truly officiate in the name of Jesus Christ.

In the old way when individuals were convicted of sin and asked what they must do, as they did upon the day of Pentecost, when they saw the power of God displayed, the lowly Galilean, speaking in tongues in which they were not educated, it says they were pricked in their hearts and cried in the anguish of their souls, Men and brethren, what shall we do? They felt convicted of sin, they wanted to receive a remission or a forgiveness for those sins; they wanted to make peace with God. It seems to me, if ever there was a time in the great Apostle Peter's life when he could speak as the oracle of God, it was now, when he was filled with the spirit of inspiration; and what does he say? He says, "Repent and be baptized every one of you, in the name of Jesus Christ, for the remission of your sins and ye shall receive the gift of the Holy Ghost."

When Paul was persecuting the Saints, the Lord appeared to him and asked him why he was doing this. He was ignorant that he was persecuting the people of God, but he thought he was doing God's service, and when he found he was wrong, he says, "Who art thou, Lord? * * * What wilt thou have me to do." It was told him to go down to Damascus and it would be told him what he must do; and when Ananias was sent unto him, he said, "And now why tarriest thou? Arise and be baptized and wash away thy sins, calling on the name of the Lord."

When that man sent from God, whose name was John, came, he came preaching the baptism of repentance for the remission of sins. Thus we have the doctrine of Christ in the old way, how sins were forgiven; but how is it in the new? Why, in the new way, the sinner is called to the front, he is asked to kneel down at the mourners' bench, and they plead with God for Christ's sake, to forgive this sinner his sins. We do not say this with any disrespect, but we ask, How shall we receive Christ, the old way or the new? When God and Christ have devised means whereby sins shall be remitted, why not come in God's own appointed way, and be obedient to His commandments, rather than devise something else that is out of harmony with the word?

After the baptism has been performed, our sins have been remitted if we have properly repented, and the rite has been performed by one having authority; then, in the old way, they laid their hands upon them and they received the Holy Ghost. But in the new way they have no necessity for this ordinance at all; they discard it and say it is unnecessary, and that can all be done by coming to the front and being prayed for.

In the old way Christ took the little innocent children in His arms, pronounced His Father's blessing upon them; but in the new way the mother brings the tender babe to the minister, he dips his finger in a bowl of water and sprinkles a few drops upon it and calls that baptism. Here in the old way we discover that we were taught to believe, repent and be baptized, but this little innocent babe can neither believe nor repent, it has nothing to repent of. But Christ says, "Of such is the kingdom of heaven."

In the old way, when people had sick among them, the Apostle James says they should send for the elders of the church, and they should anoint them with oil, and the prayer of faith should save the sick and the Lord would raise them up; and in Christ's last commission to the world He taught them that the signs would follow the believers, and, among other things, they should "lay hands on the sick and they should recover." That was the old way. But in the new way, if any are sick among you, call for the doctor, let him administer drugs to you, and if he doesn't kill you he'll cure you. There is quite a considerable difference between the old way and the new.

Now, in the old way, the apostle says, the manifestation of the Spirit is given to every man to profit withal. One would have the gift of faith, another the gift of wisdom, another the gift of miracles, another would speak with divers tongues, another interpret; and Christ says, as recorded in the 28th chapter of Matthew, "And lo, I am with you always, even unto the end of the world." But in the new way we are not entitled, say they, to any of these blessings, they were only for a few fortunate people who chanced to live eighteen hundred years ago; yet the great Apostle Paul, in the 17th of Acts, said that God had made of one blood all nations of men to dwell on all the face of the earth, and had determined the times before appointed, and the bounds of their habitation, and we read all through this Scripture that God is unchangeable, is no respecter of persons, and yet were told, according to the new way, that we are not entitled to any of these blessings or gifts, but we are simply to believe that Jesus once lived.

I remember one time reading the works of Thomas Paine and he said he believed that Jesus lived, that he was a good man, but he could not believe in the miraculous conception or his resurrection and ascension.

Thus we see by comparing the new way with the old there is quite a difference. In the old way the apostle says that God placed in the church or kingdom of God in which we were to enter, apostles and prophets, evangelists, pastors and teachers, bishops and deacons. These were the officers that were to execute the law of God. But in the new way the apostles and prophets have been dispensed with—not needed now; but we have evangelists, we have pastors and teachers. Well might the prophets say that darkness had covered the earth and gross darkness the minds of the people. Well might he say that they had transgressed the law, had changed the ordinance and broken the everlasting covenant. Well might the prophet say that before Jerusalem should receive its former fertility that God would do a marvelous work and a wonder; and well did John upon the Isle of Patmos say that he saw an angel come and bring the everlasting gospel to them that dwell upon the earth. Why? Because men had wandered away from the precepts and the principles of the doctrine of Jesus Christ as it had been established by the divine Master himself; they had instituted means altogether different as the prophet said they had changed the ordinance and broken the everlasting covenant.

As a church, which your speaker has the honor and pleasure to represent tonight, we can present for the consideration of the world the old way, with all the ancient landmarks, and we can proudly carry this gospel as it was proclaimed by our divine Master eighteen hundred years ago and freely make the promise to those that will with a broken heart and contrite spirit come to God, be obedient to His commands, we can promise them the Holy Spirit, we can promise them the assurance that they shall know of the doctrine whether it is of God or whether we speak of ourselves.

These thoughts, representing the old way, are a few of the things believed by the Latter Day Saint church. While the world looks upon it with scorn, while they ridicule and say all manner of evil against it, yet those who have identified themselves with the same are happy in the thought that it is in harmony with God's eternal words, and that the signs do follow the believers, the Spirit is given, the manifestation of the Spirit is distributed to the individuals as seemeth good in the sight of God. When we receive that Holy Spirit and we receive it as an abiding Comforter it brings forth fruit, and that fruit should be observable among the individuals upon whom the Spirit rests. The Apostle Paul says the fruits of the Spirit are love, joy, peace, long suffering, charity, brotherly kindness and various other christian graces that are mentioned here, and if this Spirit is upon us we will see the fruits being produced and thus we will have the grand assurance that indeed we are the children of God.

I expect perhaps this will be the last time we will have the pleasure of speaking to you for some time, as we expect to start in a few days for the frontier, and while we are away we desire to have an interest in the prayers of the Saints. We hope you will hold us up before the throne of God that we may receive of His Spirit, and that our lives may be examples to those that behold us, that we are the servants of God indeed.

May His blessing and peace abide with us all, that we may hold out faithful to the end and receive that which is promised to His faithful children that we might indeed be believers in Jesus Christ, obtain that eternal life and escape the wrath of God that is promised to those who do not believe in the name of Jesus Christ, is my prayer in His name. Amen.

Richmond, Virginia, Notes.

Dear Saints:—I knock for admittance again this morning, have you a little time to spare me? When I write one letter I always think of so many things afterwards that I will wish I had written about, so I wish to add some things to my former list of occurrences that seem to give us reason to hope that the time may not be far distant when we, at least, have a hearing here. "God moves in a mysterious way, His wonders to perform," and I think He is moving here to prepare the way for the marvelous work and a wonder to come forth. Recently at church after service a group of us were talking over the sermon, and I was asked what my faith was, "I can tell you what she is," a lady replied, "she is what we call a Mormon." She added, "I looked over those papers you sent me, and when I saw the heading, 'Baptism Essential to Salvation,' I burned them up; I knew that it was not of God." I replied that had she read the article through, she probably would not have felt so, for it made the necessity and object of baptism so plain, and certainly obedience was essential to salvation.

At a testimony meeting in the Apostolic church last week, she spoke, and oh, how my heart bled for her. She is a smart woman, rather above the majority in intellect. And she has tried all kinds of religions almost, seeking rest and finding none; and she is evidently weary of her long search. Oh, there are so many paths through the wilderness that when souls have come out of Babylon they wander here and there, seeking for the right path, till weary and heartsick, they give up the search. Weary and hungry too, for the husks upon which she has fed have not even given her a mistaken sense of fullness, which so many mistake for the true feeding of the soul. She has been a member of the above church. I walked around home with her that night, and I must have stood at her gate, at least, a half hour, talking to her of things of the kingdom. She told me she would be glad to read some of my papers, especially my article on polygamy, so the next morning I took her several, and some tracts, and talked a good long time with her again; but the Book of Mormon and Joseph a true prophet, seemed to be an insurmountable obstacle in her mind. Oh, may God enlighten her mind soon. I know something of her sufferings from the conflict I passed through. But she has not gone far enough yet to see that we have the truth; then is when the battle rages hottest, or at least it was so with me. She told me since that she has read the papers, or part of them, and liked them first rate, especially my article and the article in the same number by Sr. E. J. McCullough, "To The Law and To The Testimony." "Oh, that helped me so much," she said in her earnest way.

She told me of her going to a Divine (?) healer here in Richmond, a few years ago, who gave out that he was a man sent of God, and could heal all manner of diseases; and she said, "I went to see him and I thought, maybe it is true and that God has again sent a prophet, and I felt so glad as I thought I might indeed see a man sent of God. I heard of many being healed, and it seemed so wonderful. I went, and when my turn came I was shown into a little room, and I expected him to talk to me of Christ, and of His power and mercy, and to ask me if I believed on Him, and to tell me that I must repent of my sins, and have faith in Christ; but no; he began to ask me all sorts of questions about my symptoms, and all at once he laid his hands on me and shouted out, 'Be ye healed; you are well.' I said, 'No, sir, I don't think I am.' He went on to talk to me, and I told him to take his hands off of me. Every fiber of my being seemed to repel him, and I knew he was an impostor. I asked him why he did not say anything about Christ, tell me to believe in Christ, or to at least say, In the name of Christ; and he said, 'What is the use of that when I come in Christ's stead.' It made me feel awful."

She seems to want the truth so much, and seems to see some things so clearly, and I feel that I am not enabled to enlighten her; I know I am not of my self. Oh, may a true prophet be sent soon. Oh, God, send laborers into this part of the harvest field, for precious grain is wasting; I am so weak. You Saints seem to think I am doing a wonderful work. I feel that I am doing nothing. God uses me I believe, and I want to be of more use, but what more can I do? Faith, if only as large as a mustard seed, can remove mountains, so how infinitely small must my faith be; that not even a mole hill or an ant heap has been removed, only stirred and agitated a little. But by God's grace I will exercise the little I have, peradventure it may grow to the mustard seed size, at least, for faith, like our muscles; grows by exercise. And the promises of our God are the food. Feed on them then, O weak and trembling Saint, and then exercise the faith you have. True, faith is a gift of God, but He will give more unless you make use of that which you have, but will rather take from you, and will give to him that uses what he has, even if he has more abundance.

I sent a copy of my "Notes and Comments" on Bro. D's editorial to him, and in his next Sunday sermon he remarked that if theirs was not the gospel, the true gospel, they might as well shut up their Bibles and quit; that there was no use of any one's trying to convert him, as he was "fixed." Bless his heart, I do not want to convert him, I would not do that if I had the power, much as I long, with almost a heart breaking longing, to see him and his flock enter the true fold; yet if I could say the word that would convert him, I would not want to say it unless I was sure that the Spirit would also witness to him of its truth. No, while I feel like sewing the seed in every heart, yet I want the converting power to be the power of God, not my reasonings or persuasions, even if it were possible for me to possess strong enough powers to convert any. But I do pray that God, by His Spirit, may turn him from all error, and cause him to see and accept all truth. He and his church seem to think they would have to let go all the truth to accept what we have; to let go of Christ to accept another prophet. Oh, how blind after receiving so much truth, to think that if they accept more, they must let go all they now have. Their doctrine, at least those that are true, they seem to have received by revelation. At one of their testimony meetings one of their members remarked that the text, "And they shall put you out of their synagogues," was being fulfilled in their case; that their pastor had been told that if he would come to a certain city and preach such things as they could all agree upon, they would like him to preach for them. Alas, they are not the only people that are fulfilling that text, and I fear lest the Apostolic people themselves will come under the same condemnation. "And," said he, "about all we can agree upon is that there is one God, and that Jesus Christ is His Son. We could not agree on baptism for the remission of sins, nor of the baptism of the Holy Ghost, and on the doctrine of the resurrection and final salvation of mankind, and many others." After the service was over I went to this brother, and said, "Now, we as a church hold the same doctrines as you do in regard to these things, seeing most of them in the same light, and yet if one of our ministers should ask for this church to preach in, you would put him out of the synagogue too, would you not?" "I expect we would," said he. "I do not see why you should, do you?" "No," he replied, "I don't, except that you will hold to the Book of Mormon." Then I began to tell him of the book, what it was and what it taught, when he was called to go pray with a sister who was ill. One brother is reading the Book of Mormon now and some tracts I lent him, but there does not seem to be much spirit of inquiry among the people. It seems as if Satan was making use of the light they have already received to blind them to a fuller light.

One night a brother read the 2d chapter of Acts and he read the text, "And it shall come to pass that whosoever shall call upon the name of the Lord shall be saved." Now, that is a strong text with the orthodox opponents of the doctrine of baptism for the remission of sins. And I thought how can that statement be made to agree with the statement of our Lord, "Except a man be born of water and the Spirit he cannot enter into the kingdom of heaven." And plainly the Spirit replied, "That time has not yet come, that time is still in the future, but the time will yet come when whosoever shall call on the name of the Lord shall be saved." And text after text flashed through my mind confirming it, such as "Not every one that saith unto me Lord, Lord, shall be saved, etc, for many will say in that day, 'Lord, Lord, we have done many wonderful works in thy name,' and He will reply, 'I never knew you.'" Then a picture of the time beyond, when, having learned obedience through suffering, all men will be led to call upon the name of the Lord, seeing Him in all His beauty and glory, and knowing Him as He is. And when the Spirit and the Bride shall say Come, then when they shall call upon the name of the Lord, shall be saved, because all will then have a proper knowledge of the Lord and of the right way to call. "Knock and it shall be opened unto you," is a true and precious promise, but there is a right time and right place and right manner in which to knock, and in this age not many have that knowledge of the way, therefore many will knock and call, but no admittance be granted because not asking in the right place and in the right manner.

Almost immediately an old man got up across the church, and said that while the brother was reading he thought how often that text was misapplied, quoting the text, and added in almost the very same words that came to me, "That time has not yet come, that time is still in the future, but the time will come when all men shall see the truth, and then whosoever shall call upon the name of the Lord shall be saved. Now was only the time of taking out of the nations a bride for the King's Son [Query, Will not the virgins be chosen too at this time?], that after the marriage has taken place then the Spirit and Bride shall say Come, and whosoever will may come. Then it shall come to pass that whosoever shall call upon the name of the Lord shall be saved." I thought this was a little wonderful and felt led of the Spirit to rise and testify how once but not many out to hear. Possibly he or I will have more to write soon.

Yours for the cause of righteousness and truth.

ALICE R. CORSON.
3829 4th St., Fulton, Richmond, Va.
November 6.

STILL AT IT.

The prow of our craft is still headed up stream, and we are pulling faithfully with both oars.

It was the wise preacher of ancient times who advised, "In the morning sow thy seed, and in the evening with-hold not thine hand; for thou knowest not whether shall prosper, either this or that, whether they both shall be alike good."

As a servant of the body duly appointed, it is my business to humbly and faithfully discharge the imposed responsibility, and I wish hereby to acknowledge the kind and cheerful words of encouragement that we are receiving in behalf of Graceland College, and those who have financially aided are the helpers in a good cause—the church authorized institution of learning.

To one and all we say, do not hesitate to contribute or to sacrifice even a small amount, for think what the uniting the little mite will amount to in the aggregate.

To illustrate my meaning: The school children of Greater New York took up, for the benefit of the Galveston sufferers, a "penny collection," which amounted to fifteen thousand dollars; well might we exclaim, what wonders can be accomplished by a willing and a united effort!

The cause of Graceland, for which I plead, is just as worthy and as important as that for which the New York children gave up their precious pennies; we neither ask for penny nor dollar, the hundreds or thousands, but we do ask—yea, plead and urge the Saints to help us what they can, being their own assessors.

The Christmastide usually opens wide the flood gate of charity; please make the trustees of your own Graceland College happy by a liberal donation.

For success,
ROBT. M. ELVIN.
Box 234, LAMONI, IOWA.

Tobacco's Power.

Here is a pretty good article issued by the Gospel Trumpet Publishing Company, in the form of a parable. Let your tobacco using friends read and ponder it:

"PARABLE OF THE TOBACCO SEED.
"Then shall the kingdom of Satan be likened to a grain of Tobacco seed, which, though exceedingly small, being cast into the ground, grow, and became a great plant, and spread its leaves, rank and broad, so that huge and vile worms formed a habitation thereon. And it came to pass, in the course of time, that the sons of man looked upon it, and thought it beautiful to look upon and much to be desired to make lads look big and manly. So they put forth their hands and did chew thereof. And some it made sick, and others to vomit most filthily. And it further came to pass that those who chewed it became weak and unmanly, and said, 'We are enslaved and cannot cease from chewing it.' And the mouths of all that were enslaved became foul; and they were seized with a violent spitting, and they did spit, even in the ladies' parlors, and in the house of the Lord. And the saints of the Most High were greatly plagued thereby. And in the course of time it came also to pass that others snuffed it, and they were taken suddenly with fits, and they did sneeze with a great and mighty sneeze, insomuch that their eyes were filled with tears and they did look exceedingly silly. And others cunningly wrought the leaves into rolls, and did set fire to the one end thereof, and did suck vehemently at the other end thereof and did look very grave and calf-like; and the smoke of their torment ascended up like a fog. And the cultivation thereof became a great and mighty business in the earth; and the merchants waxed rich by the commerce thereof. And it came to pass that the professed saints of the Most High defiled themselves therewith; even the poor who could not buy shoes, nor bread, nor books for their little ones, spent their money for it. And the Lord was greatly displeased therewith and said, 'Be ye clean that bear the vessels of the Lord.' Let us cleanse ourselves from all filthiness of the flesh. 'Wherefore come out from among them and be ye separate, saith the Lord, and touch not the unclean thing and I will receive you.' But with one accord they exclaimed, 'We cannot cease from chewing, snuffing and puffing.'

"O ye professed followers of the Lord Jesus Christ, will ye be the slaves of a nasty, poisonous weed?"

"One is your Master, even Christ."

THERE is little use of trying to run down the slanderer. The strange thing about it is that people continue to be deceived by his sneaking methods. I fear him more than I do the midnight prowler or the sneak-thief who picks my pockets. The slanderer and the thief are a good deal alike in one respect—they spend their time where they can accomplish most. The slanderer robs good men of their good name; the thief robs rich men of their money. Beware of either.—The Gospel Missionary (Campbellite), Covington, Indiana, October 24, 1900.

ANOTHER strange thing about it is that so many ministers continue to use falsehood and slander as their chief weapon in dealing with the faith of other people whom they believe to be in error. Instead of confining themselves to the Scriptures and other accepted authorities, when examining the authoritative teachings and declarations of belief made by them, they hunt up all the lying slanders of enemies they can possibly reach. They seemingly forget that such dishonest methods will be dearly paid for when they stand before the Judge.

HEART DISEASES TREATED FREE.

THE CELEBRATED CHICAGO HEART SPECIALIST, FRANKLIN MILES, M. D., D. O., WILL SEND $2.50 WORTH OF HIS NEW INDIVIDUAL TREATMENT FREE.

The afflicted reader will certainly never have a better chance to try a new and highly recommended Treatment for Heart Disease, complicated with Headache, Dizziness, Dulness, Neuralgia, Backache, Weak Stomach, Nervousness, Sleeplessness, Prostration, etc.

Dr. Miles' Individual Treatment is the latest result of twenty-five years of laborious investigation and extensive experience, and his New Treatment is eminently scientific, and three times as successful as the usual methods.

Many hundreds of prominent people have testified to the almost miraculous results of this new treatment. The Doctor has for years been well and favorably known as a leading specialist in these diseases, and his offer should certainly be accepted by the afflicted reader.

Hundreds of so called "Incurable" cases have been cured by this new system of personal treatment. A thousand references to and from Bishops, Clergymen, Physicians, Lawyers, Farmers, etc., sent upon request.

Mr. C. M. Buck, a prominent banker of Caribou, Minnesota, was cured of Heart Disease by the treatment of Dr. Miles and elsewhere had failed. Mr. J. S. Zent, of Indianapolis, State Representative of the New York Life Insurance Co., was cured after failure of many physicians.

Dr. Miles has had twenty-five years of experience, and he is well and favorably known throughout the country. He has an able and extensive corps of assistants and investigators in his private offices. He has patients in every State, Territory, Canada, Mexico, South America, Alaska, Africa and New Zealand. He cordially invites the afflicted to write to him. Candid advice given without charge.

You may never have another such an opportunity. Do not fail to write for $2.50 worth of free treatment. Address DR. FRANKLIN MILES, 201 to 209 State Street, Chicago. Please mention this paper and carefully describe your case.

SPECIAL BARGAINS.

Combination No. 1.—$1.00.

From Palmyra to Independence (paper cover).....	$ 65
Book of Mormon Vindicated (paper cover).....	30
The Book of Mormon and its Translator.....	10
The Books and Utah Mormonism in Contrast.....	10
The Legal Successor in the Presidency of the Church.....	10
Total, $1.25

All the above post paid to any address for $1.00.

Palmyra to Independence will be sent in cloth cover for 30 cents extra, or Book of Mormon Vindicated in cloth cover for 20 cents extra, or both for 50 cents extra.

Combination No. 2.—$1.00.

Spiritual Gifts and the Seer of Palmyra.....	25
Faulty Creeds.....	20
Creeds Laid Bare.....	10
The Resurrection of the Wicked. Who Was Joseph Smith? Was He a False Prophet?.....	10
The Book of Mormon and its Translator.....	10
The Legal Successor in the Presidency of the Church.....	10
The Apostasy of the Church.....	10
The Joseph Smith Interview. What We Believe. The Law of Life. The Restoration of Israel. A Retrospective View of the Reorganization. God is Light. The Marriage Relation. Save Yourselves.....	15
Total, $1.25

This combination will also be sent to any address on receipt of $1.00. For either of the above the cash must accompany the order.

Address,
ENSIGN PUBLISHING HOUSE,
Independence, Mo.

An Anniversary.

To Whom It may Concern, Greeting—There will be a prayer and testimony meeting in Independence, December 29, 1900, on the 25th anniversary of the baptism at London, Ontario, when the glorious light from heaven was seen, and the voice was heard. The purpose of this meeting is to renew the fellowship of the Saints who were then established, and to bear our testimony to each other and to our children and the generation that has arisen since our benevolent Father gave us this testimony of His love and interest in His obedient children. We who are here are anxious to see at this meeting as many as possible who were at that baptism, and if you cannot be present do not fail to write us your testimony stating whether you were a member of the church at the time or not. Your written testimony will be read at this meeting, and a synopsis of the testimony of this meeting will be furnished to you.

Should any see this notice who know of any near them who were present at this baptism, please call their attention to this notice and urge upon them a compliance with it.

Mrs. R. MAY, Mrs. A. A. BUSINELL, Wm. CLOW.

INDEPENDENCE, Mo., Dec. 3.

ANYONE in a position to use church literature to good advantage apply to M. H. Clark, Box 4, Station A, Kansas City, Missouri. We have a large supply on hand and at our disposal, and trust you will make your wants known.

EVANGELIA LOST, a duet by Bro. J. Cole Moxou. Fine souvenir engraving of the little gospel boat. Everyone should possess a copy. Not a very great many of them left, better send in your orders for one or more before there is nothing left you but regrets that you do not possess a copy. Only 25 cents each. Let us hear from you promptly.

We are receiving orders for Bro. A. Haws' little book, "Sabatarian Theories a Delusion," a review of the arguments of the Seventh Day advocates. It is a useful little work, and we have heard only words of commendation for it. We can fill all orders, 15 cents each.

NOTICE.

To all who expect to buy or move to Independence with a view of residing here permanently—I am prepared to furnish you with all the information needed in regard to real estate, if you will enclose stamp for reply. Now is a very good time to buy; values are at a very low ebb, and the Saints may as well take advantage of it.

Your brother, W. S. LOAR.

AMERICA'S MOST POPULAR RAILROAD CHICAGO AND ALTON RAILROAD PERFECT PASSENGER SERVICE TO

CHICAGO, ST. LOUIS, KANSAS CITY, PEORIA, DENVER

ILLINOIS MISSOURI AND TERRITORY BEYOND.

Books and Pamphlets

PRICE LIST

- "FROM PALMYRA TO INDEPENDENCE," by Elder R. Etzenhouser, 444 pages; cloth binding, $1.00; paper binding, 50c.
"AUTOBIOGRAPHY OF ELDER JOSEPH LUFF," 377 pages; cloth bound; 3 illustrations, Reduced from $1.00 to .75.
"THREE BIBLES COMPARED," by Elder R. Etzenhouser, paper binding, 5 for $1.00; each, .25.
"THE BOOK OF MORMON VINDICATED," by Elder I. M. Smith; 112 pages; Paper cover, 4 for 1.00; each, .30.
"SERVANTS OF THE KING OF SEBASTOPOLIS," by Elder M. H. Bond, of the Seventy; 68 pages, paper bound, with fine engraving of the author. .25.
"FAULTY CREEDS," by Elder R. C. Evans; 6 for $1.00; each, .15.
"THE BOOK OF MORMON CONTRASTED," by Elder R. Etzenhouser; paper cover; 20 for $1.00, 3 for 25c; each, .10.
"THE CREEDS LAID BARE," by Elder R. Etzenhouser; paper cover; 3 for 25c; each, .10.
"THE RESURRECTION OF THE WICKED," by Elder W. J. Smith; 39 pages, paper cover, 3 for 25c; each, .10.
"WHO WAS JOSEPH SMITH?—WAS HE A FALSE PROPHET?" by Elder J. W. Peterson of the Quorum of Seventy; 99 pages; paper cover; engraving of author; 3 for 25c; each, .10.
"THE BOOK OF MORMON AND ITS TRANSLATOR," by Elder R. Etzenhouser; 27 pages, paper cover; 3 for 25c; each, .10.
"THE LEGAL SYSTEM," by the Apostle J. W. Wright; 90c per doz.; 3 for 25c; each, .10.
"AROSTASY OF THE CHURCH," by the Apostle J. W. Wright; 40 pages, paper cover; 3 for 25c; each, .10.
"THE MORE EXCELLENT WAY," by Elder T. C. Kelley; 68 pages; paper cover; each, .10.
"THE JOSEPH SMITH INTERVIEW," by Elder Joseph Luff's answer to Elder R. J. Parker; by E. L. Kelley; per hundred 90c; per doz. 15c; 9 for 10c; 2 for 5c.
"IS WATER BAPTISM ESSENTIAL TO SALVATION," by Elder Joseph Luff. 90c per 100; 15c per doz.; 3 for
"WHAT WE BELIEVE," The Epitome of Faith, with quotations given in full. 20c Per doz.; 2 for
"EVANGELIA LOST," a duet for soprano and tenor; words by J. Cole Moxou; music by W. H. Lieb.

SERMON PAMPHLETS. The following pamphlets 5 cents each, 3 for 10 cents, 6 for 15 cents, or 25 cents per dozen: "Signs of the Times," Revised and Enlarged, by Elder J. S. Roth; 70 pages; Illustrated. "The Book of Mormon; Evidences of its Divinity," by Elder R. C. Evans; 58 pages. "The Law of Life," by Elder F. M. Cooper; 38 pages. "The Restoration of Israel," by Elder S. W. L. Scott; 46 pages. "A Retrospective View of the Reorganization," by E. C. Briggs; 36 pages. "Gospel Message," by President Joseph Smith; 64 pages. "Modern Knowledge of the Antiquities of America," by Elder H. A. Stebbins; 34 pages. "Creed Making; Man Shall Not Add To Nor Take From the Word of God," by Elder I. M. Smith; 38 pages. "Antiquarian Evidences Concerning the Book of Mormon," by Elder E. L. Kelley; 40 pages. "Joseph Smith; Was He a Prophet of God?" by Elder R. C. Evans; 40 pages. "Sign Seekers," by Elder I. M. Smith; 32 pages. "Gospel Antiquity," by Elder Joseph Luff; 39 pages. "God is Light," by Elder W. H. Kelley; 46 pages. "Why Left the Baptist Church," by Elder W. H. Kophart; 33 pages. "The Marriage Relation," by Elder J. W. Wright; 41 pages. "The Personality of God and Doctrine of Christ," by Elder J. S. Roth; 38 pages. "Save Yourselves," by Elder I. M. Smith; 34 pages. We also fill orders for all Herald office publications. Address all orders and make all remittances to ENSIGN PUBLISHING HOUSE, Independence, Mo.

Missouri Pacific Railroad. Quick time, good connections, low rates to all points. Rates, time cards, etc., cheerfully furnished on application. F. A. MILLARD, Agent. Telephone 17.

Eyes Tested Free! FUCHS The Scientific Jewelers & Opticians. DEALERS IN Diamonds, Watches, Clocks, Silverware and Fancy Goods. Sewing Machines and all Supplies. Fine Watch and Jewelry Repairing a Specialty. CHRISTMAS NOVELTIES. South Side Square, Independence, Mo.

$495. Will buy 44 acres with four room cottage, barn, well, etc., in west Lamoni. Only a small payment required to secure this home, and it is a bargain for some one. Apply to Lock Box 7, Lamoni, Iowa.

GRAGELAND COLLEGE, LAMONI, IOWA.

Send for Catalogue to I. W. ALLENDER, Secretary, Lamoni, Iowa.

EUGENE FIELD'S POEMS A $7.00 BOOK. The Book of the century. Hand-somely illustrated by thirty-two of the World's Greatest Artists. Eugene Field Monument Souvenir Fund, 138 Monroe St., CHICAGO, ILL. (Also at Book Stores.) If you wish to send postage, enclose 10c.

50 YEARS' EXPERIENCE PATENTS TRADE MARKS DESIGNS. MUNN & Co. 361 Broadway, New York.

THE SERMONS OF THE REV. DR. NEWELL DWIGHT HILLIS (Plymouth Church, Brooklyn), Successor to Henry Ward Beecher, are published in the Brooklyn Daily Eagle every Monday, together with full reports of the sermons of Pastors of prominent churches in Greater New York. The Monday Eagle contains more articles on homiletics than any other daily paper in the United States. Samples sent on request. Subscription price per year, $1.50. Address, The Brooklyn Daily Eagle, Brooklyn, N. Y.

STATE SAVINGS BANK OF LAMONI, Incorporated under the laws of the State of Iowa, July 1, 1898. Offers depositors a safe bank for their savings, and solicits the correspondence and deposits of all Bank Drafts, or Express or Post Office order, or Registered Letter, or your private check on any bank in the United States or Canada, and direct your letter to W. S. Hilditch, Cashier of the State Savings Bank of Lamoni, at Lamoni, Iowa. Upon receipt of same a certificate of deposit will be issued and sent on return mail to the sender. This bank has facilities for handling a very large business by keeping all funds invested in safe and available securities. It has accepted deposits from sixteen different states. All letters containing inquiries or business will be promptly answered. List of Stockholders:—Wm. Anderson, Geo. H. Hilliard, Mrs. David Dancer, Miss Alice Dancer, Mrs. Ella D. Whitehead, Mrs. Luoy L. Resseguie, A. K. Anderson, W. A. Hopkins, Oscar Anderson, Frank Criley and Geo. W. Blair.

A Singer Sewing Machine THE BEST INVESTMENT ON EARTH, earning more in proportion to cost than any other purchase possible. THREE DIFFERENT KINDS, either lock-stitch or chain-stitch. BUILT LIKE A WATCH, at the largest and best equipped factory in the world, where every machine is carefully tested on practical stitching. Sold only by THE SINGER MANUFACTURING COMPANY

DR. JOS. MATHER, PHYSICIAN. Office at Residence, 301 S. Spring St., INDEPENDENCE, MO. CALLS ANSWERED NIGHT OR DAY. Phone 190-3. SUBSCRIBE FOR THE College City Chronicle The Leading Local Paper of LAMONI, IOWA. Published Weekly by the Chronicle Publishing Co.

THEY ADMIT IT. Bro. Hull, Chaucney, Ohio, says we saved him $12.00 on a $13.00 suit. Bro. Farrell, West Sullivan, Maine, writes that we saved him $5.00 on a $7.00 suit. Youth's heavy three-piece suit, age 12 to 19, $35.00. Goods are all sent prepaid.

PRINCE ALBERT SUITS. Black, all wool worsted Men's Suits, four button, round or square cut. 14 ounce $7.00; 16 ounce $7.25; 18 ounce $8.25; 20 ounce $8.75. Extra line, strictly all wool Oxford steel gray, heavy; worth $18.00, price $9.00. PRINCE ALBERT SUITS. Same goods as above. 14 oz. $9.50; 16 oz. $10.00; 18 oz. $11.00; 20 oz. $11.50. 14 oz. French Twill Sacks, worth $18.00, price $9.00. Prince Alberts, worth $25.00, $13.50. MEASUREMENTS.—Give size of bust around chest just under arms with coat off, size of waist, length of in seam of pant leg, your height and weight. Make all drafts, express and money orders payable at Sedgwick, Mo. Send all communications, letters, orders and registered letters to Cumorah, Mo. THE E. T. ATWELL CO. Cumorah, Mo.

QUIT-TO-BAC CURES THE TOBACCO HABIT. 3 BOXES, POSTPAID, $1.50 (U.S. Stamps or Money Order). With Positive Guarantee of Cure, or Money Cheerfully Refunded. You Run No Risk; why not try it and be a free man? Address, (Bro.) B. F. ORDWAY, Peoria, Ill.

OLDEST. LARGEST. BEST. 35TH YEAR. SPALDING'S COMMERCIAL COLLEGE. (INCORPORATED) East Wing, N. Y. Life Bldg., Kansas City, Mo. Bookkeeping, Shorthand, Typewriting, Telegraphy, English Branches, Twenty Rooms, Sixty Teachers and Lecturers. No Vacations. Practical Courses, Thorough Instruction. Rates Moderate. Free Catalogue. FREE EMPLOYMENT BUREAU. Tel. 1174. J. F. Spalding, A. M., Pres.

CANCER CURED WITH SOOTHING, BALMY OILS. Cancer, Tumor, Catarrh, Piles, Fistula, Ulcers, Eczema and all Skin and Womb Diseases. H. Sherman, U.S. Marine, Cancer Expert. Write for Illustrated Book, Sent Free. Address DR. R. BYE, Cor. 9th and Broadway, N.Y., N.O.

$5.00 BOX RAIN COAT This Regular $5.00 Waterproof MACKINTOSH for $2.75. Send no money, and send no name. Rate your weight, height, and state number of inches around body taken over vest, under coat, close up under arms, and we will send you the coat by express C. O. D., subject to examination. Examine it at your nearest express office and if exactly as requested, the most wonderful bargain you ever saw or heard of, send us $2.75 in full, and we will send you the coat, plus the agent our special guarantee of $2.00 and express charges. THIS MACKINTOSH is the latest style, easy fitting, made from heavy waterproof, tan color, genuine Davis's material. It is guaranteed to keep you dry, and guaranteed to last. It is guaranteed to be the best waterproof suit for both rain or overcoat, and guaranteed to be the best bargain ever offered by us or any other house. Write for our list of Mackintoshes, from $10 up, and guaranteed bicycle tires, from $1.50 up. We can save you money. Address H. S. DILLER & Co., 305 Dearborn St., Chicago.

R. R. TIME TABLES. MISSOURI PACIFIC—MAIN LINE DEPT. TRAINS WEST. 9 a.m. 10—Wichita and K. C. Mail. 12:40 9—Kansas & Nebraska Lim. 4:34 93—Texas, Joplin & K. C. Ex. 8:15 3—St. Louis Express. 8:35 73—Lexington Branch Pass. 6:33 7—Fast Mail. 10:00 TRAINS EAST. a.m. p.m. 96—K. C. & Wichita Mail. 2:58 72—Lexington Branch Pass. 6:53 6—St. Louis Mail. 7:23 92—K. C. Texas & Joplin Mail 8:37 2—St. Louis Through Mail & Pass. 10:17 78—Lex. Branch Passenger. 6:10 4—St. Louis Through Mail & Pass. 1:37 94—K. C. Tex. & Joplin Ex. 7:40 8—St. Louis Through Mail & Pass. 9:30 10—Kan. & Neb. Limited. 11:12 Nos. 7, 9 and 10 do not stop.

LIBERTY STREET DEPOT. TRAINS WEST. No. 73—Lex. Branch Pass. 8:30 a.m. 71— " " 6:40 p.m. TRAINS EAST. No. 72—Lex. Branch Pass. 6:56 a.m. 78— " " 6:15 p.m. Tel. 17. F. A. MILLARD, Agent.

CHICAGO & ALTON. EAST BOUND. a.m. p.m. 101—Local Way Freight. 7:40 47—St. Louis & Chicago Mail 8:27 WEST BOUND. a.m. p.m. 51—Chicago Limited. 8:58 49—St. Louis Flyer. 9:38 50—St. Louis Limited. 6:55 52—Chicago Limited. 8:08 102—Local Way Freight. p.m. 48—Chicago & St. Louis Mail 6:50 All trains make regular stops. Through tickets to all points in the United States and Canada. For further information regarding rates, etc., call on J. W. DUGAN, Agent. Tel. 29. J. CHARLTON, G. P. & T. AGT. Chicago.

Daughters of Zion.

"OUR AIM, MANKIND TO BLESS."

MRS. H. B. GURTIŠ, Editor.

The Daughters of Zion is an organization in the church, of mothers and others who are interested in the welfare of our homes. Under the supervision of the general society, local societies are established, where they may meet to consider together their work as home keepers, and as moulders of character. Their purpose is to increase love for the home, to promote social purity, to study the problem of child care and development; that thus they may better prepare themselves for their responsible duties as mothers, and that from the home may go the influence that shall fulfill their aim, which is "mankind to bless." Have you a local in your branch? If not, can you not organize one? Send to the corresponding secretary for constitutions. The Advisory Committee will be pleased to hear from you, and will gladly furnish literature, where they are in their power. Send your list of names of members to the recording secretary.

ADVISORY COMMITTEE.

- Mrs. Mary E. Hulmes, President, Independence, Missouri.
- Mrs. H. H. Robinson, Corresponding Secretary, Independence, Missouri.
- Mrs. E. C. Smith, Independence, Missouri.
- Mrs. Lucina Etzenhouser, 2417 Prospect St., Kansas City, Missouri.
- Mrs. Clara Frick, Independence, Missouri.
- Mrs. Caille B. Stebbins, Recording Secretary, Lamoni, Iowa.
- Mrs. Anna Murphy, Treasurer, Independence, Missouri.

Editor's address, 3133 Olive St., St. Louis, Missouri.

THE SINGER'S ALMS.

[AN INCIDENT IN THE LIFE OF THE GREAT TENOR, MARI.]

In Lyons, on the mart of that French town, Years since, a woman, leading a fair child, Craved a small alms of one, who, walking down The thoroughfare, caught the child's glance and smiled

To see, behind its eyes, a noble soul; He paused, but found he had no coin to dole.

His guardian angel warned him not to lose This chance of pearl to do another good; So, as he waited, ready to refuse,

The asked-for penny, there aside he stood, And with his hat held, as by limit he need, He covered his kind face and sung his best.

The sky was blue above, and all the lane Of commerce, where the singer stood, Was filled,

And many paused, and, listening, paused again

To hear the voice that through and through, through them thrilled,

I think the guardian angel helped along That cry for pity, wove in a song.

The hat of its stamped brood was emptied soon

Into the woman's lap, who drenched with tears

Her kiss upon the hand of help; 'twas none, And none in her glad heart drew forth her tears.

The singer, pleased, passed on and softly thought,

"Men will not know by whom this deed was wrought."

But when at night he came upon the stage, Cheer after cheer went up from that wide throng,

And flowers rained on him; naught could assuage

The tumult of the welcome save the song That he had sweetly sung, with covered face,

For: the two beggars in the market place.

—Henry Abbey.

DEAR GIRLS:—May I come in and make one of your charmed circle for a brief time? I found this beautiful poem in one of my papers this morning and it woke sweet echoes of melody in my soul, and while I write they are sweeping along and reverberating all through my being. It is a grand, a noble gift—this power which God bestows upon us of doing good! All have not the same gift, neither the same measure of power, but there is no one so poor, no one so humble but God has given them an unlimited capacity of doing good. None of you may have the rich, sweet voice which could charm others into freely parting with their gold to relieve distress; indeed it may be that you have no very special talent in any direction, but notwithstanding this I repeat, Each of you has unlimited capacity of doing good. All things are bought with a price. You have capacity, but capacity is only the foundation upon which to build. All around you is the material. It is free for the using, and you may fashion of it a beautiful structure if you will. You may so order your lives that they will be a continual blessing to all with whom you come in contact. Will you pay the price?

See, yonder is a boat fast nearing the rapids of that mighty, swiftly rushing stream and in the boat a man is sitting. Is he sleeping, dreaming, or what is the matter that so near to this water's precipice he sits leaning idly upon his oars, drifting with the tide which each moment increases in rapidity and will soon draw his frail boat beyond the power of human arm to save? In vain those who are looking on call to him, the waters, in swift rushing, drown their voices, and gestures of warning are alike vain. Is there no hope; are there none to rescue; none to save? Not from the shore; not from without. Will he not rouse himself or is he bent upon suicide? To every one regarding him the truth is so plain, that whether the man himself knows it or not—whether he is sleeping or idly dreaming, he has but to remain inactive just a brief span longer and his doom is sealed—death will close the scene.

But at last with a bewildered air he suddenly awakens to a sense of his surroundings. Swiftly his senses—now keenly alive—take in his danger and bending all his energies to the task before him the prow of his boat is reversed and slowly he toils against the current towards a place of safety. Home, friends, love and life are all before him.

To each one of you, girls, life is that river and upon yourself depends the measure of your usefulness. You have only to fold your hands and drift idly with the current in order to make shipwreck of your life.

The great apostle of the gentiles bears this testimony when nearing the close of life, "I have fought a good fight." Ah, there it is, girls, all revealed in a brief sentence. The price you and I must pay for any worthy achievement is the bending of every energy of soul and body to its accomplishment. If you can pay this price it is only a question of time—your success is certain.

CORA.

"THE woman who is thoughtful is never a successful gossip."

"If we don't serve God in our homes, we contravene the Lord's highest purpose in home-making."

"THE safety of the state is in good homes. If children are to grow up godly, they must have the shelter which God provided for them—their home. All the criminals were somebody's sons, and came out of families."

"A DEFICIENCY of water in the system, if prolonged, leads to the accumulation of waste products in the blood and tissues, to deficient nutrition, often leading to constipation, dyspeptic symptoms, loss of weight and rheumatic or gouty affections."—Selected.

JOTS BY THE WAYSIDE.

BY T. W. ORATURN.

Riverside, California. We found Uncle John Brackenbury and family comfortably settled in Riverside. Uncle John is a veritable "baggage smasher," who in connection with his son Lute are "doing the trains" and running a general transfer business. Bro. John's health is much improved since coming here, which was the incentive for leaving the Zion land.

Who said California would go dry? We have been praying for rain—but Great Scott—on the 16th of November the rain descended and the floods came and the winds blew, and there was a dampness all along the line. From four to eleven inches of rain has fallen since the above date, varying according to location, the nearer the mountains the greater the precipitation.

