The world's greatest teacher, he who mastered the problem of life, who lived above his environ-ment, and created an invironment in which all that goes to constitute the fulness of life could be found, had this to say: "He that seeks to save his life shall lose it, and he that loseth his life in this world shall find it." The philosophy of this statement is simply this:--Man defeats his very purpose when he attempts to save his life, for he that selfishly looks to the acquiring of material things will become so self-centered that all that is beautiful and grand in life will be obscured from his view, and consequently he will fail to acquire the essential thing and in his self-centered way will blunder on and lose all the joy, comfort, and happiness of life here and now by reason of his narrow, carping disposition, and therefore his character will be so stunted and dwarfed that he will be unfit for the hallowed conditions of eternity. So it can be readily observed that the reason he who seeks to save his life shall lose it, because he is on the wrong road, for while he gives nothing, fearing lest he be the loser, he gets nothing in return. He merely ekes out a miserable existence because he has entirely a wrong conception of life, the course he is pursuing is a dangerous one.

But there is a more excellent way, "He that loseth his life shall find it," Why? simply because such a one has learned that the laws of compensation provide that large returns require large investments, and hence the one who looks at the real issues of life and thus forgets himself, loses sight entirely of self in the service of others, he it is who loses his life as to things of this world, and finds it in its enduring part. What does he lose? He simply loses his selfish pro-What pensities, his dwarfed and stunted self, and so losing, he, like the Master of men, makes himself of no reputation, and when self is lost sight of he finds life in its completest sense. He learns how true the words of the Master are: "It is more blessed to give than to receive," and so he invests all he has, gives his all having no selfish motives he has no undue longing for the gratification of selfish desires and lusts, and so he finds sweet peace and comfort in the service of others, and all that goes to make life blissful comes to him because he has found the more excellent way.

Before one can enter the more excellent way he must be stripped of pride, envy, jealousy, hatred, vengeance, avarice, and lust, and thus overcoming let him cultivate meekness, love, kindness, gentleness, forgiveness, peace of mind, contentment of spirit, goodness, purity of heart, sincerity of purpose, and simplicity of life, and he who hath found these things has found the more abundant life; he it is that will weild an influence for good in the world. Though he may not preach yet he will convert; though he remain silent yet shall he become eloquent, though he advertise not himself yet will he be loved by many, and though he extol not himself many shall rise up and call him blessed.

The more excellent way then is to meet passion with peace, hatred with love, evil with good, error with truth, and darkness with light. Never impugn the motives of any one, never for one moment attempt to retaliate, never seek self justification in the condemnation of others, never deny others the rights or priviledges you would claim for yourself, never permit yourself to become intolerant; never be boastful. When you are assailed by others kindly receive it; when you are persecuted endure it meekly; do others speak of thee falsely resist it not, and in the hour of weakness thou shalt be made strong; by submission thou shalt conquer; by kindness thou shalt bear rule, and in love thou shalt be mighty; and in thy meekness the strength of thy divinty shall arise.

The most economic life one can live then is the Christ life, in fact we can afford to live no other, for the life that partakes of the Christ character, the life that is consecrated to his service. I mean the kind of service he rendered humanity, is the only life that can satisfy. So we make an appeal unto all who are able to hear it, to search for the more excellent way, the way of Christ, i. e., live in his way; love in his way; serve in his way; speak in his way; that in all things you may know the excellence and blessedness of life.

The more excellent way is not the way of conventionality, it is the way of reality; it is not the the way of profession, it is the way of being: it is the way in which manhood in all that word implies is reached and maintained. The more excellent way is the living way, not the creedal way, and to gain it we must relinquish all, i. e., all the selfishness we possess, and by so doing we can gain all since we will then seek only that which is good and true, and seeking we will find because when self is lost sight of truth is readily discerned, and the promise is that "they who seek shall find." So we do not hesitate to say that the more excellent way may be found if it is sought in a proper manner.

MRS. MADGE SIEGFRIED, EDITOR, 1417 W. Walnut St., Independence, Mo.

NOTICE.

All persons sending money to the Woman's Auxiliary for any purpose, including subscriptions to Home and Child Welfare leafs tos, or Children's Home donations, please forward same to the treasurer of the Auxiliary, Mrs. J. A. Gardner, 211 S. Fuller Ave., Independence Mo. applications of the State of the Auxiliary of the Auxiliary Mrs. J. A. Gardner, 211 S. Fuller Ave., Independence Mo. applications of the Auxiliary of the Auxiliary Mrs. J. A. Gardner, 211 S. Fuller Ave., Independence Mo. applications of the Auxiliary of the Auxiliary Mrs. J. A. Gardner, 211 S. Fuller Ave., Independence Mo. applications of the Auxiliary Mrs. J. A. Gardner, 211 S. Fuller Ave., Independence Mo. applications of the Auxiliary Mrs. J. A. Gardner, 211 S. Fuller Ave., Independence Mo. applications of the Auxiliary Mrs. J. A. Gardner, 212 S. Fuller Ave., Independence Mo. applications of the Auxiliary Mrs. J. A. Gardner, 212 S. Fuller Ave., Independence Mo. applications of the Auxiliary Mrs. J. A. Gardner, 212 S. Fuller Ave., Independence Mo. applications of the Auxiliary Mrs. J. A. Gardner, 212 S. Fuller Ave., Independence Mo. applications of the Auxiliary Mrs. J. A. Gardner, 212 S. Fuller Ave., Independence Mo. applications of the Auxiliary Mrs. J. A. Gardner, 212 S. Fuller Ave., Independence Mo. applications of the Auxiliary Mrs. J. A. Gardner, 212 S. Fuller Ave., Independence Mo. applications of the Auxiliary Mrs. J. A. Gardner, 212 S. Fuller Ave., Independence Mo. applications of the Auxiliary Mrs. J. A. Gardner, 212 S. Fuller Ave., Independence Mo. applications of the Auxiliary Mrs. J. A. Gardner, 212 S. Fuller Ave., Independence Mo. applications of the Auxiliary Mrs. J. A. Gardner, 212 S. Fuller Ave., Independence Mo. applications of the Auxiliary Mrs. J. A. Gardner, 212 S. Fuller Ave., Independence Mo. applications of the Auxiliary Mrs. J. A. Gardner, 212 S. Fuller Ave., Independence Mo. applications of the Auxiliary Mrs. J. A. Gardner, 212 S. Fuller Ave., Independence Mo. applications of the Auxiliary Mrs. J. A. Gardner, iependence Mo.

ADVISORY BOARD.
Mrs. S. R. Burgess, President, 5970 Etzel Ave., St. Louis, Mo.
Mrs. B. C. Smith, Vice President, 214 S. Spring St., Independ-Mis. B. C. Smith. Vice President, 20, 5, Opt. 10, Communication of Miss Minnie E. Scott, Secretary, 300 S. Fuller Ave., Independence, Mo. Mrs. J. A. Gardner, Treasurer, 711 S. Fuller Ave., Independence, Mo. Mrs. J. A. Gardner, Treasurer, 711 S. Fuller Ave., Independence, Mo. Mrs. J. A. Gardner, Mo.

Mrs. M. A. Etzenhouser, 1595 W. Walnut St., Independence, Mo-Mrs. D. J. Krahl, 724 S. Crysler St., Independence, Mo.

SUFFRINTENDENTS OF DEPARTMENTS.
Home and Child Welfare Department, Mrs. H. A. Stebbins, Lamoni, Iowa.

Jiterary and Educational Department, Mrs. H. A. Stebbins, La-Jiterary and Educational Department, Miss Lydia Thomas, La-moni, Iowa Eugenics Department, Mrs. Jennie Studley, 17 E. Cottage St., Roybury, Mass.

Roxbury, Mass.
Domestic Science Department, Mrs. Bertha Anderson Hulmes, Bomlist, Council Buffs, Iowa.
168 Mill Nt., Council Buffs, Iowa.
168 Mill Nt., Council Buffs, Iowa.
169 Mill Nt., Council Buffs, Iowa.
169 Mill Nt., Council Buffs, Iowa.
169 Mill Nt., Council Mill Nt., Iowa.
160 M

NOTES ON CANNING.

This is the time of year when many industrious house-keepers are more or less concerned with canning fruits vegetables, so perhaps a few suggestions along this line would prove helpful to some.

First and most important of all is complete sterelization of all utensils and food. So many people do not realize the fact that incomplete sterilization of utensils is the most direct cause of fermentation. To do this, fill the clean jars with cold water, set on a cloth in a pan and surround with cold water. Put in the tops and let come to boiling point and boil for fifteen or twenty minutes, just dip the rubbers in the boiling water. When reclean jars with cold water, set on a cloth in a pan and surround with cold water. Put in the tops and let come to boiling point and boil for fifteen or twenty minutes. just dip the rubbers in the boiling water. When removing the jars from the boiling water, place them on a hot cloth to avoid erecting or breaking.

In filling the jars with fruit fill to overflowing, then insert a silver knife or spoon handle to let air bubbles escape. Seal while hot. Test jars by allowing them to stand inverted for several hours. Release the spring to stand inverted for several hours. Release the apring and pick up jar by top. If decomposition has set in, or if sterilization was incomplete the top will come off. Micro organisms in the air cause fermentation. Mold doats in the air as yeast but it developes only in the presence of warmth and moisture. Therefore when canned, place fruit where it is cool and dry. To prevent fermentation we apply heat to both utensils and food in order to kill the bacteria. Also the use of sugar as in preserving is good. In a certain amount sugar is food for bacteria, but in excess of this, it prevents its growth. Also acid acts as preventative.

Never use tin nor iron vessels for cooking. The pre-

Never use tin nor iron vessels for cooking. The pre-erving kettle should be broad and shallow.

Rules or precautions in canning or preserving fruits and vegetables:

Have everything scrupulously clean, the room, fruit, jars, and utensils. Select young vegetables and fruits of varieties which have a quick growth. Choose well grown, firm fruit, and a trifle under-ripe as fer well grown, firm truit, and a trifle under-ripe as fer-mentation follows closely upon the over-ripe stage. Avoid dirty fruit and vegetables. If possible, can on the day on which they were picked. If the fruit or vegetable seems apt to discolor, cover with cold water until ready to use. A few drops of lemon juice will also prevent to use. A few drops of lemon juice will also prevent discoloring. Select serviceable jars, simple in construction, which seal easily and perfectly and which wash easily. The type of jar which gives best satisfaction has a glass top clamped on with some metal device. Test the jars before using to see if they are air tight by filling with cold water, clamping on top, sealing and inventing in inverting jar.

better results would be universal, and "spoiling fruit" the exception.

Some husekeepers find it convenient to keep of boiling water on the stove when canning fruit, and when ready to fill a bottle dip it in the boiling water for the sterilization. There is no danger of breaking the bottles with the hot water if both outside and inside get the heat at the same time. We have used this method several years, and have never broken a bottle, and the results are entirely satisfactory.

THE DALLYING HABIT.

Did you ever see the picture of the little girl who, starting to dress herself in the morning, has drawn on er stocking as far as the foot, then picking up her oll sits playing—all forgetful of her task. Certain home duties that are assigned to children, her stocking as far as the foot, then certain former unters that are assigned to confideren, sepecially during vacation, we find in many instances, cover long periods of time in their performance. In fact, nearly a whole morning may be consumed in washing dishes. The little girl is fretful because she has ing dishes. The little girl is fretful because she has not had time for play, when the fact is, it has been half work and half play the entire time. Not only has she been deprived of he hours for play but the mother's various appeals to "hurry dear!" "Come Jennie it is time you were through with your work," fail to elicit either speed or willingness to finish the task in any but her own time and way.

Two remedies appeal to us which are practical in their application, one is that the mother should assume a part of the work the children are doing-as an ina part of the work the children are doing—as an spiration to keep things moving as well as to get task accomplished neatly and quickly. This way mother has the advantage, being with the children seeing that the household work is done correctly. Sean see after each meal that children take proper consecutives. of food left over, that dishes are put in places, the room put in proper order and so o the room put in proper order and so on.
other remedy is—if the mother must be absent from the kitchen—to assign the work and state the length of time in which it should be completed. With this there is an end in view, something to work to, a definite object aside from the necessity of having clean

Since the cry of the age is "efficiency" which means "the best, easiest and quickest way to accomplish any desired result" may we not prepare our children in personal efficiency by seeing to it that their small tasks now, are performed in an efficient way.

In gospel life there is a standard to work to, why not in our every day life with temporal tasks have a standard for our aim.

It has been decided by authorities that the play ground is a necessity to physical and moral development -this they are deprived of when household tasks llowed to lag, aside from preventing all possibility from preventing all possibility of system or dispatch in the routine work of the home.

Dilatoriness may cling to a child through life, much o his disadvantage when he has arrived to manhood, or the little girl to womanhood. When it becomes necessary for them to be wage earners they will have cause for thoughtfulness if a wise mother has trained their minds and hands for personal efficiency. Mrs D.J.K.

"BETTER BABIES" MOVEMENT.

It is now recognized that the greatest national asset we have, or will have, is the American child. Our country is slowly arousing itself to the fact that this asset is not nearly what it is capable of being in its moral support to the country, its powers for contributing wealth and the strong mentality that marks a well poised nation.

Since we can not begin with our ancestors as has been suggested, we can improve our present babies with has been surprising to the promoters of the "Better It has been surprising to the promoters of the Lecture Babies" movement to see how anxious and interested foreign mothers in New York City are, in learning of their babies' deficiencies and how to correct them. Shall not the American mother take notice of what is going on around her and use to advantage these wonderful opportunities within her reach?

At the State and County fairs the "Better Babies" contest is becoming one of the Important features on the program. Free medical examination is given every applicant and the mother should prize this information which enables her to understand the physical condition of her child.

The young man entering the navy is measured from crown to toe—he must meet every physical requirement or he will not be received. The recruit who wishes to enter the army must also be measured, weighed and meet certain requirements there—but when a little child enters the race for life, no one, not even a parent knows whether he is a normal child. He is weighed at birth and perhaps a few times during the first year, after that very little consideration is given his physical development.

In every town or country there should be a "Better babies" movement and this is a work the older mothers babies" movement and this is a work the older mothers could promote—not only to secure the medical examinations of the babies for the benefit of the young mother but to see to it in the homes of the untrained mothers the environments, sanitation, food, ets., are conducive to the symmetrical development of the baby. Should you not be able to enter a "Better babies contest" in your town or county fair, if you will procure from a subscriber to Mother's Magazine a copy of that periodical for November 1913 (or send to Editor of this Department), you will find in them a table of measurements of a peryou will find in them a table of measurements of a peryou will find in them a table of measurements or a per-fect baby physically, at all ages from one month to five years and can yourself measure and weigh your own baby and see how nearly normal he is. If you find certain organs under or over developed, consult a good physician and find out the trouble, then begin intelligent care and treatment according to instructions.

This will be to your gratification in later years, when the handicaps are removed, your children will fill out well rounded and useful lives.

Mrs. D. J. K.

EMPLOYMENT BUREAU OF INDEPENDENCE LOCAL Some time ago the Home and Child Welfare Department of the Independence Local established an Employment Bureau and notice of same appeared in these

While the Bureau has done something towards the object in view, viz., getting the unemployed and employer in communication, we feel that greater results can yet be obtained if both parties concerned will place their needs with us. Sometimes sickness overtakes a family and help is needed at once. There are some sisters situated so that they could render such help, for at least a few days until permanent help could be found. There are sisters who work by the hour doing washing, ironing, cleaning, etc., that an invalid woman or an over-burdened mother would be glad to engage for a por-tion of a day during the week or one day in two weeks. The services of this Bureau are extending only to girls and women and the few requirements are as follows:

State concisely what you wish to do and the wages
you desire, or the work you wish to have done and the wages you will pay. Making enquiry by mail please enclose wages you will pay, alaring enquity of man present stamped envelope. If position is secured please advise the one in charge of Bureau to this effect, we urge that you do not fail to do this, so that we may know as to the success of this department.

Mrs. D. J. Krahl. In charge of Employment Bureau.

724 So. Crysler St., Indep. Mo.

CONVENTION NOTICES.

Western Michigan conventions and conference will meet with the Traverse City Branch on September 17, 18, 19, and 20. The Religio convention and institute work will and 20. The Religio convention and institute work win cocupy Thursday, the 17th. Sunday school work on the 18th and conference will be held on Saturday and Sunday 19th and 20th. Statistical report blanks have been sent to each branch clerk and we desire them to be returned promptly. The services will be held in the Presbyterian Church corner Park and Washington Sts.

H. A. Doty, Dist. Sec.

医正性动物 经基金帐户

The Sunday school Convention of the Independence Stake will convene at Armstrong, Kanas, on Friday, September 11th, at 10 a. m. We would like all our schools

Mrs. Arthur Allen, Stake Sec.

The annual convention of the New York-Philadelphia District Sunday School Association, at which officers for the ensuing year and delegates to the General Convention in April, 1915, will be chosen and business for the coming year will be transacted, will be held at the Saints' Church, Twelfth and Luzerne Streets, Scranton, Pa., on Saturday, September 5, 1914, at eight o'clock, p. m. On Sunday, September sixth, there will be a joint Sunday School-Religio Institute, for which an appropriate program has been provided. Monday, the seventh, "Labor Day," has been reserved for the entertainment of those attending. Everyone is cordially invited to attend these sessions

Herman N. Schwartz, Dist. Sec. O. T. Christy, Pres. 3306 Ella St., Philadelphia, Pa.

The Annual Convention of the New York-Philadelphia District Religio Literary Society, at which officers for the District Reigio Literary Society, at which officers for the ensuing rear and delegates to the General Convention in 1915 will be chosen and all business for the coming year transacted, will be held in the Saints' Church, 12th and Luzerne Streets, Scranton, Pa., on Saturday, September fifth, 1914, at five o'clock, p. m. On Sunday, September sixta, there will be a joint Religio-Sunday School Institute for which an appropriate program has been seen tute, for which an appropriate program has been provided. Monday, the seventh, "Labor Day" has been reserved for the entertainment of those attending. Everyone is cordially invited to attend these sessions

Herman N. Schwartz, Dist. Scc. O. T. Christy, Pres., 3306 Ella Street, Philadelphia, Pa.

POSTPONED.

By request of Bro. J. W. Rushton the conference of the entral Illinois District has been postponed until Oct.

W. Daykins, Dist. Sec.

To the Saints and friends of the St. Louis, Central and Southeastern Illinois Districts: The committee appointed to provide for holding of a reunion which already was advertised to convene at Parrish, Ill., Aug. 28 to Sept. 6. met and after due and serious consideration cided that in view of the continuous drouth it was our wisest course to cancel those arrangements and declare the reunion postponed for this year at least.

W. E. Presnell, for Com.

NOTICES.

To the Saints and friends of West Virginia and Virginia: You will please notice that I have appointed Elder H. E. Winegar as my assistant Minister in charge of West Virginia and Virginia for the remainder of the ensuing year. Respectfully your co-laborer.

R. C. Russell. Minister in General Charge.

TWO-DAY MEETING.

There will be a two-day meeting held in Bay City, Mich., Sep. 5 and 6. Church corner of Catherine and Thomas Sts., West side. All are invited to attend.

Geo. W. Burt, Dist. Pres.

CONFERENCE MINUTES
The district conference of the Clinton, Mo., District, The district conference of the Clinton, Mo., District, met at Eldorado Springs, Mo., August 1st, 10 a. m. Regular business was transected. All the twelve branches of the district reported. Officers were elected as follows: W. S. Macrae, president; W. H. Lowe, first vice president; Merle Quick, second vice president; Lida Budd, secretary and treasurer; Holley Dennis, library com.; Lucy Silvers, recorder and local historian.

Bro. W. E. Reynolds was sustained as Bishop's agent.

F. A. Hawley of Ft. Scott. Kansas was ordained to the Next conference will meet at Ft. Scott, Kansas, time to be set by the presidency of the district

Lida Budd, Dist. Sec.

CONVENTION MINUTES.

The Z. R. L. S. of the Clinton, Missouri, district, met in convention July 31, at Eldorado Springs, Mo. Seven of the ten locals of the district reported to this convention. The following officers were elected: T. L. McGormic, president; W. H. Hulse, Vice president; Lida Budd, secretary; Adrain Lowe, treasurer; Rose Hayse Roberts, lib. com.; Dolly Brunson, home class supt. R. A. Taggart, superintendent Gospel Literature Bureau.

Lida Budd, Dist, Sec.

REUNION MINUTES.

The reunion of the Western Oklahoma District was The reunion of the western Organizar Bistrice was held at Eagle City, Okla., July 31 to Aug. 9, and to say it was a success is to put it mildly. The old proverb, "where there is a will there is a way" held good in this

"where there is a will there is a way" held good in this case, the good people of Eagle City willed to make a success of the reunion and they succeeded admirably. Of the general ministry there were present W. E. Peak, Joseph Arber, Hubert Case and the writer, and Bro. E. D. Bailey of Tulsa, Okla., and F. H. Durfey of Seiling, Okla., were present part of the time and each preached once to the gathered saints and friends.

Bro. Hubert Case and the writer were chosen to preside awarent time and each preached once the gathered and each or meetings and appears the awarent time and each or meetings and appears the awarent time and each or meetings and appears the same of the same and appears the same a

Bro. Hubert Case and the writer were chosen to pre-side, arrange time and order of meetings and appoint speakers. The regular order of meetings was prayer meet-ing at 9 a. m. preaching at 11 a. m., 2:30, and 8:30 p. m., and besides this regular order a number of special meet-ings were arranged for. The writer, assisted by Bro. Jos. Arber held a number of men's rigetings along social purity lines, the writer having been chosen by the Social purity lines, the writer having been chosen by the Social Purity Board to represent them in that work. These meetings proved to be very interesting and helpful.

The church publications were on sale at the dining tent by Bro. L. D. Dyke, the writer also rendering assistance along this line, the latter securing a number of orders for Prof. Shannon's Social Purity books as a result of the interest created in the men's meetings before sult of the interest created in the men's meetings before mentioned. We feel assured that the fruitage of our work along this line will be good.

A large arbor was built for the meetings and living tents were pitched round about, and the Saints came from far and near, and throughout the entire ten days peace, harmony, and screnity of spirit prevailed. The boarding tent was conducted in a very systametic, business like way. In the first place the cooking and dining tents were all screened in with mosquito neeting thus rendering it clean and free from flies and hence very sanitary, and the food provided was clean and wholesome, meats being largely excluded from the bill of fare, good health physically and spiritually prevailed throughout.

The good Saints and friends of Eagle City donated to impact, and meal provisions, freely such as they had to impart, and meal tickets consisting of 21 meals, sold for $2.10, equivalent to 10 cents per meal, 15 cents being charged for single

The committee began with an empty treasury, but it The committee negan with an empty treasury, our did not remain so long since enough meal tickets were sold to give them a fund with which to meet the necessary expenditures. They made a "Judas" of the writer for "he carried the bag and bore what was put therein." In round numbers the receipts were $134.00, the ex-enditures for groceries, etc., were $82.00, netting them balance in the treasury of $52.00, so that from a financial point of view it was a profound success.

It was co-operation, and the spirit of sacrifice and love that produced the results, and we are glad to commend the good saints of Eagle City for their carnest-

Let other reunion committees set up and take notice. as what has been done can be done again, so take courage and make your reunion a success next time.

On the last day of the reunion six were baptized by Bro. Hubert Case, and while the parting time is always trying we feel that we express the opinion an sentiment of all when we say that the Engle City Reunion marks an epoch in our lives long to be remembered. The pe feeting of character should be held as paromount by all.

Sincerely, J. E. Vanderwood.

DIED.

Graff.—At San Francisco, Cal., August 10, 1914, Marie Theresia Graff, beloved wife of Louis Graff, a native of Switzerland. Aged 60 years, 6 months, and 8 days. Besides her husband she leaves three sons and two daughters; sides her husband she leaves three sons and two daughters; John Graff of Santa Barbara, Fred Graff of Vallejo, Albert Graff of Ogden, Mrs. Louise Chasteen of Napa and Miss Mary Graff of Napa. She had a host of friends who manifested their love and respect by the profusion of beautiful flowers at the funeral, which was under the auspices of the Eastern Star. She was a very good, true faithful Saint, devoted to a manifestation of her faith. She was a true and loving wife and mother. Twenty minutes funeral sermon by C. A. Parkin.

Teal.-Bro. Nathan Teal died at his home in the town of Miller, Lasalle, Co., Ill., Thursday morning, Aug. 13, of Miller, Lasalle, Co., III., Thursday morning, Aug. 15, 1914, aged sixty-six years, six months and nineteen days. He was a great sufferer until the end came, when he fell asleep in Jesus without a struggle. The funeral services were held at the Saints' chapel at Mission, III., August 16th, 1914, in the presence of a large concourse of neighbors and friends; the funeral address being defined to the control of the control livered by Elder F. M. Cooper, of Plano, Ill., from Romans 14:7, 8. He was born January 25th, 1848, in Dutchesse County, New York, his parents removing to Lasalle Co., Ill., while he was a child. He was united in marriage to Miss Sabina Goodwin, of the town of Miller, and to this union was born one daughter, Mrs. Myrtle Classon of Miller, Ill. He leaves to mourn his departure his faithful wife and daughter, one brother, Morgan Teal, three sisters, Thomas Hougas and Mrs Elias Hayer, and Mrs. John Hougas. He united with the church in the spring of 1897, and was subsequently ordained to the office of priest, and was presiding priest of the branch at the time he died. He had an abiding faith in God.

Smith.-Elizabeth Smith, was born Feb. 25th, 1842, in Jasper Co., Indiana. Died July 12th, 1914, at her home near Des Moines, Iowa. She was married to James Huffard June 18th, 1860, and there were born to them four sons and two daughters, three sons and one daughter having preceded her in death. She united with the Church July 4th, 1871, and lived and died in the faith. She leaves to mourn their loss, husband, one son, one daughter, twelve grand children, four great grand children, and many other relatives. Funeral was held in the McDivitts Church, and the remains were laid to rest in the cemetery near by. She was one of the old members of the Des Moines Branch. Funeral conducted by J. M.

Hickman.—Rosa Deeter Hickman, wife of Frank M. Hickman was born Dec. 17, 1885, near Baxter, Iowa. She was the fourth daughter of Robart and Martha Deeter, and lived and died in the town and vicinity of Baxter; she was married to Frank M. Hickman Sep. 4th, 1914, Elder W. C. Nirk officiating. She departed this life July 25th, 1914, leaving husband, father, mother, four sisters and three brothers to mourn their loss. She united with the church March 27th, 1904, being baptized by J. W. Morgan, Euperal was held July 25th, 1914, at by J. W. Morgan. Funeral was held July 26th, 1914, at J. M. Baker in the Congregational Church, to a full house, Elder J. M. Baker in charge and preaching the sermon. The remains were laid to rest in the Baxter cemetery.

Brady.—John Brady died May 26th, 1914, at the home of his daughter, L. R. Moss, near Chant, Ark. He was hom December 9, 1866, in Missouri. Leaves wife, two born December 9, 1866, in Missouri. Leaves vidaughters and two sons to mourn his departure. been a priest in the church for 55 years, and was a true and faithful saint.

Uptegrove.-Theodore Calvin, infant son of Bro. and Sr. Sylevster T. and Eva E. Upstegrove, born October 11, 1913, near Lake City, Mo., died Aug. 10, 1914, after a lingering illness, near East Independence, Mo., aged 10 months, 8 days. Five of the family have recently embraced the faith and are comforted therein. Just before the little one died a bright smiling expression illuminated his eyes a token to the parents confirming their faith in the resurction. Funeral sermon in Salem churchyard by Geo. Weston assisted by Robt. Smith, to a goodly number of relatives and friends.

Hand.-Sr. Rebecca Hand died suddenly at her home on Hand.—Sr. Rebecca Hand died suddenly at her home on Pine St., Holden, Mo., Aug. 8th., 1914. She had not been well for a year or more but was always able to be around and after a trip east seemed to be getting well. She visited several places the day she died and seemed to feel better than usual. She was a firm believer in the visited several places the day she died and seemed to feel better than usual. She was a firm believer in the doctrine and gave up friends, money and family ties for the sake of her belief. She was born in Rockingham County, Virginia, and was 64 years old. She leaves a husband, three daughters and a son. THE VARIOUS DUSTS

When, some years ago, it was found that dust on the snows of Greenland was comdust on the snows of Greeniand was composed of the elements invariably associated with meteorites and of uncommon occurence in terrestrial matter, it was concluded that cosmic dust was falling perceptibly but continually upon the earth. Spectrescopic examination of many varieties of dust collected in various countries has an interesting heavier or this conclusion. bearing on this conclusion.

Among the constituents of dust floating | S125 in the air are lead, silver, copper, rubidium, gallium, indium, thallium, nickel, manganese, etc. Many of these can be traced to their sources in factory chimneys and flues. Dust from clouds, collected either by itself or in hail, snow, sleet or rain, exhibits a regor in hall, snow, sleet or rain, exhibits a regularity of composition not seen in other varieties of dust. Iron, nickel, calcium, copper, potassium and sodium always appear in it in about the same proportions. Some dust that fell near Dublin resembled meteorites in its composition, was attracted by a magnet, and seemed to be of cosmic origim—Popular Electricity and Modern Mechanics.

John L. Sullivan, ex-puglist and now heavy-weight champion of prohibition, declares that he was not knecked out by Jim Corbett, but by Jim Jams. He con-fidently predicts the downfall of John Barleycorn.

ENSIGN PUBLICATIONS.

And Other Books for Sale by the Ensign Publishing House.

Zion's Ensign, the missionary paper, con-taining gospel sermons and arti-cles, church news and interesting letters. Per year .....$1.00 leather.

A compilation of references under subject headings of texts connected with the gospel, taken from the Bible, Book of Mormon and Doctrine and Covenants. A very handy reference book. Paper covers, 10c; cloth, 15c; leather.

$0.30

covers, ove; cion boards ......$0.76
Marvelous Manifestations. (Revised edition). Authentic accounts of the healing of the sick, restoring sight to the blind and other manifestations of God's miraculous power. Paper covers, 20c; cloth boards, 35c; leather ..........$0.50

Three Bibles Compared. A comparison be-tween the King James, the Revised and the Inspired Versions. Paper covers, 25c, 5 for $1.00; cloth.$0.35

covers, 25c, 5 for $1.00; cloth.$4.38

Book of Mormon Vindicated. Scriptural Evidences of the Divine Authenticity of the Book of Mormon, 115 large pages. Paper covers, 25c, 5 for $1.00; cloth.........$0.50

Faulty Creeds. This book shows how, at the coming forth of the latter day work, the churches had drifted from the truth into apostasy. Paper covers, 20c, 6 for ........$1.00

The Books and Utah Mormonism in Contrast. This book plainly shows how the Utah church has departed from the teachings of the standard books of the Church, from quotations and reliable testimony. Paper covers, 10c, 3 for $$9.25$

From Palmyra to Independence. A book of 444 pages. A brief review of the Book of Mormon is given, with many testimonials and affidavits.
Paper covers, 60c; cloth ......$1.00

Sabbatarian Theories a Delusion. 113 pages. Price, 15c or 2 for......$0.25 pages. Frice, 10c or 2 for....$0.25

Webster's Business and College Dictionary.
Besides being an up-to-date pronouncing dictionary it contains much other valuable information.
It contains new words up to September, 1911, and the last Government census. Postpaid for.....$0.60 Hurlbut's Teacher-Training Normal Les-gons. Paper covers, 85c; cloth.$0.50 Hurlbut's Story of the Bible. Profusely illustrated, 750 pages ......$1.50 Palestine of To-day ...... The Christian System .....

E200—Leatherette cover, red edges ....$9.15
E212—French Morocco, limp, red under gold ....$0.30
E253—Lambskin, divinity circuity, limp, round corners, red under gold. $0.30

OXFORD BIBLES.

03209X—Alaska Seal binding, otherwise the same as 04207X ... $4.50
4181—French Morocco, divinity circuit, round corners, red under gold edges, nonparell type, self-pronouncing, maps and 32 photo views of scenes in Bible lands....$1.35

A model Bible. India paper, black faced minion type, French Morocco, divinity circuit, linen lined, round corners, red under gold edges, 7½x 5% inches $2.75

5% inches $2.75

Alaska Seal, leather lined, Oxford
India paper, silk sewed, large long primer type, round corners, red
under gold edges $6.00

-French Morocco, self-pronouncing, long primer type, linen lined, di-vinity circuit, round corners, red under gold edges .......32.50

marker unu 12 maps $2.00
I Bible. Printed on genuine Oxford
India paper, only % inch thick, silk
sewed, bound in finest Alaska Seal, leather lined, round corners, red under gold edges, silk head band and marker $5.00 The 1911 Bible.

OXFORD TESTAMENTS.

021—French grained, red edges .......$0.20 022—Same as 021, with gilt edges ....$0.30

022—Same as 021, with gilt edges ....$0.30

030—French Morocco, round corners, limp,
red under gold edges .....$0.35

01240—Morocco grain, round corners, red edges, long primer type; size, 6½x
4¼.....$0.50

We give such Bibles as are carried in stock, but can supply any Bible on reasonably short notice. The Oxford line of Bibles is very extensive, from which we list a few of the best and most popular ones.

TRACTS.

The following tracts are excellent and suitable for distribution among those not identified with the latter day work. They may be obtained, all of one kind or assorted as desired, at the following prices, except as otherwise noted:

Two copies $0.05
Six copies 1.0
One dozen copies 2.0

... .20

"Future Punishment," by Elder R. C.

"Future Punishment," by Edder R. C. Evans.
"The Book of Mormon; Evidences of its Divinity," by Elder R. C. Evans.
"Creed Making," by Elder I. M. Smith. "Good Nows." A tract of tracts on sev-eral different subjects by as many writers.

"The Church of Christ," by Elder Edward annie.

Book of Mormon Post Card. Quotations from the second chapter of Jacob, of the Book of Mormon, condemning polygamy. This is an excellent way to get the position of the church books on polygamy before friends and acquainatances. Price per dozen $0.10

en . $0.10
Sunday School Library Regulations, per dozen . $0.05
Blank Preaching Notices. Size, 9x12 inches,
50 for 30 cents; per 100. . $0.50

District Secretary's Record. Price.

$0.25

Home Department Supplies. Leaflet of Instruction No.2. Per dozen, 10

entric per 100

Membership Cards, per dozen, 50

cents; per 100

Membership Cards, per dozen, 50

cents; per 100

S0.35

Superintendent's Report Blanks, per dozen, 5 cents per 100

30.45

Member's Quarterly Record Envelopes, per dozen, 5 cents; per 100

100

Visitor's Report Blanks, per dozen, 5 cents; per 100

Letter of Invitation, per 100

$0.25

Letter of Invitation, per 100

$0.20

Visitor's Canvas Blanks, per dozen, 10 cents; per 100

Local, per dozen, 5 cents; per 100

Address

Address
ENSIGN PUBLISHING HOUSE,
Independence, Mo.

FOR SALE

New Electric Washer, with all latest improvements. At a bargain. Phones F. A. Milllard, Bell 800 1230 So. Main Independence, Mo. Home 620

WAR ATLAS
Cram's Atlas of the war comprising 16 pages 11x141/2 and cover, giving fine maps of all the nations of Europe, those in war or likely to be especially emphasized. On the likely to be especially emphasized. On the two inside cover pages is given the army and navy equipment of all the European nations as well as the United States and Japan. With this Atlas in connection with daily news one may be able to locate the movements of the armies and have a more comprehensive idea of how the war is being conducted. ONLY 25 CENTS

Get them of
Ensign Publishing House,
Independence, Mo.

W. E. MESSENGER, M. D.

Physician and Surgeon. Calls answered day or night. Office and Residence 806 W. Maple Ave.
Bell Phone 12
Special Company of the Company of th

Special attention given to Anesthetics

Loose Leaf Sheets

For Local Religio Secretary's Record

er dozen, 10 cents; per 100 $0.60 If you have not seen them, send for free sample to

ENSIGN PUBLISHING HOUSE, Independence, Mo.

MR & MRS. HARVEY Dr's. of Chiropractic Ki-ro-prac-tic

Phone Bell Collice 857
House 755 Room 5, Carl Bld'g.
S. E. Square Independence, Mo. S. E. Square
Hours 10 to 12,2 to 6, evenings by appointment

UNITED ORDER OF ENOCH HOUSE.

Everybody Welcome, Saints and Strangers No. 10: North River Boulevard, near the Stone church Best accommodations. Prices reasonable. Bell Phone 613. Chas. A. and Amy T. Gurwell IN CHARGE

ALEX MCINTOSH Attorney-ab-Law 645 Minnesota Ave. Kansas City, Kan. Home phone 493, Bell phone 939 West.

Universal Class Card

Send for sample of the Universal Class Cards, for use in both Sunday School and Religio. The Independence Schools have them in general use.

Price per doz 8 cents, per 100 60 cents ENSIGN PUBLISHING HOUSE,

Independence, Mo,

Have You Planned Your Summer Vacation?

JUST TAKE AN

ALTON TRAIN "THE ONLY WAY"

CHICAGO

THE HUMMER
Leaves Kausas City
Arrives Chicago 6:00 p. m. 7:35 a. m.

Arrives C....

THE NIGHTINGALE

**coves Kansas City** 11:20 p. m.

1:15 p. m.

No matter where you wish to go to spend your vacation, our corps of vacation experts will arrange schedules and timeraries that will make travel a pleasure to you. Big lake boast and swift resort specials for both near and lar Wisconsin and Michigan Resorts, also to Atlantic City and Canadhan resorts.

Ask or write us about our

$56.50 ROUND TRIP RATE Buffalo and Niagara Falls

Which includes meals and berths on the boat for a solid week

Junction City Ticket Office, 9th, Main and Delaware. Both phones Main 542.

W. C. MUELLER,

General Agent Passenger Dept. C. & A. R. R.

RAILROAD TIME TABLES.

MISSOURI PACIFIC R. R. MAIN LINE-EAST BOUND.

WEST BOUND.

201 Joplin to Kansas City
3 St. Louis to California Special
17 Sedalia, and Nevada Local
7 Fast Mail (no stop)
207 Joplin to Kansas City Express
1 Colorado and St. Joe Express
621 St. Louis Local (all stops) 6 02 a m 6 57 a m 9 32 a m 9 01 a m 2 07 p m 4 51 p m 6 25 p m

LEXINGTON BRANCH-EAST BOUND.

WEST BOUND.

23 Sedalia to Kansas City 621 Sedalia to Kansas City

T. A. IOHNSON, Agent, Independence, Mo.

Entered at the Post Office at Independence, Mo., as Second Class Matter

OUR CREED: "ALL TRUTH."

VOL. 25

INDEPENDENCE, MISSOURI, THURSDAY, SEPTEMBER 3, 1914

NO. 36

- Cliston

ZION'S ENSIGN

Published by the Reorganized Church of Jesus Christ of Latter Day Saints, every Thursday, at Independence, Mo., at $1.00 per year.

Address all letters and make all remittances payable to ENSIGN PUBLISHING HOUSE, Independence, Mo

The natural and spiritual phases of life are so closely related that neither one can properly be considered apart from the other. The soul is known only by its manifestations through the physical body, and the physical man is under-stood only in the light of its relationship to the soul within. States of the mind affect the body and states of the body affect the mind to a greater extent than is usually observed. The effect upon the body of sudden fear or the shock of bad news is well known, for most individuals have under such conditions experienced the parched throat. the palpitating heart, the speechless tongue, and the departure of strength, and it must be apparent that were such mental conditions to continue indefinitely that the effect upon the body would be disastrous.

There are mental states less noticeable than those mentioned and whose effects upon the body are just as certain though coming in a more gradual way so that they are scarcely noticed until they have reached a serious stage. Who will say that hatred which is nothing less than chronic anger is a state of the mind which can have other than an injurious effect upon the body in weakening and destroying health? This thought is affirmed in the statement "My disciples, in days of old, sought occasion against one another, and forgave not one another in their hearts, and for this evil they were afflicted, and sorely chastened." (Doc. and Cov. 64:2.) When evil is permitted to have residence in the mind and heart it is most likely to manifest itself also in the body in the form of disease and sickness, and hence the instruction of the Lord to keep evil from the heart, to banish anger and hatred, and to be pure in mind, is not arbitrary but based upon law, and points the way of escape from the dire consequences of evil.

All Things Spiritual.

The Lord has said: "All things unto me are spiritual, and not at any time have I given unto you a law which was temporal, neither any man, nor the children of men * * * my commandments are spiritual; they are not natural, nor temporal, neither carnal nor sensual." (D. C. 28:9). Man often thinks of himself as a material being but God looks upon him as being something more; to God he is spiriutal, and all the laws given to man deal with him as a spiritual being. "Man is spirit," is the voice of revelation, and after speaking of the physical creation the Lord said: "Nevertheless, all things were before created, but spiritually were they created and made." Gen. 2:9, I. T.) As the physical creation followed the spiritual, so the effect of the transgression came first upon the spiritual man, causing spiritual death which was banishment from God, and afterward upon the physical man causing physical death. gospel of redemption appeals first to the soul requiring that the heart be made right, that the mind shall think right and good thoughts and so control the physical man that the whole man shall be brought to a right attitude before God.

In the Family.

The connection between cause and effect may also be noted in the family life. Neglect of duty upon the part of the parents in giving proper instruction and training to their children, or misconduct which becomes an unconscious example for the children, bring disastrous results in later years, perhaps to several generations. It may be difficult to see the connection between neglect of duty as a cause and physical affliction as an effect. but one of the elders of the church was reproved of God for having neglected to teach his children light and truth according to the commandment and was told that "this is the cause of your affic-tion." (D. C. 90:6. We usually seek to trees the (D. C. 90:6. We usually seek to trace the cause of physical sickness and affliction to physical causes, but in this case the Lord indicated the cause to be of an entirely different kind. It may be seen from this that there are strange relationships existing between the spiritual and physical man, and as before observed each part of his dual nature must be considered in connection with the other in order to be rightly understood. Any sin of commission or omission gives the adversary power to an extent proportionate with the character of the sin, and that power may manifest itself not only in the individual but in other members of the family in the way of affliction or sickness, or other evils.

In the Church and Scoiety.

The scientist seeks to trace epedemics, plagues and pestilence to purely physical causes, as also drouths, storms, etc., the historian recounts the causes of wars but in so doing he never invades the spiritual realm: the sins of individuals and nations are seldem considered as being the cause of calamity or war; but sacred history and revelation show that there is a relationship between all these things. Moses prophesied of all the curses that should come upon Israel, giving as the cause: "If thou wilt not hearken unto the voice of the Lord thy God, to orverve to do all his commandments." (Deut. 28:15.) The Lord warns the Church against gathering to Zion hastily and without proper preparation, "lest there be confusion, which bringeth pestilence." (D.C. 63:8.) Jesus declared that the war of desolation which should come upon the Jews was the result of their having rejected him with the message of salvation which he brought, and the prophets which he had sent. (Matt. 23:37, 38.) The army of Joshua was defeated before Ai because of the secret sin of one man. (Joshua 7.) David's sin against Uriah brought a division of the kingdom in a later generation. (2 Sam. 12:10.) These with other instances with which might be mentioned show relationships existing between cause and effect that are seldom considered.

The legitimate results of certain causes are often a long time developing, and short-sighted man seeing no immediate résults of his sins continue on as if no results are to come, but Paul said that 'every transgression and disobedience received a just recompense of reward." Every dishonest deed of tricky politicians, every graft, every surrender of public rights for selfish gain, and every advantage taken by men having commercial power against the masses to increase already exhorbitant profits, are all hammer blows which drive society toward disaster and anarchy. Present conditions in Mexico may be traced to a multitude of similar causes. For a generation Mohammedans have massacred Christians in Europe and the Christian (?) nations have stood by with scarcely a word of protest for fear that personal interests might be endangered; the people have groaned under the extreme burden of taxation in order that their leaders might make preparation for war, and though proposals for disarmament have been made they have not been heeded; and other evils have existd, and is it impossible that now the law of retribution will bring an end to these governments?

But perhaps the causes of the present calmity among the nations may be traced to still deeper causes than specific acts of evil and wrongdoing. The calamity which befell the Jewish nation resulted primarily from their rejection of their Messiah and the gospel. Under the restored gospel Christ has again been presented to the nations in latter days but he has been rejected. At the time of restoration it was said:

Wherefore the voice of the Lord is unto the ends of the earth, that all that will hear may hear; prepare ye, pre-pare ye for that which is to come, for the Lord is nigh; and the anger of the Lord is kindled, and his sword is bathed in heaven, and it shall fall upon the inhabitants of the earth; and the arm of the Lord shall be revealed; and the day cometh that they who will not hear the voice of the Lord, neither the voice of his servants, neither give heed to the words of the prophets and apostles, shall be cut off from among the people; for they have strayed from mine ordinances, and have broken mine everlasting covenant.

In directing the work of the apostles in preaching the gospel the Lord said:

Darkness covereth the earth, and gross darkness the minds of the people, and all flesh has become corrupt before my face. Behold, ven-geance cometh spedily upon the inhabitants of the earth-a day of wrath, a day of burning, a day of desolation, of weeping, of mourning, and of lamentation—and as a whirlwind it shall come upon all the face of the earth, saith the Lord.

The gospel has been carried to many nations though we do not suppose that its work among them has been completed, but with individual exceptions it has been rejected. In the light of what we have observed regarding the relation of cause and effect it may be no exaggeration of the truth to say that the present distress among the nations is the legitimate result of a rejecion of the greater light which has been offered them in the restored gospel. "And this is the con-demnation, that light is come into the world, and men loved darkness rather than light, because their deeds were evil."

"Righteousness exalteth a nation," is as true today as in the days of Soloman who also said: "Riches profit not in the day of wrath; but righteousness delivereth from death," and "As righteousness tendeth to life: so he that pursueth evil pursueth it to his own death." Whether national or individual, sin brings destruction and death, and to sin dwelling in the human soul may be traced the cause of all distress, misery, and woe, of disasters, plagues, and wars, the destruction of society and of nations, and even these are not the end of judgment. The way of righteousness is revealed in the gospel; its first and great commandment is to love God, and the second to love man, but national animosities have been strengthened in disregard of this divine law and war was inevitable, and unless these animosities are removed by yielding to the law of love war will complete its work.

COMMENTS.

"Wireless Station in the Society Islands.hoped that the war will not interfere with the erection of that most important wireless station at Papatee in the Society Islands, work on which was to have been started forthwith by an arrangement with the French Government, its colony, and a French company. The station was to have cost about $200,000 and to have been powerful enough to communicate with New Caledonia, and perhaps with the Uunited States. The station was a part of the work of making Papatee a port of call in connection with which was the construction of lighthouses on five of the islands; widening, deepening and buoying the pass: repairing and enlarging the existing quays; building a new slip and providing the necessary working plant, tools, —Scientific American.

Conflicting Prayers.-In the present struggle for supremacy in Europe prayers have been offerd in the Church of England for the success of the British and allied armies. Emperor William of Germany has likewise called upon God to give him the victory. It is probable that many prayers are offered in the other warring countries that they might also gain the victory. How will such prayers appear before God? If one army defeats another will it be because God answers the prayers of that nation? Since God has warned men against seeking dominion over their fellow men, prayers that are for selfish advantage and gain can not be granted. The prayer of each nation should be to be able to put itself on the side of right, and that right might prevail.

INDEPENDENCE ITEMS.

A fine gospel sermon was delivered Sunday morning by Elder M. H. Seigfried. Starting off he said the events by Elder M. H. Seigfried. Startling off he said the events of the times are such as to cause men to stop and think; and we as individuals should get from that which is transpiring that which should teach us a lesson. We should get the best out of life by being of service to others. He read the last three verses of the last chapter of Matthew where Christ says that all power is given to him in heaven and in earth, and then gives his commission to his apostles. He spoke of the time when the brethren in these latter days were wrought up because of the treatment of their brethren in this land (Zion) and then quoted what the Lord said to them, "Be still and know that I am God." He graphically portrayed what he thought the full import of Christ's commission to his disciples, or at least some of the many important things the commission would naturally include as they essayed disciples, or at least some of the many important things the commission would naturally include as they essayed to tell 'the story of Jesus and the gospel he established among men, and the power that went with them. With that power they accomplished much, but without it they were weak, as he showed by examples. The same commission has been given this church, and it is necessary that that same power be with the ministry today. When the elders are possessed of that power people are forced to believe that Jesus is the Christ.

Prsident Joseph Smith was in attendance at the morn-

Prsident Joseph Smith was in attendance at the morning service and promised that he would speak next Sunmorning if he was able.

In the evening Patriarch I. N. White was the speaker. Bro. White spoke principally in regard to the great war now raging in Europe, and he told of a vision he had of the United States, in which he saw first this nation very small, and he looked again and it was a great country with vast resources and magnificence, in the eyes of the world, and the third time it seemed very small from the way the Lord looked at it. In his opinion, as regard to the war, the sword had been taken from its scabbord for the last time, that is, there would be war more or less continually till the winding up scene.

On Monday the regular monthly business meeting was held, it being a week earlier than the set time on ac-count of the election of delegates to the Stake Conference. The statistical report was read and ordered the report to conference. It showed a membership of 2653, showing a gain of 66 for the last six months. There had snowing a gain of so for fire last six motions. Incre make been but-one death during that time. Add to this number the other branches in the city and the total will show considerably more than three thousand. The election of delegates taken up at a late hour, after some other matters on which there were a variety of opinions and argu ments which consumed the time, had been disposed of, and after the larger part of the membership had gone home. The branch is entitled to 500 delegates, but by motion only 150 were elected. Seven members were received on letters and one was granted a letter of removal.

The "wets" and ring polititions of Jackson County are so accustomed to having things their way that they are loth to give up to the will of the people. They have been so used to defeating justice that, since in thundering tones the people have said at the polls the rum power and ring control is at an end, they cannot understand how it can be, and are seeking for technicalities with which to defeat the fair and honest will of the majority, the good, moral, law-abiding citizenship of the county; so are trying to have the election set aside, not because they claim a single illegal vote was east by the "dry" side, nor any unfair or dishonest act on the part of the "drys," but they think to yet extend their trickery through some possible technicality in the law. The Kansas City Star says they are like the tail of a snake, which, although the snake may be killed early in the day, will wigthough the snake may be killed early in the day, will wiggle till sundown, and suggests that it is a mighty feeble wiggle, because its mighty near sundown. If the "drys" had attempted to use such dishonorable tactics as are usually used by the "wets," making an election a farce and a traversity on justice, there would be an excuse for the contest, but there is no charge of any intent to do wrong. There could be none. On the other hand the election would have been stolen by the "wets" except for the vigilance of those who made it their duty to watch for crookedness, particularly the work of the women.

"Whiskey Row" To Disappear. The natural advantages of Independence were seen by Joseph Smith when, traveling westward in search of a home for his religious followers, he stood on the highest point in Jackson County and exclaimed: "This is the spot."

The charm of the place was seen by the earliest set-tlers, from Virginia and Kentucky mostly, who built a village there long before there was even a house where Kansas City is.

Many of the old families have stayed with the old town. The newer city, outstripping it in growth, has failed to lure them away.

social ulcer in this delightful suburb is "whiskey row" on the town square. It will be removed January 4. The scar will soon heal and then Independence will come into her own as the most desirable residence suburb within easy distance of Kansas City.

There the business man of Kansas City who is raising a family will find a social atmosphere not surpassed anywhere; virile churches, one having a Sunday school of 300 members; as good schools as those of Kanana City; pure air and water; picturesque drives in every direction; and, best of all, the blight of the saloon wiped out and he place where it festered washed clean.—Editorial in ansas City Times.

This from that splendid daily paper is substantially correct, except as regards Sunday schools. The Sunday schools of the Reorganized Church are, Mt. Zion 1441, Zion's Hope 300, Walnut Park 88, Enoch's Hill 59 and Liberty Street 32. Of other churches, the Christian Church probably has the largest Sunday school with an enrollment of about 500 and the Baptist Church over the Presbyterian and several others about the

INDEPERDENCE-SECOND BRANCH.

At the Sunday morning hour Bro. Harold Bullard, branch chorister, was the speaker. The more abundant life was dwelt upon. He said the Lord knew what he was doing when he gave the word of wisdom. Tea and coffee was proven by the speaker to be harmful to the human system, according to the medical science; also the effects of eating pork bring about diseases. The hearers were admonished to stay in the battle and shake off the old the 2:30 prayer meeting the attendance was good. At the 2:30 prayer meeting the attendance was good. The Lord spoke to the saints by the spirit of prophecy admonishing them to be faithful, while in foreign lands battles were raging the nations were also calling upon his name. He further said not to worry about these things for "I will fight your battles." Bro, T. J. Sheldon spoke to a good sized audience in the evening. After reading the 34th chapter of Isaiah, he works of its condition the world was in now and had the spoke of the condition the world was in now, and had the nations consulted the Lord this terrible war might have been averted. While the Lord had made of one blood all nations to dwell upon all the face of the earth, Satan had been teaching the reverse.

had been teaching the reverse.

Thirty delegates were chosen Sunday evening by the executive committee to represent the Sunday school at the stake convention. On Monday evening the branch business session was held. 58 were elected as delegates to the stake conference September 12. Scretary's report showed 341 members on branch role. Letters of removal were granted (very reluctantly) to Bro. G. B. Miller and wife, also to Effie, Myrtle, Robert and George Miller, to First Independence Branch.

SAN FRANCISCO, CAL

Our city is pretty well deserted by the Saints today. The district reunion convened at Irvington, Alameda Co., yesterday, and their interests are centered there for the present. Several of our missionaries will be in attendance. Bishop C. A. Parkin was called to Napa to officiate at a funeral this week. J. A. Saxe went to Irvington and held a funeral this week. J. A. Saxe went to Irvington and neid Sacramental services there. Aug. 15 Bro. and Sr. Ellis arrived here enroute for Tahiti. He preached the morn-ing sermon Sunday, and went to Oakland in the even-ing. Elder Ingram spoke for us in the evening. Our young people hold a prayer meeting once a month at young people note a prayer meeting once a month at 9 a.m. Sunday which is proving very beneficial for them.

Aug. 19 Bro. Scott and wife sailed for Tahiti on the steamer "Moana." After she passed out of the Golden Gate she received a wireless message from Australia telling her to return, on account of danger from foreign war vessels, so she beturned, but sailed away next morning. She is now on the vast Pacific Ocean, with our missionaries among the passengers, and treasure to the amount of two million dollars.

Allow me to introduce a little family history here When the church sent out the first missionaries to Tahiti Addison Pratt and B. F. Grouard, Mr. and Mrs. Seth S. Lincoln, my father and mother, were passengers on the same vessel, leaving Massachusetts about 1843. Father thought it his duty to convert the young men, he being a Baptist; but they succeeded in converting him, and on arrival at Tahiti father and mother were the first persons baptized there. When they organized a branch of the church father was made the first president of the same. They remained there three years, and then came to San Francisco. Soon after their arrival here, 1847, father was made the president of the San Francisco Branch. He died here in 1852. I am much interested in the work on both sides of the Ocean.

... Geo. S. Lincoln

Aug. 23.

SEATTLE.

If Rome was on seven hills Seattle is on seven times seven, being located on very rough ground. We climbed a stair of two hundred steps recently in going from one street to another, and it covers a wide expanse or terri-tory holding over three hundred thousand

Our Riverside Mission sermon on Friday night was by Bro. Wm. Johnson on the same subject used by Bro. W. A. McDowell at the Irvington, Cal., reunion. We heard but one, so can't say which was best. The one I heard was good, however, the other was reported as good also. The general trend of the work here seems onward, at a slow but steady gait. The services Sunday were all well attended. The morning sermon was by the pastor on "creed revision;" the evening sermon was by Bro. Wm. Johnson who gave us a plain persuasive gospel ser-

The faithful band of Saints at Everett 29 miles north of here, have rented a hall and we go there Sunday next to open up a mission to be visited once or twice per month. Our Ladies Aid Society is very busy with needle and machine to help on in the good work. If you want anything done in church work give it to the brethren but if you wish it done quick and good turn it over to the sisters.

J. M. Terry. 102 North 39th St., Seattle, Wash., Aug. 27.

SANTA ANA, CAL

The Santa Ann Branch of Southern California District, having completed their modest little church at the corner of 5th and Flower Streets, occupied it for the first time Sunday, Aug. 16. The building was filled to overflowing with visiting Saints and friends from Southern California District; Bisbee, Aria: Fresno, Cal.; Independence, Mo.; and Iceal received. and local members.

The entire day was devoted to various exercises. Sunday School at 9:45 A. M. followed by services at 11 A. M. The 11 o'clock services consisted of two short discourses: one by Bro. W. A. McDowell, setting forth the difference between the Reorganization and the Salt Lake faction, the other by Bro. F. M. Sheehy who told the people "What we believe." These two discourses were for the purpose of setting right the ideas of the people who may not understand our position. our position.

At noon a basket lunch was served in the splendidly

At noon a onsect uncn was served in the splendidly cquipped basement of the church. Every one partook of the sumptous feast that had been prepared by the sisters. Again at 2:30 P. M. all were assembled in the upper auditorium to listen to Bro. McDowell upon "The maguitude of the gospel and what it comprises." He also advised the Saints in recovery that the document that chould be become of the gospel and what it comprises. He also havesed the Saints in regard to the decorum that should be observed, spoke of the sacredness of the building and the opportunity the saints have in getting the gospel before the people.

This service was followed by a good social time during the remainder of the afternoon until 6:45 P. M. when "Young Peoples Meeting" convened with Bro. J. W. Inman in charge. The Religio lesson was followed by a program on catge. The along to easily was followed by a program consisting of a reading by Sr. Pearl Nemo, vocal selection by Bro. Frank Powell, and a report of the Southern California District Convention by Bro. W. A. Brooner.

The closing address of the day was very ably delivered Bro. Sheehy who spoke on the "Impartiality of God and the necessity of Revelation today."

Special music was rendered by the choir, composed of embers from the several branches in the district. Vocal solos by Sr. Klein of Los Angeles and Sr. Lottie Burton Newton of Fresno and violin solos by Prof. Andrist, assisted by his wife, were thoroughly enjoyed by all. Too mucl praise nor congratulation can be given those who partici-pated in making this opening day a grand success. The Santa Ana Saints extend to all who may at any time have the opportunity to visit them, welcome

[Writers for the Ensign will please sign their names either to the article or confidentially to the Editor.]

Falcon, Colo., Aug. 22. Dear Ensign:-Three years ago the last of this month Dear Ensign:—Three years ago the last of this month wife and I left Eldorado Springs, Mo. Our sojourn has been pleasant, with exception of having no Saints to associate with. Ensign, Herald, and Journal of History have visited us for which we were very thankful. Aug. 19 we started for Falcon, Colo. Came to Colorado Springs In we started for fauch, Coin. Came to colorado Springs where we had to change cars and hardly got on the side walk when a man caught both grips, saying, "I take them." I hesitated, and he said, "You don't know me by this time." I knew it was Ammon White. We shook hands—the shake of a Latter Day Saint sent joy to my famished soul. He led wife and I to his auto, and took us to ished soul. He led wile and I to his auto, and took us to his home where we met Sr. White and two other sisters. A fine dinner served and we were whirled back to the depot in time for the 1:30 train. We are stopping with my son, George Jr. Hope to hear a sermon soon.

Yours in bonds,

G. W. Beebe.

Burlington, Ark., Aug. 18.

Editor Ensign:—I am isolated—no Saints any then Missouri. I moved here last November and never heard a sermon since. I belong to the Sagle, Idaho,

The people here are mostly Baptists. I hope some brother of the true faith will see this letter and come and preach for a while, as he will be taken care of by us and if he will write to us we will meet him at Cricket, as that is our nearest station. We live seven miles from Cricket on the Harrison Road.

The Lord only knows how I miss the association of the Lints. I only pray that sometime in the near future there will be a branch here. The people do not hear the

Dear Saints, I ask one and all to pray for me and my Jeanily that we will hold on to the rod of iron that when Jesus comes we will be counted among his followers. Would like if Bro. S. S. Smith or Bro. T. W. Chatburn could come and preach for a while. I have heard then preach some grand sermons.

Hoping to see the work move upward, I am a sister in the one true faith,

Mrs. Hattie Turnbull.

Los Angeles, Cal., Aug. 16, 1914.

Los Angeles, Cal., Aug. 16, 1914.

Editor Ensign:—Today was the opening of the new church at Santa Ana. All services were held, commencing with Sunday school in the morning followed by preaching at 11. The morning hour was divided between Bro. F. M. Sheehy, on "What we Believe," and Bro. W. A. McDowell on the Difference between us and the Salt Lake Church. This service is said to have been very affecting and many moist eyes were in the audience. Luncheon was served in the basement, and about 150 were fed as the guests of the Santa Ana Branch. At two thirty p. m. preaching by W. A. McDowell, from the text "This gospel of the kingdom shall be preached in all the world for a witness unto all nations and then shall the end come." Preaching at night by F. M. Sheehy, the subject we have not yet learned. Special music was furnished by Prof. and Mrs. Andrist of Santa Ana, from whom a number of the saints' children are taking music lessons, also a violin solo by Bro. Walter Klein at the afternoon service. Sr. Olive M. Clapp is chorister and Sr. Mamie Burton organist. Church. This service is said to have been very affecting organist.

This new church is said by Bro. Sheehy to be the best church on the Pacific Coast. It is located on a lot 50 by 126 feet on the South East corner of 5th and Flower Streets, handy to the main car line and the business center and in the best portion of the city. The lot is worth $1500, and the entire property is rated at about $3750.00, with only about $1000.00 against it. The building is 36 by 52 feet with front and side entrances, a rest and cloak room with a lavatory for the auditorium which is furnished with nice comfortable pews, platform for the choir and speaker, and the woodwork is well finished in good workmanship and the natural color of the woods, the acoustic properties are good and the room is well lighted, and there are ample library cases built in. There is a concrete basement under the whole house, equipped with concrete baptismal font, toilets, kitchen and folding with concrete paptismal font, tonets, kitchen and folding tables for refreshments, splendid black-boards for the Sunday school, and all the windows are provided with

Sunday school, and all the windows are produced screens.

The building committee was composed of Bro. H. S. Pankey, R. N. Dungan, F. W. Burton, J. W. Inman and Albert Starkey. The labor was largely donated—"every body helped," said Bro. Dungan. The principal donators of labor were Bro. Anderson, R. N. Dungan, Niles Paulson and Fred Best, while Bro. Pankey, Sr. Fuller, Bro. and Sr. Balchan, and Bro. Inman each furnished $15.00 of labor, and many and Bro. Imman each Turnished $15.00 of labor, and many others contributed various sums towards the enterprise, not only in Santa Ana, but from the different branches in the district, and the Santa Ana sisters under the name of the Economic Catering Club earned $175.00 cooking for the reunion, and especial credit is due the Ladies' Aid for consistent and persistent help.

The Santa Ana Saints are certainly to be congratulated and commended for the entire effort, and it is carnestly hoped that the future may be all that is anticipated, in every way. The membership of the branch is 84.

Winthrop, Ark., Aug. 24.

Dear Ensign:—I wish to tell you how the work is propressing in this part of the Lord's vineyard. We have just closed the finest meeting I ever attended, lasting fourteen days. We started the meeting in an old school house 30x40 feet. The crowd increased so that the good people of the town got the big auditoriom, 36x80 feet, people of the town got the big auditoriom, 36x80 feet, and we had it full every night. We made many friends. Bro. John Harp was our preacher and his wife was our organist. We have heard many compliments on his preaching, which makes us feel good. Now you can hear scripture being rehearsed everywhere you go. The work is surely being built up here. We have about 28 saints here now, and Elder Jay Hoffman and family will move here this week. They have bought a farm here and we are encouraged. We would be glad to welcome any of the Saints that are seeking good cheap farms. I am not connected with real estate business in any way, but will gladly answer any letter of inquiry about this country. For what we lack is more saints. We have a chance to buy a house for a church, which I think we will do.

Wishing the dear old Ensign good luck, I remain a

Wishing the dear old Ensign good luck, I remain a brother in gospel bonds.

T. B. Sharp.

Lees Summit, Mo., Aug. 11,

Dear Ensign:-I thought a few lines from this part of the Lord's vineyard might be interesting to Ensign readers. Sunday night we closed what had been a most interesting open air meeting, which we have been holding for eight nights. One of my neighbors, an outsider, kindly invited nights. One of my neighbors, an outsider, kindly invited us to hold our meetings in her yard, and I wish to state that every kindness was shown that could be to make things pleasant and comfortable for us. also a non-member, kindly assisted on his guitar with the Meetings were in charge of our worthy branch president, Elder C. D. DePuy, assisted by Bro. Joseph Carlson of Greenwood and Bro. Joseph Curls; and to the joy of our hearts the Spirit of the Master was present, as was evidenced by the liberty given those who broke the bread of life to the waiting congregation. On Sunday evening the 9th three precious souls were led into the waters of bapis the three precious souls were the fine the waters of series by Bro. DePuy, two of them being Bro. and Sr. Ira Cairns, son of Bro. and Sr. John Cairns, old time saints now residing at Ava, Mo. We feel that there are others interested in the precious gospel. Thus the good work goes on, here a little and there a little. May God help us all to be faithful and to labor here in the Master's cause.

Your sister and co-laborer in the gospel of Christ. Lizzie M. Gubser.

Pleasant Hill, Mo., Aug. 16, 1914.

Dear Saints:—I noticed in the Ensign some time ago, Bro, Lewis relates a dream in regard to the coming of our dear Savior. I also note an article written by a brother on this subject of Will there be one coming of the Savior or two? I have had two dreams in regard to the coming of our Savior. The first dream, (the time of the resurrec-tion), the second dream was, the visit of the Savior before the resurrection. The first one is as follows: I dreamed that the saints had received a revelation telling them what that the saints had received a revenation tening tient man-would be the sign of Christ's coming, I saw a wagon stand-ing by the roadside, and some large sawed timbers and some small blocks about the size and shape of brick. The revelation says when you see these things loaded upon tha wagon, you may know that the time is close at hand, even at the door. Then in a short time I noticed that the timber and blocks were loaded on the wagon, and I started out to and blocks were loaded on the wagon, and I started out to tell the saints that the timbers were on the wagon, and that he Savior would soon come. I went to a large building, it being crowded with saints, and I saw my mother there, I told her that the Savior would soon come. She said that she knew n, as (though God had revealed it to her). I was meditizing and asking myself if I could endure the presence of Jesus. I thought probably his presence would consume me, like fire consuming dry stubble; then Jesus stepped in at the door, just as any ordinary man might do, and caused no exitement whatever. One sister shook hands with him, but he didn't offer to shake hands with any one else, but bowed his head and said, "Let us pray." This ended the first dream. It give me an understanding of the scripture which says, he will be like a refiners fire and like fullers soap. One class of people will be consumed as by fire, the other class, his presence will only purify and make them clean.

The second dream is as follows: I dreamed that the Savior had appeared to the saints and had talked to us Savior had appeared to the same and had that the face to face. I wrote a letter to my mother telling her of the Savior coming to visit the saints. When I got the letter wrote and sealed up, the Savior's picture appeared on the envelope. Thus ends the dream.

Let us watch and pray that we may be ready to meet our Lord and Savior when he appears. I wish to extend an invitation to the saints to visit my home in Pleasant Hill. Come to the Rock Island depot then you will be directed Come to the Rock Island depot then you will be directed to my home. My wife is not a saint, and she has never heard this latter day gospel preached. She expresses a desire to hear the saints preach. She has only been in Missouri three weeks and she tells me that many things she has heard told on the saints are false. We went to Holden two weeks ago, but there was no preaching on ac-count of Sacrament service. I would be pleased if some of the missionaries would come to Pleasant Hill. I believe there can be some good accomplished here. I desire an interest in the prayers of the saints that I may be faithful in the cause of Christ, and be found watching when Jesus comes with power and great glory.
Your Brother

Labon Wilson

Silcott, Wash, August 3. Editor Ensign:-We are the only Saints near here at present but hope there will be some in the near future. We came here last December. People here are more interested in worldly things than they are in their soul's salvation. How they drift with the times. It seems to me that what few years are allotted to man here he should spend part of that time in trying to provide a home that will not perish, but will be eternal for the life to come. Will not persal, but will be eternal to the first to cone. We cannot expect to receive the blessings promised the Saints unless we live as becometh the children of God. Those who knoweth the Lord's will and doeth it not shall be beaten with many stripes. So you see, dear saints, that we will have to pay the penalty for not doing our

S. P. Harper.

WHOM DID IT EVER HELP?

The head man of a big business in Kansas City was asked not long ago to withdraw his opposition to a saloon in his neighborhood.

"Why are you so strongly against whiskey and saloons? What harm did they ever do you?" asked the man who was urging him.

"Look here," answered the business man. "If you will bring to me one man who was ever benefitted by whiskey I will withdraw my objection to this saloon; I will take my name off the remonstrance against it and sign the petition for it; I will take back all I have ever said against the saloon and will preach in favor of it. Bring Don't limit your search to me just one man. Kansas City; take the whole United States to find him in. Go out with a drag net and hunt the country over for him. If you find one man that whiskey has benefitted I'll lay down."—Kansas City Times.

ANTI-SALOON LEAGUE OF AMERICA'S GREAT PLAN FOR TEMPERANCE EDUCATION ON WORLD'S TEMPERANCE SUNDAY.

The Anti-Saloon League of America, through its Lincoln-Lee Legion Department, plans to make World's Temperance Sunday, November 8, 1914, a big factor in the campaign for National Prohibition. To this end it is offering FREE to all Sabbath-schools in the United States, supplies for an appropriate Temperance service on that The supplies offered are as follows: Lincoln-Lee Legion Programme book; a 32-page pamphlet containing choice recitations, both prose and poetic, and class exercises. (2) The 16-page song suppliment; this contains thirty rousing temperance and anti-saloon songs, also Scriptural and National Prohibition responsive services. These will be furnished in sufficient quanity to supply the entire school. (3) Lincoln-Lee Legion duplicate pledge cards, one for each member of the school. (4) A large National Prohibition chart. (5) A Lincoln-Lee Legion wall roll. (6) A large picture of Lincoln and Lee. (7) Scientific temperance leaflets for free distribution to all who are present.

All that is necessary in order that any school may receive these free supplies is that the superintendent or pastor shall send a postal card request to the Lincoln-Lee Legion, Westerville, Ohio, stating the average attendance of the school above the primary department.

It would be gratifying to the Anti-Saloon League if this offer would be promptly accepted by every Sabbath-school in the United States. A great mass of scientific information in regard to alcohol and its evil effects has been discovered in recent years, and it is highly important that this information be quickly imparted to all the members of the Sabbath-schools and churches everywhere.

World's Temperance Sunday, on November 8, will afford an excellent opportunity for the Sabbath-school and church-going people of the United States to get a vision of this most recent scientific information, in its bearing upon the movement for universal total abstinence and national and world round prohibition.

DEATH.

What we commonly denominate death is a separating of the living or life principle from the fleshy of physical system which leaves the flesh in such condition that decay and decomposition immediately begins to take place, and if not prevented soon brings about a complete disintregation of all the tissues of the body until the entire body is reduced to dust.

But it is claimed that the life principle does not and perhaps can not undergo this decaying or a similar change but it is held to be of an eternal nature and can not die. If there were a complete annihilation of man, there would be no use for a judgment day, for there would be no man either spirit or body to be judged, hence no need of a judge. Consequently the whole creation of man, and the idea of a preparation for eternal happiness and joy would be but little better than a farce.

But what will we do with the power and wisdom so plainly demonstrated, as being instrumental in the protection of all things tangible and real? And it is just as evident that changes are taking place, as that matter exists; and what we call death is one of those changes, and so far as we know, the one in which man is most concerned, since in that change he is interested mostly in regard to his future condition, and the Bible teaching in regard to that condition is least understood, and most ignored of any Bible teaching we have.

M. T. Beck.

WHERE IS NOW THE ARK?

It shall be unknown until the time that God gathers: His people together, and receives them unto his mercy-2 Mac. 2:7.

O! in what secret place doth hide The Ark which was a nation's pride? The Lord doth know; and will reveal In His own time; and break the seal.

And men shall roll the stone away, And bring it forth to light of day With rev'rence, and with worship meet, While glory crowns the Mercy Seat.

And there shall be the Tent as well. Wherein the Lord was wont to dwell, And men shall see the altar nigh Whose incense rose to God Most High-

And Aaron's Rod which budded so, When other rods no bud did show, The sign that he was God's High Priest, The head of sacrificial feast.

And Rings and Staves o'erlaid with gold Which bore the Ark in days of old; And Angel forms they too shall greet Whose wings o'erspread the Mercy Seat.

The Lord will show these things once more: The Lord will show these things once more,
And we shall wonder and adore;
To Him our hearts and voices raise
In shouts of joy and songs of praise!
—Amicus, in The Truth.

THE WHITENESS OF FOAM.

Everybody knows that the foam along the shore of the sea or of a lake is white. No matter how deep the blue of the water may be, there is the same whiteness of the froth at its edge. Similarly, if the blackest of ink be beaten into a foam, that foam will be as white as the foam of the sea. Why is this? Because we see all objects by reflected light. If they reflect all the rays they appear white; if they absorb all the rays they seem to be black, When beaten into a froth the little bubbles reflect all the light from their surfaces, for their extreme thinness makes them practically nothing but surface, and thus they are white.—Sel.

SERMONS AND ARTICLES

THE SIGNS OF CHRIST'S COMING.
Sermon by Elder J. A. Tanner, at Central Church,
Kansas City, Mo., Sunday, July 12, 1914.

Reported by Belle Robinson James.

And Jesus went out rnd departed from the Temple; and his disciples came to him for to show him the buildings of the temple. And Jesus said unto them; see ye not all these things? Verily, I say unto you, There shall not be left here one stone upon another that shall not be thrown down.

And as he sat upon the Mount of Olives, the disciples came unto him privately, saying, Tell us, when shall these things be? and what shall be the sign of thy coming, and of the end of the world? And Jesus answered and said unto them, Take heed that no man decive you. For many shall come in my name, saying I am Christ; and shall deceive many. And ye shall hear of wars, and rumors of wars, see that ye be not troubled; for all these things must come to pass, but the end is not yet. For nation shall rise against nation, and kingdom against kingdom; and there shall be famines and pestilence, and carthquakes in divers places. All these positience, and cartiquates in aivers places. All these are the beginning of sorrows.

Then shall they deliver you up to be afflicted, and shall kill you; and ye shall be hated of all nations for my name sake. And then shall many be offended, and shall betray one another, and shall hate one another. And false prophets shall rise, and shall deeve many. And because iniquity shall abound, the love of many shall wax cold. But he that shall endure unto the end, the same shall be saved. And this gospel of the kingdom shall be preached in all the world for a witness unto all nations: and then shall the end come.

I have read fourteen verses from the 24th chapter of Matthew touching upon the answer of Jesus to his disciples as they propounded this three-fold question to him, desirous of knowing when the time might come that the Jerusalem temple should be thrown down, and the sign of his coming and of the end of the world. And I think it is proper that I should read a few more verses that are worthy of our consideration touching upon this same matter:

"Behold, I have told you before. Wherefore, if they shall say unto you, Behold, he is in the desert; go not forth; Behold, he is in the secret chambers, believe it not. For as the lightning cometh out of the east and shireth even unto the west; so shall also the coming of the Son of Man be. For wheresoever the careass is, there will the engles be gathered together.

Immediately after the tribulation of those days shall the sun be darkened, and the moon shall not give her light, and the stars shall fall from heaven, and the powers of the heavens shall be shaken. And then shall appear the sign of the Son of Man in heaven; and then shall all the tribes of the earth mourn, and they shall see the Son if Man coming in the clouds of heaven, with power and great glory. And he shall send his angels with the great sound of a trumpet; and they shall gather together his elect from the four winds, from one end of heaven to the other. Now learn a parable of the fig tree: when his branch is yet tender and putteth forth leaves, ye know the summer is nigh: so likewise ye, when ye shall see all these things, know that it is near, even at the doors. Verily I say unto you, this generation shall not pass, till all these things be fulfilled. Heaven and earth shall pass away, but my words shall not pass away.

But of that day and hour knoweth no man, no, not the angels of heaven, but my Father only. But as the days of Noe were, so shall also the coming of the Son of Man be. For as in the days that were before the flood, they were cating and drinking, marrying and giving in marriage, until the day that Noah entered into the ark. And knew not, until the flood came and took them all away so shall also the coming of the Son of Man be. Then shall two be in the field; the one shall be taken and the other left. Two women shall be grinding at the mill; the one shall be taken and the other left: Watch, therefore, for ye know not what hour your Lord doth come.

The second reading has been from the 25th to the 42nd verses inclusive. One of the fundamental beliefs of the disciples of Jesus Christ and those of the Jewish people who had accepted his philosophy and united with the church that he had organized when he was here upon earth, was that the Master was going to be with them. They did not seem to understand-for a time, at least-that he was going to take his departure, or that he would succumb to death and that he would no longer be personally in their midst. They thought that he had come as a great temporal ruler to redeem them and set them at liberty from the bondage they were under to the Roman Empire and make them a free nation, that he had come in fulfillment of prophecy in which it had been indicated that they should be the greatest nation of all the peoples of the earth. And when the Master had talked to them about passing away in death, going away to leave them, they could not understand, they could at comprehend why that should be. had a tendancy to cool their ardor and their desire to build up this temporal kingdom that they thought he was going to be the head of; it inclined them to enter into a state and condition of doubt. There was a decrease in their faith, a declining of their spiritual condition, but some of them, at ast seemed to think that there might be something in the matter that was worthy of their consideration, and while in conversation with him about the great Jerusalem Temple and hearing the Master make a statement that that Temple was going to be razed to the ground—there should not be one stone left upon another- that it would meet with a great destruction, they seemed to awaken to some things that would come to pass and hence they asked the question; "What shall be the sign of this, that we shall know it? What evidences shall come to us? What enlightenment shall we receive by which we can comprehend and understand and know these things to be actually the things that you have called our attention to, when they shall take place?" Not only that, but they wanted to know what would be the sign of his coming and also of the end of the world.

Jesus calls their attention in one part of this chapter to some of the things that would take place before the destruction of the Jerusalem Temple which I shall not deal with tonight; and then he calls their attention to some things that will take place in the way of physical evidences as well as moral and spiritual conditions, by which it should be signs to them of the coming of their blessed Lord and Savior; and as they looked forward to this time, they might not do so with doubt and skepticism, but that they could have some evidences, at least, that would indicate to them the near approach of the Master. And because of these evidences and the manifestations that have come through them in some of the years that have passed and gone, a great many people have thought they could see the near approach of the Savior, that the day was not far distant when he would make his advent and that he would dwell with his people here upon earth.

Some people—and no doubt honest at heart—have gone so far as to figure out the time, set the date, and make preparation by gathering to some central place, thinking that Jesus would meet them there and that they could then reign with their Savior throughout what they understand to be a millenial reign; and while they were mistaken and no doubt dissappointed to some extent, they only thought that they had made a mistake in their calculations as they figured in the prophecies in the Old Testament Scriptures, and that surely it could not be much farther and hence they set a time again only to be disappointed and to find out that the Master did not come as they expected.

I have no fault to find with these people. I think they were honest at heart; that they were so zealous and believed so earnestly in many of the prophecies that they had been studying that more than likely they thought that Jesus would soon appear; that they being the chosen children of the Master, that of course the Savior coming where the "eagles might be gathered together"—as expressed in another chapter—that they should be gathered in that state so that they could receive their Master when he should come.

Sometimes, as a people, wonder why they should be mistaken with the thought before us so clearly outlined here in this history that we have read tonight, why anyone should try to locate the time when Jesus would come in the light of the statement here that even-the angels in heaven do not know the time of his coming, but that that knowledge is resident with the heavenly Father; that the Savior himself did not seem to understand and comprehend when the hour might arrive for him to make his advent back here in the world again.

We want to pay some attention to some of the physical evidences that the Master has called attention to here and notice them just briefly, to the times when some of these things have taken place and in which we rely upon them as strong evidences of the coming of our Master. He said there should be famines, pestilences, sickness and disease, all of which within itself would not be any great indication of the coming of the master, because prior to this time, sickness, disease and famines had made their inroads upon humanity. Subsequent to this time we find that sickness and disease were again making their inroads upon the human family until these only could be accepted as collateral evidences to indicate when Jesus would appear to his children.

It is said there would be wars and rumors of wars. That nations should fight against nations. That was not anything new to the people that he was talking to. Probably some of them had witnessed some very bitter wars. Some of them might not have been so old yet but what they had engaged in some battles of the past especially against these nations that were treading them down under foot and bringing them into bondage as a nation of people. So they probably did not pay a great deal of attention to this statement.

He also tells them that there would be earthquakes take place in divers places. I do not know that that would be any great evidence of itself, because today a great many men who have opposed the Bible who contend that Jesus Christ was an imposter and who do not believe in the Bible as a revelation from God, have compiled statistics showing the numerous earthquakes that have occurred in various parts of the world, and we know that sometimes we seek to off-set this, to some extent, by stating that these earthquakes were not as numerous then as they are at present, but the fact of the matter is they did not have the means of communication as they do today, they did not have the facilities by which the news of the earthquakes could be spread from one part of the earth to the other, they did not have the instrument called the seismograph by which it could register the earthquake by the trembling of the earth and the probable disturbances resultant therefrom hundreds and thousands of miles away-hence a very good reason why we do not have a report of the frequence of earthquakes in the early centuries after Christ .- so what is the scripture evidence that might be used as a warning of the coming of our Lord and Savior? Why, it is the taking of all these things together and using them as evidence, taking one feature here and another there and in our compilation making a fortification in defence of the prophetic utterances of our Lord Jesus Christ and that under Divine inspiration he could forecast that that was in the future so many hundreds of years subsequent to this time.

One feature I desire to call your attention to right at this juncture and then I shall leave it for a few minutes to take up some other features in connection with the subject matter. After he had called their attention to these wars and physical evidences and the convulsions of nature, he says, "This gospel of the kingdom shall be preached in all the world for a witness unto all nations; and then shall the end come." So we see there is something to be reckoned with besides the physical evidence that our attention is called to by the Master, that when we go to figure upon the approach of our blessed Lord and Savior, there is the spiritual side of the question as well as the physical and there is a moral and an ethical side to this question as well as the physical that we must deal withthat if we eliminate the spiritual, moral and ethical and deal with the physical only, it is just possible that we shall be mistaken and that we may be looking forward to the time of Jesus Christ and expecting his approach and when he does not come at that time, we might be disappointed, like others.

I want to refer to what the Master says with reference to his coming again as recorded by one of the other historians. He speaks there about them taking up the sword one against the other, and nation against nation; he tells them that the Jewish nation shall be trodden under foot of the Gentiles until the fullness of the Gentiles shall come in—until they have grown ripe in iniquity and wickedness, when the Lord is coming to call a halt, and he says that in this time men's hearts shall fail them for fear of the things that are coming upon the earth, and here is one of the strong moral evidences that touch us with the truthfulness of Jesus Christ, that impress us with the prophetical character of that which the Master uttered when he was here amongst the children of men; the very fact that today our most astute and gigantic minds, our most intelligent men and women are pointing out to us some of the great crises that confront the human family; and they themselves stand and quake with fear because of the conditions that confront us is evidence that the signs spoken of by the Master are at our doors.

The time is not far distant in the past when we, as a church people put more stress upon the moral conditions that were confronting the human family than we did the physical, but today we are departing largely from a consideration of the moral and the spiritual side of this question, and we are dwelling to some extent upon the physical evidences and them alone as an indication of the coming of our blessed Lord and Master.

As we persue the scriptures and go to the last book of the New Testament I find that the Apostle John when banished to the Isle of Patmos was given a fore-sight into the future. He was enabled, as he looked down through unborn time to see some of the conditions that would exist just about the time of the winding-up scenes and the approach of the Savior; when there would be a great convulsion of nature in the way of an earthquake, and when, by reason of the destruction and the peculiar conditions that the human family were being placed in at that time that men and women were turning and cursing God and asking that the mountains and the rocks should fall upon them to hide them from the face of that eternal Son of God that was going to make his appearance in the world.

So that still there are some important things that are yet future from us. I shall not turn to it and read it to night, but I shall ask you to turn to it at some of your leisure moments; I refer to the 38th chapter of the Book of Ezekiel, and it would be well if you would read the 37th chapter first because it calls your attention to certain conditions in reference to the resurrection from the dead and then in reference to some work in this day and age of the world in which we live, and finally it leads up to a gathering of that people from the north of the land of Palestine and all the surrounding country under the leadership of some one designated as Gog, when they shall march down against those people that shall dwell there-the Lord's children whom he was talking to-those mentioned in this prophetic declaration read in your hearing tonight.

It will take time to develop proper conditions before this great battle can take place. The people must be gathered back to that land, and that is some of the leading promises of the prophets to the children of Israel. The time would come when the Lord would move upon them and they should be gathered back to the land that was given to them as an everlasting inheritance; and when we take in connection with this 14th chapter of the book of Zechariah and read that people being gathered and become very rich in a financial way, that the nations of the earth shall combine together, and that the city shall be ravished and taken and the Jewish people are about to be overcome by these nations that combat against them at that time; and by reason of this it shall be necessary that Jesus Christ shall make his advent and shall descend from heaven at that time; he shall plant his foot upon the Mount of Olives and it shall cleave in twain, a part falling to the north and a part to the south, forming in that convulsion of nature a great valley in which these Israelitish people shall go for protection, and there shall rain down out of heaven fire and brimstone and consume the great armies there that came against the children of Israel, and so great is that battle and the consuming that goes on there that Ezekiel refers to it as a feast of blood to which all the fowls and the voracious animals are invited unto that feast to drink of the blood of the nations that die there in that combat with the children of Israel after they have gathered back to that land which God has promised to them.

While I shall not delineate upon this great feast. I am going to call your attention to just a few things that will show you the calamity of the situation. The implements of war that will be used at that time are going to serve the Israelitish people after this battle is over, for seven years as fuel. Of course in this day and age of the world and modern times and with a climate like that is over there that has not much wintry weather we appreciate that a great amount of fuel will not be needed, but it gives us some kind of an idea of the implements of war used and the destruction of that which is left behind-and the dead shall be so great that it will take them seven months to bury the people and there shall be a great valley formed upon the highway in the travel that takes place from one part of the country to another, and the stench of that people shall become so great that it will be necessary for men to be employed in companies to care for the matter of burying the dead and to get rid of the conditions that exist.

This gives you some idea then, if there is anything in prophecy at all, of what is yet before us and I might dwell upon this for some length of time but shall not do so.

I shall now revert back in connection with these physical features that I have called your attention to, to the 14th verse of the 24th chapter of St. Matthew in which Jesus says, "And this gospel of the kingdom shall be preached in all the world for a witness unto all nations, and then shall the end come." Now the point at issue is this, the indication is here-that there would be a departure from the gospel, that an apostacy would enter in, and that it would be necessary for a work of restoration to take place, and when we connect this statement with the instruction of the prophet Malachi, that the Lord is going to come suddenly to his temple, but before he comes suddenly to his temple he is going to send his messenger before his face to prepare the way for him and hence a preparation might be made, we can comprehend that after the departure has been had from the gospel and the apostasy has taken place, that God is going to send the gospel back to the earth again, restore his church and kingdom and a preparation shall take place by reason of the preaching of the gospel and it must go unto all nations of the earth as a witness and then shall the end of the world come, etc.

Now the feature that I wish to dwell upon is this. There would be nothing in this statement as we have it here unless the apostasy did take place, unless there has been a departure from the faith and the ways of righteousness, I cannot see how there would be any spiritual evidnece in this text whatever.

To simply illustrate it: Suppose that I am tonight a passenger on a train bound from Chicago to Kansas City, and I am a perfect stranger, not very well acquainted with traveling upon the railway. I place myself in the care of the conductor, telling him where my destination is, saying, "Now, I am not very well acquainted and when I get to Kansas City I want you to let me know when I must get off." He says, "We'll take good care of you, don't worry about that. Did you hear that bell ring out there now as the tráin was starting?" "Yes, sir." He says, "Well, when you hear that bell ring again after you wake up in the morning then you get off; that will be Kansas City. That will be the sign; that will be the witness for you when you are to get I have the tone of the bell in mind, and I lay myself down, make myself as comfortable as possible and go to sleep. After I have slept for a number of hours, I wake up and listen and hear the bell ringing. I sieze my grips and wraps and start for the door. The conductor says: "Here, where are you going?" I say, "The bell is ringing, I am going to get off at Kansas City." "Why, he says, "That old bell has been ringing ever since we started from Chicago, we are only half way to Kansas City."

If the bell was ringing all the time, what evidence would it be to me of when I would reach Kansas City? What information would it give me as to the getting off place? Not any at all. If the gospel has been preached all the way down from the days of Jesus Christ unto the present, if God's church has stood intact and there has been no disorganization and it has remained true and faithful until the present, what evidence is there in the statement. "And this gospel of the kingdom shall be preached in all the world for a witness and then shall the end

So that the remarkable evidence to us of the second coming of Christ and of what we might term the near approach, whether that should mean 100 or 500 years, is the fact of the establishment of God's kingdom in these the latter days, and the restoring of the gospel in its primitive form and condition as anciently, of a church organization as it was in the days of Jesus Christ and the promulgation of that same beautiful and powerful gospel as the apostles of the Lord presented it away back

I now leave that question and pass on to one or two evidences that we have not called your attention to yet. The Master said that there would be false prophets and false Christs arise and they should deceive many and lead them astray and in one place it is stated that even the very elect would be in danger of being deceived by it. The reason I refer to this is because in our experience as a people here tonight, we do not have to remember very far back when there was a person over here in Illinois who assumed to be Christ and in advocating that found a number of followers, even establishing a little Zion over there, but finally the people were disappointed in finding out that he was not the son of God; and then again in the west another gentleman rose up and claimed that he was the Christ, performed some miracles, healed the sick, curing the cripples, and impressed a large number of people that he was true in his mission as the Savior until he had hundreds and thousands of followers, but after awhile they awakened to the fact that he was but mortal, and he passed away in death.

While upon general principles, this will be evidence to some extent to the children of Jesus Christ today, it could not be evidence to the Israelitish nation and they were the ones that Jesus was talking to, they were the ones whose attention he was calling to these evidences and scenes that should take place, and so far as I am concerned personally, I do not fear of any false christs or prophets arising to deceive the entire people of God today and to lead them astray. Do not understand me to say that it cannot be done. It can be done but I am not fearful of its being done and I base that upon a number of prophetical utterances here and promises that God has made, that I would not have time to touch upon and give you my reasons why I feel that way about it.

But away back yonder when Jesus talked about the Israelitish people, conditions did obtain that were some of the very evidences that are referred to here, and as early as the year 132, hardly one hundred years after Jesus had passed away in death and had gone to heaven, we find that one of these men came along. I will now read some history.

But none attracted much regard until A. D. 132 when one arose calling himself Barchobebas, son of the Star, the person predicted by Balaam. He excited his countrymen to rebellion against the Romans, and promised them full restoration to former glory. The Rabbi Akibda became his fore-runner, and publicly anointed his as the Messiah and King of the Jews, putting a diadem on his head. 200,000 Jews were soon collected around this impostor, in the field, who fell with fury upon both heathen postor, in the field, who fell with fury upon both heathen and Christians. They gained at first, some advantage over the imperial army; but in a short period, they were all scattered or slain by the forces of Adrain. Barchobebas and his precursor with 580,000 Jews fell by the sword, besides vast multitudes who perished by famine and pestilence. Such of the Jews as survived, were sold as slaves, and dispersed over the earth. Marsh's Ecclesiastical History, page 451.

Marsh further says:

Others in succeeding periods claimed the like homage, but the twelfth was the most prolific. One then appeared in France; another in Persia; another in Spain; a fourth in Fez. who pretended to work miracles: a fifth beyond the Euphrates, who drew prodigious multitudes after him; two others in Persia, and one in Moravia. All these impostors were put to death, and drew indescribable calmthe Jews in various parts of the world. none since Barchobebas, ever imposed so far upon the Jews. or became so distinguished as Zabathia Tzevi, who appeared at Smyrnia in 1666. He was adored as the first born of God. 400 prophets prophesied of his glory. norn of God. 400 prophets prophessed of his glory. The Jows overywhere prepared to follow him to the Holy Land. But interfering with the rights of the Grand Seignior, he was taken, and being shown the stake turned Turk. The last impostor that has collected many followers, was Mordecai, a German, in 1682. In 1650 a great council was convened upon the plains of Egeda, in Hungary, to consider whether the Messiah had come. 300 Rabbis were present. Some were perplexed with the Christian miracles, but the majority agreed that he had been retarded by their sins."—Marsh p. 451.

by their sins."—Marsh p. 451.

The peculiar feature in this reading is the sad picture it reveals because of the misunderstanding of the Jews. They expected Christ to set up a temporal kingdom and restore them as of old, but when he held before them a spiritual kingdom they could not understand him, hence they rejected him as an impostor, and when impostors did come along they received them with open arms because they were imbued so strongly with the idea of a temporal ruler, and of having their own kingdom once more set up. With this view in mind it was not difficult for an impostor to take advantage of their ignorance and get a large following, they believing of course they were being led to victory.

The reason I refer to this is because the one whom they thought was an impostor had warned them of false Christ's arising, and that they would deceive many, and that they (the Jews) would be slain and scattered. In this deception palmed off on them much of the prediction of the Savior was fulfilled-for it was sad indeed to see near a million slain with the sword by one false leaderto say nothing of the others-and another very large number die with famine and pestilence. Now we would not want to take the false Christs referred to as sufficient evidence of the coming of the Master, nor of the nearness of his approach; but we do include it with other evidence picked up scattered along the centuries subsequent to the Savior and use it to prove the Savior will come, and all of these evidences physical, moral, and the spiritual are guide signs leading up to the time of his advent.

So now as far as the second coming of Jesus Christ is concerned, I am not here before you tonight to pass as an applogist as to why the Master has not appeared at the times set for him. I don't know who does. I don't know. said the angels in heaven did not know. He said his Father was acquainted with the fact, but this much I am going to tell you tonight, that before Christ comes there must be a great work done, whether it takes a few years or many years-that makes but little difference. If the Then work can be accomplished in a few years. the road will be paved for his coming. That much is sure. If it takes more than that time, we will have to wait until that time before he does come. But this much I am going to assure you, and that is that he is going to catch us all napping when he does make his appearance, because the prophecies indicate that we do not need to think because of divine revelation that we have the gospel restored to us in this day and age of the world, that we are going to be all so bright that we will know all about these conditions.

The parable in Matt. 25, says that the church was likened unto ten virgins, five were wise and five were foolish, and when the call came "Behold the Bridegroom cometh, go ye out to meet him" that five-just half of the whole-had no oil in their vessels; and there is something in it I would like to mpress upon the mind of every Latter Day Saint, listen! hark! "While the Bridegroom tarried, they all slumbered and slept." And if we, as an institution, are not creeping upon that sleeping state and condition today, I could forecast the conditions as they are.

It is a sad picture. I am sorry for it. We will have to meet the issue and make the best of it: and even if we have to suffer to some extent let us do so generously. Let us not forget that wonderful instruction by the anostle Paul wherein he calls our attention to the fact that perilous times should come in the last days. Men should be heady-high-minded; and they should think a great deal of self. They should be covetous, truce-breakers, lovers of pleaseure more than lovers of God, etc. And then he admonishes the children to see that they keep away from such; or in other words follow out the principles of rightcousness and see that they do not enter into such conditions.

It should be a warning cry to the children of Jesus Christ today, and they should lift the warning voice to all whom they come in contact with; that if there was ever a time when Paul's prophecy was fulfilled and that it has its application, it is in the day and age in which we live.

Are we losing sight of our spiritual interests and being attracted by these moral influences and amusements? Are we not so nearly good as we were ten or twenty years ago? There is not the spirituality in the majority of our branches that there was some years ago and the only reason we can give for it is because people are becoming cold and indifferent and are being misled by the very things that Jesus and the apostles foretold as the evidences of the coming of our Lord and Savior Jesus Christ.

Let us see that we go upon the watch tower and read these signs and escape some of the sad conditions that are pictured relative to the unprepared in the future.

WILL THE SACRAMENT BE ADMINISTERED IN THE MILLENNIUM?

The first thought which comes to an individual on the presentation of such a question is, that the sacrament is only for the period of our probationary state, simply for the time that we tabernacle in the flesh in the mortal sense; and indeed this thought gains strength, from a hasty examination of the instructions of St. Paul in his Corinthan letter; chapter 11 verse 26.

"For as often as ye eat this bread, and drink this cup, we do show the Lord's death till he comes."

Just what does Paul mean here, that we are to cease partaking of the sacrament when comes, or, that the ordinance was only instituted for the period between birth and death of the physical body?

We can hardly arrive at the conclusion when we analyze the full importance of the ordinance, and the significence of the statements of Christ when conversing upon this topic.

We find the ordinance is an old one inaugerated with the gosnel plan in the early history of the teachings. Thus we find gospel the king of Salem, bringing forth bread and wine to Abraham, and breaking and blessing the bread and wine; he being the priest of the most high God, with authority so to do.

This instance proves that it was no new innovation (as some suppose) instituted by Jesus when he was here in person; but a definite, specific, ordinance of the gospel of Jesus Christ from its earliest conception. This being the fact, it will of necessity remain a fundamental principle until the culmination, or consumation of the entire redemptive plan.

The sacrament is the one objective ordinance by which we demonstrate our willingness to take upon us the name of Jesus Christ and keep his commandments. It is a sealing compact when worthily taken, and as such must be available to all who obey the divine principles in time or eternity. For according to the scriptures, those who will be brought into the fold of Christ during the millennium must accept the Christ without coming into personal contact with him, otherwise their privilege would be superior to ours: but we read that there is a certain kind of judgment passed upon all those outside of the camp of the saints, and according to their acceptance at the age of one hundred years, they are caught up into the camp of the saints, or condemned to the prison house to await the final judgmnt. The millennium presents numerous stages and conditions from the ignorant uncomprehending heathen, to those advanced in knowledge as represented in the exaltation of glorified saints: this same objective ordinance will be available to those who obey the law durng this time.

Paul says that by partaking of the sacrament we "shew the Lord's death till he comes;" not necessarily that we cease to partake when he comes, for that would be out of harmony with the words of Jesus in Matt. 26:26, 27, I. T. "But I say unto you, I will not drink henceforth of this fruit of the vine, until that day when I drink it anew with you in my Father's kingdom.'

And in Mark 14:24, 25 I. T. "And as oft as ye do this ordinance, ye will remember me in this hour that I was with you, and drank with you of this cup, even the last time in my ministry.

"Verily I say unto you, Of this ye shall bear record; for I will no longer drink of the fruit of the vine with you, until that day that I drink it new in the kingdom of God."

And again in Luke 22:17, 18, I. T. "And he took the cup, and gave thanks, and said, Take this and divide among yourselves; For I say unto you, that I will not drink of the fruit of the vine, until the kingdom of God shall come.

From the above quotations we discover that there was to be no cessation of this ordinance, those who were here of the church were to continue it, and Jesus says he himself will again enter into the fellowship of sacramental ebservances when the kingdom of God shall come.

The kingdom of God will come again in the mil-He told his apostles he would drink lennium. the fruit of the vine again with them in this kingdom when it should come. We find that when Christ does come, these very individuals will be with him.

D. and C. 108:10. "And now the year of my redeemed is come, and they shall mention the loving kindness of their Lord, and all that he has bestowed upon them, according to his godness, and according to his loving kindness, forever and ever. In all their afflictions he was afflicted. And the angel of his presence saved them; and in his love, and in his pity, he redeemd them, and bare them, and carried them all the days of old, yea, and Enoch also, and they who were with him; the prophets who were before him, and Noah also, and they who were before him; and Moses also, and they who were before him, and from Moses to Elijah, and from Elijah to John, who were with Christ in his resurrection, and the holy apostles, with Abraham, Isaac, and Jacob, shall be in the presence of the Lamb. And the graves of the saints shall be opened, and they shall come forth and stand on the right hand of the Lamb, and he shall stand upon Mount Zion, and upon the holy city, the New Jerusalem, and they shall sing the song of the Lamb day and night forever and ever."

This gives us a great concourse who will be on earth to participate in that grand opening Sabbatic feast. The very apostles to whom he spoke, saying he would drink again with them, will be there, and in Genesis 9:22, 23, I. T. seems to me to cap the climax, wherein it states:-"And this is mine everlasting covenant, that when thy posterity shall embrace the truth, and look upward, then shall Zion look downward, and all the heavens shall shake with gladness, and the earth shall tremble with joy; and the general assembly of the church of the first-born shall come down out of heaven, and possess the earth, and shall have place until the end come. And this is mine everlasting covenant, which I made with thy father Enoch."

Then Jesus will drink of the fruit of the vine, and break bread with the general host of heaven, the redeemed of all mankind, and the commingling of kindred spirits will have unimpeded freedom.

So beautiful is the contemplation of spiritual meditation which John portrays, that he is lost in the abyss of spiritual grandure, and as a finishing touch to this great event, he gives us the picture as recorded in Rev. 19:5-9. "And a voice came out of the throne, saying, Praise our God, all ye his saints, and ye that fear him, both small and great. And I heard as it were the voice of a great multitude, and as the voice of many waters, and as the voice of mighty thunderings, saying, Alleluia; for the Lord God omniptent reigneth. Let us be glad and rejoice, and give honor to him, for the marriage of the Lamb is come, and his wife hath made herself ready. And to her was granted that she should be arrayed in fine linen, clean and white; for the fine linen is the righteousness of saints. And he saith unto me, Write, Blessed are they which are called unto the marriage supper of the Lamb. And he said unto me, These are the true sayings of God."

Concluding, we affirm that the sacrament is a part of the gospel; the gospel is the power through which cometh salvation; salvation is extended to all during the millennium, hence, the sacrament will be administered during the millennium.

DEPARTMENT OF Woman's Auxiliary for Social Service

MRS. MADGE SIEGFRIED. EDITOR. 1917 W. Walnut St., Independence, Mo

NOTICE

All persus sending mone to the Woman's Auxiliary for any pursone including subscriptions to Home and Child Wolfare lest-lets, or Children, a Home dountions, please forward same to the treasurer of the Auxiliary, Mrs. J. A. Gardner, 711 S. Fuller Ave. Independence Mo.

dependence Mo.

ADVISORY BOARD.

Mrs S. R. Burgess, President, 390 Etzel Ave., St. Louis, Mo.
Mrs B. C. Smith, Vice President, 214 S. Spring St., Independ-Minnie E. Scott, Secretary, 309 S. Fulier Ave., Independ ence. Mo Mrs. J. A. Gardner, Treasurer, 70 S. Fuller Ave., Independence,

Mrs. M. A. Etzenhouser, 1994 W. Walnut St., Independence, Mo-Mrs. D. J. Krahl, 74 S. Crysler St., Independence, Mo-SUPERINTEROBERTS of DEPARTMENTS. Home and Child Welfare Department, Mrs. H. A. Stebbins, La-ni, Lowa.

owa. rary and Educational Department, Miss Lydia Thomas, La-Literary and Educational Department, Miss 1,501a (1901), 1000, 100

SHALL WE TEACH OUR BOYS TO FIGHT?

This is but another form for the subject of the article which follows this note. It is a subject which no doubt interests all mothers keenly, especially mothers of boys.

Read it! Splendid!

If your boy had courage to stand and take his pummelling without striking back, could the others call him a coward?

How long would they continue their attack under those conditions? Not long, especially if he had not provoked the trouble himself. could defend himself quite well without fighting sometimes. Of course from some methods of attack, he had best get away and end the matter The thought expressed in quickly as possible. the quotation used by Sr. Frick in her first paragraph, holds the key to the situation,-the Spirit of God, the spirit of true courage.

My Big Boy.

He is just seven years old, and has a natural inclination to use his fists (in absence of some thing else) to prove his side of the question among playmates, as well as in self defense. I do not need to teach him self-defense, of course. He acknowledges always, that to not strike is best, for he is a reasoner and open to reason; but has his nature to learn to control.

So I have read him this article explaining larger words here and there. As I read I noticed him drop his head onto his folded arms beside the kitchen sink, and he silently started off (as I finished,) with a queer half smile and flushed face. Wait a minute," I called. But as he peeped back through the porch door and said "You know" —when I asked what he thought of it, I heard the "cry tremble" in his voice, and let him be a minute. Then I followed, and found him sitting head down in one corner of the porch. Then we talked it over—rather I did, for it wouldn't do to try to make him talk. I said, "Did you like it?" (A nod meaning "yes.") "Did you believe it, brother?" (Another nod for "yes.") "Which one do er?" you think was right?" I continued. "You know" he answered. "No, I don't, unless I hear you answer. Otherwise I'm just guessing. Was it the mother?" He nodded "Yes." And we said no more for this time.

OVER CONFIDENCE RUINED MANY. Good Swimmers Are Drowned Often Because They Fear Nothing.

When the skillful general wishes to capture a fort, he often tries to find a place that the garrison, sure of its strength, has left unguarded. So Wolfe planned, and so Quebec fell.

Many of those accidentally drowned are good swimmers, afraid of nothing in the water.

Many a trainer, before a great inter-collegiate football match, has said that his team would surely win-if the coaches could cure the players of over-confidence. Over-confidence is the sure forerunner of disaster.

Every boy has seen some wreched drunkard, with his blear eyes and broken gait, his rags and filth, shamelessly and pitifully pleading for a few pennies with which to buy a drink. No one can look on that sight, common as it is, without a shudder. Yet there was a time when very such pitiful being was free from the desire for rink. For a time he took his glass in moderation, until suddenly a hidden inheritance from some ancestor. hitherto unsuspected, awoke in him and drove him head-long. No one knows whether that taint is in his blood. Yet everywhere men ar saying, "Oh, I shall never be a drunkard! I can take care of myself!"

So it was that good swimmers thought as they swam to a point beyond their strength. So it was that the poor wretch thought in the days when he drank—before it was too late.

Read this to your child in connection with thoughts expressed in following article.-Editor

IS IT PRACTICABLE TO KEEP THIS COMMAND?

IS IT PRACTICABLE TO KEEP THIS COMMAND?

"Resist not evil, but whoseever shall smite thee on thy right cheek, turn to him the other also."—Matt. 5:39.

"Mother," said a young man oif twenty, seating himself near his mother as she sat sewing, "Mother, I wish you wouldn't try to keep Paul (his little brother) from fighting like you did me when I was little."

"Why," asked mother quietly, "didn't it work out alright with you, son?" "No mother, it did not," he re-alright with you, son?" plied emphatically.

Mother was surprised; this was her quiet boy; her obedient boy; the one who, in her opinion, was always to be depended on to do the right thing; evidently there was something on his mind, and mother was ready to hear about it. "Tell me where the failure was, lad," she said. "Well, in the first place, it never kept me from wanting to fight. Lots of times I've felt like just smashing fellows up when they'd pick on me."

"But you never did, son, did you?" said mother with shining eyes:

"Oh mother; you can't understand how a boy feels!
Why the fellows just get to look on you as a regular coward when you wont fight; besides it don't do a bit of good. Why even now, at work, when some one says something ugly to me I feel like knocking him down."

"But you never have!" again cried mother happily.
"Oh son, can't you see what an advantage you have right there in having learned to control your impulses? How much of trouble and sorrow there is in the world because of the lack of that very thing. How many murders have been committed because boys have been allowed to fight out their difficulties, and the impulse to strike has grown with their years growth, until as men they have had no power to control their anger. No, my son, it never, never helps for you to gratify your anger by striking. That course weakens, while on the other hand, every time you control yourself you are that much stronger."

"But mother, we just have to look out for ourselves in the world, if we can't—or won't—fight back, there are always mean fellows who will take the advantage and perhaps hurt us seriously; are we to just stand and let them knock our heads off if they want to?"

"Certainly not," said mother, "get out of their way as fast as you can, of course."

"And be looked on as a perfect coward when you'd just Υ.

"And be looked on as a perfect coward when you'd just like to wipe the ground with 'em, and could do it too," he ended in a tone of disgust. "I don't see any sense in it mother, and I hate to see you try to make Paul go through what I have. Let him fight his way when he has mean boys to contend with; let him defend himself."

For a moment mother tooked straight into the clear eyes of her bo; with a loving smile. "Son," she said, "do you believe I care that you have those hard experiences?" The boy's crn. slipped round, his mother as he replied, "Yee, I know little mummy cares of course; I am sure she does, but she don't know how it feels to be boiling mad and then mustn't let the steam off by hitting the offender."

"Don't she though," cried mother stoutly, "I guess she does, tol Don't you remember those boys who used to hide does, to! Don't you remember those boys who used to hide behind the barn across the street and watch for you to go by on your way to school and then throw rocks at you? My! how angry it would make me to see two boys you? My how angry it would make me to see two boys trying to hurt one smaller than themselves! I felt like—well I won't say what I felt like doing, but dear I would have to just run up stairs and ask God to please help me to stick to what I believed to be right. It seemed almost cruel sometimes to expose my little lad to such treatment, but let me explain how I look at it. I have done so before, but you don't seem to understand. Our Father who created up has the widely to know except when created us has the wisdom to know exactly what course in life is the best for us to pursue. Also he says—listen now—when we do what He says, then He is bound to do his part, but when we follow our own way we have no promise: Here's how it works out: We are taught in His Word not to strike back—you know just how it reads—well, if we to strike back—you know just how it reads—well, if we live up to that, in the spirit of it, that is, with the desire to be obedient to God, we need not fear but that He will protect us. Indeed he will, my son. He has the power to do it, which is more than we can say of ourselves. How many men are gelting hurt—even killed in fights. How many boys are getting hurt in the same way all the time. They can't always protect themselves from injury with their fists or guns either. As for their thinking you a coward because you won't fight, let me tell you son, that in his heart even the meanest man cannot help but respect the one who is able to control himself, and up to this time you have been able to do that."

"Yes, but I want to strike; isn't it just as bad to get

"Yes, but I want to strike; isn't it just as bad to get mad? It seems to me that if I would allow myself just "have it out" once, that I'd feel better, and mayso mad?

"Ah lad, there you deceive yourself. Once you give way—oh, how much harder it will be to hold in your anger next time. As I said before: Self control strengthens every time, while yielding makes you weaker. Besides you forfeit in some degree the fulfillment of the promise I spoke of if you break God's command. Oh dear son, I do want you to learn to know your heavenly Father better, so that you will love to do the things that please Him. Don't ask me, therefore, to allow your brother to fight. I may not be able to keep him from it, he is not naturally as obedient as you are, but I must teach him and encourage him the best I can to do what I think is right, God helping me. When he is older, he must choose right, God helping me. When he is older, he must choose for himself, but while he is little, it is for me to start him right.'

ANOTHER LOCAL OPTION VICTORY.

We are happy to add, that again the women of Independence have made themselves the means of helping accomplish a "dry" victory. They joined forces with men and women all over Jackson County (outside of Independence-already dryand Kansas City) where a local option election was held on August 22nd, which resulted in 519 majority, abolishing saloons from among us for four years, beginning January 1st.

This victory has brought relief and joy and hope to many homes. Our suspense has been great, knowing that although our home town has been voted "dry"-the saloons and road houses with evils accompanying, were in such close proximity all over the county, that they would continue to menace our town.

Now we will be free from a great evil except for the nearness of Kansas City, and our rejoicing will be even greater in days to come, than at present.

NOTICE.

In last week's issue, the article "Notes on Canning" was furnished by Mrs. Bertha Anderson-Hulmes, superintendent of our Domestic Science Department. Her name was accidentally omitted.

MISCELLANEOUS

CONFERENCE NOTICES.

The next quarterly conference of the St. Louis District will convene at Alton, Ill., on Saturday and Sunday, Sep. 12 and 13. Meetings will be held at Central and Union Aves, in the branch hall and tent. Chartered cars will leave the McKinley Station, 11th and Lucas Ave., St. Louis at 8 a. m. Sunday, returning, leave Alton, at 9:30 p. m. Sunday. Sunday school and Religio Institute meetings, also the Quarterly District business meetings will convene on Saturday afternoon and evening and the regular line of meetings for Sunday. Come one, come all, something doing all the time.

Chas. J. Remington Secretary St. Louis Dist. C. Roy Remington, Asst.

Kirtland District Conference will convene at Kirtland, Ohio, Saturday and Sunday, October 10 and 11. The time of this conference will be devoted largely to worship and educational work. We urge the Saints from all over the district to attend as it will prove both profitable and interesting and will afford an opportunity to visit the historic old Temple.

Martin Ahlstrom, Sec.

The Mobile District Conference will convene at Bay Minette, Ala., on Saturday October 3, at 10 o'clock a. m. A. E. Warr, Dist. Pres.

Conference of the Chatham, Ontario, District will be held at Gien Rae, Ont., September 26 and 27, 1914. All reports and credentials should be in the hands of the secretary not later than September 15, by order of a resolution passed at the last conference. Cle'ts and presidents of branches will please look to this. Glon Rae may be reached by Saints from the southern part of the district by Pere Marquette via Courtright and M. C. R., from there to Glen Rae, or by Grand Trunk or Canadian Pacific to Glencoe and thence to Alvinston and Michigan Central, from there to Glen Rae. Anthony R. Hewitt, Dist. Sec.

671/2 St. Clair St., Chatham, Ont.

CONVENTION NOTICES.

The Mobile District Sunday school and Religio convention will be held at Bay Minette, Ala., on Friday, October 2nd, beginning with prayer service at nine o'clock a. m. An all-day session has been arranged consisting of devotional, institute and business sessions. ers are on the program. Superintendents please rememher to elect delegates, then bring them to the convention.

A. E. Warr, Dist. Sup.

The Toronto District Sunday School association will The formed District Sunday School association will meet in convention at Owen Sound, Ontario, at 2 p. m., Friday October 2, 1914. Every school is requested to be represented by delegates and to have credentials in the hands of the secretary by Sep. 30.

James Pycock, Sup. Ada M. Hamilton, Sec

4 Gladstone Pl., Toronto.

The Eastern Colorado Sunday School Convention will convene at Colorado Springs, September 4, at 2 p. m. Send credentials to Mrs. M. E. Everett, 129 South Logan Ave, Denver.

Mrs. W. H. Fishburn.

NOTICES.

To the Saints of the Central Nebraska District: this method of reminding you of the fact that I am still the Bishop's Agent for the district and that there is an urgent need for means to supply the families of the missionaries sent into the field by the general conference. Do not hesitate to send in your tithes or offerings because they may be small. Remember the "widow's mite." If you owe large amounts do not wait till you can pay all, send what you can now and more later. While you wait for a more convenient season to pay, some elder's family may suffer the need of that which the church has promised them. And remember that "it is a day of sacrifice," not for the elder and his family alone, but for all who have extend the convent with the Level to save him. missionaries sent into the field by the general conference. entered into covenant with the Lord to serve him.

Address me at Inman, Neb. Send by post office money order of bank draft.

Yours in gospel bonds

Notice! All absent members of the Farmington Branch who have not received letters of removal, are requested to send names and addresses at once, please, to the sec-

Mrs. N. Ella Adair.

Farmington, Ky., Aug. 21, 1914.

To the Saints of the Saskatchewan District:-

There are no doubt a large number of Latter Day Saints in Saskatchewan who are in isolated conditions. We are very desirous of obtaining the location and address of every Saint in the district in order that we may have a complete record on file for the information of the many inquirers that come to us from time to time.

Will you kindly write me per first mail, giving me your full name and present address, also your occupation and branch in which you hold your membership. Of course it will not be necessary to do this if you are a member of a branch located in the Saskatchewan District. Kindly furnish this information to us per first mail, when we will duly acknowledge receipt of same. Trusting you will assist us in this connection.

We remain very sincerely, Thos. J. Jordan, Dist. Pres.

Box 20, Vicerov, Sask.

EXPONENT SUSPENDS PUBLICATION.

This is to inform all readers and Sunday School Association that the official organ of the Association, the Exponent, will cease publication after the next issue, Oct., 1914. At a meeting of the executive board of the Association held at Independence, Mo., July 20, 1914, this decision was arrived at owing to the fact that the Exponent is not supported as it should be and has been published at a loss for some time. Its circulation is so limited that it no longer serves as a satisfactory medium of communication with officers and teachers by officers.

omeers.

We have already had many inquiries as to what will take the place of the Exponent, as about a thousand subscribers who were loyal to the Exponent evidently feel the need of such a journal. To this we must say that we do not know what, if any, action will be taken by the next General Convention, when this action will be officially reported to the body for approval or disapproval. a matter for the districts and schools to think about.

The Association will have no official organ after the The Association will have no official organ after the Octoben issue. It will be impossible for proposed amendments to the Constitution to get legally before the Convention unless published in the official organ in next issue, (see Art. 11, p. 7.) After that we shall be compelled to seek space in the Herald and Ensign for communication and instruction to our workers, until the Association can see its way clear to support an official organ or makes other provision.

There are about 1000 names on the mailing list. We request that our subscribers be willing to allow this list request that our subscribers be willing to allow this list to stand as it is until after next general convention.

Gomer R. Wells, Gen. Sup.

1206 So. 12th St., Burlington, Iowa.

8	zion's ensign
DAILY COST OF A GREAT EUROPEAN WAR.	under gold edges. Size, 5x74/x 11/4	"Twelve Reasons Why I Believe The Book of Mormon," by Elder Charles Fry. "Joseph Smith; Was He a Prophet of God?" by Elder R. C. Evans. The following at special prices named: "What We Believe," an epitome of the faith of the Church. Per dozen 5 cents; 50 for the cents, 100 diverse with the cents, 120 for 15 cents; 100 for $1.00. "Latter Day Saints; Who Are They?" by Elder T. W. Williams. Three for 5 cents; 12 for 15 cents; 100 for $1.00. "Is Water Baptism Essential to Salvation?" by Elder Joseph Luff. Three for 5 cents; 12 for 15 cents; 120 for 16 cents; 100 for $1.00.
Feed of men$12,600,000	E16-French Morocco, divinity circuit, red	"Joseph Smith; Was He a Prophet of God?" by Elder R. C. Evans.
Feed of horses	1 572X5%	The following at special prices named: "What We Believe," an epitome of the Pay of workmen in arsenals and ports	S125—A fine Bible for those who want large type and not so particular about it being small. Long primer	faith of the Church. Per dozen 5 cents; 50 for 20 cents; 100, 35 cents.
Transpontation 2,100,000	type, seit-pronouncing, tun page ii-	"Items of Teaching Found in the Book of Mormon." Compiled by the Independence
3t	circuit, etc. $2.25	tract of ten pages. Three for 5 cents; 12
ridges a day	S125½—Same as S125, except it is patent indexed$2.50	"Latter Day Saints; Who Are They?" by
Marine-2 shots per day 400,000	S126—Same as S125, with button clasp.$2.35 S130—Same as S125, leather lined$2.70	12 for 15 cents; 100 for $1.00.
Ambulances—500,000 wounded or	H15-A fine little Bible at a low price.	tion?" by Elder Joseph Luff. Three for 5 ill ($1 per day)		for 75 cents.
Reduction of imports 5,000,000	H16—Same as H16, but has button clasp	"Seventy-one Theological Questions." Per dozen, 10 cents; per 100, 60 cents. Elder's Diary. A handy little book for ac-
Help to the poor (20 cents per day to one in ten) 6,800,000		curately keeping account of minis-
Destruction of towns, etc 2,000,000 Total per day	edges. Size, 5 % x8 %, only % inch	figures in the proper column, the
The heavenly life is described as being	tnick	figures in the proper column, the printed headings supplying the rest. A financial record also is a convenient part of the book. This is suitable for all holding the Melchisedec Priesthood. Price$0.10 very beautiful. It is sin that defaces a beautiful world. Nothing is really good	R65X-Large type Bible in small compass, 8½x5½, 1 inch thick, India paper, French Morocco, divinity circuit,	is suitable for all holding the Mel- chisedec Priesthood. Price$0.10 that is not beautiful; and nothing truly	red under gold$2.80	Priest's Diary. Arranged similar as the Elder's Diary, but provides for beautiful that is not good.—Arthur E. Main.	R70X—Same as R65X, except binding French Levant and leather lined	labors connected with the office work of the Priest. Price$0.10
ENSIGN PUBLICATIONS.	$4.25	and labora of the Torober Price
And Ster Books for Sale by the Ensign Publishing House.	NEW TESTAMENTS. E200—Leatherette cover, red edges$0.15	Evanalia Lost. Duet arranged for soprano and tenor or two female voices.  Price
,	E212-French Morocco, limp, red under	Price
Zion's Ensign, the missionary paper, con- taining gospel sermons and arti- cles, church news and interesting	gold	Song of Admonition. A song of seven verses, given by the Spirit through Elder Joseph Luff. Suitable size to letters. Per year$1.00	round corners, red under gold$0.30 OXFORD BIBLES.	i – De lastened in hymnal. Price b
Book of Mormon Dictionary. A comlete pronouncing Dictionary of proper	04207X-Persian Morocco, divinity circuit,	cents per dozen; per 100$0.25 Fully Persuaded. Another song given names in the Book of Mormon, with definitions and explanatory notes. Paper, 25c; cloth, 40c;	leather lined to edge, silk sewed, round corners, red under gold dedges, black faced type, thin India	Fully Persuaded. Another song given through Elder Luff. Same size. Price, 5 cents per dozen, po 100 notes. Paper, 25c; cloth, 40c; leather$0.65	paper. This is a beautiful little Destring References, A compilation of	paper it is only % of an inch thick.	Book of Mormon Post Card. Quotations from the second chapter of Jacob, of the Book of Mormon, condemn- ing polygamy. This is an excel-
references under subject headings of texts connected with the gos- pel, taken from the Bible, Book of		ing polygamy. This is an excel- lent way to get the position of the Mormon and Doctrine and Cove- pants. A very handy reference	same as 04207X	church books on polygamy before friends and acquainstances. Price book. Paper covers, 10c; cloth, 15c; leather. $0.30	03209X—Alaska Seal binding, otherwise the #4151—French Morocco, divinity circuit, round corners, red under gold deges, nonparell type, self-pro- nouncing, maps and 32 photo views of scenes in Bible lands$1.35	per dozen
Our Masionaries in Bible Lands. A compi-	nouncing, maps and 32 photo views of scenes in Bible lands	Library Rules. Local library rules, per dozen$0.05 Circulating Library rules, per dozen on of interesting views, accompanied with comments, of historic places in Palestine and Egypt,	01608—The Bible for home use. Large,	en from photographs taken by Elder and Sr. F. G. Pitt. Heavy paper		Blank Preaching Notices. Size, 9x12 inches, covers, 50c; cloth boards$0.75	03203X-A model Bible. India paper, black	50 for 30 cents; per 100$0.50 Religio Supplies. Local Secretary's Record.
Marvelous Manifestations. (Revised edition). Authentic accounts of the	divinity circuit, linen lined, round corners, red under gold edges, 7½x 5¾ inches	Price healing of the sick, restoring sight to the blind and other manifesta- tions of God's miraculous power.	103581X-Alaska Seal, leather lined, Oxford	80.25
Paper covers, 20c; cloth boards, 35c; leather$0.50	India paper, silk sewed, large long primer type, round corners, red under gold edges$6.00	Home Department Supplies. Leaflet of In- struction No2. Per dozen, 10 cents; per 100
Three Bibles Compared. A comparison be- tween the King James, the Revised	under gold edges$6.00	Membership Cards, per dozen, 5 cents; per 100 $0.35 Superintendent's Report Blanks,
tween the King James, the Revised and the Inspired Versions. Paper covers, 25c, 5 for $1.00; cloth. $0.35	04523—French Morocco, self-pronouncing, long primer type, linen lined, di- vinity circuit, round corners, red	Superintendent's Report Blanks, per dozen, 5 cents per 100
	under gold edges$2.50	per dozen, 5 cents per 100
Book of Mormon Vindicated. Scriptural Evidences of the Divine Authentici- ty of the Book of Mormon, 115 large pages. Paper covers, 25c,	The 1911 Bible. Of this Bible the Herald and Presbyter says: "The 1911 Bible is by far the best translation	100 large pages. Paper covers, 25c, 5 for $1.00; cloth$0.50	ever given to the English speaking people." It is beautifully printed	Letter of Invitation, per 100$0.20 Visitor's Canvas Blanks, per dozen,
Faulty Creeds. This book shows how, at the coming forth of the latter day	in large black faced type, bound in French Morocco, flexible, opening	10 cents; per 100 from the truth into apostasy. Pa-	flat, round corners, red under gold edges, has headband and silk	perintendent and Secretary of Local, per dozen, 5 cents; per per covers, 20c, 6 for$1.00	marker and 12 maps$2.00	100
the departure from the faith be- fore and after the restoration of	India paper, only % inch thick, silk sewed, bound in finest Alaska Scal,	ENSIGN PUBLISHING HOUSE, Independence, Mo.
the gospel. Paper covers$0.05	leather lined, round corners, red under gold edges, silk head band
The Books and Utah Mormonism in Con- trast. This book plainly shows how the Utah church has departed from	and marker$5.00 OXFORD TESTAMENTS.	GINSENG.  The growing of GINSENG is a prof-
the teachings of the standard books of the Church, from quotations and	021—French grained, red edges$0.20	itable industry, an Agricultural Business reliable testimony. Paper covers, 10c, 3 for	022-Same as 021, with gilt edges$0.30 030-French Morocco, round corners, limp,	with good profits attached. Persons with a small parcel of land can start a
From Polmers to Independence A book of	red under gold edges$0.35	good paying business with a small in- vestment that yields good dividends.
444 pages. A brief review of the Book of Mormon is given, with many testimonials and affidavits.	01240—Morocco grain, round corners, red edges, long primer type; size, 6½x	Send for our booklet, 'The ABC
Paper covers, 60c; cloth$1.00	4½	of Ginseng", get our prices, and learn how to better your financial condition.
Babbatarian Theories a Delusion. 113 pages. Price, 15c or 2 for$0.25	stock, but can supply any Bible on reason- ably short notice. The Oxford line of Bibles is very extensive, from which we list a few	Address, Chas. F. Church & Son.
Webster's Business and College Dictionary. Besides being an up-to-date pro-	is very extensive, from which we list a few of the best and most popular ones.	Lamoni, Iowa
nouncing dictionary it contains much other valuable information.	TRACTS.	WAR ATLAS
	The following tracts are excellent and suitable for distribution among those not identified with the latter day work. They	Cram's Atlas of the war comprising 16 pages 11x141/2 and cover, giving fine maps
ment census. Postpaid for$0.60	may be obtained, all of one kind or assorted (	of all the nations of Europe, those in war or
Eurlbut's Teacher-Training Normal Les- sons. Paper covers, 35c; cloth.$0.50	as desired, at the following prices, except as otherwise noted: Two copies	likely to be especially emphasized. On the two inside cover pages is given the army
Hurlbut's Story of the Bible. Profusely illustrated, 750 pages	Six copies	and navy equipment of all the European nations as well as the United States and
Palestine of To-day$1.00 The Christian System$1.00	One dozen copies	Japan. With this Atlas in connection with
CAMBRIDGE AND BAGSTER BIBLES.	No less than 50 copies at 100 rate. "Why I Became a Latter Day Saint," by	daily news one may be able to locate the movements of the armies and have a more
Order by Number.	Elder Joseph Luff.	comprehensive idea of how the war is being conducted.
H125X — Cambridge Teachers' edition. French Morocco, India paper, silk sewed, opens flat, references, con-	Evens.  "The Rock of Marmons Pridences of the	ONLY 25 CENTS sewed, opens list, references, con- cordance, encyclopedia, helps, etc.,	Evens. "The Book of Mormon; Evidences of Its Divinity," by Elder R. C. Evans, "Creed Making," by Elder I. M. Smith. "Good News." A tract of tracts on sev-	Get them of Ensign Publishing House, cordance, encyclopedia, helps, etc., and yet only % inch thick by 4% br 6%, and weighs only 14 ounces; a yery handy book	"Good News." A tract of tracts on several different subjects by as many writers. "The Church of Christ," by Elder Edward	Independence, Mo.
a very handy book	Rannie.	W. E. MESSENGER, M. D. Physician and Surgeon. Calls answered
#140X—Same as Hi31X, but has Persian	"Who Was Joseph Smith," by Elder J. W. Peterson.	day or night. Caice and Residence 806 W.
	"A Glimpse at the Government of God," by Elder Paul M. Hanson.	Maple Ave. Independence, Mo. Bell Phone 12
J45-French Seal, flexible overlapping, il- lustrated, self-pronouncing, red	by Elder Paul M. Hanson. "Reasons Why. Shall We Hear Them?" Revised edition. By Elder J. W. Peterson.	Special attention given to Anesthetics
	•	W

3	ZION'S E
DAILY COST OF A GREAT	under gold edges. Size, 5x7½x 1½$1.35
EUROPEAN WAR.	E16—French Morocco, divinity circuit, red under gold edges, button class, 5½x3%
(European rates)	5½x3% $1.10 S125—A fine Bible for those who want of workmen in arsenals and orts 1,000,000	S125—A fine Bible for those who want large type and not so particular about it being small. Long primer type, self-pronouncing, full page illustrations, French Seal, divinity circuit, etc. $2.25
spontation	type, self-pronouncing, full page il- lustrations, French Seal, divinity itions-Infantry 10 cart- lges a day 4,200,000	Sizoy2-Same as Sizo, except it is patent
llery—10 shots per day 1,200,000 ine—2 shots per day 400,000	indexed$2.50
pment 4,200,000	S130—Same as S125, leather lined$2.70
ulances—500,000 wounded or ($1 per day) 500,000	H15-A fine little Bible at a low price. French Morocco, divinity circuit, ature	red under gold edges, flexible, over- lapping cover. Size, 5%x8%$1.25 to the poor (20 cents per	$1.85
ruction of towns, etc 2,000,000	F65X-India Paper edition, French Moroc- co, divinity circuit, red under gold edges. Size, 54x84, only % inch
Total per day$49,950,000	tnick
e heavenly life is described as being beautiful. It is sin that defaces a tiful world. Nothing is really good	R65X—Large type Bible in small compass, tiful world. Nothing is really good is not beautiful; and nothing truly	R65X—Large type Bible in small compass, 8½x5½, 1 inch thick, India paper, French Morocco, divinity circuit, red under gold$2.80
tiful that is not good.—Arthur E. Main.	R70X—Same as R65X, except binding French Levant and leather lined
ENSIGN PUBLICATIONS.	$4.25
Skier Books for Sale by the Ensign Publishing House.	NEW TESTAMENTS.  E200—Leatherette cover, red edges$0.15
,	E212-French Morocco, limp, red under s Ensign, the missionary paper, con- taining gospel sermons and arti-	gold
cles, church news and interesting letters. Per year$1.00	OXFORD BIBLES.
of Mormon Dictionary. A comlete pronouncing Dictionary of proper names in the Book of Mormon, with definitions and explanatory notes. Paper, 25c; cloth, 40c; 10ctbox	04207X—Persian Morocco, divinity circuit, leather lined to edge, silk sewed, round corners, red under gold with definitions and explanatory	round corners, red under gold edges, black faced type, thin India
TCALITET	edges, black faced type, thin India paper. This is a beautiful little Bible. Because of the thin India paper it is only % of an inch thick.
rinal References. A compilation of references under subject headings of texts connected with the gos- pel, taken from the Bible, Book of pel, taken from the Bible, Book of	03209X-Alaska Seal binding, otherwise the same as 04207X$4.50
Mormon and Doctrine and Cove- nants. A very handy reference book. Paper covers, 10c; cloth, 15c; leather	4181 — French Morocco, divinity circuit, round corners, red under gold
n of interesting views, accom-	of scenes in Bible lands$1.35 01608—The Bible for home use. Large, clear print, French Morocco, divini-places in Palestine and Egypt, from photographs taken by Elder	ty circuit, round corners, red under
A stonaries in Bible Lands. A compi- im of interesting views, accom- paied, with comments, of historic places in Palestine and Egypt, from photographs taken by Elder and Sr. F. G. Pitt. Heavy paper covers, 50c; cloth boards	gold edges$2.60 03203X-A model Bible. India paper, black elous Manifestations. (Revised edi- tion). Authentic accounts of the	faced minion type, French Morocco, divinity circuit, linen lined, round corners, red under gold edges, 7½x 5¾ inches healing of the sick, restoring sight to the blind and other manifesta-	5% inches$2.75
tions of God's miraculous power. Paper covers, 20c; cloth boards, 35c; leather	03581X—Alaska Seal, leather lined, Oxford India paper, silk sewed, large long primer type, round corners, red
Dilla Campared A comparison he	under gold edges
tween the King James, the Revised and the Inspired Versions. Paper covers, 25c, 5 for $1.00; cloth. $0.35	04523—French Morocco, self-pronouncing, long primer type, linen lined, di- vinity circuit, round corners, red under gold edges$2.50 under gold edges$2.50 The 1911 Bible. Of this Bible the Herald
Evidences of the Divine Authenticity of the Book of Mormon, 115 large pages. Paper covers, 25c,	and Presbyter says: "The 1911 Bible is by far the hest translation
5 for $1.00; cloth$0.50	ever given to the English speaking people." It is beautifully printed
y Creeds. This book shows how, at the coming forth of the latter day work, the churches had drifted	The 1911 Bible. Of this Bible the Herald and Presbyter says: "The 1911 Bible is by far the best translation ever given to the English speaking people." It is beautifully printed in large black faced type, bound in French Morocco, flexible, opening work, the churches had drifted from the truth into apostasy. Pa- per covers, 20c, 6 for	edges, has headband and silk tasy of the Church, This book shows	marker and 12 maps$2.00 The 1911 Bible. Printed on genuine Oxford tasy of the Church. This book shows the departure from the faith be- fore and after the restoration of the gospel. Paper covers$0.05	The 1911 Bible. Printed on genuine Oxford India paper, only % inch thick, silk sewed, bound in finest Alaska Seal, leather lined, round corners, red under gold edges, silk head band
Books and Utah Mormonism in Con-	under gold edges, silk head band and marker$5.00
Books and Utah Mormonism in Con- trast. This book plainly shows how the Utah church has departed from the teachings of the standard books of the Church from questions and	OXFORD TESTAMENTS.
reliable testimony. Paper covers,	021—French grained, red edges$0.20 022—Same as 021, with gilt edges$0.30
10c, 3 for$0.25	930-French Morocco, round corners, limp.
Palmyra to Independence. A book of 444 pages. A brief review of the Book of Mormon is given, with many testimonials and affidavits.	red under gold edges
Paper covers, 60c; cloth$1.00	We give such Dibles as are corried in tarian Theories a Delusion. 113 pages. Price, 15c or 2 for$0.25	stock, but can supply any Bible on reasonably short notice. The Oxford line of Bibles is very extensive, from which we list a few ter's Business and College Dictionary.	is very extensive, from which we list a few of the best and most popular ones.
Besides being an up-to-date pro- nouncing dictionary it contains much other valuable information.	TRACTS.
It contains new words up to September, 1911, and the last Government census. Postpaid for	identified with the latter day work. They ment census. Postpaid for$0.60 ut's Teacher-Training Normal Les- sons. Paper covers, 35c; cloth.$0.50	The following tracts are excellent and suitable for distribution among those not identified with the latter day work. They may be obtained, all of one kind or assorted as desired, at the following prices, except as the price and the suitable of the suita as otherwise noted: Two copies$0.05 Six copies10
tine of To-day$1.00	Six copies
	1.25 No less than 50 copies at 100 rate.
BRIDGE AND BAGSTER BIBLES.	"Why I Became a Latter Day Saint," by Elder Joseph Luff.
Order by Number.  X — Cambridge Teachers' edition.  French Morocco, India paper, silk	Control Dental sewed, opens flat, references, con- cordance, encyclopedia, helps, etc.,	"The Book of Mormon; Evidences of Its Divinity," by Elder R. C. Evans.
and yet only % inch thick by 4% by 6%, and weighs only 14 ounces;	"Good News." A tract of tracts on sev- eral different subjects by as many writers
X — Cambridge Teachers' edition. French Morocco, India paper, silk sewed, opens flat, references, con- cordance, encyclopedia, helps, etc., and yet only ½ inch thick by 4'; br 6'½, and weighs only 14 ounces; br very handy book Weller szane as H125X, except it is leafairer lined and French Levant cover $3.835	Evans.  "The Book of Mormon; Evidences of Its Divinity," by Elder R. C. Evans.  "Creed Making," by Elder I. M. Smith.  "Good News." A tract of tracts on several different subjects by as many writers.  "The Church of Christ," by Elder Edward Rannie.  "Whe Was Logon's Smith." by Elder I. W.
curer$3.35	Rannie. "Who Was Joseph Smith," by Elder J. W.

	[발명하다 보다 사고 보고다 안 . ] . - ZION'S I
DAILY COST OF A GREAT EUROPEAN WAR.	under gold edges. Size, 5x74/x 14/6$1.35
f men$12,600,000	E16-French Morocco, divinity circuit, red
f horses	5½x3%
workmen in arsenals and	S125—A fine Bible for those who want ontation 2,100,000	about it being small. Long primer type, self-pronouncing, full page il-
ortation of provisions 4,200,000	lustrations, French Seal, divinity
ons-Infantry 10 cart- es a day 4,200,000	15125/2-Same as 5125, except it is patent
ry-10 shots per day 1,200,000	G404 G G40F 111 1 1 40 GF
2 shots per day 400,000 nent4,200,000	S130—Same as S125, leather lined$2.70
ances-500,000 wounded or	H15-A fine little Bible at a low price.
$1 per day) 500,000 ure 500,000
ion of imports 5,000,000	H16—Same as H15, but has button clasp$1.85
o the poor (20 cents per to one in ten) 6,800,000	71.00
ction of towns, etc 2,000,000	co, divinity circuit, red under gold tal per day$49,950,000	edges. Size, 5 % x3 %, only 78 inch thick$1.50 heavenly life is described as being	I F66—Same as F65A, with Dutton class. $1.60 eautiful. It is sin that defaces a ul world. Nothing is really good ul world. Nothing is really good not beautiful; and nothing truly	French Morocco, divinity circuit, not beautiful; and nothing truly ul that is not good.—Arthur E. Main.	)R70X—Same as R65X, except binding
······································	R70X—Same as R65X, except binding French Levant and leather lined$4.25
ENSIGN PUBLICATIONS.	ALTONO MORGE A 157-ALTON
ther Books for Sale by the Ensign Publishing House.
	E212-French Morocco, limp, red under Ensign, the missionary paper, con- taining gospel sermons and articles, church news and interesting	E253—Lambskin, divinity circuity, limp, round corners, red under gold. $0.30
letters Per vesr	OXFORD BIBLES.
of Mormon Dictionary. A comlete pronouncing Dictionary of proper names in the Book of Mormon, with definitions and explanatory notes. Paper, 25c; cloth, 40c; leather	04207X—Persian Morocco, divinity circuit, leather lined to edge, silk sewed, round corners, red under gold edges, black faced type, thin India paper. This is a heautiful little Bible. Because of the thin India paper it is only % of an inch thick.
names in the Book or mormon,	round corners, red under gold notes. Paper, 25c; cloth, 40c; leather	edges, black faced type, tun much naper. This is a beautiful little al References. A compilation of	Bible. Because of the thin India references under subject headings	Bible. Because of the thin India paper it is only % of an inch thick.  3209X—Alaska Seal binding, otherwise the same as 04207X  4181—French Morocco, divinity circuit, round corners, red under gold edges, nonparell type, self-pronouncing, maps and 32 photo views of scenes in Bible lands$1.35  01608—The Bible for home use. Large, clear print, French Morocco, divinipel, taken from the Bible, Book of	03209X—Alaska Seal binding, otherwise the Mormon and Doctrine and Con-	14181 - French Morocco, divinity circuit, book. Paper covers, 10c; cloth, 10c;	round corners, red under gotte edges nonnareil type, self-pro-
leatner,	nouncing, maps and 32 photo views
salionaries in Bible Lands. A compine on of interesting views, accompanied with comments, of historie places in Palestine and Egypt, from photographs taken by Elider and Sr. F. G. Pitt. Heavy paper covers, 50c; cloth boards	of scenes in Divide Annual Large, places in Palestine and Egypt,	01608—The Bible for home use. Large, clear print, French Morocco, divinity circuit, round corners, red under and Sr. F. G. Pitt. Heavy paper	gold edges$2.60 covers, 50c; cloth boards	03203X-A model Bible. India paper, black faced minion type, French Morocco, tion). Authentic accounts of the	faced minion type, French Morocco, divinity circuit, linen lined, round corners, red under gold edges, 7½x 5% inches$2.75 to the blind and other manifesta-	corners, red under gold edges, 1725
tions of God's miraculous power. Paper covers, 20c; cloth boards,	03581X—Alaska Seal, leather lined, Oxford India paper, silk sewed, large long primer type, round corners, red under gold edges
36c; leather$0.00	primer type, round corners, red
	04523—French Maracco, self-propagacing.
Bibles Compared. A comparison be- tween the King James, the Revised and the Inspired Versions. Paper covers, 25c, 5 for $1.00; cloth$0.35	04523—French Morocco, self-pronouncing, long primer type, linen lined, di-
covers, 25c, 5 for $1.00; cloth. $0.35
of Mormon Vindicated. Scriptural Evidences of the Divine Authentici- ty of the Book of Mormon, 115 large pages. Paper covers, 25c, 5 for $1.00; cloth ty of the Book of Mormon, 110	and Presbyter says: "The 1911 Bible is by far the best translation
5 for $1.00; cloth$0.50	neonle." It is beautifully printed
Creeds. This book shows how, at the coming forth of the latter day work, the churches had drifted	people." It is beautifully printed in large black faced type, bound in French Morocco, flexible, opening work, the churches had drifted from the truth into apostasy. Pa-	French Morocco, nexibie, opening flat, round corners, red under gold from the truth into apostasy. Paper covers, 20c, 6 for	flat, round corners, red under gold edges, has headband and silk marker and 12 maps$2.00
w of the Church This book shows	The 1911 Rible. Printed on genuine Oxford the departure from the faith be- fore and after the restoration of the gospel. Paper covers$0.05	India paper, only % inch thick, silk sowed, bound in finest Alaska Scal, leather lined, round corners, red under gold edges, silk head band and marker$5.00
the gospel. Paper covers$0.00	leather lined, round corners, red oks and Utah Mormonism in Con- trast. This book plainly shows how the Utah church has departed from the teachings of the standard books	and marker$5.00
the Utah church has departed from	OXFORD TESTAMENTS.
of the Church, from quotations and reliable testimony. Paper covers,	021—French grained, red edges$0.20
10c, 3 for	022-Same as 021, with gilt edges$0.30 030-French Morocco, round corners, limp, almyra to Independence. A book of	030—French Morocco, round corners, limp, red under gold edges
444 pages. A brief review of the Book of Mormon is given, with many testimonials and affidavits. Paper covers, 60c; cloth$1.00	01240—Morocco grain, round corners, red edges, long primer type; size, 6½x
many testimonials and affidavits.	7/4
Paper covers, ouc, close	We give such Bibles as are carried in stock, but can supply any Bible on reason- ably short notice. The Oxford line of Bibles is very extensive, from which we list a few rian Theories a Delusion. 113 pages. Price, 15c or 2 for$0.25	ably short notice. The Oxford line of Bibles
's Business and College Dictionary. Besides being an up-to-date pro-	of the best and most popular ones.
Destuch being as ar	ጥ  ያጥር ለ ርጥር

GINSENG.

WAR ATLAS

Loose Leaf Sheets

For Local Religio Secretary's Record

Per dozen, 10 cents; per 100 $0.60 If you have not seen them, send for free sample to

ENSIGN PUBLISHING HOUSE, Independence, Mo.

MR & MRS. HARVEY

Dr's. of Chiropractic

KI-ro-prac-tic

KI-ro-prac-tic

Phone Bell { House 755 Room 5, Carl Bid'g, S. E. Square Hours 10 to 12, 2 to 6, evenings by appointment

UNITED ORDER OF ENOCH HOUSE.

Everybody Welcome, Saints and Strangers No. 10 North River Roulevard, near the Stone church. Best accommodations. Prices reasonable. Bell Phone 613 Chas. A. and Amy T. Gurwell

ALEX MCINTOSH

Attorney-at-Law
645 Minnesota Ave. Kansas City, Kan.
Home phone 493, Bell phone 939 West.

Universal Class Card

Send for sample of the Universal Class Cards, for use in both Sunday School and Religio. The Independence Schools have them in general

Price per doz 8 cents, per 100 60 cents

ENSIGN PUBLISHING HOUSE, Independence, Mo.

Have You Planned Your Summer Vacation?

JUST TAKE AN ALTON TRAIN

"THE ONLY WAY" CHICAGO

THE HUMMER s City Leaves Kansas ( Arrives Chicago

THE NIGHTINGALE
Leaves Kansas City
Arrives Chicago

11:20 p. m.
1:15 p. m.

No matter where you wish to go to spend your vacation, our corps of vacation experts will arrange schedules and itineraries that will make travel a pleasure to you. Big lake boats and swift resort specials for both near and lar Wisconsin and Michigan Resorts, also to Atlantic City and Canadian resorts. Ask or write us about our

$56.50 ROUND TRIP RATE Buffalo and Niagara Falls

Which includes meals and berths on the boat for a solid week

Junction City Ticket Olfice, 9th, Main

and Delaware. Both phones Main 542. W. C. MUELLER,

General Agent Passenger Dept. C. & A. R. R.

RAILROAD TIME TABLES.

MISSOURI PACIFIC R. R.

MAIN LINE-EAST BOUND.

WEST BOUND. 201 Joplin to Kansas City
3 St. Louis to California Special
17 Sedalia, and Nevada Local
17 Fast Mail (no stop)
207 Joplin to Kansas City Express
1 Colorado and St. Joe Express
621 St. Louis Local (all stovs) 6 02 a m 6 57 a m 9 32 a m 9 01 a m 2 07 p m 4 51 p m 6 25 p m

LEXINGTON BRANCH-EAST BOUND.

23 Sedalia to Kansas City 621 Sedalia to Kansas City

T. A. JOHNSON, Agent,

Entered at the Post Office at Independence, Mo., as Second Class Matter

OUR CREED: "ALL TRUTH"

VOL 25

INDEPENDENCE, MISSOURI, THURSDAY, SEPTEMBER 10, 1914

NO. 37

ZION'S ENSIGN

rganized Church of Jesus Christ of Thursday, at Independence, Mo., Published by the Reoter Day Saints, every Latter Day Saint at $1.00 per year.

CHARLES FRY, Editor W. H. DEAM, Bus, Manager

M. H. DEÉM. BUS. MANAGER
In writing concerning subscriptions, always give the nam of the Post Office to which your paper has been going, as by so doing the ost of hours in looking for it may be avoided. By the head of the look of the

By one man sin entered into the world, and death by sin; and so death passed upon all men, for that all have Romans 5:12.

The Son of God hath atoned for original guilt, wherein the sins of the parents cannot be answered upon the heads of the children. Genesis 6:56 Inspired Version.

Through the transgression of Adam the nature of sin came upon all men, and death was 'nassed upon all, and without divine intervention man must have continued forever in that state of sin and death. Having inherited the nature of sin man has been and is prone to continue therein, and as a result he becomes guilty of sin by his own volition after he comes to the years of accountability. Thus there rests upon him the penalty of inherited or original sin and also of individual sin.

It must be apparent however to the thoughtful mind that for God to hold men accountable for the sins of their ancestors would be unjust, and justice would require that some means be provided by the just Creator whereby man might be freed from this responsibility, and not continue for ever under condemnation because of the sins of others. This was done through the atonement of Jesus Christ, and every soul upon coming into the world is left free to choose for himself between good and evil and will be called upon to answer before the Great Judge of all men for his own sins only.

In working out the atonement Christ took into consideration both original and individual sin, the former being taken away absolutely, while the removal of the latter is made dependent upon the will of man. John said:

"Behold the Lamb of God, which taketh away the sin of the world." John 1:29. And we read further:

"And the Lord said unto Adam, Behold, I have forgiven thee thy transgression in the garden of Eden. Hence came the saying abroad among the people, that the Son of God hath atoned for original guilt, wherein the sins of the parents cannot be answered upon the heads of the children, for they are whole from the foundation of the world." Genesis 6:55, 56, Inspired Version.

Thus the responsibility for the sin of Adam, and its final consequences, are removed from men. But it must not be overlooked that notwithstanding that sin has been forgiven that all men suffer the penalty attached to it in Eden, viz., death; though through the atonement the extent of the penalty is made temporary. The decree of God that "In the day that thou eatest thereof thou shalt surely die," is fulfilled but through the plan of redemption wrought out by the atonement of Jesus Christ men are again restored to life in the flesh, and are given opportunity to gain eternal life in the presence of God. The Book of Mormon says:

"For as death hath passed upon all men, to fulfill the merciful plan of the great Creator, there must needs be a power of resurrection. And the resurrection must needs come unto man by reason of the fall; and the fall came by reason of transgression; and because man became fallen, they were cut off from the presence of the Lord; where fore it must needs be an infinite atonement; save it should be an infinite atonement, this corruption could not put on incorruption. Wherefore the first judgment which came upon man, must needs have remained to an endless duration. And if so, this flesh must have laid down to rot and to crumble to its mother earth, to rise no more.

"* * For behold if the flesh should rise no more, our spirits must become subject to that angel who fell from before the presence of the eternal God, and became the devil, to rise no more. And our spirits must have become like unto him. and we become devils, angels to the devil, to be shut out from the presence of our God, * *

"O how great the goodness of our God, who prepareth a way for our escape from the grasp of this awful monster * * * and it is by the power of the resurrection of the Holy One of Israel." 2 Nephi 6:11-30.

Paul says: "As in Adam all die, even so in Christ shall all be made alive." This restored life comes to all men because of the atonement and redemption of Christ by which original sin and its final consequences are taken away. All men are brought forth in the resurrection.

Individual Sin.

But men have their individual sins, though these do not prevent a physical rsurrection. They may however prevent the reception of spiritual life and unless removed will leave the individual to suffer eternal banishment from God. Original sin is forgiven regardless of the attitude of man, but individual sins are only forgiven when man places himself by faith in and obedience to the divine law in an acceptable attitude before God. Thus the gospel requires that all men repent and work the work of righteousness in order to obtain forgiveness for their sins and escape the penalty which otherwise must come upon them. The great mercy of God has removed all original sin because justice required it, but justice does not require the forgiveness of individual sin only as the sin may be forsaken making the individual subject to mercy.

Children Without Sin.

Christ's testimony of the purity and innocence of children was given when he took them up in his arms and blessed them, saying: "Suffer the little children, and forbid them not, to come unto me: for of such is the kingdom of heaven;" again when he gave warning to "take heed that ye despise not one of these little ones; for I say unto you, that in heaven their angels do always behold the face of my Father which is in heaven."

Latter day revelation affirms that men in their infant state were "innocent before God," and that 'little children are holy, being sanctfied through the atonement of Jesus Christ." (D. C. 90:6; 74:3.) Since "sin is the transgression of the law," and there can be no transgression without accountability, little children are without sin because they are not capable of committing sin. children are redeemed from the foundation of the world, through mine Only Begotten; wherefore they cannot sin, for power is not given unto Satan to tempt little children, until they begin to become accountable before me." (D. C. 28:13.) This teaching is according to the justice and mercy of God, and shows that children are acceptable to him whether in life or in death, for they are his.

Children do not need Baptism.

Having no sin and being wholly acceptable to God little children have no need of baptism for baptism is for the remission of sins. They are free from original sin through the atonement and they have no individual sins. We read:

"Behold I came into the world not to call the righteous, but sinners to repentance; the whole need no physician, but they that are sick; wherefore little children are whole, for they are not capable of committing sin; wherefore the curse of Adam is taken from them in me, and it hath no power over them." * * * "Little children need no repentance, neither baptism. Behold, baptism is unto repentance to the fulfilling the commandments unto the remission of sins. But little children are alive in Christ, even from the foundation of the world,"—Moroni 8:9-13.

As the child gains knowledge of the law of God and become capable of acting for hiraself, he becomes accountable to God, and as soon as the fundamental principles of the gospel are understood, and reason leads the child to require it. he may be baptized. It has been said that if the child has been properly instructed and trained he will be ready for baptism at eight years of age.

In all of these things truth harmonizes and is consistent. When men fall into error regarding the doctrine of Christ inconsistencies appear and other points of truth have to be changed in order to make them harmonize. The whole truth of God is that which brings peace and assurance of mind and leads to ultimate salvation.

COMMENTS.

Proposed re-establishment of the Jewish Sanhedrin.—A proposition for the re-establishment of the Jewish Sanhedrin in Jerusalem where every question of litigation between Jew and Jew may be submitted is being supported by the local Hebrew press at Jerusalm and by many orthodox Jews abroad. The Jews often fail in securing justice in the civil courts and naturally turn to their own tribunal as it existed anciently. Such a move would be another step toward nationalism to which the Jewish people have been looking and working for many years. The ancient Sanhedrin was composed of seventy-one members and at the time Jesus Christ was on earth was presided over by the high priest.

Church in a Skyscraper.-The First Methodist Episcopal Church of Chicago is about to build a million dollar skyscraper at Washington and Clark Streets, in the heart of the business district, and it will contain the new First Church, book store and offices. It would seem that "The Church" was divorced from the state in order that it might be free to take up with commercialism.

Prohibition Invading "Old Dominion,",-Virginia is almost entirely surrounded with dry territory, and on September 22nd that great state will also vote to determine whether intoxicating liquors shall have place within the state. The fight is a most bitter one, and hopes are entertained that prohibition will be victorious. With the many states falling into line against the liquor evil it cannot be long before an amendment will be passed to the national Constitution prohibiting the manufacture and sale of liquor in the entire United States.

Christian and Pagan.-The present status of of the powers of Europe adds emphasis to a statement made some two years ago by Dr. Frederick Lynch. He said: "The paradox of the twentieth century is that everywhere Christian relationships prevail between individuals, but pagan relationships between the nations to which these individuals belong." And further: "It is as if Christianity had never existed, or else had no part in the relationships of nations. The talk is all of preparation for murderous assault of one nation upon the other. * * * No bandit in pre-christian Europe ever armed himself against a fellow man as each one of these nations is arming itself against the other." These nations have reached the point where the attitude of the governments is become that of the individuals, and individuals seek to destroy their fellow men until it seems that the powers of darkness have gained the ascendency and are turning the hands of civilization and Christianity backward upon the dial of progress. Will nations ever learn to apply gospel principles to national affairs?

The Post-Intelligencer of Seattle contains a favorable notice of the coming to that city of Elder J. M. Terry, the new pastor. Elder Terry is quoted in statements setting forth the position of the Church. The notice is accompanied by a cut of the pastor.

The Rolfe, Iowa, Arrow, contains an article by Bishop C. J. Hunt in answer to a lecture given there by Dr. J. W. Hill on Mormonism in which the position of the Reorganized Church was not fairly presented. The article will help to set the public right and give them a better understanding of the Church.

INDEPENDENCE ITEMS.

INDEPENDENCE ITEMS.

The announcement last week that in all probability President Joseph Smith would speak Sunday morning had the effect of bringing out an unusually large congregation. As the venerable President arose there was profound silence, all seeming anxious to get every word that he might say. His sermon was confined principally on the eyents of the European war. He stated that time waits for no man nor for nations. He said that many things were pressing on his brain. It was but a little over a month since war had been declared. Events show that there had been a preparedness for war. He did not propose to analyze what might be the result. We as a people have long preached the coming of this disaster to the world, of the awful destruction of the pouring out of war upon the world. In the 24th chapter of Matthew we are told that this gospel of the kingdom shall be preached in all the world for a witness unto all nations. He had not believed that up to his time the gospel had been preached in all the world. This gospel was to be preached in all the world as a witness and then should the end came. Mentioned various things that had prevented the gospel has been preached in all the world use a witness and then should the how'd. He spoke guardedly, but it could be inferred that he thought the time had not yet come when the gospel has been preached in all the world just succeeding the end of the world. Referred to prophecies made by certain individuals concerning the destruction that should to the other world, the land, including Independence. Said he of the world that prophecies made by certain individuals concerning the destruction that should to the other was a succeeding the land, including Independence. Said the end of the world. Referred to prophectes made by certain individuals concerning the destruction that should go through the land, including Independence. Said he was not prepared to say upon whom rests the responsibility of the present terrible struggle. His advice was that we should worship God, and not take part in the present struggle, that we as a nation should not become involved in it, and that we might be (using the words of Grant in one of his messages to Congress) at peace with all the nations of the world "and the rest of mankind." He spoke of the fact that the present Pope was the fourth one during his life. Spoke complimentary of Pope Pius 10, recently passed away. Speaker said that neither time nor strength would serve him to tell all he had been thinking about.

We had many more notes of President Smith's sermon, but give only a part for the reason that, in all probability, out give only a part for the reason that, in an probability, the sermon as reported in full will appear in the Ensign in the near future. He spoke just thirty-two minutes, and with the exception of the first few sontences the delivery was something after his old-time manner, with some force and vigor. Although blind and partially deaf he keeps thoroughly in touch with all the current events of the day, both local and general, of course dependent on others to read to him.

The communion services were held in the afternoon, the main body being in the upper auditorium and the over-flow meeting in the lower room. Two who had been bap-tized during the interim were confirmed at this meeting. Sunday evening Bro. M. H. Seigfried's sermon was a continuation of the historical series. The last sermon left off with the disappearance of the first 116 pages of the translation entrusted to Martin Harris. The speaker called attention to the lesson to be drawn from permission being granted those in their determination to have their own way. Related circumstances that led Oliver Cowdery's own way. Renated circumstances that let Oliver Concerging becoming acquainted with the Smith family by bearding with them, and thus hearing something of the work of Joseph Smith's translating the Book of Mormon, of Oliver's becoming interested and of his having a desire to become Joseph's scribe, of his desire to visit Joseph in become Joseph's scribe, of his desire to visit Joseph Pennsylvania, of his going there with Samuel H. Smith, of Joseph's praying that he might have a scribe and of the Lord making known to him that a scribe would come a few days before Oliver's arrival. Two days after Oliver's arrival he began as scribe. Then of Joseph and Oliver repairing in the woods to pray where the Aaronic priesthood was conferred on them by John who told them to baptize each other, and of their meeting Samuel where he had been praying and of his conversion and subsequent baptism, making the third of the first six members. Related the circumstance of a man by the name of Joseph Related the circumstance of a man by the name of Joseph Knight bringing them provisions and money. Hyrum's visit to them in Pennsylvania, who, however was not haptized till they went back to New York, when he was haptized, making the 4th member. Told of the 'fre of Mrs. Harris, Martin's wife, of her having Joseph arrested, of his discharge, of the knowledge made known to Joseph that there would be three witnesses, and of their fidelity to their testimony until death.

Starting at midnight and continuing unabated till ten Starting at midnight and continuing unabated till ten o'clock in the forenon Monday occurred the biggest rain for a great many years, flooding basements and even stopping street car traffic on the Independence-Kansas City line for a number of hours. Though the rain did considerable damage, it has supplied a long-felt want by considerance damage, it has supplied a long-test want by giving the ground a good soaking, as the wells and springs had become dry in many places, and trancients passing through could scarcely buy enough water some places for their horses. All the rains for some four or five years only served to wet the surface of the ground. This rain was the greatest the weather bureau in Kansas City has any record of, and is said to be as much as in two months of normal rainfall this time of year. Three thousand houses in the Kansas Cities and one hundred business houses were flooded, and one little creek, usually only a rivulet, became a raging torrent a mile wide. Houses and barns floated down. A loss of one and a half million dollars is the estimate there.

By The Norborne (Mo.) Democrat we learn of the marriage of Bro. Virgil Etzenhouser of Independence to Sr. Mary Ette. Kujoschild of Norborne, at the home of the bride's parents at that place, Bro. F. C. Warnkey of Kansse City aniciating. Bro. Virgil met his bride at Lamoni, Iswa. where both attended Graceland College, and this is not the first couple that has been united for life as a result of attending Graceland. Since the close of the college term the groom has been running the grain themselved. We show the first couple that has been running the grain of the college term the groom has been running the grain.

elevator at Norborne for his prospective father-in-law. In the statistical report of the Independence Branch to the Stake conference only one death is recorded for the term of six months. This seems remarkable that there should be only one death for that length of time out of hip of some 2600, considering also that man We shoud be grateful to our heavenly Fath nemberghin or his protecting care.

Bro. George Adkins, living near Courtney, as he usually

Bro. George Adkins, living near Courtney, as he usually does, remembered the Ensign force with a large water-melon the other day, this one weighing 41 pounds. Bro. Adkins raises melons every year on quite an extensive scale. He is not only interested in raising melons, but is an ardent advocate of the "dry" cause as regards the prohibition of the sale of intoxicating liquors. Bro. Adkins is also interested in getting the gospel message before the people in his neighborhood, and largely through his efforts a mission and a Sunday school is maintained at Courtney. W. H. Deam.

INDEPENDENCE, SECOND BRANCH.

INDEPENDENCE, SECOND BRANCH.

Elder George Jenkins, of the Independence Stake Mission, was the speaker at 11. a. m. His address was to the young people and was prefaced by the text: "Remember thy Creator in the days of thy youth." The hour was well occupied and timely advice given.

In the evening Elder B. J. Scott, of the stake bishopric, spoke to a large audience, laying stress on the subject: "Come out of Babylon that ye be not partakers of her evil deeds." Also referred to the gathering here from foreign lands. foreign lands.

The Religio local has adopted the plan of holding a testimony or experience meeting in place of a progra on the first Friday evening of each month.

Sisters Okie Campbell and Bessie Curtis, who have recently undergone an operation at the Sanitarium are now rapidly recovering.

Geo. W. Tousley.

WALNUT PARK.

A goodly number was present at Sunday school and the little ones seemed to partake of additional interest since occupying their new "wing," and one kind sister donated a nice big curtain to be used to separate the two rooms during the study hour.

Bro. P. A. Sherman of the 2nd Independence Branch occupied the morning hour and gave a good practical talk, dwelling especially on the responsibility of parents in raising children properly.

The regular sacrament services were held with good attendance.

Bro. Alvin Martin spoke in the evening, giving good encouragement and made us feel glad we were called Latter Day Saints.

A young peoples' Prayer Union has been organized to be held every Sunday morning at 8 o'clock, same to be presided over by Bro. John Schwab.

We contemplated doing much work at the church on Monday, it being a holiday, but the heavy rain kept many at home, however quite a few gathered and made things more cozy for winter. The sisters, as usual, were on hand with a nice dinner.

The Ladies' Aid Society, though small in number, is doing much good. They surprised the Branch by presentenough paint to paint the building, which was in-

As the good work goes on, we hope to keep apace, gain-ing here a little and there a little and thus fill well our niche and build up characters that will meet all the demands of this gosnel.

F. K. S.

KANSAS CITY, FOURTH BRANCH.

We are glad to report our branch alive in the work. Sunday, August 30th, Bro. B. J. Scott was the speaker both morning and evening.

His discourses were very instructive and interesting.

On last Sunday evening Bro. T. J. Sheldon was our speaker and a good sermon was delivered.

speaker and a good sermon was delivered.

Our Religio is progressing nicely, with good attendance and splendid progress. Sr. Barron has been chosen temperance superintendent of our Local. We expect some good work along this line as our sister is a strong temperance worker, and is well qualified for this as well as other work.

We are sorry to report Sister Louise Vail still in very poor health, and again earnestly request the prayers of the Saints in her behalf.

Sr. C. L. Munro has been real sick but is s at this time. We hope she will soon be restored to health.

Mrs. Bertha Vail.

4240 Euclid Ave.

SEATTLE.

Our Sunday's services were enlivened by the presence of Bro. John Hartnell of B. C., who though a business man of Bro. John Hartnell of B. C., who though a business man makes the service of the Lord his chief concern. He as-sisted in the morning and evening services, the sermons being by the pastor and Elder F. W. Holman. Bro. Richard Salyards, son of R. S., our worthy church secretary, came to our city recently from across the line and expects to remain here indefinitely engaging in some educational line. We are pleased to welcome him to the number of our active some vortex.

number of our active young workers.

Through the thoughtfulness and kindness of Sr. A. J. Young and Bro. J. A. Saxe we were kept in close touch with the Irvington reunion as it passed, in which we were much interested because of close association with it in years past.

By previous arrangement we visited Everett, 30 miles north, on Sunday afternoon, where we held two very enjoyable services—at 3:25 and 7:45 p. m. A few faithful saints there have procured the use of a hall for one service each month—the second Sunday. Bro. R. L. Hays was present and rendered ample aid. We hope the faithful sisters there will soon have the help of some of their gallant men. We felt well in delivering the word and expect fruitage before long.

uitage before long.

Bro. Wm. Johnson held five very successful meetings.

Port Townsend recently where lives Sr. C. E. McMasrs and daughter, the husband and father being about ready for the kingdom.

102 North 39th St., Seattle, Wash., Sep. 2.

OMAHA, NEBRASKA.

"Let love through all my conduct shine
An image, fair, though faint, of thine,
Thus let me His disciple prove,
Who came to manifest Thy love."
The sacramental service was soul-inspiring. Some were there who first went to the tent meetings through curi-osity, and afterwards became interested. The spirit was osity, and afterwards became interested. The spirit was manifested in a remarkable degree in prophecy through manusested in a remarkance degree in propuecy inrough. Bro. J. C. Howe, speaking in part to Elder Jas. Huff, commending him for his faithful life and exhorting him to strengthen his brethren. We were admonished that five were wise and five were foolish, but those who obeyed His commandments would have a testimony. all strive to be worthy of the choicest blessings. May we

The tent meetings conducted by Elders O. R. Miller and P. N. Craig closed Sunday evenng, Sep. 6th, the subject being the "Book of Mormon." Much interest subject being the Dook of Mormon." Much interest has been shown in the meetings, and the attendance of outsiders has been excellent. Sunday evening, August 20th, there was an attendance of over three hundred, subject being "The Prophetic Calling of Joseph Smith." Elder Miller is a drawing card to both saint and sinner.

We expect to hold our annual rally day of Sunday school, Religio and Branch the 11th of October. Every one on time at Sunday school during September and the 4th of October, will receive a little bow of ribbon, which will be placed on a card containing the names of the pupils in each class, and honorable mention will be made banner classes on rally day.

Our workers are returning from their vacations. Elder H. A. Scott and family, T. A. Hicks and family and Margaret Keatley. Anna Hicks, Mary and Iola Marmoy visited with Sr. Elizabeth Watkins of Columbus, Nobr. Your correspondent spent a few days with Sr. Leach, Sr. Nellie Grover's sister, near Bennington, Nebr., and secured the names of eleven who may join our Sunday school and Re-ligio Home Class. Let us strive to aid the isolated ones. "Let my soul beneath her load

Faint not, through the o'er wearied flesh, Let me hourly drink afresh

Love and peace from thee my God."

Alice Carey Schwartz.

amamamama Marinamanan

345 Omaha National Bank.

CORRESPONDENCE - mermermen Momermermermerm

Marshall, Tex.

Dear Ensign :- We are living down here in Marshall, Tex., where the gospel is not known, I mean in its fulness. There are ten churches here that I know of, and may be This is a town of sixteen thousand population every one I have tried to tell about the gospel say they never heard of the Latter Day Saints.

never heard of the Latter Day Saints.

I have found one lady who is reading the Ensign and she told me that she got more light from it than she ever had and that she is thinking strongly of leaving the Baptist Church and unfiting with ours. I have tried in my weak way to tell the beautiful gospel story to every one I could. Some times I can't help saying, Oh, Lord, surely there are a few Saints in this place. If a brother would come this way we would care for him and do all we could to help stread the news of the gospel. Lake prayed to God for years to send a man that was able to tell the wicked people of this town the true gospel that has never been explained to them. I hear men and women say, Oh, been explained to them. I hear men and women say, Oh, I have quit going to church. I get tirred of hearing old stories. I don't know whether our preacher could get a church to preach in or not, but there is a city hall and large court house, and surely he could get some place. If one will just drop us a card we will meet him at the station. He can come from north on T. R. R., or west on T. P. We live 75 miles south of Texarkana and about 125 east of Dallas. Write to A. J. Taylor, 309 Mill St., Marshal', Tex. If one should come and not find us at station phone 581, Taylor's Grocery.

Pray for us, dear Saints, for we need your prayers. We have been isolated 13 years. Ever praying for God's people, your brother and sister,

Mr. and Mrs. A. J. Taylor.

Holdenville, Okia., Sep.

Editor Ensign:-Our reunion for Eastern Oklahoma held at Haileyville, closed Sunday night, but owing to the increase of interest at the last we thought best to continue the meeting another week and we left T. J. Sheppard there for that work and to do some baptizing. The rain hindered us considerable during the week but that was much needed so we did not complain much. While we cannot make as great a showing in numbers at our gathcannot make as great a snowing in numers at our gate-erings down here as they can in other places, yet we are growing, and we may get big like the Joplin re-union some time. I had the privilege of attending the last three days of that meeting in that beautiful park at Joplin, and I surely enjoyed it. I wanted to see how they did the work and my opinion is they are on to their job in the Spring River District. I am glad to see them doing

I just got a good report of the work in Western Okla-homa, from Bro. Case. Their reunion at Eagle City was a great success, when we consider that it has only been about a year and a half since the gospol was first preached at Eagle. Since then they have built a church.

September 10, 1914.

On the 31st day of last May we dedicated it to the Lord, and two days later the writer and Bro. Case organized a branch. They are still gathering new material all the time, and some of the best people of the community. Soon after the brethren started the work there and commenced to baptize some there was a little preacher poped up and he thought he must expose our church and save the people from this delusion, and he dug up an old unreliable history and flourished it around until the brethren called for the book and publicly exposed it and the preaching and our cause went on with greater speed and the preacher and his book was no more in the way of the progress of md his book was no more in the way of the progress of truth and righteousness at that place.

We also dedicated a nice church at Ripley, Okla., June 14. The adversary has tried to keep the gospel from progressing in this town for fifteen years, yet we have made gressing in this town for fifteen years, yet we have made a steady growth and now have a branch and a nice church. Just received word from Tulsa, Okla., that they have just finished a new church there, and desired to have it dedicated and a branch organization which we expect to attend to in a couple of months. Good reports coming from other parts of my field also. Nearly all the men are active and doing what they can.

I am on my way to Southern Texas. Will reach there in about two weeks. The demand for preaching is greater than we can fill, all over the field. Was very glad indeed to read of the additional victory the temperance cause won in Jackson Co., Mo.

Sincerely yours, W. M. Avler.

W. M. Aylor.

Hamburg, Ia., Sept. 2. Editor Ensign.—A few items of news from this part of the missionary field may be of interest to your readers. I am resting between two days while I wait to be conveyed to the country six miles from this place to commence a series of meetings that may take several months to complete. On July 18th Bro. H. N. Pierce set up the district tent about two and one half miles from Bartlett and commenced meetings the next day and then the writer received the Macedonian cry, "come over and help us," and we gladly responded to the invitation. We held in all twentyseven meetings, the attendance being good, beyond our expectations. It was dry, hot and dusty. Some were regular attendants, although it came after a day of toil in the heat and dust, some coming six miles and putting their children on the seats to sleep while they listened to the preaching. The message must have interested them; it could not have been the personality of the speakers or their manner of delivery that appealed to them.

The writer made his home with Bro. John Huston and when not visiting 'round about, found comfort in good books as he followed the shade around a large willow tree. I left Bro. Pierce to hold the last three meetings and went to Tabor, six miles away and preached five sermons and then on to Thurman to do what I could to help the reunion committee and be like a sponge, absorb something for

The reunion was held two miles north east of Thurman in a beautiful grove on the farm of Sister Rachel Leeka. It was held from Aug. 21 to 30. The committee had a it was need from Aug. 21 to 30. The committee had a big job to prepare the ground, it being a new place. They did their work well and none but a grouch would complain of results. The attendance was sufficiently large to make it very interesting, there being forty tents on the ground and many who came in the morning and left after the evening service. The preaching was such as you would expect to find from representative men of the church at such gatherings. The prayer meetings were enjoyable to those that could attend. The Sunday School interests were properly cared for. The social side was not overlooked properly cared for. The social side was not overlooked—at 4 o'clock each afternoon a program was rendered consisting of solos, duets, readings, and short talks on topics of general interest. For about forty minutes each evening after suppor the young people gathered on the campus for a game of "three deep." It was enjoyable to the players and onlookers.

The Forney band was on the camp ground both Sunday evenings and the crowd enjoyed the music they gave.

The saints and others enjoyed themselves-it was recreation combined with opportunities for religious teachings in which to learn of the things of the kingdom. Many will look ahead for another year hoping they can meet again and renew friendships formed under such pleasant and favorable conditions.

In gospel bonds, Edward Rannie.

Dalby Springs, Tex., Sept. 1st.
Dear Ensign.—The reunion at Avery is now of the past and as others have written of it will not mention it only to say I think it was a good reunion. Brn. Harp and Chrestensen came down to this part of the vineyard and done some fine preaching for us and baptized 3. Brother John Harp and a Baptist by the name of Kennedy had, I think it was, a two session debate at Avery last winter or the first of spring, and when it was over the Baptists were not satisfied and their preacher ordered one B. M. Bogard of Little Rock, Ark., to come and expose Mormonism as they called it. He came and I guess he said enough about it though I did not get to hear him, but he gave an about it though I and not get to hear him, out he gave an address to some of them to write for more information, the address being the Richmond Conservator, Richmond, Mo., purporting to be an address by Whitmer to all believers and that he had renounced the whole thing. I got the address and sent it to the above named parties to see what I coult. learn about it, but got no reply, after waiting awhile I wrote again, and again the third time and still address. no reply and come of my letters came back to me though my return address was on all of them. I will not use space here to repeat what I wrote to them but I wrote the fourth time sending a self addressed envelope with stamp and still I have not heard from them.

The saints here are making the third effort to build a church house and we are all poor as to this world's goods, and if any who feel disposed to help us in the way of means send it to J. N. Cox, Dalby Springs, Tex., and he will receipt for same and it will be very much appreciated. Your Brother in Christ

WILL WE MAKE THE EFFORT.

Belding, Mich., Sep. 1, 1914.

As the spirit of war is felt every where, we are made realize that the enemy of righteousness is at work, to realize and that there are two powers in the world, the one to destroy and to kill and the other to build up and to give life (so says Jesus, St. John 10:10), the question might be asked, with which power are we marching and under which banner have our names been enrolled. When we think of the great sacrifice which is now being made of life, home and property in the great battle which is now being waged for the glory and the things of this world, that will perish by the use thereof, should not God's children be willing to make a greater sacrifice for the cause of Christ, the gospel.

In this article I wish to ask a question and let each one answer for himself, also present my views and that which has been impressed upon my mind in the past and which I have tried to hold up before the saints. Now the question is this, Do our lives and actions correspond with our testimony when we say we love this latter day work better than we do our own lives? When we consult our diary we find among our expense account, tea, coffee, ice cream, and shall I say tobacco, I hope not necessary, but many other things in the way of luxuries, and not one nickel for the spread of the gospel, does not our diary show that we have loved our appetites better than we have the gospel of Christ for we make the effort to have those things which we can well dispense with and have not made an equal effort for that which is essential, and that which we claim to love so much.

Now as we have but four more months in this year, I Now as we have but four more months in this year, I wonder how many of the saints will soon begin to lay up their nickles and dimes, that they may upon the day that we observe as Christ's Birthday (Christmas) exchange gifts with our relatives and friends; is it not true, that under such conditions we are observing the day that the Master was born more than we are the Master's teach-I have felt impressed and blessed when talking upon this subject and believe that if we as saints will begin now to make the same effort as we have in the past to lay up our mites, and when the call comes again for Christmas offering, place what we have in the treasury of the Lord, who is the greatest friend man can have, that the burden to a great extent will be lifted from those who have financial work of the church in charge. I have met with some objections along these lines, that their children would be disappointed if they did not receive their usual Christmas presents, but let me ask, is it not true that when our children are old enough to be dis-appointed are they not old enough to be taught the prin-ciple of sacrifice? and right here let me say, that last year when I went over the district in the interest of the general church debt, I found the children as anxious to general church debt, I tound the children as anxious to help with their little mites as were the older ones. I well remember one little girl who came to me and said, "Bro. Stroth, will you accept a little from me," and when I replied that I certainly would, she said "I have seventeen cents, but will give you fifteen of them and will keep two cents for myself." Now what was the difference between this child and many of us who are older? Is this not the difference, she gave fifteen and kept two and way would have given two wall kept the fifteen. Again we would have given two and kept the fifteen. Again if the children are too young to be taught the principle of sacrifice, they would not know when Christmas comes if we did not tell them. I wonder how many of the saints It we did not tell them. I wonder how many of the saints suffered last year on account of giving toward the church debt? I think it safe to say none; then why not try it again, commence now and by Christmas let us see how many ten or five dollars we can place on the list of the Christmas offering, and if we cannot reach this amount let us each one do what we can and that is all that the Lord asks of us. Think of the little effort that would have to be made by each one of the saints so that every obligation could be met. Shall we try it? I believe if we do it, it will be as happy a Christmas as we have ever enjoyed. I ask the saints of the S. M. and N. I. District to move forward along this line and may every as well as scattered saints send in a good report and as large an offering as possible.

May God bless you for what you have done in the east and encourage you in your efforts in the future, are the wishes and prayers of your brother in Christ.

Samuel Stroh, Bishop's Agt.

WAR,

What is War? Look! There it is yonder on that field blood-soaked and death-strewn. There, where bullets hiss and cannon roar, where gatling guns hurl out their deadly bullets at the rate of three thousand a minute, where screaming shells burst into a leaden rain of deadly missles sweeping away every vestige of life for a space of two hundred yards; there, where men, mangled, mutilated beyond recognition, writhe and groan and die; there, where pain-maddened horses expire in lingering torture,—there you may find the answer to the question, What is war?

To take a nation's youth, strong and brave, generally its toilers in mill and factory and shop who have no more grievances against their fellows whom they are bidden kill than against their next-door neighbors, to take these who brought on no quarrel, have no political, nor financial, nor any other selfish end to gain, and send them to the battle's front to murder and be murdered, and to do it in the name of patriotism, claiming the Eternal Righteousness is on your side,-this is

To rend, riddle, dismember, your human brother, and to do this under the sanction of law,-this is war.

To break the hearts of women and crush them beneath wasting loads of care, to put the fire out on a thousand hearths, to create an army of fatherless children in a day, and to do it legally, thanking the good God that you have done all this to your neighbor before he did it to you,-this is

To waste the fruit of human toil, generations of it in a day, to sack and pillage city and town, to trample ripening and golden harvests, to turn a paradise of hillside and valley into a flame-swept, blackened landscape solden with human blood, and to sing To Demus when it is over,-this is war.

To settle the quarrels of nations by might and not right, by machines that wipe out human lives at the rate of a thousand a minute, when all could have been settled by a half-dozen honest, clear-headed men, without the firing of a gun or the destruction of a single life,-this is the shame, the crime against man and God which men call war.

If fathers and mothers whose sons may some day be summoned into a war brought on by men who will never go themselves to be shot to pieces, would but read the story of a twentieth century field of battle, and see for but a single moment, in imagination, their boys the victims of that merciless onslaught of bulletts, dynamite, lyddite-see their scorched dismembered bodies, look into their anguished faces, hear their dying groans, there would be no more war from henceforth, forever .- F. H. R. in The Truth.

UNITED STATES BUILDING WORLD'S GREATEST BATTLESHIP.

In a very short time a new battleship, temporarily known as "No. 39," will be started at the New York Navy Yard at Brooklyn. Three years hence it will be a unit of the first division of the United States fleet, a fleet the first three divisions of which will then be made up entirely of battleships of the all-big-gun type.

The general dimensions of the future ship are to be as follows: length on designer's water line, 600 feet; length over all, 608 feet; breadth, extreme, at designer's water line, 97 feet, 1/2 inch; mean trial displacement, 31,400 tons; mean draft to the bottom of keel at trial displacement (about) 28 feet, 10 inches; speed on trial, not less than 21 knots.

She will be more than 11,000 tons greater than the dreadnoughs Delaware and North Dakota, nearly 10,000 tons bigger than the dreadnoughts Florida and Utah, and over 4,000 tons bigger than the superdreadnoughts of the New York and Oklahoma types which are now nearing completion.

The largest ships of the huperdreadnought type in the British navy are those of the Queen Elizabeth, Warspite and Maylaya type, all of which are now in the process of construction. No. 39 will be 3,900 tons greater than these ships.

Germany's greatest superdreadnought, now in the process of construction, is the Ersatz Worth. She is 500 tons larger than any Great Britain has built and yet No. 39 will be 3,400 tons larger.

In the French navy the largest superdreadnoughts in the course of construction are the Gascogne, the Flandre, the Lanquedoc, and the Normandie. The No. 39 will be 6,552 tons larger than any of these ships.

Of all the great naval powers. Japan comes the nearest to having a battleship the size of the American No. 39, having a superdreadnought, being built, of 30,000 tons. But still, No. 39 is 1,400 tons greater.

Now, as to the armament of No. 39. Her main battery will be made up of twelve fourteen-inch guns of the most perfect type that the government can turn out. They will be mounted three to a turret, two turrets forward and two aft. They will be placed so that all of the twelve guns can be used in a single broadside. A broadside from these turrets would weigh 16,800 pounds, the projectile fired by each gun weighing 1,400 pounds.—Popular Electricity and Modern Mechanics.

SERMONS AND ARTICLES

THE PASSING OF RUSSELL'S DAWN. Text. "Beware of false prophets."

This text has been tried so long against the Palmyra Seer without success, we think it time to make an application that will not be amiss, and give a little work out along the same line. At least it will relieve the monotony and afford some degree of relaxation to have it applied to someone else besides Joseph Smith.

Chas. T. Russell of Allegheny, Pa., the author of the Millennial Dawn Series is responsible for the prediction that the present world's governments will end, by the overthrow of Gentile power and the appearing of Christ to the world will be realized this year, 1914. In the consideration of this prediction it is not our intention to slur his character and take flendish delight in saying things to his disparagement, but to lay down statements and conclusions as he gives them to us in his writings that justly place him in the category of the false prognosticator. We know one of the most regrettable sides to modern criticism is the tendency to drag down every great personality to the level of the base and evil, and impute all acts as mean, selfish and contemptible, and bring to light or invent weaknesses and failings of all differering with them. These dispicable and ignoble methods we deplore. We know the harshness of criticism and the uncharitable innuedoes that have been applied to us. We do not desire to make the same blunder. It is, therefore, for that reason we desire to let Mr. Russell speak for himself.

Many take for granted because Mr. Russell believes in the near approach of the end, and the appearing of Christ to all the world, as well as the ushering in of the millennium of peace, that he is so nearly like us we are not justified in saying nay to his conclusions. The Latter Day Saint that says Russell's positions are kindred to ours doee not know what he is talking about, and needs to inform himself on the differences.

Lap of Forty Years.

The harvest at the end of the world is characterized as the "lap period" of forty years where the last days overrun that of the millennium.

(The quotations I give in this article are from "The time is at Hand" of the "Millenial Dawn Series," Volume 2, published in 1889.)

Notice.

"The gathering or harvesting time is in the lapping period of the two ages. As will be shown, it is a period of forty years, which both ends the gospel age and introduces the millennial age."—The Time is at Hand, 104.

"We are now in this period called the 'harvest' in which the gospel age and the millennian age lap—the one closing and the other opening."—

"If these time-prophecies teach anything, it is that the great jubilee, the Times of Restitution of all things has begun, and that we are already in the dawn of the millennial age, as well as in the harvest of the gospel age—which ages lap one upon the other for forty years—the 'day of wrath.' We are already fourteen years [1889 when written, S. S. S.] into this forty year day of wrath; and preparations for the struggle are progressing rapidly. The coming twenty-six years, at the present momentum, will be quite sufficient for the accomplishment of 'all things written.'" Ibid 196.

"The Jewish harvest, in all a period of forty years, began with our Lord's ministry and ended with nominal Israel's rejection and overthrow, and destruction of their city, accomplished by the Romans A. D. 70. And the harvest of this age began with the presence of our Lord at the beginning of Earth's Great Jubilee, in 1874, as shown in chapter 6, and ends with the overthrow of Gentile power, in A. D. 1914, likewise a period of forty years—another of the wonderful parallels of the two ages."—Ibid 234.

Thus according to Russell's notion the "lap period" commenced in 1874 and will close 1914, this year. On this so called lap he has not given any positive proof whatever from the scriptures, nor can he. If dogmatic assertion, and inferences made from uncertain dates in history without divine sanction goes, then we could say he is right, but we prefer to take the word of God.

Millennium Already Begun.

Dear reader, just stop and think! The millennium which you have looked forward to, is not a thing to anticipate, no, your ideal government is shattered and your fondest hopes blasted for forsooth sayeth Russell, "It is here." It has come and you did not know it. That the millennium is here in the present tense, you will notice he affirms in the following. No doubt longer.

he affirms in the following. No doubt longer.
"We are already living in the seventh millennium—since Octoben 1872."—Ibid 363.

"In this chapter we present the evidence which indicates that six thousand years from the creation of Adam were complete with A. D. 1872; and hence that, since 1872 A. D., we are chronologically entered upon the seventh thousand or the Millennium—***"—Ibid 33.

On the date of the commencement here set forth (1872) he evidently is in a fog, for he gives two dates for the same event, one 1872 and the other 1874 A. D. The above date of 1872 when he says the millennium commenced is crossed in the following.

"Thus we find that the twenty-five hundred year began with the beginning of the year A. D. 1875, which in Jewish civil time, by which this is reckoned (Lev. 25:9) began about October, 1874. So, then, if the great Jubilee were to be only a year, like its type, it would have commenced October, A. D. 1874, at the end of 2499 years, and would have ended October, A. D. 1875. But this is not the type, but the reality: it was not a Jubilee Year, but the antitypical thousand years of Restitution of all things, which commenced October A. D. 1874."—Ibid 187.

"This calculation, though entirely distinct from the other, ends exactly as shown by the Law method of reckoning previously examined October A. D. 1874."—Ibid 193.

"Calculate, and you will see that these two lines of evidence, which so perfectly unite in the testimony that 1875 (beginning October A. D. 1874) is the date of the beginning of the time of restitution, and the date, therefore, from which we may know that the heavens no longer retain our Lord, the great Restorer, **.*."—Ibid, 196.

"Hence the 2500th year, which would be the great 50th Jubilee, must be the antitype, the real Jubilee of Restitution. But instead of being a year, as in the type, it will be larger; it will be the beginning of the great thousand year jubilee—the millennium. * * * So here, not the year after nor the year before the 2500th, or closing of the typical cycle, would do; but that very year, beginning October, 1874, must have begun the antitype of restitution times."—Ibid, 181.

"Tracing the parallel of this, we should expect in the antitype just what we now see going on all about us; for as will shortly be shown, we have already entered upon the great antitypical jubilee period, and have been in it since October A. D. 1874."—Ibid, 182.

Which one of these dates is the correct one we are left to conjecture. Might we not suggest they are both wrong, and Russell has only made a colossal mistake in his promostications?

Christ is Now Here as the Chief Reaper.

The biggest piece of nonsense he has offered us is that Christ is here already, since October 1874, and is now the chief Reaper, helping to reap the earth. That he has come to his worthy disciples, secretly and not to the world is their fallacious ejaculation. I wonder how many of them would make affidavit they have seen him and labored with him? Maybe in their advertized "pilgrimages" they go to some desert recesses where they gain his counsel; but no, the Lord's presence evidently is with them judging from the following.

"Our Lord's presence as Bridegroom and Reaper was recognized during the first three and a half years, from 1874 to A. D. 1878. Since that time it has been emphatically manifest that the time had come in A. D. 1874 when kingly judgment should begin at the house of God."—Ibid, 280

It was "emphatically manifest" they evidently felt certain, so why should we doubt? They have never told us by whom he was "recognized" or where he came, and where he is at the present time. It must be so for Russell has said so.

On page 240 he refers to Miller and Wolff who set the time for Christ to appear in 1844, he says, "This culminated in the year A. D. 1844, just thirty years before A. D. 1874, when Christ the Bridegroom and Reaper actually came, as shown by the jubilee's teaching."—Ibid, 240.

"That the Lord must be present, and set up his kingdom, and exercises his great power so as to dash the nations to pieces as a potter's vessel, before A. D. 1914, is then already fixed; for it is 'in the days of these kings'—before their overthrow—i, e., before A. D. 1914—that the God of heaven shall set up his kingdom."—Ibid, 170.

"The fall of A. D. 1874, where the jubilee cycles point out that our Lord was due to be present, * * * ."—Ibid 325.

"If, therefore, we can recognize the shout, the voices and the sounding of the great trumpet, we should expect them as great indications, not that the Lord will come soon, but rather that he has come and is now present, and that the harvest work of gathering the wheat and burning the tares is already under way."—Ibid, 149.

"We have already (Vol. 1, p. 237) called attention to the fact, that the recognition of the harvest work in actual process is proof of the Lord's presence, since he declared he would be the chief reaper and director of the entire work, and that this would be his first work. *** The harvest work will occupy forty years for its full accomplishment, ending with A. D. 1914. Its various features will be accomplished gradually, but all of its days are 'days of the Son of Man'—days of our Lord's presence and power—recognized in the end by all, but at first only by the class specified by the Apostle—'Ye brethren, not in darkness,'"—Ibid, 150.

He declares the actual presence of the Lord was made known in 1874 and he was to be present as chief reaper until 1914, a period of forty years; then he says he will be "recognized in the end (after 1914) by all." Thus after the end, October 1914, Christ is to be revealed to all the world.

"The jubilee cycles prove that our Lord Jesus was due to be present and begin the restitution work in the fall of 1874 A. D., and the parallelism above referred to shows that date (1874) to correspond exactly with the anointing of Jesus as the Messiah at the beginning of the Jewish 'harvest,' at the first advent. The 'Gentile Times' prove that the present governments must all be overturned before the close of A. D. 1914."—Ibid 242

Then on pages 246 and 247 is shown a chart of "Both the Houses of Israel" which he attempts a correspondence of the Mosaic and Christian Dispensations in which he lists the following under "Israel after the Spirit."

"Actual presence of the Lord as Bridegroom and Reaper, October, A. D. 1874," and "Entire destruction of nominal christendom, accomplished in 37 years after being cast off—or 40 years from the beginning of the harvest—A. D. 1914."

We should remember Christ is not to be known and revealed to carnal eyes, and his coming in 1874 was not known, nor would it have been known if Russell had not let the cat out of the bag, for.

"His arrival must therefore be in a quiet manner, unobserved and entirely unknown to the world, 'just as a thief' would come, without noise or other demonstration to attract attention."—Ibid, 143.

All that we have to say to this is, His coming will be as a "thief" alright, but after he does come the world will know it. (See Rev. 1:7, Jude 14, Matt. 25:31, 1 Thess. 4:14-18, Mal. 3:1, 2, Matt. 24:30, 44, and 2 Thess. 1:7, 8.) And to all such sophistry of his coming secretly, unobserved, in a place of hiding, or in the secret chambers we find it is clearly refuted in the Master's own words, "Wherefore if they shall say unto you, Behold he is in the desert; go not forth; behold he is in the desert; go not forth; behold he is in the secret chambers; believe it not. For as the lightening cometh out of the east, and shineth even unto the west; so shall also the coming of the Son of Man be."—Matt. 24:26, 27.

But the fallacy of Russell is fully reached when he boldly affirms:

Christ Revealed to All, After 1914.

It hardly seems creditable men would assert their purported knowledge of such matters in the face of the plain statemnts of scripture to the contrary. To do so one must have unlimited egotism and an elastic conscience, for he must presume to know more than the angels, and outranks even the Son of God himself. (See Mark 13:32.)

We have already noted the statement on page 150 where it says, "The harvest work will occupy forty years for its accomplishment, ending with A, D, 1914, *** recognized in the end by all," which gives us to understand that after October 1914 he will be recognized no longer secretly but by all the world. If the "harvest" commenced in October 1874 with the Lord here to personally conduct the harvest, and the harvest to last forty years then sure enough if this reasoning is correct the end will come October 1914. But this is only one of the fatal blunders that will mark him as the chief false prophet of his time.

Notice this:

"The testimony could scarcely be stronger, and yet be kept secret until the present due time for knowledge to be increased, and for the wise (in truly heavenly teaching) to understand. The exact year of Israel's rejection—yes even the very day—we know; * * * ."—Ibid, 228.

"The 'Gentile Times' prove that the present governments must all be overturned before the clos of A. D. 1914."—Ibid 242.

"This overturned condition of Israel's dominion was to continue until Christ, the rightful heir to the throne of Israel and all the earth, who purchased it with his own precious blood, would come and take control. His, as we have seen, will be the fifth universal empire of earth, the kingdom of God under the whole heavens.

But unlike the preceding four dominions which were permitted for an appropriated time, and therefore recognized, though not approvingly, this one will be approved and established by God, as his representive in the earth. It will be God's kingdob, the kingdom of Jehovah's Anointed. It will be established gradually during a great time of trouble with which the gospel age will close, and in the midst of which present doimnions shall be utterly consumed, passing away amid great confusion.

"In this chapter we present the Bible evidence proving that the full end of the times of the Gentiles, i. e., the full end of their lease of dominion, will be reached in A. D. 1914; and that date will be the farthest limit of the rule of imperfect men. * * * Firstly, That at that date (1914) the kingdom of God for which our Lord taught us to pray, saying, 'Thy kingdm come' will have obtained full, universal control, and that it will then be 'set up' or firmly established, in the earth. Secondly, It will prove that he whose right it is thus to take the dominion will then be present as earth's new Ruler; and not only so, but it will also prove that he will be present for a considerable period before that date: because the overthrow of these Gentile governments is directly caused by the dashing them to pieces as a potter's vessel (P. 52:9, Rev. 2:27) and establishing in their stead his own righteous government." -Tbid 76, 77,

"The Bible evidence is clear and strong that the "limes of the Gentiles' is a priod of 2520 years, from the year B. C. 606 to and including A. D. 1914."—Ibid. 79.

"During the time of trouble closing this age, they will be exalted to power, but their 'reign' of righteousness over the world can date only from A. D. 1914, when the times of the Gentiles have expired."—Ibid, 81.

"Now bear in mind the date already found for the beginning of these Gentile times—viz., B. C. 606—while we proceed to examine the evidence proving their length to be 2520 years, ending A. D. 1914. We must not expect to find this information stated in so many words."—Ibid, 87.

"The world is witness to the fact that Israel's punishment under the dominion of the Gentiles has been continuous since B. C. 606, that it still continues, and that there is no reason to expect the national reorganization sooner than A. D. 1914, *** "—Ibid, 93.

Thus chronicles this would-be prophet of God. This year in October ends all—according to Russell. Christ will be revealed to all the world, and will have set up his kingdom at that time. It must (?) be so, for Mr. Russell said so. He has guaranteed it in inexorable plainness,—by his word. His triumphant proclamation to the world we note,—but pardon me if time is asked to register the "Passing of Russell's Dawn."

Time is said to be the greatest vindicator of every man's work and we only ask for a few weeks more to vindicate Russell's Dawn to be the greatest false prophecy of modern times.

No noute he has written his excuses already, or extended the time, and will present them in due time explaining why "the Lord delayeth his coming." Every error bears in itself the germs of decay, so after October 1914 Mr. Russell as a reliable prognosticator of future events will sink ninety-nine per cent in value. His market value now is very unsteady.

Other Errors: Christ's Body not Resurrected.

That Christ's body was not resurrected he declares. The body in Joseph's tomb was not the body he pessessed afterward when he appeared to the disciples. He says:

"Our Lord's human body was, however supernaturally removed from the tomb; because had it remained there it would have been an unsurmountable obstacle to the faith of the disciples, who were not yet instructed in spiritual thingsfor the Spirit was not yet given. (John 7:39.) We know nothing about what became of it, except it did not decay or corupt, (Acts 2:27, 31.) Whether it was dissolved into gasses of whether it is still preserved somewhere as the grand memorial of God's love, of Christ's obdience, and of our redemption, no one knows;--nor is such knowledge necessary. * * * Hence it will not surprise us if, in the kingdom, God shall show to the world the body of flesh, crucified for all in giving the ransom on their behalf-not permitted to corrupt, but prserved as an everlasting testimony of infinite love and perfect obedience." lbid, 129, 130,

"Remember he is no longer flesh, but a spirit being, and will shortly change, and glorify as his members and joint-heirs all his faithful followers."—Ibid, 288.

Not only was Christ's body not raised but we will be in like condition and our bodies will not come forth. Could there be a more emphatic denial of the resurrection of the body than that? Here in few words he has denied in toto the greatest of all miracles in the life of Christ—the resurrection. This surely places him in the category of the unbelievers, for did not the guards say his body was "stolen away?" That Christ's body was actually raised we prove by the following proof texts,—Matt. 28:6, 7, Mark 16th chapter, Luke 24:1-6, 34:40, John 20th chapter.

United States to be Overthrown.

That he has strongly intimated the downfall of this Republic of the United States before 1914 is evident from the following.

"It would not be surprising if a 'strong government'—a monarchy, would some day replace this present great republic; and it is entirely probable that one common standard of religious belief will be deemed expedient and will be promulgated to teach outside of which will be treated and punished as a political offense."—Ibid 263.

All we have to say to this is, if this "strong government a monarchy" brings to an end the Republic of the United States before Oct. 1914 it will have to hurry. Instead of this being consumated the United States still lives and flourishes as the strongest nation on earth today. No, this government will not be supplanted until Christ appears to reign over the whole earth as declared by the Scriptures.

Not only has he predicted the downfall of the United States but all the "present governments" before A. D. 1914. On page 242 he says:

"The 'Gentile Times' prove that the present governments must all be overturned before the close of A. D. 1914."

Rather a sweeping prophecy is it not? It is all to be accomplished "before the close" of this present year. He has been definite in dates and for that reason we are as equally definite he is in error. His fatal blunder is telling the exact time when God proposes to do certain things. In this we are confident he does not know. What better evidence would we want than this to tell he is a false prophet? We ask you on this to decide.

Immortality Wrong.

That Russell has given the mortal soulist doctrine a lift is evident from the following:

"The doctrine of natural, inherent immortality of man (that a human existence once begun can never cease) was another fruitful orror, borrowed from the Grecian philosophy."—Lbid 323.

Other evidences could be produced on this mortal soulist viewpoint but this will suffice to show where he stands on this question.

In these few words is proclaimed an abnormal faith and shows a blinded mind which are not characteristic of a true prophet. He has fallen into artificial ways of thinking. Russell's viewpoint is a denial of the great truth of the immortal nature of man, so vivid and clearly set forth in the Christian religion. Such doctrine is blight that robs humanity of its hope. It takes from man all that goes to make life worth living, and gives a rebuff to the belief of three-fourths of the population of the world. It is a denial not only of the Bible testimony of immortality but it contradicts the testimony of its living witnesses. It takes away hope and leaves a blasted waste. It only sounds another note of the falsity of Russell's dawn.

This doctrine cannot be true for it is not made out of the right kind of stuft. There is too much negation in it and not enough affirmation of the word of God. The gospel contains no such doctrine. Their negation never does lead to strength and hope.

Elijah not John, but Christ and the Church. I call attention to this conclusion, especially, because it is such a plain denial of the word. Notice:

"It is thus seen that the church in the flesh (the Christ in the flesh, Head and body) is the Elijah or forerunner of the Church of glory, Jehovah's Anointed. Not the nominal church, but the really consecrated church, which on the other side of the tomb will be the great Anointed Deliverer,—these constitute the Elijah."—Ibid, 252.

"To what gulfs
A single deviation from the track
Of human duties leads even those who claim
The homage of mankind as their born due,
And find it, till they forfeit it themselves."

-Byron Sardanapalus.

Conclusions.

When the claim is made the Millennial Dawn movement is so nearly like the church we represent, by some who seem to believe it, you can safely say they are deficient on the following points:

1st. They do not have the organization Christ's Church anciently had.

2nd. They are deficient on the principles of the doctrine of Christ, leaving out part of the eternal order. That is they do not teach all the plan of salvation pertaining to the gospel.

3rd. They do not claim any priesthood, authority, or a call from God. Heb. 5:4.

4th. They claim no spiritual gifts and deny the need of such today.

5th. They are Mortal Soulists and have repudiated the facts of a consciousness between death and the resurrection.

6th. While they believe in the second advent, yet they are mistaken in believing Christ is already here in secret hiding, and is only known to his disciples; and also in setting the date of Christ's appearance to all the world in 1914, and the ending of all earthly governments before that time.

7th. They are wrong in the hell question, for instead of believing in a future retribution they "knock hell out of the Bible" altogether.

8th. They deny the resurrection of the body of Christ which must ever be a vital issue between us.

It is because they are deficient on these points that we register our most humble protest. There are a number of other points we might take up and consider from the Millennian Dawn Series that show their lack of harmony with the word, but these are the main points of difference as I understand them.

As a false prophet Mr. Russell is one of the boldest of modern times. It is evident he has run without divine tidings. He has prophesied in the name of himself. This year will show the falsity of his elaborate cycles and prophetical lines, to be far fetched and incorrect. While we are unquestionably living in the last days, yet to set the time and figure out the exact month, one makes a mistake of no small magnitude. We are of the opinion such prediction is the very thing that will cause the cry to be made, "the Lord delayeth his coming" and will destroy the faith of many.

Joseph Smith made no such false prediction, yet he was heralded far and wide as a false prophet by his enemies. It remains yet to be proven he ever gave a prophecy that was false.

Mr. Russell has crowded into his books, the Millennial Dawn Series, a great number of false predictions and spread them in nearly every clime, and but little notice it attracted by his errors and inconsistencies. His books have been given a liberal reading for he has been very generous in sending them out, yet no cry of "false prophet" or "delusion" has been raised against him. The world seems to like it, and accepted it as commonplace. We have noticed this because we have believed a false prophet would be tolerated and even revered by his own countrymen, while a true one they will kill. Woe, to him that is a true prophet that comes laden with a message from God! A tirade of abuse is sure to be heaped upon him and unrelenting hate is certain to follow his memory.

As a church we register the "Passing of Russell's Dawn," but how many critics from the world will notice it? But few to say the least! No doubt Russell will smooth these false predictions over in his characteristic way, and continue his scriptural juggling, and in a few more years will have his religious dupes on the seat of expec-tancy ready for another "Millennial Dawn" at another day. Whatever he does, we do know this fact, his "Millennial Dawn" has not dawned, and will not on his schedule time. We await his coming excuse October next.

"Dare to be true. Nothing can need a lie; A fault which needs it most, grows two thereby." -Herbert Temple.

DEPARTMENT OF Woman's Auxiliary for Social Service

MRS. MADGE SIEGFRIED, EDITOR.

NOTICE.

All persons sending money to the Woman's Auxiliary for any purely of the Monan's Auxiliary for any puters, or Child Welfare leaf-test, or Children's Home domaitions, pleese forwards ame to the Independence Mo. ADVISION OF A Children, 711 S. Fuller Ave., ADVISION OF A CHILDREN OF A CHILD dependence Mo.

ADVISORY BOARD.

Mrs. S. R. Burgess, President, 5920 Etzel Ave., St. Louis, Mo.

Mrs. B. C. Smith, Vice President, 214 S. Spring St., Independ-

Mrs. J. A. Gardner, Treasurer, 309 S. Fuller Ave., Independence, Mo. Mrs. J. A. Gardner, Treasurer, 711 S. Fuller Ave., Independence, Mrs. J. A. Gardner, Treasurer, 711 S. Fuller Ave., Independence, Mrs. J. A. Gardner, Treasurer, 711 S. Fuller Ave., Independence, Mrs. J. A. Gardner, Treasurer, 711 S. Fuller Ave., Independence, Mrs. J. A. Gardner, Treasurer, 711 S. Fuller Ave., Independence, Mrs. J. A. Gardner, Treasurer, 711 S. Fuller Ave., Independence, Mrs. J. A. Gardner, Treasurer, 711 S. Fuller Ave., Independence, Mrs. J. A. Gardner, Treasurer, 711 S. Fuller Ave., Independence, Mrs. J. A. Gardner, Treasurer, 711 S. Fuller Ave., Independence, Mrs. J. A. Gardner, Treasurer, 711 S. Fuller Ave., Independence, Mrs. J. A. Gardner, Treasurer, 711 S. Fuller Ave., Independence, Mrs. J. A. Gardner, Treasurer, 711 S. Fuller Ave., Independence, Mrs. J. A. Gardner, Treasurer, 711 S. Fuller Ave., Independence, Mrs. J. A. Gardner, Treasurer, 711 S. Fuller Ave., Independence, Mrs. J. A. Gardner, Treasurer, 711 S. Fuller Ave., Independence, Mrs. J. A. Gardner, Treasurer, 711 S. Fuller, Mrs. J. A. Gardner, Treasurer, 711 S. Fuller, Mrs. J. A. Gardner, Mrs. J. A.

No. Mrs. M. A. Etrenhousser, 1954 W. Walnut St. Independence, Mo. Mrs. D. J. Krahl, 724 S. Crysler St. Independence, Mo. Mrs. D. S. VerentreStopkers or Deratrisens. Home and Child Welfare Department. Mrs. H. A. Stebbins. Lamon!, 1989.

moni, lowa.

Jiterary and Educational Department, Miss Lydia Thomas, Lamoni, lowa
Eugenics Department, Mrs. Jennic Studley, 17 E. Cottage St.,
Roxbury, Mass.
Roxbury, Mass.
Roxbury, Mass.
Roxbury, Mass.
Roxbury, Mass.
Roxbury, Mass.
Sewing and Aid Department, Mrs Edith Cochran, 207 S. Sevententh St., St., Joseph.
Voung Woman's Department, Mrs. J. A. Gardner, 711 S Fuller
Ave., Independence, Mo.

THE SUMMER VACATION BIBLE SCHOOL.

I had awakened suddenly with a feeling that some duty was to be performed that required early rising. The sun was just beginning to peep over the horizon; for a moment I lay only about half awake, then I bounced out of bed. Ah now I have it, It is the summer vacation school I have Ah now I have it, it is the summer vacation school I have on my mind! I must hustle and get the routine work of the home done, so that I may hie me away to school with the lads and lassies. Such a feeling of exultation as I hurried to accomplish in a couple of hours what I usually take a half day to do. Then I hastily grasp my parasol and away I go. I no sooner reach the street than I am greeted with a cherry hallo and a wave of the hand from some boys and girls across the street. I hear the pattering of bare feet behind me, and looking around greet "Peatie" with shiping face and heir plestered down greet "Peakie" with shining face and hair plastered down, he is only about three feet tall but as he catches up with he is only about three feet tall but as he catches up with me he stretches his short chubby legs trying to keep step "man fashioned." "Peakie" joyously tells me that he has eighteen rows done on his hammock and while I am commending him, like a flash of light he leaves my side, as he catches sight of his partner, only pausing to call over his shoulder "Can me and Stewart lead the march this morning?" I give my consent and he is out of sight in a meant of sight in a mment.

Now I reach Electric street and am joined by one of our teachers the mother of six children who tells me

"What do you think, I got up at two o'clock this morning and mixed my bread, then I went back to bed and got up and mixed my bread, then I went back to bed and got up again at four and put my bread in the pans. My bread is baked and all my morning work done and here I am with my six children all ready for school. It just seems that God is in this Summer school work, I have attended almost every day and yet everything seems to run almost as smoothly at home as if I was home all day. He surely blesses me or I could not accomplish it."

Now we have reached the school, about three hundred have and girls of all greads and patiential trans as dred boys and girls of all creeds and nationality are rac-ing over the green grass. I see at one side a wiggling pile of humanity that seems all arms and legs. I hasten over for fear that some boy may get hurt, but before I reach them the boy at the bottom of the pile has wiggled out from under, and runs away with the coveted ball; with a joyous shout the others follow.

Miss Emma Criley our Supt., appears at the door of the school room and tells the teachers that it is time to form in line. Each teacher gets her pupils into po-sition. Bro. Harrington our pastor and Business Manager walks around the grounds and rounds up the stragglers. A chord on the piano is struck, the martial strains of a lively march is heard and in we go keeping step to the invely march is heard and in we go keeping step to funding music. The morning hymn is sung, a short prayer offered, and then the kindergarten department marches out to the Hall where they play games, make verious articles out of card board, have stories told, sing songs, etc., all under the able management of a capable slip of a girl about capable of the state of the eighteen years old In the main part of the school Bro. Harrington is giv ing a habit task. He has a blackboard before him and is ing a mant care. He has a bracknown before him and is burriedly drawing a house. The sides of the house are crocked, the windows out of proportion, the chimney looks like it is ready to tumble, and all of the boys and girls are bubbling over with suppressed laughter at the crude attempt. Bro. Harrington asks "What is the matter with the house?" and they tell him that he did a poor job, the house is all crooked. Bro. Harrington asks why it is such a poor job. They tell him that he hurried too much, he ought to have taken more time and then he could have done better work. This is just the answer that Bro. Harrington wants and so he drives the application home. The boy or girl that rushes through their work with the only object of getting it done, does a poor job. If you want to do good work you must take time and work carefully, etc.

fully, etc.

Miss Laura Kelley our song leader now steps on the platform, she gives the girls the privilege of choosing the song to be sung, they call for "Spin Lassie Spin."
This choice is received with grunts of disapproval from This choice is received with grunts or disapproval from the boys. Now it is the boys turn to choose, with loud voices they call for "The Midship Mite." How the school room rings with the joyous voices "Cherrily my lads Yo-Ho." Other songs are practiced and then a quieting hymn is sung before the telling of the Bible Story. There is nothing in all of the summer school work that is enjoyed more than the Bible Stories, the children listen with the best of attention and there is always loud applause from the boys and girls at its close.

Now comes the work period and we march to our

Now comes the work period and we march to our classes. There are the Hammock makers; Waste Basket makers; Reed Work Basket makers; Indian Basket makers; Hammered Brass workers; the embroidery class, plain sewing class, the classes for tatting, crocheting, the misc. dept., where the smaller children make doll hammocks, doll hats, balls, horse reins, hot plate mats, etc. All over the house you hear a happy hum of voices as they busily

A visitor asks what particular good is accomplished in the summer school work that is not accomplished in the manuel department of the day school, and I answer in the words of our former Superintendent, Bro. LaRue, The good of the summer school work lies not solely in the habit talks, and bible stories but in the uplifting personal influence that a good man or woman exerts over the children in their charge. A teacher who handles chil-dren in this school and teaches only the manuel work required of his department, has wasted one of the greatest opportunities of his life. It is the intimate personal contact of a good man with a wayward boy that is the real work of the school. It is a good idea to always praise the good work that the boy or girl does, say as little as possible about the bad and let the child draw the comparison. Again when ever a boy or girl is unruly and you have to correct him as soon as he stops doing that which is wrong be sure that you smile on him, in that way you have made him your friend."

We have a boy in our hammock department of whom I am justly proud. He had slipped two stitches in his hammock and had done two rows before he noticed his ernammers and nad done two rows before he housed his error, then he decided he would let it go, and so continued until he had made ten rows. His teacher came along about this time and was praising the good work he was doing commenting favorably on the nice even rows. Looking back over the work she noticed the slipped stitches, she looked at the mistake and then at the boy and said "My what a shame on such a nice hammock to have a mistake The boy frowned and said "Well, what about it?" The teacher commented on the nice straight rows he had made said "If I were you I believe that I would untie all these knots back to the mistake so as to have a ham-mock you will be proud of." The boy threw his shuttle on the ground saying "I'll do no such thing." The teach-er did not notice but deplored the error, "If you finish it er did not notice but deplored the error. If you links it with that mistake just think every time you look at it you feel ashamed of it, besides that, business men are looking for the kind of a boy that does good work and that when he makes a mistake will go right back and correct it. Those are the kind of boys that make successful men, the careful workman can always get a job while the boy who slides over his mistakes no man wants to hire." Slowly the boy stooped and picked up his shuttle, sitting Slowly the boy stooped and picked up his shuttle, sitting down on the ground he started untying knots, That boy untied knots for two days steady. His mother taking pity on him came to the school and offered to help but he refused saying "No I am going to untie them myself and I am going to make a good hammock without any mistakes in it." When the task was accomplished he joyously called his teacher with his face shining to show her that he was ready now to go on with his weaving. What do you think of that for a boy of twelve? I believe the lesson he leaved in the summer school will go lieve the lesson he learned in the summer school will go with him through life and will make him a better man.

We have found that the boys that some call bad, have been our best workers, that is they have turned out the best work. They were not bad, but they were full of energy that needed directing. The summer school work energy that needed directing. The summer school work is one of the grandest opportunities to "get next" to the boy and girl. It is good for the child and it is splendid training for the adult. "In the giving of habit talks and bible story telling, if you do not have the attention of the child the fault lies with the one on the platform. If you have something to tell, the children will listen, but you must both see and feel that which you have to say and you must have them see it; children are very say, and you must make them see it; children are very responsive and can tell in a moment if you are not sincere in what you say. So Bro. LaRue told me and I have found it true.

The summer school work has been over now for s The summer school work has been over now for some time but I am still reaping the benefits from it. If I walk up the street I am hailed by our summer school boys and girls, some not of our faith give me a cheery greeting that warms my heart. When I attended meetings of the Local Option workers I met some of their mothers that were loud in their praise for the work and who shall say what good has been accomplished by the breaking down of prejudice.

My prayers are that we your grass every conceptualty.

My prayers are that we may grasp every opportunity for good that is presented leaving the results with Him that watcheth over all.

Mrs. M. A. Etzenhouser.

HOW EARLY IN LIFE CAN CHILDREN BE HELPFUL TO OTHERS, AND HOW?

TO OTHERS, AND HOW?

Written by Mrs. M. Thomas at Hermosa Beach, Cal., before the Ladies Auxiliary on Aug. 6th, 1914.
At birth the child is absolutely dependent. The weaned child has made a step toward independence, but since he is unable to walk, and cannot wash, dress, or feed himself, or do a great many other things, the doing of which would render him free from the assistance of others, he is layered dependent. he is largely dependent.

It is a fact that this period of helplessness in the child is greatly prolonged in many instances, by the over-indulgence of those whose duty it is to care for the child.

The fond mother loves the period of helplessness of her nild. Then too, it is much easier to feed, wash and dress him, than to teach him how to perform those little duties for himself. But the child who does not act will not learn.

We have been told by physicians, that a child whose activities have been properly directed should be, to a great extent, independent, and free, at the age of three

When we do for a child instead of helping or teaching him to do for himself we are thwarting a valuable instinct in him.

The child's cry, "I want to do it myself;" is the natural expression of an activity, which should be developed, not surpressed.

The mother who feeds her child, without making the least effort to teach him the art of holding the spoon and finding the mouth for himself, offends the funda-mental dignity of her son. She treats him as though he and maing the mouth for himself, offends the funda-mental dignity of her son. She treats him as though he were a doll or something for her entertainment, when in-stead he is a real man, confined by nature to her care, and should be treated as such. In reality, he who is served "at the same time being possessed of the possibilities to do for himself," is seriously limited in his independence.

The child should be encouraged at a very early period of his exstence, to use his senses, to see, to feel, to hear, to think, to form judgments, and to reach decisions.

The buttoning, lacing and tying exercise will soon result in his being able to dress himself.

Other exercises such as bringing the broom or dust pan to mama, opening or closing the door, placing the chairs in order, or straightening the mat that has been accidently disturbed, will render him helpful, and at the same time assist development both mentally and physically.

MISCELLANEOUS

CONFERENCE NOTICES.

The Massachusetts District Conference will convene at The Massachusetts District Conference will convene at Fall River, Mass., Saturday, October 3, at 3 p. m., holding over Sunday. All reports, statistical, Branch Presidents, District Quorums, Sunday School and Religio, should be in the hands of the District Clerk at least ten days before Conference. Address all communications to W. A. Sinclair, M. D., 166 Pearl St., Winter Hill, Mass.

The semi-annual conference of the Southern Missouri The semi-annual conference of the southern anisonal district will be held with the Thayer Branch, Saturday and Sunday, October 3 and 4, 1914. Statistical and other reports chould be sent to the undersigned before Sep. 29th. We expect Bro. Rushton to be with us. Let every branch be represented at this conference.

Benj. Pearson, Secy.

Tigris, Mo., Sep. 7, 1914.

CONVENTION NOTICES.

The Eastern Iowa District Sunday school will convene at Muscatine, Ia., on Friday, October 23rd, at 10 o'clock. There will be the election of officers. The secretary asks that all school reports be sent to the district secretary in the first week of October.