The weather clerk of California is in a fair way to redeem himself and can now have everything in sight, political or otherwise. After five days of a down-poor the sun came out smiling and warming the earth preparatory for a glorious resurrection of sleeping life. The brown hills will now soon be carpeted with rich luxuriant grasses and bedecked and jeweled with beautiful flowers. The effects of the rain can already be seen in the movement of "ranchers" who are busy gathering up the gang plows and beginning the preparation of lands for sowing the seed.

The orange crop is very fine; picking is just commencing; a few carloads have already been shipped for the Holiday trade. Riverside is the home of the navel orange; the estimated crop this year will reach 5,000 carloads of 360 boxes each. The picking season is from December 1st to May 1st, giving employment to many hands, the Chinese doing the major part of the work in the orange groves.

Riverside is unique. The beauty of its streets and drives, the magnificent residences and the enormity and diversity of its fruit interests cannot otherwise than impress one very favorably indeed. The deserts of Arizona and Nevada are indeed but the pathway of sorrow that leads into this Paradise. It is worth coming over the "bad lands" to reach this beautiful spot where roses bloom outdoors continually and unplucked, and where the March winds are balmy, the sun shines warm from the bluest skies and the trees are laden with golden fruits. The whole panorama is intoxicating to the eye, the air laden with the fragrance of orange blossoms and all nature lovely indeed. Such as "hostile elements," "outting winds," "blinding snows," are not in the vocabulary here. Nature seems to love rather than hate and in return man grows to love nature. Instead of being compelled to wrap up in heavy garments or in furs like a beast to protect from the icy blasts of zero winds, he can almost every day in the year, coalesce, step out into the sunshine and bright and balmy air sweet with the perfume of flowers and over the portals of the humblest home will be clusters of luxuriant roses; imagine such a revelation of kindness from nature and the surprise of a real northerner from Missouri.

Our second debate with Rev. Edward Hyder will begin December 1st. Questions: "Book of Mormon," "Joseph Smith," "Canon of Scriptures is full."

Alexander H. Smith is at San Bernardino. Elbert Smith and wife are enjoying coast life finely. Their healthy browned and tanned complexions inspires the hope of final recovery. D. A. Anderson is looking eastward as well as fat and saucy. Bro. Gould says, "It's not all gold that glitters." Uncle Alex is large, yet he is lonesome.

Clergy Permits for 1901.

The Central and the Western Passenger Associations have been furnished with lists complete to date of all General Conference and other general mission appointees, and notified that certificates of appointment hold good until the General Conference of 1901. Applications for permits for the year 1901 may, therefore, be made at any time.

The Western Association is divided into two departments. Applicants located in Alabama, Arkansas, Indian Territory, Oklahoma, Kentucky, Louisiana, Mississippi, Missouri, Sonora (Mexico), Tennessee, and Texas should address C. M. Pratt, chairman, Room 1320 Union Trust Building, St. Louis, Missouri. Those in other territory of said Association address Eben E. MacLeod, Chairman, Monadnock Building, Chicago, Illinois.

Applicants in Central Association territory should address F. C. Donald, Commissioner Central Passenger Association, Monadnock Building, Chicago, Illinois.

Application blanks may be obtained from local railroad agents, or from either of the above named.

All local ministers entitled to permits are referred to their respective missionaries in charge for endorsement, as heretofore.

R. S. SALYARDS, Church Sec.

LAMONI, Ia., December 1

NOTICES.

To the Officers and Members of the State of Oregon, Greeting:—In compliance with your request for a district organization I hereby appoint a special conference to be held at Drain, Oregon, on the 2d and 3d of February, 1901, with the view to effect said organization.

I herewith authorize Bro. D. L. Harris, one of the Seventy and missionary in charge, to direct the organization of the new district. (See Sec. 120: 3).

All secretaries of the branches should send a full and complete report to Bro. Harris at Drain, Oregon, two weeks before convening of conference. Yours in gospel bonds,

GOMER T. GRIFFITHS.

Missionary in Charge.

KIRTLAND, O., Nov. 24, 1900.

To the Saints of the Pacific Slope Mission, Greeting:—You will see by Saints' Herald of November 21, 1900, that I will not return to my mission, for reasons assigned in said notice. However I will continue to direct the affairs of the mission through the sub-ministers in charge.

Bro. R. Etzenhouser is hereby appointed in sub-charge of the Central California district, and Bro. Fred E. Blair in charge of the Northern district. The ministry are urged to be prompt in sending in their reports the 1st of January and March respectively, as I desire to be kept well informed of the true status of the work committed to our care. I truly feel grateful to the brethren associated with me in gospel work for the hearty support they have given me and desire that you continue to supplement my efforts. Also feel thankful to the Saints for the kindness shown me during my sojourn among them.

I am pleased with the cheering reports which have come to me from different parts of the mission and I earnestly pray that the work begun will be continued with greater zeal and energy on our part.

There is now an opportunity afforded us to help roll on the great and grand work of God in our respective localities. So let us work while the day lasts, for the harvest time is fast approaching when Christ our Eternal King will come in His majesty and glory to garner in the sheaves and reward His reapers.

Praying that success may attend our efforts to the glory of God and the salvation of men, I remain your brother and co-worker in Christ,

GOMER T. GRIFFITHS.

KIRTLAND, O., Nov. 24, 1900.

DIED.

BAKER.—At her home in Council Bluffs, Iowa, Sunday, November 25, 1900, Sr. Harriet Baker. She was born December 25, 1837, in Gravelly, Cambridge, England; was baptized into the Reorganized church September 18, 1895, at the Manawa reunion. Her husband and three sons, one sister and three brothers mourn their loss. She was buried from the Latter Day Saints' church, Elder F. A. Smith preaching the funeral sermon.

GARDNER.—At her home, Omaha, Nebraska, November 14, 1900, of nervous prostration, Sr. Emma Gardner. She was born October 10, 1837, in Stroud, Gloucestershire, England; was baptized into the Reorganized Church October 16, 1892, in Omaha, Nebraska, by Elder G. M. L. Whitman, and has been an earnest, faithful, consistent follower of our Lord and Master ever since. She leaves a husband, one son and five daughters to mourn their loss. Funeral services at the house; sermon by Elder F. A. Smith. Interment in Forest Lawn cemetery.

Hacking

There is nothing so bad for a cough as coughing. It tears the tender membrane of the throat and lungs, and the wounds thus made attract the germs of consumption. Stop your cough by using the family remedy that has been curing coughs and colds of every kind for over sixty years. You can't afford to be without it.

Ayer's Cherry Pectoral

loosens the grasp of your cough. The congestion of the throat and lungs is removed; all inflammation is subdued; and the cough drops away.

Three sizes: the one dollar size is the cheapest to keep on hand; the 50c. size for coughs you have had for some time; the 25c. size for an ordinary cold.

"For 15 years I had a very bad cough. The doctors and everybody else thought I had a true case of consumption. Then I tried Ayer's Cherry Pectoral and it only took a bottle and a half to cure me."
F. MARTIN MILLER, Oct. 28, 1893. Camden, N.Y.
"Write the Doctor. If you have any complaint winter and desire the best medical advice, write the Doctor free of charge."
DR. J. C. AYER, Lowell, Mass.

ZION'S ENSIGN.

"OUR CREED: ALL TRUTH."

VOLUME 11.

INDEPENDENCE, MISSOURI, THURSDAY, DECEMBER 13, 1900

NUMBER 50.

ZION'S ENSIGN.

A Literary and Religious Newspaper, published in the interest of social, scientific and religious truth, every Thursday, at Independence, Jackson County, Missouri.

PRICE, $1.00 PER YEAR, IN ADVANCE.

ENSIIGN PUBLISHING HOUSE,
Of the Reorganized Church of Jesus Christ of Latter Day Saints.

W. H. GARRETT, EDITOR.
J. W. LUFF, BUSINESS MANAGER.

Make all remittances, and address all communications to ENSIIGN PUBLISHING HOUSE, Box B, Independence, Jackson County, Missouri.

New subscriptions can begin at any time. If possible to avoid it, never send silver as it is liable to wear through the envelope and be lost.

Always give the name of the post office to which your paper is sent or we can not find your name on our lists.

When desiring your address changed, give both the old and new addresses. Papers will be discontinued one month from the time subscriptions expire, unless ordered continued.

In making remittances, money orders are preferable for they are absolutely safe. If you can avoid it, do not send coin or stamps. Canadian stamps are an entire loss, and Canadian currency is only worth ninety cents on the dollar to us, for that is all we can get for it at the bank. Letters should be addressed, and orders and drafts made payable to

ENSIIGN PUBLISHING HOUSE,
Independence, Mo.
Box B.

MANIFEST THE LIGHT.

The fact set forth by our divine Lord that His disciples are "the light of the world" must have its fulfillment in the example of every individual who obeys the gospel if they comprehend the object for which the gospel is sent to mankind. John bears this testimony:

God is light, and in him is no darkness at all.—1 John 1:5.

Every testimony concerning the character of God, no matter from what source it comes, always harmonizes with this declaration of John. "God is light," and it follows logically that all which comes from Him must be truth, must be light, for "in him is no darkness at all." Now, if any individual is led and governed by that which comes from God, such a one must have light, and must necessarily manifest that light, if fully adorning the profession of life in Christ. No one can follow Christ and at the same time walk in darkness or manifest that which is evil in his life, for Jesus has said:

I am come a light into the world, that whosoever believeth on me should not abide in darkness.—St. John 12:46.

There is no room for controversy in the thought that all who truly believe in the mission of the Lord Jesus Christ will not only be willing, but anxious to do all that He has commanded; consequently, as He is the light of the world, and became such because He loved righteousness, and did that which was right in His life, so all who follow Him in the example He gave, must necessarily also be a light to the world to the extent that they "follow" Him.

But it is impossible for any one to be a light to others when they go contrary to the way He trod, or neglect to do the things He did and commanded His followers to do, by which light is manifest.

A light may be transcendently grand, glorious, beautiful; but if it is not allowed to shine forth, that those in the outer darkness may be attracted by its grandeur, how shall it benefit them? and of what advantage shall it be even to those who may possess it if they hide it so that no other can comprehend it? No wealth is of any value to its possessor except for the use he can make of it. And one may possess all the intelligence it is possible for a human brain to contain, but if he does not make use of it in disseminating knowledge to others, it is useless and valueless to him so far as practical results are considered.

Beyond all question, the world is stupendously better because the Lord Jesus Christ was manifested in the flesh for a few brief years. All classes of men will admit that fact, and the beautiful light reflected in that life has been the comfort, the inspiration and the example for the emulation of millions of mankind to a greater or less extent. How truly and forcefully has His statement been fulfilled, "I am come a light into the world," and that other one also, so full of gracious and cheering promise to the earnest, fervent spirit:

I am the light of the world: he that followeth me shall not walk in darkness, but shall have the light of life.—John 8:12.

To walk in the light is to be useful; is to make the sphere in which one moves, better. It is a natural sequence, for as Jesus is a light to the world, and all men acknowledge that His life and teachings are a benefit to all who will follow them, so to the extent that one may, in his own life, exemplify both the life and teachings of the Christ, to that extent is he a light to others, and is making the world better for his being a part of it. Light is cheering, darkness depressing; and only those who fear the revelations of their true condition which the light would make apparent to the observer, only they, love darkness. It is natural for humanity to love physical light. We all love a bright, comfortable, sunshiny day; the spirit seems more cheerful, the world seems more beautiful; hope is more buoyant, and we are apt to appreciate the privilege of living under so pleasant a condition. So with the spiritual entity; when walking in the light of the Spirit there is joy and exaltation, and the influence of that inspiration is to sow the seeds of righteousness, and though the reaping may be delayed, there will be fruit at sometime as a witness that the work was done "in His name."

Our Savior submitted Himself to the will of His Father and was baptized in Jordan by the servant whom that Father authorized and appointed, to do that work; He was the light of the world in that act. Can those who despise this sacred rite; and who refuse to obey it—no matter how devout they may be otherwise—reflect the light of Christ? Verily no; and with equal propriety, can it be denied that those who disregard any of the teachings and commandments of the Savior, whether given by His own voice, or through that of His apostles under the dictation of the Holy Spirit—the "other comforter"—are the light of the world as represented by the Christ. Remember HE is the light of the world, and that the promise is that they who FOLLOW Him, shall not walk in darkness. But the inference is distinctly apparent, that they who do NOT follow Him SHALL walk in darkness.

But as the light is to be reflected from those who do follow Him, His disciples, in every age, must wield a mighty influence, either for good, as they so follow, or for evil, as they manifest that which is not the fruit of His Spirit. He forgave freely all His enemies; He prayed for those who caused Him to be persecuted and put to death. But how extremely difficult it seems sometimes for brethren or sisters, His professed children, to forgive each other, though the fault be but a comparatively small and trifling one. He taught that we should love God supremely and our neighbor as ourselves. But as a rule the selfish propensities in our natures make this injunction hard to observe. Instead of loving God above all others, there are many things upon which some are apt to lavish devotion more frequently, and often more fervently, than upon our heavenly Father. In too many instances, more, very much more, energy is displayed in securing, or seeking to obtain, the wealth of this world, than is manifest in God's service. Too often the appointments of His house are but a secondary consideration, when compared to the enjoyments to be had at some worldly entertainment—not always—but too frequently, for the influence they should exert in being a light to others.

There was a time, as related by Alma (Book of Mormon, page 188, large edition), when, because the members of the church did not heed the light, they became a hindrance to those outside the church. As we look at it from our point of view in this age, we think that was certainly deplorable. But can every one who is connected with the Church of Jesus Christ today say they are free from this sin? We fear not. In some, the salt has lost its savor, there is no saving power in them; such should take heed, repent and strive to bring forth the fruits of the Spirit, lest the sentence should be executed as given by the Savior, "If the salt has lost its savor [altogether,] it is thenceforth good for nothing but to be cast out and to be trodden under foot of men." (Matt. 5:13).

If the light that is in thee be darkness, how great is that darkness.—Matt. 6:23.

EDITORIAL ITEMS.

ELDER ARTHUR ALLEN's mission address is 1240 Glasgow Avenue, St. Louis, Missouri. Mail sent to this address will reach him promptly.

ANY one knowing the address of Bro. Thomas Bradshaw, either in this country or England, will confer a favor by addressing Mrs. Wm. Butcher, 321 W. Menomonee street, Belvidere, Illinois.

BRO. S. A. LOVE is now located at Blendsville, Missouri, having recently moved there from Traverse. He requests that any of the Saints in Spring River district, who desire preaching, will inform him at his new address.

ELDER F. C. WARNKY was to close his meetings at Nevada, Missouri, Sunday, December 9th, having baptized eight that day. He was to preach at Rich Hill, Missouri, Tuesday following, on his way to Montevillo, where he was to begin a protracted meeting to continue as interest justified.

BRO. A. H. PARSONS organized a branch at Greenleaf, Kansas, November 18th, with a membership of thirty-two. Bro. Wm. Landers, of Stockton, is president and Bro. Wm. Hodson priest. One was baptized on Sunday. They have secured a hall in which to hold services, and start out under very encouraging circumstances for a successful work.

BRO. GEO. BUSCHLEN, Arthur, Ontario, has the right view of things and presents some sensible thoughts in his letter in another column. No one should refuse to do their duty or take advantage of an opportunity to do a good work because of a fearful some one should pass an unfriendly criticism upon them. And when any one has items concerning the gospel work in their locality, which is of interest to others, they should not hesitate to send them, no matter who might unjustly impugn their motives. The Lord is judge and we should seek to please Him first of all. The editors of church papers need a good supply of bright, newsy letters from which to make a selection that will be best suited to strengthen and cheer others, but they should not, as Bro. Buschlen suggests, be too long. If correspondents will carefully consider what they wish to say when writing, they can so condense as to say a great deal in a very short space. Cut out superfluous words and sentences, and state, simply and plainly, what is desired to be said. If one writes too often, that is, more often than the necessities of the work seem to demand, the editor can and will use his judgment and leave one out as he sees best. But none should be offended or lose courage on this account. Do all that is done with a desire to do good, to help others, and none need feel hurt because a letter or two may not be used. Bro. Buschlen shows in his letter that he has profited by his experiences, has learned wisdom, and though his zeal is in no wise slackened, he has found that the most successful way to work, is to couple his zeal with wisdom, and that is a lesson we may all learn with profit both to ourselves and God's work.

EXTRACTS FROM LETTERS.

ELDER W. S. MACRAE, Hunt, Arkansas, Dec. 4:

Am having good hearing near here. Some prejudice of the egg variety, but the better element comes to hear. I go from here to Sallito, about January 1st, where I will spend several weeks, thence to Bald Knob, White county. Am feeling fine.

MRS. MARTHA COCHRAN, Box 1213, Ann Arbor, Michigan, Nov. 27th:

Why don't some of your elders come out to Ann Arbor? Some of the Brightside elders have been here trying to get some converts, but they do not have very good success. If an elder comes he can stay at my house and I think that he could do some good work here. The number of my house is 1008 Chubb Street; he can find it very easily, for most all the people know my husband, A. W. Cochran.

MRS. JAS. CHRISTENSON, Gilmore City, Iowa, Nov. 25th:

I could not be without the ENSIIGN, for that is my only preacher and meeting I have, as I am alone and it is about twenty-five miles to any of the branch meetings. My husband who was killed by lightning June 20th, a daughter and I were baptized into the Reorganized Latter Day Saints Church four years ago. My husband was ordained a priest some time after and was trying to do his duty in serving the Lord, and tried to do His blessed will as best he knew until the day of his death. There are three of the Saints living at Rolfe, five miles from here, but none of them have been at my house since the day of the burial of my husband. I wish the Saints to pray for me, and if any of the preachers or elders come around, wish they would not forget to make me a call. I will see that they get a place for shelter when night comes at the neighbors. I am sixty years old and intend to work with all my heart that I may be a true, noble Latter Day Saint and serve the Lord, that when my time is come that I am called to go, that I may rejoice with the ones who have gone before me in the place that is prepared for me, and that I may meet there with my children when their time is called to come.

GENERAL CHURCH NEWS.

INDEPENDENCE

Bro. Allen Bailey has gone on a visit to Kempton, Illinois.

Apostle I. N. White left for Cameron, Missouri, this week.

Bro. Frank Rudd is expected to preach at the Saints' church next Sunday evening.

Sr. M. C. Bowler is again quite ill. Being alone, she appreciates the visits of the Saints who can make it convenient to call.

Next Sunday has been appointed by the officers of the branch as a day of fasting and prayer—morning and mid day meals—for Sr. Atwood whose sight has been rapidly failing recently. So far as possible this should be observed.

Bishop R. May, was the speaker at the Saints' church Sunday morning, and the hearers were profited. At night Bro. B. J. Scott occupied very acceptably. The afternoon meeting was a good one, the Lord speaking in admonition and promise; it was a season of comfort and cheer.

Bro. Geo. Hayward has removed his office to one of McCoy's new buildings, West Lexington street, and is quite busy. His long experience in watch work gives such satisfaction that his customers stay with him. Bro. Hayward can always be depended upon for doing what he says he will do.

Bro. and Sr. E. Harrington entertained a large number of friends at their home, 809 Euclid avenue, Kansas City, Kansas, Monday evening (the 10th), the occasion being the 21st birthday of their youngest son. Bro. Edmund C. A very enjoyable time was had. We congratulate our brother upon the attainment of his majority.

The winter so far has been all that any reasonable person could ask. Bright, sunny days, just enough frost in the air to purify it and make it a pleasure to inhale it to the fullest extent of lung capacity, and just enough of a freezing to keep the roads in splendid condition; heavy wraps are not a necessity except perhaps in a long drive; and altogether it is delightful.

Bro. W. T. Bozarth left Friday, of last week, for Colorado; we are sorry to have him leave us, he is an efficient laborer in the gospel, as well as a genial companion, and his early experiences in the work are thrillingly interesting. What we lose, however, Colorado will gain, for there is no keeping a man like Bro. Bozarth inactive as long as his strength lasts. May the Lord prosper his work. Sr. Bozarth remains here for the present.

A "Century Rally" will be held in the Saints church, Sunday, January 6, 1901, at which it is hoped every member of the branch, and as many others as may desire to participate with us, will be present. Special services will be held, in which the excellent choir of the church will have a prominent part. Let all our singers respond to the call of the chorister, and assist to make the event pleasurable, profitable and a source of good to all. Further particulars will be given later.

LAMONI, IOWA.

Attendance at Sunday School yesterday was fair. The Christmas offering will be taken up the Sunday preceding Christmas. Elder David Wright addressed the Saints at 11 o'clock, using for his text Luke 14: 28, "For which of you intending to build a tower, sitteth not down first and counteth the cost, whether he have sufficient to finish it." The sermon was excellent. Afternoon prayer meeting was in charge of Elders Ackerly and Anderson. This meeting was not so largely attended as usual, but the time was well spent in testimony, prayer and song. Elder R. S. Salyards addressed the Saints at the evening hour upon the topic "Judgment."

A good prayer meeting was held at the church Wednesday evening. There was a large number present and good interest was manifested.

On Friday night the Religio decided to hold hereafter a Religio Teachers' meeting, to be held every Thursday evening. The Lamoni Religio is for advancement.

That one may profitably employ their evenings in Lamoni is shown from the fact that one of our young elders, during the month of November, attended thirty-five regular meetings of the branch and various societies of the church.

Bro. Bernt Johnson, of Hills, Minnesota, arrived here December 5th, and is numbered with the Graceland College students.

Bro. and Sr. Reuben Elvin are joining over the advent of a little son, December 8th.

Apostle W. H. Kelley left for Coldwater, Michigan, on Friday night.

Sr. M. B. Holmes, of Buffalo Prairie, Illinois, is visiting her sister, Sr. Nellie Elvin.

The Quaker Male Quartet, of Chicago, under the auspices of Zion's Religio-Literary Society, will give a concert Saturday night in auditorium of church.

The closing exercises of the full term of Graceland College will be held in the college chapel Friday night.

The Sunday School will give an entertainment Christmas eve, following out the program published by the General Association.

Sr. Ruth L. Smith, professor of elocution in Graceland College, and the pupils of her class, will give an elocutionary recital next Tuesday evening in the church auditorium.

Bro. M. F. Gowell occupied yesterday at the Surprise schoolhouse, about sixteen miles distant; Brn. R. M. Elvin and Isaac Carlyle at New Buda; Bro. Carlyle walking the distance there and back, eighteen miles, and bad roads too. Bishop Wm. Anderson spoke at Pleasanton.

Helena Emma Anderson, daughter of Bro. and Sr. John E. Anderson, was baptized on Saturday, in the font at the Saints' Home, by Bro. H. A. Stebbins, and was confirmed on Sunday afternoon, by Brn. Stebbins and Ackerly.

Bro. Gamalia L. Jones died on Friday night at the Saints' Home. By his request Bro. H.

A. Stebbins preached the sermon. The service was at two o'clock on Sunday. Bro. John Smith assisted, and members of the choir led the singing. Bro. Jones was born in Vermont and lived 57 years, 7 months and 28 days. He held the degree of Master of Arts, as granted him by Middlebury college, where he graduated in 1868, and his life was spent in educational work in Ohio and Minnesota. He was principal of schools in Winchester, Ohio, and Audubon, Minnesota, also was four times elected as superintendent of schools in Becker county, Minnesota; his labor greatly aiding in that new region to establish efficient school privileges. His ancestors came over in the ship Mayflower in 1620, being of the Pilgrim fathers. Until 1888 he was a Congregationalist, but, not satisfied with its teachings, he sought light, and when he heard the elders of the Reorganized church of Christ he investigated deeply. The result was baptism by Bro. J. C. Foss on July 15, 1888. He remained firm to the end. He married in 1868 and five children were born to them, four still living. He had consumption and was about thirteen months in the Home, suffering much but always patient and enduring. He was a noble man, one devoted to humanity and to God, and, without doubt, his spirit rests in the paradise of God.

GRACE L. KRAHL.

December 10.

CHICAGO, ILLINOIS.

Branch headquarters, 716 W. Van Buren St., Sunday meetings 2:45 and 7:45 p. m.; Lang Mission, 3411 Cottage Grove Ave., 10:45 a. m. and 7:30 p. m.; West Pullman branch, 748 119th St., 10:30 a. m. and 7:30 p. m.; 508 W. 37th St. (colored mission), 10:30 a. m. and 7:30 p. m.

A splendid spirit pervaded and prevailed in the sacrament service yesterday, making manifest the wisdom of God and will in exhortation, revelation and prophecy. The thought was emphasized that the regular appointed services should be first sustained, and not substituted by auxiliaries. "Nearer my God to thee" seemed to be the shibboleth of all present. The meeting was well attended, though a number were kept away by sickness. Brn. F. M. Pitt and W. H. Deam in charge, assisted by the priest and president of the branch.

Sr. Kelso and daughter, M. A., of Higbee, Missouri, worshipped with the Saints yesterday. They will winter in Chicago. We hope to see them often at our services.

Bro. R. T. Cooper came in from his weekly trip between Chicago, Illinois, and Los Angeles, California, and aided with his musical talent in the service yesterday.

An excellent prayer meeting was held at the Lang mission on Wednesday night. The spirit of contrition and tongues was present to the good of the Saints.

Bro. F. M. Cooper, in visiting the various parts of his (Kewanee) district, came within the radius of home attractions, and Sundayed in the city, enjoying the services at headquarters.

Bro. Wm. Strange occupied at the mission yesterday morning, and E. J. Lang at night. Bro. P. Pement will preach there next Sunday morning, and at 716 Van Buren at 3 p. m. Bro. Strange also preached the evening sermon at the hall.

Sr. Sadie Pitt was called, by telegram, to Canada, to attend the funeral of her father, starting Saturday evening. Little Ada accompanied her. They will remain for a short visit.

Bro. E. E. Johnson still remains in a precarious condition. He was a little brighter last evening.

The Chicago Saints should give the "twentieth" century a hearty welcome by a rousing and earnest union meeting the first Sunday. Special features will be added. See next week.

In good cheer, your servant,
J. M. TERRY.
395 Ogden Ave., Dec. 10.

SECOND KANSAS CITY BRANCH.
Corner 23d and Holly. One block south of Observation Park line.

Priest Geo. Edwards was the speaker Sunday morning, and our presiding elder the evening.

Our Sunday School we believe to be making rapid strides toward perfection, but as in all good work, we find that the greater the progress, the more the necessity for labor and laborers.

We are glad to announce that our Religio social and entertainment was a financial success, about $40.00 having been realized. In behalf of the Religians, who have so requested, we desire to thank the ENSIGN for the interest shown, also those who manifested their interest by their presence.

The Ladies' Aid society of the Armstrong have placed in the hands of the Aid society of this branch, $10.00 to be placed with their fund toward relieving of the indebtedness of our church building. The sisters desire to publicly acknowledge receipt of and return thanks for same. May the Lord bless their efforts altogether.

We were glad to have Bro. Arthur Gilen drop in and worship with us yesterday (Sunday) morning. Come again, Bro. Arthur, and stay longer.

A. C. K.

December 10.

FIRST KANSAS CITY BRANCH.
2324 Wabash Ave., Sunday School 9:30 a. m.; preaching at 11 a. m. and 7:30 p. m.; social service 12:15 p. m. D. F. Winn, pastor, 2306 Bellfontaine.

Sunday was quite a cold day, but the attendance at the meetings was fairly good; would no doubt have been better had the meetings been at the church instead of at the hall, as some did not find the right place. Bro. Joseph Luff delivered an excellent sermon in the morning, as also did Bro. Frank Rudd in the evening. It is announced that Bro. M. B. Williams will be the speaker on next Sunday and Bro. J. D. White in the evening.

We were notified on Sunday that the church was again ready for occupancy. Some went over to see it and were surprised at its neat appearance, everything being fresh and clean and in first class condition. The insurance company has done more in the way of repairs than we had reason to expect from them.

Sr. H. L. Ashbaugh is again able to meet with the Saints. She has been sick for some time. Sr. Maggie Gard and husband are the proud possessors of a fine boy, born on the 5th inst. Sr. Maggie is better known as Sr. Maggie Burch.

By request of the missionary in charge and the officers of the branches we give the location of the place of meeting, and the speakers. Armstrong, church edifice, 784 Colorado Ave., Elder D. F. Winn will speak in the morning at 11 o'clock and Elder G. H. Hulmes in the evening. Chelsea Park branch, hall at 437 Minnesota Ave., Kansas City, Kansas, W. H. Pease will speak in the morning and B. J. Scott in the evening. Northeast mission, over Smith's drug store, Rochester Ave., W. R. Pickering will speak in the morning and Arthur Gilen in the evening. These announcements will also appear in the Kansas City daily papers so the sojourners in the city who desire to attend services will be able to find where to meet with the Saints. The notices will appear in the Saturday evening and morning papers instead of on Sunday morning.

R. E. PORTER.

December 11.

ST. LOUIS, MISSOURI.

Places of worship: Rock Church, Glasgow avenue and Dickson street. Services: Wednesday evening, prayer service. Sunday: Sabbath School 9:30 a. m.; preaching at 11 a. m.; social service at 2:30 p. m.; preaching at 8 p. m. Cheltenham, 5731 Manchester Ave., services: Sunday School 10 a. m.; social meeting 2:30 p. m.; preaching 7:30 p. m. Oak Hill, Sunday School 9:30 a. m., and services at 2:30 and 8 p. m.

Preaching all the past week, save Saturday night, when the regular monthly business meeting of the branch was held. The services were fairly well attended, Wednesday night having the largest attendance. A number of strangers in evidence at nearly all of our sessions, and thus the truth is being preached for a witness. Bishop E. L. Kelley was assisted by members of the local priesthood. The business meeting of Saturday was good in attendance, interest, and expected results.

Sybilis Burgess, youngest child of Bro. and Sr. S. R. Burgess, was baptized last Wednesday evening by Bro. E. L. Kelley, confirmed Sunday morning under the hands of Brn. Kelley and A. Allen.

With Thanksgiving work well off our hands, we find ourselves again confronted with the festive merry making that betokens the holidays; the Sunday School are beginning preparations for the Christmas tree, the Religio are going to give an entertainment and the ladies of the Mite Society are going to have a Watch party New Year's eve. Our late success has enthused and inspired us, and in our hearts we are grateful that the Lord is remembering Zion, and bringing her comfort once more.

Our social meeting of yesterday afternoon was splendid, and indeed we felt a marked degree of spiritual uplifting all the blessed day; in Sabbath School, then later in the inspired words of our speaker, and again in the afternoon. We must not forget to speak of the evening service: Bro. Kelley was assisted by Brn. Billinsky and Cook. The anthems were especially fine, and as a conclusion to the second one the congregation joined in singing, "Praise God From Whom all Blessings Flow." Of all people we can sing that earnestly and meaningfully.

Sr. Rathbone suffered grievously the past week, being called upon to part with her youngest child, little Harry. We can sympathize with those who weep and mourn.

Bro. Kelley left for other parts immediately after the evening service.

Sr. Himmelgard's little son was baptized after the social meeting, by Bro. T. J. Elliott.

We had so many good things to speak of last week, we neglected to tell of the fine program put up by the Sunday School people; a regular service, rendered attractive by the addition of especial numbers, gave much pleasure to the large audience assembled.

December 10.

ETPA.

LETTER DEPARTMENT.

LOMBARD, Cecil Co., Md., Nov. 29.
 Editor Ensign:—This is Thanksgiving day, and I presume we have many things to be thankful for, but the human mind is such a peculiar thing that at the very time we ought to feel the most thankful, it seems hard to bring our minds in harmony with thankfulness. I am among strangers to the faith, and strangers to me. I am supposed to be genial and pleasant, and answer all questions asked me, and be entertaining and lively, take notice of all the children and do a thousand other things; yes, and all this I do, but my heart wanders and my head grows weary, and my tongue refuses to work with its accustomed smoothness, and I long for a congenial spirit to talk with or to. But with the light of another day perhaps these thoughts will give place to brighter ones, and we shall smile again.

I have been preaching at a place called Mt. Rooky for a week or more with rather poor success as far as numbers are concerned, but those who come seem to be quite interested, and we hope for an increase of numbers and interest. The revival fever is raging all around this section of the country, and we don't know how soon it may turn our way. Bro. Daniel Carter, of Baldwin, Maryland, who presides over the branch at the above place, has shown himself to be a true helper in the gospel work, and is energetic in obtaining places for the preaching of the word. His home has been the home of the writer the greater part of the time I have been in Maryland, and it certainly has been a home in every way that christian kindness could make it, as exhibited by Sr. Carter and her family. May the great God bless them and return to them four fold for all they have done for one of the least of His servants. The other Saints in this country are just as kind, and I have nothing but good words for them all. There is work enough in this section of the country to keep a man busy all of the time and I think much good can be done.

May the Lord help us all to do our duty with cheerfulness and pleasure and trust in God for the result.

Your brother,

Geo. W. Rowley.

FAIRLAND, I. T., Nov. 30.

Dear Ensign:—I am just as busy as I can be and so are all the brethren of the district. The work is prospering finely in the territory, as well as all over the district. All we need is more preachers; thirty odd have been baptized in this district in less than three months.

Sunday, 25th, a Campbellite preacher, by the name of Smith, lectured against us at Hudson school-house, in Cherokee nation. This Smith is the one Bro. E. Curtis debated with thirteen years ago, at Virgil City, Missouri. When he got through I offered to debate with him, but he would not; I asked him if I couldn't have time to answer his lecture, but he said, "No, sir," finally he told me to shut my mouth, and before I left the house he called me a liar.

I answered his lecture at three o'clock to a larger crowd than he had at 11. Three nights before I met him I had a dream, and I saw a Christian preacher in the dream; I saw he would not divide time, nor debate, or do anything that was fair.

Smith wanted me to do a miracle and he would believe. He wanted me to strike him blind. I told him he was so blind now he could not see the truth. I showed him who his father was according to John 8:38-44. The Spirit of the Lord was with us in answering at 3 o'clock p. m. Oh, the contrast from the morning service, several spoke of it; I am satisfied some sheep there is the reason Satan is raging. I shall hold a series of meetings there before I leave the territory.

Our Lamanite branch is getting along all right; Bro. Thurman, who I ordained a priest, has quit the use of tobacco and can preach his hour all right. He used five cents worth of tobacco a day, he quit one day and a half and then took a chew, and it made him very sick, he was administered to and instantly healed and the appetite for tobacco taken away. Another old brother, sixty years old, a whisky drinker and tobacco user all of his life, has quit tobacco, whisky, and coffee, and now drinks water and is rejoicing in the gospel. This brother, in the past, has spent enough for whisky to make him wealthy. The Spirit of the Lord is working with the people in the Territory. God bless those that are overcoming these weaknesses, and have mercy on them that won't try. One brother, of the Cherokees, that has been paying tithing, is being blessed financially to a marked degree.

Dear Saints, my health never was better, and the Spirit is with me in all of my work. I expect to stay in the territory four months or more. I realize the truthfulness of Joel 2:28. Many more good things to be told, but it would take too much space. I am proud of my co-laborers in this district. I start this afternoon for Chelsea.

Yours for truth,

F. C. Keck.

COVE, Arkansas, Dec. 7.

Dear Ensign:—As a branch we are getting along fairly well; Saints generally, so far as we know, are trying to live as becometh Saints. All meetings are quite well attended and the Sunday School is flourishing.

The Northeast Texas and Choctaw district conference closed on the 3d inst. A general good time was had by all, many Saints and friends coming long distances to see each other and enjoy the meetings, which were spiritual through all the sessions. Preaching services were very spiritual and enlightening to all present, Brn. G. H. Hilliard and H. O. Smith being the speakers. The duties and privileges of Saints were presented in such plain and forceful terms that no one had any ground to complain; but on the other hand to square our lives to the things required of us as Saints, live up to our privileges and thus be ready for blessings that are in readiness to be given.

Many of the brethren and sisters in this south land have habits which must be got rid of ere an inheritance can be obtained in Zion. Some of these habits are not what the law of the church may take cognizance of, but are individual and as such keep the individual in the background—making no advancement, and thus become a foolish virgin, having no oil in their vessel. And it seems to me that all the Saints who attended this last conference should awake to a re-doubling of diligence for no one was exempt from the admonition given by our worthy bishop while here. Surely it came as from the mouth of the Lord and we should give the more earnest heed. Our evil habits are the binding powers of Satan. The gospel law is revealed for our salvation. Let us be obedient to that law, for it brings the highest reward.

In the year past it was made known that if we lived righteously the gospel would go to the regions round about and many would be gathered into the church, which is beginning to come to pass. New places are being found where the word can be presented and so the interest is on the increase, and we shall keep moving along as we find opportunity to work. The brethren are all busy so far as we can learn.

But while we rejoice in the many good things given from our heavenly Father, we are made sad by the late accident at Graanis, south of us, the bursting of the boiler in Bro. Ellis Short's planing mill at that place, by which two of the brethren were killed, Bro. Batson and Harris. We believe Bro. Batson did not have a wife, but left several children; Bro. Harris, who was brother to Sr. Earl D. Bailey, leaves a wife and three small children, also his mother who attended our late conference. Such are our experiences in this life; thus are we forcibly reminded of death's entrance at our own home from which he took one at a time until seven—all we had—were removed from us and none were left to comfort us in the declining years of life. But we are reconciled, knowing that He who gave doeth all things in righteousness. But in the gospel is our hope.

Saints generally are well, but severe colds and la grippe are putting in an appearance in a few instances. We trust the Saints of old acquaintance, as well as others, will remember us in their devotions that we may grow up together in those graces that should be exercised by all those who love the Lord and keep his commandments.

In gospel bonds,

D. BABCOCK.

BOTTENEAU, N. D., Nov. 23.

Dear Ensign:—I obeyed the gospel a year ago last July; having heard it first preached by our worthy Bro. Swensen. I afterwards heard a series of sermons by Bro. Wm. Sparling whose convincing arguments, accompanied by the Spirit of truth, cracked my Baptist shell, and set me free from the traditions and doctrines of men.

Reading the church publications had a great influence also. In fact they monopolized my reading hours while I had anything new on the subject. Oh what a contrast to Babylon! what a field for study! what knowledge, wisdom and truth are available to those who obey, to say nothing of the hope of celestial glory.

I presume that I am passing through the usual experiences of a Latter Day Saint. I seem to have mountains of evil to overcome. How hard Satan has tried to overthrow me. I ask the prayers of the Saints that I may not fall by the way.

I am the only one of my kindred in this church. My parents live at Wolf Creek, Polk county, Wisconsin. I hope some elder will stray that way; it is about seventy miles from St. Paul.

I have a number of ENSIGNS and HERALDS for distribution if any one wishes them.

Brn. Thorburn and Houghton are laboring in the Turtle mountains north of Dunsell, about thirty miles from here. I believe they are having fair success. They are two earnest workers.

We meet here once a month during the summer, but in winter we do not have many, if any, meetings on account of long distances and cold weather.

Yours in the faith,

W. H. CALLIN.

ARTHRU, Ont., Dec. 5.

Editor Ensign:—The work is rolling on like the little stone spoken of by Daniel; four more have been baptized of late. Bro. Howiet has been with us, is now at Fergus opening up the work. Since he left, I had the pleasure of baptizing another fine young woman, and we feel as if the Lord made us a present of another precious soul for our labors. We are very happy and very busy. I may be imposing upon the rights of others in writing so often to the church papers. I have many a time resolved to write no more lest some one may think I am anxious to see my name in print, or that I crowd out others who would like to say a word; but there are two ways to look at it, and after studying the matter over carefully, I have decided that when my motive is to do good, lest I hide a talent, I shall seek for wisdom and write occasionally.

I am conscious that in large gatherings of Saints where there is prayer and testimony going on that Saints are sometimes deprived of their rights by reason of a few who love the work, and who, through lack of wisdom, occupy too much time in giving a sketch of their past life, and relating long and uninteresting experiences till others become tired, and it tends to create a feeling that they are selfish and exalted, and it spoils the meeting for all. Knowing this I wonder if the same mistake is made in writing long letters to the papers. I used to think if I did not bear testimony, sing and pray at every meeting that I was not doing my duty, but I do not see things that way now; the rights of others are to be considered both in prayer meetings and writing to the papers, and I may owe an apology to the editors for such. I have been very zealous ever since I joined the church, but many a time have acted unwisely. My zeal is as hot as ever, and all I hope is that it may increase, but I am learning that wisdom is by far the most precious gift, and if I ever get it I shall be satisfied. They used to tell me that experience will teach a fool. I generally have to learn by suffering and experience. How is it with you?

Yours ever,

Geo. Buschlen.

PERHAM, Minn., Nov. 28.

Editor Ensign:—I am struggling along trying to present the gospel in this part of the land. Although we meet with many things that are not pleasant, yet it is encouraging to find some who are not satisfied with the creeds of men but want something better.

I have just returned from Barnsville where I found the few Saints there strong in the faith, and doing all they can to win souls to Christ. Press on, brethren, the crown is at the end of the race. I preached nine times while I was gone. Some seemed anxious to hear while others are too prejudiced to investigate. With a few exceptions I find the Saints are up and doing, and the work is moving on; quite a large number have obeyed the gospel this summer in this part of Minnesota.

"Let us pray for one another,

For the day is fading fast."

Yours in the gospel bond,

E. D. OMANS.

WOODSTOCK, Can., Nov. 20.

Editor Ensign:—Having been a reader of your columns for about a year, and having derived much comfort and cheer from the many letters written by the scattered Saints, and as I have not church privileges I feel to sympathize with the many who have not. There are three families of Saints including ourselves, and we meet at our homes, turn about, and have prayer and testimony meeting every two weeks, and the Lord does bless us even though we are few. My greatest desire is to live faithful and humble before the Master that I may enjoy his blessings and be useful in helping to bring others to the light.

Bro. John Shields held a number of meetings at our place last winter, but prejudice was strong, and but few came to hear. The people seem to have all the religion they want. We were blessed while Bro. Shields was here, and believe he is a faithful worker for the Master. Our prayer is that the Lord will bless him in the work.

My wife and I were baptized the 10th of December, 1899, by Elder R. C. Evans, and confirmed by Elder R. C. Evans and Elder Frederick Gregory, since then my daughter has been baptized by Bro. Shields, and I have two younger boys growing up whom I pray the Lord will help me instruct, and set such an example to them in my home that they will grow up in the church to be useful to the Master. I feel that we Saints who have children under our care have a great responsibility resting upon us, and that our success depends upon the faithful examples and the love we practice. I feel that if our love is what it should be in our homes, it will also have its influence outside. Oh that our lives may be as Paul exhorts in Ephesians 3:17-19. That Christ may dwell in our hearts by faith; that we, being rooted and grounded in love, may be able to comprehend with all Saints what is the breadth, and length, and depth and height; and to know the love of Christ which passeth knowledge, that we might be filled with all the fullness of God.

Your brother in the faith,

WESLEY RAYELL.

IRONTON, O., Nov. 30.

Editor Ensign:—I thought I would drop you a few lines in regard to how a man in our village collected his tithing; it was by nickels, dimes, half dollars, dollars, etc., until he had the amount of $19.35 which he gave to the church for the purpose of helping the cause of the great Redeemer to progress. Now, if all the dear Saints would try to save their tithing money in this manner they would not miss it when the time came for them to give in their money.

The death of Sr. Webberley was a great shock to the Saints here at Lagrange; she was a kind woman to all and a devoted christian. There was a large assembly to see her remains laid to rest, and all mourned the loss.

Some of the Saints here seem to be on a stand still, but may the Lord press the truth on their minds so that they will press on that they may share with the righteous.