Miss Anna Lowe, Dist. Sec

Baldwin, Iowa.

TWO-DAY MEETING.

Two-Day MELITAC.

Two-day meetings will be held at the following places:
Belding, Mich., Sep. 12 and 13; Clear Lake, Ind., Oct.
10 and 11. Good speakers will be at these meetings.

W. P. Buckley, Dist. Sec.

BOOK REVIEWS.

BOOK REVIEWS.

A helpful and interesting series of books on sex education have been published by Porbes and Company, 443 Dearborn Street, Chicago, Ill., covering every phase of the important subject. Interest in sex problems has been very active for several years and it may be that some of the efforts to advance information along these lines have over-reached the bounds of wisdom and propriety, at least in scattering the information broadcast without regard to whose hands it may fall into. While every child should be informed upon these vital matters, the greatest of wisdom is essential in order that he might receive proper teaching, in a proper manner, and at the receive proper teaching, in a proper manner, and at the proper time, and this can only be done by personal work and that usually upon the part of the parents. Books placed in the hands of the child may give to him the inplaced in the hands of the child may give to him the in-formation he needs and at the same time give him much more for which he is unprepared and which may react injuriously upon him, thus defeating the progress for which the books have been written. All such books should be held by parents and given to the children to read only as they may be assured that they are ready for them, and until that time the parents may find in them the material which will form the basis of personal instruction, or may find it suitable to read portions to their children.

The too frequent agitation of this subject before the young is liable to give it undue prominence in their minds resulting in the development of abnormal tendencies. Many leading educators have come to believe that the prominence given to the subject of sex is working great injury to the youth and that public and indiscriminate efforts in that direction should be stopped. Parents will find in these books information that will be of benefit to themselves primarily, and which will aid them in properly instructing their children. In fact three of the books are written for properly. parents.

"Himself," a book of 194 pages by Dr. E. B. Lowry and "Himself," a book of 194 pages by Dr. E. B. Lowry and Dr. Richard J. Lambert, dealing, as the title suggests, with man. It covers a wide range of subjects including anatomy, physiology, vices, diseases, the marriage partnership, and the development of life. There are 22 chapters written in a plain style without technical terms, each covering a different subject, all of which help a man to know him-different subject, all of which help a man to know himself and by a judicious use of the information to order his life aright. Forbes and Company, Chicago, Cloth, 12 mo. Price $1.00, by mail $1.10.

"Herself," or Talks with Women concerning themselves, by Dr. E. B. Lowrey, is a valuable-book on sexual hygiene containing reliable information on a great variety of subjects, dealing with them in a practical, straightforward way, and easily understood. Much sound advice is given and that from the standpoint of an experienced physician. It is needed in many homes. Forbes & Company, Chicago, Cloth 208 pp., 12 mo. Price $1.00; by mail $1.10.

"False Modesty" calls attention to the baneful effects of ignorance and makes a strong appeal for the proper edu-cation of the young along the line of sexual hygiene. The book will help parents to understand the conditions both in the rural communities and the cities and put the in the rural communities and the cities and put them in position to warn their children of the dangers which surround them. It includes chapters on "The Results of Ignorance," "The Father's Duty to his Son," 'Rural Pitfalla," 'Woman's inhumanity to Women," and "The Coming Educational Reform." The author is Dr. E. B.

Coming Educational Reform." The author is Dr. E. B. Lowry. Forbes & Company, Chicago, Cloth, 16 mo. Price 50 cents, by mail 55 cents.
"Truths," by the same author, being talks with a boy concerning himself, giving simple truths of life development and sex beginning with that of the flowers and leading up to the higher forms of life in a natural and easy way, and with carefully chosen language suitable for boys expressions the adolescent period. Forbes & Company. approaching the adolescent period. Forbes & Company, Chicago, Cloth, 16 mo. 95 pp, Price 50 cents, by mail 55 cents

"Confidences," or Talks with a Young Girl Concerning Herself by Dr. E. B. Lowry, is written along similar lines as "Truths," but adapted to girls, and tells in interesting as "Truths," but adapted to girls, and tells in interesting style the story of the flowers and birds, unfolding nature's provision for the perpetuation of life. It gives dignity to motherhood, and elevates purity and virtue and must be a help to any girl to whom it is adapted. Forbos & Company, Chicago, Cloth 16 mo, 94 pp, Price 50 cents, by mail 55 cents.

MARRIED.

Mader-Donaldson.—At the home of the parents of the bride, Bro. and Sr. W. F. Donaldson, Independence, Mo., September 6, 1914, Bro. Jay. T. Mader, and Sr. Bertha L. Donaldson, Elder W. H. Garrett officiating.

CONFERENCE MINUTES.

Conference of Florida District met with the Fairview Branch near Pensacola, Fla., July 11th, 1914, district presi-dent, C. J. Clark, and Bro. J. A. Gunsolley, presiding, E. N. McCall secretary.

McGall secretary.

Branches reporting: Sunlight, Fairview 28, Alaflora
174, Santa Rosa 85. Ministry reporting: Elders W. A.
West, Hale W. Smith, A. E. Warr, A. G. Miller, W. M.
Hawkins, C. J. Clark, B. L., Jernigan, James Cooper, and
J. L. Mize. Priests, J. W. Bankester, J. S. McCall, and E. N.
McCall. Teachers J. Chestnut.

Treasurer reported on hand last report $1.65, received since $4.66; total receipts $6.31. Paid out $5.31; balance on hand $1.00.

Bishop's agent reported balance due agent last report $54.75. Paid out since $114. Total expenditures $168.75. Receipts $179.34. Balance on hand $10.59.

The next district conference will be held with the Ala-flora branch, time to be left with the district officers. A resolution was passed concurring in the appointment by Bro. A. N. Hoxie of Sr. Bessie Clark district chorister.

The following were elected as officers of the district for the following year: C. J. Clark, president, W. M. Hawkins, vice president, E. N. McCall, secretary, J. S. McCall, librarian, and Ruby McCall, treasurer.

Preaching by Brn. J. A. Gunsolley and Hale W. Smith

E. N. McCall, District Secretary.

CONFERENCE AND REUNION MINUTES

Southern California district conference and reunion was held at "Convention Park," Hermosa Beach, July 31st to Aug. 9th, inclusive. Although there were some hindering conditions the attendance was good, very nearly, if not quite, up to last year. The saints are learning aints are learning to look forward to these reun-The saints are learning to look forward to these reunions, and the division of time leaving the atternoons open for recreation, social intercourse, makes everyone feel duty bound to be present at the services. This year a new line of interest was inaugurated by Evangelist W. A. McDowell, gathering about him in the big tent all those who were able and desirous of taking more time on gospel themes and holding round-table meetings in the afternoons, the service there exists a desired wave time an discussion thus giving those who so desired, more time on discussion and consideration of things spiritual. We think the move is a good one, and while rot infringing on the privileges of those otherwise inclined and still preserving the reunion as an outling as well as a spiritual education time for the young people, susplies all that could be desired by those more mature whose entire interest is in communion of that character

The carire business of the conference was transacted in one morning session, which speaks well for the advance-ment along lines of handling the business affairs and parliamentary procedure by the assembly.

Election of district officers resulted in the selection of the sinne corps of officers—Nathaniel Carmichael, pres-ident, Frank W. Burton, vice president, R. T. Cooper, ser-ctary, a new office was created as district treasurer for the purpose of providing the means for expediting the movements of the district presidency, and Bro. Wm. Schade was elected to fill it.

At last general conference, general chorister, Bro. A. N.
Hoxie, nominated R. T. Cooper as district chorister, and this nomination was unanimously ratified and results of preparations on this department were manifest in the music of the reunion. The Los Angeles Branch loaned the use of their piano as usual, also a chapel organ had been secured. All the musicians of the district had been invited to bring their instruments, and a goodly proportioned choir was on hand, and while we have suffered the absence of several of our leading musicians, including Miss Nettie Paulson, now at Graceland, were reinforced by the presence of Miss Ethel Phillips, organist of the First Methodist Church of San Bernardino, who rendered invaluable assistance through the entire reunion.

tance through the entire reunion.

The preaching was of a high order, sermons by general conference representatives, Apostle F. M. Sheehy, Evangelist, W. A. MsDowell, High Counselor, V. M. Goodrich, Brethren W. A. Brooner and Roy F. Slye, also district president, N. Carmichael, Geo. H. Wixom, R. T. Cooper president, N. Carmenael, Geo. H. Wixom, R. F. Cooper and Wm. Schade, of the local forces. A delegation of about fifty were in attendance from the Long Beach Mission coming in auto trucks. Religio convention was held Wednesday, Aug. 5th, and Sunday school convention Friday, Aug. 7th. Good program of papers were read and some addresses made touching on the work of the respective orders, and a program of exceptional merit was rendered under the auspices of the two societies Friday evening, consisting of music and readings, which is reported to the Autumn Leaves and "The Staff" in detail.

The Santa Ana sisters covered themselves with glory in the cafeteria; the cooking was excellent, variety of food was good and the service above complaint. The committee is to be congratulated in having accepted their offer to do the cooking, and incidentally the sisters are putting $175 in their new church building fund. This is all right and we are glad to see them succeed, but the endeavors of the we are grad to see them succeed, but the endeavors of the committee have been to have all such work done by professional cooks, leaving our people free to attend the spiritual services, even if the cooking were not quite up to the home standard. The Santa Ana brothers stood by their better-halves in good style.

The waters of the Pacific were troubled, rather it seems if there is intelligence there to sense an invasion it would be termed the waters were pleased with the induction of seven new candidates who were enfolded beneath the Patriarch W. A. McDowell gave blessings to about sixteen, and some were heard to say that they had had no idea what a blessing it was to receive their patriarchal blessing, that they were now so much more determined to press on and be dilligent in the work. Sr. Bessie Bemis has been studiously preparing herself and has become quite proficient in stenography so that she is able to take the blessings to a great degree of satisfaction, thus we can all work together, along our respective individual abilities.

R. T. Cooper.

1700 Trinity St., Los Angeles, Cal.

REUNION MINUTES.

Spring River District reunion of 1914 closed a most successful ten day reunion meeting Aug. 16, at Cunningham Park, Joplin, Mo. Opening meeting was held at 10 o'clock a. m. Aug. 7, with T. W. Chatburn, District President, in charge. Bro. Chatburn and Missionary in charge, J. W. Rushton, were chosen to preside over the reunion. Sr. Flo McNichols was chosen chorister, Sr. Nell Brocaw and Leona Bradford were appointed as assistant choristers. Sr. McNichols not being able to attend, Sr. Brocaw was in charge of the singing throughout. Time and nature of meetings was left to the presiding officers, also the selection of speakers.

The Religio work was in charge of district president, Geo. Pearson. Sunday School work in charge of district superintendent, Sr. Mollie Davis, the work of both being interesting and instructive.

The following were the speakers who occupied during the The following were the speakers who occupied during the reunion: Brethren J. W. Rushton and W. M. Aylor of the twelve, William Lewis and I. N. White of the Patriarchs, Ellis Short, Bishop of district, F. C. Keck, Henry Sparling, Lee Quick, A. C. Silvers of the Seventies and S. A. Burgess of Graceland College.

The sermons were fine and well attended as were also The sermons were line and well attended as were also the prayer meetings which were held in the morning. In fact all attending the reunion seemed to enjoy themselves. There were 13 baptized during the ten days. There were some forty tents on the ground, the largest number of tents the district reunion has ever had.

Bro. Walter Chrestensen had the cook stove and dining tents in charge. The reunion was a decided success in every respect.

Decided to have reunion in 1915 at the same place, the time being left to district president and missionary in The committee for next year is, chairman, District President; treasurer, J. A. Graves; secretary, S. G. Carrow; committeemen, O. O. Nunamaker and W. Workman. S. G. Carrow, Secretary.

2502 Maiden Lane, Jopli,n Mo.

Northeast Kansas reunion met at Topeka, August 22nd to 30th, Frank G. Hedrick and Samuel Twombly presiding. Able and spiritual sermons were preached by Brethren Lewis, Stebbins, Moler, Twombly, Bailey, Hedrick and Cool. The fellowship meetings were encouraging, strengthening, and spiritual. The attendance was not so large as in former reunions. The song service was excellent under the able leadership of Mrs. McNichols. Time and place of next reunion was left to the minister in charge and district president.

Emma Hedrick, Sec.

SOUTHERN INDIAN'A REUNION
The Southern Indiana district reunion was held at Derby, Indiana, August 15-25. Owing to the great drouth that has continued over this district the river was very low and the boat thus delayed we did not reach Derby until Aug. 26.
As the Elders were not there the organization was not affected until Sunday. The missionaries in charge were
J. W. Metcalf, L. C. Moore and F. A. Rowe. Bro. R. C.
Puscell was not present as was anounced on account of Russell was not present as was announced, on account of pressing home affairs. The regular order of the meetings was prayer meeting 9:00 A. M., preaching 10:45 A. M., miscellaneous work at 2:30 P. M., and preaching services again at 8:00 P. M. Sunday School, Home Department and Religio work received their share of attention. One afternoon was devoted to work of the Woman's Auxiliary. This noon was devoted to work of the Woman's Aushlary. This meeting was both interesting and instructive. The interest manifested was fairly good, words of encouragement were spoken that should help to strengthen the ties of brotherhood existing among the Saints.

Because of the general drouth fewer numbers were in attendance than last year but we trust that the reunion has benefitted those that attended. Certainly we cannot always measure the good that has been by the number in

Bro. Metcaif left Tuesday to proclaim the gospel to the people of Indianapolis. Bro. Moore will go to Wirt and Holton, Indiana, while Bro. Rowe continues to labor in

We must all help in this glorious latter day work, for it is by our works that we are know

Emma Jolley, Secv.

DIED.

Harris.—Sr. Sarah Ann Harris was born August 16, 1871, at Handsboro, Miss. She was baptized by Elder F. P. Scarcliff some years ago, the date not being obtainable. P. Scarcilif some years ago, the date not being obtainable. At death she was superintendent of the Sunday School and teacher of the senior class. Her death occurred August 11, 1914, leaving husband, 7 children and four brothers. Funeral services at her home, and the sermon by E. E. Miller assisted by J. W. Mizell, and the remains terred in the Scarcliff Cemetery.

Edwards .- Agnes, wife of Elder George Edwards, was born December 6th, 1859, at Kirkcubright, Scotland. She came to the United States when 13 years old with her came to the United States when 13 years old with fer parents, Alexander and Mary Ann Gillespie. She married George Edwards Aug. 23rd, 1882. Twelve children were born to this union of which six and a husband and three grandchildren survive her. She was baptized Sep. 23, 1882, by Elder William Newton, confirmed by Alexander H. Smith and William Newton. She died August 22nd, at their home, 805 Gladstone Ave., Kansas City, Mo., from where her funeral was conducted to the Mound Grave Campatery Independence. Mo. Grove Cemetery, Independence, Mo.

Soderstadt.—Miss Anna O. Soderstadt was born at Greenleaf, Kansas, January 19th, 1885. She died July 12th, 1914, at the German Hospital, Kansas City, Mo. Located at Independence, Mo., June, 1901; graduated from Graceland College, June 6th, 1905. Was baptized at Cocaced at Independence, also, durin, they greated at Graceland College, June 6th, 1905. Was baptized at Greenleaf, Kansas, by Elder James Houston. She leaves to mourn their loss a stepmother, Mrs. Geo. Zinn, half to mourn their loss a technique, and the court brothers Ernest and Harry Soderstadt, all of Falls City, Nebraska, also a brother John E. Soderstadt, at Independence, Mo. She was a devoted member of the church, and tried to live a consistent christian life, and has now passed on to her reward. Burial at Mound Grove Cemetery Independence, Mo.

Johnson.—Nels Johnson was born October 12, 1835, at Brudager, Denmark. He pasesd from this life August 14, 1914, at his home near Evergreen Church, at the age 14, 1914, at his home near Evergreen Church, at the age of 78 years, 10 months and 2 days. He leaves to mourn their loss a loving companion, two sons, James of Lamoni, and Harry of Condon, Oregon, three grand-children, and one brother, Hines Johnson of Wilman, Minnesota, He came to America from Denmark about the year 1867, stopping in Minnesota, where he was married to Miss Bertha Gulbertson on the 12th day of September, 1873, the two sons named being the only children. They moved to Fremont, Nebraska, in 1878, and in 1883, they heard the gospel, being baptized July 4, 1883, by G. E. Duel; In 1892 they moved to Cedar County, Nebraska, near Hartington, where they remained until 1902, when they moved to Lamoni, Iowa, settling near the Evergreen Branch, ington, where they remained until 1902, when they moved to Lamoni, Iowa, settling near the Evergreen Branch, where he has presided ever since. He was a true husband, a kind lowing father, a faithful member of the church, a hard working, honest, upright citizen. For the past four years Bro. Johnson has suffered severely with Bright's disease. The funeral was held Monday afternoon at the Saints' Church, sermon by Elder F. A. Smith, in charge of Elder A. B. Young. The interment was in Rose Hill.

Crosson.—Tena Jane Crosson, daughter of Bro. and Sr. W. H. Quie of Guilford, Mo., was born March 12, 1887, near Ravenwood, Mo., baptized when 8 years old at Bedison by M. P. Madison. United in matriage to Mr. G. R. Crosson of Maryville, Mo., Aug. 17, 1911. They went to Wauneta, Wyoming to live where she departed this life Aug. 28, 1914. Her remains were brought back to Missouri and were laid away in the cemetery at the Union Church, near Bedison, Mo., Sep. 1, 1914. Funeral sermon was preached by E. L. Henson, Bro. E. S. Fanon in charge. She leaves to mourn, father, mother, two brothers, one sister, husband, and two sweet little boys. A cheering prophecy was given to her sister on Aug. 30, bidding the loved ones not to mourn her demise, for God had taken her to shield her from future trouble.

ENSIGN PUBLICATIONS. Aud Gar Books for Sale by the Ensign Publishing House,

Zion's Ensign, the missionary paper, con-taining gospel sermons and arti-cles, church news and interesting letters. Per year $1.00

Book of Mormon Dictionary. A comlete pronouncing Dictionary of proper names in the Book of Mormon, with definitions and explanatory notes. Paper, 25c; cloth, 40c; leather. $0.05

Doctrinal References. A compilation of references under subject headings of texts connected with the gospel, taken from the Bible, Book of Mormon and Doctrine and Covenants. A very handy reference book. Paper covers, 10c; cloth, 15c; leather. $0.30

leather. $0.30

Our Missionaries in Bible Lands. A compilation of interesting views, accompanied with comments, of historic places in Palestine and Egypt, from photographs taken by Elder and Sr. F. G. Pitt. Heavy paper covers, 50c; cloth boards $0.75

Marvelous Manifestations. (Revised edition). Authentic accounts of the healing of the sick, restoring sight to the blind and other manifestations of God's miraculous power. Paper covers, 20c; cloth boards, 35c; leather $0.50

Three Bibles Compared. A comparison be-tween the King James, the Revised and the Inspired Versions. Paper covers, 25c, 5 for $1.00; cloth. $0.35

Apostasy of the Church. This book shows the departure from the faith be-fore and after the restoration of the gospel. Paper covers......$0.05

the gosper. raper covers.....$0.06

The Books and Utah Mormonism in Contrast. This book plainly shows how the Utah church has departed from the teachings of the standard books of the Church, from quotations and reliable testimony. Paper covers, 10c, 3 for .......................$0.25

From Palmyra to Independence. A book of 444 pages. A brief review of the Book of Mormon is given, with many testimonials and affilidavits.
Paper covers, 60c; cloth .......$1.00

Babbatarian Theories a Delusion. 118 pages. Price, 15c or 2 for......$0.25 pages. Price, 15c or 2 for.....$0.25

Webster's Business and College Dictionary.
Besides being an up-to-date pronouncing dictionary it contains much other valuable information.
It contains new words up to September, 1911, and the last Government census. Postpaid for.....$0.60
Hurlbut's Teacher-Training Normal Lessons. Paper covers, 35c; cloth.$0.50
Hurlbut's Clove of the Bible Defeated.

Hurlbut's Story of the Bible. Profusely illustrated, 750 pages ......$1.50 Palestine of To-day ...... The Christian System .....

CAMBRIDGE AND BAGSTER BIBLES.

E16—French Morocco, divinity circuit, red under gold edges, button clasp, 5½x3% $1.10

$1.05 A fine Bible for those who want large type and not so particular about it being small. Long primer type, self-promouning full page illustrations, French Seal, divastry circuit, co. $2.25

NEW TESTAMENTS.

E200_Leatherette cover, red edges ......$0.15 E212—French Morocco, limp, red under

OXFORD BIBLES.

04207X—Persian Moreco, divinity circuit, leather lined to edge, silk sewed, round corners, red under gold edges, black faced type, thin India paper. This is a beautiful little Bible. Because of the thir India paper it is only % of an inch thick.

under gold edges $2.20
The 1911 Bible. Of this Bible the Herald and Presbyter says: "The 1911 Bible is by far the best translation ever given to the English speaking people." It is beautifully printed in large black faced type, bound in French Morocco, flexible, opening flat, round corners, red under gold edges, has headband and silk marker and 12 maps $2.00

OXFORD TESTAMENTS.

-French grained, red edges ......

021—French grained, red edges ... $0.20
022—Same as 021, with gilt edges ... $0.30
030—French Morocco, round corners, linn,
red under gold edges ... $0.35
01240—Morocco grain, round corners, red
edges, long primer type; size, 6½x 4¼ ... By give such Bibles as are carried in stock, but can supply any Bible on reasonably short notice. The Oxford line of Bibles is very extensive, from which we list a few of the best and most popular ones.

TRACTS.

The following tracts are excellent and suitable for distribution among those not identified with the latter day work. They may be obtained, all of one kind or assorted as desired, at the following prices, except as otherwise noted:

Two copies $0.05
Six copies ...10
One dozen copies ...20

One dozen copies ..... 100 соріев ...

No less than 50 copies at 100 rate.

"Why I Became a Latter Day Saint," by Elder Joseph Luff.

"Future Punishment," by Elder R. C.

Evans.
"The Book of Mormon; Evidences of Its Divinity," by Elder R. C. Evans.
"Creed Making," by Elder I. M. Smith.
"Good News." A tract of tracts on several different subjects by as many writers.
"The Church of Christ," by Elder Edward

Rannie "Who Was Joseph Smith," by Elder J. W. Peterson.

Peterson.

"A Glimpse at the Government of God," by Elder Paul M. Hanson.

"Reasons Why. Shall We Hear Them?"
Revised edition. By Elder J. W. Peterson.

"Twelve Reasons Why I Believe The Book of Mormon," by Elder Charles Fry.

"Joseph Smith; Was He a Prophet of God?" by Elder R. C. Evans.

Elder T. W. Williams. Three for 5 cents; 12 for 15 cents; 100 for $4.00.

"Is Water Baptism Essential to Salvation" by Elder Joseph Luft. Three for 5 cents; 12 for 15 cents; 50 for 40 cents; 120 for 75 cents; 12 for 16 cents; 60 for 40 cents; 120 for 75 cents.

"Seventy-one Theological Questions." Fer dozen, 10 cents; per 100, 60 cents.

Elder's Diary. A handy little book for accurately keeping account of ministerial labor by simply jotting down figures in the proper column, the printed headings supplying the rest. A financial record also is a convenient part of the book. This is suitable for all holding the Meichisedec Priesthood. Price ...$0.10

Pricat's Diary. Arranged similar as the Elder's Diary. but provides for labors connected with the office work of the Priest. Price ....$0.10

[Teacher's Diary. Arranged for the duties

s Diary. Arranged for the duties and labors of the Teacher. Price. ..$0.10

Library

District Secretary's Record. P

Journal Special Specia

Address ENSIGN PUBLISHING HOUSE, . Independence, Mo.

PARTNER WANTED

A brother of good standing, for a well established and profitable, growing business in Independence, Mo. One that can act prompilly and is desirous of moving Zionward. Approximately $2,000.00 required. Address "N" ENSIGN PUBLISHING HOUSE Independence, Mo.

GINSENG.

The growing of GINSENG is a profitable industry, an Agricultural Business itable industry, an Agricultural Business with good profits attached. Persons with a small parcel of land can start a good paying business with a small investment that yields good dividends. Send for our booklet, 'The AB Go Ginseng', get our prices, and learn how to better your financial condition. Address.

Address,
Chas. F. Church & Son.
Lamoni, Iowa

WAR ATLAS Cram's Atlas of the war comprising 16

pages 11x14½ and cover, giving fine maps of all the nations of Europe, those in war or of all the fations of Europe, those in war bilkely to be especially emphasized. On the two inside cover pages is given the army and navy equipment of all the European nations as well as the United States and Japan. With this Atlas in connection with daily news one may be able to locate the movements of the armies and have a more comprehensive idea of how the war is being conducted.

ONLY 25 CENTS Get them of

Ensign Publishing House, Independence, Mo.

Loose Leaf Sheets

For Local Religio Secretary's Record

Per dozen, 10 cents; per 100 $0.60 If you have not seen them, send for free sample to

> ENSIGN PUBLISHING HOUSE, Independence, Mo.

MR & MRS. HARVEY Dr's. of Chiropractic Ki-ro-prac-tic

Phone Bell Colice 857 House 755 Room 5, Carl Bld'g.
S. E. Square Independence, Mo.
Hours 10 to 12,2 to 6, evenings by appointment

UNITED ORDER OF ENOCH HOUSE,

Dverybody Welcome, Saints and Strangers
No. 10: North River Boulevard, near the Stone
Bell Phone 613
Chas. A. and Amy T. Gurwell
IN CHARGE

ALEX MCINTOSH Attorney-at-Law 645 Minnesota Ave. Kansas City, Kan, Home phone 493, Bell phone 939 West.

Universal Class Card

Send for sample of the Universal Class Cards, for use in both Sunday School and Religio. The Independence Schools have them in general

Price per doz 8 cents, per 100 60 cents ENSIGN PUBLISHING HOUSE.

Independence, Mo.

Have You Planned Your Summer Vacation?

JUST TAKE AN ALTON TRAIN

"THE ONLY WAY" CHICAGO

THE HUMMER Leaves Kansas City Arrives Chicago

6:00 p. m.

THE NIGHTINGALE Leaves Kansas City Arrives Chicago

No matter where you wish to go to speud your vacation, our corps of vacation experts will arrange schedules and titineraries that will make travel a pleasure to you. Big lake boats and swill resort specials for both near and lar Wisconsin and Michigan Resorts, also to Atlantic City and Canadian resorts. Ask or write us about our

$56.50 ROUND TRIP RATE

Buffalo and Niagara Falls Which includes meals and berths on the boat for a solid week

Junction City Ticket Office, 9th, Main and Delaware. Both phones Main 542.

W. C. MUELLER,

General Agent Passenger Dept. C. & A. R. R.

RAILROAD TIME TABLES.

MISSOURI PACIFIC R. R. MAIN LINE-EAST BOUND.

29 K C & Joplin Mail
11 Kansas City & St. Louis Local all stops as a m
20 Kansas City & Joplin Local all stops as a m
21 Kansas City & Joplin Local all stops
21 K C Louis Special Istops for St. Louis
2 K Louis Mail & Express
2 K Louis Mail & Express
3 Sedalia and Nevada Local
4 St. Louis Express & Mail
9 35 pm WEST BOUND.

201 Joplin to Kansas City
3 St. Louis to California Special
17 Sedalia, and Nevada Local
7 Fast Mail (no stop)
207 Joplin to Kansas City Express
1 Colorado and St. Joe Express
521 St. Louis Local [all stops] 6 02 a m 6 57 a m 9 32 a m 9 01 a m 2 07 p m 4 51 p m 6 25 p m

LEXINGTON BRANCH-EAST BOUND.

622 K.C. to Sedalia 624 K.C. to Sedalia

WEST BOUND.

23 Sedalia to Kansas City 621 Sedalia to Kansas City

T. A. JOHNSON, Agent,

7 20 am 5 02 pm

Independence, Mo.

Entered at the Post Office at Independence, Mo., as Second Class Matter

OUR CREED: "ALL TRUTH."

VOI. 25

INDEPENDENCE, MISSOURI, THURSDAY, SEPTEMBER 17, 1914

NO. 38

ZION'S ENSIGN

Published by the Reorganized Church of Jesus Christ of Latter Day Saints, every Thursday, at Independence, Mo., at $1.00 per year.

CHARLES FRY, Editor W. H. DEAM, Bus. Manager

W. H. DEAM. Bus. Manager
In writing concerning subscriptions. Always give the nam of the Post Office to which your paper has been going, as by so doing the cost of hours in looking for it may be avoided as the need of the cost of hours and the cost of hours and the cost of the cost

ENSIGN PUBLISHING HOUSE, Independence, Mo

THE PROPER APPLICATION OF TRUTH.

And Jesus went about all Galilee * * * preaching the gospel of the kingdom. Matthew 4:23.

There is one body *** and one faith. Ephesians 4:4, 5.

The gospel which Jesus and the Apostles preached as the means of salvation was inseparately associated with the Church or kingdom of God upon earth. It is spoken of as "the gospel of the kingdom," showing that each belonged to the other and that their development and progress in the world would be co-ordinate. The teaching of the Savior to his desciples that "Ye are the salt of the earth: but if the salt have lost his savor, wherewith shall it be salted? it is thenceforth good for nothing but to be cast out, and to be trodden under foot of men," is just as applicable to the whole body of disciples—the Church as it is to individuals, and if the Church loses the gospel and the righteousness which it develops, it is no longer of any value and must be rejected of God. On the other hand if the Church becomes corrupt though holding the theory of the gospel, it is unable to make proper use of the divine truth, and thus the truth itself becomes of no effect.

Christ established but one church—it was all he needed for there was but one gospel, and to have divided that gospel among a number of organizations would have been to defeat its pur-pose. Even in Paul's day there was but "one body," and this statement is made as a matter of principle, the same as there is but "one faith." There could be no more than one of either and if they have multiplied such multiplication has come by the hand of man and not by God. To form another organization, no matter how similar or dis-similar to the original, though advocating the same principles, would be to place these principles outside their proper relationship and render them none-effective. Divine truth is all embodied in the gospel and is a unit. The organization of the "kingdom" on earth, or the Church, was adapted perfectly to the necessities of the gospel truth, and with the divine provision of the Holy Spirit which gave light and life to the body it was capable of using that truth in the way designed of God, and to the accomplishment of his purposes.

Truths Misapplied.

Satan has ever been ready to take the truth and use it to gain his own ends. In Eden he held out a partial truth in order to induce man to yield to his will, and when he came to tempt Jesus he readily quoted Scripture to sustain his contention with the Son of God and had not Jesus discerned readily its mis-application he too might have been deceived. He shall give his angels charge concerning thee; and in their hands they shall bear thee up, lest at any time thou dash thy foot against a stone," was truly the word of God, but in the mouth of Satan it became a dangerous falsehood. Man too has freely used the truth to bolster up his own work and carry out his own schemes, and though in such efforts the truth has been made to do great service, yet the purpose of God in giving that truth has not been fulfilled thereby.

Paul speaks of men "who hold the truth in unrighteousness," showing that not all who talk of truth and quote Scripture in support of their work are sent or acknowledged of God. (Romans 1:18.) Still more anciently the Lord spoke upon "But unto the wicked God saith, this point: What hast thou to do to declare my statutes. (Psalms 50:16.) It is a convenient thing for men having aims of their own to associate with their work a portion of the truth of God by which their work is given strength and prestige, but with such association truth loses its virtue, being degraded to the level of wickedness and falsehood. Paul says that such men change "the truth of God into a lie." (Rom. 1:25.)

When ancient Israel had become corrupt they took the ark of the covenant from its appointed place into their camp to insure victory as they fought against the Philistines, but greater defeat followed. So men who confisticate the truth of God and turn it to improper and selfish purposes will likewise suffer final defeat, and the truth will turn to their condemnation. The ark not only brought defeat to the Israelites but plague to the Philistines who captured it and to thousands of the Israelites who looked upon it illegally after its return, and this incident suggests this thought: that truth outside its proper relationship becomes an evil. Like electricity, when properly handled in connection with proper equipment it is a blessing, but otherwise it is dangerous.

As the divine gifts of music and song have been used by Satan and his hosts for the accomplishment of evil ends, so have the precious truths of the gospel. Evil ever seeks to clothe itself with truth and righteousness in order to make it plausable and to win the confidence and indorsement of men. But a careful search below the surface will reveal the deception, though too many persons fail to make such a search, readily accepting creeds, doctrines, and arganizations merely on the strength of their having the appearance of being good or doing good while overlooking altogether the more far reaching results of the evil hidden beneath. Real good may be recognized of God wherever it may be found but such recognition can never carry with an endorsement of any evil which may be associated with it. Nine truths in a creed will not secure divine approval for one error, and the only one system of faith which can have the full approval of God is that one which is wholly true. Earnest sincere men in an organization which itself is out of harmony with the divine pattern will not secure an indorsement of the organization. In all such instances truth is out of its proper relation, and cannot accomplish the full purpose designed of God. Unadulterated truth will be found resident. in an organization which is itself after the divine pattern and by which its proper functions are maintained.

SOME IMPORTANT IFS.

Taking it for granted that the great and wonderful promises of the gospel apply to one's self without having given due consideration to the associated therewith and concommandments forming thereto is one of the common mistakes of religious people today. Men read of these promises with delight and convince themselves that the blessings are theirs and take little notice of the requirements which necessitate labor and patient endurance. Many of these promises are made dependent upon an IF and even where that word is not used it is clearly implied. Thus it is well to observe the ifs and what follows them in determining whether one may claim the promises made by the Lord. We notice several.

If any Man Enter in He Shall be Saved.

Jesus said: "I am the door: by me if any man enter in, he shall be saved," yet many ignore the kingdom of God and regard it as non-essential as an organic body, believing that morality and honesty will secure to them all the salvation they Others are indifferent as to the manner of entering in, or as to what they enter into, believing that any step which is done in sincerity will be approved of God and secure to them the blessing of salvation. Jesus makes it plain that the entering in must be by him, that is according to his teachings and with his approval and confirmation without which there can be no salvation. At another time Jesus said "Enter ye in at the strait gate * * * because strait is the gate, and narrow is the way, which leadeth unto life." The meaning of the original Greek word "stenos" here translated "strait," is narrow, restrained; and the New Standard Dictionary defines the English word "strait" as "Of small transverse dimentions; narrow; especially in present use, so narrow as to prevent difficulties; as a strait way; a strait gate. Strict, rigorous." The strictness of the way of entering in ordained by Christ may be seen, and there can be no other way, nor can man choose his own way and because he thinks it right find divine approval and salvation. Jesus said: "I am the way, the truth, and the life." All must enter by him, according to his word, having his approval, in order to be saved.

The way of entering in as specified by Christ is found in his conversation with Nicodemus: "Verily, verily, I say unto thee, Except a man be born of water and of the Spirit, he can not enter into the kingdom of God," yet this new birth is either partially or wholly ignored by many who profess to be the followers of Christ. The example of such an entrance was shown by Christ when he presented himself to John the Baptist for immersion in Jordan, followed by the reception of the Holy Spirit from heaven. The law is the same to all, Jesus himself not being exempted.

Comforter or Spirit Promised if we Love and Obey Christ,

"If ye love me, keep my commandments. And I will pray the Father, and he shall give you another Comforter, that he may abide with you forever; even the Spirit of truth; whom the world cannot receive." The force of this "if" should be recognized. The blessing promised can only be given to man when he has manifested his love to Christ by keeping his commandments, yet many claim the reception of this Holy Spirit under this promise while disregarding the plain teaching of the Lord both as to their entering in to the kingdoing the things which h taught. The Holy Spirit "if" is emphasized by two others: "If ye keep my commandments, ye shall abide in my love," and "Ye are my friends, if ye do whatsoever I command you," showing that men cannot have friendship with the Lord, nor abide in his love without doing the things which he taught. Th Holy Spirit is called the "Spirit of truth," and it operates only where truth operates, so that the life that is out of harmony with truth will be out of harmony with the Spirit and with Christ. There can be no unity between the disobedient soul and the divine Spirit. Paul adds another "if" upon the negative side of this point when he says: "If any man have not the Spirit of Christ, he is none of his."

"If Ye Do these Things Ye shall never Fall." This is Peter's promise to the saints after telling them to add to their faith, virtue knowledge, temperance, patience, godliness, brotherly kindess, and charity.

The power to stand and endure to the end is dependent upon an observance of these good qualities, for they are the things that endure, and give permanency to the life who is possessed of them. Peter also adds: "For if these things be in you, and abound, they make you that ye shall neither be barren nor unfruitful in the knowledge of our Lord Jesus Christ." How important then that men observe them and thus be able to bring forth a harvest of good in their lives, be able to endure to the end, and receive a crown of eternal life.

Cleansed only If We Walk in the Light.

Perhaps the one promise above all others claimed by so many people regardless of the "if" is that stated by John relative to the cleansing which men may receive through the blood of Christ. Many profess reliance upon that cleansing upon a mere profession of faith, or even a mere acknowledgement that Jesus is the Christ, before they have done the works required and which are necessary to justify such a cleansing. John's statement is: "But if we walk in the light, as he is in the light, we have fellowship one with another, and the blood of Jesus Christ his Son cleanseth us from all sin," which agrees with those of Jesus and Paul showing the necessity of doing something in order to legally claim the promises of God. All the promises of God are made dependent upon certain requirements which must be fulfilled in order that the promises may have application. Upon no other conditions can the Lord fulfill his promises, otherwise there could be no reliance placed in his word, for if he varied in one point he would be just as likely to vary in another and there would be no stability to his promises. The law of God is fixed, and it is made the standard by which man must order his life, and the full blessings promised in the law can only be received when men conform thereto.

The editor should be addressed at 317 N. 19th St., St. Joseph, Mo.

INDEPENDENCE ITEMS.

By some inadvertance in the notes on President Smith's by some mast week the word "succeeding" was used where preceding should have been used. It should have read "just preceding the end of the world." Those who may have noticed the error will not attribute it to the speaker, we are quite sure.

Sunday morning's sermon was delivered by Elder Fred-erick A. Smith, the presiding Patriarch. Following the anthem by the choir Bro. Smith read the 62nd Psalm, which was followed by a solo by Sr. Nell Atkinson of Lamoni, it being a beautiful rendition of "Rock of Ages." Bro. Smith then read the 8th and 9th verses of the second Bro. Smith then read the 8th and 9th verses of the second Episite of John, the 9th verse of which is the familiat text, "Whosoever transgresseth and abideth not in the doctrine of Christ," etc. He said that although this was given 2000 years ago it must find its application here and now. There is an important question, What are we doing and what are we working for? All are loking forward to a reward, but we must not think that all the reward awaits on the other cities. If we now is right to the property of the property o side. If work right some will be received all along the line, in the satisfaction and consolation of having done our part well. If we work and then fail we are personally responsible for the failure, and cannot justify our failure because of the failure of some one else. God will hold each one responsible for his conduct. When we try to each one responsible for his conduct. When we try justify ourselves for doing wrong we advertise the fact that we are in the wrong. We fail sometimes to do our duty because of the failure of others, but "Whosoever transgresseth and abideth not in the doctrine of Christ, hath not God." To be without God is to be without hope. We should be on our guard so as to protect ourselves from the evils that are abroad. We must recognize that Zion is not only a place, a land free from that which is evil, but not only a place, a land tree from that which is evil, but those dwelling there must be in themselves Zion-pure. We are admonished to stand in holy places. We will be in holy places if we make them so. In many places this year we have been admonished that "my people have been careless," but the Lord has also said that he is willing to bless them. In the church all over eyes are cast in the direction of Independence and Lamoni, the two Stake branches, where they expect to find examples of perfec-tion. The speaker said that in his travels he could see a growth and an advancement. If we allow the sin of omission to entail we cannot expect to progress and develop.
Whenever we render service to God we are rendering service to ourselves. The foregoing are a few of the leading points in the sermon.

In the evening Elder A. H. Parsons delivered his fourth sermon on the principles of the gospel, making four classifications of the principle of laying on hands: for healing the sick, for blessing children, for ordination to the min-istry, and for confirmation of baptized disciples. Speaker said the laying on hands for the healing of the sick is least understood. Told of incidents when Christ laid hands on the sick and of his telling his disciples to do so, and of where James says the sick should call for the Elders who should lay their hands on them and pray for that in the hands is the power or authority, as is mentioned in Habakus 3:4—"he had horns coming out of his hands: and there was the hiding of his power." The horns represent power or authority. Mentioned the case of the blind man as related in Mark 8:23-25 whom Christ laid hands on and who received his sight. But there must be a preparation on the part of the one seeking a blessing, a preparation on the part of the one seeking a blessing, must be honest and firmly believe. Mentioned Luke 4:40 where it is stated that all who were sick with divers diseases were brought to Jesus and he laid his hands on them and they were healed. But on some occasions Christ did not heal everybody as some think he did. Mark 5:5 did not heal everybody as some think he did. Mark 5:5 says of Jesus that there he could do no mighty works, except he laid hands on a few sick folks and healed them. The speaker gave a number of instances where the sick were healed by the laying on of hands. Of the second division of his subject he cited where Christ laid his hands on little children and blessed them. For ordination he first mentioned Numberc 27:18, where Moses is told to take Joshua and lay his hands on him to set him apart for the work he was to do. In Acts 13:23, Barnabas and Saul were ordeling by the Jaying on of hands after the comwork he was to do. In Acts 13:23, Barnabas and Saul were ordsines by the laying on of hands after the company had at-sted and prayed. Mentioned 1 Tim. 4:14, the gift given Timothy by the laying on of the hands of the presbytes. Of the laying on hands for the confirmation or the Icception of the Holy Ghost mentioned Acts 19:6 where Paul laid hands on those he had baptized and they received the Holy Ghost. He mentioned John 3:5 where Jesus says it is necessary for one to be baptized both of the water and the Spirit.

The Sunday school orchestra is achieving quite a reputation by the fine music they are rendering, and their services are in demand in other places. Last Friday night they entertained the Sunday school convention at Arm-

The leading article in last week's Ensign entitled, "The Passing of Russell's Dawn," should have been credited to Bro. S. S. Smith.

INDEPENDENCE, SECOND BRANCH.

Last Sunday morning the attendance at Sunday school was somewhat lessened on account of rain, nevertheless a good interest was taken in the lesson study. Bro. Earl Corthell, Stake Sunday school superintendent, made the scnool a visit.

At 11 a. m. presiding priest, J. T. Curtis, was the speaker. While dwelling on the signs of the times, Jer. 50:22 was cited in connection with many other references. Also spoke advisedly against unnecessary adornment as

At the evening hour Patriarch F. A. Smith spoke to a good sized audience. The 5th chapter of Romans was read and commented upon. Also a portion of the 13th chapter. The speaker said in part, man had lost himself in the beginning, being shut out from the presence of God he brought sin upon all the world. Christ came and took upon himself flesh that he might learn obedience by the things which he suffered, and therefore was able to sympathize with humanity.

FIRST CHICAGO ITEMS.

Sunday was a nice day compared with recent weather and a goodly number turned out. The morning hour was occupied jointly by Brn. P. G. Fairbanks of Chicago and occupied jointy by Brn. P. G. Fairbanks of Chicago and R. J. Wildey of Minneapolis, Minn. The regular monthly priesthood meeting was held at the Central Branch as also the ladies in capacity of The Social Purity League, both being well attended. Our missionary, Bro. David E. Dowker, preached in the evening, using the 24th chapter of Matthew as a basis.

This well given instruction was quite timely and showed the contrast of those of our number who believe in a visible, imminent coming of Christ, contingent upon "this gospel of the kingdom" being preached, compared with such as are proclaiming to the world that Christ came in 1874, and that forty years from that date, i. e., 1914, marks the expiration of "the times of the Gentiles," and ushers in new dispensation.

God for the truth and pray that all, both in and out of the ministry of our faith may live so close to God that we may be able to ever know the truth, be free, and help others to a like condition. Sept. 6.

Sunday was our regular monthly communion service which was well attended and blessed with a goodly spirit of worship. Many of our number having just returned from an excellent reunion held at Plano, are endearing to put our desires into practice for local improvement, and also beginning preparation for next year's feast.

Among those occupying our pulpit recently have been Elder F. M. Cooper of Plano, Ill., and Bishop E. L. Kelley of Independence.

Bro. and Sr. Trumbull of St. Joseph, Mo., met with us at the evening preaching service at which Elder James F. Keir occupied in an excellent manner using as a text the words of the Master, "I am come that they might have life and that they might have it more abundantly."

An especially good attendance was noted for which we are very thankful.

4158 W. Congress, Sept. 13.

SEATTLE.

SEATTLE.

Sacrament service was well attended and quite spiritual. It was presided over by the pastor and Bro. Wm. Johnson. An important feature of the meeting was the ordination of Brn. Wm. J. Johnson and Evan E. Inslee to the office of priest, under the hands of Brn. Wm. Johnson, F. W. Holman and the writer. The ordination was attended by the Spirit's presence. These young men enter joyously into the work. into the work.

Immediately following the morning service Sunday Immediately tollowing the morning service Sunday Adelbert R. Kilburn was baptized by Bro. A. Gorbett, our priest. He was confirmed by Brn. Holman Johnson and Terry. This young brother lives at Puyallup, 32 miles away. His mother was formerly a Chicago girl during our missionary work there of pleasant memory

The mission meetings have been spiritual and resulting in good. We propose visiting Everett, 30 miles away by electric road, the second Sunday of each month, holding

We advertised to speak on fulfillment of prophecy on last Sunday evening and incidentally mentioned the apos-tacy of B. Young, which drew out two Utah elders to the service. We had not time to reach that point in our sermon, but in a pleasant conversation with the young men after the service we assured them we could produce the evidence in abundance. The matter is not yet ended and may result in a further canvass of it conjointly. J. M. Terry.

102 North 39th St., Sept. 9.

maraneraminami Minamirano CORRESPONDENCE

routemerouseoff overwerous Independence, Mo., Sept. 10.

Dear Ensign:—We are still alive, but not doing much work, being hindered more or less through sickness for the last two years. We still have the knowledge that the gospel is true and realize that without the gospel and the association of the saints that life would be dark. After having fed at the Master's table, and made to realize the back or fall asleep, but keep marching on, although our steps may be slow; onward and upward still is our motto. We have spent twenty-five years in the work and it still grows brighter to us. In our physical suffering during the last two years we have been made to know the great p t the present time I am very anxious to get the names At the present time I am very anxious to get the names and addresses of all the scattered members of the Independence Stake. Any one who lives in the Stake that is too far from Sunday school to attend, I want to hear from. I am anxious to write you, so please write me at once, beauty and grandeur of the life to come, we cannot turn The Sunday school, the child of the church, is extending an earnest invitation to you to join the Sunday school Home Department. Scattered members will please not cast this anneal early without first writing their mean and adthis appeal aside without first writing their name and adthis appeal aside without first writing their name and ad-dress on a card and then mail it to me. I want to see each one enrolled in the Sunday school. We may be in an isolated condition, but we can be enrolled in the Sunday school, and know when the Sunday schools are meet-ing together on Sunday, studying God's word, we can be one of their number in our home, studying the same les-sons, keeping ourselves and family in line with the Sunday school work. So www. act have been becaused to the sunday I work. So much good has been done through the Department work that I want you to get in touch with the same; so please write me today. Who will be the first? The Home Department is no more "Just in name," it is here to stay, a real, live working department, accomplishing much good.

Your sister, Mrs. R. O. Self.

826 W. Blue Avenue.

Omaha. Nebr., Sept. 10.

Editor Ensign:-Bro. O. R. Miller who has been convalesing in Omaha for the past two or three months, and having practically recovered from his lameness was requested to hold a series of meetings before starting to his mission field. The district tent was brought into use and placed on the spacious lawn of Bro. and Sr. Lowe at 22nd and Lake Sts. One of the large porches of their residence was used as the speaker's stand and which also gave ample room for the choir. A great deal of credit is due Bro. and Sr. Lowe for their kindness and charity in connection with these meetings.

with these meetings.

The main opening of the tent was brought up in close proximity to the porch, which permitted the use of all the room in the tent for scats, numbering about 175 to 200. The sides of the tent were raised and chairs were spread out over the lawn to the distance of 20 feet around the tent. The total seating capacity was about 400.

In order to give the proper publicity to these tent meetings 500 hand bills were distributed throughout the neighborhood and a house to house canvass was made and posters were placed in all the store windows. I desire to say that these hand bills were a trifle different from the ordinary type and a description of them will do no harm and might help some one who is engaged in similar work, for they did bring good results and good results are what we are all working for.

The heading of the bill was "Lawn Services." Underneath this was the location, then followed "Sermons and Lectures and Special Music." Then came a cut of the speaker, and on one side of this cut was the date set to speaker, and on one side of this cut was the date set to begin the services, the other side referred to Bro. Paul N. Craig as having the music in charge, etc., and the lower part of the bill was devoted to some of the subjects. "Jesus, human or divine, Which?" "Causes of Infidelity." "Rejection of Jesus today." "Mormonism Exposed." And last, but not least in importance, "There will be no collection taken." There is no doubt that a good snappy hand bill will do more good than 50 that resemble some public auction sale bill. Good, catchy, legitimate, up-to-date methods should be used in promoting publicity of religious work as well as work in the commercial world.

There were 142 people the first evening, quite a large percentage of them being non-members, and while some of the evenings that followed were quite cool, yet the smallest in attendance was 112. The meetings began August 17th and continued over 3 Sundays. The first Sunday the est in attendance was 112. The meetings began August 17th and continued over 3 Sundays. The first Sunday the subject discussed was "The new Birth." There were 250 present and Brother Miller enjoyed the best of liberty and had splendid attention. The second Sunday evening he spoke on the "Prophetic Mission of Joseph Smith," to the largest crowd of the series and numbered somewhere between 375 and 400. The sermon was well received notwithstanding the frequent reference to angel visitations, resolutions etc.

revelations, etc.

The closing Sunday evening the discussion was on The Book of Mormon and again the gospel story in all its purity was set forth with startling clearness and presented in the spicy, clear-cut, pleasing way that is characteristic of Brother Miller's sermons, and again the audience numbering about 350 seemed to drink in every word and accorded him the closest attention. Brother Miller in commenting on the meetings stated,

"I have never held a series of meetings before in my life when we had as regular attendance of refined, thinking people, and never witnessed as attentive and orderly audiences at open air services."

There is no doubt to my mind that a great deal of good has been accomplished. The inconsistencies of old traditions and false reports in circulation regarding the church, were ruthlessly exposed, barriers were broken down and were ruthlessiy exposed, parriers were oroned down and individuals who were disposed to sneer and scoff have had their eyes opened, and I might say still further that several of the saints who have long been in the "arms of Morpheus" have had an awakening. Two or three will be baptized as a result, and to my mind there will be others, as there were quite a number who started in attending the first evening and were present at every service, and seem-ingly interestivation. ingly intensely interested.

The main thing I desire to draw attention to, and the real object of this letter, and which contributed much to the success of the meetings was the splendid co-operation given Brother Miller by the branch members.

number of the saints would come specially early and be seen seated in the tent, the choir under the able direction of Brother Craig would start some good lively gospel song, and neighbors and others passing by would be attracted in. Special anthems, solos, and male choruses were rendered, and the choir have received many complements for the part they took in the meetings. All choir members made genuine sacrifices in order to be in their places promptly to render all the aid possible, and the result confirms my opinion that the developement of a choir is a great resource to a branch and all saints should encourage and assist wherever possible the building up of choirs and to promote the department of music in the church, as it is beginning to develop that those who have talent and ability and a desire along musical lines, have a definite work to do for the Master in that capacity.

Co-operation is one of the secrets of success in this grand work, and without every ones' putting their shoulder

Co-operation is one of the secrets of success in the grand work, and without every ones' putting their shoulder to the gospel wheel in a united effort, little can be accomplished. Where there is a unity of purpose for good, and a get-to-gether spirit, there God will be, and when God is with us, what can prevail against us?

Yours sincerely,

Roland W. Scott.

Springerville, Ariz., Sept. 3 Springervinie, Aric., Soph. o.

Dear Ensign:—From this beautiful southwestern region we write a line to certify that we are still alive, and alert to duty we hope, though having been absent from our susual place of labor among Oklahoma friends.
We made the cross country trip with the family to our new field in Arizona by team in order to save some $300.00 new neld in Attrona by team in order to save some $300.00 in railroad transportation, and incidentally to get something of a practical idea of what experiences the early Nephites must have had in making cross country trips from the istimus to and from the great lake region.

Concerning the latter we were almost at a loss to compare the concerning the latter we were almost at a loss to compare the latter we were almost at a loss to compare the latter we were almost at a loss to compare the latter we were almost at a loss to compare the latter we were al

prehend how it could have been possible for any Nephite or any other kind of an ite not having a vehicele or even an ocean to ocean automobile highway to have made the an ocean to ocean automone nigraws to have made the trip and got through alive, until we encountered the modern burro pack train defying all roads through the mountains, and each stolid little animal pleasantly carrying enough equippage to supply the camp needs of a dozen

For thorough going and absolute independence in travel I would rather have a half dozen of those long eared, good

I would rather have a hait dozen of those long earen, good matured, musical animals than to possess an automobile. Even a train is liable to wreck or be delayed by washouts but the ancient mode is safe and sure though of course not quite so rapid as some of the "speed manis" products, but by jogging peacefully along on a pack saddle one has a splendid opportunity to contemplate the vastness one has a splendid opportunity to contemplate the vastness of space and the relative scope of eternity, etc.

So when the war of nations intensifies and spreads until it becomes needful for us to centralize as a people in order to be at peace, none need to be surprised if the writer comes in on a burro like a patriarch coming into Jerusalem with an oblation of frankincense and myrr. We have had a great trip and well worth the while. No sickness, bad accident or mentionable distress.

Springerville, Arizona, is situated in a beautiful valley where the little "Silvery Colorado wends its way." Ad-jacent to the town is another village called Eagerville which is populated by Latter Day Saints of the western which is populated by Latter Day Saints of the western apostacy, a thrifty, kind hearted people.

In camp we breakfast this morning upon what is almost veritable manna to us, some of it contributed by a colonel of the valley here, a descendant I think of W. W. Phelps, some from the liberality of a Brighamite family, and some purchased from a Gentile merchant.

This Mr. Phelps has a Presbyterian wife, but being of Latter Day Saint parentage he cannot easily absorb much of other doctrines, though he has been in spiritual wilderness for years, and listens to the gospel story retold like one awakening from a dream. He was quick to assert his belief that the Josephites have the best religion in the world, although he has met none of our people for years, and is not posted as to the present scope and magnitude of the true Latter Day Saint work through the Josephite activities.

activities.

The passion of the gospel hunter rests upon me when in contact with Israel's wandering sons and we earnestly hope to be serviceable to the Lord in spreading gospel light where shadows are blighting darkened lives.

Corresponding friends please notice that our address is Phoenix, Arizona.

Sincerely, James E. Yates.

Elderado Springs, Mo., Sept. 4. Dear Ensign:—We had a reunion here, and such grand sermons and spiritual prayer meetings. I am sure we should all be encouraged to press onward and upward. The reunion began the 24th of July and ended the second of August, and on the ninth of August the chautauqua started. They set up their tent on the same ground where the reunion tent was, but how different the crowds. The last night was on Sunday and the tent was not over 200 feet from our little church. After church was out we were listening to the music. It was a regular vaudiville. We were sitting on the church steps watching the people go were sitting on the church steps watching the people go by. A handful of the crowd would have filled our little church. It seemed that the greater part of the people in town were there. It made me think of the broad road and the strait and narrow way, but how much greater and lasting is the pleasure we enjoy by keeping in the straight and narrow way.

I was told in my patriarchal blessing that I would be a I was too it my patriarena bessing that I would be a living witness of the goodness of God, and as I know I am, I want to tell about it. Four years ago this month we lived in South Dakota, and as it was hard to get a hand to stacked part of it and we had got out in the field and stopped by a shock of millet. I took the fork handle in my left hand and started to get off on top of the shock when the rack tipped. I don't know how it happened but I dropped the fork, a heavy 4-tined pitchfork. The tines stuck in the ground and I fell on the handle, the fork did not tip but the tines run in the ground. It struck in the left side of my stomach and slipped around and struck my hip bone, and that turned me over and I struck the ground nnp none, and that turned me over and I struck the ground on my back, with my head down hill, (it was on a side hill). I weighed over 200 and hit the ground pretty hard. When my husband helped me on my feet there was a roll the size and shape of a large ripe cucumber hanging in front of my hip. I was terrible sick. I held to the hay-rack and felt like I was dying, everything getting dark. I prayed as I had never prayed before that my life might be spared to raise my children, and it seemed like I could feel that deathly feeling leave me like a shadow. Then my husband helped me on the rack and he drove home, a mile and a quarter. When I laid down on my back the rupture was so large that the intestines all went back. I wouldn't have a doctor and I didn't feel worthy to be administered to, so I took oil and kept oil on my side; but no one knows what I suffered. I was hurt Wednesday evening, and Saturday morning I felt as though I could not stand it much longer. I would have a chill and then burn with fever a little while, and then chill again. Some said blood poison had set in. I had always thought anyone should be living right to expect to be healed, but it came to me Saturday morning that "if there be any sick among you, [any] let them send for the elders." I knew there was a good many things I had ought to have done that I had left undone, but when I saw it that way I uldn't have a doctor and I didn't feel worthy to be adthat I had left undone, but when I saw it that way I sent to Bonesteel for Bro. William McKee. Before he came I was thinking that I did not feel worthy to be healed, but if I could get relief so that I could bear it until nature had time to heal me I would be satisfied. When Bro. Mc-Kee administered to me the pain in all parts of my body except my back stopped. On Monday we had to have the doctor come out as the people were going to have him if we did not. He said an abcess was forming and it would have to be lanced Thursday. I felt free from pain except my back and Wednesday I sent again for Bro. McKee and was administered to again and all the pain left me, and Wednesday night the abcess broke. My mother was with me and she said she was sure there were three pints of it and it looked like fine ground up flesh and bloody water that came from it, and there were six cores came out of it, and after each core there was a little pure olive oil ran My mother belongs to the Christian Church and there were two women there that belonged to the Methodist Church, and two who were German Lutherins. They all saw it and said that it was pure clive oil, but they could not tell how it got there. My mother went to see the doc-tor and he told her it was fatal. He said that I could not possibly get well, that the hurt in my side, the fall on my back, or the shock to my nerves was either one enough to kill me. He said that every nerve on the left of my stomach was torn off.

In a few days the dead skin over the abcess came off and left a raw hole about the size of a person's hand, and an inch deep, and at one side there was a hole clear through to the inside. I was awfully weak, but I laid there four and a half weeks without turning over, and I did no get tired. The first time I turned over my back was not even red. I will never forget the kindness of the dear saints and friends of Bonesteel during that time. I am now well and strong as ever, and all that remains of the injury is a bad scar. I never wore a truss. I think all we need is a Dad Scar. I never wore a truss. I timin air we never when sick or afflicted is faith in God and in his promise. If we really believe there is a God how can we help but believe that he will keep his promise if we do our part?

Ever praying for the redemption of Zion, your sister in

M. B. Palmer.

Kingston, Mo., Aug. 16

Dear Ensign:—I have always enjoyed reading about the abor and experience of others. We are not on the rail-Dear Ensign:—I have always enjoyed reading about the labor and experience of others. We are not on the railroad, so don't get to meet with the travelling ministry very often, but with the help of our local brethren we are doing the best we can, and God is surely blessing our efforts. Last Sunday was our two days' meeting in charge of our district president, B. J. Dice and priest, D. H. Schmidt. They were both blessed in presenting the word. The saints of the Oakdale Branch paid us a visit in a body at the morning meeting on Sunday and after services had an old-fashioned basket dinner which, I believe, all enjoyed. This followed with a social meeting and a spiritual feast. At followed with a social meeting and a spiritual feast. At one time most of the Oakdale Branch belonged to the Kingston Branch and the saints enjoyed talking over old times. Our building here is one of the largest in the district but a very few to fill the seats. When we look around us we can see the Master's words verified in that the harus we can see the states a works verified in that the may east is great but the laborers are few. My prayer to Israel's God is that we may each and every one so realize the responsibility placed upon us as individuals that we may labor together with God and assist in gathering in the golden grain. Ever praying for the advancement of the cause of truth remain your co-laborer and brother in the cause of Christ,

Elder Chas. A. Morton

Ladysmith, Wis., Aug. 31. Dear Ensign:—No doubt you have not had any letters from this country. We have just come here from Wood-burn, Ind., and you will probably remember me as Sr. burn, Ind., and you will probably remember me as Sr. Dora Bennett. This is a lovely country and we like it quite well, but we lack the association of the Saints. We do not know whether there are any Saints here and would be very glad to hear from any who may be living near here. If there are none here we shall try when we get settled to make arrangements for having meetings and try to get some interested, and maybe get some into the gospel. My husband, mother, two brothers and myself are the only Saints I know of here.

Your sister in Christ,
Mrs. Dora Steede.

Mrs. Dora Steede.

Lockport, N. Y., Aug. 12.

Dear Ensign:—At the joint convention of the New York district auxililaries, with Brn. A. E. Stone, Gec. Landes, James Bannister and Sr. Jas. Brugle, I was placed on a committee to arrange for a place for a two days', week end meeting, to be held some time in August, and to be devoted mainly to institute work.

The result of our efforts was a meeting at "Mang's Grove"—near LaSalle, this state, August 8 and 9. This location is between the Falls and Buffalo, so the most of our young people—and elderly ones also—working at either place could spend their Saturday half holiday with us there,—and they did, ouite a number bringing their us there,—and they did, quite a number bringing their blankets and camping Saturday night. The weather was hot, but the bathing was good, and the meetings as good as one could expect, considering the heat, as Sunday was the hottest day of our season.

All seemed to be in favor of a reunion for the coming All seemed to be in layer of a reamon for the coming year, declaring the time only too short. Three were baptized from the Buffalo Branch, Bro. Stone officiating with two and Bro. F. Harper with the other.

A rain followed the evening service, so the heat was not so intense when we came to move the equipage

The Ladies Aids of Buffalo and Niagara Falls, conducted the refreshment stand, and Bro. Jas. Brugle, of the Falls, with his auto, saved us all drayage. Altogether it was quite a success, some attending from quite a distance, on both sides the International line.

A. M. Chase.

Scranton, Kas., Aug. 10. Editor Ensign:-It is years since we wrote to you from this part of the field, because it is years since there was this part of the head, because it is years since there was any progress to report, and it is best to keep still and say nothing in those times, so we withheld our hand. But now we have something good to say as Bro. J. W. A. Bailey was with us the last two weeks or more preaching in the open air every evening but one, when we had a band con-cert on the same street and thought it proper to turn over our crowd to hear the music. But on time the following evening Bro. Bailey, with his charts before him and some interested people made some good impressions on those that came to seek the truth. He is one of those willing workers that we don't meet often in our little town. He put me in mind of the efforts of our dear Bro. E. C. Brand, long ago, which resulted in the baptism of five souls before he left and made us all feel glad that he came, but sorry when he left, but he promised to return soon. He left some interested and almost persuaded to obey.

Just previous to Bro. Bailey's coming we had with us our worthy Bro. Wm. Lewis, and we surely needed his counsel, and more would still do good. We welcome such men as they are and are willing to do all we can for their comfort. May our heavenly Father bless all such is our prayer.

Your brother,

James Baillie.

Seneca, Me., Sept. 3. Seneca, Mc., Sept. 8.

Dear Ensign:—I was thinking of the great plan of redemption and how good and kind God is to his weak children and how slothful they are. We are a few saints in Seneca, but we are trying to hold the gospel work up. I seldom see anything from this place. The dear old Ensign brings joy to us, when reading letters from the various parts of the model. parts of the world. We are often visited by the elders, and strengthened by their visits. Among those visiting us lately was Bro. J. V. Madan who just closed a series of meetings here. He was assisted by Bro. Conner and Bro. Recer. So the good work goes on. The interest seemed pretty good, but none have called for baptism. We are trying to keep our little Sunday school and prayer meet-ings up every Sunday and Wednesday night meetings also. Your sister as ever in Christ,

Mrs. R. D. Rudd

Roy, New Mexico, Aug. 28.

Roy, New Mexico, Aug. 28.

Dear Ensign.—We moved here from Seiling, Okla., in May, like the country fine, we can raise most anything here, some wheat averaged 56 bushels here this year. It is pretty near all settled, though there is a little vacant yet. We would be so glad if some of the saints would settle in here, there are only two families of the saints here. If any of you are ever in this part would be very glad indeed to have you hunt us up, and would be so glad to have some of the Elders come in here, they might do a great work. Bro. Jim Yates and family visited us on their way to Phoneix, Ariz., where they expect to make their future home. We live just six miles from Roy. If any of future home. the Elders can come, write us and we will gladly meet them

If any of the saints wish to take a homestead and I ca render any information to help them in regards to it, will be glad to do so.

Your brother and sister in the one faith, Mr. and Mrs. Chas. Depew.

Garden City, Mo., Sept. 6.

Dear Ensign.—We would be lost and very lonesome without the dear Ensign, as it is our only preacher, and we surely enjoy its sermons and letters, as we are isolated church privileges, we being the only family of saints in this community

In this community

At times we grow very lonely and long for the sweet association of saints. There has never been any preaching done by the saints down this way. At first we found it quite difficult to convince people we were not of the Mormon church. We have done what little talking we could, and have given the Ensigns to all who would read,

At this way have a part on two the are interested and and I think we have a party or two that are interested, and would be more so if they could hear some of the excellent sermons by some of our ministers. Any saints or minister passing this way will always be welcome at our place, which is easily found; any one in town can direct you to our place, as we are well known. Our prayer is for the welfare of Zion and the up-build of this glorious gospel. Your sister in Christ,

Hazel Billingsby.

A VISIT FROM THE PRESIDING PRIEST OF THE INDEPENDENCE BRANCH.

Dear Saints:-I have felt for some time that I would like to visit you and talk with you concerning the preparation that must be made before we can be caught up to meet the Savior when he appears. We all know the time is drawing near. If we do not improve the time wisely it may come and catch us unawares, without oil in our lamps. Let us be wise, and listen.

You remember the saying of the Lord contained in section 100, paragraph 3, of the Doctrine and Covenants which says:

"But verily I say unto you I have decreed that your brethren which have been scattered shall return to the land of their inheritances, and build up the waste places of Zion; for after much tribulation, as I have said unto you in a former commandment, cometh the blessing. Behold, this is the blessing which I have promised after your tribulations and the tribulations of your brethren, your redemption and the redemption of your brethren, even their restoration to the land of Zion, to be established, no more to be thrown down. Nevertheless, if they pollute their inheritances they shall be thrown down, for I shall not spare them if they pollute their inheritances.'

Now the question comes to mind, how can we pollute our inheritance here? We are gathered to a certain extent, but go with me now to section 98, paragraph 3, and read:-

"Behold I say unto you, there were jarrings, and contentions, and envyings, and strifes, and lustful and covetous desires among them; therefore by these things they pollute their inheritances."

Are there any such things among us today in the land of Zion or elsewhere? Listen. ... section and the 3rd with me again to .... verse:

2. I give unto you a commandment, and make all evil and cleave unto all good, that ye shall live by every word which proceedeth forth out of the mouth of God; for he will give unto the faithful, line upon line, precept upon precept; and I will try you, and prove you herewith."

Let us awaken to the fact that we, his people, are to be tried today, and let us not be deceived or taken unawares when these trials are upon us.

Listen to what the Lord said to the people in Kirtland in '33:

"Behold, I, the Lord, am not well pleased with many who are in the church at Kirtland, for they do not forsake their sins, and their wicked ways, the pride of their hearts, and their covetousness, and all their detestable things, and observe the words of wisdom and eternal life which I have given unto them. Verily I say unto you, that I the Lord, will chasten them and will do whatsoever I list, if they do not repent and observe all things whatsoever I have said unto them. And again, I say unto you, if ye observe to do whatsoever I command you, I, the Lord, will turn away all wrath and indignation from you, and the gates of hell shall not prevail against you." D. and C. 95:4.

Come with me again to section 98, paragraph 5, which reads:

"Behold, it is my will, that all they who call on my name, and worship me according to mine everlasting gospel, should gather together and stand in holy places, and prepare for the revelation which is to come when the veil of the covering of my temple, in my tabernacle, which hideth the earth, shall be taken off, and all flesh shall see me together."

Let us examine ourselves together in the face of these promises and commandments. Let us go into detail and see if we can judge ourselves worthy to stand even at the present time. The priest's duty is to visit the house of each member and exhort them to pray vocally and in secret. The Savior has said there is no other way under heaven than that which the Father gave him for us. If there is no other way, and we want to become inmates of the celestial kingdom by leaving out part of the way, what is the result? And this part, "pray vocally and in secret," do you comply Now, remember, we are having a with that? heart-to-heart talk, and we are going into detail of the way to win in this battle. Can we afford to leave out baptism or the laying on of hands? If not, pray tell me what part of our duties can we leave out, and yet be saved in the celestial kingdom? and the priest exhorts you to pray vocally and in secret.

The asking the Father to bless the food that we partake of, and thank him for it before partaking at all meals is a family duty. Do you attend to that family duty? If not, do you think it is safe to leave that part of the plan unrespected?

The setting up of your family altar wherein your home can be called a house of prayer, and you gather your family around you to return thanks and worship that Being who has been so kind and loving to you all the days of your life, and permitted you to be here in the gathering place of the saints safely housed and cared for, -do you have family prayer and teach your little ones as they grow up to pray vocally and in secret, and impress upon them their dependence upon the Almighty?

What kind of progress have you made the last ten years? Are you able now, after ten years' experience to do what the Lord told his elders that they should do in Sec. 95, par. 5?

Now, I speak unto you, concerning your families; if men will smite you, or your families, once, and ye bear it patiently and revile not against them, neither seek revenge; ye shall be rewarded."

In 1833 the Lord required this from his elders who were living near Kirtland. Do you think he asks less of us, his people, when we are gathered to Zion? Do we lie, backbite, speak evil of our neighbors? Examine ourselves. The fruits of the Spirit of the Master are peace, gentleness, long suffering, patience, virtue, love and good will. The evidence of the presence of the opposite spirit are envyings, strife, bickering, impatience, evilspeaking, backbiting, unjust judgment and criticism, anger and malice. If we judge ourselves in these matters we can so correct our lives that we will not have to pay the penalty attached to the fruits of this spirit, if we are wise. Let us he wise.

I hear one good brother say, "I believe I could be a good Latter Day Saint if it wasn't for my I could keep the commandments if it wife. wasn't for my wife, but she irratates me beyond endurance. I just can't make her mind. She won't keep the Word of Wisdom, and I never knew her to say her prayers night or morning, and I am so much concerned for fear she won't be saved in the celestial glory that I really haven't time to keep the commandments myself." the trouble? If you were to stand before the judgment bar the Lord won't ask you how hard you worked to keep the commandments. He would ask you how much you helped her to keep them. That can be done best by heeding the admonition of the Savior, "Do unto others as you would that others should do unto you." Another says, "I believe I would be a better Latter Day Saint if it was not for my husband."

Another good saint says, what shall I do to prevent the wrangling and bickering and quarreling in my home, that drives the good Spirit out and the spirit of the adversary takes complete possession at times because of the contentions? How can I remedy this in my home? The Savior said when the disciples came back to him and asked him why they couldn't accomplish certain things, "This kind goeth out only by fasting and prayer." If you will attend the prayer meetings of the church, and when these experiences come if you will insist right in the middle of them that the whole family stop and kneel down and have prayer and ask for help you would be surprised to see how soon that spirit would leave home, and the spirit of peace take its place. A few experiments along this line will remedy that evil, and dear saints, this evil must be remedied if we expect to be used in the redemption of Zion, or even to be permitted to remain therein.

Now one asks, what shall I do? My children are so hard to govern. I can do nothing with Dear brothers and sisters, we can not do what the Lord himself isn't able to accomplish, for he said, when he looked over Jerusalm, knowing the things that would come upon his children, he wept and said, "How oft would have I gathered you, but you would not." They must be given their agency. They must choose for themselves. All we can do is to entreat and pray the Lord that he will not take their agency away from them, but they must learn obedience sooner or later, after we have done the best we can, we can commit them into the Lord's hands, and pray for them, but we should show them if they will let us the awful loss that they are certain to experience if they insist on being among those that were prophesied of in the last days, that children should be disobedient to parents and the children of disobedience, their reward worketh from beneath and not from above. If they despise their birthright the Lord will raise up children that will appreciate it. There can be nothing but misery for them if they will not be entreated, and if they will not listen to their parents whom they see, how can they be expected to obey the Lord whom they don't see. Let us consider these things and act accordingly.

Let the poor man who can by sacrifice assist all he can in the work, and let the rich man not withhold his help for fear the poor man will not be educated sufficiently to save him. The Lord has perhaps given him that he may be able to help when help is needed.

See that your repentance is real. That means that when sacrament Sunday comes you go before the Lord and tell him that your repentance is real; that you really repent of your wrongs. That you have a desire to keep his commandments, and that by partaking of the emblenes you are willing to renew your covenant and try once more to keep his commandments perfectly. our only hope and remember that the Lord has promised that with what measure we mete out to others, so it shall be meted out to us again. What a wonderful privilege this is that if we forgive others their trespasses, ours shall be forgiven.

Another thought I wish to impress upon you. That is the necessity of remembering the Sabbath day to keep it holy. You are aware that this is an injunction given to us by the Savior in these last days, and how often do we see carelessness as a people during the Sabbath. Are you one who is not satisfied with the plan of salvation, and leave out obedience to that command to remember the Sabbath day to keep it holy? Look around you on Sunday and see how many of our people seem to think that the Sabbath is a day for pleasure. Let us examine ourselves before the Lord does it for us, for then it would be too late and we would have to pay the penalty of a broken law. Heed the admonition of the Book of Covenants wherein it tells the teacher to see that the church meets' together often. Do you meet with the saints often? If not, you are disobeying another command. I do not wish to make this visit too long, or you will not let me come again, so we will close with the hope and prayer that we may prveail in this warfare against principalities and powers which every saint must realize is as literal as the one going on in the east now, from a temporal standpoint.

Hoping that we may be the people that shall be prepared when the Savior comes, I am,

Your brother in Christ, A. Morgan, Presiding Priest.

FASTING.

By W. A. Sinclair, M. D. Many and varied are the opinions regarding this devotional exercise, from an absolute abstinence, as practiced by some of the orthodox congregations, to the substitution of a less desirable, for a pleasant article of diet, as practiced by the Catholic religionists.

Just which, or if both are equally the correct practice, is uncertain, as there is plenty of room for the institution of both customs according to the tenor of the scripture on the subject.

Referring to the Doctrine and Covenants, section 59; paragraph 2 and 3, we read of certain commandments enjoined upon the people of God thus:-"Wherefore I give unto them a commandment, saying thus:-Thou shalt love the Lord thy God, with all thy heart, with all thy might, mind, and strength, and in the name of Jesus Christ thou shalt serve him. Thou shalt love thy neighbor as thyself. Thou shalt not steal; neither commit adultry, nor kill, nor do anything like unto it. Thou shalt thank the Lord thy God in all things. Thou shalt offer a sacrifice unto the Lord thy God in righteousness; even that of a broken heart and a contrite spirit And that thou mayest more fully keep thyself unspotted from the world, thou shalt go to the house of prayer and offer up thy sacraments upon my holy day; for verily this is a day appointed unto you to rest from your labors, and to pay thy devotions unto the Most High; nevertheless thy yows shall be offered up in righteousness on all days, and at all times, but remember that on this, the Lord's day, thou shalt offer thine oblations, and thy sacraments, unto the Most High, confessing thy sins unto thy brethren, and before the Lord. And on this day thou shalt do none other thing, only let thy food be prepared with singleness of heart, that thy fasting may be perfect; or in other words, that thy joy may be full. Verily this is fasting and prayer; or, in other words, rejoicing and prayer."

This language with a casual glancing over it may not appeal to one with any sense of pecularity. But, when we stop to analyze the contents of the two verses, there is a peculiar phraseology used, which conveys the thought that all these exercises have something of the characteristics of fasting, and that it is not absolutely a refraining from food, otherwise the interjection of the phrase, "and on this day thou shalt do none other thing, only let thy food be prepared with singleness of heart, that thy fasting may be perfect," would be maningless.

Now if a perfect fast is the total abstinence of all food, why should the Lord call it a perfect fast when food is prpared in a certain way or manner? Does it not mean more than the refraining from eating and drinking, whether partial or absolute? Personally, I believe the extent of the fasting is regulated by the cause, and the idiosyncracy of the person fasting.

Jesus says of fasting in Matthew 6:16-18. "Moreover when ye fast, be not as the hypocrites, of a sad countenance; for they disfigure their faces, that they may appear unto men to fast. Verily I say unto you, they have their reward. But thou, when thou fastest, anoint thine head, and wash thy face; that thou appear not unto men to fast, but unto thy Father, which is in secret; and thy Father, which seeth in secret, shall reward thee openly."

This gives us to understand that our fasting should be more or less secret, and of a nature that would in no sense change our outward demeanor, so that the one next to us should not know we were fasting.

The Lord speaking through Isaiah, chapter 58, outlines the form of fasting he says he has chosen; and by the way, it was contrary to what they were teaching in his day. In the sixth verse he says; "Is not this the fast that I have chosen? to loose the bands of wickedness, to undo the heavy burdens, and to let the oppressed go free, and that ye break every yoke? Is it not to deal thy bread to the hungry, and that thou bring the poor that are cast out to thy house? when thou seest the naked, that thou cover him, and that thou hide not thyself from thine own flesh? then shall thy light break forth as the morning, and thine health shall spring forth speedily; and thy righteousness shall go before thee; the glory of the Lord shall be thy reward."

This is in harmony with the admonition of Jesus Christ, and certainly portrays a greater service than the abstinence from food and water.

Now on the other hand, those who adhere to the total abstinence theory, have their backing in the following: - Jonah 3:5-8. Jonah was sent to Nineveh to warn the people of their impending doom, which he did after his hidro-whaleoplane voyage, and we read:-"So the people of Nineveh believed God, and proclaimed a fast, and put on sackcloth, from the greatest of them even to the least of them, for word came unto the king of Nineveh, and he arose from his throne, and he laid his robe from him, and covered him with sackcloth, and sat in ashes. And he caused it to be proclaimed and published through Nineveh by the decree of the king and his nobles, saving, Let neither man nor beast, herd nor flock, taste anything, let them not feed, nor drink water. But let man and beast be covered with sackcloth, and cry mightily unto God; yea, let them turn every one from his evil way, and from the violence that is in their hands."

Notice there were more to do here than merely to refrain from the eating and drinking, it was a fast, a genuine fast.

Again in relation to Moses when in communication with God in the mount, we read:—Exodus 34:28. "And he was with the Lord forty days and forty nights; he did neither eat bread, nor drink water. And he wrote upon the tables the words of the covenant, the ten commandments.

Again in Matthew 4 we read of Jesus doing likewise. But in each of these cases the circumstances were of an extraordinary character, and they were in the presence of God, filled with his Spirit, the very essence of life being through every department of their being, and we cannot find that they hungered until after the withdrawal of the holy influence, and what was at stake in these cases? the destruction of a nation, and the salvation of the human family.

Fasting, Its Operation.

"Well," says one, "what has the eating got to do with it anyway?" Just this my friend, there is a physiological process known to the Lord, and revealed through scientific research, which shows the intimate relationship between what we eat, and what we think.

We read in Doctrine and Covenants 90:6. "The glory of God is intelligence." If this is true, and we believe it is, then the Holy Spirit which emanates from the Father would be intelligence also, this being so, it would operate on the intelligence of man in its visitation, hence, it would be the mind of man that should be in a receptive condition, more so than his stomach or any other physical organ.

This is just what takes place, and physiologically our refraining from the overloading the stomach with food, places our mind in a condition for concentration and recognition of spiritual intuitions. How? Just this way, the blood is the medium by which the normal functions of the body are kept in perfect accord. During the digestion of food the blood goes to the adbominal organs to assist in digestion, thus the brain is left denuded, and lethargy, sleepiness, and inactivity are the tendencies of the ones indulging too freely. This is fully demonstrated after the eating of a good meal, by the sleepiness which comes over us.

Fasting then, partially, and in some cases absolutely, places the brain in a condition not depleted of its fluid life properties, but with that normal, natural acuteness, that enables it to respond to the external stimulation of spiritual influences, and in this way receives of the intelli-gence from on high. Thus, when the Spirit communicates intelligence to an individual, its warming glow begins at the head, and passes down over the individual until he is entirely enveloped in its holy influence.

The more the blood is drawn from the head, the deeper our insensibility, or unconsciousness, sleep being the physiological result, fainting the pathological; drousiness is partial sleepiness, and either of these, places the mind beyond the power of concentration and normal receptiveness.

So now it is not the stomach directly that we must consider in our fasting, but all conditions that would militate against a clear brain such as lack of sleep, over exertion, over eating, hot and ill ventilated rooms, lengthy remarks of an unin-teresting character, and in fact everything that would cause detraction.

Who Should Fast, and to What Extent?

This is the all important problem. Sometimes it appears to me that some of those who set apart a day or a period for fasting have a very meager appreciation of what constitutes a fast. So far as I can learn from the scriptures, fasting legitimately done, was for special purposes, as set forth heretofore, with the exception of certain ones performed by self righteous individuals, such as is recorded in Luke 18:11, 12. "The Pharisee stood and prayed thus with himself. God. I thank thee, that I am not as other men are, extortioners, unjust, adulterers, or even as this publican. I fast twice in the week, I give tithes of all that I possess." Jesus said of him, notwithstanding he did all this, that he was not justified, but that he should be abased.

Probably someone will say: "Well you are not in favor of fasting at all." You are mistaken You are mistaken there, I not only believe in it, but have demonstrated the utility of such devotional exercises. In company with one other of the brethren, I fasted every Friday for six months, for a special object, and ceased only after receiving that which I sought. But here again came the special object for fasting.

Who shall fast? those who are physically constituted, commonly termed "full-blooded," can very profitably refrain all food at certain periods, and with other habits being in harmony with the common laws of fasting, they will be in a condition for greater spiritual enlightenment. But of what profit would be a fast to such a person, if he were guilty of the misconduct as recorded in Doctrine and Covenants 59 as first read. Again, a person who is given to overloading his stomach would do well to regard an absolute fast. A person who has a very poor appetite at best, would be unjustified in an absolute fast, except under most extreme circumstances; he should refrain from so doing, because the income to the body economy is already less than the output, and a man is not justified in rendering his body unfit for the calls of nature, wilfully. He might fast as the intimation already cited, by sacrificing some cherished article for a less appetizing one, or by a less bountiful supply.

Again, a nursing mother who denies herself in an absolute fast, is injuring her offspring by impoverishing her blood, and lowering the standard of the baby's food supply. Moderation in fasting in her case is all that is required.

Again, some people when fasting are as crabbed as a bear. Who is going to say that such a fast is a benefit to that individual? In such an instance it is fasting the devil in, instead of fasting him out, and a great many times it helps to get him into those associated with such an individual.

Again, where an absolute fast is practiced, and an individual is rendered incapable of performing his normal functions by reason of a sickening weakness, caused by lack of food, he is neither benefitted physically nor spiritually. This also is a detriment. And so we might go on citing case after case where such is a discredit, rather than a credit. A detriment, rather than a benefit.

In summing up we would say, fasting is good when properly carried out. That it does not ncessarily mean only the abstaining from food and drink. That it is not necessarily a total abstinence, and that there should be some definite object in view when fasting, Fast, but when fasting, be sure that you fast.

WHAT IS CHRISTIANITY?

By Eder J. E. Vanderwood

After more than a decade of careful study and reflection upon the question of religion we desire to draw attention to some things we have observed, first of all in the lives, profession, and methods of men, as they commingle together in this life, and last but not least what we have discovered by a careful study of the Christ life and philosophy.

The sacred volume informs us that: "Man is as prone to evil as the sparks are to fly upward." That is man in his natural unregenerated state, but from a careful analysis of the term Christianity we will discover its meaning to be Christlikeness, or in other words like like unto Christ. With this thought before us we have a working basis from which we desire to draw a few deductions. Can a thing rightly be said to be what it is not? Or does Christianity consist in name only?

In the generic sense we speak of Christian nations, nations who are now engaged in ruthless war, nations who in their selfish cravings are using all the power of body and mind for the destroying of their fellow beings, nations whose armies have with them respectively a chaplin who daily and before each engagement in the deadly drama, invokes the blessing of heaven upon their efforts, and prays for strength to overcome and thus slaughter their fellow creatures, of the same flesh and blood, and thus they seek peace but it is not found. In their yet blinded condition John and James asked of the Master: "Shall we call down fire from heaven to destroy them?" notice the scathing rebuke of the Master: "Ye know not what spirit ye are of, for the Son of man is not come to destroy men's lives but to save them."

When the soldiers asked of John: "And what shall we do," his answer was "Do violence to no man," and James said to his disciples: "Resist not evil," and the great apostle has said: "Overcome evil with good." Again the Christ said: "All things whatsoever ye would that men should do to you, do ye even so to them." And again: "Blessed are the peacemakers for they shall be called the children of God."

And we might multiply these scriptures but what we have quoted may suffice for the present. War and destruction in view of these truths is of such a nature that one can readily see that the Spirit of Christ and his message of love and life to men has never penetrated the hearts or lives of the perpetrators of such ruthless and heartless slaughter of men.

To be Christian is to be Christlike, and to be Christlike is to live as he lived and teach as he taught, and in doing this we will meet hatred with love, passion with peace, evil with good, error with truth,-we will cease proclaiming war and will proclaim and live universal peace.

The power of Christ's kingdom is not that which comes by force of arms, neither by conquest of war, but by the power of right doing. His kingdom is attained only through self conquest and altruistic love. Hear Isaiah describe "The work of righteousness shall be peace; and the effect of righteousness, quietness and assurance forever. And the people shall dwell in a peaceful habitation, and in sure dwellings, and in quiet resting places." In a word, the work of right doing brings the fruitage mentioned here by the prophet, therefore if the opposite of this obtains the only legitimate conclusion we can arrive at is that humanity have pursued wrong doing in place of right, and the conditions obtaining are the inevitable result, and if we wish to change this condition we must change the cause producing it.

War exists in the heart of men before it does on the battle field, and so likewise peace must also first dwell in the heart before it can be actualized in the life of men and where that peace resides, there and there alone can Christianity be found. Christianity is a life not an argument, it is a reality not a theory, it is a character not a profession.

The editor should be addressed at 317 N. 19th St., St. Joseph, Mo.

PRISONER'S APPEAL FOR PROHIBITION.

By Samuel Z. Batten, D. D.

One of the heaviest indictments of the liquor traffic and one of the most persuasive appeals for help is a petition signed by 1,008 inmates of the Eastern Penitentiary, in Philadelphia. petition is an appeal to the Pennsylvania Legislature to consider favorably any measure designed to curtail the sale of intoxicating liquors and to do everything to secure prohibition of al-cohol in the State. This petition represents expert testimony and should both arouse the people of the State and move the Legislatio to action.

This movement originated wholly with the prisoners themselves, and it is all the more significant on that account. The inmates edit and publish a little paper called "The Umpire." the issue of March 18, 1914, the editor printed an item concerning the growing sentiment in favor of the prohibition of the liquor traffic. He suggested that a petition for prohibition be circulated in the Eastern Penitentiary, believing that it would generally be signed, and declared that such a petition would carry weight. He said:

"Liquor is the cause of seventy per cent of us being here. It is the cause of eighty-five per cent of parole violations. Let us add our weight to the temperance cause, as a selfish precautionary measure, if for no higher motive. Start the ball a-going, and the writer will secure the signature of an ex-saloon keeper to head the list.

At once letters from inmates came to the editor endorsing the plan, and asking for a chance to sign the petition. In the issue for July 1st an editorial in "The Umpire" said:

Next Saturday, the Fourth of July, the people of this country will celebrate the 138th anniversary of the signing of the Declaration of Independence, marking the birth of Freedom in this great This day has been selected as the most appropriate on which to submit to every inmate of this institution, for his or her approval, a copy of the petition to the Legislature praying for the passing of laws to prohibit the sale of intoxicating liquors in this Commonwealth."

The authorities of the prison granted permission to have the petition circulated on the days named. No pressure of any kind was brought to bear upon any one. But in a short time the names of 1,008 were signed, thus out of a total of 1464 prisoners 1,008, or 68.8 per cent signed it instantly. In an article published in "The Umpire," July 8th, the editor says:

That 68.8 per cent of the inmates of the penalinstitution should place themselves on record as being in rayor of a movement to abolish the cause of seventy per cent of crime is a remarkable thing. That it will have a wonderful influence in bringing about a more favorable opinion of the 'shutins,' there can be no doubt, and as a sociological document it is of far more value than any number of prison statistics.'

The petition, drawn entirely by the prisoners themselves, is as follows:

Senate Copy. To the Senate and House of Representatives of the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania, in General Assembly met: Your petitioners, representing the major portion of the inmates of the Eastern State Penitentiary, of Pennsylvania, respectfully aver:

That they believe fully seventy per cent of crime within the State is directly attributed to the excessive use of intoxicating liquors, and

That many of them have a personal knowledge of its debasing influence as exemplified in their own lives, and

That, believing if the sale of intoxicating liquors was prohibited by the enactment of laws by your honorable body, that the effect would be to reduce crime at least fifty per cent, if not more; they therefore Respectfully pray that you will favorably consider the introduction of any measure having for its object the curtailment of the sale of intoxicating liquors, and use the great power with which you are clothed to secure the passage of an act to prohibit the sale of such intoxicating liquor any where within the bounds of the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania.

We further pray that you will give due consideration to this petition, coming to you as the voluntary deed of a body of earnest men and women, acting entirely on its own initiative, without suggestion from others, and your petitioners will ever pray.

I visited the prison especially to get these facts for The Advocate, and from the warden and from the inmates I have received direct statements that the movement originatd wholly with the prisoners. The petition thus represents expert testimony on this question. It is the cry of men for protection when they are liberated. And it is an appeal in behalf of many others who will come to the same sad end if the liquor traffic continues. These men, of course, all desire their liberty; but many of them fear to go forth into the world with saloons on every hand. They want to redeem their lives, but they want society to give them a chance.

People of America, the hour has come to sound an advance all along the line. Men of the churches, the hour has come to declare that in the name of Jesus Christ as King the liquor traffic must die. --- The National Advocate.

FIRST ROCK TUNNEL.

There is evidence to show that the first rock tunnel was constructed over 2,600 years ago, on the outskirts of Jerusalem. By this means was obtained the admission of water of the spring of Gihon to the pool of Siloam.

Gihon, which is now known as Mary's Spring. lies in the valley of Kedron, and, at the time mentioned, was the only natural spring in the vicinity of David's city. It was separated therefrom by the Ophei Ridge, a mass of rock, so that when enemies appeared before the wall they could cut off this supply and compel the people within to depend upon stored water. In 700 B. C., King Hezekiah sought a remedy for this by constructing a tunnel to bring the waters within the walls. This engineering project is mentioned in 2 Kings, 20:20.

At the time not only tunneling through a rock an untried thing, and one that must be done without much aid in the way of drills and blasting powder such as even the most ameteur workman of today would use, but there was no mariner's compass or other means for following a given direction underground. The distance from the spring to the pool of Siloam is about 900 feet in a straight line, and the hill overhead is about 150 feet higher than the spring.

To penetrate all this the King's workmen possessed tools of bronze, of a description now unknown. Their digging was begun at both ends at the same time. They tried to keep their bearings in a straight line by sighting from outside. They did not maintain a uniform bore, but they did keep the slope of the bottom with astonishing accuracy. The shaft is from two to three feet wide, and from ten feet high at one end diminishes to a foot and a half in the middle.

Sighting from the outside did not prove a very satisfactory procedure. Many places in the tunnel are yet to be seen where headings were abandoned and a start made in a new direction. Even then the tunnel rambles about, and was more than 1,700 feet long before the two ends came together.-Popular Electricity and Modern Me-

MRS. MADGE SIEGFRIED, EDITOR

NOTICE.

All persons sending money to the Woman's Auxiliary for any purpose, including subscriptions to Home and Child Welfare leafs to Children's Home donations, piease forward same to the treasure of the Auxiliary, Mrs. J A. Gardner, 7118, Fuller Ave., Independence Mo. AUXILIARY MRS. J A. Gardner, 7118, Fuller Ave.

Independence Mo. ADVISORY BOARD.

Mrs. S. R. Burgess, President, 1920 Etzel Ave. St. Louls, Mo. Mrs. B. C. Smith, Vice President, 1920 Etzel Ave. St. Louls, Mo. Mrs. B. C. Smith, Vice President, 1920 Etzel Ave. St. Louls, Mo. Mrs. B. C. Smith, Vice President, 1920 Etzel Ave., Louls, Mo. Mrs. B. C. Smith, Vice President, 1920 Etzel Ave., Independence, Mo. Mrs. J. A. Gardner, Treasurer, 711 S. Fuller Ave., Independence, Mo. Tr. S. A. Gardner, Treasurer, 711 S. Fuller Ave., Independence, Mo. Tr. S. Fuller Ave., Independence

, Mrs. M. A. Etzenhouser, 1895 W. Wainut St., Independence, Mo. Mrs. D. J. Krahl, 724 S. Crysler St., Independence, Mo. SUPERINTENEDENTS OF DEPARTMENTS.
HOme and Child Welfare Department, Mrs. H. A. Stebbins, Lami Inwa nome and callu wellare Department. Mrs. H. A. Stebbins, Lamoni, Iowa.

Literary and Educational Department. Miss Lydia Thomas, Lamonics Department, Mrs. Jennie Studley, 17 E. Cottage St., Roxbury, Mass.

Domestic Stepartment, Mrs. Bertha Anderson Hulmes, 64 Sewing and Ald Department, Mrs Edith Cochran. 297 S. Seventernth St., St., Joseph. Mo.

Young Woman's Department, Mrs. J. A. Gardner, 711 S. Fuller Ave., Independence, Mo.

HOSPITALITY.

"Be not forgetful to entertain stranger's. To entertain is to receive hospitably; and to be hospitable we should give attention, be civil, and give care to strangers and be interested in those who enter our homes. If we are really hospitable in our hearts we must forget ourselves and be interested in our visitors.

Our hospitality to those who come within our doors should be divided in three parts—First greeting; second Treating; third, Leaving.

Our manner of greeting will either put them at their ease or otherwise and no amount of attention that follows can quite overcome the effect of the greeting. A cordial, happy greeting not only affects the visitor at the one meeting but brings a warmth to the heart in contemplation.

Second, Treating. The atmosphere of the home should, as Longfellow says, "breathe rest and comfort, and the many chambers seem full of welcome." The guests' needs and comforts should be studied and supplied, the knowledge of which comes from tactful questioning and suggestions.

Everything superflous should be dropped. Through ck of understanding and sympathy we screen ourselves from the public by immediately putting on our company manners and our house in company order, and every-thing is not as it usually is—"when company comes." Even the atmosphere is changed—we provide unusual entertainment to keep our visitor amused. We entertain our young in our company way, never giving them an opportunity to see into our real home life.

We should not suppose that the things we enjoy in our home life cannot be appreciated by those coming into our home and that we must exert ourselves past all recognition to entertain properly.

A small fortune is sometimes considered necessary to hospitality. It is not essential—the essential thing is a generous, helpful, sympathetic cordiality shown in our generous, helpful, sympathetic cordinity shown in our attitude and conversation.

Third, Leaving. When a guest prepares to leave he should be permitted to go, without undue urging to remain, with a pleasant thought, helpful suggestion, and a very cordial invitation to come again.

very cordial invitation to come again.

Our hospitality should be extended through our children. One woman said "I won't let that boy come to play with our children. He is too bad." And it was discovered by another mother that the boy in question had one of the sunniest dispositions of any boy in the neighborhood, though some other inclinations were bad.

If you have more in your home of love, kindness, books, and music it is because you have been favored more than your neighbor and you should and must "pass more than your neighbor and you should and must "pass

And remember always—the real business of life is making a happy home. Everything else is secondary to that; for, when you come to sift the whole chaff of existence everything goes to the winds but the happiness we have had at home.

"PASSING IT ON."

An extract from a letter received from a friend which has given us inspiration and courage and we "pass it on." Mrs. J. A. G.

-:--We have sometimes talked of what the essential things of life are. I told you I wanted to read essential things of life are. I told you I wanted to read some Drummond this winter, so last week I put in on his life before taking up his sermons. (Am glad there is a bit of Scotch in me since reading of him.) This week I read the one on "What is your Life?" He gives first the importance of it in conjunction with the time limit of it. For instance, he claims our lives mean more to us than Methusalah's did to him because our time is so limited. time is so limited.

Suppose I die at thirty, you at sixty and my life is doubly precious because to me a year is just half a year to you. Bringing it finer yet the month left a criminal to live must be more solemn and important than ours at thirty or sixty years and the spending of one month be-comes a tremendous question. Drummond thinks we should judge the spending of our days by this gauge.

It makes me feel we are by far too careful of what we put into our days. As I think of life being only to-morrow for me it seems there would be so many enor-mously big things to crowd into it that petty affairs could mousi big things to crowd into it that perty altairs could not even be given a thought. And by big things I do not mean—leading the Red Cross, nor by petty things—the daily round of necessary duties laid on me. It is just possible the wearing obligations are the little things although I confess, they do limit me sometimes. I quote from Drummond:

"A Shepherd's Tent Removed."

Just before surrise the slopes of the eastern hills would be dotted with Arab tents. And when night fell the traveller in these lands as he lay down to rest—would see the glimmering of their fires and hear the noisy bleating of their flocks. But in the morning when he looked out— both herd and herdsman would be gone. Hours ago, per-haps, the tents had been struck, and the hills would be silent and lonely as if no foot had ever stirred the dew on their slopes before. So man the Bible says, traces out his trackless path through life. He is here today, in the noise of the world's labor, tomorrow when you look for him he is gone. Through the night sometimes his frail tent has been struck and his place is empty and still. His life has left no trace to tell that it was there—except a burnt out fire to show that there a shepherd's tent has been removed" A Tale that is Told.

"The words were written by Moses. In their journeyings the Children of Israel would have many weary, unoccupied moments. No books to relieve the monotony and they would beguile the tedious marches and the long hours by the camp fires at night with the familiar oriental custom of narrating personal experiences in the form of stories or tales. Night after night as this went on the tales of the story tellers would become confused to their audience. first tale, which made a great impression once, would lose its power and the second would be distouched by the ats power and the second would be distouched by the third. Till all would be forgotton and last night's story would be the vivid picture in every mind. But the story teller could not know that tonight another would have his turn and sit in the place of honor, and tell a more vivid tale than he had told before, so his would be forgotten and ignored.

So we spend our lives as a tale that is told— an ill-told, ill-heard, ill-remembered tale.'

I have read "The Shepherd's Tent Removed" and "The I have read "Ine Snephorus" I cent Removed" and "Ine Snephorus" I trade that is Told," many times, and I see how little I get out of my Bible reading. They are just expressions and the beauty is lost on me till some Drummond points it out. I believe I can figure out the important things to go into my little hand-breadth of life although what they may be may change from week to week. Just now those things are-to contrl myself in several ways- temper, gossip, etc. To make mother's and father's lives just as easy and happy as I can, even though it takes most of my time from other things. To be more devoted and earnest in my from other things. To be more devoted and earnest in my prayers. Then it will not be an ill-told, even if it is an illheard, ill-remembered tale.

Do you get tired of my sermons? We have often talked about our homes being in such condition that the Spirit could dwell there always.

Bro. — at prayer meeting last week, said, in referring to the refugees coming to Zion and our homes being open to them, he thought we should sanctify not only our lives but our very houses, that every one who entered would sensibly feel the Spirit of God within. Is it possible

MISCELLANEOUS

CONFERENCE NOTICES.

West Virginia District.—Conference will meet with the Clarksburg Branch the last Saturday and Sunday in September, the 26th and 27th. All members of the district who can should come and help to make the conference a success; and we extend an invitation to all the saints who wish to come.

Francis L. Shinn, Dist. Sec

Lamoni Stake.—Conference will convene at the Ever-green Chapel, October 3 and 4. Branch reports should be in the hands of the secretary not later than September 30.

John Smith, Pres.
C. I Carpenter, Sec.
Southern Michigan and Northern Indiana.—Semi-anual conference of the district will be held at Coldwater, lich., Saturday and Sunday, October 3 and 4. Election of district officers and other matters of business to come before the conference. Branches please send reports and not forget collections for secretary and district expenses. Send same to the secretary at Jackson, Mich., by Oct. 1st speakers of the ministry will be in attendance. All come who can.

G. A. Smith, Dist. Pres. W. P. Buckley, Dist. Sec.

.. Central Michigan District.—Conference will convene with the McIvor Branch at McIvor, Mich. October 17th, at 10:30 a. m. All that can please bring bedding and do not forget well filled baskets.

Geo. W. Burt, Dist. Pres.

Nodaway District.—Conference will convene at ten o'clock. on Saturday, October 10th, with the Sweet Home Branch at their church three and one half miles northeast of Ravenwood, Mo. Please send all reports to secretary e week before conference as per rules and by-laws. Fr. A. Smith has promised to attend if possible, and perhaps Bro. E. L. Kelley will also be there.

W. B. Torrance, Dist. Sec.

Toronto, Ont., District.—Will meet with Owen Sound Branch for annual conference October 3 and 4, 1914. Send credentials to secretary before Sept. 28th. D. B. Perkins, Pres.

Floralice Miller, Sec. Box 340, Dunnville, Ont.

Nauvoo District .--Conference will convene at the Rock Creek Branch, near Advian, Illinois, at 10 a. m., Saturday, October 3rd, and continue over Sunday.

W. H. Thomas, Dist. Sec.

1100 South 7th St., Burlington, Iowa.

CONVENTION NOTICES.

West Virginia District.—Sunday school association will meet at Clarksburg, W. Va., Friday, Sept. 25th at 2:30 p. m. A special invitation is extended to any general Sunday school association officers or field workers who can attend. Joseph Biggs, Dist. Supt.

404 Stealey Ave., Clarksburg, W. Va.

Ohio District.—Sunday school association and conference will be held at Creola, Ohio. Friday Saturday, and Sunday, Sept. 24, 25, 26, 1914. The first meeting at 10:30 Friday morning. This convention and conference will be devoted to educational work entirely. We want a goodly number present and would like to have representatives there from every Sunday school and branch in the district. Be sure and come.

D. R. Winn, Sec.

82 E. Northwood Ave., Columbus, Ohio.

NOTICES.

Notice is hereby given that the appointment of Archibald E. McCord to labor in Nodaway District after October 1st has been canceled at his request.

Frederick M. Smith Sec. Presidency. John W. Rushton, Missionary in Charge.

Independence, Mo., Sept. 14, 1914.

Sackman-Baker,—August 9, 1914, Sr. Madge M. Sackman and Erwin E. Baker, both of Kingston, Mo., were united in marriage, Elder Chas. A. Morton officiating.

REAL ESTATE FOR SALE BY THE PRESIDING BISH-OPRIC.

The following Real Estate is offered to the Saints who may wish to purchase property in Independence, Jackson County, Missouri, and adjacent regions. In addition to this the church owns about $60,000.00 worth of property in this locality (not including church buildings) which is reserved and not for sale. All enquiries should be addressed to E. L. Kelley, Presiding Bishop, Box 125, Independence, Missouri

308 South Fuller Avenue.-5 room house, lot 50x133 ft., street paved, sidewalk, water, electric lights, basement,

- 11, sareet paved, suewais, water, electric lights, basement, cistern, shed. 3½ blocks from Stone Church, $250.01 ½ x
  2. 822 West White Oak St.—5 room house, lot 52 1½ x
  160 ft., paved street, sidewalk, water, gas, eletric lights, cistern, bath. Modern except heat. 4½ blocks from Stone Church, $2300.00.
- Vacant 120 ft.-East Maple Avenue, 1 block from Courthouse square on paved street. $16.00 per foot-
- 4. 1301 North Liberty St.—3 Room house, lot 42½x 106¾ ft., paved street, cistern, $900.

  5. 1233 W. South Ave.—5 room house, ½ block from paved street, lot 53x 120 ft., good well, $900.

  6. Vacant 3 lots 25x120 ft., St. Charles Street, west of
- Spring St., $150.00.
  7. 529 S. Pleasant St.—4 room house, pantry and basement. 42 ft. front, paved street, walks, cistern, city water,
- $1200. Vacant-50x147--on Independence Electric Line, one
- block from Stone Church, paved street, $1800.00. Vacant, Lot no. 19, East Independence No. 2, 126x275
- $150.00. W. Walnut St.-Lot 82x156-4 room house one block from ward school-2 blocks from Stone Church,
- 707 North Cottage.—Lot 50x157 ft., 4 room house—Gas, water, electric lights, bath, $1525.00.
   1220 W. Waldo.—Lot 50x180, 4 rooms, cistern, gas,
- walk, $1400.00. Vacant, North River Blvrd, near College on paved
- reet.—Lot 52x140. Within one block of school, $400.00.

  14. 811 W. South Ave., on corner of Cottage and South
- 811 W. South Ave., on corner of Cottage and South Ave.—6 room house and basement, cistern, sidewalks all in, close to Church, $900.00.
   701 North Cottage.—10 room house, pantry and large bathroom, paved street, sidewalks all in, strictly modern, Lot 68x157 feet, fine location, within one block of school, $3500.00.
- Vacant, southwest corner Fuller and Walnut 50x133, paved streets, sidewalk, all improvements in; fine
- building site. $1100.00.
  17. 2 lots, 100x138 Southeast corner McCoy and Alton Ave, near church, $320.00.
- Vacant Lots No. 106, 107, 108, East Independence,
   Missouri, nearly 3 acres, $520.00.
   5 room house—105 South Willis, Lot 50x133 feet,
- city water, cistern, cellar, shed, barn, $1700.00.
  20. 1403 W. Blue Ave.—4 room house on pay se on paved street,
- 20. 1403 W. Blue Ave.—4 room house on paved street, sidewalk and all improvements in, $1400.00.

  21. Vacant—four 50 ft. lots on Blue Ave., paved street, sidewalk, curbing and all improvements in, $12.00 per foot.

  22. Vacant 55 feet Maple Ave. near Woodland Street graded, sidewalk and all improvements in, $8.00 per foot.

  23. Vacant, 50 feet, corner Maple and Park, street graded, sidewalk and all improvements in, $450.00.

  24. 5 room house, Lot 50x151, Forest and W. Lexington, cistern large becompt. Soil. $4300.00.
- cistern, large basement, fruit, $1400.00.

  25. Vacant, 55 feet, Maple Avenue near Woodland st., graded, sidewalk and all improvements in, $465.00.
- 26. Switching property-Coal yard, feed mill and dwelling located on South Liberty Street and Missouri Pacific Railway (Lexington Branch) consisting of mill, coal sheds, Dwelling is a 7 room house, bath, gas, water, switch. $10,000.00.

27. 2713 Kensington Avenue, Kansas City, Missouri.—
4 room house, lot 40x110 feet, sidewalk and curbing in, graded, good cistern, fruit; one-half block 27th St. car line, excellent neighborhood, rents for $10.00. $900.00.

28. East Independence, 5 room house, 2% acres land, barn, chicken house, cistern, $1800.00.

Prayer of a Blackfoot Chief in the great ceremonial of the Sun Dance reported by McClintock in "The Old North Trail," p. 297.-

Great Sun Power: I am praying for my people that they may be happy in the summer and that they may live through the cold of the winter. Many are sick and in want Pity them and let them survive.

Grant that they may live long and have abundance. May we go through these ceremonies correctly as you taught our forefathers to do in the days that are past. If we our ioretathers to do in the days that are past. If we make mistakes, pity us.

Help us—Mother Earth, for we depend upon your goodness. Let there be rain to water the prairies, that the grass may grow long and the berries be abundant.

O Morning Star: When you look down upon us, give us peace and refreshing sleep.

Great Spirit: Bless our children, friends and visitors through a happy life. May our trails be straight and level before us. Let us live to be old.

We are all your children and ask these things with good

CONVENTION MINUTES.

Southern Nebraska.—Sunday school association met in convention at Wilber, Thursday, July 23, 8:00 p. m., and continued all day Friday. One prayer service, one business session, and three program and institute sessions were held. Some excellent papers were read, good speeches were made, interesting discussions were indulged in, and a most profitable convention adjourned to meet two days prior to the next district conference and at the same place. Blanche I. Andrews, Sec.

Bethany, Nebr.

CONFERENCE MINUTES.

Southern Missouri District.—Conference convened with the Beaver saints, on Saturday, July 25, 1914, at 10 a.m. The assembly was called to order by J. F. Cunningham, Dist. Pres. H. Sparling was chosen to assist in presiding. Benj. Pearson, secretary. Branches reporting: Logan Creek, 60; Ava, 128, gain 3; Woodside 46, loss 2; West Plains 57; Cooter 34,gain 1; Beaver 108, loss 7; Springfield Plulis 97; Cooled organia 1, Desive 100, 1003 (1, printgames 223, gain 2; Mills Spring 22, gain 1; Thayer 35, 108s 1. Ministry reporting: Elders H. Sparling, J. F. Cunningham, G. A. Davis, H. Braun, L. M. McPadden, T. J. Simpson, G. Burgin, C. F. Orr, J. W. Quinly, B. Pearson and A. J. Fletcher. Priest, J. A. Miller.

The report of the committee on by-laws was read, and at length, section by section, and finally adopted with a few minor ammendments. A petition was received from the Beaver Branch asking that provisions be made for the ordination of Roland J. Mendal to the office of a clder and Jacob E. Swegart to that of a deacon. Bor. Swegart was ordained during the conference, but Bro. Mendally called the conference. dal's ordination was deferred for a time at his request.

Preaching during conference by H. Sparling, L. M. Mc-Fadden and G. A. Davis. On Sunday five services were held, including sacrament and social service at 3:30 p. m. A number of isolated saints were present at conference and 25 unwavering testimonies were borne to the truth of this great latter day work. Adjourned to meet at Thayer on Saturday and Sunday before the full moon in October, Benj. Pearson, Dist. Sec.

DIED.

Rains.—Mrs. Amy Loreta Rains was born August 17, 1888, at Jamesport, Mo. Married Dec. 16, 1908, to Bro. Elmer Rains. Died Sept 3, 1914, age 26 years, 17 days. She died a firm believer in the restored gospel of these latter days, but neglected to obey it, and death came upon her unexpected. A few days before her demise she asked her husband in case she did not recover, if at all possible, to have her funeral preached by a Latter Day Saint minister. It was preached Sept. 4th by Bro. E. L. Henson in a Baptist Church near Jamesport and she was layed to rest in the cemetry close by. She leaves to mourn, her husband, little Earnest, about two years brothers and sisters, and a large community of friends.

Griffin.-Mary Griffin was born in Independence Co., Ark., May 8, 1829. She was fatherless at two years and motherless at five. Was married in 1849 to John M. Mackey. There were eight children born to them, 4 boys and 4 girls and of them only 3 survive her, one son and two daughters remain to mourn their loss. She died at Rome, Mo., at the age of 84 years, 4 months, and ten days, after about two and one-half months illness. She was baptized Sept. 7, 1913, by J. W. Dubose and her funeral was preached August 9, 1914, by L. M. McFadden.

-Thos. D. P. Chency was born in Detroit, Mich., April 11, 1850. Died August 11, 1914, at the age of 64 years and 4 months. He leaves a wife, some children and many friends to mourn their loss. He was baptized and confirmed at Fruita, Mesca Co., Calif., Aug. 21, 1900, by M. L. Schmid. He was ordained to the office of an elder December 7, 1901, by J. M. Stubbart, James Kemp and M. L. Schmid. Funcral service at Cana Creek, Col., Seph Hubbard officiating. Burial at Grand Junction, Col.

The editor should be addressed at 317 N. 19th St., St. Joseph, Mo.

small:

Time future is not and may not be; Time present is the only time for thee.

ENSIGN PUBLICATIONS.

And Cher Books for Sale by the Ensign Publishing House.

Bosk of Mornon Dictionary, A comlete pronouncing Dictionary of proper names in the Book of Mornon, with definitions and explanatory notes. Paper, 25c; cloth, 40c; leather.

Dectrinal References. A compilation of references under subject headings of texts connected with the gospel, taken from the Bible, Book of Mormon and Doctrine and Covenants. A very handy reference book. Paper covers, 10c; cloth, 15c; leather. $0.30

Three Bibles Compared. A comparison be-tween the King James, the Revised and the Inspired Versions. Paper covers, 25c, 5 for $1.00; cloth. $0.35

the gospel. Paper covers.....$0.05
The Books and Utah Mormonism in Contrast. This book plainly shows how the Utah church has departed from the teachings of the standard books of the Church, from quotations and reliable testimony. Paper covers, 10c, 3 for .......................$0.25

From Palmyra to Independence. A book of 444 pages. A brief review of the Book of Mormon is given, with many testimonials and affidavits. Paper covers, 60c; cloth .......$1.00

Sabbatarian Theories a Delusion 113 pages. Price, 15c or 2 for.....$0.25

Webster's Business and College Dictionary.
Besides being an up-to-date pronouncing dictionary it contains much other valuable information.
It contains new words up to September, 1911, and the last Government census. Postpaid for....$0.60

Hurlbut's Teacher-Training Normal Les-sons. Paper covers, 35c; cloth.$0.50 Hurlbut's Story of the Bible. Profusely illustrated, 750 pages .....$1.50

Palestine of To-day $1.00 The Christian System $1.00

CAMBRIDGE AND BAGSTER BIBLES.

Order by Number. Cambridge Teachers' edition.
French Morocco, India paper, silk sewed, opens flat, references, concordance, encyclopedia, helps, etc., and yet only % inch thick by 4% by 6%, and weighs only 14 ounces; a very handy book ......$2.00

eather inter and French Bevalte cover $3.55.

OX—Same as H131X, but has Persian Morocco cover $4.50.

French Seal, flexible overlapping, illustrated, self-pronouncing, red under gold edges. Size, 5x76x 11/3.

E16—French Morocco, divinity circuit, red under gold edges, button clasp, 5½x3% .....$1.10

S125—A fine Bible for those who want large type and not so particular about it being small. Long primer type, self-pronouncing, full page illustrations, French Seal, divinity circuit, etc. $2.25

S125/2—Same as S125, except it is patent indexed . $2.50 S126—Same as S125, with button clasp $2.50

Time was, is past, thou canst not it recall;
call;
call;
f65.X—India Paper edition, French Morocic
call;
c

Same as R65X, except binding French Levant and leather lined.._ ..$4,25

NEW TESTAMENTS.

E200—Leatherette cover, red edges .....$0.15
E212—French Morocco, limp, red under gold . .....$0.30

E253—Lambskin, divinity circuity, limp, round corners, red under gold. $0.30 OXFORD BIBLES.

-Persian Morocco, divinity circuit, leather lined to edge, silk sewed, round corners, red under gold edges, black faced type, thin India paper. This is a beautiful little Bible. Because of the thin India paper it is only % of an inch thick.

A model Bible. India paper, black faced minion type, French Morocco, divinity circuit, linen lined, round corners, red under gold edges, 7½x 5¾ inches $2.75

04523-

under gold edges $2.50

The 1911 Bible. Of this Bible the Herald and Prosbyter says: "The 1911 Bible is by far the best translation over given to the English speaking over given to the English speaking over black faced type, bound in large black faced type, bound in French Morocco, flexible, opening flat, round corners, red under gold edges, has beadband and silk marker and 12 maps $2.00

marker and 12 maps $2.00

The 1911 Bible. Printed on genuine Oxford
India paper, only % inch thick, silk
sewed, bound in finest Alaska Seal,
leather lined, round corners, red under gold edges, silk head band
and marker $5.00

OXFORD TESTAMENTS.

021-French grained, red edges 022-Same as 021, with gilt edges ....$0.30

We give such Bibles as are carried in stock, but can supply any Bible on reasonably short notice. The Oxford line of Bibles is very extensive, from which we list a few of the best and most popular ones.

TRACTS.

One dozen copies ..... 100 соріся .. No less than 50 copies at 100 rate.
"Why I Became a Latter Day Saint," by

Elder Joseph Luff.
"Future Punishment," by Elder R. C. Evans.

Evans.

"The Book of Mormon; Evidences of Its Divinity," by Elder R. C. Evans.

"Creed Mating," by Elder I. M. Smith.

"Good News." A tract of tracts on several different subjects by as many writers.

"The Church of Christ," by Elder Edward Rannie.

"Who Was Joseph Smith," by Elder J. W.

Peterson.

"A Glimpse at the Government of God," by Elder Paul M. Hanson.

"Reasons Why. Shall We Hear Them?" Revised edition. By Elder J. W. Peterson.

"Twelve Reasons Why I Believe The Book of Mormon," by Elder Charles Fry.

"Joseph Smith; Was He a Prophet of God?" by Elder K. C. Evans.

"Joseph Smith, was fire a Proplie of God?" by Elder R. C. Evans.

The following at special prices named: "What We Believe," an epitome of the faith of the Church. Per dozen 5 cents, 50 for 20 cents; 100, 55 cents.

"Iteras of Teaching Found in the Book of Mormon." Compiled by the Independence Religio Good Literature Committee. A tract of ten pages. Three for 5 cents; 12 for 15 cents; 100 for $1.00.

"Latter Day Saints; Who Are They?" by Elder T. W. Williams. Three for 5 cents; 12 for 15 cents; 100 for $1.00.

"Is Water Baptism Essential to Saivation?" by Elder Joseph Luff. Three for 5 cents; 12 for 15 cents; 12 for 15 cents; 100 for $1.00.

"Seventy-one Theological Questions." Per dozen, 10 cents; per 100, 60 cents.

10 cents; per 100, 60 cents.

Diary. A handy little book for accurately keeping account of ministerial labor by simply jotting down figures in the proper column, the printed headings supplying the rest. A financial record also is convenient part of the book. This is suitable for all holding the Melchisedec Priesthood. Price ...$0.10 Elder's Diary.

Diary. Arranged similar as the Elder's Diary, but provides for labors connected with the office work of the Priest. Price .....$0.10

Teacher's Diary. Arranged for the duties and labors of the Teacher. Price.

Solution of the Teacher. Solution of the Teacher.

Evanalia Lost. Duet arranged for soprano and tenor or two female voices.

Price. $0.10

Song of Admonition. A song of seven verses, given by the Spirit through Elder Joseph Luff. Suitable size to be fastened in hymnal. Price 5 cents per dozen; per 100.......$0.25

Persuaded, Another song given through Elder Luff. Same size. Price, 5 cents per dozen; per 100......$0.25 Fully of Mermon Post Card. Quotations from the second chapter of Jacob, of the Book of Mormon, condemning polygamy. This is an excellent way to get the position of the church books on polygamy before friends and acquainatances. Price per dozen. per dozen .....

per dozen ..... Rules. Local library rules, per $0.05 Library

S0.25

Home Department Supplies. Leaflet of Instruction No. 2. Per dozen, 10 cents; per 100 ... $0.40

Membership Cards, per dozen, 5 cents; per 100 ... $0.50

Superintendent's Report Blanks, per dozen, 5 cents per 100 ... $3

Member's Quarterly Record Envelopes, per dozen, 6 cents; per 100 ... $0.25 velopes, per dozen, 5 cents; per 100 . $0.25.
Visitor's Report Blanks, per dozen, 5 cents; per 100 . $0.25.
Letter of Invitation, per 100 . $0.20.
Visitor's Canvas Blanks, per dozen, 10 cents; per 100 . $0.40.
Quarterly Report to District Superintendent and Secretary of Local, per dozen, 5 cents per 100 . $0.40.

Address ENSIGN PUBLISHING HOUSE, Independence, Mo.

Lots 50x150 North River Blv'd, on grade, paving in, 6 blocks school. Easy Terms if desired. Mrs. R. T. Smith 1413 W. Short Independence, Mo.

PARTNER WANTED

A brother of good standing, for a well established and profitable, growing business in Independence, Mo. One that can act promptly and is desirons of moving Zionward. Approximately $2,600.00 required. Address "X" ENSISN PUBLISHING HOUSE Independence, Mo.

GINSENG.

The growing of GINSENG.

The growing of GINSENG is a profitable industry, an Agricultural Business with good profits attached. Persons with a small parcel of land can start a good paying business with a small investment that yields good dividends. Send for our booklet, 'The ABC of Ginseng', get our prices, and learn how to better your financial condition. Address.

Address,
Chas. F. Church & Son.
Lamoni,

WAR ATLAS

Cram's Atlas of the war comprising 16 pages 11x14½ and cover, giving fine maps of all the nations of Europe, those in war or of all the nations of Europe, those in war or likely to be especially emphasized. On the two inside cover pages is given the army and navy equipment of all the European nations as well as the United States and Japan. With this Atlas in connection with daily news one may be able to locate the movements of the armies and have a more comprehensive idea of how the war is being ONLY 25 CENTS
Get them of

Ensign Publishing House, Independence, Mo.

W. E. MESSENGER, M. D. Physician and Surgeon. Calls answered day or night. Office and Residence 806 W. Maple Ave. Independence, Mo. Bell Phone 12

Special attention given to Anesthetics

Loose Leaf Sheets

For Local Religio Secretary's Record

Per dozen, 10 cents; per 100 $0.60 If you have not seen them, send for free sample to

ENSIGN PUBLISHING HOUSE, Independence, Mo.

MR & MRS. HARVEY Dr's. of Chiropractic Ki-ro-prac-tic

Phone Bell 5 Office 857 Thouse 755 Room 5, Carl Bld'g, S. E. Square Independence, Mo. Hours 10 to 12,2 to 6, evenings by appointment

UNITED ORDER OF ENOCH HOUSE.

Everybody Welcome, Saints and Strangers No. 102 North River Boulevard, near the Stone-buttelh Best accommodations. Prices reasonable, Bell Phone 613

Chas. A. and Amy T. Gurwell
IN CHARGE

ALEX MCINTOSH Attorney-at-Law

645 Minnesota Ave. Kausas City, Kan. Home phone 493, Bell phone 939 West.

Universal Class Card

Send for sample of the Universal Class Cards, for use in both Sunday School and Religio. The Independence Schools have them in general use.

Price per doz 8 cents, per 100 60 cents ENSIGN PUBLISHING HOUSE,

Have You Planned Your

Independence, Mo.

Summer Vacation?

JUST TAKE AN ALTON TRAIN

"THE ONLY WAY" CHICÁGO

THE HUMMER

Leaves Kansas City Arrives Chicago THE NIGHTINGALE Leaves Kansas City Arrives Chicago 11:20 p. m. 1:15 p. m.

No matter where you wish to go to spend your vacation, our corps of vacation experts will arrange schedules and literaries that will make travel a pleasure to you. Big lake boats and swift resort specials for both near and far Wisconsin and Michigan Resorts, also to Atlantic City and Canadiar resorts.

Ask or write us about our

$56,50 ROUND TRIP RATE Buffalo and Niagara Falls

Which includes meals and berths on the boat for a solid week

Junction City Ticket Office, 9th, Main and Delaware. Both phones Main 542.

W. C. MUELLER, General Agent Passenger Dept.

C. & A. R. R.

RAILROAD TIME TABLES. MISSOURI PACIFIC R. R.

MAIN LINE-EAST BOUND.

| 203 | C & Jonlin Mail | 12 6 3 am | 12 8 am

WEST BOUND. 6 02 a m 6 57 a m 9 32 a m 9 01 a m 2 07 p m 4 51 p m 6 25 p m 201 Joplin to Kansas City 3 St. Louis to California Special 37 Sedalia, and Nevada Local 7 Yast Mail (no stop)

1 Past Mail (no stop) 207 Joplin to Kansas City Express 1 Colorado and St. Joe Express 621 St. Louis Local (all stops)

LEXINGTON BRANCH—EAST BOUND.

WEST BOUND.

23 Sedalia to Kansas City 621 Sedalia to Kansas City

T. A. JOHNSON, Agent, Independence, Mo

www.LatterDayTruth.org

Entered at the Post Office at Independence, Mo., as Second Class

OUR CREED: "ALL TRUTH."

VOL. 25

INDEPENDENCE, MISSOURI, THURSDAY, SEPTEMBER 24, 1914

NO. 39

ARRIGIT FORMS

ZION'S ENSIGN

Published by the Reorganized Church of Jesus Christ of ter Day Saints, every Thursday, at Independence, Mo.,

CHARLES FRY, Editor W. H. DEAM, Bus. Manager

In writing concerning subscriptions, always sive the nam of the Post Office to which your paper has been going, as by so doing the stof hours in looking for it may be avoided.

When desiring a change of address always give the old as well when the store of the stor

ENSIGN PUBLISHING HOUSE, Independence, Mo

THE HARVEST OF THE LORD. The angel comes, he comes to reap The harvest of the Lord! O'er all the earth, with fatal sweep, Wide waves his flaming sword.

And who are they in sheaves, to bide The fire of vengeance, bound?
The tares, whose rank luxuriant pride Choked the fair crop around.

And who are they reserved in store, God's treasure house to fill? The wheat, a hundred-fold that bore Amid surrounding ill.
O King of mercy! grant us power Thy fiery wrath to flee! In thy destroying angel's hour Oh, gather us to thee!

-Milman.

MEMBERSHIP IN THE CHURCH OF JESUS CHRIST. ITS NECESSITY AND ADVANTAGES.

Membership in the church is held by many with varying degrees of appreciation and with resultant blessings proportionate with the faithfulness and diligence of the service rendered, while many others, though acknowledging a faith in God and the gospel, stand aloof from the Church, holding the thought that a moral upright life as pertaining to their fellow men will secure them all necessary blessing in time and eternity, and that the Church offers no advantages not found outside. This latter class accept Jesus Christ as the Son of God and the greatest Teacher which ever came before the world, and while holding his moral precepts in high esteem seem to overlook the example he set and the teachings he gave relative to association with him in the Church and kingdom of God. It would seem that even a casual reading of the Scriptures would convince such that a life whose righteousness is measured only by the common social standard is incapable of attaining all that is possible under the gospel in this world, and leaves it unprepared for the demands of the future world, and without hope in the great promises of God.

Christ the Example.

God said of his Son: "Behold, I have given him for a witness to the people; a leader and commander to the people." (Isaiah 55:4.) As a witness he testified of that which he was commanded of God, and his works were also done under the direction of his Father. As a leader he set an example in his life and works which man was to follow, saying, "I am the way." If any earthborn being could reach his highest possibilities and come into full favor with God without observing the ordinances of the gospel by which membership in the Church could be secured surely Jesus was that one, for his life was without stain and his dealings with his fellow men above reproach. Can the moral man claim a greater morality than he? Can any man be more honest and upright and liberal in his dealings with others? Yet Jesus found it necessary to observe the baptism taught by John, and showed his leadership by setting the example of obedience.

Jesus journeyed many miles from Galilee to the place where John was baptizing in Jordan "to be baptized of him," which shows that he recognized the necessity of this initiatory ordiance into the kingdom. It seems that John hesitated knowing that the applicant was the Son of God, but Jesus answered, "Suffer it to be so now: for thus it becometh us to fulfill all righteousness." Here is the testimony of Jesus that this ordinance was necessary in order to fulfill all righteousness; he had fulfilled a part of the law of righteousness before but not all, nor could be fulfill the whole law of God without observing this part, and surely the obedience required of him in his holy life was necessary for other men who were less holy than

The Case of the Rich Young Man.

A young ruler of wealth humbly asked of Christ what he should do to inherit eternal life and having been pointed to the commandments embody-ing the moral law said: "All these have I observed from my youth." Here was an upright man, whose righteousness elicited the approval of the Lord for "Jesus beholding him loved him," (Mark 10:21), but Jesus did not say to him that his uprightness was sufficient to bring him into a fulness of eternal life, but said: "One thing thou lackest: go thy way, sell whatsoever thou hast, and give to the poor, and thou shalt have treasure in heaven: and come, take up the cross, and follow The one thing essential for this moral man me." was to get rid of the object of his pride which was his wealth and set his heart upon doing the whole law as exemplified in Christ to "come, take up the cross, and follow me," which would have led him through the waters of regeneration and made him a member of the body of Christ. This testimony of Jesus should forever set at rest the erroneous claim that a man is alright for this world and the next by merely living up to the moral law.

The Vine and the Branches.

"I am the true vine, and my Father is the husbandman. Every branch in me that beareth not fruit he taketh away; and every branch that beareth fruit, he purgeth it, that it may bring forth more fruit. Now ye are clean through the word which I have spoken unto you. Abide in me, and I in you. As the branch can not bear fruit of itself, except it abide in the vine; no more can ye, except ye abide in me. I am the vine, ye are the branches: He that abideth in me, and I in him, the same bringeth forth much fruit: for without me ye can do nothing. If a man abide not in me, he is cast forth as a branch, and is withered; and men gather them, and cast them into the fire, and they are burned." John 15:1-6.

The vine is here used to illustrate several important truths of which we may note the following: 1. The life which is resident in Jesus Christ cannot be imparted to man except as he shall be united to him in a perfect union as the branch is united to the vine, 2. Apart from Christ a man 'can do nothing" as to bearing the fruits designed of God. 3. A man must be in full communion with Christ and freely partake of his life and strength in order to bear fruit in such quantity as will be approved of God. It must be apparent also that one who has not been united with Christ, (Paul says we are "baptized into Christ,"-Rom. 6:3) must become united in order to fulfill the divine requirement of bearing fruit. This instruction makes it plain that the moral man who is outside of Christ cannot possibly attain to the proper standard of character and bring forth the fruits by which he will prove his right to a fullness of eternal life in the kingdom of God.

No Cleansing From Sin Outside of Christ.

No man is without sin in some degree and no sinful man can dwell in the presence of God for it is only "the pure in heart" who shall see God. Cleansing from sin is through Jesus Christ who "taketh away the sin of the world" from those only who come into covenant relationship with him. Paul says "he became the author of eternal salvation unto all them that obey him," and again "How shall we escape, if we neglect so great salvation; which at the first began to be spoken by the Lord, and was confirmed unto us by them that heard him: God also bearing them witness, both with signs and wonders, and with divers miracles, and gifts of the Holy Ghost, according to his own will?" was prayed that his disciples might be sanctified wough the truth, and Peter wrote to the saints, "Seeing ye have purified your souls in obeying the truth through the Spirit," etc. By obedience to the commandments and acceptance of Jesus Christ divine mercy is secured and the man is "born again" into a new life in which the Holy Spirit operates for his complete cleansing. Outside of Christ this cannot be. Apart from Christ a man though honorable and upright in the things of the world, cannot attain the sanctification essential to an abiding place with him.

The Gift of the Holy Spirit.

The gift of the Holy Spirit is promised to those who are first born of water in obedience to the commandments and thus become associated with Christ in his kingdom. That Spirit "the world cannot receive," but only those who love the Lord and "keep my commandments," so whatever blessings it brings to man are accessible only to those who are in Christ. We would not imply that the Spirit of God does not work outside the body of Christ, for we are taught that it "lighteth every man through the world that hearkeneth to the voice of the Spirit," but its presence as an abiding gift in working out the divine purpose of God in each individual in preparing him for celestial glory is reserved to those who have taken up their cross and by covenant become followers of the lowly Nazarene.

Among other things specified in the work of that Spirit are "to teach you all things, and bring all things to your remembrance," to testify of Christ, to "guide you into all truth," to "show you things to come," it enlightens the mind, and quickens the inner man, and is the power by which a man may know God and Jesus Christ which the Lord says is "life eternal."

The Holy Spirit in its work among the members of Christ's body brings other gifts such as wisdom, knowledge, faith, healing, working of miracles, prophecy, discerning of spirits, tongues, and the interpretation of tongues, (1 Cor. 12:8-10). Since the gift of the Holy Spirit cannot be received by those outside of Christ the other gifts which come by its presence cannot be received either, and thus the man who depends upon his righteousness being sufficient for his salvation and eternal life suffers loss in this world, being unable to receive these gifts. A careful consideration of the effect of each gift upon a human life will reveal the extent of his loss.

Paul also speaks of other results coming from the working of the Holy Spirit, which he calls the "Fruit of the Spirit," and which he mentions as "love, joy, peace, longsuffering, gentleness, goodness, faith, meekness, temperance." These qualities may be held by those outside of Christ in some degree, in common with all mankind, but under the influence of the Spirit which comes to those in Christ they are developed in more abounding degree, thus multiplying the happiness of the children of God and preparing them for the greater inheritance in the future life.

The Whole Gospel Necessary to Eternal Life.

For a man to fulfill the purposes of his Creator and secure a full redemption in the kingdom of God he must make an application of all the gospel principles, and have place in the body of Christ, which Paul says is the Church. An observance of the moral precepts without the spiritual requirements and ordinances cannot bring to man a fulness of glory, though the Scriptures clearly teach that every man will be rewarded according to his works. The upright man will receive a reward proportionate with his uprightness, though if he should fulfill his obligations to God as well as to his fellow men his reward would be immeasurably greater. The first and great commandment is to love God and keep his commandments, and "the second is like unto it," which is love toward man. Can the man who keeps only the second commandment hope to receive a reward equal with him who keeps both, especially since the first is held to be greater than the second?

-Alice Cary."

Membership in the Church of Jesus Christ which is held in honor and faithfulness brings a multitude of blessings in this life of which the man outside cannot know; and he comes under the promise of eternal life in the celestial kingdom of God. Under the influence of the Divine Spirit a man will discover faults and sins in his life which before were little suspected, and will be encouraged to seek higher standards of character thus going on unto perfection. He will be fitted for the highest blessings which God has to give, and will have part in the first resurrection to dwell with Christ and ultimately enter into a fulness of glory.

SPECIAL COLLEGE DAY WORK, OCTOBER 4, 1914.

The annual date set apart to take contributions in the interest of Graceland College is near and it is but right that everyone should be prompt in responding to the call made by the church in General Conference for contribu-tions in the interest of education on this date.

then in the interest of education on this date.

The help is greatly needed, the work of properly educating the young to which it is devoted is an important and necessary one, and by heartily and prayerfully responding to the call upon this annual date,—the first Sabbath in October—all will be specially blessed and the church greatly benefitted in its useful and essential educations.

To avoid interfereing with other church work and also the unpleasant work of weekly or monthly reminding the Saints and friends of this in connection with other essential features requiring aid, the college work was limited to one day in the year and all should be prompt to see that the day set apart for the work is not overlooked, and that no other business shall be permitted to substitute the college work upon this day or interfere with the same.

By action of the General Conference of the church, April, 1914, it will be noticed that the financial work of the College was placed under the Bishopric of the Church. This will require the special attention and oversight in their respective fields of every bishop and bishop's agent in the church in the interest of the college upon this day, and these officers should confer with district and branch officers prior to the date of taking the collection, so far as possible, so that the business may be promptly looked after upon the day and reported at an early time, giving name of branch and district contributing, or name of per-son contributing when not in branch, so that the funds may be forwarded at once to the presiding bishop's office, to the help of the college. Districts near the college may file with the college treasurer, S. A. Burgess, Lamoni Jowa.

and he furnish duplicate statement to the bishop's office.

It is with confidence in the readiness of the Saints and helping friends that we send forth this hurried call, knowing the work is of the Lovd and that all of his chil-dren should be ready helpers, and we commend to each the instruction of the Apostle to Titus: "This is a faithful saying, and these things I will that thou affirm constantly, that they which have believed in God might be careful to maintain good works. These things are good and profitable unto men."

With greetings to the Master's helpers we are very respectfully.

E. L. Kelley. E. A. Blakeslee. Presidi Bishopric.

Independence, Mo., P. O. Box 125, Sept. 18, 1914.

INDEPENDENCE ITEMS.

At eleven o'clock Sunday morning Bro. L. E. Hills preached an instructive sermon, first reading the parable of the sower and the seed, using for the basis of his remarks the explanation of the parable as regards the nature of the seed and its application. The seed is the word of God, and the word of God is not confined to that found in the Bible entirely, but includes God's utterances in both ancient and modern times, and he referred to some of the latter that has reference to the gathering to Zion, saving all should make an effort to come to Zion, but all things should be prepared beforehand, they should "prepare the way before them." Previous to the sermon Sister Irene Brackenbury sang a solo, in a clear sweet voice, entitled "The Good Shepherd."

"The Good Shepherd."

In the evening Bro. T. J. Sheldon continued his instructive lectures on the Book of Mormon.

Sr. W. M. Aylor returned Tuesday morning from Bell-flower, Mo., where she had been called to attend the funeral of Clinton Aylor, father of Apostle W. M. Aylor, who died September 17th. Bro. W. M. Aylor was not able to attend the fothers for the control.

who dued September Prin. Bro. W. M. Aylor was not able to attend his father's Inneral.

The sermon preached by President Joseph Smith on September 6th will appear in the Ensign for October 1st. If the readers take the same interest in reading it that a large congregation did in hearing it delivered its publication will be a properly the properly of lication will not be in vain by any means.

lication will not be in vain by any means.
There has been an effort, the last two years especially, on the part of the Woman's Civic Improvement Club of Independence to induce the citizens to strive to make Independence beautiful, and on behalf of the club Mr. Frank J. Zaun offered last year and this year $100 in prizes for the best kept lawns, and both last year and this the first prize of fifty dollars went to Mr. and Mrs. Gerky, corner of Spring and West Lexington Streets, not far from the Ensign office. In consequence of the context there were many beautiful yards in Independence, and those who were not successful in leading either of the prizes of $50, $25, $15, by $10, have the satisfaction of knowing they have not only boutlified their premises, but have helped to beautify the whole city. to beautify the whole city.

Some time ago, through a disagreement of James A. Hedrick with others of the Church of Christ (known as the Hedrickite Church) Mr. Hedrick was expelled from the church and removed from the Board of Trustees of Mr. Hedrick sought redress by applying the temple lost. The suit created great interest, not only with the Hedrickites but with many of the Reorganization and the Utah Church people, on account of the Temple Lot being involved. A local paper stated that the commercial value of the lot was about $5000, but in sentiment it was valued at millions, and that it was reported that the Utah church would give five million dollars for it. A compromise was effected in which Mr. Hedrick was reinstated with about the same responsibilities as before At first the judge said the court could not settle their spiritual difficulties, but the property interests of the Temple Lot brought it under the jurisdiction of the court.

INDEPENDENCE, SECOND BRANCH.

The attendance at Sunday school was very much in-creased, also the eleven o'clock preaching service was well creased, also the eleven o'clock preaching service was well attended. Apostle J. W. Rushton was previously announced as the speaker, but was unable to fill the appointment. Bro. James Foulks, of the local priesthood, was called upon to occupy. The speaker intimated that he did not expect to fill Bro. Rushton's place. He used for a subject, "Why are we Latter Day Saints?" In answer to this he read a part of 1 Corinthians 12 chapter, and gave many reasons why. many reasons why.

At the evening hour Elder J. A. Roberts of the missionary force was the speaker. Having read the 27th chapter of Matthew with other references, the recognition of Christ as the Son of God and his mission work to the world was explained to the edification of those present.

At the Religio last Friday evening the number present was 117. The program was given by Sr. A. K. Dillee and her normal class. For the program next Friday evening a debate has been scheduled to take place by four persons. Under the present management our local is trying to cooperate with the ailied forces and gain the victory. Visitors are always welcome.

G. W. T.

ST. JOSEPH, MO., FIRST BRANCH.

ST. JOSEPH, MO., FIRST BRANCH.

Greumstances not of our choosing have conspired to keep "ye correspondent" out of your columns for some time, during which a good many things of interest to the work have transpired and are now past history. Among them were the splendid sermons delivered here by Patriarchs Frederick A. Smith and J. W. Wight, subsequent to the Stewartsville reunion, from which they were returning. We are a harmoch have been best with the were returning. We as a branch have been busy with the usual work pertaining to it, and we begin to experience a reviving influence in all the departments of the organization here.

We are beginning to recover from the depressing effects of the hot weather and the delightful autumn season is putting new life and enthusiasm into our workers and we look for splendid results.

On last Sunday our Sunday school showed a gratifying increase in attendance and interest, and our superintend-ent's face wore a happy smile in consequence. Attendance at a'l the services was good. In the morning Evan-gelist Wm. Lewis was an interesting speaker. Bro. Lewis is beloved by the Saints here and is always received with picasure. The evening sermon was by our pastor, and was good, kindly and wholesome food for us. Bro. Fry is good, kindly and wholesome food for us. Bro. Fry is now pleasantly located near the church and he and his family are faithful and untiring workers in the branch. Bro. Fry preached in the morning at Wyatt Park Mission. At six o'clock p. m. occurred an incident that is always of interest to us, it was the baptism, by our pastor, of Sr. Ura Scott, the young wife of Bro. Leland Scott. We heartily welcome this dear one to our midst and we are sure she will be a valuable helper among the young people who are workers for the Marter. Our surjourners. ble who are workers for the Master. Our evening prayer service was blessed by the presence of the Holy Spirit and was of benefit to all we believe.

Our district conference will convene with the Second St. Joseph Branch, October 3rd. We hope for a good attendance and a profitable time. Bro. Wm. Lewis began last evening at the Third Branch a series of sermons which last evening at the Third Branch a series of sermons which will continue over Thursday.

Efforts are being put forth by those interested in the work at Wyatt Park Mission to obtain a lot upon which to erect a more commodious building, as their present quarters are exceedingly cramped. This is a move in the right direction and we hope it will meet with the success it deserves and will receive the support of every member in the city. in the city.

The Religio is awaking from its hot weather lethargy and will hold a rally meeting next Friday night. A nice program will be given and the rest is a secret. We hope everybody will come and discover it. "Sociability" will be the watchword.

Geraldine, little daughter of Bro. and Sr. S. M. Brooks.

was baptized recently by Bro. Fry.
On September 3rd little Marion Evelyn came to gladden the home and hearts of Bro. and Sr. J. O. Worden. We regret that circumstances have made it necessary for Bro. Worden to remove with his family to Kansas City, in the near future.

OMAHA, NEBRASKA.
"When no low thoughts of self intrude, Angels adjust our rights,
And love that seeks its selfsh good
Dies in its own delights."
Rally day will be held the 4th of October, instead of the 11th, as mentioned in last items

the 11th, as mentioned in last items.

The Sunday school and Religio district conventions of Northeastern Nebraska will be held at Blair, Friday, Oct. 9th. We hope and pray our workers will endeavor to make these methings a miness. If you cannot come, encourage some one else to attend.

Bishop Richard Bullard gave us good instruction on Sunday, Sept. 13th, and Apostle J. A. Gillen Sunday evening, Sept. 20th. Loraine, daughter of Mr. George A: and Sr. Lena Justeson, was blessed under the hands of Brn.

nig, Sept. 20th. Loraine, daughter of Mr. George A: and Sr. Lena Justeson, was blessed under the hands of Brn. Bullard and H. A. Scott.

The prayer meetings have been fairly well attended, but many miss the blessings on account of absence. A prophecy was delivered at prayer meeting Wednesday evening, giving words of encouragement to R. W. Scott, and others of the priesthood, also admonished the Saints that jealousy, criticism, and other antagonistic feelings should banshed from our midst.

banshed from our midst.

A few of our number attended the Pisgah reunion, and enjoyed the excellent sermons by E. L. Kelley, Heman C. Smith, C. A. Butterworth, J. A. Gillen and others, also the very interesting and instructive Woman's Auxiliary work in charge of Sr. R. S. Salyards.

"How much we take, how little we give!
Yet every life is meant
To help all lives; each man should live For all men's betterment.

345 Omaha Nat. Bank Bldg.

SEATTLE.

SEATTLE.

Our worthy minister in charge, Bro. F. M. Sheehy, has tired of walking the ionely path of single life and concluded to get a helpmate which he found in the person of Sr. Emma Beebe, of San Jose, formerly of Council Bluffs, Iowa. The happy event occurred in San Jose, Cal., Sept. 10, at 5 p. m. May this happy union prove a blessing to all concerned is our earnest wish. All the particulars have not reached us yet.

We visited Everett, Sunday, where we held services afternoon and night. We were amply aided by Bro. Wm. Johnson who had held cottage services during the week. Bro. C. Oliver kindly accompanied us to the train after service—a kindly act to a stranger in a strange city. Bro. Oliver is related to the Craig family.

service—a kindly act to a stranger in a strange city. Bro. Oliver is related to the Craig family.

The Sunday's services in our own church were as usual quite good. Bro. Holman spoke at night and the pastor ocupied the morning hour. Our services hereafter at Everett will be at 11 a. m. and 3 p. m., so that we can be in Seattle at night, in compliance with general wish. After over seventy days of dry weather our winter rains

e in Seattle at hight, in compinance with general wish.

After over seventy days of dry weather our winter rains ave commenced. We can tell what we think of it later have commenced. on, but are beginning to learn the necessity of a raincoat, an umbrella and rubbers and a brave heart to attend properly to our pastoral work. We lack some of these ele-

We are anxious to open missions in other parts of the we are anxious to open missions in other parts of the great city of Seattle or any of the adjoining towns. If openings can be had let us know. The message is im-portant, the time is short, so let us be up and at work. Don't wait for the large opportunities, but use the small ones as they come, there are but few large ones in this western country.

J. M. Terry.

102 North 39th St., Seattle, Wash., Sept. 17.

CORRESPONDENCE

warmerward warmermermer Aalborg, Denmark, Sept. 2.

Editor Ensign:—The elders in this field are grateful to know that we are being remembered by the Saints in the home-land as we feel as never before that we need to be directed by Him who holds the destiny of all in his

The Ensign made mention of all the elders in this field with the exception of Bro. John H. Hanson, who is also laboring in Sweden. He was when last heard from in Gottenborg where he expected to baptize some in the near

The breaking out of war, so suddenly, and to many so unexpectedly, almost caused a panic, which however, now has abated, to some extent. Yet the people still feel amazed because of the terrible calamity that has hefallen the nations, but are beginning to take it with more calm ness; and it is hoped that the Scandinavian countries may not become directly involved.

It sometimes seems as if it would be wisdom for the

It sometimes seems as it it would be wisdom for the American Elders to return home and let operation cease until such time when we shall find better opportunities than at the present, as now people seem to find it almost impracticable to give anything but the war their thoughts and consideration. Yet we have no desire to desert our post or shrink from duty. The papers contain information to the effect that the U.S. are specified exceed the second to the effect that the U. S. are sending several transports to convey Americans home, but whether the Elders in this mission should avail themselves of the opportunity that will be afforded, and would be justified in so doing, is a question not as yet decided, but we trust to be directed for the right.

Some fears are entertained that Denmark may yet be Some rears are entertained that Denmark may yet be involved in the war but we hope not, as it is bad enough as it is. Nearly all kinds of business is affected and men and women are thrown out of employment while prices on the necessities are very high, though the fabulous prices reached, on some things, immediately on the outbreak of the war could not be maintained. It was an order to the desire for gread on the next of Some reevidence of the desire for greed on the part of some, regardless as to how it would affect their fellow men.

I found it impracticable to communicate with Bro. A.

Kippe in Germany through correspondence in the English language, as all mail crossing the border is now inspected by German officials and anything not written in their lanby German officials and anything not written in their language stands no chance of being forwarded. I secured the help of a sister who writes German, and had her write a few lines for me, and also asked Bro. Kippe to write me in his own language, and the result was that I had a card from him a few days ago. It brings the information that he and family are finding conditions very trying. He had for some time received no mail from America, and his family allowance sent by Bishop Kelley had not reached them, hence they found themselves upon the verge of staryation. verge of starvation.

I also learn from this writing that quite a number of our small membership in that country are in the war. At Mangschutz, Schlesien, all of the brethren are in the war, only the sisters and children are at home, and this being not far from the borders where hostilities are going on. At Hanover three of the brethren are in the war and at Brunswick two had gone and others were expected to follow. At this place the Saints had been compelled to give up the hall where they were holding their regular branch meetings, not being able to pay the rent because of the hard times. Bro. Kippe was to be in Klein Roshen, Caulan, the Sunday following the date of writing, where he was to confirm two young men, baptized a while ago by Priest Robert Smolny, and as I understand Bro. Kippe's writing, Bro. Smolny and one of the young men were to leave the following Tuesday, also to enter he military service.

We hope still to be remembered by the people of God, trusting the Almighty may overrule for the good of his cause.

In gospel bonds, H. N. Hansen.

Vesselsgade 7, Copenhagen, Denmark.

Jerusalem, Pal., Box 91, French Post, August 13, 1914.

Editor Ensign:—With the European wars at hand, and Turkey taking every mother's son for the army, this city presents a dangerous aspect. Last Friday the Mussellmen made a demonstration against the Jews in front of the Citadel. The governor however quickly suppressed it before any blood was shed. There is hardly a Mussellman who does not carry a gun in his pocket, or who does not have a long dagger strapped to his belt. The Jews know this, and they live in fear every time there is anything that occurs to stir up the Mussellmen.

We have been told that America is sending six dreadnoughts over here at forced draft to care for the Americans who may be in dangerous places, or who may want to go home. The American Consul has warned us to stay in Jerusalem, and to make no trips outside of the city, because of the danger of an uprising among the Mohomedians.

We hardly know what is going on in Europe, only that war has been declared by certain governments and that there are strong possibilities of Turkey getting into the fray. The Turkish Government, during war times, keeps a strong censorship on news. They will not permit the Jews to print any Reuter telegrams. Anyone of the Turkish subjects that are caught carrying a Reuter telegram is put in prison. The only telegrams we get come through Constantinople. And all of them are either favorable to Turkey or to her Allies. So we wait in suspense from day to day for news of the European war, and the suspense is dreadful. American vessels will be plying between Egyptian and Syrian ports, and we will then get papers that will give us authentic news of the government officials and the contents are being greedily devoured.

The Austrian and French Post officials are not cashing any U. S. money orders. The German and English banks are only giving 10 per cent of the money invested. Provisions are running sky high, and if this condition continues for a month or two we will need to take the green olives off the trees, and treasure each one, as a gift of Providence in time of need. However, we do not wish to be depleted as calamity howlers. We have enough food to last at least three weeks even if we haven't much cash to purchase more.

During the last two weeks the Jews and Mohomedans have been parading in bands from house to house collecting money for the families of those who go to war. The soldiers get no pay. Neither do their families. The soldiers must provide for their families as best they can. Each recruit was obliged to supply himself with six days' rations, after which the government would meet their needs, but this does not signify that they get sufficient food and protection to keep them in good health. It is a deplorable situation. The business men and money changers have refused old metalics (value of U. S.

It is a deplorable situation. The business men and money changers have refused old metallics (value of U. S. penny) and this has caused great distress to the poor of Jerusalem,—and they are many. Many of the old Jews come here to die by proxy. They also live here, and pray here by proxy. The Jewish people reverence the place so much that they are willing to pay for persons to be sent here for the purpose just mentioned. Each mail day the poor Jews line up at the Austrian P. O. to get their proxy money.

There is very little religious sentiment among the Jews. It is all national, and every feast or fast that they have is indication of their patriotism and loyalty toward their nation. The money-changers are poluting their Holy City as they did in olden times. Jike "Wall Street" they control the money situation. They lower and raise the value of things as they like. The money-changers were the first to refuse the old metalics at their real value, only giving one-third their value. They kept this up until they made a big haul, then the government ordered a stop. There was sufficient obtained however to give the government a "rake off." We call it "Back-sheeck." The government will do anything for back-sheeck. In fact it is run on the back-sheeck plan. You can have a man put in prison released, regardless of the greatness of the crime, by giving back-sheeck. We call it graft in America; but the graft is carried on more openly here. Everyone expects back-sheeck, to answer questions, to show where a certain place is, or to pick up something for you. Even additional metalies as back-sheeck. The curriage drivers furnish themselves with back-sheeck before counting out the company's money. This is detestible to us Americans. All Americans are looked upon as millionaires, and the order is to floore them out of every cent they can. And many those we are obliged to fuss over a metalic because we do not wish to be fleeced, but are willing to pay a reasonable price for things. Bro. and Sr. Jenkins have solved the problem and refuse to be skinned. Elder Greenc, Sr. Koehler and I are learning how to do it, but it is a costly experience.

The natives seem to be a helpless class compared with

The natives seem to be a helpless class compared with Americaus. Those who belong to the churches expect the churches to keep them. The Greek Catholic Church furnish food and rooms. The Romans do likewise. And it is a fact that some of the Protestant churches pay the natives to attend their services so they can make a good showing, another use for "back-sheeck." We have none to offer them, and consequently we have but few strangers at our services. The situation here along religious lines is most peculiar. I doubt if there is a place in the whole world where the same condition exsts. Invitations, books and tracts have been sent out time after time, and apparently it has not proven effective. The native is a Christian because of the tips he gets and not because he can benefit himself spiritually.

The Mohomedans will not come to our services. The Jews are just as reluctant. But I am becoming more convinced that our work here will be a preparatory work with the Jewish people. They may not be many to accept of the work, but they must be given a chance to hear the gospel. Some one may be raised up among them to guide their cring feet.

guide their erring feet.

The school work is progressing slowly but surely. A new class of 28 Jewish boys and girls were added to our school last Monday. Most all of the English schools in Jerusalem oblige their scholars to study from the Naw Testament. This is not desirable to the Jew. We have not forced this upon them, and the effect has been most satisfactory.

Elder Greene has just returned from Lebanon. He states that there is a fine opportunity there for our work in Kourn and other towns.

Bro. and Sr. Jenkins, Sr. Koehler and I are striving to do what we find to do, be it ever so little.

In gospel bonds, Elder H. Arthur Koehler.

Papeete Tahiti, Society Islands, Aug. 17.

Dear Ensign—Because of your interest in these people living in this part of the world and the work of the Lord in gathering them into his fold, I will try to write a few lines occasionally. Also give some of the evidences of lines occasionally. Also give some of the evidences of their identity with Israel as seen in similarities of customs, traditions, physcal features, etc. After our arrival at Papeete the principal city of the principal island, Bro. Savage and I boarded a small sail

After our arrival at Papeete the principal city of the principal island, Bro. Savage and I boarded a small sail boat and at about ten o'clock sailed out of the pass into the great deep, bound for the Puomotu group of islands about two hundred miles to the northeast.

two hundred miles to the northeast. We had a native captain in charge of the boat, who held the steering wheel. I slept or tried to sleep on some crated merchandise near by. The second morning when they awoke and should have been in sight of land and were not, some one asked the captain where we were, and he was not able to tell us. We found he had sailed seven hours in an opposite direction. We were lost at sea. Not a pleasing prospect I assure you. To sail the wrong direction would carry us out into the broad expanse of the sea in which we might perish of hunger or storm. The combined council of all on board advised to turn the boat to the north. About another day in this direction landed us inside the lagoon at the village of Manau.

I cannot speak of the beauty of these islands as I can of the mountainous island of Tahiti; these being low corn islands, not more than ten feet above sea level at the highest point. Hardly any soil except that formed by the falling cocoanut leaves. Practically no trees but the cocoa palm.

The Saints met us at the landing. I may remark here that the L. D. S. Church is the only church on the island and that there are scarcely any persons residing there

Their old church with a roof of braided palm leaves was thought no longer adequate; and they had purchased lumber for a new one. Bro. Savage and I at once set to work with their help to erect it. I at once saw their talent with tools. They were very apt. Neither were they afraid of work. I cannot say yet whether their industrious propensity is general or constant. I must say however that they are very anxious to learn.

As soon as we landed they took us to the church and gave us a formal reception. This is a set custom; and like the law of the Medes and Persians never changes. Their singing while rather weird and curious does not lack in harmony. Just try to flat one sixteenth note and see about half the congregation turn and smile at the mistake of the white missionary. Will not the development of these and other talents among them be causing them to blossom like the rose? At least I have told them so. One custom similar to the Indian is the holding of the last note of a song, sometimes ten to twenty beats. I think instrumental music could be successfully taught. Would also draw in the young people not of our church.

Your brother in Christ,

Xour brother in Christ, A. H. Christensen.

Decatur, Nebr., Sept. 10.

Dear Ensign:—I have been thinking for some time that I would write and tell my brothers and sisters in different parts of the world how the heavenly Father has blessed me.

I was afflicted with epilepsy for a number of years. I grew from bad to worse and at last my dearest friends were compelled to think that my time was at hand. On night I dreamed that I was assembled with the Saints in prayer service. Bro. Oscar Case was present and during the session he arose and delivered a prophecy to me. I was told that the time had come for me to be heated. That if I would send for the elders and be administered to, then live as humble and faithful as I could for one month and be administered to again that I would be healed. My parents didn't believe that I would be healed.

because I had been administered to so many times and gotten no relief. But I had perfect faith in this promise. After I was so low that they thought the Lord was going to take me to himself, they sent to Omaha for Edlers J. R. Sutton and J. M. Baker. At the end of the month Edlers Hale W. Smith and J. M. Baker came and administered to me. My convulsions ceased. It has been nearly seven years since I received this blessing. No human tongue can tell how thankful I feel and to God be all the praise.

I am that Ethel that was so sorely afflicted with epilepsy, and no doubt many of you will remember of writing those consoling verses in my little album that Sr. Rogene Smith took to Independence.

When seventeen months old I had a hard spell of sickness that caused me to be paralized in my right side. My hand is withered and my foot is so lame that I can scarcely cripple around in the house. My heart goes out to God in prayer with faith that he will heal me every whit.

Our little branch in Decatur is doing nicely. We are only a few in number as so many of the Saints have moved away, but God has blessed us in our efforts. Our prayer meetings are very spiritual and we often have the gift of prophecy. The Lord told us a few months ago that there was to be an ingathering of Saints here that would be as pure as the little babes in our arms. Said that he had planted his work here and if we were faithful it would prosper and grow until the coming of the Lord. So it makes us feel encouraged and we are striving in our weakness to do the best we can.

Bro. Alvin Knisley delivered an effective street series here in June. More recently he has preached in Blutz, Bennington, Fremont and Wisner. Last Sunday he baptized two young ladies at Wisner. One was a school teacher. He was accorded unusual honors while there, preaching in the Congregational Church Sunday evening by invitation of the pastor who told him the pulpit was open to him any time he returned. Reports indicate he has other names there for baptism on his return. Many, many indeed have heard the angel's message through the brother's street talks from his automobile, and whatever are the immediate results we rejoice in the excellent foundation that has been laid for future ingatherings.

May God bless his people everywhere and help them to live a pure and righteous life is my earnest prayer.

In gospel bonds,

Ethel S. Butts.

Bald Knob, Ark., Sept. 7.
Editor Ensign:—I feel that some one may be interested in the work in this part of the Lord's vineyard; so by this means I will let those who are acquainted with the work here know that we are all feeling encouraged and are rejoicing over the number that have been added to our branch.

Bro. J. T. Riley was here in August and held a two weeks' meeting about four miles from here on the Memphis railroad. He preached one week at Worden and one at Riovista, just one mile from the first named place. On the first Sunday histers Sunday he baptized five, and on the next Sunday thirteen, making eighteen in all, which was a good ingathering for this place. The only thing we have to regret is they are not near enough to worship with us, as our church is one and a half miles the other direction. On last Sunday husband and I met with them in their school house at Riovista and assisted them in organizing a Sunday school. It makes our hearts glad to see them so willing and ready to get to work for the Master. As we have our Sunday school in the morning and they in the afternoon, we have promised to meet with them as often as we can.

to get to work for the Master. As we have our Sunday school in the morning and they in the afternoon, we have promised to meet with them as often as we can.

We have not had any preaching here at Bald Knob this summer, and are getting hungry for the spiritual food. We send our kindest regards to all the missionaries who have labored with us. The work grows brighter to me as the days go by, and my desires are to do all that the Master wishes me to do, that I may in some way repay him for doing so much for me, for he has indeed blessed me and given me a grand testimony of the work.

and given me a grand testimony of the work.

Now, dear Saints, will you just offer one silent prayer in my behalf that I may be given strength to keep myself in subjection to His will, that I may be a worthy example instead of a reproach.

Your sister in the cause we love, Leona Martin.

GLEANINGS.

Bro. M. H. Bond, writing from Kirtland, Ohio, Sept. 14:—Arrived in Cleveland from Baffale last Friday. Relatives in Cleveland brought us here in auto on Saturday. Spoke twice in old historic Temple to quite large congregations. Kirtland, a beautiful country in summer. Hundreds of visitors at Temple this summer. Bro. Thomas is an efficient minister. Having pleasant visit among the scenes of our nativity. Expect to go to Chicago on Thursday and be in Independence Sunday next.

W. R. Wilkins, Stites, Idaho.—Have been a reader of the the Ensign for six years, and feel the need of it so much, for we have not the opportunity of mingling with the Saints, and in our isolation it is consoling and comforting. Was baptized five years ago by Bro. A. J. Layland and have met but two other Elders. I would love to be with the Saints. I praise the Lord that he has shown me the light. My wife is not a member, but I think she will be when opportunity affords.

J. S. Andes, Cameron, Mo.—The work at old Far West is moving slowly but steadily onward. We have a nice little branch here with Bro. S. H. Simmons as president. He is always ready to assist weak humanity to better conditions. Today we had the pleasure of seeing him lead two precious souls into the "liquid grave" to come forth in newness of life. We rejoice to see others embracing the gospel.

REPENTANCE.

By Elder J. W. Wight.
"The men of Nineveh shall rise in judgment with this generation, and shall condemn it: because they repented at the preaching of Jonas; and, behold, a greater than Jonas is here." Matt. 12:41.

So spake the Master of men with reference to this all important matter. Methinks that there is not the serious thought with reference to repentance there ought to be. We too often speak of repentance as though it were something to be treated in a flippant manner rather than seriously. Webster's definition-

"To feel pain or sorrow on account of something done or left undone, especially for sin committed leading to repentance; change from past evil; to regret-

Is, after all, hardly complete, though good. One may "change from past evil" and yet not truly repent. Or one may regret and yet continue in the sin. In fact one may repent without repenting, and just here is the rock upon which so many faith-barques are driven to final ruin!

Too often we are solaced with the thought that we have found favor with God through repentance when, in reality, we have not reputed at all. Or, perchance, if we have repented it is a repentance that needs to be repented of. So much for the

We Must Repent.

In Luke 13:3 the Master said: "Except ye repent, ye shall all likewise perish." It may be well to note, in passing, that this language was addressed to those making accusation against others and who, no doubt, felt that they were all right. hence the right to make accusation, but they were required to repent!

The God-sent man, John the Baptist, (see John 1:6) came at the behest of the sender and the burden of his cry was-"Repent ye: for the kingdom of heaven is at hand."

Jesus came for the granting of a more abundant life. See John 10:10. His was neither the nature of usurpation nor egotism. It was he who said that he spake only the things commanded of the Father. Within the scope and ability of a perfect mentality, as a perfect being, the Father originated a plan (not a scheme, as it is sometimes expressed, for he was not a schemer), perfect in its makeup, else it could not produce perfection.

This "plan" was committed to the Son who in turn committed it to the church and by it perfection was to be produced. There is no doubt but that James referred to this when in the first chapter and verse 25 he speaks of the "perfect law of liberty." That a "law" is made up of parts-fundamentals-none will deny. That each part is not only essential but perfect in its place is as indisputable in logic as the preceding statement. Hence every principle or part of the "perfect plan" must be obeyed if one ever hopes to receive the benefit of the whole.

In Gal. 1:12 the apostle tells us that he was not taught his knowledge of the gospel but by the revelation of Jesus Christ. In the Hebrew letter, 6:1, he enumerates repentance as being one of the "principles" of the doctrine of Christ. Thus it can be both scripturally and logically concluded that if we would be in Christ "we must repent."

The budding leaf, the shooting grass, in fact nature's unfolding in the spring time of the year all proclaim the release from the binding thralldom of the bitter cold of recurring frost. So one bound and enthralled by the fetters of sin can become released therefrom by obedience to the law of true repentance and thus be enabled to enter upon the pathway of real life. So that looked at from what angle we may we are still forced to the inevitable conclusion that if we would "find Christ"— and he has well said, "without me ye can do nothing"-we must repent!

In fact one may as well say that all the problems in mathematics can be solved after eliminating one of the fundamentals, addition, for instance, as to say that salvation can be attained without repentance. No man ever has or ever can become truly great and yet remain in sin. As the fangs of putridity burying themselves deeply into organic construction serve to devitalize, thus bringing decay and final death, so sin unremoved by the process incident to true repentance, will, in time, sap the moral forces so completely that decay and final death of those moral forces are the inevitable consequences. Hence looked at from what angle we may the "must" still protrudes itself and the conclusion is more and more forced home that the All-wise made no mistake when he made repentance a part of the gospel

Kind of Repentance.

If one were asked to define repentance the ever ready answer would no doubt be "true repentance" but here again would be the opportunity for a difference of opinion to the extent that the answers as to "true" would no doubt be various. At least such conclusion is reached upon the basis of what one may properly define as elasticity of conscience.

Conscience elasticity exhibits itself in the ease with which conscience qualms are often "hushed" by the conclusion that so and so does likewise, therefore it must be right. Or that God will overlook it through his mercy. And thus in "a thousand and one" ways the poor old conscience is calmed and we go on our way rejoicing, our mind at ease, and all because we have concluded that the sin committed is overlooked, condoned, we righted in God's sight and our moral standard still upon the parapets enclosing our security with God !

Did we understand the situation clearly me thinks there would be much less flirtation with sin and a marked decrease in both the sin of omission and commission. And then much less elasticity after committal of the sin. And then, again, there would be less of this twaddle about New Year resolutions and more of a manifestation of every day determinations. "Actions speak louder than words." Then let these "actions" manifest that I have repented and there will be no need of me voicing a declaration of such fact. There is too much lip repentance but not enough God repentance, and no doubt many will be the surprises in the resurrection when we find that what we had consoled ourselves with in life as a true manifestation of repentance was not repentance after all and that we will yet be required to make due reparation before we can find a dwelling place with God!

Stript, then, of verbiage prolixity and reduced to the plain statement of fact, "true repentance" (and by the way it is the only kind that is worth a farthing) is a repentance that "needs not to be repented of." "A turning from sin" after the mind is exercised unto a Godly contrition. A true character builder. Too many are absorbed with the idea of building a reputation without enough concern about building a character that will stand eternity's test. One may repent with a repentance that should be repented of and yet have an excellent reputation, even adored by all, if it is reputation we are after. One may truly repent, manifest a Godly repentance, and bring into existence a saintly character, one with which God will be well pleased, and yet be void of a true reputation, but in lieu thereof will be on the highway to eternity's goal and continuing will in that eternity have an abiding place in God's kingdom celestial. As an example of the "void" referred to, take the Christ. None was e'er his equal in character, and few if any ever had a more unenviable reputation! He was a wine bibber, a gluttonous man, a bastard, an emissary of Satan and even Satan himself, if one were to depend on his common reputation!

The Apostle Paul puts the matter very aptly in the second Corinthian letter-7:10, "Now I rejoice, not that ye were made sorry, but that ye sorrowed to repentance: for ye were made sorry after a godly manner, that ye might receive damage by us in nothing. For godly sorrow worketh repentance to salvation not to be repented of: but the sorrow of the world worketh death. For behold this selfsame thing, that ye sorrowed after a godly sort, what carefulness it wrought in you. yea, what clearing of yourselves, yea, what indignation, [at self] yea, what fear, yea, what vehement desire, [to turn from sin] yea, what zeal yea, what revenge! In all things ye have approved yourselves to be clear in this matter.'

In the above quotation there is certainly multum in parvo. Adhered to and we have the jist of the whole matter. In it our sub-title is fully demonstrated, the "kind of repentance" necessary to produce true results.

Fruits Produced

On one occasion Jesus condemned the fig tree. This condemnation was not the result of his anger at finding the tree barren, but rather the execution of a natural law. It had failed to entirely fulfill the law of its being in not bearing fruit hence came under the law of transgression. And as transgression of the law is sin so the penalty of sin is death. The tree died because of the transgression of the law of its being!

All animate nature bears fruit. Can we become spiritual without producing fruit? The Pharisees and Sadusees were commanded by John to "Bring forth fruits meet for repentance: And think not to say within yourselves, We have Abraham to our father: for I say unto you, that God is able of these stones to raise up children unto Abraham."

Here is the clear intimation that where fruit is not borne we are not children of God. And failing to so bear fruit it is conclusively stated that God is not so dependent upon us that he can not get along without us but that if necessary so to do he can through his creative power take of the life within the mineral kingdom and produce "children unto Abraham!"

In their religious cant these people no doubt boasted of their security with God in that they were Abraham's children or of the blood royal. And they were no doubt sincere in thus proclaiming. But John saw the nakedness of their claim in that they were not bearing fruit-true repentance. In Romans 2:4 the idea is clearly presented that this fruit is repentance, for the apostle here says: "The goodness of God leadeth thee to repentance."

If then we have repented, if that repentance has been true, then it has produced fruit-the goodness of God within us unto the building of a character rather than a reputation, a character that will fit us to dwell with God. It must not be a repentance "to be repented of."

THE DEVIL.

By Elder W. A. Sinclair, M. D.
I have chosen a text this morning which you will have no difficulty to retain in your mind, and which I hope will constantly remind you of the nothingness of man, when separated from the divine influences and the power of the gospel.

My text is composed of but two words: "The Devil." I do not know that I have ever heard a sermon on this subject, and yet when we look into the great work being accomplished under the banner of this personage, we feel that a better knowledge of him and his workings will but fortify us for a better defense in the interest of the work of God and our fellow man.

Who Was the Devil?

We read in Doctrine and Covenants 76:3, "And this we saw also, and bear record, that an angel of God, who was in authority in the presence of God, who rebelled against the only begotten Son; whom the Father loved, and who was in the bosom of the Father; and was thrust down from the presence of God and the Son, and was called Perdition; for the heavens wept over him; he was Lucifer, a son of the morning. And we beheld, and lo, he is fallen; is fallen! even a son of the morning."

We find here that he was a son of the morning. a spirit holding authority in the presence of God. He was not seemingly one of the creation designated originally for this earth, but had already earned a right to be an angel, and one of no small influence, presumably one of the redeemed individuals of some previously sanctified world, as we read that he was from the beginning. Considering which, it is of vital importance, that we as followers of Jesus Christ, should heed the admonition, to bring into subjection every thought to the obedience of Christ; that no vain glory should obscure our vision and cause us to imitate his Satanic Majesty.

In Genesis 3:1-5, Inspired Translation we read of his ambition, and get a little glimpse into his jealous nature. "And I, the Lord God, spake unto Moses, saying, That Satan whom thou hast commanded in the name of mine Only Begotten, is the same which was from the beginning; and he came before me, saying, Behold I, send me, I will be thy Son, and I will redeem all mankind, that one soul shall not be lost, and surely I will do it; wherefore, give me thine honor. But behold, my beloved Son, which was my beloved, and chosen from the beginning, said unto me; Father, thy will be done, and the glory be thine forever. Wherefore, because that Satan rebelled against me, and sought to destroy the agency of man, which I, the Lord God, had given him; and also that I should give unto him mine own power; by the power of mine Only Begotten I caused that he should be cast down, and he became Satan, yea, even the devil, the father of all lies, to deceive, and to blind men, and to lead them captive at his will, even as many as would not hearken unto my voice."

Considering these statements, we are led to exclaim, What was his position and influence in heaven! and after a closer analysis we would designate him as a general, an organizer, and a leader.

We read in Revelation 12:7-10 the following:—
"And there was war in heaven; Michael and his angels fought against the dragon; and the dragon fought and his angels, and prevailed not;
neither was their place found any more in heaven.
And the great dragon was cast out, that old serpent, called the devil, and Satan, which decevieth the whole world; he was cast into the earth, and his angels were cast out with him. And I heard a loud voice saying in heaven, Now is come salvation, and strength, and the kingdom of our God, and the power of his Christ; for the accuser of our brethren is cast down, which accused them before our God day and night."

Satan seems to me to have been one of those sanctimonious, smooth talking, self-righteous individuals, who is always right, and everything not strictly in keeping with his standard of intelligence was strong. He seems to have employed his time in the heavens spying on the brethren, a taller, and worse, an accuser, the most despicable of all talebearers, seeking favor of God Almighty by playing the spy on his brethren; and the inference is strongly given here, that his tales were somewhat distorted. He was a liar.

What is a liar? I used to think that it was simply one who tells an untruth; but from investigation of the word, I am convinced that a liar is much worse than that. A prevaricator might be a better term to use in conjunction with the promiscuous juggling of facts and the interpretation would harmonize more perfectly with the written word. But according to the scriptures, a liar is placed in the same category as the murderer. hence, must be of a greater, grosser nature. Here is my definition of a liar; and it seems to fit the present instance: It is one who tells an untruth with malicious intent, with the sole purpose of injuring the person to whom it is attached. Out of such an untruth may come murder, and every character of wickedness, and the one so indulging is worthy of the stripes of the criminal. No wonder there was rejoicing in heaven when such an individual was cast out.

As an organizer—he was successful in gathering to his aid one-third of the stars of heaven, and as a general and leader, he drew them to perdition with himself when he became the devil.

Where were the Devil and His Angels Put?

Doctrine and Covenants 28:10 tells us that there was a place prepared for them from the beginning: "And they [the devil and his angels] were thrust down, and thus became the devil and his angels; and behold, there is a place prepared for them from the beginning, which place is Hell."

It has often been said that hell was made by the devil, because of his influences, but you see, this is not in harmony with the word for hell was prepared from the beginning.

Who Prepared Hell For Them?

Considering the foregoing, that hell was prepared from the beginning, and as we know of but one hell spoken of in holy writ, then according to Genesis 6:30, I. T., God was the framer of this place of confinement, for we read where it speaks of the disobedient: "And an hell I have prepared for them if they repent not."

Jesus in referring to this incident when here, says of Satan in Luke 10:18, "And he said unto them, I beheld Satan as lightning fall from heaven." And Peter takes up the same narrative in relation to his angels in 2 Peter 2:4, wherein he says: "For if God spared not the angels that sinned, but east them down to hell and delivered them into chains of darkness, to be reserved unto judg: ent."

This gives us to distinctly understand that hell was prepared by God for the devil and his angels and all the disobedient of the family of earth. We also find corroborative evidence in Jude 6: "And the angels- which- kept- not- their first estate, but left their own habitation, he hath reserved in everlasting chains under darkness unto the judgment of the great day." And in Revelation 12:4 he says: "And his tail drew the third part of the stars of heaven, and did cast them to the earth."

What is Satan's Power on Earth?

Seeing that he was cast down to earth, and it became the habitation of devils, we should be anxious to learn just what power they have, that by understanding their limitations, or scope of operation, we may protect ourselves from the evil designs that otherwise might engulf us.

Jesus says in John 12:31, "Now is the judgment of this world, now shall the Prince of this world be cast out," and in the fourteenth chapter and the thirtieth verse, he says: "Hereafter I will not talk much with you, for the prince of this world cometh, and hath nothing in me."

This language portrays to our minds the ownership, or possession of the earth or world; and as a prince his power is of no small concern, which we shall discover he uses to advantage in his campaign against righteousness. In Ephesians 2:2, Paul takes up the thread of the story in his instruction to the saints of Ephesus thus:—"Wherein in times past ye walked according to the course of this world, according to the prince of the power of the air, the spirit that worketh in the children of disobedience."

Here we find that the course of this world is set according to the will and permission of his Satanic Majesty, and also the intimation is here given, that the elements are also controlled by him. This being the case, of course, the inhabitants are more or less under the predominating influence, and more especially those who have not come under the greater influence of the gospel, hence, Paul's language to the Corinthian saints in 2 Corinthians 4:4. "In whom the God of this world hath blinded the minds of them which believe not, lest the light of the glorious gospel of Christ, who is the image of God, should shine unto them."

Seeing that Satan has this great power resident in him, the thought comes to us: How does he exercise it in a visible sense? and so I call your attention to the following works of evil as produced by him.

His First Demonstration.

Gnesis 3:7-10, I. T.: "And Satan put it into the heart of the serpent, for he had drawn away many after him; and he sought also to beguile Eve, for he knew not the mind of God; wherefore, he sought to destroy the world. And he said unto the woman, Yea, hath God said, Ye shall not eat of every tree of the garden. And he spake by the mouth of the serpent. And the woman said unto the serpent, We may eat of the fruit of the trees of the garden, but of the fruit of the tree which thou beholdest in the midst of the garden, God hath said. Ye shall not eat of it neither shall ve touch it. lest ye die. And the serpent said unto the woman, Ye shall not surely die; for God doth know, that in the day ye eat thereof, then your eyes shall be opened, and ye shall be as gods, knowing good and evil."

The one great point which seems to stand out here, is the fact that Satan performed his first work here among the animal creation, choosing the most subtile of them, and then using them to bring about his purposes in regard to the human family. In this demonstration of his power, he performs his work through the third person.

His Second Demonstration:

Genesis 5:6, I. T.: "And Cain loved Satan more than God. And Satan commanded him saying, Make an offering unto the Lord. And in process of time it came to pass that Cain brought of the fruit of the ground an offering unto the Lord." Verse 17. "And Cain went into the field, and Cain talked with Abel his brother, and it came to pass that while they were in the field Cain rose up against Abel his brother and stew him."

Here again he gains the supremacy over the human and adds one more line to the history of crime, for which the whole human family must suffer. And again, this was an advance over his first demonstration, both in evil, and in the means of transgression, for in this instance he uses one of the human family immediately in the carrying out of his designs.

His Third Demonstration.

Genesis 5:30-34, i. T.: "And Lamech took unto himself two wives, the name of one being Adah, and the name of the other, Zilah. And Lamech said unto his wives, Adah and Zilah, Hear my voice, ye wives of Lamech harken unto my speech, for I have slain a man to my wounding, and a young man to my hurt. If Cain shall be avenged seven-fold, truly Lamech shall be seventy and seven-fold. For, Lamech having entered into a covenant with Satan, after the manner of Cain, wherein he became Master Mahan, master of that great secret which was administered unto Cain by Satan."

In these demonstrations of his power he works his highest ambition in criminal ingenuity, coupling disobedience (in relation to the pairing of the human family). Double murder (as it seems by a close analyss that he murdered two, a man to my wounding, and a young man to my hurt). And polygamy, the obhorant practice, the curse of womanhood.

In these demonstrations of his power he works through the agency of those who have life. Now the thought comes to us, has Satan power over material things? and if so, how does he use them?

We read in Exodus 7:10-12, "And Moses and Aaron went in unto Pharaoh, and they did so as the Lord had commanded; and Aaron cast down his rod before Pharaoh, and before his servants, and it became a serpent. Then Pharaoh also called the wise men and the sorcerers: now the magicians of Egypt, they also did in like manner with their enchantments. For they cast down every man his rod, and they became serpents; but Aaron's rod swallowed up their rods."

And in Exodus 7:20-22. "And Moses and Aaron

And in Exodus 7:20-22. "And Moses and Aaron did so, as the Lord commanded; and he lifted up the rod, and smote the waters that were in the river, in the sight of Pharaoh, and in the sight of his servants, and all the waters that were in the river were turned to blood. And the fish that was in the river died; and the river stank, and the Egyptians could not drink of the water of the river; and there was blood throughout all the land of Egypt. And the magicians of Egypt did so with their enchantments, and Pharaoh's heart was hardened, neither did he hearken unto them, as the Lord had said."

And again in Exodus 8:6,7. "And Aaron strteched out his hand over the waters of Egypt; and the frogs came up, and covered the land of Egypt.. And the magicians did so with their enchantments, and brought up frogs upon the land of Egypt."

In these statements I am persuaded that Satan was the power by which the magicians worked, as it was the opposite power to the Spirit of truth, enlightenment, and freedom; hence, he has power to give life, though whether of a temporary nature or not is questionable. The fact of Aaron's rod swallowing up the others, presupposes the greater power being with the righteous department, and the disappearing of the other rods, intimates the transitory condition of the creation of evil constructors. But at the same time it proves that his Satanic majesty has the power to imitate even divine creations.

Again we find his power over material things displayed as is recorded in Job 1:13-19. "And there was a day when his sons and his daughters were eating and drinking wine in their eldest brother's house; and there came a messenger unto Job. and said. The oxen were plowing, and the asses feeding beside them; and the Sabeans fell upon them, and took them away; yea, they have slain the servants with the edge of the sword; and I only am escaped alone to tell thee. While he was yet speaking, there came also another, and said. The fire of God is fallen from heaven, and hath burned up the sheep and the servants, and consumed them; and I only am ascaped alone to tell thee. While he was yet speaking, there came also another, and said, The Chaldeans made out three bands, and fell upon the camels, and carried them away, yea, and slain the servants with the edge of the sword; and I only am escaped alone to tell thee. While he was yet speaking, there came also another, and said, Thy sons and thy daughters were eating and drinking wine in their eldest brother's house; and, behold, there came a great wind from the wilderness, and smote the four corners of the house, and it fell upon the young men, and they are dead; and I only am escaped alone to tell thee."

These circumstances are to say the least extraordinary; but when we consider the former talk between the Almighty and Satan, regarding Job and his integrity and faithfulness to God's commission, and the trial Satan was permitted to bring upon him, we cannot but attribute these adversities to his agency; considering which we must admit that he has power over the elements and mind of those who allow his influences to envelop them. To my mind, he has almost unlimited power, and would destroy our bodies altogether, but for the reason that God Almighty has surrounded us with a wall of protection, which Satan cannot break through except as we encourage, or God permits the opposite powers to touch us. This is very strongly portrayed in the narrative concerning Job, wherein the Lord granted Satan permission to touch Job, as is recorded in Job 2: "So went Satan forth from the presence of the Lord, and smote Job with sore boils from the sole of his foot unto his crown."

We read in Daniel 10:13, "But the prince of the kingdom of Persia withstood me one and twenty days; but lo, Michael, one of the chief princes came to help me; and remained there with the kings of Persia."

This angel or spirit, or whatever term you wish to call it by, was sent to instruct Daniel, but on the way to deliver his message he was beset by this prince of the kingdom of Persia; some other spirit, or angel, of the opposite power; and for twentyone days he held the angel back so that he could not deliver his message, nor could he escape from the seemingly greater power, until Michael, he who in time past overcame his Satanic majesty, came and delivered him from the power of this prince, when he continued on his way to Daniel; after completing his task in this respect the record states in Daniel 10:20, "Then said he, Knowest thou wherefore I come unto thee? and now will I return to fight with the Prince of Persia; and when I am gone forth, lo, the Prince of Grecia shall come.'

This is a peculiar statement, and it opens up to our vision a most stupendous work which is being performed unseen, and unknown to creatures who measure life and work only by the objective vision. It is these invisible beings ( if I may be allowed that term) who hedge us in, and protect us from the evil powers who seek our destruction.

We have another manifestation of this power exhibited, as is recorded in Jude 9: "Yet Michael the Archangel, when contending with the devil he disputed about the body of Moses, durst not bring against him a railing accusation, but said; The Lord rebuke thee."

Here our enigma broadens, for we have the spiritual powers of both sides entering into a dispute, and that over a material body; Do you believe this actually took place? If not, how much of the written word are we to believe? Who is to tell us the portion to discard? There is no alternative, we must take it as truth, or discard the whole record. I verily believe this incident took place, our own conscious mind can at times feel the presence of these unseen influences to such an extent, that one is positive that they exist, and so real is the feeling, that we try, as it were, to brush the mists away from our eyes that we might penetrate the haze and behold the vision which surrounds us, expecting to see a personage in close proximity to us,

A vision ordinarily, according to my mind, is not something arranged for the occasion when opened to our view; but it is the natural processes of the unseen which are continously happening around us, and it becomes a vision to us simply because we cannot penetrate the curtain of separation between natural or mortal, and the spiritual.

It takes somewhat the same aspect in my mind. as that which is revealed in the lower animal or bacterial world; thus, we see nothing in a drop of stagnant water, so far as the natural eyesight is concerned; but, when properly focused under a high power microscope, behold, a vision appears, and we discover two billion seven hundred million living micro-organisms in that apparently innocent drop of water. We know not what is about us, our vision is too diminutive to penetrate the mysteries which surround us.

Paul understood something of these unseen powers, and in 1 Thess. 2:18, he says: "Wherefore we would have come unto you, even I Paul, once and again; but Satan hindered us."

He hindered, possibly not in an outward, visible sense, but through the agency of some organization ever which he had gotten control; as this is within the possibility of his power; for he can get possession of our bodies, if we allow him. This is very plainly set forth in Mark 5:2-4; "And when he [Jesus] was come out of the ship, immediately there met him out of the tombs a man with an unclean spirit, who had his dwelling among the tombs; and no man could bind him, no, not with chains, because that he had been often bound with fetters and chains, and the chains had been plucked asunder by him, and the fetters broken in pieces; neither could any man tame him.

The subsequent language of Christ proves that this power was of the devil, and not of human or-

The Devil As a Fortune Teller.

In 1 Samuel 28 we read of how the Witch of Endor called up someone who had the appearance of Samuel, and who also foretold what should come to pass in the case of Saul and his sons. And again under this same heading we read in Acts 16:16-18 the following: "And it came to pass as we went to prayer, a certain damsel possessed with a spirit of divination met us, which brought her masters much gain by soothsaying; the same followed Paul and us, and cried, saying, These men are the servants of the most high God, which shew unto us the way of salvation. And this did she many days. But Paul, being grieved, turned and said to the spirit, I command thee in the name of Jesus Christ to come out of her. And he came out the same hour."

It is somewhat peculiar that this spirit being of an adverse character, should acknowledge the servants of God, and without the context, we would probably think that the spiritual enlightenment upon this point was from above, but Paul understood its origin, and rebuked it, casting it out, and destroying the medium of gain to the girl's masters.

Satan does not perform such acts to help promulgate the work of Christ, and it may be, in this instance, an acknowledgement of these men as servants of the Most High God, would have a tendency to cause a disbelief in those who heard, realizing as they did that the personage through whom the intelligence came, was one possessed with a peculiar spirit.

Satan does not design that man should live in contentment, but, as Nephi has recorded it in 2 Nephi 1:8, Satan sought to bring misery upon all mankind, and no matter what acknowledgement he may make, it is only as a snare to entrap those who are unguarded.

What Will Become of the Devil?

We read in Revelation 20:1.2. "And I saw an angel come down from heaven, having the key of the bottomless pit and a great chain in his hand. And he laid hold on the dragon, that old serpent, which is the devil, and Satan, and bound him a thousand years."

And again in Revelation 20:7-10. "And when the thousand years are expired, Satan shall be loosed out of his prison, and shall go out to deceive the nations which are in the four quarters of the earth, Gog and Magog, to gather them together to battle; the number of whom is as the sand of the sea. And they went upon the breadth of the earth, and compassed the camp of the saints about, and the beloved city; and fire came down from God out of heaven, and devoured them. And the devil that deceived them was cast into the lake of fire and brimstone, where the beast and the false prophet are, and shall be tormented day and night forever and ever.'

This seems to dispose of the despoiler and his associates, and the only question that remains now, is who will go away with the devil?

Doctrine and Covenants 76:4 clears up the situation; Jesus is to "Sanctify the world, and to cleanse it from all unrighteousness; that through him all might be saved, whom the Father had put into his power, and made by him; who glorifies the Father, and saves all the works of his hands, except those sons of perdition, who deny the Son after the Father hath revealed him; wherefore he saves all except them; they shall go away into everlasting punishment, which is endless punishment, to reign with the devil and his ngels in eternity, where their worm dieth not and the fire is not quenched, which is their torment, and the end thereof, neither the place thereof, nor their torment, no man knows; neither was it revealed, neither is, neither will be revealed unto man, except to them who are made partakers thereof." Now let us sum up our remarks:

The devil was an angel of light and authrity. He held a position of great influence in the spirit world.

Jealousy made him lose his high estate.

Hell was propared by God for him and his angels.

He became the prince and power of this world. His power would destroy us, if other opposite powers were not defending us.

He is finally overcome by the higher, good, spiritual powers and subdued.

He is ultimately banished from the stage of action where redeemed individuals exist.

Tranquility and bliss becomes the habitation of the people of God when Satan is banished, just as it did when he was banished from heaven in the first place.

Considering who he is, and what becomes of him and those who serve him, let us heed the admonition of Paul in Romans 6:16, "Know ye not, that to whom ye yield yourselves servants to obey, his servants ye are to whom ye obey; whether of sin unto death, or of obedience unto righteousness.'

DEPARTMENT OF ি Woman's Auxiliary for Social Service প্র

MRS. MADGE SIEGFRIED. EDITOR.

NOTICE.

All persons sending money to the Woman's Auxiliary for any purpose, including subscriptions to Home and Child Welfare leaf-tels, or Children's Home donations, incase forward same to the treasurer of the Auxiliary, Mrs. J A. Gardner, 711 S. Fuller Ave. Independence Mo.

dependence Mo.

ADVISORY BOARD.

Mrs. S. R. Burgess, President, 599 Etyel Ave., St. Louis, Mo.

Mrs. B. C. Smith, Vice President, 214 S. Spring St., Independent ence, Mo. Miss Minnie E. Scott, Secretary, 309 S. Fuller Ave., Independ ence, Mo Mrs. J. A. Gardner, Treasurer, 711 S. Fuller Ave., Independence,

Mrs. M. A. Etzenhouser, 1993 W. Walmut St., Independence, Mo-Mrs. D. J. Krahl, 724 S. Crysler St., Independence, Mo-SOPERINTENDENTS OF DEPARTMENTS.

Home and Child Welfare Department, Mrs. H. A. Stebbins, La-ni, lowa. moni, Iowa.

Literary and Educational Department, Miss Lydia Thomas, Lamoni, Iowa

Bigueric Department, Mrs. Jennie Studiey, 17 E. Cotiare St., Bonnesite Science Department, Mrs. Bertha Anderson Hulmes, Donnesite Science Department, Mrs. Bertha Anderson Hulmes, Willist, Council Bluffs, Iowa.

Sewing and Aid Department, Mrs. Edith Cochran, 207 S, Sevententh St., St., Joseph. vo.

Ave., Independence, Mo., Arc., Independence, Mo.

HOW MUCH DO THEY KNOW?

Little Robert had been playing with his sister's doll. The doll had a bed with mattress and pillow, sheets and spread, and all these were on the floor beside Robert. cided to put dolly to bed, but he had not a very definite idea of the order in which the bedding should be replaced, for he was only twenty months old. He did know that the doll should be covered, and since he reached the mattress last, the other things went on first, then the doll, and over all the mattress.

He was getting it ready to leave for the night. As he patted the mattress into place, a visitor asked him, "Did you put dolly to sleep?"

Now, Robert must have had some idea of being the dolly's father, for his response to this question was framed in accordance with a very earnest suggestion his father had occasionally given him.

This very young man had a habit of waking very early, before it was time for others to waken. If he would lie obtool it was time for others to waken. In the would assist for a while he would drop asleep again, but sometimes he would rise up in his bed and hegin to talk. Then his father would also rise, and looking straight at Robert would say, "Sh," in a very emphatic and impressive manner. Then Robert would subside and in a few moments ner. Then Robert would so would be fast asleep again.

His reasoning powers were good and his memory was the reasoning powers were good and his memory was certainly in working order, for when asked if he had put the doll to sleep, he lifted one corner of the stiff little mattress and uttered one short, sharp little "Sh," and went away satisfied that the doll would sleep.

A Hard Lesson Well Learned.

We had a little visitor only fourteen months old, and he, too, was inclined to waken too early. At home his father would take him in bed with him and they would have the best play times while he lay with his head on his father's arm. But now, when his mother must care for him at this hour, he was unwilling to lie down again when once he had been taken from his own bed.

The weather was growing chilly and it was not warm.

The weather was growing chilly and it was not warm enough for the boy to be up before the fires were started. His mother did not want the household disturbed before the regular time, and, moreover, she wanted her son to do what she knew was best for him. She knew there was no good reason why he should not have a morning play while under cover with her as well as with his father.

For the first few mornings she tried various expedients in the effort to keep him entertained. For the sake of others still sleeping she did not keep him in bed because she found he would rebel if she tried to make him stay But finally she asked permission to let him cry one morning; and he cried.

He still had an early morning bottle and when that had been emptied he was ready for play, looking as bright and fresh as dew drops in the sunshine. His mother took Iresn as dew drops in the sunsinne. In smother took him up, and then, satisfied that he was well and comfortable, she lay down with him on her arm and began to play with him. Just now, the quiet play was not to his liking. He was ready for a frolic and wanted to be up and out from the covers. His mother held him fast, still trying to engage his attention with the little plays that sometimes pleased him so well. But he was not to have eight and he began to are. be pacified and he began to cry.

He had good strong lungs, and, oh, how he did use them when he found that he was not to be allowed to romp all bed as he was often allowed to do later in the over the bed as he was often allowed to do later in the morning.

There was no impatience in the touch or tone of the mother, helping her son to get control of himself. When he paused in his crying, the same gentle, cheery voice invited him back to happiness and play. But the tempest had to spend itself, and it was half an hour before it was over. Then a little hand was laid shyly on the mother's face. She patted it and the baby smiled, and the victory was won. Very soon he was playing pat-a-cake, finding baby's eyes and mother's eyes, and doing all the delightful things he had before enjoyed so well with 'daddle."

And how was it the next morning? Was it all to do over again? Not at all. A happier baby could not be over again? Not at all. Anapper says could not of found than the one, who, morning after morning during the five weeks' stay, lay peacefully beside his mother, laughing and clapping and loving and cooing. How he watched her hands and would reach for them to go through the motions again when she played, "Here's the church and here's the steeple," "Here's a ball for baby," "This the mother kind and dear," and so on.

Did it pay? Don't you think it did? "Oh, but I never Did it pay? Don't you tanke it du? On, but I never could see how anyone could let a baby cry!" Nor I either, from indifference or neglect. But the most loving and attentive of mothers, studying the disposition of her child, may see where his gain may be greater than her pain from a hard spell of crying. For it certainly is painful for her to endure, but if she be wise, though she would never seek to "break his will," she is willing to endure

Have you ever known a boy who could be controlled by his father but not by his mother? Can we see any suggestion of what might result from a small beginning in the unwillingness of the baby to do for his mother what he was perfectly contented to do for his father? Wasn't it a good thing to show him that he could be just as happy in doing the same for her?

We can not altogether trace the effects of these early

We can not altogether trace the effects of these early lessons. We may follow them a little way and then loss sight of them, but can we doubt that they are not lost?

Our creeping boy would come to the middle of the kitchen floor each morning, and looking in every direction, would choose the most inviting promise of something to would choose the most inviting promise of something to do, and then go straight for it. It was grape time, and one morning a large pailful stood under the table as if waiting for him. He was there in a few seconds, but mother was there, too. She let him look at them, but when he reached his hand to take some, she said, "No." Over and over he drew back his hand and put it out again, looking at her and hearing her "No, no." When he reached too far, she spatted it a little, and then he sat back on the floor with his hands in his lan, and swaving back and the floor with his hands in his lap, and swaying back and the floor with his hands in his lap, and swaying back and forth he cried a little. It was so hard to see them there and not be allowed to touch them. But he gave it up, and though there were grapes in baskets and pails and pans where he could reach them most of the day, a gentle reminding "No," from the one who was working with them would stay his hand and he had a happy time playing around among it all. Did his morning experience make him any experience make him any stronger to resist?

Do they know enough to mind?

Little Imitators.

The baby went for an afternoon visit where there was a gathering of ladies. He sat on the floor with a few play-things, his usual activity not in evidence amid the strange surroundings. Two boys a few years older were playing about the room and finally, climbing up on the couch they began jumping up and down on the springs. Baby boy on the floor sat watching them very quietly. At home he would have been over there walking around the side of the couch to have part in the fun. But here one would scarcely know that he noticed it.

In the evening when his mother brought him home, set him on the couch and it was only a few minutes until, holding on to the high back, he too, was jumping on the springs. Some one remarked that he had never done that before, and then his mother told how it came about, and before, and then his mother told now it came about, and he, listening, laughed and did it again.

His mother said, "It is positively startling sometimes to find how much they know. You think you are talking about a doll, and suddenly you find it is a listening, understanding, human being."

How careful we need to be to leave them unspoiled by finding themselves the subjects of too much comment. That beautiful unconsciousness of babyhood ought not to be marred. But how hard it is to keep it when they are so sweet and interesting.

Callie B. Stebbins.

"There is no feature of joy more creditable than its inevitable communicative character. He who is filled with happiness, though semingly absorbed, emanates pleasure on wheever crosses his way. He cannot contain it all, but produces much for his neighbors. There is no other such agent for diffusing joy as the heart that itself, eniovs.

MISCELLANEOUS

CONFERENCE NOTICES.

Northeastern Nebraska District.—Fall conference will convene at Blair, Nebraska, Saturday, October 10th, at Anna Hicks, Dist. Sec.

Spring River District.-Conference will be held at Joplin, Mo., October 10th and 11th.

Mollie Davis, Sec.

Eastern Iowa District.—Conference will convene at the aints' Church, 9th and Poplar Sts., Muscatine, Iowa, Oct. 24 and 25, 1914. Those coming on train take Park Place car, an Intererban, get off at 8th and Poplar and walk one block north. Prayer service called for 9:30 a. m., followed by opening session of conference. It is requested that careful attention be given to all reports and that same be in the hands of the secretary not later than Oct. 15th. Address, Lock Box 281, Davenport, Iowa.

J. A. Benson, Dist. Sec.

Kentucky and Tennessee District.-Conference will cone with Farmington Branch, October 24th and 25th. full report of all the branches and the local priesthood is desired. Let all come who can and bring the good Spirit with you. Send reports to S. E. Dickson, Sec., Paris, Tenn., or the undersigned.

J. R. McClain, Dist. Pres.

Florida District .- Will meet in conference at Alaflora church, October 31st, at 10 o'clock a. m. All reports mailed should be sent to the undersigned in due time, at Brewton, Alabama, R. F. D. 5. It is expected that the district reunion will be organized immediately after the business session of the conference, hence we expect a good representation of the ministry, and hope for a real

E. N. McCall, Dist. Sec. Brewton, Ala., R. F. D. 5, Sept. 15, 1914.

New York District .- Conference will convene with the Buffalo Branch, October 24th and 25th, at Sterling's Hall, Connecticut Street, near Normal Ave. First meeting 10:30 a. m., Saturday, Oct. 24th.

Anna Brothers, Sec.

36 Tremont Avenue.

REUNION NOTICES.

Florida District.—Reunion will convene at Alaflora church, 9 miles south of Brewton, Alabama, beginning October 31st and closing Sunday, November 8th. There will be arrangements made to serve meals on the ground at a reasonable price. Those desiring to tent will provide same for themselves. For those coming by rail the nearest point is Brewton, Ala, and please notify Bro. T. J. Barnes in time and he will see that you are provided with conveyance to the reunion grounds. We sincerely hope and pray for a profitable time

E. N. McCall,

Sec. Reunion Committee.

R. F. D. 5, Brewton, Ala., Sept. 5, 1914.

BRANCH OFFICERS' REPORT CARDS.

To the visiting officers of the Branches throughout the Independence Stake: There has been developed a visiting and that we believe meets the requirements of keeping record of official visits to the membership, which we believe the officers will do well to secure. These can be obtained at the Ensign office for a small sum, and if used will greatly aid in making our reports of work done and for keeping a record of the same. The Branches should purchase them. See advertisement.

We are having difficulty in getting reports from Branch Presidents because they are unable to get the information needed from their co-laborers. We expect a quarterly report from Branch presidents and trust every facility will be given them to enable them to make their reports The dates for reports to the Stake President from January 1st to April 1st, and from April 1st to July 1st, and so on.

G. E. Harrington Stake President.

CONFERENCE MINUTES.

Nova Scotia District .- The thirty-third conference met Nova Scotia District.—The thirty-third conference met in the church at South Rawdon, on the 5th of September, 1914 at 2:30 p. m. Elder F. J. Ebeling was elected to preside over the conference. Verbal reports were given by the officers. Statistical report of South Rawdon Branch read and adopted. Sec-Treas.' report was read showing balance on hand June 28, 1913, $25.85; received since $16.90; paid out $20.00, leaving balance of $22.75 on hand. Report adopted.

The officers were elected as follows: Boyd Johnson, president; Kenneth Hyatt, vice president; Annie O'Brien, secretary and treasurer. Elder F. J. Ebeling was appointed delegate to general conference in 1915. Collection for district fund to be continued as last year. The number of meetings were left to the presiding officer who announced them as follows: Preaching Saturday evening at 7:45; sacrament service Sunday at 10:00 a. m., and preaching 11 a. m., 2:30 and 7:30 p. m. On motion the date and place of meeting for conference in 1915 was left to district president to appoint and to have notice of said conference published in Herald and Ensign three weeks before date of conference.

Annie B. O'Brien, Sec.

Northern California District.-Conference convened at Northern Cantornia District.—Conterence convened at Irvington, Cal., August 29, at 10:00 a. m. Officers of conference were chosen as follows: F. M. Sheehy, president; C. W. Hawkins, assistant president; John A. Lawn, secretary; Sr. Hattie Burgess, chorister. The following branches were represented by delegates: Stockton, Chico, San Jose, Sacramento, Oakland, San Francisco, Ceres, Tulare, Ukiah and Irvington. All of the above named branches with the addition of Santa Rosa submited statistical reports, showing a net gain of 28 for the past six months.

the past six months.

Ministerial reports received as follows Bishop, C. A. Parkin; high priests, J. A. Saxe, J. B. Carmichael and Geo. S. Lincoln; Seventy, S. M. Reiste; Elders, Jos. Flory, B. N. Fisher, C. J. Cady, W. H. York, T. J. Lawn, J. S. Hommer, A. M. Starke, H. A. Hinty, C. W. Hawkins, George Daley, John A. Lawn, C. W. Deuel, Benj. Bean, J. A. Anthony and H. D. Simpson. In addition to the above a number of the Aaronic Priesthood reported.

District treasurer reported, paid out $49.87; received $34.70; balance due treasurer $15.17. The treasurer reported having in his possession $45.28 belonging to the reunion fund. A motion prevailed authorizing him to retain this, the same to be added to the district fund; rotain this, the same to be added to the district rung; said fund was further augmented by a special collection taken for this purpose. The district secretary was paid $9.95 due him, and an over-due balance of $25.00 was ordered paid to Bro. C. W. Deuel for missionary tent expense. Time and place of next reunion left to committee. San Francisco was selected as the place for holding the next conference, time left to the district president and missionary in charge.

DIED.

Hedrick.—At St. Joseph, Missouri, Sept. 7, 1914, Bro. Edgar W. Hedrick, who was born February 23, 1852, at Chillicothe, Ohio, and was baptized into the Reorganized Church of Jesus Christ, March 15, 1903, by Elder W. A. Smith at Independence, Mo. December 5, 1901, he married Mirs. (Sr.) Lizzie Ryan, at Sheffield, now Kansas City, Mo., by whom with one brother, Daniel, of St. Joseph, and two children he is survived. He was an earnest, faithful member of the church, and tried to do his duty. Funcral from the Faraon Street church, St. Joseph, Sept. 9th, sermon by Elder W. H. Garrett assisted by the pastor, Elder Charles Fry. Interment in Ashland Cemetery, Howard .-- Emma Howard was born March 18, 1878, at Hullett, Huron County, Ontario. On February 17, 1898, she united in marriage with Robert Howard at Blyth, Huron Co., Ont. Sr. Emma obeyed the gospel on February 12, 1900, at Stratford, Perth Co., Ont., being baptized by 12, 1909, at Strattord, Perth Co., Ont., being haptized by Elders E. N. Compton and G. C. Tomlinson and confirmed by Elders E. N. Compton and G. C. Tomlinson. Over a year ago they went westward to Edmonton, Alberta. She contracted that lung trouble which eventually proved fatal. Her faith in the gospel was sure. On September 7, 1914 she fell asleep in the Lord. Her husband and two daughters are left to mourn the loss of their dearest one. The funeral sermon was delivered by Elder Wm. Osler assisted by Elder Alberts Fewlers. Alonzo Fowler.

-Lilly H. Wingfield was born June 9, 1891, Wingfield. at Vera, Virginia, and died of consumption September 4, 1914. She married Mr. Hubard H. Scott October 19, 1910, from whom she was divorced in 1913. She was 1910, from whom she was divorced in 1913. She was formerly a member of the Methodist Church, South, During her last sickness, which was such that the doctors had no hope of her recovery, she decided to unite with the Reorganized Church of Jesus Christ of Latter Day Saints and was baptized by Elder Fred Moser, Jr., who also preached her funeral, using Revelation 14:13, "Blessed are the dead which die in the Lord," and Revelation 22:14, "Blessed are they that do his commandments." She leaves father, stepmother, three sisters, two half sisters, two half brothers and other relatives and friends to mourn

Barmore.-At Ralla, Kansas, September 1, 1914 Mrs. Eliz F. Barmore, aged 73 years, 5 months and 4 days. Sr. Barmore was the daughter of Milton and Eliz Mc-Donald. She was born in the state of Indiana, March 27, Donaid. Sne was born in the state of indiana, March 27, 1841, being one of a family of eight children, two sons and six daughters, four of whom are still living. February 22, 1858, she was married to James D. Barmore, who died February 22, 1896. They resided in Crawford Co., Indiana, until the death of her husband. She was bapwith her husband December 18, 1873, by Elder B. with her husband December 18, 1873, by Elder B. V. Spinger. To them ten children were born, eight of whom are still living, who with a host of relatives and friends mourn their loss. She came to Stenus Co., Kansas, in February, 1906, and had resided there until her death which was caused by a stroke of paralysis. Funeral servers ices were conducted at the home of her daughter, E. E. Kramer, by Elder T. G. Hicks of the Christian Church. Interment took place at the Barden, Okla., cemetery.

Deremer.-Sallie Young was born at Greenwood, N. Y., Deremer.—Sallie Young was own at Greenwood, N. Set. 29, 1833. Married Joseph Deremer, May 4, 1856. To them were born six children, three of whom—Rebecca (Mrs. Merrit Atkins), Corn, (Mrs. Jesse Osmin), of Greenwood, and Alice, (Mrs. F. J. Updyke) of Binghamton, N. Y., with twelve grandchildren and four great grandchild. dren survive and mourn their loss.

With her companion she accepted the gospel message, she being baptized and confirmed at Greenwood, N. Y., Oct. 26, 1873. Her husband died nineteen years ago and since that time she has made her home with her daughter, Mrs. J. Osmin, on the farm where she had lived for years with her husband. Her death occurred at the home of her daughter, Mrs. M. Atkins, June 24, 1914, and the funeral was from the Saints' Church, June 27th; Elder A. M. Chase preached and there was a large attendance. Sr. Deremer was a lovely character, living the life of a consistent Christian, exemplifying that charity which "thinketh no evil." She was ill four months, suffering from a complication of diseases, and her demise came as a happy release.

Davis.—William A. Davis was born in Lancaster, Pa., June 20, 1849. Died Aug. 25, 1914, after a three weeks' illness of pneumonia; was interred Aug. 27 in Oak Hill Cemetery, Taylorville, Ill. Bro. Davis moved to Taylorville from Higbee, Mo., in the year 1900; was baptized June 30, 1912. He was united in marriage to Miss Harriet Cockshot of Renick, Mo., in the year 1878, of which union there were nine children born, six of whom with his wife survive him. We deplore the loss of our beloved brother and join in extending our heart felt syr, pathy to his widow and children for the loss of so kind. Ad loving a husband and father. Funeral conducted by M. Baker. Davis.-William A. Davis was born in Lancaster, Pa.,

ENSIGN PUBLICATIONS.

And Other Books for Sale by the Ensign Publishing House.

al References. A compilation of references under subject headings of texts connected with the gos-pel, taken from the Bible, Book of Mormon and Dettrine and Cove-nants. A very handy reference book. Paper covers, 10c; cloth, 15c; leather. $0.30

Book of Mormon Vindicated. Scriptural
Evidences of the Divine Authenticity of the Book of Mormon, 115 large pages. Paper covers, 25c,
5 for $1.00; cloth ......$0.50

Creeds. This book shows how, at the coming forth of the latter day work, the churches had drifted from the truth into apostasy. Pa-per covers, 20c, 6 for $1.00

Apostasy of the Church. This book shows the departure from the faith be-fore and after the restoration of the gospel. Paper covers.......$0.05

From Palmyra to Independence. A book of 444 pages. A brief review of the Book of Mormon is given, with many testimonials and affidavits. Paper covers, 60c; cloth ......$1.00

Sabbatarian Theories a Delusion. 113 pages. Price, 15c or 2 for..... $0.25

pages. Price, 15c or 2 for....$0.25
Webster's Business and College Dictionary.
Besides being an up-to-date pronouncing dictionary it contains much other valuable information.
It contains new words up to September, 1911, and the last Government census. Postpaid for....$0.60
Hurlbut's Teacher-Training Normal Lessons. Paper covers, 35c; cloth $0.50

Hurlbut's Story of the Bible. Profusely illustrated, 750 pages ......$1.50 Palestine of To-day ...... The Christian System ..... .....$1.00 .....$1,00

CAMBRIDGE AND BAGSTER BIBLES. Order by Number.

Cambridge Teachers' edition.
French Morocco, India paper, silk sewed, opens fiat, references, concordance, encyclopedia, helps, etc., and yet only % inch thick by 4% by 6%, and weighs only 14 ounces; a very handy book ..........$2.00

H131X—The same as H125X, except it is leather lined and French Levant

French Morocco, divinity circuit, red under gold edges, button clasp, 5½x3% ......$1.10

S125-A fine Bible for those who want large type and not so particular about it being small. Long primer type, self-pronouncing, full page illustrations, French Seal, divinity circuit, etc. $2.25

lustrations, French Seal, divinity circuit, etc. $2.25

S1251/2—Same as S125, except it is patent indexed $1.05

S126—Same as S125, with button class, $2.30

S130—Same as S125, leather lined $2.70

S130—Same as S125, leather lined.....$2.70
H15—A fine little Bible at a low price.
French Morocco, divinity circuit,
red under gold edges, fexible, overlapping cover. Size, 5 %23 %...$1.25
H16—Same as H15, but has button clasp...
F65X—India Paper edition, French Morocco, divinity circuit, red under gold edges. Size, 5 %23 %, only % inch hit's...
$1.50
F66—Same r: F65X, with button clasp.$1.60
F65X—Large tyze Bible in small compass,

NEW TESTAMENTS.

E200—Leatherette cover, red edges ...$0.15 E212—French Morocco, limp, red under gold . $0.30 E253—Lambskin, divinity circuity, limp, round corners, red under gold. $0.30 1220a.

OXFORD BIBLES.

Persian Morocco, divinity circuit, leather lined to edge, silk sewed, round corners, red under gold edges, black faced type, thin India paper. This is a beautiful little Bible. Because of the thin India paper it is only % of an inch thick.

03209X—Alaska Seal binding, otherwise the same as 04207X ......$4.50

A model Bible. India paper, black faced minion type, French Morocco, divinity circuit, linen lined, round corners, red under gold edges, 7½x 5% inches $2.75

-Alaska Seal, leather lined, Oxford India paper, silk sewed, large long primer type, round corners, red under gold edges.......$6.00

The 4911 Bible. Of this Bible the Herald and Presbyter says: "The 1911 Bible is by far the best translation ever given to the English speaking people." It is beautifully printed in large black faced type, bound in French Morocco, flexible, opening fiat, round corners, red under gold edges, has headband and silk marker and 12 maps .........$2.00

The 1911 Bible. Printed on genuine Oxford India paper, only % inch thick, silk sewed, bound in finest Alaska Seal, leather lined, round corners, red under gold edges, silk head band and marker $5.00

OXFORD TESTAMENTS.

We give such Bibles as are carried in stock, but can supply any Bible on reason-ably short notice. The Oxford line of Bibles is very extensive, from which we list a few of the best and most popular ones.

TRACTS.

The following tracts are excellent and suitable for distribution among those not identified with the latter day work. They may be obtained, all of one kind or assorted as desired, at the following prices, except as otherwise noted:

Two copies $0.6

Two copies Six copies One dozen copies 100 copies ...

No less than 50 copies at 100 rate.
"Why I Became a Latter Day Saint," by
Elder Joseph Luff. "Future Punishment," by Elder R. C.

"Future Punishment," by Elder R. C. Evans.
"The Book of Mormon; Evidences of Its Divinity," by Elder R. C. Evans.
"Greed Making," by Elder I. M. Smith.
"Good News." A tract of tracts on several different subjects by as many writers.
"The Church of Christ," by Elder Edward Ramie.

"Who Was Joseph Smith," by Elder J. W.

Peterson.

"A Glimpse at the Government of God," by Elder Paul M. Hauson.

"Reasons Why. Shall We Hear Them?"
Revised edition. By Elder J. W. Peterson, "Twelve Reasons Why I Believe The Book of Mormon," by Elder Charles Fry, "Joseph Smith; Was He a Prophet of God?" by Elder R. C. Evans.

The following at special prices named:
"What We Believe," an epitome of the faith of the Church. Per dozen 5 cents; 50 for 20 cents; 100, 35 cents.

flath of the Clurch. Per cozen o cents; or oz 20 cents; 100, 35 cents.

"Items of Teaching Found in the Book of Mormon." Compiled by the Independence Religio Good Literature Committee. A ract of ten pages. Three for 5 cents; 12 for 15 cents; 10 for $1.00.

"Latter Day Saints; Who Are They?" by Elder T. W. Williams. Three for 5 cents; 12 for 15 cents; 100 for $1.00.

"Is Water Baptism Essential to Salvation?" by Elder Joseph Luff. Three for 5 cents; 12 for 15 cents; 15 for 40 cents; 10 for 75 cents.
"Seventy-one Theological Questions." Per dozen, 10 cents; per 100, 60 cents.

dozen, a Gents, per 100, oo cents.

Elder's Diary. A handy little hook for accurately keeping account of ministerial labor by simply jotting down figures in the proper column, the printed headings supplying the rest. A financial record also is a convenient part of the book. This is suitable for all holding the Melchisedec Priesthood. Price ...$0.10

Diary. Arranged similar as the Elder's Diary, but provides for labors connected with the office work of the Priest. Price .....$0.10

Evanalia Lost. Duet arranged for soprano and tenor or two female voices, Price. . . . . $0.10 per dozen ..... Rules. Local library rules, per $0.05 Library dozen . . . Circulating Library rules, per doz-$0.10

Religio Supplies. Local Secretary's Record. ...$0.25

Home Department Supplies. Leaflet of Instruction No. 2. Per dozen, 10 cents; per 100 $0.40

Membership Cards, per dozen, 5 cents; per 100 $0.35

Superintendent's Report Blanks, per dozen, 5 cents; per dozen, 5 cents; per 100. 36.5

Member's Quarterly Record Envelopes, per dozen, 5 cents; per 100. $0.25

Visitor's Report Blanks, per dozen, 5 cents; per 100. $0.25

Letter of Invitation, per 100. $0.20

Letter of Invitation, per 100. $0.20

Visitor's Canvas Blanks, per dozen, 10 cents; per 100

Quarterly Report to District Superintendent and Secretary of Local, per dozen, 5 cent; per 100

Local, per dozen, 5 cents; per 100. $0.25

Address ENSIGN PUBLISHING HOUSE, Independence, Mo.

BLIND ADDRESSES OF ADVERTISERS Some times for prudential reasons an advertiser withholds his name. For instance. He may have some kind of a business for sale. There are various ways a ness for sale. There are various ways a competitor may injure that business if he knows it is for sale. There are often good reasons for withholding the names of parties desiring to sell other kinds of property. Sales may be thwarted by those who ty. Sales may be thwarted by those who make it their business to do so. A business may be all right and a house be all right but because of financial obligations the owner be compelled to sell. Thus you see instructions to address care of Ensign. However, no one should buy either real estate or a business without a thorough investigation. What may just suit one may not be to author's litting at all not be to another's liking at all.

A blacksmith shop in Mapleton, Kansas Plenty of work for two men. If interested, write to, O. A. Rounds, Mapleton, Kansas

TO YOUR INTEREST.

To in and out of town buyers. We will save you 25 to 50 per cent on all House furnishings, Pianos, etc. The O. R. Atwell-Barto Co. Independence, Mo

Bell Phone 371.

GINSENG.

The growing of GINSENG is a profitable industry, an Agricultural Business with good profits attached. Persons with a small parcel of land can start a good paying business with a small investment that yields good dividends. Send for our booklet, "The ABC of Ginseng', get our prices, and learn how to better your financial condition. Address.