I like to read the ENSIGN and learn how the dear Saints overcome their trials that press them down. I used to persecute the Saints and call them names, etc., until the Lord showed me that they were in the right path. I was a vile sinner then, but I thank the Lord that I accepted the truth and joined in with the Saints, that I may receive the reward and be able to stand in that great day when His wrath shall be poured out upon the wicked ones. My wife, three boys and I belong to the church, and may all the children of God be saved in my earnest prayer.

JAMES SISLER.

LAKELAND, Cumberland Co., N.S.

November 11.

Dear Ensign:—I obeyed the gospel two years ago and have rejoiced in the work ever since. Elder Davison baptized me; he has never been this way since. I have been sick all summer with lung trouble, but did not forget the Lord. Elder Foss administered to me and I have been quite a lot better ever since. Dear Saints, pray for me that I may ever be a servant of the Lord. My grandmother is a Latter Day Saint. I am not ashamed to confess what the Lord has done for me. A year ago I had a pain in my side; the elders administered to me and I have not been bothered with it since.

There are not very many Saints here, and I hope the Saints who read this will pray for the Saints here that we may always remember the Lord and what He has done for us. He gave His only Son to die on the cross for our sins; He rose again and is pleading with the Father for us. My desire is to be more faithful that I may meet with all the Saints and enjoy the blessings of God.

We are looking for Elder Davison here this winter. All the Saints would like to see him. I believe he does lots of good wherever he goes. Desiring the prayers of all the Saints, I am,

Yours in the one faith,
Miss Lucy Henwood.

ZION'S ENSIGN.

Entered at the Post Office at Independence, Mo., as Second Class Matter.

NOTES AND COMMENTS.

ALICE R. CONSON.

The Rev. J. W. Daugherty, of the Apostolic church, here in Fulton, publishes a little paper, "The Everlasting Gospel." His last number contains an editorial which seems to show the workings of his mind in regard to the true church. I herewith send a copy of it, also of my reply, and if any of our brethren feel led of the Lord to write to him, they can address him at 700 Louisiana street, Fulton, Richmond, Virginia. His article is as follows:

"NO NEW CHURCH NEEDED.

"A certain preacher of the Quaker persuasion, by the name of Seth C. Rees, is contributing to the sorrows of a Methodist paper called the Pentecostal Herald, by going after the leading of a certain pious woman to gather the Holiness people into a church.

"The Methodist journal promptly shuts off its former stalwart friends at the instant that their movements threaten the interests of the Methodists. They seem to be for Holiness only so long as Holiness, or the 'Holiness movement,' as it is called, strengthens their side. It now refuses to permit any of these promoters of the new church idea any use of its columns, whereas they were, prior to the disclosure of this idea, highly valued contributors. What makes all this difference? Have Mr. Rees and the Holy women committed so great an evil? We have an idea that the genuine sheep is something more than fleecy wool. Some people not only go with their eyes shut, but allow them to be sealed with wax. Perhaps they will at least come to their senses sufficiently to find out a few things.

"We earnestly sympathize with Mr. Rees. He sees that unless something is done, and done quickly, that the 'Holiness movement' will die out and come to nothing. We scarcely think these friends are seeking honors for themselves, but they see what the most indifferent observation reveals—that the Holiness movement is rapidly subsiding, and they desire to harvest whatever they can, and attempt to continue the work from a safer standpoint. To this, the Pentecostal Herald raises vigorous opposition, and says: 'We don't want any new church. We don't need a new church.'

"We doubt very much whether Mr. Rees and his associates are seeking to establish a new church. We are rather inclined to think that, like ourselves, they are thoroughly disgusted with the new church, and have made a start in dead earnest to find the old church. We are all about ready to abandon the new church and go back to the old. We want the church of Jesus Christ eighteen hundred years old, and not one less than two centuries old. We will no longer be deceived by the religious jugglery which is being passed off for the workmanship of God. Away with the new church and all its sects and divisions. We want the undivided, indivisible body of our Lord and Savior Jesus Christ. We do not ask for a church with an unbroken history; what we want is the unbroken resemblance. We do not ask for apostolic succession, we want apostles. We do not want men to preach to us about the Holy Ghost, we want men to preach to us about Jesus, with the Holy Ghost. We don't want a people who have always immersed, we want a church every one of whom have been baptized by Jesus Christ himself. When we abandon the new church we will be making a big stride toward the old, with all its holy glory. Go on, Bro. Rees. God says, 'Come out of her, all my people, that ye be not partakers of her sins, and that ye receive not of her plagues.'

"Neither do we need the new church. It is a useless thing. It is a stumbling block to sinners, a contradiction of the Bible, an offense to God. It has no power, no wisdom. It is sinking by its own dead weight. Its own membership is unsaved. It is not needed. We need the old church that had that gospel that is the power of God unto salvation to every one that believeth.

"We need the old church, and we need it too much altogether to be trifling away our time, and wasting our energies on the new brood that swarms all over the land. Let us break ranks, and let there be a firm resolute stampede toward the old church. We are marching that way ourselves and we follow the Lamb whithersoever He goeth."

Now, I have "commented" on his letter as below, a copy of which I send him, and I hope if it is God's will some of our well informed and spiritual elders will write to him and endeavor to make it plain where the old church is at present. Although out of Babylon, yet they cannot see her while in the heart of the wilderness, even though they may be "hearing the voice that is bidding them come," but as yet the discords of Babylon are still in their ears, and sometimes seem to drown the one true voice. But they are listening for it, and if they are his sheep will certainly hear it. The following is my reply:

"REV. J. W. DAUGHERTY, Pastor of the Apostolic Church.

"Dear Bro.—I cannot keep still any longer. I feel, after reading your last paper, that I must write to you once more, even at the risk of so offending you that I make you an enemy, although I believe there is too much of the grace of God in your heart to hold enmity against any one. Your editorial sounds to me like the cry of a troubled soul seeking rest and finding it not. And shall I who have found it keep still? No, I cannot, and I feel that it is the 'must' of the Spirit that impels me to write. 'Thoroughly disgusted with the new church,' you say, 'and have made a start in dead earnest to find the old church. We want the church of Jesus Christ 1800 years old, and not one less than two centuries old.' That is true, but brother, where is it? Do you know where to look for it? Oh brother, will you hear and heed, even if it is one of the humblest of God's children that speaks? The church of Jesus Christ—what must its chief marks be? Every one of them are given in the New Testament. But the first characteristic I shall notice now is this: Christ Himself must set it up, or organize it as He did His first church. And you know, and none seem to see clearer, that the first or the original church apostatized so far as to be repudiated as a church.

"The Man-child that was born of the woman, or the priesthood authority that was in the early church, was taken from her, 'caught up to heaven.' Who gave that authority to the early church, and in what did it consist? Why, Christ gave the authority, of course, and it consisted in the right to administer in the ordinances of the church; to baptize, to administer the Lord's supper, to lay on hands for the gift of the Holy Ghost, and for healing, and for blessing little children. Now, if this authority, which is symbolized by the 'man-child,' was caught up to heaven, how can any society of persons, whether calling themselves a church or not, get it again? Who caught it up to heaven but the one who gave it, and would he not have to give it again to any people calling themselves a church before their administrations would be recognized as valid by Him? You see clearly that the authority of the apostate church is gone, that all her offspring are not the true children of the Highest; that she is indeed the "mother of harlots." So where will you look for the church of Jesus Christ unless in that church that at least claims to have this authority restored? Certainly not in any church that does not make this claim, and even denies the possibility of such a thing as God ever revealing Himself again to man.

"But, seeing that the true church has no existence, or rather believing it does not, and that all the orthodox churches are but the illegitimate children of a corrupt mother, how can any body of believers dare to take upon themselves the right to administer, without it is given them from on high? Suppose I and a dozen others were dissatisfied with the doctrines of the orthodox churches, and we see clearly that they have no authority to baptize, and we had a desire to be baptized; would we have a right to choose one of our number to baptize the rest, with no authority from God? 'No man taketh this honor unto himself but he that is called of God as was Aaron.' So also Christ glorified not himself to be made a high priest, but He that said unto Him, 'Thou art my Son. This day have I begotten thee,' He it was that called Christ and glorified Him, to make Him a priest forever, after the order of Melchisedec. And shall puny man glorify himself, or take this honor upon himself, to be called a priest, or to administer in the priestly office, without being called of God as was Aaron? Just turn to the account of Aaron's calling, and you will see it was by direct revelation from God, given to His servant Moses. What presumption then for a man to take it upon himself to baptize others, who had never been baptized himself, as one did of whom you told not long ago, and as one of whom I read, who baptized himself, seeing that there was no authority in the churches, and it seems not less presumptuous to go on and baptize, and administer the other ordinances with no other authority than that obtained by the baptisms and ordinations of a church that has no authority herself.

"But there is a church that claims this authority. In fact, there are two that make this claim; one truly and the other falsely. It is wisdom to prove all things, and hold fast that which is good, as well as obeying a plain injunction of our Lord, 'By their fruits ye shall know them.' The fruits of one are such as you might expect to find on the true vine, and we ask you and all others to test it by any rule you choose, it will stand every test. And this is the test we most earnestly ask you and all others to try, 'If any man will do his will, he shall know of the doctrine.' 'To the law and to the testimony; if they [our doctrine and teachings] speak not according to this word, it is because there is no light in them.' And the fruits this vine bears are the fruits of the Spirit. (Galatians 5: 22.) Love, joy, peace, long suffering, gentleness, faith, meekness, temperance; against such there is no law.

"Now as to the other church (so-called) which makes the same claim we do, as to having the authority, and having received it from God. 'By their fruits shall ye know them:' polygamy; Adam is our God; blood atonement, that is, they must shed the blood of the apostates, to atone for their sins, as the blood of Christ will not reach their case; Jesus Christ not begotten by the Holy Ghost; murder, treachery and deceit, are some of their most prominent fruits; and among those not so prominent in the eyes of the world are many others just opposite to the fruits of the Spirit: hatred, strife, heartaches, sorrows unspeakable, cruelties, injustices, and all the other evil fruits that come from walking after the flesh.

"In our little talk the other day, you said that if our church had no connection with the abomination of Utah, that it was a most unfortunate thing that they were so mixed in the eyes of the people. Yes, brother, looking at it from a human standpoint it does look so; but God's ways are not as our ways, and in no other way could His word be fulfilled. See 2d chapter of Peter, wherein the latter day apostasy is pictured, and which the Utah church fulfills to the letter. 'And because of these [the evil deeds here spoken of] the way of truth is evil spoken of.' Now does it not logically follow that whatever way is evil spoken of on their account, must be the way of truth? And I know of no other church that is evil spoken of on their account, except the Church of Jesus Christ, that has been obliged to add the distinguishing word, 'Reorganized,' to make the distinction apparent to seekers after the truth. None others care to know whether there is any difference or not.

"But why does not your church change its name," said a lady friend to me not long ago, 'I do not see anything wrong with your doctrines, and judging from all you tell me, and from the good letters you have read me, and the articles I have read in your papers, I think they must be a good people, but I should think you would change the name of your church, since the Utah people call themselves by the same name.' I replied, 'My friend, your name is Mrs. W.; now suppose another woman comes along and says she is Mrs. W., that she is the true wife of your husband, and that you are the usurper, would you give up to her, and change your name, thus admitting that she was right in her claim, and that you were not Mrs. W. at all?' 'No, I should not do that,' she replied. 'Well, that is our position exactly. We claim to be the true bride of Christ and the Utah church is the false woman making the same claim, and to change the name the bridegroom gave us, would be to admit that that corrupt woman was right in her claims.'

"Brother, remember what a counterfeiter Satan is. Remember how many instances of his counterfeiting are given in God's word, and given for our instruction too. Now, a counterfeiter must have all the outward marks of the true coin, or none would be deceived thereby. A brass coin with none of the marks of the coin of the realm would be detected immediately. So in this counterfeit church of Utah, its outward marks are the same: it has the same name, the same officers, and claims the same powers and gifts, and also claims to have been struck in the same mint, and to be of pure gold. But the tester proves it to be the grossest counterfeit, and the tester is the word of God; and we must hold it in the light of the Spirit to see all its falseness. 'To the law and to the testimony.' If they agree not with these they cannot be true.

"As to its being, unfortunate that we are confounded with them in the minds of the people, it is only another test to prove our love to Christ. It is no cross now to confess a faith in Christ. Christianity, so-called, is fashionable, popular, and in order to have an entrance into the 'highest circles' of society, it is necessary to have your name in some one of the many orthodox (?) churches. In all ages God's people have had to have some crucible in which to test the gold of their sincerity, and it requires no small amount of courage to espouse a cause that is 'everywhere spoken against,' even when we know the cause is a good one, therefore this latter day apostasy from the truth was a part of God's plan, as a test for His people. So many say 'I believe your doctrine, but I never could join them and be called a Mormon, even though I knew your church had no connection with their abominable doctrine and practice.'

"Blessed are ye when men shall revile you, and persecute you and shall say all manner of evil against you, falsely, for my sake, and again in Luke, 'Blessed are ye when men shall hate you and when they shall separate you from their company, and shall reproach you, and shall cast out your name as evil, for the Son of man's sake.' We know when we are accused of all these evils that it is falsely, and we rejoice and are exceeding glad, for it is for His sake, and because we stand firmly on His word, let the world call us what it may. But had not Brigham and his apostate associates 'wrought evil in Israel,' and brought these 'damnable heresies' 'privily,' inducing many to follow 'their pernicious ways,' by reason of whom the way of truth—not some other false way—but the way of truth, should be evil spoken of today; as rapidly as the church grew before the death of the prophet Joseph and its subsequent scattering, it would have been the most popular church in the world, for it would have been the largest. When the net catches too many fish it breaks, for it catches of all kinds.

"Polygamy is not the only difference between us and the Utah church, for there are many others of vital importance, and had I time today I would like to make them plain to you. But I am willing to answer any questions you or any others may wish to ask, relative to these differences, or to our faith and practices. That is all we ask, investigation, and we ask that, not for our sakes, but for yours, for well we know that the work is the Lord's, and the increase must come from Him, no matter who plants or who waters. But we are all commissioned to sow the seed of the kingdom beside all waters, and having done our part, to leave the rest to the great husbandman.

"We want," you say, 'the undivided, indivisible body of Christ.' When the church was restored in 1830, in fulfillment of scriptures (Rev. 14: 6-7, and others), though a number apostatized, and went after B. Young, and J. J. Strang, and others, yet the true church of Christ was not destroyed. They went out from us, because they were not of us, and the Reorganization is not the setting up of the church anew on another foundation, but is putting the same church in working order, on the same foundation, with the same officers, powers, gifts and blessings, and the foundation is Christ and His revealed truth. 'And the gates of hell shall not prevail against it,' the rock, or foundation. They have prevailed against the church, and drove the 'woman' of the 'rock' and into the 'wilderness,' but they have never prevailed against the Rock. 'Therefore whosoever heareth these sayings of mine and doeth them [not merely believeth them], I will liken him to a wise man who built his house upon the rock,' and he who hears His words and doeth them not, is likened to a foolish man who built his house on the sands. The first stood the storm and fell not, because founded on the rock. The second, even though it may have been built of as good material, after the same pattern, and with equally as good workmanship, fell, because founded on the sands. Truth is the rock, firm and unchangeable, and Christ is truth. Founded on this Rock, the gates of hell shall have no power to move our foundations? But the sands changing, shifting, and inconsistent, as all untruths are, no wonder the house on the sands falls. It is only the house on the rock stands secure.

"You say, 'We do not ask for apostolic succession, we want apostles.' You are right in wanting apostles, for they are needed in the church or God would never have set them there; 'And God set some in the church, first apostles, secondarily prophets,' etc., seems to imply that apostles were of first importance in the building of the church.

"A church without apostles, or prophets, is like a ship at ocean, that with the current drifts. Like buildings on the sand built, uncertain, insecure, which can but for a season, the beating storms endure, Or like a body human, with members all diseased. Deprived of fort and beauty its author had designed.

"Yes, we do want apostles, and God gives them as the people see their need and ask for them. 'Pray ye the Lord of the harvest to send laborers into his harvest' and He will hear and answer and call whosoever He will and ordain them and send them, for no man taketh this honor on himself in the true church of Christ, except he be called of God as was Aaron. For the wages Christ offers in this warfare are not to the liking of the natural man. 'Ye shall be hated of all men for my name's sake,' 'Ye shall have tribulation,' 'If they have hated me they will also hate you.' Yes, persecutions, revilings, imprisonments and even death is promised among the things that are awaiting the faithful apostle, and they meet with much of it too. These are a part of their salary. The other part is their food and raiment. That is also promised them. 'And any man that shall go forth and preach this gospel of the kingdom, and fail not to continue faithful in all things, shall not weary in mind, limb, or joint; and an hair of his head shall not fall to the ground unnoticed; and they shall not go hungry, neither athirst.' 'Whoso receiveth you receiveth me, and the same will feed you and clothe you and give you money.' 'Therefore as I said unto mine apostles, I say unto you again, that every soul who believeth on your words, and is baptized by water for the remission of sins, shall receive the Holy Ghost; and these signs shall follow them that believe. In my name shall they cast out devils; in my name shall they open the eyes of the blind, and unstop the ears of the deaf, and the tongue of the dumb shall speak, and if any man shall administer poison unto them it shall not hurt them, and the poison of a serpent shall not have power to hurt them. But a commandment I give unto them, that they shall not boast themselves of these things. Go ye into all the world, and whatsoever place ye cannot go into, ye shall send, that the testimony may go from you into the world, unto every creature.' The above extracts are from the Doctrine and Covenants, and are a part of the restored or renewed commission to the apostles of today, and were given by God through His prophet Joseph to His latter day apostles, and the promises therein contained have been and are being verified all the time. If a church can exist without apostles it cannot be the church of Jesus Christ.

"Brother, when you abandon the new church, God grant that it may be to stride clear over all man made doctrines, all pre-conceived ideas of what the church should be; all prejudices and all thought of what man may say, right into the true church of God that is here today, the 'little stone cut out of the mountain without hands,' that is destined to roll on and fill the whole earth.

"You say the 'new church is a useless thing, a stumbling block to sinners, a contradiction of the Bible and an offense to God.' A sad arraignment, but they were your words, and they are true of any church or 'house of refuge' not founded on the rock—revealed truth.

"We need the old church that had that gospel that is the power of God unto salvation to every one that believeth.' You can find it. Can you not yet see the kingdom? that is, discern it among so many pretenders? There are many Lo heres and Lo theres, but we are told to seek for the kingdom of God. 'We need the old church,' you say, 'and we need it too much to be wasting our time and our energies on the new brood that swarms all over the land.' Yes, brother, and the old church needs you; I can see the place for you so clearly, and the power you would be for Christ and his kingdom if on the right side. You say, 'Let us break ranks and let there be a firm, resolute stampede toward the old church.' Alas, that it should be necessary to break ranks. Would that you might lead with unbroken ranks all your following right on and into the visible kingdom of God's dear Son. You say, 'We are following that way ourselves' and we follow the Lamb whithersoever He goeth.' Well, if that is so, you will not long be left out. But so many think that and are deceived. The apostle tells us to examine ourselves whether we be in the faith.

"Brother, 'Be ye reconciled to God' means much more than just repenting of our sins and being forgiven; if such a thing is possible before we have complied with the demands of the gospel. 'Be ye reconciled' to God's plan, to His way, that He has marked out. 'For my thoughts are not your thoughts, neither are your ways my ways, saith the Lord.'

"Just as long as I can believe a person can be saved in any other church I would never join yours,' said a lady to me, 'even if I knew it was the true church, for I would not want to bring persecution on myself, and God is merciful, and I am willing to risk it.' Not reconciled to God's way and not desiring to be, but rather wanting God to be reconciled to her way of thinking. The hymn says, 'My God is reconciled,' which is wrong; rather let us sing, 'To God I am reconciled.'

While passing through the Valley of Decision the same lady said to me, 'I would give up reading their books and papers if they unsettled my mind so, and made me feel so wretched; read something else and you will soon get over it.' I replied that would do me no good, as I could not take up my Bible without finding the very same things taught there, and I could see it clearer and clearer all the time. 'Then,' she replied, 'I would give up reading the Bible—for a while at least.' Strange advice to give a soul hungering and thirsting for truth and righteousness as I was, and she a church member, Presbyterian. Thank God I did not listen, but heeded the advice of the word itself, 'To the law and to the testimony, if they speak not according to this word, it is because there is no light in them.' Also Paul's admonition to 'despise not prophesyings; prove all things, hold fast that which is good.' Which by the grace of God I shall endeavor to do. And may God grant His grace to you and your flock to do the same. 'And may the very God of peace sanctify you, and all who believe, wholly, and I pray God your whole spirit and soul and body, may be preserved blameless unto the coming of our Lord Jesus Christ. Faithful is He that calleth you, who also will do it.' The sooner we submit our puny wills to God and are reconciled to His way, the easier will be the struggle. If I have wearied you, forgive me; if I have offended you I cannot help you; I wrote as prompted by the Spirit, and hope it will not be altogether vain. If you wish any information regarding our church, its faith, doctrines and practices now and in the past, let me know and you shall be supplied with all necessary means to gain the information that man can give; and besides the promise in James 1: 5 is still good, has never annulled, though Satan has tried to annul it; yet like all the rest of the 'everlasting gospel' is just as good now as when first given. 'Heaven and earth shall pass away, but my words shall not pass away.'

"Yours in gospel love,
"ALICE R. CORSON,"
3829 4th St., Fulton, Richmond, Va.
TEHUANTEPEC ISTHMUS.

It is always interesting to watch the growth and development of a new country. Not that all of Mexico is new; portions of it are older than the United States, but when the voyager leans over the rail as the vessel steams into the mouth of the river Coatzacoalcos, the scenes presented to him are so different from the sights of Northern and Central Mexico that he can hardly believe that he is in the land of the Aztecs. He is in the middle of a broad river that stretches back into the low coast country of the isthmus as far as he can see; away off on either shore is a fringe of tropical woods, and over on the left bank, at the mouth of the river, is the town of Coatzacoalcos. There is a long row of frame houses fronting the river. 'This is the water front and behind it the town crawls up the hill and over the headland, down to the ocean beach. Near to the wharf is the terminal station of the Tehuantepec National railway, and if it is early morning a train of bright yellow coaches stands there. In less than ten hours that train will have journeyed from the gulf of Mexico to the Pacific ocean, across the isthmus.

Now, let us take a bird's eye view of the isthmus. It is a strip of land that connects the North American continent with Central America. It is about 125 miles wide at its narrowest portion, and its altitude on the central divide varies from 800 to 2,000 feet. On this strip of land the great mountain ranges of Central Mexico are depressed. South of the isthmus they rise again and become the great cordilleras of Central America. The distance between the towering buttresses that form the ends of the Sierra Madre range and the point where the Cerro Atravesado marks the beginning of the Central American range is about eighty miles, and this depression, extending down the slopes on either side on the gulf and to the Pacific, is what is known as the Isthmus of Tehuantepec. About three-quarters of the way over from the Gulf to the Pacific is the summit of the isthmus, the low range of mountains that divides the waters that flow into the Gulf from the Pacific streams. Draw a line along this summit and you have the three zones of the isthmus. At the line is the mountain district. It rains there, but the soil is thin and poor; it is good only for cattle. On the Pacific side there are round, bare mountains that drop, in places sheer and straight, to the level of sandy plains that stretch off the Pacific coast. It is dry there and the country is available for agriculture only along the scanty water courses. Then you look towards the Gulf. There you see a broad expanse of country that stretches from the top of the mountain range clear down to the Gulf of Mexico, some ninety miles away, as fertile a country as there is in the world. There it rains abundantly, more than 100 inches per annum; but the topography of the country is such that the water does not stand upon it. There is a succession of hills that roll down from the summit of the central range, gradually growing lower and lower as they approach the ocean until they are lost in the Gulf plains of the coast. This is the Gulf watershed of the isthmus. Coatzacoalcos is its seaport, and the isthmus railway passes through it. Toward this section is where Americans are directing their capital, brains and energy.

The Coatzacoalcos is the main waterway. It is a noble river, navigable for seagoing vessels for some twenty-five miles up from its mouth; then it divides into many smaller rivers, for there the foothills begin, and farther up these tributaries are subdivided into smaller streams, and these, in turn, into rivulets and brooks, clear, swift flowing and pure. There are not less than a dozen rivers that feed this great river, Coatzacoalcos, and the rivulets and brooks are innumerable. The whole Gulf watershed is a network of streams. On either side of them lie strips of bottom land, and beyond are the hills that rise, one behind another, to the summit of the minor watershed, where they drop into the next valley. The whole country seems to be fit for cultivation. It has a deep rich soil even upon the tops of the hills, and it is covered by one solid stretch of dense, tropical forests of cedar, mahogany, lignum vitae and many other valuable woods, interlaced with tropical vines and creepers, and filled with great, broad-leaved herbaceous plants of many kinds.

At Coatzacoalcos you meet a goodly number of Americans, for it is their supply point for imported articles, brought direct from New York, Liverpool and other cities to this port, and it can be truly said that, from this point of view, Coatzacoalcos, while it seems a long way off to the South, is nearer to the ports of the United States and Europe than is the City of Mexico. But, to see this transplanted type of American at his best, you must go a little way inland to his plantation. Five years ago the railway was completed. Then there were 8,000 acres of land owned by Americans on the isthmus. Now there are over 700,000. The town of Coatzacoalcos reflects somewhat the growth of the isthmus. Formerly it consisted of a lighthouse and a few huts; in 1894 it had 1,000 inhabitants; in 1896 there were 2,000, and now there are more than 4,000 inhabitants. But in ways true in a country that owes its growth to the development of its agricultural resources, the town follows but tardily the surrounding country, and to really learn what is being done on the isthmus one must go to the plantations. At one time it was easy to keep track of them, but now no one can tell at just what bend of a river or railroad station he may find a new one growing up.

Shortly after leaving the dinner station the train begins to climb up out of the great valley of the Coatzacoalcos by winding up the canyon of the Malatengo river. Here the scene changes. All the forenoon it has been running through tropical forests, great trees and tangled vines upon either side, and where the frack passed through cuts in the hills there was seen nothing but soil, deep vegetable loam; now it has passed into a rocky canyon, a great wall of granite rises upon one side and upon the other; far below is a rushing, foaming torrent, the Malatengo river. The train follows this canyon for a short distance, then rocky walls rise on both sides of the track, and in a few moments it emerges upon the table lands of the central divide. For something over an hour the traveler is in a range pasture country, grassy plains with a few stunted trees and up on either side, away off, are the mountains, the ends of the ranges that are here depressed to form the isthmus. If he should leave the railway and ride across country here, he would have one of the most interesting journeys of his life. He would see where two distinct zones of the isthmus come together. The line between the tropical forest and the pine woods is as distinctly marked as though drawn with a chalk line, and he could stand upon the summit of one of these hills in the open pine country, with its long waving grass and piney odor, and throw a stone down into dense forests of mahogany, rubber, cacao, and other native products of the tropics. Away off to the Gulf this forest extends; a region where a few years ago all was wild and uncultivated, but where now are found the homes of Americans who have become transported into the tropics.

The train is but a short time upon the central divide, then it drops over on the other side, and as the Pacific slope is short, it is soon in the town of Tehuantepec. What visions are called up by the thoughts of that ruined old city!

It is in the middle of a country that is dry and parched, but along the margins of the Tehuantepec river the land can be irrigated, and there it is a picture of fertility and plenty. Fields of sugar cane spread out on either side, groves of stately coconut palms rustle their long, crisp, green plumes above them, and native huts, with half naked children about them are hidden in the shade of mango, orange and lime trees. As the traveler leaves the railway station and goes into the town, he will at once remark the changed surroundings that a few hours of travel have brought him.

In crossing the Isthmus he has journeyed from a nineteenth century town to a district inhabited by a native race of people that today are the same as they were hundreds of years ago. They are a separate branch of the Zapoteca tribe, with a history all their own, and much could be written of their customs, traditions and festivals. Modern ideas have not awakened this section because there is little to encourage a progressive man to invest his money and employ his energy. The irrigable strip along the river is narrow, hardly worth considering, but to the native Zapotecan it is all sufficient. Here they have their gardens, coconut groves and fields. Those who are so fortunate as to have inherited a bit of ground with a water right live in the midst of plenty; the others go to seek work elsewhere. Thus it happens that Tehuantepec is a town of women. Here they seem to take the initiative in everything. In the market place their authority is supreme, and they will not permit the men to sell there. They are really a fine race of women, tall, straight, lithe amazons, of queenly carriage and pure brown complexions. Every forenoon the great, square, open-sided market house is literally packed with them. Some bring native chocolate, some brown sugar, others flowers and vegetables, here to be exchanged for ornaments and cotton cloths, the product of the native looms. This is the mart where all the petty native commerce centers, and here the women sit or stand in statuesque poses, trading, laughing or joking, truly a novel scene, animated by the badinage of these picturesque creatures with the forms of women and the minds and hearts of children.

Their costume is a curious mixture of the elegant and gaudy, the primitive and the opulent, all combined in the dress of the same person; elegant because of the rare grace of wearers of those clinging robes that serve as garments; gaudy because of the gay colors that they love; primitive and opulent, for these women, shod only with plain leather sandals bound to their brown, shapely feet with leathern thongs, wear strings of gold and jeweled ornaments about their necks. They have a great fondness for gold coins as ornaments.

American coins have the preference, probably because the stamp is clearer; and long neck chains made up of $5 gold pieces with double eagles for pendants are often seen. Their most characteristic article of adornment is the "huipil." It is a huge head-dress made of a lot of stiffly starched native lace, which may be worn in many different ways, indicative of the occupation or intentions of the wearer. At the market it is worn in one manner—a careless, thrown-together grace it has then. At home it is worn another way, and for religious festivals it is drawn with great primness over the head and down the back, a wide lace ruffle surrounding the face, thus giving the wearer an exceedingly demure and sanctimonious expression.

There are comparatively few men in Tehuantepec, as is indeed the case in many of the Pacific coast towns of the isthmus, for they are away most of the time at work on the plantations on the other side of the range, where the climate is favorable to agriculture. Formerly Chiapas was the place where they all went, and they often traveled a week to reach the scene of their labors, there to remain six months or a year, at the end of which time they would return to spend a month under the blue skies of their native homes; but now, since so many American plantations are being opened up on the Gulf side of the isthmus, they are finding out that they can get work much nearer to their homes, and the result is that they are being drawn away from the plantations of Chiapas.

The town of Tehuantepec fills the whole valley of the river, and contains, together with its surrounding "barrios," some 12,000 inhabitants. On the south it climbs a rocky hill several hundred feet above the river, and from the dooryards of the houses perched upon the rocks of the summit a fine view may be obtained. Bare, round mountains are in the distance, the bluish tints of their craggy sides shade gradually down into the brown of the desert plains and through the desert runs a narrow strip of green, the valley of the Tehuantepec river. Centuries ago a wandering tribe of Zapotecas found this stream, built their town upon its borders and reclaimed a narrow strip of its valley that reaches down to the Pacific coast, some ten miles away.

Standing here on the Pacific slope you can look northward to the blue range that marks the boundaries of another country, a country of today. Just over beyond that range is the Gulf slope, where is seen at its best the working of the movement that is creating a modern Mexico, while here on the Pacific side is a remnant of a race older than our historians can tell us. And all this is seen in one day's ride across the Isthmus of Tehuantepec.—Modern Mexico.

Murder of Innocents.

Bethlehem was little among the thousands of Judah, writes Mrs. Lew Wallace in the Ladies Home Journal. We are told that probably not over thirty children fell under the order of Herod. The murder of the innocents of the nineteenth century is a march to untimely graves, not by order of a wrathful king, but under what is claimed to be the finest free school system in the world. Go to any public school and you will see girls as pallid as day lilies, and boys with flat chests and the waxen skin that has been named the school complexion. Every incentive and stimulus is held out: Dread of blame, love of praise, prizes, medals, badges, the coveted flourish in the newspapers—the strain never slackens. Watch the long lines filing past, each pupil carrying books—three, four, five—to be studied at night in hot rooms by fierce, sight-destroying lights. Time was when spectacles went with age. They are no sign of age now. Many wear glasses to help eyes worn prematurely old by night work. Said a thoughtful father: "My children have no child life. They are straining up a grade, talking about examinations. When is their playtime if not now, and what has become of the light-hearted boys? School is never out. Even in the fields the butterfly and the tree toad are turned into object lessons, and the grasshopper is torn to pieces in order to be instructive. When I was a boy and school let out we were gay and free. We studied in school time, and in playtime there was no thought of anything

"INCURABLE" HEART DISEASE SOON CURED.

FRANKLIN MILES, M. D., LL. B., WILL SEND $2.50 WORTH OF HIS SPECIALLY PRESCRIBED TREATMENT FREE TO AFFLICTED READERS.

To demonstrate the unusual curative powers of his new Individual Treatment for diseases of the heart, the nerves, stomach, or dropsy, Dr. Miles will send, free, to any afflicted person, $2.50 worth of his new treatment.

It is the result of twenty-four years of careful study, extensive research, and remarkable experience in treating thousands of heart, stomach and nervous diseases, which so often complicate each case. So certain are the results of his New Individual Treatment that he does not hesitate to give all patients a trial free.

Few physicians have such confidence in their skill. Few physicians so thoroughly deserve the confidence of their patients, as no false inducements are ever held out. The Doctor's private practice is so extensive as to require the aid of twenty assistants. His offices are always open to visitors.

Col. N. G. Parker, Ex-Treasurer of South Carolina, says: "I believe Dr. Miles to be an attentive and skillful physician, in a field which requires the best qualities of head and heart." The late Prof. J. S. Jewell, M. D., editor of the Journal of Nervous and Mental Diseases, of Chicago, wrote, "by all means publish your surprising results."

Hundreds of "Incurable Cases" cured. Mrs. Frank Smith, of Chicago, was cured of heart dropsy after five leading physicians had given her up. Hon. C. M. Buck, banker, Fairbault, Minnesota, writes: "I had broken completely down. My head, heart, stomach and nerves had troubled me constantly for five years. I had never recovered, but Dr. Miles' Individual Treatment cured me after six well known physicians of Chicago and elsewhere had completely failed." Mrs. P. Countryman, of Pontiac, Illinois, says: "Several years ago when I sent to Dr. Miles for Individual Treatment, three physicians said I could not live two weeks. I could not walk six feet then; now I can do all my work." A thousand references to, and testimonials from Bishops, Clergymen, Bankers, Farmers, and their wives will be sent free on request. These include many who have been cured after from five to fifteen physicians had pronounced them incurable. Address Dr. Franklin Miles, 201 to 209 State street, Chicago, for free treatment.

SPECIAL BARGAINS

Table with 2 columns: Item Name and Price. Includes Combination No. 1 ($1.00) and Combination No. 2 ($1.00) with various religious and educational books.

but play." I do not undervalue education, it is greatly to be desired, but over education is slaying its thousands. The burden is books. The tasks imposed on the young are fearful. The effort seems to be to make textbooks as difficult and complicated as possible, instead of smoothing the hill so high and hard to climb.—Exchange.

A Girl's Best Counselor is Her Father.

"Trust your father's judgment of your men friends rather than your own at first," writes Helen Watson Moody to girls, in the December Ladies' Home Journal. "The gay, witty, responsive young man who will probably most attract you, will not be the one who will be likely to have his serious consideration and respect. Talk over your men friends with your father, and see what healthy, unemotional, sane 'man-standards' he will set up for you. I really think if a girl could have but one counselor in her love affairs, it would better be her father than any one else. A man's mind is a great tonic to the somewhat diluted intellect of a girl in her first sentimental experiences."

UNTIL January 1, 1901, we will send one copy each of "Palmyra to Independence" (price $1.00), "Autobiography of Elder Joseph Luff" (price 75c), and "The Book of Mormon Vindicated" (price 60c), for $2.00. These books are all neatly bound in cloth, and any one of them would make a very nice Christmas present. Send your order AT ONCE in order to receive them in time. Address Ensign Publishing House, Independence, Mo.

Some Good Reading.

- "The More Excellent Way," by Elder T. C. Kelley, 10 cents each.
"Three Bibles Compared," by Elder R. Etzenhouser, 25 cents each.
"Book of Mormon Vindicated," by Elder I. M. Smith, 30 cents each.
Splendid Sermon Tracts, your own selection from our published list, 25 cents per doz.
"Faulty Creeds," by Elder R. C. Evans, 20 cents each.
"Apostasy of the Church," by Elder J. W. Wright, 10 cents.
There are a number of others, see price list in another column, or send for catalogue—free. We shall be glad to receive your orders. Don't delay them.

ENSIGN PUBLISHING HOUSE, Independence, Mo.

ANYONE in a position to use church literature to good advantage apply to M. H. Clark, Box 4, Station A, Kansas City, Missouri. We have a large supply on hand and at our disposal, and trust you will make your wants known.

WE are receiving orders for Bro. A. Haws' little book, "Sabatarian Theories a Delusion," a review of the arguments of the Seventh Day advocates. It is a useful little work, and we have heard only words of commendation for it. We can fill all orders, 15 cents each.

NOTICE.

To all who expect to buy or move to Independence with a view of residing here permanently—I am prepared to furnish you with all the information needed in regard to real estate, if you will enclose stamp for reply. Now is a very good time to buy values are at a very low ebb, and the Saints may as well take advantage of it.

Your brother, W. S. LOAR.

THIS WILL INTEREST MANY

To quickly introduce B. B. B. (Botanic Blood Balm), the famous blood purifier, into new homes, we will actually send free 1,000 treatments to readers of ZION'S ENSIGN who have not already tried B. B. B. B. B. B. quickly cures old ulcers, scrofula, painful swellings, aches and pains in bones or joints, rheumatism, catarrh, pimples, festering eruptions, boils, eczema, itching skin or blood humors, eating bleeding festering sores and even deadly cancer. B. B. B. sold at drug stores for $1.00, including directions for home cure. For free treatment address Blood Balm Co., 96 Mitchell street, Atlanta, Georgia. Describe trouble and free medical advice given until cured. Medicine sent at once, prepaid. B. B. B. cures the worst and most deep-seated cases, after all else fails. B. B. B. heals every sore and stops all aches and pains and makes blood pure and rich.

Eyes Tested Free! FUCHS The Scientific Jewelers & Opticians.

Diamonds, Watches, Clocks, Silverware and Fancy Goods. Sewing Machines and all supplies. Fine Watch and Jewelry Repairing a Specialty. CHRYSLER MOVEMENTS. South Side Square, Independence, Mo.

$495.

Will buy 44 acres with four room cottage, barn, well, etc., in west Lamoni. Only a small payment required to secure this home, and it is a bargain for some one. Apply to Look Box 7, Lamoni, Iowa.

GRAGELAND COLLEGE, LAMONI, IOWA.

Send for Catalogue, to I. W. ALLENDER, Secretary, Lamoni, Iowa.

EUGENE FIELD'S POEMS A $7.00 BOOK. Given Free to each person interested in subscribing to the Eugene Field Monument Souvenir Fund. Includes a certificate of subscription to fund.

Eugene Field Monument Souvenir Fund, 108 Monroe St., CHICAGO. (Also at Book Stores.) If you also wish to send postage, enclose 10c. Mention the ENSIGN, as Adv. It inserted as our Contribution.

Books and Pamphlets

PRICE LIST

- "FROM PALMYRA TO INDEPENDENCE," by Elder R. Etzenhouser, 444 pages; cloth binding, $1.00; paper binding, 80c.
"AUTOBIOGRAPHY OF ELDER JOSEPH LUFF," 377 pages; cloth bound; 3 illustrations, Reduced from $1.00 to .75.
"THREE BIBLES COMPARED," by Elder R. Etzenhouser; paper binding, 5 for $1.00; each, 25c.
"THE BOOK OF MORMON VINDICATED," by Elder I. M. Smith; 112 pages; Paper cover, 4 for 1.00; each, 30c.
"SPIRITUAL GIFTS AND THE SPIRIT OF PALMYRA," by Elder H. Bond, of the Seventy; 58 pages, paper bound, with fine engraving of the author. . . . 25c.
"FAULTY CREEDS," by Elder R. C. Evans; 6 for $1.00; each . . . 20c.
"THE BOOKS AND VETAN MORMON-FAITH CONTRACT," by Elder R. Etzenhouser; paper cover; 20 for $1.00, 3 for 25c; each . . . 10c.
"THE CREEDS LAID BARE," by Elder R. Etzenhouser; paper cover; 3 for 25c; each . . . 10c.
"THE RESURRECTION OF THE WICKED," by Elder W. J. Smith; 39 pages, paper cover, 3 for 25c; each . . . 10c.
"WHO WAS JOSEPH SMITH?—WAS HE A FALSE PROPHET?" by Elder J. W. Peterson of the Quorum of Seventy; 39 pages; paper cover; engraving of author; 3 for 25c; each . . . 10c.
"THE BOOK OF MORMON AND ITS TRANSLATOR," by Elder R. Etzenhouser; 27 pages, paper cover; 3 for 25c; each . . . 10c.
"THE LEGAL SUCCESSION," by Apostle J. W. Wright; 90c per doz.; 3 for 25c; each . . . 10c.
"APOSTASY OF THE CHURCH," by Apostle J. W. Wright; 40 pages, paper cover; 3 for 25c; each . . . 10c.
"THE MORE EXCELLENT WAY," by Elder T. C. Kelley; 68 pages; paper cover; each . . . 10c.
"THE JOSEPH SMITH INTERVIEW," by Elder Joseph Luff; answer to Elder R. J. Parker; by E. L. Kelley; per hundred 90c; per doz. 15c; 6 for 10c; 2 for 5c.
"IS WATER BAPTISM ESSENTIAL TO SALVATION," by Elder Joseph Luff. 90c per 100; 15c per doz; 3 for . . . 5c.
"WHAT WE BELIEVE," The Epitome of Faith, with quotations given in full. 20c per doz.; 2 for . . . 5c.
"EVANGELIA LOST," a duet for soprano and tenor; words by J. Cole Moxon; music by W. H. Lieb. . . . 25c.

SERMON PAMPHLETS. The following pamphlets 5 cents each, 3 for 10 cents, 6 for 15 cents, or 25 cents per dozen: Signs of the Times; Revised and Enlarged, by Elder J. S. Roth; 70 pages; Illustrated. "The Book of Mormon; Evidences of its Divinity," by Elder R. C. Evans; 58 pages. "The Law of Life," by Elder F. M. Cooper; 38 pages. "The Restoration of Israel," by Elder S. W. L. Scott; 46 pages. "A Retrospective View of the Reorganization," by E. C. Briggs; 36 pages. "Gospel Message," by President Joseph Smith; 64 pages. "Modern Knowledge of the Antiquities of America," by Elder H. A. Stebbins; 34 pages. "Creed Making; Man Shall Not Add To Nor Take From the Word of God," by Elder I. M. Smith; 30 pages. "Antiquarian Evidences Concerning the Book of Mormon," by Elder E. L. Kelley; 40 pages. "Joseph Smith; Was He a Prophet of God?" by Elder R. C. Evans; 40 pages. "Sign Seekers," by Elder I. M. Smith; 32 pages. "Gospel Antiquity," by Elder Joseph Luff; 39 pages. "God is Light," by Elder W. H. Kelley; 46 pages. "Why I Left the Baptist Church," by Elder W. L. Keith; 33 pages. "The Marriage Relation," by Elder J. W. Wright; 41 pages. "The Personality of God and Doctrine of Christ," by Elder J. S. Roth; 38 pages. "Save Yourselves," by Elder I. M. Smith; 34 pages.

We also fill orders for all Herald office publications. Address all orders and make all remittances to ENSIGN PUBLISHING HOUSE, Box B, Independence, Mo.

Missouri Pacific Railroad. Quick time, good connections, low rates to all points. Rates, time cards, etc. cheerfully furnished on application. F. A. MILLARD, Agent. Telephone 17.

STATE SAVINGS BANK OF LAMONI.

Incorporated under the laws of the State of Iowa, July 1, 1898. Offers depositors a safe bank for their savings, and solicits the correspondence and deposits of all depositors, and will pay four per cent interest per annum on your deposits. Send money by Bank Draft, or Express, or Post Office order, or Registered Letter, or your private check, on any bank in the United States or Canada, and direct your letter to W. A. Hopkins, Cashier of the State Savings Bank of Lamoni, at Lamoni, Iowa. Upon receipt of money a certificate of deposit will be issued and sent on return mail to the sender. This bank has facilities for handling a very large business by keeping surplus funds invested in safe and available securities and has already received deposits from sixteen different states. All letters containing inquiries or business will be promptly answered. List of Stockholders:—Wm. Anderson, Geo. H. Hilliard, Mrs. David Dancer, Miss Alice Dancer, Mrs. Ella D. Whitehead, Mrs. Lucy L. Resseguie, A. K. Anderson, W. A. Hopkins, Oscar Anderson, Frank Griley and Geo. W. Blair.

A Singer Sewing Machine

THE BEST INVESTMENT ON EARTH, earning more in proportion to cost than any other purchase possible. THREE DIFFERENT KINDS, either lockstitch or chainstitch. BUILT LIKE A WATCH, at the largest and best equipped factory in the world, every machine carefully tested on practical stitching. Sold only by THE SINGER MANUFACTURING COMPANY

DR. JOS. MATHER, PHYSICIAN.

Office at Residence, 301 S. Spring St., INDEPENDENCE, MO. CALLS ANSWERED NIGHT OR DAY. Phone 190-3.

DR. JOS. MATHER, PHYSICIAN.

Office at Residence, 301 S. Spring St., INDEPENDENCE, MO. CALLS ANSWERED NIGHT OR DAY. Phone 190-3.

THEY ADMIT IT.

Bro. Hull, Chauncey, Ohio, says we saved him $12.00 on a $13.40 suit. Bro. Farrell, West Sullivan, Maine, writes that we saved him $5.00 on a $7.00 suit. Youth's heavy three-piece suit, age 12 to 19, $9.50. Goods are all sent prepaid. MEN'S SACK SUITS. Black, all wool worsted Men's Suits, four button, round or square cut. 14 ounce $7.00; 16 ounce $7.25; 18 ounce $8.25; 20 ounce $8.75. Extra fine, strictly all wool Oxford steel gray, heavy; worth $18.00, price $9.00. PRINCE ALBERT SUITS. Same goods as sacks, 14 oz. $9.50; 16 oz. $10.00; 18 oz. $11.00; 20 oz. $11.50. 14 oz. French Twill Sacks, worth $18.00, price $9.00. Prince Alberts, worth $25.00, $13.50. MEASUREMENTS.—Give size of bust around chest just under arms with coat off, size of waist, length of in seam of pant leg, your height and weight. Make all drafts, express and money orders payable to Seymour, Mo. Send all communications, letters, orders and registered letters to Cumorah, Mo. THE E. T. ATWELL CO. Cumorah, Mo.

QUIT-TO-BAC

CURES THE TOBACCO HABIT. 3 BOXES, POSTPAID, $1.50 (U.S. Stamps or Money Order.) With Positive Guarantee of Cure, or Money cheerfully refunded. You Run No Risk; why not try it and be a free man? Address, (Bro.) B. F. ORDWAY, Peoria, Ill.

OLDEST. LARGEST. BEST. 35TH YEAR. SPALDING'S COMMERCIAL COLLEGE. (INCORPORATED) East Wing, N. Y. Life Bldg., Kansas City, Mo. Bookkeeping, Shorthand, Typewriting, Telegraphy, English Branches. Twenty Rooms. Sixteen Teachers and Lecturers. No Vacations. Practical Courses. Thorough Instruction. Rates Moderate. Free Catalogue. FREE EMPLOYMENT BUREAU. Tel. 1174. J. F. Spalding, A. M., Pres.

CANCER CURED

WITH SOOTHING, BALMY OILS. Cancer, Tumor, Catarrh, Piles, Fistula, Ulcers, Eczema and All Skin and Womb Diseases. Dr. By's Cancer Cure. Write for Illustrated Book. Cor. 9th and Broadway, KANSAS CITY, MO.

$5.00 BOX RAIN COAT

This Regular $5.00 Waterproof MACKINTOSH for $2.75. Send no money. Cut this out and send to us. Bate your height, weight, state number of inches around your chest over vest, under coat, close up under arms, and will send you this coat by express C. O. D., subject to examination. Examined at your express office and if exactly as advertised, we will refund your money. Bargain you ever saw or heard of, and we will stand by it. Cut on the market, say the agent of the best manufacturer's price $2.75 and extra 25c. THIS MACKINTOSH is the latest design, made from the finest waterproof, tan color, genuine horse hair cloth, lined with the finest quality broad cloth, lined with the finest quality broad cloth, lined with the finest quality broad cloth, lined with the finest quality broad cloth. Write for free samples of Men's Mackintoshes, from $12.00 up, and guaranteed bicycle tires, from $35 up. We can save you money. Address H. S. DILLER & CO., 305 Dearborn St., Chicago.

R. R. TIME TABLES.

Table with columns for Missouri Pacific - Main Line Depot, TRAINS WEST, TRAINS EAST, and various train numbers and destinations.

CHICAGO & ALTON.

Table with columns for EAST BOUND, WEST BOUND, and various train numbers and destinations.

Daughters of Zion.

"OUR AIM, MANKIND TO BLESS."

MRS. H. B. CURTIS, Editor.

The Daughters of Zion is an organization in the church, of mothers and others who are interested in the welfare of our homes. Under the supervision of the general society, local societies are established, where they may meet to consider together their work as home keepers, and as moulders of character. Their purpose is to increase love for the home, to promote social purity, to study the problem of child care and development; that thus they may better prepare themselves for their responsibility as mothers and mothers, and that from the home may go the influence that shall fulfill their aim which is "mankind to bless." Have you a local in your branch? If not, can you not organize one? Send to the corresponding secretary for constitutions. The Advisory Committee will be pleased to hear from you, and will gladly furnish you any assistance in their power. Send your list of names of members to the recording secretary.

ADVISORY COMMITTEE.

- Mrs. Mary E. Hulmes, President, Independence, Missouri.
- Mrs. H. H. Robinson, Corresponding Secretary, Independence, Missouri.
- Mrs. B. C. Smith, Independence, Missouri.
- Mrs. Lucina Etzenhouser, 2417 Prospect St. Kansas City, Missouri.
- Mrs. Clara Frick, Independence, Missouri.
- Mrs. Callie B. Stebbins, Recording Secretary, Lamoni, Iowa.
- Mrs. Anna Murphy, Treasurer, Independence, Missouri.

Editor's address, 3133 Olive St., St. Louis, Missouri.

YEARNING.

Out in de gret big worl' mammy,
Oh my, hit's fine to hol' you.
Sometimes, hit do seem mighty res'-less,
Sometimes I do seem all alone.
Home-day was trus' an' peace between us,
Home now seems monst'ous fu' away,
Yes, we was po'er den, my mammy,
But we was satisfied an' gay.
Trus' den fu' trus' you gi' me, mammy,
Out in de worl' dat's not de rule;
Hit had trus' to give his fellers,
He'ps dem to mek him out a fool.
Yes, 't's a longin' fu' de cabin,
Time w'en I didn't know no style;
W'en folks was common folks erbout me,
An' I was des yo' only chile.
Out in de gret big worl', my mammy,
I do as othah worl'in's do;
Dat lesson's l'ned, but none could teach me
Nevah to long fu' truth an' you.
—Paul Lawrence Dunbar.

SENTIMENT and romance ought to obtain in the love a woman bears her children, quite as much as in the love she bears her husband. If she keep her wedding anniversaries, so ought she keep the anniversaries sacred to the children. In very busy households, too often the mother falls into the way of doing what she must, rather than what she may; she neglects the privileges of life in attending to the necessities. While such a course may commend itself to her judgment, it is possible that she carries her common sense too far, and that, as in love, it would be better if she showed less judgment and more romance and sentiment.

One makes an argument in the interests of pure joy and urges that too often the more delicate forms of happiness are lost from a household, as a result of mere shiftlessness of spirit. Life slouches down into permanent dishabille. The sympathies become narrow, the interests few, and all the sweet ritual of love's ceremonies is neglected.

One of the chief benefits arising from an observance of the important occasions in a child's life is that the child gains in self esteem, appreciates the fact that he is an individual, and so comes to bear himself with increasing dignity of character. There is no doubt that countless lives have been handicapped by timidity. Some of these with the sweetest natures have the most diffidence. They lack personal expression, and those in the home take them at their own under-estimate, and set them aside with unintentional, yet unmistakable disrespect. Mothers may well have a keen eye for all these sensitive qualities of the soul, for danger lies in them as great as that which lurks in a too ardent and demonstrative character.

Nor is it easy to protect such a sensitive plant in the household. Indeed, the most difficult task a home-mother has to perform, is to protect the liberty of all under her roof. To see that the old do not irritate the young, that the young are not arrogant towards the old; that the servants are not imposed upon or do not commit impositions; that the restless and the contented, the eager and generous natures, and the cautious and cool ones understand and appreciate each other, is a tremendous task. The tastes of each must be respectfully regarded by all the rest; eccentricities and peculiarities must be borne with.

It is the trifles that make up life and the most less than trifles that constitute home life, yet in proportion as a woman devotes herself intelligently and happily to this minutiae, is the success of her home insured. A woman who has within her the love of home, which makes such labors possible, will not weary, she will be continually aware of her own good fortune in having those who need her close about her, and she will dread nothing so much as the thought that some of those now so dependent on her may be taken away, or may cease to need her loving service. The hour that concludes a woman's service to her family, is, indeed, one of the most melancholy that can strike for her. The woman of strong character will turn to books, or to charity outside of home, which she possibly has never before had the privilege of exercising, or she will take up church or club work. The woman of more dependent disposition is often submerged in memories, and her life becomes but a gray shadow.

—Modern Culture.

In sending articles for publication please see that there is sufficient postage thereon.

Proposed Amendments to Rules of Order and Debate.

Notice is hereby given that by action of the Joint Council of the Seventy, the following proposed Amendments to the Rules of Order and Debate will be presented to the General Conference of 1901 for its consideration and action:

Resolved, That section 161, paragraph 5 (a), be stricken out, and that the following be inserted in its stead: "In case satisfaction shall not be given upon the examination and decision of any cause before a court of elders, an appeal from such decision may be had by the party aggrieved to the Bishop's court, and from that court to the High Council."

Resolved, That section 161, paragraph 5 (b), be stricken out, and in lieu thereof the following be inserted: "In case of appeal the appellant must set forth clearly to the court to which appeal is made the reasons for such appeal."

"In case of appeal the authority to which the elders' court has reported shall send at once, upon receipt of written notice of such appeal, the papers and minutes of evidence, and a copy of the proceedings of the court in said case, and cause the same to be filed with the court to which appeal is taken."

"REMARK. In cases where offending parties have absconded, or are inaccessible to the prescribed labor and methods provided for in paragraph 4, section 161, the words, 'if practicable,' should be construed to qualify the conditions named, and proceedings had accordingly. If satisfaction is not had by the party or parties, the way of appeal is open."

WHEREAS, the law of God in the Book of Doctrine, and Covenants, section 17, paragraph 13, provides that "the several elders composing this church of Christ" shall meet in conference and transact the business of the church in said conferences, etc.,

Resolved, That the Rules of Representation, section 176, paragraph 2, be amended to read as follows: "The only qualifications to eligibility to the office of delegate from district to General Conference shall be eldership in the church in good standing."

Resolved, That section 177, paragraph 1, be amended by adding the words, "The qualifications for eligibility as such delegate being that he hold the office of an elder and be in good standing."

Resolved, That section 175 be stricken out, and the following be substituted therefor: "The general officers of the church known as the Presidency, the Twelve, the High Council, the Seventy, the Presiding Bishopric, and all high priests, elders and priests, when traveling under General Conference or general appointment, are ex officio members of General Conference, and entitled to voice and vote in General Conference when present."

Resolved, That section 99 be amended by inserting in the sixth line, after the word "affirmative" the words "by a two-thirds' vote."

On behalf of a committee of the joint Seventy.

DUNCAN CAMPBELL,
C. SCOTT,
R. S. SALYARDS,
LAMONI, Ia., Dec. 5.

Clergy Permits for 1901.

The Central and the Western Passenger Associations have been furnished with lists complete to date of all General Conference and other general mission appointees, and notified that certificates of appointment hold good until the General Conference of 1901. Applications for permits for the year 1901 may, therefore, be made at any time.

The Western Association is divided into two departments. Applicants located in Alabama, Arkansas, Indian Territory, Oklahoma, Kentucky, Louisiana, Mississippi, Missouri, Sonora (Mexico), Tennessee, and Texas should address C. M. Pratt, chairman, Room 1920 Union Trust Building, St. Louis, Missouri. Those in other territory of said Association address Eben E. MacLeod, Chairman, Monadnock Building, Chicago, Illinois.

UNTIL JANUARY 1, 1901, FOR ONLY $2.00.

- 1 Copy "Palmyra to Independence" Cloth Bound,
 - 1 Copy "Book of Mormon Vindicated" " "
 - 1 Copy "Autobiography of Elder Joseph Luff"
- REGULAR PRICE, $2.35.

Any of the above books would make a very acceptable Christmas Present. All are bound in cloth, and, until January 1st, we will send the three for $2.00.

Address, ENSIGN PUBLISHING HOUSE,
INDEPENDENCE, MO.

Applicants in Central Association territory should address F. C. Donald, Commissioner Central Passenger Association, Monadnock Building, Chicago, Illinois.

Application blanks may be obtained from local railroad agents, or from either of the above named.

All local ministers entitled to permits are referred to their respective missionaries in charge for endorsement, as heretofore.

R. S. SALYARDS,
Church Sec.

LAMONI, Ia., December 1.

Scattered Members.

The following is a list of members of the San Bernardino, California, branch, whose whereabouts are unknown; viz.: Mary E. Hurst, Adaline Long, Susannah D. Ferris, Rachel Brooks, John W. Casteel, Orissa O. Lyby, Elizabeth A. Smith, John H. Faburn, Benjamin Matthews, Jr., Martha E. Mero, Pleasant J. Chipman, Josiah Watson, Sarah J. Bickmore, Sarah J. Casteel, Sheriah French, Clarissa A. Smith, Sarah A. Baatz, Mahalena Morongo, Thomas Morongo, Watarpa Lattopono, Wm. H. Pickering, Theodore T. Caillonay, Allen R. Baldwin, Marget M. Hutchinson, Mary Dustin, Frank Carter, Josephine Dustin, Lizzie Dustin, Tina Dustin, Eveline Dustin, T. W. Watson, Lucy Tontian, Rebecca Oliver, Francis E. Yager, James Brooks, Andrew Carlson, May T. Casteel, Eli A. Sparks, and Mary R. Thomas.

Please send us your present address, as we are anxious to locate all the members of this branch. Any one having information of any of the above named brothers or sisters will confer a favor by writing to the undersigned at No. 964 11th street, San Bernardino, California.

MATTIE DAMRON, Clerk.

Convention Notices.

The following program will be carried out at the Netawaka convention of the Northeast Kansas district in February next (D. V.).

Talks: "What new things have you tried in your school and found helpful?" led by Bro. Harry Thomas; paper, "Why should we work in Sunday School?" Sr. Elmira Miller; quartette, by Netawaka school; "Week day influences of teachers," Sr. Fannie B. Pender; instrumental music, Sr. Lena McNutt; talks, "Three ways in which the assistant can aid the superintendent," led by Bro. Samuel Twombly; solo, by Sr. Warnock; paper, "Hints to intermediate teachers," Sr. Emma Hedricks; "The blackboard," its general use," by Bro. J. W. Buras.

FRANK J. PIERCE, for Com.
FANNING, Kan., Dec. 1.

EVANLEIA LOST, a duet by Bro. J. Cole Moxon. Fine souvenir engraving of the little gospel boat. Everyone should possess a copy. Not a very great many of them left, better send in your orders for one or more before there is nothing left you but regrets that you do not possess a copy. Only 25 cents each. Let us hear from you promptly.

DIED.

(One hundred words free. One cent for each word over 100, and for every word of poetry. Amount should be remitted with notice, to insure publication.)

WILD.—At Belleville, Illinois, No. 20, 1900, Sr. Mary Ann Wild. She was born August 10, 1831, at Cynder Hill, Staffordshire, England, was baptized August 8, 1851, at Belleville, Illinois; she had been confined to the house for a number of years, but lived a good christian life until death. She leaves several children, grand-children and friends to mourn their loss. Funeral sermon by Elder Arthur Allen.

HEQUEMBOURG.—At Nearman, Kansas, November 25, 1900, of pneumonia, Bro. John Cavender Hequem-bourg. He was born at St. Louis, Missouri, January 7, 1868, married to Miss Rose Green October 30, 1889, baptized January 1896, by Bro. J. I. Young, confirmed by Bro. J. Hoffman. He was buried in Oak Hill cemetery, Kirkwood, Missouri.

He leaves a wife and son, also a number of relatives and friends to mourn their loss. Funeral sermon by Elder Arthur Allen.

COUGHS KILL

We know of nothing better than coughing to tear the lining of your throat and lungs. It is better than wet feet to cause bronchitis and pneumonia. Only keep it up and you will succeed in reducing your weight, losing your appetite, bringing on a slow fever, and making everything exactly right for the germs of consumption. Better kill your cough before it kills you.

Ayer's Cherry Pectoral

kills coughs of every kind. A 25 cent bottle is just right for an ordinary cough; for the harder coughs of bronchitis you will need a 50 cent bottle; and for the coughs of consumption the one dollar size is most economical.

"My cough reduced me to a mere skeleton. I tried many remedies, but they all failed. After using the Cherry Pectoral I immediately began to improve, and three bottles restored me to health. I believe I owe my life to it."

SARAH F. MORAN,
Oct. 7, 1893. BROOKFIELD, Va.

Cure for Ague or Malaria in Three Days.

Use nutmeg, and char till all the oil burns out, pulverize fine, take equal of burnt alum, pulverize and mix, divide in three doses, take one just before the chill comes, whether one day, two day or three day ague.

NOTICE.

To the MISSIONARIES of the Northern California districts—I have considerable tracts on hand yet. Do not be backward in sending for some.

C. C. JOENK,
In charge of tract fund,
235 S. Commerce St., Stockton, Cal.

ZION'S ENSIGN.

"OUR CREED: ALL TRUTH."

VOLUME 11.

INDEPENDENCE, MISSOURI, THURSDAY, DECEMBER 20, 1900

NUMBER 51.

ZION'S ENSIGN.

A Literary and Religious Newspaper, published in the interest of social, scientific and religious truth, every Thursday, at Independence, Jackson County, Missouri.

PRICE, $1.00 PER YEAR, IN ADVANCE.

ENSIIGN PUBLISHING HOUSE,
of the Reorganized Church of Jesus Christ of Latter Day Saints.

W. H. GARRETT, Editor.
J. W. LUFF, BUSINESS MANAGER.

Make all remittances, and address all communications to ENSIIGN PUBLISHING HOUSE, Box B, Independence, Jackson County, Missouri.

New subscriptions can begin at any time. If possible to avoid it, never send silver as it is liable to wear through the envelope and be lost. Always give the name of the post office to which your paper is sent or we can not find your name on our lists.

When desiring your address changed, give both the old and new address. Papers will be discontinued one month from the time subscriptions expire, unless ordered continued.

In making remittances, money orders are preferable for they are absolutely safe. If you can avoid it, do not send coin or stamps. Canadian stamps are at entire loss, and Canadian currency is only worth ninety cents on the dollar to us, for that is all we can get for it at this time. Letters should be addressed, and orders and drafts made payable to

ENSIIGN PUBLISHING HOUSE,
Independence, Mo.

Box B.

BLESSED MINISTRATIONS.

One of the most blessed gifts that one can be privileged to enjoy in this life is the ability to make others happy, to lighten the burdens under which some may have sorrowfully labored for many weary days. One of old has said, "It is more blessed to give than to receive" (Acts 20: 35). Over and over again has the truth of this saying been realized by many who, from the overflowing fountain of their hearts sympathy for others, have sought to work for the blessed Lord, and bring comfort to the suffering ones. Of course, a great deal depends upon the manner of the ministration as to whether joy in the giving shall be realized; the motive of the heart enters rather largely into the degree of merit attaching to the effort. When it is done in His name, it must be an unselfish, unregrettable, whole-souled work of the heart, for if the motive be impure, unworthy of an offering made to the Master, it had better not be made.

There is one noticeable and striking thought connected with the class denominated "poor," which is comforting and cheering, and that is that they are the objects of special mention in promised blessings. The Lord has demonstrated His thoughtful consideration for their privations, by laying it as a duty upon the more prosperous to minister to them out of their abundance, and so recognize their obligations to God and to their fellowmen that they may acquit themselves as wise stewards, and not as lords of that which they possess. It may be profitable for us to consider a few of the testimonies of Holy Writ concerning the class denominated "poor."

Blessed is he that considereth the poor: the Lord will deliver him in time of trouble.—Ps. 41: 1.

He that giveth to the poor shall not lack: but he that hideth his eyes shall have many a curse.—Prov. 28: 27.

The meek also shall increase their joy in the Lord, and the poor among men shall rejoice in the Holy One of Israel.—Isa. 29: 19.

But to this man will I look, even to him that is poor, and of a contrite spirit, and trembleth at my word.—Isa. 66: 2.

Blessed are the poor in spirit: for theirs is the kingdom of heaven.—Matt. 5: 3.

The Spirit of the Lord is upon me, because he hath anointed me [Christ] to preach the gospel to the poor.—Luke 4: 18.

These are but a few of the references in which provision is made for the class which the Bible denominates "the poor." It has been a wonder in the minds of some as to why there should be any poor. All are God's creation and we are impressed with the fact in reading the Scriptures, that God is no respecter of persons. Again, a close study of the gospel plan reveals the fact that were the laws of the Lord fully obeyed, there would not be such a class. Further, the revelations given in the days of Enoch, and again repeated, with others, in these last days, indicate that the time will come when every man will be provided for as his necessities require, so that all will be equal in this respect, as their needs shall be. But recognizing the influence of the adversary in making use of the selfish propensities in the natural man, it seems as if the Lord has ordained that man shall redeem himself and perfect his character through the assistance of the Holy Spirit, by subduing his selfish nature in administering to the necessities of those less fortunate than himself from a worldly standpoint, thus thwarting the designs of the devil in depriving man of the blessing of his heavenly Father in discharging his stewardship acceptably.

But there is, on the other hand, much danger that the poor, through encouraging a spirit of envy, jealousy, murmuring and complaining, may bring themselves under condemnation, and incur the displeasure of both God and man. And that this condition might be guarded against, the Father has again manifested His loving care for those deprived of that which they deem so necessary for their happiness, by giving this word of warning and exhortation:

We unto you poor men, whose hearts are not broken, whose spirits are not contrite, and whose bellies are not satisfied, and whose hands are not stayed from laying hold upon other men's good, whose eyes are full of greediness, who will not labor with their own hands! But blessed are the poor, who are pure in heart, whose hearts are broken, and whose spirits are contrite, for they shall see the kingdom of God coming in power and great glory unto their deliverance; for the fatness of the earth shall be theirs; for behold the Lord shall come, and his recompense shall be with him, and he shall reward every man, and the poor shall rejoice; and their generations shall inherit the earth from generation to generation, forever and ever.—D. & C. 56: 5, 6.

The lesson in this instruction is that every one should, in humility, honesty and diligence, do the best he can in accumulating that which will minister to his comfort and to that of those dependent upon him, bearing his burdens with cheerfulness, receiving his blessing with thankfulness, appreciating those favors bestowed upon him, even though denied all that he would like to have. Every one should thank God for the health and vigor of mind and body that enables them to work for their sustenance and for the opportunity to secure the means of a livelihood. And if this spirit is manifest by God's children, they will, in the end, reap abundantly as outlined in this last quotation from the word of the Lord.

It is folly to fret and chafe under unpleasant conditions; such procedure in no wise assists to alter them, but only serves to make the burden heavier to bear, because the mind is led to dwell upon them, and the spirit is oppressed with the weight of the burden. This causes unhappiness both to the individual thus influenced, and to those who come within the radius of his association. And the unhappiness is all the greater because that under that kind of action the burden must be borne alone. There is no promise of God's help, the cheering and comforting presence of the Holy Spirit, for such an influence grieves the gentle Spirit, not being in harmony with God's will, and shows a lack of faith in His promise and loving consideration for His children. It is far better to "have faith in God," to bear our burdens with cheerfulness, humility, and an abiding confidence in our heavenly Father that He will cause ALL things to work together for our good, doing which, the burden will be more easily carried, our lives sweetened, and those around us made happier; and these considerations should make it worth the effort to attain it, the more so because God is pleased and glorified thereby.

The season is upon us when, of all times in the year, we love to testify of our affection for those around us in the giving of such tokens as means and judgment permit and suggest; when the generous impulses of our natures, for the time at least, subdue the selfish propensities, and we take pleasure in enhancing the happiness of loved ones with delightful surprises. This makes the season one of joy and gladness, and many hearts are made lighter, many lives sweetened, because of the pleasures of this blessed season, both in the giving and in the receiving.

What but the influence of a perfect and holy life, such as was given to the world by our divine Lord, could so move the hearts and noblest impulses of all, even of worldly people, at any period; that should lead them for the once, to forget the sordid, hard pursuit of wealth and power, and strive to give pleasure to others? It is to Him, then, that we owe the blessedness of this season; and it is but a fitting acknowledgement that, as did the wise men at His birth, we should come to Him with gifts, adoration and praise; and while, as suggested so forcefully by one of the writers in the Daughters of Zion department, this week, gifts of our substance, our increase, would be appropriate and pleasing, the gift of a heart and purpose more deeply consecrated to the work of uplifting others, a heart brimming with love and devotion to His service, would truly be worthy of the occasion and the work. Shall we thus offer ourselves before Him in prayerful, faithful consecration, and seek to do His work under His guidance, that men for whom He gave His life may have the greatest of all gifts, eternal life? If we shall do so, we shall realize truly that in thus blessing others, we have followed the surest course to the highest possible happiness for ourselves, and stand with the approval of the Master in the end.

EDITORIAL ITEMS.

The ENSIGN herewith extends greetings, and wishes for all its readers a very merry and well spent Christmas tide.

ELDER W. S. MACRAE'S address after December 25th will be Saltillo, Arkansas. As reports of missionaries are due January 1st, he requests that they be sent to him at Saltillo.

BISHOP G. H. HILLIARD sends two subscriptions from Grannis, Arkansas, and remarks:

I expect to work for the papers all the time, and if all the elders would work to that end, the lists would soon be doubled. I also sent two subscriptions to the Herald today.

Thanks, Bro. Hilliard, your suggestion is good. A number of our "good" elders are talking this matter up where they labor, and secure excellent results thereby. Bro. Alfred White and J. C. Foss, of the Independence, Missouri, district, are especially active in inducing brethren to subscribe for the church papers. Bro. W. A. Bushnell, of Independence, by making an earnest effort, secured thirteen subscribers for the ENSIIGN in one week, recently. A little wise activity by others would, as Bro. Hilliard says, greatly increase the subscription list and do an incalculable amount of good. Try it and see the results.

Our patrons when making request of missionaries or others, to send their remittances to the publishing houses of the church, either for papers or other church publications, should not fail to add to the amount to be forwarded the price charged for postal or express orders and mailing. The church publications are placed at as low a figure as they can be sold without loss to the church; it is not fair to the church then, to expect it to pay for remittances sent them. Of course it would be only a small matter to do so for one, or a dozen remittances, but if one person is entitled to remit at the expense of the publishing departments, all are, and the aggregate would be so considerable as to entail a loss upon the church. On the other hand there is neither hardship or injustice imposed, that when some one is kind enough to write the letter, obtain the order and do the mailing, that the cost incident to the transaction should be paid by the party for whose account the remittance is sent; he would have to pay it if he was sending it himself, and he should be glad to pay it when some one else is kind enough to relieve him (or her) of the trouble of writing, etc.

Of course when the missionaries do this work, and the party for whom they do it, thoughtlessly neglects to add the cost of remittance, rather than that the kind-hearted missionary should pay the amount out of the meagre store he may have, the ENSIGN authorizes him to deduct the cost of mailing from the amount, but the church is the loser, and it is an injustice to the church. Keep this in mind then, brethren, and see that the cost of remitting is always added when some one is kind enough to relieve you of the time and trouble in remitting.

We are moved to write this because of a claim of a brother that he is entitled to credit from the ENSIGN because that he had for sometime past borne the cost of this work when remitting for others. We are of the opinion that the kindness was shown to the parties for whom he remitted rather than the ENSIGN, as they would have had to pay this cost had they individually remitted.

BRO. IVEN RICHARDS, Webb City, Missouri:

The work of the Lord is progressing slowly in this part of the vineyard. We have just commenced a new church building.

GENERAL CHURCH NEWS.

INDEPENDENCE.

Bro. I. N. White, J. C. Foss and M. T. Short returned Monday from a successful conference of the Far West district, which was held at St. Joseph, Missouri, the 15th inst.

Keep in view the "New Century" service at the church January 6th. It will be a profitable event, and we should have the church crowded at every service. All should arrange to attend as far as possible.

Bro. and Sr. Royal Brocaw are now residents of this city, having recently moved here from Harrisonville, Missouri. They are domiciled with Sr. Brocaw's mother, Sr. T. W. Chaburn Sr. "Nellie" was a typo on the ENSIGN for five years. We are glad to welcome them in our midst.

At the suggestion and request of Bishop R. May a general collection will be taken at the morning service next Sunday for the benefit of the poor. Let all come prepared, so far as able, to make their gift a liberal one. It is for an offering to the Master, "He that giveth to the poor lendeth to the Lord."

Tuesday evening a young peoples' prayer meeting, to be continued regularly each Tuesday evening, was held in the north room of the church, Bro. Frank Criley in charge. It was a good meeting and much encouragement was received by those attending. It will be a factor for much good; notwithstanding that the next Tuesday will be Christmas the meeting by vote decided to hold service as usual, an indication of earnestness and devotion which is both commendable and cheering.

The anniversary service referred to in the notice in ENSIGN of December 6th, signed by Bro. Wm. Clow and Srs. R. May and Wm. Bushnell, will be held in the north room of the church Saturday evening, December 29th at 7:30. This meeting commemorates the miraculous manifestation of heavenly light at a baptism in Canada, December 29th, 1875, on an exceedingly dark night, and those present on that occasion, or at the prayer meeting the following Wednesday evening, who may be present next Saturday week, will give their testimony and experience. Letters will also be read from some who may not be able to attend this meeting. All who may desire to hear these testimonies and the graphic relation of this marvelous experience attending the administration of one of the gospel ordinances, will be welcome to attend this service. Bro. Wm. Clow will have charge and it will be an interesting occasion.

The arrangements by the Sunday School officers being such that the children's treat, Christmas eve, December 24th, will be distributed without the necessity of leaving their seats, and the confusion attending it be reduced to a minimum, and the fact that the lower room is entirely inadequate to accommodate the crowd attending, the entertainment will be held in the main auditorium. The Sunday School have also arranged for assistants in cleaning the church of any litter resulting from decorations. It is desired that everything be conducted as orderly and quietly as possible, such as is befitting the house of the Lord.

Sunday was cloudy and threatening, but to the credit of the Saints, good audiences were in attendance at all services, 324 being at Sunday School. The morning sermon by Apostle Joseph Luff was full of instruction for the perfecting of character, and that it was forceful the remarks at the afternoon service were in evidence. A very spiritual service was enjoyed by many at the afternoon hour, the Father speaking in exhortation to the Saints, admonishing them to be found in their places in the Lord's house, at the appointed hours of service, and declaring that some were under condemnation for this neglect. The influence of the Spirit accompanying this manifestation was very sweet indeed, showing the LOVE of our heavenly Father towards His children while admonishing them. At the young people's prayer meeting another cheering and spiritual time was enjoyed, the Lord speaking again words of exhortation and comfort to the young. Bro. Frank Rudd was the speaker at the evening service and though suffering from a severe cold, bravely stood at the post of duty, and his effort was well received. What blessings are in store for the Saints if they will only be heedful and diligent.

Bro. J. J. Luff is making quite a nice show of pure candies for the holidays—look in his store on West Lexington as you go by.

LAMONI, IOWA.

Though the weather Sunday was very unfavorable, over three hundred were in attendance at Sunday School. Two good sermons were delivered at morning and evening services by Apostles J. W. Wight and Heman C. Smith. Bro. Wight spoke upon the principles of the gospel, Bro. Smith upon the text, "All things work together for good to them that love God."—Romans 8: 28.

Preaching service was held at Saints' Home by Elder R. M. Elvin.

Daughters of Zion report a very good meeting held Friday afternoon. A paper upon "The Marriage Covenant" was read by Sr. John Smith, and one upon "Hygiene of our Homes," by Sr. L. A. Gould.

Quite a number of Sunday School teachers with their classes will distribute baskets of "good things" on Christmas day to various families. This is a commendable custom of the Sunday School, and certainly is the Christ-spirit.

The fall term of Graceland college closed last week with appropriate exercises. Two weeks of vacation will be given the students.

Bishop E. L. Kelley arrived home Monday from St. Louis, and left Saturday noon for Council Bluffs.

Elder Columbus Scott returned from his mission field, last week, quite ill.

Elder M. F. Gowell left for Allendale, Missouri, Saturday morning, to do missionary work in that region until after the holidays.

An audience of from five to six hundred people greeted the Quaker Male Quartet Saturday night in auditorium of church. This entertainment was given under the auspices of the Religio, and will net this society about $25.00.

G. L. K.

DECEMBER 18.

CHICAGO, ILLINOIS.

Branch headquarters, 716 W. Van Buren St. Sunday meetings 2:45 and 7:46 p. m. Lang Mission, 3411 Cottage Grove Ave., 10:45 a. m. and 7:30 p. m. West Pullman branch, 748 119th St., 10:30 a. m. and 7:30 p. m. 508 W. 37th St. (colored mission), 10:30 a. m. and 7:30 p. m.

As a token of respect to the departing year and century arrangements have been made for an especial meeting on the last Sabbath; a combined effort of the branch, Religio and the Sabbath School to praise the Lord and exalt His holy name. Services will commence at 1:30 and continue with intermissions during the evening. Come with lunch and stay to enjoy it all. Let each one be interested to make this an appropriate farewell to the old year. "Ring out the old, ring in the new" by then turning our faces toward the future and give the new year and century a grand reception in an extra large and spiritual union meeting on the first Sunday. By an effort from each one, these two meetings can be made a blessing to the work in Chicago which we all labor.

Bro. and Sr. Carpenter, two of the isolated ones of north Wisconsin, spent a few days in the city enjoying the services very much. They started last evening homeward still willing to continue in the wonderful work. Sr. E. P. Wheeler, formerly of our city, now of Wyoming, Illinois, was with us on the Sabbath in earnest devotion. She and son hunger for the association of the Saints.

Bro. J. L. Benson will spend the holidays at his home, Magnolia, Iowa, departing this week. Bro. Benson is a coming graduate from the Northwestern University Dental School of our city, an institution standing with the best of the land and a mammoth arrangement. Prof. G. V. Black, a leading dentist of the world, stands at the head. There are 600 students, with an outgoing class of 238, among whom is our young Bro. Benson. We have passed through some of the experiences of this school through the kindness of our brother and have reason to believe it will make of us a more perfect man physically. Bro. B. is an active helper in church work.

Bro. Philemon Pement loves to defend the Book of Mormon and to make plain the gospel; this he did in a sermon yesterday at headquarters. Bro. P. is one of our many willing, sacrificing men of the priesthood.

Our young elder, F. M. Pitt, cheered us by plainly showing the promise of an inheritance on the earth, not forgetting the conditions upon which the promise is made.

Bro. John Harris occupied at the mission last evening. Bro. H. is an earnest Sabbath School worker at that place.

We hope the Saints will keep a lookout for opportunities to open new missions. We need more. For aggression,

J. M. TERRY.

395 Ogden Ave., Dec. 17.

FIRST KANSAS CITY BRANCH. 2324 Wabash Ave., Sunday School 9:30 a. m.; preaching at 11 a. m. and 7:30 p. m. Social service 12:15 p. m. D. F. Winn, pastor, 2306 Bellfontaine.

We met in our church on Sunday. All seemed to be glad to get back to the church again after our temporary absence by reason of the fire. Attendance at all of the meetings was good. In the morning we had a good lecture from Elder J. D. White on the duties of the Saints toward each other. Sacrament was administered at the 12:15 meeting, and the Spirit was abundantly present. A number testified who are not often heard in this meeting. In the evening Bro. J. D. White preached as per previous announcement. The sermon was a good one.

The Christmas committee has announced that the entertainment will be held on Christmas evening. The burning of the church has materially interfered with the work of the Christmas committee, and a part of the entertainment will have to be omitted, but we think the part to be presented will be pleasing to all interested.

Bro. Walter Smith passed through the city Tuesday, en route to Holden, to visit with friends and relatives.

Bro. Arthur Gillen delivered an excellent sermon at the Northeast mission on Sunday evening, and a protracted effort is being held there during the week which, we understand, is well attended.

The announcements for the various churches and missions in the city, next Sunday, are as follows: First Kansas City branch, Bro. B. J. Scott will preach in the morning, and Bro. W. H. Pease in the evening. Armstrong branch, Bro. Edgar Harrington in the morning, and Frank Rudd in the evening. Chelsea Park branch, Bro. D. F. Winn in the morning, and Bro. W. R. Pickering in the evening. Northeast mission, Bro. M. B. Williams in the morning, and Bro. Ammon White in the evening.

Address of the Northeast mission, hall over Smith's drug store, Rochester avenue.

R. E. PORNER.

DECEMBER 18.

SECOND KANSAS CITY BRANCH. Corner 23d and Holly. One block south of Observation Park line.

The services of the day, from Sunday School to night meeting, were well attended yesterday. Our teacher, Bro. Fred Koehler, was the speaker at the morning hour, and our presiding elder the evening.

We were glad to have Bro. F. C. Warnky and Wm. Clow worship with us in our social meeting. Bro. Clow gave further announcement of the anniversary prayer meeting to be held on the 20th. Our little branch will try to be well represented, several having already expressed intentions of going over.

We expect to hold our Christmas entertainment on next Monday evening.

Our chorister, Bro. Gus Koehler, was all smiles behind a brand new baton Sunday morning with which some, appreciative of his good services in the way of music in our branch, had presented him. Gus suggested that if we were all as much pleased with it as he was, we would watch its movements very closely and good results would follow.

Our priest, Bro. T. Newton, was not able to meet with us the whole day Sunday, and was indeed greatly missed. Bro. Newton has been a sufferer for some time, not having been able to be at his work since August. We do trust the Lord will remove the affliction ere long.

A. C. K.

December 17.

ST. LOUIS, MISSOURI.

Places of worship: Rock Church, Glasgow avenue and Dickson street. Services: Wednesday evening, prayer service. Sunday: Sabbath School 9:30 a. m.; preaching at 11 a. m.; social service at 7:30 p. m.; preaching at 8 p. m. Cheltenham, 5711 Manchester Ave.; services: Sunday School 10 a. m.; social meeting 2:30 p. m.; preaching 7:30 p. m. Oak Hill, Sunday School 9:30 a. m., and services at 2:30 and 8 p. m.

The Cheltenham people are having their church all "fixed up," preparing to start the twentieth century all adorned.

Bro. Roberts visited with us yesterday afternoon, there being no services at Cheltenham, the church being in the hands of the decorators.

Bro. Allen occupied the pulpit twice yesterday.

Mrs. Dawson, Emma Smith and others on the sick list.

Sr. Maude Crawford visited with us yesterday. Mrs. Trowbridge and son, Lou, spent Sunday with Bro. Richard and wife.

Elder Allen left this morning for work in the field.

Bro. Noah Cook and son, Ivor, went to Belleville yesterday. Bro. Cooke being appointed speaker for the night service.

The social service was quiet and enjoyable; seventeen testimonies and a number of prayers.

The Religio gives an entertainment New Year's eve in the auditorium; immediately following, the sisters of the Mite Society hold their reception in the basement, continuing until the twentieth century is ushered in. Light refreshments will be served.

ETTA.

December 17.

DENVER, COLORADO.

Church, corner of 22d and Arapahoe Sts. Services Sunday—Sunday School at 9:45 a. m.; preaching at 11 a. m. and 7:30 p. m.; sacrament service the first Sunday in each month at 8 p. m. Prayer meeting Wednesday evening. Zion's Religio-Literary Society Friday evening.

No storm yet, the weather as I write is more like May than December.

Bro. and Sr. H. D. Bartlett are rejoicing over the advent of a son, born the 11th inst.

January 6, 1901, will be rally day with the Denver branch; we urge that every member that can, be present. Let us begin the new year and century with a grand rally, and determination to do more for the Lord than over before, not simply because it is customary to make new resolutions at the beginning of the year, but because it is our duty and the work demands it. We would be glad if the Saints not living in the city would make an effort to be present on this occasion.

The Sunday School Christmas entertainment will be held at the church Christmas eve.

Elder R. C. Evans arrived in the city Friday afternoon and left for St. Joseph Sunday night, after the evening service.

Sunday morning the church was filled with worthy Saints to listen to Bro. Evans discourse from the text, "I perceive that God is no respecter of persons." He handled the sheep and goat question in a way that is new to good many, satisfactory to the writer though.

The Religio was well attended and the program well rendered.

At the evening service the house was filled to hear Bro. Evans discuss the question of the divine mission of Joseph Smith.

Bro. Sam Brannon arrived home from Graceland Sunday morning to spend the holidays.

Cannot Bro. A. H. Smith make Denver a visit on his way home? We do not know his address.

S.

December 17.

SAN FRANCISCO, CALIFORNIA

Services at Golden West Hall, 320 Post street, every Sunday. Sunday School 10 a. m.; praying 11 a. m. and 7:30 p. m.; prayer meeting first Sunday of each month at 12:15 noon. Elder C. A. Parkin presiding elder, residence 3010 16th street.

Thanksgiving day was clear, warm and pleasant, the sun was shining at its very best for this time of year, and the day opened up as one for thanksgiving and praise. A goodly number of Saints met at our hall to commemorate the day. We were much pleased to have with us Bro. R. Etzenhouser, who occupied the pulpit and led our thoughts in ways of thankfulness. In the afternoon came the regular turkey at our several homes; and then all our city was turned to sadness by an accident near the baseball grounds, where the roof of a building fell in with upward of a hundred people, killing about twenty and injuring about twice as many more. How short the step from happiness to sorrow.

Bro. Etzenhouser has just returned from Walnut Creek and is now on his way to Santa Rosa.