Address,
Chas. F. Church & Son.
Lamoni, Iowa

MR & MRS. HARVEY Dr's. of Chiropractic Ki-ro-prac-tic

Phone Bell Office 857
House 755 Room 5, Carl Bld'g.
S. E. Square Independence, Mo.
Hours 10 to 12, 2to 6, evenings by appointment

UNITED ORDER OF ENOCH HOUSE,

Everybody Welcome, Saints and Strangers No. 102 North River Boulevard, near the Stone church Best accommedations. Prices reasonable, Bell Phone 613

Chas. A. and Amy T. Gurwell IN CHARGE

WAR ATLAS

Cram's Atlas of the war comprising 16 pages 11x14½ and cover, giving fine maps of all the nations of Europe, those in war or likely to be especially emphasized. On the likely to be especially emphasized. On the two inside cover pages is given the army and navy equipment of all the European nations as well as the United States and Japan. With this Atlas in connection with daily news one may be able to locate the movements of the armies and have a more comprehensive idea of how the war is being conducted. conducted.

ONLY 25 CENTS

Get them of

Maple Ave.

Ensign Publishing House Independence, Mo.

Independence, Mo.

W. E. MESSENGER, M. D. Physician and Surgeon. Calls answered day or night. Office and Residence 806 W.

Bell Phone 12 Special attention given to Anesthetics

Lots 50x150 North River Blv'd, on grade, paving in, 6 blocks school. Easy Terms if desired. Mrs. R. T. Smith 1413 W. Short Independence, Mo.

FOR SALE

5 room cottage, pantry and bath, bath not completely furnished. Street improvements in. Lot 50x200 ft, House is 4 years old, 4 1.2 blocks from stone church, 4 blocks from street car and 7 blocks to school.

Address Independence Stake Bishopric.

Have You Planned Your Summer Vacation?

JUST TAKE AN ALTON TRAIN

"THE ONLY WAY"

CHICAGO THE HUMMER
Leaves Kausus City
Arrives Chicago

THE NIGHTINGALE
Leaves Kansas City
Arrives Chicago

No matter where you wish to go to spend your vacation, our corps of vacation experts will arrange schedules and timeraries that will make travel a pleasure to you. Big lake boats and swift resort specials for both near and far Wisconsin and Michigan Resorts, also to Atlantic City and Canadian resorts.

Ask or write us about our

$56.50 ROUND TRIP RATE Buffalo and Niagara Falls

Which includes meals and berths on the boat for a solid week

Junction City Ticket Office, 9th, Main and Delaware. Both phones Main 542.

W. C. MUELLER.

General Agent Passenger Dept. C. & A. R. R.

RAILROAD TIME TABLES.

MISSOURI PACIFIC R. R.

MAIN LINE-EAST ROUND.

202 K C & Joplir Mail
21 Kansas Ciry & St. Louis Local Iali stops 80 s a m
22 Kansas Ciry & Joplin Local Mail
2 Kansas Ciry & Joplin Local
3 St. Louis Mail & Express & Mail
3 St. Louis Kapress & Mail
3 St. Louis Kapress & Mail
4 Kapress & Mail

201 Joplin to Kansas City
3 St. Louis to California Special
37 Sedalia, and Nevada Local
7 Fast Mail foo stop)
207 Joplin to Kansas City Express
1 Colorado and St. Joe Express
621 St. Louis Local (all stoys)

LEXINGTON BRANCH-EAST BOUND.

22 K C. to Sedalia 624 K C. to Sedalia

WEST BOUND.

23 Sedalia to Kansas City 621 Sedalia to Kansas City

T. A. JOHNSON, Agent, Independence, Mo

Entered at the Post Office at Independence, Mo., as Second Class Matter

OUR CREED: "ALL TRUTH."

VOI. 25

INDEPENDENCE, MISSOURI, THURSDAY, OCTOBER 1, 1914

NO. 40

ZION'S ENSIGN

Published by the Reorganized Church of Jesus Christ of Latter Day Saints, every Thursday, at Independence, Mo., at $1.00 per year.

CHARLES FRY, EDITOR W. H. DEAM, BUS, MANAGER

In writing concerning subscriptions, always give the nam of the Post Office to which your paper has been going, as by so doing the stof hours in looking for it may be avoided.

When desiring a change of address always give the old as well as the new address, and when, sending subscriptions alway state when the subscription alway state.

In making remittances Money Orders are preferable. If coin is sent it should be folded in a card so it will not lose out and then enclosed in an envelong with your letter. Be sure and sign your name and vice your full address. All business iters should be addressed to the business full making the wise the state of the business that when the state of the business that when the state of the business rathers.

Address all letters and make all remittances payable to Address all letters and make all remittances payable to

ENSIGN PUBLISHING HOUSE, Independence, Mo

If sin be in the heart.

The fairest sky is foul, and sad the summer weather, The eye no longer sees the lambs at play together,
The dull ear cannot hear the birds that sing so sweetly,
And all the joy of God's good earth is gone completely,
If sin be in the heart.

If peace be in the hear,
The wildest winter storm is full of solemn beauty,

The wildest winter storm is full of solemn beauty,

The wildest winter storm is full of solemn beauty, Each living creature tells some new and joyous story, The very trees and stones all catch a ray of glory, If peace be in the heart.

-- Charles Francis Richardson.

IS CHRISTIANITY BREAKING DOWN?

Since the establishment of Christianity by Jesus and his associates nineteen hundred years ago it has been gradually woven into the fabric of human society. While we believe that God's hand has not been altogether absent from the world-loom yet much of the weaving has been done by human hands according to human wisdom under which the original pattern of the great Designer has been lost sight of, resulting in an imperfect fabric which must fail in meeting divine approval. In consequence it must not be counted strange if much of the fabric shall be rejected and passed through an unraveling process by which the imperfect work shall be eliminated and the material be prepared for more perfect work.

Some writers see in the present disruption of society in Europe a breaking down of Christian-Surely Christianity does not find its exemplification in the nations that are now raving with blood-thirstiness, and though up to the time of the outbreak of hostilities they were all counted as Christian nations, it is apparent that their Christianity must have been of inferior character, and that materials had gone into it which were altogether foreign to the Christ design. With such materials and with such imperfect work disruption would come at the first strain and the weakness of human society be revealed. This disruption has already taken place. The Rev. Dr. Frederick Lynch writing in the "Christian Work and Evangelist," as quoted by the "Literary Digest," says after describing conditions consequent upon the war:

Christianity has gone to the dogs, and the nations have gone mad. * * * Already thousands of atheists have been made. Almost every other man we have met in Europe made. Atmost every other man we have met in Europe this last week has shook his head with sadness and said: "What's the good of Christianity if it cannot stop this sort of thing?" It is as if the devil and all his angels have taken complete possession of Europe.

Today eight of the great nations who have supposedly been the repositories of Christianity are engaged in the most bitter and inhuman war of destruction known since Christianity's Author stood upon the earth, and the same lips which give command by which millions of men are sent forth to slaughter or to be slaughtered, make appeals to the same Lord to bless them. success. Can such appeals be other than a mockery before God? And what of the prayers which have been offered during the past forty years while these same nations have been using every resource and power to prepare for the struggle now going on? Surely much of the boasted Christianity is seeming rather than real or Europe would not have been as it is today. Dr. Lynch continues:

What does it all mean? It means many things. First of all, it means that there is something the matter with our Christianity, or else that we are not presenting it truly. For it seems to have no power whatever over men or nations when any real provocative of men's passions come. Most of these millions of men who are now drunk with the lust of killing, and hearsely shouting for their brother's blood, have been calling themselves Christians, and have most of them been taught in Christian schools and churches. And in a day it is all forgotten, and if one who remembers dares suggest, as a few did suggest in the varremembers dares suggest, as a rew did suggest in the various parliaments and in the press, that we remember our religion, he is hooted down. Is it that the human heart is too desperately wicked for even Christianity to control it when the deepest passions of all, revenge and lust of blood, are aroused? Is it that it can find only a few in each community—which is all it has yet done—whom it can fully regenerate? Or is it that we have been con-cerned too much with dealing with those sins which are more easily uprooted and controlled, and have neglected to uproot those awful fiendish, demoniacal passions that burst forth at such a time as this? Or have we in our endeavor to inculcate righteousness in our personal dealing with our brother of our land, neglected altogether to eradicate the beast out of men which such a crisis as this reveals as only slumbering? For the thousands of men we saw howling in all the cities of Europe were not men any longer. They had become beasts. The heast could even be seen in their eyes. They howled for only three things: drink, women, and blood of their brothers. Perhaps there has got to be a wholly new presentation of Christianity before these things can be stopped.

This writer is surely right when he says "There is something the matter with our Christianity," -notice "our" Christianity. No there is nothing the matter with Christ's Christianity, but there has grown up in its place and under its name a perversion, a deceptive substitute, which now in the hour of trial has broken down, and the people know not to whom to look. They thought they had been trusting in God-but their trust has been in They had hoped for salvation but the battlefields reveal the gates of hell opening wide. They thought they were built upon the rock but the shifting of the sands is leaving them in despair. They are like, as Isaiah prophesied, "as when an hungry man dreameth, and, behold, he eateth; but he awaketh, and his soul is empty." And why all this? Christianity has been a profession rather than a true service; men have offered to God an offering of empty words while their hearts have been set upon the things of wealth and leasure, in the search for which they have not hesitated to trample under foot the sacred rights of their fellow men; they have been of those who "draw near me with their mouth, and with their lips do honor me, but have removed their heart far from me, and their fear toward me is taught by the precepts of men."

The "new presentation of Christianity" must come, and it will be the same Christianity taught by Jesus and his apostles, making the same appeal to men to repent of their sins, their hypocrisy, as was made to the ancient Jews, and attended by the same power of the Holy Spirit. and followed by the same gifts and blessings which characterized Christianity in its early days. Is it to be wondered at that present day Christianity as held in the world is impotent, and has broken down, when every so-called Christian creed denies the perpetuation of its principles in their entirety, its ordinances, and the manifestations of the Holy Spirit by which alone it was given life and power? In other words men have taken Christianity into their own hands, and leaving God- and Christ out have conformed it to their own ideals and made it to render them service in the accomplishment of selfish and ungodly ends. It was just at such a time when these conditions would prevail; and when men with hearts far removed would serve God with their lips, that the Lord "will proceed to do a marvelous work among this people, even a marvelous work and a wonder: for the wisdom of their wise men shall perish, and the understanding of their prudent men shall be hid." (Isajah 29:14).

The ancient gozpel with all its ordinances and powers has again been restored to man in harmony with this prophecy. Its work thus far has been of a preliminary character, and its advance in the world has been comparatively little because it has found no welcome among the nations, but God must deal with the nations as with ancient Egypt and break down the power of false gods and false systems by showing their potency in order to establish his own name supreme over all. The Psalmist prayed for them: "Fill their faces with shame; that they may seek thy name, O Lord," (Psalms 83:16) and after the scourge the gospel will make its strongest and most urgent appeal to them, and will most certainly be welcomed by many. It is not Christianity, or the gospel, that has failed, but man has failed in making a proper application of it. All that there is in Christianity that is divine will abide every test while that which is human will be swept away, and if Christianity as held by the world today breaks down it is because so much of error and evil have crept into it that God can no longer uphold it.

The word of the Lord endureth forever. And this is the word which by the gospel is preached unto you," (1Peter 1:25) and Jesus said "My word shall not pass away." God is able to maintain his own cause, and his truth will never fail. Men who put their trust in him by obeying his truth will never see their faith break down nor find their confidence misplaced, but like the house built upon the rock will endure every test. All that is not of God's planting must be uprooted, and even the nations which exist by carnal force, having been built up by bloodshed, will not be able to withstand the inevitable fires of trial by which the earth is to be cleansed and God's righteousness and justice made supreme. May not the present calamity in Europe be the kindling of the fire for the world's harvest?

God's purposes will yet be fully woven into human life, and society will yet reflect the right, eousness and glory of God, but not until the gospel is welcomed and accomplishes its work of transforming the human heart, not until the service of the lips truly expresses the innermost feelings of the soul, and not until human passion gives way for the inflow of divine love and the god of self yields to the God of all the earth who regards all men impartially. The weakness of human society is being shown in a thousand ways in every nation, and its institutions are fast crumbling, but in it all God is preserving his own and out of the ruins there will arise a new society born of God, and men will exemplify in their lives the truth as it is revealed in the gospel of Jesus Christ, and Christianity will be truly represented on earth.

The materials for this new society will be gathered out of every nation, for God has said that "in the day of wrath I will remember mercy," and before the end comes "this gosel of the kingdom shall be preached in all the world for a witness unto all nations," and the willing and obedient will be gathered out. The leader of this new society will be the returning Savior whose dominion will extend throughout the world. Then "the earth shall be full of the knowledge of the Lord, as the waters cover the sea," and Christ shall reign in the midst of his people.

SPECIAL COLLEGE DAY WORK, OCTOBER 4, 1914.

The annual date set apart to take contributions in the

The annual date set apart to take contributions in the interest of Graceland College is near and it is but right that everyone should be prompt in responding to the call made by the church in General Conference for contributions in the interest of education on this date.

The help is greatly needed, the work of properly educating the young to which it is devoted is an important and necessary one, and by heartily and prayerfully responding to the call upon this annual date,—the first Sabbath in October—all will be specially blessed and the church greatly benefitted in its useful and essential educational work. cational work.

To avoid interfereing with other church work and also the unpleasant work of weekly or monthly reminding the Saints and friends of this in connection with other essenreminding the Samus and Friends of this in connection with orner essential features requiring aid, the college work was limited to one day in the year and all should be prompt to see that the day set apart for the work is not overlooked, and that no other business shall be permitted to substitute the

By action of the General Conference of the church, April, 1914, it will be noticed that the financial work of the College was placed under the Bishopric of the Church. This will require the special attention and oversight in their respective fields of every bishop and bishop's agent in the church in the interest of the college upon this day, In the church in the interest of the college upon this day, and these officers should confer with district and branch officers prior to the date of taking the collection, so far as possible, so that the business may be promptly looked after upon the day and reported at an early time, giving name of branch and district contributing, or name of person contributing when not in branch, so that the funds may be forwarded at once to the presiding bishop's office, to the help of the college. Districts near the college may the other than the college may are selected to the property of the college than the college may be considered to the property of the college than th file with the college treasurer, S. A. Burgess, Lamoni, Iowa, and he furnish duplicate statement to the bishop's office.

It is with confidence in the readiness of the Saints and

It is with conlidence in the readmess or the Santiss and helping friends that we send forth this hurried call, knowing the work is of the Lord and that all of his chil-dren should be ready helpers, and we commend to each the instruction of the Apostle to Titus: "This is a faithful saying, and these things I will that thou affirm constantly, that they which have believed in God might be careful to maintain good works. These things are good and profitable unto men.

With greetings to the Master's helpers we are very respectfully,

E. L. Kelley. E. A. Blakeslee.

Presiding Bishopric. Independence, Mo., P. O. Box 125, Sept. 18, 1914.

INDEPENDENCE ITEMS

Elder Joseph Luff on Sunday evening, the 27th, preached a striking sermon from the text found in the 24th chapter of Isaiah, also Thessalonians 2nd chapter, 4th verse, and 24th Acts 14, 15, 16. The speaker, like the apostle, desired to impress the thought that it was his duty to preach the gospel, and theirs to receive it. The world has all that necessary for its betterment, but the one thing needful it has not, and that is the gospel; and, according to the opinion of some, even in this church, not all sermons are such that one may clearly determine what is the Saints' true mission in the world. The conditions in Europe establish the word predicted; and while eight or more of the nations within one week were engaged in war, unparalleled in history, we are resting in peace, and our fellow men are sowing the soil with human flesh and blood, and all claiming to be Christian nations, engaged under King Immanuel. Within the church we have been hearing the word of warning, and this surprise that we have met will be answered by a greater surprise yet. The awfulness of the crisis fails to effect us, and while

The awtulness of the crisis fails to effect us, and while God is keeping his covenant, man is slow to believe. The fulfillment of prophecy in the past ought to have been believed, and the strong probability of the fulfillment of the prophecy under the new covenant must also be be-Instead, the great justice and honor of God have lieved. Instead, the great justice and honor of God have been ignored, and upon those who violate the conditions of the new covenant must be inflicted the punishment for Toroken law. There is no just immunity: the scoffers any "where is the promise of His coming?" and they aver because God does not do it today, he never will do it; but the day of the Lord will come, and their works shall be burned up. The great thought of the speaker was the evidences presented that while God will be called puerile, and he set them the same level as we are sculdary that.

evidences presented that while God will be called puerile, and be set upon the same level as man, suddenly that voice which spake in the days of Noah shall be heard now. The very element of their undoing was their salvation, and now the same will be the case in these last days. Like as of old, it has been to us an old song; but not one jot or tittle shall pass till all be fulfilled: as with the world so with the church. We are too much given to desires after the things that make for pleasure, and frills and further than the first ready to de the things. sures after the things that make for pleasure, and frills and furbelows, instead of being ready to do the things that are necessary for the carrying on of the work. Our greatest trust is that of the gospel, and the great mistake of trilling with the sacred things that God has instituted, we are now making.

We have heavy the Voice callies that the contraction of the contr

we are now making.

We have heard the Voice calling unto us as to what to accomplish in co-operation with him—to disemminate the doctrine of Christ, and to bring about the redemption of Zion. The crisis is on the world; but none the less than on the church, and we ought as Saints to give all for his on the church, and we ought as Saints to give all for his work. May his grace be sufficient, and may we let the wor'd see that we are willing to work as co-laborers with him. Bro. Luff closed his discourse by exhorting the Saints to put forth every effort not to abuse our trust, and to consecrate our lives, our all for the good of humanity.

The afternoon meeting was made interesting by the tittle out of the usual line of a prayer and testimony service. Those taking part were Elders Geo. Jenkins, G. E. Harrington, R. B. Trowbridge, T. J. Sheldon, and others. At the morning service Elder J. W. Rushton preached an excellent sermon on "Giving;" text St. Luke's gospel, 6th chapter.

There was an attendance of 911 at Sunday school Bishop Bul'ard, on his return from the Sand hills of the Northwest gave a good talk at the 8 o'clock prayer meeting.

INDEPENDENCE, SECOND BRANCH.

At the Sunday morning preaching service the audience was greeted once more by Elder I. N. White, one of the valiant soldiers of many years' service. Bro. White spoke in a forceful and convincing manner, laying stress spoke in a forceful and convincing manner, laying stress upon the straight and narrow way. Good advice was given for practical every day life. Also spoke of the different glories found in Doctrine and Covenanty.

At 8 p. m. Bro. J. W. Rushton of the Tvelve addressed a large, attentive audience. The speaker read the 17th chapter of 3chn, his subject being based on the oneness that Christ *spiessed in his prayer before being taken by the cremy. Also showed that sacrifice was a saving power that helped to carry the burden of humanity.

The different services were well attended and quite a number from the first branch were present.

number from the first branch were present.

A good interest is taken in the young folks' prayer meetings on Tuesday evenings. It has been suggested by one presiding that an invitation be extended to the young people of nearby branches to come and take part. Some are now attending quite regular.

KNOBNOSTER, MISSOURI,

Our Sunday school convened as usual and after a study of the lesson and closing exercises, the train being late, we had to wait a while for our Institute workers, but when the tain arrived Bro. Bushnell, Bro. McWithy and Sr. Allen came. The morning services were opened at eleven a, m. by Bro. Bushnell, and after a few remarks, Sr. Allen gave us some very good thoughts along the line of home class work, pointing out some of the ways to get people to join and how to get the work before the members of the society, all of which was interesting and beneficial. She also showed us the duty of those in charge of the home, how that it was very necessary to work with the children and how visits by the officers would strengthen them, and the necessity of the home department. We were made to feel that we were far behind in our work, ut we want to catch up as soon as we can. Bro. McWithy then occupied the remaining time, showing how the burden of the church rested upon the young, and that it was so very necessary for them to qualify them-selves for this work as it would fall upon them to acconselves for this work as it would fall upon them to accon-plish it. He cited us to the 11th section of Doctrine and Covenants in which it tells us that no one can assist in this work except he be humble and full of love, having faith, hope and charity, being temperate in all things that is intrusted to his care, and he gave us some splen-did ideas. Bro. Bushnell talked a few minutes, showing that many were called but few chosen. He advised the organization of the class, and help to save fallen humanity. At 2:30 we met again with Bro. Bushnell in charge, who introduced the Stake treasurer, Earl Redfield, who is a member of our local and a very promising young man and is priest of our branch, one that we think will be able, in the near future, to do a very good work for both Religio and Sunday school, and church. He gave us a good talk and answered many questions propounded to him. Bro. McWithy again spoke showing that if we would become efficient workers we must render willing service, and that we must qualify.

Our evening service was conducted by Bro. Burgess.

SEATTLE.

Sunday was a joyful day for the Seattle Branch. The attendance and spirit being very good all day. The Sunday school and Religio were well attended. Among the visitors from a distance we noticed Bro. and Sr. C. Oliver from Everett, Bro. Kinghorn from Auburn. The morning sermon was by our district president, Wm. Johnson; the evening sermon by the pastor on the question "Are we as a church in fact Cffristians?"

Had a very spiritual meeting on Wednesday night presided over by Bro. A. Gorbott and Evan E. Inslee, who was lately ordained to the office of priest. The Spirit came in rich assurance of the Lord's watchcare over his children—that he would never leave them if they trusted him. We also had a good prayer meeting on Tuesday night at the Riverside Mission at which two children adopted by Bro. and Sr. R. L. Hays were blessed.

Bro. Wm. Johnson was called to Mt. Vernon, some 80 miles up the Sound, to preach the funeral sermon of a sister of Sr. Alice Savage, who had been suffering long

Bro. Richard Salyards, Jr., gave us a good talk at Religio on Sunday evening on parliamentary law and its use. We had a good attendance at our Riverside Mission on iday night last, a number of interested being present.

Friday night Sr. F. W. Holman was called to Everett today by the death of a sister in the flesh. She leaves an infant and

J. M. Terry.

102 North 39th Street, Scattle, Wash., Sept. 23.

SAN FRANCISCO, CALIFORNIA.

Sunday the 18th Bishop C. A. Parkin went to his regular charges, Windsor and Santa Rosa, Sonoma County. He preached once at the former and twice at the latter place. These places were opened up by Elder J. M. Terry, and are now kept alive by Bishop Parkin. There are some good, earnest Saints there. The writer was the speaker here in the morning, and our pastor, John A. Saxe, spoke at the evening service. He went to Irvington in the morning and held sacrament service there, a good work he performs once a month.

Yesterday your correspondent had the pleasure of addressing the Oakland Saints. There was a good attendance. A good spirit always prevails in the Oakland Branch. Elder Savage was announced for the evening speaker. Elder H. D. Simpson occupied the pulpit here in the morning and Elder Ingram in the evening. Both services were interesting and instructive. Elder R. J. Parker presides at Oakland, and the Saints there are happy.

The me we we were the were we were we were CORRESPONDENCE wernermenterment in mermermenwermermer

Scottville, Mich., Sept. 6. Dear Ensign:—I came into the church through obedience to the gospel on November 2, 1893. I never have regretted the step taken, but in after years I grew careless and did not take the interest in the work that I should have taken. About seventeen years ago I dreamed I saw my father and myself standing in the front yard at home. Looking to the west I caw the heavens on fire. It was rolling upward like the waves of the sea, and over head I saw the lightning fall like a hard pouring rain. There was one terrible peal of thunder after another. I was relating the same to Bro. Geo. D. Washburn at Elm Flats schoolhouse. Before I had fairly finished he was looking upward talking in a very rapid manner. When he got through he turned to me and said, "Brother, if you are faithful, you shall see the fulfillment of that seene. Two or three years after I saw all nations in war. They were down in a valley muther north and on the contribution. faithful, you shall see the tultiliment of that scene. I wo or three years after I saw all nations in war. They were down in a valley on the north, and on the south I saw a small body of people on a hill. They were all clad in white robes that came clear down to their feet. They were watching the great battle, and after a time I saw an angel flying over the battle field while the fighting was going on; and again I saw another angel coming down from the western heavens having the stars and stripes in his right hand, and there was war no more to

일하다 하는 다른 사람이 나왔다는 그래요?

I do not know what to make of the dream. some one can give the interpretation. Another dream I had after attending conference at Free Soil, it being about one a. m. when I got home. I was rather tired, but as I was walking across the bed room floor it was impressed upon my mind that I should kneel and thank God for what I had known of the gospel. No sooner had my knees touched the floor when my body and spirit seemed to be separated and I was carried to a great distance to the southwest. I was shown an elevated piece of terri-tory, green fields stretching out as far as I could see. tory, green lieus stretching out as far as I could see. The Spirit said, "see, this is Zion," and as I gazed on the land of Zion I beheld the temple. The Spirit said, "See, this is the temple." In Zion then I was carried to the southward about six rods. I saw a dwelling house, and the Spirit said, "See, this is the dwelling place of the Prophet of God." The words, Joseph Smith came to me.

Dear readers, I dare not deny Joseph as our prop nd Seer. I do thank God for the testimony of great latter day work. I only ask you to pray for me that when I am done with this life I may be permitted to be with those who are living for God. Christ and the

I shall give you reason number four. This I know to be a dream. I was attending a prayer meeting at my father's house. The Saints were all gathered there and right in the midst or being half through they were waiting for some one to bear their testimony. All of a sudden an angel appeared and stood right in the center of the floor. He turned and looked upon the body of Saints, then spoke and told them the Lord was well pleased with them. He told them they should continue to be faithful

The Elders here are doing all they can do. The Elders here are doing all they can do. While I was being persecuted the worst, I was telling Bro. John Shewers over at Free Soil a number of years ago. He was to preach that evening and he chose the hymn "Brother, Is Life's Morning Clouded, Has its Sunlight Ceased to Shine." I have often thought he chose that hymn for my special benefit. May God b'ess him and the rest over there, as they are doing all they can for the work.

We have had some added to the branch at Free Soil. We have had some added to the branch at Free Soil.
Bro. Thomas Hartnell baptized three, Sunday, August 30th. We have a fine Sunday school here. Bro. George
A. Shunk is superintendent, Sr. Randall is secretary, and Sr. Eva Dodge is organist. There are five classes. We have prayer meeting every Wednesday evening at the homes of the Saints, and the attendance is good.
Your brother in hope of eternal life,

John Gulembo, Jr.

Bennett, Nebr., Aug.28.

Dear Ensign:—I do want to express myself because of my love and gratitude to God for the blessing that has come to us, and I feel to thank all the dear sisters and brothers for their love and prayers offered up to God in my behalf. I feel to rejoice because of God's love and kindness to us in the birth of our dear little baby boy he kindness to us in the pirth of our dear little bady boy he has given us. My faith, my hope, and my trust in God is strong. About three weeks before our little one came to us I was given the blessed promise under the hands of Bro. W. M. Self that I should put my trust in the Lord, to pray often and ask God for strength, and that strength would be given me to pass through my trial safely. After our little darling came, there were three days nearly that our little darling came, there were three days nearly that the doctor could not get any action from his little kidneys, and he was burning hot with fever and so dreadfully nervous, we were so afraid he would go into spasms. The doctor did everything he knew of to help it, but nothing did any good. My husband tried hard to get an elder from Nebraska City and one from Lincoln but could not get one from either place as they were out of town. I wrote to Bro. Joseph Smith for his prayers for our baby, and I to Bro. Joseph Smith for his prayers for our baby, and I prayed earnestly for him. God heard and answered our pleadings, and he is getting along so nicely now. He is thirteen days old today. I am up again but not so very strong yet, but hope to be well and strong ngain soon.

I ever strive to be cheerful as God has said for me to be cheerful, and I try to look upon the bright side of everything, ever looking forward for the blessings God has promised me. Under the hands of W. M. Self and Bro. A. J. Layland I was given the promise that from all pain, all weakness, all afflictions of whatever name or nature that I shall be healed. Though I am still afflicted I feel quite happy and cheerful, for I have much to hope for and look forward to, and I know that God is faithful and powerful forward to, and I know that God is faithful and powerful to the fulfilling of all his words. I ask your prayers, dear saints, that I may ever be faithful in my desires and efforts for good, that my faith may never fail me and that I may soon receive the promised and much needed blessing and be vaised to health and strength again Pray for my tiny babe that he may thrive and grow strong, that my dear husband will soon come into the fold and labor along with me in this blessed cause of Christ, that I may ever let my light shine and bring my little ones up in the right way that they may be instruments in God's hands for good. The desire of my heart is that I may be spared to raise my children, that I may ever live such a pure and saintly life, ever striving to do good and to teach my little ones the gospel truths, the blessed way of salvation May God bless you all with health and strength and the light of his Spirit to help you in all truths is my prayer for you. I am as ever your sister in the one true faith.

Mrs. Chas. E. Smith

Indianapolis, Ind., Sept. 14.

I came here the 22nd of June and tri Editor Ensign:to hold meetings in the hall where the Saints meet regularly but could not get any outsiders to come to our meetings, so we began to talk tent to the brethren, W. H. Fish and Bro. J. E. Warren. Bro. Fish and myself were placed on a committee with Bro. J. G. Halb by the were placed on a committee with Bro. J. G. Halb by the district conference at Indianapolis last November to raise money to buy a tent. We had just 50 dollars and the Ladies Aid had 30 dollars which they gave or consented to let us have, and we accepted it as a loan to the district from the Aid Society, and several of the Saints of the branch here donated pretty freely with the understanding that I should give this tent season to Indianapolis to try to build up the work in this city, which I did. So Bro. Edwin Perry and myself began a search for a tent, and we found one 20x40 that was just made last fall and used during the State fair. It was just made has fair and used during the State fair. It was a $100 tent when made, but was reduced to us to $67.00 and we bought a new 10x12 tent to go with it for the missionaries to sleep in. It cost $12.78. We set up the tent on the sixth of July, and up to the present there have been twelve baptized and others are near; one of them was to be baptized. last Sunday with five others, but she was sick so had to delay her baptism. Bro. F. A. Rowe and wife were with me up to a few days before the reunion at Derby, so I wrote to Bro. Halb to come and hold forth in the tent during the reunion, which he did, and he just left on Sat-urday, the 12th of September. We have moved the tent near the hall to hold forth till the 27th, but we are having no interest here and I may go to my home in Independence,

Mo., to fix up things at home for the winter.

It has been a hot, dry summer, but I have enjoyed my work splendidly. Brn. Fish and J. E. Warren and W. M. Hanner and Bro. Mast and others have rendered valuable aid to us missionaries, and Sr. J. E. Warren has been faithful to her duty at the organ, so all have done well. I thank God for such noble Saints as there are here, I feel loth to leave, for we will not get back with them any more during this year.

Before coming here Bro. L. C. Moore and I held a three weeks' meeting in a tent at Halton, Ind., where I baptized three, and seven here on August 9th, and Bro. Fish baptized the five on last Sunday, the 13th, so we are happy in the work and the Saints say they have been well paid for the sacrifice they have made, as they have gained some good members for their branch

I am as ever yours for truth,

J. W. Metcalf.

Hulett, Wyo., Sept. 14. Editor Ensign:—I am still battling in the "army of the Lord." I was permitted, by the Lord's help, to lead four precious souls into the kingdom yesterday; one a short time ago, and more to follow; so the work is progressing in this long neglected field. There is all the work now in view that I can attend to.

I was worrying over the apparent indifference of my I was worrying over the apparent manner of the youngest son, Frederick, and felt he was being neglected since his mother's death; but the enclosed poem, recently received from him, gives me encouragement. You may insert it. I also enclose one of my own composition that may insert

My field address is Alva, Wyo. If any one in reach of my field of labor, Eastern Wyoming, desire, they can reach me at the above address.

Yours in the faith.

J. M. Stubbart.

Thayer, Mo., Sept. 9. Editor Ensign:-To the Saints of the South Missouri Editor Ensign:—To the Saints of the South Missouri District, our next conference will convene at Thayer, Mo., Saturday, October 3rd, at 10 a.m. All that are anticipating coming by rail please write the undersigned what day and what train you will be on and you will be met at the depot. Also all that have tithes, that they want to pay in, I am still ready to receipt for the same. Come and bring the Spirt of the Master with you, that we may all feast together on heavenly things, for the day has come that we should be in closer touch with our Master, that we may he worthy the cell down the bleesings from that we may be worthy to call down the blessings from God.

Yours in gospel bonds, Geo. A. Davis, Bishop's Agent.

Box 262.

Papeete, Tahiti, August. 24.

Dear Ensign:—We began preaching at night at the island mentioned in my last letter and worked on the church in the day time. Most of the people of the island attended, the few non-members and Catholics included. They do not get to hear the white missionaries but about twice. twice a year, as there are so many islands that we cantwice a year, as there are so many islands that we cannot get around to all oftener; therefore they are anxious to hear the gospel by us. We had some opposition, or friendly questions, about whether Peter is the rock from a Catholic. He asked for baptism before we left them. We baptized five there.

We did not feel any famine for bread, as we had all kinds of food. While we worked on the church all the men and their families came and cooked and are in one cormon body. They made a fire on the ground, laid rocks on it and when the fire burnt out and the rocks were hot the fish were laid on them and roasted. Their bread is made into dough, rolled up in strips of palm leaves, blacuit size, and bolled. No yeast is used. Some excellent bread maker reading this may not think it so good as it really is. Another very good article of diet is the caveu, a kind of tree crab that climbs the cocoa nut trees to get the cocoanuts. Canned goods can be bought at the store. The prices are almost prohibitive at times. Nestle's canned milk is thirty cents per can, omatoes thirty cents to forty cents for the best grades The saints gave us one of their best houses to live in The saints gave us one of their best houses to live in. Bro. Savage and I started to keep house; one to cook, the other to wash dishes, etc. We got along very nicely. When we began work on the church we moved up to where the others were encamped, where we were given a table to eat at and a man to cook for us. He had been a cook for an official family in Papeete. We then fared sumptucusly every day.

We had many calls to administer to the sick of which there are many here. They have seen many miracles wrought since the gospel came to them.

Having finished our stay of about three weeks we made preparation to leave. The saints came to the seashore preparation to leave. The saints came to the seashore to see us off. There were some tears at parting, which were not for us as individuals, but for the missionaries that were leaving. As they shook hands so many gave strings of beads—a token of friendship—that we had to take our hats for a recepticle. We climbed aboard a cutter boat for another day and night on the sea.

Your brother in Christ, A. H. Christensen.

6 Anglo Ave., Parkside, South Australia. August 14, 1914.

Editor Ensign:—It is not often that we see news from this state, not because there is nothing to write about, only that there seems to be a disposition on the part of the Saints to let the missionary do the most of the work, especial'y along this line, and as a consequence there are few reports; but I trust that you will not think us a nonenergetic class, because of the laxity of correspondence, even though there does seem a want of it.

Early in the year 1902, Elder J. H. N. Jones opened up the work in Adelaide, our capital city, and after much hard labor for a few years, was enabled to organize a branch which has since grown to over 70, although some have obeyed the first principles and have dwindled away into bye and forbidden paths, and become lost to the church. Our missionary brother has had to make very great sacrifices in this place, and has not had a bed of roses, breaking down the prejudice that it had against the latter day work, nor did he obtain success without meeting the usual obstacles that confront pioneers—hav-ing no church in which to occupy, he had to resort to out-door preaching while the sisters would hold the "torches." We do not always appreciate the untiring efforts put forth by those who introduce the work and very often the Saints tire of the old friends and flock to new faces, not meaning the of the old rights and nock to new faces, not meaning to throw cold water upon the pioneers either. Elder Jones has occasionally had assistance from our late misson president, and then when removed to Victoria, his labors have been followed up by Brn. Paul M. Hanson, J. W. Davis, and F. G. Pitt, et al, and this year the writer

We have been looking for a wisit from Apostle G. T. Griffiths, but as he is engaged on the other side of our continent we have to exercise a little patience and await the time of the Lord. Just lately we had a short visit from Bro. C. Ed. Miller and his counsel and advice was a tower of strength to the Saints, who were wishing that we had a few more such men in the field as his vast experience can be used to good account for the extending of Zion in these last days of trouble and gloom.

Each department of the work is catered for; there are Each department of the work is catered for there as three Sunday schools, two Religios and one Woman's Auxiliary. A district association of the schools was formed last April and we hope to be classed as a first grade district and are working to that end, which is possible as it is so small. While the other auxiliaries are not large, they are of assistance to the young and from their ranks will arise those who will be called upon to shoulder the responsibilities of branch and mission work in the near future; already there are several young men taking hold of the work of the priesthood, who if humble will prove valiant warriors for the Master, and we are will prove valiant warriors for the Master, and we are watching the progress and advancement being made on all lines by the Saints in general, hoping to see the work in sunny Australia expand and grow until the time comes for the Lord to call us home to Zion, the place of safety, for those who will not take up the sword against their neighbor, and we are praying that that time may soon

The British nation, of which we are a small portion, being embroiled in the war on the European Continent, places us Saints in almost the same prediction as those in the British Isles, for the mother country expects all her "young Hons" to send their best men to the front to uphold the honor and dignity of our nation. Truly we deprecate the whole affair, but as we are under the Union Jack and look to it for protection against foreign inva-sion, we could not do less than supply our quota of bel-lgerants. To safeguard our own shores, many of the Saints have been called out and are scattered all over the country doing duty, and while none of us like to shoulder the musket against our neighbor, still we have to obey the laws of our land which makes it imperitive for all betwen the ages of 14 and 26, serve under the colors until they attain the age of 26 years, after which they are placed on the reserve list, and are commanded to hold themselves in readiness at any moment for emergencies and can be called upon as reservists till such times as they reach the age of 45. The federal law makes it compulsory to attend military training, but we do not relish it at all, neither can we get exemption, unless medically unfit, which is hard to prove as the most of our youth are sturdy and strong and able to withstand rugged and rough treatment, as was shown during the Boer ware in Sauth Africa.

war in South Africa.

Many are wondering what will this titanic struggle end in, and are expecting the ushering in of the Millenium, when Christ will rule the nations of the earth as King of kings and Lord of lords. Whether this war leads up to the great battle of Armageddon or not, we have no time to sit idle and allow Satan to have all his own way, but must be up and doing for the Master, spreading the news of salvation here below, so that when he comes we will be ready to enter in to the marriage supper with all will be ready to enter in to the marriage supper with all our garments prepared and clean.

There is so much to do and so few to do it, that the work is rather arduous, to those who in the forefront of the batte, especially to those who in the forefront without any supports, save the Head, who can be relied upon at all times for the necessaries to overcome the enemy, and carry victory right to the gates of the domain of the vanquished. The arch-enemy of mankind is such a vigilant old warror; that we need the very best material in our vanguard that it is possible to be had, so we must resort to the storehouse, or ammunition van, of One who resort to the storehouse, or ammunition van, of One who is a more powerful General and who stores a far stronger is a more powerful General and who stores a tar stronger shell, than can be produced out of the regions where it is said is "sulphur and charcoal," which are two of the component parts of "gun powder." The Lord's Lyddite is a more deadly weapon to the armies of Satan, than was the explosive shell of the same name that was used by the British in the late Boer war. So we have nothing to fear as long as we depend upon the ammunition that is supplied by the powers of heaven, and are entrenche about by the Holy Spirit which was promised to be "a wa of fire" to all those that obey Him who are leading in the battle.

Onward and upward is our watchword, no surrender, our "pass word," and excelsior, our finale. I trust that our "pass word," and excelsior, our finale. I trust that all may receive the welcome plaudit "well done" at the end of this warfare. Ever praying for the redemption of Zion, yours in gospel bonds,

W. Hy. Gammidge.

Omaha, Nebr., Sept. 17.
Editor Ensign:—My brief stay in this city has been made exceeding pleasant by reason of the congenial spirit made exceeding pleasant by reason of the congenial spirit existing, and so much in evidence among the happy band of Saints of this branch. The promise of success and expansion is surely bright with a corps of faithful, unlied officers working together for the general uplift of the work. May this Spirit permeate the entire branch and thus secure the continued favor of the Master.

About sixty of the Saints with happy faces surprised Fre. Walter Love last evening at his positions 2900 Lebes Bro. Walter Lowe last evening at his residence 2206 Lake St., (where howe last evening at his residence 2206 Lake St., (where the writer is kindly provided for) on the anniversary of his (Walter's) 46 birthday. His hospitable home was made the scene of joy and merriment for a time as the assailing band took possession of things generally. A very pleasant time was enjoyed. The young people, who were in the majority, repaired to the lawn where innocent games were enjoyed, while the older vis-itors passed the time in social enjoyment. Ice cream, itors passed the time in social enjoyment. Ice cream, cake and fruit were served. "Our Paul" was in evidence at the piano. Everything as free as the air which should characterize our social gatherings. May the blessing of the Master here abide.

GLEANINGS.

Mrs. Mattie McKeldowney, Annamoriah, W. Va.-I am isolated from all church privileges, and the Ensign is a welcome guest. An Elder is sent here thout once a year. We have no branch here, as there are but three or four members. Most of the people here are very prejudiced against us. I pray that God will soften their hearts and that they may come to an understanding. of salvation. I obeyed the gospel seventeen ye

Mrs. A. Rosenburg, Miller, Mo.-I long to be with the Saints where I can do something for the cause. By reading the "silent preacher" I see the great need of sending laborers into the field, but I am getting old and have to work hard for my living.

SOLICITUDE.

Sweet is the smell of the harve t, Dry and seer is the ripened corn, Down in my heart is an aching The deadly sharp prick of a thorn

My soul has gone out for the lowly, My heart has bled for the bad: ughts to myself are not solely I'm looking out now for the sad.

When Christ comes to earth with his army, And his will will be done every where, May my name be recorded up yonder; My spirit for good entered there.

May the souls of friends gather round me, lay mother's voice ring in my ear: Welcome, my dear boy to heaven Welcome to you, my dear son, here.

May father come down the highway, With his short and choppy stride Welcome my boy up to heaven, Welcome my son by my side.

The angels all chant a welcome The ang...
Our Father comes down a.c...
Welcome my son into glory,
You have gained it, my child, all alone.
--J. Frederick Stubbart.

"Therefore let your hearts be comforted, for all things shall work together for good to them that walk uprightly, and to the sanctification of the Church; for I will raise up unto myself a pure people, that will serve me in righteousness; and all that call on the name of the Lord and keep his commandments, shall be saved."-Doctrine and Covenants 97:4.

SERMON BY PRESIDENT JOSEPH SMITH AT

INDEPENDENCE, MO., SEPT. 6, 1914.
The Presiding Elder said he took great pleasure in introducing as the speaker, President Joseph Smith, and President Smith responded by first saving:

I am profoundly regretful that my long absence from the pulpit requires an introduction to an Independence audience, but time and tide wait for no man; nor do they wait for nations or the developments of the events which God has set in his time and in his power for the purpose of bringing to pass what ever purpose he may have had in the creation of the world and the suffering it to be peopled with men.

Many things are pressing upon my brain this morning and I have been lost in thought much during the last six weeks, but more especially since only a fittle over one month ago war was declared by one of the leading nations of the Eastern world. Followed so immediately after its dissemination by the invasion of a neutral territory by hundreds and thousands of armed men showed a degree of preparedness upon the part of the distators that forged this instrument of war for the carrying into effect a purpose designed by him for which he had the temerity to ask that the pleasure and the protection of Almighty God might be given him.

It is not my purpose this morning to attempt to analyze the events of the past month or to express direct opinions as to what may be the result of the gigantic struggle now going on in the center of what has been supposed to be, the realm of civilized life, for many years. My reason for this withholding opinions is the result of thought long cherished, and for which I can make no excuse unto those who may think differently from me in regard to that which is taking place.

I am aware that we have long preached the coming of disaster to the world; that we have thought, believed, and so far as we might understandingly say we had knowledge of that which had not yet transpired, that there would come a terrible scene of awful destruction upon the world by the pouring out of the spirit of war upon the nations; and it may be possible that some more venturous than I have been, have believed that by a close study of the Scriptures and the arranging of the chronology of the promises which have been uttered and reported in that record known as the Bible, the Old Testament especially, they could trace in the event of this or a similar war, the incoming of that which portended the end of all things. I might have joined with some of these speculators in the arrangement of their chronological facts, as they call them, if it had not been for some few things which to me were of paramount importance and which had the awful dignity behind them of the Word of God. For instance, in the 24th chapter of Mat-thew we have two things very prominently pre-One of them is that a gospel was to be preached in all the world beginning at Jerusalem, I may be admonished by some of you who are listening closely to what I may say this morning, that I have not properly stated that declaration, but that it is "This gospel of the Kingdom," showing a specific means by which the peculiar gospel referred to might be identified by those who were desirous to know a completeness of the intention of Him who made that utterance. I have believed from the first hour, the first hours I may say of my beginning to understand the gospel that I was called to assist in preaching to the world, that the gospel referred to there had not, up to my day, been preached in all the world but that two very important portions of that gospel had been presented and had been continued to be presented from that time down to the time I began, and I may add they have been continued until now. These were the principles of repentance and remission of sin.

It has pleased those who have been identified with me in presenting the gospel as revealed in these last days through the revelation of the Book of Mormor and the direct statement of the Spirit in revolation to the Church, that there were, in addition to those two grand principles, the general mission of Jesus Christ as the Savior of men and the full realization to those who might become believers that he was the Christ.

Basing my thought of this morning partly upon that statement and upon the second, perhaps far more important in its widespread meaning than the first, also the statement that this gospel of the kingdom was to be preached as a witness unto all nations and then should the end come, I have found in my thought and my consideration and my investigation, so far as I was able to pursue them, that this gospel of the kingdom has not yet been preached to all the world for a witness unto all nations. One of the reasons for this has been, so far as the last thirty-five or forty years have been concerned, that by virtue of a departure from the original principles of belief and doctrine as promulgated in the revelation and presented by Joseph and Hyrum Smith and his compeers, there had been added that which was foreign to the institutions of the citizens of the Republic, the organized opinion of the citizens of the Republic crystalized into law and becoming the ruling institutions of the domestic circle which brought a sudden dampening upon the order of the host of ministers that were at the time preaching, and that besides this, by virtue of this adverse system of belief, foreign nations taking alarm, forbade the ministration of those who came with the gospel, as they pretended, with this peculiar addition to it-forbade them preaching in the precincts of their respective kingdoms or realms over which they ruled. Besides this, commotion in different portions of the earth prevented our ministry from entering in and occupying the field: one of the reasons whv-because we lacked the material power to sustain them in their respective fields. They had faith enough; they had energy enough; we had a respectively strong faith to send them abroad, but we had not the sinews, the means of sustaining them in the fields respectively, wherever they were and, therefore, they were obliged to go dependent upon the carefulness among whom they labored and frequently suffering seriously because they had no place where to present the gospel and scarcely where to lay their heads.

But we were slowly emerging from under that condition of things, observing the rule of faith granted unto us by the Master, that the coming of the hour, the night or the day, when there was to be a fulfillment of the statement concerning the coming of the end should not overtake us as a thief in the night, for the simplest, the grandest, the truest reason of all that it was not known and could not be known until this remarkable prophecy had been fulfilled. It could not be presented in any country where there was war; it could not be presented in any region of country where men of war were struggling for the supremacy and shooting each other down under the command of those who had charge over them. I took the ground quite early that in that land our preachers could not acceptably find reception among the inhabitants of the different states and then existing territories, if the country itself was in the active scene of political irruption or in the case of war. It became fully demonstrated during what we have been pleased to call the Civil War, the struggle between the North and the South so-called, that our ministers could not preach with a degree of success in those particular realms where the active preparation and the actual fighting was going on. I took the ground that it could not be done; others took different grounds—that it might be possible to thus bring to pass a more rapid and completer peace, but the results showed differently.

Again, there was a belief upon the part of some that this realm known as the center of Zion, by some of the most zealous of us, could not be inhabited by us again, whose predecessors and representatives had been driven from the land because there was to come a time when the besom of destruction was to sweep across the country and practically depeople it for our incoming as the messengers of peace. I well remember that two of those supposed prophets that have risen out of what was called the Latter Day Work predicted the destruction of Independence, and one of them went so far as absolutely to designate the specific house and premises which he and some of his followers were to inhabit when that scene of terrible destruction by the sweeping of the besom of destruction across the country should have been completed, and I remember that a second prophet also predicted terrible things to come to pass on this land prior to the coming of the Savior and the building of the temple. I took ground then that he that chose to do so could move within the precincts of what we might call Zion, secure a home, plant his hearth-stone, erect his roof-tzee, and if he behaved himself as a citizen of the State and a citizen of the kingdom of God should do, he could remain on the land undisturbed until Gabriel shall blow his horn. Now who was right? I leave that thought for you.

I am not prepared to say upon whom rests the awful responsibility of what we now see spread out in the European Continent, from the extreme north to the extreme south; the awful consequences yet are not known nor will they be until t shall be further seen how many more of those interlocking, interdepending kingdoms and dominions shall become involved in that terrible struggle. A few have undertaken to stand aside neutral and watch the result. What has been the result? They have stood between the outcoming and the ingoing hosts until their very neutrality was taken advantage of and others now remote from the scene, declaring their neutrality, may by some peculiar concordant of peculiar nations be compelled and thrown into the vortex of war where their men will die by thousands and their people at home mourn by thousands more. What is to be the result for us of the Republic is far more of interest to us in one sense of the word than the outcome of that terrible war over yonder. For one reason, if for no other, and that is that as a people who have preached peace, the inhabitants of this Republic are in the hands of God as well as are the calm embattling hosts over there under his hand and will bow to the edict of his will when the time shall come for peace to recur. When will that be? Ah, my friends, my brethren, that is a question which neither you nor I by any means within our power can determine. No matter what our thought, no matter what data we may have gathered, just as sure as we undertake the consideration with approbation on either side of these contending forces, we may err, and hence the wisdom of our quietly taking note of what is going on and understanding, so far as we can enough to keep out of it. Worship God, mind our own affairs as individuals and as citizens of the great Republic pray that the example which has been set by us as a nation may not be wasted at the final issue. You may ask me, "Bro. Smith, do you intend to say that we must not think about that war-why it was and what will be the result." By no means do I say that. I say by all means within your power become acquainted with all of it that you can; think as you may about it; find a place where you, in your consideration, may place the finger of disapprobation and conclude that God himself disapproves as you do. You will have still to meet the fact that those who are engaged in this war, each of them as a nation and individuals as such, are putting their hands together and praying the Almighty God to be on their side of the conflict. Will he? Personally, I look for his will to be accomplished, whatever it is, and if we have sufficient faith to trust him as individuals and as an associated body, we may await with patience the coming of the time when this conflict will cease and out of it there will rise again the banner of peace raised by the hosts of them who may believe in the coming of the Redeemer.

A short eleven years ago I visited England, the center of the great British Empire now engaged as one side or in one side of this awful struggle on the continent and striving by every means in her power to keep supreme command of the seas. We are friendly with that wonderful power, we are friendly with the German nation, we are friendly with the French nation; indeed using the laconic expression of Grant in one of his messages to Congress, "We as a nation are at peace with all the world and the rest of mankind." hope, my brethren, let us pray that the supreme magistrate of this nation, this Republic, with his assembled counselors may so wisely consider and so wisely determine the acts of this nation pending this controversy, notwithstanding all that may come of trouble and despair and the necessity for strong and strange economical procedures upon our part as individuals to sustain ourselves and our families. Let us pray that they may so wisely determine our national actions that when there shall sound the balm of peace over yonder, over those battle fields, there may have occurred nothing upon our part as a nation and a Republic that shall involve us in any part or portion of this struggle. You know what I mean.

I call to mind that now I am living under the fourth pope that has ruled on the throne of Cathduring my life time-Pius IX, Leo XIII, Pius X, and now we have Benedict XV. I recall the fact that while our conference was sitting at Leeds, England, in the first days of August, Pius X was installed in his office as pope. The poor, wise, good old man (I believe I speak properly in his praise now that he is asleep with the Father) -that pious good man wept and it is said that his heart was broken because the Lord did not hear his prayers and send peace among those combatants, over part of whom he had spiritual rule. We have understood that the incoming pope has also offered prayers for the incoming of this peace. Will he be heard any more than was his predecessor? Has he more power than had Pius X? It remains to be determined, but ah, I remember that He has said to us that where two or three are gathered together in My name, there will I be in the midst thereof. The prayer of a good man ascendeth on high and may be heard, but when nations go to war, they throw aside the principles of peace and I have often been led to wonder how they dare to kneel and ask God to bless the terrible intrusions which they contemplated upon their fellow men and which must result in the death of thousands upon thousands of men of war and the mourning of thousands, thousands more hearts who must suffer the deprivation and the awful consequences that follow in the footsteps of war. War is the abomination that maketh desolate, and look at the lands where these armies traverse and what is the result? Ashes lie strewn where cities must have stood; graves, ah the whole land has been made a universal graveyard where thousands, thousands must lie and await the resurrection which will bring all men to judgment, and who then shall suffer the awful punishment of regret, of sorrow, of anguish, the result of their misdoing while they were living. The Book of Mormon teaches us that we shall have a lively consciousness of all our evil and wrong doing. If we shall thus have a living consciousness of all that we have done that was wrong, there may be also the opposite of that-we shall have a lively consciousness of the merit by which we hope to obtain unto the crown of righteousness and of peace.

Let me then, my brethren, let me then adjure you to carefulness upon this subject. I admire and respect the wisdom of the Chief Magistrate in the counsel which he has given the citizens of the Republic to abstain carefully from all that shall stir up acrimony and strife in the places where we dwell. Let us be careful that no act of ours shall cause bloodshed at home, in private quarters or in those quarters which are engendered through the popular enjoyment of politics, or our different opinions, for we shall surely reap the reward which will be bad if we suffer ourselves to become embroiled in that that shall bring distrust and disturbance upon the neighborhood in which we live.

In our teaching, in our preaching, let us be careful—to use a homely expression that all of you can understand—let us place no spiritual stakes as to the events that are transpiring or may transpire, that when the time shall have elapsed we may possibly be obliged to retreive what we have done and find the stakes which we have driven have been productive of mischief among our fellows.

I close my little exhortation this morning by recalling to your remembrance what has been declared in revelation in which the prophet saw until a scene came in which the gospel was preached in all the world, to every kindred, tongue and people, crying with a loud voice "Fear God and give glory to him for the hour of his judgment has come." Let us await the coming of the judgment day and in the meantime let us be busy with the cares of our ministerial labor and so live among our own associates and in association with the world that when we shall have done with the things of time and shall lie down to our final rest, it may be said of us "He hath done good while he lived—let his rest be glorious."

I may have failed, my brethren, in saying all that I have been thinking about; but time would not serve me, neither would my strength. I thank you for the kindness with which you have come together and mave listened to me. Feeble though my remarks may have been, they have been intended for good. You know very well from your acquaintance with me and the history of the past that I have been careful not to speak at random or to speak in any dubious terms to be misunder-What I have said, I have said frankly and openly. Let us beware then that we falter not. let us beware then that we do not give undue and improper importance to what is transpiring and attempt to bring to pass what we might hope to be, but remember that these things which have been spoken prophetically must and will have their fulfillment before the coming of that great Judge of the earth, who shall with his scepter of love and his scepter of power bring peace to the earth. Shall he find faith on the earth? I pray God that few as we may be, if he should come at any time we shall be ready for him with preparation of mind. Let him come when he would; and I understand that that is the meaning of the declaration "Occupy till I come."

TOLSTOPS VISION.

Recently there has appeared in numerous newspapers a purported vision had by the late Count Leo Tolstoi the Russian author. It is said to have been related by him to his grandniece, Countess Nastasia Tolstoi in 1910 who sent a copy to Emperor Nicholas, by whom copies were sent to Emperor William of Germany and King George of England. Whether Tolstoi really had the vision or if so whether he had been correctly reported, may be doubted, and though its correctness be accepted it is not necessarily to be considered as coming from the divine mind. We give it to our readers for what it may be worth.

"This is a revelation of events of a universal character which must shortly come to pass. Their spiritual outlines are now before my eyes. I see floating upon the surface of the sea of human fate the huge silhouette of a nude woman. She iswith her beauty, poise, her smile, her jewelsa super-Venus. Nations rush madly after her, each of them eager to attract her especially. But she, like an eternal courtesan, flirts with all. In her hair ornaments, of diamonds and rubies, is engraved her name, 'Commercialism.' As alluring and bewitching as she seems, much destruction and agony follow in her wake. Her breath, reeking of sordid transactions, her voice of metallic character like gold, and her look of greed are so much poison to the nations who fall victims to her charms.

Three Torches of Corruption.

"And, behold, she has three gigantic arms with three torches of universal corruption in her hands. The first torch represents the flame of war, that the beautiful courtesan carries from city to city and country to country. Patriotism answers with flashes of honest flame, but the end is a roar of guns and of muskets.

"The second torch bears the flame of bigotry and hypocricy. It lights the lamps only in temples and on the altars of sacred institutions. It carries the seed of falsity and fanaticism. It kindles the minds that are still in candles and follows them to their graves.

"The third torch is that of the law, that dangerous foundation of all unathentic traditions, which first does its fatal work in the family, then sweeps through the larger world of literature, art and statesmanship.

All Europe in Flames.

"The great conflagration will start about 1912, set by the torch of the first arm in the countries of southeastern Europe. It will develop into a destruction and calamity in 1913. In that year I see all Europe in flames and bleeding. I hear the lamentations of huge battlefields.

"But about the year 1915 the strange figure from the north—a new Napoleon—enters the stage of the bloody drama. He is a man of little militaristic training, a writer or a journalist, but in his grip most of Europe will remain until 1925.

"The end of the great calamity will mark a new political era for the old world. There will be left no empires or kingdoms, but the world will form a federation of the 'United States of Nations. There will remain only four great giants—the Anglo-Saxon, the Latins, the Slavs and the Mongolians.

Then a New Ethical Era.

"After the year 1925 I see a change in religious sentiment. The second torch of the courtesan has brought about the fall of the church. The ethical idea has almost vanished. Humanity is without moral feeling.

"But then a great reformer arises. He will clear the world of the relics of monotheism and lay the cornerstone of the temple of pantheism. God, soul, spirit and immortality will be molten in a new furnace, and I see the peaceful beginning of an ethical era. The man determined to this mission is a Mongolian Slav. He is already walking the earth—a man of active affairs. He himself does not now realize the mission assigned to him by Superior Power.

"And behold, the flame of the third torch, which has already begun to destroy our family relations, our standards of art and morals. The relation between woman and man is accepted as a prosaic partnership of the sexes. Art has become realistic degeneracy.

"Political and religious partnership have shaken the spiritual foundation of all nations.

Race Wars Strangle Progress.

"Only small spots here and there have remained untouched by those three destructive flames. The anti-national wars in Europe, the class war of America, and the race wars of Asia have strangled progress for half a century. By then, in the middle of this century, I see a heroine of literature and art rising from the ranks of the Latins and Persians, the world of tedious stuff of the obvious.

"It is the light of symbolism that shall outshine the light of the torch of commercialism. In place of polygamy and monogamy of today there will come a poetogamy—relations of the sexes based fundamentally on the poetic conceptions of life.

"And I see the nations growing larger and realizing that the alluving woman of their destiny is after all nothing but an illusion. There will be a time when the world will have no use for armies, hypocritical religious and degenerate art. Life is evolution, an evolution is development from the the simple to the more complicated forms of the mind and body.

"I see the passing show of the world-drama in its present form, how it fades like the glow of evening upon the mountains. One motion of the hand of commercialism and a new history begins."

BISMARK PLANTED SEEDS OF EUROPEAN WAR THIRTY-FIVE YEARS AGO.

Thirty-five years ago Prince Otto Edward Leopold von Bismark-Schonhausen set out for Vienna. It was a memorable date, a momentous journey, for as the result of it Europe is now weltering in blood. It was in the development of his great game of weltpolitik that Bismark found it necessary to visit the Austrian capital. There he met Count Julius Andrassy, the Hungarian statesman, and together they negotiated the terms of the dual alliance. From that time on the trail that leads to the present carnival of terror is so plain that he who runs may read. And yet, strangely enough, it was this treaty of alliance that led the shortsighted to give Bismark the title of "the peacemaker of Europe."

The iron chancellor, hating and fearing France, brought all his genius to bear upon the task of isolating the republic and rendering her incapable of forming anti-German alliances. The dual alliance between Germany and Austria, consumated in 1879, remained a secret to the world at large until 1888. In the meantime, Italy was won over in 1882, and the dreibund or triple alliance came into being.

Thirty years ago Bismark inaugurated the career of Germany as a colonizing power, which necessarily brought him in conflict with Great Britain, and laid the foundation for the present grouping of the powers under the triple entente. The Bismarchian ideal of a "friendless France" was thus rendered impossible of realization. France found her first friend in Russia, however, and in 1891 the republic entered into a treaty with Russia, not made public until three years later. Anglo-French relations were still far from cordial, however, although Britain and France held a common hatted of Germany.

The rift in the triple alliance began in 1896, when France and Italy, before estranged, made overtures toward friendship. In 1901 France agreed to give Italy a free hand in Tripoli, and Italy reciprocated by withdrawing all objections to French operations in Morocca. The France-Italian reconcillation was completed ten years ago when the Italian king and President Loubet exchanged visits. The Bismarck alliance was crumbling.

About the same time King Edward visited Paris, and Loubet returned the visit. In 1904 a treaty was made by which France was left free to work out the destinies of Morroco and England was left supreme in Egypt. Thus the triple entente of Great Britain, France and Russia was formed, and France was no longer "friendless." Italy, while still bound by the dreibund, hated Austria and feared Germany and sympathized with the aspirations of France.

The diplomatic war between France and Germany over the Morrocan question began in 1905. In the Algerias conference France had the sunport of Great Britain and Russia and the friendly sympathy of Italy and the United States. In 1909 Germany recognized the preponderance of the French political interests in Morroco.

The entente cordiale did not reach its full power until 1907, when England and Russia entered into a treaty by which their clashing interests in Asia were amicably settled. The annexation of Bosnia and Herzegovina by Austria, with the approval of Germany, and the German challenge to France at Agadir in 1911, brought Europe to the verge of war. The intervention of England and the widespread opposition to war of German Socialists resulted in delaying a crisis. Events have proved, however, that it was only a postponement of the inevitable.—St. Joseph Gazette,

THE RELIGIOUS OUTLOOK.

Will China some day send missionaries to America? We cannot believe it, says the "Christian Observer" (Southern Presbyterian), but a high (Southern Presbyterian), but a high Chinese official says it will be so. The rapid advance of Christianity in mission lands suggests The suggestion is emphasized by the comparatively sluggish progress of religion, or its actual decline in Christian lands. As indicating growth, in foreign lands it appears from the last reliable census of India that there are now 3,896, 000 Christians in India, twelve for each thousand of population. The American Methodist Mission India baptized 30,000 persons in 1912, and 40,000 in 1913. Thousands registered their names for baptism, but could not receive the required instruction because of lack of workers. The work of other denominations is correspondingly pros-The Presbyterian Church in China is perous. preparing to organize a General Assembly. Sixty thousand Presbyterians are ready to enter this organization. Other denominations enjoy similar prosperity. How about Christian lands? The Churches of America report gradual growth, but European Protestantism is literally declining. "The Quarterly Register" of the Reformed Churches says: "Recent statistics of the Free Churches in England and Wales show a membership close to 2,000,000. In the Church of England, the attendance of communicants at Easter, 1913, was 2,328,707, and the Welsh dioceses, 155,191. These results indicate a decline both in the Anglican and in the Free Churches." Under the topic, "Secession from Protestantism in Germany," "The Register" says: "It is difficult to form an estimate of the number of those who have already seceded. A fairly accurate estimate is 80,000, spread over the years 1912 and 1913, and 30,000 for the first four months of 1914. In account for this abandonment of the Church, which continues month by month, the writer assigns two leading causes. The one is "the spread of the scientific spirit," the other "the spread of the great political organization known as Social Democracy." A third cause mentioned is the State tax levied on the membership of the Church for its maintenance. It thus appears that in Germany materialism which is based on evolution and reduces man to a merely animal existence is one rock on which faith suffers shipwreck. Another is Socialism, which in Germany is of a malignant type. It resists allegiance to existing governments, whether human or divine, and and makes social welfare its religion and its god. Both these evils are intimately related to the destructive Biblical criticism which has been rife in university chairs and "progressive" pulpits. The Presbyterian.

BILLY SUNDAY ON THE SALOON.

The saloon is the scum of all villanies. It is worse than war or pestilence. It is the crime of crimes. It is the parent of crimes and the mother It is the appalling source of misery, poverty and sorrow. It causes four-fifths of the crime, and, of course, is the source of threefourths of the taxes to support that crime. And to license such an incarnate fiend of hell is the dirtiest, most low-down, damnable business on top of this old earth.

The saloons fill the jails and the penitentiaries, the poorhouse and the insane asylums. to pay the bills? The landlord who doesn't get the rent, because the money goes for whisky; the butcher and the grocer, and the charitable person who takes pity on the children of drunkards, and the taxpayer who supports the insane asylums and other institutions that the whisky business fills with human wrecks.

Do away with the accursed business, and you will not have to put up to support them. Who gets the money? The saloonkeepers and the brewers and the distillers, while the whisky fills the land with misery, poverty, wretchedness, disease, death and damnation, and it is being authorized by the will of the sovereign people.
You say, "People will drink it anyway." Not by my vote. You say, "Men will murder their wives anyway." Not by my vote. You are the sovereign people, and what are you going to do about it?

In these days, when the question of saloon or no saloon is at the fore in almost every community, one hears a good deal about what is called "personal liberty." These are fine, large mouthfilling words, and they certainly do sound first rate; but when you get right down and analyze them in the light of good old horse sense, you will discover that in their application to the present controversy they mean about this:

Personal liberty is for the man who, if he has the inclination and the price, can stand up to a bar and fill his hide so full of red liquor that he is transformed for the time into an irresponsible, dangerous, evil-smelling brute. But personal liberty is not for that patient, long-suffering wife, who has to endure with what fortitude she may his blows and curses. Nor is it for his children, who, if they escape his insane rage, are yet robbed of every known joy and privilege of childhood, and too often grow up neglected, uncared for and vicious, as the result of their surroundings and the example before them.—The Presbyterian.

FINDS RARE ROMAN ART.

Paris-A correspondent writing to La Liberte gives particulars of an archæological find of the greatest interest. At Madhia, on the Tunisian coast, five or six years ago, some Greek sponge fishers noticed a strange mass of wreckage lying at a depth of 130 feet to the north of Madhia lighthouse. Amid a jumble of timbers lay splendid marble columns, bronze statuettes, a superb life-size boy's figure, and a Hermes of Dionysius, which they succeeded in bringing to the surface.

M. Merlin, the head of the Tunisian antiquities department, applied for and finally obtained various subventions, and the admiral commanding the Tunisian squadron sent a powerful tug and two torpedo boats to give assistance. It has now been ascertained that the sunken ship was a vessel of about 400 tons, a hundred feet long, and twenty-five broad. She was laden with an extraordinarily heterogeneous cargo. Not only blocks of marble, but bases and capitals for columns, effigies, statues, furniture, tiles, lead piping, lamps, amphorae, etc. Among the fragments were found figures of a demi-god and a maiden and faun, which correspond almost exactly with those upon what is known as the Borghese vase dug up in Rome and now in the Louvre.

The Hermes bears the signature "Boethos," the sculptor of the celebrated "Child With a Goose" of the Second Century B. C., and there are numerous other very fine specimens of old Greek sculpture among the treasures already recovered.

The bottom of the hold contains about sixty columns of bluish-white marble thirteen feet high, which were probably one of the causes of the wreck of an evidently too heavily freighted ship.

All the inscriptions disciphered relate to Attica, and personages of the middle Fourth Century B. C., and it might have been thought that the vessel dated from that period, but for the Boethos statue and lamp of a pattern only introduced into Attica at the end of the Second Century B. C.

Some writing on lead ingots also is in the Latin of that epoch, and experts have concluded so far that the vessel was loaded in Attica for Rome, and probably the cargo was the spoil after the taking of Athens by Sulla in 86 B. C.

Both Lucian and Pliny relate how Sulla pillaged Athens, and the former describes a wreck off Cape Malea of a ship full of works of Greek art, including a picture of Xerxes. Rome's loss two thousand years ago, however, becomes French gain, and soon travelers will be able to admire these priceless relics in the Bardo Museum at Tunis .- Washington Times.

MRS. MADGE SIEGFRIED, EDITOR 1417 W. Walnut St., Independence, Mc

NOTICE.

All persons sending money to the Woman's Auxiliary for any purses, including subscriptions to Home and Child Welfare leaf-lets, or Children's Home donations, please forward same to the treasurer of the Auxiliary, Mrs. J. A. Gardner, 711 S. Fuller Ave., Independence Mo. apply SORY BOARD lependence Mo. ADVISORY BOARD.

Mrs. S. R. Burgess, President, 3930 Etzel Ave., St. Louis, Mo. Mrs. B. C. Smith, Vice President, 214 S. Spring St., Independeg, Mo. Minnie E. Scott, Secretary, 309 S. Fuller Aves, Independ

Miss Minnie E. Scott, Secretary, 39, 5, 4, and ence, Mo ence, Mo Mrs. J. A. Gardner, Treasurer, 711 S. Fuller Ave., Independence, Mo Mrs. M. A. Etzenhouser, 1595 W. Walnut St., Independence, Mo. Mrs. D. J. Krahl, 724 S. Crysler St., Independence, Mo.

Superintendents of Departments,
Home and Child Welfare Department, Mrs. H. A. Stebbins, Lamoni, Iowa.

moni. Items.

Jiterary, and Educational Department, Miss Lydia Thomas, Lamoni, lowa
Eugenics Department, Mrs. Jennie Studiey, 17 E. Cottage St., Roybury, Mass.

Roybury, Mass.

Roybury, Mass.

Roybury, Mass.

Sewing and Aid Department, Mrs. Bertha Anderson Hulmes, 18 Millist. Coincil Bluffs. Iowa.

Sewing and Aid Department, Mrs. Edith Cochran, 207 S. Seventeenth St., St., Joseph, vo.

Young Woman's Department, Mrs. J. A. Gardner, 711 S. Fuller

Ave., Independence, Mo.

"WE MUST RESIGN!"

We have made this exclamation many times of late—owing to the increase of duties and responsibilities which accompanied the arrival of our nine and a half pound son on the thirty-first day of July. It is with regret that we find this necessary, for we have enjoyed the effort, and experiences gained, while in charge of the Auxiliary Column during the past year or so. And we had hoped to be able to continue and mayhap, through experience "do better," for we have felt dissatisfied with our personal efforts.

However, in the newly appointed editor, the Board has chosen one who is a splendid housekeeper and happy home maker, the mother of a young son and daughter; and one whose opinion and friendship we Auxiliary workers in Independence "tie to," Sr. Arthur H. Mills. We hope that she may have your assistance and encouragement; and an occasional word for herself, if not for her Ensign space. We have appreciated the help received in these ways; and so hope that we may all continue to work together in faith and

Madge Siegfried.

Entering upon a new and untried field is always attended with more or less reluctance, especially if the requirements of that work are of a character to demand time and abilities which one may not possess. Upon the request of others I undertake the new work assigned me; not without misgivings, but trusting that while I may conduct it the cause in which I am so deeply interested may flourish. This cannot be done without the cooperation of all the workers likewise interested, (and may their number be increased!) and I trust by your help to be able to see and meet some of the many demands in this line of work. I will be glad at any time to hear from anyone in the way of suggestion, advice or contribution, (original or clipped) as in this way avenues may be opened which might otherwise be overlooked.

Let us renew our strength in the line of "Woman's Auxiliary" work, through activity; feeling the need of the Holy Spirit to help and sustain, guide and direct, that this work may increase in its power for good among the mothers and fathers and the young of our church.

Maude Mills.

FATHER, BE COMPANION TO YOUR SON!

To The Star: Several days ago I noticed in Speaking the Public Mind a letter which was signed "Doubtful Parof the troop of which their boy is a member does not take an interest in his work. I wonder if Doubtful Parent realizes what a great responsibility is placed upon a scoutmaster when he undertakes the leadership of a troop of boys. I would like to ask Doubtful Parent a few questions.

Are you lending every available means to co-operate with your boy's scoutmaster? If you are a father, are you a companion to your boy or do you spend your evenings at the club or elsewhere? If you are a mother, are ings at the through the sewiner: I you are a mount, are you training your boy so that he may be an honor to you when he is a man or are you permitting him to roam the streets while possibly you attend your card parties? Do you expect the scoutmaster to teach your boy in one what you have probably neglected to teach him

"modern parable of the prodigal father" is being distributed by the Community Boys' Work Division of the Y. M. C. A. of Tulsa, Oklahoma.

A certain man had two sons, and the younger of them said to his father: "Father give me the portion of thy time and thy attention and thy companionship, and thy counsel, and thy guidance which faileth me." And he divided unto them his living in that he paid the boy's bills, and sent him to a scleeted preparatory school, and to dancing schools and to college, and tried to believe that he was doing his full duty by the boys.

And not many days after the father gathered all his interests and aspirations and took his journey into a far country, into a land of stocks and bonds and securities and other things that do not interest a boy, and there wasted his precious opportunities of being a chum to his own son. And when he had spent the very best of his own son. And when he had spent the very best of his life and had gained money, but had failed to find satisfaction, there arose a mighty famine in his heart, and faction, there arose a mignly talline in its least, as the began to be in want of sympathy and real companionship. And he went and joined himself to one of the clubs of that country, and they elected him chairman of the house committee and president of the club and sent him to the legislature. And he fain would have satisfied himself with the husks that other men did eat and no man gave unto him any real friendship.

But when he came to himself he said:

But when he came to himself he saud:
"How many men of my acquaintance have boys whom they understand and who understand them, who talk talk about their boys and associate with their boys and seem perfectly happy in the comradship of their sons, and I perish with heart hunger? I will arise and go unto my son and say unto him: 'Son, I have sinned against heaven and in thy sight, and am no more worthy to be called thy father. Make me as one of thy acquaintance!"

And he arose and came to his son. But while he was yet afar off his son saw him and was moved with astonishment, and instead of running and falling on his neck, he drew back and was ill at ease. And the father said "Son, I have sinned against heaven and in I have not done my duty by you, and am not thy sight. worthy to be called thy father. Forgive me now and let worthy to be called thy father. Forgive me now and let me be your chum."

But the son said: "Not so. I wish it were possible, but it is too late. There was a time when I wanted to know things, when I wanted companionship and advice and counsel, but you were too busy. I got the information and I go the companionship, but I got the wrong kind and now, alas! I am wrecked in soul and body, and there is nothing you can do for me. It is too late, too late, too late, too

A Former Scoutmaster. —Kansas City Star.

A NOBLE HERITAGE.

By Helen M. Richardson.

I wonder if mothers in general remember some of the things that used to trouble them when they were children. An unremitting surveillance, for instance, which left nothing to which their own sense of honor could spur them on.

I know a mother who gives her child absolute freedom of choice between a rigth and a wrong action; who puts him upon his honor, and ever after, even though she may see him wavering between the two, holds her peace and alts the outcome of the struggle.
Whenever a situation presents itself where she thinks advice from her standpoint would prove helpful, she gives it, not in a dictatorial manner, but as one friend might advise another.

Useless nagging is avoided. She seldom approaches er child in a spirit of criticism. But by impressing upon her child in a spirit of criticism. But by impressing upon his mind her faith in his integrity, she has gradually led him up to her own standpoint of right and wrong; so that the petty tricks and subterfuges practiced by his compannever fail to receive his condemnation.

Allowing that all children are not alike, and that a rule which applies to one would be an utter failure with another, still, every child has his rights which all well-disposed and intelligent parents are bound to respect. And it is safe to assert that many a child's moral nature has been hopelessly distorted by too strenuous efforts to bring result which otherwise might have been naturally Ccaseless nagging usually defeats its aim. To let a child know or imagine that you are continually suspecting him of doing wrong is the surest way of making him a wrongdoer; while a persistent and optimistic belief in his integrity—a loving trust free from all appearance of sus-picion, will often win an otherwise rebellious and stubborn child; and when once won over to the right, this very stubbornness, perhaps more rightly named will-power, may prove his safeguard.

may prove his sateguard.

The atmosphere he lives in—or, in other words, the moral environment of a child—has much to do with the upbuilding of his character. Surround him with suspicion, and it will not be long ere he will begin to doubt and suspect every one with whom he associates. Place the safeguards of faith and trust around him, and you will find between the safeguards. him continually growing more trustful himself; and the manliness he will be quick to discern in his natural guides and protectors, he will gradually absorb into his own character, as the plant absorbs the sunlight.—Mother's Magazine.

MISCELLANEOUS

CONFERENCE NOTICES.

Southern Indiana District .-- Conference will convene on October 17th, 10 a. m., at Wirt, Ind. Expressing the hope that all branches will be represented.

Edwin Perry, Sec.

Eastern Maine District.— Conference will convene at Jonesport, Air., October 24th. Business session called at 2:30. All are cordially invited to attend.

Neuman Wilson, Clerk. W. E. Rogers, Pres.

Kewance District .- Conference will convene at Moline, Illinois, October 31st and November 1st. Delegates to the next general conference will be chosen. All reports should reach the secretary in ample time so that a complete report of the district may be compiled.

115 Clarke Ave., Peoria, Ill.

Des Moines District.—Conference will convene Nevada, Iowa, October 10th, 11th and 12th. This is This is the first fall conference we have had in the district for of years, and we should like to have a good at-

E. O. Clark, Dist. Sec.

Mary E. Gillin.

2500 Logan Ave., Des Moines, Iowa. CONVENTION NOTICES.

Florida District.—Sunday school convention will con-ene at Alassor church on Friday, October 30, at 10 a.m. Would be glad to have a good delegation from each school and all reports in hand by appointed time. J. S. McCall, Sec.

Rt. 5, Brewton, Ala., Sept. 19, 1914.

NOTICES.

The Womans Auxiliary for Social Service of Kirtland District will meet to elect officers, during the district conference which convenes October 10th and 11th at Kirtland. Ohio.

Mrs. F. J. Ebeling.

R. F. D. 2, Willoughby, Ohio.

The First Quorum of Elders of the Spring River District will meet at Joplin conference of the Spring River District, October 8th, 9th, and 10th. Let the Elders of the quorum please take notice and as many attend as can. Elder W. H. Smart, Pr Elder S. G. Carrow, Sec.

TWO DAYS' MEETING.
A two days' meeting will be held at Soldiers' Grove,
Southern Wisconsin District, October 10th and 11th. We hope to see a good crowd as this will be our first effort along this line. All are cordially invited.

J. W. McKnight, Dist. Pres

PEACE SUNDAY AND THE AMERICAN RED CROSS. October 4, 1914. To All Churches in the United States:

Our President has, by proclamation, designated Sunday Our President has, by proclamation, designated Sunday, October 4, as a day of prayer for peace. It has been suggested in many quarters that on this Sunday a collection be taken up in every church to relieve suffering in the the war-ravaged countries of Europe. The Red Cross, which is charged with the special duty of aiding the sick and wounded in time of war, respectfully urges that op-portunity be given in each church to every person who so desires to make a contribution to the American Red so desires to make a contribution to the American Red Cross, which is impartially aiding every country in a spirit of common humanity, and which recognizes no dis-tinction of race or nationality. However, every contrib-utor who desires to designate any particular fund or country to which his or her contribution shall be applied may do so, and such request will be respected.

The Executive Committee

American Red Cross.

PERSONALITY OF GOD.

"God said: Let us make man in our image, after our likeness." Gen. 1:26. It is said of God, "I will do all my pleasure." Also that he has unlimited power. As the Savior expressed it, "All power is given unto me." It is distintly affirmed in the text that God purposed to make man in his likeness, and image. I don't see how we could be told plainer that God made man like himself we could be told plainer that God made man like himself in form. It has always been a mystery to me that people do not understand God to be a person, in the light of this tex. If man is in the "image and likeness" of God, then God must be in the image and likeness of man. But I am fully persuaded that God intends to have man even more like himself, even "the measure of the stature of the fullness of Christ." Christ prayed that he and his disciples might be one "as we are." Christ said, "I am the way, the truth and the life, no man cometh to the Father but by me." As Christ understood all things pertaining to life and godliness he evidently wants his children to be educated in the way of life too.

If there is any one thing clearly affirmed in holy writ children to be educated in the way of life too.

If there is any one thing clearly affirmed in holy writ it is that God has a purpose to be accomplished in his children. In all the material expressions of God in nature, we find undeviating order, system. God said to mankind: "Replenish the earth." One specific divine law mankind: "Replenish the earth." One specific divine law was given by which it could be done. There can be no deviation. In this is expressed his will and purpose, perpetuity. This shows the nature of God to be, as the scriptures hath said, "Whatsoever he doeth, he doeth it forever." If it expresses his will at one time, it does always. "For in him is no variableness, neither shadow of turn-

God has an end to be reached: the perfection of man-kind. It can only be reached through the "narrow way," "the perfect law." The perfect law of liberty. We must be doers of the law. The law points out how we may be "the perfect law." The perfect law of liberty. We must be doers of the law. The law points out how we may be perfected—nothing else can.

The law points to the performance of two kinds of works, those which are defined distinctly spiritual, and those more specifically material. In the spiritual there comes to one the deep conception of God as our Father, his bountful love is seen cleaver and so we love him as never before. Our eyes are opened to our defects and we are anxious to please him; and to know his will, is to do it, and so his law is the "beacon light" to guide us. When we are born into this spiritual life of incorruptible seed by the word of God, which liveth and abideth forever, we want to be like God, be real sons or children, and so we see the only way we can reach it is by an and so we see the only way we can reach it is by an observance of the whole law, not only to say, but to do, and when we are confronted with an opporunity to help we will not be anxious to see how little we can do and escape, but do all we can gladly. We will not only use diligence in the expression of our faith, virtue, knowledge, self-control, patience, godliness, brotherly kindness, love, which if these abound we shall not be barren nor unfruitful in the knowledge of our Lord Jesus Christ. We will be fruitful in all that relates to the expression of our be fruitful in all that relates to the expression of our love for our Father.

When we come across such words of God as this: "Will a man rob God?" you will say No. And when you learn that your Father requires—asks of you one-tenth of your increase in temporal things, you will be not only willing but glad to do his will. It will be pleasure. God wants a tried people. He will not have any others in the sun glory. So just ask yourself: What do I want? and how giory. So just ask yourself: What do I want? and how can I get it? The Word answers only one way in the per-fect law. Please read Bishop Kelley's sermon in the Herald of September 2, page 380, "Bearing Fruit," and see if you are bearing any. If not, what kind of a tree are you? We can only judge by your fruit. C. A. Parkin.

579 5th Ave., San Francisco, California.

REAL ESTATE FOR SALE BY THE PRESIDING BISH-OPRIC..

The following Real Estate is offered to the Saints who The following Real Estate is offered to the Saints who may wish to purchase property in Independence, Jackson County, Missouri, and adjacent regions. In addition to this the church owns about $80,000.00 worth of property in this locality (not including church buildings) which is reserved and not for sale. All enquiries should be addressed to E. L. Kelley, Presiding Bishop, Box 125, Independence, Missouri.

1. 308 South Fuller Avenue ft., street paved, sidewalk, water, electric lights, basement,

1c., street paved, sidewalk, water, electric lights, basement, cistern, shed. 3½ blocks from Stone Church, $2500.00

2. 822 West White Oak St.—5 room house, lot 52 1½x
160 ft., paved street, sidewalk, water, gas, eletric lights, cistern, bath. Modern except heat. 4½ blocks from Stone Church, $2300.00.

Vacant 120 ft.—East Maple Avenue, 1 block from Courthouse square on paved street. $16.00 per foot-$1920.00.

4. 1301 North Liberty St .- 3 Room house, lot 423/2x

1801 NOTH LIDETY ST.—3 ROOM noise, 10t 42/9x
 16% ft., paved street, cistern, $900.
 1233 W. South Ave.—5 room house, ½ block from paved street, lot 58x 120 ft., good well, $900.
 Vacant 3 lots 25x120 ft., St. Charles Street, west of

Spring St., $150.00.

7. 529 S. Pleasant St.-4 room house, pantry and basement. 42 ft. front, paved street, walks, cistern, city water, $1200 Vacant-50x147-on Independence Electric Line, one block from Stone Church, paved street, $1800.00. Vacant, Lot no. 19, East Independence No. 2, 126x275 ft. $150.00.

828 W. Walnut St .-- Lot 82x156-4 room house-10. block from ward school-2 blocks from Stone Church,

$1300.00. 11. 707 North Cottage.—Lot 50x157 ft., 4 room house

Gas, water, electric lights, bath, $1525.00.

12. 1220 W. Waldo.—Lot 50x180, 4 rooms, cistern, gas, nalk, $1490.00.

13. Vacant, North River Blvrd. near College on paved street.—Lot 52x140. Within one block of school, $400.00.

street.—Lot 52x140. Within one block of school, $400.00.

14. 811 W. South Ave., on corner of Cottage and South Ave.—6 room house and basement, cistern, sidewalks all in, close to Church, $900.00.
15. 701 North Cottage.—10 room house, pantry and large bathroom, paved street, sidewalks all in, strictly modern, Lot 68x157 feet, fine location, within one block of school, $3500.00.

16. Vacant, southwest corner Fuller and Walnut.

50x133, paved streets, sidewalk, all improvements in; fine building site. $1100.00.

17. 2 lots, 100x138 Southeast corner McCoy and Alton

Ave, near church, $320.00.

Ave, near church, $320.00.

18. Vacant Lots No. 106, 107, 108, East Independence, Missouri, nearly 3 acres, $520.00.

19. 5 room house—105 South Willis, Lot 50x133 feet, city water, cistern, cellar, shed, barn, $1700.00.

20. 1403 W. Blue Ave.—4 room house on paved street, sidewalk and all improvements in, $1400.00.

21. Vacant—four 50 ft. lots on Blue Ave., paved street, sidewalk, curbing and all improvements in, $12.00 per foot.

22. Vacant 55 feet Maple Ave. near Woodland Street graded, sidewalk and all improvements in, $8.00 per foot.

23. Vacant, 50 feet, corner Maple and Park, street graded, sidewalk and all improvements in, $450.00.

24. 5 room house, Lot 50x151, Forest and W. Lexington, cistern, large basement, fruit, $1400.00.

25. Vacant, 55 feet, Maple Avenue near Woodland st., graded, sidewalk and all improvements in, $465.00.

26. Switching property—Coal yard, feed mill and dwelling located on South Liberty Street and Missouri Pacific Railway (Lexington Branch) consisting of mill, coal sheds, switch. Dwelling is a 7 room house, bath, gas, water, switch. some fruit. $10,000,00.

some fruit. $10,000.00.

27. 2713 Kensington Avenue, Kansas City, Missouri.—

4 room house, lot 40x110 feet, sidewalk and curbing in, graded, good cistern, fruit; one-half block 27th St. car line, excellent neighborhood, rents for $10.00. $900.00.

28. East Independence, 5 room house, 2% acres land, barn, chicken house, cistern, $1800.00.

DIED.

Loomis.—Roy E. Loomis, son of Bro. and Sr. J. B. Loomis, passed away at Cossian, near Harshaw, Wis. Was born December 23, 1885, at Plano, III.; was killed June 15, 1914, while blowing stumps out with dynamite. Was 28 years, 5 months and 22 days old, and leaves a father, mother, four brothers and three sisters to mourn.

And Offier Books for Sale by the Ensign E200-Publishing House.

Book of Mormon Dictionary. A comlete pronouncing Dictionary of proper names in the Book of Mormon, with definitions and explanatory notes. Paper, 25c; cloth, 40c; leather. $3.65 comlete

Three Bibles Compared. A comparison be-tween the King James, the Revised and the Inspired Versions. Paper covers, 25c, 5 for $1.00; cloth.$0.35

From Palmyra to Independence. A book of 444 pages. A brief review of the Book of Mormon is given, with many testimonials and affildavits.
Paper covers, 60c; cloth .......$1.00

Sabbatarian Theories a Delusion, 113 pages. Price, 15c or 2 for......$0.25

Webster's Business and College Dictionary,
Besides being an up-to-date pronouncing dictionary it contains much other valuable information.
It contains new words up to September, 1911, and the last Government census. Pôstpaid for....$9.00

Hurlbut's Teacher-Training Normal Lessons Paper covers, 35c; cloth $0.50 Palestine of To-day ............ The Christian System ......... .....$1.00 $1.00

CAMBRIDGE AND BAGSTER BIBLES.

center inter and French Levanic, $3.56

H140X—Same as H131X, but has Persian Morocco cover $4.50

J45—French Seal, flexible overlapping, illustrated, self-pronouncing, red under gold edges. Size, 5x7/8xx

11/4. $1.36

51/x50% $1.10

S125—A fine Bible for those who want large type and not so particular about it being small. Long primer type, self-pronouncing, full page libstrations, French Seal, divinity circuit, etc. $2.25

S125/4—Same as S125, except it is patent indexed $2.50

S126—Same as S125, with button cleary $2.35

S130—Same as S125, leather lined. $2.70

S140—Same as S125, leather lined. $2.70

H15—A fine little Bible at a low price. French Morocco, divinity circuit, red under gold edges, flexible, over-lapping cover. Size, 5 4x8 % $1.25

F66—Same as 1 65X, with button clasp.$1.60

NEW TESTAMENTS.

E200—Leatherette cover, red edges .....$0.15 E212—French Morocco, limp, red under gold .....$0.30

OXFORD BIBLES. -Persian Morocco, divinity circuit, leather lined to edge, silk sewed, round corners, red under gold edges, black faced type, thin India paper. This is a beautiful little Bible. Because of the thin India paper it is only % of an inch thick. 04207Xclear print, remen and the try circuit, round corners, red under gold edges ... $2.60

A model Bible. India paper, black faced minion type, French Morocco, divinity circuit, linen lined, round corners, red under gold edges, 7½x 5% inches ... $2.75 edges, has headband and slik marker and 12 maps ... $2.00

The 1911 Bible. Printed on genuine Oxford India paper, only $8 mot thick, slik sewed, bound in finest Alaska Seal, leather lined, round corners, red under gold edges, silk head band and marker ... $5.00

OXFORD TESTAMENTS.

021—French grained, red edges ... $0.20

022—Same as 021, with gilt edges ... $0.30

030—French Morocco, round corners, Imp., red under gold edges ... $0.35

01240—Morocco grain, round corners, red under gold edges ... $0.35

We give such Bibles as are carried in stock, but can supply any Bible on reasonably short notice. The Oxford line of Bibles is very extensive, from which we list a few of the best and most popular ones.

TRACTS.

TRACTS.

One dozen copies ..... .20

Evans.

"The Book of Mormon; Evidences of Its Divinity," by Elder R. C. Evans.

"Creed Making," by Elder R. M. Smith.

"Good Newn." A tract of tracts on several different subjects by as many writers.

"The Church of Christ," by Elder Edward Ramile.

"Who Was Joseph Smith," by Elder J. W. Peterson.

"A Glimpae at the Government of God," by Elder Paul M. Hanson.
"Reasons Why. Shall We Hear Them?" Revised edition. By Elder J. W. Peterson.
"Twelve Reasons Why I Believe The Book of Mormon," by Elder Charles Fry.

"Joseph Smith: Was He a Prophet of God?" by Elder R. C. Evans.

God?" by Elder R. C. Evans.
The following at special prices named:
"What We Believe," an epitome of the faith of the Church. Per dozen 5 cents, 50 for 20 cents, 100, 55 cents.
"Items of Teaching Found in the Book of Mormon." Compiled by the Independence Religio Good Literature Committee. A tract of ten pages. Three for 5 cents; 12 for 15 cents; 100 for $1.00.
"Latter Day Saints, Who Are They?" by

"Latter Day Saints; Who Are They?" by Elder T. W. Williams. Three for 5 cents; 12 for 15 cents; 100 for $1.00.

Elder T. W. Williams. Three for 6 cents;
12 for 15 cents; 100 for $1.00.

"Is Water Baptism Essential to Salvainon" by Elder Joseph Luff. Three for 5 cents; 12 for 15 cents; 50 for 40 cents; 100 for 75 cents.

"Seventy-one Theological Questions." Per dracen, 10 cents; per 100, 60 cents.

Elder's Diary. A handy little book for accurately keeping account of ministerial labor by simply jotting down figures in the proper column, the printed headings supplying the rest. A financial record also is a convenient part of the book. This is suitable for all holding the Melchisadee Priesthood. Price ...$0.10

Priest's Diary, Arranged similar as the Elder's Diary, but provides for labors connected with the office work of the Priest. Price ....$0.10

Teacher's Diary. Arranged for the duties and labors of the Teacher. Price,

Address ENSIGN PUBLISHING HOUSE, Independence, Mo.

BLIND ADDRESSES OF ADVERTISERS Some times for prudential reasons as advertiser withholds his name. For insaveruser withholds his hame. For instance. He may have some kind of a business for sale. There are various ways a competitor may injure that business if he knows it is for sale. There are often good reasons for withholding the names of parties desiring to sell other kinds of property. Sales may be thwarted by those who make it their business to do so. A business may be all right and a house be all right may be all light and a module be all light but because of financial obligations the owner be compelled to sell. Thus you see instructions to address care of Ensign. However, no one should buy either real estate or a business without a thorough ## investigation. What may just suit one may not be to another's liking at all. FOR SALE

A blacksmith shop in Mapleton, Kansas Plenty of work for two men. If interested, write to, O. A. Rounds, Mapleton, Kansas

MY HOME FOR SALE

Good house of rooms basement and large double cellar, small barn and other out buildings Located on lour lots each 75x155 feet. Fuit consisting of Grapes, Pears, Crab Apoles, Cherries and Peaches Price 5100. Six hundred cash. Bal ance on time. For particulars call on or address C. Wilcox, 624 Gay Street. Warrensburg

FOR SALE

New 8 room house 50 ft, lot. 2 blocks from good Branch. 2 blocks from car line. Paved street, cement walk, city water. Fine home $2250. $500 cash. Balance terms to suit. Address "Owner" 1935 North 25th, St., Kansas City, Kansas.

GINSENG.

The growing of GINSENG is a profitable industry, an Agricultural Business with good profits attached. Persons with a small parcel of land can start a good paying business with a small investment that yields good dividends. Send for our booklet, 'The ABC of Ginseng', get our prices, and learn how to better your financial condition. Address. Address,
Chas. F. Church & Son.
Lamoni, Iowa

MR & MRS. HARVEY

Pince MRS, FIARVE I
Dr's, of Chiropractic
Ki-ro-prac-tic
Chire 87
Phone Bell { House 755 Room 5, Carl Bid's, S. E. Square
Hours 10 to 12, 2to 6, evenings by appointment

UNITED ORDER OF ENOCH HOUSE,

Everybody Welcome, Saints and Strangers 102 North River Boulevard, near the Stone h. Best accommodations. Prices reasonable Phone 313

Chas. A. and Amy T. Gurwell IN CHARGE

WAR ATLAS

VVAR ALLAND
Cram's Atlas of the war comprising 16
pages 11x14½ and cover, giving fine maps
of all the nations of Europe, those in war or likely to be especially emphasized. On the two inside cover pages is given the army and navy equipment of all the European nations as well as the United States and Japan. With this Atlas in coancetion with daily news one may be able to locate the movements of the armies and have a more comprehensive idea of how the war is being conducted. conducted.

ONLY 25 CENTS Get them of

Ensign Publishing House, Independence, Mo

W. E. MESSENGER, M. D.

Physician and Surgeon. Calls answered day or night. Office and Residence 806 W. Maple Ave. Independence, Mo. Bell Phone 12

Special attention given to Anesthetics

Lots 50x150 North River Blv'd, on

Summer Vacation?

JUST TAKE AN ALTON TRAIN

"THE ONLY WAY" CHICAGO

THE HUMMER Leaves Kausas ( Arrives Chicago s City

THE NIGHTINGALE
Leaves Kansas City
Arrives Chicago 11:20 p. m.
1:15 p. m.

No matter where you wish to go to spend your vacation, our corps of vacation experts will arrange schedules and itineraries that will make travel a pleasure to you. Big lake boats and swift resort specials for both near and tar Wisconsin and Michigan Resorts, also to Atlantic City and Canadian resorts. Ask or write us about our

$56.50 ROUND TRIP RATE

Buffalo and Niagara Falls

Which includes meals and berths on the boat for a solid week

Junction City Ticket Office, 9th, Main and Delaware. Both phones Main 542.

W. C. MUELLER,

General Agent Passenger Dept. C. & A. R. R.

RAILROAD TIME TABLES.

MISSOURI PACIFIC R. R.

MAIN LINE-EAST BOUND.

WEST BOUND.

Floplin to Kansas City
St. Louis to California Special
Yedalia, and Nevada Local Past Mail Ino stop
Joplin to Kansas City Express
Colorado and St. Joe Express
St. Louis Local (all stops)

LEXINGTON BRANCE-EAST BOUND.

22 C. to Sedalia

WEST BOUND.

23 Sadalià to Kansas City 621 Sedalia to Kansas City

T. A. JOHNSON, Agent, Independence, Mo

OUR CREED: "ALL TRUTH."

VOI. 25

INDEPENDENCE, MISSOURI, THURSDAY, OCTOBER 8, 1914

NO. 41

Heman Caninh

ZION'S ENSIGN
Published by the Reorganized Church of Jesus Christ of tter Day Sainte, every Thursday, at Independence, Mo., 11.00 per year.

CHARLES FRY, EDITOR W. H. DEAM, BUS. MANAGER

In writing concerning subscriptions, always give the nam of the Post Office to which your paper has been going, as by so doing the ost of hours in looking for it may be avoided.

ost of hours in looking for it may be avoided.

When despring a change of address always give the old as well as the new address, and when sending subscriptions alway state whether it is a renewal or a new subscription. In making remittances Money Orders are preferable. It coin is sent it should be folded in a card so it will not lose out and then enclosed in an envision with your letter. Be serve shift of the coin is the property of the coin is sent in the coin of the coin is the coin of the coin is the coin of the PRAYER.

Prayer has a sweet refining grace, It educates the soul and heart. It lends a luster to the face, And by its elevating art It gives the mind an inner sight That brings it near the Infinite.

From our gross selves it helps us rise To smething which we yet may be. And so I ask not to be wise. If thus my faith is lost to me. Faith that with angels' voice and touch, Says "Pray, for prayer availeth much."

—Ella Wheeler Wilcox.

MODIFYING CHRISTIANITY.

That Christianity should be modified to meet the ideals and conditions of the many non-Christian nations is the plea of ProfessorDouglas Clyde Macintosh of Yale University, in an article entitled "The New Christianity and World Conversion," in "The American Journal of Theology." The plea is based upon numerous reports of foreign missionaries who have found difficulty in convincing the people of other religions, especially the more educated classes, of the correctness of the Christian religion, because of the miraculous element in it. It would seem that there has been a growing disposition among the missionaries to modify their teachings in order to render them more acceptable. Professor Macintosh says:

It has for some time been the fashion for the more broad-minded missionaries to make vague admissions as broad-minded missionaries to make vague admissions as to the necessity of modifying Christianity as we have known it, in order to adapt it to the needs of the mission field. For example in Volume 3 of the Edinburgh Con-ference reports, which deals with Christian education, it is maintained that "the success of Christian missions will not be achieved by Westernizing or Europeanizing the East, * * * but by contributing to the development of an oriental type of Christianity, or as many oriental types as the varieties of national life shall demand." * * * And the varieties of national life shall demand." * * * And Dr. Imbrie, also of Japan, has this to say: "There are those who hold that the Christianity of Japan will be quite a different thing from that of the West. But, when it comes to definiteness of statement, what is said amounts practically to this, that the Christianity of Japan will be the chief all practices of the chief of will retain the ethical elements and dispense with the supernatural."

That the writer in the "Journal of Theology" supports the position of the missionaries quoted above is apparent from the following:

Is it not clear that those who are interested in the propagation of the essentials of the Christian religion must be reasonable if they are to win well-informed and reasonable men? And does not this mean that Chrisreasonable men? And does not this mean that Christanity must revise its attitude toward the miraculous and supernatural, or else resign itself to continuing for a time as the religion of some of the unscientific and superstitious only, with the prospect of finally disappearing when all classes and nations shall have come under the influence of scientific modes of thought?

This plea for the modification of Christianity in its application to non-Christian nations is in close agreement with the disposition manifested in the various Protesant churches to so modify religious teaching as to eliminate all reference to the supernatural, or miraculous, and emphasize only the ethical principles in harmony with the higher criticism. It is but natural that Protestantism which has from its beginning persistently denied the supernatural and miraculous in present-day Christianity should ultimately come to the point of denying the same things as ever existing in the past. The spirit of unbelief which in the past has blinded the spiritual eyes of professedly Christian people and teachers to the operation of the power of God, is not satisfied with past accomplishments, but seeks new conquests over the minds of men, and today is casting its shadow over the works of God in past ages when men were possessed of greater faith.

World Conversion.

The commission given by Jesus to his eleven apostles clearly indicates the divine intent of sending the gospel to the whole world for the conversion of as many as might be willing to receive it and abide by its precepts, but there is no provision made by Christ for any modification of that gospel, or adaptation of it to the particular beliefs and practices of the various nations to which it should be sent. The gospel as given by Christ was to be the means of conversion, and another gospel, or a modified gospel, could not fulfill the purpose of God, and would not accomplish the conversion of the world to Christ. While the Lord undoubtedly desires the conversion of the world, he does not desire it regardless of the means, and the efforts of man at world-conversion with a modified gospel will accomplish nothing for Christ and nothing for the converted. To convert the nations to a Christ who is not divine, un-resurrected, and who is helpless to do anything more in behalf of humanity than he did through his ethical teachings while upon earth, is to remove them farther away from the Christ of the New Testament and from salvation; and we are reminded of the words of Christ, "Ye compass sea and land to make one proselyte, and when he is made, ye make him two-fold more the child of hell than yourselves." The gospel is set as the standard to which men must come in order to be saved, rather than that it should be conformed to the will of man and adapted to his convenience.

The Gospel the Same to all Nations in all Ages. Jesus said to his apostles, "Go ye therefore, and teach all nations, baptizing them in the name of the Father, and of the Son, and of the Holy Ghost: teaching them to observe all things whatsoever I have commanded you: and lo, I am with you alway, even unto the end of the world." This shows that the things taught by Christ were to be taught to all nations, and upon the condition that the message be kept pure and unchanged was the promise given of the divine presence abiding permanently with the messengers. Mark's rendering of this promise is more specific showing that the divine presence will be manifested in super-human and miraculous ways for the good of men. The present tendency to "modify" Christianity justifies the belief that it has previously been modified by men, which accounts for the absence of the divine presence and of all miraculous manifestations. The mission of Christ was "to all people," "to every creature," in "all nations," and when he comes again to judge the world, he delares that "before him shall be gathered all nations." Paul also says that "God shall judge the secrets of men by Jesus Christ according to my gospel." The one law of the gospel will judge all men and if that law remains unchanged under the ministration of the great Judge in the last day, surely there can be no period up to that time when "another gospel" will take its Adding to and Taking From.

Latter Day Saints have been charged with adding to the word of God in violation of the statement in Revelation 22:18, because, in holding that God is unchangeable and also his truth, they believe that he has seen fit to add to his own word as contained in the Bible, a re-affirmation of his truth by present-day revelation, but in noting the several attempts to "modify Christianity" by the various Protestant churches, or at least by a proportion of the ministers of those churches, that they have sought to take out of the word of God the teachings that Jesus is the Son of God; that he holds the power of life and was raised from the dead; and that the miraculous power of God attended the ministration of the gospel, we see a taking from the word of God which Latter Day Saints have never attempted. With Christ shorn of his divinity, and the gospel divested of its miraculous power, what is there left?—simply a human theory, in which case any other human being may develop another theory just as good or better, and the inevitable result must be that we shall have a multitude of gos-The oriental religions are highly ethical, and under them the eastern nations have maintained virtue and a fair degree of righteousness for many centuries, but with Christ and divinity left out of Christianity, what claims can it make to recognition by these nations that cannot be made by Brahmanism, Buddhism, Confuciarism, and others, and may not be made by any new system that some future sage may offer? As wonderful and grand as the system of true Christianity is, it can not endure having any of its vital parts taken away, nor the addition of any human theories. Like a perfect circle, the perfect gospel can suffer no substraction or addition and still remain perfect.

Objectional Parts of Christianity Still True,

However much the Christian or Pagan world may discount the doctrine of the divinity of Christ, the truth of that doctrine is not effected thereby, though the standing of the people may be. While the claim of Latter Day Saints to present revelation is opposed on the ground that present revelation is not necessary, we see in the present attitude of a large part of the Christian world, which dclares that evidence of the divinity of Christ is lacking, a real necessity for further revelation by which that evidence might be supplied. That doctrine being divine it devolves upon Divinity to maintain it in the world against the incroachments of unbelief in those who would 'modify" it. What is here said of the divinity of Christ may also be said of the doctrine of his resurrection and the resurrection of all men, and of the presence of the miraculous power within the Church of Jesus Christ. If the simple teachings of the New Testament be accepted fuese doctrines were true eighteen hundred years ago. and with an unchangeable God and an unchangeable gospel they are true today.

Latter Day Revelation Sustains the Bible.

A careful reading of the Book of Mormon (which Latter Day Saints accept as an inspired work) must convince any candid reader that it maintains these three points: 1. That Jesus Christ is truly the Son of God, being born of a virgin, and is himself divine. 2. That the gospel is the same to all nations. 3. That the miraculous element is a permanent part of the gospel, and under the ministration of the Holy Spirit it is possible for every true seeker after truth to know for himself of the truthfulness of the doctrine. The divine purpose in giving the book is "to the convincing of the Jew and Gentile that Jesus is the Christ, the eternal God, manifesting himself to all nations." His virgin birth and physical resurrection are declared, and also that the miraculous element belonging to the gospel "never shall be done away; even as long as the world shall stand, only according to the unbelief of the children of men."

Other revelation of latter days as found in the book of Doctrine and Covenants also affirm these points found in the Bible and the Book of Mormon, and brings additional evidence of their truthfulness. These two books were given to the world in the early part of the last century before these doctrines had become discredited in "the house [or houses] of their friends," and the need of additional evidences anticipated thereby.

No Modification of Christianity in Latter Day

Revelation.

The Book of Mormon and the Doctrine and Covenants advocate no other doctrine than found in the Bible with which they agree. They re-affirm the Bible doctrines and the Bible promises, and the thousands who have obeyed the doctrine have seen the promises regarding the work of the Holy Spirit in its miraculous manifestations fulfilled in their own observation and experience, and it is through this miraculous element in their religion that they have assurance of the truthfulness of the doctrine which they have received. The Church of Jesus Christ reorganized in latter days, is a powerful witness to the divinity of Christ, to the permanency of his doctrine and his promises, and to the presence of the miraculous What the world needs is not a modified element. Christianity-it has been modified too much already-but the Christianity of Christ with the divine power attending,-and it is still on earth.

PAPEETE BOMBARDED.

Recent press reports state that the German cruisers Scharnhorst and Gneisenau bombarded Papeete, the chief port of the Society Islands in the South Pacific, destroying half the town. A French gunboat was sunk when the cruisers again put to sea. Papeete is the headquarters of the Society Island mission, and contains a good representation of Saints, besides our missionaries and their families, and considerable church property. We hope the damage may not be as serious as reported.

INDEPENDENCE ITEMS.

INDEPENDENCE ITEMS.

At the eleven o'clock service on Sunday, after the opening hymn and prayer the cheir sang the beautiful authem, "Remember Now Thy Creator in the Days of Thy Youth." The rendering was very impressive and beautiful and deserving of special mention. This was followed by a good practical gospel sermon by Bishop E. L. Kelley, some of the features of which were the necessity of having faith and walking thereby, an explanation of the law of tithing and consecration, the obligation of Saints recognizing and supporting an institution that the Lord has approved of, etc. After the sermon Sister Bernice Griffiths sang a fine solo on "The Ninety and Nine," followed by a collection for Graceland.

The communion services in the afternoon were not characterized by many testimonies, because there was not time for many, nor particularly by any manifestation of the Spirit in those given, but by the calm, sweet influence the Spirit in those given, but by the calm, sweet mines that pervaded and seemed to float as on ether waves throughout the room, which was so satisfying to the soul. This influence can be felt only where there is complete harmony and no opposing element and the Spirit of God has unmolested sway. In the early part of the meeting Bro. Jeseph Luff read a communication that had come to him while in the east this last summer. Prior to the meeting he read it to President Joseph Smith, and Pr dent Smith told him to read it at this meeting, and that he would order its publication in the church papers.

In the evening Elder M. H. Seigfried was the speaker, continuing his discourses on church history.

continuing its discourses on curren instorage.

There was a large gathering of Saints at the home of Bishop E. L. Kelley on Saturday evening in honer of Bro. and Sister W. A. Blair, who will soon change their home from Independence to Galien, Michigan. After a social feast, followed by singing and readings, Bro. M. H. Bond in well chosen words made complimentary mention not only of Bro. and Sr. W. A. Blair but of the work and character of their parents on both sides. He stated that while their friends here would miss the association and regret their move, the change no doubt was a good one regret their move, the change no doubt was a good one for both them and the branch where they will go, as their help will be valuable in the building up of the work in that place. Bro. Blair responded, showing a spirit of humility and willingness to do all that lay in his power for the good of the work. The enjoyment of the evening was concluded with something to satisfy the appetite and table the poletic.

and tickle the palate.

Sugar Creek is a village adjoining Independence on the northwest where the Standard Oil refinery is located. Four northwest where the Standard Of Tennery is located. Four saloons have been running in that unicorporated village. The edict of the people in the election of August 22 was that there be no saloons in Jackson County outside of Kansas City and Independence (Independence having already voted dry July 21). The law of the people of Jackson County went into effect at 12:01 o'clock, October 3, but County went into effect at 12:01 o'clock, October 3, but notwithstanding, the saloons continued as before until the assistant prosecuting attorney with deputy marshals forced them to close, and notwithstanding they had been notified by the county license inspector of the time they must close, the day before that time one saloon ordered a car load of beer. This is the kind of law-ignoring business some people would like to uphold.

On Tuesday, September 22, with wife I left for the Ozark mountains, for a little rest, being the first real vesetion for own the user servicing at Represe on heavy.

Ozark mountains, for a little rest, being the first real vacation for over ten years, arriving at Branson, on beautiful lake Taneycomo, about noon on the following day, where we were met by Sister Bowen, and were taken in Bro. Bowen's motor boat to their home. We spent a few days climbing the "everlasting hills" and navigating the lake from one end to the other, eight miles above Bran son and seventeen miles below to the great dam on the White river, which is 900 feet long and 55 feet high, backing the water of White up 25 miles. Of the five days we were there we spent considerable of the time fishing, but the best fish we caught was on the 24th, when we buried Brother Bowen in baptism in the waters of lake Taneycomo. We confirmed him on the evening of the 25th Taneycomo. We confirmed him on the evening of the 25th after prayer and a talk on the necessity and object of the ordinance of laying on of hands. Our going there and the baptism was all in answer to prayer, as Sister Bowen told us. We arrived home the following Tuesday to take told us. We arrived home the following Tuesday to take up our duties egain, feeling somewhat improved physically as well as in spirit. Later we may write a more extensive account of that rotatry and our experiences.

The oft repeated saying that "it is better late than never" is true when the act is a worthy one, as is the case when a lonely but worthy individual seeks a companion in wedlock. On Sunday evening, September 27, 1914, at six o'clock, Bro. Charles E. Culver and Mrs. (Sr.) 1914, at six o'clock, Bro. Charles E. Culver and Mrs. (Sr.). Lillian M. Ballinger repaired to the home of Elder H. W. Hattey where Bro. Hattey said the words that made them husband and wife. Charlie is one of our deacons, and he always can be seen faithfully on duty at church services where he looks after the comforts of those in attendance and does whatever his hands find to do. Though not personally acquainted with Sr. Culver we hear her spoken of as an exemplary lady of refinement, and Bro. Charlie has waited long enough to find just such a one for his companion. for his companion.

As will be noticed, of late the Ensign is laden with many very interesting letters, some of which are quite lengthy, but each one is so good that there seems to be no place to cut out unimportant matter. There are many good ones on hand that will each have to bide uch letters seem to be very attractive to the subscribers;

Such letters seem to be very attractive to the subscribers, as are evidenced in business letters received.

The Utah people are building a handsome church on the corner of Pleasant and Walnut Streets, nicely located. It is built of stone, brick and tera cotta. Six rooms will be occupied by the Central States Mission. The architecture is very pleasing in design and of a very modern type. It will be a fine addition to the best public buildings of the city. The outside walls are up and the edifice nearing completion. ings of the city. The nearing completion.

We erred in our items two weeks ago where we stated that Mr. Hedrick had been expelled from the Church of Christ and removed from the trusteeship of the temple lot.

INDEPENDENCE, SECOND BRANCH.

At the eleven o'clock hour Sunday morning Elder J. W. Metcalf of the missionary force spoke with good liberty on the first principles of the gospel, using Acts 16th chapter, with other passages. At the same time our branch president spoke to the young folks in the basement, in-structing them along the line of the sacrament service. The evening preaching service had a large attendance, many visitors being present. Bro. J. A. Gillen of the Twelve gave an interesting discourse, basing his remarks on Psalms 61:2, in connection with the 7th chapter of Matthew.

At the home of the bride's parents on South Avenue, iesday evening, Sept. 30th, at 7:30, Sr. Virgie Curtis and Bro. Raleigh Fulk of Beardstown, Illinois, were united in marriage, the bride's father officiating. About fortyfive relatives and friends being present. At 10 p. m. they departed for Beardstown, where they expect to make their future home. Sister Virgie will be greatly missed in this branch, especially in the junior department of the Sun-day school as teacher and organist, also in Religio class.

The regular monthly business session was held here onday evening. Bro. G. W. Eastwood presented his Monday evening. Bro. G. W. Eastwood presented his resignation as presiding deacon, his request was granted, Bro. D. L. Barnett was chosen to fill the vacancy. of removal were granted five members to the first branch and six to the Order of Enoch proposed branch, also three were received from the London, Canada, Branch, and one from the St. Louis, Mo., Branch.

G. W. T.

ST. LOUIS, MO., ITEMS,

It was rather sad to have the tent taken down and to say good-bye to Bro. Christy, but we can hope that he will still hover around Saint Louis, and be with us now

On Sunday, Sept. 13, there was no service at the church except Sunday school. Over one hundred went in a special car to Alton, Illinois, where the district conference was car to Aton, liminols, where the district conference was held. A grand time was reported.

A beautiful church wedding was that of Sr. Anna De Jong and Bro. Arthur W. Smith, on the evening of the twenty-third. The front of the church was a mass of green palms and ferns and vines. Some of our gallant youths were pressed into service as ushers, and a decrease with the state of the state of the service of the state of the service of the state of the service of the servic dozen pretty girls, Sr. Anna's Sunday school class, were the attendant bridesmaids. They, with the maid of honor, the bride's sister, Miss Nellie De Jong, might have been the office's sister, Miss Nellic De Jong, might have been suspected of trying to vie with the bride in loviness. The ceremony, performed by Elder Russell Archibald, was beautifully solemn and impressive, and well we know what a wealth of paternal approval and benediction was back of it. The music, the beauty, the dgnity, the faultless ceremony and prayer.—no wonder one brother remarked afterward, "Well, I've been to a good many weddings, but I never saw one as fine as that." May their life be as happy and harmonius.

We are glad that "Dick" is not taking Anna away somewhere to live, for we surely need her here. Seldom do we find in a young woman such enthusiasm for church ork, coupled with such executive ability. On Sunday morning, the 20th, we had a vigorous, rousing sermon from Bro. Louis Jeorndt. He told the duty of children, to obey their parents, and the duty of parents, to gain the confidence of the child, instead of resorting to severity of punishment. He urged the young to take up choir work, and to rise to their privleges generally. He comforted the parents with the well-known advice, "Train up a child in the way he should go, and when he is old he will not depart therefrom," claiming that even is old he will not depart therefrom," claiming that even in the case of the exception who does depart, the early training is so fastened in the mind that it is apt to turn him back. As our pastor said, it was a veritable bugle-call, rallying the forces that had been scattered by the recent tent services, and, he might have said, by vacations. Right along the same line of thought was a forcible morning sermon on the 27th, by Bro. Archibald, which followed so appropriately the good Cradle Roll exercises in the Sunday school. He showed the heauty of converting sin-

Sunday school. He showed the beauty of converting sin-ners, telling how he had seen victims of tobacco and such evils join the church, throw off these habits, and even become ministers. But he brought out the greater beauty of bringing up a child in the right way, developing character under pure, wholesome conditions. A powerful appeal to the young and to the mother;

Florence Burgess

OMAHA, NEBRASKA.

"Just for today, what more can heart demand From one who will each longing understand? Thy love withholds no treasure, so I pray 'Choose what may come, but give me strength today.'"

Choose what may come, but give me strength today."
Prayer meeting was held at the home of Bro. George Derry, 3613 Seward St., for the benefit of members of the family and others, who find it very difficult to attend meetings at the church. This Tuesday evening prayer service will be held at the home of Bro. and Sr. E. R.
Ahlstrand, to cheer Grandma Ahlstrand who has past her sighth. 45th bitthday.

eigthy-fifth birthday.

A daughter came to brighten the home of Bro. and Sr. A. E. Stoft on September 22nd; blessed Sunday, Oct. 4th under the hands of Pres. Elbert A. Smith and Elder Paul N. Craig, named Mary Leone.

Paul N. Craig, named Mary Leone.
Sunday, Oct. 4th, was red letter day for us. The church was beautifully decorated with autumn products, and the exercises at 11 o'clock were very interesting. After a talk by Pres. Smith regarding Graceland College, all members of the Sunday school and congregation joined in a march and dropped their donation in a pumpkin in front of the altar. The little pench also presented a front of the altar. The little people also presented a pretty picture on the platform with their gifts of flowers and fruit, while they sang their song of harvest home.

The joint sacrament service in the afternoon with the Council Bultis Branch was well attended and much en-joyed. Pres. Smith spoke that the Spirit admonished to Bro. Paul N. Craig to be of good cheer and not get dis-couraged, as the Lord was pleased with his work, and that he was like Nathaniel of old, without guile. Also that the Saints should uphold him and support him. That the church building had been preserved through them. the church building had been preserved through storm, and also the Saints, and the Lord was pleased with their service, but that some needed to repent. Bro. Smith spoke service, but that some needed to repent. Bro in the evening on "The Signs of the Times." Be prepared for the coming of the Lord.

"Teach me to live, and find my life in thee, Looking from earth and earthly things away, Let me not falter, but untiringly press on, And gain new strength and power each day." Alice C. Schwartz.

345 Omaha Nat. Bank Bldg.

CHICAGO, ILLINOIS, FIRST BRANCH.

Sunday was a very nice day and was quite appropriate for the great peace demonstrations which took the "loop" district. Also it enabled some of our aged members to meet with us in the regular monthly sacrament service, which was good. The evening hour was The evening hour was occupied by our pastor, Elder James F. Keir, who discoursed on the apostasy in a comprehensive manner.

Both services were marked by attendance of several visitors, which has been our happy experience for quite

The Gospel Study and Social Club met in the afternoon and after a brief testimony service, all speaking in regard to individual and collective benefits derived from the past year's activities, elected the following officers: G. A. Worrell, president; J. W. Peterson, vice president; Blanche Fairbanks, secretary; Ethel Worrell, treasurer; Evelyn Hoover, librarian; Vera Hartshorn, organist; Nina Camp-

Hover, intrainin, vern reasonable, organise, rima campbell, chairman social committee.

We feel well satisfied with our finance plan as, after our many "deeds of sunshine" (including furnishingg flowers for the pulpit, which, after service are taken to the sick), our treasury still contains about $6.00.

sick), our treasury still contains about $6.00. The Laddies Aid Societies are working hard with a view to holding a bazaar December 4th and 5th, and assurance is hereby given to the many readers of these columns that donations of any nature will be greatly appreciated. Should there be any who desire to aid us in our effort to met the payment on our church, due December 10th, kindly forward articles to Sr. Mary Bone,4339 W. Jackson Blyrd, or the undersigned.

Blyrd., or the undersigned.

G. A. Worrell

4158 W. Congress St.

ST. JOSEPH, FIRST BRANCH.

Sunday the 28th the attendance at Sunday school was 3. This being the last Sunday of the month, the collection was set aside as is our custom for the Christmas offering. It amounted to $11.25, which we consider fine for an attendance of 123. Our collections are always very good. After the lesson period we were treated to a beautiful solo by Sr. Grace Tilden and the continuation of an excellent story that is being read alternately by our superintendent and Ruby Jackson.

At the following preaching service the choir rendered some fine music. Bro. Fry was the speaker both morning and evening.

On last Saturday the district conference convened with the Second Branch, continuing over Sunday. A very pleasant time was spent with our brethren and sisters of the ant time was spent with our oreins and shoest of the south end, who made the visiting delegates very welcome indeed and did every thing in their power for their com-fort and convenience. Patriarch F. A. Smith was with us and preached two able sermons, on Saturday evening and Sunday morning.

At the Sunday afternoon prayer and testimony meeting At the Sunday atternoon prayer and testimony meeting the church was crowded to its utmost capacity. A quiet peaceful time was experienced. Seldom have we seen so little confusion in such a large assemblage. On Sunday the pulpit at the first branch was filled morning and evening by Elder John Davs. At Wyatt Park Mission by I. N. Roberts and Arch. McCord; at 3rd branch by J T. Ford. Our pastor, Bro. Fry, spoke at the conference in the evening. We noted at the conference such veterans of the cause in old Far West, as I. N. Roberts, Walter Head, T. T. Hinderks, B. J. Dice, and others, and we are indeed glad to say there was a multitude of earnest younger men, who are getting into the harness, and will make their

who are getting into the harness, and will make their work count in days to come, when the old soldiers (who have nover grown weary in apirit, but whose toll-worn bodies will lie down in a well earned rest some day), shall lay down their armor and with joy go to their reward. On Friday evening, the 26th, the local Religio had a rally night. A big crowd turned out, a nice program was given and light refreshments served. Twas a social occasion and was enjoyed by everybody. Tuesday evening, the 30th, a reception was tendered our pastor and family at the church. There was a good attendance and, a very pleasant evening was passed. A lap supper was served. The Ladies Aid Society has resumed its meetings, now that the warm weather is over.

that the warm weather is over. The Wyatt Park Mission Sunday school is doing fine. Active workers have taken up the work there and good

Our faithful Sr. McCormick is at present suffering affliction and is in the hospital. We trust that she may soon be wonderfully blessed and able to resume her place among us.

SEATTLE.

Bro. Roy Budd, our young missionary, was doing tent work at New Westminister, the last accounts, while Bro. Davis had gone some forty miles to open up a new field. We wish for the young brethren much success.

There were thirty-nine at our splendid prayer meeting last night, and all seemed to drink in the spirit of faith and courage.

and courage.

The sisters' Aid Society appointed Thursday for a day to renovate our church building, when seven very willing workers met, and aided by three stalwart brethren made the church look like new. We never met more willing workers, and under the promise that our church shall be redeemed from debt and dedicated, we are pushing vigorously onward. We hope all members of the branch will take this matter earnestly to heart-and purse.

At a recent mission prayer meeting at Riverside two adopted children of Bro. and Sr. R. L. Hays were blessed and named Donald and Eveland. The Tuesday night prayer meetings at this mission are very spiritual and encouraging.

Bro. William Johnson spent Sunday with the Centralia Branch in the interest of the gospel work. He met Brn. G. M. Shippy and N. C. Hedding who were just starting a protracted meeting, Bro. Shippy having recovered his

Our Sunday services were all noted for good attendance Our Sunday services recommended and spirituality. The Sunday school was good. The Religio held a very interesting prayer meeting presided over by Bro. W. J. Johnson the president. The sermons were by the pastor. Angels rejoice over such services.

J. M. Torry.

102 North 39th St., Seattle, Wash., Oct. 1.

The same and the s CORRESPONDENCE

mermermerally mermerme

Logan, Okla., Sept. 27. Dear Ensign:—Good crops again in the Panhandle of Oklahoma. Bro. Durfy of Sciling, Okla., as president of the district, made the Elmwood Branch an official visit the district, made the Elmwood Branch an ollicial visit lately and preached once. The Saints were glad to meet Bro. H. F. Durfy. They voted to see if some new missionary could not be sent to the Panhandle before this branch died for want of care. Perhaps Bro. J. E. Vanderwood could come. I live fifteen miles east at Surprise. derwood could come. I live fift Write me at Logan, Oklahoma.

yours in the faith, W. D. McKnight.

A TESTIMONY. A TESTIMONY.

Editor Ensign:—On Friday night, June 19th, a large livery barn located at 218 E. St. Clair St., Indianoplis, burned to the ground, four or five houses badly damaged and two small barns destroyed. The house adjoining the livbarn on the east is a large wooden frame structure, ocery barn on the east is a large wooden frame structure, oc-cupied by Bro. and Sr. James E. Warne, and is so close to the barn at one point that one could scarcely walk be-tween the two buildings, while the remainder of the west side of the house was not more than four feet from the barn. The fire broke out about eleven o'clock and was well under way before discovered. The home of Bro. Warne caught fire, the roof and upper part being exposed to such an intense heat, that the firemen advised them to move out, as there was no possibility of saving the house; but they felt perfectly calm in the matter and only gathered together a few of their most valuable belongings. At this juncture the wind changed, carrying the flames in the opposite direction to our brother's home and the firemen soon had his house out of danger. The fire went through the entire block, consuming everything burnable that laid in its path, crossing the alleys north and west that had in his path, crossing the alleys north and west of it, destroying smeller buildings and cremating twenty-two horses; but our brother's house still stands, with not so much as a hole being burned through the roof or siding, even a latticework on the upper floor poarch being unharmed; and people passing stop, look at the building, and comment on the fact that it was not destroyed.

Now, we believe, the secret of the whole matter is this; Bro. and Sr. Warne are Saints who are striving their religion every day; endeavoring to learn the law of God and live up to it, making it a part of their lives. That same evening, at the close of Religio service, Sr. Warne paid tithing to the bishop's agent, and the Lord recognized their faith and works in the hour of need. That God nized their faith and works in the hour of need. That God who said he would rebuke the devourer for our sake, did rebuke the devouring fire for them, turned its course, and they never even had to remove their goods from their home for sakery upon this occasion. They know it was the power of God that protected them, the incident being too marked and wonderful to be just a happenstance.

When the bishop's agent handed the receipt to Sr.

Warne for the tithing paid by her on the night of the fire, it being the next time they met, she remarked: "I have already received a better receipt than that." We simply record this as a matter of fact, as an evidence that God is the same yesterday, today and forever; and we trust that it may be a means of helping others to exercise greater faith in God, and strive to come up higher.

Your brother in Christ,

Indianapolis, Indiana.

London, Eng., Sept. 11.

Chas. H. Fish.

Editor Ensign:-The European war and its present ef-Editor Ensign:—The European war and its present ef-fects, as it may be seen in London and in fact the whole kingdom, is stirred up to such a tension as it never has been before in the history of the country. Yesterday the writer saw miles of recurits, in plain clothing, marching the streets from recruiting stations to places of accommodation prepared for them. On August 6th the Prime modation prepared for them. On August 6th the Prime Minister called for five hundred thousand extra men for the army. In one month there were four hundred and thirty-nine thousand enlisted. Yesterday, a second call was made for five hundred thousand more. This second call for 500,000 more will make an army of over 1,300,000. This does not include territorial soldiers numbering 320, 000, nor does it include the soldiers from the Dominion, 000, nor does it include the soldiers from the Dominion, Australia, or India, which would make an additional total of 125,000. But this would be nothing in comparison to the vast number that could be secured from a population of about 400,000,000, which is the population of the British Empire. On September 3rd the United Kingdom enrolled 33,240 men and it is not to be wondered, because everywhere a person looks, there is displayed in large placards, "Your King and your Country Need You. Join Now."
Those placards are numerously stuck upon wagons, taxicabs, tram-cars, street motor-buses, and almost every oving vehicle, as well as windows and sign boards.
The effects of the war in the United Kingdom are, that thousands upon thousands of men and women are thrown out of employment, and many of those still employed are on one-half or one-fourth time and nav. young and unmarried men are almost compelled to join the army and although there is no conscription, the inthe army and although there is no conscription, the in-ducements that are held out and the conditions that exist, compels their enlistment from a financial standpoint. Many of the business houses allow half pay to each em-ployee uniting with the army and a promise of their position back when they return, besides this he gets the regular army allowance. If they refuse this offer they are discharged, owing to the depression in trade with no are discharged, wing to the depression in thate with no assurance that they will be taken back.

There is a great deal of poverty in London, and also throughout the United Kingdom, notwithstanding the many previous precautions and vast amounts of money that has been collected to care for the poor and unem-

Fight to a finish, is the street talk as well as the decission of the rulers of the nations. There may be more truth in this than they now realize, because many years ago there was a statement made by the Latter Day Saint Prophet which we believe will have its fulfillment, if not now, will later. "And thus, with the sword, and by bloodnow, will later. shed, the inhabitants of the earth shall mourn; and with famine and plague and earthquakes, and the thunde heaven, and the fierce and vivid lightning also, shall the inhabitants of the earth be made to feel the wrath, and indignation and chastening hand of an almighty God, until the consumption decreed, hath made a full end of all nations."—Church History, Vol. 1, page 263.

There seems to be at the present a combination of several nations, an agreement, that no one of those na-tions shall submit to a peace agreement, until all are agreed, and Great Britain is determined not to make peace until Germany has been decisively defeated. And again Russia makes the qualification that Italy, Germany, Roumania, and Servia shall be compelled to render obesisance to her demands. It would appear that far off Japan is in this agreement as well as those other nations of Europe.

to why this war, perhaps there are few men in As to why this war, perhaps there are few men in London that would answer this question as we could from a scriptural standpoint, but it will be unnecessary to quote a great volume of scripture at the present time to do this; therefore we will confine ourselves to one or two passages. The Prophet Isaiah (24:5,6) said, "The two passages. The Prophet Isaiah (24:5,6) said, "The earth also is defiled under the inhabitants thereof; because they have transgressed the laws, changed the ordinance, broken the everlasting covenant. dinance, broken the everiasting coverant. Interview had the curse devoured the earth, and they that dwell therein are desolate: therefore the inhabitants of the earth are burned, and few men left." I quote this verse because I believe it has a significant application, because all those nations that are engaged in this European war claim to be Christians and that the judgment of has come upon them because they have violated those very principles that they themselves claim to believe. "They have transgressed the law and broken the everlasting covenant," and while they themselves may not be personally responsible for the breaking of the laws and the changing of the ordinances, as their system of re-ligion has come to them by inheritance, yet this is the culmination of the wickedness and transgressions of a the wickeness and the statement of the through the ages. In a revelation given to the church in its early history we have the following statement: "I the Lord history we have the following statement: history we have the following statement: "I the Lord am angry with the wicked. I am holding my Spirit from the inhabitants of the earth. I have sworn in my wrath and decreed wars upon the face of the earth and the wicked shall slay the wicked."—Dotrine and Covenants 63:9. Taking those two passages together we can readily see the reason why this war.

There is another passage I wish to call your attention to which will suffice for the present. "Proclaim ye this among the Gentiles; prepare war, wake up the mighty men, let all the men of war draw near; let them come up: beat your plowshares into swords, and your pruning-hody into guestry let the weak say. I am strong. As-hooks into spears: let the weak say, I am strong. Assemble yourselves and come, all ye heathen, and gather yourselves together round about: thither cause thy mighty ones to come down, O Lord. Let the heathen be wakened, and come up to the valley of Jehoshaphat; for there will I sit to judge all the heathen round about. Put ye in the sickle, for the harvest is ripe; come get you down: for the press is full, the fats overflow; for their wickednor the press is 1011, the rate overflow; for their wascewerseness is great. Multitudes, multitudes in the valley of decision; for the day of the Lord is near in the valley of decision," Joel 39-34.

If this prediction of Joel means this present condition of affairs, instead of the combatants being Christains as they claim to be, he says they are "heathens" and "their wickedness is great," and it would appear that the Lord has concluded that this wickedness should not continue on the earth and it will be with them as it was in the days of Noah, they and their wickedness will be cut off precisely as stated in the Doctrine and Covenants: "The wicked shall slay the wicked."

The church work in London is at a very low ebb for the want of missionary work, yet, notwithstanding the present conditions, the opportunities are as good as we could wish if we consider opposition as naught. a believer and fully converted to the idea that London holds out to us as good an opportunity as any place that I know of. We are now in a better position than we have been since we came, yet we are far from where we would like, in order to see the church work have a better effect upon the people. We still retain our hall at No. 2, Coborn Rd., Bow, but have changed our residence and office to a more healthful location with better surroundings and where we can better invite the inquirer.

lags and where we can better invite the inquirer. We are holding weekly class meetings at our house.

As before stated, London is a large city. Just think of nearly seven and a half millions of people in one community or as many as there are in the whole of the Dominion of Canada, or the size and population of thirty Kansas Cities put side by side. Then just think of our church represented in a little hall with a congregation of from twelve to thirty compared with the thousands who assemble in the stylish abbies and cathedrals, yet we thank the Lord for the gospel.

We are perfectly satisfied in London as far as being here is concerned, and hoping and praying that the tide will turn in our favor some day, and you who are better cir-cumscribed and wish to help our mission in this, the greatest of all cities, I would like to call your attention to the fact that a mission motor car would help largely in preaching from place to place in the open and could be useful in advertising the church.

Let us not forget what Joel said, as already quoted, The day of the Lord is near." The earmarks of time are within view, and God's clock dial almost "points to the noon below."

58 Ickburgh Road, Upper Clapton, N. E. London England

Papeete, Tahiti, Aug. 31. 1914.
Dear Ensign:—Our cutter boat left the village at Tikehau at about 4 p. m. We had a beautiful sailing trip that evening on the clear placid waters of the lagoon. Far more nice indeed than upon the ocean. About nine p. m. we sailed out the pass into the surging billows of the sea. I took my blanket and pillow and made my bed on the softest planks I could find on the deck. Fortune or favor was on our side for it was not raining. Had it been we could not have found shelter, and having no oiled covering would have been compelled to take the rain on our skin.

The next day towards evening we sailed into the pass at Rairea or perhaps I had better say pulled ourselves in by a rope as the tide was running out so strong that our sails would not carry us in and two sailors jumped overboard, swam ashore and towed us through the channel.

The wind was This lagoon is about thirty miles across. The wind was almost straight ahead. We had to tack back and forth which made the distance many times greater. At dusk we sailed up to the side nearest us and cast anchor for the

we sailed up to the side nearest us and cast anchor for the night. We had scarcely any provisions on board save a little flour. We got out the fish lines and I thought I would try my hand at sea fishing. I caught my share of about fifteen fish weighing about five pounds each.

Next morning we set sail again and reached the other side that afternoon. The saints in the village were out harvesting their crop of nuts. Saturday evening they came home and we again began meetings. This is the largest island of the group. Our church is the predominating one here as well as in the last one we were at. We had a caller one afternoon in the person of a Brighamite native elder. We had a talk on differences. As he left he admitted our position to be correct. I believe he is about the only one on this island.

I am pleased to mention cases of healing here. There

I am pleased to mention cases of healing here. There are no water wells here but there are water holes, open and about three feet deep into which the water seeps from the sea. Passing through the coral rock that has been decaying for centuries, is of course laden with germs. The doctors have forbidden the use of it on account of the dyssentery germ that it contains. The natives have not been converted to the germ theory yet, so they pour this water down their habies. On such infant afflicted in this way badly we were called to administer to. The mother asked badly we were called to administer to. The mother asked for medicine. I suggested to Bro. Savage that the child should not be deprived of its privileges because of its mothers lack of faith. Agreed on this point we spoke of the same to the mother. The result was an administration in which the child was healed instantly. Another case of the same kind occurred in the same island.

There is two branches of the church here. It is said that the Saints here are among the best if not the best in righteousness in all the islands. This may be true, but I am sure I saw enthusiam more at the last place. I am aware that enthusism is not faith; but I doubt faith minus are that enthusiam is not faith; but I doubt faith minus enthusiam.

Yours in bonds A. H. Christensen.

SERMONS AND ARTICLES

THE TEMPORAL DEPARTMENT OF THE CHURCH.

By Bishop Joseph Roberts.

The church, through its representatives, endeavors to set forth to humanity this truth; that, by obedience to the gospel requirements, the individual is to develop spiritually, and by application to study and prayer he will grow in wisdom and intelligence. The claim is also made that the gospel of Christ has to do with the temporal welfare of the membership, as well as with their spiritual growth.

It is the temporal phases of gospel service which we desire to present to the reader at this time. It is due the intelligent investigator of the claims made by the Reorganized Church of Jesus Christ of Latter Day Saints, that the temporal department of our work be presented in a clear and concise manner. There is much to be gained in the proper presentation of this department of the work.

Humanity is today calling unto the church and demanding a demonstration of a religion that is practical in its administration and results. They are asking not alone, "What are you teaching?" but, also, 'What are you doing?" We are now ready to answer to the demand, and come forward in the direct ray of sunlight and unbosom conditions as the Church is attempting to carry into practice the gospel now promulgated in the world by our people.

The temporal department is created to reach certain definite objects. These objects may best be approached through systematic organization and methods of procedure. We therefore consider the subject under three headings:

- The objects to be reached.
- The organization effected to accomplish the 2 ends sought.
  - 3. The methods employed. Objects.

The church is morally responsible for the care of its membership. In return for this consideration it is reasonable that the church expects a willing support from the membership. The objects sought by the church on behalf of its members are of that high order which will command the respect and admiration of all good men and women.

1. To care for the poor:

The poor have the gospel preached to them. Some obey and become members of the Church. Others of the membership, through some misfortune, are caused to be poor. One of the objects of the temporal department of the Church work is to relieve the distress caused through poverty by furnishing opportunity, enabling the poor to provide for themselves. This applies only to the industrious poor. The idler has no claim on the Church and, as the law says, "shall be cast out."

To care for the sick:

Where sufficient assistance is not available in a family where there is sickness, this home has claim upon the Church for assistance. Another object of the temoral department is to provide substantial care for the sick. As a place of refuge and help for the sick and afflicted, the Church has established a sanitarium at Independence, Missouri.

To care for the aged:

Infirmities of old age place many in a helpless condition, where special care is required. Numbers who have borne the heat of the day engaged in the toils of life, making sacrifice in the interest of truth, are deserving of care in the eventide of life. To meet this condition the Church has provided homes for the aged.

4. Care for the unfortunate children:

As a result of broken or disordered homes, children at times are forced into a condition of helplessness. The Church acts as an angel of mercy and encircles the strong arm of love about the innocent children and furnishes to them such comforts and training as is possible to do, thus blessing the children and saving them to the To meet this emergent responsibility Church. the Church has established a home for children. which is located at Lamoni, Iowa.

5. To furnish opportunity for education:

Every member of the Church should have an equal opportunity with every other member for developing efficiency for useful service in life. No boy or girl, on account of poverty, should be denied the opportunity for earning an education. in recognizing the needs of the The Church young, has attempted to meet this condition and has brought into existence an institution of learning, our Graceland College, located at Lamoni, Iowa.

6. To provide for the families of the missionaries:

When a brother is called upon by the Church to enter the ranks of the ministry, and devote his time to active missionary service, the Church must be prepared to assume the responsibility of providing for the needs of the brother's family. When the Church enters into such an agreement with a brother, the temporal department at once gives attention to the responsibility of supplying the needs: thus it is made possible to send the gospel to the nations.

7. To publish the written word abroad:

The Church has many valuable records and documents, such as the "Inspired Translation of the Bible," the "Book of Mormon," the revelations given to the Church, compiled and placed in a volume called the "Book of Doctrine and Covenants," also other books written by able writers, besides numerous tracts treating on gospel In addition to all these is The Saints' themes. Herald, the official organ of the Church; Zion's Ensign, a missionary periodical; Autumn Leaves, a monthly magazine for the young of the Church; Journal of History, a historical publication; then there are the perodicals of the Sunday school and other auxiliaries of the Church. To carry on this work there are established three publishing houses, the Herald Publishing House, located at Lamoni, Iowa, and the Ensign Publishing House, located at Independence, Missouri, and The Standard Publishing House in Australia. The Church is anxious to place before the reading public these various publications, a catalogue of which will be furnished by either of the publishing houses upon request.

8. To provide places of worship:

The association of the membership into local organizations is desirable. Local organizations are termed branches of the Church, Most branches have their own church edifices or places of worship. The establishing of places for worship are among the duties of the temporal department of the Church.

9. To provide organizations of the varied industries connected with the membership;

This is a step to be taken by the Church to be carried out through the temporal department, which at the present time is being seriously considered. This is the instruction of the Lord which is given to the Church on April 18, 1909, concerning colonization: "The great variety of callings, avocations, and professions will present difficulties precluding the practicability of all settling and living in close proximity to each other. It is therefore within the province of those upon whom the burden of organization may rest to provide for other organizations or associations than those simply pastoral or agricultural. Under this head there may be placed industrial associations of such sorts as the varied qualifications existing among workmen may demand.'

Organization.

To accomplish the ends sought by the Church through its temporal department requires organization. The temporalities are under the charge and care of men holding the office of bishop, under a presiding head, who acts for the Church in teaching the membership the requirements of the law, gathering, caring for, and distributing moneys and properties intended for Church use.

A bishop is relieved of much of the burdens connected with the spiritual care of the Church, except as his calling as a judge may involve spiritual matters; thus placing him free to oversee temporal affairs connected with the Church. The bishop does not of necessity need to execute every detail of this work, but may through other bishops, or agents, or boards, or committees, perform the legitimate service of this department

We mention in this connection that the local organizations have officers to manage the affairs connected with the temporal department of the branch. These general authorities labor in conjunction with the local authorities to the best interest of all concerned. This organization, from the local to the general officers, are responsible to the body selecting them, and all are required to render a true account of all properties intrusted to them by the Church.

Methods.

The methods employed by the organization above discussed-to accomplish the objects previously set forth and enumerated-are such as commence with the foundation of Church society, the home, and extend through the local branch to the Church in its more general organization. As for instance, if conditions are out of order in the home, the local or branch authorities are to set them right. If the branch is in disorder, the general officers adjust the difficulties. In like manner, if there is some one sick in the home and the family is not able to give the proper care, the branch takes the matter in hand and supplies the need. Thus the branch, through its temporal department, as represented by the deacons and others who may assist, carry this responsibility. Should the local organization, however, for sufficient cause be unable to give necessary relief, the matter is reported to the local bishop, if there is one; or to the presiding bishop, or his agent where there is no local bishop, and through this method of administration the cooperation of all is assured, and if necessity demands, each membr may claim upon the financial arm of the Church through the proper local authority on up to the general organization of the bishopric. What is true of the administering to the needs of the sick. is also true in administering to the needs of the membership in any condition in life.

The methods employed in raising funds to meet the demands made upon the temporal department of the Church, are by instructing the membership of their duty as revealed in the scriptures under the terms of tithing, surplus, free-will offerings, and consecrations, obedience to which on the part of the membership make it possible for the Church to perform its service. The teaching of the Church on the various subjects of tithing, surplus, free-will offering, and consecration can be furnished the reader.

Conclusion.

The general scheme of the temporal department has only been presented. We believe, however, that there have been suggested those features which indicate to the reader that our religion is one of practice, and that he will have cause to reflect and together with us give expression of thankfulness to our heavenly Father for the human hearts, the human brains, the human brawn, inspired to action through divine love and sympathy to feel after our fellow creatures and do them good.

THE WORLD'S PROBLEMS. By Elder J. F. Mintun. No. 1. Is There a God?

The most important of the problems to be solved by human beings is whether there is a God, and what are his characteristics. For that reason I place it first in this series of articles.

The word God in its abstract sense means good, absolute good. It was for this reason that Jesus of Nazareth said, "There is none good but one, that is God,"

It is an incontrovertible fact that mankind uniersally, has a longing to find some one in whom they can unreservedly confide—a being wholly governed by truth and justice. There is a desire in human hearts for at least one personality to whom all can without reservation look for help and consolation, especially when in direst distress and sorrow. This would constitute such an one the embodiment of all that is good, hence, one worthy the name, God.

Another fact as universally acknowledged is that there is some one to whom we are held accountable for our course in life; and with fear and conscientious convictions, it is acknowledged by even the most vicious that there is a judgment to be met that will distribute to the evil doer a punishment commensurate with the degree of crime committed. This is evidence that there is some one who is the personal representative of justice, a necessary attribute among intelligences to bring about a condition that will establish complete satisfaction. This is no less than the work of God who fully understands the needs of the creature man in his social relationship.

A fact no less important with human intelligence is that when they sanely consider the mistakes made, and view the necessary execution of justice, that there must be some one who will extend clemency, and upon condition of willingness to correct the mistakes made will apply that clemency in each individual case, so that they may feel that while justice claims, from the very nature of the case, a punishment to be applied, yet such punishment will be stayed, and the act demanding such punishment will be canceled so long as such one's life is a testimony against the mistakes made. The human soul longs for mercy, and to feel that mercy is extended. No such provisions could be devised and applied except by one who could prfectly adjust such a principle to that of justice, and to the needs of human conditions, without doing despite to either princ' le correctly applied. No less a personage than that of God could do this. It must be one wise enough to control every power in harmony with eternal principles, and yet not do injustice to the being created, who because of certain environments and divinely endowed qualities demands the exercise of mercy:-one who has power to exercise that virtue so wisely that it will not necessitate the veto of any other power, and yet treat with every other principle in accord with that which demonstrates the existence of that principle or virtue that most clearly gives evidence of the existence of a God, even that of love. Intelligences can and are advised to demonstrate that in the exercise of this principle the greatest satisfaction comes, and the most perfect mental and social conditions are enjoyed by them, and that without the exercise of which there is no perfect peace, no unalloyed rest.

Principles may exist, I say, may exist, but it is not probable that it will be so, without the existence of a personal intelligence to supervise and make a proper application of them, but, we believe that to, in the most perfect sense, apply these principles there must exist a personal intelligence to whom all other intelligences may look who need the benefit of such principles.

Where there is not a correct understanding of word representation of God, men will either create a word picture of that one to whom they look for the execution of such controlling influences as properly apply the principles previously mentioned, or else they will fashion a representation of the one they believe personally exists, and whom they believe possesses supreme power over the forces created, and who can be touched by their appeals, made either in word or act, out of some material substance. All this is unnecessary since God himself has furnished us with a material representation of his personality and the form of that personality when he made man in his own image and in his own likeness. This fact is clearly emphasized through the existence of Jesus, who was "the express image of his person." son," and being "of the seed of Abraham" was "in all things made like unto his brethren." The and being "of the seed of Abraham' excellent wisdom of God, the Creator, is shown in having made man in his own likeness; for as man looks upon his fellow-man he sees the personal representation of God, the Creator, and Jesus Christ, the Savior, and in a more natural way he is led to love his neighbor as himself, and to do to another as he would be done by, and thus represent the true love of and for God. And since service-true service-is the outgrowth of love, our worship of God and rev ence for him is demonstrated in our love for service humanity. We, individually, being one to whom this service should be rendered, we should be subject to the law of life as taught us by this personal intelligence, our Creator, who, because of the fact that he created us, knows better what is for our good, and has made known that which, if observed, will give us possession of that true life for which man was created to enjoy. The proof of the existence of such condition, is in the fact that all sane intelligences desire such a condition. When thus governed by the law of life we are the most helpful in rendering service to our fellow men, by example, and by giving evidence of the increased joy that comes to those who have entered into the way of that true life.

A proof of the above statement and conclusion is expressed in beautiful and positive language of one who claimed to have received continued communication from God, through which means he had received instruction on this very subject. He says, "If a man say, I love God, and hateth his brother, be is a liar; for he that loveth not his brother whom he hath seen, how can he love God whom he hath not seen,"—Bible, I John 4:20.

We conclude, that thre is a God, and that he is a personal being the image of whose person was Jesus of Nazareth, who was in the fashion of man, and whose characteristics are truth, justice, mercy, wisdom, knowledge and love.

2. That all are idolaters who worship any other personality or a personality with different characteristics.

3. That the true worship of God consists in an acknowledgement that he has revealed the correct rule of life for the creature man, and that by the great benefit we receive from following this rule, we are the greatest help to our fellow men, and in this rule of life we are made acquainted with how we can the most effectually assist our fellow man in his needs, thus being qualified to show the results of the existence of the love of God in our hearts.

4. That man now being the image of the divine personage, we should seek to help him bear the characteristics of that personage. The fact that man bears the image of God shows the wisdom of God, for it naturally inclines us to love him more as we love God more, while we may hate some of the peculiarities of his nature, and hateing these we will naturally try to eliminate them from the being we love, who bears the image of the One we worship.

There is a God, and it is the fool that has said in his heart, There is no God. Thus the wise and inspired David concluded centuries ago.

We need no image of God made of wood, metal, or stone, to which to look or bow, neither do we need a word picture that describes God otherwise than is already described in the sacred writings, and as seen in the being created in his image.

IS THE BAPTISM OF THE HOLY GHOST ES-SENTIAL TO OUR SALVATION TODAY?

By Elder Charles Derry.

In order to answer this question intelligently and truthfully, it will be necessary to learn from the Scriptures if such a baptism was and is a part of the divine plan of salvation. Also what part in the divine economy was the baptism of the Holy Ghost to perform? Again, who were to be the recipients of this haptism?

That the Holy Ghost is a divine factor in the plan of salvation is evident from the fact that the forerunner of Christ, (John) who was sent to bear witness of him, declared, "He shall baptize you with the Holy Ghost and with fire." (Matt. 3:11.) And Christ emphatically declares, "Verily, verily, I say unto thee, except a man be born of water and of the Spirit, he cannot enter into the kingdom of God."—John 3:5.

The foregoing testimonies should forever settle the question as to the baptism of the Holy Ghost being a part of the divine plan of salvation.

No Bible believer will question the immutability of God. The plan of salvation was ordained of God before the foundation of the world. (2 Tim. 1:9; Titus 1.) Jesus is spoken of as a "Lamb slain from the foundation of the world." (Rev. 13:8.) And God says, "I am the Lord, I change not." (Mal. 3:6.) Again, "With whom there is no variableness, neithr shadow of turning." (Jas. 1:17.) Hence that plan remains the same and will until every soul is brought within the pale of the kingdom of God, who accepts Christ indeed and in truth.

Let us now consider the work of the Holy Spirit. It is written, "As many as received him, [Jesus] to them gave he nower to become the sons of God, even to them that believe on his name. Which were born, not of blood, nor of the will of the flesh, nor of the will of man, but of God." (Born of water and of the Spirit. ) (John 1:12,13; 1 Peter 1:23.) Having become the sons of God it was necessary they should receive the seal of their adoption. Paul speaking to the Ephesians says, of those who believed in Christ, "In whom ye also trusted, after that ye believed, ye were sealed with that Holy Spirit of promise, which is the earnest of our inheritance until the redemption of the purchased possession, unto the praise of his glory." (Eph. 1:18,14.) Again, "Grieve not the Holy Spirit of God, whereby ye are sealed unto he day of redemption." (Eph. 4:30.) The Spirit itself beareth witness with our spirits that we are the children of God. (Romans 8:14,17).

From the above texts we learn that having become the children of God he gives us the Spirit, the seal of our adoption, which is the earnest of our inheritance. Reader, without that witness,—that seal of our adoption—that earnest of our inheritance, we can have no part in the celestial kingdom of God. "For there are three that bear record in heaven, the Father, the Word, and the Holy Ghost: and these three are one. And there are three that bear witness in earth, the Spirit, and the water, and the blood: and these three agree in one." (1 John 5:6-8.) From the foregoing we learn that part of the work of the Holy Spirit is to be a witness for us, and to us, that we are the children of God,—the earnest of our inheritance, the seal of our adoption into the fold and family of God. And it is written, "If any man have not the Spirit of Christ he is none of his."—Romans 3:9.

The Holy Ghost is to be a Comforter. (John 14:16.) The children of God need such a Comforter. They are hated by the world, their names are cast out as evil. It is written, "Yea, and all that will live godly in Christ Jesus shall suffer persecution." (John 14:18,19; 2 Tim. 3:12.) The Holy Ghost is a teacher, (John 14:26.) need such a teacher in the midst of this confusion of creeds that exists in the world today. He will testify of Christ. He will guide into all truth. We need such an infallible guide. Without it we wander in darkness and "grope as the blind for the wall." Read John 14th, 15th, and 16th chapters. Without this Teacher and Guide we wander far from God, and are "tossed about with every wind of doctrine," just as the world has been for many centuries. The many divisions in the religious world today make it evident that we need this divine guide and teacher. We need the Holy Spirit to bear witness with our spirits that Jesus is the Christ, the Son of God, the Redeemer of the world.

This is an age of scepticism and doubt. Scientists are trying to rule God out of the world. Clergymen declare that the account of the fall is but "a kindergarten story." "The immaculate conception of Christ is a myth," and thus the veil of doubt and darkness covers the minds of men, and nothing but the Spirit of God can dispel that darkness. Without that Spirit we cannot see the kingdom of God. Hence Jesus said, "Ye must be born again;" and in explanation of that birth he said, "Verily, verily, I say unto thee, Except a man be born of water and of the Spirit, he cannot enter into the kingdom of God."

Was this gracious promise made to the twelve apostles only? If so, it would be realized by them only, for God makes no mistakes. There were no twelve apostles when John addressed the multitude in the wilderness, and as God's mouthpiece, declared of Christ, "He shall baptize you with the Holy Ghost, and with fire." (Matt. 3; Mark 1; Luke 3; John 1.)) John referred to the multitude, but it was afterward that Jesus called and ordained the twelve apostles, and still later, "He appointed other seventy also." (Luke 9th and 10th chapters.) It is quite reasonable to conclude that his promise to give the Comforter, that all these ordained ministers were included in the promise, and no doubt they shared in the blessing, for in Acts 1 we read that about the time of Pentecost the number of names together were about a hundred and twenty; and in Acts 2 we read, "And when the day of Pentcost was fully come they were all with one accord in one place. And suddenly there came a sound from heaven as of a rushing mighty wind, and it filled all the house where they were sitting. And there appeared unto them cloven tongues like as of fire, and it sat upon each of them, and they were all filled with the Holy Ghost." This proves that the promise was not limited to the twelve.

But we will hear what the inspired Peter says of the promise. Having heard the evidence that Jesus was the Christ, the people cried out to Peter and the rest of the apostles, "Men and brethren! What shall we do?" "Then said Peter unto them, Repent and be baptized every one of you in the name of Jesus Christ for the remission of sins, and ye shall receive the gift of the Holy Ghost. For the promise is unto you and to your children, and to all that are afar off, even as many as the Lord our God shall call." There is no limit to this promise if all will obey the call, for God giveth the Holy Ghost to all that obey him. (Acts 5.32.) The Samaritans received it. (Acts 8.) Cornelius and other Gentiles received it. (Acts 10.) The Ephesians received it, (Acts 19) for we read in Acts 19: "Paul having passed through the upper coast came to Ephesus: and finding certain disciples, he said unto them, Have ye received the Holy Ghost since ye believed? And they said unto him, We have not so much as heard whether there be any Holy Ghost. And he said unto them, Unto what then were ye baptized? And they said, Unto John's baptism. This surprised Paul, for he knew that John taught. the people that Christ would baptize them with the Holy Ghost, and since they had not heard of the Holy Ghost it was evident to him that thy had not been baptized by John, but some person not versed in the true order of God had baptized "Then said Paul, John verily baptized with them. the baptism of repentance, saying unto the people, that they should believe on him that should come after him, that is on Christ Jesus. When they heard this, they were baptized in the name of the Lord Jesus. And when Paul had laid his hands on them, the Holy Ghost came upon them."

Reader, Paul knew it was necessary that they should be baptized with the Holy Ghost, as John had taught, or he would not have asked that question, nor have baptized them over again, nor have laid his hands upon them for the baptism of the Holy Ghost. (See Acts 8:14-17; 9:10-17; 1 Tim. 4:14; 2 Tim. 1:6.) The foregoing is God's plan. Will you heed it?

Besides being the earnest of our inheritance. the seal of our adoption, guide, etc., the Holy Spirit bestows certain gifts such as wisdom, knowledge, faith, healing, working of miracles, prophecy, discerning of spirits, divers kinds of tongues, interpretation of tongues. "But all these worketh that one and the selfsame Spirit, dividing to every man severally as he will." 12; Acts 10:45,46; 19:6.)

In addition to these blessed gifts, it bears the sllowing glorious fruits: "The fruit of the following glorious fruits: Spirit is love, joy, peace, longsuffering, gentleness, goodness, faith, meekness, temperance." ((Gal. 5:22,23.) Reader unless we have the Holy Ghost, the Comforter, abiding in us we cannot enjoy the gifts, nor bear the fruits here presented. Then how dark must be the minds of those teachers who say, "The baptism of the Spirit is not for us today," when it is written, "It shall come to pass in the last days, saith God, I will pour out of my Spirit upon all flesh: and your sons and your daughters shall prophesy, and your young men shall see visions and your old men shall dream dreams," etc. (Acts 2:17,18).

For the blessedness of that day, read Isaiah 11, and many other scriptures. When "the earth shall be full of the knowledge of God as the waters cover the sea." "When all shall know him from the least to the greatest." May God enable you to live for that blessing.

Chico, Calif., Sept. 16.

-We are pleased to report that the reunion recently held at Irvington, Calif., was a success and was considered by some of those in authority as one of the

On August 21st the following organization was effected: Presiding officers—F. M. Sheehy, C. A. Parkin and C. W. Hawkins. M. A. McConley secretary, Sr. Hattie Burgess ssisted by Sisters S. E. Boydstun and C. Simnson; Sr. Hazel Burgess organist, assisted by Sr. Lillian Ewing.

While there were not so many tents on the grounds as on some previous occasions, still all parts of the district were represented. Meetings were of a high, spiritual were represented. Meetings were of a mgn, spiritual order and peace and harmony prevailed throughout. And the ones in attendance felt that it was good to be a Saint

The regular daily meetings were: 6:15 a. m. young people's prayer meeting; 9 a. m. general prayer meeting; 10:45 a. m. and 7:45 p. m. preaching services. During the fore part of the reunion the afternoons were devoted to 1076 part of the reunion the afternoons were devoted to recreation, but during the latter part the auxiliaries held sessions and the whole day was fully occupied. The Woman's Auxiliary for Social Service, the district Sunday school association and the district Religio society each held one or more sessions. All show progress along each neld one or more sessions. All show progress along their respective lines of endeavor. Some good quorum meetings were also held by the elders and priests. Besides those already mentioned, there were present of the missionary force, W. A. McDowell, R. J. Parker, S. M. Reiste, C. W. Deuel and C. J. Cady. Bro. McDowell gave quite a number of patriarchal blessings. More outsiders attended the meetings than on any pre-vious year and two year fine ladies, were houtized.

More outsiders attended the meetings than on any pre-vious year and two very fine ladies were baptized. It was voted to hold a reunion again next year and the same reunion committeee was continued.
will be as successful as the one just closed.
Sincerely, We hope it

M. A. McConley.

Minneapolis, Minn., Sept. 16.
Editor Enelga:—I write a few lines that readers who are sequainted with our branch may know that we are still in the conflict, also that those who have labored here may know that their work is bearing fruit.

A number have been restored to health and happiness through administration. We are having our prayer meetings, the officers are visiting among the members and there seems to be a chord of harmony and love existing between all.

iove existing between all. We received a prophecy about three weeks ago through Bro. R. J. Wildey, who has been a busy worker here in Minneapolis, which admonished us to be faithful, coming to God with contrite spirits and broken hearts, standing in holy places always, and in that day of destruction a way for our escape would be opened up unto a place of our escape would be opened up unto a place

Those words were comforting to us for we realize that the time is near by when the Householder will send his servants into the fields to gather the wheat into the garner, which we understand to be, that the pure in heart will be gathered to Zion, the place of safety. My prayer is that all might see the great necessity of doing God's will and thereby escape destruction which shall come among the wicked.

Your brother in Christ E. H. Bennett.

Ava, Mo., Sept. 18.

Editor Ensign:—I am still in my weak way, spiritually and physically trying to serve the Master. I have been a member of the church over twenty years and I can say to all that I have never felt like turning back. I feel like I need the prayers of all the Saints. I will be seventy years old my next birthday and I am not able to work, and my wife has been an invalid for the last ten years. I went to the hospital at Quincy, Ill., the first of June and I stayed there over two months and the rest did me lots of good.

I enjoy reading the letters in the Ensign from all the and sisters. I was in the hospital when Bro. Henry Sparling was preaching in Ava. He stayed with my family while he was preaching here. I ask an inter-est in the prayers of the Saints for myself and my family. Your brother and sister,

N. Bishop and Elizabeth Bishop.

Buchanan, Mich., Sept. 10.

Dear Ensign:—Bro. Stroh came at our call to hold meet-ings at our schoolhouse, (known as Coveny school) on the third day of September, holding meetings three evenings, then on Sunday we went to Boyle Lake where we had services at eleven o'clock, then the baskets were unpacked and between fifty and sixty sat down to an old-fashioned picnic dinner which was very much enjoyed.

Services again at 2:30, then as we could not baptize at

Boyle Lake we drove down to a small lake some two miles distant where two more precious souls were inducted into the kingdom by Bro. Stroh and confirmed at the water's edge. To say we had a spiritual feast is putting it mildly. Bro. Stroh made many friends while here and many ask him to return again soon.

If Bro. McKnight and Bro. Clyde F. Ellis see this they will know that the little band of Saints are still alive at the Coveny where they first planted the gospel standard, and there are others deeply interested in the angel's mes-Sage.

Until two years ago last June there were but two Saints here, now we number fifteen. Sr. Burgoyne and her haughter being the only ones at that time. So you see by God's help we are still gathering them into the fold.
Ever praying that this gospel may roll on till it fills the whole earth, I remain your sister in gospel bonds, Mrs. Ida Burgoyne.

Who blesses others in his daily deeds Will find the healing that his spirit needs, For every flower in others' pathway thrown Confers its fragrant beauty on our own.—Sel.

(FS) DEPARTMENT OF Woman's Auxiliary for Social Service

MRS. MAUD MILLS, EDITOR, 1514 W. Short St., Independence, Mo

NOTICE.

All persons sending money to the Woman's Auxiliary for any purpose, including subsectipations to Home and Clilid Welfare lenter, or Children's Home donations, please forward same to the treasurer of the Auxiliary, Mrs. J A. Gardner, 711 S. Fuller Ave., Independence Mo.

dependence Mo. ADVISORY BOARD.

Mrs. S. R. Burgess, President, 5920 Etzel Ave., St. Louis, Mo. Mrs. B. C. Smith, Vice President, 214 S. Spring St., Independent of the Communication of the Communicat Minnie E. Scott, Secretary, 309 S. Fuller Ave., Independ

Mrs. M. A. Etzenhouser, 1593 W. Walnut St., Independence. Mo-Mrs. D. J. Krahl, 724 S. Crysler St., Independence. Mo. SUPERINTENENENTS OF DEPARTMENTS. Home and Child Welfare Department, Mrs. H. A. Stebbins, La-ni, Iowa.

moni, Iowa.

Jiterary and Educational Department, Mrs. Lydia Thomas Wight, Lamoni, Iowa.

Eugenics Department, Mrs. Jennie Studley, 17 E. Cottage St., Domestic Science Department, Mrs. Bertha Anderson Hulmes, 416 Mill St., Council Bulks, Iowa.

Sewing and Aid Department, Mrs. Edith Cochran, 207 S. Sevententh St., St., Joseph, Mo.

Sr. Burgess desires us to ask that all correspondents to various departments should give full address invariably. Inconvenience and loss will be avoided by following these instructions.

On Sunday, September 20th, the Independence division of the Home and Child Welfare Department, supplement its monthly reading with some excellent practice! talks and demonstrations in line with the subject under discussion, viz., "Conditions that affect bodily growth."

Sr. Goff, diectician at the Independence Sanitarium, gave us some good information in her line, from which all close listeners must have gleaned a fund of information, which was either new to their minds or impressive to knowledge already gained. (Sr. Goff has kindly consented to condense her talk and give it in for publication. It follows this report in the column).

Sr. Dora Glines talked to us along the line of "Physical Deformities in School Children." also gave the Parent-teachers' Association material for work in the way of suggestions in criticism of present day school methods which are to the positive detriment of our children. That an experienced and efficient teacher of eighth grade pupils should consider this a proper place to state details of needed reforms in our school methods. leads one to believe that it is important that we as mothers should study these conditions and act so far as is within our power, for the general betterment of our school conditions. The most effectual way to take up your part in this work is to faithfully attend the parent-teachers' meetings of your respective schools. Do not fail in this, as it is for the decided good of your child and your neighbors' as well

Sr. William Madison, a former teacher, gave us some good practical instruction in physical exercises. They were simple and beneficial and would take no more time each day than many women spend talking over the back fence about neighborhood affairs, and would be of vastly greater benefit. One demonstration Sr. Madison gave us is worthy of especial note. By the use of a ladder, so placed that the ends are securely fastened at such a heighth that a child can grasp the rounds with the hands, and go from one to another through its entire length, with the neck thrown back as far as possible, and the body suspended in air. Bad cases of spinal curvature may thus be cured. The exercise must be repeated daily, then more than once daily, etc., as strength may permit.

The startling statement that "twenty-seven out of every one hundred school children suffer from spinal curvature," was given us by good authority in our reading. So we think that this exercise shouldd be used by us for our children, as providing simple means, unattended by expense. Sr. Madison states that this exercise has been so thoroughly tested as to justify the statement that any growing child can be cured of spinal curvature by the use of this means.

NUTRITION OF SCHOOL CHILDREN.

The proper feeding of school children has attracted considerable attention, especially in the conjected districts of our larger cities. As a result of investigations of ex-isting conditions, many cities have instituted free lunches, or lunches at cost, believing that not only better bodily conditions would result, but better mental conditions as These experiments have proved successful beyond etation.

expectation.

Nutrition involves those processes by which food is digested and assimilated in the body and eliminated from tit. Food must supply the elements needed for growth, repair and the energy needed for the exercise of bodily functions.

No one food contains all these elements in the necessary proportion, hence the need for a mixed diet. The ideal diet is that combination of foods which will furnish all the needs of the organism without overburdening it.

The body is very complex, containing some fifteen or twenty elements, the most important of which are, oxygen, hydrogen, carbon, nitrogen, calcium, phosphorous, sulphur, iron, potassium, sodium, chlorin and others.

A mixed diet is especially essential to the growing child. The lack of any necessary element, or an insuffi-cient amount of food soon manifests itself in the inability of the child to resist disease or cold, or in an impoverished condition to the blood, under development, or in some Foods are generally divided into two classes, tissue builders and those which furnish heat and energy. Fo containing nitrogen are tissue builders. Examples this class are: milk, eggs, fish, meat, cheese, beans, peas, lentils, cereals and nuts. Foods containing fats, sugar and starches are the sources of heat and energy. Examples of this class are: olive oil, butter, cream, bacon, fat meat, sugar, honey, sweet dried fruits, cereals, sago, tapioca and potatoes.

Minerals are a very necessary constituent of food. Phosphorous may be found in milk, cream, eggs, meat, whole wheat, oats, dried beans and peas. This element whole wheat, oats, dried beans and peas. This element is a necessary brain-tissue builder. Iron is found in egg volk, meat, wheat, oats, beans, peas, asparagus, spinach, carrots, raisins and prunes. Sodium and chloride are derived from common salt.

rived from common salt.

The amount of food required depends on the age, body, weight, sex, climate and occupation of the individual. Age is perhaps the greatest factor. The period of growth and development covers at least the first eighteen years of the life of an individual, it is a period of plasticity and any defect in nourishment during this period leaves a blight or the three periods of the individual. handicap for the future usefulness of the individual.

From experimentation it has been found that a child from six to nine years of age, requires about half the amount of food required by a man at moderate work. Of this, one part should be protted, 4.2 parts cathohydrate, and 4.8 parts fat. The child needs a little greater proand 4.6 parts int. The cana heets a integrate proportion of fat in its food than the grown individual. A boy 14 to 16 years of age requires almost the same amount of food as a grown man.

Children's dietaries are usually made up from lists containing milk, eggs, butter, cereals, (especial'y cooked), fruits, vegetables, and simple desserts. Meats not to be given before the fourth year, and not much before the ninth year. All stimulants such as tea, coffee, and alcoholic beverages should be absolutely prohibited and even cocoa should rarely be given and then made very dilute with milk.

In order that the child may gain the full benefit of food, it must be wholesome, suitably cooked, given at regular intervals, (nibbling between meals should not be allowed) taken slowly and well masticated. A little rest should A little be taken after the meal. Don't let the child rush out to

The child should be called in sufficient time to cool off or rest a little before eating in hot weather. Do not allow meals to be hurried through with, have them served on time so that there will be no need to rush.

Teach the child to like all healthful foods and do not allow him to climinate foods which contain elements necanow min to eminiate rooms when contain elements necessary to proper development. Our taste like our conscience is greatly a matter of training. I have seen whole families suffer because of tendencies to certain diseases which might be traced to the elimination or the excessive use of some one food element in their daily diet. All fruits and vegetables have their own peculiar effects on the body, almost medicinal one might say, especially when taken in season

Dietary List For Young School Children.

Breakfast—Daily—Milk, porrige, cream, bread and but-ter. One dish—egg, soft cooked, poached, scrambled, plain omelet, chicken or hash. Serve some sound fruit, perfectly tress. According to the fiber from orange.

Dinner—Daily—Soup, small piece roasted or dishes—potatoes () perfectly fresh. Remove seeds from grapes and skin and Dinner—Daily—Soup, Smail piece rosessed of Science, meat, bread and butter. Two dishes—potatoes (baked or mashed) spinach, celery, cauliflower, peas, beans or corn. One dish dessert—Junket, rice, milk, light puddings and occasionally ice cream.

Milk toast, bread and milk, or bread and bu

Supper—Min coast, oreas and min, or oreas and outcome and stewed fruits may be served.

Malnutrition in children favors constitutional disease such as tuberculosis. School children suffering from malnutrition appear thin, pale, undersized, nervous, irritable have toxic headaches and seem to "catch everything that comes along."

Proper diet, plenty of fresh air, and exercise, should be taken to remedy this condition. All sweet pastry, highly seasoned food, candy, nuts, tea and coffee should prohibited.

sufficient nourishment or the excessive use foods often produce constipation with its resulting toxic headaches accompanied by dullness and fretfu'ness due to the poison which has permiated the entire system of the child. This condition may be relieved through the use of laxative foods especially vegetables and fruits.

Nervous diseases are always affected by nutritive dis-

Nervous anseases are anways ancetted by nutritive distributions. Nervousness, disorders of sleep, convulsions, and stuttering are generally made worse through improper feeding. The relatively large size immaturity and rapid growth of the brain and spinal cord of the child explain its sensitiveness to nutritive disorders. This sensitiveness to nutritive disorders. This sensitive materials are successful. sitiveness necessitates the prohibition of all stimulants, Scurvy and rickets are food diseases. Scurvy is gen-ally due to improper feeding covering a long period of Rickets, or softening of the bones, generally makes tiself manifest in very young children and is often confounded with rheumatism because of the tenderness of the limbs. A young child rarely has a case of true rheumatism. Permanent disfigurement is likely to result. By some it is thought to be due to a lack of calcium in the food.

Vera E. Goffe.

MISCELLANEOUS

CONFERENCE NOTICES.

Fremont, Iowa, District .- Conference will convene with the Henderson, Iowa, Branch, Saturday, October 31, 1914, at 11 a. m. The joint session of the Sunday school and Religio convention will be opened at 2:30 p. m., Friday, the 30th, and continue till 10:45 Saturday morning. Those coming by train should notify T. A. Hougas, Macedonia, Iowa, or R. W. McClenahan, Henderson, Iowa, at what time you will arrive. All come to Henderson. We hope to see a full attendance from all branches.

T. A. Hougas, Dist. Pres.

Northeast Missouri District. -Conference will be held at Bevier, Mo., November 7 and 8, 1914. Elder J. W. Rushton will be present. The committee on by-laws will report at this conference. Send reports to Wm. C. Chapman, Highee, Mo., Rt. 3.

Wm. C. Chapman, Dist. Sec.

NOTICES.

To the Saints and friends of the Northeast Kansas District, Greeting:-

District, Greeting.—
I am now ready to enter upon the duties assigned me in your district, and any of the Saints who are living outside of organized branches who desire a series of meetings in private house, schoolhouse, or church building, I am at your service. I want to make some new openings and stay away from the branches a much as possible, so that the condered ones may hear the angel's message. I hope that all who are interested in the gospel finding lodgement in the hearts of the children of men will kindly assist me in obtaining places to tell the gospel story. This is a new field for the writer and I want to get acquainted with the workers, shirkers and jerkers, so we may all get on a working basis for the Master.

Your brother in the gospel of peace, Elder George Edwards. Home address. 1710 D. East 8th St. Kansas City, Mo.

Home address, 1710 D East 8th St., Kansas City, Mo.

Members of the Michigan Quorum of Elders-Will please take notice that the quorum will meet during the Central Michigan conference at McIvor, Mich., October 17th and 18th, where we will be pleased to see a large number present. All Elders residing in Michigan are invited to enroll as there are several vacancies at present. As this will be the most central of any sessions held since organization we sincerely hope all will avail themselves of the opportunity to boost the quorum. The quorum will, no doubt, meet during the Eastern Michigan conference at McGregor, Oct. 24th and 25th, as well.

Respectfully in gospel and quorum bonds,

71 Antoinette Ave., Detroit, Mich.

Northwestern Nebr. and Southwestern S. Dak .: - Will any Saints in this territory send me their addresses and state the possibilities of work in their localities? I shall be off for a trip for those parts and wish to do service where practicable. A previous notice brought but one response. Please inform me at address below. In bonds,

R. Etzenhouser.

1123 W. 6th, North Platte, Nebr.

PLEASE DOUBLE SPACE.

Those using typewriters when writing for publication would greatly oblige us, in our preparation and setting of their copy, if they will double space all such matter. As to business letters it does not matter, but that intended for publication should always be double spaced.

CORRECTION.

On editorial page of October 1, third column, fourth line from top, the word "potency" should be "impotency." Errors sometimes make us say things we do not mean.

GREATEST TEMPERANCE GATHERING EATEST TEMPERANCE GATHERING IN TI WORLD'S HISTORY, ARRANGED TO BE HELD AT ATLANTIC CITY, N. J. IN SUMMER OF 1915. AMERICA'S FOREMOST MEN AND WOMEN WILL BE ON THE PROGRAM.

Unquestionably the greatest gathering of temperance forces in the world's history will be the biennial conven-tion of the Anti-Saloon League of America to be held on the Million Dollar Pier at Atlantic City, N. J., July 6-10,

On the pier there are four large auditoriums and a number of smaller halls. Reservation of these buildings has been made, and it will be possible for the holding of four large gatherings concurrently, so that every person who attends may have an opportunity of hearing every speaker. The joint seating capacity of the big auditoriums is 17,000. The smaller halls will be used for committee sions and overflow sessions.

As was the case in the Columbus, Ohio, convention in 1913, representation at the Atlantic City meeting will be based on one delegate from each individual church congregation, each local young people's society, each Sunday school and each subordinate unit of a temperance society or lodge. It is expected 30,000 delegates will attend.

In every particular this will be a greater meeting than the Columbus convention, which has been rated as sur-passing anything previously held. Already some of the passing mything previously men. Artendy some of the states are arranging to send large delegations. One state reports a delegation of one thousand assured.

On the program as partially arranged there will be scores of the most prominent platform men in America, Senators, Congressmen, Judges, Governors of states, man-ufacturers, business men, attorneys, scientists, labor leaders, editors in United States and Canada, and leading re-form figures in other lands, who will tell the great con-vention of temperance progress the world over. There will be representatives from every state in the union, to tell in detail of the development of Anti-Saloon League

It is confidently expected there will be at least fourteen states in the Prohibition column by that time. A of the fight in each of these states will be inspiring

One of the most notable features will be the exhibit, for which a portion of the pier will be reserved. This will show literature, charts, books, designs and other forms of illustration, with special efforts worked out along the line of the physiological effects of alcohol, this part of exhibit to be planned along the lines of anti-tuberculosis and other disease-fighting propaganda.

One portion of the exhibit will be that which drew so much attention at the recent international Sunday school convention in Chicago, where were shown startling statis-tics, illustrated by tomb-stones as symbols, showing, from tics, indistrated by tome-scines as symbols, showing, it on actual facts and figures, the terrible ravages of alcohol. No phase of the alcoholic problem, and no feature of warfare against it will be neglected in the exhibit or in the carrying out of the program of the convention.

It is not too early for churches, Sunday schools, young people's societies and temperance organizations to nounce the coming of the convention and to prepare to be represented in it. The convention comes in midsummer, when the vacation season is on, and it is to be held at a popular summer resort; these two circumstances are expected to help swell the attendance.

CONFERENCE MINUTES

Seattle and British Columbia District.—Semi-annual conference convened at Vancouver, B C., August 14th; district phesident, Wm. Johnson, with Elder J. M. Terry associating, presided. District secretary, F. W. Holman, at the desk. Branches reporting: Seattle, 261, gain 23; at the desk. Branches reporting: Seattle, 261, gain 23; Centralia 91, gain 1; Chilliwack 40, loss 1; New West-minister 50, gain 1; Roslyn not reporting; last number being 37, making a total of 479; this total having the enrollment of three disorganized branches added, Tacoma with 25, Castle Rock with 28, and Nanaimo 12, makes a grand total of 544 for the district.

Ministry reporting: Elders J. M. Terry, Wm. Johnson and R. D. Davis of the missionary force, and Samuel Pope, Isaac McMullen, Fred L. Robbins, Henry Stade, Frank Holmes and F. W. Holman of the local forces. Also Priests R. S. Budd of the missionary force and W. C. Reed and John Hartnel of the local. Bishop's agent's report showed receipts in tithes and offerings for the past six months, $532.65, an expenditure of $1172.48, with a balance of $879.16 on hand in the beginning, left a present

District Sunday school and Zion's Religio Literary Socities reporting conventions showed life and progress.

Preaching was had by Brn. R. D. Davis, Wm. Johnson and J. M. Terry. Adjourned to meet for the winter conference at Seattle, Wash., on the second Saturday of February, 1915

F. W. Holman, Sec.

4233 Bagley Ave., Seattle, Wash.

CONVENTION MINUTES.

CONYENTION MINUTES.

West Virginia.—Sunday school association met in convention at Clarksburg, Sept. 25th. Reports from schools and district officers were received. Officers were elected for the coming year as follows: Joseph Biggs, superintendent, H. E. Johnson assistant superintendent Katie Ratio Ross secretary, Ethel Jarett treasurer, Mocie Shinn home department superintendent. Adjourned to meet day previous and at the same place of next district conference. Katie Ross, Sec.

Cairo, W. Va.

Eastern Colorado.-Religio convention convened at Colroado Springs, September 3rd and 4th. Interesting and instructive program Thursday evening; business session Friday morning. Officers elected as follows: E. W. Fishburn, president, 695 E. Speer Blvrd, Denver; A. E. Bullard, vice president, 1140 Lincoln, Denver; F. R. Brown. Bullard, vice present, 1400 Entodit, Deliver, F. R. Budwit, treasurer, Brown's Business College, Colorado Springs; Mrs. Alice M. Cowan, librarian, 571 Emerson, Denver; Mrs. Eva Cotterell, home department superintendent, Haigler, Dundy Co., Nebr.; Nellie E. Sampson, good literature superintendent, 571 Emerson, Denver; Blanche Sampson, secretary, 571 Emerson, Denver.

Blanche Sampson, Sec.

DIED.

Stroud.—Sr. Martha M. Stroud was born February 20, 1839, at Charaton, Mo., she was baptized January 1, 1911, at the Rock church in St. Louis, by J. A. Tanner, was confirmed by J. A. Tanner and T. J. Elliott. She died at Omaha, at the home of her daughter, Mrs. N. Richmond. She leaves four daughters and one son to mourn her death. The funeral was preached by a Methodist minis-ter by the name of Rev. Hanna. She was aged 75 years, x months and four days. Grandma Stroud will perhaps be remembered by some at Lamoni, she having been there at the Old Folks Home for a time, also at Independence Old Folks' Home for about three weeks.

Lewis.—Wilma Cecil, little daughter of Bro. and Sr. Zenas Lewis, near Stewartsville, Mo., passed away after Zenas Lewis, near Stewartsville, alo., passed away arter a short illness of seven days. Born April 16, 1913, died Sept. 25, 1914. Wilma was an exceedingly bright little girl and her bright, winning ways endeared her to all. Funeral at the Saints' church in Stewartsville, in charge of A. W. Head, sermon by T. T. Hinderks.

. Rowland.—Mary Ellen Kearns Rowland was born Feb. 11, 1869, in Lincoln County Missouri; died at Lawrence, Kansas, Sept. 15. 1914. February 13, 1887 she married W. V. Rowland, who died June 12, 1899. In April, 1902, was married to J. M. Rowland, a younger brother. By first marriage they were blessed with five boys and two girls. Second marriage, one girl, now nine. All eight children and the husband were present at the funeral, which was conducted by Patriarch I. N. White, in the Presbyterian Church at Foster, Mo., Saturday, Sept. 19th. to an orderly and interesting congregation. Sr. Rowland died in the faith, being a member of the Reorganization for more than eighteen years.

McDaniels .- Mary McDaniels was born February 24, MEDIANIES.—Mary Michanies was born February 1847, at Mason, Smyth Co, Virginia, and died at Liberty Home, Lamoni, Iowa, Sept. 9, 1914. She was baptized June 28, 1896, at Rich Hill, Mo, by F. M. Sharrock. The funeral services were in charge of Eli Hayer, sermon by A. S. Cochran. She was a widow and left no children. She ate supper and wiped the dishes as usual, then said she was not feeling well, laid down, and in a very few moments was at rest. The matron of the Home speaks very highly of her saintly qualities.

Ferguson.—In Stevens County, Kansas, September 20, 1914, James A. Ferguson, aged 78 years, 11 hours. The deceased was born in Marysville, Indiana. In 1854 he united with the Christian Church, and on the 27th of May, united with the Christian Church, and on the 27th of May, 1857, was united in marriage to Sarah J. Thompson. To this union seven children were born, four daughters and three sons, three of whom survive him, Chas. Ferguson, of Independence, Mo.; Mrs. S. E. Baggerly, of Niagara, Kansas; and Mrs Bing, of Rolla, Kansas. On the 13th day May, 1870, he with his wife united with the Reorganized Church of Jesus Chirst of Latter Day Saints, to which he remained faithful till his death. He died at the home of his daughter, S. E. Baggerly. Services were conducted by F. W. Kendall at the Rolla cemetery.

ENSIGN PUBLICATIONS.

And Chier Books for Sale by the Ensign Publishing House.

Book of Mormon Dictionary. A comlete pronouncing Dictionary of proper names in the Book of Mormon, with definitions and explanatory notes. Paper, 25c; cloth, 40c; leather. 30.65

Dectrinal References A compilation of references under subject headings of texts connected with the gospel, taken from the Bible Book of Mormon and Doctrine and Covenants, A very handy reference book. Paper covers, 10c; cloth, 15c; leather. $0.30

Our Missionaries in Bible Lands. A compilation of interesting views, accompanied with comments, of historic places in Palestine and Egypt, from photographs taken by Elder and Sr. F. G. Pitt. Heavy paper covers, 50c; cloth boards ....$0.75

Marvelous Manifestations. (Revised edition). Authentic accounts of the healing of the sick, restoring sight to the blind and other manifestations of God's miraculous power. Paper covers, 20c; cloth boards, $50c; leather ....$0.55

Three Bibles Compared. A comparison between the King James, the Revised and the Inspired Versions. Paper covers, 25c, 5 for $1.00; cloth..$0.35

covers, zoc, b for $1.00; cloth...$0.00

of Mormon Vindicated. Scriptural
Evidences of the Divine Authenticity of the Book of Mormon, 115
large pages. Paper covers, 25c,
5 for $1.00; cloth .....$0.60

5 for $1.00; cloth

Creeds. This book shows how, at the coming forth of the latter day work, the churches had drifted from the truth into apostasy. Paper covers, 20c, 6 for ______$1.00

Apostasy of the Church. This book shows the departure from the faith be-fore and after the restoration of the gospel. Paper covers......$0.05

rainyra to Independence. A book of 444 pages. A brief review of the Book of Mormon is given, with many testimonials and affidayits.
Paper covers, 60c; cloth ......$1.00

Sabbatarian Theories a Delusion. 113 pages. Price, 15c or 2 for......$0.25 pages. Frice, 10c or 2 10r....$0.25

Webster's Business and College Dictionary,
Besides being an up-to-date pronouncing dictionary it contains much ofter valuable information.
It contains new words up to September, 1911, and the last Government census. Postpaid for.....$0.50
Hurlbut's Teacher-Training Normal Lessons. Paper covers, 36c; cloth.$0.50
Hurlbut's Story of the Bible. Profusely il-

Hurlbut's Story of the Bible. Profusely illustrated, 750 pages ......$1.50

$1.00 $1.00 Palestine of To-day ...... The Christian System .....

CAMBRIDGE AND BAGSTER BIBLES. Order by Number.

The same as H125X, except it is leather lined and French Levant

Morocco cover $4.50

French Seal, flexible overlapping, illustrated, self-pronouncing, red under gold edges. Size, 5x7%x

1%. $1.55

51/428 4 $1.15

A fine Bible for those who want large type and not so particular about it being small. Long primer type, self-promouncing, full page illustrations, French Seal, divinity cruti, etc. $2.25

$125/4-Same as $125, except it is patent diexed. $2.50

$128-Same as $125, with button clasp $2.35

F65X—India Paper edition, French Morcoco, divinity circuit, red under gold edges. Size, 5% 23%, only % inch lik!

F68—Same as F66X, with button clasp.$1.60

NEW TESTAMENTS.

OXFORD BIBLES.

-Alaska Seal binding, otherwise the same as 04207X .....$4.50 03209X of scenes in Bible lands.....$1.35

-The Bible for home use. Large, clear print, French Morocco, divinity circuit, round corners, red under gold edges....$2.00

-A model Bible. India paper, black faced minion type, French Morocco, divinity circuit, linen lined, round corners, red under gold edges, 7½x 5% inches........$2.75 03203X-

The 1911 Bible. Of this Bible the Herald and Prosbyter says: "The 1911 Bible is by far the best translation ever given to the English speaking people." It is beautifully printed in large black faced type, bound in French Morocco, flexible, opening flat, round corners, red under gold edges, has beadband and silk marker and 12 maps .....$2.00

OXFORD TESTAMENTS.

TRACTS.

The following tracts are excellent and suitable for distribution among those not identified with the latter day work. They may be obtained, all of one kind or assorted as desired, at the following prices, except as otherwise noted:

Two copies $0.05
Six copies $1.00
One days copies 20

One dozen copies .....

No less than 50 copies at 100 rate.

"Why I Became a Latter Day Saint," by

Elder Joseph Luff.
"Future Punishment," by Elder R. C.

Evans.

"The Book of Mormon; Evidences of Its Divinity," by Elder R. C. Evans.

"Creed Making," by Elder I. M. Smith.

"Good News." A tract of tracts on several different subjects by as many writers.

"The Church of Christ," by Elder Edward Ramie.

"Who Was Joseph Smith," by Elder J. W. Peterson

Peterson.

"A Glimpse at the Government of God," by Elder Paul M. Hanson.

"Reasons Why. Shall We Hear Them?"
Revised edition. By Elder J. W. Peterson.

"Travlev Reasons Why I Believe The Book of Mormon," by Elder Charles Fry.

"Joseph Smith; Was He a Prophet of God?" by Elder R. C. Evans.

"Joseph Smith; Was He a Frojnet of God?" by Elder R. C. Evans.

The following at special prices named: "What We Believe," an epitome of the faith of the Church. Per dozen 5 cents; 150 for 20 cents; 100, 35 cents.

"Items of Teaching Found in the Book of Mormon." Compiled by the Independence Religio Good Literature Committee. A tract of ten pages. Three for 5 cents; 12 for 15 cents; 106 for $1.00.

"Latter Day Sainia; Who Are They?" by Elder T. W. Williams. Three for 5 cents; 12 for 15 cents; 100 for $1.00.

"Is Water Baptism Essential to Salvation?" by Elder Joseph Luff. Three for 5 cents; 12 for 16 cents; 50 for 40 cents; 100 for 75.00.

"Seventy-one Theological Questions." Per dozent, 10 cents; per 100, 60 cents.

Elder's Dlary. A handy little book for ac-dozen, 10 cents; per 100, 60 cents.

Elder's Diary. A handy little book for accurately keeping account of ministerial labor by simply jotting down figures in the proper column, the printed headings supplying the rest. A financial record also is a convenient part of the book. This is suitable for all holding the afelchisedec Priesthood. Price ...$0.10

Priest's Diary. Arranged similar as the Elder's Diary, but provides for labors connected with the office work of the Priest. Price .....$0.10

Ceacher's Diary. Arranged for the duties and labors of the Teacher. Price.

Rules. Local library rules, per

tions, per dozen

Blank Preaching Notices. Size, 9x12 inches,
50 for 30 cents; per 100......$0.50

Religio Supplies. Local Secretary's Record.
Price . . . $0.25

District Secretary's Record. Price. . . $0.25

District Secretary's Record. Price, $0.25

Home Department Supplies. Leaflet of Instruction No. 2. Per dozen, 10 cents; per 100 $0.40

Membership Cards, per dozen, 5 cents; per 100 $0.35

Superintendent's Report Blanks, per dozen, 5 cents per dozen, 5 cents; per dozen, 5 cents; per 100 $0.25

Visitor's Report Blanks, per dozen, 5 cents; per 100 $0.25

Letter of Invitation, per 100...$0.25

Letter of Invitation, per 100...$0.20

Visitor's Canvas Blanks, per dozen, 10 cents; per 100

Local, per dozen, 5 cents; per 100

Addicas Blanks, per dozen, 10 cents; per 100

Addicas Blanks, per dozen, 5 cents; per 100

Blanks, per dozen, 5 cents; per 100

Blanks, per dozen, 5 cents; per 100

Blanks, per dozen, 5 cents; per 100

Blanks, per dozen, 5 cents; per 100

Blanks, per dozen, 5 cents; per 100

Blanks, per dozen, 5 cents; per 100

Blanks, per dozen, 5 cents; per 100

Blanks, per dozen, 5 cents; per 100

Blanks, per

Address
ENSIGN PUBLISHING HOUSE,
Independence, Mo.

We have for sale a universal visiting card to be used by Branch Officers. It is arragned with spaces for recording names of those in families belonging to the church and also for those not belonging, space for noting condition, dates of visits (day, month and year), and names of visiting officers, also space for remarks. This card when properly filled out shows the names of all members of the family visited, non-members as well as members and whether their spiritual condition is excellent, fair or poor, the name of the officer visiting the family and the date of the visit, also the address of the family, and any other information it might be made to the visit, also the address of the family, and any other information it might be made to the visit of the family and the date one card was the control of the control of the visit of the family and any other information it might be made to the visit of the control of the visit of the family and any other information are visit of the family and the beautiful of the visit of visit of the visit of vis

FOR SALE

A blacksmith shop in Mapleton, Kansas Plenty of work for two men. If interested write to, O. A. Rounds, Mapleton, Kansas.

MY HOME FOR SALE

Good husse of 7 rooms basement and large double cellar, small barn and the buildings to the cellar, small barn and the buildings static of Grapes, Pears, Crab Apples, Cherries and Peaches Price 1100. Six hundred cash, Bal ance on time. For particulars call on or address R. C. Wilcox, 624 Gay Street. Warrensburg,

FOR SALE

Naw 8 room bouse 50 ft. lot. 2 blocks from good Branch. 2 blocks from car line. Pawed street, cement walk, city water. Fine home $2250. $500 cash. Balance terms to suit. Address "Owner" 1935 North 25th, St., Kansas City, Kansas.

MONEY TO LOAN

We have money to loan on Real

W. B. Kelley, Lawyer, Horace Sheley, Abstractor of Titles, Hedrick Building, Independence, Mo.

MR & MRS, HARVEY Dr's. of Chiropractic
Ki-ro-practic
Ki-ro-practic
Phone Bell Office 857
House 755 Room 5, Carl Bid'g
S. E. Square Independence, Mo.

S. E. Square Independence, Mo Hours 10 to 12,2to 6, evenings by appointmen

UNITED ORDER OF ENOCH HOUSE.

Everybody Welcome, Saints and Strangers No. 102 North River Boulevard, near the Stone church. Best accommodations. Prices reasonable. Bell Phone 513

Chas, A. and Amy T. Gurwell

COTTAGE FOR SALE
Six room cottage, modern. Peaches, apples, grapes, cherries, strawberries all bearing, North West part town. Address 'S' Ensign Independence, Mo.

GINSENG.

The growing of GINSENG is a profitable industry, an Agricultural Business with good profits attached. Persons with a small parcel of land can start a good paying business with a small investment that yields good dividends, Send for our booklet, 'The ABC of Ginseng', get our prices, and learn how to better your financial condition. Address.

Address,
Chas. F. Church & Son.
Lamoni, Lamoni, Iowa

W. E. MESSENGER, M. D.

Physician and Surgeon. Calls answered day or night. Office and Residence 806 W. Maple Ave. Independence, Mo. Bell Phone 12

Special attention given to Anesthetics

Lots 50x150 North River Blv'd, on grade, paving in, 6 blocks school. Easy Terms if desired. Mrs. R. T. Smith 1413 W. Short Independence, Mo.

FOR SALE

5 room cottage, pantry and bath, bath not completely furnished. Street improvements in. Lot 50x200 ft. House is 4 years old, 4 1-2 blocks from stone church, 4 blocks from street car and 7 blocks to school.

Address Independence Stake Bishopric.

Have You Planned Your Summer Vacation?

JUST TAKE AN ALTON TRAIN

"THE ONLY WAY"

CHICAGO

THE HUMMER Leaves Kansas City Arrives Chicago 6:00 p. m. 7:35 a. m.

THE NIGHTINGALE
Leaves Kansas City
Arrives Chicago 11:20 p. m.
1:15 p. m.

No matter where you wish to go to spend you vacation, our corps of vacation experts will arrange schedules and litinearies that will make travel a pleasure to you. Big lake boats and swiff resort specials for both near and lar Wisconsin and Michigan Resorts, also to Atlantic City and Canadian resorts.

Ask or write us about our

$56.50 ROUND TRIP RATE

Buffalo and Niagara Falls

Which includes meals and berths on the boat for a solid week

Junction City Ticket Office, 9th, Main and Delaware. Both phones Main 542.

W. C. MUELLER,

General Agent Passenger Dept. C. & A. R. R.

RAILROAD TIME TABLES.

MISSOURI PACIFIC R. R.

MAIN LINE-EAST BOUND.

| 120 | K. C. & Joulin Mail | 12 8 5 am |

WEST BOUND.

201 Joplin to Kansas City
3 St. Louis to California Special
17 Sedàlla, and Nevada Local
7 Fast Mail (no stop)
207 Joplin to Kansas City Express
1 Colorado and St. Joe Express
421 St. Louis Local (all stops)

LEXINGTON BRANCH-BAST BOUND.

23 Sedalia to Kansas City 621 Sedalia to Kansas City

WEST BOUND.

T. A. JOHNSON, Agent, Independence, Mo

ZION'S ENSIGN

Entered at the Post Office at Independence, Mo., as Second Class Matter

OUR CREED: "ALL TRUTH."

VOL. 25

INDEPENDENCE, MISSOURI, THURSDAY, OCTOBER 15, 1914

NC.

ZION'S ENSIGN

Published by the Reorganized Church of Jesus Christ of Latter Day Saints, every Thursday, at Independence, Mo., at $1.00 per year.

CHARLES FRY, EDITOR W. H. DEAM, BUS. MANAGER

in writing concerning subscriptions, always give the nam of the Post Office to which your paper has been going, as by so doing the ost of hours in looking for it may be avoided.

When desiring a change of address always give the old as well

ost of hours in looking for it may be avoided.

When desting a change of address always give the old as well as the new address, and when sending subscriptions alway state whether it is a renewal or a new subscriptions alway state. It making remitiances Money Orders are preferable. If coin is a considerable of the sending state of the considerable of the considerable of the coinciderable of the coincidera

ENSIGN PUBLISHING HOUSE, Independence, Mo

EDITORIAL 19

FATHER, THY WILL BE DONE. He sendeth sun, he sendeth shower, Alike they're needful for the flower; And joys and tears alike are sent To give the soul fit nourishment: As comes to me or cloud or sun, Father, thy will, not mine, be done!

Can loving children e'er reprove
With murmurs whom they trust and love?
Creator, I would ever be
A trusting, loving child to thee:
As comes to me or cloud or sun,
Father, thy will, not mine, be done!

Oh, no'er will I at life repine;
Enough that thou hast made it mine;
When falls the shadows cold of deah,
I yet will sing with parting breath:
As comes to me or shade or sun,
Father, thy will, not mine, be done!
—Sarah Flower Adams.
— (Author of "Nearter, My God, to Thee.)

CENSORING EVIL REPORTS.

The effects of an unbridled tongue are so farreaching and so disastrous that God has seen fit to give urgent warning by his servants through the inspired word against the needless or willful relation of things which injure others. As early as the time of Moses there was included in the law given to Israel the command: "Thou shalt not raise a false report," and also another: "Thou shalt not go up and down as a tale-bearer among thy people." These two comandments cover both the originating and the circulating of injurious reports to the injury of any. Many other scriptural writers taught the same things.

Backbiter Has no Inheritance in Zion. The Scriptures describe an ideal society called Zion, under the dominion of Christ, which will be composed of such individuals as are worthy, and such only. It will include him "that backbiteth not with his tongue, nor doeth evil to his neighbor, nor taketh up a reproach against his neighbor," (Psalms 15:3), but the Lord says "Whose privily slandereth his neighbor, him will I cut off." (101:5). Even the religious man who places no restraint upon the idle tales and slanderous reports in his conversation will not inherit Zion, for James says: "If any man among you seem to be religious, and bridleth not his tongue, but deceiveth his own heart, this man's religion is A pure motive and an upright heart are essential to an inheritance in Zion, and a disposition to tale-bearing or slander is an unmistakable evidence that these good qualities are in some measure lacking. One may think he loves his fellow men but if he speaks ill of them, or aids in the spreading of evil reports, he is deceiving himself, and is unprepared in heart to dwell with the righteous people of God when Zion shall be redeemed. Zion is to be a place of peace, but talebearing always engenders strife and if permitted there would be destructive of Zionic conditions.

Christ's Rule for Supressing Evil Reports.

The world has become so accustomed to making public the faults and misdeeds of others, and of passing resorts of such on to others, often with prejudicial medifications, that the proctice is seldom counted an evil. If one commits a wrong against us the first impulse is to tell whoever happens to be near, and we seemingly take delight in spreading a knowledge of it as far as possible, making the wrong appear in its most serious aspects. While telling these things we sometimes say "I don't hold anything against him, and I wouldn't do him any harm for anything in the world," but forget that we are at the same time doing him one of the greatest evils possible. Christ said:

"Moreover if thy brother shall trespass against thee, go and tell him his fault between thee and him alone: if he shall hear thee, thou hast gained thy brother."—Matthew 18:15.

No provision is made in the law of Christ for telling another's faults and wrongdoings indiscriminatingly to the public, but here the rule is laid down that the innocent party in another's transgression shall go first to the transgressor and state his grievance, and "if he shall hear thee, thou hast gained thy brother." This applies of course to matters of a private nature, and which can in most cases be settled by a kindly effort made in the manner described by the Lord, but matters that are more open may be dealt with in a similar way, and if those who unavoidably come to a knowledge of them await their proper adjustment rather than spread the reports of evil far and wide, the effects of the wrong which has been committed will be minimized.

We are not to understand that it was the Lord's intent in this command that sin should be covered up, for he himself has said of men that their 'iniquities shall be spoken upon the housetops. and their secret acts shall be revealed," but the intent is to stop the sin at its source and thus prevent the evil effects going broadcast. Men are liable to err, and it is not often that men's sins are committed with deliberation, but are the result of ignorance, or weakness, or made liable by some unusual combination of circumstances, perhaps coupled with temptation; and if one who has thus fallen into sin is approached by a friend in a kindly attitude, seeking to show him his fault and get him to repent, the transgressor will most gnerally be ready to do all in his power to make right his wrong. In this way he is saved from public reproach and from further transgression, estrangement is healed, the other party has a good deed to his credit instead of an evil one, and the public is saved from the evil effects of a liberal dose of poisonous gossip. Further provision is made in the law for dealing with one who will not yield to this first effort, and the offended party is to repeat the effort, taking with him one or two more witnesses. If the offender still refuses to be reconciled the command is "Tell it unto the Church," that is to the proper officers whose duty it is to take action against a transgressing member who will not repent.

While this procedure cannot avoid some degree of publicity, it is even yet unnecessary that the par-aiculars of the transgression should be scattered broadcast to become the subject of gossip. The spirit of the law will not permit members of a court of inquiry, or witnesses who may be present, or others, repeating outside the place of trial the things brought out in the trial. If convicted and still unrepentant the transgressing member is to be severed from the Church, and thus the Church saved from the effects of his willful wrongdoing. The effect of the law is to save all from sin and its effects, and were it fully carried out in this regard what a world of evil might be suppressed! It is a well known fact that the actions of men which are held up repeatedly to public attention tend to produce similar actions in others and tend to cause sin to abound. If these evils be omitted from daily conversation and only the good things of life talked of the tendency would be to considerably raise the moral and spiritual standards of the people, while sin would grow much less.

The Tongue Holds the Power of Life or Death.

Purveying scandal and idle tales is not the work of a noble character, for it accomplishes naught but harm. Solomon said: "The words of a talebearer are as wounds." The strike deep into the soul, and men who are actuated by the spirit of kindness and good will will not indulge in them."

While the tongue may wound, perhaps to death, it is also within its power to speak the kind words which will heal the sorrows of others and lead to-word righteousness and life. "Death and life are in the power of the tongue," is a true proverb. How welcome everywhere is the man who always speaks kindly and safeguards the reputations of others, and how cold is the reception of the tattler, the scandal-monger and the tale-bearer with all except those who take delight in such things! tale-bearer revealeth secrets: but he that is of a faithful spirit concealeth the matter," and again "A man of understanding holdeth his peace." There is so much of good that might be said, and the need for it is so great, that it is folly for a man to use his tongue in speaking evil of anyone, or in the dissemination of evil. "A wholesome or in the dissemination of evil. "A wholesome tongue is the tree of life." It spreads good will and encourages righteousness.

It is within the power of every individual to put a censor upon evil reports whether true or false, and by so doing he will be the means of supressing much evil in the world, and thus make the world better.

"ABOUT FALSE PROPHETS,"

The "Word of Truth" referring to a recent article in the Ensign on "The Passing of Russell's Dawn" expresses full endorsement, but goes on to say that "People who live in glass houses should not throw stones," and holds out that the Ensign is inconsistent in rejecting Pastor Russell and accepting Joseph Smith. It says:

But one false prophet is, indeed, no better than another false prophet. Whether he be a Miller, a White, a Smith or a Russell; we are not going to favor one and seek to disparage the other. The thing to do is to have nothing to do with any of them.

We can go part way in returning the compli-ment of the "Word of Truth" and say that the above paragraph has our full endorsement, but the Word of Truth's mistake is in its assumption that all prophets are false, and that there can be no true ones now. Jesus truly said, as quoted by the author of the above: "Beware of false prophets, which come to you in sheep's clothing," but he never said to reject the sheep that wear wool, nor did he imply in his satement that there were to be no true prophets after himself, but when he added "Ye shall know them by their fruits," he did clearly imply that the future would bring before the world prophets both true and false, and hence the necessity of discrimination. Were there to be no true prophets after Christ, his statement would be without meaning, for he should have said: "Beware of all prophets which come to you, for they all are deceivers. There will be no prophets after me, and if any one claiming to be such give no heed to them." The assumption of the "Word of Truth" and the teachings of Christ are thus in disagreement.

The editor again quotes John's statement as found in the first epistle, fourth chapter:

Beloved, believe not every spirit, but prove the spirits, whether they are of God; because many false prophets are gone out into the world."

We fail to see wherein this passage can be so construed in its meaning as to prove anything against the perpetuation of true prophets. If there were to be no prophets after Christ, then the warning was needless; but since men were commanded to "try the spirits whether they are of God," we can only conclude that the Spirit of God was to continue to operate in harmony with the truth, producing prophets among men who themselves were to be measured by the truth. So in denying the existence of prophets after Christ the "Word of Truth" is again out of harmony with the Scriptures.

The grounds upon which Joseph Smith is rejected seems to be his claims regarding present revelation and the restoration of the Melchisedec Pristhood, but a close comparison of these claims with Scriptural teaching shows them both to be consistent and defensible. A trying of the spirits which have been manifested in the Church which he organized shows the presence of the Spirit of God, though we are well aware that deceptive influences have at times sought to creep in, as they did in the New Testament times, but these have been detected. The warning of John is still necessary to "try the spirits whether they be of God," as also those of Satan are still active. The Spirit of God is called the Spirit of Truth, and its manifestations are all in harmony with the truth; it guides "into all truth." The spirit of the evil one may accept and advocates a portion of the truth with which it mixes error, the truth being used to cover the error in order to deceive, but its object is to keep men from the truth. In determining which is true and which is false and among the many systems of doctrine, it is necessary to look deeper than the surface, for as the false prophet clothes himself with sheep's clothing, so error clothes itself with truth. The difference lies deeper than in the outward appear-

INDEPENDENCE ITEMS.

INDEPENDENCE TEMS.

Instead of the usual preaching service Sunday morning a program was carried out under the auspices of the Sunday School Home Department. A song appropriate for the occasion was handed out to the congregation. It began, "Welcome Home Department, Fathers, mothers dear," and the chorous for each verse read, "Book mothers dear," and the chorous for each verse read, Bows of God's devising, Since the world began; Book of all ages, Word of God to man." Prayer was offered by Bro. D. J. Krahl, superintendent of the Sunday school. Excellent music was furnished by the Sunday school orchestra, after which Sr. M. A. Etzenhouser was introduced, who, starting with an interesting story about what several boys each in his turn thought was the greatest thing on earth, each in his turn thought was the greatest thing on earth, concluding with and endorsing the thought of the last boy to speak, that the greatest thing in the world was "Father, mother and me." From this she took her text on a talk on the home and the purpose of the home department. After her talk the orchestra rendered another number, which was followed by a splendid talk by Sr. Charles Keown on the results of the home department work, after which Alies Dorothy Bullard gave a reading rend auther number by the overstre concluded the ing and another number by the orchestra concluded the morning's program, which altogether was both entertaining and instructive.

Ing and instructive.

Prior to the social meeting in the afternoon two were baptized. In the evening Elder A. H. Parsons delivered another one of a series of sermons on the principles of the gospel. The services were interrupted and cut short on account of the threatened storm which made many

Nothing preventing, it is expected that the church will crowded next Sunday evening to hear Judge Porterfield of Kansas City. A promise was given the Judge that he would have a congregation of not less than twelve hundred. No doubt many of the towns people will be out to hear him, as he is very popular, and is well qualified to speak on the subject, "Citizen Building." He has had a long experience in the criminal and juvenile courts, where his good and kind advice to the earing we have often noted. The choir will give a half hour concert before the regular service begins.

Bishop Ellis Short attended conference Saturday and Sunday at Joplin, Mo., being the conference of the Spring

Standay at Jophin, no., being the conference of the Spring Rven District, over which Bro. Short is bishop. Bro. W. H. Garrett has been confined at home a few days with a severe attack of what was thought to be the "grip." When Bro. Garrett is laid up he is missed from his daily ministrations among the Saints.

Bro. J. W. Rushton is holding a series of meetings in Webb City, Mo.

Bro. Joseph Arber, after a short visit home, left again last Saturday for his mission in Oklahoma.

last Saturday for his mission in Oklahoma.

Bro, J. C. Foss returned Tuesday morning from the east, stopping on his way home at various points, his last stop being in Chicago, where he preached at the First and Central branches on Sunday. He spent the summer in Maine, and reports baptizing five. It is good to see Uncle John's smiling face.

Bro. George Jenkins is conducting a series of meetings at the mission on North Liberty Street. They will continue this week and possibly longer.

In the miscellaneous columns will be found a wanted notice copied from the Kansas City Star. Ministers are wanted. It might be well for some of our elders to investigate.

SEATTLE.

Our church house was full to repletion at our sacramental service Sunday which was a blessed season of service and worship. The Lord by his Spirit spoke words of comfort—the Saints were admonished to pay heed to the law of tithing and appreciate the blessed faith and come up higher. Surely it is a marvelous work.

After the morning service Sunday Basil and Forest

Inslee and Evlyn Johnson were baptized in our font. Bro. W. J. Johnson our lately ordained priest officiated; they were confirmed at the evening service after which the pastor spoke on the theme: "Are we justified in expecting revelation from God today?"

Among the visitors Sunday we noted Bro. John Hart-nell from British Columbia, Bro. and Sr. C. Oliver from Everett, Bro. and Sr. Kinghorn from Auburn, each of whom was blessed in coming.

Sr. J. A. Crocker, one of our Oakland parishears, arrived in Scattle yesterday on a protracted visit to our city.

It seems homelik, to meet a California saint.

It seems howelike to meet a California saint.

Wife and I lived part of our Stewartsville, Mo., days over again by spending a pleasant evening in the home here of Bro. 2. Hale Smith where were his wife and son Donald, stao his sister Earlita and Bro. Richard Salyards whose parents we knew in those days. It was a pleas102 North 39th St., Seatle, Wash., Oct. 8. ant visit for us.

OKLAHOMA.

OKLAHUMA.

Reeding, Okla., Sept. 23.

Editor Ensign:—Many times I have promised myself and others too, that I would write for the church papers, but seeming other duties have hindered until now. Arriving in my field of labor on the second day of May, I have found it both agreeable and pleasant, and have, I am glad to say, put in one of the busiest summers of my ministe-rial life.

At our late general conference, when the appointments were read, and I was assigned to the Central District of were read, and I was assigned to the Central District of Oklahona, it came as a surprise but yet agreeably so, for since coming here I have been highly pleased with the thought of having been sent to what promises to be, the thought of having been sent to what promises to oe, in my judgment, one of the most prolific missions of the church. It has been my happy privilege to address the largest audiences, that I have presented the word of life to, since the years of 1902 and 1903, when on my first mission to the land of Scotland.

My initiative effort was made in the Trail Creek school-house, near Kingfisher, and since then I have preached in the following places: Reeding, where we have bap-tized six; Enid, where I spent nearly three weeks speak-ing on the Court house square, baptizing three, leaving others interested and some quite near the kingdom. Our next stop was at the Golden Valley schoolhouse, near Helena, where we preached but three sermons, as other Helena, where we preached but three sermons, as other appointments were urging us ahead. Our sojourn was made with Bro. and Sr. Brewster, who conveyed me as far as the town of Jett, where I was met by Bro. Sawyer, he taking me on out into the sand hill country, some nine miles south of Byron, where appointments had been made for me, where I preached in the Locus Grove schoolhouse for nearly two weeks, with good interest. I was indeed made to feel at home with Brn. Sawyers, Paul, and Edwin LaBrue whose kindness will long be remembered. On August 4th Bro. Hubert Case, our sub-minister in charge, called over the long distance phone to come to Eagle City, where the Western District reunion was in session. Reaching that place I was pleased to meet Brn. session. Reaching that place I was pleased to meet Brn. W. E. Peak, Hubert Case and J. E. Vanderwood of the active missionary force, besides a number of the local ministry, and a large number of fine Saints whose acquaintance we soon made. A most spiritual time was enjoyed, unity and peace prevailed to a marked degree insomuch that our heavenly Father spoke to the Saints in the gift of prophecy, giving words of encouragement to all to continue in well doing.

The next large gathering was at Bro. Sanders' grove, The next large gathering was at 1870. Sanders' grove, nine miles southwest of Calumet, where Brn. Simmons and Case had begun a two weeks' meeting. Here again came the Macedonian cry, "come over and help us." Leaving our meetings at Reeding, we made an early start, Bro. Cameron Stuart driving me fourteen miles to Kingfisher to catch a fast train bound for ElReno, from there to Calumet, where Bro. Ed Dillon of Oklahoma City and myself were taken in Bro. Sanders' car to the reunion grounds. We found prayer meeting already begun. It took little time to press us into active service, and although Bro. Case and myself had all the preaching to do, as Bro. Simmons had gone to other parts of the field, we were greatly blessed with the presence of the good Spirit in our efforts in presenting the word to such large crowds ranging at times between three and four hundred people, some of whom came quite a distance, and while only one was baptized at this meeting, many were brought nearer to the kingdom, and much prejudice was removed.

After getting through with our Calumet meeting I was requested to go to Dunlap, away off in the northwest corner of the State, to help in the reunion at that place, arriving there on Monday, September 7th. I found our aged and greatly esteemed old veteran, Bro. J. H. Baker, who is looked up to as a father to many in these parts; also met here Bro. Frank Durfy who is now district pres-ident, who with others were trying to he'p along the work, but by some misunderstanding or other, there was not the attendance there should have been, but withal to those whose privilege it was to attend, a splendid good time was enjoyed. Here as elsewhere we met a number of fine young men who give promise of great things, if they only remain faithful; one of these in the person of Bro. Willie Trout was ordained to the office of priest by the writer and Bro. Baker, having come very highly recom-mended. Here we met Bro. George Swain and family, also Bro, and Sr. Kelley where we were made to feel at We met so many kind Saints, too numerous to mention.

Returning again to Reeding to complete the work begun when we was called to Calumet, and amongst other things we were under the necessity of making a reply to the book, "The True Origin of Mormon Polygamy," by Charles A. Shook, as this had been freely circulated around view to try to destroy the work that had been effected here.

Bro. Hubert Case joined us here for a few days, but he is now at Oklahoma City, to attend to some church mat-ters there. I have found in him a very pleasant and congenial fellow laborer.

On Sunday last we held a most spiritual prayer and communion service in the morning, when we ordained Bro. J. Cameron Stuart to the office of priest. He is a fine Dro. J. Lameron Stuart to the onice of priest. He is a fine clean young man, and if he continues humble he will be quite useful to the work. Bro. H. K. Rowland was also here and assisted in the work. At this place resides the village blacksmith in the person of Bro. H. C. Taylor, who has tried to help along the cause for years.

Everywhere we have gone our necessities have been amply provided for by the Saints and friends, of which we have not a few, and our thanks are due them all, only too numerous to give name of all, but we feel sure they recognized by Him, who will reward all for such faith-

Amidst the distressing and perplexing conditions of the waring nations, may the cause of truth prosper, and even our brethren in foreign lands be fully sustained by the hands of Him who watches over all, is our constant prayer.

All mail sent to my home address, Independence, Mo. will reach me.

Sincerely your Joseph Arber.

PORTLAND, OREGON.

PORTLAND, OREGON.

A word from the Portland District may not be out of order; the work in this northwest country is still holding aloft the banner of King Immanual. We have a number of good workers among the Saints of this district. The Sunday schools of the district under the leadership of Bro. L. B. Shippy as district superintendent, are doing a good work. The Religio directed by Bro. W. H. Baker is as-We have a number of young men and maidens in the several branches of the district that are doing a very efficient work. We appreciate very much to see our young brethren interested in such a noble work, knowing full well that this is not only to the advancement of the efficient work. church work in the district, but to their eternal good.

Another good sign that foretells the future of our work here, is the increased interest and action of those holding the priesthood. In the local work the branch officers are the priesthood. In the local work the branch officers are moving out into fields of action. Local elders are offering themselves as volunteers to occupy in new openings. The visiting officers of the branches are having good results. You can hear in the testimony meetings the expressions: "We were glad to have a visit from the officers the past evening," others saying that they were glad they were not forgotten, that a pleasant evening was spent in these visits. These expressions show the need in every branch of active labors in the Aaronic priesthood. We are laborers together with God, is not only true of every member of the church but especially of those who are called as watchmen in the church.