Sunday morning, after the regular Sunday School service, we had preaching by Fred B. Blair, who has now gone on a tour to Irvington, Livermore, Stockton and Sacramento, to be gone ten days. At 12:15 we held our sacrament meeting, we had a very profitable session; five hymns were sung, four prayers offered, and eighteen testimonies given, some of which were very impressive. At 7:30 p. m. Elder Albert Haws was the speaker.

Wednesday evening our regular business meeting was held at the home of Elder John B. Saxe, and the good of the cause in this city was considered.

During the week President Geo. Q. Cannon, of Salt Lake City, was in the city. He was en route to the Sandwich Islands to celebrate the fiftieth anniversary of his preaching his gospel there; he was accompanied by other elders of his church. We understand that he preached twice here Sunday.

Friday night the Religio gave an open meeting at the residence of Bro. Hawley; no program was followed, but the evening was given to amusement. For the time being we were like children again, and united in playing games, charades, and social visiting, until a late hour. It was a very pleasant change and a happy evening spent. Long live the Religio.

GEO. S. LINCOLN.

December 6.

LETTER DEPARTMENT.

LINN, Mo., Dec. 10.

Dear Ensign:—At this writing Bro. C. J. Spurlock and myself are enjoying the hospitality of the Saints of Osage county, known as the Whearso branch; came here last Saturday, and this will likely be our headquarters the rest of the winter, it being the only branch within the territory assigned us at the late General Conference.

En route to this, the northern part of our field, we came by way of St. Louis, where we were privileged to meet with the Saints in their regular services, the first opportunity we have had of this kind since entering our field of labor in May; here we received encouragement spiritually, also financially from the Saints who know it takes the temporal means to carry on the spiritual work of the church.

Our stay in St. Louis was short, but long enough, however, to get a fair view of some parts of the city, which was considerably appreciated by myself. From there we drove to St. Charles and tried to procure a building in town in which to present the gospel. Failing in this we went into the country about eight miles to the home of Bro. Daniel Lobman, where we held two meetings on Sunday, very few coming out.

Monday we were on the road again, and after two and one-half days drive through the mud had the privilege of meeting with Bro. F. M. Bass and family with whom we stayed one week preaching three times in a Methodist church, when we were informed that they wanted it the rest of the week. The day before we left there Sr. Maud Coleman, daughter of Bro. Bass, was baptized.

This family of Saints are very much isolated, not having heard a sermon by Saints for fifteen years, we being the first to represent our work in that community. Two and one-half days travel from there, over rocks and hills, brought us to this branch.

Yours in bonds,
GEO. W. BEEBE, JR.

POPULAR BLUFF, Mo., Dec. 5.

Dear Ensign:—I write you a few lines asking the prayers of the Saints, that I may live true and faithful and worthy with the Lord. My trouble at this time seems to me to be more than I can bear, so I ask the prayers of others that God will give me courage to bear in patience my troubles through life. My husband died the 23d of November; we were married in April 1866; none but those who have lived together a long time can realize what such a separation means. He was a soldier in the civil war, and was a believer in the gospel, but never obeyed; he was a friend to the elders, and was always glad to see them come. Last August he and I were at one of our neighbors, whose child was laying a corpse, having died the evening before, there were several there besides us; he heard singing in the house, the prettiest singing he ever heard, he said. I did not hear it. He never said a word about it for several days, but when Bro. Spurlock and Bro. Beebe were here and he told us, said he had thought he would not say anything about it, but it was bearing on his mind so he concluded to tell us about it. About six years ago, soon after the gospel was first preached here, one night soon after we went to bed, my husband said to me, Did you hear that? I said, No, I did not hear anything; he said he heard someone sing "Amazing Grace, How Sweet the Sound," clear through, said it was such pretty singing. We lived in the country and knew it was no visible person, but he said not to tell the neighbors for they would laugh at him. He would talk the gospel to the people and contend for the true faith, but neglected to obey.

My daughter, 29 years old, died with consumption two years ago the 22d of next January; she left a little girl eight years old with us, her only child living; the little girl's papa died with consumption, or throat trouble, when the child was five years old, so it seems like I have trouble on top of trouble. Six of our children died small, but that is not like giving up a grown one, and it is still harder to have to give up my husband, whom I had lived with so many years. I have one son twenty-two years old and one sixteen, and the little granddaughter. I am not afraid but what we can make a living, it is the lonesomeness. I am away from church privileges and in a very lonely place, but believe God has placed me here for some purpose known to himself, but unknown to me. Dear Saints, remember me in your prayers.

SARAH GLASENER.

NORTH PLYMOUTH, Mass.,
November 25.

Editor Ensign:—I have perused your pages for many a week and I am indebted to you for your instruction that I have received; and after reading a letter from some one that we must be selfish to get all we can from others and not try to do the same to others, it fitted me quite well for many times I have dropped the Herald and taken up the ENSIGN first when they have both come to me. I believe it has been doing an excellent work for the church. I hope all the Saints will help to support it is my wish.

We are laboring in Hinwood and Co-hasset at present, and hope we can report to your pages the work we hope to do. May the Lord help us to walk in the straight and narrow way, and be able to point others to the same. His Spirit, to abstain from all appearance of evil, to keep the Word of Wisdom, to keep pace with the church, and to be a faithful representative of Christ's kingdom, for I believe it is set up to prepare a people for God.

May you prosper, and continue to send forth the glad news to all, is my prayer.

Your brother in the one faith,
N. R. NICKERSON.

CHICAGO, Ill., Dec. 1.

Editor Ensign:—As I was reading this week's ENSIGN and noticed that the Saints at Springfield, Missouri, were building a church, it put me in mind that I have three cousins living there. Edward Davis lives about two miles south-east of Springfield. He is an upright, honest man and I think would accept the gospel if shown to him right. I also had an uncle and cousins by name of McPhersons. My uncle's name was Alexander McPherson. Mrs. Foss, public administrator's wife, is a cousin of mine. If any of the Saints down there see this, will they try and interest them in this great latter day work, and show them this item, as I can say I know of a truth this work is true. I also have an aunt by name of Margaret Jones, near St. Joe, Missouri, who was interested in this work. Will some of the St. Joe Saints try and look her up. She has several sons and daughters living in and around St. Joe; one near the Catholic Brothers' College.

In gospel bonds,
WM. C. CUMMINGS.
491 W. Madison St., Room 19.

MALDEN, Mo., Dec. 10.

Editor Ensign:—We sold our hotel at Willow Springs, Missouri, and arrived at this place September 3rd. We are in the hotel business again, having bought out the people who were in the Malden Hotel. Dear Saints, how glad I would be to see you all again; there isn't any Saints except ourselves in this place.

I received the first ENSIGN yesterday that I have seen for months, I see by that that Bro. Spurlock is near us. Dudley is not far from here and if he is still at that place I hope he will visit us. We like it down here but have some fear of sickness in summer. We have been attending a Methodist protracted meeting, but it does not satisfy our spiritual needs. We long to hear one of our own faith. My aged mother is with me and is strong in the faith, but is getting more feeble of late; she would be delighted to see an elder and have a good talk.

Dear Saints, do not forget us away down here in land of cotton; we would like to move to Independence, Missouri. Hoping that we may all hold out faithful to the end, I am

Your sister in the faith,
MRS. MAGGIE LAY.

FULTON, RICHMOND, Va., Dec. 9.

Dear Ensign:—The conference passed off pleasantly, though not as many Saints attended as we hoped for, and a very slim attendance from outsiders. One night (Sunday) I was pleasantly surprised on finding the room nearly full; but lo! they were all Utahites, or "sure enough Mormons," giving the word "Mormon" the meaning the world gives it. They are having better success in getting a hearing than we are. People are so awfully afraid of us; they think as the saying is that we "are neither fish nor fowl, nor good red herring." I was told that one of their elders said, Yes, he knew about our church, that all the difference was they had practiced polygamy and owned it, while we had practiced it and denied it. So the people think we are the worse "Mormons" of the two.

As you will all see by Bro. Goodrich's letter from here, the Apostolic church has had, and is still suffering from, a severe attack of Mormophobia. The first symptom I discovered was a chill; that only affected a few members of the body; then it went to the head (the pastor) and seemed to affect his brain as was evinced in his sermons; he began to preach things he had formerly denied, and to deny things he had formerly preached. Of course it was the delirium of fever, for no sane man would do such a thing, unless he was driven to it by fear. But it was the fever, no doubt, which was augmented on hearing that I read a letter from one of our sisters, in their ladies' meeting, recounting her blessed experiences and the healing instantaneously of a paralytic brother by the administration of the elders; also expressing an interest in the Apostolic church and trusting they might yet see the way of the Lord more clearly, and finally be gathered into the one true fold.

That was too much; when the pastor heard it his fever rose to its highest pitch and culminated in a strange act, viz., the writing me the letter letting me know I was not wanted there. But I soon discovered it was not confined to the pastor alone; a widow woman whom I dearly loved, and with whom I had had many pleasant talks, and whose prayers and testimonies were so good, and who, I believe, is just as honest and sincere as I am, was also taken with the fever; it is very contagious, especially among church members; seems to affect them worse than worldlings or infidels. In fact, the latter class are more nearly immune than any other.

When the fever took her it caused her to write me a note saying that I and my minister were not wanted, or words to that effect, to make the call she herself had arranged for. While attending the ladies' meetings I threw in a dime toward buying wood to heat the little room in which the meetings were held, but the dime has since been sent back to me. Not a single member of the Apostolic church—even those who formerly had attended our services—not one of them came.

I went to the ladies' meeting the night after I received Mr. D's letter, as a lady sent for me to go with her, and I said I believed it was right for me to go that one time. I told Bro. Goodrich I was sure Mr. D. would be there. Sure enough, he was there for the first time that he had ever been in their meetings for Bible study, at least when I was there. He did all the reading and all the commenting, not giving any one a chance to say anything concerning what was read. But as he was about to close I arose and said, "Bro. D., I would like to say a few words of your pleasure." "Well," "I have only come to bid these sisters good-by;" then turning to them I said, "I received a letter from your pastor informing me that I was not wanted in this church any more, neither in the ladies' meetings nor in the other meetings, therefore I have come to bid you good by. I felt that I ought to do this and to let you know that I had only a feeling of warmth, tenderness love for you all, that I had enjoyed worshipping with you, but of course I could not go where I was not wanted, nor where I could not use my influence for the truth's sake. When I first got the letter I went up stairs to my room and prayed and wept bitterly, but soon I was laughing and praising God that I was counted worthy to be turned out of the synagogue for Christ's sake. But in turning me out, it was not me alone they turned out, but the Christ that dwelt in me, for inasmuch as ye did unto the least of these my brethren, ye did it unto me, said Christ."

Then I bade them each one good-by, going to him first. He seemed quite affected and tears were in the eyes of some of the sisters who did not wait for me to go to them but came to me. But alas, the tears wouldn't stay in my eyes, my heart was too full. When I began speaking he dropped his head and never looked up till I had finished.

I have been told that they thought wrong of me for boarding Bro. Goodrich. "Why should they," said I, "I have to board other gentlemen, why don't they criticize me for that?" "Oh, they think he is a Mormon." Yes, just as the Scriptures said, they make a man, a perfectly innocent man, an offender for a word, and that word is "Mormon." "But I think," said my informant, "if I were you I would have him board somewhere else." "I will not do it," I replied, "I am only too glad to board one of Christ's servants. Should I see anything in him that would justify me in sending him away, I would neither go to hear him preach myself, nor invite others, and will not hurt his feelings by insinuating that I dare not board him. Furthermore any one that was capable of misjudging me for that, I did not want their society anyway. One thing I was sure of, there was no room in a pure heart for impure surmises."

Well, when the sons of God in Job's time met together, Satan came also, and it seems as if the same results follow now; although not visibly present, yet he enters into the hearts of even members of our households. My young lady boarder took the Mormophobia too, which in every instance seems to open the door to his Satanic majesty, and became angry because I entertained a few of the Saints, saying she would not stay where she had to associate with such trash, making fun of me to my children, etc., so I requested her to seek another boarding place as soon as possible, which she did. Thus evidences are multiplying that this is the work of the Lord.

I had been asking for more evidence, not that I doubted, but things were going so smoothly, and I had hard work to believe the Apostolic church was not of the Lord. Their meetings were so spiritual, and I had asked God to show me clearly how it was. I think I have been shown that it is indeed a wild vine and bears only bitter fruit, not the true fruit of the Spirit. So I thank God and take courage, and hope some few of the seeds of truth I have scattered may find lodgment in honest hearts. As ever.

Yours for the gospel's sake,
ALICE R. CONSON.

ZION'S ENSIGN.

Entered at the Post Office at Independence, Mo., as Second Class Matter.

IS BAPTISM IN WATER ESSENTIAL TO SALVATION?

BY GEORGE BUSCHLEN.

With the religious world of today this subject has been a bone of contention; as Latter Day Saints we believe we can as easily prove water baptism essential to salvation as any other principle of the gospel of Christ, and I promise to prove it so before I am through, assuming that all will accept God's word when quoted correctly, and private interpretations are left aside. Let God's word be true, though every man be a liar.

My text will be found in Matthew 21: 23-26:

And when he was come into the temple, the chief priests and the elders of the people came unto him as he was teaching, and said, By what authority doest thou these things? and who gave thee this authority? And Jesus answered and said unto them, I also will ask you one thing, which if ye will tell me, I in likewise will tell you by what authority I do these things. The baptism of John, whence was it? from heaven, or of men? And they reasoned with themselves, saying, If we shall say, From heaven; he will say unto us, Why did ye not then believe him? But if we shall say, Of men; we fear the people: for all hold John as a prophet.

We learn by this that they dare not answer the question, for if they did they were sure to be condemned, no matter which way they answered. The baptism of John, was it from heaven, or of men? We notice those religious teachers were opposers of the truth; though they made great pretensions of loving God, they were not willing to submit to John's teaching that water baptism is essential to salvation; they were like the class spoken of in Luke 7: 30:

"But the Pharisees and lawyers [doctors of the law] rejected the counsel of God against themselves, being not baptized of him [John]."

But the other class, called the common people, "justified God, being baptized with John's baptism." (Verse 29). Jesus had much trouble with some of the religious teachers of His day, for they generally were His bitterest enemies; and is there any change today? Do we not often find religious teachers of this, our day, opposing John's baptism? Not long ago I met an M. E. preacher, and while shoeing his horse he questioned me on how I came to unite with the Latter Day Saints. I said I had concluded to live a better life, and after hearing one sermon I was ready for baptism. He said, Why, John's baptism was not a christian baptism. Next he says (when I was earnestly contending for what I thought to be right), why, nine-tenths of the christian world are opposed to water baptism, and that is strong proof that it is not essential to salvation. And third, he reasons thus, Do you suppose, if a man was dying in a far off heathen land, and had no one there to baptize him, and no water there, do you tell me that God would not hear his prayer, and save him? Now, we might think at a glance that there was some weight in his arguments, but let us examine them. First, he says John's baptism was not a christian baptism. Let us see whether John's baptism was a christian baptism or not. In St. John 1: 6, it reads:

"There was a man sent from God, whose name was John."

Further on in verse 33: "And I knew him not, but he that sent me to baptize with water."

Again, in Mark 1: 4: "John did baptize in the wilderness, and preach the baptism of repentance for the remission of sins."

Did God not send John to baptize with water? Did Christ not send the twelve to baptize with water? Did God not give his Son Jesus a commandment what He should do? Did Jesus not go and request John to baptize him? Would God command any one to do something that was not christian? Would Christ practice anything that was not christian? Does God not prove to be the author of water baptism? Does John's baptism not prove to be a christian baptism? If not, what would you call a christian baptism? Would you call John's baptism a heathen baptism? Surely now, we are ready to be ashamed that we ever made such an argument. People who use such weak arguments to oppose truth, remind me of the class spoken of by the Master, in Matthew 23: 13, in which He brands them as His enemies, and says, "Woe unto you, * * hypocrites! for ye shut up the kingdom of heaven against men: for ye neither go in yourselves, neither suffer ye them that are entering to go in." How did Jesus say we get into the kingdom of God? Why, he says, "Except a man be born of water and of the Spirit, he cannot enter into the kingdom of God." (John 3: 5). They would not obey themselves, and the people who were about to obey they would annoy and persecute.

Jesus further says of them in Matthew 23: 15: "Woe unto you, scribes and Pharisees, hypocrites! for ye compass sea and land to make one proselyte, and when he is made, ye make him two fold more the child of hell than yourselves."

Do not some of the religious teachers of our day do just what Jesus said they did in His day? Do they not erect a penitent bench, a confession box, and go about different schemes to get the people to believe they are saved? And when they get the people up to the penitent bench, they make them believe they have the Holy Ghost; and when the gospel of Christ is then presented to their proselytes (or converts) they say, "Oh, we have the Holy Ghost," "we are saved," they have been deceived, and you cannot budge them. That is what Jesus meant when he said, "they make them two fold more the child of hell than themselves." And some of them are sincere about it; but Paul says, "because they received not the love of the truth, that they might be saved. And for this cause God shall send them strong delusion, that they should believe a lie." 2 Thes. 2: 10, 11. People who love God and love the truth, are not likely to be in darkness very long.

The second objection made by the M. E. preacher was that nine-tenths of the christian world being opposed to water baptism, is strong proof that it is not a saving ordinance. Wonderful logic. How will that fit in with the Master's statement, that strait is the gate, and narrow is the way, and few there be that find it? In John 3: 5, Jesus says, "Except a man be born of the water and of the Spirit he cannot enter into the kingdom of God." Comment seems unnecessary to that, for if there was not another quotation in the Bible, that is so definite and plain that it proves beyond a doubt that it is essential to salvation. Allow me right here, to compare the doctrines of three religious denominations of our day on this very quotation of the Master's. The Methodist sect declare that water baptism has no place in the plan of salvation; they hinge their hopes on "nothing but the blood of Jesus." The Disciples, or Christian church, declare that the baptism of the Spirit has no place today; they do not believe in the baptism of the Spirit. The third sect, called Latter Day Saints, contend for both the baptism of the water, and baptism of the Spirit? Which do you like best? Why not take the Master's decision, that "Except a man be born of the water and of the Spirit." If language means anything, we have no promise of salvation in the kingdom of God without obeying this command. You see the Methodist's believe in the birth of the Spirit, but reject the birth of the water. The Disciples believe in the birth of the water, but reject the birth of the Spirit. We believe in both the birth of the water and the birth of the Spirit.

In Mark 16: 16, the Master again speaks positively on this question. Hear Him:

"He that believeth and is baptized shall be saved; but he that believeth not shall be damned."

Not being very well posted on grammar myself, and for my own information, I went to our high school teacher two years ago, and asked him to analyze that sentence for me, and give me the full meaning in the affirmative and negative, and here is his own analysis. He repeated it, and studied a moment, then says, "He that believeth and is baptized shall be saved, that is the affirmative; the negative is, he that believeth not, and is not baptized, shall not be saved." I then asked him, did he believe in Jesus Christ? He said, "No." I asked, "Do you believe the Bible?" He answered, "Well, there is a lot of lovely reading in it, and a lot of truth in it." Now, his analysis is more apt to be a correct one than if he was a prejudiced religionist, for it was no difference to him to try to make it of great force; and does that statement not have great force?

Again in Matthew 28: 19, 20, as the Master is about to leave this world, and the salvation of the race is His heart's desire, and as He is about to leave the work in the hands of His officers—the twelve and seventy—we may be sure that His last few hours with His servants would be spent in giving them the most important commands to see that the work would be carried on. And in His commission to them He says:

"Go ye therefore, and teach all nations, baptizing them in the name of the Father, and of the Son, and of the Holy Ghost: teaching them to observe all things whatsoever I have commanded you: and, lo, I am with you alway, even unto the end of the world."

Here He makes especial mention of baptism while telling them to teach all things. It was, no doubt, because he foresaw that as many in His own day were rejecting John's baptism, that also in the future many would come in His name saying that "I am Christ" (that is, saying that Jesus is the Christ), and deceive many. How? Why, by telling the people that John's baptism was not a christian baptism, and that it is not essential to salvation. He warns us to take heed lest any man deceive you.

Now, what makes any man's teaching effective? Is it not because he practices what he preaches? So it was with the Master, He was baptized himself; the account is written in Matthew 3: 13-15. Jesus came to John asking for baptism; John says, "I have need to be baptized of thee, and comest thou to me? and Jesus answering said unto him, Suffer it to be so now: for thus it becometh us to fulfill all righteousness." Ah, yes, it was even necessary for the Master to obey His Father's command, even though He had no sins of His own; but had He refused to obey, He would have been a sinner, for sin is the transgression of the law; or disobedience to God's commands in any thing is sin.

There is another character to which I wish to draw your attention, to show the necessity of obeying this command. In Acts 10th chapter we find, Cornelius, a just man, and a good man, a devout man, one that loved God, gave alms to the poor, prayed to God always; God heard his prayers and sent an angel to him, because he stood high in God's favor, and with all these lovely traits, and all his goodness, he had yet something to do. To cut the story short, the angel told Cornelius to send men to Joppa, for one Simon Peter; the men went as told, and while at the gate, Peter was on the house top praying, and saw a vision; God sent this vision to teach him that salvation was for all people. Well, he invited the men in, they told their story, that Cornelius wanted to hear words from him; and when both Peter, the men, and some saints had gathered at Cornelius' house, where a number of friends were waiting to hear Peter preach, and after Cornelius told his story, how that an angel appeared to him, telling him to send for

Peter, who shall speak unto thee; Cornelius says, "Now therefore are we all present before God, to hear all things that are commanded thee of God." Peter then began to preach about Jesus, His life, His baptism, His death and resurrection, and men: the close of his sermon the power of the Holy Spirit was in their midst, inasmuch, that the gentiles broke out in the gift of tongues and prophecy; this was evidently to convince Peter and the rest of the people of God that salvation was for both Jews and gentiles, for Peter began his discourse by saying:

"Of a truth I perceive that God is no respecter of persons: but in every nation, he that feareth him, and worketh righteousness, is accepted with him."

And when Peter saw that on the gentiles also was poured out the Holy Spirit, he says:

"Can any man forbid water, that these should not be baptized, which have received the Holy Ghost as well as we? And he commanded them to be baptized in the name of the Lord."

Here are the words that the angel said that Peter would tell Cornelius; hear him again, "Can any man forbid water?" Peter knew that the baptism of the Spirit always came after the birth of the water, but this was an exception to the general rule, and the only one on record; the object was to show that salvation was for all people. You remember that Jesus at one time said to His apostles, in Matthew 10: 5, not to preach the gospel in any of the cities of the Samaritans, and not to preach to the gentiles; this was before His resurrection; but after His resurrection, He sent them into all the world. But it seems that Peter did not fully consider that the gentiles were to be taught, and this was God's reason for giving the Holy Spirit before the birth of the water.

Now, I fancy if some of our christian people today, stood as high in God's favor as did Cornelius, they would think they were saved without water baptism; but Cornelius, like all other good men, must yield to the commands of God; no matter how good we are, no matter how many good traits we have, if we refuse to go through the waters of regeneration, we have no promise of salvation, for God has no pets, He has no favorites; the principle of justice with God, will make all the world admire Him when we know Him, that we all must learn to obey Him; neither Jesus, Cornelius, nor any one else, could merit God's favor, only by strict obedience to the gospel.

Another case of this kind, and to my mind, one of the greatest men of his age, was Paul; hear his testimony of his conversion, in Acts 22: 6-16; he says he was on his way from Jerusalem to Damascus, to arrest the saints, and while on his way, the Lord appeared to him, and Paul fell to the earth; the Lord says, Saul, why do you persecute me? (You see he was persecuting Jesus when he was fighting against the saints.) His story goes, Who art thou? The answer was, I am Jesus. Paul says, "Lord what wilt thou have me to do." The Lord told him to go into the city, "and there it shall be told thee of all things which are appointed for thee to do." Paul went to the city, and while there, a servant of God, named Ananias, was warned of God in a dream, to go to where Paul was in a certain house, and he told Paul that the Lord Jesus had sent him, and then said, "And now, why tarriest thou? arise, and be baptized, and wash away thy sins, calling on the name of the Lord."

Now, is it not strikingly strange that in all those quotations that I have examined, that either God or Jesus has been the author of all the commands, either directly or indirectly? And yet, some would have us believe that John's baptism was not a christian baptism (virtually saying that John's baptism was not from heaven).

Again, when the great day of Pentecost was fully come, and devout men from all nations were gathered, and after hearing Peter preach, they saw that they had overlooked the coming of Christ and were heart sorry, they said to Peter, "What shall we do?" Peter answered, "Repent and be baptized every one of you, in the name of Jesus Christ, for the remission of sins, and ye shall receive the gift of the Holy Ghost, * * * and they that gladly received the word, were baptized * * * and the Lord added daily to the church, such as should be saved." It meant salvation to belong to the church; it meant salvation to be baptized; it was essential to their salvation, and God does not change his plans. Paul told the Galatians that "as many of you as have been baptized into Christ, have put on Christ." Therefore, if we desire to put on Christ, we must be baptized into Christ.

John says there are three that bear record in heaven, the Father, the Word, and the Holy Ghost; and these three are one. And there are three that bear witness in earth, the Spirit, and the water, and the blood; and these three agree in one. By the water we keep the commandment, by the Spirit we are justified, and by the blood we are sanctified; who, then, has the right to say that water baptism is not essential to salvation? Who, then, has the right to say that the birth of the Spirit is not essential to salvation? Who, then, has the right to say that the blood (atonement) of Christ is not essential to salvation? What God has joined together let no man put asunder. We cannot separate any one of those three, no more than we can separate any one of the three in heaven. All three in heaven work together to bring salvation; and all three, the Spirit, water, and blood, work together on earth for our salvation, and those who hinge their salvation on the blood of Christ alone, will find that heaven and earth may pass away, but God's words will never pass away; that those words of the Master to the learned Jew, "Except a man be born of water, and of the Spirit, he cannot enter the kingdom of God," will ring until time is no longer.

Surely after hearing all this, you are ready to believe that John's baptism was a christian baptism, and that it had its origin from heaven, and that it is essential to our salvation. Have I not given a number of witnesses? What excuse have we? We need not, after reading what we quote, ask the eminent divines of the day. A man may put a long tail to his name, [Rev. Dr. F. A. P. Jones, E. A., etc., and may study the Bible all his life, but Jesus says, "I thank thee Father, that thou hast hid these things, from the wise and prudent, and revealed them unto babes, even so Father for so it seemeth good in thy sight;" Paul says, "The natural man understandeth not the things of the Spirit of God, they are foolishness unto him, neither can he know them, for they are spiritually discerned;" and thus we see that the babes who have been born into the kingdom of God, though unlearned, and not able to read very much, can understand God's word, and silence the wise and prudent of the world.

Now, having shown baptism is essential to salvation, there are other thoughts touching this question; the object of it is plainly set forth in Acts 2: 38, namely, for the remission of sins, "Repent and be baptized every one of you, for the remission of sins." In Mark 1: 4, "John did baptize in the wilderness, and preach the baptism of repentance for the remission of sins." In Acts 22: 16, "Arise, and be baptized, and wash away thy sins;" three witnesses who testify that baptism is for the remission of sins. And yet in the face of all this, some people tell us it is only an "outward sign of an inward grace."

Another forcible argument may be used to add to this chain of evidence, that has its place on this question, the account of the eunuch's baptism, as found in Acts 8: 38. We find that the eunuch had been returning from Jerusalem, after worshipping God, and was riding along in his chariot, reading in the Scriptures; that Philip was impressed by the Spirit to go and ask for a ride, and as they went along Philip asked the eunuch did he understand what he was reading? The eunuch says, "How can I expect some one to teach me? At this, Philip explained the Scriptures to him, and in his sermon he spoke of Christ's teaching about baptism. Oh, but you say, where does it say he spoke of baptism? Why, the very fact that the first river they came to, the eunuch requested baptism, shows that that was the chief subject that was discussed, for here is the eunuch's request; "See, here is water; what doeth hinder me to be baptized?" Philip says, "If thou believest with all thy heart thou mayest. He answers, I believe that Jesus Christ is the Son of God. He did not stop to reason that his belief in Christ would save him, but he ordered the driver to stop the chariot, and they went down into the water, and Philip baptized him. Strong proof that Philip spoke to him of the necessity of water baptism.

Another telling story in favor of this question is found in Acts 16: 31-34, where Paul and Silas, while under arrest for preaching, and in the cells, were singing praises to God, there was a great earthquake that shook the prison walls; it seemed to send terror to the heart of the turnkey, and he ran to the cells, being afraid the prisoners had escaped, and was about to take his own life, but Paul said, "Do thyself no harm, we are all here," and when he understood the matter he asked, "What must I do to be saved?" Paul says, "Believe on the Lord Jesus Christ, and thou shalt be saved." Now, this short answer has a broad meaning, for it means to believe the teaching of Jesus Christ, as well as to believe Him to be the Son of God; but this answer is often used as an argument in favor of the idea that there is no necessity of water baptism, but to my mind it is strong proof in favor of it, for if we notice in the very next breath Paul says he spoke unto him the word of the Lord, * * * and he took them the same hour of the night, and was baptized, he and all his." Strong proof that Paul talked of the necessity of water baptism. So to believe on the Lord Jesus Christ, means to believe his doctrine and obey Him.

Another argument is often used by those that hang their hopes on belief alone is found in John 3: 36, "He that believeth on the Son, hath everlasting life;" in connection with this they use 1 epistle of John, 5th chapter and 12th verse, "He that hath the Son hath life, and he that hath not the Son hath not life." Now those might seem weighty points in favor of faith alone, but when we come to test the full meaning of those passages, they are also strong proof for our position. Let us turn to the 2d epistle of John 9: 10:

"Whosoever transgresseth, and abideth not in the doctrine of Christ, hath not God." "He that abideth in the doctrine of Christ, he hath both the Father and the Son." If there come any unto you and bring not this doctrine, receive him not into your house, neither bid him God speed."

In order then for us to have everlasting life, we must abide in the doctrine of Christ, that is, we must believe in the doctrine of Christ, and prove that we believe in His doctrine, by obeying His doctrine. Now, I promised to answer the third objection, that my friend, the M. E. preacher, raised as good logic that baptism was not a saving ordinance. At first one might think there was good reason in his argument about the heathen's salvation; but let me use a little logic before entering upon scripture, to prove my position. If God would save the heathens because they are ignorant, and expect you and me to live a godly life, and endure trials, suffering, persecution, sacrificing everything in this life for the Master, and the heathen is saved in his ignorance, where is the justice of God to be displayed? On the other hand, if the heathen is doomed to hell, because he was so unfortunate as to live in an isolated part of the world, not having the opportunities of obeying God, and because I was born under favorable circumstances, and had everything around me to help me on to glory, where would the justice of God be in giving me salvation, and the poor heathen a place of outer darkness, with no chance for him to develop and get into favor with God? So I don't care which position one takes, if God saves the heathen because of his ignorance, or consigns him to hell for eternity, and no chance to come out, either position would be injustice. Well, my M. E. preacher must take the one position or the other, or down goes his theory. Now, is it not better to believe that God has no pets, that "Except a man be born of water, and of the Spirit, he cannot enter the kingdom?" Is it not better to believe with Latter Day Saints, that the heathen who die in ignorance will have a chance to develop and grow, and hear the Master's voice and follow Him? "Oh," but says one, "that is Catholic doctrine, to say there is a chance after death." Well, I don't know whether it is Catholic doctrine or not, but one thing I do know, that Peter preached a sermon on probation after death. Let us see, in 1 Peter 3: 18, 19:

"For Christ also hath once suffered for sins, the just for the unjust, that he might bring us to God, being put to death in the flesh, but quickened by the Spirit; By which also he went and preached unto the spirits in prison."

Notice the thought, preached unto the spirits in prison. The next chapter, 6th verse, tells us why he went and preached to them.

"For for this cause was the gospel preached also to them that are dead, that they might be judged according to men in the flesh, and live according to God in the Spirit."

I remember once on our streets I saw a crowd gathered, and I went to hear what was said; there was a preacher there answering some questions about the heathen, and I ventured my question as follows, "What do you think becomes of the heathen?" He says, "They go to hell." I asked "Is there no chance for them?" he answered, "No." He was a missionary to send to China. I advised him to stay at home, for if he told them that, they would despise God and religion. I told him Peter says the gospel was preached to them that are dead. "Ah," but he says, "yes, to them that are dead in trespasses and sins." "But," I asked, "Did Peter say that?" "No." "Peter says, 'For for this cause was the gospel preached to them that are dead, that they might be judged according to men in the flesh; you see they were not in the flesh.'" That silenced him.

So we see then that Christ went and preached to them, preached the gospel to them, and Isaiah says that Christ was to proclaim liberty to the captives and open the prison to them (Isa. 61: 1); he also says in chapter 42: 7; He will bring out the prisoners from the prison; he also says in chapter 24: 22 that the prisoners are gathered together in the pit and after many days they shall be visited; Zechariah 9: 11 tells us that He will send forth the prisoners out of the pit, wherein is no water, and in the next verse calls them "prisoners of hope." Is this not in perfect harmony with Christ's own teaching in John 12: 32, "And I, if I be lifted up from the earth, will draw all men unto me." Let me ask are all men drawn unto Christ in this life? We are informed that since the days of Adam over one hundred and forty-three billions of earth's creatures have lived and died, and that less than two billions have ever embraced christianity in any form. Now, how could Christ draw all men unto him if they never have a chance in this life and no chance in the spirit world? Is it not better to believe the statement made by Paul that every knee shall bow and every tongue shall confess that Christ is Lord, to the glory of God the Father? Is it not better to believe that Christ is no respecter of persons? Is it not better to believe that Christ will reign till He puts all enemies down? Is it not better to believe that Christ will feel after the heathen and draw them unto Him?

Is it not better to believe that the heathen will have part in the first resurrection and will be under the training of the servants of Jesus Christ when they come to reign a thousand years? Read Revelation 20th chapter and you will see that Christ is to reign a thousand years and at the end of the thousand years Satan will be let loose, and then he may try the heathen nations who have never had their agency tried in this life? Is it not better to believe that idea than that God takes the heathen to heaven because they are ignorant? or the other idea that God consigns them to an endless hell? Such creeds only misrepresent God and make infidels; let us have confidence in the word of God that Christ will yet have all men hear and give every man an equal chance to hear and obey.

I once asked a Disciple when we were coming from a funeral of a good woman who believed in baptism but neglected to obey, "You folks believe water baptism is essential to salvation?" He says, "Yes." "Well, do you think that woman is saved?" He did not like to answer at first, but he felt sure she was saved. "Well," I says, "Jesus says, 'Except a man be born born of the water, and of the Spirit, he cannot enter.' Is it not better to believe in probation after death?" "Oh, but," he answered, "that is a dangerous doctrine." "But," I says, "if it is dangerous doctrine, Peter preached the sermon; now where is it a dangerous doctrine? Will a man break his arm simply because he may get it healed? Would he not have to suffer pain and wait till it heals? and does it not always show the effects? Is it not as reasonable to say that because a person hears the gospel in this life and neglects to obey it that they will have to suffer for their disobedience? He that knows his Master's will, and does it not, will be beaten with many stripes."

Now have we not proved that the mission of Christ will reach the heathen after death? Have I not proved that, my friend, the M. E. preachers' logic will not stand the test, and when weighed in the balance is found wanting? Now is the day of salvation. God will take into consideration our opportunities for hearing and obeying; we will all have to stand before God at the great day of Judgment, and it is better to make our peace with God while we have time and opportunity. Let us be willing to go through the waters of baptism, for it had its origin from heaven.

But have we not good reasons for believing that water baptism is essential? Have we not good reasons for believing that there is probation after death? Did not Paul say in 1 Corinthians 15: 29, "Else what shall they do, which are baptized for the dead, if the dead rise not at all? Why are they then baptized for the dead?" We see Paul understood probation after death; he seems to say here that in his time that some of the living were baptized for the dead. Now have we not given good reasons for drawing our conclusions about water baptism being essential to salvation, and that the heathen will yet hear and have a chance of developing a character that will fit them for the presence of Christ? Is it not better to accept these truths than to impatiently turn away in a rage, as did the leper when he came and asked the prophet Elijah what he was to do to be cleansed of his leprosy; Elijah instructed him to go and dip seven times in the Jordan, and when he found that there was no use getting mad he then went and did as he was told and he was healed, and is that not a fitting illustration of water baptism? The dipping seven times no doubt looked foolish, but by his act of obedience to this simple command he was healed. So it is with water baptism; many turn away in a rage and hoot at the idea of water having anything to do with washing away our sins. But those who like to resort to that kind of reasoning have their agency; it is they who have the leprosy (sins), and if they are willing to remain in that condition, why, they are the ones who will suffer.

Now, no one will be foolish enough to say that it was the water that healed that man; I think we can all agree that it was his act of obedience. And when we repent and are baptized we have the promise of our sins being cancelled and then comes the sweet influence of God's Spirit, bearing witness with our spirit that we have been born of the Spirit, and then we have access to the blood of Christ; and then if we do sin we have an advocate with the Father, Jesus Christ the righteous. Then the blood of Jesus Christ will cleanse us from all sin if we walk in the light.

Those who build so much on faith alone are often found quoting this as being in support of the theory that "nothing but the blood of Jesus" is good and wholesome doctrine; but John says, "If we walk in the light, as he is in the light, we have fellowship one with another, and the blood of Jesus Christ cleanseth us from all sin." You see the condition is that if we walk in the light the blood of Christ cleanseth us--us that walk in the light, us that keep the commands of God; not the world in their sinful, wicked, disobedient condition. The "us" referred to are those who go through the waters of baptism and receive the Holy Spirit; then the blood, the water and the Spirit all agree in one, as the Father, the Word and the Holy Ghost agree in one.

Now I will sum up my witnesses and place their names on one side and leave a blank side for those who will say that John's baptism was not a christian baptism and that it is not essential to salvation.

"Choose ye this day whom ye will serve."

ESSENTIAL TO SALVATION. WITNESSES.	?	NOT ESSENTIAL TO SALVATION. WITNESSES.
God. Christ. John the Baptist. Paul. Ananias. Peter. The rest of the twelve apostles.

The following clipped from the Sac County Democrat, Sac City, Iowa, November 30th, will be interesting to our readers. We are confident Bishop Hunt is well qualified to take care of his side of the question, and if the good people of Sac City will attend these debates they will have a better understanding, and consequently, a better opinion of the cause our brother is representing, than they would otherwise possess. May the truth be made manifest in their eyes.

LATTER DAY SAINTS' MEETING. Sac City is to be treated to a religious discussion, to be held in the Robbins-Stearns hall, beginning Tuesday evening, December 4th, and will continue for fourteen evenings. Elder C. J. Hunt, of Deloit, Iowa, is to affirm the faith of the Reorganized Church of Latter Day Saints, including the prophetic mission of Joseph Smith, and the divine authority of the Book of Mormon. Elder W. L. Crowe is to affirm the faith of the Church of God on stated doctrines. All are invited to attend these meetings.

UNTIL January 1, 1901, we will send one copy each of "Palmyra to Independence" (price $1.00), "Autobiography of Elder Joseph Luff" (price 75c), and "The Book of Mormon Vindicated" (price 60c), for $2.00. These books are all neatly bound in cloth, and any one of them would make a very nice Christmas present. Send your order at ONCE in order to receive them in time. Address Ensign Publishing House, Independence, Mo.

ANYONE in a position to use church literature to good advantage apply to M. H. Clark, Box 4, Station A, Kansas City, Missouri. We have a large supply on hand and at our disposal, and trust you will make your wants known.

Daughters of Zion.

"OUR AIM, MANKIND TO BLESS."

MRS. H. B. CURTIS, Editor.

The Daughters of Zion is an organization in the church, of mothers and others who are interested in the welfare of our homes. Under the supervision of the general society, local societies are established, where they may meet to consider together their work as home keepers, and as mothers of character. Their purpose is to increase love for the home, to promote social purity, to study the problem of child care and development, that thus they may better prepare themselves for their responsibility as wives and mothers, and that from the home may go the influence that shall fulfill their aim, which is "mankind to bless." Have you a local in your branch? If not, can you not organize one? Send to the corresponding secretary for constitutions. The Advisory Committee will be pleased to hear from you, and will gladly furnish you any assistance in their power. Send your list of names of members to the recording secretary.

ADVISORY COMMITTEE.

- Mrs. Mary E. Hulmes, President, Independence, Missouri.
- Mrs. H. H. Robinson, Corresponding Secretary, Box 146, Lee's Summit, Mo.
- Mrs. B. C. Smith, Independence, Missouri.
- Mrs. Luella Etzenhouser, 2417 Prospect St., Kansas City, Missouri.
- Mrs. Clara Frick, Independence, Missouri.
- Mrs. Calle B. Stebbins, Recording Secretary, Lamm, Iowa.
- Mrs. Anna Murphy, Treasurer, Independence, Missouri.

Editor's address, 3133 Olive St., St. Louis, Missouri.

THIS week the ENSIGN carries our Christmas cheer to all the sons and daughters of Zion who read its columns. May the peace, joy, reverence and unselfish impulses of the gladsome Yuletide remain with us the coming year, to brighten our hearth-stones and make our homes more godlike; for they are the children of that great King, who, at this time, was born in Bethlehem of Judea. A Happy Christmas to all.

OUR GIFTS.

We desire to present some thoughts regarding the Christmas-tide, not only to our young men and maidens, but to all concerned.

How many, for days, or perhaps weeks past, have had a prepared list of names of those whom they wish to remember with Christmas presents? How anxious we are regarding this preparation. We hear the remarks, "I wonder what I can get that will be suitable as a nice present for such a one," or "she remembered me last year, I should have her on my list this year," and similar remarks. Some are remembered for past kindness, and many from the motive of a loving desire to give joy to others, so we enter into the preparing or purchasing of our gifts.

Those who wish to give some article of their own handiwork are busy at times, for weeks perhaps, at some expensive present. Another weary toiler, not so blessed with this world's goods, will, after her hard work is done, spend hours over less costly presents, but such as may go where more appreciated. Others we find among the throng in our stores busily selecting their presents, some with well filled purses, others with perhaps what they have saved out of their hard earned money; and even this may be needed for many other things at the homes.

After the arduous work of shopping is over, we see a weary throng treading the homeward course, but with the satisfaction of having obtained that which will cause the hearts of others to rejoice at Christmas time.

Just here we wish to call to mind the great purpose of the Christmas anniversary, which is to commemorate the glorious gift of God to man. While we are remembering our friends with presents at this happy time, shall we not remember our great Friend, and follow the example of the wise men of the east who brought their gifts to the babe of Bethlehem? Have we headed our list of presents with the name of our Savior?

Has the thought come to your mind, that aside from the regular help to the church during the year, an extra gift should be given into the hands of the proper ones who receive the moneys for the Lord's work, as well as gifts to our friends at this time? What a great help this extra effort would be. Who can estimate the amount of good that could be accomplished by such giving? May this thought be well considered, is the hope of your sister, MRS. M. E. HULMES.

Yes, dear girls, the air is laden with its subtle, penetrating gladness; its influence is permeating every home, every avenue of life. Is it not a blessed foretaste of the time of which the angels sang, when peace shall descend upon earth like an enveloping mantle, and good-will shall be distilled as the silent dew? Surely no other season of the year, no other period of time known to us, so melts the heart, so breaks up the great, sealed fountains of love, as the blessed Christmas time.

And why? It is not because we contemplate with greater or more loving reverence the gift of God's dear Son. It is true, our thoughts turn often to Him in these gladsome days. We speak and sing of the heavenly babe, we bring our offerings to Him, rejoice in the light of the star, and join in the angel chorus; but is it not because our thoughts are all unconsciously drawn from self and placed upon others? Because they dwell upon the happiness we intend to bestow, not upon what we expect to receive? In this frame of mind we are more like Him and hence our souls respond more fully to the joy which is all around us, as well as to every claim upon our sympathies.

Even yet, you are planning your gifts, turning the light upon every crevice and corner of your, perhaps scantily filled, pocketbooks, counting every dime, yes, every penny, and wishing, oh, so much, that you could multiply the contents by ten, yes, even fifty. They would then be no larger than your generous wishes. I have been there, girls, and know all about it. But let me whisper in your ear, That is not the right way to look at it. It is not the present itself, but the love for which it stands, that gives it value in the

"INCURABLE" HEART DISEASE SOON CURED.

FRANKLIN MILES, M. D., LL. B., WILL SEND $2.50 WORTH OF HIS SPECIALLY PRESCRIBED TREATMENT FREE TO AFFLICTED READERS.

To demonstrate the unusual curative power of his new individual treatment for diseases of the heart, the nerves, stomach, or dropsy, Dr. Miles will send, free, to any afflicted person, $2.50 worth of his new treatment.

It is the result of twenty-four years of careful study, extensive research, and remarkable experience in treating thousands of heart, stomach and nervous diseases, which so often complicate each case. So certain are the results of his New Individual Treatment that he does not hesitate to give all the credit to his special medicine.

Few physicians have such confidence in their skill. Few physicians so thoroughly deserve the confidence of their patients, as no false inducements are ever held out. The Doctor's private practice is so extensive as to require the aid of twenty assistants. His offices are always open to visitors.

Col. N. G. Parker, Ex-Treasurer of South Carolina, says: "I believe Dr. Miles to be an attentive and skillful physician in a field which requires the best quality of men and heart." The late Prof. J. S. Jewell, M. D., editor of the Journal of Nervous and Mental Diseases, of Chicago, wrote, "By all means publish your surprising results."

Hundreds of "Incurable Cases" cured. Mrs. Frank Smith of Chicago, was cured of heart dropsy after five leading physicians had given her up. Hon. C. M. Buck, banker, Fairbault, Minnesota, writes: "I had broken completely down. My head, heart, stomach and nerves had troubled me greatly for years. I was cured. I would never recover, but Dr. Miles' Individual Treatment cured me after six well known physicians of Chicago and elsewhere had completely failed." Mrs. P. Countryman, of Pontiac, Illinois, says: "Several years ago when I sent to Dr. Miles for Individual Treatment, three physicians said I could not live two weeks. I could not walk six feet then; now I can do all my work." A thousand references to, and testimonials from Bishops, Clergymen, Bankers, Farmers, and their physicians will be sent on request. These include many who have been cured after from five to fifteen physicians had pronounced them incurable.

Address Dr. Franklin Miles, 201 to 206 State street, Chicago, for free treatment.

eyes of every right thinking person.

If your pocketbook and mine are light, believe me our friends know it, and a present from us unsuited to or beyond our means, will not give the same amount of pleasure as one more wisely selected, and consequently less expensive, would have given. Even, dear girls, if your purse is heavy, and you can afford to give expensive presents, don't add to the many who, by doing this, are fast destroying all the sweetest charm of the blessed Christmas time. If it ever becomes a season in which the poor cannot participate, even the rich will find its blessedness dimmed for them.

But I have a word for you girls, a special object in writing just at this time and on this subject. I wanted to say that whether your purse is light or heavy, whether your plans include many friends or few, let your hearts turn first and ever to mother. You have all these years been the chief object of her loving care. For you she has planned and sacrificed in nameless ways. Youth and freshness have vanished from her cheeks and brow, while her shoulders have been bent to the burdens of life and her feet have been swift and untrailing in your service. Open wide then the door of your heart, and give her, ungrudgingly, the best of your Christmas cheer.

Just this morning I was reading a beautiful poem by Mrs.

Ellen Gates; she tells that often when hurrying from room to room, about her household duties, she has lifted her eyes before the portrait of her mother hanging on the wall. She fancies her mother's voice is calling to her and exclaims: All earthly sounds shall be to me as silence, If you will speak, O mother, mother dear!

No answer comes, but still the steadfastly gazing eyes seem appealing to her soul. She is awed by the thought of the wisdom which death has conferred upon her mother: For she is wise with wisdom that appeals to the solemn secrets of the grave she knows; And high o'er me, by God's own hand uplifted, Through wondrous ways of His own heaven she goes.

Then comes the wondering thought of how that mother looks mingling among the Saints wearing star-gemmed crowns. No more change or grief, and nothing to disturb. At last the human heart—the heart of the daughter bereaved, cries out: So far! so far! once if I faintly called you, Or laughed or wept, you were so quick to know, All else might fail, my mother's love was certain; Now dying, e'en your touch I must forego.

And so, girls, those of you who still have your mothers with you, I say to you, make bright the Christmas time for them. Bring your wreaths of holly to gladden their lives while you yet have them, and death claims them not. Others, yes, many others, may have claims upon you, but forget not that her's outweighs them all.

CORA.

A Familiar Calendar.

The 1901 edition of the Columbia desk calendar is being distributed by the American Bicycle Co., Columbia Sales Department, Hartford, Connecticut. It will be sent to any address upon receipt of five 2-cent stamps. This unique and useful compilation has been issued annually for the last sixteen years and it has come to be regarded as an indispensable article in many business offices and homes.

Some Good Reading.

"The More Excellent Way," by Elder T. C. Kelley, 10 cents each.
 "Three Bibles Compared," by Elder R. Etzenhouser, 25 cents each.
 "Book of Mormon Vindicated," by Elder I. M. Smith, 30 cents each.
 Splendid Sermon Tracts, your own selection from our published list, 25 cents per doz.

"Faulty Creeds," by Elder R. C. Evans, 20 cents each.
 "Apostasy of the Church," by Elder J. W. Wight, 10 cents.

There are a number of others, see price list in another column, or send for catalogue—free. We shall be glad to receive your orders. Don't delay them.

ENSIGN PUBLISHING HOUSE, Independence, Mo.

NOTICE.

To all who expect to buy or move to Independence with a view of residing here permanently—I am prepared to furnish you with all the information needed in regard to real estate, if you will enclose stamp for reply. Now is a very good time to buy; values are at a very low ebb, and the Saints may as well take advantage of it.

Your brother, W. S. LOAR.

A MAN WANTED in every county in the United States, to post up bills, distribute circulars, samples, catalogues, etc. Big pay and life time job. Send stamp to Geo. H. Brush, Box 33, Mt. Pleasant, Lake county, Tennessee.

CURES RHEUMATISM OR "CA" ARR IN A DAY.

TREATMENT FREE.

B. B. B. (Botanic Blood Balm) cures the worst and most stubborn cases by draining the poison out of the blood and bones, and building up the broken down constitution. Aches and pains in the bones or joints, swollen glands, droppings in the throat, hawking, spitting or bad breath, etc., all disappear promptly and permanently. B. B. B. cures where all else fails. B. B. B. makes the blood pure and rich. Druggists $1. Treatment of B. B. B. sent absolutely free by writing to Blood Balm Company, 86 Mitchell street, Atlanta, Ga. Describe trouble and free medical advice given until cured. Medicine sent prepaid. B. B. B. puts new color in your skin, and makes the blood redder and more nourishing. Try this grand cure and get rid of those pains and aches.

Eyes Tested Free!

FUCHS
 The Scientific Jewelers & Opticians.

DEALERS IN
 Diamonds, Watches, Clocks, Silverware and Fancy Goods. Sewing Machines and all supplies. Fine Watch and Jewelry Repairing a Specialty. CHRISTMAS NOVELTIES. South Side Square, Independence, Mo.

$495.

Will buy 4 acres with four room cottage, barn, well, etc., in west Lamoni. Only a small payment required to secure this home, and it is a bargain for some one. Apply to Lock Box 7, Lamoni, Iowa.

GRAGELAND COLLEGE, LAMONI, IOWA.

Send for Catalogue, to I. W. ALLENBER, Secretary, Lamoni, Iowa.

EUGENE FIELD'S POEMS A $7.00 BOOK

THE Book of the century. Hand-somely illustrated, and by thirty-two of the World's Greatest Artists. Editions of the world's greatest artists; this book could not have been manufactured for less than $7.00.

The fund created is divided equally between the family of the late Eugene Field and the fund for the building of a monument to the memory of the beloved poet of childhood.
 Eugene Field Monument Souvenir Fund, 103 Monroe St., CHICAGO. (Also at Book Stores.)
 If you also wish to send postage, enclose 10c.
 Mention the ENSIGN, as Adv. is inserted as our Contribution.

Books and Pamphlets

PRICE LIST

- "FROM PALMYRA TO INDEPENDENCE," by Elder R. Etzenhouser, 44 pages; Cloth binding, $1.00; Paper binding, 50c.
 - "AUTOBIOGRAPHY OF ELDER JOSEPH LUFF," 377 pages; cloth bound; 3 illustrations, Reduced from $1.00 to, 75c.
 - "THREE BIBLES COMPARED," by Elder R. Etzenhouser; paper binding, 5 for $1.00; each, 20c.
 - "THE BOOK OF MORMON VINDICATED," by Elder I. M. Smith; 112 pages; Paper cover, 4 for $1.00; each, 25c.
 - "SPIRITUAL GIFTS AND THE SPIRIT OF PALMYRA," by Elder M. H. Bond, of the Seventy; 58 pages, paper bound, with fine engraving of the author, 25c.
 - "FAMILY CREEDS," by Elder R. C. Evans; 8 for $1.00; each, 12c.
 - "THE BOOKS AND UTAR MORMONISM IN CONTRAST," by Elder R. Etzenhouser; paper cover; 20 for $1.00, 3 for 25c; each, 10c.
 - "THE CREDS' LADY BALE," by Elder R. Etzenhouser; paper cover; 3 for 25c; each, 10c.
 - "THE RESURRECTION OF THE WICKED," by Elder W. J. Smith; 39 pages, paper cover, 3 for 25c; each, 10c.
 - "WHO WAS JOSEPH SMITH? WAS HE A FALSE PROPHET?" by Elder J. W. Peterson of the Quorum of Seventy; 39 pages; paper cover; engraving of author; 3 for 25c; each, 10c.
 - "THE BOOK OF MORMON AND ITS TRANSLATOR," by Elder R. Etzenhouser; 27 pages, paper cover; 3 for 25c; each, 10c.
 - "THE LEGAL SUCCESSOR," by Apostle J. W. Wight; 90c per doz.; 3 for 25c; each, 10c.
 - "APOSTASY OF THE CHURCH," by Apostle J. W. Wight; 40 pages, paper cover; 3 for 25c; each, 10c.
 - "THE MORE EXCELLENT WAY," by Elder T. C. Kelley; 68 pages; paper cover; each, 10c.
 - "THE JOSEPH SMITH INTERVIEW," Elder Joseph Luff's answer to Elder R. J. Farber; by E. L. Kelley; 100 pages; 90c per doz.; 15c for 10c; 2 for 10c.
 - "IS WATER BAPTISM ESSENTIAL TO SALVATION," by Elder Joseph Luff; 90c per 100; 15c per doz.; 2 for 10c.
 - "WAS B. B. B. A FALSE PROPHET?" one of Faith, with quotations given in full, 20c Per doz.; 2 for 10c.
 - "EVANGELIA LOST," a duet for soprano and tenor; words by J. Cole Moxon; music by W. H. Lieb.
- SERMON PAMPHLETS.
 The following pamphlets 5 cents each, 3 for 10 cents, 6 for 15 cents, or 25 cents per dozen:
 "Signs of the Times," Revised and Enlarged, by Elder J. S. Roth; 70 pages; Illustrated.
 "The Book of Mormon; Evidences of its Divinity," by Elder R. C. Evans; 68 pages.
 "The Law of Life," by Elder F. M. Cooper; 38 pages.
 "The Restoration of Israel," by Elder S. W. L. Scott; 40 pages.
 "A Retrospective View of the Reorganization," by E. C. Briggs; 38 pages.
 "Gospel Message," by President Joseph Smith; 54 pages.
 "Modern Knowledge of the Antiquities of America," by Elder H. A. Stebbins; 34 pages.
 "Greed Making: Man Shall Not Add To Nor Take From the Word of God," by Elder I. M. Smith; 36 pages.
 "Antiquarian Evidences Concerning the Book of Mormon," by Elder E. L. Kelley; 40 pages.
 "Joseph Smith? Was He a Prophet of God?" by Elder R. C. Evans; 40 pages.
 "Sign Seekers," by Elder I. M. Smith; 32 pages.
 "Gospel Antiquity," by Elder Joseph Luff; 39 pages.
 "God is Light," by Elder W. H. Kelley; 40 pages.
 "Why We Left the Baptist Church," by Elder W. H. Kephart; 33 pages.
 "The Marriage Relation," by Elder J. W. Wight; 41 pages.
 "The Personality of God and Doctrine of Christ," by Elder J. S. Roth; 38 pages.
 "Baptize Yourselves," by Elder I. M. Smith; 34 pages.
- We also fill orders for all Herald office publications.
 Address all orders and make all remittances to ENSIGN PUBLISHING HOUSE, Box B, Independence, Mo.

STATE SAVINGS BANK OF LAMONI.

Incorporated under the laws of the State of Iowa, July 1, 1898.

Offer depositors a safe bank for their savings, and solicits the correspondence and deposits of all Iowa residents, and will pay four per cent interest per annum on year deposits. Send money by Bank Draft, or Express or Post Office order, or Registered letter, or your private check on any bank in the United States or Canada, and direct your letter to W. A. Hilliard, President of the State Savings Bank of Lamoni, at Lamoni, Iowa. Upon receipt of same a certificate of deposit will be issued and sent on return mail to the sender. This bank has facilities for handling a very large business by keeping surplus funds invested in safe and available securities, and has already received deposits from sixteen different states. All letters containing inquiries or business will be promptly answered.

List of Stockholders:—Wm. Anderson, Geo. H. Hilliard, Mrs. David Daner, Miss Alice Dancer, Mrs. Ella D. Whitehead, Mrs. Lucy L. Resseguie, A. K. Anderson, W. A. Hilliard, Oscar Anderson, Frank Criley and Geo. W. Blair.

A Singer Sewing Machine

THE BEST INVESTMENT ON EARTH, earning more in proportion to cost than any other purchase possible.
 THREE DIFFERENT KINDS, either lock-stitch or chain-stitch.
 BUILT LIKE A WATCH, at the largest and best equipped factory in the world, where every machine is carefully tested on practical stitches.

Sold only by
 THE SINGER MANUFACTURING COMPANY

DR. JOS. MATHER, PHYSICIAN.

Office at Residence, 301 S. Spring St., INDEPENDENCE, MO.
 CALLS ANSWERED NIGHT OR DAY.
 Phone 190-3.

SUBSCRIBE FOR THE
College City Chronicle
 The Leading Local Paper of LAMONI, IOWA.
 Published Weekly by the Chronicle Publishing Co.

THEY ADMIT IT.
 Bro. Hull, Chaucery, Ohio, says we saved him $12.00 on a $13.00 suit.
 Bro. Farrell, West Sullivan, Maine, writes that we saved him $5.00 on a $7.00 suit.
 Youth's heavy three-piece suit, age 12 to 19, $3.50.
 Goods are all sent prepaid.

MEN'S SACK SUITS.
 Black, all wool worsted Men's Suits, four button, round or square cut, 14 ounce $7.00; 16 ounce $7.25; 18 ounce $8.25; 20 ounce $8.75. Extra line, strictly all wool Oxford steel gray, heavy; worth $18.00, price $9.00.
 PRINCE ALBERT SUITS.
 Same goods as sacks. 14 oz. $9.50; 16 oz. $10.00; 18 oz. $11.00; 20 oz. $11.50. 14 oz. French Twill Sacks, worth $18.00, price $9.00. Prince Alberts, worth $25.00, $13.50.
 MEASUREMENTS.—Give size of bust around chest just under arms with coat off, size of waist, length of in seam of pant leg, your height and weight.
 Make all drafts, express and money orders payable at Seymour, Mo. Send all communications, letters, orders and registered letters to Cumorah, Mo. THE E. T. ATWELL CO. Cumorah, Mo.

QUIT-TO-BAC

CURES THE TOBACCO HABIT.
 BOXES, POSTPAID, $1 50 (U.S. Stamps or Money Order.)
 With Positive Guarantee of Cure, or Money Cheerfully Refunded. You Run No Risk; why not try it and be a free man?
 Address,
 (Bro.) B. F. ORDWAY, Peoria, Ill.

OLDEST. LARGEST. BEST.
 35TH YEAR
SPALDING'S
 COMMERCIAL COLLEGE.
 (INCORPORATED)
 East Wing, N. Y. Life Bldg., Kansas City, Mo.
 Bookkeeping, Shorthand, Typewriting, Telegraph, English Branch, Twenty Rooms. Sixty-four Teachers and Lecturers. No Vacations. Practical Courses. Thorough Instruction. Rates Moderate. Free Catalogue.
 FREE EMPLOYMENT BUREAU.
 Tel. 1174. J. F. Spalding, A. M., Pres.

CANCER CURED

WITH SOOTHING, BALMY OILS. Cancer, Tumor, Catarrh, Piles, Fistula, Ulcers, Eczema and all Skin and Wound Diseases. Dr. W. A. Southern, Jr., Cancer Specialist. Write for Illustrated Book, Sent Free. Address: Cor. 9th and Broadway, KANSAS CITY, MO.

$5.00 BOX RAIN COAT
 This Regular $5.00 Waterproof MACHINIST for $2.75.
 Send no money. Cut this out, state your height, weight, and send to us. We will send you this coat over your measure, under coat, close under arms, and we will send you this coat cut to your measure, under coat, close under arms. Examine it when you receive it. It is guaranteed waterproof. Suitable for both rain or overcoat. A bargain ever offered by us or any other house. Write for our free illustrated book, from $1.50 and guaranteed biggest free trial, 100 days. We can save you money. Address: H. S. MILLER & CO., 305 Dearborn St., Chicago.

R. R. TIME TABLES.

MISSOURI PACIFIC—MAIN LINE DEPOT.

No. 95—Yichita and K. C. Mail	12:40 a.m.
" 9—Kansas & Nebraska Lim.	4:34 a.m.
" 93—Texas, Joplin & K. C. Ex.	8:15 a.m.
" 3—St. Louis Express	6:33 a.m.
" 73—Lexington Branch Pass.	3:35 p.m.
" 7—Past Mail	10:00 p.m.
" 91—Joplin and K. C. Mail	5:16 p.m.
" 1—St. Louis Mail and Ex.	5:17 p.m.
" 5—St. Louis Mail	5:55 p.m.
" 71—Lexington Branch Pass.	6:45 p.m.

TRAINS EAST:

No. 98—K. C. & Wichita Mail	8:32 a.m.
" 72—Lexington Branch Pass.	5:53 a.m.
" 6—St. Louis Mail	7:23 a.m.
" 92—K. C. Texas & Joplin Mail	8:37 a.m.
" 2—St. Louis Through Mail & Pass.	10:17 a.m.
" 78—Lex. Branch Passenger	9:30 a.m.
" 4—St. Louis Through Mail & Pass.	1:37 p.m.
" 94—K. C. Tex. & Joplin Ex.	7:40 p.m.
" 8—St. Louis Through Mail & Pass.	9:30 p.m.
" 10—Kan. & Neb. Limited	11:32 p.m.
Nos. 7, 9 and 10 do not stop.

LIBERTY STREET DEPOT.

TRAINS WEST:

No. 71—	8:30 a.m.
" 73—	8:40 p.m.

TRAINS EAST:

No. 72—Lex. Branch Pass.	5:58 a.m.
" 78—	6:15 p.m.

Tel. 17. F. A. MILLARD, Agent.

CHICAGO & ALTON.
 EAST BOUND. a.m.
 " 101—Local Way Freight, 7:07 a.m.
 " 47—St. Louis & Chicago Mail, 9:30 a.m.
 " 85—Chicago Limited, 5:51 p.m.
 " 51—Chicago Limited, 6:40 p.m.
 " 49—St. Louis Flyer, 9:40 p.m.
 WEST BOUND. a.m.
 " 84—Chicago Limited, 8:15 a.m.
 " 81—Chicago Limited, 9:30 p.m.
 " 102—Local Way Freight, 9:40 p.m.
 " 8—Chicago & St. Louis Mail, 5:51 p.m.
 All trains make regular stops. Through tickets to all points in the United States and Canada. For further information regarding rates, etc., call on J. W. DUGAN, Agent, Ch. 29. J. CHARLTON, G. P. & T. Agt., Chicago.

A CHRISTMAS SONG.

OLIVE LONG.

The Savior once of humble birth, From glory came to sinful earth, To save poor creature man. He took a form of earthly clay, And in a lowly manger lay, A meek and sinless lamb.

Brightly shone that beaming star, Seen by shepherds from afar, Who stood and gazed with fear When angels thronged around, And filled the air with heavenly sound. The Christ the Lord is here.

Glory to God, the music swells, Go fill the land with Christmas bells, Ring in our Savior's birth. Let peace in every bosom reign, Let every voice swell the refrain, Good will to all on earth.

Let children shout the joyful sound, And let them swell the echoes round, For Christ, was once a child. Bring them to me he meekly said, Of such the kingdom will be made, All free from sin and guile.

Loud, let the anthems ring once more, And echo back from shore to shore, That Christ the Lord is born. His birthday let all nations keep, And sing in anthems loud and deep, Of peace, good will to man.

JOTS BY THE WAYSIDE.

BY T. W. CHEATBURN.

Seated behind "Topsy" with Bro. Gibson, the old pioneer of gospel work, handing the ribbons, we take a spin out to Bro. and Sr. Thornton's, of Galland's Grove, (Iowa) fame. Bro. Thornton's whiskers, with the remaining part of his hair, is not so red as it used to be, but is now of the golden hue to correspond with the tons of the most beautiful orange fruit we have yet seen in our life.

Our brother has labored for years under difficulties, but now the dark clouds have rolled away and the eldorado will soon be reached, and the prospects are very flattering indeed for a merited rest in the twilight of life—"so mote it be."

If any part of the globe from the pine hills of Maine to the orange groves of California could consistently give thanks on this, the national Thanksgiving day, it is certainly the southern Californian who lives beneath the shadows of these sun-kissed hills, which, since the copious rains, are now blushing with flowers, and as nearly as possible abundant crops are now assured.

San Bernardino Saints richly complied with state and church proclamations in thanksgiving. A goodly number gathered at the church at eleven a. m. The morning sermon was delivered by the writer, an excerpt of which was published in the city papers.

The evening program, with box supper, was almost a matchless success, and reflects credit upon its promoters and the Religio in particular; we note a part of the program which was good to excellent: "Little Yockrup," by Lester King; "Brickyard," by Lois Aldridge; "My Old Maid Aunt," by Myrtle Aldridge; "Putting Up the Stove," by May Hooker; "Take Time to be Holy," was very beautifully rendered by D. A. Anderson, Acy Reed, Becky Wixum and Nellie Reed, with Nettie Davidson organist. Mr. Coleman, violinist, with Mr. Burges, organist, rendered a fine instrumental piece which was indeed appreciated.

This Religio society is to be congratulated for the talent manifested in the membership, many of whom are non-members of the church. The well filled boxes brought in by the sisters and non-sisters were then sold for 25 cents each. The young swains, and old ones too, examined the numbers carefully before paying down, and as fate would have it, nearly all were well satisfied with their supper partners. Nearly twenty dollars was realized clear of expenses, which is to apply on the painting of the church which has very recently been done from sills to dome.

We are off this p. m. for Ocean View, to again enter into discussion with Rev. Hyder, who is spoiling to spoil "Mormons." Questions are "Book of Mormon" and "Canon of Scripture is Fall." Brn. T. W. Williams and D. A. Anderson will lend their aid.

IS THE DAWN NIGH?

A commonplace adage runs as follows: "The darkest hour is just before dawn."

Of late there has been a lull in the receipts of donations for the running expense of Graceland College, and as a faithful watchman on the tower of duty it is my business to inform the household of faith, that we are still in need of financial aid, and I trust you have all heard that latter day adage, "All Latter Day Saints are willing; the few are willing to give and make sacrifice of their means for the good of the cause of truth—the restored gospel, and the many are WILLING to let them so give and make sacrifice.

My appeal is to all the willing ones; for the reason, we are not to receive our reward for what we are able to accomplish, but for that which we do.

The sweet singer of Israel in ancient time wrote: "There is a reward for the righteous." The righteous are those who do right, and those do right who, having set their hand to the plow, looketh not back, neither lament or murmur for the leaks and onions of Egypt—which readeth in plain Anglo-Saxon in this wise:

The Saints having by voice and vote in General Conference authorized the erection and running of Graceland College, if they now withhold their support they are looking back, and please remember what looking back did for Mrs. Lot; do not do likewise as regards your helping the college, for I sound the tocsin of alarm, that a worse fate than turning to a pillar of salt shall not befall you.

Those leaks and onions of Egypt might well represent the worldly institutions of learning so widely patronized by the Saints, while our own church institution of learning, Graceland College, is passed by and neglected. But, dear willing Saints, please be advertised that the present Board of Trustees are assiduously working to keep the college running and out of debt, and should we fail in accomplishing this much desired end, the responsibility must rest with those who have turned a deaf ear to our pleading for the means wherewith to make this institution a success.

Now do not comfort yourselves with the delusive idea that some one else will surely furnish the needed help, but take this appeal to heart and be sure to have your name upon our next report. Shall I hear from you soon?

More anon,

ROBT. M. ELVIN.

Box 224, LAMONI, IOWA.

High Priests' Quorum.

Having waited to obtain account of the ordination of brethren as high priests the publication of "List of Names and Addresses" has been delayed. But said list (No. 3) has now been issued and a copy has been sent to each member of the quorum, also to the four whose ordination has not yet been reported as attended to, namely, Bro. G. J. Waller, V. M. Goodrich, J. B. Roush, and John Zimmermann.

Should any of the brethren fail to receive the copy mailed them they may write and another will be sent.

When any change their location, or address, please send notice, and the changes will be published in Herald and ENSIGN, so that the secretary and other brethren may mark such changes on their lists, and know where to write you.

As the expenses of the quorum for lists, blank report-forms, letter heads, envelopes, and stamps have increased much, and the only collections ever made have been from those present at April meetings of the quorum, therefore, if those who have not met with us desire to contribute small amounts, such will be acceptable as supplies for the treasury of the quorum.

Blank report-forms will be mailed about March 1.

Respectfully yours,

H. A. STREIBINS, Sec. and Treas.

LAMONI, Ia., Dec. 5.

Proposed Amendments to Rules of Order and Debate.

Notice is hereby given that by action of the Joint Council of the Seventy, the following proposed Amendments to the Rules of Order and Debate will be presented to the General Conference of 1901 for its consideration and action:

Resolved, That section 161, paragraph 5 (a), be stricken out, and that the following be inserted in its stead:

"In case satisfaction shall not be given upon the examination and decision of any cause before a court of elders, an appeal from such decision may be had by the party aggrieved to the Bishop's court, and from that court to the High Council."

Resolved, That section 161, paragraph 5 (b), be stricken out, and in lieu thereof the following be inserted: "In case of appeal the appellant must set forth clearly to the court to which appeal is made the reasons for such appeal."

"In case of appeal the authority to which the elders' court has reported shall send at once, upon receipt of written notice of such appeal, the papers and minutes of evidence, and a copy of the proceedings of the court in said case, and cause the same to be filed with the court to which appeal is taken."

"REMARK. In cases where offending parties have absconded, or are inaccessible to the prescribed labor and methods provided for in paragraph 4, section 161, the words, 'if practicable,' should be construed to qualify the conditions named, and proceedings had accordingly. If satisfaction is not had by the party or parties, the way of appeal is open."

WHEREAS, the law of God in the Book of Doctrine and Covenants, section 17, paragraph 13, provides that "the several elders composing this church of Christ" shall meet in conference and transact the business of the church in said conferences, etc.,

Resolved, That the Rules of Representation, section 176, paragraph 2, be amended to read as follows: "The only qualifications to eligibility to the office of delegate from district to General Conference shall be eldership in the church in good standing."

Resolved, That section 177, paragraph 1, be amended by adding the words, "The qualifications for eligibility as such delegate being that he hold the office of an elder and be in good standing."

Resolved, That section 175 be stricken out, and the following be substituted therefor: "The general officers of the church known as the Presidency, the Twelve, the High Council, the Seventy, the Presiding Bishopric, and all high priests, elders and priests, when traveling under General Conference or general appointment, are ex officio members of General Conference, and entitled to voice and vote in General Conference when present."

Resolved, That section 99 be amended by inserting in the sixth line, after the word "affirmative" the words "by a two-thirds' vote."

On behalf of a committee of the Joint Seventy.

DUNCAN CAMPBELL, C. SCOTT, R. S. SALLYARDS, LAMONI, Ia., Dec. 5.

Two Days Meetings in the Far West District.

December 26th and 30th, Mt. Hope. J. C. Foss and Walter Smith. December 29th and 30th, Edgerton Junction. C. P. Faul and David Schmidt. December 29th and 30th, Cameron. T. T. Hinderks and B. R. Constance. December 29th and 30th, German Stewartsville. S. F. Cushman and D. C. Kinnaman. January 12th and 13th, Stewartsville. J. C. Elvert and Robt. Garlich. January 26th and 27th, Kingston. T. T. Hinderks and C. P. Faul. January 26th and 27th, DeKalb. Benj. Dice and F. Uphoff. January 26th and 27th, Wakenda. S. F. Cushman and Walter Smith. January 26th and 27th, Aspey Mission. A. W. Head and Arnold Nesser. February 2d and 3d, Delano. D. E. Powell and C. Householder. February 9th and 10th, St. Joseph. J. C. Foss and C. P. Faul. February 23d and 24th, Pleasant Grove. J. S. Constance and H. B. Taddieken. February 23d and 24th, Gospel Hill. J. C. Foss and M. M. Ballinger.

These meetings to begin on Saturday at 2 p. m. The Saints are requested to interest themselves in these meetings and try and make them a success. If those appointed cannot possibly attend please appoint a substitute.

By order of conference.

C. P. FAUL, Sec. CLARKSDALE, Mo., Dec. 15.

NOTICES.

Since Bro. G. T. Griffiths in Herald of December 5th announced my appointment in sub-charge of Central California district, it is perhaps proper for me to say that my field address is 231 Castro Street, San Francisco, California.

R. ETZENHOFER.

December 11.

Convention Notices.

Notice is hereby given that the Sunday School convention of the South Missouri district will be held with the Pomona branch, January 1, 1901, beginning at 10 a. m. I hope the secretaries of the different Sunday Schools will remember to send in their reports at least one week before the convention. The terms of the officers have expired, and there will be a new set of officers to be elected for the district. I hope all will come and make a wise choice so the district will live up.

I hope you will remember that the superintendent and assistant and the secretary cannot run the district, they are only your servants to do what you want; so come and help us in this grand work of the Lord.

JAMES M. RUDD, Dist. Sec. POMONA, Mo., Dec. 14.

BORN.

BOOKER.—To Bro. and Sr. Fayette Booker, Hardin, Missouri, December 12, 1900, a daughter.

DIED.

(One hundred words free. One cent for each word over 100, and for every word of poetry. Account should be remitted with notice, to insure publication.)

SMITH.—At Independence, Missouri, December 11, 1900, William Smith, aged 65 years. Services by Elder J. C. Foss at George Bowler's undertaking room.

RATHBONE.—HARRY, son of Wm. and Sr. Clara Rathbone, of St. Louis, Missouri, departed this life December 3, 1900; he was about three years old, a lovely child. Funeral service by E. L. Kelley and A. Allen.

GRIFFIN.—At Dow City, Iowa, Dec. 3, 1900, Sr. Emma Griffin, who was born August 27, 1836 to Bro. John R. and Sr. Sereida Rudd. She was baptized April 7, 1878, and was married to Mr. J. R. Griffin September 4, 1884. She was highly respected by all who knew her, and leaves, beside her husband, four children and a great many relatives and friends who mourn her departure. Death came very suddenly from heart failure and was entirely unexpected until the last.

HOLMAN.—At Conneautville, Pennsylvania, December 5, 1900, from heart failure, Elder John Holman, aged 78 years, 9 months and 7 days. Born on February 25, 1822, in Worcester county, Massachusetts. In 1847 he married Abigail Robbins, whose demise occurred in 1892. Five sons and four daughters were born to this union. Three daughters and two sons survive. In 1895 married Miss Hilda Norris. He united with the church in the "forties," being baptized by Elder Gamet. He had resided in the one township sixty-eight years and was noted for his sterling integrity and his word was as good as his bond. Beloved and respected by all who knew him, he was one of our most staunch and faithful members. The church militant suffers loss, but another has been added to the host whose garments have been made white by acceptance of the gospel covenant and have overcome trials and tribulations. He awaits the glorious resurrection. Funeral sermon preached by Elder G. T. Griffiths at the house and church to a large concourse of people.

Coated

Look at your tongue. Is it coated?

Then you have a bad taste in your mouth every morning. Your appetite is poor, and food distresses you. You have frequent headaches and are often dizzy. Your stomach is weak and your bowels are always constipated.

There's an old and reliable cure:

Don't take a cathartic dose and then stop. Better take a laxative dose each night, just enough to cause one good free movement the day following.

You feel better the very next day. Your appetite returns, your dyspepsia is cured, your headaches pass away, your tongue clears up, your liver acts well, and your bowels no longer give you trouble.

Price, 25 cents. All druggists.

"I have taken Ayer's Pills for 25 years, and I consider them the best made. One pill does me more good than half a box of any other kind I have ever tried." Mrs. N. E. Talbot, March 20, 1899, Arlington, Kans.

ZION'S ENSIGN.

"OUR CREED: ALL TRUTH."

VOLUME 11.

INDEPENDENCE, MISSOURI, THURSDAY, DECEMBER 27, 1900

NUMBER 52.

ZION'S ENSIGN.

A Literary and Religious Newspaper, published in the interest of social, scientific and religious truth, every Thursday, at Independence, Jackson County, Missouri.

PRICE, $1.00 PER YEAR, IN ADVANCE.

ENSIGN PUBLISHING HOUSE,
Of the Reorganized Church of Jesus Christ of Latter Day Saints.

W. H. GARRETT, EDITOR.
J. W. LUFF, BUSINESS MANAGER.

Make all remittances, and address all communications to ENSIGN PUBLISHING HOUSE, Box 3, Independence, Jackson County, Missouri.

New subscriptions can begin at any time. If possible to avoid it, never send silver as it is liable to wear through the envelope and be lost. Always give the name of the post office to which your paper is sent or we can not find your name on our lists.

When desiring your address changed, give both the old and new address. Papers will be discontinued one month from the time subscriptions expire, unless ordered continued.

In making remittances, money orders are preferable for they are absolutely safe. If you can return are an entire loss, and Canadian currency is only worth ninety cents on the dollar to us, for that is all we can get for it at the bank.

Letters should be addressed, and orders and drafts made payable to ENSIGN PUBLISHING HOUSE, Independence, Mo.

Box 3.

THE CENTURY'S REVEALMENTS.

Our readers, and all the rest of mankind will, in a few days, have a rare privilege, one which but few now living have had, and, under present conditions, none will ever again experience—the beginning of a new century; and while the days as they come and go present no apparent difference physically from those preceding; while there may be nothing especially startling or strange by which the dawn of a new century may be distinguished from the closing days of the old, there are events transpiring in the passage of time which mark certain epochs in its history, of great significance and importance to the dwellers upon this planet. Some of these incidents come with startling distinctness, challenging the wonder and astonishment of the beholder, while others come so quietly as to scarcely cause a ripple on the surface of passing events, notwithstanding they may be of the highest importance to all men.

What marvels have developed in the century just closing. At its opening there were no railroads, no telegraphs, no telephones, no postoffices. All the wonderful developments of steam and electricity with which we are today so familiar, were probably not even thought of then. But what is of infinitely greater importance to mankind—the gospel of the Lord Jesus Christ—was but imperfectly comprehended, and but partially taught; darkness still reigned and religious persecutions were manifest in different quarters. Bigotry and intolerance seemed to rule much of the old world, and to some extent made its force felt in the new, whither the pilgrim fathers had fled for refuge. But very early in the century the light began to shine; a heavenly messenger came to an unobtrusive, humble lad, calling him to face an unfriendly world with the announcement of the RESTORATION of the gospel—the everlasting gospel—with all of the rights and privileges, gifts and blessings, rites and ordinances which appertained to, and were incorporated in that gospel in every age of the world when it was preached and its laws and ordinances authoritatively administered.

If there formation under Luther Calvin, Hess, Zwingli and others had its introduction in a fiery baptism of hatred and persecution, that which was of far greater worth to men, the restoration of the fullness of the gospel, was not destined to escape a similar experience. To come boldly forth in opposition to the teachings of a faith which were generally accepted as guaranteeing everlasting life to its devotees, was a task from which even a strong, fully developed man of invincible determination might well shrink; but when the instrument chosen by the Almighty for that work was a humble lad, comparatively unknown, it should impress itself upon the mind of every candid person that he MUST have had an inspiration infinitely higher and stronger than any boy would naturally possess; and the fact that this inspiration was not of a deceptive character, is established in that the young lad, Joseph Smith, presented the gospel precisely as it was taught and advocated by our Savior and his apostles contemporaneous with him, He Himself declaring that a good tree cannot bring forth evil fruit, nor an evil tree good fruit.

Among the marvelous statements made by this lad, was one which no imposter in any age of the world had ever, or would ever make, to those opposing his mission; this was the reiteration of the declaration made by the Savior while preaching His gospel on the earth, found in the record of the gospel by John, 7: 16, 17:

Jesus answered them (the Jews), and said, My doctrine is not mine, but his that sent me. If any man will do his will, he shall know of the doctrine, whether it be of God, or whether I speak of myself.

It would be the height of folly for an imposter to make such a test of his mission as that. While it is probable he might deceive his fellowmen along some lines, it is not possible to deceive the Lord, and the Lord certainly would not work with an imposter in the practice of a deception upon mankind. But this lad boldly, unhesitatingly and without any reservation, presented this test of his mission and teachings, and about 300,000 people since that time, when this announcement was made, have accepted the test, and added their testimony to its truthfulness. True, thousands of the number making the test and bearing their testimony to the truthfulness of the message delivered by Joseph Smith and his brethren, subsequently lost faith, through the bringing in of damnable heresies by false brethren, but few ever became so hardened or darkened in mind as to deny the testimony they had given. And NOT ONE who has continued faithful in the service of the Lord, from that time until now, has ever borne a different testimony; they have continued to declare "It is true." And one of the marked effects which this message has had upon those who tested the matter, and to whom its truthfulness was substantiated, was that it made them better individuals, better members of family, city and country, God-fearing, law-abiding men and women, and they have been and are witnesses of the unchangeableness of the Almighty, of the immutability of His law, and that the gospel of Jesus Christ has by no means been established as of old; that men and women who obey it will receive indubitable testimony to their own individual satisfaction of its divinity and power, who will receive the glory of the celestial kingdom if they abide in faithfulness in their covenanted service to God.

Many important events are to transpire during the new century, upon which we are just entering, fraught with the greatest interest to all men. Wars are to increase for a time; famines, earthquakes, pestilences are to so multiply that their report will be but a vexation to the bearer. The Jews are to be restored to the land of Palestine, becoming again a nation with their own rulers. Zion is to be built and inhabited by God's people. The north country is to give up what it has so long held, the immense increase from the nine and a half tribes who so long ago, when Shalmaneser was king of Assyria (2 Kings 17), took up their residence there, and they are to cross over the sea and come to Zion "with songs of everlasting joy;" when it shall then no longer be said:

The Lord liveth, which brought up the children of Israel out of the land of Egypt; but, The Lord liveth, which brought up and which led the seed of the house of Israel out of the north country, and from all countries whither I had driven them; and they shall dwell in their own land.—Jer. 23: 7, 8.

The releasing of the hundreds of thousands of the Israelites from the bondage of the Egyptians and leading them through the Red Sea to freedom was a stupendous work, marvelous to contemplate; but as compared to the importance and immensity of the work of the last days, even in the century now so near, it will become so far overshadowed that when one wishes to ascribe greatness and majesty, dominion and power to the Almighty, he will no longer exclaim, "The Lord liveth, which brought up the children of Israel out of the land of Egypt; but, The Lord liveth, which led the seed of the house of Israel out of the NORTH COUNTRY," etc., for

The Lord shall utterly destroy the tongue of the Egyptian sea; and with his mighty wind shall he shake his hand over the river, and shall smite it in the seven streams, and make men go over dry-shod. And there shall be a highway for the remnant of his people, which shall be left, from Assyria; like as it was to Israel in the day that he came up out of the land of Egypt.—Isa. 11: 15, 16.

The Jews being gathered to Palestine and establishing their nation, there is to be a uniting of "all nations against Jerusalem," who will take the city with the accompanying violence to the inhabitants which men inspired by the devil, practice, "and half of the city shall go forth into captivity, and the residue of the people shall not be cut off from the city." The prophet Zechariah thus describes the finale:

Then shall the Lord go forth, and fight against those nations, as when he fought in the day of battle. And his feet shall stand in that day upon the Mount of Olives, which is before Jerusalem on the east; and the Mount of Olives shall cleave in the midst thereof towards the east and towards the west, and there shall be a very great valley; and half of the mountain shall remove toward the north, and half of it toward the south. And ye shall flee to the valley of the mountains; for ye shall flee, like as ye fled from before the earthquake in the days of Uzziah king of Judah: [about 789 B. C.] and the Lord my God shall come and all the Saints with thee.—Zech. 14: 2, 5, 5B, B. C.

The rest of the chapter describes the condition which shall exist upon the earth after the events so graphically portrayed above. These stupendous events are fast crowding upon us, and we believe they will all have their fulfillment, and the reign of the Prince of Peace be ushered in before the end of the new century. It truly should impress itself with irresistible force upon the minds of all who have a godly fear toward the Lord, that they should stand in holy places and make such preparation that when the Lord comes, they may be prepared to enter into his rest, with joy and thanksgiving, dwelling under His glorious presence during His millennial reign of a thousand years upon the earth, from which experience they shall be fitted for the presence of the Father, the Almighty, who, through the gift of His Only Begotten Son, made our salvation possible and complete.

EDITORIAL ITEMS.

Sr. (Mrs.) MARY DESPAIN, 306 W. Main Street, Galesburg, Illinois, has a quantity of ENSIGNS and Heralds, which will be donated to any one who will pay the transportation charges.

BRO. D. I. BATH, Toulon, Ill. has sent the ENSIGN office twenty-five copies of a vocal solo, "Jesus Lover of My Soul," the music of which he is composer, to be sold and the proceeds applied to Graceland College. It is a very pretty arrangement and will be mailed to any address on receipt of the price, 25 cents each. We solicit your orders.

ELDER T. C. KELLEY wrote from Garland, Alabama, December 3d, that on the following Thursday he would start to Mississippi to attend conference at Three Rivers, about three miles from the scene of trouble with the mob some three years ago. He did not anticipate any trouble from them this time, and we hope there will be no effort made to violate the laws of the land and the right of a minister of Christ to preach the gospel, that which will benefit all who obey it. Bro. Kelley's throat troubles are better than for some time past.