The Portland Saints are building a new addition to their The Fortuna sants are outling a new addition to their building 24x26 feet, also putting in a new font, and are expecting to rearrange the building completely inside. Plastering and reseating, putting in a heating plant, etc. The work being in charge of our worthy deacon, Brother

Joseph Larson, and a committee appointed to assist him. The Saints at Hood River are building a new church building, 26x36 feet, we understand, with basement. There are only a few Saints located there, but the few are willing workers. Bro. N. E. Austin at Condon with a few Saints are trying to hold out at that place, with the powers of the arch enemy directed against them. Bro. Austin is surely a man of much patience and endurance. We cannot speak too highly of his efforts to continue the work in that place.

We visited the Saints at Vancouver, Wash., yesterday (Sunday, the 26th) and enjoyed a good degree of the Spirit in presenting the word. Felt especially impressed to go there, and was made glade in my visit. The Saints at this place are struggling to maintain the work, and are trying to build a place of worship.

Times are rather hard in this northwest country, work is not very plentiful, and food products are high. This makes it especially hard for the Saints, as most of them working people.

Believing in the redemption of Zion, and praying for her present welfare, I hope to remain a laborer in the N. T. Chanman, Dist. Pres.

September 27, 1914.

NORTHEASTERN ILLINOIS.

The condition of the work in this district seems very couraging. While we can not report great additions encouraging. While we can not report great additions by baptism yet there has been a goodly number that have obeyed thus far this conference year. We believe that the financial condition of the work in this district would indicate that there are a great number of the Saints who are keeping in mind that this is a day of sacrifice as stated in Doctrine and Covenants 64:5: of sacrifice as stated in Doctrine and Covenants 64:5:

"Behold, now it is called today (until the coming of the Son of Man), and verily it is a day of sacrifice, and a day for the tithing of my people; for he that is tithed shall not be burned (at his coming); for after today cometh the burner. However we believe, that were our membership really put to a test, as may be in the future, much more could be done by way of tithes, offerings and

The conditions of the war in Europe only bring to each The conditions of the war in Europe only bring to each Saint that is alive to the interests of the Lord's work the assurance that we "have not followed cunningly devised fables;" but that the scriptures are being fulfilled; thus increasing our faith in all that which the Lord has said must yet be fulfilled. And especially when we think of must yet be fulfilled. And especially when we think of the gathering, so dear to saints of latter days. I expect that many of our brethren and the Saints in Europe will wish that the gathering might have been more fully accomplished already, so that they might not have had to take up the sword, as we learn many have been asked to do. We therefore see the need of the hastening of the Lord's work, as stated in Doctrine and Covenants 45:13, "And it shall come to pass, among the wicked, that every man that will not take his sword against his neighbor must needs flee unto Zion for safety. And there shall be gathered unto it out of every nation under heaven; shall be the only people that shall not be at war one with another.

From this we learn that even among the wicked there From this we learn that even among the wicked there will be those before the coming of Christ who will repent and flee to Zion. We certainly have one of the grandest things that could be thought of to labor for—"and it shall be called Zion." How necessary then that Zion should be established so that those who desire may flee. We sometimes feel that some of the Saints lose sight of the gathering and wades for may from the appointed lase of ring and wander far away from the appointed place of God. As we read in D. and C. 98.4; "And, behold, there is none other place appointed than that which I have appointed, neither shall there be any other place appointed.

than that which I have appointed for the work of the than that which I have appointed for the work of the gathering of my saints, until the day cometh when there is found no more room for them." Some even going so far as Alaska, which to the writer's mind, is not gathering, but is a mistake and in many, many cases has already proven so. We hope that the near future will bring inreased interest in the thought of the gathering, and thus escape the evil conditions whch are beng, and must be met by those especially in foreign lands.

We discover that as early as 1831 the Lord saw the need

We discover that as early as 1831 the Lord saw the need of the gathering, so most certainly—mow after 84 long years have past the need must be just as great or even greater. And now in the war our German brethren are on one side and English brethren on the other! A thing awful to contemplate! From time to time when I am interrogated along this line by Saints who have some means, I always advise them to move to Jackson County, Missouri, or as near round about as they can, even if not able to buy but a limited number of acres. The question is, will we do it?

We might say that as a member of the Northeastern We might say that as a member of the Northeastern Illinois reunion committee that we consider that the Plano reunion was a success and the attendance as large as the joint reunion of Northeastern Illinois and Southern Wisconsin at Belvidere in 1913. The writer attended the last half of the Southern Wisconsin reunion at Madison, Wis, and it too was a success. The two reunions putting up and it too was a success. The two reunious putting up nearly twice as many private tents as the joint reunion of 1913. Thus witnessing the fact that the smaller re-unions reach more of the membership than the joint reunions where Saints and friends have such long distances to travel. The Illinois reunion sold their interest in the reunion stock of the joint reunion to Southern Wisconsin so had to purchase a new outfit at a cost of $124.97, and came out at the close of 1914 with $90.00 ahead. The Wisconsin reunion finished paying for the joint stock purchased and came out $40.00 ahead. Thus both districts purchased and came out $40.00 ahead. Thus both districts feel that the reunion work was a success. The meetings at both reunions were spiritual and all present felt fully repaid for all the sacrifices made. The Madison reunion set their date for August 27 to September 5, 1915. The Illinois date yet to be determined. The new committee to report on time and place to the January conference. This writing finds Elder J. A. Daer of Rosco, Illinois, in company with the writer at Mr. and Sr H. E Harmon's, one mile east of Sycamore. We have begun metings here at the Harmon home and are made, welcome in a royal way. Bro. F. F. Wipper is busy at Deselm Branch near Manteno. Bro. D E. Dowker busy in gity work of Chicago.

Manteno. Bro. D E. Dowker busy in city work at Chicago.

Ever praying for the welfare of Zion of the last days,
I am your brother and servant in Christ,

Jasper O. Dutton.

Sycamore, Ill., Sept. 30.

( Characan maran Musican maran 2012) CORRESPONDENCE mermermermen Konstructurermermer I

Indianapolis, Ind., Oct. 4.

No doubt a few lines from the "Hoosier " Capital will be of interest to your readers. On Monday, July 6, we opened a series of tent meetings in an effort to get a hearing and bring the gospel more to the notice of the citizens of our fair city. Elders J. W. Metcalf, Fred A. Rowe and Jacob G. Halb, assisted by the local priesthood, have been engaged in the effort, which was well sustained in every way by the members of the branch. Meetings were held at three different points in the city; the gospel has been proclaimed with no uncertain sound: many how has been proclaimed with no uncertain sound; many have been warned; much prejudice has been removed; many neen warnen; muen prejunice has been removed; many friends made to the cause; fourteen precious souls have been inducted into the kingdom of God upon earth, more than half of whom had never heard the gospel until the opening of this series of meetings; and we expect, as a natural sequence, some have made themselves enemies closed the meetings on Sunday, September 20, with a very enjoyable day, a busy day, a veritable feast, both temporal and spiritual, the saints meting together at 9:30 for Sunday school, bringing well filled baskets with them, and we remained together until the close of the night service, and then seemed loth to part. It was a day long to be remembered, but simply shows us that God will bless be shillern when the tarties of the following the service of the same of the service of the same of the s will bless his children when they strive to do his will and live together in love and peace.

Our heart was made to rejoice when we looked into the

Our heart was made to rejoice when we looked into the dear faces of that gathering and our mind went back to the time when the work was started here, six years ago, in the form of a little home class Sunday school and Religio of five members, three of whom were members of one family, and the other two a husband and wife. Our mind recounted the many changes and experiences of that little effort, followed its fortunes and misfortunes up to the time that a branch was organized, December 17, 1911, with eleven members; and remembered the joy experienced upon that occasion, knowing that God had 17, 1911, with eleven members; and remembered the joy experienced upon that occasion, knowing that God had recognized the efforts and had helped to plant the work more firmly; and we also remembered the faithful, patient, labors of Bro. H. E. Moler, who labored here at this time under very trying and discouraging conditions; then our mind still followed on through the experiences since that time, recounting the labors of Elders J. R. McClain, F. G. Pitt and A. C. Barmore, on up to the present time, and as we look over the faithful little band today, now numbering 58 souls, we feel that the Lord beach of the property of the propert and as we look over the faithful little band today, now mumbering 58 souls, we feel that the Lord has been exceeding kind and gracious unto us, and our heart goes out to the kind Father in love, thankfulness and gratitude; but, like the Aposter Paul, our eyes are still fixed ahead, looting forward, and as we do so we realize that added numbers means added strength, and we feel the greater weight of responsibility resting upon us as a branch.

There is a vast ficid of opportunity open before us and we ask an interest in the prayers of God's children that we may be humble, faithful, patient and diligent in our warfare, that we may be qualified to meet all emergenbranch.

cies, that our branch may be so blessed of the Lord that it may become a power for good in this great city.

Chas H Fish

S. 111 Smith St., Spokane, Wash., Sep S. 111 Smith St., Spokane, Wash., Sep. 28. Editor Ensign:—The work is moving along nicely in this part of the field. The harvest truly is ripe, but the laborers are few. We find honest hearted people everywhere seeking after truth and light. I was called down to Gifford, Idaho, the twelfth of this month, to conduct the funeral services of Sr. Stevens. A larve crowd of friends and acquaintances exthered to now large crowd of friends and acquaintances gathererd to pay their last respects to our sister, who was well thought of by all who knew her. Gifford is a new branch just or-ganized this spring. I remained with them three days, and ganized this spring. I remained with them three days, and baptized five young men, which gladdened the hearts of the saints, and encouraged them to move forward with greater zeal. There are others who are very near the kingdom, and who will unite with them soon.

This is my first year in real missionary work, yet I feel that the Lord is blessing my labor, and I have a desire to remain humble so that I may be of service to him. I am convinced that the Lord is watching over and directing his work. Something cover means the same of the same convention of the same of recting his work. Something over a year ago I was shown my field of labor in a dream. I saw myself in the far west in a large harvest field. The grain was ripe, but west in a large harvest field. The grain was ripe, but in some places very scattering. Another man was laboring with me, and we were standing up the sheaves here and there. Something like a reaper was going on before us. We could hear it, but we could not see it. The day was beautiful, and we were enjoying our work. We had gone around the field once, and had started the second time, when we came to a mountain that seemed almost too steep to be climbed, yet we could still hear the reaper go-ing on up the hill. I said to the man I was laboring with, "I believe I can find an easier way than this." I had no intention of quitting, but I thought I could find an easier way than climbing that mountain. He said nothing to me but gave me such a look of sadness and compassion that I shall never forget it. No sooner had I resolved to find an easier way, than the scene was changed, and I found myself in an old pasture, surrounded by animals that were attacking me. I escaped them, but ran into deep water, and it was about to overcome me, when I heard my brother Charlie say, "Catch those horses, they will carry us over." I looked to one side and saw two bay horses. We mounted them and they carried us safe to the other side; then I awoke. This dream along with other evidences of my calling caused me to offer my entire time to the church. So on the sixth day of June, wife and I and little May, before my the contract of the church. bade our home and loved ones good by, and started on long journey westward; having been appointed to labor in Spokane, Washington.

Spokane, Washington.
Spokane, Washington.
Shortly after arriving here, I met my co-laborer, Bro.
ronson. I immediately recognized him as the man I was
He is indeed a fine man to Bronson. I immediately recognized from the man to labor fine with in my dream. He is fudeed a fine man to labor with, and one that is well thought of throughout the district. We have been blessed in our labors, and have been able to stand up few sheaves for the Master this summer. We have been able to realize that truly the Lord has been sending his angels before us to prepare the hearts of the people to accept the glad message.

The Spokane Branch is in fairly good condition spiritually. We have some noble saints here, then like spiritually. We have some noble saints here, then like most all branches, we have those who are cold or indifferent. Through the untiring efforts of Bro. T. W. Chatburn and a noble corps of workers, we have a lovely little church here. "Quele Tom" will ever be very dear to the Spokane saints. The neat little parsonage which intic entirch nere. "Outle form" will ever be very dear to the Spokane saints. The neat little parsonage which was started by Bro. Yates when he was here, is soon to be completed. Bro. and Sr. Place, who have gone east to seek a location, donated quite a bit of furniture to the be completed. to seek a location, donated quite a bit of furniture to the branch to be used in the parsonage; so if all goes well, we will soon be "at home" to our friends in our cozy little home just back of the church. We trust that Bro. and Sr. Place will receive a hearty welcome among the saints riace will receive a hearty welcome among the saints wherever they may go.

The saints here have been very kind to us in remembering the needs. One evening on our return home from meeting we found the house lighted and about twenty-five or thirty of the saints making themselves at home. Bro. Dana Crum had performed the breaking in act by climbing in at the window, and then opened the door for the others. Nothing was taken by them however, except our love and very best wishes, but they left the dining love and very best wishes, but they left the dining table piled high with good things to eat, which will remind us for some time to come of their pleasant surprise.

Cupid has not been idle either by any means. He has pierced the hearts of several of our young people, and caused quite a commotion. On the fourteenth of June I was called upon to say the magic words that would make as one, Mr. Harold Sprague and Sr. Pearl Gilmore. Just a month later we were called upon to repeat the service for Bro. Andrew Anderson and Sr. Mary Buchanan. On the twenty-second of this month we had two weddings, one immediately effor the them. the twenty-second of this month we had two weadings, one immediately after the other. The first was that of Bro. Robert McDole and Sr. Clara Clark, then came Mr. Fred Gilmore and Sr. Velaria Clark. Both brides are daughters of Bro. and Sr. Clark of Sagle, Idaho. All four of these weddings were accompanied by the usual church decorations, wedding march, brides maids, best men, ring bearaism, wedding bath solemn. actions, weating march, brides maids, best men, ring bearers and all it takes to make a wedding both solemn and beautiful. They will all reside here with the exception of Bro. and Sr Robert McDole, who will make their home at Republic, Washington. Bro. McDole, is an elder, and will be of great assistance to the work in that place. May our Father's richest blessings attend them all is our prayer.

Will close by asking our friends and the saints ever Will close by asking our friends and the saints everywhere to pray that we may ever hold fast to the rod of iron, and that no matter what mountain of trouble or difficulty I am called upon to surmount, that I may itess onward and upward, and not turn back as I did in my dream. My prayer is ever for God's people.

S. N. Gray.

Editor Ensign:—The Reces and Riley debate held at Goodwater, Okla., has come and gone. It began on Monday, September 7th, and closed Saturday, September 12th. Church propositions were the isauc. We only have three members at that place. C. F. Reces represents the non-progressive wing of the Christian Church. He didn't try to reason but very little on our proposition—just threw mud, using Bymun Black's Bum Shells, R. B. Neal's crature, and Spurlock's little pamphlet. He assumed that the Spalding Romance was accepted by us, and then he would read to the audience out of it and say that it was published, by the Latter Day Saints. He (Reese) was greatly opposed to mistranslations, and begged Bro. Riley to show him one, so Bro. Riley offered him as an example. Acts 9:7, vs. Acts 22:9. So he pretended to harmonize these by saying "that they heard the voice but did not understand it." So Bro. Riley gave him another one: Acts 1:18. "Now this man purchased a field with the reward of iniquity; and falling headlong, he burst asunder in the midst, and all his bowels gushed out," vs. Matthew 27:5; "And he cast the pieces of silver in the temple, and departed, and went and hanged himself." Reese said that that was easy to harmonize: "That he hung on the tree until his bowels decayed and then fell out." But Bro. Riley said that he hanged himself." Reese said that that was easy to har-monize: "That he hung on the tree until his bowels de-cayed and then fell out." But Bro. Riley said that he fell headlong first and then his bowels gushed out. So Reese tried his hand again. He said that he hung by the head until his head came off and then he fell. I don't know how he will have it fixed next. I believe if he had a few more guesses at it he would get it so he had a few more guesses at it he would get it so if he had a few more guesses at it he would get it so it would do to pass, if you would go by running. He tried to connect the word Moroni with the word Mormon—said that they both meant the same—therefore the same person, then of course we got our authority from Mormon and of course that makes us Mormons. Bro. Riley didn't seem to care to get mixed up with such (?) logic as that.

When their church was placed on the desecting table, When their church was placed on the desecting table, "the form of their visages was changed" indeed. It makes a difference "whose ox is gored." Reese thought because that the law should go forth out of Zion and the word of the Lord out of Jerusalem (Isaiah 2.3) that the word of the Lord out of Jerusalem (Isaiah 2.3) that it could not possibly start until the day of Pentecost. He seemed to think that Jerusalem didn't exist until Pentecost. Bro. Riley said that he didn't deny these scriptures, but he denied his application of them. There was quite a stir among them when Bro. Riley introduced their discipline. One of them, who had been preaching for several years, said that he didn't know that they had any book but the Bible.

Well, heirs left, and the ground to preach of the sinkly.

Well, being left on the ground to preach a few nights after the discussion I am glad that the Christians were good natured enough to let me alone—they didn't bother me with their presence or otherwise.

It seems to require as much courage to let go an old cherished traditional idea, as it does to accept a new and living way.

Let us, as Saints of God, in time of war as in time of peace, bid Him who sits on the white horse (Revelation 6:2) ride on until the "kingdoms of this world are become the kingdoms of our Lord, and of his Christ."—Rev. 11:15.

Yours for peace, James M. Smith.

Kingston, Mo., Sept. 28.

Bear Ensign:—Some time ago I wrote a letter to your columns to let our friends know we were still striving to do the Master's work. Well, we are still at it, and for the last three weeks we have been having a treat in the gospel line—Bro. J. S. Roth (formerly of Weatherby, Mo., but now of Lamoni, Iowa,) has been with us. He delivered about twenty sermons and baptized one, and has several more very near the water. He started with about seventeen for a congregation the first night, the next night about 50, and from that on till he closed he had from 60 to 75. We think this was very good considering the weather, as it rained most every day, and sometimes at night too. Bro. Roth is a very interesting speaker and can draw and hold a crowd of outsiders better than any one I have ever heard. We had some of the most prominent ones here in Kingston to our meetings and I believe they understand our work better since Bro. Roth's prominent ones nere in Aingston to our meetings and i believe they understand our work better since Bro, Roth's sermons. We hope he can come back later and reap the harvest as a result of his sowing. The work here is progressing slowly because there has been so much prejudice, but we hope the ice has been broken, and many more will enter into the kingdom. Ever praying that the time may hasten that we all may see eye to eye and be of one faith and fold and that Christ will lead and guide his children personally, I remain your colaborer in the work for Christ,

St. Charles, Mo., Sept. 28. Dear Ensign:—Bro. W. A. Smith was here a few weeks ago and held a series of meetings, lasting nearly four weeks. More interest was shown in the latter day gos-pel by outsiders than ever was known here before, and some few continue to come sometimes. Eight precious souls were added to our number, since Bro. Smith left us, four little buds, and four older ones, making our branch now number fifty-nine, as one was called away branch now number fifty-nine, as one was called away by death not long ago. Our little branch, while one might say, is only in its infancy, is growing by the aid given us by Bro. Ivory Davis of St. Louis, who comes every Sunday to teach and advise. We are thankful for this. When we think how the nations are at war with one another, and can see what is coming upon the land, how hard we ought to try to be busy and try to do the work our Master wants us to do. Ever hoping for the welfare of Zion and those loving the latter day gospel, I remain, Cora. E. Meadows.

416 Lindenwood Ave.

(Correspondence continued on page 6.)

THE WORLD'S PROBLEMS. By Elder J. F. Mintun.

No. 2. . Is Jesus the Christ?

To those who are believers in the New Testament history it might be thought that an answer to this queston is superfluous, or unnecessary; but when we acquaint ourselves with facts as they are, we ascertain that the majority of earth's children do not believe this history, and a large minority if not a majority of the people of the United States question the historical statements in regard to Jesus Christ, and a much larger majority do not understand what is meant by the Messiaship of Jesus.

We must entirely separate the office of the Christ or Messiah from the personel of Jesus, to properly understand this problem.

The Jews, while believing in the coming of a Messiah, do not believe the person Jesus of Nazareth was or is the Messiah. The Unitarian does not believe in the necessity of the work of Christ, as directed in the New Testament, neither do the Christian Scientists nor Spiritualists, as will be more fully understood by an examination of their religious theories compared with the work the Christ did, and promised to do.

Infidels doubt the history of the birth of Jesus, because they cannot believe that the New Testament record of his birth is in accord with the laws of nature. With this view agrees the Unitarian and Spiritualists. To take this view is to assume that we are in possession of a knowledge of all the laws of nature relating to the existence of life. A large majority of this same class assert a belief that man came into existence through the theory of evolution, which is an admission that there were numberless miraculous changes ere man existed. To reject the birth of Jesus because it necessitates a belief in a miracle would be inconsistent.

Many religious teachers are taking the infidel position, besides the above mentioned, yet these same persons, will assert their belief in Adam's existence and that this existence was the result of God's creative power exercised in a peculiar or miraculous way, and still further will accept of the history of the woman's existence in an equally miraculous way. Neither of the above could be accepted as in agreement with the law of nature as they accept it as governing the existence of a human being, and yet not out of har-mony with God's law. This class must forget that God's power is unlimited, and that he has brought man and woman into existence in the miraculous way stated in the Scriptures, and that he is unchangeable and can bring human beings into existence in a way miraculous to our understanding of things now if he deems it necessary, and the miraculous birth of Jesus was a necessity that he might do the work necessary to redeem mankind from bondage.

The Jews believe in the coming of a Messiah, but look for such one to come in regal splendor to exercise Lordship over the House of Israel, but this is a feature of the work to be done by Jesus as foretold by the angel when announcing his birth to Mary as will be seen by reading Luke 9:30 to 33, but he must pay the ransom, for man, and do the Christ work, that man might be redeemed from the power of him who is the author of sin, and through which means man became a servant of the enemy of God, and of man's true interest.

Justice is one of the necessary attributes of God, and when man, Adam, who was brought into existence by the direct manifestation of God's power had through service rendered to the devil, become his servant, and in bondage to him, with all man's posterity through the law of transmission, it was necessary in order that man might be redeemed from this bondage, that an equal offering should be made, hence the necessity of the man Jesus being brought into existence by the direct manifestation of God's power, and not by the will of the flesh which was under bondage, so that through him the debt due from God to the deviaif the creature man was redeemed unto God might be justly canceled, and the devil have no just claim upon mankind. By one man's sin it brought the human race in bondage to death. so by one man's righteous sacrifice should all the world be brought to life from the dead.

The Jews confess that the "Shiloh" spoken of by Jacob in the blessings of Judah, recorded in Genesis 49:10 refers to the Messiah, and this confession forces upon them the conclusion that the Shiloh, or Messiah, has come for the scenter of ruling power has departed from Judah, and this condition was not to occur until the Shiloh should come according to this prophetic blessing. Since Herod was the last one, that it can be said by any apparently legitimate claim represented the scepter in the hands of Judah, it would force the conclusion, not only upon the Jews, but upon all others, that the Messiah or Christ came before that time, and Jesus of Nazareth is the only one coming through the lineage of David claiming to be the Christ. There has just been published a symposium of the views of prominent rabbis and laymen of the Jews in which Doctor Kohler says 'Jesus, the living man, a paragon of piety, humility and self-surrender, presents to the Jews of today an inspiring ideal of matchless beauty," while Prof. Jastrow says, "The long-hoped for reconciliation between Judaism and Christianity will come when once the teachings of Jesus shall have become the axioms of human conduct;" and Dr. Theodore Reinach says, "We Jews honor and revere Jesus of Nazareth as we do our own prophets that preceded him." These are expressions that when properly analyzed contain an acknowledgement that shows the tendency of the Jews to the claims that Jesus made for himself as the Messiah.

Those who believe the New Testament history must accept that Jesus came in fulfillment of Isaiah 7:14, in which it says that "a virgin shall conceive, and bear a son, and he shall call his name Immanuel," or God with us. This is sustained by the history of his birth as given in Matthew 1:23, and Luke 1:26-31.

The duties of Jesus in the office of Christ, or anointed of God, is specified in Luke 4:18-21, in which quotation and explanation given by himself, he asserts that previous to his sealing his ministry with his blood, he must represent the work of the Spirit of the Lord with which he was anointed, and thus fully demonstrate that he was Christ, before he should through the same Spirit be quickened and become Lord as well as Christ.

The work here specified, which he here declares he should de because he was annointed by the Spirit, was to preach the gospel to the poor; to heal the broken hearted; to preach deliverance to the captive, and recovery of sight to the blind, to set at liberty them that are bruised, and to preach the acceptable year of the Lord." This work he must have done, and must now do, either in his own person, or by his chosen representatives, to be the Christ.

The question that interests us most in this day and time, is not so much, was Jesus the Christ, as the problem we are treating, "is Jesus the Christ."

Many think they believe that Jesus is the Christ who refuse to believe in the peculiar work Jesus testified that he must do because of the anointing of the Spirit of God, and for that reason we at this time examine what is comprehended in the work of the Christ, and in the problem before us.

1. He must preach the gospel to the poor. He who represents that he believes that Jesus is the Christ as a minister must preach "the gospel," or must preach it the truth, the doctrine that he did, and must preach it in such a way that the poor can hear and receive it. This will not prevent others from accepting it unless it be those so proud that they do not wish to accept of the gospel in a way that the poor can receive it. Jesus preached the gospel without renumeration, except what he would receive from his heavenly Father, and so must those who represent in a ministerial way that they believe that Jesus is the Christ.

2. The broken hearted must be healed. This would comprehend such a work that when one would come to God with a broken heart that the healing from God would come, and such ones would have the witness of the Spirit that their sins and errors which caused them to feel broken hearted had been remitted, or forgiven, and that they were adopted children of God, and accepted of him.

3. To preach deliverance to the captives. This is not tautology, or repetition of "preaching the gospel to he poor," but a feature of preaching by which the captives alone are effected. Paul refers to this when referring to the work of the Christ by saying, "When he ascended upon high," note the time, "he led captivity captive," or as in the marginal reading, "he led a multitude of captives." (See Eph. 4:8). Peter in referring to this same feature of Christ's work tells us where these were captives, and of what class. They were spirits in prison, who were of the disobedient class to whom he preached deliverance. (1 Peter 3:19, 20). They were those who had died, and had not, while in the flesh, had the privilege of hearing the gospel so that they could be judged according to men in the flesh, to whom God is preached. 1 Peter 4:6.

4. To recover the sight of the blind and to liberate the bruised, was the work that Jesus did by the power of God for the physical part of man while here as a minister sent of God. He says to his ministry, "as my Father hath sent me, so send I you," and informs them that "the works that I do shall ye do."

Then the Christ-work today is to give sight to the blind and to heal the sick and lame by the power of God, as well as to fulfill the other features of his work as represented by himself personally.

5. "To preach the acceptable year of the Lord." This is to declare the time when this Jesus will magnify his Lordship acceptably to his Father, and to all who look for him to appear "without sin unto salvation," or to appear as a righteous ruler over all the affairs of this earth, so that the abundance of peace may be enjoyed.

All these five features of the Christ-work is necessary today to acknowledge a belief in Jesus as the Christ. The poor need the gospel, not only in theory but also in practice, through which means each will be given an equal opportunity. The broken hearted need special consideration while the proud spirited are lording it over them; the hundreds and thousands who are passing away from earth not having heard the gospel. need to hear it sometime, somewhere, for it is the only means of salvation, and that by which all are to be judged, (see Romans 2:16) then the many whose sight is injured, and the many who are suffering because of physical infirmities need relief; and the world today needs hope in a more acceptable day than that in which we are now living when all the nations are disciplined for war, and the burden of the war debt and taxes growing out therefrom are oppressing the poor, and causing all nations to mourn. This acceptable day will be one in which the wicked will be no more, and our sympathetic Lord Jesus will rule over all things in righteousness, and the one who now has power to tempt, deceive, and afflict men's souls will have no more power.

To represent a practical belief that Jesus is the Christ is to represent that under the supervision and authority of, and for the Christ, all this must be believed and represented by those who claim to minister for Christ.

Besides man needs an advocate, an intercessor, to plead their case at the bar of judgment. Jesus is the only personage who has a practical acquaintance with the needs of the world, and who claims to be in a position to represent our case when we send our sins "before hand to judgment." He is at the right hand of God, and is appointed by the Father with power to forgive us our sins when our case is herd and properly considered, and it is clear that we have complied with the law of pardon.

Yes, Jesus is the Christ, he has again, committed authority and power to human representatives to represent him on earth in all that he was the representative of God, and to represent the divine power not only in healing the broken hearted, but also in giving sight to the blind and in liberating the sick from their physical afflictions through faith. He has authorized them to preach that the captive spirits are hearing the gospel. and that the Lord is to come in an acceptable way to redeem the world from all that sin and iniquity has wrought, and to bring about an abundance of peace to the meek of earth and to restore to those, who have qualified themselves to receive it, the dominion that man was created to enjoy at the beginning.

WHY DO MEN NEED DIVINE AUTHORITY TO PREACH THE GOSPEL AND ADMIN-ISTER ITS ORDINANCES?

By Elder J. A. Tanner.
Such a subject and question is so important that it would be reckless to give an answer without appealing to the divine record—the Bible. The Master when on earth and talking to his disciples with reference to his second coming presents the question of authority very plainly and forcibly as may be observed by reading Mark 13:34—

"For the Son of Man is as a man taking a far journey, who left his house, and gave authority to his servants, and to every man his work, and commanded the porter to watch."

In this party we have Christ to mg his departure—clothing his servants with authority to act —to represent him in his absence, appointing each man his particular work, with the admonition to watch lest coming suddenly he find you sleeping. In the light of this scripture men need divine authority to represent Christ for fear they may misrepresent him. From a logical point of view men would have no right to officiate in the name of Christ without divine authority any more than they would to represent some business firm without its sanction.

Christ organized his church. He was the head of the body—the church. As such, it was God's authoritative speaking body on earth among men. That which was done must be through the church by authority of its head, the Christ. This thought is supported by the procedure of the apostles after the ascension of Christ as recorded in the Acts of the Apostles, first chapter. There was a vacancy in he apostolic quorum. The apostles felt is should be filled, and laid the matter before God with prayer that his choice in the matter might be made known; thus indicating that they recognized that divine authority was necessary for man to have before he could be received as a proper representative for the Church.

In Acts 13:1-4 we find the ministers for Christ ministering and fasting, and while doing so the Holy Ghost authorized them to separate Barnabas and Saul for the ministry. Here we have not only divine authority in the call of those men, but the servants of Christ receive divine authority to set them apart, and the presumption is that they could not properly act, nor would they have done so without this divine instruction and authority directing in the matter. This clearly evidences the need of God directing and authorizing before the church and its ministry act, because if left solely to the wisdom and judgment of men their choice-or method of procedureand work might be wrong. God speaking through his prophet anciently said, "For my thoughts are not your thoughts, neither are your ways my ways, saith the Lord," hence every man or minister should be willing to conform to God's way.

Paul in his letter to the Romans clearly shows by argumentative questions the necessity of divine authority-"and how shall they hear without a preacher? and how shall they preach, except they be sent." (Romans 10:14). That is the thought! How can they preach unless authorized divinely to do so? Of course in the generally accepted meaning of the term-preach-many men may go into the pulpit and talk and quote scripture and probably say many good things and their discourse be excellent-but here is the kernel of Paul's question: How can they preach Christ and his gospel correctly, adding not to, nor taking from, except they be sent, authorized, qualified, and divinely sanctioned. Jesus said. "For he whom God hath sent speaketh the words (John 3:34.) The anthesis would be, of God." For he whom God hath not sent (authorized) speaketh not the words of God, and the very reason why they who were sent would speak his words is beacuse he would give his Spirit unto them without measure, thus clothing them with power an essential part of authority to present the word of life.

In Hebrews 5:4, the writer speaking with reference to the priesthood says: "And no man taketh this honor unto himself, but he that is called of God, as was Aaron." We note from this quotation that a divine call to the ministry is necessary; that man has no right to arroganly assume the right to represent God, but must await divine sanction or be called as was Aaron. Bible readers will readily recognize that Aaron was called by revelation, that God spoke through Moses and made choice of him, hence he was authorized to act. But men cannot, and must not act for Chrisis in representing his church unless Chrisi speaks to his church and authorizes them to be set apart.

Jesus told his disciples that they had not chosen him, but he had chosen them and ordained them; hence they were clothed with authority. Here is the mission under that divine sanction:

"And he said unto them, Go ye into all the world, and preach the gospel to every creature; he that believeth and is baptized shall be saved; but he that believeth not shall be dammed."

A believer in the gospel of Christ and baptized by an authorized servant would be saved. Is it not the presumption under this commission that authority to act makes the baptism efficacious that without authority the baptism would be of no avail? If so, then men surely should not take this honor unto themselves—but wait till God speaks through his church and authorizes them to so act, and then the evidences of their ministry and the gospel will follow the believers.

try and the gospel will follow the believers.

"In my name they shall cast out devils; they shall speak with new tongues; they shall take up serpents; and if they drink any deadly thing, it shall not hurt them; they shall lay hands on the sick, and they shall recover."

All of this to the believer by reason of an authorized ministry preaching and administering an authorized gospel. Authority not only gives the right to act, but clothes the individual with power to carry out God's purposes according to his will and instruction. Paul said:

"For our gospel came not unto you in word only, but also in power, [authority] and in the Holy Ghost, and in much assurance."—1 Thes, 1:5.

When God sent out an unlettered ministry into all the world he not only authorized them to do this, but gave them the power to do it; and notwithstanding the fact they went into the learned centers of the world and before kings and potentates in their unlearned condition, God under his divine call to them to be embassadors in all the world, gave them power, and they preached in power, and officiated with power to the dumfounding and confounding of the wise. In fact the promise of Jesus to them was that he would be with them in power through the medium of the Holy Ghost, that it would bring all things to their remembrance, and take the things of the Father and show them unto them, guide them into all truth, and in the hour when they would not know what to say it would give them utterance, so that their words would be meat and drink to the hungry and thirsty souls, also life and peace,

We cannot follow the ministry of Christ in their work but what we can see evidenced the necessity of divine authority to act; because in all bheir workings in the church God was supplying their needs, directing their way, helping them to carry out his purposes through the gospel. We can hardly say this for an unauthorized ministry.

In the Acts of the Apostles, 19th chapter, we note the difference in the history given of an authorized servant and unauthorized ones.

"And it came to pass that, while Apollos was at Corinth, Paul having passed through the upper coasts came to Ephesus: and finding certain disciples, he said unto them. Have ve received the Holy Ghost since ye believed And they said unto him, We have not so much as heard whether there be any Holy Ghost. And he said unto them, Unto what then were ye baptized? and they said, Unto John's baptism. Then said Paul, John verily baptized with the baptism of repentance, saying unto the people, that they should believe on him which should come after him, that is, on Christ Jesus. When they heard this, they were baptized in the name of the Lord Jesus. And when Paul had laid his hands upon them the Holy Ghost came on them; and they spake with tongues, and prophesied. And all the men were about twelve.'

Let us get the points: Paul meets twelve men at Ephesus. He seeks for the evidence of an authorized baptism by asking if they had received the Holy Ghost. He finds some unauthorized minister had been at work, for they had not heard whether there was any Holy Ghost. Then Paul an authorized servant knowing they were not yet true disciples of Christ, baptized them, and laid his hands on them that they might receive the Holy Ghost-the very thing-of which they had not heard in their former baptism. Afterward they spake in tongues and prophesied, which was evidence of their acceptance with God, and of having received a legal baptism at the hands of one whom God had sent and clothed with authority to officiate in the name of Jesus Christ, for they, the tweive men, were baptized in the name of the Lord Jesus.

We can see by this experience the necessity of a divine call, an authorization to officiate, and of the mistakes made where this divine authority does not exist.

When Saul was on his way to Damascus in the work of persecuting the saints of God, he received a wonderful experience, throuh which he saw the necessity of doing the right thing and inquired what he should do. He was shown where there was an authorized minister, but how would the Lord's servant know of Saul's repentance and conversion? Ah! see how the Lord works with his authorized servants in the hour of need: When Ananias saw Saul in vision he said, we all know this man to be a bold, bad fellow, and they did'nt want to have anything to do with him; but the Lord told Ananias "He is a chosen vessel unto me." No need for this servant to hesitate in baptizing Saul. Why? Because being an authorized servant, God, in the moment when he might have refused to baptize Paul because of his prejudices, showed him his will and directed him what to do. Hence, we see again the necessity for divine authority in the ministers for Christ-that they may be in touch with God, receive light, wisdom and knowledge to teach the words of God-the true gospel in its entirety, and officiate under the direction of the Head of the church—Christ. Thus they can do the right thing at the right time in the right place, ministering to blessed converts who are acknowledged of God.

Reader, let us all stand for an authorized, divinely called ministry, for there is necessity for it—that God may be glorified, and the people receive light, truth, and salvation, and the church perform her work; and that by reason of a divinely called ministry we may be edified, all come to the unity of faith, to the proper stature of Christ and know him, that we may not be tossed to and fro by every wind of doctrine and the cunning craftiness of men who lie in wait to deceive.

SOME REASONS FOR ABOLISHING THE LIQUOR BUSINESS.

(The following was written for the Kansas City Star by E. L. Stewart, M. D.)

I boarded a Fifteenth Street car at Fifteenth and Grand about seven o'clock last night. On a rear seat, running lengthwise sat a shabbily dressed fellow so drunk he could scarcely hold his seat. His hat was on the floor, his hair was mussed, his face was repulsively filthy; in all he was an object lesson in degredation. His head sank near his knees as he swayed back and forth, cursing aloud at those who chanced to look his way, and in the vilest of language. Something loosened his feeble grip on the back of the seat and he sprawled out on the floor of the car. There he lay for several blocks.

The conductor, young and confused, replaced the man's hat on his head and returned to his post. Finally a passenger picked the man up and put him back on the seat and was rewarded with a volley of profanity that caused the Samaritan to seek the front end of the car. The drunkard next reclined on the seat, draping his legs over the back of the next crosswise seat and driving a man in that seat elsewhere. I got off the car at Jackson Avenue. The drunkard was still there, cursing and amusing a group of small boys in the vestibule with his maudlin gesticulations. do not know how much further he rode, but to my certain knowledge he was carried forty blocks on a public conveyance, and had full sway on the rear end. Women and children were on the car.

I could but wonder if the man was married, and if so, picture his home coming. What chance have the children of such?

Three days ago I was at our state penetentiary, and was told by one in a position to know that close to 80 per cent of the inmates were there either directly or indirectly from drink. The officers of our asylums find that drink is responsible for 90 per cent of our imbecility. Recently I was at the city hospital. While there a woman close to motherhood and pounded black and blue by a drink crazed husband, was brought in.

How long, do you suppose, society is going to tolerate this business?

It is a favorite fiction that whisky is necessary in medicine, that drug stores must keep it therefor, and that its sale, for that reason, can never be prevented. If whisky is necessary in medicine it is probable that the medical profession would be aware of it. As a whole, the medical profession condemns it. Some physicians feel that in certain cases it is a serviceable heart stimulant and. being easy of access, they use it, but that does not mean that they would not be glad to see it wiped from the face of the earth. There are other heart stimulants quite as effective and not half so dangerous. Surely the family physician sees enough of the ruin it works.

There remain physicians who drink, but they are slipping. As one who has attended the county medical society, with a membership of four hundred, regularly for the last eight years, let me say, however, that I have seen but one-physician under the influence of liquor. The liquor traffic could meet no surer end today than to leave its fate in the hands of the physicians of the United States.-E. L. Stewart, M. D., in Kansas City Star.

(Correspondence continued from page 3.)

Cross Timbers, Mo., Sept. 20.

Dear Ensign:—We congratulate you on the pace you are keeping with the needs of the Saints and seckers after

The improvement in type is good, the printing of the synopsis of sermons in the "Independence Items," instead of using all that space for local mention, is a gr provement. All your readers, I am sure, will ap getting the kernel of many sermons preached at Indepen-

The "Visit from the Priest of the Independence Branch," appearing in your last week's issue, is something new, but furnishes just what the Saints need. We hope Bro. Morgan will repeat these visits. This is also educational to the priests of other branches, and will stimulate them to a greater interest in their official work and calling. Bro. Morgan's article is characterized by the true spirit, and has the right ring.

The report of the "Bible Vacation School" as given by

The report of the "Bible Vacation Sensor as given of Sr. M. A. Etzenhouser in a recent issue causes us to rejoice in the good work that has thus been going on. We are glad indeed, when we can see, or hear of, the good work being done in Zion.

After attending the reunion at Eldorado Springs, the After attending the reunion at Eldorado Springs, the writer held an arbor meeting on the premises of Bro. Samuel Deller, about seven miles east of Rockville, preaching fourteen times. From there we came to Clinton and preached four times on Bro. Riggs' lawn. There are a few faithful Saints here who are making a commendable effort to let their light shine; if all Saints everywhere were only making the effort these few are, what great things would be accomplished!

Here is where Sr. "Eleanor" (Sr. Kearney) lives. She is a wonderful living example of nationes and faith in is a wonderful living example of patience and faith in God. I wish all who have read her book "Pattie, or Leaves from a Life" could see her as she is today. Deprived entirely of her hearing the greater part of her life, shut out from the beautiful harmonious sounds of life, her out from the beautiful harmonious sounds of life, her face is the very expression of trust in God, as she may be seen busily engaged with her needle work for her own sustinance. And she has plenty of time to read and write. Her son, Willis, and wife, are both talented, and use their talents in the interest of this latter day work, which they seem to prize above all else.

Next, through an invitation of F. G. Hedrick, president of the Northeast Kansas District, and by permission and direction of Bro. Rushton, we were permitted to attend the Topeka Reunion. This was a great pleasure to be permitted to meet with those among, and with, whom we labored in former years. We were only disappointed in there not being a larger gathering of the Saints. tere not being a larger gathering of the Saints.

After a visit of about five days at home we came to

After a visit of about five days at home we came to Cross Timbers, Hickory Co., Mo. Cross Timbers is twenty-two miles from Warsaw, the nearest point to the railroad. At Oak Grove there are a few Saints, brought into the fold by Brn. Higdon and Budd, I believe. I have been harrassed by sectarian preachers who invariably assailed their faith. We met one of them, a Baptist preacher, on Sunday the 6th, and he did us the kindness to set forth what he had been saying against our people. This was-just what we wanted. Well, the result is, that the Saints are greatly encouraged and are still rejoicing, though they had to wait, it came their time by and by. The whole congregation seemed to be on our side and laughed hearthad to wait, it came their time by and by. The whole congregation seemed to be on our side and laughed heartily at the discomfiture of the would-be Mormon annihila-He went away without leaving any future appoint Since beginning this communication we were called to Jordan to assist Bro. Palmer in a series of meetings in a union church where he has quite an interest.

a union church where he has quite an interest.

We also preached four times on the streets in Cross Timbers to large crowds and splendid attention. This is a new opening. Apparentty friends were made. I understand the Utah Elders were permitted to occupy the Christian Church; and although some of their own members tried to get it for us they failed. I am glad they made a distinction between us and the Utah people.

Being one of a committee appointed to secure means to purchase a large reunion tent for the Clinton District, which all who attended the reunion, could see is needed, we are ready to receive contributions for that purpose. Our address is Box 144, Holden, Mo.

Dear Ensign, the conditions in the world, and the omens of the times, should remind all your readers, that "the end" is approaching, and that all should seek to stand in holy places till the day of the Lord come.

F. E. Moler.

San Antonio, Texas, Sept. 22. Editor Ensign:—This finds me at my post of duty doing what I can to assist in building up the cause of Christ. While we find many obstacles in the way, yet by the help of God and persistent effort on our part we can remove the obstacles sufficient to get by and go on to the next one. So many of the Saints get tired of the fight and go off and lay down under the shade tree of life and leave the hard task to the few, which adds to their burden. If the hard task to the few, which adds to their burden. It all would help and do their part the load would not be so hard to carry. But we are thankful for the few noble ones that are doing all they can to help roll on the gospel work, and bear their part of the burden in the heat of the day; they will get their crown.

Surely these are perilous times, and as we near the end the battle becomes more severe. The devil knows his time is short and is doing all he can to destroy peace and hinder righteousness on earth. We are still praying that time to soon come when the will of the Lord will be done on earth as it is in heaven, and nations will learn war no more.

learn war no more.

I arrived in this city the night of the 18th, and was met at the depot by Brn. D. S. Palmer and John Harp. Was glad to see them, but was immediately informed that they had a message for me, which conveyed the sad news that my father had passed from this earth life the day before, so my joy was interrupted and turned to sadness. It was then 10:30 at night, and was nearly two days since his death, and I nearly a thousand miles from the soene, as he lived in the eastern part of Missouri, Bell-flower, Montgomery Co. I stood still thinking for thirty minutes, then wired them I regretted that I could not come minutes, then when them I regretted that I could not come now, as it would be too late for me to attend the funeral, for to do so I would have to let go undone some important work entrusted to my care. Such are some of the tricls of the missionary—their loved ones have to be laid away ofttimes without their presence.

This is my first experience of death in our immediate family. My father was 86 years old. He came from Old Virginia in about 1860 and settled in Missouri, where he resided until his death. He did not belong to the church but was one of the honest, honorable men of the world. From what little opportunity he had had to hear the rerrom what inthe opportunity he had had to hear the re-stored gospel he was in sympathy with it, and would tell other people that he believed the Latter Day Saints were right. He did not have an opportunity to hear this gospel until he was old and feeble and did not obey, but God is just and will take care of such men, and where they lacked in opportunity in this life it will be supplied in the other; otherwise it would not be just. I had a dream about two months, ago and in the dream or night vision I saw him come to us in a great hurry only stop-ping a minute, and went on down a road; I followed him a short ways and saw him cross a river. I told the folks he would soon leave us.

In the conflict

W. M. Aylor.

Manteno, Illinois, Sept. 27. Editor Ensign:—We get so much enjoyment and inspiration from the letters in the Ensign that I will give an account of our work thinking it may be a help to some of the Saints.

We are situated seven miles west of Manteno and are known as the Deselm Branch which is a reorganization of the old Wilmington Branch. Our branch was organized June 5, 1910, and was the outgrowth of Sunday school work which had been carried on for about three years previous. For two years after our organization, the Sunday school continued to be the principal factor with only the monthly prayer and sacrament service. Special services were occasionally held by visiting missionaries. In the autumn of 1912, Elders J. A. Bronson and J. O. Dutton conducted an extensive series of meetwhich aroused the members and created sufficient interest to secure a pleasant building for regular meet

I have conducted Sunday evening preaching services since that time loyally supported by the membership.

Lately Brn. Wm. Bell and Victor Eklof have taken rns in occupying a morning hour before Sunday school. Our branch is a spiritual one and has gained five members the past year. The Lord has added his blessing in a gift of prophecy through Bro. Dutton stating that he was well pleased with our efforts and if faithful, we should be prospered and he would add unto us such as should

We are now in the midst of a series of special meet-ings with Elder F. F. Wipper in charge. We hope the good seed is being sown in fertile ground and that it will produce a bountful harvest.

The branch has in auxiliaries an active Religio and adies' Aid Society and a Normal class besides the Sunday school.

Ever praying for the advancement of God's work and the triumphant establishment of his kingdom on earth.

Elder Earl D. Rogers.

Geelong, Victoria, Australia, Aug. 7. Editor Ensign:-It is now some time since I have written any contribution to your pages but will now try to give you some news concerning our work and its outlook nis land. Am at the present laboring in Geelong, oria, having arrived here with my family on the 18th this land. of July.

The work here is not in a very bright or progressive The work nere is not in a very bright of progressive condition, having but little missionary work done, and that spasmodically. There are very few local men here and the branch is not fully officered. We are trying to infuse a little life into the work by holding street meetinfuse a little life into the work by holding street meetings. In this work we came in contact with a body of Christian Israelites, whose headquarters are at Benton Harbor, Mich., U. S. A. Have had street discussions with them and had large crowds to listen. We intend continuing until the end of September when we expect to go to Western Australia to try to push the work there. Bro. Griffiths, of the Twelve, has made many changes in this mission, many young men having, under his direction, been ordained to Gitz, some of whom are now about to be sent into the active ministry. I think we may safely say that progress is continuous though slow.

Our nation is now involved in the long looked for European war and there seems every probability that we shall suffer industrially if not otherwise in the conflict. This suffer industrially if not otherwise in the conflict. This may mean a shrinkage in our bishop's receipts which would have a crippling influence upon our activities. Many of our young men are called out from industrial life to devote their time to defense, though there seems but a very remote possibility of hostile invasion. Australia is equipping twenty thousand men to go to Europe to assist against Germany upon those historic battle fields. There is no parallel in history to this movement or such a world wide conflict at arms. Some are prophesying that this is the last war before the coming of Christ, but I do not feel that way. It seems to me that Jeruselem will be the cemthat way. It seems to me that Jerusalem will be the center of that last event.

ter of that last event.

We all pray that a speedy peace may come and the world's activities resume the normal so our work may go on to its consumation. Perchance the war may chasten the people and religious instead of worldly and national pursuit may characterize the immediate future. raying for the redemption of Zion, I am your brother in

J. H. N. Jones.

Steam Ship New Amsterdam, Sept. 19.

Dear Ensign:—That all the friends may hear from us and know we are safe, this short letter is written. It has been impossible to send word before now, for in a way we have been shut up in Germany, and no assurance of mail going through, for in time of war all foreign nations take every precaution; and as you know all communication has been denied Germany, even cables not reaching our loved ones. It has been a most trying hour, but we have placed ourselves in the hands of our Master, and we know the prayers of many went out for each and every one who are on the other side.

We have had a very rough trip—1800 passengers on pard. We have proved good sailors and ready at every call of the dinner bell.

That all Americans were advised by the American Ambassadors to leave, finds every steamer overly crowded every available space occupied-people sleeping all over the decks. On my return to Kansas City, I will take time to prepare a series of articles so that each and every to prepare a series of articles so that each and every Saint may know how heroically the Germans have acted in their sad hour. That they have not as yet been properly represented seems evident. We are, no doubt living in a very serious hour, and we who have been privileged to be in Europe in this hour—no doubt have many experiences which will prove of great interest in that it will play an important role in history in the days ahead.

Let this letter suffice for the present. It is impossible to write to all of our many friends, as all the excitement has been a taxation on the nervous system. We have been It is impossible on a continuous stretch since July 25th. Asking an interest in your prayers.

Most sincerely Hattie Riggs.

Little Valley, N. Y., Sept. 7.
Editor Ensign:—I live here in New York State, with my mother and step-father. I don't believe there are any Saints nearer than Buffalo, at least I have not heard of any. My mother is a Saint but my step-father has never any. My mother is a Saint but my step-tather has never heard the gospel preached. I have a sister living in Salamanca, N. Y., also an aunt in Red House, N. Y., who are Saints. I would be glad to hear from any of the Saints and will answer all letters. I desire an interest in all your prayers that I may prove faithful to the end.

From your brother in Christ,

Chas. St. John

R. F. D. 2.

_ DEPARTMENT OF Woman's Auxiliary for Social Service of MRS. MAUD MILLS. EDITOR.

NOTICE.

All persons sending money to the Woman's Auxiliary for any purely state of the Moman's Auxiliary for any purely state of the Moman's Auxiliary for any purely state of the Moman to the state of the Moman to the Moman t dependence Mo.
ADVISORY BOARD.
Mrs. S. R. Burgess, President, 5920 Etzel Ave., St. Louis, Mo.
Mrs. B. C. Smith, Vice President, 214 S. Spring St., Independ-

MIS D. C. Smith. The Francisco.

Miss Minnie E. Scott, Secretary, 309 S. Fuller Ave., Independence, Mo.

Mrs. J. A. Gardner, Treasurer, 711 S. Fuller Ave., independence,

Mrs. M. A. Etzenhouser, 1595 W. Walnut St., Independence, Mo-Mrs. D. J. Krahi, 724 S. Crysler St., Independence, Mo. SUPERINTENDENTS OF DEPARTMENTS, Home and Child Welfare Department, Mrs. H. A. Stebbins, Lani, lowa.

Holland Child Weltare Department, Mrs. I.A. Steudins, Law Lilerary and Educational Department, Mrs. Lydia Thomas Wight, Lamoni, Iowa Euranics Department, Mrs. Jennie Studley, 17 E. Cottage St., Roxburt, Mass. Department, Mrs. Bertha Anderson Hulmes, Demestic Science, Department, Mrs. Bertha Anderson Hulmes, Sewing and Aid Department, Mrs. Edith Cochran, 20 S. Sevententh St., St., Joseph, Mo. Young Woman's Department, Mrs. J. A. Gardner, 711 S. Fuller Ave., Independence, Mo.

[In this issue we begin the presentation of outlines and suggestions for use in our Literary and Educational Department. They will appear every two weeks, if possible, and we trust will be given the time and attention which they deserve by all who can find it practicable to utilize them .- Ed.]

LITERARY DEPARTMENT OF THE WOMAN'S AUXILIARY. Note of instructions:—The Literary Departme

Woman's Auxiliary is now in possession of leaflets containing the general outline for study, and locals may obtain them by writing to Mrs. B. C. Smith of Independence, Mo., Mrs. S. R. Burgess of St. Louis, Mo., or to the un-study of the state may now be taken up following as nearly as possible the outline presented in the August Autumn Leaves and in the leaflets. The first topic is Indian Lore and the detailed outline for study is given Indian Lore and the detailed outline for study is given below. Copious references and supplementary reading are suggested which may be assigned to various members who will read and tell others the substance of the material at the meting. A preliminary session for organization, planning of work and assignment of topics would be helpful in the beginning of the work. By this method of reports a great amount of material may be covered by all members without over working any one.

Have your secretary write to your United States Representative at Washington and he will gladly furnish you with pamphlets they may have on any of the topics given under state history. These should be ordered early so under state history. you may have material on hand for the preparation of

In the outline you will find each division of the subject marked with reference to the foot notes which will give you books in which you may get information on each specific topic.

If there are any Indian localities of historic or mythical significance near you, visit them if possible; if you cannot all go send a representative who may tell you about it.

Outline in Detail.

Indian Lore and History.

A. General.

1. Theories as to Origin.
a. From Profane History. (1).
b. From Religious History. (2).
c. Compare and draw conclusion.
2. Names of most prominent Indian races and their early homes. i. e. Seminoles in Florida. (3).
3. Traits of Indian Character. (4).
B. Special. Indians of your Own State, e. g. Iowa.
1. Indians in Tama County. (See brief at close of lesson).

2. Names of most prominent Indian races and their early homes. i. e. Seminoles in Florida. (3).

3. Traits of Indian Character. (4).

B. Special. Indians of your Own State, e. g. Iowa.

1. Indians in Tama County. (See brief at close of lesson).

2. Indian myths of Iowa. (5).

3. Indian myths of Iowa. (5).

4. Indian relics preserved in Iowa and their significance. (7).

4. Indian relics preserved in Iowa and their significance. (7).

References: 1. Prehistoric Races by Foster, p. 340, Baldwins Ancient America, p. 201; (2) Church History, Vol. 1, p. 180, Oliver Cowdery's "Address to the Indians; Book of Mormon, Alma, ch. 30; Lectures by Henry Stebhins; Normal Lessons of Book of Mormon; (3) Mc Laughlin's American History, p. 3; (4) Any edition of Irving's Sketch Book, Krapp's edition, p. 344 "Traits of Indian Character; (5) and (6) Should be in phamplets received from representatives; (7) Reports of the Archeological Com. of L. D. S. Supplementary Reading:

1. Mc Laughlin's My Friend the Indian—Houghton Miffilin Co.

Mc Clurg and Co.

2. Indian Love Letters, by Marah Ellis Ryan—A. C. Mc Clurg and Co.

3. The Bridge of the Gods, a romance by F. H. Balch—A. C. Mc Clurg and Co.

4. The Indian Maiden, by Frances—Herald Office, Lamoni, Iowa.

5. The Queen of the Woods, a beautiful story by Chief Simon Pokagon—C. H. Engle, Hartford, Michigan.

6. The Flute of the Gods, by Marah Ellis Ryan—A. C. Mc Clurg and Co.

7. Pueblos of New Mexico, by Foster, p. 393.

8. Picturesque America, p.69.

9. The Library of Original Sources, Vol.5, p. 360.

10. The Seminoles of Florida, by Moore-Wilson Moffat, Yard and Co.

Brief: Indians of Tama County.

As is well known, the only Indians now living in Iowa are the Meskwakis in Tama County, a remnant of the

As is well known, the only Indians now living in Iowa are the Meskwakis in Tama County, a remnant of the once powerful Fox tribe. "By the treaties of 1837 and 1842," says Dr. Ward in an article published by the State Historical Society of Iowa, "the Meskwakis sold their Iowa lands to the United States Government and agreed to move to a "Reservation" to be selected somewhere on the Missouri River. The work of official selection was slow. The Indians were scattered on hunting expeditions. When the place was finally chosen, the transfer was not easy. Many of the Indians could not be found. Those who went were angered at the treatment which they rewho went were angered at the treatment which tudy re-ceived from the troops who were their military escort. Arriving at the appointed place in Kansas, they found it unhealthful and ill-adapted for hunting and agriculture. It was a sad settling and their Indian hearts longed for Iowa, where, indeed some of their friends had remained Soon the hunting trails were Iowa-ward; and squaws and children in families gradually followed."

In 1856 the Indians raised some money and purchased eighty acres of land in Tama County, which was held in trust for them by the Governor. The legislature passed a law permitting the Indians to remain in the State and in the years that followed they purchased more land, un-til now they own nearly three thousand acres.

Lamoni, Iowa.

Lydia Thomas Wight.

MISCELLANEOUS

The joint session of the Massachusetts District Sunday School and Religio Associations will convene at Providence, R. I., Saints' Chapel, Belleview Ave., November 14, 1914 at 2:30 p. m.

Iva Viola Holmes, Sec.

204 Huntington Ave., Boston, Mass. Calvin C. Sears, Sec.,

15 Sycamore St., Somerville, Mass.

To the Quorum of High Priests, Greeting:-This will give notice that the manuscript of the 1914 H. P. Annual is now in the hands of the printer, and that as soon as issued a copy will be mailed to each member to the latest*post office address new in my possession; should you fail to receive it and so inform me, another copy will be sent you; please however, do not write immediately upon the reading of this, but grant sufficient time for the publishing and mailing.

Your fellow-

Rob't M. Elvin, Sec. Lamoni, Iowa, October 7, 1914.

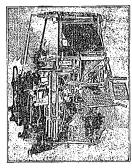

Will any one knowing the wherabouts of Mr. C. P. Wright formerly of St. James, Mo., and Clinton, Iowa, kindly communicate with Mrs. E. P. Krugman, 7337 Perry Ave., Chicago, Illinois

Wanted-50 Kansas churches, any denomination, to offer a week of their ministers' time this fall or winter for evangelistic meetings among a receptive, kindly but spiritually neglected people in the coal mining camps in South-eastern Kansas. J. T. Hartman, Sabbath school Mission-ary, Pittsburg, Kansas.—Kansas City Star.

THE YEARLY OFFER ON THE ENSIGN.

November and December are bargain months as usual, during which time the Ensign will be sent to non-memduring which time the Ensign will be sent to non-members at half price. This offer, as usual is good only in the United States possessions, as the extra postage to foreign countries prohibits this offer extending there. This offer is good only during the months of November and December. It is unfair and hardly honorable for a member to stop their paper and then subscribe in the member to stop their paper and then subscribe in the name of a member of their family who does not belong to the church for the sake of getting at half price. That is not the object of this offer. It is for the sake of spreading the gospel among outsiders.

Address, Ensign Publishing House, Independence, Mo.

THE INTERTYPE.

THE INTERCIPE.

The above is a picture of the machine that sets the type for the Ensign. It is called a type setting machine, but in reality there is no type set as the reader may understand the setting of type, but by the manipulation of keys similar to those on a typewriter, matrices of letters wanted drop into place, forming words, and when a line is completed it is raised and automatically carried over and down in front of a large melting pot where hot metal is forced by a pump into the faces of these matrices and a solid line is cast and trimmed ready for printing, all in a few seconds. As soon as the line is cast the matrices and spaces (called space bands) are carried up a point where the bands and matrices are separated, the space bands carried to the right and dropped back where they came from and the mats taken by an elevator to the highest point of the machine and there delivered to distributors, and each mat or matrix seemingly by human intelligence automatically drops into its own channel into a magazine ready to be used over again in its turn. There are twenty mats of each letter, so that while the machine is casting one line the person operating the key board is setting another, and by the time one is out of the way another is ready to be cast, or in other words while one line is being set by the operator at the keys, another is being cast, and still another is being distributed, and as there may be several of one kind of letter in each line, it takes a number to keep it going. This has been termed by some as the "human machine," by the seeming intelligence indwelling in it. By the use of this machine each Ensign is printed with new type, or, using the old phrase in speaking of ordinary type, each issue has a "new dress." After the paper is printed these lines, or slugs as they are called, are remelted and east into pigs, and used over again when needed. The operation of this machine is very rapid as compared to the old method of hand composition and increases the capacity of the office a great

To say that we are pleased with the work of the sinest slugs is hardly expressive enough. We make the finest slugs W. H. D. To say that we are pleased with the work of this machine

AIR VOICES.

Have you never noticed, during a summer afternoon or night in the country when you have been anxious or troubled or busy about something, that suddenly a lull has come in your activity of brain or body, a relaxation in the tension of your mind and nerves, and you have suddenly become conscious of the sweet sound of a bird, or aware of a delicious fragrance, or of a charming view? These things were present before, but you had blocked These things were present before, but you had blocked your soul against their entrance by your care for other things. At a moment like this you have realized how much you really loved your home; how much your church might mean to you; how beautiful and how kind God is. Jesus came to earth to win us back to these silent and beautiful places of soul life, where we may breathe the atmosphere of love, may see its visions and dream its dreams and get strength to do its work.—The Christian Howeld Herald.

MARRIED.

Wednesday even'ing, Sep. 30th, 1914, at the home of the bride's parents, Bro. and Sr. Paul J. Brose, Kansas City, Kans, Sr. Alma Louise to Mr. Wm. A. Warren, Elder M. H Bond officiating. A bountiful feast fol-lowing ceremony, and the instalment of the new pair in their fine newly furnished home, 15 North 11th St.

At the home of the writer, Bro. Alpheus McFee and Sr. Priscilla Mae Ford, (two worthy young saints) Elder Chas. Morton officiating.

CONFERENCE MINUTES.

CONFERENCE MINUTES.

Independence Stake.—Conference me at A'mstrong, Kansas, September 12th and 13th, J. W. Rushton and the Stake Presidency in charge. Courtesy of the floor extended to visting members. Minutes of last conference read and adopted. Reports from Stake Presidency, Bishopric and Secretary, also of Library Board were read. The following reports were made: 1st and 2nd Quorums of Elders; 1st, 3rd and 7th Quorums of Priests; 2nd, 4th and Knobnoster Quorums of Teachers; and 6th Quorum of Deacons. Miscellaneous ministerial reports were also of Deacons. Miscellaneous ministerial reports were also read. Statistical reports from the twenty-one branch of the Stake were read showing a net gain of 237. Jo Tucker recommended by the Quindaro Branch for the office of elder. E. E. Kenney was ordained as president of the 4th Quorum of Teachers and J. R. Lloyd as one of his counselors. Reunion committee reported, deficit of $6.56. Collection was taken to meet the deficit. The committee was discharged. Charles J. Friend recommended by the Erederseal Brach. committee was discharged. Charles J. Friend recom-mended by the Englewood Branch for the office of elder. mended by the Englewood Branch for the office of cluer, Recommendation referred to presidency and minister in charge. Conference confirmed the choice of Bishop Bullard of B. J. Scott to act as one of his counselors. Mo-tion to change representation of the Stake to mass convention was lost by a yea and nay vote, 278 for and 630 vention was lost by a yea and nay vote, 278 for and 630 against. Branch organization recommended by Stake Presidency to be known as Enoch's Hill Branch in Independence. L. H. Haas resigned the office of Stake sceretary and James Bunt was elected to fill the vacancy. The sermons of the conference were delivered by Frederick A. Smith, J. W. Rushton, B. J. Scott and G. E. Harrington. The Sunday school was in charge of the local authorities. Special and greener music was rendered during the de-Special and general music was rendered during the devotional sessions. B J. Scott was ordained as counselor by J. W Rushton, G. E Harrington and W. H. Garrett. Conference adjourned to meet at Independence on March 13 and 14, 1915.

Jas. Bunt, Stake Sec.

CONVENTION MINUTES.

Ohio District.—Sunday school convention was held at Creola, Ohio, Sept. 25th, 26th, 27th. The program at each meeting was devoted entirely to institute work, talks, discussions and round table work. The whole time being spent in educational efforts. Apostle R. C. Russell was in general charge of the church work and district superintendent, Sr. G. T. Griffiths was in charge of the Sunday school and Religio work. The attendance was good and the meetings fine. The next convention and conference will be held in Columbus, Ohio, probably Feb. 12, 13, 14,

D. R. Winn, Dist. Sec.

82 E. Nor wood Ave., Columbus, Ohio.

Sample:—C. W Sample, was born February 5th, 1831, in Montgomery Co., New York. Died at Stewartsville, Missouri, September 11th, 1914, at the ripe old age of eighty-three years and seven months; was baptized by J. C Foss, at Stewartsville, October 11th, 1880. Had been married three times; his first two wives and three oldest withdraw died. Left to recover pass his write, forwteen. children died. Left to mourn are his wife, fourteen children, thirty-six grand children, fourteen great grand children. He enlisted in Company D. of the 10th Michigan Infantry; served nearly four years, was with Sherman in his famous march to the sea. Funeral services in in his famous march to the sea. Funeral serv charge of I. N. Roberts, sermon by William Lewis.

Douglas.—Mary L. Douglas (whose maiden name was Mary L. Cooper) was born in Wells County, Illinois, Jan. 1st, 1847. She came to the state of California in 1854 1st, 1847. She came to the state of caminorna in Joweners she has made her home until death, Sep. 7, 1914. She was married to Wm. A. Douglas Sep. 25th, 1867. and was baptized into the reorganized Church of Jesus Christ of L. D. S. by John Roberts, Oct. 5th, 1871. For a number of years she has been quite a physical sufferer, but has always tried to be patient and cheerful through the pain and amid the tears she tried to wear a smile. We believe it can be truthfuly said of our departed sister that she was a loving wife, a kind mother and a true saint. She is survived by her husband, one son and one daughter, also one sister and two brothers. Her home was in Berkley, but the funeral sermon and interment were at Santa Rosa, Sermon by R. J. Parker, assisted by C. A. Parkin

-Sr. Hulda P. Kendall who departed this life Saturday, Sep. 26, 1914, at the home of her daughter, Mrs. Hattic Savage, of this city was born in the State of Illinois the 12th day of May, making her 66 years. 4 months and 14 days old at the time of her dath. She was married April 11, 1866, to George Kendall, her maiden name being Biggers. From this union 8 children were born, 2 boys and 6 girls, three of the girls and the hushad have passed away from earth life, before the departure of our sister. She became a member of the Church of Jesus Christ of Later Day Saints sometime in February 1906, being baptized by Elder Henry Sparling at Springfield, Mo., and remained a member of the church up till the time of her death. 2 sons, three daughters, 23 grand children, and four great grand children are left to mourn her departure. Saturday, Sep. 26, 1914, at the home of her daughter, to mourn her departure.

. 8 ENSIGN PUBLICATIONS. And Caler Books for Sale by the Ensign Publishing House.

Zion's Ensign, the missionary paper, con-taining gospel sermons and arti-cles, church news and interesting letters. Per year _________11.00

Dectrinal References. A compilation of references under subject headings of the connected with the gospel, taken from the Bible, Book of Mormon and Doctrine and Covenants. A very handy reference book. Paper covers, 10c; cloth, 15c; leather.

acturer. $0.30

Our Missionaries in Bible Lauds. A compliation of interesting views, accompanied with comments, of historic places in Palestine and Egypt, from photographs taken by Elder and Sr. F. G. Pitt. Heavy paper covers, 50c; cloth boards .....$0.75

35c; leather $3.50

Three Bibles Compared. A comparison between the King James, the Revised and the Inspired Versions. Paper covers, 25c, 5 for $1.00; cloth.$0.35

the gospet. raper covers.....$0.05

The Books and Utah Mormonism in Contrast. This book plainly shows how the Utah church has departed from the teachings of the standard books of the Church, from quotations and reliable teatimony. Paper covers, 10c, 3 for ...........$0.25

From Palmyra to Independence. A book of 444 pages. A brief review of the Book of Mormon is given, with
many testimonials and affidavits.
Paper covers, 60c; cloth ......$1.00

Babbatarian Theories a Delusion. 113 pages. Price, 15c or 2 for......$0.25

pages. Price, 15c or 2 for.....$0.25
Webster's Business and College Dictionary.
Besides being an up-to-date pronouncing dictionary it contains much other valuable information.
It contains new words up to September, 1911, and the last Government census. Postpaid for.....$0.60
Hurlbut's Teacher-Training Normal Lessons. Paper covers, 36c; cloth.$0.60

Palestine of To-day ...... The Christian System .....

CAMBRIDGE AND BAGSTER BIBLES. Order by Number.

a very handy book $2.00

H131X—The same as H126X, except it is leather lined and French Levant cover $3.35

H140X—Same as H131X, but has Persian Morocco cover $4.60

J45—French Seal, flexible overlapping, 11-lustrated, self-pronouncing, red under gold edges. Size, 5x7\fax

1\fax

1\fax

1\fax

1\fax

1.35

11%. $1.35

E16—French Morocco, divinity circuit, red under gold edges, button clasp, 5½x3% $1.10

S125—A fine Bible for those who want large type and not so particular about it being small. Long primer type, self-pronouncing, full page illustrations, French Seal, divinity circuit, etc. $2.25

S1254/—Same as S125, except it is patent indexed $3.50

S126—Same as S125, with button clasp, $2.35

$2.50 $126—Same as $125, with button clasp $2.35 $130—Same as $125 at the same as $125

S126—Same as S125, with button clasp.$2.30
S136—Same as S125, leather lined... $2.70
H15—A fine little Bible at a low price.
French Morocco, divinity circuit,
red under gold edges, flexible, overlapping cover. Size, 5 % x3 % ... $1.25
H16—Same as H16, but has button clasp...
$1.35

NEW TESTAMENTS.

E200—Leatherette cover, red edges ....$0.15 E212—French Morocco, limp, red under gold .....$0.30 TROOM

OXFORD BIBLES.

-Persian Morocco, divinity circuit, leather lined to edge, silk sewed, round corners, red under gold edges, black faced type, thin India paper. This is a beautiful little Bible. Because of the thin India paper it is only % of an inch thick.

Alaska Seal binding, otherwise the same as 04207X ......$4.50

A model Bible. India paper, black faced minion type, French Morocco, divinity circuit, linen lined, round corners, rod under gold edges, 7½x 5% inches 03203X

03581X—Alaska Seal, leather lined, Oxford India paper, silk sewed, large long primer type, round corners, red under gold edge8.......$6.00

TRACTS.

The following tracts are excellent and suitable for distribution among those not identified with the latter day work. They may be obtained, all of one kind or assorted as desired, at the following prices, except as otherwise noted:
Two copies $0.05
Six copies 10
One dozen copies 20

Evans.

"The Book of Mormon; Evidences of Its Divinity," by Elder R. C. Evans.

"Creed Making," by Elder I. M. Smith.

"Good News." A tract of tracts on several different subjects by as many writers.

"The Church of Christ," by Elder Edward Rannie.

"Who Was Joseph C. ""

'Who Was Joseph Smith," by Elder J. W.

"A Glimpse at the Government of God," by Elder Paul M. Hanson.

by Elder Paul M. Hanson.

"Reasons Why. Shall We Hear Them?"
Revised edition. By Elder J. W. Peterson.

"Twelve Reasons Why I Believe The Book of Mormon," by Elder Charles Fry.

"Joseph Smith; Was He a Prophet of God?" by Elder R. C. Evans.

God?" by Elder R. C. Evans.

The following at special prices named:
"What We Believe," an epitome of the faith of the Church. Per dozen 5 cents; 50
for 20 cents; 100, 35 cents.
"Items of Teaching Found in the Book of Mormon." Compiled by the Independence Religio Good Literature Committee. A tract of ten pages. Three for 5 cents; 12
for 15 cents; 100 for $1.00.

"Latter Day Saints; Who Are They?" by
Elder T. W. Williams. Three for 5 cents;
12 for 15 cents; 100 for $1.01.
"Is Water Baptism Essential to Salvation?" by Elder Joseph Luff. Three for 6cents; 12 for 16 cents; 50 for 40 cents; 100 for 75 cents.
"Seventy-one Theological Questions." Per

red under goulapping cover. Size, olapping cover.

Priest's Diary. Arranged similar as the Eider's Diary, but provides for labors connected with the office work of the Priest. Price .....$0.10

Teacher's Diary. Arranged for the duties and labors of the Teacher. Price.

.....$0.10

Evanalia Lost. Duet arranged for goprano and tenor or two female voices. Price. $0.10

Admonition. A song of seven verses, given by the Spirit through Elder Joseph Luff. Suitable size to be fastened in hymnal. Price 5 cents per dozen; per 100.......$0.25

Rules. Local library rules, per

S Department Supplies. Leaflet of Instruction No. 2. Per dozen, 10 cents; per 100 $0.40 Membership Cards, per dozen, 5 cents; per 100 $0.00 Membership Cards, per dozen, 5 cents; per 100 $0.00 Membership Cards, per dozen, 5 cents; per dozen, 5 cents; per 100 $0.00 Members Quarterly Record Envelopes, per dozen, 5 cents; per 100 $0.25 Visitor's Report Blanks, per dozen, 5 cents; per 100 $0.25 Letter of Invitation, per 100 $0.25 Letter of Invitation, per 100 $0.25 Usitor's Canyas Blanks, per dozen, 10 cents; per 100 $0.40 Quarterly Report to District Superintendent and Secretary of Local, per dozen, 5 cents; per 100 $0.25 Letter of Local, per dozen, 5 cents; per 100 $0.25 Letter of District Superintendent and Secretary of Local, per dozen, 5 cents; per 100 $0.25 Letter of $0.

Address ENSIGN PUBLISHING HOUSE, Independence, Mo.

OFFICERS VISITING CARD
We have for sale a universal visiting card to be used by Branch Officers. It is arragned with spaces for recording names of those in families belonging to the church and also for those not belonging, space for noting condition, dates of visitis (day, month and year), and names of visiting officers, also space for remarks. This card when properly filled out shows the names of all members of the family visited, non-members as well as members and whether their spiritual condition is excellent, fair or poor, the name of the officer visiting the family and the date of the visit, also the address of the family, and any other information it might be wise to add under head of Remarks. There should be at least one card for every family in the branch. The cardis are 437% inches. The price is 8 cents a dozen or 40 cents a hundred. Address, Ensign Publishing House, Independence, Mo.

FOR SALE

A blacksmith shop in Mapleton, Kansas. Plenty of work for two men. If interested write to, O. A. Rounds, Mapleton, Kansas

MR & MRS. HARVEY Dr's. of Chiropractic Ki-ro-prac-tic

Phone Bell | Oilice 857 | House 755 Room 5, Carl Bid'g. Independence, Mo.

Hours 10 to 12,2to 6, evenings by appointment

UNITED ORDER OF ENOCH HOUSE. Everybody Welcome, Saints and Strangers

No. 197 North River Poulevard, near the Stone church, Best accommodations. Prices reasonable, Bell Phone 613

one 613
Chas. A. and Amy T. Gurwell
IN CHARGE

WAR ATLAS

Cram's Atlas of the war comprising 16 pages 11x141/2 and cover, giving fine maps of all the nations of Europe, those in war or of all the nations of Europe, those in war or likely to be especially emphasized. On the two inside cover pages is given the army and navy equipment of all the European nations as well as the United States and Japan. With this Atlas in connection with daily news one may be able to locate the movements of the armies and have a more comprehensive idea of how the war is being conducted.

ONLY 25 CENTS Get them of Ensign Publishing House, Independence, Mo. MY HOME FOR SALE and rivive FOR SALE

Good huse of 7 rooms, basement and large double cellar, small barn and other out buildings, coccided the state of t

GINSENG.

The growing of GINSENG is a profitable industry, an Agricultural Business with good profits attached. Persons with a small parcel of land can start a good paying business with a small investment that yields good dividends. Send for our booklet, "The A B C of Ginseng", get our prices, and learn how to better your financial condition. Address

Chas. F. Church & Son.

Lamoni, Iowa

W. E. MESSENGER, M. D.

Physician and Surgeon. Calls answered day or night. Office and Residence 808 W. Maple Ave. Independence, Mo. Independence, Mo. Bell Phone 12

Special attention given to Anesthetics

FOR SALE

5 room cottage, pantry and bath, bath not completely furnished. Street improvements in. Lot 50x200 ft. House is 4 years old, 4 1-2 blocks from stone church, 4 blocks from street car and 7 blocks to school.

Address Independence Stake Bishopric.

Have You Planned Your Summer Vacation?

JUST TAKE AN ALTON TRAIN

"THE ONLY WAY" CHICAGO

THE HUMMER Leaves Kansas City Arrives Chicago

THE NIGHTINGALE Leaves Kansas City Arrives Chicago

No matter where you wish to go to spend your vacation, our corps of vacation experts will arrange schedules and itineraries that will make travel a pleasure to you. Big lake boats and swift resort specials for both near and far Wisconsin and Michigan Resorts, also to Atlantic City and Canadian resorts.

$56.50 ROUND TRIP RATE Buffalo and Niagara Falls

Ask or write us about our

Which includes meals and berths on the boat for a solid week

Junction City Ticket Office, 9th, Main

and Delaware. Both phones Main 542. W. C. MUELLER,

General Agent Passenger Dept. C. & A. R. R.

RAILROAD TIME TABLES.

MISSOURI PACIFIC R. R.

MAIN LINE-EAST BOUND.

102 K C & Joplie Mail 12 Sam 121 Kansas City & Joplie Local Mail 13 Staps 1625 at m 104 Samsas City & Joplie Local Mail 15 Sams 1625 at m 104 Sams 1625 at m 105 Sams 1625 at m 104 Sams 1625 at m 105 Sams 163 Sams 1

201 Joplin to Kansas City 3 St. Louis to California Special 37 Sedalia, and Nevada Local 7 Fast Mail (no stop) 207 Joplin to Kansas City Express 1 Colorado and St. Joe Express 521 St. Louis Local (all stops) 6 02 a m 6 57 a m 9 32 a m 9 01 a m 2 67 p m 4 51 p m 6 25 p m

LEXINGTON BRANCH-EAST BOUND.

22 K.C. to Sedalia 624 K.C. to Sedalia

WEST BOUND.

23 Sedalia to Kansas City 621 Sedalia to Kansas City

T. A. JOHNSON, Agent, Independence, Mo

Entered at the Post Office at Independence, Mo., as Second Class Matter

OUR CREED: "ALL TRUTH."

VOL. 25

INDEPENDENCE, MISSOURI, THURSDAY, OCTOBER 22, 1914

NO. 43

A Alonsill to Inustrop

ZION'S ENSIGN

Published by the Reorganized Church of Jesus Christ of Latter Day Saints, every Thursday, at Independence, Mo., at $1.00 per year.

CHARLES FRY, EDITOR W. H. DEAM, Bus. MANAGER

In writing concerning subscriptions, always give the nam of the Post Office to which your paper has been going, as by so doing the When design as the subscriptions always give the day as the new address, and when sending subscriptions alway state whether it is a renewal or a new subscriptions.

whether it is a renewal or a new subscription

In making remittances Money Orders are preferable. If coln is sent it should be folded in a card so it will not lose out and then enclosed in an envelope with sport letter. Be sure and siny opyr name and sity your full address. All business letters should be addressed publication on same sheet with that which is of a business nature. Address all letters and make all remittances payable to

ENSIGN PUBLISHING HOUSE, Independence, Mo

Thou must be true thyself, If thou the truth would'st teach; Thy soul must overflow if thou Another soul would'st reach: It needs the overflow of heart To give the lips full speech.

Think truly, and thy thoughts Shall the world's famine feed; peak truly, and each word of thine Shall be a fruitful seed; Live truly, and thy life shall be A great and noble creed.

—Horatius Bonar.

STATE-WIDE PROHIBITION IN VIRGINIA.

A greater victory for State-wide prohibition than its friends dreamed of, was won last week, when Virginia went dry by a vote of 32,825. the outlying counties would go for prohibition both sides expected, but neither was prepared for such a slump in the cities. Richmond, Alexandria, Norfolk, and Williamsburg went 'wet," but even these were by majorities far below the estimate of the Self-Government League. Staunton, Roanoke, Lynchburg, Petersburg, Fredericksburg, Portsmouth, Newport News, Bristol, and other similar towns ( most of which had been relied upon to add to the "wet" vote, turned up in the "dry" column. Even in Richmond, where prohibition was not believed to have a large following, the "drys" made a much better showing than they themselves anticipated. There were 10,193 votes polled, and the "wet" majority was 2,185. About the only city that did better than the "wets" the only city that did better than the "wets" expected was Norfolk, which they carried by 521. The total vote cast was 121,763, divided as follows: Dry, 77,453; wet, 44,310. With the possible exception of the Third District, every Congressional district has gone for prohibition. Virginia thus joins her neighbors, West Virginia, North and South Carolina, Tennessee and Georgia, in the prohibition column.—The Presbyterian.

TIME AS TRUTH'S ARBITER.

Truth is eternal. Though it may be counted as error by men and rejected, time is always in its favor and the years will bring to man such proofs as will force conviction upon their minds. The divine utterances associated with the restoration of the gospel in the early part of the last century were rejected as false by the whole Christian world, but so far time has been proving true all the statements purporting to have been given to the Church by revelation. In the following we notice but one of these statements and give a few of the evidences of its correctness.

As early as eighteen hundred and twenty it was related by Joseph Smith, who was then but a boy of fourteen years of age, that upon desiring to unite with a church, and not knowing which of the many was right, he went and inquired of the Lord in accordance with Biblical instruc-tion as found in James 1:5 which says: "If any of you lack wisdom, let him ask of God, that giveth to all men liberally, and upbraideth not; and it shall be given him." He says:

I was answered that I must join none of them, for they were ail wrong, and the personage who addressed me said that all their creeds were an abomination in his sight; that those professors were all corrupt; that they draw near to me with their lips, but their hearts are far from me; they teach for doctrine the commandm me, they was n for doctrine the commandments of men, having a form of godliness, but they deny the power thereof.

Naturally such a statement was resented bitterly by both ministers and members of the several churches, and brought upon him immediate and perpetual persecution, but he, with those who afterwards became his followers and supporters in the work he was called to do, maintained its correctness against overwhelming opposition. Since that day the claim of this man has been under the test of time, as also the claims of those who opposed him, and it has not been difficult to see that in the many creed revisions, and the many changed opinions upon points of doctrine, there has been a general admission upon the part of the churches that he was correct.

But time has not stopped its work, and the evidences still multiply. Forces have been at work which have revolutionized thought and teaching in the churches. The errors of doctrine and creed have become apparent, and the tendency to discard these errors has been so violent that much of truth itself with which the errors were associated has been swept away also, and today Christianity as held by both Catholic and Protestant churches offers little that has been unshaken by the revolutionary forces. As may be expected some have opposed these changing views, holding to the old forms and teachings, but even these are yielding to the irresistable arguments of modern thinkers. "Current Opinion" for October contains the following:

Can traditional orthodoxy hold its own? That it can-not has been the insistence of the representatives of pro-gressive theological and religious thought all along, but this has been met with a vigorous denial on the part of the protagonist of the old faith. Now the latter are evidently yielding and are trying to determine just how much must be yielded up by the church to modern thought.***

Speaking of the writing of Pastor Primarius Hunziker, of Hamburg, one of the conservative class, it sums up his conclusions thus:

The results of the historical consideration of the Bible and its religious teachings, especially in regard to the sources and basis of Christanity, demand that the following old views of the church must be discarded if the church's thinking and the scientific thought of the age are not to become absolutely irreconcilable: 1. The doctrine of the verbal inspiration of the Scriptures is absolutely and forever gone. It is only a burden to theology to try to maintain it, nor is it necessary to

2. The exclusive supernaturalistic conception of the Bib'ical history, according to which it s the record only of a divine plan and its providential development, has become entirely untenable.

3. The traditional dogmas of the old church no means the product of purely Biblical thought; they contain much that is of a human origin, and the terms "Biblical teachings" and "Church teachings" are by no means identical.

The religious fundamental principles of the reformation, the formal, that the Scriptures are the sole and absolute sources of faith and life; and the material, that assource sources or ratin and me; and the material, man man is justified by faith alone, have never been consist-ently carried out either in the history of the Protestant churches nor n the Confessions, nor in the great dog-maticians of the 17th century, the defenders of ortho-

Hunziker further says:

The conviction that the church must give up these doctrines has long since been felt by the thinkers that is now fast filtering into the minds and hearts of the laity. * * There is no doubt that a process of doctrinal disintegration is now going on within the Church's thinking Even the fundamental principles of the plan of salvation, such as the divinity of Christ, are becoming the object of general skepticism

These conclusions, which are the conclusions of multitudes of advanced thinkers within the churches, clearly acknowledge that much of what has been held as Bible doctrine, and as part of the Christian religion, which has been set forth in the various creeds, has since been discarded as being inconsistent and out of harmony with truth as it is now understood. We do not say that all the discarded doctrines are wrong, not that all the advanced ideas of modern thought are right, out believe that the great admixture of error in the teachings of the many churches has cast a mist of doubt over the accompanying truth until men are led to question the whole, and upon their discovery of the error, the truth has suffered as a consequence through their inability to draw closely enough the line of distinction between the two. But in these "compulsory retrogressions of the church" is found the acknowledgement that Joseph Smith's announcement of the words of divine revelation was true.

One has but to read the religious and scientific journals of the day to find an abundance of evidence along this line. Not only are doctrines being discarded but men are losing faith in the organic forms, and are substituting new ones for the old. The churches themselves are coming to sense a dearth of the divine Spirit which Jesus promised should accompany the church through all the ages, and their moral influence is but little regarded by the world at large. The weakness of the churches is felt but those suffering from them are not able to define the causes nor point out the remedy. We note a few statements of leading men:

There is something the matter with the churches * * * We are compelled to say that there is a sort of crisis at the present time in the life of the churches and that evidently there is something of considerable influence for evil at work in them. *** What is the matter with the churches ?--R. M. Couler in The Presbyterian.

There are those whose numbers and intelligence cannot be ignored, who believe that the church is approaching, if she has not already entered upon the era of the great, final apostasy. They point to the startling growth of unbelief in the Bible, and the rejection of all the essential truths of Christianity during the last fifty years.— Rev. T. S. Childs, D. D.

The greatest weakness in the church and the pulpit is the weakness of witness, its uncertainty and its suppression of truth.—The Presbyterian, Jan. 29, 1913.

The plaint comes from every land, "What is the matter with the church?" *** The power is not operating. What and where is the power to insure great and triumphant results in Christian enterprise? ** Where intend in the July Spirit who can chill the late that phant results in Christian enterprise? *** Where in-deed is the Holy Spirit—who can tell; why does not his mighty work appear? Rev. Joseph H. Bradley, D. D. The spirit of the churches is the selective spirit.

their structure and by their doctrines they are, when literally interpreted, out of tune with the master music of our age. * * * As a whole the church remains strangely detached from the vital interests of the masses, as well as from the controlling spirit of the intellectual world—
Frank I. Paradise in Harvard Theological Review, October, 1908.

Evidences of the effectiveness of church organization, doctrine and spirit, are multiplying rapidly since the Christian nations of Europe have given themselves over to barbaric war, and from many quarters comes the lament that "The Church has failed." Is it not time that men were searching deeper than ever before in determining the character of the foundation upon which they have been building? Many of the churches are but "accidents of history;" they arose as protests against false trachings and gross practices, but, as in all such occasions, extreme doctrines, and extreme forms of worship were adopted which at once became barriers to the recention of any further truth.

But when time was ripe for the introduction of the fulness of the gospel the Lord revealed himself to men as in former times, and under the divine direction and authority the Church of Jesus Christ was organized upon the same principles as are taught in the New Testament, the same organization, and the same Spirit with all its gifts and blessings. While time has forced a change of attitude upon other churches, the church of Jesus Christ has remained unmoved, and though the "darkness comprehendeth it not," its truth is shining today with a brighter radiance than ever before. That portion of God's Spirit which formerly accompanied the Christian churches which taught according to the best light they had, has been, since the restoration of the full gospel, withdrawn, or is being withdrawn, as was declared by the Lord would be the case when he called all men to come to the greater light, saying: "He that repents not, from him shall be taken even the light which he has received, for my Spirit shall not always strive with man, saith the Lord of Hosts." (Doctrine and Covenants 1:5.)

Time is working great changes in the world, and the final testing of all things is at hand. The astonishing growth of unbelief in the plain teachings of the Bible, as well as the many doubtful or erroneous doctrines held by the churches, indicates a breaking down of human institutions and the withdrawal of the Holy Spirit as noted above. The revelation also states (1835) that "the day speedily cometh, the hour is not yet above. but is nigh at hand, when peace shall be taken from the earth, and the devil shall have power over his dominion," which is today in evident process of fulfillment.

The gospel in its fulness is the only means by which peace can be maintained. By its restoration to the world there is offered a way of escape from the terrible calamity of war and other destructive powers. It offers a solution to the world's problems, a remedy for every evil, an open field for research, and a help in every noble endeavor. But as in former ages it has been rejected by the masses who have failed to discern its light and see its glory. Being the truth of God it can afford to await the arbitrament of time for its vindication. The statement we have noted regarding the defectiveness of human creeds and institutions is but an incident in connection with the restoration of the gospel, but the manner in which it has been proven true, in spite of the opposition of the Christian world, should give good reasons for a thorough investigation of the whole message.

INDEPENDENCE ITEMS.

After a wet and very gloomy week we are in the enjoyment of most lovely autumn weather which helped to gladden the hearts of the Saints on the Sabbath. In the morning Bishop Bullard was the preacher. Prior to his sermon the beautiful anthem, "How beautiful upon the moun-tains," etc., was rendered by the choir in a manner that tams," etc., was rendered by the chorr in a manner that certainly gave inspiration to the words expressed and entered into the very recesses of the soul. The speaker took as the basis of his remarks the 9th verse of the third chapter of first Corinthians, "For we are laborers together with God," in connection with Matt. 11:39, together with God," in connection with man, "Take my yoke upon you, and learn of me; for I am meek and lowly of heart; and ye shall find rest for your souls." He said the highest honor that man can have is to be a laborer with Christ. Although Christ is exalted above all that can be named he reached that exhated place through his willingness to labor in the most menial attitude for the benefit of mankind. Christ said, "Learn of me." We can learn of him only by studying his work and profiting thereby. He spoke of the demand for help for those suffering because of the great conflict going on in the east, and of the need for sacrifice and consecration. He east, and of the need for sacrifice and conse-cration. He said that if ever there was a time when Zion should arise and put on her beautiful garments (using the sentiment in the anthem) it is now, that Zion can never arise and put her beautiful garments unless the people of God observe the law of equality, that all may have a stewardship.

In the evening the seating capacity of the church was taxed by the large assembly that came to hear Judge E. E. Porterfield of Kansas City. The house began to fill soon after seven o'clock, many coming early, partly to be sure to get a seat and partly to be on time for the choir concert which began at 7:30 and lasted half an hour. The music rendered was highly appreciated by the large audience. The Judge said that it looked like nearly all of Independence was in the church, and that there were as many in the choir as are usually seen in church congregations. However, the Judge cither slightly overestimated the audience or underestimated the twelve thousand population of Independence. His subject was citizen building. He said that in order to have bood citizens there must be good boys. He told of reformatory laws, of the juvenile courts, the first one of which was established in Chicago. He told of the good the McCune Home was doing for boys, of the good the mother's endowment fund was doing, by making it possible for mothers to stay at home where they can look after their boys. Hany boys are bad simply because they are neglected and allowed to go where they please and get into In the evening the seating capacity of the church was lected and allowed to go where they please and get into bad company and acquire bad habits, leading from bad to worse. The big audience showed appreciation of the remarks of the Judge.

James is often quoted by Latter Day Saints to people who contend that faith only is necessary to salvation, and that works are good, but have no saving efficacy. The "faith only" people everled the fact that it is in The "faith only" people overlook the fact that it is im-possible to have faith without works, or to perform works without faith. They are inseparable. Hear what that great paper of principle, the Kansas City Star in an editorial says about faith and works:

Faith Without Works?

In how many of the three hundred churches of Kansas City has a single word been preached about the great campaign should be thundering from every pulpit in this for the closing of the roadhouses, where hundreds of girls are ruined each year; for the loosening of the grip which are runed each year; for the loosening of the grip which the whiskey ring has upon the government of this city and county and the state legislature?

"What dees it profit, my brethren, though a man say he hath fath, and hath not works?" says St. James. And again: "Sten so fath, if it hath not works, is dead."

If ever there was a time when the churches of Kinfeas City ought to be at work, it is now. The issues of this campaign should be thundering from every pulpit in this city.

Alfred Peterson spoke truth when he said Monday: "It is the minister who says that the church must not get into politics that is to be feared in this campaign."

The Bible is now printed in about six hundred languages, and the last twelve months eighteen million guages, and the last twelve months eighteen million Bibles have been printed and put into circulation by the versions Bible societies. It is safe to say that the Inspired version, is not included as part of the eighteen millions. Whereever the circumstances require these Bibles are distributed gratuitous, but in order for the societies to do so there must be enormous donations. Saints often wonder so there must be enormous gonations. Saints often would why our church books and tracts cannot be given away or sold at nominal prices. They could be if got out in million or hundred thousand quantities and backed up by donations. The expense must be met in some way. Why not have a Latter Day Saint Book and Tract Society. The Religio has done something along that line in the way of translating into other languages, but a society formed with the translation and distribution of church books and tracts as its sole and only work could accomplish much more. The efforts of the Religio along that line are commendable, but little has been done along the line of free disand, but fixe may been used and guide the contribution, except what the good literature committees have done, and that is not very extensive, and very little compared to what might be done by a society of the whole church, composed of members of the church, but necessity. sarily a church institution. W. H. Deam.

INDEPENDENCE, SECOND BRANCH.

Sunday, Oct. 11th, at 11 a. m., our pastor, H. W. Goold, occupied. During his discourse he gave timely advice to the members of the branch. At the 7:20 hour Bro. A. K. Dillee of the local priesthood interested the audience on the subject of the millenial reign, using both the inspired anslation and Doctrine and Covenants.

In the afternoon Bro. Thomas Snow, a brother of Elder L. Snow, was baptized in the font and was confirmed ät the same hour.

On last Sunday morning Elder Joseph Luff spoke to On last Sunday morning Elder Joseph Luit spoke to an attentive audience. He read Isaiah 24:1, in connection with other scripture. The trend of his subject was, Let him that thinketh he standeth, take heed, lest he fall. Said that Christ was not divided, that we must be for him or against him.

The 2:30 prayer meeting in charge of Brn. H. W. Goold. B. J. Scott and J. F. Curtis with the many testimonies given was a spiritual feast, also the Spirit of exhortation was given from the stand.

At the evening hour Elder B. J. Scott interested his hearers, including a number of visitors, using numerous quotations in his remarks. The speaker said in part the early persecution of this church is not to be compared with the spiritual conflict that is being met with today.

G. W. Tousley.

WALNUT PARK.

At this little planting in God's vineyard, we are still striving to go onward and come tip higher, not in a wordly way, but in God's way. It seems to be difficult for many of our people to discern the difference between "coming way, but in God's way.

of our people to discern the difference bytween community higher" and "worldly progress."

Our Sunday school is on the move and we now lack room. At the 11 o'clock hour our venerable Patriarch, I. N. White, spoke to us encouragingly, giving us mucit a concrience in life and showing a necessity of living that we might have a of his experience in life and showing a necessity of living in closer touch with the Divine that we might have a testimony of this work.

The Saints at Walnut Park have been feasting for a week on spiritual food presented by the Lord's servant and our brother, James A. Gillen. His much searching and our prother, dames A. Gillen. His much searching in the scientific field has demonstrated to all who heard him that he is adequate for the emergency of the case, as is proven by his deductions. He plainly showed that every injunction or requirement of the divine law is in harmony with every principle of truth, and there can be no conflict, therefore, between true religion an science. As Saints of God it behooves us to seek after truth, accept it and obey it as fast as we become acquainted

The splendid interest manifested in the young people's prayer meeting on Sunday mornings show growth and levelopment. We hope it will continue. development.

KNOBNOSTER.

We have just closed our meetings held here by Bro. O. R. Miller who came here to spend a few days with his father's family and while the weather was very bad, we had a very good attendance. He preached Surday night Oct. 11, and the following week up to and including Friday night.
On Thursday and Friday nights he lectured on "Mormonism exposed"—"Was Joseph Smith a prophet of God." Called attention to Math. 7th chapter, 15th verse. "Beware of false prophets which come to you in sheep's cloth-

Our services last Sunday were Sunday school at 9:45, and at 11 we had Brn. Earl Corthell, McWithy and Sr. R. O. Self who conducted institute work using the rest of the forenoon.. At 2:15 a continuation of the institute of the forenoon. At 2:15 a continuation of the institute work was had first, some work by Miss Mary Gregg comprising some drills and exercises with the children, which was fine, then a talk by Bro. Corthell showing the success of the future depended upon the effect of our own work with our children today. Sr. Self then took up Home Department work, showing the great need of that work, and that we should not get discouraged if we did not gain ground as fast as we thought we should, but to continue and we would find some good come out of our efforts.

And in connection with the exercises we had some good orchestral music: All seemed to have a good time and the Spirit of the Master was with us.

J. A. S.

OMAHA, NEBRASKA.

"Perish policy and cunning! Perish all that fears the light, Whether losing, whether winning, "Trust in God and do the right."

The conventions and conference at Blair, Nebr., held the 9th, 10th and 11th were interesting and enjoyable. Sr. Blanche Andrews, state worker, assisted much in her talks and taking charge of the question box. The instruction and sermons of Apostle C. A. Butterworth was also much appreciated. Elders W. E. Shakespeare and Paul N. Craig of the missionary force were present.

Sr. Paul M. Hanson, as also her mother, Sr. Leeka, as been visiting Sr. Lorena Leeka for the past few weeks, but have now returned home.

The chicken dinner in the basement of the church on the evening of the 15th, proved quite a success, netting the Ladie's Auxiliary about $55.00. Srs. Eden and Dellar will entertain this society on Wednesday, Oct. 21st.
The Local Priesthood have taken up the study of the

The Local restance have each restance of the Church History, and have very interesting meetings.

The prayer meeting at 11 o'clock Sunday, though not so well attended was very spiritual. Many were the prayers offered for Bro. Arthur Spence, who was very seriously injured in an automobile accident, on the 11th of the Proposition of the control of the inst. The physicians pronounced his injury concussion of the brain and said he could not live, but through administration has been gradually improving and may re The parents from Deloit, Iowa, worshipped with us and their testimonies were encouraging to others.

"Simple rule, and safest guiding, Inward peace, and inward might, Star upon our path abiding, "Trust in God and do the right." Alice Cary Schwartz,

345 Omaha Nat., Bank Bldg.

SEATTLE.

Some of our musical-stirring young men are about to organize an orchestra which will add attraction and efficiency to our services. They have the talent and all they need is organization and execution both of which they will do.

In company with my missionary companion we visited Everett to fill our regular monthly appointment. We held services at eleven and three. Some there we think are near the kingdom, among whom we met a Mrs. Morgan, near the kingdom, among whom we met a Mrs. Morgan, a cousin of our faithful missionary, Francis Ebeling.

The Seattle services were all well attended. The interest in Standay school and Religio is on the increase.

The Religio paper was read by Bro. Amos Rhodes, the editor. Sr. Earlita Smith-Inslee was elected as editor. for the next quarter. The morning sermon was by Bro. A. Gorbett. We returned in time for the evening Religio and sermon.

Wm. Johnson is in the north part of the district in the interest of the blessed cause.

Bro. and Sr. S. B. Cox, pastor of Centralia Branch. called on us recently. He was called to Lacoma to preach the funeral of an old friend, and came on to Srattle. Brn. Shippy and Hedding had just closed an interesting series of meetings in Centralia. Some talk of a debate

Our young people will hold a prayer meeting specially for themselves on the third Sunday of each month at 9 o'clock. The arrangement grew out of a spontaneous desire on their part.

J. M. Terry.

102 North 39th St., Seattle, Wash, Oct. 4.

OAKLAND, GAL

OARLAND, GALE

The pen of the Oakland scribe has been on the shelf for some time, not because there is nothing to write about, however. Since our last report the preaching has been done by Brn. Parker, Ingham, Sheohy, Savage, Lincoln and the writer. The Sunday school and Religio have been up to the standard—well attended, interesting and environment. ing and spiritual.

ing and spiritual.

Our sacramental service oi October 3rd was interesting because of the large attendance and the many prayers and testimonies. In the evening Bro. Parker preached a fine sermon to a good sized audience.

Our branch is doing nicely under the presidency of Elder R. J. Parker, and he is doing all he can to advance the work here. We find him a willing worker. He and Sr. Parker are loved by the Saints. May the good Lord bless them in their new field of labor.

Three of our faithful sisters have been very sick, Sroung, Sr. Hannah Brown, and Sr. E. R. Williams, but we are pleased to say they are improving. Many were the prayers that were offered in their behalf, and we feel that they were heard and answered. 1022 Chestnut St.

J. W. Presley.

SANFRANCISCO, CALIF.

On Sep. 27 we had with us Patriarch W. A. McDowell, who preached in our church both morning and evening. He was listened to with pleasure and prifit by the Saints, and few strangers in attendance. He was also present at our Wednesday evening prayer meeting. Last Sunday we had our regular sacrament service, which was well attended. Apostle F. M. Sheehy with his wife and hermother were present. The time pas profitably spent in testimony and prayer. The writer was the speaker in the evening, subject, 'Our gospel came not unto you in word only, but also in power, and in the Holy Ghost, and much Bishop C. A. Parkin has been absent on a three weeks Bisnop C. A. Parkin has been absent on a three weeks trip to Fresson and Tulare, preaching and attending to church work. Sunday at 9 a. m. our young people's prayer meeting was held. This is giving our young folks much assurance, and gratifying them for future usefulness. Several visiting Saints were with us Sunday. Our Sunday school and Bulking our still Sunday. Sunday school and Religio are still flourishing.

www.LatterDayTruth.org

CORRESPONDENCE B. mer mer mer average wer mer aver aver

Fruitland, N. Mex., Sep. 7.

Pruttand, N. Mex., Sep. 7.

Dear Ensign:—Although I have not written to your valuable pages for some time, it is not because my love for the gospel has grown cold or that I have not been busy.

After general conference, as soon as I could get things in shape at home I wended my way westward to Monta Vista, Colo, where I met my co-laborer, Bro. J. D. Curtis, and we remained there for some time and at the close of the meeting three were baptized. From there to Bayheld where we held forth for six weeks and at the close baptized four and left many investigating. After clos-ing our meeting at Bayfield we went to Arriolo and a crowd of people were getting ready to go to Mesa Verda Park and extended the invitation to us which was gladly accepted.

As we went among the ruins, how thankful we were that we had a true history of those people. Little did I think when going to school and reading of the Cliff Dwellers that I would ever have the opportunity of visit-

Bro. Curtis and I separated Aug. 8th, he remaining at Cortez and I coming down into New Mexico with Bro. W. B. Farley of Durango and held meetings at Flora Vista for three weeks in the school house and would have held longer but school was going to start and would not allow preaching at that time. I came to this place last Fri-day and began meeting last night. This is a Brighamite day and began meeting last night. This is a Brighamile settlement, and to them this is Zion.

There is another thing I have learned by being among them, that it does no good to tell them of the doctrines that Brigham Young and others of their leaders advocated unless you have their books to prove it. They deny the Adam-God theory as well as blood atonement and say we have garbled extracts, but when I told them while I only had extracts yet I knew their books taught it because I had read it in the Journal of Discourses, and then of course I was a 'liar.'' It is a very easy matter then of course I was a "har." It is a very easy matter for them to tell people they are liars.

Bro. Peter Adamson is assisting me in the meetings at this place. I do not know just how long I shall remain here as I have promises from two different parties of a trip back to Kansas City, to assist them with stock they are going to ship.

I like my new field of labor fine, but of course would rather be nearer home, but I am trying to get myself in that condition to say I will go where the appointing powers think best, yet I can't help but hope that in the future they will not think best to send me quite so far.

Ever working and praying for the redemption of Zion, I am in gospel bonds, Amos T. Higdon. Field address, Box 543, Durango, Colo.

Idaho Falls, Idaho, Oct. 12.

Idaho Falis, Idaho, Oct. 12.
Editor Ensign:—Perhaps a few lines from me might be read with interest by some. I have labored in Eastern Idaho so far this conference year; and, judging from visible results, the time has been practically lost, so far visible results, the time has been practically lost, so and as holding meetings and interesting people in religion is concerned. If I were a dancng master, I think I could find plenty to do all the time, but not having the skill, activity, or inclination to dance, I cannot engage in that work, and as for preaching it is in small demand; at least such as I can do.

If I could make a strong argument or plead for polygamy, I would have plenty of listening ears, but most lygamy, I would have plenty of listening ears, but most ears are closed against any argument against it. Occurse there are people here in the country who do not believe in polygamy, but most all are so thoroughly imbued with the idea that the faith of others must not be criticised, "let others alone, preach your own faith,"—that it is difficult to arouse interest in religious questions. Further East and South I have preached for a week or ten days, each day and night, with practically the same people at all the services. Sometimes farmers would leave their work long enough to attend the eleven o'clock service, then back to work in the afternoon, and attend service at night. Some were interested for the work's sake; some would probably have gladly given attend service at night. Some were interested for the work's sake; some would probably have gladly given their time in hope of finding some valuable point of attack so as to overthrow it; but I remember different times and places where day and night meetings were held and good interest shown. Most places here in this facil are the same times and places where the shown is the same times and the same times and the same times are the same times. field, one or two meetings per week is as far as the interest extends.

terest extends.

Last Friday and Saturday I put about four hundred and fifty hand bills in private houses, stores, farm wagons, and on telegraph poles, etc., amouncing services in one of the theatre buildings for Sunday, at 2:30 and 7:30 p. m. At the afternoon meeting there were four, and at the evening about twenty-four persons present; all attentive except four or five young Mormon people, (one of them the hishor's son), who seemed more interested in tellithe bishop's son.) who seemed more interested in talk ing themselves than in listening to me. During the week we cannot have the building so I don't know yet whether I will be able to hold other meetings in town or not. If I was a street preacher, I might do something that way, as there seems to be many idle men on the streets. But I'm not Wish I was

I'm not. Wish I was.

Sr. Annie Vincent, daughter of Elder T. R. White, of Lowry City, Mo., generously bore the expense of printing the band bills, and has also kindly given me room in the rooming house which she is conducting with success. She is one of the few willing workers in this field.

As a resul, of the advertising we made the acquaintance of Sr. Fauts, of whom we did not before know, Sr. Vincent thinking the was the only member of the Church here, while Sr. Frank was under the impression that she was the lone representative of the church membership in Idaho Falls. She formerly lived at or near Shelby,

Iowa. They will doubtless enjoy association with each other in future

Interval advantage enjoy association and can other in future.

I don't know just where I will go from here. I seem to be like a poor checker player. I have to study a long time, and then very likely make a wrong move.

I trust all things that make for her reception are moving along nicely in Zlon. More appreciation ought to be shown for the good things to be had in Zlon, especially from the spiritual view-point. I don't pretend to say that all is ns it should be; I am sorry to say it is not, but those who desire with full purpose of heart so serve God, can surely find all necessary help and encouragement in Zion. But they must be willing and obedient. "The willing and obedient shall eat the good of the land of Zion in these last days; but the rebellious shall be cut willing and obedient shall eat the good of the land of Zion in these last days; but the rebellious shall be cut out of the land of Zion, and shall be sent away," etc. D. C. 64:7. As to location, Jackson County and the re-sions round about were referred to in the revelations, as Tion '

Wonderful, stupendous thought! Who was to be sent away? The rebellious. Who was sent away? Well the history of the church a few years after the death of the prophet will answer, but this question ought to be carefully considered by every Brighamite in the land. They say Joseph the Martyr prophesied that the Saints would go to the Rocky Mountains; if so, is not the reason would go to the Rocky Mountains; if so, is not the reason clear? They were told in 1841 to build a temple on a certain spot in the city of Nauvoo, and were granted sufficient time to build it, with a promise that:—"If ye labor with all your might, I will consecrate that spot, and it shall be made holy; and if my people shall hearken unto my voice, and unto the voice of my servants whom I have appointed to lead my people, behold, verily I say unto you, they shall not be moved out of their place." D. C. 107:10, 13. (Brighamite Edition, 124.)

That they were "moved out of their place is as certain as can he; and it is equally elear that they were "sent as can be; and it is equally clear that they were "sent away." The reason is also clear: They did not "hearken unto the voice of the Lord," nor unto the voice of those whom he had "appointed to lead them."

The "pure in heart" and those who seek to be, are con ing to Zion with songs of everlasting joy to build up the waste places thereof.

As it was said of the building of the Temple, in the ays of Ezra, so may it be said of the building up of Zion today:

"And this work goeth just on and prospereth in their

In bonds ,

T. C. Kelley.

Kenneth, Mo., Editor Ensign:—I often wonder if the many dear Saints Editor Ensign:—I often wonder if the many dear Saints who have shown me so much kindness in the past ever think of me now. Often I get to studying of the many Saints who have helped me to bear the burdens of my past life, and now forced to live isolated from all of them, and all the comforts I derive from them is just what little the dear Ensign brings me once a week. My heart often swells until my eyes fill with tears. I attend a Union Sunday School, but there are no Saints there but myself, and I am called a Mormon. I thank God that he has been with me all lange the invaveys of my God that he has been with me all along the journeys of my sad life and has given me favor in the eyes of the people insomuch that I have been selected and elected as Bible class teacher, or superintendent of the Sunday school most of the time for two years, yet they can hardly bear to have me read chapters that their preachers don't read, or pray for God to open their minds and help them understand the gospel instead of asking him to save them before they obey it, and yet they appoint me to conduct their prayer meetings every time, and I am glad to do a little in the vineyard of the Lord. But I do long to get somewhere that I can meet in with the Saints and attend Sunday schools and prayer meetings of our own kind. And would like to ask the Saints that if they know of a place where I are set for place where I can get for myself and aged sister, any where in all this great country where we can plant a vineyard of fruits, berries, grapes, etc, and do market gardening, and attend meetings of our own kind the rest of our days, I would be so glad to find such a place. I have the experience and want a place to run shares with some good man (Saint preferred.)

With love to all, I remain yours in bonds Geo. H. Brush.

Independence, Mo., Oct. 8.

Dear Ensign:—One year ago the 10th of September, at 12 o'clock noon we left Cincinnati, Ohio, arriving in Independence on the 11th at 7 a. m. Although I did not find Independence the place I imagined it was, nevertheless it looked good to me, for I knew I had come to a place where I could go to church and have my family in Sunday school and church, which is a pleasure to me. Sunday school and church, which is a pleasure to me. At first we lived at Englewood until the 20th of February when we moved to Independence where we have been since, but I never had the privilege of attending church or Sunday school either since the annual conference in April, as our oldest son Harry broke down with that dreadful disease, pulmonary tubercolosis, and I felt it my duty to stay home and take care of him, which I did, and did everything I could do for him. On Wednesday, July 29th at 2 cycleck my be present anyon the new the second property of the second property the second property in the present anyon the second property in the second propert July 29th, at 2 o'clock p. m., he passed away at the age of 20 years, 11 months, 26 days.

It seems that since we came to Independence we have had some real trials, and sometimes I would wonder how I was ever to bear up under them, but the Lord surely was with me or I never could have gone through with what I have. My husband and son gave up good positions in Cincinnati to come here. So I think we made quite a sacrifice to come to Zion.

Both of them did not make as much money here as my husband alone made where we came from, but I have not regretted it once that we came, for there was not any of my children in the church at the time we arrived here, and since coming here there have been four of them baptized.

On July 30th, 1914, after returning from my son's funeral I was sitting on our back porch reading a sermon in the Ensign. I cannot recall the elder's name who delivered the sermon, at any rate, my husband was sitting there with me and he asked me to read it sloud to him and the children. There was some of the same words in and the children. There was some of the same words in the sermon that Bro. George Jenkins repeated while de-livering the funeral discourse of our boy. While read-ing this sermon there appeared before me my boy just as plain as the letters are here on this paper, standing in the prison house door preaching to the prisoners, with his back toward me. I stopped reading and related to my husbanid what I had seen. My daughter said to me, "Mama, it is only imagination." I told her it was not, for I could look around over the buse and you'd term. "Mama, it is only imagination." I told her it was not, for I could look around over the house and yard at any time and imagine I could see him but this was not so. In this case I really saw him. When I related this to some of my friends they told me that it was to show me that I should not grieve over my boy, for he was safe. It is awfully hard to give those dear ones up, but the Lord's will must be done so I ask an interest in all your prayers that I may be faithful to the end.

I remain your sister in Christ.

Margaret Ferguson.

Margaret Ferguson.

Standard, Miss., Sep. 24.

Dear Ensign:—We would be lost and very lonesome without the dear Ensign and Autumn Leaves. We surely enjoy the sermons and letters as we are isolated from church privileges, being the only family of Saints. from church privileges, being the only family of Saints in this community. At times we grow very lonely and long for the sweet association of the Saints. It has been twelve years since we left Escatawpa, Miss., and came to this place. There has not been an elder here but once since we came, it being twenty miles from the railroad and no conveyance for getting here except riding a log train, and they are dangerous to ride on. There are three churches out here, Baptist, Methodist and Catholic—more Catholics than anything else.

We give the Ensign to any one who will read. Had the Ensign sent one year to a non-member. There seems to be little interest. Most of the older ones are not educated and the younger class don't seem to study anything but and the younger class don't seem to study anything but worldly pleasures. All our family belong to the church but the youngest one and he is twelve years old. We would like to get a place where we can have church and Sunday school privileges, some place in Oklahoma where we could get work to do. We have two sons that are good workmen at most any kind of work, and I am a blacksmith and wheelright. If any of the Saints know where I could get a good place in my line of work and be handy to church I would be glad to hear from them. I have a place of 40 acres that I would sell or trade. It is a good place for blacksmith and wheelright, but no church privileges.

Pray for us dear Saints for we need your prayers.

Pray for us dear Saints for we need your prayers. 'e have been isolated for 12 years. Ever praying for we have been isolated for 12 years. Ever praying for God's people we are your brother and sister,

Mr. and Mrs. A B. Ferrill

Spokane, Wash., Oct. 1. Dear Ensign:—Realizing that some where in this old world of ours there are those who have shared our sorrows and also helped us reap the blessings our Father has in store for his faithful children who have drifted to parts unknown to us, nevertheless we feel that they think of us as we do of them in our prayers and con-versations and perhaps would be glad to hear from a versations and perhaps would be glad to hear from a faithful band of workers. We are glad to say that in the district the work is growing, as interest is shown, and already there has been several united in the work. We wish to speak a word of praise and encouragement to our young Sidney Gray who is with us on his first mission. We elected Bro. Gray president of our branch, unseen and unknown. So far his work has been of that nature and character that will win a victory for the status and character that will win a victory for of that nature and character that will win a victory for the cause. His helpmate is a helpmate indeed, always ready and willing to do her part and we realize she has sacrificed home and loved ones for the work, and to share the life of a missionary is not a bed of roses, and far from what the most of us are privileged to enjoy as far as things pertaining to this life are concerned-doing our share?

Our young people's prayer meeting Sunday mornings are a great help to all who attend and go prepared—an excellent way to start the Sabbath day. Our Sacrament meetings are well attended and a goodly number of strong spiritual testimonies are borne and a time of rejoicing is had. Things look hopeful and we feel that there is a bright future in store for us here.

a origin future in store for us here.

Our parsonage is coming along just fine. Last Saturday there was a mixed crowd of workers—both male and female, and the walls were rapidly lathed. If any one wants to secure young ladies to lath or those who are not inclined to cheat the birthday offering box we have

We also have other young sisters who are just as nergetic, but in a different way. They believe in complying with the word of God where it says that "marriage is ordained of God."

W. W. Wood. 127 S. Regal St

Decatur, Mich., Oct. 14. Dear Ensign:—Your pages are read with willingness of heart and enjoyed by the Spirit of a kind and loving Father. I have been picking grapes to earn the money to pay all of my church obligations, as we were to make a sacrifice in doing this. I think I have obeyed this command, for I am not very well and almost 60 years old.

As ever your sister in the one true faith,

Mrs. R. Crawford.

(Correspondence continued on page 6.)

SERMONS AND ARTICLES

MAHAFFEY'S "POSITIVE PROOF" EXAMINED. By Elder Alvin R Ellis.

It is claimed by many of our opponents that the Book of Mormon was copied from the Spalding romance. It is claimed that Sidney Rigdon stole or copied said manuscript and assisted Joseph Smith in correcting the Book of Mormon from it, as said Smith did not know enough to do it alone.

Yes, it is claimed-it is claimed- it was claimed by the chief priests among the Jews and the elders that Jesus was not resurrected, but that, "His disciples came by night, and stole him away while the soldiers slept." "And this saying is commonly reported among the Jews until this day."

After the Book of Mormon came forth, its opposers claimed that "Joseph Smith did not translate it from ancient records; but that, "Sidney Rigdon stole the Spalding manuscript which formed the basis for the Book of Mormon," and, "it is commonly reported among the Book of Mormon opposers until this day."

"Found at Last"-Mahaffey wins the belt.

Hundreds of volumes have been written against the Latter Day Saints and the Book of Mormon. Now comes a Methodist preacher by the name of Rev. J. E. Mahaffey with a seventy page book, entitled, "Found at Last! 'Positive Proof' That Mormonism is a Fraud and the Book of Mormon Grand luck, indeed! After three a Fable." fourths of a century of research by the many educated men who had access to everything that could be invented against the Latter Day Work, just think, that Providence (?) has at last, favored us with such a wonderful array of evidence!

Just listen to this self-esteemed "Positive Proof" man, on page two of his introductory note:

"It seems to be high time for some one to make a thorough investigation of the subject and give to the world the real facts in convenient, compact form. * * * All the facts presented in this volume are the results of years of careful investigation and personal research. *** The plain facts gathered from all these sources and by all these methods are so overwhelmingly convincing that I do not hesitate to pronounce it "Positive Proof."

Date of Joseph Smith's Birth Not Known.

On page 5, he says:

The date of his birth is not exactly known, but is supposed to be about the year 1798.

Is it not a little strange that after years of "careful investigation" and "personal research," that a work so valuable as this "Positive Proof" is bragged up to be, cannot give even the date of the birth of the one whom it seeks to ridicule? Wonderful "Positive Proof" that! Nearly every anti-Mormon writer, when attempting at all, to give the date of Joseph Smith's birth, agree with the authentic history of his life, that he was born Dec. 23rd, 1805.
Probably "Positive Proof" Probably.

Mr. Mahaffey freely uses such expressions as "Probably" "It is said," "Quite likely," "He would probably," "Joseph Smith probably being," "Probability of," etc. Pages 5-21.

On page 22 he says:

"We now propose to show beyond the shadow of a doubt that Sidney Rigdon was the master mind in the preparations for Smith, the "Peeker" and money digger, to pretend the discovery of the golden plates in Cummora Hill, and the final planning of the scheme of Mormonism."

He now brings forth his strong reasons with such expressions "Was doubtless," "probably it was," "very likely," "Rigdon was—or—was not," "presuming that we have clearly established the fact that Rigdon did have opportunity to get in possession of the manuscript ***, we will now examine more convincing proof of the still more convincing ground upon which rests the suspicion that Rigdon did get the Spalding manuscript from somewhere," * * * "This he did, doubtless," "probably others," "Smith probably had," "It is claimed," "It was probably," "A great deal of such testimony is at hand, but it is not thought necessary to consume the time and space that would be required to give it all. And yet, tedious as it may seem to some, it is necessary to establish all the facts as we go," "As doubtless," "I suppose there is no doubt," "has probably never been known." etc. Pages 22-34.

Mahaffey now clinches his argument:

The facts thus far established are doubtless sufficient for the ordinary mind, but as this little work is to furfor the ordinary mind, but as this little work is to fur-nish "Positice Proof," even to the most prejudiced read-er, no link in the chain must be left unhooked.***It now remains to establish beyond a shadow of doubt the points of identity between the Spalding romance and the Book of Mormon.*** probably made *** and was prob-ably never.***the devil can run a mile barefooted with a lie while some of us are hunting slippers for truth to creep out in.***The Book of Mormon is an elaboration of the Spalding romance, possessing all the essentials of the general plot, as mentioned before, * * * Probably.--Pages 42-56.

Hurrah! Hurrah! Hurrah! Three cheers for "Positive Proof" Mahaffey!

Mahaffey's "Slippers" Lost.

The following misrepresentation seems to indicate that Mr. Mahaffey was speaking from experience, when he said that "the devil can run a mile barefooted with a lie while some of us are hunting slippers for truth to creep out in." He moulds his first point of "Positive Proof" into this form:

Smith says he had been solemly warned that no other eye should ever look upon these plates. *** Mind you, Smith claimed to have had solemn warning from the angel that no other eye but his should ever behold these mysterious plates; *** and yet, eleven men testify that Smith had showed them the original plates.—Positive Proof. pages 3, 4,

Just where Joseph Smith's statement referred to is recorded, Mr. Mahaffey does not say; but of course, it must be accepted whether Joseph said it or not, if this "Positive Proof" is to settle the question.

Joseph was told the following:

I have caused you that you should enter into a covenant with me, that you should not show them except to those persons to whom I command you.—Doctrine and Covenants, 5:1.

Accordingly, eight men testified that Joseph Smith showed them the plates. Oliver Cowdery, David Whitmer, and Martin Harris testified that an angel came down from heaven and showed them the plates. The testimony of the "three" and also of the "eight" is printed in the front part of every copy of the Book of Mormon.

Book of Mormon Witnesses Misrepresented.

With reference to the witnesses, he continues: It is said that all three of the original witnesses *** avoided the falsity of their affidavits, [page 5] *** affidavit from eleven *** that they had "seen and hefted" the original plates is nauseating to the stomach. And notwithstanding the fact that these witnesses have since affirmed the falsity of their statement, yet every copy of the Book of Mormon that has been printed since that time contains the same affidavit of these men, and it is repeated in millions of pamphlets and tracts being cir-culated all over the face of the earth today. Thus it is that tons of fraudelent lies are being transported by the mails of the United States, and much of it at one cent a pound.—Positive Proof, page 37.

Martin Harris, one of the three original witnesses, who died July 10, 1875, renewed his testi-mony in two letters to Mr. H. B. Emerson, in November, 1870, and January, 1871, as follows:

***I do say that the angel did show to me the plates containing the Book of Mormon. *** No man ever heard me in any way deny the truth of the Book of Morment the and way deny the truth of the Book of Mor-mon, the administration of the angel that showed me the plates.—Church History, vol. 1, page 51.

David Whitmer, also, one of the three original witnesses, published an address at Richmond, Missouri, in 1887, from which we submit the following:

It is recorded in the American Cyclopedia and the En-cyclopedia Britannica, that I, David Whitmer, have de-nied my testimony as one of the three witnesses to the nied my testimony as one of the three witnesses to the divinity of the Book of Mormon; and that the other two witnesses, oliver Cowdery and Martin Harris, denied their testimony to that book. I will say once more to all mankind that I have never at any time denied that testimony or any part thereof. I also testify to the world that neither Oliver Cowdery nor Martin Harris ever at any time denied their testimony. They both denied reaffirming the truth of the divine authenticity of the Book of Mornon. I was recovered to denied the Oliver Cowden. mon. I was present at the deathbed of Oliver Cowdery, and his last words were: "Brother David, be true to your testimony to the Book of Mormon." He died here in Richmond, Missouri, on March 8, 1850.—David Whitmer's Address, page 8.

As to the other eight witnesses, they never denied their testimony. John Whitmer, one of the eight, wrote Heman C. Smith, December 11, 1876, as follows:

as follows:

Far West, Caldweil Co., Mo., Dec. 11, 1876.

H. C. Smith; Dear Sir;—Your letter came to hand—your request considered. First, as for giving all particulars that I know of the Book of Mormon, can not be written on one sheet of paper; therefore permit me to be brief. From what you have written I conclude you have read the Book of Mormon, together with the testimonies you read my name subscribed as one of the eight witnesses to said book. That testimony was, is, and will be true, henceforth and forever. henceforth and forever.

Respectfully yours John Whitmer. Spalding Manuscript Theory Reviewed.

What is known as the Spalding romance was written about the year 1811 by Solomon Spalding. The theory is, that he submitted his story to a printer named Patterson, in Pittsburg, Pennsylvania, for publication; and that a young man by the name of Sidney Rigdon, was working in the printing office at the time, and that he either stole or copied it. However, after Mr. Spalding's death in the year 1816, the manuscript fell back into the hands of Mr. Spalding's widow. In the year 1834, Mr. D. P. Hurlbut, an enemy to the saints, obtained the manuscript from Mr. Spalding's widow to put into the hands of Mr. E. D. Howe, who was to use it in connection with a book which he was preparing, entitled, "Mormon-ism Unveiled." Mr. Howe published his book; but did not publish the Spalding Manuscript. Why not? Because "it did not read as he expected," or, in other words, it was so different from the Book of Mormon, that to have published it, would have defeated the object of his book.

In the year 1839 or 1840 Mr. Howe sold out his business, the Painesville Telegraph, to Mr. L. L. Rice, who afterwards, moved the outfit to Honolulu, Sandwish Islands. The manuscript was supposed by Mr. Howe to have been destroyed by fire, as he wrote to Apostle T. W. Smith of the Reorganized Church, July 26, 1881, that "The manuscript that came into my possession I suspect was desroyed by fire forty years ago." Also, in a letter written by Mr. Howe to Mr. Hurlbut, August 7, 1880, and published by Mr. Mahaffey, on page 20 of his "Positive Proof," he says, "It was in my possession till after the publication of 'Mormonism Unveiled,' and then disappeared and lost, I suppose, by fire."

In the year 1885, James H. Fairchild, President of Oberlin College, Oberlin, Ohio, was visiting at Honolulu. While there, the manuscript was found among some old documents which were moved there with the outfit over forty years before.

Mr. Fairchild says:

The theory of the origin of the Book of Mormon in the traditional manuscript of Soloman Spaulding, will probab'y have to be relinquished. * * * During a recent visit to Honolulu, I suggested to Mr. Rice that he might have valuable anti-slavery documents in his possession, which he would be willing to contribute to the rich collection already in the Oberlin College Library. In persuance of this suggestion, Mr. Rice began looking over suance of this suggestion, Mr. Rice began looking over his old pamphets and papers, and at length came upon an old, worn, and faded manuscript of about one hundred and seventy-five pages, ***On the last page of this manuscript is a certificate and signature, giving the names of several persons known to the signer, who have assured him that to their personal knowledge the manuscript was the writing of Solomon Spalding. *** Mr. Rice, myself, and others, compared it with the Book of Mormon, and could detect no resemblance between the two in general or detail. *** Some other explanation of the origin of the Book of Mormon must be found, if any explanation is required .- Manuscript Found, pages

5, 6.
The following is a copy of the certificate, referrferred to, by Mr. Fairchild:

The writings of Solomon Spaulding proved by Aron Wright, Oliver Smith, John N. Miller, and others. The testmonies of the above gentlemen are now in my possession. Signed D. P. Hurlburt.—Manuscript Found, page 158.

The above certificate shows plainly that this manuscript, now at Oberlin College, is the very manuscript obtained by Mr. D. P. Hurlburt, from Spalding's widow, from Mr. E. D. Howe to use in his "Mormonism Unveiled." But, the thing has come to light and the Hurlbut-Howe Company has been unveiled.

From the University Encyclopedia, we quote the following:

The Book of Mormon was published in 1830, and it was and down of norman was published in 1830, and it was a to net time claimed that it was a plagariasm on a novel, published in 1812 and written by a clergyman several years before, but recently this book has been discovered and been compared with the Book of Mormon and it is found that they are entirely different.—University Encyclopedia, vol. 6, page 4108.

"Probably" Two or Three Manuscripts.

Since the theory has been exploded by the manuscript coming to light; the Book of Mormon opponents have invented a new story. Like Mr. Mahaffey: "Probably Solomon Spalding wrote two or three manuscripts. "Probably" he retwo or three manuscripts. "Probably" he re-wrote the story. "Probably" the one he rewrote was left with Mr. Patterson for publication. "Probably" that is the one Sidney Rigdon stole. "If" he did not steal it, "probably" he copied, for, "probably" he could remember well enough from reading it to reproduce it, he "probably" had a good memory.

The Schroeder-Mahaffey Company Limited. Mr. Mahaffey says:

Smith must furnish the reputation and Rigdon the brains. Smith has already the "peek-stone prophet and gold treasure (ligger," and Rigdon had the brains and a good deal or literary schrewdness for a man of his day.-Positive Proof, page 28.

But listen! Mr. A. T. Schroeder seems to be furnishing the "brains" in this case and the Rev. J. E. Mahaffey seems to possess the "literary shrewdness!" Mr. Mahaffey quotes, in his "Positive Proof," quite freely, from Mr. Schroeder's work. And who is this Mr. Schroeder? He is also a probably two-or-three-manuscript theory man. He says in his writings, "I can not establish these facts except by heresay evidence, which Greenleaf would bar." Mr. Mahaffey, on page 32, calls Mr. Schroeder's pamphlet a "valuable work." Mr. Schroeder calls it hearsay evidence, and Mr. Mahaffey gets it, at least, third-handed and labels it, "Positive Proof."

Mr. D. H. Bays, an able debater and anti-Mormon writer, who desired to down the Book of Mormon, after a thorough investigation of the probably two-or-three manuscript property, decided that it would not be safe to invest any capital in the deal. If there had been any profit in it, he surely would have invested. The business has somewhat fallen into the hands of the Schroeder-Mahaffey Company. We suggest that they probably got in possession of the property the same way that Rigdon probably got in possession of the Spalding manuscript.

In the Christian Evangelist, Mr. Bays replies to Mr. Schroeder as follows:

You assure me-that the first of these manuscripts outlined the story and is the one now in Ol with equal gravity, The second, you assert prepared for the printer," while in the third "the plot prepared for the printer; which is the third the purpose of the story changed as to place from which the Indians came here and the numes changed to suit the change of the plot;" and this, you assure me, "is the one which furnishes the basis for the Book of Mormon." This is a very pretty "theory," and somewhat ingenious, but where is the evidence to support it? ***I confess myself not a little surprised that an attorney, trained in a cached of institute of the surprised that an attorney, trained in a school of justice to weigh and determine the value and admissibility of evidence, would ask a candd puble to decide so grave a matter upon the bare assertion of an interested party, without the shadow of evidence to sup-

"three manuscripts" ever existed, why not produce the evidence to prove it? Why not induce that library of "over one thousand books and pamphlets" to yield up some of its hidden treasures of knowledge upon this point, and settle this mooted question once for all? Mor-monsm for more than half a century has been demanding the production of the Manuscript Found that it might be compared with the Book of Mormon. Since the dis-covery of that now historic document, and the further unquestionable fact that it bears not the slightest resemblance to the Book of Mormon, the wonderful discovery has been made that Solomon Spaulding wrote "three manuscripts!" While you affirm very dogmatically, as others have done before you, that Spaulding wrote manuscripts, yet, like your predecessors, you offer not a single fact in support of this claim. In the face of these significant facts, you with characteristic pertnacity

"If you had made any investigation worth mentioning "II you nad made any investigation worth mentioning you would have found that the absolute identity of the very unusual names in the Book of Mormon with the second Spalding Manuscript was originally one of the principal evidences of the connection between the two."
"Here we have the assumpton that a "second Spalding Mormoral" are the principal evidence of the connection between the two."

Manuscript" actually existed, and from this assumed pre jump to the conclusion that the names were ly identical" with those in the Book of Mor-"absolutely mon. My objections to this statement are:

"1. The existence of a second manuscript is assumed, not proved.

If such manuscrpt really existed, no proof is d to show the "absolute identity" of the names offered to show the "absolute ide with those in the Book of Mormon.

with those in the Book of Mormon.

"Hence, until you establish the alleged fact that such "second Spalding Manuscrpt" had a bona fide existence, and that the "very unusual names" found in the Book of Mormon are "absolutely identical" with those found in the so-called "second Spalding Manuscript," a fair-minded, just public will reject this new-tangled "Spalding Manuscript theory" as the mercest vagary of a prejudiced mind, and wholly wthout the slightest foundation in fact. I do not can that the "theorem procedure" and a contract the statement of the second second procedure of the second procedure. not say that the "three manuscripts" had no actual existbut I do say that if such manuscripts ever anything more than an imaginary existence somebody knows it; and if somebody knows it, why not have that somebody step upon the witness stand and holdly testi-fy to the fact? But why pursue this question further, fy to the fact? But why pursue this question further, since you admit that it is only a "theory"—a theory, too, supported by such a class of evdence which, as a lawyer, you well know would be rejected by any court in this broad land of ours.—Christian Evangelist, Nov. 2, 1899.

Statement of Solomon Spalding. A great deal of light can be thrown on the probably two-or-three-manuscript theory from Mr. Spalding's own statement in his introduction We quote him in part, as follows:

***I found an earthen Box with a cover which shut it perfectly tight.***When I removed the cover I found that it contained twenty-eight rolls of parchment— and—that when——appeared to be manuscripts written in eligant hand with Roman Letters and in the Latin language.***

"Extracts of the most interesting and important mat-rs contained in this roll I take the lberty to publish. * * *

To publish a translation of every particular curcumstance mentioned by our author would produce a volume too expensive for the general class of readers, But should this attempt to throw off the veil which has seeluded our view from the transactions of nations who for ages have been extinct, meet the approbation of the public, I shall then be happy to gratify the more inquisitive and learned part of my readers by a more minute publication. ***
"Now, Gentle Reader, the Translator who wishes well to thy present and thy future existence entreats thee to peruse this volume with a clear head a pure heart and a candid mind.—Manuscript Found, pages 12-14.

It is unreasonable to expect that Mr. Spalding wrote more than the one manuscript, for the following reasons:

He claims to have translated this romance from Roman and Latin manuscripts. That being the case, a second manuscript, or, even a third (granting that they were made), would be the (granting that they were induct, same as the first, with perhaps, (as in most works reviewed). some corrections. To have changed the whole plan and rewrote it or a different story altogether, would have exposed as a fraud the first translation, or the so-called "outlined copy that Schroeder-Mahaffey Company and other "probably" writers try to make out the "Manuscript Found" to be. Mr. Spalding, not knowing that the first translation would be lost, and writing an entirely different one, and leaving both in the hands of the public to compare with each other, would have given himself entirely away as a translator. I do not believe Mr. Spalding was so ignorant as these "probably" writers try to make out that he was.

2. He makes the statement, that if his translation of extracts meets with the approval of the public, "I shall then be happy to gratify the more inquisitive and learned part of my readers by a 'more minute' publication." That is, after it is published and given to the public, if it meets with approval, a more extended (not a different one) translation will be made. That later one (if made) would also contain what the first one contained, as he said, the first contained "Extracts of the most interesting and important matters contained in the Roll."

3. He never wrote a second, or, third translation, because the production of a second or third was to depend on the notoriety of the first after it was published, and he never published the first.. It was not published until after it was found at Honolulu, in 1885, and then by the Reorganized Church of Jesus Christ of Latter Day Saints.

Rigdon Theft Story Disproved.

After all the speculation on the "probably" Rigdon theft story, it is evident that Sidney Rigdon was not converted to the faith of the Church of Jesus Christ of Latter Day Saints until after the Book of Mormon was published.

Please note the following:

There is no evidence that Rigdon knew anything of Mormonism until after the publication of the Book of Mormon.-Encyclopedia Britannica, vol. 18, page 843,

Mr. Rigdon was a minister in the Disciple Church, for some time before and up to the time of his conversion to the faith of the Latter Day The following, found in the History of the Disciples, locates Rigdon in that church until after the publication of the Book of Mormon:

January, 1827: Held public meetings in Mantua, Ohio.

-Hayden's History of the Disciples, of the Western Reserve, page 237.

August 23, 1827; Meeting with Ministerial Association. New Lisbon, Ohio.—History of the Disciples, pages 55, 57. October 20, 1827: Ministerial Council at Warren, Ohio.

Nistory of the Disciples, page 187.

November, 1827: Preaching at New Lisbon, Ohiotory of the Disciples, page 72-75.

March, 1828: Instructing class in theology, in Mentor, Also held great religious meetings in Mentor and Warren, Ohio.-History of the Disciples, page 198.

April, 1828: Holds great religious revival at Kirtland, Ohio.—History of the Disciples, page 194.

May, 1828: Meets Alexander Campbell at Shalersville. protracted meetings.—History of the Disciples, page 155.

July 1, 1829: At Perry, Ohio.—History of the Disciples, page 346. At Perry, Ohio .- History of the Dis-

October, 1829: ciples, pages 207-409. November, 1829: Wait Hill, Ohio; baptized Alvin Wait.

-History of the Disciples, pages 204-207.

June 1 to 30, 1830: Mentor, Ohio.-Millennial Harbinger, page 389.

With Alexander Campbell at Austin-1830. n, Ohlo.—History of the Disciples, page 209.—Exted from Parson's Text Book.

The above shows plainly that Sidney Rigdon was busy as a minister in the Disciple Church from January, 1827, until August, 1830. He was converted to the faith of Latter Day Saints in December, 1830. Joseph Smith obtained the plates, from which the Book of Mormon was translated, in September, 1827, and the Book of Mormon was published in the early part of the year 1830.

Mr. D. H. Bays, the anti-Mormon debater. speaking on the question, says:

The usual debater undertakes to trace the Book of Mormon to the Spalding romance through Sidney Rig-don. Nothing can be more erroneous, and it will lead to almost certain defeat. *** I speak from experience.

The entire theory connecting Sidney Rigdon and the Spalding Romance with Joseph Smith in originating the Book of Mormon must be abandoned.—Doctrine and Dogmas of Mormonism, pages 22, 24, 25.
"Love of Money And Notoriety."

Under the above caption, Mr. Mahaffey begins the conclusion of his work in the following language:

Our task of proving the fraudulent origin of Mormon-ism is now finished. A few lines more in reply to some questions that are being asked will close this work.

What was the motive of the Smith-Rigdon Co. for devising such a scheme? Answer: Money and notoriety,of which were speedily realized.-Positive Proof, page 57.

He also says that Smith increased rapidly in wealth and "died the richest man in Nauvoo." It is a mistake.

He continues to misrepresent Joseph Smith as the following plainly shows:

"Verily thus saith the Lord, I require all their surplus property to be put into the hands of the Bishop o Church of Zion," etc., etc. (Remember, Smit Bishop.)—Positive Proof, page 58. (Remember, Smith is

This is altogether untrue as Joseph Smith was never Bishop of the church. Mr. Mahaffey gives six such quotations as the above but does not give reference to one of them. Why not. Because some might look them up and read the contex also, and his trickery would be exposed.

The Lord in the Latter Day revelations has instructed his people to pay their tithes, offerings, and consecrations into his storehouse that there might be means to carry on the work, and care for the poor of the church also. On every hand is manifest the spirit of greed and selfishness; and the very rich are able to oppress those who are less fortunate. The Lord in the revelations to the church, instructs his people to establish equality among themselves so far as they can under existing circumstances. We quote some below from the revelations:

It is not given that one man should possess that which is above another; Wherefore the world lieth in sin.—Doctrine and Covenants, 49:3.

If thou lovest me, thou shalt serve me and keep all my commandments. And behold, thou wilt remember the poor, and consecrate of thy properties for their support.

* * * And again, if there shall be properties in the hands of the church, or any individuals of it, more than is necessary for their support, after this first consecration, which is a residue, to be consecrated unto the bishop, it shall be kept to administer unto those who have not, from time to time, that every man who has need may be amply supplied, and receive according to his wants.— Doctrine and Covenants, 42:8, 10.

Doctrine and Covenants, 42:8, 10.

Wee unto you rich men, that will not give your substance to the poor, for your riches will canker your souls.—Doctrine and Covenants, 56:5.

Many more might be given, but this is the sentiment of the revelations. That there is a need of such consecration of wealth, is not disputed by all, but admitted by many. A. Raymond Johns, D. D., through the Christian Advocate, a Methodist weekly paper, published at Detroit, Michigan, hits Mr. Mahaffey a hard rap on this subject. Under the heading of "What the Church is Doing," he says:

As never before the church is being aroused to the importance of preaching a social justice—the real message of the Golden Rule. The early church was communistic, of the content nuts. The early clutter was communication, as We must preach the spirit of communication, as Christ did. How many, many times he warned against wealth. Let us ask ourselves this question: Has any Christian man any moral right to be very, very Christ did.

Has any Constian man any moral right to be very, very rich while millions of his brothers are very, very poor? Do we not sometimes wonder if the Master is not still saying to some people, "Go and sell that thou hast, and give to the poor and thou shalt have treasure in heaven: and follow me?" We must follow him as well as to admire him; we must obey him as well as love him.

The apostle who most clearly caught the spirit and mind of Jesus once wrote: "But whose hath this world's goods and seeth his brother have need, and shutteth up his bowels of compassion for him, how dwelleth the love of God in him?" What did Jesus really mean by his message in the closing verses of Matthew 25? It seems to read that only those who fed the hungry, clothed the to read that only those who fed the hungry, clothed the naked and visited the imprisoned should sit at his right hand. It is easy to spiritualize the hard sayings of Jesus; but he wants us to do them.—Christian Advocate, Oct. 11, 1911.

Mr. Johns intimates that it is possible that the Master is now giving just such instruction to some people as that given in the Doctrine and Millionaire T. F. Martin, of New York City, is reported to have uttered the following:

For 30 years we have been piling up wealth into the hands of men who do not work. It has gone so far that to-day, in every city in the union, the class of idle rich has reached proportions that, to the thoughtful student, are alarming. Machinery instead of emancipating the people, has wekled chains of industrial slavery about their necks. The fruit of invention is plucked by the hands of a few. * * * Today we, of the class that rules, that draws unearned profits from the toil of other men, know full well that the time is almost here when there must be a true counting.-Grand Rapids Daily News, Feb. 20th, 1911. Conclusion.

Of all books written against the latter day work, Mr. Mahaffey's "Positive Proof" takes its place among the most ridiculous and unreliable. the time of "true accounting," mentioned by Mr. Martin, shall come, millionaires will not be the only ones who shall be "weighed in the balance and found wanting." Some of these tricky opposers to this latter day work will have to account for "all their hard speeches" which they have "spoken against the Master" by persecuting his work and his servants.

May the Lord have mercy on them, and bring them to see the truth, and may the honest at heart not be kept from entering the kingdom because of such misrepresentations.

(Correspondence continued from page 3.) Independence, Mo., Oct. 14.

Independence, Mo., Oct. 14.
Editor Ensign:—When looking over the list of "Ensign Publications" for sale as advertised on the last page of your paper, I, today, for the first time noticed in the third column the name of a song "Fully Persuaded" written by me. The wording of the advertisement following as it does the announcement concerning a "Song of Adas it does the announcement concerning a "Song of Admonition" carries with it the idea that it (Fully Persuaded) was also given by "the Spirit" or that it was so believed. This is a mistake. It was simply written by me after hearing some friends in Canada sing that old song "Almost Persuaded," and was afterwards copied on a large card which was posted up near the baptismal font in Independence Church annex. No claim was ever made by me that it was given by the Spirit, nor was there anything connected with the writing of it that surthere anything connected with the writing of it that sug-gested such a thing to me. The wording of it rather forbids such a thought, in my judgment. I did not know that any one entertained such an idea concerning it till my eyes fell on the advertisement today. How long it has been running I do not know but seize the first opportunity to correct the mistake after noticing it. Very truly,

Joseph Luff.

Eckerty, Ind., Oct. 5 Eckerty, Ind., Oct. 5
Editor Ensign:—I saw not long ago that not many belong to the prayer union. I want to be a member of the union as I think all members ought to be where "there is unity there is strength," but we are taught to pray always and not faint; a person can pray anywhere any way, but I want to be one of that number.

Yours for truth and right,
Mrs. Clarinda Johe.

Mrs. Clarinda Jobe

Winter Hill, Mass., Sept. 28.

Whiter Hill, Mass, Sept. 28.
Editor Ensign:—I met with the dear Saints in Western Maine. The conference at Little Deer Isle was a very good one. I preached several times at Mountainville, at Vinal Haven two Sundays, holding services in three places. I left all feeling much better, so I learned. Bro. Herbert I left all feeling much better, so I learned. Bro. Herbert Raymond had just been ordained a priest, and I found him and his saintly wife proud to know that they had obeyed the gospel. I also found Bro. Biggs, another priest, a live wire in the work. I also visited our dear aged Bro. David S. Seavey, at Tennants Harbor, another priest, who, with his wife years ago I led into the fold of God, a man ninety years of age, whose parents belonged to the old church, still firm in the faith of the better home beyond, longing for the day of his departure from earth life to join with his dear wife who departed this life a few years after I had baptized her.

join with his dear wife who departed this life a few years after I had baptized her.

I visited my brother, S. O. Foss, and his family at Auburn, Maine, and found them trying to enjoy life. I called on the few Saints at Rockland and found them trying to struggle through the weary life for the beautiful one beyond. Sunday before last, (the 20th) and on Monday and Tuesday night I preached at Haverhill, Mass., to the attentive Saints of God. There I met our Greek beautiful one better Stiftens Parisables. to the attentive Saints of God. There I met our Greek brother, Stilianos Poulopoulas, who was baptized at Kansas City by Bro. J. A. Tanner, who caught a fine fish, one indeed that he can be proud of. I preached twice last Sunday 27th) in Winter Hill church, to cur Bastonians, and indeed they are an honor to our noble cause. They are being drilled by that old gospel traveler, H. J. Davison, Mabel A. Basger wanted me to baptize her, and as I told the presiding officer of what was wanted, he replied, "All right, Bro. Foss, bring in all you can, we welcome them." At seven o'clock the dear one was presented to God in the water of baptism.

I forgot to say in my last letter that I had baptized four and confirmed them Sunday evening. Sister Mabel was confirmed by Dr. Sinclair and J. C. Foss. I will be at the conference next Sunday in Fall River. The following Sunday, (the 11th of October) I will be in Chicago, and will reach home the 13th.

I am as ever,

Goodwater, Okla., Sept. 16.

Dear Ensign:—A debate has just closed here between Bro. J. T. Riley and Elder Chas. F. Reese of the Non-Progressive wing of the Church of Christ. Twelv Twelve sessions cussed. Bro. Riley had him down from the beginning. All he had in stock was Joe Smith the sheep thief, and the Book of Mormon a fraud. He did not use any of our the Book of Mormon a fraud. He did not use any of our church books to fight us with. He used such books as Sixty-four Bomb Shells, by Bynam Black and R. B. Neal, and Spurlock, all Campbellite preachers. He was about the weakest debator I ever saw. When his proposition came up for discussion Reese accepted Mr. A. Campbell and J. W. Chism, and Hayden, but when Bro. Riley brought their writings up Reese made them all out liars.

Bro. Riley made lots of friends here for the cause. Bro. Large M. Swith preached four screens affect the debate.

James M. Smith preached four sermons after the debate James M. Smith preached four sermons street the debate and three persons told me they were convinced that the Latter Day Saints' church was the true one, but said they were not ready to be haptized now. I was baptized by Bro. J. F. Curtis, March, 1910, near Winthrop, Ark, I have had lots of trials and temptations. I want the Saints to pray for me.

In gospel bonds, Will N. Jackson.

Siloam Springs, Ark., Sept. 18. Déar Ensign:—I have been very busy, finding all the preaching I could do. I made a new opening here and have held meetings for three weeks, and have haptized two fine people, a man and his wife. Several others are two me people; a man and me write. Several others are mear the kingdom. I have signed up a debate with a Missionary Baptist preacher by the name of Balard. I don't know when it will come off, but suppose Bro. J. T. Riley will meet him when they are ready for it.

I started to preach in the parks of this town of 3,000 people, but was stopped by the mayor and some preachers. people, but was stopped by the mayor and some preachers. Then I got an airdome with seats in it and continued my meetings with good interest. I believe a good work can be done here. I will leave here Monday with lots of friends for the work, as well as enemies, which the work of Christ always has had. Bro. E. A. Erwin met me there at the close of my meetings and preached three times. When the members were confirmed by Bro. Erwin, the man had a beautiful vision which showed him that the Lord is in the work.

I remain your brother in gospel bonds,
J. W. Duboise.

Dodge City, Kans., Sept. 11.
-Editor Ensign:—I wish to say through the Ensign to the elders who may be near Gage, Oklahoma, that there is a woman by the name of Mrs. Edna Bubp that wishes to hear the restored gospel of these latter days. She heard the gospel preached a number of years ago when but a child and like many others thought she wanted to be a Christian and was baptized days. but feared that she was not a fit subject for baptism. She is a very timid woman, and, like many others, don't know how to come to him for the blessing of salvation. Pray for her that she may find salvation to her

Your sister in gospel bonds,
Mrs. Nancy Thorp.

Cameron, Mo., Aug. 7.

Cameron, Mo., Aug. 7.

Dear Ensign:—My father and mother have taken the Ensign for about 3 years, and I enjoy reading it, especially the letters. I am 13 years old, and was baptized Aug. 13, 1911, by Eider Wm. Sparling at Blue Grass, N. Dak. We lived in North Dakota 3 years after I was baptized and then came down here.

and then came down here.

We live over a mile from Far West Church but we attend Sunday school nearly every Sunday.

I like to attend prayer meetings Wednesday nights as they seem to do me good. I am the oldest one of seven children. My sister younger than I was baptized the same time I was.

I realize my weakness and ask the Saints to pray for me that I may be steadfast to the end.

I am your sister in Christ,

Olive Peterson.

Bly, Okla., Oct. 13. Dear Ensign:—Although we are isolated here the Lord's work is still progressing. The 29th of September Bro. A. C. Silvers and Bro. Lee Quick closed a three weeks A. C. Silvers and Bro. Lee Quick closed a three weeks meeting in Nowata, and it was the first L. D. S. meeting ever held in that town. The result was six were baptized into the fold and kingdom of God. Sunday, 27th the Saints all gathered at the home of Bro. D. F. Minniears and partook of the sacrament. The spirit of God was present in the prayers and testimonies and all

We pray the Spirit of God may ever abide with those two brethren in the future as it has been manifested to us in the past.

We think the way has been opened up in Nowata for a grand work. Bro. Minnear has secured the court house to hold Sunday school in. May God bless him in his endeavors to carry on the work. We pray the blessings of God upon this community. May there be many more come to know the gospel.

DEPARTMENT OF Woman's Auxiliary for Social Service

MRS. MAUD MILLS, EDITOR.

NOTICE.

All persons sending money to the Woman's Auxiliary for any purpose, including subscriptions to Home and Child Welfare leaf-lets, or Children's Home donations, plages forward same to the treasurer of the Auxiliary, Mrs. J A. Gardner, 711 S. Fuller Ave., independence Mo. Dullegouy new 1918.

lependence Mo. ADVISORY BOARD.

Mrs. S. R. Burgess, President, 1970 Etzel Ave., St. Louis, Mo. Mrs. B. C. Smith, Vice President, 214 S. Spring St., Independent, 200 ence, Mo.

Miss Minnie E. Scott, Secretary, 109 S. Fuller Ave., Independence, Mo.

Mrs. J. A. Gardner, Treasurer, 711 S. Fuller Ave., Independence,

Mrs. J. A. Gardner, Treasurer, 211 S. Fuller Ave., Independence, Mo. Mrs. M. A. Etrenhouser, 1959. W. Mejnut St., Independence, Mo. Mrs. D. J. Krahl, 218 S. Crysler St., Independence, Mo. SUPERINTENDENTS OF DEPARTISENTS.

HOME AND ASSESSION OF THE ASSESSION OF

A HOME THOUGHT.

We have discovered in our home that if the table-talk gets too noisy one of the family may bring the rest to order by speaking in a sudden whisper. Parents often sacrifice much to give their children dancing and music lessons, but the most lovely accomplishment of all, a soft and pleasant-speaking voice, is something they may them-selves develop in the children. I find that a child reflects almost instantly the tone of voice of one who speaks to him. A very gentle and low-voiced reply to an excited or angry child reduces his next remark by half in volume. To answer the vexation of a little child in a whisper catches attention, often brings a laugh, and is far better than to stamp the fretful tone deeper by mimicking it, as parents sometimes do. Example is better than precept. Parents who have themselves learned self-control and that it is never necessary to raise one's voice in order to speak with dignity and authority are teaching their chi-dren priceless lessons. That a soft answer turneth away wrath is a cardinal maxim for the household.—M. L. B.

The foregoing clipping touches upon some matters very important for our consideration. It is well worth the effort to persistenly try the effect of the experiment mentioned, if you are not already doing so.

Self-control is, to us, one of the most desirable traits we can teach our children. We find the way hard sometimes in viewing some of our failures, but when we sum it all up, we are certain we are making some progress. We also note that a constant example of parents does more to fix the habit of self-control than any other thing.

Indeed this is true of all the good things we must teach our children. It seems that our lives are all education, if we could only be aware of it. Education for ourselves and those with whom we are associated. Duties which the Lord requires of us, and which demand sacrifice, bring reward in personal education-in character building. If we but try to view life optimistically, in harmony with the light accompanying God's way and truth, we can always find something to encourage and compensate us. So let us analize the requirements of our Heavenly Father, and discipline ourselves as much as we do our children. 'The result will be greater success in their control.

Along these lines of education in self-control we insert the following, which we hastily prepared for a Religio session in Denver last winter.

THE VALUE OF A SERENE LIFE.

"Patience and strength are what we need; an earnest use of what we now have and all the time an earnest discontent until we come to wlate we ought to be."—Philip Brooks. I should call the compound of patience and strength—serenity. To be serene is to be strong morally and spiritually. It includes caution, in fact invites it, but not to the extent of expelling courage.

A serene condition gives room for reason. It bars impetuous actions. Reason is born of intelligence and intelligence is "light and truth."

The satisfied mind only can be serene. Not necessarily telligence is "light and truth."

The satisfied mind only can be serene. Not necessarily satisfied because it possesses its hearts' deire, but that it is satisfied to patiently wait, if necessary, for the "reason why." Herein comes the element of faith which must be included in serenity.

A clear conscience invites serenity; but as I believe conscience to be formed and made according to our ideals, we must be sure we measure by some high standard or we form it or our secretar will not be wearanted or as we form it or our serenity will not be warranted or virtuous.

Serenity leads upward. It shows us the Christ. We view His life and there find it recorded as an example

Study the effect of it on a child. Try it in your dealings with him. Note your success in governing his moods as a consequence.

The arts can only be successfully developed when in a serene frame of mind. It is valuable there.

In a serene condition a man is not led to condemn the whole world when he himself has been deceived. It allows his better nature to hold sway and he devotes his energies to being a better man than the better example which has been furnished him. Charles Dickens makes strength of character synonomous with serenity. He says, "Strength of character is not mere strength of feeling. It is unyielding resistence to whatever would disconcert us from without or unsettle us within.

1 -----

Secontic two process bestly and lengthens life. It doesn't Serenity promotes health and lengthens life. admit of those things that war against our better development, such as worry, hate, envy, etc.

Its value lies in its creating a state of mind which admits of the development of virtues which make us better.

One ship sails east, Another drives west, While the self-same breezes blow; 'Tis the set of the sails, And not the gales, That bids them where to go.

Like the winds of the sea, And the ways of the fates, As we move along through life; 'Tis the set of the soul, That decides the goal, And not the storm or the strife -Aynonymous.

THE LEMON AS A MEDICINE.

THE LEMON AS A MEDICINE.

A nervous headache may frequently be cured by several slices of lemon in a cup of strong tea, and a billious headache is almost invaribly put to rout by a tablespoonful of lemon juice in a small cup of black coffee. The juice of half a lemon in a cup of hot water first thing in the morning is an excellent liver corrective and successful substitute for calomel and similar drugs.

Honey, alum and lemon is an ald fashioned but good Honey, allim and lemon is an aid fashioned but good remedy for croup. A dash of lemon juice in water makes a pleasant and effective tooth wash, cleaning the teeth and sweetening the breath. In fact, a lemon is pretty much of a concentrated drug store. Outwordly applied, lemon juice and rosewater will remove tan and whiten the skin, and taken inwardly, lemon juice on lump of sugar is fine for hoarseness.

Lemon juice with olive oil is far superior as a salad descent to the proper and to a seasonful of lemon adds a dessing to vinegar and a teaspoonful of lemon adds a dainty flavor and whitens the grains of boiling rice or sago. Sait and lemon juice remove rust stains from white goods, and tough meat may be made tender by adding a teaspoonful of lemon juice to the water in which it is to be boiled. If the hands become stained, lemon it is to be boiled. If the hands become stained, femon juice will make them white. The lemon does not end its useful career even when the juice and pulp have been extracted. The half skins make dainty and attractive recepticles for serving lees or salads, or, dipped in salt, the rinds clean brass thoroughly and quickly.—New York Times.

MISCELLANEOUS

NOTICE.

To the Saints atte. ding the Kewanee District conference.—Those coming to take the 4th Ave. street car "was or Watertown car 15th St., Moline, to either the Si. ~o one block north and get off at 5th St., East Moline, & and one-half block west to stucco Church.

NOTICE OF APPOINTMENT. Of Bishop's Agent in and for the Eastern District of Mon-tana of The Reorganized Church of Jesus Christ

of Latter Day Saints,
To Whom These Presents Shall Come:
This is to certify that pursuant to the recommendation the conference of the eastern district of Montana held at Chibertson, July 25, 1914, Bro. B. D. Stratton of Fairview, Montana, is hereby appointed bishop's agent in and for said district and authorized to act as such agent in and for the territory comprised in the same.

We take pleasure in presenting Bro. Straton to the saints and friends of the eastern district of Montana and also bespeak for him the help of each friend of the work in his labors as bishop's agent.

The address of Bro. Stratton is Fairview, Montana.

The address of Bro. Stratton is Fairriew, Montana. Those who cannot reach him in person can drop a letter to him at Fairriew and they will receive due consideration and reply to the same. Trust the Lord will bless and help the work both that which relates to the temporal and that which relates to the spiritual in the new disrict formed.

Very respectfully, E. L. Kelley, Presiding Bishop. Independence, Mo., Oct. 13, 1914.

Southern Michigan and Northern Indiana District:— Conference met at Coldwater, Mich., Oct. 3 and 4, the district presidency associated with J. D. Stead, sub-mis-district pressuency associated was at 2 decisionary, in charge.

Branches reporting were Belding, Buchanan, Capital-City, Clear Lake, Cold Water, Galien, Grand Rapids, Hartford, Knox and Sparta, showing a net gain of 15 during. the last four months.

the last four months.

Ministerial reports were read from Elders J. D. Stead, Wm. Dowker, S. Stroh, E. K. Evans, Francis Earl, N. A.
Hill, F. T. Field, B. H. Doty, Starr Corless and G. H.
Graves; also from Priests N. A. Harper and H. J.
Klevori and C. R. Garnett, showing a tooal of 21 bap-1876.

All district officers were sustained for the ensuing year.
Delegates elected to next general conference were E.
B. Blett, E. A. Blakeslee, G. A. Smith, Sam'l Stroh; B. H.
Doty, J. D. Stead, E. K. Evans and J. D. Corless and wife. Bro. J. W. Keifer Priest, was ordained an elder by J. D. Stead and G. A. Smith

The sermons of the conference were given by E. K.

The sermons of the conference were given by E. K. Evins, G. A. Smith, B. H. Doty, J. D. Stead and a lecture on the war in Europe by S. W. L. Scott While the attendance at this conference was not so large as at some, a very spiritual time was enjoyed by all. In the Sunday morning prayer services the Lord saw fit to speak to his people both in the gifts of tongues and in prophesy also gave manifestation in the night time which assured the saints that Bro. and Sr. Clyde F. Ellis, now in the Islands, were all right.

now in the Islands, were all right.

The next conference will be held at Clear Lake (Roy)
Ind., at the call of the district president, in June 1915.

W. P. Buckley, Dist. Sec-Treas.

Jackson, Mich.

ABOUT TITHING CREDITS.
The Independence Stake Bishopric wishes to announce for the benefit of those who have subscribed to the tithing, offering and consecration funds that the Presiding Bishop's offering and consecration funds that the Presiding Bishop's statement recently published in the Herald does not include any payments made in the year 1914. We publish this because we have been charged with not entering tithes and offerings of later date than 1913. We cannot, therefore, answer questions forwarded by mail, and examination of the dates accompanying Bishop Kelley's report should be sufficient. Very respectfully,

R. Bullard.

EASTERN OREGON.

To Saints of Eastern Oregon Unorganized Territory.

This is to let you know that I am still Bishop's Agent for Eastern Oregon, and am anxious not only for work of the Church but for your own blessing and fare. I am satisfied that those who do not pay their tithing will not be prospered and eventually will be runded financially as well as spiritually. The process may be slow but inexorable. Hoping my experience may help some to put more trust in the Lord, I will try to relate

I came here about eleven years ago with not much more than enough to buy a team and wagon. I began keeping my books carefully and paying tithing and in about seven years we had a home and a business making a good living yeaf's we had a home and a business making a good living and a surplus in cash, my half (my wife is not a momber of the Church) amounting to about $600 which I could have consecrated to the Lord. But instead, I made an investment which promised big returns and which enabled a brother and his family to gather to the land of Zion. Thus my eyes were blinded. We were worth four thousand dollars or more, and have been losing ever since and unless things change it looks as though we will gradually lose everything.

The brother also who went to Zion has had sickness and misfortune and I heard that he is coming back. How I could have been so blind as to have made the investment I cannot understand, when I knew and had taught that Bishop Kelley had called for the surplus six or seven years before and had advised against investing or enlarging one's business. I would like to blame my wife for not advising me differently but as she doesn't belong for not advising me differently but as she doesn't belong to the Church she could not be expected to. But the fact remains we have been slowly and steadily going down ever since, financially and, I fear, spiritually. An other consideration is the worry of not being able to decide what best to do, while things are going wrong could be supported by the standard slipping from one's grasp. Pray! I have and property slipping from one's grasp. Pray! I have prayed for guidance but having offended God he has allowed me to suffer and I see how I deserve it. It is terrible agony to want and need guidance and not be able October 4th was set apart by General Conference a day to take up contributions for Graceland College, wish the special call of the Presiding Bishopric, rearing in the Saint's Herald of Sept. 30th and in app. Qaping in the Saint's Herald of Sept. 30th and in app. Qaping of Sept. 24th might have appeared sooner. Zion's — we let us try to help that worthy cause. Crops But even h. — of threshing done. Let us now make effort are harvested a — we may enjoy with grateful hearts and and sacrifice that — day of Thanksgiving so fast apclear conscience the . clear conscience the c clear conscience the corrections.

I am interested in the wear unable as facts one of the am interested in the wear unable so far to visit you as I would like. If any are in need of advice perhaps the Lord will enable me to help you. Very little has been received from you this conference year and as this is the "hastening time" we need to hurry. * *

Christ, H. E. Merryman. Your brother in Christ,

CHRISTMAS OFFERING.

Bishop E. L. Kelley is in receipt of the following letter from Edgar A. Wetmore, in behalf of the Boston, Mass., Sunday school, which contains suggestions that might be a worthy example for other schools. The letter reads as "In our last Sunday school business meeting we voted to the effect that when our Christmas Offering amounted to the enect trait when our constants othering amounts to the sum of $50.00 to send it to you on account. We thought that by so doing you could use the money to advantage while it draws no interest in the banks here while subject to check. Although the interest on such a small sum would amount to very little, if all the schools were to adopt this plan, it seems to us that quite a little interest could be saved in this way. Please find my check for $50.00 enclosed, and greatly oblige, Yours in the cause of Christ.

THE YEARLY OFFER ON THE ENSIGN.

THE YEARLY OFFER ON THE ENSIGN.

November and December are bargain months as usual, during which time the Ensign will be sent to non-members at half price. This offer, as usual is good only in the United States possessions, as the extra postage to foreign countries prohibits this offer extending there. This offer is good only during the months of November. and December. It is unfair and hardly honorable for a member to stop their paper and then subscribe in the name of a member of their family who does not belong to the church for the sake of getting at half price. That is not the object of this offer. It is for the sake of spreading gospel among outsiders.

ddress, Ensign Publishing House, Independence, Mo.

MARRIED.

Rowlett-Jenson.—At the home of the bride's parents, Bro. and Sr. Andrew Jensen, their daughter Mae and William Rowlett were married at 11 a. m., September 27, 1914, Elder E. L. Henson officiating.

CONFERENCE MINUTES.

Massachusetts District.—Conference met October 3 and 4, at Fall River, the opening session convening at 3 p. m. The reports from the branches and district ministry were mostly of an encouraging nature. There has been no material change in numbers since last report. Recommendations were received from the Brockton Branch for the ordinations of Cyrus W Wood to the office of elder, and Wallace Booth to that of teacher; and from the Providence Branch for the ordinations of Arthus R. Richardson to the office of priest. Edward F. Yerrington and Hildred Grange to the office of teacher, and A. Otis Toombs to the office of deacon. The recommendations were all approved and the five last named brethren were ordained at the

and the rive law maket obtained were obtained at the conference, Bro. Wood not being present

The conference was presided over by President Fred'k.

W. Smith, Calvin H. Rich, Horatio W. Howlett and Fred'k.

W. Roberts, the last three being the district presidency. The morning service on Sunday opened with communion and testimony meeting at 9 o'clock, and at 10:45 Elder Holmes J. Davidson was the speaker. At the afterneon service President Smith addressed an assembly that filled the church, and at the evening meeting the local pastor, A. B. Phillips occupied, there being a large attendance.

A notable feature of the conference was the initial service rendered by the district choir comprising between thirty and forty voices. The anthem, "Jerusalem the Golden," was pleasingly rendered, and altogether the outlook is encouraging for the future of our choir move-ment in this district.

ment in this district.

The conference directed that an estimate be made of expenses for the district for one year, the amount to be raised by apportioning it among the branches pro rata, after allowing for what has been already furnished by branches according to a plan specified in the resolution of the conference. The estimate to be furnished by the district presidency and treasurer.

The conference adjourned after the evening service, to the other backs because of the property of the conference adjourned after the evening service.

meet with the Boston Branch, February 6 and 7, 1915.

A. B Phillips, Press Com.

Spring River District.-Conference was held at Joplin, Mo., Oct. 10th and 11th, 1914, presided over by Apos-tle J. W. Rushton and district president, T. W. Chaturn. Morning session occupied by addresses by a number of the Statistical reports from branches: Webb City 142, La-

Statistical reports from branches: Wend Otty 142, Liamanite 51, Joplin 336, Columbus 54, Pleasant View 109, Weir City 115, Scammon 98, Pittsburg 176, Vera 93. Bishop's report shows receipts $1409.75; disbursements $2723.95; Treasurer's report shows indebtedness $11.30, and with amount on hand $6.41. Receipts $13.30, disbursements $6.87. Reports from elders, priests and deacon's quorums. Total numbers reporting 46, sermons 407, bap-

Petition from Purcell Branch for ordination of Bro. Mark Williams granted and he was ordained by Apostle J. W. Rushton and Elder T. W. Chatburn.

Bro. O. O. Nunamaker elected president of the Teacher's quorum, and ordained by Elders T. W. Chatburn and E. Short. Round table discussion on district by-laws conducted by Apostle Rushton. Place of next conference left to district presidency to determine time as per district by-laws. Two prayer meetings. Preaching by Apostle Rushton and Elder F. C. Keck.

Mollie Davis, Sec. Oct. 12, 1914.

Shores.—Little Eldon Leon Shores, age 16 months and 12 days, at 615 S. Merick Ave., Denison, Tex., after 10 days illness.

Bell:—Bro. Benjamin M. Bell, was born in Deleware o., Ind., Nov. 12, 1846, died at Terlton, Okla., Oct 12, 114. He was an old soldier, having served his country, and was a new soldier serving in the cause of the Master, beng baptized by Bro. Aylor in 1908. An honored citizen and a good man has fallen asleep in Jesus. He leaves a wife and six children, three sons and three daughters. Funeral sermon by Hubert Case, at L. D. S. Church, in Terlton.

Dunseth.—Sr. Ann Eliza Leeper was born Feb. 3, 1852, at Hayworth, Ill., died at Harwood, Mo., Sep. 25, 1914, at the age of 62 years, 7 months and 22 days. She was married to John Dunseth, March 28, 1880. In her early life she united with the Baptist Church and remained in that church until about 12 years ago, when she united with the Latter Day Saint Church and lived a faithful Christian life until death. She leaves to mourn her departure, husband, three brothers and one sister and many friends. Funeral sermon by R. T. Walters, and the remains laid away in the Mt. Vernon Cemetery. Dunseth.-Sr. Ann Eliza Leeper was born Feb. 3, 1852, Spencer.—Johnnie, the youngest child of Bro. and Sr. S. M. Spencer, died at their home in St. John, Kansas, October 3, 1914, after an illness of one week. The little darling was aged 20 months. Funeral conducted by Elder S. A. Madden. Burial in Fairview Cemetery.

	8	•
-	ENSIGN PUBLICATIONS.  And Other Books for Sale by the Ensign	1 0: 4:
	names in the Book of Mormon,
	notes. Paper, 25c; cloth, 40c;	01
	Doctrinal References. A compilation of references under subject headings	İ _
	of texts connected with the gos- pel, taken from the Bible, Book of Marrian and Doctrine and Cove-	03 nants. A very handy reference book. Paper covers, 10c; cloth, 15;
	Our Missionaries in Bible Lands. A compi- lation of interesting views, accom-	08
	Doctrinal References. A compilation of references under subject headings of texts connected with the gospel, taken from the Bible, Book of Mormon and Doctrine and "Covenants. A very handy reference book. Paper covers, 10c; cloth, 15; cloth, 15; cloth, 15; cloth, 15; cloth, 16; cloth, 1	04 and Sr. F. G. Pitt. Heavy paper covers, 50c; cloth boards$0.75 Marvelous Manifestations. (Rc. jsed edi- tion.) Authentic accounts of the healing of the sick, restoring sight to the blind and other manifesta- tions of God's miraculous power. Paper covers, 20c; cloth boards, 35c; leather, $0.50	T tions of God's miraculous power. to the blind and other mannessa- tions of God's miraculous power. Paper covers, 20c; cloth boards, Sci, leather $0.50.  Three Bibles Compared. A comparison be- tween the King James, the Revised and the Inspired Versions. Paper covers, 25c, 5 for $1.00; cloth.$0.55  Book overs, 25c, 5 for $1.00; cloth.$0.55  Mormon Vindicated. Scriptural Evidences of the Divine Authentici-tween the King James, the Revised and the Inspired Versions. Paper
	Book of Mormon Vindicated. Scriptural Evidences of the Divine Authentici-	T
	Book of Mormon Vindicated. Scriptural Evidences of the Divine Authentici- ty of the Book of Mormon, 115 large pages, Paper covers, 25c, Faulty Creeds. This book shows how, at the coming forth of the latter day
	Evidences of the Divine Authenticity of the Book of Mormon, 115 large pages. Paper covers, 25c, for §1.00; cloth	02
	Apostasy of the Church. This book shows the departure from the faith be-	02 02 03
	fore and after the restoration of the gospel. Paper covers$0.05	01
	fore and after the restoration of the gospel. Paper covers the teachings of the standard books of the Church, from quotations and	st ak is reliable testimony. Paper covers, 10c, 3 for	of reliable testimony. Paper covers, 10c, 3 for $0.25  From Palmyra to Independence. A book of 44 pages. A brief review of the Book of Mormon is given, with many testimonals and affidavits. Paper covers, 60; cloth $1.00  Sabbatarian Theories a Delusion. 113 pages. Price, 15c or 2 for $0.25  Webster's Business and College Dictionary. Besides being an up-to-date pro-
	Paper covers, 60; cloth$1.00 Sabbatarian Theories a Delusion, 113 pages.	id m
	Price, 15c or 2 for$0.25 Webster's Business and College Dictionary.	88
	nouncing dictionary it contains much other valuable information.	as Tisi
	Webster's Business and College Dictionary.  Besides being an up-to-date pro- nouncing dictionary it contains much other valuable information.  It contains new words up to Sep- tember, 1911, and the last Govern- ment census. Postpaid for$0.00  Hurlbut's Teacher-Training Normal Lee- sons. Paper covers, 35c; cloth. $0.50  Hurlbut's Story of the Bible. Profusely il- leutrated, 760 pages $1.50  Palestine of To-day $1.00  The Christian System $1.00	10
	Hurlbut's Teacher-Training Normal Les- sons. Paper covers, 35c; cloth. $0.50	E
	Hurlbut's Story of the Bible. Profusely 11- lustrated, 750 pages	E
	The Christian System$1.00 CAMBRIDGE AND BAGSTER BIBLES.	D.
	Order by Number.	er
	French Morocco, India paper, silk	R
	cordance, encyclopedia, helps, etc., and yet only % inch thick by 4% by 6%, and weighs only 14 ounces; a very handy book	P
	a very handy book	þ
		R
	H10X—Same as H131X, but has Perisian Morocco cover	oí G
	under gold edges. Size, 5x7 4x 14 $1.35	١
	11%	fa fo
	5½x3% $1.10 S125—A fine Bible for those who want large type and not so particular about it being small. Long primer type, self-pronouncing, full page illustrations, French Seal, divinity evenits etc. $2.25	M R
	type, self-pronouncing, full page illustrations, French Seal, divinity	tr fo
	Circuite, etc.	E:
	$125/.—Same as $125, except it is patent indexed $2.50 $126.—Same as $125, with button clasp.$2.50 $130—Same as $125, leather lined $2.70 $145.—A fine little Bible at a low price.  French Morocco, divinity circuit, red under gold edges, flexible, overlapping cover. Size, 5 $35 $6.31.25 $116.—Same as $115, but has button clasp	ti
	H15-A fine little Bible at a low price. French Morocco, divinity circuit,	fo lapping cover. Size, 5%x3%$1.25 H16—Same as H15, but has button clasp	do E
	F65X—India Paper edition, French Moroc-	-
	F65X—India Paper edition, French Morocco, divinity circuit, red under gold edges. Size, 5%x8%, only % inch thick. $1.50
	F66X-Same as F65X, with button clasp
	8½x5½, 1 inch thick, India paper, French Morocco, divinity circuit.	P red under gold $2.80 R70X—Same as R65X, except binding French Levant and leather lined
	NEW TESTAMENTS. $4.20	Ţ
	E200-Leatherette cover, red edges$0.15	,
	E253—Lemeskin, divinity circuity, limp,	E
	E212—French Morocce, limp, red under $0.30 E252—Lemiskin, divinity circuity, limp, romi, corners, red under gold, $0.30 OXFORD BIBLES. 04207A—Fred into Morocce, divinity circuit, leather lined to edge, silk sewed, round corners, red under gold	s
	round corners, red under gold	i i

	ZION'S E
ENSIGN PUBLICATIONS. her Books for Sale by the Ensign	Bible. Because of the thin India paper it is only % of an inch thick.
Publishing House. Ensign, the missionary paper, con- taining gospel sermons and arti-	03209X—Alaska Seal binding, otherwise the cles, church news and interesting letters. Per year$1.00  Mormon Dictionary A complete	same as 04207X$4.50 4181—French Morocco, divinity circuit,
Mormon Dictionary. A complete pronouncing Dictionary of proper names in the Rock of Mormon.	4181—French Morocco, divinity circuit, round corners, red under gold edges, nonparell type, scif-pro- nouncing, maps and 32 photo views of scenes in Bibie lands$1.35 pronouncing Dictionary of proper names in the Book of Mormon, with definitions and explanatory notes. Paper, 25c; cloth, 40c;
al References. A compilation of	clear print, French Morocco, divinty circuit, round corners, red under gold edges
references under subject headings of texts connected with the gospel, taken from the Bible, Book of Mormon and Doctrine and Covenants. A very handy reference book. Paper covers, 10c; cloth, 15; leather	03203X—A model Bible. India paper, black faced minion type, French Morocco, divinity circuit, linen lined, round
nants. A very handy reference	corners, red under gold edges, 7½x 5¾ inches$2.75
	03581X—Alaska Seal, leather lined, Oxford India paper, silk sewed, large long lation of interesting views, accom- panied with comments, of historic lation of interesting views, accompanied with comments, of historic places in Palestine and Egypt, from photographs taken by Elder and Sr. F. G. Pitt. Heavy paper covers, 50c; cloth boards	04523—French Morocco, self-pronouncing, long primer type, linen lined, di- vinity circuit, round corners, red under gold edges us mannestations. (No lace cui	The 1911 Bible. Of this Bible the Herald tion.) Authentic accounts—of the healing of the sick, restoring sight to the blind and other manifestations of God's miraculous power. Paper covers, 20c; cloth boards, 36c; leather $0.50	and Presbyter says: "The 1911 Bible is far the best translation ever given to the English speaking people." It is beautifully printed tions of God's miraculous power. Paper covers, 20c; cloth boards, 35c; leather	people." It is beautifully printed in large black faced type, bound in bibles Compared. A comparison be- tween the King James, the Revised	in large black faced type, bound in French Morocco, flexible, opening flat, round corners, red under gold sibles Compared. A comparison be- tween the King James, the Revised and the Inspired Versions. Paper covers, 25c, 5 for $1.00; cloth.$0.35 f Mormon Vindicated. Scriptural	flat, round corners, red under gold edges, has headband and silk marker and 12 maps$2.00
Evidences of the Divine Authentici- ty of the Book of Mormon, 115	The 1911 Bible. Printed on genuine Oxford India paper, only % inch thick, silk sewed, bound in finest Alaska Seal, large pages. Paper covers, 25c, 5 for $1.00; cloth$0.50 Creeds. This book shows how, at	leather lined, round corners, red under gold edges, silk head band and marker
Evidences of the Divine Authenticity of the Book of Mormon, 115 large pages. Paper covers, 25c, 5 for $1.00; cloth	OXFORD TESTAMENTS.
of the Obeside While heals above	021—French grained, red edges$0.20 022—Same as 021, with gilt edges$0.30
y of the Church. This book shows the departure from the faith be- fore and after the restoration of the gospel. Paper covers$0.05 the gospel. Warmonism in Con-	021—French grained, red edges$0.20 022—Same as 021, with gilt edges$0.30 030—French Morocco, round corners, limp red under gold edges$0.35
	01240—Morocco grain, round corners, red edges, long primer type; size, 61/2x 41/2
trast. This book plainly shows how the Utah church has departed from the teachings of the standard books	We give such Bibles as are carried in stock, but can supply any Bible on reason- ably short notice. The Oxford line of Bibles of the Church, from quotations and	stock, but can supply any Bible on reasonably short notice. The Oxford line of Bibles is very extensive, from which we list a few of the best and most popular ones.
10c, 3 for $0.25 almyra to Independence. A book of 444 pages. A brief review of the	TRACTS.
Book of Mormon is given, with many testimonals and affidavits.	The following tracts are excellent and suitable for distribution among those not almyra to Independence. A book of 444 pages. A brief review of the Book of Mormon is given, with many testimonals and affidavits. Paper covers, 60; cloth	suitable for distribution among those not identified wih the latter day work. They may be obtained, all of one kind or assorted as desired, at the following prices except
's Business and College Dictionary. Besides being an up-to-date pro- nouncing dictionary it contains much other valuable information.	Two copies$0.05
much other valuable information. It contains new words up to Sep-	Six copies     .10       One dozen copies     .20       100 copies     1.25 much other valuate information. It contains new words up to September, 1911, and the last Government census. Postpaid for 30,60 for Teacher-Training Normal Lessons. Paper covers, 35c; cloth. 30.50 for Story of the Bible. Profusely illustrated, 750 pages $1.50 e of To-day $1.50	No less than 50 copies at 100 rate. "Why I Became a Latter Day Saint," by sons. Paper covers, 35c; cloth$0.50 is Story of the Bible Profusely il-	Elder Joseph Luff. "Future Punishment," by Elder R. C.
lustrated, 750 pages	Evans. "The Book of Mormon; Evidences of Its Divinity," by Elder R. C. Evans.
RIDGE AND BAGSTER BIBLES.	"Creed Making," by Elder I. M. Smith. "Good News." A tract of tracts on sev-
Order by Number.  — Cambridge Teachers' edition.	eral different subjects by as many writers.  "The Church of Christ," by Elder Edward
French Morocco, India paper, silk sewed, opens flat, references, con- cordance, encyclopedia, helps, etc.,	Rannie. "Who Was Joseph Smih," by Elder J. W.
sewen, opens har, ferre-nees, con- cordance, encyclopedia, helps, etc., and yet only % inch thick by 4% by 6%, and weighs only 14 ounces; a very handy book $2.00 -The same as H125X, except it is leather lined and French Levant.	Peterson.  "A Glimpse at the Government of God," by Elder Paul M. Hanson.
The same as H125X, except it is leather lined and French Levant	"Reasons Why. Shall We Hear Them?" Revised edition. By Elder J. W. Peterson.
Same as H121X, but has Perisian	"Twelve Reasons Why I Believe The Book of Mormon," by Elder Charles Fry.
Morocco cover	"Joseph Smith; Was He a Prophet of God?" by Elder R. C. Evans.
under gold edges. Size, 5x7/%x 11/4	The following at special prices named: "What We Believe," an epitome of the under gold edges, button clasp, 5½x3%$1.10 ine Bible for those who want	"What We Believe," an epitome of the faith of the Church. Per dozen 5 cents; 50 for 20 cents; 100, 35 cents. "Items of Teaching Found in the Book of large type and not so particular	"Items of Teaching Found in the Book of Mormon." Compiled by the Independence Religio Good Litertaure Committee. A type, self-pronouncing, fu'l page illustrations, French Seal, divinity circuits, etc. $2.25	Religio Good Litertaure Committee. A tract of ten pages. Three for 5 cents; 12 for 15 cents; 100 for $1.00.
indexed$2.50	"Latter Day Saints; Who Are They" by Elder T. W. Williams. Three for 5 cents; 12 for 15 cents; 100 for $1.00.
ame as S125, with button clasp.$2.35 ame as S125, leather lined$2.70	"Is Water Baptism Essential to Salvation?" by Elder Joseph Luff. Three for 5 cents; 12 for 15 cents; 50 for 40 cents; 100 for 75 cents.
fine little Bible at a low price. French Morocco, divinity circuit, red under gold edges, flexible, overlapping cover. Size, 5 4x3 %$1.25	for 75 cents, "Seventy-one Theological Questions." Per ame as H15, but has button clasp	dozen, 10 cents; per 100, 60 cents.
$1.35 India Paper edition, French Moroc- co, divinity circuit, red under gold edges. Size, 5%x3%, only % inch	curately keeping account of minis- terial labor by simply jotting down figures in the proper column, the printed headings supplying the tmck,	printed headings supplying the rest. A financial record also is a
Same as F65X, with button clasp	rest. A financial record also is a convenient part of the book. This is suitable for all holding the Mel- chisedec Priesthood. Price$0.10
Large type Bible in small compass, 8½x5½, 1 inch thick, India paper, French Morocco, divinity circuit,	Priorite Diary Arranged similar as the red under gold $2.80 Same as R65X, except binding French Levant and leather lined.	Elder's Diary, but provides for labors connected with the office work of the Priest. Price$0.10
NEW TESTAMENTS	Teacher's Diary. Arranged for the duties and Labors of the Teacher. Price
Franch Mores of lime and under	Evanalia Lost. Duet arranged for soprano
rores' corners, red under gold$0.30	Price
-Ferden Morocco, divinity circuit, leather lined to edge, silk sewed, round corners, red under gold edges, black faced type, thin India paper. This is a beautiful little	Song of Admonition. A song of seven verses, given by the Spirit through Elder Joseph Luff. Suitable size to be fastened in hymnal. Price 5 edges, black faced type, thin India paper. This is a beautiful little	Elder Joseph Luff. Suitable size to be fastened in hymnal. Price 5 cents per dozen; per 100 reservation to a sometral little	Ear donoil's Box Toomingdone I

Z10
Bible. Because of the thin paper it is only % of an inch round corners, red under edges, nonparell type, sel nouncing, maps and 32 photo of scenes in Bibie lands of scenes in Bibie lands 01608—The Bible for the home uso ty circuit, round corners, red 03203X—A model Bible. India paper, faced minion type, French Mo divinity circuit, linen lined, corners, red under gold edges corners, red under gold edges
5% inches 03581X—Alaska Seal, leather lined, C India paper, silk sewed, large primer type, round corners under gold edges
under gold edges
1 04523—French Morocco, Self-pronoll
under gold edges
The 1911 Bible. Of this Bible the I and Presbyter says: "The ever given to the English spe in large black faced type, bou flat, round corners, red unde edges, has headband and marker and 12 maps
The 1911 Bible. Printed on genuine C India paper, only % inch thic sewed, bound in finest Alaska leather lined, round corner leather lined, round corner under gold edges, silk head and marker
OXFORD TESTAMENTS.
021—French grained, red edges
red under gold edges 01240—Morocco grain, round corner 01240—Morocco grain, round corner edges, long primer type; size
We give such Bibles as are carr stock, but can supply any Bible on rably short notice. The Oxford line of is very extensive, from which we list of the but and mean rables over ably short notice. The Oxford line of is very extensive, from which we list of the best and most popular ones.  TRACTS.
The following tracts are excellent suitable for distribution among thos identified wih the latter day work.
as desired, at the following prices
The following tracts are excellent suitable for distribution among thos identified with the latter day work may be obtained, all of one kind or ast as desired, at the following prices of as otherwise noted:  Two copies  Six copies
Six copies One dozen copies 100 copies
No loca than 50 copies at 100 rate
"Why I Became a Latter Day Sain Elder Joseph Luff.
"Future Punishment," by Elder Evans.
"The Book of Mormon; Evidences Divinity," by Elder R. C. Evans. "Creed Making," by Elder I. M. Sm "Good News." A tract of tracts or eral different subjects by as many w. "The Church of Christ," by Elder E. Rangie
"Creed Making," by Elder I. M. Sm "Good News." A tract of tracts of eral different subjects by as many wi "The Church of Christ," by Elder E Rannie. "Who Was Joseph Smih," by Elder
Peterson.
"A Glimpse at the Government of by Elder Paul M. Hanson. "Reasons Why. Shall We Hear Th
"Reasons Why. Shall We Hear Tr Revised edition. By Elder J. W. Pet "Twelve Reasons Why I Believe The of Mormon," by Elder Charles Fry.
"Twelve Reasons Why I Believe The of Mormon," by Elder Charles Fry. "Joseph Smith; Was He a Proph
"Joseph Smith; Was He a Proph God?" by Elder R. C. Evans. The following at special prices name
"Joseph Smith; Was He a Proph God?" by Elder R. C. Evans. The following at special prices nan "What We Believe," an epitome of faith of the Church. Per dozen 5 cen for 20 cents; 100, 35 cents.
for 20 cents; 100, 35 cents.
"Items of Teaching Found in the Be Mormon." Compiled by the Indeper Religio Good Litertaure Committee tract of ten pages. Three for 5 cen for 15 cents; 100 for $1.00.
tract of ten pages. Three for 5 cen for 15 cents; 100 for $1.00.
"Latter Day Saints; Who Are The

N'S ENSIGN October 22, 1914, MY HOME FOR SALE WI HOWE FOR SALE
Good huse of 7 rooms, basement and large double cellst, small barn and other out buildings, state of 128, card 28119 feet. Fruit constating of Genoles, card 28119 feet. Fruit constating of Genoles, card 28119 feet fruit constating of Genoles, card 28119 feet fruit conand Paaches. Price 1110. Six hundred cash, Bal ance on time. For particulars call on or address.
R. C. Wilcox, 624 Gay Street. Warrensburg,
Mo. Book of Mormon Post Card. Quotations from the second chapter of Jacob, of the Book of Mormon, condemning polygamy. This is an excellent way to get the position of the church books on polygamy before friends and acquaintances. Price per dozen $0.10 se the ..$4.50 ircuit, gold If-pro-views ...$1,35 GINSENG. Large, divin-Rules. Local library rules, per dozen $0.05 Circulating Library rules, per doz-en, $0.10 Sunday School Library Regula-tions, per dozen $0.05 The growing of GINSENG is a profitable industry, an Agricultural Business with good profits attached. Persons with a small parcel of land can start a good paying business with a small investment that yields good dividends. Send for our booklet, "The ABC of Ginseng", get our prices, and learn how to better your financial condition. Address. Library black rocco, round , 7½x ..$2.75 Blank Preaching Notices. Size, 9x12 inches, 50 for 30 cents; per 100.......$0.50 Oxford e long s, red ...$6.00 Address,
Chas. F. Church & Son. neing, Home Department Supplies. Leaflet of Instruction. No. 2. Per dozen, 10 cents; per 100 ... $0.40
Membership Cards, per dozen, 5.0.45
Superintendent's Report Blanks, per dozen, 5 cents; per 100 ... $3.35
Member's Quarterly Record Envelopes, per dozen, 5 cents; per 100 ... $0.25
Visitor's Report Blanks, per dozen, 5 cents; per 100 ... $0.25
Letter of Invitation, per 100... $0.20
Letter of Invitation, per 100... $0.20
Visitor's Canvas Blanks, per dozen, 10 cents; per 100 ... $0.40
Quarterly Report to District Superintendent and Secretary of Local, per dozen, 5 cents; per 100 ... $0.40 Lamoni, Iowa , red ..$2,50 W. E. MESSENGER, M. D. Ierald 1911 Physician and Surgeon. Calls answered day or night. Office and Residence 806 W. Maple Ave. Independence, Mo. Bell Phone 12 e 1911 eaking rinted and in pening or gold Special attention given to Anesthetics r gold 1 silk .$2,00 Loose Leaf Sheets xford k, silk Seal For Local Religio Secretary's 5, red l band ...$5.00 Record Per dozen, 10 cents; per 100 $0.60 If you have not seen them, send for free Address sample to ...$0.20 ...$0,30 s, limp ...$0.35 ENSIGN PUBLISHING HOUSE, Independence, Mo. ENSIGN PUBLISHING HOUSE, Independence, Mo OFFICERS VISITING CARD

We have for sale a universal visiting card to be used by Branch Officers. It is arragned with spaces for recording names of those in families belonging to the church and also for those not belonging, space for noting condition, dates of visiting officers, also space for remarks. This card when properly filled out shows the names of all members of the family visited, non-members as well as members and wheler their spiritual condition is excellent, fair or poor, the name of the officer visiting the family and the date of the visit, also the address of the family, and any other information it might be wise to add under head of Remarks. There should be at least one card for every family in the branch. The cards are 4x74, inches. The price is 8 cents a dozen or 40 cents a hundred. Address, Ensign Pablishing House, Independence, Mo. s, red , 6½x ..$0.50 ied in Have You Planned Your Summer Vacation? JUST TAKE AN ALTON TRAIN "THE ONLY WAY" except CHICAGO THE HUMMER Leaves Kansas City Arrives Chicago 6:00 p. m. 7:35 a. m. THE NIGHTINGALE
Leaves Kansas City
Arrives Chicago 11:20 p. m.
1:15 p. m. ıt," by R. C. No matter where you wish to go to spend your vacation, our corps of vacation experts will arrange schedules and itineraries that will make travel a pleasure to you. Big lake boats and swift resort specials for both near and far Wisconsin and Michigan Resorts, also to Atlantic City and Canadian resorts.

Ask or write us about our POSITION WANTED I would like employment where there is a Branch, or at least a few families of Saints, at, carpenter work, or in a meat market or grocery or would rent a Farm with every thing furnished. Can furnish good reference. Your Brother in the Gospel of Christ. Albert Carney, 198 Twiss ave.,

Topeka, Kansas. of Its ith. n sev-riters. dward Ask or write us about our J. W $56.50 ROUND TRIP RATE MR & MRS. HARVEY Dr's. of Chiropractic Ki-ro-prac-tic God, Buffalo and Niagara Falls Phone Bell Office 857
House 755 Room 5, Carl Bld'g.
S. E. Square Independence, Mo. em ?' Which includes meals and berths on Book the boat for a solid week Hours 10 to 12,2to 6, evenings by appointment et of UNITED ORDER OF ENOCH HOUSE. ned: Everybody Welcome, Saints and Strangers of the its; 50 W. C. MUELLER, No. 10 North River Boulevard, near the Stone choto 18 intercommodations. Prices reasonable. Bell Phone 613 Chas. A. and Amy T. Gurwell IN CHARGE ook of ndence e. A its; 12 C. & A. R. R. Universal Class Card cents; 100 for $1.00.

Pr Day Saints; Who Ar They" by
W. Williams. Three for 5 cents;
5 cents; 100 for $1.00.

ater Baptism Essential to Salvay Elder Joseph Luff. Three for 5 2 for 15 cents; 50 for 40 cents; 100

ents. RAILROAD TIME TABLES. Send for sample of the Universal Class Cards, for use in both Sunday School and Religio. The Indepen-MISSOURI PACIFIC R. R. MAIN LINE-EAST BOUND. dence Schools have them in general | 100 | K C & Joplin Mail | 11 #5 am | 12 Kansas City & St. Louis Local Mail | 10 #5 am | 16 #5 am | 16 #5 am | 16 #5 am | 16 #5 am | 16 #5 am | 16 #5 am | 16 #5 am | 16 #5 am | 16 #5 am | 16 #5 am | 16 #5 am | 16 #5 am | 16 #5 am | 16 #5 am | 16 #5 am | 16 #5 am | 16 #5 am | 16 #5 am | 16 #5 am | 16 #5 am | 16 #5 am | 16 #5 am | 16 #5 am | 16 #5 am | 16 #5 am | 16 #5 am | 16 #5 am | 16 #5 am | 16 #5 am | 16 #5 am | 16 #5 am | 16 #5 am | 16 #5 am | 16 #5 am | 16 #5 am | 16 #5 am | 16 #5 am | 16 #5 am | 16 #5 am | 16 #5 am | 16 #5 am | 16 #5 am | 16 #5 am | 16 #5 am | 16 #5 am | 16 #5 am | 16 #5 am | 16 #5 am | 16 #5 am | 16 #5 am | 16 #5 am | 16 #5 am | 16 #5 am | 16 #5 am | 16 #5 am | 16 #5 am | 16 #5 am | 16 #5 am | 16 #5 am | 16 #5 am | 16 #5 am | 16 #5 am | 16 #5 am | 16 #5 am | 16 #5 am | 16 #5 am | 16 #5 am | 16 #5 am | 16 #5 am | 16 #5 am | 16 #5 am | 16 #5 am | 16 #5 am | 16 #5 am | 16 #5 am | 16 #5 am | 16 #5 am | 16 #5 am | 16 #5 am | 16 #5 am | 16 #5 am | 16 #5 am | 16 #5 am | 16 #5 am | 16 #5 am | 16 #5 am | 16 #5 am | 16 #5 am | 16 #5 am | 16 #5 am | 16 #5 am | 16 #5 am | 16 #5 am | 16 #5 am | 16 #5 am | 16 #5 am | 16 #5 am | 16 #5 am | 16 #5 am | 16 #5 am | 16 #5 am | 16 #5 am | 16 #5 am | 16 #5 am | 16 #5 am | 16 #5 am | 16 #5 am | 16 #5 am | 16 #5 am | 16 #5 am | 16 #5 am | 16 #5 am | 16 #5 am | 16 #5 am | 16 #5 am | 16 #5 am | 16 #5 am | 16 #5 am | 16 #5 am | 16 #5 am | 16 #5 am | 16 #5 am | 16 #5 am | 16 #5 am | 16 #5 am | 16 #5 am | 16 #5 am | 16 #5 am | 16 #5 am | 16 #5 am | 16 #5 am | 16 #5 am | 16 #5 am | 16 #5 am | 16 #5 am | 16 #5 am | 16 #5 am | 16 #5 am | 16 #5 am | 16 #5 am | 16 #5 am | 16 #5 am | 16 #5 am | 16 #5 am | 16 #5 am | 16 #5 am | 16 #5 am | 16 #5 am | 16 #5 am | 16 #5 am | 16 #5 am | 16 #5 am | 16 #5 am | 16 #5 am | 16 #5 am | 16 #5 am | 16 #5 am | 16 #5 am | 16 #5 am | 16 #5 am | 16 #5 am | 16 #5 am | 16 #5 am | 16 #5 am | 16 #5 am | 16 #5 am | 16 #5 am | 16 #5 am | 16 #5 am | 16 #5 am | 16 #5 am | 16 #5 am | 16 #5 am | 16 #5 am | 16 #5 am | 16 #5 am | 16 #5 am | 16 #5 am ty-one Theological Questions." Per cents; per 100, 60 cents. Price per doz 8 cents, per 100 60 cents 0 cents; per 100, 60 cents.
Diary. A handy little book for accurately keeping account of ministerial labor by simply jotting down figures in the proper column, the printed headings supplying the rest. A financial record also is a convenient part of the book. This is suitable for all holding the Melchisedec Priesthood, Price .....$0.10 ENSIGN PUBLISHING HOUSE, Independence, Mo WAR ATLAS Cram's Atlas of the war comprising 16 Diary. Arranged similar as the Elder's Diary, but provides for labors connected with the office work of the Priest. Price .....$0.10

Cram's Atlas of the war comprising 16 pages 11x14½ and cover, giving fine maps of all the nations of Europe, those in war or likely to be especially emphasized. On the two inside cover pages is given the army and navy equipment of all the European nations as well as the United States and Japan. With this Atlas in connection with daily news one may be able to locate the movements of the armies and have a more comprehensive idea of how the war is being conducted.

ONLY 25 CENTS ONLY 25 CENTS

Get them of

Ensign Publishing House, Independence, Mo.

Junction City Ticket Office, 9th, Main and Delaware. Both phones Main 542.

General Agent Passenger Dept

201 Joplin to Kansas City
3 St. Louis to California Special
37 Sedalia, and Nevada Local
7 Fast Mail Ino stop)
207 Joplin to Kansas City Express
1 Colorado and St. Joe Express
221 St. Louis Local (all stops) 6 02 a m 6 57 a m 9 32 a m 9 01 a m 2 07 p m 4 51 p m 6 25 p m

LEXINGTON BRANCH-EAST BOUND.

22 K.C. to Sedalia 624 K.C. to Sedalia 23 Sedalia to Kansas City 621 Sedalia to Kansas City

> T. A. JOHNSON, Agent, Independence, Mo

Entered at the Post Office at Independence, Mo., as Second Class Matter

OUR CREED: "ALL TRUTH."

VOL. 2

INDEPENDENCE, MISSOURI, THURSDAY, OCTOBER 29, 1914

NO. 44

ZION'S ENSIGN

Published by the Reorganized Church of Jesus Christ of Latter Day Saints, every Thursday, at Independence, Mo., at $1.00 per year.

CHARLES FRY, EDITOR W. H. DEAM, Bus. Manager

In writing concerning subscriptions, always give the nam of the Post Office to which your paper has been going, as by so doing the stof hours in looking for it may be avoided. When desting a change of addings a lower give, the old as well when desting a change of addings a lower give the old as well whether it is a renewal or a new subscription alway state whether it is a renewal or a new subscription. In making remittances Money Orders are preferable. If coin is sent is should be folded in a card so it will not lowen us not there are not always to the control of the co

ENSIGN PUBLISHING HOUSE, Independence, Mo

"BE NOT FAITHLESS BUT BELIEVING."

The above words were spoken by the Lord to the unbelieving Thomas, to whom he appeared after his resurrection. Notwithstanding Thomas had been with his Master during the years of his ministry and had heard the many prophetic utterances regarding the Lord's death and resurrection, and notwithstanding he had heard the testimonies of his brethren who had seen the resurrected Lord, yet he refused to believe, and declared that "Except I shall see in his hands the print of the nails, and put my finger into the print of the nails, and thrust my hand into his side, I will not believe." The Lord's reproof, though uttered in kindness was nevertheless justified, and with it he commanded Thomas to "Reach hither thy finger, and behold my hands; and reach hither thy hand and thrust it into my side," but Thomas was convinced by what he saw and cried "My Lord and my God."

The evidences which not only justified faith upon the part of Thomas, but made it obligatory if he were to be free from reproof and final condemnation, were such as have been or will be placed within the reach of all men, and every man must decide upon those evidences whether he will believe unto life and salvation, or disbelieve unto condemnation, for the evidences which God has been so careful to give to man are not without effect in the world, and all men will be required to answer to him for the attitude they have taken in regard thereto. Nor will a wilful refusal or neglect to consider or heed the divine evidences of the truth relieve one from condemnatory results. Christ said: "The word that I have spoken, the same shall judge him in the last day.'

Testimony a Sufficient Basis of Belief.

The thought is clearly conveyed in Christ's words noted above that Thomas ought to have believed upon the evidences placed before him which were found in the testimonies of his brethren. Fortunately for him the opportunity was granted of seeing the Lord, but this did not change the fact that the previous evidences were sufficient to have warranted a belief upon his part. Reliable human testimony is sufficient to establish a fact as may be seen in any court of justice, and the same kind of testimony ought to be accepted when it pertains to the things of God which concern mankind. Frequently men who reject such evidence ask for other evidences of an unusual and extraordinary character, and which are not to be compared in force and reliability with those which have been rejected. The chief priests, scrices, and elders among the Jews, having rejected the abundant testimonies which Jesus had offered them regarding his mission, and the gospel, said of him when upon the "If he be the King of Israel, let him now cross: come down from the cross, and we will believe Such a request was extremely inconsistent, and their premise of belief evidently untrue, for had not many of them already had knowledge of his miracles because of which they had sought to kill him? History shows that signs and miracles alone never did make believers, nor were such things given for this purpose, but were to "follow" the believers for the purpose of "confirming the word" in them that believe. Belief of the Gospel Essential to Salvation.

At the beginning of his ministry Jesus preached: "Repent ye, and believe the gospel." These were no idle words. The sins of the Jewish people, both individual and national, were carrying them swiftly on toward disaster, and repentance with an obedience to the gospel law were the sole means of saving them either in this world or the next. Without belief in the gospel men cannot live in obedience to its exalting principles, and cannot come under its saving promises, and as the Jews went down into destruction through disbelief, so others who follow the same course must of necessity expect the same result.

Again we read that "as Moses lifted up the serpent in the wilderness, even so must the Son of man be lifted up; that whosoever believeth in him should not perish, but have eternal life." The terrible sacrifice which Christ endured in order to make the gospel effectual in the salvation of man is evidence of the importance and value of that gospel. Jesus did not die to get men to believe fairy tales which made little difference to them whether they believed or disbelieved, but he died to bring man under the application of vital truth, truth which was vital to every man and to which every man must answer in the time of judgment. All too frequently men think that unless they make a profession of faith in the gospel that they are in no way abligated by it, but it is a universal law having application to "every creature," and "he that believeth not is condemned already, because he hath not believed in the name of the only begotten Son of God." The gospel was given at too great a sacrifice, and its effects too far reaching to warrant its being treated lightly or ignored by man, but like the rock upon which the foundation is to be built it is worth digging for; like the pearl of greatest price, it is greater in value than all else that a man may have. Through it man may have eternal life, without it he must perish.

Paul writes: "But without faith it is impossible to please him: for he that cometh to God must believe that he is, and that he is a rewarder of them that diligently seek him." Belief is truly essential as without it none can come to God. How necessary then that God should have furnished the evidences upon which men might base their belief. These evidences are found in the testimonies of Jesus Christ and his prophets, and apostles, given throughout the ages and they bear the stamp of truth. He that does not believe in the gospel cannot please God, he cannot come to God, he is not under the promise of salvation, but under that condition that results in eternal loss.

God Multiplies Evidences When Necessary.

To those who believe in part, signs are sometimes given to lead them on to greater faith. Thus Moses went to the people of Israel in Egypt and told them the things which God had commanded him to say, and worked signs in the sight of the people. In giving Moses power to do these signs the Lord said: "If they will not believe thee, neither hearken to the voice of the first sign, that they will believe the voice of the latter Thus the people had as evidences that the Lord remembered them the testimony of Moses and the testimony of two signs of a supernaural character. For this people who were held in abject servitude to believe that God would deliver them, upon the testimony of a single man would be difficult indeed, but when that testimony was attended with manifestations of divine power, it became an easy matter, for the evidences were adequate to the occasion. Since one sign might not be sufficient, the Lord gave two that the people might be fully convinced.

By what rule of Scripture or of divine law men today hold that with the testimony of John the Revelator God ceased to add any further evidences of the gospel to the convincing of men in later times, we do not know, but the extent of unbelief at the present time due in large measure to the doubtful character of the ancient evidences, certainly demands additional evidences from God to convince men of the truthfulness of the all-important gospel. Since men have not hearkened to the voice of the "first-sign,"--the revelation of God's character and will in the Bible-the necessity for a second "sign" is apparent, especially since it has been declared that "in the mouth of two or three witnesses shall every word be established." Are not the multitudes of earth's inhabitants now as precious in the sight of God as was ancient Istael? Have they not as great need of present evidences of God's interest in them, and of the trythfulness of the gospel of salvation, which during the dark ages has been clouded in uncertainty, as did Israel? Has God remained unchanged, and does he still regard the needs of his creatures? If so, then the conditions render it obligatory upon him to furnish evidences adequate to the present occasion, that men might not be left in uncertainty and doubt.

It is a fact that the Bible has been largely discredited by both professed believers and unbelievers, so that the evidences found in it do not have the value they should have in the minds of men. The uncertainty relative to the several points of doctrine taught in the Bible has been the cause of the upspringing of a multitude of diverse organizations in place of the "one body" of Christ, causing confusion and further unbelief.

The second "sign" has been given of God; another witness has come to testify with no uncertain sound, and another array of evidences from an entirely separate source has been brought to light by the power of God, in order that men might believe. These later evidences confirm the former ones, and though of ancient origin they come as a new revelation from God because of his miraculous power being manifest in their coming forth; they are his witness sent to meet the critical emergency of modern times, and its testimony, like the testimony of the Bible, bears upon its face the stamp of divine truth.

In harmony with Bible prophecy that "Truth shall spring out of the earth; and righteousness shall look down from heaven," the Lord by his angel working in co-operation with men brought forth from the earth, where it had lain for fourteen hundred years, a record of a fallen people who had previously been under his favor and blessing, a record which contained an account of God's dealings with them, and an exposition of the gospel. It was written by the last surviving prophet of that ancient American nation, named Mormon, from which the record derives its name -Book of Mormon.

The testimony of this second witness confirms that of the first; it advocates the same gospel; it gives evidence of the diviniy of the Jesus of the New Testament, and of his resurrection; it declares the permanency of the gospel with its di-vine accompaniments of the Holy Spirit, and miraculous gifts and blessings. Its testimony has never been refuted, though the book has been held in contempt by bitter opposers, but men's attititude toward it, whether of belief or unbelief, does not make it one whit different, for if true it will so remain against all opposition, and if untrue the whole world's acceptance will not improve it. We believe the evidences of its divinity are sufficient to justify and warrant a belief in it, and by these evidences men are obligated to believe. Some have said: "Show us the original plates from which the book was translated and we will believe," but they have forgotten that the tables of stone upon which were written the Mosiac law were not submitted to the investigation of unbelievers; that the ark of the covenant was not exposed to the gaze of the incredulous; and that Jesus, after his resurrection, was not seen by any except those who believed in him. Legitimate evidences, such as are accepted in all the common affairs of life, should be sufficient to convince the reasonable mind and it is inconsistent to ask more.

The gospel of Jesus Christ is supported by adequate evidences, both ancient and modern, and to those who believe, these evidences will be multiplied abundantly, for "he that receiveth light, and continueth in God, receiveth more light, and that light groweth brighter and brighter, until the perfect day." The revelation also states:

"I the Lord am willing to make these things known unto all flesh, for I am'no respector of persons." With these evidences and these promises brought within the reach of every man, we may appropriately say: "Be not faithless, but believing.

COMMENTS.

Virginia gone prohibition .- Virginia recently voted for state prohibition by a majority of 35,000, making now ten states in the prohibition column. Prohibition does not become effective there until This is another big step toward national 1916. prohibition.

Court of Domestic Relations.—Chicago has a Court of Domestic Relations, in which marital difficulties are amicably adjusted if possible, rather than permitting these difficulties to lead to trial and separation to the breaking up of families. With the aid of this court many unhopeful cases are settled, and the family circles saved from being broken up, the number being about one-third of the whole.

INDEPENDENCE ITEMS.

In the forenoon Sunday Elder Amos T. Higdon occupied. He read a part of the 37th Psalm, laying particular stress on the 11th verse: "The meek shall inherit the earth; and shall delight themselves in the abundance of In conncetion with this he read Matt 5:5: "Blessed are the meek; for they shall inherit the earth." He said that the nations are not enjoying "the abundance of peace" at present. His sermon following was ably handled, giving Bible proof and statistics concerning Christ's second coming and the condition that would prevail during the millenial reign.

The morning's sermon was preceded by an excellent anthem, followed by a fine solo by Bro. Paul N. Craig during which time a collection was taken up for the Red work, amounting to between sixteen and seventeen dollars

In the evening, after half hour of fine orchestral music by the Sunday School orchestra, Elder T. J. Sheldon de-livered a splendid sermon, being one of a series on the Book of Mormon. He quoted from the 83rd section of the Doctrine and Covenants where it speaks of the church being under condemnation, and would so remain until "they repent and remember the new covenant, even the Book of Mormon," etc. He said that among other insti-Book of Mormon," etc. He said that among other insti-tutions in the Book of Mormon was the institution of the priesthood. He explained the existence of the priesthood oth on this continent and the eastern continer his sermon was on the existence of the priesthood and the explanation of its workings, of the necessity of the Book of Mormon and of the necessity of both orders of the priesthood being on this continent as well as the He also spoke of the beautiful teaching found in the Book of Mormon.

A wedding occurred at the residence of Bro. and Sr. W. A. O. White Sunday evening at eight o'clock, when Ona, daughter of Bro. and Sr. White, was united in marriage to Albert King in the presence of about one hundred guests, Elder I. N. White, uncle of the bride, officiating, and Sr. G. H. Humes, cousin, playing the wedding march. Refreshments followed, and many useful presents were

On the 5th of next month Bro. J. C. Foss will leave On the 5th of next month Bro, J. C. Foss will leave for the State of Maine, stopping the first Sunday in St. Louis and the second in Boston. Bro. Foss just recently returned from Maine where he had spent the larger part of the summer. This time he expects to be gone two or three years. Sr. Foss and their grandson Earl left a week or ten days ago. Well, while Bro. Foss will be missed here he will be working in the Master's cause in the east. He preached at East Independence Sunday forencon.

Bro. I. N. Roberts has moved from Stewartsville, Mo., to Independence and has located at 115 S. Pendleton Ave.

We call attention to a communication in this issue from Stafford (should be Bro. E. Stafford.) In this Bro. Stafford tells of a prophecy now being fulfilled. prophecy was uttered two years ago last March by Bro. J. W. Dubose. Read it. Although Mr. Stafford does not yet belong to the church his heart and soul is in it and he expends lots of money to spread the gospel in his way. Last year he sent the Ensign to 500 for three months each, and his offer is again good this year, and those who care to have it more than three months and so state he will extend the time three months longer. These are sent out under the rules governing the 50 cent offer to non-members, not to members, mind you. His idea is in harmony with the object of the 50 cent offer—to convert people to the gospel and make them members by reading the missionary paper. Who is going to compete with Bro. Stafford in this good work? Read his offer on page 7.

Tuesday morning, October 27th, everything outdoors was covered with a coat of white which Jack Frost had lavishly supplied during the night, his first visit here avisiny supplied ouring the might, his visit here this year, although there have been other times cold enough had be not been hindered by cloud and wind. Tuesday morning the smiles on the face of Elder O. R. Miller were perceptibly broadened, especially when he remarked that he had "a big boy over at the sanitarium this marning."

The sunsets as seen in Independence and noted by many are remarkably beautiful. Old Sol seems to have a way here of sending forth his rays from the western horizon to produce the most beautiful shading and blending of to produce the most beautiful shading and blending of colors as he bids us adice in bringing to a close the day he has glorified and made brilliant from the effulgence of his great are light. Just now there is an added beauty one looks from the high points of Independence to the landscape lying westward "between Jew and Gentile" to landscape lying westward "between Jew and Gentile" towards Kansas City, where, as seeming on terraced steps, the wooded hills are resplendent with foliage of green, gold and red, which, if an artist could duplicate on canvas, would crown him with glory and renown. Go to the other sides of Independence and you behold the rolling prairies, the fields with shocked corn, the tinted vegetation of autumn leaves in blends of various colors. Independence beautiful! Indeed!

ST. JOSEPH, FIRST BRANCH.

Oct. 11th Elder Charles Fry preached both morning and evening, the evening sermon on the "Power of Prayer" being especially good. Sunday school had a fairly good being especially good. attendance. The few minutes alloted to entertaining fea-tures were used by a continuation of "The Mansion," (a story that is being read to the school in instalments,) by Ruby Jackson, and a duet by Neil Heikes and Grace

On the evening of the 16th the Religio had in addition to the usual musical numbers, a unique and interesting program. Twenty of the members were asked to take seats on one side of the room and were then handed selips of paper containing subjects, upon which the holders were asked to talk one minute each. This gave us twenty minutes of diversified ideas, and was a very pleasant diversion.

Bro. Fry again occupied the preaching hours both times on the 18th and his sermons are always uplifting, and cannot fail if applied to our daily lives to make us more fit for the accomplishment of good and better able to bear our part in God's great work. On this Sunday our superintendent read the closing section of "The Mansion" to the Sunday school, and then Athena Scott sang a beautiful solo. Talk of a Christmas entertainment in the school made us realize that another year is almost gone. Oh how time "glides swiftly away" and how little we seem to accomplish, and eternity so near.

Apostle John W. Rushton preached the initial sermon of a two week's series on Sunday morning the 25th. was reported as being fine. In the evening he took the "beatitudes" for the subject matter of his discourse and through them portrayed the granduer and depth of in-tellect, and the magnetic and sympathetic personality of the man "Jesus Christ" and his divine insight into the spiritual needs of the human family. It was indeed a grand sermon, and we are looking forward to many ingrand sermon, and we are looking forward to many in-tellectual treats in the next two weeks. Sunday school had an attendance of 101 and collection of over seven dollars, this being Christmas offering Sunday. Our super-intendent, Bro. Harri Tilden was quite iil, and so unable to be present. This we believe was the second time he has been absent in his incumbence of nearly two years. The assistant superintendent D. C. Wilke wa being with his family enjoying his vacation in the "sunny

On Friday night the 25th the Religio had a splendid program-unusually good was the general verdict. During the two weeks meetings the Religio will meet on

The men of the first branch is respective of age have or ganized a club to be known as the Latter Day Saints Boosters, their object being to work for the interest of the branch. They have held several enthusiastic meetings.

Last Monday evening the Study Club met at the home of Bro. and Sr. E. E. McCormick and had a very interesting session. Next meeting will be at the home of Bro. ing session. I

On Thursday Sr. Edith Cochran Superintendent of Sew-On Thursday Sr. Edith Cochran Superintendent of Sew-ing and Aid Department of Woman's Auxiliary organized a local at Wyatt Park Mission to be known as the "Wyatt Park Ladies' Sewing and Aid Society." They are start-ing out courageously with the object in view of getting a better location for the Mission and a comfortable house in which to worship. Their first work will be to serve meals down town during the coming State Teachers Con-vention. We wish them abundant success and hope every one of our members will render them all the assistance

Sr. John Banman gave a coffee at her home, 16th and Frederic Ave., Monday, the 19th, afternoon and evening, for the benefit of the church. A neat litle sum was real-

On Thursday the eighth, one of our young Sunday school workers, Sr. Gertrude Peterson, was united in marriage to Mr. Elmyer L. Alter, Elder Jesse Roberts of Independence performing the ceremony. They were married in the beautiful little home, the gift of the groom's parents. A host of friends rejoice in Gertrude's happiness and wish her a pleasant and presperous life.
Patriarch F. A. Smith closed a series of meetings the third branch last night.

Our cradle roll has been swelled by the addition of sevlately. Bro. and Sr Dunfee, and Bro. and Sr. George Christiansen have welcomed dear little daughters to their homes, and Bro. and Sr. Roy Tilden are proud of a fine son.

Sr. J. O. Worden and children departed for Kansas City where they will join Bro. Worden and make their home in the future. Grandma Archibald is here visiting her children.

SEATTLE.

There were nineteen present at the young peoples' rayer meeting Sunday morning at nine o'clock in charge of Elder Amos Rhodes and priest Evan E. Insice. There were 3 prayers and 16 testimonies. A good showing for

Bro. Wm. Johnson while in the northern part of the district held services at Bellingham, Lynden and Rose-dale; was one of the speakers in dedicating a school building in B. C. He ordained Bro. Moloch to the office of

Bro. Amos Rhodes was the Sunday morning speaker, taking as his theme the kingdom of God. Bro. Rhodes is a university student, and is superintendent of our Sunday school. In the evening the pastor spoke on the subject, Joseph Smith as a restorer. His attitude toward the marriage question was examined in the light of the standard The attendance was excellent though the weathe

The Saints have organized a class for the study of religion, especially the restoration and evidences supporting the same. The meetings will be held first and third Sundays of each month at five o'clock.

Our missions are moving along nicely at which are held some very spiritual meetings. J. M. Terry 102 North 39th St., Seattle, Wash., Oct. 22.

FIRST CHICAGO ITEMS.

A goodly number were in attendance Sunday morning, enjoyed the sermon delivered by our missionary, David E. Dowker.

Not long ago we reported that our Sunnay school was arranging to qualify as a first grade school by instituting the normal class and grading of classes. This has been accomplished and the normal class will soon take its first examination.

We hope all schools will aim high, endeavoring to qualify in all points prescribed by the general association, and we can assure all of the great benefit to be derived from the

The evening hour was well occupied by Elder F M Cooper of Plano, Ill., who gave excellent instruction to a large congregation, including, as usual, many visitors G. A. Worrell.

4158 W. Congress St.

Survey and Misher Survey Survey & CORRESPONDENCE

wernerwermen wernerwerner D Milton, Florida, Oct. 21.

Editor Ensign: Today I am sitting by the grave in which is sleeping the earthly remains of Elder Thomas W. Waddle who was sent to labor as a missionary in the southeastern mission about the year 1867. He did an southeastern mission about the year 1867. He did an excellent work, baptizing many precious souls into the kingdom of God. The grave which contains the earthly remains of this faithful, energetic missionary of the Church is not being kept up as it should be. It is located about six miles east from the above address, away out in the pine forest on the south side of Black Water River where there are a few other graves verly poorly cared for. The grave of this brother, far away from his native home and blood relation, away out in the lonely pine forest, has no mound of earth to mark the place but there are two pieces of cedar, one at the head and the other at the foot, which are now in a state of decay and will soon waste away. On the headboard I read the following inscription cut into the wood with a knife, vizz—"Thomas W. Waddle, born, died 1868." Have been informed that Bro. Waddle was of Welch descent and he is held in very high esteem among the Saints in the south where he labored and his work in the South, though not long in duration, has been the means of great good to the church.

I call attention to this matter with the thought in mind that it make cause some to become interested to that extent that they would go to work and collect enough funds and purchase a tombstone to mark his grave. If someone would take the lead in the matter no doubt many of his friends would gladly donate to secure a monument that would not cost a great amount. I thus write in behalf of the one who made a sacrifice among strangers for the gospel's sake.

I am earnestly striving to be fully prepared to enter into that heavenly rest when the work of sacrifice here in this probation is ended. The missionaries in this field are busy and meeting with success. I pray the Lord to bless the Church and all the army of workers everywhere so that peace, unity and love may prevail that the way may be prepared for the King of kings to come and reign with his people.

In gospel bonds,

F. M. Slover.

Hamilton, Mo., Oct. 22.

Editor Ensign:-- I love to read the letters in the Ensign Editor Ensign:—I love to read the revers in the snaspin and Herald, and thought perhaps some would be glad to hear from us. We are nicely located in our new home five and one-half miles from Hamilton and four miles from Kingston. We belong to the Oak Dale Branch, our church is two miles from here. We are enjoying ourselves with the people in our branch and district and hope to continue to become more acquainted in the district for we love to associate with the Saints.

I feel good in this work, and have a greater determination than ever to live a Christian life. I always had that desire but as I grow older, and knowing the destruction that is coming upon the earth, I feel the time is short in which to prepare ourselves to live and reign with Jesus when he comes to reign as King of kings, and Lord

Bro. Roth held a two or three weeks meeting at King-Bro. Roth held a two or three weeks meeting at King-ston, closing September 25th, and we were glad we had the privilege to attend a number of times. This meeting closed on Friday night, giving the Saints at that place a chance to meet with the Oak Dale Branch in our two days meeting, the following Saturday and Sunday. Bro. Roth and Chas. Morton were in charge of same. The Kingston Branch was well represented and Patriarch Wm. Lewis and daughter Sr. Ruth, of Cameron, attended and remained until the next Friday. He gave a number of blessings and preached several good sermons. We received much encouragement from these meetings and especially from our blessings. There were many sacred promises given to us. There is nothing on earth can equal them. We want to live for them, faithful to the covenant we made to serve God, that we may be worthy of every blessing he has promised, that our life may be in harmony with his desires and will concerning us, that we may me instruments in his hands in many ways to accomplish the good he has intended; but we feel our weakness and know that we will faiter by the way side unless we are aided by that divine Spirit that will help us see wherein we are weak and to be on our guard against evil influences that are in the world, for Satan is also on the watch seeking whom he may destroy.

evil influences that are in the world, for Satan is also on the watch seeking whom he may destroy.

I feel the great need of being prayerful and I want to live an every day life that I might be a fit temple for the indvelling of his holy Spirit, humble and full of love that I may be able to assist in this great work. Remember me in your prayers and I will continue to remember God's covenanted people.

A sister in the faith,

Mrs. Alma Hawley.

Bald Knob, Ark., Oct. 21. Editor Ensign:—Once more our hearts were made to rejoice when on the 18th quite a number of Saints and friends were permitted to gather at the river edge and there witness nine precious souls conducted into the kingdom of God, making an addition of twenty-seven to branch this summer, all baptized by Bro. J. T. R pranch this summer, all baptized by Bro. J. T. Riley. Five of our immediate neighborhood and twenty-two of Wordin about five miles from Bald Knob, where the work was opened lost year. These new Saints are anxious to have the work continue in their part of the vineyard and are doing what they can. With the assistance of our worthy superintendent, Bro. W. F. Martin, they have sueceded in organizing a Sandan Schot, Committee of the superintendent of the said of worthy superintendent, Bro. W. F. Martin, they have suc-ceeded in organizing a Sunday School. Our hearts truly are with them, and if it were as we would have it, we would all hold services together, but as distance and other inconveniences render this impossible, we will have to submit and leave the result with Him who doeth all things well.

The Saints of Wordin have met with some opposition by the Baptist people of that place and on the 4th of this month were challenged for debate by one of the Baptist ministers who was holding a meeting there at that time. Bro. Riley was at once notified of the challenge and went to their rescue within a week's time, but on his arrival the preacher was gone and could not be heard from, arrival the preacher was gone and could not be heard from, so the debate was a one sided affair, lasting one week. As a result of Bro Riley's visit at this time the nine persons spoken of herein were baptized. Thus mid trials and difficulties the good work goes on. While our hearts have been made sad by reason of some conditions of the persons of the person of the could be a supported by the person of the our branch we have also been made to rejoice. Realizing our wisdom too limited and our strength too insignificant for the accomplishing much we commit the work of this place unto God, trusting that he will watch over and direct place unto God, trusting that he will watch over and direct it, that our hopes and prayers may not be in vain. Pray for our Sunday school and prayer meeting, dear readers, and also the Woman's Auxiliary which we have just lately organized, wherein we find great pleasure and in fine, pray that we may engage ourselves in every good work possible and theep ourselves unspotted from the world, that God's name may be glorified through those who profess bis cause and that light may come to those who profess his cause and that light may come to those who are yet in darkness.

six years of my experience with the church I have found that service brings the greatest pleasure. Realizing my weakness and inability I ask to be remembered with faith and prayer that I may be able to overcome my weakness and do the little that God requires of me. To this I desire to add my humble testimony of the gospel restored in these last days. Ever praying for the wel-fare of the gospel and those enlisted therein.

Miss Laura Emde

Perry, Iowa, Sept. 8.

Dear Ensign:—You always bring along some ray of light and truth and you will ever be welcome to my home. It is only about eighteen months since I united with the church. Was baptized by Bro. S M. Reiste and it was with a determined will to do good that I walked into the water on the 19th day of March, 1913, and have truly had many wonderful blessings since, and have been made to suffer much by being called a person who was possessed of the evil spirit, in different ways. But when you enter the kingdom you are only a child and don't understand much, but you grow according to your faithfulness.

And I often think of the statement that our sins will find us out. If we would search ourselves we would not find us out. If we would search ourselves we would not have much time to look at the things of the world. In the Doctrine and Covenants I have read many times the admonition is "early to bed and early to rise." That does not mean a moonlight party after we have preached the pospel to the world. We spend money for pienics, etc., and owe a church debt. The debt cannot be removed when we spend our money on the things of the world.

I heard a man say once it was good for them (men) to learn to wash dishes and do house work. I admit all that, but look out men, women are the same today as that, but look out men, women are the same today as they were in the beginning and the first thing you know they were in the beginning and the first thing you know you will be washing dishes and tending the baby when you should be doing the work the Lord set apart for you to do. Now I don't mean for women to be slaves, either; we should help one another. Let us women give up the things of the world and keep an ever watchful eye on our homes and especially the little children given to our care. I have no children in my home and my husband is not a number of the Church, but my one prayer is that he may be come time. And when he is I will never ask him to wait on me when some poor soul is needing help out of their difficulties. I often think the greatest plessing is the forreivne heart. blessing is the forgiving heart.

Mrs. Fred Peasley

Mill Spring, Mo., Oct. 16.

Dear Ensign:—I like to think of you as a confidential friend, to whom we all may come, and like a family circle, talk of our joys and sorrows; our blessings and disappointments. Upon your arrival each week, I turn first to the Correspondence column, to read the letters that appear each week, since they are the real essence of actual life, and the happenings incident thereto. Lately I have noticed a shortage in the number of these letters, but this is not your fault, rather the fault of your subscribers, of whom I am one.

In this part of the vineyard we have surely felt the hand of oppression for the past six months, but we have found of a truth, 'every cloud has a silver lining." Or account of a severe drouth there were no crops raised as account of a severe drouth there were no crops raised as compared to other years, but of late rains have put the land in excellent shape for sowing wheat and farmers are putting out a large crop. Fall pastures are also in excellent condition and while we are temporarily blessed at present we have been blessed liberally in a spiritual way.

There have been 14 members added to our branch by baptism since Aug. 10th, three by Elder R. H. Counts, six by Bro. J. F. Cunningham, and five by Bro. Henry Sparling of Springfield. The work seems to have taken on added life in Southern Missouri and especially in this

There is yet a keen interest, with much work to be done. Satan is also alert and in some places is making the fight of his life; for this reason we hope to see all the above named brethren return to us for another round soon! Bro. Sparling is a war horse of the true color

Pray for the success of the cause and redemption of Zion.
Will add for the benefit of those who may be interested that there are some cheap homes to be had in these parts, account of the late drought. Will give all information possible to those who write.

Yours for the Master's cause Wesley Gibbs.

Netawaka, Kans. Sent 7

Editor Ensign:—We have to some extent revived the old Netawaka Branch. I came here in June and found there had been no meetings in the little chapel for about three years. So I held forth at the M. W. A. Hall for about three weeks, (as all the church chairs were there) and had good crowds every night. A number became interested; so much so that shortly after I left for Topcka, interested; so much so that shortly after I left for Topeka, they got together and fixed up the church.

I came back Sept. 15th and went to preaching in the church, and yesterday I baptized three, all adults, and there are still others that are interested. The greatest need here as I see it, is a leader, the only one here that holds the priesthood is Elder William Hopkins, about 84 years old. If they had someone to go ahead, I believe the work here could be built un. work here could be built up.

Yours in gospel bonds.

J. W. A. Bailey.

Dagonia, Mo., Oct. 16 Dear Ensign:-The Missionary Baptist got their fighting duds on around Mill Springs, Mo, and our brethren sent for me, but by the time I got there they had cooled off some, and continued to cool off the longer I remained. So after a month has passed without hearing any reply to the propositions sent them we have concluded they have changed their mind, and decided it would not be so easy as they first thought.

So we put in our time at Mill Springs where that noble band of Saints have some get up. I tell you they made my stay real pleasant and turned out well at meetings, two giving their names for baptism, ill health preventing. two giving their names for baptism, ill health preventing, it then went up to Platow where our two worthy sisters Hartrup and Russell have lived faithful lives, and the fruits of such faithfulness resulted in seeing Bro. Hartrup, Bro. Russell, Claud Hartrup and Bro. and Sr. Williams, five adults enter the fold. Sr. Hartrup has four more fine sons, who are all interested in this work, and I am counting on their health parties length of the proposed of the proposed and the state of the proposed of the state of the proposed of the state of the stat on their help before long. Claud is a fine young man and will prove a great help to the work at that point. They have a nice hobse belonging to Bro. Russell which I held meet-ings in. I see no reason why a branch can not be built up

I next came to this point, Dagonia. I wrote a week ahead, but up to date the letter has failed to get here; so I found myself put off at a switch and had to walk four miles of the toughest walk it was ever my lot to nake. I am right in the part where that land commake. I am right in the part where that land commands is trying to build a city and selling land on the installment plan. Several saints I know have invested. I would advise our people to write Bro. Harry Counts, Dagonia, Mo., and see what people think of it who live here before investing any more money. To my mind this land is very thin, and it's the roughest part of all South Missouri Ozarks.

Missouri Uzarks.

But if any one wants to help spread the gospel this is the place where he can do so, instead of hiding his talents in a big city. There is some real good farms that can be bought, but there is lots of this land too rough for any kind of farming.

My next trip will be down in Douglas, Texas, and Howell Science withing a call write me at my now ad-

Howell. Saints wishing a call write me at my new ad-

Henry Sparling

2002 Kilham St., Springfield, Mo.

Paris, Ill., Aug., 3.

Dear Ensign:—After reading the many letters from the Saints, I feel impressed to drop a few lines in regard to the good work here. My uncle, A. C. Barmore, was here at two different times and he baptized one. Others spoke of being baptized, but wanted to wait till warmer I wish to say that a letter came here from one of the elders, stating that he intended to call here.

We need an c'der here, and if one can come please drop a card and let me know, and I will get a place for meetings. I believe there are several here ready to obey the gospel at the first opportunity.

I wish to say that I thank God for the many blessings

I want to say time I train don't for the many messangs he bestows upon all those that love him. I love this gospel and I am still striving to press onware and upward toward that mark of the high calling of God in ward toward that mark of the high calling of God in Christ Jesus. My strongest desire is to Frew in the grace of our Lord that he may look upon me as one to represent him. Pray for me that I may be faithful to the discharge of my duty. I am your brother in the one true faith.

Jacob Williamson

Meadville, Neb., Sep. 20.

Dear Ensign:—I am still trying to do the will of the Master. I read in the Ensign of President Smith being blind and partially deaf. Well deafness is bad, but blindness is worse. My oldest son went blind and I thought I should try to do what I could for him. I don't know when I will get away, but I will stay till the power that led me here leads me to return. I had many times a will to leave, but something said to be patient. I believe that was brought here to make me more patient and the Lord's will be done, not mine.

As I am a member of the branch in Independence, I ask As I am a member of the branch in independence, I ask for their prayers that I may ever be faithful until the end comes, as I have tried to do since 1877. As my hearing is some better and as I never lost faith but that I wou'd hear. As God's Spirit has guided me I feel encouraged to press on, believing that He will care for me.

Your brother,

F. T. Dobie

Terlton, Okla.

Editor Ensign:-Oklahoma is feeling the effects of the war, but we are going ahead with the work of the Master, and building the branches, baptizing our usual number. The men have been very active this year in mission work.

Our Lamanite missionaries are beginning to learn their duty, and are visiting the camps and preaching. Hastily your brother, Smittle, Mo., Oct. 5.

Dear Ensign:—Perhaps a few words from an isolated Saint would be of interest to some. We are still trying to hold to the rod of iron, though Satan often tempts and tries us severely. We look forward to a day when we can have church privileges. We have a faithful sister, Lizzie Burris, who has been in bed for 8 weeks with sciatic rheumatism, and she is too weak to write to the Prayer Union. She requests that I write for her. Will all the Saints kindly remember her in prayer to God that if it be his will she may be healed, and if not that she may be able to hear her suffering with patience and say, Thy will be done. She is a noble Saint. She also wants an elder to come and administer to her. If it is so one can come, do so, and comfort her in her lonely hours. for us that we may all be worthy of the reward of the just, and have a part in the first resurrection. praying for Zion, I remain your sister in Christ, Mrs. Lou E. Jordan.

Argyle, Mo., Oct. 4.

Dear Eusign:—The Ensign is a welcome guest, as I am isolated from church privileges. I love to read the letters and sermons. I have not heard a sermon for over a year, but I feel like pressing on, though in a weak way, to do what I can for the Master. There are no Saints here that I know of except myself and one son. If there are any Saints near here I would like to hear from them, and if on Elder war come how and come here. from them, and if an Elder can come here and preach we will try and get a place in which to hold meetings. We live five miles south of Argyle. Dear Saints pray

Your brother in the one faith, A. L. Bradford

Kennebunk, Maine, Sept. 10.

Dear Ensign.—I am helped in my isolated condition by the letters in the Ensign. For 20 years I have not by the letters in the Ensign. For 20 years I have not heard a serim for 18 years. My husband has been dead 27 years and left me with eight children. I have many cares and trials and I have wandered away from the path of glory towards God, and I transgressed his commandments, and I confess that I have done wrong and am sorry for it, and I ask you each and every one to forgive me and that God in his great mercy may forgive me. My heart's desire is to serve him with all my might, mind and strength, and to do his. will in every thing. Dear brethren pray for me. I pray daily for all the brothers and sisters. Let us all pray for one another and help each other in everything that we

Elizabeth Beemer.

Dibble, Okla., Oct. 19.

Editor Ensign:—The Ensign brings to us just what we are wanting. I never read it but it makes me rejoice in the Savior's love. The sermons and letters are blessings to me. I ask the Saints to pray for me as I have many trials and temptations. May the time soon come when God's people will be gathered together. We would love to live with the Saints. Pray for my husband, as he is not a member, but a believer. He is always ready to read the papers for me. We would be glad to hear some preaching as we have not heard an elder preach since Bro. E. A. Erwin preached here five years ago.

Your sister in Christ,

Mollie W. R. Jarvis. Editor Ensign:-The Ensign brings to us just what we Mollie W. R. Jarvis.

SERMONS AND ARTICLES

CO-OPERATION.
By Elder J. D Stead.

"Every man shall receive his own reward according to his own labor. For we are laborers together with God." 1 Cor. 3:8, 9.

The above proposition is just and fair, one that can be accepted by every one, no matter what their religion or politics may be. Full pay for all one does should satisfy any just man,

"For we are laborers together with God." Not for him.

Imagine one hundred or any other number of men laboring together, in any kind of business, and some one who is especially interested in their welfare, one who has had a large experience extending over a number of years in that particular line of business and having a perfect knowledge of it in all of its ramifications, offering to labor with them, giving them the benefits of his superior wisdom and knowledge, in counsel and advice, superintending the whole affair. The offer made by this one whose talents and powers are superior to all other men is made with the understanding that they all enter into an agreement with him. He is to be known in the agreement, as party of the first part, this company is to be known in the agreement, as party of the second part. Party of the first part agrees to furnish the land and all oher means necessary to be used by the party of the second part in the transaction of all business. Party of the first part is to have full control in managing the whole affair.

The party of the second part is to labor under the direction of the party of the first part and every man in the party of the second part is to receive for his labor his full share of the proceeds—"every man is to receive his own reward according to his own labor." They are to con-They are to continue to labor together with the party of the first part and his Son, who, like his Father is possessed with most excellent gifts, volunteers his services along with those of his Father, and is accepted by all concerned and becomes a part of the party of the first part. The party of the second part is organized by the direction and advice of the party of the first part, placing men in positions of trust-office-in the government of the people, who were truthful, honest, just and upright men in their dealings with all men. The party of the second part agrees to a common treasury into which each individual is to pay one tenth of his interest annually and all his surplus, to defray the expenses of carrying on the business and to supply the needs of all.

The party of the first part, Father and Son Benefactor and Beneficiary, who furnished the land and all other means necessary to carry on the business, gave all, including their labor, free to the party of the second part. The party of the second part could retain the land and the fulness thereof on the conditions they kept inviolate their agreement and give the party of the first part due credit for all they had done for them.

The party of the second part would be laboring with the party of the first part, not for them. They receive all they labor for; party of the first takes not anything from them, they retain it all. Quite a safe proposition for the party of the second part; and reflects love, mercy, and the most generous kindness on the part of the party of the first part.

Is it not a fact that any one with the least ambition would accept a proposition like the one described above? If a proposition of this character would be quickly accepted by all of us in order to procure worldly things, would it not be a wise thing for man, all men, to accept God's co-operative plan, one very similar to the one described in the foregoing and labor together with him and his Son, under their counsel and advice to procure both worldly and heavenly things?

The saints, both former and latter day saints have bound themselves together it a covenant made with Gcd, Jesus Christ the Mediator, who also sealed if with his blood, to labor together with God. Christ and the Holy Spirit. All who unite with this body of people—the Church of Jsus Christ—have accepted the terms upon which God proposes to labor with men. Three underlying principles relating to God's plan of work must be accepted and observed by all. They are motive, means, and end. All must have the same motive; the means God offers to man must be accepted and used by all in the way, and for the purpose for which they are given: the end—object or purpose which they labor for—must be known and universally accepted by all. Motive comes first in the plan which God proposes to man, but can not be understood without a knowledge of the objective end for which they are all to labor. Without a knowledge of both they cannot comprehend either one.

Doubtless we are agreed that all who accept this plan and enter into this agreement and engage in labor with God should be moved by the same motive as the one who originated and gave "God so loved the world." the plan. We find love to be the motive that moved God to originate the plan which he offers to man and invites him to co-operate with him, and on the conditions that man labors faihfully according to his plan, he is promised. "his own reward for his own labor." Love is the one motive that must move every man who accepts God's plan, if he succeeds. Who must they love? Answer: God and all men, both their friends and their enemies. Matt. 22:36-40; 5:44, also 1 Cor. 13:2, 3.

What is the nature and character of God that man is invited by him to accept his plan and coperate with him in doing for man what man could not do for himseld? We will not attempt to describe him further than to say of him, that he is infinite, infallible and unlimited in power. Supreme intelligence, infinite love, resistless will make up the prsonality of God. And his Son, Jesus Christ, whom God gave to man to teach him what to do and how to do all things, is like his Father, he is all powerful, possesses all "the treasures of wisdom and knowledge," and "is made unto us wisdom and righteousness, and sanctification and redemntion"

The description thus given us of Father and Son is sufficient to satisfy the mind of every intelligent person that, They are possessed with every qualification necessary to the redemption of the human family.

It should be apparent to every man that, They are possessed with that which makes them superior to all men taken together. Man is finite, fallible, and limited. Men, all men taken totogether, do not know, they are not wise enough to originate a plan and work out their salvation by it. If they could they might boast of saving themselves. Therefore we would make a mistake to put our trust in man for salvation. We make no mistake in putting our trust, our faith in God and his Son, Jesus Christ, and accept his plan, co-operate with them and "work out our salvation with fear and trembling."

It would not be proper for man or men who are the beneficiaries to dictate to their Benefactor the terms of his will. God sent his Son into the world with his will to make it known to men, that they might accept the terms of it. "God gave his only begotten Son" "not to do his own will but the will of him that sent me." All those who rejected Christ when he came to them, rejected the will of God-the means of salvation-against themselves. All who received Christ received his testimony—God's will—"and set to their seal that God is true." It cost Jesus Christ his life to establish God's wll. He testified to the truthfulness of it and sealed it with his blood. God offers man this means because he loves him. Man must accept this means in order to be saved-the objective end for which they all labor. God will not take away from man his agency, therefore, he may receive or reject the terms of his will. Receive it and be saved or reject it and de damned. "Not every one that saith unto me, lord, lord, shall enter into the kingdom of heaven; but he that doeth the will of my Father which is in heaven." Matt. 7:21.

From the will of God, please not the following excerpta:

"Love God with all thy heart, and with all thy soul, *** mind and *** strength: *** Thou shalt love thy neighbor as thyself." Mark 12: 30, 31.

"Lay not up for yourselves treasures upon earth *** but lay up for yourselves treasures in heaven." *** "But seek ye first to build up the kingdom of God and establish his righteousness."
Matt. 6:19, 20, 33.

"Thy kingdom come. Thy will be done in earth, as it is done in heaven." Matt. 6:10.

The foregoing declarations of Scripture reveal to us a part of God's will. From these scriptures, motive and the object which we are laboring for, is clearly set forth. Dear saints, as we take a look into this much of the gospel mirror, can each one of us see ourselves laboring with the divine monitor, moving us in the right direction? Do we see that God's purposes are being worked out in us, and by so doing, laying up treasures in heaven, or are we laboring with another object in view, viz., to bring about some purpose of our own, founded in selfishness, and by so doing, lay up treasures on earth.

Our failure in keeping God's will does not always lie in the fact that we have not a zeal of God, but more from our lack of knowledge; being ignorant of God's will many have went about to establish their own wills and have not submitted themselves unto the will of God—the means of salvation. My heart's desire and prayer to God for them is, that they will accept the terms of God's will and be saved.

The will of God is revealed in the preaching of the gospel of Christ—the power of God unto salvation—the means provided for our redemption.

To hear the good news—glad tidings—which was preached by Jesus Christ, and those he commissions to preach it, and do what it says, is to act wisely; to refuse to do after hearing, is to act foolishly. See Matt. 7:24-27; 25:1-12.

Once again we call attention to motive, means, and end, the three underlying principles in God's co-operative plan which he has revealed to man. We have found the motive to be love; the means to be Christ—his gospel; the objective end—man's redemption—eternal—life in the presence of his Creator, freed from sin, in the kingdom of God, doing his will on the new earth as it is done in heaven. Rev. 21:1-3.

Question: How does God labor with man? "And, behold, I send the promise of my Father upon you; but tarry ye in the city of Jerusalem, until ye be endued with power from on high." Luke 24:49.

"For the promise is unto you, and to your children, and to all that are afar off, even as many as the Lord our God shall call." Acts 2:39.

"Now concerning spiritual gifts, brethren, I would not have you ignorant." * * *

"Now there are diversities of gifts, but the same Spirit. And there are differences of administrations, but the same Lord. And there are diversities of operations, but it is the same God which worketh in all. But the manifestation of the Spirit is given to every man to profit withal." 1 Cor. 12:1, 4-7.

"But unto every one of us is given grace according to the measure of the gift of Christ." Eph. 4:7.

"For to one is given by the Spirit the word of wisdom; to another the word of knowledge by the same Spirit." 1 Cor. 12:8.

The Scriptures quoted above answer the question, "How does God labor with man?" They make clear, that God promised to help man and that God did help the former day saints by his Holy Spirit. To one, not every one, is given by the Spirit the word of wisdom; to another the word of knowledge. Are we to understand that God is granting special privileges to some? (In the government of the U. S. A., we condemn and protest against giving special privileges to the favored few, for reasons we do not state here.)

What could be God's purpose in giving to one wisdom, another knowledge, or any other gift? Was it intended that those who receive them, would use them to take the advantage of those with whom they are called to labor, or does there come with these excellent gifts, to those who receive them, added responsibility which they are required to discharge in a way "to profit withal." To use that which God gives any one of us for a different purpose than that for which it was given, it would be unjust, deceptive, dishonest, and would result in condemnation to the one who wilfully, knowingly use that which God had given for other purposes than that which they were given, i. e. "to profit withal." Evidently this is what the Apostle wanted the saints to understand, not to be ignorant of. The saints were taught from the first that they were promised the gifts of the Spirit and were exercising them, but very much like many Latter Day Saints, they did not fully understand how to use them, and the purpose for which they were given.

I fear those who have received these gifts many times use them much like some of our citizens in civil government have used that which they have received when granted special favors, namely, lord it over the weaker ones; failing to use the proper motive—love—along with the means that God had given to them. Therefore their that God had given to them. effort was misdirected, misspent, and was not accomplishing the purpose for which they given. No one will neglect to use that which is given to him for any other purpose than that which it is given, if he knows what it is given for, if he is honest, full of love, and keeps the objective end constantly in view. The Apostle Paul informed the saints in the second verse of the thirteenth chapter, 1st Corinthians that though they were given the several gifts named by him in the 12th chapter and used by them without having been moved by the proper motive toward the end which all are laboring for, they would be of no profit to them. When God labors with man, gives him wisdom, knowledge, or any other bless-ing he requires him to use it in the way, and for the purpose for which they all are laboring, i. e., building up the kingdom of God and establishing his righteousness; that his kingdom might become triumphant and his will done here on earth as it is in heaven.

Man laboring in this way with God is sure to be profited; no one can take from him that which justly belongs to him; his treasure is secure in the promises of God, in the kingdom of God, a kingdom which shall stand forever, one which he has labored to build up. But one whose treasure consists of the things of this world is not secure in that we cannot take the earthly treasures with us when we leave here and if we remain till Christ comes to this world, they will be destroyed with the world.

"Take heed, and beware of covetousness; for a man's life consisteth not in the abundance of the things which he possesseth." And he spake a parable unto them saying: "The ground of a certair rich man brought forth plentifully, and he thought within himself, saying: What shall I do: I will pull down my barns and build greater; and there will I bestow all my fruits and my goods. And I will say to my soul, Soul, thou hast much goods laid up for many years; take thine ease, eat, drink, and be merry. But God said unto him, Thou fool, this night thy soul will be required of thee: then whose shall those things be, which thou hast provided? So is he that layeth treasure for himself, and is not rich toward God." Luke 12:15-21.

"For what shall it profit a man if he shall gain the whole world, and lose his own soul?" 8:36.

"To one is given knowledge." In what way is he expected to use it? Surely not to take the advantage of another who is called to labor with him in the same cause, to accomplish the same To another is given wisdom. purpose. for, to take advantage of some other one? Most assuredly not. Think of a man who has been blessed with these extraordinary gifts and language to express what he knows to the understanding of his hearers; a preacher, an orator, mighty in the Scriptures, called of the Lord, ordained to minister in the cause of Christ according to his gifts and calling: "For the perfecting of the saints, for the edifying of the body of Christ; till we all come in the unity of the faith; to the knowledge of the Son of God; unto a perfect man, unto the measure of the stature of the fulness of Christ:" think of that man using that which God gave him for another purpose altogether, seeking to build himself up in the estimation of the people who admire his talents; seeking honor and fame; and, if successful in building up a large congregation of people, exacting from them large sums of money, much of it coming from the poorer class of people who sacrifice of their small earning, giving them to this talented divine, used by him to live in luxury, faring sumptuously every day, while many of his poor parishers suffering for the necessaries of life. Think of that man continuing to call upon God to labor with him after he had failed to use that which God had given him, for the purpose for which it was given, having used it for another purpose altogether, i. c. laying up treasures on earth, which profiteth him nothing.

The man described in the foregoing is a preacher. We hope but few, and prefer to think there is none, like him. All who engage in labor in the kingdom of God are not preachers. Preachers are not the only ones who are promised the Holy Spirit; preachers are not the only ones who are counseled to be faithful in building up the kingdom of God! preachers are not the only ones who will receive their own reward according to their own labor. "For we are all laborers to-gether with God." What about the man, "that tolleth in the affairs of men of business?" Has he any claim on God to assist him in all his labors? Has God blessed him in that which he has been doing? If so does God require him to use that which has been given him for the same purpose that he rejuires the minister to use that which is given him? Should this man be moved upon by the same motive, as the man who ministers in spiritual things, and have the same obiect in view? We find answer to the foregoing questions in the following:

"All are called according to the gifts of God unto them, and to the intent that all may labor together, let him that laboreth in the ministry and him that toileth in the affairs of the men of business and of work labor together with God for the accomplishment of the work intrusted to all." Doctrine and Covenants 119:8.

"He who is appointed to administer in spiritual things, the same is worthy of his hire, even as those who are appointed to a stewardship, to administer in temporal things; yea, even more abundanly, which abundance is multiplied unto them through the manifestations of the Spirit; nevertheless in your emporal things you shall be equal. and this not grudgingly, otherwise the abundance of the Spirit shall be withheld." Doctrine and Covenants 70:3.

'The law of the Lord is perfect, converting the soul: the testimony of the Lord is sure, making wise the simple,' Ps. 19:7.

The law God has given to govern men here on earth in his kingdom militant, is the same law that governs those in heaven and will govern in his kingdom on the new earth when both those in heaven and those on earth are gathered in one, in the dispensation of the fulness of times. In a perfect law, we are compelled to believe that provisions have been made in it, by the perfect One, to meet both the temporal and spiritual needs of all who come under it. A law that does not provide man his temporal needs, is not a perfect law. A law that does not provide man his spiritual needs, is not a perfect law. It must supply both his temporal and spiritual needs if it is a perfect law. All come under the same law and should learn what is required of them and obey it in its entirety. If those who labor in the affairs of the men of business neglect to turn over that which is required of them under the law, to the proper ones, whose special business under the law is, to administer in temporal things, supplying every one who is in need, they will be held accountable to Him who furnished them all things to labor with. If those who are appointed to administer in spiritual things neglect, or fail to use that which is given to them; refuse to magnify their calling; "or to exercise control or unrighteous dominion, or compulsion, upon the souls of the children of men, * * hold, the heavens withdraw themselves; the Spirit of the Lord is grieved; and when it is withdrawn, amen to the priesthood, or the authority of that man [those men]." If those who labor in temporal things neglect to feed the physical man; if those who are appointed to administer in spiritual things neglect to feed the spiritual man, the body of Christ—the Church must suffer just to the extent that those things which answer to the demands of life are withheld from the body. For the body to be healthy and grow as it should the whole law, both the temporal and spiritual, must be honored by all. We must all be moved by love, use that which God has given to each one of us and labor together with God in a common cause for the same purpose

"Be not deceived; God is not mocked; for whatsoever a man soweth, that shall he also reap. For he that soweth to the flesh shall of the flesh reap corruption; but he that soweth to the Spirit shall reap life everlasting." Gal. 6:7, 8.

1227 W. Lenawee St., Lansing, Mich.

WHAT IS MISSIONARY WORK? By Elder J. E. Vanderwood.

Today we are confronting a crisis, so to speak, and a great demand is made of us by reason of the profession we as a church make, and the problem is one that should equally concern all, and our failure or success depends largely upon our individual efforts and attainments. The missionary work is the life of the church, i. e., if we have no missionaries we will have no church, so it is well that we consider this matter to say

In the true sense of the word a missionary may or may not be a "preacher," for mis-sionary work consists in desseminating gospel truth, gospel light, and gospel knowledge among our fellow-men, and this may be accomplished in more than one way, that is different methods may be employed to meet, or serve the needs of different conditions, and people.

Too frequently we look at the external of a thing and fail in a great degree of understanding the underlying, life giving, essential features of the thing itself, and so we have been inclined in the past to look at missionary work as that being done by the ministry, traveling ministry This conception of the matter, to say the least, is a mistaken one, and it becomes us to look deeper into this matter than the mere surface; we must penetrate the thing itself. We should awake to reality of the Christ life and Christ character, and recognize the fact that religion is a life, not an argument, it is a reality, not a theory, it is a character, not a profession. Therefore, whatever may be done to bring about or produce such a condition is if properly understood missionary work.

For example, the writer knows a good sister, one in very ordinary circumstances too, who living isolated availed herself of the two months missionary rate made by the Ensign and sent the Ensign a year to a number of her neighbors, informing them that she had ordered it for them, and then as opportunity afforded spoke of the contents of the paper at different times with them and by that means created an interest so that by reason of her efforts people were made ready for baptism without hearing a sermon preached by any of the ministry. This humble service, coupled with a godly walk and conversation, certainly constitutes acceptable missionary work, and what was done by this sister can be done by others.

But let it be remembered that this is only one way in which work may be done. Others have given or loaned books, distributed tracts, passed on their church papers, Herald and Ensign after reading them, and still others by living a life that was more saintly and Christlike than those with whom they mingled have caused their neighbors to awake and take knowledge of them. And there are many who have in a humble way imparted of their means, according to the law, and by their tithes and offerings have enabled the church to keep men in the field of activity and they have preached the good news far and near. So we may readily observe that all who assist with the material things intrusted unto them are also performing acceptable and profitable missionary work, in reality they are doing as much or more perhaps than the one who is preaching, so it is quite obvious that there is a work for all, and all may be co-workers in a common cause, for the mutual good of the entire race.

There are those who are doing what they can; there are also some who are doing nothing. What are you doing? Ask yourself, and answer it for yourself as you would expect to do in the day of God's juggment, "What am I doing to prosecute the work of the ministry? What can And when you have before God answered I do?" the matter in your heart and mind, that do, and the church with its work will be a grand success; it will be a boon to society and a benediction to the world.

If I would be proficient in missionary work I must learn to meet passion with peace, hatred with love, and overcome evil with good. fore, when we as individuals, and as a body collective learn as the Master to go about doing good, we shall find joy in our service, and the Church will flourish and blossom as the rose, and the earth will be redeemed and become the heritage and habitations of the pure in heart.

HEBREW ASCENDANCY.

Twenty years ago, under the spoils system, the Irish held most of the city jobs in New York. Now, under the test system, the Hebrews are driving them out. Among the school teachers of the city Hebrew women outnumber the women of any other nationality. From seven hundled to nine hundred of the physicians in New York are Hebrews. More noticeable is the influx into dentistry and especially into the legal profession has been pronounced, and of late there is a movement of Jewish students into engineering, agriculture and forestry. -The Century Maga-

TRIALS AND TEMPTATIONS. "Blessed is the man that endureth temptation,"
When he is tried, a crown he'll receive—
Eternal life, with joy and salvation—
Promise of God to those who believe.

"Count it all joy," when beset with temptation: God permits trials to those whom he please;
"Knowing that trial of your faith worketh patience," Victory comes not to those sitting at ease.

Patience must work her perfection within you; Perfect must you be—not waiting—entire.
Purity comes, as the gold and the silver,
Receiving luster when passed through the fire.

God of all mercy has said to his children, "Overcome evil, or you'll suffer loss.
"I will turn my hand upon thee; Purely purge away the dross."

"I'll refine thee as silver; Through afflictions you sha I shall see my image in thee, , ou shall pass; As if looking in the glass.

"Whom the Lord loveth he chasteneth; Scourgeth every son," for his good. Sweeter will be our rejoicing After the trials we have stood.

Brighter the beams of the morning, Bleached by the shades of the night; Sweeter the joys of salvation Passing from death unto light .- J. M. Stubbart.

RADIO SERVICE IN THE U.S. SIGNAL CORPS.

Development of the present Mexican situation into actual war offers to American radio operators and engineers a new opportunity along the lines of their usual vocation.

To the lay public, and indeed to almost every one who has not participated personally in the development of post-graduate military education and training in this country under the General Staff during the last ten years, the most striking feature of the news dispatches from Vera Cruz has been the frequent though somewhat guarded, mention of the work of the intelligence corps of the United States forces, as revealed by the occasional exploit of an aviator, a flagman, or a radio section.

Techically, this intelligence service divides itself into two well recognized branches, one gathering and the other conveying, military information. The one finds out what the enemy is doing; the other places this information in the hands of the high authorities who are to act on it. The first is the work of the General Staff, performed through all available agencies, including the employment of scouts and secret agents, and the Signal Corps. The latter is the work almost exclusivey of the Signal Corps, as it formerly was of the cavalry.

In modern war, as in business, time has become an important factor. Minutes are often as effective as bullets. So it is essential not only to find out quickly what the other fellow is up to, but even more so to report this information in time for our own forces to act on it.

Cavalry is a slow and costly agency when considered as a source and conveyor of information. Its proper duty nowadays is to act as a highly mobile set of riflemen, who can be thrown into a fight or to a threatened point, when quicker agencies of information have reported the need for them.

It takes many troopers to force their way to the points where information can be had, and a long time for a mounted messenger, who may get killed or lose his way, to bring back their reports. Whether the aeroplane can fully perform, with arerial chauffeur and a trained observer, the work of a cavalry regiment in getting news is a disputed point with most of the argument in favor of the flyers. But there is no longer in the United States Signal Corps of the entire practicability of radio telegraphy in the field of its rapidity, certainty and general superiority in all cases where wire lines cannot be run.

So the Signal Corps, splendidly equipped for the first time with all the radio sets it needs now on hand, is ready in case of war to accept the services of skilled radio experts for active service in the field. Such men will be assigned immediately on enlistment to duty with radio sections, and will occupy what are probably the most desirable enlisted places in our army. The pay, with the allowances, is rather better than that of first and second year civilian radio operators: mounts are furnished, the stations are desirable, quick promotion is almost certain and the opportunity for knowing what is going on at all times-of sharing every secret of the generals-is the best in the world.

The apparatus has been improved and at the same time simplified. The 500-cycle generator, quenched spark gap, condenser, key and pancake helix constitute the entire transmission side of the field sets; while for the receiving side experience has shown that the best results are obtained with a simple inductive tuner, a "cat-whisker" rough-silicon detector, a stopping condenser and a double head set telephone receiver of from 3,000 to 5,000 ohms, which have accordingly been adopted as standard in sets of approved design. The power used ranges from 1-10 to 2 K. W., with daylight transmission ranges of from 30 to 200 miles. The smaller sets are carried on pack mules and the larger ones on carts of special design; the operators and antenna men being mounted on horses in both cases.

Special means, held confidential in the service, have been devised for insuring practically total freedom from interference and the secrecy of messages. Nowhere else in the world has prevention of listening-in by an outsider been so well worked out by mechanical means. The enciphering as well as deciphering of messages by methods wholly unknown as late as three years ago, has become a fine art. The deciphering of an enemy's messages, by methods worked out in the Army Signal School at Fort Leavenworth under the classes of 1911, 1912 and 1913, has become a very easy matter, since practically every other government in the world is still using cipher systems which we have abandoned and the United States Signal Corps today possess at least four officers who have mastered the art of unraveling with certainty and with almost uncanny rapidity practically any transposition or substitution cipher laid before them.

The operator who desires the novel and valuable experience that may be derived from a term of service in either the regular or volunteer Signal Corps during war time, will find it worth while. Possession of a first or second grade commercial license is desirable, but no amateur who can receive consistently and accurately at the rate of fifteen words a minute need despair of enlistment for radio service, or of quick promotion on mak-An operator who can use both the Morse and Continental codes is a valuable man in the service, and if any operator takes the trouble before enlistment to do the little study which is all that a telegrapher requires to master the work of sending and receiving Continental Morse by flag and by the short and long flashes from the heliograph or searchlight—at the rate of from five words per minute with the flag to ten per minute with the lights—he will find himself a man marked from the outset for promotion.

-Capt. Harry B. Kirtland in Popular Electricity and Modern Mechanics.

PROGRESS.

The cave men fought with their knotty fists, And clubs that were tipped with stone; With heads held high, and with fearless eye, They guarded their rights alone. They hacked at beasts that were huge and fierce, That prowled where their stores were piled, And they died at last, and their spirits passed, While the War God looked-and smiled.

Long ages passed, and arechers came, With arrows and pliant bows; They crouched in lines 'neath the mountain pines, And slew as the reaper mows. nd all the spears of the armored knights Flashed bright as a shining sea; And people died and their spirits cried, While the War God laughed in glee.

They fight today, and the bullets new Are shaped like a needle fine; And cannons roar on the ocean shore, While blood flows red like wine. The airships flutter against the sun,
To shoot at the frightened earth,
And birdmen die in the heavy sky,
While the War god shouts in his mirth. -Margaret E. Sangster, Jr., in Christian Herald.

DEPARTMENT OF Woman's Auxiliary for Social Service

MRS. MAUD MILLS, EDITOR. 1514 W. Short St., Independence, Mo.

NOTICE.

All persons sending money to the Woman's Austlisty for any purpose, including subscriptions to Home and Child Welfare left-lets, or Children's Home donations, please forward same to the treasurer of the Austliary, Mrs. J A. Gardner, 711 S. Fuller Ave. Independence Mo.

ence, Mo.
Miss Alinnie E. Scott, Secretary, 309 S. Fuller Ave., Independence, Mo.
Mrs. J. A. Gardner, Treasurer, 711 S. Fuller Ave., Independence,

Mrs. M. A. Etzenhouser, 1995 W. Walnutt St., Independence, Mo. Mrs. D. J. Krahl, 718 S. Crysler St., Independence, Mo. Mrs. D. J. Wester, St. Crysler St., Independence, Mo. Overentwenserst of DEPARTMENTS.

Home and Child Wellare Department, Mrs. H. A. Stebbins, Lanji Lowa. mori Lowas, and entare Department, Mrs. H. A. Stebbins, Lamori Lowas, and Educational Department, Mrs. Lydia Thomas
Wight, Larand, Benerick, Mrs. Jennie Studley, 17 E. Cottage St.,
Roxbury, Mass.
Roxbury, Mass.
Roxbury, Mass.
Roxbury, Mass.
Roxbury, Mass.
Roxbury, Mass.
Roxbury, Mass.
Roxbury, Mass.
Roxbury, Mass.
Roxbury, Mass.
Roxbury, Mass.
Roxbury, Mass.
Roxbury, Mrs.
Rox

A CHILD'S DEPENDENCE.

"My soul doth magnify the Lord and my spirit hath rany soul doth magnity the Lord and my spirit hath rejoiced in God my Savior for he hath regarded the low estate of his handmaiden." So spoke Mary the mother of the "child called Jesus." In the bringing to the earth of this child, God deemed it wise to prepare that mother before hand, for this great change that should come to her; to change not only her life but every other life that came into the world after her child had come, lived his life, and gone from the earth. We cannot believe it was needless Mary should be forewarned.

needless Mary should be forewarned.
God does nothing that could just as well go undone.
We who have felt the glow of the spirit can imagine Mary's state of mind after that angel visit. But do you think, mothers, God is less thoughtful of your child and mine than he was of his own. I believe if we as saints live as humbly as Mary did, he will fortify each mother for the coming of her child as he did Mary the Christ mother. mother.

We ought to know. We in a large measure are responsible for the disposition of our child. The child is influenced largely by the environment of the mother hence this being true we mothers should realize the helplessness of our unborn children.

lessness of our unborn children.

Upon us it depends for so much before birth. The mind of the mother should turn to her God and the beauties of his gospel. The fair promises he has given to those that will do his will, and the bright hopes held out to the doer of his will, here and hereafter, which I could not make more plain than did the angel when he told Mary, she had "found favor in the sight of God."
To do that we must be pure, true, and humble. We can become in such condition that the Spirit can daily be our guide and help, and he able to start the child we give to the world—in the path that leads to God, and not from him. A child born from a mother that for months has only had regrets and rebellion in her mind; one that has constantly wondered why she is called upon to go through only had regrees and received in her mind; one that not constantly wondered why she is called upon to go through agony for that which she does not desire, and she feels will only be in the way. That child starts life handicapped. There is a daredevil spirit that tramps all before it, and which if not overcome means ruin to the soul. In viewing this line of thought, we see where it is up to us as mothers, to bring to God the spirit he gives to us—clad in flesh, that is as ready to be moulded as we can bring it. If we as saints could but look upon it as Mary and Elizabeth and other mothers of ye olden times did, we too could produce a John, or a Samuel. Read of Hannah's lament. These women in each case were pray-

Hannah's lament. These women in each case were praying women. And God gave to such, spirits that they might clothe it in flesh that would not rebell against its maker. A child thus started, is like a flower planted in soil just ready for the tiller. It yields to the stirring of the soil, to the cutting off of the unruly roots, as well to the nipping of the buds that will prevent the full development of the perfect flower.

A good plan is, as soon as the mother is made aware that to her is given another soul, to go to the Lord and that to her is given another soul, to go to the Lord and through the elders ask for administration for the safe de-livery of her child.

I know one case where after the loss by death of three little ones this plan was used and the result was, mother kept the rest of her children when they came. In the first years of life we still find the child dependent; and right here will creep in a mistake if we are not watch. right here will creep in a mistake if we are not watchful. There is wonder that as many children reach that time, where they can help themselves, as do. How many poor, half starved, suffering babes we see! It is not always food they need. Some times it is where they have ample food we often see a worse form of starvation, that kind that will cause the child to cry out, "I want to do it," "Let me do it." But they are put off with an, Oh let mother do it for you. Its the real mother love they need. That love that can let the little pink feet start on its path willingly, knowing those poor little feet will ache, grow weary, and bleed with the stumblings of life. Its the mother love that comes with the new baptizing she has had, the new birth from wife to mother. This new love will not see in her child a mere toy; a new joy just to play with a little while; but a study as deep as God's great plan itself. It will tell her, into her hands has been placed not a doll that by pressing the button she can amuse herself and friends. But a soul, a child, or in other words a life work.

or in other words a life work.

Not long ago I heard a mother say; "I had always hoped to be something in the world, but what am I? Only hoped to be something in the world, but what am I? Only a woman, covered with little petty cares, and all I can find time to do is to feed the children, keep them warm, and kiss their bruised fingers." Ah, I thought, what a great life work! What a something she is! For beside her own she was kissing the bumps of one little motherless one, guiding two little feet that though but only a baby, had already felt the bruises of life's path-only a baby, had already test the ordines of helps will not only look on the little now, but with one eye on now the inner eye will see far down that path where these little feet are planted firmly and surely in the goal of manhood and womanhood, sealed to God. And right here let us say: In the narrow confines of home, there can flow a world of joy if we but will it. Far too many parents in the early years of the child, learn that passage that we have had handed out, sugar coated and in capsule form, "Honor thy parents" but forget to remember the other one, Parents provoke not your children to wrath.

I have seen parents tease a child, perhaps by catching its hand just as it were about to take a bite of food and keep it up till all the temper it inherited from both father and mother was aroused. Then when a young father and mother was aroused. Then when a young tempest was on their hands the child was punished. O, there are no words to express the contempt for such action! It may not be done in only one way, but so many ways and the utter dependence of that child is soon felt by it. It feels it dare not do this nor that, because it will make mana or papa mad. And soon, if you listen to its chatter, you will see its whole aim is to get big, so it can do as it pleases, without asking some one "May 1?" It's better to rule with a gloved hand, and not by will power. Far too soon our young find out, Might is right. And if in its dependent years this is found the rule of home the seeds planted will either grow to choke or else will have to be rooted up either grow to choke or else will have to be rooted up ensure grow to cnoke or else will have to be rooted up by rough stumbling over rocks of sorrow. To make the meaning of the idea a little clear. A little tot came running in from school. "Mama, Johnnie Jones wants me to go up town with him, may I go?" The mother answered, "No, you cannot, you have to stay at home." "Unity mama?" "Just because I say so." For a little "My mama?" "Just because I say so," For a little while that may do. But ere long rebellion will come, because the dependent stage is being left behind, and reason is coming to help this child of God. Then will come, "But why must I stay just because you say It is better to find some errand to do, or drop work so?" It is better to find some errand to do, or drop work and do something with the tot. One mother learned her lesson and when those big frank eyes looked into hers and said, "Why just because you say to stay, must 1?" She saw she was flounting her ray of power in the face of this young animal. She laid down her task, put her arms around her lad and said, "I want you, I want you to comfort me, I want to feel your kisses on my tired face." Did she win that battle? Yes, and many another, we show they she was in pad and he was her help in the by showing she was in need and he was her help in that need. And never did she forget that look that came into the eyes of the man that was looking from a boys face to hers. So if we realize in their years of dependence we must respect them and help them to understand, it was a wise Father that gave this very dependence to us. It will help them to help themselves. And we will see the spirit elothed with our flesh, being made ready to follow where God and his Son leads.

Mrs. Emma Kennedy:

(Just a word as to the wisdom of telling a child "why," when we make a decision which must rule his conduct. My experience has taught me that the best plan is not always to tell the child why at the time you make the decision; or for that matter there may be some times when our hest judgment dictates that the child cannot comprehend our reason. Teach the child to obey, then in all cases where it is possible, explain to him afterwards your reason. Do not neglect it. It strengthens his faith in you, and gratifies his sense of justice. But what about the times when you feel he cannot comprehend your reason? Talk with him about it, and teach him to trust you for some things, for faith in parents properly developed, is only a step towards the development of faith in God .--- Ed.)

MISCELLANEOUS

Eastern Montana:-District Conference will meet with the Culbertson Branch, Nov. 21, at 10 a. m. A full and good representation of branches are de-ired. praying and preparing for a repletion of the good time had last conference. For the benefit of scattered Saints who may wish to attend let me say that the Culbertson Branch is located at Andes, 20 miles south of Culbertson. Bro. Sam Andes, Andes P. O., is president of the branch. Peter Anderson, Minister in Charge.

CORRECTION.

In issue of October 22d, first page, about the middle of third column, the statement: "Eviden.es of the effectiveness of church organization, doctrine and spirit, are multiplying vegidly since the Christian nations of Europe multiplying against section of the against an actions of Europe have given themselves over to barbaric war," should read: "Evidences of the defectiveness of church organization, doctains and spirit, are multiplying rapidly," etc. By the change of a single word we are made to say the opposite of what we did say, and the sense of our argument is destroyed.

MARRIED.

MARKIED.

Liddle-Crayne.—At Central church, Kansas City, Mo., October 22, 1914, Mr. Glenn Frank Liddle, and Miss (Sr.) Ettie May Crayne, Elder W. H. Garrett officiating. Miss Eugenia Fox, and Sr. Margaret Robertson were bridesmaids, attended by Bro. Fred Mattox and Mr. Travis groomsmen. Sr. Elizabeth Tanner presided at the organ. Bro. weavor sang two numbers before the bridal march, which we have a laboration of the contract o which was from Lohengrin, and during the ceremony the soft strains of the organ floated sweetly through the church. Refreshments were served in the parsonage adjoin-ing the church, Sr. Joseph Tanner doing the honors of the occasion. The bride and groom will reside at 2805 East Eighth Street, Kansas City, Mo., and will be at home after

PROPHECY WRITTEN ON THE WALL.

March 6, 1912, J. W. Debose said that before the end of 1914 there would be one of the bloodiest wars that ever had been and that it would continue until there would be no place of safety except in Zion.

be no place of safety except in Zion.

This was a prediction made by Elder J. W. Debose on the 6th day of March, 1912, in Geo. Ketchum's repair shop, 204 N. Main St., Independence, Mo., in the presence of a number of men and it was written on the north wall of the shop by a non-member of the church, viz. E. Stafford, and also copied by the writer for this letter to the Ensign, so say that it looks very much like a great deal of this prediction has come to pass, when we observe the eastern countries with their lines of battle extending for a distance of 250 to 300 miles in length. Never in history has the like been known, and it is not only the fulfillment of this prophecy but the one where it is said the time of this prophecy but the one where it is said the time would come when a man who would not take up his sword against his neighbor must needs flee to Zion for safety. So it is in the great European War of today. Alas if they wait until they have to flee to Zion, for their coming or gathering would be in haste and we are com-manded not to gather in haste, nor by flight, but if the Saints wait until they are forced to Zion they certainly have to make haste and then come by flight instead of doing what they are commanded to do, that is to have all things prepared before them, to confer with the elders and bishops (D. C. Sec. 98,) but if they neglect to have all things prepared and wait and have to flee or fight in war as some of the Saints are doing in Europe today they will not have much time to prepare, and probably will be forced into war before they can flee to Zion. So we see it is better to have all things prepared in time of peace and not be forced to come or to take part in the war. By so doing we suffer loss, neither do we comply with the admonition of the Lord.

Read Carefully.

The time of year for the great reduction in price of the Ensign has come, being reduced to 50 cents a year to non-members. By economizing and staying away from the shows and parks. I was able to send the Ensign to nearly 500 non-members last year in different parts of the world; now the time is at hand to send to non-members again; and if you will all help me we can send Ensigns to two or three thousands, so let every one send as many as they can, whether it be one or one hundred, send to all you can, but if you can't pay for it for all that you know will read it, send to all you can, then send me the names and addresses of them you cannot send to, and I will -end to them. Also you missionaries, when you get some-one interested in this latter day work send me their name and address, also you non-members send me your ad-dresses. You are only asked to read and investigate, that is all it will cost you. Let's all help together.

Independence, Mo., Lock Box 54.

UNIVERSAL DIARY.

E. Stafford.

We now have a universal diary, suitable for any minister from deacon up, made to conform with the universal report blanks. They are the same size and shape as the diaries we have hitherto had for sale, but will contain about double the number of pages, there being about 24 pages in the front and back for a financial record, and space for 12 months record of ministerial work performed. The price is the same as the others were sold at, only 10 Address Ensign Publishing House, Independence,

THE YEARLY OFFER ON THE ENSIGN.

November and December are bargain months as usual, during which time the Ensign will be sent to non-mem-bers at half price. This offer, as usual is good only in the United States possessions, as the extra postage to foreign countries prohibits this offer extending there. This offer is good only during the months of November and December. It is unfair and hardly honorable for a member to stop their paper and then subscribe in the name of a member of their family who does not belong to the church for the sake of getting at half price. That is not the object of this offer. It is for the sake of spreading the gospel among outsiders.
Address, Ensign Publishing House, Independence, Mo.

CONFERENCE MINUTES.

CONTENENCE MINISTES.

Des Moines.—Conference convened at Nevada, Iowa, Oct. 10 and 11. District presidency, O. Salisbury, E. O. Clark, and C Malcor, presiding.

Reports: Des Moines 419, Boone 95, Perry 51, Rhodes 78. Several branches not reporting.

Bishop's agent E. O. Clark reported: Receipts, $1111.91;

Bishop's agent E. O. Clark reported: Receipts, $1111.91; expenditures, $827.00.

Bessy Laughlin was elected as district secretary to fill the place of E. O. Clark, resigned.

By unanimous vote a motion was passed approving the action of the reunion committee in extending an invitation to the Gallands Grove District, to meet with us in reunion at Navade in 1915. at Nevada in 1915.

C. J. Hunt was present and gave valuable instructions concerning the financial law of the church. The preaching was done by E. E. Long, C. J. Hunt, and J. M. Baker. The sisters met Saturday afternoon and organized a district Woman's Auxiliary with Hattie Clark president, with locals at Des Moines, Perry and Nevada. The or-chestra from Des Moines furnished excellent music for Saturday night and Sunday.

A splendid prayer and sacrament meeting was enjoyed

Sunday afternoon.

Sunday atternoon.

This was our first fall conference for some years, and the first meeting of this kind to be held with the Saints at Nevada, who certainly did nobly in caring for their guests.

The coming conference will be held in Des Moines at the call of the presidency. Bessy Laughlin, Sec.

Lamoni Stake.

The semi-annual Conference of the Lamoni Stake was held Oct. 3, 1914, with the Evergreen Branch. Aside from the regular routine business, the conference ap-proved of the organization of a branch at Charlton, Iowa, and the ordination of Bro. James Robinson, of Chariton, Iowa, to the office of Priest.

The following resolution was adopted: "That this con-ference appoint as a nominating committee, the Stake Presidency, they to furnish names to be voted upon at our next Stake Conference to act as delegates to the next General Conference, their own names to be included in the list."

The preaching was by Columbus Scott, Bishop Joseph Roberts, and J. F. Mintun. Social services in charge of the Stake Presidency. 'The Stake Presidency presided at the business sessions and the Stake Secretary acted as secretary for the conference.

Time and place of next meeting was left with the Stake Presidency.

C. I. Carpenter, Stake Sec.

Lamoni, Iowa, Oct. 23, 1914.

Southern Missouri:-District conference convened at Thayer, on Saturday, Oct. 3rd, 1914, at 10 a. m., district officers presiding. Courtesy of the floor granted to visitofficers presiding. Courteey of the nove granted to reac-ors. Minutes of last conference read and approved. Min-isterial reports of Elders G. A. Davis, H. Spatling, J. F. Cunningham, Roy Pearson, Grant Burgin, T. J. Simpson, G. W. Bootman, L. M. McFadden and Henry Braun.
Priests, A. T. Gray, J. B. Poort, F. E. Gale and J B.

Scott. The president and secretary also reported on the condition of the district work. Statistical reports from 11 branches shows a gain of 7 in the district since July. The action of a former conference creating a standing auditing committee was repealed and the committee re-leased. Bishop's Agent, G. A. Davis of Thayer, reported receipts and balance $414; paid out, $194.85, balance on hand $219.62, and all allowance paid up to Oct. 1st, 1914. This report was referred to an auditing committee and found correct.

The secretary was ordered to have a sufficient number of copies of the new by-laws printed to supply the needs of the several branches in the district. Priesthood meeting at 9 a. m., on Sunday was well attended.

During social service 3 prophecies, 10 prayers and 30 testimonies were borne to the spiritual uplift of the Saints. Preaching during conference by Elders L. M. McFadden, G. W. Bootman and J. F. Cunningham. Adjourned to meet at Springfield in Feb. 1915.

Benj. Pearson, Dist. Sec. Tigris, Mo., Oct. 21, 1914.

CONVENTION MINUTES.

Minutes of London District Religio Convention, held at St. Thomas, Oct 9, 1914. President Jas. Winegarden, Vice President T. B. Richardson, Apostle J. F. Curtis and Elder John Shields presided. The business of the convention was lively throughout. The statistical report showed a net gain of 18 per cent, nearly all of the locals sharing in the gain. It was decided to hold a rally day in the district some time during the coming year.

The officers for this term are:-James Winegarden. The officers for this term are:—James Winegaruen, president; T. B. Richardson, vice president; Geo. Tomlinson, secretary; Mrs. A. Else, treasurer; Herb. Talbot, librarian; Miss H. O. Small, home class superintendent. The next convention will meet in London, October; 1915.

Geo. Tomlinson, Sec.

Box 357, St. Marys, Ont.

DIED.

Robinson.—At Genesce, Illinois, October 8, 1914, Sr. Sarah Robinson, aged 85 years, 7 months and 1 day. Married William Shakespear in Dudley, England, in 1848. They came to Kewanee, Ill., in 1859. He died in 1864. She married James Robinson In 1868, he died in 1893. She was the mother of twelve children, six of whom survive her, being Samuel and William T. Shakespear, James Robinson, and Srs. Martha Clark, Mary A. Lane and Hannah Farley. The body was brought to Oakley, Iowa, for burial. Funeral services were held in Illinois and at Oakley, the sermons being preached at both places by H. A. Stebbins.

GLEANINGS.

Sr. Pettet of Colgory, Alta., is desirous that those who feel like doing so will fast and pray on Sunday, Oct. 29, that her husband, sisters and brothers may be brought into the kingdom of God.

Carrie Craig, (no place or date given.)-I heard and ac-Carrie Craig, (no place or date given.)—I heard and ac-cepted the gospel eight years ago. I have been made to rejoice in the goodness and mercy of God. He has come to my rescue when death seemed certain. I know this is the work of God, for I have many testimonies of its truthfulness. I want to live a life that there can be no evil spoken of. I am troubled some with heart and lungs, and I would like the Sains to many for me that ray. evil spoken of I am troubled some with neart and tings, and I would like the Saints to pray for me that my life may be prolonged for the sake of my little children that I may teach them in the gospel.

ENSIGN PUBLICATIONS.

And Other Books for Sale by the Ensign Publishing House.

Zion's Ensign, the missionary paper, containing gospel sermons and articles, church news and interesting letters. Per year $1.00

Book of Morman Dictionary. A complete pronouncing Dictionary of proper names in the Book of Mormon, with definitions and explanatory notes. Paper, 25c; cloth, 40c; leather $0.055 with deminions are Section of the control. This book shows the departure from the faith before and after the restoration of the gosfel. Paper covers. 26c. of the Church. This book shows the departure from the faith before and after the restoration of the gosfel. Paper covers. 30.65 The Books and Utah Mormanism in Contrast. This book plainly shows how the Utah church has departed from the teachings of the standard books of the Church, from quotations and reliable testimony. Paper covers. 30.25 From Palmyra to Independence. A book of 44 pages. A brief review of the Book of Morman is given, with the control of the control of the control of the control of the co lustrated, self-pronouncing, red under gold edges. Size, 5x74xx 1.15

E16—French Morocco, divinity circuit, red under gold edges, button clasp, 54x334 ... $1.10

S125—A fine Bible for those who want large type and not so particular about it being small. Long primer type, self-pronouncing, full page illustrations, French Seal, divinity circuits, etc. $2.25

S125/5—Same as S125, except it is patent indexed ... $2.50

S126—Same as S125, with button clasp, $2.35

S130—Same as S125, leather lined ... $2.70

H15—A fine little Bible at a low price. French Morocco, divinity circuit, red under gold edges, flexible, overlapping cover. Size, 5 xx 37 x... $1.25

H16—Same as H15, but has button clasp... dozen, 10 cents; per 100, 60 cents.
Elder's Diary. A handy little book for accurately keeping account of ministerial labor by simply jotting down figures in the proper column, the printed headings supplying the rest. A financial record also is a convenient part of the book. This is suitable for all holding the Melchisedec Priesthood. Price .....$0.10 H16—Same as H15, but has button clasp...

F65X—India Paper edition, French Morocco, divinity circuit, red under gold edges. Size, 5%x3%, only % inch thick. $1.0

F66X—Same as F65X, with button clasp...

$1.00 F66X—Same as F65X, with Dutton Crosp.

R65X—Large type Bible in small compass, 81.60
R65X—Large type Bible in small compass, 81.6x5½. 1 inch thick, India paper, French Morocco, divinity circuit, red under gold $2.80
R70X—Same as R65X, except binding.
French Levant and leather lined $4.25

NEW TESTAMENTS.
E200—Leatherette cover, red edges...$0.15
E212—Fyrench Morocco, limp, red unde: g.'ld $0.30
E2053—Lambekin. divinity circuity, limp, Teacher's Diary. Arranged for the duties and Labors of the Teacher. Price ....... $0.10 E212—French Morocco, limp, red under $9.30 E253—Lambekin, divinity circuity, $0.30 E253—Lambekin, divinity circuity, limp, round corners, red under gold. $0.30 UNIVORD BIBLES whitly circuit, learners that the limit of the corners are depth silk sewed, round corners, red under gold edges, black faced type, thin India, paper. This is a beautiful little

OXFORD TESTAMENTS. TRACTS. The following tracts are excellent and suitable for distribution among those not identified with the latter day work. They may be obtained, all of one kind or assorted as desired, at the following prices except as otherwise noted:

Two copies $1.00 Copies $0.05 Copies $1.00 Copies $1.25 No less than 50 copies at 100 rate.

"Why I Became a Latter Day Saint," by Elder Joseph Luff.
"Future Punishment," by Elder R. C. "Future Punishment," by Elder R. C. Evans.

"The Book of Mormon; Evidences of Its Divinity," by Elder R. C. Evans.

"Creed Making," by Elder I. M. Smith.

"Good News." A tract of tracts on several different subjects by as many writers.

"The Church of Christ," by Elder Edward Rannie.

"Who Wes Love." A Teller of The State of Teller Edward Rannie. "Who Was Joseph Smih," by Elder J. W. Peterson. Peterson.

"A Glimpse at the Government of God," by Elder Paul M. Hanson.

"Reasons Why. Shall We Hear Them?" Revised edition. By Elder J. W. Peterson.

"Twelve Reasons Why I Believe The Book of Mormon," by Elder Charles Fry.

"Joseph Smith; Was He a Prophet of God?" by Elder R. C. Evans. "Joseph Smith; Was He a Prophet of God?" by Elder R. C. Evans.

The following at special prices named: "What We Believe," an epitome of the faith of the Church. Per dozen 5 cents; 50 for 20 cents; 100, 35 cents.

"Items of Teaching Found in the Book of Mormon." Compiled by the Independence Religio Good Litertaure Committee. A tract of ten pages. Three for 5 cents; 12 for 15 cents; 100 for $1.00.

"Latter Day Saints; Who Are They" by Elder T. W. Williams. Three for 5 cents; 12 for 15 cents; 100 for $1.00.

"Is Water Baptism Essential to Salvation?" by Elder Joseph Luff. Three for 5 cents; 12 for 15 cents; 50 for 40 cents; 100 for 75 cents.

"Seventy-one Theological Questions." Per dozen, 10 cents; per 100, 60 cents.
Elder's Diary. A handy little book for accents the contract of cents of cents of cents.

Bible. Because of the thin India paper it is only % of an inch thick. $4.75 The 1911 Bible. Printed on genuine Oxford India paper, only % inch thick, silk sewed, bound in finest Alaska Seal, Tages, and the state of the sta

Independence, Mo.

OFFICERS VISITING CARD

We have for sale a universal visiting card to be used by Branch Officers. It is arragned with spaces for recording names of those in families belonging to the church and also for those not belonging, space for noting condition, dates of visiting officers, also space for remarks. This card when properly filled out shows the names of all members of the family visited, non-members as well as members and whether their spiritual condition is excellent, fair or poor, the name of the officer visiting the family and the date of the visit, also the address of the family, and any other information it might be wise to add under head of Remarks. There should be at least one card for every family in the branch. The cancer of the officer of the transpirence of the control of the card of the car

ENSIGN PUBLISHING HOUSE, Independence, Mo.

Fully Persuaded. A song written by Elder Luff. Price, 5 cents per dozen; per 100 $9.25
Book of Mormon Post Card. Quotations from the second chapter of Jacob, of the Book of Mormon, condemning polygamy. This is an excellent way to get the position of the church books on polygamy before free and acquaintances. $0.10 Library Rules. Local library rules, per dozen $0.05
Ciculating Library rules per doz-consuming Library rules, per dozenen, 30.10

Sunday School Library Regulations, per dozen $0.10
Blank Preaching Notices. Size, 9x12 inches, 50 for 30 cents; per 100, $0.50
Religio Supplies. Local Secretary's Record.
Price $0.25

FOR SALE ORETRADE

Two residence properties in Independence, Mo. Will sell or trade for farm in Missouri, Kansas or Nebraka. Address "Owner", 121 S. Willis Ave., Independence, Mo

POSITION WANTED

POSITION WANIED

I would like employment where there is a Branch, or at least a few families of Saints, at carpenter work, or in a meat market or grocery or would rent a Farm with every thing furnished. Can furnish good reference. Your Brother in the Gospel of Christ. Albert Carney, 198 Twiss ave.,

MR & MRS. HARVEY

Hours 10 to 12, 2to 6, evenings by appointmen

UNITED ORDER OF ENOCH HOUSE

Everyhody Welcome, Saints and Strangers No. 102 North River Boulevard, near the Stone hur-h. Best accommodations. Prices reasonable Bell Phone 613

Chas. A. and Amy T. Gurwell IN CHARGE

Universal Class Card

Send for sample of the Universal Class Cards, for use in both Sunday School and Religio. The Independence Schools have them in general

Price per doz 8 cents, per 100 60 cents ENSIGN PUBLISHING HOUSE,

Independence, Mo

WAR ATLAS

Cram's Atlas of the war comprising 16 pages 11x14½ and cover, giving fine maps of all the nations of Europe, those in war or likely to be especially emphasized. On the Diary. Arranged similar as the Elder's Diary, but provides for labors connected with the office work of the Priest. Price .....$0.10 likely to be especially emphasized. On the two inside cover pages is given the army and navy equipment of all the European nations as well as the United States and Japan. With this Atlas in connection with daily news one may be able to locate the movements of the armies and have a more comprehensive idea of how the war is being conducted. conducted.

ONLY 25 CENTS Get them of

Ensign Publishing House, Independence, Mo. WANTED

I wish to exchange 1-4 section, 85 acres broke, all fenced, no rock. About 8 miles of Town. Small barn, floored. House 14x20 two towns down one up, porch on south. In Altowns down one up, porch on south.
The provided the state of the south of the sout

GINSENG.

The growing of GINSENG is a profitable industry, an Agricultural Business with good profits attached. Persons with a small parcel of land can start a good paying business with a small investment that yields good dividends. Send for our booklet, "The ABC of Ginseng", get our prices, and learn how to better your financial condition. Address.

Address, Chas. F. Church & Son. Lamoni, Iowa

W. E. MESSENGER, M. D.

Religio Supplies. Local Secretary's Record.
Price
Jistrict Secretary's Record. Price
District Secretary's Record. Price
Solvent Supplies. Leaflet of Instruction. No. 2. Per dozen, 10 cents; per 100
Membership Cards, per dozen, 5
cents; per 100
Solvent Supplies. Solvent Secretary Solvent Solven Physician and Surgeon. Calls answered day or night. Office and Residence 806 W. Maple Ave. Independence, Mo. velopes, per dozen, 5 cents; per 100 s. $0.25. Visitor's Report Blanks, per dozen, 5 cents; per 100 ... $0.25. Letter of Invitat Blanks, per $0.20. Visitor of the Visitor Bell Phone 12

Special attention given to Anesthetics

Loose Leaf Sheets

For Local Religio Secretary's Record

Per dozen, 10 cents; per 100 $0.60 If you have not seen them, send for free sample to

ENSIGN PUBLISHING HOUSE, Independence, Mo.

Have You Planned Your Summer Vacation?

JUST TAKE AN

ALTON TRAIN "THE ONLY WAY"

CHICAGO

THE HUMMER

Leaves Kausas City Arrives Chicago 6:00 p. m. 7:35 a. m.

THE NIGHTINGALE
Leaves Kansas City
Arrives Chicago 11:20 p. m.
1:15 p. m.

No matter where you wish to go to spend your vacation, our corps of vacation experts will arrange schedules and tilneraries that will make travel a pleasure to you. Big lake boats and swift resort specials for both near and lar Wiscousin and Michigan Resorts, also to Atlantic City and Canadian resorts. Ask or write us about our

$56.50 ROUND TRIP RATE Buffalo and Niagara Falls

Which includes meals and berths on the boat for a solid week

Junction City Ticket Office, 9th, Main and Delaware. Both phones Main 542.

W. C. MUELLER,

General Agent Passenger Dept. C. & A. R. R.

RAILROAD TIME TABLES.

MISSOURI PACIFIC R. R.

MAIN LINE-EAST BOUND.

Ioplin to Kansas City St. Louis to California Special Sedalia, and Nevada Local Gast Mail fino stopi Ioplin to Kansas City Express Colorado and St. Joe Express St. Louis Local (all stops)

LEXINGTON BRANCH-EAST BOUND.

23 Sedalia to Kansas City 621 Sedalia to Kansas City

T. A. IOHNSON, Agent. Independence, Mo-

Entered at the Post Office at Independence, Mo., as Second Class Matter

OUR CREED: "ALL TRUTH."

VOL. 25

INDEPENDENCE, MISSOURI, THURSDAY, NOVEMBER 5, 1914

NO. 45

ZION'S ENSIGN

Published by the Reorganized Church of Jesus Christ of Latter Day Saints, every Thursday, at Independence, Mo., at $1.00 per year.

In writing concerning subscriptions, always give the nam of the Post of the Po whether It is a renewal or a new subscription. In making remittances Money Orders are preferable. If coin is sent it should be folded in a card so it will not lose out and then enclosed in an envelope with your letter. Be sure and siny your name and aive your full address. All business letters should be addressed to the Ensigh Publishing House, and do not you matter intended for publication on same sheet with thouse uncit is of a business nature. Address all letters and make all remittances parable to.

ENSIGN PUBLISHING HOUSE, Independence, Mo

WHY MURMUR?

Some murmur when their sky is clear And wholly bright to view, If one small speck of dark appear In their great heaven of blue:
And some with thankful love are filled, If but one streak of light, One ray of God's good mercy, gild The darkness of their night.

In palaces are hearts that ask, In discontent and pride. Why life is such a dreary task, And all good things denied: And hearts in poorest buts admire How love has in their aid— Love that not ever seems to tire-Such rich provision made.

—Richard Chenevix French, D. D.

SELF-DENIAL.

If any man will come after me, let him deny himself, and take up his cross and follow me. Matthew 16:24.
The carnal mind is enmity against God. Romans 8:7.
Man finds himself possessed of two classes of desires, one tending toward good and the other toward evil. The first results from the impress of the nature of the divine Creator, and the second from the impress of the nature of Satan accomplished through "the fall." To follow the desires which lead toward righteousness, of necessity requires a suppression of those which lead toward sin, and on the other hand if one follows the way of sin he will unavoidedly disergard the desires of righteousness; "No man can serve two mas-

Without Self-denial There Can Be No Strength Of Character.

A yielding to the desires of evil, which usually operate through the flesh, brings one to a condition of servitude, and he becomes subject to the will of the flesh, losing that power of self-control that marks the strong man. Will-power vanishes, his perception of truth and right becomes dim, his regard for others is lessened, and he is easily led into sin. Self-denial carries with it an intelligent control of every appetite and desire, and makes the man master of himself. It gives opportunity for the development of the nobler qualities of character and opens the gates to the fields of the higher life. "There never did and never will exist anything permanently noble and excellent in a character which was a stranger to the exercise of resolute self-denial." As strength comes by exercise against resistence, strength of character is acquired by the exercise of the will in resisting the appeals of the baser nature.

Not an Unnecessary Sacrifice.

Self-denial is more than a suppression of the desires that are clearly evil. It involves many things that are otherwise legitimate but which if indulged will prevent the reception or the attainment of the higher blessings. Men often sacrifice comfort and pleasure, enduring great hardships in order to attain certain desirable ends. Parents deny themselves many things in order that the needs of their children may be met. A proper appreciation of the higher things of life, the things which appeal to the spiritual man and tend to give him higher ideals and greater ambitions, will be one to sacrifice many things which be would otherwise seek to enjoy. The possession of material things is not of itself improper, but if such possession constitutes a bar to the attainment of the higher things, which are more real because they are eternal, then it is better that it should be yielded by sacrifice. This is what Jesus advised the rich young man, seeing that his heart was set upon his riches, and that he could never taste of the real joys of life unless his affection could be turned to something higher. "If thou wilt be perfect, go and sell that thou hast, and give to the poor, and thou shalt have treasure in heaven." It was a lesson of sacrifice that the Lord taught, a giving up of that which was counted legitimate in order to obtain greater good.

The essence of all true sacrifice is in giving up the lesser for the greater,—not selfishly for mere personal gain, for selfishness is the thing that sacrifice seeks to destroy, but for the good of the whole, as the parent for his family, the man for his country, or the martyr for the truth. Truth and right are of more value to the world than any earthly possession, or even the life of any one man, and the man who gives up earthly treasure, or life itself for the establishment of these is helping to cause blessing to flow to thousands in time and in eternity, and the good he has dispensed will ultimately return to him in manifold degree. What great good has come to the world by the noble sacrifice of the thousands of early Christians who died for the truth! What benefit to untold millions has resulted from the sacrifices of that struggling army or revolutionary fame! How wonderfully has the world been moved forward by numerous individuals who have gone down to death while standing for the right! Such sacrifices are not in vain, nor do those who make them lose their reward, for "he that loseth his life for my sake shall find it." Sacrifice in Minor Things.

Not all men are required to lay down their lives for the truth, nor for their country, but it is the duty of every man to live for the truth as he would live for his country, which necessitates the daily sacrifice of many little things of pleasure, of comforts, and of means. The little sacrifices of one man may not count for much in the world's progress, but let a community unite in its sacrifices and the results become more apparent. Let the whole Church, as to individual members, make daily sacrifice by refraining from the numerous little delights that demand time, energy, and means, and direct these forces into the channels where they will unitedly work for the establishment of the truth, and the world will move under the influence of the Church as never before.

The widow's mite accomplished more for the good of the world than all the liberal donations of the rich because with it was manifested the spirit of sacrifice by self-denial. In the offering of their gifts the rich denied themselves nothing, but sought with selfish motive the praise of men, and the virtue of the gifts was lost. The offerings of the rich were not sufficient to save the temple, their city, and their nation from destruction because of their false standards, but had there been enough offerings of the character of the widow's mite, all would have been saved. One of the leading causes of the slow progress of the gospel is that so few are working for it, so few have placed themselves under the principle of self-denial, and so few are sacrificing for it. The power of the individual members for carrying on the general work is being wasted by the little leaks of time and means incident to self-indulgence in the daily multitude of passing delights, and by evaporation in allowing the more vital opportunities of life to pass unused. With unity of purpose, unity of effort, and unity of sacrifice, the power of the gospel would shine in the lives and work of the saints to the enlightenment or the world.

Self-denial with Positive Obedience Is the Basis of True Christian Discipleship.

"If any man will come after me, let him deny himself, and take up his cross and follow rae."

is the statement of the Son of God. There is little to be gained by self-denial unless the energies and powers conserved thereby are turned to the accomplishment of more noble things. Self/ denial alone does not make a Christian, but h must yet take up his cross and follow Christ at d enter aggressively into the work of building ap truth and righteousness. To seek the upbuilding of the kingdom of God while at the same time yielding to every carnal appetite and fancy is to put the individual at once at a disadvantage, for under such conditions he cannot be a true disciple, and the insincerity of his efforts will be manifested in the results.

Acquiring and maintaining discipleship with Christ may necessitate the severing if some of the strongest ties of friendship and blood-relationship. Where these ties hold one from the performance of duty and the accomplishment of the highest purpose in life they had better be broken. Valiant men who offer themselves to the nation in time of need do not permit such ties to stand in the way of duty, and should men do less for Christ who has done so much for them? "He that loveth father or mother more than me is not worthy of me: and he that loveth son or daughter more than me is not worthy of me." (Matthew 10:37.)

The Spirit of the Gospel.

Self-denial and sacrifice are essential parts of the spirit of the gospel, and no man can enter fully into the spirit of the latter day work without them, nor can he know the richest joys that the gospel affords. After all they do not impoverish but make rich with the true riches. Peter who had left his home, his wife and friends, to do the work of the ministry to which he had been called, seemingly doubted whether the results were worthy of the sacrice, but the Lord said to him: "There is no man that hath left house, or brethren, or sisters, or father, or mother, or wife, or children, or lands, for my sake, and the gospel's, but he shall receive an hundredfold now in this time, houses, and brethren, and sisters, and mothers, and children, and lands, with persecution and in the world to come eternal life." (Mark 10:29, 30.) Denying self for others' sakes will unavoidedly multiply friendships with ties so strong that every legitimate need will be met by the new friends who have learned the lesson of sacrifice from him who has set so worthy an example. Such virtues are never lost but they go out to the blessings of mankind to return again with manifold increase, like the bread cast upon the waters.

Self-denial lifts a man out of his narrowness and above his littleness; it broadens his vision until he is able to see beyond self the great humanity with all its needs; to see his duty and responsibility. It enables him to enter upon the active service of his God in uplifting humanity, and prepares him for discipleship in Christ.

THE CHANGING ATTITUDE TOWARD WAR.

A special bulletin has been issued by the American Association for International Conciliation. showing the changing attitude toward war. It consists of a number of cartoons from various papers, all showing the horrors of war, and how it violates the moral sentiment of the nations. When the anti-war sentiment becomes sufficiently strong to dispense with war altogether we may look for world peace.

As Phidias contrived his mechanism so that his memor As Phidias contrived his mechanism so that his memory could never be obliterated without the destruction of his work, so the great name of God is interwoven in the texture of all that He has made. His goodness blooms in every flower; His glory beams in every star. There is a God! The sun speaks it in his splendor by day, and he moon in her radiance by night. There is a God! Inanimate nature, from the pebble upon the beach, to the orb that shines in the vaulted sky, declares it; and ani-mate existence, from the tiniest insect, to Gabriel before the throne. The earth is full of Him. His majesty commands the cherubim; His temple is all space; His arm is around all worlds.—Joseph Dare.

PRESIDENT JOSEPH SMITH'S TESTIMONY nmunion Service last Sunday

At Co Beloved Brethren

Beloved Brethren:—
It is now fifty-four years and seven months from next Friday since I took upon myself the responsibility of answering unto Gol and unto the people of this generation
the responsibility that was placed upon me by Divine call, and this morning, reflecting that next Friday I will round out my eighty-second year, if permitted to live, that this was the last Sunday in that eighty-second year that this was the list Sunday in the dighty-stond year and the first day, the first Sunday of the month, the da of our sacramental service, I remembered the obligation that I took upon myself. I remembered the first time tha I made public acknowledgment before the church of the Spirit of life and salvation that had been born within me in the baptism of water by my father, and I deemed it but right and just and that it would be a pleasure for me to meet you this day and partake of the sacrament once more with the people of God's choice.

I am thankful to him this day that during the service of the fifty-four years that I have been permitted to of the htty-four years that I have been permitted agive it and to give to you, he has not forsaken me nor left me without sufficient strength to name His name among the people of God. Hence, my testimony today is that which I have been engaged in this labor, and this testimony has been sanctified in the different missions which I have taken, in the performance of the different duties I have taken, in the performance of the different duties which I have been called upon to perform, in the performance of the duties of my office. I feel grateful today that he has ever thus granted unto me a seal of my mission in the blessings that have followed my ministration in the name of the Lord, Jesus Christ, and today if there is one thing I should more delight to say than any other, it is to repeat the words of the Savior, "My peace I give unto you-not as the world giveth, but My peace I give

INDEPENDENCE ITEMS.

Commencing Wednesday, October 28, Elder O. R. Miller began a series sermons. On Wednesday night his subject was "Jesus, Human or Divine, Which?" Thursday night, "The casting Out of Jesus," or "Jesus Cast Out," showing how he was discredited by the religious world of that day. His subject Friday night was "The Causes of Infidelity:

Sunday, both forenoon and evening Bro. O. R. Miller continued his series of sermons, the subject in the morning was "Sowing and Reaping." He stood for a pure life, which should be guarded in the home and there avoid forming habits that might develop into bad away from the home, such habits as dancing, card playing, etc. At night he preached on the mission of Joseph Smith. He compared the treatment that former day prophets had received with that received by Joseph Smith, and showed that his fruits showed that he was a prophet. Meetings will continue throughout the week.

e communion service in the afternoon was very comforting and uplifting in the influence that prevailed. President Joseph Smith was present, and gave a very interesting little talk, which through the thoughtfulness of Sr. Louise Geish, was taken down in short hand and then transcribed so we have it for this week's paper.

There will be a priesthood meeting of all the priest-hood of the Stake, at the Stone church, Independence, on Tuesday evening, November 10. The president requests that all who can will be present. A report_will be heard from a committee appointed to consider a Stake Priest-

In a dispatch from Lamoni, Iowa, dated Oct. 31, to the Kansas City Sunday Journal, it is stated that Bro. Heman Smith had been very severely injured by a fall from a hay loft.

President Joseph Smith came up town on Tuesday and exercised his right to vote, it being an exceptionally fine

Bro. and Sr. M. D. Dickenson with their youngest daughter Lucy and Sr. Mary Issaes left on Monday for Umatilla, Fla., where they will live till some time next

There has been an Ancient History Club formed among me of the Saints. They will meet during the month some of the saints. They will meet during the month of November with Bro. Arthur McKim.

The Ladies Aid Society meets every Wednesday afternoon in the Dining Hall, where they are busy as bees quilting and doing other work for the good of the church and those less fortunate than some. On last Wednesday there were 25 sisters present.

Through Sr. A. L. Yingling's activities in the local option work in Independence, Kansas City and St. Louis she has gained considerable notoricty, and her work has spread to the extent that a St. Louis paper gave her a write-up accompanied with her picture, on account of her efficient work in that city.

On October 30th and 31st the doors of the magnifi-cent new Union Station at Kansas City were thrown open for the inspection of the public. The first day, it was estimated, one hundred thousand people availed them-selves of the opportunity offered. On Friday, the 30th, there was a parade in which were 137 floats which ended where there was music and speech making in the main lobby. The station is something that Kansas City has reason to be proud of. The change from the old station in comparison is like changing from the most menial hovel to a grand palace. It is said that it has menial hovel to a grand palace. It is said that it has no equal in the world outside of New York Giv, and in some respects exceeds in size even the New York ones. The plans were exceuted in the office of larvis Hunt of Chicago b, Mit. Hunt's head architect, Charles Bohasseck, who worked continuously for six years on them and made a study of all the best terminals in the United States and in Zurope, and Mr. Hunt got three hundred thousand dollars for the plans. It is a marvel in beauty, massiveness and convenience. It was built through the faith the railroads companies have in Kansas City's future, for generations to come, and adequate for the city when it may have two million population. The total cost of the depet and approaches is fifty millions of dollars. The first train to leave the new station was one minute after midnight Sunday morning, November 1st.

In the general election held Tuesday the issue in In-the general election heat luesday the issue in the dependence and the entire Jackson county was principally the drys against the wets. It was hoped that Blue township, of which Independence is a part would again go dry, but alas, the whole county went to the "wets". The local option county unit bill was defeated, as also the local option county unit bill was defeated, as also the woman suffrage bill, the latter received something like 7000 for to 9000 against it. It takes time to educate people, especially in Missouri. Missouri, it cannot be denied, does not take the lead in adopting progressive principles, and her laws in many respects are not what they should be. It seems hard to hold an honest election

INDEPENDENCE, SECOND BRANCH.

On Sunday morning, Oct. 25th, Elder G. E. Harring-ton, Stake president, was the speaker at the 11 o'clock hour. After reading a portion of the 6th chapter of 2nd Corinthians, Romans 2 and 7 was taken for his text. Corinthians, Romans 2 and 7 was taken for his text.
During his discourse the necessity of exercising patience in the warfare of life and while engaged in the Master's work was shown to be very important.

Elder Geo. Jenkins of Walnut Park at the evening hour spoke to a large audience, presenting many things es-sential to right living, such as loving your neighbor as yourself, learning to sacrifice self in the interest of the Lord's work.

On Sunday morning last the secretary's report showed 239 present at Sunday school.

At 11 a. m. Elder Robert Warnock held the attention of his hearers. Bro. Warnock has been in the church work about 50 years or more. After reading John, 17th chapter, he selected the 23rd verse as a text while using the inspired version of the scriptures, he spoke in favor of of this book supporting it by the Doctrine and Covenants, showing it to be the only correct translation in its en-

The sacramental service at 2:30 was well attended, including a number of visitors from the first branch and At the 7:30 hour Elder P. A. Sherman was the speaker, using Thessallonians 5th chapter. In the course of his remarks he said while we believe there is only one way of entering the church, we must continue faithful in the work

On Monday evening the branch met for the regular monthly business session with Bro. H. W. Goold in the chair and Sr. Sadie Bailey secretary. 7 members were received on letters of removal from various branches and one by baptismal certificate, also letters were granted six one oy oapusmai certificate, also letters were granted six members from the Second to the First branch. A resignation from Bro. Goold was read by the secre-tary and presented by Bro. J. T. Cuttis in which he asked to be released from the office of presiding elder. A number of speeches were made both pro and con, after which Bro. Goold stated very good reasons why he be released at the present time. A vote was taken and the request granted by a small majority. The matter of electing another president was postponed indefinitely. G. W. Tousley.

ST. JOSEPH, THIRD BRANCH.

We of the Thind St. Joseph Branch have been enjoying a feast. Presiding Patriarch, Frederick A. Smith, began a series of meetings Sunday morning, Oct. 18, continuing until Sunday night, Oct. 25. The sermons were grand, until Sunday night, Oct. 25. The sermons were grand, very educational and uplifting, and much good was done. Sunday, the 25th, was rally day, for Sunday school and Branch. The attendance at Sunday school was over 80 and at evening service was about 130. The afternoon prayer meeting was of a highly spiritual character, many stirring testimonies and interesting experiences were given. Other features of the day's program were music in Sunday school and thirty minutes before evening preaching service, consisting of highos solo by Joseph preaching service, consisting of piano solo by Joseph Crumb, anthem and songs by the choir, also two very fine vocal solos by Mrs. J. E. Curtis of So. St. Joseph. Alto-gether we had a day of rejoicing long to be remembered. Bro. F. A. Smith, by his kind fatherly teaching, endeared himself to the Saints and we all said "come again Bro.

Our branch is growing some. Four years 21st of last February the branch was organized with 55 members; it now numbers 132. Fifty have been baptized by the writer and several by other parties.

have a nice little church 28 by 32 with vestibule and a Sunday school room annexed, and we are meeting our payments nicely and expect to soon have it all paid for and dedicated. We have some of the wiles of the enemy to contend with, but upon the whole, the Saints are striving to come up higher and while the world is in commotion and the wicked slay the wicked, we are trying to cultivate the spirit of peace and unity, two Christian graces without which Zion can never don her beautiful garments and be prepared to meet her Bridegroom when he comes to gather up his jewels.

W. P. Pickering

OMAHA, NEBRASKA.

"Standing by a purpose true. Heeding God's command Honor them the faithful few, All hail to Daniel's band. The sacrament service was well attended the lovely first Sunday, and quite spiritual. How willingly the "faithful few" would surrender the time to others, whose voices are so seldom heard, if ever, in prayer or testimony service. What greater blessings the body would receive if all were "valient in testimony?" Sr. Madge Seigfried, Bro. Paul N. Craig's sister, and other vsitors worshipped Apostle J. A. Gillen's visit on Oct. 25th, and Bishop E. L. Kelly's on Nov. 1st, were much appreciated. Others who have occupied the pulpit of late; Elders M. A. Peterson, H. A. Scott, Paul N. Craig, and Priest W. E. Stoft. A number of the Saints are afflicted; Bro. Glean Leach, with typhold fever at his home in South Omaha, Willie Eden at St. Joseph's Hospital, Bertha Davidson, Long Pine, Nebr., at the Wise Memorial, J. A. Williams, Bancrott, Nebr., at the Swedish Mission, Baby Phillips at his home. Bro. Spence is still improving. The prayers of God's people are asked for these dear ones, as well as others who are suffering.

The Sunday school classes and competing for a han-

The Sunday school classes and competing for a banner until Christmas time. Each member after being present four Sundays on time will receive a blue button, and the class receiving the largest percentage of buttons will be awarded the banner. The Religio officers have also started a rivalry by dividing the members into the reds and the blues; each receiving credits for being on time, bringing new members, etc. The losing side at the end of the year is to furnish refreshments to the winners. Sometimes it is necessary to interest the children, as well as the older members, by introducing competition.

In two of our schools 500 boys have promised not to use tobacco until they are twenty-one, and have been given a button with the skull and cross-bones. We pray that this move may be universal.

"Many mighty men are lost, Daring not to stand, Who for God had been a host, By joining Daniel's band."

Alice Cary Schwartz.

345 Omaha Nat. Bank Bldg.

SEATTLE

Seattle's weather was at its best Sunday which together with the love for the Latter day work drew to-gether a large audience at our church, some coming long distances—Bro. and Sr. R. P. Mulvane from Ta-coma, (she is a daughter of Bro. Meyers of Nebraska City), Bro. Kinghorn from Auburn, and others. The attendance at Sunday school was 72. The morning sermon was by the pastor, subject "Angels." The evening sermon was by Bro. Wm. Johnson based on "the sure word of prophecy." Sr. Irwin, daughter of Sr. Barney, sang a beautiful solo at the morning service which was highly appreciated.

Bro. Chas. Wright and wife are in Seattle for a short They attended services at the morning hour. are always pleased to meet our old time friends. We knew Charles in San Francisco, Calif.

Wife and I marched in a temperance parade on Saturday last through the principal streets of Seattle, just to show which side we were on. It will be a close contest on Tuesday next. There are just two sides to this question—the side I am on, and the wrong side,
J. M. Terry,

102 North 39th St., Scattle, Wash., Oct. 29.

ST. LOUIS ITEMS

On Sunday, Oct. 4, the day set apart by the government for praying for peace, there was a good crowd out at the sacrament service, but the testimony part of the meeting was marred by too many loquacious speakers. Up in front were our district president Elder R. Archi-Up in front were our district president, Elder R. Archi-bald, our branch president, Elder T. Elliott, and our mis-sionary, Elder Ward L. Christy, and they did much to-ward making the service really helpful and uplifting, but some of the brethren had to discourse at length upon the war. Finally Bro. Archibald rose, and redeemed the situation by a talk that was benutiful enough to make every one go away feeling good. He opposed the idea war, as he always does,

On the morning of Oct 11, Bro. Geo. Reeves was the speaker—reading the text, "What is man, that thou art mindful of him, or the Son of man, that thou visiteth mindful of him, or the Son of man, that thou visiteth him?" He claimed that purity and morality do not make complete righteousness, unless we feel that God speaks to us in the silent hours of the night, or as we are on our way to our work, and as we sit at the desk or stand at the forge. In order to gain eternal life, there must be between us and God or Christ an intimate acquaintance. And Jesus does not visit those who are unmindful of Him-

The tent has been with us again, services being held the corner of Morganford Road and Wyoming St., in the district known as Oak Hill. It is reported two are to be baptized. Little Laura Whitney was baptized by Bro. Elliott on the 18th. Several have been received by letter and so our numbers increase. Our pastor seems tetter and so our numbers increase. Our pastor seems to have effected a very graftfying arrangement. Bro. Christy, who has given us spleudid assistance in the missionary work this summer, is to preach for us the church each Sunday morning until next district conference, about the middle of December. Bro. Christy is appreciated by the Saints as an able minister and has made many friends for the work among those outside, made many friends for the work among those outside, some of whom we were pleased to see out to hear him last Sunday morning. He continues to conduct weekly series of meetings in nearby localities and is therefore accessable and on hand to help us each Sunday morning. The much heralded Pastor Russell visited our city last inday and was heard by an unusually large audience ne ministerial alliance has arrayed their forces in opposition to the recent work of his sermons being published in one of our very best daily papers. It seems in the criticism that has been made the paper has been condemned for accepting this matter, though paid for at advertising rates. They have not met the Pastor as yet with biblical argument nor have they taken the scriptures to prove the many contentions untrue.

But because he asserts the creeds are wrong, they resolve as a body that he must not be heard and his efforts must be curbed, his liberty and the liberty of the press through which he wishes to tell that which he believes to be true must be denied. Our district President Elder Russell Archibald, who heard the Pastor Sunday afternoon, discoursed before a goodly audience of Saints and friends at the church Sunday night. And in a very able effort made plain just when and where many of these plain and wonderful statements that are now causing so much unrest and anxiety on the part of so many and real contention among no few, first saw the light of day, in the inauguration and rew, into saw the igns of any, in the magnitude setting up of the restored gospel and the prophetic mission of its chosen leaders in these latter days.

While it is strange, yet true, that all these wonderful and prophetic statements were brought forth and preached. with he restored gospel. Yet stranger than all, though men hear it today, still they refuse to believe.

~27]

COURT MET WILLIAM CONTRACTOR CONT CORRESPONDENCE

Creal Springs, Ill., Oct. 4.

Editor Ensign:-I am home now and awhile because I believe it is necessary, as I am looking awinic because I believe in a factor some business, and as I get so many letters from the different fields that I have labored in. I wish to say to all Saints and friends that I have become acquaintsay to all Saints and Friends that I have become acquainted with, that I am always glad to hear from you, and I take advantage of a letter in the Ensign, hoping all will see it. I am laboring in Indiana this year, and have have met many good Saints and friends, have baptized some into the kingdom, and all those baptized seem to rejoice that they had found the old gospel, taught by Paul, and Peter, and by Jesus Christ, the head. Those that I have been laboring with are J. W. Metcalf, F. A. Rowe. Bro. Metcalf is a live missionary, and Bro. Rowe a man

In answer to three questions that were asked of Jesus

-Master when shall these things be, and what shall be the sign of thy coming, and of the end of the world? "And this gospel of the kingdom shall be Jesus said: Jesus said: "And this gospel of the kingdom shall be preached in all the world for a witness, and then shall the end come." When I first started out to tell the gospel story, I thought every body would believe me. Since I found it different, I therefore make the gospel plain and leave the results with the people and their plain and leave the results with the people and then God. And this gospel will be a witness against them. Paul said, "Now I beseech you, brethren, mark them which cause divisions and offense contrary to the doctrine which ye have learned; and avoid them. For they that are such serve not our Lord Jesus Christ, but their own belly, and by good words and fair speeches deceive the hearts of the simple." Rom. 16:17, 18. What is that doctrine? Faith, repentance, baptism, laying on hands, resurrection of the dead, and eternal judgment. What did Paul say about them that caused divisions contrary to that doctrine.

I trust that this letter may be read by all Saints, and that when they read it, they will hear me say, that when a man finds this gospel and accepts it he has found the greatest treasure on this earth. All the earthly treasures man may lay up here he must leave and when the word comes, what did you do to help spread the gospel, what will you have to say?

I still remain a brother in the one faith,

I. C. Moore.

Greenfield, Okla., Oct. 25. Dear Ensign:-I feel so lonely out here where the gos pel has not been preached but a few times, and that sevoral years past. We long to hear the true gospel message as it was preached in the days of Christ and the Apostles. We have a great desire for our neighbors and Apostles. We have a great desire for our negations and friends here to hear the gospel in its purity. We are here all alone save 2 other members in our town. Brother Sam Simmons and his noble family live about 14 miles from where he has aroused the curiosity of some, and of them have been made to see the truth and some have obeyed. He has a great power in speaking and as a man all who know him like him. We have had the pleasure of visiting with his family, and its been a real pleasure. good wife is ever ready to do all in her power to make feel at home

We attended the debate held in June by Brother Boot man and Mr. Nunner of the Missionary Baptist faith. It was a great victory for the cause of truth. Bro. Bootman baptized 14 after the close of the debate, most of whom were Baptists.

the brothers and sisters to join in prayer to God that He may bless us in disposing of our property that we may take up our abode in Zion where my heart longs to be with the good and redeemed. Ever loving the cause of truth I am your sister in the one faith, Virginia Boyd.

Fulton, N. Y., Oct. 31

Dear Ensign:-This is the season of the year for sudden, and sometimes surprising changes. The Halloween time, and while I do not know as the change I am about to report is quite of a Halloween character, still it was quite a surprise to me when Bro. P. M. Hansen directed me to go to Maryland.

It is to that land I am traveling at present, only stop-ping to answer an urgent call at this place and East Phar-salio, N. Y., on my way. I will also stop in Philadelphia as I go.

I have been directed to go to Elk Mills, Md., so suppose that will be my objective.

Since writing last, we have labored at East Pharsalio, Sherrill, Fulton, Rochester, Buffalo and Niagara Falls. At Fulton-I haptized three, also assisted Bro. Stone in reorganizing the Fulton Branch. At Buffalo we had (Oct. 24 and 25) a very interesting conference, where only incidentated and urgent business was transacted, and the Samuday assions were given largely to papers devoted to different phases of our Zionic work. An excellent spirit was manifest.

spirit was manifest. Some Well, I am "on my way," but whether I'll be singing "Maryland, my Maryland," or not, I can't tell, but hardly think I will with my family in 10wa ..... desire to do my work wherever it may be.

Sincerely,

A. M. Chase. think I will with my family in Iowa and Missouri, still I Eustis, Nebr., Oct. 24.

Dear Ensign:—So many testinonies I have nat of this the work of Jesus Christ. I know it is Has work, for so great a work could not be done by man. Lo many signs and wonders have I witnessed since uniting with signs and wonders have I witnessed since untill with the church, that I am perfectly satisfied and know that it is true. Paul said the gospel came not in word only, but also in power and in the Holy Spirit. I have thought if we saints would live better to what greater degree that could be realized; and I have also thought that if the could be realized, and I have also hodges with I saints were living as they ought to live (not to find fault) how much sooner the Christ would come and relieve the suffering ones and place them in a better condition so could do more for themselves to gain that blessed that he has promised to those who will live happiness righteous lives.

I have had an experience this year, since the latter part of March, that has been very trying, but suppose for the best, for I know by the past experience that the Lord does things in a very peculiar way in the eyes of man. Sickness is one means that is taken to bring the believing ones nearer to him, for we know that when one is sick he will nearly always think of Him who has promised to heal, and He will come to their rescue if they will put themselves right before Him. I am no less strong in faith than I ever have been for I feel to know the Lord will do nothing except it be for the best.

I have prayed much that my faith will remain as strong or sronger than it is now. When I have been in my severest trials and afflictions of the months which have severest trais and annextons of the months which make and are passing those beautiful words of the hymn, "Oh for a faith that will not shrink," etc, was almost continually on my mind, and I feel that the Lord has and is reaching out His loving hand for my support. Why I feel that I know is that if it had not been for that would not be writing this letter.

My wife has been sick and suffering for about sever months and in the meantime has been in a hospital in Omaha for six weeks for an operation, and I was there myself for a few days. Neither of us are well yet, but I feel when the Lord sees it wise to do so it will be very

My experience in this work since 1896 v book or many pages. I want to relate a little instance that took place while I was in the hospital. The first day, only a few hours after I went to bed in the foren, I heard the sweetest strain of a few tenor notes I ever heard in all my life, and I looked (as I did not have to move my head-it was toward the foot of or the beg, but some distance beyond, seemingly beyond the partition of the ward I was in.) I saw the most beautiful rostrum or pulpit. It had its arches and pillars and other necessary fixtures and was the most elaborate any I ever have seen, and the tenor voice was at left as I was looking, but seemingly just far enough back so the person could not be seen. It all happened in an instant. The voice was what attracted my attention to the beautiful sight I beheld. A very satisfactory feeling ame over me, and I felt there must be some meaning to it. May the Lord in his goodness favor all his faithful workers is my sincere desire in his name

M. E. Johnson

Morgantown, W. Va., Oct. 21 Dear Ensign:-The Saints here are trying with what knowledge they have to do the Master's will. They are few in number but the Lord of all has promised where two or three are gathered together in His name there He would be. His flock has always been a little one. There would be. His flock has always been a little one. There are some Saints here who are trying to live according to what knowledge they have to please the Father, the yound people especially. I long for the time to come when all the honest in heart will be brought into the fold of Christ. We have meetings here twice every Sunday. Sorry to say though we are in such a way that we can local nave prayer meeting and Sunday school, because some have to go back and forth on the train. But we trust there will be a way opened soon, if it is pleasing with the Father . His will be done always.

Let every one that has taken the covenant upon himself follow Jesus, live to the law and commandments which he has given them and try to double the talent which he has given us. And keep on the lookout and not be

A brother in bonds,

H. W. Rogers

Marshall, Mo., Oct. 24 Marshall, Mo., Oct. 24
Dear Ensign:—Am very glad to write that after nearly two years of inactivity from missionary work, because of being afflieted and under medical treatment, that one week ago I left my home in Independence, Mo., and started out again in missionary work, as a conference appointed man to labor in the Independence Stake.
Only those who have had a like experience with anxious desires to always he have yet in gangle work could realize desires to always be busy in gospel work could realize how good it seemed to prepare, go to the train, ride to a strange place, to again be preaching and really feel-to a strange place, to again be preaching and really feeiing our heavenly Father's approval in having the oldtime freedom and liberty of the Holy Spirit in preaching to interested congregations. To say that I rejoice in all this in words is putting it very mildly indeed.

And too, I use this way of thanking all from the depths of my heart, for the large amount of sympathy and assistance given me by our ministry, and the many dear kind Saints whom I know have fasted and earnestly prayed for my recovery. The deciors and nurses in the Sanitarium have my kinder tractive for heir kindly minis for my recovery. The doctors and nurses in the Sanitarium have my kindest regards for heir kindly ministrations. I surely have nothing but words of commendation and praise for the good work our Sanitarium is doing for the sick, suffering, discouraged ones who are obliged to go there for treatment; and I feel that after my having been there ten months in all that I am qualified to write in praise as I do.

I am so far improved that while I carry a cane only I am so far improved that while I carry a cane only I use it mostly dengling in my hand for company. I am grateful to my heavenly Father for so green be, soled.

One night this week I had a dream that interested me very much, and might interest some and do good by writing it. In the dream I was in the Stone Chucch in Independence at General Conference, as I saw the Quorums assembled and seated. I saw on the floor in front of the pulpit our President Joseph Smith, with skeins of fish lines, hooks and sinkers. He was not blind or deaf, but active and alert. He was measuring off lines, putting on hooks and sinkers and handing one to each of the ministers. Every body was very orderly and intensely interested in President Smith's work in preparing them for all to go fishing, and it seemed that it was two or three days after the 6th of April and no business had been done ever the every the state of the second of the three days after the 6th of April and no business had been done except the getting of these fish lines ready, and I wondered-in the dream why the business as is usually done was put off, and the preparing for fishing seemed so all important. I went out the west door and stood on the green grass and Bishop E. L. Kelley came out from the house and passed me going a little ways beyond me with his head bowed in deep meditation and kneeling down with hands clasped, began to earnestly pray, continuing until his face nearly touched the ground he seeming so earnest and humble. I could see the tears dropping from his face. When I awoke I felt to be in the Spirit and to have the understanding of what this all meant—that a proseliteing time is or would soon be for the ministry to enter into—as one of the greatest questions before the church with the need of financial aid from the members in tithes and offerings to be sent aid from the members in tithes and offerings to be sent properly to the Bishop, and to the Bishops and agents throughout the world, to sustain the families of the ministry and other affairs pertaining to the church work. In the dream this was what was meant in seeing the Bishop so earnestly engaged in prayer.

I have studied much over the dream and hope the men-

I have studied much over the dream and hope the

I am not much acquainted in this stake and can only preach in one place at a time, but it might be helpful to me and any concerned if in some place where missionary work is needed to be done for those concerned to write me at my home address so I could if possible come to such a place and preach as long as it would be needful or that I may have the time

Your humble brother in gospel bonds, Elder F. L. Sawley 1117 So. Dodgeon St., Independence, Mo.

Listowel Branch, Sep. 9.

In the early part of the spring we had with us Bro. George Tomlinson, who had labored in this branch some 15 years ago, and who was one in the hands of God in building it up at that time, so the Saints were pleased him in their midst once more,

Then this summer Bro. Shield came and gave us some good gospel sermons through which some were con-vinced of the truthfulness of this gespel; whether they will obey or not time will tell.

At the present time we have with us Bro. Alvin Ellis, who is not so well known among the Saints as the other two mentioned, but who is a good preacher and we certainly are keeping him busy. He came Thursday, Sept 3, and held a meeting the same evening and again Friday evening and on Sunday three meetings were held and all through the following week with fair attendance. On Sunday, the 6th he spoke to a goodly assembly of Saints, and at the 1:30 p. m. prayer and sacrament meeting. Saints had previously been invited from Mitchell, Rostock, Mc-Killoy, Brussels, Palmerston, Harriston and Drew. Meeting was again held at 3 p. m., with a good attendance of outsiders, and again at 7:30 p. m.

We are trying to keep the flag unfurled and the camp fire burning that some honest in heart may find their way to the fold of Christ. Ever praying we may live worthy to be called a child of the King of kings, I remain your sister in the one faith.

Mrs. A. Smith.

Denver, Colo., Oct. 17.

Dear Ensign:-The Saints of Denver have been enjoy ing a feast of good things. Bro. Ammon White has just closed a series of meetings here. He came rather un-expected among us, but by means of his automobile we called on many of the Saints, and thus rallied quite a cannot on many of the Saints, and thus rained quite a crowd to the services. He was with us about the idays, and preaching services were held nearly every evening. His visit was a blessing to the Denver Saints. We hope he will come again and stay longer.

I am trying to keep busy in the gospel work by hold-interactive continuous.

In thing to tage meetings. I find that I can get in closer touch with the people by visiting them in their homes, and talking with them, than by public meetings. As time goes on I am made to realize that God is in this work, and assists us when we do our part. I hope to become more efficient in my work, and thus be a better soldier for Christ.

In gospel bonds, J. B. Barrett.

2319 Emerson St.

GLEANINGS.

Elder Joseph Arber, Ripley, Okla.—I am preaching at this place where we have a fine interest. The church was filled last night. One has been baptized. This is the place where you will doubtless remember where Bro. J. E. Yates was arrested when defending the work against R. E. Grant. I go from here to Stillwater to open up the work there and organize a Sunday school next Sunday.

SERMONS AND ARTICLES

THE VINEYARD AND ITS WORK. Sermon By Elder S. S. Smith.

It is with feelings of gratitude that I appear before you at this time, yet I have a degree of hesitancy for I realize one occupying in the sacred work of the ministry must ever be impressed with its venerable character, and the necessity of seeking the counsel of One whose wisdom is supreme, and whose far seeing eye is over all. I have in mind two texts which appeal to me as being appropriate for this occasion to introduce the theme to be considered.

"Son, go, work today in my vineyard." Matthew 21:28.

"Thou art called to labor in my vineyard, and to build up my church and to bring forth Zion, that it may rejoice upon the hills and flourish." Doctrine and Covenants. 39:4.

Among the various metaphors by which the church or kingdom of God and his Christ are represented, one of the most common, and too, very beautifully expressive, is that of a vineyard. The gifted prophet Isaiah, richly endowed with that noble idealism, intrinsic with glorious similitude and poetic meter, wrote, "Now will I sing to my well-beloved a song of my beloved touching his vineyard. My well-beloved hath a vineyard in a very beautiful hill." Isa. 5:1. Master of men used the same allegory of the vineyard, and we linger on his words, "There was a certain householder, which planted a vineyard and hedged it round about, and digged a wine press in it, and built a tower, and let it out to husbandmen, and went unto a far country.' Matt. 21:33. The Palmyra Seer not lacking in responsiveness to the Spirit's thrill, was led to exclaim, "For verily, verily I say unto you, that ye are called to lift up your voices as with the sound of a trump, to declare my gospel unto a crooked and a perverse generation; for, behold the field is white already to harvest; and it is the eleventh hour, and for the last time that I shall call laborers into my vineyard. And my vineyard has become corrupted every whit; and there is none which doeth good save it be a few; and they err in many instances, because of priesterafts, all having corrupt minds." D. C. 32:1.

Thus considering the metaphorical allusion in the texts, and the citations given, we understand by the act of conversation the penitent believer is transplanted out of the desert of the world into the fruitful vineyard of the church. Changing the figure, we find a very beautiful comparison where the individual is cut off as the wild olive and engrafted by the gospel into the tame which is the true and living plant or in other words the church.

We should deeply concern ourselves with the language of the text, "Son, go, work today in my vineyard," and take it as a personal reference to us individually; for the magnitude and full responsibility of the latter day work rests upon the shoulders of all equally. How can a practical rendition of the text be made, unless it means identity with the church which of course carries "th it the idea of work?"

Practical Christianity, we must ever insist, is working for God. Let me then elucidate this subject by stating the proposition more fully under three headings: First that all saints are called to the work of God; Second, the spirit in which this work of the vineyard should be done; and third, the motives by which it may be enforced

All Believers Called to the Work.

Dear saints, let me appeal to you today, does it seem like a harsh conclusion to say, in this church that we view as the result of divine providence when it was restored to earth in this the latter day, there is found no place for the laggard or lazy man? In the economy of God there is no place for him. There is no proviso for such a being. Salvation is always identified with the idea of labor. Our certificate carries with it the thought of duty, Eke the ant in the ant-zill, or the bee in the bee-hive. Every one is supposed to be a worker. All has a separate and distinct duty, and an equal responsibility which must be performed.

It is not so much the personal religion of the individual that I refer to, which is included in the expressed injunction, 'Give diligence to make your calling and election sure," and "Work out your own salvation with fear and trembling," as it is that measure of enlarged service which not only applies to the duty to self, but the duty to the brotherhood, and all mankind as well.

Now the greater labor to which we refer and address ourselves today, is best illustrated by looking at some of the figurative lessons and expositions of the Church of Jesus Christ. First we take up the comparison where the church is likened to an army. Paul I believe is responsible for this comparison. The thought he wishes to convey in this reference (Eph. 6:10-18) is, that every man is a soldier and must be properly drilled and equipped, that they may be "strong in the Lord, and the the power of his might." every saint is supposed to be a soldier of the cross. Every enlisted patriot is to have the cause at heart, and he is brave and loyal on the battle front because he wants to be there, and he sees a common danger. He is not one who is oblivious to the peril, and the prowess of his forensic enemy: but he is there because of a sense of duty and the conception he holds of his relations to his fatherland-the Church,

This command is issued to each, from the least to the greatest, "Fight the good fight of faith," "War a good warfare" and "No man that warreth entangleth himself with the affairs of this life; that he may please him who has chosen him to be a soldier." Now this army is to make not only a defensive stand, but is to be persistently aggressive and push the conquest of Christ onward on the enemys' ground. This enemy, the world, the flesh and the devil is very strong and well organized. This army of the Lord is to strive to subdue the nations of evil to Jesus Christ the great "Captain of our salvation." It is not enough for each soldier to try to secure himself, he must be equally concerned, for the prosperity of the whole.

Another figure Christ uses in his teaching and that is the one of the vine. In this we see an illustration of great beauty and fitting comparison. (John 15:1, 2.) The nature growth and fruitage of the vine in one of interesting detail, and is a nice illustration of the growth of the church. In other words it is another way of bringing out the evidence of the new birth, the work of regeneration, until they finally become "plants of renown." As the plant grows and brings forth fruit, so must those striving for full regeneration "grow in grace." The individual must pass The individual must pass from the state of childhood to youth, then to maturity, and farther along to a rich and golden old age, so as to be fully ripe for everlasting glory, just as the process of graduation is carried out in the plant life of the vine.

The invitation is general to come and thus be transplanted into the rich soil of the gospel. He invites them to dedicate their entire selves to the great task of growth and maturity in gospel development, that they may partake of his glory and divinity, and thus be "partakers of the divine nature, having escaped the corruption that is in the world through lust." Then let us notice the character of the vine and its relationship to us. First of all the soil is vital to the life of the vine. The manifest life and growth is also contingent upon the sap. We must not fail to mention the branches, leaves and fruit, for in the study of the vine these are to be reckoned with. Now when Christ uses this comparison, cannot we see a very fine resemblance of the church?

God is the husbandman, and Christ himself is represented to be the main vine, which in other words would mean his-body or church. (Col. 1:18, 24; Eph. 1:22, 23.) The branches of this vine are the engrafted people, and the sap necessarily represents the Holy Spirit, the life giving principle. The leaves we say are not unlike the evidences of life and growth of the individuals; while the fruit is the holy life or results of Christian labor, the character we bear or spiritual endowments and works of love. The soil of course is the truth which we are "grounded in."

As we engage our attention with this we feel we have a theme of vast proportions, not only for present exultation but for external triumph as well. By the cultivation of the tender evidences of regeneration or domestication under gospel tutorship, we are bound to rise in divine life and stature and show every edidence of growth.

We also find another comparison regarding the church, which illustrates our duties as saints of God, and that is the simile of the church to that of a human body. This is fully set forth by the Apostle Paul in the 12th chapter of 1 Corinthians. He says the body has "many members" yet he declares they are "one body." Every intricate factor of that body he illustrates as being necessary, and one part could not say to the other, "I have no need of thee," for they were all essential. Then he tells us the parts of that body are, "First, apostles, secondadily prophets, thirdly teachers," etc. If these represented the parts they are essential now as then to constitute the church for we cannot take from the corporate body of Christ its parts, any more than you or I could cut off a limb or pluck out an eye of the physical body and still have a perfect body.

But the thing most potent in this contrast is the fact "the members should have the same care one for another. And whether one member suffer all the members suffer with it; or one member be honored all the members rejoice with it." There is such close analogy upon the part of each member, if one has suffering there will be sympathy with the rest, or if honor is conferred all will rejoice. Thus there will be no allowance for "green eyed monster" in this body. will be that brotherly relation that all will be helpful to the rest and they will thus work in unision. Now every member, and muscle, and nerve, has its proper function in the body and each contributes to the well-being of the whole; so also is Christ's body, the church. If one suffers pain the whole body suffers too. If one has rejoicing the others will be sponser to that rejoicing. What a glorious relationship this is!

Now the thought I want to impress is the fact that the church today should be in that close approximation to one another that things will work on harmoniously and sympathetically as the great brotherhood in Christ. Unless it is working industriously to this end, I fear it lacks just that much in being what God intended it.

The third similitude is the one set forth in the language of the texts where the church is likened to a vineyard. We may have strayed a little from the main thought of the text of the vineyard, but I desired to impress your minds with the variety of camparisons and the best thing of all about them, they impress the necessity of work. Like Longfellow when he wrote:

"Work is my recreation,
The play of faculty; a delight like that
Which a bird feels in flying, or a fish
In darting through the water,—

Nothing more."

So should we lend our energies willingly. It will be noticed according to these lessons on the vineyard, those who go into it are expressly engaged to work. Now if one was an owner, and as such employed men in the work of a vineyard in caring for the fruit, would he not expect more of them than just to gather such fruit as they ate? A man that would do nothing but eat would be an unprofitable servant. If he was indolent and employed his time in plucking the choicest of the fruit only to eat, you would discharge him as being of no profit, being a consumer and not a producer of benefits.

Well! what do you thin! God will do with us if we don't work? Can we expect God to be merciful and overlook our laziness? Well, hardly! There are so many things to be done, and to shirk a responsibility, it makes it that much harder for those who are willing.

The parable of the talents clearly teaches the same momentous truth. The burial of talents is a grievous fault with so many today. They have a talent of value but do not employ it to the glory of God. Like the over-fed dog with a bone, that buries it, thinking he will have need of it another day, but forgets it. We bury our talent and then forget it. Yes, we should dedicate our very lives—our all to the service of God and this work. We should "shew forth the praises of him who hath called you out of darkness into his marvelous light."

That all are called to service is an evident fact. The Lord said in 1829, "Whosoever will thrust in his sickle and reap, the same is called." (D. C. 11:2.) Again in 1887: "All are called according that all may labor together, let him that laboreth in the ministry and him that toileth in the affairs of the men of business and of work labor together with God for the accomplishment of the work entrusted to all." (D. C. 119:8.) It would appear then according to this pertinent instruction there are none that should shirk this grave responsibility. So again let me fresher your minds with the language of the text, "Son, go, work today in my vineyard," "Thou art called to labor in my vineyard."

The Spirit in Which This Work Should be Done. In preparing to work for Christ we should there must be that moral, intellectual and spiritual preparedness which means the improvement of whatever talent we may possess. If all are called and must work, we should recognize all does have some ability or qualification. Some may have the talent of eloquence to plead for Christ: others the intelligence to devise ways and means; many others the strength to do manual Some have time, others influence, and still others wealth. Thus if I cannot preach I can pay my tithing and contribute in that way. We should consider how very important it is to be in our right place and willingly do our part. We should remain in the sphere where Providence has placed us, for it is evident all cannot act in the same place, hence whatever is our portion, there we should apply ourselves. Some are officially called to go forth with the gospel trump to the wide world; others are given pastorate charges over the local congregations; and still others are to labor in branches and pay tithing, contributing to the Lord's portion that there may be a sustenance for those in need. Now we might say there are three divisions at least of importance in the vineyard where we can work-the family; the neighborhood and at large in the world; and in the church. In fact our duty to the church transcends all other duties, and when we perform the duties to the family and to the world in reality we are performing our duty to the church.

In the family our duties are manifold. Every saint's home should be a home of prayer, and the nursery to the church. A home without children should never be thought of. To devise means of prevention to the great creative act ordained of God, is to frustrate the very scheme of heaven, and lay ourselves liable to his displeasure. When children are born into your home consider it the greatest of blessings and not that of a calmity of astounding magnitude.

Then too, you are to teach the way of salvation to your children. Is it not an important task to teach the little ones piety? Here is where saintly mothers can excel. Can there possibly be a more glorious work than that committed to mothers of teaching the rising generations the ways of virtue, sobriety, gentleness, religion, fervor, and righteousness to God? Thus dear sisters, do not complain for the lack of opportunities, when one of the very greatest is yours, and you are bidden to it.

We have a duty to the neighborhood, to the state and to the nation so many seem oblivious to. Your light is to shine here especially. There is no one but what wields an influence. the prattle of the baby to the crowned glory of old age every one gives forth an influence for weal or for woe. I many times think of what Alma said to his erring son Coriantor, "Behold, O my son, how great iniquity ye brought upon the Zoramites; for when they saw your conduct they would not believe my words," (Book of Alma 19:17.) I am persuaded to believe one of the most effectual ways of promoting the gospel is to live it. In all our ways we should be exemplary. There are hundreds of opportunities of doing good passing before us daily. We can always give a cheering word, a kindly invitation or send the instructive tract. There are so many issues today we should be interested in, such as the temperance movement, the move for suppression of the white slave traffic, the crusade for better health and sanitary homes, the prevention of child labor, and better schools, and the installing of good men in office. All these and many other issues calls for a clear head and an aroused conscience.

In the church all may minister to the edifying or comforting of the body. All certainly can labor devotedly for her peace, and pray for her prosperity. The church has various departments of duty—the Sunday school, the Religio, aid societies, prayer unions, Daughters of Zion, and class work and such like, which comes under the heading of "helps" and "governments." These furnish all with splendid opportunities, besides there are hundreds of chances of doing good ir-dependently for the beneficence and welfare of the body.

The gospel of Christ, we should remember to be made effectual, must be preached in the Spirit of Christ. All work done for Christ should be done in cheerful delight. Anciently God did not permit creeping things to be offered in sacrifice. This you know was Prohibited under the law of Moses and I may suggest we should not be as creeping things now, in the spiritual sacrifices we bring. God does not desire the service of a creeper who gives in constraint and a begrudging heart, but of a voluntary and willing liberality in upright manliness, and too they must run in the way of God's commandments. Should we not delight in the law of God? Yes, and we should serve him as affectionate children and never as unwilling slaves or dumb driven cattle.

Our service to be acceptable should be in the spirit of holy constancy "instant in season and out of season." We should stay in the race until we have touched the goal. Having put our hands to the plow we should not look back. To porfess Christ means to hold fast, like holding to the rod of iron as seen in Lehi's vision. This takes courage and fortitude, for having received the Lord Jesus we should walk with him as children of the light. Our light should be as the city set on a hill or as the lamp in the prominent place. "Now is the day of salvation" and that means the day of labor. Though we may be maligned and ridiculed and even persecuted we must "be faithful even unto death." This is the kind of This is the kind of service God delights in, and the more we apply ourselves in the good work the more we are approved of our heavenly Father.

Again our work should be done in the spirit or deep humility. In the true and noble religion of Christ there should be no boasting or selfglorying. Man was formed for the glory of God, not for his own glory. All his powers were to be subordinate to the will of God. His faculties were to reflect the divine attributes, and all his affections were to center in the deity of the universe. By sin man threw off the yoke of allegiance, refused obedience, and turned all the powers of the soul into channels of selfishness. Sin to a great extent has caused man to live to himself and without God in the world. Hence the disposition for selfishness and his glory for self. But according to the scriptures the Lord says "Let not the wise man glory in his wisdom, neither let the mighty man glory in his might, let not the rich man glory in his riches; but let him that glorieth glory in this, that he understandeth me, that I am the Lord that exercise loving kindness, judgment, righteousness in the earth for in these things I delight, saith the Lord." Jer. 9:23, 24. So then no man should boast, and we should avoid false and delusive grounds of glorifying.

Philosophers and men of arts and letters may boast if they please, but the true saint should never engage in such a besetting sin. We should put it far from vs., and self effacement should be our delight. Thus before you boast, prove you have done more than your duty, evince that the Lord has not rewarded you abundantly, demonstrate you have given the Lord aught but what he has first given you. Look at the worthy man Paul who divested himself of worldly honor and claimed to be "less than the least," and then think how unbecoming is this spirit of self-importance and arrogance in religion. After all is said I think we are unprofitable servants many times. Like the poet Bailey who said, "Lowliness is the base of every virtue: And he who goes the lowest, builds the safest."

Our actions I verily believe should be in the spirit of grateful love to Jesus Christ our elder brother. If I am Christ's servant I must not act to please myself in following a corrupt heart and a carnal mind, but always as the representative of Christ as his ambassador. Any other motive than this will imperil the Comforter as the abiding light to the soul, and eventually render ourselves wordlings and therefore unacceptable to God.

God in his work evidently likes system. I am persuaded to believe he also likes beauty, for we see these things manifest in the creation. If God loves the beautiful it is pleasing to him to beautify our honles and keep everything in order. The beauty of a noble character however is the greatest of all. Our work then in the vineyard should be done in the spirit of promptitude and attention. Today has its demands, opportunities and facilities and will never, never return. Every day of indolence is a day in which God is robbed, and a day wherein we have lost golden opportunities as well as the comfort arising from obedience and the accompanying reward in the futurity of time. Resolutions, desires, pledges and plans will never do, or available of God, unless they are carried out and made practical in our lives. Each day must have its work, for as Lowell says, "No man is born unto the world whose work is not born with him. There is always work." Let us then consider

The Motives by which It may be Enforced. In the consideration of this phase of the subject let us confine ourselves to three particular questions: The motives of obligation, of personal well-being, and that of final safety.

Now the motive of obligation to God in our service in the vineyard, we might say is two fold, one prompted by love and the other by authority. Christ says "ye are my friends, if ye do what-soever I command you." (John 15:4.) "If ye love me keep my commandments." "For whosoever shall do the will of God, the same is my brother, and my sister, and mother." I love the tone of such sayings,—they have the right ring to me. Our obligations are due him, then, because he has loved us and done so much for us in life; and surely the allwise and omnipotent God has the right to command us, hence by reason of his authority he has the right to demand our loyalty and deepest and most full obligations. We can thus love Christ because he is both King and Priest.

The motive of our personal wellbeing is prompted by reason of the fact, we cannot thrive in religion without the Divine blessing. This can be expected in the way of duty. Our peace, our improvement, all depend upon our devotion to duty, which is linked with the incentive of eavenly influence in our lives. Spiritual indolence will cause our souls to be like the field of the sluggard, that abounds in obnoxious weeds and thistles. Changing the figure, our talents must flow out as the clear rivulet on its course to the sea. If it thus does not, it becomes as the stagnant pool with no outlet. Our energies, our talents, must be a thing of utility and not that to be laid away to canker and rust. Our faculties must be employed or a moral intellectual and spiritual paralysis will take hold of us.

"Works" play an important part in thr judgment, for are we not told, we will be judged and rewarded according to our works? Let me refer you to the case of the unprofitable servant who hid the one talent. (Matt. 25: 24, 26.) If we in like manner would hide or refuse to utilize the talent or talents we may possess, could we expect to get otherwise than the same denunciation, "Thou wicked and slothful servant." Notice, his sin was unprofitableness, not infidelity, profanity or other kindred evils. We should be reminded those who have "done good" shall be given the "resurrection of life." Those who die in the Lord their works must follow them.

In conclusion let me say, "Thou art called to labor in the vineyard." That applies to you, and in fact, to all. While you may not be a pruner in the vineyard, yet you can do something if it is only tilling the soil or rooting out tares. Don't forget a part of that work is yours and you only will get your reward when you have faithfully done your part, no matter how humble it may be. Our failures heretofore should fill us with shame and confusion of face, yet it should stimulate us to more earnest application that we may avoid those same blunders in the future. There is so much to be done, yet how little we have done for Christ and the extension of his kingdom!

Let these facts stir us up to increased earnestness in our Christian duties for there never was a more splendid opportunity than the present. If the missionary is willing to go forth on his mission to proclaim the angel's message of latter days, making the sacrifice of home and loved ones, you who are privileged to remain at home should be equally as willing to do your part and pay your tithing and make your consecrations to the Lord. If we are desirous of better conditions to obtain we should let the divine search-light of truth be turned within, and all the secret crevices of selfishness, evil, ignorance and doubt will be made manifest. Let us draw back the veil of our faculties, and seek a measurement according to the eternal truth, which would be that of a perfect man. It will then show we have a truer conception of the wisdom of the Almighty, and therefore a grander incentive to lay aside the perversities of our humanity, and get down to real business, and do our very best, which as sure as we do, will merge us into a grander re-ality of eternal bliss, and enduring felicity that transcends that of mortal life.

The time is opportune, the day is here, the vineyard needs our attention, and by reason of this, "Son, go, work today in my vineyard," and may God's blessing attend you as you go is my prayer.

RUM'S VICTIMS.

Once more we have met on the cold snowy street! Like you I am freezing, with nothing to eat. My mama and papa are laid 'neath the snow—I have no one to love me and no place to go.

My mama once told me of a babe, long ago, Who was born in a stable surrounded by snow. He grew up a man, and because He loved God He was taken from sorrow to sweet rest above.

Now let us bow in the cold cheerless sno And tell God we are starving and no place to go. He surely will pity, if we Him entreat—O, God send us help ere we die in the street.

My mama and papa once were hanny and well: We lived in a cottage in a flowery dell; Bright pictures were hung on the walls of each room; We were as strangers to sorrow, starvation and gloom.

The birds warbled forth their love-songs at night The sweet flowers bloomed in the bright morning light.
Our home was so happy till papa drank rum— Then all our sorrow and misery begun

Soon papa failed, then we lost our nice home. While drunk he killed mama. I heard her last groan. On the gallows he said he loved mama, but rum Robbed him of manhood, wife, child, life and home

O, why don't the world do away with the drink By causing distileries and breweries to sink?
Then wine shops and barrooms would cease to sell rum
What a sunburst of joy to sad hearts would come.

Homes that are dark with intemperance and crime Would rejoice neath the light of deliverance sublime. Children to school would be able to go— You'd not find them starving like us in the snow.

O, God show the world how we suffer tonight O, tode snow the worth now we sulter tonight Robbed of mama and papa, shut out from love's light. We are starving and freezing—deprived of our home. All of our misery is caused by cruel rum. Sent by Mrs. Sadie Burch. Author unkown.

MEDITATION.

"Then will I meditate on Thy ways, all the day and night."

The man of the scriptures had a proper conception of the value of quiet thinking. His promise is made conditional on his getting into a certain mental and spiritual state-a not difficult condition to reach, either. He was not to be satisfied with arriving at that experience, however, but intended to look upon it only as offering opportunity for such meditation as would enlarge his views of life while increasing his capacity for turning that greater vision to good purposes.

We do not spend enough time in meditation. Indeed, we give no more of the twenty-four hours of each day to quiet thought than can possibly be avoided. We work with all our power to perform, crowding from our minds all thoughts not pertaining to the duties at hand. Then, once through with the day's tasks, we rush to pleasure anything, everything, so that we be not alone with nothing to do but think.

Undoubtedly a wise Creator intended man to give much time to thought. God provided the leisure, made the world so wide that seclusion might readily be found, hung a curtain across the day in order that not even the wondrous glories of His own creation might distract humanity's attention from obtaining that growth which comes through thoughtful contemplation of the lessons of each passing moment.

But we have refused to be guided by a wisdom so far-seeing, so far-reaching. We hasten to the crowded places as though we feared our own presence: we fill the long, night with such brilliance as shall remove from our minds any lingering thought of wakeful repose. We shun meditation as we avoid reference to anything which may cause us discomfort. Perhaps we avoid it, indeed, more carefully chan anything else.

And, as a result, we are increasingly careless in everything-we are wanton with our time, our opportunities, our abilities. We are even increasingly wearied with our tremendous toiling, with or feverish pastimes.

He was a wise man who recognized the value of meditation. He knew what it could accomplish in his own betterment, as well as for the greatergood of the world through him .- St. Joseph

THE WORLD AGAIN AT WAR. By Rev. Arthur Willis Spooner, D. D. The world again at war! The "dove of peace" That seemed to find safe nesting 'Neath monarch's throne, Rean monatch strong, its driven far a field; and now, Alarmed by booming cannon, bursting shell, Can scarce find resting place—for "War is hell!"

Disciples (?) of the Prince of Peac Have unsheathed sword, each 'gainst the other, Forgotten seems God's Fatherhood, That makes each man his neighbor's brother The pride of kings, the lust of glory, Are writing now a crimson story. Barbaric hate crowns regal brow, For Christian strikes at Christian-

From palace, cottage, factory, store, Millions of men, red-handed, pour.
O'er corn-clad fields rush plunging steeds,
Treading in dust the bread man needs.
From cloud-veiled heights the death-bombs fall, And "war is hell," to one, to all.

O Prince of Peace! where are thou now? And dost thou hear when monarchs bow And plead with thee to make wrong right. To change earth's daylight into night? God, stay the mighty monarch's hand! God, keep from war our heaven-blest land! God, haste the day when war shall cease, And earth enjoy perpetual peace.

-The Presbyterian.

THEY CALL IT A "BUSINESS."

The evidence that has piled up in the last few weeks against the alcohol curse is what a lawver would call "cumulative."

First the German kaiser, in an address to his soldiers, told them that the army which drinks the least alcohol will win in the long run.

Then the Russian czar closed all the liquor shops in his vast empire, as a war measure.

Following close upon this some distinguished English medical and army men issued a statement that careful experiments and long experience had proved that alcohol had a bad effect on physical efficiency.

Early in September the convicts of the state penitentiary in Philadelphia signed a petition to the state legislature stating that 80 per cent of them were in prison because of drink and asking for legislation that would bring statewide prohibition.

This week twelve hundred convicts in the Illinois penitentiary in Joliet signed a petition to the legislature asking the enactment of legislation to forbid the sale of intoxicants in Illinois and asserting that 70 per cent of all crime in the state can be eliminated by prohibition.

Yesterday R. L Palmer, chief inspector of the Pennsylvania Department of Labor and Industry, told delegates attending the National Congress for Industrial Safety, meeting in Chicago, that 60 per cent of all industrial accidents in the United States could be charged to liquor.

Here at home the superintendent of the General Hospital stated the other day that the great majority of all cases coming to that hospital were the result of drink; and the matron of the City reformatory for Women said that nearly all the women and girls who entered that place owed their downfall to liquor.

An awful arraignment, that, of the liquor traffic, and yet there are people who call whiskey selling a "business."—Kansas City Star.

SEEKING TEMPTATION.

That ye enter not into temptation.-Matt. 26:41.

The man of Nazareth, villiage born and reared though He was, knew human nature as He knew the hills from which He looked out upon human activities. So He urged His followers to be on guard against going to meet temptation.

A man who had taken treatment for the cure of the liquor habit and been guaranteed to have lost his taste for intoxicants sauntered into a saloon. "You're a feel!" declared a friend who stood drinking beside the bar. "I just want to see if I'm cured," said the other. A month later he was arraigned in police court on a charge of Temptations do not, so frequently as we imagine or carelessly claim, go hunting for victims. Temptations rather are inclined to sweep and garnish their homes, then sit down and await callers. Seldom is the expected inflow of visitors long delayed. The world is searching for temptation-daring the things which it should not see. or feel, or know to a test of strength with will power. And the will is thrust forward to the combat with its ability to resist paralyzed by the wish of the individual to go to certain lengths in à spirit of bravado.

So the Messiah said less about the dangers which could not be easily combatted than those of no importance unless invited to do their worst. He knew the heart of man, and He knew that if that heart failed to yearn even for the good, His own kingdom must see a soul depart from before its gates.

"That ye enter not into temptation." It was not a really great battle into which the wise teacher was rushing his poorly equipped company of listening men, women, and children. He but bade them to be too loyal to go over to the enemy's camp in search of adventure. -St. Joseph Gazette.

PATRIOTISM.

A false patriotism, which always has prevailed, is the real basis of the present great war, as it has been of most others. What we call patriotism, and which we are accustomed to idealize as one of the noblest of qualities, began in the patriarchal family, extended to the tribe, and broadened to the nation; and this is as far as it has gone.

The patriotism which is bounded by national border lines, while often calling forth almost godlike devotion, is in reality one of the narrow-est and cruelest forces in the world. It is the cause not only of most wars, but of constant jealousies and enmities; and it is one of the greatest obstacles to broader human progress.

Patriotism, as fostered by governments, is a monster that must now and then be fed with human blood lest he perish from lack of sustenance, and must be kept drunk on hates lest he come to his senses. The youngest, the bravest, the best dying by countless thousands—for what? They do not know. They have only the shibboleth "Patriotism." Such patriotism is worse than a failure. Civilization is having a hard time these days trying to appear consistent and logical and to read God's mind. Each nation reads His mind and interprets His will in a different way, according to the different nations' selfish desires and jealousies.

Who knows whether God is laughing at the maddened millions of insane murderers, or weeping with the wives and cundren at home? In any event, He knows that such patriotism is a mockery and a delusion and a snare. This great war will not have been in vain, if it results in broadening patriotism beyond national border lines and making it stand for high principle instead of the selfish interests of communities. Many believe that this will be the last great war. If so, it will be by reason of a tremendous change in the character of patriotism.—St. Joseph News-Press.

HABIT-FORMING DRUGS.

While the campaign for national prohibition continues to occupy a considerable share of public attention, very little is being done anywhere to stop the sale of habit-forming drugs. The strongest impetus given to this movement within recent years was the resolution adopted by the convention of druggists in Kansas City the other day which placed all members of the association under obligation not to sell any such preparation to would-be purchasers except upon prescriptions from reputable physicians. As these druggists represent about one-fifth of the retail drug business of the United States, hat resolution undoubtedly will do great good.

The use of pernicious drugs is a growing menace in this country. Authentic reports show that the evil has grown alarmingly within recent years and that nearly 90 per cent of habitual criminals are addicted to the use of these terrible agencies of moral and physical destructions. One of the greatest problems which must be met, by penal authorities is how to cure such wrecks under their supervision and keep them from getting fresh supplies of "dope" through smuggling operations and other underground channels. In all large cities, and in some smaller ones, the business of supplying the demand for cocaine, morphine, heroin, etc., is regularly organized and carried on upon an elaborate scale.

In some respects the menace of habit-forming drugs is far worse and more alarming than the use of intoxicating liquors. In fact, by comparison, the victim of alcohol is infinitely better off than the victim of drugs. He is never, except in extreme cases, quite hopeless and the shackles of alcohol are easier to break than the fetters which bind the user of the soul-destroying drugs supplied to the weak and criminal by the vultures of trade. There are hundreds of reputable druggists in every city who refuse to sell habit-forming drugs to victims. These druggists are honest and conscientious and know the terrible evils that result from such transactions. But most of the "dope" is sold by so-called "boot-leggers" regular customers and an established trade. Kansas City has many such purveyors of misery and death.

The federal government is the only agency that can reach and handle this traffic in a broad way, and if congress is to concern itself with the so-called rights of the citizen it should address itself to the eradication of the habit-forming drug trade without delay and with all earnestness and vigor.-Kansas City Journal.

DEPARTMENT OF Woman's Auxiliary for Social Service

MRS. MAUD MILLS, EDITOR, 1514 W. Short St., Independence, Mo.

NOTICE

All persons sending money to the Woman's Auxiliary for any purpose, including subscriptions to Home and Child Welfare leaf-lets, or Children's Home donations, please forward same to the treasurer of the Auxiliary, Mrs. J. A. Gardner, 711 S. Fuller Ave., Independence Mo. anyteropy polypo lependence Mo. ADVISORY BOARD. Mrs. S. R. Burgess, President, 5926 Etzel Ave., St. Louis. Mo. Mrs. B. C. Smith, Vice President, 214 S. Spring St., Independ-Minnie E. Scott, Secretary, 369 S. Fuller Ave., Independ ence, Mo.

Mrs. J. A. Gardner, Treasurer, 711-S, Fuller Ave., Independence,

Mrs. M. A. Etzenhouser, 1595 W. Walnut St., Independence, Mo-Mrs. D. L. Krahi, 724 S. Crysler St., Independence, Mo.

SUPERINTENDENTS OF DEPARTMENTS,
Home and Child Welfare Department, Mrs. H. A. Stebbins, La-

Anony and Satus ventare Department, Mrs. H. A. Stebbins, Lamonth, lowa.

Method and Educational Department, Mrs. Lydia Thomas
Weller and Educational Department, Mrs. Lydia Thomas
Education Copporation of Copporation of Copporation of Copporation of Copporation of Copporation of Milistry, Mass.

Milistry, Mass. Location of Milistry, Mrs. Lydia Copporation of Mrs. Lydia Copporation of

MONTESSORI LEAFLETS FOR SALE.

In our last series of readings several were upon the subject of The Montessori Method of Teaching. We have on hand a number of these leaflets which will be sold in sets of seven leaflets, each. Price per set 25 cents.

These leaflets give a synopsis of the method and contain valuable suggestions to mothers in regard to the development of children and occupations in the home. Send all orders to the general treasurer, Mrs. J. A. Gardner, 707 S. Fuller Ave., Independence, Mo.

LITERARY AND EDUCATIONAL DEPARTMENT. Second Lesson on State History.

Note.—The material given under Pathfinders will apply to many states for these men did not confine their expeditions to any one.

Outline.

Early Pioncers. Pathfinders and Discoverers.

1. Marquette and Joliet, the first white men in Iowa. (1).

The Lewis and Clark Expedition. (2).

Zebulon M. Pike's Expedition up the Mississippi

River. (3).
4. Tragedies of the Pathfinders. (4).

Log House Days.

1. The First White Settler, eg. Julien Dubuque in Iowa. (5).

Trading Posts established for the Commerce of the Indian and the White Man. (6).

3. Early Forts, (7). a Purpo

Location.

Life among the Settlers. (8).
a. Customs and Habits.
b. Homes 4.

Homes.

BRIEF-PATHFINDERS AND DISCOVERERS.

There is nothing in all our memory half so enchanting and interesting as the early days in our land, or state, or government, or religion.

There is always an alluring call in a voiceless way in an untraveled path, one that is new and strange to us. Especially does this appeal come to the dreamer or dreams, he reventureous and the persecuted among men.

It is not all fable, this following the rainbow in search of the put of gold. Some followed for love of the se not of gold. Some followed for love of the lone portrayed in the high arched bow, some went for of the rich radiance of color won from the life in freedo the golden sun, and some went to be far away from what lay behind each yesterday, losing an old life in one new and strange along the Buffalo trail or Indian path and leading the way for upspringing cities and the school

The story of the path finder is so often told and so well told that every where excellent material lies close well told that every where excellent material lies close at hand. In a paper read by Heman C. Smith before the Nebraska State Historical Society some of the phases of his subject is treated and we give a short quotation thereon; "From its oriental cradle civilization has ever turned its face westward. There have, however, been a few exceptions to this general rule, as in the instance of exceptions to this general rule, as in the instance of Vasquez de Coronado, the earliest path finder among civilized men who traversed these western plains. Al-lured by the reports of vast wealth brought by Friar Marcas of Nice, he fitted out an expedition in a province of Western Mexico, and started February 23, 1540, through a trackless desert to the north and northeast. The reports of riches still spurred him on though often disappointed by finding abject poverty.

disappointed by inding abject poverty.

The exact localities visited by Coronado are difficult to determine, but all students are agreed that he was in the territory embraced in Nebraska is doubted, though presented as probable by some writers.

Authors differ presented as probable by some writers. Authors differ widely, and the destination of Coronado is located from Genoa, Nebraska, to Junction City, Kansas. On a map showing routes of all the principle explorers and early roads and high ways, from data prepared by Frank Bond, chief clerk, issued in 1908 by the department of the interior, Richard Ballinger secretary, the route of Coronado crosses the line of Kansas and Nebraska and thence northeast to a point in Clay County, Nebraska, near the present location of Clay Center. According to the map his route crossed the south line of the state of Nebraska and the Republican river near the southeast corner of Harlan County.

of Nebraska and the Republican river near the southeast corner of Harlan County.

Some color to the approximate correctness of this theory is afforded by the finding of the old sword on the Republican river some years ago. The theory is rendered even more plausable from an account published in the fourteenth annual report of the Bureau of Ethonology which claims to give distances, times and directions col-lated from all the accounts. Herrera, who accompanied the expedition, speaks of finding a river of more water, and more population than others before passed, and Coronado, in a letter to the king, said that after a journey of seventy-seven days, in which he traveled nine hundred and fifty leagues from Mexico, he came to the province called Quivira. "Where I reached it, it is in the fortieth degree." (Page 582.) "After nine days march I reached some plains, so vast that I did not find their limit any where that I went, although I traveled over them for more than three hundred leagues." (Page 580).

The Mormons are unique, not alone because of their peculiar doctrine, which it is not the purpose of this paper to discuss, but because it was not the love of gold, glory or adventure that caused them to join the company of path finders. * * * We find they became path finders in their search for a location where they could dwell in peace." (9).

Vida E. Smith (1) Sabin's The Making of Iowa, ch. References: (1) Sabin's The Making of Iowa. ch. x, Parish's The Man with the Iron Hand, chapters 1, 2: (2). Thwestee's Original Journals of the Lewis and Clark Expedition, Mrs. Dye's The Conquest (an historical novel—fine.) (3). Vander Zee's Forts in the Iowa Country; (4). Nebraska State Historical Society's Collections, Vol. 17, p. 110: (5). Sabin's The Making of Iowa, Longworthy's Dubupue; (6). Sabin's Making of Iowa, ch. 16; (7). Vander Zee's Forts in the Iowa Country, Sabin's The Making of Iowa; (8). Sabin's The Making of Iowa, ch. 21: (9). Nebraska State Historical Society's Collections, vol. 17, p. 300.

Mrs. L. S. Wight. References:

Mrs. L. S. Wight.

MISCELLANEOUS

CONFERENCE NOTICES.

Spokane District Conference will meet at Sagle, Idaho, 10 o'clock a. m., Saturday, Dec. 5th, 1914. Branch clerks will please send all reports to secretary one week before, All members holding priesthood should report their labors during the past six months. If you haven't received reporting blank write for one. The Sunday school convention of district will meet the evening before, 7 p. m. Go to Sagle—you will be made welcome.

W. W. Fordham, Sec.

S. 238 Haven St., Spokane, Wash.

Eastern Montana:--District Conference will meet with the Culbertson Branch, Nov. 21, at 10 a. m. A full and good representation of branches are desired. praying and preparing for a repetition of the good time had last conference. For the benefit of scattered Saints who may wish to attend let me say that the Culbertson Branch is located at Andes, 20 miles south of Culbertson. Bro. Sam Andes, Andes P. O., is president of the branch. Peter Anderson, Minister in Charge.

Southeastern Illinois conference will convene with the Bellair Branch, Dec. 5 and 6, 1914. The disorganization of the Bungay Branch will be under consideration, and those interested in the same are requested to be present. Send all branch and priesthood reports to W. E. Presnell, Sec.

CONVENTION NOTICES.

Xenia, III.

The Northeast The Northeast Sunday School Association will meet in convention at Bovier on Friday, Nov. 6. Program at 7:30. A cordial invitation to be present is extended to all. F. O. DeeLong, Supt. Vivian Compton, Sec.

The Western Montana District Sunday school convention will convene at Deer Lodge, Friday, Dec. 4t 1914. Sessions: 10 a. m. prayer meeting; 2:00 p. 1 business, and 8:00 p. m. a program will be rendered. Wm. J. Murry, Dist. Sec.

DEDICATORY SERVICE.

On November 8, 1914, at 2:30 p. m., the dedicatory services of the Saint's chapel at Bevier, Mo., will be held. services of the Saint's chapet at Bevier, Mo., will be held. The dedicatory sermon will be delivered by Elbert A. Smith and the prayer by Elder J. W. Rushton. Special music has been arranged for the occasion. An invitation is exended to all interested to be present. Bishop E. L. Kelley has been invited to be present to take part. The district conference will also convene there the 7th and 8th.

CHANGE OF ADDRESS

Elder J. C. Crestensen, from Tigris, Mo., to 2225 Empire
St., Joplin, Mo. Field address the same as formerly, Willburton, Okla.

MARRIED.

Fisher-Premo.—Sunday, September 27, at high noon, in the Latter Day Saint Church at Centralia, Wash., Miss In the Latter Day Saint Courte at Centratia, Wash, hiss Lulu Olive Fisher and Mr. Harold Eugene Premo, Elder Geo. M. Shippy of Vancouver, Wash, assisted by Elder Wm. Johnson of Seattle, performed the ceremony. The church decorations were beautiful—a profusion or roses, carnations, dahlias, and fern being used, with an arch of fir boughs intermingled with bright hued autumn leaves. Bro. and Sr. Premo are earnest workers in the Church at Centralia, Wash.

Snow-Inman.—Nov. 1, 1914, at the home of Bro. and Sr. A. K. Dillee on So. Willis Ave., Bro. Lilburn R. Snow, son of Bro. and Sr. C. L. Snow and Sr. Ettie Cecil Inman, daughter of Bro. and Sr. G. B. Inman, Elder Alma K. Dillee officiating.

Mr. John F. Davis of Lexington, Mo., and Sr. Jennie Martin of Independence, Mo., on Oct. 24th at the home of Bro. and Sr. Dillee, 634 So. Willis Ave., Independence, Mo., Elder Alma K. Dillee officiating.

Rowlett-Jenson .- Bro. William Rowlett of Mound City, Mo., and Sr. Mae Jenson of Clyde, Mo., were married September 27th, 1914, at the home of the bride's parents, Elder E. L. Henson officiating.

Read Carefully.

The time of year for the great reduction in price of the Ensign has come, being reduced to 50 cents a year to non-members. By economizing and staying away from the shows and parks, I was able to send the Ensign to nearly 500 non-members last year in different parts of the world; now the time is at hand to send to non-members again; and if you will all help me we can send Ensigns to two or three thousands, so let every one send as many as they can, whether it be one or one hundred, send to all you can, but if you can't pay for it for all that you know will read it, send to all you can, then send me the names and addresses of them you cannot send to, and I will end to them. Also you missionaries, when you get someone interested in this latter day work send me their name and address, also you non-members send me your addresses. You are only asked to read and investigate, that is all it will cost you. Let's all help together. E. Stafford.

Independence, Mo., Lock Box 54.

Dennis .- Sr. Angeline L. Boothe Dennis, October 24th, 1914, at her son-in-law's residence, Elder B. J. Scott, where she has made her home for several years. She was married to Bro. Adam Dennis, June 27th, 1847. To this union twelve children were born, the husband and five daughters preceeded her to the goodly land. Leaving four sons and three daughters, and sixty-four grandchildren and forty-nine great grandchildren with a host of friends, and one brother to mourn their loss. She was baptized into the Church in 1845 and loved the work with her whole soul, and has gone to her well carned rest. Service held at the house, words of comfort was extended by A. H. Par-Bro. W. H. Garrett offering the prayer.

A. H. Parsons.

Garry.—Sr. Myrtle Gertrude Garry was born in San Jose, Cal., Feb. 14th, 1891. Was baptized July 14, 1901, by Priest, J. M. Swenson, and confirmed by Elder J. M. by Priest, J. A. Swenson, and confirmed by Edder J. M. Range. She died in San Francisco, Oct. 12th, 1914, at the age of 23 years, 7 months, and 28 days. There is left to mourn her loss, a loving mother, one of the kindest of step-fathers, grand-mother, and a number of other rela-

Berg:-Sr. Augusta D. Berg, at her home in Armstrong, Berg.—Sr. Augusta D. Berg, at her home in Armstrong, Kansas, October 14, 1914. She was born in Sweden, May 30th, 1852; came to America in 1869. Married Andrew Berg, April 13,1872, in Kansas City, Mo. She was bap-tized May 18, 1882, by edder James Caffall. To Bro. and Sr. Berg were born three sons and six daughters. Bro. Berg and two sons and one daughter passed on before, lerg and two sons and one daughter gassed on below leaving one son and five daughters and eleven grandchildren and many friends to mourn their loss but her gain. Also her twin sister who lives in Sweden. A faithful Saint has gone to rest. Loved by all who knew her as evidenced by the large congregation assembled at the service, which was held in the Armstrong Church. Sermon by A. H. Parsons, assisted by Elder Wm. Clow.

ENSIGN PUBLICATIONS.
And Other Books for Sale by the Ensign Publishing House.
Zion's Ensign, the missionar paper, containing googel sermons and articles.
For year street street, street street, stree ENSIGN PUBLICATIONS. And Other Books for Sale by the Ensign CAMBRIDGE AND BAGSTER BIBLES.
Order by Number. a very handy book $2.00

H131X—The same as H125X, except it is leather lined and French Levant vover . $3.35

H140X—Same as H131X, but has Perisian Morocco cover . $3.35

J46—French Seal, flexible overlapping, illustrated, self-pronouncing, red under gold edges. Size, 5x7½x

E16—French Morocco, divinity creuity, red under gold edges, button clasp, and the self-pronouncing, red under gold edges, button clasp, and the self-pronouncing, red under gold edges, button clasp, and the self-pronouncing, self-pronouncing, full page illustrations, French Seal, divinity creuity, etc. $2.25

S125—Same as S125, except it is patent indexed $2.70

H15—A fine little Bible at a low price. French Morocco, divinity circuit, red under gold edges, flexible, overlapping cover. Size, 54x38, $1.25

H16—Same as H15, but has button clasp... napping cover. Size, 5%x3%...$1.25
H16—Same as H15, but has button clasp...$1.35
F65X—India Paper edition, French Merocock, divinty circuit, red under gold edges. Size, 5%x3%, only % inch h16k...$1.50 thick. $1.00 F66X—Same as F65X, with button clasp $1.60 F66X—Same as F65X, with button clasp
R65X—Large type Bible in small compass,
848x54a 1 inch thick India paper,
French Morocco, divinity circuit,
red under gold ... $2.80
R70X—Same as R65X, except binding
French Levant and leather lined... $4.25

NEW TESTAMENTS.
E200—Leatherette cover, red edges... $9.15
E212—French Morocco, limp, red under gold ... $0.30
E253—Lambskia, divinity circuity, row-l cetraers, red under gold... $0.30
OXFORD BIBLES.
04207X—Fersien Morocco, divinity circuit, leatine lined to see under gold edges, ciack faced type, thin India gaper. This is a beautiful little

Rannie.

Bible. Because of the thin India paper it is only % of an inch thick. X—Alaska Scal binding, otherwise the same as 04207X $4.50 —French Morocco, divinity circuit, round corners, red under gold deges, nonparell type, self-pro-nouncing, maps and 32 photo views of scenes in Bible lands...$1.55 of scenes in Bible lands........$1.35

The Bible for the home use Large, clear print, French Morocco, divinty circuit, round corners, red under gold edges ......$2.60 cy circuit, round corners, red under gold edges $2.60 -A model Bible. India paper, black faced minot type, French Morocco, divinity circuit, linen lined, round corners, red under gold edges, 7½x 5¾ inches $2.76 corners, red under gold edges, 7½x 5% inches $2.75.

—Alaska Senl, leather lined, Oxford India paper, silk sewed, large long primer type, reund corners, red under gold edges $5.00.

—French Morocco, self-pronouncing, long primer type, linen lined, divinity circuit, round corners, red under gold edges $2.50.

11 Bible, 0f this Bible the Hearth OXFORD TESTAMENTS. 021—French grained, red edges $0.20 022—Same as 021, with gilt edges $0.30 030—French Morocco, round corners, limp red under gold edges $0.35 01240—Morocco grain, round corners, red edges, long primer type; size, 6½x 4½ $0.50 We give such Bibles as are carried in stock, but can supply any Bible on reasonably short notice. The Oxford line of Bibles is very extensive, from which we list a few of the best and most popular ones.

TRACTS.

No less than 50 copies at 100 rate. "Why I Became a Latter Day Saint," by Elder Joseph Luff.
"Future Punishment," by Elder R. C.

"The Book of Mormon; Evidences of Its Divinity," by Elder R. C. Evans.

numity," by Elder R. C. Evans.
"Creed Making," by Elder I. M. Smith.
"Good News." A tract of tracts on sevral different subjects by as many writers.
"The Church of Christ," by Elder Edward "Who Was Joseph Smih," by Elder J. W.

Peterson.

"A Glimpse at the Government of God," by Elder Paul M. Hanson.

"Reasons Why. Shall We Hear Them?"
Revised edition. By Elder J. W. Peterson.

"Twelve Reasons Why I Believe The Book of Mormon," by Elder Charles Fry.

"Joseph Smith; Was He a Prophet of God?" by Elder R. C. Evans.

"God?" by Elder R. C. Evans.

The following at special prices named:
"What We Believe," an epitome of the faith of the Church. Per dozen 5 cents; 50
for 20 cents; 100, 35 cents.
"Items of Teaching Found in the Book of formon." Compiled by the Independence
Religio Good Litertaure Committee. A
ract of ten pages. Three for 5 cents; 12
for 15 cents; 100 for $1.00.
"Latter Day Saints; Who Are They" by
Elder T. W. Williams. Three for 5 cents; 12
for 15 cents; 100 for $1.00.
"Is Water Baptism Essential to Salvation?" by Elder Joseph Lufft. Three for 5 cents; 12 for 15 cents; 50 for 40 cents; 100
for 75 cents.
"Seventy-one Theological Questions." Per faces 110 cents; con 20

Book of Mormon Post Card. Quotations from the second chapter of Jacob, of the Book of Mormon, condemning polygamy. This is an excellent way to get the position of the church books on polygamy before friends and acquaintances. Price
District Secretary's Record.

Address
ENSIGN PUBLISHING HOUSE,
Independence, Mo.

OFFICERS VISITING CARD

We have for sale a universal visiting card to be used by Branch Officers. It is arragned with spaces for recording names of those in families belonging to the church and also for those not belonging to the church and also for those not belonging, space for noting condition, dates of visits (ay, month and year), and names of visiting officers, also space for remarks. This card when properly filled out shows the names of all members of the family visited, non-members of the family condition is excellent, fair to proper the family and the date of the visiting the family and the date of the visiting the family and the date of the visit also the address of the family, and any other information it might be wise to add under head of Remarks. There should be at least one card for every family in the branch. The cards are 4x7% inches. The price is 8 cents a dozen or 40 cents a hundred. Address, Ensign Publishing House, Independence, Mo.

UNITED ORDER OF ENOCH HOUSE

Everybody Welcome, Saints and Strangers No. 102 North River Boulevard, near the Stone church, Bestaccommodations. Prices reasonable, Bell Phone 613

Chas, A. and Amy T. Gurwell

WAR ATLAS
Cram's Atlas of the war comprising 16 pages 11x14½ and cover, giving fine maps likely to be especially emphasized. On the two inside cover pages is given the army and navy equipment of all the European and navy equipment of all the European nations as well as the United States and Japan. With this Atlas in connection with daily news one may be able to locate the movements of the armies and have a more comprehensive idea of how the war is being conducted.

ONLY 25 CENTS

Ensign Publishing House, Independence, Mo.

UNIVERSAL DIARY.

We now have a universal diary, suitable for any minister from deacon up, made to conform with the universal report blanks. They are the same size and shape as the unil contain about double the number of pages, there being about 24 pages in the front and back for a financial record, and space for 12 months record of ministerial work performed. The price is the same as the others were sold at, only 10 cents. Address Ensign Publishing House, Independence, Mo.

centes; 12 for 15 cents; 50 for 40 cents; 100 for 75 cents.

"Seventy-one Theological Questions." Per dozen, 10 cents; per 100, 60 cents.

Elder's Diary. A handy little book for accurately keeping account of ministerial labor by simply column, the printed headings supplying the rest. A financial record also is a convenient part of the book. This is suitable for all holding the Melchisedec Priesthood. Price. $0.10

Priest's Diary. Arranged similar as the Elder's Diary. Arranged similar as the Elder's Diary, but provides for labors connected with the office work of the Priest. Price. $0.10

Teacher's Diary. Arranged for soprano and Labors of the Teacher. Sping of American Solid Evansila Lost. Duet arranged for soprano and tenor or two female voices. Price the solid tenor of two female voices. Price the solid tenor or two female voices. Price the solid tenor or two female voices. Price the solid tenor or two female voices. Price the solid tenor or two female voices. Price the solid tenor or two female voices. Price the solid tenor or two female voices. Price the solid tenor or two female voices. Price the solid tenor or two female voices. Price the solid tenor or two female voices. Price the solid tenor or two female voices. Price the solid tenor or two female voices. Price the solid tenor or two female voices. Price the solid tenor or two female voices. Price the solid tenor or two female voices. Price the solid tenor or two female voices. Price the voice of the Teacher. Price the solid tenor or two female voices for the solid tenor or two female voices. Price the voice of the price of the pr

WANTED

I wish to exchange 1.4 section, 85 acres broke, all fenced, no rock. About 8-miles of Town. Small barn, floored. House 14x20 two rooms down one up, porch on south. In Altonation of the regions roundabout. Address, Tarm in the regions roundabout. Address, Mutana, Sask Canada. Lee Gorman, Mutana, Sask Canada.

TO EXCHANGE.

Wanted from 2 to 50 acres near Independence in exchange for well improved Inde-pendence properties. Address "Y" care Ensign Publishing House, Independence, Mo.

FOR SALE.

A very desirable Apartment House 2 blocks from Stone Church, 1 block from car line. Modern. Fine opportunity for some family of Saints who wish to secure property in Independence that will bring them an income. $4000 cash will handle it. Address "X" care Ensign Publishing House, Independence, Mo.

GINSENG.

The growing of GINSENG is a profitable industry, an Agricultural Business with good profits attached. Persons with a small parcel of land can start a good paying business with a small investment that yields good dividends. Send for our booklet, "The ABC of Ginseng", get our prices, and learn how to better your financial condition. Address.

Address, Chas. F. Church & Son. Lamoni, Iowa

W. E. MESSENGER, M. D.

Physician and Surgeon. Calls answered day or night. Office and Residence 806 W. Manle Ave Independence, Mo.

Bell Phone 12 Special attention given to Anesthetics

Loose Leaf Sheets

For Local Religio Secretary's Record

Per dozen, 10 cents; per 100 $0.60 If you have not seen them, send for free sample to

ENSIGN PUBLISHING HOUSE, Independence, Mo.

FOR SALE OR TRADE

Two residence properties in Independence, Mo. Will sell or trade for farm in Missouri, Kansas or Nebraka. Address "Owner", 121 S. Willie Arm. S. Willis Ave., Independence, Mo.

POSITION WANTED

POSITION WANIED

I would like employment where there is a Branch, or at least a few families of Saints, at carpenter work, or in a meat market or grocery or would rent a Farm with every thing furnished. Can furnish good reference. Your Brother in the Gospel of Christ. Albert Carney, 198 Twiss ave.,

Topeka, Kansas.

Universal Class Card

Send for sample of the Universal Class Cards, for use in both Sunday School and Religio. The Independence Schools have them in general

Price per doz 8 cents, per 100 60 cents ENSIGN PUBLISHING HOUSE, Independence, Mo.

RAILROAD TIME TABLES.

MISSOURI PACIFIC R. R.

MAIN LINE-EAST BOUND.

| 102 K C & Joplin Mail | 12 0 5 am | 12 0 5 am | 13 1 5 am | 13 1 5 am | 14 1 5 am | 14 1 5 am | 14 1 5 am | 14 1 5 am | 14 1 5 am | 14 1 5 am | 14 1 5 am | 14 1 5 am | 14 1 5 am | 14 1 5 am | 14 1 5 am | 14 1 5 am | 14 1 5 am | 14 1 5 am | 14 1 5 am | 14 1 5 am | 14 1 5 am | 14 1 5 am | 14 1 5 am | 14 1 5 am | 14 1 5 am | 14 1 5 am | 14 1 5 am | 14 1 5 am | 14 1 5 am | 14 1 5 am | 14 1 5 am | 14 1 5 am | 14 1 5 am | 14 1 5 am | 14 1 5 am | 14 1 5 am | 14 1 5 am | 14 1 5 am | 14 1 5 am | 14 1 5 am | 14 1 5 am | 14 1 5 am | 14 1 5 am | 14 1 5 am | 14 1 5 am | 14 1 5 am | 14 1 5 am | 14 1 5 am | 14 1 5 am | 14 1 5 am | 14 1 5 am | 14 1 5 am | 14 1 5 am | 14 1 5 am | 14 1 5 am | 14 1 5 am | 14 1 5 am | 14 1 5 am | 14 1 5 am | 14 1 5 am | 14 1 5 am | 14 1 5 am | 14 1 5 am | 14 1 5 am | 14 1 5 am | 14 1 5 am | 14 1 5 am | 14 1 5 am | 14 1 5 am | 14 1 5 am | 14 1 5 am | 14 1 5 am | 14 1 5 am | 14 1 5 am | 14 1 5 am | 14 1 5 am | 14 1 5 am | 14 1 5 am | 14 1 5 am | 14 1 5 am | 14 1 5 am | 14 1 5 am | 14 1 5 am | 14 1 5 am | 14 1 5 am | 14 1 5 am | 14 1 5 am | 14 1 5 am | 14 1 5 am | 14 1 5 am | 14 1 5 am | 14 1 5 am | 14 1 5 am | 14 1 5 am | 14 1 5 am | 14 1 5 am | 14 1 5 am | 14 1 5 am | 14 1 5 am | 14 1 5 am | 14 1 5 am | 14 1 5 am | 14 1 5 am | 14 1 5 am | 14 1 5 am | 14 1 5 am | 14 1 5 am | 14 1 5 am | 14 1 5 am | 14 1 5 am | 14 1 5 am | 14 1 5 am | 14 1 5 am | 14 1 5 am | 14 1 5 am | 14 1 5 am | 14 1 5 am | 14 1 5 am | 14 1 5 am | 14 1 5 am | 14 1 5 am | 14 1 5 am | 14 1 5 am | 14 1 5 am | 14 1 5 am | 14 1 5 am | 14 1 5 am | 14 1 5 am | 14 1 5 am | 14 1 5 am | 14 1 5 am | 14 1 5 am | 14 1 5 am | 14 1 5 am | 14 1 5 am | 14 1 5 am | 14 1 5 am | 14 1 5 am | 14 1 5 am | 14 1 5 am | 14 1 5 am | 14 1 5 am | 14 1 5 am | 14 1 5 am | 14 1 5 am | 14 1 5 am | 14 1 5 am | 14 1 5 am | 14 1 5 am | 14 1 5 am | 14 1 5 am | 14 1 5 am | 14 1 5 am | 14 1 5 am | 14 1 5 am | 14 1 5 am | 14 1 5 am | 14 1 5 am | 14 1 5 am | 14 1 5 am | 14 1 5 am | 14 1 5 am | 14 1 5 am | 14 1 5 am | 14 1 5 am | 14 1 5 am | 14 1 5 am | 14 1 5 am | 14 1

Inolin to Kansas City
St. Louis to California Special
Sedalia, and Nevada Local
Past Mail fuo stop
Ioplin to Kansas City Express
Colorado and St. Joe Express
St. Louis Local (all sto,s)

LEXINGTON BRANCH-BAST BOUND.

T. A. JOHNSON, Agent, Independence, Mo

Entered at the Post Office at Independence, Mo., as Second Class Matter

OUR CREED: "ALL TRUTH."

VOI., 25

INDEPENDENCE, MISSOURI, THURSDAY, NOVEMBER 12, 1914

NO. 46

ZION'S ENSIGN

Published by the Reorganized Church of Jesus Christ of ter Day Saints, every Thursday, at Independence, Mo., Latter Day Saint at $1.00 per year.

at $1.00 por year.

CHARLES FRY, EDITOR
W. H. DEAM, Bus. MANAGER

In writing concerning subscriptions, always give the nam of the Post Office to which your paper has been going, as by so doing the ost thours in looking been part in the season of the state of the season of the seaso

ENSIGN PUBLISHING HOUSE, Independence, Mo

By Maltbie D. Babcock.

Be strong! We are not here to play, to dream, to drift, We have hard work to do and load to lift; Shun not the struggle, face it, 'tis gift— Be strong!

Say not the days are evil—who's to blane?
And fold the hands and acquiesce—oh shame!
Stand up, speak out, and bravely in God's name—

Be strong!
It matters not how deep entrenched the wrong, How hard the battle goes, the day how long, Faint not, fight on; tomorrow comes the song. —The American Issue.

THE UNIFYING POWER OF THE GOSPEL. And hath made of one blood all nations of men to dwell on all the face of the earth. Acts 17:26.

He will thoroughly purge his noor. Matthew 3:12: That they all may be one. John 17:21. There is no mistaking the testimony of the Bible in regard to the unity of the human race in its creation. While some evolutionists hold that the several races of man had separate origin, the Bible directly states that God "made of one blood all nations," and the historical account tells of the creation of but Adam and Eve, from whom is descended the whole human race. Accepting this to be a fact, it becomes evident that as a united race man might have continued to the present had he observed the laws which work for unity. The breaking up of the human family into distinct races and kindreds came as the result of the violation of the laws governing human life, the first division coming when Cain, because of his crime, was driven out with his posterity from the association of others of his kindred. Through transgression at Babel the unity of the race was again broken up subsequently to the flood.

It would seem that the choosing of the Israelite nation to be the special people of the Lord, was that they might form a nucleus around which the whole human race might gather, but because or transgression the Isarelites were unable to maintain their own national unity, and there came division, and ultimately the scattering of the whole people. That God desired their national unity to be perpetuated is evident from Christ's statement when he said to his people: "How often would I have gathered thy children together, even as a hen gathereth her chickens under her wings. and ye would not!" That God Casired also that others than the posterity of Israel should be included in the united Israel appears from the numerous prophecies telling of the coming in of the gentiles under the dominion of him who was to sit upon David's throne-the Redeemer of Israel, and the Savior of the world.

A United Race.

To bring the human race to a unity it is necessary that Christ shall overcome the forces that work for division, and make dominant the powers that work for unity, eliminating the first in the development of the second. That this was to be the line of procedure is shown by the following passects: "He will thoroughly purge his floor." "Every plant, which my heavenly Father hath not planted, shall be rooted up." (Matthew 15:13.) "Of the increase of his government and peace there shall be no end, upon the throne of David, and upon his kingdom, to order it, and to establish it with judgment and with justice from henceforth and even for ever." (Isaiah 9:7.) All this work, of necessity, requires time to accomplish and the trend of events in modern times is toward the unifying of the world under the do-minion of Christ, by the breaking down or the many powers and institutions which are in conflict with the purposes of God.

Christ prayed for his disciples "that they all may be one." It was also his purpose to bring into discipleship the whole world of mankind, so far as they might be willing, for the gospel of the kingdom was to be preached to "every creature," and "in every nation he that feareth him, [God] and worketh righteousness, is accepted with him," while he that does not fear God is left under condemnation. Under the ministration of the gospel there would be developed a unity of purpose and of effort which would make the world one, dispelling racial prejudices, national hatreds, denominational differences, and bringing all within the one fold, under the one Shepherd.

The Gospel the only Means of Unification.

While Jesus came as King of Israel, the purposes and benefits of his coming were by no means restricted to that nation. His teachings everywhere indicate the world-wide character of his mission, and though the call of Christ came first to the Jews, it was for the purpose that they might become messengers of the gospel to others, but their national and racial prejudices were so strong, which, coupled with their sins, disqualified them for that work, and the world became dependent upon the few who did heed the call for the message.

The New Testament teaches "one faith," and "one body," in which there is to be "neither Greek nor Jew, circumcision nor uncircumcision, Barbarian, Scythian, bond nor free," but all are to be one in Christ Jesus. The gospel was not adapted to the Jews alone but to all men: it is a universal remedy for a universal need. for "every creature," for "whosoever will." All who came under its teaching and power, fully using the privileges it brought to them, would have no further need to maintain the divisions which had come into the world through transgression, but the greater part of the world have not done so, and even those who have professed to accept the gospel have applied so little of it to their lives that they themselves have yielded to the influences and forces that divide. But the floor must be purged, and the time will come when the gospel will be fully applied in human life to the revealing of the glory of God.

The world has had thousands of years of experimentation, and no remedy has been found by man which would unify the race. Man has offered substitutes for the gospel of Jesus Christ, but time has proven their folly, and in many instances have increased division instead of unity. The gospel alone will accomplish this great work, because it is broader than any nation, greater than any race, and comes from the God of the whole earth who sees the need of every man.

A Gospel of Peace.

The coming of Christ into the world with the gospel presaged peace to all mankind, as indicated in the song of the angels who sang: "Glory to God in the highest, and on earth peace, good will will toward men," but after nearly two thousand years peace has not yet obtained. Strife, division, and warfare have continued with all their old time bitterness until the present, which can be accounted for only on the ground that the world has failed to yield obedience to the message of peace. Jesus knew that men would reject his message and that as a consequence they could have no abiding peace, hence he said: "I came not to send peace, but a sword." Division cannot to send peace, but a sword. Division can-not be otherwise than frictionable, and Christ says: Every kingdom divided against itself is brought to desolation; and every city or house divided against itself shall not stand." Under this rule how shall divided Christianity be able to stand against the devasting forces which purge the floor? how shall the multitude of nations with their cnoflicting interests which ever form the cause of strife, be able to endure?

The gospel of Christ could bring peace only when it was applied to men both as individuals and in a coallective or social capacity. It has no powers of mysterious enchantment to drive away strife or evil, but its virtue was manifest only through a faithful and constant application of its principles, and today a Bible which is treasured ever so highly but only when closed, or a formal acceptance and profession of Christianity without regard to the various principles involved, will accomplish nothing toward the world's peace and unity.

Steps Toward Unity.

The gospel requires first faith in God who is the Father of all men by creation. Faith is the foundation of all else in the divine service, for back of all truth and power, is God. The second step is repentance by which man turns from the paths which lead to strife, and without which there can be no peace and unity. Third, baptism of water by which a forgiveness of sins is obtained and membership in the visible body of Christ established. Fourth, baptism of the Spirit by which divine life is imparted and power given to transform the carnal nature into the divine and to become sons of God. By this process the various forms of evil are eliminated from human character, and the forces which work for unity are given full sway. Under the operation of these principles division and strife will fade away, and there will he "one fold, and one Shepherd." "And there will be "one fold, and one Shepherd." the Gentiles shall come to thy light, and kings to the brightness of thy rising." (Isaiah 60:3.)

THE SOCIETY OF AMERICAN INDIANS.

THE SOCIETY OF AMERICAN INDIANS.

Over a thousand Indians and white Americans have banded together during the last three years for the uplift and advancement of the Indian race. This organization, the Society of American Indians, in which only persons of Indian blood may hold an active membership. held its fourth annual Conference at Madison, Wisconsin, last month. Its aim is to suggest and bring about better conditions, and it urges the Indian to "avail himself of every opportunity to learn the ways of 'civilized life,' every opportunity to learn the ways of civilized life, in order that he may compete and co-operate successfully with other men; to use his mind and muscle, to become more and more a worker, a producer and a builder, instead of merely a consumer. It demands of the Americans to the constant of the producer would be the constant of the constant pulling the constant pulling. can Nation a better system of laws, regulating Indian affairs, better educational facilities, and the settlement of many long unsettled claims.

No one who attended the sessions of the recent Con-ference could fail to be impressed with the idealism and self-sacrifice of the many educated Indians who had come self-sacrifice of the many educated Indians who had come long distances at their own expense in order to work for the good of their race. No one could fail to recognize the splendid oratorical ability of some of the very ones who decried their own "ignorance" and begged for an education for those to come. Pathetically ignorant as many of the older Indians were, who came with their interventions to cook the splendid of their splendid their interventions. many of the older indians were, who came with their in-terpreters to seek the aid of their educated brethren, under the mstaken idea that the Conference was called for the discussion of individual and tribal grievances, they showed a sense of justice, a humility, and a pride in the leaders that spoke well for the inherent nobility of

While many of the members of the Society desire the passage of laws doing away with what they regard as the follow of reservation life, the resolutions adopted by the Society as a whole demand no such immediate change the Society as a whole demand no such immediate change in our governmental policy. First and foremost, they ask the passage of the Carter Code Bill, by which a commission will draft a codified law indefinitely establishing the legal status of the Indian; and of the Stephens Bill, which will enable the Indian to place his claims directly in the United Court of Claims without first se-curing the special permission of Congress. The passage of this latter bill would relieve much of the bitterness of this latter bill would relieve much of the bitterness that has been growing from year to year as the different tribes awaited the settlement of their ancient grievances. As a statement published by the Society says, "Surely a great nation of a hundred million people can afford to do justice to the remnant of that race which once ruled our domain from shore to shore. Surely such a nation can trust the settlement of claims against itself to its own high courts." Other demands which the Society will lay before Congress and the President are the just trusteeship and distribution of tribal funds; the efficient allotment of lands; the wise utilization of mineral and water resources; adequate educational resources; and the just settlement of many specific grievances on the several reservations.

A body of five Indians has been delegated to present their petition to the President, Congress, and the Commissioner of Indian Affairs in November. This nation is a self-appointed guardian of the three hundred thousis a self-appointed guardian of the three fundred choused and Indians in the country. Its duty it not merely to deal justly with them itself, but to protect them from the rapacity of those who covet their property, and to enable them to become good American citizens who will need no guardian.—The Outlook.

COMMENTS.

Booker T. Washington, Principal of the Tuskegee Normal and industrial institute for the training of colored young men and women, and who has done much for the uplift of the colored people, is urging upon his people to increase their wealth by the raising of more pigs. He estimates that if the 1,400,000 colored families living upon farms or in small towns should raise one extra pig this year, (700,000 families raise none at present,) $14,000,000 would be added to the wealth of the colored people. He advises the organization of clubs in each community for advises the organization of cultos in each community to the encouragement of the industry.

Quinine and Malaria.—That quinine will not prevent or cure malaria is the conclusion reached by United States naval surgeons who have had considerable experience in the tropies, according to a report made by Surgeon L. W. McGuire to the navy department. He holds that the use of quinine may retard or delay the symptoms of malaria but when it is discontinued the symptoms will appear.

INDEPENDENCE ITEMS.

Sunday was temperance day and the eleven o'clock hour was in charge of the Sunday school officers. The hour was occupied by singing temperance and patriotic songs, readings and orchestra music. The congregation large and all seemed to be interested and in harmony with the sentiment of the meeting. In the evening Elder With the sentiment of the meeting. In the vening Educi-O, R. Miller delivered the last of his series of meetings, this one being on the Restoration. The afternoon social meeting was not characterized by any special manifes-tation of divine direction, but was a good meeting, al-though some soon forgot the instructions and advice of the president to the effect that sermonettes should not be indulged in and that long prayers would be better effect that sermonettes should not be indulged in and that long prayers would be better offered at home where they could not be given to be heard of men. In their zeal some seem to be at a loss to find a stopping place. A prayer of praise and ador-ation need not be of any great length, and a prayer of supplication is in a sense meaningless if an effort is made to cover land and sea and for all that in them dwell.

made to cover land and sea and for all that in them dwell.

Monday evening was the deferred monthly business meeting. Although the meeting continued from eight o'clock till a quarter of eleven, business was expedited.

A vast amount of business was transacted, including the granting of quite a number of letters and the receiving of a number on letters and baptism certificates. A num-ber of letters were granted to members who are to unite with the new branch that was organized on Enoch's Hill on October 24th. Quite a number of findings of courts were read and disposed of in the usual manner. An item of business occupying the longest length of time of any was the report of a committee who was appointed to so cure a place for athletic exercises for the young. Th committee reported in favor of holding these exercises in the dining hall, under the direction and supervision of a committee of five appointed by the branch to insure proper decorum and to safeguard any injury to the church property, a very wise provision, as "boys are boys," and while they may not have a desire to do wrong, they need to be controlled by older heads, because the coltishness of youth is liable to grow reckless when not properly disciplined. Boys, unrestrained, sometimes do things that they are afterwards ashamed of. One step out of line leads to another. This is more apt to be the case with ambitious boys. Ambition, life and energy are fine assets when properly controlled. If the athletics are carried on as outlined we don't see how there will be any violation to our principles of sanctity nor any injury to building or our fine sense of propriety. The report of the committee was adopted, and M. H. Seigfried, B. J. Scott, M. A. Etzenhouser, Lysle Weeks and L. H. Haas, were appointed by the branch as the committee referred to; by the way, a good committee, that will not only look after the interests of the young, but will see that nothing goes on that will injure ony one's feelings.

After the choir practice last Thursday night, through a prearranged plan, the choir in a body, all except the organist, made a quick exit and repaired to the home of Bro. R. G. Smith, the organist, and when Bro. Smith arrived they were all quietly waiting the surprise exhibited by him when the light was turned on. The occasion was the eighteenth wedding anniversary of Bro. and Sr. Smith. Sr. Smith was aware of the intended surprise by the choir on the overaist and had novided refreshments. choir on the organist and had provided refreshments. The choir presented Bro. Smith with ten fine harmony records for his graphaphone. He, with associate choristers, has occupied for sixteen years; this being evidence of the satisfaction he has given both by his efficiency and agreeableness, as well as willingness to serve for the good of others

Last Friday, November 6, President Joseph Smith passed the 82nd mile post in his long and useful life. News come to us since our last issue of the serious accident to Bro. R. S. Salvards at Lamoni. As we learn it, it seems he was coming home a week ago Monday from holding meetings on the Sabbath, when his horse became frightened at an automobile and an motorcycle, throwing him out and seriously injuring him. Also, news comes to us that the fine new school building at Lamoni, costing $45,00.00, was burned to the ground Sunday morning. This will be a sad blow to the little town. W. H. D.

CHANGE OF ADDRESS.

Elder R. C. Russell's address has been changed from Chatham, Ont., to 44 Balaclava St., St. Thomas, Ont.

WALNUT PARK.

WALNUT PARK.

We were very agreeably surprised at the Sunday morning preaching hour to listen to Bro. David Dowker of the misisonary force. His earnest way of explaining the gospel appeals to all who hear him.

Bro. M. H. Siegfried occupied the evening hour on Church History. We are having good attendance and splendid interest in our young people's prayer meetings, which mean advance. The Holy Spirit has met with them and given encouragement to their efforts.

The Religio is exceptionally good for a new Branch, and the interest is about as keen as in the Sunday school, in fact, we are having good interest at all our meetings and under the able leadership of our worthy president Bro. J. J. Boswell, we are learning line upon line and precept upon precept.

precept upon precept.

The Saints had a very pleasant gathering on last Thursday at the future home of our president which is under way of construction on South Hocker St.
A goodly number of the brethren donated a day'c A goodly number of the brethren donatea a caye work and the sisters served chicken dinner, pumpkin pie and cherry dumplings galore, until the rudely constructed table almost groaned with its weight of bountiful things to tempt the palate. A number of visiting Saints were with us and we hope they will come again.

ST. JOSEPH, FIRST BRANCH.

The closing of the meetings that have been conducted The closing of the meetings that have been conducted every night, except Saturday, for the past two weeks, by John W. Rushton, leaves us with a sort of lost lone-some feeling, as though something was lacking in our daily life to make it complete. To say that his sermons were enjoyed by our people only half expresses it. His sermon of Sunday morning, the list, on the "Effectiveness of Prayer," was beautiful beyond description, to the writer at least, and we are sure to many others. His lectures on "Social Purity" and "Marriage and The Home," were faithful depictions of existing conditions, in the social strata of life and eloquent portrayals of the remedies for the evils that exist. His last sermon on "Church Functions" was said to have almost surpassed the preceding ones. These spiritual and intellectual feasts ought to strengthen and revivify us and help us to press on with renewed zeal and courage.

The two sessions of Religio that have been held on Sunday the last two weeks have not been distinguished

Sunday the last two weeks have not been distinguished for good attendance, but the lessons were just as in-teresting and programs very good, as usual. This week is going to be a very busy one in our branch. Monday night the Study Club meets at the home of Bro. Ennis, also the Boosters Club at Bro. Fifer's. Tuesday evening, the Sunday school teachers and officers business meeting at the church. Wednesday Sewing and Ald Society convenes at the church all day. Mid-week prayer meeting at night. Thursday the Woman's Auxilbegins serving meals down town, for the benefit the Wyatt Park Mission. This will continue for the three days, during the Teachers Convention, to be held here on the 12th, 13th, and 14th. We are hoping and praying for abundant success in this enterprise, as a better place for worship for the Mission is a necessity, if it continues to exist. Friday evening will be Religio night as usual.

Next Sunday will be "Temperance Sunday" in our school.

The Boosters Club are arranging to give an Old Fashioned Country Fair, on the evening of the 17th.

On the first Sunday of the month John William Lynn, of Bro. Wallace Burlington and wife, was blessed by ers J. W. Rushton and G. W. Best, at the morning sister by the name of Crabtree was baptized recently She and her husband have only been loby Bro. Fry. She and cated here a short time.

Bro. and Sr. Fishburn of Denver are visiting their sor Herbert, and worshipped with us Sunday. Sr. Rutl Lewis of Cameron is here and made one with us Sunday. Reporter

QUINDARO BRANCH, KANSAS CITY, KANSAS.
As you have not heard from our branch for some time, I thought I would write you. Bishop Bullard preached Sunday evening, October 18th, and the following week up to, and including Thursday evening, and was with us Sunday all day. We had splendid interest, and received a spiritual feast; and much instruction. Wednesday evening Bro. John Tucker was ordained to the office of an Elder by Bishop Bullard and Bro Kaplinger. Our meetings have been well attended and the Spirit of the Master has been with us. There has been twenty baptized since April 1st, and we expect three more next Sunday, so the good work goes on.
Bro. Kuplinger and Bro. John Tucker were called upon Friday evening to administer to Mrs. Little (a daughter

Friday evening to administer to Mrs. Little (a daughter of Sr. Peterson of the Grandview Branch) who had a serious affliction and the doctor said it would be necessary for her to undergo an operation, which he said he would not undertake for less than one hundred and fifty dollars, so the time was set for Sunday, but although not being a member of the church, her faith was in God and she was healed almost immediately. To God be all the praise.

healed almost immediately. To God be all the praise.

The Sundey school and the Religio are doing well, a good spirit being manifest. Sr. Maude T. Eason.

1838 Quindaro Blvd., K. C. K.

SAN FRANCISCO, CALIF.

SAN FRANCISCO, CALIF.

The second Sunday in the month Elder John A. Saxe, our branch president, went to Irvington, Alameda Co., and held sacrament service with the Saints there. He meets with them regularly. Bishop C. A. Parkin preached the morning sermon here, smi; elder S. M. Reizte was the evening speaker. His subject was "Prophecy and the war."

It was a very interesting discourse, and well received.

Tuesday evening the branch Priesthood meeting was held, and different points of doctrine were discussed.

Bro. Saxe recently baptized a young Philippino, named Castro. Quite an intelligent young man, who became converted by associating with some of the Saints in the country. He bore a very good testimony at our Wednesday evening prayer meeting.

Sunday last Bro. Saxe was the morning speaker, and the writer addressed the Saints in the evening. Bro. Rudolph from Independence was among our visitors. We had a very fine program at the Religio, Sunday evening, which was interesting to all. Bro. Saxe has performed which was interesting to all. Bro. Saxe has two marriage exementes in the church recently; instances they were not church members. All inicely with us. We are still strong in the faith. All is going

SEATTLE.

SEATTLE.

It takes more than rain to prevent the saints from attending church in Seattle—they even came out in goodly numbers through the rain to a hallowe'en social on Saturday night, when a pleasant evening was spent in innocent and instructive amusements and music. Sr. Barney, daughter and granddaughter, Brn. Amos Rhodes, Evan Inslee, Byron Fisher and P. W. Parkhurst, each did well their part. Byron Fisher belongs to the musical Scott family

Scott iamiy.

Our sacramental service was surely heavenly in spirit. The Saints were lifted to higher grounds by the Spirit's blessed presence. Though the rain fell, yet the Saints came and well filled our church. It was difficult to cloe the service, so anxious were the worshippers.

We expect to soon commence a series of meetings at our Riverside Mission where we now have a nice room in which to meet, devoted entirely to this purpose

Sr. Cornelius Meyers whom we knew in Nebraska City many years ago, was at our services Sunday. many years ago, was at our services Suniary. Size lives with her daughter in Tacoma from whence they came to worship with us.

Sr. Marjorie Tate attended our Wednesday night meeting being enroute to Lamoni, Iowa, to enter Graceland College. She is from Chilliwack, B. C.

Bro. Johnson goes to the northern part of the district this week to open up the work in a new place. May success attend him.

102 North 39th St., Seattle, Wash., Nov. 5. Smernemen Merchantanemen Market Marke

CORRESPONDENCE warmen all mount with the Xenia, Ill., Oct. 21.

Editor Ensign:-I regret to report the loss by fire of Editor Ensign:—1 regret to report the loss by me of the church building of the Poplar Creek Branch near Orchardville, which appears to have been done by the hand of an incendiary, on October 12th. The building nand of an incentiary, on October 12th. The building was valued at about $500, and was without insurance.

The projudice in this section has been running high the last year. Every indication points out it was done by some religious fanatic, who thought the destruction of our building these hard times would break up our church and end our influence. The Saints have a pretty good idea who the culprits are, but at this writing the proof is yet lacking. It will only be a matter of time until the truth will surely come to light. Some p of this community are brim full of religion of variety that comes at you with the Bible in one hand and a fire-brand in the other. It is not that the Saints are so unpopular that this nefarious deed has been committed, for the Saints have the friendship and esteem of the best citizens of the county; but it is because certain would-be religionists are jealous of our influence and see in our or transformers a pearons of the fine that we had been con-church that which retards the progress of their own. If this is a demonstration of brotherhood, the least we have of it the better. Like Mohammed who was full of religion and sought to extend his principles by the torch and the sword, so some today think they are doing a good work when they persecute, burn church houses, and even kill you.

If religion consists in passions, revenges, hates, railing accusations, and a general descending scale in hatred to that of violence, and a lust for incendarism against someone else whom they cannot compete with in the truth of revealed religion then we should be thankful that we do not have that kind. Judging from appearances, some are

Like ancient Yaui expressed to Titus (Titus 1:15, 16), "Unto the pure all things are pure; but unto them that are defiled and unbelieving is nothing pure; but even their mind and conscience is defiled. They profess that they know God; but in works they deny him, being abominable, and disobedient, and unto every good work reprobate."
The Sain

aints at this place seem undaunted, and are to rebuild. Notwithstanding the drouth and hard the many friends to the Saints are contributing to put the church back where it was.

Our reunion to be held at Parrish in August was called off on account of the excessively dry weather and shortage of crops in this section. Even if there has been this handicap to the farmers in their husbandry of the soil by the drouth, we can report a number of good meetings and a few baptisms. For me so far the season has been a very busy one. I have felt well in my public and private ministry, and at times there has come joy and peace that has been as the refreshing draught to the thirsty soul. Were it not for these evidences of divine favor, lonely would be the life, and hard the struggle to endure. I have found plenty to do and far more calls for preaching have come than I could possibly fill. The Saints as a general thing seem to be striving for better things, although there are some that seems to have lost extent we lack efficient leadership in local congregations more than anything else. So many local brethren do not have the time to do their duties properly, for there must be an effort put forth to accumulate the actual necessities of life. As I look to accumulate the actual necessities of life. As I look at the work from a general standpoint I believe we can report progress. While the work has its enemies, yet we can see and realize hundreds are friendly to it. This report progress. is a splendid field in which to reach the people and I dare say one can preach to fifties and hundreds here where in some other fields you would have far less. We are hopeful in the conflict.

. In gospel fellowship, S. Smith.

512 Church St., Richmond, Melbourne, Oct. 9.
Dear Ensign:—Inquiries are coming from Saints In America wondering if we are in any danger from the war. I do not think there is and present or future danger to us, but of course one can never tell. Australia seizing to us, put of course one can never tell. Australia seizzing German Guinea may incense the Kaiser's navy which may be prowling around in the Pacific.

We are n turn anxious regarding Bro. and Sr. May and other missionaries and native Saints at Papeete, Tahiti, Society Islands. Two German war ships bombarded Papeete the last of September, and we are wondering bombarded what damage they did to that unique place. Our church quite near the beach. Trust "Charley" had the dear old stars and stripes handy to hoist on the church and mission house, and that the Germans respected its message of neutrality.

There is a substantial growth taking place here am the Saints. It is a pleasure to work with them. Bro Griffiths is in the New South Wales District. Has organwith them. Bro. ized several branches there recently. Australia is divided ized several branches there recently. Australia is divided up into five great states. Is nearly as large as the United States, yet only five states. They are called New South Wales, Victoria, Queensland, South Australia and West Australia. There is a severe drought in parts of the land, and with the immense expense of the war which Australia is bearing by sending over to the seat of hostilities an expeditionary force of 40,000 soldiers, etc., times are not too good here, and may hinder the spread-ing of the gospel for some time, but the work now is moving grandly on, with additional young men being placed in the field.

I have been placed in charge of the Melbourne Branch, located in the Victorian District, of which I am also president, in connection with the South Australian District, so am trying to keep busy.

I can't speak for Bro. Griffiths, but the brethren who

I can't speak for Bro. Orinins, but the brethren wan are so confidently expecting to see us both at the Lamoni conference may be disappointed. Am needed here, so am going to stay it out the three years, unless something prevents, or am ordered home, by either the authorities or the Germans!

Sincerely, C. Edward Miller.

Corinth, Ont., Nov. 2.

Dear Ensign:-I have been a member of Corinth Branch for about 35 years and since the passing away of Elder Christopher Pearson to the other side of the veil I have Christopher Pearson to the other side of the veil I have been made president. Our branch is numerically weak at present, caused mostly by letters of removal to other branches, many of them to St. Thomas. I am the only official remaining in it. Elder John L. Burger of St. Thomas has preached for us several times, and finds much favor with the people here. We hope to 'renew our strength by putting forth righteous effort:

We had a good secremental meeting the first Sunday of

We had a good sacramental meeting the first Sunday of this month at the home of Bro. and Sr. A. W. Borbridge. Sr. Small of St. Thomas, one of our Corinth school teachers, was with us. She favors us with her presence whenever she can do so. I hope by kind assistance and helpful co-operation we can prevent our branch from dy-ink out or becoming disorganized for the want of members, hoping always to be progressive. Wishing the Ensign and all the other church publications prosperity,

I am yours in gospel unity,

Wm. Jenkins.

Orchardville, Ill., Oct. 28.

Editor Ensign:—I am trying to please the Lord in all my ways of life, so that I may glorify Him in my body and spirit which is his. In my weakness I have been trying to promulgate the gospel for four years, which has been my meat and drink. For the last two years I have been acting as president of the Southeastern Illinois. District. October first I was appointed to take the place of Bro. E. W. Sutton, as missionary in the field. I scarcely had started out on my mission till some party or parties burned our church which was located three s and a half west of Orchardville, in Poplar Creek nch. The fire was discovered at three-thirty in the morning of October 12. Sunday school literature and a few song books and one Bible and some pieces of dry wood were used to start the fire which destroyed the church, organ and charts, nothing being saved. We had no insurance on either house or contents, and it was a total loss. We tried hard to get bloodhounds, but learned that we could not get them. The next thing was to offer a reward for the arrest and conviction of the guilty party. We had the matter under good head way, when the authorities of the State fire department sook hold of it.

authorities of the State hre department sook hold of it. The Salina, and some that are not Salints have went to work making arrangements to rebuild. We have organized and have our committee working.

I want to say 'to' the Salints-in general that we are a part of the body, and we are told in holy writ that when one member suffers all the members suffer with it; and we are sufficiently there the lossing our place of wavehing. are suffering over the loss of our place of worship, the house of God: 5

As we are poor in this world's goods we would be pleased if we could receive some help. It would be thankfully received. My address will be Orchardville, love this work with all my heart. t. And would be Elder S. S. Smith I love this work with all my heart. And would be glad to see it prosper in every land. Elder S. S. Smith begins meetings here tonight in the Christan Church, wheh was opened for us without asking for it. There was quite a sad affair happened at Orchardville a short time ago. Bro. Jake Chanie's boy Ether was stabbed in the heart and killed while attending a Holy Roller meeting. I was called on to preach the funeral discourse. Quite a large crowd attended, the largest I ever saw at a funeral. a funeral.

Our prayer is that Zion will prosper and grow and fill her mission, till that long prayed for time shall come, when the knowledge of the Lord shall cover the earth as the waters cover the deep.

R. H. Henson

Haworth, Okla., Oct. 17.

Dear Ensign:—I am still struggling to do our Master's will. I have many trials to go through, but thanks be to God trials will all soon be over and we shall reign a thousand years with our blessed Savior: then all of our pains and sorrows will be over and we shall rest from all of our labor. I ask you to pray for me that I may overcome all trials and do the work the Master has for me to b. I know this is the true church of God.

Ever praying for the welfare of Zion, I am your brother in Christ.

Lamoni, Iowa, Oct. 16.

Editor Ensign. .-It is a long time since I last the silent preacher, but I have not lost interest in its mission after all. But I read several times that your colu sion after an. Due I read section where cowned with letters, and some to spare for future use, therefore I thought I would wait. My wife and I learned last winter, that for our health and comfort we would have to change location before another winter set in, and asking the Lord to direct us in the matter, he kindly opened the way for us to move to Lamoni, Iowa, where we can live in comfort now.

We reached Lamoni just in time to attend the Lamoni reunion; which was fine, the camp grounds are splendid; nicely sloping on a fine hill-side clean and neat. There were almost a hundred tents on the grounds, all nicely arranged. And as far as I can learn, all who attended were well pleased with the results of the meetings. At the close, I went to St. Joseph, Second Branch, and as usual they were all anxious to have the old man preach for them; for they know that he never refuses when he is able to talk. While preaching there I had the great pleasure of baptizing a fine intelligent woman who was born and raised a Catholic. But she was one of God's sheep, and when she heard the voice of one of his servants, she at once discerned the difference between the truth and the doctrines of man. If I had space, I would like to tell how wonderfully the Good Lord opened the way for her to hear the truth, as restored to earth

From St. Joseph I went by invitation to assist at the Stewartsville reunion. There we also had a time of re-freshing from the Lord. We all had a splendid good time—with one exception. One evening we were treated to a terrible hail-storm, which somewhat chilled the ardor of some of the old folks. But all were happy as usual next day.

there the writer was called by Bro. Charles Morton, president of the Kingston Branch, where they have been waiting for me the last two years to come and hold a series of meetings. It would be hard to extend any one a warmer reception than those good Saints of Kingston gave me; God bless them for their kindness. Bro. Morton is alive and at his post wherever duty calls, and the outsiders seem to respect him. While there I had the pleasure and at his post wherever duty calls, and the outsiders seem to respect him. While there I had the pleasure of baptizing another fine young woman. That made five hundred and seventy-seven that I had lead into the waters or regeneration. There was a fine attendance all the time, and the crowd kept on increasing till the close. Bankers, doctors, teachers and preachers attended. Notwithstanding that it rained almost every day, and some nights while I was there I preached about twenty sermons,

I want to tell you briefly how the Lord watches over his people. When I read that letter the other day in our paper; where a brother's house did not burn, and yet it was close to one that did burn, the Kingston affair came was close to one that this out, her Aingston altair came to my mind. There was a cyclone formed somewhere west of Marable. And there was not a house in the town that was not damaged more or less. That same twister came direct for Kingston. It twisted several trees off more than a foot through, which stood in the school yard, tore a house down west of town, next it struck a small barn across the street from the L. D. S. Church, and carried across the street from the L. D. S. Chulch, and carried the roof straight for Sr. Cook's house but about ten or fifteen feet before it reached her house, it rose up and went over her house, doing it no harm. The next buildwent over her house, doing it no harm. The next build-ing was our church, about twenty feet from Sr. Cook's house. The church is about twice as high as her house, and instead of the barn roof hitting the church it rose up so that it struck the church just at the edge of the roof, and whirled over it just so that it damaged the belifry a little. The twister went on over and down to the ground again, twisting trees off as before. Bro. Morton and I were in the church at the time, having gone up to fix my black board for the night sermon. We up to ax my black board for the night sermon. We thought that there would be no help; that the church would certainly have to go. And if the twister had not raised up and went over it, there is nothing surer than that it would have gone. We could hear it groan and jar. But God saved it and us too. Thank his holy name for it.

From there I went by invitation to assist Bro. Morton in a two days meeting at the Oak Dale Church where our congenial Brother Coleman Snyder is in charge, and he is just the man for that place. They have a fine lively branch there. By their request I promised to return later there. branch there. By their request I promised to return later and hold a series of meetings for them. Bro. W. Lewis and his stenographer Sr. Ruth, were there also in line of his office and calling. He expected to continue the meetings a few evenings longer. From there I came to St. Joseph to conference, which was well attended. And the Second Branch always know how to make visitors feel at home while with them. But I was not able to do my part in preaching there, for I had taken a severe cold, and had to come home for a rest and recuperate. I will start for the Des Moines District in a few days for a while. I am still in the faith and ready for the conflict.

J. S. Roth. J. S. Roth.

Home address, Lamoni, Iowa, Box B.

Niangua, Mo., Oct. 19 Dear Ensign:—Many times I have thought that when we feel impressed to do any thing that we feel it a duty to do we should heed the admonition, let it be to feed the hungry, or visit the sick, or to lend a helping hand to some mother who has a family of little ones to care for, a few stitches or a garment taken home to make, will often cheer and help one who is overburdened with care. There are many who would appreciate even a kind word.

That is one way we can "bear ye one another's burdens."

If we feel prompted to do a good act and we neglect our duty, are we not treating lightly the dictates of what we should call sacred? Are we receiving "line upon line, here a little and there a little?" It takes little things to make a true Saint. Take care of the dimes and the make a true Saint. Take care of the dimes and the dollars will take care of themselves. So in regard to our actions, if we wait to do a big act many small ones will pass unheeded. I do not wish to complain or tell of the trials I have passed through or the many heart aches, but suffice to say that if we can only look to the Lord and receive serength to endure it is as gold tried in a furrefined by fire and we can feel our confidence is still in the great God of heaven, who hears and answers prayers and cares for those who put their trust in him. I feel that my faith is not shaken in this great latter day work, but I feel more determined to press forward and onward until He may say, Well done, enter into thy rest.

In one more month I will be 74 years old. I hope I may to be the means in God's hands of showing some one the way or light of the restored gosnel which some one the way or light of the restored gospet when has always been a great desire ever since I have known the true light that lighteneth every one who obeys with a true purpose of heart. Asking an interest in the prayers of all Saints, and especially those who know us, I am as ever your sister in the one faith,

R. M. Bradley.

Poteau, Okla., Nov. 1

Dear Ensign:-I have been here five weeks; started to hold meetings on the streets of this city of twenty hundred, then the courthouse was open to me. I got a shocking while I was on the streets by one of the Nights of Columbus. He said he would whip me again if I preached on the streets that night. I did not seem to fear, so I preached that night to a crowd of more than 300 people; then they opened the Second Baptist Church for me. I have held four meetings in it and the Lord has greatly blessed my work here. I have been in the water six times and led seventeen fine people into the waters of baptism. We have some good material here for a branch. Two other fine ladies were going to be baptized but their husbands asked them to wait for them.

When I first came here I had to pay my board in the hotel till I found a Sister T. P. McMilner. She made me a home. The Lord has raised up friends to the work, and now I have more than a dozen places to stay. I trust that some other elder will soon follow up and he will find sheaves for his work. This makes thirty-five that I have baptized since General Conference. I had a full house most of the time and closed the meetings with

I feel to rejoice in the work and ask for the prayers of I leave here tomorrow for Cove, Ark, where I will begin the work again. Bro. E. A. Erwin was with me three days. He and Bro. R. E. Goss of Fanshaw, Okla, confirmed my converts. This is the third or fourth time for Bro. Goss to come and help me out.

I remain your brother in gospel bonds,

Jas. Wm. Duboise.

Lamar, Colo., Oct. 12.

Dear Ensign:—We enjoy reading the Ensign and feel that we could not do without it. We attended the district conference at Colorado Springs and certainly endistrict conterence at Colorado Springs and certainly en-joyed meeting with the Saints, meeting old acquaintances and getting acquainted with so many more. Had a very spiritual conference and the Saints of Colorado Springs surely know how to make visitors feel at home and enjoy themselves.

We have no branch here at present, but are hoping to have one organized soon. Brn. Petrie and Barrett were here this summer. We have preaching every Sunday and are going to organize a Sunday school soon, passing through will be welcome here. We Any elders are going to organize a Sunday school soon. Any elders passing through will be welcome here. We live 8 miles northwest of Lamar, our address being Lamar, R. F. D. 2.

In gospel bonds, Mr. and Mrs. I. N. DeLong.

GLEANINGS.

Elder W. W. Chrestensen, laboring at Dustin, Okla., has a good notice of his meetings in the Dustonian, a paper published at that place.

T. W. Chatburn, Pittsburg, Kans., Oct. 28.—All goes well with us. Calls for preaching and baptism never greater than now.

BAPTISM.

Sermon delivered at Kansas City, Mo., November 17th, 1913, by F. A. Smith, Evangelist. Reported by Belle Robinson James.

I have decided to take up one of the old themes; possibly it may be looked upon as obsolete by some, but never obsolete with the Lord; and as a starting point for that I shall use the first five verses of the third chapter of John

There was a man of the Pharisces, named Nicodemus, a ruler of the Jews; The same came to Jesus by night, and said unto him, Rabbi, we know that thou art a teacher come from God: for no man can do these miracles that thou doest except God be with him. Jesus answered and said unto him, Verliy, verily I say unto thee, Except a man be born again, he cannot see the kingdom of God. Nicodemus said unto him. How can a man be born again, he had be born? Jesus aman eb orn again when he is old? Can he enter the second time into his mother's womb and be born? Jesus answered, Verily, Verliy, I say unto thee, Except a man be born of water and of the spirit, he cannot enter into the kingdom of God. That which is born of the flesh is flesh, and that which is born of the Spirit, is spirit. Marvel not that I said unto thee, Ye must be born again. The wind blowest where it listeth, and thou hearest the sound thereof, and canst not tell whence it cometh or whither it goeth: so is every one that is born of the Spirit.

Now I presume without doubt nearly every one of the members of the Church without hesitancy would answer as to what the subject will be for the text is really contained in the fifth verse: "Jesus answered, Verily, verily, I say unto thee, Except a man be born of water and of the Spirit, he cannot enter into the kingdom of God." They have said, in some places, that it was impossible for a Latter Day Saint to preach a sermon that he did not say something about baptism, but I think you have heard one or two at least in which we did not mention baptism since we have been here; so tonight I thought I would make up for that !!ttle neglect upon my part and give you a sermon on baptism. It may be that I can make up for all my short-comings along this line in my one talk

I know it is an old subject. It may be thought to be thread-bare, but I have discovered in my experience that sometimes the old thread-bare themes, when handled a little differently, have suddenly aroused in us an intensely keen interest. As we discover the beauty of the commandments of God, of the force, and the defensible position that is occupied by the Church in those lines, it brings to us a renewal of our confidence, strengthens us in our hope, encourages us in our effort to promulgate the truth and fight the battle of life that lies before us; so when I take up this question tonight, I ask you to note for a few moments the thought: "Excépt a man is born again, he cannot see the kingdom of God."

Now, experience has taught me the truthfulness of this; has forced me to recognize how true the Master's words were; and how often have you, in your experience as members of the church wondered in astonishment that the other people around you could not see the gospel as you saw it. Could not comprehend the plainness, the simplicity, the forcefulness of that which is presented by the Master to the human race; and you have forgotten oft-times that probably it took you a year or two years or three years—some of you, possibly, have heard it for ten years—before you found yourselves in a position willing to move forward in obedience to it.

Now I remember a little experience along this line regarding a certain brother, that was for one year or a little over investigating the truth. Our membership talked with him, the young people talked with him; the ministers talked with him. He read, he studied, he investigated and he fought every inch of the ground over, we might say, as he went, and finally came in. After coming into the church, his joy, seemingly, knew no bounds. He rejoiced exceedingly, but he had one sorrow and it seemed to be a sore one with him. He undertook to convince some of his friends of the wonderful truths that he had found and after working with them for a few weeks, he came to me one day and said he wanted to talk with me. We went into a room by ourselves and sat down and the brother burst into tears. When he had quieted a little, I said, "What in the world is the matter? What is so seriously troubling you? He got calm enough and told me his trouble. "Oh," he says, "I cannot get them to see it."

See what? "Why, the truth, the gospel." Who? "Why, my friends that I have been working with. I have talked to them, I have explained it to them; I have prayed for them and I cannot get them to awaken to it."

I comprehended what his trouble was then; and after he had spent his feelings and quieted down, I sald, "Brother," calling him by name, "How long was it, after you became interested before you came into the Church?" He thought a little while and then said:-"Well, a little over a year." "Have you forgotten how many times we talked with you?-How many different ones talked with you-how we plead with you?" sat and thought for a few minutes and he suddenly looked up at me and his eyes got big, he says: "Brother Smith—it was over a year!" "Certainly," I said. "You couldn't see these plain truths that you are trying to force your friends to recognize-you couldn't understand or grasp it and we had to bear with you all that time; and you cannot bear with your friends a few weeks at least—isn't it true?" He says, "Oh yes, I see it now. I could not comprehend it before. When I was born again, then it became plain and simple and bright and I wondered and wondered why I could not see it before." But I said-"You forgot all about that when your friends could not see it like you did."

Now, friends, there is a truth in this and it forces itself home to us as ministers so forcibly that it compels us to wait patiently and pray earnestly for those that are interested. They cannot see the kingdom except they are born again and I have become conscious of the thought that in this birth of water alone does not come the sight, but it requires both; the complete birth is never effected until there has been the birth of the water and the Spirit, and then comes that light that God said should beam out upon them and there is reflected to them in its intensity and in its glory and magnitude the gospel of God, the kingdom of Christ and its power to save and not till then.

Now it seems from the first—the very first of the gospel in the days of John—and we might say earlier, but we are going to take this thought up now, that this principle of the baptism by water that the world despises, was one of the efficient features of the gospel. John bears witness in this first chapter of John's gospel, the 6th to 8th verses, and also in the latter part of it. I will read the first to you:

"There was a man sent from God whose name was John; the same came for a witness, to bear witness of the Light, that all men through him might believe. He was not that Light but was sent to bear witness of that Light. That was the true light, which lighteth every man that cometh into the world."

I thought as we sang the hymn tonight—"Lead kindly Light, amidst the encircing gloom"—who was the Light—The Son of God. He says, "I came a light into the world." Now, what for? That you might have Life and have it more abundantly—that is the thought. How can we get it? I follow right along down to the 31st verse of this same chapter of John, and there we have the testimony of John again, I want you to notice it:

"And John bare record, saying, I saw the Spirit descending from heaven like a dove and it abode upon him. And I knew him not; but he that sent me to baptize with water, the same said unto me, Upon whom thou shalt see the Spirit descending and remaining on him, the same is he which baptizeth with the Holy Ghost. And I saw and bare record that this is the Son of God."

Now John was who? A man sent of God. What for? To bear witness of him who should be the Light of the world. And what did God send him to do? To baptize with water. That is his record. That is his witness to the world. Now I am calling your attention to this and I want you to think of it, for we discover that this Jesus Christ, the Son of God that he bears witness of, came to this John that was sent of God to baptize with water and demanded baptism at his hands.

Now if there was ever an individual in the world that could justify himself in the thought that he did not need baptism, this Jesus Christ was the one, for the historians of every class and character concede that so far as any transgression of the laws of God or men is concerned, they are unable to fasten anything of that kind upon him. Not a thing. He has no transgression of his own that he must answer for and yet he comes, humbling himself before God and men and demands baptism at the hands of John. I ask you to stop a moment right there. John seemingly recognized the situation and says, "What! Comest thou to me? I have need to be baptized of thee."

Still Carl Carlotte Balletine

There was the question. Now it brings forcibly home to our thought the position. He could have escaped seemingly and John wondered that he had come to him but what was the answer? "Suffer it to be so now John, for thus it becometh us to fulfill all righteousness." And over in the 1st chapter of Romans we have the Apostle Paul making the declaration: "I am not ashamed of the gospel of Christ, for it is the power of God unto salvation to every one that believeth, to the Jew first and also to the Greek, and therein is the righteousness of God revealed." In the gospel then comes that righteousness of God and the revealment of it.

Now I want you to get this thought; Jesus came and demanded baptism and walked into the waters of that baptism, came out of the water and received the baptism of the Holy Spirit and was born of the water and of the Spirit. Born again. Now we have heard some individuals talk about this principle of baptism, who have ridiculed the thought and said: "Well, I don't think it is necessary; it is not essential; it is no saving ordinance; it is of no particular value; simply, as some express it, an utward sign of an inward grace, and some have discarded it entirely as being absolutely obsolete—having no virtue at all.

Now, friends, when I have heard them talk like that, I could not help but feel for them. My heart went out for those poor mortal beings. eyes absolutely closed to their own interests, failing to grasp one of the finest things God ever gave to humanity. An opportunity, a privilege, a blessing through the ordinance of baptism. Now I am satisfied that they do not stop to think; for what mortal man will exalt himself until he concludes that he doesn't need baptism; he doesn't need anything of that description when the Son of God, without one single transgression, attempted to set the example before the world that it was essential and necessary even that he comply with that ordinance in order to fulfill the righteousness of God. Are you better that he? Just dwell on the thought for a few moments, and then, my friends, as you find yourself looking at this individual, perfect in his outline and work and compare yourself with him a little while and see how you will shrink down into insignificance and how you will feel when you have set yourself up presumptuously to stand in the attitude that the Son of God would not dare to do.