SOME one signing "H. H." writes from Mahoningtown, Pennsylvania, December 11th, that there are about a dozen Saints living within a few miles of each other in that region, and that Sunday, December 2d, they met with Bro. and Sr. G. E. Harrington, at Elwood City, and had a good meeting. Bro. Harrington has preached for them several times as well as to those not members of the church. Bro. J. Hollibaugh and others have striven to get the work before the citizens of New Castle, and to encourage the Saints there to live right before the Lord and their fellowmen.

PRIEST H. G. SAMSON, Milo, Calhoun county, West Virginia, has been laboring to show the distinction between the faith of the Reorganization and the Brighamites, with good effect; has had numerous invitations to preach and conveyances sent for him, but was for a time prevented from accepting many invitations during illness and death of his wife. Considerable interest was manifest in his meeting, December 9th, when he preached from the text, "Let no man deceive you." He thinks much good could be accomplished there by distributing good literature. We suggest that our brother write Sr. (Miss) M. H. Clark, Box 4, Station A, Kansas City, Missouri, for back numbers of ENSIGNS and Heralds. She will gladly supply what he can use advantageously.

GENERAL CHURCH NEWS.

INDEPENDENCE.

Bro. Wm. Crick has been quite ill the past few days with an attack of Malaria.

Bro. A. H. Parsons has been requested to continue his chart sermon next Sunday evening.

Sr. Laura Mader, of Lamoni, Iowa, is visiting friends here, the guest of Bro. and Sr. A. H. Mills.

Elder J. C. Foss attended service at the Armstrong branch on Sunday and baptized Mr. Charles Scrivener. He left for Spickards, Missouri, Wednesday morning.

The young people's prayer meeting Tuesday night was well attended, there being nearly 100 present. The prospects for a good work among our young brethren and sisters are very encouraging.

Bro. Mark J. Harrington and Miss Katie Hall, of South Spring street, were married at the home of the bride, Thursday evening, by Rev. R. Lin Cave, pastor of the Christian church, of this city. They have gone to Iowa on a visit. We wish them a happy and prosperous life.

Sunday morning the pastor occupied at the morning service at the church. At night Bro. A. H. Parsons preached a most excellent discourse from his chart, on the narrow and broad ways. The afternoon service was well attended and well occupied, bringing blessings to all present.

Sr. M. E. Hulmes, president of the Advisory Board, Daughters of Zion, departed for Pittsburg, Pennsylvania, her old home, Wednesday evening of last week, to see a little niece, who was lying at the point of death there. The prayers of the Saints in behalf of the little one are desired.

Bro. Wm. Crick moved into his handsome new home on West Electric street, next door to Bro. M. T. Short's residence, Thursday of last week. Both the exterior and interior present a handsome appearance, and Bro. and Sr. Crick are certainly to be congratulated in the possession of so pleasant and complete a home.

Bro. O. E. Flanders and family, and Sr. Nellie Brackenbury, left Thursday afternoon, of last week, for Riverside, California, where Bro. J. W. Brackenbury and family now reside, and are enjoying excellent health. Sr. Nellie has been the accommodating "Hello" night operator at the telephone central office in this city for some time past. We understand Miss Pearl Winters will succeed her in that capacity.

Mr. J. J. Ackerman, of Tipton, Missouri, the new agent of the Missouri Pacific Railway at this point, made the ENSIGN office a pleasant call Thursday of last week. He has something to say in this issue regarding holiday rates, which may be of importance to some of our readers; see his card in another column. Mr. Ackerman is a pleasant gentleman, of many years experience in railroad work, and the patrons of this important system, will find in him an efficient and accommodating official.

Next Tuesday evening the annual election of officers of the Sunday School will be held. Bro. W. N. Robinson announced last Sunday that he would not be a candidate for re-election as superintendent. We regret this decision and think our brother is making a mistake in not permitting his name to be used. We hope he will reconsider it as his work during his incumbency has been very satisfactory. The young people's prayer meeting will necessarily have to be omitted next week on account of this election.

The sad intelligence reached us Wednesday morning that Sr. Myrtle, the 17 year old daughter of Bro. and Sr. F. C. Warnky, of Kansas City, had departed this life at 4 o'clock a. m. that day. She was well known in church circles here having formerly resided in this city, and since removing to Kansas City had made frequent visits with Sr. E. Etzenhouser, her sister. She was of a very pleasant disposition and was highly esteemed for her excellent qualities. The sympathies of the Saints are extended to Bro. and Sr. Warnky and family in their sad bereavement. The funeral will be held here Friday morning at 11 o'clock. Bro. I. N. White will preach the sermon.

Municipal lighting is being talked by quite a number of our citizens, as well as members of the council. Estimates submitted to the council by Bro L. P. Caldwell and other competent parties show that there is a clear profit of several thousand dollars to be made above the expenses, which being applied to the payment of the indebtedness assumed in constituting the plant, would, in a very few years, give the city the clear ownership of a first class plant, while enjoying first class service; and the surplus thereafter earned by the electric light plant could be applied in the purchase of the waterworks, which the city should secure at the expiration of the ten year lease now held by the water company. That the light and water franchises are valuable, is evidenced by the fact that parties are making propositions to council to take both water and light franchises, on a contract for several years, the city to pay $3000 for its lights. But if it will pay private parties to do this, why not apply the $3000 or more, necessary to obtain first class service, in paying for our own plant? The matter should be submitted to the vote of the people at a special election for that purpose, and not give opportunity to attach some objectionable feature to be voted on which would defeat the will of the people on this matter. By all means, let us have municipal service in such public utilities as water and light.

FIRST KANSAS CITY BRANCH. 224 Wabash Ave., Sunday School 9:30 a. m.; preaching at 11 a. m. and 7:30 p. m.; social service 12:15 p. m. D. E. Winn, pastor, 2300 Bellfontaine.

Last Sunday was the first wintry day we have had, there being a very light snow. The services were all fairly well attended. Srs. V. Blair and Emma Beebe were in attendance at Sunday School and also at the 11 a. m. sermon.

Elder B. J. Scott, of Independence, was the speaker in the morning. It seemed like old times to sit under the sound of his voice again.

The social service, presided over by Elder F. C. Warnky, was a spiritual feast of good things. Two prophecies were delivered, giving encouragement and comfort to those addressed.

The evening sermon, by Elder W. H. Pease, of Armstrong, was excellent, but the audience was not as large as it should have been.

Elder W. R. Pickering has been quite sick but is improving. The unseasonable weather has caused considerable throat and lung trouble.

Bro. and Sr. E. Etzenhouser and Master Virgil are expecting to spend the holiday week with Peoria, Illinois, Saints, as Bro. E. is called there on business.

Sr. Ida Pearson spent Sunday with relatives and friends, at St. Joseph, Missouri.

Sr. Sallie Spangler is spending the Holidays at Springfield, Missouri, with friends.

Our entertainment on Christmas night was quite a success considering the hindrance caused by reason of the church having been so damaged by the fire as to cause us to lose time in preparation work.

Announcements for next Sunday are: S. E. Hulmes and Ammon White at First Kansas City church; Joseph Luff and Ellis White at Armstrong. W. O. Hands and J. D. White, at Chelsea Park, and J. D. White and W. H. Pease, at Northeast mission.

R. E. PORTER.

December 15.

CHICAGO, ILLINOIS.

Branch headquarters, 716 W. Van Buren St. Sunday meetings 2:45 and 7:45 p. m. Lane Mission, 3411 Cottage Grove Ave., 10:45 a. m. and 7:30 p. m. West Pullman branch, 748 116th St., 10:30 a. m. and 7:30 p. m. 508 W. 37th St. (colored mission), 10:30 a. m. and 7:30 p. m.

Winter, real, has come, with snow and storm and cold, pinching the poor with scanty fuel, and enabling the rich to enjoy their sumptuous mansions. The Saints here, as a rule, are comfortably housed, and blessed with employment.

After a silence of nine weeks, occasioned by sickness in the main, we were enabled yesterday to take the sacred stand, preaching in the morning at the mission, and at headquarters in the evening, with good liberty and a fair measure of physical strength. We give God praise for his blessing.

Sr. M. Marchant, one of our old time neighbors and parisheners of St. Joseph, Missouri, came up to the city, and is now visiting the parson and wife.

Bro. E. E. Johnson was quite bright yesterday and is holding his own well. In some regards he is better.

Sr. Della Braidwood, one of our earnest band of workers, is spending a muchly deserved and needed vacation in St. Louis, Missouri, where lives her brother Arthur and wife. She will be absent about two week. A happy visit and safe return.

Bro. Haines, of Aurora, Sundayed with us, occupying the 3 o'clock appointment, on "The Return of Christ," a theme that delights the wise virgins, for they wait with oil in their vessels.

Christmastide occasions wonderful displays in Chicago, and the trade in that line is immense. The Mission Sunday School will hold their entertainment to night, and the school at 716 Van Buren will entertain on Wednesday night.

Don't forget the rally next Sunday, at 716 Van Buren, and the union service on the first Sunday, January 6th. Both are special.

Sr. Hite a student, of Michigan City, is spending her vacation with her uncle, Bro. John Harris.

We are expecting to begin a protracted effort at the Lang mission soon after the beginning of the new year. Plans are not fully matured, but we expect to make it of special interest.

J. M. TERRY.

395 Ogden Ave., Dec. 24.

ST. LOUIS, MISSOURI.

Places of worship: Rock Church, Glasgow avenue and Dickson street. Services: Wednesday evening, prayer service; Sunday: Sabbath School 9:30 a. m.; preaching at 11 a. m.; social service at 2:30 p. m.; preaching at 8 p. m. Cheltenham, 5731 Manchester Ave., services: Sunday School 10 a. m.; social meeting 2:30 p. m.; preaching 7:30 p. m. Oak Hill, Sunday School 9:30 a. m., and services at 2:30 and 8 p. m.

Outside the flying snow-flakes and the merry faces of Christmas shoppers; within were it not for the glorious hope of the gospel, 'twould be our saddest Christmas; but a little child shall lead onward toward the dawning of the better day.

Two homes, at least, were gladdened yesterday by the arrival of Bro. Bert Dawson and Howard Molyneaux; one from Kansas City, the other from St. Joseph.

Bro. F. M. Smith, wife and wee daughter are visiting Bro. and Sr. Johnson.

District conference January 5th and 6th.

Bro. and Sr. Christenson are visiting relatives in Winfield, Kansas.

The Religio give an entertainment Monday evening December 31st, in the auditorium.

Sr. Alice Sipple is on the sick list.

The Sunday School Christmas tree exercises, Thursday evening, 8 o'clock p. m., in the auditorium.

Bro. Fred Smith addressed the Saints morning and evening service, yesterday.

The 2:30 service was good, peaceful, strengthening, giving balm to the wounded, struggling spirit, and enthrusting for the greater need of the morrows.

The Mite society hold a watch party in the basement of the church December 31st. After the Religio entertainment refreshments will be dispensed by the ladies of the society.

The best wishes of the season to all our friends.

ETTA.

December 25th.

SAN FRANCISCO, CALIFORNIA.

Services at Golden West Hall, 320 Post street, every Sunday. Sunday School 10 a. m.; proaching 11 a. m. and 7:30 p. m.; prayer meeting first Sunday of each month at 12:15 noon. Elder C. A. Parkin presiding elder, residence 3010 10th street.

Your correspondent was the speaker Sunday at 11 o'clock. He also went to Oakland and spoke there at 8 p. m.

Bishop C. A. Parkin went to San Jose, attending to church business there. He also spoke here in the evening. Elder J. H. Anthony went to Berkeley and presented a portion of the gospel there in the afternoon.

Our choir is improving very much in their singing of late; they meet for practice every Tuesday evening at the residence of Bro. J. A. Saxe, and the result already reached is quite satisfactory.

We had a very good prayer meeting Wednesday evening. There were only eighteen present, but all but three took part in the services. Two were administered to and the Spirit was present to encourage and cheer. In administering to Elder Albert Haws, the gift of tongues and interpretation was given, speaking words of assurance and promise to him, reminding him of past blessings, and giving assurance for the future. All present seemed to feel the power which melts to tears, while its sweet hallowed influence seems to penetrate to the marrow, and causes our very soul to burn within us, and our entire being is filled with joy and happiness. Gratitude and praise filled our hearts toward our heavenly Father for His loving kindness, in thus acknowledging us as His children. We all sang with the Spirit, "Praise God from whom all blessings flow." The latter day work is a glorious work.

GEO. S. LINCOLN.

December 16.

LETTER DEPARTMENT.

MAUSH SCHOOL-HOUSE, Dec. 17.

Dear Ensign:—We have thought of writing many times, but having nothing very encouraging to write, thought perhaps it would be better not to write of the things that discourage. However, I think we should know of the discouragements as well as the brightness. We have been laboring as best we could, trying to admonish the Saints to live faithful, and also breaking up new ground (mostly the latter). Nearly every place we have been we have been blessed with liberty, and have good sized congregations to preach to, but the interest seems to be lacking, though attention is good; perhaps the seed will take root and spring up later.

We are in a Seventh Day Advent settlement at present, have spoken eleven times (Bro. Russell and myself) and expect to continue this week, and over Sunday, if weather will permit. There are no Saints here, but we have not lacked for food and shelter. The Advents very kindly offered us their church, but for good reasons we thought best to continue in the school-house.

The Advent elder took us home with him one night and we had a very pleasant time with him and his family, but they don't believe in arguing, so we could not get much gospel before them at their home; but we will try to do that when we have the floor. I am not much of a fire-side preacher anyway. My partner does most of that kind of work. Many of the young people and some of the older ones take an active part in the singing, and we do not lack for organists, and we use our books too. Bro. Russell is at Rock Island now, but will be back today.

The work in the district is not moving as well as we would like to see it, for various reasons, perhaps; I will mention just a few.

First, God has set certain officers in his church to lead his Saints on to perfection, and, of course, in order for them to do that they must of necessity perfect themselves so that their teaching will be made effectual by their example; but instead of this, we see many who are still chewing, snuffing and puffing at the forbidden weed, tobacco, hence, making themselves unfit for the Lord's service; and yet, some who are guilty will get up and preach that every word of God is pure, that we must obey His commands, and that we will be judged by His words according to our deeds; and before they are out of the church they will fill their mouth with the unsavory weed, and spit in and on the stove, and in the coal bucket, and sometimes on the floor, for the sisters' skirts to get soiled with.

Second, the local officers are very slack in regard to seeing that the law of God is kept; some have told me that the priests have not been to call on them for years.

Third, we quote Alma 2:3, latter part of verse: "There began to be great contentions among the people of the church; yea, there were envying, and strife, and malice, and persecutions, and pride, even to exceed the pride of those who did not belong to the church." And the wickedness of the church (for some of the members) was a great stumbling block to those who did not belong to the church. And thus the church began to fall in and progress."

I mention these things simply to stir up the minds of us all, so we may be more diligent in the future, and do as Alma and his co-workers did, that is, put the law in force. I hope and pray that we may all arouse to a sense of our duty, so we will not come under the condemnation spoken of in section 116: 2 of Doctrine and Covenants.

Just received word from home that my little girl (Ina) is sick with a fever. I pray that she may soon recover.

Ever your brother in gospel bonds,
J. W. ADAMS.
NEW BARTON, ILL., No. 1, R. F. D.

EXCELSIOR, Wis., Dec. 14.
Editor Ensign:—Having been assigned by Bro. W. A. McDowell to labor in Southwest Wisconsin, I thought as I liked to read of the progress of our grand work in other parts of the world, some might be glad to learn how the restored gospel is winning its way to the hearts and minds of honest men and women in this part of the world. With the exception of about two months I have labored alone the past eight months, and expect to be alone the rest of the conference year.

But since reading Bro. Robert J. Parker's excellent sermon on the old or the new way, I conclude that my mode of travel and preaching is after the old way, for many times I have slung my valise over my shoulder "when there was no other way," and walked from five to ten and twelve miles to get to appointments to save expense, "and after the old way" not be burdensome to the Saints. I feel that the Lord has graciously blessed me and my labors; several have been baptized in these parts. I expect to baptize some next Sunday, and others are near the kingdom. Many true friends have been and are being made to "the faith," and I rejoice in that I am privileged and accounted worthy to preach the gospel and administer in its ordinances as well as to enjoy the blessed influence of God's Holy Spirit, "after the good old way."

Truly, to my mind as well as to the mind of others of the ministry, it is a great and exalted privilege to not only promise the Holy Ghost to those who accept the requirements of the gospel, but to see and know that the Spirit is given and enjoyed by those who do accept and live consistently.

And we find the home becomes more pleasant, fathers and mothers become more capable to raise and educate the children entrusted to their care; children become more obedient and pleasant because of the influence of the Holy Spirit working on the minds and hearts of the people of God, brightening the intellect, strengthening memory and opening up the understanding to the truth.

Seeing and realizing all of this we rejoice in and love the work we are engaged in, and esteem such a profession, accepted by myself and many other young men of the church as well as old, as being the highest, best and noblest profession on earth today. May God bless and care for us all in our works of faith and labors of love in my highest, aim and constant prayer.

In gospel bonds,
ELDER F. L. SAWLEY.

STEWARTSVILLE, MO., Dec. 7.

Dear Ensign:—After the November election I left Stewartsville for Far West stopping on the way to attend a Religio meeting at the Delano branch. Saturday, November 10th, I began work in the Oakland school-house, one mile west of Far West, and continued ten days with good interest, but owing to dark nights and bad roads the attendance was not large. Bro. Geo. H. Hilliard spoke the last night and all enjoyed it very much. Saturday and Sunday, 24th and 25th, I attended the two days meeting at Kingston, Bro. A. W. Head and Benj. Dice in charge, where I baptized four precious souls—the work of the Sunday School. The meetings were a success.

On Monday, 26th, I opened work at Pleasant Grove church, a Christian church. I preached five nights and then came their regular meeting, with a regular onslaught; but not displayed we asked for the church the next week; the elder said they would tell me on Sunday evening. I attended all their meetings and taught the Bible class, much to the displeasure of the elder. Just before meeting they called me out to tell me that they did not like to let me have the church, for I had already got their people divided. I insisted that if I could divide them they ought to be, and if God had divided them they ought to get on the Lord's side; the result was that I got the church for three nights and spoke Monday, Tuesday and Wednesday; the last evening the church was full. I spoke on the Reformation and Restoration. One Catholic said that put a different light on matters. Bro. E. L. Kelley spoke one night, Bro. Benj. Dice assisted two evenings. We made many friends to the work and were invited to speak at two places near there. Hope to in the future. I go to conference and convention at St. Joseph, 14th and 16th inst.

Yours in gospel bonds,
WALTER W. SMITH.

COOK'S POINT, TEXAS, Dec. 14.

Dear Ensign:—I have just closed a very interesting meeting of ten sermons; good turnouts from commencement to the close; quite a number attended who had never heard our claims before. I am sure they were very favorably impressed, and I am satisfied much good was accomplished, our effort being blessed of the Lord.

I became sick and returned home to recuperate, but am better now and aim to start out again soon. I aim to visit the Saints in Falls county, first at Durango, where Elmwood branch meets to worship. I want them to take notice and be ready to meet me at that point, to hold some meetings when I get there.

The next point I expect to stop at is Chilton, where a number of the Saints live. Look out, Bro. McAlister and folks, and other Saints; be ready to have a good meeting when I reach you.

The next point will be Philadelphia branch; look out, Bro. Riley Standefer, have your branch ready for a good time when I get there, for I want to have a good meeting for all who may attend. Let us all do our best, God being our helper, to move the good cause forward in Falls county; if we do our best God will bless our effort and make it a success, notwithstanding the devil's emissaries will be doing all they can about Christmas to promote his cause; but let us remember that God is greater, and will carry on His work in spite of the devil and all his angels and emissaries. Let us do our best to counteract every effort of the enemy of righteousness, by a prudent use of the means the Master has given us to use, let us observe Christmas as becometh Saints, and let none conform to the world in drinking strong drink, or the dance. Let every one keep themselves unspotted from the world. I am your brother in the conflict until the end.

E. W. NONLEY.

GRINNELL, IOWA, Dec. 18.

Editor Ensign:—Bro. L. E. Ellis and I held a very interesting meeting near Viola, Linn county; we began November 11th and closed December 9th; one was baptized, a man in the foremost ranks in the M. E. church, but when he saw that the Methodists were not organized as Christ's church was, and that their minister had no authority, he was ready to obey the gospel. There are five or six more there who, I think, will obey soon. Bro. Potter has done a good work around Viola, also Sr. J. A. Newlin; they are noble Saints.

There is such a demand for preaching in so many places that I scarcely know where to go first. But I suppose I must bid all these places good-by for a time, and labor in the Kewanee district, but I hope to be returned to my old field (Iowa) next April conference. May the church prosper everywhere.

In gospel bonds,
I. S. ROTN.
1011 Summer St.

CENTRALIA, I. T., Dec. 17.

Editor Ensign:—I arrived here 11th, found crusaders in public school building, with their drum and tambourine, and big crowd following them. We rented store building, put in stove and seats, commenced meeting. House was two-thirds full first night, second night house full, last night running over, quite a good many out doors, and crusaders crowd diminished down to two. They closed last night and we go to school building tonight; the literary Society and Woodmen of the World have given way for us.

Everything is going our way, one Christian preacher attending every night. The Spirit is with me in such power that the audience is held spell bound every night, and I have a very intelligent congregation to talk to.

This is one of the most wonderful meetings I ever held in the territory. It is miraculous how the people are moved upon; postmaster helped us to get a building and I have a standing invitation to stay at Commercial Hotel. I am giving them the Angel's Message, Book of Mormon, and all of our doctrine.

Yours in the conflict,
F. C. KECK.

ALPINE, Mich., Nov. 12.

Dear Saints:—It always does us good to hear, and learn about the efforts being made and put forth in advancing the gospel work; to read or listen to the experiences of our brethren and sisters in their support of the gospel cause; of the noble defense made by our elders and missionary force in various parts of God's vineyard. In their zealous struggle to uproot and plant the truth, the gospel-banner. For this reason we have ventured to drop a few lines, that others might know also of what has been done these beautiful autumn days by the Saints and friends at Englishville, led and supported by Elder W. D. Ellis, who has been laboring among us for the past month with the gospel text. No large results have as yet been realized, as but two souls have been added to the church and ordained to eternal life, but the good done, and precious planting and seed sown, no man can truly estimate, for Paul may plant and Apollus may water, but only God can give the increase.

The way the Saints and outsiders attended those meetings and the unobscuring interest manifested from the beginning to the end, was encouraging for the ambassador of Christ as he declared the primitive plan for man's salvation, and the gospel as preached by Christ and His apostles. Bro. Ellis did not refrain to declare the whole counsel of God. None could go away from those services and say that they did not understand the object and import of this, the latter day work, and the recomittal of the gospel of the kingdom of heaven among the children of men.

On account of the efforts and labor among us, we, as a people and a community, not only should feel grateful; but added responsibility should be felt to rest heavily with us all.

Bro. Ellis remained with us until snow came, making tent work impossible. Previous to his coming here he labored zealously for some time at Grand Rapids, and his and other's efforts were rewarded by the addition of some seventeen souls to the fold of Christ.

In gospel bonds,
F. F. FIELD.

LEES SUMMIT, MO., Dec. 18.

Editor Ensign:—Have often thought I would write to our much appreciated paper, that the Saints and friends might know I am in the faith. Having been spared I have a great desire to do what work I can for the Master.

Four weeks ago we moved from Independence to this place, a distance of about fourteen miles; and to say it seemed like leaving home is only what any one would say after living there for nearly fifteen years, also parting with those who had so kindly cared for me during my lateness. I never can express in words the gratefulness of my heart to the dear Saints and friends who so kindly watched by me day and night. Even when all earthly hope had gone, they stood by in faith to comfort and assure me that God was still mindful of me, and in answer to fervent and faithful prayers and complying with the ordinances in God's house, I was healed, and I now enjoy better health than I have ever before. I desire to be of use in His kingdom and do all I can for others who are in trying circumstances.

We came down here to help in church work, and we hope to see more added to this branch. To say that I know this work is true has been my testimony for years. I can also testify that God is true to his promises, and if we live for them the blessings are ours. I am thankful that my lot has been cast with a people of whom the Lord is so mindful, and I shall be happy hereafter if able to associate with those whom we now call brothers and sisters.

I would be pleased to hear from any of my friends with whom I used to correspond. Wishing all a happy New Year.

Yours in the faith,
MRS. H. H. ROBINSON.

ONO, Wisconsin, Dec. 2.

Dear Ensign:—There are a few Saints at this place (Ono) who are striving to press onward in the work of an unchangeable Creator. I am a young Saint and must say a word to the young, as I realize we have a great many trials and temptations to overcome in life to purify ourselves for the coming of Christ. So, young brothers and sisters, let us go to work at once and work while it is yet day, for I fear that when night comes we may look back and say we have taken too many reluctant steps. No, do not let that be said of us, but when trials and temptations come let us go in secret prayer to our heavenly Father "who giveth liberally to all men and upbraideth not," for we find in the word of God that if we "pray in secret we may be rewarded openly;" and let us keep in the "straight and narrow way that leadeth unto life eternal" and "observe all things."

When prayer meeting night comes let us not permit the older ones to do all the work, but be ready to confess our weaknesses to one another and to our heavenly Father, and may we ever be bearing the cross. Saints, do not be ashamed to stand up and bear testimony for God but rather be diligent because we cannot do too much.

I have received many testimonies to the work; I have been healed by the Lord when I was very sick by complying with the law which says, If there be any sick among you they shall call for the elders of the church, and I owe the thanks to no one only to God, the great physician of all.

We have prayer meeting Thursday evenings and Religio meeting Monday evenings. There are not many young Saints here at Ono, but I think we strive to keep our work going; and when we go let us go to meeting breathing a prayer that much good may be accomplished by our striving to meet together and that God's Spirit may guide and direct us, that others seeing our good work may be constrained to glorify Him.

Often my heart goes out in prayer for the many young men and women that are drifting along down the path to destruction and I hope the fire of God's Spirit and love may be kindled in the hearts of such, and that it may illuminate their hearts and souls that they might accept this grand and glorious work. Oh, I would that I could bring them in; let us pray that those who are being led along by the Satanic power may stop and consider that the pleasures of the world are not all in life; no, but the gospel is all in life to me and there is comfort and peace in it.

I am a teacher in Sabbath School and desire an interest in the prayers of all the Saints that I may have that portion of the Spirit that I will teach them the truth in the way God's word presents it; and let each one struggle along from day to day fitting and preparing ourselves for an inheritance on this earth. I feel as the hymn reads:

"Awake, Saints, awake,
No time now for weeping.
"The Lord is near"
Breaks on the ear.
Oh! come, come,
Away."

I close as one desirous of being a faithful sister.

In gospel bonds,
LAURA LAFEBY.

LOGAN, IOWA, Dec. 19.

Editor Ensign:—I rejoice in this latter day work, and when receiving the Ensign and reading its pages out, the good letters it contains causes my heart to rejoice in this glorious work the Lord has established in these last days. I do not have the privilege of meeting with the Saints as often as I would like, as I live six miles from Logan and on account of poor health. I am troubled with what the doctor calls gastric ulcer of the stomach, and I send a special request to the Saints of the church to offer up their prayers in my behalf that I may recover my health and be spared to my family, as I am needed for their support. My desire is that all the Saints may trust in the Lord and gain eternal life.

O. H. HILDRETH.

SAC CITY, Ia., Dec. 12.

Editor Ensign:—Winter, dreary winter, is the usual cry of people living in this latitude, so near the Christmas festivities; but not so this year for the weather is autumn like. I have been holding meetings in Auburn and vicinity, but have not held as many services as would like to have done on account of busy season for corn gathering. I visited several families, both in and out of the church, and have arranged for active gospel work after holidays. I had the pleasure of assisting Bro. C. E. Butterworth, at Auburn which was enjoyed by the writer. He speaks with no uncertain knowledge and testimony.

I am now acting as right hand man for Bro. C. J. Hunt with the main object and defends the faith of this church in a public debate with Rev. W. L. Crowe, a state evangelist of the church of God (sometimes called Restoration church), which is being held in this little city of over two thousand people. Fifteen sessions to be held, of which one-half have been conducted. Elder Crowe is to affirm that man is wholly mortal and unconscious in death. Interest good and the hall is full every evening. Bro. Hunt is small in stature, but is as brave and fearless as a giant. Nothing, even in a debate, seems to daunt him in the least. We feel sure a good victory will be secured here.

We are assisting Bro. C. E. Butterworth, at Auburn which was enjoyed by the writer. He speaks with no uncertain knowledge and testimony.

May the Lord bless Zion and all that pertains to her.
R. WIGHT.

ZION'S ENSIGN.

Entered at the Post Office at Independence, Mo., as Second Class Matter.

LESSONS OF THE HASTENING TIME.

Sermon delivered before the General Conference, at Lamoni, Iowa, Sunday morning, April 15, 1900, by Elder Joseph Luff.

A few months ago in the city of Providence, Rhode Island, a lady member of the church invited a particular friend of hers to hear my closing effort there. The following day another lady, who was quite anxious to know what effect the effort had made upon the visitor's mind, asked her with reference to it, and she replied that in some respects it surpassed anything she had ever heard in her life. "The lady, feeling to a certain extent paid thus far for questioning, urged another question, and said, "Well, may I ask in what respect, was it as to the depth of it?" She said, "No, madam, it was the length of it." So keep it in mind that you have a long winded speaker this morning.

We will read from the Scriptures a few verses selected from separate places, one a portion of John 6, beginning with the 56th verse:

He that eateth my flesh, and drinketh my blood, dwelleth in me, and I in him. As the living Father hath sent me, and I live by the Father: so he that eateth me, even he shall live by me. This is that bread which came down from heaven: not as your fathers did eat manna, and are dead: he that eateth of this bread shall live forever.

Continuing further he says: The words that I speak unto you, they are spirit, and they are life."—v. 63.

Turning to the 15th chapter of the record as made by St. John, we read three or four verses from separate places:

I am the true vine, and my Father is the husbandman. Every branch in me that beareth not fruit he taketh away; and every branch that beareth fruit, he purgeth it, that it may bring forth more fruit.—v. 1, 2.

The 8th verse reads: Herein is my Father glorified, that ye bear much fruit; so shall ye be my disciples.

The 16th verse: Ye have not chosen me, but I have chosen you, and ordained you, that ye should go and bring forth fruit, and that your fruit should remain: that whatsoever ye shall ask of the Father in my name, he may give it you.

The last reading to which I shall now direct your attention will be St. Luke 13: 6-9:

He spake also this parable: A certain man had a fig tree planted in his vineyard; and he came and sought fruit thereon, and found none. Then said he unto the dresser of his vineyard, Behold, these three years I come seeking fruit on this fig tree, and find none: cut it down; why cumbereth it the ground? And he answering said unto him, Lord, let it alone this year also; till I shall dig about it, and dung it: and if it bear fruit, well; and if not, then after that thou shalt cut it down.

I have made selection of plenty of texts, so if the sermon that I preach this morning does not suit you, take any of the verses home with you and preach a sermon from either of them that will suit yourselves. I have, and I do not know why, an impression upon my mind that is leading me to the selection of these passages of Scripture this morning; but whether that impression shall voice itself in the matter that may be presented for your consideration or not, sufficiently clear for you to discern it, and get any profit from it, I am not able to say.

Our hearts were made glad some few years ago when the announcement was made by the man whom we recognize as the prophet to the church, that the time spoken of by Isaiah and by the Palmyra Seer as well as by our president himself, and referred to as the "hastening time," was now upon us. A great many expectations were started within our minds and we were led to look to the right and to the left in order that we might discern or detect, as the case might be, such evidences as would confirm the correctness of the prophet's testimony to us; and I have since that time heard the remark made by more than one individual that they had been disappointed in this regard, in that they had failed to see anything peculiar to the years that have followed by which the speed of the motion of the church had been increased, and by which anything startling had been made to appear connected with the rising up of the church out of its former conditions, and the assertion of a new power with which it was being clothed, as a consequence of which, greater glory should come to God, and more of gratification to the individuals of which the church was composed.

Only yesterday a remark was made similar, and it was provoked upon the lips of the speaker by some things that occurred in our conference work on yesterday and two or three days preceding. The surprise of the individual was spoken of in this way, "If it is the hastening time, why is it that we are hampered as we are?" "Why is it there is such a manifest division of sentiment? Why is it there is not a greater unity or concert of action? Why is it we are not seized as the mind of a single individual by an impulse created within us by the Spirit of God that moves us forward to achievements unhindered?"

When we have an unusually good year for crops, we not only look out upon the fields expecting to find the corn growing faster, or the wheat growing more rapidly, or the oats or the barley or rye, or whatever it may be, but we also expect to find the weeds growing faster; for what is a good growing year for corn is a good growing year for weeds, and that means that greater activity on our part as farmers, is absolutely necessary; and if this is not manifested in us and by us we will not be very much advantaged by its being an excellent growing year. It takes more of effort to subdue what threatens the growth of the grain in these years of rapid growth, than at other times; and applying the illustration, I wondered in my heart whether others had, like myself, failed to take into account when the announcement was made that this was God's hastening time, that the devil knew it as well as our prophet did, and that it would be his hastening time, too; and that every effort that God would put forth by His Spirit, his angels or his human messengers would be paralleled by the exercise and manifestation of a power on the part of the adversary and his emissaries at least to the limit of his power. I have had occasion to note that for every inducement to men to turn away from the path of right in the past, they have had perhaps from six to ten in the last few years; that every inducement for men to do wrong, every temptation, everything in the shape of self-gratification that was presented to individuals in the years past, has been multiplied within the last few years. The very things that our people supposed they were provided against the most strongly, are proving the easiest and the most effective baits that the adversary is throwing out for them to seize.

We have heard individuals talk about spirits in the world, for instance, and quite a good bit has been said, I am told, in this conference, that refers to trying the spirits; and we have been told to try them by the word; we have been told in the years past, that we could, in thus trying them, easier discover their origin or character; and my thought then and my thought now in regard to it was this, that these trials referred to in the Scriptures by which, if it were possible, the very elect should be turned from the truth, would be of that character that they could not explain. If they could explain them, it would be no temptation to them, but because the world would be deluged with facts and circumstances and influences that they could not explain, would constitute the difficulty and present the danger of their being turned away from the truth, notwithstanding they were the elect.

Within the last few days individuals have come to me with the statement, "I saw," "I heard" in certain places persons kneeling and asking God to shower upon them certain blessings in the healing of the sick, in the relieving of the suffering, in the restoration of persons that were crippled. I saw that these persons who were sick were healed; I saw that relief from suffering instantly came, and with more rapidity than it has been my privilege to see even within the church. I saw that cripples were permitted the use of their limbs and that instantly, and after seeing these individuals ask for those blessings at the hands of God, and receiving them, how am I to argue to the contrary when they claim that God, in that respect, is as much in those institutions as in ours that we call His church?

Now, did any one ever meet you when you have spoken in that line with an explanation that was absolutely satisfactory? I will confess to you that my own mind has been perplexed at times, and I have been surprised at many things that my eyes have seen and my ears have heard, but I have never been able to go to the extent that I longed to be able to in giving an explanation to individuals who seemed to be craving for one; but I found strength in the advertisement furnished me earlier in the history of the church, and that recorded in the New Testament Scriptures, in the way of a warning against these things, and the very fact of these multiplied illusions in the world becoming harder to explain, furnished me the stronger argument in support of the divinity of that statement with reference to the danger of the very elect being deceived. They cannot be in every respect explained; that is, they have not been to me.

I am of the opinion that things of this character are being multiplied, and I believe they will prove to be characteristic of what we have been looking forward to as the hastening time; and that the individual who has not fortified himself in the all-sufficiency of the truth of God as set forth in the prophecies, as emphasized by history, as corroborated by the testimony in latter days, as also accented and receiving assent within our experience by the testimony of the divine Spirit to us, unless, I say, we as individuals have fortified ourselves sufficiently by the use of these means thus furnished as against what I have been talking about, the danger will increase instead of lessening before us in the world.

The Savior, in the passage of scripture to which I called your attention, the 5th of John, declared that it was not only necessary that they should follow Him in a kind of a mechanical way, that they should be his disciples in that they cried "Lord, Lord," but that they should absolutely eat him and drink him. It was a strange statement, and if any man—I care not how divinely his mission may have been attested as being from God—should make that statement to these intelligent men and women before me today, they would look at him with awe, and their faith in that individual would perhaps be shattered. I am not surprised that eighteen hundred years ago, when that announcement was made in the hearing of those who had left their all to follow this Savior that some declined to accept it. I fancy I hear one saying to the other: "That is a very strange statement. Are you ready to believe that? Can you follow him any farther?" It is said that from that time some of them turned aside and followed Him no longer. They were but men, and the statement as here made, gives us to understand that weaknesses such as attach to us today, were characteristic of those men.

I wonder whether or not, even today, with all the added light of which we boast to be the possessors, we can understand the language of the Master when He said that our life, in the divine sense, should be dependent upon our eating his flesh, and drinking his blood, and our growth would be proportionate to the degree of strength that we should obtain through partaking of Him in this way? This partaking of Christ in such a way as to have Him assimilated within us, and by us, circulating as a life energy in the arteries of our spiritual being, making every pulsation, every impulse, every glance, every word, every impression, a divine influence in itself, having a tendency to sanctify those upon whom it was brought to bear, is a mystery still. I apprehend the time will never come in the history of this church, high as we may be, or think ourselves to be, in the way of spiritual and moral intelligence today, when we will occupy as this text suggests it to be possible for us to occupy, until we shall have learned the lesson of self-crucifixion to an extent not manifested among us as yet. When people shall be able to discern in me, not Elder Luff, but Jesus Christ, living, ruling, thinking, talking, operating through those eyes and ears and hands, then will this mystery be explained. God, looking from heaven, shall be able then to identify His Son in our work. The stones that I lay in the great spiritual superstructure when compared with those that were laid by the hands of Jesus Christ Himself, shall then be seen to bear the same holy impress. Then the sacrifices, though feeble, or inferior in their degree, that I have been called upon to endure or make, will be eloquent in their testimony of love, and they will be as acceptable in the sight of God as was the work done by Jesus Christ, as an individual, Himself.

There is a great deal being said and written with reference to Christ's life and his death upon the cross. I have heard the sectarian world preach Jesus Christ as loyally as we pretend to do, after a certain fashion. They are advertising him, so far as the name goes. When I was preaching in Canada, a lady took exception to my discourse at the end of it because I did not preach Jesus sufficient. I referred to a number of points in my discourse to evidence the fact that I had preached Christ according to the God intention, and after admitting all of this, she says, "Yes, but you did not use the name of Jesus often enough; you did not talk about the blood enough, about the cross, the groans and the death and his love, etc." That woman had imbibed the idea that a man preached Christ just in proportion as he happened to jingle the names "blood, Christ, Jesus, etc.," as you juggle the rhyme words at the end of lines of poetry or doggerel; just in proportion as a man did that, he preached Christ, according to her idea. We do not understand it that way.

Many, in their proclamation of Jesus Christ, make the announcement that He is the bread of life and that except we eat his flesh and drink his blood we have not eternal life abiding in us; and yet when you come to press upon them a consideration of that statement which follows, in which Jesus explained the mystery to his disciples: "It is the spirit that quickeneth, the flesh profiteth nothing; the words that I speak unto you, they are spirit and they are life," they fail to comprehend the force of that, and perhaps we do sometimes. I have not grasped it to the extent that it is possible for men to grasp it, and that I yet hope to, but I see a beauty in it beyond what seems to be reflected in much that I have heard.

He says, "I am the bread of life." In what sense is he the bread of life? How are we to receive him as such? Why, just as He came down from heaven, without putting Him through any mill processes. He is whote wheat bread. In the world certain conceptions of Christ are offered to us in connection with which He is declared to be the bread of life, associated with this statement, that the words He speaks, "they are spirit and they are life." We are sometimes told that, in proportion as a man acquaints himself with the word, he becomes partaker of the life referred to, for the word is spirit and life. So that if a man has a very good memory and you can wake him up in the middle of the night and ask him to recite a certain chapter either located in the New or Old Testament scriptures, and he can respond immediately and under any exigency rattle off the words, he must have spiritual life; but that is far from being correct. Jesus Christ is the bread of life and His word is spirit and life to us; but how does Christianity present it to us? First they run that word through their theological mills and eliminate nearly all the nutriment it contains, so that what they offer to us is as destitute of the original nutriment as our patent flour is of gluten and nourishing elements, and instead of a man getting more life from it in proportion to the quantity used, he weakens in tissue and becomes a dyspeptic. That is the truth of the matter.

They take grain as it is raised and run it through their roller processes nowadays, and bring it to us, and the bread we eat, very frequently, instead of building up muscle and nerve, thus strengthening us and building us up—supplying what we lose in the natural waste—it often happens that the more a man eats of it, the worse condition he gets into physically, for the reason that there has been eliminated from the grain in the process of milling, that which was best calculated to supply what man needs; and even were it preserved entire, as at first, it does not depend upon the quantity man devours as to the degree of life and physical energy that shall come to him. Much might be eaten and less digested, and still less assimilated, hence no proportionate health.

If I take the word of God which is referred to as spirit and life, and permit these theological millers to run it through their roller process and bring it to me that I may be nourished by it, I find myself in precisely this same spiritual and moral attitude as a result—instead of its bringing me more of the divine life and energy and power and prestige of spirit, it removes it from me; it renders me less capable, in that the very normal appetite that I may have possessed before, is injured by its use, and a less normal condition follows, so that when a truth is presented to me later, I am not able to take it and assimilate it as I might once have done. It is a serious fact that confronts people in the world today. It is a truth that the simple language of the Bible means just what it says, to all except those whom theological millers have made dyspeptic by creed interpretations.

For instance: they take the doctrine of baptism for the remission of sins; the doctrine of immersing the human body in water. They put it into the hopper of their theological mill, and when it comes to us what is there to it? It amounts in a few instances to the sprinkling of a few drops of water on a party's head. What of spiritual nutriment is there? The more a man imbibes of that doctrine, the more a spiritual dyspeptic will he become. The remission of sins is no longer its object, only "an outward sign of inward grace" remains. How nourishing that is.

About all you get out of the doctrine of repentance in the church when it has gone through the milling process and been handed to you, is that if the eye is moistened with a tear, some little ashes and sack-cloth is put upon the head, the demands of the law with reference to repentance have been met. You go back to the law containing the truth in regard to repentance and you find that the individual is obligated, upon the discovery of his wrong, to rectify the wrong to the fullest extent of his power, making restitution, and that he has no right to ask God Almighty to supplement his work until he has exhausted his own power in the effort to do that work; that he has no more right to ask God Almighty to forgive a wrong that he committed against his fellow, until he, as an individual, has gone the full extent of his power to make that wrong right, than he has to ask heaven to pay his grocery bills while he has a fat bank account.

You take the doctrine of the laying on of hands and it is about the same; an ordinance to be observed mechanically in confirming some individuals within the churches regardless of their moral worth or of divine acceptance. Sometimes used in ordaining without the faintest thought of communicating divine authority—a mere form, robbed of all its spiritual significance, left without anything in connection with it by which the experience it brings can prove to us its identity with the purpose for which it was instituted of God as shown in the Scriptures, or in the days of which the Scriptures speak. Where is the gift of the Holy Ghost? Where the healing of the sick or the blessing of children? All ground out in the mills of theology.