Now I am not surprised that men have tried to get away from it. I am not surprised that the adversary of the souls of men have sought to darken their minds on this thing. I am not surprised that he has sought to sow the seeds of thoughtlessness and carelessness and indifference toward it, and if possible, get it out of the way. Not at all. Think of it! I am going to tell you why-I am going to emphasize the thought, too, in bringing that carefully before you, for there is an object, a purpose in it and the adversary of souls knows what that purpose is even better than humanity, and if he can blind their eyes and stultify their interest in that until they will pass it by, he knows that he has accomplished a perfeet work of their mination, that they sooner or later will wake up to the mistake they have made.

Now what does it mean? I am going to examine briefly tonight some of the passages of Scripture along this line in order that we may get carefully into the details of it.

In the 10th chapter of Acts, 5th and 6th verses, we have this language:

"And now send men to Joppa, and call for one Simon, whose surname is Peter: he lodgeth with one Simon a tanner, whose house is by the seaside, he shall tell thee what thou aughtest to do."

Who is this individual? And the answer comes back from every Bible student—"Why that is Cornelius, a centurian of the band called the Italian band. He saw in a vision—Ah! See visions?—A devout man, a praying man, who gave alms—a religious man after the manner of his own land, of course. Now then the statement comes that he was told to send to Joppa and get this man that was abiding there with the tamer, and bring him down and he would tell nim what he ought to do. Why, why did not the Angel tell him? Why didn't the Lord tell him in the vision? The Lord told him to send for his servant who was abiding down there at the seaside with the tanner and he should tell him. Turn over to the 42nd verse and you will read:

"And he commanded us to preach unto the people, and to testify that it is he which is ordained of God to be the Judge of quick and dead. To give him all the prophets witness, and through his name whosoever believeth in him shall receive remission of sins." "While Peter yet spake these words, the Holy Ghost fell on all them which heard the word. And they of the circumcision which believed were astonished, as many as came with Peter, because that on the Gentiles also was poured out the gift of the Holy Ghost: for they heard them speak with tongues and magnify God."

Peter has gone down to Cornelius' house; he took some of his brethren with him. Cornelius was a Gentile. Peter and his friends were of the Jews and they thought the Gentiles had no portion in the kingdom of God, and now the Lord shows Peter a vision and convinces him that they have, and when they come down here, the Lord pours out his Spirit upon these individuals and they receive the gift of the Holy Ghost.

Now, my friends who do not believe in baptism would tell us there—"I told you that water baptism was of no value and was not necessary—they received the baptism of the Spirit." But wait, did they? Why yes, you say, the Holy Ghost was poured out upon them and they spake with tongues and prophesied. Yes, but was that all? If that was all, my friends, then would baptism surely be unnecessary so far as the water was concerned and we might save ourselves that humiliating condition of being wet and disagreeable, as we often are, in these ordinances—but let us see:

"Then answered Peter, Can any man forbid water that these should not be baptized, which have received the Holy Ghost as well as we? And he commanded them to be baptized in the name of the Lord."

What? These people that had received of the gift of the Holy Ghost, that had been given that peculiar manifestation of the power of God, that convinced Peter and those of the circumcision that were with him that they were accepted of God—and he commanded them to be baptized with water! Who can forbid it? Some of my religious friends would say, "We would." Would you? But the servant of Jesus Christ said that the Lord told those men to go down and call the servants of God that the Lord himself directed and told to go—this individual now rises up under the authority that has been vested him, under the direction of the Spirit of God and says: "I command you to be baptized in water." That is the thought!

Now friends, you accept that that is presented here, but we want to notice a little more along the lines; so we go over to the 22nd chapter of this same Acts of the Apostles and notice another declaration that is made there, for he presents it to us nicely and in this one we have another experience that we want to notice. The 12th to the 16th yerse:

"And one Ananias, a devout man according to the law, having a good report of all the Jews which dwelt there; came unto me and stood and said unto me, Brother Saul—" Ah! Brother Saul! You saw the pictures of this man upon the screen a few nights ago, and the picture showing that his conversion was wonderful. This man Paul was converted and these are his words:

"He said unto me, Brother Saul, receive thy sight. And the same hour I looked upon him. And he said, the God of our Fathers hath chosen thee, that thou shouldst know his will, and see that Just One, and shouldst hear the voice of his mouth. For thou shalt be his witness unto all men, of what thou hast seen and heard. And now, why tarriest thou? Arise and be baptized and wash away thy sins, calling on the name of the Lord'?

Paul stricken down by the light, hears the voice of the Son of God, having this miraculous power menificat in his behalf, that gave him his sight again and authorized him to see and to feel and to know the power of God and yet this Ananias arises and says: "Now, Saul, why tarriest thou? Arise and be baptized and wash away thy sins."

Now we have found a purpose here; there is a purpose in the washing away os the sins. Baptizing them in water carries with it something of importance to the human family, and I am going to give you one or two Biblical statements in regard to its peculiar purpose. Then I propose to ask you to look at it and see if I can make it plain enough so that you can grasp it and comprehend it; then, my friends, that forevermore you will recognize that in this ordinance, simple though it may be, foolish in the sight of man—there is attached to it one of the grandest principles for mankind in the world, and no other one thing in the world presents to us the privilege that this affords.

So I turn back to Mark, to the 1st chapter and read the first four verses:

"The beginning of the gospel of Jesus Christ, the Son of God; as it is written in the prophets, Behold I send my messenger before thy face, which shall prepare thy way before thee. The voice of one crying in the wilderness, Prepare ye the way of the Lord, make his paths straight. John did baptize in the wilderness, and preach the baptism of repentance for the remission of sins."

What did John preach baptism for? For the remission of sins. One band of people comes to me and says, "Brother, it is for an outward sign of an inward grace only," Another comes to me: "Why brother, it is because our sins have been remitted." We have these various ideas concerning this thing, but here we have the plain declaration of the Word: "John did baptize in the wilderness, and preach the baptism of repentance for the remission of sins." Now that is the statement made by Mark.

Let me go to Luke. He has a declaration touching this same thing. In the 3rd chapter, second and third verses you will find it:

"The word of God came unto John the son of Zecharias in the wilderness. And he came into all the country about Jordan, preaching the baptism of repentance for the remission of sins."

In the mouth of two or three witnesses shall everything be established. We have two. I wonder if we can get another! We will go pack to the Acts of the Apostles and note Peter's statement. In the 2nd chapter Peter has something to say and we will let him explain it unto us. Now after these individuals had heard the gospel and became convinced they cried out, "Men and brethren, what shall we do." They were resting under conviction. Sinned they had, and they knew it now. The great uestion comes—and it is a uestion, my friends—to every soul that become conscious of its own need: "What shall I do? How can I escape my sins?" No, friends,—that is not the real thing—"How can I escape the consequences of my sins?"—that is the thing. That is the important feature that is there. It is implied in the inquiry of these men; "What shall we do?" Let us see what Peter answered:

"Then Peter said unto them, Repent and be baptized every one of you in the name of Jesus Christ, for the remission of sins, and ye shall receive the gift of the Holy Ghost."

Now I have the third witness and it is not necessary for me to go further to establish my thought. Here we have the three declarations, positive, clear and distinct—Mark, Luke and Peter, all of them bearing witness to the same thine.

I remember a little incident that happened out in California. I saw some who were present at the time so we got it authoritatively. A young minister had just came from the seminary, seemingly thoroughly equipped; had received his diploma and his ordination and was now sent out to represent Christ, and in his confidence and assurance that seemed to be with him, he seemed to feel fully equipped and qualified in every sense to present his thoughts and he came representing a denomination that did not accept baptism as being for the remission of sins. He encountered an elderly gentleman out in the country-a man who had been a minister for a good many years, that stood for the theory that baptism was for the They entered into discussion remission of sins. and they had half hour speeches, two speecnes each night; the subject was this same subject. The young man took the affirmative upon the statement that it was not for the remission of sins, but was an outward sign of an inward grace and was not essential to salvation. The old gentleman stood for the ground that it was for the remission of sins. The young man got up his first night and in a very eloquent way proceeded to explain a way this baptism for the remission of sins. He spent his half hour eloquently, earnestly to accomplish his purpose. The Bible was the standard of evidence.

The old gentleman got up when his turn came. He turned his book over and adjusted his glasses carefully and looked in Mark thoughtfully and read that little declaration: "John came preaching the gospel of repentance for the remission of He turned over to Luke and read the statement that he found there-"For the remission of sins." He turned and read Peter's declaration that I have read in your hearing; and after he had read it carefully and examined it, he turned to the young man and said: "Brother, it is there yet." He walked to his chair and sat down. young man was just a little non-plussed but he got up bravely and went at it again. Another half hour of eloquence, explanations, Greek and Latin and all those things, and he finished. The old gentleman got up and very carefully made an examination of the outside and inside of the book, and when he had looked it all over and read it slowly, a word at a time to be sure it was alright, and then he turned to the young man and said: "Brother it is there yet."

Friends, did you ever stop to think of it? It is there yet. They haven't been able to take it away yet. It is still there. For what? For the remission of sins. Now what does that mean? Oh, says one, Forgiveness. Oh friends, wait! There is more than forgiveness in it. He may forgive you for commune still let you suffer the penalty. Did you ever that? Why, certainly, friends. No parent ever punished his child in this world that he didn't forgive that child, but he may have used the switch just the same. I remember one experience of that kind and have never forgotten it. It was not the switch, though -it was the strap. It was pretty bad for a little offense. Father forgave me for disobeying him but he waited three days before he gave me that strapping and I always thought that was the meanest part of the whole business. Nevertheless, I expect it did me good and I probably needed what I got. The thought is there-it is not because he did not forgive, but the punishment is for a purpose; but when the Lord makes the declaration, if you will comply with the requirements that God has given unto you that he will remit the sin. It is not the committing of the act alone that he is going to forgive-it is the penalty. That is the thing that must be remitted. That is the thing that the people on the day of Pentecost cried out about. How shall we escape the punishment that is justly our'duethat is the thought, and it is the thing that can come to every soul, if they will think. God has given to us Jesus, who is the judge of the world. Turn over to John 5th chapter, where Jesus says: that all judgment is committed unto the Lon. Ah, there is the point! He was the Judge.

Let me illustrate it, if I can. Suppose you were arrested! You were brought before the magistrate; and there, conscious of you own guilt and your own crime, you confessed to the Court: "Guilty." The judge, because of your confession is disposed to be lenient with you. Now the law says, the penalty for this thing is confinement in jail, or a fine, or both. Because you have thrown yourself upon the leniency of the courtyou have frankly admitted your guilt, the judge desires now to give you some freedom from the severity of the law, so he says: "Well, after considering this a little, I have concluded that I will impose a certain duty or responsibility upon you. you will comply with that requirement, I will remit the sentence of fine and imprisonment and it will stand remitted so long as you comply with this requirement." Now, my friends, would you comply or would you go to jail and pay the fine? The most of you would answer, I think, without much hesitation; will comply with that requirement." You wou You would do it gladly, wouldn't you? It was not because the judge did not forgive you or that he held anything against you, but there was the law; there was the penalty; the only way that he can get around it is to remit—that is the only thing he could do.

Jesus Christ is the judge of humanity and he has seen the peculiar condition of mankind. He has recognized your transgression and when you come to him, confessing your sins, repenting of our transgressions and throwing yourself upon the mercy of the judge and appeal to him, he says: I will impose upon you the requirement that you go into the waters of baptism in obedience to my law and I will remit your sin. The transgression and its consequences relieves you and you stand forth and you are now free from the embargo that had rested upon you, relieved you from the sentence that otherwise must have placed you under condemnation and brought you in subject to punishment.

Ah friends! Is there any place else that holds before you that privilege, that opportunity, that possibility? It is the saving ordinance to the human race that brings to them the relief from the consequence of their own transgressions and opens for them the door of escape. That is what it does for you.

Now just think for a moment. You see what the adversary has got to do! If he can shut your eyes to that; if he can dull your ears to the appeal that is made to you to recognize that ordinance he has accomplished his purpose and you must suffer the consequences of your transgressions by punishment in the prison house—how can you escape it, friends? You may talk to me about the love of God, the mercy of God, but do you think for one moment, that he is going to extend arms of love to you when you have ignored them and refuse all overtures of mercy that he has sent to you? Now, as you think of that, my friends, you have before you some of the reasons for the principles that we hold out as the saving principles to the human race.

Now I have one more thought I want to express in connection with this before I close. There have been a good many explanations as to the mode and I am only going to touch briefly upon this point. You will find it taught in Matthew 31:46: Acts 8:38-9; Romans 6:3-7; Col. 2:11, 12; and there are many others that I might mention but these are enough. Acts 8:38-9 is the important one I want to refer to now. That is the conversion of the Eunuch by Philip. of you have heard that little story how Philip attached himself to the chariot, taught the Eunuch the gospel and finally came to the place where there was water and the Eunuch says: "See, here is water. What doth hinder? Why should I not be baptized?" and Philip says: "If thou believest with all thy heart, thou mayest." And the story goes that they both got out of the chariot and went down into the water and Philip baptized the Eunuch and they both came up out of the water. And Philip was caught away.

Now the reason I refer to this is, because in teaching this mode, we have, I might say, been antagonizing the religious world, but while I was in Missouri; down in the southern part here working in the mill, preaching on Sundays, I had little experience there. They wanted me to go out and hear an old brother that came there preachinga very fine old gentleman, too, but he had advertized far and wide that he was going to preach upon this principle of baptism and show that sprinkling was the method. Some of the boys that were working at the mill called my attention to it and wanted me to go and I told them I would. We went to the church. The old brother gave us a real fine talk and then he got down to his explanation. He quoted this 8th chapter of Acts, "Philip and the Eunuch" he says, "this is the one that our friends who believe in immersion hold before us." Now, he says, "It is an easy think to explain this-it is no trouble at You see that was a dry country, a desert all. country and they had to carry a jug of water with them wherever they went for their beasts and for themselves. Now, there is no difficulty about the thing at all. When the Eunuch became convinced of the truth, he says: See, here is water, what doth hinder me?" Why. certainly they had the jug full of it there. Why, he says, you can see that-all of you.

The explanation looked real nice and plausable, and if it had not been for the asking of questions, probably, it would have been all right. It would The negro have been like the negro's theology. preacher very earnestly told how God created man out of mud and set him up against the fence to dry. One of his congregation spoke up, "Brother, o done make dat fence?" "Look heah nigger, such fool questions as that will spoil the finest spun theologer in de world,

After the sermon was over, they brought the old brother down and introduced him to me. Told him I was a minister and we began to talk and he says: "How did you like my talk?" I was up a tree for a few minutes whether to come right out and tell him, or what to do was the question, and finally I thought I'd break it to him as easy as I could. I says, "Why, brother some of your talk I enjoyed, but there is one point that remains a mystery to me yet." "Why, why a mystery?" "Yes." "What is it brother? Tell me, I think I can clear it up for you," he says. "You told us about Philip and the Eunuch?" "Yes, what mystery is there about that?" "Well, I says, if I remember reading the Scripture aright, it says: "they came unto a certain water;" isn't that the way it reads?" "Well, I believe it does read like that, brother; I think that is the way it does read." And they went down both "Yes, I think it does say that, yes." "And he baptized him?" "Yes." *** "And they came up out of the water?" "Why, yes, it does read that way, I think." "Now, brother, the mystery is how they could carry in the chariot a jug big enough for Philip and the Eunuch to go down into it, and do the baptizing and! and!-how did they get out?"

"Why-well-say-brother, I'd like to have a real long talk with you about this, but I have got an appointment and I will have to go, I will see you again and we will have a chat over this mat-So it is a mystery yet, I have never seen the old brother since; he has not had a chance to explain it to me, but you stop a moment-does it need any explanation; and friends, do we have to resort to a thing of that kind to establish the mode of baptism? Can we afford to do it when the Scripture is plain? When we pick up secular history, and read carefully, we discover men have recognized the mode as immersion every time, all the way through. Friends, there is only one place in the Bible where it refers to sprinkling with water, and that uses the word, "I will sprinkle them with pure water and they shall be clean," speaking of Israel. He doesn't refer to it as baptism anywhere, any place, or is there one single passage that represents it as sprinkling or pouring, either one.

Now I appeal to you people to think of this little story of the baptism and its purposes and object, and that is the main thing. And I want to impress it upon your mind. If it has been given to man for the purpose of redeeming and saving him from the consequences of his transgression, redeeming him from the prison and giving to him a new lease of life and making him a new creature, why should you let the adversary of souls or the blindness of men keep you out of your own, and prevent you from walking in newness of life and receiving the light and the saving grace of God that shall follow you? Answer for yourselves. Oh friends, if I could do it for you; if I could only go through it for you I'd gladly do it. So would others too, my brethren. Friends, let me appeal to you, if you are interested in your soul's salvation, if you are interested in your own eternity, if you have any interest in your own self, I plead with you, not to allow the peculiar traditions of men nor the power of the adversary to prevent you from having that which God has given to you.

I ask you in Jesus' name to not hesitate. Do not put it off. Do not hesitate for fear of what the world will say. What do you care what they say? They cannot save you. But look earnestly forward to your own salvation and carefully guard your own interests and the interests of the great plan that God has given, to "Arise and be baptized and wash away your sins," and come into divine favor with God, that you may be saved, redeemed, prevented from the suffering of the agonies of the damned.

I plead with you, friends, do not put it off. Do not waste your time. Arise and go forward in it, and let God know, let the world know that you have awakened to your own situation and propose to take advantage of the powers and privileges that God has unfolded to you, that you may be redeemed in his glorious kingdom.

May God help you to see it and bless you, is my prayer, in Jesus' name. Amen.

CHANGE OF ADDRESS.
The address of Elder John C. Foss is Machias, Maine, in-The address of Elder som. stead of Independence, Mo.

MRS. MAUD MILLS, EDITOR.

NOTICE.

NOTICE.

All persons sending money to the Woman's Auxiliary for any persons. Including subscriptions to Home and Child Welfare leaf-lets, or Children's Home donations, please forward same to the treasurer of the Auxiliary, Mrs. J. A. Gardner, 711 S. Fuller Ave., Independence Mo.

dependence Mo. ADVISORY BOARD.

Mrs. S. R. Burgess, President, 590 Etzel Ave., St. Louis, Mo. Mrs. B. C. Smith, Vice President, 214 S. Spring St., Independent. Minnie E. Scott. Secretary, 309 S. Fuller Ave., Independ ence, Mo. Mrs. J. A. Gardner, Treasurer, 711 S, Fuller Avc., Independence,

Mo. Mrs. J. A. Gardner, Treasurer, 711 S, Fuller Avc., Independence, Mo. Mrs. M. A. Etrenhouser, 185 W. Welmut St., Independence, Mo. Mrs. D. J. Krahl, 724 S. Crysler St., Independence, Mo. SUPERINTERDENTS OF DEPARTMENTS.
HOME AND GENERAL ST. H. A. Stebbins, Lamoni, Idva. and Educational Department, Mrs. Lydia Thomas Wight, Lamoni, Idva. Eugenics Department, Mrs. Jennie Studley, 17 E. Cottage St., Roxbury, Mass. Roy Company, Mass. Roy Company, Mass. Roy Company, Mass. Stepenson, 186 Mill St., Council Burlis, Idva. Sewing and Aid Department, Mrs. Bertha Anderson Hulmes, Sewing and Aid Department, Mrs. Edith Cochran, 207 S. Sevententh St., St. Joseph., 70.

WOMAN'S LIFE WORK.

What should be the life work of woman? I mean the ordinary woman, for there are not many of us who can be anything extraordinary, so we should stop to ask ourselves—what am I best fitted for? what can I do to be a help and carry out the purpose for which I was here. Most of womenkind take life too lightly. are prone to accept the great responsibility placed upon them—they would shirk the greatest blessings that can come to them in this life. I have seen women who can come to them in this life. I have seen women who have taken in deeply of life's pleasures, have been frivolous and unthinking of the time that would come, when perhaps their hearthstone would be desolate and lonely, when perhaps they could have had the sweet companionship of their children and their children's chilen, to cheer their declining years. Many times have talked with people who have passed the meridian of life and whose lives were empty and their hearts sad because of what might have been. There is nothing in this whole world so beautiful as the character of a woman who has been a true mother—no one so loving and sympathetic—no one who can understand human nature as the one who has been the mother of a human soul. Who knows how to ease an aching heart or smooth a troubled brow and kiss away our fears as a mother does? What a life work to choose! To know that we can give to the world, a service beyond com-parison, in training souls to grow to manhood and womanhood noble and true, and to fit those souls for the king-dom of heaven. To do justice to our calling in life, we must be in close touch with God. We must be co-work-ers with him, for woman's life is not free from cares and troubles, worry, anxieties, sickness, even death will overtake us. It is there we feel the need of our Father's care, so we should not fail to seek his guidance; and as he is so loving to us, knowing our every need, so should a mother be to her children. Not impatient of their little acts and their childish questions, for remem-ber God is not impatient with us; and I am sure we sometimes appear childish to Him in our actions and sometimes appear childish to Him in our actions and requests. Oftimes I have heard a mother speak harshly to her child, and have seen a sorrowful questioning look cloud the little one's face. The mother was too busy to notice and did not realize what seeds of distress she might be sowing. For in years to come she may lose that child's confidence. Then comes sorrow. So a might be sowing. For in years to come she may lose that child's confidence. Then comes sorrow. So a woman's life work then is to best fit herself to become a true mother. Then will she be worthy of all the blessings of life, for she will render unto God, and unto her country, a service far greater than all the federal clubs society frivolities, or political efforts can ever do. If society frivolities, or political efforts can ever do. If she can rightly rule in her own sphere, then will she be fitted to rule elsewhere. We are told to "first seek the kingdom of heaven to build it up." What is more beautiful than to be able to give to that kingdom, our sons and daughters. So it seems to me to be enough of a life work to be able to impart to our loved ones the knowledge that will prepare them for a glorious entrance into that kingdom.

Hazen M. Pare

San Francisco, Calif. Read at Woman's Auxiliary session at recent Northern California District Conference.

Written by Mrs. M. Bates. Read at Woman's Auxiliary session at recent Northern California District Conference.

So much has been written in our mother's home column treating on how to raise our children in an acceptable way, that we thought we would present another subject.

What of the mother! does she never tire, never get cross, never wear out? She is not expected to; but how about worry, can she worry and hide it? She does many cially from the young who are carefree and sometimes thoughtless.

Some have called worry a disease, an impure, adulterated thought, a mixture of emotion and fear. All the world is laboring under muddled fear, which is about as helpful as clapping the brakes upon wheels toiling up hill. You know the air is as free and abundant as one hill. You know the arr is as rece and anumant as one could desire and you partake without thought, giving health and strength to the body. So partake of the Holy Spirit, strengthen the mind by talking with God just as you would a dear friend. Feel if you can that He is at your side. Think of better, higher, and holier things. It campt fall; and you will gain wisdom strength, and handiness. happiness.

Our young people are continually looking for happiness, and do not know the full meaning of trouble; and so do not wear a worried look and a sour disposition. Brick and mortar cannot orginate thought. I live in a house composed of flesh and bone governed by thought either good or bad. Cultivate the good and you will forget to worry.

Sometimes we think all manner of bad things may have happened to our children because they have stayed away a little longer than they should have done. Instead of trusting in God to take care of them. We let doubt in and make trouble of it and then worry and worry, with and make trouble of it and then worry and worry, winvery little sympathy from those around us.

Let us come with courage to the throne of Grace for help in every time of need, for the peace of God passeth all understanding. Rejoice in tribulation knowing the promises to the elect are sure. The effect of overcoming self is always uplifting to character and success depends on our earnestness.

What a variety of forms and conditions sin may

What a variety of forms and conditions sin may assume. It may be a thought, a word, a deed, or a desire. To have no proper thought, motive or desire in life is wrong. Therefore develop in thought.

Did worry ever bring you satisfaction or did it ever put money in your purse? I think not. It only unfits you for nature's best, and the divine law. It also brings wrinkles to the face and grey hairs to the head.

The mind is not bound, it is free to choose its own thoughts. The future holds for each one of us some-thing high and elevating. Don't crowd it out by worry. Appreciate the intelligence God has given. Climb the ladder a step at a time to mental, moral, and spiritual Realizing that Christ is our perfect model, press on, keeping his teaching ever in mind, and then you will have no room for worry.

ALWAYS UNPROFITABLE. You may worry when you're weary, You may worry when you're well; You may worry when life's dreary, Or when buds begin to swell; You may worry in December And keep worrying in May, But in any case remember That you cannot make it pay.

Yov may worry when disaster Hovers o'er you in the night; You may worry when your master Has declined to treat you right: You may worry when they've taken
The last chance you had away,
But the fact remains unshaken That you cannot make it pay.

--Chicago Record-Herald.

LOVE'S JUDGMENT.

Two women sat in the afternoon shade. Two women and one diminutive maid; The women worked while the baby played. The mother unheeding, saw not; but the other With heardening heart, (not being a mother), Thought punishment just for naughty deeds done, And quick as a flash, snapped the mother of none "I'd spank."

The mother, perceiving, looked down with a frown, Upon soiled face and hands and grimy new gown, The first impulse being to vent her displeasure, To take the advice and give in full measure. But a pleading face and a pitful lip That begged in a quivering voice, "not to whip,"
And childishly fearful, the little one said,
"Muvver, don't spank."

With a rush of love, the mother looked in
To the nook where the housewife so busy had been.
Four little round mud-pats, with the print of the hand
For the dinner's desert, the small cook had planned.
And four dolly children, with round, wondring eyes,
Awaiting, with patience, the baking of pies,
And said in her heart, "for this instinct let God Be thanked."

"Why don't you punish her good,"
With a frown, said the mother of none, "Iwould,"
"Spare the rod spoil the child," said she, but the other, "Spare the rod spoil the child," said she, but the other, Feeling sacred the duly that belongs to a mother, Said: "She but follows the impulse that naturally lies Within every woman, in baking her pies, "Twould be but to hinder that impulse

To spank."

How often, in life, like the mother of none We judge not the motive, but the action done. Give a doubt's benefit! withhold, like the other, Your judgment, in mercy, to friend or brother.

And one of life's lessons, dear mothers of none, Is charity's gift to the erring one To the conquering soul that is lenient in love, Render thanks.

-Kate Goodwin

MISCELLANEOUS

CONFERENCE NOTICES.

Clinter, Mo., District Conference will convent with the Fort Scott, Kansas, Branch Saturday, Feb. 27th, 1915. Fort Scott was selected by the last conference, but the time was left to the district presidency and the above date has been chosen.

W. S. Macrae, Dist. Pres.

The Western Montana District conference will convene at Deer Lodge, Dec. 5th and 6th, 1914. First session Saturday at 10 a.m.

Allen D. Secor, Dist. Sec. 14 S. Black Ave., Bozeman, Mont.

The Minnesota District Conference will convene with the Minneapolis Branch, Saturday and Sunday, December 5th and 6th, 1914, at which time the church there will be dedicated. Those wishing further information should address one of the reception committee whose addresses follow.

> Richard Fawcett, 1921 5th Ave. N. Chas. Johnson, 730 Upton Ave. N. Mrs. G. E. Wolfe, 526 Penn Ave. N. B. S. Lambkin, Dist. Pres.

North Dakota District Conference will meet at Far-North Dakota District Conference Will meet at rurgo, Jan. 1st to 3rd, 1915. Branch officers please take note and send your reports to J. E. Wildermuth, 12 Fourteenth St., South Fargo, N. D.

J. W. Darling, Dist. Sec.

Thorne, N Dak.

CONVENTION NOTICES.

The Western Maine District Sunday school convention will meet with the Mountainville Branch on Nov. 28, 1 p.

All who are interested in Sunday school work are m. All who are interested in Sunday school work are specially requested to be present. Let us all rally to the support of the Sunday school. It needs us and we need it. Delegates to the general convention will be elected. Reports from all schools requested to be in the hands of secretary not later than the 23rd.

Louise Eaton, Sec. Deer Isle, Maine, Wm. Anderson, Supt. Stonington, Maine.

The Minnesota District Religio Convention will be held The Minnesota District Religio Convention will be held at the Saints' Church on the corner of Queen and Fifth Avenues, North Minneapolis, Minn., on Friday, December 4th. A young people's prayer meeting will be held at nine in the morning after which the convention will convene. If you plan on coming correspond with Mrs. G. E. Wolf, 526 Penn. Ave. North, secretary of the Reception Committe.

E. M. Lambkin, Dist. Pres. Genevieve Whiting, Dist. Sec.

The Sunday school convention for the Eastern Montana District will convene at Andes, Montana, November Local secretaries who have not yet reported are requested to report at once

Mark C. Hutchinson, Dist. Sec.

NOTICE.

To the Columbus, Kans., Branch. A meeting is called on the 29th of November—the last Sunday in the month— to take into consideration the moving or disorganizing of said branch. All members are requested to be preser T. W. Chatburn, Dist. Pres.

TWO DAY MEETINGS.

The Akron, Ohio, Branch will hold a two days meeting on Saturday and Sunday, November 28 and 29. Saturday afternoon will be devoted to Religio-Sunday school institute work. The Saints from the other branches of the district are invited to meet with us.

Richard Baldwin, Dist. Pres.

Arrangements have been made for holding a two days meeting by the Toledo, Ohio, Branch on Saturday and Sunday, December 5 and 6. We would be pleased to have as many of the Saints from the other branches of the district as can possibly come to meet with us Richord Baldwin, Dist. Pres.

REVIVAL MEETINGS.

REVIVAL MEETINGS.

The Rich Hill, Mo., Branch is holding a two week's revival service, beginning Nov. 11th, conducted by F. C. Keck and assisted by Ed. Reynolds and W. S. Macrae. All neighboring branches are especially invited to attend the rally day Nov. 15th.

Booster Club. Beatrice Ferrell, Sec.

APPOINTMENT OF BISHOP'S AGENT. In and for the District of Kewanee, Illinois, of the Re-organized Church of Jesus Christ of Latter Day Saints.

organized Church of Jesus Christ of Latter Day Saints. This is to certify that upon the resignation of Bro. Charles L. Holmes as bishop's agent in and for the district of Kewanee, Illinois, and upon the recommendation of said district for the appointment of Bro. Henry C. Ziegenhorn of Joy, Illinois, the said Henry C. Ziegenhorn is hereby appointed as agent of the said district. This authorizes him to act as agent for the Presiding Bishopric of said Reorganized Church in and for the district of Kewanee.

The Bishopric takes pleasure in extending to Bro.

district of Kewance.

The Bishopric takes pleasure in extending to Bro.

Charles L. Holmes special thanks for his faithful and industrial work as agent of said district, and trust that in the new labors in which he is engaged the Lord may specially remember and bless and prosper him.

specially remember and oness and prosper nim.

To the Saints and friends of the Kewanee District, we bespeak for Bro. Henry C. Ziegenhorn their special kelp and assistance, and as his work is for the benefit of the children of our Heavenly Father, helping the needy, looking after the Lord's servants and providing for the aged and helpless, we hope each one will feel as he helps in the work that he is helping in the Lord's work and is presented "Join's cause." prospering Zion's cause.

The address of Bro. Henry C. Ziegenhorn is Joy, Illinois, R. F. D. 2. Saints and friends please remember and if he does not come to see you, call upon him either in person or by letter. Let us all work together for the accomplishment of the work entrusted to all and then there will be success and each will be blessed of the Master.

In the interest of the truth and in behalf of the Bishop. ric of said Church.

Very respectfully, L. Kelley, Presiding Bishop. Independence, Mo., Nov. 4, 1914.

THE YEARLY OFFER ON THE ENSIGN.

November and December are bargain months as usual, during which time the Ensign will be sent to non-memduring which time the Ensign will be sent to non-mem-bers at half price. This offer, as usual is good only in the United States possessions, as the extra postage to foreign countries prohibits this offer extending there. This offer is good only during the months of November and December. It is unfair and hardly honorable for a and December. It is untair and hardly honorable for a member to stop their paper and then subscribe in the name of a member of their family who does not belong to the church for the sake of getting it at half price. That is not the object of this offer. It is for the sake of spreading the gospel among outsiders.

Address, Ensign Publishing House, Independence, Mo.

CONFERENCE MINUTES.

Kentucky and Tennessee district conference convened at Farmington Branch, Oct. 24, with Bro. J. R. McClain, district president, in charge, and C. A. Nolan as associate. Branch reports: Foundry Hill, Liberty Hill, High ciate. Branch reports: Foundry Hill, Liberty Hill, High Hill and Farming Branch.

Voice and vote was extended to visiting Saints. A good representation was present. Officers reported as follows: J. R. McClain, William McClain, S. E. Dickson, C. A. Nolan, J. Overcast, and B. Cobb. Bishop's agent reported receipts of $167.50, expenditures $167.50. Farming Branch is one of the oldest land marks that stands as a monument to the cause, showing the efforts produced by the earlier laborers who broke the ground in early days. This place has entertained conference two consecutive sessions. Certainly the hospitality of the Saints there is commendable.

consecutive sessions. Certainly the nospitality of the Saints there is commendable.

One thing was noticed—"Sheaves lie there ungathered." This field is in need of young, single men, who are void of responsibilities of a family, who can thrust in their sickle and take the place of those who are forced to spend a portion of the time to supply needs of their familiae.

Conference adjourned to meet at call of president at Foundry Hill.

C. A. Nolan, Sec. Pro. Tem

Kewance District held its 176th conference (since its organizaton in 1863) at East Moline, Ill., on Oct. 31 and Nov. 1, 1914. Elders O. E. Sade and Chas. L. Holmes pre-sided; Mary E. Gillen acted as secretary. Ten branches resided; Mary E. Gillen acted as secretary. Ten branches reported as follows: Kewanee 133, loss 2; Millersburg 96, gain 6; Joy 86, gain 2; Twin City 83, gain 2; Dahinda 70, gain 7; Canton 58, no change; Mathersville 51, gain 4; Peoria 57, gain 4; Rock Island 28, loss 2.

Bishop's Agent, Chas. L. Holmes report showed total collections with balance since May to have been 8977.94; total disbursements same time were $1031.60; balance due agent $63.60. Audited and found correct.

As district treasurer Bro. Chas. Holmes reported total collections to have been $67.35; total disbursements $57.76; balance on hand, $0.59.

A bill for $10.99 was allowed the secretary in pay-

A bill for $10.99 was allowed the secretary in payment of bill for loose leaf system of recording materials.

Committee on disorganization of Canton and Media Committee on disorganization of Canton and Media Branches reported on the condition at Media, and said that they had visited said branch on Oct. 3rd, and found it advisable to disorganize. Had given organ in payment of rent due; had sold pulpit for $6.00 and turned money into district treasury. President and secretary of district were authorized to give letters of removal to the remaining members of this branch.

Presidency reported on the ordination of James Dawson of Dahinda! said matter had been deferred for want of sufficient evidence of the call.

Motion that Kewanee District withdraw from the reunion organization after the next coming reunion was passed. It was decided to take steps to hold a reunion after that, as nearly in the center of district as prac-

Chas. J. Holmes gave notice that he had tendered his resignation to the bishop as agent, and Henry C. Ziegen-horn was recommended to the bishop to succeed him.

Elders O. E. Sade, Geo. Pinc, Kitty Pinc, J. R. Grice, C. E. Willey, Carrie Holmes, Truman Ziegenhorn were elected delegates to the next General Conference. Those present to be empowered to cast the full delegate vote of the district; in case of division, a majorty and minority

On Sunday afternoon, the new church on 16th Ave., East Moline, was dedicated. Alfred Needham offered the prayer, and Elder O. E. Sade preached the dedicatory

Next conference will be held at Buffalo Prarie, subject to call of the presidency.

Mary E. Gillin.

115 Clarke Ave., Peoria, Ill.

DIED.

DIED.

Reed.—Bro. Elmer Reed died at Montrose, Iowa, October 15th, 1914. He was born in Oswego, Co., N. Y., Feb. 18th, 1842. Served four years in 1st Iowa Calvary, Co. A. Was married to Miss Catharine Hillbourn, December 6th, 1866. Four children survive—Mrs. Samuel Wharton of Keckuk, Joseph, Clarence and Miss Ethel along with their mother, of Montrose. He was baptized by Elder Joseph Snively, Aug. 29th, 1896, and confirmed by Elders R. Etzenhouser, C. Scott and J. Whitchend. The funeral was conducted at the M. E. Church by Elder James McKlernan at 2 p. m., October 18th, 1914. G. A. R. Memoriai service at the grave. Interment in Montrose Cemetery. service at the grave. Interment in Montrose Cemetery.

ENSIGN PUBLICATIONS.
And Other Books for Sale by the Ensign Publishing House.
Zion's Ensign, the missionary paper, containing gospie sermons and articles, church news and interesting the service of the containing gospie sermons and articles, church news and interesting the service of the containing gospie sermons and articles, church news and interesting the containing gospie sermons and articles, church and the containing gospie sermons and articles, church and comments of proper makes and comments of proper makes and comments of the gospie, taken from the Bible, Book of Mormon and Doctrine and Covenants. A very handy reference book. Paper covers, 10c; cloth, 15c; leather.

Our Missionaries in Bible Lands. A compilation of interesting views, accompanied with comments, on Experimental and the property of the property o CAMBRIDGE AND BAGSTER BIBLES. F65X—India Paper edition, French Moroc-co, divinity circuit, red under gold edges. Size, 5%x3%, only % inch thick. S1.50 as F65X, with button clasp

The Christian System $1.00

CAMBRIDGE AND BAGSTER BIBLES.

Torder by Number.

H125X — Cambridge Teachers' edition.
French Moroeco, India paper, silk sewed, opens flat, references, concordance, encyclopedia, helps, etc., and yet only % inch thick by 4%, by 6%, and weighs only 14 ounces; a very handy book $2.00

H131X—The same as H125X, except it is leather lined and French Levant leather lined and French Levant Morocco cover $3.35

H140X—Same as H125X, but has Perisian Morocco cover $4.50

J45—French Seal, flexible overlapping, illustrated, self-pronouncing, red under gold edges, button clasp, 5½x3%

E16—French Morocco, divinity circuit, red under gold edges, button clasp, 5½x3%

S125—French Morocco, divinity circuit, red under gold edges, button clasp, 5½x3%

S125—French Morocco, divinity circuit, red under gold edges, button clasp, 5½x3%

S125—French Morocco, divinity circuit, red under gold edges, button clasp, 5½x3%

S125—S125—Same as S125, except it is patent indexed s2.50

S126—Same as S125, except it is patent indexed s2.5130—Same as S125, leather lined $2.50

H15—A fine little Bible at a low price. F66X—Same as F65X, With Delta St.60
R65X—Large type Bible in small compass, 8½x5½, 1 inch thick, India paper, French Morecce, divinity circuit, red under gold . 3,2 30
R70X—Same as R65X, except binding French Levant and leather lined. NEW TESTAMENTE.
E200—Leatherstic cover, red addressed from the second se NEW TESTAMENTE.

24.20—Leatheratte cover, red edges. $0.15
E212—French Mcrocco, limp, red under gold.

25.20—Leather Mcrocco, limp, red under gold.

25.20—Leather Mcrocco, limp, red under gold.

25.20—Leather Mcrocco, limp, red under gold.

26.207X—Perial Mcrocco, odge, silk sewed, round corners, red under gold edges, black faced type, thin India paper. This is a beautiful little Bible. Because of the thin India paper it is only % of an inch thick. of scenes in Bible lands.........$1.35 The Bible for the home use Large, clear print, French Morocco, divin-ty circuit, round corners, red under gold edges ..........$2.60 gold edges $2.60.

A model Bible. India paper, black faced minion type, French Morocco divinity circuit, linen lined, rouncorners, red under gold edges, 725.

5% inches $2.50. decent in the control of the control OXFORD TESTAMENTS.

4½ 80.50 We give such Bibles as are carried in stock, but can supply any Bible on reasonably short notice. The Oxford line of Bibles is very extensive, from which we list a few of the best and most popular ones.

TRACTS.

The following tracts are excellent and suitable for distribution among those not identified with the latter day work. They may be obtained, all of one kind or assorted as desired, at the following prices except as otherwise noted:

Secondary 100 of 100 o otherwise noces copies
copies
dozen copies 100 copies No less than 50 copies at 100 rate.
"Why I Became a Latter Day Saint," by
Elder Joseph Luff.
"Future Punishment," by Elder R. C.

Evans.

Evans.

"The Book of Mormon; Evidences of Its Divinity," by Elder R. C. Evans.

"Creed Making," by Elder I. M. Smith.

"Good News." A tract of tracts on several different subjects by as many writers.

"The Church of Christ," by Elder Edward Ramie. Rannie.

"Who Was Joseph Smih," by Elder J. W.

"A Glimpse at the Government of God," by Elder Paul M. Hanson. "Reasons Why. Shall We Hear Them?' Revised edition. By Elder J. W. Peterson.

Revised edition. By Elder J. W. Peterson.
"Twelve Reasons Why I Believe The Book of Mormon," by Elder Charles Fry.
"Joseph Smith; Was He a Prophet of God?" by Elder R. C. Evans.
The following at special prices named: "What We Believe," an epitome of the faith of the Church. Per dozen 5 cents; 50 for 20 cents; 100, 35 cents.
"Items of Teaching Found in the Book of Mormon." Compiled by the Independence Religio Good Litertaure Committee. A tract of ten pages. Three for 5 cents; 126 for 15 cents; 100 for $1.00.
"Latter Day Saints: Who Are They" by

"Latter Day Saints; Who Are They" Elder T. W. Williams. Three for 5 ce 12 for 15 cents; 100 for $1.00.

"Is Water Baptism Essential to Salva-tion?" by Elder Joseph Luff. Three for 5 cents; 12 for 15 cents; 50 for 40 cents; 100 for 75 cents.

cents; 12 for 15 cents; 50 for 40 cents; 100 for 75 cents.

"Seventy-one Theological Questions." Per dozen, 10 cents; per 100, 60 cents.

Elder's Diary. A handy little book for accurately keeping account of ministerial labor by simply jotting down figures in the proper column, the printed headings supplying the rest. A financial record also is a convenient part of the book. This is suitable for all holding the Melchisadee Priesthood, Price ....$0,10

Priest's Diary. Arranged similar as the Elder's Diary, but provides for labors connected with the office work of the Priest. Price ....$0,10

Teacher's Diary. Arranged for the duties and Labors of the Peacher. For the control of the Price

So.10

Evanalia Lost. Duet arranged for soprano and tenor or two female voices. Price 30.10

Song of Admonition. A song of seven verses, given by the Spirit through Elder Joseph Luff. Suitable size to be fastened in hymnal. Price 5 cents per dozen; per 100. 47.55

Fully Persuaded. A song written by Elder Luff. Price, 5 cents per dozen; per 100. 30.25

Book of Mormon Post Card. Quotations from the second chapter of Jacob, of the Book of Mormon, condemning polygamy. This is an excellent way to get the position of the control of the cont Triends and acquaintances.

per dozen $0.10

Rules. Local library rules, per dozen $0.05

Circulating Library rules, per dozen, $0.10

en, $0.10 Library

en, $0.10 sunday School Library Regula-$0.05

Address
ENSIGN PUBLISHING HOUSE,
Independence, Mo.

OFFICERS VISITING CARD

OFFICERS VISITING CARD
We have for sale a universal visiting card to be used by Branch Officers. It is arragned with spaces for recording names of those in families belonging to the church and also for those not belonging, space for noting condition, dates of visits (day, month and year), and names of visiting officers, also space for remarks. This card when properly filled out shows the names of all members of the family visited, normembers as well as members and whether their spiritual condition is excellent, fair or poor, the name of the officer visiting the family and the date of the visit, also the address of the family, and any other information it might be wise to add under head of Remarks. There should be at least one card for every family in the branch. The cards are 4x7% inches. The price is 8 cents a dozen or 40 cents a hundred. Address, Ensign Publishing House, Independence, Mo.

UNITED ORDER OF ENOCH HOUSE

Everybody Welcome, Saints and Strangers No. 102 North River Boulevard, near the Stone hurch. Best accommodations. Prices reasonable, Bell Phone 613

Chas. A. and Amy T. Gurwell
IN CHARGE

FOR SALE
Fine 50 foot vacant lot, 24th and Troup.
Streets paved, four blocks from Chelsea Saints
Church. Address "Owner" 1928 N. 24th St.
Kansas City, Kans.

$10 REWARD $10

By a young practical farm manager for any steady and honorable position. References exchanged. Address S. A. Thorn. Care of Ensign Independence, Mo.

WAR ATLAS

Cran's Atlas of the war comprising 16 pages 11x14½ and cover, giving fine maps of all the nations of Europe, those in war or the beautiful to be esuccially emphasized. On the likely to be especially emphasized. On the two inside cover pages is given the army and navy equipment of all the European nations as well as the United States and Japan. With this Atlas in connection with daily news one may be able to locate the movements of the armies and have a more comprehensive idea of how the war is being

ONLY 25 CENTS

Get them of

Independence, Mo.

Ensign Publishing House, FAST LOSING POPULARITY

FAST LOSING POPULARITY.

The question is also asked: "How is the saloon to be destroyed?" It is being destroyed from the economic side. Great trunk railroad lines will not hire men withdraw the saloon that it has been a summary to the saloon that it has been a summary to the saloon that it has been a summary to the saloon that the runs and the saloon that the runs and the saloon that the runs and the saloon that the runs and the saloon that the runs and the saloon that the runs and the saloon that the runs and the saloon that the runs and the saloon that the runs and the saloon that the saloon that the saloon that the saloon that the saloon that the saloon that the saloon that the saloon that the saloon throughout his domain in Europe, in the interest of efficiency and patriotism. Secretary banless saloon the saloon throughout his domain in Europe, in the interest of efficiency and patriotism. Secretary banless removed the wine mess from the officers of the United States navy, on the ground that is was not good for the public service.—The Christian Herald.

UNIVERSAL DIARY.

UNIVERSAL DIARY.

We now have a universal diary, suitable for any minister from deacon up, made to conform with the universal report blanks. The property of the same size and shape as the Third was the same size and shape as the will contained being about 24 pages in the grace, there being about 24 pages in the front and back for shannial record, and space for 12 months record of ministerial work performed. The price is the same as the others were sold at, only 10 cents. Address Ensign Publishing House, Independence, Mo.

WANTED

WANTED

I wish to exchange 1-4 section, 85 acres broke, all fenced, no rock. About 8 miles of Town. Small barn, floored. House 14x20 two rooms down one up, porch on south. In Alberta, Canada, For same value on small farm in the regions roundabout. Address,
Lee German, Nutana, Sask. Canada.

Lee German, Nutana, Sask. Canada.

FOR SALE.

A very desirable Apartment House 2 blocks from Stone Church, 1 block from car line. Modern. Fine opportunity for some family of Saints who wish to secure property in Independence that will bring them an income. $4000 cash will handle it. Address "XX" care Ensign Publishing House, Independence, Mo.

GINSENG.

The growing of GINSENG is a profitable industry, an Agricultural Business with good profits attached. Persons with a small parcel of land can start a good paying business with a small in-send for our booklet, "The A B C of Ginseng", get our prices, and learn how to better your financial condition. Address,

Chas. F. Church & Son.

Lamoni, Iowa

W. E. MESSENGER, M. D.

Physician and Surgeon. Calls answered day or night. Office and Residence 806 W. Maple Ave. Bell Phone 12 Independence, Mo.

Special attention given to Anesthetics

Loose Leaf Sheets

For Local Religio Secretary's Record

Per dozen, 10 cents; per 100 $0.60 If you have not seen them, send for free sample to

ENSIGN PUBLISHING HOUSE.

Independence, Mo.

POSITION WANTED

I would like employment where there is a Branch, or at least a few families of Saints, at carpenter work, or in a meat market or grocery or would rent a Farm with every thing furnished. Can furnish good reference. Your Brother in the Gospel of Christ. Albert Carney, 198 Twiss ave.,

Universal Class Card

Send for sample of the Universal Class Cards, for use in both Sunday School and Religio. The Indepen-The Independence Schools have them in general use.

Price per doz 8 cents, per 100 60 cents ENSIGN PUBLISHING HOUSE,

Independence, Mo.

RAILROAD TIME TABLES.

MISSOURI PACIFIC R. R.

MAIN LINE-EAST BOUND

202 K.C.& Joplin Mail' 12 63am 12 Kansas City & Joplin Local Mail 1 5095 805 am 28 Kansas City & Joplin Local Mail 1 50 433 am 31. Louis Special Stops for St Louis 1003 am 25 L. Louis Mail & Express Mail 5132 pm 45 L. Louis Mail & Express & Mail 5132 pm

WEST BOUND.

6 02 a m 6 57 a m 9 32 a m 9 01 a m 2 07 p m 4 51 p m 6 25 p m Joplin to Kansas City St. Louis to California Special Sedalia, and Nevada Local 7 Fast Mail (no stop)
207 Joplin to Kansas City Express
1 Colorado and St. Joe Express
621 St. Louis Local (all stops)

LEXINGTON BRANCH-EAST BOUND.

22 K.C. to Sedalia

23 Sedalia to Kansas City 621 Sedalia to Kansas City

T. A. JOHNSON, Agent, Independence, Mo

SIGN

Entered at the Post Office at Independence, Mo., as Second Class Matter

OUR CREED: "ALL TRUTH."

VOL. 25

INDEPENDENCE, MISSOURI, THURSDAY, NOVEMBER 19, 1914

NO. 47

ZION'S ENSIGN

Published by the Reorganized Church of Jesus Christ of ter Day Saints, every Thursday, at Independence, Mo., Latter Day Sain at $1.00 por year.

CHARLES FRY, Editor W. H. DEAM, Bus, Manager

In writing concerning subscriptions, always sive the nam of the Post Office to which your paper has been going, as by so doing the stof hours in looking for It may be avoided.

When desiring a change of address always give the old as well whether it is a enewal or a new subscription a slway state whether it is a enewal or a new subscription. In making remittances Money Orders are preferable. If coin is sent it should be folded in a card so it will not lose out and then enant dive your full address. All business letters should be addressed to the Raising Publishing House, and do not put matter intended for publication on same sheet with that which is of a business nature. Address all letters and make all remittances payable to

ENSIGN PUBLISHING HOUSE, Independence, Mo

HOPE.

'Tis better to hope, though the clouds hang low, And to keep the eyes uplifted; or the bright blue sky will soon peep through When the ominous clouds are rifted. There was never a night without a day
Or an evening without a morning;
And the darkest hour, as the proverb says,
Is the hour before the dawning.

Seek, then, to weave in the web of life A bright and a golden filling,

And to do God's will with a gladsome heart And hands that are ready and willing; For the sunny soul that is full of hope, And whose trust in God ne'er faileth, Knows God is love, and God is light, Though at times the storm prevaileth.

JUSTIFICATION FOR WAR.

The world has had, and still has a variety of standards by which to judge of the justifiableness of war, but the highest and only true one is that set forth in the revealed word of God. That such a standard is needed is shown by the pages of history which record numerous disasterous wars having their origin in trifling causes and resulting in losses quite disproportionate to the grievances, and even Christian nations today would do well to look more carefully into the teachings of the revealed word, making a fuller application of them in their international relationships.

Surely the principles of justice, honor and love, which properly govern individuals in their dealings one with another, should have general application to the nations of the earth, and the same spirit of forbearance should be cultivated, but if individuals have failed in fulfilling the whole law, the nations have failed far more, for forbearance is scarcely known among them unless it be for policy's sake. Jesus taught against the false standard of "an eye for an eye, and a tooth for a tooth," and urged that men "resist not evil." They were not to take justice into their own hands and in the spirit of revenge retaliate for either supposed or real wrongs, or to guard so closely their personal interests and honor that the slightest infringement would become the occasion for wreaking vengeance upon the violator. Christ's Attitude.

With Christ there were other things vastly more important than "personal honor." Principles of right were ever first in his teaching and practice, while self was counted as secondary or as nothing. The motive of his whole life was the establishment and maintenance of right, and neither his personal preservation nor exaltation was allowed to take precedence over it. In his diplomatic relations with Satan, he defended himself by standing for right principles, and through suffering extremely for food, his physical needs were held in obeyance in order that right might be maintained. Favoritism often leads men to condone wrong in others, but Jesus condemned evil in his disciples as quickly as he did in the Pharisees as when Peter urged him not to go to Jerusalem and goold the danger to his life, and Jesus sold to him: "Get thee behind me, Satan: thou art an offense unto me; for thou savorest not the things that be of God, but those that be of men." (Matthew 16:23.) He condemned the sins of his own nation also. These things show sins of his own nation also. that in the estimation of the Son of God right was more important than self, friendship, or national integrity.

The tendency to hate an enemy and seek his destruction is not according to the gospel standard of ethics. Christ said: "Love your enemies, bless them that curse you, do good to them that hate you, and pray for them which despitefully use you, and persecute you, that ye may be the children of your Father which is in heaven," and this instruction may apply to nations as well as persons. Here again we see that personal interests are to be sacrificed to right, that the interests of all men may be conserved, for the spirit of retaliation and revenge is never the spirit of justice, and a policy of war invariably multiplies hatreds, and often leaves revenge mouldering perhaps for generations to ultimately break out in still more malignant form.

Is Force Ever Justifiable?
But one may ask, "Are men to submit to every manner and degree of indignity without resistance, perhaps to their destruction? Are not men and nations justified in maintaining their exist-We have already seen that principle is the thing to be maintained, if need be at the sacrifice of life itself, and whether that is to be accomplished passively or by aggressive action matters little. If force can not be used without violating right principle then it is better to suffer passively even unto death, but if to remain passive itself violates the right, and force is necessary for its maintenance, then force must be justifiable. Jesus suffered indignities rather than use force against his personal exemies, but when he came into the temple and found that the practices of the men who had made merchandise of the sacred things of God, were destroying pustice and right from the whole nation, he made a whip of cords and drove them out. When his person only was involved he was passive, but when right principle effecting all men was at stake he did not hesitate to be aggressive.

What Later Revelation Says.

Coming to latter day revelation we find some very plain statements relating to justification of war, which agree with the teachings of Christ found in the New Testament. At a time when the saints of the Church in Missouri were suffering persecution which deprived them of their property and endangered their lives the following statement was made in a revelation received at Kirtland, Ohio, datd August 6, 1833:

And I give unto you a commandment, that ye shall And I give unto you a commandment, that ye shall forsake all evil and cleave unto all good, that ye shall live by every word which proceedeth forth out of the mouth of God; for he will give unto the faithful, line upon line, precept upon precept; and I will try you, and prove you herewith; and whoso layeth down his life in my cause, for my name's sake, shall find it again; even life eternal; therefore, be not afraid of your enemies; for I have decreed in my heart, saith the Lord, that I will prove you in all things whether you will shide in will prove you in all things, whether you will abide in my covenant, even unto death, that you may be found worthy; for if ye will not abide in my covenant, ye are not worthly for in ye will not annue in my covenint, ye will not annue in my covenint, or an one worthly of me; therefore, renounce war and proclaim peace, and seek diligently to turn the hearts of their children to their fathers, and the hearts of the fathers to the children." Doctrine and Covenants 95:3.

Here it is required of the children of the kingdom to forsake all evil and cleave unto all good, to live by every word that proceedeth forth out of the mouth of God, to be not afraid of their enemies even in the face of death, and to renounce war and proclaim peace. The high ideal taught by Christ of principle before person is again set forth, and persecution with threatened death is not justifiable cause for war. Christ said that by loving their enemies his disciples would prove themselves the children of God, and here, by the faithful observance of the covenant made with God, they prove themselves worthy of Christ. The holding inviolate of this covenant is more important than the saving of life itself. Their attitude was to be against war and in favor of peace. But we read further:

And again, this is the law that I gave unto mine ancients, that they should not go out unto battle against any nation, kindred, tongue, or people, save I, the Lord, command them. And if any nation, tongue, or people should proclaim war against them, they should proclaim war against them, they should be a second to the process of the control of or people should proclaim war against them, they should first lift up a standard of peace unto that people, nation or tongue, and if that people did not accept the offering of peace, neither the second nor the third time, they should bring these testimonies gefore the Lord; then, I, the Lord, would give unto them a commandment, and institutions. justify them in going out to battle against that nation, tongue, or people, and I, the Lord would fight their battles, and their children's battles and their children's tles, and their children's battles and their children's children until they had avenged themselves on all their enemies, to the third and fourth generation; behold, this is an ensample unto all people, saith the Lord your God, for justification before me. Doctrine and Covenants, Again the high ethical standard of the gospel is maintained in this teaching, showing that nations are not justified in proclaiming war upon the first infringement of their rights, nor for trifling causes. A nation which followed the law of Christ would give no occasion for war, but should war be proclaimed against it an effort must be made to effect peace even to the second and third time. Should these efforts fail the innocent nation is then justified in going to war, and God taking cognizance of its faithfulness and integrity (f purpose, and the perversity of its enemies, will ally himself with it and fight its battles. Without such efforts, a plunge into war involving the sacrifice of human life, and lasting misery upon the living, is not justified. The statement that "this is an ensample unto all people," shows its application to all nations.

Under Persecution.

The divine counsel given in December, 1833, to the saints who had been unlawfully driven from their homes in Jackson County, Missouri, through persecution, agrees with the above teachings. It says: "It is my will that they should continue to importune for redress, and redemption, by the hands of those who are placed as rulers, and are in authority over you, according to the laws and constitution of the people which I have suffered to be established, and should be maintained for the rights and protection of all flesh, according to just and holy principles." (Doctrine and Covenants 98:10.) The laws and constitution with the officers of the land are here recognized and their authority acknowledged, and though in the loss of all earthly possessions the saints had strong provocation for taking the law into their own hands, they were admonished to be subservient to proper authority and abide by right prin-The line of procedure given was:

Let them importune at the feet of the judge; and if he heed them not, let them importune at the feet of the governor; and if the governor heed them not, let them importune at the feet of the president; and if the president dent heed them not, then will the Lord arise and come forth out of his hiding place, and in his fury vex the nation, and in his hot displeasure, and in his fierce anger, in his time, will cut off these wicked, unfaithful, and unjust stewards. Doctrine and Covenants, 98:12.

This instruction deals with the attitude of an injured people toward its own government rather than that of one nation toward another, but the general principle is the same, except that under no circumstances is violence to be used. They were to seek redress through appropriate channels, and if, after exausting all peaceful resources, redress was not given, the testimony of their efforts was to be left with God himself who would plead their cause in his own time and It must be apparent however, that manner. when a whole nation or people is oppressed by the ruling power, being denied the common rights of mankind, and when their appeals to their oppressors fail, their only recourse is to take up arms for their own deliverance, as did the American Colonies against the oppressions of George That the Lord approved of the Revolutionary uprising is shown by the statement that he "established the constitution of this land, by the hands of wise men whom I raised up unto this very purpose, and redeemed the land by the shedding of blood."

The Bible history records wars which were authorized of God showing 3 at conditions sometimes exist under which war is instinable without what we have noted we conclude that selfish there ests, whether individual or national, are not sufficient justification, but only when the common rights of mankind are denied or invaded is a resort to force approved of God. The effort of all should be toward peace even under provocation. The enemy who rejects the third proposal for peace invites the vengeance of God. Let Christian nations observe the spirit of the gospel and there will be no cause for war.

INDEPENDENCE ITEMS.

Sunday forenoon Bro. E. A. Smith of the First Presi-ency occupied the preaching hour. He first read part the 32d and 33d chapters of Isaiah, and then took dency occupied the preacting nour. The inter teach got of the 32d and 33d chapters of Isaiah, and then took for his text "The inside of the cup," from Matt. 23:25, where Christ accuses the Pharisees of making the out-side of the cup clean but within it was full of extor-tion and excess. He said he did not present that text tion and excess. He sam he did not present that ever as applying to the congregation, but he made many ap-plications—to social circles where indivduals are as clean and pure as the lily without, but within are full of corrup-tion, and to large cities like New York where the outward atow is a display of magnificence and stupendous achieve-ment in artistic and messive constitutions but the inward stow is a display of magnineence and superacous accure-ment in artistic and massive constructions, but the inward workings were full of corruption. He applied it to nations and to individuals. As individuals it is right to be clean outwardly but more important to be clean inwardly.

Bro. Smth spoke again at night, his sermon being on on the perfecting of character, using as a basis Ephesians 4:13: "Till we all come in the unity of the faith, and of the knowledge of the Son of God, unto a perfect man, unto the measure of the stature of the fulness of Christ," using the Christ standard of measurement.

Christ," using the Christ standard of measurement. Sunday morning Elder O. R. Miller began a series of meetings on the south side, the Second Independence Branch. We don't know how long they will continue, but at least throughout the week. Through sickness we did not hear any of Bro. Miller's sermons in the stone church and personally could not speak as to the interest, but we understand from Bro. Miller that the crowd interest that the crowd in-Bro. Vernon O. Beal who has charge of the typesetting machine and is "job" hand in the Ensign office, quietly took unto himself a companion Sanday evening last, himself and Sr. Emma A. Lund being joined in wedlock, himself and Sr. Emma A. Lund being joined in wedlock, at the home of the bride's parents, Bro. and Sr. J. Lund, West Walnut Street, Bro. W. H. Garrett, officiating. Only relatives of the families represented were present. They have gone to housekeeping in Bro. J. C. Foss' home, who have moved to the east for a time.

Elder S. S. Smith was called home last week from his mission in Illinois on account of the condition of Sister Smith's health, and he is taking her to Bisbee, Arisens where Rea Aron White is with his wife also Arizona, where Bro. Amon White is with his wife, also Brn. James Kelley and W. H. Mannering. The Saints in Illinois where Bro. Smith has been laboring will take notee of this change, and any one desiring to write to Bro. Smith will address him as above, Elder Wm. Newton returned last Friday from England. where he has been since a year ago last summer, and where he has taken unto himself a wife who came with him, as also Bro. and Sr. John Allen and eight children. These were mostly of Bro. Newton's converts. Elder F. C. Warnky has moved from Kansas City back to Independence, and is building a house on West Electri Street about a block and a half southwest of the Stone Church.

INDEPENDENCE, SECOND BRANCH.

The speaker for November 8th at 11 a. m., was Elder G. 11. Shearer. John 3 and 4 was taken for his text. In the course of his remarks he showed how that sin was the transgression of law, and many good thoughts were

The Sunshine Band met at 4:30 with a large attendance. The Sunshine Band met at 4:30 with a large attenuance.

A good program was rendered which was of an educational nature as well as entertaining. This band of workers are scattering sunshine where it is needed.

At the 7:30 hour Elder J. A. Roberts in his forceful manner held the attention of those present. It was made plain that while there was a necessity in former days.

for seeking the old paths the same was in order in these the latter days.

series of meetings was begun last Sunday morning. Elder O. R. Miller being the speaker. After reading the Lord's prayer as found in Matt. 6th chapter some comments were made on the importance of prayer and how ments were made on the importance of prayer and now to pray, showing that the attitude assumed in prayer is not so important as the sincerity of it. At the same hour Bro. A. C. Martin endeavored to interest the little folks in the basement, instructing them how to live a life that would be approved of by the Lord.

Bro. Miller was also the speaker at the evening hour, Bro. Miller was also the speaker at the evening hour, holding the attention of a large audience. He spoke on the former day apostacy, also of the danger ahead for those that drift into the ways of he world. The or-clustra from the first branch, including about twelve instruments, gave half an hour of splendid musical

On Monday evening Bro. Miller again spoke to a crowded house, including a number of outsiders and visitors from other branches. He quoted Luke 17:21 with many other passeges. Referred to the church as we have it today as being the best organization on earth we have it today as being the best organization on earth and must be identified by Christ when he returns as the same organized church that he left on the earth. The speaker promised to eccupy again Tuesday evening. An old faritioned dinner has been planned for Thanksgiving day to be given at the Curtis Hall. It will be in charge of the Social Service Club. Many good things including chicken with turkey excluded. Program for the day announced later.

OMAHA, NEBRASKA.

"Let us gather up the sunbeams. Lving all around our path. Let us keep the wheat and rose Casting out the thorns and cha Let us find our sweetest comfort, In the blessings of today,
With a patient hand removing
All the briars from the way."
Our sick are convalesing. Wm. Eden has returned home from the hospital. Bro. Arthur Spence expects to leave the hospital this week. Sr. C. E. Butterworth is grad-ually gaining strength, and Sr. Baldwin in Council Bluffs is better, although has been very ill. We solicit the prayers of the Saints for these, as well as Sr. Josie Harrington, who has been seriously afflicted for some weeks.

rington, who has been seriously unincted no roome weeks. Elder H. A. Higgins of Nebraska City, gave us a very interesting sermon Sunday evening. Those worshipping with us during the day were, Bro. LeRoy Wood of Salt Lake City, Bro. E. D. Briggs of Nebraska City, Sr. Spence with her sister from Council Bluffs. Gladys Evlyn, Infant daughter of Bro. C. E. and Marie Moran was Paul N. Craig and M. A. Peterson.

The contest between the Reds and Blues in the Religio has increased the attendance. Sunday evening, November 15th the Blues gave the program, and the next Sunday the Reds will have it in charge.

Sr. F. L. Lang at 3016 Oak St., will entertain the Woman's Auxiliary Wednesday afternoon. A fancy-work shower will be given for the Bazaar, to be held in the Bee Bldg., December 16th and 17th.

"Strange we never prize the music. 'Till the sweet-voiced bird has flow ige that we should slight the violets Till the lovely flowers are gone; Strange that summer skies and sunshine Never seem one-half so fair. Until winter's snowy pinions, Shake the white down in the air."

345 Omaha Nat. Bank Bldg.

SEATTLE.

Alice Cary Schwartz.

We are holding services each night this week at Riverside—one of our missions. The interest is good but the attendance quite meager. We are trying to do our part and leave the result with the Master of the

Bro. F. M. Sheehy our missionary in charge, and wife, arrived in our city on Tuesday for a short sojourn. They had spent five pleasant days at Portland. He is ticketed for three sermons at least, and she for "The City Foursquare" and others. We and the Saints are pleased to meet them and hope their stay will do us good.

We spent a pleasa time last Sunday at our Everett

Mission 30 miles north, where we held two pleasant services. Bro. C. Oliver is developing into a splendd supporter of the work there. In time they are determined to establish a regular place for services and start a Sun-day school. A Bro. and Sr. Walls have lately located there and will be a beln.

Bro. F. W. Holman, one of the main props to the work here, was the morning speaker Sunday last. The at-tendance at the services was good during the day. The pastor preached at night.

Through a desire for a better and more systematic knowledge of the evidences of christianity, by resolution of the branch a Bible Study Class was started, to meet the first and third Sundays of each month at 5 o'clock, the lirst and third sundays of each month at 3 ociocs, for study. A lesson is previously prepared and placed upon the blackboard in the church. We have held one very interesting session with 32 in attendance. The Bible is the principal reference book with the other two books as collateral.

as collateral.

The Ladies Aid Society are busy preparing for a bazaar and dinner to be held in the near future. They are putting in a large gas range and other accessories for this purpose. They have a steady and wise hand at the helm in the person of Sr. H. E. Williams.

By the kindness of Bro. J. A. Saxe of San Francisco, and others, we hear echos from our old field of labor which give us joy. We still feel a deep love for the work

J. M. Terry.

102 No. 39th St., Seattle, Wash., Nov. 12.

There we we we will prove we we we we CORRESPONDENCE Benermerwermenthmermermermer

Howell, Mich., Nov. 1. Dear Ensign:—I have seen nothing in the Ensign about the conference held at McIvor, October 17 and 18. I think it was the best conference ever held in this district. There was perfect harmony all through and I think good anere was perrect narmony an unrougn and 1 think good will result from the meeting. There were quite a large number of the ministry there. Several were called and ordained to the priesthood. Patriarch Davis spoke in tongues and interpretations and in it the Saints were tongues and interpretations and in it the Saints were promised blessings if faithful.

One young lady was baptized and confirmed, and several children blessed. The Saints at McIvor are a noble band and the work there has grown wonderfully in the last two years. They have organized a branch and built a very comfortable and neat church.

built a very comfortable and neat church.

My testimony is that I am not ashamed of the gospel of Jesus Christ. I know that it is the power of God unto salvation. I ask the Saints to pray that the day will come that I may see my husband and children in the church. Bro. Orton is still laboring in and around Twining, and expects to see results from his work, for there is good interest. Satsu is busy too, as he always is when any good thing is going on he is always around. May God bless his children everywhere is my prayer.

Sr. S. A. Duglas.

Papeete, Tahiti, Oct. 9.

Dear Ensign:—The morning of August 22, 1914, I was awakened at daylight by the rattle of wagons and the conversation of persons going to market as they passed by in the street opposite our house. Our house or the house that was offered to us while we cared to occupy. It is a nice little cottage of three rooms with a veranda around three sides and a boulevard running in front and around the sea shore. Just beside, a few paces, is the new church that we are building. At the time of this letter the framework only was completed. Dear Ensign:—The morning of August 22, 1914, I was of a sudden the conversation in the street changed from the usual hum to one of excited exclamations. Te pahil (the steamship) Te Puritia (the Germans). War news had reached us some time previous, telling of the events at the beginning of the war. This being a French colony, and having heard of some German war vessels nearby we were a little apprehensive. I lost no time in dressing and climbing to the top of the church beliry to try to ascertain the cause of the commotion, a thing I was unable to learn from the conversation below with my limited knowledge of Tahitian.

It was drizzling rain but I could see coming upon the horizon two strange looking ships. Not being acquainted with the appearance of warships, I was not able to tell much about them. I quickly descended to the ground to look at the signal station which showed number 123. to look at the signal station which showed number 123.

A glance at the index card showed it to be a war vessel. They had not yet put up their flag so we could not tell whether they were friend or foe.

I ran down to the American consulate office in company with Bro. Ellis and while conjecturing upon the queer actions of the vessels outside the harbor; for we had observed them as they approached the harbor to pause while one slipped up opposite the city then return to the other for a moment then withdraw. At this moment a man came to the door and informed the consul that they were German and we had been given a few minutes to get off the streets and would soon open fire on the city.

Then began a foot race between Bro, Ellis and myself for about ten blocks down a crooked street. I arrived first to find the folks had been notified by a policeman that had made the round on a bleycle. The women were fidgety and asked a lot of questions that the men in their calm state either answered wrong or didn't hear in their caim state either answered wrong or didn't hear at all. One of the women wanted to change her dress. I thought it an inopportune time to primp, so seized our raincoats and started down the road that leads to the hills. The roads are not rocked as in Jackson County, but some of the same gumbo soil except perhaps a little mite stickier. There were about two thousand people ahead of us so you can imagine about the kind of traveling we had. Bro. May and wife, and Bro. Ellis and wife were ahead a little distance. They stopped at a bridge to try to catch a ride. Emma and I thought best to keep on afoot. It was an interesting sight to see a whole city of about three thousand people all having a mov-ing day at once and in the same direction. Every kind ing day at once and in the same direction. Every kind of vehicle was pressed into use; the people in their haste taking the possessions that appealed to them as of most value. Some were tottering under great loads of bedding, suit cases, bundles, etc. Some pulled spring wagons laden. One woman had four pieces of millinery and nothing else. A man carried a half grown hog. I presume the kind that wont eat corn. Perhaps some reader will doubt the existence of such an animal, but it is no the total the heart of the property joke; they live here. Chinamen carried great baskets containing almost the entire stock of merchandise from the little store around the corner.

When about a quarter mile from the shore front the cannon began to roar. The sharp crack of the little French guns was answered by the German men o'war. On-ward we trudged, Emma and I, as fast as we could, not ward we thuged phining and a set of the great guns would come tearing down the road mowing a path through this long stream of people.

I saw in a glass the flight of the people from Jerusalem in olden days with almost every phase of that prophecy (Matt. 24) reflected. About a mile out Emma gave out. We stopped by the roadside to rest a moment and try to catch a ride. Everybody seemed to have a load, Prescally there again a bandant but leads a ride. load. Presently there came a handcart by; loaded with miscellaneous articles and a cripple. This seemed the best opportunity and I lifted Emma up beside the cripple best opportunity and I litted Emina up desired the cryptory and lent a hand at the rear, pushing. I think it was one of the hottest days I have seen since we came to the Islands. Part of the prayer that Christ told those who filed from Jerusalem to pray was answered and we did not pray for it either; viz., that their flight be not in

I also thought of the hand cart expedition to Utah in and thought on the hang care expedition to Utah in the early day. I related the history of that expedition to Emma as we traveled. My mind was not engaged with the dangers behind or the destruction that would be meantable. with the dangers behind or the destruction that would be wrought by the bombardment that was going on. A caim consciousness of events past overtook me. I reflected what the events of a half hour had brought me. I had seen the flight from Egypt, had fled with the holy people from Jerusalem to the mountains; with the Saints from Legican County, and had suched a head early with people from Jerusalem to the mountains; with the Saints from Jackson County, and had pushed a hand cart with those poor people across the plains in the early day. It brought me some assurances that I can't put on paper. Finally we came to a nice little cottage by the road-side, and I suppose because of the thoughts of my spirit, I failed to see a large American flag floated from the porch. A voice of some acquaintance bade us stop, which we willingly obeyed. It was the temporary headquarters of the American Consul. Bro. May and family, Bro. Ellis and wife had caught a ride and had found a rest further on. I went upon the mountain to obtain a view of the battle that was raging. The first sight that came to view was a huge column of black smoke ascending from the stores of coal that the Germans failed to get; for the French had fired it rather than let it fall into the hands of the enemy, and of the burning city that they hands of the enemy, and of the burning city that they had set on fire from on board the ships by shelling it in retalliation for not being permitted to coal. Looking out to sea I saw two retreating gray instruments of death sailing away in a northernly direction. Messengers' brought us news of whole blocks of stores burned, men stayed that night at this comfortable retreat. The stayed and night at this contortance retreat. About twenty-five native saints who followed us stopped in the door yard, thinking that we could give them advice or comfort. We certainly wished that we could, as we saw night closing round them and nothing for their bed but the wet earth. They being used to live in the open air were earin. They being used to live in the open air were more able to endure the exposure than we would have been. Just before retiring we had a hymn and prayer by one of the native elders.

Emma and I had a good comfortable bed for the night.
We began watching the next morning for a ride back to the city to see if our houses had been molested in our absence, as we were in such a hurry to leave that we did not lock up, but found them as we had left them. About three blocks of the city was burned to the ground, We don't think this is the last of the war that we will see in our days, but we will be interested witnesses in these eventful days with the prophets with no words in our hands.

Till He comes, your brother,

A. H. Christensen

Peoria, Ill., Nov. 5. Editor Ensign:—A little more than one-half century has passed since Kewanee District has been organized. As early as the year 1860 there were at least two branches of the church in this section, namely at Abingdon and Henderson Grove. In November, 1863, an effort was made to organize the saints in a district, and the first made to organize the saints in a district, and the first district conference, proper, was held at Henderson, the next spring, March 5 and 6, 1864. Closely associated with these early days are the names of Joseph Smith, Alexander Smith, Mark Forscutt, W. W. Blair, Zenos

Alexander Smith, Mark Porscutt, W. W. Blair, Zenos Gurley and a host of others, none the less worthy. For more than fifty years men and women have labored, sacrificed, and prayed for this part of the Lord's work as revealed in the latter days. At least one man who has attended the first meeting in Galesburg in November 1863, is living, and still working for the establishment of truth. David S. Holmes who went there in the early morning of his life and who was a factor with others, now passed on, in bringing about the planting of the gospel standard in many places, still lives at Buffalo Prarie and attended the last session of Kewanee District, which session was held at East Moline, October 31,and November

During this interval branches were organized and added to the original number until altogether there have been twenty-three such organizations; but today there remain twenty-three such organizations; but today there remain but ten, with a total membership of nearly eight hundred.

Could all those who have either "planted' or "watered" the seed in this district be gathered together, what an army it would be and how these faithful ones will rejoice to learn that the work is yet being carried forward. From time to time, the ranks of the priesthood is replenished by young men who come forward to take up the work left unfinished by those who are called to pass.

Branches may become discoveraized in one locality. on. Branches may become disorganized in one locality, but another is organized in another place, so that the work of reaching the honest hearted seeker after truth work of reaching the honest hearted seeker after truth in northwest Illinois is not yet abandoned.

At the last session of the district conference held at East Moline last Saturday and Sunday, there was a fairly good attendance, and a very nice time had. Meetings were, generally, calm and peaceful. A difference of opinion as to how to best raise the "tobacco-using Saints" to the standard required by God, was the cause of some little discussion. some little discussion.
All other matters of business were handled with no friction whatever. We believe that the great majority of the Saints of Kewanee district are really interested in the uplift of all and that the tendency is upward, but in our very carnestness, we sometimes seem, at least, to have forgotten Paul's injunction to the Saints when he said, "Brethren, if a man be overtaken in a fault, ye which are spiritual, restore such an one in the spirit of meekness; considering thyself, lest thou also be tempted.' Gal. 6:1.

The preaching services were all very good. The speakers, D. S. Holmes, C. E. Willey, O. E. Sade and J. R. Grice seemed all to be blessed with good liberty, and we felt that the hearers must certainly be edified.

During the morning sacrament service, Bro. O.
Sade gave the "Voice of the Spirit." Also Bro. Gr Also Bro. Grice hour. The Saints Sade gave the "Voice of the Spirit." Also Bro. Grice sang what was given about the same hour. The Saints rejoiced and were comforted. Especially was this true of the Twin Gity Branch and the Rock Island Branch, who have labored so many years amidst great difficulty to erect and complete the little building which was dedi-

to crect and complete the little building which was dedicated during this conference. Of the ten branches now numbered in this district, six of them now own their building, and another one is in fair way to do so ere another conference shall have passed.

The passing away of the only resident High Priest within the district, John Chisnell, of Kewanee, is here noted. His life work was written into the history of not only the Kewanee Branch, but also the Kewanee District. And so those who were instruments in God's hands in the founding of this district will soon have passed on, and as we contemplate their passing, we are reminded that "this generation" is drawing to a close; and the thought will come, "are we as ing to a close; and the thought will come, "are we as ready to sacrifice and finish the work as were those who first were called to labor? Will we be found so doing?

Mary E. Gillin.

Tulsa. Okla., Nov. 11.

Editor Ensign:—The work in the Oklahoma field is gradually and surely building. We have just dedicated the new Latter Day Saint Church here in the liveliest town in the State. Tulsa is the oil center in the state of Oklahoma, and has a popluation of 35,000 which has mostly built up in the past ten years.

We have a few live Saints here who have aided very materially in the sudden growth of the work here in the past two years. Our genial Bro. W. N. Robinson lives here and has the distinction of running the best hotel in the state. Bro. Peter Adamson Jr., and Bro. E. D. Bailey are here in the coal mining business. Bro. J. A. Brown is the manager of one of the finest bakeries in the southwest. Bro. Lancaster is the live wire in the lumber business and a number of other good Saints compose the nucleus for the starting of the work in the new city. nucleus for the starting of the work in the new city They have a splendid new church paid for and dedicated two weeks ago, Brn. Aylor and Short being here for said two weeks ago, Brn. Aylor and Short being here for said event. The day was spent very profitably to all present, the assistance of Brn. O. L. James, Sr. Robinson, and Sr. Myers in the song service aided in no small way to make the day pleasant. The writer has continued the meeting with increasing interest and we are very hopeful for the work being firmly planted here. One find young man was baptized last Sunday and two more names were given last night and we are to continue over the control of the proof that the control of th next Sunday. The church is located in a new neighbor. hood, among outsiders, and they were shy at first, but hood, among outsiders, and they were shy at first, but are now coming our way. We have made many friends. Mr. and Mrs. Blake from southern Illinois came a few nights, as they were here visiting their relatives near the

The weather is fine as could be and the men have been busy. Brn. Peak and Chrestensen were with us here part of last week, and preached for us. One of the hardest customs we have had to contend with in the missionary work is the running method—not staying with a good interest long enough to develop the work. Just about the time we get an interest, then run away to a new point to repeat the experience. Paul was one of the best church builders we read of in the New Testa-ment history, and we see him staying where there was an interest and building the work.

We hope to turn to the Lamanite work for a few weeks, and the Christmas season will be observed as the usual custom is among them, for a tree and a week's meetings where there is a goodly number present.

Hopeful and busy at the post of duty, your co-worker,

Applegate, Mich., Oct. 28 Editor Ensign:-The Eastern Michigan district conference was held at McGregor, Oct., 24 and 25. The weather was not very promising but the Saints of God were determined to wend their way to the house of the Lord for termined to wend their way to the house of the Lord for spiritual food. The conditions changed and the weather was fine throughout the conference. Saturday morning prayermeeting was in charge of vice president, Elder Otto Fetting, assisted by Elder Williard Campbell, branch president, Apostle J. F. Curtis spoke of the troublesome times throughout the world and of the Saints at Jerus-lem having to leave that place on a very short notice, and of the serious illness of W. H. Kelley, after so long and faithful service or great the Traylor all to which and faithful service as one of the Twelve, all of which brought sorrow to our hearts.

brought sorrow to our hearts.

Elder Arthur Allen spoke of Apostle G. T. Griffiths being suddenly called home by telegram on account of the serious illness of his companion, and he requested that these dear saints be remembered in prayer by all. A very spiritual time was had and all felt to sing "Praise God from whom all blessings flow."

Conference business session convened at 10 o'clock with district president Wm. M. Grice in charge, and the following organization was effected. The district presidency with branch president preside with power to chose assistant. J. F. Curtis was chosen to preside, and F. O. Benedict, district secretary was elected as secretary for the conference, district chorister, Sr. Lizzie Palato, was elected organist. Emma Cadow was elected organist. elected chorister, Sr. Emma Cadow was elected organist Much interest was shown in the reading of individual reports of the priesthood. It was surprising to note how successful some of our local men have been. Truly it will encourage others to take hold and do their part, for will encourage others to take hold and do their part, for we are all laborers together with God. Branch reports were read. Some branches not re-porting for two or three years, looks like something was wrong. There was some confusion by the reports not being in hand of district secretary on time. A motion was adopted that the district send district president to general adopted that the district send district president to general conference and that each branch president solicit funds for their respective branches and forward to Wm. M. Grice, Croswell, Mich., R. D. 5. It was also voted to bear the R. R. fare of district chorister to this conference.

We were glad to have Brn. John Shields and R. D. Weaver of the Canadian missionary force with us. Preaching at 7:30 by J. F. Curtis, assisted by Arthur Allen.

Sunday morning prayermeeting at 8 o'clock in charge Patriarch John Shields assisted by Patriarch J. J. ailey. There were 3 prayers and 60 testimonies. A Bailey. Balley. There were 3 prayers and 60 testimonies. At close of prayer meeting Myron Carr and C. U. Grant were ordained to office of Elder and Geo. Williard to deacon. The blessings of God were enjoyed by all. At 11 o'clock Wm. Davis was the speaker and at 2 Bro. J. F. Custis. At 4 p. m. Sr. Plato had an hour devoted to short speeches on music, which was interesting and helpful. At 6 a missionary experience meeting consisting of 5 or 10 minute talks. Some of the experiences caused us to sorrow and rejoice together when some re-lated how they had been stoned, clubbed, egged and shot at, and some told how God had helped them in de-feating those who stood in opposition to the work, which made us rejoice.

W. M. Grice preached the closing sermon from the ith chapter of Isaiah. Seemed that he wanted to tell it all as there were a good many outsiders present and if they never heat the gospel again they heard enough to be judged by.

A hearty vote of thanks were tendered the Saints and friends of McGregor for their kindness shown visiting Saints. Over 500 were in attendance and it was pro-nounced by many as one of the largest and best confernounced by many as one of the largest and best conferences ever held in Eastern Michigan District. Perfect unity and love prevailed through the entire ten days. The preaching was good and the prayers and testimonies were of an uplifting nature. J. F. Curtis and W. M. Grice both remarked that generally throughout the district the Saints all showed a desire to occupy higher and more developed spiritual conditions.

The spring conference is to be held the last Saturday of compact in large new 1015 of 1921 Huron.

of reunion in June next, 1915, at Port Huron.

R. D. Wenver Fred W. Cadow Press Com.

Rose City, Mich., Oct. 30. Editor Ensign:-The Michigan Central District Con-Editor Ensign:—The Michigan Central District Conference convened at McIvor, Oct. 16, 17 and 18, with Education J. F. Curtis, missionary in charge, and the presiding officers of the district in charge. Among the visiting brethren were Elders Wm. Grice, Otto Fetting and Walter Bennett from the Eastern district. Their presence made added interest to the meeting. Bro. and Sr. Thos. Hartnell of Cadillac came over also in their auto.

The Traverse City Orchestra in charge of H. A. Doty rendered valuable service to the conference by furnishing splendid music which all fully enjoyed and approximate the conference of the conf ing splendid music which all fully enjoyed and apprewhich was appreciated by all.

The Southern Michigan Quorum of Elders met at 4 p. m. Saturday, also the quorum of priests met at 4 p. m. Sanday with Brn. Burt and Curtis in charge. Letters of removal were granted to W. E. Harder and J. W. Burgett to Nevada, Iowa. By vote each member of quorum is instructed to report his labors every six months to the secretary, E. M. Orton, Twining, Mich. Blanks to be supplied by the secretary.

At the Sunday morning prayer meeting a gift of un-known tongues, was received through Bro. Davis the patriarch. The McIvor Saints were commended for their sacrifices and efforts they had put forth in preparing for the conference. The ministry were warned of trials to come and told that it would be harder for them to get an audience. The Saints in general were told that the Lord was displeased with them for not honoring their local officers. We were also told that the times of the Gentiles would soon be fulfilled.

The meetings were held in the new church recently built by the McIvor Saints, which is commodious (34x 43) and well finished in every respect and it shows sacrifice on the part of the Saints and much credit is due them.

Yours in bonds,

Walter Wilcox. Welcome Healey. Press. Com

Brown's Valley, Cal. Dear Ensign:-We have lived here a little over two ars. Sorry to say this is a hard country to get the spel before the people, as they are not willing to go vears. to hear preaching. Some will come a few times and then quit. Many will not go at all. I have been doing what preaching I could. I have opened the work here in nine different places where the gospel has never been preached, in both school and church houses. Some places would be fine crowds and good attention, but only last for a few times when some one would say "Mormons" for a few times when some one would say "Mormons" and they would quit coming.

I love to tell the old gospel story to good attentive listeners, by the Spirit of God. I hope the time is near at hand when the Lord will see fit to send me as a missionary to declare the gospel abroad to the children of men. By the help of God I am willing to go at any time as I am, willing to do all I can for the Master. I hope and pray that it will never be said that I was a slothful ground. God brown that I am, willing to be seen all and God knows that I am willing to leave all and tell the angel's message to the inhabitants of the earth.

We still hold our letters in the Ava Branch in South

Missouri as we are forty miles from any branch here.

Now brethren, concerning the Negro race. One place where I was preaching a Negro came to me and invited me home with him, when no white man would. He asked me many questions, but remember he was a Methodist, and could not swallow much of the gospel.

In D C., section 116, paragraph 4, it says: "Be not hasty in ordaining men of the Negro race to offices in my church, for, verily I say unto you, All are not acceptable unto me as servants, nevertheless I will that all may be saved, but every man in his own order, and there are some who are chosen instruments to be ministers to their some who are chosen instruments to be ministers to their own race. Be ye content, I the Lord have spoken it."

Now we understand Jesus said, "Go ye therefore and teach all nations, baptizing them," etc. Matt. 28:19; also in Mark 16:15: "Go ye into all the world and preach the gospel to every creature."

Now is there a single statement in the word of revelation saying to wait a while before you convert the Negro? God will let his servants know who are to be ordained as such. We know that there have been many white men ordained who have made a failure. John said he saw an angel having the everlasting gospel to said he saw an angel having the everlasting gospel to preach to every nation, kindred, tongue and people.

Concerning the European war it seems as though this is the war that George Washington saw in a vision that has been published as being seen by him. We as God's servants should strive to do all we can and God will give us more abundantly of his Spirit, as the Lord has spoken many times to the Saints to come up higher. Are we doing it?

Your brother,

Elder Oscar Ensley

(Correspondence continued on page 6.)

IS THE BIBLE ALONE, A SUFFICIENT GUIDE? By Elder J. D. Stead.

In stating my belief in answer to this question

I wish it understood that it is not my purpose to weaken any ones faith in God's word recorded in the Bible, but just the reverse, to increase faith in God and his word.

The Bible is a book is books. It would be a mistake for any one to claim more for a book than the book claims for itself. There is no place in any one of these books where it says, that any one or all of these books taken together-the Bible—alone is a sufficient guide. That being true to what authority do those who believe the Bible alone is a sufficient guide go for proof? They do not get this information from the Bible, it is not found there; it would be out or reason for them to claim they had received information from the divine source, since they make the claim, that God's revelations to man ceased when the canon of Scripture was closed; the only other source they could go for information would be man, (unless they went to Satan and his cohorts, a thing they would not like to admit) therefore, man is their authority for saying, "the Bible alone is a sufficient guide."

To admit that the Bible nowhere says that it alone is a sufficient guide, is to admit that it alone is not a sufficient guide, for the following reason: If it is the only guide it should say so, and not leave us to go elsewhere for this information; the fact of going some other place than the Bible for this information, is proof that it alone is not a sufficient guide.

As to the Scripture being a filled canon, I see no necessity of believing it. And if these men, that believe the Scriptures to be the only guide, will be consistent with their own doctrine, they must needs be of my judgment; seeing it is impossible to prove the canon by the Scripture. For it cannot be found in any book of the Scriptures, that these books, and just these, and no other, are canonical, as all are forced to acknowledge; how can they invite this argument. That which cannot be proven by the scripture is no necessary article of faith.

That which is given for the perfecting of the Saints for a rule and guide, must needs be so full, that it may clearly and distinctly guide and order them in all things. But in that there are many things, with regard to their circumstances, which particular saints may be concerned in, for which there can be no particular rule had in the Scriptures: therefore the scriptures cannot be a rule to them. For instance, some are called to the ministry of the word: Paul said, "For necessity is laid upon me: yea, woe is unto me, if I preach not the gospel!'

If it be necessary that there be now ministers of the church, as then, then there is the same necessity upon some, more than upon others, to occupy this place: which necessity, as it may be incumbent upon particular persons, the scripture does not nor can declare.

My answer is, no book, nor any number of books taken together are a sufficient guide although they be every one of them such as contain the Scriptures, or putting it another way, the Scriptures alone are not a sufficient guide; for reasons given in the above and other reasons, viz., If by the Spirit only we can come to the true knowledge of God; if by the Spirit we are to be led into all truth, and so be taught of all things; then the Spirit, and not the Scriptures alone is the foundation and ground of all truth and knowledge, and the primary rule of faith and manners.

The Scriptures that we have, with the Holy Spirit to aid in lighting up the way, if followed, are sufficient to lead and guide us to Christ whose instruction to all is, "Ask, and it shall be given "For every one that asketh receiveth."

If those who believe that the Bible alone is a sufficient guide, had followed the instruction given by the master as recorded in the Bible, and asked in faith, they would have received; then, they would have known that there is further light to be received than what is contained in the Bible.

IS THE CANON OF THE SCRIPTURES COMPLETE?

By M. T. Beck.
In the years 393 to 397 A. D. the ecclesiastical councils declared the New Testament Scriptures to be canonical writings; i. e., written by inspiration of God, and to be accepted in that light and used as divine law. Now the question arises, did the councils canonize all the writings entitled to that act, or did they only canonize what we now have. If they only canonize what we now have, the canon is not full. What we now have speaks of two epistles that we have Paul when writing his epistle commonly called his first epistle to the Corinthians, says in chapter five and ninth verse, "I wrote (past tense) unto you not to company with fornicators," etc. And again, Colossians 4:16, we read: And when this epistle is read among you, cause that it be read in the church of the Laodiceians: And that ye likewise read the epistle from Laodecea." O! perhaps you say the council did not have, and could not get those two epistles; grant the probability is reasonable, the fact still remains that they are not canonized, hence the canon is not full.

The act of canonizing within itself may have been complete as far as it extended, and all the Scriptures not be canonized, or will some one take the position that none of them were Scripture until they were canonized: then one result of canonizing them was to make Scripture out of them. If we take that position, all the writings of the D. Ds. and theological writers, needs nothing to make them scripture, only to be canonized by some ecclesiastical council. To make scripture out of any writing, it is absolutely necessary that that writing should be done by the inspiration of God, and that canonizing a man's writing that was not written by inspiration of God, would accomplish nothing towards making it a divine law.

I also take the position, that all the writings done by inspiration of God, since A. D. 397, is just as truly Scripture as what was canonized. Did you say that God has not inspired any writer since A. D. 397? While the councils were canonizing the New Testament as we now have it, there were many ready to take the stand that the apostolic writings were not done by inspiration of God.

If a man is called of God to preach the gospel of Jesus Christ, and preaches it in its purity under the light of the Holy Spirit, are not his teachings inspired? And so with a man of God who is in possession of the Holy Spirit, who writes upon a gospel theme with a pure honest motive and desire to benefit his fellow man spiritually, by assisting him to reach a higher plane on his way to immortal glory, will not his writing be Scripture? Has God utterly forsaken his plan of salvation and the glory thereof? If he has when did God change? "For I know that what God doeth it shall be forever, and nothing can be put to it nor anything taken from it, and God doeth it that man should fear before him. (Ecclesiastes 3:14.)

According to the sacred Scriptures, God has invariably been with his people on earth, and made his presence known to them by revelation and inspired prophecy through man as a medium of intercourse and instruction to his people in regard to his will and their duty. In view of these facts, we have ample room to conclude that he will continue to do the same as long as he has a church on earth. A failure with any religious organization to enjoy these blessings is prima facie evidence that the inspiration of God is not

As long as God calls men to preach his gospel plan of salvation to man, that long will the inspiration of God remain among men on earth, and just so long will that blessing be necessary.

From a standpoint of necessity, viewed without prejudice, if the human race ever needed revelations in regard to their spiritual relationship with the plan of salvation, they need them now, and as long as revelations are given to man, that long will inspired writings exist, and that long will scriptures exist whether canonized by man

Under the present conditions, with a one thousand different denominations, and almost every man with his own individual creed, it looks as though the canonizing of Scriptures was a matter of small moment or interest to the majority of mankind, in the present time.

"On this rock I will build my church." What Christ did, and authorized to be done in the way of building his church, gave us the basis of a large percentage of the New Testament Scriptures, and it was almost one hundred years before it was completely written; about three hundred years later, 397 A. D. the canon of Scripture was made up. By the year A. D. 1912, many church organizations had sprung into existence, and not one of them will harmonize with the one Jesus built, notwithstanding they claim to be founded on the Scriptures that has Christ's church as a foundation, and them in part at least, Ecclesiastically canonized, in the days of Augustine, Bishop of Hippo, North Africa, in the councils of 393 to 397 A. D."—Rev. J. Bulkley, D. D. (Baptist) in a sermon published in the Baptist News, Sept. 19, 1896, A. D.

Now any body may organize a church, and use a part or all of those canonized Scriptures, may add to or take from at their pleasure. Hence canonizing Scriptures makes no difference with the world now. Christ never built but one church, and never employed any man to build another.

GOSPEL EXPERIENCES.

By Elder D. E. Hough

When I was quite young my father told me Bible stories about what God did for Moses, Elijah, Daniel, the three Hebrew children in the flery furnace, and others. These stories made a great impression on my mind and I became possessed with a strong desire to become a righteous man who could get God to do things for him like those good men did.

My mother also taught me to pray and while I was a small boy I used to go into the woods alone seeking the Lord in prayer, and the first thing that made me think the Lord was interested in my welfare was one day when my sister and I went out into a field where was an old well. Two boards lay across the top of it with an opening between large enough to let a bucket through to draw water. I sat down on one of the boards and before I realized my danger, tipped over and fell headfirst into the well. My sister ran to the house and got my mother who came and pulled me out. It has always seemed to me I floated on the water and was not in the least strangled. I asked my sister about it when she visited me a few years ago and she said "when mother and I came to the well you were floating on the water."

The next incident that left an indeliable impression on my mind that God took care of me was when I narrowly escaped being crushed to death by an excited team of horses when they got me between the back end of a wagon and a barn. The escape was so remarkable and complete that I have always believed God saved me from being killed.

When I was about 13 years old I went to work for a thrasher by the name of Dennis. I took care of the cows and did chores for Mrs. Dennis. The work required about half of my time and as my father did not live far away I went home quite often. Once while there on a visit I heard my mother reading about a woman who in a trance went to heaven where she saw God and the Savior, the angels, etc., and had a most wonderful experience. This made such an impression on my mind that I decided to call on God in prayer until I could prove for myself whether God actually lived or not. I continued to call on him for many days without success, but one day while engaged in prayer in the woods his Holy Spirit came on me in great power, removing all doubt in regards to his existence and filling my soul with peace and joy. For many hays after this experience the Savior seemed continually by my side, and in my dreams I saw him coming to judge the living and the dead as he surely will by and by. These were some of the happiest days of my life.

Some time after this I became very hungry for apples to eat and as our people had none I thought I would go into some farmer's orchard and help myself, but I felt that this was wrong. Now I had a boy friend by the name of Amasa and his father had two farms. The farm they did not live on had an orchard on it and was about a mile from where I lived. I went to the Lord in earnest prayer and told him I was going down to this orchard and asked him to have Amasa there that he might give me some apples as I did not want to take any. When I got in sight of it I could see Amasa in the top of an apple tree. When I came up he asked me if I wanted some apples, I said I did, and he gave me all I needed.

Some time after this some preachers came into that country preaching salvation by faith only—but they were too far away for me to go and hear them. So I asked the Lord to bring them to preach in a school house close by, that I named to him, but he refused me. However I continued to ask him until he granted my prayers though I knew when he granted it it was against his will.

The second night after he granted my prayer they came and preached in the school house and I went to hear them. That night I dreamed a man stood near me and cried with a loud voice three times, "Flee from the wrath to come." His voice was so wonderful that it filled me with great fear and trembling. After this I dreamed a beautiful dove wanted to stay with me but I threw so many stones at it it had to go away. Shortly after this the Spirit of the Lord withdrew from me and I felt miserable indeed, but I continued to call on God and to exercise faith in him.

Some time after this I went to live with a Mr. Shannon to do chores for my board and go to school. After I had been there some time Mrs. Shannon took sick. Her suffering was so great that I retired to the barn to pray for her. After I had pled with the Lord in great earnestness I returned to the house and found the pain had left her and she was able to go about her work again. After this I joined the Methodist Church where I took an active part in the young men's prayer meetings, and also in the Sunday school. I learned 114 verses in one week and recited them on Sunday in a contest with the ablest scholar in that school, who memorized 86 verses and recited them the same day. I was living a very good moral life during those years but I always felt in my soul that there was something lacking and that my standing was not just right in the sight

During this time I had a dream in which I appeared to be dressed in a beautiful suit of English broad cloth. It had a sheen or lustre equal to any cloth I had ever seen and I felt quite proud of it. In my dream a gentleman approached me and made remarks about the apparent richness of the cloth and asked that I would examine the fabric with him. I did so and to my surprise the sheen all faded away and the cloth became like a gunny-sack. Then the man turned to a large pile of white garments which I had not noticed before and said I could clothe myself in one of these if I desired to do so.

In this and several other dreams I had about that time, God sought to impress upon my mind that the Methodist Church to which I belonged was a human institution, and not of divine appointment.

Shortly after this I hired as a deck hand on a propeller steamboat by the name of Northern Queen to go from Collingwood, a port on Georgian Bay to Chicago and back again. After we had cleared the bay we came to Owen Sound and turning from there we took a straight course for the straits of Mackinac. After we had gotten out of sight of land I went up on the hurricane deck and as I stood looking towards the southwest I saw the state of Michigan rise in vision before me and near the border of Michigan and Indiana two men stood preaching and while I looked at them the voice of God came to me out of heaven saying the men were his servants and that they were preaching the true gospel of Christ his Son. After the voice was passed the whole vision faded away and I could see only water as far as the eye could reach.

As soon as we touched land I left the boat and crossing the straits towards the north side came to St. Ignace. After staying awhile there I crossed the straits around into Lake Michigan, geeting off at Peteskey where I took train and came south to where I had seen the men in vision preaching. Imagine my surprise when I found there and to learn they were called Mormons. They were elders of the Rorganized Church of Jérus Christ of Latter Day Saints. I began to ask questions and to investigate, and while in some doubt as to what it all meant, I continued in earnest prayer to God for more evidence from him. At this time Jesus came to by bedside in the night and testified again that these men were his servants and he told me my sins would not be forgiven me until I was baptized.

While he was talking to me I was powerless to move, but when he was through I found he had not only confirmed me in the divinity of this work but he had converted me to the idea that baptism is positively for the remission of sins, a thing I had not believed in before.

I was baptized and confirmed, and returned home to Northern Ontario, Canada, where I worked in the lumber woods the following winter and in the spring I hived to a man to dump 1500 logs. While dumping these logs I fell backwards over the front of the dump which was a sheer precipice about 15 feet high. The escape from injury or death was so remarkable that I did there thank the Lord, and I thank him yet for deliverance from what seemed sure destruction.

After this the Savior appeared to me in a dream and told me he had appointed me for an elder among his people. Then the Spirit revealed the same thing to Bro. John H. Lake who gave me both instruction and promises under the power of the Spirit, and ordained me to the office of an elder.

I returned home and preached my first sermon, which I think was the poorest effort I have ever made. The following Sunday while engaged in secret prayer some distance from the house I heard the voice of my youngest sister calling to me and asking if I would go with my mother to an island where a Presbyterian preacher was holding weekly meetings. Instantly the voice of the Spirit said I was to go and that I should preach to the people on that island that day. I went knowing that I should preach, but said nothing to my mother. The preacher did not come so I was asked to occupy which I did under the influence of the Spirit in wondrous power.

This power gave me the correct pronunciation of all the words used in the sermon; also subject matter to preach, and it corrected all the mistakes of translation found in the chapter I read.

These corrections were so impressed on my mind that I remembered them and when 1 got an inspired translation of the Bible, I compared them with it and found the corrections identical. This proved to me beyond all doubt that Joseph Smith corrected the Scriptures by the Spirit of God. These experiences have been of great ch to me and I write an account of them with the hope that they may help strengthen the faith of some who are inclined to doubt.

After this my mother was sick for weeks and we gave her up to die. But one day the Spirit said to me that I was to administer to her and tell her to exercise faith in God and he would heal her. I did so and again enjoyed the Spirit in power. Returning to the house after about two hours, I found her up and dressed and engaged in her regular house work.

About this time I dreamed I stood on a hill where there was one big fig tree standing. In the top of this tree were many birds who swooped down and attacked my person in great fury when all at once a beautiful white garment completely covered me. Pendants of honey as clear as crystal hung from the border of this garment, but there was no smear. The birds ceased to annoy me.

After this I went hunting with a man who was very careless as a hunter, and while sitting on a rock in the woods I felt impressed that I was in danger of being shot. Immediately I leaped from the rock where I was sitting and walked down into the valley and soon I heard the hunter calling to me and saying that I had need to take care of myself that he had mistaken me for a deer. He said he had his rifle cocked and was beginning to pull on the trigger to shoot me when I disappeared out of his sight.

At one of the branches of the Church where I lived, a week of prayer was appointed for the recovery of a young man's health who was sick with consumption. On Tuesday morning, while praying for him I received the following communication by the Spirit, "I cannot heal—for if I do when he is well he will fall into whoredom and iniquity." I told Sr. Hough about what I had received, and an Friday morning the communication was repeated to me again. On the following Sunday we met at the young man's home for prayer and in the meeting a brother prophesised that the young man would be healed, and ordained to the Melchisadec priesthood. Also that he would become a missionary and preach the gospel. The brother died and the prophecy was never fulfilled.

About that time I became sick with vertigo and do what I would I could not get well of it. I was able to be around part of the time but not fit for work. I had several men working for me and felt very blue to think I could not take the lead of the work myself. One day I got on the scaffold to try and help a little when all at once I felt a power drive the sickness away, and I heard a voice saying, "You are well and it is in answer to your wife's prayers. She is praying for you and her prayers are answered and you are cured." This was about 10 o'clock a. m., and my wife was about eight miles away. On returning home that evening I told her I was well and of my experience. She very reluctantly admitted she had gone in her room about 10 a. m., and engaged in earnest prayer for about a half hour that God would cure me.

Some time after this a brother came into a meeting that I had charge of and being very angry about something he cursed and swore before all the people. I was very much annoyed and said to myself: "Brother, you are going to apologize for what you have done here today," but remembering that the Doctrine and Covenants says "ye shall do all things with much prayer." I took the matter to the Lord in prayer and was told to let him alone and he would come to church and do all in his power to make the wrong right. This he did about a week after. With tears running down his cheeks he asked the forgiveness of all.

After this a sister in the branch took sick and she became so low it was generally expected she would die. I was working alone in a house one day when all at once the south and west part of the house faded away and in a place of the country to the south west rose up very plain before me. Some distance from me to the south west Satan was standing looking just like a man but I instantly recognized him as the great adversary of souls. And some distance further on the sick sister also rose up. Satan then turned his face partly towards her and looking very ugly, said:"I will destroy her life." Instantly I replied You will do nothing of the kind. You have persecuted her and you have persecuted me without a just cause. She will get well and she will yet assist in doing good and so will I." The whole picture or scene then rapidly faded away. The walls of the house came back into their places and I found myself standing alone. The sister recovered and is still alive, though this was seven or eight years ago.

Some years before this while plastering a hotel the owner being socially inclined would come and talk to me on politics and religion. One day we talked about Mark 16:17, 18. He asked me if I thought a man could drink poison now and not die. I told him I thought he could, that God had not lost his power and was able to counteract poison as easy now as at any time in the world's history. He seemed offended at my answer and a few mornings after while drinking hot water with my breakfast I noticed something in the water that did not look right. However I drank it and as soon as it was down I knew there was something wrong. I left the table and soon started for home with my youngest brother. On the way I could feel a strange influence going all over my body. As soon as I was home I lay down by the stove but feeling very uncomfortable arose and started to walk across the room. When in the middle of the room my sight failed me so I could not see. Then I began to pray. I "Lord, you know I have been trying to do what is right here, I don't want to die yet. I pray you to spare my life." As I said the last words my sight came back to me, I became wet all over with sweat and in about one half hour I was as well as ever.

Some years ago I promised the Lord I would write an account of many of the things he had done for me and send them to be published, and to keep this promise I have written these things.

Your brother in the gospel.

3018 N. 21st St., Kansas City, Kans.

FIND CITIES OF DEAD RACES.

In an ancient Nebraska valley which time and nature filled up a thousand years and more ago, archaeologists from Peabody Museum, Harvard University, have discovered most remarkable ruins of three stratifications of prehistoric villages of three distinct peoples. Although the Harvard expedition had already completed its work for the season and was upon the point of returning to the university, the discovery is regarded as so important that the scientists have indefiniely extended their stay in order that they may thoroughly investigate the great archaeelogical "find."

The centuries-old villages lie buried in a narrow valley between two high bluffs twenty-five miles below Omaha near the Missouri River. Time filled up the valley and destroyed the villages, but in recent years a small stream has cut its way through the deposits of hundreds of years and has exposed the remains of the old towns far below the present surface of the valley. Reading the history of the valley from the steep sides of the ravine, the scientists see that ages ago the place was thickly populated.

Time passed, the valley was deserted and the wash of centuries from the surrounding hills partially filled the depression. Again a prehistoric people, another race, settled in the valley and lived until they, in turn passed away. Another age followed, and again many feet of earth washed down from the hills, still further filling up the valley, only to pass onward before the coming of the Fawnees, who had for centuries lived in the Platte River Valley when Coronado, the Spaniard, came in 1541.

The Legends Even Forgotten.

The legends of the third people to inhabit the valley were forgotten five centuries ago. There has never been a tradition of the second race; and as for the first people who left their remains in the ravine, the Harvard scientists will not even venture a guess.

But the remains of these first people are far more numerous than are those of their successors. Prof. Frederick H. Stearns of Harvard, who heads the expedition passing through the ravine, was attracted to a white vein of ashes in the side of the bluff low down by the water of the little stream. He investigated. A brief inspection showed that he had a cross section of an ancient house ruin with a fireplace in the center. Burned bones of animals and pot rims were protruding from the ashes. There were also broken pottery, flint flakes, a stone ax and other rude implements. A further search disclosed the remains of nine other house sites on the same level. Later, by boring with a prospecting augur, it was found that the ravine had been fairly dotted with the houses of this people.

Then one of the scientists of the exposition discovered a house site far up on the side of the ra-The remains of pottery and implements showed that a different race altogether had inhabited this site. And a few days later surface houses were discovered only a few feet below the present level of the ground-and in these were the remains of still another people. Immediately overlaying the lowest strata of houses is a peat bed eight feet in thickness and it is due to this fact that so many remains of the daily life of this race were preserved so well.

Left a Feast When They Departed.

One of the last acts of the inhabitants of one of the ancient houses was to indulge in a great feast. And while they probably had no alphabet of any kind, they left behind them a menu which can be easily read by archaeologists. All of this is indicated by the remains of the feast found on the very top of the ash heap, far beneath the surface of the ground. There is the long bone of a crane, bones of half a dozen varieties of fish, the wishbone of a wild goose, the leg bone of a deer, the pelvis of a beaver, the jaw of a wolf, bones of five different birds, the shell of a turtle, a gallon or two of clam shells and the remains of a buffalo. A few charred squash seed preserved by the peat shows that these people were agriculturalists.

They Used Tobacco.

And last of all, at the top of the heap, there were two smooth pipes, indicating that even in that early age the aborigines were users of to-bacco—and must have cultivated the "weed."

Dr. R. F. Gilder, field archaeologist with the University of Nebraska, who has made a special study of prehistoric pottery, says that the pots made by the first people in this valley are entirely different in design and decoration from any that he has ever examined. Doctor Gilder believes the makers to have existed many thousands of years ago.

The Harvard expedition will remain in the little valley until it is driven out by cold weather. since the exploration of the different stratification of villages cannot be completed before that time Professor Stearns is already making arrangements to return there as soon as the frost leaves the ground next spring.—Kansas City Star.

(Continued from page 3.)

Felt, Idaho, Oct. 16.

Ension Pub. House:-You will please send Ensign to Ensign run. House:—Tou will please sein Jinsigh with Mrs Mary Norman, P. O. Box 74, Idaho Falls, Idaho. This is a niece of Joseph the Martyr, and the only survivor of Samuel H. Smith's family. I visited her yester-This is a niece of Joseph the Martyr, and the only survivor of Samuel H. Smith's family. I visited her yesterday and day before. She united with the Reorganization several years ago at St. Louis, I think. She belongs to that branch. Later moving to Utah, she was persuaded by her husband to join the Brighamites. Her sympathies are all with us, however, so she claims. She is poor. If she lives I believe she will come into the church. She is 78 years old, but active and well preserved for one of her age. served for one of her age.

I thought I would send her the Ensign for a few months, in hopes that she may become more interested in the church. She converses interestingly on topics of in the church. S. early church history.

Yours in gospel bonds,

T. C. Kelley.

Chicago, Ill., Nov. 2 Editor Ensign:-Sunday, October 25th, was a red letter day for Elder Solomon M. Duyzers, a native of Holland (Netherland) it being his first anniversary as an elder, thereby on same date our brother did open a Holland-American Mission at 10 a. m., in the Dutch language, His text was 2 Chron. 6:40-42. A few Dutch people His text was 2 Chron. 6:40-42. A few Dutch people were present. In the afternoon he held his anniversary and his text was Mark 4:14. Quite a number of Saints were present at that hour leading. were present at that hour including Bro. Burwell who were present in that not rainting Br. Darwei was a witness of Bro. Duyzer's ordination a year ago in Detroit, Mich. Truly God's Spirit rested on our Dutch brother when he was delivering his sermon. In the evening he spoke again in the Dutch language on Rev.

We have a nice hall where we are able to scat about 125 persons which we can make to 250. Bro, and Sr. Duyzers have their rooms also in the rear of the hall. Duyzers have their rooms also in the rear of the Rain. Soil Deo Goria,—"To God alone the Glory," is the language of Bro. and Sr. Duyzers. Much have yet to be done on their rooms, and in the hall, but this have all to wait for financial prospects the better. They need also some coal and wood to be ordered to warm the hall. Also Bro. Duyzer's request that they who are able to send him some tracts, books and old volumes of our papers will please do so, sending them free of charge. Hereby he please do so, sending them free of charge. Hereby he also wishes with thanks toward God to acknowledge that $100 was received towards the opening expenses from the Bishop, and on free will gifts of Chicago Saints to the amount of $16.25, a total of $110.25, leaving yet to pay $133.75. Trusting in the prayers of God's people we enter his work not in our own strength, but in the Lord and remain faithfully in God's service.

Bro. and Sr. Solomon M. Duyzers.

101 W. 115th St., Chicago, Ill. (Roseland.)

Pueblo, Colo., Nov. 1 Dear Ensign:—Were it not for the spiritual food which I receive each week through the Ensign, I would indeed be most unhappy. As far as I know I am the only Saint in Pueblo. An Evangelist by the name of Scoville has been holding forth for about six weeks, preaching twice daily except Mondays. So far he claims 4,000 converts. The big tabernacle, seating five thousand people is usually filled. I have been to hear him a few times, but his sermons are so empty to a Saint. They remind me of an empty egg shell. Am trying to let my light shine but an weak and make many mistakes. I give my Ensigns and tracts to my neighbors and I believe some would be interested if could hear our elders preach If an elder comes here he will find a welcome at my home and I will do what I can to help open up the work here. My ten year old boy desires baptism and I think my oldest girl, who is eighteen, would also unite with us. Your sister for the cause, Mrs. Chas. Buffehr.

706 West 16th St.

Thayer, Mo., Nov. 1.

Mr. E. Stafford. Dear Sir:—We thought we would consolidate and write to see if you would send the Ensign to us as you adverto see it you would send the Ensign to us as you adver-tized in the last Ensign. We are both non-members of your, church. Through the way Elder J. A. Davis ex-plained your doctrine it looks reasonable. If you se-wisdom in sending the Ensign to us we will read the same and appreciate it. We are both railroad men.

Respectfully yours,
W. B. Vaughn, Ben Carter.

San Jose, Cal., Oct. 24 Editor Ensign:—Long may the Ensign wave; it is a good paper to hand out. We have a Vehicle erected here in St. James Park, in the center of the city, through which we circulate the church publications. After the Saints read their papers, we gather them up and circulate them again. Through this medium we have circulated as many as 180 church papers in one month. It has been in operation about eleven years; and we know of persons having taken literature from this Vehicle, that live as far cast as Massachusetts. What will the har-

We have built a nice little church here in San Jose, re trying to hold up the Banner of Emanuel. Peace and unity prevails in our Branch, and we enjoy the Spirit of the Master.

Your co-laborer in gospel bonds, C. W. Hawkins.

615 Spencer Ave.

Mrs. J. W. McElwain, Langford, N. D.—I have taken the Ensign for twenty-three years. My husband has been paralized for a year, and I desire that all the Saints who know us and read this will kindly pray for his recovery if it is the Lord's will.

DEPARTMENT OF Woman's Auxiliary for Social Service

MRS. MAUD MILLS, EDITOR, 1514 W. Short St., Independence, Me

All persons sending money to the Woman's Auxiliary for any propose, including subscriptions to Home and Child Welfare leaflets, or Childen's Home donations, please forward same to the treasurer of the Auxiliary, Mrs. J A. Gardner, 711 S. Fuller Aye., Independence Mo.

dependence Mo. ADVISORY BOARD.

Mrs. S. R. Burgess, President, 5926 Etzel Ave., St. Louis, Mo. Mrs. B. C. Smith, Vice President, 214 S. Spring St., Independent ence Months of the Minnie E. Scott, Secretary, 309 S. Fuller Ave., Independence, ence, Mo.
Mrs. J. A. Gardner, Treasurer, 711 S. Fuller Ave., Independence, Mo.
W. Walnut St., Independence, Mo. Mrs. M. A. Etzenhouser, 1595 W. Walnut St., Independence, Mo-Mrs. D. J. Krahl, 741 S. Crysler St., Independence, Mo. SUPERINTENDENTS OF DEPARTMENTS. HOme and Child Welfare Department, Mrs. H. A. Stebbins, La-ni, Iowa.

moni, Iowa.

Literary and Educational Department, Mrs. L. A. Stebbins, La-Literary and Educational Department, Mrs. Lydia Thomas Wight, Lamoni, Iowa Eugenics Department, Mrs. Jennie Studley, 17 E. Cottage St., Roybury, Mass.

Roybury, Mass.

Roybury, Mass.

Roybury, Mass.

Roybury, Mass.

Roybury, Mass.

Roybury, Mass.

Roybury, Mass.

Sewing and Aid Department, Mrs. Bertha Anderson Hulmes, 4th Mill St., Cocinece Department, Mrs. Edith Cochran, 207 S. Sevententh St., St., Joseph., 400.

Young Woman Separtment, Mrs. J. A. Gardner, 711 S. Fuller Ave., Independence, Mo.

GIVING GIFTS.

The feverish planning for gift-making is almost at hand. True that several weeks intervene before the recognized gift season of the year is upon us, but what do a few weeks signify in the hurry of our present civilization?

There will come to all of sober mind and reflective turn, times of rebellion at the "give and take" method of gift giving so popular at the present time. In fact, however, no matter how great your rebellion (mentally) you usually emerge with the feeling of an imprisoned subject who cannot help himself, and you will probably go on keeping up the old practice which proceeds each year with accelerated motion.

The purpose of these thoughts is to help you decide whether you are a slave or a free person; and having decided the question, work it out in and having decided the question, notice a practical way to your future satisfaction and the blessing of those who need your gifts. best of a book is not the thought which it contains but the thought that it suggests; just as the charm of music dwells not in the tones, but in the echo of our hearts."-Holmes. So may your perusal of these few thoughts be a means of stimulating thought which will restlessly await practical action.

We have no trouble in deciding as to whether or not we should giv gifts. That is simple. But each of us hve only a limited amount of time and means, are forced to decide how they shall be used, and in what directions diffused.

We want to remain close to the true objects of giving. In a general way we say giving is for the help and blessing of others. You may querry, how can a gift help another unless it is always in a very practical form, and should all of our gifts be of that kind? But our natures have so many sides to be rightfully nourished that we may call it helping when a gift is af a nature to help in any of these ways. An important question in our success is, whether we succeed in our purpose of helping others if we give in return to the carefully retained list of those who gave to us one year ago, and try to match values according to what we received from each person in turn upon that list. Not knowing just how our gifts of this kind are received, the best ways we can find out is by observing others in whom we are not "giftly" interested, and by our own feelings when we receive such gifts. I have heard conversations something like this: "Oh, this is from ; I wish she hadn't sent it for she always sends such expensive things, and 1 can't afford so much to give back to her." All the joy of receiving it was lost, and never thought about a good motive prompting the gift without thought of reward.

Of course we read a great deal at Christmas time in various places, on the gift-giving method reform. We will not hope to cover all the excellent thoughts penned along this line, but just as a brief appeal to the home-makers and mothers, in the short space allowed us for this matter. We would not or could not lay down any rules of action in this important matter, but a few facts are always with us, if we will but stop to allow them place in influencing our decisions. We have plain, simple gospel laws laid down for our use and blessing. Must we not follow some rule of action that will agree therewith? Can we afford to step aside and use our time, and hard earnings perhaps, for a few weeks in the year, in a reckless, popular fashion, when we are assuming to have Christ and his life more active in our lives than at any other time of the year?

We are celebrating His birth, and giving gifts in honor of the great gift then given to the world. Must we not be prayerfully thoughtful lest we make serious mistakes and commit real wrongs?

Let every reader, who is not already trying to burst the chains of custom which bind him, single out at least one person this year, on whom a real gift may be bestowed. And as we progress may our gift-making assume a new and real aspect such as will cause God to look down on us with pleasure. Then we shall have the Spirit of Promise to crown our efforts and will be unwilling to ever return to the greed-appeasing, God-offending habits of Christmas giving.

MEMORIAL. By Pheobe Cary.

Toiling early, and toiling late, Though her name was never heard, To the least of her Savior's little ones, She meekly ministered,- Publishing good news to the poor; She came to their homes unsought, And her feet on the hills were beautiful, For the blessings which they brought.

Such a perfect life as hers, again, In the world we may not see; or her heart was full of love, and her hands For her heart was 1411. Were full of charity.

Oh woe for us! cried the weak and poor, And the weary one made mean; And the mourners went about the streets, When she went to her home alone

And seeing her go from the field of life, From toiling, early and late,
We said, What good has she gained to show For a sacrifice so great?

We might have learned from the husbandman To wait more patiently, Since his seed of wheat lies under the snow, Not quickened, except it die.

For when we raised our eyes again From their sorrows wintry night, We saw how the deeds of good she hid, Were pushing up to the light.

And still the precious seed she sho In patient sorrowing trust, Though not for her mortal eyes to see, Comes blossoming out of the dust.

IS IT YET TIME?

New Year's resolutions are supposed to be a great reformative or corrective agent in our lives, They are indulged in, however, at only one time of year for they would be strangely out of season, you know, at any other time. They are written about and talked about at that time, and many times left to sweet repose till another New Year's season. But we propose to advise in this short paragraph, not that they shall be abolished-oh no-that would work havoc; for we might never make any resolutions if we had no stated time in which to examine ourselves and attended to needed personal reform. Neither will we advise that the season be materially changed, only in one respect. Let us look well over our needs in this line a good space of time before New Year's; formulate our resolutions and try them out faithfully before New Year's day. By that time we will know which to keep and which to throw away. In other words the test will show us which are practical and—the contrary. Then when New Year's day dawns we will be likely to have a good supply ready for actual practice; and though they may be few in number, after the culling process, they may be worth far more to us, and to those with whom we live and work, than a large quantity of untried and imaginative ones.

MISCELLANEOUS

CONVENTION NOTICES

The Southeastern Illinois District Sunday School Association will meet with the Bellair Saints December 4th, at 2 p. m. The election of officers and other business will be attended to. Please send reports to Mrs. Neva Carter, District secretary, Springerton, Ill. Conference the 5th.

Sam. Hoover, Dist. Supt.

Xenia, Ill., R. 2.

NOTICE.

Notice! The Saints in Mission No. One will please note that I have changed my place of residence. My address in the future will be No. 258 Benton St., Council

POSTPONED.

The Spokane District Conference has been postponed from Dec. 5th, to Dec. 11th, in order to have with us Bro. Peter Anderson. The conference will be reld at Sagle,

W. W. Fordham, Sec.

S. 238 Haven St., Spokane, Wash.

COLLEGE DAY OFFERING.

Branch presidents, bishops and agents who have not forwarded the amounts received from college day offerwho have not ings will please do so at once. If through oversight or ings will please do so at once. It through oversight or some reason, your branch did not make an offering for the college on the regular day, you may arrange for a special offering before the first of the year. It is the effort this year to have each branch represented in harmony with the action of the general conference.

E. L. Kelley, Presiding Bishop.

Independence, Mo., Nov. 14, 1914,

MARRIED.

Hull-Keown.—At the home of the bride's aunt, Mrs. Adah Linkenhoger, 508 N. 9th St., St. Joseph, Mo, October 31, 1914, Bro. Oscar G. Hull of Cameron, Mo, and Sr. (Miss.) Vida M. Keown of Lamoni, Iowa, Elder Charles Fry officiating.

THANKSGIVING PROCLAMATION.

THANKSGIVING PROCLAMATION.

It has been the honored custom of our people to turn in the fruitful autumn of the year in praise and thanksgiving to Almighty God for His many blessings and mercies to us as a nation. The year that is now drawing to a close since we last observed our day of National Thanksgiving has been, while a year of discipline because of the mighty forces of war and of change which have disturbed the world, also a year of special blessing for us. It has been vouchsafed for us to remain at peace, with honor and in some parts to succept the suffering and sup-honor, and in some parts to succor the sufferin ply the needs of those who are in want. privileged by our own peace and self-control in some de-gree to steady the counsels and shape the hopes and purposes of a day of fear and distress. Our people have looked upon their own life as a nation with a deeper comprehension, a deeper realization of their responsibili-ties as well as of their blessings and a keener sense of the moral and practical significance of what their part among the nations of the world may come to.

The hurtful effects of foreign war in their own industrial and commercial affairs have made them feel the dustrial and commercial affairs have made them feel the more fully and see the more clearly their mutual dependence upon one another, and have stirred them to a helpful co-operation such as they have seldom practiced before. They have been quickened by a great moral stimulation. Their unmistakeable ardor for peace, their earnest pity and disinterested sympathy for those who are suffering, their readiness to help and to think of the needs of others have revealed them to themselves as well as to the world.

Our crops will feed all who need food; the self-pos-

Our crops will feed all who need food; the self-possessions of our people amid the most serious anxieties and difficulties and the steadiness and resourcefulness of our business men will serve other nations as well as our own.

The business of the country has been supplied with new instrumentalities and the commence of the world with new channels of trade and intercourse. The Panama Canal has been opened to the commerce of nations. The two continents of America have been bound in closer guise of friendship. New instrumentalities of inter-national trade have been created which will be also new instruments of acquaintance, intercourse and mutual service. Never before have the people of the United States been so situated for their own advantage or the advantage of their neighbors, or so equipped to serve themselves.

Therefore, I, Woodrow Wilson, President of the United States of America, do hereby designate Thursday, the twenty-sixth day of November next, as a day of Thanksgiving and prayer, and invite the people throughout the land to cease from their wonted occupations and in their several homes and places of worship render thanks to Almichty God Almighty God.

witness whereof I have hereunto set my hand and

In witness whereof I have hereunto set my hand and caused the seal of the United States to be affixed. Done at the city of Washington, this twenty-eighth day of October in the year of Our Lord One Thousand Nine Hundred and Fourteen, and the Independence of the United States of America the one hundred and thirtyninth.

WOODROW WILSON.

By the President, ROBERT LANSING, Acting Secretary of State.

DIVINE ASSURANCE. Given by the Spirit through Elder Joseph Luff, in June, 1911.

Tune, "Lead Kindly Light."

Sweet unto me the voice of supplication From hearts sincere. Sweet to my ear the humble adoration
That greets me here.
Be glad of heart; let not thy faith decline,

I still am near and thou art ever mine.

Whose in love my counsel shall obey.

My covenant with Zion shall remain

Walk in the light that on thy path now shineth-Church of my choice And whatsoe'er to me thy heart inclineth, Heed as my voice.

Talk not of night, nor give to sadness room I am thy God; fore'er dismiss thy gloom.

No fear need know;

No fear need know;

My hand shall guide their feet and guard their way

'Gainst every foe.

Yea, I will lead, thou shalt not plead in vain;

Lift up thine eyes! thy skies are now aglow With rays divine!

I am thy light! and o'er thy course below
Fore'er will shine.

My Spirit shall thy daily portion be,
And thou art safe if thoul't abide in me.

This will be published in leaflet form, 5c dozen, 25c a

WANTED-PARTNER: A brother in large baking establishment (east of the Mississippi) desires to get in touch with a brother who is a practical all around baker with a view to take an interest in the business as a partner.

siness established three and a half years: doing about $85,000 anually. Must be well recommended as to character and ability. Excellent opportunity for right party. st have about $2500.

Address, Bishop E. L. Kelley, Independence, Mo.

THE YEARLY OFFER ON THE ENSIGN.

November and December are bargain months as usual, during which time the Ensign will be sent to non-memduring which time the Ensign will be sent to non-members at half price. This offer, as usual is good only in the United States possessions, as the extra postage to foreign countries prohibits this offer extending there. This offer is good only during the months of November and December. It is unfair and hardly honorable for a member to stop their paper and then subscribe in the name of a member of their family who does not belong to the church for the sake of getting it at half price. That is not the object of this offer. It is for the sake of spreading the gospel among outsiders.

Address, Ensign Publishing House, Independence, Mo.

Address, Ensign Publishing House, Independence, Mo.

DIED.

Prettyman,--Chas. A. Prettyman, son of J. B. and Prettyman,—Chas. A. Prettyman, son of J. B. and Mary Prettyman, was born April 27, 1875, at Knox, Ind. He was united in marriage to Miss Eva Thornburg August 18, 1897. To this union six children were born, three sons and three daughters, of whom four have passed into the beyond. He was baptized into the L. D. S. Church by Elder S. W. L. Scott, on October 29, D. S. Church by Elder S. W. L. Scott, on October 29, 1914. He passed away after several years of poor health, at the age of 39 years, 6 months and 2 days. He was a kind husband and father, and generous and obliging to all about him, was a good business man until his health failed him. The funeral was held at his home at Knox, Ind., Elder Samuel Stroh officiating. The large attendance showed the high esteem in which he was held. He leaves to mourn a faithful wife, two children, an aread father and mother three sisters and other relatives aged father and mother, three sisters and other relatives

Williamson.—Bro. William E. Williamson was born February 4th, 1852, in the township of Miller, Lasalle County, Illinois. He was united in marriage in his native township to Miss Sallie O. Sampson, December 12, 1878. To this union were born seven children; wo died early in life. Brother Williamson died at his home, in the township in which he was born, October 29, 1914, after a very painful illness, which was borne with patience and resignation. At death he was 62 years, eight months. after a very painful illness, which was borne with patience and resignation. At death he was 62 years, eight months, and 25 days old. He leaves to mourn their loss a faithful wife, five children, one sister and five brothers. He was buried from the Saints' Chapel, town of Miller, Ill., Sunday, November 1st, 1914. The services were conducted by Elder Thomas Hougas, whose pastorate over the local congregation covers a period of over 40 years. The sermon was by Elder F. M. Cooper of Plano, Ill. Bro. Williamson had been a member of the Church for many years. His services as a public official, which had been efficient and continuous for years, had brought him in touch with his fellow citizens and gained for him the confidence and esteem of all. His even ways and gentle confidence and esteem of all. His even ways and gentle manners made him an ideal husband and father, as well as a citizen, the lustre of whose Christian life and characwill shine on while life and memory endure.

Bates,-Selinda Ellen Newton, who passed away Battes,—Seinda Ellen Newton, who passed away veneaday, Nov. 4, 1914, was born in Jackson County, Missouri, March 24, 1839. She was married to Wm. E. Battes, February 12, 1884. Eight children were born to this union. She was baptized into the Christian Church at Independence, Mo., in 1869. She was the mother of Sr. Space. The funeral was held Friday, Nov. 6, 1914, at 269 Tremont Ave., Kansas City, Mo., Elder G. E. Harrington, vesching the sermon. rington preaching the sermon.

Burriel Walling to

ENSIGN PUBLICATIONS.
And Other Books for Sale by the Ensign Publishing House.

Zion's Ensign, the missionary paper, containing gospel sermons and articles, church news and interesting letters. Per year $1.00

Book of Mormon Dictionary. A complete pronouncing Dictionary of proper names in the Book of Mormon, with definitions and explanatory notes. Paper, 25c; cioth, 40c; leather $2.00.65 Book of Mormon characteristics and explanatory motes. Paper, 25c; cioth, 40c; leather consumer the Book of Mormon with definitions and explanatory notes. Paper, 25c; cioth, 40c; leather ... $0.56.

Doctrinal References. A compilation of references under subject headings of texts connected with the gospel, taken from the Bible, Book of Mormon and Doctrine and Covenants. A very handy reference book. Paper covers, 10c; cioth, 25c.

Our Missionaries in Bible Lands. A compination of interesting view characteristics of the compination of interesting view characteristics. Paper covers, 50c; cloth boards. So.75.

Marvelous Manifestations. (Revised edition.) Authentic accounts of the healing of the sick, restoring sight to the blind and other manifestations of God's miraculous power. Paper covers, 20c; cloth boards. 35c; leather ... 35.50.

Three Bibles Compared. A comparison between the King James, the Revised and he Inspired Versions. 25c. 35c; leather ... 36.50.

Book of Mormon of Mormon, 115 high paper covers, 20c; cloth boards. 25c; for $1.00; cloth beards. 25c; for $1.00; The Christian System $1.00

CAMBRIDGE AND BAGSTER BIBLES.

Order by Number.

H125X — Cambridge Teachers' edition.
French Morocco, India paper, silk sewed, opens flat, references, concordance, encyclopedia, helps, etc., and yet only % inch thick by 4%, by 6%, and weighs only 14 ounces; as well as well as the second of the s under gold edges. $125, 53726, S126—Same as S125, with button clasp.$2.35 S130—Same as S125, leather lined .....$2.70 H15—A fine little Bible at a low price. French Morocco, divinity circuit, red under gold edges, flexible, over-lapping cover. Size, 5 % x3 % ... $1.25

Evans. Rar F66X—Same as F65A, w.u. $1.60

R65X—Large type Bible in small compass, 8½x5½, 1 inch thick, India paper, French Morocco, divinity circuit, red under gold 2,280

R70X—Same as R65X, except binding French Levant and leather lined. $4.25 NEW TESTAMENTS.

Leatherette cover, red edges. $0.15

French Morocco, limp, red under gold.

Lambettin, divinity circuity, limp, red. occupies, red under gold. $0.30

O.F. VID BIRLES.

Leather limed to edge, silk sewed, round corners, red under gold degges, black faced type, thin India paper. This is a beautiful little NEW TESTAMENTS.

04267 X.-

Bible. Because of the thin India paper it is only % of an inch thick. $4.75 94195 Alaska Seal binding, otherwise the same as 04207X ... $4.50
4181—French Morocco, divinity circuit, round corners, red under gold edges, nonparell type, self-pronouncing, maps and 32 photo views of scenes in Bible lands ... $1.35
01608—The Bible for the home use Large, clear print, French Morocco, divinity circuit, round corners, red under gold edges ... $2.00
03203X—A model Bible, India paren black clear print, French Morocco, divinity circuit, round corners, red under gold edges $2.60

03203X—A model Bible. India paper, black faced minion type, French Morocco, divinity circuit, linen lined, round corners, red under gold edges, 7½x inches $2.75

03581X—Alaska Scal, leather lined, Oxford India paper, silk sewed, large long primer type, round corners, red under gold edges $6.00

04523—French Morocco, self-pronouncing, long primer type, linen lined, divinity circuit, round corners, red under gold edges $2.50

The 1911 Bible. Of this Bible the Herald and Presbyter says: "The 1911 Bible is far the best translation ever given to the English speaking people." It is beautifully printed in large black faced type, bound in French Morocco, flexible, opening flat, round corners, red under gold edges, has headband and silk marker and 12 maps $2.00

The 1911 Bible. Printed on genuine Oxford in large near head and silk marker and 12 maps $2.00 OXFORD TESTAMENTS.

021—French grained, red edges ... $0.20
022—Same as 021, with gilt edges ... $0.30
030—French Morocco, round corners, limp
red under gold edges ... $0.30
01240—Morocco grain, round corners, red edges, long primer type; size, 6½x
4½ ... $0.50
We give such Bibles as are carried in stock, but can supply any Bible on reasonably short notice. The Oxford line of Bibles is very extensive, from which we list a few of the best and most popular ones.

TRACTS.

The following tracts are excellent and suitable for distribution among those not identified with the latter day work. They may be obtained, all of one kind or assorted as desired, at the following prices except as otherwise noted:
Two copies $0.05
Six copies 110
One dozen copies 220
100 copies 125

No less than 50 copies at 100 rate.
"Why I Became a Latter Day Saint," by
Elder Joseph Luff. "Future Punishment," by Elder R. C.

Evans.

"The Book of Mormon; Evidences of Its Divinity," by Elder R. C. Evans.

"Creed Making," by Elder I. M. Smith.

"Good News," A tract of tracts on several different subjects by as many writers.

"The Church of Christ," by Elder Edward Ramie.

"Who Was Joseph Smih," by Elder J. W.

"A Glimpse at the Government of God," by Elder Paul M. Hanson. "Reasons Why. Shall We Hear Them?" Revised edition. By Elder J. W. Peterson

"Revised edition. By Biller J. W. Peterson.
"Twelve Reasons Why I Beliver The Book of Mormon," by Elder Charles Fry.

"Joseph Smith; Vas He a. Prophet of od?" by Elder R. C. Evans.

The following at special prices named:
"What We Believe," an epitome of the faith of the Church. Per dozen 5 cents; 50
for 20 cents; 100, 35 cents.

"Items of Teaching Found in the Book
offormon." Compiled by the Independence Religio Good Litertaure Committee. A
ract of ten pages. Three for 5 cents; 12
for 15 cents; 100 for $1.00.

"Latter Day Saints; Who Are They" by

"Latter Day Saints; Who Are They" by Elder T. W. Williams. Three for 5 cents; 12 for 15 cents; 100 for $1.00.
"Is Water Baptism Essential to Salvation?" by Elder Joseph Luff. Three for 5 cents; 12 for 15 cents; 50 for 40 cents; 100 for 75 cents.

cents, 10 cents.
"Seventy-one Theological Questions." Per dozen, 10 cents; per 100, 60 cents.

Fully Pe

friends and adjunction of the first state of the fi dozen $0.00 Circulating Library rules, per doz-Circulating Lioux. $0.10 en, $0.10 Sunday School Library Regula-$0.05

| Sunday | School Library | Neg | Sunday | Sunday | Sunday | Sunday | Sunday | Sunday | Sunday | Sunday | Sunday | Sunday | Sunday | Sunday | Sunday | Sunday | Sunday | Sunday | Sunday | Sunday | Sunday | Sunday | Sunday | Sunday | Sunday | Sunday | Sunday | Sunday | Sunday | Sunday | Sunday | Sunday | Sunday | Sunday | Sunday | Sunday | Sunday | Sunday | Sunday | Sunday | Sunday | Sunday | Sunday | Sunday | Sunday | Sunday | Sunday | Sunday | Sunday | Sunday | Sunday | Sunday | Sunday | Sunday | Sunday | Sunday | Sunday | Sunday | Sunday | Sunday | Sunday | Sunday | Sunday | Sunday | Sunday | Sunday | Sunday | Sunday | Sunday | Sunday | Sunday | Sunday | Sunday | Sunday | Sunday | Sunday | Sunday | Sunday | Sunday | Sunday | Sunday | Sunday | Sunday | Sunday | Sunday | Sunday | Sunday | Sunday | Sunday | Sunday | Sunday | Sunday | Sunday | Sunday | Sunday | Sunday | Sunday | Sunday | Sunday | Sunday | Sunday | Sunday | Sunday | Sunday | Sunday | Sunday | Sunday | Sunday | Sunday | Sunday | Sunday | Sunday | Sunday | Sunday | Sunday | Sunday | Sunday | Sunday | Sunday | Sunday | Sunday | Sunday | Sunday | Sunday | Sunday | Sunday | Sunday | Sunday | Sunday | Sunday | Sunday | Sunday | Sunday | Sunday | Sunday | Sunday | Sunday | Sunday | Sunday | Sunday | Sunday | Sunday | Sunday | Sunday | Sunday | Sunday | Sunday | Sunday | Sunday | Sunday | Sunday | Sunday | Sunday | Sunday | Sunday | Sunday | Sunday | Sunday | Sunday | Sunday | Sunday | Sunday | Sunday | Sunday | Sunday | Sunday | Sunday | Sunday | Sunday | Sunday | Sunday | Sunday | Sunday | Sunday | Sunday | Sunday | Sunday | Sunday | Sunday | Sunday | Sunday | Sunday | Sunday | Sunday | Sunday | Sunday | Sunday | Sunday | Sunday | Sunday | Sunday | Sunday | Sunday | Sunday | Sunday | Sunday | Sunday | Sunday | Sunday | Sunday | Sunday | Sunday | Sunday | Sunday | Sunday | Sunday | Sunday | Sunday | Sunday | Sunday | Sunday | Sunday | Sunday | Sunday | Sunday | Sunday | Sunday | Sunday | Sunday | Sunday | Sunday | Sunday | Sunday | Sunday | Sunday | Sunda

District Secretary's Record. Price
Home Department Supplies. Leaft 6 of 18 of 25 of

ENSIGN PUBLISHING HOUSE, Independence, Mo.

OFFICERS VISITING CARD
We have for sale a universal visiting and to be used by Branch Officers. It is arragned with spaces for recording names of those in families belonging to the church and also for those not belonging to the church and year), and names of visiting officers, also space for remarks. This card when properly filled out shows the names of all members of the family visited, non-members at the same state, and the spiritual condition is excellent, fair or post the name of the officer visiting the family and the date of the visit, also the address of the family, and any other information it might be wise to add under head of Remarks. There should be at least one card for every family in the branch. The earlies are 4x74 inches. The price is 8 cents a dozen or 40 cents a hundred. Address, Ensign Publishing House, Independence, Mo.

UNITED ORDER OF ENOCH HOUSE,

Everybody Welcome, Saints and Strangers No. 10: North River Boulevard, near the Stone thurch. Best accommodations. Prices reasonable, Bell Phone 613 Chas, A, and Amy T. Gurwell IN CHARGE

Fine 50 foot vacant lot, 24th and Troup.
Streets paved, four blocks from Chelsea Saints
Church. Address "Owner" 1928 N. 24th St.
Kansas City, Kans.
FOR SALE OR RENT

The former home of H. R. Mills on West Short Street is offered for sale .or rent Lot 75x200, South front. House, nine rooms besides closets. Strictly modern. Good barn and woodshed. Terms eas Apply to A. H. Mills, Independence, Mo.

WAR ATLAS

Cram's Atlas of the war comprising 16 pages 11x14½ and cover, giving fine maps of all the nations of Europe, those in war or likely to be especially emphasized. On the two inside cover pages is given the army and navy equipment of all the European nations as well as the United States and Japan. With this Atlas in connection with deliver nave one may be able to locate the daily news one may be able to locate the movements of the armies and have a more comprehensive idea of how the war is being conducted.

ONLY 25 CENTS

Get them of

Ensign Publishing House, Independence, Mo.

FAST LOSING POPULARITY.

UNIVERSAL DIARY.

We now have a universal diary, suitable for any minister from deacon up, made to conform with the universal report blanks. They are the same size and shape as the diaries we have hitherto had for sale, but will contain about double the number of pages, there being about 24 pages in the front and back for a financial record, and pages of the same as the others were sold at, only 10 cents. Address Ensign Publishing House, Independence, Mo.

FOR SALE.

A very desirable Apartment House 2 blocks from Stone Church, 1 block from car line. Modern. Fine opportunity for some family of Saints who wish to secure property in Independence that will bring them an income. $4000 cach will handle it. Address 'X' care Ensign Publishing House, Independence, Mo.

GINSENG.

The growing of GINSENG is a profitable industry, an Agricultural Business with good profits attached. Persons with a small parcel of land can start a good paying business with a small investment that yields good dividends. Send for our booklet, 'The ABC of Ginseng', get our prices, and learn how to better your financial condition. Address.

Address.

ess, Chas. F. Church & Son. Lamoni, Iowa

W. E. MESSENGER, M. D.

Physician and Surgeon. Calls answered day or night. Office and Residence 806 W. Maple Ave. Independence, Mo. Bell Phone 12

Special attention given to Anesthetics

ONIONS.

ONIONS.

A car load of onions has been shipped here for sale by one of the brethren in Indiana. The party they were consigned to has turned them over to the Fender-Scott Co. Any one wanting onions can get them there, delivered for $1 per hundred pounds.

Loose Leaf Sheets

For Local Religio Secretary's Record

Per dozen, 10 cents; per 100 $0.60 If you have not seen them, send for free sample to

> ENSIGN PUBLISHING HOUSE. Independence, Mo.

Universal Class Card

Send for sample of the Universal Class Cards, for use in both Sunday School and Religio. The Independence Schools have them in general

Price per doz 8 cents, per 100 60 cents ENSIGN PUBLISHING HOUSE,

Independence, Mo

NOW FOR CHRISTMAS!! In addition to the many Bibles we have on hand we have added another line of five choice ones, and none very expensive. The first three are beautifully printed in red and black—all of Christ's sayings in the New Testament and all reference to Him in the Old and New Testament are printed in red. This is a very useful feature. For instance, in turning the leaves whenever anything is observed in red it will be known that it is either the Master's sayings or something in reference to Him. They are beautfully printed and bound, and either one of the five here listed will make a fine large Teacher's Bibles, self-pronouncing and large type. Order by number and be careful to get the number right. Don't put off ordering, as you will be disappointed in not getting your book in time for Christred. This is a very useful feature. For inin not getting your book in time for Christmas.

03454—Beautifully printed with heavy faced minion type in red and black.
All of Christ's sayings and passages alluding to him are printed in red. French Morocco, divinity circuit, round corners, red under gold

Same as the first one, except it has

OUR CREED: "ALL TRUTH."

VOL. 25

INDEPENDENCE, MISSOURI, THURSDAY, NOVEMBER 26, 1914

NO. 48

Hennan CSunin

ZION'S ENSIGN

Published by the Reorganized Church of Jesus Christ of Latter Day Saints, every Thursday, at Independence, Mo., at $1.00 per year.

CHARLES FRY, EDITOR W. H. DEAM, Bus, MANAGER

W. H. DEAM, Bus, MANAGER
In writing concerning subscriptions, always give the nam of the Post Office to which, your paper has been going, as by so doing the cost of hours in looking for it may be avoid subscriptions. As the cost of th

ENSIGN PUBLISHING HOUSE, Independence, Mo

Recently a Protestant minister of one of our western states, speaking on the subject: "The Fundamentals of the Christian Faith," classed Christian Scientists, Unitarians, and Latter Day Saints as adherents of a religion other than the Christian religion. Others may answer to this as they may or can, but as for the saints represented in the Reorganized Church of Jesus Christ of Latter Day Saints, we hold that their religion in its fundamentals is purely Christian, and is worthy of the support of all people. The fundamentals of the Christian faith as set forth by this minister, as reported by the "Eugene Guard," of Eugene, Oregon, are as follows:

The authority of God's word—meaning the acceptance of the Bible as an authority.

The personal God-the acceptance of God as a being with consciousness, intelligence, free will and moral character.

The Deity of Jesus. The Deity of the Holy Spirit.

The Biblical doctrine of man as a creature made in the image of God.

The divine origin and authority of the Church of

The future-the doctrines of heaven and hell.

Though we do not endorse this particular classification of fundamentals, we are not unwilling to be judged by it in determining whether we are Christian, though we would prefer to be judged by the whole system of Christian teaching as found in the Bible, believing that our faith will bear an exacting test.

The Authority of the Bible.

The Church from the time of its organization has ever held the Bible to be the rule of faith and teaching, though it has not been held that it contained the sum total of God's revelation to man. The Bible is the standard accepted as containing the revealed will of God, and whatever else may come to the Church purporting to be the word of the Lord must agree with this standard, and it is not true as some have urged that because Latter Day Saints accept other revelation than that contained in the Bible that they therefore of necessity reject that sacred book. The light in which the Bible is held may be seen from the following quotations. Speaking of the coming forth of the Book of Mormon, with reference to the Holy Scriptures, a revelation says:

the Holy Scriptures, a revelation says:

And I will bring to light my gospel which was ministered unto them, and behold they shall not deny that which you have received, [in the Bible,] but they shall build it up, and shall bring to light the true points of my doctrine; yea, and the only doctrine which is in me; and this I do, that I may establish my gospel, that there may not he so much contention. Doctrine and Covenate 3:15 nants 3:15.

And again, speaking of the one chosen to bring forth the Book of Mormon, we read that God

Gave unto him commandments which inspired him, and gave him power from on high, by the mean which were before prepared, to translate the Book of Meranon, were before prepared, to translate the Book of Memory, which contains a record of a fallen people, and the full-ness of the ground of a fallen people, and the full-ness of the ground of Jesus Christ to the Gentiles, and to the Jews, also, which was given by inspiration, and is confirmed to others by the ministering of angels, and is declared unto the world by them, proving to the world that the Holy Scriptures are true, and that God does inspire man and call them his holy work in this age and generation, as well as in generations of old, thereby showing that he is the same God yesterday, to-day, and forever. Doctrine and Covenants 17:2. The ministers of the Church were commanded thus:

Thou shalt take the things which thou hast received, which have been given unto their my Seriptures [the Bible] for a law, to be my law, to govern my Church; and he that doeth according to these things, shall be saved, and he that doeth them not shall be damned, if he continues. Doctrine and Covenants 42:16.

Nephi, a prophet who lived about 600 B. C. in describing a vision of the last days, says:

And the angel spake unto me, saying, These last records which thou hast seen among the Gentiles The Book of Mormon, shall establish the truth of the first, which are of the twelve apostles of the Lamb, [the Bible]. Book of Mormon, 1 Nephi 3: 192.

One of the resolutions of General Conference reads:

That we recognize the Bible, Book of Mormon, and Doctrine and Covenants as the only standard works of the Church.

These evidences are sufficient to establish the Church's endorsement of the authority of the Bible. The acceptance of other revelation which itself supports this first authority, by no means weakens our faith in the Bible teaching but strengthens it. Nor does the Bible anywhere teach that it contains all the word of God that ever has been or ever would be revealed, but gives abundant evidence of God's eternal purpose of continuing his work among men, and of making known his will to them. The canon of Scripture was closed long after men claim that revelation ceased, showing that it was done without divine direction and authority. God declared through Isaiah that "precept must be upon precept, precept upon precept; line upon line, line upon line; here a little, and there a little." The times of The times of of God's silence were due to the unfaithfulness of men.

The Godhead.

The first article of the epitome of faith declares:

We believe in God the eternal Father, and in his Son s Christ, and in the Holy Ghost.

No one who has read the three standard books of the Church-the Bible, Book of Mormon, and Doctrine and Covenants-will doubt for a moment that God, as accepted by Latter Day Saints, is a personal Being, whose glory is intelligence, and who rules in heaven and in earth, that he is perfect in character, and unchangeable. The Bible doctrine that Jesus is in fact the Son of God receives abundant confirmation in the other books and in the faith of the Church. hold that the Holy Spirit is the same in power and character and purpose as it was in ancient times, and that it operates in men today to produce the same results as anciently in spiritual and physical blessing in those that follow its leadings, bringing all to divine sonship, and unfolding the purposes of God.

Man in the Image of God.

Latter Day Saints fully endorse the Bible teaching that man was made in the image and likeness of God; that God "made of one blood all nations of men for to dwell on all the face of the earth, and hath determined the times before appointed, and the bounds of their habitation." (Acts 17:26.) In this the Bible is supported by the other two standard books of the Church, the Book of Mormon giving a practical example of the providence of God in directing his creatures in seeking their appointed places in the earth, and in caring for their temporal and spiritual necessities. According to this book a colony of Israelites were led from Jerusalem in B. C. 600 under the direction of the Lord to the Western Continent where they became a great nation, and were given a knowledge of Christ and the gospel in which many found salvation. The Book of Mormon is a history of this nation. All nations are of one blood, being the children of the one God by creation, and dependent upon the one Savior and Redeemer for their salvation. No people believe more fully in the universal Fatherhood of God and the brotherhood of man than the Latter Day Saints.

The Divine Origin and Authority of the Church of Jesus Christ.

The establishment of the Church under the direction and authority of Jesus Christ and the Holy Spirit during the early years of the Christian era is firmly believed by the saints, who also believe that for the Church to retain divine approval and have the divine direction it must abide in the original doctrine and hold the same organization. From the doctrine and organization of the early Christian Church men have very largely departed. Change upon change has been made until men have discovered in part the erroneous standards which have come to be accepted, and in consequence have, in their efforts to get back to the original pattern, developed new systems of faith, and new forms of organization, until their multiplicity gives indubitable evidence of the absence of divine direction or approval. The Church in its original form, doctrine, and life-giving power, long since ceased to exist, and the numerous efforts under the Reformation to restore it have not done so.

The Church of Jesus Christ, known by the legal name of "The Reorganized Church of Jesus Christ of Latter Day Saints," had a divine origin; its system of doctrine was given by the power of God, reaffirming that taught in the Bible; the pattern for its organic form was given by revelation; it was organized by direct command of God, and the authority of its priesthood was restored from heaven by angelic hands. No such claims are held by either Catholic or Protestant churches and the saints are looked upon as claiming too much divinity in the origin and authority of the Church, but their claims have so far borne the test of investigation. The history of the Church, its work in the world, its prophecy, the fulfillment of prophecy, its pure doctrine, and the confirming blessings of the Holy Spirit, all tend to support these claims.

The Future—Heaven and Hell.

The three standard books of the Church are in full agreement as to the future. There is a heaven and a hell, though the old theory of all men being consigned to one or the other at death. there to abide for ever, is not taught in the Scrip-"In my Father's house are many mantures. "In my Father's house are many mansions," said Jesus, and the books agree that at death men are assigned to a place of temporary abode adapted to their condition or fitness where they await the time of their resurrection, the righteous in peace and happiness, the wicked in fear and torment. At the return of the Savior to earth the righteous—those who are his, and the heathen who have not known Christ-will come forth in the "first resurrection;" the rest must await the close of the thousand years during which time Christ will reign on earth, when all will be resurrected and be judged according to their works, every man receiving a reward according to his deeds.

Reorganized Church Orthodox.

If these fundamentals are to determine our orthodoxy then we are surely orthodox, and our ministerial friend in the West will need to set forth another classification of principles if he is to prove the Reorganized Church to be un-christian. The principles of doctrine found in the New Testament are those accepted and followed by this Church, and in harmony with the teachings of Christ is the "Ensign's" motto: "Our Creed: All Truth." Formal creeds have always been restrictive, but under this motto as under the Spirit of Christ the whole field of divine truth is open to the faithful child of God, and opportunity is offered to the divine Head of the Church of speaking to the Church when he may choose without restraint. Christ rules in his Church and when he speaks the Church stand ready to receive and carry his word into effect.

LATEST PROHIBITION RETURNS.

Of the States voting for State-wide Prohibition last week, California and Ohio went dry. In California, the question cannot be raised again for eight years. In Ohio, 77 out of 88 countles voted dry, but the two cities of Cleveland and Cincinnati gave the large liquor vote that overcame the rest of the State. On the other hand, five States have voted dry in the past month and a half—Virginia, Oregon, Colorado, Washington and Arizona. Instead of 71 per cent of the United States area being dry, now 75 per cent is dry. Instead of 46,000,000 people living in dry territory, there now are 52,000,000 people under the white fing of prohibition.

Alabama and Idaho have elected legislatures pledged the morbitistics and legislature spredig the people with the problem.

to prohibition, and legislative enactment will speedily follow.

conow.

All this is highly encouraging to the friends of temperance, and indicates that growth in sentiment which must eventually sweep out of existence the whole nefarious business.—The Presbyterian.

INDEPENDENCE ITEMS.

INDEPENDENCE ITEMS.

A beautiful Sabbath dawned, warm and pleasant, after a week of freezing weather. The sermon at the stone church in the morning was delivered by Bro. M. H. Bond. He stated that he would talk on war, but not the bloody war of Europe now engrossing the minds of the people, that all learn enough of that from the daily papers. So he preached on the war against sin and the devil. It was announced at the morning meeting that Elder Joseph Luff would preach at night, his subject being "The Basis of Utah Mormon Polygamy." In the evening Bro. Luff announced his subject. The basis of Utah Mormon Polygamy."

Bro. Luff announced his subject. The basis of Utah Mor-mon polygamy is a revelation purported to have been given through Joseph Smith in 1843, but which was never given through Joseph Smith in 1843, but which was never made known till 1852, eight years after the death of Joseph Smith. This however, remains yet to be proven. We will not attempt to give a synopsis of the wonder-ful sermon, but it was one to confound every Utah Mor-mon and establish the position held by the Reorganization. He showed the inconsistency and contradictory attitude of the polygamous revelation, and showed that it would make Joseph Smith a falsifier, a blasphemer and a breaker of the laws of the land. He read the word of God on marriage from both the Book of Mormon and the Doctrine and Covenants, and then from the Times and Seasons of which Joseph Smith was editor, wherein he stated that he never asked God for a revelation on a matter on which he had already spoken or given light on, and this polygamous revelation states that Joseph Smith went before the Lord asking for information as to why God justified David and Solomon and others in having more than one wife, after God had already spoken to more than one wire, after God had already spoken both the Nephites and also as recorded in the Doctrine and Covenants. The monogamic revelation says that we will be damned if we do not observe it, and the polygamous one reverses it and says we will be damned if we do not observe it, the polygamous one. He showed how this polygamous revelation discounted the atonement of Chairt, and through it can avoid be imputed. this polygamous revelation discounted the atonement of Christ, and through it one would be immune from all manner of sin including the sin against the Holy Ghost, except the shedding of innocent blood, and it advocated the shedding of blood where one-was found in a fault. It also stated that by Joseph Smith's entering into the provisions of this revelation all things should be added to him, including prolongation of life here, and that if his wife Emma did not comply with it she should be cut while the facts are that Joseph's life was cut short and his wife's was prolonged for thirty-six years. That alone would condemn it as false. Emma to her dying hours declared that there was no such a revelation.

hours declared that there was no such a revelation.

Probably the principal reason why Bro. Luff preached on the subject of polygamy is that the city has been visited the last week or more by scores of Elders of the Utah church who have been going about tracting the city and giving invitations to attend their church dedication last Sunday. Some of the young elders in their visits from house to house have run against snags when they grappled with members of the Reorganization. When propositions were put to them which they denied they were told to study their books and become posted. they were tone to study their sooks and some from Salt Lake City, including Joseph F. Smith and one of his sons. They have a pretty little church, costing $25,000. We understand from a local paper that most of the money to build it came from Salt Lake City.

The annual Thanksgiving concert of the choir will be given at the stone church Thursday night, November 26, beginning at 8 o'clock. A silver collection will be taken for the benefit of the choir music fund. The choir is in need of considerable funds for music for the coming year, need of considerable funds for music for the coming year, to accomodate the increasing membership, and in meeting the demand for first class music. A good concert is promised. The admission is free, but those who feel able to help are asked to contribute what they can for the cause of good music.

The splendid result of the county local option election The splendid result of the county local option election held last August has been set aside in a suit brought before Judge Johnson by the saloon interests on a technicality, not because the election was not carried by the "drys" by a big majority, but a technicality in the petition. A new trial is asked by the attorneys for the the "drys" by a big majority, but a technicality in the petition. A new trial is asked by the attorneys for the "drys." It is thought that an appeal to a higher court would result in a reversal of the decision.

Tuesday afternoon and evening November 24, a reception was given in honor of the seventieth birthday anniversary of Bishop E. L. Kelley, it being a surprise to the Bishop. His birthday, however, was a week previous, but he was absent in Canada. Invitation was given to every one, public announcement being given in the church when the Bishon was not present, and it showed church when the Bishop was not present, and it showed that there are a lot of close-mouthed people, when they are a mind to be at least, for Bro. Kelley was not "wise" that there are a lot of close-monthed people, when they of what was to bappen. Each person first registered his name, and then, if he felt so disposed, threw an offering into a jar. It was destrict that offerings be given to the amount of one Jollar for each of his seventy years of life, but in all there was one hundred dollars received, and over four hundred names registered. Bro. Joseph Luff read a poem composed by himself in honor of Bro. Kelley, and presented to him the donation. The song of admonition was sung by all present, and then Bro.

1-1-1

J. W. Rushton offered a most beautiful and impressive J. W. Rushton oltered a most beautitul and impressive prayer. After the choir were through practicing for the Thanksgiving concert it came over in a body and sang a beautiful anthem. The Sunday school orchestra was present in the early part of the evening and rendered some excellent music. The poem by Bro, Luff will appear in next week's Ensign.

ST. JOSEPH, FIRST BRANCH.

We have been enjoying the delightful weather which we been having this fall, but perhaps it has been a fruitful producer of the disease germs, that have spread so much sickness abroad in our city of late. However the one "cold snap" we have had, has given them a decided set back, which we hope will be permanent.

Sunday morning the 13th Bro. R. Winning was the speaker at the morning service and Bro. Charles Fry speaker at the morning service and Bro. Charles Fry cocupied the evening hour. Because of the prevalence of contagious diseases in the city, no Sunday school was held in any of the churches, by order of the Board of Health. This proved to be a detriment to our school, as upon assembling on the following Sunday it was found that the attendance and collection was the smallfound that the attendance and collection was the small-est we have had for a long time, owing we presume to the fear among the people, that contagious conditions still existed. The temperance program which was arranged for the 16th had to be abandoned, also any Thanksgiving ex-ercises. However at the Sunday school monthly business meeting it was voted to send $2.50, to the temperance cause and $10.00 to the Bishop as a Thanksgiving offering, also a special collection for the benefit of the poor among us, was decided upon.

Sunday the 22nd Elder Charles Fry preached the morning sermon, and in the evening Patriarch Wm. Lewis spoke, his subject being "Is the Canon of Scripture Full?"
Quite a large congregation listened with interest to the clear arguments of the speaker.

The prayer meeting at 6 o'clock was well attended and much enjoyed, being spiritual and comforting.

On last Friday night the Religio was fairly well attended. The lesson proved interesting and the program following exceptionally good. Beautiful piano selections tollowing exceptionally good. Beautiful plano selections were given by Vera Brooks and Pearl Kinnaman, vocal duet by Athena Scott and Clara Hawkins, solo by Grace Fifer, reading by Jeanette Pugsley, and "The Bugle," our monthly periodical by our President, Roy Fifer.

The meals that were served down in the business district by the Sewing and Aid Department of the Woman's Auxiliary of the Wyatt Park Mission during the State Teacher's convention here, found favor among the people and were well patronized. The 1st branch society rendered all the aid they could to the Wyatt Park sisters, and we are glad to say that the venture was quite successful, a good sum beign realized from it.
The "Country Fair" given by the "Booster's Clu

the church last Tuesday evening was a novel affair, being entirely under the management of the men. The "Rubens," were out in full force—in overalls, straw hats, and bandanas, and the lassies came too, in calico aprons and sunbonnets. i sunbonnets. It was a pleasant occasion, and we give the honor to the gentleman.

Next on our program comes an oyster supper and sale, to be given by the Aid Department of the Woman's Auxiliary of the first branch, about the middle of December. Our church is needing some repairs badly, and as this part of the work has always been the especial care of the Aid Society, it is getting busy now.

There is considerable sickness among us at present, and Bro. Fry and his assistants are kept quite busy attending to calls for administration. There are several of our people in the hospitals here, among them Bro. I. M. Mcpeople in the hospitals here, among them Bro. I. M. Mc-Cord of Cameron who was very seriously injured by the collapsing of a building which fell upon him one day last week. He suffers a fractured skull, dislocated shoulder, and internal injuries. Fervent and heartfelt were the prayers of God's people, last night at the prayer meeting for these suffering dear ones. Oh that we might live close to our loving heavenly Father that when we call upon him in the time of trouble and affliction we can confidently expect the blessing to follow.

ST. LOUIS BRANCH ITEMS.

All our services, we are glad to report, have taken on a decided spirit of improvement. Since the time, on a decined spirit of improvement. Since the time, marking a change, holding the Sunday school in the upper auditorium we have noticed a pleasing, gradual and healthy growth, much is due, however, to the ununtiring efforts of our splendid superintendent, Bro. R. A. Lloyd. His support we believe among the officers and teachers is not lacking in a single instance, the first step in organization for a successful school. The beginners and primary department is having a success never before attained, under Sr. Maud Parrish who has developed into one of our best workers.

The Religio work has had a goodly interest, the weekly sessions and the varied programs are being looked forward to and enjoyed. Our sacrament service the 1st inst. was enjoyed very much, the Spirit's power was with the Saints enjoyed very much, the Spirit's power was with the Saint's power was with the Saint testimonies, the outpouring of contrite hearts. Pledges also were made with God and under the mystic and divine spell all were thrilled and made to feel indeed how blessed to sit in heaventy places. Just previous to how blessed to sit in heaventy places. Just previous to the service Bro. Christy had baptized two. Continuing his work in Lansdowne he baptized 5 adults. Fellowing his tent work here he is to take up cottage meetings, beginning next Wednesday night. He desires the saints willing to aid in such cottage services to make it known. Bro. S. A. Burgess when at home always does his part and neglects not. His sermon Sunday night, September 1st, was good for all. Sunday the 8th we were favored by a visit from Bro. J. C. Foss, who some 30 years ago was a missionary to St. Louis. At that time belonded diliterative and hantized many. our branch years ago was a missionary to St. Louis. At that time he labored diligently and baptized many, our branch resident being one of that number. His heart rejoiced president being one of that number. His heart rejoiced in the privilege to labor here again, and we surely felt the force and power of his ministry, an attestation that our brother is still owned and recognized by his God. Sunday, the 14th, passed very pleasantly, Rro. Christy preached both morning and evening.

Our little neighboring branch is still holding out courageously in the work, though not great in numbers. Many times they prevail mightily in spirit, as was especially our experience at last Wednesday night's prayer meeting, every one present taking part in the service. Come meet with us, the Cheltenham Branch.

Sub.

FIRST CHICAGO ITEMS.

Sunday was a clear, cold day, marked by good attendance at all services. The morning preaching hour was occupied by Elder David E. Dowker, using the 5th chapter of Ephesians as a basis for his remarks.

At 3 p. m. we met at the chapel of the Central Chicago Branch in a union sacrament service, West Pullman, Central and First Chicago branches participating. A good degree of the Spirit was felt and through the gift of prophecy the branch presidents were encouraged, the assembly exhorted and one brother called to office of reject. This receives the respect to the second of the se of priest. This meeting marked the return of the union sacrament meetings of years ago, which were so greatly enjoyed and the present indications are that these, which will occur every three months, will be of the same caliber. Evening preaching on the west side was by Elder F. F. Wipper who spoke well on the subject of the ressurection.

Cottage preaching services are being held on Wednes-day evenings in various parts of the city, which we trust ill effect the desired result.

The Ladies Aid Society is calling for donations and the energetic, sacrificing effort that is being put forth is deserving of all the help that we can give them. We wish to again solicit the aid of the readers of these items and thank all in advance for any contributions they may send in.

We have also to record the arrival of a baby boy the home of Bro. and Sr. Rude Richter, causing smiles of appreciation to show forth on the part of the happy parents and words of admiration from their many parents and friends.

Geo. Worrell.

343 So. Keeler Ave.

SEATTLE,

Bro. and Sr. F. M. Sheehy are with us. He preached two sermons at our Riverside Mission and on Sunday occupied the church pulpit morning and evening, being listened to on both occasions by an audience filling the house. His counsel was sound and spiritual—apostolic. We were favored with two splendid solos—in the morning Sr. Irwin sang and at night Sr. Sheehy sang that ing 5r. Irwin sang and at night 5r. Sneeny sang that immortal composition "The City Foursquare."

Among the visitors at our services Sunday were Sr. A. E. Pershall of Spokane, also Sr. Pearl Dawson-Richards and husband of Sacramento, Calif., who are here on their wedding trip.

here on their wedding trip.

Our Bible Study Class held a very spiritual and interesting session Sunday at 5 p. m. There were about 25 present all taking a deep interest in the study, the subject being "Evidences of the divinity of Cirist." We can heartily recommend this work. We also held an interesting variety than the study of the study o interesting priesthood meeting on Sunday following the morning service. The Sunday school and Religio were above the average. The excellent paper so ably edited by Sr. Earlita Smith-Inslee and Richard Salvards Jr., was istened to with great interest at the Religio.

At the morning service the infant son of Bro and Sr. Simpson was blessed under the name of William Abbott. J. M. Terry.

102 North 39th, Seattle, Wash., Nov. 18.

SAN FRANCISCO, CALIF.

October 29 Apostle F. M. Sheehy and wife went to Portland, Oregon, in the interests of the work. He is Portland, Oregon, in the interests of the work. He is still up in that damp country. Sunday November I, we held our regular sacrament meeting. It was a peaceful pleasant meeting, but with nothing of special interest. Bro. Salter from Santa Ana worshipped with us. Priest Emery Parks was our evening speaker. Monday, Nov. 2, priesthood meeting was held. The attendance was small. Sunday, the 8th, Bishop C. A. Parkin spoke in the morning, and Elder J. A. Anthony at night. Apostle G. T. Griffiths arrived from Australia on the 12th and departed for his home on the 13th. He was called from Australia an account of the serious sickness of his wife. Hope he may find her condition improved on reaching there. may find her condition improved on reaching there.

Our Religio gave a literary entertainmnt at the church on the 13th. It was a very excellent affair, one of the best we have attended. They all acquitted themselves best we have attended. They all acquitted themselves very creditably. They afterwards repaired to the home of Bro. and Sr. Saxe, where games were indulged in and refreshments served. Bro. and Sr. R. J. Parker and others from Oakland were with us. Juo. A. Saxe was the speaker Sunday morning, and the writer in the evening. Geo. S. Lincoln.

Benzinsansansan Masansansansans

CORRESPONDENCE Burnermermerment wermermermer I

Contract Contract

Ute, Iowa, Nov. 12.

Ute, Iowa, Nov. 12.

Dear Ensign:—Truly dear are you to me; your every page bears comfort and instruction to hungry isolated souls. It has been four years since we have page bears comfort and instruction to hungry isolated souls. It has been four years since we have partaken of the sacrament or heard a sermon preached, other than funeral sermons which of course are very inspiring and encouraging. The only occasions in which we meet with the elders are on very sad occasions at times when our hearts are wrung with grief because of having to part for a time with our beloved ones whom God in his infinite mercy and wisdom has seen fit to call home. Our loss is their gain. May God bless and rest their souls and give us grace to say with our Master and example, "Thy will, not mine, be done." Our hearts have lately been saddened because of the desolation in the home of our dear sister, Mrs. Eather Willett, Soldier, Iowa, caused by the loss of her dear little baby boy. This is the second time in two years that this home has been called on to part with their beautiful little buds. They still have one draine little buy left to comfort them. Please on to part with their begandin little block. They sain have one darling little boy left to comfort them. Please pray for them that they may live closer to God and that the father may come into the kingdom scon.

My brother and his wife and family will move to Hornick, lows in the spring. His wife, Sr. Bernice Kårns wishes to know if there are any Saints living in or near Hornick in the spring. His wife's sister Bernice Kairns wishes to know if there are any Saints living in or near Hornick, and if so will they please correspond with her. Her present address is Mrs. Bernice Kairns, Soldier, Prophecy is being fulfilled very fast. Isaiah 13. 14-16. saiah 14th is full of comfort to those who read with Isaiah 14th is full of comfort to those who read with understanding. May God speed the day when wars may cease, and the people may learn war no more, when swords may be turned into plowshares and pruning hooks, that peace may reign on earth and the sweet gospel of peace he carried to all nations. God will move on the hearts of men and soften them, that they may be fertile soil for the seed of truth and his purpose shall be accomplished on earth in his own due time, and neade be fertile soil for the seed of truth and his purpose shall be accomplished on earth in his own due time, and peace and love will rule over all the land, and Jesus our Prince of Peace will surely come and be crowned Lord of lords and King of kings. Dear discouraged brothers and sisters, the time is not far distant for the fulfilling of all things. Don't get discouraged and say, God de-layeth his coming. There is work for each of us to do before he will come and I believe we can hasten his coming by doing our duty now and not by fainting.

Things that were such a mystery to me a few years ago are all so plain now. I ask God before I read to give me light and then I read and understand. God has doubtful. But I long to know the truth, and in so many ways God has revealed his will and purpose to me.

A dream or night vision was given to me about three ears ago. I seemed to be in company with a number of neighbors, watching and admiring a most beautiful sunset, after a shower of rain. Everything earthly seemed so fresh and beautiful and everyone happy and joyous, when a mighty wind arose in the east, and what seemed only the sky was lifted as a curtain and whipped into long ribbons by the wind and the ribbons were held by the wind fluttering above our heads, then we could see beyond the sky or curtain and a beautiful city seemed to just slide down from heaven and settle just beyond a few rods from our feet. The buildings as far as we could few rods from our feet. The buildings as far as we could see in every direction were of gold and shone beyond the brightness of the sun. The streets were cool and clean and there was a park with most beautiful trees, shrubs and flowers and fountains too beautiful to describe. We were all spell bound. Then the others looked to me for an explanation of the scene, and I said "It is the city and if we look close maybe we can get a glimpse himself." Then I felt rebuked in spirit, knowing of God himself." of God himself." Then I left reduked in spirit, knowing that none of us were fit to look upon God. Still we gazed in wrapt admination at the most beautiful scene. Suddenly two men dressed as our elders dress now, crossed a street hurriedly, almost running and stumbling toward the park. The vision closed and I awoke, feeling so re-freshed in soul and body and so near to God, and so rresned in soul and body and so near to God, and so thankful that I had had a glimpse of his glory. While I am very poor in this world's goods I am truly rich in the spirit and spiritual blessings. I hope to always live near to God and bring up my little boys to love and serve Him. I ask an interest in your prayers that I may prove faithful to the end.

Your sister in the one faith Sadie Rurch

Boise, Idaho, Nov. 16, 1914.

Dear Ensign:-I feel like writing to our beloved papers, and letting the saints elsewhere know that we are alive in Boise, and the majority at least, still have a alive in Bolse, and the majority at least, still have a firm hold on the rod of iron.

When that excellent plan of paying the church debt (by the head of each family paying a dollar a month, for six months) was first made public in the Herald, we read it with much satisfaction, and all agreed that "that is easy" and at the time every one of us meant to see that our six dollars reached the bishop before the six reaches criving. But how court it in the worlder that here see that our six dollars reached the bishop before the six months expired. But how easy it is to neglect, and par-ticularly a duty that calls for money. When the report of the bishop reached us behold there was one in Boise who had not forgotten! But we have learned the im-portant lesson of profiting by our mistakes, and in the light of recent events it seems a good thing that Boise did not make even a fair showing last year, for we might have been content to rest at that.

might have been content to rest at that.

At the first business meeting held after the bishop's report appeared in the Herald, the matter was brought to our attention by some of the zealous sisters, and they requested that a committee be appointed to work with requested that a committee he appointed to work with the bishop's agent in collecting money for the church debt. It was deemed a bad time to begin because of local conditions, most of the brethren being out of work, times hard, etc, but the committee was appointed con-sisting of the three sisters who instigated the movement, and they claim the chairman appointed them as a sort of punishment for their agitation. If this was true, the tables were soon turned, for almost before he knew what they were doing, they had a promise from him to pay twenty-five doilers before next general conference. However our chairman is game, and takes some of the credit to himself by looking wise and remarking "I knew who to appoint on that committee!'

Because the saints of the Idaho District are liable to hear more of this committee, I will tell them who it is:

Sr. T. B. Jackson chairman, Sr. Mamie Fuller secr-treas and Sr. Bertha Anderson. They have organized, and and Sr. Serial Anderson. They have organized, and served notice on us that there will be no excuses accepted but that six dollars is expected of every one, and mort if they can get it. Already one hundred and three dollars have been pledged, and thirty of it collected. We dollars have been pieaged, and thirty or it collected. We have thirty members in the city of Boise, half of them children, and I understand that the committee's campaign has not yet extended to the scattered members. One hundred dollars is not much on a debt of over fifty thousand, but dear saints if every branch according to its size will fall in line, and do as well, how long would the church be out of debt, and money left in the hands the church be out of debt, and money left in the hands of the bishop for the poor.

Do we realize what a wonderful thing this church organization is? How much God has done for us, and how little we do for him? Have we stopped to think that if every Latter Day Saint paid his titining there would be no church debt? Neither would there be any poor among us, but we would be as Enoch's city of old, Zion would be redeemed, and Christ would reign with us. Truly when a man's pocket book is converted "he is a good Latter Day Saint." But thank God we have many such, as our bishop's report showed.

We are proper to make excuses, and in time we get

We are prone to make excuses, and in time we get to believe in them ourselves. "Our families need so much of this and that, we are in debt, and we don't see how we can just now, but just as soon as we can, we are going to help the church along." Ah, dear saints is that what God wants? Is that what we have no need of that he wants us to give to him? Could not he raise all the money that is needed for carrying on his work? You know he could, but suppose he did, what good would that do you and me? We must learn the lesson of selfsacrifice, or we could not enjoy a redeemed Zion, even if we were permitted to remain in it. We must root out if we were permitted to remain in it. We must root out every selfish interest, put God's work first of all, and trust his promise that "all these things shall be added" unto us. Latter day revelation (D. C. 129) tells us that the church can not receive the blessings that they are expecting when Zion shall be redeemed "until" we reexpecting when Zion shall be redeemed "until" we respect the temporal law. We are not helping the Lord by keeping this law, but we are the ones that receive the benefit. It is a business proposition, a law given with promise: "Honor the Lord with thy substance, and with the first fruits of all thine increase: So shall thy barns be filled with plenty, and thy presses shall burst out with new wine." (Prov. 3:9, 10.) "Bring ye all the tithes into the store house, and prove me now herewith, saith the Lord of hosts, if I will not open you the windows of heaven and pour you te whesting that windows of heaven, and pour you out a blessing, that there shall not be room enough to receive it. And I will rebuke the devourer for your sakes, and he shall not destroy the fruits of your ground; neither shall your vine cast her fruit before the time in the field, saith the Lord of hosts." (Mal. 3:10, 11.)

was the "first fruits" he required in times past, as it is the "first fruits" that he requires today. "The fifults of all thine increase." That is something for to think about. What is our increase? What did to think about. What is our increase? What did we bring with us when we came into the world? Have we received every thing since from the hand of the a day's wages, is it not an increase? We know it is, in spite of every excuse that Satan may assist us in coining. I wish to leave my testimony with all who read this, that I have proved the word of the Lord, in the short this, that I have proved the word of the Lord, in the short time I have been in the church, and I know that his promises are true and faithful.

Dear Saints let us awake to a realization of our privileges. Let the bishop's next report prove that we are "doers of the word, and not hearers only." If we do have to forego a few fine feathers, a few worldly pleasures, or deprive our stomachs of something it would be better off without, or even if we must go without a few better off without, or even if we must go without a few absolute necessities, let us see that the church debt is wiped out before the general conference of 1915.

Let us not put this thought away for the future, but act on it now, if we can only lay away twenty-five cents on the debt, and thus start a fund of our own. Then let us be 'our brother's keeper' also, by calling his attention to the matter, and insisting that he do his part, that he too, may enjoy the blessings that we expect.

"Awake! Saints awake!" and let us not be idlers "in accompany of the Lord."

"Your brother in the Master's cause.

Your brother in the Master's cause

Belvidere, Ill., Nov. 12. Dear Ensign:—I thought I would write a few lines from this part of God's vineyard. I can truly say that I enjoy reading the articles and letters from the Saints, which this little missionary paper brings each week. There is a branch of the Church here, but owing to the scattered condition of the members our meetings are not very well attended. We certainly miss Bro. and Sr. Bronson who left us about a year ago to go to other fields, but our loss will be other's gain, so we will try and not complain.

Some time ago I read a letter in one of the church papers from a sister who was isolated from church papers from a sister who was isolated from charch privileges, who was sending her children to a sectavian Sunday school. I thought nothing of it then, but since I have heard of others who were doing the same and said that they thought it was all right, which has caused me much thought and meditation, as we have two little me much thought and meditation, as we have two little ones of our own, and wish to bring them up in the fear of the Lord, and have come to the conclusion that we would not be justified in sending our children to a sectarian. Sunday school, for the following reasons:

First, we are commanded to teach our choldren so that they may understand the doctrine of repentance and faith in God, and baptism and the gift of the Holy Ghost by the laying on of havins, when eight years old; and if we fail the sin will be upon the heads of the parents. Doc. and Cov. 68:4. Now which of all these churches teach this doctrine? Not one of them. But instead they say we don't need to be baptized to be saved, or to have hands laid on us for the gift of the Holy Ghost; and that all we have to do is to believe in Christ as our Savior—we can be saved here and now. Yes Christ has said many shall come in my name saying, I am Christ, and shall deceive many. Shall we allow ourselves to be deceived? I hope not. John has said, "If any shall come to you and bring not this doctrine receive him not into your house, neither bid him God speed: For he that biddeth him God speed is partaker of his evil deeds." I gather from this statement, that we are not to receive any one into our houses as a teacher that would bring any other doctrine than that which was taught by Christ the great law giver, and if we would bid them God speed with their message we would be taking part in

Now in the light of this truth do you think that we are justified in sending our children to be taught by them? I think not. And the Apostle Paul goes further and pronounces a curse upon men or angels that would preach any other gospel than that which he had preached. (Gal. 1:69, See Heb. 6:1, 2.) When Joseph Smith went to inquire of the Lord which one of these Smith went to inquire of the Lord which one of these churches he should join he was told to join none of them for they were all wrong and their creeds were an abomination in his sight, that those professors were all corrupt. They "draweth nigh unto me with their mouth, and honoreth me with their lips, but their hearts are far from me* * teaching for doctrine the commandments of men." Joseph Smith was forbidden to join any of them.

In the Book of Mormon, 2 Nephi 12, we read about churches that were to be built up, but not unto the Lord, and each one would make the claim that they were the Lord's. This was the condition of the religious world, when Joseph Smith went to ask the Lord which one he should join. They were all right in their own eyes, but the Lord said they were all wrong. In the light of all this evidence are we who claim to be the only true church upon the face of the earth with which the Lord said he was well pleased justified in sending our children to their churches to be taught their s? Judge ye. Now, I don't wish to convey to minds that the people that belong to these other hes are all corrupt. I believe that there are some churches are all corrupt. courses are an corrupt. I believe that there are some honest in heart in all of them, but in the words of Nephi of old they have gone astray, save it be a few, who are the humble followers of Christ. Nevertheless they are led so that in many instances they do err, because they are taught by the precepts of men. (2 Nephi 12: they are taught by the precepts of men. (2 Nephi 12: 16, 17.) Revelation 18 makes it clear that God has a people in Babylon, because John said that he heard "a voice from heaven saying, Come out of her my people, that ye be not partakers of her sins, and that ye receive not of her plagues." 1 Nephi 3:217-236 1 think brings much light upon this.

May we all so live that we may be worthy of the lessings that our heavenly Father is bestowing upon us each day, is the prayer of your brother in the one Faith. Elder Wm. Pinkerton.

Phoenix, Arizona, Nov. 11.

Dear Ensign:—It will be a little surprise to some of our friends to learn that we are now located for a few months nere in the south. We closed up our labors in Colorado with the Saints in Trinidad, Colo, having been with the Saints in and around Colorado Springs and Denver during the summer. With a light camping out-fit we came in our auto from Colorado Springs to this place, in all a distance of nearly 1200 miles, over very rugged and beautiful valleys and mountains and deserts. The roads were at times most wonderful, being cut into the sides of the rock and then again along the ridge and then in the valleys and plains. We also ex-perienced some of the worst roads in our experience. Rock was no name for it, and then much mud and for a stretch of a hundred miles we passed numerous autos laid out along the line for repairs; and had you the space and I the ability to depict the story of our way it would band of good and spiritual saints. We met them in a private house and spoke Sunday morning last. In the afternoon we went with the above brother and attended a union Sunday school in the country and have the privilege to speak next Sunday following their Sunday

This is State Fair week here, and with horse, airship This is State Fair week here, and with horse, airship and autor races the people are going it wild. Many of the Indians are seen everywhere and we hope to get a chance to soon tell a few of them about the gospel. Sr. White's health is greatly improved and we hope that by Spring she will be strong once more.

Also let all who write to me note the change of address. Your brother, Ammon White.

1129 E. McKinley St.

Xenia, Ill., Nov. 9. Editor Ensign:-We are trying to keen the camp fire

Editor Ensign:—We are trying to keep the camp hre burning at Brush Creek. Bro. S. S. Smith has been with us and preached ten nights to good crowds.

Our Sunday school and Religio are doing fine, the Sunday school having qualified on all 12 points of the International Sunday School work. Our county Superintendent said we were the only standard school in the county, which we are pround of. But all the Latter Day Saints should stand at the head in every good movement. Last Sunday eve we had a temperance entertainment with a full house and an enjoyable time. A Mr. Morris from Xenia made us a fine temperance speech which was

(Correspondence continued on page 6.)

THE END OF THE WORLD. By Elder James E. Vates.

By Elder James E. Yates.
For the great day of his wrath is come; and who shall be able to stand?—Revelation 6:17.

From present indications it would seem that the great battle of Armageddon may be nearer than many have supposed.

In tracing out the prophecies and their fulfillment by the study of the various types and symbols in which such revealments have so frequently been set, we may not be able to fix with perfect exactness our present standing in the course of world events, but it can surely be defined with sufficient clearness to enable us to wisely interpret the true meaning of international events as they occur.

Those who do not give heed to the prophecies can not know what is to be, nor the purport of what is.

Such a war as has now burst upon the world, coming as it does in the wake of peace conferences, wide spread church evangelism, and most conspicuous efforts to nurture permanent peace, is certainly very significant, and surely marks an epoch in the stageing of latter day events which has not been overlooked by the eye of prophecy.

Looking backward, it is easy now to trace the thread of prophetic forecast and the corresponding fulfilments as they transpired, in such cases as that the Lord was to be sold for thirty pieces of silver; and then the circumstance of the casting of lots for his vesture. The humanity and location in "Bethlehem Ephratah" (Mica. 5:2) of the Lord's nativity—and then its fulfillment, etc., but those who reaped the greatest benefit from these foretold facts were they who understood them as time unfolded them item by item.

Matters of no less importance, equally as proficable to know wait upon us now. Every prophet of God to whom the curtain has been lifted that his vision might behold the end of the world and the second coming of Christ has set forth in their various manners of expression the one uniform thought that the great day of the Lord would be ushered in amidst wars, calamities, plagues upon the wicked and unparalelled distress of nations. Such a uniformity of agreement between the prophets who have lived so many thousands of years apart erects a monument of testimony before us which to attempt to dispute or evade is as dangerous as it is foolish.

Visions shown by the Lord to the prophets Lehi and Nephi, his son, as recorded in the First Book of Nephi are remarkably concise, and definite respecting the destinies of the people who should inhabit the continent of America, and they are also beautifully harmonious with the Hebrew Scriptures upon every subject which has been touched by both.

The mission of an explorer wrought upon by the inspiration from above to sail from the mother country and discover America is a faithful forecast of the work subsequently accomplished by Christopher Columbus. (See p. 24 B. M. small edition.)

Six hundred years B. C. is the date of this lucid vision which proceeds to indicate the exodus by the Pilgrim Fathers from the Fatherland to American shores, giving the endorsement acceeded to by every prominent thinker or writer who has treated upon the work of that courageous colony, namely—they were inspired of God, and the way was prepared before them by his almighty power.

Then follows in the narrative of the vision these words which are fraught with so much meaning and which all the history of this nation founded in part by these Pilgrim Fathers verifies unto this hour.

"And I, Nephi, beheld that the Gnetiles that had gone forth out of captivity, were delivered by the power of God, out of the hands of all other nations."

Comment upon the marvelous fulfillment to date, of the above prophecy is unnecessary to the mind which will but scan briefly the growth, the battles with natural odds against her and the completeness of the victories of the United States of America.

Following on in the prophetic forecast under examination it is stated that prosperity should attend the nation founded as above described, and that a book should be circulated which "proceeded forth from the mouth of a Jew" (the Bible) and that many plain and precious things had been held back from it through the wickedness of men through whose hands it had passed.

Worldwide confusion and stumbling as to the meaning of the teaching of the Bible is in evidence that its simple plainness has been reduced some where as the prophecy here indicated. Then follows the declaration the substance of which Latter Day Saints are familiar with, that the Lord would proceed to bring forth, such a light as to dispel darkness and restore the splendid plainness and beautiful simplicity of the true gospel which had been so obscured.

The "remnant" people who were found upon the land in the beginning of its settlement by the early American colonies (Indians) were to be scattered and smitten in war but not anihilated. All this has been done according to the word of the prophecy.

But now we come to that part of the prophecy which tallies with the course of events now in the process of enactment and which indicates quite clearly the next great chapter to be written in what is now unborn time.

"And it came to pass that I beheld the remnant of the seed of my brethren, and also the book of the Lamb of God, which had proceeded forth from the mouth of the Jew, that it came forth from the Gentiles, unto the remnant of the seed of my brethren; and after it had come forth unto them I beheld other books which came forth by the power of the Lamb * * * these last records which thou hast seen among the Gentiles shall establish the truth of the first * * * and it shall come to pass that if the Gentiles shall hearken unto the Lamb of God in that day, that he shall manifest himself unto them in word, and also in power, in very deed unto the taking away of their stumbling blocks * * * and they shall be a blessed people upon the promised land forever. They shall be no more brought down into captivity." Book of Mormon, pages 26, 27, small edition.

But if the nation would not hear the heavenly message and would not repent they were to be delivered over to the hardness of their hearts and the blindness of their eyes and be brought down into captivity "and also unto destruction, both temporally and spiritually according to the captivity of the devil, of which I have spoken." Ibid.

So those who would determine whether this nation is destined to continue in peace and prosperity or be subjected to wrath, judgments and indignation of the Lord, should first answer this question: Has the great light of the gospel restoration been accepted or rejected? Do the stumbling Gentiles avail themselves of this magnificent shaft of sunlight which shot athwart the darkened heavens in the present dispensation of grace? If so, peace reigneth and can not be dethroned. If not so, calmnities approach, for the ord of God can not be void.

Or a preview of the subsequent events shown in the vision, and of the end of the world Nephi refers us to the revelation which would later be given to John in the following language:

"And I looked and beheld a man, and he was dressed in a white robe; and the angel said unto me, Behold one of the twelve apostles of the Lamb! Behold he shall see and write the remainder of these things; yea and also many things which have been, and he shall also write concerning the end of the world.** And I, Nephi, heard and bear record that the name of the apostle of the Lamb was John, according to the world of the angel."

So by divine endorsement John the revelator came to his work and we are pointed to his writings for a forecast of the great events leading up to and embracing the time of the end.

The sixth chapter of the book of Revelation has these words for a heading of the chapter: The opening of the seals in their order, etc., containing a prophecy of the end of the world. The opening of the first seal sets forth a phase of national development and peaceful conquest and is typified by a white horse. This is a stage of general affairs which is now in the past so far as the direct fulfillment of this prophecy is concerned.

The next condition in the prophetic course of events is set forth by the appearance of the red horse having power to "take peace from the earth." This epoch is also past. The next was a black horse, having power to kill with hunger as well as with sword, and to mingle the miseries of death and hell among the people by the operation of greed for gain and merciless poverty begetting commercialism which is clearly set forth in the prophecy wherein the rider of the black horse held in his hand a pair of balances (a type of commercialism) and in the face of hunger and poverty demanded his penny for a measure of wheat, and just so much for three measures of barley, and warned the people to see that they touch not the oil and the wine. This condition has held the world in its black grasp for a period now running well into the past, and has already lapped over into the next condition set forth wherein the same distress as under the black horse were to be intensified under the power of the pale horse. Those slain under this pale horse's power are to come to their death by war and by hunger and by the beasts of the earth.

While it is not likely at this age of the world that many will be killed by real wild beasts, we will remember that there are in active operation in the earth today, other than four footed beasts.

During this period John saw the fifth seal opened, and beheld the souls of martyrs under the alter crying: "How long, O Lord, holy and true, dost thou not judge and avenge our blood on them that dwell on the earth?" They were told to wait yet for a little season.

This brings us if not quite, yet almost to the point of affairs as they stand at the present time. We with those gone on before now wait for a little season and cry "O Lord how long?" The opening of the next seal (sixth) brings the greatest commotion of all, the powers of earth and the heavens are to be shaken, darkening of the sun and moon as previously spoken of by Christ in Matthew 24, and by Joel in chapter three, mighty destruction of cities by earth quakes as spoken by Christ also and by Ezekiel, (chapter 38) and Zechariah (chapter 14), and also by John in the sixteenth chapter of Revelation, and then the splendid and crowning event of the ages: the personal appearance of Jesus Christ to establish peace and reign as King of kings and Lord of lords, as testified to by all these prophets.

The seven last plagues to be poured out upon the earth as set forth in Revelation 16, will be found to represent conditions which are to follow each other rapidly after the time typified by the black horse in chapter six. The rapidity of these events and of the general collapse of the institutions of Babylon is indicated by verses 15, 16, 17 of chapter eighteen.

The great battle of Armageddon mentioned in verses 14 and 16 of chapter sixteen, taking place as it does about the time of the opening of the seventh seal (verse 17) and prior to the Lord's coming "as a thief" (verse 15) will take place during the epoch now open as indicated in Scriptures cited.

This fight is to occur during the time of the power of the pale horse and the opening of the seal which follows; which times are now almost upon us.

It would seem that these Scriptures mean this if they mean anything, and the corresponding history of the world which has been made and which is in the process of making, confirms these interpretations. Be ye also ready.

GOD'S CHARACTER AND WORD UNCHANGEABLE.

By Elder Lyman W. Fike.

One of the crowning features of God, besides intelligence and glory is that which pertains to his existence. He it eternal. If anything is eternal it is changeless also in its essential qualities. If there is a change then the object or being ceases in the future to be what we now behold.

To understand more clearly what this means let us refer to a passage found in the Old Testament, "Behold I am God, I change not, therefore ye sons of Jacob are not consumed." This statement indicates how patient our heavenly Father is.

The sons of Jacob and their posterity were very sinful at times and often inclined to rebellion. They deserved chastisement which they did not receive. Yet God did not consume them, he forgave them. Gave them another opportunity to do right.

November 26, 1914.

Abraham had lived hundreds of years before. The promise had been made to him that his posterity should become very numerous. If Abraham had been permitted to behold the conduct of his children I fear he would have been a very skeptical fellow and been caused to say that blessings will never come. But God was to bring about the result in his own time. This people were to receive a certain land for a home and a refuge, for an everlasting inheritance. When? When and at such a time as they would qualify. The land and blessings were delivered in "escrow." Israel was to perform her part of the contract.

When we study the history and acts of Israel as a nation and also how merciful God was with them it should strengthen our faith in a God who is changeless. If he had been human he either would have destroyed them or else lowered the standard, in other words compromised with them. But God is not so.

In Isaiah, chapter 29, by a careful study of the contents thereof we see how God would punish, and scatter Israel as a nation. We see by the forepart of the chapter that it would not be a desirable task but would cause heaviness and sorrow to him. A true parent is that way. He does not delight in using the lash.

In the latter part of the chapter we see the fulfillment of the promise made to Abraham and to Jacob. They have been benefited when they had learned obedience by the things which they had suffered.

As we review this history I say it should cause us to see in a measure how constant our Heavenly Father is that he is no respector of persons, that he deals with all alike. Punishing those who know his will and disobey, and on the other hand blessing the obedient regardless of location, race or color.

God had given a law to Israel. Paul says it was to act as a schoolmaster, until the seed should come, which seed was Christ. In other words expressed elsewhere it was to bring them to Christ. It as a law was a means to an end, was given for a purpose. Christ said, Though heaven and earth should pass away, not one jot or tittle of the law should fail until all be fulfilled. The conclusion we can draw from this language is that there was a constancy of the law until it had performed its work. It was to continue until Christ. Then it passed away, (Gal. 3:13) and instead thereof a better plan, even the gospel.

As the old law was constant and unrevoked, until its mission had been performed, so also will the better covenant be, without change, or annulment, until its mission has been fulfilled. As the code of Moses, socalled, was to bring them to Christ, the mission of the better covenant will take us on to perfection, in other words to bring us to God. The old law was deficient, the gospel complete.

It is recorded in the record of James that, "every good gift and every perfect gift is from above and cometh down from the Father of lights, with whom is no variableness, neither shadow of turning." From this it may be deducted that God is constant, his method is perfect for the purpose for which it is created.

I affirm the gospel is one of those perfect gifts. In fact it is the aggregation of those good gifts. And designed for a special work, (Ephesians 4), that we might be brought to the unity of the faith and to the stature of the fulness of Christ. Paul says when that which is perfect is come then that which is in part shall be done away. Well and good. That is very plain. Language is easily understood when properly used. So is this statement from Paul. Let us reason a moment, now, from that basis.

Have we come to the unity of the faith? You answer no. With the babel of religion on every hand you cannot answer anything else. Have we come to the stature of the fulness of our Master, even Christ? Do you hesitate before saying no? Emphatically you do not. Have you seen the perfect man, which is much less than man as a race being perfect? If you should start to find the perfect man measuring them by the Christ I am quite sure you will become discouraged hefore you find the object.

Now for once. if not heretofore be wilconvinced when such is before ling to be unless you are wiser than God vour eyes, or Christ. If you are more wise than they perhaps you could devise a better plan of sal-vation. Let us conclude that the real issue is that we are not more wise than our heavenly Father. That his plan, even the gospel, is needed today. But you say it is impossible for us to come to the unity of the faith.

Perhaps that is what Abraham would have thought. But God in a measure is verifying his promise to Abraham after long years of waiting; so also will we come to the perfect standard, as soon as we learn obedience, if need be, by the things we suffer.

Man is not authorized to teach part of the law of the gospel. Neither is he advised to change it. Who is man that he can advise God?"

Union Center, Wis.

IF.

If you can keep your head when all about you
Are losing theirs and blaming it on you;
If you can trust yourself when all men doubt you,
But make allowance for their doubting, too;
If you can wait and not be tired by waiting,

But make allowance for their doubting, too; If you can wait and not be tired by waiting, Or being lied about don't deal in lies; Or being hated don't give way to hating, And yet don't look too good, nor talk too wise;

If you can dream—and not make dreams your master; If you can think—and not make thoughts your aim; If you can meet with Triumph and Disaster And treat those two impostors just the same; If you can bear to hear the truth you've spoken Twisted by knaves to make a trap for fools, Or watch the things you gave your life to, broken, And stoop to build 'em up with worn-out tools;

If you can make one heap of all your winnings And risk it on one turn of pitch-and-toss, And lose, and start again at your beginnings And never breathe a word about your loss; If you can force your heart and nerve and sinew To serve your turn long after they are gone, And so hold on when there is nothing in your better the will which says to them, "Hold on;"

If you can talk with crowds and keep your virtue, Or walk with kings—nor lose the common touch; If neither foes nor loving friends can hurt you; If all men count with you, but none too much; If you can fill the unforgiving minute with sixty seconds' worth of distance run, Yours is the earth and everything that's in it And—which is more—you'll be a Man, my son.

—Rudvard Kipling.

HONESTY.

By Elder W. H. Deam,
"Provide things honest in the sight of all men."—Rom, 12:17.

There is perhaps no principle entering into social and business life of greater importance, nor one that is violated to as great an extent as the principle of honesty. Nor is there one that has such an extensive application, nor one that is so elastic in the consciencious scruples of individuals.

The principle of honesty is involved in every deal, bargain, pledge, obligation, engagement, promise, whether of a business, religious or social character. It is involved in our amusements, in our worship, in our prayers, in our testimony, in all the walks of life, in fact there is nothing which we do in which it is not involved.

"The wicked borroweth and payeth not again."

—Psalms 37:21.

He who, whether through purchase or by borrowing, gets that which belongs to another and refuses to compensate therefor, is appropriating to himself that which belongs to another, and is not only dishonest, but in reality he has done in a different way what another may have done which is called a theft. If anything it is the worse of the two, because he has not only taken that which was the property of another and refuses to return it or its equivalent, but he has used deception in doing it, he has acted a lie as well. The Psamlist said, "The wicked borroweth and payeth not again." In other words, those who borrow and refuse to pay are classed as wicked. This will apply to borrowing money, purchasing goods or anything that we may get from another. If a person goes to a dealer and secures his wares with the understanding that he will return to him their value in a reasonable length of time and then never makes an effort to do so as he has agreed, he has deceived the dealer and in reality is using for his own benefit that which belongs to another. Is it not dishonest? Is it not wicked? Is it not a near kin to theft?

There are ways of being dishonest besides that involved in business deals. Honesty embraces truthfulness. Are we always truthful? That question cannot be intelligently answered unless we know everything that goes to make one truthful or untruthful. Is it truthful to give evasive answers when we know how to enswer correctly a fair and honestly-asked question? No, it is not. Some people seem to think that they are not violating the principle of honesty when they tell only half of the truth, when the other half if told would place an entirely different construction on the matter. People often tell the truth so far and mislead (deceive) by withholding that which would incriminate themselves. They tell the truth, but not all the truth. The witness on the stand is sworn to "tell the whole truth, and nothing but the truth." It is known that often a half truth is worse than an out and out lie.

Now what is truth; or better, what is a lie? A lie may be told with truthful words, in more than one way. It may be told by using trutnful words but with the countenance and expression convey the opposite meaning. And it may be convey the opposite meaning. And it may be told with truthful words by withholding a part. Now to the point, What is a lie? Well, Webster says it is something told with the intention of deceiving. So, it makes no difference how you tell it, or what words you use if you are telling it with the intention of deceiving you are certainly telling a lie. That is pretty straight for those who may flatter themselves that when indulging in that practice they consider that they are truthful. The deceptive part is all there is in a lie anyway, because that is where the harm lies. You may tell a person that you are not going to do a certain thing, but do it in a way that he can read the meaning of your words in your face and in the expression of your voice. so that he understands that you are going to do it. You have not deceived him nor did you intend to deceive him, consequently you have not lied for a "lie is something told with the intention of deceiving."

Is a lie honest? Decidedly not. Then truth is a principle involved in honesty, and a lie is on the dishonest side. The worst kind of a lie is what we might term a "truthful" lie. By that we mean a lie told with truthful words, which are used with inflection or accent and countenace combined in such a way as to give the opposite impression from the truth. For a simple example: A mother finds a nice china dish broken. She goes to Mary and asks if she broke the dish. Quick witted Mary looks up with surprise in her face and says, "Do you think I would do that and not tell you?" Mother is satisfied. She does not think that Mary broke the dish. But later developments prove to her that Mary did brake the dish, and had by an evasive answer deceived her, She calls Mary and accuses her of breaking the dish. Mary says, "I did not say that I did not break it." "No, not in the words use I but you evaded my question and intended to deceive, and did so, and in your manner you acted a lie. Don't you know that a lie is not so much in the words used as in the intent. The dictionary says a lie is something told with the intent to deceive. By your actions and the manner in which you answered me you intended to deceive me.

"Rended, therefore, to all their dues * * * Owe no man anything."—Rom. 13:7, 8.

A good many Latter Day Saints have the reputation of owing no man anything, or in other words of promptly paying their debts, and their creditors are not afraid to give them accomodation when it seems necessary. Every one should, for his own benefit if for no other reason, pay his bills promptly as agreed, so that if a time should come when it might be necessary to have accomodations in credit extending to a longer length on time he can go to his creditor and ask for the favor and get it on the strength of his reputation.

Dishonesty, then, consists mainly in theft, failure or refusal to pay debts, lying, prevarication, evasion of the truth, inexcusable failure to meet obligations, promises and pledges; in misrepresentations, assumptions that do not correspond with that which is true, in pretended holiness that does not correspond with one's acts, and in many other ways.

THE WAY TO GLORY. I have found my way to glory And it fills my soul with love. Come and listen to the story Of the message from above. I have

It is not in competition,
Which, when ripe engenders strife,
And creates the sad fruition That destroys our peace in life.

But it's in co-operation With all that is good and true That brings peace to every nation, And it will bring peace to you.

Following the steps of Jesus, In the doctrine that he taught Will most surely relieve us Of the battles being fought

It's returning good for evil—
It's the blessed golden rule
That would stay the mad upheaval Of the world's great social pool -D. R. Baldwin.

THE GOSPEL OF KINDNESS.

By C. B. Smith. "He prayeth best who loveth best All things, both great and small; For the dear God, who loveth us, He made and loveth all."

We all know the poem about Abou Ben Adhem, who loved his fellow-men, and whose name was written in the Book of Life at the head of all the rest. That poem is known and loved by thousands of people who have never heard of its author, Leigh Hunt; for, with the majority of us, Abou Ben Adhem is but another name for the Good Samaritan, the man who helps his neighbor, even if the latter be a heretic and an alien.

And this kindness must be extended to the dumb animals, too, else we shall not be obeying the command to be merciful. The Sermon on the Mount is too often out of the minds of some among us when our domestic animals and homeless living creatures need sympathy and help. It is not that we are cruel through intention, but only through carelessness. Just as long as our own little circle of friends and relatives and dumb dependants are doing very well, why, then, we don't concern ourselves much about the housing of the poor, the penny ice for babies, the humane society's work for over driven and under fed horses, and the duty of looking after homeless, unloved dogs and cats.

But all these things ought to concern us greatly, for they affect the comfort and happiness of the "under dog," whose lot is generally to receive more kicks than otherwise.

Well, it is an easy matter to preach and prate to others about their lack of sympathy. But in fact we all need a good deal more of it for all living creatures, human and otherwise. A nature that is thoughtless or cruel to dumb animals will be thoughtless and cruel to relatives, friends and neighbors. I have never seen any exception to this rule. And the man who is merciful to his dumb horses and his faithful dog will also be a good friend in the hour of need.

APROPOS OF MOTHER'S DAY. "Be a Good Boy; Good-by."
How oft in my dreams I go back to the day When I stood at our old wooden gate, And started to school in full battle array, Well armed with a primer and slate, And as the latch fell I thought myself free, And gloried, I fear, on the sly, Till I heard a kind voice that whispered to me: Be a good boy; good-by."

"Be a good boy; good-by." It seems
They have followed me all these years;
They have given a form to my youthful dreams,
And they scattered my foolish fears.
They have stayed my feet on many a brink,
Unseen by a blinded eye;
For just in time I would pause and think:
"Be a good boy; good-by."

Oh, brother of mine, in the battle of life, Oh, brother of mine, in the battle of life,
Just starting or nearing its close,
This motto, aloft in the midst of the strife,
Will conquer wherever it goes.
Mistakes you will make, for each of us errs, But, brother, just honestly try
To accomplish your best. In whatever occurs,
"Be a good boy; good-by." -Saturday Evening Post.

RUSSIA TO BANISH LIQUOR.

The Russian government will never again embark in the manufacture and sale of alcoholic drinks. That statement, confirming previous reports, has been made in the name of Emperor Nicholas himself.

The Russian Union of Abstinence, which devotes its energies to combating of alcoholism, addressed to Emperor Nicholas a solicitation that he forbid forever the sale of spirituous liquors in Russia. His majesty replied in a telegram sent in the name of Grand Duke Constantine and addressed to the president of the alliance, in which he said:

"I thank you; I long ago decided to interdict for all time in Russia the sale of alcoholic drinks by the government."

(Correspondence continued from page 3).

Spokane, Wash., Nov. 7.

Dear Ensign:—We are enjoying ideal weather in our

Dear Ensign:—we are enjoying need weather in our well named city "sunny old Spokane."

In the State of Oregon and Washington the mobilizing of the "wets" and "drys" have been going on for some time past. On the worning of Nov. 3, the "wets" rallied to their strong holds but they were repulsed by the work of the opposing force. For twelve hours the battle was waged and fought. The banner of mortality and as won with fourteen thousand good soldiers in The Lord be praised.

reserve. The Lord be praised.

Bro. J. A. Bronson was here for a few days and we Bro. J. A. Bronson was here for a few days and we had the pleasure of hearing him present the gospel two nights. One night was a Book of Mormon lecture, which was very instructive and helpful to Book of Mormon students. To me the Book of Mormon is my fort. Without it I would be lost. When I look upon it I cannot help but think what a pleasure it is to have a book that the angel has given to us and the wonderful amount of cutteres there is in the Bible to prove the authenof evidence there is in the Bible to prove the authenticity of the same, and also of the towers of archaeological evidence in support of it are being built every day. Do we really appreciate its value and what it cost that it may be given to us?

it may be given to us?

Bro. Bronson is making preparation for his debate with a man who represents the "Church of God." Bro.
Bronson is able to defend the work.
Our district conference will be held at Sagle, Idaho, in December.

Bro. Wm. Johnson of Seattle was here Nov. 8 and 9. Sunday morning he gave us a splendid talk in regard to our duty financially toward the church, and delivered us two splendid discourses Sunday and Monday evenings. He was here two or three years ago and made many friends and we were all pleased to see our worthy brother again, bearing the same testimony of the good

We should reflect a moment and consider how we are building, if according to the light we have. time and money are we using each day to protect and beautify this mortal man. We must sooner or later lie down to return to dust from whence we come. Let us compare this with what we are utilizing to build and expand the talent that has been placed at our disposal, with the light and inspiration of our Father's divine will and purpose with all the multiplied revealments that have come from the courts above, with all the great amount come from the courts hoove, with all the great amount of help and blessings we are privileged to enjoy and the knowledge of God's laws concerning us. Are we building in correspondence with the light we have, as Apostle Paul puts it, "Till we all come in the unity of the faith, and the knowledge of the Son of God unto a perfect man unto the measure of the stature of the fulness of Your brother, W. W. Wood.

127 S. Regal St.

McKenzie, Ala., Nov. 11. Editor Ensign:—It isn't often I ask for space in the columns of the Ensign, but the Florida district reunion, which has just been held at Dixonville, Ala., was such a spiritual feast to the souls of all who attended, that I feel like saying just a few words regarding it. Bro. F. M. Slover, Swen Swenson, and Hale W. Smith, were chosen to preside; and I am glad to say that I didn't hear a word of complaint or criticism regarding the manner in which they did their work. The first prayer meeting, without any instruction to that effect, was devoted wholly to prayer; not a testimony given during the hour. McKenzie, Ala., Nov. ing, without any instruction to that energy, was devoked wholly to prayer; not a testimony given during the hour, and but little time devoted to singing. It was a prayer meeting, and the Spirit of the Master was with us. After the first prayer meeting we always had a few testi-monies in our social services, but the prayer meetings were mostly devoted to prayer, and every one was greatly blessed with the presence of the Holy Spirit. They were all real spiritual feasts to the souls of those present.

The Southeastern mission may well feel proud of their young missionaries. One of them, A. E. Warr, had charge of the Sunday school and Religio work at the reunion; and had we judged altogether from the work done and the manner in which he handled the subjects under consideration, we should have decided that he had under consideration, we should have decided that he had had the benefit of many years training and experience in that special line of work. He is a student and a faithful worker, and his work for the Sunday school and Religio is already bearing "much fruit" in this mission. A. G. Miller is one of our successful proselyters. Bert has full confidence in the message he has for the people, and he is neither ashamed nor afraid to tell it; and he has a way of telling it, too, that causes others to have confidence in it. E. C. Sheeley is our youngest missionary; but he is no surface preacher, neither is he any man's parrott; is a faithful student, quite critical in his studies, and believes in understanding a thing himself before trying to make others understand it. If these young men continue faithful, humble, and prayerful, they will do a great work for the Master.

Another thing of special interest, during the reunion, was the ordination of Bro. D. M. Rudd to the office of an clder. A goodly portion of the Spirit was present when he was ordained, and assurances given that the Lord willed he should so occupy. I believe he will be a great help to the work in the Flordia district, and that the Lord will bless him in his efforts to bless others.

bless him in his efforts to bless others.

Altogether, the reunion was considered a success, and the saints went to their homes stronger in the faith and more determined to persevere unto the end, because of the blessings received. The missionaries have all gone out into the field to take up their work of preaching the gospel, and will again have to meet the opposition and misrepresentation of themselves and the message they bear that the servants of God have had to meet from the beginning. May the Lord sustain them by the power of his Holy Spirit; and may the Saints everywhere work with the ministry and with the Lord for the buildwork with the ministry and with the Lord for the build-ing up of Zion and the gathering together in one all the Lord's children.

Still in the conflict, I am as ever, your brother Isaac M. Smith.

Deloit, Iowa, Nov. 4.

Deloit, Iowa, Nov. 4.

Editor Ensign:—What a joy and comfort it is to me to read the letters from week to week, and I have often wondered if the Saints would be pleased to hear what the Deloit Branch is doing. First we have a fine Sunday school, with Bro. Mergl Meyers as superintendent, and Miss Nora Jordan as secretary. Our branch president, Bro. Winey is always at his post of duty, and ably assisted by Bro. Spence, also Bro. Lacy Myers and Bro. Patchen are trying to let their light shine and so far as I am able to see all are doing nicely and the branch is in fine condition. We are praying that there may be a good work done ere the winter closes. All who will strive to keep God's commandments will have joy here and life everlasting hereafter. I rejoice to know that and life everlasting hereafter. I rejoice to know that I was permitted to hear and obey and my greatest desire is to live humble and faithful in the work.

sire is to live humble and faithful in the work.

I have been made happy today in being able to meet with the Des Moines Saints, they having a home-coming with Bro. D. C. White as the morning speaker, assisted by Bro. Baker, with special music, which was enjoyed very much. After the morning service there was dinner prepared for all. I do think the Saints are a happy people, and think we should be, because we have so much to be grateful for.

I remain your sister in the one feith

I remain your sister in the one faith,

Sr. R. E. Miller.

Dagonia, Mo., Oct. 23. Six more adults baptized since my last note, and sold eight dollars worth of church books and more calls than I can fill just now. I want to hear from the scattered Saints especially in the counties of Polk, Green, Lawrance, Sants especially in the counties of role, treen, Lawrance, Webster, Wright, Texas. I mean the isolated Snints—tell me where you will meet me. Remember my address is changed, owing to extension of city delivery. It is now,

Henry Sparling.

2002 Kilham St., Springfield, Mo. On boat for Wilmington from Phil., Nov. 16

On boat for Wilmington from Fill, Nov. 16.

Dear Editor:—Please say to your readers that my field address will be Elk Mills, Md. Have had an excellent experience in the Quaker City, both seeing the historic sights and in our church work. It is good to be associated with, and partake of the spirit of our workers here. Sunday, the 15th was rally day at the Second Branch, and though it was very rainy a good spirit was mani-fest at both branches.

Sincerely.

Arlington, Ala., Nov. 6.

Dear Ensign:—The Ensign is a friend and comfort each week. I have much sorrow and many trials, and earnestly ask for the prayers of all the Saints. I wish the work could be opened up in this part of Alabama. There is a wide field here and I know the Lord is able to prepare a way for workers in his vineyard. My husband is an unbeliever, but I humbly pray that he may believe the true way in time. We live five miles from the Arlington depot.

the Arlington depot.

The Mormons have a nice church building about seven miles from here, and the membership is about sixty strong.

May the day come soon when an Elder can come in May the day come soon when an enter can come in this part and tell the glad tidings of great joy. Oh for the strength of faith to continue firm to the end. Many here seem far from walking in the narrow way. I give my Ensigns after I have read them, to all who will read.

Your sister in the faith, Mrs. Ida Heard Dumas.

Independence, Mo., Nov. 5.

Independence, Mo., Nov. 5.

Editor Ensign:—We must remember that the end is drawing near, even nearer than we think. I want to be ready should the end come tomorrow. Not all of us will be found ready. I hope and pray that I will be found among the wise virgins, with oil in my lamp, and have it trimmed and burning when Christ comes. We are all to be tried and refined like gold and silver in the fire. We should be united in all things and have all things common. There is too much solishmess. I hope I am not one of the selfish kind. There is one thing to preach and another thing to practice what we preach. Dear Saints, do we practice what we preach. Dear Saints, do we practice what we preach we have something to be thankful for. The Lord has promised to help those who try to help themselves. I have one brother and a sister who does not belong to the church. My sister was only three years old when mother died. She is seventeen now. Pray for them, dear Saints. now. Pray for them, dear Saints.

Your brother in Christ, Joseph B. Lampert. Ŷ

DEPARTMENT OF Woman's Auxiliary for Social Service

MRS. MAUDE MILLS, EDITOR.

NOTICE

NOTICE.

All persons sending money to the Woman's Auxiliary for any purpose, including subscriptions to Home and Child Welfare leaflets, or Children's Home donations, please forward same to the treasurer of the Auxiliary, Mrs. J. A. Gardner, 711 S. Fuller Ave., Independence Mo. 2015, 201 dependence Mo.

ADVISORY BOARD.

Mrs. S. R. Burgess, President, 5920 Etzel Ave., St. Louis, Mo.

Mrs. B. C. Smith, Vice President, 214 S. Spring St., Independ-

ce, Mo. Miss Minnie E. Scott, Secretary, 309 S. Fuller Ave., Independ ce, Mo. ence, Mo. Mrs. J. A. Gardner, Treasurer, 711 S, Fuller Ave., Independence, Mrs. M. A. Etrenhouser, 1995 W. Walnut St., Independence, Mo-Mrs. D. J. Krahl, 74 S. Crysler St., Independence, Mo. SUPERINTENDENTS of DEPARTMENTS, Home and Child Welfare Department, Mrs. H. A. Stebbins, La-ni, lowa.

The Annual Court wester Department, Mrs. H. A. Stebbins, Lamoni, Iowa.
Wilderary and Educational Department, Mrs. Lydia Thomas Wilderary and Educational Department, Mrs. Jennie Studley, 17 E. Cottage St. Robbury, Mass.
Domestic Stepen Department, Mrs. Bertha Anderson Hulmes, 100 Mrs. Stepen Department, Mrs. Bertha Anderson Hulmes, 100 Mrs. Stepen Ste

LITERARY AND EDUCATIONAL DEPARTMENT OF THE WOMAN'S AUXILIARY. Explanatory note: Material on any of the states during Explanatory note: naterial on any of the states utime the period of its life as a territory can be obtained by writing to the State Historical Association, to the State Librarian, or even to the State Legislature. It is advisable to study the state from the time of the acquisition of the territory by the United States if it was not one of the original thirteen colonies up to the time not one or the original univeen coronies up to the time of its admission into the Union. The number of details any local society may study will depend, of course, upon the amount of material you can secure.

Wherever, in the United States which have come into the Union since 1860, local societies may find old settlers who remember conditions in the State's Territarial life, it would be interesting the conditions of the contract of the conditions.

torial life, it would be interesting to hear from them the affairs of the territory, at first hand, Lesson Three on State History.

Our State as a Territory.

The Original Acquisition of the Territory by the United States, eg., Iowa. (1).

The Louisiana Purchase. 1.

Parties concerned.

Parties concerned.
 Time made, and amount paid.

Value to United States.

Its first Organization into a territory.

In the Territory of Michigan. (2).

Time and Canditions.

Subsequent Changes in Territorial government.

Inclusion as a part of Wisconsin Territory. (3).

Time and conditions.

General Description of the Iowa district. (4).
Organization as Iowa Territory. (5). 2.

Time

Governmental affairs of Iowa Territory.

Robert Lucas-The First Governor. (6).

Courts held in Iowa Territory. (7).

a. Difficulties.
b. Dignity of the first courts.
The Capitals of the Territory of Iowa. (8.)

Burlington. h. Iowa City.

The Constitution of 1844 and Dispute over Boundaries. (9). E. Admission into the Union. (10).

Change of Capital. (11). a. To Des Moines in 1857.

References: (1). McLaughlin's History of American References: (1). McLaughlin's History of American nation; Any good American History, Pelzer's Economic Factors in the Acquisition of Louisiana: (2) McCarthy's Territorial Governors of the Old Northwest, Shambaugh's Documentary Material Relating to the History of Iowa, Vol. 1, pp. 60-76: (3) Also Shambaugh's Vol. 1, pp. 77-99, Garver's History of the Establishment of counties in Iowa, Salter's Iowa, ch. 11: (4). Annals of Iowa, by the Historical Department of Iowa Vol. 11, No. 2, 3, pp. 121-167: (5), Any United States Annals of Iowan by the Historical Department of Iowa Vol. 11, No. 2, 3, pp. 121-167: (5). Any United States History, Shambaugh's History of the Constitutions of Iowa, Ch. 6: (6). Parish's Robert Lucas, Shambaugh's Executive Journal of Iowa, 1838-1841: (7). Sabin's Making of Iowa, ch. 23, see brief helow also: (8). Sabin's Making of Iowa, ch. 24, Lathrop's The Capitals and Capitols of Iowa: (9). Shambaugh's History of the Constitutions of Iowa, ch's. 10-15, Parish's John Chamber's ch. 13, Pelzer's Augustus Caesar, Dodge, ch. 8: (10). Shambaugh's History of the Constitutions of Iowa, ch's. 10-15, Constitutions of Iowa, ch's. 10-15, Constitutions of Iowa, ch's. 10-15, Constitutions of Iowa, ch's. 10-15, Constitutions of Iowa, ch's. 10-15, Constitutions of Iowa, ch's. 10-15, Constitutions of Iowa, ch's.

(10). Shambaugh's History of the Constitutions of Iowa, ch's. 15-18: (11). Sabin's Making of Iowa, ch. 24.

The personal touch, the local color which enriches the The personal rotes, the local color winds anticious willies of the actors in the story and stirs the imagination of the readers of the story is the most vitalizing thing in any study. Could the reader only picture the crude but picturesque scenes in which the founders of our states moved, worked, played, quarreled, and made friends he could more clearly see their hardships, feel their joys, their griefs and anticipate their hopes. Henry and Edwin Sabin give such a humane picture of court life in Territorial Iowa in their History of the Making

The first court of the Territory was held by Judge Wilson in November, 1838, at Prarie la Porte, County. Prarie la Porte is now Guttenburg. Th The settle-County, Frants is Forte is now Guttenburg. The settle-ment then contained only three houses which were log-cabins. Delhi was another seene of an early court. The people who attended court dined out of their wagons, the judge sign; as did the rest. The court house at Delhi was a one story log cabin on the banks of the lake. The jury met in the loft above the main room of the cabin. The floor of the loft was of loose boards, and when the jurors walked about, the judge, sitting below, expected every moment that somebody would fall through upon him.

ZION'S ENSIGN

The grand jury held its sessions in a grove near by. The foreman sat on a stump. A man who was held to answer a criminal charge tried to crawl through the long grass, to hear what the jury was saying about his case, so that if it was going hard with him he might make his escape; but he was discovered and hustled away, out

In territorial days, and even thereafter, in newly settled communities, court was held in whatever building was most available. It was liable to be a school house or a grocery store. A grocery store room constituted the first court house in Jackson County. This court was held in Bellevue. Although the store room was not occu-pied by the grocer, he intended to move in soon and use In the mean time some of his it as a dwelling house. it as a owening house. In the mean time some of his supplies were placed there, for keeping. In order to provide space for the judge, a hogshead of molasses was rolled against the wall, and set on end. One of the was fored against the wan, and set of end. One of the attorneys named James Grant had such a powerful voice that when he began to speak all the people who had been sitting in the shade of the trees, in front of the building, made a rush for the interior, thinking that a fight v

The court bailiff's name was Peterson. He was only about five feet high, and was very broad and squat. His legs were so short that he was lost in the throng. He called:

"Silence!"

No one paid any attention to him. "Silence!" again shouted Peterson.

The men still pressed forward and great uproar con nued. Then the bailiff thought of a scheme. He say the molasses barrel standing on end, and he hopped upon it. "Silence!" he yelled. To emphasize the word he raised on tiptoe—and the head of the barrel gave way. *** The court suspended proceedings until the bailiff had been washed in the river."

Mrs. L. S. Wight.

MISCELLANEOUS

CONFERENCE NOTICES.

The Idaho District conference will meet at Boise, Idaho, at ten o'clock a. m., Saturday, Dec. 26th, 1914. The secretary will send reporting blanks to all branches, and branch clerks will please return them at least a week before the conference convenes. Please do not wait to send reports by some one coming to the conference. All members holding the priesthood should report their labors since last conference. Those wishing to attend, will be able to take advantage of the holiday rates. Bro. Peter Anderson expects to be present, as well as the mis The district Sunday school convention will meet the evening before, 7 p. m.

Mrs. T. B. Jackson, Sec.

CONVENTION NOTICES.

Gen. Del., Boise, Idaho,

The Spokane District Sunday School Association will convene at Sagle, Idaho, Friday, December 10th, at 7 p.m. Election of officers, etc.

Mrs. Mary Anderson, Dist. Sec.

Semi-annual Religio convention for Alberta District will convene Dec. 18, at 9 a. m., with the Edmonton Local. Mrs. Ruth Walrath, Dist. Sec.

CHANGE OF ADDRESS.

Elder J. C. Chrestensen's home address is now 2225 Empire St., Joplin, Mo., and his field address is vilburton, Okla.

SPOKANE DISTRICT.

To the Saints, Greeting:—We wish to thank all who have honored the low of Christ in temporal things. We have honored the low of Christ in temporal things. We preach an unchangeable God and an everlasting gospel, hence in every gospel dispensation the law of tithes is taught. Nothing in this world can help us to overcome the selfshiness of our natures so well as giving to the Lord that which is his in tithes and consecrations.

We are asking a great deal of God, even eternal life. What are we willing to give? Have we departed from the narrow way which leads to success? The world about the harrow way when leads to success? The world about us is full of the spirit of speculation and there are so many ways before us, that we are liable to put off giving God his portion of that which he has given us until it is too late. Withholding that which is his is robbing God. Real Saints must prove themselves and make a reasonable effort to do their part.

This year is nearing the end and osed Dec. 31. We are waiting p our books will be closed Dec. 31. We are waiting patiently to record your name and amount due the Lord. Four elder's families are also waiting for their October allowance. Now is a good time to co-operate in the Master's cause Sincerely,

W. W. Fordham. S. 238 Haven St., Spokane, Wash., Nov. 15th, 1914.

THE YEARLY OFFER ON THE ENSIGN.

November and December are bargain months as usual during which time the Ensign will be sent to non-mem-bers at half price. This offer, as usual is good only in the United States possessions, as the extra postage to foreign countries prohibits this offer extending there. This offer is good only during the months of November and December. It is unfair and hardly honorable for a member to stop their paper and then subscribe in the name of a member of their family who does not belong to the church for the sake of getting it at half price. That is not the object of this off— It is for the sake of spreading the gossel among outsiders. during which time the Ensign will be sent to non-mem-the gospel among outsiders.

Address, Ensign Publishing House, Independence, Mo.

CONFERENCE MINUTES.
Conference of the Eastern Iowa District convened at Muscatine, Iowa, October 24 and 25, at 10 a. m., with Bro. C. G. Dykes, district president in charge. Conference organized sustaining district officers. The usual routine of business being transacted with special provision for a committee to form such resolutions as will be best for the government of the district, same to be presented at the next district conference.

The district president to investigate the conditions of the Green Valley, Buffalo and Inland Branches and to confer with the missionary in charge as to disorganization. Also for the ordination of Bro. W. W. Richards to the Statistical reports show a fair gain while the officers reports show a fair condition throughout the district. There was a goodly number in attendance, most every branch being represented. Among those present were Elders L. G. Holloway, C. G. Dykes, John Heide, and I. A. Chamberlin with several of the lower priesthood, also a number of visitors from the Kewanee District. Following the business session was preaching by Bro. John Heide, assisted by Bro. Benson.

Sunday forenoon Sunday school in charge of the local Sunday torenoon States School in Charge of the local officers, followed with preaching by Bro. W. W. Richards, assisted by Bro. I. A. Chamberlin. 2:30 prayer service in charge of Brn. Harter and Benson at which time Bro. Richards was ordained to the office of Elder under the the hands of Bro. C. G. Dykes assisted by Bro. I. A. Chamberlin.

Chamberlin.

The closing service of the conference in charge of Bro. Dykes with preaching by Bro. Holloway. The best of spirit prevailed throughout the meetings. Special mention should be given the Saints of Muscatine for their hospitality and kindness shown to the visiting Saints. Conference adjourned subject to the call of the district president.

J. E. Benson, Dist. Sec.

DIED.

Adkins.-Sr. Ida Inez Adkins, wife of Richard R. Ad-Kins, passed peacefully away November 13, 1914, at Stewartsville, Mo. They were married September 10, 1891, and to this union six children were born, three boys 1891, and to this union six candran were born, three boys and three girls, one girl at the age of 4 years having preceded her. Sr. Adkins united with the Church March 7, 1901. She was a good wife and mother, and a faithful saint. Funeral at Stewartsville in charge of A. W. Head; sermon by T. T. Hindirks.

Lewis.—At Kansas City, Missouri, November 12, 1914, Ider Joseph R. Lewis. He was born at Glanmorgan-Elder Joseph R. Lewis. He was born at Glammorganshire, Wales, March 15, 1850, and was baptized at Sodom, Trumbull County, Ohio, June 7, 1874, by his brother, Elder William Lewis, now of the Patriarchal order. He resided for a time at Ottumwa, Iowa, later removing to Bevier, Mo., from which place the family came to Kansas City. He was ordained a Teacher, August 20, 1876, and an elder March 19, 1905. Served as president of the 2nd Kansas City Branch for a time. He married Miss Susan Jones at Sodom, Ohio, September 23, 1872, to which union fifteen children were born, of whom four daughters and three sons with the faithful wife and mother, survive, together with one sister, and two brothers. Services at the home, November 13th, conducted by Elder W. H. Garrett, assisted by Elder J. A. Tanner. Interment in Elmwood cemetery, Kansas City Elder Joseph R. Lewis. Tanner. Interment in Elmwood cemetery, Kansas City. He was an earnest, faithful servant of the Master, and has entered into the rest prepared for those who endure to the end.

Cracroft.—At Lamoni, Iowa, November 9, 1914. Bro. Milton T. Cracraft, aged 73 years, 1 month, and 1 day. Born in 1841, he enlisted in 1861 and served in the Union army. He married in 1870 and was baptized April 24, 1870, at Des Moines, Iowa, by Nicholas Stamm. Held the office of deacon and later as a teacher in that branch. His wife and two sons and one daughter survive him. Funeral sermon preached at Lamoni by H. A. Stebbins, and the body was taken to Des Moines for buriel.

Russell.-Elsie Grace, our little "Betty," no more brightens the weary hours with her happy laugh and play. No more with outstretched arms does she run to be lifted up that she may "tiss you 'gen, papa." No more is that bird-like voice heard in answer to mother's call,—"wight here, mama." From April 5, 1912, till Sep. 20, 1914, she was a blessing in our home. Her life, though 20, 1914, sine was a breasing in our notice.

Short, was full or sweetness that many lives were enriched thereby. Malignant scarlet fever was the cause of her death. We are so lonely, but grieve not as those without hope. Interment at Colorado Springs, Colo. Frank A. and Grace A. Russell.

Surwald.—Sister Evanalia Surwald, who passed away Sunday, November 15, 1914, was born at Grand Rapids, Mich., on October 12, 1895. She became a member of the Church of her choice Nov. 18, 1906, being baptized by Elder W. H. Garrett, and confirmed by W. H. Garrett and H. H. Robinson in the City of Independence, Mo. Later she married Mr. Joseph Surwald, September 8, 1913. She leaves behind her an infant babe, husband, father, mother, one sister and a brother to mourn their loss. Funearl service at the home in Sheffield. Service in charge of C. A. Selbe. Sermon by Geo. E. Harrington.

Wilkinson.—Joseph Raymond, eldest son of Bro. Joseph T. and Mrs. May Wilkinson, was born Dec. 5, 1902, at Albia, Iowa; died at the same place Nov. 2, and buried on the 4th. The real cause of his death is not known. on the 4th. He was ta on the 4th. The real cause of his death is not known, the was taken to specialists, and they confessed they were baffled. For over one year he lay helpless. The funeral was largely attended by relatives. Saints from Hiteman did the singing. Funeral in charge of Elder Parley Batten, sermon at the home by Elder E. B. MorENSIGN PUBLICATIONS.

And Other Books for Sale by the Ensign, the missionary paper, containing gospel sermons and articles, church news and interesting the serious property of the property o leather linea and Flame.

Cover ... $3.35

X—Same as H131X, but has Perisian
Morocco cover ... $4.50

French Scal, floxible overlapping, illustrated, self-pronouncing, red under gold edges. Size, 5x7/%x

I/W ... $1.35

French Morocco, divinity circuit, red under gold edges, button clasp, 5½x3%

$1.10

A fine Bible for those who want large type and not so particular about it being small. Long primer type, self-pronouncing, full page ilustrations, French Seal, divinity circuits, etc. ... $2.25

14.—Same as $125, except it is pates. circuits, etc. $2.25 -Same as S125, except it is patent $2.50 S1251/a $126—Same as $125, with button clasp.$2.35 $130—Same as $125, leather lined ....$2.70 H15—A fine little Bible at a low price.
French Morocco, divinity circuit, red under gold edges, flexible, overlapping cover. Size, 5 4x35 ... $1.25 H16—Same as H15, but has button clasp..... $1.35 F65X—India Paper edition, French Moroc-co, divinity circuit, red under gold edges. Size, 5%x8%, only % inch thick. $1.50 Same as F65A, wen $1.60
Large type Bible in small compass,
$1\stack{81\stack{25\stack{16}}}, inch thick, India paper,
French Morocco, divinity circuit,
red under gold $2.80
Same as R65X, except binding
French Levant and leather lined.
$4.25

03581X Peterson. NEW TESTAMENT'S.

E200—Leatherette cover, red edges. S0.15

E212—French Morocco, limp, red under E253—Lambach, divinity circuity, limp, round corners, red under gold, 50.30

9.X FOARD BRILES.
9.4207X—Prefian Morocco, divinity circuit, leather lined to edge, silk sewed,
round corners, red under gold
edges, black faced type, thin India paper. This is a beautiful little

The Bible for the home use Large, clear print, French Morocco, divinty circuit, round corners, red under gold edges $2.60 OXFORD TESTAMENTS. edges, tong primer type; size, 572x.

We give such Bibles as are carried in stock, but can supply any Bible on reasonably short notice. The Oxford line of Bibles is very extensive, from which we list a few of the best and most popular ones. TRACTS. "Why I Became a Latter Day Saint," by Elder Joseph Luff. "Future Punishment," by Elder R. C. Evans. Evans.

"The Book of Mermon; Evidences of Its Divinity," by Elder R. C. Evans.

"Creed Making," by Elder I. M. Smith.

"Good News." A tract of tracts on several different subjects by as many writers.

"The Church of Christ," by Elder Edward Ramie. "Who Was Joseph Smih," by Elder J. W Peterson.

"A Glimpse at the Government of God," by Elder Paul M. Hanson.

"Reasons Why. Shall We Hear Them?"
Revised edition. By Elder J. W. Peterson,
"Twelve Reasons Why I Believe The Book of Mormon," by Elder Charles Fry.

"Joseph Smith; Was He a Prophet of God?" by Elder R. C. Evans. God?" by Elder R. C. Evans.

The following at special prices named:

"What We Believe," an epitome of the faith of the Church. Per dozen 5 cents; 50
for 20 cents; 100, 35 cents.

"Items of Teaching Found in the Book
formon." Compiled by the Independence
Religio Good Litertaure Committee. A tract of ten pages. Three for 5 cents; 12 for 15 cents; 100 for $1.00. for 15 cents; 100 for $1.00.

"Latter Day Saints; Who Are They" by Elder T. W. Williams. Three for 5 cents; 12 for 15 cents; 100 for $1.00.

"Is Water Baptism Essential to Salvation?" by Elder Joseph Luff. Three for 5 cents; 12 for 15 cents; 10 for 7 fo cents; 10 for 75 cents; 10 for 45 cents; 10 for 75 cents.

"Seventy-one Theological Questions." Per dozen, 10 cents; per 100, 60 cents.

ZION'S ENSIGN Book of Mormon Post Card, Quetations from the accord chapter of Jacob, of Mormon, condemnating polygoners. This is an excellent ways of the state of Bible. Because of the thin India paper it is only % of an inch thick. dozen $0.05 Circulating Library rules, per doz-$0.10 Circunstung Library Iuces $0.10

sunday School Library Regulations, per dozen $0.50

Blank Preaching Notices Size 9x12 inches,
for 30 cents; per 100... $0.60

Religio Supplies. Local Secretary's Record, price $0.25 gold edges $2.60

A model Bible. India paper, black faced minion type, French Morocco, divinity circuit, linen lined, round corners, red under gold edges, 7\(\frac{1}{2}\)x. 5\(\frac{1}{2}\) inches $2.07 District Secretary's Record. Price 5% inches $2.75

Alaska Seal, leather lined, Oxford India paper, silk sewed, large long primer type, round corners, red under gold edges $6.00 Visitor's Report Blanks, per dozen, 5 cents; per 100 ... $0.25 Letter of Invitation, per 100. $0.20 Visitor's Canvas Blanks, per dozen, 10 cents; per 100 ... $0.20 Quarterly Report to District Superintendent and Secretary of Local, per dozen, 5 cents; per 100 ... $0.25 ENSIGN PUBLISHING HOUSE, Independence, Mo. OFFICERS VISITING CARD

We have for sale a universal visiting card to be used by Branch Officers. It is arragned with spaces for recording names of those in families belonging to the church and also for those not belonging, space for noting condition, dates of visits (day, month and year), and names of visiting officers, also space for remarks. This card when properly filled out shows the names of all members of the family visited, non-members as well as members and whether their spiritual condition is excellent, fair or poor, the name of the officer visiting the family and the date of the visit, also the address of the family, and any other information it might be wise to add under head of Remarks. There should be at least one card for every family in the branch. The cards are 4x7¼ inches. The price is 8 cents a lozen or 40 cents a hundred. Address, Ensign Publishing House, Independence, Mo. UNITED ORDER OF ENOCH HOUSE,

Everybody Welcome, Saints and Strangers No. 102 North River Boulevard, near the Stone thurch. Best accommodations. Prices reasonable, Bell Phone 613

one 613 Chas. A. and Amy T. Gurwell IN CHARGE

Chas. A. cu. IN CHARGE
Fine 50 foot vacant lot, 24th and Troup.
Streets paved, four blocks from Chelsea Saints
Church. Address "Owner" 1928 N. 24th St.
FOR SALE OR RENT
The former home of H. R. Mills on West
Short Street is offered for sale or rent
Lat 75x200, South front. House, nine
Strictly modern. Lot 75x200, South front. House, nine rooms besides closets. Strictly modern. Good barn and woodshed. Terms easy. Apply to A. H. Mills, Independence, Mo.

WAR ATLAS

Cram's Atlas of the war comprising 16 pages 11x14½ and cover, giving fine maps of all the nations of Europe, those in war or likely to be especially emphasized. On the two inside cover pages is given the army and navy equipment of all the European nations as well as the United States and Japan. With this Atlas in connection with daily news one may be able to locate the movements of the armies and have a more results. movements of the armies and have a more comprehensive idea of how the war is being conducted.

ONLY 25 CENTS

Get them of

Ensign Publishing House, Independence, Mo.

UNIVERSAL DIARY.

UNIVERSAL DIARY.

We now have a universal diary, suitable for any minister from dencon up, made to conform with the universal report blanks. They are the same size and shape as the diaries we have hitherto had for sale, but will contain about double the number of all contain about double the number of the conformation of the

FOR SALE.

A very desirable Apartment House 2 blocks from Stone Church, I block from car line. Modern. Fine opportunity for some family of Saints who wish to secure property in Independence that will bring them an income. $4000 cash will handle it. Address "X" care Ensign Publishing House, Independence, Mo.

GINSENG.

The growing of GINSENG is a profitable industry, an Agricultural Business with good profits attached. Persons with a small parcel of land can start a good paying business with a small investment that yields good dividends. Send for our booklet, "The ABC of Ginseng", get our prices, and learn how to better your financial condition. Address,

Address, Chas. F. Church & Son Lamoni,

W. E. MESSENGER, M. D.

Physician and Surgeon. Calls answered day or night. Office and Residence 806 W.
Maple Ave. Independence, Mo.
Bell Phone 12

Special attention given to Anesthetics

FOR SALE OR EXCHANGE FOR A FARM 4 from louse and 3 arefs. 2 proches, cellar, clarer, shed, barn, chicken house. Grapes, cherries, peaches, apples, plums, gooseberries, black-Berries, lacre basture. Short distance from In-Berries, lacre basture. All contents are short distance. The short distance is a short distance. Mo.

L. A. INMAN Piano And Furniture Mover

Stand West Side Square Household Goods Packed, Shipped and Stored Bell Phone 1231 Res. 915 S. Crysler Independence, Mo.

XMAS GIFTS. See the Passion Play of Ober-Ammergau in 3theautiful Multi-color Post Cards with story complete. Makes Bible History of interest for children. Regular prices seconts. Special to introduce 32 cents. Special quantity prices to church societies. Economy Sales Co., Hatton N. Dakota.

Universal Class Card

Send for sample of the Universal Class Cards, for use in both Sunday School and Religio. The Indepen-The Independence Schools have them in general

Price per doz 8 cents, per 100 60 cents ENSIGN PUBLISHING HOUSE, Independence, Mo.

NOW FOR CHRISTMAS!! NOW FOR CHRISTMAS!!

In addition to the many Bibles we have on hand we have added another line of five choice ones, and none very expensive. The first three are beautifully printed in red and black—all of Christ's sayings in the New Testament and all reference to Him in the Old and New Testament are printed in red. This is a very useful feature. For instance, in turning the leaves whenever anything is observed in red it will be known that it is either the Master's sayings or something in reference to Him. They are beautfully printed and bound, and either one of the five here listed will make a fine Deautifully printed and bound, and either one of the five here listed will make a fine Christmas present. The last two are fine large Teacher's Bibles, self-pronouncing and large type. Order by number and be careful to get the number right. Don't put off ordering, as you will be disappointed in not getting your book in time for Christ-

03454—Beautifully printed with heavy faced minion type in red and black. All of Christ's sayings and passages alluding to him are printed in red. French Morocco, divinity cir-

Entered at the Post Office at Independence, Mo., as Second Class Matte

OUR CREED: "ALL TRUTH."

VOL. 25

INDEPENDENCE, MISSOURI, THURSDAY, DECEMBER 3, 1914

NO. 49

ELITES O REALBRA

ZION'S ENSIGN

Published by the Reorganized Church of Jesus Christ of Latter Day Saints, every Thursday, at Independence, Mo., at $1.00 per year.

at $1.00 per year.

CHARLES FRY, EDITOR
W. H. DEAM. BUS. MANAGER

In writing concerning subscriptions, always give the nam of the Post Office to which your paper has been going, as by so doing the ost of hours in looking for it may be avoided.

When destring a change of address always give the old as well whether it is a renewal or a new subscription. In making remittances Money Orders are preferable. If coin is sent it should be folded in a card so it will not lose out and then enclosed in an eyelong with your letter. Be sure and sign your mame to the Ensign Publishing House, and do not put matter intended for publication on same sheet with that which is of a business nature.

Address all letters and make all remittances payable to

ENSIGN PUBLISHING HOUSE, Independence, Mo

DESPISE NOT THOU THE CHASTENING OF THE ALMIGHTY.

The sunshine to the flower may give The tints that charm the sight, But scentless would that floweret live If skies were always bright; Dark Clouds and showers its scent bestow, And purest joy is born of woe.

He who each bitter cup rejects He who each bitter cup rejects
No living spring shall quaft;
He whom thy rod in love corrects,
Shall lean upon thy staff:
Happy, thrice happy, then, is he Who knows his chastening is from Thee. Rernard Barton.

THE CALL OF CHRIST.

came * * * to call * * * sinners

Much has been written and said concerning the purpose of Christ's mission to earth, but perhaps that purpose is best expressed in the words uttered by himself: "For the Son of man is come to seek and to save that which was lost." 19:10.) The invitation of Christ to all men to "Come unto me," coupled with the many commandments governing the manner of their coming, show that the seeking and saving of the lost is to be done in co-operation with the effort of the lost in seeking their own salvation. As a child in a Protestant Sunday school we used to sing:

Nothing, either great or small, Nothing, sinner, no; Jesus did it-did it all Long, long ago.

But in later years we learned that while Jesus had done the part that man could not do, it was still left for man to do the part that he could do, and that he must do the part that he could do, and that he must do that part or salvation could not be his. It is quite proper to "cast your burden upon the Lord," when it is impossible for you to carry it, but to cast the burden that properly belongs to you and which you are able to carry upon anyone is unchristian and inconsistent with the common rights of humanity, and to "leave all to Christ" as is sometimes urged, and passively await salvation will bring sore disappointment in the end.

A Call to Repentance.

The great purpose of the mission of Christ becomes effectual in man only as he may through repentance put himself in a proper attitude before God. Jesus came to save men from their sins but he can not save them in their sins, and hence the necessity of repentance by which men free themselves from perpetual bondage under the "law of sin" and become proper subjects for mercy and forgiveness through Christ. Repentance is one feature of the gospel work that is required of man, and it is a part that God cannot do for him. It is made one of the gespel principles,-a foundation principle, for without it no progress whatever can be made toward salvation.

That man of God who was sent to prepare the way for Christ preached the baptism of repent-ance, teaching the people to "Bring forth there-for fruits meet for repentance." Jesus, as he entered upon the work of his ministry, taught: "Repent ye, and believe the gospel." The ministry were empowered and commanded to preach repentance as a necessary part of man's work in the gospel, and Luke declares that it was necesshould be preached in his name among all nations." Thus the call of Chart. it is the call of the gospel, and it is made to every man.

Without Repentance—Destruction.

Jesus said to the Jews: "Except ye repent, ye shall all likewise perish." Man can not afford to leave himself to the events of time without considering his sins and making an effort to remove them, for he is already in a lost condition, and unless he takes steps to save himself through the means of the gospel of Christ he must ultimately perish eternally from the presence of God. The Prophet Ezekiel emphasized this thought when in the name of the Lord he spoke the follow-ing to wayward Israel: "Repent, and turn yourselves from all your transgressions; so iniquity shall not be your ruin. Cast away from you all your transgressions, whereby ye have transgressed; and make you a new heart and a new spirit; for why will ye die, O house of Israel." (Ezekiel 18:30, 31.)

Repentance Leads toward God.

Sin is directly opposite to the character of God, and it is clearly taught in the Scriptures that nothing sinful can abide in his presence. Though man is effected by sin, God nevertheless desires to give him an eternal abiding place in his presence, which can only be by a thorough cleansing wrought through the gospel means. This includes repentance by which the things of sin are no longer done, baptism through which forgiveness is granted, and the gift of the Holy Spirit by which the cleansing processes are carried to completion. Thus it is seen that repentance is one of the steps that lead toward God. Gospel repentance is associated in the Scriptures with a turning to God, as stated by Paul: "For godly sorrow worketh repentance to salvation not to be repented of: but the sorrow of the world worketh death. For behold this selfsame thing, that ye sorrowed after a godly sort, what carefulness it wrought in you, yea, what clearing of yourselves, yea, what indignation, yea, what fear, yea, what vehement desire, yea, what zeal, yea what revenge," If repentance is to salvation-to Godhow important it is then that we heed the divine

Associated Principles.

Jesus taught: "Repent ye and believe the gospel." Paul couples "repentance from dead works, and * * * faith toward God." It would appear that true gospel repentance can not be effected without faith in God with a belief of the gospel, so that to believe is a necessary part of the work of repentance, or at least so closely associated with it that the one is not effectual without the other. Peter also commanded the converted Jews to "Repent, and be baptized every one of you in the name of Jesus Christ for the remission of sins," and the reason John the Baptist gave for calling upon the people to repent was that "the kingdom of heaven is at hand, showing that forgiveness if sins and membership in the visable kingdom of Christ was in a measure dependent upon repentance. The work of repentance can only be done in accordance with these associated principles of faith and baptism, leading to remission of sins.

The call of Christ is to repentance. In his later command to "preach nothing but repentance to this generation," the importance of this principle may be seen, and the urgency of the call. In this day of worldliness and pleasure, and when man has devised a hundred ways of his own for doing God's work while discarding God's way, and in which materialism has so overshadowed the ethical and spiritual side of life,-a day in which men need the moving hand of God more than ever before to guide them into proper channels of activity-Gou is calling through the gospel for men to forsake the old ways, the old sins, to walk in righteousness in the right way. To heed this call many idols which have been set up in human hearts will need to be broken, many customs changed, many beliefs revised, and men yield to the leadings of God by his Spirit in accordance with the truth. How many will hear the call—and heed it?

Is Christianity Breaking Down-Another View.

Sometime ago we quoted statements by Rev. Dr. Frederick Lynch relative to the breaking down of Christianity in the present world crisis, and made editorial comment thereon. Now comes Rev. Dr. Daviel Williams of Storm Lake, Iowa, showing some points upon the other side of the question in an article in "The Presbyterian," Time alone can prove the correctness of some of Dr. William's views, and as to the present wars proving correct the "old Calvinistic doctrine of Original Sin," and the "total depravity" of human nature, we think the claim is too strongly made. But the view point is an interesting one and we give it to our readers in the following quotation:

Another rather startling question has been propounded, Has Christianity collapsed? I do not see any reason for asking such a question as that. What has been seriously shaken in my judgement is the old theory of evolution, which has been pressing upon us like a nightmare for the past fifty years. When I was in college in the seven-ties, the great man was Darwin, and the great "modern discovery" was evolution—that man had descended, or discovery was evolution—that man had descended, or ascended, from the ape or the monkey; that he is on an up-grade, ever getting higher and better, that the "animal tendencies" derived from his remote ancestors: "animal tendencies" derived from his remote ancestors are being eliminated one after the other; that the follies of the past, many of them would be experienced no more. One of these was war. It has been very generally impressed upon us during these last years, that, with the Hague Conference, and Carnegie's money, and especially the great intelligence and enlightenment of our day, such an absurb and horrible thing as war was surely forever past. But here has come upon us like a bolt from the blue the greatest war in history! The four first class powers of Europe, and several of the others, in deadly conflict. When has the human race shown listef to a greater disapparate. itself to a greater disadvantage? Never since the days of Noah. We read of the people of that day: "The earth of Noan. We read of the people of that day: "The earth also was corrupt, before God, and the earth was filled with violence." How much of an up-grade has there been? Is not the temperature of the moral blood today been? Is not the temperature of the moral blood today exactly what it was in the days of Noah? What has become of Darwin's theory? In my judgement, evolution has collapsed beyond the possibility of recovery. This European war shows to me how firm, substantial and true, the doctrines of the old theology are. How false, absurd, and arroneous the New Theology, the Modern Theology, and every other heretical theology, are. How it brings out in bold relief the old Calvinistic doctrine of Original Sin, or as sometimes called, The entire Corruption of Human Nature, or Total Depravity, as it is often termed. Our liberal and loose friends ought to learn a lesson now, and some of them are getought to learn a lesson now, and some of them are get-ting it. I quote the following from one of our weeklies: "Another thing which we think every American of the fifty who got this first sight of war has come to feel is that our religion has broken down in its psychology, that our gospel has been addressed to a man who does not exist, that our sermons have been preached to an imaginary man. We have been preaching to men as highly respectable, on the whole, good, some of them saintly, while, as a matter of fact, this has been only samily, while, as a matter of tack, this has been only seeming. They have seemed this because great temp-tations have not aroused them from their sleep. No one who came across Europe within the last month can ever hold this easy faith again. Men are beasts; cruel, lust-ful, revengeful, ravening, just as the gospel represents

Where can we find better arguments for the l'uritan theology, especially one of its fundamental dectrines mentioned above? This war is a wonderful object les-son. Nothing like it has happened to confirm the old theology since the battle of the Boyne, or the victories of Cromwell, or may be since the going down in the English Channel of the ships of the Spanish Armada, in 1588. We hope the lesson will be learned, and extensively put into practice.

The highest greatness, surviving time and stone, is that The highest greatness, surviving time and stone, is that which proceeds from the soul of man. Monarchs and cabinets, generals and admirals, with the pomp of court and the circumstance of war, in the lapse of time disappear from sight; but the pioneers of truth, though poor and lowly, especially those whose example elevates human nature, and teaches the rights of man, so that "a government of the people, by the people, for the people, may not perish from the earth;" such a harbinger can never be forgotten, and their renown spreads co-extensive with the cause they served so well.—Charles Summer.

INDEPENDENCE ITEMS.

INDEPENDENCE ITEMS.

There has been great concern on the part of the Saints since Thanksgiving morning owing to the condition of President Joseph Smith. Thursday morning of last week he was taken ill quite suddenly with neuralgia of the heart, and at one time it was thought by those in the room with him that his life had ebbed out. All of the children including Frederick M. in Massachusetts and Hale W. in the southern states, and near relatives, were called here to witness the end. Bro. Joseph himself thought his time had come, and as soon as he revived sufficiently to talk he gave advice to his children and conversed on other matters. A stenographer has been hand constantly and all he has said has been taken sufficiently to talk he gave advice to his children and conversed on other matters. A stenographer has been on hand constantly and all he has said has been taken down. We can say, however, that at present writing he has improved some, but the end may come any time. We were privileged to hear a most excellent and interesting sermon Sunday morning from Elder J. W. Rushton. He said we have a great deal in common with other religionists. The Christian religion stands on three fundamental principles. The first is an intelligence which we call God, and there is one common ground on which we accept of this supreme intelligence. Referred to the personality of God, and said we do not consider a personality from the physical man, and gave President Joseph Smith as an example, saying that we do not consider his personality from his physical body in its present condition, but from his wonderful life work which shall extend throughout ages. Back of the universe is God, the uncaused cause. His personality consists in love, the uncaused cause. His personality consists in love, emotion, intelligence and will. We should love the lovable. This statement caused us to reflect: Are our enemies lovable. Every one has some good characteristics. We can love that which is good and not that which is bad, because it would not be consistent to love the bad.

the evening the large auditorium was again filled as it was the Sunday evening before to listen to Elder as it was the Sunday evening before to itself of back-Joseph Luft on Utahism. His subject as announced was Utah Mormonism in prophecy, showing that the church had been warned in revelation of what the Utah leaders brought on the church. He said his evidence would be from printed documents published by them, so that his statements could not be contradicted. He said that God warned the infant church as early as February, 1831, only about nine months after its organization, that there only about nine months after its organization, that there were breakers ahead. "Now I show unto you a mystery, a thing had in secret chambers." "Again I say unto you, the enemy in secret chambers seeketh your destruction." He showed that the Utah church had fulfilled this prophecy. He read from two sermons, one from Orson Pratt delivered in England, and another delivered by Brigham Young at the same time in Salt Lake. In Pratt's sermon he represented everything in Utah to be rates serinon in represented very signal Lake told the reverse. Pratt said the women of Utah were without jealousy and were contented, while Brigham Young gave them just two weeks to make up their mind to quit murmuring. Brigham said they could beat the world at anything, lying, gambling, etc.

anything, lying, gambling, etc.

Sunday evening we had a forceful reminder of how uncertain is life, and of the slender thread on which this life is often hung. Just about time for the song service to begin Sunday evening Bro. Oliver E. Holcomb passed away in church, although he had been feeling well all day and had looked forward with anticipation to hearing the sermon to be delivered by Bro. Luff. He was sitting on the back seat in the west wing of the church when he was observed by a brother near by, he having his mouth open and gasping for breath. Several went to his aid, but he was unconscious and suddenly passed away, and was carried from the church with but very few of the large congregation knowing anything of what had happened. Bro. Holcomb was 75 years old. He came here five years ago from Dunlap, Iowa. The remains were taken back there for burial. He was the son-in-law of Bro. and Sr. Henry Kemp and the was the son-in-law of Bro. and Sr. Henry Kemp and his wife and some children survive him. While in health we should prepare for death, not with dread or fear, but with a moral and spiritual preparedness that will make us safe should death come to us suddenly.

Bro. J. Allen and Son who came from England with Elder William Newton recently are watchmakers, and have already established themselves in business at 217 have already established themselves in ousness at 21 west Lexington St., where Bro. Guinand's talloring establishment is. The Brethren Allen claim to be experts in their work in repairing watches, clocks and jewelry. An appeal has been taken to the appelate court from Judge Johnson's decision on the county local option elections of the stable of the

The election was honestly conducted by the but the saloons sought to set the election aside because of a little technicality in the petition to call the election. The election was carried by a big majority, and it is thought to be a great injustice to have it set aside. If the appelate court sustains Judge Johnson's decision it will be as if there had been no election and the drys will have a right to petition for another election to be held in January. Otherwise another election could not be called inside of four years on the local option issue. W. H. Deam.

INDEPENDENCE, SECOND BRANCH.
On Tuesday evening, the 17th, Elder O. R., Miller concluded his series of sermons. His efforts have been well received. A unanimous vote was given him to return again in the near future.

again in the near future.

On Sunday morning the 22nd, Bro. Elmer Aylor, who recently moved here from California, spoke to the edification of those present.

Speaker for the evening hour was Bro. M. H. Seigfried of the Stake Bishopric. In his usual manner he admon-of the Stake Bishopte. In his usual manner he admon-ished the Saines along the line of duty. Presching Thursday morning following the prayer meeting was by Apostle Wm. Aylor. It was an excellent Thanksgiving sermon. The speaker used Duet. 38rd chap-ter, also Isaiah 18th chapter, proving this land to be a choice land, and also a place of sifety for the present time for which the American people should be thankful. At the close of the meeting dinner was announced and many retired to the Curtis hall where long tables had previously been arranged and nearly 300 people were served by the social club and others. While the crowd was made up of saints and non members they seemed to be in the same frame of mind on this occasion. Many baskets were sent out to other homes. After the temporal wants had been supplied there was said to have been about 12 baskets of fragments gathered up.

A program had been arranged for the afternoon, which was enjoyed by many. Ten numbers including readings, songs, and music were rendered by the young folks.

On last Sunday at 11 a. m. Elder W. E. Peak of the missionary force addressed the saints in a plain and forceful manner. His remarks were based on Matthew 520. Many good thoughts were drawn out for the benemany retired to the Curtis hall where long tables had

Many good thoughts were drawn out for the bene-

t of the members. At the evening hour Elder T. W. Chatburn, one of the old soldiers of the late civil war, but for many years has been engaged in a battle of right against wrong, spoke in an interesting way of his past experiences, and how he had been convinced that the Book of Morman

SEATLE.

Our services Sunday were unusually good in attend-dance and spiritual interest. The Religio was enlivened by a nice little dialogue by Flora and Marguerete, also a good practical talk by Bro. Amos Rhodes. It is markable how faithfully our children and young pec attend all the services without any visable unrest. stenographer, Bro. Warley Williams, was at his table jotting down the sermons, which were by the pastor.

jotting down the sermons, which were by the pastor.

Among the visitors at our Sunday services we noted Bro. G. W. Cushman, a son of our missionary Cushman, now deceased, Bro. G. G. Kinghorn from Auburn, also Bro. and Sr. Harry Butterfield of New Westminster, B. C., who were recently joined in happy wedlock at their home by Bro. Isaac McMullen, Elder of their branch. Bro. Butterfield is an extensive dealer in fish, shipping to various markets, as far east as New York—the dining hall at General Conference was supplied with some of his wares. His wife's maiden name was Emma Montgomery, a faithful saint.

Red. Brois and Budd have been prosecuting the work

Brn. Davis and Budd have been prosecuting the work at, and near Rosedale, B. C., where they have baptized four. We learn recently that Bro. Budd was called home to Missouri by the severe sickness of his mother.

Bro. Wm. Johnson, our district president, and mis ary is on a gospel tour, having labored at Spokane, Canon City, B. C., expecting to attend the Spokane District conference at Sagle, Idaho, thence homeward via Roslyn, Wash. Bro. Johnson speaks of walking ten miles over the frozen snow.

Bro. F. M. Sheehy and wife concluded their stay us on Saturday, going to Centralia to remain for a time, arranging for a prospective debate with the non progressive Christians. Their stay with us was pleasant and profitable.

J. M. Terry.

102 North 39 St. Seattle, Wash., Nov. 25.

OMAHA, NEBRASKA

"It is not the deed we do, Though the deed be never so fair, But the love that the dear Lord looketh for, Hidden with lowly care In the heart of the deed so fair.'

In the heart of the deed so fair."

As we are making preparations for Christmas, bringing gifts to the Master, how many have pure love in their hearts? Are willing to live the plain and simple life, and be content with the necessities, in order that the debts may be paid as the Lord has admonished, the church prosper, and more missionaries sent forth? we making sacrifices to promote the work?

we making sacrifices to promote the work?

A daughter made her appearance at the home of Mr.

R. A. and Sr. Zaide, R. Stearns on November 18th.

At the Frank G. Cannon lecture given recently in this city, a few of our members gained some prominence in the local paper, by criticising the gentleman after the lecture for not making the distinction between the two churches. His subject was the "Mormon System."

The prayer meeting Thangsgiving morning was well attended and choice blessings received. We were admonished to have love for our fellow beings, if we expect to be privileged to see the Master.

monished to have love for our fellow beings, it we expect to be privileged to see the Master.

Those worshipping with us of late have been, Sr. J. J. Rabidou, Lamoni, Sr. O. C. Robinson, Odeboti, Iowa, Sr. Nellie Larson, Moorehead, Iowa, Mrs. J. B. Viner, Henderson, also Bro. G. J. Heckman, Cleveland, Ohio. We are also glad to state that Bro. Arthur Spence has sufficiently recovered to be able to attend the services. Apostle J. A. Gillen gave an interesting discourse, Sunday morning, Nov. 29th, on "Prayer and Science," and the the security Rep. Carl. Self on "God, the Origin of may morning, NOV. 2946, on 112 yer and occurre, and in the evening Bro. Carl Self on "God, the Origin of Life." Others occupying the pulpit, Elders M. A. Peterson, Jas. A. Huff, and Paul N. Craig.

"Behold us, the rich and the poor, Dear Lord, in thy service draw nea One consecrateth a precious coin,

One dropping only a tear; Look Master, the love is here."

Alice Cary Schwartz.

345 Omaha Nat. Bank Bldg.

 16 0 m estable i 12 2 m et 1 m

Learner moran Marine moran marine CORRESPONDENCE

sementente mer en entre mentententente

Iola, Kans., Nov. 11. Editor Ensign:—I have been edified so much by reading the sermons and articles and letters from others I al desire to bear my testimony to the truthfulness of this gospel, for I know it is the power of God unto salvation to every one that believeth, for I have had my prayers answered many times and have been blessed in many ways and I still desire to live faithful, and ask an interest in the prayers of the Saints. If there are any Latter Day Saints living in or near Iola I would like to hear from them. hear from them

Box 165. Celia E. Evans.

Spokane District, Washington, Nov. 19.
Editor Ensign:—Perhaps a few words from the field at large of this district will be of interest to some; many good things might be said but we will just send you a few of them. First let me say that in my judg-ment this is most an ideal field to do missionary work in, so much better than anything I have been used to, not that the Saints are any better than in Illinois, but the "outsiders" are so different, one can always get a good hearing, and more than that, the people seem glad to learn the gospel. Prejudice does not run nearly so high and practically all school houses are open for us.

Dancing is the worst worldly attraction that we have to contend with; the "movies" are not nearly as comnon, nor do the lodge halls rob our church rooms as they

It is a pleasure to follow in a field where such good men as Brn. T. W. Chatburn, S. S. Smith, T. C. Kelley and others have labored. We can follow these men and not have to be ashamed of them, but rather it makes us to look to them with pride, as people talk so kindly

I arrived in my field the forepart of June. Nearly one thousand miles lay between my wife and baby and my-self, as I thought of them on the big open praries of Montana 25 miles from town "holding down" our homestead, I assure you I felt lonely, and my heart bled for them. I knew that I would meet with new friends, that I would find "mothers and fathers, homes," etc., that I would be busy day and night and that all this would help me in my lonely hours.

My heart was made glad and my faith strengthened when after being in my field a short time two brethren assured me that I was sent to this field by God and that they had both seen me in vision; this gave me new hope, belied me to know that God was with the Twelve when they made out their appointments. I hope that I shall never say to them "No I won't go to that field or this field," but I feel to say, "I'll go where you want me to go dear Lord," and then GO. and then GO.

During the six months I have labored here I have made During the six months I have hadored here I have made three new openings, Republic, Wash, Molson, Wash, and Okanogan, Wash. Am glad to say we baptized some in each place. Bro. Robert McDole made a home for me in Republic; it was because of his good clean life that we were able to find one that was made glad in the gos-From there I went to the home of Bro. and Sr. Worthington at Midway, B. C. They took me to Molsom where we baptized a young man and his wife, blessed where we haptized a young man and is wire, bressyntheir baby and left them rejoicing. From there we went to the home of Bro. and Sr. Dana McDole of Okanogan.

Bro. and Sr. McDole at this place have converted many to the conclusion that "the gospel is the power of God unto salvation." While there we baptized two more into the kingdom and am sure there will be several more obey there this fall. While preaching there this summer the "Church of God" (so called) became quite anxious of their little flock and ere we knew it they had sent word to their "big debater" to "come quick." He came quick, wanted me to break up our meetings at came quick, wanted me to break up our meetings at once and turn them into a debate; but we were very well pleased with the meetings as they were; our crowds were fine, interest fine, and some names given for baptism; so we did not feel at all inclined to break up the meetings, in fact we felt that that was what they wanted much more than the debate, so I advised them to attend our meetings until we were through and then we would sign up with them. Seeing that they could not break up the meetings that way they tried most every other mean thing they thought would go against us, such as visiting those that were interested and even in the theatre where we were preaching before and after meetings they would talk "on the side" to the people meetings they would talk "on the sade" to the people about Joseph Smith and the Book of Mormon, so at the close of the series we drew up the propositions, both signed up, and now we are to meet for nine nights, commencing December 10th. We think the debate will do much good for it will give us a chance to show in contrast to what they have and will say about our work, contrast to what they have and will say about our work, the real beauties of it.

We have also labored in Sagle, Idaho, Vallie, Idaho, the Big Bend country, the Clear Water country and Spokane. Have not put much time in at Sagle, because we have there Bro. Omens one of the Seventies, and a good worker. Preached one series at Vallie, and am good worker. Preached one series at Valle, and am glad to say the few saints there are doing all they can to keep the work up, we think that on our next trip there we will baptize a few. Our stop in the Big Bend was short because of the busy time of year for them, harvest. While we have passed through Spokane several times we have stayed there very little. The field is so large out while we have passed through sporane several claims as have stayed there very little. The field is so large out side of Spokane and Bro. Gray is doing so well in Spokane we haven't felt that it would be just fair to spend much time there. We feel to say however that the Spokane Branch is in fine condition, many good saints there, and while Bro. Gray has spent most of the summer and fall in constant labor on the new parsonsummer and fall in constant labor on the new parsonage getting it in shape to move into he has been a shepherd indeed to the flock. It has been said of him that "he is a little man but a mighty preacher." At last they are in their new home, happy as you please, and this morning as I am writing this letter they are both out doing missionary work, one in one direction and the other the other direction, both (Bro. and Sr.
Gray) are real missionaries.

We just came from the Clear Water country (wife and I—she joining me a short time ago) and while there baptized seven. We have promised an other series there this winter and already some have expressed a desire te be baptized.

Next week we go to the noted Palouse country. We have looked forward to this trip and expect some good meetings there. So far this year, we, together in this district have baptized thirty and the end is not yet.

meetings there. So far this year, we, together in smidistrict have baptized thirty and the end is not yet. Surely Saints the field is ripe.

I would be pleased to have any of the Saints or friends who might read this letter, that I have not met yet or am not in touch with to write me if they would like to have me visit them, for I want to do just all I can for he good of the work while in this part. We look forward with pleasure to work before us, while some things are not as we would have them still we are thankful that all is as well as it is.

The good fatherly counsel that we used to love so much with Grandpa Wildermuth, Bro. F. M. Cooper and others is missed, but we think that they do not forget to remember us in their prayers, and when perplexities arise we often remember their past advice and profit by it.

Ever anxious for the oward progress of the work,

Your brother, J. A. Bronson.
Field address, So. 238 Haven St., Spokane, Wash.

Field address, So. 238 Haven St., Spokane, Wash.

Bradlevville, Mo., Nov. 14.

Branisyville, al.o., Nov. 14.
Editor Ensign:—I am a little girl eight years old. I was baptized July 29. I love to read the Ensign, and Zion's Hope. I also love to be with the Saints. Bro.
Cunningham baptized my two sisters and myself the same day.

Bro. Chrestensen was here in October and baptized Sr. Bennett, and also blessed Bro. Hodges' two little chil-

Sr. Highland and her boys were also here then. We certainly had a good meeting and all seemed to enjoy it.

I will enclose 75 cents for which send the Ensign to my brother George Dyer at Molson, Washington, and also by sister Mrs. Jessie Annis, at Ripley, Oklahoma. My sister is not a member of the church and I want to get her interested if I can. My brother is a member and is living among non members and he will give the papers

Your sister in the true church

Lena Dver.

Luther, Mont., Nov. 20. Dear Ensign:—It has been a long time since I wrote to your columns. I feel my weakness and unworthi-ness more than ever, for Satan is surely raging in this ness more than ever, for satan is surely raging in onis part just now. I would love to see this community a religious one. My husband and myself have become cold and indifferent, but I want to get back to the fold and live more faithful in the future than I have ever lived in the past. I am so tired of sin and wickedness. I realize that the end of time is so near at hand, and that we should stand in holy places and strive to live right in order that we may have the Lord's protecting care over us.

I am looking every day for D. R. Baldwin to come up and hold meetings for us a while and see if it will help the people here to see and realize their condition. I the people here to see and realize their condition. I have not been satisfied to make my home here long, as the people mostly care for nothing but worldly affairs—dances, etc. I would like to see a branch raised up here. I have for several years wanted to go back to the Stakes of Zion and make my home among the Saints. I want to put every dollar I have, or ever expect to have, in the Lord's work.

I want the whole church in general to know that I have thrown away that old filthy tobacco habit at last, and want to keep my body pure for the Holy Spirit to dwell with me. I know it will not dwell in unholy places. dwell with me. I know it will not dwell in unholy places, I want to throw away every evil habit, thought and desire. I ask the prayers of all the Saints in behalf of my husband and myself that we may live in union and love, and do right, and that we may be the means of bringing many precious souls into the work, and let no other man or woman keep us from doing right. Pray for my dear old mother, as she is pretty feeble. May we all live worthy to obtain the blessing of the Master and have a home with Christ our Savior when our work on this earth is done.

Your sister in the gosnel.

ne. Your sister in the gospel, Grace M. Fullerton.

THE SAINTS HERALD FOR 1915.

The Saints HERALD is the official organ of the Re-organized Church of Jesus Christ of Latter Day Saints. It is devoted to the promulgation of the gospel of Jesus

It is devoted to the promugation of the gospel of Jesus Christ. It seeks first to build up the kingdom of God and to establish his righteousness.

It endeavors to educate the people, realizing that freedom is found in knowledge of truth, "You shall know the truth, and the truth shall make you free."

EDITORIALS.

EDITORIALS.

The editorial staff consists of Joseph Smith, and Elbert A. Smith, editors; and John F. Garver, assistant editor.

The editorials are devoted to religious, educational, and general topics. Our ambition is to make them concise, lucid, absorbing, direct, scholarly, convincing. If they do not leave their readers wiser and nobler we have come short of our ideal.

short of our ideal.

Read them and judge for yourself.

CURRENT EVENTS.

One section of the Editorial Department is given over each week to a review of current events. This review is conducted mostly by the assistant editor, John F. Garver.

The events of the day are reviewed briefly, in the least possible space, we comprehensively. This review is dis-pessionate and non partizan. It merely endeavors to give facts, or wind purport to be facts as they are re-ported by the press of the world. It covers events both secular and religious,—such for instance as the great European War, the war in Mexico, clashes between capital and labor in the great Industrial straggle, events and pronouncements of importance in the religious world,-the thousand and one items of interest ear around.

the year around.

If you are busy, but wish to be informed, and desire to review each week events that you have scanned hurriedly in the daily papers, read this department.

ORIGINAL ARTICLES.

The Department of Original Articles is filled constantly with contributions from our very best writers. The articles are of a nature to interest you, covering as they do a wide range of subjects. They afford you an they do a wide range of subjects. They afford you an opportunity to hear the pro and con of vital questions,—as for instance in the discussion of The Atonement carried on during the past summer by Elders Joseph R. Lambert and Frank A. Russell.

Also from time to time we publish reports of excellent doctrinal sermons. If you are a "scattered" member this feature should appeal to you. Let us "send you a preacher by mail."

Another feature of interest in this department is the occasional biography or autobiography of well known church workers. These are always welcomed by our

DEPARTMENT OF GENERAL INTEREST.

In the Department of General Interest from week to week we publish extracts from leading newspapers, magazines, and periodicals of various kinds. Thus readers of the Saints Herald get an excellent review of cur-rent opinion, especially on religious topics. LEFTER DEPARTMENT.

The letter department is one of perennial interest to Latter Day Saints. Here they exchange notes the world over. Through it you may keep in touch with the brothers and sisters in all parts of the world.

NEWS FROM MISSIONS.

Somewhat akin to the letter department is the News from Missions Department, excepting that the writers in this department are mostly of the missionary force. Through this forum the missionary reports his labors to the people.

What interesting reports they are! Here Brethren Greene, Koehler and Jenkins report to you conditions in Jerusalem and the Holy Land. Brethren Greenwood, Armstrong, May, and others write from England. Kippie. Armstrong, may, and others write from Enginal. Apple, Hanson, and others write from Germany, Holland, Sweden, and Denmark; Davis, Jones, and Waller from Hawaii; May, Savage, Ellies, and Chrestensen from the Society Islands; Griffiths, Miller and other brethren from Aus-

Here you get the mission news from Canada and from all parts of the United States. You should not fail to take the HERALD and keep in touch with the events in

DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION.

The SAINTS HERALD has just admitted a new department that we feel will be of great interest and profit to our readers.

We refer to the department of Education edited by Pro-we refer to the department of Education edited by Pro-fessor S. A. Burgess, president of Graceland College.

This department will be devoted to the cause of edu-cation in general. Graceland College will receive her share of attention; also Graceland Extension Institute, founded one year ago to reach the man who desires to improve himself but cannot attend school. Here he finds improve himself but cannot attend school. Let a he had help and is directed in his studies.

This department will be one of vital interest. A valuable addition to the SAINTS HERALD.

THE STAFF.

Since the organization of our musical talent was undertaken some years ago, beginning with the appointment of our efficient and popular General Chorister, Brother A. N. Hoxie, Jr., interest in musical matters has been very satisfy and increase this interest the SAINTS HERALD runs a monthly department devoted to music. This department is appropriately named "The Staff," edited by Sister Audentia Anderson. It is one of the brightest, spiciest, most readable departments that we Are you a musician? You should take the HERALD and read the Staff. Have you friends who are musicians Send them the Herald for one year.

A NEW SUNDAY SCHOOL DEPARTMENT.

Sunday school workers take especial notice of this important announcement! With the demise of the Exponent the Sunday school

With the demise of the Exponent the sunday school people felt the need of an avenue of expression.

To meet this need we have offered them the use of a department in the Saints HERALD under the management of Elder Gomer R. Wells, superintendent of the General Sunday school Association. Watch for this department!

WOMAN'S HOME COLUMN.

WOMAN'S HOME COLUMN.

For many years past this department, first founded by that noble an capable worker Sr. Walker, has been a splendid feature of the SAINTS HERALD.

In the hands of the present department editor, Sr. Christiana Salyards, it is a feature of which we are justly proud. She is well known for her Sunday school Quar-terly work. She brings to this department the same patient research, coupled with originality of thought, that made her Quarterly work successful.

All mothers and home keepers should read this practical and valuable department.

MAGAZINE NUMBERS.

From time to time during the year we publish splendid magazine numbers.

These numbers are filled with the very best matter that we can secure. They are profusely illustrated.

The pictures alone in some of these numbers are worth the subscription price for a year. The articles in such a magazine number for instance as some devoted to "Our Church Courts" are worth many times the yearly subscription price.

We have some excellent Magazine Numbers in course of preparation. They come along at intervals as a special treat, to give you good measure, pressed down and running over.

TERMS. TERMS.

The SAINTS HERALD is published weekly at Lamoni, Iowa, by the Reorganized Church of Jesus Christ. The subscription price is only $1.50 per year. In advance.

THE SAINTS HERALD costs a little more than some control of the covers a far wider than the covers and are wider.

religious periodicals. But then it covers a far

You do not need to be ashamed of your own church aper. It will bear comparison with the best religious weeklies on the market. Give it your financial suport. Subscribe now. Try and get us a few new subscribers.

TO BISHOP E. L. KELLEY.

At the Celebration of his 70th Birthday. We meet you at the mile-post Whereon the inscribers pen
Has traced the digits that proclaim
Your years three-score and ten.

And, halting for a moment Extend a greeting hand— Sisters and brothers joining— Impulsed by love's command.

With our congratulations These humble prayers we blend That heaven may your pilgrimage With us long years extend.

To help us bear the burdens, To help us live the life. To help us wage the conflict, To help endure the strife.

That mark our earthly 'biding And make us feel the need Of hand and heart courageous To counsel and to lead.

plead the cause of innocence And virtue's claims defend-Enforce the law and purge the Church Of all that may offend.

To tell the angel's story And high its standard hold, Heedless of earth's derision— By righteousness made bold.

To magnify your station—
The office of God's gift,
And help his struggling Zion
Its head in joy to lift,

To help o'erthrow the evil-Subdue the carnal trend Within us, that our Master May royally ascend.

To help us solve the problems
That vex and wear the mind;
To help us fill in honor Our spheres by God assigned,

To heln "make straight" the passage-The course our Savior trod, And ope' to earth's discernment The trysting place of God.

And may the crowning lustre Of your life's retrospect Increase till with eternity Time shall for you connect.

And as you cross the threshold May your first greeting be "Well done, faithful servant, thine Be joy eternally."

Meanwhile-this bliss awaiting, May mile-posts here a score
Bear record that you still remain
With uncompleted score.

And may on each be written Some tribute which shall tell
To eyes that "see" and hearts that "feel"
You've lived and labored well.

Thus speak our hearts and thus pray we For one whose life proclaims That praise to God and good to man Are first in all his aims

Whose time and toil and skill have on This altar lain alway And won our hearts and stirred our tongues This tribute here to pay.

Aside from this no lordly store Is yet by us possessed
And "mites" must fill the "talents" place Would love be thus expressed.

Still, undeterred, this vehicle We choose to index what Makes up the volume in our hearts
And prompts our present thought.

Accept it, therefore, at our hands For what it represents,

And thus discern unmeasured wealth Of love in dimes and cents.

HEAVEN A CONDITION.

By Elder J. E. Vanderwood.

Too frequently we mortals arrive at conclusions from a false or mistaken premise; and thereby do an injustice to ourselves as well as to others We are generally in the habit of taking too many things for granted, or jumping too readily at conclusions; and it is just possible our ideas, notions, traditions and fancies regarding heaven may be a little faulty when we come to give them the final analysis. We are quite prone to think and speak of heaven as a place and lose sight entirely of the prerequisite conditions; i. e., we generally suppose that the conditions are an after effect, an out growth of the place we designate heaven, which in matter of fact is entirely erroneous, and misleading to the undeveloped mind. It is well therefore that we give a little more careful, systematic thought to questions of so great importance, and if possible arrive at correct ideas and conclusions so that our expressions concerning heaven will give a clear, comprehensive, and definite understanding to those with whom we converse on the topic of the abode of the glorified gaints.

Heaven is defined in part, by Webster as, "supreme felicity," and it is in this sense that we desire to consider it; since this conveys to us the condition implied in the term. We think of a place where perfect harmony, perfect happiness prevails, but fail in many instances at least to caquire into the conditions that must precede our entrance into such a blissful, superb habitation. We speak and sing of heaven beyond the grave, that is we are accustomed to thinking and believing that heaven is a place the soul of man enters after taking its flight from the earthly body, which in a sense is true and yet is untrue, since the only assurance we can possibly have of heaven beyond the grave is the fact that the conditions of heaven have been found and actualized in our hearts and lives while yet in the mortal body. If the conditions of supreme felicity have been entirely ignored by us while living on the earth what assurance have we that such a condition will be vouchsafed to us in the great beyond? Paul informs us that the "kingdom of God," which is a synonym of heaven is, "Righteousness and peace and joy." This being true we are able to understand how it becomes supreme felicity; and we are also able to understand how the condition must be the prerequisite of the place. By this the writer desires to convey the thought that unless heaven first finds its way into the soul of man, the soul of man will never find his way into heaven. This may sound paradoxical but it is nevertheless a fact that cannot be escaped in the nature of events.

That the condition must of necessity precede the place is made apparent by a simple illustra-Suppose it were possible to transport bodily, Kansas City, or for that matter any other city, into the place we call heaven, what would we have? Would it be heaven? No! Why not? Simply because Kansas City would be only Kansas City, and any other city that might be literally transported into that condition, or rather place, because the condition would be found wanting, would be only the particular city. Hence we see that the place cannot assure us heaven unless the condition obtains first. And the only way to get Kansas City into heaven, would be to first get heaven into Kansas City. And what is true of a city is also true of an individual; the only way we can get into heaven is to get heaven into our-And herein comes the office work of the church, for by getting heaven into the church we will also be able to get the church into heaven.

The heavenly condition then is that of rightness, peace, joy. And unless the life is established upon, and governed by the principles of rightness, it would matter but little where the individual were placed: for he who's life lacks the essentials of rightness would be out of harmony with his environment if he were placed in the place known as heaven, and it would not therefore be heaven unto him, because heaven is perfect harmony. Unless the seel be filled with that inward peace that was no apparent in the Christ life the mere place could not insure a heavenly condition. If the life be not abounding in wholesome joy, the essentials of heaven are found wanting, though the individual may be surrounded by perfect

The earth was once cursed for the sake of man. by reason of his transgression. So in like manner will it be blessed for his sake when he cleanse that which is within: that is, when the heaven within has been attained the heaven without will be at hand; and when perfect harmony prevails in the hearts of men, then, and then only, will heaven be a reality; and in place of our being carried into the skies the prayer we so often pray will be realized, which says: "Thy kingdom come, thy will be done on earth as it is done in heaven." Heaven will be brought to earth when men have learned to live heaven within. So we are able to see how essential it is that we find the inward peace if we expect to find a place called heaven after this earth life has come to an end.

Jesus says: "In the world you shall have tribulation, but be of good cheer I have overcome the world." Notice that he was yet in this world bodily, but had overcome it; he was in the world but not of it. He also said: "These things I have spoken unto you, that in me ye might have peace." This is the heavenly at a never have peace in Christ until we get Christ in us, and if we get the Christ nature within, we will find that peaceful spirit and influence that gives even the world the touch of heaven.

THE NATURE OF GOD.

Synopsis of a sermon by Elder O. R. Miller. The kingdom of God is an order of government established by divine authority. Under present conditions, I believe in supporting the best earthly government, but the "idealistic" can never be materialized and controlled by the finite, alone. I believe in obeying God's word wherein he says, "Be subject to the powers that be till he (Christ) comes, whose right it is "Render to Caesar what belongs to to reign." him." We should do our utmost to see that all wrongs are righted, and that all people receive justice, here and now, for, only in turning our attention and energy to a proper present life shall we be able to inherit the redeemed earth when the Master comes. To be able to labor properly we must know something about the nature and character of the King (God). Rev. Dr. Luther Lee's description of the "Deity" is as follows: "God is a Spirit, without body, parts, or passions whose circumference is everywhere, and whose center is nowhere, he is indivisable, indissoluble, uncompounded, simple essence, with no exterior, no interior surface, without weight, shape, size or color, and can in no wise come in contact with matter." When I prove that the reverend gentleman is in absolute contradiction to Bible facts I not only show his mistake but I prove that the majority of, so-called, Christian people are, with him, worshipping a more ridiculous idol than the heathen! Throughout the divine record, God is spoken of as a seeing, hearing, powerful and loving (exercise of passion) Father. Moses with others talked with him face to face as one man would talk to another.

The Christ, who came in the express image of the Father, was not only seen conversing, moving and eating, as man, after his resurrection, but when Nebuchadnezzar caused that the three Hebrew children be cast into the heated furnace, behold he declared he saw four and said he, The fourth is like unto the Son of God! Then, the Son of God, before his incarnation, appeared as other men. While there is, no doubt, a vast difference between the mortal and the immortal bodies, yet, in a sense, they are both material in their nature. "God is a Spirit," yet a spirit is as much "matter" as oxygen or hydrogen. Chemists have discovered numerous kinds of matter and portions of some are in common with parts of others. An "immaterial being" is a contradiction in terms-another name for nothing! Adam conversed with the infinite-that was God's way then. Noah conversed with God, and is called righteous. Abraham communed with God, and is called the faithful. Moses talked with God face to face, and is pronounced God's annointed.

John the Baptist, the apostles and prophets were favored with angelic administrations and men arise and call them blessed, but men today who claim communion with angels and the Diety What a are branded "ignorant impostors!" travesty on human intelligence! What pinnacles of blasphemy! to represent God as an absolute nothing and then impose upon the people by saying, "I'm called to preach (!)" Called (?) to represent a loving Father, yet declaring he has no passion! Called (?) by his still small voice through his loving lips yet representing his as being a mere myth! It is no wonder the majority deny present-day revelation. They pray, not expecting an answer. They hold before their mental vision a something that has no ears, therefore cannot hear their cries. A something that has no passions, therefore cannot pity. In fact they never pray to the true God, therefore need not expect an answer! Would you expect his majesty the king of England to answer a petition directed to some heathen chieftain? Would you expect the God of heaven to answer a petition directed to a Hindoo god? Furthermore, would you expect the living God of Revelation to answer a petition directed to a supposed god without body, parts or passions—a myth? O blush for modern Christianity! A pious name for atheism! Many knowing me to be a young man, may wonder why I so vigorously denounce these popular ideas which have been so long held out by creeds and advocated by Right Rev. D. Ds. I do so because they slander my God and misrepresent the children's friend.

A man may have his walls adorned with diplomas and his name decorated with degrees, possessing an extensive education and power of eloquence, and yet not be an authorized ambassador for Christ. I read in the Acts of the Apostles, chapters 18 and 19, an account of one Apollos an eloquent man and mighty in the scriptures. and with all his eloquence and scriptural learning his work in bptizing was not recognized! Paul learned of the illegal work and baptized the candidates in the name of the Lord Jesus, and then the Holy Spirit came through the orginance of the laying on of hands.

Paul says (Heb. 5:4), speaking of the right to represent heaven. "No man taketh this honor unto himself but he that is called of God as was Aaron." Aaron was called by revelation from God. Jesus said: 'He that is called of God speaketh the words of God." Then he who denies revelation admits he has not been properly authorized to represent heaven.

If he tells you there are no prophets today, he fails to advocate necessary truths. If he tells you there are no present day apostles, yet the Church of Christ is extant, he contradicts the written Word of God and thus he is measured by the plummet of eternal truth and found lacking; he is weighed in the balances and found wanting! Paul in his first letter to the saints at Corinth, chapter 12, names the apostles, prophets, members, gifts, blessings, etc., and says that such is the body of Christ or kingdom of God. Truly Christ said, "Verily, verily, I say unto you except a man be born again he cannot see the kingdom of God." Apostles, prophets, members, etc., compose the kingdom of God and a man who fails to see it, according to Christ, has not even been born again, much less called to preach and build up the kingdom. I speak in plainness that truth may prevail.

THE WORLD'S PROBLEMS. By Elder J. F. Mintur

No. 5-Man's Final Destiny; Where his Abiding Place?

No question is fraught with greater interest, and none more important than the destiny of man and his final abiding place.

Within the nature of man there is a desire to live, and under normal conditions he has no desire to separate from those he loves.

The desire to possess something, or to be considered or made to feel that he is an important factor among men and everything living is paramount. All this is evidence of what has been provided for man. He is a living prophecy of his own destiny.

In support of this is the word of Him who created man, a part of whose very existence is certain desires to be satisfied. To create a demand and not make provision for its satisfaction would prove an imperfect Creator. To place man where the environments would develop desires not to be gratified would prove imperfect. The environments placed around man by his Creator are perfect, but the environments placed around himself by reason of transgressing the law that should have governed him under favorable environments has distorted his abilities and desires, and God is trying to correct this distorted nature, and has placed in his possession by revealment the plan necessary by which this correction shall be brought about. The promises that provide for the satisfying of the desires created in man is proof that the One promising has taken into consideration those desires that will bring real satisfaction and pleasure, and it is evident that none but an all-wise and all-powerful Being could and would provide for them in face of all that seeks to prevent and to destroy.

In the history of the creation there is presented prominently in the contemplation of the act, that man was to have 'dominion over all else created, and his lapor was to supplement what nature could do and God had done, and was to partake of earth's bounties and pleasures. The noet-prophet. Isaiah, makes this record, "God poet-prophet, Isaiah, makes this record, himself formed the earth, and made it; he hath established it, he created it not in vain, he formed it to be inhabited." He further claims the Creator said, "I have made the earth, and created man upon it." This presents as clearly as language can that the earth was created to be inhabited by man, and since God has all power will not be frustrated in what he has been pleased to do, even though for a time the work contemplated may be hindered, because man did not observe the conditions governing the fulfillment of that promised.

In accord with this thought it is recorded that the Creator promised Camaan to Abraham, the father of the faithful, to Isaac, to Jacob and to all Israel "for an everlasting possession," and one who was interested in the fulfillment of this promise, and claimed to have been made acquainted with the mind of God said, "O, my people, I will open your graves, and cause you to come up out of your graves, and bring you into the land of Israel." This was addressed to "the whole house of Israel." See Ezekiel 37:11, 12.

With the general principle herein expressed are many statements recorded in that which claims God as its author, a few others of which I will notice. The sweet singer of Israel says, "For evil doers shall be cut off; but those that wait upon the Lord, they shall inherit the earth."

"But the meek shall inherit the earth; and shall delight themselves in the abundance of peace."

With this agrees the instructions of the Messiah in his sermon on the mount, in which he said, "Blessed are the meek, for they shall inherit the earth."

The enemy of mankind, he who has hindered him from enjoying that which from the beginning was intended he should enjoy, knew well what would be the result of the work of the Redeemer when "The Kingdoms of this world are become the kingdoms of our Lord and his Christ; and he shall reign for ever and ever," and the "Lord shall be king over all the earth; in that day there shall be one Lord, and his name one:" for after Jesus had been acknowledged as the Son of God, he, satan, offered, upon the simple conditions of being acknowledged as the superior by bowing down and worshipping him, to give Jesus "all the kingdoms of this world and the glory of them"

Consonant with Jesus Christ, man's elder brother, securing dominion will be sung this song in realization, "thou hast slain, and hast redeemed us to God by thy blood out of every kindred, and tongue, and people, and nation."

"And hast made us unto our God kings and priests: and we shall reign on the earth," for the reason that those who are qualified are to be "joint heirs" with Jesus the Messiah.

To secure a realization of this condition and exercise the dominion man must return to earth, and at that time be of such a nature that the earth in its then changed condition will gratify every desire, mental, physical and spiritual, when it will be without "any more curse" and the tears of all will be wiped away, because there will be no more death, neither sorrow, nor crying, neither shall there be any more pain, and the intellectual and social conditions will be such that, "They shall not hard nor destroy in all my holy mountain: for the earth shall be full of the knowledge of the Lord, as the waters cover the sea."

This condition could not exist till "evil doers are sut off," and "the wicked shall not be," the day having arrived "that shall burn as an oven; and all the proud, yea, and all that do wickedly; shall be stubble; and the day that cometh shall burn them up,"

Then in the "new earth" when made "heavenly" will all Israel enjoy that which the ancient worthies, according to the Apostle-Paul, have been looking for. See Heb. 11:10-16. Then will be brought to pass the conditions thus described: "And they shall build houses and inhabit them; and they shall plant vineyards and eat the fruit of them.

"They shall not build and another inhabit; they shall not plant and another eat," but the Lord "will rejoice in Jerusalem, and joy in my people; and the voice of weeping shall be no more heard in her, nor the voice of crying." It will be then that "this corruptable shall have put on incorruption, and this mortal shall have put on inmortality," and "shall be brought to pass the saying that is written, "Death is swallowed up in victory," and the "blessed and holy *** shall be priests of God and of Christ and shall reign with him a thousand years."

In contemplation of these grand opportunities — at the conditions upon which we are to secure them man is inspired to love humanity and the ways of blessedness and holiness the more, and look forward when the will of God will have been fully carried out, notwithstanding the hindrances, and man will inhabit this earth when the curse placed upon it for his sake will be removed for his sake, and the perfect use of all the spiritual, mental and physical faculties will be realized and enjoyed. At that time he will have not only perfect dominion over himself but over all that will make him that being of dominion whom God created in the beginning.

All theories to the contrary come short of satisfying the prophetic character of man's nature, or the promises of God.

THE OFFENDER.

By Elder R. T. Cooper.

"Moreover if thy brother shall trespass against thee, go and tell him his fault between thee and him alone: if he shall hear thee, thou hast gained thy brother. But if he will not hear thee, then take with thee one or two more that in the mouth of two or three witnesses every word may be established. And if he shall neglect to hear them, tell it unto the church; but if he neglect to hear the church, let him be unto thee as an heathen man and a publican."—Matthew 18:15-17.

The steps plainly are, First, tell him between thee and him alone; Second, one or two witnesses; Third, tell it unto the Church, and the Church has interpreted this to mean tell it to the elders, as prescribed in the church rules and procedure.

Assuming that all proper efforts at reconciliation have been made, in humility; sincere desire for reconciliation; allowing reasonable time for subsidence of feelings; prayer; willingness to forgive and to be forgiven; conceding that, I may be wrong; tendering material restitution if the case should require it: What would be the duty of the "other party"?

We have here the legitimate presumption that the "other party" did the wrong.

The party wronged or offended is the innocent party. Why should the innocent, injured party be required to do all the work of reconciliation when he did no wrong? Should the burden all rest on him? How can he effect the reconciliation, of which restitution should be the basis, if he has been robbed? Is it not evident the party who did the wrong or injury should at least assist in the reconciliation? If he has defrauded should he not make restitution? or at least try? He having offended should he not try to make amends? Should he try less than is required and prescribed for the innocent injured party?

To all these queries the answer seems obvious and the remedy seems to have been supplied by the Master himself in Matthew 5:23, 24.

"Therefore if thou bring thy gift to the altar and there rememberest that thy brother hat aught against thee; Leave there thy gift before the altar, and go thy way; first be reconciled to thy brother, and then come and offer thy gift."

Shouldn't he then take the same steps to effect this reconciliation as are prescribed for the innocent party in Matthew 18;15, 16, 17, above quoted? Can we devise a better plan for him to follow? If the law of the sacrament is so sensitive that one feeling hardness of heart should not partake lest he eat and drink condemnation to his soul, even though such hardness may have been caused by the injury suffered, should not the one who committed the injury or wrong partake without having done his part to effect reconciliation as indicated in the two references quoted?

When should he begin?

Ans. As soon as he becomes aware that he has offended.

How may he know he has offended?

First, of his own knowledge. Second, by the call of the injured party. Third, by notice from a proper officer of the church.

If the grievance is a really imaginary one, or by a real misunderstanding then the party offended is, or may be, the real offender and the one most innocent the one really offended and Matthew 5:23, 24 would apply to him, to be applied as set out in Matthew 18:15, 16, 17. After becoming aware that "Thy brother hath

After becoming aware that "Thy brother hath aught against thee" the duties prescribed for adjusting difficulties in Matthew 18 as quoted applies to and is devolving equally upon both parties.

The necessity of refraining from the sacrament should by right fall upon the guilty one, or the party giving the offense, as soon as he becomes knowing to the offense, as much as it applies to the one in whom the offence may have caused a hardness of heart. Wisdom should be exercised whether serious enough to warrant abstinence from the sacrament.

However, abstinence on the part of the one offending, would so manifest an earnest desire for reconciliation and a courteous respect and solicitude for other's feelings which would materially assist in convincing him of the sincerity of the effort for reconciliation, as to overbalance the loss of one material enjoyment of the emblems.

Of course having exhausted the provisions of the law for a reconciliation which might fail by lack of response of the other party, one should again feel entirely free to participate in the sacrament service.

For the offended party to tell his associates or "friends" about his grievance or how he had been wronged or offended, whether real or immaginary would be a real wrong on his part for the Word says, "Go and tell him his fault between him and thee alone."

Los Angeles, Cal., November 6, 1914.

MARRIAGE AND HABIT.

Our life is a tissue of habits to a far greater extent than we realize. The great decisions are made somewhat on their merits; but the thousand little acts and movements and thoughts of every day are made by an instinct rooted deep in the growth of past generations.

Every people, every community, every family has its habits, with which the individual grows up, hardly realizing that they differ from the habits of others. It is astonishing how early this garment of habit becomes fitted to us, how hard it is to change it. And although it hampers the old more than the young, yet the young, from lack of experience, are less tolerant of the different habits of others than are their elders.

So marriage becomes a clash of habits. When two people become engaged, both try, quite innocently, to appear not as they are, but as the other wishes them to be. With the unbroken propinquity of marriage, the strain of attitude becomes too great. Sooner or later both sink back, with a sigh of relief, into the old clothes of habit, which seem so comfortable.

That is the crisis that breaks so many marriages, the problem of adjusting the daily habits of thought, of conduct, of money, of eating and drinking. For the trouble is felt far more in little things than in great.

The remedy for the conflict of habit in marriage is to be prepared for it. Parents should teach their children early that there are more good ways than one of living in the world. A man may be thoroughly honorable and charming to live with, and yet like his food quite differently cooked from the way you prefer it. Even though we yield to our habits, we should try to keep them flexible, adaptable, capable of being moulded into conformity with others quite different. It is only by such mutual discipline that a happy marriage is possible, and the sooner the discipline begins, the better.—Youth's Companion.

GREATER AMERICA.

A new industrial America is just dawning. An America that will be sufficient unto itself. It is coming into existence in the midst of the great European strife that is now at hand, this unholy war of the nations which has come quickly upon us, this cutting off of supplies, that for ages have been brought from Germany, France, England and Italy. Somehow America has left it to these European countries to furnish us with many things that have not been manufactured here, chiefly because we could buy them there, more reasonable than we could make them here, but the time is coming when this can not be done and America must take care of itself. Its people must be employed, its children must be fed. What better way could there be to care for its own, than to manufacture everything needful for the use of the people here in our own country.

The United States with its unmeasured natural resources, possesses a motive power only needing population to make it effective. We have fuel for the furnaces, grain for the mills, wool, cotton, and silk for the looms, wood for the lathes, and food for the workers here in this wonderfully rich country, yet we send to Germany, Italy, France, England and other countries for many things that we use daily. Some of our largest industries are dependant on the supplies brought from abroad. Among the things imported by the United States are vast quantities of chemicals. wines, toys, porcelean ware, dyes, sugar, laces and embroideries and some 1300 tons of picture post cards. The dyes, toys, chemicals, porcelain ware and sugar are brought from Germany. It is these things chiefly that we feel the need of, at the present time. Here in America, we have vast cotton fields of the south, the large sheep herds of the west, with which to clothe the multitude of people, but the dye stuff that is used in making these raw materials into beautiful colors is brought from Germany and has never been made here to any extent. The textile industry of this country is the second largest industry in the United States. It is second only to farming. One million Americans earn their living by this industry. Shall we close our factories because we can not get the necessary dyes from Germany and thus add 1,000,000 more men and women to the ranks of these now unemployed? Would it not be better to make use of materials here, open the laboratories of our schools and colleges as experimental stations and make our own dyes and by so doing add hundreds to the employed of our country rather than adding 1,000, 000 men and women to the unemployed. Among the German Americans, here there must be some old men who are learned in the making of the German dye stuff who would be induced to give over their secrets for the good of the people and by so doing add to the strength of the entire

Another industry that we might cultivate is the one of toy making. Toys used by the American children are nearly all made in Germany, not in large factories as we have here, but in little villages by families, where the people eat, sleep and live the year round. These families know and think of nothing else but making dolls, toy animals, etc., and are trained in the art from childhood. These people are very poor and work for almost nothing.

One family makes little wooly sheep that sell here for a nickel a piece, receiving only one cent for each one, and the entire family help in the making of each little animal. The father makes the sheep's body, the three year old boy dips this little wooden body into a pot of glue, then the mother rolls it over once in a strip of cloth, then the grandmother takes it and sticks on the small wooden legs, the daughter of the house glues on the head and the older son puts on the eyes. It is all finished now and the grandfather sits on a low stool, smoking his pipe and sorts out the sheep into baskets, ready for the warehouse keeper to send them to America.

The dolls nearly all come from Sonneberg and are made by families in the same way. In Nuremberg the mechanical and clockwork toys are made while Leipzig furnishes the world with fur covered animals and fur tays. These toy makers were very poor and endured great hardships as they made their toys, but now that Germany has gone to war, the toy industry has been storped. The younger members of the house-hold have laid aside the toys and shouldering their guns, have gone to fight for their country. So the supplies of toys will be short this year and shorter next year, if the toy makers do not return from the war.

America might learn a lesson from the policy Germany adopted several years ago. Many years ago the German ruler, found that 240,000 German subject were leaving that country each year for the United States. He saw that if he would keep his people at home, there must be work to keep them occupied and fed. To do this he found it necessary to give them materials to work upon, such as they did not have at home, at least in the quanities desired, so he imported cotton, lumber, oil, agriculture products and the like and employed all he could. Now fewer than 40,000 Germans emigrate from there each year.

Much has been written and said of the unemployed in the United States. We have a rich country, wonderful food supplies, room for many more people than we already have but the problem of employing the people, grows greater and greater until the cry has come up from the land Give us work that we may live."

America will never be at its greatest until it is able to produce and make everything needful for its own use and that of its people and true power will come with the solving of this its greatest problem, the employment of its unemployed.

DEPARTMENT OF ്ര്യ Woman's Auxiliary for Social Service ഗ്ര

MRS, MAUDE MILLS, EDITOR, 1514 W. Short St., Independence, Mo

NOTICE.

All persons sending money to the Woman's Auxiliary for any purpose, including subscriptions to Home and Child Welfare leaf-tels, or Children's Home domaints, please forward same to the treasure of the Auxiliary, Mrs. J A. Gardner, 211S. Fuller Ave., independence Mo. AUXIGOD PROADS.

dependence Mo.

ADVISORY BOARD.

Mrs. S. R. Burgess, President, 2920 Etzel Ave., St. Louis, Mo.

Mrs. B. C. Smith, Vice President, 214 S. Spring St., Independence, Mo. Miss Minnie E. Scott, Secretary, 309 S. Fuller Ave., Independ ence, Mo. ence, Mo. Mrs. J. A. Gardner, Treasurer, 711 S, Fuller Ave., Independence,

D. Mrs. M. A. Etzenhouser, 1993 W. Walnut St., Independence, Mo-Mrs. D. J. Krahl, 734 S. Crysler St., Independence, Mo. SUPERINFENDENTS OF DEPARTMENTS. Home and Child Welfare Department, Mrs. H. A. Stebbins, La-will lower monthless and the weater bepartment, Mrs. I. A. Steubens, Lambda, Lambara and Educational Department, Mrs. Lydia Thomas Wight. Lamoul. lowa Eugenics Department. Mrs. Jennic Studiey, 17 E. Cottage St., Roxbury, Mass. St., St., Cotone Department, Mrs. Bertha Anderson Hulmes, 48 Mill St., Cotonel Burds, Iowa. Sewing and Ald Department, 4rs Edith Cochran, 207 S. Sevententi St., St., Joseph. Jo. Voung Woman's Department, Mrs. J. A. Gardner, 711 S. Fuller Ave., Independence, Mo.

SUGGESTIONS.

I could not help being touched by the appeal of our new editor in a recent Ensign, having experienced some-thing of the feeling of panic that comes over one in undertaking new work. Especially work of this kind, when every day passes relentlessly on to another week in which good readable copy must be presented for publication. And when cold print has done its worst or its best, the poor editor looks fearfully over the page, know-ing that hundreds of eyes, perhaps, are doing the same; some with critical intent, others with kinder, more liberal feeling; and wonders how it does sound anyway, and if it does appeal to a few. It is not always good, nor al-ways readable, though this may be more the fault of the reader than of the editor. We must realize we are partly responsible, as no words can be a success without the co-operation of all concerned.

co-operation or all concerned.

But in giving in my mite I have some of the misgivings of the widow when she dropped her one small coin into the basket and looked furtively round, perhaps, to meet the incredulous glances of those who had silver and gold in plenty, which told her she was treading upon forbidden ground,

So do I feel as though I were encroaching upon ground belonging to some one else, and that what little I may be able to help by way of suggestion, will not meet with entire approval.

I can tell you why in a nut shell. It is because the column is given up almost entirely to one class of women—the mothers. I am a childless woman, unfortunately, of course, but the grim fact remains: Consequently I cannot feel interested in reading articles upon child welfare. I am interested in children and all that pertains to them in a general way but not specifically; it makes no difference to me whether Willie believes in Santa Claus or whether he don't. (Personally, I don't think it would directly interfere with his moral atmosphere if he did, though that is neither here nor there, it is not a question for me to discuss or think about as I have no little Willies under my wing.)

I have long ago discovered the fallacy of the shifting of interests to the wrong plane. Our individual prob-lems lie close to us, and it is bad policy to crane our necks into our neighbor's garden for a better view of his weed patch.

The discussion of children's questions, then,

The discussion of children's questions, then, does not concern me nearly, nor does the reading of articles upon child training interest or help me.

Anyway, sisters dear, is it necessary to be always writing and thinking about our problems? Are we not concentrated upon the wrong thing? To be always harping on one string will not produce a rounded harmony. We deal too directly with our problems, when the indirect method is best. We read and write and think so

We deal too directly with our problems, when the indi-rect method is best. We read and write and think so eternally about the child we project him into the lime light so constantly, it is no wonder he takes libertles, mis-using them so that our aim is frustrated. Our ultimate aim is, of course, the benefit of the child, or others, but our immediate concern must be the women who is the mother of that child, not as a mother but as a woman. We must, by some magical influence give a divine force to her personality as a woman migran who is the mother of that child, not as a mother out as a woman. We must, by some magical influence give a divine force to her personality as a woman, mind you, first and all the time, and we need not fear but the divinity of the woman will merge, without our poor interference, into the divinity of the mother. Then, and only then, will she solve her own problem. It is her personality we must concentrate upon—not the child. If it is true that the best part of our teaching or in-If it is true that the best part of our teaching or in-fluence is that which we do not consciously communi-cate, then does it not appear to be a prime necessity to impart that mysterious quality to the character which cannot be defined or analyzed and which defies technical terms. The thing that is vague and undefined is often the most real and lasting, so that what we want is not merely practical ideas and practical lines of thought, but a practical idealism, if you will admit the paradox. I mean by that an idealism that is associated If mean by that an idealism, it you will admit the paradox.

I mean by that an idealism that is associated with practical life and activity in such a way as to lift the common and trivial to a higher plane, and absorb it into itself, making it eternal. It is this idealism which Christ expressed while here on earth. He conveyed the thought that he had the quality of mind that could give the nextle and existing a legislation of the control that could give the poetic and spiritual significence to that could give the poetic and spiritual significence, to life in all its phases. Nothing was too common but he could adorn it with his exalted mind—and surround it with a halo of purity and beauty of some sort. It conveyed a message beyond that of its actual being. We, in all our strife, in all our activities must aim at nothing less. We must not grovel in material-ism but associate it with all that is ideal. There is nothing greater than a fine personality. It is the Alpha and Omega of usefulness, of happiness, and of good influence. So I say that motherhood as a physical condition is secondary—not in importance, but in its natural position in the woman's life. Let us not prate so much about it, but have in our column more diverging lines of thought, something that appeals to the woman; not always some hounding reminder of duty, some ought or must that looms so big and black on our horizon already, but that which appeals from the standpoint of interest and not from the standpoint of practical use altogether.

There have been objections to the "Ladies Home Jour-There have been objections to the "Ladies Home Jour-nal" on the ground that it was not a practical magazine. Well, that's the reason I like it, not because I do not like practical ideas or believe in them, but because It is re-freshing to read something occasionally that hasen't moral sign boards staring you in the face at every turn. And yet for the last year most of the stories have dealt in an attractive way with some place of women's life. in an attractive way with some phase of woman's life. And, I dare day, so great is the power of suggestion, the benefits have been far reaching and practical though there was no direct leading, no table of contents or there was no direct leading, no table or contents or diagrams, no set rules for conduct.

That is the point I want to make. The adult mind is like the child mind in this one particular. When the purpose aimed at is too obvious, there is something in the mind of the individual that raises up to combat it. Perhaps it is the power of his "Satanic Majesty" that leads the mind to such contrarities, but it is there just the same. But through the power of suggestion and from the standpoint of interest the mind is led, lamb-like, to its proper goal. The indirect method, you see. We all know the adage;—"the longest way round is the shortest way home." This is true especially of our efforts to educate or reform.

Willie is not a good boy because you din it into his Willie is not a good boy because you din it into his ears all day long that he must be good—at least it is the forced goodness of an imprisoned spirit, but he is good, spontaneously and joyously, when you have imparted to him through a subtle influence, some of your own nobility, which he unconsciously absorbs and makes his own. Then because of the attributes which have been mirrored upon his soul, like the moon on the bosom of the lake, something within him has been quickened into life, which, if left to ripen and mature, will become goodness in its highest form. It is so with the grown up. Why worry so much then about our the grown up. Why worry so much then about our "problems." Why not have a mental house cleaning—hunt "problems." Why not have a mental nouse cleaning—inductive the cobwebs out of every nook and cranny of our dusty brains. Let us wander, even vagrantly into sweet new fields, with the scent of flowers and the twitter of nestfields, with the scent of flowers and the twitter of nesting birds, where in intoxication of spirit we tune our harps anew and indulge, in utter abandon and forgetfulness of harassing carcs, in one wild dance with the god Pan and his nymphs. Then see if we do not come back refreshed and better equipped with a wider range of thought for our work. Here it is in rhyme, merely a fanciful word picture, though distantly and vaguely expressing in figure, a fundame

Tripping with wanton feet As fairies do Dancing forms, lithe and sweet In paths anew. Piping a tune of Sylvan Harmony, Speaking the soul's abandoned Ecstacy.

Clear on the air is harped The wild, new strain, Echoed in dim retreat And back again. Bearing the spirit's load Of simple joy, Tasting the hearts best ease
Of Pain's alloy.

Softly the twittering birds In forked limb, Murmured a love note into Recesses dim; Quivering shafts of light From blue o'er head Piercing the leafy cradle, Canopied.

Distant the murmuring brook Tumbled along, Mirrored the birds on the wing, Crooning its song, Chiming with slumberous hum Of journeying bee Tuned to the Infinite Will In their harmony

Melody foyous and wild Sylvan sweet,
Timed to the happy rhythm of Dancing feet,
Spirits of Pan, unleashed
Just for a day, Unburdened hearts that behold Nature at play.

Into our checkered life Shadow and sheen,
Bearing the sure impress
Of that woodland green
Deep in the heart's recess Miracles lie, Touched into life by the shaft Of its memory.

Back to the world of care Imprisoned again. Freshened with vigor new Courage for pain,
Elixer, "Joy of life," tasted And drained. Buoyed to its ultimate good, Vision attained.

Kate Goodwin

MISCELLANEOUS

CONVENTION NOTICES.

The Alberta District Sunday School Association will convene with the Edmonton Branch, Dec. 18th, 1914, at 2 p. m. General routine business, also election of officers. Dictrict officers please report in time for convention.

North Dakota District Sunday school will convene at Fargo, N. Dak, Jan. 2, 1915, at 2 p. m. We hope each school will be represented by delegates. Committee will Emilie McLeod, Sec.

814 First Ave., South, Fargo, N. Dak.

To the Saints of Northern California District, Greeting:-To the Saints of Northern California District, Greeting:—
All who wish to be credited with "honoring the Lord with their substance and doing their part" to build up the kingdom of God will please take notice that 1914 is drawing to a close, and this reminds us that their will a time come to all when our earthly career will close and we have to go to the other side to give an account of our stewardship. We are called upon to give an account in time—that is now, as well as in eternity. "Therefore if any man shall take of the abuneternity. "Therefore if any man shall take of the abundance which I have made and impart not his portion according to the law of my gospel, unto the poor, and the needy, he shall, with the wicked, lift up his eyes in hell, being in torment." D. and C. 101:2. That's what we want to avoid, so now is the time to do as the Lord directs—pay our tithing, make our offerings, and do as the law directs. It will be too late when we get over there. "Let us be wise servants and do our service now, and all will be well.

Yours in the gospel, C. A. Parkin. 579 5th Ave. San Francisco, Calif.

579 5th Ave. San Francisco, Calif.

TO THE PRIESTHOOD OF THE INDEPENDENCE STAKE. In accordance with resolutions passed at meetings of the Priesthood of the Independence Stake lately held at Independence, relative to the adoption of a paper called "Unity" prepared and submitted by the President of the Stake, the committee appointed to finally decide the matter met at the Stake offices on November 12th for the purpose of appointing the various officers, it having been decided by the committee that the said paper be published in the interest of the Priesthood. After due deliberation the election for officers were as follows:

President George E. Harrington, Editor, B. J. Scott, Secretary, W. D. Bullard, Business Manager,

H. B. Roberts, Treasurer.
The following were elected as Program or Lessons
Committee: John W. Rushton, A. K. Dillee, and Harvey

The Business Manager and Secretary The Business Manager and Secretary were authorized to notify the Priesthood through The ireraid and the Ensign of the committee's action in this matter and to express the need of fervent co-operation to make the publicition a success. In this way the work of the Priesthood will be authanced and we shall fall in line with the Prelmist David in saying, "Behold how good and how gleenstat it is for brethren to dwell together in infity."

Annual subscription for the paper, 25c post paid; pubshed monthly. Early subscriptions will be welcomed.
W. D. Bullard, Bus. Mgr.

B. J. Scott, Sec'y.

CONFERENCE MINUTES.

CONFERENCE MINUTES.

The New York District Conference was held at Buffalo, Oct. 24 and 25, 1914. As per resolution of the previous conference an educational conference convened with the Buffalo Branch, Saturday and Sunday, October 24 and 25th, Elder A. E. Stone District President, calling the assembly to order at 11 a. m. Saturday.

This session was spent in necessary business and organization as follows: Elder A. E. Stone and associates to preside; Anna Brothers, Secretary, with power to choose assistant; Bro. A. Angus and Anna Brothers Press Committee. Elders A. E. Stone and A. Angus were chosen delegates to General Conference, with Elder A. M. Chase and Sr. Wahl as alternates. The appointing of the next conference was left with the district ing of the next conference was left with the district

The forenoon session adjourned to 2:30 p. m. when the following program was carried out: Paper, "How to become a subject of Zion," by Elder A. Angus; solo, "Face to Face," by Elder A. M. Chase; paper, "Order of Enoch," by A. H. Parsons; round table, conducted by Elders Chase and A. Angus on the "Order of Enoch," proved to be very interesting as well as instructive. At 7:15 a song service was conducted by Elder A. M. Chase after which the following program was carried out: Paper, "Zionic Conditions in Our Branches," by Elder A. M. Chase, hymn 200 in Zion's Praises; paper, "Zion and what it will do for its children," by Elder Frank Mesle; quartette, "Cast Thy Bread upon the Waters," by Srs. L. Koehler and A. Brothers and Brn. M. Barrick and A. M. Chase; paper, "Zion and Her-Needs," by Myron C. Fisher; anthem by the Buffalo Choir. Choir.

nday morning at 8:00 a. m. prayer and sacrament service was held. There was a very good attendance and a spiritual time was enjoyed, 4 prayers and 34 testimonies being offered and 10 parts of hymns being sung. Sunday school was held at 10 a. m. in charge of the District and Local officers. 11 a. m. preaching by Elder A. Angus, assisted by Bro. Fred Harper. m., preaching by Elder A. M. Chase assisted by Elder Wm. Brothers. 7:15 p. m. song service. 7:30 p. m. preaching by Elder A. E. Stone assisted by Elder D. F. Joy. A vote of thesis was assisted by Elder D. A vote of thanks was extended to the Buffalo Saints.

Anna M. Brothers, Sec.

36 Tremont Ave.

The Nodaway District conference convened with the

The Nodaway District conference convened with the Sweet Home Branch near Ravenwood, Mo., October 10 at 10:45 a. m., District President T. A. Ivie in the chair, assisted by Joseph W. Powell, vice president. W. B. Torrance acted as secretary of the conference.

Statistical reports were read as follows: Guilford 104, gain 1; Sweet Home 39, loss 6; Bedison 70, gain 3; Ross Grove, no report. W. B. Torrance, Bishop's agent, reported: Balance on hand Feb 7, 1914, $233.21; received since, $576; total 808.21; expended, 860.00; balance due agent. $51.79. agent, $51.79.

W. B. Torrance, district treasurer reported: Balance on hand Feb. 7, 1914, $4.68; received of Guilford branch, nand Feb. 7, 1914, $4.08; received of Guiltord Branch, $13.50; total $18.18; paid out 17.50; balance on hand 68c. Committee on "Open letter to the clergy" reported, had secured the names of 69 clergymen and had sent them to Bro. E. A. Smith. The mailing of these 69 and one dozen to the committee cost $5.00 which was drawn from the district treasurer. These reports were accepted. Ministerial reports of Brn. E. L. Henson and R. T. Walters were read, also spiritual report of president of Bedison Branch was read and approved. Sweet Home Branch recommended to the conference Bro. Wm. T. Nelson to be ordained to the office of teacher.

The recommendation was accepted and his ordination provided for. Brn, E. L. Henson and R. T. Walters were requested to address the conference and each responded, speaking of the conditions and needs of the district as regards missionary work.

The secretary was permitted to read the new "Constitution and By Laws," recently adopted and called attentions. tution and By Laws, recently adopted and caused attention to the section relative to reporting and auditing. Bro. F. A. Smith was requested to address the conference. He did so, touching on auditing, College, Santarium, financial situation of the church, referring to the work in Jerusalem, and the effects that the European war has on us as a people.

The following two resolutions were filed with the secretary for consideration at our next conference:

1. Resolved, That all district election of officers (following the next February election) shall be held at the annual conference.

2. In rule 1 of constitution and by laws relating to officers, there be inserted after the word "treasurer" the words "music director and librarian."

Preaching during conference by Brn. F. A. Smith, R. . Walters and E. L. Henson. W. B. Torrence, Dist. Sec.

THE YEARLY OFFER ON THE ENSIGN.

THE YEARLY OFFER ON THE ENSIGN.

November and December are bargain months as usual, during which time the Ensign will be sent to non-members at half price. This offer, as usual is good only in the United States possessioms, as the extra postage to foreign countries prohibits this offer extending there. This offer is good only during the months of November and December. It is unfair and hardly honorable for a member to stop their paper and then subscribe in the name of a member of their family who does not belong to the church for the sake of getting it at half price. That is not the object of this offer. It is for the sake of spreading the gospel among outsiders.

No subscription on this offer is acceptable for less than 25 cents.

Address, Ensign Publishing House, Independence, Mo.

DIED.

Horton.—Samuel Horton, aged sixty-seven years, departed this life October 17th, 1914. Our brother whose death is mourned by his wife, Anna and two sons with thoir families, besides a large number of friends, died very auddenly. For some time it was known that he suffered with angina pectoris and had been under the doctor's care; but on the morning of his death he seemed to be as well as usual and went out to attend to some duties and not returning as he should his wife went to search for him and found him lying in the pathway of the garden dead. He joined the church in Leeds, England, about twenty years ago and always was a faithful and consistent member and for many years he was a minister. In his quiet and gentle way always ready and willing to speak of his faith and experience in Christ. Some years ago he left Leeds and lived out from Halifax and then moved into Bradford where for several years his home was opened for mission services and the little flock met there on Sundays while brethren from Leeds would met there on Sundays while brethren from Leeds would inet there on Sundays while brethren from Leeds would go to preach. He was a man whose life was suggestive of spiritual communion and carried always the rich fragrance of consecration, and made a lasting impression upon those who were privileged to have intimate association with him. The Church has lost a good faithful man and his family a noble and lovable support. At the time of his sudden demise he was living with his son Oliver, in Liverpool, and was laid to rest in Allerton Cemetry of that city on the 20th of October, Thomas Cemetry of that city on the 20th of October, Thomas Taylor of Leeds conducting the service. In death he proved what he had often testified:—"Behold, God is my salvation.

Hodisworth.—Sr. Emma Holdsworth was born in Kentucky, March 20, 1858. Baptized into the church February 27, 1898, by W. C. Cathers. Though severely afflicted for more than a year, she was never confined to here bed, but died in her chair at her home in Pittsburg. Kansas, November 12, 1914. Her affliction and suffering was severe yet she never complained, but rather felt that she always had something to be thankful for. Her hushand died August 5, 1901, and eldest daughter, Mabel, Nev. 7, 1913. She leaves three sons and three daughters to mourn the loss of a loving mother.

Schroder.-Henry Charles Schroder was born in Hettrison, Hanover, Germany, on April 22, 1835, and died Nov. 12, 1914, at the home of his daughter Mrs. F. L. Whip-12, 1914, at the nome of his daugner har. F. L. Mijple. He came to America with his parents at the age of eight and at the age of twelve they moved to Burlington, Iowa, where he made his home until Jan. 4, 1860, when he was married at Ft. Madison to Sarah E. Best of Montrose, Iowa. To this union were born five children. Justin, passed away at the age of five years. There remains to arount their legs his wife and four hildren. mains to mourn their loss, his wife and four children. He was a good honest man, kind to his neighbors and made many friends wherever he was known. The funeral was conducted from the home on Saturday afternoon at two o'clock by Rev. Ashby of the M. E. Church. Interment was in the Lynden Cemetery.

Carter -- Kate King was born Dec. 21, 1892, and her baby daughter, Marjorie Etta born May 18, 1914, both passed away October 27, 1914, at Blair, Nebr. Miss King married Earle Dine Carter, March 13, 1911, at Logan, Ia., Elder William Adams officiating. Two children were born to them; Sylvia Ann, who died March 17, 1913, age seven months, and marjoric Etta who died with her mother. Mrs. Carter leaves a son, Guy Kholer, by former marriage. She had started a fire with coal oil and the marriage. She had started a fire with coal oil and the stove blew up enveloping her in flames and setting the house on fire. The baby was in the room and both she and her mother were so severely burned before aid came to them that they died shortly after. The house was destroyed. Beside the heart broken husband and father many sad relatives and friends are left. The Saints' chapel at Blair was filled to overflowing with the many friends at the funeral services held Oct. 28, 1914, Elder Paul N. Craig of Omaha in charge.

Summerfield.—Bro. Alma J. Summerfield was born September 22nd, 1873, near Stewartsville, Mo., died Sep. 24th, 1914, at Huntsville, Mo., aged 41 years and 2 days. Bro. Summerfield was grinding a knife for a silage cutter when the emery wheel exploded, one piece hitting him into face and neck, killing him instantly. He leaves a wife and five children. As the church was not large enough the funeral was held on the lawn at his home in charge of Bro. Wm. Richards of Bevier. Sermon by Bro. D. E. Powell of Stewartsville. Burial at Hardster Cemetery. Summerfield.-Bro. Alma J. Summerfield was born Weise.—Sr. Mrs. Elizabeth Weise passed away from this earth life at 7:46 p. m., on November 24th, at the home of her daughter Mary, W. Short St., Independence, Mo. She was born January 9th, 1862, at Atchison, Kansas, and was baptized into the Reorganized Church of Jesus Christ of Latter Day Saints in the same city by Elder E. C. Brand when she was about 1? years of age. She was married to Charles Weise on December 9th, 1881, at Atchison. From this union there were nine children, seven of them now living, four sons and three daughters. She lived in Leavenworth, Kansas, for foureen years prior to coming to Independence and had made daughters. She lived in Leavenworth, Kansas, for four-teen years prior to coming to Independence and had made her home with her daughter in Independence for about one year during which time she was sick. Everything was done for her henefit that possibly could be done by lov-ing hands. She was frequently administered to and was comforted very much and relieved in that way. She was a faithful and true wife and mother, a very consistent and earnest church member and her loss will be a great one to the family and to those who were intimately asso-ciated with her. Funeral service at the church, G. E. Harrington preaching the sermon. Harrington preaching the sermon.

ali aliana kalendi Normalya.

ENSIGN PUBLICATIONS.
And Other Books for Sale by the Ensign Publishing House.
Zion's Easign, the missionary Japer, containing goapel sermons and articles, church news and interesting letters. Per year $1.00
Book of Mormon Dictionary, A complete pronouncing Dictionary of proper names in the Book of Mormon with definitions and explanatory notes. Paper, ZSe; cloth, 40c; leather $8.056 notes. Paper. ZSc. cloth, 40c;;
Doctinal References. A compilation of references under subject headings of texts connected with the gospel, taken from the Bible, Book of Mormon and Doctrine and Covennais. A very handy reference notes are also as a compilation of texts connected with the gospel, taken from the Bible, Book of Mormon and Doctrine and Covennais. A very handy reference hook. A per covera, 10c; cloth, 15c; and the property has been book. A compilation of interesting views, accompanied with comments, of historic places in Palestine and Egypt, from photographs taken by Elder and Sr. F. G. Pitt. Heavy paper covers, 50c; cloth boards. 30.75
Marvelous Manifestations. (Revised edition). Authentic accounts of the healing of the sick, restoring sight to the blind and other manifestations of God's miraculous power. Paper covers, 20c; cloth boards. 35c; leather and particular powers, 25c, 5c of $1.00; cloth, $0.35.
Book of Mormon Vindicated. Scriptural Evidences of the Divine Authenticity of the Book of Mormon, 15c large pages. Paper covers, 25c, 5c of $1.00; cloth, $0.35.
Faulty Creeds. This book shows how, at the coming forth of the latter day work, the churches had drifted from the truth into apostasy. Paper covers, 25c, 6 for, $1.00.
Apostasy of the Church. This book shows the Utah church had drifted from the truth into apostasy. Paper covers, $0.5. 6 for, $1.00.
The Books and Utah Mormonism in Court of the Scriptural Church, This book shows the Utah church and drifted from the case of the parture from the faith before and after the restoration of the gospel. Paper covers, $0.5.
From Palmyra to Independence. A book of 44 pages. A brief review of the Book of Mormon is given, with many testimonals and affidavits. Paper covers, $0.5.
From Palmyra to Independence. A book of 44 pages. A brief review of the Book of Mormon is given, with many testimonals and affidavits. Paper covers, $0.5.
From Palmyra to Independence. A book of 44 pages. A brief review of the Book of Mormon is given, with many testimonals and af The Christian System $1.00

CAMBRIDGE AND BAGSTER BIBLES.
Order by Number.

H125X — Cambridge Teachers' edition.
French Morocco, India paper, sith sewed, opens flat, references, concordance, encyclopedia, hely deand yet only '8' inch thick by 45', by 6'8', and well bear of the base of the H131X—The same as H125X, except 11.

external course.

H140X—Same as H131X, but has Perisian H150X—Same as H151X, but has Perisian H150X—Same as H151X, but has Perisian H150X—Same as H151X, but has Perisian H150X—Same as H151X—Same as H151X—Same as H151X—Same as H151X—Same as H125X—Same H125X F65X—India Paper edition, French Moroc-co, divinity circuit, red under gold edges. Size, 5%x3%, only % inch thick. $1.50 S1.69

Large type Bible in small compass, 8½x5½, 1 inch thick, India paper, French Morocco, divinity circuit, red under gold $2.28

Same as R65X, except binding French Levant and leather lined. NEW TESTAMENTS.

NEW TESTAMENTS.
Leatherette cover, red edges. $0.15
Frenca Morocco, limp, red under 30.30
MEGRO BIBLES.
Leather with the cover of t

Bible. Because of the thin India paper it is only % of an inch thick. $4.75

—Alaska Seal binding, otherwise the same as 04207X

—$4.50

—French Morocco, divinity circuit, found cornners, red under gold edges, nonparell type, self-pronouncing, maps and 32 photo views of scenes in Bible lands

$1.35 03203X-5% inches $2.75 —Alaska Seal, leather lined, Oxford India paper, silk sewed, large long primer type, round corners, red under gold edges $6.00 primer type, round corners, red under gold edges
——$6.00
04523—French Morocco, self-pronouncing, long primer type, linen lined, divinity circuit, round corners, red under gold edges
——$2.50
The 1911 Bible. Of this Bible the Herald and Presbyter says: "The 1911
Bible is far the bleat translation ever given to the English speaking people." It is beautifully printed in large black faced type, bound in French Morocco, floxible, opening fiat, round corners, red under gold edges, has headband and silk marker and 12 maps
——$2.00
The 1911 Bible. Printed on genuine Oxford
India paper, only % inch thick, silk
sewed, bound in finest Alaska Seal,
leather lined, round corners, red under gold edges, silk head band
and marker

OXFORD TESTAMENTS.

$5.00
OXFORD TESTAMENTS. OXFORD TESTAMENTS. 021—French grained, red edges ........$0.20 022—Same as 021, with gilt edges ...$0.30 030—French Morocco, round corners, limp red under gold edges ......$0.35

Address
ENSIGN PUBLISHING HOUSE,
Independence, Mo.

OFFICERS VISITING CARD

We have for sale a universal visiting card to be used by Branch Officers. It is arragned with spaces for recording names of those in families belonging to the church and also for those not belonging, space for noting condition, dates of visitis (day, month and year), and names of visiting officers, also space for remarks. This card when properly filled out-shows the names of all members of the family visited, non-members as well as members and whether their spiritual condition is excellent, fair or poor, the name of the officer visiting the family and the date of the visit, also the address of the family, and any other information it might be wise to add under head of Remarks. There should be at least one card for every family in the branch. The cards are 4x74 inches. The price is 8 cents a dozen or 40 cents a hundred. Address, Ensign Publishing House, Independence, Mo.

NOW FOR CHRISTMASII
In addition to the many Bibles we have on hand we have added another line of five choice ones, and none very expensive. The first three are beautifully printed in red and black—all of Christ's sayings in the New Testament and all reference to Him the Old and New Testament are printed in red. This is a very useful feature. For instance, in turning the leaves whenever anything is observed in red it will be known that it is either the Master's sayings or something in reference to Him. They are beautfully printed and bound, and either one of the five here listed will make a fine Christmas present. The last two are fine large Teacher's Bibles, self-pronouncing and large type. Order by number and be careful to get the number right. Don't put off ordering, as you will be disappointed in not getting your book in time for Christmas.

Beautifully printed with heavy faced minion type in red and black. All of Christ's sayings and passa-ges alluding to him are printed in red. French Morocco, divinity cir-03454—Beautifully cuit, round corners, red under gold edges, leather lined...........$2.50.

UNITED ORDER OF ENOCH HOUSE.

Everybody Welcome, Saints and Strangers No. 102 North River Boulevard, near the Stone burch, Best accommodations. Prices reasonable. Bell Phone 613 Chas. A. and Amy T. Gurwell
IN CHARGE

FOR SALE
Fine 50 foot vacant lot, 24th and Troup
Streets paved, four blocks from Cholesa Sainte
Church. Address "Owner" 1928 N. 24th St.
Kansas City, Kans.
FOR SALE OR RENT

The former home of H. R. Mills on West Short Street is offered for sale or rent Lot 75x200, South front. House, nine Lot 75x200, South front. House, nine rooms besides closets. Strictly modern. Good barn and woodshed. Terms easy. Apply to A. H. Mills, Independence, Mo.

UNIVERSAL DIARY.

UNIVERSAL DIARY.

We now have a universal diary, suitable for any minister from deacon up, made to conform with the universal report blanks. They are the same size and shape as the diaries we have hitherto had for sale, but will contain about double the number of pages, there being about 24 pages in the front and back for a financial record, and space for 12 months record of ministerial work performed. The price is the same as the others were sold at, only 10 cents. Address Ensign Publishing House, Independence, Mo.

SPECIAL NOTICE

The attention of the readers as the Ensign is called together the state of the tensor in the called together the state of

W. E. MESSENGER, M. D.

Physician and Surgeon. Calls answered day or night. Office and Residence 806 W. Maple Ave. Independence, Mo. Bell Phone 12

Special attention given to Anesthetics

FOR SALE OR EXCHANGE FOR A FARM FOR SALE OR EXCHANGE FOR A FARM 4 from house and a scree, 2 porches, celler-cistern, shed, barn, chicken house. Grapes, cherries, peaches, apples, blims, gooseberfes, blacked, berries, lacre gasture. Short distance from Independence, Mo., and a miles from Kansas City limits, 4 blocks from L. D. S. church. Ias. Tankard, Route 3, fast Independence, Mo.

L. A. INMAN Piano And Furniture Mover

Stand West Side Square Household Goods Packed, Shipped and Stored Boll Phone 1231 Res. 915 S. Crysler Independence, Mo.

XMAS GIFTS See the Passion Play of Ober-Ammergau in 32beauilful Multi-color Post Cards, with story complete. Makes Bible History of interest for children. Regular prices Scotts. Special to introduce 32 cents. Special quantity prices to church societies. Economy Sales Co. Hatton, M. Dakota.

Universal Class Card

Send for sample of the Universal Class Cards, for use in both Sunday School and Religio. The Independence Schools have them in general

Price per doz 8 cents, per 100 60 cents ENSIGN PUBLISHING HOUSE,

Independence, Mo.

THE BOOK YOU'VE BEEN WAITING FOR

YOUNG PEOPLE'S HISTORY NOW READY Especially Suitable for Holiday Gift

WHAT IT IS

An interesting history of a peculiar organization—the Latter Day Saint Church. As readable as a story, yet every historical statement has been carefully written and may be relied on. All the important events of Church history are mentioned in their proper relation to other events, with just enough of detail to incite and hold the interest. The book is intended to interest the young especially, and make the general church history already published in four volumes of greater value because of added interest in it.

DATES COVERED

It begins with the remarkable visit of the angel to the young lad, Joseph Smith, in the year 1820, and tells the interesting story from that date till the sad breaking up of the church following the death of Joseph and Hyrum Smith. The last chapter closes with the year 1848, the beginning of the gathering of the scattered people for the Reorganization.

Anyone can arrange dates and events in their order, but not everyone can make that arrangement readable. The principal events of church history took place in widely separated places, and it is no easy task to make the history seem consecutive, yet we believe this has been done in a pleasing manner. The dates of the events are over each page, so one can easily locate them. There are numerous side notes in the reading page, showing at a glance the principal facts treated on in the page. The type is the pica, a large face, with the footnotes in brevier. No eyestrain. Bound in durable cloth. Size 5½ by 8 inches, over 400 pages.

THE ILLUSTRATIONS.

There are over ninety illustrations, mostly from photographs of places of interest to every Latter Day Saint. Then there are pictures of pages of the old-time publications, and some interesting relics as naturally interest when reading a book of this kind. There are a great number of pictures of men who helped to make the history of the church. The illustrations are a valuable feature of the book.

THE AUTHOR

The book was written by Mra Vida E. Smith, wife of Church Historian Heman C. Smith. She is well known to church members in general by her poems and other literary productions. Her long association with the people and things historical, coupled with her natural ability, enables her to present all these matters in a pleasing and attractive manner.

ORDER TO-DAY

Price $1, Postpaid

HERALD PUBLISHING HOUSE -Lamoni, Iowa.

Entered at the Post Office at Independence, Mo., as Second Class Matte

OUR CREED: "ALL TRUTH."

VOL. 25

INDEPENDENCE, MISSOURI, THURSDAY, DECEMBER 10, 1914

NO. 50 7

V Stoseph to later of

ZION'S ENSIGN

Published by the Reorganized Church of Jesus Christ of Latter Day Saints, every Thursday, at Independence, Mo., at $1.00 per year.

CHARLES FRY, EDITOR W. H. DEAM, BUS. MANAGER

In writing concerning subscriptions, always give the nam of the Post Office to which your paper has been going, as by so, doing the Whendesijring a change of address always give the old as well as the new address, and when sending subscriptions alway state whether it is a renewal or a new subscription.

whether it is a renewal or a new subscription. In making remittances Money Orders are preferable. If coin is sent it should be folded in a card on it will not lose out and then enter and view your full address. All business letters should beadquessed to the Braign Publishing House, and do not put matter intended for the property of

THE HOLY SPIRIT. O Holy Spirit, blessed Comforter, Who hast revealed the Savior to my heart, Lead me again to him whom I adore,
And the assurance of his love impart.

Once in blind ignorance I loved to stray, And only lived the world's vain smile to share, And thus while wandering in error's way, My onward path was darkness and despair.

Eternal Spirit! thine almighty power Illumined this dark scene with heavenly light, And graciously revealed in that blest hour Jesus, the anointed Savior, to my sight.

—Abraham Malan, D. D.

CHRISTIANITY AND HEATHENISM.

In an address delivered before the Minister's Association, of Philadelphia, and published in "The Presbyterian," we find many excellent thoughts touching incidentally upon the above subject. From it we quote the following:

The difference between Christianity and heathenism does not lie in civilization. Heathen civilization is man's attempt and struggle in his own strength to return to that condition and balance, liberty and righteousness in which he was created. But this effort, like that in philosophy, exhausts the power of man, and every mere human civilization, after having attained a certain po-sition, turns again and crumbles it into decay. Christian civilization recognizes the human element, the human power and the human struggle, but into this it injects power and the human struggle, but into this it nijects a life, a principle, a truth which has been received direct from God, is wholly supernatural, and is a developing and preserving power. The moment any civilization loses this supernatural element, it turns to corruption and decay. Recent developments among the nations have forced upon the mind with greater emphasis than ever before the truth that civilization and Christianity are not synonymous terms. It is also coming to be recognized that the civilized nations which have been considered as Christian have fallen far beneath the true standerd of Christianity. We believe that whatever there is of truth and light in the world is due to the influence of Christ and Christianity either directly or indirectly, and even the righteousness of the heathen is but a partial reflection of Christianity, being reflected either from his personal teachings or from the more ancient instruction which came through revelation.

Christianity is the light under which civilization has developed, but the opposing forces have also moved in civilization's path and with a human or artificial light has sought to claim the glory that belongs to Christ alone. I am the light of the world," said Jesus, and another said of him that he "was the true Light, which lighteth every man that cometh into the world." The radiance of that light pervades men's minds through the influence of the Holy Spirit as well as by the word of truth, and many may recognize the character of the Christ though unfamiliar with his name, while others who know his name and have his word may be so out of harmony with them as to utterly fail in knowing his character.

Intellectual development with advanced sciences do not constitute Christianity in modern times any more than in ancient Greece and Rome. and it is quite possible that the things which are usually termed heathen may have considerable prominence in nations which are highly civilized. Human effort alone when wisely directed may accomplish great things in the development of the race, but such development apart from Christ always has within it the elements which result in man's downfall. What Jesus said of his disciples is true as regards the whole world: "Without me ye can do nothing," that is nothing that shall be permanent and tending altogether for the good of humanity. Since the apostasy from the original teachings of Christianity men have in large measure followed their own wills, and today we see the downfall of generations of human endeavor.

The good in civilization is due to Christianity, the evil to the exercise of the human will apart from Christ. The supernatural element, which is but another name for Christ, was manifested through the gospel and became a wonderful stimulus to men, helping them in the attainments made, but like the wheat of the parable the tares have grown up with it and it has had the effect of preserving the whole. But it is not impossible that the anti-christian elements may so far overbalance the Christian that in some of the nations all will go down together. When men come so near to losing sight altogether of Christ's influence and power among them that they deny him his divinity, and deny all the manifestations of his supernatural power, then there is but little of the preserving element among them, and the forces of social and spiritual decay soon accomplish their work.

What is the record of those nations which have reached the highest point of civilization in modern times? At the very time that the hand of God wrough for the exaltation of the nations and the enlightenment of the world, those who professed his name and in the time of the reformation stood out boldly against the forces of tryanny and restraint stretched out the restraining hand against God and Christ and in their creeds declared that the day of the supernatural working of divine power was past. They declared there were no more miracles, no more manifestations of the Spirit, no more revelations, no more were no more miracles, no more manifestations of the Spirit, no more revelations, no more ministrations of angels, in fact nothing in the present which would mark the immediate and direst interposition of God's hand. This teaching has been perpetuated until the present by all the Protestant churches, and is it any wonder that thoughtful minds, seeing no divinity in human affairs today and having been taught by professedly divine teachers that there is none, should begin to doubt whether there was any divinity in human affairs in the past? After reaching this point it is but a short step further in unbelief to deny the supernatural element in Christianity at any time, and so the miraculous conception and resurrection of Christ are rejected, and the miracles of the Bible are counted but fables.

Parallel with the advance of modern civilization the Christian nations have been letting go of that portion of Christianity which they have had as to belief and practice. Divinity has been minimized while humanity has been magnified. Christ has been shorn of his divinity and dethroned in their temples and war heroes have been exalted to the highest pinnacles of fame. The religion of Christ has been neglected and human forms have taken its place, each nation patterning its own form after its own ideal. Human creeds have been made the interpreters of the simple truths of the gospel. The tares have well nigh choked out the wheat.

Such revolutionary changes as are now going on in Europe are not the up-springings of a day, but their causes may be traced back through many generations. If the social fabric breaks down it is because the threads which hold society together have been one by one strained or broken; if Christianity breaks down it is because men have gradually removed the pillars of divinity by which alone it can be supported; if civilization collapses it is because God has been crowded out of it and men have chosen to move in their own wisdom and might. The continued presence and working of the divine power are essential to the preservation and advancement of humanity. As our quotation above says: moment any civilization loses this supernatural element, it turns to corruption and decay," and how true! Again the statement of Jesus applies to nations as well as to individuals: "If a man abide not in me, he is cast forth as a branch, and is withered." Without Christ there can be no security, no permanency. A society which leaves Christ, the Light and Life of the world, out, is like the physical body from which the spirit has flown,-subject only to the forces of decay which will ultimately accomplish its destruction.

But the love of God is too great, his mercy too vast, to permit the world to go down without opportunity of recovery, for the generation of to day has inherited the mistakes of its ancestors and must meet the disastrous consequences unless it shall correct the mistakes and yield to the divine standard. Though man erected a creedal barrier against revelation, God has again spoken and the barriers are tumbling down; though they fenced in the Bible and declared that no further Scripture should be received, God has revealed more of his truth and the fences are weakening; though they have practically made the earth forbidden ground to the angels yet angels have come at God's command and the no-trespass sign; are being withdrawn. God is manifesting his power and truth in various ways at the present and men are invited to come and prove him. Hear what he says in latter day revelation: "I the Lord am willing to make these things known unto all flesh, for I am no respector of persons." nations are given equal opportunity, and have equal rights under the restored gospel, and those who receive it will receive Christ, and those who receive Christ will receive God, and divinity will be manifested in their lives.

The Christianity of the world today has so far declined from its original character and power that it has lost its virtue. We hear everywhere the question, "What is the matter with the Churches?" They are not accomplisheing even what they once did. Men must look directly to God; they must come to Christ and by obedience partake of the divine life when there will be no question as to the supernatural element in the gospel today. God is unchanged; the fault has been with men that he has not manifested himself continuously to them, and yet not vithstanding their departure from him, he has again called, and he has come near to speak to this generation. The Light of Life again shines in the world and in every nation it will yet lead the way for every honest soul to come to God.

MODERN PRIDE

Prophecies descriptive of modern times bound in the Book of Mormon, many of which have been fulfilled while others remain to be fulfilled yet in the future, or are in process of fulfillment at the present time. One of these has been again called to our notice and is set forth in the following quotations:

"Because of pride, and because of false teachers, and false doctrines, their churches have become corrupted; and their churches are lifted up; because of pride, they are puffed up. They rob the poor, because of their fine sanctuaries; they rob the poor, because of their fine clothing; and they persecute the meek, and the poor in heart; because in their pride they are puffed up." 2 Nephi 12:14, 15.

"And your churches, yea, even every one, have become polluted because of the pride of your For behold ye do love money, and your substance, and your fine apparel, and the adorning of your churches, more than ye love the poor and the needy, the sick and the afflicted." Mormon 4:49, 50.

These statements are made noticeable by the report of the building of a costly church in New York known as the Cathedral of Saint John the Divine. Its cost so far is seven million dollars, and seven millions more will be required to complete it. What a sum for a single building! Such a sum would provide modest homes for seven thousand families representing 35,000 persons. It would furnish complete outfits of apparel for one million children. If put out to interest the income would each year furnish one hundred seventy-five students with means to carry them through a four years' college course, or would maintain seven hundred missionaries in the field. Can the Cathedral ever show results that will favorable compare with these possible ones?

The prophetic utterances are true. Pride is one of the dominating factors in modern religious But some may urge that they have not life. robbed the poor. Perhaps not directly, but the sin referred to under the term robbery, is no doubt the same as that mentioned by Malachi by whom the Lord said: "Will a man rob God? Yet ye have robbed me. But ye say, Wherein have we robbed thee? In tithes and offerings." we robbed thee? As men had robbed God by withholding that which ought to have been given for his service, so may they rob men by withholding that which they should have imparted. Thus the poor have been robbed, and a portion of the surplus thus saved is being put into church buildings and other public works which but express the pride and folly of men. Church edifices are necessary and we believe it is not amiss to make them commodious and beautiful only as such greatness and beauty are made possible by the sufferings of humanity. The distressed of earth should receive first support, and when the sufferings of poverty are banished then will be time enough for 'hese other things.

INDEPENDENCE ITEMS.

The Saints everywhere will be anxious to know of the ordition of President Smith. Since the last issue of the condition of President Smith. Since the last issue of the Ensign up to and including Sunday hopes were entertained that Bro. Smith would rally and be up again, and on Sunday statement was made in church that it was the intention to take him down stairs Monday if he continued intended to take find down states brought in the continued to improve, but since Sunday he has gradually been growing weaker, and Bro. Dr. Luff can give no encouragement. President Frederick M. Smith intended to return east on Wednesday, but at this writing, 10 a. m. Wednesday, he has decided that it would not be wise to go at present at least, as conditions are unfavorable, as his father may pass away at any time. Of course, where there is life there is some hope, but the Saints may not be surprised to hear of his death at any time, hard as the blow may be Sunday was a day of rejoicing among the Saints, at least as to the influence of the meetings throughout the day was concerned, because the meetings were so good, instructive and comforting.

The sermon in the forenoon by Elder R. S. Salyards was excellent, instructive and breathed the Spirit of the Master. The subject was Love. For a basis of his remarks he read from the 22nd chapter of Matthew the words of Jesus, "Thou shalt love the Lord thy God with words of Jesus, "Thou shalt love the Lord thy God with all thy heart, and with all thy soul, and with all thy mind. This is the first and great commandment. And the second is like unto it, Thou shalt love thy neighbor as thyself." In speaking of how we should love each other and be united he quoted Abraham Lincoln as applying Christ's sayings that a house divided against itself can not stand, to the nation being half slave and half free, that it could not exist so divided. The speaker said that the spirit of love and the spirit of brotherhood could subdue the great European war. He quoted what one prisoner said to an opposing soldier, asking him if he was a Christian, and when he said yes, he replied, "What are we fighting for then." He said if you send a young man or young woman out in the world full of the love of God, love for humanity, for virtue and honor, they would be quite safe against the evils of the world.

In continuation of the day's enjoyment a most comforting and uplifting communion service was held in the forting and uplifting communion service was held in the afternoon, the main part in the upper auditorium with an overflow meeting of about two hundred below. In the main meeting the Lord. In the main meeting the Lord spoke through Bro. Elbert A. Smith relative to the sickness of President Joseph Smith and the event of his being called home, that it is a matter entirely with the Lord. In all it was full of comfort. The meeting seemed to be thoroughly enjoyed by all presents.

In the evening a very large congregation assembled, in the evening a very large congregation assembled, many from other branches, although it was a damp evening, to hear Bro. Heman C. Smith, the Church Historian. His sermon was on history. He said that God had a purpose in keeping from the eastern world the discovery purpose in keeping from the eastern world the discovery of America until the proper time, that Columbus was inspired, and yet he was not allowed to land on what is now the United States. If his course had not been changed he would have landed on what is now Virginia soil, and in at probability the United States would have been settled with Spanish Catholics instead of the class that came in the Virginia was from which stead the county section was spanish canonics instead of the class that came is the Maydower, from which stock the founders of the Latter Pay Saint Church descended. He referred to such statements as is often heard as to making a sacrifice in joining the church because of lowering their social standing. He said that Joseph Smith descendtheir social standing. He said that Joseph Smith descended from Robert Smith who came from the middle classes of England and that Olover Cowdery's forefathers were lords in England. The Whitmer's were of high German parentage. He incidentally mentioned the war, and as a beautiful finale to his discourse he said that by faith we could look and behold a great army coming, not with spears and swords, but with hammers and anvils to beat the spears and swords into ploughshares and pruning

The regular monthly business meeting was held Monday evening. Four were received on letters from the Second Independence branch, three from Stockton, Cal., three from First Kansas City, two from Spokane, Wash, and one other on a letter of recommendation. Two were granted letters to First Kansas City. President Harring grantee letters to First Lanssa City. Fresudent narring-ton presented to the meeting the matter of the call of Israel A. Smith to the office of High Priest and Dr. G. Leonard Harrington (physician in charge of the Sani-tarium) to the office of Elder, eaying that President Smith had stated that they should be so ordained. Presiomita mad stated that they should be so ordaned. Fresh-dent Elbert A. Smith was present and spoke approvingly of the call. Others also spoke favoring their ordinations, and by separate motions Dr. Harrington was recom-mended to the Missionary in charge and Bro. Smith to the First Presidency for ordination to their respective callings. By vote also Bro, Charles Scofield was recom-mended for ordination to the office of Priest. The bazaar that was to have been last Friday and

The bazaar that was to have been last Friday and Saturday on account of the condition of President Joseph Smith. From his improved condition the date was set for this week, Dec. 11 and 12. They will have fancy work of all kinds, refreshments and groceries for sale. To be held in the Dining Hall, for the benefit of the church.

Sr. Abbia A. Horton passed her 78th mile post Tuesday, Dec. 8. She was born on Bunker Hill, Dec. 8, 1836. She was secretary of the Stake Sunday school association for 11 years, sang in the choir for 20 years, tary of the Daughters of Zion local for 20 years and was cal historian for six years.

On last Friday evening, the Local Religio elected officers for the six months, beginning January first, as follows: L. W. Weeks, president; Virgil Etzenhouser, vice president; Douglas Flanders, secretary; Vernon Lee, treasurer; Miss Ruby Short, superintendent senior department; Edward A. Curtis, superintendent junior department; Mrs. A. V. Closson, superintendent home department: Mrs L. E. superintendent normal department; B. J. superintendent temperance department; Mrs. Weeks, librarian; Miss Irene Brackenbury, chorister; Miss Ruth McMullen, pianist.

Bro. C. J. Spurlock, 310 S. River Blvd., Independence, Mo., is interested in good literature work and v names and addresses of people who have not been baptized, but who are interested in the work that he may send them tracts through the auspices of the Good Literature Committee. Address him as above.

W. H. Deam

INDEPENDENCE, SECOND BRANCH.

INDEPENDENCES, SECOND BIANCH.
We are pleased to note the attendance at Sunday school was large, notwithstanding the inclement weather.
A large number of the primary and junior departments remained for the 11 o'clock service in the basement, at which time Bro. James Foulks talked to the little folks which time Bro. James Folks talked to the little folks in a manner that held their attention.

At the same hour in the upper auditorium Bro. James Cornelius was the speaker, taking Matt. 5:48 for his text. He spoke of the imperfection in the works of man while the gospel plan as given by the Lord was perfect.

At the evening hour Bro. Charles Hamm spoke along At the evening nour Bry. Charles Hamin spoke along the line of a teacher's duties in the branch, citing Eph. 4:11, 12, also 18th of Matthew, showing the necessity of such office work in the church. The 2:30 sacrament of such office work in the church. The 2:30 sacrament service was well attended.

On last Thursday evening the Sunshine Band held a pie social in the hall at which a good sum was realized to be used in carrying on their work.

Elder S. H. Fields came home this week from southern Illinois where he has been busily engaged in the Master's Sr. M. J. Willis and daughter Jennie arrived home from n extended visit to relatives in Tennessee. On Monday evening the regular business session held. Three members were received on letters of re-moval from the Second Kansas City branch, three from the first Independence branch. Also letters were granted two members from this branch to Lamoni and one to the Enoch Hill branch. Considerable time was taken up discussing the heating plant proposition which resulted in the appointing of a new committee with instructions to install a plant with the funds now available.

G. W. T.

ST. LOUIS ITEMS.

Sunday, November 22, was a rally day, devoted to the Sunday school and Religio interests of the district, with

Sunday school and Religio interests of the district, with a fine program at the institute session in the afternoon, and a large attendance at all meetings.

On the Wednesday evening before Thanksgiving day, the ladies of our Mite Society were the cause of a general good time. It consisted of a supper, a program, and a sale of articles, besides ice cream and cake. The crowd was unexpectedly large. For the coming Wednesday evening, December 9, they have announced a social for the heariff of the Children Hower.

evening, December 9, they have announced a social for the benefit of the Children's Home.

The Sunday morning discourse of November 29, by Bro. Christy, was a foreeful one, grappling with the problem, "Does God hear and answer the prayers of men?" and dealing with the growing doubt in the minds of the people. He read from a writer in the Literary Digest, who, broading upon the horror of the present war, exclaimed, "How can an all-powerful Being permit such conditions to continue?" The speaker declared that the fault lay in the diffidence and carelessness of men. Just as in olden days—"The Lord's hand is not shortened, Just as in olden days-"The Lord's hand is not shortened. that it cannot save; neither his ear heavy, that it cannot hear: But your iniquities have separated between you and your God, and your sins have hid his face from you, he will not hear.

The evening sermon, by our pastor, Bro. T. J. Elliott on the idea of good to be found in many places and the final salvation of all, was much enjoyed, both for the breadth shown in the subject matter, and for gentleness of treatment.

of treatment.

Our sacrament service of December 6 was a time of exhortation, of rousing and urging the less active ones, coming from our missionary Bro. Christy, who was in charge of the meeting, and also from our district president Bro. Archibald. In reference to those who are not using their ability, we were told that a competent engineer would not allow a fine, well-equipped engine to stand on a side-track, doing merely a little switching work, nor would he allow it for earry less than its full expective. nor would he allow it to carry less than its full capacity These appeals did not seem to bring the response that they should have brought. Perhaps there was an undercurrent of feeling which never quite came to the surface. At any rate, it may be that a seed of earnestness was sown in the minds of some of our less experienced members, which will develop later, if it did not show much at the time. Dwelling upon the effective words and the power back of them, will they not feel that God is yearning after them? Will they not thrill with the thought of untold possibilities of service and blessing?

The evening speaker was Elder Archibald, and the subject was "The race in which all who run may win." I am not running against you, and you are not running against me, but we run against the forces of evil, and we should help one another in this race. current of feeling which never quite came to the surface.

against me, out we run against the locked of con-convention program on Saturday afternoon, December 12. Some of the members of the Sunday school are practicing for a cantata-Santa's Christmas Bargain-to be given on Christmas Eve in the basement of the church. It is merry and tuneful, besides sound and wholesome.

FIRST CHICOGO ITEMS.

Sunday was continuation of our recent inclement weather, but a goodly number attended our regular monthly sacrament service which was very good.

At 7:30 we had the pleasure of listening to Elder
O. R. Miller of Independence, who spoke in an excellent manner on "Sowing and Reaping."

Ladie's Aid Society held their bazaar on Dec. 4th and 5th and success crowned their earnest efforts to the extent of over $100.00. In this connection we desire to express our gratitude for the help accorded us in the shape of donations. We sincerely thank the good saints who responded so kindly, and trust reciprocity may obtain in some way.

A series of meetings will be held December 8th to 18th with Patriarch J. W. Wight as the principal speaker. A good amount of hand bills and posters have been distributed and we trust to be able to make new friends

G. A. Worrell.

343 So. Keeler Ave.

SEATTLE.

It does not require much scientific knowledge to forecast the weather here—a gentle downpour of rain inter-spersed with showers, and an occasional sunburst through some rift in the clouds, temperature from 40 to 56, will just about hit it. When the sun gets a chance he gives us some glorious days. The weather don't intergives us some glorious days. The weather don't inter-fere with general business affairs, nor with the Saints attending church.

The Saints met on Thanksgiving day for a special service of prayer and praise and thanksgiving. It was a delightful service—all hearts were moved to thankfulness by the presence of the Holy Spirit and revealments thereof.

Bro. Amos Rhodes has changed his life lines somewhat Bro. Amos khouse has changed his life lines somewhat which requires his absence from his post as superintendent of the Sunday school a part of the time. We missed him last Sunday very much but his assistant, Bro. Evan E. Inslee, occupied to the satisfaction of all.

Bro. Richard Salyards after a few months' stay with us took his departure on Tuesday morning for his former home, Viceroy, Saskatchewan. "Dick" carries with him the high respects and good wishes of the Scattle branch. He was doing a good work in the Religio and Sunday school and was loved by all.

school and was loved by all.

Our Ladies Aid have announced a bazaar and dinner for Dec. 10. The sale of articles to continue during the day, the dinner to occur in the evening. They are anxious to pay the debt on the church and have it dedicated.

This branch can boast of a model deacon in the person of Bro. John Sanders. He classes among the best I ever knew. Bro. John keeps bachelor's hall just across the street from the church. All honor to the good deacon.

J. M. Terry.

102 North 39th St., Seattle, Wash., Dec. 2.

The management the management of CORRESPONDENCE Benermermermermermermermermerm

Paris, Tenn., Nov. 30.

Dear Ensign:-Some time has intervened since I have written to your columns and I thought perhaps you would written to your columns and I thought perhaps you would like again to hear from the country commonly known as Dixie Land. Kentucky and Tenessee district fell to my lot to hear the angel's message to for the year. And certainly I can say with one of the writers in days of yore, "I rejoice in the work of God."

I have just closed my meetings at Foundry Hill near Paris, Tenn. This place is the largest branch in the district and composed of Saints that are endeavoring to bean the cann fire larger, new work keep the camp fire blazing, notwithstanding the work devolves upon a few of the members, and makes it difficult for them.

Oh! that all would unite their efforts cogether with those who are willing and doing something the yoke would be easy and the burden light. I am laboring diffwould be easy and the burden light. I am laboring dis-gently to encourage those who are at a low obb, spiritually to assist us in advanceing the work. We know the divine injunction is for the strong to help the weak. But free horses are often rode to death. Some in this field have labored hard to uphold the weak. I have enfield have labored hard to uphold the weak. I have enjoyed my work here at Foundry Hill greatly by reason of the co-operation of the Saints who have helped me.

Those of the gospel bearers who have preached in places where no co-operation was manifested at all know it is not very pleasant. I am one who bears in mind the fact that there is no one who is clear in some degree of faults, and if I want others to bear with my faults I must also bear with theirs, and endeavor to show them their faults and persuade them to overcome them. them their faults and persuane them to everteeme their However there is a proper way to teach others to see their faults. Can we not heed the writings of St. Matthew, in going to our brother and be reconciled, and not to publish abroad the faults of others. And "God hath made of one blood all nations of men for to dwell on all the face of the earth and hath determined the times, beappointed and the bounds of their habitations.

The land that the Saints inhabit here is not fertile and productive as the valley lands of the garden spot of the world which is in and around Mt. Zion. The Saints can not have their houses of modern improvements and brussels carpets and ornamented tables and bedecked mantle boards, chiffoners, mahogany buffets, leather upholstered davenports, plate glass mirrors that one can behold his image and go away and forget himself, behold his image and go away and forget himself, electrical fixtures that sheds brilliant light over the cozy dining room. Certainly it is delightsome, but can we, who are so fortunate as to possess such and set in a home of this kind, say I love my brother as myself and still scorn him because it is impossible for him these pleasures? I say no, not consistently. The people in these parts of the country are placed here, not of their own will altogether, but by the will of Him who controls the universe,-and they are forced to do best they can.

There are people dwelling in those rich countries who are able to enjoy the pleasures of life. And any one living in a glass house should not throw stones. I do not overlook the fact either that many of those do not pay their tithing as well as some in this country. How-ever I am endeavoring to teach the people to honor the law of Christ in all its entirety. And thus gain their confidence that we may labor together in the one cause. While laboring here in this vicinity I have been domiciled as a king and enjoyed myself among them all. I spent the most of my time with Bro. Robert Ross and family, one of the main spokes in the wheel in supporting the work. There are jewels in this home that sparkle and jems that are not found everywhere. Certainly this family stands as a monument for the work, for they have endured hardships when others were timid in making an effort to attend the meetings in times past. This family has a record of going at all times, facing the exposures of both cold and hot weather.

Bro. Joe Elexander and companion anticipate making their abode at the Seaton homestead at the church, of which all the pioneers of the work are acquainted with. This branch has three elders and four priests and two Into branch has three enters and four presets and two deacons, and is in a fairly good working order under the present leadership of Elder S. E. Dickson of Paris, Tenn, one who has the confidence of the people everywhere. The writer has recently joined himself with Bro. J. R. McClain, another one of the pioneer messengers of the gospel and High Priest of the church. A gers of the gosper and right Fries of the chatch. A congenial one to labor with. If the Saints through the district will confer with me in regards to new openings I will heartily respond. God bless them all.

Chas. A. Nolan.

Penyrhsol Caerphilly Glam, Wales, Nov. 1. 4 Emerglyn Crescent

A Emergyin Crescent
Editor Ensign:—We are still in the throes of war in this country and surely the confusion is great in Europe and its effects are almost world-wide. Yet we have the assurances from time to time that God foresees such things and at times reveals his secrets to his servants and his handmaids.

Over a year ago when a few of us met here at Cardiff c. May received several manifestations among which was "that ere long the nations would have cause to fear and tremble." The effects in battle of the heavy gun-fire strikes a fear and a terror into the hearts of brave men and eventually they become as though they have no nerves. And all this boast of bravery and the rest of it is on a large measure manufactured for the continuation of the purposes of war which seems to be demanded ation of the purposes of war which seems to be demanded whether the people desire war or not.

I remember on two occasions Bro. George Cope, Sen., said to me previous to the "Senghenydd explosion" at the end of services: "Bro. Jones, I feel that something bad is going to happen at one of the Collieries here but as to the nature of the happening I cannot say." Bro. Alfred Jones at a conference at N. Beraman received later a manifestation to effect that "A calamity would happen in sur land their in magnifich had not previously received A happen in our land that in magnitude had not previously heppened." Little did some of us think that we would eppened." Little did some of us think that we e in it. Only in France has there been a larger life at one explosion in mines; then over one thousand perished in a number of mines which were attached or in touch with each other.

These things should cause us to realize that the Lord These things should cause us to realize that the Lord is not forget? Jo file people and these terrible things. And while we haven't the full guarantee that we shall always be saved from perils on land, sea, war, and in the bowels of the sawth, yet we are at least allowed to tell of the benefits of our trust and faith in God when we Who can tell of the results that accrue from a faith placed in our heavenly Father's hand?

I testified before the commission appointed by the government of the roaring that occurred above our heads. I then resolved that when I got to the pit-top that I would wire home as we call it, to my mother and brothers and sisters, I had the assurance that I should not die there; the calm assurance that ateals softly upon the soul in the hour of need. God tells his people not to fear or the nour of need. God tells his people not to fear or get perplexed. As a people we are taught by principle, faith, and experience to have access to God's special watchcare on our behalf—which comes in two ways, our faith and God's disposition in relation to the laws imposed by him. I am sure that lack of faith is not always the cause why we do not obtain that which we have defined we need to decided we need.

At our last mission conference I was particularly struck with the testimony of Bro. Smith of Birmingham upon the line of faith. Amid tears he said that he had heard some say that they knew the work was true because their Jimmie was saved from death by administration—brethren and sisters," he said, "I know that the great work is true and I lost my little boy. Ah, there we see the great purpose of this latter day restoration. The spirit of assurance, the Holy Ghost, Paul said is the heritage of every one in the faith. "The Spirit is given I am often reminded of the uses of the ministry the spiritual gifts and the statement "These are they which have come up [not down] out of great tribulation," etc. The sentiment of Bro. Smith was that all these helps to the government was to assist us to the great principles of truth that are higher than all else. Nothing higher than the laws.

I remember a brother coming to me once after a conference in our district, and saying, "Well Brother Jones, there is a power that comes in and through the spiritual gifts (prophecy, tongues, etc.) that seems not to come any other way." That statement meant as much to me any other way. That statement meant as mark to the as it did to the one who made it. There was a young man there who was not then a member, and I went to him and asked him if it was settled now? "Oh yes," he said.

That brother confessed to me since that he used to to himself: I like those chaps very well, but it is their religion. God helps the people into the church by many ways and means. Bro. Luff made a true statement when he wrote—"We have convinced more people than we have baptized." May I say that in my missionary efforts since August I have been blessed and been treated kindly everywhere I have been. I find the need of executive ability locally at several points. With some few exceptions we seem to lose our hold upon the families of the Saints. This is due in a measure to the negligence of parents. who seem to have a yearning to save the world and seem to lose their own.

The Sunday school work is well fostered in Gloucester and I trust that ere long there will be seen the necessity of our schools here joining the Sunday school union so as to keep pace with times and needs.

Your brother in Christ

Thos. Jones.

Claudell, N. M., Nov. 15 Dear Ensign:-I am the only Saint here and do not e how I could get along without my church papers. H. Beadle's book on Polygamy or the Mysteries and Grimes of Mormoniam is being circulated in this country and you know what that will do to a people that is already prejudiced. I got the book and read it myself, but it did not change my faith one whit. I think I found many contradictions in the book; for instance, about Sidney Rigdon bringing his crowd and telling Joseph Smith what to preach, and at the last of the book said Joe Smith laid the plan and Brigham Young carried it out; and many other things too numerous to mention. If people do not wish to understud you can't make them. Some have told me since that if Joseph Smith did not teach and practice polygamy it would not be published so much that he did. Well I am still strong in the faith and my prayer to God is that he will give me strength to always remain so. No such books as J. H. Beadles can shake my faith. Some who were interested have turned back.

I keep all my papers and send them to friends, som one state and some in an other, only wish I was abl to buy more to send, and that my husband was only friendly to the cause. Remember me and my children in your prayers. Oh that I can lead them in the right way -my life will not be spent in vain. I will close asking God's blessings on his people everywhere strong in the faith, and hope to be to the on his people everywhere, from one yet end.

Nannie Myers.

San Jose, Cal., Nov. 1. Editor Ensign:-We have just received the Ensign, and the first thing I do is to look for the Independence Items, then the second Independence or South Side Branch, then the rest of the news comes next. But our hearts were touched when we read Bro. Deam's description of the beauties of the scenery there at this time of the year. We have been on the roof of the Saint's Sanitarium which overlooks the surrounding country—Kansas City and the river in the distance, and as we turn and look in another direction we see the Stone Church, Court House, Temple Lot, South Side Church, and I believe when the leaves are off the trees one can see many points of interest, and when one looks from those hills either in summer or winter he might well exclaim, Beautiful Indesummer or winter he might well exclaim, beautiful inde-pendence. To my companion and myself there is no place like it. Our associations there were most pleasant. We regretted our having to leave but beautiful California, with its fine climate and flowers, its lovely scenery, can-not compare with the influences one feels in the place God has set apart for the gathering of his children. My heart takes courage when I think of thee, oh Zion, a place of refuge.

is a fine branch of the church here and they are indeed workers, and are very happy and united.

50

Religio is interesting, the aged as well as the young people take great interest in it the same and through years of take great interest in it the same and unough your toil many can see the fruits of their labors and rejoic Sr. Weldon. rejoice.

Independence, Mo., Dec. 3.

Editor Ensign:—In the latter part of September Bro.
W. W. Chrestensen went to Fitzhugh, Okla., and began a series of meetings. He found friends and soon had a large interested audience listening to his clear-cut presentations of the cosnel.

large interested audience listening to his clear-cut pre-sentations of the gospel.

Our Anti-Organ Christian friends became rather ex-cited and challenged him for a debate. The challenge was accepted and it was agreed to begin the next Tucs-day. I was reached by phone on Saturday and informed of the arrangements and urged to come at once. then at Oklahoma City with Bro. Hubert Case assisting the sisters of that city in a "stand" on the state fair grounds. We had been there during the fair, which lasted twelve days. The work was new to us, but the novelty of it, with the desire to raise some money for the church, amply paid us for our arduous labor. It afforded us a It afforded us amply paid us for our arduous labor. did opportunity to study human nature and present our own people. I was there at the suggestion of the powers that be and am glad to have had the experience, and while we made some money, yet it is doubtful if it was wise to take two missionaries from the field for that length of time, for the returns obtained.

that length of time, for the returns obtained.

I left the next morning for the field of battle and preached to a large audience at 8 p. m.

The next day we met Rev. W. C. Witcher, of Grand View, Texas, who had been sent for to represent the Christian church. We soon completed the arrangements to begin the next evening as agreed, Oct. C. We discussed the church prepositions, durative, the centre of the church prepositions. the church propositions, devoting six sessions to each proposition

There is little to report, and besides I am a poor reorter. My opponent was a fairly good talker with some qualifications of a debator. He was unprepared as he knew very little about our work, and relied on what he obtained from Braden and Neal. He was very self-conceited, which seemed to be badly shattered before the debate was over. When the debate closed nearly all the non-members and some of the Camubellites were on our I felt about as well satisfied with the results of this debate as anyone I ever held.

During the debate I was especially directed in two

I understood them and now realize how timely re. I feel to thank the Lord for these spiritual they were. directions which he gives his servants. I have been thus favored several times this year. I arrived home in time to attend our family reunion at Thanksgiving. It was indeed a time of thanksgiving for me.

was indeed a time of thanksgiving for mr.
The last year has been in many respects the most prosperous year of my married life. My faith in the Lord is strengthened and I feel more confident in the fulfillment of his promises, both special and general.

I began a series of meetings, in Kansas City last night.

As I write our beloved and aged president lies in a critical condition, but as long as there is life there is hope.

We should feel thankful for the advancement the church is making in spiritual understanding. It is almost as difficult to remove a false idea or to teach a new one to a saint, as a rule, as it is to a non-member. fore I am glad to see Brn. Fred. M. Smith, J. W. Rushton and others making the efforts that they are.

Yours for truth,

Lamoni, Iowa, Dec. 2. Editor Ensign:—I have just got home from Iowa. I held a two week's meeting at Perry. Had fine interest and good attendance. Several are ready for baptism, but were prevented by others. From there I went to Boone where I was almost two weeks; and some nights I had hardly standing room for myself. Some attended who were never inside of our church before. The Boone Saints are talking of building a new church soon. From Boone I had intended to go to Nevada for a couple week's meetings; but just as I was rendy to start I was called to the funeral of my sister, Mrs. E. A. Woodman, at Mahaska, Kansas. That spoiled my calculations, and I came home from Kansas via St. Joseph. I could not get away from the 2nd Branch without preaching one sermon for them to a well filled house.

Please say to the Iowa Saints that I will go back there Trease say on the lows sames that I wing to back there and fill my appointments as soon as I get a little rest. The good Lord blessed me very much in my labors this trip. God bless all the good Saints and friends. In bonds, Euclid, Ark., Nov. 29.

Editor Ensign:-Please allow me space to correct a Editor Ensign:—Please allow me space to correct a mistake in my last letter from Porteau, Okla., where it says that I held four meetings. It should have been four weeks. Where it reads Mrs. T. P. McMilner it should have been Mrs. T. P. Milner. I have just closed a three week's meeting here and have

I have just closed a three week's meeting here and have baptized 10 more into the kingdom, making so fur 45 this conference year. I found the Saints in the Euclid branch all good, kind people. The branch was in a cold condition, but we left them apparently feeling nuch better. They all shed tears at the baptism, and at the confirmation meeting we had a spiritual feast. I closed the meeting with a full house, all the people not being able to be seated in the school house.

able to be seated in the school house.

I expect to spend Christmas at home in Independence with wife and babies when I will meet one of my uncles from Utah and one from Alabama. I trust we will be able to convert the Utah uncle from the Mormon Church to the Latter Day Saint Church. I remain your brother

J. W. Duboise

(Correspondence continued on page 6)

THE FEAST OF THE LORD.

Sermon by Charles Fry.
Delivered at Independence, Mo., December 14, 1913.
Reported by Mrs. A. Morgan.

We read for a lesson this evening two parables. The first is found in the twenty-second chapter of Matthew beginning at the second verse:

"The kingdom of heaven is like unto a certain king, which made a marriage for his son, and sent forth his servants to call them that were bidden to the wedding: and they would not come. Again, he sent forth other servants, saying, Tell them which are bidden, Behold, I have prepared my dinner: my oxen and my fatlings are killed, and all things are ready: come unto the marriage, But they made light of it, and went their way, one to his farm, another to his merchandise: And the remnant took his servants, and entreated them spitefully, and slew them. But when the king heard thereof, he was wroth: and he sent forth his armies, and destroyed those murders, and burned up their city. Then saith he to his servants, The wedding is ready, but they which were bidden were not worthy. Go ye therefore into the highways, and as many as ye shall find, bid to the marriage. So those servants went out into the highways, and gathered together all as many as they found, both bad and good; and the wedding was furnished with guests."

The other parable is found in the 14th chapter of Luke, beginning with the 16th verse:

"Then said he unto him, A certain man made a great supper, and bade many: And sent his servant at supper time to say to them that were bidden, Come; for all things are now ready. And they all with one consent began to make excuse. The first said unto him, I have bought a piece of ground, and I must needs go and see it: I pray thee have me excused. And another said, I have bought five yoke of oxen, and I go to prove them: I pray thee have me excused. And another said, I have married a wife, and therefore I cannot come. So that servant came, and shewed his lord these things. Then the master of the house being angry said unto his servant, Go out quickly into the streets and lanes of the city, and bring in hither the poor, and the maimed, and the halt, and the blind. And the servant said, Lord, it is done as thou hast commanded, and yet there is room. And the lord said unto the servant, Go out into the highways and hedges, and compel them to come in, that my house may be filled. For I say unto you, That none of those men which were bidden shall taste of my supper.'

These two parables give a prophetic view of the work of the kingdom of God in two different periods of the world, for notwithstanding they seem to be so nearly alike, they are distinct, and upon close examination show differences that clearly point out their application to different dispensations.

It is well that we should take occasionally a broad view of the work of the kingdom of God, otherwise our continual interest and labor in the things of detail might leave us to become discouraged and forget our place in the great work of God and our destination. The Lord often spoke of the future developments of his work and pointed out certain landmarks by which the children of God might know of the times in which they live and be better prepared to live and work in harmony with the great purposes of God. The parables we have read help us to take such a view.

The first parable is that of a marriage dinner which was prepared by a certain king, but the significant point of the parable is that this dinner was a representation of the kingdom of heaven. Since John the Baptist and Jesus both taught that the kingdom of heaven was a thand in their day, and the kingdom of heaven was preached to men, and invitation made for them to come in, the question arises—Did not this parable have reference to that day? Let us see.

A king, a son, a marriage, the sending of servants, a danner, invited guests who refused to come, persecution and killing of the servants, the ultimate destruction of the murderers by an army, the extension of the invitation into the highways, and the gathering in of guests, all have their counterpart in the work of God in the days of the New Testament. God, the great King, sent his Son to his chosen people in fulfilment of promises long since made, and this Son, Jesus said: I came unto my own, but my own received me not," showing that he came to be united with his people as their Messiah. He sent his servants to his chosen people Israel inviting them into the kingdom where they could partake of the spiritual feast prepared of God. Israel rejected the invitation and in anger slew many of the servants including the Son of God. The Roman armies ultimately came against them and accomplished their overthrow as a nation, and burned Jerusalem their capital city. The gospel invitation was transferred to the Gentiles of whom there was a great ingathering.

These events fit so thoroughly and completely with the parable that there can be no doubt of the application of the parable to them, especially since there is no other series of events known which will fit the case. The feast is also spoken of as a dinner, and it is usual in most countries for the dinner to come in the middle portion of the day, and this agrees with the coming of Christ to Israel in the New Testament times which was near the middle portion of the world's time. It has been said that Jesus came in the meridian of time, which would be the middle period or dinner hour.

As marking more fully the fulfillment of this parable by Jesus and his ministry it may be noted that when he first sent his disciples forth to preach the gospel he commanded them to "Go not into the way of the Gentiles, and into any city of the Samiritans enter ye not: but go rather to the lost sheep of the house of Israel." (Matt. 10:5.) But when they had rejected the message and had crucified their Lord, Jesus commanded his disciples to go into all the world and preach the gospel to every creature. The Jews were rejected of God, and the invitation went to the Gentiles.

But we find Jesus telling of another feast that is yet to be, and he presents his teaching under the parable of a supper. Now supper always comes at the close of the day, so if there is any meaning to this term "supper" as used here it must point to the work of God in the closing period of the world's history, a time when God will again prepare a spiritual feast in the kingdom of God to which men will be invited. A careful reading of this parable in connection with the first will show that it is distinct from the dinner.

Before taking up further this parable we wish to note that there must be a period of time between the one and the other—between the dinner and the supper, and there is nothing in these parables describing what conditions would exist during this period and hence we are under the necessity of looking to other teachings of the Lord in order to get the connection. This we find very clearly stated in the thirteenth chapter of Matthew in the #### Parable of the Wheat and the Tares.

The parable and its interpretation reads thus: Another parable put he forth unto them, saying, The kingdom of heaven is likened unto a man which sowed good seed in his field; but while men slept his enemy came and sowed tares among the wheat, and went his way. But when the blade sprung up, and brought forth fruit, then appeared the tares also. So the servants of the householder came and said unto him, Sir, didst not thou sow good seed in thy field? From whence then hath it tares? He said unto them, An enemy hath done this. The servants said unto him, Wilt thou then that we go and gather them up? But he said, Nay; lest while ye gather up the tares, ye root up also the wheat with them. Let both grow together until the harvest: and in the time of harvest I will say to the reapers, Gather ye together first the tares, and bind them in bundles to burn them; but gather the wheat into my barn.***

He that soweth the good seed is the Son of man; the field is the world; the good seed are the children of the kingdom; but the tares are the children of the wicked one; the enemy that sowed them is the devil; the harvest is the end of the world; the reapers are the angels. As therefore the tares are gathered and burned in the fire; so shall it be in the end of the world. The Son of man shall send forth his angels, and they shall gather out of his kingdom all things that offend, and them which do iniquity; and shall cast them into a furnace of fire.

This parable covers the period from the time

This parable covers the period from the time of Christ's ministry to the end of the world, and it indicates that there would be a time of night when men (the servants of Christ) would sleep, and when the enemy would have opportunity oswing the evil seed, followed by the growth of both the wheat and the tares without interference, by the Lord of the field. The Lord's servants would not again labor in the field until the time of harvest came which would be at the end of the world. The work of the harvest would have its beginning by the sending of angels and the reapers will labor in the field gathering out the good, leaving the bad to be burned.

The conditions described in this parable have been followed out in the history of the world from the days of Christ to the present time, as shown by the work of Christ and his ministry in the sowing of the seed, followed by the great apostasy when God no longer sent his servants and apostle and the world was left to itself (as pertaining to the work of the ministry) through a period of darkness which is termed the "dark ages." During this period error was sown with the truth and wicked men and good men grew together under the name of Christianity and, like the wheat and the tares, one could not be destroyed without destroying the other.

The sending of the angels would mark the beginning of a new period of activity in the work of God; it would mark the beginning of the gathering out of God's elect to a place appointed of him, and the establishment of his kingdom in righteousness without the marring influence of the evil tares. This corresponds to the call to the supper, when a feast will be prepared for the people of the Lord. Let us turn again to the parable of the supper and note its leading points.

The One who made the supper "sent his servant at supper time." This servant can be none other than one sent of God, and one so sent would undoubtedly be told what he should say to those invited. Such an one would be undoubtedly a prophet with a divine message. The invitation was "to them that were bidden," showing that those now called had previously been invited. These made excuses of various kinds; one had bought a piece of ground, another a voke of oxen. another had married a wife, and so on and the invitation received a general rejection. The Lord in his anger declared that those which had been bidden should not taste of his supper, and hence sent the invitation out to the poor, and the maimed, and the halt, and the blind, and when tnese had been brought in the message was sent out with greater urgency to the "highways and hedges," so that many were compelled to come in.

The developments of the times, especially in connection with the latter day work, are proving the correctness of these parables and the divine discernment of him who spoke them. The dark ages have been followed by the dawn of the Reformation, and last of all the Restoration when angels were sent from heaven to introduce the work of God in preparation for the great harvest of the world. The servant has been sent with the message of invitation by which men have been, and are being called into the kingdom of God to the feast which he has prepared. Those who have been invited have thus far rejected the invitation, and out of the millions who have been reared with a knowledge of Christianity, but a few thousands, or perhaps a few hundred thousands, have heeded the call and have come in to the feast of the Lord. Gentiles and Jews.

In the days of Christ the invitation was first to the Jews and afterwards to the Gentiles when the Jews were rejected. But Israel was not to be cast off forever. Jesus said: "Jerusalem shall be trodden down of the Gentiles, until the times of the Gentiles be fulfilled," showing that their rejection was only temporary, and would end when the times of the Gentiles were fulfilled. Paul sets forth in the eleventh chapter of Romans the casting off of the Jews and the coming in of the Gentiles, but warns the latter that if unfaitful they also will be rejected, while Israel would again come into favor with God. He says:

"Because of unbelief they were broken off, and thou standest by faith. Be not highminded but fear; for if God spared not the natural branches, take heed lest he also spare not thee. Behold therefore the goodness and severity of God: on them which fell, severity; but to-ward thee, goodness, if thou continue in his goodness: otherwise thou shalt be cut off. And they also, if they abide not still in unbelief, shall be grafted in: for God is able to graft them in again."—Verses 20 to 23.

Paul further declares "that blindness in part

Paul further declares "that bindness in part is happened to Israel, until the fulness of the Gentiles be come in." The Gentiles came into the riches of God through Israel's rejection, but as we have before noted they entered into a state of apostasy and for hundreds of years they have been without the higher blessings of the gospel. But God has not cast them off, but spared them until he should again send "his servant at supper time to say to them that were bidden, Come; for all things are now ready," and invite them to the feast of the Lord. So the invitation at supper time was to go to the Gentiles first, but as they would reject it, the servant was to go out to the blind and poor, and maimed. And who are these? Paul said that Israel has become blind. Jesus said they would be cast out and trodden under foot of men; hence they would be poor and maimed, and in the last days it is to these that the gospel invitation will go after it has been rejected by the Gentiles.

J. W. Paran

The Latter Day Invitation.

In these last days the gospel has again been restored, and the call has been sent forth for men to come unto the great supper of the Lord, The work had its beginning in the ministration of angels as Christ said it would; the servant has been sent with the divine message, and that to the Gentile nations; the invitation has been mainly rejected by them and we are undoubtedly approaching the time when it will be withdrawn and offered to blind Israel.

> The Gentile fulness now comes in And Israel's blessings are at hand: Lo! Judah's remnant, cleansed from s Shall in their promised Canaan stand.

Jehovah speaks! let earth give ea And Gentile nations turn and live-

His mighty arm is making bare,
His covenant people to receive.
The revelations of God under this restoration agree with the ancient Scriptures. They say that the ministers of the gospel shall "go forth unto the ends of the earth, unto the Gentiles first, and then behold, and lo, they shall They declare that one turn unto the Jews." of the purposes of this restoration was "that a feast of fat things might be prepared for the poor; yea a feast of fat things, of wine on the lees well refined, that the earth may know that the mouths of the prophets shall not fail; yea, a supper of the house of the Lord, well prepared, unto which all nations shall be invited. Firstly the rich and the learned, the wise and the noble; and after that cometh the day of my power; then shall the poor, the lame, and the blind, and the deaf, come in unto the marriage of the Lamb, and partake of the supper of the Lord, prepared for the great day to come."

The Gentiles have been the ones who were in favor with God since Israel's rejection. They have been enlightened and prospered until they have become great and mighty. They are the rich, the learned, the wise and the noble. The gospel still goes to them, but their time is rapidly being fulfilled and the end is near. Soon the message must go to Israel, and the Lord says then cometh the day of my power," "and then cometh the day when the arm of the Lord shall be revealed in power in convincing the nations, the heathen nations, the house of Joseph, of the gospel of their salvation." (Doctrine and Covenants 5:3; 87:3.) Thus far the history of latter days has shown a fulfillment of the parable of the supper, as also of the parallel of the wheat and tares, and God's hand is moving among the nations to bring about a full accomplishment of his purposes.

Who Are Israel?

Too often when we read the prophetic utterances regarding Israel in the last days our minds revert to the Jews as being the subjects of those prophecies. The Jews are but a remnant of Israel, and while they are often referred to, the Scriptures show that Israel impolves vastly more than the Jews. Prophecy points to the scattering of Israel to every land, and to the islands of the sea. Because of their wickedness they would forget God, losing all knowledge of him, and even lose the knowledge of their identity. In their distant homes they would serve other gods of wood and stone. Moses warned his people, as we read in the fourth chapter of Deuteronomy that if they should turn away from the Lord to worship idols that they should soon utterly perish from off the land: "And the Lord shall scatter you among the nations, and ye shall be left few in number among the heathen, whither the Lord shall lead And there ye shall serve gods, the work of men's hands, wood and stone."

This has been the history of Israel, unfaithfulness and scattering. They were led into Assyria, into Babylov, into Persia, into Africa and Europe, at different times beginning in the early part of their national existence down to the final rejection of the last remnant at Jerusalem in 70 A. D., and while history gives no account in detail of their migrations, it is generally conceded that they advanced into all parts of the world, mixing more or less with the ungodly nations with whom they came in contact. Thus we may expect to find many of Israel among the heathen nations today, multitudes of them perhaps who have lost their identity, and who have been lost to the knowledge of the world.

As before observed, the restored gospel has been preached only to the Gentile nations—the civilized world-referred to as the rich, the learned, the wise and noble, but when the times of the Gentiles shall be fulfilled, God will seek out his people according to the multitude of promises them in ancient times. He will call to them. His voice will be the voice of the gospel which will go to them in mighty power, and they will be led out of all lands whithersoever they have been driven. We are told that in that gathering the hand of power will be more wonderfully manifested than in the deliverance of Israel from Egypt, and the appeal will be so strong, so convincing, that they will not be able to resist its power but will be "compelled" to come in.

People sometimes say to us, "If the work you represent were truly the work of God, thousands would flock to it, but you are few in number and your Church is insignificant and despised." But they forget that this very condition is the same as with the work of God in all ages; it has been supported only by the few while the many have turned away. This condition is according to the parable which says "they all with one consent" would make excuse; it is according to the words of Jesus who, speaking of the strait gate and the narrow way, says "few there be that find it." prophetic utterances given to the Church in these last days also tell us that but few of the Gentiles would come in, and not until the invitation goes to down trodden Israel will the magnitude of the work be made apparent.

The supper of the Lord is prepared and the invitation is being made. How many of those who hear will heed and come in to the feast. The 'servant" has been sent of God .-- the messenger who is to prepare the way for the coming of the Lord. Angels have been sent and the harvest of the Lord is beginning, and the time is evidently here when the blessings of God are resting upon his people preparatory to their gathering, and his judgements upon the wicked in preparation for their destruction. We are living in momentous times; it is the hour of God's judgement, and his hand is being displayed in all the earth. not think that the saints are the only ones whom God will use as instruments in the accomplishment of his purposes, for he inspires men outside of his Church, as well as within, in accordance with the nature and extent of the work they have to do, and as in the ancient past he may even use wicked men in bringing to pass his will. And so while the hand of God is guidng among the nations, he is leading his servants and his Church to reform their part that his purposes may be consummated. Let us move forward with faith and confidence in the final outcome of the work.

THE WORLD'S PROBLEMS.

By Elder J. F. Mintun.

No. 3. The work of the Holy Ghost.

The Holy Ghost, being a part of the God-head, must represent in its general characteristics the Father and Son, in their nature. The Father and Son being unchangeable, the same "from everlasting to everlasting,"-Ps. 90:2, or "forever,"-Heb. 13:8,-so likewise will the Holy Ghost be unchangeable in its nature. So also every virtue possessed by the Father must the Son and Holy Ghost be possessed of to be one, and these three working together will accomplish for man his ultimate redemption from the curse of sin and death brought upon him through the sin of our forefather, Adam, and will give ability to man to secure salvation from sin and its effects, and the privilege of enjoying the glory of God in accordance with his individual desires expressed in righteousness.

The first information we have of the work of the Spirit was at the time the earth was in a chaotic state, when the Spirit of God moved upon the waters (Gen. 1:2.) By reason of the work of God through this medium, man was formed and given life, as the servant of the Lord said. "The Spirit of God hath made me, and the breath of the Aimighty hath given me life," Job 33:4. Under the authority of the Father all things were created by him who is the image of the invisible God, and through that life-giving principle the new creation act is accomplished, and mortality is raised to immortality, and the natural body becomes a spiritual body. natural body becomes a spiritual body. See Rom. 8:11, and 1st Cor. 15:44. To speak more particularly, man, to see the kingdom of God must "be born again,"—John 3:3,—for a man cannot know the things of God but by the Spirit of God,-see 1st Cor. 2:11,-and by the same Holy Ghost must we be led as we walk in the new life as a child of God, (Rom. 8:14) and by that same Spirit will our mortal bodies be quickened as it dwelleth in the children of God, and through this means the effect of the curse of sin will be removed from the body, and the quickening, life-giving influence of God's Spirit, will be the life of man, thus changing the natural state of man caused by sin, to a spiritual state as the result of righteousness, the latter state of the mortal, which ends in death, will be immortal, and never end.

We further note that the work of Jesus Christ was to baptize mortal man, who had accepted baptism with water for the remission of sins, with the Holy Ghost, (Mark 1:8) and Paul so understood the work of Christ over thirty years after his ascension as the history gives us information in Acts 19:1-6; and this Holy Ghost was to teach all things, bring past to mind,-John things 14:26,-testify Christ,-John 15:26,-guide into all truth, speak that which he shall hear, and show things to come,-John 16:13,-as well as reprove the world of sin, and of righteousness, and of judgment."-John 16:8. This clearly shows that the Spirit of God has a work to do which is necessary to be done in every age of the world among both those who are disciples of Christ and those who are not, hence the promise of Christ "and lo, I am with you alway, even unto the end of world," is not to be with the disciples personally, but by the presence of the Holy Spirit, for Jesus said previously to his disciples: "It is expedient for you that I go away; for if I go not away the Comforter will not come unto you; but if I depart, I will send him unto you," (John 16:8,) though he personally, will not come again till at the end of the world or the destruction of the wicked, when he will come "in the glory of the Father with his angels; and then he shall reward every man according to his works." This last promise of Jesus Christ to be with the faithful disciples to the end of the world is very comforting and soul-inspiring to the minister, who desires to represent the Father's work correctly, for by its leadings, as it thrills the soul of the minister, and speaks to that soul that which it shall hear, we will not be mistaken in regard to our ministrations; and its effects upon those who hear the word administered will be that they will be reproved of sin, of righteousness, of judgment, the thing necessary to be done that a soul may converted to God.

The two great incentives to faithful devoted service to God is to be assured of what is truth, as asked by Pilate. These are equally important now as they have ever been, and the guide "into I truth," is the spirit of truth, the Holy Ghost. It will also reveal the things which God hath prepared for them that love him. John 16:13 and 1st Cor. 2:9, 10. The Spiritualists do not accept this Christian explanation but claim that the truth, and the things of God that are prepared for human beings is revealed by the return of the spirits of departed ones, who have been where the future conditions have been experienced. This is too unreliable, for even the Spiritualists admit that the spirits of those who have died have not changed since leaving the body but little, if any, and the proportion of false spirits to truthful spirits that return are as five or more false to one true; then they have no standard by which to determine when the truth is being told, for they deny what Jesus has said about it, and refuse to accept what men claim to have revealed to them by the Holy Ghost in regard to the resurrection and the future state.

Since it was the work of the Spirit by which the first man of the natural creation, was created, so by the same Spirit must the first born of the new creation, even Jesus, be brought into existence, that the latter existence of man in Christ Jesus may be of as high a nature as the existence of man through Adam and Eve. That is the reason it is so important to believe what the angel told Joseph, "fear not to take unto thee Mary thy wife; for that which is conceived in her is of the Holy Ghost."-Matt. 1:20. It is equally important for us as it was for Joseph, so that we may receive him as one who has overcome the world, and through the reception of the same Spirit, by which we are born of God a new creation, we may overcome the world, and gain the victory over every carnal and mortal condition, and be like Christ. To those who deny what the angel said about Jesus being born of the Holy Ghost, it can be clearly seen why they should deny the necessity of man being born of the Spirit to be a child of God; and who are actuated by a spirit that advocates such corrupt doctrines as polygamy and polygamous cohabitation, the Adam-God theory, and man's blood atoning for some of his individual sins, will be consistently led to deny that Jesus was conceived and born of the Holy Ghost, as is the case with those who claim that Brigham Young was a prophet of God, and who now claim that Joseph F. Smith, who is now confessedly living with five women as his wives, is a prophet of God.

The child of God in the New Testament times believed that Jesus was conceived and born of the Holy Ghost; believed that Jesus' work was to baptize his followers with the Holy Ghost; be-lieved only such as are led by the Spirit are the sons of God, believed that no one's mortal body would be quickened excepting those in whom dwelt the Spirit of God; and that none will inherit the kingdom of God except those who are born of the Spirit as well as of the water, and so we conclude that only those who thus believe are children of God today. Those who expect the indwelling of the Holy Spirit of God must have a desire, to be like it in nature, and their bodies, which are called "temples of the Holy Ghost," must be kept pure and holy that it may abide there, because we are informed that to defile the temple of God will bring destruction. Much might be said of the Spirit's work in the vegetable and animal kingdoms aside from man, of its operations, and various manifestations in the church, and of its fruit in contrast with the fruits of the flesh, but we have, we think, said sufficient to lead the minds along right channels so far that they will continue their investigations and more fully drink of the sweets that result as the honeydew of the Spirit of God.

THE FALL OF THE YEAR.

THE FALL O'THE YEAR.

The fall o' the year has come back again,
And it's jest as delightful as't ever has been,
With the odors o' apples and must o' the grape,
And the leaves all colored jest any old shape,
And plaintive Bob White whistles merriest when The fall o' the year has come back again!

The fall o' the year has come back again. And I let down the bars o' the stubble field then, And hie me away to the woods and the wold, And me me away to the woods and the word,
Where the leaves are all purple, the weeds are all gold;
And somehow or other—jest how, I can't tell—
I'm caught in the maze of a mystical spell;
And the breeze as it whispers in both o' my ears,
Brings back to me visions o' faraway years;
And I'm happy and sad both together jest when
The fall o' the year has come back again!

The fall o' the year has come back again, And the weather jest sizzles no longer like sin,
And the trees in the distance are hazy and brown,
And the lazy old cattle are standing aroun',
And I love jest to bask in sich halcyon days,
And throw away trouble that on my soul weighs:
They tinge up the future with some sort o' hope, seeing the things in a ka-leidoscope, I love all around me the tenderest when And I love all around me the tenderest of the fall o' the year has come back again! -Douglas Dobbins.

> WILL WE BE ONE. Low. Jesus is calling, His call now obey; For softly He's speaking, Come into the way.

Oh, turn from your idols; Give God all the praise. The weak He will strengthen, The humble He'll raise.

He'll furnish with bread, And if we will trust Him, We all will be fed

With showers of blessings last come from His love, Desconding from heaven, The city above.

DIVINE ASSURANCE. Given by the Spirit through Elder Joseph Luff, June, 1911. Tune, "Lead Kindly Light."

Sweet unto me the voice of supplication
From hearts sincere.
Sweet to my car the humble adoration
That greets me here. Be glad of heart; let not thy faith decline, I still am near and thou art ever mine

Walk in the light that on thy path now shineth-Church of my choice—
And whatsoe'er to me thy heart inclineth, Heed as my voice.

Talk not of night, nor give to sadness room-I am thy God, fore'er dismiss thy gloom.

Whose in love my counsel shall obey, No fear need know; My hand shall guide their feet and guard their way 'Gainst every foe, Yes, I will lead, thou shalt not plead in vain; My covenant with Zion shall remain

Lift up thine eyes! thy skies are now aglow With rays divine!

I am thy light! and o'er thy course below Fore'er will shine.

My Spirit shall thy daily portion be, And thou art safe if thou!'t abide in me.

In North Carolina under prohibition the average annual increase in property valuation has been over $54,000,000.

Maine, from 1900 to 1910, increased its taxable property more than $11,000,000 a year.

In Kansas there has been an increase of $120,000,000 every year for ten years. In 1880 under license the tar rate was 5.5 mills on the dollar; in 1914, after thirtythree years of prohibition, it has been reduced to 1.2 mills.

(Continued from page 3)

Chico, Calif., Nov. 28.
Editor Ensign:—Bro. C. J. Cady and I came to these parts during the first week in September and I was much surprised to find such a good branch here. The local work under the presidency of Elder H. A. Hintz, we found to be doing nicely. The branch has a very neat little church in which to worship and all meetings have been well attended since we have been here. They know how to take good care of a missionary too and could teach some of the larger branches a lesson in that re-teach some of the larger branches a lesson in that regard. We had turkey for Thanksgiving and hope the other missionaries were as fortunate.

The gospel tent belonging to the Northern California
District had been stored here last fall by Brethren Stead and Reiste and we unpacked it and held tent services for about five weeks with a fair interest. We succeeded in getting our work before many who had never heard it before. Six were baptized and others are still investigating and we hope to see them take the step soon. The tent is very large and as the evenings grew cooler we could not well keep it warm enough to be comfortable, so we closed our meetings on Oct. 20 and packed the tent up for the season.

We tried holding meetings for several Sundays in one We tried holding meetings for several Sundays in one of the school houses about three miles out in the country, but little interest was manifest, though a few came out to hear. Then we tried Nord, a little village seven miles north of here. We secured permission to hold forth in the Methodist Church. A genuine interest was manifest from the start and we have been preaching there for several weeks and they seem to still want to hear

As necessity demanded, a few of the Saints assembled on the banks of the Big Chico last Tuesday and three more were buried beneath the liquid wave to arise to a newwere buried beneath the liquid wave to arise to a new-ness of life. One was a very fine young lady from Nord and the other two were the daughters of Sr. Jessie M. Chase, formerly of Colorado. My father baptized Sr. Chase in Denver in 1895 and it seemed rather unusual that I should have the pleasure of baptizing her chil-dren. Several more from Nord have expressed their intention of uniting with the work, and we sincerely hope

Bro. Cady and I made a little missionary trip to Paradise also where we stayed two days. This is not the Third Heaven, as some might suppose, but is a nice little town up above Chico in the foot hills among the pines. We canvassed the neighborhood distributing tracts and talking gospel and held meetings in the town hall with an attendance of 15. Some seemed interested and we may return there later.

My mind often turns toward those who were so kind to me in my travels in the Hawiian Islands and as I have not time to write to them personally I take this means of extending my greeting, saying, "Aloha nui ia oukeu apau.

Praying that the work everywhere may have abundant access and with implicit confidence in the final triumph of the truth.

In gospel bonds, M. A. McConley.

Thayer, Mo., Nov. 30.

Dear Ensign:—To the Saints of the Southern Missouri district: I wish you a merry Christmas and a happy new year, and as the year is near to a close and our works will be on record, to forever stand, let us honor God's law by paying our tithes into his store house that there may be plenty for all. Let us have our names on there may be plenty for all. Let us have our names on the bishop's books for the year 1914, if it is for but $1.00, so when the reckoning time comes we will bave on record that will show we have honored God's law in a financial way. There are a number of Saints in this district who have never paid tithes. The Lord says in Doctrine and Covenanta he that is tithed shall not be burned. How are we to escape this? By honoring God's laws, not a part of them, but all. For the progress of this latter day work depends much on the Saints. If they fail to do their duty in a financial way then our missionaries will have to be called in because there will be nothing in the star-shapes for their families.

in the storehouse for their families.

Then let us ask ourselves the question, whose fault is it, then if we are honest with ourselves and with God, we will confess that it is our fault.

we will consess that it is our fault.

So let us make a resolution like one of God's servants of old—"As for me and my house we will serve God."

So Saints let us put it all on the altar for the Lord, and when we come before him we will hear it said, "well done thou good and faithful servant, enter thou into the joy

Yours in gospel bonds, Geo. A. Davis, Bishop's Agent.

Kansas City, Kans., Nov. 28.

Editor Ensign:—I am a poor hard working young man. My father has been in the Independence Sanitarium for any latter has seen in the interpendence santarium for awhile. He was so bad when he went, but we think he is better now. Mother has gone to see him every day. They think it is grand, that it is a fine place for a sick person. They are all so good and kind, and Doctor Harrington is the right man in the right place.

I have been working with a carpenter and also mixing vectors and that it have been working with a carpenter and also mixing mortar, and that is hard for my condition and if any one could inform me of something, better I would be glad. My parents need me at home till father gets better, as I am all the help mother has. I love to read the dear Ensign. Trusting you will remember us in your prayers. May God bless you is my prayer. ou is my prayer. Your brother in the faith, Ed Jordan.

Dexter, Mo., Nov. 22.

Dexter, Mo., Nov. 22.

Editor Ensign:—Please accept my thanks for the continuation of my paper after expiration. I could not do without it. I have been a reader of it every since the second week of its publication and expect to read it as long as I live. I am seventy-two and I have been a memlong as I live. I am seventy-two and I have been a member fifty-five years. I am lonely for church fellowship. I love the work and know this is the true church. I could give some strong testimonies, and I have been greatly blessed in sickness. Though I am far from any elder God will care for his children. I have not heard a sermon for nine years. All the sermons I have had I have read in the "silent preacher." I lend my papers to all who will read them. nem. Your sister in Christ, Mary A. Asa.

Enola, Ark., Nov. 19. Editor Ensign:-I was requested by my mother on her Editor Ensign:—I was requested by my mother on her death hed that I would write and let the church know of her death. Her maiden name was Arissa Am Hill. She was born in Kentucky, Aug. 24, 1849. She moved to Arkansas when four or five years old. Was united in marriage to Jessie Hendrickson Jan. 24, 1884, and to this union three children were born, only one surviving her, together with her husband. She was paptized into the Reorganized Church of Jesus Christ of Latter Parks and the Christ of March 1869. into the Reorganized Church of Jesus Christ of Latter Day Saints October 7, 1894, by J. D. Erwin and she lived a faithful member until the time of her death, Nov. 5, 1914. She died at the age of 64 years, 2 months, 12 days. She leaves a husband, one child and a host of friends to mourn their loss.

Mrs. Jettie McCord.

DEPARTMENT OF Woman's Auxiliary for Social Service

MRS. MAUDE MILLS, EDITOR, 1514 W. Short St., Independence, Mo.

NOTICE.

All persons sending money to the Woman's Auxiliary for any purpose, including subscriptions to Home and Child Welfare leatlets, or Children's Home donations, please forward same to the treasurer of the Auxiliary, Mrs. J. A. Gardner, 711 S. Fuller Ave., Independence Mo. AUSCOPE ROLADD.

ADVISORY BOARD.

ADVISORY BOARD.

Mrs. S. R. Burgess, President, 5978 Etzel Ave., St. Louis, Mo.

Mrs. B. C. Smith, Vice President, 214 S. Spring St., Independ-MIS, B. C. Smith, vice 1 (2014).

Miss Minnie E. Scott. Secretary, 309 S. Fuller Ave., Independence, M. Mrs. J. A. Gardner, Treasurer, 711 S. Fuller Ave., Independence,

Mrs. M. A. Etzenhouser, 1595 W. Walnut St., Independence, Mo. Mrs. D. J. Krahl, 714 S. Crysler St., Independence, Mo.

THE SUNDAY DINNER.

In keeping the Sabbath many women forget that it is their duty to do as much of the Sunday cooking as postheir duty to do as much of the Sunday cooking as possible on Saturday. Simply because our meals are a necessity does not justify a woman in cooking a great deal on Sunday and especially in allowing it to take so much of her time as to keep her from attending services which she otherwise could attend. There are varied ways of managing this important question but it should be planned in some manner so as to eliminate as much work on Sunday as possible. We would be glad if every young wife when first learning to manage her own home would firmly resolve to do as little labor on Sunday as it is possible to get along with, and thus form a good habit to always be carried, on in her home. We once heard a young sister excusing her mother for always being absent from the Sunday morning service by saying that she, the mother, always cooked a large dinner on Sunday and she had never gotten in the habit of preparing for it on Saturday. The daughter had suggested and tried to carry out the better plan but the mother did not like the added work on Saturday and preferred to carry on her work according to life-time habit. So beware young house wives lest you cultivate the same useless and wrong habit and get so wedded to it that you will feel after a time that you cannot change.

And this is more than a mere matter of ophilon. We have been commanded along this line in latter day revelation. "Let thy food be prepared with singleness of heart." "And that thou mayest more fully keep thyself unspotted from the world, thou shalt go to the house of prayer and offer up thy sacraments upon my holy day;

unspotted from the world, thou shalt go to the house of prayer and offer up thy sacraments upon my holy day; for verily this is a day appointed unto you to rest from your labors, and to pay thy devotions unto the Most High." These commandments cannot be carried out by the cook of the household unless she gives it considerable thought and planning. But fortunately the Lord does not command us to do impossible things, so let us set about an intelligent discovery of means to attain an end which will harmonize with the Lord's commands.

Probably the most beneficial plan and the highest one which we can attain is to olan more simple food for to which we can attain is to plan more simple food for our Sunday dinner than we may do for other days. But as we are forced to deal with general conditions as they now prevail among the saints, the nearest approach would be to do as little of the work of preparation on that day as possible. For it is quite a general custom I think for the best meal of the week to come at Sunday dinner. Some arguments seem to favor this custom, but can hardly outweigh the word of the Lord in Sec. 59, par. 3, where we are told to prepare our food with singleness of heart "that thy fasting may be perfect."

"that thy fasting may be perfect."

We know of some women who cook everything on Saturday, which is to be served on Sunday. Others prepare everything which should be served warm and use the fireless cooker with very little work attached, on Sunday morning. In our family the latter method is used with oxcellent results, at all times of year when warm food is needful; but often during the summer everything is ready for putting on the table for dinner before we retire on Saturday night. Had not these plans been practiced we would surely have to decline to do work in the Sunday school, and the privilere of Sunday work in the Sunday school, and the privilege of Sunday morning services sometimes.

All vegetables should be prepared on Saturday even-ing ready to put in the kettles for cooking, and no baking of any kind should be left for Sunday morning. Make these rules your habit and never swerve from them unless circumstances compel you. Don't be easily moved by this excuse or that into breaking over, but moved by this excuse or that into breaking over, our carefully watch and plan for the execution of what you will find to be an excellent plan of action. Then you will find not only more time on Sunday in which to worship God, but a mind and heart more in tune for that worship, which makes it doubly beneficial.

NUTRITIVE VALUE OF FOOD.

In the first place let us determine just what is food. In the first place let us determine just what is 1000.

The most concise and comprehensive definition I find is this: "A food is any substance which when taken into the body is capable of repairing waste, building new tissues, or yielding energy or heat."

The body is composed of chemical substances very similar to those of the foods which nourish it, so the thing similar to those of the foods which nourse it, so the thing for us to do it to supply the body with these necessary elements in the right proportion. For the sake of those who may not have taken time to study closely the classi-fication of common foods, will state that there are five main divisions or classes: fats, proteins, carbohydrates, mineral matter, and water.

Water is one of the most important of these and forms over sixty per cent of the weight of the ave and forms over sixty per cent of the weight of the average man, being a component part of all the muscles, fluids, and other parts of the body. It carries off waste tissue through the kidneys and also by means of perspiration. In the joints if turnishes the liquid part of the lubricating material. It regulates the body temperature through perspiration and the blood. It acts as cleanser both internally, and externally. We should drink daily no less than two and one third pints.

Next, to water in importance are the mineral salts.

Next to water in importance are the mineral salts which form a part of the bone, blood, muscles, fluids, and secretions. They maintain proper density and quality of blood for its best work in carrying food and waste, provide proper media for best work of the digestive juices, stimulate involuntary muscular action, prevent dis ation of body tissue, and make necessary chemical changes possible. The only one used in the free state is common salt. All others are found in different food stuffs. Calclum predominates in milk and is the bone-forming element. The lack of calcium causes "rickets" in children. Iron is found in beef, egg yolk, fresh vegetables, as spinach, onion, also in fruits. Phosphorus is in meats, cereals, peas, and beans.

The carbobydrates are the foods which furnish energy for heat and work and also may be stored as reserve energy in the shape of fat. Vegetables and fruits come under this class and all the starchy foods, sugar, cereals, honey and grain.

noney and grain.

The proteins include lean meats, egg white, dry codfish, pees, beans, lentils, and these are the tissue building foods.

Under fair we have butter, lard, olive oil, cream, peanut oil, and cotton seed oil. Then we have foods which come under both fairs and proteins as: cheese, sat pork, eggs, bason, salmon. Fats are chiefly to furnish heat although they give some energy.

Thus we see how necessary it is to have our menus varied so as, to include foods containing all of these different food principles. The person who tries to live on tea and toast will soon feel keenly the want of proper nourishment.

"We live not upon what we eat, but upon what we digest." Food as it comes from the market is not usually in a condition to be made into body structure nor to be used as body fuel. It must first undergo a series of chemical changes which we call digestion. This prepares it to be absorbed into the blood and lymph and carried to the various parts of the body where it may be needed. However there is much which we may do to render food more easily digested by proper methods of cooking. ooking.

Here are some points to be remembered about the cooking of eggs—one of the most common foods. Always cook them at low temperature to obtain proper coagulation of albumin. Boiling temperature to obtain proper coagulation of albumin. Boiling temperature changes it into a tough and leathery substance. For soft cooked eggs, pour boiling water over eggs, using one cufful of water to each egg. Draw to cool part of range and let stand from eight to ten minutes.

Hard cooked eggs prepare same as for soft cooked. Let stand from thirty to forty-five.

A good receipt for baked eggs.
2 Tablespoons soft bread crumbs.

1 tablespoon thin cream.

egg.

Salt and pepper to taste.

of buttered individual baking dish with erumbs. Break the egg, slip on to the crumbs, Add seasoning, cover with remaining crumbs, add cream, and bake in moderate oven until white is set.

Bertha Anderson-Hulmes.

Supt. of Domestic Science Dept.

MISCELLANEOUS

NOTICES.

To the Saints of Oklahoma and Arkansas:-

J. D. Evini is reported to be assuming at times the rights and prerogatives of a minister among the Saints of Oklahoma and Arkansas. Notice has heretofore been published to the effect Brother Erwin is under silence and is not authorized to represent the church, although he has persistently refused to surrender his license. This is to again notify the Saints that J. D. Erwin should not be permitted to officiate in the priesthood in any way and his ministerial acts will not be recognized by the church. Branch authorities in these districts should see to it that he is not permitted to impose upon the Saints as a minister of the gospel.

Frederick M. Smith, Sec. First Pres. Wm. M. Aylor; Minister in charge.

Independence, Mo., December 3, 1914.

APPOINTMENT.

With concurrence of the Presidency and the signed, Elder Thomas Newton has been appointed to labor in the S. E. Illinois District; and Priest A. C. Martin has been appointed to labor in Southern Kansas (unorgan-Respectfully,
John W. Rushton.
President of Mission No. 2. ized territory).

MISSION ADDRESS.

James C. Page, Taylor, N. Dak.

A PERSONAL LETTER.

Dear Brother or Sister:—

Are you acquainted with the work of your own missionary paper, Zion's Ensign?

sionary paper, Zion's Ensign?

Have you ever thought of the liberality of the Ensign Publishing House in sending the Ensign to thousands of non-members at a nominal price? And do you know that it is not possible to do so unless the first cost is met by a sufficient number of full priced subscriptions?

Do you know that the Ensign Publishing House has been built up and paid for entirely in a few years without costing the Church a cent or the investment of a dollor, and that it is your institution?

Did you ever think how the light of the gosnel has

Did you ever think how the light of the gospel has een sent to hundreds of dear souls through Zion's Ensign?

you not know that hundreds of dear Saints have stated that they knew nothing of the restored gospel until some one sent them the Ensign?

Do you know that the Ensign has been known and recognized as the "Silent Preacher"? This because of its missionary work.

Do you know that the Ensign has served as a fore-runner to the missionary, educating and preparing many, and in many instances making them ready for baptism when he arrives?

If you are not taking the Ensign don't you know that you are missing a great many good things that your missionary paper contains?

And, if you are not taking the Ensign you are not helping to make it possible to send it as a missionary helper, in making many acquainted with the gospel who otherwise would know nothing of it.

The Ensign is unlike most other papers which are filled with paying advertisements—the income to support it being almost entirely from subscriptions and the readers get the benefit of full pages of reading matter instead of half filled with advertising, and yet it is published at only $1.00 a year.

Do you know that the success of your missionary paper depends on you, not for your donation, but for your nage, you to get full value for every cent you pay

If you are not already a subscriber you may not know how the Ensign is featured. The first page is generally devoted to good sound editorials, mostly on gospel themes; this is followed by local items from the larger Branches, then letters from the missionaries, giving accounts of their labors and the prospects of the work in the various fields of labor including Australia, England, Palestine, Society Islands, Hawaii, Scandinavia and other places. There are also letters from brethren and sisters, bearing strong testimonies to the truthfulness of the work and strong testimonies to the truthfulness of the work and relating interesting experiences. The letters are followed by sermons and abbe articles on subjects connected with God's work. A portion of the paper is set apart for the Woman's Auxiliary, where topics of interest to their de-partment of the work are discussed. The rest of the paper is taken up with miscellaneous matter.

This appeal is made to you, brother or sister, in your own personal interest, as well as in the interest of the church in general in the way of spreading the gospel, because the Esign belongs to you individually as well as collectively. Let us hear from you.

Ensign Publishing House,

THE YEARLY OFFER ON THE ENSIGN.

November and December are bargain months as usual, during which time the Ensign will be sent to non-mem-bers at half price. This offer, as usual is good only in bers at half price. This offer, as usual is good only in the United States possessions, as the extra postage to foreign countries prohibits this offer extending there. It is good only during the months of November and December. It is unfair and hardly honorable for member to stop their paper and then subscribe in the name of a member of their family who does not belong to the church for the sake of getting it at half price. That is not the object of this offer. It is for the sake of spreading the gospel among outsiders.

No subscription on this offer is acceptable for less than 25 cents.

than 25 cents

Address, Ensign Publishing House, Independence, Mo.

CONFERENCE MINUTES.

The Eastern Montana District Conference convened with the Culbertson branch at Andes, Montana, Nov. 21. District President, Walter Hillman associated with J. C.

District President, Page presiding, Reports: Culbertson 57, gain 14; Fairriew 25, gain 2. Present district officers were sustained until the next district conference. A committee was appointed to draft. Present district oneers were sustained until the next district conference. A committee was appointed to draft a set of rules for the district to be presented to the next conference for adoption. Time and place of next confer-ence was left to the district presidency and minister in charge.

Lester Bronson and Chester Constance were ordained elders by W. P. Bootman and J. C. Page. Joseph Johnson was ordained a priest by J. C. Page and W. P. Bootman. was ordained a priest by J. C. Page and W. P. Bootman, three were confirmed members of the church during the conference. Sr. J. C. Page was chosen as a member of the district library board. W. P. Bootman was chosen as our delegate to general conference. Preaching by W. P. Bootman, J. C. Page and Robert Newby. Attendance was fair and a very spiritual conference was enjoyed. Adjourned to meet at call of district presidency.

Chester Constance, Sec.

Vida, Montana

CONVENTION MINUTES.

Eastern Montana Religio convention met at Andes, Eastern Montana Religio convention met at Andes, Montana, at 2:30 p. m., Nov. 20. Officers elected: President, Lester Bronson; vice president, Mark Hutchison;
secretary, Chester Constance; treasurer, Arthur Ritter; member of district library board, Carl B. Freeman; superintendent Temperance Department, Eli Bronson. Superintendent Home Department, Cora Bronson. A committee was chosen to draw up rules of representation and by-laws for the district to report to next convention.

and by-laws for the district to report to next convention. The following were chosen as delegates to the general convention: J. C. Page, Lester Bronson, Robert Newby, Sr. Robert Newby, Jot Bronson, W. P. Bootman, and Laura Stout. Time and place of next convention left with the executive committee. Adjourned as per resolution

Chester Constance, Sec.

Vida, Montana.

DIED.

DIED.

Williams.—James Williams of Bevier, Mo., died at St.
Joseph, Mo., Nov. 24, 1914, aged 75. He was born in England, January 15, 1839, and came to this country when a young man, settling in Pennsylvania. Having lost his first wife he was married to Dorothy Davison in 1861, who survives him. The aged couple came to spend the winter with their daughter, Mrs. Howe, at St.
Lecenh, where he died. He leaves three sons and five Joseph, where he died. He leaves three sons and five daughters. Funeral services conducted by Charles Fry. The remains were sent to Bevier for interment.

Miller.—Mrs. M. M. Knight Miller, nee Boyd, was born near Thompsonville, Franklin County, Illinois, July 7, 1840. Was married to Joshua L. Knight, Oct. 29, 1863, 1840. Was married to Joshua L. Knight, Oct. 29, 1868, to which union were born seven children, five boys and two girls, four of whom still survive. The husband and father Joshua L. Knight died near Thompsonville, Ill., during September, 1876, leaving the care of the family entirely in the hands and to the efforts of the mother entirely in the hands and to the chorts of the mother who bravely assumed the responsibility until the Autumn of 1881 at which time she was again married to Isaac the continued of the state of the sta of Latter Day Saints in which faith she continued stead-fast until her death, Sep. 6, 1914, at Cape Girardeau, Mo., while on an extended visit to her son George M. Knight. Her remains were laid to rest in the family cemetery in Mill Springs, Mo.

ENSIGN PUBLICATIONS.

And Other Books for Sale by the Ensign Publishing House.

Zion's Ensign the missionary paper, containing gospel sermons and articles, and the news and interesting letters. Per year $1.00 st Mornen Dictionary. A complete pronouncing Dictionary of proper names in the Book of Mornen, with definitions and explanatory notes. Paper, 25c; cloth, 40c; leather $3.65 teather $3.6

notes. Paper, 25c; cottn, avoc;
Doctrinal References. A compilation of references under subject headings of texts connected with the gospel, taken from the Bible, Book of Mormon and Doctrine and Doctr

S126—Same as S125, with button clasp.$2.35
S130—Same as S126, leather lined ....$2.70
H15—A fine little Bible at a low price.
French Morocco, divinity circuit,
red under gold edges, flexible, overlapping cover. Size, 5 % x3 % ....$1.25
H16—Same as H16, but has button clasp...
$1.35
F65X—India Paper edition, French Morocco, divinity circuit, red under gold edges. Size, 5 % x3 %, only % inch thick. ....$1.50
F66X—Same as F65X, with button clasp
$1.50
F66X—Same as F65X, with button clasp
$1.50
F66X—Same as F65X, with button clasp

Large type Bible in small compass, 81.60

Large type Bible in small compass, 82%25½, 1 inch thick, India paper, French Morocco, divinity circuit, red under gold $2.80

Same as R65X, except binding French Levant and leather lined. $4.25

NEW TESTAMENTS.

E212—French Mcrocco, limp, red under $0.30
E253—Lambakic, divinity circuity, limp, round corners, red under gold, $0.30 $0.40
$0.50
FORD Hill Experiment of the corners in the corners of the corners of the corners, red under gold, deges, black faced type, thin India paper. This is a beautiful little

Bible. Because of the thin India paper it is only % of an inch thick.

-Alaska Seal binding, otherwise the same as 04207X ......$4.50 a-maissa seat binding, otherwise the same as 04207X ... $4.50.

French Morocco, divinity circuit, round corners, red under gold edges, nonparell type, self-pronouncing, maps and 32 photo views of scenes in Bible lands.... $1.35.

The Bible for the home use Large, clear print, French Morocco, divinty circuit, round corners, red under gold edges ... $2.60

K.-A model Bible Ladia search bit.

3203X—A model Bible. India paper, black faced minon type, French Morocco, divinity circuit, linen lined, round corners, red under gold edges, 7½x 5¾ inches $2.76 03581X

OXFORD TESTAMENTS.

ENSIGN PUBLISHING HOUSE, Independence, Mo.

OFFICERS VISITING CARD

We have for sale a universal visiting card to be used by Branch Officers. It is arragned with spaces for recording names of those in families belonging to the church and also for those not belonging, space for noting condition, dates of visitis (day, month and year), and names of visiting officers, also space for remarks. This card when properly filled out shows the names of all members of the family visited, non-members as well as members and whether their spiritual condition is excellent, fair or poor, the name of the officer visiting the family and the date of the visit, also the address of the family, and any other information it might be wise to add under head of Remarks. There should be at least use card for every family in the branch are card for every family and the hadden is a content of the officer of the card of

NOW FOR CHRISTMAS!!

In addition to the many Bibles we have on hand we have added another line of five choice ones, and none very expensive. The first three are beautifully printed in red and black—all of Christ's sayings in the New Testament and all reference to Him in New Testament and all reference to Him in the Old and New Testament are printed in red. This is a very useful feature. For in-stance, in turning the leaves whenever any-thing is observed in red it will be known that it is either the Master's sayings or something in reference to Him. They are beautfully printed and bound, and either one of the five here listed will make a fine Christmas negent. The last two are fine one of the nive need listed will make it in Christmas present. The last two are fine large Teacher's Bibles, self-pronouncing and large type. Order by number and be careful to get the number right. Don't put off ordering, as you will be disappointed in not getting your book in time for Christ-

63454—Beautifully printed with heavy faced minion type in red and black. All of Christ's sayings and passages alluding to him are printed in red. French Morocco, divinity cir-

UNITED ORDER OF ENOCH HOUSE.

Everybody Welcome, Saints and Strangers No. 102 North River Boulevard, near the Stone hurch. Best accommodations. Prices reasonable. Bell Phone 613

Chas. A. and Amy T. Gurwell IN CHARGE

FOR SALE OR RENT
The former home of H. R. Mills on West
Short Street is offered for sale .or rent
Lot 75x200, South front. House, nine rooms besides closets. Strictly modern.
Good barn and woodshed. Terms easy.
Apply to A. H. Mills, Independence, Mo.

UNIVERSAL DIARY.

We now have a universal diary, suitable for any minister from deacon up, made to conform with the universal report blanks. They are the same size and shape as the diaries we have hitherto had for sale, but will contain about double the number of pages, there being about 24 pages in the front and back for a financial record, and space for 12 months record of ministerial work performed. The price is the same as the others were sold at, only 10 cents. Address Ensign Publishing House, Independence, Mo.

SPECIAL NOTICE

The attention for the readers at the Essien is called Collection of the Property of the Collection of the Property of the Collection of the Property of the Collection of the attention given to Anesthetica

FOR SALE .-- Good, dry wood, ready for the stove. Call, Bell 23K4. W. E. MESSENGER, M. D.

Physician and Surgeon. Calls answered day or night. Office and Residence 806 W. Maple Ave. Independence, Mo. Independence, Mo. Bell Phone 12

L. A. INMAN Piano And Furniture Mover

Stand West Side Square Household Goods Packed, Shipped and Stored Bell Phone 1231 Res, 915 S. Crysler Independence, Mo,

Loose Leaf Sheets For Local Religio Secretary's Record

Per dozen, 10 cents; per 100,$0.60 If you have not seen them, send for free sample to

> ENSIGN PUBLISHING HOUSE, Independence, Mo.

Universal Class Card

Send for sample of the Universal Class Cards, for use in both Sunday School and Religio. The Independence Schools have them in general use.

Price per doz 8 cents, per 100 60 cents ENSIGN PUBLISHING HOUSE,

Independence, Mo

THE BOOK YOU'VE BEEN WAITING FOR

YOUNG PEOPLE'S HISTORY NOW READY Especially Suitable for Holiday Gift

WHAT IT IS

An interesting history of a peculiar organization—the Latter Day Saint Church. As readable as a story, yet every historical statement has been carefully written and may be relied on. All the important events of Church history are mentioned in their proper relation to other events, with just enough of detail to incite and hold the interest. The book is intended to interest the young especially, and make the general church history already published in four volumes of greater value because of added interest in it.

DATES COVERED

It begins with the remarkable visit of the angel to the young lad, Joseph Smith, in the year 1820, and tells the interesting story from that date till the sad breaking up of the church following the death of Joseph and Hy-rum Smith. The last chapter closes with the year 1848, the beginning of the gathering of the scattered people for the Reorganization.

Anyone can arrange dates and events in their order, but not everyone can make that arrangement readable. The principal events of church history took place in widely separated places, and it is no easy task to make the history seem consecutive, yet we believe this has been done in a pleasing manner. The dates of the events are over each page, so one can easily locate them. There are numerous side notes in the reading page, showing at a glance the principal facts treated on in the page. The type is the pica, a large face, with the footnotes in brevier. No eyestrain. Bound in durable cloth. Size 5½ by 8 inches, over 400 pages.

THE ILLUSTRATIONS.

There are over ninety illustrations, mostly from photographs of places of interest to every Latter Day Saint. Then there are pictures of pages of the old-time publications, and some interesting relics as naturally interest when reading a book of this kind. There are a great number of pictures of men who helped to make the history of the church. The illustrations are a valuable feature of the book.

THE AUTHOR

The book was written by Mrs. Vida E. Smith, wife of Church Historian Heman C. Smith. She is well known to church members in general by her poems and other literary productions. Her long association with the people and things historical, coupled with her natural ability, enables her to present all these matters in a pleasing and attractive manner.

ORDER TO-DAY

Price $1, Postpaid

HERALD PUBLISHING HOUSE Lamoni, Iowa.

************

ZION'S ENSIGN

Entered at the Post Office at Independence, Mo., as Second Class Matter

OUR CREED: "ALL TRUTH."

VOL. 25

INDEPENDENCE, MISSOURI, THURSDAY, DECEMBER 11, 1914

NO. 51

President Joseph Smith is Dead

President Joseph Smith died at 1 p. m. Thursday, December 10, 1914. He was conscious until the last and peacefully passed away with a smile on his face, thus finishing a long life of usefulness in the service of the master and for the uplift of humanity. On the morning of Thursday, November 26 he was taken suddenly ill, and at one time during that day those watching over him thought life had gone out, but he revived and his condition was intermittent from that time, better then worse, and on Sunday, December 6, he seemed to be so much better that hopes were entertained of recovery, but on Monday came a change for the worse, and he gradually grew weaker until the sad end came. Sad indeed for those left behind, but joyous to our noble and good prophet and president. He welcomed the released and was glad to be called home to mingle with the worthies of past ages.

Naturally we mourn, we feel heart broken, but he has left his record behind for our consolation, a well spent life, a noble career, and instruction. As God's mouth-piece he has left words for the guidance of the church over which he was the earthly head. Although his usefulness as regards active work in the church was at an end, yet we hoped that the Lord would spare him to us yet awhile. But the Lord knew best and took him home. He is gone to his reward for his labors. Gone! yet he will live on in memory for generations to come. He will live on with the prophets and patriarchs of old, never to be forgotten. Blessed be the dead that die in the Lord.

W. H. D.

ARRANGEMENTS FOR THE FUNERAL SERVICES.

The services will be held at the Stone Church, West Electric St., Sunday at 2 o'clock. Elder Joseph Luff will preach the sermon and will be associated with Bishop E. L. Kelley and G. E. Harrington who will have charge.

All regular services will be dispensed with, and the body of President Smith will lie in state at the Church from 8 a. m. till 1 p. m. for those who wish to view it.

Interment will be at Mound Grove cemetery, Independence, Mo.

President Smith left the following instructions regarding the funeral:

To my son, Frederick M. Smith, Counselor, and E. L. Kelley, Bishop of the Church:

I make the following suggestions, touching what I desire to be observed regarding the funeral services and funeral of my body when death occurs:

First. I do not desire an expensive funeral service. A plain casket dressed in black, without metal trimmings, similar to those in which the bodies of the Saints at the Saints' Home are laid at rest in, is all I desire.

Second. I want the funeral services to be without extra expense, as I desire no ostentatious display, either in draping the pulpit or the building.

Third. I wish no expense to be incurred further than absolutely necessary for carriages or any other show of service.

Fourth. I desire that my body be clothed in such ordinary clothing as I have at my disposition at the time of my death. I do not want my black suit used for that purpose, as it has been a favorite of mine.

Fifth, I desire that there shall be no lavish display of flowers. A single wreath of native grown flowers, should my death occur in the flower season, will be all sufficient, either on the casket or at the grave. Should my death occur in seasonable weather, I should like that my body might be exposed in the casket in the open air on the Church lawn, where as many as choose to review the remains could do so. If in the cold weather, the ordinary routine of viewing the body will be satisfactory.

Sixth. I desire that there shall be no extra song service. The ordinary funeral hymns which our books contain will be preferred. I have no preference as to who shall preach the funeral sermon, but should like the services to be under the charge of the branch authorities, my body to be consigned to the care of the Mound Grove Cemetery authorities. I should like the choir or selected singers to use the following hymns, in their order: No. 135 and No. 187 in the Saints' Hymnal; and if the weather is seasonable, let the hymn, "There is a Land Immortal," 207 in the Saints' Hymnal, be sung at the grave before the benediction.

PRESIDENT JOSEPH SMITH

As to other arrangements not named here I leave them for consideration between my son, Frederick M., Bishop Kelley, and the branch authorities.

Signed, Joseph Smith. Independence, Mo., March 29, 1911.

DESIRED TO GO.

For some years our beloved Prophet has felt that his work was drawing to a close, and when his last sickness came upon him nearly three weeks ago, he expressed a desire to go, and requested that the saints do not hold him by praying for his recovery but to pray that he might be permitted to depart in peace. During his illness he was cheerful and often jovial, his mind being clear and active. He constantly inquired after current events in the Church and in the world.

In his illness he was waited upon by Doctors
Joseph Luff and G. Leonard Harrington and Nurses Miss Mabel Clark and Mrs J. W. Peterson.

THE CHURCH IN MOURNING.

Notwithstanding his advanced age, and the repeated warnings of his recent illness, the death of President Smith came as a great shock to the Church. He was a man greatly beloved of his people because of his humility and uprightness of character, and his pearly fifty-five years of official association with them, and had won a deep and abiding place in their affections. The Church throughout the world mourns the loss of one dearly beloved. The influence of his life and work will not be fully appreciated by the world ,nor the Church, until future years shall bring the rich harvest of his sowing.

THE TWELVE CALLED.

Announcement of the death of President Smith has been made by telegram to each member of th Quorum of Twelve except Bro. U. W. Greene, with the request that they come to Independence, where a council of the leading authorities of the Church will be held to make proper arrangements for the carrying on of the Church work until general conference convenes in April.

Since the entrance of Turkey into the European war no word has passed to or from Apostle U. W. Greene who was then in Palestine and whose whereabouts are at present unknown, It being impossible to reach him no word was sent.

BIOGRAPHY BY THE CHURCH HISTORIAN.

President Joseph Smith, Son of Joseph Smith, the Prophet, and Emma Hale Smith, daughter of Isaac Hale, was born November 6, 1832, at Kirtland, Ohio. The Smith family came to America in 1638, sectling at Topsfield, Mass., where they lived for one hundrel and fifty years or more and maintained an honorable name. No suspicion of evil attached to the family name until the religious movement began with which they were so prominently connected. Then their names were used in connection with disreputable stories as a religious persecution. Some members of this family were prominent in the founding of the Government of the United States, and Captain Asael Smith, Grandfather of the Prophet, was engaged at the head of his company in the battle of Lexington and Concord April 19, 1775. Samuel Smith, the father of Asael Smith was a member of the legislature of Massachusetts for several succeeding terms. The families into which the Smith family married in these early days, the Frenches, the Townes, the Goulds, the Curtises, the Dutys, the Macks, the Golds, and the Hales were all families of high respectability.

The story of the Prophet Joseph Smith in translating the Book of Mormon from the golden plates is well known. His chief counselor, advisor, and co-worker, Oliver Cowdery, was also a member of a family of great distinction among the nobility of England. They came to America in 1630 and settled at Lynn, Mass., but there is no evidence that the two families ever became acquainted while in Massachusetts nor in Vermont, where they again resided near to each other but after members of both families went to New York, Joseph Smith and Oliver Cowdery became associated and were the prime movers in this religious movement that has gained such notoriety in the world.

President Smith passed through the trials and persecutions that his father was subject to while in his boyhood, and in 1838 was thrust from his father at the point of a sword by a mob militia, and when under the cruel edict of Governor Boggs of Missouri, his mother and her children left the State while his father was confined in a dungeon, he clung to his mother's clothes while crossing the Mississippi River on the ice.

He was familiar with the scenes at Nauvoo and had a very distinct memory of some of the leading acts of his father and some of the teachings. His father on several occasions in public and private declared that he should be his successor, and when Brigham Young lead a party valleys of the mountains, Emma Smith, the President's mother stayed in Nauvoo with her children and reared them up with a love for honesty, sobriety and virtue, and instilled into their minds a hatred for immorality and evil practices especially polygamy and its kindred evils. President Smith had three brothers who were reared to manhood, namely; Frederick, Alexander and David. All of these were as uncompromising opponents of the evils of the Utah system as was President Smith. They all passed away before President Smith, each leaving a posterity of honorable, virtuous citizens, not one of whom has ever been in any way allied with the people of Utah, nor has any person connected with this family by marriage ever given allegiance. to those evils. President Smith associated with that part of the membership of the church under his father who protested against the work of Brigham Young and his colleagues, and in 1860 was accepted as President of the Reorganized Church of Jesus Christ of Latter Day Saints, to which position he was entitled by the organic law of the church, as well as his appointment by his father. He has held this position from that time until this by unanimous consent, there never having been a single vote to the contrary, thus sustained each succeeding annual Conference.