So I may go to the gifts of the gospel. I may speak of the gift of tongues, and these theological millers tell me it means simply a change, that a man speaks in a new tongue when he is converted; he praises instead of curses. Prophecy is reduced to teaching, and so in regard to many miracles and signs spoken of here. The Scriptures as they are handed to us through the milling processes referred to, are calculated in their very nature to take us away from instead of in the direction of the everlasting truth. No wonder the religious world is dyspeptic—the appetite capricious and the every vagary or nostrum and all kinds of patent religious remedies are being invented to answer the call of corrupted tastes and depraved appetites.

Now under these conditions, I ask, to what degree is it possible for an individual to carry out the thought that God has expressed through his servant in this 15th chapter of John, the bearing of much fruit? We are informed in this chapter that the branch cannot live, continue to live, except it abide in the vine and partake of the nourishment furnished from the vine. We are told that the purpose of God in choosing his ministers, and I presume in selecting his disciples also in general, was that they should bring forth fruit, but their fruit should remain. Did you ever stop when reading that, and consider what might be meant in it? When I have seen an individual rushing off after mile with a view to finding somebody to baptize and hvy them into this church, I wonder whether he has stopped to think of the significance of the statement, "And that your fruit shall remain." God is so anxious for a big list of names on our church book, as I is about the character of those so recorded. An entrance into school does not always result in graduation and favorable probation. College books, teachers, etc., are wasted upon some who later, and thus the fact that they attended school for years, become a disgrace to them.

"Every branch in me that beareth not fruit, he taketh away." This statement means that if a man is a fruitful, God has no use for him in the place referred to. The church, the spirit, the gospel, all aiming at fruit; and help takes place with them and main barren, makes them a "word of death" to himself, and disgraces himself. That which prevents the life energy of the vine from being transmitted to me as a branch, aims at my death. If the law, the gospel—which is spirit and life—~~is not~~ assimilated and does not go into my circulation, and produce fruit, then I am not eating and drinking Christ, unto eternal life. But there is another statement that we fail to notice being equally important; that only does he take action with reference to the vine that has been abiding in Him and partaker of life with fruitfulness, but he deals very severely with the branch that does bear fruit—"he purgeth it, that it may bring forth more fruit." I have stood with astonishment sometimes, listening to comments that have been made as to conditions throughout the church. Some have thought that something must be wrong here in the character; something must be wrong in the motive somewhere else; something of a secret character must be hidden that only the eye of God could detect in individuals, where persons were prevented by various things, from filling the mission or perfecting the work which the office they held seemed to demand. Beginning with the prophet and going as far as they could find evidence of physical trouble or mental distress, they have attributed those sufferings to a loss of favor with God, because of sin of some kind. They have not thought of the possibility that God was purging the already fruitful branch that its future usefulness might be increased, or the character of the fruit borne might be still better and more abundant than it otherwise could have been.

You know the account that you read, of what they did over here in Honolulu awhile ago, when the plague occurred. They wanted to purge the city of that plague and they did it by fire, and they burned down the houses in the locality that was infested by it.

You know what it means when the physician prescribes some kind of a remedy to purge a man of some foreign or disturbing element in his body. You know what it is to apply water for the purging of vessels; you understand all about it; and when you come to the consideration of that which relates to man's spiritual power, the same thought should be borne in mind, that God, in His infinite mercy and kindness, makes use of that which shall render more effectually and noble, those who have been approved by Him. I have wished sometimes that the prayers that have ascended to Him in secret and from the hearts and lips of those who have been struggling to do right could be understood; the depth of them, the devoutness manifest in them could be understood by those who were distant from the ones breathing them forth, that they might better comprehend the purposes of God in His dealings with those individuals who were offering them.

I follow this thought on now to the reading of another chapter and make the application more directly, as we finish. In the 18th chapter of Luke's record, we have the idea presented to us in the form of a parable. A man coming to his vineyard finds a fig tree there without fruit upon it, and orders that it shall be cut down. The vine dresser enters a plea for it and we are left to suppose that as a result of his plea the tree is permitted to remain for another year. I take it for granted his vineyard was intended to represent the church of Christ, and that the trees in the vineyard are the members of the body, that just as that owner of the vineyard expected when the trees were planted there that each should be fruitful in its turn, so it is the design of God in the gospel, that in our being planted in the church and kingdom of God, we, too, shall become fruitful, and that each shall render according to the measure of their possibility.

In the mind of the owner of that vineyard there was no thought entertained of simply having fig trees for ornament; there was no intention that any part of that vineyard, or any space within it, should be occupied by trees that did not yield their measure of fruit; and when he makes the discovery for the third time, as to the barrenness of a certain tree, he orders its removal. In this kingdom and government of God, is it true that God has no place for those who bear no fruit? Is it true that it is not in his purpose that we shall occupy the place that might be so much better occupied by others who would bear fruit to His honor? Is it a fact that today we are not out by the wayside where we might catch a chance watering, or a chance ray of the sun, but where we are receiving the special attention and consideration of the angels of God, and the divine Spirit and the Only Begotten Son, as well as of God himself? And through the direct channels of His grace there are being let in upon us those streams which, by divine appointment according to His wisdom, are best calculated to induce fruitfulness, and to make us honored and acceptable occupants in His vineyard? And in view of this probability, is it true that any of us are found as deserving of condemnation as was the tree under consideration?

We are required to "live by every word that proceedeth from the mouth of God," in order that we may partake of life and nutriment and that we may yield fruit. What is the character of the fruit? The apostle, in his letter to the Galatians, tells us that the fruits of the Spirit are love, joy, peace, meekness, long suffering, gentleness, brotherly kindness and charity. If these be in you and abound, it shall make you that yeshall be neither barren nor unfruitful, * * * but he that lacketh these things is blind and cannot see afar off."

That is to say, it doesn't matter how much of favor from heaven I may receive, how much of divine grace of which I am the recipient, how clearly, and loudly, and truthfully I can testify that this gospel is of God, and has so been certified to me by the divine Spirit, if these results that God intended should come in consequence of such favor being shown me, this fruit does not appear, then I am occupying a place in the kingdom of God to waste? I am blind, and do not see the divine purpose—I "cannot see afar off."

I have heard it said in places where I have been, by individuals who were in the enjoyment of the open gifts of the gospel, that the possession of those spiritual gifts was a consequence of their being higher in favor with God than those not having them; there was more of personal righteousness attaching to them, than to those who were not enjoying those outward manifestations, and that idea has been made use of to, the disparagement of many who never were called upon to prophesy or speak in tongues.

In a few instances I have made comparisons. I have found individuals, for instance, who have never been inspired to prophesy, never spoke in tongues, never received of the gift of healing, individuals who have never been made to exercise any of these outward or visible gifts of the Spirit, and yet who have excelled in righteousness, in virtue, and whose growth was being manifested almost every day of their lives, until they stand, many of them, in the church of God today as pillars, both male and female; and in case of necessity or exigency, they would be among the first to whom we would go, knowing them to be uncompromising in their fidelity to God and His gospel.

I have known others who were permitted to enjoy and to exercise those blessed and inestimable ministrations of the Spirit, such as prophecies, visions, miracles and healings, some of whom never rose to the standard of virtue reached by the first mentioned. Now, do you suppose that the absence of fruit unto holiness in these was condoned on the ground that they possessed gifts? or did these gifts show them to be closer to God, notwithstanding their lack of fruit?

The tree in the vineyard under consideration bore no fruit. The owner passed a sentence upon it, but the vinedresser entered his plea; the result of that plea is that the tree was allowed to remain—not because it was filling its place well, not because it was answering its purpose of existence, but because somebody had entered a plea and promised to do extra work in its behalf during the coming year to compel fruitfulness.

Suppose that during the following year that fig tree is allowed to exist, the vinedresser comes and clips the branches of other trees around it, for its sake, that more light can get at it. He waters it more and applies the fertilizer, he seems to give two or three times more attention to this than he is giving to others. The proportion runs about in that line, and towards the close of the year, that tree, should it be permitted to find voice, raises itself up and says, "Do not all of you fig trees see how much higher I stand in the estimation of the owner of this vineyard than you do? He has shown three times the care and favor over me than he has towards you. Why don't you fig trees come up to higher ground and get higher into the favor of the owner of this vineyard? Come up."

And all the trees in the vineyard look on and say, "You poor, silly, barren thing; you are so blind that you cannot see afar off; can you not see the purpose of the vinedresser in what is being done? do you not see that it is your pitiable barrenness that is making the extra care necessary?" My prayer is, may the church receive and enjoy a thousand fold more than it does of open gifts. But I say further that to make the possession of those gifts the basis of an argument that God is more in favor with that individual, or his conduct, than others, is a fallacy from the root to the end of the branch. There is no warrant for it in such cases as I have referred to.

I have sat in meetings and I have heard people talk about angels and the manifestation of the divine Spirit, and my soul has been elevated and it just seemed as if my being was on fire, or being swept by an uncontrollable energy to break forth in songs of gratitude to God; and sometimes in less than five minutes I have heard other individuals talk along the same line and it seemed as if the very marrow in my bones would freeze, and they were talking just as fervently and nicely as the others, and told of just as wonderful things. I am not here to say that those things that affect me in this way are not of God always; but I am here to say that it is an indication of something, and it may possibly be occasionally, that where in one instance the manifestation from God, in the form of those divine blessings bestowed, is answering its purpose unto fruitfulness, in the other it is not.

For instance, if a man should rise up here and speak in tongues in my hearing this morning, and then he should interpret it, or another should for him, that individual in the audience might justly wonder as being high in favor with God. If I knew that he had a reasonable good bank account, and yet had been owing his butcher bill, and his grocery bill for years, and that he was morally weak in several regards, I'd take my chances of divine favor and of final salvation with God, on showing receipts for my paid butcher or grocer bill, if I never saw nor heard of the gift of tongues, rather than I would take the chance of salvation for the man that had the gifts, but did not pay his butcher's and grocer's bill. I'd rather take as a certificate of worth and base my claim upon it, in God's presence, the fact of having spoken the naked truth, no matter who it hurt or who it seemed to make an enemy of, that I had paid my bills, that I had tried to act honorably and honestly among men in the world, with nothing else to recommend me for celestial estate with God—nothing miraculous to parade of an open spiritual character by way of inducement—than to have all of these other miraculous things, without the former. Understand my thought now, and don't report me as disparaging the gifts. They are too sacred to me for that.

The object is fruit, and if the fruit is not there, then even prophecy, of which you boast, every gift of tongues of which we bear truthful testimony, every manifestation of divine favor, is a record against us, placed by our own voice when we testify of it. Suppose I should place a peach there, and a pear here, and a tomato here, and a plum there, and call one a rindrop, and the other a dewdrop, and the other a snowdrop, and the other a sun ray. You would all contradict me, of course, but it would come just as near being correct as is the idea that the gifts of the Spirit are the fruits of the Spirit. The one is a product of the other. God sends the rain, the sunshine, the dew, the snow to the earth, and the trees yield their fruit as a consequence. God sends prophecies, makes men speak in tongues, gives these marvelous gifts, to the end that we will yield fruit, and that our fruit should remain and abound unto eternal life. The first evidence of that fruitage is the increase of love within the individual. The fruits of the Spirit are love, joy, peace, long suffering, etc., and where gifts fail of these products, God is not honored, and there as a "tinkling cymbal."

I have had people work for me—so have many of you—and when their days were finished they have put in their account, I have paid the bill. do not know that I owe a man a cent on earth today. But did you ever give a dollar or a quarter or a dime to a man except he was deserving of it or he earned it? I have given a god many dimes in my time to individuals who never earned for my hand; but in such cases, when I questioned whether they had earned it, but did they need it? I gave it to them because they needed it and in some instances would perish if they did not get it; and God Almighty has been doing that with scores of individuals in this world. The man who rises and says, I have that gift or the other because I am higher in favor with God or divine esteem than others who go without these gifts, may be advertising his folly, within the church and without. Let it be understood throughout the church that God is dealing with necessity as well as deserts.

God will pay you every cent you earn, but he pays money sometimes to people that do not earn it, just the same as you do; has done it many times, and I can point you to instances and I could name persons upon whom divine favor has rested to a marvelous degree, and so far as anything that we can discern is concerned, they are no higher in the moral scale than they were twenty years ago when the gospel first touched them and some of them were openly violating the divine law; yet all along the line they have been truthfully testifying of wonderful grace furnished them from time to time.

I heard of a man living down in Nauvoo some years ago who claimed that he prophesied that predicted as a blessing upon his head that whenever he should call upon the Lord for a blessing unto himself and for his family in times of distress he should have it. And so he availed himself of that promise and when disease or anything like it came to his house he seemed to receive a blessing every time he asked for it; and lots of better people around him would have to pray and groan and be denied. What shall we do in regard to this? That man could be found staggering from the effects of a use of intoxicating liquor and at times would have profanity on his lips. He was far below the strict moral standard. Was he higher in divine favor than anybody else because of what he received when he prayed. No; it simply showed that God was true to his word; but the barren man could not see the obligation it placed him under, could not "see afar off." God dealt with the poor fellow's necessity, not his deservings. Unto God alone belongs the right to decide where, and when, and to whom, and under what circumstances He will bestow His divine grace. You, certainly, and I, will get all that we live for, God will pay us all; but we must not as individuals come to the conclusion that because He is doing many things for us along certain lines it is because we have earned it and are more deserving than others. It is a mistaken idea, in my judgment at least.

Now I used the word "necessity." God deals with necessity—the needs of the people. I do not mean to say, nor be understood that because a man receives more extraordinarily in the lines that I have named, that therefore his moral condition is necessarily worse than others that are not so receiving. I use the word necessity in its broadest sense. I gave a person forty cents one time in San Francisco with which to buy a dozen of eggs. I gave an individual twenty-five cents to buy three dozen of eggs in Independence at another time. The party to whom I gave the forty cents was no more in my favor than the one to whom I gave the quarter, but the circumstances were different and it made the necessities vary, and I supplied the necessity.

Six men start on a journey. We will suppose that the city of Boston is their destination; one of them starts from Lamoni, the other starts from San Francisco, another one starts from Chicago, one starts from Honolulu, etc. There is one thing that you must take into consideration; if you want these men to all meet in Boston at a certain time, you must either permit some to start earlier, or provide more rapid transit for them than others. It seems to me God Almighty takes these things into consideration, and there are some people starting for the Celestial city from a point a million miles away, and some a hundred miles distant, morally and spiritually considered. God picks some men up who are the very embodiment of virtue and goodness; some who are intellectual giants and have prestige and influence to exercise, and their very presence seems as if there had been a favor done the church to have them admitted into it; and those people, because of their education and surroundings and everything connected with it, their natural phrenological construction, those people have a compar-

"INCURABLE" HEART DISEASE SOON CURED.

FRANKLIN MILES, M. D., LL. B., WILL SEND $25.00 WORTH OF HIS SPECIALLY PREPARED TREATMENT FREE TO AFFLICTED READERS.

To demonstrate the unusual curative power of his new individual treatment for diseases of the heart, the nerves, stomach, or dropsy, Dr. Miles will send, free, to any afflicted person, $25.00 worth of his new treatment.

It is the result of twenty-four years of careful study, extensive research, and remarkable experience in treating thousands of heart, stomach and nervous diseases, which so often complicate each case. So certain are the results of his New Individual Treatment that he does not hesitate to give all patients a trial free.

Physicians have such confidence in the results of his treatment of their patients, as no false inducements are ever held out. The Doctor's private practice is so extensive as to require the aid of twenty assistants. His offices are always open to visitors.

Col. N. G. Parker, Ex-Treasurer of South Carolina, says: "I believe Dr. Miles to be an attentive and skillful physician, in a field which requires the best qualities of head and heart." The late Prof. J. S. Jewell, M. D., editor of the Journal of Nervous and Mental Diseases, of Chicago, wrote, "by all means publish your surprising results."

Hundreds of "incurable Cases" cured. Mrs. Frank Smith, of Chicago, was cured of heart dropsy after five leading physicians had given her up. Hon. C. M. Buck, banker, Faribault, Minnesota, writes: "I had broken completely down. My head, heart, stomach and nerves had troubled me greatly for years. Reared I would never recover, but Dr. Miles' Individual Treatment cured me after six well known physicians of Chicago and elsewhere had completely failed." Mrs. P. Countryman, of Pontiac, Illinois, says: "Several years ago when I sent to Dr. Miles for Individual Treatment, three physicians said I could not live two weeks. I could not walk six feet then; now I can do all my work." A thousand references to, and testimonials from Bishops, Clergymen, Bankers, Farmers, and their wives, have been sent free on request. These include many who have been cured after from five to fifteen physicians had pronounced them incurable. Address Dr. Franklin Miles, 201 to 209 State street, Chicago, for free treatment.

atively easy course. They are comparatively near the goal.

But God picks another one up that is not endowed as highly as the first, and He takes still another poor fellow who is loaded down with passion and environments enough to crush anyone, one that has been actually dripping with sin and corruption and nearly every pressure on his life has had an influence to degrade him, and He puts that man on his feet and says, "Use the means I give you; I am going to furnish you either longer time or more rapid transportation in order for you to reach the same goal as the others. You have much farther to go." He is going to "bestow more abundant honor on that part which lacks," an endowment of grace only because it is needed. And God will never give the extraordinary where the ordinary will do, or the supernatural where the natural will answer.

Dr. Saul of Kansas City, a prominent evangelist, once came to my house, and after I had spent six hours with him and put him through an entire catechizing so far as the time admitted, he acknowledged the doctrine was true, but he wanted a revelation from God. I don't think you will get it, I said; you may, but I do not think it. He asked, "Why," and mentioned a poor man over in a certain place who had been inquiring about this faith and to whom God had condescended to give a revelation showing that this church was right, told him the man who would baptize him, and told him where he would be baptized. "Now," said the doctor, "He did it for him, why would He not do it for me?" I said, "Suppose you were a general in an army, you want a half dozen men to occupy a certain position and looking off to a certain distance and make notes. You will observe the ground is level. One man is six foot four inches, one only five feet, and others ranging between those heights; and between their standing ground and the place where you want them to fix their eyes there are a good many obstructions. The tall man can see over them; what will you do with the short man?" He says, "I will put a sixteen inch pedestal under their heads are on a level." "Then, doctor," I says, "you would put a sixteen inch pedestal under the six-foot-four man too?" "No, I would not, that would simply maintain the inequality." "That is what you are asking God Almighty to do; because he put under that man's feet something that elevated him up until he could see by supernatural means what you have confessed by natural means, you want Him now to place that same pedestal under your feet and put you higher than that man that you confess needed it. Your natural endowment is sufficient for you to comprehend that which He has ordained for you. There is a divine communion of the Spirit that comes through our organs without seeming to produce anything sensational or startling and there are other manifestations of the Spirit, supernatural, without which many cannot grasp situations greeting them. God will fail to give you the latter for the reasons named."

He confessed that what I had said seemed correct. I learned only a few days ago when I went over into the neighborhood where the man resided to whom he had referred as having had such a wonderful revelation, and I found that the poor fellow is virtually out of the church; remained in it a few years and then went out. Somebody who is doing those marvelous things in healing out of the church has captured him. But let him go where he will, his own testimony that God showed him that this was His church and did it miraculously, will follow him to his condemnation, and God will be free.

Suppose this Dr. Saul should accept the truth—he has not done it—and he should finally appear before God and testify of the divinity and grandeur of this work as certified to him through the use of his natural organs, while the other man should rise up and say, "I did not have the ability that Dr. Saul had as a man; I could not see, consequently I am excusable;" and God will say, "I met that lack of the natural in you with a supernatural endowment and I supplied everything supernaturally that was needful to elevate you to the position that was occupied by the other, so that as a consequence of bestowing 'more abundant honor on that part which lacketh' you were qualified to testify as he did." Where will then be his excuse? It was the Holy Spirit in both, but diverse in its operations.

When I speak of God dealing with necessity I do not mean that a man is morally or intellectually weak always because he receives more in the line referred to than others, though it may be so in exceptional cases such as I have named; but I make the statement that God recognizes necessity wherever necessity exists—of any kind. The president of our church needs more revelation than I do. There is a necessity for it with him because of his position and duty that does not exist with me. There is a necessity for me and some of my brethren of the quorum of Twelve to receive, greater than there is with some individuals upon whom responsibilities are not so great. Position, duty, sphere, mental, moral, physical status, all exhibit necessities—one perhaps unknown to the other, and all this evidences the fact that it needs wisdom, divine and infinite, to deal with the demand; and the grandest evidence of divinity in this latter day work that has ever reached this intellect of mine and under the influence of which I have been enabled to testify that it is really of God, is the fact of its adaptation in its appointment to infinite variety of necessity. There is not a man from one of the footstool of God to the one who reveals a necessity but provision is made for it and him in its marvelous economy—be that necessity great or small; so that none can be found with a rightful excuse in their hands.

Thus we can safely meet the messenger—death—and go out into the great beyond with the assurance that the God who has taken so much pains and reflected so much wisdom with reference to the conditions of such a world as this, will exercise all of that wisdom and as much more as is needful, in a provision for the conditions that lie beyond in the realm where the demands or the necessities may be greater than they ever are here today. May we feed on Christ, bear holy fruit and occupy in His kingdom till he comes.

FOR SALE.

A first class, well established grocery business in Independence can be obtained at a bargain if taken at once. Will pay a hustler well. Reason for selling, other business demands attention. Address Grocer, care Ensign Publishing House, Independence, Missouri.

Holiday Excursions.

Missouri Pacific Railway will sell holiday tickets to all points within a distance of 200 miles (minimum rate up to $50). Tickets on sale December 22d, 23d, 24th, 25th and 31st and January 1st. Good returning January 2, 1961.

JNO. J. ACKEMAN, Agt.

ANYONE in a position to use church literature to good advantage apply to M. H. Clark, Box 4, Station A, Kansas City, Missouri. We have a large supply on hand and at our disposal, and trust you will make your wants known.

CURES CANCER.

TREATMENT FREE.

Cancer is the worst disease on earth yet the easiest to cure when B. B. B. (Botanic Blood Balm) is used. Many have pimples, spots on the skin, ulcers, itching skin, bone pains, rheumatism, catarrh, eating, bleeding, festering sores, scrofula, scabs and scales, and don't know it is the way cancer begins. Get Botanic Blood Balm (B. B. B.) $1. A few Bottles guaranteed to cure the worst cases. Sold at drug stores. Treatment of B. B. B. free by writing to Blood Balm Co., 86 Mitchell St., Atlanta, Ga. Describe trouble—free medical advice given until cured. Medicine sent at once, prepaid. B. B. B. thoroughly tested for 80 years. Cures when all else fails. B. B. B. makes the blood pure and rich and heals every sore, and stops all aches and pains. Thousands cured.

NOTICE.

To all who expect to buy or move to Independence with a view of residing here permanently—I am prepared to furnish you with all the information needed in regard to real estate, if you will enclose stamp for reply. Now is a very good time to buy; values are at a very low ebb, and the Saints may as well take advantage of it.

Your lother,
W. S. LOAR.

$495.

Will buy 44 acres with 100 room cottage, barn, well, etc. in West Lamon, Iowa. Only a small payment required to secure this home, and it is a bargain. See 2022 2nd Andy to Box 7, Lamon, Iowa.

GRAGELAD COLLEGE, LAMONI, IOWA.

Send for Catalogue.
I. W. ALLRED, Secretary,
Lamon, Iowa.

EUGENE FIELD'S POEMS A $7.00 BOOK

The Book of the century. Handsomely illustrated by thirty-two of the World's Greatest Artists. This book could not have been sold for less than $7.00. The fund created for the benefit of the family of the late Eugene Field and the fund for the building of a monument to the memory of the best poet of childhood.

Eugene Field Monument, Souvenir Fund, 1000 St. Louis, CHICAGO.

(Also at Book Store. If you also wish to purchase, enclose 10c.)

is inserted as our gift.

STATE SAVINGS BANK OF LAMONI.

Incorporated under the laws of the State of Iowa, July 1, 1898.

Offers depositors a safe bank for their savings, and solicits the correspondents and deposits of all banks, and will pay four per cent interest per annum on year deposits. Send money by Bank Draft, or Express, or Post Office order, or Registered Letter, or your private check on any bank in the United States or Canada, and direct your letter to W. A. Hopkins, Cashier of the State Savings Bank of Lamoni, Iowa. Upon receipt of your certificate of deposit will be issued and sent on return mail to the sender. This bank has facilities for handling a very large business by keeping surplus funds invested in safe and available securities and has already received deposits from sixteen foreign states. All letters containing names or addresses will be promptly answered.

List of Stockholders:—Wm. Anderson, Geo. H. Hilliard, Mrs. David Dancer, Miss Alice Dancer, Mrs. Ella D. Whitehead, Mrs. Lucy L. Rossette, A. K. Anderson, W. A. Hopkins, Oscar Anderson, Frank Criley and Geo. W. Blair.

A Singer Sewing Machine

THE BEST INVESTMENT ON EARTH, earning more in proportion to cost than any other purchase possible.

THREE DIFFERENT KINDS, either lock-stitch or chain-stitch.

BUILT LIKE A WATCH, at the largest and best equipped factory in the world, where every machine is carefully tested on practical stitching.

Sold only by THE SINGER MANUFACTURING COMPANY

DR. JOS. MATHER, PHYSICIAN.

Office at Residence, 301 S. Spring St., INDEPENDENCE, MO.
CALLS ANSWERED NIGHT OR DAY.
Phone 100-3.

SUBSCRIBE FOR THE College City Chronicle The Leading Local Paper of LAMONI, IOWA. Published Weekly by the Chronicle Publishing Co.

THEY ADMIT IT.

Bro. Hull, Chauncey, Ohio, says we saved him $12.00 on a $13.00 suit.
Bro. Farrell, West Sullivan, Maine, writes that we saved him $5.00 on a $7.00 suit.
Youth's heavy three-piece suit, age 12 to 19, $3.50.
Goods are all sent prepaid.

MEASUREMENTS.—Give size of bust around chest just under arms with coat off, size of waist, length of in seam of pant leg, your height and weight.

Make all drafts, express and money orders payable at Seymour, Mo. Send all correspondence, letters, orders and registered letters to Cumorah, Mo. THE E. T. ATWELL CO. Cumorah, Mo.

QUIT-TO-BAC CURES THE TOBACCO HABIT.

BOXES, POSTPAID, $1.50 (U.S. Stamps or Money Order.)

With Positive Guarantee of Cure, or Money Cheerfully Refunded. You Run No Risk; why not try it and be a free man? Address, (Bro.) B. F. ORDWAY, Peoria, Ill.

OLDEST. LARGEST. BEST. 35TH YEAR

SPALDING'S COMMERCIAL COLLEGE. (INCORPORATED) East Wing, N. V. Life Bldg., Kansas City, Mo.

Bookkeeping, Shorthand, Typewriting, Telegraphy, English Branches. Twenty Rooms. Sixteen Teachers and Lecturers. No Vacations. Practical Courses. Thorough Instruction. Rates Moderate. Free Catalogue.

FREE EMPLOYMENT BUREAU. Tel. 1174. J. F. Spalding, A. M., Pres.

CANCER CURED

WITH SUFFERING, BALMY OILS. Cancer, Tumor, Catarrh, Piles, Fistula, Ulcers, Eczema and all Skin and Vornb Diseases. E. Watson, M.D., Chicago, Ill. H. Sherman, M.D., New York, N.Y. Dr. J. C. Byrd, M.D., Kansas City, Mo. Write for Illustrated Brochure. Cor. 9th and Broadway, KANSAS CITY, MO.

$5.00 BOX RAIN COAT

This Regular $5.00 Waterproof RAINCOAT for $2.75. Send no money. Cut this ad. to us. State your height, weight, state number of inches around chest, waist over vest, undercoat, close up under arms, and we will send you this coat by express O. D. subject to examination. Examine it at your nearest express office and if exactly as represented, the most wonderful bargain you ever saw. It is made of, and equal to any $5.00 coat on the market. You save the cost of a special manufacturer's price $2.75 and express charges.

THIS RAINCOAT is the latest style waterproof, tan color, genuine Dacron lining, and is guaranteed the greatest bargain you ever saw. It is made of the best material and guaranteed the greatest bargain you ever saw. It is made of the best material and guaranteed the greatest bargain you ever saw.

any other house. Write for free samples of our raincoats, from $2.00 up, and guaranteed to fit. Write to H. S. DILLER & CO., 305 Dearborn St., Chicago.

R. R. TIME TABLES.

MISSOURI PACIFIC—MAIN LINE DEPOT.
TRAINS WEST.
No. 95—Wichita and K. C. Mail.	12:49 a.m.
" 9—Kansas & Nebraska Lim.	4:34 a.m.
" 93—Texas, Joplin & K. C. Ex.	8:15 a.m.
" 8—St. Louis Express.	8:33 a.m.
" 73—Lexington Branch Pass.	8:55 a.m.
" 7—Past Mail.	10:00 a.m.
" 91—Joplin and K. C. Mail.	3:16 p.m.
" 1—St. Louis Mail and Ex.	5:37 p.m.
" 81—St. Louis Express.	6:55 p.m.
" 71—Lexington Branch Pass.	6:57 p.m.
TRAINS EAST.
No. 90—K. C. & Wichita Mail.	2:52 a.m.
" 72—Lexington Branch Pass.	6:53 a.m.
" 6—St. Louis Mail	7:23 a.m.
" 92—K. C. Texas & Joplin Mail	8:57 a.m.
" 2—St. Louis Through Mail & Pass.	10:17 a.m.
" 75—Lex. Branch Passenger.	6:10 p.m.
" 4—St. Louis Through Mail & Pass.	1:57 p.m.
" 94—K. C. Tex. & Joplin Ex.	7:40 p.m.
" 3—St. Louis Through Mail & Pass.	9:30 p.m.
" 10—Kan. & Neb. Limited.	11:12 p.m.
Nos. 7, 9 and 10 do not stop.
LIBERTY STREET DEPOT.
TRAINS WEST.
No. 73—Lex. Branch Pass.	8:30 a.m.
" 71—	9:40 a.m.
TRAINS EAST.
No. 72—Lex. Branch Pass.	8:56 a.m.
" 78—	9:35 p.m.
Tel. 17. F. A. MILLARD, Agt.
CHICAGO & ALTON.
EAST BOUND.
" 101—Local Way Freight.	8:00 a.m.
" 47—St. Louis & Chicago Mail	8:30 a.m.
" 85—	5:51 p.m.
No. 51—Chicago Limited.	6:40 p.m.
" 49—St. Louis Flyer.	9:40 p.m.
WEST BOUND.
" 84—	6:15 a.m.
" 162—Local Way Freight.	2:40 p.m.
" 8—Chicago & St. Louis Mail	5:51 p.m.
All trains make regular stops. Through tickets to all points in the United States and Canada. For further information regarding rates, etc., call on Tel. 29. J. W. DUONG, Agent. J. CHARLTON, G. P. & T. Agt., Chicago.

Daughters of Zion.

"OUR AIM, MANKIND TO BLESS."

MRS. H. B. GURTIS, Editor.

The Daughters of Zion is an organization in the church, of mothers and others who are interested in the welfare of our homes. Under the supervision of the general society, local societies are established, where they may meet to consider together their work as home keepers, and as moulders of character. Their purpose is to furnish love for the home, to promote social purity, to study the problem of child care and development; that thus they may better prepare themselves for their responsibility as wives and mothers, and that from the home may go the influence that shall fulfill their aim, which is "mankind to bless." Have you a local in your branch? If not, can you not organize one? Send to the corresponding secretary for constitutions. The Advisory Committee will be pleased to hear from you, and will gladly furnish you any assistance in their power. Send your list of names of members to the recording secretary.

ADVISORY COMMITTEE.

- Mrs. Mary E. Hulmes, President, Independence, Missouri.
- H. Robinson, Corresponding Secretary, Box 146, Lee's Summit, Mo.
- Mrs. B. C. Smith, Independence, Missouri.
- Mrs. Lucina Etzenhouser, 2417 Prospect St., Kansas City, Missouri.
- Mrs. Clara Frick, Independence, Missouri.
- Mrs. Cattie B. Stebbins, Recording Secretary, Lamoni, Iowa.
- Mrs. Anna Murphy, Treasurer, Independence, Missouri.

Editor's address, 3138 Olive St., St. Louis, Missouri.

Be not unequally yoked together with unbelievers.—2 Cor. 7: 14.

I have been surprised oftentimes in looking over "General Church News," to see Sr. So-and-So married to Mr. So-and-So, and would like to ask, who is to be blamed for this? Is it because of lack of thought or training with our girls? Surely they cannot know that a man is not a perfect man until he obeys the perfect law, and inasmuch as he is in disobedience to that perfect law, just so far is he from being perfect; then if he has not commenced to obey, not even the first principles, why, girls, what have you? In my opinion the best of men are bad enough. Now, I am not a man hater in any sense of the word, but when I think of the high position they ought to, and once did, occupy, having "dominion over all the beasts of the field and birds of the air," I am wont to exclaim, "How hath the mighty fallen."

It is by comparing that might have been to what is, that makes me think that the best, now, is none too good. The first step in the effort to regain the place once occupied is by gaining perfect control over ones self, and that cannot be done outside of the gospel. Why, to me, a man without the Spirit of God (obtained by obedience to the gospel) is like a house without a tenant, and might not the comparison be applicable? We know that the body is a temple built for the Holy Spirit to dwell in, and if it does not dwell therein, will not its appearance be as desolate as an empty house? The girl might say, "I loved him." To her I would say, "Love is not the only qualification necessary to a happy, progressive union. One had better marry with every thing else agreeable and no love, than with love and naught else; that is, the love one has before marriage, for love, like religion, is a principle, not a feeling, as some are apt to think. Why, I have known persons who will stay out of the church, will not join just because they do not have that feeling which they think they ought to have. Just so will some girls refuse a really good offer just because they did not have that "all gone" feeling they have read about.

I think that what is said of one marrying an outsider being considered "weak in the faith," is well put, for that faith that can find perfect concord with an unbelieving or unrighteous person, must be weak indeed. Paul must have thought the same when he wrote the 14th, 15th and 16th verses of the 7th chapter of 2 Corinthians. Yet being considered "weak in the faith" is only one of the things that might be said; they might have said, "easy to suit," "careless of results," and many other things. In these last times when such efforts are being made to get the Saints to "come up higher," ought not each individual respond as heartily as possible? And would not the taking of an unbelieving husband be putting an almost insurmountable obstacle in your way?

This is a time of sanctification, consecration and gathering, to all of which an outsider would be indifferent, if not averse. The spiritual atmosphere of Zion would be unhealthful to such a person, and he would not stay, providing he got there, which would make it decidedly uncomfortable for the believer. Dear Saints, think before you consent to be yoked together with an unbeliever.

Do Not Mind Being Called Old-Fashioned.

When patience, and long-suffering, and gentleness, and goodness are dispensed with in our women, there is not much left of the true woman, no matter what else she may have. I know I may be called old-fashioned and behind the times, but it is much better to be behind some times. I am so glad of all the beautiful homes among the rich as well as among the poor, where married life is all that it should be, but the fact remains that there are many unhappy marriages; and it certainly is time for us to inquire into the causes of all this unhappiness and avoid the open dangers. When a certain captain was asked if he knew where the dangerous places were in a certain channel, he said, "I do not know where they are, but I do know where they are not," and it will be wise in this new generation to keep where the rocks are not. But no woman is going to keep on that open sea who counts God out of her life, be it a married or a single life. One law never changes—sowing and reaping. "God is not mocked: for whatsoever a man soweth, that shall he also reap." Let us all try to live each day so that we may not be afraid to die.—Margaret Bottomo.

JOTS BY THE WAYSIDE.

BY T. W. CHATBURN.

On the "Peat Lands." According to announcements we are here, domiciled with Bro. Peter Brush and his estimable wife, "Aunt Susan." Peter is a son of John Brush, who was among the pioneers who sounded the gospel in California. Bro. Peter is well situated here, owning quite a large slice of these famous lands.

Bro. Hyder, our worthy opponent, was on the ground with his brother, Mr. Elliott, an elder in the same church, who once lived in Ray county, Missouri, close to Richmond. Bro. George Carter and Eri Mulms, of saw mill fame on Crooked creek, will remember Mr. Elliott, with also many of our brethren in and around old far West. Bro. Hyder, after due consideration, thought I had the advantage, as in the former debate, in the arrangement of questions, and was very anxious or a change, so that his affirmation should come first in discussion, etc. I would not agree to this unless he would permit me to substitute Bro. T. W. Williams, who was with me as moderator, to be the principal in discussion and I be moderator. Bro. Hyder was very willing and allowed to change readily, so Bro. Williams, instead of moderating was to be moderated by me. Bro. Hyder little knew he was jumping out of the pan into the fire in the change of moderator.

For six nights the battle was on. Bro. Williams doing well to excellent. During the discussion we felt it was righters to "In honor prefer our brethren," for in Bro. Williams' forcible and logical arguments in defense of the "sealed book" we recognize a master mind, and was fully up to our expectations as an abler defender. "Nohi, Mormon and Jarad's brother" came out of the conflict with an indimmed luster, and as a whole we thought it a crushing defeat of Bro. Hyder.

In justice, however, to Bro. Hyder, we will say that in this debate, as in the first one with me, he put up clean cut argument, never stooping to the disreputable "mud slinging," as is usually the case with our opponents; for his innovation he is to be commended indeed. However, he is not yet satisfied, and now a third discussion has been arranged for, this time in Santa Ana, the same propositions to be again discussed; to wit, "Book of Mormon and the Canon of Scriptures are full." Bro. Williams will again meet him in the city hall commencing on Monday eve, the 17th, to again continue for six nights. We think this an opportunity to get before the people, and we think must be fraught with good purpose. We are still in the faith and love the message brought by the angel to gladden the hearts of men. The weather is fine and warm, and is nearing its orange pickling height, and the copious rains have gladdened the heart of ye husbandman.

CONFERENCE MINUTES.

The conference of the New Hope, Virginia, district convened at Richmond, Virginia, according to notice, December 1, 1900, at 10 a. m. J. L. Goodrich was chosen to preside, and Sr. A. R. Corson as secretary.

Bishop's agent's report received as follows: Receipts, $87.00; expenses, $80.40; balance due church, $6.60. Committee appointed to audit said report, and report found correct.

Motion to sustain the officers of the district carried.

On application being made for letters of removal for Mrs. Abbie Moler and Fannie E. Taylor, said letters were ordered.

On motion Bro. J. L. Goodrich and Sr. J. L. Rand were appointed delegates to the General Conference.

One baptism. Though few were in attendance, yet the Spirit was present and all seemed to enjoy the services.

Preaching services on Saturday night, Sunday at 10 a. m., 3 p. m., and at night by J. L. Goodrich. Adjourned.

J. L. GOODRICH, Ch. A. R. CORSON, Sec. RICHMOND, Va., Dec. 14.

Convention Minutes.

The Far West, Missouri, convention met with St. Joseph branch, December 14, 1900, Superintendent C. J. Craven in the chair, Grace Constance secretary. The following schools reported: Zion's Star, South Park, Aspey Mission, Kingston, Mt. Pleasant, Wakenda, Pleasant Grove and Cameron Mission. No reports from Stevartsville and German Stevartsville.

District superintendent, also superintendents of schools, reported schools in very good condition.

It was moved and carried that secretaries of schools make out reports and mail with delegate credentials to the district secretary, one week previous to convening of each convention.

AS those who were assigned parts on the program were not prepared, short talks were given on the different subjects, by workers present. Subjects were, "What can we do to get the young people to become more interested in Sunday School work?" "What relation is the Sunday School to the church, and how will it benefit us in our homes?" "Shall we give rewards?"

Resolved that we favor the use of international lesson texts in our Quarterlies was then taken up, discussed and on vote the resolution was lost.

Adjourned to meet at the same place, and day previous to the next district conference, at 10:30 a. m.

C. J. CRAVEN, Supl. GRACE CONSTANCE, Sec. CAMERON, MO., DEC. 18.

CORRECTION.

Bro. H. O. Smith kindly calls attention to an error on page 315, Palmyra to Independence. The year is made to be in his fifteenth year in 1828, whereas he was then in his eighteenth. As his experiences began in 1820, perhaps 1823 should have been 1820. Anyway there is a mistake of three years. Correct up all ye that have the book, please. Many thanks to you, Bro. H. O. S. "The mistakes of my lips have been many." My sins perhaps more.

R. ETZENHOUSER. WINDSOR CITY, Cal., Dec. 13.

Annual Report of the Willing Helpers.

Have held 15 meetings, quilted 6 quilts, made 5 comforts, made and sold 22 pounds carpet rags. Plush box and quilt blocks, 35 cents. Total amount for the year, $19.84; on hand last report, $10.16; total, $30.00. Gave $15.00 on church debt, $15.00 on furnace for the church, leaving an empty treasury.

At our last meeting, which was held December 12th, it was unanimously agreed that we continue the society another year, and Sr. M. Windsor was re-elected president; Sr. Royner, vice president; Sr. Abba Horton, secretary. We have not been able to do as much this year as we so much wished to do, on account of sickness and other causes, over which we had no control, but we feel we have done the best we could under the circumstances, and we feel thankful that we can aid even a little in this way.

MRS. M. WINDSOR, Pres. MRS. M. M. PETERSON, Sec. INDEPENDENCE, MO., Dec. 24.

Convention Notices.

The quarterly conference of the South Missouri district will convene at Pomona, Missouri, January 5, 1901. Branch clerks will please take notice and send in reports.

S. N. GRAY, Dist. Sec. D. W. THOMAS, Dist. Pres. SPRINGFIELD, MO., Dec. 20.

St. Louis district conference will convene in the rock church, 1240, Glasgow avenue, St. Louis, Missouri, on Saturday evening, January 5, 1901, at seven o'clock.

J. G. SMITH, Dist. Sec. 2816 Lyon St., Dec. 19.

The time of convening the conference of the Northeast Kansas district was left with me. In consulting with the missionary, Bro. I. N. White, he said he could meet with us Saturday, March 2, 1901, hence, as per his advice, we will meet at Netewaku, at the above named date, the Lord willing. The Saints living in and near the village will doubtless be pleased to see a goodly number in attendance there and then. We have a fair sized chapel and an organ. Matters of interest to the church will be considered, and the needs and demands for labor will be noted.

Delegates to the general annual gathering will be duly selected, and officers will be elected or sustained. Come in the light, love and reverence of God, and with desires for trial fear of God, and with desires for unity, peace and prosperity, and all will be well. In humble, faithful, diligent service blessings will be full and free, and the mantle of charity will crown our efforts. Hoping, trusting, confiding, I am,

Sub and district president, M. T. SHORT.

CONSUMPTION

Do not think for a single moment that consumption will ever strike you a sudden blow. It does not come that way. It creeps its way along. First you think it is a little cold, nothing but a little hacking cough; then a little loss in weight; then a harder cough; then the fever and the night sweats.

Better stop the disease while it is yet creeping. Better cure your cough today.

You can do it with

Ayer's Cherry Pectoral

The pressure on the chest is lifted, that feeling of suffocation is removed, and you are cured. You can stop that little cold with a 25 cent bottle; harder coughs will need a 50 cent size; if it's on the lungs the one dollar size will be most economical.

"I confidently recommend Ayer's Cherry Pectoral to my patients. I am using it now in my own family. Forty years ago I feel sure it saved my life."—S. W. KINGS, St. J., Jan. 4, 1853. Fort Madison, Iowa.

Write the Doctor at any time. Ad. dress, Dr. J. C. AYER, Lowell, Mass.