In 1855 President Smith was married to Miss Emaline Griswold at Nauvoo, Hancock County, Illinois. By this marriage three daughters were reared to womanhood, namely; Emma J., wife of Alexnder McCallum of Independence, Missouri, Carrie L., wife of F. M. Weld of Lamoni, Iowa, and Zaide V., now deceased, who was the wife of R. S. Salyards, now Secretary of the Church, of Lamoni, Iowa. President Smith's wife died in 1869 and he subsequently married Miss Bertha Madison, Who was the mother of Frederick M., Israel A. and Hale W. Smith, all of Independence, Missouri, Audentia M., wife of B. M. Anderson, of Independence, Missouri, and Lucy Y., wife of J. M. Lysinger of Lamoni, Iowa. His second wife died in 1896 and subsequently he married Miss Ada Clark, who survives him. She has three sons, all living, namely; R. C., Wallace and Reginald. All his living children were present during his last illness and death. His nephews, Elbert A., son of his brother David, and Frederick A., Joseph G., and Arthur M., and his niece Vida E., wife of Heman C. Smith, children of his brother Alexander, were also present. There were present also several grandchildren, to witness the closing scenes of his life.

President Smith removed from Nauvoo, Illinois, to Plano, Illinois shortly after taking his position as President of the church, where he became Editor of the Church Organ, the Saint's Herald, which position he held during his life. From Plano, Illinois, he removed to Lamoni, Iowa, in 1881, and was the most prominent citizen of that place until 1906, when he removed to Independence, Missouri, making his home there until his decease.

President Smith has always been an uncompromising opponent of the liquor traffic and always took a prominent part on the public platform and otherwise in the advocacy of temperance. Under his leadership, the membership of the Reorganized Church of Latter Day Saints at Plano, Illinois, Lamoni, Iowa, and Independennce, Missouri, cast over 99 per cent of their vote against the sale of intoxicants.

By revelation through President Smith, his son, Frederick M. Smith, has been designated as his successor, and if sustained by the Church in General Conference will doubtless occupy that position. Frederick M. and Elbert A. occupied as the counselors of President Smith at the time of his decease.

Heman C. Smith.

PRESIDENT JOSEPH SMITH'S FIRST ADDRESS TO THE CHURCH.

Joseph Smith the son of Joseph Smith the PropLet, came to the church in its reorganized state on April 6, 1860, at a conference held at Amboy, Ill. After being introduced to the assembly he said: I would say to you, brethren, as I hope you may be, and in faith I trust you are, as a people that God has promised his blessings upon, I came not here of myself, but by the influence of the Spirit. For some time past I have received manifestations pointing to the position which I am about to assume.

I wish to say that I have come here not to be dictated by any men or set of men. I have come in obedience to a power not my own, and shall be dictated by the power that sent me.

God works by means best known to himself, and I feel that for some time past he has been pointing out a work for me to do.

For two or three years past deputations have been waiting on me, urging me to assume the responsibilities of the leadership of the church, but I have answered each and every one of them that I did not wish to trifle with the faith of the people.

I do not propose to assume this position in order to amass wealth out of it, neither have I sought it as a profit.

I know opinions are various in relation to these matters. I have conversed with those who have told me they would not hesitate one mement in assuming the high and powerful position as a leader of this people. But I have been well aware of the motives which might be ascribed to me, motives of various kinds, at the foundation of all which is selfishness—should I come forth to stand in the place where my father stood.

I have believed that should I come without the guarantee of the people, I should be received in blindness, and would be liable to be accused of false motives. Neither would I come to you without receiving favor from my heavenly Father.

I have endeavored as far as possible to keep myself unbiased. I never conversed with J. J. Strang, for in those days I was but a boy, and in fact am now but a boy. I had not acquired a sufficient knowledge of men to be capable of leading myself, setting aside the leading of others.

There is but one principle taught by the leaders of any faction of this people that I hold in atter abhorence; that is a principle taught by Brigham Young and those believing in him. I have been told that my father taught such doctrines. I have never believed it and never can believe it. If such things were done, then I believe they never were done by divine authority. I believe my father was a good man, and a good man never could have promulgated such doctrines.

I believe in the doctrines of honesty and truth. The Bible contains such doctrines, and so do the Book of Mormon and the Book of Covenants, which are auxiliaries to the bible.

I have my peculiar notions in regard to revelations, but am happy to say that they accord with those I am to associate with, at least those of them with whom I have conversed. I am not very conversant with those books, [pointing to a volume before him,] not so conversant as I should be and will be. The time has been when the thought that I should assume the leadership of this people was so repulsive to me, that it seemed as if the thing could never be possible.

The change in my feelings came slowly, and I did not suffer myself to be influenced by extraneous circumstances, and have never read the numerous works sent me which had a bearing on this subject, for fear they might entice me into wrong doing. It was my determination to do right and let Heaven take care of the result. Thus I come to you free from any taint of sectarianism, taints of thoughts from the varied minds I have come in contact with; and thus hope to be able to build up my own reputation as a man.

It has been said that a Mormon elder, though but a stripling, possessed a power unequalled by almost any other preacher. This arises from a depth of feeling, and the earnestness with which they believe the doctrines they teach, and it is this feeling that I do not wish to trifle with.

I know that Brigham Young is considered a man of talent, by some a bold and fortunate man, and by others an unscrupplous and bad man, accordingly as circumstances differ.

Should you take me as a leader, I propose that all should be dealt by in mercy, open as to Gentile or Jew; but I ask not to be received except as by the ordinances of the church.

Some who had ought to know the proprieties of the church, have told us that no certain form was necessary in order for me to assume the leadership, that the position came by right of lineage; yet I know that if I attempted to lead as a prophet by these considerations, and not by a call from Heaven, men would not be led to believe who do not believe now. And so I have come not of my own dictation to this sacred office.

I believe that we owe duties to our country and to society, and are amenable to the laws of the land and have always considered it my duty to act upon this principle; and I do say that among the people where I live I have as many good and true friends as I could desire among those of any society.

The people of Hancock County [Illinois] have been strongly anti-Mormon, and there I know of no enemies. I have been engaged in business with anti-Mormons, I have mingled with them, and have not only been obliged not to make any remarks which might give offense, but also to smother my own feelings, if I had any. I held no enmity to any man living who has fought this doctrine, nor do I know any who hold enmity towards me. I hope there are none.

In conclusion, I will come to you if you will receive me, give my ability, and the influence my name may bring, together with what little power I possess; and I trust by your prayers and faith to be sustained. I pledge myself to promulgate no doctrine that shall not be approved by you or the code of good morals.

I have my shortcomings, but I trust as a leader I shall do nothing to lead astray. If I do so, I shall expect condemnation; for I am satisfied that this people, governed by the same policy, would serve me worse than they have Brigham Young before, for I would be wholly deserted.

A gentleman from Utah informs me that a majority of Brigham Young's people are restive, not satisfied with their condition, but dared say nothing. That those who preached and those who practiced his teachings were, in reality, the old fogies of the institution, the younger taking a different view of the matter.

I do not care to say any more at present, but will simply add that if the same Spirit which prompts my coming, prompts also my reception, I am with you.—Church History, Vol. 3, pp. 247-250.

BIOGRAPHICAL SKETCH.

Joseph Smith was born at Kirtland, Lake County, Ohio, on November 6th, 1832, being the son of Joseph Smith, Jr., and his wife Emma Hale Smith. He came with his mother to Missouri in 1836 and shared in the persecutions of the saints which resulted in their expulsion from the state. Leaving the father and husband in the custody of legalized conspirators he and his mother with two other children traversed the state with the fleeing saints and on foot crossed the frozen Mississippi River to Quincy, Illinois, and shortly afterward settled at the newly founded city of Nauvoo.

In June 1844 when twelve years of age, he stood by the murdered form of his father, and from that time forth was deprived of a father's care and support in the perilous times which followed. Prior to this terrible event he had been baptized by his father into the Church, and on a later occasion, which was shortly before the Prophet's death, he was blessed by him by the laying on of hands and designated as his successor in a public meeting. His mother rejected the claims of Brigham Young and remained at Nauyou when the latter and his followers were forced to leave for the West, As he grew up to manhood the hand of persecution which had been so bitter, was gradually raised and through his uprightness he became a respected and honored citizen.

In the year 1852 he with his brothers managed a farm near Nauvoo, and the next year subcontracted to grade one half mile of the Warsaw and Rockford Railroad. In this last transaction he was unfortunate for after spending eight hundred dollars in addition to his own work during the season the original contractors failed and the returns upon his contract amounted only to $12. Up to this time he had kept aloof from the many factions into which the Church had divided since the death of his father under the teachings and power of the men who had claimed to be leaders, and though efforts were made by some of these factions to gain his support he steadily rejected them all. The reproach cast upon the name of the Church and his father because of the corrupt teachings of some of the factions which about this time were becoming generally known to the public, made any thought of succeeding his father an uninviting one, but nevertheless during the year 1853 he had his first serious impression relative to his connection with the work of his father. He had been brought to the verge of death by a fever and during the time of his convalescence had opportunity for reflection.

He had been reading law under the direction of a lawyer named William McClellan and expected to continue his study when sufficiently recovered from his illness. One day while considering his future prospects in that profession the question of his possible connection with the work of the Church came up, and while considering the perplexing question, he relates that the walls of his room suddenly disappeared, and he saw stretched out before him "towns, cities, busy marts, courthouses, courts and assemblies of men, all busy and all marked by those characteristics that are found in the world, where men win place and re-He noted that whoever entered into this busy whirl of life were submerged by its din, bustle and confusion. The scene suddenly changed and he found himself looking upon prairie land where he saw "hill and dale, hamlet and village, farm and farm house, pleasant cot and home like place, everywhere betokening thrift, industry, and the pursuits of a happy peace were open to the view." He says:

"I remarked to him standing by me, but whose presence I had not before noticed, 'This must be the country of a happy people.' To this re replied, 'which would you prefer, life, success, and renoun among the busy scenes that you first saw; or a place among these people, without honors or renoun? Think of it well, for the choice will be offered to you sconer or later, and you must be prepared to decide. Your decision once made you can not recall it, and must abide the result.'"

He was given no time for replý before the vision vanished, and he was left to ponder it at his leisure. He continued his study of law at Canton, Illinois, under the Hon. William Kellogg, and for a time worked in the post office as assistant postmaster in order to meet his expenses. Having exhausted his means he returned home in 1856 and again took up farm life with his brother Frederick, and in October of the same year was married to Miss Emaline Griswold, and made their home upon the farm.

Other spiritual manifestations beside the one related above were received during the years up to 1860 which made clear to his mind what his connection to the Church work should be and prepared him to answer the question which had previously been propounded to him as to his life course.

Since 1852 the scattered remnants of the Church had been working toward unity and reorganizing under the directions of the Spirit of God which they had received. Through these divine manifestations there had come the promise repeatedly given that upon conditions of their faithfulness God would send them a leader, and as the year 1860 drew near Joseph Smith, known by the familiar title of "Young Joseph," was ed out as the one chosen of God to lead his people. Though having no intercourse with this body of saints except one or two delegations which came to him and to whose pleadings he refused to yield, the manifestations of the Spirit which came to him pointed out the part of the Church which alone had found favor with God and which had received his acknowledgement. This fact came to him in a very direct way in 1859 when he was told: "The saints re-organizing at Zarahelma and other places, is the only organized portion of the Church accepted by me. I have given them my Spirit, and will continue to do so while they remain humble and faithful."

This revealment left in his mind no doubt as to where he should cast his lot in taking up the work of his father and in the early part of 1860 entered into communication with the authorities of the Church and it was decided that he and his mother should attend the general conference which was to convene at Amboy, Illinois, on the sixth day of April of that year. If Joseph had been caraful to place himself only where God approved, the Church was none the less careful to accept a leader which had the approval of God, as indicated by the statement mde by William Marks: "If God has called you, we want to know it. If he has, the Church is ready to sustyin you; if not, we want nothing to do with you." Lut the evidences on both sides had been satisfactory, and when Joseph appeared at the conference the saints whose hearts had been moved with expectancy for years wept for joy at his coming.

On April 6th, 1860 he was received into membership in the Church, declaring that he had not come there of himself but by the influence of the Spirit. On motion of Elder Isaac Sheen it was Resolved that Brother Joseph Smith be chosen Prophet, Seer, and Revelator of the Church of Jesus Christ, and the Successor of his father,' and after its adoption he was ordained to the office of President of the High Priesthood, becoming thereby the president of the Church. In his address to the conference he made plain where he stood as to the various doctrines which had been taught by the various leaders, and declared his opposition to polygamy. Soon after his brothers Alexander and David came into the Church and gave it their active support.

He remained at Nauvoo until 1865 when having been chosen editor of the official Church paper known as the "True Latter Day Saints' Herald," he was under the necessity of moving to Plano, Illinois. He continued as editor of this paper—the name being changed to "The Saints' Herald,"—until the time of his death, a period of over forty-nine years. He travelled much, preaching the gospel and building up the Church, going in 1875 to the Atlantic coast states, and in 1876 to the west where he labored in California, Nevada, and Utah, and in the last place found much opposition.

Subsequent visits were made to the West and to other parts of the country, and in 1903 he spent the summer in the British Isles in company with Elder R. C. Evans who was at that time one of his counsellors, visiting the various branches and strengthening the work in that land. In all of these places and in all these years he stood for the principles of truth, justice and honor, and which were grandly exemplified in his personal life. Without a stain upon his character his influence has been unceasingly uplifting to both member and non-member who may have come into association with him.

Though of late years he has been obliged to leave many duties which he formerly did, to others to do, because of the weakness and defects due to old age, yet he retained an active interest in the affairs of the Church to the last. He was equally interested in the affairs of the nation and of the world, and never missed an opportunity of voting his preferences at the poles. He ever stood on the side of temperance in opposition to the liquor traffic and this year at the special local option election at Independence he cast his vote with the rest.

In 1910 a Jubilee was held on April 6th colebrating the fiftieth anniversary of his coming to the Church and his ordination to the presidency, but his labors have continued nearly five years beyond the Jubilee. The Church has felt safe under his leadership, and has grown from a small body to a membership of about seventy-five thousand, distributed in many lands. History will record him as a wise and faithful leader.

A HISTORIC EPISTLE

The following is an extract from the first general epistle of President Joseph Smith, addressed "To all the scattered saints," and dated July 19, 1861:

"In the name of the God of Abraham, of Isaac, and of Jacob, I now call upon all the scattered saints, upon all the broad earth, to arise and shake off the sleep that hath bound them these many years, take on the armor of the just, calling on the name of the Lord for help, and unite once more for the emancipation of the honest in heart from the power of false doctrines and the shackles of sin.

In the name of bleeding Zion, I call upon all those who have been wandering in by and forbidden paths, and have been led astray by wicked and designing men, to turn from their scenes of wickedness and sins of convenience, to turn from their servitude to Satan, in all his seductive devices; from vice in every phase, and from the labor of sin, the wages whereof are ever death, unto their true and delightsome allegiance to the principles of the gospel of peace, to the paths of wisdom to to the homage of that God that brought the children of Israel out of bondage; to turn and remember the new covenant, even the Book of Mormon; to lay hold anew upon the rod of iron which surely leads to the tree of life; to remember that those who live to the Lord, keep his commandments, and that the promises are unto the faithful, and the reward unto those that endure unto the end.

And in the name of the Lord of hosts, I call upon all of the inhabitants of the earth to repent, believe, and be baptized, for the time cometh when the judgments of God are to be poured out upon all nations, and the besom of God's wrath shall smoke through the land; when men shall know that there is a God in Israel, and he is mighty to punish or to save; that the prayers of those under the alter have been heard, and a swift retribution is to come, when the despoiler will be despoiled; when those who denied justice shall be judged, and the measure meted unto others shall be meted unto them; when the prisoner shall go free, the oppressed be redeemed, and all Israel shall cry, Glory to God in the highest be given, for he that is long-suffering and slow to anger, has arisen, and shall bring again Zion." -- Church History Vol. 3, pp. 294, 295.

MEMORIES OF EARLY DAYS. By Mrs. W. H. Garrett.

On the eightieth birthday of our venerable and beloved Prophet, my thoughts wandered backward many years to the time when I saw hin for the first time over forty years ago, when our good Brother Josiah Ells, brought him to my mother's home in Allegeheny City, Pennsylvania, to abide with us awhile, he having been to Washington on Church business and was then on his way home to the West.

Widow Hulmes, her sons and daughters felt it a pleasure indeed to have beneath their roof the man whom God had called to gather out, and lead his scattered people back to the good old path which had been marked out by our blessed Lord and Savior: to

The old, old path,
Made strangely sweet
By the touch divine
Of his blessed feet

How well I remember the appearance of Bro. Joseph at that time. A man in the prime of life, and withal of a noble type, tall, with dark hair and eyes, and a face beaming with truthfulness and kindness such as could not easly be forgotten.

While he was yet with us the district conference convened and we expected to entertain quite a number of the saints at my mother's home. Of course we had given Bro. Joseph our best room, and felt it a pleasure to do so, but as the conference time drew near he informed mother that he would give up his room to the visiting brethren and he would sleep on the couch in the sitting room. Of course we did not want him to change, but he was unselfishly firm, and slept on the couch down stairs. We were young in the faith, and had learned to love the gospel of Christ in its fulness as we had received it, and we were inclined to look for the servants of Christ to be almost perfect. Such incidents as we have related did not disappoint us.

Bro. W. W. Blair was with us for awhile, some time before this when passing through on his way home to the West, and he also was blameless in his daily walk and conversation. Such men always brought a holy influence with them, and when they went away they left with us the great peace of God's Holy Spirit resting upon our humble home as a benediction from heaven, for which blessing we were deeply thankful.

When the Sabbath day came, the saints went joyfully to worship God in their hall on Fourth Avenue, Pittsburg, and we were truly edified as we listened to the sweet gospel message which fell from the lips of our beloved Prophet. The room was filled with attentive listeners including some ministers of other churches, and at the close many waited to greet him and to shake his hand.

When I look back, after the passing of so many years, I can not help wondering at the humility of the man in his intercourse with his brethren, proving him to be a true follower and servant of our Lord and Master. The times of social intercourse when the saints gathered at mother's home were pleasant indeed. I remember one expression made by Brother Joseph when conversing with the brethren to the effect that when stopping in a city or place he made it a rule to be found at the same place at night, rather than to be changing his stopping place, and I have often thought since that it was a good, commonsense rule, which was safe to follow. The time of his visit passed all too swiftly and at the part ing we felt thankful for such a season of spiritual rejoicing.

Many of the saints there had passed through the dark and cloudy day of the latter day apostasy, but they had again heard the voice of the good Shepherd through his servant, and strangers they could not follow, as I have heard my mother say when bearing her testimony. Tried and true men and women were numbered with that little band of saints at Allegheny and most of them have gone to rest. Surely their rest will be soulsatisfying and glorious in the presence of our blessed Redeemer. O may we all be enabled so to live our days that we may be permitted to enter with the righteous into the blest abode of God.

NOTES.

President Smith had a high sense of honor and justice in business between man and man, and maintained that no one could lay claim to all considerations in the way of benefits in transactions, that when one party made claim that he should be favored because of relationship or because of church association over another the other party in the deal could lay claim to the same. Once when a brother, a painter, gave him figures on painting his house he thought the figures a little low and he asked the brother if that was his usual price. He was told that it was one-third or onehalf lower. He asked him why he made him so low a price. The brother replied that it was because he was his brother in the church, whereupon President Smith remarked that on the same hypothesis he should pay him more because of such relationship. In such deals he maintained that a fair and reasonable price was just to both sides. He did not believe in "robbing Peter to pay Paul."

He had a remarkable memory and any one he . may have met in Maine, no matter whether such a one was a person of note or anything connected with him to specially impress his name and likeness on the memory, should he have met such a one in California years after he would instantly recognize him and call him by name.

He always believed in helping the weak, strugling ones and in giving the boy a chance and never believed in discouraging enterprise and ambition. He was perfectly free from pride, dressed plain and did not believe in ostentation or show. He had a high regard for other people's opinions and treated all alike, favoring none above others.

The last meeting President Smith attended was the communion service November 1, when at the end of his testimony he gave these remarkable words of the Savior: "My peace I give unto you not as the world giveth, but my peace I give unto you." Following is his testimony complete:

"Beloved Brethren:-

you." Following is his testimony complete:
"Beloved Brethren:—
"It is now fitty-four years and seven months from next Friday since I took upon myself the responsibility of answering unto God and unto the people of this generation
the responsibility that was placed upon me by Divine
call, and this morning, reflecting that next Friday I will round out my eighty- second year, if permitted to live, that this was the last Sunday in that eighty-second year and the first day, the first Sunday of the month, the day of our sacramental service, I remembered the obligations that I took upon myself. I remembered the first time that I made public acknowledgment before the church of the Spirit of life and salvation that had been born within me in the baptism of water by my father, and I deemed it but right and just and that it would be a pleasure for me to meet you this day and partake of the sacrament
once more with the people of God's choice.
"I am thankful to Him this day that during the service of the fifty-four years that I have been permitted to give it and to give to you, He has not forsaken me nor left me without sufficient strength to name His name among the people of God. Hence, my testimony today is that which it has been during all the years that are past in which I have been engaged in this labor, and this testimony has been sanctified in the different missions which I have taken, in the performance of the different duties which I have been called upon to perform, in the performance of the duties of my office. I feel grateful today that I have taken, in the performance of the different duties which I have been called upon to perform, in the performance of the duties of my office. I feel grateful today that he has ever thus granted unto me a seal of my mission in the blessings that have followed my ministration in the name of the Lord, Jesus Christ, and today if there is one thing I should more delight to say than any other, it is to repeat the words of the Samot. My peace I give mto you... not as the world giveth, but My peace I give mto you...

W. H. D.

APOSTLE U. W. GREENE LANDS.

While going to press word has come to Pres. F. M. Smith of the landing of Apostle U. W. Greene at Boston.

WAR ATLAS
Cram's Atlas of the war comprising 16
pages 11x14½ and cover, giving fine maps
of all the nations of Europe, those in war or likely to be especially emphasized. On the two inside cover pages is given the army and navy equipment of all the European nations as well as the United States and Japan. With this Atlas in connection with daily news one may be able to locate the movements of the armies and have a more comprehensive idea of how the war is heing aprehensive idea of how the war is being conducted.

ONLY 25 CENTS Get them of

Ensign Publishing House, Independence, Mo.

NOW FOR CHRISTMAS!!

In addition to the many Bibles we have on hand we have added another line of five choice ones, and none very expensive. The first three are beautifully printed in red and black—all of Christ's sayings in the New Testament and all reference to Him in New Testament and all reference to Him in the Old and New Testament are printed in red. This is a very useful feature. For instance, in turning the leaves whenever anything is observed in red it will be known that it is either the Master's sayings or something in reference to Him. They are beautfully printed and bound, and either one of the five here listed will make a fine Christmas present. The last two are fine large Teacher's Bibles, self-pronouncing and large type. Order by number and be careful to get the number right. Don't put off ordering, as you will be disappointed in not getting your book in time for Christmas.

mas.
03454—Beautifully printed with heavy
faced minion type in red and black.
All of Christ's sayings and passages alluding to him are printed in red. French Morocco, divinity circuit, round corners, red under gold edges, leather lined...........$2.50.

Same as above, except it is print-ed on thin India paper........$3.60. Same as the first one, except it has new up-to-date helps.....$2.60. 04528—Large type (long primer) self- pronouncing, patent marginal index, full page plates, French Morocco, divinity circuit, round corners, red under gold edges, linen lined. $2.50. 04529—Same as 04528 except it is bound with American Morocco, is silk sewed and leather lined.......$3.00.

TRACTS.

No less than 50 copies at 100 rate.

"Why I Became a Latter Day Saint," by
Elder Joseph Luff.

"Future Punishment," by Elder R. C.
Evans.

"The Book of Mormon; Evidences of Its Divinity," by Elder R. C. Evans.

"Creed Making," by Elder I. M. Smith.

"Good News." A tract of tracts on several different subjects by as many writers.

"The Church of Christ," by Elder Edward Ramie.

"Who Was Joseph Smih," by Elder J. W.
Peterson.

"A Glimpse at the Government of God,"

Peterson.

"A Glimpse at the Government of God," by Elder Paul M. Hanson.

"Reasons Why. Shall We Hear Them?" Revised edition. By Elder J. W. Peterson.

"Twelve Reasons Why I Believe The Book of Mormon," by Elder Charles Fry.

"Joseph Smith; Was He a Prophet of God?" by Elder R. C. Evans.

The following at special prices named:

"What We Believe," an epitome of the faith of the Church. Per dozen 5 cents; 50 for 20 cents; 100, 35 cents.

"Terms of Teaching Found in the Book of

for 20 cents, 100, 35 cents.
"Hems of Teaching Found in the Book of Mormon." Compiled by the Independence Religio Good Litertaure Committee. A tract of ten pages. Three for 5 cents; 12 for 15 cents; 100 for $1.00.

tract of ten pages. Three for 5 cents; 12 for 15 cents; 100 for $1.00.

"Latter Day Saints; Who Are They's Dider T. W. Williams. Three for 5 cents; 12 for 15 cents; 100 for $1.00.

"Is Water Baptism Essential to Salvation?" by Elder Joseph Luff. Three for 5 cents; 12 for 15 cents; 50 for 40 cents; 100 for 75 cents.
"Seventy-one Theological Questions." Per dozen, 10 cents; per 100, 60 cents.
Elder's Diary. A handy little book for accurately keeping account of ministerial labor by simply jotting down figures in the proper column, the printed headings supplying the reach accurately keeping account of ministerial account of this is suitable for all holding the Melchiscide Priesthool Price...$0.10

Priest's Diary. Arranged similar as the chisedec Priesthood. Price .....$0.10 Diary. Arranged similar as the Elder's Diary, but provides for labors connected with the office work of the Priest. Price ....$0.10 rully Persuaded. A song written by Edder Luff. Price, 5 cents per dozen; per 100 .....$0.25 Luif. Price, 6 cents per dozen; per 100 — $0.25

Book of Mormon Post Card. Quotations from the second chapter of Jacob, of the Book of Mormon, condemning polygamy. This is an excelent way to get the position of the church books on polygamy before friends and acquaintances. Price per dozen — $0.10

Library Ruies. Local library rules, per dozen — $0.05 dozen $0.00 Circulating Library rules, per doz-$0,10

UNITED ORDER OF ENOCH HOUSE.

Everybody Welcome, Saints and Strangers No. 102 North River Boulevard, near the Stone hurch. Best accommodations. Prices reasonable. Bell Phone 613

one 613
Chas. A. and Amy T. Gurwell
IN CHARGE

FOR SALE OR RENT
The former home of H. R. Mills on West
Short Street is offered for sale or rent
Lot 75x200, South front. House, nine rooms besides closets. Strictly modern.
Good barn and woodshed. Terms easy.
Apply to A. H. Mills, Independence, Mo.

UNIVERSAL DIARY.

We now have a universal diary, suitable for any minister from deacon up, made to conform with the universal report blanks. They are the same size and shape as the diarles we have hitherto had for sale, but will contain about double the number of pages, there being about 24 pages in the front and back for a financial record, and space for 12 months record of ministerial work performed. The price is the same as the others were sold at, only 10 cents. Address Ensign Publishing House, Independence, Mo.

SPECIAL NOTICE

The attention of the readers of the Ensign is called to the meter striving citizen and liveryman, before the striving of the striving of the striving before the striving of t

FOR SALE. Good, dry wood, ready for the stove. Call, Bell 23K4.

W. E. MESSENGER, M. D. Physician and Surgeon. Calls answered day or night. Office and Residence 806 W.

Maple Ave. Bell Phone 12 Independence, Mo. Special attention given to Anesthetics

L. A. INMAN Piano And Furniture Mover

Stand West Side Square Household Goods Packed, Shipped and Stored Bell Phone 1231 Res. 915 S. Crysler Independence, Mo.

Loose Leaf Sheets

For Local Religio Secretary's Record

Per dozen, 10 cents; per 100 $0.60 If you have not seen them, send for free sample to

> ENSIGN PUBLISHING HOUSE. Independence, Mo.

Universal Class Card

Send for sample of the Universal Class Cards, for use in both Sunday School and Religio. The Indepen-School and Religio. The Indepen-dence Schools have them in general

Price per doz 8 cents, per 100 60 cents ENSIGN PUBLISHING HOUSE. Independence, Mo.

Entered at the Post Office at Independence, Mo., as Second Class Matte

JUR CREED: "ALL TRUTH."

VOI. 25

INDEPENDENCE, MISSOURI, THURSDAY, DECEMBER 17, 1914

ZION'S ENSIGN

Published by the Reorganized Church of Jesus Christ of ter Day Saints, every Thursday, at Independence, Mo., 1.00 per year.

In writing concerning subscriptions, always give the nam of the Post Office to which your paper, has been going, as by so doing the story for the subscriptions, always give the nam of the Post Office in looking for it may be explicitly give, the old as well with the subscription of the subscription alway state whether it is a renewal or a new subscription alway state whether it is a renewal or a new subscription alway state whether it is a renewal or a new subscription alway state whether it is a renewal or a new subscription alway state whether it is a renewal or a new subscription alway state whether it is a renewal or a new subscription alway state whether it is a renewal or a new subscription alway state in the subscription always and subscription always and an advantage of the subscription and whether it is a subscription and whether it is a subscription and a subscript

ENSIGN PUBLISHING HOUSE, Independence, Ma

THE PRESIDENT AT REST.

According to previous announcement the funeral service of President Joseph Smith was held at the Stone Church, Independence, Mo., Sundey December 13th, at 2 p. m. The expressed wishes of the deceased President were followed in almost every detail, the body, reposing in a plain black casket without metal trimmings, having occupied its place before the altar since 8 a. m., from which time till 1 p. m. nearly three thousand persons came to view the remains, notwithstanding the bitterly cold atmosphere, and snow. The room was modestly draped with black, with a single leaf of fern at the fastenings.

At the opening of the doors the room, including the balcony was quickly though quietly filled, save the reserve space. Upon the platform sat the Quorum of Twelve, Apostles G. T. Griffiths, C. A. Butterworth, R. C. Russell, J. A. Gillen, J. E. Kelley, P. M. Hanson, J. F. Curtis, W. M. Aylor and J. W. Rushton; of the Presidents of Seventies, James McKiernan, W. E. Peak, T. C. Kelley and J. A. Davis; of the Presiding Bishop-ric E. L. Kelley, and E. A. Blakeslee; of the Presidency of High Priests J. A. Tanner and Charles Fry. Other ministers also occupied with them. With Elder Harrington were Bishop Kelley who offered the prayer and Elder Doctor Luff, who made the remarks. The immediate relatives of the deceased President occupied the front seats upon the main floor.

Nearly two thousand persons gained access including such friends of the dead leader as exgovernor Hadley, Mayor Christian Ott and many athers.

The only flowers in evidence was a single wreath of white chrysanthemums which lay upon the casket; this being in harmony with the President's wishes. The whole service was simple, there being no effort at display in decoration or in action, and lasted a little over one hour.

Though moved deeply by feelings of love and respect for the man who had so long been a cherished friend and leader to him, and by a keen sense of the weight of responsibility resting upon him on such an occasion, Elder Luff was able to deliver the message of the hour, following lines which he felt were in accordance with the wishes of the late President, and avoiding in the main, any extended eulogy.

The congregation stood in respectful silence while the pall-bearers, viz., G. T. Griffiths, J. W. Rushton, E. A. Blakeslee, T. W. Chatburn, J. A. Tanner, and E. L. Kelley led the way from the room, followed by the casket, and the mourners The remains were deposited temporarily in the Hulmes-Criley vault in Mound Grove Cemetery, a simple service of a hymn—"There is a land immortal," by the choir and a benediction by Apostle J. W. Rushton.

Thus was the parting service by and for the sakes of thousands of devoted followers of a great and good man,-a man who had himself been a hunable and devoted follower of his Lord and Savior Jesus Christ, whom he ever pointed to as the only perfect example, and whom he honored in his own life. In his eighty-two years of pilgrimage, and fifty-four years of official service, he has left a record clear of any stain or reproach, and it was stated by him shortly before his death that he was not conscious of ever having done any man a wrong.

Though his work was done, the Church was still reluctant in giving him up. In the gradual loss of his sight several years ago he was under the necessity of yielding much of the official work to his councelors. In this way his son and counselor, Frederick M. Smith, who has been designated as his successor, has gradually received the burden of responsibility and the work will proceed without any shock to the Church. He was a faithful instrument in the hand of God, in whose divine Hand the work still remains, and as it has been so abundantly provided for in the past, so will it be in the future.

JOINT COUNCIL.

On Monday, December 14th, a joint council was held at the Presidency's office at Independence, Missouri, to take into consideration the present situation in the Church and take such steps as would meet the emergency. An official report of the proceedings of this council will be published next week. Those present were the two counselors, F. M., and E. A. Smith; nine of the Twelve, viz. G. T. Griffiths, R. C. Russell, J. A. Gillen, J. E. Kelley, P. M. Hanson, C. A. Butterworth, J. F. Curtis, J. W. Rushton and W. M. Aylor. Four of the Presidents of Seventy, viz., James McKiernan, T. C. Kelley, W. E. Peak, and J. A. Davis; and the Presiding Patriarch F. A. Smith.

A GRAND TRIBUTE.

The "Kansas City Journal" gives editorally the following tribute to our late President. His many acquaintances both within and without the Church are well aware that this tribute is nit in the lest overdrawn, but fittingly describes his qualities of character in the lines mentioned.

"In the ecclesiastical dogmas which made up the denominational belief of the late Joseph Smith the general public has no particular interest. But in the death of the late venerable head of the Reorganized Church of Jesus Christ of Latter Day Saints the country loses an interesting and useful citizen. Joseph Smith was considerably more than a powerful churchman into whose keeping had been committed the destinies of one of the great denominations of the world. Those who ignorantly confounded the Reorganized Church with Mormonism, in the objectionable acceptation of that term, will not appreciate the theological distictions between the two nor understand that nothing was more hateful to Joseph Smith than the doctrines of Brigham Young, with their polygamous teachings and all the other features which make Utah Mormonism obnoxious in the eves of the average American.

"But all who ever came in contact with Joseph Smith could readily appreciate the broad charity of his tenets, the untarnished private life he lived, the unswerving devotion to duty which he always displayed and the simple modesty of his relations toward his church and the world at large. To his church he was the prophet whom all its communicants revered, but he was also the unostentatious leader who constantly practiced the virtues which he enjoined upon his followers. To the world he was the blameless citizen who walked before all men as an example and whose interest in the movements that made for the welfare of the community always had his heartiest

"Perhaps nothing could give a clearer insight into the character of Joseph Smith than the directions which he issued shortly before his death in respect to his funeral. Disliking nothing so much next to sham, as ostentation, he directed that his funeral should be conducted with the utmost simplicity, without any of the elaborateness which his followers would otherwise have provided in order to leatify to the honor in which they held him. He was the prophet, but first of all he was the Christian gentleman and the good citizen. As such he lived, as such he died, as such he will be remembered by all outside the household of his faith. His followers themselves can have no legacy of remembrance more honorable than this appraisement of the people among whom he lived and labored so many years. Kindly, cheerful, loyal to his own creed, tolerant of those of others, standing for modesty, simplicity, good citizenship, embodying in his private and public life all the virtues which adorn a character worthy of emulation—such is the revelation which Joesph Smith leaves to the world, as the real interpretation of an ecclesiastical message translated into terms of human character."

WHAT INDEPENDENCE AND KANSAS CITY PAPERS SAY.

Immediately following the announcement of President Smith's death the local papers of Independence and Kansas City gave liberal and quite favorable accounts of his life and work. As these cover many points of interest which could not otherwise be brought out in the Ensign we reproduce parts from each, though in so doing it is scarcely possible to avoid duplicating some items. The saints will be interested in knowing the sentiments of the local secular papers.

From the Independence Examiner,

"Joseph Smith was a well known figure in Independence and has made his home here for many years. Many citizens knew his kindly face and heard pleasant words in his voice. For some years the curtains have been drawn over his eyes and the doors of his ears have been almost closed. His spirit never wavered. His was a life of love and service and in this way he ruled his people, holding each one of them in chains which galled not but were not to be broken. During the past few years the more arduous duties of the church have been taken from his shoulders by his son, Frederick M. Smith, and a few years ago was named as the successor to the presidency. During this time he has lived quietly with his family at his home here. He appeared at the last General Conference of the church and spoke from the platform. It was through him that the revelations were given to the church.

A few days ago the editor of this paper sent to President Smith an article in which it was ably held that God did not send pain and misery for sin and discussing this subject from a standpoint of love. The dying man sent back his thanks and a part of his comment was "That to hold that pain was an infliction of punishment for evil would be to make the Creator of Life a copartner in punishing a moral wrong where moral wrong does not exist. That to a large degree suffering in the world is endured by those who unfortunately have been forced to live under conditions where they have not consciously done moral wrong."

Kansas City Journal.

"The Prophet left no special message to his church aside from that already prepared. For several weeks he was aware that death was near. As early as 1911 he made every arrangement for his funeral. This was in the shape of suggestions which he wrote and sealed, handing one to his son, Frederick, and the other to Bishop E. L. Kelley, with directions that it be opened after his death. He feared hat owing to his prominence in his church organization he would be given great attention, while he wished to be buried in a simple manner, without display and in keeping with his teachings.

Know Followers by Voice.

Joseph Smith was a familiar figure in Indopendence during the latter part of his life. He had a kindly smile and a pleasant word for everyone. His eyesight failed him some years ago and he was generally led about town by some member of his flock, but he recognized his acquaintances by His descernment in this particular their voices. was very acute.

During the last days of President Smith's illness hundreds of members of his church called at the home and bulletins were issued hourly for their benefit when the end seemed near. All the digni-taries of his church organization have for some time been at his home and a stenographer sat by his bedside day and night to catch his last sayings, which will be published in his memoirs.

During his life the venerable leader was besleged by newspaper men, whose mission oftentimes was to get a spectacular 'story' as to his revelations to his church. He always met them half way and explained to them how the "spirit of God was made manifest to His people by the still small voice." His personality was such that when the interview was concluded a warm friendship existed.

President Smith stood close to his followers, from the highest to the lowest, and ever cautioned them to be humble and not given to display in personal adornment. In this he set them an example. The little home where he lived was unpretentious. It was modestly furnished, but comfortable. His life among his people was more like that of a member of a large family, for he called all of them by name, usually the baptismal name.

Leader Half a Century.

A history of Joseph Smith, who was a son of Joseph Smith, the founder of Mormonism, is a history of the Reorganized Church of the Latter Day Saints. It was he who brought together the little bands of Mormons in Illinois, Iowa and Missouri left behind when the main body emigrated to Utah. He became the first president of the reorganized church, and held that office more than half a century, until his death. He was a cousin of Joseph Fielding Smith, in recent years president of the Latter Day Saints in Utah. The greater part of his life was a struggle, as had been the life of his father, to place his faith upon a sound footing."

The Kansas City Post.

"Joseph Smith, president of the Reorganized Church of Jesus Christ of Latter Saints, was born in Kirtland, O., November 6, 1832, the son of Joseph and Emma (Hale) Smith. He went with his parents to Independence when 2 years old.

When he was 12 years old his father was assassinated near Nauvoo, Ill. He was the eldest of four sons. There were no daugnters. All his brothers have been dead several years.

Prsident Smith was baptized into the Mormon church when a small boy.

In 1860 he attended a conference of he Reorganized church at Amboy, Ill., and there connected himself with the ecclesiastical body of which he has ever since been the head.

President Smith married three times and to him seventeen children were born.

His first wife was Emma Griswold, his second Bertha Madison and the third was Ada Clarke. He has six living sons. They are Fred. M., Hale W., Israel I., Richard C., Wallace and Reginald A. Smith. His living daughters are Mrs. Emma McCallum, Mrs. Carrie Weld, Mrs. Audentia Anderson and Mrs. Lucy Lysinger.

President Smith's life work was to repudiate the fact that his father, the martyr and seer of the church, had anything to do with polygamy. He fought polygamy consistently as well as other beliefs of the Brighamite branch of the Mormon church which he considered heresies. During his presidency he announced to his followers he received fifteen communications of divine nature. These have been endorsed by the church and given a place in its written laws and doctrines.

Father Founded Church.

Joseph Smith's father was the founder and prophet of the Church of Jesus Christ of Latter Day Saints, known as Mormons because their sacred book, supplementary to the Bible, purports to be the history of an aboriginal American race by that name to which they believe Christ appeared in keeping with his reply to the "Other sheep have I which are not of apostles, this fold."

When Joseph Smith, at the age of 28, assumed the high priesthood of the church it was bounded by Nine Eagles, Ia., on the west, and Shabbona, Ill., on the east. Now its missions are in all parts of the globe.

Then it was a weak flock, preyed upon by false shepherds, or by 'bling leading the blind,' independence members say. Now its congregations number thousands. Twenty years before Brigham Young had led the exodus into Utah. But there were those who said to him, 'Go your way and we shall go ours and cling to Nauvoo and the ancient faith untouched by polygamous doctrines.'

Many Saints in Independence.

Several thousand members, often called 'saints,' live in Independence, the Zion of their prophecy, where 'Joseph, the Martyr,' stood on an eminence in the early part of the last century and set the metes and bounds for the temple of the true faith eventually to arise, wherein the most holy ordinances of the church should be performed. No tabernacle elsewhere might be sanctified thus.

President Smith's late home in Independence is a neat frame building. Its eight rooms have been kept in the best order by his third wife, his first and second wives having died successively many years ago. He has ten living children, twenty-nine grandchildren and five great grandchildren. Every year the descendants of the founder of the church hold a reunion at which about 100 are present."

"He was liberal toward other denominations. He was very patient with his own people. Morally he came up to that standard developed from the days of Plato, 500 years before Christ, which requires that a moral man should have eduction, a true, fixed and unselfish conscience which finds satisfaction in the righteousness of the individual, the church and the state and should have a personality that reflects sympathy, naturalness, optimism, patriotism and refinement, avoiding spite, hypocracy and self seeking.

He was almost blind and slightly deaf, the results of chronic neuralgia. But he had a fresh, boyish voice and, though he never lost his dignity, he overflowed with goodfellowship toward those whom he liked. He suffered almost constantly with facial pains. For thirty years he refused to consult a physician. When he did, they told him it was death of the nerves. He had a horror of narcotics. Latter Day Saints' teachings taboo tobacco and eschew the use of coffee and tea. These might have brought some relief, he was told, but he suffered stoically. Talking aggravated the ailment but as soon as he could compose his features and get his breath after an attack he would take up the thread of conversation where he left off. He was neither arrogant in his attitude nor dogmatic in his views but with breadth of vision that was like looking from a mountain summit.

Wrote Several Church Songs.

President Smith was fond of music but could not understand the classics.

He wrote several songs which are sung in his church. This is the first stanza of a favorite one: "Tenderly, tenderly, lead Thou me on,

On o'er the way that my Savior hath gone; Bright on His pathway the sunlight hath shown,

Tenderly, tenderly, lead Thou me on." Close to His hand I so tremblingly clung. Faint were the songs I so doubtingly sung, Brokenly falling from faltering tongue, Tenderly, tenderly, lead Thou me on."

Read Modern Novels.

Last summer he heard 'Lalla Rookh' read for the eighth time. He retained his fondness for Scottish Chiefs' the first novel he ever read. On his library table lay 'Shepherd of the Hills' and other modern novels. He read and enjoyed 'A Certain Rich Man.' In his library were works of such writers as Aristotle, Kant, and Spinoza, with such present day writings as Culver's Psychological Phenomena of Christianity,' Ladd's 'Confusion of Pragmatism,' 'Islam, the Religion of Common Sense,' by Ishak and 'The Message of Modern Mathmatics to Theology,' by keyser. He was no bookworm. He confided:

'I like 'Sohrab and Rustum' and 'The Light of Asia,' but the latter like 'Parsifal,' was written to exploit a Hindoo cult and the opera house at Bayreuth has become a Buddhist temple.

'I don't think a man should withdraw himself from society and become a hermit to keep himself unspotted. Let him take the knocks, temptations and contumely and live among men.

Old Compard With New.

We find that illustrated in the life of Loyola who withdrew from the world for a season but came forth to set up the great, beneficial Jesuitcal order. But those that come out of the caves are usually strange and darkened. I recently compared a sermon delivered several hundred years before Christ with one of Annie Besant's and one of Mrs. Eddy's and the only satisfaction I got out of the later ones was the increase in learning.

I believe the dead can return to us under proper conditions. I once had an interview with a little daughter I had lost. She was playing with other children and happy among the flowers and is comforted me.

Swedenborg's 'Heaven and Hell, is too finespun for me. All baseless metaphysics. uel movement is all right but the Methodist and Congregational ministers do not go far enough. They do not claim all the works of the Spirit as found in Mark's gospel."

Against Socialism.

There is a universal movement of mankind toward God today. Scientific men have found the narrowness of that which can be scientifically defined. The savant is no longer affronted if the Deity is proclaimed in his presence, as half a century ago when agnosticism and Darwinism went hand in hand.

A man will not have to belong to any church to be saved. He will have to be obedient to Christ's commands.

I believe with Lincoln in a 'government of the people, by the people, and for the people.' I do not believe in Socialism. We teach a church socialism, holding goods in common, not identical with political socialism. No church, king or trade union can take the place of Christ's love in the brotherhood of man. What is called the commercial spirit is the saving grace of the material world. Look at the spread of the English language throughout the world, thus making possible the extension of Christianity. I cannot conceive the time when the whole world will belong to the Latter Day Saints' church, but I can believe the time will come when all nations wi's return to the Christian economy taught by Christ.

Imposing in Appearance.

In appearance, Joseph Smith was of imposing height. His benevolent face was crowned with white hair and beard. He had an intellectual forehead with strikingly handsome, luminous, large brown eyes that dominated his whole countenance and held the farthest groups in his congregations. Blindness did not dim their lustre and intensity. He was more logical than persuasive in debate and was a thorough parliamentarian as might have been expected of a man who had twice served as justice of the peace in a community that mobbed and killed his father.

Trials and sadness entered his life. He byried two wives. 'With one of these was buried a son.

He found it hardest to bear the erroneous stigma of polygamy. He always asked pathetically if his fifty and more years of labor to exonerate his church from that false reputation will not at last be recognized. He always asserted his father neither taught nor practiced polygamy; that Brigham Young introduced that heresy a thousand miles from the scenes of his father's ministry and ten years after his father's death.

Talking about the days of his youth in Nauvoo, President Smith said: 'I was 12 years old when my father was murdered. He was in Carthage, twenty miles away, but we heard of it before midnight. We stayed there and I grew up among those people. Many of them had been in the mobs that persecuted us.

I did not permit myself to become embittered, though my earliest recolection was of being carried across the frozen Mississippi by my mother when 12,000 of our people were driven like mad dogs from Missouri.

I left those early times with the Lord. For years the church wanted me but I would not go until I had the call at the age of 28. Then I was confronted with the fact that I could not say the Lord's prayer unless I forgave my enemies. I forgave them.

President Smith was fond of yellow, probably because it was to him the only true color. He was color blind as to red and green, not knowing a red apple from the green leaves. When asked which color he recognized he would smile and reply, 'How do I know?' "

From the Kansas City Star.

The history of Joseph Smith, Jr., son of Jeseph Smith, prophet and founder of Mormonism, is the history of the Reorganized Church of Jesus Christ of Latter Day Saints. For it was Joseph Smith, Jr., who assembled the scattered bands of followers in Illinois, Missouri and Iowa which had been left behind when the main body emigrated to Iowa under the leadership of Brigham Young. That occurred upon the killing in Iowa [Illinois] of the first Joseuh Smith, known since in Mormon annals as "Joseph the Martyr."

Joseph Smith, Jr., became president of the Reorganized church, which discarded Brigham Young's dogma of polygamy as heresy. In fact he was the first and only president to date of the reorganized body, having held office continuously for more than half a century. He was a cousin of Joseph Fielding Smith, present president of the Latter Day Saints in Utah.

In the last four years of his life President Smith was blind, Failing evesight gave way entirely some years ago. Nevertheless he attended all annual conclaves of the church at Lamoni, Ia., and Independence, presiding over the deliberations.

He was born November 6, 1832, at Kirtland, Ohio,, where his father had gone two years before with a small band of followers from Manchester, Soon aferward, inspired by one of his "revelations," the lad's father migrated with his colony to Missouri. At Independence he established the "holy land" of the church, the "Zion," again inspired by a revelation.

The Mormon band at Independence in the early childhood of the little boy grew enormously. Converts flocked in. County elections in Jackson County were controlled by the members of the new sect. They established a paper, the Morning and Evening Star. Then began those years of turmoil with other settlers which were to end in the expulsion of the Saints from their Zion.

The Star preached abolition. For the Mormon converts were Northern men and filled with fanatical zeal. Consequently, there soon were clashes with the other settlers, pioneers of the slave-holding states, Virginia and Kentucky. Other contentions arose. The prior settlers organized bands of vigilants. Mormons were seized, tarred and feathered on numerous occasions. Even Joseph Smith, the elder, did not escape. The state militia was called out several times to quell the riots.

Finally, when Joseph Smith, Jr., was 5 years old, his father and the latter's followers were driven out. Up through Clay County they fled and at Liberty Joseph Smith was arrested and placed in jail.

There, says the legend, while the younger Joseph, the child of five, sobbed himself to sleep in jail, his father bent above him and commended the hopes and aspirations of the harried church to his care.

Little Joseph's mother accompanied his father to Liberty, too. But, fearing for her life, the elder Joseph induced her to go with other members of the church to Illinois.

The child, with a band of Mormons, trekked across the almost uninhabited prairies of Missouri to Nauvoo, Ill. There, upon his release from Liberty jail, the prophet rejoined his wife and child.

One day in 1844, when the boy was 12 years old, the dead body of his father was brought to their home. Joseph Smith, founder of Mormonism, had been shot by a mob in Carthage, Ill.

After the death of the prophet came the "Great Higera." Most of the Mormons, grown to considerable numbers, migrated to Utah under Brigham Young. But young Joseph Smith stayed behind, working as farmer or clerk and studying

But that oft-repeated admonition of his father, first told him across the tear-drenched pallet in Liberty jail, was never forgotten. Joseph Smith, Jr., was a man with a purpose. And so, when he was only 28, he at last effected the reorganization of the Eastern Mormons. The reorganization was formerly accomplished at Amboy, I.I., in 1860. And Joseph Smith, jr., became president.

For twenty years the Church had headquarters at Plano, Ill. In 1880, however, headuarters was removed to Lamoni, Ia., and in 1906 to Inde-

At Independence, President Smith made his home, living simply, occupying only a modest cot-tage, one room of which was his office. He arose early and was hard at work until his health began to fail a few years ago and blindness settled down. His days were devoted to editorial work for the Saints' Herald, official publication of the Church, and to governmental affairs of the organization.

With his heavy whitened beard and plain dress, the aged church head had all the appearance of a well-to-do retired farmer. He was a familiar figure on the streets of Independence. He was always in close touch with the members of his church and was familiarly addressed by them as "Brother Joseph."

Much of the active conduct of his office President Smith turned over in 1912 to his son, Frederick M. Smith, of Lamoni, Ia. He declared he had a revelation that his son should succeed him.

President Smith was married three times. His first and second wives died.? He always denounced the polygamous teachings of Brigham Young and emphatically denied that his rather. the first Mormon prophet, had taught, sanctioned or practiced polygamy.

Much of Joseph Smith's life was spent in literary activity, some of which will become important in the church for its historical value. His early literary work was when he was editor of the Saints' Herald and several other periodicals used in the controversy between the Reorganized Church and the Western church dominated by Brigham Young. His memoirs, a work of several volumes, he worked on up to his death. Since his blindness, in 1910, he dictated the material for his autobiography to a stenoprapher. The work also will be an exhaustive history of the Mormon Church.

INDEPENDENCE ITEMS.

There were no services on Sunday other than those held over the remains of our dear departed President, "Brother Joseph," as he was inmituraly known to 'll Saints and many not of the church. The body Inid in state from 8 in the morning till 1 p. m. At each end of the casket stately white-gloved sentinels stood dressed in brack, while one at a time friends quietly wended their way up the east isle with bowed heads looked for the last time on the remains of him who in life had been a blessing the church individually and collectively, and as most all passed from the bier they could not restrain emotion and tears springing from their eyes. You Yet all realized ing to his wishes. In his life he was a blessing to the church and to all who came in the way of his kindly ministrations. In his greath he left a benediction to the church that will extend the world over. The kind words expressed by the press quite generally show that the public has been watching his life and has found it full of virtue and honor, and have found no occasion for anything but the highest praise fer him, speaking well for him and the church. While he lived they had no occasion to find fault with him, and in death they found nothing to say of him but that which was commendable, and in some instances exceptionally so.

Bishop E. A. Blakeslee came to attend the funeral and incidentally attend to some matters in connection with Bro. Kelley in the bisnop's office, stopping a few days after the funeral for that purpose.

Three of the Twelve were absent, namely, Brn. Sheehy and Anderson who are in the west and Bro. U. W. Greene who has just arrived in the east from the Holy Land.

President F. M. Smith returned Tuesday evening to Worcester, Mass., to take up his studies in the Clark University, from where he was called because of the sickness

W. H. D.

THE SERMON AT THE FUNERAL OF PRESIDENT SMITH The funeral sermon of President Joseph Smith will appear in next week's Ensign. It was delivered by Elder Joseph Luff, and was a splendid elucidation of the life, work and character of our beloved President. We anticipate that and character of our beloves rresident we among a character of the being demand for extra copies of the sermon, and will print extra ones to meet the demand. However, those wishing extras should order as many as they want the copy of that we may know how many to print. This at once, so that we may know how many to print. This sermon with comments from the press throughout the United States on the life and character of the man that no one can say a word against ought certainly to be for the church over which he presided. In his he has left the church a legacy that is invaluable unlift for the and far reaching. A man loved by all acquaintances regardless of creed. A man who having lived 82 years was conscious of doing any person any harm in all his long

OMAHA, NEBRASKA

"Peace, perfect peace, death shadowing us and ours, Jesus has vanquished death and all its powers; It is enough; earth's struggles now have passed, called him to Paradise at last."

very interesting and impressive memorial service was held in honor of our beloved prophet and leader, Sunday, December 13th; Elder M. A. Petersen in charge, Brethren H. W. Scott, Paul N. Craig and H. A. Scott were the speakers.

Branch officers elected last week for the ensuing year as follows: president, H. A. Scott; pricsts; W. E. Stoft, W. N. Hill, and W. T. Lowe; teachers, C. M. Hollenbeck, J. C. Howe, R. W. Scott and D. S. Conôit; elecans, S. E. Marmoy, C. C. Coffeen, C. T. Self and T. A. Hicks; branch clerk, David Lewis, chorister, Paul N. Craig, organist, Jeanette Craig, member of library book, H. A. Scott; correspondent, as per signature below.

The Woman's Auxiliary will hold their bazaar in the Bee Building, 17th and Farnam Sts., on the 16th and 17th inst. We trust they will meet with even better success than last year. The Lord will surely bless those who give their work and time as well as others who part with their Religio officers elected for the next six months are as follows: president, Paul N. Craig; vice president, C. T. Self; secretary, E. Larser, treasurer, A. E. Stoft; member of library board, Margaret Keatley; chorister, Anna Hicks; organist, Mary Marmoy; temperance superintendent, S. E. Marmoy; home class superintendent, your cor-

May all the workers resolve to be more prayerful, enernd careful the next year, than the one that is fast slipping away.

"Lives of great men all remind us,
We can make our lives sublime,
And departing, leave belined us.

"Lives of the condens of time."

Foot prints on the sands of time Alice Cary Schwartz.

345 Omaha National Bank Building.

SEATTLE

SEATTLE.

Our sacramental service Sunday was another spiritual refreshing from the Lord. Evidences of spiritual advancement were plainly visible. It is a great pleasure to hear and feel the revealments of the Holy Spirit but to make the service of the spirit but to make the service of the s them of real worth they must become a part of the actual life. May the Saints heed the admonition to become stalarts for the Lord.

Bro. W. H. Annett was with us Sunday from Calga

Dro. W. H. Annett was with us Sunday from Calgary Ont., seeking employment. He thought of going south if not successful here. Bro. and Sr. C. F. Oliver of Everett spent a pleasant day in the church services Sunday. Bro. Oliver speaks encouragingly of our mission work in Everett where we visit the second Sunday of each month. Saints living near there please take notice.

We feel loth to sever the long continued and loving ties of gospel friendship, so strong and pure, that has bound us to our beloved President Joseph Smith. The news of his severe illness casts a gloom, but we sorrow in love and hope. He has so long time been walking in the footprints of his Savior that it is getting time for to be nearing the arrespoid that will usher him into his divine presence, however we would love to hold him just a little longer.

We learn of the very sudden death of Bro. Douglas of Berkeley, Calif., closely following his companion, Sr. Douglass, who recently passed to the other shore. ere fervent saints, hence prepared for the change.

Our city authorities are perploxed over the question were fervent saints, he of the unemployed as there is quite an army of them congregated here. Our brethren are fairly fortunate in getting employment.

The pastor spoke Sunday night on the subject of "Eternal Judgment" to a good hous; and with good 102 North 39th, Seattle, Wash., Dec. 10.

J. M. Terry.

GRAND VIEW BRANCH.

A series of meetings was recently held at this place, continued for two weeks. Bro. R. Bullard and which continued for two weeks. Bro. R. Bullard and Bro. George Jenkins of Independence were the speakers. Previous to the series of meetings two more precious souls were added to our number. No others as yet have given their names for baptism, but we trust ere long, to see the fruits of the seed which has been sown. For to see the figure of the seen which has been sown. For the brethren did certainly bring forth good thoughts for the saints as well as those not in the fold. May our heavenly Father add his blessings, and may we all work together for the advancement of the cause in which we ate engaged, is my desire.

Mrs. W. A. Curtis.

3216 Barnett Ave., Kansas City, Kans., Dec. 8.

CENTRAL CHICAGO BRANCH.

At the memorial service Sunday morning our district president, Jasper O. Dutton was the speaker. He brought in his remarks the beautiful and sound characterout in his remarks the beautiful and sound characteristics possessed by our beloved Prophet, who has just passed on to his reward. The hymns selected by Joseph to be used at his funeral, were sung at our service and many were the tears that flowed as the sweet Spirit. of God consoled our hearts, grieving the loss of a be-loved friend, but comforted in the thought that his crown was sure. What a world of comfort as we view his atti-tude depicted in his last testimony manifesting his great love for the church.

Bro. David E. Dowker occupied at the evening giving a rousing sermon upon what constituted

Since changing the Religio from Sunday to Friday vening it has mede marked progress. The Sunday evening it has made marked progress. The Sunday school is still marching in the front rank under the able management of Bro. John J. Oliver.

The mid-week prayer services are spiritual and well

The first week of January has been set aside as selfdenial week-all moneys saved to go into branch treas-

Commencing January 10th a series of special meetings commencing January 10th a series of special meetings will be held in this branch terminating with the district conference January 23rd and 24th. Patriarch J. W. Wight and Elder J. O. Dutton will be the speakers. We are looking for our missionary in charge, J. F. Curtis to drop around and take a hand. 3m2m2m2M2m2m2m2m2m2

CORRESPONDENCE

THE ST

ĽŠ.

Marshall, Mo., Nov. 9

Dear Ensign:-Elder F. L. Sawley of Independence, Mo., Dear Ensign:—Elder F. L. Sawley of Independence, Mo, who has been with us three weeks, preaching nearly every evening, and on November 1st three sisters were baptized by him. We believe there are others near the door, and that a branch will be organized here in time. We have a band of twenty. All are trying to set a good example before the world, and may the efforts that are being put forth to get the truth before the people here, as well as in other places, not be in vain.

In gospel bonds Joseph Kirby.

(Continued on page 6, col. 2.)

THE IMMUTABILITY OF GOD'S LAW. WHO IS GUILTY?

A sermon by Elder J. S. Roth Beloved hearers. I am truly glad that I have this opportunity of presenting God's word to you for your consideration. I do not think there is a class or people under the sun that is so misunderstood, and so misrepresented, as the people represented by your speaker. We are accused of adding to, and taking from God's holy word, just because we believe that God is unchangeable, and does speak to his children today, just as he did anciently; and for that reason we are warned by men that we have no right to add to God's word. I believe with all my soul that no man, or set of men, have the right to add one single word, or sentence to God's word, and present it to the people for their consideration as God's law; for God is unchangeable, and his law is immutable. But I think I can show from the Scriptures, that those who claim that we have added to, or taken from God's word, are the very ones who have done so. Now if I prove that I am sure no one should object to it. But should I fail, then one contention goes by the board.

Now I want to read a text, and you will find it in Ecclesiastes 3:14, 15. It says: "I know that, whatsoever God doeth, it shall be forever; nothing can be put to it, nor anything taken from it; [that is by man] and God doeth it, that men should fear before him. That which hath been is now; and that which is to be hath already been: and God requireth that which is past.

Now we might meditate on that text for hours, or even days, and we would still find more food for thought in it. I want to impress the first thought deeply upon your minds. That sentence proves that God is unchangeable—for what he doeth, it shall be forever-and that his law is immutable. Therefore the plan of salvation never changes; and the organization of his Church is not to be altared by man. But I have heard the statement made that God has one way of saving the Jews and then another plan for saving the Gentiles. I have a book that teaches that. If that is true, then my text is false; which will you take, the Bible or man's teachings? Can you believe that the writer of the text made a mistake when he said "whatsoever God doeth it shall be forever"? I cannot afford to believe that he is wrong. I cannot believe that when they wrote by inspiration, they made mistakes. If we could believe that they were all false prophets, then we might believe that they were wrong. There were some false prophets at that time for Peter says so in 2 Peter 2:1. But they were not inspired by the Holy Spirit. But our text was written by a true prophet. And he says, "I know," no guess work, he understood what he was talking about. I would not dare say that God did not inspire him to say what he did.

But before I examine that any farther I want to give you another text found in Deuteronomy 4:2. "Ye shall not add unto the word which I command you, neither shall ye diminish ought from it." The same warning is repeated in chapter 12:32. I can conceive of no other reason for God to be so very particular about it, than because he is unchangeable and his law is immutable; and I fully believe that when God gives man a law, that man has no right to change it, either by adding thereto or subtracting therefrom. James says in 1:17, that God has no variableness, neither shadow of turning. That confirms the first text, that what God doeth shall be forever. Now I will give you the strongest text in the whole Bible, and the one that is hurled at us the most of all. It is in Rev. 22:18, 19. "For I testify unto every man that heareth the words of the prophecy of this book. If any man shall add unto these things, God shall add unto him the plagues that are written in this book; and if any man shall take away from the words of the book of this prophecy, God shall take away his part out of the book of life, and out of the holy city, and from the things which are written in this book." Now that surely belongs to us, and to every son and daughter of Adam's race, no difference when he has lived or when he shall live. He has no right to add to, or to take from God's word. is just as great a crime as the other; for he that addeth, shall have the plagues added, and he that diminisheth, shall lose his glory.

Now the question may arise, what right have we as a church, or individually to receive revelations from God when it positively forbids man to add to God's word? Yes, that is the very point at issue. It does not say that God has no right to add to his word; he withholds that right from man only. He still holds the right to speak to his people. If he cannot and dare not speak to his children any more through his prophets after he gave that instruction to Moses; then Isaiah, Jeremiah, Daniel, Hosea, and all the prophets will have added to them the plagues, written in that book. Can you see the inconsistency of such a position. God did not curtail his own right to add, but he will not allow man to add to it, for Peter says in 2 Peter 1:21 that "prophesy came not in old time by the will of man; but holy men of God spake as they were moved by the Holy Ghost." A very good reason I think why God will not allow man to add, because he would be liable to make mistakes, but when God moves on him by the Holy Ghost then he will tell the truth and it is God and not man that adds. So now we have firmly fixed it, that no man has a right to add or diminish from God's word.

But we will procede by adding another text. euteronomy 32:31, "For their rock is not as Deuteronomy 32:31, our rock, even our enemies themselves being judges." Their rock is not our rock; that is, they do not stand on the same ground or foundation that we do. That is, our enemies do not believe that we have a right to have a revelation now and we do, that is the difference; and I shall prove that we are right, and they (who oppose us) shall be the judges. That is surely fair to all, is it not?

Some people are ready to throw up their hands in holy horror when we talk of God giving us revelation now. "O" they say, "that is dangerous doctrine, it opens the way for heresy to get into the church." They say, "a man might give a false revelation." Yes, of course a man might. But we are not talking about a man giving revelation, but of God giving them. Cannot we trust God now, just as well as they did anciently? I admit that there have been false revelations given, but not by the Holy Ghost, but by a false spirit or by the spirit of man, that is why God forbade man to give revelations, because he is liable to err, and to express his own carnal desires, just as Brigham Young did when he gave that false revelation on polygamy. For that revelation makes God contradict himself; and God never contradicts himself. So we are sure that Brigham's revelation was from the wrong spirit.

But we are fold that we need no more revelation, we have the Bible and that is all we need. I have a letter from a preacher in Pennsylvania in which he says, "We have all that we need, since the day that Christ ascended to heaven, we have all in the Bible, or all the revelation that we need for our salvation. For that reason, says he, "the L. D. S. church claims too much, for we need no more revelation." Can you believe all that? Can you believe that we do not need the whole New Testament? For not one word of it was written when Christ ascended. All that Paul, Peter, James, John, and all of the Apostles wrote, was done after that. And Paul says in Galatians 1:12: "For I neither received it of man, neither was I taught it, but by the revelation of Jesus Christ." So you see that if we had all that So you see that if we had all that we needed when Christ ascended, then Paul was deceived. But I prefer to believe that Paul was right, and that man is wrong.

Will you believe that the Holy Ghost always told the truth? If so let us see what promise he made on the day of Pentecost; Acts 2:17. "And it shall come to pass in the last days, saith God, I will nour out of my Spirit upon all flesh; and your sons and your daughters shall prophesy, and your young men shall see visions, and your old men shall dream dreams; And on my servants and on my handmaidens I will pour out in those days of my Spirit; and they shall prophesy. You see it does not say that they should prophesy till we had the Bible, then no more. But when they got the Holy Ghost, in the last days. Is that true? or did the Holy Ghost make a mistake? What think you about it?

Jesus says in John 16:12, 13, 14. "I have yet many things to say unto you, but ye cannot bear them now. Howbeit when he, the Spirit of truth, is come, he will guide you into all truth; for he shall not speak of himself; but whatsoever he shall hear, that shall he speak; and he will show you things to come. He shall glorify me; for he shall receive of mine, and shall shew it unto you." Now I wish those who claim that Now I wish those who claim that we have no right to hear from God by revelation now, to tell us how they know that Jesus has told all that the disciples could not hear at that time. He says that the Holy Ghost will show them things to come. Has he done all that? If so how do they know? Have they received a revelation since the Bible was written? If they have, then why cannot some one else. If they have not, then they do not know a thing about it. Has God told man all that he, God, knows? Has he nothing more to say to us? Is that the way an earthly towards his family? After they have served him, and loved him, and lived with him for years then he says to them, "Weil I am done with you now. I will have no more to do with you. I will never speak to you again. I told you when you were little children all that I ever intended to say to you, so do not bother me any more, for I will not talk to you again." And he goes into his parlor and slams the door shut after him, and that is the last that those good children ever hear of their loving father. Did any of you ever hear of a father that was "compos mentis" talk that way to his children? No you never did, and never will. If God will not speak to us any more, why do we pray to him. No use of praying, if God is retired, and will not answer.

But if Jesus has not told all, or revealed all that he had to tell his disciples, then I claim that he will still show us things to come, man to the contrary notwithstanding. Jesus says in the last chapter of Matthew, 28:20, "Teaching them to observe all things whatsoever I have commanded you; and lo, I am with you alway, even unto the end of the world." Now if the world has not come to an end then Jesus will be with his church. on the condition that we observe all that he How can Jesus be with us alway? Only by his Holy Spirit. And that is to confirm the believer by the gifts which follow the believers. The Spirit showing them things yet to come; as also stated in Mark 16:17. "And these signs shall follow them that believe: In my name shall they cast out devils, they shall speak with new tongues," etc. They shall speak with new tongues; God is going to show them something, and they will have power by the Spirit to reveal it to others by an unknown tongue, and the interpretation of it. Jesus has promised to do that till the end of the world in his church. Man says that he will not. Now who has taken from the word of God? Are they not those who say Jesus will not do that? Therefore they shall have taken from them their part to the tree of life. I think the question is well answered in 2 Samuel 12:7: "Thou art the man."

They shall cast out devils. So says Jesus. have heard people say that there was no devil, but all that was evil was devil. I heard a preacher says that all the devil that there is, is our evil wicked desires, the evil that is within us, that is all the devil that there is. Well if that is true. then it puts Jesus in rather a bad light. See Matthew 4:5. "Then the devil taketh him up into the holy city, and setteth him on a pinnacle of the temple. Is it possible that the evil desires of Jesus led him up there. This translation says it was the devil, so you see some one else has taken from the word of God and has added something else. now who is guilty? Thou art the man. The 9th verse says, The devil said all these things will I give thee, if thou wilt fall down and worship Is it possible that it was only the evil desires and wicked thoughts of Jesus that did all that talking? Now who is guilty of adding to God's word? Thou art the man. Let me give you another quotation along that line. Matthew 25:41. "Depart from me, ye cursed, into everlasting fire, prepared for-wicked thoughts and desires and their angels? No, no that is the way the man that adds to God's word talks, but Jesus said,-"Prepared for the devil and his angels." wicked thoughts and desires is the devil, who are his angels? are they small wicked thoughts or desires? Is there a devil? Jesus says there is, In Luke 10:18, we read "I beheld Satan as light-ning fall from heaven." Was that only wicked thoughts or desires that fell from heaven? But how about Paul in Galatians 1:7-9. If man or angels preach any thing else than Paul preached, he shall be accursed. So then there is a devil, and he caused Adam and Eve to sin and fall down from the holy condition they were in. But the poet has truly portrayed the mind of some people in this age of the world. And if they did not do so by inspiration, they were good guessers, as one wrote in the following words.

Men don't believe in a devil now, as their fathers used

They've forced the doors of the widest creed to let his majesty through,

There isn't a print of his cloven foot, nor a fiery dart from his bow

To be found in earth or air today; for the world has voted it so.

But who is mixing the terrible draught that palsies heart and brain?

Who loads the bier of each passing year with the hundred thousand slain?

who blights the bloom of earth today with the fiery breath of hell?

If the devil isn't and never was, won't somebody rise and

Who digs the steps of the toiling saint? Who digs the pits for his feet? sows the tares in the field of Time, wherever God sows the wheat?

The devil is voted not to be, and of course the thing is

But who is doing the terrible work which the devil alone can do?

We're told that he does not go about like a roaring lion now; But whom shall we hold responsible for the everlasting

To be heard in church and state today to earth's remotest bound. If the devil by unanimous vote, is nowhere to be found?

Won't somebody step to the front forthwith, and make his bow and show,

How the frauds and crimes of a single day spring up.

We'd like to know. The devil is voted not to be, and of course the devil's gone. But simple people would like to know who carries his

But if we are in Christ's church, we have a right to receive revelations from God, and to prophesy by the Holy Spirit. As we see in Acts 2:38. "Then Peter said, Repent, and be baptized, every one of you in the name of Jesus Christ for the remission of sins, and ye shall receive the gift of the Holy Ghost." Here is a promise to all who obey his word, then and now. And in the 17th verse is another one to all flesh. That is in the last days, your sons and daughters shall prophesy. Now who has taken away from this book? Thou art the man.

business on.

In 1 Corinthians 12:28, we learn that God set in the Church first, apostles; second, prophets; and in the 12th verse he says the body is one; and in Colossians 1:18, it says the body is the Church; then if the body is the Church, and Paul says that the body, the Church is one, not two or three hundred, then somebody has added all the rest, and whosoever did that will come under condemnation. For the first text says that "whatsoever God doeth shall be forever." No man has a right to add to it, not even in churches or organizations. Now who is guilty of adding to what God has done? Thou art the man.

God set into that one body apostles, and what he doeth it shall be forever. No man has the right to take them out of it, and if twelve apostles are not in the Church today as they were when God set them there-living men-then somebody has taken them out, and he shall have taken from him his part of the holy city. Who is guilty now of taking out of God's word, or Church? They who have dispensed with those officers,they are the men. I told you in the start that I would prove that those who blamed us for that crime were the guilty ones, and I will continue to prove it to the end of this sermon. The 18th verse says that God set them in the body (not bodies.) as it pleased him. Now if it pleased God to set twelve live men in his church as apostles, and next prophets, and they were all live men, when and where did he ever tell man that he was displeased with his work now? and that he made a mistake, and would change his plan, and for man to take them out for their work was all done? O. that will not do. for they say God does not speak to man any more. Then where, O where, did man get the right to organize churches so diverse from the one Christ organized? Yes, who, O. who, dare to preach, and do so contrary to what Faul did? Thou art the man.

But those who take the right of adding to and subtracting, say that when the twelve apostles died, then they had no more use for new ones; but they forget that as one of them was kill d the vacancy was filled by another one chosen by revelation. - See Acts 13:2. Ghost said, "Separate me Barnahas and Saul for the work whereunto I have called them." see without revelation, we have no God-called ministry. For they must be called by revelation. See Heb. 5:4. "No man taketh this honor on He must be called as was Aaron by revelation. But as I said, when one of the officers was killed the vacancy was filled by another (because the office still remained) till we have the names of some 18 or 20 anostles, but only twelve at a time. So you see what God doeth it shall be forever, and that which hath been is now, and the same organization of the Church that has been in Christ's day is now, and ever shall be. For no man has a right to change it by addition or subtraction. Now if any come to you and tell you that you do not need those officers nor the gifts, they are taking away from the word of Who is guilty? Thou art the man.

Paul says in Galatians 1:8, 9, that if a man or an angel preach anything different from that which he preached, he shall be accursed, that is he shall have taken from his part out of the holy city; you see it is a fearful thing to trifle with God's word. Now see what Paul says in 1st Corinthians 14:1: "Follow after charity and desire spiritual gifts, but rather that ye may prophesy." Verse 5. "I would that ye all spake prophesy." with tongues, but rather that ye prophesied." "If any man think himself to be a prophet, or spiritual, let him acknowlege that the things that I write unto you are the commandments of the Lord. * * * Wherefore, brethren, covet to prophesy, and forbid not to speak with tongues." Are we spiritual? Can we have the Spirit of God, and deny these gifts? No, verily no. He that denies them is taking from the word of God, and he shall have taken from him his part of the tree of life. So again you see that those who accuse us of adding or subtracting from the word of God are the guilty ones. Thou art the man.

I read in John 3:5: "Jesus answered, Verily, verily I say unto thee, Except a man be born of water and of the Spirit, he cannot enter into the kingdom of God." I quoted that to a man some time ago, and he said "Well that was all right for the Jews, but it is not for us. We can be saved without being baptized." Another man said, that Jesus did not mean water. But he meant the word, that we must be born of the word and the Spirit. Another said it meant the truth; and another said it meant when we were born into this world. Jesus said it meant water. Now you can readily see that each of these men were adding or subtrasting from the word of And yet they were all ready to cry, "deceivers, false prophets," when we claim that God had revealed more of his word to us. Now who is the guilty one? Let our enemies be the judges.

I heard a man say once, that any one who believed that he had to be baptized before he could be saved, was mistaken and made water his God, for Jesus Christ saved us by faith. Now was he adding or subtracting from God's word? Let us see what Jesus says about that in Acts 9:6-8. "And he [Saul] trembling and astonished said, Lord, what wilt thou have me to do? And the Lord said unto him, [only believe on Jesus. No, that is man's way]. Jesus said unto him, Arise, and go into the city, and it shall be told thee what thou must do." Now what did Ananias tell him that he must do? See Acts 22:16, "And now why tarriest thou? 17 for the answer. arise, and be baptized, and wash away thy sins, calling on the name of the Lord." Also John 3:5. "Except a man be born of water and the Spirit, he cannot enter into the kingdom of God. Is it possible that any can be so blind as not to see what Jesus meant when he told those, Saul and others, what they must do to be saved and then turn around and say that they can be saved and not do what he or they had to do? He that does that is guilty of both adding and subtracting from God's word.

A preacher told me that baptism was not essential to salvation, because Paul said that he was glad that he had baptized none. I asked him, Did Paul say that he had baptized none? and the answer was "Yes." "Well," I said "I never saw that." We got the Bible and turned to 1 Corinthians 1:1-4, and read, "I thank God that I baptized none of you but Crispus and Gaius." That does not say that he was glad that he baptized none. And in the 16th verse he said that be baptized others. And I can show you that Paul baptized Lydia and her household. And in the 28th verse we read, Paul baptized the jailer and his household. Acts 18:8, he baptized still others. Acts 19:5, he kept right on baptizing. We that man guilty of adding? Thou art the man.

I read an account of a preacher in Chicago who took roses and pulled them to pieces, and then took a handful and scattered them on some babies heads, and while so doing, he said, "I baptize you in the name of the Father and of the Son and of the Holy Ghost." I fail to find anywhere that Jesus said that ye shall sprinkle roses on the children, but he did say "Except a man [not babies], be born of"-roses? No that is for him who adds to God's word--"water and the Spirit he cannot enter into the kingdom of God." Chicago preacher add and subtract? He certainly is the man.

I read in Colosians 2:12: "Buried with him in baptism, wherein also ye are risen with him through the faith of the operation of God who hath raised him from the dead." I can see no chance for any one to construe that to mean sprinkling roses on for baptism, without taking away and adding a lot and changing all.

I read some time ago that Elijah of Chicago, had baptized 225 in one day, and he baptized them all three times, face forwards. Some one asked him, "Do you claim that is the way that Christ baptized, three times face forwards? Elijah said, "No, but Jesus did not have the proper mode," What do you think about that? Did that man add to or subtract from God's word? Does that not sound a little like blasphemy? A man knew better than Jesus, and Jesus said I came not to do mine own will but the will of him that sent me. Did Jesus not know that the Father wanted him to be buried in baptism? And yet we read in Matthew 3:16: "And Jesus when he was baptized, went up straightway out of the water; and lo, the heavens were opened unto him, and he saw the Spirit of God descending like a dove, and lighting upon him; and lo a voice from heaven saying, This is my beloved Son, in whom I am well pleased." Is it possible that Jesus did not know the right mode of baptism? And yet he did just what pleased his Father. But perhaps the Father had not learned that sprinkling was just as good as a burial. Too bad that some one was not there to tell him which was the right way. They should have told him, Lord, in this enlightened age of the world when we bury a man, we put him half way into the ground, or still easier, we just sprinkle a little dirt on him, and that is what we call a true burial. Some one should have been there and said to Jesus; "O Jesus, why do you want to go into that water? why you will get your clothes wet, don't you know that you can be buried in baptism just as well by having a few drops of water sprinkled on your head? Don't you know that we have changed that so that into doesn't mean into any more? now it means near to, just close by, that is the way we bury now, just get near to, close by." In John 8:29, Jesus said, "And he that sent me is with me; the Father hath not left me alone for I do always those things that please him." So then from that I get the idea that Jesus was baptized all right, when he was buried in water, for he says that he always does that which pleases his Father. So then that leaves a great many who do that which does not please the Father.

In the 31st verse, "Then said Jesus to those Jews which believed on him: If ye continue in my word, then are ye my disciples indeed; and ye shall know the truth and the truth shall make you free." I cannot see any license in that for any one to add or subtract there. Others say that did not have the right mode of baptism, for Jesus did not say "If ye continue in so much of my words as suiteth you, then I will make you free." No but it is just the same as in Matthew 28:19, 20, teach then to observe all things whatsoever I have commanded you. No chance for and one to add or subtract there. Others say that baptism is not essential, because John says in his first Epistle, 1:7: "And the blood of Jesus Christ his Son cleanseth us from sin." Yes, it does say so, but that does not say that we need not to be baptized. To whom is he talking? those who had been baptized, and that is the way and the only way for us to apply the blood of Jesus. If you were in a deep hole in the ground, and no earthly chance for you to get out, and you would plead with a loud voice to those upon top of the ground to help you out, and some one would set a ladder just long enough to reach you so you could get out by it, and then you would shout, "O, I am so happy now for I am out! yes the ladder saved me for I am out; what good would that ladder do you unless you made use of it? You would have to apply yourself to the ladder, and apply the ladder to you. Just so with the blood of Jesus, we must apply the blood to us, and we must apply ourselves to the blood, by obeying all that Jesus commanded us to do. That is the only way that his blood will cleanse us from our sins.

Paul says in Hebrews 6:1, 2, that the principles of the doctrine of Christ are faith, repentance, baptisms-and you will notice that it is in the plural, water and the spirit-and then the laying on of hands? See Acts 8:17. Here we have Philip on of hands for the gift of the Holy Ghost from the doctrine of Christ? Paul says in 1st Timothy, "If any man teach otherwise and consent 6:3-7. not to the wholesome words, even the words of our Lord Jesus Christ, and to the doctrine which is according to godliness." So that gives nobody license to deviate from the doctrine of Christ. Now what is Christ's doctrine about the laying on of hands? See Acts 8:17. Here we have Philip baptizing men, women and-babies? No. No. Philip knew better than that, for he knew that they had to repent first, and babies have nothing to repent of, therefore they cannot be baptized. Who added baby baptism to God's word? Thou art the man.

When Peter and John came down from Jerusalem they prayed for those who had been baptized that they might receive the Holy Ghost, and they got the Holy Ghost just because they prayed for it? No, no, that is man's doctrine. But then they, Peter and John, laid their hands upon them, and they received the Holy Ghost. That is God's way. That is Christ's way also, as we see in Acts 9:6: Jesus told Saul what he must do. See 17th verse. And Ananias went his way, and entered the house and putting his hands on him and said, "Brother Saul, the Lord even Jesus, that appeared unto thee in the way as thou camest hath sent me, that thou mightest receive thy sight, and be filled with the Holy Ghost." Can any one twist the laying on of hands out of that? Mark it. Jesus sent him to lay on hands. Jesus said he must do that. And Christ said, teach all things whatsoever I have commanded you. And Paul said that if men or angels teach otherwise, he shall be acursed.

Now in Acts 19:6 we find out whether Paul complied with Christ's word and commandments. Paul remembered what Jesus told him, and the very first talk he had with him Jesus told him what he must do, that he must be baptized and have hands laid on him for the gift of the Holy Ghost. Now Paul comes to Enhesus and found some of those christians who did not believe in the laying on of hands. The man who baptized them did not teach it; so Paul rebaptized every one of them and then laved his hands on them so that they might receive the gift of the Holy Gnost. Paul remembered that Jesus told him that he must lay on hands. For that reason he rebaptized them all. The man who had baptized them was not called of God, see John 3:34,-he that is sent of God will speak the words of God. Just so today, he that does not preach the laying on of hands is not sent of God.

In Matthew 19:13, we have another use of the laying on of hands. "Then were there brought unto him little children, that he should put his hands on them and pray." Who has taken that out of the churches today? That ordinance was in the church away back there, as, you will see in Genesis 48:14, where Jacob blessed the two lads. Did they have more gospel in Jacob's day than now? Who is guilty of taking that ordinance out of the Bible? But thank God, that it is still practiced in the true church of Jesus Christ of Latter Day Saints, so we are not the ones who took away from the word of God, but thou art the man.

But just see what Paul has to say about those who teach wrong doctrine, Titus 1:10: "For there are many unruly and vain talkers and decivers, especially they of the circumcision; whose mouths must be stopped, who subvert whole houses, teaching things which they ought not, for filthy lust's sake." So we see there was money in the play, that is the reason they taught things that they ought not; and omitted some things that Christ taught, the laying on of hands, for instance, and taught things which he did not teach, such as sprinkling, which they teach to-day instead of baptism. Perhaps the money that is in it has something to do with that kind of preaching today? But when we turn to Paul's words in 2nd Thessalonians 1:7, 8, we learn that there is not much consolation for those who add and subtract from the teaching of Christ. We read there, "And you who are troubled rest with us, when the Lord Jesus shall be revealed from heaven with his mighty angels, in flaming fire taking vengeance on them that know not God, and that obey not the gospel of our Lord Jesus Christ." Not very consoling for those who teach only part of the gospel and leave out the rest, and substitute something else instead Now let me read the 9th verse, "Who shall be punished with everlasting destruction from the presence of the Lord, and from the glory of his power." O what a terrible, terrible punishment it will be for those who add or subtract from the teachings of Christ.

In John 14:12, we read: "Verily, verily, I say unto you, he that believeth on me, the works that I do shall he also do." And again in Mark 16:18, Jesus says they that believe in him shall lay hands on the sick, and they shall recover. Who has taken that from the teachings of Christ, Thou, who hast accused me of adding and subtracting, art the man.

In James 5:14, we read that if anybody is sick they shall-call the best doctor and if he gets well, the doctor did a good job; but if he dies, you must not blame the doctor for it is not his fault?-O I believe I got that a little mixed; but you must not blame me, for my father was a preacher, and I must watch very closely that I do not get his old ideas mixed in, and preach according to my old creed. But let me read it from the book now "Is any sick among you? [of course that means in the church of Christ1 let him call for the elders of the church: and let them pray over him anointing him with oil in the name of the Lord; and the prayer of faith shall save the sick and the Lord shall raise him up." Has anybody taken that out of the teachings of Christ? If so, why?

We believe all these things are still a part of the gospel and will continue to be, without adding to or taking from the word of God. Those who have rejected these things, and substituted others in their place, are the ones who have taken from and added to the word of God.

I will-close by quoting one more text found in Ecclesiastes 12:13: "Let us hear the conclusion of the whole matter; Fear God and keep his commandments: for this is he whole duty of man." And when we do that there is no chance or danger of anyone adding or subtracting from the teachings of Christ. May our God help us all to fear him with reverential fear so that we will kep all of his commandments, and not eliminate or add, but that we may be saved in his celestial kingdom. Amen.

(Correspondence Continued from page 3.)

Gentry, Ark., Dec. 2.
Editor Ensign:—The Riley-Hiner debate is a thing of record now. The usual Church propositions were under consideration between the Missionary Baptist and the Reorganized Church of Jesus Christ of Latter Day Saints. The debate was a six-day session, two sessions a day, two hours to the session, divided in half hour speeches each, commencing Nov. 2. This debate grow out of a series of meetings, held at Siloam Springs, Arkanass, by Brn. Dubose and Erwin. It was signed up to be held in the Baptist Church, by the Reverend Hiner, who came as a representative of the Missionary Baptist Church but they backed down and out and would not let us hold the debate in the church, thinking there could be no place secured to hold it. So we got together and rented a building that would seat about 500 or 600 people.
Well to say the least the debate was a complete victory

Well to say the least the debate was a complete victory for us. The Reverend Himer, from the commencement of the debate, began to sling mud and was the weakest man to be put up as a debater that I ever saw, but as a mud dobber he fills the bill. While we had our propositions on trial the Reverend Himer would say, "I do not charge my opponent nor his moderator of being polygamists, but the church they represent are polygamists and are a polygamous outfit, and would yell "Old Joe," and all such things, and tried to bring up and show that the Book of Mormon was a fraud and a farce, and said it was written from the Snaulding romance. Then Bro. Riley took up the Book of Mormon proposition and showed where the original writings of the Spaulding romance was placed in the Oberlin College as a record and it was never written from it and took the Book of Mormon also the Spaulding romance and laid them down on the Reverend Hiner's table, and laid a silver dollar on top and said, "Brother Hiner, if you will find just one single passage or sentence in those two books that read alike the books are yours, and also the dollar;" but Hiner never made the attempt, but dropped it like a cat would a hot potato. Then the last for him to fall back on was the old copper sorghum pan story, so thin it would not even make a shadow, and Bro. Riley showed how silly it was. When their propositions came on the dissecting table the Reverend Hiner could not affirm them, and did the best he could and tried to trace their Church back to

When their propositions came on the dissecting table the Reverend Hiner could not affirm them, and did the best he could and tried to trace their Church back to Christ and even back to John the Baptist. Bro. Riley then told him not to do it, for he would put him into one of the worst polygamous outlits ever was, but the Rev. Hiner wanted to go there, for he kept trying to get back to John the Baptist, so Bro. Riley was forced to snow them up, and read from Mosheim's history where one Bockhold a Missionary Baptist preacher and a body of members were assembled and prayed and then stripped themselves naked, men and women, and run through the street and said they were the naked truth. Now Bro. Riley said, "I told you not to try to get back, you did it yourself."

Bro. Riley is a competent debater and showed all

Bro. Riley is a competent debater and showed all through the debate a spirit that cometh from the Mester, while with his opponent it was dirt and mud from the commencement to the close.

This has been a very bitter place, one of the bitterest I was ever in, but the debate has done much good and removed lots of prejudice that never could have been removed save by a debate.

moved save by a debate.

The Baptists certainly went down in defeat. Three days while the Baptist Church was on trial they began to decorate the dead, but at the close Bro. Riley was covered with blue ribbons. So we feel satisfied with the outcome of the debate. At the close Bro. Riley led three precious souls down into baptism, and buried them in a watery grave for the remission of their sins. We feel there can be much good accomplished here at this place if the work is kept up. Your humble writer acted as Bro. Riley's moderator.

We ask an interest in the prayers of all of God's people that we may have a portion of the Master's Spirits ow emay be able to live lives worthy of being called Saints, and be redeemed when the Master comes to claim his own. Ever praying for the welfare of His people and the upbuilding of His kingdom on earth, I am your brother in gospel bonds,

A. L. Miller.

Wesselsgade, Copenhagen, Denmark, Nov. 24. Editor Ensign—I send you a few lines from this northern country, having seen nothing from this field in your columns lately. I need not go into details about the war, and the troubled conditions that are causing so much anxiety in the minds of the people in Europe and which no doubt is felt more or less in all parts of the world, as you have all the news in regard to this terrible condition as complete as we do here. Besides, anything I might now write would be stale and out of date by the time it would reach your readers, and probably be overshadowed by later events and developments.

I spent about two weeks in Germany recently and saw

I spent about two weeks in Germany recently and saw some of the dreadful effects of the war, that to me seemed extremely sad. I saw the young and strong, happy and gay, many of them boys yet in their "teens," being drilled and prepared for war. I saw large trainloads of men rolling on towards the battlefield, shouting and singing, but could not fail to observe the contrast between them and the sick and wounded who were constantly returning. With the latter war had evidently lost its charms, if ever it had any. I saw wives and children, also parents of some who were in the war, and observed to some extent, the sadness and anxiety that prevails in so many homes.

Fourteen of our brethren have been compelled to respond to the call to arms; how many of them were yet among the living was not known, as all had not been heard from, but out of six that were gone from Hannover and Braunschweig, (Branswick) one was dead, three wounded and only two were well and unharmed when last heard from. It is hoped that the others have been more fortunate and that their lot has been less serious. Our German brethren consider it a sad thing that some of our members are found as volunteers, in the opposite army, while they are compelled to serve by the law of their country.

While the many are embued with the spirit of war and

While the many are embued with the spirit of war and the general intorest centers around carnal victories, even when that has cost thousands and thousands of lives, and untold sorrow and suffering, I am happy to report that a few have enlisted under the banner of "the Prince of Peace," whose kingdom is not of this world, and whose servants are not engaged in the shedding of blood. True, this army is comparatively small and has no prospects of immediate triumph, yet they are confident of final victory, and a few are now and then enlisting with them to further swell their ranks.

In the city of Hannover we have a branch of 24 members, with prospects of further additions in the near future. Bro. Gustav Huvendick is the presiding officer and seems to be the right man for the position. He was ordained an elder while I was there, having since last February occupied as a priest, and has been blessed, and been successful in his labors. He has been assisted by Brethren Hundertmark and Retimeyer as teachers, but the latter has lately been called into the military service, thus taking him away from his work in the branch, for which he seems better adapted than to go to war, as he is known as a peacemaker rather than a man to fight. I was pleased to find a lively Sunday school, which the day I spent with them had an attendance of 45, a large percentage being children whose parents are not in the church, and the day was by no means pleasant, as it rained all morning until the Sunday school hour. Both Sunday school and the regular branch meetings are held in a commodious hall in a good location, and much credit is due the little band of Saints for their sacrifice and devotion during the disturbed conditions and nard times that prevails in the land.

We have also a branch at braunschweig of about the same size as in Hannover, and here also has been made excellent progress since I was with them nine months. They have, however, on account of the hard times, been compelled to give up their hall, and were houding their meetings in private homes. This condition had led to the discontinuance of the Sunday school for the present, but it is hoped that they, in the near luture, may find themselves in position to obtain a permanent place and themselves in position to obtain a permanent part for worship, where also the Sunday School may inter its part. Dro. Gustav Gerwich, nothing the office of priest, is in charge of the branch and has occupied instability and well and has been permitted to see several unite with the church that bigs jair to become useful members. Bro. Ernst Engelske was ordained a teacher, and it is hoped that he, under the biessings of the Lord, may be able to watch over the little flock and help preserve them from the evil intuences, that seemingly had come very near bringing in division among them, causing discouragement to some. I test them feeling well, nowever, and I trust the late sad experience may be the eans to make all concerned wiser.

We have also a branch at klein Rashen which I did not visit, but I have had encouraging reports from there. I would have been pleased to have met Bro. Johan Smoiny who is in charge, but as he and other branch officers are called away into the cruel war. I could not them, even if I had found it practicable to visit the place.

There are also a small membership at Hamburg and at a number of other places in that land, and Germany promises to become a very important field that must be looked after. I found the Samus kind and nospitable, seemingly esteeming it a privilege to minister to the needs and comforts of the missionary. My preaching to them was by the aid of Bro. A. Rippe as interpreter. I met him in Hamburg and we traveled togetner to Hannover and Brunschweig. I am indebted to him for his assistance, as without it I could have done but little or nothing. Both Saints and non members paid carnest attention, and many expressed regrets that we could not converse together, only with disculty, which otherwise would have made my sojourn among them, not only more pleasant, but also more profitable. It was learned that pleasant, but also more profitable. a family at Eimbeck was awaiting baptism which Bro.

Kippe would attend to the following Sunday.

Notwithstanding the dreadful disturbed conditions that prevail I encountered no difficulty in Germany. All of war, while I was there, causing no little stir, but I suffered no inconvenience, but on the other hand was treated with kindness and great courtesy from all. I had obtained a passport from the U.S. legation in Copenhagen, and had the same endorsed by the German Consul, also in that city, before venturing to the land of war. I would not otherwise felt safe under present conditions; in fact, I would not have been permitted to enter upon the soil of

I returned from Germany to Denmark on Nov. 13, and spent Sunday, the 15th, at Copenhagen, preaching to a few. Bro. P. T. Anderson is at present looking after the interest there, which is not as encourging as we could wish, but we are hoping for better, and more favorable con-ditions. On the 17th I took train for Goteborg, Sweden passing through Helsingborg, quite early in the morning. passing through Helsingborg, quite early in the morning. Here I was pleased to meet Bro. C. A. Swenson who is laboring in that part of the field and also Sr. Nellie Powlson, both of whom had come to the landing to greet the traveler. The latter had remembered that the physical man also have to be fed and had brought a lunch for me to devour on the journey, which was highly appreciated.

Bro. J. H. Hansen met me at the railway station Goteborg, so I was still in good hands and Bru, and Sr. Johnson and Bro, and Sr. Bodin ministered to my needs and comforts during my two days stay in that city. On the evening of the 17th I preached to a nice audience of intelligent looking people, largely non members, but I only occupied part of the time, giving Bro. Hanson also believes the action of the control a chance to speak, as I feared my Danish brogue did not sound altogether comprehensible in Swedish ears. I learned, however, afterwards, that some understood me fairly well, while others only partially so.

I came to Christiana, Norway, on the 19th, where I visited among the few saints and tried to secure a hall for preaching, but failing in this, I came on to this place on the 21st. Here I met Bro. P. Muceus engaged in the work and we have had good meetings while we have been together, preaching twice last Sunday and will preach we expect to remain here over Sunday after which we return by way Christiania expecting to visit Porsgrund, Kragero, Arrendal and possibly other points as the way may open up

In gospel bonds,

H. N. Hanson.

THE YEARLY OFFER ON THE ENSIGN.

November and December are bargain months as usual, during which time the Ensign will be sent to non-memduring which time the Ensign will be sent to non-members at half price. This offer, as usual is good only in the United States possessions, as the extra postage to foreign countries prohibits this offer extending there. It is good only during the months of November and December. It is unfair and hardly honorable for membecomer. It is unfair and hardly honorable for member to stop their paper and then subscribe in the name of a member of their family who does not belong to the churca not the sake of getting it at half price. That is not Cay object of this offer. It is for the sake of spreading the gospel among outsiders.

No subscription on this care.

No subscription on this offer is acceptable for less

Address, Ensign Publishing House, Independence, Mo.

DEPARTMENT OF

Woman's Auxiliary for Social Service

88. MAUDE MILLS, EDITOR, 5 8 0 1 subspendence, Mo

NOTICE.

All persons sending cone to th Woman's Auxiliery for any purpose, including subscriptions to Home and Child Welfare letters or Children's Home domittions, please forward same to the letter of the the Auxiliary, Mrs J A Gardner, 7118. Fuller Ave., Independence Mo. AUXILIAN MRS J A GARDNER PROPERTY.

lependence Mo.

ADVISORY BOARD.

Mrs. S. R. Burgess, President, 540 Etzel Ave., St. Louis, Mo.
Mrs. B. C. Smith, Vice President, 214 S. Spring St., Independ-S. B. C. Smith, Vice President, 412 ... Specific St., Independ Ss. Minnie E. Scott, Secretary, 521 W. Electric St., Independ Miss Minnie E. Scott, Secretary, 221 W. Electric St., Independence, Mo. Mrs. J. A. Gardner, Treasurer, 711 S. Fuller Ave., Independence, Mrs. J. A. Gardner, Treasurer, 711 S. Fuller Ave., Independence, Mrs. J. A. Gardner, Treasurer, 711 S. Fuller Ave., Independence, Mrs. J. A. Gardner, Treasurer, Mrs. J. A. Gardner, Mrs. J. A. Mrs. M. A. Etzenhouser, 1595 W. Walnut St., Independence, Mo. Mrs. D. J. Krahl, 724 S. Crysler St., Independence, Mo.

Home and Child Welf re Department, Mrs. H. A. Stebbins, La-ji, lowa. rome and unity weit for Department, Mrs. H. A. Stebbins, Lamoldi, and Educational Department, Mrs. Lydia Thomas Wight, Lational, lova Eugenics Department, Mrs. Jennie Studley, 17 E. Cottage St., Dameslic Stepartment, Mrs. Bertha Anderson Hulmes, Demostic Stell B uffis Iowa.

Sewing and Aid Depart s.ent, rs Edith Cochran, 207 S. Sevententh Mrs. J. Joseph, O. Young Woman's Department, Mrs. J. A. Gardner, 711 S Fuller Ave., Independence, Mo.

THE EDUCATIONAL DEPARTMENT OF THE WOMAN'S AUXILIARY.

Note: Many states have associations or societies which publish Hand Books of the State, for instance The Hand Book of Iowa is published by the Iowa Columbian Cimmission. These Hand Books with reports made by the State Park and Forestry commissions by Hor-ticultural Societies, and other associations will furnish sufficient material for Lessons 4 and 5.

In addition to this, much information may be gained from those geography texts which are published with special editions for each state, such as the Tarr and Mc-Murry text. The state geography is universally given in the back of these texts and will furnish very satisfactory information on most of the topics.

Outline for Lesson Four.

State History, eg., Iowa. Location.

the United States 1. 2.

- With reference to other states (give boundaries.) Size
- Area, length, breadth.
- Compared with other states and countries. C.
- Topography. . General slope, altitude.
- 2. Specific features of surface.
  - Elevations. Watersheds and divides.
- (1) Watershe (2) Valley
- Streams and Lakes.

- (1) Beauty.
  (2) Commercial value—used for power or transportation. D. Natural Resources.

- Soil.
- Climate.
- Minerals. Water (medicinal wells, etc.)

References: All this material is in the Iowa Hand Book. Much of it is treated in Iowa geography texts. The material in the Hand Book for 1893 will be found between pages 8 and 51.

Brief: When one is really alive to his surroundings, the state in which he lives may be found to contain much of the blessing of God, the beauties of nature and the abundance of provision. The Hand Book gives such excellent pictures of land of Ioya that we quote this work as written by Charles Ashton, James O. Crosby, and J. W. Jarnagin.

"Geographical Location."

"An artist once represented Columbus as standing an surveying the North American continent. surveying the North American continent. When his eyes rested upon the brightest spot, central in the vast expanse, that spot was named Iowa. Geographically it is centrally located in this union of states. On the forty-second parallel its eastern boundary is upwards of one thousand miles from the Atlantic's tide by Plymouth Rock, while on the same parallel from its western border Rock, while on the same parallel from its western bourded to the Pacific's surf-beaten shore, fifteen hundred miles intervene. From the northern line of the state to the British possessions by the Lake of the Woods, the distance is four hundred miles, while between the southern border of the state and the Gulf coast lie the states of Missouri, Arkansas and Louisiana, covering an expanse of 760 miles. A position so central in the richest, freest and most powerful nation of modern times, and central in the vast system of river navigation connected with the great streams that form its eastern and western boundaries, and so situated that the principal lines of railway binding ocean to ocean must cross its territory, must ever possess incalculable advantages in the security its location affords, the markets it assures, and the commercial advantages that must ever accrue to its

"Topography."

"Iowa is not only princely in its era and highly fortunate in its geographical location, but it is winsome in its topography. In the days of a geographical ignorin its topography. In the days of a geographical is ance, which an intelligent world remembers now ance, which an intelligent world remembers now with smiles, lowa may have been placed in school book maps in "The Great American Desert." But if this beautiful and fertile state was ever a desert, then spoke when he declared, "The wilderness and the soli-tary place shall be glad for them and the desert shall rejoice and blossom as the rose. ** The glory of Lebanon shall be given unto it and the excellency of Sharon." No grander cedars ever grew on Lebanon than now adorn Iowa homes, and no more beautiful or fragrant roses ever bloomed along the sunny slopes of Sharon than now grow in this realm of Edenic loveliness.

Sharon than now grow in this realm of Edenic loveliness. One of the more noticeable features of the topography of Iowa is the entire freedom of the state from barren, rocky elevations, or other waste lands. It has no Saharas, dismal swamps, nor fever-breeding everglades. From railroad surveys and other sources of information we have definite knowledge of the elevation of the chief portions of the state. Low water in the Mississippi at the southeastern corner of the state, its lowest point, height 444 feet shayes as level. being 444 feet above sea level.

The crest of the state or the summit forming the water shed between the waters of the Mississippi and the Missouri lies diagonally across the state; its gen-eral trend being from the northwest to the southcast. Entering Iowa from Minnesota where it separates the waters of the Des Moines and Little Sioux rivers, it leaves the state entering Missouri near the southeast orner of Appanoose county, there separating the waters the Chariton from the Fabins creek.

Any map of Iowa will show that the rivers in that part of the state which lies east of the great watershed, trend toward the southeast and flow into Mississippi trend toward the southeast and now into Mississippi, and that in the portion lying west of that summit all the rivers flow into the Missouri with the southwesternly trend. The traveler crossing lowa soon discovers that, although a prairie state, and lying under the moderate elevations given, it is not a breadth of swampy levels, but a realm of beautiful undulations,—in some places rising from the streams somewhat abruptly, but seldom precipituosly. The divides separating the numerous streams, generally rising to an altitude of 175 to 250 feet afford a constant succession of changing seenery. No country affords more graceful landscapes when clothin summer's green or when its groves are dyed in their autumn robes of silver, scarlet, gold and purple. Iowa land-scapes are grandly beautiful, and the traveler sees a breadth of farm homes beautiful in situation and surronding. The great fields of growing grain, in their season, add beauty to the delighting panoramas by every shade of green, covering the broad and billowy areas over which the eye extends. In the summer season great herds and flocks enchanting variety to the inviting picture. In that season enchanting variety to the inviting picture. In that season the enriching, life-giving sunshine paints the fioral gemmed meadows with a brilliancy of hue that makes the broad landscapes over which the vision reaches, constantly discovering new charms, superbly winsome. Paraphasing the language of inspiration we may truly continuity for the property of the property "beautiful for situation, and the joy of her people, beautiful, fertile Iowa.

MISCELLANEOUS

CONFERENCE NOTICE.

The semi-annual conference of the Northeastern Illinois district will meet with the Central Chicago Branch, corner of 66th Street and Honore Street, Jan. 23 and 24, 1916, at 10 a.m. Branch officers please take notice and have statistical reports on hand in due season. All branch officers please report your labors from June 1st to Dec. 1st, using the blanks in Herald Publishing House to Dec. 1st, using the blanks in Herald Publishing House catalogue No. 16b. we area desire reports from all holding the priesthood not acting as branch officers, reporting on the same blanks. Make it out when you read this. Do it now! Address the undersigned at 4339 Jackson Blvd., Chicago, Ill. Let us come with the good Spirit that a profitable season may be enjoyed.

J. O. Dutton, Dist. Pres.
F. E. Bone, Dist. Sec.

Novemeber 30, 1914.

To the Sunday School Superintendents:

To the Sunday Senool Superintendents:
I desire to supplement the letter sent you by Bishop Kelley under date of October 30th, in which he called your attention to the coming opportunity that your school would have to make a Christmas offering for the benefit of the work.

Since reading his letter I have been prompted to write Since reading his letter I have been prompted to write you that if possible I might aid in impressing upon you this great opportunity that the members of your school will have in bringing a Christmas offering and giving it to him who said "Come unto me all ye that labor and are are heavy laden and I will give you rest." The work has so grown and expanded that there is special need for a more generous gift this year than before. We fully realize that the schools in the aggre-cate have does religible in helping slong the work by gate have done splendidly in helping along the work by their Christmas offerings each year; but I have been so favorably impressed with the thought since reading the letter of Rishon Kelley, that with just a little extra effort the amount received last year might be doubled, and instead of the gifts amounting to about $10,000.00 they might easily amount to $20,000.00, and the opportunity is now present to use this amount for great good in the advancement and care of the work.

Will you kindly join us in urging your school to be one of the many to double their Christmas offering so that when the accounting is made we may find that while our hearts have been filled with the Christmas spirit each one has not forgotten to render unto Him who gave up his life for us a Christmas token in remembrance of his great goodness and love.

very sincerely yours,

E. A. Biakeslee

NOTICE.

The books of the stake bishopric close on Dec for the current year. Bring in your tithes and offerings for we have need of them. Help us help others who are in need. Room 8 Heredick Building.

Richard Bullard.

ENSIGN PUBLICATIONS.

And Other Books for Sale by the Eusign Publishing House.

Zion's Ensign, the missionermons and articles of the Eusign the missionermons and articles of the Eusign Per year $1.00 to Mornon Dictionary. A complete pronouncing Dictionary of proper names in the Book of Mornon, with definitions and explanatory notes. Paper, 25c; cloth, 40c; leather.

Doctrinal References. A complication of references under subject headings of texts connected with the gospel, taken from the Bible, Book of Mormon and Doctrine and Covenants. A very landy reference book. Paper covers, 10c; cloth, 15c; leather. pel, taken from the Bible, Book of Mormon and Doctrine and Covenants. A very handy reference book. Paper covers, 10c; cloth, 15, leather.

Our Missionaries in Bible Lands. A complication of interesting views according to the panied with comments, of a compliance in the panied with comments of the panied with comments of the panied with comments of the panied with comments of the panied with comments of the panied with the pani Paleatine of To-day $1.00

The Christian System $3.00

CAMBRIDGE AND BAGSTER BIBLES.
Order by Number.

H125X — Cambridge Teachers' edition.
French Morocco, India paper, silk sewed, opens falt, references, concordance, encyclopedia, helps, etc. and yet only % inch thick by 4%, as well with the sewed of the sewed opens falt, references, concordance, encyclopedia, helps, etc. and yet only % inch thick by 4%, as well with the sewed opens falt, references, concordance, encyclopedia, helps, etc. and yet only % inch thick by 4%, by 6%, and weighs only 14 ounger, and weighs only 14 ounger, only 14 ounger, and weight only 14 ounger, and weight only 14 ounger, and weight only 14 ounger, and weight only 15 ounger, and 14 ounger, and 15 ounger, and 16 ounger Pete $126.—Same as $125, with button clasp.$2.36 $130.—Same as $125, leather lined...$2.70 $115.—A fine little Bible at a low price. French Morecco, divinity circuit, red under gold edges, flexible, over-pping cover. Size, 5 \( \times \) \( \times \). $1.25 $16.—Same as $115, but has button clasp... $1.35 thick.

F66X—Same as F65X, with button clasp $1.60 F66X—Same as F65X, with button class R65X—Large type Bible in small compass, $1.60 R65X—Large type Bible in small compass, $2.60 R65X—Large type Bible in small compass, $2.60 R76X—Same as R65X, except binding French Levant and leacher lined. $2.80 R76X—Same as R65X, except binding French Levant and leacher lined. $4.25 R50 R50X—R50X—Large R50X—Large Bible. Because of the thin India paper it is only % of an inch thick. -Alaska Scal binding, otherwise the same as 04207X ......$4.50 same as 04207X ... $4.50
French Moiocco, divinity circuit, round corners, red under gold edges, nonparell type, self-pronouncing, maps and 32 photo view of scenes in Bible lands... $1.35
The Bible for the home use Large, clear print, French Morocco, divinty circuit, round corners, red under gold edges ... $2.60 -French gold edges $2.00

A model Bible. India paper, black faced minion type, French Morocco, divinity circuit, linen lined, round corners, red under gold edges, 74x 5% inches $2.75 OXFORD TESTAMENTS. We give such Bibles as are carried in stock, but can supply any Bible on reasonably short notice. The Oxford line of Bibles is very extensive, from which we list a few of the best and most popular ones. TRACTS. TRACTS.

TRACTS.

TRACTS.

TRACTS.

TRACTS.

TRACTS.

TRACTS.

TRACTS.

TRACTS.

TRACTS.

TRACTS.

TRACTS.

TRACTS.

TRACTS.

TRACTS.

TRACTS.

TRACTS.

TRACTS.

TRACTS.

TRACTS.

TRACTS.

TRACTS.

TRACTS.

TRACTS.

TRACTS.

TRACTS.

TRACTS.

TRACTS.

TRACTS.

TRACTS.

TRACTS.

TRACTS.

TRACTS.

TRACTS.

TRACTS.

TRACTS.

TRACTS.

TRACTS.

TRACTS.

TRACTS.

TRACTS.

TRACTS.

TRACTS.

TRACTS.

TRACTS.

TRACTS.

TRACTS.

TRACTS.

TRACTS.

TRACTS.

TRACTS.

TRACTS.

TRACTS.

TRACTS.

TRACTS.

TRACTS.

TRACTS.

TRACTS.

TRACTS.

TRACTS.

TRACTS.

TRACTS.

TRACTS.

TRACTS.

TRACTS.

TRACTS.

TRACTS.

TRACTS.

TRACTS.

TRACTS.

TRACTS.

TRACTS.

TRACTS.

TRACTS.

TRACTS.

TRACTS.

TRACTS.

TRACTS.

TRACTS.

TRACTS.

TRACTS.

TRACTS.

TRACTS.

TRACTS.

TRACTS.

TRACTS.

TRACTS.

TRACTS.

TRACTS.

TRACTS.

TRACTS.

TRACTS.

TRACTS.

TRACTS.

TRACTS.

TRACTS.

TRACTS.

TRACTS.

TRACTS.

TRACTS.

TRACTS.

TRACTS.

TRACTS.

TRACTS.

TRACTS.

TRACTS.

TRACTS.

TRACTS.

TRACTS.

TRACTS.

TRACTS.

TRACTS.

TRACTS.

TRACTS.

TRACTS.

TRACTS.

TRACTS.

TRACTS.

TRACTS.

TRACTS.

TRACTS.

TRACTS.

TRACTS.

TRACTS.

TRACTS.

TRACTS.

TRACTS.

TRACTS.

TRACTS.

TRACTS.

TRACTS.

TRACTS.

TRACTS.

TRACTS.

TRACTS.

TRACTS.

TRACTS.

TRACTS.

TRACTS.

TRACTS.

TRACTS.

TRACTS.

TRACTS.

TRACTS.

TRACTS.

TRACTS.

TRACTS.

TRACTS.

TRACTS.

TRACTS.

TRACTS.

TRACTS.

TRACTS.

TRACTS.

TRACTS.

TRACTS.

TRACTS.

TRACTS.

TRACTS.

TRACTS.

TRACTS.

TRACTS.

TRACTS.

TRACTS.

TRACTS.

TRACTS.

TRACTS.

TRACTS.

TRACTS.

TRACTS.

TRACTS.

TRACTS.

TRACTS.

TRACTS.

TRACTS.

TRACTS.

TRACTS.

TRACTS.

TRACTS.

TRACTS.

TRACTS.

TRACTS.

TRACTS.

TRACTS.

TRACTS.

TRACTS.

TRACTS.

TRACTS.

TRACTS.

TRACTS.

TRACTS.

TRACTS.

TRACTS.

TRACTS.

TRACTS.

TRACTS.

TRACTS.

TRACTS.

TRACTS.

TRACTS.

TRACTS.

TRACTS.

TRACTS.

TRACTS.

TRACTS.

TRACTS.

TRACTS.

TRACTS.

TRACTS.

TRACTS.

TRACTS.

TRACTS.

TRACTS.

TRACTS.

TRACTS.

TRACTS.

TRACTS.

TRACTS.

TRACTS.

TRACTS.

TRACTS.

TRACTS.

TRACTS.

TRACTS.

TRACTS.

TRACTS.

TRACTS.

TRA No less than 50 copies at 100 rate.
"Why I Became a Latter Day Saint," by lder Joseph Luff.
"Future Punishment," by Elder R. C. Evans. Evans.

"The Book of Mermon; Evidences of Its Divinity," by Elder R. C. Evans.

"Creed Making," by Elder I. M. Smith.

"Good News." A tract of tracts on several different subjects by as many writers.

"The Church of Christ," by Elder Edward Rannic. "Who Was Joseph Smih," by Elder J. W. Peterson.

"A Glimpse at the Government of God," by Elder Paul M. Hanson.

"Reasons Why. Shall We Hear Them?" Revised edition. By Elder J. W. Peterson.

"Twelve Reasons Why I Believe The Book of Mormon," by Elder Charles Fry. "Twelve Reasons Why I Believe The Book of Mormon," by Elder Charles Fry.

"Joseph Smith; Was He a Prophet of God?" by Elder R. C. Evans.

The following at special prices named:

"What We Believe," an epitome of the faith of the Church. Per dozen 5 cents; 50 for 20 cents; 100, 35 cents.

"Items of Teaching Found in the Book of Mormon." Compiled by the Independence Religio Good Literature Committee. A tract of ten. pages. Three for 6 cents; 12 for 15 cents; 100 for $1.00.

"Latter Day Saints; Who Are They" by Elder T. W. Williams. Three for 5 cents; 12 for 15 cents; 100 for $1.00.

"Is Water Baptism Essential to Salvation?" by Elder Joseph Luff. Three for 5 cents; 12 for 16 cents; 50° for 40 cents; 100 for 75 cents.

"Seventy-one Theological Questions." Per dozen, 10 cents; per 100, 60 cents.

Evanalia Lost. Duct arranged for soprane and tenor or two female voices. Price

Evanalia Lost. Duct arranged for soprane verses, given by the Spirit through. Elder Joseph Luff. Suitable size to be fastened in hymnal. Price 5 cents per dozen; per 100......$0.25

Teacher's Diary. A handy little book for accurately keeping account of mins.

Book of Mormon Post Card. Quotations from the second chapter of Jacob, of the Book of Mormon, condemning polygamy. This is an tway to get the church books on polygamy before friends and acquaintances. Price per dozon. Library Home Department Supplies. Leaflet of Instruction. No. 2. Per dozen, 10 cents; per 100 $0.40.

Membership Cards, per dozen, 5 cents; per 100 $0.40.

Superintendent's Report Blanks, per dozen, 5 cents per 100 $0.30.

Member's Quarterly Record Envelopes, per dozen, 5 cents; per 100 $0.30.

Member's Quarterly Record Envelopes, per dozen, 5 cents; per $0.50. Address ENSIGN PUBLISHING HOUSE, Independence, Mo. WAR ATLAS Cram's Atlas of the war comprising 16 conducted. ONLY 25 CENTS Get them of Ensign Publishing House, Independence, Mo. NOW FOR CHRISTMAS!!

pages 11x14½ and cover, giving fine maps of all the nations of Europe, those in war or likely to be especially emphasized. On the two inside cover pages is given the army and navy equipment of all the European nations as well as the United States and Japan. With this Atlas in connection with daily news one may be able to locate the movements of the armies and have a more comprehensive idea of how the war is being

In addition to the many Bibles we have on hand we have added another line of five choice ones, and none very expensive. The first three are beautifully printed in red and black—all of Christ's sayings in the New Testament and all reference to Him in the Old and New Testament are printed in the Old and New Testament are printed in red. This is a very useful feature. For instance, in turning the leaves whenever anything is observed in red it will be known that it is either the Master's sayings or something in reference to Him. They are beautfully printed and bound, and either one of the five here listed will make a fine Christmas present. The last two are fine large Teacher's Bibles, self-pronouncing and large type. Order by number and be careful to get the number right. Don't

03454—Beautifully printed with heavy faced minion type in red and black. All of Christ's sayings and passages alluding to him are printed in red. French Morocco, divinity cir-cuit, round corners, red under gold edges, leather lined ...... ....$2.50. -Same as above, except it is print-ed on thin India paper...........$3.60. 03454X-

05454-Same as the first one, except it has new up-to-date helps......$2.60 -Large type (long primer) self- pro full page plates, French Morocco, divinity circuit, round corners, red under gold edges, linen lined.$2.50.

Same as 04528 except it is bound with American Morocco, is silk sewed and leather lined......$3.00.

UNITED ORDER OF ENOCH HOUSE. Everybody Welcome, Saints and Strangers No. 102 North River Boulevard, near the Stone hur h. Hest accommodations. Prices reasonable. Bell Phone 613

one 613 Chas. A. and Amy T. Gurwell in Charge

UNIVERSAL DIARY.

UNIVERSAL DIARY.

We now have a universal diary, suitable for any minister from deacon up, made to conform with the universal report blank. They are the same size and shape as the diaries we have hitherto had for sale, but will contain about double the number of pages, there being about 24 pages in the front and back for a financial record, and space for 12 months record of ministerial work performed. The price is the same as the others were sold at, only 10 cents. Address Ensign Publishing House, Independence, Mo.

FOR SALE,—Good, dry wood, ready for the stove. Call, Bell 23K4.

W. E. MESSENGER, M. D.

Physician and Surgeon. Calls answered day or night. Office and Residence 806 W. Maple Ave.

Independence, Mo. Bell Phone 12

Special attention given to Anesthetics

L. A. INMAN Piano And Furniture Mover

Stand West Side Square Household Goods Packed, Shipped and Stored Bell Phone 1231 Res. 915 S. Crysler Independence, Mo.

Universal Class Card

Send for sample of the Universal Class Cards, for use in both Sunday School and Religio. The Independence Schools have them in general use

Price per doz 8 cents, per 100 60 cents ENSIGN PUBLISHING HOUSE,

Independence, Mo.

HERALDS FOR SALE

J. A. Gardner, 707 So. Fuller, Independence

FOR SALE

First class Beauty Shop doing fine business, splendid location. No other shop in city. Will state reason for selling in letter. Address, The Beauty Shop Independence, Mo.

Shop Independence, Mo. FAST LOSING POPULARITY.
The question is also asked: "How is the saloon to be destroyed?" It is being destroyed from the economic side. Great trunk railroad lines will not hire men without a proviso that if they frequent saloons their contract is broken. Almost no great business institution cares for a young man who frequents the saloon. The working people more and more see that the rum shop is their great enemy, that it botches their work, lessens their hours of service and reduces their pay on Saturday nights. Lord Kitchener, the other day, issued an order forbidding the shipment of intoxicating drinks to officers of the English army in the war zone, stating that they were injurious to the mon and the service. It is reported that the Carr in this war less and the saloons throughout his domain in Europe, in the interest of efficiency and patriotism. Secretary Daniels removed the wine mess from the officers of the United States navy, on the ground that is was not good for the public service.—The Christian Haralle.

RAILROAD TIME TABLES.

MISSOURI PACIFIC R. R.

MAIN LINE-EAST BOUND.

202 C. C. & Joplin Mail
11 Kansas City & St. Louis Local
12 Kansas City & Joplin Local Mail
6 Ross City & Joplin Local Mail
6 Ross Company Company
12 St. Louis Mail & Express
18 Sedalia and Verada Local
4 St. Louis Express & Mail

WEST BOUND.

Joplin to Kansas City St. Louis to K. C. & California Sedalia, and Nevada Local Past Mail 7 Fast Mail 207 Toplin to Kansas City 1 St. Louis and Calif Express 21 St. Louis Local

LEXINGTON BRANCH—EAST BOUND.

WEST BOUND

623 Kansas City to Sedalia 621 Kansas City to Sedalia

T. A. JOHNSON, Agent, Independence, Mo

NSIGN

Entered at the Post Office at Independence, Mo., as Second Class Matter

INDEPENDENCE, MISSOURI, THURSDAY, DECEMBER 24, 1914 VOL. 25

NO. 53

Homan O Sunth

ZION'S ENSIGN

Published by the Reorganized Church of Jesus Christ of Latter Day Saints, every Thursday, at Independence, Mo., at $1.00 per year.

CHARLES FRY, EDITOR W. H. DEAM, Bus. Manager

W. H. DEAM, Bus, MANAGER
In writing concerning subscriptions, always give the nam of the Post Office to which your paper has been going, as by so doing the stof bours in looking for it may be avoided.
When desiring a change of address always give the old as well as the new address, and when the concerning a divary state of the control of the control of the control of the control in making remittances Money Orders are preferable. If coin is sent 1 should be folded in a card so it will not lose out and then enclosed in an envelope with your letter. He sure and sirn your name to the Basiler Publishing House, and do not put matter intended for publication on same sheet with that which is of a business nature.
Address all etters and make all remittances payable to
ENSIGN PUBLISHING HOUSE, Independence, Mo

At this Christmastide the attention of the Christian world is again called in a special way to the great central Figure of the Christian religion, Jesus Christ, at whose birth more than nineteen hundred years ago the angels sang "Glory to God in the highest, and on earth peace, good will toward men," and at the thought of this angelic message the mind involuntarily turns to view the world now torn with dissention and war, and wonders how and when the heavenly song will have its fulfillment. That Jesus did not expect the world to come immediately to universal peace may be seen from his teachings, and especially from his statement to his disciples that "I came not to send peace, but a sword." The mission of Christ included the establishment of universal peace, but the years from eternity to eternity are his, and a purpose so vast and so mighty in its accomplishment is not worked out in a day. The years are gradually unfolding the divine plan, and today in the midst of world disaster the star of peace begins to appear in its rising, and through the mists of trouble and disconsolation hope begins to shine.

As life came to the world through the death of Jesus Christ, so may it be that peace will come through the sufferings of war. The working out of the divine purpose for peace extends like a mighty river down through all the ages of which men in any one generation sees but the smallest part. It is like one standing upon the bank of a great stream; he sees the water passing by, or perhaps he notes the return eddy nearest his feet and is confused as to the course of the current, but he does not see the great course of the stream outside of the narrow limits of his vision; he does not see the rapids where the waters rush madly in their onward course, nor the placid lake where the movement of the water is no longer perceptable; but through all the variations the stream flows steadily onward until its motion is lost in the sea. Could we but see fully and clearly the stream of God's purpose as revealed in the events of the ages there would be no doubts as to the ultimate results of his working.

Eternal life did not come to the world but by the great sacrifice and mighty struggle with the powers of opposition of the Son of God, nor can the world attain to that life except by sacrifice and struggle upon its own part against the conditions and forces that bind men to the old conditions. Man is a participant in the work of redemption, and as long as he is willing to abide in the conditions from which strife and war spring he will have no peace. Jesus came to enlist men in the service of God, giving promise of peace and joy to all who followed the path of truth and honor, and warning them against the disasterous results of following error and sin, but as some men align themselves with the right and some with the wrong there must be conflict, not only with the unseen forces of evil but between man and man. It was probably for this reason that Jesus said to his disciples, "In the world ye shall have tribulation," though in him he promised them peace.

Christ is not dead nor sleeping. His interest in the world is as deep and sincere as at any time in the past, and his hand is still working for the consummation of his purposes, including the establishment of "peace on earth, good will to-ward men." In the extensive preparations for war made in the last generation we might be led to believe the stream was flowing backwards, but nothing in all the centuries have created so much of a demand for universal peace as the present world wars, and thus by sacrifice and struggle there is being wrought out a result other than those determined by human will, and which will bring us a little nearer the realization of the song of the angel choir sung so long ago. Today the listening ear may catch above the noise of battle the refrain as it continues to resound through the ages "Glory to God in the highest, and on earth peace, good will toward men." the stream of God's purpose is seemingly turned backwards there comes the voice of revelation saying "Zion shall be redeemed." The Lord promised Israel through Isaiah that "I will extend peace to her like a river," and today his hand is moving among the nations for the reclamation of his chosen nation in which his peace will be planted.

We celebrate the coming of the Prince of Peace as a babe, but we look forward to his coming as a King, when the hopes and aspirations of all the righteous for universal peace shall be fully realized. Then men will see the greatness of his purpose and work, and will be able to join in the new song of "Blessing and honor, and glory, and power, be unto him that sitteth upon the throne, and unto the Lamb for ever and ever.'

ACTION OF QUORUM OF TWELVE, PRESIDING

PATRIARCH, AND PRESIDENTS OF SEVENTY. Inasmuch as it has pleased our Heavenly Father to take from us the presence of our beloved brother Joseph Smith, who departed this life December 10, 1914, we sor-rowfully express our resignation to the Divine will; and in profound reverence offer our gratitude to Him whose in protound reverence ofter our gratitude to Him whose inscrutable wisdom and inexaustible love characterize all of His providences, for the long life, gracious and noble example and unswerving fidelity to the cause of our "common salvation" which ever were leading virtues of our beloved brother's work, and for the long life so full of honor, justice and good works, and his final departure to a well-carned and honorable release.

And inasmuch as in this sad bereavement the family of our late beloved president has been called upon to m the loss of an exemplary father, an affectionate husband the loss of an exemplary latener, an anectionate ausoand and its most honorable pillar and support.

And further, in the event of death, the church is bowed down in inexpressable sorrow realizing that indeed a "prince in Israel has fallen," and lost a father, brother and companion in a most intimate and affectionate sense. Also this intrusion of death has left us with the wrighted and evident evident ev ate sense. Also this intrusion of death has left us without a president and official head for the time being, and consequently the chief presiding quorum of the church has been partially disorganized, we therefore as members of the Twelve, Presiding Patriarch, and Presidents of Seventy, whose names are hereafter subscribed, do hereby present the following resolutions:—

1st. Be it resolved that we offer to the family of the late President Joseph Smith our profound condolence in this hour of loss and grief, and assure each and all of our sympathy and prayers, beseeching God, to supply the promised grace to all who thus are called to mourn the death of so good and true and loving a head.

2nd. Be it further resolved we hereby pledge our con-and no so good and crue and nowing a nead.

2nd. Be it further resolved we hereby pledge our confidence in support of the fidelity of our beloved brethren F. M. Smith as the members of the Presiding Quorum of the Church; and acting in the Presidency of the Church, until the convening of the Conference of 1915.

Resolved that we willingly acquiesce in the suggestion Resolved that we willingly acquiesce in the suggestion made by the presiding quorum that they in conjunction with the Quorum of the Twelve now in Council prepare a joint epistle of advice, counsel and direction to the church at 'arge in the present sad emergency.

Signed. Twelve. Gomer T. Griffiths,

J. W. Rushton, C. A. Butterworth, J. F. Curtis,

R. C. Russell, J. E. Kelley,

J. E. Keltey,
J. A. Gillen,
P. M. Hanson,
W. M. Aylor.
Presiding Patriarch,
F. A. Smith, Seventy: James McKiernan,

J. Arthur Davis, W. E. Peak.

Independence, Missouri, December 14, 1914.

JOINT EPISTLE FIRST PRESIDENCY, QUORUM OF TWELVE, PRESIDING PATRIARCH AND PRESIDENTS OF SEVENTY.

To the Saints and Friends of the Reorganized Church of Jesus Christ of Latter Day Saints in all the World Greeting:

It is with deep sorrow that we are called upon to officially announce to you the death of our beloved leader and president, Joseph Smith, which occurred at one o'clock in the afternoon of December the tenth, 1914. After a brief illness throughout which he was permitted to enjoy his mental powers unimpaired and the associ-ation of the members of his family in his closing hours, the silent messenger called him from the scenes earthly labors and faithful service to the rest and peace which is the promised reward.

We share this common loss with all; and while our hearts are sad and we feel the loss of his courageous and cheering presence, yet we are grateful to our Heaven-ly Father for the long life, unsullied record, and peaceful departure into the heritage of "the saints in light."

As we bid adieu to the grand and noble leader of our cause whose passing we mourn today, we also hail with love and esteem our brother who now will bear the responsibility which has been laid down by our departed

The Presidency called a council of the Presidency, welve, Presiding Patriarch, and Presidents of Seventies for 9:00 a. m., Monday, December 14th; the following brethren responding to the summons: Of the Presidency, For M. Smith, of the Tresidency, F. M. Smith, of the Trekley, G. T. Griffiths, C. A. Butterworth, J. W. Rushton, J. F. Curtis, R. C. Russell, J. E. Kelley, J. A. Gillen, P. M. Hanson and W. M. Aylor; F. A. Smith, the Presiding Patriarch; J. McKiernan, T. C. Kelley, J. A. Davis, and W. E. Peak of the Presidents of Seventy.

This was in accordance with the "Letter of Instruction" This was in accordance with the "Letter of Instruction" which had been presented by President Joseph Smith March 4, 1912, and had been endorsed by the Quorum of Twelve. In harmony with this instruction, the Council unanimously decided that Brethren Frederick M. Smith and Elbert A. Smith, who are the remaining members of the Presiding Quorum should continue as the presiding officers of the church for the present.

We cannot but express our appreciation of the fore-sight and even superhuman wisdom which are exhibited in this document, which our late President himself char-asterized as "one of the most important ever given to the church"; the splendid spirit and the absolute and al-most unprecedented unaminity of the Council is the fruit and testimony of the inspiration which developed the movement and policy contained therein. It is carnestly hoped that this unity and co-operation which binds the brethren of the leading councils may spread and deepen among all hie Saints throughout the world.

Because of these happy conditions in the provision already noted and the harmony resulting therefrom, it is the unanimous opinion that there exists no need of a special conference; and owing to the fact that our work has been so organized and developed and that everything is progressing smoothly, it is considered advisable and excellent the later matter or the rest. Should there as in the contract of the second state of th pedient to leave matters as they are. Should there arise any necessity for change or re-arrangement in the interim between now and the general conference the Presidency will take care of the matter in the usual manner.

We pray that God will mercifully comfort and sustain the household of faith in this crisis and give to us all the household of faith in this crisis and give to us all grace to carry forward to final triumph the cause which is dear to us and our fathers who lived and died in noble endeavor and unflinching faith.

As we pray for the household of faith we solicit the faith, prayers and support of the Church in our work, and especially that the brethren upon whom now rests such heavy expressibility may have expressibility may have expressibility may have expressibility. such heavy responsibility may have grace and power as their need.

With thanks to God for the guiding and support of the past, and with profound thankfulness for the lack of apprehension of the present and the splendid promise of the future, we subscribe ourselves,

Your servants for Christ. Frederick M. Smith, Pres. Joint Council. John W. Rushton, Secretary.

Human society reposes on religion. Civilization with-Human society reposes on religion. Cavilization with-out it would be like the lights that play in the northern sky—a momentary flash on the face of darkness ere it again settles into eternal light. Wit and wisdom, sub-lime poetry and lofty philosophy, cannot save a nation, else ancient Greece had never perished. Valor, law, amtiss anient. Greece had never persisted. Yator, hav, and bitton, cannot preserve a people, else Rome had still been mistress of the world. The nation that loses faith in God and man loses not only its most precious jewel, but its most purifying and conserving force.

Of all the dispositions and habits which lead to political prosperity, religion and morality are indispensible sup-ports. In vain would that man claim the tribute of patriotism who should labor to subvert those pillars of human happiness, those firmest props of the duties of men and citizens.—George Washington.

nt Joseph Smith and family, including children, grandchildren, great grandchildren, and sons- and daughters in law

INDEPENDENCE, SECOND BRANCH,
All meetings were canceled for Sunday; the 13th, in us respect to our departed. President Joseph Smith.
Our young missionary, A. T. Martin, left on Dec. 16,

Our young missionary, A. T. Marin, lett on Dec. 19, for his field in southern Kansas, where he has labored heretofore. On the same date Bro. Charles Joice arrived home after an absence of nearly six months among saints and friends in Montana and other states.

At the last Religio session the following were elected At the last Rengio session the Injurying were elected for the ensuing term. For president, R. A. Sherman; vice president, J. A. Curtis; secretary, Sr. Nettie East-wood; treasurer, J. C. Douglas; librarian, Geo. Tousley; organist, Sr. Clara Curtis; chorister, Sr. Goldie Wisemore; supt. home department, Sr. Lettie Hughes.

On Sunday last two good sermons were enjoyed by those present. Elder Hale W. Smith occupied the morning hour, using Eph. 2:8, as a basis for his remarks. He defined the statement of Apostle Paul in regar dto the saving grace as meaning unmerited favor, strength given to overcome. Bro. C. A. Butterworth of the Twelve was the speaker for the evening, 1 Cor. 15:3, being selected as a text. He showed that men's sins are not forgiven without something being required of the individual to bring them into a saved condition.

A Sunday school treat has been planned for the pri-maries and juniors; also a program has been prepared for Thursday, Christmas eve.

To both the cheerful and forlorn,
Bringing back to memory dear, The day when Jesus Christ was born

G. W. T.

WALNUT PARK.

The heavy deep snow kept many at home from the Sunday services, however a fair crowd attended Sunday school. At the 11 o'clock hour we had the privilege of hearing Bro. Bushnell, in his usual interesting way, encouraging and instructing along lines in the Religio work. Sr. Arthur Allen and Bro. Lee assisted, which was much

The usual meetings followed during the day and in The usual meetings followed during the day and in the evening Bro. Hale Smith, in his practical way, gave a splendid talk on the subject, "By Grace ye are saved through Faith," portraying so beautifully that we re-received grace not necessarily because we have merited it but because it is needed and given to us by God, the bring subjects are the control of the con kind and loving Father.

Our little branch is getting along nicely. We have many earnest workers trying to live by word and example and help carry on this great work to the best of their ability; trying to make it a part of their lives, and the spirit of brotherly kindness, oneness and the desire for growth and development speaks for their encouragement

> "And I thought as I held my darlings, Of that good Father above Who has for each of his children Far more than a mother's love."

But how hard it is to fully realize this. Our hearts have been made sad, at this busy, joyful time of the year, at the severe sickness (diphtheria) and death of one of our bright buds of hope and promise, little Etta Louise Wood, daughter of Bro. and Sr. Welton Wood. She was so bright, so loving and tender—to know her was to

It is human to grieve for departed ones and not only our little Sunday school is saddened at its loss but the entire branch grieves with the parents; however we know she is better off, for she has been taken, escaping many sorrows and wees, to a land of joy, peace and many surrous .....

bliss, and

"Although she was laid away in deep sadness,
Yet not without hope in our breast,
For again she will join us with gladness,
the Heaveniv Rest."

F. K. S.

BENNINGTON HEIGHTS, KANSAS CITY.

We are pleased to report that our branch is progress-ing nicely. During the month of October, Bro. F. C. Smith, and Bro. A. V.Closson held a two week's meet-ing. No one was baptized at that time, but the word as as seed sown on good ground, as our presiding elder has had to go into the water several times since, and we believe others who are interested will unite with us later. For this we feel grateful indeed. Bro. and Sr. F. C. Warnky have moved to Independence from our branch. We miss them but are sure they will be a great help to those where they now live.

We feel to mourn the loss of our young Sr. Eva Beaman

Surwall, who so suddenly passed over to a brighter, hap-pier shore. We feel to extend our heart felt sympathies As the old year is drawing to a close, we wish to begin

As the old year is drawing to a close, we wish to begin the New Year by being more active, and more conse-crated to the service of God, than we have been in the past, thanking our Father for the blessings of the old year and trusting him for those of the New, we are yours in the faith.

Branch Reporter.

ST. JOSEPH, MO., SECOND BRANCH.

Bro. and Sr. George Mauzee from Edgerton Junction, were visiting at our Sunday school and the following preaching service, Bro. Mauzee addressing the school after the lesson period. Bro. P. I. Rogers was the speaker of the morning service. We are in the midst of reparations for a Christmas entertainment to be held riday evening by the Sunday school and if the success depends on the zeal of the committee it will surely prove worthy the co-operation of all that take part in it.

Our branch has plodded along through difficulty and trials, even as other branches are doing. Where God has people, Satan comes in to try them, but we thank God for his promise to support those who will lean on him, although they are being tried as by fire. Bro. John L. Bear has been doing most of the preaching, assisted by the local priesthood.

Occasionaly missionaries have come also to strengthen us from the pulpit, among them were Bro. J. S. Roth, William Lewis, F. A. Smith, Charles Fry and others. The growth of our branch has been slow in the last half

The Woman's Auxiliary gave their Thanksgiving dinner and supper, from which they cleared $80 for the benefit of the church debt.

Our branch was represented by at least two members at the funeral of our beloved President, Bro. Joseph Smith. Mro. T. S. Lawton, Bro. A. A. Richardson in company with Bro. Charles P. Faul, Bishop's agent of Far West District, went to Independence Saturday and stayed over Sunday, bringing back to us the assurance of the peaceful countenance of our departed Brother Joseph's face. We are touched by the eulogy given to him by the secular newspapers, and may we all so live as to be worthy members of the church over which he was the head. It was announced from the stand at our Our branch was represented by at least two members as to be worthy members of the church over which he was the head. It was announced from the stand at our morning service that a Memorial service will be held in behalf of our departed President of the Church at the first St. Joseph Branch Sunday Dec. 27th, 3 p. m.

Sr. A. A. Richardson.

SEATTLE.

Bro. F. W. Holman was the speaker Sunday morning Bro, F. W. Homan was the speaker sunday morning to a good audience. In the eyening the pastor preached. The general temper of all the services during the day was very good and encouraging. It is a pleasing sight to see our children so earnestly engaged in the best-work on earth—to hear the beginner's class repeat their golden text with such vigor, causes a feeling of praise to our Lord for such work.

Sunday was our regular day in Everett where we held two services and taught their home class. The services were good—the afternoon being well attended. The few Saints there have their faces in the right direction and their heart in the proper place. A number there are deeply interested.

Our missions are still continuing and doing good and we are looking for some new openings.

The bazaar given by our untiring workers—the sisters of the Ladies Aid—passed off very pleasantly and

A pall of sadness was cast over us by the receipt of the news of the departure of our beloved President, Bro. Joseph Smith, at one o'clock. Our city papers gave a very nice account of his life and church work. A memorial service will be held at our church on the 20th in his loving memory.

On Sunday evening a young man expressed a wish for haptism. He spoke very feelingly at our meeting last night. Baptism will occur on Sunday after the morning service. A number are near the door.

J. M. Terry.

102 North 39th St., Seattle, Wash., Dec. 17.

SAN FRANCISCO, CALIFORNIA.

SAN FRANCISCO, CALIFORNIA.

Elder J. A. Saxe, our branch president baptized one here Nov. 18. He was formerly a member of the Utah Church. He was confirmed by the writer and Elder J. A. Anthony.

Elder R. J. Parker was the speaker here Nov. 22, his subject being "Why the Re-organization." It was a very instructive discourse. In the evening we had a musical Thanksgiving entertainment, with a short talk on "Hanksgiving Bro. Jones and family enroute for and a musical rainksgying of entertainment, with a snort talk on Thanksgying. Bro. Jones and family enroute for Lamoni, from Navada, attended our service. On Nov. 29th Bishop Parkin united in marriage Bro. Ray Hawley and Miss Nortia Lemon. He evidently thinks that not all California Lemons are sour. Bro. Virgil Hawley is wearing a broad smile now. His first child, a daughter has arrived.

has arrived.

The ladies aid has just closed a very successful bazaar, held last Thursday and Friday. They also served lunch and other refreshments. They cleared about one hundred dollars. Bro. and Sr. Jones arrived here Wednesday, Dec. 9, from Honolulu. He was the speaker at the church this morning. Elder C. E. Crumley has been announced as our speaker this evening. We are all grieved on account of the death of our beloved President Joseph Smith, but realize that God rules for the best. Elder J. A. Saxe is at Irvington today. at Irvington today.

Geo. S. Lincoln.

Extra copies of this Ensign will be ma led in quanities for 2 cents apiece.

Williamsdale, Nova Scotia, Nov. 20

Dear Ensign:—On the fifteenth day of April we (my sband and I) left Nova Scotia for Montreal, then to Ottawa, the beautiful Capital of our Dominion, where Ottawa, the beautiful Capital of our Dominion, where we spent eight days with my sister; next to Toronto where we stayed another eight days, and where it was our privilege to meet many of the Saints of the Toronto Branch and hear Bro. R. C. Evans preach four splendid sermons. We have not forgotten any of the Saints there, or the pleasant associations with them.

After stopping at Niagara Falls, the grandeur of which is haved my resemble accept.

After stopping at Niagara Falls, the grandeur of which is beyond my power to describe, we started for Kirtland, the mecca of our journey, and on a rainy, gloomy morning at 6:30 arrived at Willoughby, expecting to be met by Bro. Ebeling, we started walking to meet him and kept on walking until the Temple loomed in sight, and then a welcome from the brother we knew and esteemed in Nova Scotia, and his good, kind wife. He was preparing to meet a later train.

We spent two hanny months in Kirtland where we

We spent two happy months in Kirtland where we met all the Saints and attended all the services—Sunday met all the Saints and attended all the services—Sunday school 9:30, preaching 11, prayer and testimony meeting 2:30, and preaching at 7. The sermons preached by Elders Ebeling, Stone, Thomas and others will not soon be forgotten. Then we had the pleasure of greeting Bro. F. G. Pitt and his estimable wife (the first Patriarch we had ever seen.) and receiving our blessings in the early morning hours in the beautiful historic temple.

Our next visit was to the reunion at New Philadelphia, where we spent fifteen days and were instructed, edified, and built up in our most holy faith. So many faces came up before me, and I greet you all, and wish you every blessing that your hearts desire. Prior to leaving for New Philadelphia I received word of the death of my mother in the komeland, whom I expected to greet me on my return and to be with me the remainder of her life, and Bro. Johnson heard that our property was not receiving proper care, so with burdened minds we could not fully enjoy the reunion. After reunion we went another one hundred and five miles to Mt. Vermon, Ohio, to visit friends who are Seventh Day Adventiats, and their camp meetings had just begun, as also the "Holiness" meetings. We attended two of the latter and several of the former. After returning home at the several of the former. After returning home at the close of an evening sermon I became engaged in a discussion with a lady who assailed our faith. I began to tell her what we believe and the Spirit came to my assistance in power, and it seemed as though those to whom I was talking were not visible to me and I testified to the truthfulness of the latter day work and that the church of which I am a member is the true church and Joseph Smith a true prophet, and quoted the words used when he was evicined and much more; then I used when he was ordained, and much more; then I seemed to realize where I was and for some time discussed our faith with them. My husband was sitting on the veranda, and though he could not see me he, too, felt the Spirit's influence and he said to me when we were alone: "You spoke in prophecy to those people, did you not?

It certainly was a wonderful testimony to me, and when (the next evening) their ablest preacher said, we Latter Day Saints traced our authority to Joseph Smith and he did not deny an angel ordained him, but it was an angel of the Devil. My faith was not even a bit

We arrived in Boston on the 12th of September and on Sunday morning in Bro. H. Wood's auto we were soon at Sewall Street renewing acquaintances of sixteen years age, and heard once more a serion from that faithful Elder who taught us the gospel and baptized us, the present president of the Boston Branch. We also met with them on Wednesday evening. Bro. Johnson having to hasten home, I remained to visit relatives, none of whom ever heard a Latter Day Saint preach, but some promised

December 24, 1914,

On Saturday, October 3rd, with others from Boston, I went to Fall. River to conference where I saw Fres. F. M. Smith. It was the first time I wes privileged to see one of the presidency. I spent Saturday night with a kind sister whose street address I neglected to take dawn, so will thank her now. I left in the afternoon for Providence, R. I., arriving in time to hear Bro. Ralph Farrell in Bellevue Ave Chapel, also attended the . Farrell in Believue Ave Chaper, and attended was 'educaday evening meetings, the theme of which was ork—doing something to spread this gospel. While some one was talking of some method of letting their light shine in Providence, there passed through my mind the streets of the city, and the young Saints handing tracts and announcements of the meetings at the doors. ot speak of it, but when Bro. Farrell arose to speak I did not speak of it, but when Bro. Farrell arose to speak he hald, it was his determination to have tracts and announcements of the meetings left at every house in Providence, and that he had made arrangements about printing, etc. Of course I knew nothing about it. Others also were impressed in the same direction. "For by one spirit are we all baptized into one body," is as true totate at twe gieldeen hundred years ago. day as it was eighteen hundred years ago.

any as it was eigniveen nunarea years ago.

One more day in the Hub and on the 10th of October, just five days short of six months, I am at home again in dear old Nova Scotia, ready to do our duty in the great conflict that has come upon us, but praying for eace in our Empire, and protection for our missionaries abroad.

While associated with those of like precious faith is ied us at present, blessed memories are ours and hope of the time yet to come when we can use the talents God has given us in this great work.

Mrs. Leander Johnson.

Jonesport, Me., Dec. 4.

Dear Ensign:-As you have not heard from this part of the Lord's vineyard for some time. I thought I would write you. We cannot but help feel and know that the Master is interested as well as pleased with his children who are putting forth every effort for the uplifting and upbuilding of his church and kingdom here upon carth. upounding of his charter and angular net dynamics. We certainly appreciate our heavenly Father's kindness and goodness and also his mercy and unfailing love toward us as a people. We are confident that the little stone that was cut from the mountain without hands is still rolling and who can stay its progress. We realize we are but a small part of the church of the great Jehovah. Nevertheless we realize our duty and obligations in regard to our soul's salvation. This work gations in regard to our sours savation. This work calls for service. The Scriptures inform us the idle man shall not eat the bread of the laborer, and that proves to my mind beyond a doubt that God requires service, and willing service, from those who profess to be his followers.

Bro. H. O. Smith is with us again, zealous in the work of his office and calling as that of a patriarch. Those who have had the pleasure of receiving their patriarchal blessings feel that they have been greatly strengthened and benefitted thereby. He also preached us some excellent sermons, always admonishing the Saints to be steadfast and unmovable. He has given us some beautiful food for thought.

food for thought.

Bro. Ebelin has left us for a short time for his home in the west to pay his last tribute of respect to his mother who has passed from this life of toil and sorrow to the great beyond. He certainly has the sympathy of the Saints in his great sorrow and bereavement, and we certainly hope his loss will be her gain. We a anxiously awaiting his return, for we admire so valie and loyal a warrior in the true cause of Christ. has awakened a good interest here in Jonesport, outside the branch as well as in. The Saints are responding more readily to their duty than ever before. There are no candidates as yet for baptism, but we feel sure that the good seed is being sown and that good results will follow and many more be ushered into the church and kingdom With King Jesus as our leader and commander and such fearless, loyal hearted men as Bro. Ebelin at the front, we feel like marching steadily onward in the great bat tle of Jehovah, until the millening. the of Jehovah, until the millenium is ushered in and he shall come whose right it is to reign.

We care not for the enemy with Jesus by our side,

For he'll protect his children whatever may betide, Though all the powers of earth arise and all the hosts of hell.

We'll conquer, yes we'll conquer, Hail King Immanuel. Till he comes, your sister, Mrs. Mertie L. Faulkingham.

Independence, Mo., Dec. 9

Editor Ensign: -- I have been with my compaion in mission field and promised the saints to write a letter so hey could hear from me. I enjoy d the trip very much and met so many good saints, anxious to live the gospel. Was at Derby to the reunion. There we fine lot of Saints there. I never heard one speak There were a fine lot of Saints there. I never heard one speak ill of another and they seemed to love one another so much. I hope God will bless them. I have a great desire to help in this great work that God has given us. I love my home and companion, but an glad to give up all for the work's sake. The Spirit often comes on me and I feel like encouraging helping all. I love them all and hope when the time comes for the Bridegroom to come that every one will be prepared. I have been made to feel how necessary it is to love one another and not to speak ill of each other.

I am taking care of a sister that is afflicted and does not expect to get well. How my heart aches for the poor sick and afflicted ones. I sometimes long for the Savior to Come so 'Rice will be no more sickness and May God help us all to come to the standard is my earnest prayer.

Mrs. Fred Rowe.

Vera, Okla., Dec. 13

Dear Ensign:—It has been but a short time since Bro. J. N. Madison was ordained to the office of priest, after which he started with the angel message. He came to Collinsville, he had some trouble in securing a house to hold services in, but by the help of Bro. Cheaney he senot services in, but by the neigh of Dro. Chemicy he se-cured a house and he began preaching Nevember 6, hold-ing 4 weeks, and he led eight into the water and bap-tized them, after which they came to Vera, 6 miles north, and were confirmed by Brn. Lee Quick and W. Shoe-maker. Many more were interested, some being able to testify that this work is of God.

Your brother in gospel bonds,

J. A. Faulks.

Wheatfield, Mo., Nov. 30. Dear Ensign:—My desire was to write and tell the Ensign readers that we still have a few faithful members at Oak Grove, in spite of the unbridled tongues which run throughout the country, trying to discourage the faithful; but bless God, we have His Spirit and their lying tongues have not hurt us. I ask the prayers of those who wish to pray for us, that we may continue so forever and never grow discouraged in this blessed work of God, for we know that we are in the light.

Bro. Higdon was the first person I ever heard preach, and I became convinced of the truth at first and later I and I occame convinced of the fruith at first and nated was baptized by him. May God ever bless the minister of whom I have spoken, for bringing us the blessed gospel and showing us the light which shines for those who are earnestly seeking the love of Christ and salvation, for we were in utter darkness. Now we have Sunday school and prayer meeting, but some have quit coming to Sunday school, and they, I believe, know we are in the light, but because of prejudice that they can not or will not see, and do not want to see, and ar ing to discourage and tear down those that are trying to live right.

Some preachers have come into our neighborhood bemeaning us as Latter Day Saints, saying everything mean they could think of, and dwelling upon the "Moun-tain Meadow Massacre." With the help of God we still ain true. We are trying to help roll the work on to victory.

Your sister in Christ.

Mary McCarty

NEATH THE SOUTHERN CROSS.

The writer has received many letters expressing regret at the sudden termination of the mission of Apostle Gomer T. Griffiths in Australia. He did a splendid work while among us, and it is to be regretted that he was not able while here to cover the whole of the mission. There were very few of the districts where our wor established that he did not visit, but those who did have the pleasure of having him labor among them feel it very much. However, all realize that our brother's departure was unavoidable and disappointments will soon swallowed up in whole-hearted endeavor to spread the Master's cause.

While Apostle Griffiths was among us he organized no white Apostle Griffiths was among us he organized no white and the paper of the paper o less than six branches and two new districts; he bap-tized quite a number, and a good many were ordained to office by his direction. One of the finest things he did, to the mind of the writer, was the systematizing of the work of the local ministry. He believes that the priesthood is not conferred on men for their adornment, but that they should "minister for men in things pertaining to God." He sought to give every man work and made arrangements whereby all shall be kept busy. There is no room for the idler in Zion, nor can the drone be tolerated in any of her outposts.

We are pleased to report that about forty baptisms have been registered during the past few weeks. Two were baptized at Wondai, Queensland, and thirteen at Inverlaw, in the same vicinity, where Elders Hermann Peisker and B. H. Longfield have been laboring for some time. A movement is on foot to erect a church build-ing at the latter point. This is gratifying for the district as practically unworked before Apostle Griffiths and the writer visited it in the month of July. Brn. A. V. Robinson and Will Patterson have also had some good experiences on the north coast of New South Wales, where they have recently baptized a dozen. Elder John Jones, our New South Wales District Presilaboring on the same coast, records the baptism He is now engaged in preparing a gospel wagon for the field, in which he and some other young brother will embark on a test of the value of the gospel wagon as an addition to our means of reaching the der J. H. N. Jones of the Seventy, who is in charge of Western Australia, is now on the way to that field, accompanied by Bro. J. M. Argent, a young man from Nambucca, N. S. W. Bro. Jones is a tried and valuable campaigner, and we feel sure that the work in Western Australia will receive fresh impetus under his direction.

Elder C. Ed. Miller seemed to be a little lonely at t moment of the departure of Apostle Griffiths. He for the separation keenly, as he came to this country with Bro. Griffiths and expected to return in his company. But Bro. Miller is what the Australians term "a Briton," if it is excusable to apply that term to an American. We don't mean that he has thrown the United States over and adopted this country as hig. To call a man a "Briton" his pluck. We know that Brother Miller will not spend any time in idle repining. He is a live wire and will keep on just the same as if Bro. Griffiths were here. He keep on just the same as it isto. Grininis were here. I loves this work and will keep busy in its promulgation. South Australia, Victoria and Tasmania of which field he is in charge are well served by such a superintendent. Elder W. H. Gammidge, laboring in South Australia reports ten baptisms for this year, which is an evidence that he has not been idle in "the city of churches." He and Sr. Gammidge are "live wire" workers in every department.

Elder George T. Rawson, one of our missionary recruits is laboring is Victoria, under the direction of Bro.
Miller and is "making good." He is a willing worker and possesses good qualifications. He is also an active Sunday school and Religio worker.

day school and Religio worker.

Elder B. H. Longfield, who has been laboring on Queensland during the year is being transferred to New Zealand. He was successful in his former field of labor and possesses the power of initiative necessary in a new mission, so we look for good reports regarding his work in the new field. For a time he will labor with the brether nen of the Dunedin Branch. Elder H. W. Savage is expected to join him in December and then the field of their constitue. We will be heardened by the resenting P. operations will be broadened. In the meantime Bro. Long-field will reinforce Brn. M. Hall and Lebherz, who have for years held the fort on the streets of Dunedin.

The European war is having its effect in this country. The know nothing from the standpoint of actual fighting in this land, of war's devastating power, but our country is part of the great British Empire and owes its past peace and security to Britain's might. In the hour of the mother country's need our baby nation rushed to help. Our ships and men are already playing their part in the titanic struggle. Tens of thousands of our promising young men have volunteered for service. Some are already at the front. More men will be trained and sent long as necessary.

Our publishing house is feeling the strain. We have ages and heavy rent to pay. Unfortunately we were wages and heavy rent to pay. Unfortunately we were subjected to a heavy raise in our rent a week or two before the outbreak of hostilities. Like the American publishing houses we take in as much outside work possibly secure in order to keep our workmen fully em-ployed. The war has had the effect of reducing our trade so that instead of the office working full time, we have been reduced to the necessity of putting the staff on a half-time basis. This, of course, does not pay for we have the full rent and just the same amount of incidental expenses, with only one-half the profit-earning power.

Fortunately for us a movement was inaugerated by Apostle Griffiths to purchase a block of land next to the Belmain church and quite close to the present rented premises. The church has acquired this land and we propose to erect upon it, as soon as possible, our Mission Headquarters and printing office combined. For some years we have had a building fund in connection with the publishing house, but the funds in hand are quite inadequate for the purpose. We are therefore making fresh appeals for further help. We have a good, up-to-date printing plant, and it would be foolish to risk losing that through having to suffer the heavy burden of our present rent throughout a trade oppressing war. So we trust that the Saints will rally to our aid and make it possible for us to escape this rent by building a place of our own. Now we do not appeal to the American Saints to help not we do not appear to the American Saints to he are not so independent that we will refuse any help forwarded; but there is a way in which America can help us just the same. In 1911, the Herald Publishing House printed for us a book called "The Fall of Babylon." The profits from its sale go to the building fund which now requires help so urgently. The price of the book is .25, and it may be obtained through the Herald Office. The sales of this book have been disappointing, possibly because the writer is unknown, personally, to the bulk of the American Saints, but it contains $1.25 worth of good gospel goods just the same. Get the book and you will be satisfied with it. At the same time you will help our publishing interests in Australia at a most critical stage in their history. Readers will confer a great favor if they will act promptly on this suggestion. If a generous response is made to this appeal, our building will soon be assured and the church printing plant in Australia saved. Are you interested?

Owing to the great distance of Australia from the Church headquarters in America, it is an absolute ne-cessity that we should have our own paper. News we send to the American papers is three months old before we ever see it. Our little paper has done much during the thirteen years of its existence, to knit together the various parts of this vast mission, and has been the means of whotting the interest of numbers for the gospel.

of whetting the interest of numbers for the gospei.

We regret to state that the sending of local newspapers out of this country is prohibited for the present, consequently we cannot send the Gospel Standard to our subscribers and exchanges. This will explain to our friends why that paper will be stopped temporarily after the October issue from reaching our American subscribers.

Our New South Wales conference will convene on New Year's Day and extend over the two following days. rears Day and extend over the two following days.
We are looking forward to an unusually good spiritual time. Each year our conference seems to become a greater success. The State will be divided into two districts at this conference and we hope, in this way, to obtain better supervision of the efforts of the local workever from a district stringence. ers from a district viewpoint.

There is a universal desire among the saints to actively push the work. Everyone wants to do something, which is a good sign. We are also looking forward to what General Conference will do for us. This mission requires a good leader. Apostle Griffiths got us out of many old ruts and we mean to keep out of them as far as lies in our power. But we need a progressive man, full of vigor and possessing good administrative ability to take the place so suddenly made vacant by Bro. Griffiths' re-call. In the meantime we shall do our best to carry on the work and to bring success to the cause we love.

Your brother in Christ,

Walter J. Haworth,

323 Darling St., Bozelle, N. S. W., Australia

ADDRESSES.

Bishop E. L. Kelley, Box 125, Independence, Mo.

Extra copies of this Ensign will be mailed in quantities for 2 cents apiece.

FUNERAL SERVICE OF PRESIDENT JOSEPH SMITH.

The service was in charge of Elder George E. Harrington, President of Independence Branch and began with the singing of the hymn, "Father, when in love to thee," by the choir, the hymn having been selected by the deceased. Edmund L. Kelley, Presiding Bishop of the Church, then offered the following prayer.

Father, who art in heaven, we are gathered here to Father, who art in heaven, we are gainered here to-day in order that we might honor thee as we testify to our love and appreciation of this thy servant who has gone before. We know he tried to honor thee in life, and to glorify thy name, and in the good works that he en-deavored to carry out while in this life.

We come today, Father, as children of thine, and as brothers and sisters, and not only would we pay tribute to him, but we desire to honor thee, for thou didst give him long life. He was permitted to do much for thy children while here, and thou hast taken him away in accordance with thy great wisdom and pleasure; and we would ask thee, Father, that thou wouldst regard each one upon this occasion. We are weak children of thine, and need help and strength upon every occasion, and we especially need thy Holy and Divine Spirit upon this oc-We desire to come before thee in this worship and service in order that we may bear the token of ou that we may continue to honor thy name, who has given us of every good thing that we have in this life, and hast provided that as we depart to the other side we may still receive of thy goodness and mercy, and behold what thou hast provided for thy children who have wrought in honor before thee; and we ask thee, in the great name of Jesus Christ, thy Son, that thou wilt be with us now. That thy Holy and Divine Spirit may rest and abide upon us, and that the services may be such as shall be acceptable unto thee, for as children we desire to bring forth such an offering as will please thee and that will conduce to our helpfulness in this life, in order that we may be more dutiful unto thee than we have in times passed.

We desire, heavenly Father, as we may approach thee at this time, and ask, that thou wilt regard especially those who are near and dear to the one who has departed, by the ties of kindredship in this world.
Bless the one who has been his companion. Bles Bless, pray thee, heavenly Father, each one of these children who are called to mourn, and we especially, also, our Father, ask thee that thou wilt remember these brothers and sisters in the covenant of Christ, and the many others who have been gathered in order that they might honor him who has in his life always held that thy goodness and thy mercy was the highest and the grandest and the best thing that thy children in this life could reach out for, and walk in accordance with thy desires; and we pray thee, Father, in the name of Jesus, that thy Holy Spirit may bless each and every one of these; and as we shall depart from this house may it be with more hopefulness in life, in the integrity of thy truth, in the constant supervision of thy Holy and Divine Spirit as citizens of the kingdom of Christ, when bye and bye we expect to pass upon the other side and its manifold bounties because of thy goodness and love and mercy unto thy children in this world.

Then we pray thee that thou wilt bless the exercise of the hour, each and every one. May thy Holy Spirit be with each and every one, and those who may speak, especially, our Father, wilt thou bless them, and bless especially, our Father, wilt thou bless them, and bless those who may hear, and unto thee, our Father, shall be the praise through Jesus our blessed Lord and Redeemer, Elder Joseph Luff, Physician to the Church, and physician and life long friend to the deceased President then spoke, prefacing his remarks with the reading of the following items prepared by Elder Heman C. Smith, Church Historian.

Joseph Smith was born November 6, 1882, at Kirtland, Ohio. He was the son of Joseph and Emma Hale Smith. His father was born at Sharon, Vermont, December 23, 1805, he was the son of Joseph and Lucy Mack Smith. This Joseph Smith, the grandfather of President Smith was born at Topfield, Massachusetts, July 12, 1771, and was the son of Asael and Mary Duty Smith.

Asael was born March 1, 1744, at Topfield, Massachusetts, and was the son of Samuel and Priscilla Gould Smith

Samuel was born in Topfield, Massachusetts, January 26, 1714, and was the son of Samuel and Rebecca Curtis Smith.

Samuel Smith the elder was born in Essex County, Massachusetts, January 26, 1666. He was the son of Rob-ort and Mary French Smith who came from England in 1633. President Smith, therefore descended from a long line of honorable and respectable ancestry, as the Smiths, Frenches, Curtises, Goulds, Dutys, and Macks were all of the most respectable families of New England pioneers; of the most respectable families of New England pioneers; while the Hales were among the leading families of Pennsylvania and were of Jewish extraction. These families were all highly respected in the places of their ancestral homes, and no suspicion attached to the reputation of any of licent until the religious movement with tation of any of lean until the religious movement with which the St. like were prominently connected began in Western New York; when unsavory stories were circulated by those opposed to their religious views. Through a long and active life President Smith has maintained the good name of his ancestors.

When in his sixth year his parents moved from Kirt-land Ohio, to Missouri, settling at Far West in Caldwell County. From this place as a result of religious perse-cution his mother and her children were, in 1839, driven from the State while his father, and his colleagues, were confined in a dungeon at Liberty, Missouri. He with his adopted sister Julia and his brother Frederick crossed the ce of the Mississippi River clinging to his mother's dress, while she carried in her arms his infant brother Alexander. The family settled during this same year at Commerce, (now Nauvoo) Illinois, where he grew to manhood. At the age of eight years he was baptized by his father, and on several occasions was designated by the Spirit, through his father, to be his successor.

When many of the church under the leadership of When many of the church under the leadership of Brigham Young moved westward in 1846, his mother, with her children, refused to go and denounced polygamy and its kindred evils. Joseph Smith and his brothers continued to be uncompromising opponents of these evils during life. On the 6th of April, 1860, he was ordained during life. On the bth of April, 1800, he was ordanical to the office of President of the High Priesthood, at Amboy, Illinois, under the hands of Zenos H. Gurley, William W. Blair, and Samuel Powers, of the Quorum of Twelve, and William Marks of the High Priests. By virtue of this ordination he became president of the Church and at each General Conference since he has been exceived as the brightness discontinuous vision.

sustained as such without a dissenting voice.

He was married in 1855 to Miss Emma Griswold by whom several children were born to him, three of whom were reared to womanhood, viz: Mrs. Emma. J. McCallum of Independence, Mo., Mrs. Carrie L. Weld, of Lamoni, Iowa, and Mrs. Zaide V. Salyards, now deceased. His first wife died in 1869, and he subsequently married Miss Ada Clarke, by whom he had three sons who children, five of whom survive him, viz: Frederick M., Israel A., Hale W., and Mrs. Audentia Anderson, all of Independence, Missouri, and Mrs. Lucy Lysinger of Lamoni, Iowa.

His second wife died in 1896, and he subsequently married Miss Ada Clarks, by whom he had three sons who are yet single and reside with their mother, viz: Richard are yet single and reside with their motinet, viz: Richard Clarke, William Wallace, and Reginald Archibald. His residence was in Nauvoo, Illinois, until 1885, when he removed to Plano, Illinois, where he became editor of the Church official organ, The Saints' Herald, which position he retained until his death. In 1881 he removed to Lamoni, Iowa, where he was the most prominent citizen of the place until 1906 when he removed to Independence, Missouri, where he resided until his death.

In addition to his duties as president and his editorial work he performed much missionary labor throughout the United States, Canada, Sandwich Islands, and the

SERMON BY ELDER JOSEPH LUFF.

My duty on this occasion is such as rarely falls to the lot of man. This statement can, of course, be interpreted fully only by those of like faith with the departed. There is very much within my knowledge of our President which he deserves the expression of at my hands, but which I know he would rather would not be said. There is, therefore, very much expected of me in this line by some of those here assembled which will not be forthcoming in my effort. I know several men who could do better than I can, but I know of no man who could do full justice to the occasion.

I dare not trust my emotions nor my tongue in an extemporaneous effort, hence I have tried to commit my thoughts to writing, so that, should I fail of ability to read them, another may occupy and present them in my stead. The combined wishes of the General and Local Church officers as well as of the family that I make this attempt. and a complete willingness on my part to serve in any capacity where I may help to meet the solemn exigencies of the hour, and thus pay a feeble tribute to the man we all have so dearly loved, is my reason for attempting what I feel to be the task of my life, for in this event death has dealt as hard a blow as it can to me.

A reading of the instructions written by himself concerning the arrangements for and conduct of his funeral obsequies, in which he has plainly requested that everything that would present him more conspicuously in his deservings, before the public, than others of his faith-fellows, be avoided, will explain to you why my pen refrains from going into all the details of evidence that flood my memory and has marked his personal and official life and by reason of which a legacy has been left the church and his family more precious than accumulated gold or rubies and more imperishable than was ever acquired by the blare of trumpets, the clashing of steel and the roar of cannon.

By the appointment of God, Joseph Smith helieved himself to be largely the property of the Church and the servant of men, and hence, guaging his character development and facing his life obligations in the light of his Master's Sermon on the Mount, he gave himself to the people, and from the first moment of that consecration till that one when his heart suddenly ceased to heat. he never once evinced a desire to remove from the alter what he had voluntarily placed thereon.

No bait could lure him-no threat could drive him-no argument could persuade him to recall what he had once dedicated at the shrine of his love for God and man, and that dedication embodied his all, without reservation for sake of personal ease or wealth or pleasure. He had but one ideal before him in this and that ideal was Jesus Christ.

In the course of some remarks made by him shortly before his death, he said "I have never handled a dishonest dollar, nor am I conscious of having done any man a wrong." Later he said to me (a few hours before he left us), "You know, Joseph, that no man, unless it was my father, has ever passed through this life circumscribed as my life has been." The full meaning of that statement but few, if any, can fathom. his life of 82 years, and especially his official life of 54 years, from whatever angle we may, our vision cannot escape the divine factors that equipped him and furnished the elements for development or restraint which enabled him to so well fill his place as a man of destiny.

Born under the aegis of that Spiritual afflatus that characterized the Church at Kirtland in 1832, and nurtured under the anxieties that persecution later gave rise to; then swept from pillar to post in the forced migrations of the Church, from Ohio to Missouri and from Missouri to Illinois; torn at the sword's point from his father's embrace when that father was in the hands of a military mob and under sentence to be shot. Denied even the privilege of a parting kiss from the lips of that father who was afterwards incarcerated in a dungeon. Daily as a listener throughout his boyhood years to the recitals that told of the brutal treatment, including the tarring and feathering to which that father and others had been subjected; the family home invaded time and again under or without pretended process of law, by men who sought his father's life, and, finally, when but 12 years of age, confronted with the mortal remains of that father as they were brought home from Carthage, riddled with assassin's bullets; a mother widowed and a home desolated, for no other reason, so far as he could learn, than that his father had persisted in maintaining his religious convictions under the direction of God. And all this, as to its final enactments while his father was under the pledged protection of the State in which he lived.

Think of this, my hearers, and think how many men of strong will and natural impulses, have, under less provocation, became poisoned against all governments and men, and, becoming bandits or anarchists have Ishmaelized themselves against creation, arrayed their hands against every man and made vengeance their watchword for ever afterwards. Add to this the infamy of that apostacy that occurred within the Church when men, corrupted by lust and regardless of both divine and human law, first secretly, but afterwards openly (when drunk with self-assumed place and power) in Utah, gave free rein to their adulterous amours, and turned the once pure church avenues into veritable cesspools of iniquity; then, in an effort to sanctify or make acceptable to the great body their abomations, they fabricated a document, calling it a revelation from God, authorizing their bestialism and published it to the Church and the world, attaching the name of Joseph Smith to it in a way to indicate that as a Prophet of God he had received it a year before his death. This occurred in August, 1852. Joseph Smith had been in his grave over 8 years, and it was left therefore, for his true followers and his family descendants or survivors alone to protest against this infamous and slanderous imputation. This they did. The Reorganized Church which had come into being the April preceding had also announced itself as unalterably and unequivocally antagonistic to polygamy and kindred doctrines, believing them to be the doctrines of devils.

Think of it, my friends: Little Joseph, or Young Joseph as he was called, was then 20 years of age, just the age when budding manhood needed the help or support that makes for its encouragement in breasting the tides or launching forth to take advantage of the elements that the world should offer to every man who sees a purpose in life. But what did this young man find to encourage him to begin the prosecution of an upright career, or carve for himself a name of honor and credit.

The ear that he turned toward the world war saluted with the vituperation and anathemas that ignorance and religious bigotry through press and rostrum and pulpit was directing against his father's name and work, and even in the immediate locality where he lived the atmosphere was assume with threats and calumny.

The ear that he turned towards the largest gathering of erstwhile Saints (now in Utah) was saluted with the sounds of sensualism and violated law-both human and divine, and amidst this revelry of sounds he heard his father's name interblended disgustingly and, as he believed, without warrant. What was he to do? From whence was he to draw his help or hope or encouragement? The only passport to the world's avenues of success for him was a deunuciation of his father's claims in toto. The only passport to Utah and the aggrandizement it offered, was an admission that his father had been a criminal and an acceptance of the p..... Again I ask: offense to his righteous sense. Again I ask: me just'before his death, his life had been circumscribed as no other man's life had been.

Too just to arraign God as many had done: Too honorable to sacrifice a conviction in order to gain access to the world's avenues of promotion: Too noble to accept a bribe or to consent for a moment to the imputations upon his father's name so apparently unwarranted in the light of his personal knowledge of that father and of the record made by him: Too inexperienced to know how or where to turn in certainty as related to the walks of men. He resolved upon one thing, which I heard him publicly state years afterward in the City of St. Phomas, in Canada, in 1878 I think, namely: that, whatever the facts might be, he would endeavor to live so that no man would ever be able to speak an ill word of his father because of the conduct of his son. Thus determined and pledging himself within himself to a life devoted to the redemption of his father's name from the ignominy to which an unjust world and traitorous associates had consigned it, he betook himself to God and thence began the converging of the forces and graces within him, which, under the divine economy were to become divergent in their outshining and make his life a blessing to many. So brilliant and extensive was the lustre of that outshining that the mercy of it compassed even the cruelest of his father's persecutors in later years, and carried both forgiveness and aid from his heart and hand to certain of those whose hands carried the blood stains of his father's murder, while his great heart breathed a prayer, mingled with the tears that channelled his cheeks, that God, too, would forgive the man who had helped to make him fatherless.

In response to his earnest appeal to God for airection, he was invested and environed on one occasion with what he called a glorious light, and told among other things that the light where he then stood was greater than that attending the people in Utah. That he was to have nothing to do with polygamy except to oppose it. To this counsel, as we all know, he proved faithful, and never allowed a fitting opportunity to pass without antagonizing the evil by all means within his power. I have stood or sat by his side on the public platform in Canada and in different States, including California, Idaho, Montana, Iowa, Illinois, Missouri, Massachusetts, and in many cities and towns in Utah (where we were associated as missionaries for over six months) and have heard him denounce the evil in unmeasured terms, employing the Bible, the Book of Mormon and Doctrine and Covenants, as well as the Statutes of the States under which the Church had lived, to emphasize his arraignment and condemnation.

On one occasion in Provo City, Utah, in the largest public building, before an immense assembly and with a number of the strongest men and most ardent polygamists arranged in phalanx before him— their attitude betraying a determination to overcome him or minimize his effort by the magnetism of their presence and influence. I saw and heard him excel himself in the force and intelligence of the splendid effort he made as he measured out the cold facts, employed the strong arguments, hitroduced the law and laid the axe thereby as the root of their philosophy and then coly claffienged them to take an advance step toward him, if they dare, to disloge his position or offer even a faint apology for theirs. Needless to say they did not attempt it; but with all their combined and concentrated efforts to psychologize the man, he paralyzed them and left the place triumphantly, though the effort made him reel, till I had to steady him in his walk all the way home. Again in the Walker Opera House in Salt Lake City in 1885, before thousands of people, I heard him deliver a powerful arraignment and then tell of the revelation authorizing him to oppose polygamy, after which he declared that he had never missed a proper opportunity for doing so, and, raising his right hand, he solemnly cried out "And so help me God, I never will."

ZION'S ENSIGN

In Ogden, Plain City, Springville, Payson, Spanish Fork, Pleasant Grove, Logan, Lehi, American Fork, Ephraim, Beaver, and a number of other cities of Utah, as well as towns in Idaho and Montana, I was his associate and listened to him as he repeated his efforts in the same line, often in the presence of leading dignitaries of the dominant church in these places.

In the year 1853, after a severe and protracted illness, his mind was greatly disturbed in regard to what his life-work was to be. He was then a student of law; but unsettled as to his future The Lord, however, was at work with course. him, and one day, in broad daylight, the walls of the building around him suddenly faded from his sight and there opened before him a vision of two conditions which we have not time to here detail. He was told by a personage who stood by him that he must make his choice between these, but to do it deliberately, for there could be no recall of his decision when once made. The vision then closed and he stood in the room as before. He acted upon the advice given, and settled himself as to his life purpose and about the beginning of 1860 he received what he believed to be the instruction from God to unite with the little band that had started the Reorganization, and in April, 1860, he accompanied his mother to the Conference at Amboy, Illinois, and there was welcomed, elected and ordained to the office which he continued to hold till the day of his death, by the assembled saints who had been notified by revelation of his coming.

Thus he began his public career and from thence he has been ours in an especial sense, to be studied as a man, to be regarded as a counsellor and leader, to be measured in the light of the gospel philosophy he advocated, and to have his entire career pass under our inspection and be judged by comparison with the Christ whose representative he claimed to be.

What is our verdict today as to the man, and what the character of the tribute we are justified in paying him-the last one while his mortal remains lie in our presence. He has asked that we speak but little of his virtues publicly, but this was only an additional evidence of his worthiness of a tribute at our hands. We must not go far afield, but his life was ours-he gave himself to us, and for fifty-four years he has walked among us—our companion, our brother, our servant by the will of God, and what shall our tribute be? God help us to pay it-not only in words of eulogy, but in life responses that answer to the virtue of his counsels and exhibit the fruit of his holy impress upon us--- the reflections of his course as a president—his love as a brother his deportment as a man. From every sphere occupied by him lessons have been learned by the observant and the benefits of them will continue to appear.

One lesson he diligently sought to impart was that the success of our church work depended not upon his continuance with us, or the presence of any man, save the man Christ Jesus. His example was one of lowliness. The consciousness of his official rank never took him above the social level of the rank and file of the great body. He was the companion of all and no air of superiority was ever exhibited by him in his cominglings with the people. He never sought an easy place but was always found where the heaviest burdens were to be beene and with his hands at the lifting handles. It was never "Go and do" with him. It was always "Come and do" what was required. He was a man with whom you could safely entrust your confidences without fear of betrayal, even though you should later become estranged from him and act as his enemy. He never allowed the wrong-doings or abuses or bad qualities of his enemies to blind him to the good that was resident in them, nor to prevent him from acknowledging it. He never allowed a man to drop in his estimation or forfeit his affection because of having violently antagonized his position in public discussions within the Church. He acquiesced gracefully in the decision of the body even though they were sometimes contrary to the ideas expressed by himself, and was always willing to lend his aid to put those decisions into execution and to rejoice over their success, if they proved successful. If they proved a failure he never greeted the promoters of the movement with a tantalizing "I told you so," but usually found some modicum of good acquired by the experiment with which to congratulate them. He frequently paid high tribute to the nobility, the trustworthiness and devotion to principle which characterized the men who openly antagonized him at times and only a few days before his death he mentioned the names of a few of them to me and said frankly, "They understood the situation better than I did at the time, but even while they opposed me I never loved them the less for it. They were noble men and I could trust them anywhere." By divine help and early experience he had learned the lessons of self-denial and selfcontrol, and his entire official life furnished a magnificent exhibition of it, even under the severest provocation. His idea of the meaning of true religion made him a visitor in the sick chamber, a defender of the defenseless, helper of the helpless, and always a sympathizer with the "under-dog." He was a poor man, as to worldly possessions, when he accepted the church Presidency in 1860, and unlike many other religious leaders, he was just as poor a man when, at the bidding of death, he surrendered it in 1914.

Office brought him no emoluments. Money, to him, was only worth what good he could do with it. He never kept a dollar that he knew someone else needed more than himself. He never had a penny for luxury for himself but he had always one for the needy and a tear for the sorrowing. Many a journey has been undertaken by him under cover of night, to carry food and clothing, unseen, to the homes of needy ones with whom he was acquainted, and I could name some from whose door the "wolf" was kept thus by his ministrations in early days, and more than one missionary, far from home, has received in a time of extreme need, the contributions of this man from his own meagre store. But he always tried to keep the knowledge of these things from the public. There was no ostentation with him.

His early life and experience was enough to have embittered his entire life and made him revengeful and malignant of disposition toward all men; but instead of this he was the friend of all—he loved all men, and his chief delight was in drawing upon himself to his limit in his efforts to bless. Instead of being morose he was cheerful and even humorous and this disposition asserted itself almost to his closing breath, and inspired à like feeling in all around him.

The first time I saw him was at Plano, Illinois, in April, 1877, as he was trudging along the centre of the street, propelling a large wheelbarrow, filled with coal, from the coal yard to his home, and wherever I have seen him since that time, whether in private circles or public capacity, as the guest of my home or I at his, the same humility, the same distinguished characteristics of the man have impressed me and made me feel anxious to get in closer touch with the sources of his excellence.

As Presiding officer in the counsels of the Church, before increasing infirmities of suffering and age began to incapacitate him, he always appeared to me like a man made for the place. His decisions were made with firmness, yet tinctured always with those expressions that captured the hearts of belligerents. He seemed capable of deciding to a hair's breadth and the predominating element of love that pervaded the atmosphere of his actions was the commanding grace that won us all. He never knowingly took advantage of his position as presiding officer to influence the action of the body. Whatever his private opinion on a subject under discussion might be, he was determined that both sides should always have equal opportunity for ventilation of their views, and seldom, unless his opinion was asked for, could it be told by his expression where he stood on the propositions being discussed.

His titles included Prophet, Seer and Revelator, but in service, to my thinking, he was more of a "revelator" than a Prophet to the Church, inasmuch as his communications had to do chiefly with explaining prior communications and regulating and directing the Church procedure, rather than foretelling the future or forecasting events, though in a number of those given through him to private individuals especially, the prophetic feature was exhibited. Over thirty years ago he said to the Church, unofficially, that he did not know how long he would live, but he would remain till the name of Latter Day Saint was largely relieved of the odium unjustly attached to it and was made honorable in the places where it had been held in contempt. We have only to contrast the conditions when he began his work with those that environ us now, to note the fulfillment of this. Nauvoo and surrounding country was decrying, denouncing and threatening-traducing his father's name and forbidding Latter Day Saints from living, preaching or even praying in that locality. Today the Church is in receipt of numerous requests for its return and settlement there. Independence, Missouri, had recorded itself with Far West and other places with an emphasis of hate that warned the Saints that to come here was to take a terrible risk. Today it is in tears. This present funeral gathering is eloquent in testimony of esteem and sorrow. Our telephones have for days been busy transmitting expressions of sorrow over his sickness and death, from the lips of scores who are not of our faith but knew the man or knew of him. Our public prints are teeming with articles paying magnificent tribute to his memory. Allow me to read just one-an editorial from the Kansas City Journal of yesterday.

JOSEPH SMITH.

In the ecclesiastical dogmas which made up the denominational belief of the late Joseph Smith the general public has no particular interest. But in the death of the late venerable head of the Reorganized Church death of Jesus Christ of Latter Day Saints the country loses an interesting and useful citizen. Joseph Smith was considerably more than a powerful churchman into whose keeping had been committed the destinies of one of the great denominations of the world. Those who Church in the objectionable acceptation of that term, will not appreciate the theological the two nor understand that nothing was more Joseph Smith than the doctrines of Brigham Young, with their g, with their polygamous teachings and all the features which make Utah Mormonism obnoxious in the eyes of the average American .

But all who ever came in contact with Joseph Smith

But all who ever came in contact with Joseph Smitcould readily appreciate the broad charity of his tenets, the untarnished private life he lived, the unswerving devotion to duty which he always displayed and the simple modesty of his relations toward his church and the world at large. To his church he was the prophet whom all its communicants revered, but he was also the unostentatious leader who constantly practiced the virtues which he enjoined upon his followers. To the world he was the blameless citizen who walked before all men as an example and whose interest in the movements that made for the welfare of the community always had his heartiest support.

Perhaps nothing could give a clearer insight into the character of Joseph Smith than the directions which he issued shortly before his death in respect to his funeral Disliking nothing so much, next to sham, as ostentation, he directed that his funeral should be conducted with the utmost simplicity, without any of the elaborateness which his followers would otherwise have provided in order to testify to the honor in which they held him. He was the prophet, but first of all he was the Christian gentleman and the good citizen. As such he lived, as such he died, as such he will be remembered by all outside the household of his faith. His followers themselves can have no legacy of remembrance more honorable than this appraisement of the people among whom he lived and labored so many years. Kindly, cheerful, loyal to his own creed, tolerant of those of others, standing for modesty, simplicity, good citizenship, embdying in his private and public life all the virtues which adorn a character worthy of emulation—such is the revelation which Joseph Smith leaves to the world, as the real interpretation of an ecclesiastical message translated into terms of human character.

What better tribute could truthfully be paid to any man that ever lived? And this but voices the sentiment that pervades the atmosphere of all places where he has lived or been known. And remember that in earning these tributes or to obtain them, Joseph Smith never trailed his Gospel flag-never sacrificed a church principlenever was disloyal in word or act to the Restoration Work of which he was made a leading renresentative and exponent. What language then, could be considered flattery upon our lips, that was employed in uttering encomiums upon a life, handicapped as it was, that, perforce of its magnificence, could soften the heart of a world and elicit therefrom such a tribute as this? What could be more voiceful of a divine supervision of this man's life than this? Thank God for the arbitraments of time, and their assurance of final Gospel triumph!

Thirty-three years ago Joseph Smith said he would live till a man would be able to walk from Lamoni, Iowa, to Independence, Missouri, and find homes of Latter Day Saints all along the route in which to take his regular meals and lodge every night. This too has been fulfilled.

He united his interests with the Reorganization when but a handful or "remnant" of faithful church adherents were available for aggressive or defensive warfare in the interests of the Angel's message. Fifty-four years later he leaves it with an enrollment of over seventy thousand.

He was an ardent worker in the temperance cause and delivered lectures in many places in its interests. When our local option fight was on several months ago, though he was feeble in body, he had them take him to the polls to record his vote in its favor. He always held himself subject to the call of those directing the work or promoting its interests. A few days before his death, when, told by his physician that his end seemed near, he called his three minor sons to his bedside, and, taking each in turn by the hand, asked for and received promptly a promise from them that they would never drink intoxicating liquor as a beverage, or use tobacco in any form. He then expressed his gratitude to them and breathed a brief prayer for God's blessing upon them.

As a husband and father he was all that his profession and position suggested he should be or those relations called for, and but few can truthfully say what we heard him say a few days before dying, when speaking to his sorrowing wife, who had so faithfully attended him throughout all his afflictions, viz., that no mean or unkind word had ever passed between them. I heard him some years ago say the same thing regarding his former wife, just before her death.

ing his former wife, just before her death.

He was a "large" man, made to fill a large place, and he occupied well. He was a born leader and his winning charm was love, and he deserves well in tribute at the hands of all those to whom his life endeared him; hence, as one of many thousands I, in their behalf, have offered this humble tribute as the last that can be paid publicly while his mortal remains are yet with us. And I feel indeed keenly the meagreness of it as compared with what his splendid life among us and for us has entitled him to.

I hope no person hearing this will think me a worshipper of this man, or of the class to whom men become heroes or saints or angels simply because they have died. I do not wish to be understood as viewing Joseph Smith as a perfect man or as one whose official work has, even to my eyes, exhibited no flaws, or revealed no mistakes, for such is not the case. My attitude regarding these things has been well known, and even conspicuous in the Church, and has not changed because of his death, nor would he have me change except I could do so conscientiously. but, viewing him as a man among men, and speak ing of him, personally, only as a man, I point to him as one whose aims were always high, who never conceived an ignoble design, and who, as a consequence, reached and maintained a loftier plane than those whose standards were not so

I point to him as a man who, within my range of acquaintance, and to my viewing, has had no superior and but few, if any, equals, when I consider his life here from its Alpha to its Omega, in the light of what I know circumscribed and environed it, and this I say after abundant opportunity, in almost all life's walks, for observing and judging. To say more is forbidden me. To say less would be unjust and unkind. If I know love's meaning, I loved the man for the nobility I discerned in him.

He was a sufferer for years from facial neuralgia, but was almost the personification of patient endurance, and the characteristic cheerfulness of his life never failed him during all his affliction. Almost four years ago the eyes that, as he said, had served him so well for over seventy years, but for some six years later had been gradually growing dim, lost their usual power and his hearing became seriously impaired, and thus he was all but shut out from the world and deprived of the ability to circulate at will. He became dependant in this direction, upon others, and this to a man of his disposition was an indescribable trial; still no complaint escaped him. He toiled on by the aid of his private secretary and amanuensis till his life Memoirs were completed and turned over to the Church, and he found abundant cause for thanksgiving to God for what he still enjoyed even in his life condition.

When about a fortnight ago he was attacked with a form of heart neuralgia he was ill prepared physically to endure much further pain and along during the continuance of his distress and increasing wealness, he expressed repeatedly a wish to go. His life work was done, his race was run, as he viewed it, and seeing nothing further of usefulness for him in this life, or benefit to be conferred by a prolongation of his stay, like the real philosopher that he was he quietly folded his hands and announced his readiness to be transferred to the next condition, where he hoped to continue under the divine directorate and be obedient and contented under the requirements of the new estate.

At one time, when under the impression that he had only a few hours to stay, he called for his son, Israel, who was his scribe, and dictated a brief farewell to the Church and to his family, all of whom, except his son Frederick M., were assembled around his bed; also repeated, as his dying testimony, the declaration he had through life made of his belief in his father's virtue, also that Jesus was the Christ, the Redeemer of the world, closing with the words "The Spirit and the Bride say come, and I say Come, Lord Jesus, come quickly."

Shortly after this he revived and his condition continued to fluctuate for several days, during which time his son Frederick M., arrived from the East and thus completed the family group in attendance. On the morning of the 10th of December he seemed to revive considerably, inspiring a little renewal of hope in some who were near him, but suddenly he asked for his wife and that he might be raised up in bed. It was but the answering of the final summons, for scarcely had his request been complied with ere his tired heart had ceased to beat and the spirit had quitted its earthly tenement. At one o'clock p. m., after making the usual tests and examinations, his physicians pronounced him dead, and the grief-stricken attendants at his bedside retired to mourn through coming years a loss which to them seems inestimable, and irreparable.

Truly, as our brother said to me, his life, from the cradle to the casket was circumscribed by his birth as no other life had been; but, instead, as many would have done, of viewing this as the decree of cruel fate, and abandoning himself to its apparent forecastings, he accepted it as the behest of an infinitely wise Providence, and prepared himself to occupy within its limitations; nor once did he ever seem to chafe under its restrictions or look or long to step outside of them, He confined himself to an effort to fill becomingly the sphere thus narrowed for him, and as we stand by this casket and look back to that cradle, we are instinctively led to exclaim: "Who, thus circumscribed, could, within that circle, have been larger, grander or nobler?" As if to still further restrict him and give, by a final test, his grand character opportunity to yet more resplendently shine out, put on its finishing touches, and illustrate in completeness the divine lesson intended and under which influence to close his career as a teacher and an exampler, he was deprived of the use of his eyes and nearly so of his ears-shut out from those beauties of sight and sound he used to so keenly relish, nor even permitted to look upon the faces of his family; but, when words of commiseration were communicated to him regarding this, he cheerfully made answer, "O, well, these eyes have served me splendidly a long time and till my work was practically done and I have no complaint to make. I thank God that they lasted me so long."

Thus has this hero in the struggles that life has brought to few if any others in this world, lived and walked and talked among us. We welcome the blessed legacy thus entrusted to us and, committing the interests of the family and Church, as he did, to the care of the All Wise and loving God, we hail and apply the comforting words of the Seer of Patmos, which may be considered as my text, "Blessed are the dead which die in the Lord, from henceforth. Yea, Saith the Spirit, that they may rest from their labors and their works do follow them."

Those eyes no longer dependant upon the clearness of fleshly windows for their vision, are now gazing upon the splendors of new realms of beauty and occupancy and heholding the faces of those who preceded him thereto, and those ears are now being saluted by the welcomes and the plaudits, and the music of that chorus which his voice will help to swell in singing to a present God and Savior "Blessing and honor and wisdom and Glory be thine for ever and ever! Hosanna for evermore!" Rest—Rest—REST, to his noble weary spirit. Peace-Peace-PEACE to his sacred ashes.

The choir again sang using the following hymn selected by President Smith.

I know that my Redeemer lives, And ever prays for me;
A token of his love he gives,
A pledge of liberty.

I find him lifting up my head; He brings salvation near: His presence makes me free indeed, And he will soon appear.

He wills that I should holy be: What can withstand his will? The counsel of his grace in me He surely shall fulfill.

Jesus, I hang upon thy word: I steadfastly believe hou wilt return, and claim me, Lord, And to thyself receive. Thou

DEPARTMENT OF Woman's Auxiliary for Social Service

MRS. MAUDE MILLS, EDITOR, 1514 W. Short St., Independence, Mo.

All persons sending monopoles. Woman's Auxiliary for any purpose, including subscriptions to Home and Child Welfare left, or Children's Home donations, please forward same to the treasurer of the Auxiliary, Mrs. J A. Gardner, 711 S. Fuller Ave., Independence Mo.

ADVISORY BOARD.

Mrs. S. R. Burgess, President, 5210 Etzel Ave., St. Louis, Mo. Mrs. B. C. Smith, Vice President, 214 S. Spring St., Independ-Mrs. J. A. Gardner, Treasurer, 21 W. Electric St., Independence, Mo.
Mrs. J. A. Gardner, Treasurer, 711 S. Fuller Ave., Independence, Mo.

b. Mrs. M. A. Etzenhouser, 1895 W. Walnut St., Independence, Mo. Mrs. D. J. Krahl, 74t S. Crysler St., Independence, Mo. SUPERINTERDENTS OF DEPARTISENS. Home and Child Welfare Department, Mrs. H. A. Stebbins, La-ni Lowa

moni, Iowa.

Mental Department, Mrs. Lydia Thomas Wight, Lamoni, Iowa Might, Massachen Department, Mrs. Bertha Anderson Hulmes, 40 Mill St. Council Blufs, Iowa.

Sewing and Aid Department, Mrs. Edith Cochran, 20 S. Sevententh St., St., Joseph., Jo.

Young Woman's Department, Mrs. J. A. Gardner, 711 S. Fuller Ave., Independence, Mo.

THE VALUE OF PRACTICAL RELIGIOUS TRAINING FOR CHILDREN.

It seems such a self-evident fact that children should It seems such a seir-evident fact that children should receive practical religious training in early childhood that the treatment of the subject seems almost superflows. But lest some may carelessly omit this duty of so train-ing their children we will endeavor to bring out a few thoughts.

We can easily agree that what we expect the man to be must be furnished in his childhood training; that is as regards the building of his character. Desirable habits are headed in importance by the well rounded devotional ideas we must make a part of our children's lives. "Tis true that children generally first learn a re-ligious form in prayer, saying grace at meals, etc. They grow out of this however, as they develop; or at least if the parent is wise enough to see when they have developed sufficiently to make a little more progress and suggests the same to the child.

While we may teach a child the words to use when praying, when he makes a start, I believe it is well to suggest, when quite young, different things to pray about each night as the needs of the day may be. While the mother's mind may lead in suggestion, try to get the child to form the words. Though they may be crude for a time there is development in it. This method if suggesting to a child subjects for his prayer may take a little of your time, more thought on your part, but is worth a great deal to your child and his development.

Children should hear their parents pray also. This is another help in their progress. Do not weary them with long, ill-adapted prayers for they will cease to listen if you do. Children should hear father and mother be carefully done for the each pray, and let it be carefully done for the child's special benefit sometimes. It seems to me when fathers do sense the importance of being exemplary to their children the effort usually counts for more than the mother's constant effort. May be not in the grand sum total of influence but it has a very noticable effect usually for the real training of the child. Perhaps its being less frequent solves the enignae—perhaps not, but at any rate thoughtful fathers have a great influence over their children.

children.

I had the privilege recently of reading a communication given to a body of Saints through the Spirit. It is of an accessally high order and just in this connection I visit to quote a paragraph therefrom: "There are families here represented before which my name is not heard in prayer. Thinkest thou that this is pleasing unto me? My Saints have been admonished, and instructed that they shouldst teach their children to pray, and in so teaching, I have required that as the shades of night have settled down over thy habitations that thou shouldst call the children together and upon the bended knees, with them about thee, that thou shouldst by thine own petitions, teach them how to pray. Is you counsel in these things is disregarded, come not thou, becounsel in these things is disregarded, come not thous he-fore me with railings against me and my work in who days when thy children have departed from the faigh. Unto those who are pleased to heed my counsel in this regard, I desire to say, that if in thy devotions thou wilt remember mine order, in after years thy children shall bring honor to thee, and to thy name, in the service which they shall render to the church. Be thou admon-ished, therefore, to remember me as it were in secret. Call thy families about thee and in fervent prayer seek me for those things that are needful, and in mine own time and way, even as I have seen, as it were thy prayers time and way, even as I have seen, as it were thy prayers in secret, thy prayers offered up in the confines of thine own habitations, so shall I roward thee openly."

own habitations, so shall I reward thee openly."

As to saying grace at meals the very idea of doing it himself causes the child to sense more nearly what is being done and why. A little boy's question one day, after grace had been said by the father and the table talk had been engaged in for a few minutes, and the food was ready on his plate for his disposal, when he hesitated and said, "Mama, did papa ask the blessing?" cused me to decide quite promptly that the little boy must have a little responsibility along this line or he might have a wandering mind quite frequently, simply bowing his head and being quiet from habit, whereas if he had to sometimes ask the blessing himself the responsibility would make him more attentive. Also it would cause him to be more personally thankful. Timidity is overcome also by practice in these things and that is of great benefit. Many an adult struggles hard and long to be able to properly perform religious duties before others just from timidity, which might have been overcome had it been no unusual thing in the

To sum it up I do not hesitate to say that for many reasons a child should early learn the religious duties which he must perform later in life; and by their practice in the early years will become a part of life and not in the entry years will become a part of life and not easily dropped when he becomes a more independent being. Let us all teach our children what God is pleased to have us do, and not forget the needed examples we ourselves must furnish in order to make it at all effecttual.

Read at Woman's Auxiliary Local at Independence, Nov. 15, 1914. Published by request of said meeting.

Knobnoster, Mo.

Dear Editor Auxiliary:—While reading the article "Relation of Habit to Discipline," my mind goes back to early childhood, and for the benefit of some of my friends, some of which are young mothers and fathers, I pen this article. About the first that was required of me after I became old enough to understand was, obedience, with firmness, manifested on my father's part. The circumstance was this: "I awoke in the silent hours of the night, and from my maneuvers mother decided I was hungry so I was placed in my father's care until mother went to prepare some bread and milk for me, but I was very cross and continued crying and became very angry, so much so that when mother returned with my bread and milk and father tried to feed me I would not eat. I was so rebellious that I would strike the spoon to thrust it away. Then mother interfered as so many mothers do, but father was the stronger in our house, mothers do, but father was the stronger in our house, so he said, no I am going to feed her. So he did and the result was I was soon asleep again. Me thinks I hear some one say maybe you were not hungry, that some other cause might have been the reason for refusing food. Now don't think for a moment that a mother, who had had six big, burly rubust boys could not tell who had had six big, burly rubust boys could not tell when her little eighteen-month old girl (the first one) was hungry. Now don't you know that mother with her six boys was proud of the girl, but they never forgot that that little girl must learn her lesson, as she did and I never disobeyed my father but what I got my punishment

So then we must be firm, teach your little ones that papa's and mama's wisdom is far superior to theirs. First of all, papa and mama, don't you disagree in the presence of your child, if you disagree in the mode of punishment postpone discipline and go by yourselves and reconsider, then unitedly you will not make a mistake. Teach the little one that mama and papa must be respected. Let the little ones have all the playthings they want, but teach them that it is very wrong for them to want, but teach them that it is very wrong for them to leave them for poor tired mama to put away. I know a very successful teacher that has very few rules. I have heard the pupils say just one look from Bro.—is enough for me, his eye pierees me through. Is it not better to rule by looking them out of countenance than to whip them into rage? While wou are looking at them let your soul's inspiring love for them show in your eyes, let them see that you love them better than all else on earth. Meet them with your tears just two or three times.

No child likes to see mama cry.

Some will ask: When must we begin to train the baby?

You all have your ideas; I have mine. My idea is as You all have your ideas; I have mine. My idea is as soon as baby is old enough to form a habit it is old enough to train. For instance, the first thing baby does after he comes to this world is to cry, then the first thing that we as parents must do is to control his crying. If he swallows a "bone" as we sometimes express it, which is nothing more than a bubble of air, it hurts him, then he cries. So you must teach him to take his meals more carefully. Then as time advances they begin to notice things and want them. Teach them what they can have and what they can not, then you will find that they will soon begin to show determination to have what they want, and will cry for it. See—the first thing is to cry. Now don't slap it for crying for as a rusult of pain it cries, but rather stop its crys. How, you say? By gently taking it upon your lap and placing your left arm around its body, and hold both the little hands in your left hand, then put your right hand gently over the little mouth, being careful not to hold the nose and hold her firmly. She will resist, but it will be just a little while when she She will resist, but it will be just a little while when she will learn that your hand upon her mouth means that she must not cry. Is it not better that five or ten minutes two or three times a day would be better than fussing all day and night with a cross baby. If we have succeeded we have gained a point. Now as baby grows older apneal to his reasoning powers by talking to him and administering a little water and if need be a greater amount. But never forget that your child has the same senses that you have the you can form its habits hy moulding. that you have. If you can form its habits by moulding its sem-ses then the habits will last, then you can say, I have done what I could, and your children will rise up and call you blessed.

J. A. S.

MISCELLANEOUS

CONFERENCE NOTICES.

CONF-SRENCE NOTICES.

The northern Wiscol, sin district conference will be held February 6th and 1/th, at the Porcupine Branch. Saints coming by train should come to Durand where they will be met by teams on Thursday and Friday. Trains leave Eau Clair for Durand oly the Milwaukee railroad, at 8:15 and 11:50 in the forencom. Send reports to Bro. Leroy Colbert, district secretary, Chryctek, Wis.

L. Houghton, Dist. Pres.

Conference of the Northeast Kansas disagrict will meet with the Atchison Branch, at 10:30 a. m., February Ath 1915. The following business will come before the conference. Amendment to district rules, electing delegates to General Conference, electing district officers. Frank G. Hedrick, Dist. Pres.

Fanning, Kansas.

NOTICES.

To the saints of Independence and the two Kansas Citys: The First Kansas City branch will dedicate Central Church, January 10th, 1915. Services 11 a. m., 2:30 p. m., and 7:45 p. m. Prother Elbert A. Smith of Lamoni, I lowa, will deliver the dedicatory sermon at 11 a. m. and Bishop E. L. Kelley will offer the dedicatory prayer. We expect to have one big and spiritual day and extend a expect to have one of and spiritual day and extend a hearty welcome to all to attend. Bring your lunch and remain throughout the day and take in all the services.

J. A. Tanner, Pastor,
J. W. Rushton, Minister in Charge.

1522 West Short St., Independence, Mo., Dec. 15, 1914. To all whom it may concern:

This is to announce that the members of the Quorum of Twelve will meet at 2 p. m., Wednesday, March 18th, 1915, in Independence, Mo., for the usual sessions.

All matters requiring the attention of the Quorum must forwarded to the secretary whose address is above. We call attention to all the missionary force as well as those who may send in applications for appointment to be considered by the quorum, to the new blank; and request that all will please read the questions which have been catalogued therein and then answer as fully as possible, as appointments are made according to the information which is thus furnished.

The headquarters of the Quorum will be transferred to the meeting place in Lamoni, on or about the 1st of April. The places of meeting will be advertised when arrangements have been completed.

We solicit an interest in the prayers of the saints at this time as the condition under which we shall meet this year are grave and important, that under Divine guidance all that shall be done may express His will and assist in the fulfillment of our heavenly Father's

Respectfully,
Gomer T. Griffiths, President,
John W. Rushton, Secretary.

Independence, Mo., Dec. 17.

To whom it may concern:-

By arrangement between the ministers in charge, Roy S. Budd, late of the Northwest mission has been transferred to the Clinton District, Missouri. We commend our brother to the good will of all the saints and friends in this district.

> John W. Rushton, In charge of Mission No. 2.

MARRIED.

Benham-Wolfe, of Millet, at the home of T. G. Mac-alister, Edgewood acres, Ellerslie, Alberta, Elder Ira Irving Benham and Miss Maybell Vivian Wolfe, were united in holy bonds of matrimony, Wednesday, December 2, 1914, Elder Wm. Osler, president of district officiating.

THE YEARLY OFFER ON THE ENSIGN.

November and December are bargain months as usual, during which time the Ensign will be sent to non-mem-bers at half price. This offer, as usual is good only in hers at hair price. Into other, as usual is good only in the United States possessions, as the extra postage to foreign countries prohibits this offer extending there. It is good only during the months of November and December. It is unfair and hardly honorable for mem-ber to stop their paper and then subscribe in the name of a member of their family who does not belong to the church for the sake of getting it at half price. That is the distribution on the object of this offer. It is for the sake of spreading the gospel among outsiders.

No subscription on this offer is acceptable for less than 25 cents

Address, Ensign Publishing House, Independence, Mo.

ENSIGN PUBLICATIONS.
And Other Books for Sale by the Ensign Publishing House.
Zion'a Ensign, the missionary paper, containing gospie aermons and articles, church news and interactive the containing gospie aermons and entitles, church news and interactive the containing gospie aermons and entitles, and the containing gospie aermons and entitles, and the containing gospie aermons and entitles, and the containing gospie aermons and entitles are contained in the containing gospie aermons and extination with definitions and explanatory notes. Paper, 25c; cloth, 40c; leather for the containing gospie aermons and explanatory of the containing gospie aermons and containing gospie aermons and containing gospie aermons and containing gospie aermons and containing gospie aermons and containing gospie aermons and containing gospie aermons H15—Same as 5120, leader lined with the H15—A fine little Bible at a low price. French Morocco, divinity circuit, red under gold edges, flexible, overlapping cover. Size, 5 % x 3 % ... $1.25 H16—Same as H15, but has button class... H16—Same as H15, but has button clasp...

F65X—India Paper edition, French Moroco, divinity circuit, red under gold edges. Size, 5¾x3¾, only ¾, inch thick. $1.50 thick. $1.00
F66X—Same as F65X, with button clasp $1.60 F66X—Same as F65X, was $1.60

R65X—Large type Bible in small compass,
8½x5½, 1 inch thick, India paper,
French Morocco, divinity circuit,
red under gold,
R70X—Same as R65X, except binding,
French Levant and leather lined. NEW TESTA MENTS.

E200 Leather at cover, red edges, 20.15
E212 From Morocco, limp, red under E212 Lambelo, divinity circuit, limp, red under specific covers, red under gold, 20.30
OXFORD BIBLES.
O4207X—Persian Morocco, divinity circuit,
leather lined to edge, silk sewed,
round corners, red under gold
edges, black faced type, thin India paper. This is a beautiful little

Rannie.

Bible. Because of the thir India Paper it is only % of an inch thick. $4.75
03209X—Alaska Seal binding, otherwise the same as 04207X $4.50
4181—Freach Morpeco, divinity circuit, read of the same as 04207X circuit, read of the same as 04207X $4.50
4181—Freach Morpeco, divinity circuit, read of the same as 04207X circuit, read of the same as 0.000 seep, s in hible lands. $1.35
01008—The Bible for the home use Large, clar, rint, French Morpeco, divinity of cult, round corners, red under the same as 0.3203X—5, model Bible. India paper, black faced minion type, French Morocco, divinity circuit, linen lined, round corners, red under gold edges, 74xx 5% inches $2.76
03761X—Alaska Seal leather lined, Oxford divinity circuit, linen lined, round corners, red under gold edges, 7½x 5% inches 22.75
5% inches 22.75
5% inches 22.75
5% inches 22.75
5% inches 22.75
63/81X—Alaska Seal, leather lined, Oxford India paper, silk sewed, large long primer type, round corners, red under gold edges $5.00
04523—French Morocco, self-pronouncing, long primer type, linen lined, divinity circuit, round corners, red under gold edges $5.50
The 1911 Bible. Of this Bible the Herald and Presbyter says: "The 1911 Bible is far the best translation ever given to the English speaking people." It is beautifully printed in large black faced type, bound in fact, and corners, red under gold edges, has headband and sik marker and 12 maps $2.00
The 1911 Bible. Printed on genuine Oxford India paper, only % finch thick, silk rewed, bound in finest Alaska Seal, leather lined, round corners, red under gold edges, silk head band and marker ound corners, red under gold edges, silk head band and marker $5.00
OXFORD TESTAMENTS. OXFORD TESTAMENTS. 021—French grained, red edges $0.20
022—Same as 021, with gilt edges $0.30
030—French Morocco, round corners, limp
red under gold edges $0.35
01240—Morocco grain, round corners, red edges, long primer type; size, 6 ½x
4 ½ Dib. $6.50 4% $0.50
We give such Bibles as are carried in stock, but can supply any Bible on reasonably short notice. The Oxford line of Bibles is very extensive, from which we list a few of the best and most popular ones. TRACTS.

The following tracts are excellent and suitable for distribution among those not identified with the latter day work. They may be obtained, all of one kind or assorted as desired, at the following prices except subtraction of the control of the copies as otherwise noted:

Two copies $0.05
Six copies 20
One dozen copies 20
100 copies 125 TRACTS. No less than 50 copies at 100 rate.

"Why I Became a Latter Day Saint," by Elder Joseph Luff.

Punishment," by Elder R. C. Evans,
"The Book of Mormon; Evidences of Its Divinity," by Elder R. C. Evans,
"Creed Making," by Elder I. M. Smith,
"Good News," A tract of tracts on several different subjects by as many writers.
"The Church of Christ," by Elder Edward "Who Was Joseph Smih," by Elder J. W. Peterson.

"A Glimpse at the Government of God," by Elder Paul M. Hanson.

"Reasons Why. Shall We Hear Them?" Revised edition. By Elder J. W. Peterson.

"Twelve Reasons Why I Edieve The Book of Mormon," by Elder Charles Fry. "Joseph Smith; Was He a Prophet of God?" by Elder R. C. Evans. "Joseph Smith; Was He a Prophet of Goul?" by Elder R. C. Evans.

The following at special prices named: "What We Believe," an epitome of the faith of the Church. Per dozen 5 cents; 50 for 20 cents; 100, 35 cents.

"Items of Teaching Found in the Book of Mormon." Compiled by the Independence Religio Good Litertaure Committee. A tract of ten pages. Three for 5 cents; 126 for 15 cents; 100 for $1.00.

"Latter Day Saints; Who Are They" by Elder T. W. Williams. Three for 5 cents; 12 for 15 cents; 100 for $1.00.

"In Water Baptism Essential to Salvation?" by Elder Joseph Luff. Three for 5 cents; 12 for 15 cents; 50 for 40 cents; 100 for 76 cents. tents; 12 for 15 cents; but on the for 75 cents; bright of the for 75 cents; per 100, 60 cents.

"Seventy-one Theological Questions." Per dozen, 10 cents; per 100, 60 cents. Evandla and tener or two female voices. Price Solid Comparison of the folial cents of the fo

Book of Mormon Post Card. Quotations from the second chapter of Jacob, of the Book of Mormon, condemn-ing polygamy. This is an excel-lent way to get the position of the church books on polygamy before friends and acquaintances. Price dozen $0.00 Circulating Library rules, per doz-

Circultum Library Regula-en, School Library Regula-tions, per dozen $0.50 Blank Preaching Notices Size, 9x12 inches, 50 for 30 cents; per 100 ... $0.50 Religio Supplies. Local Secretary's Record, Price $0.50 Price $0.2 District Secretary's Record. Pric

District Secretary's Record. Price $0.25

District Secretary's Record. Price $0.25

Home Department Supplies. Leaflet of Instruction. No. 2. Per dozen, 10 cents; per 100.

Mismbership Cards, per dozen, 5 cents; per 100.

Superintendent's Report Blanks, per dozen, 5 cents per 100.

Welopes per dozen, 6 cents, per 100.

Superintendent's Report Blanks, per dozen, 5 cents; per 100.

Superintendent's Report Blanks, per 100.

Superintendent's Report Blanks, per dozen, 5 cents; per 100.

Superintendent's Report Blanks, per dozen, 10 cents; per 100.

Superintendent Blanks, per dozen, 10 cents; per 100.

Superintendent and Secretary of Local, per dozen, 5 cent; per 100.

Superintendent and Secretary of Local, per dozen, 5 cent; per 100.

Superintendent and Secretary of Local, per dozen, 5 cent; per 100.

Superintendent and Secretary of Local, per dozen, 5 cent; per 100.

Superintendent and Secretary of Local, per dozen, 5 cents; per 100.

ENSIGN PUBLISHING HOUSE, Independence, Mo.

WAR ATLAS
Cram's Atlas of the war comprising 16
pages 11x14½ and cover, giving fine maps of all the nations of Europe, those in war or of all the nations of Europe, those in war or likely to be especially emphasized. On the two inside cover pages is given the army and navy equipment of all the European nations as well as the United States and Japan. With this Atlas in connection with daily news one may be able to locate the movements of the armies and have a more comprehensive idea of how the war is being conducted.

ONLY 25 CENTS

Get them of

Ensign Publishing House, Independence, Mo

NOW FOR CHRISTMASII

In addition to the many Bibles we have on hand we have added another line of five choice ones, and none very expensive. The first three are beautifully printed in red and black—all of Christ's sayings in the New Testament and all reference to Him in the Old and New Testament are printed in New Testament and all reference to Him in the Old and New Testament are printed in red. This is a very useful feature. For instance, in turning the leaves whenever anything is observed in red it will be known that it is either the Master's sayings or something in reference to Him. They are beautfully printed and bound, and either one of the five here listed will make a fine Christmas present. The last two are fine Christmas present. The last two are fine Christmas present. The last two are fine large Teacher's Bibles, self-pronouncing and large type. Order by number and be careful to get the number right. Don't put off ordering, as you will be disappointed in not getting your book in time for Christmass.

03454--Beautifully printed with heavy faced minion type in red and black. All of Christ's sayings and passages alluding to him are printed in red. French Morocco, divinity cir-cuit, round corners, red under gold edges, leather lined $2.50.

Same as above, except it is printed on thin India paper $3.60. $2.50. 03454X divinity circuit, round corners, red under gold edges, linen lined.$2.50.

Same as 04528 except it is bound with American Morocco, is silk sewed and leather lined.......$3.00.

Song of Admonition. A song of seven with the control of the contro

UNITED ORDER OF ENOCH HOUSE,

Everybody Welcome, Saints and Strangers No. 182 North River Boulevard, near the Stone hurth. Best accommodations. Prices reasonable. Bell Phone 613

Chas. A. and Amy T. Gurwell
IN CHARGE

UNIVERSAL DIARY.

UNIVERSAL DIARY.

We now have a universal dlary, suitable for any minister from deacon up, made to conform with the universal report blanks. They are the same size and shape as the diaries we have hitherto had for sale, but will contain about double the number of pages, there being about 24 pages in the front and back for a financial record, and space for 12 months record of ministerial work performed. The price it the same as the others were sold at, only 10 cents. Advess Ensign Publishing House, Independence, Mo.

W. E. MESSENGER, M. D.

Physician and Surgeon. Calls answered day or night. Office and Residence 806 W. Maple Ave. Independence, Mo.

Special attention given to Anesthetics

Rell Phone 12

FARM AT AUCTION

Good as acre farm 12 mile of Mapleton, Bourbon Good as acre farm 12 mile of Mapleton, Bourbon Good, Jan. 12 1915. New 4 room house, Barn 4, 1915. New 4 room house, Barn 4, 1915. New 4 room house, Barn 4, 18 and poul. No rock, all tilable. Good school. Method for the contract of the con

Universal Class Card

Send for sample of the Universal Class Cards, for use in both Sunday School and Religio. The Independence Schools have them in general nse.

Price per dez 8 cents, per 100 60 cents ENSIGN PUBLISHING HOUSE,

Independence, Mo

HERALDS FOR SALE

Will self the fol owing for less than cost if taken at once Autumn Leaves Vol. 1 to 22 inclusive. Sains He also. Volume 34, 25, 30 13, 34, 44, 42, 43, ctoth sides, black leaf backs and corners and all in fine condition.

J. A. Gardner, 707 So. Fuller, Independence, Mo.

FOR SALE

First class Beauty Shop doing fine business, splendid location. No other shop in city. Will state reason for selling in letter. Address, The Beauty Shop Independence, Mo.

PAST LOSING POPULARITY.
The question is also asked: "How is the saloon to be destroyed?" It is being destroyed from the economic side. Great trunk railroad lines will not hire men without a proviso that if they frequent salooms their contract is broken. Almost no great business institution cares for a young man who frequents the saloon. The working people more and more see that the rum shop is their great enemy, that it botches their work, lessens their hours of service and reduces their pay on Saturday nights. Lord Kichener, the other day, issued an order forbidding the shipment of intoxicating drinks to officers of the English army in the war zone, stating that they were injurious to the men and the service. It is reported that the Caar in this war has forbidden his soldiers to have the volke which so disable them and the service. It is reported that the salone throughout his domain in Europe, in the interest of efficiency and patriotism. Secretary Daniels removed the wine mess from the officers of the United States navy, on the ground that is was not good for the public service.—The Christian Herald.

RAILROAD TIME TABLES.

MISSOURI PACIFIC R. R.

MAIN LINE-BAST BOUND

202 CC & Joplin Mail	12 08 am
22 Kansas City & St. Louis Local	800 a m
6 St. Louis Special (Stops for St Louis	10 40 a m passengers only)	10 00 a m
2 St. Louis Mail & Express	12 47 D m
38 Sedalia and Vevada Local	5 30 pm
4 St. Louis Express & Mail	9 30 pm

ool oolin to Kansas City 5 St. Louis to K. C. & California 17 Sedalia, and Nevada Local 7 Sasi Mail 11 26 p m 7 01a m 9 35 a m 9 02 a m 2 10 p m 4 50 p m 6 30 p m 207 Toplin to Kansas City 1 St. Louis and Calif Express 21 St. Louis Local

LEXINGTON BRANCH—EAST BOUND. 622 K.C. to Sedalia 624 K.C. to Sedalia

WEST BOUND.

623 Kansas City to Sedalia 621 Kansas City to Sedalia

T. A. IOHNSON, Agent. Independence, Mo-